Primary Tuesday

By Carolyn Walker

The polls will open at 7 a.m. Aug. 5 for what many people are calling the most candidate-packed primary in years.

The candidates "are out there fighting for their delegates," says Howard Altman, Oakland County director of elections and an Independence Township resident.

Voters in the upcoming primary will elect precinct delegates (see related story for a list of the candidates) and an Oakland County Circuit Court judge; and narrow the field of contenders for governor and other positions to be chosen in the general election in November.

The five judge candidates are: Jessica Cooper, Martin Krohner, Lawrence Ternan, Joan E. Young and William E. Ziem.

There are to be no state, county or local issues on the Independence ballot and the polls will close at 8 p.m.

Describing the upcoming vote as a "secret primary," Altman says voters will be expected to select a party on the voting machine before they can cast their votes.

Doing so will automatically lock out the other party, he says.

Split tickets in the primary are forbidden by law, he says, explaining that in effect, because a Democratic and a Republican gubernatorial candidate must be chosen, two elections are being held at

29 on local ballot

This year's delegate primary election is being called "an elimination contest" by Oakland County Director of Elections Howard Altman.

There are over 1,000 candidates running for delegate positions in the county and 29 of them are in Independence Township.

Unlike candidates on the ballot who will face off in the general election in November (see related story), the delegates will be chosen by votes cast on Aug. 5.

Seeking delegate positions in Independence's 11 precincts are the following Republicans:

•Precinct one: Beverly Clemo, 6900 W. Church; Robert S. Jones, 6593 Pine Ridge Cr.; Patrick J. O'Rourke, 6723 Townview; and Bill Rodgers, 69 S. Holcomb.

•Precinct two: James R. Maddox Jr., 4785 Clintonville; and Judy A. Wilson, 5231 Eastview.

•Precinct three: Michael J. Brennan, 8290 Sashabaw; Frank T. Barresi, 8173 Deerwood; Michelle M. DeLadurantey, 5985 Oakhill; Thomas H. Ritter, 6188 Clarkston; Mary Jane Scharfenkamp.

PUTTING HIS BEST HOOF FORWARD: Fringe Benefits Thor, a full Morgan, is all set for the show ring on Monday at the Oakland County 4-H Fair. His owner, Heather Hofmelster of Oxford, says he's had two baths since the previous night, his hooves have been painted black and baby oil has been applied to his face in preparation for competition in Saddle Seat, a formal English showing. The fair continues now through Saturday, Aug. 2, at Springfield Oaks County Park, Andersonville at Hall roads, Springfield Township. Details are in Around Town on Page 29. [Photo by Kathy Greenfield]

Springfield to decide board candidates

By Chris Gerbasl

The Aug. 5 primary will have some important consequences for Springfield Township.

The primary will determine who will be on the ballot in November for two positions on the township board and the fate of the renewal of a 1-mill tax for the fire department.

Seven Republicans are running for the two additional board spots, which must be added as required by the charter township act. That will bring the number of board members to seven.

The two top vote-getters in the primary will likely go on to become the two new board members.

"It's not cut and dried, but that's the probable outcome," said township Supervisor Collin Walls.

"It's possible that there could be a Democratic write-in in the primary that could appear on the November ballot. But I don't think that's likely. I haven't heard anybody express interest in doing that."

The electees will serve two-year terms and then all board members and township officials will be up for four-year terms in 1988.

Another key issue on the ballot is the renewal question for the fire department, which reads as follows:

"Shall a 1 mill levy upon all taxable property within the charter township of Springfield, county of Oakland, be renewed for a period of 10 years, from the years 1987 to 1996 inclusive, for the purpose of maintaining, operating and improving the township fire fighting facilities?"

"It's the only funding for the fire department; it's essential," said Walls.

Also on the primary ballot will be candidates for parks commission positions. It is likely, barring successful write-in campaigns, that all three candidates will appear on the November ballot.

Three people are vying for the two spots. They are Republican Betty Hull of 7660 Dilley and Democrats Roger Bower of 10975 Andersonville and Linda Kolasz of 10428 King.

The six-member commission supervises the maintenance, operation and activities of the township's four parks.

Four Republican delegates are up for election to the county convention.

In Precinct 3, Albert Batt and Ronald F. Hudson are running and in Precinct 4, David D. Kiser and Lee Rogers are on the ballot. One delegate will be selected from each precinct.

High level of primary activity

one time.

Altman attributes the high level of activity to the variety of candidates seeking the United States presidency including George Bush, Pat Robertson and Lyndon LaRouche, among others.

Independence Township Deputy Clerk Rosemary Howey agrees with Altman.

"I can't remember when there's been this many people running," she says. "I think it's the interest in a Republican candidate to run in 1988."

On election night, the ballots will be sealed and sent to the county where they will be counted, Howey says.

Altman adds that he takes the election very seriously and has no use for the jokers in the world who would write in Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck, or the like, as candidates.

Those voters, he says, are holding their privileges in contempt and, in effect, throwing away their right to vote.

"It is a known fact that one vote cast by a person has made a difference in many elections," he says.

Running in the Republican primary are:

Governor: William Lucas, Dick Chrysler, Dan Murphy and Colleen Engler.

•United States Congress: Jim Dunn.

•Michigan Senate: Richard D. Fessler and Hugh J. Brotherton.

•Representative to the Michigan Legislature: Mat J. Dunaskiss.

•Oakland County Commissioner: Richard D. Kuhn Jr.

Running in the Democratic primary are:

•Governor: James Blanchard and Henry Wilson.

•United States Congress: Steven Carr and Bob Carr.

•Michigan Senate: Martha Blom.

•Representative to the Michigan Legislature: Greg Young.

•Oakland County Commissioner: Francine Rosemberg-Ballard.

Seven Republicans (and no Democrats) are running for two two-year seats on the Springfield Township Board. The Aug. 5 primary election will whittle the field down to two Republican candidates, whose names will appear on the November ballot. We asked the candidates to submit, in writing, their answers to three questions.

Joseph William Gorka

Ruth Ann (Hazen) Hines

Charles M. Oaks

7 vie for 2 township board seats

Meet the Springfield candidates

— James G. Banes —

James G. Banes, 40, of 13351 French Lane, teaches English at Sashabaw Junior High School.

A 1968 graduate of Oakland University, Rochester, he coaches wrestling at SJHS, is a 4-H booster, supporter of Scout troop No. 192 and president of the Christ of the Lakes Lutheran Church council.

Should development in the township be encouraged by changing zoning to allow for more commercial buildings and smaller lot sizes for homes?

"Most people now living in Springfield moved here to enjoy the advantages of living in a rural community.

"They like the quiet, open spaces and friendliness that comes from living in a small community.

"Changing the zoning ordinances to encourage the development of heavy industries and to develop huge, sprawling subdivisions would change the nature of Springfield. To this I am opposed."

What's your solution for improving police protection?

"Police protection in Springfield Township seems adequate. I am opposed to spending tax dollars for services not absolutely required."

Why should you be elected?

"I feel I should be elected trustee first because I am concerned about the future of our community.

"Second, because of my teaching experience, I am good at dealing with large groups of people who are sometimes quite hostile.

"Third, through active participation in my church at local and state levels, I have developed the ability to compromise with others.

"Finally, I am setting an important example of active participation for my own children and the young people I teach."

— Marc J. Cooper —

Marc J. Cooper, 37, of 11300 Andersonville Rd., is the owner of The Impressive Type, a printing company in Waterford Township.

A 28-year resident of Springfield Township, he holds a bachelor's degree from Detroit Bible College. He worked for 10 years in law enforcement and has owned his own business for five years.

Cooper has served as president of the Andersonville Cemetery Association for five years.

Should development in the township be encouraged by changing zoning to allow for more commercial buildings and smaller lot sizes for homes?

"We need to allow more commercial development in the township. We need to get a better balance between the residential and commercial.

"I don't think we should change lot sizes."

What's your solution for improving police protection?

"I think we just have to keep exploring all available avenues. We have to research what is available for law enforcement within the county."

Why should you be elected?

"I feel I can represent the people in the township so we can be a more progressive township.

"With my education and past experience, I feel I can be an asset to the board."

— Gary L. Dove —

Gary L. Dove, 35, of 9578 Cherrywood, is a staff attorney with UAW-GM Legal Services Plan.

A seven-year resident of the township, he graduated from Michigan State University in 1973 and from the Detroit College of Law in 1977.

Dove has been a member, secretary and chairman of the Springfield Township Parks and Recreation Department and a member of the Springfield Township Citizens Committee on crime. He served seven years as municipal attorney for five townships including Springfield.

He has been a member of the Davisburg Rotary Club and the EMEAC Groundwater Protection Team.

Should development in the township be encouraged by changing zoning to allow for more commercial buildings and smaller lot sizes for homes?

"Commercial development should be encouraged to the extent desired by township residents.

"The planning commission has been reviewing [See DOVRE Page 4]

the zoning maps and is expected to hold public hearings on possible changes later this year.

"Hopefully, residents will take the time to voice their opinions on this issue so the elected and appointed officials can respond accordingly.

"I do not favor reducing minimum lot size for residential from the present minimum of just under one-half acre.

"Increased density is the first step toward public water, sewer and the inevitable increase in the size and expense of local government."

What's your solution for improving police protection?

"Conventional police protection is presently provided by contracting with the county for road deputies on an annual per car basis.

"While this system implies follow-up, detective work, there is no specific guarantee. As a result, many crimes against property (breaking and entering) go uninvestigated . . . and unsolved.

"Springfield and other townships with this concern should request the county to make specific, assigned detectives available under the same basic contract approach.

"While conventional police services can deter crime, a far less expensive and more effective method is neighborhood watches."

Why should you be elected?

"I believe my experience working as a township attorney for seven years and as a park commissioner will be a valuable asset.

"I am familiar with the issues faced by township government and the factors which must be considered when addressing those issues in a fair and legal manner.

"One of those factors is the relationship of township government to the state, county and schools and the importance of cooperating with them.

"This experience and my history of community involvement supports a decision that I am the most qualified and concerned candidate for the job."

Dale E. Elkins

Dale E. Elkins, of 10830 Andersonville Rd., is a heavy equipment operator employed with R. Elkins Excavating and Demolition Co. for 14 years.

A 12-year resident of the township and lifelong resident of Oakland County, he holds an associate's degree from Ferris State College.

Should development in the township be encouraged by changing zoning to allow for more commercial buildings and smaller lot sizes for homes?

"Some zoning changes are needed in the township to allow for more commercial enterprises in certain areas to create jobs as well as to increase the tax base.

"Residential homeowners would benefit from reduced property taxes. Service companies such as dentists, doctors, attorneys, etc., should also be encouraged.

"As far as lot sizes for homes, I feel that one-half acre to one acre building sites should be maintained to keep our rural setting.

"To preserve the rural beauty of our township, I would opt to minimize multiple family dwellings."

What's your solution for improving police protection?

"I feel that both the present situation with protection from Oakland County as well as the State Police alternative should be examined more extensively.

"The solution for the township must be a combination of good police protection at the best possible cost for our taxpayers."

Why should you be elected?

"As a taxpayer and a businessman deeply involved in the construction industry, I feel I can inject some reasonable insight on future building projects and zoning requests.

"Upon remembering the last township election, I decided to run for trustee because I felt the taxpayers should have a choice. (In the last election, most board members ran unopposed.)

"I enjoy living in Springfield Township and would like to have the chance to be involved in the decision making here, as I am concerned with its future."

Joseph W. Gorka

Joseph William Gorka, 32, of 13030 Woodland Tr., is president and director of Joseph W. Gorka and Associates Ltd., business marketing and technical development specialists.

A nine-year resident of the township, he graduated from Michigan State University in 1976 with a bachelor's degree in business and financial administration.

Gorka was appointed to the Springfield Township Planning Commission in 1982 and has been elected its chairman by fellow commissioners since 1983. He has worked with his wife, Laurel, to form and expand the Davisburg Youth Group.

He is a member of the American Chemical Society, Detroit Rubber and Plastics Division.

