Adventure began at Ellis Island

By Julie LePere

It's been a long time since William Beutel has been to Ellis Island, and time makes a person forget the happenings of 60 years ago, he said.

"It's a nice experience, but you get over it, and you forget," he said.

But he remembers that back in 1925, he was a 23-year-old man looking for fun.

"I was a kid, and I wanted adventure," he said. "I had a ticket to South America, to Rio de Janeiro, but my mother saw that. She said if I wanted to go somewhere, to go to America where my brother was."

William Beutel in 1925.

"You couldn't say no to your mother, no matter how old you were. That's how we were raised."

"I came from a good country. It was good then, and it's good now."

He left Germany on the Errabig, and 14 days later he was at Ellis Island.

The Errabig came through Nova Scotia, then waited for a day about 12 miles from the coast.

"We came to Ellis Island, and it was all new. It's a funny feeling coming to a country when you don't know the language, and you don't know the people," he said.

"We were tagged just like a bunch of cattle, you know. Then we went from stall to stall, from doctor to

Lack of quorum

The best laid plans of men oft go astray—at least that's how it was for several petitioners scheduled to appear before the Independence Township Planning Commission June 26.

The regularly scheduled meeting was canceled when a majority of the seven members, commonly called a quorum, were not in attendance.

Absent were Brent Bair, Carol Balzarini, John Gray and Holly Stephens. Chairman Neil Wallace, Betty Jo Fussman and Joseph Figa were present.

The Waterford Baptist Church final site plan, Landcaster on the Lakes apartments site plan and North Creek Commons mall site plan were all scheduled to be on the agenda.

Wallace told the petitioners and some audience members that a special commission meeting may be called for July 3 to address some of the canceled topics.

Residents wishing to verify that a meeting has been scheduled for July 3 can call the building and planning department at 625-8111 on July 2.

This passport shows how William Beutel looked in 1924. It took a whole year to be admitted to the United States from Germany then. In 1925, Beutel arrived at Ellis Island.

School starting date to be Aug. 27

For those eager for school to start again, here's a date to circle on the calendar.

As teacher contract talks get under way in the Clarkston school district, the school starting date has been tentatively agreed upon. Pupils are to begin Wednesday, Aug. 27, and teachers are to start their school year one day earlier.

A tentative agreement was also reached on the entire school calendar, but the snow days issue under discussion in the state Legislature must be settled before dates are firm, said Milford Mason, superintendent of Clarkston schools.

"The ending date is somewhat up in the air, because there are conflicts, apparently, on the state aid bill (over) what the Legislature wants districts to make up in case of inclement weather," he said.

Either four or two "snow days" will be allowed before make-up days are required, Mason said. The Clarkston school district averages five or six a year.

The plan is to allow for the expected snow days in the calendar and make adjustments later in the year if necessary, he said.

The contract for the district's 263.5 teachers plus teachers in the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center expires on Aug. 24.

Beutel's trip took him through Ellis Island doctor. You had to be well to get in. Then we got put on a boat that took us over to a train.

"I was lucky. I could speak French, and I met a fellow who could speak English. So he got us loaded and unloaded onto the train."

From New York, he headed toward Ohio, where his brother and uncle and several cousins lived. He passed through the Appalachian Mountains and saw shacks on the hill.

"I thought, 'If that's America, I want to go back,'" he said.

He stayed, though, because with only $75 in his pocket, he didn't have enough money for a return fare.

When he reached Ohio, he went to the courthouse to apply for citizenship. It wasn't until six years later that he became a full citizen.

Before he could do anything, he had to learn English, he said. In Germany, he was considered well educated. He spoke two languages and could read and write fluently.

In America, he began the task of learning a third language.

"I went to school right away. Another boy and I took extra lessons at night," he said. "For $5 an hour, we went to a woman's house and read newspaper headlines."

In order to eat during those early months, he devised a methodical system for trying the different menu items.

Growth committee set up for township

Appropriate growth of Independence Township is the goal of a new committee made up of five members of the township planning commission and Economic Development Corp. (EDC).

"We're trying to take the initiative so we can genuinely plan what's going to happen, so that it fits," said planning commission chairman Neil Wallace, a member of the committee.

The committee plans to designate appropriate growth areas on the township master plan, to solicit desirable businesses for the community and to look at the infrastructure including the sewers and roads.

Issues will be discussed and proposals made to be further considered by the planning commission, EDC and township board, Wallace said.

The plan is "to make sure if there is going to be growth to diversify the tax base it's going to be appropriate to the community," he said.

EDC members James Brennan and Robert Olsen and planning commission members Brent Bair, John Gray and Wallace will make up the committee.

"Every day, we'd order from the top. If we didn't like that, we'd scratch it off the menu, and try the next one for the next meal," he said. "When we found something we liked, we'd eat it for about three weeks."

He credits relatives for their help with learning English and finding a job.

"I had work right away," he said.

Eventually, Beutel settled on Pinehurst Drive in Independence Township, and he has visited the "old country" a few times.

"Since 1953, I've been back eight times. I don't have any relatives left there now. I was the last out of 10," he said. "I'm still the last. I lost my last brother down in Florida."

At a young 84 years of age, Beutel keeps himself in good condition by staying active, working on his house and yard. He is retired from Fisher Body.

-Corrections-

In last week's Clarkston News, the votes were incorrectly reported for the Hahn/Walker rezoning request for condominiums on Clarkston Road.

The rezoning request was approved, 4-3, with yes votes by Treasurer John Lutz, Supervisor Frank Ronk, Clerk Richard Holman and Trustee Dale Stuart. Trustees Dan Travis, William Vandermark and Carol Balzarini voted no.

Four scholastic award-winners at Sashabaw Junior High School should have been included in the list in last week's Clarkston News.

Winners of the Principal's Award were Kelly Kurz and David Woodruff.

Spirit Award winners were Kelly Avenall and Bill Larkin.

VD cases rise in Clarkston area

By Carolyn Walker

"We're just too busy to talk about it," said an unidentified nurse at the Oakland County Health Department's venereal disease clinic.

The topic: sexually transmitted diseases in teenagers and young adults.

Her statement about the county's situation brings close to home the national trend toward increasing cases of Herpes 2, gonorrhea, chlamydia, Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome (AIDS), syphilis and hepatitis, all of which can be transmitted during sexual acts.

Clarkston pediatrician James O'Neill, M.D., medical director of the Clarkston Ambulatory Care Center, sees the problem as formidable.

In fact, he's so upset by the situations he encounters as a physician, many of which affect students as young as 13, that he takes time out of a busy day to discuss the matter.

"The people that carry these illnesses are not some faceless persons from across the world. They're from around here."

Up until three years ago we were in the so-called "liberated sex era" and people at all age levels were promiscuous, O'Neill said. "(People) just didn't worry."

The situation changed, however, when some venereal diseases, including gonorrhea, became antibiotic resistant and difficult strains began to emerge.

Still others, notably Herpes 2 and AIDS, are without cures.

AIDS, which attacks the body's immune system and is most common in homosexuals and drug abusers and can be transmitted in blood transfusions, is fatal.

Although more often seen in homosexuals, AIDS is beginning to cross the barrier to heterosexuals.

A recent study estimates that 81 percent of all prostitutes are AIDS carriers, O'Neill said.

With the onset and notoriety of AIDS, many people have narrowed their sexual contacts, according to O'Neill.

Nevertheless, the incidences of VD have increased because of the decreasing effectiveness of antibiotics.

"All of a sudden people became very worried. It's almost a paradox," he said. "(While they've decreased their number of sexual partners), we seem to be seeing more and more VD than ever before."

According to O'Neill, there have been four patients in the greater-Clarkston area who have been found to carry the AIDS HTLV virus, and he has seen two of them.

"They've (students) got to know they're involved in an extremely dangerous, dangerous game."

One, he said, is a Clarkston High School graduate, now in his early 20s.

Sometimes, AIDS will not show up in a carrier for several years.

On the average, AIDS tests are requested at the care center or in his office two to three times a week, according to O'Neill. And venereal disease and pregnancy tests for teens are also on the increase.

"The people that carry these illnesses are not some faceless persons from across the world," O'Neill said. "They're from around here."

The doctor estimates that as many as 10 percent of local junior high school students are sexually active before they finish ninth grade.

And while they view sex as the popular thing to do, they are woefully ignorant of the tremendous consequences, according to O'Neill.

"That's (10 percent) strictly a guess based on the numbers we're seeing," he said, espousing the importance of proper sex education in the schools.

"They've (students) got to know they're involved in an extremely dangerous, dangerous game."

Sex education in the schools is not a method for condoning sexual activity, he said. It is a way of teaching youths about their bodies and the serious ramifications of poor decisions and indiscretion.

"The ultimate thing should be to educate the children . . . to make wise choices . . . the rest of their lives," he said.

BATTLING HOUSE BLAZE: An Independence Township firefighter attempts to saw through the roof of a burning house in order to get at the flames. It took an hour and 20 minutes last Friday to control the fire in Timothy Garrett's house on North Eston Road. An electrical problem may have caused the fire, and damages to the structure were estimated at $40,000. A cat perished in the fire and several firefighters suffered heat exhaustion, said firefighter Neil Ashley.

'I'm no dam expert'—Ed Adler

Council pushes for Mill Pond dam repair

By Julie LePere

Mill Pond dam owner Ed Adler has two weeks to respond to a letter from the Clarkston Village Council before the council takes legal action to have the dam repaired.

After some discussion at the June 23 meeting, the council asked its attorney to send a letter asking for repairs on the dam or a reason why the repairs haven't been made. If no reply is received within two weeks, they plan to file suit.

After hearing of the letter, Adler said he has nothing to say to the council because he doesn't know how to repair the dam.

"I know what the problem is, but I don't know how to fix it," said Adler after the meeting. "Dam fixers are not like going to True Value hardware store and asking for it."

The dam is broken under 30 feet of water in an area that scuba divers can't reach, he said.

"I've talked to a dozen people, and they don't know how to fix it. . . . I frankly don't know what to do," he said. "I had the county drain commission come out and take a look at the thing, and I haven't heard back from them."

"I've exhausted all my resources. . . . I'm no dam expert," he said. "I'm open to suggestions."

Six weeks ago, the council asked for immediate repairs to the dam as well as the overflow structure, and they asked for a biweekly update from Adler on the progress.

They did not give him a deadline for the repairs at that time because had acted in "good faith" in the past, they said.

At the meeting, they discussed the problem.

"Certainly the water, if nothing else, is becoming a safety hazard," said village attorney Tom Gruich. "I don't know about health hazard, but it's a safety hazard."

The residents aren't worried that the water is as high as it is, said President Sharron Catallo, but they're afraid of what will happen if it gets higher.

"I think we've now had our 10-year rain. I hope the 100-year rain doesn't come," she said.

At least one resident has complained to the council about the water level, said Trustee Eric Haven.

If the case goes to court, the judge could order Adler to fix the dam or allow the village to fix it and bill Adler for the cost, said Gruich.

Either way, legal action will not be a fast solution, said Trustee William Basinger.

The judge could speed up the process in the case of an emergency situation or irreparable damage, said Gruich, but neither exists at the present.

Dixie congestion remedy

Future traffic surge prompts plan

By Carolyn Walker

"Desperation" has forced the Independence Township Planning Commission to devise a traffic congestion remedy for Dixie Highway, according to Chairman Neil Wallace.

New projects along Dixie near Maybee Road such as the Ritter carwash, Hosler Pontiac, Clarkston Surgical Center and the proposed Landcaster on the Lakes apartment buildings are bound to create increased traffic problems, Wallace said.

As a result, the commissioners in recent talks and at their June 12 meeting decided to present a plan to the township board which would extend Maybee Road across Dixie at the current traffic signal.

If the plan were implemented, Maybee would be the access road for several businesses and commissioners say the improvement could eventually lead to the elimination of curb cuts along Dixie.

"Much of the congestion and the safety problems that are and will be occurring would be relieved by utilizing this traffic control device," said a commission memorandum.

Timing is especially important, the memorandum adds, because the township is considering a downtown development authority to help return tax dollars to the Dixie area.

The memorandum suggests that the township investigate obtaining right-of-ways along the proposed route.

Wallace said he plans to present the proposed Maybee extension at the July 1 board meeting.

"We're doing it for the community," he said.

New way to pay taxes

A new method of paying school taxes collected by Independence Township has been adopted by the board.

In a 6-0 vote at a special meeting on June 26, board members voted to sell consolidated tax anticipation notes (CTANs).

Selling CTANs will enable the township to pay the schools districts their due immediately, rather than holding the money for 28 days and collecting interest as the township has done in the past.

Independence Treasurer John Lutz collects taxes for the districts of Clarkston, Oakland County Intermediate Schools and Oakland Community College.

A recent Grand Rapids lawsuit challenged the rights of municipalities to hold onto school taxes for interest purposes and the CTAN program is seen partly as a way of avoiding such a situation.

Under the CTAN program, the township would sell the notes, which are similar to bonds, pay the schools their tax money at the outset; and as taxes are paid by residents, have a trustee invest the money.

The money would be used to pay back the notes, which come due after one year. The interest on the invested money would then be returned to the township minus the trustee's expenses.

Using last year's figures, Lutz previously estimated that the new system would earn the township an additional $46,000.

Summer school tax bills were to be mailed July 1.

Voting to sell the CTANs were Supervisor Frank Ronk, Clerk Richard Holman, Lutz, and trustees William Vandermark, Dale Stuart and Daniel Travis. Trustee Carol Balzarini was absent.

Bird dog

Kathy Greenfield

I had always wondered a bit about people who treated their dogs like humans.

Then Brandy romped into our lives. He smiles, wiggles his eyebrows when he's frustrated and manages an expression of woe in his deep brown eyes that beats any person I know.

I talk to him.

"So, Brandy, how are you doing?" I say.

He answers with a smile and rushes over for a hug and quick kiss.

"You don't want him to leave, do you?" I say.

He answers with a woebegon look and runs from door to window to watch the departure of my husband or son.

"Brandy, she's home," I say.

He answers with a furious wag of his tail and a speedy move to the door to watch my daughter's arrival.

The way I treat Brandy, however, is nothing compared to my husband's friendship with him.

There was the time he told us Brandy had a girlfriend named Hooper—this is some accomplishment for a neutered dog. No one believed it.

Then our friends brought their dog Hooper over for a visit. Brandy started smiling the minute he spotted them coming down the street.

The two dogs played together happily throughout the visit, even sharing the chew bones, tennis balls and such they took from a container of dog toys we keep in the living room.

Brandy has other friends. When I arrived home the other night, Sandy, a neighbor's dog, was standing on the front porch looking in the door. Inside, Brandy was wagging and barking.

Sandy ran off. I went inside and walked into the kitchen. Sandy was at the back door.

"Brandy, Sandy's at the door," said my daughter. He hurried into the kitchen, they looked at each other for a moment, then Sandy decided to answer her master's call and go home.

A recent announcement by my husband was the best yet.

"Brandy saved a baby blue jay," he said with some pride in his voice.

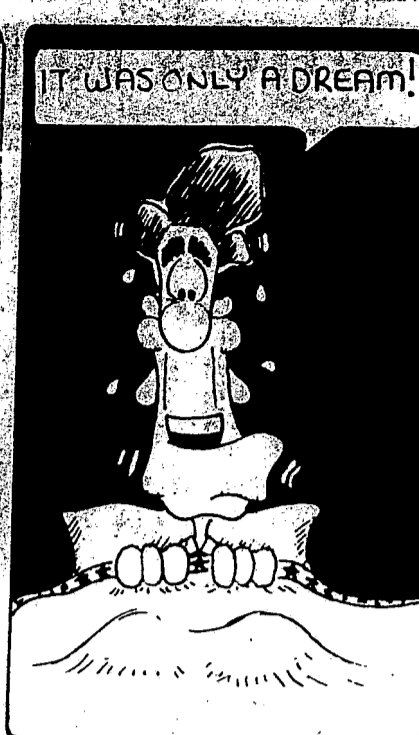

The skeptics (my daughter and I) reacted with laughter, but he told us about it anyway. Brandy, the story goes, swam out to the tiny bird floundering in the lake and gently brought it back to my husband at the shore. The bird was placed with care on a woodpile.

