Box burns

By Chris Gerbasi

One firefighter suffered second degree burns as about a dozen firefighters put out a blaze which destroyed the Clarkston High School press box Feb. 18, said Gar Wilson, acting Independence Township fire chief.

Firefighter Robert Pursley was not seriously hurt, but was treated for burns on his back, said Wilson.

The incident occurred at about 11:20 p.m. at the football field, where the press box is atop the east side bleachers. Firefighters had the flames under control in about 15 to 20 minutes after arriving at the scene.

The fire was "definitely intentional," Wilson said. "It looks like a flammable liquid was used."

Arson investigators from the Oakland County Sheriff's Department are working to determine the precise liquid used, he said.

"It's senseless destruction. You wonder why somebody would do that. There's no rhyme or reason to it."

—Dr. Robert Burek, Principal
Clarkston High School

Investigators are certain at least two people were involved in setting the fire, Wilson said.

Bent barbed wire was found atop the fence at the rear of the parking lot adjacent to the football field, with two sets of footprints leading to and from the bleachers, he said.

The structure of the two-story press box, which was remodeled last summer at a cost of $4,900, is generally intact. But Wilson said the inside is completely gutted.

Assistant superintendent of schools Mel Vaara said the wiring was destroyed and rebuilding the structure could cost in excess of $7,500. He also said the insurance policy on the press box included a $5,000 deductible.

Vaara expects the press box to be rebuilt by the start of the fall sports season.

"It's senseless destruction," said Clarkston principal Dr. Robert Burek. "You wonder why somebody would do that. There's no rhyme or reason to it."

Wilson said there were no suspects as of Tuesday morning.

A $2,000 reward has been offered by the Michigan Arson Committee for any information leading to the arrest and conviction of the persons responsible.

Anyone with information can call investigators at 858-4960.

Tacked on the telephone pole behind the charred press box is a notice that $2,000 will be paid for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the arsonists.

Chemical abuse is meeting topic

By Pat Young

Thirty to 40 people from the community gathered to discuss one major concern—chemical abuse—at the Clarkston Schools Board of Education office Feb. 19.

The meeting was an outgrowth of the chemical workshops sponsored last fall by Clarkston Community Schools and The Chemical People.

"It was a nice mix of people," said Katie MacKay, who, along with Linc Smith, coordinates Clarkston High School's Support, Education, Awareness, Resources for Chemical-Free Health (SEARCH) program.

Members of the religious community, the courts and law enforcement agencies, schools, area merchants and business people, and the media were represented, MacKay said, as well as other interested parents and area residents. Some had been in attendance at the fall workshops.

The meeting was intended as a "brainstorming" session, MacKay said. The next meeting will be a "plan of action" meeting.

People in attendance were broken down into groups to discuss specific areas, such as intervention and prevention.

"They looked at different ideas, such as a community center, because pre-adolescents need something to do, too," MacKay said.

Also suggested were networking groups, parent support and the after-graduation party.

"And we need to create an environment where adults can feel comfortable, too, if they need to seek help," MacKay added. "Maybe even approaching different establishments that serve alcohol and having referral services available, or having a contest for making the best non-alcoholic drink. We need to promote a non-alcoholic atmosphere."

MacKay stressed that this was just a brainstorming session, and these were just ideas, but some were enthusiastically supported.

The media group came up with a slogan, "Aware," that means Aware Declares War on Chemical Dependency Through Action and Education. It was suggested that the schools could be approached to sponsor a logo contest for "Aware" among the students.

The school group suggested in-service curriculums and developing intervention in schools, such as a concerned persons group at the elementary level.

"We also want to address the issue of adolescents who are pulled over by the law for having substances in their cars," MacKay said.

"Right now, parents might not even find out because a letter is sent to the home and it could be intercepted by the teen," MacKay continued. "We need to make parents more aware and responsible."

Another topic discussed at the meeting was the problem of establishments which sell alcohol to underage people, and how to put a stop to it.

This was the second organizational meeting of the chemical dependency workshop participants and other concerned citizens. MacKay said it is a "good group," interested in tackling the problem of abuse.

"The main goal is to get all of these different groups working together," she said. "It is a community effort."

Clarification

Free copies of the fill-in-the-blank will printed by the state of Michigan are now available by calling State Rep. Mat Dunaskiss' office at 693-4820.

Due to high demand across the state, copies of the will were unavailable after the Feb. 4 article in The Clarkston News, Dunaskiss said.

Those who call his office now can request to receive a copy of the will in the mail, he said.

Dusty road help

Every summer, clouds of dust plague residents on dirt roads—but help is available.

Residents on public and private roads in Independence Township can participate in the Oakland County Dust Control Program. On Feb. 17, the township board voted 5-0 to join the program.

If residents pay 18 cents per linear foot, the township will pay 12 cents per linear foot to hire the county road commission to spray chloride on dirt roads.

To participate, property owners should call the township office at 625-5111.

Report recaps details of fatal plane crash

By Julie Campe

The conclusion to the factual report isn't complete yet, but it appears that three factors contributed to a mid-air plane collision at the Oakland Pontiac Airport March 1, 1986, according to air safety investigator Robert Benzen.

The collision killed Clarkston High School Principal John Kirchgessner and seriously injured Anthony Palazzola of Independence Township and Patrick Gorrie of Ortonville.

The factual report, issued Sept. 26, 1986, by the National Transportation Safety Board, was written by Benzen with contributions from four others.

"We concluded, more or less, that it was a very busy point in the traffic pattern," said Benzen last week. "One particular pilot—the one who struck the other plane from behind—didn't have a lot of experience, but people in the tower were very busy, too. It was a combination of these three things. It was a complicated accident."

The five-member National Transportation Safety Board is to issue a probable cause in April, said Benzen.

According to the report, the day of the accident was overcast, with 10 miles of visibility, and the ground was covered with snow.

Earlier in the day, a pilot reported losing sight of a white airplane in the snowy background.

Around 4 p.m. on Saturday, both Gorrie and Kirchgessner were flying Cessna airplanes. Palazzola was presumed to be a passenger in Kirchgessner's plane, but he does not remember anything about the accident or the events prior to it, according to the report.

The report summarized the events.

Gorrie's plane was circling the airport, waiting to perform a "touch and go"—a practice landing and take-off.

An accident occurred on the ground, and the control tower closed the runway to allow emergency vehicles to assist.

The control tower operator told Gorrie to bypass the runway and "follow a Cessna ahead and to your right—the second one . . ."

Gorrie answered, "Negative on the traffic," which means he did not see the aircraft indicated by the control tower, said Benzen.

The control tower did not reply, but continued with instructions to the other aircraft to overfly the runway and go around.

In the meantime, two other Cessnas were on their final approaches to land, followed by Kirchgessner's Cessna and then Gorrie's Cessna.

The control tower operator told Kirchgessner he was number two in the landing pattern "following a Cessna on final."

Then the control tower operator told Gorrie he was number three in the pattern "following a Cessna on base (referring to Kirchgessner's plane)," which means a plane not yet on its final approach, but preparing for it, said Benzen.

"It was a complicated accident."

—Robert Benzen
Air Safety Investigator

Seconds later, Gorrie's Cessna overcame Kirchgessner's while still in the air, and they collided, both hitting the ground at the same time.

The report includes a written statement from Gorrie, saying he did not see the Kirchgessner's plane and that he followed the other Cessna in to land.

"The approach was very normal, and I had planned to make a normal landing," he said. "All of a sudden from out of nowhere I found myself on top of an airplane."

Palazzola has no memory of the day, and did not write a report.

Several lawsuits have been filed as a result of the collision, but the safety board report should have no effect on them, said attorney Paul Valentino, representing Palazzola.

To keep the safety board reports as objective as possible, they're not admissible in court, said Valentino.

The reports did give more information, he said, and some of the facts may be used by experts in court, but the reports themselves are not allowed.

IT'S ONLY MAKE-BELIEVE: After performing as Alice Cooper during the Air Band competition Feb. 19 at Clarkston High School, Chuck Repuhn said the experience was as fun as it looked. He was surprised, however, that some of the girls seemed to think his rubber stand-in for Alice Cooper's boa constrictor was real. The band placed in the top five in the pantomime show, but failed to win a top-three prize. More photos are on Page 48. (Photos by Kathy Greenfield)

Rates will rise for Fido's tags

The rates go up for 1987 dog licenses after Friday, Feb. 27.

Currently, the fees are $5 for 6-month-old puppies and spayed or neutered dogs with written proof of surgery, and $7.50 for all other dogs.

Beginning March 2, the fee increases to $15 unless residents have recently moved to the community or the dog is new.

A current rabies certificate must be presented when the license is purchased.

The licenses, in the shape of a gold star for 1987, are inscribed with Michigan Dog License, an individual number, Oakland County and 1987.

The licenses are moving quickly at Independence Township Hall, said Lillian Jawlik, deputy treasurer, although on Monday afternoon only about 600 had been sold compared to 1,200 in 1986.

"Getting the license assures us that the dog, at least, has a rabies vaccination, which is very important to us," said Jawlik.

The licenses may be purchased at the township treasurer's office from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays. The office is inside Township Hall, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

Are more officers needed?

Village tackles police protection question

By Julie Campe

A public hearing may solve the dilemma of the Clarkston Village Council.

Although a date isn't scheduled, the council plans to hold a hearing to discover how village residents feel about police coverage and if they favor a tax raise to pay for more coverage.

The decision to pursue the issue was made at the council's Feb. 23 meeting.

But first, some of the council members plan to meet with Independence Township officials to find out the options.

The township contracts for police coverage with the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, and the village contracts with the township for its coverage.

At the meeting, council members discussed the township's proposed police contract, which called for a 1.5-mill increase to 2.5 mills (approved by the township voters in November) to double police coverage. They took no action.

One mill is $1 for every $1,000 in assessed property valuation.

The village's 1-mill contract expires in a year, said Village Council President Sharron Catallo.

At the Feb. 9 meeting, council members said the cost was too much for what they received. They weren't sure they needed extra police coverage since their population hadn't increased, nor had their crime.

At the Feb. 23 meeting, Trustee Frank Millard suggested three options: negotiating with the township to guarantee a certain number of hours of non-emergency service in the village—such as traffic control; paying a straight rate for eight hours of traffic control per week, for example, and continuing with the present 1-mill contract; or going with the proposed township contract.

"We'd be paying the same pro rata share that everybody else in the township does," he said. "Because if at the end of the year they're not going to contract with us, then where are we?"

Trustee William Basinger favored negotiating for

"We need a different kind of police protection. We don't have all the break-ins and the vandalism (that the township does). We have (traffic problems). You can't mix these two things up."

—Sharron Catallo
Village President

specific service.

"I can't see us going to a mill and a half (more) no matter what," said Basinger. "I've heard that we should pay because we're part of the township, but we're not. . . . The township and village are equal (municipalities) in the county."

Also, the proposed contract may not be accurate, because it appears the village is paying for more service than it's receiving, he said.