Should development in the township be encouraged by changing zoning to allow for more commercial buildings and smaller lot sizes for homes?

"The changing of zoning to commercial has not been a frequent request of Dixie Highway landowners.

"As a township, we recognize development and growth in Springfield is occurring. Our major aim in guiding this growth is to ensure it is compatible with the land, natural resource features, surrounding existing uses and our master plan.

"Smaller lot sizes for homes in Springfield have not been frequent requests. Our current minimum lot size is one-half acre and this seems to be sometimes too small.

"Smaller minimum home sizes seem to be more in demand and are something our planning commission and board members are contemplating."

What's your solution for improving police protection?

"I believe our community generally welcomes a higher level of police visibility as a crime deterrent.

"I am pleased with the professionalism and courtesies of the sheriff's department deputies and command officers I've met.

"The expanding board should delegate to one of its members the position and responsibility of police commissioner to act as a communicating liaison between the board and sheriff's department.

"The benefits would include better understanding and a study to conclude the best policing deployments for Springfield.

"I would like to see more deputies added to our patrol."

Why should you be elected?

"I believe I am qualified for the position of trustee due to my high personal level of time devoted to other volunteer activities and my experience as a business executive and owner over the past seven years.

"I am and have been elected chairman of the planning commission since I was appointed by the supervisor and board in 1982 at age 28.

"I have helped the commission and board develop and adopt environmental standards for site plans and new developments, which will go a long way to ensure that our township's natural resource features will be conserved for future generations."

Ruth Ann Hines

Ruth Ann (Hazen) Hines, 28, of 292 Broadway, has served as Springfield Township Deputy Clerk since 1978.

A township resident for 22 years, she graduated from Holly Senior High School in 1976 and from Grand Rapids Baptist College in 1978 with an associate's degree in applied sciences, secretarial studies.

Should development in the township be encouraged by changing zoning to allow for more commercial buildings and smaller lot sizes for homes?

"Development in Springfield Township should be encouraged but not at the expense of our rural character and natural resources.

"We do need areas zoned for commercial uses, and I think those uses should be directed toward specific areas along Dixie Highway.

"Residential zoning and lot sizes should be in harmony with the area, to preserve our natural, fragile resources.

"Due to the topography, wetlands, slopes, soil conditions, woodlands, etc., some areas of our township cannot support small lots and dense development."

What's your solution for improving police protection?

"Springfield Township currently contracts with the Oakland County Sheriff's Department for four full-time deputies. Despite the fact that the cost is tremendous, I believe we should continue those contracts.

"Other options and opportunities should be explored as they become available; but until we have a guarantee of improved service, no change should be made.

"The township should continue to work with the sheriff's department for improved service to Springfield Township."

Why should you be elected?

"I think a candidate's knowledge and experience should be considered in determining whether he/she is qualified to hold the office of trustee.

"Although I have never held a political office, I have worked as Springfield Township's deputy clerk/office coordinator since 1978 and have been the recording secretary for the township board, planning commission and zoning board of appeals meetings since 1978.

"Therefore, I am experienced in the day-to-day operations of the township office and am aware of the issues and questions the township board must deal with and the ordinances, regulations and standards they must follow in making their decisions."

Charles M. Oaks

Charles M. Oaks, 39, of 906 Broadway, is the owner of Davisburg Auto Service.

An 12-year resident of the township, he served on the Springfield Township Parks Commission eight years and was its chairman in 1984.

He has been a Springfield Township on-call firefighter for 10 years and was a member of the Davisburg Jaycees.

Should development in the township be encouraged by changing zoning to allow for more commercial buildings and smaller lot sizes for homes?

"No, I don't think so. I would like to see Springfield stay more rural. We need to keep lot sizes pretty much the same.

"We don't want houses built right on top of each other, but I think we need to lower the square footage in some areas. There's a lot of older people who would like to build smaller houses—a smaller house can be built as nice as a bigger house.

"I would like to see more commercial zoning."

What's your solution for improving police protection?

"Right now we've got four deputies and I think that is fairly sufficient.

"Springfield Township can't afford a fifth police officer with its present millage. I'm not in favor of more taxes.

"The State Police supposedly has made this offer if we'll pay $30,000 for dispatching, then they will provide more police protection, and there is talk of moving the station to northern Oakland County.

"If they did that, then I would be in favor of it."

Why should you be elected?

"I've been a businessman in Springfield Township for 16 years and I have run a good, honest business.

"I listen to a lot of people with different complaints.

"By having experience with the business, I have to make financial decisions and, technically, if you are serving the people that is what you are doing—spending the taxpayers' money.

"Government should be run like a business. It should be run in the black instead of red."

Opinions

This
and that

Kathy
Greenfield

Random thoughts after a morning of frying my brain in the hot sun while looking for photo opportunities at the Oakland County 4-H Fair at Springfield Oaks:

This is, indeed, a banner year for wildflowers. Queen Anne's lace is thriving everywhere, and all the wildflowers seem healthier than I can remember.

It's simply joyful to drive through the countryside.

As I was watering flowers last weekend (an uncommon occurrence with all the rain we've had), I checked the water and realized it was steaming hot from the long hose sitting in the sun.

The flowers wilted fast but, mercifully, perked up later. Thank goodness. I hate questions that begin with, "What happened to the . . ." when I know the answer directly involves me.

My dad, who notices such things, says this is a great year for robins.

His theory is that the DDT sprayed on trees and crops finally worked its way out of the environment. (Remember the news that DDT made eggshells very thin and vulnerable to breakage?)

The robins are having a field day in my parents' raspberry patch, leaving little for people.

I have some black-eyed susans, picked on my parents' property, sitting on my dining room table.

I've been fascinated with the bright yellow beauties as far back as I can remember. Their stems feel something like velvet, only coarser. And I've always tried to imagine what the person looked like who inspired the name.

As far as eating goes, this is my favorite time of the year. Nothing tastes better than the first produce from the garden.

Green beans, green onions, new potatoes, baby carrots, tiny cucumbers—all are at their best. If I stuck to eating mostly veggies, I'd be terrifically healthy—and skinny.

Alas, I also like other summertime treats: fresh raspberry pie (or peach or blueberry), the brownies that appear at every picnic, fresh lemonade with real sugar.

Everyone I know has something to say about the wedding last week of Prince Andrew and Sarah Ferguson (now the Duke and Duchess of York).

They fit my image of an all-American couple, British blood aside.

I especially liked her reaction to the bit of nastiness about her being on the heavy side.

She was quoted as saying she's happy with the way she is and doesn't plan to diet. It's about time somebody stood up for healthy good looks. Jolly good!

Truck search

As a former resident of Clarkston for 10 years, I could relate to the ugly looking pickup trucks in the Third Annual Ugliest Pickup Truck in Texas Contest.

This contest was held here in Austin on July 20 and it made the 10 o'clock news, followed the next day in the paper. Texans have contests for just about everything.

Since we are returning to Clarkston in two weeks to visit old friends, I thought of your paper.

I just might look for an old pickup in Independence Township and bring it back here to enter in next year's contest.

Jim's Jottings

Jim Sherman

"Everyone talks about the weather, but no one does anything about it," Will Rogers is quoted saying.

While Rogers may be right, it is a fact that weather can be blamed for anything we want.

It's too hot. It's too cold. It's too foggy. It's too wet. It's too slippery. It's too nice. Pick the one that suits your purpose to do or not do anything you wish.

This being summer, and just past some 90-plus degree days, I'd like to talk 'too hot'. Being perfect in every way, I didn't complain about the heat. I complained about those who complained about the heat.

Personally, I like to sweat. I don't like to perspire. I like dripping, pore-cleaning beads running down my bod. When brought on by work, I feel macho. I can feel the flab being reduced with each new rivet. . . never mind that the scales don't agree.

Waistline inches are reduced in direct proportion to quarter hours of sweating: One quarter hour one inch waistline.

However, I've learned that this is a day-time condition. By morning, weight and waistline are the same as the previous day.

The heat of mid-July caused a few thousand workers to leave jobs in an Eastern auto plant. Probably people left non-air conditioned offices right here in Michigan.

I mark that down as one of either, pampered

Americans; any excuse to leave work; lack of self discipline; health.

It's like 90-degree weather was invented after the fan.

What in the world did our ancestors do while heading west? Only travel in the spring and fall? At night?

Another thing, our ancestors weren't wearing bikinis, tank tops, and tennis shorts while reining their teams. They were dressed in layers, as shown in John Wayne, Gene Autry, Hopalong Cassidy and Clint Eastwood movies.

And, if you can't believe those guys, you might as well walk off the job forever.

Regulating temperatures in stores and factories isn't as easy as it should be. We have six furnaces-air conditioners in our printing plant. In the winter, workers seem to like the temperature around 76 degrees.

We don't put it there, but that does seem to be the most popular comfort zone.

In the summer, I find the thermostats frequently set at 70 to 72 degrees.

I still remember the movie marquee saying "10 degrees cooler inside," and I often set our thermostats accordingly. Of course, I'm the one paying the bills, and I'm one who can come and go to find a cooler place.

Too, I can go out and find a team of horses and head west.

Where have all the manners gone?

Carolyn Walker

Recently, as I exited a local business with a full bag of food in my arms, a young man unknown to me held the door so I could pass.

I told him I could get it, but he just smiled and went on holding.

I was tempted to say flippantly, "chivalry lives." But I didn't. I said thank you instead and took advantage of his kind gesture.

I'm grateful, that for once in my life, I stifled myself and said the right thing.

Had I responded any differently, I realize now, I would have been guilty myself of personifying this week's pet peeve: Bad manners.

Over and over these past few days as I drove in my car, vacuumed, ironed or just sat with my mind on idle, I asked myself the following question: Has common courtesy, in the wake of progress, gone the way of the brontosaurus?

I wondered this because twice last week I was "stood up" by individuals with whom I had previously scheduled interviews.

Another time, I got to a planned interview only to have the subject suggest that I reschedule for sometime next April. And that offer came at 8:30 in the morning while my children were home waiting for breakfast.

In every case, I planned my schedule around the interviewee and arrived promptly.

None of them called to cancel.

None of them had their secretaries or other employees call to cancel (even an emergency shouldn't have prevented this).

None of them called afterwards to apologize for any inconvenience they may have caused me.

In short, it appears to me, none of them gave an unselfish hoot.

As the old saying goes, actions speak louder than words.

While I certainly am not perfect (and heaven knows I have said and done many things in my lifetime that I have later regretted), I make every effort to apologize when I have hurt the feelings of another.

Sometimes when we are carrying on debates at home, The Perfectionist will tell me that the word "sorry" means nothing because it changes nothing. The damage is done, he says.

Balderdash.

In my opinion, sorry is one of the most important words in the English language.

Important because it has the ability to heal hurt feelings, to restore shattered egos, to mend damaged relationships.

Sorry. It has a nice, whispering sound to it that implies caring. Sorry really means: You matter.

Apologies are not a sign of weakness. They are a sign of strength.

I have long believed that hate, contempt, pretention, conceit and ill will can be simply and permanently conveyed in a single word or action.

Love and good will, on the other hand, need to be constantly, endlessly nourished and reinforced.

Perhaps, just perhaps, if each one of us, everyday, made an effort to treat our fellow beings with courtesy we would find the escalating problems of our world decreasing.

Strife, hatred and cruelty wouldn't stand a chance in the presence of please, thank you and sorry.

There is a way to relieve the pain.

'If it Fitz . . .'

His nails go unpolished

Jim Fitzgerald

I don't have to worry about ruining my manicure while playing polo.

Recently my wife and I stopped at a fancy men's shop in a northern suburb. We were in the area to seek out wealthy relatives, no matter how hard they tried to hide, and I needed a new collar pin. My old one was lost when I left it attached to a shirt designated for our washing machine, which was more careless than throwing the pin into the Bermuda Triangle.

When I said I wanted to buy the collar pin displayed inside a cabinet, the clerk said, "Oh dear." He was holding his hands as though they were frozen a few inches in front of his shoulders. He said he was afraid he couldn't open the cabinet without ruining the manicure he'd just had.

