Call to residents for school views

By Kathy Greenfield

Phones will ring Wednesday, Jan. 28, in the homes of some 400 Clarkston school district residents who will be asked, among other things, to share their opinions about a new high school.

About 30 questions are included in the Community Attitude Survey planned from 5 to 8 p.m., said George White, survey chairperson and principal of Pine Knob Elementary School.

Volunteers, primarily parents, will make the telephone calls to residents selected at random.

A similar surveying method was used in 1983 to gauge the opinions of residents about the school district.

"I'm excited about this because we found the last time citizens like giving their opinions about the schools," said White.

Survey participants will have the opportunity to give the district a letter grade and offer suggestions for improvements.

In the previous survey, "70 or 71 percent grades were A or B, which was significantly higher than the survey figures (nationwide)," said White. "It made us feel good."

One goal for the survey is to find out if attitudes have changed.

"In the meantime, we've had the multipurpose rooms added and begun modifying the curriculum, so a lot of things have happened in four years," White said.

In addition, those surveyed will be asked if they would vote for additional taxes to build a new high school and to provide funds for repairs and renovations to existing school buildings.

White said 20,000 to 23,000 people reside in the Clarkston school district.

The goal of calling 400 residents was made because the number "is representative of a 95 percent confidence level, which is the highest level you can get without calling everyone," he said. "Statistically, it has that confidence level."

Celebrate!

Statehood tribute Monday

Bells will ring and lights will shine on Monday.

The township plans to participate in the state's 150th birthday celebration, said Independence Township Supervisor Frank Ronk.

In tribute to the occasion, the Michigan Sesquicentennial Committee has requested that all church or school bells be rung throughout the state at 12 noon, Monday, Jan. 26, and that outside lights be turned on in the evening.

"We're going to participate in the Michigan sesqui as much as we can, but having just gone through ours, we're kind of spending said Ronk.

The Village of Clarkston also plans to participate, said council President Sharron Catallo. Not many bells are in town, she said, but she plans to ring the bell in her house—a renovated church.

The Independence Township Ministerial Association doesn't plan to take formal action, said the Rev. Robert Walters, president of the group, but some of the ministers plan to ask their congregations to participate.

Not many churches in the area have bells, he added.

All those wishing to participate may ring bells at noon and turn their porch lights on in the evening.

New zoning map governs half of Springfield

By Pat Young

Industry and agriculture were the liveliest topics during discussion of the new zoning map at the Springfield Township Board's Jan. 14 meeting.

The board unanimously adopted changes to the western half of the township following the second reading.

A major change was a townshipwide standard house size. The minimum size for a one-story house will be 1,000 square feet; for a one-and-a-half-story house, 1,250 square feet; and for a two-story house, 1,500 square feet.

The board also voted unanimously to publish the remaining eastern portion of the map for the second reading at the Feb. 11 board meeting.

"Zoning is a process," said Supervisor Collin Walls. "It is subject to change because people and attitudes change."

"The planning commission began in earnest to work on the new zoning map in February of 1985," he said. "They reviewed the master plan as adopted in 1980, reviewed reports and existing building patterns, land use, roads, and they encouraged comments and input from the public."

"The existing map (from 1973) has 23 percent in low density use. The new map increases that to 50 percent," he said. "The new zoning map helps to implement the goals of the master plan adopted in 1980."

Looking at Springfield Township farmer Edwin Masters, Walls added, "I think it is important to know that it's not our attempt to hinder agriculture in any way. Agriculture does not need special permission. It is allowed, by right, in all residential areas, with some exceptions."

Masters was next to speak.

"I feel agricultural zoning would be advisable. You have denied us some tax considerations by having agriculture in R1," he said. "We are discriminated against because the township stubbornly holds a residential classification for us."

"This is about 64 years of my life you're trying to devalue in half."

—Al Valentine

During discussion of the eastern half of the map, industry was the main topic.

The board discussed the Ben Hawkins property at the corner of Dixie Highway and Davisburg Road, which they had refused to rezone for extractive purposes several board meetings ago.

"It is the opinion of some of us that part of this property has potential for residential use," said Walls. "I prefer the smaller acreage of commercial property for this parcel because I don't feel the community could support 80 acres of new commercial development."

The decision, in a 4-3 vote, allowed for approximately 25 acres of C2 (general business) and the balance of the 83 acres as residential including the hill Hawkins earlier sought to remove with an extractive zoning.

The Valentine Industrial Park on Andersonville road created the biggest stir.

Al Valentine was on hand, dressed in suit and tie. "This is only the second time I've seen you in a tie," Walls said.

"I only wear a tie to funerals," Valentine said, drawing laughter from board members and audience alike before he got serious.

"It's been alleged many times that there is little difference between M1 (light industrial) and M2 (heavy industrial), but your attorneys and planners don't treat it that way," said Valentine.

Valentine indicated that due to the possibility of M1 zoning, he had lost four or five prospective customers.

"I'd like you to put yourself in my shoes," he said. "This is 64 years of my life you're trying to devalue about in half."

Trustee William Whitley asked if Valentine had deed restrictions in the sub, and Valentine said yes, he definitely did.

"It has been said heavy equipment means big smokestacks, but I'd never allow that," Valentine said.

A decision to allow M2 zoning for the Valentine Industrial Park passed in a 4-2 vote, with Walls and Trustee Glen Vermilye voting against it. Whitley remained undecided.

"I am against it because I don't feel it is in the long-term best interest of the community," said Walls.

"I envision heavy equipment on Andersonville road," said Vermilye. "It's not what you want to do with the sub that concerns me, it's what M2 will allow."

Top 10 issues facing us

'Our knowledge will double by 1990' - Dr. Banach

'Over-testing threatens to paralyze schools' - Dr. Banach

By JIM SHERMAN, Publisher

William J. Banach is the kind of guy who wants to know what lies ahead.

He is particularly interested in education's future, but his findings are for most of the populace.

Banach was the guest speaker at Oxford Bank's financial seminar at Oxford High School last week. He thereafter.

And, he talked of the computer age, hitting home with the statement: 1986 high school graduates will experience 4 to 7 career changes... many careers will be gone, he said, just like robots took welding jobs.

But, the educator's main message was the top ten issues facing education, thus, people with children, other in their own plant. Jobs in the future will pay less, have less prestige, be service jobs and attract immigrants.

Because of the international influence, students need to know more about history, culture, economics and politics of other countries.

3. Control of special education. The high cost, plus judges (who know little about training or the handicapped) determining appropriate programs for youngsters, may bring restrictions.

4. Intergenerational conflict. Already, Banach said, we see parents of grown children saying no to school taxes.

Yet, those children now in school are the ones who will be asked to pay retirement costs for older adults.

Will they want to give up half their salary to pay social security costs?

5. Overspecialized educators. There are children who fit none of the speciality categories teachers have gone into (special ed, gifted, vocational). They are "kids in the cracks," Banach said. There is a need for general educators just as there is a need for the family physician.

6. Women in administration. Just as women in the workforce are increasing, so are they in management. They are service oriented, think rational and prefer cooperation over competition.

7. Battered boards. With increasing pressure and liability on them, fewer will be willing to serve.

8. The diversification of advocacy. Child advocacy groups are focusing in on dropouts, and will be focusing on contagious/communicable diseases (AIDS, etc), and immigrants.

Parents want schools to take over; special education getting out of control; women will have half the jobs; training and retraining in new grads' future has been in education, marketing and marketing analysis enroute to becoming assistant supt of Macomb County Intermediate School District.

He has compiled many statistics, some fascinating, most of them useful. Banach said every second, 54 people move toward the southwest from the midwest; that the average size family has dropped from 2.7 members to 2.2; that there's a social revolution in the workplace, with 63 percent of the women working now and by 1990 half the workforce will be women.

Banach talked of the information explosion... half of all knowledge has been gained in the last 30 years... that will double by 1990, and double again each year taxpayers, and seniors.

Topping his list is: 1. Schools as parents. He told the audience something many already know: The American family is in trouble. A third of the young women don't want children; very few want to be homemakers, and there will be divorces in over 40 percent of the families.

Schools already provide daycare and latchkey programs. Parents want schools to teach manners, morals, and health as well as traditional family and church subjects.

2. Internationalization of the Curriculum. He said clerical work in some industries is already airlifted to India and Barbados for overnight service at less cost than

9. Assessment paralysis. Over-testing threatens to paralyze schools. Educators take time to test, analyze, recommend, compare, and it ends up in confusion.

10. The meantime society. It's possible America is becoming a two-tier society. We know the promise of a better tomorrow, but we are living and coping in the meantime. Things are changing in the dual career families, and adult training and retraining will have to come in the changing job market.

Those are the issues Dr. Banach and his researchers found. He encourages their attention.

Clarkston Health Center on planners' agenda

By Julie Campe

The proposed Clarkston Health Center is entering its final planning stages with a request for a planned unit development (PUD) zoning.

The zoning change from commercial is to be considered by the Independence Township planning commission Thursday, Jan. 22, at 7:30 p.m.

A PUD allows various uses under one zoning. "The planned unit development lets you develop the whole center as one concept," said pediatrician James O'Neill, developer of the project.

"It makes it a cohesive center with sidewalks, and we hope to hook all the buildings up to the auxiliary power and water," he said.

The proposed medical facility on Dixie Highway, Independence Township, is to combine on one floor the practices of some area physicians and 24-hour urgent care.

The center is to use his current building as well as the M-15 office building housing the Clarkston Village Clinic/Clarkston Ambulatory Care Center.

With the PUD, O'Neill said he hopes to share parking lots between the buildings and eliminate unnecessary driveways. The plans include one entrance on Dixie Highway and one on M-15 across from Citition Drive.

Also included in the plans are outpatient surgery, outpatient mental health services, day care for mentally and physically disabled adults, community education programs and a medical library.

Pond group ponders dam purchase

The Clarkston Mill Pond Association didn't decide last week to buy the broken Mill Pond coffer dam and water rights, but they're still considering it, said association President Hank Radcliff.

At the Jan. 15 meeting, comprised of pond property owners, the only decision was to "investigate what is the most ideal situation," said Radcliff. "Is it better for us to control the pond, or is it better for the village to control it?"

"We are going to attempt to work with the village to solve the decision," he said, adding they would like to know the cost of fixing the dam and the liability of owning it and the pond.

About 30 people from the 34 residences attended the meeting, scheduled after the Clarkston Village

If the planning commission recommends the zoning change, approval from the township board is still necessary, said O'Neill.

He hopes to begin construction in the spring, he said.

Council asked for suggestions regarding the broken Mill Pond dam during a public hearing Jan. 12.

The dam has been broken for about a year, and the extra spring water could cause erosion or flooding or both, according to the village council.

A lawsuit to allow the village to fix the dam or give the owners a time limit to fix the dam is pending against dam owner Lehman Investments, which also owns the Clarkston Mills Mall on Washington Street across from the dam.

A hearing before Judge Alice Gilbert is scheduled Jan. 28 in Oakland County Circuit Court.

The public hearing was the village council's attempt to have possible solutions by its Jan. 26 meeting before the court hearing.

The above information was compiled from reports at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Posted speed limit

Speeders beware along Crosby Lake Road in Springfield Township.

A petition signed by over 50 percent of the residents along Crosby Lake Road prompted the township board to pass a resolution to post a 25 mph speed limit. The action was unanimously approved by the township board Jan. 14.

"Theoretically, the speed limit should be 25 mph anyway," said Supervisor Collin Walls after the meeting. "But it is difficult to enforce unless it is actually posted."

