Traffic irks subdivision dwellers

A move to the country—and the discovery that traffic is as heavy on her subdivision street as it was in Royal Oak—is too much for one new Chestnut Hills Farms resident to take.

The resident says she's moving, in part because of the traffic. Because her house is for sale, she requested that her name not be used.

The problem is a winding, hilly shortcut comprised of Chestnut Hill, Snowapple and Cramlane which convolutes its way between Maybee and Waldon roads, the only north-south cut-through in a two-mile stretch.

Although complaints have been consistent since Chestnut Hill was paved and opened into Snowapple about five years ago, there's little that can be done, problem than to police it and get people to understand that these are subdivision streets and not a thoroughfare.

The trouble started even before homes were built in the Chestnut Hills Farms subdivision, said Ronk. What's happened now is that some 70 homes have been erected in the area off Maybee Road, many of them housing small children.

There are no sidewalks and the resident who is moving is afraid that once the weather improves, cars that travel over the 25-mile subdivision speed limit according to various authorities.

"About all we can do is assign deputies to periodic special treatment," said township Supervisor Frank Ronk. "There is no other way to alleviate the

Howes sue

By Chris Gerbasl

Virgil and Barbara Howe, parents of ex-major league pitcher Steve Howe, have filed a lawsuit against a sports writer for a story which implied Virgil Howe's alcoholism contributed to Steve's drug problems.

The Howes, of Independence Township, filed the suit last week, according to Mr. Howe.

Named in the suit is sports writer Mike Antonucci, the newspaper he works for, the San Jose Mercury News, and its parent company, Knight Ridder Newspaper Sales Inc.

Howe said he is seeking "in excess of $10,000," but neither he or his attorney, El Gary Veltman, would comment any further.

Antonucci's syndicated story was reprinted in the Detroit Free Press July 23 and told a sad tale of Steve Howe's upbringing in Clarkston.

The article referred to Howe as being "a prisoner of his father's drinking problems" while growing up. The story also stated that the Howes had trouble coming up with a combined house and car payment of $84 because of those problems.

When the article appeared, Virgil Howe said he and his wife intended to file a lawsuit against Antonucci.

"It was shocking and embarrassing," said Virgil Howe last July. "There's no truth to it at all."

Steve Howe, 29 and a Clarkston graduate, was suspended twice last season from his San Jose Class A team for alleged drug use. The second suspension was eventually lifted.

He was also suspended twice by the Los Angeles Dodgers in 1988 and then commissioner Bowie Kuhn banned him from the 1984 season. He is a former National League rookie of the year.

3 on village ballot Monday, March 9

For the nearly 1,000 Clarkston residents, another decision about government is close at hand.

Three Clarkston trustees are up for re-election March 9.

James Schultz, a 16 year member, Fongie Ap-Madoc, president 1979 to 1981 and trustee on and off since 1976; and Douglas Roeser, appointed last year,

Studies may lead to fewer trucks in village

Relief may be in sight for Clarkston village residents plagued by heavy truck traffic on Holcomb and Main streets.

Jerome Wilford, chairman of the village council's Traffic Study Committee, said a meeting Feb. 23 in the Independence Township Hall Annex with Rep. Mat Dunaskiss (R-Lake Orion) and representatives of the Michigan Department of Transportation and Oakland County Road Commission elicited the promise of a study to be completed within three months.

MDOT will check truck traffic both in the village and along Dixie Highway between M-15 and I-75, Wilford said.

He is hoping that counts will show that Dixie Highway, soon to be widened to five lanes, is not taking its share of the traffic and that the department will agree to post alternate route signs.

Those would require that trucks headed north on M-15 follow Dixie Highway to I-75 and double back to M-15.

Wilford said the route is about two miles longer, but it takes only an extra four to six seconds to navigate because of less congestion.

Further relief could come once Dixie Highway is widened, Wilford noted. At that time a traffic light at M-15 and Dixie Highway will be installed to permit southbound Dixie traffic to turn north at M-15 and prevent the continuous flow of northbound Dixie traffic to M-15.

That light could end the need for the truck route filtering into town along White Lake Road and Holcomb Street, he said.

Another possibility is that the discussed widening of Sashabaw Road would funnel truck traffic away from Clarkston.

"There are kinds of projects in the works that could have a bearing within the next three to four years," Wilford said.

He said the traffic study report will be made to the township as well as the village.

"We're very encouraged," he said.

3 Clarkston teachers are honored

Three teachers from Clarkston Community Schools were among 50 Oakland County finalists in the Newsweek-WDIV Teacher Awards program.

Jim Wenger, Charles Keegan and Patricia Smith are to receive $25 gift certificates in recognition of their achievements.

Nominated by their peers as outstanding, they will also be recognized by the Board of Education of the Oakland Intermediate School District.

Of the Oakland County nominees, three will be honored May 12 with 9 other metropolitan winners. Each will receive a $2,000 cash award.

The Oakland County winners were Michael Pierino, Seaholm High School, Birmingham; Nancy Jones, Bloomfield Hills Middle School; and Louise Aebersold, Cooley Elementary School, Waterford.

Village voters go to polls Monday

According to Schultz, the most important issue facing the council in the future is the proposed widening of M-15.

"It's important for the future of life and business here," he said.

"If it is widened to five lanes, there would be a lot more traffic, and it would take parking off the Main Street," he said. "And we will no longer have a pedestrian commercial district. . . Cars will be just whipping by."

"The preservation of parking is essential to maintaining business in Clarkston," said Schultz, adding a past study by the village showed a need to widen to three lanes, not five.

Since the widening is in the planning stages, there's still a chance to alter the plans, he said.

ApMadoc and Roeser could not be reached for comment.

Registered voters may cast their votes from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday, March 9, at the Village Hall, 375 Depot St., Clarkston.

Rezoning sought for limited industrial park

By Carolyn Walker

A limited industrial park may be in the future for property along east Sashabaw Road south of I-75.

On Feb. 26, Emanuel Ravet, a developer with Ravet and Sklar of Southfield, asked the Independence Township Planning Commission to rezone 21.6 acres at the site for limited industrial use.

But the commissioners responded by tabling the matter pending a study of the township's master plan later this spring. They intend to further evaluate the needs of what is commonly called the "Sashabaw corridor," of which the proposal is a part.

The 21.6 acres in question, currently zoned for multiple residences, are part of a 70-acre parcel owned by Ravet and Sklar. They adjoin 35 acres to the north, also owned by the two, which are already zoned for limited industrial use.

Ravet told the commission that rezoning of the southerly portion seems a "natural transition" for improving the site to facilitate proposed traffic circulation.

Ravet sought only a rezoning at the meeting. While he showed a site plan with a planned cul-de-sac, he did not go into the specifics of what types of businesses would be brought to the park.

"... There has been a great deal of interest in acquiring light industrial at this point," he said, referring to its proximity to I-75.

He also told the commission that land balancing, or the removal and rearranging of earth, has begun as permitted under an Oakland County Circuit Court consent judgment governing the property.

The consent judgment was finalized last spring following a lawsuit against Independence Township for the right to land balance, Ravet said after the meeting.

Before tabling the matter, the commission listened to the comments of three residents who live along

Bow Pointe Drive, which abuts the property to the south.

All expressed concerns that toxic wastes might become a problem in the future or that drainage problems might occur as a result of the land balancing.

One resident, Dorene Cutshall, wondered if the development could affect property values or endanger children playing at nearby Pine Knob Elementary School.

"As residents we're really concerned," she said.

Township planner Richard Carlisle responded by telling the audience that such issues would be carefully addressed during final site plan review in the future.

Carlisle explained that limited industrial zoning permits such businesses as data processing, computer centers, warehousing, experimental film and testing labs, drafting sales, and printing and publishing.

"There's nothing in there considered, classically, to be heavy industrial," he said. He also told the audience there would be "no extended effects beyond the (site's) boundaries," referring to drainage or waste products.

After hearing the comments, the commissioners followed Carlisle's recommendation that the matter be tabled pending a study of the Sashabaw corridor. Voting to table were Chairman Joseph Figa, Brent Bair, Betty Jo Fussman, Carol Balzarini and Richard Oppmann.

D.C. questions?

Is there something you've always wanted to know about the sixth congressional district?

If so, your chance is coming up.

A staff member of Congressman Bob Carr will be in Independence Township from 3 to 5 p.m. Thursday, March 12, at the Independence Senior Center in Clintonwood Park on Clarkston Road.

Questions or comments may also be given at Carr's permanent office, 91 North Saginaw St., Pontiac, or by calling 332-2510.

3 from CHS win math accolades

Kelley Cook, 18, a senior at Clarkston High School, has placed in the top 102 of more than 23,000 state students participating in the 30th Annual Michigan Mathematics Prize Competition.

Cook, the son of Robert and Mary Alice Cook of North Main Street, Clarkston, will be honored at an awards program March 7 at Michigan State University.

Two other CHS students, Gregory D. Hall, 18, and Darren L. Miller, 16, qualified among the top 1,000 finalists in the competition.

Hall, a senior, is the son of Donald and Julie Hall of Twilight Court in Clarkston and Miller, junior, is the son of James and Lois Miller of Morningstar Court in Clarkston.

Fifty college scholarships will be awarded at that time in a program featuring Dr. Victor K. Wei of Bell Communications Research Inc. and Prof. Douglas R. Hofstadter of the University of Michigan.

The scholarships and the awards program are supported in part through contributions by Ford Motor Co., Michigan Bell, the Upjohn Co., Arvco Container Corp., Kuhlman Corp., and the Michigan Council of Teachers of Mathematics.

Janet Modesitt, CHS mathematics department chairperson, supervised the 53 students who entered the 1986-87 competition.

Traffic presents problems for these residents

and fail to obey stop signs may be involved in an accident.

She is not alone in her concern. People at the older, established end of the route on Snowapple and Cramlane have already experienced mailboxes knocked down and their yards rutted.

"If you think it's bad now, wait until the weather gets better," said Homer Biondi of Cramlane Drive.

He and a group of residents, some of whom had lived in their Snowapple and Cramlane homes since they were constructed in the late 1950s, attempted to keep the roads from being connected about five years ago.

They were told there was nothing the township could do, because the Oakland County Road Commission plans subdivision roads so they can be linked with others as development continues.