Instantly, I was intimidated. One of the more embarrassing secrets of my life is I've never had nerve enough to get a manicure. No matter how much it might improve my grooming, I've never wanted to pay a female stranger to scrape my fingernails. I'm not sure why. Several female strangers have scraped my teeth.

It undoubtedly has something to do with my inability to make small talk, not only with female strangers, but also with people I've been married to for 31 years. A man can't be expected to talk to a dental technician who has both hands inside his mouth, but what does he say while a manicurist files his fingernails, a task he's certainly big enough to do for himself.

"Please file my teeth so I can't talk to you"?

Anyway, so the clerk wouldn't think I was staring at him sliding open the cabinet door with his chin, I turned my attention to a nearby necktie. "That's a beautiful tie," he said, and I agreed until noticing what the price said — $38.

"This is your lucky day, it's on sale — 40 percent off," the clerk said.

I was intimidated again. My arithmetic resembles my small talk. The only way I could find out what $38 minus 40 percent is was buy the tie. It's $22.80. I've paid less for a three-piece suit.

I felt lucky to leave that shop with any timidity intact. As we continued the suburban search for wealthy relatives — we park in front of Bloomfield Hills mansions and honk, and if anybody comes to the door, we ask them to adopt us — my wife made small talk.

"I can't think of anything you are less likely to do than get a manicure," she said.

"How about playing polo?" I said.

The Detroit area is hard up for genuine celebrities.

After TV anchors and right fielders, there is a severe drop-off to parking lot attendants. As a consequence, I've been invited "to climb atop a prancing polo pony and take part in our Celebrity Polo Lesson."

Last month, to help kick off the Grand Prix, I was asked to enter a Celebrity Tricycle Race on a downtown street. I've also been asked to participate in celebrity fashion shows. Instead of riding a tricycle or modeling clothes in public, I'd rather hang from a tree by my nose.

Or play polo on the Harper Hospital lawn on Aug. 5 which, by significant coincidence, is the latest in a long line of birthdays for one of the oldest columnists extant. I have children too old to play polo.

It would be for a worthy cause — to publicize the Cadillac Challenge Cup polo match at the Detroit Polo Club Sept. 14. It's sponsored by the Harper Auxiliary and proceeds will help pay for the hospital's new Magnetic Resonance Imaging Center which, for all I know, restores good vibrations to magnetic images hurt by falling off refrigerators. My medical knowledge ranks right down there with my small talk and arithmetic.

The best thing about staying home to gum birthday cake on Aug. 5 is that I won't have to worry about falling off a prancing polo pony and breaking a manicured fingernail.

Howes say 'How come?' to writer

By Chris Gerbasi

A syndicated newspaper story about former major league pitcher Steve Howe has riled his parents.

The story, by Mike Antonucci of Knight-Ridder Newspapers, appeared in the Detroit Free Press July 23 and paints a sad picture of Howe's upbringing in Clarkston.

Howe is presently out of baseball after being suspended a second time this season in Class A ball for reported drug use.

In his article, Antonucci refers to Howe as being "a prisoner of his father's drinking problems" while growing up. The story states that the Howes had trouble coming up with a combined house and car payment of $84 because of those problems.

Howe's neighborhood is referred to as "he was part of a dead-end kid culture in a working-class city near Detroit, and it didn't exactly churn out All-Americans."

Howe is quoted as saying, "Nine out of 15 people that I was close to from high school are dead."

Howe's father, Virgil, said he and his wife Barbara were stunned to see the story and they intend to file a lawsuit against Antonucci. Howe said he was scheduled to meet with his lawyer July 28. Steve Howe is not going to sue, according to his father.

"When we saw the story, we called the Free Press and asked them why they would print something like that," said Virgil Howe.

"It was shocking and embarrassing. For a paper around here, it was shocking to me, that they would print it without checking whether it was true or not," he said. "There's no truth to it at all."

The Howes talked to Steve and to Antonucci following the publication of the story.

"My wife talked to (Antonucci) on the phone and asked him why he would write that and where he came up with his information," Howe said. "He made it sound like Steven said this; well, Steven didn't ever say anything like that."

"The guy admitted to us on the phone that he wrote what he felt," said Howe.

As for the comment about nine of 15 friends dying, Howe said, "Steven might be exaggerating. I don't know if he said that. Three or four kids he knew in high school have been killed in automobile accidents and I think that's why that statement was made."

Howe apparently intends to follow through on a lawsuit.

"Steve and (wife) Cindy are our one and two witnesses," said Howe. "They were right there and Steve never said anything. Cindy was shocked. She called and said, 'Dad, you know darn well he'd never say anything like that about you.'"

Pond dam to be checked out

By Carolyn Walker

On July 28, Mill Pond dam owner Ed Adler presented to the Clarkston Village Council what he called, "The damn dam report."

Laughing, Adler said he would attempt in August to find out specifically what is broken in the dam and see if it can be repaired.

He said he suspects it is a broken shear pin in the mechanism near Washington Street.

On June 23, the village council authorized its attorney John Steckling to send a letter to Adler asking why repairs have not been made.

The council had expressed concerns that the water level is too high in the pond and could flood the area south of Washington Street, Adler said after the meeting.

Adler told the council he wanted to wait until August to investigate because that is when the water is expected to be at its lowest level.

"I don't really think there's that much to worry about with the existing situation," he said, adding that if the water gets too high, it would run through the spillway to Parke Lake as designed.

"If anything happened . . . the spillway into Parke Lake would wash out (before water could cross the road)," he said.

Adler then explained that there is a large valve in the system for completely draining the pond as well as a second valve in the Clarkston Mills Mall building for lowering the water level.

Trustee Fontie ApMadoc asked Adler to agree in writing to fix the dam in August, which he would not do.

"I will make every effort to get it done in August," he replied. "Every reasonable effort let's say. If it can be fixed, then we want to fix it. We're hoping it's a simple problem."

Trustee William Basinger asked that the semi-commitment be incorporated into the council minutes.

The matter was tabled to the next council meeting when it is hoped more members will be present. President Sharron Catallo and trustees Frank Millard and Doug Roeser were absent.

Voting to table were trustees James Schultz, William Basinger, Eric Haven and ApMadoc.

New park house well

A new five-inch well is in store for the caretaker's house at Clintonwood Park off Clarkston Road.

On July 15, the Independence Township Board approved the bid for installation to S. Ward and Son of Cramlane Drive, Independence Township, for $2,380.

The fixture is to include a new tank.

Independence hires firm to build fire station

By Carolyn Walker

They gathered to choose a construction company for a new fire station 2. They talked money. And then, to the apparent dismay of Fire Chief Dale Bailey, they talked about changing its already approved site.

At a special meeting July 22, the Independence Township Board agreed to hire Reliance Building Co. of West Bloomfield Township for the construction of a new fire hall for $482,500.

But, the decision came only after they talked about moving the station from its current site at Clarkston and Sashabaw roads a mile north on Sashabaw Road.

Trustee Dale Stuart suggested moving the station to 20 acres owned by the township near Independence Oaks County Park.

The site he proposed was obtained from the Edward C. Levy Mining Co. in 1985 in an effort to prevent mining and was part of a 40-acre purchase.

The rear 20 acres are to be sold to the county. The board has not decided what to do with the 20 acres fronting Sashabaw, although they have considered selling them in parcels.

Stuart suggested that the parcel at the corners of Sashabaw and Clarkston roads would be more market "valuable" than the old Levy site.

On May 22, the township planning commission approved final site plans for the new building.

The site plans called for maintaining the old building, while the new one is being constructed on the same site.

The old would house equipment until the new's completion and then be demolished, as it has been deemed structurally inadequate by the township fire commission.

Bailey and Supervisor Frank Ronk, the previous fire chief, both said a move up Sashabaw could present problems to firefighters driving trucks because of a dangerous hill that becomes icy in winter.

"The hill is a real problem," said Ronk, adding, "It's easier to move from within the intersection than to come into the intersection. I think it's kind of important to keep a fire station . . . convenient to people going by."

Those present voted to approve Reliance as the construction company and no action was taken on moving the fire station.

In the end, the move seemed a moot point as Bailey said he hoped to have "a shovel in the ground" within seven days.

New crossing signals

New pedestrian crossing signals are being installed at the corners on Washington and Main streets, courtesy in part of the federal government.

According to Dennis Pajot, spokesperson for the Oakland County Road Commission, the $14,258 lights are being put in place in cooperation with the Michigan Department of Transportation, road commission and Village of Clarkston.

The federal government is picking up the tab for approximately $12,000, he said.

The remainder is being split, with the state paying 50 percent, and the county and village paying 25 percent each.

Members of the village council had been seeking the crossing signals for some time because of the hazards associated with increased traffic along Main Street.

Caring Oaklowns

The Oaklowns recently donated a $500 check to Clarkston SCAMP, the summer day camp program for handicapped children and young adults in northern Oakland County.

The clowning group volunteers its services through the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission.

SCAMP helps students boost their self-confidence and retain academic skills, said Homer Biondi, executive director of SCAMP and member of the Oaklown troupe.

The five-week program serves approximately 200 handicapped persons, ages 3 to 25.

Pastor and builder Bell dies

The Rev. Clarence Bell was a workman. He built churches from scratch and he put struggling congregations on a firmer foundation.

Bell died July 22 at the age of 63, leaving behind a wife, three children and over 200 parishoners at First Baptist Church of Clarkston. He spent the last 16 years as pastor of that church.

"He was continually building," said his wife, June Bell. "He was a very creative man, loving, very kind and a very outgoing person."

Bell served at churches in Saginaw, Croswell and Paw Paw before coming to Clarkston. At the time, average attendance at First Baptist was about 35 people.

Rev. Clarence Bell

"He was the kind of guy you could write a book on," said assistant pastor

Richard Coursen, who worked under Bell for nearly eight years.

"He was strong in preaching and in teaching," said Coursen. "The most important thing I learned was how to have a pastor's heart for people."

"Everyone has a certain amount of time to get a job done. He didn't waste any minutes."

Bell was also head of the Church of Baptist Builders Committee and influenced church builders across the state.

He began a youth ministry in Clarkston in 1971 and also started the AWANA program at the church for grades kindergarten through 12.

AWANA is an acronym for part of a Bible verse which reads, "Approved workmen are not ashamed."

"That's a good verse to hang on his life," said Coursen. "He was an approved workman. The church was his life."

Parades and festivals highlight this weekend

Ice cream, old cars, a parade, car races—all are planned for this weekend.

"We're a great parade town, so what's one more?" said Carol Balzarini, a member of the Independence Township Sesquicentennial Council.

A mini-concours starts the weekend on Friday from 6 to 9 p.m. in Clarkston's Depot Road park. The free display of vintage and historic cars coincides with an ice cream social in the park.

The sesquicentennial council will sell ice cream plus popcorn, lemonade, souvenirs and raffle tickets. The proceeds will go toward the purchase of a town clock.

Also on Friday is the beginning of the 2nd Annual Meadow Brook Historic Races at the Waterford Hills Race Track. The practice day is free, and picnic lunches are welcome.

The Festival of Cars Parade of over 150 vehicles is planned Saturday at 10 a.m. The cars will parade down Main Street from Church Street to Miller Road.

Also at 10 a.m. Saturday, the Meadow Brook races begin at the Waterford Hills Race Track. Special events and races will last until 6 p.m. Admission is $6 at the gate.

The races continue on Sunday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., and admission is the same as Saturday.

The track is on Waterford Road in Independence Township. The races are sponsored by G/P Publishing Inc. of Pontiac and Waterford Hills Road Racing Inc.

Thompson builds new career for himself

By Chris Gerbasi

Ron Thompson just happened to enter a couple of body building competitions recently and he just happened to take a first and a second.

"It's never really been one of my goals (to compete)," said Thompson.

But after two successful showings in his first two competitions, he may change his mind.

Thompson, 23, and a graduate of Clarkston High, won the Mr. Rose City title in Jackson County June 14. The amateur event featured 17 county residents.