Planner named

Dominic Mauti was appointed to a three-year term on the Village of Clarkston planning commission Jan. 12 to replace Laurie Stern, who resigned.

"I thought he was a good choice because obviously he's been involved in the community," said village council President Sharron Catallo, adding that Mauti is a former principal of Clarkston High School.

"He'll be an asset to the planning commission," she said.

Mauti lives on Buffalo Street, Clarkston.

Springfield sesqui-continuation plan quashed

By Pat Young

A woman who cares for her community and a township board who cares for the woman provided the impetus for a sensitive issue on the township board's agenda Jan. 14.

Helen Vergin, the moving force behind Springfield Township's sesquicentennial celebration in 1986, submitted a report to the board, with recommendations.

Among the recommendations was the suggestion that her $350-a-month contract be renewed for two years to allow the continuation of the community events started in 1986.

Those events include the business and garden show, the walk-run for fun, Springfield pageant, tours of the historical society buildings, balloon fest and ice sculpture contest.

"My biggest thrust would be to work with businesses and youth to get more of a community involvement and try to make (the events) self-supporting," Vergin said.

Trustee Charles Oaks said he felt some activities would be more appropriately handled by the parks and recreation board.

Treasurer Pat Kramer added, "I feel Helen did a good job with the sesquicentennial, but I feel some of these activities should not be township run, but rather by other organizations."

"But we don't have those other organizations," countered Clerk Calvin Walters.

"My intent is to organize some kind of association with the businesses to work on these things," said Vergin.

Supervisor Collin Walls said that since some of the events are business-run and self-generating, it would be inappropriate for the township to contribute.

But Marge Reuter, a planning commission member in the audience, said, "If Springfield Township is going to be promoted, somebody is going to have to do the promoting."

Another planning commission member, LeAnn Oliver, added, "attempts to organize businesses, so far, and have a businessmen's breakfast have been canceled for lack of interest."

Walters made a motion to continue paying Vergin $350 a month for one year, but the motion died for lack of support.

"Lest this end on a sour note, we would again like to thank Helen for all of her work on the sesquicentennial," said Walls.

Vergin, who did not seem surprised by the decision, smiled and said, "I don't give up."

White stuff

Kathy Greenfield

The next time you're looking for a topic to get the conversation flowing, try toilet paper.

I guess I should have known everyone has something to say about TP because of the advice columnist who received thousands of letters about the correct way to hang it on the bathroom roll.

But the topic came to mind once again after my husband went bargain shopping.

He found eight rolls for $1, so he spent two bucks.

Not wanting to be alone in the good deal department, he proceeded to tell everyone we were with where they could go to take advantage of the bargain.

The interesting part was how they reacted.

Everyone had an opinion. I found out that most people are not fond of bargain TP. Most had bought it at some point, only to say never again.

Some prefer single ply; some double. Some hate the quilted variety. Some could do without anything scented. And so on.

I predicted that the 16 rolls of toilet paper stuffed in our bathroom cabinet would be so flimsy they would last about two days.

I was wrong. About three weeks have passed and we still have a remarkable supply of the off-white stuff.

Speaking of white stuff, earlier this month I found myself thinking it would be just fine to make it through a winter season in Michigan without much snow.

This year, unlike last when the sun took a sabbatical, we have had many beautiful winter days with the sun shining through tree branches lightly dusted with snow.

Driving conditions were almost never a concern, which I liked.

Now, of course, the possibility of an almost snowless winter is gone.

Last night after brushing snow off the car before being able to drive, I was grumbling. But this morning, I looked out the window at our snow-lined street and enjoyed the beauty.

Whenever there's this kind of snowfall, I think about my brother-in-law, a native Michigander who lives in almost snow-free Virginia.

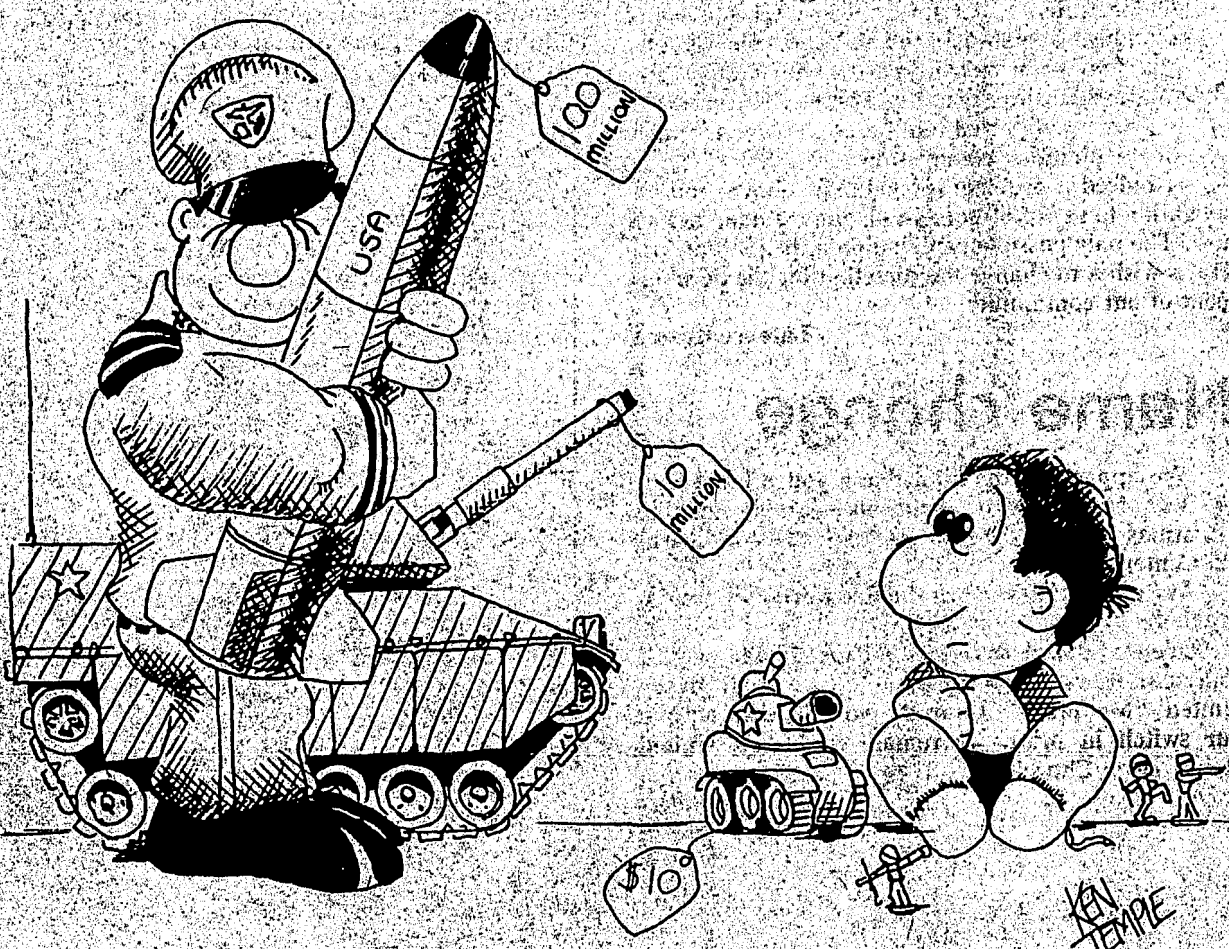

He said snow is like frosting spread over the brown tones of winter.

Tom Burnham discovered most of us have been wrong about many so-called facts. So, he wrote a book about some of them. His collection is called, "The Dictionary of Misinformation". He has since come out with another book called "More Misinformation".

Some of us are embarrassed at what Burnham found as truth when we've been reciting, or lead to believe, something else was fact.

Like: The battle of Bunker Hills wasn't fought there. It was on Breed's Hill, nearby.

Charles Lindberg was not the first persons to fly non-stop over the Atlantic. He was actually the 67th. He was the first to fly it solo.

An airplane cannot hit an air pocket, because there are no holes in air. They hit a downdraft.

The assembly line for automobile factories was not introduced in the United States by Henry Ford. Ransom E. Olds did it with the Reo and Oldsmobile. In 1901 his company built 425 cars, and the next year, with assembly line (wooden platforms on castors passing between two rows of workers) they made 2,500. Ford improved on Olds' idea.

The way tulips are promoted today, there has never been any doubt in my mind they are, were and always have been Dutch. Not so. Tulips came from Central Asia, prized by the Turks in the 16th century.

I didn't want to read this one either. The book says anyone who believes the old myth that a skunk cannot spray its scent if held off the ground by its tail could be due for an unpleasant surprise. If I'd ever caught one when I used to try in my youth, I would surely have tried the tail technique.

French fried potatoes aren't. They are Belgian.

Adolph Hitler was never Schicklgruber, was never a paperhanger, never a house painter and not illegitimate.

How often have you heard the quote, "Money is the root of all evil?" That's not what the Bible says. 1 Tim. 6:10 reads, "For the love of money is the root of all evil." Burnham says there is a difference.

Heinz 57 Varieties, had over 60 by 1892.

Next spring when you see the sap running from the maple trees, remember where you read that sap runs neither up nor down. It moves in and out, from center to surface and back.

Fascinating stuff, right?

Those warning tags we leave on our furniture, "Do not remove under penalty of law"? They are for the seller, not the buyer.

Last Spring we went to the land where golf originated: Scotland. "The Dictionary of Misinformation" debunks that. It says there is no firm evidence that golf originated in Scotland. It may well have come from Holland where a game much like it was played on ice. It has even been suggested the Romans brought the game to Britain before 410 A.D.

Enough for now.

Letters to the editor

Wallace defense

Every member of the Independence Township Board has campaigned and been elected based on their promise of quality development for our community.

Anyone who follows the activities of the planning commission realizes that Neil Wallace has been an unselfish public servant dedicated to ensure that development in our community meets the high standards established by our ordinances and our expectations.

Dan Travis' personal attack on Mr. Wallace was not only inaccurate; it is inexcusable. Mr. Wallace has demonstrated a genuine concern for the community in his leadership on the planning commission.

Mr. Travis not only supported Mr. Wallace for reappointment to the planning commission in 1983, but repeatedly supported him for re-election as chairman of the planning commission.

If indeed a problem existed, Mr. Travis had an obligation to say or do something about it long before now. The only possible explanation appears that Mr. Travis wishes to change the direction for the development of our community.

Fishing conflict

Did you know that fish bite the best one hour after daybreak and one hour before dark?

But this is hard to accomplish when the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission asks people to leave the ice at 4:45 p.m. and park hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

This was recently brought to my attention when a friend was ice fishing on Crooked Lake in Independence Oaks, and this situation was forced upon him.

I ask myself, is this fair when Oakland County taxpayers pay one-quarter mill annually to support county parks in addition to paying park entrance fees?

The main concern here is that people are being asked to leave when the fish are just beginning to bite. I feel that a fair solution would be to extend the park's winter hours to 7:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. This change would benefit all the people who participate in and enjoy winter sports.

'If it Fitz . . .'

Find jail space for nun

Jim Fitzgerald

Here is comforting news for citizens alarmed because there isn't enough room in Wayne County Jail for all the criminals who should be there: Somehow, cell space was found for the dangerous Sister Elizabeth Walters.

It is discouraging to hear Mayor Young and judges say there's no sense in arresting people for carrying guns illegally because there's no bed for them in jail. How many Detroit youngsters are shot by gun toters who are on the street because the jail was full?

