Commission drops to 5

By Julie Campe

Five members instead of seven will comprise the Independence Township planning commission, said Supervisor Frank Ronk.

The decision to reduce the number of members followed the Jan. 6 meeting, when the township board members and Ronk did not agree on two of the three commission appointments recommended by Ronk.

Following a heated discussion, in a 6-1 vote, the board approved a motion appointing Richard Oppmann to the planning commission and preventing other appointments unless Holly Stephens is among the recommendations.

After the meeting, Ronk said he does not plan to recommend the appointment of Stephens, and the board will operate with five members. Three will be the quorum.

Two weeks ago, at the Dec. 23 meeting, the matter was tabled by the five township board members present to allow the consideration of all seven board members.

Ronk had recommended appointing Oppmann, manager of Powertrain Systems in the product planning department of General Motors Corp. Pontiac Division; Kenneth Winship, owner of Photography by Winship on Sashabaw Road; and Timothy Palulian, director of Brandon Township Planning and Building Department and former director of the Independence Township Planning and Building Department.

Ronk did not recommend the reappointment of planning commission chairperson Neil Wallace or vice chairperson Stephens, who had asked for reappointment with the recommendation of the other planning commission members.

Foreman named

A foreman was appointed Jan. 12 for the Clarkston Department of Public Works to help DPW Director Gar Wilson.

Wilson, also assistant chief fire marshal for Independence Township, has assumed extra responsibilities since Fire Chief Dale Bailey is ill, he said.

"That's part of my job," said Wilson. "When he's not here, I run it."

Bailey has missed 10 work days and is out indefinitely, said Wilson.

Rick Carpenter is to be paid $25 a week in addition to his hourly wage to supervise the DPW operation.

The Clarkston Village Council members voted unanimously to create the position.

Board sponsors trip to Paris

By Kathy Greenfield

Less than a year after declaring that foreign travel by student groups would not be sponsored by the school district, the Clarkston board of education has reversed its position.

In a 6-0 vote on Jan. 12, the board agreed to sponsor a student trip in April to Paris led by Carol Arend, a French teacher at Clarkston High School.

At the board meeting on Feb. 10, 1986, Superintendent Milford Mason made the announcement that the district would not sponsor foreign travel by student groups. He cited terrorist activities and possible liability for the district as the reasons.

The request for the district's sponsorship of the trip to France came from Arend and CHS Principal Dr. Robert Burek.

Burek listed three reasons for the request: the recent lag in terrorist activities; recent action by the State Legislature that provides immunity from liability for school districts sponsoring foreign trips; and his opinion that without district sponsorship trips by student groups would "fall by the wayside."

"This whole terrorist thing has really been blown out of proportion. It's really more dangerous on I-75."

—John Needham

Participants would be encouraged to purchase insurance that would guarantee refunds if the trip was canceled by the district due to increased terrorist activities, Burek said.

The motion to approve sponsorship of the trip was made by board member Mary Jane Chaustowich. "I feel very strongly these experiences are good for the students and I would not like to see them stop," Chaustowich said.

"I certainly endorse it, too. My two older daughters have gone on overseas trips," said board member John Needham. "This whole terrorist thing

Ideas pour forth at Mill Pond dam hearing

By Julie Campe

The Mill Pond Association plans to meet Jan. 15 to discuss purchasing the broken Mill Pond cofferdam and the water rights.

The meeting for the association, comprised of Mill Pond property owners, was scheduled after the Clarkston Village Council conducted a public hearing Jan. 12 to help decide the fate of the dam on Washington Street.

About 40 people attended the hearing. In one and a half hours of discussion, the suggestions ranged from draining the pond and building tennis courts to using timbers to block water so the dam can be fixed.

Council President Sharron Catallo began the meeting by saying nobody knows what's wrong with the dam, and they're not sure who owns the property beneath the pond.

Trustee William Basinger said an engineering study to find out what's wrong would cost about $6,000. The Oakland County Drain Commission said a new dam would cost about $90,000, he said.

He added that since the issue is one of the health, safety and welfare of the community, cost should not be a factor in the decision.

Harold Goyette, a village resident and former council member, said because of liability problems, the village didn't accept ownership of the dam several years ago when it was in top condition.

"Why would we want it now?" he asked.

Ted Thomson, a village zoning board of appeals member, said, "I think we should just let it sit. It isn't doing any harm, but how much legal power does (the owner) have to drain the pond?"

John Steckling, village attorney, said DNR approval would be necessary to drain the pond.

Suggesting they drain the pond, village resident Bud Campbell said, "Let's return it to (its natural state), and let people have tennis courts back there."

Hank Radcliff, president of the Mill Pond Association, said safety is a problem.

"I have permission to lower water in an emergency," he said. "In six years, I've used the key about 15 times."

Radcliff also suggested the Mill Pond Association take over ownership and responsibility and ownership of the dam and pond.

"This is an opportunity for the village residents to work together with the village," he said. "If we work together, we could put this thing to bed for once."

The association would have to meet and discuss the matter, he said, adding he was not speaking for the group but that control should rest with the property owners.

"I have a real fear of turning control over to government—no offense," he said.

The village council should continue with the lawsuit, he added, referring to the lawsuit against the dam owner, Lehman Investments, seeking dam repairs.

"I think if you take your foot off the gas pedal now, they'll stall," said Radcliff.

Susan Basinger, a village resident and former council member, said, "I'd hate to see the right to use the Mill Pond decided to the owners so we can't use it."

Virginia Walter, a village resident, said the village should take over the pond and dam.

"I do think it's an asset to the whole community and shouldn't be the entire responsibility of the property owners to take care of it," she said.

Jack Byers, of Middle Lake Road, said the people downstream should have some voice in the water control.

John Stuetzer, a member of the village planning commission, explained what he knew about the dam construction.

The valve is built like a simple steam valve, according to former dam owner Bud Hawke, he said. Regardless of what's wrong, a backyard mechanic could probably fix it, he said.

"It's crude," he said. "It's built with the stuff you can find in a backyard shop. As long as it's a valve problem and not some integral part, I don't think the cost will be too great."

Hawke last worked on the dam around 1968, said Stuetzer. To get to the valve, he used tightly fitting timbers to block off the water. They put them in the water and jumped up and down to force them through, he said.

When the water was blocked, the dam could be

Change in smoking law creates no problems

Local officials say existing practices comply with new rules

By Julie Campe

The new state law banning smoking except in designated areas won't affect area government workings much, according to local government officials.

The law bans smoking in enclosed areas in local or state government owned or operated agencies and privately owned or operated places serving the public.

The law, effective Jan. 1, applies to offices, sports arenas, education facilities, meeting rooms, health care facilities and auditoriums and other areas.

"I believe that it's appropriate," said Milford Mason, superintendent of Clarkston Community Schools.

It enforces the previous law, he said, noting the difference between the laws: Now, designated smoking areas are used instead of designated non-smoking areas.

He received the rules in December, he said, and the new signs should be in place by February.

"I don't think people will protest, particularly," said Mason. "We've already taken the position that students will not smoke. It's going to be a matter of how to deal with people who attend adult ed. and people who come to basketball games."

"One wonders if the next law will promulgate what kind of meals we'll eat . . . because people's eating habits don't exactly help, either," he said.

"It won't really affect us," said Independence Township Supervisor Frank Ronk, adding smoking isn't allowed now except in one lounge room.

"We've never had any complaints," he said. "The only problem may be with the person off the street. . . . I don't expect that to affect our operation."

Clarkston Village Council President Sharron Catallo said the law probably wouldn't affect the village.

No smoking is allowed in the meeting room, she said.

"I haven't really thought about (the law)," she said. "I guess we'll just wait until we get the rules."

"I think it will affect the township very, very little," said Collin Walls, Springfield Township supervisor.

"I'm still smoking up a storm," he said, laughing. "The people we have that smoke are already located in a very isolated area. . . . It just worked out that way."

They've never allowed smoking in public meetings in the 10 years he's been supervisor, he said.

Clarkston Postmaster William O. Kinsley II said the law probably doesn't apply to the post office or other federally owned and operated buildings.

