School district vote Monday

Clarkston school district voters can visit the polls Monday, June 9, from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

On the ballot are candidates for the Clarkston board of education, a 5-mill tax renewal and candidates for Oakland Community College trustee seats.

There are three candidates for seats on the Clarkston school board.

Incumbent Mary Jane Chaustowich is running unopposed for a four-year term. Vying for the two years remaining in the four-year term of a board member who resigned are Bruce W. Harlton and John H. Needham. Their biographies and statements are on Page 3 of this week's Clarkston News.

The 5-mill renewal is proposed for seven years, from 1986 to 1992. Five mills are $5 for each $1,000 of assessed property valuation, so a homeowner with a home assessed at $45,000 or one-half market value of $90,000 would continue to pay $225 for that portion of school taxes.

The majority of school district property owners pay a total of 33.33 mills for Clarkston schools' operational expenses plus 1.676 mills for debt retirement.

The district's projected budget for the 1986-87 school year is $22.4 million.

"The millage renewal (of 5 mills) represents a little over $2 million in state and local funds that are already part of our existing budget," said Superintendent Milford Mason.

"The reductions would be considerable without it," he said. "We hope everyone goes to the polls and continues the support that we've enjoyed in this district."

There are nine candidates for the three Oakland Community College six-year trustee positions.

The candidates are Ruth Bornstein, Franklin A. Burn, Benjamin Colley, John A. Erich, Paul S. Funk, David W. Hackett, Margaret A. MacTavish, Norma L. Ross and Judith Wisser.

Post Office to change address

By Kathy Greenfield

The Clarkston Post Office building location is going to change, according to Postmaster William O. Kinsley II.

"Under ideal conditions, we could be in the new building in three years," he said.

A building four times the present size with more parking spaces has been approved by the United States Postal Service, and the search has begun for a 5-acre building site.

"They're looking in the immediate area as close to the village as possible. I requested that because of the identity of Clarkston," Kinsley said.

Several factors influenced the decision to move including inadequate building size with not enough acreage for expansion, lack of enough parking spaces, expected growth and the community's desire for more services.

"My persistence in this matter has been absolute-

Volunteer workers put up the Jehovah's Witnesses Kingdom Hall on Clarkston Road in Independence Township in 36 hours this past weekend. The building is finished and landscaped.

Witnesses work wonders

By Chris Gerbas

It is written that the earth was created in seven days, but it only took 36 hours to put up the Jehovah's Witnesses Kingdom Hall last weekend.

The hall, located on Clarkston Road, is one of 40 in the state built by the Michigan Quick-Built Committee.

About 1,200 volunteers, including several hundred parishoners, turned out during the 36 hours, beginning at 6 a.m. last Saturday.

Bulldozers had been moving dirt for three weeks and the foundation had been laid. But the workers did everything else, such as putting up the walls, laying down the floors and landscaping, in a day-and-a-half.

All of the people who put up the building were non-paid volunteers. The hall will serve two congregations of about 120 members each and the seating capacity is just over 200.

"For all intents and purposes, it will be the finished product," said committee co-ordinator Gary Warren before the work began.

Power surge causes two fires

Downed power lines created an electrical surge and fires in two homes on Northview Road on May 28, according to fire department Marshall Gar Wilson.

The incident occurred when a crossarm securing the primary wires at the top of a pole broke, said Wilson. The wires fell on top of other wires leading from the pole to the homes, causing a power surge and subsequent fires.

Damage was done to the electrical paneling of both homes, located on the 6600 block of Northview in Independence Township.

One home had damage estimated at $8,000 to the house plus $4,000 to its contents. The fire burned floorboards and a bathroom wall.

The other house had damage estimated at $1,500 to the house and $5,000 to contents.

Patsy Meeker had been mowing her lawn moments earlier in the spot the wires fell, Wilson said. No one in either house was injured.

2 reporters join staff at the News

Two reporters have joined the staff of The Clarkston News.

Julie LePere began working at the News part time in January, and in April she joined the staff full time. She has also been a reporter for the Lake Orion Review.

LePere, 23, graduated from Oakland University, Rochester, in December 1985 with a bachelor's degree in English. A Clarkston High School graduate, she has been a life-long resident of Independence Township.

Chris Gerbasi joined the editorial staff at the News in May. He previously covered sports for three years at the Michigan Daily in Ann Arbor and was a sports stringer at the Oakland Press.

Gerbasi, 23, graduated from the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, in August 1985 with a bachelor's degree in communication. A Livonia resident, he graduated from Livonia Franklin High School in 1981.

At the News, Gerbasi and LePere will both write news stories, features and sports.

Former News staff writer Dan Vandenhemel left in April for the Huron Daily Tribune in Bad Axe, where he is sports editor.

Voters to use multipurpose rooms

Voters who cast their ballots in four elementary schools in the Clarkston school district will no longer have to step into booths in the hallways.

This year, for the first time, the voting will take place in the new multipurpose rooms at Andersonville, Bailey Lake, North Sashabaw and Pine Knob elementaries.

The change was made primarily for the voters' convenience, said district financial manager William Jackson, who is in charge of school elections.

"It accomodates the handicapped. It's the (availability of more) space," he said. "If there are lines, they won't feel intimidated by activities going on in the buildings."

Voting locations within the district's other eight polling places remain the same.

Meet the school board candidates

The office-seekers' biographies and answers to 3 questions

Unopposed

Mary Jane Chaustowich

Incumbent Mary Jane Chaustowich is running unopposed for a four-year term on the Clarkston board of education.

She has served on the board eight years and has been elected secretary by fellow board members all eight years.

A resident of 1106 Clark Rd., Springfield Township, Chaustowich, 49, is a housewife. She holds a bachelor's degree in liberal arts from Wayne State University, Detroit, and has completed 48 hours of post-graduate work in education.

She and her husband Frank have lived in the community 17 years. They have two children. Frank Jr., 16, attends Clarkston High School. Mark, 15, attends Clarkston Junior High School.

Her statements:

Aside from maintaining present school buildings, what improvements are essential?

"Our school district is facing some major decisions concerning existing facilities.

"For instance, we have reached the 'point of no return' on Clarkston Junior High. It is no longer economically sound to spend large amounts of money renovating that building.

"The high school is overcrowded and has many inadequacies including the media center and science labs.

"The elementaries are on the brink of overcrowding once again.

"All of our buildings and most of our outdoor facilities are in need of major repairs. We are at the point where our facilities or lack thereof are beginning to affect the quality of education.

"These are problems which will have to be addressed not only by the school board but by the entire community as well."

What would you change about Clarkston schools if you could?

"Aside from the desire for better physical facilities and a change in the existing school funding laws, I do not think there is any one single change I would make.

"More to the point, there is a constant challenge in public education to change in order to meet the needs of the students.

"The gifted (CAT), developmental kindergarten and the community education programs are prime examples of meeting these needs.

"Ongoing curriculum evaluations are also a major aspect of providing meaningful education.

"Good education does not exist in a vacuum, and school districts that become complacent and static fall behind. I would encourage continuous upgrading

2 vie for two-year term

Bruce Harlton

Dr. Bruce Harlton is one of two candidates for the two years remaining in the four-year term of a board member who resigned.

Harlton, 36, resides at 61 S. Holcomb, Clarkston. He has practiced veterinary medicine in Independence Township since 1977. He graduated from Michigan State University, East Lansing, as a doctor of veterinary medicine in 1972.

He is a frequent speaker in community schools, a lecturer at Wayne Community College and he participates in radio and television shows including the Clarkston High School cable-TV production "Independence Update."

Harlton is a member of the Clarkston United Methodist Church and a member of the church administrative board and finance committee, chairman of the Independence Cable Casting Board and a member of the M-15 committee for the Village of Clarkston.

He is president of the North Oaks Animal Clinic, past president of the Oakland County Veterinary Medical Association, on the administrative board of the Southeastern Michigan Veterinary Medical Association, on the membership committee of the Michigan Veterinary Medical Association and is a member of the American Veterinary Association, American Animal Hospital Association and the Veterinary Orthopedic Society.

He and his wife Kathryn have lived in the community 10 years. Their three children will attend Clarkston Elementary School this fall.

His statements:

Aside from maintaining present school buildings, what improvements are essential?

"There are some glaring deficiencies in our schools' physical plant.

"Although our elementary schools have benefited tremendously from the addition of multipurpose rooms, we still need more and larger classrooms.

"The Clarkston Junior High School is quite old and I question whether it meets the needs of today's students let alone serve this community's future.

"Clarkston Senior High School is quite cramped for space and also needs more classrooms.

"Additionally, our high school needs a performing arts auditorium with adequate seating capacity, a swimming pool and expanded athletic facilities."

What would you change about Clarkston schools if you could?

"In addition to the physical improvements that I've discussed, I would add qualified and highly motivated teachers at all levels of our educational system.

John Needham

John Needham is one of two candidates for the two years remaining in the four-year term of a board member who resigned.

He was appointed by the Clarkston board of education in January to fill the position until voters could make their choice in the school election.

Needham, 44, resides at 6116 Middle Lake Rd., Clarkston. He is the director of human resources for the automotive operations of Rockwell International, Troy.

He holds a bachelor's degree in industrial and labor relations from Cornell University, Ithaca, N.Y., and has taken additional graduate hours at West Virginia University in Charleston and Massachusetts Institute of Technology in Boston.

He and his wife Roz have lived in the area 12 years. They have four children.

Julie, 19, a Clarkston High School graduate, just completed her sophomore year at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor. Claire, 18, is graduating this year from CHS. Andy, 17, is a junior at CHS and Nancy, 13, is an eighth-grader at Clarkston Junior High School.

Needham is a member of the Delta Dental Plan of Michigan Board of Directors and has served on the North Oakland Girl Scout personnel advisory board. He and his family are members of St. Daniel Catholic Church.

His statements:

Aside from maintaining present school buildings, what improvements are essential?

"Although an audit is currently in progress, no determination at this point has been made on exactly what improvements are essential.

"It is critical that the board and the community sort through the real and perceived needs.

"We should then develop long-range plans that take into consideration; (a) student census and future population projections, (b) condition of school buildings, (c) state funding formulas, (e) district's ability to pay and (f) desires of the community.

"It's all too easy to approach these problems on a 'hit or miss' basis. We must achieve a plan that is prudent and responsible."

What would you change about Clarkston schools if you could?