It is dismaying to realize that many dope dealers are freed a few hours after their arrest because there are no empty cells in the Wayne County Jail. How much crime results from dope sold by people who would have been in jail except it was too crowded?

But at least we don't have to worry about being harmed by Sister Elizabeth, a wanton knocker and prayer. She is a Catholic nun sentenced to 90 days last month for trespassing - stepping over a painted line - while distributing peace leaflets at the entrance to Wurtsmith Air Force Base in Osooda. She began serving her time in Bay County Jail but last week was transferred to Wayne County Jail. WHY, ESPECIALLY in view of the crowded conditions at Wayne County Jail? A spokesman in the U.S. Marshal's office explained that Sister Elizabeth is a federal prisoner - because she played peace games at a federal installation - being transferred hopscotch style to a federal prison. And the Wayne County Jail is under contract to accommodate a certain number of federal prisoners, no matter how many local criminals must be freed to make room for them.

The spokesman couldn't tell me how long the nun will be locked up here, or exactly where her next stop will be. Sister Elizabeth already has served around half her sentence; why has it taken so long to get her into a federal prison? The spokesman explained it isn't practical to transport one prisoner at a time.

Maybe they are waiting for a busload of dangerous nuns. Anyway, by the time Sister Elizabeth reaches a federal prison, it will probably be time to set her free. Is that a more practical use of taxpayers' money than simply keeping her in the Bay County Jail for the last half of her term?

WHILE I'M FEELING grumpy, it should be pointed out that one reason the Wayne County Jail has been overflowing is that dozens of beds couldn't be used because vandalizing prisoners broke the complicated locks on cell doors and it takes a long time to get them fixed.

That's right: Some convicted criminals are on the street because other convicted criminals damaged jail property. Just one more indication that our criminal justice system often satisfies the criminal more than it satisfies justice. For Christmas, maybe someone should have given Sheriff Robert Ficano a bushel of padlocks.

Remember, this is the same Wayne County Jail where thousands of dollars in bail money began turning up missing months ago and still hasn't been found. In the meantime, many innocent people who put up bail are deprived of their money simply because they were foolish enough to trust it to the hands of the law.

But cheer up. The important thing is that there was room in our county jail for Sister Elizabeth Walters, the dangerous nun. The public is protected from her rampant proselytizing against violence and for peace. You don't have to worry about her assaulting you with a prayer leaflet.

Sister Elizabeth's imprisonment is something comforting to think about the next time you see a dope deal going down in front of the corner grocery store. On the next time your child is hit by a stray bullet.

African adventure:

Lion's image still clear to Munk

By Julie Campe

Eight years ago orthodontist Charles Munk shot a lion in South Africa, but he didn't get it mounted until this year.

The lion, weighing over 600 pounds, was bigger than any frame available. Al Walz from Hilde's Taxidermy, M-15, Independence Township, had to make a special mold for the male cat.

At the time of the shooting, it was the world's second largest lion, measured by the skull size after it died.

Munk, whose office is in Independence Township, easily recalled the events of the shooting.

He was making a documentary film about African wildlife—it's a hobby, he said.

"I heard it at night, attacking a group of zebra," said Munk.

He saw it the next night, eating zebra in the midst of some bushes.

"I started taking pictures of him. I don't know if he smelled me or or heard me or what, but I had to shoot him because he started for me," Munk said.

He compared it to the scene in "Out of Africa" when the lion turned and stared at actress Meryl Streep.

"When their eyes do focus on you, it's like they look right through you," he said. "And when they do charge, they come very, very quickly. Most of the time, animals don't come after you. But when they kill, they become extra defensive."

The lion charged, and Munk shot him once in the chest. The second shot hit him in the spine.

He was lucky, he said. When the lion fell, it was only the length of the gun away.

"These type of things happen so quickly, you don't have a chance to feel nervous until it's all over," said Munk.

"One of the interesting things that I like is that by now, that animal would have been dead in its natural environment," he said. "It's a shame to kill an animal, but . . . at least now it's preserved for everybody to see. . . . I guess that's why they have museums."

Munk plans to give the lion to a museum, he said, although he hasn't decided which one.

"This lion is so special, it may end up in a national museum," said Munk, mentioning the Smithsonian Museum of Natural History in Washington, D.C.

He sometimes gives skins, heads and mounts to museums and was recently named curator of the State Museum of North Carolina in Raleigh, he said.

About Walz, Munk said, "I think he did an absolutely heroic feat getting this mounted. There was nothing big enough in the whole world."

Walz explained how he made the special mold.

He took the largest lion frame he could find, split it in half, and added another foot. He filled in with styrofoam and resculptured the shape of the lion.

Then he fitted the lion to it, sewing here and glu-

Dr. Charles Munk, an Oxford Township resident, shot the 600-pound lion in Africa eight years ago when the lion attacked during the filming of a documentary.

ing there. Next he worked on the details.

For the teeth, there were no lion molds large enough, so he used a mold for a Kodiak bear. New dentures still have to be made, he said.

And the lion needs a new tongue; the present one is too small, said Walz. He'll construct a new one from wax.

He also painted around the eyes, nose and mouth.

The lion was in good shape, not many scars, said Walz—just a few on the nose and one small one on the back. The lion must have been big enough to stay out of fights, he said.

The lion will be on display for a month at Hilde Taxidermy. Visitors are welcome, said Walz, but if groups come, he asks that they call in advance.

Dr. Lynn helps Afghans in N.H.

The involvement of former Clarkston resident Dr. John T. Lynn Jr. in the medical treatment of Afghan rebels is a source of pride for his mother, Avon Lynn.

"I just wondered if people around here knew what was happening," she said. "It's not just John, it's the fact that we're doing something to help the Afghans."

Lynn, an orthopedic surgeon, has performed surgery on two Afghans, his mother said.

Her son, his wife, Rita, and their three sons live in Windham, N.H., so Mrs. Lynn's knowledge is from letters and a newspaper clipping.

A clipping from the Dec. 11 Lawrence Eagle-Tribune involved the treatment of an Afghan rebel identified as Aziz.

According to the article, Aziz was one of 165 Afghans in America at that time including seven in New Hampshire. Military transportation and the donation of hospital and doctor fees had been arranged by Sen. Gordon Humphrey (R-N.H.).

In Aziz' case, shrapnel had snapped the bone below the knee of his left leg and the healing process had left him in pain with difficulty walking.

The surgery performed by Lynn at Parkland Medical Center in Derry, N.H., was to re-break the bone and set it with pins so it would heal properly.

A press packet provided by Aziz outlined Soviet atrocities in Afghanistan, which was invaded by the Soviets in 1979.

Noting her son's dedication as a surgeon, Mrs. Lynn said he has "learned some of their language and has been really helpful to them."

Lynn's mother and father, Clark Lynn, reside in Clarkston. He graduated from Clarkston High School in 1968.

Fuel leak contained on Dixie

By Chris Gerbas

A potentially dangerous situation was averted last Saturday when firefighters controlled a fuel leakage at a local gas station, said Capt. Steve Ronk of the Independence Township Fire Department.

At about 10:30 p.m., a gas pump at the Payless Station on Dixie Highway began spouting gasoline while an employee was changing an internal filter in the pump, Ronk said.

Approximately 270 gallons of unleaded gas flowed into Dixie and toward a Michigan Bell building before a dike was constructed and the gas was pooled on or near Michigan Bell property.

The entire procedure of obtaining sand from the Michigan Road Commission and containing the gas took about four hours. Ronk said the immediate dangers were taken care of in about 15 minutes by spraying foam to minimize fumes.

"Things were in our favor," said Ronk. "We were able to tell the guy over the phone to shut off all power and it was snowing and cold so the vapors weren't as great as if it were 80 or 90 degrees. We could've had a mess."

He termed it "a large spill", which needed to be stopped before it got to a creek which runs near the Payless and Michigan Bell property.

Ronk expects the Department of Natural Resources to conduct tests where the gas was pooled, and broken down with an emulsifier, to determine possible damage.

"They may have to take out a couple feet of ground," said Ronk.

Friendly faces

His music draws toe-tapping crowd

By Julie Campe

If you were eating and didn't see Dennis Vernier take his place at Nanjo's restaurant, you might think a whole band had sneaked behind the bar.

But there's only one person, Dennis, singing and playing any combination of 12 instruments.

He plays weekends at the Springfield Township restaurant on Dixie Highway, and his instruments include: six-string guitar, 12-string guitar, banjo, base pedals, harmonica, electronic drums, keyboards, kazoo, chimes, bells, train whistle and megaphone.

Dennis, 35, played in groups until just a few years ago, when he forged a path for himself alone.

"I always wanted to see how much noise I could make by myself," he said. "As the technology improved—drum computers, base pedals—I started putting this thing together over a few years to bring it to where it is right now."

It was difficult in the beginning to get everything coordinated, he said.

"When I first started doing it, I'd go home totally worn out because I'd have to concentrate so hard," he said. "Now I find myself daydreaming about other things. It almost becomes second nature to me."

"I'm a guitarist by trade," he said. "The other things, I picked up along the way."

Classified as a baritone, Dennis' voice also reaches the low notes on "Johnny Trash," a parody of a Johnny Cash song. He reaches the high notes with a falsetto voice, and sings well, too.

His list of over 400 songs includes: "Brandy," "Brown Eyed Girl," "Cracklin' Rosie," "Georgia on my Mind," "If You Could Read My Mind," "Love Me Tender," "Mr. Bojangles," "Piano Man," "That'll Be the Day," "Unchained Melody," "Winchester Cathedral" and "Your Momma Don't Dance."

He plays just about anything including his own compositions.

His personal favorite entertainers are John Lennon, Paul McCartney, David Gates and Gordon Lightfoot.

Dennis has never wanted to be anything but a musician, he said, although in high school he thought he'd be an architect if entertainment didn't work out.

"I was always fascinated with it ever since I was a little kid. My mom gave me a ukulele when I was little," he said. "When I was 13, I started taking guitar lessons."

Dennis actually makes a living at his trade, a rare feat in the industry, he said.

"It's a rough business, and I feel lucky that I've been as successful as I have been," he said.

And he loves his work.

"What satisfies me at the end of the night is when everybody gets into it," he said. "There's nothing better than a good night when you get things really rolling."

Every once in a while, a crowd will even move the tables and start dancing, he said.

The "regulars" who were seated at the bar during his Sunday hours, had nothing but good things to say about him.

"I come here every weekend," said Linda Kozierowski. "He's the best entertainer in Oakland County."

Dora Burseson agreed.

"He does requests, and you don't even have to write it on the back of a $10 bill," she said.

Dennis sings evenings on Fridays and Saturdays 8:30 to 1:30 and Sundays 7:30 to 12:30.

He usually begins with the slower, quieter music in the early evening and finishes with more toe-tapping music toward the end. But it just depends on the mood of the crowd, he said.

Do you know someone who works in the Clarkston area and deserves recognition for a job well done? We'd like to share your praise. Call The Clarkston News at 625-3370 weekdays from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. or drop us a line at 5 S. Main, Clarkston, MI 48016.

Wolves brought back to earth

By Chris Gerbas

The Wolves are 1-1 in the Greater Oakland Activities League, while Mott shares the league lead with Lake Orion at 2-0. Mott is 7-1 overall.

"This team needs to know that I'm not happy with them. But they're probably not happy with me."

—Dan Fife

The Wolves were back to the poor-shooting ways that accounted for their rocky start this season. Fife complimented Mott's defense, but Clarkston had its Dan Fife stood in the Clarkston lockerroom and searched for the reasons for his team's 53-40 loss to Waterford Mott last Friday. He even turned to the supernatural.

