Business people balk at rezonings

By Carolyn Walker

Looking to improve traffic conditions and the appearance of the Maybee/Sashabaw intersection, the Independence Township Planning Commission has suggested some zoning changes.

The commission proposes rezoning the southeast corner, currently the site of a vacant Boron Oil station and several empty lots, to office from commercial and multiple service. The northeast corner, adjacent to Winship's photography studio, is scheduled for a less intense commercial status.

Their plans, however, met with wide disapproval by business owners who turned out for a public hearing on the matter Sept. 25.

Included in those voicing concerns was John Paglino, a developer who plans to put a strip mall on the southeast corner. It would be built in an L-shape

Budget to improve by $460,000

Fourth Friday count confirms pupil increase

By Kathy Greenfield

The fourth Friday count has confirmed the first enrollment surge for Clarkston Community Schools in 13 years.

The count, taken Sept. 26, is the figure used to determine state aid. This year, the district will receive about $2,700 for each pupil.

The figures for K-12 add up to 5,652, an increase of 66 pupils over last year's enrollment of 5,586. The figures include an increase of 158 elementary school pupils, decrease of 113 junior high pupils and increase of 18 high school students.

The district's budget was based on expected decline of 104 students, for a net gain of 170. The difference spells an additional $460,000 in income for the district over projected budget figures.

The district had expected to work with a deficit budget of about $400,000, making up the difference from surplus funds, said Superintendent Milford Mason.

Noting that expenses have increased because of the higher number of pupils, he said, "We will now, if not totally, we'll come close to reconciling a balanced budget."

With more pupils, however, the district is faced with a space problem, he said, "with one of the key elements being accomodating students effectively in the extremely limited space across the district."

Portable classrooms are in use at some elementary schools and, even though enrollment has declined at the junior high schools, space in the two buildings is used for the new latchkey program and for special education classes for preschoolers.

"The high school, for example, for years has

Student off team for tobacco use

By Chris Gerbas

Punishment for tobacco use at Clarkston High School has come under question by the parents of a suspended student.

At a special meeting Monday night, the school board considered a request by Mike Norman's parents to reduce the punishment. Norman had been suspended from school for three days for chewing tobacco. The senior was also kicked off the football team for the remainder of the season.

"The outcome of the meeting was to support the decision of the high school administration, in favor of the suspension, in other words," said school Superintendent Milford Mason.

The board voted 4-2 against a motion to reduce the suspension to two games, but asked that the school administration review the matter, said Mason.

Mason said he plans to meet with CHS principal Dr. Robert Burek and athletic director Paul Tungate this week. Mrs. Kathy Norman, the student's mother, declined comment until the matter is settled.

Another student had been suspended with Norman, but there was not a request for a review, Mason said.

Tungate had stated earlier this year that the high school policy for athletes is to suspend anyone caught with drugs or alcohol for the remainder of the season.

Mason said the policy against tobacco includes both chewing and smoking tobacco.

Under debate: traffic control through zoning around the vacant Boron station.

A strip mall includes several small stores. Paglino said he is negotiating the purchase of that land from Mike Bahari, owner of the Pine Knob Wine Shoppe, but would not be interested in the site if it is rezoned to office as proposed.

David Nelson, an attorney for Boron Oil, also expressed displeasure with the plans.

Boron was denied a rezoning request for a service station/carwash at the site in July because of its potential to generate increased traffic.

"Office uses generate traffic," Nelson said, referring to rush hour periods in the morning and afternoon, and saying that service stations do not.

Nelson told the commission it was an "improper" use of power under Michigan law to rezone the property because of traffic concerns.

He added that the lots are not big enough for offices and that such a move would force the combining of parcels.

"Nobody's going to buy it. And nobody's going to build," he said. "It simply will not be sustained when challenged."

Chairman Neil Wallace took exception to Nelson's remarks.

"If we can't address traffic through zoning, there is really little point in us showing up here every other week," he said, adding that the commission's responsibility is for the health, safety and welfare of citizens.

"We have an obligation to prevent . . . a problem . . . from getting worse. I think office zoning is appropriate there," Wallace said.

Rudy Lozano, a real estate broker and resident of nearby Tamarack Park Lane, agreed with Nelson.

"He's absolutely correct. That is no spot for an office," he said.

Lozano added his opinion about Boron's request to improve the station. "I was very pleased that they were going to do something," he said.

Mike Clark, a Clarkston Road resident, objected to the rezoning of the northeast parcel adjacent to Winship's because, he said, the time limit on Winship's site plan has lapsed.

Deciding that they want further information from the township planning consultant about traffic conditions at the intersection, the commission voted to table any action.

Commissioner John Gray was absent. All others voted in favor of tabling.

Deadline nears

Monday, Oct. 6, is the last day to register for the Nov. 4 general election.

To vote in Michigan, a person must be a United States citizen, reside in the city or township for at least 30 days and be at least 18 years old.

Those who are 17 now but will turn 18 by Nov. 4 can also register for the election.

People who have moved in the last few years should check their voter registration card to see that they are registered at their new address.

Locally, registration applications can be completed at the Secretary of State branch, 7150 Dixie Highway, Independence Township; Independence Township Hall, 90 N. Main, Clarkston; or Springfield Township Hall, 650 Broadway.

Final report expected Oct. 13

been operating with a number of students that exceeds the effective capacity of the building," he said. "Additional enrollment at the high school increases that problem."

The higher enrollment means that a study under way by the board of education will have to move faster, Mason said. Among the changes the board is pondering asking voters to approve are funding for improvements to the existing high school or a new high school.

William Neff, the district administrative assistant in charge of K-12 education, provided the numbers for the individual schools.

"I'd have to explain the enrollment increase simply with the development," he said. "It really represents the increase in building that's going on in the township."

The figures follow:

Elementary Schools
Andersonville	403 up 20

Bailey Lake	620	up 14
Clarkston	545	up 33
North Sashabaw	477	up 48
Pine Knob	637	up 43
Special education (full time)	43	up 03

Junior High Schools
Sashabaw	725 down 62
Clarkston	594 down 51

High School
Clarkston	1,608 up 18

State aid is also based on enrollment in adult education, vocational school courses and part-time special education courses. Those numbers are not yet final, said Neff.

"It appears adult education will come in over last year," he said. "(It) looks good."

A complete enrollment report will be presented at the Oct. 13 board of education meeting. The board meets at 8 p.m. in the administration building, 6389 Clarkston Rd.

Planning commission explores PUD purposes

Wallace: 'I know there are developers who are laughing up their sleeves'

By Carolyn Walker

On Sept. 25, members of the Independence Township Planning Commission said that they have varying ideas about the exact purpose of a PUD.

PUD, an acronym for the zoning status Planned Unit Development, has been used frequently by developers this year, for condominiums, a carwash and a proposed medical center.

It allows for varied uses on a single parcel of land and is geared at enabling a developer to work in harmony with the environment.

The PUD came under scrutiny by Chairman Neil Wallace last month, when he compared it to "contract" or "piecemeal" zoning and said it was not being used as originally planned.

Wallace called for last week's public hearing to discuss amending the PUD ordinance for use only with parcels of 100 acres or more.

There were no residents in attendance at the hearing.

"The experience that we've had . . . is not what a PUD (is used for)," Wallace said. "We were supposed to gain a lot of control. We don't get as involved in changing or modifying the developers' proposals as we intended.

"I know there are developers who are laughing up their sleeves," he said. "We need a chance to step back."

Wallace said he thought PUD should be used for multiple use, large developments "that needed special attention."

He cited the Pine Knob and Medplex complexes as examples of projects appropriate for PUDs.

He said the Fred Ritter carwash, planned for Dixie Highway, and Walker/Hahn condominiums, planned for Clarkston Road, were not appropriate for PUDs though Ritter's received PUD zoning and the condos have received a PUD recommendation.

Commissioner Holly Stephens disagreed with Wallace, saying the carwash site was appropriate for a PUD because the site was "unique."

"I think that's a good use of PUD," she said. "Positive things happening on unusual sites."

"You could call any site unique," Wallace responded.

Brent Bair, a member of the commission for nine months, said he is still confused about the purpose of a PUD. "There really ought to be some guidelines, or controls . . . or something," he said.

Commissioner Carol Balzarini called for a PUD workshop for the commission and suggested a moratorium on PUDs in the interim.

"We all obviously have different conceptions," she said. "We have too many different opinions to make any recommendations."

While no decision was made to pursue a PUD moratorium, the commission voted to hold a study session on Oct. 16 at 7:30 p.m.

To be held in the township hall annex on Main Street, the meeting is open to the public.

Safety path gets permit

By Carolyn Walker

A Department of Natural Resources wetlands permit has been issued for the Clarkston Road safety path project.

Township Supervisor Frank Ronk received the permit last week.

"It is in my hands," he said.

The path has been a source of debate between residents who want it constructed for access to the Independence Township Library and residents along the proposed route who do not want it running close to their homes and interfering with wetlands on Clarkston Road.

Several Clarkston Road residents, including planning commission Chairman Neil Wallace, have said locating the path along the curve on the road could pose a safety hazard to pedestrians and cyclists using the path.

Proponents of the path say it will be a safety improvement over walking in the road.

Wallace spoke against the issuance of the DNR permit at a public hearing several weeks ago and maintained his stance during a phone call after learning the permit had been issued.

"I think it's unfortunate. I think it's in error," he said. "They're going to put a culvert in that whole wetlands area. . . . Of course they're (the wetlands) going to suffer. I'm surprised that they issued it."

The construction of the path was authorized by the township board on March 4 during a 4-3 vote.

Estimates are that the path, which would run from the Village of Clarkston to the township library, would cost some $22,000.

In 1980, township voters approved one-half mill for 10 years for the construction of safety paths. One half mill is 50 cents for each $1,000 of assessed property valuation.

Sesquicentennial parade, family activities

Springfield celebrates with old-fashioned fun

Saturday, Oct. 4, is a day for family entertainment in Springfield Township.

Among the events celebrating the township's 150th birthday are a decorated bike contest at 10:30 a.m., a parade at 11 a.m. and an afternoon of activities at Davisburg Elementary School from 1 to 4.

Children, ages 5 to 12, can enter the decorated bike contest at 10:15 a.m. in the parking lot of the Davisburg United Methodist Church, 803 Broadway. There will be no advance registration. Prizes will be silver dollars and ribbons. Following judging, participants will join the parade.

The Sesquicentennial Parade is to begin at 11 a.m. Its theme is "Proud Past . . . Promising Future." The mile-long parade route begins at Davisburg Elementary School and proceeds east on Davisburg Road to Dilly Road. A master of ceremonies will describe the entries from the judges' stand in front of Springfield Township Hall on Broadway Street (Davisburg Road is called Broadway Street in downtown Davisburg). Over 65 parade entries are expected.

"It will be the biggest parade Springfield's ever had," said Helen Vergin, sesquicentennial coordinator.

The afternoon of family activities will take place at Davisburg Elementary, 12003 Davisburg Rd. Planned are magic shows at 2 and 3 p.m., a gymnastic exhibition by the Hartland Hi-Flyers at 2:30 p.m., an old-fashioned cider press demonstration, food concessions and a pie sale.

Contests include pie-baking, a 40-pound hay bale tossing to determine Springfield's Strongest Man, and soft-ball toss and jump rope skill for youngsters.

Men can enter the Springfield Beard Contest, which begins Oct. 4. Those who sign up must be clean shaven. The winner will be chosen at the Springfield Township Sesquicentennial Recognition Dinner on Dec. 13.

"There's going to be something for everyone all day, so we want everyone to return back to the school for all these activities," Vergin said.

Planners recommend rezoning for gas station

By Carolyn Walker

The owners of Clark Oil Service Station have stepped nearer their goal of improving the facility on Sashabaw at Oak Vista roads.

On Sept. 25, a recommendation for rezoning the property to multiple service (MS) was issued by the Independence Township Planning Commission.

Currently zoned highway commercial, the final rezoning decision must be made by the township board of trustees.

Max Kennedy, a representative of Clark Oil, was told last month that his station, like others in the township, must be zoned MS before improvements can be made.

The building's commercial status is in place only because it was constructed prior to the adaptation of current zoning ordinances.

Clark Oil proposes re-configuring the pump islands and adding a canopy for the protection of patrons.

In addition, Kennedy presented a letter to the commission from an independent testing firm verifying that the station's underground storage tanks are not contributing to petroleum contamination in the area.

"(They were) found to be tight and there were no leaks," said planning consultant Richard Carlisle, explaining the letter.

The commission's 6-0 recommendation came after a public hearing at which two neighboring women raised questions and expressed several complaints about the gas station.

"We have some concerns," said Linda Stein, asking if the developer planned to enlarge the facility.

She said she feared the station would lower their property values and noted that it has been repeatedly robbed and is the site of frequent loitering.

"There's always a police car there," she said, adding that the pumps are filled and grass is cut in the very early morning hours.

"None of these things is going to be made any better by us denying (the rezoning)," responded Chairman Neil Wallace.

Commissioner Holly Stephens agreed. "I don't think we can make it go away," she said.

In moving to recommend the zoning change, the commission requested that Kennedy address the concerns of the neighbors and accommodate them as much as possible.

Voting to recommend approval were Wallace, Stephens, Joseph Figa, Brent Bair, Carol Balzarini and Betty Jo Fussman. Commissioner John Gray was absent.

-Sheriff's log-

Monday, Sept. 22, a case of Coors and four packs of Calvin Coolers were stolen from the Quik Pik on M-15, Independence Township.

Monday, a windshield was smashed on Sashabaw Road, Independence Township.

Tuesday, criminals observed "No Crime Day" a few days early.

Wednesday, a lawn tractor was stolen from a yard on Parview Road, Independence Township.

Wednesday, $4 in change were stolen from a concession machine at the Oakland County Road Commission on Dixie Highway, Springfield Township.

Wednesday, a vehicle ran over a lawn on Cecelia Ann Road, Independence Township.

Thursday, someone tried to play basketball with a picnic table at Holcomb Township Park on Holcomb Road, Springfield Township. The perpetrator(s) connected on a free throw by apparently hanging the table from a basketball rim, bending the rim and putting a hole in the backboard.