"Call the newspaper!" said my daughter. I loved it.

Celebrating Lady's birthday

July 4 has a special flavor this year. It's the 100th birthday of the Statue of Liberty.

It's also the 210th anniversary of the American Revolution, but our country's celebration will focus on the Lady Liberty.

The festivities will take place in New York at Liberty's home on Ellis Island.

The Statue has been welcoming newcomers to America's shores for a century.

History books are filled with stories of immigrants kissing the soil of the U.S. as they came off boats.

Many of the books stray from the usual black-and-white or colored pictures when talking about the immigrants of long ago. The pages will sometimes sport yellow-tinged photos of tired adults, struggling with the meager baggage they brought to their new world.

The children in those pictures have haunting eyes—eyes that tell stories of lost hope in another land, and the anticipation of a good life here.

Liberty has seen them all. She's watched yesterday's immigrants stream into the country, escaping political and religious strife in their own countries.

And, she's watched the immigrants of today enter our nation, hoping for better business and educational opportunities than those available in their homelands.

Perhaps the marble lady does such a good job of welcoming because she was once an immigrant herself. Created in France, the Statue came to the U.S. as a gift.

This year, we fete her. As a birthday gift, Liberty has received a restructured interior and a revitalized exterior.

As a whole the nation will come together, honoring the symbol our diverse population.

We will be reminded that our differences in religions, nationalities and tenets have given us the courage and determination to remain a free land.

Jim's Jottings

Jim Sherman

Personally, I'm happy to see the Lady in New York harbor get so much attention. I've been to New York City just twice in my life, and I remember the Statue of Liberty vividly.

The first visit was during WW II, and I was with an 18-year-old from Queens. He took me by subway down to The Battery and we got on the Staten Island ferry. I think it cost a nickel.

It wasn't a bright day, but Miss Liberty stood there so very tall on her rock, impressing the day-lights out of this teenager. I had some of the same chills I get when the flag passes in a parade or a band plays 'Stars and Stripes Forever.'

Then in 1964 the National Newspaper Association had a convention in NYC at the same time the World's Fair was taking place.

Ah, three birds with one stone. Learn a little, see a fair, and show Hazel and two kids the Statue of Liberty. Son Jim was 10 at the time, Luan 7. Hazel was... young.

We took the same War route. Only this time the Battery was a little scary. It wasn't exactly the Wall Street environment. In fact, the station and neighboring park were littered and dirty, as were some inhabitants.

Nonetheless, the Staten Island ferry made its round trip with nothing but good memories! Miss Liberty was green from the copper sheeting around her, but glorious. We never attempted to go onto the island and climb about. Just viewing her was enough.

The pedestal on which she stands has 11,680 cu. yards of concrete. Her torch arm is 42 feet long and her head 10 feet ear to ear. The American people paid for the base, and, as you know, the statue was a gift from the French.

The Statue has two 168-step stairs to and from the observation deck on her crown. There's an elevator for the non-athletic among the 1,000,000 visitors a year. One other piece of trivia, the broken chain at her feet symbolize freedom from slavery.

Bursting firecrackers has never been my idea of celebrating our country's independence. I just plain hate firecrackers. I probably haven't exploded five in my life, and those at a very early age.

I can oh-h-h and ah-h-h with the best at professionally burst fireworks, as long as they are exploded in a safe place. I so fear fires, I don't want amateurs shooting skyrockets in my neighborhood.

For me the perfect celebration this year of our independence will be watching the unveiling of Miss Liberty on television and raising my own flag to our country. Each done with my own thoughts of what it all means to me.

Happy birthday to our Statue of Liberty.

Letters to the editor

ALL ABOUT TOWN

Building those fires and carrying buckets of coal was an everyday job in the cold weather. (We did have coal by then.)

The room would finally get warmed to allow little hands to practice handwriting. Reading could be started with their coats on. Kids sitting closest to the heat got warmed up first, but by noon it could be too warm.

The situation now reminds me of the heating/cooling problem that modern Pontiac Central High School had last month.

I don't believe that education should go back to those "good old days," but I do wonder about the reading, 'riting, 'rithmetic skills of then and now.

Of course, nobody would think of comparing the school taxes of yesteryears to 1986.

One job I hated was sweeping around those bolted-down desks and seats. There was no blacktopped play area nor nice smooth tile floors.

Lots of dust—using the kitchen-type broom. On spring days, the dirt was considerable by the end of the day.

Carrying out the ashes on a windy day, or through the deep snow to the ash heap, or just on the slippery path could be a hazard, too.

At the Brondige School, I had to go outside to the pump to carry in drinking water and water to wash hands in, along with pails and pails of water to pour into those two chemical toilets.

[See MEMORIES, Page 8]

Proud of motto

I am writing this in response to "Apalling motto" and "Motto not theirs."

I, too, am a member of Clarkston High School's Class of 1986, and I am proud of our motto. You people don't realize the reasons behind the motto.

While in the class of a highly respected and well-liked teacher, we watched a film that included a poor black man talking about violence. He described violence as American as CHERRY pie. We all laughed, realizing that APPLE pie is usually used while comparing America with something.

Most of this teacher's students in his classes during both semesters saw the film. Most of these students, including myself, and many other students thought that what the man said was funny and thought-provoking.

Therefore, we encouraged the idea to make "Violence is as American as Cherry Pie" our class motto so we could look back on it and remember the "good times."

The reason we chose this motto was so we had something that stood out among others, that years from now we can think of it and laugh. We wanted it to be humorous and to be noticed for its humor.

It's really too bad that so many people took our motto the wrong way. I think Clarkston High School's Class of '86 deserves some apologies.

'My question is:'

After reading this week's issue (25 June) of The Clarkston News, I couldn't help but react.

As a Clarkston resident and taxpayer, I resent the fact that I am expected to stand the losses sustained by the schools because of students (or parents) who choose to forego their outstanding obligations.

I also resent it when the schools are told they cannot have policies to try to control such flagrant irresponsibility.

Am I to assume it would be perfectly within a student's rights to not return library materials, textbooks, etc., with no consequences to occur?

It is a nationwide consensus that our schools, in addition to providing academic knowledge, are also expected to nurture our children into becoming responsible citizens.

My question is: "When and where does the responsibility of the educational sector stop and that of the parent begin?"

Carole Hicks

Appalling lesson

What an appalling lesson Dianne Mazur gave her daughter in regard to the "Pay debts before you can register" issue recently at Clarkston High!

She demanded that her right to register was more important than her responsibility to pay her debts of candy sale funds promptly. She claims her individual right comes before the other students' right to an orderly run place of education.

Anyone involved in fund raising is aware how easy it would be to borrow the proceeds and how difficult it can be to replace.

Obviously, the money turned over to the daughter's care by those buying the candy was not intended for private use and should have been available for payment to the school immediately.

It's a shame that there are lawyers available to back such nonsense.

Grace Geisler

Memory revival

Carolyn Walker's articles on Mrs. Ronk's and Mrs. Smith's lives as one-room schoolteachers brought out, to me, that teaching in those schools had not changed much by the 1940s.

I, too, started teaching at a young age after graduation from Clarkston High School in 1939 and attending Michigan State Normal College (now Eastern Michigan University).

The all-inclusive job of being the teacher of all grades, the janitor, the playground supervisor, the everything to kids did not warrant any increase in salary, either.

By the '40s, we might have gotten an even lower salary than received in the '20s but higher than what Mrs. Smith got when she started during World War I.

In 1941, just before Pearl Harbor, over at the Inwood School, my $85 a month was higher than some of my fellow rural teachers, just out of Ypsilanti with a two-year teaching certificate.

'If it Fitz . . .'

Educate, sterilize, or?

Jim Fitzgerald

She is probably the most soft-hearted person I know. She is a sucker for every little kid she sees. She almost cries when she sees a dead dog alongside the freeway.

But she turns vicious on the subject of people having babies they can't afford.

She thinks society should pay some people to not have babies — pay them to be sterilized.

She got the idea from a small-town newspaper publisher who compiled statistics indicating that a paid sterilization program would cost taxpayers a lot less than the welfare programs used to support poor families with dependent children.

The idea is that there are thousands of low-income people who would jump at the chance to earn a quick, say, $2,000 for having a vasectomy or tubes tied.

In the past, several nations have paid couples to have big families, X number of dollars per baby. If that is a civilized function of government when an increase in population is desired, why not use the flip side when there are too many people?

It isn't just the tax money, she says. It's the sight — the knowledge — of so many babies being born to parents who can't afford to feed, shelter and educate them properly.

She aches for these children. She is opposed to abortion. She recognizes the futility of preaching sexual abstinence. She wants those neglected kids to never be conceived in the first place. She insists the cheapest, most humane way to limit the population is to identify the bad-bet parents and make them a cash offer they can't refuse.

For example, she frequently cites the typical unwed, poorly educated, unemployed teenage mother of one child. No way should that young mother have another baby. But too often she does, and another mouth goes on the taxpayers' tab. And that mouth will probably grow up to give birth to more burdens on society, and on and on.

"It would be cheaper for taxpayers to pay that teenager a few thousand dollars to be voluntarily sterilized," my soft-hearted friend says. "And it would be a blessing for the unborn children."

We often argue about it. I make the usual allusions to Hitler. I say the voluntary aspect of paid sterilization would quickly disappear in the name of good citizenship — "take your money, be grateful, and shut up." I say her solution is more terrible than the problem — that no government should have the power to decide who should or shouldn't have a child.

Our latest debate was sparked by that infamous Free

Press photo of a 13-year-old boy and 15-year-old girl who are expecting twins. She said everyone in her bridge club agreed the photo glorified a situation that should be condemned. She quoted the 16-year-old son of a neighbor as saying, "What a man," when he read about the 13-year-old father-to-be.

"We should offer that girl and boy $2,000 each to be sterilized. They would grab the money and run, and it would be the best thing for them and for society," she said.

I said I feel sorry for teenage parents who find it much easier to have babies than find jobs. I said they're usually the victims of ignorant and/or uncaring adults — just as their children will probably become their victims. I said it was the proper function of government to end this awful cycle through education, not sterilization.

I said planned parenthood is certainly one of the educational tools a responsible society should use in fostering moral, sensible, economically viable families. But selective sterilization — paid or not — is not a plan, it's a crime.

She said I was an impractical, bleeding-heart liberal with impossible dreams and a stuffy vocabulary.

We will continue to argue. You are invited to chip in.

... when the hood went 'boom'

Carolyn Walker

The never-ending adventures in the continuing saga of our heroine Carolyn Walker: Installation Four.

The Perfectionist, in all his wisdom, suggested to me two weeks ago that I drive our daughter to the hospital in our old, 1976 Grand Prix.

Said car had been referred to in a previous column as "dependable" and I had devoted an entire half page to its wonders. We kept it when we bought another.

"I don't want you taking the new car down there to the hospital and leaving it in the parking lot overnight," The Perfectionist said.

His request sounded reasonable and so I complied.

Little could I know that the radiator hose was going to explode just to add excitement to my already highly charged nerves that day.

The car was parked and I was tight with tension at the prospect of my daughter's impending surgery when the hood went "boom" and smoke filled the passengers' compartment.

Almost instantaneously we were surrounded by hospital security, a helpful onlooker and a fire truck.

Memories

For a period of years, Andersonville had the chemical ones, too.

At the Inwood School, we didn't even have a sink—just a wash basin and a dipper.

Another thing in rural schools were those county exams for the seventh- and eighth-graders to "pass" to be promoted and to go on to the village schools.

Oakland County had them until the spring of 1933, but at Andersonville Susan Lowrie Smith, Doris Jencks Crosby and her brother Ellis, Simon Studebaker and I were sixth-graders that year and missed them. Our older sisters and brothers had to pass them.

The Village seventh- and eighth-graders did not have to pass them—they didn't even have to take them.

Records will show that the rural students did their country school teachers proud—so many of the Clarkston High School honor students came from the outlying one-room schools attesting to those teachers' abilities under trying conditions.

In the present day, the questions on education are: Will the TEACHERS now pass the tests set up for them—if that control is put into effect by our Legislature?

An ex-teacher,
Iva Sommers Caverly

"I hope this isn't a bad omen," I said to a helpful security officer, resigning myself to a laugh. "The best part is, I have a brand new car at home in the garage."

Thankfully, the exploding radiator hose turned out to be the worst event in my daughter's three-day hospital stay.

Her surgery went off without a hitch; that is until I informed the surgeon that my older daughter had recently been exposed to the chicken pox.

That stoic man, the one whose face exuded concentration, intelligence and professionalism, the one in whose hands my husband and I entrusted our daughter's life, let his guard down for just a moment:

His eyes bugged out.

"She can't come home," he said of the teenager. "Can you imagine what chicken pox would be like under that cast?"

With that final utterance of medical advice, we took the patient home and banished the homesick teenager to a four-week visit with her cousins.

Once home, without the teenager to assist in entertaining the patient, The Perfectionist and I had to devise various methods of keeping her busy.

Of course, we played her favorite recording "The Walk of Life" for her and Ethel, the Cabbage Patch Kid.

In addition, the doting Perfectionist dug around in the basement, found our old, portable black and white television and set it up in her bedroom.

"See if you can find a program she'll like," I suggested, thinking of Sesame Street or Bugs Bunny cartoons.

He tried as only a father could.

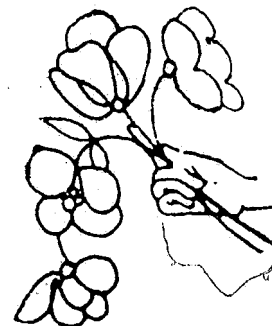

He turned on Motor City Wrestling.

Actually, The Perfectionist was a gem through the whole ordeal. He outshone most men and gave new meaning to the words "loving father."

I'm grateful for him and for all you people out there who helped us through this difficult time. We appreciate you all.

Quest continues for sign removal

Legal action to remove the Village Muffler's lighted sign is the next step planned by the Clarkston Village Council.

The council voted June 23 to have its attorney take legal action to remove the non-conforming sign and have the village pay reasonable compensation for its installation and removal.

They gave owner Gus Voss until June 27 to inform the council of his intentions. Voss had the option of asking the zoning board of appeals (ZBA) for a variance, but opted to do nothing.

"I'm leaving it up to my attorney," said Voss after the meeting. "I have no intentions of going to the ZBA."

"Everybody is behind me in this. There's only seven people who want the sign down. My business has tripled since this," he said. "I'm just trying to run my business. I'm not trying to cause trouble."

His attorney Leo James said he plans to do nothing in response to the village council's request.

"I have a law-abiding citizen who is trying to do everything right, and they're hassling him for it," said James. "I don't think it's up to us to seek a variance now."

When the council first discussed the matter at an April meeting, it was decided the building permit for the sign was issued in error because it constitutes an improvement to a non-conforming use. The muffler shop-gas station occupies property zoned for residential use.

12-year old reports assault by man

A composite drawing of an attempted murder suspect by was distributed throughout northern Oakland County last week by the county sheriff's department.

On June 21, a 12-year old Independence Township boy was reportedly assaulted by a jogger on White Lake Road at Deer Lake Road.

According to the police report, the boy said the jogger dragged him into the woods near the Deer Lake swimming area and choked him until he was unconscious.