Places covered by act

The Michigan Clean Indoor Air Act applies to enclosed indoor areas. It affects all public places, meeting places and workplaces that are owned or operated by state or local governmental agencies, as well as some indoor privately owned or operated buildings.

Those government agencies affected are: offices, educational facilities, health facilities, auditoriums, arenas, meeting rooms, and public conveyances (such as trains and busses).

Those private agencies affected by the law are: educational facilities, auditoriums, arenas, theaters, museums, concert halls and any other facility during the period of its use for a performance or exhibit of the arts.

Places exempted

There will still be work places left to smoke. Areas not covered by the new act are: most private sector workplaces, bars, a private, enclosed room or office that is occupied exclusively by a smoker, even if the room or office is visited by a nonsmoker, federal buildings and employees, private functions such as weddings.

Springfield home construction up 250 percent

By Pat Young

New home construction in Springfield Township more than doubled in 1986, according to Supervisor Collin Walls.

Approximately 100 building permits were issued in 1986, compared to around 40 in 1985.

"It's gone from what we've seen in the early '80s, when subdivisions were sitting vacant, to sold out now," Walls said. "One subdivision, started in 1980 was completed this year and is about 70 percent full. All this was unheard of several years ago."

Walls said Springfield Township will be looking at proposals for new subdivisions in the near future, and adds, "that hasn't happened since 1979 or '80."

While new business construction isn't booming the way housing is, Walls said it is steady at about two to four new businesses constructed each year.

"We anticipate this to change in the future," he added.

"It's gone from what we've seen in the early '80s, when subdivisions were sitting vacant, to sold out now."

—Supervisor Collin Walls

Looking to 1987, Walls said, "I don't have a crystal ball, but I would assume interest rates will stay down and stable. Therefore, housing construction will be very similar, maybe slightly more."

But he doesn't expect it to double again. Even with the housing boom in 1986, he said it doesn't compare to the big boom they had in the late '70s, just before everything slowed down.

"The size and price range of new homes gets larger, too," Walls said. "I would estimate that 80 percent of new homes being built exceed the minimum requirements. Many are over 2,000 square feet and priced accordingly."

He said this is one reason he feels the proposed new zoning map for Springfield Township is important.

"I think the thing of major significance for 1986 and '87 is our new zoning map. It's probably the most significant thing we've done here in years," he said.

"The proposed new zoning much more closely reflects the attitudes of the people in the community, the kind of building going on and the ability of the land to support the development."

Changes in the zoning map include larger parcels of land in some residential areas and standardized minimum square footage for all new housing: 1,000 square feet for one-story homes; 1,250 for bi- and tri-level homes, and 1,500 for two-story homes.

Girl Scout lawsuit heads to court

The trial date for the Michigan Metro Girl Scout Council vs. Springfield Township Board is set for Feb. 23 before Judge James Thorburn in Oakland County Circuit Court.

The action follows months of negotiations toward a consent judgment, with no final agreement reached between the two sides.

The suit was originally filed in February 1986 by the scouts following a denial of a residential rezoning request. The land was formerly operated as a seasonal camp.

The scouts requested that 188 acres be rezoned from recreational to R3 residential. R3 lots are 20,000 square feet with 1,200-square-foot houses. The township agreed to change the zoning to R1, which is 57,600-square-foot lots with 1,500-square-foot homes.

Originally, the suit also named Supervisor Collin Walls, Treasurer Patricia Kramer and Trustee William Whitley, who voted against the scout request. But in an amended complaint, the individual names have been dropped from the suit against the Springfield Township Board.

Following the board's decision in September to remain firm on its proposal for a consent judgment, Walls said the scout request "did not fit existing development patterns."

He said the board denied the request because of the "physical restraints on the land which made it a great recreational area but not as desirable for residential."

On Dec. 10, the board again voted unanimously to stand by its proposal, and the trial date was set at a hearing Jan. 5.

Township attorney Gregory Need, from the lawfirm of Booth, Patterson, Lee, Karlstrom and Steckling, will defend the case for Springfield Township.

Need for sizeable commission

Michael J. Who?

Kathy Greenfield

My brother, his wife and their infant son pay passing tribute to the world of television by owning one tiny mediocre black-and-white model.

When they say they almost never watch TV, they mean it.

Instead, when they were home for the holidays, the Wisconsin residents but Michigan natives brought photographs of their hobbies.

My brother, a computer program designer, makes furniture. His latest achievement is a magnificent wooden couch frame that folds into a bed frame.

My sister-in-law is an artist. She rarely sends a greeting card purchased in a store. Every child in the family owns at least one piece of her artwork and her creations hang in all of our homes.

During their visit, my brother indulged in the every-parent pastime of wondering what his newborn son would grow up to be. He made the mistake of asking me.

The answer was so easy.

"He's going to be just like Michael J. Fox," said I.

An I-don't-get-it look flashed across my brother's face. Then he revealed that he does, at least, go to the movies.

"Do you mean the actor in 'Back to the Future'?" he asked.

That's when I had to explain about Alex Keaton, the TV character played by Michael J. Fox in "Family Ties."

"Your son will be a banker. He'll be constantly concerned about money, and he'll always dress in suits and ties," I said.

My brother, who has studied philosophy extensively, has sometimes reacted to the way my mind works with a flip, "That isn't logical."

He didn't react that way this time, though. He just laughed.

I wonder if I made him curious enough to take the time to dial up "Family Ties" on the old black-and-white TV. Probably not.

I also wonder what it would be like to not know as much as I do about TV characters. I get the feeling that it might be good.

In a surprising move, Independence Township Supervisor Frank Ronk has decided a five-member planning commission is desirable.

The action has us worried.

The planning commission, which by law can have five to nine members, is the body that meets with developers and, in most cases, has final approval of all plans for the construction of residential and business buildings.

With the amount of building activity facing Independence Township, it would make more sense to us if Ronk was considering expanding the commission to nine members rather than letting it fall to five from its most recent size of seven.

With five members, three planning commissioners would make a quorum and, therefore, have the power to approve or deny construction that could change the face of our community.

With more people on the commission, decisions would require an agreement between more people and discussions would include more opinions, a factor we consider essential to sound decision making.

If the commission members are carefully chosen, which is the supervisor's responsibility, they will represent all geographic areas of the township as well as a variety of professions.

Ronk's statement that the commission would now have five members followed the township board's decision to approve only one of the three people he recommended for appointment to the commission.

We believe it's time to swallow the bitterness that can come from such a rejection and to make an effort to provide a planning commission of adequate size.

Jim's Jottings

Jim Sherman

I'm sure the amount of money and the number of things stolen without a gun, as opposed to with a gun, are overwhelming.

I'm equally sure that the more brazen the thief, the more successful the thief.

My son-in-law, Bob Offer, intercepted a rather brazen thief last week.

Bob is a CPA with Automation Services Equipment (ASE) in Warren. The company's computers and printers are in his area of responsibility.

As he entered his building shortly after 7 a.m. one morning last week, he met a man carrying out a very recently purchased computer printer.

The conversation went something like this:

Bob: "Where are you going with that printer?"

Thief: "I'm taking it to have it fixed."

Bob: "That's news to me."

Thief: "Check with that guy in there."

Bob: "Set the printer down, and let's go in and see about this."

With that the thief sat the printer down, Bob turned to go inside, and when he turned back the thief was running out the door.

The work day at ASE starts at 7 a.m. The parking lot was nearly full when the man in a station wagon pulled up. He went into the office where several people were working, and picked up the printer.

No one questioned him. No one really paid any attention to him.

Had Bob not been late for work, ASE would have been out one printer.

The police asked the son-in-law if he could describe the thief. You can be sure the man will never be caught based on Bob's description: "He was a tall, black man with dark curly hair."

I ran across this set of rules for the home recently that could well be made into law if some home-makers set their legislators to it.

If you sleep in it, make it up.

If you wear it, hang it up.

If you drop it, pick it up.

If you eat out of it, put it in the sink.

If you step in it, wipe it off.

If you open it, close it.