The council should consider the number of calls in the village (about 3 percent according to his calculations) and the distance traveled in the village compared to the average township call. A total of two miles of roads are in the village, Basinger said.

Catallo, too, favored a change.

"We need a different kind of police protection," she said. "We don't have all the break-ins and the vandalism (that the township does). We have (traffic problems). You can't mix these two things up. I'm sure people would be willing to pay if they could see something for it."

"Nobody has called about this, saying they want more coverage or they don't," she added.

Trustee Douglas Roeser noted that there appears to be some confusion among residents.

"Nobody knows what we have or what we don't have or what we might have," he said, adding that council members should talk with the township officials before a decision is made.

Clarkston decides to sue over sign

The Clarkston Village Council decided Monday to file a lawsuit in the 52nd District Court seeking the removal of a lighted muffler sign on the corner of Clarkston Road and Main Street.

The sign, issued by the village in error last spring, violates a zoning ordinance, according to the council.

The muffler shop owner and the village have been negotiating the conditions of the sign removal for six months, and when the village's final offer two weeks ago was rejected, the council decided to file suit.

"Our own attorney said to enforce our ordinance," said Trustee William Basinger at the Feb. 23 meeting.

"We're in a no-win situation," he said, comparing the cost of allowing the sign to stay with the monetary cost of removing it through litigation.

Since it's not an issue of fact but a question of law, the case shouldn't take a long time in court, said Trustee Frank Millard.

Muffler shop owner Guss Voss commented after the meeting.

"I guess we'll go ahead and go to court," he said. "It seems kind of strange to me, all this hassle over one little sign. . . . We've gone way beyond the means to negotiate something with them. The sign was legally given to me. I gave them a price to purchase the sign, and they (offered) me substantially less. If I would have accepted it, I would lose money."

Kathy
Greenfield

I'm always dubious when an announcement arrives in the mail that I've won a prize—and the stamped-on stamp says "Bulk Rate."

Lately, it seems, I've won a lot. Trips to Florida and points further south, chances to see first-run movies, and so on.

Most memorable, up until now, was the incredible (!!!!) opportunity to take my $300 prize and select a prize that would cost me, roughly, from $150 to $300 more.

I can't report the details more precisely because I threw that opportunity in the trash.

Not to worry. Yesterday's mail brought something even better. We're talking American eagle and stars on the front with "First Round Prize Winner" stamped in red.

I must be honest. I love junk mail. I like being on mailing lists. The entertainment value is tremendous.

I couldn't wait to "fold and tear along dotted line" to see what was inside. I wasn't disappointed.

I was most happy, for instance, to learn that I was tied to win the grand prize of $25,000. I searched in vain for the actual number of people I was tied with.

I learned that I didn't have to actually order the advertised perfumes to win. In order to claim my unnamed prize, however, I could not use the enclosed return envelope unless I ordered some perfume.

Then a folded sheet of paper beckoned me with: "Do not open this sealed notice unless you are able to respond within 11 days."

Good grief, I thought, all 2-year-olds respond to instructions that begin with "don't" by doing exactly what follows.

Inside the notice were "Surprise Gift No. 1" and "Surprise Gift No. 2." I duly noted how kute and clever it was to use a "z" in surprise.

The sur-prizes were almost terrific: a genuine fake pearl necklace (they used faux instead of fake) and a dinner ring with genuine 1/2 carat faceted crystal (as in genuine glass).

All I had to do to claim this pair of incredible (!!!!) gifts was mail my perfume order in promptly.

But back to that mysterious first round prize that I'd won no matter what.

I decided that whatever it was, it was going to include genuine acrylic resin in one form or another.

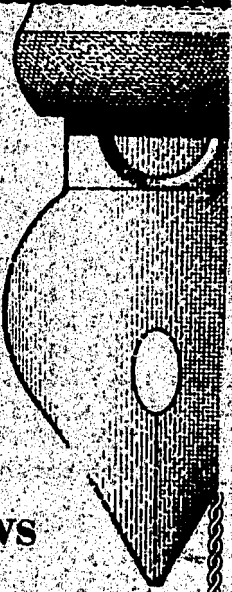

I was almost curious enough to dig out an envelope and go for it with a 22-cent stamp. Almost.

Jim's Jottings

Bud Hickmott, farmer, auctioneer, businessman and occasional story teller, passed along a note he received from a friend.

"Dear friend,

"I have become 65-years-old since I last saw you, and a few changes have come into my life since then. Frankly, I have become quite a frivolous gal.

"I'm seeing five gentlemen every day. As soon as I wake up, WILL POWER helps me out of bed. Then he leaves and I go see JOHN. Then CHARLEY HORSE comes along and he takes a lot of my time and attention.

"When he finally leaves, ARTHUR RITIS shows up and stays the rest of the day. He doesn't like to stay in one place very long, so he takes me from one joint to another joint.

"After such a busy day, I am really tired and glad to go to bed with BEN GAY.

What A Life!"

If you listen carefully to Bud when he's urging betters to go a little higher, you might hear him say, as I did, "And, you never see a U-haul behind a hearse."

Pollsters for George Gallop Jr. should be embarrassed after publishing such totally unrealistic, untruthful, and unAmerican results to their survey on favorite sports.

Golf World magazine said the survey is hard to believe, and they aren't prejudice. The 1986 Gallups found the leisure sports of swimming, bicycling and fishing the most popular pastimes, while golf ranks 23rd -- behind table tennis, body building and Frisbee.

At least golf placed above jogging, running, scuba diving, archery, roller skating and touch football.

Regular Jottings readers know I can't catch fish. The only shore fish fry I ever had was 25 years ago, and even then the other fishermen didn't catch enough to really make it worth building the fire.

I yearned for the shore-lunch experience before then, and I yearn for it today.

However, I came as close to having such a feast February 7 as I may ever get. Pansy Baldwin and I were guests of Red Rewold, owner of the Village Cleaners in Rochester, and owner of a home on Hubbard Lake.

Red claims to be a catcher of fish, but his wife, Rita, is really the provider of the brain food. Well, she put one of her summer catches with some other Hubbard-Lakers, and neighbor Jack King put on a community fish fry in his house.

Lightly battered and deeply fried walleye, brown trout, northern pike, and orange roughy came out of the kitchen in great quantities. Perhaps a shore lunch in the Canadian waters would be better. I don't know, this was so-o-o good, but I'd still like to find out.

Letters to the editor

Cleanup comment

Reading the article of Feb. 11 about the Spring Cleanup this year, I was very disappointed in the approach the Independence Township Board has selected to solve this community's problems.

When the first cleanup was started a few years back, the board knew that Federal Revenue Sharing would not last forever.

But as always, we are now faced with this problem without support from the federal government. So charge the people a fee to dump, and go on to the next fast-fix problem.

The board has done nothing but put the cleanup program back to square one. The high fees will only encourage the people to dump on the back roads and in empty fields again.

So far, the success of the Spring Cleanup has accomplished two things.

First, we picked up trash that has been left for years; and, second, it was becoming a community-supported effort, as one could see by the participation each year.

Our organization, Michigamme Knolls, since the first cleanup—by the way, it was our suggestion to the board to start a Spring Cleanup—has cleaned Iroquois, Michigamme and Stickney. Two of the three are county roads.

In fact, it has taken us until this year to clean up the mess on Stickney that everyone refers to as the appliance store because of the old abandoned stoves, refrigerators, etc.

With the help of the township ordinance department, the owner of the property was contacted, we were successful in removing all the trash and the entrance was sealed off so no one else could enter to dump again.

It is this type of positive action that we need more of.

Everyone living or working in Independence Township must be aware and help accomplish a better and cleaner environment.

I am sure we could defray the cost with a modest $1 surcharge. There are enough families and businesses to support this modest fee. Businesses can not be exempt from this surcharge, because where do the people purchase all this refuse?

Also, let's not use the cliché, "Let the people who use it pay for it." If this were true, I am paying a lot of taxes for things I do not use.

Come on, board members, let's get serious and study what has happened. We should be encouraging people to dump at the Spring Cleanup and not on the back roads.

Dunaskiss asks

While Gov. James Blanchard, in his State of the State address, outlined many improvements that are needed in the areas of education, crime, unemployment, workers' compensation reform and the environment, I was disappointed that he failed to outline the steps we have to take to accomplish these tasks.

Although lawmakers from both sides of the aisle agree that better financing for education is a major goal in Michigan, this top priority issue has received little attention thus far from the Blanchard Administration.

The Legislature in the past has voted for higher budget recommendations than those proposed by the administration—increases in education and other areas they felt were needed.

The governor mentioned becoming the "best educated" and yet gave no clue on how he thought we should achieve this important goal.

As a former educator, I know that in order to be the "best educated" we must first solve the problem of the inequitable educational financing which now exists in our state.

Our property tax situation in Michigan is one of the worst in the country and yet our educational system is nowhere near as efficient as it should be.

It is crucial that the 84th Legislature work toward enacting comprehensive property tax reform measures and develop a better method of financing education, perhaps through an increase in the sales tax.

As a state with a budget surplus, caused by Blanchard's 38 percent income tax rate increase three years ago, what do we have to show for it?

The governor claims we are a "comeback" state. One needs only to go to the local MESC office and look at the lines to see how far we've "come."

We are tired of hearing of "jobs, jobs, jobs" and "winning" as we watch friends lose jobs and plants close down. Instead of worrying about the "world," which Blanchard mentioned 13 times, let us concentrate on our own communities.

What we need now is leadership—not what was offered in Blanchard's address—he offered no solutions, although Republican lawmakers have already addressed this issue and outlined a plan of action.

We need to get tougher on criminals, and especially work toward offering juveniles an alternative to crime—jobs.

Let's reduce worker's compensation costs by changing the definition of disability and offering retraining and rehabilitation to injured workers.

We can give up our title of having the most expensive unemployment compensation system in the nation by repealing automatic unemployment benefit

Shamrocks add interesting touch

Jim Fitzgerald

I received a valentine that said: "Sure hope someone special has lots of fun on Valentine's Day!" Enclosed was a red condom with a red heart stuck on it.

The sender was Patricia Blugerman, director of Patient Services for the area Planned Parenthood League Inc. She explained: "We have strived to overcome the young people's problems with asking for condoms and then not having the money to pay for them. Our solution at the five Metropolitan Detroit offices is to have a clear fishbowl in the lobby filled with different-colored condoms.

This month, because of Valentine's Day, I have used red condoms and applied red hearts to the outside of the bowls. Next month it will be green condoms and shamrocks.

If she were alive today, I would ask my dear Irish Catholic mother if she were glad the Planned Parenthood League didn't forget St. Patrick. There would be no answer, because Mother would have fainted.

Patricia Blugerman was responding to a recent column in which I recalled using condoms, received free from the Army, to blouse my pantlegs around the tops of my infantry boots. Also responding were several other World War II veterans with similar memories. The most fascinating recollection came from Art Brooks of Southfield, who was in the 68th Fighter Squadron on the South Pacific island of Tongatabu in 1942.