No weapon was used and the boy did not sustain any serious injuries, the report said.

The suspect is a dark-skinned white male, possibly Mexican or Indian, 25-30 years old, 6 feet 1, 180-200 pounds with a muscular build. He has two dark, mole-like spots on his face, one on the upper lip and the other on his lower right cheek. The suspect has a high-pitched voice.

The suspect was wearing a black golfer's pullover shirt and black dress slacks.

Any information to assist in the location and identification of this person should be given to the department's detective bureau at 858-4960 or 858-4950 after 4 p.m.

According to Lt. Glenn R. Watson, the department had received no leads as of Monday morning.

Rough riding relief

No more potholes, no more dust and no more bumps are the forecast for three dirt roads in Independence Township.

About seven-tenths of a mile on Evee, Delmas and Sally roads in Bailey's Lakeview subdivision will be paved at the end of June or the beginning of July, said Dennis Pajot, Oakland County Road Commission spokesperson.

The roads are located on the south end of Whipple Lake off of Sashabaw Road. The benefitting property owners will fund 100 percent of the $83,039 paving job by A.V.S. Construction of Auburn Hills.

The Oakland County Road Commission accepted the bid June 11.

-Sheriff's log-

Monday, June 23, numerous vehicles were damaged at Clarkston Motors on Dixie Highway, Independence Township. Windows were broken and cars were scratched.

Tuesday, $150 was stolen from an apartment on Parview Road, Independence Township.

Wednesday, a coin-operated newspaper box was taken at the Hop-In Food Store on Clarkston Road, Independence Township.

Wednesday, 12 to 20 rifles, ammunition and money were stolen from a residence on M-15, Independence Township.

Wednesday, a combination dirt and road bike was stolen from a yard on Hadley Road, Independence Township.

Thursday, an Independence Township man filed a complaint against Pine Knob Theatre about the profanity used by comedian Eddie Murphy, who appeared there that night. The man claimed he could hear Murphy's blue language at his house.

Sunday, June 29, a wheel came off a vehicle at Waterford Hill race track and went through a backyard on Riverview Road, Independence Township. The wheel knocked over a fence.

The above information was compiled from reports at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Lakes developers disgruntled

Several residents and three Landcaster on the Lakes apartment developers left township hall somewhat disgruntled when an Independence Township Planning Commission meeting was canceled Thursday night.

Despite the postponement because of a lack of a quorum, Chairman Neil Wallace said informally that a walking tour of the proposed apartment site two weeks ago was beneficial.

Members of the commission, along with the developers, walked the 49-acre site on June 19 for approximately one hour, Wallace said.

A subcommittee meeting was then held June 23 with the developers, township planner and township attorney, during which several modifications were suggested.

The developers plan to construct 300 apartment units on the site located behind the Randy Hosler Pontiac Dealership.

The parcel had formerly been the proposed location for a K mart shopping center and is now governed by a consent judgment permitting the apartments.

One suggestion made by the commission would decrease the size of the buildings planned for a bluff near residences on Parview Road, Wallace said.

The commission also proposed that those same buildings be moved farther away from existing homes, he said, adding, "In other words, soften the blow."

At the June 12 meeting of the commission, several residents voiced concerns about the development and its proximity to their homes.

Traffic access problems and the number of units were also discussed at the subcommittee meeting, Wallace said.

"The feeling I get from the planning commission is we may grant approval to this plan in some modified form even without the (proposed) Maybee Road access," he said. "We may not. But we may."

The commission plans to propose to the township board that Maybee Road be extended at the traffic signal, across Dixie Highway, to access the proposed apartments and other businesses.

Reeds take over at Ritter's Market

When Ritter's Farm Market opened its doors for business July 1, new owners Gary and Amy Reed were in charge.

And by July 4, some changes including the addition of fresh fish and fresh cut meats will be in place, said Gary Reed.

Ritter's figures into the past as well as the present for the Reeds. Both 1985 graduates of Michigan State University and 1980 graduates of Clarkston High School, they worked at Ritter's during their school days.

"We're both just thoroughly excited, extremely excited," he said. "We want to get the quality produce—and the Ritter tradition is back."

The Reeds purchased the business and they are leasing the building located at 6684 Dixie Highway in Independence Township.

Clarkston teacher layoffs called off

Every teacher who received a layoff notice in April has been recalled by the Clarkston board of education.

"All we have left on the (layoff) list are teachers back from the '79-80 list. There are only about six or seven left and the majority of those are industrial arts positions," said administrative assistant Conrad Bruce.

The notices to previously pink-slipped teachers that they will be employed for the 1986-87 school year were approved unanimously.

Independence resident appointed

David T. Harrison, of Independence Township, has been appointed by Gov. James Blanchard to a four-year term on the state's new Enterprise Zone Authority.

"I'm looking forward to it," said Harrison, president of the First of America Bank, Oakland-Macomb. "I have a degree of anxiety associated with it in that it's going to be a lot of work, but that's OK."

The authority, comprised of Harrison and three others, will examine the economically troubled parts of Michigan to determine solutions to their problems.

Benton Harbor is the only section of Michigan currently designated as economically troubled, said Harrison. The authority will examine Benton Harbor and apply the solutions to any future troubled cities.

"The formative process will be rather time-consuming," he said.

The Enterprise Zone Authority was established when Blanchard signed Senate Bill 95 on Jan. 12, said Harrison, and a similar bill is presently in the federal Legislature.

If passed, the national bill, a part of President Reagan's 1980 campaign platform, could expand Michigan's program, he said.

On June 9, recalls were approved for John Getzan, Michael Kaul, Janice Kirchgessner and Patricia McMillen.

On June 16, recalls were approved for Doris Bonnell and Kari Cook.

Reasons for the recalls included a retirement, the granting of a personal leave to a staff member, the need for more science and mathematics classes at Clarkston Junior High School and an expected increase in kindergarten enrollment.

Kids, don't try this at home

By Chris Gerbasi

Welcome to the first installment of "Embarrass the Sportswriter."

Today's matchup: Professional basketball player and Clarkston native Tim McCormick vs. a professional writer named Gerbasi in a game of three-on-three.

The comparisons are inevitable: Both McCormick, 24, and myself, 23, attended the University of Michigan. The similarities end there.

McCormick is about 6-feet-11. He's just plain tall. I am 6 feet ¼ inch. McCormick plays a 82-game schedule in the NBA with the Seattle Supersonics. I played a two-on-two game in a friend's backyard a few weeks ago and got winded after 10 minutes.

Still, I was boldly optimistic heading into the showdown. I thought if I could just get off a couple outside shots, maybe one would drop and I'd achieve a moral victory.

McCormick was skeptical about the challenge. I sensed he feared me.

"Believe me, I'm not going to show you up," I assured him.

"I'm not worried about that," he said.

The rosters consisted of myself, John Gaulin and Todd Salen against McCormick, Scott Weaver and Jeff Tungate. I matched up with McCormick.

"I'm not saying these guys aren't good players, but you play to the level of competition," said McCormick.

"I don't look at this as a competition between me and you, but as my experience playing against someone like you," I said.

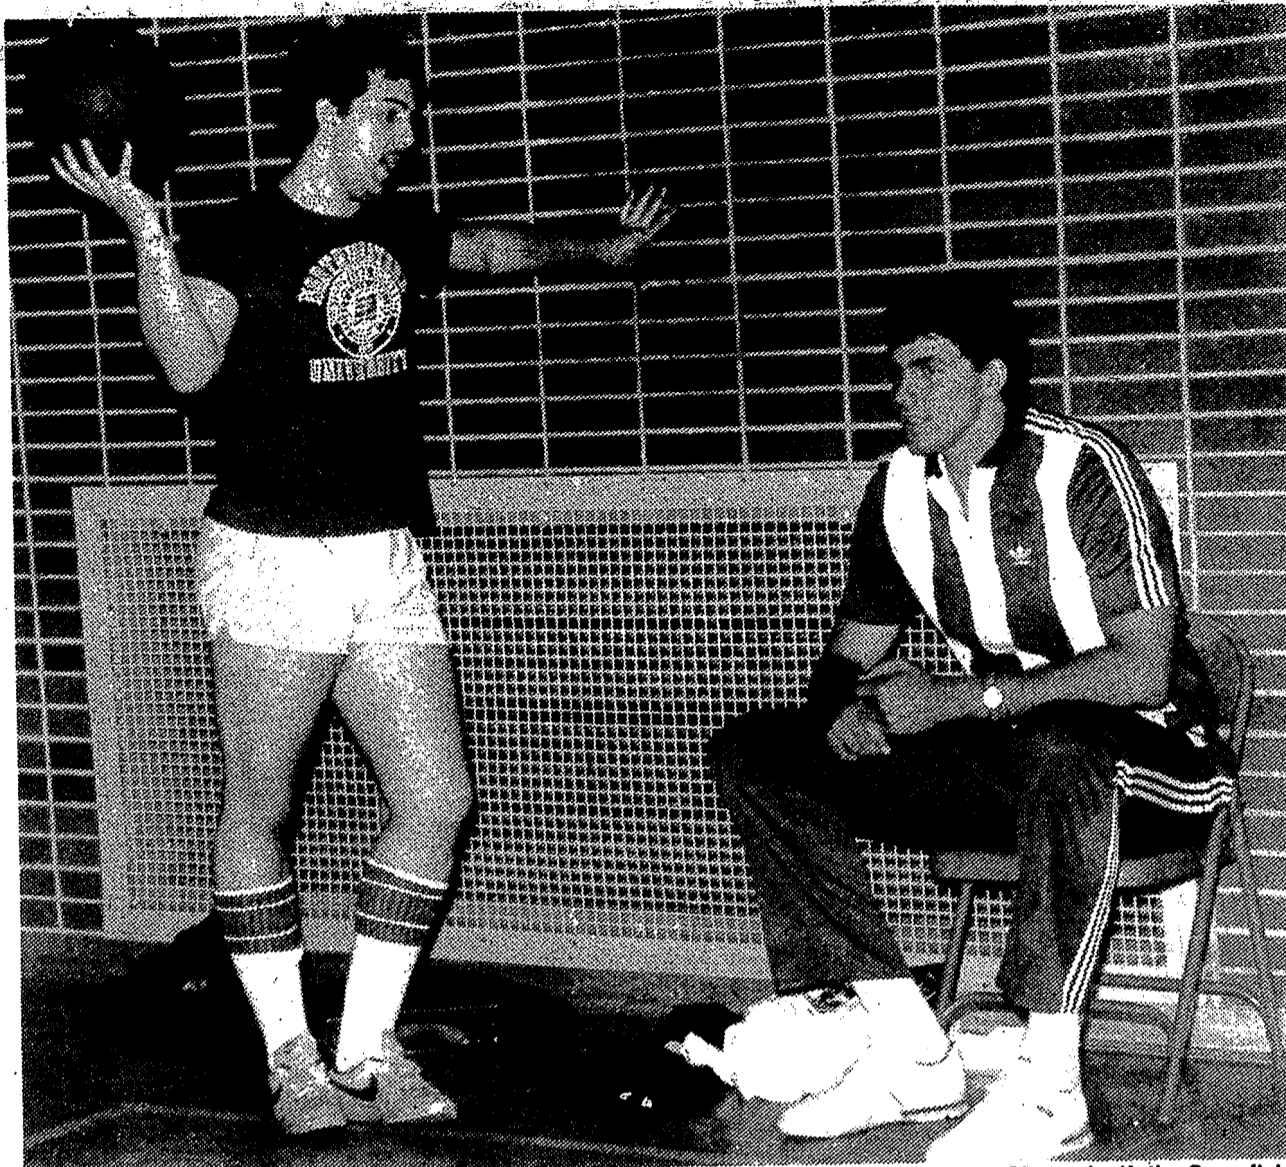

Those seemed to be the magic words because McCormick proceeded to give me a very humbling experience.

His team took the ball out, as if they needed that advantage, and we played if you score it, you keep it.

OK, let's get right to the score: 21-1. We did not win and it is not a misleading score. We actually got the ball a few times.

He took the ball out, faked a shot and I immediately left my feet. One play, one mistake. He let me catch up so I could get a closer look at his slam. "So that's the way it's going to be," I thought. "What am I supposed to do about that?"

The first time I got the ball, I was far into the corner. I figured, OK, McCormick's going to lay off me and I'll throw up a prayer. But here he comes knocking the ball away from me and going in for another of his many dunks.

The only time Gerbasi had a height advantage over McCormick and one of the few times Ger-

The next time we get the ball, I cut to the basket on a give-and-go play. I'm going in for the layup and a hand comes swooping in to swat the ball out of bounds. I knew it was coming. It felt like a bully kicking sand in my face.

McCormick split up his scoring between nonchalant 20-footers and jams. Sometimes it appeared he didn't know which way he wanted to score, but of course, my defense probably confused him.

All my life I've played basketball against people generally my size. My natural instinct is to get down in a defensive crouch. So here I am, giving up a foot and then crouching to give up another foot. When he wasn't scoring, McCormick was firing passes over my head.

Another instinct is to jump to try to block shots. Like I'm going to block his shot. He abused me inside.

basi would get his hands on the ball. Gerbasi should have stayed on the sidelines.

He'd come down the lane and throw an elbow my way, he'd post down low and shove me effortlessly aside, I'd foolishly try to box him out and he'd push me from behind. But that's the way it must be in the NBA. Spud Webb must be a real tough guy.

Gaulin scored our only hoop at about the 10-0 point. I was dazed and confused by then. I was now in a crouch because I was breathing hard and my tongue was hanging out. The only things I saw were McCormick's hand and the ball coming down through the net.

I tried to rush a couple outside shots. McCormick was five feet away, I thought for sure I'd get them off. But each time, I ate leather.

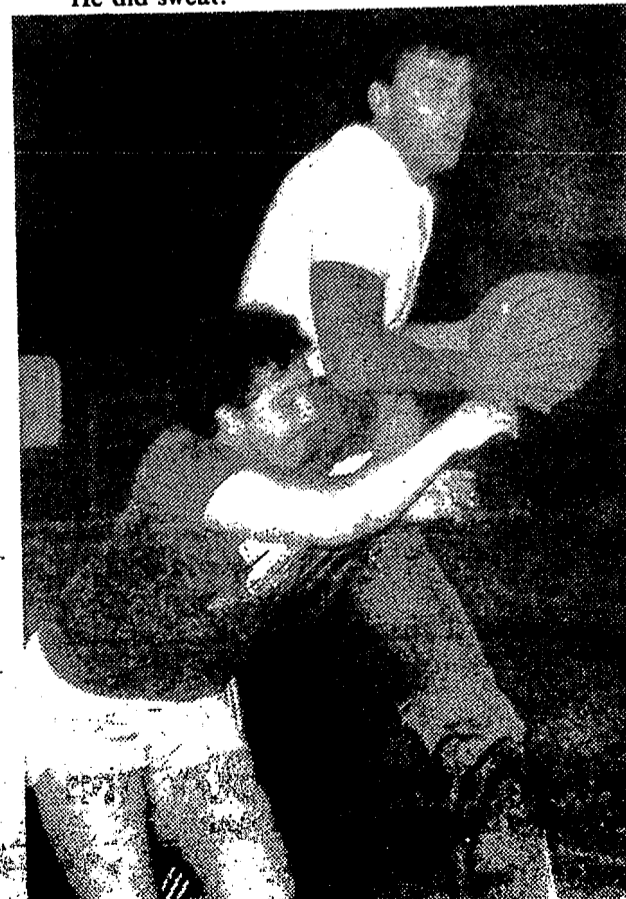

With the score 20-1, McCormick's team needed one more bucket, so he strolled down the lane for the hoop. I signaled for an offensive foul. "They don't call that," he said.

