School tax vote coming

By Kathy Greenfield

On June 8, Clarkston school district voters will be asked to approve an additional 4.25 mills in taxes and renew 3.79 mills for operational purposes.

Monday night, the board discussed its options for meanly two and one half hours before approving two separate questions—the renewal and the new millage—for the ballot. The vote was 6-0.

Currently, voters have approved an operational levy of 33.33 mills. The renewal and new millage would raise the operational levy to 37.58 mills, or $37.88 for each $1,000 of assessed property valuation.

During the discussion, board members agonized over their belief that both millages need to be approved to continue existing programs and make conservative improvements.

Most of their discussion centered on whether the millages should be combined in one ballot question seeking 8.04 mills or kept separate.

Board member Stephen Werner pushed the concept of combining the two millages.

"A renewal doesn't afford us with the opportunity to maintain programs. A renewal will leave us $1 million short," he said.

Werner also talked about the district's current operational levy of 33.33 mills, which is the second [See SCHOOL, Page 2]

The double police coverage in Independence Township, in effect since January, has tripled township revenues from township ordinance violations, said township Supervisor Frank Ronk;

Tickets issued by Oakland County Sheriff Deputies for township ordinance violations have more than doubled in the township, he said.

"From all indications, the addition of the police to the contract is showing up positively," said Ronk.

According to court administrator Jill Palulian from 52nd District Court, revenues from township ordinance violations in January 1986, were $373,45; February 1986, $433.30; January 1987, $1,179.50; and February 1987, $1,430.62.

Another committee member, Dr. Leslie Greene, investigated and found it to be in good condition—possibly a better buy than a new one, said Burdick, adding one of Greene's hobbies is clocks.

The two-faced, 17-foot timepiece has been restored and has a weight driven movement. It originated in Dubuque, Iowa, was moved in the 1920s to Darlington, Wisc., and purchased by the antique dealer a few years ago.

Plans are to erect the clock in the business district of the Village of Clarkston, said Burdick, although they don't know the specific site. A dedication ceremony is scheduled for the Fourth of July.

So far, they've raised $12,000 toward the clock purchase from the sale of souvenir items and contributions, plus large donations from the Clarkston Area Iaycees, the Optimist Club, Independence Township firefighters, Burger King and several individuals, she said.

lowest of the 28 public school districts in Oakland County.

"I can't believe our constituents want to be the lowest in the county, before Holly," he said.

William Neff, the administrative assistant in charge of the election campaign, also voiced support for combining the millages.

"The renewal by itself is not going to help us," he said. "I guess I don't want to present to parents that there is an option. There is no option. We have to approve both."

But Assistant Superintendent Mel Vagra noted that voters are used to renewals being sought in separate ballot questions—and they have always approved renewals.

And Duane Lewis, principal of Clarkston Junior High School, said he was worried about how voters would react to a campaign that would have to include the devastating results of voting down both tax requests in one question. If the perception resulted that scare factics were being used, it would be negative, he said

Also mentioned was a past editorial policy of a daily newspaper not to support any millage request that combined a renewal with a request for more taxes.

The meeting Monday night followed two school board study sessions on the district's financial picture.

Superintendent Milford Mason began the meeting by summarizing previous discussions.

He noted the need for seeking a tax increase by listing factors which will influence the district's income for the 1987-88 school year.

He mentioned the Headlee Amendment and the state aid formula as the key areas affecting income.

The Headlee Amendment, approved by voters statewide in 1978, was designed to keep taxes from increasing at a rate higher than inflation.

Because property assessments in the district have increased at a higher rate than inflation, the end result would be an approximate rollback of .75 mill; or about $310,000:

The state aid formula has been increased about 7 percent for the past several years, but for 1987-88, the expected increase is 3.45 percent, Mason said.

Mason also noted the board's goal of maintaining a $1 million surplus, which makes it possible to avoid borrowing money to pay bills between state aid payments, and curriculum improvements under way.

Although it was made clear that reductions in staff and programs plus an increase in class sizes would have to be made if voters do not approve a tax increase, the specifics have yet to be determined.

At its April 13 meeting, the board will approve staff layoff notices, required by state law at least 60 days before the school year ends.

Administrative Assistant Conrad Bruce indicated the number of layoffs could be in the 40s, but the board plans to discuss possible budget reductions at a special meeting April 6 from 7 to 8 p.m.

As board member John Needham suggested, "We need to take a darn hard look at the budget."

Raises to cost township $7,200

Raises have been approved for members of the Independence Township Planning Commission and Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA).

On March 17, the township board approved the raises to $35 a meeting from $25 a meeting for each of the five members in each group.

"In the past few years, the planning commission and ZBA have taken on a great deal of subcommittee work," said Supervisor Frank Ronk. "These two comissions are probably the two most overworked commissions we have."

The board voted 4-1 to approve the raises for regular and subcommittee meetings.

With no comment, Trustee Dale Stuart voted

Treasurer John Lutz and Trustee Carol Balzarini abstained because each serves on one of the commissions and is paid per meeting at the same rate as the other members.

The increases amount to an added $7,200 yearly expense to the township, said Clerk Richard Holman after the meeting.

The planning commission meets three to five times a month, and the ZBA meets about two times a month, said Holman, adding they each have various subcommittee meetings to attend:

Board dumps proposal to find other funding

Spring Cleanup fees remain intact

By Julie Campe

Status quo was the verdict for the funding of Spring Cleanup when the Independence Township board discussed it at the March 17 meeting.

A fee is to be charged for dumping trash during the township's annual program. Previously, residents were not charged and expenses were covered by Federal Revenue Sharing funds, which are no longer available.

The board plans to adhere to the fee schedule it approved in February following the recommendation of George Anderson, director of the township department of public works.

Trustee Carol Balzarini initiated the discussion, saying she had received one letter and three phone calls objecting to the fees.

'I was wondering if we couldn't find another way to pay for it," she said, referring to funding the program with $25,000 from the township budget and another $25,000 from fees paid by residents who

"We rural residents worry that people will dump on the roads if there's any fee at all," she said.

Trustee William Vandermark cited the possibilithat the fee would deter such groups as neighborhood associations and community service organizations who clean up roads annually.

"If there was some way to find a way for free dumping in cases like that, but off the top of my head,

The board members took no action, and the dumping fees remained the same.

"We'd be glad to hear ideas from the public," said Supervisor Frank Ronk.

The cleanup is scheduled May 16 and 17. Tickets to dump may be purchased after April 15 at the township treasurer's office, 90 North Main St., Clarkston, or at the gate to the dump site, 6050 Flemings Lake Rd., Indpendence Township.

Fees per load are: $5 for an automobile; $10 for autos with a single axle trailer or for a pick-up truck; and $25 for a pickup with a single axle trailer, a flatbed single axle truck, a dual axle trialer or a five-yard dump truck.

Camp may get improvements

By Julie Campe

Bay Court Camp, a 49-acre park soon to belong to the township, may be receiving a new road, parking lot and improvements to the beach on Greens Lake.

An application for a Michigan Land and Water servation grant for $66,000, including a township match of $33,000, was approved by the Independence Township Board March 17.

If the project receives the grant, the township is to pay its half of the money from the general fund over two fiscal years.

The parking lot and road are necessary before the township can use the property at the southwest corner of the township off Andersonville Road, said Timothy Doyle, director of the township parks and recreation department.

The beach improvements would fulfill the grant requirement for a direct recreational benefit, he said.

The time to apply for the grant is now, said. Doyle. Bay Court is to be purchased with a $375,000 grant from the Michigan Land, Trust Fund and $125,000 from the township, he said, and the state authorities would like to see the property developed as soon as possible.

The township's actual possession of the park won't take place until the state Legislature officially approves the grant for the land—possibly within the next month, he added.

If the park is awarded the grant, the work is to be completed next year, said Doyle.

Some of the board members voiced concern over the $33,000 expenditure.

