1986 sets record for new homes

By Julie Campe

All records were broken in 1986 for residential building in Independence Township.

"It's been a fantastic year," said Beverly McElmeel, acting director of the township building and planning department. "It's been the best year ever."

The new records soar off the chart tacked to the wall in McElmeel's office—over $31 million worth of residential building, 318 new home permits.

The last year with the greatest activity was 1977, with 309 homes—$11.5 million. The figures also reflect the amount of inflation since then, said McElmeel.

Other building increased this year as well.

Commercial was "moderate to light," she said.

"It's not real, real busy, but there's enough to keep it going," said McElmeel. "And there's a lot of interior remodeling."

About 12 major commercial building projects occurred in 1986 including new buildings, additions and remodelings, she said.

Apartments and condominiums also showed an increase. About 60 building permits for individual units were issued—over $7 million worth of building, said McElmeel.

The last big year for apartments and condos was 12 deputies on patrol

By Julie Campe

Starting at midnight, Jan. 1, twice as many Oakland County sheriff's deputies were serving Independence Township and the Village of Clarkston.

The six extra deputies provide at least two cars per shift and sometimes three, said Capt. Carl Matheny of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

They made a quiet debut, said Matheny.

"It was a little bit slow over the holidays in that area," he said, adding no statistics were available yet.

The additional deputies are to spend more time in crime prevention and have more time to follow up on complaints, he said.

"Before, they were going from call to call," he said.

resident. He volunteers his services "so I can walk downtown," he says. Seven-month-old Freckles also enjoys riding along during lawn mowing season.

Double trouble for township lawbreakers

Two permanent deputies are still needed for the area, said Matheny. Temporary deputies are working now.

"Two or three want to work in this area," he said. "They live there or near there. We want to be selective about who we put up there. We want people who want to work there."

Township officials hope to use the extra officers in more subdivision patrol, said Supervisor Frank Ronk. Other uses are still to be determined, depending on the needs, he said.

"I think it's a real plus for Independence Township that we can get the people on board this soon," he said.

Also under consideration is a police liaison with Clarkston Community Schools, who would work with students, parents and teachers in crime and drug prevention. Ronk plans to meet with school and sheriff's department officials to discuss the possibility, he said.

"We'll utilize them how ever we have to use them," said Ronk.

Although Clarkston residents didn't vote on the police millage, they receive police coverage through a contract with the township paid from the village general fund.

To cover the cost, township voters approved an additional 1.5 mills for three years in November. Added to the existing 1 mill for police protection that expires in 1990, the 1987 police fund is $736,100.

One mill is $1 for every $1,000 of assessed property valuation.

Council seeks opinions on Mill Pond dam

By Julie Campe

The Clarkston Village Council is turning to the village residents to help decide the fate of the broken Mill Pond dam.

A public hearing has been scheduled Monday, Jan. 12, to receive comments on the options, said council president Sharron Catallo.

A Dec. 15 court hearing was adjourned until Jan. 28 to allow time for the public hearing, said David Lee, village attorney.

In September, the council filed a lawsuit against dam owner Lehman Investments, the Michigan Department of Natural Resources and the Oakland County Drain Commission, seeking repairs of the dam on Washington Street and the overflow structure on Main Street.

Lehman also owns the Clarkston Mills Mall on Washington Street, across from the dam.

The dam and pond history reaches back to the late 1930s and early 1940s when Henry Ford purchased the property and water rights to run a hydroelectric plant and had the dam built.

Since that time, the dam and water rights have transferred to each owner of the property, now the Clarkston Mills Mall.

One problem with the broken dam is no one knows what's wrong with it or how to fix it, said Lee.

"We don't have a serious problem right now, but we have no way to handle it if it were to come up," he said. "It doesn't seem to be much dispute. It's just a mystery of how to do it."

The public hearing should help decide the course of action, said Catallo.

"Even this, the court thing, is costing money," said Catallo. "It's the taxpayers' money, and they should have some input in what we do. We just want to know how they feel about it."

Catallo listed the options:

- The village pays for repairs; the Oakland County Drain Commission assumes ownership and maintenance after the dam is fixed.

- Mill Pond homeowners purchase the pond and dam by special assessment.

- The Village of Clarkston purchases the pond and dam.

- The Village of Clarkston does nothing and lets the lawsuit outcome determine the repair method.

The Jan. 12 hearing is 7:30 p.m. at the Village Hall, 375 Depot.

New homes

1979, she said, when over $8 million worth of multi-family residential was constructed.

In 1987, she expects more of the same, she said, mentioning several projects that are scheduled for construction this year: Steeple Ridge Condominiums at Clarkston Road and Perry Lake Road, Newport Condominiums on Clarkston Road across from Clintonwood Park, Clarkston Bluffs on Dixie Highway and Balmoral Terrace, and the Clarkston Health Center at Dixie Highway and Hidden Lane.

The building and planning office is already busy with the 1987 construction season, she said.

"People are asking about development," said McElmeel. "They're very interested in the area. They feel Independence is going to be the next community. It's a desirable community right now. . . . Once they see us and see how beautiful the property is and the community is" they'll be even more attracted to the area.

Taxing situation

Winter tax payments are on schedule, according to Independence Township Treasurer John Lutz.

"Taxes are really running smooth," he said. "It's been a good year for people in general."

Of the approximate $9.5 million taxes billed, the township had collected $5,815,783.89, as of Dec. 31, 1986, he said.

Winter, 1985, taxes billed were $8.8 million. About $4.98 million was collected by Dec. 31, 1985, he said, a comparable percentage of the total.

He also compared summer taxes for 1986 and 1985. In 1986, about $6.4 million was billed; the township received about $5.8 million by Dec. 29, 1986, he said.

In 1985, about $5.9 million was billed; about $5.1 million was paid by Dec. 31, 1985, he said.

The payments in the past two years have been normal, said Lutz.

While taxpayers have until Feb. 14 to pay December tax bills, about 10 percent will probably be late as usual, he said.

Outlook for '87: The economy should stay healthy for while

By Kathy Greenfield

Optimism prevails as a banker, builder, accountant and owner of a computer firm share their opinions on the economic outlook for 1987.

How many layoffs?

Comments about the economic outlook for 1987 invariably touch on the layoffs planned by the General Motors Corp.

In November, GM announced that nine plants and two partial plants across the nation would be phased out over the next three years.

At that time, 29,000 people were employed at the plants, but the entire number will not be unemployed due to job retraining, placement programs and retirements, said John Mueller, a spokesperson for GM.

In Pontiac, Flint and Lake Orion, some layoffs have occurred and more are planned in 1987 and 1988. The 12,950 layoffs include:

- 1,000 workers at the Orion Plant in Lake Orion at the end of last year due to line rate reduction.
- 1,000 workers at Buick City, Flint, at the end of last year.
- 600 workers at the Fiero Plant in Pontiac on Jan. 19 when a shift is removed.
- 600 transit bus workers at the Pontiac Central Plant Truck and Bus Group in Pontiac sometime in 1987.
- 3,450 pickup truck workers at Flint Truck and Bus from Flint No. 1 when it ceases operation in August.
- 2,000 workers from the Chevrolet-Pontiac Canada plant in Pontiac when it shuts down at the end of 1987.
- 2,700 workers from Buick-Oldsmobile-Cadillac at the Flint Body Assembly plant at the end of 1987.
- 1,600 workers in heavy duty truck production at the Pontiac Central Plant Truck and Bus Group in August 1988.

All four express some concern about the layoffs of General Motors employees that began in late December; all predict that interest rates will stay down; and all say they expect a slowdown in growth by the end of 1987 or in '88.

Jim Vollbach, the owner of Clarkston Remodeling Inc. since 1972, works primarily in remodeling and commercial building.

"From all the indications to me, it's going to be a good year," he said. "The demand seems to be there. We're unable to keep up with the jobs on the books right now. We're about eight or nine months behind."

The building industry thrived in 1986 for two main reasons, according to Vollbach.

The "awful slump in '83, '84 and '85" created "a culmination of built-up demand," he said, and he expects the demand to continue into 1987.

Secondly, low interest rates "helped the building business; there's no doubt about it," he said. "People are willing to borrow money at these rates, whereas they were not willing at 13 and 14 percent."

The layoffs planned by GM, however, will eventually take their toll, he said.