Thursday, two stereo cassette players were stolen from cars. One incident occurred on Clarkston Road and the other occurred in the parking lot of Clarkston High School.

Thursday, someone stole some acoustical foam from the WLLZ booth set up at Pine Knob Music Theatre.

Thursday, a bike was stolen on Bluewater Drive, Springfield Township.

Friday, a winter jacket, a fox fur coat and $20 were stolen from a residence on Andersonville Road, Springfield Township.

Friday, six mailboxes were damaged on Bluewater Drive in Springfield Township.

The above information was compiled from reports at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Ski swap set at Pine Knob

Clarkston's ski patrols are beginning to think snow. Accordingly, they've planned their annual Ski Swap and Winter Sports Equipment Sale on Oct. 11 and 12 at the Pine Knob Ski Lodge.

Individuals with items to sell must bring them to the ski lodge Friday, Oct. 10, between 5 and 10 p.m.

The sale is planned Saturday from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

In past years, the sale has been beneficial for families with growing youngsters, said Pine Knob Ski Patrol member John Lutz.

"This is an excellent opportunity to take advantage of some equipment out there that's still in good shape that kids outgrew," he said.

A percentage of the price of all items sold will go to the Pine Knob Ski Patrol and the Independence Oaks Nordic Ski Patrol. The money will be used for patrol expenses, such as snowmobile maintenance, Lutz said.

Birthday wishes Kathy Greenfield

It's raining again, so I'm letting my mind wander off to other matters of concern:

September is a major birthday month in my family. The list includes five nieces and nephews, myself, my husband and my father.

It's a month of eating lots of birthday cake—and blowing out enough birthday candles to light a small city.

During the last big shebang, we rolled out the candles again, sang happy birthday—and assured my father that he would, indeed, get his wish because it only took one breath to douse the flickering flames.

That's when I started thinking about the whole wish thing. Only adults were present at this bash, so I asked them all if they still make wishes.

They all said yes. Now, I know from childhood conversations that if you tell anyone your wish, it won't come true.

Still, I pressed for more information.

One said she puts the whole wish issue to the test, only asking for things that she knows will happen or not happen in a short period of time, such as "I wish I will get a letter from my grandmother this week."

Two people said they couldn't remember their last wishes.

Another said he always asks for something for others. It was his birthday, so he wouldn't be more specific.

It took me by surprise to realize that I was the only person in the room who had stopped making birthday cake wishes years ago. Next year, I'll be ready.

Now that I'm 40, I can talk about what it's like to experience that turn of events.

I've always enjoyed my birthdays, and this one was pretty good.

It would have been great, but my baby sister (31 and pregnant) decided to get cute and decorate my parents' living room with an "over the hill" sign.

Then there are my neighbors, and former friends, who hung a sign on our house. They semi-redeemed themselves by accompanying the huge numerals with "congratulations" rather than other words.

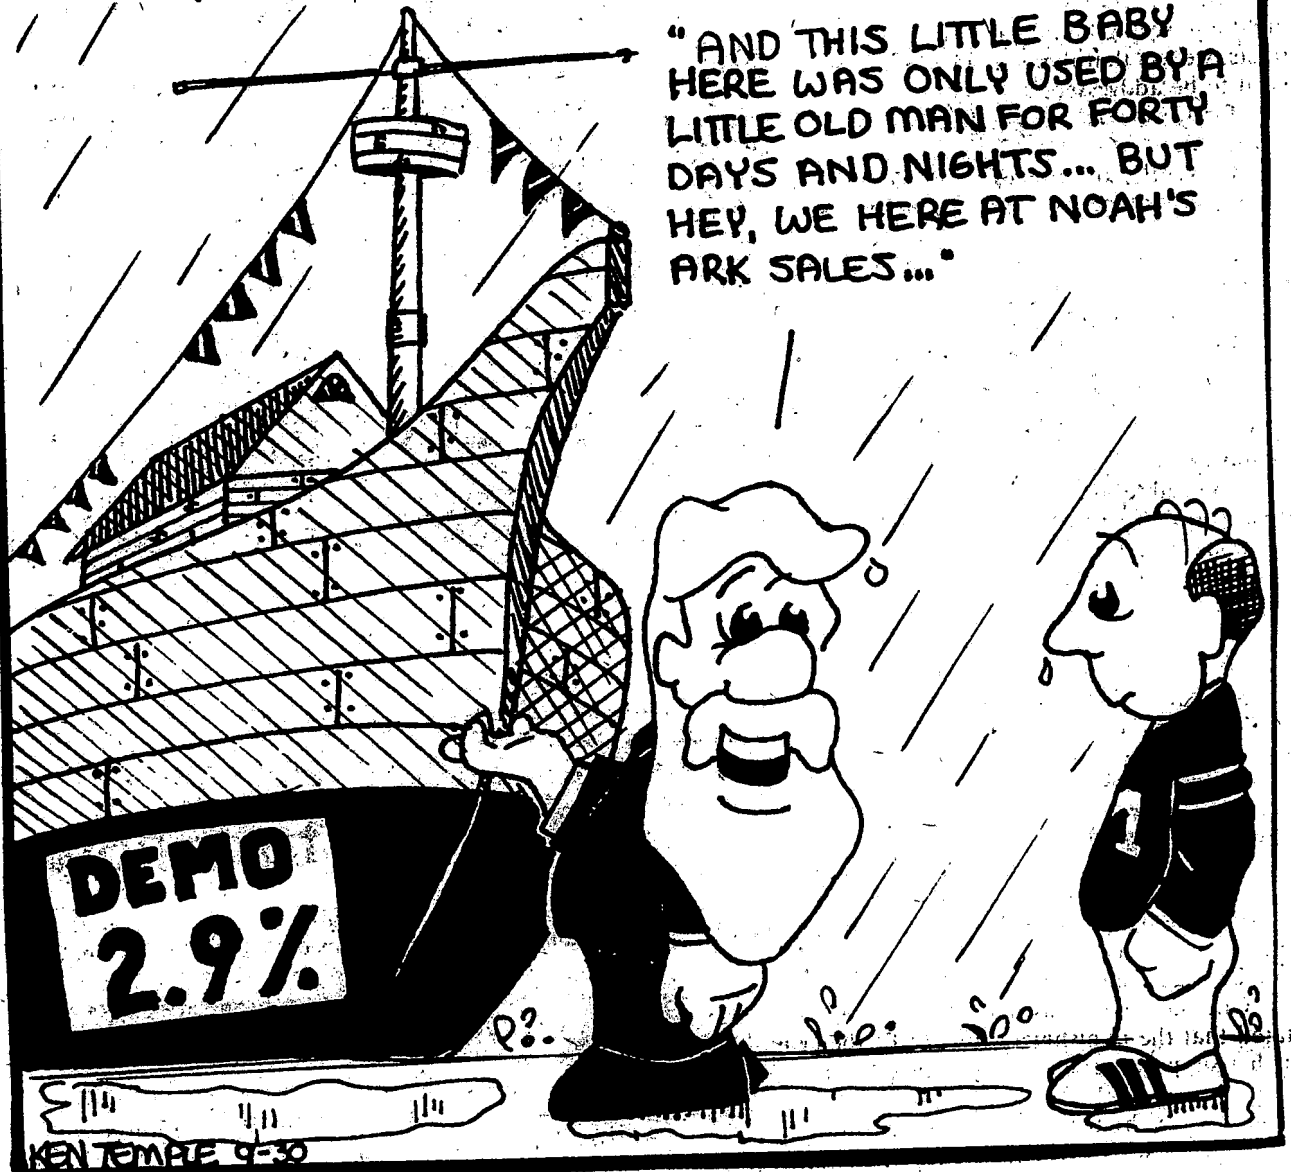

Seriously, it's OK to be 40 and it's especially nice to have friends and family who join in birthday celebrations. And in the whole scheme of things, I'd rather be 40 than, say, 16.

One of the categories in newspaper contests is "humorous columns". It's one we don't enter, partly because we don't regard our writing as humor (or serious), and partly because the competition is too strong.

A good example is last year's first place winner on humorous columns by Tom Rush, of the Wyoming State Journal, Lander, Wyo. Tom's paper is about like ours in circulation.

Letters to the editor

Suspension of athlete challenged

We would like to bring the "school tobacco issue" to the attention of the Clarkston community. After attending the board meeting on Monday night and seeing both board member and parent contrasts, we feel that there are two important points that need to be addressed.

First, we would like to briefly explain the history of the rule.

Currently, any athlete that is caught with tobacco is both suspended from school and expelled from the team.

Last year, the same rule was in effect, yet was not enforced. This led athletes to believe that it would not be enforced this year as well. It was also mentioned that last year a student who was removed from the team for using tobacco was later reinstated.

The first point concerns the fact that a student's record is not taken into consideration. The decision should be based on a student's past record.

The administration should be more lenient toward students who have never been in trouble before as opposed to the repeat offenders. A judge at the meeting reminded us that nobody is ever convicted without first looking into that person's past.

Our second point simply deals with the fact that the punishment is too harsh.

Clarkston Junior High athletes, when caught with tobacco, are suspended from the team for five school days for the first violation and for the remainder of the school year for the second violation. High school athletes, who are still minors, also deserve a second chance.

However, a motion by a board member to suspend an athlete for two games on his first offense and to expel him on the second was denied by the board. The vote was cast before concerned citizens present were allowed their points of view to be heard.

One such point was made by a police officer. He stated that the punishment doesn't fit the crime. He further supported this by adding the fact that anyone under the age of 21 guilty of a misdemeanor is given a second chance by being put on probation.

Another school district recently announced that their first offenders of tobacco as well as drug usage will be given a second chance.

Meanwhile, in our school system an athlete is double punished (suspended from school and expelled from the team), whereas participants of other extracurricular activities, such as band, are not.

We hope that the school administration will reconsider their position on this issue. Failure to do so would be a mistake on their part.

Matt Werner and Dan O'Neill

A fond farewell

Thanks for being a wonderful village to raise children, a great town to live and a sad one to leave.

After 18 years in Clarkston, it's with a heavy heart and moist eyes that I depart.

I have returned to the Ozark hills of my youth. Here I have purchased a bread and breakfast inn.

There will always be a soft spot in my heart for Clarkston. You are a super place!

Re: Group homes

This is to clear the air on my opinion of group homes.

How might anyone who has been involved for a lifetime in nurturing people and plants, then turn around and oppose the right of humans to exist in any given neighborhood?

I believe everyone has the right to live how and where they choose.

Laurie Stern

Tough act to follow

Central Indiana is home to us now. And while Anderson is nice and Hoosier hospitality is real, Clarkston, Michigan, is a tough act to follow.

Perhaps all my life, I'll look for good excuses to come back, as it's Clarkston that's home to so many good friends.

Keith and I both miss the group from St. Daniel's and I miss all those little friends I taught in the community.

One thing I never realized either, until after the move, is how much I would miss all our children's friends. Ellen's and Kevin's classmates were almost a part of our furniture.

I also echo the sentiments expressed earlier this summer by Nancy Bildstein about Clarkston Elementary School. The first question asked by the Dairymples, the ultimate buyers of our home, was "What is the elementary school like in this neighborhood?"

I told them I could speak very highly of the caliber of teaching there—that I spoke not only as a parent, but as a certified teacher who substituted regularly in many classrooms in that building. Additionally, today, I also call those teachers friends.

Perhaps you never entirely "leave" a community you love. A part of you remains behind and some of its warmth and spirit you take along with you.

To the rescue

I would like to extend a real thank you to a special person in our town who went over and beyond the call of duty for a Clarkston High School student who forgot a major item.

After closing hours, Judy Galley went back to her shop, Flower Adventure, and made up a corsage, not only in the right colors but a very special one.

It made the homecoming dance special for my son, Glenn, and his date, Sherry Mitchell.

'If it Fitz . . .'

Can't forget the scene

Jim Fitzgerald

On a bright sunny afternoon in Greektown a few days ago, I saw a lanky man standing beside a trash barrel, licking his fingers. And I can't get him out of my mind.

Because of his full beard, it was hard to guess his age, probably between 35 and 45. His clothing was dirty, baggy and too much for the warm temperature. He looked like most of the downtown panhandlers I try to ignore while walking between home and office several times a week. Except he wasn't asking anyone for money.

He was doing something that at first I thought I'd never seen in the flesh before, only in newspaper photographs and TV footage. But then I remembered what I'd seen 41 years earlier.

In the trash basket, the man had found one of those white Styrofoam hotdog containers. There appeared to be no decent-sized hunks of meat or bread left, just the skimpy residue of someone's lunch stuck to the sides and bottom of the container. It looked like mostly chili.

The man was wiping the residue loose with two fingers and sticking the fingers in his mouth. He was doing it swiftly, in an almost continuous motion, as though afraid someone would stop him before the container was clean.

Several people were walking by, close enough to touch the man eating garbage, but I seemed to be the only one interested in his situation. I had to stop and ask:

"Are you really that hungry?"

It was a dumb question, of course. Would anyone eat out of a trash can if he or she weren't hungry? What I really wanted to know, I guess, was did the man realize what he was doing? Or was he one of the street people to whom eating garbage makes good sense? Last winter, you may recall, I found a woman who didn't realize there was anything unusual about living in a bus shelter for two months.

Was he one of those people who need to be taken care of, but no one will do it? Because no one cares.

THE MAN LOOKED at me blankly, saying nothing, continuing to lick his fingers. So I gave him some money and walked on home.

No one needs to tell me my money was probably spent on booze. I may have supplied the one last pint of gin needed to kill that unfortunate man. Nancy Reagan recently advocated capital punishment for drug suppliers whose victims die. Maybe I should be electrocuted.

I don't know if I did the right thing. After seeing the woman in the bus shelter morning after morning, I made some phone calls and was dismayed at how long it took two weeks to get her off the freezing street. If I see the garbage-eating man, should I get back on the phone?

