Market, shops planned for M-15 mall

By Carolyn Walker

Developer Ron Helin challenged planning commission Chairman Neil Wallace to an arm wrestling match Thursday night.

The challenge, made in jest, helped ease tension created when Helin proposed a video vending machine as part of his new Northcreek mall development.

Before commenting. Wallace made a face showing his displeasure with the video proposal and Heim responded with, "I'll arm wrestle you for it."

A video vending machine. Helin said after the meeting, would dispense videos to patrons holding credit cards and would be isolated on an island much like a Fotomat. There would be no employees.

One after another, the six commissioners asked Helin to remove the video vendor and a stipulation that he "significantly relocate or eliminate" it was incorporated into a motion made by Wallace.

That stipulation was one of seven made in the motion to approve conceptual site plans for the project. Before construction can begin, the commission must approve the final site plan.

Township needs help against vandalism

Springfield Township parks have had a great incidence of vandalism and the township would appreciate help from citizens in identifying vandals.

According to Sherry Swindell of the parks and recreation department, in the past few weeks swings and a picnic table have been stolen and table tops have either been stolen or thrown into the lake at Mill Pond Park. The main gate was also smashed by a car.

In March, the township board approved a $250 reward for anyone who could provide information leading to the arrest and conviction of park vandals.

"Usually, we don't have a problem at Mill Pond Park because it's very visible and there's a lot of people there," said Swindell. "The incidents are happening after we close. You would think someone would see somebody driving away with a picnic table."

Vandalism has been such a problem at Green Lake Park that the parks commission decided not to put any more money into equipment.

The commission will replace the swings at Mill Pond Park, but did not discuss the picnic table at its Monday meeting.

At about the same time the commission talked about vandalism, two picnic tables were broken at the township's Holcomb Road Park, Swindell said.

School district auctions off equipment

There weren't any skeletons in the storerooms, but such relics as manual typewriters, black-and-white TVs and five no-longer-needed school buses are on the list of items up for auction.

The excess school equipment auction planned Saturday, July 19, at 10:30 a.m. is the Clarkston school district's first ever as far as he knows, said William Jackson, district financial manager.

Since October, virtually every building in the district has been scoured for "school equipment that's been purchased that's not needed any longer," said Jackson.

The resulting list of 250-plus line items includes file cabinets, tape recorders, adding machines, 251 records, coffee pots, 240 sectioned food trays, an electric oven, drill bits, two gas kilns, a 1977 station wagon, old school desks and more.

Persons wishing to buy items can inspect them the day of the sale beginning at 9 a.m. at the auction locations, the Clarkston High School cafeteria and bus garage. The auction will move from one site to the other.

Auction participants must register and receive a number in order to bid. Registration also begins at 9. The sale will be conducted by Gary M. Berry-Auctioneers of Rochester, Mich.

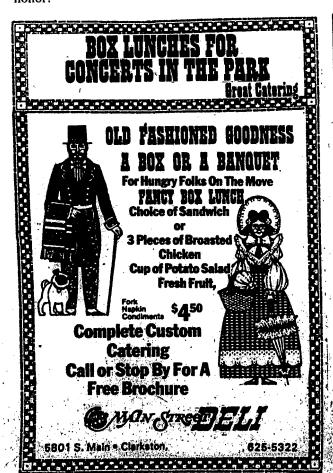

"I don't know how long it's going to last, but there will be refreshments there," Jackson said, adding that soft drinks, hot dogs, coffee and candy will be soid.

He estimates the district will make between $8,000 and $10,000 on the excess school equipment sale plus $750 to $1,250 for each school bus.

In essence, said Jackson, the auction is a bid to "eliminate our storage problems and get a fair price" for the heretofore buried treasures.

Market, 10 shops proposed

[MARKET, continued from Page 1] previously with at least three, separate mall designs for the five-acre site off M-15 between I-75 and Northview Drive.

His last proposal received final site plan approval in February 1985 and was to include 20 shops in a colonial-style building.

The new proposal maintains the colonial style and calls for 10 shops, including a bank, the video vendor and a 27,700-square-foot IGA supermarket.

The development also calls for two buildings and, therefore, will need a special land use permit for which a public hearing must be held. The hearing is scheduled Aug. 14.

Current township ordinances require the special permit for more than one building per lot.

In addition, because Helin was granted variances specifically for the 20-store proposal by the zoning board of appeals, he will have to return to the ZBA to have the variances reviewed.

That hearing is scheduled Wednesday, July 16, at 7:30 p.m. in the township hall annex.

At the commission meeting, Helin said he had been asked by the township to resubmit his plans because of the significant changes.

His new proposal is 10,000 square feet smaller than the previous 51,000-square-foot plan and calls for the elimination of office space. Parking spaces have also been proportionately cut back.

Two residents in the audience expressed concerns about the proposal and the traffic and refuse problems the supermarket could create.

"I'm very concerned about the IGA store," said Susan Basinger. "I'm also concerned about the traffic through the village. We're not learning from communities to the south of us. You can't expand the roads enough."

Township seeks election workers

The call is out for Independence Township citizens who would like to work during the Aug. 5 Primary Election.

"Because a number of my regular workers are on vacation, I'm in dire need of precinct workers," said township Clerk Richard Holman.

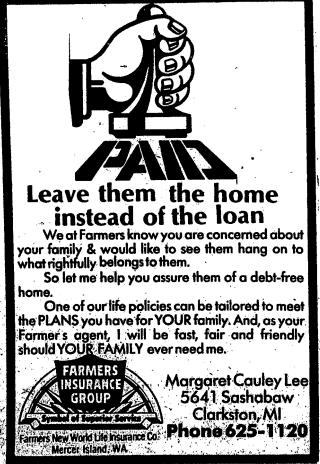

About six to eight people are needed to fill the ranks, he said.

The job, which pays $3.50 an hour, includes an hour-long training session prior to Aug. 5 and a long work day.

Precinct workers begin election day at 6:30 a.m. and "stay until closing, which could be as late as 9:30 or 10 o'clock" in the evening, said Holman, adding that break time is provided for lunch.

The workers must be registered voters and residents of the township. For more information, call Holman at 625-5111 between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. weekdays.

Conceptual approval for Lakes apartments

By Carolyn Walker

Developers of the Landcaster on the Lakes apartments have hurdled their first obstacle toward construction amid concerns about potential traffic pro-

On July 19, the Independence Township Planning Commission voted 4-2 to grant conceptual approval for the complex.

At issue between the commission, the developers and members of the audience were traffic problems that could be generated by apartment residents entering and exiting the 276-unit complex off Dixie Highway.

Silence filled the room as commission member Brent Bair, also an employee of the Oakland County Road Commission, expressed his concerns.

People are going to take risks (entering and exiting) and some of them just aren't going to make it," he said. "I have a real problem with this location . . . . I don't know how I can vote for this . . . when I know there are going to be problems."

Bair's statements drew applause and cheers from the audience of approximately 35 neighbors of the development.

Two weeks ago, the commission asked the township board to consider extending Maybee Road from the Dixie Highway traffic signal to the apart-

The extension, it was suggested, could help reduce traffic access problems.

At that time, the township board voted to pursue a fact-finding study that would include negotiations for obtaining the right of ways to extend Maybee.

At their meeting, the commissioners discussed granting conceptual approval to the development's first phase subject to the board's action on the road extension proposal.

The suggestion drew angry criticism from Bill Fox, Landcaster's developer, who accused the commission of "sidestepping" its responsibilities.

"We, in fact, are going out to a public road with the only access we have," he said, referring to plans to use an easement on the site of the Randy Hosler car dealership.

The apartments are proposed for 48.8 acres behind Hosler's.

Maple Road, a private road south of Hosler's, could also be used for traffic, but only if it were paved as required by a consent judgment governing the pro-

The site of the development was once considered for a K mart shopping center.

After the road discussion, Fox asked the commission to approve or reject the proposal without condi-

Fox's comments came after many commissioners had complimented the developers on adjustments to their plans, which previously called for 300 units.

We find that in many respects the project is acceptable," said Chairman Neil Wallace.

'But in one very serious respect (it is not)," he added. "I think that the overriding concern about this project is the safety of the people. This project (must · be) consistent with the health, safety and welfare of the community."

According to Dick Fay, executive vice president of construction, the number of units was reduced in response to complaints made by neighboring

The developers hope to begin construction this summer with occupancy in December 1987, said Fay.

Commission member Carol Balzarini, also a township board trustee, said, "If I may speak for the board, I believe the board will do everything in its power to resolve the (traffic) problem with Maybee

She then made a motion to grant conceptual approval with no conditions except formal engineering approval of the revised plans.

Voting to pass the motion were John Gray, Joseph Figa, Betty Jo Fussman and Balzarini. Wallace and Bair voted no. Holly Stephens was ab-

Developer proposes condos

Condominiums are being planned for Waterford Hill by developer Charles Bowles, who built the new 52nd court house and new Ritter's Country Square buildings last year.

The condominium proposal follows close on the heels of the Landcaster on the Lakes apartment proposal for Dixie Highway, which obtained conceptual approval from the planning commission last Thurs-

Together, the projects have created some worries for neighboring residents.

Approximately 35 Waterford Hill residents filled the township hall annex July 10 to hear the Independence Township Planning Commission discuss the developments.

Many voiced concerns about traffic and aesthetic problems they anticipate will come with the proposed condominium plan called Waterford Hill Bluffs.

Bill Fox of Landcaster's proposes 276 apartment units for 48.8 acres behind Randy Hosler's Pontiac Developers of the Bluffs, which would abut Landcaster at the rear boundary line, plan 148 condominiums below Balmoral Terrace. The condominiums would be situated on 39 acres.

Both projects currently call for single entrances from Dixie Highway.

Members of the planning commission voted 6-0 to table the Bluffs development due to a number of "overriding concerns" cited by township planner Richard Carlisle.

Carlisle said he wants further details on the number of bedrooms to be included in the units, the height of the buildings and plans for the topography and natural vegetation.

He called the site "tricky" but emphasized that it could be developed without mass destruction of the natural resources.

Several residents in the audience expressed concerns about the aesthetics of the buildings, well and sewer problems, and the units' proximity to current single-family houses.

Saying "a number of these (concerns) are so fundamental that they ought to be addressed prior to conceptual (approval)," Chairman Neil Wallace made a motion to table the matter until the Aug. 14 meeting

A walking tour of the site is planned by the commission at 6:30 p.m. on Aug. 7.

Man arrested and charged with felonies

A man was arrested and charged with three felony counts at Pine Knob Music Theatre on Saturday.