"I would change the state funding formula. This formula has seriously impacted our school district in recent years.

"Since 1980, the percent of our district's budget financed by the state has decreased from 40 percent to the present 20 percent. The state needs to establish a fairer means of funding education.

New Post Office to be delivered

ly impacted by the many comments I've had from the public regarding parking and service," Kinsley said.

Presently, the post office employs 62 people for 24 routes, and about 125,000 pieces of mail are delivered daily.

The routes include 15,000 addresses with 10,000 Clarkston addresses in Independence Township, the Village of Clarkston, and in Springfield, White Lake and Brandon townships; and 5,000 Waterford addresses.

By the end of the summer, Kinsley expects the routes to grow to 27 due to new subdivisions and businesses.

"We're projecting that our deliveries are going to increase by 9 percent starting in the fall, so that's 1,500 more deliveries, and it's going to keep going like that," he said.

Preliminary plans for the new post office include 44 customer parking spaces, as compared to the present 10.

The building itself is to be 20,000 square feet, up from the present 5,000 square feet.

"I'd like to have a 24-hour lobby with a self-service postal unit with stamps and other postal services available, more post office boxes and enough room to meet an expanding community," said Kinsley.

The present building, which is owned by the U.S. Postal Service, was built in 1975. It will be sold when a new post office is built, Kinsley said.

He stressed that taxpayers' money will not be used for the project ("the postal department exists solely on stamp revenue") and praised the community for "being so patient . . . and so tolerant, especially with the parking."

The new building "is going to be a plus for the community," he said. "It's going to be adequate to handle the community's needs."

Workers help raise the roof of the Kingdom Hall. All the walls, floorboards, interior work and landscaping were done by volunteers in a 36-hour period.

Hall goes up with Godspeed

Across the country, 325 halls have been built on weekends in the last seven years.

"They're not only doing it (in Clarkston) because they had some extra money and said, 'Let's build a hall,'" said Warren. "We only do it where it's needed. The organization is growing so rapidly."

Despite the speed with which the hall was built, the walls will not come tumbling down.

"We've had comments (from officials) that our work meets or exceeds the standards," Warren said. "They're very much impressed, considering the short notice to meet codes."

Apparently, not everyone was pleased with the work. A noise complaint was filed with the police at 12:30 a.m. Saturday when the group was working late, and again at 5:30 a.m. when the actual construction began.

MDOT vetoes plan for one-way Sashabaw

By Carolyn Walker

At least one Sashabaw Road lane is now expected to be open to northbound traffic following Pine Knob Music Theatre concerts this summer.

"We're shooting now for two lanes south and one lane north. There will definitely be a northbound lane," said Supervisor Frank Ronk following a meeting with Pine Knob's General Manager Steve Finkel and Oakland County Sheriff's Department representatives last week.

The May 28 meeting also included members of the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT), Oakland County Road Commission and Michigan State Police.

Ronk was quick to add, however, that the new proposal is tentative and subject to change.

Previous plans to direct traffic south to I-75 from the three Sashabaw lanes were vetoed by the MDOT, which told the township it could not eliminate a northbound lane, Ronk said.

Last week's meeting was one of at least three held to address traffic and patron-related issues raised by neighbors of the theater.

Earlier this month, officials decided to close the Pine Knob Road entrance to the theater and reroute exiting traffic from the main entrance on Sashabaw Road to I-75.

That proposal met with disagreement from residents along Sashabaw and Flemings Lake roads, who spoke out at a board meeting and accused the township of showing favoritism to Clarkston Road residents.

"What we're trying to do is get them (concert-goers) out of there as orderly as we can," Ronk said, adding that he hopes the problem is resolved by the June 7 opening of Pine Knob.

During a phone interview following the meeting, Finkel expressed frustration at the situation.

"Absolutely nothing got resolved," he said of the meeting. "Everybody's passing the hat. You can't fight city hall. To me it's getting a little ridiculous.

"This has been going on long enough and somebody's got to make a decision sooner or later," he said, adding that Pine Knob would be willing to comply with whatever decision is reached. "We're just stuck in the middle.

"We're officially feeling frustration."

According to Finkel, Pine Knob has spent some $10,000 on directional signs and road cones and will spend an estimated $4,000 to $5,000 a day in police protection.

"We have agreed to beef up our patrol units in the neighborhoods (during rock concerts)," he said.

Finkel went on to say that Pine Knob would no longer chloride dirt roads near the theater as they have in the past. Nor would they open the Pine Knob Road entrance to residents only.

"That gate is there permanently," he said. "It will not be opened for residents or anybody (except emergency vehicles).

"Sometimes I think solutions to problems can create bigger problems," he said. "This whole thing is beginning to smell very funny to me."

At least one more meeting will be held before a final solution to the traffic problems is reached, according to Ronk, who emphasized that if the solutions do not work they can be changed.

Weekend adventure

Kathy Greenfield

I had my film and camera bag, driver's license and loose change, notebook, ink pen and pencil (just in case).

I left the News office, carefully locking the two doors behind me.

Three steps down the sidewalk, I remembered. Not only was I without office keys for my return visit—but the car keys needed to get me to an assignment were behind the locked doors.

I walked next door to Rudy's Market, blurted out my problem and was offered use of a sledge hammer. I made a phone call instead. No one was home.

Next, putting my loose change to work, I approached the pay phone.

After many minutes of busy signals mixed, from time to time, with a pleasant-but-frustrating voice telling me in so many words that the telephone didn't count the change correctly and I'd have to try again, I got through to an unadulterated pleasant voice.

During the rescue, in my haste to hurry so I wouldn't be late, I spilled pop all over my desk.

We scrambled for paper towels and successfully cleaned up the mess. Then we found all the missing keys and put them in logical places.

My rescuer suggested that perhaps I would be better off if I went home and crawled back into bed.

I was tempted, sorely tempted.

Just weeks before a fellow editor and I were laughing about an item in Ann Landers' column that we both liked.

It said that people who do goofy things and are aware of them don't have to worry. Those who have serious diseases, such as Alzheimer's, don't realize they've gone awry, according to Landers.

My other favorite Ann Landers' response had to do with people who talk to themselves. It goes back years, but I still soothe my battered ego with her message.

People who talk to themselves are usually perfectly sane, she wrote; indeed, they are generally very organized individuals who are getting whatever together.

Sometimes I hope people aren't reading my lips.

Jim's Jottings

Jim Sherman

This is being printed on new (to us) presses. All new equipment is exciting, but presses really stimulate me. I don't know if I'm impressed with the magic of how they work, or their speed, or their cost.

The latter is interesting. We have bought four newspapers in our lifetime. These used, 1978 presses cost more than the combined costs of the four newspaper businesses.

Speed, too, has an interest. When we bought our first roll-fed press in 1966 it cut our printing time from 12-hours to 20 minutes.

However, while that has been great for most of the past 20 years, it isn't fast enough for what we need today, and certainly not fast enough for tomorrow. The 10,000-impressions-per-hour of 1966 had to go.

In its place is a folder and two presses, giving us an exact gain of one press. That brings our capacity to 40 pages in one section. However, since we print color in practically every section of our half dozen papers, readers will rarely see our largest size.

Now we have doubled our speed, 20,000 an hour. We hope that will do during this lifetime, but we aren't really sure. Our neighbors and big city brothers have presses with double our new capacity, and much more. We're not anxious to get to their needs. We grow only as the communities we serve grow, and right now we hope we are ahead of them.

We have not found an easy way to describe how they work. When we give tours to youngsters, we just say the paper goes through here and prints from here. Offset printing is sort of non-printing.

The words and pictures aren't printed from what you see, they come from inside the press off a rubber blanket. That's as technical as I want to get.

Our 5-unit press will still be run by the same printer who ran the presses 20, 25 and 30 years ago, Whitey Hauxwell. It'll be fun watching. You see, the big boys have one pressman for two printing units. But, since we bought one unit at a time, Whitey just learned to walk faster with each addition.

We'll see if he can cover 30 feet, adjusting various levers, screws and gadgets enroute as well as he has the other 6-ft increments.

The presses came from Arkansas, where Walmart printed their circulars and inserts. They decided to get out of the printing business. Hmmm, I wonder if there is a message there.

The installers came from Kansas City, and it took four long-hour days to put the presses together. It also took another 74 man-hours to electrify this beauty. It isn't exactly Tinker Toy time.

Anyway stop in and help me watch it run. Most of the time I expect to be smiling.

Letters to the editor

'Attack' response

This letter is in response to an attack on the township planning commission made by Pastor Paul Vanaman of the Dixie Baptist Church.

It is my understanding that this church currently has a request pending before the township which may account for his letter to you.

Our township permits churches in residential areas only at the discretion of the planning commission.

There are no restrictions on that discretion that would prevent the planning commission from considering the effect of the removal of 53 more acres from the tax rolls.

It is an important aspect of planning that we bring a balance of uses to the community and consider the services necessary for those uses. I am certain that he does not mean to suggest by his letter that rezoning does not or should not apply to churches.

In this instance, no church or religion has been singled out for control or special restrictions.

It is the case that of late our community has received an inordinate number of requests for new or expanded church facilities. Although church and religion are an important part of every community, an appropriate balance should be maintained.

Pastor Vanaman ignores more significant bases for the commission's decision which he criticizes.

First, the size and height of the proposed structure and its effect on the neighboring property.

As presented to the commission, this church would be 52,000 square feet in size and 48 feet in height. There is nowhere in this community such a dominating structure. It is certainly not appropriate for a residential district.

Another important consideration is the effect of such a facility on the services that the community provides.

Consider, as the planning commission did, the traffic problems that will be caused by the use of such a large facility. And, as presented to us, that will not be just one day a week, in light of the significant problems that this township has experienced with Pine Knob traffic.

It is an overstatement just to say that my actions or attitudes or those of the planning commission are anti-Christian or anti-church, just as it is an overstatement to say that this is government control of freedom of religion.

No one, not even church congregations, are free to do as they please in this respect.

Finally, it is my judgment that with the facts accurately presented and unemotionally discussed, the majority of our community would make the same decision as the planning commission did.

Neil E. Wallace, Chairman
Independence Township Planning Commission

Cheers for team

Congratulations to the 1986 Clarkston High School baseball team for winning the Gary Tournament for "the first time."

Additional congrats to Mike Walters for receiving "most valuable player" and Coach Roy (Pop) Warner for receiving "outstanding coach."