It is shocking to see someone hungry enough to eat out of a garbage can. It's different than seeing starving people on TV or in newspaper photos. Of course, you ache for anyone anywhere hungry enough to eat garbage, but you don't expect to see it while walking in downtown Detroit on a sunny afternoon.

Certainly the sight was much less surprising in 1945 in Germany. As an Army private, one of my more prestigious assignments was trucking mess hall garbage to a dump. And there were always dozens of local citizens waiting to snatch the refuse and eat it there or take it home to their families.

I was an idealistic 18-year-old then, and I remember writing home that as long as even one person anywhere in the world was starving, everyone else in the world should be ashamed.

That was 41 years ago. I went a long time between seeing people eat garbage. And I would be ashamed to count how many times, during those years, I forgot what I knew when I was 18.

That's why I can't get that bearded man and that cruddy hotdog container out of my mind.

Croak encounter

Carolyn Walker

As summer eases into autumn and the dark of evening creeps into each day a little earlier, I see the night intruder less frequently.

He used to await me nightly, motionless except for his sides breathing rhythmically into the damp air.

He startled me every time, watching me in oppressive silence from a distance.

Though he was regular about his visits, I never really got used to him; nor did our meetings become comfortable, our greetings casual.

I continued to suppress a screech each time I saw him.

Now he comes only when warm spells dot the rainy Michigan weather.

When last we met, a week or so ago, he had his princess with him for the first time.

She was not at all what I had envisioned. Stout. Timid. Covered with warts. She was hovering in a corner shadow, awaiting a cue to approach from her frog/significant other.

I exited my car to find him guarding the garage door, directly beneath the locked handle. Standing between me and my home.

The princess was watching quietly near the edge of the grass, waiting to see how her hero would react.

He was much more courageous than I, maintaining his ground in complete confidence.

As usual, he took me by surprise as I moved in his direction. I saw him, gasped and then laughed. "Oh, it's only you." I could scarcely stand to continue looking.

He stood, watching me with his bulging eyes, never relenting as I approached and stretched way, way over him to insert the key into the lock.

The key went near. He stood. I bent, forming an L at my waist between my shoulders and my feet, which I kept as far from him as I could.

The key went in. He stood. I stretched.

The key turned. He stood. I stretched. I pulled. The garage door stuck. Naturally.

I gave it a few good tugs, wishing it would raise, the headlights of the car glistening on his wet lips. He stood. I shuddered. I prayed that he would not jump toward me.

I looked to the princess. The feminine bond meant nothing to her. I could sense her encouraging her frog to hold his position.

There was nothing left for me to do but go in the front door and through the garage to push from the inside.

I eased down on the handle and pressed the door slowly, knowing he would have to move away or be crushed.

I peeked under it when it was only inches from the ground. He took a giant leap. The princess followed with short, quick hops. She croaked and I seemed to hear her calling him: "Wait for me."

I laughed as I pushed the door skyward in a mighty thrust.

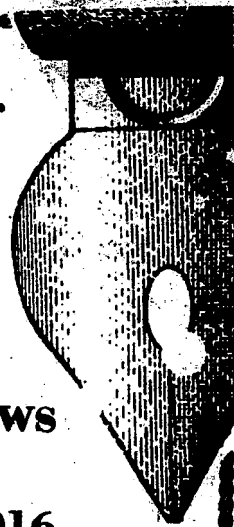

To think I ever let him scare me.

Friendly faces

Card manager loves the holidays

By Julie Camps

Doris Brown was suggested as a friendly face because of her pleasantness at work, but she also spends much of her time on volunteer work.

She manages the greeting cards at Wonder Drugs on M-15, Independence Township, and at Food Town on Sashabaw Road, Independence Township.

She keeps inventory and makes the displays and cleans the shelves. Born on Halloween, she has always enjoyed greeting cards, she said. And she likes keeping her area in order.

"I want to make sure my people have what they want," said the Independence Township resident. "I do take my job home with me. If I know I'm out of wedding cards, that bothers me."

Holidays mean the most work, but she doesn't mind, she said. Christmas is her favorite time of the year.

"I've always enjoyed making Christmas really special," she said.

She tries to make it special for her six children and her husband, and she tries to make the entire year special for other people.

She volunteers one day a week at Clarkston Elementary School, correcting papers for fourth-grade teacher Ruth Kelsey.

With the First Baptist Church of Pontiac, she's on the Mission Committee and helps other church groups with their projects.

On Fridays, she takes a group of elderly people to the bank and grocery store and wherever else they need to go, she said.

"My life is so full," she said. "I crochet and knit in the evenings to slow myself down so I can go to sleep. I do a lot of bazaars in the fall to get rid of the stuff I make. . . . And I give a lot away for gifts."

She also supports the Tigers. Her favorite player is Alan Trammell, but she likes Tom Brookens, too.

"I think he's just underrated," she said.

Doris loves to help other people—by giving them moral support or physically helping them, she said.

"I feel it's the thing I should do as a Christian," she said. "The Lord has put us all here for a reason, and if I can't show love for others, what kind of a Christian am I?"

Doris Brown enjoys helping other people.

Too many cars prompt traffic talks

By Julie Camps

Due to several residents' complaints, the Clarkston Village Council discussed possible solutions to the large amount of traffic on Holcomb Street.

Through letters, residents protested quickly deteriorating roads, high-speed traffic (higher than the 25 mph limit) and loud trucks in the early morning, said President Sharron Catallo at the Sept. 22 meeting.

Trucks should be using Dixie Highway and I-75, rather than Holcomb Street, she said.

Trustee Fontie ApMadoc suggested traffic bumps as a temporary solution, but mentioned the difficulty of snow plowing.

And the village could be held liable if a car traveling at high speed lost control while going over the bumps, said Trustee James Schultz.

It's an inconvenience to residents, said Trustee Eric Haven. The village should enforce their ordinance if they have one, he said.

Since many hours of police work would be necessary to enforce the speed limit, the council shouldn't waste time talking about it, unless they're willing to hire the extra help, said Trustee Frank Millard.

The council did not take any action on the matter, but Millard plans to investigate the cost of hiring a police officer to work one moving shift per week to enforce speed limits and loading limits.

"If we get known as a speed trap here, we'll get avoided," he said.

Basketball

Clarkston High Junior Varsity
Wolves 48, Flint Powers 46
Sept. 23—The Wolves remain undefeated at 7-0 by holding off a previously unbeaten Powers team.

Clarkston shoots 47 percent from the floor and hangs on with two starters on the bench late in the game.

Jenny Grohs paces the Wolves with 14 points, Cindy Beal scores 13 and Stacy Shurtz has seven. Evonne Atkin grabs a team-high 10 rebounds and Deanna Green leads the defensive effort.

Springfield Christian Academy Varsity
Eagles 72, Bethany Christian 42

Sept. 23—Kim White pumps in 28 points and Heather House hits for 17 as the Eagles improve to 6-1.

House also has five steals and four assists and Vicki Rose chips in with 10 points and 10 rebounds.

The SCA junior varsity team drops to 2-5 with losses to Michigan School for the Deaf and Valley Christian of Flint.

Clarkston Junior High
Lake Orion 51, Wolverines 39

Sept. 25—The Wolverines have a strong second half, but can't come back against Lake Orion.

Clarkston (0-4) trails, 33-11, at the half before outscoring Lake Orion, 28-18, in the second half.

Rhonda Jokisch connects for a team-high 19 points and Celeste Steinhilper scores five.

Millford 41, Wolverines 33
Sept. 22—Another slow start hurts the Wolverines. They trail, 21-8, at halftime and then outscore Millford, 28-20.

Jokisch leads the way with 15 points and Jamie Lerner scores eight.

Sashabaw Junior High
Crary 39, Cougars 23

Sept. 25—The Cougars fall to 1-3 after what coach Jayne Bannister calls a poor-passing and poor-shooting game.

Christy Graham scores seven points, Emily Zubalik has six and Susan McKoin adds four for the Cougars.

Football

Clarkston High School Junior Varsity
Wolves 18, Waterford Kettering 14

Sept. 25—Quarterback Scott Oppmann throws for two touchdowns and Neville Lamotte runs for 117 yards in 21 tries to lead the Wolves (3-1).

The Wolves score first on a safety by Jamie Flanagan, who gets seven tackles.

Oppmann then hits Rob Himburg for a 23-yard score and Al Green on a 30-yard touchdown play, and Clarkston leads, 18-6, at the half. Lamotte runs in both two-point conversions.

Scott Hammond, Doug Lederman and Mark Hetherington stand out on defense and Rob Brown and Erik Mackson run well on offense.

Clarkston Junior High
Pierce 40, Wolverines 22

Sept. 24—The Wolverines can't hold onto a 22-12 lead and lose to Pierce, which scores twice late in the game.

Running back John King gains 178 yards in total offense and scores two touchdowns, one on a 65-yard run.

The Wolverines (1-3) also score on a 45-yard pass from Mike Brueck to Erick Becker.

Bill Kruger and Don Southerland play well on defense.

"It was a game we should've won," said Wolverine co-coach Steve Himburg. "We had a little let-up in the fourth quarter and that's what happens. We had a mental letdown."

Sashabaw Junior High
Lake Orion 20, Cougars 0

Sept. 24—The Cougars fumble at their own 2-yard line on the first play of the game to set up all the points Lake Orion needs.

The rest of the game is a defensive struggle until Lake Orion scores two late touchdowns on the Cougars, now 2-2.

Garry Line, Jerry Lawrence and Kevin Keilitz lead the defensive effort.

Tennis

Clarkston High Varsity
Wolves 7, Waterford Kettering 0

Sept. 24—The Wolves walk over Kettering as singles players Ashley

Adams and Rhonda Bowes remain undefeated for the season.

Clarkston also blanks Pontiac Northern, 7-0, on Sept. 22. The Wolves are now 6-2 overall and 5-1 in the Greater Oakland Athletic League.

Their Sept. 29 match against Waterford Mott was to be rescheduled after a rain-out.

Soccer

Springfield Christian Academy Varsity
Immaculate Conception 5, Eagles 1

Sept. 27—The Eagles go up against the number-one ranked team in Class D, but lose in the finals of the Eagle Cup Invitational.

Jim Adams scores the lone SCA goal to push his total over 30 for the season.

The Eagles (12-4) got to the finale by beating Valley Christian, 6-1, and Bethany Christian, 5-0.

Springfield Christian Junior Varsity
Eagles 5, Temple Christian 0

Sept. 27—The Eagles' JV squad takes on Temple Christian's varsity team and wins in a consolation match of the Eagle Cup Invitational.

Paul Adams, Jim's younger brother, scores four of the five goals. He also scores once each in 4-1 losses to both Plymouth Christian and Bethesda Christian last week.

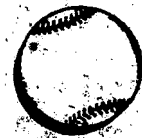

The JV team is now 4-6. The SCA junior high team improved to 4-3 with a 5-0 whitewash of Highland Hills Sept. 26.

Wolves blow by Kettering

Jokisch shines in Homecoming game

By Chris Gerbasl

The tornado siren could have sounded last Saturday as well as Friday night in Clarkston.

After having their Friday game postponed due to threatening weather, the Wolves stormed through Waterford Kettering, 34-13, in Saturday's Homecoming football game.

