Man survives night in Lake Huron

• BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Tim Ellenberger learned firsthand Friday night the value of the United States Coast Guard.

Ellenberger, a Brandon Township resident, and two other men were boating to a salmon fishing derby in Port Sanilac when their boat struck an unmarked rock near the south end of Huron County.

The boulder gouged a hole in the bottom of the boat. The trio knew they were in trouble right from the start.

"In no more than three minutes, the boat was under water," said Ellenberger, 27, from his home Saturday evening. "We sat on the windshield to get most of our bodies out of the water."

Ellenberger said the water temperature of Lake Huron was about 45 degrees. The group was about a mile offshore when the accident occurred.

"The water was about 7 feet deep (at the accident site). If it had been any deeper, we would have been in trouble," said Ellenberger.

Just before the accident, the boat, named "After You," had been stopped by the Coast Guard for a

3rd swan killed

Another swan, the third this spring, has been killed in Independence Township in the channel between Lake Oakland and Woodhull Lake.

This time, instead of death by shooting, the swan was found floating in the water, its legs and neck tied to a brick.

The swan, believed to be a female, was spotted floating in the lake on Monday afternoon, said Marie Alldredge of Meyers Road.

On Tuesday, after calling the police and the state Department of Natural Resources, Alldredge called The Clarkston News. No one would come and take the swan out of the water, she said.

She had been watching the father swan and the pair's seven cygnets swim over to the mother and leave after they could get no response.

It was all very sad, she said. "This doesn't make me very happy today."

On Tuesday afternoon, Brenda Weathers helped her neighbor take the swan out of the water.

"It was definitely intentional," said Weathers.

routine safety inspection, Ellenberger said.

"We asked him for directions to Port Sanilac and he told us to hug the shore," he said, adding that when they crashed they were about 15 miles north of their destination.

The other two boaters with Ellenberger were Michael Chimelak, the owner of the Chris Craft Sea Skiff, and Walter Maczuga.

The three spent the night huddled atop the partially submerged boat. Aside from a few bruises and some cramps from the cold climate, all escaped injury.

Throughout the night, Ellenberger said, they could see a helicopter and boats looking for them about 10 miles south of the accident site.

"We knew that if we could make it through the night, we would be all right," said Ellenberger. "We joked around a little to keep our spirits up."

The Coast Guard found them early Saturday morning.

The accident opened Ellenberger's eyes to the dangers of boating without enough Coast Guard protection, he said.

"The accident was nobody's fault. I'd go out with the same guys again tomorrow," he said. "But the rock wasn't marked. Maybe the reason it wasn't marked was because of all the cutbacks the Coast Guard has gone through."

"What is it going to take (to get adequate safety coverage), a death?" said Ellenberger, who works at GMF Robotics Corp. in Rochester Hills as a service engineer.

The three men spent Friday night in Harbor Beach Community Hospital suffering from hypothermia.

Saturday evening, Ellenberger said he was feeling no ill effects from the accident. He said he just hopes no one else will ever have to go through what he did Friday night.

"It was a very enlightening experience. None of us realized just how lucky we were until Saturday," he said.

Death of third swan is reported

"The brick was heavy. We couldn't even steer the paddle boat. You just wonder who in God's name did this. You wonder if it was the same jerks who did it to the other swans."

When a pair of swans were shot and killed in the channel in April, Weathers and some neighbors retrieved the eggs.

Lightbulbs shining into a box in her den kept the eggs warm until they were taken to a school farm in Bloomfield Hills. As far as she knows, the eggs have not yet hatched, she said.

The death of the third swan was sad—and frightening, Weathers said.

"People say it's just a swan, but it's life," she said. "If you did this to everything you encountered

Timothy Ellenberger, of Butternut Road in Brandon Township, says he is fully recovered from the shock of spending time afloat on icy Lake Huron after a boating mishap.

Goodbye rusty handlebars, fall leaves, old shoes and unsold garage sale items.

Spring Cleanup in Independence Township is planned from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, May 16 and 17, at the Department of Public Works building on Flemings Lake Road.

Township residents may dump their debris at the site for a small fee, depending on the load size.

Tickets to dump may be purchased in advance at the township treasurer's office in Township Hall, 90 N. Main, Clarkston. They will also be sold at the site during cleanup days.

Per load fees are $5 for an automobile, $10 for an auto with a single axle trailer, $10 for a pickup truck, $25 for a pickup truck with a single axle trailer, $25 for a dual axle trailer and $25 for a 5-yard dump truck. There will be an additional charge for tires.

The following items may not be dumped: fuel oil drums, barrels, propane cylinders, automobiles or vehicles of any kind and chemicals of any kind.

Spring Cleanup was formerly a free service for township residents. Following the loss of federal Revenue Sharing funds this year, the township board decided to charge a fee.

Should library rent them?

Bill may limit video rentals

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Action in the State Legislature may touch the Independence Township Library.

A bill introduced into the Senate by Sen. Doug Cruce of Troy calls for limiting the types of video rentals in a library—they should only carry video tapes not normally found in commercial video stores, he said.

Like over half of the 60 libraries in the Wayne Oakland Library Federation, the township library rents movies, ranging from feature films to educational, instructional, travel and children films, said James Hibler, township librarian.

In a letter, Cruce said public institutions should not compete in the pre-existing free enterprise system.

Since the private sector provides the rental service at a fair price, the library has no business in it, Cruce said.

Also, since not everybody can afford to rent videos, it's not fair to use public money on them, he said.

"I have problems when a library, which according to current law shall be forever free to the use of the inhabitants, charges for materials," Cruce said.

If passed, the bill would ensure that libraries buy video tapes using the same criteria they use to buy books and magazine, he said.

Hibler expressed some disagreement with Cruce's statements.

"I agree that people should have freedom to access information," he said. "The reason we charge is because of the high cost of any particular video. In order to fund the collection, most libraries charge a small fee."

"While over 40 percent of homes have VCRs, it's still considered nonessential. . . . It was thought that if some people could afford a VCR, they could afford a tape," he said.

"The reason we started this was because everybody kept asking us for them. . . . Libraries are not just repositories of books in the 1980s. . . . As new technology comes in, libraries should adapt, especially if the service is in demand, as in this case," Hibler said.

Now, libraries have records, audio tapes, video tapes, data base searching and computerized services, he said.

"We really don't feel we're competing with video stores because we're not offering as much. What we're able to provide are tapes that maybe aren't best sellers, that may be useful in the community."

"We see it as an educational tool in an entertainment format for patrons. . . . Videos are bringing in people who might not otherwise come in," Hibler said.

Schools offer help to realtors

BY KATHY GREENFIELD
Clarkston News Editor

Real estate firms received some help toward their task of selling Clarkston schools to prospective home buyers last week.

The school district put on a realtors' orientation program May 7 at the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center.

The philosophy behind the meeting was to help realtors show clients that Clarkston is a good place to raise families. By encouraging families to purchase available houses, the district can combat declining enrollment, which has occurred because of a drop in the birthrate.

The about 50 realtors who attended were treated to a continental breakfast, followed by speeches by district administrators. The session lasted about an hour and one-half.

Each realtor also received a packet of information about the district and a copy of the new "Clarkston Community" brochure, a leaflet with color photographs and words of praise for the area.

The leaflets are to be available, free of charge, to real estate offices for distribution to clients, said Mary Jane Chaustowich, chairperson of the brochure committee, after the meeting.

The brochure was about two years in the making, from conception to the actual product, and the cost was roughly $4,000, which includes printing, she said.

She stressed that a great deal of credit is due the all-volunteer committee—Carol Balzarini, Margaret Bloom, Barbara Banker and Eric Hood.

"One of the nicest things about the brochure is everyone on the committee without exception can identify something that they personally contributed," Chaustowich said.

The brochure's purpose is to "have something that will very quickly and personally show the kind of place Clarkston is to live in," she said. "It's primarily for people who are thinking of buying a house somewhere and we're trying to entice them to buy in Clarkston."

The Clarkston school district is comprised of almost all of Independence Township, about half of Springfield Township and tiny portions of White Lake and Waterford townships.

Among the speakers at the meeting for realtors was Milford Mason, superintendent of Clarkston schools.

"We have a lot of pride," Mason said, while presenting information about the district, which included special programs, test scores and praise for the "competent and caring staff of teachers, administrators and support staff."

Alberta Ellis, district curriculum director, spoke about ongoing changes in course offerings with more emphasis on academic requirements for graduation and on computer education, foreign language and health and physical education.

Dr. Robert Burek, the principal of Clarkston High School, spoke as a newcomer to the community. He has been on the job eight months.

The reason he came to Clarkston was because of the "outstanding community," Burek said.

He talked about the "great group of kids" he's found at CHS and the caring, able staff.

"I'm a firm believer in a tie between the community and the school," he said. "When you look at a great school system, you have to have a tripod—the staff, kids, community are outstanding."

Superintendent Milford Mason displays the school district map. The district lines were originally established around existing farms, he said.

The new "Clarkston Community" brochure attracts the attention of a real estate agent during the first realtors' orientation put on by Clarkston Community Schools. Plans are to present a similar program on an annual basis to help realtors sell homes to families.

Ski trip ends in injury for Clarkston lawyer

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A ski trip to the Canadian Rockies turned into a hospital stay for Clarkston attorney Richard Campbell.

The former attorney for Independence Township left for Canada with five friends on March 21. They skied at Lake Louise, a ski area in Alberta, on March 22, and drove to Golden, British Columbia, to helicopter ski on March 23.