When Thompson's not working out, he works as a mechanical engineer in Jackson.

"All the guys I work out with were going to get into it," he said. "I was interested in trying it. I thought I'd give it a shot."

Thompson followed up his debut two weeks later with a second-place effort at a larger event, the Grand Prix Classic in Detroit. Now, he may have a future in competing.

"A lot of people have told me that," he said. "But it's a lot of work getting ready for those contests. After those two, I was real light and weak and my strength was down because you have to diet."

Posing was also new to Thompson. "I felt fairly comfortable with the posing," he said. "I'm not real fond of sitting in front of a mirror practicing. That's probably why I'm not fired up about doing (the competitions)."

"I feel pretty foolish standing for hours working on poses, so I didn't put a lot of time into it."

Thompson works out for 1½ hours four days a week. He started lifting weights in high school and continued in college at Michigan Tech, where he played football.

The possible temptation of steroids has always been present.

"Just being involved with body building, you're constantly confronted with them," he said. "They're so readily available that you can't help but know about them."

Thompson said he's never tried steroids, but he doesn't want to preach to people that use them.

"If someone wants to take it, that's their own business," said Thompson. "They'll give you size, but unless the muscles are developed, it's not going to matter."

"I'm not going to condemn anyone. I've been fortunate to do fairly well without them."

Thompson does not want competing to start taking up all of his time. He's shooting next for the Mr. Natural Michigan in January.

"If I have the potential, why not go for it?" he said. "I don't think I'd be happy quitting now. I'm just going to take one contest at a time."

Pontiac Door claims crown

Pontiac Overhead Door culminated a perfect season with a 22-6 rout of Super Flossies in Mini Miss softball last week.

The 10-11-year-old girls team finished 10-0 and atop the standings of the five-team division.

There are no post-season playoffs in Mini Miss, but for their efforts the girls will receive trophies from sponsor Dave Phillips.

Co-coaches Lynda Podzikowski and Jill Lopucki guided the team, which finished in second place last year. Podzikowski has been coaching for six seasons and has brought up some of her current players from T-Ball.

"They were very excited," she said of winning the division. "They play very well together, they've been playing together for so long. They want to learn, they have a good attitude toward the game and I love coaching them."

Podzikowski and several of her players will move on to challenge in the Mighty Miss league next summer.

Another runner comes home for Overhead Door in its 22-6 pasting of Super Flossies last week. The victory capped a perfect season for the Mini Miss team coached by Podzikowski and Jill Lopucki.

Co-coach Lynda Podzikowski gives some advice to one of her Mini Miss batters. The Pontiac Overhead Door team went 10-0 this season to win its five-team division.

Smith tosses no-hitter for Midget team

A six-inning no-hitter may be next for Matt Smith.

Smith, 13, pitched a five-inning no-no July 22 for the Detroit News Midget National team against Dr. Jack Shader's squad. The game was cut short, with the News leading 13-0, because of the mercy rule.

Last year, Smith threw a four-inning gem, which he considers his best game. He struck out 11 of 12 batters in that outing.

Last week he struck out four and walked four. "It was pretty good," he said. "I had a lot of ground balls. Our infield's pretty good. Todd (McLaughlin) made a good play on a line drive up the middle, he made a backhand play to save it."

Smith has pitched for three years and also plays first base, but he prefers the mound because pitching is "easy," he said.

Matt Smith gets set at first base here, but he prefers to be on the mound. Smith pitched a five-inning no-hitter last week to help his Detroit News Midget team to an 8-4 regular season record.

Take me out to the T-Ball game

A member of the Gilford Tigers T-Ball team scampers home just before a tag can be made in action two weeks ago. Gilford wound up with a 7-1-1 record, while its opponent, Randy Hosler Pontiac finished 4-4-1.

A Tiger takes a determined aim during a big inning for Gilford. The T-Ball league is the first step for 7- and 8-year-olds along the path of Little League baseball.

Photos by Chris Gerbasl

It looks like it's been a long day for this Hosler Pontiac catcher as he stands on home plate. It's a good thing he's got the mask to protect him from those vicious T-Ball foul tips.

Knights excel at nationals

The Lady Knights have been full of pleasant surprises.

The first-year girls 12-and-under basketball team showed that it could play with the best teams in the nation last week.

The Amateur Athletic Union held its national championships in Roanoke, Va., and the Knights finished ninth out of 30 teams from across the country. Earlier this year in May, the girls captured the state championship in their age group.

"We did much better than we thought we would," said Dr. David McChesney, who formed the team this spring with Al Land and coach Ed Norris.

"We're very pleased," McChesney said. "Since this was our first year, we wanted to get one win at the nationals and that would be our main goal, but we ended getting three wins."

The Knights went 3-2 in the double elimination tourney.

They split their first two games to drop into the loser's bracket, but then won the next two games. A 54-41 loss to a team from New Jersey knocked them out, however.

The Southeastern Tennessee squad wound up winning it all. The Knights' two losses were to the number two and number four teams in the competition.

"Even in our losses, we were not getting blown out," said McChesney. "Height was one (disadvantage) and the New Jersey team was awfully fast. Those are things we'll be aware of next year."

"They (the team) learned a lot about basketball."

Next season the Knights will be classified as a 13-and-under team and this year's team will form the nucleus. McChesney is already looking forward to tryouts next spring.

Crystal clear

Howe's world

Chris Gerbasi

I have never met or talked with Steve Howe. I have only worked in Clarkston for two and a half months.

But there seems to be some incongruity in Howe's statements about the community published in a syndicated story by Knight-Ridder Newspapers last week.

Howe, as the entire sports world knows, came out of Clarkston to rise quickly to stardom with the Los Angeles Dodgers before encountering drug problems.

Now, after three years of comebacks, it appears his career may be over. He reportedly failed another drug test recently and the chances are slim that a major league team will take a gamble on him.

In the Knight-Ridder story, writer Mike Antonucci tries to lay some of the blame for Howe's troubles on his upbringing in Clarkston and some quotes attributed to Howe tend to support that idea.

For example, Howe is quoted as saying, "What pressure is is when you're 12 years old and you go down to the milk truck and steal milk instead of going home and drinking powdered milk."

Exactly what Howe did and didn't say is unclear. Howe's parents, Virgil and Barbara, are planning to file a lawsuit against Antonucci because they say there's no truth to the story.

But this is the second time Howe has apparently ripped Clarkston in a nationally syndicated article. You have to wonder about his credibility.

Howe has been through a lot, all brought on by himself. Perhaps in all his frustration, he decided to get some things off his chest, some things that would put his burden on somebody else's shoulders.

Antonucci has Howe slamming his father for alcoholism, suggesting that baseball commissioner Peter Ueberroth has blacklisted him and that he may try to get a book and mini-series deal for his life story.

That may be as sure a sign as any that Howe realizes the end of his career is near.

Even if there is just the slightest truth to the story, it appears that Howe is looking everywhere to lay blame for his problems except in the mirror.

I hope that Howe did not intend to rip Clarkston or his family. They are not his problem. Enough athletes have ended their careers in a blaze of bitterness.

I would like to say that I hope Howe retires, very soon. Enough has been said and written about him. His story is old.

As a fan of Howe's, I'd like to see him go out quietly and get his life in order once and for all.

But as a fan, it sure would be great to see him pitch again.

Soccer, BB tryouts

All high school students who want to try out for boys soccer and girls basketball should mark Aug. 11 on their calendars.

Tryouts for both junior varsity and varsity teams in each sport will be held on that date. All 10th-, 11th- and 12th-graders are eligible for the squads.

The girls basketball practice is from 9 a.m. to noon at the high school gym, while soccer tryouts will be at the practice field behind the school.

A physical is required for participation and one physical is good for all sports all year.

Forms are available at the school's main office.

Cape Cod In The Village

Within walking distance of town, this Clarkston classic would make the ideal family home. Lots of bedroom space. 1 1/2 baths, formal dining room, study, 2 fireplaces & plenty of room for storage. Walk-out lower level opens onto a gentle sloping lot overlooking a stream in the rear.

Relief for cable

Amendments geared at giving relief to the cable-TV casting company were authorized by the Independence Township Board on July 15.

Conditions of the amended franchise agreement include that the township must issue at least 12 certificates of occupancy to homes within a one mile radius in new subdivisions before United Cable of Oakland County is required to install wiring.

"This is a formal amendment that culminates six to nine months of agreements," said Clerk Richard Holman.

As a part of the amendments, the cable company agreed to permanently provide the township with studio equipment such as lamps and lights, he added.

The Village of Clarkston must also agree to the amendments before they become effective.

The changes were first agreed to by the board in October, when township attorney Gerald Fisher was directed to draft an amendment after Tribune United Cable Communications asked for more time to install wires in new subdivisions, Holman said.

Tribune, which was recently renamed United Cable of Oakland County following a restructuring within the company, had not met its December 1984 completion timetable for installing cable lines in the township.

Unfinished subdivisions with only a few, widely spaced homes had presented a problem.

Delegates vie for county convention

8010 Deerwood; and Timothy J. Warner, 6154 Clarkston.

•Precinct four: Rudy D. Lózano, 5419 Tamarack Park; Lawrence F. Rosso, 6698 Delmonico; and John M. Zamora, 5645 Hummingbird.

•Precinct five: Tamara A. Ellsworth, 4736 Pelton; and Guy L. Passmore, 5465 Winell.

•Precinct six: James M. Brennan, 5480 Clarkston; Francis L. Keil, 5485 Greenview; and John Lutz, 8639 Lakeview.

•Precinct seven: Carol D. Balzarini, 10270 Reese; and Christine P. Trombly, 6871 Oakhill.

•Precinct eight: Donn R. Colbrunn, 5303 Parview; and Richard D. Kuhn Jr., 6471 Wellesley Terrace.

•Precinct nine: Neil Wallace, 6593 Clarkston.

•Precinct 10: Lee Gardner, 6213 Pinewood.

•Precinct 11: Robert G. Campbell, 5066 Sashabaw; and Charles E. Rivetto, 5180 Woodcreek.

Kenneth R. Schaffer, 4935 Clearview, is the sole Democratic candidate and he is running in precinct six.

Delegates voted in at the local level go to the county convention; and from there, selected delegates are sent to the state level. Eventually some are chosen to represent the state at the national conventions, Altman says.

To win a precinct delegate position, a candidate must have at least three votes if he/she is running unopposed or a simple majority if he/she is opposed for the position.

Write-in candidates also need a minimum of three votes to be elected, Altman says.

In precincts where no one is elected, a delegate will be appointed for that area at the county convention, he added.

Precinct eight voting machines, which were previously located at Clarkston Junior High School, are to be moved to the multipurpose room at Clarkston Elementary School and voters should go there to cast their votes.

Those wishing to vote by absentee ballot may do so until the deadline of Saturday, Aug. 2, at 2 p.m. and should call the Independence Township Clerk at 625-5111 for information.

Molzon has a better idea

By Julie LePere

Bill Molzon has been designing cars his whole life, it seems.

"I started to draw cars about the same time I started to write," said the Independence Township resident.

Designing cars is now Bill's career and a hobby. He recently designed and built his own car. With its sleek silver body and yellow trim, and an engine that runs smoothly and quietly, it leaves people guessing its make.

"The detail is what makes the difference between just a backyard project and a professional job," he said.

He and his wife are amazed at the reactions they receive from people when they see the car.

"We drove it to Florida at Christmas, and people flagged him down on the street," said his wife, Jeanne.

"It's kind of annoying because people drive by and yell out, 'What is it?'" said Bill. "People have guessed everything from Porsche, Ferrari, Lamborghini, Lotus, Corvette. . . . It amazes me. . . . It's good company to be in."

He started with a Fiero and removed the exterior panels. He improved the suspension system and began his design work.

He made a miniature foam model then covered the car with foam. He shaped it to his design and then molded the outer panels to the foam. After removing the foam and putting the new panels on, he had his own custom "kit car." He hasn't thought of a name for it yet.

It's beautiful and functional, as is everything he designs, said Jeanne.