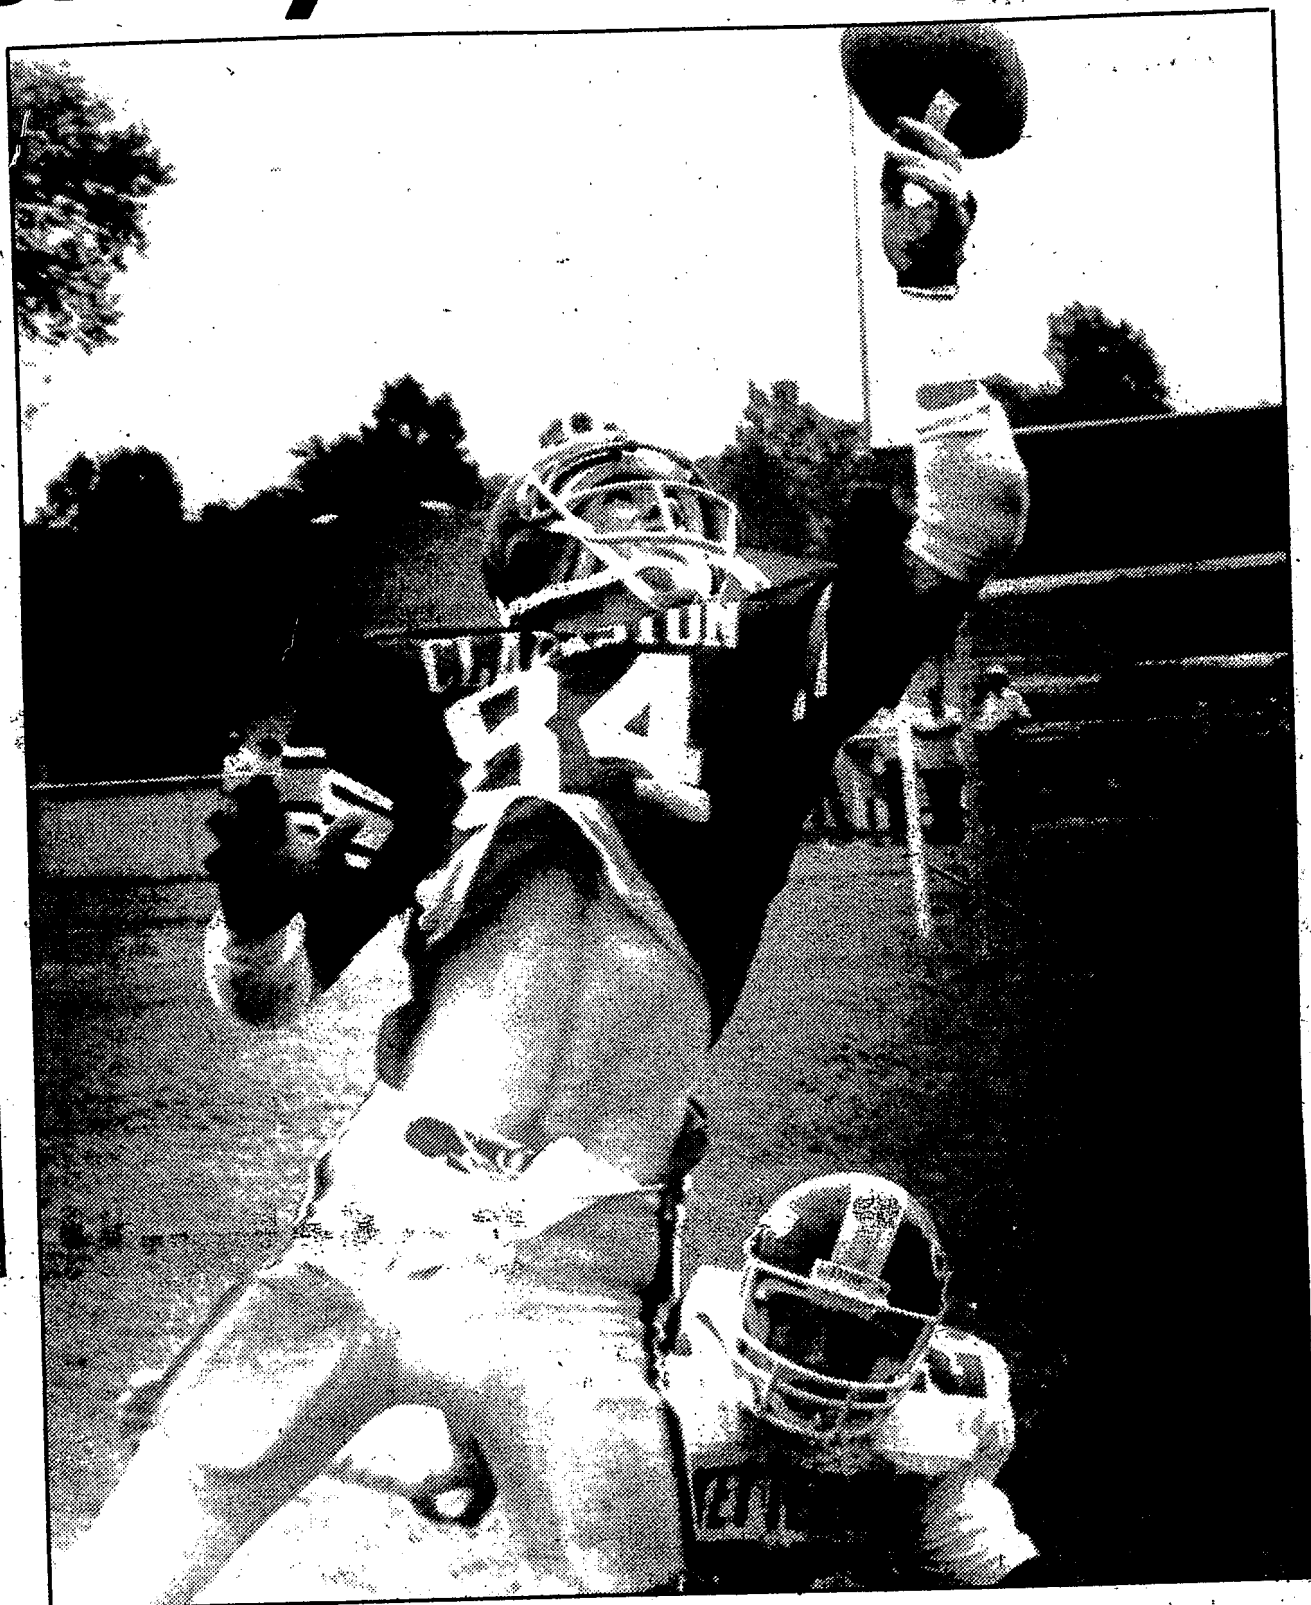

Clarkston led, 34-0, after three quarters before the Captains scored two fourth-quarter touchdowns.

With Pontiac Northern beating Lake Orion, 35-21, the Wolves are the only undefeated team in the Greater Oakland Athletic League, at 2-0.

Clarkston is 4-0 overall, while Kettering is 1-1 in the GOAL and 2-2 overall.

Dan Jokisch got things started early for the Wolves. On the first play from scrimmage, Jokisch stepped in front of a Jim Miller pass and returned it 50 yards for a touchdown.

"We knew they were going to do that," said Jokisch of the pass attempt. "The first couple games they did that. I just kicked over and stepped in and got it."

Dan Jokisch makes a one-handed catch, good for a 19-yard gain in the first quarter against the Captains. This set up a Josh Newblatt touchdown, which put Clarkston up 14-0.

Sports

Jokisch had a big day on offense as well, as Clarkston went to the air for over 200 yards.

Midway through the first quarter, two Josh Newblatt passes to Jokisch got the Wolves to the Kettering 30. Newblatt connected on 11 of 20 passes for the game.

Jokisch then made a 19-yard, over-the-shoulder, one-handed catch to move the ball to the eight. Eventually, Newblatt scored on a keeper from one yard out on fourth down.

Newblatt's other favorite receiver for the day was senior Jim Hall, who caught a 31-yard touchdown pass late in the half. Hall spun away from his defender after the catch to get into the end zone.

Another one-handed catch and a 50-yard run down the sideline by Jokisch set up a score midway into the third quarter.

Newblatt again kept the ball himself, this time scoring from seven yards. Stacy Turner added a one-yard score late in the quarter to cap the Wolves' day.

"This was not a breather," said Clarkston coach Walt Wyniemo. "They're (Kettering) a very tough and very good football team. This was a big victory."

The offense put 34 points on the board, but Clarkston's defense now ranks among the county's best. The Wolves held the Captains to four first downs and 107 yards.

"It was a team defense," he said. "Everybody did their job and that made it easier for everyone. They're getting better and the intensity is getting better. It's a slow process."

Offensively, Jokisch bounced back from a "terrible" game against Northern and used his 6-foot-7 height to his advantage.

"Coach said we were going to come out throwing lots of quick ones and five-yarders," said Jokisch. "We've got the receivers and we had a great passing game. I needed this game."

On deck

Clarkston goes on the road for the first time, excluding the Silverdome game, at Waterford Mott this Friday at 7:30 p.m.

Mott is 0-3 and 0-1 in the GOAL and has lost to Pontiac Central, to Waterford Kettering in the last minutes of the game and to Lapeer East, 13-0, in last week's Homecoming game.

Week's wrap-up:

Clarkston golfers tie for 11th in county

A victory over Waterford Kettering came a few days too early for the Clarkston golf team.

The Wolves beat the Captains, 154-160, in a dual match Sept. 25, but Kettering came out on top at the Oakland County tournament Monday.

The Captains' four golfers had a 317 score to finish ahead of Birmingham Brother Rice for the county title at Pontiac Country Club.

Clarkston's contingent shot 337 to tie for 11th in the team standings.

The Wolves' victory over Kettering also came at Pontiac CC.

"They (Kettering) were more ready today for the conditions," said Clarkston coach Jim Chamberlain. "There was a lot of standing water. It's whoever adjusts best and Kettering made a great adjustment."

Gunnar Karlstrom fired a 78 to tie for seventh individually. Randy Nelson shot an 84, Ken Mercier had an 86 and Tom Bohl shot 89.

The Greater Oakland Athletic League was well-represented at the tourney. Waterford Mott was sixth and Lake Orion finished eighth.

The Wolves' victory over the Captains gives them a 4-4 overall record and a 3-3 mark in the GOAL.

They also beat Lakeland last week, 160-168, and lost to Mott by one shot, 161-162.

Karlstrom was low man in each dual meet, shooting 36 twice along with a 38. Against Kettering, he tied with the Captains' Mike Kenny at 36. Kenny went into a playoff Monday for individual county honors.

Nelson and Dave Larkin shot 39s and Bohl had a

Girls drop second game

Clarkston hung close with a tough Flint Powers team, but lost its second straight game, 45-40, in girls prep basketball action last week.

Powers led throughout, but the Wolves (5-2) had their opportunities. Clarkston had previously lost to Romeo.

"Those are two real good teams and we had chances to win," said Wolves coach Dave McDonald.

40 against the Captains.

"I'm not disappointed. I'm disappointed we didn't win the games, but not in the players. They're playing pretty well."

Powers had a height advantage on the Wolves, who managed just 23 rebounds in the game.

Senior Missy Odell grabbed nine of those and led her team with 17 points. Michele Wyniemko scored eight points.

Ali Fedio, back from pneumonia, and Michelle Baker, back from a foot injury, both played but weren't at full speed.

Senior forward Gina Houck had knee surgery for cartilage work and will likely miss the rest of the season, said McDonald.

Clarkston could have pulled to within one point late in the contest when Baker picked the pocket of a Powers guard. Baker had a breakaway, but the injury slowed her and she picked up a charging foul instead.

"If she's at full speed, she puts it away and we're down by one point," McDonald said. "But she was hobbling a little."

"But I'm not discouraged at all and the girls aren't either."

Girl harriers remain perfect

Kathleen McInnis raced to two more wins and Clarkston's girls cross country team remained undefeated last week.

The Wolves beat Lake Orion, 22-40, and Hartland, 23-32, to go to 5-0 on the season.

The boys team fell twice, 44-17, and is now 1-4.

Co-coach Mike Kaul said the Wolves did some speed work last week in an effort to improve their times and the work paid off.

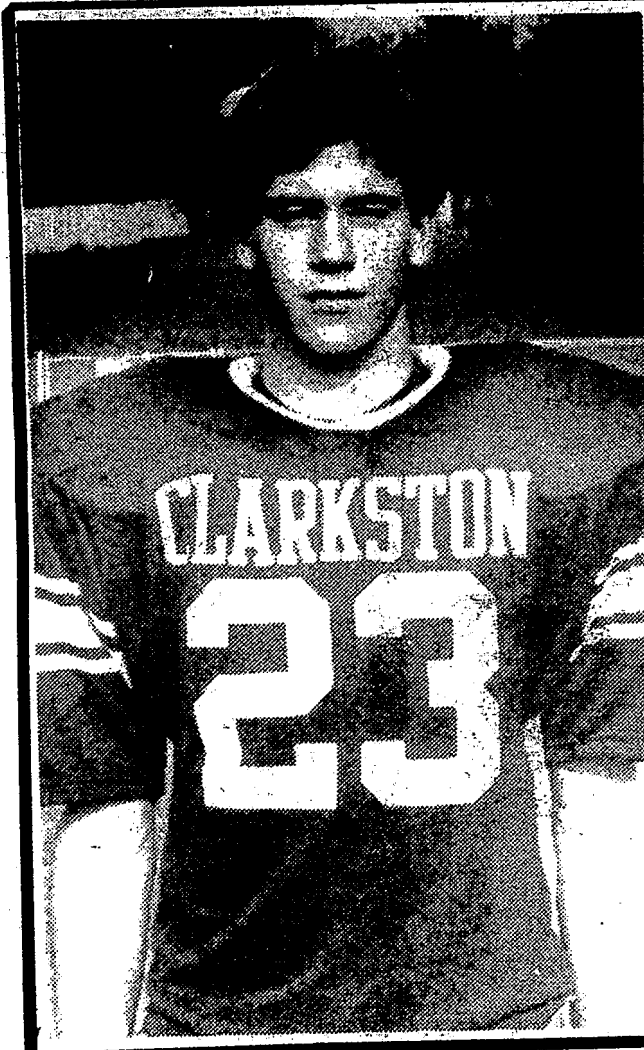

Brian Baert had one of his better times, 17.27, to finish fourth against Hartland. Carl Wades won the race for Hartland in 16.41.

Jeff Funck (18.22) ran eighth and Jim Hotary (18.28) was ninth, as both runners shaved seconds from their times against Lake Orion. Scott Graham was 14th for Clarkston at 19.11.

Baert, Funck and Hotary finished in the same position in both meets.

McInnis cut almost a minute off her time from the Lake Orion race in winning at Hartland. She dropped from 20:42 to 19.54.

Kate Conlen and Melissa Elfes ran third and fourth, respectively, in both meets and Meredith Green was second and sixth.

PREP PROFILE:

Hollis' role is a snap

The center who snaps the ball on punts is usually an anonymous figure to football fans. Senior Pete Hollis handles the long-snapping chores for Clarkston. He also likes to play basketball, tennis and racquetball.

Born: March 16, 1969, in Greenville, Tenn.

Favorite sport: Football.

Favorite food: Steak.

Favorite music: Van Halen.

Favorite movie: "Top Gun."

Favorite TV show: "Cheers."

Hobbies: Juggling. "A little bit."

For fun: "I like to go to parties and play sports. Anything to do with sports."

Biggest thrill: "We were playing basketball against Sashabaw in ninth grade and it was the most points I ever scored and it was close." He scored 11 points, second-highest on the team, behind Dan Jokisch.

Biggest accomplishment: "My grades."

Goal: To win a state championship with Clarkston and to have fun his senior year.

If he could change one thing: He would be more outgoing.

The Wolves' Matt Beamer gets out-jumped on this Brandon header as Bill Cashin looks on. Clarkston fell to Brandon, 2-0, in action last Thursday.

Kickers bounced, 2-0

A little bit of play-acting spelled curtains for Clarkston's soccer team against Brandon last Thursday.

The Blackhawks got goals from Jeff Forshey and Nick Mazich to win, 2-0.

But Brandon's first goal didn't sit too well with Wolves coach Neil Granlund.

On a Brandon corner kick, the Blackhawk players acted as if they didn't know who would make the kick. Their coach yelled instructions and it looked like Brandon was trying to set up a play.

Meanwhile, a Blackhawk nudged the ball into play from the corner and Forshey dribbled it to the goal and put it in with the Wolves standing flat-footed.

"It's legal," said Granlund. "I don't think there's a place for trickery in soccer. We can play with them on the field but not with all that other kind of nonsense."

Brandon, ranked 10th in Class B-C, is now 8-2. Clarkston is 4-3 with a victory over Lake Orion last week.

Against the Dragons, Bill Cashin and Matt Beamer scored two goals each to lead the Wolves to a 6-3 win. Curt Caruso, the team's leading scorer, had three assists and Greg Cherniak and Jeff Briggs also scored.