"We cannot do everything, and we can't do everything at once," said Trustee Dale Stuart. "We've committed ourselves to many things.... Bay Court is a benefit to the township, but we don't have to develop it now."

Others favored the grant application approval.

"If this is a means of getting an added $33,00 from a grant to put us into business at Bay Court, as far as I'm concerned we should approve it," said Supervisor Frank Ronk.

Trustee Daniel Travis agreed.

"We've all looked at Bay Court as a once in a lifetime opportunity for the township," he said. "We may not like our options in the face of a declining budget, but I think we ought to take the opportunity while we have it."

The board voted 5-2 to approve the application and the $33,000 township portion of the funding, if the grant is approved.

Stuart and Trustee Carol Balzarini voted "no."

Two kids burned

Two Pine Knob Elementary School children were injured before school Friday after they apparently ignited some black powder in a metal can while waiting for their school bus, according to Capt. Steve Ronk of the Independence Township Fire Department.

After the incident at the south end of the township, they rode the bus to school, where the fire department was called to treat them, said Ronk.

A 9-year-old boy suffered minor injuries and a 10-year-old boy suffered first- and second-degree burns to his face and neck and was transported to Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital and kept overnight,

They were damn lucky;" said Ronk, "They were doing something they weren't supposed to be doing. ... It could have been worse.!.

Man hurt in manhole

Alvin Lee Maudlin, 44, sustained injuries to his head and back and was transported to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac, said Dave Stover, Independence Township firefighter and engineer.

Apparently, the driver of the truck did not see Maudlin, said Stover:

The incident occurred at Roy Brother's Standard on Sashabaw Road.

Hood rider hurt

A 16-year-old Independence Township girl was injured after she fell from the hood of a car onto Northyiew Drive, east of M-15 around 2:30 a.m. Sunday.

Apparently, two friends were driving the car at the time and went too fast, said Bob Cesario, fire department engineer

The Northview Drive resident wasn't seriously injured, said Cesario, but she suffered abrasions to her head, shoulders, torso and knees.

Finals week

Kathy Greenfield

Somewhere out there, somebody must exist who has fond memories of taking final exams.

That's the optimist in me speaking. I've spent many years forgetting about finals weeks I've known and hated.

A batch of students sitting around our dinner table last week brought it all back.

As parents, we try to soothe. We say there will be no more worries of that sort for several months. We remind them that finals week doesn't exist in the outside world.

We talk about our frustrations with work, which pale in comparison to sleepless nights, papers due that require reading five books, multiple choice tests written by wily professors, and so on.

One finals week disaster story they told took place at a computer lab, something that didn't exist for us older folks.

Students can type their papers into word processors, make corrections and get printouts to turn in. It sounds so easy.

The day was Friday, the last day of finals week. Tension was high as several students worked on assignments due that day.

The student we know arrived to find that the program she knew how to handle was not available. She tried another one as time raced by:

She gave up on that one and tried a third, which she figured out with the help of another student kind enough to take time from her writing.

With only a couple of hours left to go, the student who had offered help ran into a problem.

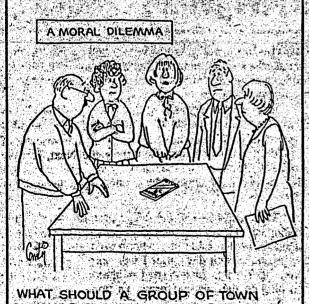

Following numerous phone calls to computer whizzes on campus, it was decided that the word processor had to be turned off to get it going again, which meant that her work to that point was wiped out. She left to find a typewriter.

Meanwhile, our heroine's paper was completed. The printer was activated; it jammed on Page 4. While other students waited in line, the computer was reprogrammed.

Alas, a new ribbon on the printer left words smeared on the paper. Time was gone. The should-have been tidy paper was turned in by one wreck of a student 15 minutes before deadline.

Ah, the memories.

Her husband was quoted as saying they are moving because of problems caused by people who dump beer cans and knock down trees and mailboxes while using the subdivision streets as a thoroughfare between Maybee and Waldon roads.

The woman is upset because her husband also said high taxes were part of the reason they are moving and that was not mentioned in the

She's also upset because the story, in her opinion, makes the subdivision look bad. Her neighbors, she said, take good care of their property.

First, the reason the story was written: The report was about traffic concerns, a real problem for the people in the Chestnut Hills subdivision and the southern portion of the Orchards subdivision. It deserves attention from police, government and the drivers who are not observing speed limits and stop signs.

While taxes were mentioned during the conversation between the reporter and the resident, the story was not about taxes—and that portion was not included in the report.

Jeanette helped us all realize how the problems of substance abuse touch us all (yes, Jeanette, I still remember the column about caffeine in coffee).

At the same time, by giving answers to common questions, she helped her readers get a sense that the problems were not beyond people's grasp.

I will miss the column but am comforted by knowing that Jeanette's concern has not been removed from the community, merely redirected.

The growing "Just Say No" clubs in elementary schools now join the visit of David Toma and the knowledge shared in Cat Paw as testimonies to Jeanette Sanders' concern, Thank you, Jeanette:

Rev. Bill Schram Chair, Chemical People

Fitz clan gathers in Florida Jim Fitzgerald

"Why do you run around with these crazy women?" a stranger asked me as our party was close to being thrown out of a fancy saloon in Naples, Fla.

"I have to because they're all good friends of my wife," I explained.

"Where in God's name did she meet them?" the stranger asked. "It was over 30 years ago at my parents' home," I admitted. "They are my sisters." At this point, management was flicking the lights on and off, a signal I hadn't seen since 1960, the year I was born again and became a strong believer in stomach acid. It meant the bar had been closed for an hour, the hired help was weary, and if we didn't soon leave, the police would be summoned. But Terrible Jean, my much-older sister and volunteer Earth Mother of all peoples, wasn't impressed. She had a nammerlock on a young member of the saloon band and was insisting he become a contestant in the Fitz Sibling Game. The unfortunate fellow looked as though het couldn't wait to go home and shoot his mother for making him take piano lessons.

The idea of the pame is to force an innocent by stander to pick the five fitz siblings out of a crowd of revelors seated at eight of 10 (tables purched together. The crowd, number and anywhere from 10 (to 50) standily includes a had a hammerlock on a young member of the saloon band numbering anywhere from 100 to 50, instally includes a mixed variety of our spouses, children and in-laws, plus captured friends held hostage until their families agree to grant total amnesty to Terrible Jean. Also, intellectual strangers sometimes move over from the bar to our tables to research doctorates in anthropology along

In the flickering light of that Naples saloon, our chorus was joined by a woman from Hamburg, West Germany, whose curiosity was tweaked when Terrible Jean made the bandleader introduce us as the Von Trapp Family Singers. Ultimately, the Hamburg woman had such a good time she believed it when I said I was Julie Andrews.

A Naples bonus was the presence of our cousin Ginny and her husband, Don, from Chicago. Don recently won a tough battle against cancer, for which we all joined hands and said a prayer of thanks (that was when the people at the bar began to stare and whisper). But I couldn't help remembering how much funnier Don was when chemo-therapy wiped out his hair and he wore a wig that he often removed to reveal printed on his skull: "GO BEARS!"

Anyway, it is from such a crowd that a Fitz Sibling Game contestant is required to identify the five Fitz siblings, by looking for family resemblances. The only chie given it that we are four daughters and one son Terrible Jean created this game and is its only host because no one else in the entire world has enough nerve to put a hammerlock on an innocent bystander and force him or her to peer closely into the faces of dozens of strangers in search of similarly bumpy noses.

It is far from astonishing that most contestants - the Naples musician included - name the five siblings successfully. We all have Irish mugs reminiscent of Paddy's pig. But that is only half the game. Next, Terrible Jean tells the contestant to name the oldest sibling. This is the one and only reason she created this embarrassing

. I'm always named the oldest because I'm the only sibling with honest gray hair. This causes Terrible Jean to stand up on the table and whoop with glee. This isn't surprising. Seven days after I was born, my father was busy, so Terrible Jean carried mother and me from the hospital to the car and drove us home.