"You can drive it every day and know it's not going to cost you a thousand dollars for a tune-up," said Bill.

Calypso, a blue-front parrot, is another of Bill Molzon's hobbies. "Cal" lives in a cage designed by Bill and will say "Hello" when given ice cream.

Built exclusively with Pontiac parts, the car can be repaired anywhere in the United States.

"From people's reactions . . . it could be a marketable commodity," he said.

He's considering opening his own business, selling his plans to another company—or keeping it quiet and doing nothing but enjoy it.

It does have potential, though, he said.

It's the car designer that has to figure out what the public wants, he said. From the reactions to his car, the public would probably like it.

"The designer is kind of the customer's representative," he said. "My philosophy for industrial design is to try to get the most functional product for the lowest cost."

So, in his work, he tries to be efficient and functional. With a degree in mechanical engineering and a degree in automotive design, he has the perfect background for the task.

"He never designs something that won't work," said Jeanne.

In some of the big car companies, there's a conflict between the designers and the engineers, she said. One reason Bill left the large companies to become a free-lance car designer is because of the wasted time over meetings between departments. His new business is perfect for him, she said.

"You never know what you'll be doing tomorrow," said Bill. "I like variety. I hate routine. Right now, I have five different jobs going. I could do with a few less meetings, because that's unproductive."

Although it's a busy season in his line of work, Bill doesn't neglect his other hobbies.

He adheres to creative activities, such as bonsai.

"When I worked (for a Japanese company) in California, the Japanese used to kid me because in Japan, bonsai are something old men do," he said. "It's an art form. It's like a watercolor painting, you just kind of go with it."

He raises exotic bromeliads, brought from California, for which he has trouble finding enough sunlight in his shady Deerhill Road home.

He also raises his blue-front parrot, Calypso. He even designed and built the cage for his bird, making the bottom tray extend beyond the boundaries of the cage to eliminate the need for spreading papers on the floor. The base is a cabinet to hold food and cleaning supplies.

"I designed my own because I didn't like anything on the market," he said. "It's functional. It's waterproof, easy to clean."

And he enjoys photography, mostly of cars, but also of places and people.

His home is filled with his creations; furniture, photos, car models, plants and the bird cage. And outside is the car, the latest proof of his individuality.

Bill Molzon's favorite hobby, and his job, is designing cars. He designed and built this one, starting with a Fiero and finishing with an auto that keeps people guessing its make.

Davis clan celebrates 100th reunion

By Carolyn Walker

When Cornelius Davis laid down roots he laid them down long and hearty.

Those roots, and the impressive family tree they support, are still growing—some 150 branches strong.

In 1836, Cornelius caught a boat out of New York and sought his lot in life in the promising land of what was to become Michigan in 1837.

Shunning a site in Detroit, he and a son-in-law drove by oxcart to Springfield Township (then unnamed) where Cornelius was granted 720 acres by the government.

He was reportedly lured by the rolling land and the Shiawassee River for milling.

"He was one of the original grant owners," explains Helen Vergin, a member of the Springfield

Over 150 descendants of Cornelius Davis will celebrate the 100th family reunion on Aug. 7 in Springfield Township.

Township Historical Society, stifling a laugh. "He owned all of Davisburg."

Cornelius, a veteran of the War of 1812, lent his name to the unincorporated village where he farmed and operated a lumber and a grist mill.

Later, he divided some of the acreage among his eight children.

On Aug. 7, over 150 descendants of those children, some coming from as far away as Canada and Alaska, will celebrate their 100th family reunion in Springfield.

The first family reunion was organized by seven cousins and held at Big Lake, according to descendant Judson Davis, who now lives in Davison.

Judson was elected president of the cousins 32 years ago, and in that capacity, is responsible for organizing the picnic.

It is an awesome task, he confides, acknowledging the help of wife Marjorie, who has helped compile an impressive family tree dating back to the 1600s.

This year, the group will begin their festivities with a worship service at the Davisburg United Methodist Church.

They will then tour the historic home of Cornelius' son James Harvey Davis before enjoying companionship and a meal sponsored by the historical society.

They also plan on burying a time capsule with let-

Judson and Marjorie Davis, descendants of Cornelius Davis, pose before an antique stove in the home of James Harvey Davis. The house is being restored by the Springfield Township Historical Society.

Davis home is well-intact

Thousands of golf shoe cleat marks dot the floors of the historic James Harvey Davis home near Springfield Oaks Golf Course.

Members of the Springfield Township Historical Society look at them in frustration. What to do? they ask.

They don't dwell on the problem, however, choosing instead to discuss their many accomplishments.

Members of the society have been restoring the 19th century home since 1971. It was formerly used as the golf course's clubhouse.

They've put up a wall, wallpapered, restored windows, fixed the front porch and furnished the rooms among many other chores.

Some of the furnishings are merely antiques while several are family heirlooms from the Davis family, according to Helen Vergin, society member.

The heirlooms include old family photos, matching chairs and a love seat, and a candle holder and rocking chair brought from New York by Cornelius Davis, who founded Davisburg.

Members of the society plan to show the home to Davis descendants who will gather for a family reunion in August.

They will also use the building as the society's meeting place as their work continues.

Born minutes apart

Within three minutes, Jerry and Jean Messing of Clarkston became grandparents twice on July 26.

"That makes five grandchildren for us," said Jean. "We have three grandsons, so we ended up having two granddaughters. It's like having twin granddaughters. I was a twin myself, but we were born four minutes apart, so it's even closer than twins."

Having their granddaughters born at different hospitals in Pontiac added more excitement to the day. The Messings found themselves rushing between the two hospitals, Jean said.

The eldest of their new granddaughters is Nicole Jean, who was born at 12:10 p.m. at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital. She weighed 7 pounds 7 ounces and measured 19 1/4 inches long.

Nicole's parents are Joseph and Pam Messing of Holly. She has two brothers, Tony, 4, and Jimmy, 3. Her maternal grandparents are James and Donna Wallace of Waterford.

Andrea Marie was born at 12:13 p.m. at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital. She weighed 6 pounds 6 ounces and measured 18 1/2 inches long.

Andrea is the first child of Roger and Debbie Messing of Pontiac. Her maternal grandparents are Donald and Donna Lee of Pontiac.

New arrivals

It's a boy for Yiannis and Gina Moulatsiotis of Iliopoulos, Greece, a suburb of Athens.

Panaogtis Wiannis (Peter John) was born July 25 in Iliopoulos. He weighed 9 pounds 8 ounces and measured 22 inches long.

Grandparents are Frank and Lila Roselli of Almond Lane, Independence Township, and Panaogtis and Panaogti Moulatsiotis of Iliopoulos.

The first child for David and Elizabeth Haynes of Waterford is a girl.

Tamara Lynn was born June 22 at St. Joseph's Mercy Hospital in Pontiac. She weighed 6 pounds 9 ounces and measured 20 inches long.

Grandparents are Ivyl Zetta Pierce of Davisburg and Barbara Haynes of Drayton Plains.

Great-grandmother is Marion Collom of Walled Lake.

Honors

Doreen Fraser, a student at Midwestern Baptist College, Pontiac, is on the dean's list for receiving all A's.

A first-year student at the college, she is the daughter of Floyd and Doralee Damitz of Gladwin. Her home church is Dixie Baptist Church, Springfield Township.

In service

Marine Pfc. Phillip Bachor recently reported for duty with Detachment C, 1st Marine Aircraft Wing, Marine Corps Air Station Iwakuni, Japan.

A 1985 graduate of Clarkston High School, Bachor joined the Marine Corps in September 1985. He is the son of Joan and Sylvester Bachor Jr. of Stickney Road.

Marine Cpl. Thomas Shellnut has been meritoriously promoted to his present rank while serving with 2nd Marine Aircraft Wing, Marine Corps Air Station Cherry Point, N.C.

Shellnut received accelerated promotion in recognition of outstanding performance, duty proficiency and demonstrated professional abilities.

A 1980 graduate of Waterford Township High School, he is the son of Barbara Shellnut of Ortonville Road. He joined the Marine Corps in October 1982.

Watch for her name in movie credits

Clarkston High School graduate Pamela Sue Stalker's artistic skills are being recognized in California, and Pamela's mother wants her daughter's friends to know.

"I'm very proud of my daughter's accomplishments and hard work," writes Dorothy Stalker from her home in Bradenton, Fla.

Her letter continues:
"Pamela Sue Stalker graduated from Clarkston Senior High School, with honors, in 1975. Pam attended Center for Creative Studies in Detroit, and upon completion received her bachelor's degree.

"Pam continued with her love of art in Valencia, Calif., at Cal Arts to receive her master's degree in fine arts.

"Pam spent a summer at a private school, and taught filmmaking and animation to grades 7-12 in California.

"Pam resides in San Francisco, Calif., and does free-lance artwork. Her latest experience was working on a Warner Brothers film, called 'One Crazy Summer,' which will be shown all over U.S. cities the week of Aug. 8.

Grad

Lisa Steele received a master's degree in telecommunications from Michigan State University, East Lansing, on June 7.

Steele is a 1984 graduate of the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, and a 1980 graduate of Clarkston High School.

She is employed by Electronic Data Systems (EDS) of Southfield.

Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Steele of Kingfisher Lane, Independence Township.

"Pam does all the background during the animation part in this movie, and her name is on the credits.

"Some of her work was for Colossal Pictures, doing animation for TV, which includes Levis, Nickelodeon, Skittles and the California Lottery.

"She also did the computer animation for the software game 'Airheart,' completed an animation short called 'Monster Talk,' and was a finalist at the 1985 Los Angeles International Animation Celebration."

Courtney twirls

to contest success

Courtney Grimes was crowned "Regional Miss TU Majorette," Twirling Unlimited's World Majorette for ages 7 to 8. The competition, held in Port Huron at the Blue Water Festival, involved twirling and show routines and modeling in a party dress. Courtney, 8, has been twirling one and one-half years. She has traveled to many locations in Michigan, Ohio, Indiana and Canada for twirling competitions. She is a member of Drum Majorettes of America baton corps, and her twirling instructor is June Lauer, former Purdue Gold Girl, of Ortonville. Courtney will be in the third grade at Pine Knob Elementary School this fall. She is the daughter of Ray Ballard of Snowapple Drive, Independence Township.

HEAT RELIEF: These four found relief at Deer Lake Beach last week from the 90 degree temperatures. So many people flocked to the beach that hardly a bare spot could be found in water or on sand. (Photo by Julie LePere)

Do alcoholics drink every day?

Dear Cat Paw:
Doesn't all speed come in capsule form? High

Dear High:
Amphetamine or speed comes in capsule, pill, liquid, powder, tablet or lozenge form.

Dear Cat Paw:
What is killer weed? Curious

Dear Curious:
Killer weed is a marijuana cigarette dusted with PCP.

Dear Cat Paw:
What's all the commotion about drinking when you should be worried about drug abuse? Leave Us Alone

Dear Leave Us Alone:
The number one drug problem is alcohol abuse. About 300,000 Americans are addicted to heroin, but about 10 million are addicted to alcohol.

Dear Cat Paw:
Please tell us if an alcoholic drinks every day. Sober

Dear Sober:
Although alcoholism is characterized by quantity and frequency of alcohol intake, some alcoholics drink only on weekends, and some don't drink for months.

Alcoholism is not determined solely by how much or how often people drink, but whether or not they can control their drinking once they start.

Dear Cat Paw:
Isn't it true that cigarettes are getting safer all the time? Smoker

Dear Smoker:
There is no such thing as a safe cigarette. The fact is that cigarettes are responsible for far more deaths every year from cancer and other lung diseases than any other chemical substance.

Dear Cat Paw:
Aren't legal drugs safe? Worried Student

Dear Worried:
Any drug can be abused. Although the federal government regulates the use of drugs, being labeled legal does not mean they are safe.

Mail letters to Cat Paw in care of The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main, Clarkston, MI 48016.

Cat Paw author Jeanette Sanders, a Springfield Township resident, is a state-certified substance abuse counselor and a member of the Chemical People of Clarkston.