Helicopter skiing is not for the novice skier or the weak-hearted. A helicopter flies a crew of skiers and a guide to a landing area near the top of the mountain and drops them off. Skis, carried in saddlebags outside the helicopter, are unloaded and skiers begin the downhill adventure.

"The fun of it is skiing in virgin snow and deep powder," Campbell says.

But it has a margin of danger. Before starting, all helicopter skiers go through a thorough two-hour training program. They are trained to use an avalanche radio and beeper, which they wear under their ski suits on a neck chain in case of emergency.

Campbell's helicopter ski adventure ended abruptly on the first run when his left leg was seriously injured in a fall. But it could have been worse.

"Coincidentally, there were seven people killed in an avalanche an hour after I was injured, only 15-20 miles away," Campbell says.

The avalanche occurred in the Caribou Range. Campbell, 10 other skiers and a guide were skiing one range over on the Purcells Range.

"We had skied one face and were traversing across to ski another face," Campbell says. "The snow was very crusty and windblown."

Two skiers in front of Campbell fell, breaking the crust. Just beneath it, but not visible, was a huge boulder.

"My skis went under the rock, and I was thrown forward right into it," Campbell recalls.

His left knee, which caught the razor-sharp edge of the rock, suffered a four-inch laceration to the bone. His left femur, or thigh bone, was broken four inches above the knee, and the broken knob of the femur split in half. The main femur shaft went down into his knee and displaced his kneecap.

"The cut was bleeding profusely, like a garden hose," Campbell says. "I actually feared I could bleed to death."

"One of my friends, Larry Baumgartner, has had a lot of first aid training. He said, 'If we don't get this bleeding stopped, we could lose him.'"

The skiers worked to stop the bleeding while the guide quickly returned with his first aid pack. It took two compression bandages to stop the bleeding.

The guide radioed for the helicopter, and within 15 minutes, Campbell was at the small hospital in Golden. He was later transferred to Foothills Hospital, a large training hospital in Calgary, Alberta.

During three-and-a-half hours of emergency surgery, Campbell's leg was repaired with a steel plate, eight screws, and numerous stitches.

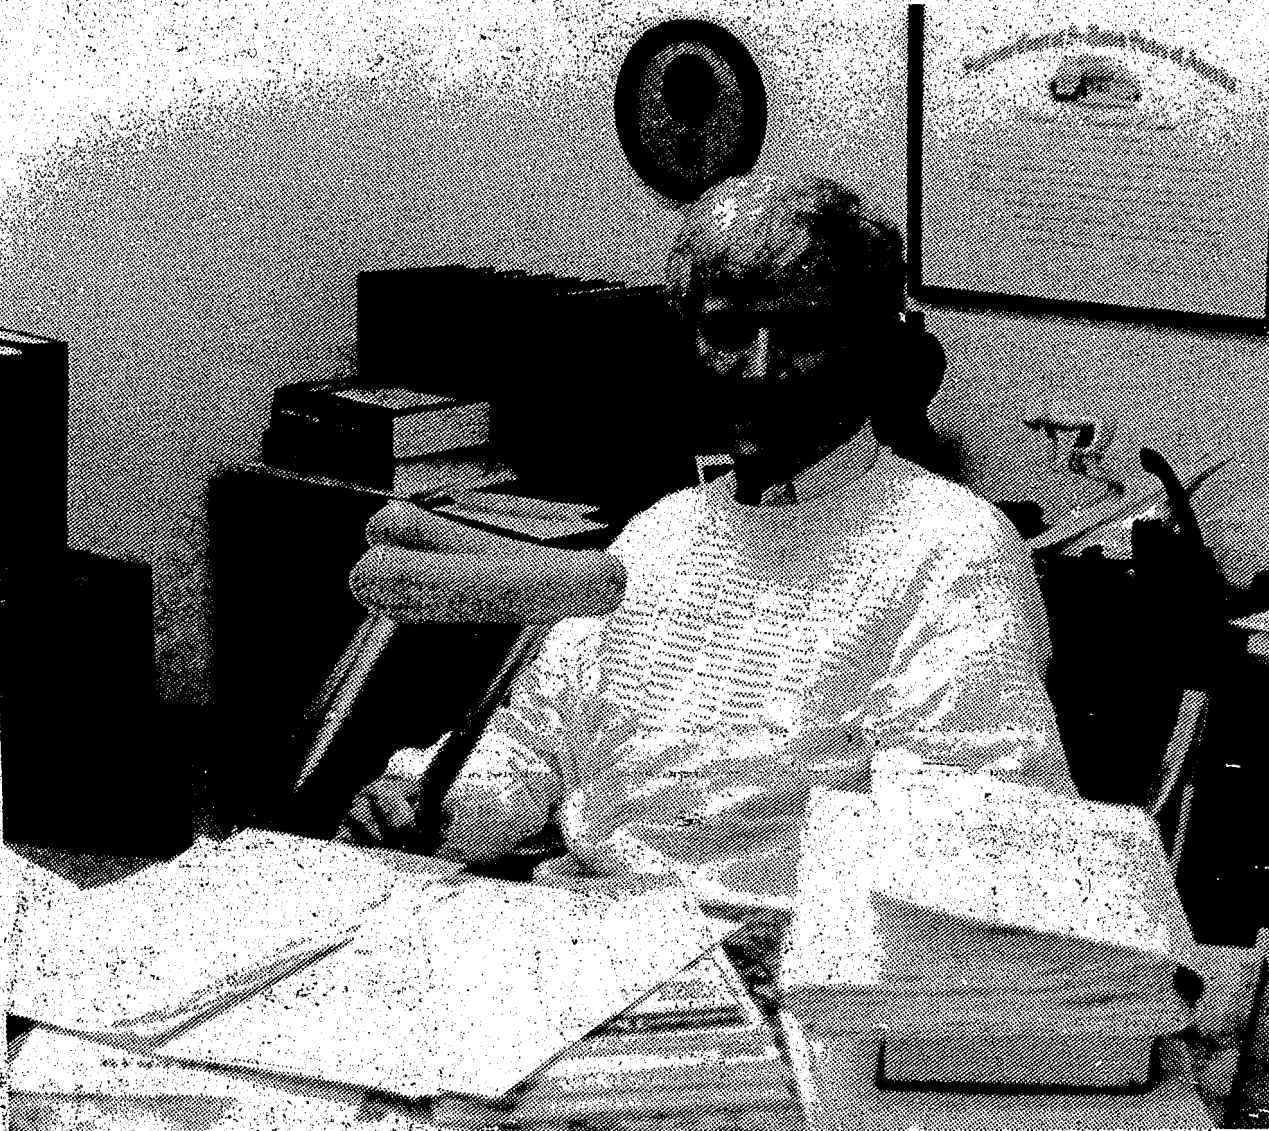

His wife, Pati, flew up to be with him the next day.

Campbell returned home March 29, and was back to work at his law office in the Clarkston Mills Mall four weeks after the accident, on crutches, but without a cast. The repairs were all done internally.

"I believe activity promotes healing, and the doctor is encouraging me to be active," says Campbell, who is healing much faster than expected.

Asked if he will helicopter ski again, Campbell says, "Probably not, but I wouldn't preclude it."

"I may stick to groomed slopes, but I won't stop skiing," he adds. "I'll be able to ski by next winter."

Richard Campbell is back to work in his Clarkston law office after a serious ski accident in March. He's using crutches for now, but plans to be back on the slopes next winter.

Ah, spring

Kathy Greenfield

We took him into the back yard and told him to sit next to the tulips.

"All you have to do," I said to my volunteer photographer's assistant, "is make him smile."

But it was not to be. Smiles aren't won with jokes or tickles. He's most happy when someone suggests going for a walk or a run, playing Frisbee or catching the moldy tennis ball.

The problem is that when anyone suggests any of the above, he's instantly at that person's side, smiling face-to-face.

What I had in mind was not a group photo.

What I wanted, though, was something different. What I tried was something tricky. The photographer's assistant was dispatched to the house for snacks.

After realizing that a tortilla chip wasn't going to do the trick, we switched to something more powerful—a piece of donut.

Mighty nose was able to discern the donut snuggled in the tulip bloom, he dipped his nose in and . . .

It looks like Brandy, our dog, adores spring, doesn't it? And he does. But not the way it appears in this photograph, which is meant to be a symbol of his affection (and mine) for the season.

I could have taken his photo down at the lake, for he rejoices at the melting of the ice and warming of the water. He's never been a dog who runs away, so we aren't forced into constant surveillance when he's outside.

But every once in a while, he disappears and returns soaked, but happy, after a dip in the cooling waters.

If I tried to get a close-up of his lake frolics, he'd probably think of some reason to smile, face-to-face, and then I'd have to think of some way to dry out my camera.

Jim's Jottings

Collected thoughts that you can disagree with if you want.

I read recently that 24 electric (battery powered) cars were going to run together somewhere. GM was submitting one.

And, I read that federal, state and county governments were all trying to raise taxes on gasoline to pay for roads.

Now then, if the country goes for electric cars there will be a whole lot less road building money from gas taxes.

So where will the road money come from? You know the answer.

I often eat lunch on the run. If I'm driving at mid-day I go to a drive-in and get a sandwich to eat on the road. The Apollo coney in Davison is a favorite.

In comes Gumperson's law: When I'm dressed for work (suit and tie) I always spill greased whatever and mustard on my clothes. Saturday in my jeans and old shirt I never spilled a particle.

The relevance of 'what is old' came home again this week. Dwayne Houk, who lives on the Oxford-Orion border, said when he was small his mother asked him what he wanted to be when he grew up. He said, '56'. Now he wants to revise the figure upward.