"TONGATABU WAS an exotic 'road' island," Brooks said. "One expected Bing Crosby and Bob Hope to saunter down to the shore. There just had to be more than enough Dorothy Lamours complete with sexy sarongs to go around."

Naturally, the airmen's "eyes widened" when the first shipload of supplies included many boxes of condoms, "more condoms than even we could ever use," especially under local conditions, which were: "Just as in 'South Pacific,' the Tongan queen shipped most of the eligible females to another island."

So what was the purpose of thousands of condoms? For daily gunnery practice: "After cleaning a machine gun, armorers would slide one over the muzzle," Brooks said. "It kept moisture and rust out. When the pilot fired, the condom blew away."

(There may be a suggestion there for condom manufacturers demonstrating the strength of their product in TV commercials. Wasn't there once a breakfast cereal shot out of a cannon?)

"But on Tonga, where birth control was a problem for the natives, not all the condoms were used as some smart general intended," Brooks said. "They were stolen freely. The condom became a unit of currency. One condom would buy a stalk of bananas or a couple of coconuts. Our contribution to Tonga society was solely birth control. No more."

THE 68TH went on to fight on several other islands, finally reaching Japan, where it was deactivated. "But with all of the action the squadron saw, and during the rest of the years of its life (after Tonga), no other carton of condoms ever arrived to keep the moisture out and rust away," Brooks concluded. "Another fine idea down the drain."

Also concluded (here) is yet another public discussion of condoms. I wish I owned stock in a condom company. Suddenly, after too many years of sniggering obscurity, condoms have become our most talked-about product. It may even become boring. As part of the cover story in last week's Newsweek, famed columnist commentator George Will hung his condom philosophizing on the use of the word "condomized" on the "St. Elsewhere" TV show. A week earlier, I did the same thing. Ho hum.

And it has all happened because of the fear of AIDS, rather than the need for birth control. As my mother used to say, God works in mysterious ways, but she wouldn't have said it about green condoms in honor of St. Patrick's Day.

Arrest made in connection with CHS assault

By Chris Gerbasi

A Clarkston High School student has been arraigned and charged with assault with intent to maim for an incident which occurred after a Clarkston-Lakeland varsity basketball game Jan. 27, said Lt. Kenneth Peppiatt of the White Lake Township police. Michael Patrick Grable, 17, of Independence Township, was arraigned Feb. 19 before Judge Michael Batchik of the 52nd District Court in Walled Lake, according to a court clerk.

He was released on a $5,000 bond and on a $100 bond for a second count of assault or assault and battery.

Grable was also released on the condition he be evaluated by a counselor and the report be presented to Batchik within seven days, that he be confined to his home except to attend classes and that he refrain from using alcoholic beverages or drugs, said the court.

His preliminary hearing is scheduled March 3 at 9:30 a.m. before Judge Martin L. Boyle.

The incident took place in the Lakeland High School parking lot when two Clarkston students and one graduate allegedly attacked two Lakeland students and another student.

A warrant has been issued for the Clarkston graduate, said Peppiatt, but he had not come forward or been arrested as of Tuesday. He will be charged with assault and battery.

The third Clarkston suspect could not be positively identified by the victims, Peppiatt said.

Peppiatt had said earlier that each of the three victims had suffered some injuries, but apparently none serious.

LEAVE IT TO KELLY: It was Kelly Lynch [center], 8, who thought of the picnic Sunday in her front yard on Almond Lane. And it was her idea for the rock sale, too, said Stephanie Sage [left] and Sarah Tomalewicz. On Saturday, Kelly thought of the lemonade sale, but apparently the weather wasn't that warm. The girls only sold one glass. Rocks sold a little better—two of them. [Photo by Julie Campe]

Late fee added

Now's the time to pay Independence Township utility fees.

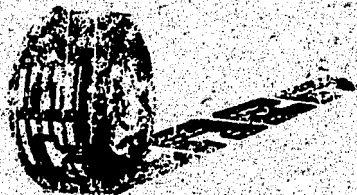

Starting June 1, the township will charge a $2 late fee on delinquent sewer and water bills.

Residents are billed quarterly, but some pay only once or twice a year, said Treasurer John Lutz at the Feb. 17 township board meeting.

The fee should encourage property owners to pay on time, he said.

With the touch of a button, the new computer system shows a list of late payments, said Lutz, and the township can easily bill for the late fee.

If a person has trouble paying his or her entire bill, the resident should call the treasurer's office, he said. The township does accept partial payments.

increases to stop more businesses from leaving Michigan.

We should support tax-cut measures—through the exemption and/or the tax rate. We have to work toward cleaning up the environment—the health of our citizens is at stake.

I think by working toward these goals, our state will once again prosper with lower crime rates, lower unemployment rates and better educational opportunities.

We all agree on "WHAT" needs to be done—the question we need to answer now is "HOW?" We've heard Blanchard's talk; let's see if we'll witness any action.

Story aftermath

Pat Young's article about me titled "Cook takes yesteryear approach" in the Feb. 4 edition of The Clarkston News proved to be of great interest to a great many people.

When I arrived at work on Thursday, the article had been removed from the paper and attached to the shop bulletin board.

Since the publication of that article, I have received numerous calls from total strangers asking for various recipes.

One woman with a Fenton mailing address inquired as to whether I might have recipes for preparing goat.

Of all things, I probably have as many recipes for preparing goat in various dishes as other meat. After all, goat and sheep are the same.

Another woman from Yale, Mich., asked for a recipe for Lebanese stuffed cabbage rolls.

Well, I never heard of Lebanese stuffed cabbage rolls before, but I did have recipes for Persian stuffed cabbage rolls, Hungarian, Rumanian, Russian, Polish and Swedish.

I sent all of them to her. She replied that it was the Hungarian recipe that she really wanted.

Etc. Etc. Etc.

My brother-in-law stopped in one day at dinner time at my house. We were having bean soup, so my wife offered some to her sister and her husband. My brother-in-law stated that he liked green beans but hated beans in any other form.

His wife accepted some, tasted of it and urged him to try a bit, so I ladled some out in a bowl and handed it to him.

He looked at it, stirred it a bit, smelled it and finally tasted of it.

First thing you know, he held his bowl out for a second helping.

Well, he doesn't have a regular cook stove, but he does have a boxwood heater so he got the recipe from me and tried a pot of it on his heating stove.

After that, it became almost a ritual for him to have bean soup every week, all cooked on the boxwood heater.

A $1,000 cook stove is nice and has many conveniences, but you really don't have to have one to prepare a meal over a wood fire.

Tiger's out

By Julie Campe

The Murdochs have to say goodbye to Athena the Siberian tiger and Cassandra the bobcat.

On Monday, the Michigan Supreme Court denied the Murdochs' request for an appeal of a court order to remove the animals, said Gerald Fisher, Independence Township attorney.

The Murdochs violated a township wild animal ordinance prohibiting residents from keeping wild animals in the township except in a zoo, said Fisher.

Upon receipt of official notice, the Murdochs must move the animals immediately, he said.

"I think the Murdochs are acting in good faith, but the effect of what they're doing represents a danger to the community," he said.

"According to Mr. Graham (director of the Detroit Zoo), the tiger is very dangerous. The tiger is like a loaded gun. . . . You don't domesticate an animal in one generation."

Wanda Murdoch, animal owner Douglas Murdoch's mother, declined comment, adding she had not received notice about the court decision.

Athena and Cassandra's right to live on the Murdochs' Allen Road farm has been disputed since April 1984, when they were less than a year old.

In the past, the Murdochs have said the animals were domesticated, they were declawed and had been raised in captivity since birth.

The issue has come before the township planning commission, the township board, the zoning board of appeals, the Oakland County Circuit Court and the Michigan Court of Appeals.

The Michigan Supreme Court—the Murdochs' last step—did not allow an appeal.

$6,000 donation

A donation of $6,000 was given to the Clarkston Area Youth Assistance by the Independence Township Board on Feb. 17.

Youth Assistance is dedicated to preventing juvenile delinquency in the area, said social worker Garry Pullins.

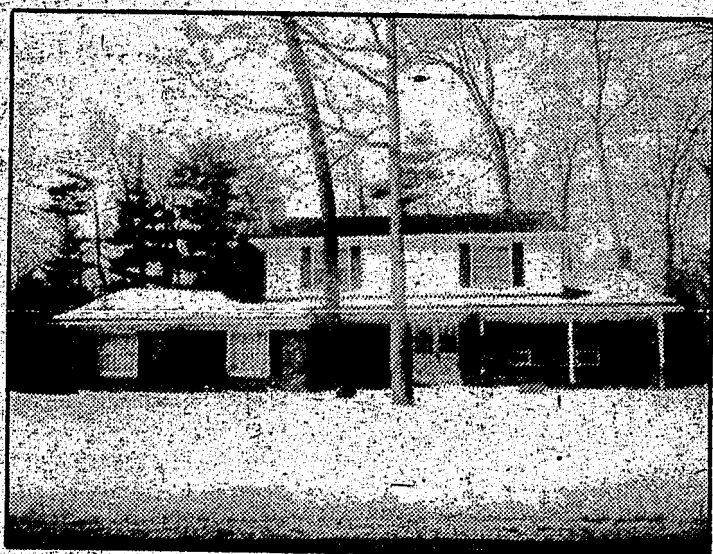

The donation is the same amount the board has given in the past, he said.

Pullins thanked the board for the office space in the Independence Township Senior Citizens Center and for their support during the last 25 years.

Plans begin for extension of Maybee Road

An extension of Maybee Road west of Dixie Highway in Independence Township may be in store for the future.

On Feb. 17, the township board approved the idea of the extension and authorized the township engineers to propose a route.

Since the road would benefit the property west of Dixie Highway, the board plans to form a special assessment district to pay for construction, said Clerk Richard Holman.

For a special assessment, 51 percent of the frontage property owners must favor the project, he said.

A tentative route has been drawn, but it uses a majority of the Hamady property, owned by Alex Dandy who has been against the road in the past, said Holman.

The engineers are to design a road that would minimize or eliminate the use of the Hamady property, he said.

The need for the extension was brought to the attention of the board when Lancaster on the Lakes apartments were in the planning stages, said township attorney Gerald Fisher.

The apartment developers are planning the second phase and a more controlled entrance from Dixie is needed, he said.

About 170 units are under construction now on the 148 acre site and another 150 are expected in the second phase.

Unless Maybee Road is extended, "the number of cars generated by the project will create a safety hazard on Dixie Highway," said Fisher.

CHS students in nation's top 1/4 %

Two Clarkston High School students have been named National Merit finalists.

The recognition places Robert (Kelley) Cook and Stephen Myktyyn among the top one-quarter percent of high school seniors across the nation, said CHS principal Dr. Robert Burek.

"Not many kids achieve that status. It's really a tremendous honor," he said.