Our school district can be proud of not only "winning" but also of the manner in which the team and coach conveyed their capabilities, sportsmanship, stamina and spirit.

Sharon G. Warner

Neighbor support

Living across the street from John Needham for eight years has afforded me the opportunity to see him interact with intelligence, humor and patience.

In addition to his broad business and personal qualifications, he really cares; and he wants to do the best job.

John Needham is dedicated to working for the children of the Clarkston school district.

Kathy Jones

Election slection

On June 9, we have an opportunity to vote on a very important issue which affects all of our children, and that is the election of our school board members.

We have been very fortunate in this community to have an excellent school board, administration and teachers.

This is not luck or just accidental, it is because you have gone out and voted for a school board that cares very much about high quality education with excellent administration and teaching.

John Needham, as you know, was recently appointed to the school board to fill a vacancy.

He has 20 years of experience in personnel and labor relations, four children in our school district, and he and his wife, Roz, have an enviable record of community service in all areas.

I would, therefore, highly recommend that you elect him to our school board.

James A. O'Neill, M.D.

Bouquets Exchange thanks

The Village of Clarkston would like to thank all village and township businesses for their help to make the mayor exchange day with Ovid, Mich., on May 21 such a success.

And a special thank you for the nice coverage The Clarkston News gave us.

Norma Goyette, Village Council Clerk

Then came the bad news

Jim Fitzgerald

Remember the pregnant grandfather? Remember Richard Wioncek Jr.? The only connection between the two is that I was reminded of them both on the same morning last week, through two phone calls just minutes apart.

And I was reminded of how joyful life can be, and how tragic.

The first call came from Ed, the pregnant grandfather, who lives in a Detroit suburb. He's 72 and doesn't want his full name and address published for fear men in white coats will come and take him away. At least, that's what Ed told me in 1982, when I first wrote about his pregnancy.

At that time, Ed was about to become a hospital patient. His granddaughter Robyn, then four, phoned from Connecticut to ask why. He said he was going to have a baby. When Robyn expressed doubts, Ed promised to send her a photo of the infant.

Ed did better than that. He sent Robyn before, during and after photos. In the pre-birth pictures, Ed was pregnant with a pillow under a robe. During the "delivery" (which actually produced 31 gallstones), photos were made of Ed's incision, just east of his navel. To add drama, shears, tongs, needle and thread were placed on Ed's stomach.

The photos were all taken in the Bloomfield

Kiddie-Land store — to the astonishment of several customers — because Ed wanted a nursery background. For the after-birth photos (that didn't sound right in 1982, either), Ed posed in a rocking chair holding a newborn baby doll wrapped in swaddling clothes.

Ed was suitably rewarded for his successful pregnancy. When Robyn saw the photos, she said, "Wow, Grandpa, you are really funny."

So, four years later, what's new with the pregnant grandfather? Ed phoned to say he will soon be going to the hospital for another operation — this time cardiovascular surgery. There'll be no tiny aunt or uncle for Robyn this time, but Ed said I'd be interested in hearing how he chose his surgeon. Actually, I think he just wanted me to know he's still in danger of being carted away to the loony bin.

Ed learned about a doctor who had a fine reputation as a cardiovascular surgeon. He also learned something unusual about the doctor's family. So Ed bounced 18 soccer balls into the doctor's office.

One of the balls was for the doctor, and the others were for his 17 children. Ed asked that the doctor's name be withheld, probably so he won't be accused of using his kids to advertise. But if you know an area surgeon with 17 children by one wife, chances must be excellent that he's the guy.

The doctor accidentally kicked one of the balls; it ricocheted around the room and hit him in the gut," Ed said. "But I received 17 warm thank-you notes. It's a marvelous family and I feel real good about such a fine man operating on me."

I wished Ed the best of luck and thanked him for being goofy.

The second phone call concerned another grandfather, Robert Wioncek, who works at GM's Fleetwood/Clark Assembly Plant. I wrote about him and his grandson, Richard Wioncek Jr., last November.

At that time, Richard Jr., of Taylor, was 11 months old and needed a liver transplant or he would die. His grandfather adopted Richard so the baby's huge medical expenses could be partly covered by Wioncek's insurance.

Much more money was needed, and I urged readers to contribute, suggesting it would be a good way for parents and grandparents of healthy children to say thanks. Many of you responded generously.

The transplant was made successfully, and I felt good about being able to help a little. But, early this month, Richard caught a cold that turned into complications he couldn't fight off. He died May 18. The transplanted liver prolonged his life less than six months.

Two phone calls. God, I wish there'd been only one.

Co-workers bid Connie Keeley a fond adieu

By Julie LePere

Connie Keeley is retiring, and in her 21 years with the Clarkston Post Office she has seen many changes.

"I've worked under four postmasters," said the Independence Township resident. "Elizabeth Ronk was my first one, then Ray Klein, Don Stoll and William Kinsley.

"When I started working, there were about two rural routes, one foot route and three city routes," she said. "And now we have 15 routes total. So we've grown, and we're still growing.

"We have a terrific (post office) box section now. We have about 650 boxes here."

She and her husband, Arthur, have lived on Waldon Road for 30 years and know many people in the area.

"When I first started, I knew everyone. But now, we can't keep up with all of the new faces," she said.

During her entire career, she has worked in the front with all of the customers.

"I'm a window technician. I'm supposed to supervise the window clerks," she said. "My job has changed a great deal. . . . We've grown, so it's changed a lot."

She's going to miss her co-workers as well as the people in the community, she said. But she'll find ways to enjoy herself.

"I've loved the people. For the most part, people are really sweet. I'm going to miss it. I suppose I'm going to have a few tears, but it'll be fun," she said.

"I'm going to take my house one room at a time and completely redo it.

"We'll probably do a little touring. . . . My husband has arthritis, so we'll take it a day at a time. Perhaps we'll go to a warmer climate, but we have no definite plans."

Her co-workers tossed a party in her honor and gave her a plaque, a necklace and a card signed by almost all of her 61 fellow post office employees.

"When I first started, I knew everyone."

The letter-shaped cake was baked and decorated by her friend Mary Lou Green, who worked with her at the Pontiac Post Office her first year.

"She was my maid of honor at my wedding," said Connie about Mary Lou. "And I fixed her up with her husband Pete, who is the postmaster in Pontiac. We have been friends for a long time."

Many of her fellow employees at the party said they will miss her.

Kay Bliss, assistant to the postmaster, said, "She and I have worked in the post office together a long time. We're going to miss her terribly. . . . She's been one in a million, as our public will surely know."

Connie Keeley receives a plaque from Clarkston postmaster William O. Kinsley II. The postal employees also presented her with a cake and a necklace in honor of her retirement.

Girls run third at states

By Chris Gerbas

Clarkston culminated an impressive girls' track season with its best performance ever at the state finals last Saturday in Flint.

The Wolves compiled 34 points behind the consistent efforts of all-staters Jennifer Farough, Jane Selent and Shivonne DeBoer. The team's best previous showing at the finals was 10 points, accomplished last year.

Clarkston finished third overall, trailing Ann Arbor Pioneer (85 points) and Detroit Cass Tech (63).

"The kids just came to run and they did a super job," said coach Gordie Richardson.

The team excelled despite the loss of Lisa Ladd. Ladd figured to score in the long jump and possibly in the 100- and 200-meter dashes, but strained her back in a dash heat.

"She had a good chance to finish in the top three (in the long jump)," said Richardson. "I was real disappointed for her, but she's only a junior, so she's got a chance to come back."

Farough finished second in the 100-meter hurdles with a 14.52 time, just .06 behind the winner. She also ran to fourth in the 300-meter hurdles (44.76).

Selent tied for third in the 100-meter dash (12.17) and was fourth in the 200 dash at 25.66. DeBoer was third in the shot put at 38-9½ and fourth in the discus with a throw of 126-2.

Wendy Cohoon ran a personal best of 2:23 in the 800-meter run, which also set a school record. She did not place in the event, however, nor did Tara Carn-cross in the high jump.

Sports

Still, the Wolves had one of their most successful overall seasons ever. They were fresh from winning the Greater Oakland Activities League title for the second straight season on May 28.

They won the league meet easily, with 128 points to Pontiac Northern's 60. Clarkston had eight first-place finishes, including two by seniors DeBoer and Farough.

"We're going to miss the seniors," said Richardson. "They reached the point where they could go into a big meet and not let the surroundings affect them and they could go out and perform."

"I'm just ecstatic to finish third (in the state)," he said. "It says a lot about the kids from Clarkston."

Poulos 5th best

By Chris Gerbas

Clarkston's Chris Poulos high jumped 6 feet 3 inches to finish in a tie for fifth place at the state finals last Saturday.

Poulos' three points were all the Wolves could manage as discus thrower Keith Krupp and pole vaulter Matt Scharl had off-days. Poulos and Krupp, both seniors, and Scharl, a junior, were all making their first appearance at the finals.

Krupp hurled the discus 149-6, but came up eight inches short of qualifying for the next round.

Scharl did not clear the opening height in the pole vault, in which a state record of 15-9 was set by Bim Scala of Traverse City.

"It was disappointing," said coach Walt Wyniemo. "But at the same time, it was a learning experience. Sometimes you have to go backwards to go forwards. But they got there (to the finals) and we're proud of them."

Poulos was coming off a victory at the Greater Oakland Activities League meet May 28 at Wisner Stadium in Pontiac. He helped the Wolves to 69 points and a second-place showing behind Pontiac Northern.

Northern had 104 points, Lake Orion was third with 35 points and Waterford Kettering and Waterford Mott had 32 points each.

Clarkston scored in every event and Krupp and Scharl also won their events.

"All the kids worked hard and our times got better and better as the year went on," said Wyniemo. "It was a great year for us. Anytime you go 5-1 (in dual meets), it's not bad."

The Wolves also had numerous seconds at the league meet. Kevin Krupp was second to his brother in the discus and Poulos placed second in the 100-meter high hurdles.

Jim Hall raced to second in the 400M dash and all four of Clarkston's relay teams ran to the runnerup position.

Terri Sherman practices with the varsity softball team before the district game against Rochester on Saturday. The Wolves lost, but finished co-champs of the GOAL with a 23-8 record.

Wolves shut out as season ends

By Julie LePere

Despite excellent playing in every way, Clarkston lost in the district playoffs Saturday against Rochester.