Clarkston's junior varsity team didn't fare much better against Brandon, losing 3-2. Matt Mellen netted both goals. He leads the Wolves with nine goals for the year.

The recent rainy weather has forced two games to be rescheduled due to poor field conditions.

A game against Oxford, originally scheduled Sept. 16 was moved to Sept. 27, but has been changed again, this time to Oct. 20 at Oxford at 5 p.m.

The Wolves' Sept. 29 game at Lakeland was rescheduled for Oct. 17 at 4 p.m.

Sartor joins Wright State

Christine Sartor, a 1981 graduate of Clarkston High, has joined the Wright State athletic training staff as a graduate assistant.

Sartor graduated from Michigan State University in the spring and decided to do her graduate work at Wright State in Dayton, Ohio. She started there in September.

"She visited Wright State and was impressed with it," said Sartor's mother, Barbara. "She was impressed with the classes and the trainer (Tony Ortiz) that's there. She felt positive and that she was in the right place."

Sartor was a student assistant at MSU for three years and graduated with a major in physical education and a minor in health. She also attended Central Michigan University, where she was enrolled in the sports medicine curriculum.

At Wright State, Sartor will be responsible for women's programs, such as volleyball, basketball and softball, and will work with all 16 varsity sports.

Chris Sartor, a Clarkston grad, has joined the Wright State athletic training staff.

"We were very happy to find someone of Chris's caliber," said Ortiz. "She has extensive experience at Michigan State and we feel she'll be a fine addition to our staff."

Crystal clear

Hey, Mr. Postman

Chris Gerbasl

Those fans, I love 'em. Let's dip into the old mailbag and I'll try to answer some of the most frequently asked questions:

Dear Chris,
Is it true you're getting a job with The Detroit News?

T.K., Independence Township
Yes. Next week I'll begin delivering the News to supplement my income.

Hey,
Whatever happened to that other guy, Vandenberg or Vanrandahan or something?

Just Wondering
Dan Vandenhemel moved on to become a sports editor in Bad Axe.

Dear Chris,
Who's your favorite Clarkston athlete?

J.R., Clarkston
Anyone I can beat in basketball.

Dear Chris,
Why are there so many pictures of cute kids in the paper?

An adult
Because Julie Campe loves to take cute kid pictures at every opportunity.

Dear Editor,
What's it like coming down from LSD?

Worried
Sorry, I must've gotten some Cat Paw mail mixed in here by mistake.

Dear Chris,
What's the infield fly rule?

Need to know
On a pop fly to an infielder with less than two outs, a runner can advance at his own risk.

Dear Chris,
Is sportswriting a hard job?

J.F., Clarkston
Easiest job in the world. You go watch somebody do something and then you write down what you see.

Simple.
Dear Chris,
If a tree falls in a forest with nobody around, does it make a sound?

Puzzled
No, not at all. Well, possibly. Maybe. Yes, definitely, it makes a sound.

Dear Chris,
What's your favorite sport?

Z.Z., Davisburg
Australian Rules Football.

Dear Chris,
What's Julie Campe really like?

A Fan
A cute kid at heart.

Dear Chris,
If Johnny has six oranges and seven apples and he gives three oranges and two apples to Sally, how many oranges and apples does Johnny have left?

Studying for the SAT
I gave up math when I graduated from high school and I don't eat fruit.

Dear Chris,
I've been going out with Alice (not her real name) for about three months, but now she says she wants us to see other people and doesn't want to get tied-down to one relationship. I just want to go out with Alice. What should I do?

Leroy (not my real name)
Again, the wrong column. But since Abby's not around, I'll handle this one. Leroy, Alice is giving you the boot. The brush-off. Find someone who's not afraid to use her real name.

Dear Chris,
What's Joe Falls really like?

Curious
Don't know, never met him. I think he's taller than Jerry Green. Joe, if you're reading, stop in some time and we'll have some spaghetti and some cigars and talk about the Green Monster.

Dear Chris,
Do you think any of the Clarkston teams will win a state championship this year?

Fred, Clarkston
No, not at all. Well, possibly. Maybe. Yes, definitely, a team will win a state title. Perhaps.

Dear Chris,
I'm a huge fan of yours and must know everything about you. How old are you? Where were you born? Are you married? Do you have a girlfriend? What do you like to do? Do you believe in God? What's your favorite color?

Fanatic
I get this all the time. My favorite color is red.

Dear Chris,
How do you think of ideas for your column week after week?

Zeke, Pontiac
Well, basically, I just figure out how much space I have to fill each week and ramble on for as many sentences as possible.

And if I find I need to fill more space, I just write whatever pops into my head, or I may give long, drawn-out explanations of things that get quite boring after a while. Or I make everything up.

Hey, Mr. Postman

Chris Gerbasi

Those fans, I love 'em. Let's dip into the old mailbag and I'll try to answer some of the most frequently asked questions:

Dear Chris,
Is it true you're getting a job with The Detroit News?

T.K., Independence Township
Yes, Next week I'll begin delivering the News to supplement my income.

Hey,
Whatever happened to that other guy, Vandenberg or Vanrandahan or something?

Just Wondering
Dan Vandenberg moved on to become a sports editor in Bad Axe.

Dear Chris,
Who's your favorite Clarkston athlete?

J.R., Clarkston
Anyone I can beat in basketball.

Dear Chris,
Why are there so many pictures of cute kids in the paper?

An adult
Because Julie Campe loves to take cute kid pictures at every opportunity.

Dear Editor,
What's it like coming down from LSD?

Worried
Sorry, I must've gotten some Cat Paw mail mixed in here by mistake.

Dear Chris,
What's the infield fly rule?

Need to know
On a pop fly to an infielder with less than two outs, a runner can advance at his own risk.

Dear Chris,
Is sportswriting a hard job?

J.F., Clarkston
Easiest job in the world. You go watch somebody do something and then you write down what you see.

Simple.
Dear Chris,
If a tree falls in a forest with nobody around, does it make a sound?

Puzzled
No, not at all. Well, possibly. Maybe. Yes, definitely, it makes a sound.

Dear Chris,
What's your favorite sport?

Z.Z., Davisburg
Australian Rules Football.

Dear Chris,
What's Julie Campe really like?

A Fan
A cute kid at heart.

Dear Chris,
If Johnny has six oranges and seven apples and he gives three oranges and two apples to Sally, how many oranges and apples does Johnny have left?

Studying for the SAT
I gave up math when I graduated from high school and I don't eat fruit.

Dear Chris,
I've been going out with Alice (not her real name) for about three months, but now she says she wants us to see other people and doesn't want to get tied down to one relationship. I just want to go out with Alice. What should I do?

Catching the wind

The Hagadones proudly display their restored windmill

By Julie Campe

Karen and Don Hagadone are collectors. They gather as many items as they can relating to their chosen interests, and they save them.

They use the items or they display them, and sometimes they just keep them, stored somewhere safe.

Last year, they acquired a significant new addition to be admired.

Knowing Karen liked windmills, Don bought a used one while visiting up north and hauled it home to Northview Drive, Independence Township, as a surprise for her.

Unpainted and in pieces, "a bunch of rusty junk is what it looked like," said Karen.

But they stretched the pieces across their back yard and tried to figure out how to put it back together. They had thought it would take awhile, but they didn't estimate the whole year for the task. Neither did their neighbors, said Don.

"It was a bigger deal than I thought," he said.

Finally, after assembling the bottom structure, they were ready to put the tail on. Much to their dismay, some of the parts were missing.

How does one find missing parts for a windmill made in the 1920s, they wondered.

Mount Clemens held the answer. In the city, they found a man who services and sells windmills in Michigan.

"They still make this brand of windmill," said Don, amazed at the new world of windmills they discovered.

They used two gallons of yellow car paint, so it wouldn't rust. And they poured a cement slab behind their garage to hold the weight. To erect it, Don figured out a system using a wench on his truck and two chains strung between two trees. All in all, it took five men and 10 minutes to raise the 35-foot structure to its proper position.

"When we first started, the pulley lifted the back of my truck instead of the windmill," said Don.

So the men had to give the windmill a good push to get it started and then guide it into place.

The farmer who sold the windmill to Don had used it to pump water for his crops. The Hagadones, who use almost everything else they collect, don't use this except for admiration, although it's perfectly capable of generating energy, said Don.

"I didn't want to put a well down," he said. "It'd be one more thing to fix."

Don is the fixer in the family, said Karen. He fixes cars, and cars happen to be his favorite hobby.

He fixes them and collects them, and collects things relating to them. He has all Michigan license plates from 1910 to 1986 displayed on his garage walls, and he has more than one license plate from every state in the Union, plus some foreign countries.

Car emblems adorn a special display in the basement, and a glass showcase holds even more car memorabilia.

He also collects banks, and a showcase for them sits in a corner of a back room in their house.

Between himself and his wife, they own three old cars, one new car and a pick-up truck. They're more whole year to assemble and weatherproof the structure, but it was worth it, they said.

The windmill sits on a slab of cement behind the Hagadones' garage on Northview Drive, Independence Township.

Fire safety class

Ever wonder how to operate your home fire extinguisher?

The Independence Township Fire Department is offering a free class on home fire safety Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 7 and 8, in conjunction with National Fire Prevention Week.

"We're gearing it toward people that have never had a chance to operate a fire extinguisher," said Capt. Steve Ronk.

The two-session class will run at 7:30 both nights and last about two hours each night.

The first session will involve discussion of types of portable fire extinguishers, information on smoke detectors and general fire safety. The second session will include some hands-on experience in fighting actual house-type fires.

Participants may bring their own fire extinguishers to learn how to use them. Youngsters are welcome if accompanied by a parent.

Advance registration is required. Class location will be determined by how many people sign up. Call 625-1924.

Flyers tumble to town

The Hartland High Flyers are going to show their tumbling talents following Springfield Township's Sesquicentennial parade this Saturday.

The 26-member boys and girls team will perform at Davisburg Elementary School at 2:30 p.m. Other programs, along with clown acts and contests will take place until 4 p.m.

The Flyers are guided by Nancy Hanes, a physical education instructor at the elementary school.

The traveling team will appear at Cobo Hall Oct. 21. The Flyers travel throughout the Midwest to conventions, clinics and workshops. At Cobo Hall, they will help parochial school teachers in furthering their teaching skills in tumbling.

Newlyweds: Michelle and Steven Andrews.

The bride's parents are Harry and Delores Dearborn of Independence Township. A 1979 graduate of Clarkston High School, she is a registered nurse at Borgess Medical Center.

The bridegroom's parents are Vincent and Clare Andrews of Gaylord. A graduate of Gaylord's St. Mary's, he is an assistant controller at Three Rivers Hospital.

For her Aug. 16 wedding, the bride wore a taffeta gown with a Sabrina neckline, Alencon lace bodice, lace sleeves and a chapel train. She carried a cascade bouquet of red and white roses and baby's breath.

Maid of honor was Kristie Dearborn. Bridesmaids were Terry Dearborn, Laura Andrews, Barb Mulder, Brenda Noack and Sheryl Doolin.

They wore full-length red satin gowns and carried nosegays of red and white carnations with baby's breath.

The flower girl was Jennifer Doolin. She wore a white satin gown trimmed with red ribbon and carried a basket of red and white baby carnations.

Best man was Joe Andrews. Groomsmen were Brian Andrews, Tony O'Doud, Kevin Killiher, Jay McMillan and Randy Coleman. Ushers were the bride's brother Mike Dearborn and Charlie Woodcock.

The reception for 250 guests was at Roma's of Bloomfield.

The couple took their wedding trip to Jamaica. They are residing in Kalamazoo.

New arrival

An "It's a Girl" sign adorns the mailbox of Mr. and Mrs. Derrel Batchelder of Springfield Township.

And everyone who telephones receives a verbal announcement about the birth of their first grandchild.

"We're not excited," says Mrs. Batchelder. Then she laughs at her joke and adds that "the whole thing has been fun."

Amanda Jo, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Randy Batchelder of Milford, was born at 7:09 a.m. at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac. She weighed 6 pounds 6½ ounces and measured 19 inches long.

Amanda is also the first grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gifford of Waterford, the first great-grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. F. Kochanski of Warren, and a great-granddaughter of Mrs. L. Ryan of Pontiac and Mrs. V. Batchelder of Milford.

Visitor

Phyllis H. Roberts of Prospect, Ohio, is in town, visiting her sister Betty J. Spratt.

At college

Alice Sutton is one of about 156 students participating in the Kalamazoo College foreign study program.

She is living with a host family in Clermont-Ferrand, France, and will receive full academic credit for the successful completion of work overseas.

Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sutton of Fawn Valley Drive, Independence Township.

In service

Marine Pfc. Mario Rodriguez has completed recruit training at Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego, Calif.

A 1985 graduate of Clarkston High School, he joined the Marine Corps in February 1986. He is the son of Luz and Maria Rodriguez of Timber Ridge Trail, Independence Township.

WORMS ARE GOOD FOR THE SOIL: At least that's what Girl Scout Troop 800 leaders tell their scouts. Tina Surrie (left) and others planted about 200 tulip and daffodil bulbs at the United Methodist Church in Clarkston. Their purpose was to say thanks to the church for letting them use the building to hold Girl Scout meetings. [Photo by Julie Campa]

Hagadones restore windmill

or less toys for him, said Karen, who has collections of her own.

Ruby-red dishes are her passion, she said. And she likes birds. She feeds them in her back yard and watches the goldfinches, cardinals and blue jays feast.

But that's not all: They've passed on this urge to collect to their two children.

Their son Rick, whose ultimate goal is to become a comic book illustrator, collects comic books. He has over 4,000 boxed and indexed in his closet.

Their daughter Linda Cowdry has begun a cream pitcher collection.

When the Hagadones aren't collecting or organizing, they watch movies on their VCR, for which they've begun a collection of tapes.

But they agree on one collection they won't ever start, despite their interest in the item. One windmill is enough for anyone, they said.