"Maybe Ed Whitaker's ghost is haunting this team," said Fife. Then he suggested that Tim McCormick's and even his own ghost might be hovering around the present-day Wolves in the Clarkston gym.

Of course, Whitaker, McCormick and Fife are three of the premier basketball players the school has turned out. Whitaker graduated after last season.

But the loss to Mott, at home, was no joking matter to Fife. He talked to his players long and hard after the game.

"This team needs to know that I'm not happy with them," said Fife of the 3-5 Wolves. "But they're probably not happy with me."

After ripping the nets for 77 and 79 points in victories over Pontiac Northern and Farmington, the Corsairs held Clarkston to its lowest output of the season.

share of opportunities to get back in the game in the second half.

A cold second quarter by the Wolves helped the Corsairs to a 26-16 halftime advantage. The matchup between Dan Jokisch and Gene Seets, two of the county's top scorers, never really materialized.

Seets scored 15 points in the game but got plenty of support from his teammates, particularly Bill Schomberg, who scored 14.

Jokisch had a game-high 18 points, but got into foul trouble early in the third quarter. Mott led 30-20 when he picked up his fourth foul with 5:40 left in the quarter.

The Corsairs then went on an 8-2 spurt to lead 38-22 going into the final quarter.

Jokisch re-entered the game early in the fourth and the Wolves scored seven straight points to pull to 40-33 with about five minutes left.

But from there, Clarkston hit every part of the basket but the bottom of the net and Seets and Schomberg put the game away.

"We've never been embarrassed like that in our gym," said Fife. "We were outcoached. We were humiliated and embarrassed and that's not typical of Clarkston."

Sports

"The kids played confused, like they were lost on the court," he said. "They had the look of being petrified, as nervous as can be. Mott wanted that game more than Clarkston."

The loss was another turnaround in Clarkston's season, coming after a 79-33 trouncing of Farmington Jan. 13.

The Wolves built a 36-18 halftime lead as eight players got in on the scoring.

With his team leading 44-22 in the third, Jokisch scored 13 straight points including three three-point plays, to put the contest far out of reach.

He finished with 23 points and 14 rebounds. Josh Newblatt added 10 points, Chip Galley had nine and Jim Hall eight, all in the first half.

"We've been inconsistent for seven games," Fife said. "We've gone from the outhouse to the penthouse and now we're right back to the outhouse."

GOAL Standings (as of Jan. 19)

	League	Overall
Waterford Mott	2-0	7-1
Lake Orion	2-0	6-2

Snow falls on games

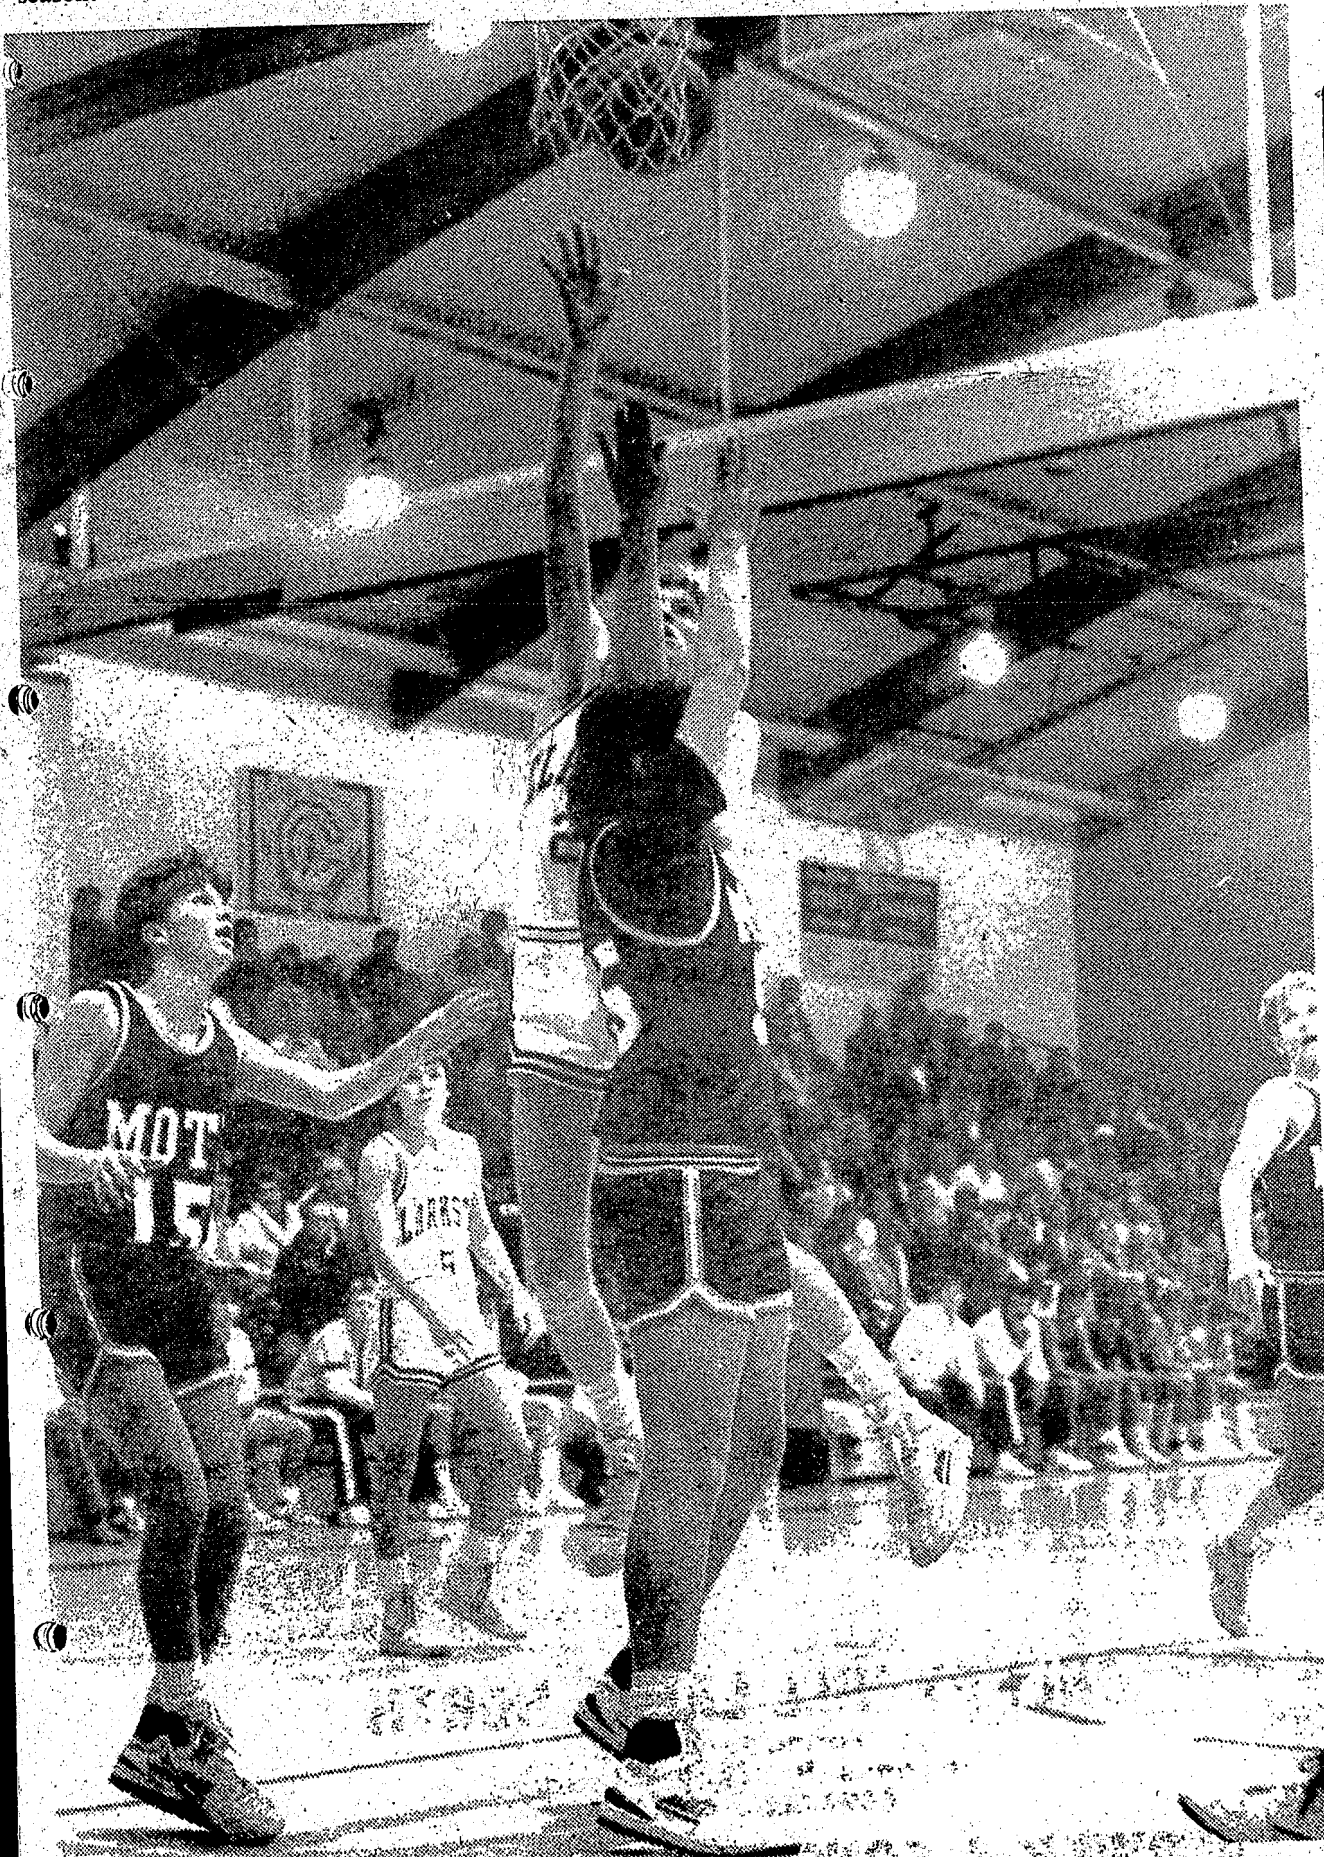

Monday's heavy afternoon snowfall forced cancellation of five high school and junior high sporting events.

In junior high wrestling, Clarkston is at Lake Orion Jan. 30 at 4 p.m. and Pierce is at Sashabaw Jan. 30 at 4 p.m.

Clarkston Junior High's first 7th and 8th grade basketball games of the season were also wiped out. The games against Lake Orion will be made up at Clarkston Feb. 4 beginning at 4 p.m.

JV WOLVES WIN: Clarkston's Kevin Baert goes up with a shot against Waterford Mott in junior varsity action last Friday. Baert helped the Wolves hang on in the fourth quarter to defeat

Mott, 57-52. Baert scored four points down the stretch and Clarkston converted six of eight free throws in the last three minutes.

Cougars nearly win invitational tourney

It wasn't the first-place trophy, but Sashabaw coach Sue Koslosky will take it just the same.

At last Saturday's Clarkston/Sashabaw Junior High volleyball invitational, the Cougars made a bid to win the tourney, but settled instead for the runner-up trophy.