The whole thing lasted about 15 minutes. McCormick called it a "good workout."

He did sweat.

McCormick seems to be asking for help but he certainly didn't need any against Gerbasi right who couldn't do anything to stop him. Final score: 21-1.

Hetherington and Centerfold show skill

By Chris Gerbasl

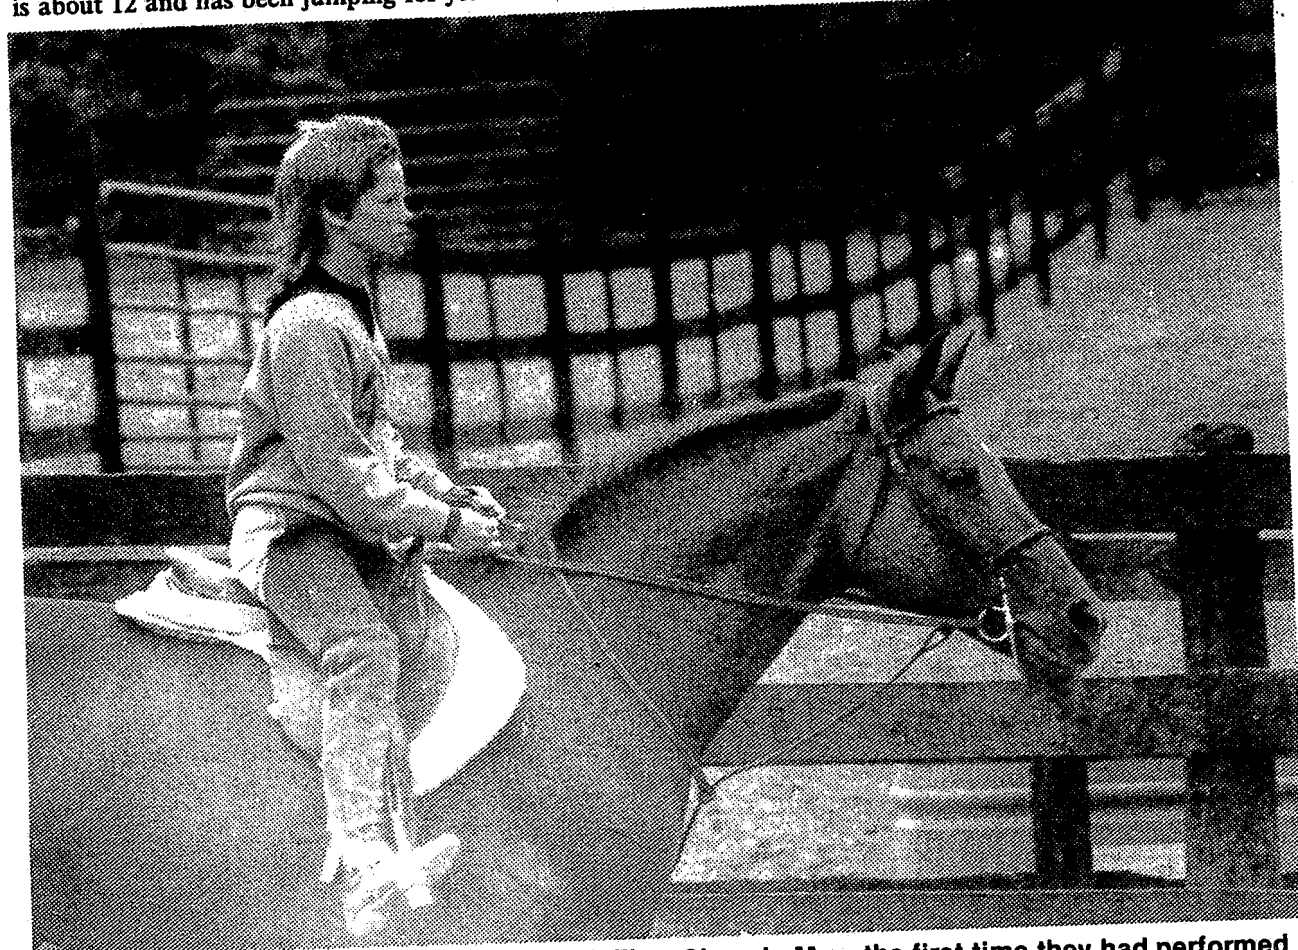

Holly Hetherington and her horse Centerfold must be a perfect match.

They're just about the same age. Hetherington is 13 and has been riding for three years and Centerfold is about 12 and has been jumping for years. That's a lot of good common horse sense.

A good rapport must also be present because in their first riding show together, the duo won two championships.

At the Hadley Hill show in May, Centerfold, with the petite Hetherington aboard, won both the Intermediate Junior Hunter and Low Hunter classes.

Holly Hetherington jaunts around Hadley Hill Farm atop her horse Centerfold. Together they won two championships at the Hadley Horse Show in May, the first time they had performed together.

"I was very happy to win it," said Hetherington, a student at Clarkston Junior High.

Hunter class competitions judge the horses, while equitation classes judge the riders. Centerfold was judged on her jumping and manners while ridden around the course at a walk, trot and canter.

A horse is a horse, of course, of course, but it naturally needs a capable rider.

"If the horse performs well, the rider looks good and vice versa," said Celia Ryker, trainer and teacher at Hadley Hill Farm. "(Holly) places well in both classes."

Hetherington will compete in several more shows this summer and at the end of the season, awards will be given out based on points.

"She did have a bad back leg when we bought her," Hetherington said. "It hasn't affected her, but we're taking it easy and see how it goes."

Hetherington bought Centerfold this year for her birthday and she came well-trained.

"It didn't really take me that long to get used to her," said Hetherington. "She's already been shown at a lot of 'A' circuits (the highest level). My trainer helped us a lot."

She does have occasional problems with Centerfold rearing up and stopping before a jump.

"You see your problems as you go along and work on what you need," she said. "Really you work on everything whether it's a problem or not."

Hetherington started riding at the farm's day camp, which presently attracts about 100 students a week. Now she hopes to someday ride in the Detroit Horse Show, which she attended recently, and beyond.

"She's a hard-working rider and it shows," said Ryker. "She has the drive and that's what it takes."

"It'd be neat to ride in the Olympics and stuff like that," Hetherington said. "I don't know if I would though. You'd have to find the right horse."

She seems to have found the right horse for the time being.

Four Clarkston
Club wrestlers come back from meet with trophies

By Julie LePere

Of the eight Clarkston Wrestling Club grapplers who went to the regional meet in Reynoldsburg, Ohio, last weekend, four came home with trophies.

"We were thrilled," said Carla Endreszl, club treasurer. "I think the boys were pleased with how they did."

Mark Endreszl placed fourth in the 8-and-under 55-pound Bantam Division; Corey Grant placed second in the 9-10-year-old 65-pound Midget Division; Jeff DeRoseau placed first in the 11-12-year-old 65-pound Junior Division; and Ruben DeLosRios placed third in the 12-15-year-old 100-pound Junior Division.

Also attending the meet were Jason and Matt Tiefenback, Brett Walter and Mike DeRoseau.

The Clarkston (Mich.) News Wed., July 2, 1986 19

Some of the wrestling club members were recently selected for Team Michigan, an honorary group that helps pay for the boys to go to regional competition, said Cheryl Walter, club president.

The Team Michigan grapplers are Endreszl, Walter, Jeff DeRoseau, Ruben DeLosRios, Mike DeRoseau and Todd George.

The wrestlers' next meet is the Grand National Tournament in Indianapolis from July 10 to 13.

If it's a major fire or a minor oddity, we want a call at The Clarkston News. 625-3370.

Cruz is 2nd team all-state

Kelly Cruz of Clarkston was named to the second team all-state softball squad selected by the Michigan High School Softball Coaches Association on June 22.

The senior outfielder batted .285 and had a .990 fielding percentage in helping the Wolves to a 23-8 record. She also made all-district and all-region teams.

"I was excited when I found out," said Cruz. "Especially when no one else from Clarkston made it. I was really surprised."

This summer Cruz is playing part-time on an AAU team before she heads to Western Michigan in the fall. Cruz will try to bust into the tough Bronco lineup as a walk-on.

"I think I have as good a chance as anybody else," she said. "Especially now that I made second team all-state. That should be a pretty big plus for me, I hope."

Local men star at wheelchair games

Philip Batchelor and Steve Himburg of Clarkston had outstanding performances at the recent wheelchair games held in Troy.

Batchelor won two gold medals at the 22nd annual competition by placing first in the softball throw and the discus.

He also came in third in the 60-meter dash, 100M dash and 200M dash. Batchelor is part of the Oakland Wheels of Fire team, which won three relay events and finished second in two others at the games.

Himburg raced to five second-place showings in his class, in the 100- and 200-meter dashes and the 400-, 800- and 1500-meter pushes.

Dave DeWulf finds himself in trouble here, but not too much went wrong at The Michigan Amateur two weeks ago. DeWulf advanced to the "Sweet 16" for the first time in his career.

DeWulf swings to sweetest showing ever at Amateur

By Chris Gerbasi

The 75th Michigan Amateur was a sweet tournament for Clarkston's Dave DeWulf.

DeWulf made the final "Sweet 16" before bowing out in the third round of match play two weeks ago. That was the farthest he had advanced in 15 state amateurs.

"It's a pretty difficult thing to do," said DeWulf of his tourney performance. "I've definitely been playing better."

DeWulf, 36, shot 77-74 the first two rounds at Belvedere Golf Club in Charlevoix. The field was cut down to 64 golfers for match play and DeWulf just made the cut in a playoff.

He excelled in match play, though, knocking off two opponents before losing to Steve Maddalena of Jackson by one hole.

"It's (match play) definitely different," DeWulf said. "You're playing by holes and you only play one guy. I try to approach it the same. If you stay around par, you usually win. If you watch the other guy, you just go nuts."

DeWulf plays out of Atlas Valley in Grand Blanc, where the fine group of amateurs are referred to as "The Valley Boys."

"To prepare for a tournament, you should compete every day with excellent players if you're going to get better," he said.

He recently changed his swing to give himself more power on his drives. However, DeWulf did not fare as well at the Michigan Open last week at the difficult Grand Traverse Resort course in Traverse City.

The "Bear" was designed by Jack Nicklaus and the golfers also had to contend with miserable weather conditions.

"It's a pretty awesome course," said DeWulf. "It's the most demanding course I've ever played. It has terraced fairways and well-guarded, tiny little greens. If you hit right, left or short, you're dead."

DeWulf shot 80-86 and still only missed the cut by one shot.

First-place prize money was $10,000 at the Open, but DeWulf has never seriously considered turning pro.

"The amateurs are more fun," he said. "The pros are more serious. It's their business. Everybody's on their own. The amateurs are all pulling for each other and you socialize with everyone."

DeWulf has won the State Publix Medal Play and Match Play titles twice each, the only golfer to do so, but qualifying for the U.S. Amateur has eluded him. Qualifying rounds take place in August.

"I'm going to take care of that this year," he said.

Murphy stops in at the Knob

By Chris Gerbasi

Bob Murphy barely had time to savor his Canadian Open championship Sunday before he was whisked away to Clarkston.

Murphy was in town for an E.F. Hutton golf outing Monday at Pine Knob Golf Course.

"I'm a little tired, truthfully," he said. "And excited, of course."

The win in Oakville, Ontario, was Murphy's first on the PGA tour since 1975 and netted him a $108,000 first prize. His '75 victory brought $52,000.

"It's not our U.S. Open, but it's quite significant," said Murphy, 43. "It's always pleasing to see how the people respond as you're winning over some of the bigger and better names. They were on my side."

Murphy and fellow pro Tom Watson work for E.F. Hutton entertaining executives and clients at golf outings. He visited the home of Clarence and Sharron Catallo in Clarkston.

"It's a good day," said Murphy, who also broadcasts for CBS. "It's essentially a pat on the back to the people that work hard."

"I'm a people person and this kind of stuff is fun," he said. "It's a chance for us to personalize ourselves and show that every golfer isn't 6-2, 180 pounds and can drive the ball 300 yards."

From Clarkston, Murphy went on to Connecticut where he will play in the Hartford Open this weekend. Murphy won at Hartford in 1970 and regularly donates his winnings there to charity.

He will also dine with the Watsons this week, at his expense.

"Back in 1975, we made a deal where if either guy won a tournament, he'd buy the other dinner," said Murphy. "I think I got the better end of that deal. But he can afford it anyway."

Murphy won't mind picking up the check this week.

Bob Murphy is all smiles after his victory in the Canadian Open. The win ended an 11-year drought for Murphy. He was in town Monday for a golf outing at Pine Knob Golf Course.

A crowd of about 40 listens as Bob Waters speaks about Howard Huttenlocher. Virginia

Walter also spoke. The group gathered in the village Depot Road park on Monday to dedicate a red maple tree planted in honor of Huttenlocher's more than 50 years of service to the community. His years of involvement include serving as president of the village council and chairman of the zoning board of appeals.

Village honors Huttenlocher

James Schultz opens the ceremony by reading the plaque placed in the ground next to the tree. After the speeches, Huttenlocher said,

"Thank you, Tree. I hope you grow with Clarkston and keep it as nice as it is now... I hope this tree means a lot to Clarkston."

Laura Barnett, 2, gives Howard's wife, Dorothy, a hug. She's a neighbor of the Huttenlochers and came with her family watch the dedication.

What is chance of seeing drugs at school?

Dear Cat Paw:
What's the difference between drug abuse and use?

Don't Understand

Dear Don't Understand:
Drug abuse means the use of any drug to the point that it damages the user's health, job, education, personal relationships, judgment or ability to cope with daily life.

Drug use is anything short of that, but the definition should not be understood to imply approval.

Dear Cat Paw:
What are the chances of my child being exposed to drugs at school?

Concerned Mom

Dear Mom:
Chances for exposure to drug use range from excellent to almost certain. Ninety-three percent of all children experiment with drugs and/or use drugs on a regular basis.

You have a right to be concerned. I only wish more people were concerned.

Dear Cat Paw:
A friend of mine just got out of a treatment center for alcoholism. Now he drinks only a beer or so a night. This is OK, isn't it?

Drinking Friend

Dear Friend:
No! Abstinence is the only solution if you are an alcoholic. If you drink lightly, sooner or later you'll get drunk again.

Acceptance is the beginning of recovery. The person has to accept the idea that he has the disease of alcoholism and needs to change in order to recover and control it.

AA would be a big help to your friend.

Dear Cat Paw:
I'm pregnant and use cocaine. Is this a danger to my baby?

Dear ???:
Infants are born with all symptoms of drug withdrawal—vomiting, diarrhea, jitteriness and irritability. These symptoms frequently last for months after birth.

Neurological damage with learning disabilities, speech disorders and difficulty with motor control have all been reported as long-term effects of cocaine exposure.

A number of children have shown significant birth defects after such exposure. Please stop using cocaine and protect your baby.

Dear Cat Paw:
Isn't it true that people who use drugs only hurt themselves? So I say, leave them alone and let them kill themselves.

No Use for Them

Dear No Use:
Sometimes they do hurt themselves, but they also hurt their families, friends, employers, strangers on the highway and you.

Why do you think so many people are finally doing something to combat drug abuse?

Send letters to Cat Paw in care of The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main, Clarkston, MI 48016.

Cat Paw author Jeanette Sanders, a Springfield Township resident, is a state certified substance abuse counselor and a member of the Chemical People of Clarkston.

Peek into the past at Wisner House

Tours of the Gov. Moses Wisner Historic House and grounds are available this summer during July and August.

The buildings and grounds of the 1840s Greek revival home with most furnishings original to the house will be open for drop-in visits the third Sunday of each month and Tuesdays through Fridays.

Tours begin at 1 and 2:30 p.m. Admission is $2 for adults and $1 for children and senior citizens.