As two of the 13,500 National Merit finalists, Cook and Myktyyn are eligible to be selected as Merit Scholars. Only about 6,000 Merit Scholars are named.

The Merit Scholars will be announced in April, Burek said. The selection is based on test scores, high school grades and recommendations from school personnel.

Cook is the son of Robert and Mary Alice Cook of North Main Street, Clarkston; and Myktyyn is the son of Andy and Helen Myktyyn of Parview Drive, Independence Township.

Clarkston High Junior Varsity

Feb. 23—The JV Wolves end their season at 19-8 after victories over Howell, 15-1, 15-7, and Birmingham Groves, 15-4, 15-12.

Clarkston drops its showdown for the GOAL title against Lake Orion in a draining match Feb. 18.

The Wolves lose, 8-15, 19-17, 4-15, to finish 6-2 in the league, while Lake Orion winds up 7-1.

"The second game went on so long, there wasn't any momentum coming out of the game," said Clarkston coach Gordie Richardson.

While Richardson is pleased with the season, he still thinks of what might have been.

"From what I saw at the beginning of the year, there was tremendous improvement," he said. "Had we had a little more experience, we might have come through in a couple of those losses."

"But learning how to prepare and to have intensity, it's hard to coach that, and we were so much better the second half of the season."

Clarkston High Varsity

Feb. 23—The Wolves whip Howell, 15-9, 15-3, and Birmingham Groves, 15-7, 15-5, to improve to 34-7 on the season. Clarkston is now ranked eighth in Class A.

Against Howell, Wendy Cohoon comes through with five kill hits and Jessica Shoup gets two. The team gets 12 kill blocks against Groves and Missy Odell contributes six kill hits.

Clarkston finishes a perfect 8-0 in the Greater Oakland Activities League after a 14-16, 15-12, 15-9 victory at Lake Orion Feb. 18. Ali Fedio sparks the team with seven kill hits, Cohoon gets six and Gina Houck adds five.

Springfield Christian Academy

Feb. 20—The junior varsity Eagles take it on the chin, losing to Cranbrook, 15-1, 15-4, and falling to 1-6 on the year.

The varsity squad is 16-6 and awaiting the postseason tournament for Michigan Christian schools, which begins Saturday.

Basketball

Clarkston High Junior Varsity

Feb. 20—Three players score in double figures to lead the Wolves, now 11-7.

Kevin Baert hits for 12 and Keenan Powell and Ben Underwood score 11 each.

Springfield Christian Academy Varsity

Eagles 85, Novi Christian 68

Feb. 21—Junior Mike Boven scores 28 points to tie Todd Forsten for the SCA career scoring record. Forsten, who graduated in 1983, scored 1,184 points for the Eagles.

Boven averages about 20 points per game and SCA (10-12) had one regular season game remaining before the playoffs begin next week.

The victory comes in the finals of SCA's own invitational. The Eagles also defeat Rochester Hills Christian, 95-67, as Boven pours in 31. They had lost to Brandon, 54-51, Feb. 17.

The JV Eagles beat Novi Christian in the consolation game of the tournament after losing a heartbreaker to Laingsburg Christian's varsity team, 47-46. The JV squad is 14-10.

SCA's junior high team finishes its season at 7-6 after a victory over North Branch Wesleyan Feb. 19.

Clarkston/Sashabaw 7th/8th Grade

Clarkston's seventh-graders lose to Mason, 27-22, Feb. 17 to fall to 4-3. The Wolverines go through a third quarter dry spell and Mason pulls away.

Sashabaw's seventh-grade team triumphs twice to go to 6-1. The Cougars pound Lake Orion, 38-20, Feb. 18 as Dugan Fife scores 12 points and Jon Wyniemko adds seven. They also whip Pierce, 35-15, Feb. 16 behind Fife's 13 points and six from Matt Kurlik.

The Cougar eighth-graders (2-5) split, downing Lake Orion, 42-30, and losing to Pierce, 47-15. Against Orion, Greg Heaton scores 18 points and pulls down 16 rebounds, Chris Wasilk scores 15 and Dereck Raymond adds six points.

Wolves mash Mott, tie for lead

By Chris Gerbasl

With six seconds left in the Clarkston-Waterford Mott basketball game last Friday, Mott coach Ray Robinson jokingly asked the official timer to set the clock so it would count up rather than down.

By that time, Mott had been counted out and Clarkston clung to a 47-36 victory.

In coach Dan Fife's ever-growing list of "big wins for Clarkston," it may have been the season's biggest, for several reasons:

- It came after a heartbreaking 53-52 loss to Ann Arbor Huron Feb. 17, in which a Huron player drove the length of the court for the winning basket as time ran out.

- It came on the Corsairs' home court and in front of their vocal fans and avenged an earlier 53-40 loss to Mott on the Wolves' floor.

- Most importantly, the victory gave Clarkston a first-place tie with Mott in the Greater Oakland Activities League.

Both teams are 4-2 in the GOAL with two league games remaining. Lake Orion, 3-3, is the only other team with a realistic chance of winning the crown.

Clarkston is 11-7 overall, while Mott is 12-4. "It's not over; I said before three losses could still win the GOAL," said Fife.

The Wolves' man-to-man defense shut down the Corsairs' outside shooting and they were also able to control the rebounding game.

Mott's high-scoring Gene Seets connected for just four field goals and his 14 points were six below his average. The Corsairs were held to just 23 points through three quarters.

In the meantime, Clarkston went on an 18-6 tear over two quarters and led 32-23 after three. Mott shot one for nine from the floor in the third quarter.

A Mike Barnes jumper gave the Wolves a 40-25 advantage with five minutes left, but the Corsairs scored seven straight points over the next three minutes to bring their fans back to life.

Barnes and Dan Jokisch then each sank two free throws to settle the outcome.

Jokisch, who missed a one-and-one chance against Huron with six seconds left and his team up 52-51, was a perfect seven of seven at the line against Mott.

He scored 17 in the contest and juniors Barnes and Jeff Tungate had eight apiece.