Biondi said the problem is particularly serious from 7:20 to 7:45 a.m. and from 2:15 to 3 p.m., the hours when students are going to and leaving Clarkston High School.

But Richard Funk of Cramlane noted it is not unusual for cars running without lights to use the figure 8 formed by Cramlane and Snowapple as a Grand Prix race course.

"I've seen them playing tag," he said.

Even Ozzie Nelson of Group One Inc. of Waterford Township, who sold the entire Chestnut Hills Farms subdivision, is upset.

"People speed and ignore the stop signs," he said.

That the subdivision tends to attract young couples with children has made the situation hazardous, he agreed. "But the traffic problem was there even before the houses were built," he said.

Pat Harmon, who lived in the subdivision as one of the original residents until last December, called the situation "the pits."

A longtime resident at the other end agreed.

"I'm moving. They're dumping beer cans, knocking down trees and mailboxes," said Carson Sutton of Cramlane.

Although accidents have been reported along the route, Sheriff's Department Traffic Sgt. Charles Williams said he was unaware of any serious mishaps.

Traffic counts taken in 1984 and 1986 by the Oakland County Road Commission show a continuing increase in cars using the shortcut.

"It's a real tough situation," said Dennis Pajot, commission spokesperson.

"Counts taken at Cramlane and Waldon showed an increase from 1,048 cars per day in 1984 to 1,126 two years later. On Snowapple, about mid-point, the count was up from 864 to 1,640," he said.

Ronk noted that the increase is not much different from that experienced by residents along Blue Grass, which is used by motorists going from M-15 to Holcomb Road.

"It happens in any subdivision that offers a shortcut between major arteries," he said.

Because Chestnut Hill Drive connects to Snowapple Drive, drivers are taking the route to get between Maybee and Waldon Roads. The result is too much traffic for a residential area, say homeowners.

Yet the ability of township and county emergency vehicles to traverse such areas is important, he added.

Increased construction in the Chestnut Hills area has at least put a stop to the night parties that used to take place in the cul-de-sacs of the unbuilt subdivision.

"We had a lot of complaints in past years about noise and glass being strewn all over," Ronk said.

Clues surrounding David Wiltse's fallen mailbox on Chestnut Hill Drive reveal that after the box was knocked down, a rock was moved and placed underneath. Wiltse, who lives on the corner of Chestnut Hill and Maybee, said the traffic doesn't bother him, but speeders do.

Remodeling OKd

It took the Independence Township Planning Commission about two minutes Thursday night to grant remodeling permission for the existing Clark Oil service station off Sashabaw Road.

The permission came after very little discussion, but followed months of fine-tuning of the proposal, including a rezoning classification by the township board.

According to Carol Balzarini, a board and commission member, Clark Oil and Refining Corp. recently received rezoning of the structure from commercial to multiple service to permit the remodeling.

They also obtained a variance from the township zoning board of appeals because the property's road frontage, at 140 feet, is 10 feet short of the township's requirements, she said.

The final site plan approval will allow the construction of a canopy over the pump islands, modernization of the pump islands and improved landscaping.

It will not permit changes in the building or its sales, according to commissioner Betty Jo Fussman.

Voting to permit the improvements were Chairman Joseph Figa, Fussman, Balzarini, Richard Oppmann and Brent Bair.

Reason to purr

When the Clarkston Optimists decided to raise money to help out area students, they sold 200 chances for two sixth-row tickets to the Broadway musical "Cats."

On Feb. 25, Optimist member Richard Martinez fished for the winning ticket and pulled out Sue Wagner of Hubbard Road, Independence Township.

Some of the $1,000 raised from the sale is to help pay for a trip to Washington, D.C., for six Clarkston High School students, said John Lutz, an Optimist member.

Rag rug memories

Kathy Greenfield

Country stores, I've discovered, are great places to take nostalgia trips.

While browsing in Calcote Country, a new shop in the same building as The Clarkston News, I took off for yesterday when I found something my grandmother used to make: rag rugs.

I once had what seemed like a never-ending supply. Over the years, however, I found that puppies loved to chew them and that they do eventually wear out.

As I was talking to the shop owner about the rugs, memories came flooding back.

My grandmother's crocheted works of art ranged from doilies to fantastic lace tableclothes to shawls—and rag rugs.

I remember watching her make all of the above. When crocheting the rugs, she used thick crochet needles and, like magic, the strips of tied-together torn cloth became colorful circular or oblong rungs.

Frequently, after a favorite dress would be outgrown or worn out, it would reappear in a rug.

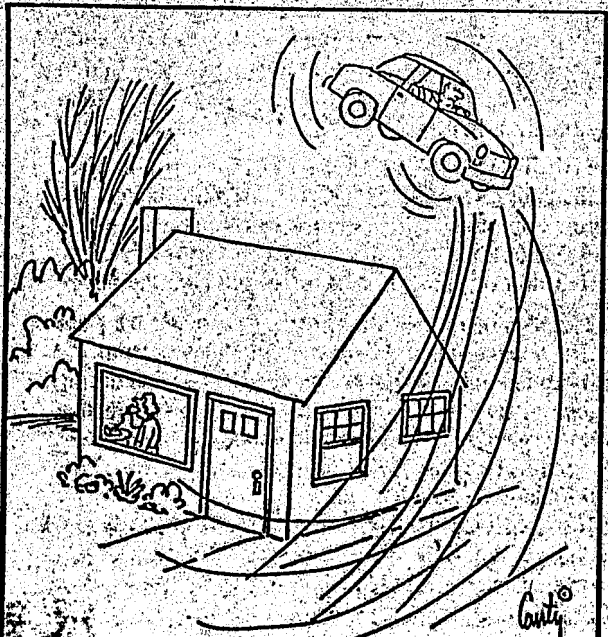

As I think back, I continue to have great admiration for the philosophy that pervaded my grandmother's generation—very little was wasted and the word recycling didn't exist, it just happened.

The owner of Calcote Country told me that an older woman made the rugs in her home, and I could picture her sitting in a sturdy rocking chair by the window, as my grandmother did.

When the years had made her fingers less nimble and her eyes less sharp, grandma had to stop crocheting with fine needles. But she continued to make rag rugs while in her 80s.

I bought a couple of the rugs. One sits by my front door. While my grandmother didn't make it, I think of her every time I see it. It's a very good feeling.

ALL ABOUT TOWN

SMALL CAR OR NO SMALL CAR, ED'S GOING INTO TOWN TO GET THE PAPER.

Jim Sherman

Jim's Jottings

I sort of miss having General Alexander Haig in the White House. I enjoyed listening to him. Not that I ever understood what he said. I just waited for his Pentagon wording, words that are meant to get you thinking of the meaning of the word so you would be oblivious of the message.

General Haig used words like outplacement, infrastructure, and prioritize (also a favorite of school administrators).

He's the kind who would refer to World War III as an all out strategic exchange.

Other persons in government are just as thrilled at feeling their tongue flap around generally ignored words. Like the official who said, "The cost benefit analysis of outreach services indicates that extensive streamlining of field personnel utilization could be affected without significantly impacting the client participation."

That probably means, let's fire half the staff and don't worry about the impact on taxpayers.

Those types also say things like culturally deprived environment but can't bring themselves to say sium. Nor could they say on-the-job training when it would better impress other gobbleygookers to say they were giving inservice to the economically disadvantaged.

You can throw a lot of these words together and sound great from the podium, until the audience slobes realize from where the hot air is emanating.

Add reciprocal interaction sometime, and meaningful input. Mazimize is a nice word. So is funeralize. The San Francisco Chronicle, in quoting a funeral director, wrote, "We pledge you the utmost care and devotion when funeralizing your loved ones."

To which the Chronicle columnist, Herb Caen quipped, "They ain't a'goin' to funeralize me."

I clipped a note from the Cass City Chronicle, no relation to the one in California, that wrote about the school's Operating Engineers contract. They are the cooks, custodians and bus drivers. Why not the CC&BDers? It's as good as AFSCME.

From the Oakland Commission comes this gem, "additional signalization on a timely basis". I guess they're putting up signs.

My all time favorite over-mixing of words comes from the medical profession. It came out during the Lake Superior State College word-watching Unicorn Hunters' annual release of words they want banished from the Queen's language.

This is a New Year's Day Dishonor List. They wonder about things like, 'filmed before a live audience', what else, a dead audience?

And 'shower activity' for rain, partially sunny, foreign imports, and same difference.

The topper is: "The patient did not fulfill his wellness potential."

Bombs not toys

My wife and I moved to Brandon Township almost a year ago to get away from the hustle and bustle of West Bloomfield.

Since we moved here, our mailbox has been stolen three times, one of our cars was vandalized with over $2,000 of damage, our neighbor and another friend in the area had their homes broken into and this past weekend, our paper box was destroyed by a pipe bomb.

We have heard that mailboxes get smashed and stolen every weekend and very seldom on school nights. Outside of inconvenience and minor cost, at least nobody has gotten hurt.

Homecoming night for Brandon High was another story. The car we had for sale was damaged beyond belief. It was sickening to think that some kids were just having fun.

The police have fingerprints, but being high school kids, there isn't any way they can match them without having the kids themselves. We still have a $500 reward for the arrest of the kids involved.

That same evening, they broke in two doors away. The people were asleep. They were very lucky, as the man there may have used his shotgun to defend himself.

Now the kids are playing with pipe bombs. This one was a copper pipe with what looks like 2400 smokeless powder. The police have all the fragments that could be found for investigation.

I ask you parents who use this type of powder or something similar to see if any is missing. If it is, please question your children if they were out Saturday, Feb. 21, around 11 p.m.

Playing with pipe bombs will get someone killed. It is happening every day in the Middle East and in Ireland. Why let it start here?

Trash is threat

I was most upset with the report in The Clarkston News that citizens of Independence Township will have to pay a fee if they wish to dump trash at this year's Spring Cleanup.

Each year some of the families in our micro-community of Michigamme Knolls get together and patrol our roads, which include parts of Michigamme and Stickney, and clean up all visible trash.

We may have ONE pickup load of our own junk, which we keep hidden on our own property until cleanup time. But, our dirt-bag neighbors trash the roads with six or seven more loads.