Society rates festival a success

It was three days of gray, rain-threatening skies, but the Clarkston Community Historical Society's Crafts and Cider Festival was still a success.

"I think it was wonderful. I was very pleased," said Jennifer Radcliff, historical society president. "We had a new board and new exhibitors. We had marginal weather, and we still did as well as last year."

All in all, 300 gallons of cider and 400 dozen donuts were consumed, a little less than last year's festival, even though they did run out of donuts on Sunday.

"We just couldn't guess the weather," she said.

Not all the figures are in yet, but treasurer Emily Hemendinger estimated $6,000 as the weekend revenue.

The money will be used to purchase books for the library and for a special library historical room fund. If and when the library expands, the historical society hopes to add the "Heritage Room." It will hold books, microfiche, historical artifacts and information on genealogy and general history, said Radcliff.

Enter quilt contest

A statewide contest for quilters is planned in celebration of Michigan's 150th birthday, and the quilts are to be judged at Springfield Oaks in Springfield Township.

Participants are asked to create a quilt with the theme "Michigan Is . . ."

Following the contest judging in October 1987, the grand prize quilt will be displayed in the State Capitol Building in Lansing.

The contest is endorsed by the Office of Michigan Sesquicentennial Commission.

For an entry form, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Deanna Lopez, 2530 Woodcreek Lane, Davisburg, MI 48019. For more information, call 634-5674.

Microwave-plus

The Clarkston (Mich.) News - Wed., Oct. 1, 1986 27

Cooking for one or two

Betty Wagner

Many households today consist of one or two people.

Often career people, students, very active people, those who are retired or those who don't care to spend time cooking and cleaning make up these homes.

The microwave oven can simplify and add enjoyment to cooking for one and two. Small portions are easily assembled and quickly cooked, thus eliminating annoying leftovers.

Grocery frozen food cases abound with quick entrees, snacks and desserts, but they are expensive and many people prefer to avoid a diet of processed foods.

With minimal advance planning and preparation, the problem can be solved with microwave cooking.

BREAKFAST

JEFFY OMELET—from Joan Toole's "Cooking with Microwave Magic," reprinted with permission of author.

Grate a slice of cheese into a microwave safe soup bowl. Break an egg onto the cheese and whip with a fork to blend. Add chopped onion, tomato or crumbled bacon, if desired. Microwave at high for 45 to 60 seconds.

To complete the breakfast, add a glass of juice and a bran muffin. Keep the muffins in the freezer to prevent spoilage.

Wrap the muffin in paper toweling and heat at 80 percent power for 30 to 40 seconds. The muffin should be warm to the touch.

Note: To receive a free copy of Lorna O's Best Bran Muffins, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Microwave Plus, The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main, Clarkston, MI 48016.

LUNCH

QUARTER-POUND BURGER

Preheat browning grill at high power for 8 minutes. Place ground beef patty on grill. Microwave at high for 1 minute; turn over and cook for 1 to 1½ minutes or until desired degree of doneness.

Place in bun. Top with cheese slice. It will melt from the heat of the hamburger. Add slice of tomato and some lettuce to the sandwich for extra nutrition. RUEBEN SANDWICH—reprinted with permission from "Kenmore Micro/Convection Cooking," a Benjamin Company Book, Page 62.

2 slices dark rye bread
2 slices corned beef
¼ cup drained sauerkraut
Thousand Island dressing
1 slice Swiss cheese

Toast bread. Place remaining ingredients on one bread slice. Top with remaining bread slice. Wrap sandwich in paper towel; place on a paper plate. Microwave at 70 percent (roast) for about 2 minutes or until cheese melts. Serve immediately.

DINNER

CHICKEN AND VEGETABLES

1 piece of chicken, preferably breast
¾ to 1 cup frozen broccoli cuts
1 onion, peeled and separated into rings
1 celery stalk, sliced into long strips

Wrap the chicken in microsafe paper toweling. Place in a small microsafe container. Microwave at high power for 1½ minutes.

Add frozen vegetables next to chicken, cover container and microwave at high for 2 more minutes or until vegetables and chicken are done.

Allow to stand for 3 to 5 minutes before eating.

DESSERT

PUDDING POPS—recipe inspired by Thayer Wilson

Wine.
1½ cups milk
2 egg yolks
1 tablespoon all-purpose flour
2 tablespoons cornstarch
2 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons cocoa

Measure milk into 4 cup Pyrex measure. Whisk in egg yolks, flour, cornstarch, sugar and cocoa. Cover and microwave at high power for 2 minutes. Stir well.

Microwave 2 to 4 more minutes, until thick, stirring every minute. Pour into 4 ounce paper drinking cups. Insert a wooden stick into the middle of the pudding. Freeze.

When ready to eat, microwave at high power for 5 to 10 seconds to loosen for easy removal.

Variation: Frozen Peaches 'n' Cream: Follow the directions above for pudding pops, except eliminate the cocoa and add 2 to 3 tablespoons peach schnapps after cooking and before freezing.

Home economist Betty Wagner, an Independence Township resident, is a graduate of West Virginia University. Her Microwave Plus cable TV program appears on Independence Township's channel 11 Monday through Thursday at 7 p.m.

Mike Grable [right] has little trouble finishing his Jello first during the Homecoming festivities at CHS assembly Friday morning. He scores points for the seniors. Doug Lederman [above left] and John Mahler [above right] don't seem to enjoy the Jello-eating contest as much as Grable. They use most of the assembly to finish their snack. Overall, the seniors win the Homecoming contest with 14 points. The juniors score 10 and the sophomores, 6. [Photos by Julie Campe]

County auction set for Saturday

The annual fall auction hosted by Oakland County is planned Saturday, Oct. 4.

Auction time is 10 p.m. behind the County General Garage in the service center, 1200 N. Telegraph, Pontiac. The gates will open at 8 a.m. for inspection.

Among items on the auction block are stolen property recovered by the sheriff's department and county surplus property.

The list includes tools, stereo equipment, jewelry, about 30 late model General Motors vehicles, an Army surplus 1953 Red-Studebaker 2 1/2-ton wrecker, about 50 office machines, more than 50 pieces of office furniture and commercial lands and grounds equipment.

Vehicles may be inspected from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Thursday and Friday, Oct. 2 and 3, in the parking lot behind the east wing of the County Court House, 1200 N. Telegraph, Pontiac.

For more information, call the 24-hour County Auction hotline at 858-5485.

Parent volunteers wanted for new CHS program

While parent volunteers are common in the elementary and junior high schools in Clarkston, there has never been a program for the high school.

That will change if the plans of a team of high school parents work.

Parents Mary Himburg, Leanne Sexton and Andrea Tappero and principal Dr. Robert Burek are working together to create a formal parent volunteer organization at Clarkston High School.

The team was organized after Burek contacted Clarkston Junior High School principal Duane Lewis and asked for the names of parents who worked on that school's volunteer parent program.

"Who's moving up to varsity?" was the question he asked, said Burek.

The women are mothers of 10th-graders at CHS. Sexton also has a 12th-grader enrolled in the school.

They are looking for volunteers to work in the main office, guidance office and library and to offer direct assistance to classroom teachers.

Parents interested in signing up may do so at parent-teacher conferences at CHS on Oct. 9 and 10 or by calling the high school at 625-0900.

"Getting parents and residents into the high school is a major goal of ours in 1986-87," said Burek.

Students honored for test scores

Tesha Burnett, Peter Hollis and Laura Manser have been designated as Commended Students in the 1987 National Merit Scholarship Program.

Each of the Clarkston High School students will receive a Letter of Commendation in recognition of outstanding academic promise.

The seniors placed in the top 50,000 of more than 1 million participants in the 32nd annual Merit Program, said CHS principal Dr. Robert Burek.

In a notification of the students' achievement to CHS from the National Merit Scholarship Corp. of Evanston, Ill., the students and school were praised: "Being named a Commended Student in this keen competition is a credit to these young citizens as well as to their schools, which play a key role in their development."

The students entered the current Merit Program by taking the PSAT/NMSQT in October 1985, when they were juniors.

In addition to the 35,000 young people throughout the nation who are Commended Students, 15,000 received Semifinalist standing in the Merit Program. Semifinalists continue in competition for some 6,000 Merit Scholarships to be awarded in the spring of 1987.

As indicated in an earlier issue of The Clarkston News, the two CHS students who are National Merit Semifinalists are Kelly Cook and Steve Myktyyn.

Community cable guide

Programs on public access cable-TV channel 11 are broadcast from the Independence Township studio of United Cable.

Monday through Thursday
Oct. 6-9

Special programming has been planned in observance of National Fire Prevention Week.

At 10 a.m., 6 and 9:30 p.m. Monday through Wednesday, "Operation Open House," "Fire in the Kitchen" and "Is Your Number Up" will be shown on a rotating basis. On Thursday, all three films will be shown beginning at 9:30 p.m.

The professionally produced films were provided by the Independence Township Fire Department.

The list of regular programming follows:

6:30pm—This Is the Life: "Enter Aunt Jenny" is this week's episode in the drama series sponsored by St. Trinity Lutheran Church of Independence Township. It's the story of an elderly widower who receives the encouragement he needs to live by a fellow senior citizen.

7pm—Microwave Plus: This week's theme for Betty Wagner's program is "Dairy Tips" with special guest Irene Cameron.

7:30pm—Program to be announced.

8pm—Oakland County Parks and Recreation Presents: The weekly program features information about the county park system.

8:30pm—"SCAMP": The special program is hosted by Homer Biondi, the executive director of the North Oakland SCAMP Funding Corp. and an Independence Township resident.

9pm—Shirley's World: The weekly program is hosted by Independence Township psychic Shirley Lynch.

A new feature on cable channel 33, the Clarkston Community Schools billboard channel, is an up-to-date listing of sports schedules and scores for all school teams.

Independence Township cable channel 11 programs begin at 7 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays only. Other times, the station features a billboard with community service announcements and the schedule of the evening's programs.

'Just Say No' club to start

Clarkston will soon have a "Just Say No" to drugs club for some elementary school pupils.

The Clarkston Area Chemical People, a subcommittee of Clarkston Area Youth Assistance, has offered to support and pay for the start of the club for Clarkston Elementary School pupils.

The "Just Say No" program began in California in 1985. The club is a peer group in which drug use is not seen as normal nor acceptable.

"We want to reach kids before they start," said Jeanette Sanders, a teacher and drug abuse counselor. "Some kids start as early as second grade."

According to Sanders' letter sent to all parents of the elementary pupils, club members will "learn about drugs and the harm they do to young bodies and minds. They take part in social and recreational activities that allow them to have fun and make friends without getting high."

"We want them to enjoy it," said Sanders. "It's a social club as well as educational."

Some of the activities may be drug-free parties, picnics, rollerskating and the like. Sanders said the kids will make their own plans.

Sanders said she will be announcing the first meeting soon. Anyone interested in helping with club activities or for further information, contact Sanders through Youth Assistance at 625-9007.

March in January

Volunteers will be soliciting donations for the March of Dimes in the beginning of 1987.

The Clarkston Village Council approved, 6-0, the request to solicit in the village Jan. 17-25. William Basinger was absent from the Sept. 22 meeting.

A huge jug of popcorn sitting on the circulation desk awaits the correct answer to "How Many?" in the library's latest contest.

All preschool and school-age patrons are eligible to enter the guessing game as many times as they wish. The winner gets to take home the great pumpkin.

The contest runs from Oct. 1 through Oct. 21 at the library at 6495 Clarkston Rd.

Anniversary meal planned by church

A 25th anniversary celebration is planned at Calvary Lutheran Church.

"Reflections—25 Years of Reflecting God's Love" includes dinner on Sunday, Oct. 19, at the church on Bluegrass Drive in Independence Township.

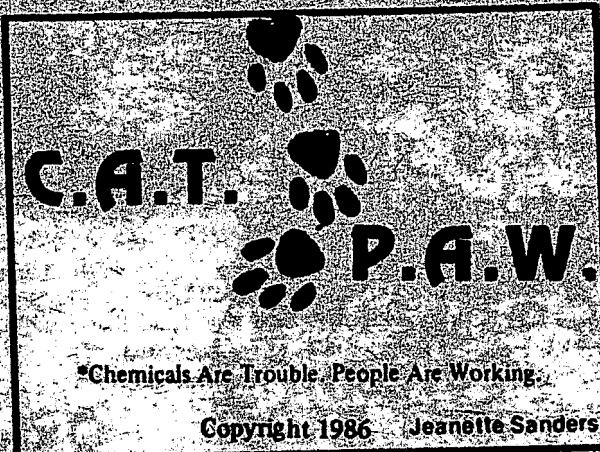

The celebration is to begin at 5 p.m. Tickets, available at the church office, are $9 for adults, $4.50 for children ages 10 to 4 and free for children under 4. A nursery will be provided.

Is crack a new drug?

Dear Cat Paw:

Isn't crack a new drug like cocaine, just a lot more pure?

Smoker

Dear Smoker:

Crack is the same old cocaine you've been warned about only in a different form. Crack is ready to smoke. The user doesn't need the cocaine powder, the chemicals or the equipment to make the free base.

The free-basing process doesn't remove the impurities from cocaine. When someone smokes cocaine base, he's smoking all the impurities as well. The dealers have just changed the form of the drug.

Keep reading for more information.

Dear Cat Paw:

What do dealers use to mix with cocaine?

Wondering

Dear Wondering:

Things like lidocaine, procaine, novocaine, cornstarch and even laxatives have been found in cocaine. These things that have been added, called cuts, do different things, most of which work in the dealer's favor.

Some cuts enhance the cocaine high. Others are added just to increase the volume and have no effect on the high. The cuts are added purely for economic reasons.

Dealers don't clean up their crack, because if they did they would have to throw away over half of it.

Dear Cat Paw:

Would you please tell me what hallucinogens are? I just don't understand them.

Nervous

Dear Nervous:

Hallucinogens are drugs that affect the central nervous system and produce several reactions to the brain.

The most pronounced of these effects is supersensitivity to outside stimuli through the sense organs. This effect causes users of these drugs to feel strange and unpredictable emotions and to perceive sensations such as sights and sounds that may not exist.