Paul Morrill, 33, of Detroit was charged with possession of a stolen vehicle, carrying a pistol (a .357 Magnum revolver) in the vehicle and possession of a firearm in the commission of a felony, according to Investigator David Pement of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Morrill was arraigned at 52nd District Court Monday afternoon and bond was set for $10,000 cash surety for each count. The examination date is scheduled July 25 at 8:45 a.m. before Judge Gerald McNally.

Pement also said Morrill had 27 packets of concert tickets for Pine Knob and the Joe Louis Arena along with a small amount of marijuana and he faces possible charges on both counts.

According to police reports, Morrill drew the suspicion of officers because he appeared to be selling tickets. When he got into his car, the plates were checked and they did not match the vehicle.

He faces up to five years and-or a $2,500 fine for both the stolen car and weapon carrying charges. The firearm possession charge carries a possible two-year sentence

Along came a spider

Kathy Greenfield

The exhibit was in Arizona. It featured creatures native to the environment. I will never forget the tarantulas.

I must have been about 5 years old and short for my age (these things don't just happen in adulthood). I remember looking up at the glass enclosure that held the huge hairy black spiders.

I remember getting the creeps. It was like looking through a microscope except there was no microscope. What I saw, was.

That must have been when I decided spiders weren't for me. I was afraid of them for years. While I wouldn't call my current reaction to the arthropods fear, there's still a creepy feeling whenever I encounter an eight-legged web slinger.

Enter Aileen Hauesler. She stopped by The Clarkston News last week with the July-August issue of Michigan Natural Resources Magazine.

An article on fish hatcheries contained a brief but significant reference to Clarkston: "One can trace Michigan fish culture back to N.W. Clark, who established a small brook trout hatchery in 1867 at Clarkston. As far as one can tell, that was the first such enterprise in the state. Clark went on to estblish a hatchery at Northville in Wayne County in 1874."

Before she left, Mrs. Hauesler offered to let me keep the magazine for a few days. There was a good article on spiders inside, she said.

So I read it. Did you know that although most spiders have eight eyes most are practically blind?

The article also put into facts and figures something I've known in general for years: A scientific census showed an average of 50,000 spiders per acre in favorable habitats and within the average three-month lifespan of a spider, each can consume a hundred insects.

During my growing up years, I spent many hours weeding in my family's huge garden. My father always told us not to kill spiders outdoors because they kept the insect population in check.

My favorite spider story occurred fairly recently. It involved both the garden and my father.

A large spider had taken up residence among the vegetables. We dubbed it a yellow jacket spider because of its close resemblance in size and markings to a yellow jacket bee. (The spider article provided its proper name, a black and yellow argiope—Argiope aurantia.)

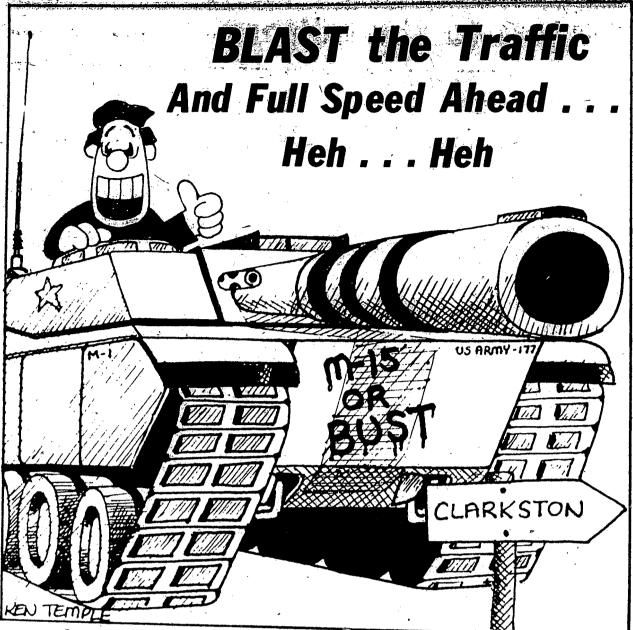

My father warned every one of us individually, man, woman and child, not to tamper with the spider. We all listened, again, to the fact that spiders are very good for gardens. We all made special trips to see it.

The spider was spectacular—almost too pretty to fall into the creepy creature category. But nobody got close enough to take a deep look into its eyes.

A great group

To the employees and officials of Independence Township:

I just wanted to take a moment to thank you for the opportunity I was given to serve the wonderful people of this community.

The past four and one-half years, I have worked under and with some of the finest people I have ever met, and I truly enjoyed working with you.

And I'm sure the people of this township realize what a great group of people they have working for them.

I would like to say a special thank you to Mr. George Anderson. Sir, of all the people I have ever worked for, you were the best. You are truly a great leader and a great man. Your ability and insight are, by far, more superior than most.

To the people of the DPW (except one), what can I say? My life has been enriched with your friendship.

Whatever road in life you choose, I hope that whatever you seek is waiting there for you. Good luck and God bless.

Jim's Jottings

Jim Sherman

A few weeks ago I wrote how important good spelling is to me. I said college degrees and certificates should be withheld until certain achievements have been reached in spelling, particularly by journalism students.

What prompted these observations was an anonymous letter to the editor accompanied with clippings of articles with spelling errors.

Now comes a fellow publisher who disagrees with the importance I place on spelling. The publisher is John Haire, whose personal columns I've read weekly for about three decades.

In a recent column he said, "It isn't that spelling isn't important and hundreds of times over the years my inadequacies have haunted me. It's great to be a great speller.

"But what separates the men from the boys in the writing business is the ability to express. The ability to make the reader laugh or cry, the ability to draw a word picture so the reader is standing there looking at the crash site or commiserating with the stricken parent.

That's top priority. Second for a writer has to be a vocabulary. You need the tools before you can build the house. After that, spelling probably edges in for a writer, but not for a reporter.

"For a reporter, the ability to put personal feelings aside and do all the distasteful probing necessary to bring the news to the reader ranks way above spelling.

"When it comes to hiring a reporter, give me the guy that writes with a sparkle and let Jim (me) have the one that wins spelling contests.

"Why not hire the guy that can do both? He's probably working for the New York Times."

John puts spelling down a ways on his priority list, but he certainly is mindful of its importance. It's just that he bought a machine to spell things for him.

Called a "word proof" the software reviews computer written words, automatically stops when a word is misspelled, lists the correct spelling, then with the press of another button the correction is made.

Maybe friend John up in Michigan's Thumb is a follower of Napoleon. It was he who said, "A man occupied with public or other important business cannot, and need not, attend to spelling."

My last week's summer taxes are reaching the point of taxation disaster.

Matter of fact, I'm convinced our local board could teach the international potentates a few tricks, 'How to Tax More and Give Less."

I'm firmly convinced this all-expense-paid trip to California would not be in any way constructive in reducing our present inflated taxes, by any stretch of the imagination.

If our tax assessor is seeking more taxation knowledge, why go to California? I'm sure any metropolitan tax seminar, located in Michigan, would serve the same purpose.

I would like to take this opportunity to applaud our Trustee Dale Stuart, who objected to this ridiculous request by voting alone in opposition to this California trip.

We are getting settled in our new home now, and the people here have welcomed us with open arms.

Ford's favorite song

Jim Fitzgerald

According to "The Fords: An American Epic" as excerpted in the Free Press Sunday, the favorite song of ry Ford II is "When The Saints Go Marching In."

That's not what I read in 1972. At that time, Ford's favorite song was reputedly "Hey Bop a Re Bop."

Before delving further into the socially significant question of Henry Ford's Musical taste, I should admit I never read the best-selling books written about such famous people as Ford and Rock Hudson. I just read the excerpts published in People magazine or newspapers.

Actually, I should admit I never read People. I read what newspapers excerpt from what People excerpts from the book. I find that this double distillation gives me sufficient important information to give an intelligent answer when my grandchildren, ever thirsty for knowledge, ask how many times Henry Ford and his children have been divorced.

Furthermore, when a newspaper runs a five-part series of excerpts from one book, beginning on Sunday, I read only the Sunday chapter. As a serious journalist, I realize all the important, socially relevant stuff is published on Sunday, and by Monday there'll be boring flashbacks about the childhood of Dolly Parton's grandfather,

For me; these book excerpts serve the same function performed by my friend Ralph when we were college students. While reading best-sellers, Ralph would unconsciously mark the most intellectual parts with sweaty thumb stains. To further my education fastest, I riffled through Ralph's books and read only the sweat-stained

It is from this youthful experience that I derived my strongest ambition for the future — to live my life entirely in excerpts. But, faced with the constraints of having to pay my bills, I soon learned one of life's great truths - for most of us, excerpts are weekends. The other five days are all Mondays at Dolly Parton's grandfather's childhood

But back to music. In Sunday's excerpt, Henry Ford's behavior at his daughter Anne's coming-out party was described: "He got drunker and wound up conducting the band in his favorite tune, When The Saints Go

Marching In.' However, only a few years later, according to the newspapers, U.S. Ambassador Walter Annenberg gave a party in the U.S. Embassy in London at which Ford "sang his favorite song, 'Hey Bop a Re Bop.'" The Meyer Davis band was flown in from New York to play for dancing—and Ford's singing. Fourteen years later, I still have the column I wrote about that London party. I was intrigued by the fact that Annenberg feared flak from the British Musicians Union. Instead of hiring the Davis band as musicians, thus taking bread out of 76 English trombones, the ambassador made the band "temporary members of the ambassador's household." They went on the payroll as butlers, bartenders, footmen and so on. So I wrote: "What about Henry Ford? Would a British auto manufacturer object to Ford being imported to sing? Maybe Ford also joined the ambassador's household for that one night ('Honest, Duchess, I'm your upstairs maid.')."

That was in 1972, remember, so I also questioned the wisdom of buying the product of a company headed by an executive whose favorite-song was such a moldy oldie: "What would you do if you went into the local Ford dealership and found the owner singing 'Hey Bob a Re Bop'? I'd order a 1948 V-8 with running boards."

I'm running those excerpts from that old column just so you'll realize I was ahead of my time. Long before the current crop of Ford books, I was writing really important stuff about Henry Ford II.

Unfortunately, Ford is famous for not complaining or explaining. The world will probably never know whether "Hey Bop a Re Bop" or "When The Saints Go Marching In" is his favorite song. I'll have to admit to my grandchildren that there is some socially significant information that I can't add to their education.

Manhattan's on the wrong side of the car!

Carolyn Walker

Time doing what it does, I had nearly forgotten my visit to the Statue of Liberty.