We commented last year that we could almost have assembled a car from the parts thrown on roadsides: a hood, windshield, gas tank, door, tires, etc.

We also removed bags of garbage, a shattered picnic table, carpeting, mattresses, a washer, hot water heater, chairs and much, much more... all that from one year, because we have had cleanup patrols for several years.

It is one thing for good citizens to donate a day of grubbing in the garbage and trash that those near, but not dear, have dumped—BUT TO PAY YET! That's too much!

We plow our own snow, maintain our private roads and pay for private garbage service. This cleanup was, to us, one of the few community benefits.

If Independence Township does not get Revenue Sharing money, it should use additional tax money to cover this important project.

Those who do keep their trash at home until Spring Cleanup will be dumping it all over rather than pay the dumping fee.

Some say that "outsiders" do the dumping, but our own dead-end street is so remote that only our neighbors know it exists, and we have had an unbelievable amount of dumping, usually in the middle of the night.

What kind of sad people do that to their neighborhoods?

I urge our elected officials to please search for funds for the Spring Cleanup, or the trash will overcome us.

Perhaps each person could drive his or her loads directly to the dump, where township personnel would keep the tally, therefore saving the costs of moving the trash a second time.

A concerned resident,

Tribute to Butch VanWagoner

Lila Ball of Holly penned the following tribute to the late Phyleetus "Butch" VanWagoner, 38, who died Feb. 15.

Mrs. Ball said she knew VanWagoner for 10 years and had admired him, as all who knew him did, for his extensive church work with the Waterford Church of Christ where he was a deacon, for his love for children and his family, and for his devotion to helping others.

"He was an unusual person. He wasn't just an average-joe guy," she said.

An Independence Township resident, VanWagoner was employed by the Oakland County Road Commission.

The poem was distributed at VanWagoner's funeral on Feb. 20 at the Waterford Church of Christ, and Mrs. Ball asked that the tribute be shared with readers of The Clarkston News.

Butch—we just didn't know.
Please forgive us, we were just too slow.
You needed someone when time was low.

And carried your burden because you loved us so.

Cleaning the highways or grading the byways,
Or helping with an extended hand.
Maybe even a magical trick to gain another fan.
A pleasant voice and a nice hello.
You always seemed so calm and mellow.

Everyone enjoyed how you liked to talk,
Taking time doing the Lord's work through life as you walked.

We all loved you, Butch, as a Christian, husband, father,
Son, deacon, Bible Bowl teacher and friend.
And we'll truly miss you until we meet again.

So, Lord, please help us, as we need you more and more,
Especially this saddened time as we're all struggling to mend
The loss of our "Special Dear Christian Friend."

Pope arrives Sept. 18, baby boom to follow

Jim Fitzgerald

It is expected that people living in U.S. cities that Pope John Paul II will visit next fall will be asked to not practice birth control while the pope is in town.

It will be suggested that anti-birth-control groups set up picket lines blocking access to bedrooms in the homes of couples who refuse to observe the pope's visit by refraining from using contraceptives. But this suggestion will be rejected as inadequate in a nation so full of backseats.

Instead, anti-birth-control activists will mark calendars. Married couples of child-bearing age who don't have children nine months after the pope leaves town will be bombed.

Young couples who aren't married, but are often seen holding hands in public, will also be subject to scrutiny. Whether or not they have children, they could be bombed for fornicating in the park.

Special precautions will be taken in regard to people living in the same neighborhood where Pope John Paul II sleeps overnight on his U.S. visit. These people will be required to take a vow of chastity effective the minute the pope arrives and lasting until 24 hours after he leaves, just in case he forgets some luggage and has to come back to get it.

Soldiers with walkie-talkies will be stationed at various checkpoints to alert the populace: "The pope is coming, the pope is coming, destroy all contraceptives and begin painting the nursery."

BUT EVEN WITH the most elaborate communication system established along the pope's route, it will be recognized that a last-second change in plans could cause an unfair enforcement of birth-control restrictions. Hamtramck, for instance, might begin abstaining from birth control at 10 a.m. Sept. 18 because that's when the pope is supposed to arrive, but he might be stuck at the airport until noon because he flew Northwest and the pope mobile, which didn't quite qualify as carry-on luggage, was accidentally sent to New Jersey.

Some couples may have babies resulting from non-birth-control unions consummated under the mistaken belief that the pope was in town. In the interest of fairness, the parents will not be required to keep these children. They will be allowed to dump the babies at the nearest Roman Catholic archdiocese, and headquarters to be raised by archbishops who always wondered what it would be like to follow their own advice on childbearing.

It will be stressed that the birth control ban for the pope's visit applies especially to Roman Catholics who have previously ignored papal prohibitions against contraceptives. Even though a Catholic woman's parish priest has agreed that she shouldn't have a third child because it will give her a headache, she will be asked to refrain from using birth control pills while Pope John Paul is visiting her city.

THE REASONING will be that it won't hurt U.S. Catholic couples to experience - for just a few hours - the situation common in less-sophisticated nations, where Catholic couples have babies they can't afford because they're afraid of going to hell for disobeying the pope.

The idea of forbidding birth control while the pope is in town next fall is borrowed, of course, from the anti-abortion coalition that wants an abortion ban during the same visits. "We will do all we can to ensure that generous, gentle, loving people interpose themselves between the abortionists and their intended victims," the coalition announced this week.

It is expected that the anti-birth-control group will announce: "We will do all we can to ensure that generous, gentle, loving people interpose themselves between the sheets of a husband and wife who, though they're too stupid to realize it, need the Holy Ghost to regulate their sexual relationship and help them find enough money to support another kid."

Do you agree with the way President Reagan is reacting to the Tower Commission report on the Iran-contra affair?

Taxes too high? The time to react is now

Fifteen minutes spent this month could make June's and December's tax payments easier to bear, according to Independence Township Assessor David Kramer.

Increasing assessments ranging from 5 to 21 percent across the township will show up in increased tax bills, but the only chance of appeal is now, not when the bills come out, he said.

The assessment process determines the true cash value of property and halves that figure for taxing purposes.

Homeowners who feel they've been rated too high can make sure the recorded dimensions of their home and lot are accurate, that portions of the house, such as unfinished attics and basements have not been misrepresented in the description, and that the appraisal worksheet did not miss defects that would reduce the house's value.

When errors are clearly pointed out, most assessors are willing to adjust the appraisal without requiring any formal appeal process, Kramer noted.

However, if the homeowner remains unsatisfied, he or she can file a formal appeal of the assessment with the Board of Review. Exceptions are also made on the basis of hardship, Kramer noted.

The local board of review meets on an as-needed basis in Independence Township. So far sessions have been scheduled from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. March 9, 11 and 12 and from 1 to 9 p.m. March 10. Cases are scheduled only by appointment, made with the assessing department at 625-5111.

The three-member board is comprised of representatives of the real estate and banking industries. Serving are Dan Ellsworth and Tom Brecht and Rainee Stricklin. Stricklin was recently appointed by the township board to replace retiring Dr. Leslie Greene.

Non-residents may file a written protest by March 9, but appeals generally must be made in person or by a designated representative, Kramer said.

The Michigan Tax Information Council suggests that appellants be sure to document their cases with examples of comparable housing sold at lower prices than their appraisals, or of sales patterns in the neighborhood.

The council also warns to limit questioning to the validity of the tax assessment and not the tax rate. "By limiting your remarks in this way you'll improve your chances for a favorable judgment," the council advises.

If after the appeal a homeowner is still dissatisfied with the decision, his or her next step is to write the Michigan Tax Tribunal in care of the Treasury Department, PO Box 30230, Lansing, MI 48909 or phone them at 517-373-8850.

The council says appeals to the tribunal must be preceded by appeal through the Board of Review process and received no later than June 30 each year.

The letter should include the name and address of the property owner, the legal description of the property, the county and township or city where the property is located, the date of protest to the local board of review and a brief statement of the reason for the appeal.

There is no fee, and the tribunal holds hearings at various locations throughout the state.

8351 Big Lake Rd., Clarkston 48016
625-2743 MI. Tues. - Sat. 12-5:30 p.m.

Manufacturers Bank of Southfield's Clarkston branch is located at Ortonville Road and Bluegrass Drive, just north of the Clarkston village limits.

Bank may sell

Representatives of Manufacturers Bank of Southfield and Oxford Bank have confirmed the signing of an agreement which would allow Oxford Bank to purchase the Clarkston branch of Manufacturers.

The agreement, reached in mid-February after about six months of discussions, is subject to approval by the Michigan Financial Institutions Bureau and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

If approved, depositors of of Manufacturers Bank would have the opportunity to remain customers of Manufacturers or transfer their deposits to Oxford Bank.

Current borrowers of Manufacturers Bank will remain customers of Manufacturers Bank.

Oxford Bank proposes to operate a full-service branch at the 7199 Ortonville Rd. location, at Bluegrass Drive in Independence Township.

Representatives of both banks said they would comment further once decisions have been reached by the regulatory agencies.

The 103-year-old Oxford Bank is based in Oxford and has offices in Oxford, Lake Orion and Addison-Oaks. It is the oldest independent bank in Oakland County.

Clarkston branch of Manufacturers Bank of Southfield was built and opened in 1980 at a time when many banks were expanding their locations.

Several of the major banks are now consolidating by selling and closing some of the branches opened at that time, banking officials say.

Empty building near I-75 may be used

A vacant building at the corner of Sashabaw and Flemings Lake roads may soon be the site of a new business.

Paul S. Holler, owner of the 1,500-square-foot building for the past two years, petitioned the Independence Township Planning Commission for conceptual approval Feb. 26.

He intends to renovate the building and lease it, he said, although there is currently no agreement for a tenant.

The site, situated on less than an acre, is currently zoned C4, a specification for "freeway service district," according to township planner Richard Carlisle, who said it may be the only such zone in all of Independence.

Freeway service zoning would permit an office, restaurant or drug store for the convenience of nearby I-75 commuters, Carlisle said.

"Many is the time I've traveled along an expressway to get to a drug store," he commented.

While his joke brought a round of laughter from the commissioners, they were receptive to Holler's proposal and voted unanimously to grant conceptual site plan approval.