When a newspaper over sensationalizes or makes a major mistake, the entire industry is painted with the same brush.

Same with lawyers, judicial system, 'you men are all alike', and salesmen.

And so are preachers. Usually, some newspaper, lawyer, judge, etc will come to the aid of their profession. And so have some preachers asked Christians to not judge Jim and Tammy Bakker badly.

However, what about the big names, like Billy Graham and Norman Vincent Peale. Did they ask forgiveness of the resigned tv preacher and I missed it?

Maybe they and local ministers aren't painted with a Bakker brush.

I swear restaurants make up names for fish just to have a varied looking menu. Take scrod for instance. Can you imagine a wife letting her husband out of the house if he told her he was going scrod fishing?

And Orange Roughy. Whoever caught an Orange Roughy? What kind of lure do they hit on? What's the legal limit?

Last week I saw Fluke as a fish dish on a menu. I figured Fluke was a fluke, as in mistake on a billiard table, or like mock lobster is fake lobster.

I also thought for a while the chef had invented another fish to vary his menu.

But I looked it up in my Websters, and there it was: Fluke, lobe of a whale's tail.

I promise to respect all confidences. Please write to:

I was not only very proud of my own daughter, Victoria, for her performance in the All-Michigan Honors Orchestra, but also was proud of the two young men, Scott Orth and Russ Simonson, who performed in the All-Star Jazz Ensemble.

Selection for this festival began from over 70,000 young musicians throughout Michigan.

It is the result of many hours of hard work, both by these students and their parents, as well as the guidance of good teachers and the environment provided by our community, that inspire our young people to be the best and enjoy the finer things of life.

Congratulations to these young people for their achievement, and may they always continue to strive to be the best in whatever they pursue.

I am a historian of American technology (and part-time Michigan resident and homeowner) currently doing extensive research on Henry Ford's nineteen village industry experiments in southeastern Michigan.

I would very much like to hear in writing from anyone who either participated in one or more of the village industries or else is related to or friends with anyone who participated in them.

I need personal reflections on work and leisure in these interesting, and too often neglected, factory communities.

Lively funeral follow-up

Jim Fitzgerald

Perhaps it would help you understand, if not forgive, our macabre behavior if I explained why we were all laughing. But it must be done carefully. The subject is death and funerals.

There were six of us having dinner in the Clarkston Cafe. We just returned from a wake and I offered a toast to the deceased. "We'll all really miss him," I concluded.

And we all laughed. None of us could remember ever meeting the dead man. Perhaps we'd seen him once, about 15 years ago, at a wedding.

NOW IS THE TIME to get careful; so no one will misunderstand none of us thought it was funny that the man died we were sincerely sorry. Like all normal people, we regret every death, even if we don't know the deceased, and we respect the anguish of close survivors. We aren't about OK.

But we were mostly Irish at our table. And those of different heritage have been married to Irish spouses so long they've become persuaded to the Irish attitude that says there can be an occasion of social merriment, renewing old friendships and retelling old lies — just as long as nobody's married a different number of years and didn't depart before his or her parents.

was flying in from Texas to be there, and we wanted to see him. He was properly surprised by our presence, and we had a good time recalling other good times while trying not to have too good a time because, after all, theasket was only a few feet away.

I was reminded of when my father died and my sister Linda and I went alone into a secluded part of the funeral home to have our first look at his embalmed remains. There was the sound of a stomach rumbling. "Was that me?" Linda asked, and I answered, "I sure hope so."

MY MUCH OLDER sister, Terrible Jean, was at the Clarkston dinner and she recalled when she and another sister, Mary Lou, were each the young mother of five overactive youngsters. The two harried moms would seize any opportunity to leave the kids with a babysitter and skip town for the day. Many of these opportunities were provided by funerals in the city where they grew up, 60 miles north.

60 miles north. It wasn't necessary that they knew the deceased; only that they knew at least the first name of a slight acquaintance who would be available for socializing at the wake. One day, while returning home from one of these maddy funeral parties, Jean remarked on what a good time they'd had and wondered when they might be able to do it

"Who's sick?" was the question. Terrible Jean recalled our old parish priest. She hadn't heard a word about him in many years, but he must be 90 by now. Perhaps he wasn't feeling well?

Perhaps he wasn't feeling well?
The news came the next day. The priest had died about the same time. Terrible Jean was wondering about his health. Some witches will do anything for a good time.

his health. Some witches will do anything for a good time. The dinner talk switched pleasantly to the long-ago suicide of a butcher we didn't know. He'd used a cleaver on himself in the basement of his old-fashioned butcher shop, discovered the body, and then run away.

"Several people, and they each had to take a number," I said, "before we had our own number."

LEST YOU BE left with the impression that my family laughs only at the part of living that is dying, it should be mentioned that the Clarkson Cafe waitress asked if we wanted dessert. It was agreed that not one of us six well-rounded people needed a whole strawberry shortcake or an entire piece of cake, but why not buy only two

The laughing started when it was noticed that five of us were taking bites with teaspoons while Terrible Jean was using a soup spoon and it would have been even more unfair if we'd driven there in Terrible Jean's car, which has a snow shovel in the trunk.

Friendly faces

Martha Post, owner, bookkeeper and hostess at Alexander's, loves the customers, she said. "From the little ones to the older ones, they're great," Martha said.

Friendliness is on the menu

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Martha Post naturally loved the idea of opening a restaurant, she said.

An owner of Alexander's Restaurant on Dixie Highway, Independence Township, Martha was influenced by her father, who owned a restaurant when she was a girl.

Martha was so excited to join her brother-in-law Chris Nicholas at Alexander's in 1980, she also involved her husband Vern, an electrician by trade.

"Poor guy, he married a Greek and that's how he got into the restaurant business," she joked.

Martha, a 20-year resident of Waterford Hill Terrace, Independence Township, only wishes they had started the business 20 years ago, she said.

"I love it," Martha said. "It's just a small-town gathering place. Most of our customers are locals, and they're like neighbors and friends. It reminds me of years ago when people used to gather at the corner drugstore and talk."

For Martha, the people make her job enjoyable.

"I like people. And I've had to, in the beginning, force myself to be outgoing. Now it's almost second nature," she said, adding she used to be on the quiet side.

But the friendliness comes naturally to her, she said.

"We come from a big family," said Martha. "There were cousins, and we lived next door to each other. You should see my mother. she's so friendly and outgoing. Everybody loves her.

"I guess it's the way we've been raised," she said. "We like people. We feel comfortable around people, and we just want to get to know them."

Martha recruited another family member to help—her cousin Cassie Pantelides.

"We're first cousins. We grew up together. We're more like sisters than cousins," Martha said.

The most difficult part about running the restaurant is the change in lifestyle, she said.

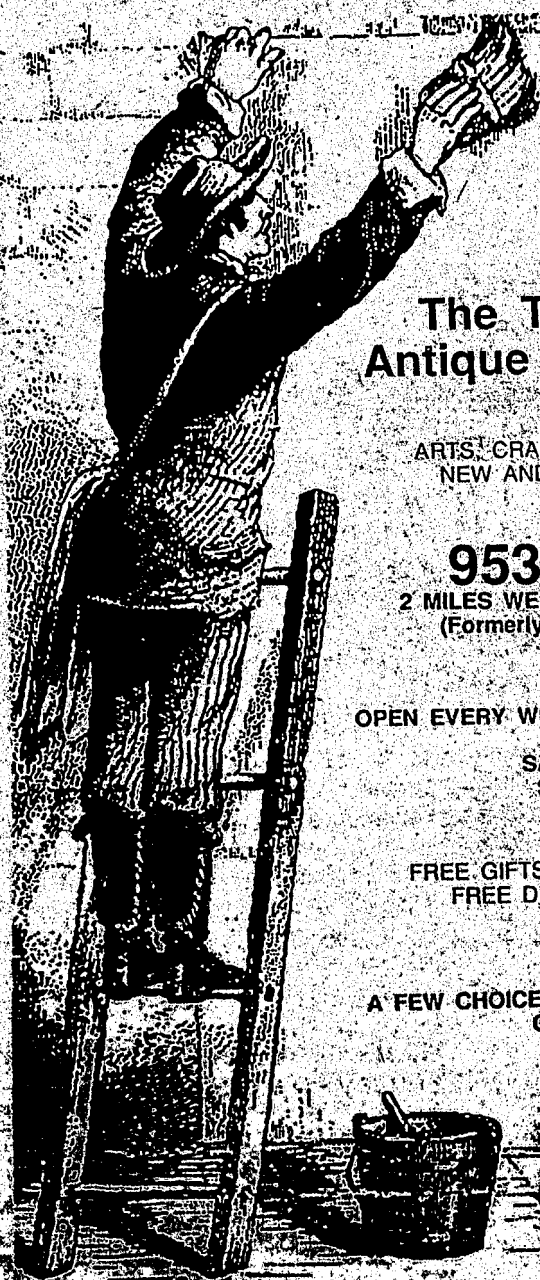

"This is what we do from the time we wake up to the time we go to bed. I haven't cooked a meal in eight years. And I love to cook," she said.

In the beginning, Martha was hostess. Now, she seats people on weekends and takes care of the bookwork during the week. Her husband also works the long hours.

"When they talk about togetherness, we're experts on it," she said. "He's got his jobs to do, and I've got mine to do, so we're not with each other every minute."

"We've got a nice working crew. Everybody works well together. I think that helps," she said.