Terri Sherman pitched a five-hitter, but the Wolves lost, 1-0.

It took the Falcons eight innings. In the bottom of the eighth, they got the fateful hit with the bases loaded.

Clarkston had three opportunities to score. They had runners at second and third, twice with less than two outs, but the defensive playing was excellent, said coach Carla Teare.

"It was an outstanding game by both teams," said Teare. "We played great defense. Stacey Shurtz hit a double. Maggie Gdula played great at short stop. . . . Everybody played well."

The Wolves finished the year with an honorable 23-8 final record including co-championship in the Greater Oakland Activities League.

Sashabaw swamps Clarkston; both teams finish over .500

By Julie LePere

It was a split for the rival junior high softball teams this season.

Clarkston won in the beginning of the year, but Sashabaw finished as the victor last week.

Scoring six in the first inning, the Cougars mercied the Wolverines, 17-7.

"Both teams played pretty well," said Cougar coach Nancy Foster. "We had a lot of runners on base all of the time."

Many of the girls knew each other from summer softball leagues, she said. "It's a real friendly rivalry."

Several players performed well for Sashabaw. Hitting two apiece were Tami Haines, Cindy Beal, Stacey Vandeberg and Kelly Avenall. Tammy Jeans played well defensively at shortstop.

"Most everybody hit the ball well," said Foster. "We hit the ball against them more than we did last time."

John Craven, Clarkston coach, agreed.

"They played well, and we didn't," he said. "Of course, that was our first game in 13 days, with all of the rain cancellations. I think the long layoff hurt us."

"But Sashabaw played well. They deserved to win."

The victory, coupled with the win over Crary last week, gave the Cougars a final record of eight wins, seven losses.

The Cougars held Crary in the last inning with the bases loaded and one out. Kristen Billig and Cindy Beal were the outstanding hitters of the game.

Clarkston, too, finished the season on a victorious note. They beat Romeo Powell, 12-6, giving Dana Austin her first win as pitcher.

Coy Carlson hit a bases-loaded triple, and several teammates helped with hits of their own: Peggy Agar, Jenny Grohs, Deanna Green, Dana Austin, Amy Keith and Laurie Peel.

Clarkston's season record was seven wins, six losses.

Ulasich makes all-GLIAC team

By Julie LePere

Endurance and a good clear head are the keys to playing well for softball star Annette Ulasich.

The former Clarkston High School All-State player is continuing her success at Grand Valley State College.

The 1983 CHS graduate was selected to the 1986 Great Lakes Inetercollegiate Athletic Conference (All-GLIAC) First Team. She made the 1985 Second Team selection as well.

But she wasn't limited to success on the ball field. "I should be pulling a 4.0 (grade point average) this semester," said the Independence Township resident. "I was shocked because traveling in softball, you have to study on the buses."

Enduring early morning practices, injuries and long bus rides, Annette dedicated herself to the sport she loves.

"Basically, softball is a year round event except in the winter," she said. "In the winter, I worked out. We practiced at 5:30 in the morning for spring training," she said. "I'd crawl out of bed."

She would then practice for two hours and go straight to class.

"When I get out, I'm going to look back and say that was fun. But right now . . ." she shook her head.

Annette also suffered an injury to her shoulder that prevented her from pitching, one of her strong points. It still gives her trouble, but she endures the pain that occasionally comes up.

"Basically, it just hurts when I throw. It hitched my swing a little bit, but it wasn't that bad."

An important part of softball is the mental alertness, she said.

"You have to be dedicated," she said. "You have to get out there and want to be there. You can't just go through the motions. For a two- or three-hour game, you have to have your head in the game. . . . And you have to keep intense."

Playing third base, the college senior led the conference in runs batted in, 11, and runs scored, 10. She also tied for second in triples, two, and home runs, one. While leading her team with her .380 batting average, Annette even pitched a game, despite her injury.

"I pitched in one game and I won it. Our pitcher was sick, so I had to do it, but I hadn't pitched all year," she said.

One of the best things about this season for Annette was beating Wayne State University.

"They're our rivals. They won the conference last year, and we won it this year," she said. "That was fun. They're a really good team."

Wayne State received a bid for the National play-offs, instead of GVSC, the conference champs.

Grand Valley State College junior Annette Ulasich was selected to the 1986 All-Great Lakes Conference Softball team. She set a new school record with 41 hits in the season.

That was one disappointment for Annette, but she has hopes for a trip to the Nationals next year.

"That's my dream, to go to the Nationals," she said. "I think we're close. We only lost two players."

This summer, Annette will be playing softball and considering what she will do after graduation next year.

"I took a United States Marshal examination in March. I should get the results back soon. It's like being a detective, working for the government," she said. "I've been taking classes in juvenile justice, but I don't know. . . . I'm thinking about getting a master's degree in public administration."

"I would love to coach. Here in Clarkston would be great, but I don't know about criminal justice here. But I'd like to coach somewhere."

Safe boat week

It's that time of the year already. Time for National Safe Boating Week, June 1-7.

Boating is on the rise, according to Auxiliary Coast Guard spokesperson Carl Christie, and he says it's important that boating safety be on the rise as well.

The theme of the week is "Be smart, take a boating course." On deck is a 13-week course to be held in Birmingham beginning June 23. The cost for the course will be $15 to $20.

As part of the safety week, the Pontiac flotilla will be on hand at Summit Place Mall, passing out pamphlets on safety tips and federal requirements for recreational boats.

The Coast Guard will also be giving courtesy inspections of recreational boats. The Pontiac flotilla will be at Metro Beach on June 7.

To find out where to get a boat inspected or for more information, call Christie at 673-7606.

Wolves find consolation in Gary Tourney

By Chris Gerbasl

It wasn't the grand prize, but it was certainly no booby prize, either.

After being eliminated from the state playoffs, Clarkston's baseball team stormed back to win the 25th Annual George Gary Tournament on May 29.

The Wolves won in dramatic fashion, 12-11 over Lakeland in eight innings in the championship game.

"What a game that was," said Clarkston coach Roy Warner, whose team finished 20-6. "That was a beauty."

The game seesawed for over four hours before Mike Walters singled home Jeff Billig in the bottom of the eighth for the winning run.

Walters pitched the last 1 1/2 innings for the win, went eight-for-11 at the plate in the final two games and was named the tourney's Most Valuable Player. Warner was voted the outstanding coach.

The Wolves had a 4-1 lead after two innings, but the Eagles came back to tie with three runs in the third. Clarkston scored five more in the next three innings, three of which came on a homerun by Jim Ruelle.

The Eagles clawed back again with a four-run sixth inning before the Wolves added one to go up, 10-8.

In the final inning of regulation, Lakeland grabbed its first lead, 11-10. In the bottom of the seventh, Clarkston sent the game into extra innings when a run was scored on an error with one out.

Then came Walters' game-winning hit, which gave his team its first championship in the tournament that features 16 of the best teams in the county.

"That was the most exciting game I've ever coached," Warner said. "Every player played and every player contributed."

"It was a great way to end the year," he said. "The state tournament and this tournament are the highest-caliber tournaments we can be in."

Clarkston had knocked out Madison Heights and Pontiac Catholic on Memorial Day to move into the semifinals.

The Wolves then destroyed Troy Athens, 12-1, in the semis in a six-inning game. Ed Whitaker got the win, striking out five; and Walters and Jeff Tungate each batted in three runs.

Clarkston clubs Cougars twice

By Julie LePere

The Wolverines once again beat the Cougars in their end of the season baseball games last week.

After a rained-out game Tuesday, the teams met Wednesday, when Clarkston won both games of the double-header, 7-1 and 9-0. The Wolverines also won the season's first game between the rival ninth-grade teams.

"It was just good pitching and good hitting," said Clarkston coach Dave McDonald.

Erik Mackson pitched the first game for the Wolverines, striking out eight. Tim Banfield pitched the second game and gave up four hits.

Several players contributed at the plate including Brian Riganon with a two-run homer. Matt Eby hit four for the day, and Darin Brandt hit three.

Neville LaMotte, Dale Hesse, Scott Weeks and Matt Carson each hit two, and Carson tied the school record for most hits in a season, 25.

"They were just hitting the ball, and we weren't," said Sashabaw coach Tom Smith. "It just wasn't our day."

Sashabaw saved face the next day, when they mercied Crary, 12-2, and finished the season with a victory.

"We had our hitting shoes on in that game," said

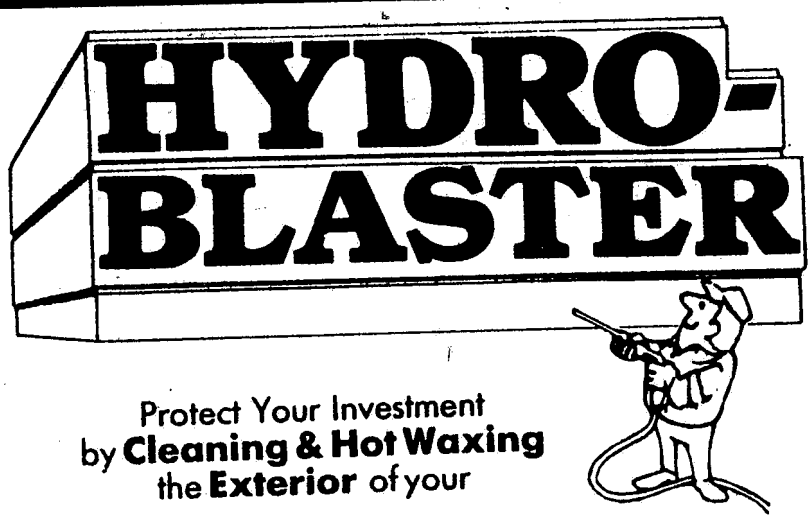

Smith.

Bill Larkin scattered five hits for the win.

B.J. Wood hit two doubles, and he and Doug Lederman each batted in two runs. Brian Moore and Bill Jawlick helped the cause with a double and a triple, respectively.

Mike Reich hit one, scored twice and batted in one run. John Koslosky hit two-for-two and scored, and Al Creed threw the ball from left field to home to make an out at the plate.

"The team finished on a good note. It was a really good way to end the season," said Smith.

Makeover all part of program

By Chris Gerbasl

As part of a job-shadowing program, Laura Wcislo received a makeover at Mr. G's Hair Care Center last week.

The change in Wcislo is symbolic of a change the Clarkston Community Learning Center and Clarkston High School are trying to provide its students.