They recommended that he construct a landscaping berm behind the parking lot, that he improve other landscaping and that he consider shortening an existing fence.

Holler must still obtain final site plan approval before work can begin.

Former car lot could burst into bloom

The vacant used car dealership on M-15 may soon boast the beauty of a flower shop.

On Feb. 26, the Independence Township Planning Commission granted conceptual site plan approval for renovation of the building to owner Don Short. The building stands just south of Northview Drive outside the Clarkston village limits.

Short, who owns Clarkston Glass on Dixie Highway, said he plans to house two retail businesses at the site. One would be Beverly's Flowers and County Gifts, currently located next to Clarkston Glass and owned by his wife, Beverly, he said after the meeting.

The second tenant of the building has not been selected, Short said.

Following questioning, Short reassured the commission that he would not be relocating his current automotive sales business into the 2,880-square-foot building.

Very little discussion preceded the commission's unanimous decision to grant conceptual approval. Final site plan approval must still be obtained by Short.

Plans for church must start anew

Jim Walker took over the pastoring duties of Crossroads Free Will Baptist Church last July. And with those duties he inherited the headaches that come with constructing a new church.

Walker, expressing some confusion about the steps required for obtaining a building permit, sought advice from the Independence Township Planning Commission Feb. 26.

A special land use permit, needed for constructing a church in a residential district within the township, was issued to Crossroads in 1985 but expired after a lack of activity.

Conceptual site plan approval was also given by the commission in 1985, while final site plan had been tabled.

"We're back, basically, to ground zero," said township planner Richard Carlisle.

The amiable Walker was told he could seek a second special land use permit in the near future, but that a public hearing must first be held.

There was no official action taken by the commis-

Report cites top 10 education issues for '87

By Chris Gerbaal

The American education system has been under close scrutiny the last several years and in an effort to anticipate problems facing schools in 1987, a local management group has compiled a list of the top 10 issues.

The Macomb Issues Management Program, directed out of the Macomb Intermediate School District, "was designed to help educators manage the critical issues confronting society," according to its booklet.

The booklet states that the issues may vary in intensity in different regions, but listed the top 10 issues school people will face nationwide in 1987 as follows:

1. Schools as parents
2. Internationalization of the curriculum
3. Control of special education
4. Intergenerational conflict
5. Overspecialized educators
6. Women in administration
7. Battered boards
8. The diversification of advocacy
9. Assessment paralysis
10. The meantime society

Clarkston schools Superintendent Milford Mason responded to the list and said the most apparent of these issues in the school district were schools as parents, the curriculum, a pressured board of education and advocacy groups.

"There's no question more people have turned to the schools to help with their children," said Mason of the first issue.

"We see in our own area the tremendous growth of the Latchkey program," he said. "It's a program where either both parents are working or it's a single parent family and they drop the child off before school and pick them up after school."

Mason said there are about 400 youngsters enrolled in Latchkey and he expects the demand for that service to only grow.

The internationalization of the curriculum involves a greater need for classes about the history, culture, economics and politics of other countries.

"The young people going through school are going to have to go out in the world and make their life and living," Mason said.

"The forces they must deal with are going to be more of an international nature than probably at any time in our past," he said. "The world's going to have to live together a little bit better."

Clarkston's school system has been expanding its foreign language program as one step toward internationalization.

The booklet used the term "battered boards" to refer to the increasing pressure on school board members from the public.

It states that without changes, "boards will continue to be buffeted about by every study, pressure group and fad, and the result will be a battered, non-focused educational program."

"There are so many pressures and demands on them," said Mason of board members. "They have to be responsible to all kinds of groups in a participatory democracy, so to speak. The board also has to face the public every time they sit down."

The same line of thinking can be applied to the advocacy issue. Mason said the number of advocacy groups, whether they be for special education, gifted programs, athletics or almost anything else, are on the rise.

And for almost any group that supports a given issue, there is another group that opposes the plan. Caught in the middle are school administrators.

The issues management group states, "Wise school executives are now developing outcome based strategic learning plans. They will be able to demonstrate how their schools respond to student learning needs and they will be in a position to form productive partnerships with the new advocates."

Those are the four issues Mason said he thought were most pervasive in the Clarkston system.

"Not all of those (10 issues) are going to develop," he said. "But it gives a great deal of food for thought, to look beyond ourselves. To that extent, I think it's quite useful."

The Issues Management Program is directed by Dr. William J. Banach, assistant superintendent for communication/consultant services at the Macomb Intermediate School District, 44001 Garfield Road, Mt. Clemens, MI 48044-1497, 313/286-8800. The Issues Management Program is supported in part by funding from the Leadership Academy grant awarded to the Michigan Institute for Educational Management by the Michigan State Board of Education.

Architecture talk

A program on the art and architecture of the Clarkston area is scheduled for Thursday, March 12, by the Clarkston Community Historical Society.

The discussion, titled "Place Makers," will feature Ron Campbell, who will talk about the necessity of man to locate himself in time and space.

Campbell is an architect and associate with Tomblinson, Harburn Associates. His experience includes historical preservation, community revitalization and design.

The architect of Northville's redevelopment master plan, Clio's downtown master plan, and Flint's Carriage Town, his current work includes Orchard Lake City Hall, Grand Blanc Streetscape, and Anishinabe Aki—an American Indian cultural center and Indian village.

The program begins 7:30 p.m. in the Clarkston Village Hall, 375 Depot Rd., Clarkston. There is no admission fee.

Springfield Christian Academy Varsity Michigan Christian Schools Playoffs

Feb. 28—In the double elimination tourney, SCA bounces back from a loss to Bethany Christian to win three straight matches and advance to this Saturday's finals.

The Eagles will host Faith Baptist for the championship at 2 p.m. Faith Baptist is the defending Christian schools champ, but SCA has won two out of three regular season matches.

The Eagles entered the postseason tournament with a 17-7 record after a victory over Faith Baptist of Davison Feb. 24 and a loss to Holy Rosary Feb. 26.

In the playoffs, SCA suffers an opening 6-15, 11-15 loss to Bethany. But the Eagles then down Rochester Hills, 15-0, 15-10, and Genesee Christian, 15-7, 15-6, and then get revenge against Bethany, winning 15-10, 16-14.

Springfield's volleyball program is just four years old and this was the first season the team achieved a winning record.

Sashabaw Junior High

Feb. 25—The Cougars end their season at 15-9 after a 7-15, 3-15 loss at Lake Orion.

"After the game against Clarkston (last) Monday, everything was kind of academic," said Sashabaw coach Sue Koslosky of the loss.

"It was a good year," she said. "We had some good kids. Next year, the junior (varsity) program should be excellent. It was a fun bunch of kids to work with."

Basketball

Clarkston Junior High

Feb. 24—The Wolverines drop their final game of the season, to Flint Northern.

"It was enjoyable, then again, it was frustrating," said coach Bill Bildstein of the 8-9 season. "It was enjoyable working with the kids. It was the first time they really ever played organized, on a team."

"I threw a lot at them in two months," he said. "We worked on every aspect of the game. I'm sorry it's over. I still wish we had two or three games left."

Clarkston/Sashabaw 7th Grade

Feb. 26—The Cougars down Clarkston for the second time at the seventh-grade level, 36-26.

Clarkston led 14-12 at the half, but Sashabaw was smoking in the third quarter, outscoring its opponent, 18-5.

Dugan Fife nearly matched Clarkston's total, scoring 25 points for the Cougars.

Jeremy DeLoney scored 12 and Lucas Fedio nine for the Wolverines, who finished the season 4-4.

Clarkston skis to ninth place

For the second straight year, Clarkston's girls ski team finished ninth out of 10 teams at the state finals, held Monday at Crystal Mountain in Thompsonville.

The Wolves were tied for sixth after the slalom competition, but didn't fare as well in the giant slalom.

"The girls skied pretty well, we just didn't finish very high," said coach Don Balzarini. "Ninth in the state isn't bad, considering there's some 100 teams racing."

The fourth-place through ninth-place teams were bunched fairly closely, but the top three finishers put a lot of distance between themselves and their competitors.

Harbor Springs won the girls state title with 62 points, followed by Traverse City at 92 and Cadillac at 94.

There's a large gap to fourth place, as Farmington Mercy had 195 points. East Grand Rapids was fifth with 200 points, followed by Ironwood 201, Marquette 231, Grand Blanc 235, Clarkston 244 and Brighton 283.

Shelly Purdy, one of the Wolves' most consistent skiers, had the best individual finish for her team, 15th in the slalom. But she slipped, literally, to 40th in the giant slalom.

"She skied really well, actually," said Balzarini. "On her first run, she slipped out of the gate and on her second run, she had a real good time."

"It rained Saturday and Sunday up there and then it froze up on Monday," he said. "Considering the conditions, they didn't do badly at all."

Laura Howse was 23rd in the slalom, Jackie Jablonski was 33rd, Tammy Spaven 37th and Serena Brown 42nd.

Jablonski was the top Clarkston performer in the GS, taking 23rd place. Howse was 34th, Tina Sheppard 39th, Purdy 40th, Spaven 45th and Brown 53rd.

The boys team, which just missed qualifying for the finals, was represented in the giant slalom by Jeff Roeser, who finished 23rd, and Matt Ritter, who fell on one of his two runs.

Five grapplers bow out at regional meet

The string of success ended for Clarkston wrestlers last Saturday at the Class A regional at Clio High School.

Five Wolves represented the school at the meet, but each came up empty in their bids to advance to the state finals.

"They would've had to done some upsetting," said Clarkston coach Scott Strickler. "I went in with the attitude, if I had a kid make it, fine; if not, the season's been more than gratifying."

The five regional qualifiers were four more than attended last year for Clarkston, when the Wolves also had a 14-7 dual meet record.

Seniors Mark Ice, at 105 pounds, Rob Lund (126) and Troy Castle (198), junior heavyweight Mark Oswald and sophomore Dave London (119) each lost their first two matches in the double elimination format.

Clarkston's league rival, Waterford Kettering, won the regional with 75 points, edging Davison, which had 70½ points. Lake Orion finished 10th with 26 points.

"It was good at least to see a GOAL team do something," said Strickler. "There were no slouches. Everybody's tough at a regional, especially that regional."