Lake Orion downed Sashabaw in the finals, 16-14, 15-6.

"I was real pleased to be in the final two," said Koslosky. "It's always a tough tournament. It's tough for either one of us (Clarkston or Sashabaw) to win."

The teams have hosted the invitational for several years and Sashabaw has never won it. Clarkston was knocked out in the quarterfinals Saturday by East Detroit Kelly, 15-13, 14-16, 13-15.

In pool play, Sashabaw defeated Kelly, 15-12, 15-1; Howell, 15-9, 15-8; and Royal Oak Kimball, 15-5, 15-7. The team split with Ferndale, 15-5, 8-15.

The Cougars then outlasted East Detroit Oakwood in the quarterfinals, 11-15, 15-10, 15-13.

Sashabaw is 6-2 for the season, including a 7-15, 7-15 loss to Mason Jan. 12, which Koslosky termed "grotesque" because her team couldn't put two serves together.

Clarkston entered the tournament 0-3, losing its season opener to Mason Jan. 7, then falling to Lakeville, 5-15, 8-15, on Jan. 12 and to Howell, 15-4, 4-15, 6-15, Jan. 14.

The Wolverines picked up some momentum at the tournament, though, playing a tough three-set match against Kelly.

"We pulled it together and found a winning combination, the girls who worked best together," said Clarkston coach Jeanne Odell. "We were learning and we were pretty excited about it."

The Wolverines defeated Hazel Park Webb in pool play, 15-7, 15-9, split with Berkley, 14-16, 15-6, and lost to Oakwood, 6-15, 6-15, and to Lake Orion, 1-15, 11-15.

Sashabaw bumped and served its way to the finals of last Saturday's invitational before losing to Lake Orion, 16-14, 15-6. Clarkston Junior High was eliminated in the quarterfinals of the tourney.

Ski events at Addison

The Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission will host a Michigan Cup cross-country "Rollickin' Relay" ski race at Addison Oaks County Park Feb. 1.

The race consists of three-member teams skiing between 12 and 24 kilometers. Two classes, citizens and racers, will be admitted to the race.

Skiers will compete for both trophies and Michigan Cup points. A grand prize drawing, to include a Jarvinen Performance cross-country skiing package, will be held at the culmination of the race. The first 100 entrants will receive long-sleeve T-shirts.

Registration begins at 7:30 a.m. with race time at 9 a.m. The Michigan Cup event is co-sponsored by the Oakland County Parks, the Ski Company, Ltd. and the ULLR ski club team in conjunction with "Winter Family Fun Day."

The Fun Day will start at noon, immediately following the race. Winter activities include ski lessons, ice skating, snowshoeing, hay rides and dogsled races. It is an annual event held by the Oakland Parks Foundation.

For more information about the Fun Day, call 335-2771 and for more race information, call 858-4944.

Addison Oaks is on West Romeo Road, nine miles north of Rochester, near Oxford.

Smoking lines drawn for hall

Where to smoke and where not to smoke in Township Hall was decided at the Springfield Township Board meeting Jan. 14.

The discussion was prompted by the new state law, effective Jan. 1, which bans smoking in enclosed areas in local or state government owned or operated agencies and in privately owned or operated places serving the public.

The board designated as smoking areas the offices for the supervisor, assessor and parks and recreation, all at the back of the building.

The front half of the building, where the public is served, was designated non-smoking. The basement of the building, used as a community hall, will be up to the discretion of the users.

The action passed on a 6-1 vote. Trustee William Whitley voted "no," saying he is opposed to all smoking.

Status quo for board

The existing Springfield Township Board of Review will continue to serve for another two years.

The township board unanimously approved the reappointment of Sheryl Wendt, Bill Bishop and Mary Miller.

The board of review meets to review tax assessments and hear individual concerns over tax assessments.

Advertising coordinator for Bordine's Ann Stewart is proud of the firm's recent advertising awards.

Bordine's blooms

Ann Stewart accepted three advertising awards on behalf of Bordine's Better Blooms, Dixie Highway, Springfield Township, on Jan. 13 in Grand Rapids.

Bordine's won in all categories of the advertising awards given annually by the Michigan Association of Nurserymen: catalog, direct mail and newspaper advertisement.

"I'm proud of them, and I was surprised," said Stewart, adding Sarah List and Mike McMeans of Bordine's Landscaping Department entered the ads without her knowledge.

Stewart, advertising coordinator for Bordine's, attends the Center for Creative Studies in Detroit and plans to graduate in December 1987 with a bachelor's degree in advertising design.

The Springfield Township resident has worked at Bordine's for five years.

Designer's strategy changes school

By Kathy Greenfield

Heads turn when Larry Ebel walks into the Northwest Inn, the restaurant inside the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center.

The attention isn't because everyone recognizes the man who designed the interior of the restaurant about four years ago and is responsible for interior design changes currently under way in the school building on Big Lake Road in Springfield Township.

Instead, all eyes are on Ebel's full-length beaver coat.

The coat attests to his success. As chief of the design and store planning division of The Taubman Co., Bloomfield Hills, since May 1985, he has been responsible for store designs in shopping centers across the United States including Michigan's Lakeside, Fairlane and Twelve Oaks.

But when Ebel takes off his coat and begins talking, the glitz is gone. Soft-spoken yet authoritative, the former high school teacher apparently feels at home.

"My fantasy is when I retire, I'll teach again," he says, calling his seven-year stint as a junior high then high school teacher "the most rewarding part of my life."

His current career is "not comparable to the gratification you get from human response—to see kids turn around and become good people," he says.

Graphics show hands-on approach

By Kathy Greenfield

A giant hand is the common element in wall murals created by graphic designer Jeff Scissors for the hallways inside the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center.

"The school is a hands-on school to learn a trade," said Scissors. "I thought for each one, it would be appropriate to have a hand represent each one of those functions."

"Each one shows a little symbolic picture of trying to take whatever program is going on in that room and trying to get down to the essence of it," he said.

At a glance, each of the about 20 colorful creations is striking with its band of color, large lettering and circle outlined in black with a hand inside.

At closer inspection, the artist's use of symbolism emerges.

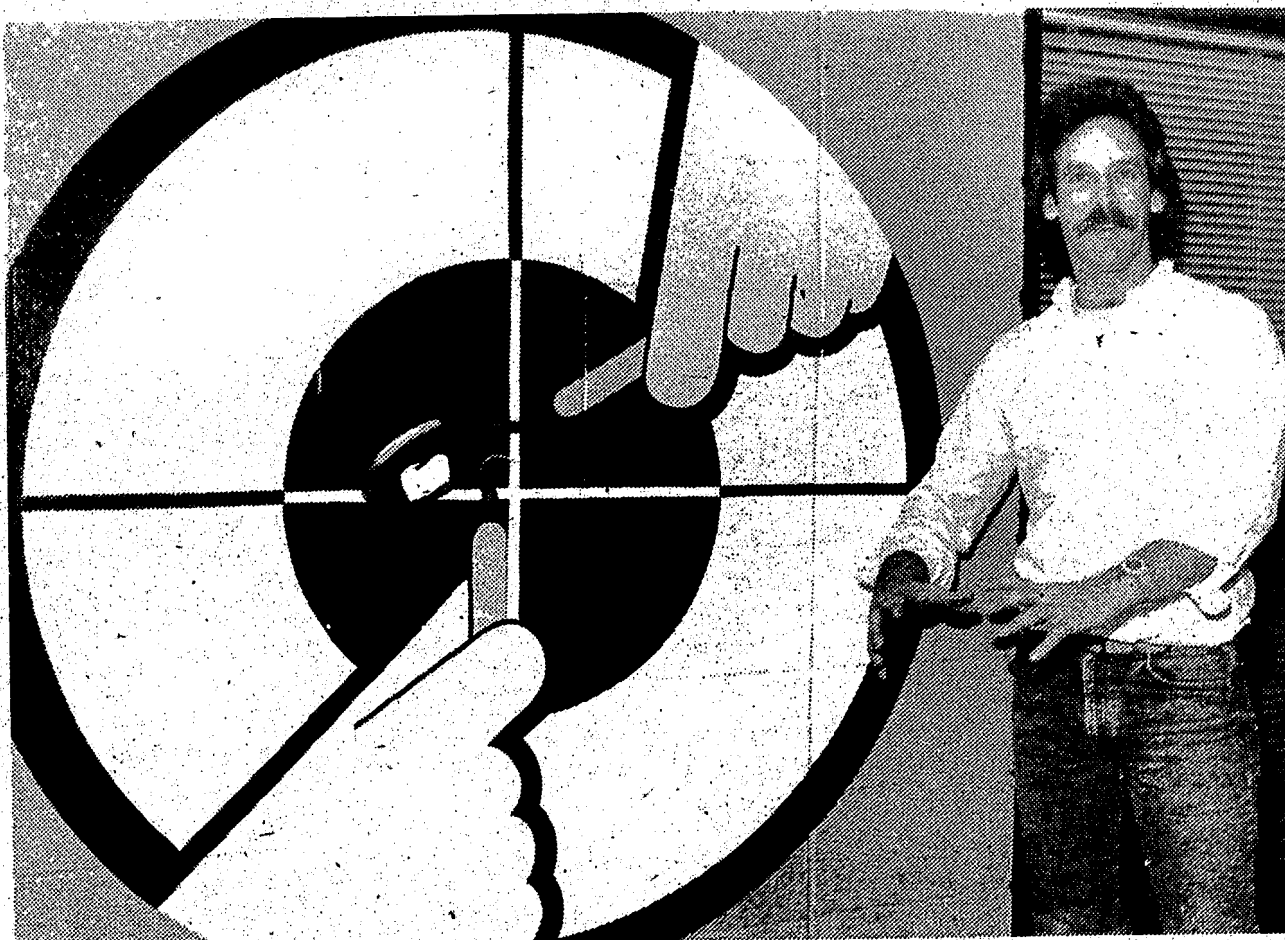

One of his favorite graphics labels the dental assisting program. It varies slightly from the theme because inside the circle are two hands, one for the dentist and the other for the assistant. A tooth is reflected in the hand mirror.

From there, the symbolism continues with an "X" representing the focusing apparatus of an X-ray machine.

As such, each circle fulfills its role as an artwork open to interpretation, or, as Scissors said, "A lot of them, it's up to the viewer's imagination."

He began the project under the direction of interior designer Larry Ebel and school Principal Daniel Manthei in March. He expects to be finished in a few weeks.

Jr. Miss looks forward to state competition

By Julie Campe

This weekend could mean a lot to Clarkston's Junior Miss Mary Ellen Unsworth.

The Clarkston High School senior plans to compete in the state junior miss competition in Marshall on Friday and Saturday.

Besides school activities, Clarkston's Junior Miss Mary Ellen Unsworth likes to read and downhill ski.

She readily recalls the night she won the Clarkston title.

"It was breathtaking," she said. "It was probably one of the most exciting things that happened to me. I was not expecting it at all. That was the best feeling when they announced my name. . . . I wish I could do it again."

She's looking forward to the next step in the competition, but she's a little apprehensive, she said.

"I'm scared, excited, nervous," she said. "It will be a different experience because all the girls were the winners of their pageants. I can imagine that they're going to be really interesting people."

Mary Ellen will have a lot of people rooting for her—about half of the Junior Miss participants, members of the CHS Pom Pon squad and other friends and relatives will be present for the pageant.

The girls will be judged on fitness, scholastic achievement, poise and appearance, creative and performing arts and a judges interview.

"I feel really great this year because this gal is really capable," said Barbara Hamaker, chairperson of the junior miss committee. "We could bring back a winner—she's outstanding."