If you empty it, fill it up.

If it rings, answer it.

If it howls, feed it.

If it cries, love it.

'If it Fitz . . .'

Can Lee be trusted?

Jim Fitzgerald

During a short holiday vacation, I listened carefully to what the citizens of this great nation were talking about. While I listened, President Reagan went under the knife, a train wreck killed 15, and a hotel fire killed 96.

But most people were talking about the impending divorce of Lee and Peggy Iacocca.

The American people are yearning for a president they can trust. When Lee Iacocca saved Chrysler and began striding purposefully through TV commercials, many citizens began to believe he was the man they could trust to lead this nation out of debt and into a world where the service manager doesn't blame all car defects on "the factory" and the factory didn't shut down last month, laying off 4,000 workers.

But then Iacocca strode purposefully into divorce court 8 1/2 months after the wedding, and warranty-conscious consumers began to have doubts about a man who agreed to become the second husband of a woman whose first marriage lasted three months.

It was reminded of how the world reacted when it was revealed that Ann Landers' husband wanted a divorce. Should the general public take advice on how to make a marriage last forever from a woman who couldn't do it? AND IT ISN'T only marital advice Ann Landers also advises us on other important societal issues, such as how to hang toilet paper. That's an important point. Just because Ann Landers couldn't keep her husband, does that necessarily mean she doesn't know whether toilet paper should be hung with the loose end flapping on the top or the bottom of the roll?

Just because Lee Iacocca filed for divorce on his way home from the wedding, does that mean he gives bum advice on which car we should buy?

After all, on TV, Iacocca strides purposefully in car factories and showrooms. He doesn't stride purposefully down a church aisle followed by the maid of honor and the best man. He tells us to buy a better car if we can find it, not propose marriage to a woman with a longer warranty if we can find her.

It isn't fair to doubt Iacocca's car sense - of his White House qualifications - only because he was done with his 1986 wife before most of the 1987 models were on the road. To reject a car salesman on the basis of his marital history rather than his product makes as much sense as hanging toilet paper sideways because Ann Landers' husband left her.

Obviously, the Iacocca divorce shouldn't damage his ability to sell cars or run for president. So if the divorce is of no great industrial or political importance to the average citizen, why is everyone talking about it? Are we simply a nation of nosy gossips who love to cluck-cluck whenever it is proved that the high and mighty have fragile feet that cause them to limp the same way Joe Slob limps?

NO, I THINK it's something deeper than that. According to published reports, the Iacocca split began when they couldn't agree on an interior designer for a house they bought but sold before moving in. Many marriages suffer similar trauma, including mine.

For Christmas I received a stunning photograph of the Detroit riverfront. It is more than five feet wide and about two feet high. I want to hang it in our living room at eye level so everyone can easily see that our apartment building is included in the panoramic scene.

My wife wants to hang the picture on the dining room wall, eight neck-cracking feet up, over her useless collection of plates that no one ever eats off of because the food would slide on the floor, not to mention the eaters.

It is a dispute not yet settled and until it is, don't bother me with news of hotel fires or the president's operations. When you listen to this nation talk, you realize the couple that interior designs together, stays together - at least until their warranty runs out.

What do you think of the new state law banning smoking except in designated areas?

"Being that I'm a smoker, I'm not for it. I feel I am a taxpayer and the salaries that are paid to these government officials, I'm paying. If they only want to charge non-smoking people taxes, (fine). I believe in the designated areas for smoking, but in some buildings, there's no smoking at all."

Planning commission drops to 5

Gray, did not seek reappointment.

As township supervisor, Ronk recommends appointments to the planning commission, and the township board has the final say.

At the Jan. 6 meeting, Ronk cast the lone "no" vote on the motion to appoint Oppmann to replace Gray and to include Stephens in future recommendations.

At the beginning of the meeting, another motion was made, followed by about one hour of discussion marked by shouting and an order to clear the room.

A motion by Trustee Dale Stuart, which was later defeated, was made before discussion began. Stuart moved to appoint Oppmann in Gray's place and to prevent the board from acting on any other planning commission appointments until Wallace and Stephens were recommended for appointments by the supervisor.

The experience of the two long-time members is valuable, said Stuart.

"I think that both Wallace and Stephens are important for continuity," he said. "The board needs to consider who we're losing when we lose these people."

Ronk objected, saying the township planner, Richard Carlisle, has enough experience to guide the planning commission, and no two members are irreplaceable.

"Continuity on the planning commission could be a serious problem," said Vandermark. "The supervisor is obviously leading the township in a different direction regarding planning and development."

Ronk defended his recommendations by saying, "We're headed in the same direction with different players."

Treasurer John Lutz said he also favored reappointing Wallace and Stephens, adding, "I would just hate to have a commission who may be swayed by developers."

Several of the board members voiced support for Oppmann, including Clerk Richard Holman.

Commenting on the motion, he said, "It's out of order for a board to dictate to the supervisor who his appointments should be."

Trustee Daniel Travis began his comments by directing a statement to Wallace.

"I cannot in good conscience support you, Neil," Travis said. "I think you know why."

"No, I don't," said Wallace.

Describing Wallace as having a "fairly violent temper," Travis said, "I served on the planning commission. I've been at a number of meetings at which you (Wallace) have chaired. You do not represent the township in a light I would like."

Ronk opened the public discussion by saying each speaker was limited to two minutes.

"The supervisor is obviously leading the township in a different direction regarding planning and development."

—Trustee William Vandermark

"We're heading in the same direction with different players."

—Supervisor Frank Ronk

Six people from the about 20-member audience spoke in favor of Wallace and Stephens.

"I was disappointed that two of the most loyal and dependable people have not been recommended for reappointment," said Claudia Brazel, an Independence Township resident and former reporter for The Reminder.

"I feel Neil Wallace and Holly Stephens have been crucial in keeping Independence a slow and gradual development," she said. "I don't want these two off the board. I know that Neil can't be bought. Maybe he does lose his temper, but some of the developers should be put in their proper place."

"I sat through almost every planning commission meeting the last two years," said Carolyn Walker, an Independence Township resident and former reporter for The Clarkston News.

Wallace should be reappointed, she said. "He's able to think on his feet, and he's a man of his convictions," she said. "He wasn't bullied or swayed by people who may not have had Clarkston at heart."

Gray, who served on the planning commission 10 years, mentioned the importance of consistent thought.

"I didn't always agree with the way Neil operated the meetings, but if you take a look at the things that have happened under Neil's leadership, (he's accomplished a lot)," said Gray. "Holly, too. Holly brings to the township experience as a teacher involved with the environment. She has been a credit to the township."

"Oppmann would be a valuable member of the planning commission," he added.

Michael Clark, a Clarkston resident, was the last member of the audience to speak.

"I think this is the most atrocious act ever taken by any supervisor in the history of the township," he said, referring to the Ronk's recommendation of appointing Winship to the planning commission.

He continued with harsh criticism about the recommendation.

Clark exceeded his time limit, and refused to stop talking.

A shouting match followed; Ronk ordered the room to be cleared; Clark and others refused to leave.

The havoc continued another minute until Ronk asked board members if they wanted to give Clark special permission to talk more than the allotted two minutes.

"All those in favor say, 'Aye,'" said Ronk, and after no one responded, he told Clark to sit down.

The board acted on the first motion regarding the appointments. Before the vote, Stuart said, "This is not meant to wrestle power from the supervisor. This board has approval or disapproval of the recommendations. The issue is continuity."

Stuart's motion to approve Oppman's appointment and require the reappointments of Wallace and Stephens was defeated in a 3-4 vote. Voting "yes" were Lutz, Stuart and Vandermark. Voting "no" were Ronk, Holman and trustees Carol Balzarini and Travis.

Although Wallace was not reappointed, and the motion to include his name in future appointments was defeated, he said he was "very satisfied with the outcome" when contacted after the meeting.

"I'm satisfied that the (planning commission), with one exception, will have the vigilance to protect the community," he said. "The key in all of this is the direction of the development in the community."