So it's no wonder she celebrates garishly when some poor soul - under the pressure of her hammerlock and modern cosmetics - says I look the oldest. To Terrible Jean; such a triumphant moment is worth every cent of the $2 million she has spent on blond hair dye and ordiopedic wife for her friends.

Pupil count up in Clarkston schools

By Kathy Greenfield

Enrollment keeps going up in Clarkston's five elementary schools.

Since the district's fourth Friday count of 5,652, there are four more pupils at Andersonville, 26 at Bailey Lake, 15 at Clarkston Elementary, 15 at North Sashabaw and 24 at Pine Knob.

That adds up to 84 more K-6 pupils between Oct. 1 and the end of February, when the most recent figures were tallied.

"We still have kids coming in every day—not startling numbers. Now with Rochester, I had the superintendent tell me the other day they've enrolled 2,000 kids since fourth Friday," said William Neff, district administrative assistant in charge of pupil accounting:

Enrollment is also up in the junior high schools, with an increase of 15 at Clarkston and 17 at Sashabaw. High school enrollment has declined by 30 students.

"There's probably a dozen reasons" why the high school enrollment is decreasing, said Neff, citing moving away, dropping out of school and switching to special programs.

Despite the overall increase, the district is taking a cautious approach by planning its budget for the 1987-88 school year based on an enrollment decrease of 46 pupils.

"We should use the 46;" said Neff, "but we'll be better than that."

The district reacted to higher than expected enrollment in the fall of 1986 by hiring three half-time kindergarten teachers and a teacher at North-Sashabaw Elementary School. At that time, a loss of 104 pupils was projected but enrollment increased by 66

Since then, enrollment increases have not required hiring of additional staff members, but that could change, according to Neff.

Several elementary school classrooms have 32 or 33 pupils and an enrollment of 34 requires, by the teachers' contract, the hiring of an aide.

"The way the students are coming in, if we make it to June without 34, I will be surprised," Neff said.,

He has reason to expect a continued increase in enrollment.

It's a slow day if he takes only one telephone call'of from a parent considering moving into the district,

He always asks, "Why do you want to get into Clarkston schools," and the answers vary from "We've heard good things" to praise for Clarkston's special education programs, gifted program, athletics or musical groups.

Because state aid is based solely on the count taken the fourth Friday of the school year, more students after that date do not increase revenue.

But looking on the positive side, "we've picked up some good young people," said Neff. "They've been good additions."

Board overrides tractor bid critique

When the Independence Township board considered accepting a routine bid on equipment, a slight controversy arose over a tractor/backhoe for Lakeview Cemetery.

George Anderson, director of the department of public works, recommended purchasing a John Deere 210C for $26,900, the lowest bid, he said. The bid came from A.I.S. Construction Equipment Corporation. New Hudson.

A member of the audience protested the bid pro-

The John Deere fell short of the specifications requested by Anderson; said Ray Graham from Munn Ford Tractor. The actual low bid was the Ford tractor because it met most of the specifications at the lowest price; he said.

"We fill a bid that meets the specifications;" Graham said: "If you want, suggest specifications for a 210C and give everybody an equal opportunity to bid on the tractor."

Anderson said the specifications were merely a range, and the 210C, as well as the other bids, would perform as needed. The John Deere 210C was the best buy, he said.

Trustee Dale Stuart disagreed.

"We're not really making a fair evaluation of the bids," he said. "I don't think we can purchase the vehicle even if we do think it's a good buy...... We should rebid it."

In a 6-1 vote, the board approved the bid for the John Deere 210C. Stuart voted "no."

Mower for Lakeview

Lakeview Cemetery in Independence Township is to receive help in its grooming.

A Hustler 251 lawn mower was purchased from W.F. Miller Co., Birmingham, for $4,800, including $1,195 on the trade-in of two 10-year-old lawn

The W.F. Miller bid was the lowest, said George Anderson, director of the township department of public works.

The township board unanimously approved the purchase at the March 17 meeting

Seaf belts mandatory for family

Before the accident, her family members wore seat belts most of the time, said Judy Pittman of Independence Township.

Now, they always buckle up.

On March 17, Mrs. Pittman's 19-year-old daughter, Tammy, was on her way to work. At about 3 p.m., she was traveling along Maybee Road, east of Sashabaw Road, when a driver pulled out from a side road and their cars collided.

A resident of a nearby house called Bill Pittman and told him his daughter was OK. But when he came upon the accident scene and saw police cars, a fire department rescue truck and an ambulance, it was unnerving

Then he saw Tammy standing by the side of the road, her brown and orange Taco Bell uniform clearly visible in the crowd.

Aside from a few sore muscles, Tammy was unhurt but her 1976 Cheyy was damaged beyond repair.

The police officer told Bill Pittman that "if she wasn't wearing a seat belt, she probably would have been killed," Mrs. Pittman said:

The driver of the other car, a 16-year-old, was cited for failure to yield. He was also wearing a seat belt, according to the police report.

Call is out for on-call township firefighters

By Julie Campe

If you like a challenge, like to help people in your community and like physical work, then firefighting may be for you.

It's not for everybody, said Capt. Steve Ronk of the Independence Township Fire Department.

It seems that either you've got what it takes, or you don't, he said, but the job can be really rewarding for the right person.

"It's really challenging," he said.

Ronk is in charge of training and right now, they're low on manpower, so the department is accepting applications for on-eall personnel until April 30:

"We're really hurting, especially in the daytime, but also at night," said Ronk. "It's just a matter of time before we get caught short."

One day last week, they had five runs in 15 minutes in all corners of the township. It was daytime, roads were busy and many of the on-call staff were working their regular jobs.

"One of these times, the manpower just isn't going to be there..... It hasn't happened to us yet, but we're just trying to avoid it," he said.

An on-call firefighter is a paid position—like a part-time job, said Ronk. An on-call firefighter is paid about $7 an hour.

Candidates must be 18 years old or older, reside in Independence Township and pass a medical examination and a physical fitness test.

Next, the candidate must pass 66 hours of firefighting classes and training plus an advanced first aid class. The candidate is paid about $3.50 an hour during training.

If hired, they'll be called when needed to respond to building fires, car fires, emergency medical calls.

and other calls.

"They're trained to be professionals; and we expect a lot out of them," said Ronk; "It sounds corny, but you have to like to help people. . . . There's excitement to it. Tou never see the same thing twice. But it's not always fun and games."

Applications are available at the Church Street fire station in Clarkston. For more information, call Ronk at 625-1924.

Appraisal step added to roadwork

To improve Eastview and Westview roads in Independence Township, an extra step was added to the process of establishing a special tax assessment district.

The extra step, a property appraisal before the engineering report is begun, is due to a recent Michigan Supreme Court ruling, said township attorney Gerald Fisher.

The ruling stated the costs of the property improvements must be proportional to the increases in the assessed property value, he said. The property appraisal should show if the project is feasible or not, said Fisher.

"If anybody challenges, we have to have a pretty good idea," he said. "It doesn't have to be dollar for dollar, but an approximate proportion."

Because of the heavy workload in the township assessing office, the board unanimously approved himing an outside firm to conduct the appraisal.

Stoppert's Inc. of Drayton Plains is to perform the job for a cost not to exceed $800.

"This is something new but it's something we may be seeing again if Thendara Park gets off the ground or any other special assessment," said Clerk Richard Holman.

Eastview and Westview roads are in the southeast quadrant of the township and the Thendara Park subdivision is in the northeast quadrant.

Special meeting for special ed

A special meeting to discuss special education has been scheduled Monday, April 6, by the Clarkston board of education.

The discussion is to begin at 8 p.m. at the administration office at 6389 Clarkston Rd., Independence Township.

Previously, the board had indicated special education would be on the agenda of the April 13 regular board meeting.