Mary Ellen is the daughter of Rob and Pat Unsworth of Deer Lake Court, Independence Township.

Active in Pom Pon, student council and the National Honor Society, she plans to attend the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

FOR THE SMILE OF A LIFETIME

Designer's past as teacher leads to school linked to his past. His art classroom at Royal Oak Kimball High School sat next door to the mechanical drafting classroom of Dan Manthei, now principal of the vocational school.

Their friendship spans the intervening 23 years, but a chance encounter at the former Vic Tanny's in Birmingham led to Ebel's interior design contract for the school.

Manthei asked Ebel if he could recommend an artist to paint signs identifying the vocational school programs to hang next to the doors in the corridors.

Ebel subsequently visited Manthei at the school and, as Ebel tells it, they drifted into the cafeteria staffed by food service program students and Manthei introduced his thoughts on needed interior changes with, "I've sort of been thinking, maybe . . ."

Consequently, Manthei solicited bids for interior design work and was delighted when Ebel, at that time self-employed as an interior designer, submitted a bid that was virtually half of those of competitors.

Ebel explains the low bid by saying he wanted a school building in his portfolio, then he reveals something about his credentials.

"I did the World Trade Center (in New York City) at the same time," he says.

When Manthei and Ebel met to discuss possible dining room changes, they talked about the need for a design the public would accept for a public building and the need for durability.

The existing Northwest Inn in the school building that opened in 1970 looked institutional and worn out, Ebel says. "It was unrealistic to be waiting on the public in a derelict dining room. It was also unrealistic that they could attract a real-life customer."

The choices were made from industrial-strength wall coverings and carpeting, but institutional colors were rejected for shades of burgundy, pink and beige. Pictures on the walls and new tabletops and chairs rounded out the contemporary look.

The increase in dining room traffic and improvement in the food service students' morale attest to the success of the project, Manthei says.

Ebel calls it "a sense of pride." "You build a subliminal kind of positive image by having things pleasing," he says.

The next room up for changes was the boutique run by students enrolled in the retail marketing program.

"The boutique was a challenge, too, because that had been just as institutional as anything else," Ebel says.

A neon sign, track lighting, mint green walls and the removal of ceiling tiles and application of black paint covering the ceiling, exposed pipes and all, were among the changes.

"I have a soft spot for the boutique because it's retail. I'm mad for retail," Ebel says. "I think we probably did more hard-sell things in there. It was probably the most fun for me."

Currently, the school's conference room is in transition, a graphic artist is at work on wall murals—rather than wall signs—at the entrance of each program, and work planned will change the look of the main office.

"Larry's earned his spurs. They've seen his work. They trust him," says Manthei about the reaction of his staff. "They want to know, 'When's my turn?'"

Help them help Tony

The Senior High youth at the Clarkston United Methodist Church want to help Tony Palazzola walk again.

Their goal is to raise $1,000 by selling garbage bags from Jan. 25 through Feb. 8 with all proceeds going to the "Help Tony Walk Again" fund.

The 30 gallon garbage bags come in cases of 250 and sell for $22 a case.

Orders may be placed by calling 623-9035, 625-1727 or 625-2753.

Palazzola was injured in a plane crash last March.

His friend Don Kevern began the "Help Tony Walk Again" fund to raise the $16,000 needed by March so Palazzola can begin therapy in Las Vegas.

As friends will do, Ebel and Manthei offer praise touched with humor for each other's attributes.

Ebel makes it a point to stress "how extraordinary it is for a school to pay attention to interior design," then laughs as he says Manthei has "an exceptional aptitude for neatness—in other words, he's neurotic."

There's no doubt both men are pleased with the changes finally falling into place as money from the maintenance budget is set aside each year.

"The fallout is how it impacts on the minds of the students and the teachers. Who knows where the ripple effect stops because they have had their consciousness raised about design a little."

—Larry Ebel

"It's accomplished what we set out to do. It's a place staff and students have a sense of pride in and I personally have a sense of pride in," says Manthei. "It's becoming more functional, more attractive and more appealing."

For Ebel, the educational aspect continues to be on his mind.

"The fallout is how it impacts on the minds of the students and the teachers," he says. "Who knows where the ripple effect stops because they have had their consciousness raised about design a little."

Earlier, during talk about specific changes taking place at the school, Ebel pops a question.

"By the way, why don't you have an interior design class here?" he says.

Manthei grins before making his reply. "No one ever suggested it. Want to teach?"

Darlene Webb listens while Larry Ebel provides some ideas for in-store displays in the vocational school's boutique.

OFFICIAL NOTICE

Village of Clarkston Synopsis

Village of Clarkston minutes of regular meeting, January 12, 1987, 375 Depot Road, Clarkston, Michigan 48016.

Meeting called to order by President Catallo at 7:30 p.m., followed by the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag.

Roll: Present: Schultz, Haven, Roeser, ApMadoc, Catallo, at 7:35 p.m. Millard.

Minutes of the last meeting were corrected and approved. The agenda was added to and approved.

ApMadoc made a motion to pay the bills totalling $26,876.05. Seconded by Schultz. 6-yes, 0-No. Motion carried.

Public hearing opened by 7:45 p.m. on the Mill Pond Dam. Pres. Catallo explained to the public what the Council has done and what the Council knows about the dam so far.

Mr. Crookshank: Ask how long the court action could take? Mr. Steckling, the Village Attorney, said we are in the middle of a court hearing now, and feels it will take about a month.

Council Basinger explained the lawsuit the Village has against Mr. Adler to repair the dam.

Mr. Goyette said the dam was offered to the Village way back when the dam was in A-1 shape—why should we take it over now when it needs so many repairs?

Mr. Scheabor feels the liability proposed and the shape the dam is in, he agrees with Mr. Goyette.

Raciff: What have the Owners of the dam offered the Village? Also Mr. Radcliff has had a key to the Hydro for over six years and has permission to open the dam when it is needed.

Thomson: He wanted to know how much Mr. Adler could drain the pond.

Attorney Steckling explained why we were concerned about the water when spring comes. Also the owner of the dam could not drain the pond unless they get a permit from the D and R.

Mr. Crookshank ask how much it would cost to repair the dam.

Mr. Stuetzer said he called Mr. Hawke in Florida. Mr. Hawke was the owner of the dam a few years ago and he told Mr. Stuetzer the dam was repaired in 1968-1970. Mr. Hawke explained how to repair the dam.

Mr. Radcliff asked—1. Who owns the land and dam? 2. Cost of repairs? 3. Put the control of the pond level into the hands of the Mill Pond Association. 4. Deed land to home owners. 5. The repair Company is in Grand Rapids.

Mrs. Wilford: When the dam was built Mr. Ford built it. He built dams all over the country just like this one.

Mr. Radcliff feels the Mill Pond Association should work with the Village, because the Village has the legal power that the Mill Pond Association does not have.

Mr. Stuetzer agreed with Mr. Radcliff.

Attorney Gaskell said Mr. Adler has offered to turn the dam and water rights over to the Village and $5,000 toward the repairs.

Mr. Wilford said the Village owns land on the Pond.

Attorney Steckling liked Mr. Radcliff idea, because he has always been concerned about the Village owning the water rights.

Mr. Crookshank: If the dam is not fixed and we have a big problem with damage, is Mr. Adler liable for the damage?

Attorney Steckling: Yes, he is responsible for the damages.

Attorney Gaskell said Mr. Powell, the Village Engineer, said it would not be wise to start repairs while the ice is on the pond for fear the ice would shift and cause problems with the repairs.

Mr. Crookshank ask Mr. Radcliff if the pond home owners could have a meeting and report back to the Council how the home owners on the pond feel.

Mr. Staples said there is lack of interest of the pond land owners in the Mill Pond Association. There is a lot of rental property on the pond.

Councilman Roeser feels we should do nothing until the case is finished in court and we find the outcome of the case.

Councilman Basinger would like to know how many people feel the Village should not get involved in the ownership of the Dam.

Mr. Gamble feels he cannot give his opinion until he find out about the whole dam problem, and the Village should go ahead with the lawsuit.

Mrs. Basinger feels she would not like to see the same thing happen to the out-lots on the Pond that happened to the out-lots on Park Lake.

Mrs. Walter feels the Village should own the Dam and then lease it to the Mill Pond Association.

Mr. Byers feels the down-stream people should be involved in the dam problems.

The Public Hearing closed at 9:01 p.m.

Millard made a motion to allow the Mill Pond Association to use the Village Hall, January 15, 1987 at 7:00 p.m. Seconded by Schultz. Motion carried.

Bob Carr from the Clarkston Methodist Church showed the Council the plans for the 3500 sq. ft. addition to the church.

Millard made a motion to refer the plans for the church addition to the Planning Commission for their February 2nd meeting. Seconded by Basinger. 7-yes, No 0. Motion carried.

Schultz made a motion to accept the appointment of Dom Mauti to the Planning Commission. Seconded by Roeser. Motion carried.

The location for the new Fire Station was discussed. President Catallo will invite Supervisor Ronk to the next Council meeting, so the Council can discuss the station location with him.

Motion by Roeser to make Rick Carpenter foreman of DPW with an additional $25.00 a week plus his hourly wage. Seconded by Schultz. Roll: 7-yes, No 0. Motion carried. Effective 1-12-87.

Motion by Basinger to go into a closed meeting to discuss litigation of M-15 and Clarkston Road sign and also to discuss the sidewalk number of Clarkston Corners. Seconded by ApMadoc. Motion carried.

Roeser made a motion to adjourn at 10:19 p.m. Seconded by ApMadoc. Motion carried.

Munk calls designer braces his optimal orthodontic option

By Pat Young

Your teenage daughter, who thinks the whole world is watching her anyway, balks at the suggestion of braces.

Then the dentist shatters your notion that "braces are for kids" by saying that you, too, need braces.

Neither prospect makes you smile. But Clarkston orthodontist Charles Munk can—and an 18-20 karat gold smile, at that!

The concept for an extraordinary orthodontic experience evolved about two years ago.

"My last patient on a Friday afternoon was an adult who knew she needed braces, but didn't really want them," Munk says. "She asked if she could have something different."

What's new in business

"After giving her question a moment's thought," Munk says, "it was like a light bulb went off in my head."

Combining science and function with aesthetics, Munk created designer braces. The brackets, or metal pieces bonded to the tooth surfaces, are made of 18 karat gold and can be further customized with artwork such as heart shapes or initials. The wires, which pass through the brackets, are made of 20 karat gold.

"I had to come up with a new metallurgical formula for harder gold," Munk explains. The braces have a high level of platinum for strength.

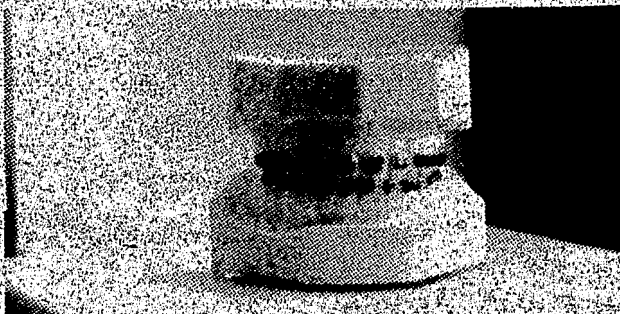

A patent search turned up no similar idea, so Munk has a patent pending on his invention.

"During the first couple of years of research and development, I offered the braces on a very limited basis," he says.

"It's a progressive thing, and at each step, I find everything is working," he continues. The clinical results are the same as with conventional braces.