Also open for viewing will be the restored summer kitchen, carriage house with old-fashioned office and farm museum, Drayton Plains Schoolhouse, restored root cellar and smokehouse.

The Wisner house and grounds, located at 405

Oakland Ave. in Pontiac, are operated by the Oakland County Pioneer and Historical Society.

Group tours are also available by reservation; phone 338-6732.

Powells get together

The Powell reunion was held Saturday, June 28, at Clintonwood Park with 39 attending.

Out of town relatives were from Houston, Texas; Bloomington, Ill.; Riverside, Calif.; and Glendale, Ky.

Westley-Wedge

Robert and Susan Westley of Crosswell announce the engagement of their daughter Diana Lynn to Sgt. Wayne M. Wedge. A 1978 graduate of Clarkston High School, he is the son of Clifford and Marian Wedge of Susin Lane, Springfield Township. He has served with the United States Army since 1980. A July wedding is planned.

In service

Christopher Miller has received the silver wings of an Army aviator and was appointed warrant officer upon completion of the rotary wing aviator course at the United States Army Aviation School, Fort Rucker, Ala.

Miller is the son of Barbara Alonzo and Steven Alonzo, both of Pontiac. His wife, Jeannine, is the daughter of Maurice Runyan of East Washington Street, Clarkston.

Spec. 4 Vern Campbell has arrived for duty with the 1st Cavalry Division, Fort Hood, Texas. Campbell is a wheeled-vehicle mechanic.

His parents are Robert and Dolores Campbell of Maybee Road, Independence Township.

Michelle Strobehn has been appointed a sergeant in the United States Air Force.

She is a weather specialist at Wurtsmith Air Force Base, Mich., with the 26th Weather Squadron.

Her parents are Fred and Marlene Strobehn of Haylock Road, Springfield Township.

Hummer-Petterson

Connie and Duane Hummer of Waterford Township announce the engagement of their daughter Karen to Mark Petterson, the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Karaba of Almond Lane, Independence Township. The bride-to-be graduated from Clarkston High School in 1985. She is employed by Art Van Furniture. Her fiancé, a 1982 graduate of CHS, is employed by Allied Construction. An October wedding is planned.

Criger, Bork exchange their vows

Cynthia Lynn Criger and Michael David Bork were united in marriage May 31 at the Clarkston United Methodist Church.

The Rev. Douglas Trebilcock and the Rev. Pat McBride performed the afternoon ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wellington Criger of Waldon Road, Independence Township. A graduate of Clarkston High School and Wayne State University, she is a registered nurse. She was employed by Henry Ford Hospital.

The bridegroom's parents are Mary Ellen Bork of Dearborn Heights and Melbourne Bork of Warren. A graduate of Wayne State University and University of Health Sciences of Kansas City, Mo., he is a physician on staff at Tripler Army Medical Center in Hawaii.

The bride wore a French lace gown with a pearl applique bodice. She carried a bouquet fashioned by Charlayne Conway, a friend from Ohio.

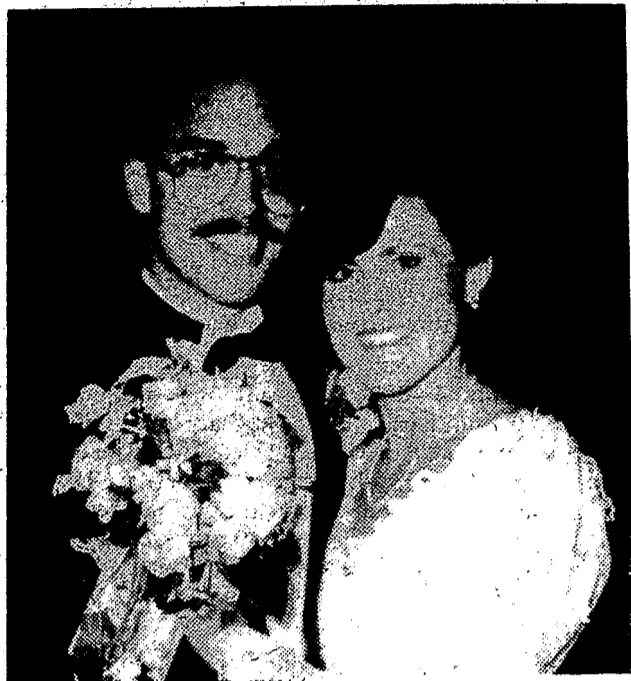

Maid of honor was Flavia Shepherd of Bangor, Maine. Bridesmaids were Joanne Lane of Detroit and Susan Wojcik of Rochester. They wore tea-length antique lace gowns with satin sashes.

Lynn Johnston provided the piano prelude and processional.

Flower girls Casey Eibergen of North Branch and Melanie Samulski of Mt. Clemens wore white taffeta dresses with pink satin sashes.

Best man was Michael Samulski. Groomsmen were the bridegroom's brothers David and Gary Bork. Stephen Criger served as usher.

The wedding reception was held at Mitch's II in

Newlyweds: Cynthia and Michael Bork

Waterford.

The couple took their wedding trip to the Homestead in Glen Arbor. They are residing in Kailua, Hawaii.

Hamlett-Tuttle

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hamlett of Cedar Loop, Independence Township, announce the engagement of their daughter Marina to Donald O.S. Tuttle, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald O. Tuttle of Waterford.

The bride-elect graduated from Clarkston High School in 1983. She is employed by Jerome and Company. Her fiancé graduated from Waterford Mott High School in 1982 and attends Michigan Technological University. He is employed by General Motors.

An August wedding is planned.

The way they were

Joan and Sylvester Bachor, pictured here on July 1, 1961, celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary by renewing their vows at St. Daniel Catholic Church, Clarkston, on June 28. They were married at St. Mary Magdalen Church in Hazel Park. The Bachors moved to their Independence Township home on Stickney Road in 1978. They have three children: Paul is in the Navy, Phillip is in the Marines and Pamela resides in Clarkston.

Grads

Lisa Dawne George has graduated from Wheaton College, Wheaton, Ill., with a bachelor's degree in psychology.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon George of Independence Township.

Kathryn Niaz Nichols has graduated from the University of Detroit Law School with a Juris Doctorate degree.

While attending U of D, Nichols was a member of the Delta Theta Phi Law Fraternity and executive director of the 1986 Moot Court Board.

A Huntington Woods resident, she is the daughter of Richard and Deanna Niaz of Bridge Lake Road, Springfield Township.

John Flack has graduated with a bachelor's degree in mathematics from Carleton College, Northfield, Minn.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Flack of Weidemann Road, Brandon Township.

St. Charles-Alumbaugh

Mr. and Mrs. Michael St. Charles of Whipple Shores Drive, Independence Township, announce the engagement of their daughter Theresa Marie to Adam Earl Alumbaugh, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Earl Alumbaugh of Independence Township. The bride-to-be is a 1983 graduate of Clarkston High School and a 1985 graduate of Crockett School of Nursing, Detroit. She is employed at West Bloomfield Geriatric Village as a nursing supervisor. Her fiancé, a 1979 graduate of Clarkston High School, is employed as a design draftsman at Machine Engineering, Clarkston. A mid-summer wedding is planned at St. Anne Catholic Church, Ortonville.

The final four shine in Glover's Jeopardy

By Julie LePere

Who is William Perry? Where is Tanzania? What is the cereal capitol of the world?

Barb Glover's sixth-grade class knows these answers and more.

Since January, students in Glover's class have been playing their own version of Jeopardy, the television game show.

Finally, after a whole semester of challenging each other, the final four contestants battled for the championship.

To advance to each stage of the competition, the students had to win three contests in a row.

"But this year, the class as a whole was so good, it took almost the whole semester," said Glover.

Charles Grech, Derek Bildstein, David Studt and Jenna Smith were the final four, with Smith emerging as the winner of the 12th annual contest.

They answered questions in categories such as sports, name that continent, Michigan and poetry.

"It's just a way of using your mind," said Glover, "... and it's a review of the work we've done throughout the year."

ed the winner of the end-of-the-year event and Derek finished just 20 points behind Smith while the entire class and the principal looked on.

Your mail can go on vacation, too

Don't skip arrangements for the care of your mail when you plan your travels.

Mail can be held at your local post office or forwarded to your destination if you plan an extended trip.

"Before you pack up and leave for vacation, contact us and ask us to hold your mail, or arrange for us to have your mail held for a specified time, then held again while you're en route home," said Clarkston Postmaster William O. Kinsley II.

Mail can be held for up to 30 days. Travelers can arrange for first-class mail to follow them for up to 18 months, 60 days for second-class publications and 12 months for third- and fourth-class items. Except for fourth-class parcels, there is no charge for forwarding.

Such arrangements can be made by filling out a Change of Address Order, Form 3575, which includes beginning and ending dates. The form is available at the post office.

Clarkston grad speaks at commencement

By Julie LePere

While many college and high school graduates are preparing for their careers, one college graduate believes that education is more than just job preparation.

Rather, it is a foundation for knowledge yet to be attained, he says.

Mark Reese received his University of Michigan-Flint diploma on May 1 and also gave the student address to the senior class.

In his speech, he spoke of diversifying educational experiences and objectives, participating in the community and continuing to seek new challenges.

"The quest for knowledge should have no formal starting or stopping points," he said in his address. "It must be continuous. If we quit learning, we, as human beings, in effect, become obsolete."

"... We too often take for granted the rights and privileges we possess as citizens of the United States."

"There is a man in Poland who committed the crime of organizing workers in the hope of receiving reasonable wages and of attaining some degree of control over their lives. Lech Walesa spent eleven months in detention because of this in 1982."

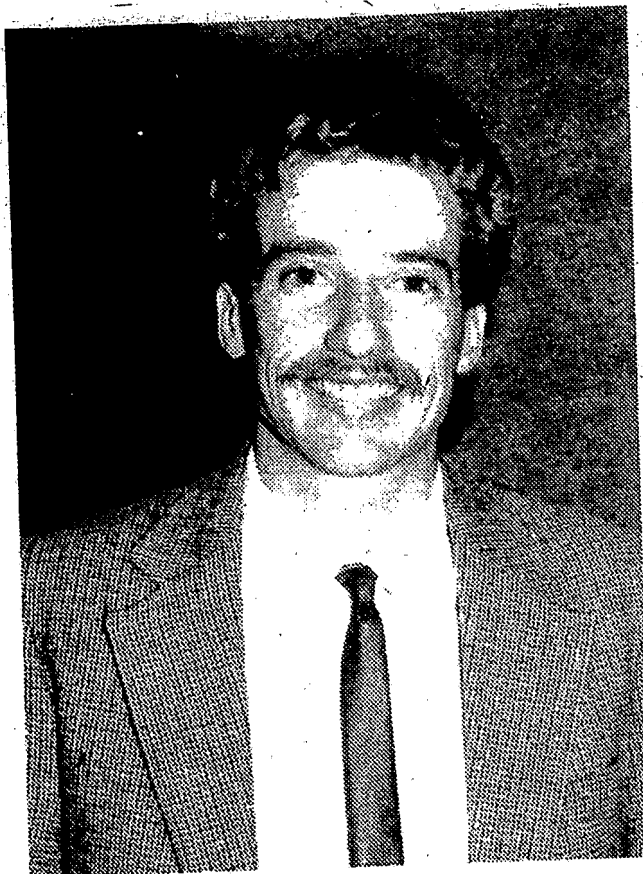

"... (He) was working to obtain rights and privileges and ways of life that we take for granted."

"Failure to exercise our rights by participating in decisions made by our communities, state, and nation is not only terribly irresponsible—it insults those who live in other parts of the world and are sacrificing and struggling toward the dream of attaining such rights, privileges and ways of life."

"Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. once said: 'Human progress is neither automatic nor inevitable.' ... This is no time for apathy or complacency. This is a time for vigorous and positive action."

"In conclusion, I would like to say there is never a time for apathy. ... I ask you now to search for new challenges and do not be afraid to take risks."

"I hope all our lives are touched by many more

U of M-Flint Maize and Blue Scholar Mark Reese spoke at his graduation ceremony. The 1981 CHS graduate resides in Independence Township with his parents Don and Bonnie Reese.

successes and you are able to live in a manner that makes talk of apathy a mere echo of times long since past."

A member of Phi Sigma Iota, the foreign language honor society, and Beta Gamma Sigma, the business fraternity, Reese graduated with high distinction, receiving the Academic Achievement Award in business and the Maize and Blue Award for distinguished scholarship.

He is planning a return trip to Europe this summer, where he studied for four months as part of his honors curriculum. He's also considering his future.

"I hope to be involved in politics in some way and hopefully will be able to use the few skills I have acquired to make some difference," he said after graduation. "I hope I will always care about what's happening."

"I saw in our last election we had 6 percent voter turnout. I don't think people appreciate the rights they have. ..."

"People aren't even involved in their communities anymore. They just expect the other guy to take care of everything. They try to live in a vacuum. They isolate themselves from everybody."

"Complainers are a dime a dozen, but people who actually do something are few and far between."

While in Europe, Reese got a chance to visit East Germany.

"I went to Berlin, and I saw the communist part. The main thing was the Berlin Wall. There are monuments to people who died trying to get across. ... And here we are in this system where people have so many rights and don't use them."

"When I was in Germany, I had a chance to go to Dachau, the concentration camp. ... That was just a tremendously moving experience."

"We're so used to having everything given to us. I get a little bothered by that."

Reese finds inspiration from several individuals, such as Martin Luther King Jr.

"I think he's an excellent model for people to try and follow," he said.

When people complain that their vote or participation doesn't matter, he points to King.

"He's a good example of what one man can do," he said.

Reese can't wait to see what he can do.

Kids love St. Daniel's Summerfest

Brett Quantz, 5, watches the ferris wheel while he rides the merry-go-round. His brother Troy, 1, and his mother, not pictured, also rode with him at the carnival last weekend.

Marc Wisniewski, 6, [left] and his brother Tommy, 4, try out the motorcycles Sunday at St. Daniel's Summerfest. The boys live in Independence Township.

The cars attract lots of little drivers, and Christopher Berg, 2, concentrates on developing his skills.

OFFICIAL NOTICE VILLAGE OF CLARKSTON

MINUTES OF REGULAR MEETING

June 23, 1986, 375 Depot Road, Clarkston, Michigan 48016.

Before the Council meeting the Village residents, Council members, ZBA members, Planning Commission Members, old members of the Council and friends met in the Village Park for a dedication ceremony in honor of Howard Huttenlocher for his over fifty years of Service and dedication to the Village of Clarkston. James Schultz made the dedication of a red maple tree for Howard and Robert Waters. Virginia Walter made some nice comments about the work Howard Huttenlocher had done for the Village of Clarkston.

Meeting called to order by President Catallo at 7:35 p.m. followed by the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag.

Roll: Present — Schultz, Roeser, Millard, Haven, Basinger and Catallo. Absent — ApMadoc.

Minutes of last meeting were approved.

The agenda was added to and approved.

Basinger made a motion to authorize the Village attorney to institute legal action against Village Muffler to remove the non-conforming sign on Clarkston-Orion Road, if no application to the ZBA is received by Friday the 27th of June, offering in the suit to pay the reasonable cost of installation and removal. Seconded by Millard. Motion carried.

Basinger asked the attorney to write a letter to Ed Adler about the broken dam and high water, and the concerns of residents who live on the Mill Pond, to find out when the dam will be fixed.

Basinger made a motion to deny Mr. Sutton's request to bring the sewer line to Mr. Sutton's property from the main sewer line on Depot Road. Seconded by Haven. Motion carried.

Basinger made a motion to accept the Tri-Party agreement except for paragraph five to read as follows: "The Village will perform the work as required and perform all construction, engineering, administration, maintenance and traffic engineering required in conjunction with the project." Seconded by Millard. Motion carried.