Fire by lightning

Lightning struck a house on Pine Knob Lane, Independence Township, about 8 p.m. Sunday and caused about $4,000 damage, said Capt. Neil Ashley of the township fire department.

The lightning burned the house electrical service wires, destroyed the electricity meter and blew the transformers out of their pole, he said.

Several neighbors lost power from the affair, but regained it before morning, Ashley said.

The fire started in the attic about one and one-half hours after lightning struck, he said.

"Lightning, that's a lot of power," said Ashley. "People should watch out for it. We've had our share in the township. (It) can do a lot of damage."

"If a person's house is hit by lightning, they should have someone come out and check it, without a doubt," he said, adding TV antennas should be grounded because lightning can follow wires throughout a building.

Golf course offers $1,000 reward

Jean Frechette is serious about finding the culprits who stole two golf carts and damaged nine others April 21.

The owner of the Clarkston Golf Course, Eston Road, Independence Township, Frechette has offered a $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of person or persons responsible.

The episode is not the first, she says. The greens were badly damaged last year, and they've had pins and flags taken in the past.

"We've got to put an end to it somewhere," says Frechette.

The two stolen golf carts have been recovered, she says, adding they were both badly damaged. On the nine other carts, the ignition wires were cut, she says.

"We know pretty much who did it," says Frechette. "But you have to have proof for this. We've got to put an end to it."

To give information, call the golf course at 394-0020.

Glass flies, hurts man

A Clarkston man was injured Sunday when a light fell from his ceiling fan and shattered.

Apparently, the light in the center of the fan came loose and was hit by the fan blades, scattering glass around the room in his Church Street home, said Capt. Neil Ashley of the Independence Township Fire Department.

The man suffered cuts on his face, but is OK, said Ashley.

Rezoning for 121-acre sub wins 1st approval

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Voting against a planning commission recommendation, the Independence Township board approved the first reading of a zoning change on Sashabaw Road.

Owner Ben Benson said he planned to build a subdivision on the 121 acres if the zoning is changed from rural residential (3-acre minimum sites) to suburban farm residential (1.5-acre minimum sites).

A second reading and adoption is necessary before the rezoning takes place. The property is between Clarkston Road and Independence Oaks on the west side of Sashabaw Road.

At the May 5 meeting, Beverly McElmeel, township building department director, outlined the planning commission's reasons for denial.

"They felt they wanted to retain a 3-acre minimum size parcel," she said. "They thought the change would create more traffic, and they wanted to retain the open atmosphere."

Township planner Richard Carlisle said he recommended approving the rezoning because the density was consistent with the area.

"Given the nature of the surrounding area, this project would not lead to any over-development in the area," he said. "I guess it's my feeling that with 3-acre lots, the cost of platting would be more prohibitive. (Suburban farm residential) would be a more efficient use of the property without that much higher density."

"I think we have to realize the pressure for development is here," said Carlisle. "We have to make sure that it happens in the best possible way."

Trustee William Vandermark voiced his support for the rezoning request.

"I think this proposal is in keeping with the community," he said. "I think this would be a real asset to the community."

The board voted 4-1 to approve the first reading of the rezoning. Treasurer John Lutz and Trustee Dale Stuart were absent.

Trustee Carol Balzarini voted "no."

"This is telling anyone with (rural residential) that we're willing to rezone to (suburban farm residential)," she said.

"We need to preserve rural zoning," said Balzarini. "Just because we don't have a demand for it now doesn't mean we won't need it later. . . . It goes in cycles."

Molzon elected to statewide volunteer post

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Jeanne Molzon isn't one likely to sit back and let a problem solve itself.

When she moved to Clarkston 10 years ago from California, she noticed that the schools here lacked a volunteer program.

Molzon had volunteered her time in California schools helping students with their educational needs and felt that such a system would improve the quality of Clarkston's schools.

When her children started attending Clarkston Elementary school, she decided to volunteer her services to provide more individualized attention in the classrooms.

Molzon is totally committed to volunteer work and has trained volunteers to work with students in the past. Along with Barbara Banker, now communications chairperson for Clarkston schools, Molzon also has written a manual titled "Volunteers Make a Difference."

And she's still going strong.

She was recently elected vice president of the newly formed Michigan School Volunteer Program. Molzon helped write the bylaws for the program and was an obvious choice for vice president in the election held by the 200 state volunteer members of the organization.

The program was developed to organize all school volunteers in the state and provide an avenue for exchanging ideas on how to better educate students through volunteer services.

The organization now has two vice presidents and Molzon's role will be centered on membership recruitment.

"Since many mothers today are working, it's getting harder and harder to get people to volunteer," said Molzon.

She said her main goal would be to get more retired people involved in volunteer work.

"Retired people have a lot to give (to young children)," she said. "I will be urging them to volunteer their time even if they say that they want to spend the winter in Florida. They can volunteer in the fall."

Molzon said that volunteers across the state should concentrate on giving students the individual attention that they need to better understand their schoolwork.

Jeanne Molzon was recently elected vice president for the newly formed Michigan Volunteer Program by its 200 members.

There will be increased demands—put on students in the coming years and they need the individual help," Molzon said. "Parents are not home as often as they used to be and they expect the schools to (reinforce what was learned)."

The Michigan School Volunteer Program will conduct annual meetings in the fall so volunteers can share their knowledge.

The program is affiliated with the National School Volunteer Program. Michigan was the 13th state to join the national effort.

Presently, Molzon is the Youth Programs Coordinator for Clarkston Community Schools and oversees the volunteer, latchkey and youth enrichment programs.

Her decade in Clarkston has made a difference in the schools.

Ten years ago, a handful of volunteers were scattered about. Next year, there will be an organized volunteer program in every school within the district, she said.

CHS singers in spring concert

"Celebrating the Memories" is the theme of the Clarkston High School vocal music department's spring program on Wednesday, May 20.

The program begins at 7:30 p.m. in the CHS auditorium. There is no admission fee, but donations will be accepted.

Featured will be the Mixed Chorus, Chorales, Girls' Select Ensemble and Varsity Concert Choir.

Honors will also be bestowed on graduating seniors of the department. The awards include most improved musician, most valuable musician, Un-sung Hero Award, "Sunshine" award, choir pins to those with a "B" or better average for two years in choir and an introduction of new members to the CHS Madrigal Singers for 1987-88.

"The public is cordially welcome to attend and share in the culmination of a most successful year of music at CHS and join us at the end of the concert with refreshments," said Grayce Warren, vocal music department director.

Chicken suit waiting for Rev. Schram

Among the CROP walkers on Sunday, May 17, a chicken may waddle.

The Rev. Bill Schram says he'll wear his chicken outfit the entire 10 kilometers only if his church, Sashabaw United Presbyterian, raises more money than last year. The number to beat is $100, he said.

The chances are good that he'll be wearing the outfit. Many of the congregation members would like to see a repeat of last year's performance, when he wore it in the rain, said Schram.

In its second year in Independence Township, the CROP Walk is drumming up all kinds of support. Friendly competitions between churches and schools have developed, said Char Cowdin, publicity chairperson for the event.

Two groups of people seem to be interested, she said.

Many of the walkers are health-conscious, and welcome any opportunity as an outlet for their energy, she said. Others realize the walk is one of the best ways to fight local and world hunger.

Sponsored by the Church World Service, 25 percent of the money raised by the Christian Rural Overseas Project (CROP) is to be used locally. The rest is to be used to fight world hunger, said Cowdin.

This year, the 6.2 mile walk is scheduled for 2 p.m. Sunday, starting at St. Daniel's Church, Holcomb Road, Clarkston.

To get a sponsor sheet or to sponsor a walker, contact your church or call St. Daniel's at 625-1750.

Also, walkers and runners in the Clarkston Fun Daze on May 16 may take sponsors for the CROP Walk since it's the same weekend, she said.

Dixie site may house office building

A 14,400-square-foot parcel of land on Dixie Highway, Independence Township, may receive a new zoning.

At the May 5 meeting, the township board approved the first reading of the change from single family residential to office.

A second reading and adoption is necessary before the zoning takes place.

Township planner Richard Carlisle presented the rezoning circumstances of the site, south of White Lake Road on the east side of Dixie Highway.

Surrounded by single family residential from two sides, the only access to the site is from the busy Dixie Highway, he said. Across Dixie and across Cummings Road, north of the property, is zoned highway commercial, said Carlisle.

The owner plans to build a small office building that may generate between 20 and 30 trips a day, he said, adding any use of the lot would require variances from the zoning board of appeals.

"The planning commission recommended approval because of the nature, size and location; and the Dixie access made it unlikely that a residential use would be on that property," he said. "The planning commission felt that the least intensive use and most desirable use would be office."

The township board voted 5-0 to approve the first reading of the zoning change. Treasurer John Lutz and Trustee Dale Stuart were absent.

"I think it's a reasonable request and a reasonable use of the property, and it sounds like you'll do a nice job out there," said Trustee William Vandermark to owner David Plautz.

Township puts village cop contract on hold

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The police contract between the Village of Clarkston and Independence Township may hinge on a decision from the state tax commission and a bill in the state Legislature.

At the May 5 meeting, the township tabled the village's proposed police contract until the it receives answers regarding special tax assessments.

"We have been having an ongoing battle with the state tax commission over special tax assessments," said Clerk Richard Holman.

If the village doesn't pay an amount equal to 2.5 mills in state equalized property valuation, "we could lose in excess of $100,000 in state revenue sharing," Holman said.

One mill is $1 for every $1,000 in assessed property valuation.

At present, the police millage in the township is considered a special assessment by the tax commission, said Holman.