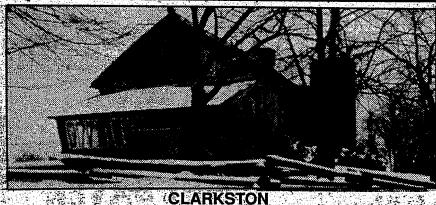

The original date for a report by Robert Brumback, director of special services for the district, was set following concerns expressed by parent Robert Newlin at the board's March meeting.

"We felt that the discussion that's going to ensue, both Mr. Brumback's presentation and discussion, is going to take a sufficient amount of time that it couldn't be handled at a regular meeting," said Superintendent Milford Mason.

'Fun Daze'-ahead for runners; park-goers

A springtime celebration for runners, walkers and park-goers is in the works for Saturday, May 16, in the village Depot Park.

The first "Clarkston USA Fun Daze" is a joint fundraising effort by several organizations:

fundraising effort by several organizations.

Planned from 9 arm, to noon are a breakfast;
10-kilometer, 5K and one-mile runs; 5K and one mile walks; and, for entertainment, a moonwalk and a mobile unit with games from the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission and the debut appearance of the Clarkston Rotary Clown Troupe.

Organizers would like to see it become an annual event, said Dick Greenfield, chairman of the Fun

Daze committee.

"What we're looking for is involvement," he said. "It's a township event. We're trying to wash out winter; bring in spring."

The Fun Daze run is sponsored by the Clarkston Rotary Club, the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department and Runnin Gear.

The 1 mile fun run or walk and the 5K fun walk are free.

Fees for the 10K or 5K runs are $7 for adults who register before May 1, $5 for children 12 and under,

and $9 after May 1 for everyone:

T-shirts will be given to all participants in the 10K and 5K runs; awards will be presented for the top two male, female and wheelchair runners in five age groups; and all participants will receive medals.

Advance registration forms are available at the Independence Township. Parks and Recreation Department office in Township Hall, 90 N. Main, Clarkston, and at Runnin' Gear on Dixie Highway in Waterford Township.

Registrations will be taken the day of the runs from 7 to 9 a.m. and the races will begin at 10 a.m.

The breakfast from 9 a.m. to noon is sponsored by Independence Township firefighters. The menu will include corned beef hash, scrambled eggs and cinnamon rolls.

The awards ceremony will include winners of the races and winners of a raffle (all runners are eligible). Emcee will be Brent Cooley, assistant principal at Clarkston High School and Rotary Club member.

In addition, merchants will be asked to participate by offering specials that day and by becoming Fun Daze patrons, Greenfield said.

The committee is also selling Fun Daze buttons for a $2 donation. The buttons, designed by Independence Township resident Ron Wagner, are available through local merchants, at township hall and at Runnin Gear.

Proceeds from button sales and donations will be used "for the development of Depot Park and Independence community development," said Greenfield. "This is an all-township event."

The Fun Daze committee will determine the best way to spend any money raised, he said, and the goal is to "help promote the development of our community, to bring people together. The power is within the people."

Suggestions, so far, have included finishing the Depot Park gazebo, making a contribution toward the town sesquicentennial clock, purchasing woodchips for the park playground, improving village parking and building a one-mile nature trail in the park.

"We invite comments." Greenfield said.

The Clarkston USA Fun Daze button is available at local business establishments for a $2 donation. The logo was designed by Ron Wagner of Independence Township.

Traffic control is rezoning goal

A portion of the property at the Maybee-Sashabaw intersection was rezoned from planned shopping center to local commercial by the Independence Township Board.

With no discussion at the March 17 meeting, the board unanimously approved and adopted the rezoning of the Pine Knob Wine Shoppe and Mazza Auto Parts property at the northeast corner of the intersection.

Recommended by the planning commission, the rezoning was a part of a townshipwide effort to reduce the number of nonconfroming lots, said township planner Richard Carlisle at the March 3 township board meeting.

The local commercial zoning would also prevent future uses of the property that would generate more traffic, he said:

Clarkston's girls hope to get out of the blocks of school's new track. Coach Gordle Richardson lost two all staters, but has a strong nucleus from last year's squad, which finished third in the state finals.

Molves hope to repeat succes

By Chris Gerbasi

Aside from ice melting and birds chirping, a sure sign of spring is the sound of grunts and groans from track athletes limbering up.

Although it's still March; ine outdoor track season is here. For Clarkston coaches Gordie Richardson and Walt Wyniemko, that means finding ways to duplicate last season's success.

Richardson's girls team had its best performance ever at the state finals, finishing third, and Wyniemko's boys squads have lost only one dual meet

The coaches are still trying to pinpoint the best events for some of their athletes. They'll know more after a scrimmage this week and the boys will travel to Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti for a meet Wyniemko said the EMU meet is primarily for (tablishing times. The dual meet opener, for the boys and girls, is April 2 against Milford and that will mark the debut of Clarkston's new track.

Richardson must overcome the graduation of two all-state performers, sprinter and hurdler Jennifer Farough and shot putter and discus thrower Shivonne DeBoer.

"That's 35 to 40 points a meet," said Richardson of the duo. "In really big meets, that's hard to

On top of that, the Wolves' third all-stater, Jane elent, is recovering from knee surgery for an injury suffered during the basketball season.

Selent, a junior, is a sprinter and long jumper, but she may not be jumping this year. She began running last week and intends to be ready for the Milford

"She's got about 90 percent of her muscle strength," Richardson said. "We've got to be patient and she's got to be patient."

Distance runner Kathleen McInnis, a past allstater in cross country, is also working to come back (Ster fracturing her leg at the cross country finals last

Looking to earn track all-state honors this season is senior Lisa Ladd. She was the Oakland County champ in the long jump last year and is also a topflight sprinter, but she strained her back in a dash heat at the state finals and missed the long jump competition.

Richardson is expecting good things from middle- and long distance runners Melissa Elfes, who had anemia dering crees country. Wendy Cohoon and had anemia dering crees country. Wendy Cohoon and had conlen. Tara Carneross will handle the high-jumping differ and Ali Fedio will step involve Boer's shoes in two field events.

Last season's success may have attracted some students, as 35 girls came out for the team, 11 more than last year.

"If more numbers make us better, we'll be real tough, "joked Richardson, who did not want to make any early-season predictions.

The most important number for Wyniemko is eight—the eight seniors that are a part of his 42-member team. He hopes those seniors can pick up some of the slack created by the loss of such graduates as Keith and Kevin Krupp, Chris Poulos, Dave Baran, Jeff Toretta, Rick Migrants and Rick Kelly.

Poulos tied for fifth in the high jump at the state finals and Keith Krupp established a school record in Sports

"Anytime you lose those type of people, it's going to hurt you," said Wyniemko. "The field events have always been a big key for us, so we're going to work on those events.'

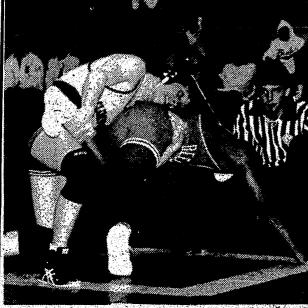

Two of the top returning athletes are pole vaulter Matt Scharl, who qualified for the state finals a year ago, and Jim Hall, who will be a key figure in the sprints and relays.

"It's a challenge we accept," said Wyniemko of replacing the grads. "We'll need good senior leadership. The league is very competitive. They'll go after us.'

Dr. Daniel Bielak, of Clarkston, has been selected as a team physician at the Olympic Training Center in Colorado Springs, Colo.

Bielak chosen by center

Dr. Daniel Bielak finds himself in exclusive company these days.

He is one of only 10 physicians chosen this year toattend and work at the United States Olympic Training Center in Colorado Springs, Colo.

Bielak will be in charge of all sports medicine at the center during a two-week stay in May.

'This is probably one of the nicest things that has ever happened to me," said Bielak, who operates the Clarkston Family and Sports Medicine Clinic with Dr. Michael Therriault. "I'm really proud of it."

Bielak is the founder of the clinic and is credited as being the first doctor to bring formalized sports medicine to the Clarkston area.