Friendly faces

Smiles are her laundromat additive

By Julie Campe

A person can see strength and gentleness in Lee Innis' eyes.

Her eyes smile with the rest of her face as she greets customers at the E Z Duz It Laundromat on Dixie Highway, Independence Township.

She's a manager at the business; she helps customers and works on the drop-off laundry and dry cleaning.

She seems to be a thoughtful, happy person, and her conversation supports the image.

"I think happiness comes from inside," she said, during work on a busy Thursday.

She mentioned the things that make her happy: planting zinnias and petunias around her Independence Township home; singing soprano in her church choir; crocheting and knitting; visiting her 84-year-old father and spending time with her family—her husband, Bill, and children, Cheryl, Gail, Margaret and Bill.

Her family and friends appreciate her attitude.

"She's the type of person that can't help but brighten one's day," said her son Bill. "She always greets customers with a friendly smile and a cheerful hello. A person can even find Mom to be there as a listening ear or a friendly conversationalist."

"She's a very energetic lady," said Nancy Davidson, who stopped by to give Lee an Avon catalog. "She's always busy, and she always has

It's no effort for Lee Innis to smile during work. The smile just comes, said the Waldon time for everything. She works hard."

Road resident. Lee enjoys her managerial work at the E Z Duz It Laundromat, she said.

Lee shared some philosophy on life.

"I just think you should make the world a better place to live," she said. "I think that's our reason for living—to leave a better impression on the world than when you found it."

"I enjoy working with people," she added. "I like people. You find the majority of people are good. Sometimes you have to look for the good points."

"I like working here because we have a lot of great customers. And since the kids have grown up, it gives me a chance to meet people."

Spikers fall in semis at tournament

Against a tough field of teams, Clarkston advanced to the semifinals before bowing in a volleyball tournament at Walled Lake Central last Saturday.

Walled Lake Western knocked the Wolves out, 15-10, 15-9, in the semis and Clarkston now has an 8-3 record for the season.

Missy Odell had 23 kill spikes on the day and coach Nancy McCarrick also credited Odell's blocking with keeping the team in matches.

Maggie Gdula slammed 20 kill spikes and junior Ali Fedio had a solid day, with 14 kills.

Earlier in the week, the Wolves won twice at home, beating Rochester Adams, 15-5, 15-6, and Brighton, 15-6, 8-15, 15-7. Juniors Jane Selent and Tara Carncross sat out those matches with ankle injuries.

After starting the season going 2-2 at the Rochester Kiwanis Classic, McCarrick moved Odell to the outside position.

"At the tournament, we didn't have a force on the outside," said McCarrick. "She hit a lot of balls tonight."

Clarkston's junior varsity began its 1987 season by defeating Adams, 15-7, 15-9. The Wolves were only temporarily undefeated, though, as they lost to Brighton, 15-7, 15-11.

Clarkston's Kelly Laldig attempts to block a Brighton tip during volleyball action last Tuesday. The Wolves defeated Brighton, 15-6, 8-15, 15-7, and are 8-3 this season.

Wolves' ski teams race to two more victories

Laura Howse navigates the course at Pine Knob in competition against Kingswood last week. Howse finished fourth for Clarkston with a time of 45.14.

The winning ways continued for Clarkston's ski teams and they did it in a more convincing manner, according to coach Don Balzarini.

The Wolves stumbled a little in winning their first meet of the season against Detroit Country Day Jan. 5, but were on track in two victories this past week.

The boys defeated Rochester Monday, 12-26, after beating Cranbrook, 13-32, Jan. 7.

The girls team also improved to 3-0 by outskiing Rochester, 15-23, and Kingswood, 10-39.

"They skied much better than in the first meet," said Balzarini. "Cranbrook has a pretty decent team and they probably didn't ski as well as they could, but both teams did much better."

Against Rochester, Rob Brown raced to the top spot in a time of 37.61 for two runs and Gunnar Karlstrom was second at 41.26.

Todd and Jeff Roeser were fourth and fifth for Clarkston with times of 42.55 and 42.71, respectively. Alex Yarber was eighth at 44.66.

Brown was also first against Cranbrook with a 32.77 time. Jeff Roeser was third (37.42), Jeff John fourth (38.61) and Rob Laurie fifth (38.64).

Shelly Purdy had the best finishes for the girls team, winning over Kingswood (40.95) and skiing to second against the Falcons (47.41).

Laura Howse was third against Rochester (49.47), followed by Serena Brown (49.69), Tina Sheppard in sixth (50.76) and Tammy Spaven in eighth (52.78).

The girls took the top five spots against Kingswood. After Purdy, Brown was second at 44.55, followed by Sheppard (45.10), Howse (45.14) and Jackie Jablonski (46.91).

Clarkston club off to fast start

For just the first meet of the season, the Clarkston Wrestling Club put on quite a show last Sunday.

The club came home from the Van Dyke Freestyle Invitational in Hazel Park with 17 medals.

Coach Brent Michelsen took 30 wrestlers to the event, ages 5-15. Eight teams accounted for about 200 wrestlers present.

Six Clarkston grapplers finished first.

In the age 8-and-under novice division, Arron Grant was first at 40 pounds and Jeremy White was first at 70 pounds. Ehren Drescher (55 pounds) and Elvis Jones (60) were third in their classes.

Jason Simpson was second at 65 pounds in the 9-10 novice group and Steve Carpenter was second at 90 pounds for 11-12 novices.

In advanced 8-and-under divisions, 50-pound Jason Tiefenback was first, and Dennis Bush (55) and Kevin Barnes (65) were both third.

In advanced 9- to 10-year-olds, Corey Grant (65) and Armin Michelsen (70) won their classes, Chad Grandlund (55) was second and Eric Endreszl (75) and Jeremy Keiser (90) were third.

Jeff DeRoseau won the 70-pound class for advanced 11- and 12-year-olds and Brett Walter was second at 60 pounds.

Ruben DeLosRios was third in the 13-14 advanced division for 112-pounders.

The club's next tournament is Sunday at Lamphere High School in Madison Heights. Clarkston will be sponsoring its own meet Feb. 15 at Sashabaw Junior High School. For information, call David Endreszl at 394-0587.

Crystal clear

Week in review

Chris Gerbasi

Having only seen Clarkston's first basketball game of the season, a 64-46 loss to Redford Catholic Central, I didn't know I was in for such a shock last Friday night.

The Wolves destroyed Pontiac Northern in the "Home of Husky Pride", 77-52. The last time the two teams had met, Clarkston needed three overtimes to dispose of Northern, 77-73 behind Ed Whitaker's 28 points.

Whitaker was there last Friday, too, with a deep tan from either a vacation in a warm climate or a few weeks in a tanning booth.

But Whitaker was there as a spectator. He wasn't needed on the court and overtime wasn't necessary, either. Three quarters were barely necessary, let alone three overtimes.

After the contest, Fife and his players did the basking, soaking in a much-needed, and surprising, victory.

What a difference between the two games. This was not the same Clarkston team that needed a road map to find the basket and let CC players drive to the hoop at will.

In the personnel department, coach Dan Fife has inserted juniors Mike Barnes and Jeff Tungate into the starting lineup at guard and has experienced seniors such as Keith Mercier, Steve Secatch and Jeff Billig coming in off the bench.

All five came through with big baskets in the first-half scorching of Northern, much to the delight of the Wolves' fans.

In the attitude department, the Wolves managed to get into the win column against Howell over the holidays and then got a boost from a fine performance against Detroit Country Day last week.

Clarkston was a different team against the Huskies. The word "intensity" has taken the place of "confidence" in sports jargon in recent years. Whatever you want to call it, Clarkston had it last Friday.

Excuse Gordie Richardson this week if you notice him looking in the mirror twice or possibly wearing a name tag. He may be suffering through an identity crisis.

A couple weeks ago, I compared his voice to that of former Detroit sportscaster Eli Zaret. Richardson didn't like the comparison, but he forgave me.

This past weekend, he was identified as Gordon Preston in an area newspaper. He assured me he hasn't changed his name. That name again, R-i-c-h-a-r-d-s-o-n.