Interest is peaking on designer braces. For the young wearer, the braces are "cool." For the adult, the braces impart a classy and elegant look to an otherwise functional necessity.

Though laboratory tests have not been completed, Munk notes increased effectiveness of home oral hygiene care in those patients with gold braces.

Designer braces sport 18 karat gold brackets, some with customized designs such as hearts, and 20 karat gold-plated wires.

Psychologically, wearers seem more motivated to keep this "jewelry for the mouth" clean.

And when the jewelry comes out of the mouth following treatment, it can be used as other jewelry—earrings, necklaces, pins or "brace-lets"—or for whatever purpose the owner desires.

"The cost is only about $800 more than regular orthodontic treatment," says Munk. "And of course, the patient gets to keep the gold."

Oxford dentist Marie Hunter decided on orthodontic work, and when she heard of Munk's invention, she decided to try it.

"I like the gold and the originality of it," she says. "It looks like jewelry, and since it's a precious metal, there is no metallic taste in your mouth like there is with silver."

"People notice," she continues. "They have a hard time believing that it's really gold braces. It's a real surprise response."

Hunter also says she likes the way the gold blends with the natural skin tones.

"You don't look like a metal mouth," she laughs.

A brochure Munk has had prepared touts designer braces as "the optimal orthodontic option."

"I think the origination of this idea is nothing more than a response to what a percentage of the orthodontic population wants," says Munk. "Some people just want a unique experience. They want to do things differently."

A man of many interests who describes himself as a "creative person," Munk says he is happiest when he has projects and challenges.

"It doesn't matter to me how I move a tooth," he says. "A brace is just a tool, whether it's stainless steel, acrylic, or gold. If the patient feels better with a clear brace or a designer brace, it's fine with me."

"Our only limitation is our imagination."

Oxford dentist Marie Hunter smiles, displaying the set of designer braces Munk created for her.

Clarkston orthodontist Charles Munk does a little adjusting on Oxford dentist Marie Hunter's designer braces.

The Lake Orion Review

How much does it cost for drug treatment?

Dear Cat Paw:

Can you find out how much it costs to go into a treatment center for drugs? I'm just wondering how much it takes to get clean.

Student

Dear Student:

Prices vary. Your best bet is to call treatment centers in the area and ask for information. Reputable centers will be happy to mail you any information they have available.

Most residential facilities charge about $10,000 per term. The Betty Ford center in California charges $5,000 per term and the Hazelden Facility in Minnesota charges $4,000.

Some state-operated treatment centers charge according to the patient's ability to pay. A few communities are lucky enough to have facilities that offer treatment free of charge.

Some insurance companies will pay for drug rehabilitation. The insurance industry spends some $6 million annually to treat less than 5 percent of the nation's addicts.

If you are really interested in entering a treatment center, have your parents visit and tour several treatment centers and get all the information firsthand.

Dear Cat Paw:

Is it true that when you use cocaine you also use other drugs with it or used to use other drugs? Or do people just start with coke?

Dear Grass Smoker:

A recent national survey on drug abuse states that almost 100 percent of all people who have tried cocaine have used marijuana.

Dear Cat Paw:

What drug do kids use most often? I say it's cocaine and a friend says it's marijuana. Can you settle this argument?

Hopeful

Dear Hopeful:

You are both wrong! Alcohol is enemy number one for kids and adults.

Dear Cat Paw:

I want to know what black tar is. I've heard of it and want to know before I get some.

User

Dear User:

Black tar is a new highly potent Mexican heroin. Users do not realize black tar is much stronger than the white powder they are used to, which is causing many more deaths from overdose.

Cat Paw author Jeanette Sanders, a Springfield Township resident, is a state certified substance abuse counselor and a member of the Clarkston Area Chemical People, an organization devoted to the prevention of drug abuse among the community's young people.

Someone

Stephanie Bechtel

It usually happens fast.

One day I'm walking down the hall at school thinking about algebra or biology, and the next I'm walking on air with my head in the clouds thinking about "someone."

That's when you know you're hit. Daydreaming in class, being shut off from the world, and always talking about that "someone."

These are all symptoms of a teenage crush, in the worst degree. And who can tell you more about them than a teenager?

It may be someone you've never met or it may be someone you've known for years. Either way it is still the same. A crush. Infatuation.

You no longer know the difference between multiplication and division. And in English class similes, metaphors and conjunctions all sound like a foreign language.

You can't pay attention during a test because you know you'll see "someone" before your next class. And you can't eat lunch because "somebody" sits at the table in front of you.

Believe me, I know from experience that it is mentally impossible to remember your locker combination when you know that "someone" is walking by behind you.

You go through all this at school, not to mention the nights you spend awake, daydreaming about "somebody."

You're embarrassed to tell him, but you want him to know that you're dreaming your days away all for "someone."

So you send him flowers, anonymously of course, and drop hints here and there, all in hopes that someday "someone" will feel the same.

Until then you'll wonder about in a daze waking up only to watch him slowly walk by.

Stephanie Bechtel, a ninth-grader at Sashabaw Junior High School, is working with The Clarkston News this school year through the SJHS Mentorship Program.

Murals serve as colorful guides to programs pretty drab and they wanted to do something to give the hallways some interest," Scissors said. In addition, the graphics serve as guides to the location of each program.

Each design has required 20 to 25 hours of work. Some have changed during the painting process because of suggestions from teachers about colors and about specific portions of the program that should be included in the symbols.

In the 12 years Scissors has been painting graphics, he figures he's created about 3,000 of them.

Now age 33, he found his career while studying architecture at Lawrence Institute of Technology in Southfield after a friend asked him to paint a graphic on a wall.

"I was working in a grocery store and going to college, then I started doing this," he said. "It was fun and the people were real receptive to it."

"As an art form, it was just starting to peak. I don't think it's peaked yet. It's obviously going to be around in one form or another, and then again, it's an alternative to wallpaper."

Many of his murals are found in private homes around Oakland County as well as in Tecumseh, Adrian, Mt. Clemens and Florida. They range in style from Art Deco irises to New Wave triangles and lines that incorporate the name of the bedroom's occupant.

He has also created graphics for offices of doctors, dentists and lawyers, some retail businesses and the student lounge inside the Specs Howard School of Broadcasting Arts in Southfield.

The vocational center was his first project in a high school setting.