"They (the training center staff) heard of me through the grapevine," said Bielak, who graduated from Wayne State University and Chicago College of Osteopathy: "I'm associated with various colleges and we were the first to bring an athletic trainer into a family practice.

In Colorado Springs, Bielak will oversee athletic trainers who are assigned to sports such as soccer, skiing, field hockey, boxing, judo and shooting.

"I'm responsible for (the athletes') health care, everything from a common cold to an injury to research.

"It's a stepping stone," he said. "They see how you operate in stress situations and if they like you, they might invite you back for the Pan American Games or some other international competition. If they still like you, you could be invited to the Olym-

But Bielak isn't thinking about the possibility of the Olympics quite yet. He's just happy to be going to the training center.

"It's an opportunity to see the research and development going on (there);" he said: "They have a huge medical lab for sophisticated training and research and rehabilitation techniques.

"When they only choose 10 (doctors) a year, it's a pretty lucky thing. Especially with all the people interested in sports:"

'Wolves'

Chris Gerbasi

'Wolves,'' a new major motion picture, not to be confused with any possible Stephen King movie, will soon be coming to a theater near you. Here's an exclusive preview:

The film is set in Clarkston, fall 1951. The milling community anxiously awaited the arrival of the (© new high school basketball coach, North Main. A street would later be named after him, but that's getting ahead of the story. (Main is played by Red Buttons, in a rare dramatic appearance.)

Main replaced Harold "Hal" "Pops" Apothecary, Clarkston's only coach ever. Apothecary died at age 93 when he bent down to diagram a play during a timeout and never got back up again. His last words were, "You've gotta suck it up.

Main's highly unorthodox training techniques riled the Clarkston faithful.

Player's father: Main, what are all these footprints doing on the court?

Main: Well, they were left there by the ballroom dancing class last period. Then I got an idea. I said, hev, what better way for these guys to learn the offense? They can just follow the footprints.

Player's father: Main, your highly unorthodox training techniques are riling me. What's next? Having them dribble the ball between a row of chairs?

Main was already at a disadvantage, since only three players came out for the team. Clarkston traditionally had a poor turnout because most of the boys preferred to join the afterschool audio-visual club. The high school had always had a fine audio-visual program.

What Main needed was the best player in the township. Bobby Sashabaw. Sashabaw would one day own a bowling alley in the community, but that's yet another story. (Sashabaw is played by Charlie Sheen, or possibly Emilio Estevez. Why can't they settle on.

Sashabaw, shaken by the death of his coach, "Pops," shunned basketball and turned to the audiovisual program.

With only three players, the Wolves easily lost their first four games. But Main was having other problems. His lady friend at the school, Laverne, a social studies teacher, snooped around and discovered a skeleton in Main's closet. (Laverne is played by Meryl Streep.)

Laverne: Is it true what they say about you? It is, isn't it? Go ahead, tell me.

Main: Then you know about-

Laverne: Yes, I know.

Main: All right then, it's true. I . . . I don't floss. The flossing community anxiously awaited the school board meeting, where Main's fate would be decided.

Angry parent: We can't have a guy who doesn't floss coaching our kids. And what about this triangle offense?

Laverne: Well, he's only got three players.

Parent: I sav we take a vote.

Just then a hush fell over the crowd as Bobby Sashabaw walked to the podium. (The camera moves in for a close-up of Main, then Sashabaw.)

Sashabaw: I've decided it's time I start playing ball again. (The crowd roars.) But coach stays. And coach, you've gotta floss.

Main flossed and Sashabaw played and the Wolves began to win. Even with just four plavers, Sashabaw and the gang were too much for their opponents. Everybody chipped in, Bucky, Merv, Stretch. Suddenly, everyone was calling Main a Victory after victory came to Clarkston. And then, the state finals. The game was tied, 57-57, with six seconds left, Wolves' ball.

Main: Can you do it one more time, Bobby?

Sashabaw: I'll make it... Sashabaw went up, seemingly in slow motion, in fact, he was in slow motion. He released the ball, it bounced once, twice, off the rim, and it really is a fabulous ending to the film, but I won't give it away

"Wolves" will probably be coming soon to the Clarkston Cinema.

History lesson through dolls

By Kathy Greenfield

With apologies for her voice, Dr. Gladys McKenney begins her presentation of "Our Fabulous Foremothers" by standing in front of her dolls and singing a favorite song from her youth.

The message is punctuated by the last line: "I'd rather have a paper doll to call my own than a real live

Once, she tells the sixth-graders, she wanted to be a doll. Then she tells them how her marriage of 37 years began.

"I grew up and I got married and I expected my husband to solve all my problems," she says. Their first argument was over who was going to take out the garbage. It ended when her husband laughed at her silliness.

"I bought into some of those messages in songs," "I wanted to be called a doll or babe-yech."

From there, McKenney told how her present doll project evolved.

As a teacher at Rochester High School, she had become concerned about the self-image of the girls. Many of them had unclear career objectives; many still wanted to grow up and be taken care of by their

McKenney had begun studying women's history and had been impressed with what women had achieved. She noticed a lack of such information in history books and taught a course on women's history at the high school. Following retirement from teaching, she fell while trying on a pair of golf shoes in a sporting goods store. During her recuperation, McKenney's life

She sewed a grandmotherly doll, subsequently used by her clients during family counseling sessions.

From there, she designed her line of Fabulous Foremothers, all members of the Suffragist movement in America which led to the approval of women's right to vote on Aug. 26, 1920.

While work continues on plans to sell the dolls, McKenney takes her message to school, church and club groups.

Last week, she presented her program to all sixth-graders in Clarkston schools and to the pupils in the Clarkston Academically Talented program.

With a costume change and some props pulled from an antique trunk, she tells the stories of bravery and hardship suffered by women working for the right

She talks about laws during Colonial days that did not allow women to sign contracts and laws that prohibited women from having money-and she talks about prison sentences for women working toward the right to vote;

She puts on glasses and a shawl and changes her voice to read excerpts from speeches given by some of the women—and she tells the children she's saving the best for last: Sojourner Truth. She begins with a bit of history: A native of Dutch Guiana, a country on the northeast coast of South America, Sojourner was sold as a slave for $100, forced to marry a man she didn't love and had five children, including a son who was also sold as a slave. She sued the state to win her son's freedom.

Sojourner was a strong woman, McKenney tells the youngsters, and she was nearly 6 feet tall. Criticism that she was not feminine enough inspired Soujourner's speech at the Ohio Women's Rights Convention in 1851.

And McKenney's voice takes on a tone of pride as she repeats: "Ain't I a Woman?"

Dr. Gladys N Yenney shows the group of sixthgraders at Balley Lake the first doll she made. Embroidered on the apron pocket is "Votes for Women, August 26, 1920.

Sojourner Truth, a former slave.

McKenney's "Fabulous Foremothers" are comprised of Abigail Adams, Sarah Grimke and Angelina Grimke Weld, Sojourner Truth, Susan B. Anthony, Elizabeth Cody, Lucretia Mott, Amelia Bloomer, Frances Willard, Alice B. Paul and Carrie Chapman Catt.

Friendly faces

Texan hospitality

By Julie Campe

When Leta Calcote moved to Michigan in 1954, she brought some of her hometown with her.

That explains her friendliness, she said.

"It's the Texan in me," said Leta. "Everybody that goes to Texas will tell you that they're the friendliest people."

Leta shares her southern hospitality in her country store in the Clarkston branch of Sayle's Studio, 5 S. Main St. She tries to keep the Texan atmosphere in her shop.

"Texans are never in a hurry," said Leta. "Usually, when you go to a bank and stand in line, you get restless. But there, they don't care. It's a different way of life, really.

"Up here, there's so many factories and everybody has to be somewhere at a certain time," she said. Where I'm from, it's a ranching community Everybody's their own boss."

Leta has always wanted to be her own boss, too, and she's grateful to Beth Richards, owner of Sayles Studio, for giving her the chance.