The center, on Maybee Road, and the high school are working together to teach young people job skills to better prepare them for the "real" world. The program is partially funded by the government as part of the Job Training Partnership Act.

Rather than simply placing books before the students, this semester the program has incorporated job-shadowing. Students go on location to observe people in action on the job.

Wcislo, one of 10 people in the alternative education program at the center, observed the hair stylists at Mr. G's for five hours. She's been interested in the field for the past few years.

"I got an overall view of what they do," said Wcislo. "I love seeing people come in and walk out looking better. They always have smiles on their faces."

Sue Holler and Una Smith put a new smile on Wcislo's face by doing her nails, styling her hair and applying makeup.

Michele Gotham coordinated the job-shadowing aspect of the program. She lined up the jobs for the 10 alternative ed students and eight students in a Survival Skills course at the high school.

"Hopefully, it will teach them a specific job and it may lead to them finding a job," said Gotham. "We've had very good response from employers and students."

"The first time I heard about it, I thought it was a very good program," said Sylvia Harvey of Mr. G's. "The more they're exposed to (the real world), the better off they are. They've got to get that self-confidence."

In the class at the high school taught by Becky Craig, students learned interviewing skills, how to prepare a resume and how to look for a job.

"It's a good thing for everybody to get," said student Lesley Seddon, who job-shadowed at Flower Adventure on Main Street.

"I learned a lot in this class," said Jim DeLisle. "It should be of some use. Going into interviews, I'll be more comfortable."

Similar skills are taught at the learning center's alternative high school.

"It's more relaxed here," said Gotham. "That's why so many of them didn't make it (in high school), because of too much discipline."

Meet the 3 board candidates

Mary Jane Chaustowich

within our district."

Why do you feel you should be elected?

"I have put a great deal of time and effort into being a good board member, and I have learned a great deal during my tenure.

"I would like to continue to put this knowledge to use in the service of the district."

Bruce Harlton

"We desperately need to improve the teacher per student ratio thus creating a better teaching and learning environment."

Why do you feel you should be elected?

"My career as a veterinarian has involved a great deal more than devotion to animals.

"As a private businessman for 14 years, I've developed the ability to work with a diverse group of people to solve problems.

"I know the importance of quality and fiscal responsibility

"As a father of three children, I've developed a sensitivity to the needs of children and parents.

"I will work closely with parents, teachers, administrators and fellow school board members while being open-minded, dedicated and prepared to make tough decisions."

John Needham

"I would encourage the continuation of the progress that our district has made in the past few years.

"Improvements in curriculum development, reduction in the pupil-teacher ratio and the addition of the elementary multipurpose rooms are examples of progress we have made."

Why do you feel you should be elected?

"I feel I should continue serving on the board because I can combine my concern for quality education for all the children in the district with my business knowledge.

"My 20 years of personnel and labor relations experience has taught me the value of being a good listener and trying to find mutual solutions to difficult problems. I have also learned to be analytical and practical in problem solving.

"Additionally, my wife Roz and I have had four children educated through the Clarkston school system over the past 12 years. This has familiarized me with issues at all levels of the educational system."

Makeover

Two students at the center, Joe Schiele and Mike McClusky, were taken for a ride by police officers. They both have hopes of joining the law enforcement field.

"They do a good job," said Schiele. "They're not jerks like I thought before."

"The guy (officer) I was with was paranoid," said McClusky. "Anyone he saw, he thought they were doing something wrong."

Schiele and McClusky thought the shadowing was worthwhile.

While everyone involved has a positive attitude toward the program, it is not a cure-all for the employment obstacles facing young people.

"The biggest challenge is to feel you've accomplished something with each student," said alternative education teacher Mona Cottick. "We don't improve their lifestyle, they improve it themselves."

14 Clarkston school employees retire

By Kathy Greenfield

Memories, laughter and a pervasive sense of warmth filled the banquet room as 14 Clarkston school district staff members received a fond farewell.

They were guests of honor at the third annual Retirement Dinner hosted by the district at the Deer Lake Racquet Club in Independence Township on May 28.

Kelly Burnette holds onto his plaque as he talks with a well-wisher following the program.

About 256 people shared the moment. Each retiree received a plaque inscribed with his or her name and the number of years of service they contributed to Clarkston schools, each was introduced by a fellow employee and each shared some thoughts with the audience.

Sprinkled among the thank yous for the party and the tributes to friends and fellow workers were these comments:

"If the people I worked for appreciated me as much as I appreciated them, then we're all winners." —Dottie Allen, retiring Clarkston High School secretary.

"This has been a great part of my life and I pray the years ahead will be just as great."

—Arlene Hardy

William Dennis

Bart Connors

"It's been a rewarding career and a fun career. I've got a lot of things to do and I'm going to get around to them." —V. Kelly Burnette, retiring Sashabaw Junior High School teacher.

"That is really why I enjoy teaching—kids. There isn't anything better to do, really. Really, is there? I enjoyed every minute of it." —Bart Connors, retiring SJHS teacher.

"I guess the great thing that has happened to me . . . is to look out into this great audience and call so many by name." —Barbara Cowen, retired secretary to the superintendent.

"Thank you, you've made my day." —Anita Davison, retired Clarkston Elementary School kindergarten teacher.

"I said to myself, 'I'm not going to get emotional,' but I can't help myself. We have really enjoyed the 30 years we've been in Clarkston. It's a great place to live and work." —William Dennis, retiring administrative assistant in charge of auxiliary services.

"This has been a great part of my life and I pray the years ahead will be just as great." —Arlene Hardy, retiring food service staff member.

"I've had a wonderful time. I thoroughly enjoyed myself. It's been a grand occupation." —Marilyn Hanson, retiring CHS counselor.

"The students have meant a lot to me." —Ethelyn Hyde, retiring CHS teacher.

"It has been a pleasure to work for the Clarkston schools. I have met many very nice people . . .

"I've had a wonderful time. I thoroughly enjoyed myself. It's been a grand occupation."

—Marilyn Hanson

especially at North Sashabaw." —Lois Kottke, retired North Sashabaw Elementary School secretary.

"All the wonderful years I've had in Clarkston—the job was challenging, interesting and exciting." —Marjorie Sullivan, retiring special education teacher.

A complete list of the honored guests, the number of years they worked for the district and their occupations follows:

Dottie Allen, 34 years, secretary at Clarkston High School.

Kids taste Germany

Jamie Frew raises his hand, hoping for help in tying his pretzel string. After making their own pretzels, the first- and second-graders tied strings around them to wear around their necks, as some Germans do in celebration.

John Sajdak, a second-grader, ties his pretzel string before eating a typical German lunch. When they studied Mexico, they ate tacos; Japan, they ate fried rice and smoked fish—heads and all. They'll eat crepes when they study France.

Dressed in traditional clothing of Germany, Chris Church (left) and Shayne Galnes stir the sauerkraut and knackwurst they'll eat for lunch. Germany is the third country in the foreign studies program for the children at Clarkston Christian School and Day Care Center on Clarkston Road.

Balloon finder

When Regina White, 7, saw a bit of pink hanging from a string in a tree near her home on Oakhill Road, she knew exactly what it was.

She climbed on a lawn chair and tried to get the popped balloon down, then asked her dad for assistance.

The note attached filled in the blanks. David, a pupil at Cooley Lake School on Highland Road in Waterford Township, had written asking the finder to let him know how far the balloon had traveled.

Regina, a second-grader at Bailey Lake Elementary School, penned a response: "I found your balloon in a tree nearby our house . . ."

The balloon has also found a new home, one that's appropriate for a treasured discovery. Regina says she plans to "save it—on my dresser."

Players act melodramatic

A melodrama without an innocent victim is like springtime without tulips. Filling the role is Janet Rose.

Haskins. McGee also provides asides, another essential melodrama ingredient.

Whoever selected the latest production for the Clarkston Village Players deserves an "A" for appropriate.

The melodrama "Love Rides the Rails or Will the Mail Train Run Tonight" opens Friday in the Depot Theatre, the former train station next to the railroad tracks on White Lake Road.

The performances, scheduled Fridays and Saturdays, June 6, 7, 13 and 14, are being staged as the second annual benefit fund raiser to provide money for building improvements.

Dubbed by the Players as a "good old-time mellerdrammer" the stage show features a villain, hero, heroine and other various and sundry characters.

Cast members are Janet Rose, Theresa Henry, Larry McGee, Mike Kaul, Tim Lekander, Charlie Haskins, Judy Rood, Vera Johnson-Djurdjev, Pete Rose, Joseph Gates, Jean Deutser and Rick Molter.

As part of the festivities, a complimentary hors d'oeuvres reception will precede all performances, which begin at 8 p.m.

Tickets are $10 and are available at Tierra Arts & Design on Main Street, Clarkston. Reservations may be made by calling Marlene Sewick at 363-0188 after 5 p.m.

Village employees get raises

Raises of less than 5 percent were given to six employees of the Village of Clarkston by the Village Council, effective May 31.

Two department of public works staff members will receive 25 cent per hour raises to $7.25 per hour. They were also given permission to work an additional three hours a week, bringing the total to 15 hours a week.

Another DPW employee will receive a 25 cent raise to $6.50 per hour.

The crossing guard at Middle Lake Road and M-15 will receive a $1.50 raise to $6.50 per hour. Since the school board now pays half of his salary, the village could afford to give him the large raise, said council members at the May 12 meeting.

The village marshal and the village secretary will now have one week's paid vacation, based on 12 hours a week.

The raises were approved, 7-0, at the May 12 Village Council meeting.

Trash to be fenced out

The repeated throwing of refuse on department of public works property has prompted Independence Township to take action.

On May 22, the township board authorized Zappie fence company to construct an estimated 1,300-foot-long, chain-link fence along Flemings Lake Road in front of the DPW building.

Zappie submitted a bid of $7,747 to do the work, according to DPW Director George Anderson.

Students pick Mahrle for teacher of semester

Larry Mahrle was honored by Clarkston High School students by being voted teacher of the semester. Mahrle teaches U.S. History and American Government and has been at Clarkston for 10 years.

By Chris Gerbasi

Larry Mahrle may have been the most surprised person at Clarkston High when the announcement came over the P.A. system that he was chosen Teacher of the Semester.

"My first reaction was that I was very surprised," said Mahrle. "I had no knowledge of it. Anytime you're recognized, it's a good feeling, especially when the students you work with respond that way."