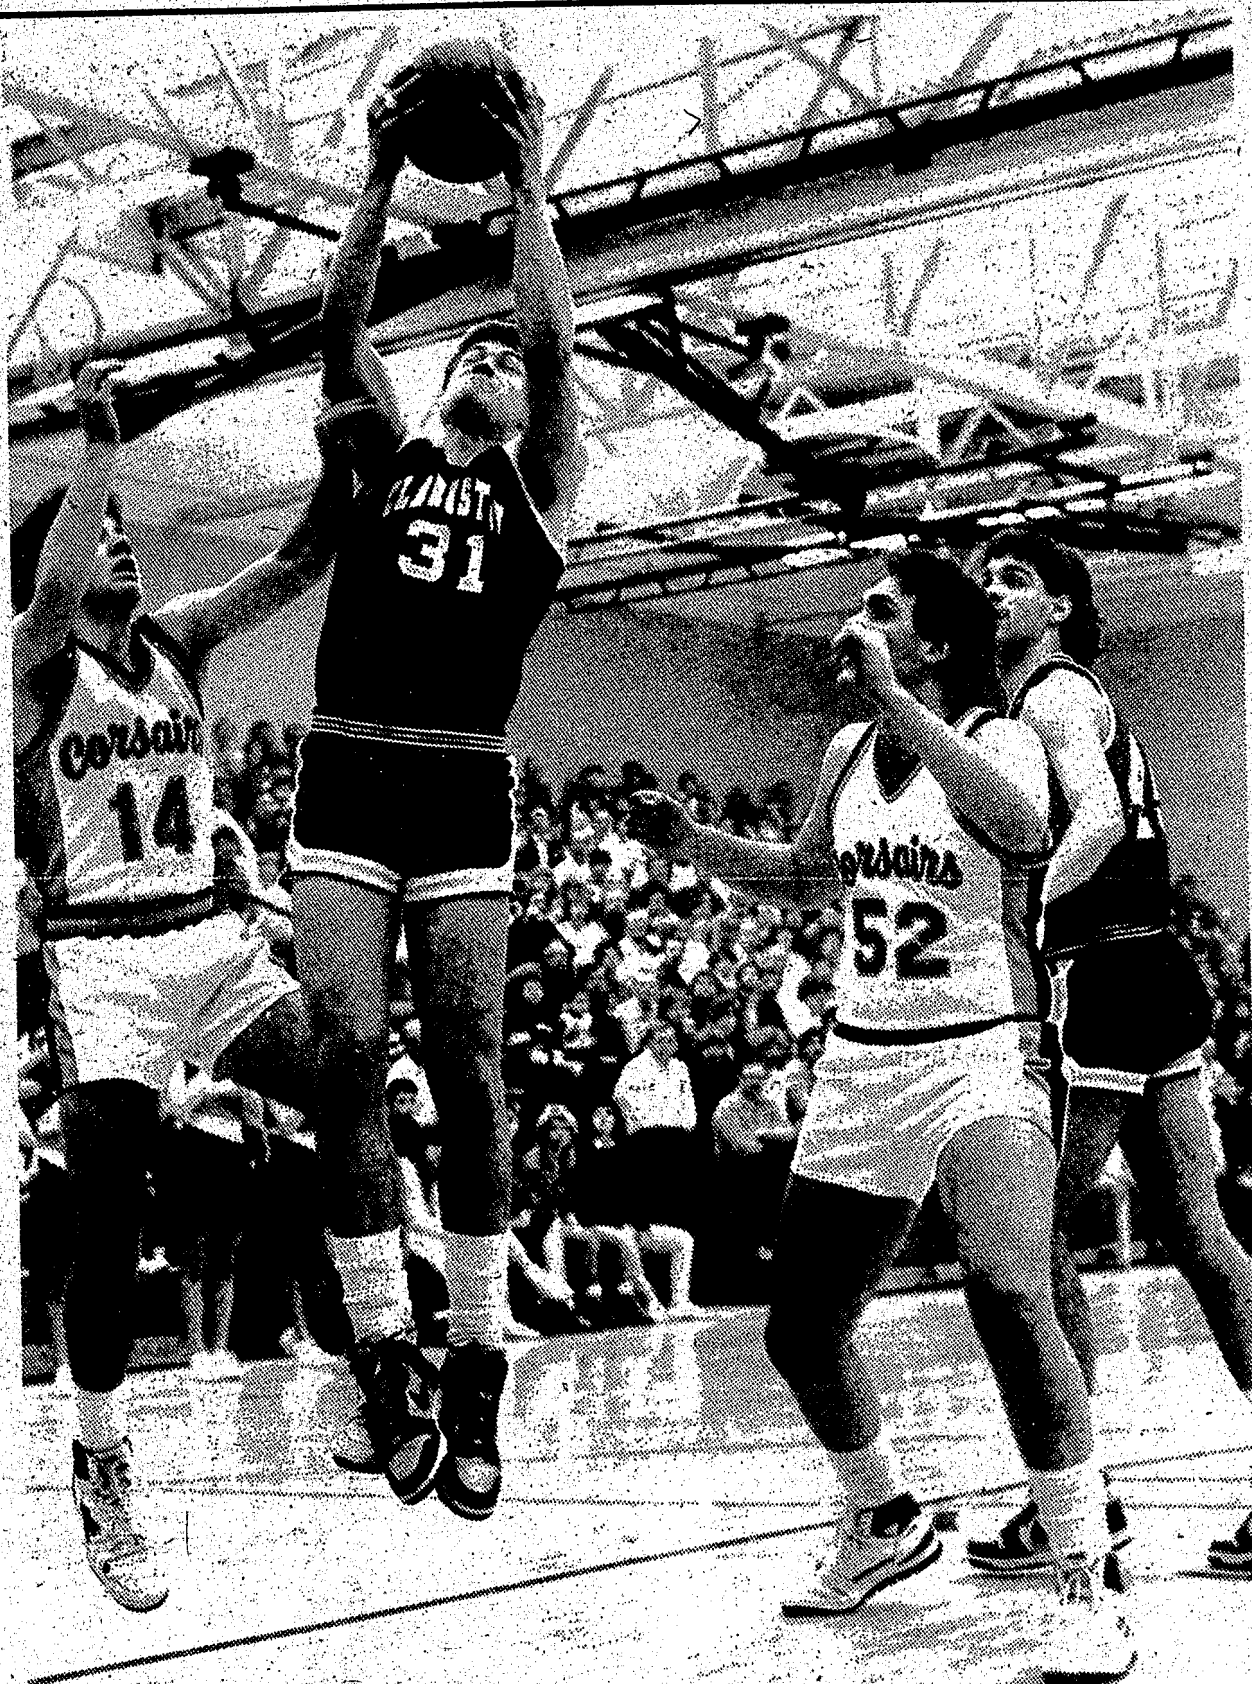

"I thought Mike Barnes had a great game tonight," Fife said. "It seemed like he got every loose ball, every weak-side rebound, he had to guard Seets and bring the ball up against the press."

"I told myself before the game I had to relax," said the 6-foot-3 Barnes. "I haven't played that good in a while."

"Josh (Newblatt) usually brings up the ball. Sometimes I'm back on defense and sometimes I'm up on defense," he said. "I'm not a set player, I'm not a guard and I'm not a forward. But we were working well with what we had out there."

The loss to Huron snapped the Wolves' six-game winning streak, but all that matters now is the final two league games: this Thursday when they host Waterford Kettering and March 6 at Lake Orion.

Sports

Clarkston's Jim Hall goes high for a rebound against Waterford Mott. The Wolves controlled the boards and their defense shut down the outside shooting of Gene Seets and the rest of the Corsairs.

Skling:

Girls go, boys stay home

Clarkston was perhaps one skier away from qualifying its boys team last Thursday for the state finals.

That skier was Rob Brown.

Brown, a sophomore, has been one of the most consistent Wolves this season. Two weeks ago, he finished second in the slalom and third in the giant slalom at the Southeastern Michigan League championships.

But at last week's regional at Pine Knob, Brown was not allowed to compete because he had raced recently in an event unsanctioned by the state.

On top of that, Clarkston's Todd Roeser was disqualified from the slalom competition for shadowing the course; that is, skiing alongside the course to get a feeling for the layout.

As a result, the Wolves finished third and missed going to the state finals, as the top two teams qualify.

Shelly Purdy's first-place performance in the slalom helped Clarkston's girls team finish second. The team will travel to Crystal Mountain in Thompsonville on Monday for the finals.

Matt Ritter and Jeff Roeser also qualified individually for the Wolves.

Clarkston coach Don Balzarini did not directly blame Brown's absence and Roeser's disqualification for the boys third-place showing.

"We had some good individual runs, but too many people fell," he said. "We didn't ski as well as we could have. But they had an excellent season. We beat (Rochester) Adams three times and they beat us the last time."

Adams won the boys competition, among 15 teams, with 63 points, followed by Grand Blanc's 81. Rounding out the top five were Clarkston, with 130, Fenton 156 and Rochester 174.

[see GIRLS, Page 18]

Gunnar Karlstrom winds his way down the Pine Knob course during regional action last week. The Clarkston boys team finished third, missing going to the state finals.

Girls advance, but boys miss out on states

Ritter and Jeff Roeser were fifth and sixth, respectively, in the giant slalom. The top 10 finishers in each event won medals. Gunnar Karlstrom was 12th in the GS, Todd Roeser 26th, Jeff John 30th and Mike Foyteck 55th.

Foyteck had the best effort in the slalom, taking eighth place, and Ritter was 10th. Jeff Roeser finished 21st, Karlstrom was 42nd and John was 49th.

The girls narrowly missed winning the regional, but did win the slalom. Grand Blanc took the team title with 78 points, Clarkston had 81, Flint Powers 133, Bloomfield Hills Andover 165 and Adams 172.

Along with Purdy's first-place medal, Tina Shepard (seventh) and Serena Brown (ninth) also took home medals in the slalom. Laura Howse raced to 12th.

Purdy placed 10th in the GS, followed by Shepard (12th), Howse (13th), Jackie Jablonski (17th), Tammy Spaven (21st) and Brown (22nd).

Laura Howse helped the Wolves to a second-place showing at the regional and a trip to the state finals next Monday. Howse skied to 12th in the slalom and 13th in the giant slalom.

Wolves send five wrestlers to regional

Five Clarkston wrestlers qualified for this Saturday's regional meet after a district tournament which exceeded even coach Scott Strickler's expectations.

Last year, the Wolves sent one grappler to the regionals and this year Strickler hoped three or four would qualify.

But seniors Mark Ice and Troy Castle were pleasant surprises at last Saturday's district meet at Wall Lake, Western.

Ice qualified at 105 pounds and Castle made it in the 198-pound division.

"(Ice) was probably the biggest surprise," said Strickler. "He's a senior, he wrestled hard and he knew it was his last chance. He's come a long way. He's one of the hardest workers on the team."

Ice won just one match as a sophomore, but has won 28 matches this season.

Castle was not the only other surprise, as sophomore Dave London qualified at 119 pounds. He was seeded seventh and along the way he pinned the third seed.

Senior Rob Lund (126) and heavyweight Mark Oswald, a junior, continued steady seasons by making it to the regional, which will be held at Clio High School, north of Flint. The meet will get under way at 9:30 a.m.

The five Clarkston qualifiers compare favorably with highly regarded league foes Lake Orion and Waterford Kettering, which each placed four wrestlers.

"I'm quite, quite happy," said Strickler. "It was an outstanding performance. This really caps the season."

The Wolves also capped their dual meet season last week with victories over Springfield Christian and Lutheran North to finish with a fine 14-7 record.

At the regional, eight wrestlers will compete in each weight class, with the top four going to the state tournament.

"It's an extremely tough regional," Strickler said. "I'd be happy if a kid made it to states. There's a lot of pressure on them. But you never know what might happen."

Cougar spikers have Clarkston's number

Even a third game couldn't change things for Clarkston Junior High's volleyball team Monday.

Sashabaw swept two games by 15-13 scores and then, for good measure, won the third game by that identical score after trailing 9-0.

Each of the first two games seesawed, but the Wolverines (2-12) couldn't get the crucial points.

"I think we've been playing better, but we don't seem to pull out the wins," said Clarkston coach Jeanne Odell.

The Wolverines led the first game, 12-11, thanks to the serving of Amy Blome. They also led most of the second game, but at 12-12 the Cougars won a long volley to go up and they eventually put the game away on a Wendy Cummings' ace.

Sashabaw is now 15-8 after a tough tournament at Schoolcraft Community College last Saturday, which featured such teams as Livonia Stevenson, Livonia Ladywood, Plymouth Salem and Dearborn. The Cougars went 0-3 and gained a split with Dearborn.

"The caliber of play was really high," said Cougars coach Sue Koslosky. "I'm pleased we did as well as we did. We played with them. It was well worth it experience-wise."

Hoops skills contest set

All that 8- to 13-year-olds need to compete in the Tri-Star Basketball skills contest is the desire—and a pair of tennis shoes, says Jim Evans, president of the Clarkston Area Optimist Club.

The Optimists are sponsoring the free activity on Saturday, March 14, from 9 a.m. to noon at Clarkston Junior High School on Waldon Road.

The contest is composed of three basic skills aimed at evaluating a contestant's skill in passing, shooting and dribbling.

Boys and girls will compete in six age groups against youth of their own age. There will be trophies for the winners in each age group and each contestant will receive a memento scorecard.

Entry blanks are available at Clarkston elementary and junior high schools. They will also be available at the contest site the day of the competition.

Entry blanks may also be obtained by calling Pat O'Rourke at 625-4256.

Wolverines coast, 70-51

Last fall, Sashabaw Junior High easily handled Clarkston twice in football.

Last week, Clarkston basketball coach Bill Bildstein refreshed the memories of his players, many of whom also perform on the gridiron, before their second meeting of the season against Sashabaw.

"They got their butts kicked in football and I reminded them of that fact all week," said Bildstein. "I told them I wanted two (wins)."

The Wolverines had previously defeated the Cougars, 53-51, in a nail-biter. Everybody's fingers remained intact last Tuesday as Clarkston won easily, 70-51.

The Wolverines led 35-27 at the half, but a full-court press broke things open for them in the third quarter.

At times, Sashabaw had trouble inbounding the ball and a 10-4 run gave Clarkston a commanding 45-31 lead.

"That gave us a little breathing room and rest," said Bildstein, whose team moved to 8-7 with the win. "We've been working on that (the press) every day for an hour and a half."

"In the first half, we ran the press-breaker fairly well," said Sashabaw coach John Zittel. "But in the third quarter, we didn't execute."

The Wolverines also controlled the boards, with Jason Brown grabbing 13 rebounds and Bill Knight hauling down 11. Knight topped his team with 20 points and Brown scored 16. Reggie Reed added 13 and Fritz Lamm had nine.

Derek Black led the Cougars with 20 points and Dane Davis chipped in with 11.

"Derek Black came back for us and had a real nice game," said Zittel, whose Cougars fell to 1-14. "The kids tried; they've tried all year."

Derek Black's 20 points were not enough to prevent Sashabaw Junior High from losing to Clarkston for the second time this season. The Wolverines won, 70-51.

FOR THE SMILE OF A LIFETIME

Crystal clear

Mr. Manners

Chris Gerbasi

Spring training started last week and that means it's not too early for you baseball fans to brush up on some good, old-fashioned baseball etiquette.

You don't want to look foolish on Opening Day, so remember these helpful pointers:

If you are over 12 years of age, do not bring a glove to the stadium in the hope of catching a foul ball or home run, particularly if you're sitting in the centerfield bleachers or directly behind the backstop.

Actually, kids are growing up so fast these days that 10- and 11-year-olds would probably not want to be seen with a glove at the ballpark either.