Incredible edibles Summer salads

A pair of salads suitable for summer mealtimes are this week's offerings from "Incredible Edibles," the cookbook published by the Clarkston Community Women's Club.

The shrimp salad recipe was submitted by Carol Hicks of Frederickstown, Ohio. Sharon Zuk of Pontiac contributed the cold Greek pasta salad recipe.

SHRIMP SALAD

- 1 can tomato soup
 - 1 envelope Knox gelatine
 - 1/4 cup cold water
 - 1 large Philadelphia cream cheese
 - 1 cup celery
 - 1/2 cup onion
 - 1 cup Hellmann's mayonnaise
 - 1 pound shrimp, cut in small pieces
- Heat tomato soup and add gelatine, which has been softened in the cold water. Add cream cheese. Stir until dissolved; chill.
- When cold, fold in celery, onion, mayonnaise and shrimp. Chill in ring mold. Serve as salad or, better yet, as spread for crackers. Serves 4-6.

COLD GREEK PASTA SALAD

- Cook noodles (your choice—shells, fettucini, spinach)
 - Broccoli, bite-size pieces, lightly steamed
 - Baby shrimp (quantity is up to you)
 - Radishes, sliced very thin
 - Provolone cheese, sliced in thin slivers
 - Genoa salami, sliced in thin slivers
- Toss all ingredients together with an Italian dressing (homemade or bottled). Sprinkle with oregano; toss again. Refrigerate one hour before serving. Determine the amount of ingredients by the number of people you will be serving.

Proceeds from the sale of "Incredible Edibles" cookbooks are used on community service projects. The $6 books are available at the Independence Township Library, Village Bookstore, Carol's Village Grill, Gayanne's Floral Concept and Pontiac State Bank's downtown Clarkston branch.

WE GUARANTEE TREATED LUMBER — 2 WAYS!

1. GUARANTEED FOR DURABILITY!
 Under pressure of 40 lbs. per cubic ft. (.40 retention) waterborne preservatives are permanently forced deep into the cellular structure of the wood. This lock-in preservative gives us lifelong protection against termites, rot and decay. This protection assures you your outdoor project has been built with quality treated lumber, whether inground or above ground. ASK FOR YOUR COPY AT THE STORE

2. GUARANTEED FOR APPEARANCE!
 We are so confident in the appearance of our treated lumber when used for your deck top or railing that we guarantee your satisfaction in that if any piece of treated lumber (2x4, 2x6, 5/4x8) is not usable for your deck top or railing due to covered defect, simply return the piece and receive a new piece and a "Buck ($1.00 a Board)" for your trouble. This program subject to terms and conditions posted in store.

Concert to aid Jamaican orphanage

Noel McFarlane, a recording artist from San Francisco, Calif., is to appear in concert Sunday, Aug. 3, at the First Church of God.

The performance is planned at 10:45 a.m. The church is located at 6300 Clarkston Rd., Independence Township.

Born in Jamaica, McFarlane came to the United States in 1962. He has sung before the U.S. Congress, appeared on many television programs and recorded a number of albums.

His concert will include classical and gospel music and some with a "Jamaican Beat."

McFarlane operates an orphanage in Jamaica as well as other outreach programs in his country of birth, where he was born into a poor single-parent family.

At the concert, a free-will offering will be taken for McFarlane's ministry.

Search for clubs

Clubs and organizations seeking a profit-making summertime venture are wanted by the Springfield Township Parks and Recreation Department.

The department is making plans for a Summer Fun Day on Aug. 16 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Mill Pond Park in Davisburg.

Among activities planned are a floatable boatable race; pie-eating contest; mini-tennis, horseshoe and shuffleboard tournaments; pie eating and fishing contests; games; swimming; and a senior citizen craft sale.

For more information, call Sherry Swindell, the director of parks and recreation, at 625-4802 or 634-3111.

Soccer deadline is extended

Youth soccer registration is being extended by Independence Township Parks and Recreation through Aug. 8.

Youngsters should register at the Parks and Rec Department at 90 N. Main from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Registration is for this fall's soccer program and the 1987 spring program. All teams will be registered with the Michigan State Youth Soccer Association.

Games will begin Aug. 27 and will be played on Monday and Wednesday for the under 8, under 10, under 12 and under 14 leagues. The under 16 and under 18 leagues will play on weekends.

Games will be played at Bailey Lake Elementary and Sashabaw Plains Park. A total of 18 games are scheduled, eight in the fall and 10 in the spring.

The cost is $35 for one child, $25 for the second child and $15 for each additional child. The cost of the under 8 program is $15 because it is an instructional-scrimmage league.

For further information, call Parks and Rec at 625-8223.

New eatery to open on Depot St.

By Julie LePere

An Aug. 11 opening date is planned for downtown Clarkston's newest eatery, 20 Depot Street. The owners are Ed Adler and Kent Cassady.

The name refers to the restaurant's address and was chosen to make its location easier to find, said Adler, who also owns the Clarkston Mills Mall where the restaurant is located.

"I'm really excited about it, and so is Ed," said Cassady. "I think we'll do well."

Cassady started out in the construction business, but the poor economy of the 1970s helped the now 38-year-old decide to switch to the restaurant business.

He eventually worked his way to management and worked for six and half years in that capacity for Chuck Muer Restaurants.

"I got most of my training from there," said Cassady.

He was a manager at Norm LePage Restaurant last year, and this year, he will be the general manager of his own restaurant, jointly owned with Adler.

The new eatery will be a "tavern-type concept," he said. In the beginning, the menu will feature just about everything including burgers, seafood, pizza, pasta, Mexican dishes, steaks and ribs.

"We're going to open with a lot of variety on the menu and let people tell us what they want," he said. "I really feel if you want to appeal to the community, you'd better listen to the people and what they want."

He's anxious to meet the people in the area, he said. He and his wife of seven months moved to Surrey Lane in Clarkston a few weeks ago.

"It's a nice community. The people seem friendly, and it's really nice and quiet out here," he said. "I think they need a restaurant out here like this. It's a really good potential. It's a growing area."

The site has been vacant for a year, and in the five years Adler has owned the mall, two restaurants have opened and closed. But the closing of Foxy's and The Cookery doesn't bother Cassady, he said.

"I'm used to doing my own budget. I've had training in that," he said. "I'm not nervous at all (about the other restaurants). . . . I'm more looking forward to getting open."

The restaurant will begin by serving lunch and dinner, and Cassady also plans to open banquet facilities shortly thereafter.

The new banquet room will be formed by replacing with windows the outside wall east of the stream, he said. It will seat 90 to 100 people.

The 130-seat restaurant also plans to be open

Sundays and eventually to offer a Sunday brunch, he said.

Before it opens, Cassady will have to hire about 45 employees, hang curtains and pictures, paint, clean and complete minor alterations to the bar area.

But that's part of the job, he said, and he's waiting for opening day.

Adler, too, is full of anticipation.

"I love Clarkston—and all the people that are hungry," he said.

General manager Kent Cassady (left) and kitchen manager Brian Homeszyn are looking forward to opening 20 Depot Street, the new restaurant in the Clarkston Mills Mall.

Obituaries

Virginia Atkins

Virginia Lorene Atkins, 63, of Clarkston died July 26. She was a member of the First General Baptist Church for 30 years, a Christian youth director for many years and later attended Good Shepherd Assembly of God.

Surviving are her husband, John W.; children, James of Georgia, Carolyn Bradley of Jackson and Sharley Rose of Clarkston; stepparents Mr. and Mrs. Albert Haag of Tennessee; brothers and sisters, Raymond Holder of South Carolina, Gradie Holder of Pontiac, Albert Haag Jr. of Kentucky, Donald Haag of Tennessee, Anna Marie Haag of Indiana and Wanda Powell of South Carolina; and grandchildren, Christian James and Jacqueline Atkins, Julie and Jonathan Bradley, and Jayna and Stacia Lorene Rose. She was preceded in death by her parents, John Holder and Ellen Busby.

The funeral service is to be held Wednesday, July 30, at 2 p.m. at Loveland Funeral Home, Waterford Township, with the Revs. Joe Gallego and Robert Garner to officiate. Burial is to follow in Hillview Memorial Gardens, Springfield Township.

Rev. Clarence Bell

The Rev. Clarence A. Bell, 63, of Clarkston died July 22. He was pastor of the First Baptist Church of Clarkston.

The Rev. Bell was a graduate of Moody Bible Institute of Chicago, Ill., and of Wheaton College of Wheaton, Ill. He had served as pastor for Calvary Baptist in Saginaw, Community Baptist in Croswell, Covey Hill Baptist in Paw Paw and for the last 16 years as pastor of the Clarkston congregation.

Surviving are his wife, June; children, Morris Bell of Danville, Ill., Thomas Bell of Waterford and Mrs. Scott (Janet) Enders of Ortonville; grandchildren, Holly and Jeannine; and sister, Mrs. Robert (Irene) Strietenberger of California.

The funeral service was held July 26 at the First Baptist Church of Clarkston with Dr. Harry Love officiating. Burial followed in Roselawn Memorial Gardens, Saginaw. Arrangements were made by the Lewis E. Wint & Son Funeral Home, Independence Township.

Memorials may be made to the Rev. Clarence A. Bell Living Memorial Fund.

Martha Bennett

Martha Bennett, 83, of Clarkston died July 22. A retired teacher, she was a member of the Clarkston United Methodist Church.

Surviving are her sons, John of Germany, Harold of California and Paul of Clarkston; and grandchildren, Nathan Bennett, Arron Jellum and Joshua, Nureddin and Karim Bennett.

The funeral service was held July 26 at the Lewis E. Wint & Son Funeral Home, Independence Township, with the Rev. Douglas Trebilcock officiating. Burial followed in Ottawa Park Cemetery, Independence Township.

Memorials may be made to the Independence Township Library.

Dorothy S. Durbin

Dorothy S. Durbin, 67, of Waterford Township and formerly of Royal Oak died July 25. She was an active member of the First United Methodist Church of Royal Oak and had served as the church cook for 20 years.

Surviving are her mother, Mrs. Grace Samison of Oliver; children, Mrs. Edward (Betsy) Grattin of Waterford, Laurence Durbin of California and the Rev. Dr. Paul Durbin of Ohio; seven grandchildren; and sister, Carolyn Leithauser of Oliver.

The memorial service was held July 29 at the First United Methodist Church of Royal Oak with the Rev. Dr. Raymond Lamb officiating. Arrangements were made by the Lewis E. Wint & Son Funeral Home, Independence Township.

Memorials may be made to her church's library memorial fund.

Aldina E. Filbert

Aldina E. Filbert, 78, of Independence Township died July 25.

Surviving are her children, Mrs. Ronald (Ruth) Knipe of Arizona, Robert Filbert of Clarkston and Barbara Spencer of Drayton Plains; stepchildren, Faelice Minarik of Flint and William Filbert of Indiana; 17 grandchildren; 24 great-grandchildren; and sister, Ruth Sorgatz of Saginaw.

The funeral service was held July 29 at the Salem Lutheran Church, Owosso, with the Rev. Robert Mueller officiating. Burial followed in Hillcrest Memorial Gardens, Owosso. Arrangements were made by the Lewis E. Wint & Son Funeral Home, Independence Township.

Memorials may be made to the Salem Lutheran Church.

Lee B. Foster

Lee B. Foster, 78, of Independence Township died July 23. The former owner of Foster Garage in Pontiac, he was a member of the First Baptist Church of Clarkston, the Gideons and the Classic Car Club.

Mr. Foster was a participant in Clarkston's July 4 and Labor Day parades for over 20 years, most recently driving his Lagonda, an English car built in the '30s, said his wife, Mildred.

"His love was cars," she said, adding that she teased him about carrying a picture of his car—and not her—in his wallet.

"So he told me, one day, he had a picture of me" in his wallet, too, she said.

Mr. Foster loved being in the parades, unlike his wife who preferred to enjoy them from the sidelines.

"I never went with him, and he always picked out one of the pretty girls to go with him, usually one of his nieces," she said.