Name-dropping dept.: One of the last people I'd expect to see at a high school volleyball match would be former Supreme Diana Ross. And I didn't.

But I did see former Tiger outfielder Mickey Stanley at last week's match between Clarkston and Brighton.

The simple explanation was that his daughter, Pam, plays volleyball, as well as softball and basketball, for Brighton.

She was wearing dad's old number, 24, and both of them were also deeply tanned. They must have gone to Florida, because I didn't get any tan in California.

I experienced a first last week when somebody asked me to be in a picture instead of the other way around.

Junior varsity cheerleading coach Gayle Conwell asked me to pose with her squad after I had taken pictures of them.

My hair was a mess and I should've asked one of them for a brush. Now I realize why people say, "You wanna take my picture like this?" whenever I show up unexpectedly with a camera.

But more than appearance went into the junior varsity and varsity's trip to the cheerleading national championships in Tennessee last month.

Kudos to both teams for their hard work this year on picture-perfect mounts, cheers and dances.

The only thing I have to say about skiing this week is that it's too darn cold at the Knob watching the Clarkston skiers.

I had never seen a high school competition before, so I was expecting some Ingemar Stenmark moves on the slopes.

Of course high school skiers don't move that fast, but I would think they'd have plenty of incentive to get their runs over with as quickly as possible and go inside to someplace warm.

Ski party set

School's out for the day on Friday, Jan. 23, and now there's something special for junior and senior high school students to do.

The First Annual Ski Day, sponsored by Clarkston Area Youth Assistance, is planned from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Pine Knob Ski Resort.

The event features reduced rates of $5 for tow tickets and $5 for ski rentals—and free refreshments.

Tickets must be purchased in advance. They will be for sale at Clarkston and Sashabaw junior highs and Clarkston High School on Monday and Tuesday, Jan. 19 and 20.

Panel set up to choose football coach

A four-member committee has been established to hire a new football coach at Clarkston High School.

Athletic director Paul Tungate, CHS principal Dr. Robert Burek and administrators Conrad Bruce and Bill Neff will jointly review applications.

Applications are being accepted up to Feb. 13 for the position vacated by Walt Wyniemko, who resigned in early December after eight seasons.

Tungate said that in addition to the Clarkston school system, he has notified all the school districts in Oakland County about the opening.

He has also contacted the football coaching staffs at the University of Michigan, Michigan State and Eastern and Central Michigan universities to make people aware of the position.

Tungate said the committee hopes to arrive at a decision on a new coach by March 5.

Pond dam possibilities abound

repaired, he said.
 The timbers were burned when the Clarkston Mills Mall was remodeled, said Steckling. The cost for 30 specially cut timbers would be about $750, he said.
 Trustee Frank Millard noted that the village doesn't own the dam and can't repair something on private property.
 Lehman attorney Jon Gaskell said the owners were still working on the dam and are still willing to give the dam to the village.
 The council took no action. Catallo's closing statement was met with applause.
 "This is a mill village. What would we be without a village mill pond?" she said.
 In September, the council filed a lawsuit against Lehman Investments, the Michigan Department of Natural Resources and the Oakland County Drain Commission, seeking repairs of the overflow structure on Main Street and the dam.
 Lehman also owns the Clarkston Mills Mall on Washington Street, across from the dam.

"This is an opportunity for village residents to work together. If we work together, we could put this thing to bed for once."

Hank Radcliff

A Jan. 28 hearing date is set before Judge Alice Gilbert in Oakland County Circuit Court.
 The dam and pond history reaches back to the late 1930s and early 1940s when Henry Ford purchased the property and water rights to run a hydroelectric plant and had the dam rebuilt.
 Since that time, the dam and water rights have transferred to each owner of the property, now the Clarkston Mills Mall.

Sewer bills up $5

An extra $5 will be on the sewer bills for Independence Township residents this year, said Treasurer John Lutz.
 The sewer usage rate was increased from $35 to $40, effective Jan. 1.
 "The cost of electricity, wages, pumping—all the general costs have gone up," said George Anderson, director of the township's department of public works.
 The rates haven't been raised in three or four years, he said, and the extra money should cover the higher costs.

Fewer birds

Although pre-Christmas area temperatures were warmer this year, the Oakland Audubon Society found fewer birds during its annual count. There were, however, more kinds of birds.
 Dec. 20 marked the Society's 29th annual Christmas bird count. The count was taken in a 15-mile diameter circle which was centered at Lapeer and Indianwood Roads in Lake Orion.
 According to Ellie Cox, Society member, those participating in the count sighted 16,640 birds from 70 species. Last year, the Society counted 18,009 birds from 68 species.
 No red-headed woodpeckers were counted for the first time in 13 years, Cox said. In addition, there were no snow buntings, she said, adding that the species has been absent from the count only three times in the past 13 years.
 Species whose numbers had decreased included the cardinal, tree sparrow and junco.
 But other birds found the area to be a good place to reside. The house finches numbers have increased to 136 this year, up from 21 last year. According to Cox, the birds come from the eastern part of the United States.
 Increases were also found in the ring-billed gull, mourning dove, great horned owl and pine siskin.

Kindergarten poll for Sept. '87

A survey of September 1987 kindergartners is under way by the Clarkston Community Education Department.
 The goal is to determine how many Clarkston school district pupils will be enrolling in kindergarten and how many kindergartners will need Latchkey care at the elementary school for the half day they are not attending kindergarten.
 The information will be used to determine if there are sufficient needs for kindergarten Latchkey programs in each elementary school building.

 If you have a child or know of a child who will be starting kindergarten in a Clarkston school this fall, call the elementary school office during the day, Clarkston Learning Center at 674-3141 or Tina at 625-0906 between 5 and 9 p.m. Mondays and Wednesdays.
 The information is requested by Jan. 30.

Board consents to Paris trip

[PARIS, continued from Page 1] has really been blown out of proportion. It's really more dangerous on I-75.

The sponsorship does not provide financial support but does allow meetings and fund-raisers to be conducted in school buildings and the use of school accounts to hold deposits until they are sent to the travel agency.

Discussion included that the district's formal sponsorship of foreign travel is a first, to the best of anyone's knowledge.

"It has been this board's or district's policy in the past not to make it a school sponsored trip for any trip outside the country," said board President Janet Thomas.

In the future, the board will consider each trip individually for sponsorship purposes.

Restaurant owners aid Palazzola

When Steve Gabriel and Mike Asim heard that Tony Palazzola needed money for a chance to walk again, they wanted to do something.

So they decided to put their restaurant, The Nickelodean, 10081 Ortonville Rd., Independence Township, to work.

In the month of February, $1 from every pizza sold will go to help Tony walk, said Gabriel.

Tony lost the use of his legs in a plane crash last March that also killed Clarkston High School Principal John Kirchgessner.

Tony plans to attend a rehabilitation center in Las Vegas in March.

"I've known the Palazzolas for quite a while—ever since we've been at the restaurant," said

Gabriel, adding he's owned it for five years. "When the accident did happen, there was not much we could do at that time," he said.

When they heard Tony needed money to pay for therapy, they wanted to help.

"We were going to write the check out and say, 'Here it is,' but we wanted to make the community aware of it," said Gabriel. "It's not coming out of their pocket, really."

"This way, it actually benefits both parties. It helps Tony and it helps us. We're not going to get rich over it, but it could help Tony tremendously," he said.

"People that know Tony are going to say, 'OK, let's do it.'"

"I would like to see the man walk again."

TO THE RESCUE!

Firefighter helps reporter make cold water splash debut

By Pat Young

I stepped gingerly onto the thin ice, and watched with heart-thumping attention as the frozen pond quickly fractured underfoot.

What was I doing here, I thought, too late to retreat.

The ice gave way, and I found myself bobbing like a cork in Clarkston's Mill Pond on a balmy, 20-degree day in January. The ducks watched with curiosity from the shoreline, where they had retreated shortly after this whole adventure began.

The Clarkston News SECTION 2

I was getting a very first-hand lesson in ice rescue, as demonstrated by a well-trained team of Independence Township firefighters.