Since the amount received from special assessments is used to calculate state shared revenue, the new contract could disqualify the township-wide 2.5 police millage from the tax commission's calculations, he said, adding the result would be a loss of some of the township's state shared revenue.

Village Trustee William Basinger said the village's portion of the police fund is not a special assessment anyway, since the money comes from the village's general fund. Therefore, the township's rationale with the tax commission is weak to begin with, he said.

Two township board members favored the village's proposal.

"I have a concern with linking accelerating millages that might occur to the village," said Trustee Daniel Travis, adding the proposed contract seemed fair.

Trustee William Vandermark voiced his approval.

"I don't have a problem with what the village asks for," he said. "It might be hard to keep track of."

I'd certainly like to give the full-time officials time to look at this and iron out the details."

Holman said a bill in the state Legislature seeking different definitions of special assessments may have some bearing on the issue as well.

The board members voted 5-0 to table the contract until the state tax commission sends its answers regarding special tax assessments. Treasurer John Lutz and Trustee Dale Stuart were absent.

The township contracts for its police protection from the Oakland County Sheriff's Department. The village contracts for its coverage with the township.

The village had proposed paying an amount equal to 2 mills state equalized property valuation of the village in exchange for normal police coverage plus an extra two hours traffic control per weekday in the village.

The township had proposed the village pay an amount equal to 2.5 mills, the rate the township residents voted to pay last November.

Gas station robbery holds mysteries

Events surrounding the Monday robbery of a 76 gas station on Dixie Highway, Waterford Township, and the disappearance of four people remained a mystery to the Waterford police as of Tuesday.

Around 10:25 a.m. Monday, the police department received a call from an employee of the station, near Andersonville Road on Dixie Highway.

The employee, who was not on duty at the time, said the business was locked when it should be open, said Lt. Richard Finkbeiner of the police dept.

When they investigated, they found that "several thousand dollars" were missing, as well as two employees and two others, he said.

They don't know the details, yet, said Finkbeiner. The exact amount of money taken is not known, nor is the whereabouts of the four people.

"We really have no idea," said Finkbeiner. "We have teletypes out and detectives working on the case."

One of the missing employees is a 40-year-old male Waterford Township resident who worked as a courier for 76, said Finkbeiner.

The other employee was a young female, between 15 and 19 years of age, who lived in Springfield Township. Also missing are her three-month-old infant and her boyfriend or spouse; police were unsure if she was married to the man she was living with, said Finkbeiner.

Walter honored for volunteer work

Virginia Walter was among honored guests at the second annual kickoff breakfast for National Volunteers Week by the Detroit Junior League and the Birmingham Junior League.

Walter was nominated as an outstanding volunteer by Clarkston Area Youth Assistance.

"Virginia has worked so hard for Youth Assistance—always. She has been so active for so many years and still is. She exemplifies the volunteer," said Merelyn Mallett, Youth Assistance chairperson.

Walter has served as chairperson of Youth Assistance and has been chairperson of almost every subcommittee of the organization devoted to the prevention of juvenile delinquency.

Mallett said 250 to 300 people attended the breakfast April 27 at the Landsdowne Restaurant, anchored behind Cobo Hall on the Detroit River.

The honored volunteers from the tri-county area signed an honor roll, which is being sent to Gov. James Blanchard for display in Lansing, she said.

"It was such a nice honor, it would be nice to let people know," said Mallett.

Craft makes children's banks fun

BY SHARON HAHN

Clarkston News Special Writer

Chambers Savings Bank is a family affair. But don't expect traditional banking services. Until recently, it was known as the Country Merchant, and it can be found at numerous arts and crafts shows throughout the area and areas south of Oakland County.

The name change reflects the popularity of the handmade, wood and Plexiglas banks, one of the many wooden items designed and sold by Linda Chambers.

"This is my warehouse," said Linda, as she invited a guest into her Independence Township home. The living room, turned workroom, holds supplies as well as inventory for her 7-year-old business.

Linda, her husband, Ron, and their sons, Chris, 16, and Kevin, 12, all take an active role in what began as Linda's hobby.

"It's something that we all benefit from," she said. "The money . . . the working together . . ."

Linda's background and interest in art have helped her develop 40 models of banks, including teddy bear, rainbow, dragon, dog, football, baseball and kitty-cat designs.

She admits she designs more for boys. "When you go to craft shows," she said, "it's usually set up (with items) for grandmothers and little girls. When you see my table, the little boy comes to mind."

The banks sell for $12.95, are made of wood and decorated with non-toxic paints, and feature Plexiglas cut-out areas enabling depositors to watch their savings grow.

Ron, an engineer with GM, does the wood and Plexiglas cutting. He enjoys working with wood, Linda said. "It's his therapy."

Son Chris sands the cut pieces before Linda paints the designs. He then screws the Plexiglas sides over the cut-out area.

Both boys help at the shows. "It's good experience for the children," Linda said. They help with the sales and answer questions.

"They aren't shy," she said.

Other items available from Chambers Savings Bank include an apple-shaped pencil holder (for the teacher), recipe clips and oven rack pulls.

Linda does 35 shows a year. This month, she plans to be in the East Lansing Art Festival, May 16 and 17, and the Michigan Guild's Fifth Annual Spring Arts Festival in Plymouth, May 30 and 31.

She's taking her work out-of-state this year. Akron and Chicago are on her calendar, and a trip to Pennsylvania is a possibility.

Linda is delighted that her work is being accepted in many of the juried art shows.

"I feel very good I was chosen for those shows," she said. "When they jury your work, you feel they have chosen your work over others because they can see, besides just the materials and colors, the artistic qualities in the design."

Linda has been in Clarkston's Crafts & Cider Festival and the Arts & Apples Festival in Rochester.

She puts in about 70 hours a week on her work, she said. "Instead of going to work, I'm here all day looking at it."

Linda Chambers works in her Independence Township home about 70 hours a week preparing banks and other items for 35 arts and crafts shows across the state and beyond.

And that's the way she likes it.

"I cannot sit behind a computer and type all day," she said. "I like to talk to people." The shows provide plenty of opportunity to do just that.

Linda also sells her work to stores out-of-state. There's a little gift shop in Anchorage, Alaska, that displays her work, she said.

The Chamberses' warm and sunny home is decorated with handmade crafts. But not all the pieces are Linda's.

"Trades" is how she described the small quilt hanging on the wall and the hand-carved ducks on the end table.

"When you are a crafter and people like your work and you like theirs, you barter," she said. "Most of the decorations in the house are from trades."

Among Linda's 40 bank designs are many animals, a rainbow and a football.

Placing first for the Cougars were Nikole Westphal in the discus, Sue Cohoon in the 800 meter run, Sonja Schaffer in the 400 run and the 1600 relay team of Cohoon, Holly Neadow, April Ferguson and Schaffer.

Taking second places were Westphal in the shot put; Kelly Moore in the 100 and 200 dashes; Lisa Palazzola in the 3200 run; the 3200 relay team of Robyn Budday, Palazzola, Ferguson and Schaffer; the 800 relay team of Cohoon, Westphal, Beth Dempsey and Schaffer; and the 400 relay team of Sarah Kortge, Westphal, Dempsey, Moore.

Sashabaw's boys team finished second.

Top performances were as follows: Sean Cervantez won the 100 high hurdles and took third in the 300 low hurdles; Ron Gibson won the pole vault.

The 1600 and 3200 relay teams both ended up in second place. Dan Schell finished fourth in the 800 run and the shot put; Dan Davis took third in the 200 dash; Kevin James finished fourth in the 400 dash.

First-place finishers for the Wolverines were Rhonda Jokisch with a record-setting performance in the long jump; the 3200 relay team of Harris, Sloan, Needham and Mahler; Michelle Folwell with a record-setting run in the 100 and 200 dashes; and Jenny Mahler broke records in the 1600 run and the 3200 run.

Clarkston's boys team finished third.

Top performances were as follows: Tom Holiday in the high jump; John King set a record while winning the shot put; the 1600 relay team of Fritz Lamm, Eric Becker, John King and Lowe.

Ed Gilleland took second in the 110 high hurdles, as did the 400 relay team.

Doctor relaxes on the road

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Most daily commuters on I-75 probably wouldn't consider an 8,000-mile trip across the United States in eight days a pleasant way to unwind.

But for Dr. Robert Aranosi of Independence Township, the annual "One Lap Around America" road rally race was a welcome change of pace from his full-time job as an emergency room physician at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital.

"It's a good mental break for me and it's a lot of fun," said Aranosi.

This was the second year he competed in the cannonball-run-style race. Aranosi did most of the driving during the eight-day adventure that began April 16 and ended April 28.

The race is sponsored by Cannonball Express Inc. of New York. For the last few years, it has started in the Detroit metropolitan area.

The "One Lap" began in Troy this year and 70 cars entered. The object was to drive around the continental United States in eight days.

To keep drivers honest, the course included daily timed checkpoints, which varied from 50 miles apart to 250.

"The race is exactly modeled after the movie 'Cannonball Run,'" said Aranosi. "It has everything except Farah Fawcett."

Drivers are given the luxury of two overnight stops during the week-long journey.

Aside from being relaxing, the road rally gives the drivers the opportunity to do a little sightseeing and soul searching, Aranosi said.

"After a few days on the road, you start talking about things that you would have never thought of otherwise," he said.

The participants travel through 32 states and run into people from all walks of life. Sometimes that can get a little dangerous.

"When we pulled up in a rest stop near the New Jersey-New York border, a bunch of drug dealers were there shooting up. It was our one scary moment of the whole trip," said Aranosi.