Also surviving are his sister, June Rawlings of Kansas; brother, Rex Foster of Florida; and many nieces and nephews.

The funeral service was held July 26 at the Lewis E. Wint & Son Funeral Home, Independence Township, with the Rev. Bruce Benson officiating. Burial followed in Ottawa Park Cemetery, Independence Township.

Memorials may be made to the Gideons.

Bertha Hutchinson

Bertha Hutchinson, 88, of Waterford Township died July 24.

Surviving are her daughter-in-law, Evelyn Smith of Flint; grandchildren, Alan and Michael; and great-

Poor little sheep who lost its way

Photos by Julie LePere

Alicia Krzyczkowski, 2½, looks amazed to see live sheep inside the library.

Because of the rain July 16, Gloria Bellairs brings her sheep and spinning wheel inside the Independence Township Library. She tells toddlers at the program all about sheep: What they eat (just about anything). Why they're raised (for wool or meat). And why their fur is unique (it has tiny scales that bind the fur, making it simple to spin woolen yarn).

Davises have a long history

ters to future descendants to be opened in 25 years. Judson says he annually sends postcards to the many relations reminding them of the family do.

Last year he was contacted by long "lost" relative Donald A. Davis, who was touring Michigan with his family.

"We knew they were out there," he says, adding that Donald Davis' family lost contact with the others in 1887 when his forefather John J. C. Davis, (nephew of James Harvey) moved to South Dakota.

In addition to their name, the Davis family has contributed land and memorabilia to the Springfield community.

Cornelius' son John C. Davis was the first postmaster and gave the land for the Methodist church.

Other family members, Daniel and son Manley Davis, donated the Davisburg Park, which is now the site of Springfield Oaks Golf Course.

The James Harvey Davis home, built about 1872 and formerly used as the golf course club house, adjoins the site and is filled with pictures and furniture from the Davis family.

In recounting his family's history, Judson says he cannot recall mention of a single skeleton in the Davis closet.

He does, however, have a rumor to share in connection with the golf course property.

nection with the golf course property.

A non-family member, who was believed to be Chinese and whose name is unknown, was reportedly killed during the construction of the Detroit-Milwaukee railroad, he says.

He is believed to be buried somewhere on the golf course property.

"There's a single lost grave out there somewhere," Judson says, gesturing out a window to the land that captured the heart of Cornelius Davis.

The land the Davises call home.

Historical society

Three of the society members, who have gathered to give a sneak preview of the home, banter cheerfully among themselves about the handful of workers who have loyally contributed to the restoration.

It's hard, time-consuming work, they agree, adding that many have aged right along with the building.

On work days, "the walkers and canes really fly," jokes one.

Her voice is drowned out by the laughter of her peers, happy in the midst of their history and their successes.

Portray history in township pageant

Volunteers are needed for the Springfield Township Sesquicentennial Historical Pageant.

A minimum of 70 people including 50 adults and 20 children will be required for the pageants planned Sept. 19, 20, 26 and 27.

If enough people volunteer, an entirely different group will be used for each performance. Also needed are stagehands, painters, carpenters, lighting crew, sound technicians, choirs and musical groups.

The visual unfolding of history is to take place in the upper arena at the Springfield Oaks Activities Center on Andersonville Road.

Only a few rehearsals are planned, and the first one scheduled Monday, Aug. 4, at 7 p.m. at Springfield Oaks.

Those who would like to participate should call Springfield Township Hall at 625-4802 or 634-3111.

Where are you Miss Springfield?

The search is on for Miss Springfield Township. All girls between the ages of 15 and 19 who live in the township can enter the Sesquicentennial Pageant on Sept. 4 at Heather Highlands and vie for the honor.

A queen and her court will be selected. Among their duties will be appearances in the Carry Nation Festival parade in Holly on Sept. 6, the Springfield Sesquicentennial Parade on Oct. 4 and at all sesquicentennial events in 1986.

Judging will be based on poise, personality and appearance. A birth certificate will be required as proof of age and contestants must be single, never married or had a child.

In addition, contestants must be natives of the United States and residents of Springfield for at least six months.

Entry forms are available at Springfield Township Hall on Davisburg Road or by calling 625-7534 or 625-3817.

NOTICE PUBLIC MEETINGS FOR M-24 WIDENING LAKE ORION, MICHIGAN
The Michigan Department of Transportation is calling public meetings from 3:30 to 5:00 p.m. and 7:00 to 8:30 p.m. on Thursday, September 4, 1986 at the Lake Orion Village Hall, 37 E. Flint, Lake Orion, Michigan.
The purpose of this meeting is to provide area citizens the opportunity to view the plans and discuss right-of-way acquisition procedures for the portion of M-24 from Clarkston Road in Orion Township to Elizabeth Road in the Village of Lake Orion, Oakland County. This project was discussed at a public hearing held July 24, 1986.
Department representatives will be present to discuss the relocation services and payments that will be available to all relocatees. Relocation assistance for displaced occupants is based on occupancy of the home at the time of purchase negotiations. Moving costs, funds to purchase housing, rental payments, and other benefits will be made available to eligible occupants whether they own or rent the housing to be purchased for the right-of-way.
Because no formal presentation will be given, please feel free to stop in anytime between 3:30 to 5:00 p.m. or between 7:00 to 8:30 p.m. To further assist you, information on this project or any Michigan Department of Transportation planning project, may be obtained by calling (517) 373-9534.

SCAMP's spirit

Clarkston SCAMP, the five-week summer camp for children and young adults with special needs, wrapped up its 11th year last week. But SCAMP's spirit of fun and learning shall live on in the memories of the over 200 campers. Among them are (clockwise, from above) Tony Schoform, Charlie Ingoglia, Jason Adams and Richard Lee. Growth pace spurs expansion quest

By Carolyn Walker

Harried employees at the Independence Township Building and Planning Department are having difficulty keeping pace with the township's growth, according to director Kenneth Delbridge.

At a special meeting July 22, the township board voted 4-0 to advertise for a new, full-time building inspector following a request by the director.

Delbridge told the board that inspection and effective ordinance enforcement have been drastically affected by the glut of business.

"We are definitely running at a pretty full capacity right now," he said.

The addition of an inspector and the upgrading of several employees would enhance department capacities, Delbridge told the board.

Currently, the township has a chief building inspector, plumbing and heating inspector, electrical inspector and inspector trainee as well as a secretary and two file clerks, one part-time.

The board took no action on requests by Delbridge to make four promotions within the department.

To support his stance, Delbridge presented the board with a 20-page report on the status of the township, outlining its rapid growth and projects under review.

"We're being faced with quite a lot of construction in the township and that, of course, demands manpower," Delbridge said.

He then displayed a graph that showed development over the past several years.

"We're going right off the chart."

—Kenneth Delbridge Building Director

"We're going right off the chart," he said.

Revenue projections for 1986 were for $60,000, Delbridge said, adding that revenue has exceeded his expectations. Thus far, revenue has reached about $80,000 and, he said, could go higher than $100,000 by the end of the year.

To date, the department has issued 258 building permits for 1986 compared with 318 for all of 1985, which was considered a banner year.

He cited several large projects, such as the Mediplex complex and Grovercrest of Clarkston, as making extra demands on inspection personnel because of their size; but said the increased business brings in money to pay for employee increases.

In his report, Delbridge said there are 1,500 active permits, including remodeling, currently on file in the department.

"So far this year, we have issued approximately 97 new housing starts in six months," the report said.

By comparison, during the slump in 1982 there were nine residential building permits issued, according to Delbridge.

In addition, the department receives five to 10 ordinance complaints per day, he said.

"Because of the building activity we have, complaints are handled only on an emergency basis," his report said. "Back in 1979 when we employed a full-time ordinance officer, complaints were handled much more effectively and promptly."

"The township is not enforcing its ordinances," Delbridge told the board. "The minute you lay off of enforcement it (violations) seems to double back. We're carrying a pretty bad reputation."

Trustee William Vandermark agreed with Delbridge and reminded the board that before the recession the department employed additional personnel.

Any new hires should be told at the onset that they could be cutback should the economy decline, Vandermark said.

In addition, Trustee Daniel Travis suggested that the township explore a way to generate funds through fines from ordinance violations to help offset enforcement costs.

The board took no action on these proposals. Nor did it take action on Delbridge's requests for department promotions, pending the outcome of current union negotiations.

Present for the vote were Supervisor Frank Ronk, Holman, Vandermark and Travis. Trustees Dale Stuart and Carol Balzarini left the meeting early. Treasurer John Lutz was absent.

Husband-wife team buys Ritter's Farm Market

By Carolyn Walker

There are a lot of factors on the side of business-marriage partners Gary and Amy Reed. Youth. Enthusiasm. Education. Family.

The 24-year-old Reeds are the new owners of Ritter's Farm Market on Dixie Highway and they are head-over-heels in love with their venture.

"The tradition's back at Ritter's," says Gary, who had his first job at the store when he was 14 years old in 1976.

At that time, he made grave blankets in the winter for then-owner Tom Ritter. Successful at that task, he graduated to flower work the following summer, he says.

Gary stayed with Ritter until 1980, when he went off to school at Michigan State University, though he continued working for Ritter in the summers driving the trucks to Eastern Market for produce.

Amy joined the Ritter operation for one summer in 1983 during her junior year of college, also at MSU.

"(I sorted strawberries, that's the main thing I remember," she says. "I think I ate more than I got in the quart."

The Reeds recoil (though happily) at the suggestion that they met at Ritter's. Everybody thinks that, they say.

Actually, love bloomed in seventh grade.

The Reeds believe their past experiences will help them with business.

Gary worked in the Michigan Senate as a liaison in the office of the republican majority leader while a college student. And Amy, who majored in dietetics in college, previously managed a gourmet food store.

Their philosophy is simple: "Common courtesy and common sense when it comes down to it," says Gary.

They also credit their families as being major supporters of their endeavor.

"Both sides of the family have encouraged us," says Amy, who is the daughter of Dave and Carol Bixby.

Gary comes from a family of five boys, which expanded to over 70 children when his parents, Jim and Carolanne Reed, adopted three sons and provided foster-home love to needy babies.

Amy credits Gary's home life with giving him the patience and cooperation necessary to operate a business.

"He's much more patient than I am," she says.

Gary and Amy Reed work feverishly as Ritter's. The Reeds recently purchased the Dixie Highway market. They lease the building.

Quotes from the English language

When you buy bonds at a premium over par, be sure to have your broker get all the information on call prices.

One national brokerage house is now wishing it had been more thorough in this respect. They sold a big batch of bonds to a customer at 100 and quoted a call price from Moody's manual of 110.83, in 1988. The issue was Houston Light & Power's 12.375 percent bonds due March 15, 2013. The information was all right, as far as it went, and the broker thought that's all there was to the call provision.

Houston Light & Power, a couple of months later, came up with an obscure provision from the fine print of the bond contract, and determined they could call most of the bonds at 100, or par, under certain conditions. And so the utility did call over 90 percent of the bonds, and the customer was out $100 on every one of the bonds called. The bond he paid $1,100 for was suddenly taken from him and he was paid only $1,000.

In these days when interest rates have fallen so sharply, companies are calling bonds right and left. Insist that your broker carefully have the fine print checked on unusual call features.

The old word merchant of Juno Beach, Charley Redfield, sends along some classical quotes to illustrate some of the finer moments of the English language. With each quote, he asks: Could you have said it a better way?

Here they are:

Lincoln said it this way: "Four score and seven years ago..."

Thomas Paine: "These are the times that try men's souls."

E.B. White wrote: "Write with nouns and verbs, not with adjectives and adverbs. The adjective hasn't been built that can pull a weak or inaccurate noun out of a tight place."

General McAuliffe's notable reply when the Germans asked him to surrender at Bastogne: "Nuts."

This was doubly remarkable, for the military (and the bureaucrats and the police) just don't say anything the simple way.