The award was voted on by the students and a final decision was made by members of the National Honor Society.

"I told the kids I saw Ferdinand Marcos counting the ballots," Mahrle said.

Mahrle teaches three United States history classes and three American government courses.

"They're all required classes," said Mahrle. "It's hard to get an actual feeling for what the students think of the class."

"I'm very pleased to see a social studies department teacher win it," he said. "There's a lot of good social studies teachers at the school and they're deserving, hard-working teachers."

Mahrle has taught for 12 years, two at Waterford Our Lady of Lakes and the last 10 at Clarkston.

He received a bachelor's degree from Central Michigan University, Mt. Pleasant, in 1974 and a master's degree in guidance and counseling from Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti, in 1978. Counseling is a future goal for Mahrle.

He also coached basketball at Clarkston, Lakes and Avondale for a total of 10 years and was named Coach of the Year by The Oakland Press in 1983 while at Avondale.

"Teaching is what it's all about, though," said Mahrle. "Coaching is extracurricular. I'm a strong believer in education."

Education has not been without its rewards for both Mahrle and his students.

"The kids keep coming back," Mahrle said. "It's neat to hear from them after they've gone to college. Some of them will say they went into history or political science because they enjoyed your class. Most are appreciative."

She stresses community experiences

Deborah Spellicy was born and raised in New Baltimore, Mich., where she graduated from the Anchor Bay school system. She is the youngest of four girls.

Upon graduating from high school, Deborah held a strong interest in health occupations and pursued an associate's degree in dental assisting from Ferris State College, Big Rapids, which she completed in 1978.

She then completed her bachelor's degree in allied health education from Ferris State College in 1980.

Deborah is presently working on her master's degree at Michigan State University, East Lansing, where she is majoring in curriculum and instruction.

In addition, Deborah is a nationally certified dental assistant.

She has been employed as the dental office assisting instructor at the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center for the past four and one-half years.

Prior to this, Deborah taught dental office assisting for two years at Oakland Community College.

Teaching, she feels, is a very challenging and rewarding profession. She functions on the philosophy that every student can meet success and vocational education can be of value to all students.

She feels that students taking her class can not only acquire job entry skills, but at the same time receive advanced college placement and/or credits through articulation agreements that are in place with post-secondary institutions.

Deborah emphasizes the importance of all school personnel working cooperatively to enable all students to get the best possible education.

Deborah feels that positive work habits and a warm classroom climate that fosters learning are important qualities that she incorporates into her classroom/lab setting.

In addition, she feels that effective learning is not confined to the classroom.

She involves her students out in the community where they have a first-hand opportunity to teach oral hygiene instruction and nutrition to children and interested adult groups.

She feels that these community experiences along with the students' participation in community dental office observation are very important components of the dental assisting program at NWOVEC.

Beyond her classroom teaching position at NWOVEC, Deborah is also very active in professional organizations.

She is a member of the Michigan Dental Assistants Association where she has been an active officer for two years; the Oakland County Dental Assistants Association where she has served as an officer; the Michigan Occupational Education Association; and the American Vocational Association.

In addition, Deborah is very involved at the local level in school committee work.

She presently serves on the Clarkston Science Curriculum Committee; the Clarkston Professional Development Committee (COPE); and the public relations and social committees at NWOVEC.

Deborah, her husband, Dan, and 3-year-old son Keanan live in Sylvan Lake.

When there is free time, she enjoys gymnastic classes with Keanan. Occasionally she can even be found working in Dan's video store in Mt. Clemens.

Cross country family skiing, golfing, boating and travel in the United States also occupy Deborah.

An Apple for the Teacher is provided through a committee of the Clarkston Education Association.

This week's author is Gene Lewis, a special needs coordinator at the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center.

Deborah Spellicy's philosophy is that every student can meet success and vocational education can be of value to all students.

Tax hearing

Board invites open tax talk

A public hearing on increasing property taxes for Village of Clarkston residents has been set for Monday, June 9, at 7:30 p.m.

The council proposes maintaining the 7.4 millage rate for the general fund. The action would generate an increase of 2.63 percent in revenue for a total of $2,708.40.

If the proposal is approved by the council, the village millage rate would remain at 9.4 mills, or $9.40 for each $1,000 of assessed property valuation.

In addition to the general fund millage, 2 mills are levied for the debt retirement fund for sewer construction.

Members of the community may comment on the property tax proposal during the hearing at Clarkston Village Hall, 375 Depot, Clarkston.

A "Truth in Taxation" public hearing has been scheduled by the Clarkston board of education on Monday, June 9, at 7:30 p.m., one-half hour before the board's regular monthly meeting.

The hearing is required by Public Act 5, referred to as Truth in Taxation, which was approved by the state Legislature in 1982.

Members of the community will be able to voice their opinions on the board's plan to maintain the present operating tax levy of 33.33 mills.

Under the Truth in Taxation act, governing bodies may levy a rate that would generate the same amount of income as collected the previous year without a public hearing. For the Clarkston school district, that would mean a reduction of .3374 mill.

If, as in the Clarkston board of education's case, the governing body wishes to levy a higher tax rate up to the limit approved by voters, a hearing must be held.

"If the millage was allowed to drop by .3374 mills, the district's income from property taxes would be reduced by over $116,000 from property taxes plus over $24,000 from the state for a total reduction of $140,000," said William Jackson, district financial director.

No action will be taken at the meeting. According to the act, the board must delay its decision by six days from the hearing date.

The hearing will be held at the district administration office, 6389 Clarkston Rd., Independence Township.

What's wrong with legal drugs?

Dear Cat Paw:
What is drug abuse?

HB

Dear HB:
Drug abuse is the consumption of any substance that alters consciousness, behavior or mood without professional medical supervision.

Dear Cat Paw:
How is hashish oil used?

Wondering

Dear Wondering:
The drug is usually smoked by smearing one or two drops of the substance on a cigarette or joint. It may also be smoked in a glass pipe designed for that purpose.

Dear Cat Paw:
What's wrong with legalizing drugs? We would be able to control them, wouldn't we?

User in Town

Dear User:
Without getting into a lengthy dissertation, the answer may simply lie in how well we control the two legal psychoactive drugs we already have:

alcohol—100 million drinkers, roughly 100,000 deaths a year; cigarettes—60 million smokers, nearly half a million deaths a year.

Through advertising, the alcohol and tobacco industries spend millions to divert our attention from all those deaths and focus it on how their products will improve our sex lives, reward us for a hard day's work and make us feel good about ourselves.

Additional millions are pumped into organizations to develop educational programs for school children that urge an end to drinking and driving but not an end to drinking by underage kids.

The notion of designating drug taxes for education and prevention is a good one, but it will never happen.

If it were feasible, we could point to examples of alcohol or cigarette taxes being used for such a purpose. We can't because few, if any, exist.

It is ludicrous to think of legalizing any more psychoactive drugs. I for one am not ready for marijuana or PCP commercials.

Dear Cat Paw:
What type of person uses a lot of sedatives?

Curious

Dear Curious:
People who have difficulty dealing with stress or anxiety or who have trouble sleeping may overuse or become dependent on sedatives.

Sometimes heroin users take them either to supplement their drug or to substitute for it.

Stimulant users frequently take sedatives to offset the jittery feelings stimulants produce. Others take sedatives recreationally to relax and forget their worries.

Send letters to Cat Paw in care of The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main, Clarkston, MI 48016.

Cat Paw author Jeanette Sanders resides in Springfield Township. She is a state certified substance abuse counselor and is a member of the Clarkston Area Chemical People.

Ups & downs

Rachel Gianakos

We're happy now

Students at Sashabaw have a reason to enjoy their last days of school more. Bermuda shorts have made a big difference.

Recently, the students at Sashabaw Junior High have been allowed to wear Bermuda shorts.

In the past, all the students who wore Bermudas to school were sent home. Students felt this rule was very unnecessary, and wanted it changed.

As a result, many students were very angry. They were finally rewarded when they were told Friday, May 23, that they could begin wearing Bermudas and all their cool Jams after Memorial Day.

Students feel better when they go to school wearing clothes that they like to wear.

All the colorful shorts brighten up the halls at school, and the students have a better attitude now that the rule has been changed.

It makes school more fun. All the students are a lot happier now that they can wear their Bermudas, especially the freshmen who want to make the best of their last few days at Sashabaw.

Rachel Gianakos, a ninth-grader at Sashabaw Junior High School, is working with The Clarkston News this school year as part of the SJHS mentorship program.

John Terpstra watches as Eric Becker signs a yearbook in the Clarkston Junior High School cafeteria. Meanwhile, some 400 fellow students are spread throughout the lobby, the hallway leading to the cafeteria and the cafeteria itself. The annual party is held after school to distribute the yearbooks and to allow plenty of uninterrupted time for swapping signatures and notes.

Nicole Kidder finds comfort stretched out on a hallway floor while she signs a book. Lined up alongside are (from left) Nicole Dumas, Celeste Steinhelper and Kim Heyman.

Caught in what appears to be various stages of the yearbook signing ritual while sitting on a bench in the school lobby are (from left) Ethan Lee, Grant Manley and Matt Brown.

SESQUICENTENNIAL

SPECIAL SESQUICENTENNIAL EDITION

This bell dating back to the 1800s has been donated by the Mann family to Independence Township as part of the sesquicentennial celebration. In the background is a map of Oakland County from the same era.

Birthday bell rings with township history

By Chris Gerbasi

Bart Mann's bell will ring long after it tolls for him.

As part of the sesquicentennial of Independence Township, Mann and his sisters, Lolita Horsch and Louise Johnson, will donate their bell, which has been in the family for over 150 years.

The bell has been handed down to Mann from his great-great-grandfather, and it is as old as the township.

When Mann's great-grandfather, Jerome, married Helen Vorheis in 1832, Helen's father gave them an 180-acre farm located near Sashabaw Road as a wedding present.

Along with the farm came the bell, which was used on top of a windmill to call people in from the fields or for emergencies. The Manns worked in fields about a mile away from their house, and the bell still has as resounding a clang today.

Going back to Independence's roots

Picking a year to celebrate its 150th birthday party did not come easily to Independence Township.

Old records show that our forefathers met March 23, 1836 to informally organize the township, which to that point had been a part of Pontiac Township.

But the first official Independence Township meeting did not take place until 1837.