But the July 4 spectacle featuring that grand old lady served well to remind me of the day our family passed fleetingly by her welcoming torch.

While I cherish my American birthright, there is a part of me that thinks viewing her might have been easier had we been on an immigrants' boat.

Consider our plight.

It was the late '50s. New York was to be the first of eight states we would tour in seven days.

It was a vacation mother claims father didn't want to make. He now denies those allegations, though he agrees that we toured the whole works in record time.

The tone of the trip was established early when we hit upstate New York. "'That was Lake Placid,' your father said and p-f-f-f-t we were gone," mother recalls testily. She still holds him responsible for the harried pace.

New Hampshire and Maine followed, a virtual blur due to their lack of stimulating adventures.

Massachusetts was next. It was there that the trip actually began its descent into family legend.

Initially, we got lost on the Boston turnpike which we circled, in full, three times. During those circlings we also stopped three times to ask directions at the same gas station.

"Yes, we're from out of town," I seem to remember someone saying to the incredulous attendant.

When we finally landed at our destination, we visited Old Ironsides, traveled with a singing drunk on the Boston subway and dined out. Father made the mistake of eating clams, which made him violently ill.

My sister, who was about seven at the time, remembers that evening best, recalling mother's admonishment never to walk barefoot in motels (athlete's foot, you know).

"I just remember him putting his socks on and off as he got in and out of bed," my sister says. "After about his sixth trip to the bathroom, I remember asking him why he didn't just leave his socks on.

"I was glad that I ate scallops," she adds.
Undaunted by his food poisoning, we left the next day for New Jersey, where we had motel reservations.

Somehow, we made a wrong turn and ended up in New York City traffic from which we could not free ourselves. That's when we saw the Statue of Liberty way off in the distance.

"There she is," someone shouted. A glance and she was gone.

Father knew we were going in the wrong direction, mother still insists. "He kept saying, 'Manhattan's on the wrong side of the car.'"

Seeing no alternative, he followed the heavy traffic until it ended at Idlewild Airport.

Still intent on our New Jersey reservations, mother asked someone to pinpoint Idlewild on a map. Then, "We got in a lane behind a guy who knew where New Jersey was," she says.

We never did reach our motel and spent the night instead at the Newark airport.

The following day we set out to see the sights of New York City. A heavy storm blackened the sky as we began our drive.

I remember well our ascent to the top of the Empire State Building. The fog was so thick you couldn't see the people you were with, much less the spectacle of the teaming city.

We didn't see lady Liberty as planned either. "In plain English, we couldn't find it," mother recalls. Insulted, father interrupts. "Your mother was lost. I was driving."

Fed up with New York, we left the next day for Washington, D.C.

Having lost faith in our ability to stay on track, we opted for a bus tour of our capitol.

It allotted us 15 minutes at the huge, usually-takes-days-to-see Smithsonian Institute, where we saw a couple of old dresses and the Spirit of St. Louis airplane hanging just inside a door.

From there it was a jaunt to the United States mint, where a backlog of visitors on elevators forced us to spend an unnecessary two hours watching workers print money.

Father says we spent the next day at Gettysburg.

"I don't remember seeing Gettysburg," mother says, puzzlement showing in her voice.

"We went all around it in a day," father retorts, sounding happy that he has one-upped mother's memory.

Seems to me we went all around just about everything.

Capital punishment petition turned in

By Carolyn Walker

Those who would like to kill killers in Michigan have moved one step closer to their goal.

On July 7, petitions containing 350,220 signatures were turned over to the Secretary of State election division in Lansing by those favoring capital punishment.

If found to be valid, the petitions would put the capital punishment issue before the voters in November.

The drive to reinstate capital punishment against first degree murderers was spearheaded by Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson, a resident of Independence Township.

While Patterson was out of town and could not be reached for comment, a county investigator Jackie Stewart, who coordinated the drive, was willing to discuss the matter in a telephone interview.

The petitions contained 46,000 more signatures than were required, she said.

Within the next two weeks, 500 to 1,700 sample signatures will be evaluated by the election division to determine if the petitions are valid.

The petitions were to be signed only by registered voters and other concerns, such as proper dating, will be looked at, Stewart said.

If the petitions are found to be acceptable, the issue will go on the November ballot and will ask for repeal of the prohibition of capital punishment in Michigan, Stewart said.

Patterson began his drive in 1984 after failing at a similar petition drive a few years before.

In a January interview with The Clarkston News, Patterson said he was spurred to pursue capital punishment following the 1979 "thrill" killing of Independence Township resident Monica Hockey, who had over 100 wounds in her body.

He quoted her killers as saying, "We'd never seen anybody die before."

Schneider appointed to board

Brenda Schneider of Independence Township has been appointed to the Automobile Theft Prevention Authority Board of Directors by Gov. James J. Blanchard.

Schneider is vice president and director of community relations for Manufacturers National Bank of Detroit. She is also chairperson of the Publicity/Promotion Committee for the Michigan Anti-Car Theft Committee, which she has belonged to since 1978.

Seven people were appointed to the board with terms beginning July 1 and running until 1990. Schneider represents insurance consumers.

"The purpose of the board is to oversee and disperse a pool of funds, $5-6 million, to combat auto theft," said Schneider.

"A lot of people look at car theft as a victimless crime," she said. "It's a very large, profitable business. It's a major, serious crime here that's organized. It needs to be curbed in our state."

The board has two representatives each for consumers, insurance companies and law enforcement and the chairperson is Col. Gerald L. Hough, director of the Michigan Department of State Police.

The board's first meeting is scheduled in early August.

Cottage demolition dropped

Demolition plans for a cottage on the Big Island in Dixie Lake have been dropped.

The owners of the cottage, which has been the target of vandals, have been given 30 days by the Springfield Township board to meet with a building inspector to determine necessary improvements.

The owners will then have 15 days to get a building permit. They had been given six months to bring the cottage up to code with the condition that it be kept secure.

The matter will be automatically set for the February 1987 agenda if the necessary repairs have not been completed.

The board approved the move in a 4-1 vote, with Supervisor Collin Walls dissenting.

At last month's meeting, Walls recommended that the building be demolished and the board moved to seek bids.

The owners secured the building in the mean-

"But it doesn't improve the area except to keep vandals out for a while," said Walls. "I don't consider it a major improvement."

Political signs allowed

Political signs are allowed in the Village of Clarkston, and the sign ordinance does not regulate the size.

The issue arose at Monday's Village Council meeting, but no action was taken.

"We were asked to put them (signs) on our agenda," said council president Sharron Catallo. "I think it was a problem with size."

A large sign on Holcomb Road may be a traffic problem because it might interfere with drivers' vi-

'I think we should have a size limitation," she said. "There didn't seem to be a great amount of concern from the council, so I guess it's a moot issue."

Since the Aug. 5 primary election is just a few weeks away, any ordinance change would be too late to regulate the current signs, she said, adding that "it's something to consider for the future."

Palazzola files lawsuit

A lawsuit was filed last week on behalf of Anthony Palazzola in connection with the plane crash that killed Clarkston High School principal John Kir-

The mid-air crash near the Oakland-Pontiac Airport in Waterford Township last March involved two planes, one flown by Patrick Gorrie, and the other carrying Palazzola and Kirchgessner.

Palazzola and Gorrie were seriously injured and Kirchgessner died the day after the collision.

Palazzola's family filed the lawsuit in Oakland County Circuit Court against Kirchgessner and Gorrie and the plane owners, Tradewinds and The 107th Flying Club.

The suit asks for an amount in excess of $10,000 because of negligence, said Palazzola's attorney Paul

Two weeks ago, Kirchgessner's widow Janis filed a lawsuit against Palazzola and Gorrie, charging them with wrongful death. The suit seeks $10,000 from

Karlstrom guns for golfing glory

By Chris Gerbasi

Gunnar Karlström doesn't want to look too far ahead, but a pro golf career would be nice.

"That's every guy's dream who plays golf," said Karlstrom while relaxing at (where else?) a golf course. "But those guys (the pros) are real good," he said. "I want to get the experience of playing in tournaments. It'd be fun to try. I'll give it a shot. I'd be stupid not to, to go through life wondering."

But first things first. First, Karlstrom will wonder where he might go to college to get that tour-

Gunnar Karlstrom gets ready to take a few practice swings at Spring Lake Country Club. Karlstrom has his eye on a college golf career and he plays two tournaments a week in connection with the Junior District Golf Association.

Wrestling machine

DeRoseau grabs third title

By Chris Gerbasi

Jeff DeRoseau is a wrestling machine.

DeRoseau is an 11-year-old, 62-pound wrestler who won his weight class at the U.S. Grand Nationals for the third straight year last weekend in Indianapolis.

DeRoseau has an astounding overall record of approximately 636 wins and just seven losses. He wrestles so often that it's hard to keep track, but he's never been pinned.

He lives in Brandon Township but competes for the Clarkston Wrestling Club, which has about 60 members. Businesses from around the area helped send DeRoseau and other members of the club to Oklahoma, Texas, St. Louis and Reynoldsburg, Ohio.

He picked up first-place awards at each stop, and the win in Reynoldsburg qualified him for the nationals where he was joined by six other Clarkston Club wrestlers.

Along with DeRoseau's victory, Ruben DeLosRios placed fourth in the 12-15-year-old, 100-pound Junior Division and Brett Walter was fifth in the 60-pound division.

Jeff's broiher Mike, Todd George, Corey Grant and Mark Endreszl also competed. Clarkston's was the only club from Oakland County to wrestle at the nationals, which attracted 2,000 grapplers.

DeRoseau is grateful-to many people, aside from the local merchants.

"I'd like to thank my teammates, especially Brett Walter, Corey Grant and Todd George," he said. "Brett and Corey are my size and they helped me practice and make me this good. Todd helps me build my muscles up and he coaches me."

DeRoseau's busy schedule makes it sound as if he wrestles anywhere, anytime. And he wrestles with anyone, like 16-year-old brother Mike.

"He beats me," said Jeff.

No surprise there. Mike wrestles at Orchard Lake St. Mary's and was all-county in the 112-pound division. But Jeff is gaining experience by wrestling some of the 98-pounders at OLSM.

"The skinny one, I can beat him. I can shoot him easy," said DeRoseau.

"He's good and quick and small," said his father, Bob DeRoseau, who coaches at OLSM. "The taller wrestlers are at a disadvantage because they can't get a hold of him."

When not wrestling with the Clarkston Club, DeRoseau practices with the Flint Kearsley Club under Tony Hill.

"Whenever I ask him to help, he's right there," DeRoseau said.

Ahead for DeRoseau are the Junior Olympics, high school and college, but a career in professional wrestling is out-of-the question.