"When the automotive people snuffle, we all catch the cold," he said. "Without a doubt, I think at the end of '87 we'll see a slowdown, as we always do when the automotive business slows down."

Janet Thomas is an owner of Thomas and Wiar, an accounting firm on Sashabaw Road in Independence Township.

"Locally we could feel somewhat of an impact when General Motors begins its layoffs," she said, but she does not believe the layoffs will have a major effect on the national economy.

Those who are laid off will react more cautiously than they did in the early 1980s, when people were surprised to be out of work for two years in some cases, she said.

The availability of jobs doesn't seem to be a major problem, she said, noting that industrial parks are popping up in the I-75 corridor and Auburn Hills area and workers will be needed.

"I'm not sure everyone who's laid off will be qualified to fill those jobs," she said, expressing concern about individuals.

Thomas, who is president of the Clarkston Community Schools Board of Education, said retraining programs may provide the solution.

"It's kind of scary, this next while, but I think we're seeing a lot of changes in society as a whole, kind of like what we went through when the change came to the industrial society," she said.

Nationally, low interest rates will continue to keep the economy healthy, she said, and while "they could go up some, they won't go up to the levels they were a few years ago."

Chuck Phyle is the owner of Universal Data Inc., a computer firm on M-15 in Independence Township.

"I think that 1987 from the computer industry side is going to be a good year," he said. "1986 wasn't such a good year for computers."

Phyle expects retail sales to continue to be high on a national level.

"Locally, it might be slow because of the GM

"When the automotive people snuffle, we all catch the cold."

—Jim Vollbach, builder

layoffs," he said. "GM's got some problems. They have more capacity to produce than they need. They have an economic problem that has nothing to do with the economy of the United States."

Accordingly, Phyle predicts the continuation of zero interest rate car loans by automotive firms.

"I'm not even sure GM will lay off all those workers for a long period of time. I think they'll probably be back to work within 90 days," he said. "You have to remember it's going to be an election year coming up, so things won't break loose until that's over."

Jack MacLachlan is an assistant vice president at First of America—Oakland, Macomb and branch manager of the First of America bank on Dixie Highway in Independence Township.

"The economy in Clarkston... I get the feeling we do have a lot of GM people here," he said. "I don't

Clarkston teen arrested in Flint

Three was an unlucky number for two deaf-mute youths arrested in Flint Township for stealing radar detectors.

The youths, a 16-year-old from Clarkston and a 15-year-old from Swartz Creek, were in possession of three stolen radar detectors when the arrest was made, said Oxford Police Detective Ron Crichton.

One radar detector was reported stolen from Oxford Village, one from Lake Orion Village and one from the Genesee Valley Mall.

According to Flint Township police reports, at 9:17 p.m. Dec. 31 a witness saw a male entering a car parked in the mall, then exiting with something in his hand and getting into another car. The witness called police and gave a description of the car and the license number. Fifteen minutes later, police spotted the car and stopped it.

When the three radar detectors were found in the youths' car, the teens were arrested and they confessed to the Oxford and Orion thefts, according to police.

The youths were petitioned to Juvenile Court by the Flint Township police, Crichton said.

I-75 widening plans include 8.7 miles here

By Julie Campe

Drivers in Independence Township are facing more road construction on I-75.

Improvements and the accompanying traffic jams were last seen in 1984. Plans are in the works for the widening of 15 miles of the highway in 1987 and 1988.

The Michigan Department of Transportation proposes the improvements for the expressway between Squirrel Road in Bloomfield Township and M-15 in Independence Township to help with present and future congestion.

A public hearing is scheduled Wednesday, Jan. 21, in Pontiac to receive comments from residents and government officials, said Jose Lopez, of the MDOT public hearing department.

The comments are for the record and carry a lot of weight, he said.

The plans for the Independence Township area include widening an 8.7 mile segment from two to three lanes in each direction between M-24 and M-15. The second phase of the plan, it's scheduled for 1988.

Several noise walls are to be erected including one each at south and northbound I-75 at Clarkston Road.

A noise wall, built of wood, metal, brick or cement block, shields nearby residences from noise, said Lopez.

The other segment, six miles long, runs from Squirrel Road to just north of M-24. MDOT proposes widening that segment from two to four lanes and erecting noise walls. The project is to begin in the spring of 1987, subject to the outcome of the public hearing, said Lopez.

For each segment, the new lanes are to be constructed in the median within existing MDOT-owned property. The work is to be done "under traffic," so cars may still use the outside lanes and shoulders of existing I-75.

The improvements will require the widening of 19 bridges and some improvements to the expressway drainage system, said Lopez.

The project cost is estimated at $2.5 million plus $200 per lineal foot for the construction of the noise walls, to be financed by the state and federal governments.

Currently, the 15-mile portion of I-75 carries more than 4,300 vehicles per hour in one direction, exceeding the road's capacity, said Lopez.

The public hearing is scheduled at 7:30 p.m., Jan. 21, at the Will Rogers Elementary School gymnasium, 2600 Dexter, Pontiac.

A healthy economic outlook

know how (the layoffs) will affect us."

On the other hand, MacLachlan mentions activities in the community such as building and people making investments.

"I'm seeing things happen locally that are really super," he said.

Regarding an economic forecast for the nation, he said, "I really think we're going to stay the same way for a while, but the second half of the year, I don't want to make any guesses right now."

One trend he expects to continue is the advent of "the more aware aware investor, more rate-sensitive, more sophisticated."

MacLachlan also expects growth in home equity loans, in which borrowers use the increased value of their homes since purchase for collateral.

Another growing trend involves the treatment of customers.

"All industries are going to have to become more aware of service levels," he said. "Everything that I ever hear in meetings is, 'You're there for the customer; the customer is not there for you.'"

"We want people to enjoy coming in here, to feel like they're part of the family," he said. "We want our tellers to call them by their first names and to say thank you."

Clarkston News staff writer Julie Campe contributed to this story.

Food for thought

I can't take credit for this idea. It belongs to my father, who lives alongside a busy paved street that was not too long ago a dirt road out in the country.

He's one of the many who sings the praises of the 10-cent deposit on bottles and cans that virtually wiped out a great deal of roadside garbage.

He says the next step needed to clean up America is putting a deposit on the paper and plastic used to wrap items from fast food restaurants.

I really think a mistake was made when drive-in dining was eliminated. As a society, we must have an overwhelming need for car hops to carry away our trash.

In two unrelated conversations last week, people were singing the praises of Clarkston.

They made me appreciate anew the town in which I live, so I'm sharing their thoughts.

One family was visiting from California. They arrived in town at my daughter's invitation to go ice skating on the Mill Pond, an adventure they thoroughly enjoyed.

But what surprised them was the treatment they received from town merchants. It made them feel at home, and they reciprocated by making several purchases.

The other conversation involved a family in the process of moving to Clarkston. Their house is out in the country, but what made them feel welcome was the charm of the town.

"We wanted to get out of the car and walk around," he said, adding that he was glad Clarkston would be his new home.

Something really surprising happened this holiday season. Several people I met in places other than Clarkston identified it with something other than Pine Knob.

"There's a great bakery there," people said. This happened in separate conversations in West Bloomfield and in Lapeer.

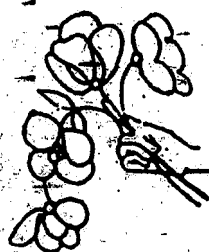

Considering the relative sizes of Pine Knob and the Village Bakeshop, such identification is remarkable.

Can't you imagine conversations all over this part of the state that go something like this: "What will it be today? A ski outing or a drive to the bakery for black bottom cupcakes?"

Or both?

Kudos for coach

Thank you to Jan Fife, Clarkston Varsity Cheerleading coach, for giving so much of her time and energy during the holiday season to prepare the varsity cheerleaders for the International Open Cheerleading Competition recently held in Nashville, Tenn.

It takes a special person to be "mom" and coach to 10 girls, especially in the midst of a move to a new home and with a family of her own.

She unselfishly gave her time and left her family to coach these girls in sportsmanship and leadership.

It was a rewarding experience these girls won't soon forget. Thanks from all the girls and all the parents. Dane was super, too!