"Really, Beth opened up the door of opportunity for me by giving me the opportunity to decorate the photography shop with country gifts," she said

Her gifts include wooden bookcases, decorations, bookends, plates, dolls, boxes and more. Leta also paints some of her husband's wooden creations, and she's in charge of painting the photographs at Sayles, too, for whom she's worked 28 years, she said.

And she just loves the country store, she said. "It's always been in the back of my mind.

. I've always liked the old-fashioned things, as you can tell by looking at me. I like old-fashioned clothes and everything."

Leta Calcote loves children, especially her own two daughters and her five grand-

Leta also likes looking for country items to refinish and use or sell.

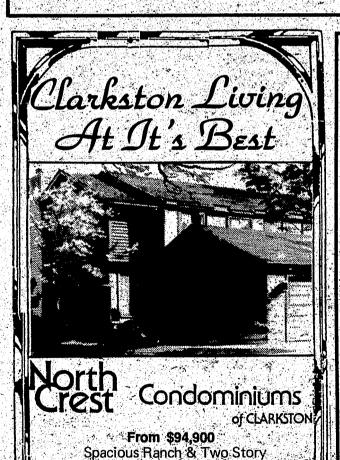

"I love to go antiquing, and I love to do what I call junking. Other people's junk is our treasure," she said.

"But kids are my first love," said Leta, adding she's a children's worker in a church. "I love working with children. I like giving them special attenchildren, she says. She also works with children in her church and finds it rewarding.

Job's Daughters looks for joiners

By Janice Heline

What is the International Order of Job's Daughters? "In all the land were no women found so fair as the daughters of Job . . ." Job 42:15.

Ethel T. Wead Mick believed there should be an organization for young women who believed in the Bible teachings and in promoting good will to the world. In 1920 in Omaha, Nebr., this became a reality with the founding of the International Order of Job's Daughters.

It was and still is open to girls age 11-20, having relatives past or present who are Master Masons.

Job's Daughters prepares young women for civic, business, religious, fraternal and social activities. It teaches love of country and obedience to its laws. It teaches love of home and respect for parents and elders.

The International Order of Job's Daughters has reached Canada as well as Australia, Guam, Japan, and the Philippines. If you or someone you know is related to a Master Mason, won't you give them a chance to participate in Job's Daughters?

Clarkston Bethel 25 is having a prospective member meeting at 7:30 p.m. March 30 in Clarkston Masonic Temple. We would like to invite all girls and parents that may be interested to come and see our impressive ceremony.

If you are interested but unable to attend, please contact Bethel Guardian Susan Hulett at 394-0975 or Guardian Secretary Susan Gibbons at 391-0119 for more information. Please come and stand behind our Bethel 25 of Clarkston.

The officers of Bethel 25 are Floy Licatovich, Honored Queen, a senior at Clarkston High School;

Honor

Laurie Heline, Senior Princess, from Lake Orion Junior High School; and Traci Lotan, a sophomore at Brandon High School.

Janice Heline is an Associate Member of the Council of Clarkston Bethel 25, International Order of Job's Daughters.

In service

A 1986 graduate of Clarkston High School, he joined the Marine Corps in November 1986. He is the son of Janet Murphy of Waterford.

Kiteflying is taking off as a ho

By Chris Gerbasi

If you told Mary Wright to "Go fly a kite," she'd probably take you up on it.

In fact, while talking about her love of kites at her business in Drayton Plains, a button on Wright's shirt gives customers that very advice.

The name of her store, "Just Paper Backs," is a misnomer. She started selling kites four years ago and immediately got hooked on the hobby.

Now, she's a member of three kite clubs, including the American Kiteflying Association, and canbe considered an expert on the subject.

"It grows and grows and grows," said Wright of the hobby. "It's taken off: The technology and materials they use is improving every year. Kites have just about been perfected."

Gone forever are the days of a paper kite supported by flimsy wood, which was usually good for one crash before being deposited in the garbage.

Actually, flyers would have a better chance at stability with the garbage bag. Wright said some kites: are now made of mylar plastic, the same material used for the bags.

But most kites are made of rip-stop nylon, which is also used for boat sails.

"It's a heavy, dependable, sturdy material," she

In place of wood, many kites have fiberglass supports, which are more likely to bend and not break in a crash-landing.

The more recent changes in materials has not only helped the kite, but also the kiteflyer.

You don't have to run 100 yards to fly a kite." anymore," Wright said. "They usually fly out of your

While the most common kite types are diamonds, boxes, dragons and deltas, Wright said there is virtually an infinite number of kite designs.

Riding a wave of popularity these days are stunt kites, which perform circles, loops and dives. Several kites are strung together and controlled by two lines. with two handles. Forty-foot long tails add to the effect as the kites rise and fall and zig and zag through "They're just gorgeous," said Wright. "It's hyp notic watching them. They're the most fascinating because you're busy with them all the time and you make them work.

One enthusiast had his hands full with 72 stunt kites flying at the same time last year at Belle Isle—a world record, according to Wright.

Wright has worked with the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Department the last two years to get a kiteflying festival off the ground.

Last year's fest was organized on short notice, but still attracted over 400 kites and Wright hopes to double that total this year.

The second annual event is scheduled May 16; with a rain day of May 17. Once again, it will be held. at the Oakland County Service Center field, alongside Telegraph Road and south of the courthouse.

There will be competitions for the largest kite, tiniest kite, best homemade kite and a 60-second sprint, to see how high contestants can get their kites in 60 seconds. Prizes will be kites, of course.

Some kites will also be given away and there will be kite demonstrations, a moonwalk, a hot air balloon, clowns, music and an area for the handicap-

Wright said last year's festival drew all ages and the sight of kites in the sky had passers-by stopping along Telegraph to watch. Everybody is welcome, no matter what kind of experience they've had with flying kites.

"Everybody crashes them," she said. "You just learn the feel of kites."

And if you don't, Wright said kites make great decorations. She should know. When she was bored with the look of her store's ceiling four years ago, she decided to decorate it—with kites—and suddenly she had a new hobby.

Mary Wright poses with just a few of her many kites on display at her book store in Drayton Plains. Wright's interest in kites began when she decorated the store with them, but has escalated into a full-time hobby.

Clarkston bus drivers receive 'recognition party'

By Pat Young

Shamrocks decorated a room at the rear of the Clarkston Community Schools bus garage on March 17, but this was more than a St. Patrick's Day party.

Bus drivers called to a special meeting by Assistant Superintendent Mel Vaara were treated, instead, to a surprise "recognition party" complete with juice, pastries and special appreciation certificates. Vaara was on hand to congratulate the drivers.

- The event was organized by Jeanne Molzon, community education youth program coordinator. She also coordinates the facilitators in each schoolbuilding, all of whom were at the party to honor the. bus drivers.

"The facilitators set up youth enrichment programs, and they also help their buildings show appreciation for their employees—that's what they're doing today," Molzon said.

As the facilitators passed out certificates of appreciation to the drivers, Molzon said; "This is our way of saying thanks to you."

Highlighting some of the special efforts of the drivers, Molzon mentioned "how great you all are at greeting the kids with a smile" and "how you take pride in your buses, keeping them clean."

"At Halloween, you dressed up, and at Christmas, you gave the kids treats," she said. "You have helped with special causes, and given loving care to special education kids.'

For approximately 35 Clarkston school bus drivers, the day begins early. Buses roll out at 6 a.m. to begin routes. For some, the work day doesn't really end until nearly 5 p.m. when late routes are completed. And there are extra trips, such as sporting events and field trips.

In addition to kindergarten, elementary and high school students, the drivers deliver alternative educagarage March 17. Drivers were lauded by school staff and given special appreciation certificates.

They have to respond to major emergencies or minor requests: "Do you have a Kleenex?"

Molzon read a message to the bus drivers from Ginny Farmer, adult education coordinator, which summed up the feelings of the staff: -

"We appreciate your efforts and endurance. You are a very special and important employee group and we would be lost without you. Thanks for making a difference with kids and adults."