"It's fake, definitely," he said. "You don't just pick somebody up and throw them out of the ring."

nament experience.

And before that, the Clarkston senior will play out his final year of high school.

The Wolves slumped somewhat this past season after going to the state tournament during Karlstrom's sophomore year.

"I didn't really do so well," he admitted. "Last year was sort of a drawback. Nobody really played up to expectations."

Karlstrom thinks the team has a chance at winning its league this year.

"It depends on how bad we really want it," he said. "We have the talent to do it."

In the meantime, Karlstrom has been staying on top of his game by playing two tournaments a week. He's been involved with the Junior District Golf Association since he was 12.

Last week he barely missed qualifying for the National Junior Amateur tournament, which will be played this weekend at Muirfield Village in Dublin, Ohio. Muirfield is home of the Memorial Tournament hosted by Jack Nicklaus.

Karlstrom shot 75-75 at the Oakland University Golf Course to tie for the second of two qualifying spots. But he lost the spot on the second hole of a sudden death playoff.

"I made par and he made birdie," Karlstrom said. "I played good that day, too. It would have been nice to play that course."

He may still get a chance at playing the course as an alternate. If anyone should drop out of the tourney, he may be called upon.

Karlstrom plays out of Edgewood Country Club in Commerce where club pro Paul Van Loozen has been his mentor.

"He's taught me from square one," said Karlstrom. "I have a lot of confidence in him and what he's teaching me."

"He's turning out to be a solid player," said Van Loozen. "He hits the ball an awfully long ways. He has a good temperament, he's a good putter. The toughest part for him are short wedges. I would think the colleges could use him."

Which college, Karlstrom has no idea. He'd like to go down south where he could play year-round and hone his game. He'd also like to try a Division II school because a top Division I team might be hard to

"I think I could improve more and play more tournaments in Division II," said Karlstrom. "But if I got lucky and went to a Division I school, I wouldn't mind trying it."

Sports

Jeff DeRoseau won his third straight national wrestling title last weekend in indianapolis. The 11-year old, 62-pounder has won over 600 matches while losing just seven times.

Society's scapegoats

Chris Gerbasi

Phrases like "integrity" and "best interests" are popping up again on the sports pages, which means players have once again given way to commissioners and lawyers in the headlines.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle is trying to implement mandatory random drug testing in the National Football League and it appears that athletes are becoming scapegoats of society.

I thought narcotics were against the law and violators were dealt with by law enforcers. Now Rozelle wants to be judge with a jury of 28 owners.

I don't know of any businesses that use mandatory testing, although I suppose there must be some. Pro tennis players began their own drug testing program this year with very little fanfare because tennis is not as highly visible as football, baseball and

But why sports and why now? Athletes make up such a small percentage of the population. But they're in plain view.

Sports are fine when they're fun and games, but when athletes die something must be done to appease the public. Athletes have the rewards of public adulation, but they also have the hindrance of a parasitic media which reports their every move. I've never subscribed to the public eye theory and I don't think the world should watch as athletes go to the john.

Athletes have as much right to privacy as anyone else. Some have personal problems. Personal problems should be dealt with in a personal way.

Testing will not deter the problem drug user. NBA basketball players Micheal Ray Richardson, John Lucas and Quintin Dailey were given chance after chance to pull themselves together. They are now out of the league.

Testing will not preserve the "integrity" of sports. The reputations of the three major sports in this country have been well-trampled upon in recent years through court cases and drug arrests.

Testing will only splash more names and headlines across papers and cast a longer shadow of suspicion across all players. If a player fails a drug test, it will be known. That is the nature of the media.

Confidentiality was already breached in January when a New England Patriots executive leaked to a paper the names of several players who allegedly had drug problems.

The cry of some fans is "We pay their salaries, we should know." Perhaps they should be more concerned with the city bus driver or the doctor doing exploratory surgery.

The cry of some self-righteous journalists has been "If I got caught with drugs; I'd lose my job." Channel 4 sportscaster Fred Hickman recently underwent treatment for drug dependency. He did not lose his job and, hopefully, he is recovered.

He chose to go public with his problem. A choice the athletes should have. It's in their best interests.

The Oakland County Sheriff's Department will serve as the primary public service answering for the 911 emergency system in Springfield Township.

The township board voted 5-0 at its July 9 meeting to select the sheriff's department as dispatcher. The board also voted to use Holly as the secondary answering point for fire calls.

The sheriff's department will not directly dispatch fire calls, but they will be transferred by computer to the Hollý Police Department. Holly will continue as fire dispatcher for about $5,500 annually.

In the same motion, the board said it would explore the possibility of last month's state police offer to serve as an answering point "when and if they guarantee additional police service provided by us doing that," said township Supervisor Collin Walls.

There had been speculation last month that the state police would consider moving its Pontiac post north to give additional service to six townships. In exchange, the townships would use the state police as their 911 answering point and pay approximately $30,000 each for dispatchers.

"It's a relatively cheap cost for additional service," said Walls of the state's offer. "But from a realistic standpoint, I don't think it's ever going to happen."

Earlier this month, the Independence Township Board voted to have the sheriff's department dispatch its 911 calls.

The 911 program is currently being organized by the county and is not expected to be in operation for at least a year.

Dixie lot rezoned

Rezoning requested by Thomas Lowrie of Lowrie's Landscaping was approved in a 5-0 vote by the Springfield Township Board on July 9.

Lowrie asked that three acres at 9539 Dixie Highway be rezoned from C-1 to C-2 classification. C-1 zoning is for local commercial business, while C-2 is for general commercial business.

Lowrie intends to occupy the large house at the location and convert the small house into an office area. The rezoning allows him to expand and have outside display of stock.

Warning: Don't fill hot engines with gasoline

By Kathy Greenfield

Burnell King and his wife Betty June were out for a ride a couple of weeks ago when they came upon an unforgettable scene.

King stopped the car when he saw flames shooting out of a garage on Baldwin Road in Gaines Township. A boy, 14 or 15 years old, was running around outside.

After learning that the boy's sister, who was near his age, was inside the house, King yelled for her to get out. The fire department was called and while they waited for firefighters to arrive, the attached garage burned to a crisp and the house was destroyed.

"It was a total loss," he said, adding that the only item saved was a stereo he managed to pull from the house before it filled with smoke.

King, an Independence Township resident, shares his story because he believes the fire could have been avoided if some lawnmower safety rules had been followed.

The boy had been mowing the lawn. The lawnmower ran out of gas, so he pushed it into the garage for a refill. When he poured gasoline into the hot engine, the blaze started.

'You don't fill up a hot one. You don't fill it up in the garage for sure," said King. "It taught me a lesson. I never saw anything like that thing-flames pouring out of a garage.'

While there has never been a garage fire in Independence Township caused by filling a hot engine with gasoline, there have been several outdoor lawn mower fires, said Fire Marshall Gar Wilson.

"Any motor that you run and you've run for a long time that gets hot, you should wait until it cools off before you fill it," he said. "If you spill any (gasoline), you've definitely got a chance for a fire."

Wilson also suggests using a funnel to decrease the chance of spilling fuel.

He compares putting gas into a hot engine with dropping a glowing cigarette into an overstuffed chair: Eight out of 10 times, the cigarette will extinguish; the other two times, there will be a fire.

"You're flirting with odds if you do it," he said. "It's best to let that engine cool off before you fill it, and I don't think there's too many people who do it that way. It's quite a problem.

"Anything you fuel should be done outside," he added. "You're just taking an awful chance with Wilson adds a bang to his warnings by noting that a gallon of gasoline is considered to be equal to three sticks of dynamite.

"So you've got to figure, you have almost one stick of dynamite in the gas tank on your little mower," he said.

Tra-Tech works to solve problems

Problems at Tra-Tech Midwest Van Conversion are under control, according to company representatives. On July 9, the company president and plant manager assured the Springfield Township Board that they are near completion of construction of a paint building.

Site improvements had been approved along with the site plan April 9. At the June board meeting, Robert Wilton of Springfield Township and Gary Dovre of UAW-GM Legal Services had complained of noise and that no improvements had begun or been

At last week's meeting, Tra-Tech plant manager Gary Carbary said construction was "90 percent complete" and estimated full completion in about two

"We're as anxious to gain an occupancy permit to get into the building and operate under the approved site plan as anybody is," said Tra-Tech president Dave Pierson at the meeting.

Wilton said that the noise of the P.A. system had been abated. Township Supervisor Collin Walls said the board erred in not getting performance guarantees from Tra-Tech. Such a guarantee is financial assurance to the township that a company will do what is on the site

The board moved to require performance guarantees, if necessary, before Tra-Tech's occupancy of the paint building and that the matter will be put back on the August agenda if site work has not been completed.

Church gets permit

A building permit for the construction of the Waterford Baptist Church was obtained July 14.

In a 6-0 vote July 10, the Independence Township Planning Commission approved the 5,000-square-foot building, which is to stand on five acres next to the Clarkston Eagles Lodge on Maybee Road near Sashabaw Road.

It took almost no discussion for the Independence Township Planning Commission to grant final approval to the petitioners.

The motion included township planner Richard Carlisle's request that the developers better describe where they plan to place outdoor lights.

Voting to approve the facility were Chairman Neil Wallace, and commission members Carol Balzarini, Brent Bair, Joseph Figa, Betty Jo Fussman and John Gray. Holly Stephens was absent.

From Mexico to Michigan

Teacher Sherill Bailey brings home fond memories

By Julie LePere

Mexico . . . tortillas . . . scents and aromas of the markets . . . bicycle carts . . . bright city lights at night . . . throngs of people walking . . . poverty of the houses on the hillside.

"The pictures are all in my mind," said Sherril Bailey, a Clarkston teacher who returned this summer after teaching in Mexico for the last two years.

"It's been an extension of me." she said.

Her years there seem to have transformed her. She grew her hair long; it's dark and thick. Wearing a hand-embroidered cotton dress, she looks Mexican.

She lost weight, too, she said. She walked a lot and ate traditional Mexican food.

Her work in Mexico will always be a part of her, said Sherril, and her work prior to it was good

Born and raised in Traverse City, Sherril worked with the migrant children during the summers as teacher and director of a school program. During the school year, she attended Central Michigan University and studied education, with a minor in Spanish.

After graduating, she moved to Clarkston for a job at Andersonville Elementary School. She taught 14 years, and found time towolunteer her services to different organizations.

Once about three years ago, she spent two weeks with a church in Mexico. The next year, she took a leave of absence from her work here to teach in a private bilingual school there.