Ice finished the season with a 26-18 record, Lund was 27-9, Castle 25-16, Oswald 22-12 and London 26-16.

Senior Scott Emery (145 pounds) was 20-9 and Jim Tedder (155), also a senior, was 21-19-1. Chris Luzi (112) compiled a 28-10 mark and Jason Campbell (167) was 17-16. They are both sophomores.

"We had eight kids with 20 or more victories and I'm thrilled to death about that," Strickler said. "The young kids came through really well this year. We have a good nucleus for next year and I expect only better things."

"I really wasn't that optimistic at the beginning of the year," he said. "I didn't know what to expect. But they got that winning feeling."

Race comes down to one game

Jeff Tungate looks for help against two Waterford Kettering defenders last Thursday. Tungate scored 10 points in helping Clarkston to a 55-42 victory.

By Chris Gerbasi

Funny how a basketball title race can change rivals into allies and back again in no time flat.

Gene Seets slapped hands with Waterford Kettering's Tim Maxfield to wish him good luck before last Thursday's Kettering-Clarkston basketball game.

Seets, Waterford Mott's top scorer, and the rest of the Corsairs were hoping to get some help from their crosstown rivals-turned-friends.

A victory by Kettering would have helped Mott's cause in the Greater Oakland Activities League title chase. Both the Corsairs and Clarkston were 4-2 in the league entering the week's action.

But Clarkston was a rude host, dumping the Captains, 55-42, and putting the ball back in Mott's court.

Sports

On Friday, it was the Wolves' turn to watch their new "buddies," Lake Orion, try to do them a favor by knocking off Mott.

The Dragons obliged with a 70-57 victory, which helped themselves and Clarkston.

But don't look for Lake Orion and Clarkston players to start a fraternity. The Wolves will be out to slay the Dragons this Friday on Dragon turf.

Clarkston, 5-2 and 12-7 overall, can now claim the league crown outright with a victory. Lake Orion (4-3, 11-7) can share the title with a win and if both the Dragons and Corsairs win Friday, there would be a three-way tie. Mott (4-3, 12-6) hosts Pontiac Northern.

[See LEAGUE, Page 19]

Boven breaks mark

Mike Boven scored 29 points to break Springfield Christian's career scoring record in a 79-68 victory at Faith Baptist of Davison Feb. 24.

Boven's first bucket moved him out of a tie with Todd Forsten, who scored 1,184 points for the Eagles before graduating in 1983. Boven is a junior guard.

When Boven passed the mark, the game was stopped and he was presented with the game ball. He went on to get eight steals and three assists to go along with his scoring outburst. Boven averages 20 points per game.

Jim Adams added 11 points for SCA and Shannon Bulloch scored 11 points, grabbed nine rebounds and had four steals.

The win came in the Eagles' last regular season game and they finished 11-12.

They are aiming for the Michigan Association of Christian Schools championship, as the playoffs are this week at Springfield Christian Academy. The finals are this Saturday at 8 p.m.

League race

The Wolves have won eight out of nine games and would have a nine-game winning streak but for a last-second 53-52 loss to Ann Arbor Huron.

But you'll hear no complaints from coach Dan Fife, who thought the methodical dismantling of Kettering was his team's best showing this season.

"This wasn't an ugly win; this was a good win," said Fife. "They've (Kettering) got talent. They're a good ball team—I've thought that all year. That's as good a game as we've played all year."

The Captains had a few brief leads in the first half, but the Wolves steadily built a 30-22 halftime advantage, aided by Dan Jokisch's 10 points.

Jokisch was double- and occasionally triple-teamed, but consistently passed off to the open man.

GOAL Basketball Standings (as of March 2)

|                     | League | Overall |
|---------------------|--------|---------|
| Clarkston           | 5-2    | 12-7    |
| Waterford Mott      | 4-3    | 12-6    |
| Lake Orion          | 4-3    | 11-7    |
| Pontiac Northern    | 3-4    | 6-10    |
| Waterford Kettering | 2-6    | 8-11    |

He found Steve Secatch twice inside in an 8-2 third quarter run, which gave Clarkston a 40-28 lead. The Captains only got as close as seven points in the fourth quarter.

"Jokisch was absolutely outstanding," Fife said. "He made his presence known. He made some super passes, no silly fouls and he kept his head in the game mentally. He was a man out there. He was physical."

Jokisch finished with 17 points, Josh Newblatt had 11 and Secatch and Jeff Tungate put in 10 each.

Bryan Smith scored 11 points for Kettering, which is 8-11 overall and finished last at 2-6 in the league.

No matter which team wins the championship, there'll be little time to celebrate, as the district playoffs begin next week.

Clarkston will again be at the Waterford Mott district, joining Mott, Kettering, Pontiac Northern, Pontiac Central and Holly.

March Madness memories

March is here, so let the madness begin. I know I've been out of my mind lately, but that's another column.

This is one of my favorite times of the year because the college basketball tournament is my favorite sporting event.

Add to that the hoopla of the Michigan high school tournament and March becomes a time for the most frenetic, outrageous, deliriously insane basketball spectacle around. And I'm just talking about the fans.

In the games, half-court shots, overtime games and last-second thrillers are the norm—sometimes all in the same game. Just last year, Saginaw Buena Vista won the Class B title on a half-court buzzer beater.

Still etched in my mind is a shot by U.S. Reed of Arkansas several years ago, which came from just over half court and at the buzzer to beat, I believe, my beloved Louisville Cardinals. Maybe I blocked that part out.

Unfortunately, the Cardinals are taking their lumps this year, but I recall rooting for them when they won the national championship in 1980.

They were known as the Doctors of Dunk, led by the original Dr. Dunkenstein, Darrell Griffith. You've gotta like that nickname. I've been a Louisville fan ever since.

In recent years, ESPN has been a March Madness messiah, seemingly providing every game for faithful worshippers.

One year at college, when I was living in a dorm, my friends and I went down to the main lounge and hooked up our own TV to a cable outlet. We mixed up some screwdriver, some orange juice, and watched games late into the night until, quite by accident, we discovered we could tune in the Playboy Channel. Well, it's only a game.

Of course, any time Michigan loses in the tournament, it becomes an emotional and psychological scar on my memory.

But ironically, the game that meant the most is the one I remember the least. It was in 1976 when the Wolverines faced an undefeated Indiana team in the championship game.

Michigan was led by Rickey Green, Phil Hubbard, Steve Grote, Wayman Britt and John Robinson, some of my all-time favorites.

Indiana was invincible that season, with Kent Benson, Scott May, Bobby Wilkerson, Quinn Buckner and Tom Abernathy.

It was also the first time two teams from the same conference met in the finals. So it was a can't miss game, right?

Being 13 and having no say in my life, I had to go to catechism class that night and I missed most of the first half. The Hoosiers blew them out in the second half and I don't remember a single play.

But I have a clear and fond Madness memory of watching Tim McCormick and Michigan at the NIT finals in New York in 1984.

The Wolverines faced sinister Notre Dame in a matchup that, for me, would either mean ecstasy or tragedy.

I must've been in the front row, in fact, I was, at the famed Madison Square Garden. To get those seats, the first ones sold, we sat outside the Michigan Ticket Office overnight and played Trivial Pursuit until they let us in at about 6 a.m.

Anyway, McCormick came through with 29 points and Michigan pounded those Irish people.

I can picture McCormick late in the game waving his fist in triumph at the section of Michigan fans and then, after the game, my friend Dave Palumbo grabbed me a small strand of the net as the players cut it down. Tucked away in a drawer somewhere, I still have that strand.

JV Wolves move to 12-7

Scott Weeks' 14 second-half points helped Clarkston pull away to a 57-45 victory over Waterford Kettering in junior varsity basketball Feb. 26.

The Wolves are now 12-7 with one game remaining, this Friday at Lake Orion.

Clarkston led by just one point at halftime, 25-24, as Kevin Baert and Keenan Powell scored six points apiece.

Baert hit a short jumper as the third quarter ended to increase the margin to 38-31.

The Wolves then scored the first four points of the fourth quarter and went on a 12-5 tear, capped by a Weeks bank shot, to put the game out of reach.

Weeks finished with 19 points, Powell scored 13 and Baert chipped in with 12.

Spikers take second, wait for start of postseason

A second-place effort at the Utica Invitational wound down Clarkston's regular season varsity volleyball schedule last Saturday.

The Wolves finished at 39-8, an .830 winning percentage, and they now await this Saturday's district playoffs at Rochester Adams.

Their first match will be against Holly at 9 a.m. They must win three matches to claim the district championship.

Clarkston lost to Detroit Edsel Ford at the invitational, 15-8, 15-9, in the finals.

"They outplayed us and they outhit us," said Clarkston coach Nancy McCarrick. "We were on the defensive most of the game. Edsel Ford ate us up at the net. We didn't stop very much."

On their way to the finals, the Wolves defeated Troy Athens twice, including in the semifinals, along with Anchor Bay, Rochester and West Bloomfield.

Gina Houck and Missy Odell had strong days at the net, as Houck connected on 91 percent of her front row attempts and Odell put down 20 kill spikes.

Coreen Hummel controlled the back row and served at 94 percent.

Clarkston is ranked eighth in the state in Class A, but rankings go out the window once playoffs begin.

Last year, the Wolves lost in the district finals to West Bloomfield. They last won a district in 1984, McCarrick's first year as varsity coach.

There are two predistrict matches this week, Lake Orion at Waterford Kettering and Grand Blanc at Waterford Mott.

The winners of those matches will advance to Saturday's tourney and challenge Clarkston, Holly, Pontiac Central, Rochester, Pontiac Northern and Adams.

McCarrick expects her team to be in the final four, along with Grand Blanc, Rochester and league foe, Lake Orion.

All Fedio and Wendy Cohoon attempt to block a Birmingham Groves' tip in volleyball action last week. The Wolves are gearing up for this Saturday's district playoffs at Rochester Adams.

Plans unfold for 'Historic Races'

With the momentum of two previous races behind them, GP/Publishing Inc. and Waterford Hills Road Racing Inc. are already gearing up for the Third Meadow Brook Historic Races event.

The races are scheduled July 31 through Aug. 2 at the Waterford Hills Race Track in Independence Township.

GP/Publishing and the Waterford Hills group are looking for a record-breaking year.