And anyone under 5 shouldn't bring a glove because it's obvious the kid's parents are just trying to make the kid look cute by giving him or her an oversized mitt. So, only children of ages 5 through 9 may bring a glove to the game.

As for adult attire, when going to a Detroit Tiger game, it's perfectly acceptable to wear a Tiger T-shirt, simulated jersey or cap.

However, the helmets with hoses leading from two cups of a favorite beverage to the fan's mouth are questionable and are strictly prohibited when that beverage is nothing stronger than a cola.

Once at the stadium, know the stadium and know where your seats are located. If you don't know where your seats are, don't be embarrassed to ask an usher.

That will save you further embarrassment when people come in the second inning to kick you, the wife and your two kids out of your seats and you discover your actual seats are clear across the stadium.

One great thing about going to a baseball game is that it's like a large picnic and, appropriately, the ballpark food is similar to what you'd find at a picnic.

Moms, don't be alarmed at what, or how much, your husband and children eat during the course of a game.

It's one of those of solely American traditions that a father and his children miss the majority of a baseball game while buying hot dogs, Cokes, ice cream, peanuts, nachos, candy and Italian sausage sandwiches—all at one game.

An old baseball adage is "You can't tell the players without a scorecard." That's true, but perhaps a more important piece of advice is "You can't yell at the players without a scorecard."

For the most effective verbal assault on a player who's just committed a three-base error, it's vital to know who you're yelling at, to give the remark that personal touch.

However, in this day and age, a payroll sheet can also come in handy.

A general rule of thumb for razzing is that the amount of abuse a fan can give a player is directly proportional to the amount of money a player earns.

For example, Jack Morris' 125 percent pay increase raised his potential for boos 125 percent.

There are exceptions to the rule, of course. Detroit catchers Mike Heath and Dwight Lowry, with relatively low salaries, may feel more abuse than they should if they don't adequately fill in for Lance Parrish.

These are just a handful of pointers. There are many more, too numerous to mention, such as don't feel pressured to participate in "The Wave" and never wear dress shoes or dark socks with shorts, but hopefully, you'll be a little better prepared come Opening Day.

Exotic animals must be in zoo

If you've got crocodiles, chinchilla or addax, it's time to open a zoo.

Exotic animals are not allowed in Independence Township except in zoos or wildlife reserves, according to a change in the exotic animal ordinance in Independence Township.

The ordinance clarifies the definition of wild animal: an animal not usually domesticated in Independence Township, even if one or more generations have been maintained in captivity.

It also calls for a special land use permit to open a zoo or botanical garden.

On Feb. 17, the board voted 5-0 to approve the ordinance change.

Before the change, the ordinance was challenged in court by a township resident who owns a bobcat and Siberian tiger, said township attorney Gerald Fisher.

Although the ordinance was upheld, the clarifications were necessary, he said.

Jeep joins fleet

A Jeep will be used to drag ball diamonds in Independence Township this year.

The Parks and Recreation Department bought a 1984 AMC Jeep from Bill Fox in Rochester for $6,650.

A Jeep will provide the sharp turning radius needed to drag the fields, said Timothy Doyle, director of the parks and recreation department.

Since it's not a tractor, it can use the road to go from field to field within the township, he said.

The automatic vehicle, has four speeds, four cylinders, radial tires and a 12-month or 12,000-mile warranty, he said.

The Independence Township board approved the purchase in a 5-0 vote. Trustees Dale Stuart and Daniel Travis were absent.

Summer softball

Registration for adult summer softball leagues in the Independence Township Parks and Recreation program begins March 4.

There will be leagues for men, women and co-rec teams of all ability levels and ages, and a variety of days and game times are available.

Games will begin the week of May 25 and all games will be played at Clintonwood Park in Independence Township. Fees are set according to the league and number of games played.

For more information, call the Parks & Rec office at 625-8223.

AS HIGH AS THE MOON: Laura Ginn, 3, is shy of the camera at first, but soon her mother, Mickey, pushes her so high, she forgets everything and shouts, "I'm going as high as the moon." The spring-like temperatures Sunday practically invited people outside, especially the residents in Woodglen Estates, where

Laura and her family live. Laura's swing is in her back yard on Almond Lane. [Photo by Julie Campe]

Exchange students find surprises

By Julie Campe

Ice cream is one of the best things about America, according to four exchange students at Clarkston High School.

Ricardo Rebufello from Uruguay likes Twinkies. Martina Stahl from West Germany loves all junk food, especially candy bars, ice cream and pizza. She also likes Chinese food, she said.

And they all like American pizza.

They came to this country for different reasons, but the United States was intriguing to them all, in one way or another.

About all they knew of the United States was through the movies: "Rambo" and teenage high school type movies.

"Everybody has two cars here. At home (in Uruguay), if you have one, it's good. Only the teacher has a car to go to school."

—Ricardo Rebufello

In the news were New York and California and even Detroit sometimes.

But they still weren't prepared for what they found.

The school is much bigger than the one back home, said Simon Lawlor from England. And here, everyone wears whatever they want. In England, students at public schools wear brown uniforms.

Ricardo also wore uniforms at his public school in Uruguay. He was impressed with the cleanliness of Clarkston High School and the punctuality of the people.

Martina was surprised at how big the country was.

"Everything is pulled apart," she said. "It's a long way to everywhere."

She lives in Davisburg and has a friend who lives just around the corner—over a mile away, she said.

"You go to school here more to see your friends," she added.

Patricia Van Rossum from Holland has been curious about the United States for a long time, she said.

"Holland is really dependent upon America," she said. "I wanted to know why. It goes back to when I was a little girl. I said I always wanted to go to America; it's been a dream of mine."

She thinks CHS is modern but was surprised to find only six classes. In Holland, they have about eight, she said, including languages: English, German and French.

In fact, all of the students studied more than one language. Martina studied German, English, French and Latin. Simon studied English and French; and Ricardo studied French, English and Italian.

"Holland is really dependent upon America. I wanted to know why."

—Patricia Van Rossum

They all mentioned transportation and were surprised that so many American students drive cars to school.

"Everybody has two cars here," said Ricardo. "At home, if you have one, it's good. Only the teacher has a car to go to school."

In England, said Simon, you can travel the country by bus or train, and you don't really need a car. Plus, cars are cheaper in the U.S., he said, as is gasoline. It's about $2.50 a gallon in England.

"You're dependent on a car here, and you're not allowed to drive," said Martina. As foreign exchange students, that's one of the rules, she said, and you need a car to go everywhere.

Also, people work more here, she said. They work all week long and even weekends. In Germany, stores are closed on Sundays and at 7 p.m. during the week, and they're only open a half day on Saturday.

And American kids go home at night earlier, said Simon. And they eat earlier, and they go to school earlier.

People are curious about them and have asked a lot of questions. Most people ask Ricardo where Uruguay is. Several people even asked Simon what language he speaks, even though he was born and raised in England.

The experience has been a good one for all of them, they said. Patricia and Simon plan to return for college here.

In the meantime, they all plan to enjoy their visit. One of the best parts of the country is the people, they all agreed.

They mentioned the families they live with and the friends they've met and Dr. Robert Burek, the principal of Clarkston High School.

Richard Kolano named young engineer of year

By Julie Campe

Sound has always intrigued Richard Kolano. When he was in high school in Niagara Falls, New York, he played the saxophone.

Then, he got involved with electronics and producing "just the right sound."

When the time came to go to college and choose a career, Kolano chose electrical engineering.

He received a bachelor's degree from Rochester Institute of Technology, New York, and a master's degree in acoustical engineering from Penn State University, Pennsylvania.

Next, he and his wife Sandy came to Michigan, and Kolano began working in a consulting engineering firm—helping to make sound decisions.

Now, seven years later, he and a partner own the firm.

It's been a good career, said the Meadowbrook Court, Independence Township, resident.

To top it off, two weeks ago, he received the Young Engineer of the Year Award from the Oakland County Chapter of the Michigan Society of Professional Engineers.

Kolano felt "elated" when he heard he received the award for engineers under age 35, he said.

"A lot of times you seem to work and work and work, and it's refreshing to see that someone notices—especially in a kind of behind-the-scenes type of engineering work," he said.

In his work, he's concerned with acoustics, noise and vibrations. Locally, he's been involved with Independence Township—monitoring the Waterford Hills Race Track noise levels. And he worked on the acoustical designs for St. Daniel Church and Our Lady of the Lakes Church.

Lately, he's been enlisted as an expert in litigation regarding noise and vibration. Kolano has been asked to write a chapter on acoustical assistance for attorneys in an up-and-coming legal reference book.

One of his specialties is jazzercise studios.

He knows just how to soundproof a room to prevent the persistent bass from making its way to other rooms, he said.

In June, he is to present a paper on noise isolation, specifically jazzercise studios, at the annual conference of noise engineers at Penn State University.

Kolano seems to thrive on activity.

When he comes home from work, he likes to play with his 2-year-old son Bryan, and he listens to music.

"I'm an avid audio nut," he said, adding he loves jazz and a little classical music.

Jazz saxophonist "Grover Washington Jr. is my hero," he said. "Personally, I'd like to have my own sound room some day."

Richard Kolano's love of music led him into his engineering career in acoustics. He loves the saxophone, he said, particularly when Grover Washington Jr. is playing.

New arrival

It's a boy for Jerry Wayne and Melissa Stricklin of Clarkston Road, Independence Township.

Their first child, James Robert, was born Feb. 23 at 3:10 p.m. at Mount Clemens General Hospital, Mount Clemens. He weighed 10 pounds 15 ounces and measured 21½ inches long.

Grandparents are James Edward Stricklin of West Virginia and Robert Mills of Maryland.

Godparents-to-be are Shari Nix of Waterford and members of Tim's Towing of Independence Township.

Stephen Jones resides on Clement Road.

Morgan Poole, who received all A's, resides on Snowapple Drive. He is a graduate of Roper High School.

Steven Smith resides on Andersonville Road. He is a graduate of Clarkston High School.

Ice is a single channel radio operator.

A 1986 graduate of Clarkston High School, he is the son of Patricia Ice of Marenpo Road, Independence Township.

Reunion

Benedictine High School, Class of 1967—The 20-year class reunion is planned Saturday, Sept. 19, at St. George's Romanian Orthodox Cathedral Church Hall in Southfield.

Call Bob Lulek at 522-6619 or Marianne (Hodge) Fox at 698-9549.

Eight chosen as Students of Month

Eight students were honored Feb. 18 as Clarkston High School's Students of the Month for January.

Randy Alcorn, Kathy Curtis, Curtis Haremza, Jeffery Huber, Patrick Hull, Darren Miller, Sheri Morgan, Jason Smithers and their parents were treated to a luncheon at Alexander's Restaurant.

Each student was nominated for the honor by a teacher, said CHS principal Dr. Robert Burek.

The selections are based on classroom performance and criteria include superior academic performance, leadership in classroom activities and outstanding attitude.