Clarkston Village Singers revived

People who enjoy putting their voices to music are wanted for the newly revived Clarkston Village

The five-year-old group was inactive last year, but organizer Jenny Sansom has a lineup of activities planned for 1987.

The singers' first engagement will be the Clarkston adult education graduation ceremony, they will participate in the Fourth of July parade and, as in the past, put on concerts in the village Depot Park.

We've always had a real nice turnout and we've always had nice programs," she said.

There is no cost for membership because the contemporary music is supplied by the school district. Practice sessions are to begin April 7 and continue each Tuesday from 7 to 9 p.m. in the Clarkston High School chorus room.

Plans are to continue with the group through a community education class she'll teach in the fall,

In previous years, membership in the Clarkston Village Singers has been as high as 68.

We've had all different kinds of people," she said, listing high school students, housewives, ministers, doctors, police officers and school bus

Parent meetings for kindergarten

As kindergarten roundup for the 1987-88 school year approaches, parent meetings have been scheduled in each school.

The parent orientation meetings include information on the differences between developmental kindergarten and kindergarten, said William Neff, administrative assistant.

"We go into some of the nuts and bolts of enrolling your kindergartner," he said, noting that parents must present shot records and birth certificates during the roundup dates.

To enroll in kindergarten, children must be 5 years old on or before Dec. 1, 1987.

In addition, the parents are told what their children will do during the actual roundups—throw a ball, catch a ball, skip along a line and work with

"We just want them to understand what we do and why we do it and what we do with that information." Neff said.

The first parent orientation meeting was conducted Tuesday for parents of kindergartners-to-be at North Sashabaw Elementary School. If any parents missed that meeting, they can attend a session at another school.

All orientation meetings start at 7:30 p.m. at the schools. On March 26, orientation for parents is planned at Bailey Lake Elementary; on March 31 at Pine Knob and Clarkston elementaries; and on April 7 at

Parents are to bring their children to the schools kindergarten roundup on the following dates:

April 6—Bailey Lake

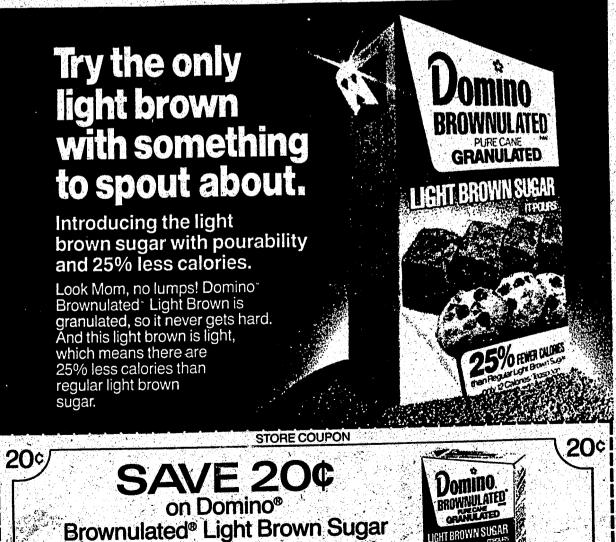

April 7—Clarkston Elementary

April 8—North Sashabaw April 13—Pine Knob

April 14—Andersonville

Parents with questions about which school their child will attend or other questions about the roundup can call Neff at 625-4402.

NO EXPELITION BATE

She's dancing through retirement

Retired Pontiac school teacher and counselor Tamara Elisworth doesn't have time for rocking chairs, but she does do plenty of "rocking."

Since 1985 the Independence Township woman has been heating up dance floors across the country, winning medals along the way.

This latest activity for an already busy woman began with a trip to an Arthur Murray Dance Studio.

"I've always loved dancing," Tamara says. "When my husband and I started dating, I told him; 'Well, if we're going to date, you've got to dance,' and he did.

"He got pretty good at it and really enjoyed it," she continued.

Tamara's husband, Ralph O. Ellsworth, passed away about four years ago.

After several years; she missed the dancing. So in 1985, she went to an Arthur Murray Dance Studio.

Only three months after she began lessons, her instructor suggested she enter competition.

Her first Dance-O-Rama was in San Francisco in September 1985. She earned a silver medal in rumba and a bronze in tango.

In April 1986, she danced her way to a silver medal in tango and a bronze in rumba. This time it was in Las Vegas, and it was a world Dance-O-Rama, which meant a higher level of competition.

Traveling to New Orleans in October 1986 to compete at an even higher level of competition, she won a gold medal in cha-cha at a Super-Rama.

Dance divisions are by level of dancing, not by age, she explains. "I am expected to do the same as a 25-year-old."

There is a large mixture of ages at the competitions, and there are many women, like Tamara, who are widowed and just enjoy dancing.

Tamara dances the rumba, tango, cha-cha, waltz, fox trot, merengue, mambo, swing, bolero and the hustle.

'When I wanted to learn the hustle, one young instructor said, 'Women your age don't do the! hustle,' "Tamara says. "Well, that made me and my instructor mad. He taught me. The next competition for Tamara is April 4 at Cobo Hall. She will compete in all 10 dance styles with her instructor, her usual dance partner, and she aspires to add a few more pieces to her growing collection of trophies and medals. 'I used to have arthritis, but it hasn't botheredme since I've started dancing," she says.

"I may wear out, but I won't rust out." —Tamara Ellsworth

Tamara exercises every night at home and is a lifetime member of Vic Tanny, though she rarely finds the time to go there. 🔩

Traveling is another of her favorite pastimes. She has done the hula in Hawaii, learned the Brazilian samba in Rio, and tried the "southern" version of the tango in Argentina.

But traveling is something she did long before taking dancing lessons.

"It was always my desire to travel," she says. "Since I've retired, I've realized some of my dreams. "You have to plan for this. Traveling costs money. I was a child of the depression and put myself through college by working," she says.

She earned a bachelor's degree in education from Central Michigan University, Mount Pleasant, and master's degree in counseling from the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor:

"I started saving my money while I was teaching by putting all my raises into annuities," she says. She retired in 1978 after 31 years with the Pontiac schools as a teacher and counselor.

Tamara has visited Europe, China, Japan and Alaska and would like to see New Zealand and Australia.

She travels in the continental United States, too, driving herself and taking her little dog Isher along for company.

When she is not traveling or dancing, there are many other activities which fill her life. Dozens of photo albums in her home document the activities of this many-faceted woman.

She was active in the Pontiac Education Association all of her working years, serving as president in 1963-64. Since her retirement, she has been active in the Michigan Association of Retired School Personnel, serving on the board of directors for seven years.

She is current president of the University of Michigan Alumnae Club and is a member of the American Association of University Women and the Michigan Education Association Women's Caucus.

For years, she has been active in the American Veterans Auxiliary. She is also an instructor for the American Association of Retired Persons in their "55 Alive" driver improvement program.

She has placques and other awards commemorating her service to many organizations, and won a scholarship with AARP to attend the Northern Arizona University for an "elder hostel." In her "spare time," she also enjoys golfing, bowling and flower gardening.

"I may wear out, but I won't rust out," she says,

In addition to everything else, Tamara is actively involved in community theater.

A founding member of the Lakeland Players of Waterford in 1959, she starred as Martha in its first production, "Arsenic and Old Lace."

She played the same role for the Lakeland Players 19 years later, in 1978:

In between she has been in numerous other productions, and is still active, "doing a little bit of everything," as she puts it.

That includes acting: She was in "The Prisoner of Second Avenue" in 1982, "Cabaret" in 1985, and was in the Pontiac Theatre IV production of 'Scrooge'' in 1984.

Tamara has two daughters, Pamela Ellsworth of Pontiac and Mary Jasper, who lives in Mississippi.

Of all her activities, Tamara says, "my greatest thrills and experiences have been in my achievements as a counselor and teacher. I love young people."