Also, a special thanks to Phil Haase of Clarkston, a former Miami University of Ohio cheerleader, and Stephen Smith, a cheerleader at the College of Charleston, who interrupted their vacation plans to travel from South Carolina to Nashville to assist the girls in coordinating stunts, dance routines and moral support. Thanks so much.

A dozen glimpses of '86

Jim Fitzgerald

The year 1986 passes in review...

JANUARY - To enhance the folksy family image of the Reagan White House, Nancy Reagan begins walking a leashed dog from and to the folksy family helicopter. Several husky bodyguards stand by doing nothing while the dog almost tugs 90-pound Nancy into the Potomac. The strain causes Nancy's neck muscles to bulge and her smile turns into a grimace. She almost looks one of her ages.

FEBRUARY - Explaining why something that should have been done wasn't done, Mayor Young says: "The responsibility seems to fall between the chairs." This is the first public admission that bureaucratic chieftains have been so busy dumping on ordinary citizens that there's no more room in the traditional dumping place between the cracks.

MARCH - When something in the air at the Madison Center building makes 36th District Court employees sick, a sign is put up warning that the building may be hazardous to your health. But many people continue to go inside because they're afraid that if they quit they'll gain weight.

APRIL - A Detroit News editorial congratulates Councilman Jack Kelley for refusing to have his picture taken with three jurists from Nicaragua because "I think they're communists." The News doesn't object to President Reagan posing for photos with Mikhail Gorbachev. This is the first indication, long before Iran-Contragate, that the News realizes Jack Kelley can do more than Ronald Reagan for the United States' image as a freedom-loving nation.

MAY - It is suggested that several streets in Detroit's upscale Indian Village be blocked by "restrictive access points" to keep out crime. They are the same as cul-de-sacs except no snobbish hyphens are required and it is believed Detroiters will think a restrictive access point is just another friendly blind alley.

JUNE - It is determined that if the only way for crooks to get into Indian Village is to be born there, it will be possible to apprehend them by simply following the midwives who, according to the dictionary, don't need hyphens.

JULY - In the year's most advertised irony, Lee Iacocca honors the Statue of Liberty for 100 years of welcoming imported people but not imported cars.

AUGUST - When a strike grounds city buses, I continue to wait at bus stops because the odds of getting a bus when the buses aren't running are the same as when they are running.

SEPTEMBER - After Dearborn is accused of racism for proposing to ban non-residents from most of its parks, a Dearbornite drives to my office to talk about it. He discovers he is banned from double-parking alongside the Free Press building because he doesn't belong to the nearby Detroit Club. He accuses Detroit of carism.

OCTOBER - As she was about to leave me alone with an operating washing machine, my wife orders me to hug it if it begins moving. She says the washer will stop vibrating if I embrace it for a few seconds. Subsequently, I follow instructions, and end up saying to a Kenmore washer: "I didn't know it could be like this."

NOVEMBER - Soon after George Hamilton wins the Most Sophisticated Man on Television Award from UCLA's Pan Hellenic Society, it is revealed that he throws his socks away after wearing them only once. There's no telling how far Hamilton might go in the world of culture if he never wore used pants.

DECEMBER - Lawyer Doug Hamel and friends gave a Christmas party for 90 needy youngsters aboard the Lansdowne boat-restaurant. It's early Saturday morning, with almost no one downtown, so they park in a no-parking zone. Hamel, dressed as Santa Claus, discovers a policeman about to put $20 tickets on eight cars. Santa pleads that they be allowed to move the cars, but the cop tickets them anyway. Scrooge of the Year Award goes to Officer Mealrod from the police mini-station on Atwater, where cops' private cars are illegally parked every day.

Play performance to benefit parks

A preview performance of "Evita" at the Birmingham Theatre will benefit the Oakland Parks Foundation.

Tickets are $25 a person for the 8 p.m. performance on Saturday, March 14.

With two tickets, each couple becomes a Family Member of the Oakland Parks Foundation, receiving four Wave Pool Passes, two admission passes to Oakland County Parks and other special considerations.

Dinner will be discounted 40 percent at Schmid's Bloomfield's Restaurant and there will be an afterglow underwritten by Oak Management.

The parks foundation's purpose is to preserve and enhance parks and recreation in Oakland County through the county parks and recreation commission. Among projects that evolved from the $35,670 in grants to the commission in 1985-86 was the Irwin and Sadie Cohn Outdoor Amphitheater at Independence Oaks County Park.

To reserve seats for the "Evita" preview, call the Oakland County Parks Foundation office at 335-2771.

Teen keeps on toes with ballet

By Julie Campe

Sweat, rehearsal, sore feet, new point shoes, rehearsal, homework, exams, auditions, rehearsal.

Donna Cataldo, 14, has been through it all, week after week, for three years.

The Hadley Road, Independence Township, resident begins her day at 5:30 a.m.

Next, she and her sister Cristin leave for Marian High School in Birmingham. When school gets out at 2:30, she goes straight to ballet rehearsal and doesn't leave until 9:30 or 10 p.m.

Usually, she finishes her homework during study hall, but if not, she studies when she gets home.

Finally, she goes to sleep, only to start again at 5:30 the next morning.

She gets a break on Saturdays, when she only rehearses from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., and she takes Sundays off.

Her mother, Barbara, mentioned all Donna has missed: student government, sports, cheerleading, TV.

But Donna doesn't seem to mind. For right now, ballet is the most important activity for her, even with its drawbacks.

"I like challenges. . . . but lately, around showtime, it's been frustrating," she said.

A performance of "L'apres-Midi de La Danse" came the weekend before exams at school, so it interfered with her studying.

But she forgets all her worries as soon as she's on stage.

"I don't ever think of anything. I don't think of my steps. . . . I just think of doing my best. I think about smiling," she said.

Last February, she auditioned for one of 200 places in the School of American Ballet in New York City—and she made it.

Over 2,000 students from around the country tried for the five-week course. Donna also received an honorary scholarship for her "potential as a dancer."

"Auditions are worse than being on stage," she said. "I always wonder, 'Do they like me? Do I have what they want? Do I have the right body type?'"

Donna started dancing at age 6—tap, then jazz—but started ballet only a short time ago.

Her goal is to be rich and famous as a dancer, but she has other plans, "just in case."

"If I make it, I'll dance as long as I can and teach until I get too old to move," said Donna.

"If I don't make it, I'll be a teacher and own my own studio. Or I'll do something with science," she said, adding she might like to be a doctor.

She shared some secrets of her trade.