With every winter comes thin ice, which in turn spawns acts of heroism. Brave individuals risk their lives venturing out on the bad ice to rescue people or pets who have fallen through.

But there is help available.

"We want people to realize there's someone to call," said firefighter Steve Ronk.

Fahrner (in water) instructs Young on the proper technique for "rolling out" of the water. The exercise is part of regular training for rescue missions on thin ice.

Oxford's winter fest begins Jan. 23

With the general theme of promoting "traditional and unique winter leisure time activities," Oxford Township Parks and Recreation is ready for another winter festival.

According to parks and recreation Director Mark Brochu, the seventh annual festivities will begin Jan. 23 and end Sunday, Jan. 25.

Activities planned are an ice fishing derby, July in January dinner-dance, softball, euchre, bowling and volleyball tournaments, ice skating party, fun walk and library program.

The festival opens with the "July in January" dance Jan. 23 at 8 p.m. at the Veterans Memorial Center. There will be a deejay, food and beverages. Preferred attire is beach or picnic dress, or casual. Tickets are $10. Participants must be 21 or older.

At 9 a.m. Saturday, Jan. 24, the softball and volleyball tournaments begin. The softball is of the double-elimination variety, while volleyball is round robin or double elimination, depending on the number of entries.

The deadline for team registration is Friday, Jan. 16. Softball registration is $55 a team and $7 a game; volleyball is $50 a team. Games will be played at the Seymour Lake Township Park.

At 1 p.m., the middle school ice skating party begins at the park, along with the Oxford Library skating program, and the euchre tournament is at Collier Lanes. Team fee for the euchre tourney is $10.

At 2 p.m., a fun walk will begin at the storage bin in the park.

Sunday is the doubles bowling tournament. The pins will fly from 2 to 5 p.m. at Collier Lanes. There is a $15 team fee.

The ice fishing derby is open to anybody who catches a fish in any lake in Oxford, Addison and Orion townships. The fishing can begin Jan. 18. Registration is at Hank's Better Bait on North Washington Street, Oxford.

For more information on any of the events, call the Oxford Parks and Recreation Department at 628-9787.

Reporter takes the big plunge

Several years ago, the Independence Township firefighters arrived on the scene just after a local resident's pet perished in a frozen lake.

"We decided there had to be a better way (to handle ice rescue)," said Ronk.

A call to the United States Coast Guard resulted in an intensive training course in Toledo, Ohio, and the purchase of three Stearns Cold Water Rescuesuits at approximately $280 each. That's certainly a reasonable price to pay for a piece of equipment capable of saving lives.

There is a suit in each Independence Township station. Nearly every fire department in northern Oakland County has since purchased the same equipment, Ronk said.

The one-piece suit is made of a sophisticated, closed-cell foam. Rescue teams can "zip up" in less than a minute.

"The whole suit is like a life preserver," said firefighter Mike Fahrner. The wearer does not get wet and does not feel any adverse effect from the cold water temperature.

"You're totally safe," Mike reassured me.

That's easy for you to say, I thought, as I fought to right my body in the water. Mike was right beside me, attempting to show me how to get back out of the water. But frankly, I hadn't mastered the "in" part yet.

The "one size fits all" rescue suit fit his frame a lot better than it did mine. I felt like a cross between a giant, orange Gumby and the Pillsbury Doughboy whose suit got stretched in the wash.

While Mike had complete control, my body preferred to float helplessly on the surface. (I firmly believe it would be virtually impossible to drown in one of these suits.)

We finally "rolled out" onto the ice, and I thought my adventure was over. But the two firefighters on shore—Bob Cesario, who held the all-important lifelines attached to our belts, and Ronk, who in this case was manning my camera but normally would be in charge of more serious business—threw the "dummy" into the water for us to "rescue."

So, it was back onto the thin ice, and back into the icy water.

Unfortunately for Mike, I was of little assistance in the "rescue." The dummy weighed almost as much as I do. Every time I tried to heave a water-logged dummy arm or leg onto the slippery ice, my feet rose awkwardly behind me to the surface.

My ridiculous predicament may have created more of a chore for Mike, and certainly had to cause amusement for the firefighters on shore or the interested passers-by on Miller road, but it had an immensely sobering affect on me.

This was only a weight-filled dummy, floating cooperatively on the surface, not a hysterical human or pet fighting every effort.

Mike's cool, trained response, illustrative of all the Independence Township firefighters trained in ice rescue, was as if this were the real thing.

So far, Independence Township firefighters have put the suits to task on two or three occasions, in each case to rescue pets.

"But now, we're not risking the lives of our men," said Ronk.

Independence Township residents who witness an emergency on the ice should call the emergency number immediately, 625-3311.

For Springfield Township residents, the emergency number is 634-8611. (If you live in another township, check the directory for the emergency number and keep it posted in a handy place.)

But do call first. Then, Ronk said, do whatever you can to help without risking your life.

"Throw any floatation device—a tire, a life preserver. Throw a rope or push a rowboat out to the spot, but don't walk out on the thin ice," he said.

It may mean the difference between one rescue or two. They're prepared, right down to the basket stretcher that slides across the ice.

And rescue they do. I'm convinced. I don't walk out on thin ice and into icy water for just anybody!

Another chapter

Stephanie Bechtel

The new year is upon us and 1986 is just a memory.

I look back and think of what I've done, right and wrong, so I can learn from my mistakes and try to make 1987 even better.

The coming of a new year often brings mixed emotions: thoughts of anxiety, fear, sorrow and happiness.

I like to look at a brand new year as a chain of opportunities. Of course, many things from 1986 are still around, but also there are many new joys to be found.

A new year is like a book. Nothing happens until it is opened and once you begin, turning back won't change anything. You've got to keep going right 'til the end. Each page brings a new adventure.

We can look back upon 1986 and lose ourselves in memories or we can move forward with 1987 into the future to tackle all obstacles and reach for our goals.

1987 has only begun, but before you know it, it will be forced to step aside for 1988.

Another chapter in the book of life.

Stephanie Bechtel, a ninth-grader at Sashabaw Junior High School, is working with The Clarkston News this school year through the SJHS Mentorship Program.

Why does friend want coke?

Dear Cat Paw:

I have a friend who drinks a lot and uses grass too. Now this friend wants to try some cocaine. What can I do to help this friend so he won't get into any real trouble, and why does he want to try coke?

Friend

Dear Friend:

Your friend sounds like a young man who could really use some help. I'm not surprised your friend wants to try some cocaine since statistics say that almost 100 percent of all people who have tried cocaine have used marijuana.

Your friend has to see a professional. He has to find out why he is using drugs on a regular basis and why he needs them. Try the SEARCH program at Clarkston High School or look in your phone book. Good luck!

Dear Cat Paw:

What does PCP make you act like?

Curious

Dear Curious:

PCP users mimic many of the symptoms of people who have schizophrenia, a mental disorder characterized by bizarre behavior and hallucinations.

Abusers appear sleepy, slur their speech and perspire profusely. Dizziness, loss of coordination, nausea, vomiting, involuntary rolling eye movements and double vision may occur.

Respiration, blood pressure and heart rate are increased and abusers may become overly talkative.

They may salivate heavily, shiver, display watery eyes and engage in repetitive movements. Violent, abusive behavior is common as are anxiety, depression and panic.

Individuals under the influence of PCP can be most dangerous and a threat to their own lives and the lives of others. Of course, these symptoms will vary according to each individual and the amount consumed.

Dear Cat Paw:

Can you tell me exactly how much kids drink? I read that they drink a lot and want to know how much that is. Has a study ever been done on that?

Wondering

Dear Wondering:

There was a study done and it states: Kids drink until they get sick or pass out, or until there's nothing left to drink.

Dear Cat Paw:

Is it really true that student athletes use drugs or are they just picking on a couple of kids they've caught and making a big deal out of it?

Answer That One!

Dear Answer That One:

College and high school athletes face the same pressures to drink and use other drugs that their peers do.