So began her two-year affair with the Instituto

Laurens in Monterrey.

"I loved the concept of the school," said Sherril. "It's bilingual, totally. . . . To think (the students) have two languages by the time they're 12 years old . . . really astounded me.

"I went down with the intention of staying one year. . . . By March, I was in love with the kids."

She was also involved with the school and church, and she was offered the job of English coordinator of the school.

After receiving another leave of absence from Clarkston Schools, she accepted the job.

The city of Monterrey has a population of almost 4 million, and the way of life there took a little getting used to, said Sherril.

"Poverty is very real. The average person makes the equivalent of $3.50 a day," she said. "I have learned how affluent we are here in the U.S.

"In Mexico, all I could afford on my salary was a room in a house . . . It really made me appreciate what I have here.

She paid for room and board with one-third of her salary. The second year, she had her own cooking

"One of the things I had to learn to live with was that the water is shut off in certain times of the day,' she said. "That was interesting. We don't even think about water here."

Where Sherril lived, water was available only in the morning, and there were strict fines for wasting water by watering lawns or washing a car with running

The food was typical Mexican fare. She did not eat bread for the entire two years there. Now she prefers tortillas to bread. She mentioned caution when eating food in Mexico. Fruits and vegetables that could not be peeled had to be soaked in iodine because human waste is used in fertilization.

"In the two years I was there, I was never sick," she said. Middle-class Monterrey was not much different than middle-class Michigan, she said. The city is modern, with shopping malls and cultural centers.

"I adapt fairly easily anyway, but I didn't experience a culture shock. Some people do," she said. 'I missed the snow here, . . . around Monterrey, it's mostly desert. However, on three sides it's surrounded by mountains. . . . Part of the beauty of Monterrey is the mountains. . . . They made me feel secure.

'What I liked most is the people. . . . They're very open-armed. . . . There's just a warmth about the people that invites you in."

Since the economy is bad, many people are out of work, she said. The nation's large industries were nationalized some time ago, and as the country went bankrupt, the companies and the workers suffered,

"I'm not sure what's going to happen in Mexico now, with the economy so bad," she said.

Many of the people are dissatisfied with the government and the 15 percent or higher sales tax.

While following the Statue of Liberty celebration in the U.S., Sherril thought about Mexico's feeling that it's not free in Mexico," she said.

While in Monterrey, Sherill sang in the English speaking Union Church, performed in "The Music Man" and "had a riot," she said.

She kept up with events in the U.S. and Michigan, and when she heard of Clarkston's CROP Walk, she organized a hunger walk in Monterrey.

In fact, she organized three hunger walks. She also gave language presentations at the University in Monterrey and at seminars and conferences. And she worked with McGraw-Hill Publishing Co. helping with some textbooks.

Now, she's looking forward to the new school year. She will be teaching second grade at Clarkston Elementary School, a new age and a new school for

Travelers from town survive scare

By Kathy Greenfield

The refueling of the 340-passenger airline with 27 Clarkston area residents aboard proceeded routinely-until an engine caught on fire at the airport in Gander, Newfoundland.

The experience occurred Sunday at about 5 p.m. during the return trip from a church-group exchange visit to Biberach, West Germany.

"They revved up the engines and the left one caught on fire," said the Rev. Robert Walters, pastor of Calvary Lutheran Church. "One of the stewardesses was a little upset—and she yelled, 'Fire!'

Walters laughed at the memory, then added that "it's good to laugh about it now."

The panic was slight, he said, as the passengers were directed by the American Trans-Air charter flight's crew to depart using the plane's emergency exit chutes.

At the chute near the seat of Walters and his wife, Bev, a stewardess directed some youngsters from Clarkston to exit first. Ray and Matt Eby and Mike Walters then caught the passengers as they slid to safety, "like catching a little kid on a slide at Depot Park," said Walters.

Aside from some elbow burns and a woman on another chute who may have cracked her tailbone when she hit the ground, there were no injuries, he said.

An eight-hour delay followed at the small airport while passengers waited for the plane that carried them home to arrive from Birmingham. Ala. The coffee shop had seats for 50, so most of the passengers slept on the floor in several lounges.

There was also a flurry of activity in the gift shops as passengers purchased shirts stamped with "I Survived Gander." Gander was the site of the military airplane crash in December that claimed the lives of all on board.

The weary passengers arrived at Metro Airport at about 6 a.m. Monday.

The Clarkston group's trip to Biberach followed a visit last year from members of the town's Friedenskirche, or Peace Church. Aside from the excitement on the way home, the visit was a roaring success, Walters said.

"We had a great time in Germany. It was really fine," he said.

Karen Simmons is a true "Clarkstonite."

Her family moved here when she was 4 and she attended Clarkston schools kindergarten through 12th grade. She has taught early elementary grades for 16 years at Bailey Lake Elementary School.

She lived at home in Clarkston and commuted to Oakland University, Rochester, where she earned a bachelor's degree in elementary education with a minor in history.

Upon her marriage to Ken Simmons, they decided to remain in Clarkston.

Their loyalty to the community is such that through they live on the dividing line of Independence and Brandon townships and though their children attend Brandon schools. they insist that Clarkston is their home town.

Ken works at G.B. Dupont in Troy but finds I-75 to be an easy drive. He is an all-season sports fan and also a big Clarkston football and basketball fan, attending many of their home and away games.

Their son Mark is 12 years old and in the seventh grade. Fishing is Mark's great love but he also enjoys swimming, outdoors, winter activities, computers and Daughter Julie, an adopted Korean youngster, is 9 years old and in the third grade. (Karen likes to compare classes.) Though Julie loves horses, she's only allowed models. Julie enjoys practicing gymnastic and cheerleading skills and also piano.

Karen feels that 4-year-old Ann has developed a strong will and independent spirit to be sure she isn't overlooked.

Having a full-time job teaching and also trying to be a full-time mother and housewife are more than enough responsibilities for Karen.

She prefers to spend any "free" time watching the birds at her feeders, reading, flower gardening and being home with her family.

She is a Sunday school teacher at Calvary Lutheran Church, Clarkston, where the family at-

By living with German families, they hoped to have a more authentic cultural experience than the one just touring would provide.

Teaching is satisfying for Karen because she not only enjoys working with children, but she gets satisfaction from seeing them make so much progress.

Her art activities bespeak the fact that she can capture the feeling and spirit of childhood. Her haunted houses at Halloween are a must see.

Karen says, "Seeing high school students turned off to learning motivated me to become an elementary teacher.

"I wanted to motivate and encourage young children. I try to keep them interested and provide successful experiences for the children.

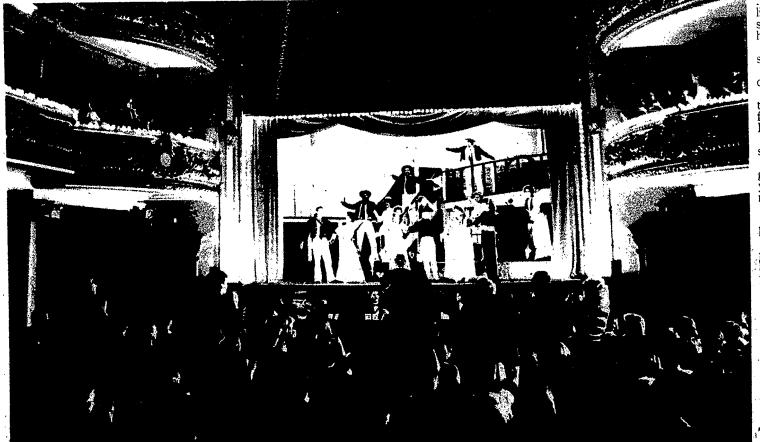

"I try to be patient and understanding of the emotional as well the academic needs of the small people who share my classroom."

So when private citizens and business people got together to restore this priceless landmark, a lot of our people asked what part they could play.

You see, we're not just bankers. We're part of the community.

So we believe that sometimes it's just as important to lend a hand as it is to lend someone money.

At First of America Bank, we're proud we were part of the impressive community cast of characters that raised the money it took to bring the opera house back to life. And we applaud the entire town's con-

Neff sees Indian way of life

By Julie LePere

A recent trip gave Lori Neff a glimpse of the way of life at an Indian reservation in Arizona.

Enduring two days of solid rain, dry, scorching heat and language barriers, she and seven others worked at Fort Defiance, a Navajo Indian reservation.

The trip was organized by the First Presbyterian Church of Pontiac's youth group, of which Lori is a member.

The six teens and two chaperones left Michigan in station wagons and arrived in the arid land to help prepare the homes on the reservation. They met people from all over the United States who gathered to weatherize the dwellings.

"We put up doors. Some of us stuccoed. We did the roofing, put up tiles and tiles on the floor," said the Independence Township resident.

The Indians who lived there sometimes fried bread for them. They also made jewelry and either sold or gave it to them, said the 17-year-old.

"Not everyone spoke English. We had to use our hands to talk," Lori said. "It was really hard sometimes because we didn't know what they were saying."

Of the five days they worked, three brought rain.

"I'd planned on going and getting tanned, but it rained," she said. "In Arizona, the ground doesn't soak up the water, so it just turned to mud. The vans kept getting stuck, and we had to keep pushing them. It was awful,"

Despite the rain, she liked the weather the best, preferring the dry heat of Arizona to Michigan's humid heat. Everyone warned them to take water with them wherever they went, so they wouldn't get dehydrated.

In the first couple of days, when she was learning how to stucco and tile, she saw people fainting because they didn't drink enough water, she said.

But everyone survived, and she's looking forward to another trip next summer.

"We had a choice of going there or going to West Virginia, so I'm hoping next summer we can go someplace different like West Virginia. . . . the Appalachian Mountains," she said.

In the future, she would like to make the ultimate trip, a permanent move to New York.

"I love New York. I adore it. I love everything about it," she said. "Even if I'm a secretary somewhere, and I don't have a career, I still want to live there."

The Clarkston High School senior does have plans for the future, however.

"I'd like to be a vocal student," Lori said, "I'm in the Madrigals at the high school, and I'd like to pursue something on the stage."

Lori Neff worked at an Arizona Navajo Indian reservation for a week last month. Next summer, the Independence Township resident hopes to work in the Appalachian Mountains.

Conlen helps others see the way

By Julie LePere

Kate Conlen is involved in many activities, but it's the Eyes Against Darkness 4-H group that she's most involved with this summer.

The club raises Leader Dogs for the Blind. Kate is working on her second puppy. Benny. She feeds him, grooms him, trains him and goes to the monthly meetings with him. The golden retriever is almost 13 months old.