They produce the races in conjunction with the Meadow Brook Concours d'Elegance, a fundraiser for Meadow Brook Hall held annually on the Meadow Brook grounds in Rochester the first Sunday in August.

"Happily, the first year was a lot of fun for everyone and drew people back for the second year," said Michael Sheridan, president of GP/Publishing.

"Last year proved we are going to be a key event on the vintage racing circuit," he said. "This year, people are already calling us asking how they can get involved."

The featured race this year will be for the Lotus and the Concours will feature Duesenbergs.

The mini-Concours held at Depot Park in Clarkston will be repeated and fans will have a chance to look at the competing historic and vintage vehicles while enjoying an ice cream social.

A parade through Clarkston will also be held on the morning of Aug. 1.

Kids: 'Groups are good'

By Kathy Greenfield

The third-graders have split up into Cooperative Learning Groups to study their spelling words. They're gathered around tables and desks or sitting on the floor as a quiet buzz of conversation fills their classroom.

Smiles greet the question, "How do you like working in groups?"

"It's fun" is a frequent answer.

But as the children talk about helping each other, they reveal much more about their knowledge of the process.

One group of four sum it up quite well:

"It's fun because you get lots of help from people who are in your groups," says Stefanie Burklow.

"You get more help than just doing it by yourself," says Greg Matzelle.

"You get to know each other better," says Lee Darrow.

"In cooperative groups, you get better grades than by yourself, that's for sure," says Jason Cowan.

Other children, in other groups, add some more elements of the learning technique.

"If you worked alone, it would be a lot harder. If you worked together as a team, it would be a lot easier," says Mike McAuliffe, who adds that groups also provide practice for praising and for taking turns.

Flashing the symbol for OK, Arica Cooper joins in the conversation. "Did good, Mike," she says. "Oh my gosh, I just praised now, and I didn't even know it."

When she was in second grade and the group method of learning to spell was not used, the results were different, says Katie Colosimo. "When we're not in the groups, we don't do as good."

Cooperative Learning Groups are an educational trend, one that's filling a serious gap in American society, says William Potvin.

Potvin, the principal at Clarkston Elementary School, is responsible for bringing the technique to Clarkston schools.

He's been teaching the method to Clarkston teachers who have volunteered for his workshops since the fall of 1985, and it's being used in virtually every school building at every grade level in the district.

For older students, groups may form to select specific topics for a general theme assignment in English classes or to study for science classes.

For instance, a group of five may have facts to learn about 10 insects. Each group member takes two insects, does the assigned research and teaches what he knows to the other members. They then test themselves before a classroom test is given.

"There's no magic to it. It's not a trick. It's just logical," Potvin said. "People need to learn how to cooperate and you can teach that to people, and you can teach that systematically."

Thousands of studies have been done on the problem that has touched the economy in America and has affected individuals, Potvin said. And the problem touches society at all levels.

"We see a lot of kids lacking in the ability to cooperate in working with other people," he said, noting that learning the skills as students can make a difference in their futures.

"Eighty-five percent of the people who lose their jobs do so because of a category—they can't get along with other people," he said, yet jobs that involve working totally alone are almost nonexistent.

He cited studies of American automotive factory workers that reveal the attitude of "don't worry about the other person." In contrast, the "Japanese method is based more on 'we're all in this together,'" he said.

A 'true story'

A teacher thanks her principal for the best class she's had in 14 years of teaching.

The second-graders are great, she says. They help each other all the time and are so cooperative—surely they were hand-picked to be in her classroom.

Bill Potvin shares the "true story" about a Clarkston school district teacher. It's one of his success stories for Cooperative Learning Groups, a technique he's taught about 120 Clarkston teachers and principals.

The second-grade teacher was told that her class was a regular class, that there was no special selection process. All the first-grade teachers in the school, however, had been trained in Cooperative Learning techniques the previous year and all had used the skills in their classrooms.

The teacher was so impressed that she immediately volunteered to attend the next workshop—and she brought other teachers with her.

Kids share in Cooperative Learning Groups

Cooperative learning is based on the idea that cooperation works. While the process is not meant to eliminate competition, Potvin said, the degree of competitiveness American students feel is an area of concern for educators.

A poll of 80,000 recent high school graduates revealed that "almost 80 percent used highly competitive or competitive" to describe their school years, he said.

"That's not our intent. Competitive is, 'In order for me to win, you have to lose.' Cooperative is, 'I only win if you win. We're in this together,'" he said. "We're aiming at cooperation."

Cooperative learning groups work best if their members are dissimilar, Potvin said, and one important lesson is the recognition of the value of listening to differing opinions.

"One of the tremendous things that happens in a cooperative group is you celebrate the differences in people," he said. "There's nothing wrong with being different. It's how you get along with people."

Potvin first learned about Cooperative Learning Groups when he signed up for a workshop on special education at Oakland Schools, the intermediate school district that provides support services for public schools throughout the county.

Rosemary Lewis, a teacher at Clarkston Elementary, attended the session and she began successfully using some of the techniques in her general education classroom.

Potvin checked into having a training session with the same people on Cooperative Learning Groups at the elementary school, found it too expensive at $2,000 and ended up calling the founders of the program to seek more study materials.

He subsequently decided to learn the techniques for teaching the skills to teachers and four years ago, he attended a week-long workshop in upstate New York led by David and Roger Johnson, professors at the University of Minnesota.

The session cost $850. Potvin covered his own travel expenses and received a grant from the school district and one from the district's Professional Development Group, which decides how to spend grant money provided by the state to further educators' skills.

Since then, he's taught about 120 teachers and principals the techniques for Cooperative Learning Groups.

Word of mouth has played an important role in filling the workshops, which will continue to be offered.

While he knows it sounds corny, Potvin said, his reason for taking the time necessary to teach the cooperative learning method is far-reaching.

"This is life. It's how do you get along with people," he said. "That's the reason I've been doing the workshops."

"I have not begun to lose my enthusiasm for it at all," he added. "It's a real high."

Group learning has some essential ingredients: empathy, listening attentively and sharing materials. Praise is an absolute necessity, and it is present whenever the groups meet.

There are also five steps: The participants must see the need for a skill; the skill must be defined; a model is necessary; everyone in the group has to practice the skill; and practice must continue.

While it may sound like group teaching is easier on teachers; that is not the case, Potvin said.

Because specific goals must be met, a great deal of planning goes into forming and directing the groups. While the groups meet, the teachers become observers and they report their findings to the groups at the end of every session.

The groups finish every meeting by discussing what happened during the session.

In the third-grade classroom at Clarkston Elementary School, teacher Rosemary Lewis quietly goes about her task of observing the groups.

She carries a clipboard and takes notes in order to give the children "feedback on how well they did. And they also discuss how well they think they did," she says.

There is also a reward system. The spelling groups meet on Mondays and Wednesdays. If everyone in a group receives an "A" on Wednesday's spelling test, that group does not have to take a spelling test on Friday.

That fact doesn't seem to create pressure within the groups. When praise is essential, criticism wanes.

Or, in the words of third-grader Lemar Flourney, "Groups are good."

Students are letter-perfect

By Kathy Greenfield

Kirk Cohoon and Todd Conklin, the winners of spelling bees for seventh- and eighth-graders at Clarkston and Sashabaw junior highs, share almost identical reactions to their achievements.

Kirk, a seventh-grader, took top honors at Sashabaw. "I was surprised," he said.

He and Jenny Graham, an eighth-grader at Sashabaw, had gone through four or five words neither one could spell before Kirk successfully spelled a word Jenny missed and then won by spelling the next word on the list—familiarity.

"We didn't know who was going to win," Jenny said. "We were hoping somebody would get an easy word."

Jenny also said she was pleased to win second-place honors in the bee.

"I was just surprised I got it because I was in the spelling bee last year and I didn't make it," she said. "And, I'm happy for him."

Todd, an eighth-grader, won Clarkston's bee after spelling Philadelphia, which runner-up Michelle Davis had misspelled, and following up with grandmother.

Todd laughed as he remembered his reaction to learning that grandmother was the next word on the list.

"I thought, 'Oh, yeah. I won!'" he said.

"I never figured I'd win," he added. "I'm not bad, but spelling is not by strongest point."

In the school spelling bees, lists were not provided in advance; but when Kirk and Todd compete in the regional spelling bee at Oxford Middle School on March 9, they will have studied from a list provided by the bee sponsors, the Lawrence Institute of Technology (LIT) of Southfield.

Both boys said they are looking forward to the regional contest, although Todd threw in a "kind of."

Kirk said he could have a chance at winning. "I'm going to try," he said. "I might, since I made it past the school spelling bee."

For winning their junior high school spelling contests, Kirk and Todd will each receive a dictionary and a certificate from LIT.

Odyssey of the mind

Spectators are welcome when the "Odyssey of the Mind" competition takes place Saturday, March 7, at Clarkston High School and in the multipurpose room at Clarkston Elementary.

About 2,000 students from elementary through high school age are expected to participate in the event for teams from public schools in Oakland and Macomb counties.

The students will work on five programs, which include testing endurance of balsa wood structures, drama and poetry presentations and building chain-reaction "mouse traps."

This is the first year Odyssey of the Mind, formerly called Olympics of the Mind, has been scheduled in the Clarkston school district.

The event is to begin at 9 a.m. and continue until about 6 p.m. when an awards ceremony will be conducted in the CHS gymnasium. Admission is free.

Student contest boasts $50 prize

For young people in the Clarkston Community Schools district, it's time to dig out your artistic talents for a chance to win $50.

AWARE needs a logo.

The community organization was formed earlier this year to combat drug and alcohol abuse by Clarkston young people. The motto is to declare war on chemical dependency through action and education.