Once out of the rest area, Aranosi was glad to get away from the east coast and head West. Arizona's beauty makes it one of his favorite states.

The east coast, with all its bridges and mismark-

The "One Lap of America" racing team of, from left, Kelly McClanahan, Dr. Robert Aranosi and Ed Scheett are pleased with their 25th-place finish in this year's race. Aranosi says they plan on improving on that mark next year.

Determination keys wins for Wolverines

If at first you don't succeed, try again.

That is exactly what Clarkston's ninth-grade softball team did May 7 and the result was a double-header sweep of Sashabaw.

In the second game, the Cougars roared back from a three-run deficit by scoring six runs in the bottom of the first inning before a single batter could be retired.

But the Wolverines were able to regroup behind relief pitcher Jodie Lopucki and capture a 9-6.

"Our first three batters scored and then they scored six times with no outs," said Clarkston's head coach Dennis Bronson. "I thought that it was going to be a long day, but I was wrong."

Four batters collected two hits apiece for the victors: Jenny Roselli, Lopucki, Lisa Manzo and Andrea D'Aiuto all contributed to the offensive surge for the Wolverines.

Clarkston has a team batting average that is hovering around the .400 mark, said Bronson.

The Wolverines up their record to 6-2 with the two wins.

In the opening game, the Wolverines won a wild 13-9 victory over Sashabaw.

Pitcher Jamie Lay topped her personal season record to 4-1 with the win.

Kim McDonald, Betsy Roche and Michelle Driscoll had three hits apiece for Clarkston.

Bronson said he is extremely proud of the way his charges have been improving as the season progresses.

"We're getting better and better," he said. "We've only made 11 errors in the last six games."

Clarkston tops Cougars twice

Clarkston's ninth-grade baseball team came out with its hitting shoes on May 7, and the result was a double-header sweep of host Sashabaw.

The Wolverines won the opening game behind the two-hit pitching of Mike Speagel, 8-0.

Bill Knight continued his hot streak at the plate this season by collecting three hits in three trips to the plate.

"He just amazes me. You can hardly ever get the ball past him," said Clarkston's head coach Dave McDonald.

Knight knocked in three runs for the victors.

Speagel also chipped in at the plate for the Wolverines by getting three hits.

Todd Bennett was the third player with three hits for Clarkston and he also had two RBIs.

The Wolverines jumped out in front quickly and held a 6-0 lead after two innings.

"They (Clarkston) did a good job of hitting the ball and we did not," said Cougars' head coach Tom Smith of the first game.

In the nightcap, Clarkston won 9-1 as Corey Olsen baffled Sashabaw from the mound en route to picking up the two-hit win.

Jack Garnett had two hits in the game for the Wolverines. Knight had a double and two RBIs. Jason Randolph also contributed an RBI to the winning cause.

McDonald started substituting in the second game and gave everybody a chance to play. Several players finished with an RBI apiece.

Gene Chamberlain had two hits for Sashabaw in the second game. Matt Boucard was singled out by Smith for the fine diving catch he made in center field.

While the final scores might indicate otherwise, McDonald knew his team was in for a battle against Sashabaw.

"It's always been competitive between us," he said. "The teams are pretty equal."

With the double-header sweep, Clarkston ups its season record to 4-5. The Wolverines have won three straight games and are starting to gain confidence.

"In the last three games, we have hit the ball real well," said McDonald. "We have gotten good pitching and good hitting. I have no complaints."

Confidence is a quality that Smith hopes his team can pick up on soon, in hopes of turning the season around.

Smith said the Cougars' problems might be solved once they start hitting the ball again. Sashabaw could also use a little luck.

"We hit the ball good several times, but it was always right at somebody," said Smith.

Sashabaw's record falls to 2-7 after the double-header sweep, but Smith remains optimistic.

"It's a long season, we can still bounce back," he said.

Horse trainer

Martin is home on the range

Dan Martin says the first thing he tries to accomplish when training a horse is to become its friend. He is pictured here on his ranch on Eagle Road with one of his three horses.

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Dan Martin likes to be challenged. That's why he used to be a police officer. It's also the reason he joined the Marine Corps and went to Vietnam.

Martin's latest adventure is a horse training business that he started out of his home on Eagle Road in Rose Township last year.

While horse training might sound a bit mild when compared with his other jobs, dangers do exist.

Martin gained valuable experience—and a few lumps on the head—when he was involved in Midwest Cowboys Association rodeos as a teenager.

One rodeo Martin participated in when he was 17 still sticks in his mind as if it happened yesterday.

Thrown from a bucking bronco, he was knocked unconscious, suffered a concussion and ended up spending nearly a week in the hospital. To add insult to injury, somebody stole the brand-new spurs off his feet.

Those kinds of experiences give Martin an edge over the competition.

"Most trainers won't work with a horse that bucks," he said.

Martin, who owns three horses and boards two others at his ranch, began advertising his service in local papers and has been surprised by the response.

"We have even had people from as far away as Romeo call us," said Martin.

Most of his business comes from Oakland County residents who purchase horses without any knowledge of how to handle them, he said.

The mustang he's currently breaking attacked him three times, so it's no wonder the owner had been looking for someone to train the horse for two years.

He took on the task of breaking in the mustang because of his love for horses, he said.

ed expressway exit signs, was the hardest part of the race, Aranasian said. That and trying to remember what day it was.

"They call it brain fade," he said. "It's hard (for others) to imagine what goes on after five or six days on the road."

Aranasian drove his car to a 25th-place finish this year, a definite improvement over the 71st place he took a year ago.

"I'm pleased with that," Aranasian said. "But next year, I want to do better."

Looking back, he said, the most thrilling moment of the race was the race itself. When the race ended, so did the excitement.

"It's anti-climactic," he said. "The pleasure is in the work and not the finished product."

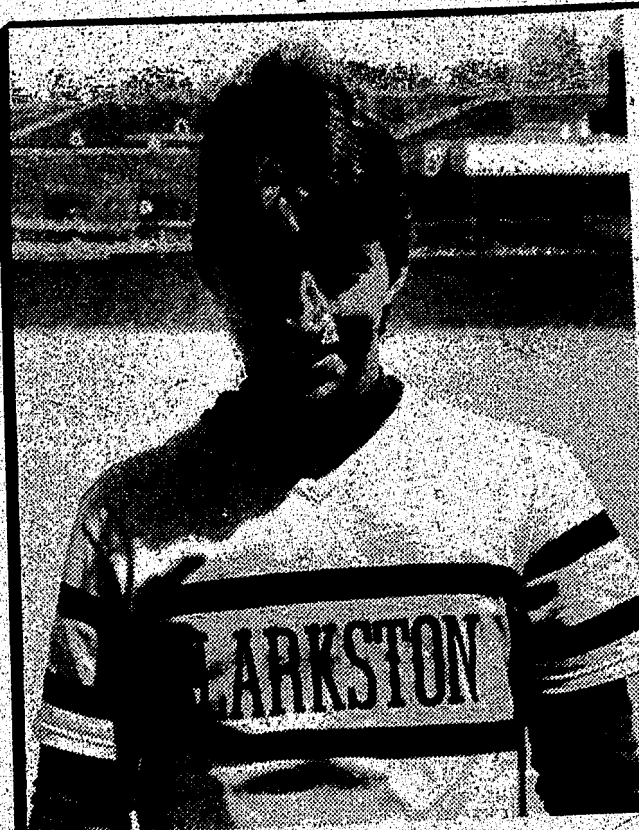

"I usually go right back to work after the race," he added.

Two friends, Kelly McClanahan and Roger Ealy, went along with Aranasian on this trip and occasionally spelled him behind the wheel.

McClanahan and Ealy, who work at the GM Truck and Bus plant, asked their bosses to donate the brand-new 1988 GMC Sierra pick-up truck they used in the race.

"When we drove it in the race it (the truck) had not been released (to the general public) yet," said McClanahan.

General Motors prepped the truck for Aranasian's racing team by putting it through a 1,000-mile test at the General Motors Proving Grounds before allowing them to race, said McClanahan.

Shawn McCracken enjoyed skiing in Colorado during spring break.

Prep Profile

Schwance likes shrimp

Senior Shawn McCracken plays second base on Clarkston's varsity baseball team.

Born: May 2, 1969.

Nickname: Schwance

Favorite sport: Skiing.

Favorite food: Shrimp.

Favorite music: Ratt.

Favorite TV Show: "The Cosby Show."

Favorite movie: "Strange Brew."

Favorite hangout: At parties.

Favorite things to do: Golf, ski.

Idol: Rob Ronk.

Biggest thrill: Skiing in Colorado during spring break.

Biggest accomplishment: Getting accepted into Western Michigan University.

Goal: To make it through life.

Those preparations were enough to get the truck through the grueling race. Besides enlarging the cabin area to accommodate a bed, no major changes were made.

"The truck just performed excellent," said McClanahan.

Aranasian behind the wheel 16 hours a day also helped their cause.

Aranasian has been a pro rally racer for the past six years and takes part in approximately half a dozen races in Ohio, Pennsylvania and Michigan annually.

His friends and relatives help out by doubling as his pit crew when he competes in pro rally off-road races.

His involvement in pro rally racing helped him get interested in the "One Lap" race last year. Since most of the participants in the transcontinental journey are pro racers, he decided to give it a try himself.

Aranasian likes racing so much that it appears he will be driving professionally for many years.

After all, everybody needs a little variety in life to break up the monotony—even if it takes 8,000 miles to get it.