Motion by Schultz to allow the Fire Fighters Association request to use the park, August 30th to Sept. 2nd. Seconded by Roeser. Motion carried.

Motion to adjourn at 8:37 P.M. by Schultz. Seconded by Roeser. Motion carried.

signed,
Norma Goyette
Village Clerk

Associate pastor joins Methodist church staff

An associate pastor is expected to join the staff at Clarkston United Methodist Church this month.

The Rev. Carole Ann Massey was appointed on June 16 by Bishop Judith Craig of the Detroit Conference of the United Methodist Church in consultation with the Clarkston United Methodist Church.

Rev. Carole Massey he said.

In the full-time post, she joins the Rev. Douglas Trebilcock, pastor, and assistant pastor Jon Clapp, whose position is part time.

"She's just a terrific person, has had a lot of life experience as well as academic experience; she was a teacher for almost 20 years," Trebilcock said. "I'm very pleased."

The church's growing congregation, which numbers 1,100, was a major factor in the decision to expand the staff,

"We just sense a great need for caring for people more, in particular youth," Trebilcock said.

Massey's primary area will be youth ministry and she will assist with calling on parishioners and with counseling, he said.

In May, she received a master of divinity degree from United Seminary in Dayton, Ohio. She is a 1960 graduate of Allen Park High School, a 1964 graduate of Eastern Michigan University with a bachelor's degree and a 1984 graduate of Michigan State University with a master's degree.

She has taught for the last 18 years in the Farmington Hills school system in secondary education.

The ordained ministry is a second career. She was ordained a deacon in the United Methodist Church in 1985.

She has been serving for the past two years as the student associate pastor in the Centerville Ohio United Methodist Church.

Massey will live in the home on M-15 given to the church by Judge William Stamp.

She plans to preach her first sermon at the Clarkston United Methodist Church on Sunday, July 13. Following the service, a reception will be held in her honor.

Sweet Adeline singers sought

New members are wanted by the Oakland Shores Chapter of Sweet Adelines, an organization for women who sing in the barbershop style.

Current membership is 45, and the group recently placed in the top 10 at the regional competition in Saginaw.

Performances throughout the year include community functions and private gatherings.

Summer practice sessions are held Tuesdays at 7:30 p.m. at the Pontiac Elks Club on Orchard Lake Road off Wide Track Drive.

For more information, call Hilda Butler at 682-8450, Donna Brichta at 887-6038, Judy Johnson at 887-0164 or Mary Ellen Burnsworth at 682-9091.

Incredible edibles

Fire up the grill

A recipe perfect for a summertime cookout was submitted to the Clarkston Community Women's Club cookbook "Incredible Edibles" by Cricket Bishop of Clarkston.

CHICKEN KABOBS

2 whole chicken breasts, halved, boned, skinned, cut into 1 inch pieces
 1/4 cup cooking oil
 Juice of 1 lemon
 6 cloves garlic, crushed
 1 teaspoon salt
 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
 1/4 teaspoon allspice
 1/4 teaspoon pepper
 1 pound mushrooms
 2 green peppers
 Cherry tomatoes

In bowl, mix together oil, lemon juice, garlic, salt, nutmeg, allspice and pepper. Add chicken; marinate 2 to 3 hours.

Remove chicken from marinade, reserving marinade. On skewers, arrange pieces of chicken, mushrooms, green pepper and cherry tomatoes.

Place skewers on grill. Baste with marinade and grill about 10 minutes. Serve with wild rice. Serves 4.

The Clarkston Community Women's Club uses proceeds from "Incredible Edibles" cookbook sales for community service projects.

The $6 cookbooks are sold at the Independence Township Library, Village Bookstore, Carol's Village Grill, Gayanne's Floral Concept and Pontiac State Bank's downtown Clarkston branch.

She enjoys her work at TV 50

Czeizler—a natural reporter

By Chris Gerbasl

Shelley Czeizler would be considered a "good interview."

In front of the Channel 50 news cameras, she has perhaps two minutes to tell her story. But when on the receiving end of questions, Czeizler enjoys the freedom of an interview without time constraints.

"I'm a natural reporter, I like to communicate," she said in a throaty voice made deeper by a cold. "People have told me I sound like Ernest Borgnine."

But she looks a lot better than Ernie. And she smells good. And although every hair is in place, Czeizler doesn't have any major problems with the TV news reporter stereotype.

"People think reporters care what they look like more than about the story, which isn't true," she said. "People you work with joke around and say, 'You can't go out with your hair like that' or 'Your purse doesn't match your shoes.'"

Shelley Czeizler is a general assignment reporter for the Channel 50 news. An Oakland University grad, Czeizler resides in Clarkston and "likes to communicate."

"I'll go out on a story and guys will call me 'Baby' or 'Sweetheart,'" she said. "You have to take it with a grain of salt. The people that take you seriously are the people that count. If an auto executive calls me 'Baby,' I'm not going to kick him in the shins."

Czeizler is one of three reporters at WKBD and she covers everything from business to crime to medical stories. She's been at Channel 50 for eight months after three years at Channel 56 and stints in Saginaw and Toledo.

"It's very hard to get a job," said Czeizler, who resides in Clarkston. "There's only X amount of spots for a white female. It's harder for women because of the limited spaces."

But Czeizler has found a spot in Detroit and would not mind working in Michigan the rest of her life. She was born in Pontiac, grew up in Bloomfield Hills and went to school at Oakland University.

Until her final year at OU, she thought she wanted to be an English teacher. Then she realized she had no education credits and would have to attend school an extra year. So she changed her major.

"I fell into this by accident," Czeizler said. "They asked me if I wanted to go into TV or radio. I thought TV would be better. 'News or programming?' 'I think I'll be a reporter.'"

Czeizler has covered her share of important stories (such as the Republican Convention), "Mickey Mouse" stories and emotional stories. She reported on Kenneth Ford, the Marine killed in a Berlin bombing.

"I'm damn tired of people saying reporters thrive on people's grief and that we like doing these stories," she said. "I was leaving (the Ford's) house and I shook hands with his brother. And I just couldn't say anything. I started crying."

"Some stories affect us very deeply," Czeizler said. "The stories that the public think we like to do best, we like to do least. I can only see so many babies burn in fires and so many kids shot for their leather jacket."

Czeizler is happy at 50 and pleased with the news program.

"We put out one helluva good product," she said.

She commutes to the Southfield offices from Clarkston, a community she calls a "throwback to a time that doesn't exist anymore."

"I love it here. I should work for the Chamber of Commerce," she said.

Perhaps only a network job could lure her away from Michigan. Or skiing.

"If I don't get a job in Detroit, I'll move to Denver, become a waitress and write books, because I love to ski," she said.

RAISING HIGH THE BANNER: Buck Kopietz places the Concerts in the Park banner on the pole at Washington and Main streets in Clarkston. The first concert is 'Infatuation' Friday, July 4, at 7 p.m. in the village's Depot Road park.

Her classroom's a joy

by Ann Moller

An Apple for the Teacher

The excitement and enthusiasm she holds toward teaching is evident when you walk into Joy McCurdy's fourth-grade classroom at Pine Knob Elementary.

Brightly decorated bulletin boards, mobiles hanging from the ceiling and children quietly engrossed in group work give you the feeling: Learning is fun in this room.

Joy's degree from Wayne State University, Detroit, helped prepare her for teaching, but her understanding of child development came when she entered the teaching field as a relief teacher. She taught one hour a day in kindergarten through sixth grade.

Since coming to Clarkston in 1953, she has taught fourth, fifth and sixth grades.

Social studies has always held a particular interest for Joy. She enjoys traveling through Michigan gathering items of interest to enhance her teaching of Michigan history.

Each year her students prepare an elaborate Michigan notebook that often is kept into adulthood, a fact that her former student George White, principal at Pine Knob Elementary, can attest to.

To culminate Joy's Michigan studies, the class visits the capitol in Lansing. Here Joy can find another former student, Paula Blanchard, the wife of Gov. James Blanchard.

Joy is a member of the district's social studies curriculum committee, the marketing committee and the selection committee for the gifted program. She is also a member of Alpha Delta Kappa.

When Joy is not busy with school work, she enjoys gardening, decorating her home, making lace ornaments and baking.

She and her husband Gene, also a Clarkston teacher, live in Waterford. They have two children, Cathy and David. Cathy is teaching in Rochester and David is pursuing a career in the skilled trades.

Bulletin boards, mobiles and children quietly engrossed in group work give you the feeling: Learning is fun in this room.

An Apple for the Teacher is provided through a committee of the Clarkston Education Association. This week's author is Ann Moller, a third-grade teacher at Pine Knob Elementary School.

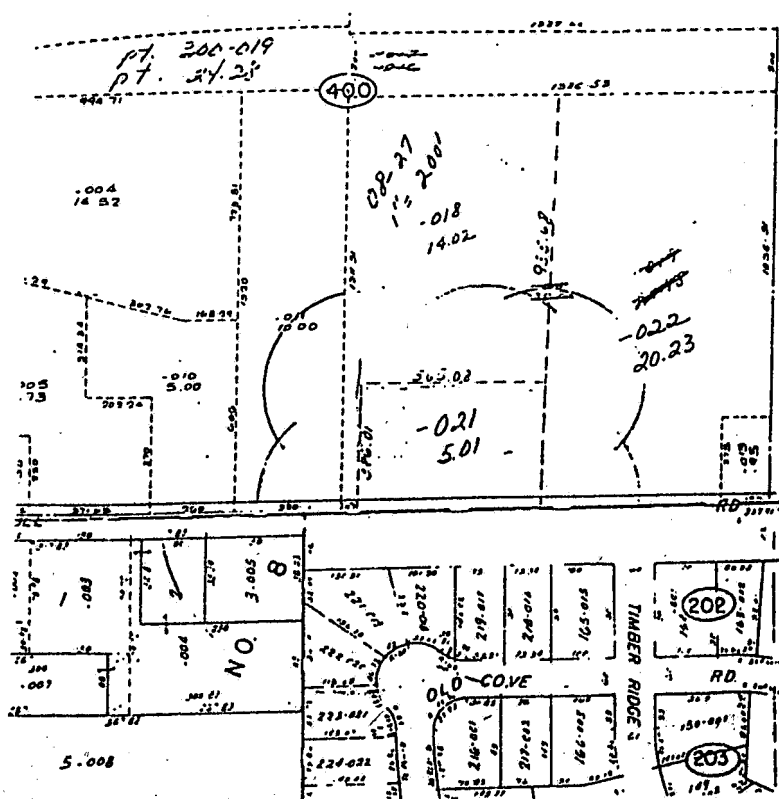

OFFICIAL NOTICE CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF INDEPENDENCE NOTICE OF PROPOSED ZONING ORDINANCE AMENDMENT

At a regular meeting held on May 6, 1986 the Township Board of the Charter Township of Independence approved an amendment to the Township Zoning Ordinance #83, as follows:

To change from C2 (Planned Shopping Center Zone) to R1R (Rural Residential Zone) a parcel located in Section 27 and described as follows: 08-27-400-021.

The proposed zoning ordinance amendment will be voted on July 15, 1986 at the Township Hall Annex; 90 North Main Street, Clarkston, Michigan. A complete copy of the proposed rezoning is available at the Clerk's Office, 90 North Main Street, Clarkston, Michigan, Monday through Friday, from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

Respectfully Submitted,
Township Clerk

The rest of us

Michelle Blomberg

Do you enjoy the task of losing weight? I certainly don't. Especially during this time of year.

For some people, summer is the season of activity. They run, swim, bicycle, play tennis or busy themselves with lots of other kinds of summer activities.

These people are always either working off fat by exercising, or else they're just too busy to eat. These are the slim-perfect-body people.

Then there are the rest of us. People who hate their bodies, want to lose weight, but don't have the ambition to do so.

Now that school is out, I sometimes find myself becoming bored. Instead of doing something healthy to cure my boredom, what do I do? I head for the fridge.

Even though I know I need to lose weight, I go easy on myself and let myself eat. It doesn't even bother me. It's terrible.

The very first week of summer I had an athletic inspiration. A few friends of mine and myself talked about getting together and running every day.

We thought we could run at least a mile a day for starters.

Since one of my friends and I are beginners at running, this group effort seemed helpful in getting us started. We were both very excited about the whole plan.

Now, three weeks later, have we started running? Of course not. We haven't even discussed a possible date when all of us could get together. That idea will probably never get off the ground.

Another idea I had was to ride my bike two miles every day. Ha! That plan lasted only the first two days of vacation. I'll probably start up again, but who knows when?

Dieting is one technique I find very hard to do. I love eating. That's all there is to it. I eat when I want and how much I want.

At the end of the day, I look back on what I've eaten. If I haven't eaten much—good! I give myself a pat on the back.

But if I've eaten a lot, I just say, "Oh well," and pray that the results won't be found in all the wrong places.

SCAMP sets mark

A record $9,400 resulted from the Fourth Annual Clarkston SCAMP Home Tour last weekend.

"We had the biggest and the best ever," said Donna Kolisnyk, tour coordinator. "We're all just delighted."

The walking tour, taken by 286 people, included five homes and a garden in Clarkston.

"They loved the addition of the garden, and they liked the refreshments," she said.

The Clarkston Cafe and Roma Catering provided the food. Floral arrangements at each location were donated by Flower Adventure, Willow Pointe, Bordine's Florist, Country Greens, Keepsake Flowers and Gayanne's Floral Concept.

Violinist Vickie Geyer, a Clarkston High School student, played in the Basinger gazebo, setting the mood for the candlelight garden tour.

The proceeds will go to Clarkston SCAMP, a five-week summer camp program for handicapped children and youth from the northern Oakland County area.

Grant helps SCAMP

A $4,500 one-time-only grant from the Community Foundation for Southeastern Michigan has been received by the North Oakland SCAMP Funding Corp.

The grant will help provide a five-week summer day camp for physically and multiply impaired children and youth enrolled in the Clarkston SCAMP program.

SCAMP provides recreational and academic activities for 200 children and youth between the ages of 3 and 26.

Springfield day camp

Boys and girls ages 7-12 are eligible to join the summer day camp set up by Springfield Township at the Mill Pond Park in Davisburg.

The camp includes recreational and sport activities, arts and crafts, nature study and nature hikes, swimming, guest speakers and possible field trips.

The children will meet from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. each day for three weeks. The first session is from July 7 to July 25 and the second is July 28 to Aug. 15.

For more information, call 625-4802 or 634-3111.

Balloon Fest in Davisburg

Go up, up and away in a beautiful hot air balloon Saturday, July 19.

A Hot Air Balloon Festival and competition is slated for that day at the Springfield Oaks Youth Activities Center in Davisburg.

Springfield Township Parks and Recreation Department needs local groups to set up and run carnival-type games inside the building from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. All profits from the game booths go back to the organization.

Along with the games, there will be a "trinket and treasure" sale, an animal petting farm, hay rides, kite flying, clowns, roller skating and more. The Youth Center is located at 12451 Andersonville Rd. For more information, contact Sherry Swindell at 634-3111 or 625-4802.

The Clarkston (Mich.) News Wed., July 2, 1986 47

'Young at Heart' openings

The "Young at Heart" senior citizen group is still accepting memberships.

The group meets weekly on Thursdays at the Springfield Oaks Activities Center in Davisburg.

July activities include cards and crafts, guest speakers, goals group meetings and bingo.

Membership dues are $2 a year and enable the member to receive a monthly schedule of activities and discounts on trips and programs.

To join, contact Dorothy Venezia at 634-3111 or 625-4802.

Hotline for canning

Help with questions about canning and preserving food is a phone call away.