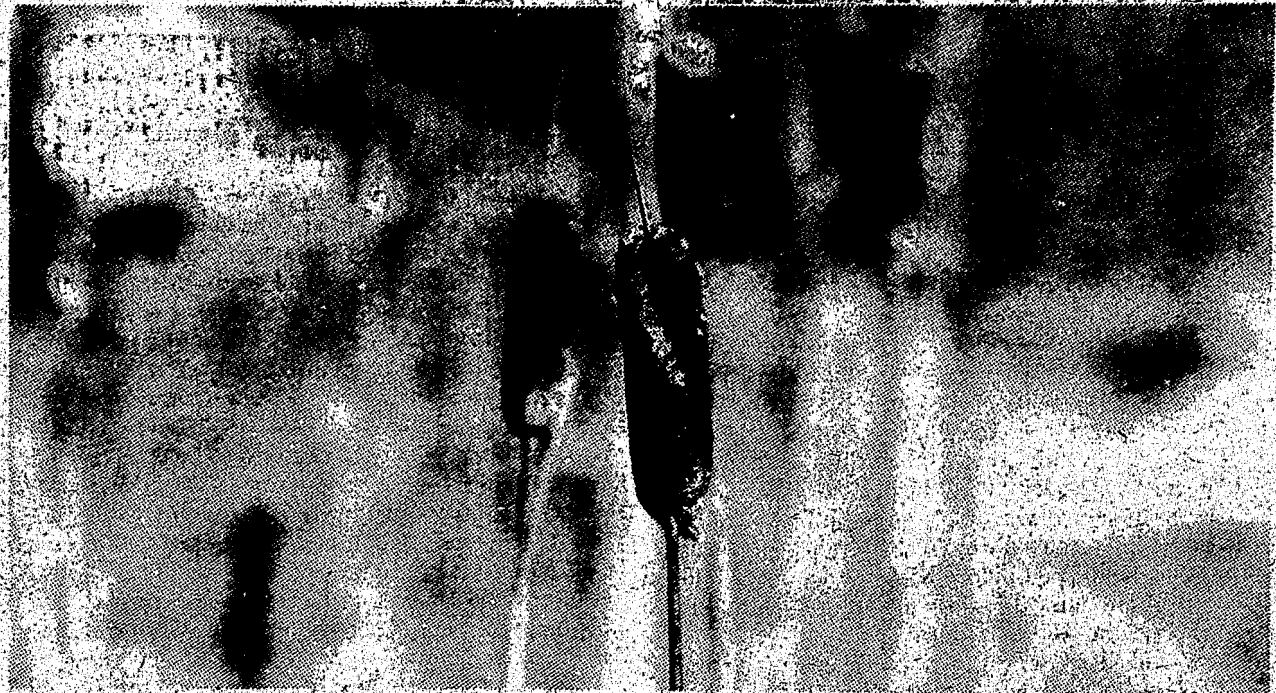

To compete in the logo design contest, you must be a student in the Clarkston school district, use the name AWARE in the design, and submit the design to a Clarkston schoolteacher by March 27, 1987.

The winning creation is to be selected in April.

The artistic experience of the student will not be a factor in the selection.

AWARE is comprised of a cross-section of community leaders, students and others interested in fighting chemical dependency problems.

For more information, call Barb Burge at 625-5975 or Linc Smith at 625-0900.

'86 CHS grad wins West Point nomination

By Chris Gerbaal

Ron Conwell is anxiously awaiting an appointment to West Point and his first year at the Military Academy.

"They try to break you. They'll do whatever they can do. It's the worst thing you ever want to do in your life," said Conwell of his anticipated first year. So why the excitement?

Ron Conwell, a 1986 Clarkston graduate, has received a principal nomination to West Point from Congressman Bob Carr.

"There's a pride factor," he said. "I've always loved the school. In 1984, I went to the campus and it has a historic background and a national pride behind it. And you can't get a better education anywhere."

Conwell visited the campus when his brother, William, got into the academy.

Now Conwell, a 1986 Clarkston graduate, is two-thirds of the way to West Point.

Last week, Congressman Bob Carr, of the 6th District made Conwell a principal nominee to the military academy, along with Aleta Nolan of Howell.

"It's not an appointment, (but) that's the next best thing," Conwell said.

Carr also nominated Kelley Cook, Jim Hall and Rick Migrants, all of Independence Township, to the Air Force Academy.

As a principal nominee, Conwell's brother told him there's a 70 percent chance he'll be accepted.

He's already gone through the interviews with Carr and a six-member committee back in November. He had wanted to apply a year ago, but didn't contact Carr in time, so the academy told him to apply in time for this year.

The next step is for a West Point committee to go through his file, which contains "everything you've done in your entire life," as Conwell put it. Actually, the file contains any pertinent information, such as school papers, test scores and any extracurricular honors.

"They're looking for someone well-rounded," said Conwell. "Someone could be good athletically, but they haven't sharpened up their mental skills. Or they could have pretty good brain skills, but they haven't used their body."

"West Point wants somebody strong of body and of mind and also spirit," he said. "It takes a lot of gumption to go through that first year."

Conwell will find out if he's been accepted in April or May, or possibly sooner. In the meantime, he's attending Oakland University and taking general courses—just in case he doesn't get in. But he can't wait for April.

"It would be the biggest challenge I'll ever face," he said. "I'm looking for a challenge right now. I can serve myself and my country at the same time."

Concert features junior high bands

Band students of Clarkston and Sashabaw junior high schools, many of whom placed high in the recent Michigan State Band and Orchestra Association's Solo and Ensemble festival, will play in a free concert at 7:30 p.m. March 10 in the Sashabaw Junior High School gym.

The concert precedes a band festival March 21 in Royal Oak at which all Sashabaw band students will take part.

Sashabaw students earning first division ratings during the earlier competition at Farmington Harrison High School included Robin Meissner, trumpet solo; Wendy McFalda, flute solo; Mark Frasa, baritone solo; Claire Hulleza, clarinet solo; Sarah Kortge, clarinet solo; Susan McKoin, flute solo; Heather Coxen and Erin Gaiser, French horn duet; and the woodwind quintet including Debbie Bellows on flute, Kathleen Krier on flute, Claire Hulleza on clarinet, Sarah Kortge on clarinet, and Jenny Brown on oboe.

Receiving second division ratings were Krista Batchelor, flute solo; Erica Gooding, clarinet solo; Erin Gaiser, French horn solo; Aimee O'Rourke, flute solo; Kathy Paulson, clarinet solo; Melissa Bas and Krista Batchelor, flute duet; Nicole Dolson and Kathy Paulson, flute-clarinet duet; and a 7th grade flute quartet composed of Laurie Pescor, Emily Liveratos, Aimee O'Rourke and Wendy McFalda.

Kim Rudaitis and Chrissy Stevenson were awarded a third division rating for a clarinet solo and duet.

Because of spring break Friday and Monday, results of the efforts of Clarkston Junior High School band students were not immediately available.

How can parents be sure about children?

Dear Cat Paw:

How can I as a parent make sure that my child won't get into any real dangerous drug situations while he is out for the evening? Naturally I am concerned and want the best for my child.

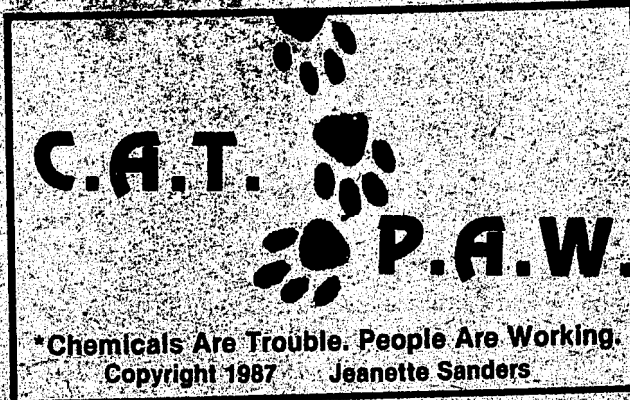

Concerned Parent

Dear Concerned Parent:

I am giving you the same guidelines that were printed in "Experience Toma," a guide for Clarkston parents. This book should still be available at the local library free of charge. Here they are:

1. Know where he is and let him know where you will be.
2. Be aware of transportation arrangements. Assure him that he can phone you to be picked up whenever needed—no questions asked.
3. Establish the time he is expected to return home and expect to be notified if there is a delay.
4. Be awake or awakened when he comes home at night.
5. If in doubt, call the adult in charge of an activity to verify: occasion, location and duration, adult supervision, policy on alcohol. If the activity seems inappropriate, express your concern and encourage alternative activities.

Dear Cat Paw:

I want to know what cocaine is. You know, where it comes from and all that, and what happens if I quit using it.

User

Dear User:

Cocaine is one of the alkaloids extracted from the leaves of the coca plant. When an addicted person tries to stop using the drug, withdrawal results.

Cocaine withdrawal usually involves profound depression, irritability, sleepiness, loss of energy and intense craving for cocaine. You might just save your life also if you quit using drugs.

Quitting is extremely tough to do without help. You have to cut yourself off completely from the friends with whom you've been using it, from the sources who sell it to you and from the settings with which you associate its use.

You have to substitute other activities and pleasures for the drug. All of this is hard to do without plenty of help.

Dear Cat Paw:

Once you get addicted to cocaine and get off the stuff, can you use it again without becoming addicted?

No Name

Dear No Name:

According to 800-COCAINE, there is no long-term cure. Rather, cocaine abuse is a chronic, recurring illness that can be controlled only by total abstinence from the drug.

Cat Paw author Jeanette Sanders, a Springfield Township resident, is a state certified drug abuse counselor and a member of the Clarkston Area Chemical People, an organization devoted to the prevention of substance abuse among the community's young people.

Open Seasons And Catch Limits On Pike, Walleye, Sauger and Muskellunge

(Under authority of Act 230, P.A. 1925, as amended)

Under the authority of Section 4, Act 230, P.A. 1925, as amended, being 300.4 of the Michigan Compiled Laws, the Natural Resources Commission, at its October 10, 1986 meeting, adopted the following order to become effective April 1, 1987, and remain valid for a period of five years until March 31, 1992. This order supersedes the order of May 17, 1985, CFI-112.85.

It shall be unlawful to take the following named species except within the open seasons and daily limits as prescribed below:

Open Season: On walleye, sauger, northern pike and muskellunge (including tiger muskellunge).

Region I: All Upper Peninsula waters including the surrounding Great Lakes and connecting waters not otherwise closed to fishing shall be from May 15 through March 15.

Regions II and III: All Lower Peninsula waters except the Great Lakes and connecting waters not otherwise closed to fishing shall be from the last Saturday in April through March 15.