"I like animals a lot," said Kate. "They're a lot of fun. I just like working with animals."

At Benny's first show, he scored 180 points of 180 in the obstacle course-like competition.

He will enter the Oakland County 4-H show in late July, and Kate is preparing him. It's an important show for Kate because Benny will only be with the Conlen family for about two more months. At that time, he'll go to the Leader Dog School for the Blind in Rochester, Mich.

"Everybody says, 'Don't you hate to give him up?' . . . I guess when you think about giving them up what you're giving them up for makes it a little easier," she said.

"This dog has been great. . . He has such a nice personality that you can't help but love him."

Last year at Clarkston High School where Kate is a junior, she saw a dog with a blind person.

"That's the most rewarding thing to see," she said.

With Kate's other activities, she has to manage her time well in order to fit in Benny.

"It takes a lot of time. It's not something that you can take the dog and forget he's there," she said.

Kate is also involved in two other 4-H clubs. With the Citizen Short Course, she went to Washington, D.C., for a week this summer and learned about the capitol and about law-making. She's secretary of the Seymour Lake 4-H club.

And she belongs to LABO, a group that arranges student exchanges with other countries. This summer, she will host a student from Japan for a month at her home on Robertson Court in Clarkston. Next summer, she will have a chance to visit Japan in an exchange visit.

A runner on CHS track and cross country teams. Kate is also a member of the Davison Racquetball Club swim team.

"It gets to be hectic, but that's the way I like it. I get bored easily. I like to be doing things," said Kate. Kate's brothers Matt and John are involved in

Fathers fight for equal rights

By Chris Gerbasi

"Women think because they bear children they own them," says Alan Lebow, executive director of Fathers for Equal Rights of America.

Lebow and the organization have been trying for seven and one-half years to right the wrongs they believe exist in divorce and custody laws.

"Right now our biggest project is to try to impact and put a stop to the courts' sexism." said Lebow. "They hardly ever give custody to a man or enforce a man's rights to visitation."

According to Lebow, in custody cases, 92 percent of children end up living with the mother, 4 percent live with the father and 4 percent live with someone other than a parent.

Lebow also said according to a study from the Health and Human Services Department. "which was never publicized." the probability of a man who earns $5,000 a year or more paying support to his ex-wife is 83 percent.

That figure rises to 91 percent probability for a man earning $20,000 or more and to 96 percent for an income of $25,000 or more.

Not only does Lebow think men get the short end in court, but he also feels that few people are aware of the situation.

NBC recently aired a program entitled "How Divorce is Changing America." The Fathers organization thought the show was one-sided in favor of the woman's point of view.

Lebow wrote an editorial in the group's newsletter and vice-president of public relations John Rossler wrote a letter to hostess Jane Pauley.

Rossler wrote: "That your White Paper on Divorce so obviously omitted the trauma the process inflicts on fathers—and their children—exhibits either a journalistic bias or a cursory investigation of a complex issue. . . As an objective journalist, you blev it."

Lebow believes the media is sexist in general.
"Men are raised to be protectors of women." he

"I had to keep paying child support and she kept trying to raise it and raise it and raise it. They took away my visitation and I still gotta pay money? It ain't ... right."

-Mike Spencer

said. "I don't think any major network would have the gall or guts to do a program that's 95 percent from the male's view."

Rather than the media. Fathers for Equal Rights uses the courts as its venue to change attitudes about men's rights to custody.

Mike Spencer of Clarkston just joined the group last week and he's hoping the staff of lawyers and therapists can help put an end to a four-year ordeal.

Spencer has not seen his son or daughter in four years. When he was getting a divorce from the mother of the children, she accused him of sexually abusing the daughter.

His rights to visitation were denied and it took three years for a judge to throw the allegations out of court.

"They never served me any papers," said Spencer. "I had to keep paying child support and she kept trying to raise it and raise it and raise it.

"They took away my visitation and I still gotta pay money? That ain't g----- right."

After a year to regroup, Spencer is now ready for another battle, with the help of the Fathers. He may wind up suing everyone involved in preventing him from seeing his children, such as the county, state and federal government.

"Mr. Lebow thinks I've got a real good chance of getting custody." said Spencer. "They really push for the fathers. I thought it was the best way to go."

THE SHOW MUST GO ON: The raindrops didn't stop concert-goers last Friday. About 250 showed up for the Jim Morris Concert Band, Clarkston's second Concert in the Park. The

Emil Sutt Orchestra will be playing this week, featuring big band music, including "When You Wish Upon a Star," "New York, New York" and "Summertime." The free concerts, sponsored by the Clarkston Village Business Association, are scheduled in Depot Park each Friday in July. The two-hour concerts begin at 7 p.m. [Photo by Julie LePere]

Just for 4th-, 5th- What's this black, sticky stuff?

What is this new black stuff that's sticky and cheap?

Should I Try It?

Dear Should I:

You are probably referring to "Black Tar" which is a potent new form of heroin smuggled in from Mexico. It is frequently sticky but can also be hard like

Black tar sells for as little as one-tenth the price of conventional Mexican heroin powder, about $2.50 a dose.

Authorities say that black tar is up to 45 times as pure as conventional Mexican heroin, a fact which is blamed for a number of overdose deaths.

No, I don't think you should try it! Why would anyone want to become addicted to heroin or any other drug?

Dear Cat Paw:

What does cocaine do to your heart?

Chest Pains

Dear Chest Pains:

Cocaine use can cause irregular heartbeats called arrythmias in young, healthy people. These irregular heartbeats can lead to heart attack and sudden death in people with no history of heart problems.

Cocaine speeds the heart rate significantly and even small amounts can lead to heart attacks.

Dear Cat Paw:

I just want to tell you that it isn't fair that I should be held responsible if my friends come over and drink and smoke a little pot. I don't make them drink or smoke, so why is it my fault if anything happens?

Not Fair!

Dear Not Fair:

The basic premise is that if you decide to let someone break the law, then you have to pay the price. The law requires people to take responsibility for their decisions.

Dear Cat Paw: What does PCP do to you?

Concerned

Dear Concerned:

The drug damages brain cells, causing violent, unpredictable behavior and memory loss. Hideous mutilations are not uncommon with PCP, and it's responsible for hundreds of local tragedies.

Because PCP is stored in fatty tissues, it may take up to two years for the body to be totally free of the drug. The user may never regain unimpeded speech and clear thinking.

Back to school?

Michelle Blomberg

I couldn't believe it! I began to flip the pages of the July 2 issue of The Clarkston News when suddenly I stopped.

Something on the front page caught my eye. It was the headline: "School starting date to be Aug.

"What!" I exclaimed. Quickly, I skimmed the article. No way could school be starting Aug. 27! That's way too soon!

I've waited for this summer too long for it to end this quickly. I can't believe I'll be back in school next Bad points of this early return date include the following: First of all, it will be unbearably hot. We'll swelter in the classrooms. Hopefully, the high school students will be allowed to wear bermudas and walking shorts like we were last year.

Second, we'll have to sit in school doing work knowing that at the same time students in other districts are still lounging around their pools.

Third, a family planning a trip for late August and early September would have to return early just so their kids could start school on time.

How could there be a good side to this?

Actually there is. In the long run, this early date will be appreciated. Since this year is the first year that students have to make up any school days missed due to inclement weather, extra days will be added onto the school year.

By the time May comes rolling around, students are getting restless. We want school to end as soon as possible. Extra days added to the end of the year would not be welcomed, especially to seniors eager to graduate.

I think we students can handle starting the year a little earlier rather than dragging it out in the end.

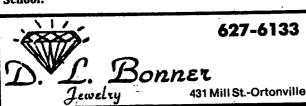

Believe it or not, there is one other good point. Going back to school early may be a cure for summertime boredom.

Usually by mid-August, I start to feel there is absolutely nothing to do. I actually get the strange feeling that I want to go back to school.

If this strange feeling strikes again this year, then maybe Aug. 27 will be a date starred on my calendar.

All in all, Aug. 27 may be a good day for students or a bad day. However you feel about it, just keep in mind that the date has been set, so you might as well get used to it.

Michelle Blomberg is a senior at Clarkston High School.

Citizens to meet with Nichols

The 25-member citizens' group studying police protection in Independence Township plans to meet with Oakland County Sheriff John Nichols on Wednesday, July 23.

Members of the community are welcome to join in the session at 7:30 p.m. at the township hall annex. 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

If they have any specific questions for the sheriff, this would be the time to show up," said Frank Millard, the Clarkston resident who organized the citizens' group.

From the session. Millard said he expects to learn precisely what the sheriff's department services are and if there are any other services available "that the general public may not be aware of."

The goal of the citizens' group is to have a representative speak from each type of police agency before committees are formed to study such items as insurance costs, he said.

In addition to representatives from the sheriff's department and state police, the list includes a multitown police department, a community with a similar population and its own police department, and a community with public safety officers who provide both fire and police services.

On July 1, the Independence Township Board put its stamp of approval on the study by granting the group use of the township hall annex for meetings and appointing Clerk Richard Holman as its representative.

Millard said he expects the study to take a year. It is to conclude with a recommendation to the township board and a ballot proposal for 1987.

your family doctor, but suddenly he says he'll have to refer you to someone else, such as a surgeon, and you have to go through it all again.

Well, not necessarily so. Not if your family doctor is V. Prathikanti of Goodrich Medical Center. Dr. Prathikanti is a certified general surgeon who also operates a general practice.

Located at 7320 S. State next to Wheelock Memorial Hospital since 1974, Dr. Prathikanti energy practicing in the Goodrich area. "We can get to know each other very well," he said of his parients.

Serving his internship and residency at St. Joseph Hospital in Flint, he did his general surgicul training for four years at Mt. Carmel Hospital in Detroit. He also practiced a year and a half with the Veterans Administration.

Much of Dr. Prathikanti's practice consists of patients who hear about him from others who are delighted with his services. He said being a surgeon helps him provide "total patient care in one place."

Accessibility is also an important part of the doctor's practice, he said. He noted he is available for patients to talk to either in person or over the phone on most occasions.

Dr. Prathikanti said he became a physician because he was motivated by his parents and because he had a sick grandmother who needed medical attendants.

Conveniently located next to Wheelock Memorial Hospital, Dr. Prathikanti is also on the staff of McLaren General, Hurley Medical Center

Home-cooked goodness at Wooden Frog

While in Goodrich helping celebrate the sesquicentennial or maybe next week you get a craving for some good home-cooked food, stop by and see Terry Tody at The Wooden Frog Eatery.