The Food Preservation/Food Safety Hotline number is 858-0904. The service is provided by the Cooperative Extension Service of Oakland County.

Home economist for the food program Debra Stone is also available for free lectures, demonstrations and presentations. She can be reached at the hotline number.

Library gets gift

A gift of $200 has been presented to the Independence Township Library by the Clarkston Eagles Auxiliary No. 3373 of the Fraternal Order of Eagles.

The donation was a gesture of support to the library for its services to the elderly. Libraries receiving the grants are asked to purchase large print books for the elderly and the visually handicapped.

Eagle auxiliaries receive the grants from the order's Memorial Foundation for their support of the senior citizen oriented Golden Eagle Fund.

This is the third such grant the local auxiliary has presented to the Independence library.

Tennis lessons offered

Openings are still available in the Springfield Township Parks and Rec tennis program.

Youth and adult lessons are being offered at the Mill Pond Park in Davisburg. The first session began June 23 and runs through July 18 and the second session begins July 21 and continues to Aug. 15.

The youth lessons, for ages 7-17, are on Monday and Wednesday mornings from 9 to 10:30 and 10:30 to noon.

Adult lessons are Tuesday and Thursday evenings, 6 to 7:30 and 7:30 to 9.

The program's instructor is Mark Taylor, who is a member of the Michigan Tennis Coaching Association and the United States Tennis Association.

For more information, call the Parks and Recreation Department at 625-4802 or 634-3111.

SPECIAL SESQUICENTENNIAL EDITION

Family keeps Beardslee name alive

By Julie LePere

Marian Beardslee Raymond comes from a family of pioneers who have left their marks in the towns they've settled.

She and her husband, Anson, have made their marks by establishing two Grant E.T. Beardslee Scholarships for Clarkston High School students to attend Eastern Michigan University.

One scholarship is for an Independence Township resident; the other for a Sashabaw Plains (in Independence Township) resident.

"It's in memory of dad because he was born and raised here, and he lived here all of his life," said Marian. "He was born in the house next door, as was I."

Over 250 years and 10 generations ago, her ancestor William Beardslee came to the United States when the country was still a British colony.

He settled in Connecticut just a few years later.

"In 1639, he named Stratford, Conn., or so the story goes," said Marian. "I wasn't around then."

Nearly two centuries later, his grandson Thomas Beardslee settled in the Sashabaw Plains area, before Michigan had joined the union.

Since then, many Beardslees (or Beardsleys as some of her distant cousins spell it) have lived and worked in the area.

There was Moses Beardslee, born in 1835, who died in 1864 in the Andersonville Prison during the Civil War.

There was Ebenezer Tuttle Beardslee who settled on Pine Knob Road in 1860. Ebenezer's only son, Samuel, was Marian's grandfather.

Samuel bought farming property along Pine Knob Road in Independence Township. Marian and Anson still spend their summers in a house on the property.

But Marian's own story begins when she speaks of her father, Grant Ebenezer Tuttle Beardslee.

150TH ANNIVERSARY
Our Congratulations To You

The Good Old Summertime Picnic and birthday celebration lasted all afternoon and much of the evening of June 8 at Independence Oaks County Park. Among celebrants were Andy Bellotti, 6, and his friend Tommy Morganstem, 4, who created a pond of water on beach. B.J., Andy's brother, also helped with the masterpiece. In addition to swimming, there was a variety of special entertainment in honor of the township's 150th birthday, the Statue of Liberty's 100th birthday and the park's 10th anniversary.

Sesquicentennial calendar: A parade of special events

PANCAKES, PARADE, CONCERT Friday, July 4

Pancake Breakfast: Early risers can join the breakfast feast beginning at 6 a.m. at the Clarkston Masonic Temple on Main and Washington streets in downtown Clarkston. Pancakes will be served until the parade begins at 10 a.m. and after the parade. Cost is $3 for adults and $2 for children.

Independence Day Parade: At 10 a.m., the parade will begin its march from Clarkston Junior High School, west on Church Street and north on Main Street to Miller Road. The theme, selected by the sponsoring Independence Township Fire Department, is "Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow."

In celebration of Independence Township's 150th birthday, a special float is planned by the Sesquicentennial Council. A booth will also be set up with birthday T-shirts, mugs, postcards and Hunter School history books for sale as the fund raising for the town clock continues.

Concert in the Park: The music begins at 7 p.m. in Clarkston's Depot Road park. Featured this date are the music and songs of the band "Infatuation." The band specializes in show tunes, ballads, folk songs and the Big Band sound. Concerts, planned every Friday evening at 7 in the park, are sponsored by the Clarkston Village Business Association.

WALK MICHIGAN ALL-YOU-CAN-EAT BREAKFAST Saturday, July 12

Senior Breakfast: Start off the morning with an all-you-can-eat breakfast for $4 served at the Independence Township Senior Citizen Center on Clarkston Road in Clintonwood Park.

Walk in the Park: The walk and a scavenger hunt begin at 10 a.m. in the park. Walk Michigan is sponsored by Blue Cross/Blue Shield in celebration of Michigan's sesquicentennial.

From local participants, a name will be drawn, making that person eligible for a drawing for a free weekend on Mackinac Island and the walk across the Mackinac Bridge on Labor Day.

The local events are sponsored by the Independence Township Sesquicentennial Council and the township parks and recreation department.

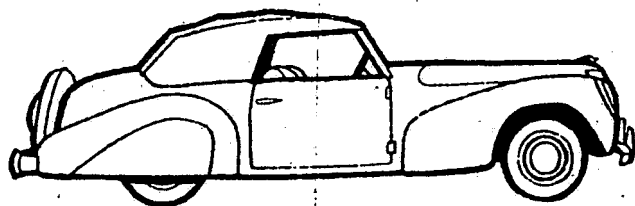

MINI-CONCOURS IN THE PARK ICE CREAM SOCIAL Friday, Aug. 1

Mini-Concours: From 6 to 9 p.m., 25 to 30 vintage and historic race cars are to be on display in Clarkston's Depot Road park. Admission is free. The majority of the display is to feature cars from the 1930s to '60s.

Ice Cream Social: Get your ice cream, lemonade and popcorn at the park from representatives of the Independence Township Sesquicentennial Council. A raffle is also planned. Money from the sales will be used to help purchase a town clock.

FESTIVAL OF CARS PARADE Saturday, Aug. 2

Parade time is 10 a.m. with the route following the usual downtown Clarkston routine: Church to Main to Miller streets.

Between 150 and 180 vehicles are expected with old Lincolns, Cadillacs, Ferraris and Lamborghinis in the ranks.

2ND ANNUAL MEADOW BROOK HISTORIC RACES Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 1-3

Practice Day: There's no charge to watch vintage and historic race cars at the Waterford Hills Race Track from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Friday. Picnic lunch carriers are welcome.

The Races Begin: On Saturday, the track opens at 10 a.m. and practice sessions continue until noon. Special parade events and races follow until 6. Admission is $6 at the gate and $5 in advance. The Races Continue: Races are planned from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Sunday. Admission is the same as Saturday.

The track is on Waterford Road in Independence Township. For advance ticket information, call 373-2500, the number of G/P Publishing Inc. of Pontiac, sponsors of the races with Waterford Hills Road Racing Inc.

The races are being held in conjunction with the Meadow Brook Concours d'Elegance on Aug. 3 at Meadow Brook Hall in Rochester.

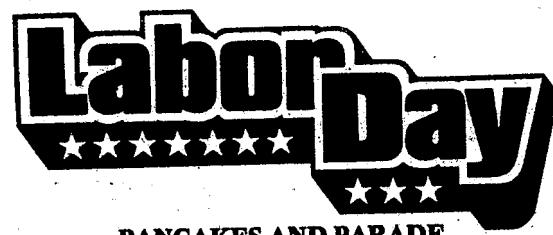

OUTDOOR VOLLEYBALL TOURNAMENT Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 23-24

Teams can sign up for the tournament at Clintonwood Park on Clarkston Road in Independence Township.

Four players are required for the triples roster and five are required for the quad roster. Competition is planned for men's, women's and co-rec (two men and two women) teams.

The tournament is co-sponsored by the Independence Township Sesquicentennial Council and the township parks and recreation department.

To sign up, visit Township Hall, 90 N. Main, Clarkston. For more information, call 625-8223.

PANCAKES AND PARADE Monday, Sept. 1

Pancake Breakfast: Dine on pancakes and all the trimmings from 7 to 10 a.m. at Clarkston's Depot Road park. The breakfast is sponsored by the Independence Township Fire Department. Proceeds benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Labor Day Parade: Starting time is 10 a.m. for the parade sponsored annually by the Clarkston Rotary Club. This year's theme is "Salute to Independence." The parade route follows standard procedure: west on Church Street from Clarkston Junior High School and north on Main Street to Miller Road.

Those who want to be in the parade must contact parade chairperson Gerald McNally at 625-4997 during business hours or write to McNally in care of 52nd District Court, 5850 Lorac Dr., Clarkston, MI 48016.

Thomas Beardslee: Sashabaw Plains pioneer

"He and my mother lived on the property for more than 65 years. They celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary a few months before my father died," she said. "Gar and Shirley Wilson own that house now."

The Raymonds' summer home is next door to the Wilsons'. The house was originally intended for use as a rental house, but since the Raymonds permanently reside in Florida, they use the house as a summer home.

"I had a very happy and secure childhood," she said, and recalled several details from her early days.

"I vaguely remember kerosene lamps, but we very soon had something we called a gas lamp, and it had a mantle in it that gave off a very white light," she said about the illumination back then. "Before electricity was widespread, this farm had a Delco system. It was mainly, as I recall it, a source of light."

"And the refrigerator was down in the cellar, and it stood on a platform that was off the floor so the mice couldn't get the (food)."

She remembers that beef was a luxury.

"They butchered hogs and fried the ham. They put it in lard and then in stone crocks (for storage)," she said.

For recreation, simple activities were the best, she said.

"I used to climb Pine Knob before Col. Sydney Waldon ever saw it," she said. "It was beautiful. You could see all the lakes."

Back then, the roads had no names, and landmarks such as a pine knob served for giving directions.

"A big treat during the summertime on a really hot day was, in the evening, after my father finished milking, we would get in the car and drive to Walters Lake or Crooked Lake and go swimming," she said.

"And I learned to skate on Spring Lake. The Maybees owned it then."

When Marian was young, she went to the one-room Sashabaw Plains school at Maybee and Pine Knob roads, where the fire hall is now. She graduated from that school in the eighth grade and then went to high school.

"I went to Clarkston High School for one year," she said. "At that time, the high school was all on the second floor of the building that is now the township hall. Then I went to Pontiac."

After high school graduation, she went to Eastern Michigan University for her bachelor's degree and the University of Michigan for a master's in education.

While at U of M, she met her husband.

"We met in 1936. . . . I was the hostess at the dining room at the Michigan League building, and he was a waiter there," she said.

Anson received a master's degree in chemical engineering and went to law school at Ford University in New York City.

Marian taught school for five years before marrying Anson. The Raymonds spent many of their years on the East coast before retiring to Florida and Michigan.

Now they each pursue their individual hobbies. Marian still likes to swim. She reads and is active in the Daughters of the American Revolution in Florida as well as past president of the Fairway Estates Women's Club in Florida.

Anson enjoys studying genealogy, both his own and his wife's. He bowls, golfs and travels.

Having established the scholarship funds and a lighting fund for the Sashabaw Plains Cemetery where many of the Beardslees are buried, the Raymonds are pondering another project.

But before they oversee the construction of a monument to the original Sashabaw Plains pioneers, the settlers of Independence Township, they plan to talk to the other pioneer descendants.

Post cards past

Clarkston native Roy Haeusler Jr. struck Independence Township gold several years back when he discovered these old post cards at a Lansing antique sale.

To add irony to his discovery, some of the scenes depicted on the cards are of, or near, Deer Lake property where his parents Roy and Aileen reside.

The postcards are, from left counter-clockwise:

The Village of Clarkston as viewed from the hill west of town. One cent would have sent this card all over the country.

Four fishermen on Deer Lake, "Thank you for the card. Sorry you didn't catch any fish," the sender wrote on the back.

The Lambert log cabin, circa 1900, which stood across from Deer Lake on White Lake Road and was destroyed in a fire.

A boating scene from Deer Lake Inn; and next to it a picture taken in front of Deer Lake Inn dated 1906, "We have just returned from an auto ride," it says on the back.

The final card depicts a scene of Deer Lake overlooking the area that is now Hillside Circle, where the Haeuslers live.

she says, there were no trees on it. Gladys admits she liked it better that way. A computer

Gladys used to spend secret nights at the Caribou Inn with her sister, who was an employee.

This is how the Clarkston State Bank looked when Gladys Porritt was a bookkeeper there. A little barber shop used to stand next door to it, she recalls.

The trials and triumphs of Gladys Porritt

By Carolyn Walker

Gladys Porritt will only pose for a picture if the photographer backs way, way up.

She doesn't want her 81-year-old wrinkles to show in a photo, she argues.

The photographer obeys, youth minding its elders; and Gladys poses, stiff-faced.

"Geez," the photographer thinks. "It's too bad she's camera shy. Those wrinkles, the ones that work up around her lips and her eyes, record the happy times right there on her face."

Gladys finally relents and smiles. It was, and is, a good life.

"I used to be a redhead," she says relaxing and pointing at her snow-white hair. "I had freckles, too."

Gladys, it turns out, had a lot of things: A loving family with lots of brothers and sisters. A good husband. Interesting jobs. Lots of children. Funny adventures.

"When you've got a big family, you've got to figure out things to do."

At home in her Clarkston apartment, surrounded by pictures of the people who mattered in her life, she recounts them all: The trials and triumphs of Gladys Porritt of Independence Township.

Her earliest memories go back to her childhood when she was a 5-year-old, free-spirited girl growing up on her father's 160-acre Waterford Hill farm.

"That hill never had a tree on it," she says, ruing the day that someone decided to plant some.

"I guess you hate to see progress," she says, laughing.

Instead, when she lived there during 1910 and later years, the hill was used for "motorcycle climbs" and firework displays brought in by boarders from Detroit who lived on "the other side of the hill," she says, and, "My brothers used to slide down the hill on barrel staves."

Dixie Highway, she says, "was a little dirt road through there then."

Maple trees lined each side of Dixie on her father's property and her family used to tap them for syrup.

"When you've got a big family, you've got to figure out things to do," she says.

And what else did they figure out?

Well, they lurked on the hill in winter, listening for the sounds of sleighs.

"We always knew when the sleighs were coming because they had bells," she says.

When the sleighs approached, she and her eight brothers and sisters and their friends would jump from their hiding places to hitch rides into Clarkston on their back runners.

When Gladys was a fourth-grader, and her father William was unable to farm for a year, the family traded houses with one of her brothers. He farmed the farm, and she and the others moved into his house on Buffalo Street in Clarkston.

There she formed a tight bond with girlfriend [See FATHER, Page 10]

Madeline Gulick, with whom she regularly played hopscotch.

"We'd find a good flat stone (a keeper) and carry it in our pocket," she says. "We always had it with us."

They also roller skated regularly, even after she broke her skates and had to be bailed out of the predicament by her friends:

"I thought, 'geez' when we had to buy that pasteurizer. It looked like more money than you'd ever get out of it."

This memory brings a mist to her eyes.

They disappeared for a while and later returned with enough money for her to replace her broken skates, having mowed several lawns, she says.

"I don't know who those girls were now."

It was common, Gladys says, for most of the town's children to play together happily when she was a youngster.

One of their favorite games was Run, My Sheep, Run.

Gladys says she forgets the point of the game but adds, "We'd yell out signals and hide all over town. Some woman, we'd go to her house and she'd get us all organized."