For example: A man holds up a bank, runs out the door with a bagful of money and hops into a waiting car. The police will be quoted: "The alleged suspect departed from the bank at a high rate of speed and entered a vehicle believed to have been waiting for him outside the subject building."

Another example: In Delray Beach recently, six houses on one street were fire-bombed and five people were hurt. Fire Marshal Michael Cato was quoted in the Palm Beach Post: "Whoever did this appeared to be interested in hurting people."

Another in Charley's list of great sayings: (From World War II) "Sighted sub; sank same."

Next to General McAuliffe's, this was the shortest dispatch of the war.

Churchill, of course, was the greatest orator of our times. Who will ever forget his speech in the House of Commons in May 1940, in which he said, "I have nothing to offer but blood, toil, tears and sweat."

Or a month later, before the House, "We shall defend our island, whatever the cost may be, we shall fight on the beaches, we shall fight on the landing grounds, we shall fight on the fields and in the streets, we shall fight in the hills; we shall never surrender."

Hopping about a bit, we go from syntax to synthetic oil. And this one will save you money.

At least a half-dozen years ago, a retired executive of Mobil Corp. told us about the company's new synthetic oil, called Mobil One. The man was Austin Brightman of Venice, Fla. Alas, my friend is now dead.

I had enjoyed his company greatly over the years, and I heard many tales of his collection of antique cars, which won blue ribbons internationally.

I recount this to show he knew cars and he knew the oil business. Austin explained that since Mobil One was a 100 percent synthetic oil, it had great properties of lubrication that natural oils didn't have. Only the good features were put into the synthetic. In the natural oil, the undesirable qualities couldn't all be removed.

Anyhow, I've been using it in our cars since 1980. Earlier checks made on mileage showed an improvement of nearly 10 percent. A friend at Chrysler who was in a car pool had it in his car, and often his car was the only one that started on very cold mornings.

Austin said it was good for 25,000 miles before changing, although he changed the filter every 7,000 miles or so.

A car we're driving now, a 1985 Cadillac DeVille, has one of these electronic gas mileage indicators on the dash. On a recent trip with a loaded car, on a level expressway, no wind, speed 65, air conditioner off, we got a steady 28 miles per gallon. We've always used Mobil One in this car, draining out the original factory oil at 500 miles.

I've told dozens of people about this and to date have found only one who was interested. The fellow who embraced the idea at once was a canny nephew, Ben, whose big printing plant back in Lapeer, Michigan, has a fleet of trucks. He put the stuff in all the trucks, as well as his Porsche roadster. He said the results were great and I am now his favorite uncle.

Tradition thrives at Moon Valley

By Carolyn Walker

The sound of saws and the smell of fresh-cut wood greet visitors to the Moon Valley Rustic furniture store summer, winter, rain or shine.

Even though it's the "off" season by late July, a peek into the business end of things finds employees in several stages of construction, sawdust flying furiously, as they prepare wooden poles to become furniture.

As the sun comes up over Dixie Highway early on a summer morning, the workers are busy fine-tuning the lumber that will go into the picnic tables, chairs and swings Moon Valley is known for.

The business is currently owned by Ed Beatty and his son Kim, who says, "(it) hasn't really changed in the last 60 years. It keeps us jumping. We get right out there and get our hands dirty every day. It's still just a small operation in that respect."

While progress has altered the look of the highway (picture, if you can the gypsies that Beatty says were rumored to have lived across from the store when it was founded), Moon Valley furniture maintains its original style.

The store's products are made from Ponderosa Pine, imported from the west, and from Michigan White Cedar.

Beatty points to a curved seat on a swing. "There's about 15 operations in that one seat alone," he says, referring to shaping, varnishing and constructing.

Building techniques have changed very little since the inception of the business, he says.

All the logs used at Moon Valley are hand-peeled and custom cut to make full use of each piece of wood and to eliminate waste.

The furniture pieces are then doweled together and heavily braced, he says. "(There's) still a lot of handwork in it."

After construction, the Moon Valley emblem is branded onto the various pieces, a way of signing the work that was implemented about eight years ago.

Prior to that, a rubber stamp was used for about 15 years to mark furniture, Beatty says.

While picnic tables old and new can be found "all over" old cedar swings are the most likely to still be in existence, according to Beatty, who attributes their stamina to the durability of the timber.

People come into the store for replacement parts on 25- to 30-year-old swings, he says. "We can tell if it was made here . . . just by the construction techniques."

Crates of wood are ready to fashion into Moon Valley products.

Bob Haran works on cutting wood at Moon Valley Rustic. The process used to make picnic tables, swings and other items is much like it was years ago.

Our Compliments To The Chef. And All The Staff Who Keep Meals On Wheels Rolling.

About two decades ago, a group of some very enterprising people first opened the doors to what has ever since been a favorite local eatery.

In that time, not a whole lot has changed in the way they run things.

The menu's simple. But the food is always hot, fresh and wholesome.

A lot of the staff works for free. And most provide their own cars and gasoline so the operators can still offer home delivery.

And, as it's always been over the years, they've never once made a red cent to show for it all.

But they did manage to make firm believers out of us.

They're Meals on Wheels, after all. So while it is not surprising that they are not in business to make a profit, they still have to pay their bills like everyone else to stay in business.

Otherwise, hundreds of homebound senior citizens and hundreds more less-fortunate people might go hungry every day.

So when they fed us the facts on their cash-flow problem, we gave them the line of credit they needed to keep things rolling.

Not just because we're bankers. But because, more importantly, we're part of the community.

You see, at First of America Bank we think non-profit organizations like Meals on Wheels, who make sure that those in need do not go hungry, are something everyone will eventually profit from some day.

"It's made him patient."

Gary agrees. "You've just got to work together with everyone."

The Reeds have big hopes for the market, which has stood in the same spot for over 60 years.

They plan to keep the deli, beer and wine, as soon as they can transfer the license, introduce some meats and possibly bring in fish in the future.

Gary says a key to their success may lie in the fact that he personally picks out the produce from Eastern Market to be sold at the store.

"I go down and see what I'm buying. I go down and taste what I'm buying," he says.

He glances affectionately at his wife, who is busy waiting on a long line of customers. "She runs the store, to tell the truth," he says.

Now, that's a partnership.

Clinic's now certified

North Oaks Animal Clinic of Independence Township is now a certified hospital in the American Animal Hospital Association (AAHA).

A certified hospital is the highest status attainable from the AAHA. Only 6 percent of the veterinary hospitals in the United States are AAH certified.

To achieve certification, the clinic passed three comprehensive inspections of its facilities, medical equipment, veterinary practice and management.

A voluntary organization of 13,000 members, AAHA was established in 1933 to raise the standards of animal hospitals and to provide the best possible care for pets.

Clarkston resident Bruce W. Harlton, DVM, is the clinic's director. He is a 1972 graduate of Michigan State University's College of Veterinary Medicine.

From trees to tombstones, anything goes

It's fun to challenge Scott Robeson's claim that he can clean any exterior surface.

For instance, how about trees?

"Don't laugh. We have," he says, telling the story of a man who thought of a practical purpose for an 8-foot tree stump in his yard.

"He removed the bark and we removed the sap-like coating on the tree," he says. "Then he varnished the tree and was going to suspend swings from it."

Robeson became the owner of Americlean of South Central Michigan Inc. about three months ago. A 13-year resident of Independence Township, he formerly worked in sales for a large pharmaceutical corporation.

The power wash cleaning business appealed to him because it can be used to restore old buildings, he says.

Using chemicals approved by the Federal Environmental Protection Agency, paint can be removed from buildings, and brick, wood, masonry, marble, stucco, granite and aluminum siding can be cleaned.

Robeson has cleaned the stone on Rudy's Market in Clarkston and is contracted to strip the paint from a historic village home.

Among his more unusual jobs have been cleaning airplanes, the service area of an automobile dealership and tombstones.

Robeson brags that his cleaning processes are historically correct, environmentally sound and that the parent firm has been given the job of cleaning and paint removal at Gettysburg, Va.

"People just don't realize what's available," he says. "This is really something that's so wide open, you can let your mind run wild. We can clean virtually anything."

Scott Robeson works on cleaning decades worth of dirt and grime from the stone walls of Rudy's Market.

MONTH IN REVIEW

Appropriate growth in Independence Township is the goal of a new committee with five members representing the township planning commission and Economic Development Corp.

The committee plans to designate appropriate growth areas on the township master plan, to solicit desirable businesses for the community and to look at the infrastructure, which includes roads and sewers.

A special land use permit for the proposed Mt. Zion Temple on Clintonville Road near I-75 is denied in a 4-1 vote by the Independence Township Zoning Board of Appeals.

The board of appeals bases its decision on a recommendation for denial by the planning commission.

In recommending denial, the commission cites an erosion of the tax base, traffic concerns, potential burdens on public services and the size (52,000 square feet) and height of the proposed building.

After the meeting, the Rev. Loren Covarrubias, Mt. Zion's pastor, says the congregation will probably pursue the matter in court.

The Waterford Baptist Church wins approval for a 5,000-square-foot building to be constructed on five acres adjacent to the Clarkston Eagles Lodge on Maybee Road.

The Independence Township Planning Commission approves the new church in a 6-0 vote on July 10 and on July 14, a building permit is issued.

PINK HIPPOS?: Chris Chevez, 11, of Waterford Township won the giant pink hippo, but he's not sure what to do with it. "It's pink," he said. His best friend Shawn Hughes rode with him to pick it up from dentists Glen Marsack and

Richard Tack. Chris had to solve the problem of the hippo's sweet craving to win. Chris' winning suggestion: Put all the sweets in a cupboard with an alarm on it. [Photo by Julie LePere]

Plans for a proposed shopping mall are quashed when the Independence Township Zoning Board of Appeals votes unanimously to deny parking and setback variances.

Shortly after the denial, a "for sale" sign is erected on the property.

In a 5-1 vote, the Independence Township Board denies a rezoning request for a service station-carwash at the corner of Maybee and Sashabaw roads.

Traffic concerns are cited as the main reason for rejecting the rezoning bid.

Body reshaping is new fitness center's goal

By Chris Gerbasi

The American Body Building and Fitness Center is a good example of free enterprise.

Without any business background to speak of, Bob and Patti Heath and Mike Marcum opened the center in April at Spring Lake Country Club.

Their background is in barbells rather than accounting books. But in four months they've attracted close to 400 members.

"It was no big gamble," said Bob Heath, who works full-time for Ajax Paving Company. "I've been doing it (body building) for 10 years. You've got to know what you're doing to open a fitness center."

Heath has competed in body building contests for seven years and won the Junior Mr. Michigan title in his first competition. The trio of co-owners is the best advertisement for working out: young, healthy, slim and trim.

All three graduated from Clarkston High and Marcum, at 21, is the youngest.

"I always wanted to start a gym," he said. "But I needed a partner. I met Bob a long time ago, but he was basically just an acquaintance.

"We have a lot invested," Marcum said. "The biggest problem was collateral. When you're young, what do you come up with for collateral? So we decided to use the equipment as collateral to leverage the loan."

"If money is your biggest worry, you won't do it," said Heath. "We went for it."

The center's extensive line of equipment for all types of workouts was purchased from a manufacturer in Taylor.

The project all came together in about three months and although the country club was not their first choice for a location, they did want to set up in Clarkston.

"A lot of people, if they want to work out, have to go to Waterford or Pontiac," said Patti Heath, who previously worked in customer relations for United Cable Television. "Clarkston is building up, it's a good area."

She has been involved in body building for five years.

"My husband taught me everything I know," she said. "Body building is just starting to become really popular. I think it's reaching its peak now. Working out with weights is the only way you're actually going to reshape your body."

The center has become popular mostly through word of mouth.

"Most people don't know we're here," said Bob Heath.

But the trio hopes the center only gets bigger, with possible additions of a sauna and suntan booth.

"We want to expand and either stay here or move to a bigger building," said Patti Heath. "We have a lot of goals."

American Body Building and Fitness Center co-owners Mike Marcum, Patti and Bob Heath pose at the center at Spring Lake Country Club.

They opened for business in April and have already attracted nearly 400 members.