Hallucinations sometimes result in acute panic that may require hospitalization. Flashbacks or recurrence of previous trips without ingesting any more of the drug occur frequently.

Flashbacks have led some abusers to believe they were going insane and in some cases have triggered severe psychoses.

There are too many hallucinogens for me to explain them all in this column. Why not get a book from the library and become informed?

Dear Cat Paw:

What does LSD taste like?

Wondering

LSD is tasteless and odorless.

Cat Paw author Jeanette Sanders, a Springfield Township resident, is a state certified drug abuse counselor and a member of the Chemical People of Clarkston, an organization devoted to the prevention of substance abuse among the community's young people.

French visitor appreciates experience

By Julie Campe

Cinnamon and peanut butter. Those are the only things Frederique Offredi didn't like during her visit to the United States.

Living with Jim and Martha Matthews and their three small children, she ran into the foods often.

She's in her third week of a four-week visit to the country. It's summer break from her university studies in Paris, and she came to work in the personnel department at Pontiac Motors.

Besides the cinnamon and peanut butter, she noticed many other things in her third visit to the country, and she enjoyed talking about them. But some things she just won't talk about.

If you ask, Frederique Offredi probably won't tell you whether or not she has a boyfriend. And she probably won't tell you any other personal item, either.

"In France, you never ask directly, 'Do you have a boyfriend?'" said the 21-year-old visitor from Oyonnax. "That's kind of a game, and the pleasure of the game is to try and find out (without asking)."

"Direct questions are very pleasant at work," she said, and the openness makes it easier to form work relationships.

Her stay with the Matthews on Deerwood Road, Independence Township, has been an enjoyable one, she said. She met them several years ago when Jim worked for a French company with her father.

Jim arranged the job at Pontiac Motors, and she finds her work interesting, she said.

She's thankful for her American work experience, but she misses home.

"I don't think I'm well adapted to this country," she said. "I'm French. I love France."

She talked about the differences in the two countries, but she didn't find many, she said.

The meals are about the same. Fast food is more developed here, and breakfast is more important. In France, lunch is still the big meal, and they take a two-hour lunch break at school and at work.

The weather is about the same, too. Frederique lives close to the Swiss border, so she skis and climbs mountains a lot. But in France, it doesn't get quite as hot in the summer or quite as cold in the winter as in Michigan.

Overall, the United States is still a young country, she said. It's only two centuries old, which is just an infant by European standards, and it's still changing.

"People came from everywhere to the United States," she said. "The cultures are mixed here. You are still a moving country. I think. You aren't quite fixed now."

And the U.S. is much larger than France, she said. France is the largest European country, but if you drive an hour and a half, you'll be in another country with another language, another form of government. In the U.S., if you drive an hour, you may find yourself in another state, but the differences will only be in the climate and maybe the accent, she said.

She also found that the generalizations about Americans aren't true.

In France, some people think Americans are nice and friendly when you first meet them, but as soon as you walk out the door, they forget you.

"But how can 15 million people be the same?" she said. "I have friends here. . . . If I didn't have the human relationships, I probably would have worked in France."

Frederique Offredi is staying with the Matthews family during her four-week visit to Independence Township. She's working at Pontiac Motors during her summer break from

Spooky walk

Halloween fans can sign up for a night stroll at the Indian Springs Metropark Nature Center in Springfield Township.

"The Monsters and Myths of Halloween" is planned Saturday, Oct. 18, beginning at 7 p.m. Those who sign up will be assigned a 20-minute time period.

"It's a real fun time," said Mike Orick, park naturalist. "All the interpreters are in costume, rather elaborate costumes I might add."

This is the third year the event has been scheduled at Indian Springs. Last year over 200 people signed up, said Orick. The program includes a slide show and information on the history of Halloween and the season.

Last year, costumed interpreters included a werewolf, Big Foot and a ghost buster.

The program is not recommended for children under age 7.

Tickets must be purchased in advance at the nature center and are $3 a person. The cost includes cider and donuts following each walk. Tickets may be reserved by telephone, but they will only be held for several days. They will not be sold at the door the day of the program.

Because there is a limit on the number of participants, early sign-up is recommended.

For more information or to make reservations, call the Indian Springs Nature Center at 685-1561 ext. 482 or toll-free at 1-800-247-2757.

Film trio stresses fire prevention

Grease in a frying pan bursts into flame. What to do?

"Fire in the Kitchen" will answer the question. The film is one of three produced in California that will appear on Independence Township cable TV during Fire Prevention Week.

They were purchased by the Independence

Township Fire Department and special releases had to be obtained to air them on cable TV, said Gar Wilson, township fire marshal.

"I definitely want everyone to watch them. They're three good films," he said.

Each lasts 17 to 23 minutes. On an alternating schedule, one of the three will air at 10 a.m., 6 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. on channel 11 Monday through Wednesday, Oct. 6 through 8.

On Thursday, Oct. 9, all three will be shown at 10, 6 and 9:30.

The other films are "Operation Open House" that was taped in a home destroyed by fire to show how a house burns; and "Is Your Number Up?" that addresses the importance of clearly visible house numbers.

—Obituary—

Dorothy Huttenlocher

Dorothy P. Huttenlocher, 81, of Clarkston died Sept. 17.

Mrs. Huttenlocher was an active member of the Clarkston United Methodist church, having served as chairman of the Memorials Committee for many years. She was a charter member of the Clarkston Farm and Garden Club, an Albion College alumna and former teacher at Clarkston High School.

Surviving are her husband, Howard W.; children, James W. and his wife Judy of Clarkston and Richard P. and his wife Mary Beth of Clarkston; and grandchildren, Richard of Frankfurt, Germany, Susan of Sacramento, Calif., John of Pontiac, and Martha, David, Beth and James, all of Clarkston.

The funeral service was held Sept. 20 at Clarkston United Methodist Church with the Rev. Douglas Trebilcock officiating. Burial followed in Lakeview Cemetery, Independence Township. Arrangements were made by the Lewis E. Wint & Son Funeral Home, Independence Township.

Memorials may be made to the Clarkston United Methodist Church Memorial Fund.

Honor neighbor with nomination

The call is out for nominations to help select recipients of the annual Clarkston Community Awards.

Nominees are sought in the following categories: citizen, business person, volunteer, property beautification or community pride, and historical preservation.

The purpose is to honor individuals who have given their time, energy and talents to better the Clarkston area.

The winners will be recognized at the first Community Awards Breakfast at Deer Lake Racquet Club on Nov. 12.

Nomination forms and tickets are available at Independence Township Hall, Clarkston Village Hall, all area Pontiac State Banks and the Independence Township Library. The forms will also be available at area businesses. Tickets are $10 a person.

For more information, call awards program chairperson Christine Downing at 625-5041.

PRAYER TO THE Holy Spirit, Holy Spirit you who make me see everything and who show me the way to reach my ideal. You who give me the Divine gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me and you who are in all instances of my life with me. I in this short dialogue, want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you, no matter how great the material desires may be. I want to be with you and my loved ones in your perpetual glory. Amen. Thank you for your love towards me and my loved ones. Pray this prayer 3 consecutive days without asking your wish, after the third day your wish will be granted, no matter how difficult it may be. Then promise to publish this prayer as soon as your favor has been granted. Wish granted. ILLX39-2

During a rehearsal in the Clarkston High School band room, Craig Hayward watches for his cue from band director Clifford Chapman, then keeps on watching while he provides music from the xylophone. Hayward also serves as a drum major for the CHS Marching Band.

Music show on Saturday

Marching and music will combine forces on Saturday, Oct. 4, when the Clarkston High School Band Invitational takes place in the school's football stadium.

A parade of performers from high schools across Michigan and from Canada plan to participate in the competition that begins at 6 p.m.

The CHS Marching Band will not compete in the invitational because it is the host school, but the band will wrap up the event with an exhibition performance.

The invitational will be a wonderful show for music lovers, said CHS band director Clifford Chapman, who indicated that the performances require many hours of practice.

"It's pretty darn exciting when you get past all the hard work and sweat," he said.

The 10 high schools participating in the CHS invitational are Waterford Mott, Shelby, Hartford, Linden, Flushing, Wyoming Park, Ithaca, Flint Beecher, Montrose and Spirit of Windsor.

During CHS home football games, the band presents a shortened version of its competition routine, but at the invitational the entire show will be performed.

It features jazz music including "The Birth of the Blues" with a trumpet solo by band member Tracy Roek, "Sunrise Lady" with a trumpet solo by Tasha Vaara, "Blue Rondo a la Turk" and the gospel hymn "We Are the Reason."

The CHS band took first place in the West Bloomfield invitational. Other competitions planned are at Montrose Oct. 11, John Glenn High School in Westland on Oct. 18 and the state championships in Plymouth on Oct. 25.

Admission to the CHS Band Invitational is $3 for adults and $2 for students and senior citizens.

The show is hosted by the Clarkston Band Boosters and proceeds go toward expenses for the marching band and instrumental music programs during the school year.

Multiples multiplying in Clarkston

By Kathy Greenfield

Condo and apartment living in the Clarkston area could become commonplace.

Proposals before Independence Township planners in various stages of consideration include 240 condominiums and 364 apartments.

Never before in her over nine years with the Independence Township building department have so many multiple dwellings been proposed for the area, says Beverly McElmeel, acting director of township building and planning services.

"There hasn't been any, in years, of this type of housing. Now it seems like so many are coming in," she says. "It's been mostly single family developments, that's been my experience through the years. So this type of housing is new to me."

As the proposals move through the steps necessary for building permit approval, there have been numerous telephone calls to the building department.

"There's been a lot of interested people wanting to get on waiting lists," she says, describing the majority as "empty-nesters," people whose children have grown up.

While none of the developers, as far as she knows, have begun selling or renting their condos and apartments, McElmeel says she does her best to provide telephone numbers to callers.

"I don't mind giving out that information," she says. "It's their township."

The biggest changes in her department will come in the springtime, when McElmeel expects full-swing construction on some of the developments.

"We'll need more staff. Come spring, we'll be going full force. We will need another person for building inspections, she says.

McElmeel also casts words of caution regarding the actual construction of the lineup of proposed multiple dwellings.

"You never know until there's a shovel in the ground," she says.

She provides a list of the array of multiples planned for Independence Township and currently in various planning stages:

CLARKSTON BLUFFS: The 148 condominiums on about 36 acres are to be constructed on pine-tree lined Waterford Hill off Dixie Highway and north of the Waterford Hill subdivision.

The developer is C.B. Custom Builders Inc. of Dixie Highway, Independence Township (Charles Bowles, Roy Lilley and Philip Seaver).

Conceptual site plan approval was granted in September by the township planning commission. Before construction can begin, final site plan approval must be granted.

LANCASTER ON THE LAKES: Reviews are under way for granting building permits for Phase 1 of the apartment complex.

The first phase includes 168 apartments; 32 with one bedroom, 56 with two bedrooms and 80 with two bedrooms and extras. The 20-acre site is located behind the Randy Hosler Pontiac dealership on Dixie Highway. Developers are Fox and Associates Inc. of Detroit.

The development plans include a second phase with 108 apartments on 28 acres. Before construction can begin on Phase 2, the developers must reappear before the planning commission for site plan approval.

NEWPORT CONDOMINIUMS: Twenty-eight units are proposed for the 8.5-acre site on Clarkston Road across from Clintonwood Park.

The planning commission recommended approval of PUD (planned unit development) zoning for the development on Aug. 11. Before building permits can be issued, the township board must approve the PUD zoning.

The developer is N.H.W. Corp. of Clarkston (Frank Walker) and property owners are William and Sharon Hahn of Independence Township.

Dr. Loren Baylis steps into his dad's medical office shoes

By Chris Gerbaui

The name's the same and Dr. Loren Baylis hopes the care is the same at the practice he took over from his late father.

Dr. Shelby Baylis died in August and his son had already decided to join the practice on M-15 in Independence Township. The family medicine practice opened in 1979.

"My father was a very popular man and a very good doctor," said Baylis. "Those are big shoes to fill."

Baylis will use the same approach with his patients that his father used.

"There's a lot of similarities between my father and myself," he said. "We have the same beliefs, principles and values."

"The most important point is we both believe in letting the patient talk and tell you what's wrong with them, instead of interrupting and badgering them," he said. "I look at the whole person."

Along with the similarities, Baylis knows there will be comparisons as well.

"Any doctor who had as much experience and longevity as my father had, people are going to be skeptical to begin with," Baylis said. "They're going to say, 'How could he possibly match up with him?'"

"There might be an initial apprehension, but a lot of people say they're glad they came in and got to meet me and that I'm going to continue on with the practice," he said.

Originally, Baylis was to join the practice and his father was going to go into semi-retirement.

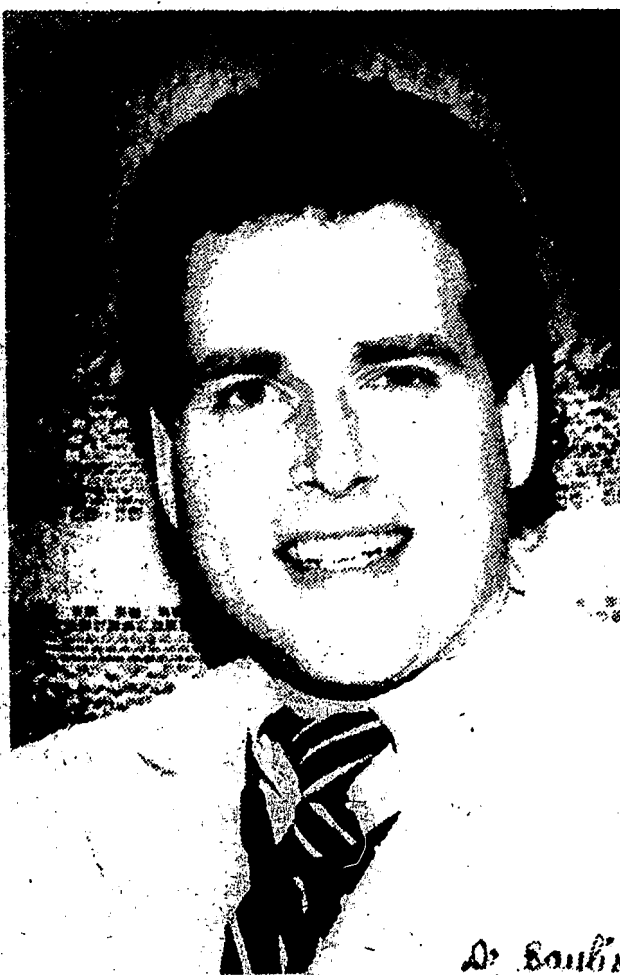

Baylis said he almost always wanted to be a doctor, from the time he was 6 years old.