Michigan Department of Transportation

Proposed Widening of M-15 In Oakland County

All interested citizens are advised that the Michigan Department of Transportation is proposing to widen M-15 from US-10 (Dixie Highway) north 0.5 mile to Paramus Road (Middle Lake) in Independence Township and the Village of Clarkson, Oakland County.

The proposed project calls for widening the existing two-lane road to five lanes. This widening would provide two lanes in each direction with a center left-turn lane. The proposed project also calls for the construction of curbs, gutters, and enclosed drainage.

This project would require the acquisition of approximately 10 feet of additional right-of-way on each side of M-15 throughout most of the length of the project. No residential or commercial units would be displaced.

Under Federal and State Policy, any citizens who would be affected by the proposed project may request in writing, that formal public hearing be held concerning the social, environmental, and economic effects of this proposal.

As required by Federal regulations, an Environmental Assessment has been prepared. Studies and coordination for this project demonstrate that implementing the proposed action will not have a significant impact upon the quality of the environment. Copies of the Environmental Assessment for this project may be obtained from the addresses below.

Those disagreeing with the determination set forth in the Environmental Assessment, or those requesting a public hearing are invited to furnish written comments summarizing the specific substantive and factual basis for such opposition. Please address those comments to:

Philip J. Chisholm, Public Hearings Officer, Hearings & Mitigation Section, Michigan Department of Transportation, P.O. Box 30050, Lansing, MI 48909 OR Thomas A. Fort, Jr., District Engineer, Federal Highway Administration, 315 West Allegan Street, P.O. Box 10147, Lansing, MI 48901.

Such comments, or requests for a public hearing, must be received on or before February 17, 1987.

To further assist you, information on this project or any Michigan Department of Transportation planning project may be obtained by calling (517) 373-9534.

Reduce risks of kerosene heaters

If you use a kerosene heater, the Michigan Department of Public Health offers several suggestions that can minimize the risk of fire and other dangers.

*Use only 1-K grade kerosene. Never use gasoline. Even small amounts of gasoline or other volatile fumes or solvents mixed with kerosene can increase the risk of fire. Grades other than 1-K can contain much more sulfur and will increase sulfur dioxide emissions from the heaters which can be a health threat.

*Always store kerosene in a separate container that is clearly marked. Kerosene containers are usually blue, while containers for gasoline are generally red. This will help you avoid using contaminated fuel, or the wrong fuel, by mistake.

*Some oil companies have quality control programs to minimize the chances of inadvertently pumping gasoline rather than kerosene. But, when buying fuel at the service station, take time to be absolutely sure that it is kerosene you're pumping.

*Fill the heater's tank outdoors away from combustible materials only after the heater has had time to cool down. Never refuel the heater inside your home. Do not refuel the heater if it's hot or in operation. Do not fill the fuel tank above the "full" mark because this space is needed to allow room for the fuel to expand without causing leakage when the heater is on.

*If there is a flare-up or uncontrolled flaming, do not try to carry or move the heater. This can make a fire worse. If there is a manual shut-off switch, turn the heater off immediately. If this does not extinguish the fire, leave your house immediately and call the fire department.

One additional precaution is that you install at least one smoke detector near every sleeping area, on every level of your home, and in the vicinity of where the kerosene heater is used.

Open house for volunteers-to-be

An open house is planned Thursday, Jan. 29, for persons interested in becoming volunteers at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital-Pontiac.

There are more than 40 service areas available for volunteers. The open house is scheduled from 2 to 4 p.m. in the hospital's volunteer lounge.

For more information, call the volunteer services department at 858-3035. St. Joseph's is at 900 Woodward Ave.

Leo Herman Dowdy

Leo Herman Dowdy, 40, of Waterford died Jan. 3. He was employed by the CPC Milford Proving Grounds.

Mr. Dowdy was a veteran of the Vietnam War, having served in the United States Army. He was a member of F&AM Lodge 21, Pontiac; FOE 2887, Waterford; and Loyal Order of the Moose No. 182, Pontiac.

Surviving are his wife, Elaine (Winslow) Dowdy; father, Herman C. Dowdy of Waterford; sons, Jerry and Brian, both of Clarkston; one grandchild; and sisters and brother, Mrs. Jonah (Doris) Reynolds of Illinois, Shirley Dowdy of Pontiac and Darrell of Drayton Plains. He was the son-in-law of Norman and Mary Winslow of Drayton Plains and brother-in-law of Velma Barnard of Waterford, Nancy King of Plainwell and Lee of Waterford.

The funeral service was held Jan. 9 at the Lewis E. Wint & Son Funeral Home, Independence Township, with the Rev. Edward Darnell officiating. Burial followed in Ottawa Park Cemetery, Independence Township.

Making NEWS Working with your local newspaper

Everyone likes to read about their special interest, group or team in the community newspaper. You may be planning a benefit or other social event that needs the support of your local newspaper. Perhaps you would like to express your views or respond to the views of others.

This guide will give you the basics of dealing with your local editor, so that you can "get your story out" in the fastest, simplest way. It is a guide that will answer your basic questions about how news makes it to print, how to contact your newspaper and how to present your story. We offer this guide in the interest of working together to keep the community informed.

PUBLICITY BASICS

Only one person from your organization should be in touch with the newspaper.

It is often said there are three rules of journalism: accuracy, accuracy, and accuracy. Write everything down, check the spelling of names and never trust your memory.

Get your story to the newspaper as soon as possible. Know the newspaper's deadlines. Whenever possible, let the newspaper know about an event before it takes place.

Use creativity. If you have an idea for a feature story, suggest it. Newspaper editors appreciate fresh ideas.

Never try to obtain publicity by pressure of friendship or business connections.

WHAT'S NEWS?

Editors choose their news according to the importance of an event to their communities. A fire, a crime, or an accident is important—but so is the award your club gave last week. Club elections, new projects, unusual actions, social events, milestones, athletic events.

benefits that need public support, and member participation in local, national or world events are all of interest to your community newspaper editor.

PACKAGING

Your newspaper sees a constant barrage of paper. You're already one step ahead if your news release or story is obviously local. However, remember that the typical editor must make quick decisions regarding newsworthiness. As a newspaper reader you know that your reading decisions are based first on the headline, and then on the first paragraph of the news item.

Give the most important information first. Be sure to give the "who, what, when, where and how" of the story right away. Background material should come last.

Include the name of the contact, the group, and a phone number at the top of the page for quick reference.

When submitting a story to your local newspaper, type it double-spaced on 8½-by-11-inch paper. Start about one-third of the way down the paper on the first page and leave ample margins. Number your pages. When you're done, type this symbol: # # #

WRITING

Use your simplest English. Never use fancy wording or terms that only a member of your club would understand. Watch the newspaper to learn its style. Most important, be honest, impartial, accurate and brief. Never use a quote unless it is direct and accurate, and always identify your sources.

Remember that there can be different writing styles for different parts of the newspaper. Use "I" only in letters to the editor or opinion columns. Give more description in feature stories. Keep your newswriting to the point, with the most interesting and important information first.

DEADLINES

Pre-planned events should always reach the editor's desk well before the last-minute rush. Learn your newspaper's deadlines, and keep as far ahead of them as possible. It is always best to stop by or call the newspaper office after the last issue has been published, rather than just before the presses roll. Remember that there will be times when an editor or reporter is simply too close to deadline to talk to you.

THE OPINION PAGE

When you write letters to the editor, always include your name, address, affiliation (if any), and phone number. As a matter of accountability, and to protect the newspaper from irresponsible letter writers, newspapers rarely publish a letter without this information. If you have an opinion, remember that the opinion or editorial page is considered the property of the public; it's your page, so feel free to use it. Editors appreciate receiving your views for this page.

PICTURES

Editors are always seeking good picture opportunities. If you think your story merits a photo, talk to the editor about it. If a newspaper photographer cannot make it to your event, take one yourself and include it with your story or release.

Always try for action, rather than posed pictures. If little Jane Doe, for example, has been presented an award for volunteering at the local hospital, a picture of Jane at work is much better than one of the mayor presenting her with an award. Write the outline, or description, of the photo on a separate piece of paper rather than the back of the photo, and list names left to right.