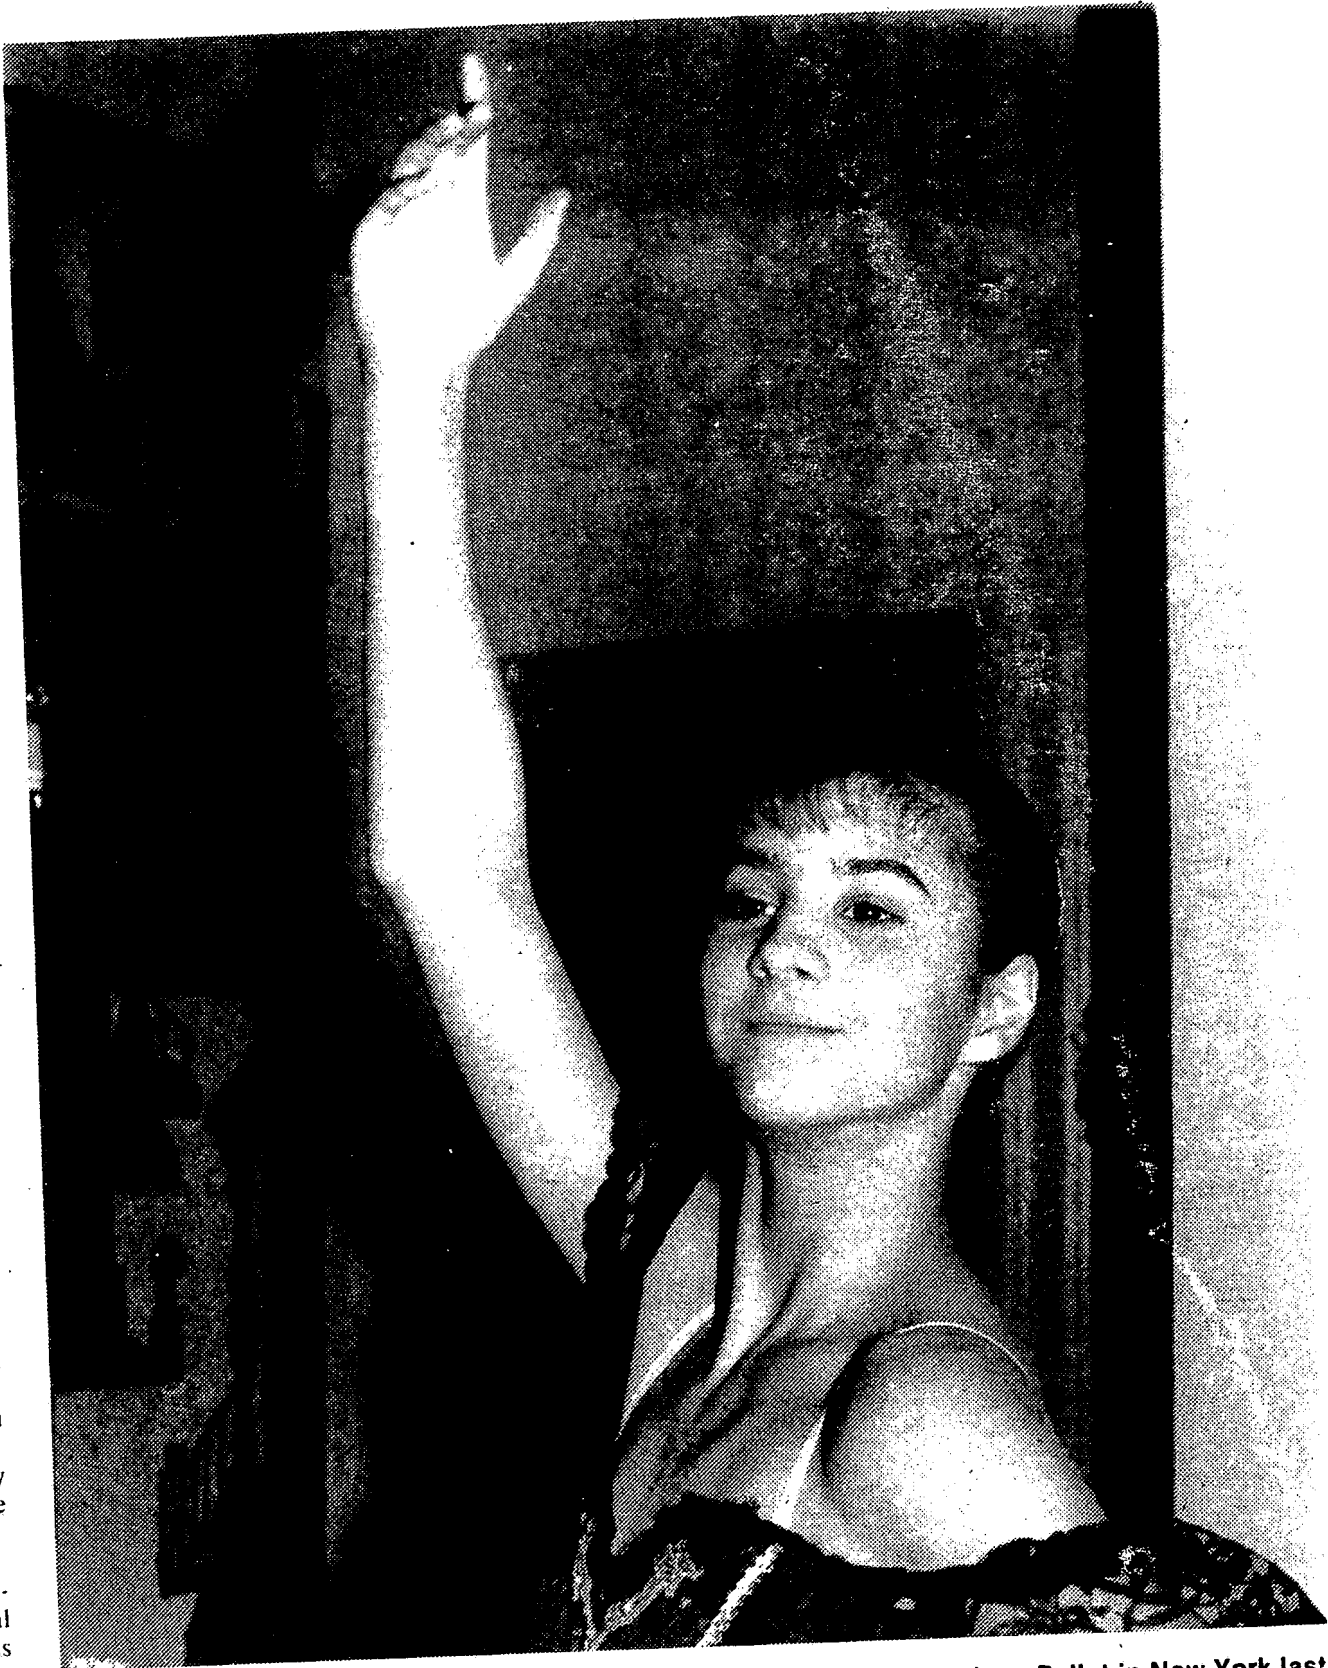

When she stands on her toes, she's really standing on her toes. There's no wood or plastic or metal in the end of her satin slippers, she said. The satin is treated to make it hard.

But you have to be at least 12 to try it, plus you have to have been in ballet at least one year to develop your leg and feet muscles, she said.

She's frequently asked about it, though, as well as other questions.

"People always ask me, 'Do you listen to that classical music?' No, I listen to 99 DTX," she said.

Despite the 700 miles a week added to her

Donna Cataldo, 14, hopes to be the best ballerina she can be. The Independence Township resident studied for three weeks at the School of American Ballet in New York last summer.

mother's car, Donna gets lots of support from her parents.

"Sam and I are very proud of both of our girls, for different reasons," said Barbara.

"I guess it's not exactly what I would have chosen for her, . . . but this has got to be her decision because it's her life," she said. "When you work at your life, you've got to do something you enjoy."

Catholic Central 77, Wolves 68
Dec. 30—A rally by the Wolves falls short in the championship game of the Redford Catholic Central holiday tourney.

Clarkston, 1-3, trails by as many as 18 points in the first half before coming back. The Wolves pull to within seven in the second half, but no closer.

Ben Underwood leads the team with 22 points and Scott Weeks puts in 16.

"I'm tired of playing them on their home court," said Clarkston coach Tim Kaul, whose team also lost at CC in the season opener.

"But I think we're going to be OK once we get this road trip over with," he said.

Wolves split in holiday hoops

Clarkston couldn't buy a basket last week, as the saying goes, but the Wolves managed to break even in the Redford Catholic Central holiday basketball tournament.

Clarkston shot just 16 for 52 in losing to Southgate Aquinas, 58-46, Dec. 29. The loss prevented the Wolves from a rematch with Catholic Central, which blew them out in the opening game of the season.

It was probably just as well because Clarkston came up with its first win of the season against Howell in the consolation game. The Wolves won, 54-44, despite an unimpressive performance.

Aquinas, highly ranked in the state, went on to defeat the Shamrocks in the championship game.

"We continued our dismal shooting (against Aquinas)," said Clarkston coach Dan Fife, whose team stands 1-3. "We were terrible at the free throw line, too (14 for 27)."

"I think we missed the front end of seven one-and-ones," he said. "You can't beat people when you're continually shooting like that."

Craig Chamberlain scored 10 points, and Dan Jokisch had nine against Aquinas.

Jokisch and Jeff Tungate had 12 points each in the victory over Howell. Senior forward Jim Hall continued to play a steady brand of ball.

"He's not a scorer and we don't expect him to score a lot," said Fife. "But he played his role and did what he's supposed to do and he's been consistent."

Fife said the team didn't play very well, but he'll take the win.

"It was just what the doctor ordered at the time," he said. "They needed something positive for all the hard work they've put in.

"We've been on the road and the kids have been feeling the pressure that they have to perform like last year," Fife said. "We still have a chance to be a good team if we can get through the mental part of it. It's difficult on 17- and 18-year-olds to realize it's a long season."

The long string of road games continued with Tuesday's game at Detroit Country Day and the Wolves will travel to Pontiac Northern this Friday for their first league game. Clarkston will finally be at home against Farmington Jan. 13.