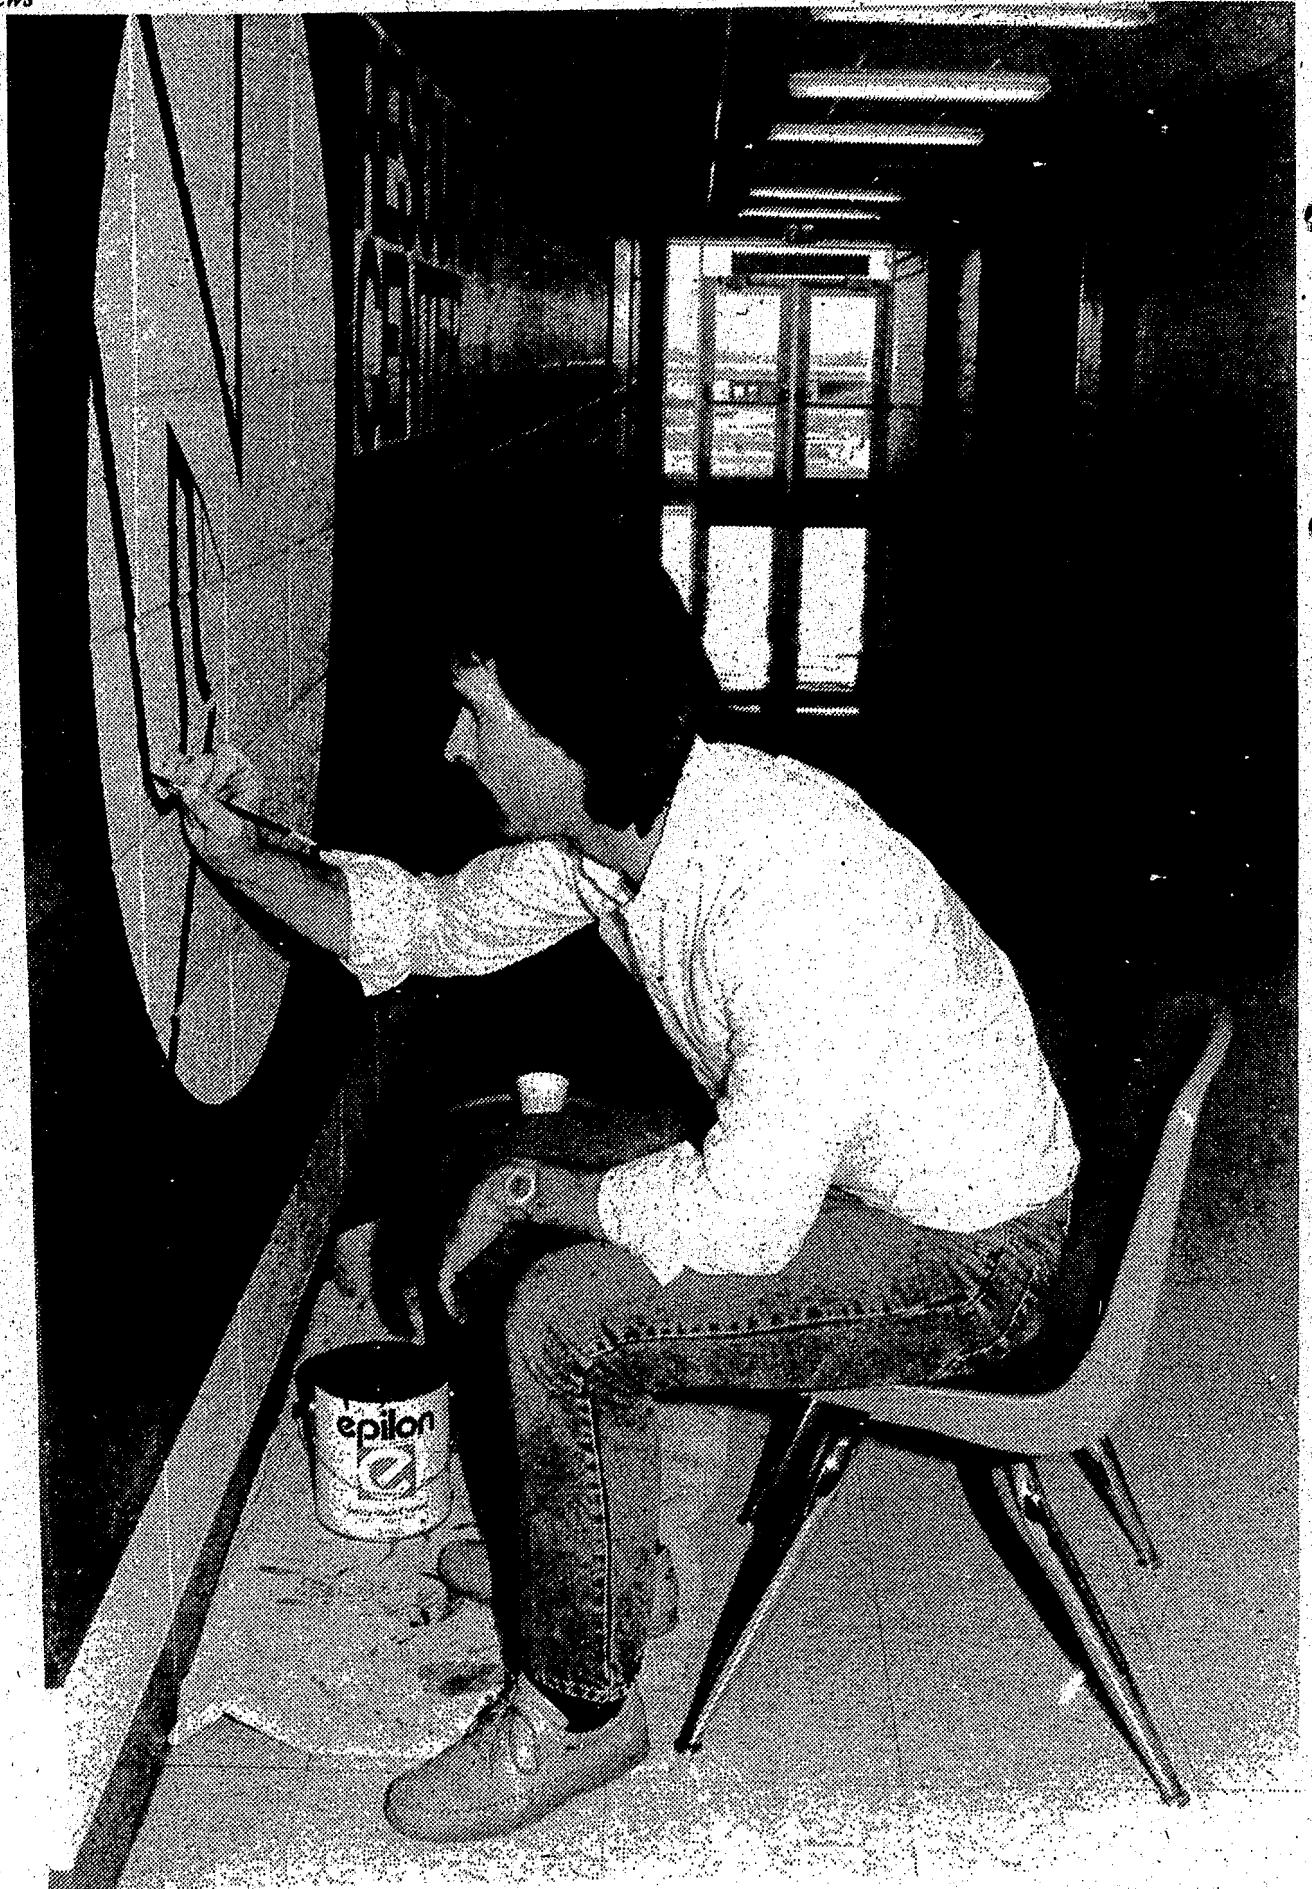

"I was somewhat intimidated by it because, first of all, it's kind of far away from (my home in Farmington), it's in a school setting, it's epoxy (paint), and it's on block walls," he said.

But he's glad he decided to take the job.

"It's become an enjoyable experience," he said.

"I've made a lot of new friends here. For me to work nine to 10 months on a job is very unusual."

"I can't see me ever forgetting working here. Without exception, everyone has been kind and enthusiastic."

With the large purple band and name of the program completed, Jeff Scissors begins detail work inside the circle. The design includes symbols for books and computers.

Cash prizes for Valentines

Junior high students can cash in on their creativity in the second annual Valentine Contest sponsored by the Independence Township Library.

Top prize in each of three categories is a $10 bag of bucks. Second-prize winners receive Baryshnikov posters.

Only one entry is allowed per student. The categories include poetry, the writing of an original poem or adapting a familiar one; arts and crafts, the creation of a valentine collage, painting or three-dimensional object; and one-liners, the creation of a funny one-line greeting.

Contest rules are posted in the library and in all area junior high schools. The deadline for entries is Feb. 5, but Valentines are being accepted now for display in the library.

Hours at the library, at 6495 Clarkston Rd., are 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday. The library is closed Friday and Sunday.

'Most energy efficient castle'

House under construction is builder's dream

By Julie Campe

For Joseph Pica, normally a commercial builder, building this Independence Township house was a once-in-a-lifetime chance.

"Everything in this house is unique," said the Orion Township resident, adding that only the best materials are being used.

Currently under construction on Heather Lake, the 14,000- to 15,000-square-foot house rests on two of the owner's three lots on Newcastle Drive.

"I'm doing this with the intention that this building is going to be here for the next two centuries," said Pica.

He's building it for George Milidrag, who also owns Entech Engineering in Troy, where Pica built most of the commercial buildings.

"This is a lot of fun, I'm telling you," said Pica. "Typically, over at Entech on my commercial buildings, the challenge is not the building. It's how quick I can turn it over. They need the buildings yesterday."

"This is going to be an extremely energy efficient castle," he said. "It's going to be the most energy efficient castle on this earth."

"I'm doing this with the intention that this building is going to be here for the next two centuries."

Pica took time from his hectic construction schedule to give a preview of the house.

With three floors, the house has 11 bathrooms, 19 French doors, three or four fireplaces, two valet parking stations, a brick archway at the front door, a pool and separate servants' quarters—yet to be built.

The details will make the house stand out, said Pica.

The four-car garage, for instance, has redwood doors and steel beams between each door. The beams will protect the house almost forever, said Pica.

If someone accidentally runs into the garage, the structure of the house will remain intact, he said.

Below the garage is an airtight bomb shelter, complete with a damper to allow oxygen from the "outside world" if needed, said Pica.

The kitchen is to be furnished with stainless steel commercial equipment, he said—likewise in the lower level kitchen (smaller, but still prepared to entertain dozens of guests).

"Cooking for 100 people will be no problem," said Pica.

The elevator, too, is of the commercial hydraulic type; no pulley mechanisms for this house.

With oak doors, the back of the elevator will have a glass window, so passengers can look outside from the two floors that are above ground.

The lower level has a recreation room or baby great room, a billiards room, sauna, whirlpool, two changing rooms, two bathrooms and a full-sized commercially equipped bar.

"It would be an injustice to call it a basement," said Pica.

The main floor has the "great room," the height of which stretches two floors.

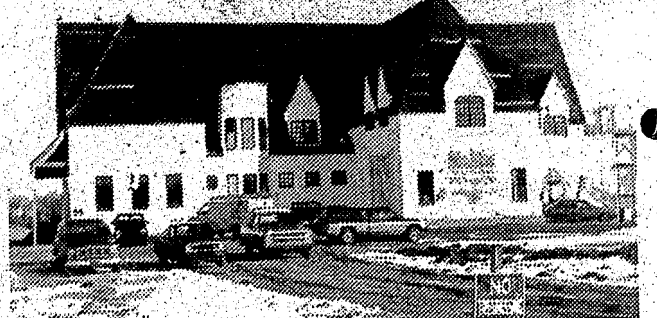

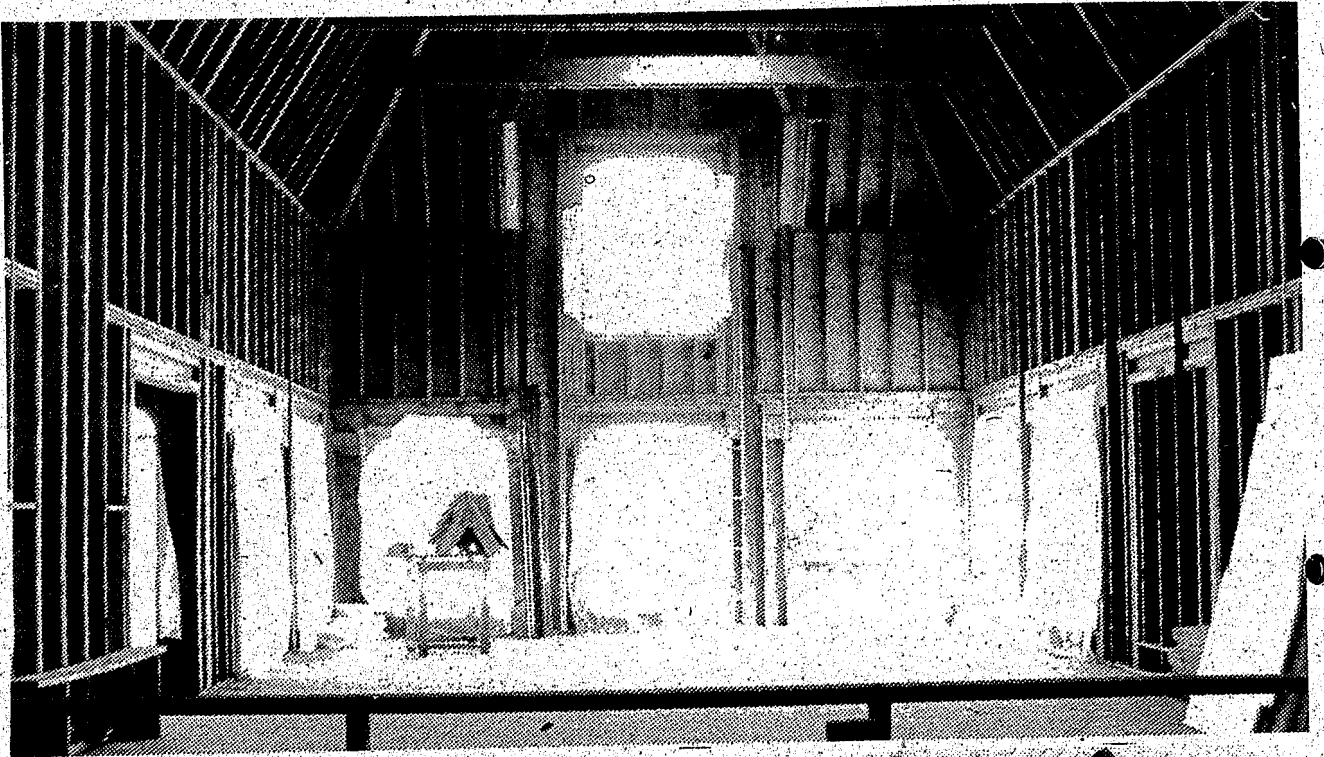

On one side of the great room is the dining room, with a vaulted ceiling. On the other side is a music room and a library.

On the upper floor above the music room and library is the master bedroom, with an octagonal-shaped sitting room—a turret that reaches the length of two floors. The inverted cone at the top was constructed on the ground and placed on the roof with a crane, said Pica.

Above the kitchen are two walk-in closets and a full-sized bathroom.

The bathroom is to have a walk-in shower, large claw-foot tub, toilet and vanity.

Each of the two guest rooms is to have its own generous bathroom, he said, with a walk-in shower and tub.

The "Great Room," looking out onto Heather Lake, (pictured at top) spans two floors. At left, Joe Pica smiles when he talks about building this "castle." In the picture above, the front of the house shows two stories including part of the archway holding two valet parking stations (at right in the photo). Below, this view from the back, where the pool is to be built, shows some of the lower level. One of the octagonal-shaped turrets is also visible.

To be used for storage. The fourth level or attic is to be fully insulated and finished with drywall.

Above the this level is the actual attic with 18-inch walkways.

The house is to be furnished with a commercial heating and cooling system capable of heating one room and cooling another at the same time, he said. It'll take one month to wire the house for 2,000 amps of power, he said.

The roof is made with concrete shingles and copper and comes with a 50-year warranty against leakage.

"I'm really having fun with it because I know I'll never see it again," said Pica.

He started in September and hopes to finish this summer, he said.

For now, full-time security guards watch the site because curious lookers frequently stop by, said Pica.