Tips to help you stop smoking

If you hope to quit smoking this year, the Michigan Department of Public Health offers a variety of suggestions to help your success.

- The department's tips include:
- *You should start your resolution by not smoking for a given period of time. For example, delay your first cigarette of the day and gradually increase the intervals of non-smoking until you feel you can quit altogether.
 - *Give your cigarettes to someone whose location varies during the day. In doing so, many cigarettes will go unsmoked because it won't be worth the effort of locating them. And, don't borrow cigarettes.
 - *Set a quota of how many cigarettes you'll allow yourself during a day. Have only that amount available and, again, don't borrow any.

- *Cultivate interests or hobbies that aren't compatible with smoking — swimming, singing in a choir, sewing or needlework painting.
 - *When you smoke, use your non-dominant hand and put the cigarette down between puffs.
 - Wrap the cigarette package so you'll have to go through an inconvenient process to get to the cigarette.
 - *Chew gum or have hard candies as a substitute.
- Remember, when you're not smoking, you've denied yourself nothing — you've given yourself a good health bonus boost.

Kick the habit

The Clarkston Ambulatory Care Center is offering a kick-the-smoking-habit program. "Freedom From Smoking in 20 Days," developed by the American Lung Association, is designed to get the smoker through the tough withdrawal period and to offer a number of methods to help avoid falling back into the habit.

The fee is $30 for sessions on five consecutive Tuesdays, Jan. 20 through Feb. 10, from 7:30 to 9 p.m. at Dr. James O'Neill's office, 5885 M-15, Independence Township.

Clarkston JV cheerleaders make top twenty

Hard work paid off for Clarkston's junior varsity cheerleading squad as it finished in the top 20 in its class at a national competition last month.

The International Open Cheerleading Championships were held in Nashville, Tenn., Dec. 28-30. The event attracted about 260 squads from across the country including Clarkston's varsity and junior varsity teams, which qualified for the nationals last summer.

Junior varsity coach Gayle Conwell called it a "highly competitive" event, which also featured some co-ed teams.

Each team did a two-minute dance and a two-minute cheer. Twenty finalists were then selected from each of four groups, junior high, junior varsity, small varsity and large varsity.

The Clarkston junior varsity's two-minute dance routine was choreographed by Gina Cox of the pom pon squad and co-captain Kyle Powell created the cheer and most of its motions.

The junior varsity team consists of co-captain Pam Conwell, Wendy Evans, Cori Hardy, Tina Johnson, Tammy Lee, Powell, Christine Serb and Tammy Smith.

Clarkston's varsity cheerleaders, under coach Jan

Fife, did not crack the top 20 in Nashville. They had qualified by placing first at the International Cheerleading Foundation camp competition last summer.

Marnie Banker, Angie Barker, Lisa Dixon, Kelly Dupree, Kara Kurz, Chandra Manuel, Audrey Peterson, Cheryl Molzon, Heather Srock and Tasha Vaara comprise the varsity team.

The junior varsity team, coached by Gayle Conwell, has eight members, Pam Conwell, Wendy Evans, Cori Hardy, Tina Johnson, Tammy Lee, Kyle Powell, Christine Serb and Tammy Smith.

120-bed care center opens in Independence

By Pat Young

A long-time goal of Frances VerLee and her sons Paul and Ronald culminated in the opening of Grovecrest Care Center of Clarkston on Dec. 30.

Within three days, the modern, 120-bed skilled nursing facility located at 4800 Clintonville Rd. in Independence Township had admitted nine patients.

"We're very, very pleased with the good response we've had," says Paul VerLee, who foresees a steady, two patient a day increase at the center.

Ground was broken for the facility on April 2 last year and it opened within two weeks of its targeted date.

Financed through low-interest Economic Development Corp. bonds issued through Independence Township, Grovecrest Care Center is co-owned by the VerLee family.

Paul, who has a master's degree in business with emphasis on hospital administration, is the center's administrator. Ronald, who is a minister in Fort Wayne, Ind., is also a co-owner.

But it was the personal experience of Frances, a nursing administrator who experienced post-hospital care firsthand following an automobile accident, that fueled the dream.

"If I ever get well enough to work again, I'd work for people . . . not for money," she said following her ordeal. She saw senior care as a segment of society that needed the same expertise of care as hospital patients.

Grovecrest also owns a 57-bed nursing home in Pontiac and two foster homes for the elderly in the Clarkston area.

The spacious new facility on Clintonville Road is a one-story brick building rambling over half of the 19-acre site.

"We feel that it is important that the structure is built on one story with no stairs," says Paul, "even though it costs much more to build it this way."

Part of the extra cost he refers to is due to the star-shaped floor plan of the center. There are four patient wings, a service wing and an administration wing, with all nursing stations and patient care facilities located in the hub of the star configuration.

"The nursing stations have total visibility of all resident areas," Paul says, "and with all the services located in the hub, there is total communication within the staff."

At the end of each patient wing is a lounge-dining room facility in addition to one main dining room. There is also an activities room, a beauty and barber shop and a chapel. Outside the main dining room is an enclosed courtyard. There are open courtyards nearby, plus nature trails behind the center.

General bath areas for each patient wing are provided with whirlpool baths and specially equipped chairs which transport the patients from bed and lower them into the bath, if necessary.

The physical therapy room is also equipped with a whirlpool bath, in addition to parallel bars and other therapy equipment.

"We will try to limit the admission process to two patients a day," Paul says. "It's an extensive process of trying to coordinate the patient's medical, nutritional, rehabilitative and social needs as well as spiritual needs."

Grovecrest Care Center specializes in care for stroke victims, closed head injuries, Alzheimer's, tracheotomies, cardiac, pulmonary and diabetic monitoring. While they take patients of all ages, the majority are elderly.

The length of stay varies from a month for someone needing post-surgical strengthening to years for a patient with degenerative problems.

"Of course, we do see terminal care patients as well," Paul says, "and we have special comforts and care to tend to that situation."

The first thing one notices when entering the new facility is the tasteful decorating in lavender and plum shades. Patient rooms have additional pastel color schemes in rose, mauve, blue and turquoise green.

"Plum and lavender generates a spiritual, peaceful emotion," explains Paul. "It's soft but cheerful."

And of the new facility his family has opened in Independence Township, he puts it simply: "This means a lot to us. This is our ministry."

VerLee sets a colorful plant in the corner of the main dining room inside the new facility. Outside the dining room is an enclosed courtyard for patients.

Natalie Mitchell plays the role of Janice Vickery, a competitor in the high school science fair.

Beatrice Hunsdorfer, played by Joyce Bragan, argues on the telephone while her decrepit boarder, played by Marty Johnson, sits silently at the kitchen table.

'Marigolds' opens at Depot

The story of frowzy, acid-tongued Beatrice Hunsdorfer in "The Effect of Gamma Rays on Man-in-the-Moon Marigolds" opens Friday at the Clarkston Village Players' Depot Theatre.

The drama was originally produced off-Broadway in the spring of 1970. It won the New York Drama Critics Award as the best American play of the season and, the following year, the Pulitzer Prize for drama.

The Village Players' version, under the direction of Mike Kaul, runs Fridays and Saturdays, Jan. 16, 17, 23, 24, 30 and 31. Curtain time is 8 p.m. at the theater, 4681 White Lake Rd., Independence Township.

The five cast members include Joyce Bragan as Beatrice Hunsdorfer, Genie Fuller as her daughter Tillie, Helen Naum as her daughter Ruth, Mary Johnson as the decrepit boarder Nanny and Natalie Mitchell as Janice Vickery, another competitor in the high school science fair.

The play climaxes in the timeless lesson that something beautiful and full of promise can emerge from the most barren, afflicted soil.

Tickets are $5. They can be reserved by calling 363-0188 after 5 p.m. or purchased directly at Tierra Arts on Main Street, Clarkston.

Genie Fuller is Matilda, the shy daughter who has a gift for science. She conducts a gamma ray experiment with marigolds for her high school science fair.

Helen Naum fills the role of Ruth, the high-strung daughter.