Taulbee works on and off court at OCC

By Chris Gerbasi

A one-point loss isn't as easy to shake off in college as it is in high school.

Just ask Michelle Taulbee. The 1986 Clarkston grad is playing basketball for Oakland Community College this season and the Lady Raiders lost 66-65 to Henry Ford Community College last Saturday after blowing a 10-point lead.

Did coach Larry Hojna rip into the team after the game?

"Didn't you hear him?" asked Taulbee. "Rip isn't the word. More like machine gun. I've never seen him so mad. He wants this title."

The title is the Eastern Conference championship of the Michigan Community College Athletic Association. OCC was 2-2 in the conference and 7-4 overall entering this week's action.

The Lady Raiders led Henry Ford 54-44 midway through the second half, but Ford rallied to within four points, 63-59, with two minutes left.

OCC still led, 65-64, with 25 seconds left, but Cathy Collins hit a 15-foot bank shot with three seconds left to pull out the game for Henry Ford.

"For the coach, it's like a life and death situation," said Taulbee, who contributed six points in the game. "It's win this or else."

"It's still fun," she's quick to add. "But after a loss like this, we'll run and run laps and we might start to get on each other's case. But you can't carry off the court what happens."

It's not unusual for an athlete to say sports were more fun in high school, but Taulbee has no regrets about playing hoops at OCC.

She considered several basketball and volleyball options after high school before enrolling at OCC shortly before school started. That delighted Hojna, who had watched Taulbee for two years.

But sports were not her only consideration. She may continue her career at Bowling Green University next year unless she gets an art scholarship, possibly to the Center for Creative Studies in Flint.

Taulbee said there would be no choice between a basketball and art scholarship.

"Art, that's my life," she said. "My parents kind of got me into sports, but they said sports are not going to pay your way through life."

Taulbee, who likes illustration work, is handling both school and sports well. In the classroom, she earned a 3.89 grade point average this past term.

On the court, the 5-11 center is the team's second-leading rebounder and is averaging about 8.6 points per game.

The transition to a college classroom has come easily—"I don't mind studying"—while she's had a lot to learn in the gym.

In high school, Taulbee played forward, facing the basket and developing a steady outside shot. Hojna has her at center, with her back to the basket. She had not played center since ninth grade.

"She's a strong rebounder and an excellent shooter," Hojna said. "She's learning the position well. She has to learn to turn and post up and score right away."

Clarkston graduate Michelle Taulbee decided to go to Oakland Community College to play basketball this season. Eventually, she'll make her career in art.

Taulbee tries to gain position under the boards against Henry Ford Community College last Saturday. She is OCC's second-leading rebouncer. The Lady Raiders fell to Henry Ford in the final seconds, 66-65.

Ski teams win opener over DCD

The good news is that both Clarkson ski teams won their first meet of the season Monday, but the bad news is that coach Don Balzarini didn't think much of the performance.

The boys team nipped Detroit Country Day, 17-19, while the girls downed Country Day, 15-21.

"We didn't do that well at all," he said. "We'll just keep on repeating some things and try to perfect them."

Gunnar Karlstrom and Mike Foyteck took the top two spots in the dual meet for Clarkson. Karlstrom had a time of 38.58 and Foyteck traveled the course in 38.99.

Matt Ritter (47.05) was sixth for the Wolves and Alex Yarber (51.53) was eighth.

The girls raced to four of the top six spots in their competition.

Laura Howse was second at 44.12 and Serena Brown was right behind her at 44.87. Suzie Learmont finished fourth with a 48.22 time and Tammy Spaven was sixth at 53.92.

While the scores favored Clarkson, Balzarini cited too many falls and disqualifications as the reason for his reaction to the meet.

Brown waits for opportunity

While Oakland University was having its best soccer season ever, Derek Brown had to bide his time watching from the sidelines.

Brown, a 1986 Clarkston grad, worked hard to make the OU team as a walk-on this year, but it had to be frustrating spending most of the season on the bench.

"From talking to the other guys, most freshman, unless they're excellent, sit on the bench a lot and get used to the program," said Brown. "Then you get more playing time the next year and it goes up and up."

Brown watched and learned as the Pioneers advanced all the way to the Division II finals. They lost the championship game in early December, 4-1 to Seattle in Washington. The Pioneers were not accustomed to playing on artificial turf, which is Seattle's home surface.

"We're a dirt team," Brown said. "When it's wet and muddy, we do our best. (In Seattle) it had rained the day before and it was wet and cold and the turf turns into ice."

"We were sliding around the place and it was extremely hard to control the ball."

Brown played three years of varsity soccer for the Wolves and has played defense his entire career. He was one of many walk-ons who tried to crack Oakland's lineup.

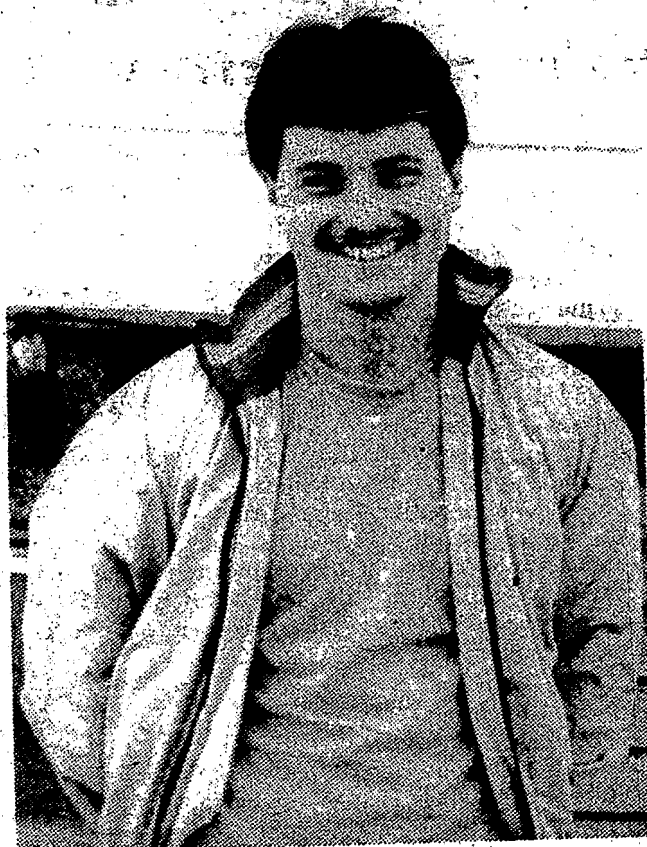

"I really like sports a lot," he said. "I thought if I make it, I make it and if not, I gave it a good shot."

Some of the walk-ons must not have realized how hard coach Gary Parsons would work them.

"Most of them just didn't stick it out," said Brown. "Most of them quit because of all the running and stuff. We had to run two miles in under 12 minutes and that was on the first day. That got to most of them."

Brown did stick it out and managed to get into a few games.

"Gary never put any of us in unless we blew a team away and we're not a high-scoring team," he said.

Derek Brown made the Oakland University soccer team as a walk-on this fall. The Pioneers had their best season ever, going to the Division II finals.

But he learned from Parsons and is looking forward to next season, although he hopes to eventually transfer to Michigan State University.

"He's an excellent coach. I learned at least 100 times what I learned in high school," Brown said.

For those cross-country skiers beyond the lesson stage, the "Springfield Oaks Challenge" is Jan. 17 at the Springfield Oaks Golf Course.

Experienced skiers begin the competitive race at 10 a.m., while novices begin at 1 p.m. Skiers will be classified by age in each competition.

The top three finishers in each age category will receive plaques for their accomplishments, and all individuals completing the race will receive a participant award. Two $50 gift certificates from a sporting goods store will also be given away.

Skiers can register for the event an hour before the race and the fee is $5.

City of angels

Chris Gerbasi

To live and die in L.A. . . .

Having never been to Los Angeles before last week, I went there with certain preconceived notions about what to expect, based on what some people had told me and from Johnny Carson monologues. Here are a few of the stereotypical ideas:

1. Los Angeles sports fans are laid back and are not always supportive of their teams, particularly the L.A. Kings hockey team.

The Kings have never been a hockey power and it's always been assumed that it's because the players would rather think about lying on the beach than skating on the ice.