Located at 8365 S. State, The Wooden Frog Eatery offers a full menu in "a friendly, family-style atmosphere," as Tody explains it. She said the restaurant was developed so that an entire family can afford to go out to

All of the beef served at The Wooden Frog is homeraised and the eggs are farm fresh. To top off your lunch or dinner, there are plenty of homemade pies and other desserts.

Each day Tody puts together a luncheon special and tries to keep the price under $3. There are also breakfast and dinner specials.

Every Friday night The Wooden Frog Eatery features a smorgasbord with three or four meat entrees such as roast beef, pork and barbecue ribs. Also included are homemade soups.

The first Saturday of each month The Wooden Frog features, what else, homestyle frog legs.

The small and personable restaurant is a regular meeting place for many folks in the Goodrich area.

All of the menu items at The wooden Frog are available for take out. You can call in your order at 636-2090

In addition to the fresh, homemade food, Tody said it is the polite and courteous service that sets The Wooden Frog apart from other restaurants. She also tries to give her customers all those "little extra touches" that they have come to expect.

Having been open 14 months, The Wooden Frog is an important part of the Goodrich business community. Tody is active in the Chamber of Commerce and with the Sesquicentennial Committee. During the sesquicentennial The Wooden Frog will feature a number of specials.

"We try to do for the community," Tody said. She sponsors a Little League team and provides free television guide books to her customers.

The Wooden Frog Eatery is open Tuesday through Saturday from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. and from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Sunday. It is closed on Monday.

Dr. Clark takes care of the whole family

Throughout its history, the Goodrich area has been a close-knit, family oriented community. Today there is a physician in town that specializes in families.

Dr. Mark Clark opened his office in Goodrich two years ago and has been treating families from the area ever since. His office is located at 7523 State.

Dr. Mark Clark with his staff, (I to r) Lisa Rohmer, Denise Richardson, Traci Smith, Marsha

"I'm family oriented," Dr. Clark explained. "I have kids of my own and can relate to family patients I have."

While the old family practioner was pictured as a doctor with his little black bag who had general knowledge of medicine but little expertise in any particular area, today things are different.

Dr. Clark explains that family practice is a specialty of its own today. He said he did a three-year residency and received additional training in the field before setting up his office in Goodrich.

Still, Clark said he likes this specialty area because "I like to see a variety of things." That also is a benefit for the patients. "You're somebody who has a better perspective on what might be wrong. You can look at all aspects having to do with the family. In fact, we like to see the whole family in our practices.".

Dr Clark graduated from the University of Michigan Medical School in 1981 and served his residency at St. Joseph Hospital in Flint. While at St. Joe, he lived in the Davison area and became quite attached to the neighboring community of Goodrich. When it was time to open his own practice, he selected Goodrich because he was "looking for a smaller community with a local hospital" and because of his familiarity with the area.

What makes Dr. Clark's practice different from many others? "I think I spend a little more time talking with patients and educating patients as to what's going on," he explained.

As for what prompted him to get into medicine, Clark said, "I just knew I wanted to be in a science-related field. And, I thought I would like to be of service to people and help people."

Dr. Clark's office is open Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. by appointment. It is closed on Wednesdays during the summer but will be open Wednesday mornings during the winter months. Call 636-2235 for an appointment.

viding customers with not only quality products and competitive prices, but also giving them the service they deserve.

For example they will not only pack or bag your groceries, but will also carry them out to the car and load them for you. "We try to give everyone good, courteous and fast service," Rankin said.

Referring to prices, he commented, "We're competitive, no doubt about that."

Being part of IGA (Independent Grocers Association) gives Rankin the ability to taylor the store to the community, giving it a personality that most others lack.

For residents of the area, Rankin said there is no need to travel to Flint or other larger towns to get what they need. Rankin IGA features all name brands as well as IGA's own Fame brand products. There is a full line meat department headed by Don Dobos and a produce department that features only the freshest fruits and vegetables available.

"Freshness, quality and price," are the keystones of Rankin IGA, Rankin stated.

Built in 1976, Rankin purchased the store in 1982 and although it is the only grocery store in town, he has maintainted and improved the quality of products and service since that time.

Maurice Reid Antiques preserves our heritage

As Goodrich celebrates its 150th birthday and looksback on its history and heritage, what better way to preserve that heritage than with some fine antiques or collectables?

For 40 years now, Maurice E. Reid Antique Shop at 8470 Perry Road in Atlas has helped preserve a little piece of history with one of the best collections of antique furniture and other items in the area.

Reid said he has been interested in antiques since he was 16 years old. He began in the business by restoring old furniture before opening his shop. "There has always been a market is still is," he smiled.

"We handle authentic antiques," Reid emphasized. He noted the definition of antiques is that they must be at least 100 years old. While many so-called "antique shops" handle items that are nowhere near 100 years old, very few will be found at Reid's Antique Shop.

Reid is primarily interested in American antiques, specializing in American furniture, especially from the Federal period of 1789-1830. "It's high-style country," he'said of the furniture from this period.

In addition to the shop, Reid and his apprentice, John Fettig, operate a complete wood working shop and can do any type of restoration the customer may desire, although Reid notes that restoration is not always the best route to go with antiques, especially if the buyer is planning to do it themselves.

Although Reid said that antiques can be investments, he quickly added that buying an antique for an investment is the wrong reason. "You should like it, you should be able to use it and you should be able to afford it," he said.

Reid has one item that is directly tied to the history of Goodrich. It is a walking cane made for and owned by Levi Goodrich, one of founder Moses Goodrich's sons.

You won't find a wide variety of antiques and collectables at Maurice E. Reid Antique Shop because as Reid put it, "I don't buy things I don't understand"

But, if you are looking for some antique American furniture and someone who knows the subject thoroughly, stop by and see Maurice E. Reid and take advantage of his 40 years of experience and expertise in the field.

Maurice Reid and John Fettig show off some of the collectables available at their shop.

Town Pride Carpet

Bob Frey takes 'pride' in your home

You've decided it's time to spruce up the old homestead with some new carpet, floor covering, wall paper or window treatments, but all the hype and high pressure pitches have you confused?

Relax. Just stop in and see Bob Frey at Town Pride Carpet in Goodrich. For the past 13 years he has been catering to his customers' needs honestly and without all the hpye that is associated with many of the so-called discouré dealers.

"We're very, very competative," Frey stated. "I don't care what they advertise, we all pay the same price for it."

Town Pride Carpet features brand names and finest quality merchandise at prices comparable to any of those advertised elswhere. And, at Town Pride customers "are going to get what they pay for," Frey said.

All brands of wall paper are available at Town Pride and a host of window treatments such as vertical blinds, horizontal blinds, mini-blinds, and brands like Woven Wood, Kirsch, Levolor and Graher

Moreover, Frey said he enjoys the hometown atmosphere. "It's more gratifying." He also noted that since he lives in Goodrich and has children in the Goodrich Schools, he sees many of his customers around town or at the coffee shop. And, that does make a difference.

Over the 13 years Frey has been in business, he has built up quite a trust among his customers. He siad as much as 80 percent of his business these days is from word of mouth and repeat customers. One major attraction is the interest-free financing he offers.

Town Pride Carpet is located at 8217 State Road in Goodrich. It is open 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 9:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. Friday and 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday. Call them at 036-2206.

Frey credits his "super good installers" with helping build up his business. He noted all carpets are trimmed and power stretched.

Frey is also active in the Goodrich community. He sponsors a Little League team, bowling teams and contributes to various projects for the hospital, Luons Club, church organizations and the ambulance service.

Goodrich:

Founding family brought with them ideals that still live today

The Village of Goodrich was founded by and gets its name from the Goodrich family who first came to this area in 1835.

Because the nine-member family had outgrown its 114-acre farm in Clarence, New York, Levi Goodrich sent two of his sons, Moses and Enos to "the land of the setting sun" in far off Michigan to find a new home.

Moses and Enos Goodrich came to Atlas Township and purchased more than 1,000 acres of land from the government. The next year, 1836, the rest of the family came and joined them and the Village of Goodrich was born.

The Goodrich family founded mills, a village store and opened thousands of acres to agriculture. In the two years that followed, some 30 other families from Erie County, New York followed the Goodrich lead and made their way to Atlas Township and this rich, promised land along the Kearsley Creek.

Since that time the Goodrich area has thrived, but still maintains its small-town atmosphere and the people still have the honest work ethic so strongly cherished by Moses Goodrich.

Many descendents of Moses, Levi and the other members of the Goodrich family still reside in the Goodrich Area as do members of the other families who came from New York to stake their claims in the area. On some of the headstones in the Goodrich Cemetery you can still make out the names of some of these founding fathers.

Reflecting on his first trip to the area and the founding of Goodrich some 50 years later, Enos Goodrich wrote, "It is a long and weary road that we have traveled, and as I look back through the dim vista of intervening time and comtemplate the vicissitudes of fortune that have awaited us, the obstacles and privations that we have been called upon to encounter, the successes and failures that have attended our efforts, I feel, that while at times we had hoped to accomplish more, we have upon the whole, no good reason to be dissatisfied with the general result; on the contrary, I feel that in our case, as in case of all of us, the words, 'veni, vidi, vici,' should be written upon our shield. 'We came, we saw, we conquered.''

Dr. Kanuri joins Dr. Dutt in providing health care

For the past 15 years Dr. K.E. Dutt has been serving the needs of his patients in the Goodrich area. Now, he has been joined by new associate, Dr. R. Kanuri.

Both Dutt and Kanuri are internal medicine specialists. That means they diagnos and treat a host of medical problems, according to Dutt.

It is the diagnosis that keeps Dr. Dutt coming to the office each morning. "Diagnosis of disease is the exciting thing and always attracted me," he commented. "It requires a lot of thinking."

Dr. Dutt is on the staff at both St. Joseph Hospital in Flint and at Wheelock Memorial Hospital in Goodrich. In fact, he was chief of staff at Wheelock twice previously and is currently chief elect.

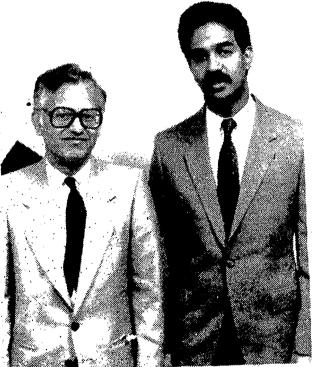

'Taking care of people and interacting with people,"Dutt explained as the primary reason he got into medicine.

While both Dutt and Kanuri are internal medicine specialists, both also serve as primary care physicians and are accepting new patients.