"A lot of kids who don't necessarily have high visibility in this high school are identified and recognized as a result of this process, and I think that's super," Burek said.

At college

Julie Monroe, a freshman at Central Michigan University, Mt. Pleasant, is alumni development adviser for the Student Foundation this year.

A Clarkston High School graduate, Monroe is a mathematics major. She is the daughter of Clarkston area residents Albert and Gari Monroe.

The Student Foundation is a volunteer organization which sponsors programs for students, alumni and the central Michigan community.

It offers students a chance to learn leadership, time management and organizational skills while contributing to the future of CMU.

Student Foundation sponsors blood drives, tour guides, a Fresh Air festival and other campus activities.

Jeanene Dunn and 26 other students and former students are traveling to Otsu, Shiga Prefecture, Japan, to take part in the Lansing Community College work-study program for 1987.

They are scheduled to depart from Detroit Metropolitan Airport on March 1, stop in Seoul, Korea, for one day and arrive in Otsu on March 4.

Dunn, a Clarkston area resident, and the other students were selected for the program in the fall of 1986. The students began an on-campus orientation in January, studying Japanese language and culture.

They will spend nine months in Japan, where they will take classes in language, culture, geography, politics, history, religion and the economics of the country. "These kids are just great kids, but they don't necessarily have high visibility," he added. "They just do a good job for us."

At the luncheon, assistant superintendent Clarkston schools Mel Vaara congratulated the students on behalf of the superintendent and the board of education.

Alcorn is the son of Leo and Lorraine Alcorn of Maiden Lane; Curtis is the daughter of Ron and Sandy Curtis of Timber Ridge Trail; Haremza is the son of Donald and Darlene Haremza of Dixie Highway; Huber is the son of Robert and Kathleen Huber of Winell; Hull is the son of Kenneth and Roberta Hull of Heath; Miller is the son of James and Lois Miller of Morningstar Court; Morgan is the daughter of La and Linda Morgan of Ellis Road; and Smithers is the son of Sue Smithers of Fawn Valley Drive.

country.

The program is offered in cooperation with the Biwako-Kisen Steamship Company.

The company provides the students' overseas transportation costs, room and board in an apartment and weekly compensation for their work on the "Michigan," a Mississippi river style sternwheeler which offers meals and cruises on Lake Biwa, the largest fresh water lake in the world.

The students' costs consist of tuition, program fees, books and personal expenses.

Post-grad party

Parents of Clarkston High School seniors can still get involved in planning the first post-graduate party since the 1970s.

Designed as an alternative to senior parties involving alcohol and as a special farewell to the 525 members of the CHS Class of 1987, the post-graduate party will follow the model of several Oakland County high schools.

Parents Pat Unsworth and Dody Savas are the chairpersons of the party committee.

All parents of seniors are invited to attend the next committee meeting, planned at 7 p.m. on Thursday, March 5, in the library at CHS. Call the high school at 625-0900 for more information.

IN THE SPOTLIGHT: Independence Township's Sydney Kalet is among the stars in the Avon Players' latest production, "Nuts." In the scene above, Kalet, as Claudia, is threatened by Dr. Rosenthal (Jim Hughes of Union Lake) as defense lawyer Levinsky (Jon Katz of Southfield) hovers protectively. "Nuts" is based on an actual case about a sanity hearing for a prostitute accused of killing one of her clients. Because the subject matter and dialogue may be objectionable to some viewers, discretion is advised. Play dates are Feb. 27-29 and March 6-8, 13 and 14, with performances at 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays and 7:30 p.m. Sundays. Call 739-4660 for ticket information.

Community backs Tony

By Julie Campe

Tony Palazzola will be leaving Sunday, for physical therapy in Nevada—thanks to over $16,000 in contributions from many people in the community.

The 24-year-old Independence Township resident was in a plane crash last year that left him a paraplegic.

In January, his friend Donald Kevern began a "Help Tony Walk" fund to raise money toward Tony's program—and was successful.

"There was never a time that I ever considered that Tony's need would not be met," said Kevern. "I knew that this community would enlist its support as soon as they saw their help was needed. And that is exactly what happened."

Over 200 people sent checks, and help came, as well, from the American Legion Post 63 and the Nickelodeon Restaurant in Independence Township; The Hairbrush Salon, Waterford Township; the senior high school Sunday School classes at the Clarkston United Methodist Church; and a special Sunday School Class at the Drayton Heights Free Methodist Church.

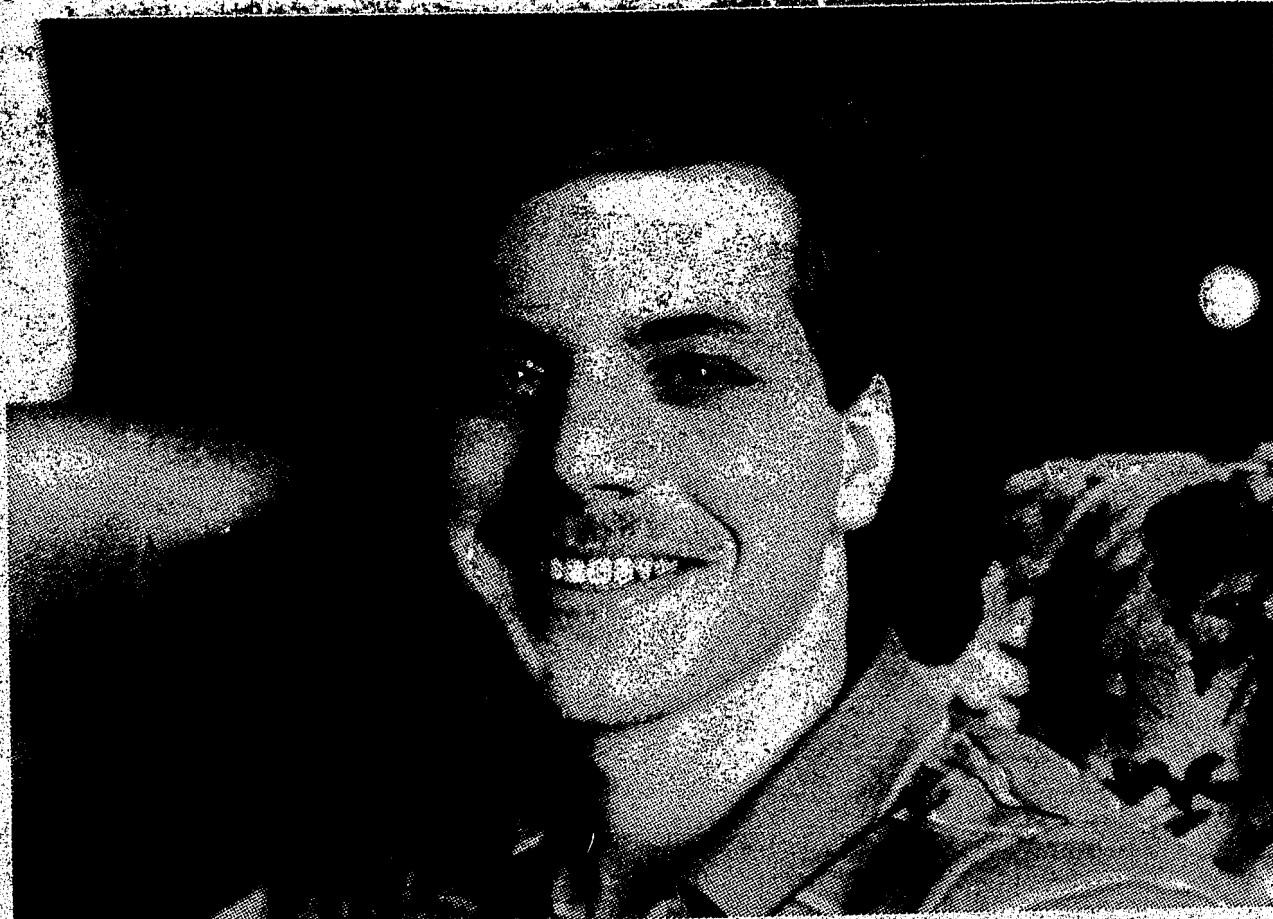

Also Tony's girlfriend's church in Sterling Heights helped, said Kevern.

"This has been a real labor of love for me," said Kevern. "I have had the opportunity to work with a young man who is a winner in every way. He has what it takes to stand once again, and I am proud to be a part of that effort."

Tony was overwhelmed by the support of the town, he said.

"The whole community pulled together," said Tony. "I was astonished at that. Mr. Kevern was the backbone of the whole organization. He deserves all the credit."

"I can't thank them enough for what they did.

Tony Palazzola, a 1980 Clarkston High School graduate, leaves Sunday for Las Vegas, Nevada, where he'll begin physical therapy—hopefully to help him walk again, he said.

They're giving me a chance to go out and do what I have to do. I've got the faith that something will happen," he said.

He cautioned that there's no guarantee that he'll be able to walk again.

"Some people think it's going to be a complete cure, but it's not that," said Tony, adding that the therapy will stimulate muscles and tone them to be ready when the legs are ready to walk again.

It should allow him to stand using braces, he said.

"And hopefully with that, . . . there's still a good chance of getting something back," he said. "It's just going to get me up to look people in the eye again."

Tony's last final exam at Lawrence Institute of Technology is Thursday, and he leaves Sunday for the program, he said.

He'll be gone six months, but plans a short visit in May for his sister's wedding.

Hopefully, he'll be able to stand using braces by the time of the wedding, he said.

Karen Guida puts the finishing touches on the baby's room in her Deer Lake, Independence Township, home. She is expecting her first child in March.

She'll add 'mom' to her resume

By Pat Young

Karen Guida's life has taken some interesting twists.

At 36, the petite blonde is expecting her first child and is self-employed, running a family owned chain of pretzel shops known as The Pretzel Peddler.

At 24, she was a single career woman, working her way up the corporate ladder, first at General Motors and then Ford Motor Co., with progressive aspirations.

"I wanted to be the first female vice president at Ford," she says, laughing at the memory.

She worked her way through college, earning her bachelor's degree in business at Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti, and her master's degree in business at Central Michigan University, Mount Pleasant. Then she met Vito Guida.

"My sister worked for Vito in the pretzel business," Karen says. "When I met him (she was 25, he was 30), I instantly liked him."

She fondly describes her husband as a "self-made man."

He came to this country from Sicily at the age of 2 and grew up in Warren. His family had to leave Sicily with practically nothing, but the family philosophy is "work hard, work for yourself, and make something of yourself." It is a philosophy Vito has successfully adapted to his own life.

Karen grew up in Garden City in an education-oriented family of Norwegian descent. Her father was the high school principal. She fully expected to go to college and pursue a career.

When she met Vito, their careers were very different but they had a lot in common. They dated for three years, were engaged another two and then married.

"It was one of those things we hadn't really discussed, but when I when I was looking for more career advancement and sending out resumes, Vito suddenly realized it could take us away from each other," Karen says.