The same has been said about their fans. It's hard to imagine thousands of people watching a hockey game while wearing shorts and T-shirts.

But at the game I went to, against the Philadelphia Flyers, the Fabulous Forum was packed with the largest crowd of the season. All the fans sitting around me were very vocal and very knowledgeable about the Kings.

And the Kings didn't let them down, winning 4-1. The crowd responded as if their team had just won a playoff game. Actually, it was only the second time in 19 years the Kings had beaten the Flyers at the Forum. Like I said, the Kings have never been a power.

2. Everybody drives like a maniac on the freeways and the traffic is unbearable.

I avoided the freeways for the most part and the rush hours entirely. Of course, I wasn't awake to go anywhere during the morning rush hour anyway.

But I didn't see any drivers that should be committed and the traffic wasn't that bad. In fact, most cars were going below the speed limit.

Even late at night on New Year's Eve, I didn't see so much as a swerving car. I was told that Los Angeles cops are some of the strictest in cracking down on drunk driving and that should be applauded.

3. California is filled with bizarre-looking people in worlds all their own.

Maybe I wasn't looking hard enough, but I didn't see one purple hair or one spiked bracelet while I was there, not even on the Sunset Strip.

I saw a couple of bag ladies, but that was about it. The appearances of the people were tame compared to Ann Arbor. I thought, "This is the city of daring trends?" Maybe all the freaks were out of town for the holidays.

4. The Los Angeles area is crawling with celebrities.

Maybe they were all out of town, too. I saw veteran television actor Harry Morgan at a Universal Studios snack shop. He was wearing faded blue jeans, a denim shirt and sneakers. He bought a foot-long hot dog and walked away. Nothing against Harry, but I was not starstruck.

5. Los Angeles has some of the finest dining spots in the country, particularly the famed "Restaurant Row" in Beverly Hills.

Lawry's Restaurant, on "Restaurant Row," served up the prime rib-eating contest between Michigan and Arizona State football players. I would've loved to been in that contest, but I didn't make it to Lawry's.

Carson always makes jokes about the Sizzler Steak House and Bob's Big Boy franchises. They're everywhere, so that's where I ate. My brother felt sick at the Sizzler and at Bob's, I found a tiny inchworm in my fries. Carson's got the right idea.

6. California is the land of milk and honey, beaches, palm trees, sunny, warm weather and pretty girls.

This one's true. But I'd have traded it all for a Michigan victory.

Taulbee

"We were counting on her to step right in and be a starter for us."

With things going so well for her, it would be hard to imagine Taulbee walking away from sports cold turkey. And she won't. In the future she has her sights set on a bike racing career, a new sport for her and one which excites her.

"Dr. (Daniel) Bielak talked to me about it," she said. "And Dean McCarrick, he's a triathlete and he's going to help me along."

"This summer, me and my brother would just go and go and go and race cars. It's fun. It's something different."

And it's another challenge. But first she'll run some laps and hope there are no more one-point losses ahead.

Adventures of a car parking valet

Kevin Daniels is in charge of the team at the Deer Lake Racquet Club

By Pat Young

If you're going for a game of tennis or a dip in the pool, don't expect to have your car parked for you.

But if you're attending a special event at the Deer Lake Racquet Club near Clarkston, you may be greeted by a team of polite and polished young men—valet parkers hired for the occasion.

"Any time we have a few hundred people, we use valet parking," says Susan Brownell, banquet director at Deer Lake Racquet Club.

According to Brownell, valet parking is used at least six times a year, with three or four students working at each event.

"Of course, we screen the students," she says. "They must have a valid driver's license. In the two years I've been here, we've never had a problem."

"In fact, it always amazes me that they stay until the last person leaves, sometimes as late as two in the morning," she continues. "They're very good. They do a good job."

For the last couple of years, Kevin Daniels has been her "head valet parker." A Clarkston High School graduate, the 19-year-old has been in charge of getting together a team of students for each event, usually high school seniors or recent graduates.

"Mostly you get people you know to help," Daniels says. "That way you know they're responsible. And they have to be able to drive a stick shift."

Daniels started the valet parking job, in fact, because a friend asked him to help. That friend has gone off to college, so now Kevin is the "head man."

The students make approximately 50 cents per car, Daniels says, but receive tips on top of that. Sometimes the club hires them, and sometimes the people who are having the event request them.

"We're here to satisfy the customers and keep things orderly," Daniels says. "People appreciate it when they can just get out at the door and not walk up the hill in the snow."

The valet parkers greet them at the club entrance, give them a "check ticket" for their cars, open the doors for them and then park the cars. When guests leave, they simply give the tickets to the valet parkers, who retrieve the cars.

"We prefer to do all the parking, to keep things organized in the parking lot," Daniels says, "but sometimes people who are regulars at the club want to park their own cars."

Daniels says it's a good job. "People are usually real nice. Plus, you get to be with your friends, and really only work a couple of hours at the beginning and at the end of an event."

But while they're working, they're running.

"We're really too busy to pay much attention to what's in the car because we're running back and forth parking them," he says, "but sometimes you see wigs laying there, especially in ladies' cars, or mobile phones. We see some drugs, too."

They also see a few people who celebrate a little too much.

"Usually the bartender takes care of it, but if people drink too much, we try to suggest that the other person drive home," he says.

"Once a guy came out really drunk and couldn't find his car. He said we parked it and got really mad. We got really worried," Daniels says. "But it turned out he parked it himself in the street because it was too crowded in the lot."

Another man insisted on parking his own car, but he parked it on a hill and didn't put the emergency brake on. Daniels says it took three guys to keep it from backing into another car while the man ran back to remedy the situation.

They've parked Rolls Royces and Ferraris, which they are extremely careful with and park up close where they can keep an eye on them.

"Once there was a wedding with many Arabians attending," he says. "That's when there were Rolls Royces, mostly white ones."

At times like that, they receive tips as large as $20, but usually the tips are more like $2, and sometimes non-existent.

They wear nice dress clothes, and sometimes it's cold standing out in the winter. They even suggested uniforms to the club management.

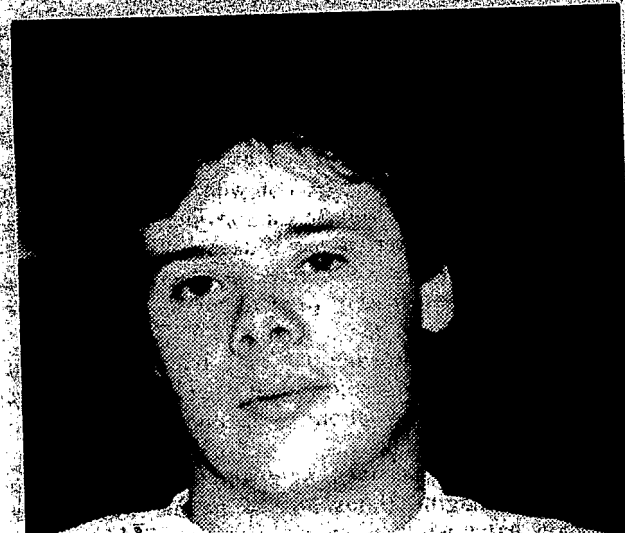

"It would make us more visible," he said.

He recently added his girlfriend to the valet crew.

"I think the ladies appreciate seeing a woman helping," he explains.

Daniels takes the job seriously, and feels it is a job that demands responsibility. It also gives the valet parkers some interesting stories to tell.

"One time there was a car in the pond next to the club," Daniels says. "We don't know how it got there, but thank heavens we didn't park it."

Kevin Daniels, 19, heads up a valet parking crew used for special events at the Deer Lake Racquet Club on White Lake Road in Independence Township.

Yet another new business opens on Dixie

Anyone who doubts that Dixie Highway is a prime location for a business has not taken a drive recently.

Numerous new businesses, relocations and expansions have moved into the area and given the highway a new look seemingly every day.

Kurtis Kitchen & Bath Centers is the latest addition to the Clarkston stretch of Dixie.

Kurtis Kitchen & Bath Centers general manager Bob O'Brien stands before some of what the store has to offer. The company opened a new location on Dixie Highway last month.

The owners of Kurtis opened their sixth store last month, taking over a building which had been a Robert Hall store. The building was vacant for about a year.