Martin turns hobby into job

The training process generally takes about a month. In some cases, the horses stay at Martin's stable and in others, he does the training on the owners' property. His philosophy is "have saddle, will travel."

The average cost is $30 a day or $600 to $800 for the month.

Martin, who grew up in Birmingham, has been around horses since he was 7 years old. Horses are a lot smarter than most people realize, he said.

"A horse can sense when a person is afraid to ride," he said, and the horse is frequently as nervous as the rider.

Martin recommends that people be gentle with their horses. "Horses are not mean animals," he said. "Usually they are just frightened."

Always looking for adventure, Martin wants to expand his business from training and boarding to breeding and sales.

Toward that goal, Jim Cole of Drayton Plains recently built the new stable on Martin's property.

Martin said he wanted someone familiar with horses to build his stable and Cole, who helped build his house, was the perfect man for the job.

"If you don't have a good facility, then people are not going to want to leave their horse with you," he said.

Another reason for the new building was Martin's desire to begin breeding his horses.

Although he doesn't have much experience breeding horses, he looks forward to the challenge. If successful, he plans to sell the offspring.

But for now, Martin is completely satisfied with training horses. It's something he said he'll always enjoy, no matter how many times he gets bucked.

"I'll be doing this until the day they drag me out of here feet first," he said.

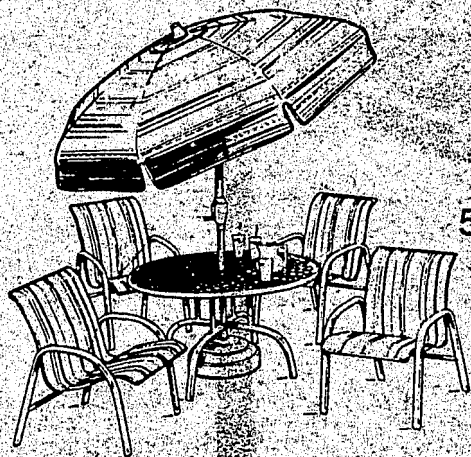

EXHIBITION PLAY: Clarkston's varsity baseball team scrimmaged against Rochester Adams on the road Saturday morning to get in some extra work on a bright sunny day. Coach Roy Warner used the opportunity to give junior varsity pitcher Joe Herron, pictured above, a chance to gain valuable playing experience at the varsity level. The Wolves' overall record stands at 11-3 after Monday's 6-1 win over Bloomfield Lahser High at home. [Photo By Peter Auchter]

Sometimes when a person makes it big, it becomes easy to forget the little guy.

Fortunately, former Clarkston resident Tim McCormick isn't one of those people.

McCormick, a professional basketball player for the Philadelphia 76ers, will return home this summer and, with some help from his brother Mike, he plans to put together a basketball camp at Clarkston High School for junior high and elementary school-aged kids.

"We will be going around to all the local schools in a couple of weeks with more information on the camp," said McCormick.

McCormick and his younger brother Mike, who is currently enrolled at Kent State, held a basketball camp in Clarkston last summer and approximately 100 kids attended.

While most of the plans are still up in the air, McCormick did mention that 76ers teammate Charles Barkley might be at the June 22-27 day camp as a guest speaker.

Stay tuned for more details.

I've only been in town a couple of weeks, but I noticed something strange when I attended the ninth-grade baseball game between Sashabaw and Clarkston at the high school last Thursday.

Actually, now that I think about, it really wasn't strange, just a little unusual.

What am I talking about?

Fans. People rooting for the home team in the stands. (Actually there are no stands, just a lot of grass.)

Where I grew up, we were lucky to get a enough people in the stands at baseball games to play a few hands of pinochle, but not enough to properly cheer on the home team to victory.

In good old St. Clair Shores, maybe all the fans were busy boating on the lake or something. I don't know. They certainly didn't show up at many of the games.

One thing I do know is that it must have given the teams a big lift to see more than just a sprinkling of fans watching their game. Nobody likes to be ignored.

That is not to say there were tons of people at the game. It was far from being overcrowded around the field.

Maybe all these people were really frustrated Tiger baseball fans desperately seeking a better brand of baseball.

I don't know.

But there were enough people milling around to make it look like something of importance was going on.

That was the nice thing about it. People around here care enough to show their faces at local sporting events.

Even the threat of getting wet from a few showers didn't turn away this group of hard-core fans. Many of them didn't even bother to bring raincoats.

Now that's strange.

BREAKFAST SPEAKER: Colleen Engler talked with local citizens last week at the Mat Dunaskiss Breakfast Club. A former state representative, Engler ran for governor in the last primary and was on the Republican ticket for lieutenant governor last fall. Dunaskiss, state representative from Lake Orion, introduced Engler to about 25 people attending the May 8 monthly breakfast club meeting in the 24 Depot Street restaurant in Clarkston. Engler is considering running for the 6th Congressional District against incumbent Bob Carr (D-East Lansing). She wants input from 6th District residents and says she will make a decision by this summer. Dunaskiss, also a Republican, represents the 61st District, which includes Independence and Springfield townships, in the State House. [Photo by Julie Campe]

Radar patrolled

Speeders beware. Three radar units were purchased by the Independence Township board for use in Oakland County Sheriff's cars patrolling the township. The units cost $1,107 each, and they may also be used in other areas. "Radar is portable," said Trustee Daniel Travis. "We can now use radar on Deer Lake. . . . They're not difficult to use in a variety of situations." The revenue from ordinance tickets alone could pay for the purchases in less than a year, said Supervisor Frank Ronk. At the May 5 meeting, the board voted 5-0 to approve the expenditure. Treasurer John Lutz and Trustee Dale Stuart were absent.

Methodist church plans addition

An addition is in the works for the Clarkston United Methodist Church.

"We had a need for more music space, educational space, youth space and office space," said the Rev. Douglas Trebilcock.

"It's been about four years in the planning process," he said.

The 7,000-square-foot two-story addition will also include an elevator, enabling the church to be nearly barrier-free, said Trebilcock.

"That's exciting, too, to make it available to handicapped people," he said.

Ground-breaking took place Easter Sunday for the addition, planned for the east side of the church on Waldon Road, Clarkston.

The addition, on the rear of the building, will leave the front of the church virtually unchanged.

Donations from the congregation and an endowment from the late Harold Fox are to provide the funds for the $670,000 addition, Trebilcock said.

"The need for additional space has been a problem for some time. This is an attempt to give more space," he said.

Neff shares knowledge with Hopi Indians

BY PAT YOUNG

Clarkston News Staff Writer

"If you ever travel to Keams Canyon (Arizona), you'll see a little bit of Clarkston there," Dorothy Neff of Independence Township will tell you.

She ought to know, because she's the one who put it there.

Neff is director of the Chapter I remedial reading program for Clarkston Community Schools, which is nationally recognized as an exemplary program, she says.

She received a grant to travel around the country disseminating information about the program in 1975, but gave up traveling in 1980 because two of her three children were still at home.

Because a description of the program is published by the Office of Education, she still gets inquiries now and then.

She recently received a request to help set up the reading program at a Hopi Indian boarding school in Keams Canyon, Ariz., a government agency village on the Hopi Indian Reservation.

When Neff accepted the invitation to come out to the reservation, she went out and bought a pair of blue jeans.

"I expected to be picked up in an old pickup truck and travel dirt roads," she says, laughing now about the notion.

Instead, the principal and her host, Martin Green, picked her up in a Cadillac. And the roads to the reservation were all paved.

"He said you have to have a good car out there, because if you break down, you're in trouble," Neff says. But the Indians, she added, did drive pickups. Most are poor.

It was a two-and-a-half-hour drive from the airport in Flagstaff to Keams Canyon. They passed only two other vehicles on the way, and there is very little else between Flagstaff and the village besides red-hued mesas, sagebrush and an occasional jack rabbit on the horizon.

It was Neff's first visit to an Indian reservation, but not to the southwest. She had already developed a keen interest in Indian culture years ago when her husband, William, was stationed at Fort Huachuca, near Bisbee, Ariz., while serving in the United States Army.

He, too, works for Clarkston Community Schools, as director of administrative services.

Neff went to the reservation April 27 and spent the next three days training Roger Mase, a Hopi Indian who teaches at the school, and several teachers aides.

"The Hopis and the Navajos both attend the same boarding school," she says. (The Hopi Reservation is surrounded by the larger Navajo Indian Reservation.)

"The school has all the facilities that public schools have," she says, "but there is no way for the Indians to use the education."