As Gladys grew older, and found herself enrolled at Clarkston High School, she turned to girls basketball, the school's first team, for enjoyment.

Grabbing a black and white picture of herself off a nearby bookcase, she explains that black bloomers and white midi-shirts and tennis shoes were the uniform of the day.

The basketball games were played outdoors.

"You know," she says, "a lot of the town's men used to come up to our games."

After graduating from high school, Gladys took a waitress job at the Deer Lake Inn, which formerly stood on Dixie Highway.

The job lasted about two months.

She explains that in those days, butter rolled in balls and other condiments were served on large platters.

"One day I went through the door and the door hit my tray and those little butter balls went all through the dining room," she says, still blushing with embarrassment. "The worst of it is I ran and hid. My sister had to take over."

But that was not Gladys' only adventure related to the now defunct inn. She also poured coffee in the finger bowls. "You know what those are?" she asks.

She stops to consider, her eyes squinting just a little bit. "You know, I've got a feeling they raised their own chickens there," she says.

She explains her theory in a roundabout way, beginning with the day her father offered to let her drive his Model T, never mind the fact that she didn't know how to operate an automobile.

"He just told me, 'Take the car,'" she says.

When she arrived at her destination, the inn, she quickly remembered that she didn't know how to stop the automobile.

"When I got up there, I just started yelling," she says.

Those who heard her pleas opened the gate to the chicken yard, where she finally came to rest.

She doesn't remember how she stopped, she says adding, "But doesn't that make you think they must have raised chickens?"

According to Gladys, the Deer Lake Inn was owned by sisters Nel and May Berry and a relation named Billy Cohane, who also owned the Caribou Inn, formerly on Main Street at Washington.

When she was a senior high school student and her sister was employed at the Caribou, she says she used to sneak in after hours and stay with her sister, who roomed above the inn. The cook used to sneak her breakfast, she says.

Her reasoning seems sound considering her mode of transportation home. "I had to walk way down to Waterford Hill."

Gladys was saved from herself and the job at the inn when she was offered a position at Clarkston State Bank, now the Pontiac State Bank on Main Street.

She was employed there eight years and during that time married her high school sweetheart, Ed. [See STAY, Page 13]

Holcomb horse hitching posts are here to stay

Henry Ford's offer to buy them for Greenfield Village was rejected

By Chris Gerbasi

Henry Ford couldn't get them and nobody else is going to get them either.

Ford wanted the hitching posts in front of Grace Sanders' house on Holcomb Street, Clarkston, for Greenfield Village.

Ford owned the Clarkston Mill and was familiar with some of the artifacts around town. Back in 1928, Ford came to the home then owned by Sanders' future mother-in-law, Margaret Rockwell. Margaret's husband Arthur had put the posts in.

"She was too sentimental about them," said Sanders. "He (Arthur) had just died the year before.

"They offered quite a sum of money, but she wasn't interested in money," Sanders said. "I don't know how much it was, but it was more than a month's pay at that time."

Sanders, 73, has lived in the house for 49 years and the hitching posts have been in the same spot for nearly 100 years.

She can recall when dairy products were delivered by buggy and the horses had to be tied up to the post.

"They were used a lot way back then," said Sanders. "You had to have something to tie the horses to."

After all these years, she has no intention of giving up the posts, due in part to two of her children.

"My children said 'What's money?' " Sanders said. "I have no reason to give them up. They really want them more than I do. I'm not that sentimental about them."

But the hitching posts do not go unappreciated.

"I get a big kick out of people going by and looking at them and even taking pictures of them," said Sanders.

This is one of two hitching posts for horses in front of the home of Grace Sanders on Holcomb Street in Clarkston. The posts were originally put in by Arthur Rockwell in the early part of this century.

But They Work Like Magic 625-3370

Clock work ticks on

A lasting 150th birthday memory continues to be the goal of the Independence Township Sesquicentennial Council.

The council is working toward the purchase of a town clock to be placed in the Village of Clarkston.

About $4,000 has been raised so far, but an estimated $20,000 to $25,000 is needed.

Hopes are high for a boost to the clock fund from the state, which has set aside money for sesquicentennial projects, said Rita Burdick, a co-coordinator of the township's 150th birthday council.

The decision on whether or not a grant of up to $10,000 will be made should be announced in July, she said.

Meanwhile, the council continues its sale of birthday mugs, T-shirts, postcards and Hunter School history books.

A booth at the Clarkston's July 4 Parade will feature the fund-raising items. They're also for sale at Independence Township Hall, the One More Time shop and Tierra Arts & Design, all on Main Street in Clarkston.

The cover story, No. 2

Ron Wagner continues capturing the spirit of Independence Township's 150th birthday with the cover design for our second special sesquicentennial edition.

"I just wanted to get a feeling more than anything else of the history of the area," says Wagner about the assemblage he created.

Most of the photographs and memorabilia date from the early 1900s and earlier. One significant item is the wheat stalk, he says, because Independence was once a predominantly agricultural area.

A graphic designer, Wagner is an owner of Producer's Graphic Services of Royal Oak. He and his wife Susan and their two children reside in Independence Township.

Wagner also designed the cover for our first special sesquicentennial edition on June 4, and he's in the process of planning the cover for the third edition on Aug. 27.

Tests of Tom Sawyer skills were among old-fashioned games staged to celebrate the township's birthday June 8 at Independence Oaks County Park. Jeremy Thompson (left) of Independence Township and Joshua Welberg of Waterford were the winners in the watermelon eating contest, water balloon toss and fence painting contest.

Together they owned Porritt's Dairy, which had been founded by Edward's father Lee in 1933.

"That was a headache," she says matter-of-factly before explaining her feelings.

"I thought, 'geez' when we had to buy that pasteurizer. It looked like more money than you'd ever get out of it."

Though the Porritts did not raise dairy cows, they pasteurized, bottled and delivered milk. They also sold eggs, butter and cottage cheese.

Porritt's Dairy stood at a variety of sites including one on Miller Street in the village and one on Clarkston Road in Orion Township.

At one point, the dairy was burned to the ground and the Porritts had to start their business over.

In 1969 they sold out, pasteurizer included, to United Dairies.

As Gladys reflects on her past, she seems saddened that many of her friends and relatives have long since passed away.

One exception is her pal Elizabeth Ronk, with whom she went to high school and played basketball.

"Elizabeth and I are going to have our (sixty-third) school reunion," she says, chuckling.

Scheduled for the end of June, it will include just the two of them, since they are unable to locate any others from the class of '23.

"We do it every year," she says. "We go up to the racquet club. I really enjoy getting together with Elizabeth because we talk over old times."

Old times.

Two lifetimes, a total of 162 years spent almost exclusively in the township those special friends love.

"I couldn't move away now," Gladys says.

Jack Hagen's called Clarkston home since '35

By Julie LePere

Jack Hagen moved to Clarkston in 1935, when he was 6 years old, and he's lived within a block of his first home ever since.

"My folks used to live on Washington, where the Marsdens are," he said. "When Jennie and I got married, we lived at Barrow's Apartments (on Holcomb). And then we bought this house."

The Hagens still live in that house on the Mill Pond, one of the original Holcomb family houses on Holcomb Road, built in 1929.

Jack remembers well the days of his childhood.

"I started peddling papers in town when I was 9," he said. "I was the only kid in town who ever stood on the corner and sold papers."

When he was 13, he worked in Russ Walter's dairy on Washington Street, where the Clarkston Mills now stands.

"They used to cut ice in the Mill Pond," he said. "I worked at the dairy for 25 cents an hour."

"The next year, I got a much better deal, much more money. I got 35 cents an hour at the Food Locker (on Main Street, just north of Miller Road).

"Then I started at the Infra Corporation for 75 cents an hour. For a kid, it was good money because most of the men only got $1, $1.10. That was the going rate at that time for a small shop or factory."

"It used to be in Clarkston, where Tierra Arts is now. It used to be called Nelson Manufacturing when my father worked there. They made torpedo heads then."

He's worked at Infra Corp. for 41 years and still works there, although it's now located in Waterford. The company currently manufactures stainless steel bar equipment and machine control panels.

When he wasn't attending Clarkston High School, he spent much of his time working, although he did play football. At 6-1, he was an end for the Wolves.

He graduated from Clarkston High School when it was housed in the present Clarkston Junior High School.

"It had K-12 and half of Waterford and Drayton," he said. "They went to school here because there were no schools in Waterford then except grade school."

He recalls several of his teachers. His own children even had some of them.

His son Chris mentioned Pat Beach. "I had her for a teacher, but my dad had her first," he said.

Chris and Jack also remembered Doc Thayer who coached and taught government, shorthand, typing and bookkeeping. Thayer's wife was the librarian.

"That was three teachers who we both had," said Chris.

Until recently Clarkston was a quiet town, a small town, a town where people knew their neighbors' names, said Jack.

"I knew everybody in Clarkston until about 10 years ago," he said. "Now I don't know anybody."

He remembers when Rudy's was on the corner of Washington and Main, next to Dude Demond's barbershop and the venetian blind store.

And he remembers when they built the present Mill Pond dam.

"They had a wooden cofferdam," he said. "The wooden one broke, and all the water drained. There were old wagons in there."

"And antiques," added his wife. "What you didn't want, you flung in the pond."

"(Henry) Ford drove trucks in here and built planks up on everybody's yard," said Jack.

He filled in the yards of homes that had lost soil

"I was the only kid who ever stood on the corner and sold papers."

due to the drained Mill Pond and then constructed the cement dam.

The Mill Pond is still a source of enjoyment for the Hagens.

"We've never had water in the basement," he said, "but we're about 12 feet closer to the water than when we moved here."

Although Jack has seen many events, two fires are prominent in his memory.

"We were visiting friends over on Sashabaw, and we saw the whole sky light up," he said. "We rushed home because we left the dog in the house."

"It was Beattie's Garage," he said, located where Clarkston Corners is now.

He also saw the flames of Ed Miller's barn on Holcomb, the present location of St. Daniel's Church.

"You could see the whole sky light up," he said. "It was in the winter. I don't know what ever started that."

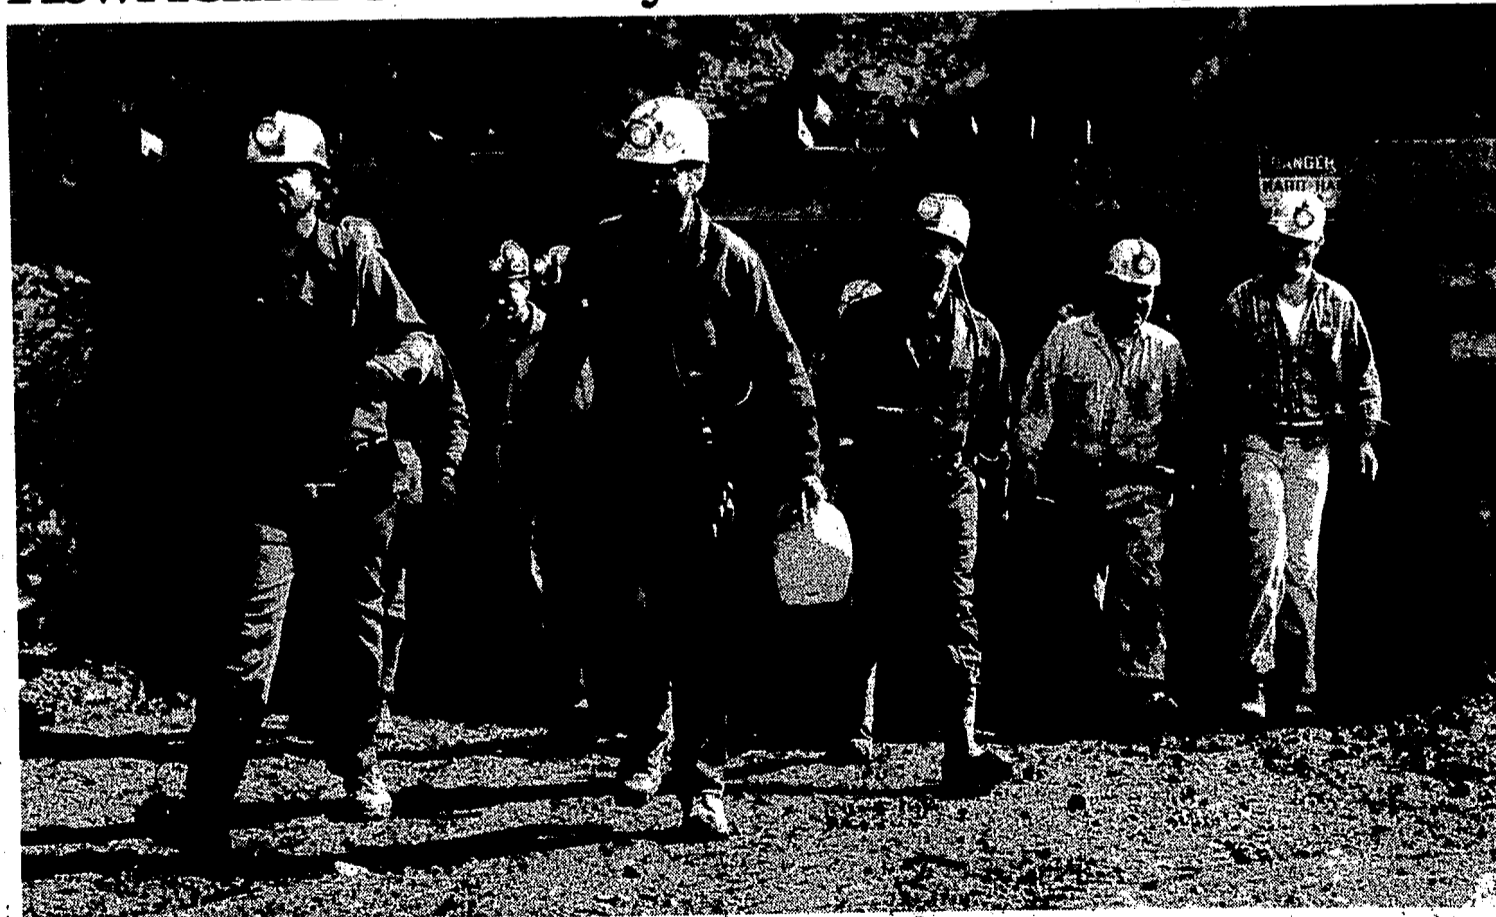

"My dad and mother used to go up there and buy milk and cream all the time," he said.

"The town has changed a lot since we've been here," he said. "All the stores used to close on Wednesday afternoons."

Jack Hagen moved to Clarkston from Alpena when he was 6 years old. A graduate of Clarkston High School, he still enjoys his home on the Mill Pond in Clarkston.

How A Small Community Came To See The Light At The End Of The Tunnel.

A few years back, the roof practically caved in on the people who lived in this small mining community.

The mine had been shut down.

Putting half the town out of work.

And taking away a livelihood that had been a way of life here for decades.

Considering that miners all across America were struggling with all the same kind of problems, there did not seem to be even the slightest ray of hope left to the town.

Problem was, just like the miners could not afford to go much longer without work, the company could not afford to reopen the mine. Much less run it profitably enough to keep it up and running, as it had before.

But when the State of Michigan got the miners and the mining company together, people began to see things in an entirely different light.

So when they figured out a way to reopen the mine, we pitched in to help figure out a way to finance it.

Today, the mine is open again.

The miners have gone back and reclaimed their jobs.

And even though there's still some hard work ahead for everyone concerned, the entire town is beginning to see a much brighter future for itself.

At First of America Bank, we all take special pride in what this small community achieved just by digging deep inside themselves for answers.

Not just because we're bankers.

But because, more importantly, we're part of the community, too.

FIRST OF AMERICA
We're Community Banks First.