"It took a long time to find the right kind of building that suits our needs," said general manager Bob O'Brien, who added that the owners looked for about one year before they settled on the new location.

"We couldn't have built a better store from the ground up," said O'Brien. "We couldn't have built it any differently."

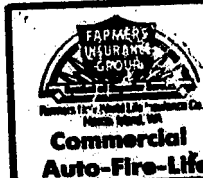

The five other Kurtis stores are in Livonia, Lincoln Park, Warren, Detroit and Ann Arbor. A move to a northern metropolitan suburb was a logical choice.

"It's simple, really," O'Brien said. "Two hundred thousand cars a day travel on Dixie. We're only 10 minutes away from Pontiac and the outlying areas. This fills our needs."

O'Brien also said that a wider base makes it easier to deliver the product. Kurtis is the largest company of its type in the state.

He said business has been booming despite the holidays, which is not a typical time for people to redo a kitchen or bath. And O'Brien wouldn't be surprised if a competitor popped up in the area in the near future.

"It's like McDonald's," he said. "They build a McDonald's and then there's a Burger King and a Hardee's. They figure where McDonald's goes, it must be good. I don't mind, though. I can tell I'm doing good."

• Psychic makes predictions for '87

By Julie Campe

Although she can predict certain future events, free will can alter them, said psychic Shirley Lynch.

"It's easy to predict, but people don't realize you have opportunities to make changes," she said. "All I'm doing is showing both sides of the coin. They can have either the frown or the smile."

The Independence Township resident is a "psychic," a person who can see the future if events maintain a certain course, she said.

"I consider myself as more of the practical psychic," she said, adding she helps people with many

"It's easy to predict, but people don't realize you have opportunities to make changes. All I'm doing is showing both sides of the coin. They can have either the frown or the smile."

types of problems, allowing them to make changes in their lives.

Some of her predictions for 1986 did not come true, she said, attributing it to a change in course or direction.

All she does is look at one avenue; many avenues are open, she said.

Some of her predictions for 1986 and the near future did come true: that Independence Township would experience a large building boom, interest rates would continue to drop and stay in the one-digit rates and Gov. James Blanchard would be re-elected.

Shirley sees the future in many ways, she said. Sometimes, she sees it in her head and sometimes she feels it, she said, mentioning intuition.

"People are using the word 'intuitive' now instead of 'psychic,'" she said. "People in the academic field use 'intuitive' or 'creative' (to make sound more credible), but it's the same thing. People are afraid of it. . . . Everyone has the ability; they're just not conscious of it. It should be used to help enrich your life."

"Now average people are getting interested because they really want to change their lives."

In addition to predicting the future, Shirley interprets dreams, gives private readings, and performs as a medium and intuitive counselor.

"I look beyond what people are doing and saying," she said.

She also has her own cable television show, "Shirley's World," which is now shown in other areas

"I consider myself as more of the practical psychic."

besides Independence Township.

Shirley made some predictions about the Independence Township area for 1987 and the near future:

- If the Village of Clarkston wants on-street parking on Main Street, M-15 will have to be widened to three lanes from Dixie Highway to Waldon Road. If not, the traffic light to be installed at M-15 and Waldon could be the location of some serious accidents. The widening would lessen the backup of traffic into town because cars would be able to enter and exit more easily.

- Two more businesses are to go out of business in the village. The Clarkston Mills Mall will try very hard to attract other businesses; one will last six months—a business that has something to do with lacey things.

- Businesses that stay in town through March will prosper; their business will increase.

- There's going to be a lot of building—including shopping centers—on Sashabaw Road, and they're going to do very well.

- The township will continue to boom as far as building goes.

- Three new businesses will be coming to the area: manufacturing, personal service and clinical. The clinical business will not be in the M-15 area. All will create several jobs.

- The criminal and accidental death rate will go up in Independence Township in 1987 and 1988. There will be an increase in robberies, so police will really be earning their money.

- The year is going to start the groundwork for subdivisions hiring their own police patrols. In cooperation with the police, they will work very efficiently and Independence will be one of the safest townships in the area.

- As a result of the General Motors layoffs, a lot of people will be moving—to a warmer climate or to further their education. GM will hire back 55 percent of the people in this area.

- One of the beautiful homes on Main Street will have a fire. It can be repaired; it's not destroyed.

- The Clarkston school system will get in better shape. One of the administrators, Superintendent Milford Mason, will consider retiring. When he retires, it isn't going to be for ease, it's going to be for another position—a business offer.

- Something nice will be added to the swimming and park area on Deer Lake.

Shirley Lynch uses her psychic powers to see the future. The Independence Township resident has a cable television show, "Shirley's World," that is shown in several area communities.

'They are just beautiful'

Clarkston's lights now shine in Lewiston

By Kathy Greenfield

Next Christmas, Clarkston nostalgia buffs should plan a visit to Lewiston.

The small town in the northeastern portion of Michigan's lower peninsula is the home of Clarkston's former holiday decorations.

Nine of the decorations were refurbished and hung from Lewiston light poles this year and three more are expected to be ready for next year, said Mary Alsobrooks, past president of the Lewiston Chamber of Commerce.

"They are just beautiful. I'm so pleased," she said. "For a little town like we are to have something like this is just great. We are very, very proud of them."

The decoration transfer came following a conversation over dinner in September with Lew and Diane Wint, Clarkston residents who own a cottage in Lewiston.

Lew Wint is a member of the Clarkston Rotary Club and he was one of the men who selected the new decorations purchased in 1986 by Rotary for Clarkston.

When he asked if members of the Lewiston community would be interested in the old decorations, the idea was met with excitement.

In the following two months, Clarkston Rotary agreed, the Lewiston Chamber of Commerce agreed and the Presque Isle Co-op Electric Co. dropped lines from the lights and helped hang the decorations.

Lewiston people had been "forever talking about Christmas decorations," but at $200 to $300 apiece, "we could never afford new ones as a small town," Alsobrooks said.

The resort town, located between Alpena and Gaylord, has 1,500 to 2,000 registered voters and 9,000 to 10,000 cabins and cottages, she said.

The shining Christmas lights proved to be an incentive for more decorations.

"This year, because of the outside lights, there's probably four or five businesses that put outside lights up—even our township hall did," she said.

Glen Alsobrooks, first vice president of the Lewiston Chamber of Commerce, helps hang the decorations in their new home.

And even though no payment for the light pole decorations was asked, the Lewiston Lions and Lionesses club got together and raised $500 to donate to the Clarkston Rotary Club for its generosity.

The lights look wonderful in Lewiston, Wint said. "They just did a great job. They really look nice. They refurbished them and rebuilt them."

He also talked about his motive.

"It's when you're not in Clarkston, wherever you are you want to decorate it, too, just like Clarkston," he said.

Players present Pulitzer winner

The Clarkston Village Players' rendition of "The Effect of Gamma Rays on Man-in-the-Moon Marigolds" opens Friday, Jan. 16, for a three-weekend run at the Depot Theatre.

The Pulitzer Prize winning play is the story of an embittered, vindictive widow and her two teenage daughters. The story climaxes in the timeless lesson that something beautiful and full of promise can emerge from the most barren, afflicted soil.

Curtain time is 8 p.m. for the performances on Fridays and Saturdays, Jan. 16, 17, 23, 24, 30 and 31. Tickets are $5. They may be purchased at Tierra Arts on Main Street, Clarkston, or seats may be reserved by calling 363-0188 after 5 p.m.

The theater is at 4681 White Lake Rd. in Independence Township.

Dependents will need Social Security number

Under the newly reformed federal tax code, any dependent claimed on a tax return must have a Social Security number.

The IRS will use the Social Security number to verify proper withholding claimed on W-4 forms. The federal government has adopted this policy as part of its effort to crack down on tax cheats.

In the past, some taxpayers have received illegal double deductions by claiming dependent children more than once.

Similarly, in cases of divorce, both parents have claimed their children on tax returns. In this situation, only the parent with legal custody of a child may claim that child as a dependent.

Taxpayers may be fined $500 if they file a W-4 form that results in less tax being withheld than is properly allowable. In addition, criminal penalties may apply for willfully supplying false or fraudulent information requiring an increase in withholding.

An advantage to a child having a Social Security number is that he can open a savings account in his own name. Then when the child receives money, the interest earned will not be taxed at the parent's highest rate, as it would if the child's account was in the parent's name.