"It was planned, discussed and voted on the year before," said Connie Lektzian, a member of the township sesquicentennial council.

The electors of the township first met officially at the house of Arthur Davis in April 1837. Jeremiah Clark was chosen as the first supervisor and laws regulating wolf bounties and the construction of hog fences were established.

Though it took awhile for township residents to formally organize, settlers had been residing within its bounds for several years.

Alpheus Williams is credited as being the first property owner, having purchased land in October, 1823.

John Beardslee made the next land purchase in 1826 and moved to his property five years later, according to the "History of Oakland County, Michigan."

Many settlers with familiar names such as Holcomb, Beardslee and Dorr followed.

The township was named Independence at the suggestion of Joseph Van Syckle in honor of his former home of Independence, New Jersey.

Independence joins the State of Michigan, which is also celebrating its 1837 organization this year.

According to Lektzian, the state plans to conduct two years of festivities under the order of Gov. James Blanchard.

The sesquicentennials officially end in December 1987, she said.

Remembering the easy lifestyle of Clarkston-past

Elizabeth Ronk is honorary chairperson for Independence Township's sesquicentennial celebration

By Carolyn Walker

Clarkston has grown up around Elizabeth Ronk. It's gone from the sparsely populated farming community of her youth to a thriving, trendy, modern suburb.

Elizabeth, 81, will tell you that change is a part of life; but she'll look wistful as she does so, remembering the easy lifestyle of Clarkston-past.

"It was a lot of fun in those days," she says, calling the old Clarkston a "close-knit community."

Elizabeth has lived her entire life within Clarkston's boundaries, taking only a few weeks now and then to vacation or, when she was a teenager, to participate in a Ypsilanti-based "crash course" in teaching.

"I never wanted to go away," she says.

Her staying power was a factor in her being appointed honorary chairperson of this year's Independence Township sesquicentennial festivities.

Born on a 99-acre Clarkston Road farm to John and Mary Hammond in 1904, Elizabeth grew up to become a teacher after graduating from Clarkston High School in 1923.

At age 19, she began a two-year stretch as instructor to 30 pupils in the original one room Bailey Lake School.

Grades at the school ranged from one to eight and Elizabeth says she depended on the older students to help those who were younger.

She remembers that the seventh- and eighth-graders passed their county-ordered exams upon graduation with flying colors.

"I must have taught them something," she says, displaying her incredible memory by mentioning some of her former students by name. "They were such a good group."

Elizabeth gave up teaching when she married her husband Gerald and later became the Clarkston postmaster, a position which she held for 36 years.

"She almost made a career of it," jokes her obviously proud son, John, who is listening this day as she recalls her past. "She was very well liked around town because she did things out of the ordinary."

Those kindnesses included hand-delivering letters from soldiers fighting overseas during World War II to their families.

"I used to know everybody in every house," she says.

In 1920, Elizabeth's parents sold their farm, now the site of a subdivision located behind the First Church of God, and moved to the house she now occupies on Main Street.

"When I think of how much it costs to have a lot (in the subdivision) out there now, my gosh, my dad didn't get anything for that farm," she says.

Her father was a laborer with jobs in a Main Street factory and, later, in Pontiac. She recalls that he left for Pontiac before dawn in the morning and arrived home after dark at night.

That was back when an excursion to Pontiac was "a long day's trip" by horse and buggy down dirt roads, she says, adding, "When you went to Detroit it was a two-day trip."

During those days in her childhood, some Clarkston folk entertained themselves by racing horses on Parke Lake when it was covered with ice, she says.

The Hammonds' work horse, Babe, used to break into a run whenever he rounded the curve near the lake on Clarkston Road during his later years, she says with a laugh.

Her suggestion is that Babe remembered the good old days, too.

Elizabeth and Gerald moved to her current residence after the deaths of her parents to help raise her younger sisters and brother.

Gerald was a businessman with Landi-Ronk, formerly located next door to the current Hallman's Apothecary. The business burned in 1927 when John was just a few weeks old.

Elizabeth jokes that she missed the fire because she was home tending her son.

Similarly, she recollects other dates and events in her life by citing the names and residences of the people involved.

Many houses and business buildings were moved to make way for progress, she says. Others, like [See PRIDE, Page 14]

How Main Street has changed! This is the look of Clarkston's main drag as it appeared before paving and other modern changes. To the far left is the Sutherland building, which most recently housed McGillacutty's restaurant and Marley's gift shop. The building was once the home of Dr. Sutherland and is now vacant. Also seen in this photo is the building now known as the Emporium along Depot Road. This picture was taken about 1904.

Sesquicentennial calendar: A parade of special summer events

GOOD OLD SUMMERTIME PICNIC Sunday, June 8

The celebration at Independence Oaks County Park is to begin at noon and culminate with a giant fireworks display at 9:30 p.m.

For $1 a carload, party-goers will be admitted to the park on Sashabaw Road, 2½ miles north of I-75 in Independence Township. Admission is limited, so an early arrival might be wise.

The festivities are planned to celebrate the 150th birthday of Independence Township, the 100th birthday of the Statue of Liberty and the 10th anniversary of Independence Oaks.

Among the entertainment and activities planned are a Bluegrass band, swimming, hayrides, nature center tours, games and prizes

At 1 p.m., the Celtic Pipes and Drums Band will lead a "Walk Michigan" family hike.

At 4 p.m., Ronald McDonald will make an appearance.

Families can bring picnic lunches or buy hot dogs, orange drink and popcorn provided by Clarkston area clubs and organizations.

The Clarkston Community Historical Society plans to sell items of local historic interest, and the Independence Township Sesquicentennial Council will sell Sesqui T-shirts, mugs and the booklet "History of Hunter School" to raise money for a town clock.

The fireworks display conducted by the Independence Township Fire Department is expected to last about one-half hour.

Over 267 fireworks have been purchased by the sesquicentennial council, and the grand finale promises to be spectacular with 62 shots.

The sponsors of the picnic are the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission, Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department and the Independence Township Sesquicentennial Council.

For more information, call 858-4955 or 625-8223.

JULY 4TH PARADE Friday, July 4

"Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow" is the theme for the downtown Clarkston parade sponsored by the Independence Township Fire Department.

Parade time is 10 a.m., with participants lining up for the event at 9:15 a.m. at Clarkston Junior High School.

The parade route is west on Church Street and north on Main Street to Miller Road.

The Independence Township Sesquicentennial Council plans a special float to commemorate the township's birthday, and a booth will be set up to sell sesquicentennial T-shirts, mugs and other items to raise money for a town clock.

Those who wish to participate in the parade should contact parade chairperson Mike Fahrner at the fire department at 625-1924.

Teaching job brought Patricia Beach to Clarkston

By Julie LePere

Since 1944, Patricia Beach, former Clarkston chemistry teacher, has lived in Clarkston and watched it grow.

Some things, such as the buildings and businesses, have changed quite a bit. Other things, such as people and their activities, never seem to change, she said.

Raised in Britton, south of Ann Arbor, she graduated from Hillsdale College and then came to town for a job.

"I was asked to come up and teach," she said. Carl Brableck was superintendent then and he knew I had graduated majoring in chemistry, and he needed a chemistry teacher. He talked me into coming. I had never heard of the town before that.

"When I came here, all 13 grades were housed in the old section of Clarkston Junior High School."

Even though many women did not finish high school, let alone college back then, to Patricia, it was a matter of course.

"My father was a licensed mortician, and so was my mother. I have always lived in a family where women work," she said. "So you see, women's liberation is nothing new for us."

Back then, some commodities were scarce, so Patricia and her students had to find their own sources of fun.

"Teenagers are no different now than they were then," she said. "They used to complain, 'There's nothing to do.' But we made our own entertainment."

"There were community organizations in school that would work together and hold dances during the war. The townspeople would come.

"We had a high school band, and Frank Ronk (now Independence Township supervisor) was one of the band members.

"It happened to be at an American Legion Poppy [See MEMORIES, Page 7]

Dance there at the school that I met my husband, Chuck."

When she first came to town in 1944, Patricia roomed and boarded with Bob and Uldene Jones. In fact, her present home on Holcomb was built by Bob's mother and dad.

She stayed with them during her early years of teaching, and she remembers some of the good places to go that were within walking distance. She mentioned Rowena Odell's drug store (now Hallman's Apothecary) on Main Street.

"It had a dairy counter in it. We used to stop in there and get banana splits and all kinds of good stuff after school," she said.

When she first came to Clarkston, the corner of M-15 and Dixie was much different than it is now. For one thing, Rickson's was on M-15.

"That was a dairy bar and restaurant. It was a drive-in. You could drive in and eat in your car or you could go inside and eat. They had juke boxes. And there were pinball machines in there.

"Teenagers are no different now than they were then. They used to complain, 'There's nothing to do.' But we made our own entertainment."

"As far as the corner is concerned, there were probably four or five gas stations on that corner at one time. That was long before the A & P went up. And the old Tally Ho was there.

"On the corner of 10 and 15, we had a gas station, and Chuck's mother had a restaurant. It was a pie-shaped building that fit right in that corner. The front of the building was the office, and the back of the building was the restaurant.

"Chuck's mother and dad came up from Detroit in 1921 and started the business.

"Charles ran the gas station, where Roy Brothers is now. It was called Beach's Service. . . . To the old-timers, that's still Beach's corner down there."

Patricia can remember the changes that have taken place along M-15 into town.

"I used to live on Hidden Lane. I named that road, too, by the way," she said. "I was the first house there, so Detroit Edison asked me to name the road.

"Just think of all the building that has come since, the theater, the funeral home, the clinic.

"There was a roadside park there where the funeral home and the clinic are now. I could take the boys up to the bus stop and sit and wait at the picnic tables."

Patricia also recalls a few businesses on Main Street.

"Clarkston Cafe has been here as long as I can remember. . . . Bob Parker had it and had the best homemade soups and homemade pies. . . . At that time, Rudy's was on the corner of Depot and Main."

After a total of about 20 years of teaching, Patricia still remains active in several organizations. She is a member of Clarkston United Methodist Church and the Waterford-Clarkston Business and Professional Women's Association. Previously she has been active in the Clarkston Village Players.

"And I am very interested in geneology these days," she said.

She belongs to the Oakland County Geneology Society, the Detroit Society of Geneology Research and the Sashabaw Plains Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

"And I think I'm going to be able to trace a line back to the Mayflower," she said. "I have taught classes in geneology, and I have attended seminars in different parts of the country as well as England."