She prepares to add 'mom' to her resume

He offered her the pretzel business for her career advancement and a wedding band for her left hand.

Vito had started the pretzel chain with one or two stores after seeing people lined up to buy the popular snacks at a mall years ago. The chain has now grown to nine stores throughout Michigan, and Karen foresees more expansion in the future.

She runs the administrative end of the business and Vito's sister takes care of the road work and operation of the stores.

While Karen has been busy with the pretzel business, Vito has been busy carving out a career in retail management and consulting.

"What I really love is the flexibility of my schedule with self-employment," says Karen. "And it gives me a chance to use my own creativity, my own individuality."

Karen and Vito built a home on Deer Lake and continued their careers before the latest twist was added to their life.

"We hadn't really decided whether or not to have a family," Karen says. But the decision was made for them after seven years of marriage when she discovered she was pregnant last summer.

A test early in her pregnancy revealed that there were no problems with the baby, and that it is a boy. He is due in March, and the Guidas look forward to his arrival with a combination of excitement and apprehension.

"It's going to be a big change. We're used to being able to pick up and go," Karen admits. "But I'm a very organized person. I will just plan better, do a little more preparation, and take the baby with."

Karen and Vito both come from large families, and both families are ecstatic about the expected baby.

"While we were dating, they wanted to know when we were getting married. When we were married, they wanted to know when we were going to have a baby," Karen says, with a smile that flashes frequently across her face while she talks. "Now, they will want to know when we will have another."

But Karen doesn't mind. She says she's had a lot of support from her husband and family during the pregnancy, and knows help will be there when she needs it after the baby is born.

Meanwhile, pregnancy hasn't slowed down this active woman much. She keeps up a busy schedule of tennis and aerobics, activities she has been involved in for years, in addition to her business schedule.

"I know there will be days (after the baby is born) that I'll wonder why I did this," she says, looking thoughtfully out the window of her kitchen at Deer Lake, "but Vito's support and enthusiasm has been wonderful. I know everything will be OK."

Incredible edibles

Kitchen magic can warm you up

This time of year, when the weather glides from spring-like to absolute wintertime, hot main meals seem essential.

Two appropriate dishes, Gourmet Pork Chops and Juicy Meat Loaf, were selected from "Incredible Edibles," the cookbook published by the Clarkston Community Women's Club.

Ruth Warholak of Clarkston submitted the pork chop recipe and the meat loaf recipe is from the kitchen of Rita Spagnola of Drayton Plains.

GOURMET PORK CHOPS

- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 6 center-cut pork chops (¾ inch thick)
- ½ cup finely chopped onion
- ¾ cup sliced celery
- 1 4-ounce can sliced mushrooms
- 2 beef bouillon cubes
- 2 cups cooked brown rice
- ½ cup light cream

¼ teaspoon salt

Melt butter in skillet. Brown pork chops on both sides. Remove chops from drippings and add onion, celery and mushrooms. Cook until tender, about 5 minutes.

Add and crush bouillon cubes. Stir to blend, then add cooked rice, light cream and salt. Blend ingredients thoroughly and turn into shallow baking dish and top with browned pork chops.

Cover and bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Remove cover and bake 15 minutes longer. Serves 4-6.

JUICY MEAT LOAF

- 1 15-ounce can tomato sauce, divided
- 1 cup milk
- ½ cup Grape-Nuts cereal
- 2 pounds ground beef
- 2 eggs
- ½ cup grated onion

1½ teaspoons salt

¼ teaspoon oregano

Combine 1 cup of the tomato sauce, milk and cereal. Mix thoroughly. Add ground beef, eggs, onion, salt and oregano; mix well.

Spoon mixture into a greased 9-by-5-inch loaf pan. Bake at 350 degrees for about 70 minutes, or until loaf is slightly browned.

Invert meat loaf onto warm serving platter. Heat remaining tomato sauce and spoon over loaf. Makes 8 servings.

Proceeds from the sale of "Incredible Edibles" cookbooks are used on community service projects. The $6 books are available at the Independence Township Library, Village Book Store, Gayanne's Floral Concept and Pontiac State Bank's downtown Clarkston branch.

People propose road changes

This year may be the last year for secluded craters and trenches hidden on some private roads in Independence Township.

Over 50 percent of the residents on three roads and in one subdivision have asked to convert their private roads to public, said Clerk Richard Holman.

Residents on Eastlawn Avenue off Waldon Road and Eastview and Westview roads off Maybee Road have filed a petition with Independence Township, he said.

Likewise, a petition has been filed by residents of Sunnybeach subdivision off Clarkston Road, he said. In the subdivision, public road status is sought for Clearview, Crestview, Pleasantview, Longview and Hillandale drives, he said.

To convert a private road to public, the road must meet county standards, and may require widening or changing the grade, said Holman.

"They won't necessarily be paved but at least converted to county status so Oakland County will maintain them," he said.

On private roads, the residents are responsible for grading and snow removal and other maintenance costs, he said. With public roads, the county maintains them.

If the conversion process goes according to schedule, the residents are to be specially assessed to pay for the conversion, said Holman.

The residents are to attend a special meeting March 5 to get information on the conversion process, he said, adding the residents should know everything before they incur any costs.

Conservatory announces Pamela Smith concert

Once a voice teacher at the Clarkston Conservatory of Music, Pamela Smith is now appearing in "Die Walkure" with the New York Metropolitan Opera.

By Kathy Greenfield

Pamela Smith is coming back. Since her last performance in a concert sponsored by the Clarkston Conservatory of Music, Smith has made her debut in the New York Metropolitan Opera.

But her concert on Saturday, March 14, at the Colombiere Center in Springfield Township, will feature blues, ballads and chain-gang songs—tunes familiar to fans who attended her concert at 20 Depot Street in the Clarkston Mills Mall.

"Everyone feels it was one of the best concerts we've had," said Ivan Rouse, director of the Clarkston Conservatory of Music.

Rouse's admiration for Smith is apparent.

He's proud that the former Detroit resident taught voice lessons at the Conservatory in the mid-1970s—and proud of her accomplishments since she moved to New York.

Last October, Rouse traveled to New York City to see Smith's Metropolitan Opera debut performance in "Die Walkure." She appears in a supporting role as one of the three Walkure, women who assisted great German warriors back to their homeland.

"It was wonderful," he said.

Local opera fans can hear a live performance of "Die Walkure" on Saturday, March 7, from 2 to 5 p.m. on radio station WQRS-FM.

Rouse said he's known people who have worked for 20 to 25 years trying to get a role with the New York Metropolitan Opera.

"She did it within eight years, which I think is great," he said.

In addition, Smith appeared last month at New York's Carnegie Hall. "Peter, Paul and Mary were on the same program," Rouse said.

Last year, Smith was flown back to Detroit to perform the Edmund Fitzgerald ballad during the service at Mariner's Church marking the 10-year anniversary of the sinking of the ship in Lake Superior.

"She's one of the greatest singers," said Rouse, adding that "she's eminently warm and personable."

Tickets for Pamela Smith's concert at Colombiere are $10 for adults and $6 for students. They may be purchased at the Conservatory, 49 S. Main, Clarkston; at Tierra Arts, 64 S. Main, Clarkston; or at the door.

Colombiere is located at 9075 Big Lake Rd.

What pleasures do drugs give to the user?

Dear Cat Paw:

Can you describe what kind of pleasure drugs give the user without having to write a book about it? I know it's hard, but I have trouble understanding the whole thing.

Please Try

Dear Please Try:

The drug experience is essentially a selfish pleasure where relationships are pushed to the background and feeling good moves to the foreground at the expense of everyone or anyone.

If you want to know more, why not pick up a book at the library and do some reading on the subject? There are many books available that will give you deeper insight into the drug user.

Dear Cat Paw:

Why do pro players use drugs when they have everything going for them?

Just Want to Know What You Think

Dear Just Want to Know:

I think I have to agree with Pete Rozelle, commissioner of the National Football League, in blaming drug use by professional ballplayers on too much time, too much money and an immaturity that allows players to be influenced by others.

Dear Cat Paw:

Just give me one good reason why I shouldn't use drugs!

Druggy

Dear Druggy:

How about, so you can be in control of your own life.

Dear Cat Paw:

Are you a recovered alcoholic? I'm guessing that's why you know about alcoholism.

Bet You Won't Answer Me

Dear Bet:

You lose! I am not an alcoholic, but I have been touched by alcoholism and know the far-reaching misery it inflicts.

Dear Cat Paw:

Could you ask some kids and find out why they think it's necessary to drink alcohol to have fun?

Straight Student

Dear Straight:

Adolescents use alcohol in many different ways. Some of these ways are a normal part of the whole process of growing up. Alcohol is just one of the things to be tried. It is, after all, a massive part of adult society.

Drinking is also attractive for either rebellious or risk-taking behavior. It is most usually introduced in a peer group.

At present, it is not acceptable to say, "No, thank you." Hopefully, this will change.

Cat Paw author Jeanette Sanders, a Springfield Township resident, is a state certified substance abuse counselor and a member of the Clarkston Area Chemical People, a group devoted to the prevention of substance abuse by the community's young people.

More than just air

Remarkable realism and splashes of satire found their way to the Clarkston High School Little Theatre stage last week.

Over 50 students performed in 13 groups during the annual Air Band competition sponsored by the CHS Student Council.

The music of the popular bands the students portrayed was real—thanks to recordings and a decent sound system; and most of the band members had mastered the art of lip-synchronization.

Even more entertaining, however, were the wigs, outrageous costumes, dangling earrings and paper guitars.

The audience numbered about 300, each paid $4 for a ticket, and the event was a roaring fundraising success for the student council.

After expenses, the student council had $700 to place in its general fund.

The Air Band bash is always the biggest fundraiser for student council, said K.C. Baran.

Baran and Steve Harken shared chairmanship of the student council committee that presented the show.

"It was fun," said Harken. "It's always fun."

Although they said their enjoyment of the show was lessened a bit by their responsibilities, they agreed that the CHS Air Band competition is good because it draws participants from the entire student body.

Winners of the contest were:

1st place and $80—Matt Stark, Rob Lund, Jim Tedder and Todd Sorgatz as the Romantics.

2nd place and $60—Joe Herron, Aaron Hessie, Zach Brown and Jason Kunsu as Van Halen.

3rd place and $40—Brian Fausett, Dwain Brennan, Simon Lawlor and Scott Wilkinson as Modern English.

Brian Fausett, portraying the lead singer in the band Modern English, lip-syncs his song to a screaming throng of teens. The band placed third in the Air Band competition.

Gina Cox, as the lead singer in Klymax, reacts calmly to an impromptu dance-along by Rob Ronk and Randy Maloney.

Aaron Hessie looks like he's having a wonderful time as he bounds across the stage while doing his version of the antics of Van Halen lead, singer David Lee Roth. The band placed second in the contest.

who provided back-up pantomime for the impersonation of the all-female band Klymax.