To get a Social Security number for a child or other dependent, you need an application from the Social Security office. You will also need to provide evidence of age, identity and United States citizenship.

The following qualify as evidence of age and citizenship: public birth certificate (this is the preferred document); religious record showing age or date of birth, or hospital record of birth.

The following qualify as evidence of identity: record of membership in Boy Scouts, etc.; school record or report card; doctor or hospital record; day care or nursery school record; school ID; adoption record; vaccination certificate; church membership record.

Requirements for citizens born outside the U.S. and aliens differ.

For more information regarding obtaining a Social Security number, contact the Social Security office in Pontiac at 858-2523.

For more information regarding federal tax reform and you, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to: MTIC, 540 Capitol Hall, 115 W. Allegan St., Lansing, MI 48933.

The above report was provided by the Michigan Tax Information Council, a non-partisan, non-profit research and information organization.

Resolve to eat healthful foods

Betty Wagner

Year after year, many of us decide to lose weight as one of our New Year's resolutions.

This year, why not make it a lasting resolution to amend our dietary habits and adopt a healthy and nutritious eating plan that we can live with and not feel deprived.

Several health-related organizations recommend similar guidelines that include:

1. Limiting fat intake (including saturated as well as unsaturated) to 30 percent of total daily calories.
2. Choosing half of our total daily calories from complex carbohydrates (legumes*, nuts, pasta, seeds and vegetables).
3. Selecting low fat milk products.
4. Selecting fiber-rich foods (unpeeled fruits, whole grains and vegetables).
5. Limiting meat servings to 6 ounces a day for most adults and choosing low fat meats.

The microwave oven can greatly assist us in our quest for a healthy and nutritious food plan. Fat is not needed for sauteing and cooking. Textures remain firm and natural flavors remain intact. The moist cooking from microwaving eliminates the need for sauces.

(*Legumes are any plants that have seeds that grow in pods. They are a good source of iron and become a complete protein when combined with grains. They contain no fat or cholesterol.)

SIMMERED BEANS AND ARTICHOKE

6 servings

- 3 cups water
- 1 cup bulgur or cracked wheat
- 1 package (9 ounces) frozen artichoke hearts
- 1/2 cup coarsely chopped onion

- 1/2 cup coarsely chopped green pepper
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1 tablespoon olive oil
- 1 can (16 ounces) Great Northern beans, rinsed and drained
- 1 can (14 1/2 ounces) stewed tomatoes
- 1/2 cup white wine
- 1 tablespoon packed brown sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon dried oregano leaves
- 1/8 teaspoon dried marjoram leaves
- 1 medium potato, cut in half lengthwise and sliced 1/4 inch thick

Place water in a 4 cup measure. Microwave at high 5 1/2 to 7 1/2 minutes or until water boils. Place bulgur in medium mixing bowl. Add boiling water. Cover and let stand 30 minutes to soften. Drain and press out excess moisture. Set aside.

In 2 quart casserole, combine artichoke hearts, onion, green pepper, garlic and olive oil. Cover. Microwave at high 6 to 9 minutes or until onion is tender-crisp, stirring once.

Stir in remaining ingredients except bulgur and potato. Re-cover. Microwave at high 5 to 8 minutes or until bubbly around edges.

Stir in potato. Re-cover. Microwave at high 15 to 25 minutes longer or until potato is tender, stirring twice. Serve over bulgur, if desired.

SPAGHETTI WITH MUSHROOM SAUCE

4 servings

- 8 ounces uncooked whole wheat spaghetti
- 1 can (14 1/2 ounces) whole tomatoes
- 12 ounces fresh mushrooms, thinly sliced
- 1 can (6 ounces) tomato paste

- 1/4 cup grated carrot
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
- 2 tablespoons red wine
- 1 tablespoon olive oil
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon Italian seasoning
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup Parmesan cheese

Prepare spaghetti as directed on package. Rinse with warm water. Drain. Set aside.

In a 2 quart casserole, combine all ingredients except spaghetti and Parmesan cheese. Cover. Microwave at high 10 to 17 minutes or until mushrooms are tender and flavors are blended, stirring every 5 minutes.

Place spaghetti on platter. Pour sauce over spaghetti. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese.

How to dress for warmth

Tired of freezing to death during the coldest months of the year?

The following tips on dressing for cold weather were provided by the Michigan State Cooperative Extension Service of Oakland County.

Clothing for winter should provide insulation for warmth, breathe well so vapor from perspiration escapes into outside air and be non-binding to allow free blood circulation.

Natural fibers and man-made rayons provide good absorption. Fabrics constructed of loosely twisted yarns are absorbent and thick (not heavy), and they prevent air and moisture loss from the body.

Dark shades of any colored fabric absorb radiant heat. Winter clothes are warmer if they're clean, since dirt clogs open spaces and decreases insulation, absorbency and breathability.

For outerwear, fabrics should be wind and water-proof. Keep the head covered, since about 90 percent of body heat escapes from this area. Keep hands covered; mittens are warmer than gloves.

Use heavier legwear such as opaque hose, thick socks, shoes and boots with thick linings and heels that keep feet from direct contact with snow and ice.

If you later decide you've donned too many layers, peel them off—one at a time—before you get too warm.

Ninety percent of the insulating value of clothing is lost as the clothing gets wet due to excessive perspiration.

Does alcohol do any damage to the brain?

Dear Cat Paw:

My friends and I have been talking about alcohol and what it does to the brain. Is it really true that alcohol does damage to the brain and makes you dumb?

Not Stupid Yet

Dear Not Stupid Yet:

It has been known for some time that long-term alcoholism affects brain function. Researchers are now finding evidence that such long-term alcohol use actually seems to age the brain prematurely.

Dear Cat Paw:

Does smoking really cause a sickness? I'm hearing a lot of things but no one ever really tells you what happens if you do smoke.

Smoker

Dear Smoker:

You must be a new reader. I have repeatedly specified smoking-related illnesses. Smoking is known to cause bronchitis, pneumonia, cancer and many more related illnesses.

A recent study shows that smoking even less than a pack of cigarettes a day can increase the chances of getting Alzheimer's disease by one and one-half times. Those who smoke more than a pack a day are four times as likely to develop the disease.

If you want more information on smoking, contact the American Lung Association, and read on.

Dear Cat Paw:

What's with all these people who are getting just a little upset about people smoking around them? Why can't they put up with a little annoyance? Smoke gets in your eyes and makes them red, and that's all.

Fed Up

Dear Fed Up:

To most non-smokers, it isn't simply a matter of annoyance anymore. Research is showing the harmful impact of passive smoking.

Physicians and scientists say: "We can say today, with greater certainty than ever before, that cigarettes are the most important individual health risk in this country."

Studies have concluded that passive smoking might be responsible for as many as 5,000 lung cancer deaths in the United States each year.

Tobacco smoke definitely affects the eyes and irritates the nasal passages. It has been proven to cause coughing and headaches.

It also irritates sufferers of hay fever, allergy, asthma and other chronic respiratory diseases and reduces lung function and resistance to infection.

There is no longer any doubt that passive smokers are subjected to significant health risks that will increase with the frequency of exposure to tobacco smoke.

Cat Paw author Jeanette Sanders, a Springfield Township resident, is a state certified drug abuse counselor and a member of the Clarkson Area Chemical People.

Alan Chenoweth Jr. [at right] of Waterford Township says he enjoys fishing during all seasons. His father, Alan Chenoweth Sr. of Independence Township agrees, describing his son as "born with a fishing pole in his hand." The Chenoweth and Stephens families were fishing together Saturday on Cranberry Lake. The sunshine and mild temperatures made the day perfect for the sport.

Fish tales

There's nothing boring about being in the middle of Cranberry Lake on a Saturday afternoon with a bunch of people fishing. He isn't fishing himself, but young Eric Stephens of Auburn Hills takes time to create perfect snow angels on the ice, to make tracks in the fresh snow and to admire the perch and bluegill captured by his uncle Alan Chenoweth Sr.

There's no doubt Amie Harrington of Independence Township is proud of her 1-pound perch from Cranberry Lake, deemed the biggest catch of her group—she just doesn't want to hold it. Providing encouragement is her stepfather, Dan DeQuis of Independence Township.