"Charles ran the gas station, where Roy Brothers is now. It was called Beach's Service.

. . . To the old-timers, that's still Beach's corner down there."

And Patricia travels a lot.

"When my husband was alive, we used to travel in a trailer, coast to coast in Canada . . . and coast to coast in the United States."

She has also visited London, the British Isles, France, Spain, Italy, the Caribbean Islands and Hawaii.

"I went to China this last fall. We heard an advertisement over the radio about a cruise down the Yangtze River. We went down to look into it, and before we knew it, we were signed up.

"I go to Florida. My only grandchild is down there."

Patricia would still like to visit Australia, but she hasn't yet made definite plans.

She was senior class adviser for the class of 1947, and they took a cruise on the Great Lakes.

"My, that was a lovely time," she said. "We went from Detroit to Chicago, and we came back by train. It was grand."

Patricia still misses the students and teaching.

"The students were always so much fun. They had so much to offer. I think that's what I miss about teaching, not the paperwork, not the grades, but I just liked being around the young people. . . . You can't help but love them."

Adeline Smith reminis

By Carolyn Walker

Adeline Smith sits in a rocker in her Independence Township apartment, a scrapbook in her lap.

Stretched out before her are a collection of black and white photographs highlighting the events in her life.

She describes them: One is a picture of her uniformed husband, George, an Army cook during World War I. A second displays the home she and he built on Andersonville Road, their residence for 50 years. In one she is fishing. In still another she is posing with her students from the Clarkston Station School.

Adeline Smith crouches behind her cousin Agnes Hilton as they prepare for a trip from the old Clarkston Depot on White Lake Road.

This was the look of the Emporium building on Main Street at Depot Road when it was first owned by George Smith, who ran a feed store in the rear. George later expanded it to a dairy bar. At one time the building housed Rudy's Market.

At 89, Adeline has a lot of memories.

A teacher who moved from school to school after her 1915 graduation from Clarkston High School, Adeline went from student in June to teacher the following September.

She came to rest at the Hunter School in Independence Township during 1917 and 1918. She was about 21 years old at the time.

"In those days you moved around to make more money," she says. Her teaching credits also included positions at Clarkston Station School in Springfield, a Sashabaw Plains school, and a school in Franklin.

"Every so many miles or acres, there was a school," she says of those by-gone days. Most consisted of one room only and were heated with wood stoves in the winter.

At the Hunter School, where she was the only teacher, her class included grades one through eight and was very strictly run.

All told, there were only some six students in the one-room school. Most of them came from farming families.

"They were brought up on farms and they were orderly, quiet and polite," she says of her former students.

"We had so many grades. We went by the books. The older ones helped the little ones. I was kind of a strict teacher. But they learned."

When she married in 1921, she gave up her profession to raise two daughters and to abide by the dictates of social convention.

"In those days they thought (married) girls shouldn't work," she says.

After their marriage, George worked as a

Clarkston-built airplane entertained curious crowds

By Chris Gerbasi

Airplanes were scarce in Clarkston in the 1920s. In fact, houses were scarce, let alone airplanes.

But William Terry, who has lived in the area all his life, recalls when an airplane went down Main Street. Well, sort of.

Terry's brother, Glen, built a plane in 1926 in the garage of the Terrys' home on Buffalo Street. Glen was a machinist and he had help from Glen Hoffman and plenty of interested townspeople.

"I'd hang around. I did everything I could," said William Terry, who was then a teenager and several years younger than his brother. "I was always getting in the way."

After a year of work, the plane was completed. It was then towed down Main Street, without its wings, by a dump truck to a field off Clarkston Road.

"The town was here, but as soon as you got out of the town, people were growing stuff," said Terry.

They managed to find a flat field and after some finishing touches, the plane was ready for a test flight.

"Airplanes weren't that plentiful around here," said Terry, 73. "The first time he went up, half the town was out there. It was like a circus."

The 90-horsepower aircraft took off and sailed around the area for a half-hour before landing at what is now Pontiac Oakland Airport.

Glen then got a license, converted the engine to 180 horsepower and spent his spare time giving airplane rides to four passengers at a time for $5 apiece. He continued to land near Elizabeth Lake Road.

"Personally, I think that's why the airport is there now," Terry said.

Glen Terry went on to build a couple more planes and he occasionally hauled mail. He flew for five years, but his wife wanted him to stop. So he went into a ground level venture, race cars, and sold the plane.

"The last (Glen) heard before he died was that it went down in an apple tree in Wisconsin," said Terry. "It would've been worth a lot of money."

But the plane is still worth some fond memories for Terry.

Glen Terry sits in the cockpit of the plane he built in 1926. Terry had one of the few planes in the area and made $5 per customer for rides.

"Airplanes weren't that plentiful around here. The first time he went up, half the town was out there. It was like a circus."

A doctor's kindness saves toddler's crushed finger

Back before paramedics, 24-hour urgent care centers and malpractice, physicians relied a lot on skill and a little bit on their wits during emergencies.

Tales have come down over the years about those hallowed country doctors of yore, who braved the elements in their horse-drawn buggies to render medical care to farm families on the outskirts of town.

Such a doctor, Raymond Miller, lived on Main Street in Clarkston many years ago, to hear my mother tell it.

She was but a 2-year-old tyke the day she got her ring finger smashed in the rollers of an old washing machine. The accident nearly severed the end of her finger from the knuckle on.

My mother, Margaret Crawford, recalls that Dr. Miller came to her parents' farm home on Sashabaw Road, which is now the site of Independence Oaks Park, to treat the damaged hand.

He told her mother, Mabel Amidon, that the injured fingertip would have to be amputated.

Unfortunately, he uttered those words within ear-shot of my mother, who set to wailing.

The kindhearted doctor, she now says, didn't have the heart to perform the surgery after hearing her cries.

Memories

by Carolyn Walker

Instead, he chose to tape the finger together (no stitches) and hope for the best.

Every day for six weeks, he made the trek to my mother's home where he changed the bandages and treated her with candy pills, which he placed on the piano.

He directed her to take two a day. No medicine was involved, she says.

Sometimes he brought along one of his sons to entertain her.

"He did all kinds of things," she says. "We had no car. He came every day and changed that bandage."

"Whenever I saw his car, I screamed bloody murder (that I would lose my finger). It was so bad that I never forgot."

Mother's story has a happy, almost miraculous ending.

The tape-job not only took, but mother regrew her fingernail and regained full use of her digit with only a scar to attest to her ordeal.

If you have stories about the old days in Independence Township, we would like to hear them and share them with our readers as the township celebrates its sesquicentennial. Kindly send your submissions to The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main, Clarkston, MI 48016.

Birthday gift bell rings with Independence history

Lolita Horsch and her brother, Bart Mann, stand behind the bell which has been in the Mann family for over 100 years.

Aside from a little rust, the bell is no worse for the wear and tear of over 100 years.

"It's beautiful, it's in great shape," said Mann, 69. "There's no cracks. I've never had to do anything with it. I've never painted it or anything."

The Manns lived on the farm until 1927, when they moved to Clarkston. Mann inherited the bell when his father died in 1950.

"I want to leave something here," said Mann. "I want to give it in the name of my mother and father and the early settlers of Sashabaw."

"My father was born in Independence and died in Independence," he said. "I was looking for something to do with the bell and I'd rather give it away than sell it."

Mann also owns a map of Oakland County dating back to the 1880s when his grandfather owned a toll booth for travelers to get across his property. The toll helped landowners in the upkeep of the roads, some of which were "paved" with planks. Mann acquired the map as a youngster when a man's car broke down. In exchange for a sparkplug, Mann got the map and a gun that didn't work. The township board of trustees has tentatively decided to display the bell in front of the township hall, where it would remind citizens of 150 years of Independence history.

The cover story

Credit for our sesquicentennial edition cover design goes to Independence Township resident Ron Wagner.

Wagner's creativity sprang to the forefront with several designs he's produced for Independence Township's 150th birthday celebration.

His logo artwork adorns the T-shirts and mugs being sold to raise money for a town clock; and he designed the birthday party poster announcing the first sesquicentennial celebration in March at the Clarkston Mills Mall.

A graphic designer, Wagner is an owner of Producer's Graphic Services of Royal Oak. Most of his work involves in-house publications for automotive firms, but a work in the public's eye is his design for the Melody Farms milk carton.

Wagner was graduated with a bachelor's degree in advertising in 1968 from Wayne State University, Detroit.

He and his wife Susan have three children, Stephanie, 19, Todd, 15, and Jennifer, 13.

Pride shared

Landi-Ronk, were burned by accident, their tenants displaced and then helped into recovery by neighbors.

To make her point, she mentions the moving of the Ritter house to Main Street from Dixie Highway as "an event in my life."

Her school seatmate Marion Green formerly lived in the house, she says.

She recalls the paving of Main Street in 1922 by saying that her sister used to play jacks on its fresh cement.

"I used to know everybody in every house."

"So you see, there was nobody going by," she says, comparing the solitude of yesterday to the heavy traffic of today.

Elizabeth says she is hard-pressed to recall her favorite Clarkston memory.

She remembers them each one by one, in bits and pieces of friendship, as the events that make up her lifetime.

Gesturing to a plaque on her dining room wall that commemorates her appointment as the sesquicentennial chairperson, Elizabeth says she is deeply pleased by the honor.

"I was thrilled about it. I had no idea it would be me," she says.

Then she shares a little secret. The honor was made all the more special because it was presented by her other son, Frank, now the supervisor of Independence Township.

She's proud of the heritage she passed on to her offspring, who are equally proud of her.

"She keeps us all going," says John.

Emporium once housed Smith's dairy bar

stonemason before purchasing the building that is now known as the Emporium on Main Street in Clarkston. She is not sure of the year.

"It was after the depression, I know that," she says. "It must have been in the '30s."

The building housed George's feed mill in the rear and later his dairy bar, where ice cream and other snacks were sold on one side, and Rudy's Market was located on the other

Rudy, whose grocery store had been burned out at its previous site, was George's first tenant.

George and Adeline sold the business in 1974.

As she remembers those days, she lets her aged hand pass slowly across the pictures. Things have changed a lot, she says, pensively.

She is proud of those times and the contributions she and George made to Clarkston.

A far-away look on her face tells her visitor that she misses those days.

"Progress took some things away," she says.