"I never had anything that was number two on the list. That was number one," said Baylis.

Dr. Shelby Baylis never forced anything on his nine children. His children's occupations range from cellist to art historian to horse trainer.

Loren graduated from Georgetown University School of Medicine in Washington, D.C., in 1982, served his internship at Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak and worked as a family physician in Atlanta, Ga.

"Right now, I want to stay in Clarkston," said Baylis, who has a wife and 2-year-old daughter and a baby on the way. "My long-range plans have to do with my own family."

Dr. Loren Baylis has taken over his late father's family medicine practice in Independence Township. He'll try to use the same thoughtful approach as his father, Dr. Shelby Baylis.

Adventurous past for insurance man

Vic Dawson is a man of many interests. Before settling into the insurance business three years ago, Dawson was on the rodeo circuit, riding bulls and saddle broncs.

He was on the circuit for four years before he became a truck driver. Both occupations took him around the country.

Then, a few years back, his truck needed an overhaul and his brother asked him if he wanted to get his insurance license.

He did, and now he's recently moved to an office in the Clarkston Mills Mall. He previously had an office on Dixie Highway.

"I had been looking for an office in downtown Clarkston," said the Springfield Township resident. "I like Clarkston, it's a nice town. I figure if you live in Clarkston, you might as well do business in Clarkston."

Dawson finds time on weekends for the Navy reserve, which he's been a part of for almost 13 years.

He spent six years in the service after high school at Livonia Franklin.

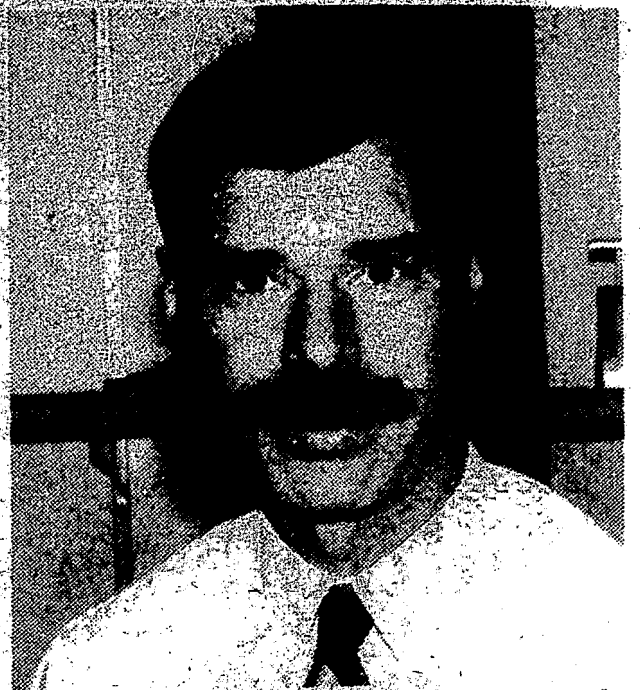

He said he'd like to find time this fall for some wreck-diving in the Great Lakes.

"There's hundreds of ship wrecks up there," said Dawson. "I scuba dive and do all kinds of crazy things."

Closer to home, Dawson might find himself on stage. His wife, Pamela, recently appeared in the Clarkston Village Players production of "Bullshot Crummond."

"She got me into a play once," he said. "I played a dumb cowboy. Talk about type-casting. She's playing a villainess. Type-casting again."

For now, Dawson will stick with insurance. "I like dealing with people," he said. "I work for me, basically. You get to know people on a personal basis and sometimes people will stop in just to have a cup of coffee and talk."

Vic Dawson recently moved his insurance office to downtown Clarkston, in the Mills Mall.

BILL MYERS Warm air mass hits Capitol

BEULAH, MICH. - There's been a lot of fuss about changes in the tax law concerning IRA accounts. Newspapers and the telly have fueled this non-issue. Demagogues in Congress - and there are many - have attacked the changes as though they took food from the mouths of the middle class.

All the smoke turns out to be just hot air. Nobody's getting hurt very much, and most people not at all.

Senator Carl Levin, Michigan's gift to the U.S. Senate, said he'd vote against the whole bill if they didn't restore the old IRA laws. He thundered it would amount to a tax increase. Levin is the same fellow who says the only way to balance the budget is to raise taxes. He's also the fellow who wants to smash down the defense budget - except the parts that keep outmoded Army bases in Michigan.

So what would the new tax bill do to the IRA?

1. Changes affect only people with incomes over $40,000 ($25,000 for singles).

2. And of this level of income - only 13 percent of the population - only those who also have company-provided pension plans are affected.

3. Other wage-earners, with incomes of $50,000 ($35,000 for singles) who have company-provided pension plans, lose all contribution deductions. They can still defer interest earned on IRA contributions until the IRA is tapped, starting at age 59.

4. Most of the people affected under item 3 who lose the full deduction can get their employers to expand their pretax contributions (up to $7,000 a year) to company-sponsored 401k plans.

5. All workers get a big break because the new tax bill reduces the period for vesting pension rights to five years from the present 10 years. Under the old pension laws, you had no guaranteed or vested benefits until you worked 10 years for a company. Now you've got a pension that can be cashed in if you leave the company after five years.

6. If you have a company retirement plan and your wages are between $40,000 and $50,000 ($25,000 and $35,000 for singles), the amount of the IRA deductible falls $200 for each $1,000 of income over the threshold amount. You still can defer taxes on interest income of any larger amounts put into your IRA.

Much ado about nothing - but that's politicians and daily papers and the telly for you.

The provision of the new law letting certain brackets of workers deduct only interest on IRAs - there's not much point in taking advantage of this.

If you're in this group and want to defer interest, just get some zero coupon tax-exempt bonds with whatever savings you might have put into an IRA. These bonds pay around 8 percent. You can sell them anytime, and there's no tax to pay on the proceeds or any interest they have earned. No red tape, no reports to Uncle Sam, and your money is not tied up. Under an IRA, you mustn't draw it out until age 59, or you'll pay a penalty.

Vitamin E (Tocopherol)

Fat soluble and stored in the liver, fatty tissues, heart, muscles, testes, uterus, blood, adrenal and pituitary glands.

Composed of compounds called tocopherols. Of the eight tocopherols alpha, beta, gamma, delta, epsilon, zeta, eta, and theta, alpha tocopherol is the most effective.

60 to 70 percent of daily doses are excreted in feces.

Unlike other fat soluble vitamins E is stored in the body for a short time.

Vitamin E is a vasodilator and an anti-coagulant.

25 mcg. of selenium for each 200 units of E increase E's potency.

Vitamin E can keep you looking younger by retarding cellular aging due to oxidation, supply oxygen to the body to give you more endurance, protect your lungs against air pollution & smoking by working with Vitamin A. Prevents and dissolves blood clots, accelerates healing of burns, lowers blood pressure, aids in preventing miscarriages.

Deficiency diseases of Vitamin E are restriction of red blood cells, muscle degeneration, some anemias and reproductive disorders.

Best natural sources are wheat germ, soybeans, vegetable oils, broccoli, brussels sprouts, leafy greens, spinach, whole wheat, whole grains.

Clarkston couple opens Banana Anna's shop

By Chris Gerbasi

She won't say where they come from, but she's got a lot of them.

Susan Paul has been collecting vintage clothes for eight years and she and fiance John Bickford recently opened Banana Anna's clothing shop at 124 South Woodward in Birmingham.

"Vintage" applies to any clothes from the turn of the century through the 1960s. The couple got interested in those clothes when they were living in Florida.

An acquaintance took Paul to an antique show and she immediately took a liking to the clothes. Since then, she has stockpiled enough clothes to fill the store and any available closet.

"I have a private source in Florida," said Paul. "I'll never reveal it. Nobody knows where I go."

Not even Bickford.

They moved to Clarkston recently, into the home where Bickford's family lived for 22 years. He was born in Fort Lauderdale and Paul was born in Chicago.

"We're getting married and we're going to make children and we want to raise them here," said Bickford. "We like the climate here for children."

They're going to be married later this month and due, in part, to the Halloween season, they're having a masquerade ball after the ceremony. Guests are being asked to wear costumes at the ceremony as well.

The ceremony is going to take place in an Oriental garden. Bickford may take on a Fu Manchu appearance, while Paul wants to dress as an Indian with a long headdress.

Those outfits are a little bit different than what they feature at their store, which they refer to as quality bargains.

"My favorite are the '40s and '60s," said Paul, "because of the style and the way clothes were fitted in the '40s and the craziness of the '60s."

Bickford enjoys his cashmere coat, which is not for sale, and the music of the '60s. He's been involved in building a recording studio and is rehearsing with a four-piece rock band.

He's also been in real estate management and development and Paul managed a retail clothing store in Miami for six years.

But after two years of collecting clothes, both of them knew they would some day open a clothing store.

"We knew we had to go somewhere beyond a personal scope," Bickford said.

John Bickford and Susan Paul pose in front of their 1950s' car in some "vintage" evening wear. The couple reside in Clarkston and recently opened a vintage clothing shop in Birmingham, specializing in clothes from the '40s, '50s and '60s.

Sayles Studio stays within the family

Beth Richards purchased her mother's photography business just two months ago, and she's proud to be the owner of the family business. Her mother had operated Sayles Studio on Dixie Highway in Drayton Plains for 40 years before retiring.

"My father instigated it, and my mother had the persistence to carry it out," said Beth.

In Beth's case, the photography business is truly a family career. Her father has a studio in New Mexico and her brother has a studio in Texas.

"That's very gratifying to know that I come from that heritage," said the Independence Township resident.

"People very often think of a portrait studio as a business and not an art," she said. "That's what I most appreciate about my mom and dad's philosophy. . . . They wanted to create something of blue-ribbon quality. . . . That philosophy is more important to the subject than the reverse."

Apartment developers tell why they're here

By Julie Campe

Independence Township was chosen for the location of Lancaster on the Lakes apartments for a combination of reasons.

"There's no other contemporary apartment development out here now, so we think there's a need for rental apartments here," said Dick Fay, executive vice president of construction for Fox Corp.

"It appears to be a stable area that will only be upgraded. . . . We think it will attract an upscale resident, rather than residents who could be possible problems. . . .

"Our studies have shown there is a strong demand in the medium income brackets, the younger, more mobile people out here."

Scheduled to break ground Oct. 1, the first of the 168 two-story apartments should be available for rent in February or March, said Fay. The entire complex should be completed in one year.

Located on Dixie Highway, residents are to share the entrance to Randy Hosler Pontiac.

"The township would like to have an entrance from Maybee Road, but that's not an available piece of property right now," said Fay.

To get their design ideas, representatives from Fox traveled all over the country, looking at apartments, said Fay.

"We've taken what we think are the best features from all of these and incorporated them. . . . We think we're about five years ahead of the development in the state right now," he said.

If phase one of the project is accepted well, they plan to build on the other half of the 48-acre site in phase two.

Each unit is to have an individual entry, and three styles are to be offered: one bedroom, one bath; two bedrooms, two baths; and two bedrooms, two baths with extras.

A fireplace and a cathedral ceiling are planned for some. All are to be fully carpeted; and individual laundry equipment and a utility room are in the plans for each unit.

The club house is to include a large swimming pool, a sun deck, jacuzzi, exercise room, sauna, bar and social room, and tennis courts.

The rates should start at about $400, said Fay, and leasing information will be available soon.

Ken Irey (left), project manager, and Dick Fay, executive vice president of construction, pose for a picture after talking about Lancaster on the Lakes apartments.

Multiples planned at five new sites site is on the north side of Maybee Road immediately west of Spring Lake.

Proposed by the J.F.K. Co. of Waterford (Joseph Kosik) are 88 apartments and 42 condominiums. Of the condominiums, 16 are to be townhouses and 26 ranch-style.

The development received conceptual approval from the township planning commission in September. Before construction can begin, final site plan approval must be obtained.

STEEPLE RIDGE: All approvals have been granted for the 14.8 acre site at Clarkston and Perry Lake roads, but application has not been made for building permits.

Proposed are 22 condominiums. Developer is Resource Management Services (Stuart Mahler and Peter Miller, both of Clarkston).

Super Tunes makes cars musically inclined

By Carolyn Walker

Mike Yovich, at 23, says he favors jazz.

But a visitor to his Super Tunes store on Dixie Highway would never guess it. Hard rock music pours from a dozen car stereo displays behind a sliding glass door.

The door separates the display samples from the business area where Mike sells car stereos, phones, alarm systems, police scanners and citizen band radios.

The 1981 Clarkston High School graduate set himself up in business last February after renovating the building that used to house the Waterford Hills Sports Center.

He opened the business after years of repair and installation experience in other radio stores in Michigan and Florida.

"I figured they weren't doing it the right way and figured I would see if I could do it on my own," he said, talking just above the din of the latest Rolling Stones song.

"There's a big demand for it—a current type image for your car."

Among the services Yovich provides are stereo installation, repair and customized speaker boxes made to fit cars and other vehicles.

"They look like they belong there. They don't look like a home stereo system thrown in the car," he says.

The boxes can be built into the backs of trucks, car doors, behind seats or in trunks, he says.

Yovich also provides "on the spot" service for the outdoor enthusiast, using a specially equipped van to install stereo systems in boats or other outdoor vehicles.

Mike Yovich, owner of Super Tunes on Dixie Highway, poses in front of the specially equipped van he uses for installing stereo systems into boats and other outdoor vehicles.