Regions II and III: The Great Lakes and connecting waters shall be open year around, except that muskellunge in Lake St. Clair, and the St. Clair and Detroit rivers may be taken only from the first Saturday in June through December 15 of each year.

For the purpose of this order, all drowned river mouth lakes such as Manistee Lake, Lake Macatawa and Muskegon Lake are considered as inland waters and are subject to inland water regulations.

Daily Catch Limits: Statewide limits shall be five (5) singly or in combination for largemouth and smallmouth bass, walleye and sauger and northern pike; the daily catch limit on muskellunge is one (1) (including tiger muskellunge) except that the daily catch limit on Lake St. Clair and the Detroit and St. Clair rivers shall be six singly or in combination for largemouth and smallmouth bass, walleye, sauger, and northern pike when the catch includes at least one walleye or sauger. And except that the daily catch on Lake Erie shall be 10 singly or in combination for largemouth and smallmouth bass, walleye, sauger, and northern pike when the catch includes at least five walleye or sauger.

For the purposes of this order the boundary between the Detroit River and Lake Erie is defined as an east-west line touching the southern most tip of Celeron Island.

Life in the "old age home" is one topic of conversation as Marty Johnson and Verne Vackaro rehearse a scene from "The Gin Game," the Village Players' latest production.

Johnson and Vackaro are the only cast members in the play.

Clarkston Village Players will present Verne Vackaro and Marty Johnson in "The Gin Game" at 8 p.m. the weekends of March 13 and 14, 20 and 21 and 27 and 28 at the Clarkston Depot Theatre on White Lake Road.

Joyce Bragen, who makes her directing debut with this play, has cast Players' veterans Vackaro and Johnson as two residents of an "old age home" who share a love of the card game, Gin.

Vackaro as a financially destitute man with ailing health and Johnson as a prim self-righteous lady provide a contrast in personalities.

As their card playing progresses, the game evolves into a metaphor for life, in which both discover their inner feelings and frustrations.

Tickets are $5 and may be purchased at Tierra Arts in Clarkston or by calling 363-0188 evenings after 5 p.m.

World Day of Prayer service Friday

Women of St. Daniel Catholic Church will host a World Day of Prayer service at 1 p.m. March 6 at the church at Holcomb Road and Valley Park Drive, Clarkston.

The Friday afternoon service, which proclaims the theme "Come and Rejoice," is open to the public. A nursery will be available.

Women of Clarkston United Methodist, Drayton Heights Free Methodist, Calvary Lutheran, New Hope

Bible, Episcopal Church of the Resurrection, First Church of God, Sashabaw United Presbyterian and St. Daniel's have participated in the annual ecumenical celebration for many years.

World Day of Prayer, begun in the United States in 1887 as a day of prayer for mission, is a global movement of mutual prayer and Christian unity. Some 170 countries and regions of the world participate in the common service.

Tuman will speak about motivation

Following motivational speaker Jim Tuman's presentation to Clarkston High School's 1,600 students next week, an evening program on March 10 from 7 to 9 will be available for adults.

CHS assistant principal Brent Cooley says he hopes members of the community turn out en masse.

Detroit's Tuman, who has spoken at over 700 student seminars nationwide, carries a message of the importance of self-esteem.

He was invited to present his "Who Controls Your Life" message at CHS through the efforts of the eight-member Task Force for Broadening the Mainstream.

Cooley is a member of the task force formed this year to increase student involvement at the high school.

"This is a problem that's pervasive in all schools. We may have less of a problem in our school, but we still have children who feel like they're not part of the school community," said Cooley.

The idea is that if students feel better about themselves, they will be more active in school, he said.

Tuman will present some steps toward working on positive self-images at student assemblies on March 9 and 10, and his support group will continue working toward the goal with an afternoon session for teachers on March 10.

The meeting for community members, also conducted by Tuman's support group, is titled "Positive Parenting."

While the techniques will be focused on parents, they will be appropriate for "people who are concerned about young people in the Clarkston area," Cooley said.

The free session will be held at the high school. For more information, call 625-0900.

Church concert

Seventeen area youth, members of the 65-strong Teens For Christ singers, will be in concert at 7 p.m. Saturday, March 14, at the Drayton Heights Free Methodist Church.

The group is directed by Roger Allen of Linden. A free will offering will be taken at the concert.

Comfortable foods

Betty Wagner

Steaming savory soup, hot spiced cider and herb bread. Such comfortable foods seem designed to warm the chill of early spring days.

But how shall we achieve the perfect blend of spices and herbs? Fragrant Hill Farm's prepackaged Bountiful Bean Soup, Mulling Spices, Vegetable Dip and Herb Bread Mix remove the guesswork.

Adapting Gini Schultz' Fragrant Hill Spice and Herb recipes for microwave cooking was easy and enjoyable. The flavors developed beautifully in the microwave, as microwave cooking retains and even intensifies natural flavors.

An added bonus was the time saved for cooking and clean-up. Each item, the soup, cider and vegetable dip, was cooked and served in one container.

BOUNTIFUL BEAN SOUP

- 1 pound Bountiful Bean Soup Mix
- 1 large onion
- 1-pound can tomatoes
- 1 pound ham hock
- 5 cups hot water
- 1 cup hot water

Rinse and sort through beans for any foreign matter. Place beans in large microwavable bowl or soup tureen.

Cover with water and soak overnight or cover, cook at high power for 8 to 12 minutes (until boiling), then let rehydrate for 1 hour. Drain, then rinse beans.

Place beans back into the bowl. Add hot water, onion (cut into eighths), cut-up or stewed tomatoes and ham hock. Cover. Microwave at high 50 minutes, stirring twice.

Remove ham bone and cut meat off bone. Add 1 cup more hot water; stir. Cover; microwave at high 15 minutes. Stir in cut-up ham and spices from packet. Cover; microwave at high 15 to 20 minutes or until beans are tender.

Note: For a thicker soup, remove some beans and puree in blender or food processor, or puree entire bowl full in several batches for a smooth soup.

HOT SPICED CIDER

Pour 4 cups apple cider or juice into a microwavable pitcher. (Allow at least 2 1/2 inches at top of pitcher.)

Place several tablespoons mulling spices in cheesecloth square and tie with string. Fasten a plastic measuring spoon to other end of string for easy removal of spice bag.

Place spice bag and microwave temperature probe in pitcher. Set temperature probe from 130 to 150, depending on taste, or heat at high power until hot, about 5 to 7 minutes.

VEGETABLE DIP

- 8 ounces cream cheese
- 1/2 cup sour cream
- 1 tablespoon Vegetable Dip Herb Mix

Remove foil from cheese. Place in small microwavable bowl. Soften cream cheese at high power for 45 to 60 seconds. Stir in sour cream and herb mix. Serve with fresh vegetables.

HERB BREAD

- 1 loaf French bread
- 1 tablespoon Herb Bread Mix
- 1 stick butter or margarine

Place butter in small microwavable bowl or pie plate. Microwave at high for 10 to 20 seconds until soft. Blend in herb mix.

Spread between slices of bread. Place bread back into plastic or paper wrapper. Twist end to secure. (Do not use metal twist tie to secure wrapper.)

Heat bread at 70 percent power 45 to 60 seconds or just until bread feels warm to the touch. Serve immediately.

Note: Try sour dough rye bread for a hearty and delicious taste. It's great when served with Bountiful Bean Soup.

Home economist Betty Wagner resides in Independence Township. Her Microwave Plus cable-TV program is aired Monday through Thursday at 7 p.m. on Independence-Clarkston channel 11.

Whitlock's first love was his police work

Charles Whitlock was a retired captain from the Oakland County Sheriff's Department and former Oakland County commissioner.

Charles T. Whitlock, 64, who retired in 1980 as a captain with the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, died Feb. 23 after a year's illness.

But even while he was sick, he continued to learn, hoping to start a small engine repair service from his garage, said his wife, Thelma.

It was typical, she said. Following retirement, Whitlock was elected to the Oakland County Board of Commissioners and then took on the additional job of police chief at Pontiac Township, now Auburn Hills for one year.

He also served as a member of the Independence Township Planning Commission and the Police Advisory Board.

But her husband's first love was policing, his wife said.

Starting in 1949 as a patrolman for the city of Pontiac, he then became a special investigator for the Oakland County Prosecutor's Office.

One of the original seven men to form the Waterford Township Police Department, he was promoted to sergeant and left in 1957 to join the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

There he was made detective in 1969, lieutenant in 1973 and captain in 1978. He also directed the Sheriff's department civil division.

Whitlock was proud of his writing accomplishments during that time, preparing a book on civil law procedures and helping create the Oakland County Narcotics Enforcement Team.

For his dedication, he was recognized by state legislators in the House of Representatives Resolution No. 514, which noted his "excellence truly makes him a man and public servant beyond compare."

Recent winters were spent in Florida, where Whitlock enjoyed deep sea fishing and even was persuaded to take up shuffle board, his wife said.

He played in one tournament but won no trophies, she said.

Whitlock, who liked and helped many young people, was a member of Dixie Baptist Church, Fraternal Order of Police No. 132, American Legion Post No. 377 of Pontiac and Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 1459 of Clarkston.

Surviving besides his wife are three children, Linda Talbot of Waterford Township, Frank Whitlock of Lake Orion and Carl Whitlock of Clarkston; and a sister, Donna Rumsey of Galatia, Ill.

The funeral was Feb. 26 from Goyette Funeral Home, Clarkston, with Dr. Paul Vanaman officiating. Burial was in Ottawa Park Cemetery, Independence Township.

In celebration of National Foreign Language in Schools Week, students dressed for the occasion on Feb. 26 at Cedar Crest Academy on Dixie Highway in Springfield Township. Since

French is the language they study, many wore berets during class, including fourth-grader Ben Snapp. Highlighting the morning for the kindergarten through eighth-graders was a French snack, "Le Petit De' Jeuner," which featured baguettes and croissants with jam, butter and chocolate.

Kindergartners Garrett Flannery [left] and Steven O'Brien pause for reflection during an animal lotto (French for bingo) game. The children had to recognize the names of animals in French.

Parlez vous Francais?

Learning French words involves association with pictures, so Leah Snapp and Danny Regiani flip through their books while guided by their French teacher, Madame Hanson.