The offices of Dr. Dutt and Dr. Kanuri are located at 7523 S. State in Goodrich. Their office hours are 9:30 a,m. to 1 p.m. and 1:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. For an appointment call 636-2335.

The Goodrich area has always been rich in physicians and health care providers. Today D. K.E. Dutt and Dr. R. Kanuri are continuing that traction with their internal medicine practice. As a result, here is no need for the residents of the area to travel elsewhere for they health care.

Dr. Dutt and Dr. Kanuri have joined forces at their office on S. State in Goodrich.

Jan's is one of top boat, motor dealers

For many folks the first time they visit Goodrich is when they are in the market for a new boat and motor or a snowmobile and they naturally head for Jan's Sport Shop.

Since first opening her doors in 1969 Jan Hempton has built up quite a reputation for quality products, reliable service and low prices on a host of brand name boats, Mercury outboard motors and Merc Crusier stern drives as well as Yamaha snowmobiles.

"We draw from a large area and get a lot of repeat business," Jan noted. And, with good reason. Jan's is known throughout the area as one of the top dealers for selection, price and service.

In fact, Jan's Sport Shop, located at 7285 State Road in Goodrich has won several national awards from Mercury and Yamaha for its service and for being one of the top volume dealers. Whether you are looking for a bass boat, ski boat, pontoon or just about any other kind of watercraft, you are sure to find a wide selection at Jan's Sport Shop. Jan's is a family owned and operated business. Son, Brad, is the service manager and daughter, Janell is a marketing major from Michigan State University and helps out with the office work.

Get an original at Whitmer Farms

Tired of sending flowers only to find your arrangement is just like everybody else's? Then you need to visit Whitmer Farms at 10274 M-15, about halfway between Ortonville and Goodrich.

Owners Lenore and Ken Whitmer pride themselves on creating the unique and one-of-a-kind arrangements. They say they refuse to "go by the book" as they do in most flower shops.

Whitmer Farms opened in January 1976 as a garden center and feed store. In 1981 they started their first greenhouse. They now have three. Two years ago on the Fourth of July Whitmer Farms entered the flower business and there has been no turning back.

Ken and Lenore grow many of their own greens and floral items right on the premises and try to acquire some unusual plants. They also receive delivery of fresh flowers three times each week.

"I don't do any two pieces alike," declared Lenore, who does most of the floral arrangements. "That is unless it's for a wedding when they are supposed to look alike.'

She explained that at many flower shops a customer will be shown a book and told to pick an arrangement they like. Since most flower shops use the same book, many of the arrangements are identical to ones other people are Not so at Whitmer Farms. "I like the challenge of creating something different," Lenore smiled.

Both Ken and Lenore stay up on all the latest trends by attending seminars and taking classes all year around. They have also won literally "a bag full" of ribbons and other awards for their work.

Whitmer Farms features fresh, silk and dried flowers as well as green plants grown in their own greenhouses. "We have everything but wire service," Ken explained. They also offer free delivery within a 30-mile radius.

Charter members of the Goodrich Chamber of Commerce, Lenore currently serves as secretary-

The location of Whitmer Farms also has some historical ties with the Goodrich area. It was the site for the Sunnyside Station for the old DR Railroad.

If you want to "say it with flowers," but want your message to be unique, then the folks to see are Ken and Lenore at Whitmer Farms. They are open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday. Call them at 636-2828.

Genesee Bank helping Goodrich grow

When the people of Goodrich need the service of a full service bank, they think ot Genesee Bank.

Genesee Bank opened its office in Goodrich in 1956 in the old downtown area. Since then they have moved to their new location on M-15 on the north end of town. But, they continue to give the small town full service to their customers.

"It was quite an exciting time for the residents when they were able to get a bank back in town," recalled Dorothy Morgan, first manager of the Goodrich Branch. She noted the old bank in town closed some 25 years earlier and Goodrich was without its own bank during that period.

The residents of the area, anxious to have their own bank, petitioned the state and Davison State Bank was allowed to move into town. In 1962 Davison State Bank merged and became part of Genesee

"We try to take care of people in the area," explained Morgan. She noted the Goodrich branch does not collect deposits only to loan the money out in Flint or some other community. She said they try to keep the money in the Goodrich area.

When the branch first opened it had only three employees. Today, the Goodrich branch of Genesec Bank employees five full time people and three others on a part time basis.

An interesting connection between the Genesee Bank of today and the old bank in Goodrich is that Jim Hegel's uncle owned the old bank building in downtown Goodrich where the bank first located when it came to town.

Genesee Bank is now affiliated with National Bank of Detroit and is a full service bank. The Goodrich branch is also full service, offering all the banking services residents of the area need and deserve.

When people in the Goodrich area think of a bank, it's usually Genesee Bank that comes to mind.

The friendly staff at the Goodrich branch of Genesee Bank are (i to r) Debbie Grover, Diane Siple, Saroja Reddy, Janet Bell, Sandy Kemp, Jenny Grover and Virginia Shelburne.

ely on Wheelock Hospital

Since the founding of Goodrich health care has always been of primary concern to the residents of the area. Today, Wheelock Memorial Hospital is carrying on that tradition with the latest in equipment and facilities and a fine staff of physicians.

Wheelock opened its doors in February 1964. It was constructed entirely with community-raised funds and with no federal or state monies. It replaced Goodrich General Hospital which was closed in 1961 because it simply needed too extensive of renovations to keep up with the advances in modern hospital care.

Wheelock Memorial Hospital is named for Dr. Wheelock who helped found Goodrich General Hospitali Wheelock is a non-profit community hospital.

According to hospital administrator Norma J. Murphy, that means they keep expenses as low as possible and are prudent in the types of expendatures they make. All that results in lower costs for patients. Serving Goodrich, Davison, Grand Blanc, Metamora, Atlas and other surrounding areas, Wheelock Memorial Hospital has a new emergency room that "could be a lifesaver" in emergency situations, according to Murphy
Murphy is also extremely proud of the nursing staff at Wheelock. All have advanced training and many have won state awards. In the non-emergency care area, Wheelock prides itself on "personalized care" in a more relaxed and family oriented atmosphere than at larger hospitals. Patients are referred to by name and are not just a number at Wheelock. Anyone who has been a patient here raves about us, according to our survey," Murphy said.

A medical-surgical hospital, Wheelock specializes in the areas of opthomology, plastic surgery, general surgery, podiatry and takes a "humanistic approach to giving personal care to the patients."

Murphy said even the hospital inspectors who visit Wheelock throughout the year comment on the warmth and comfortable surroundings there.

But, Wheelock does more than simply care for sick people. "We're living up to our hospital designation," Murphy said. "We don't see ourselves as being here just to take care of patients within these four walls. She cited the outreach program for senior citizens and the newly implemented respite program as examples.

Wheelock Memorial Hospital, located in M-15 five miles south of Davison and 12 miles north of Clarkston, has 31 licensed beds since opening its new addition earlier this year. It participates in all major insurance plans.

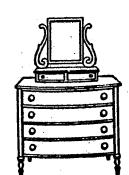

If you are in need of hospital services but want more than some cold, sterile institution where you are little more than a number, then Wheelock Memorial Hospital in Goodrich is waiting for you.

Dan Borton of Davison is the head nurse in charge of the emergency room at Goodrich Memorial Hospital.

Here, he shows off some of the latest equipment in the new emergency facility.

Get personalized service from Bill Parks Realtors

When it comes to buying and selling real estate in the Goodrich area, for many folks there is just one name that comes to mind -- Bill Parks Realtors

Parks opened his office in Goodrich in 1975 and has been serving the needs of the Goodrich area ever since. He began in Davison in 1973 but soon realized the potential and need for a "progressive company" in the Goodrich

"The bottom theme to my business is, 'selling is not something you do to people, rather it is something you do for people," Parks explained of his philosophy. "If our sales people can't work within that, they don't work

And, that philosophy seems to be working as Parks Realtors gets a substantial portion of its business by word of mouth and repeat cusotmers.

Parks said the real estate market in the Goodrich area is "very good." He added, "Goodrich is very rural, but also very beautiful. There are many homes, beautiful homes, in the area that you can't even see from the road."

He also complimented the community on its school system and the support it gives to its young people. "This town really gets behind their kids. We are very proud of this community. They have a lot of social strength here in a small town.

Having lived in the Davison area since 1945, graduating from Davison High school, as did his three children, Parks feels a special bond with the neighboring community to the south. "It's really a beautiful town," he

With "small town service and small town integrity," Parks and the other members of his staff try to maintain some of the qualities that have made Goodrich what it is today. That can be evidenced by the building where Parks Realtors is located. Originally purchasing a small block structure, Parks expanded but did so with an elegant residential theme that fits in well with the surrounding area.

Parks Realtors is located at 7523 State Road. To reach them call 636-2266 or 239-7439.

"Single family homes are still one of the best investments for the average American family," Parks pointed out. And, if that invesment is going to be in the Goodrich area, Parks and his friendly staff can make it all happen for you.

Let Dr. Sprague help keep that smile bright

For the past 14 years Dr. Bruce Sprague has been an active member of the Goodrich community. Not only serving the needs of the area in his dentistry practice, but also being active in service clubs, youth activities and bascially anything that needs doing in the area.

His dentistry office is located at 8027 State Road. He offers complete dentistry service including bonding and orthodontics. He keeps up on all the latest techniques by taking many classes and has some of the most modern equipment in the area.

"We cater to cowards," is Dr. Sprague's motto, noting many people have an inherent fear of dentists.

Dr. Sprague offers many services that are not available at some dentist offices. For example, through bonding he can cosmetically repair chipped, discolored teeth or fill gaps between teeth.

In the orthodontics area he can work to straighten crooked teeth. He also does crowns, bridges, cosmetic work as well as the more standard procedures.

He also can apply sealants. These are used mostly on children's permanent teeth as they begin to come in. The sealant helps prevent cavities from forming.

Sprague moved to his new office three years ago. He recently installed a computer system to handle billing and to maintain patient dental records. This helps speed up billing; especially where dental insurance is concerned.

Dr. Sprague not only works in Goodrich but also lives there with his wife, Carol who helps out part time in the office, and their two children, Ben and As

When he's not busy in the office he is usually busy somewhere else in the community. He is a member of the Lion's Club, will serve as a parade judge for the Sesquicentennial Parade, sponsors and coaches a Little League team and this past Sunday could be seen helping paint the old library building in downtown Goodrich.

If you are looking for a dentist that cares about people and the community where he lives and works, then visit Dr. Bruce Sprague. His summer office hours are Monday, Tuesday and Thursday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Friday from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. During the winter months he has evening hours on Thursday.