And of her busy life, Tamara smiles and says, "If you don't do things, life passes you by.

Helping others is principal's aim

By Julie Campe

Don Kevern likes to help people, all kinds of people—individuals, groups, kids, adults.

"I consider that a gift," said the Independence. Township resident. "I think we're all given so many gifts in our lifetime, and that was one of mine.

Kevern recently received recognition for his

The principal of East-Hills Junior High School, Bloomfield Hills, he was awarded the school district's first community service award for employees.

Kevern is "unselfish and caring," wrote his staff members at East Hills, who nominated him.

This is exemplified through his friendship with Tony Palazzola, a young man who suffered serious injuries in an airplane accident and is now a paraplegic, reads the nomination.

Kevern befriended Tony and spearheaded a fundraising drive to raise $16,000 to pay for a rehabilitation program to help him walk again.

He helps groups, as well. He is immediate pastchairman of the Clarkston Area Chemical People, an organization devoted to preventing substance abuse in the community.

He also works with the members of Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity at Central Michigan University, Mount Pleasant, as liaison to the university.

And he speaks as a volunteer to groups throughout Oakland County about the importance of

"I think the success of children and adults is tied down to what you think about yourself," he said. "There's a great deal to be said for believing in yourself-everyone can be a winner.

Kevern has an even longer list of people he helps that the school officials didn't even know about. But for Kevern, helping others is an end in itself. He does it for its intrinsic reward, he said.

"It's a commitment of my own," he said. "It: comes from a love of fulfiling a need. I think that's one of our purposes on earth. Lithink that's the greatest joys that man has. True happiness is found in helping other people.

'I was raised in that direction. My father was very service oriented and so was my mother. The more we give, the more we get back. I've found that to be true in everything I've ever done.'

Kevern also sings in the choir at the Clarkston United Methodist Church and teaches Sunday school to senior high youth and college youth.

His hobbies include playing the piano, organ and guitar, writing poetry and music, singing, swimming, golfing and traveling. He and his wife annually accompany a group of teens to Europe.

And he likes to write letters. He keeps in touch with some students from each of the 30 years he's worked in education, he said, adding he writes 25 to 30 letters a week.

That's made my profession a vital part of my life," said Kevern. "If I can work another 30 years, I'll do that. I have no desire to retire.

(But) my greatest love in life is people—all kinds of people. People offer the challenges for tomorrow-learning about life, learning about solutions to problems. ... I'm blessed with a beautiful staff, beautiful kids and a beautiful family.

"And I have a strong interest in religion," he said. "I even thought about going into the ministry. I chose not to because there's a ministry in what I do."

For Don Kevern, helping people brings joy to his life. "I've also found that community service fills a vold after your children leave," said the Independence Township resident.

Incredible édibles

The roast can be wonderful; but if the side dishes aren't, the meal is in trouble.

Recipes for a salad and a vegetable dish selected from the "Incredible Edibles" cookbook published by the Clarkston Community Women's Club can help avoid such a problem.

The salad is from the kitchen of Kathleen Phelan of Birmingham and the vegetable casserole was submitted by Sally Polley of Clarkston.

- 1 pound bacon
- 5 or 6 hard-boiled eggs, chopped 4 tomatoes

Layer first seven ingredients in order given. Seal with mayonnaise. Cover and refrigerate overnight.

Diving accident victim works toward van goal

David Watson of Independence Township, an artist who is a quadriplegic due to a diving accident, provided his own artwork for a fundraiser last month to help raise money for a specially equipped van.

Winners have been announced from the drawing which took place Feb. 28 in three locations, at the family-owned. Tree: of Knowledge bookstores in Goodrich and Linden, and at the Frames N-Art store in Waterford.

From the Linden store, Mike Janisch of Berkley, won a "Sailboats and Sunsets" matted artwork and Leo Vito of Flushing won a "Three Horses" matted artwork.

From the Goodrich store, Becky Aninos of Clarkston won "Sailboats and Sunsets" and Therman

Burns of Burton won "Three Horses."

At Frames-N-Art, Wayne Banycky of Clarkston won a framed print of "Three Horses."

Watson said the drawings raised approximately $3,500 toward his goal.

'It's a good start," he said. He is already working on ways to earn more money toward the new van and lift, which would help him attain his goal of becoming more self-sufficient.

TV show features Clarkston man

A prime-time slot for "You'll Never Walk Alone" has Joel Burnell singing a happy tune.

The half-hour music special airs Friday, March 27, on WGPR-TV 62 at 8 p.m. Burnell's renditions of gospel songs are featured:

'Anybody who likes inspirational music wouldn't be disappointed if they watched it," he said. "There's a little bit of talking, but we try to rely on the music."

Six inspirational songs make up the program. They range from the traditional "You'll Never Walk Alone" and "He" to the up-tempo gospel song "I Got-ta Feelin" and an original song written by Burnell, "Instruments of Righteousness.

His song "talks about how we should be more positive and try to live life in a good way, to be a good force," Burnell said:

An Independence Township resident and 1978 graduate of Clarkston High School, Burnell is public access supervisor for the Independence-Clarkston studio of United Cable Television.

Dave Hawkins of Lake Orion produced the TV special, Doug Preston of Holly played guitar and additional musical accompaniment was provided by Bill Allen of Pontiac and Bill Marsh of Durand.

Immediately following the "You'll Never Walk Alone" program will be a rebroadcast of the group's 1986 half-hour music program, "The Joel Burnell Special."

Among the six songs in the TV-62 inspirational special is "instruments of

Top accolades for two CHS bands

It was a first for Clarkston High School when two concert bands received the highest ratings in an instrumental music festival, said director Clifford Chap-

The Symphonic Band and Wind Ensemble were warded First Division Ratings at the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Festival in Royal Oak March 14, qualifying them for competition in the state festival, said Chapman.

"I was extremely pleased," he said. "They did a remarkable job I think the median level of performance is rising. The program is just strengthening, The kids seem more goal-oriented.'

The almost 100 students involved were judged on their concerts, sight reading skills, stage departments and general effects.

A First Division Rating indicates an excellent level of performance and musicianship for the event and classification being judged, Chapman said.

The festival also helped prepare the groups for their spring tour to Toronto, Ontario, Canada, during May, said Chapman. The bands were invited to participate in the Creative Arts Showcase International Music Festival.

Spring fever

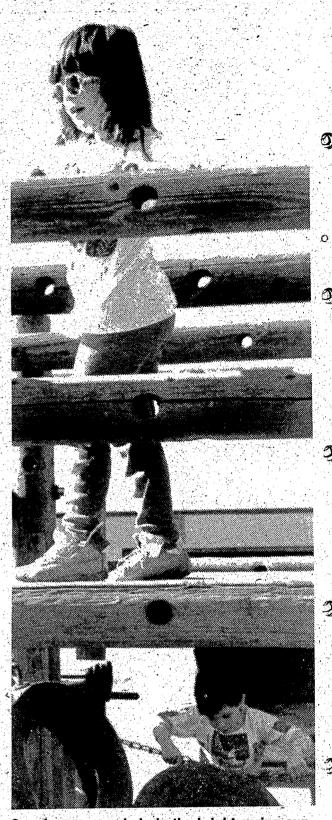

It was Moose's idea for the kickball game, but Melissa Ruth readily agreed. Here, she kicks a single and then steals second. Most of the players Sundy were from Mrs. Thomas' class at Clarkston Elementary School, said Melissa.

Stephanie Smith, 5, loves to climb on the playground equipment near her Grandmother, Norma Smith's, house on Eastlawn. She's part monkey, says her mother, Shayla.

Sunglasses sure help in the bright spring sunshine as Amy Slinkard, 6, found last Sunday when she and her cousin Sarah investigated the Clarkston Elementary School playground. Underneath is Noel Stalker, 7, of Warbler Drive, Independence Township.

The slide is a fast one, says Tom Mauti after he and his daughter, Daisy, finish their ride. Tom brought five kids to the playground Sunday, including three of his own.