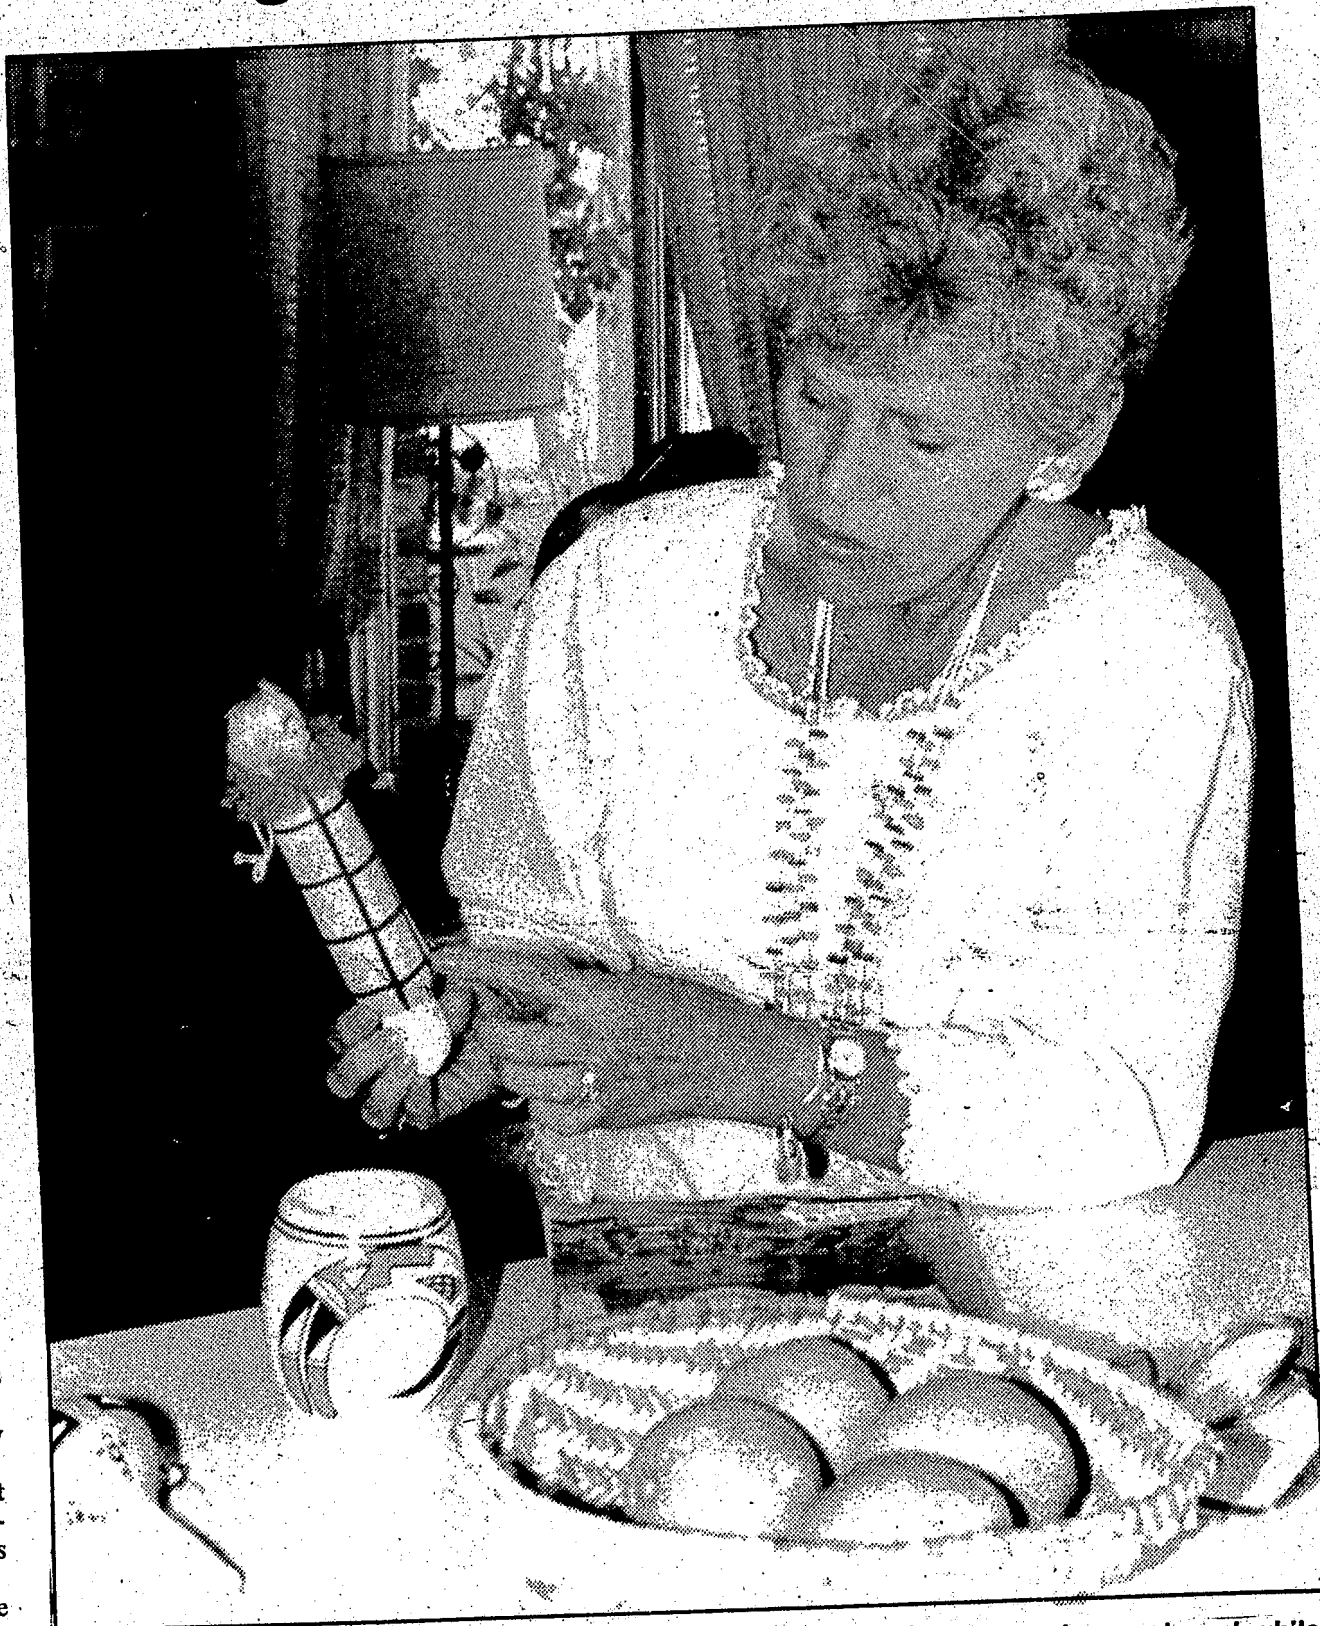

Neff says there is no place to go and nothing for the teens to do, and few jobs when they graduate. Some join the service. Many get in trouble drinking.

"The parents are not the disciplinarians in the family," she says. "An uncle is usually called in for that job."

The Indians speak English at school, but often speak their own language at home.

"There is such a thing as Indian preference on the reservation," Neff adds. If the principal needs new teachers, he must take Indians registered for the job over whites. That is true of all jobs on the reservation, which are mainly at the schools or the small hospital in Keams.

"Mr. Green said that it is difficult to get teachers because there is nothing to do in the village, and the pay is less than at public schools," Neff says. "Because of this, he said the quality of education is probably not as good as in public schools."

Dorothy Neff, director of the Chapter I remedial reading program at Clarkston schools, looks over some of the items she purchased while visiting the Hopi Indian Reservation.

Keams is the largest village. Nearby villages, such as Polacca, Hanoki, Kykotsmobi and Shongopavi, are smaller and have no facilities like Keams. Old Oraibi is the oldest continuous village on the reservation, dating back to the 13th century.

Nearby, Walpi village, a Hopi stronghold against the Spanish dating back to 1680, stands on a rock mesa at 6,225 feet. A popular attraction in the area, it is the site of the famous Hopi snake dance thought to bring rain.

The four days on the reservation were like "being in another world" for Neff. There was no green, just rocks, she says. But there were other differences, too.

"They have a school board for every single school," she says. "In Clarkston, that would mean eight school boards."

"And Hopi women are the heads of the households," she continues. "They own all the property, not the men."

Neff brought back a beautiful Hopi mug made by one of the aides she taught, Betty Navakuku, whose last name means "snow feet."

She also brought back a woven Hopi basket made by Mase's mother, Tressa Sekakuku. Her Hopi name means "yellow feet."

"Roger is a traditionalist," Neff says of the Hopi teacher. "He believes things should be as they were in the past."

But others on the reservation believe things should change and businesses should come in, making jobs for the young people so they can stay on the reservation.

So many leave, and some of the culture dies when they do. Navakuku, the potter who made Neff's mug, learned her craft from her mother in Walpi, but her own children are not interested in learning it now.

But others return to the reservation.

"I talked to one young Indian man who had been a chef at the Four Seasons Restaurant in Boston," Neff says. "He got homesick for the reservation and his people. He came back home to be a cook at the high school."

Computers create necessity

Fourth-graders learn typing techniques

BY PAT YOUNG

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Fourth-graders in Clarkston elementary schools are learning the basics of computer keyboarding through a pilot program.

The month-long keyboarding class, initiated this year, offers a half-hour of instruction daily to pupils with the use of a "type-right" teaching machine.

Instructor Marilyn Allyn, who is also supervisor of the Clarkston Adult Basic Education Program, spent time at each grade school working with the fourth-graders.

"Each child has a machine to work with, and they get immediate feedback," Allyn says. "The machines are programmed for the class. After a minute, the machines will tell (via a readout) how fast the students are typing."

But speed isn't the main concern; accuracy is, according to Allyn.

Research has shown that the fourth grade is a good time to start keyboarding. The hands and motor Fourth-graders [front to back] Dana Wall, Brandon Rettich and Cici Postal concentrate on proper hand position during keyboarding class at Pine Knob Elementary School.

Marilyn Allyn leads the fourth-grade class of Kay Samuel at Pine Knob Elementary School in some keyboarding practice. This school year, Allyn taught computer keyboarding to fourth-graders in Clarkston's five public elementary schools.

New arrival

Mary and Tom Hall of West Bloomfield welcomed their first child into the world May 1.

Matthew Thomas was born at 6:43 p.m. at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac. He weighed 8 pounds, 2 1/2 ounces and measured 21 inches long.

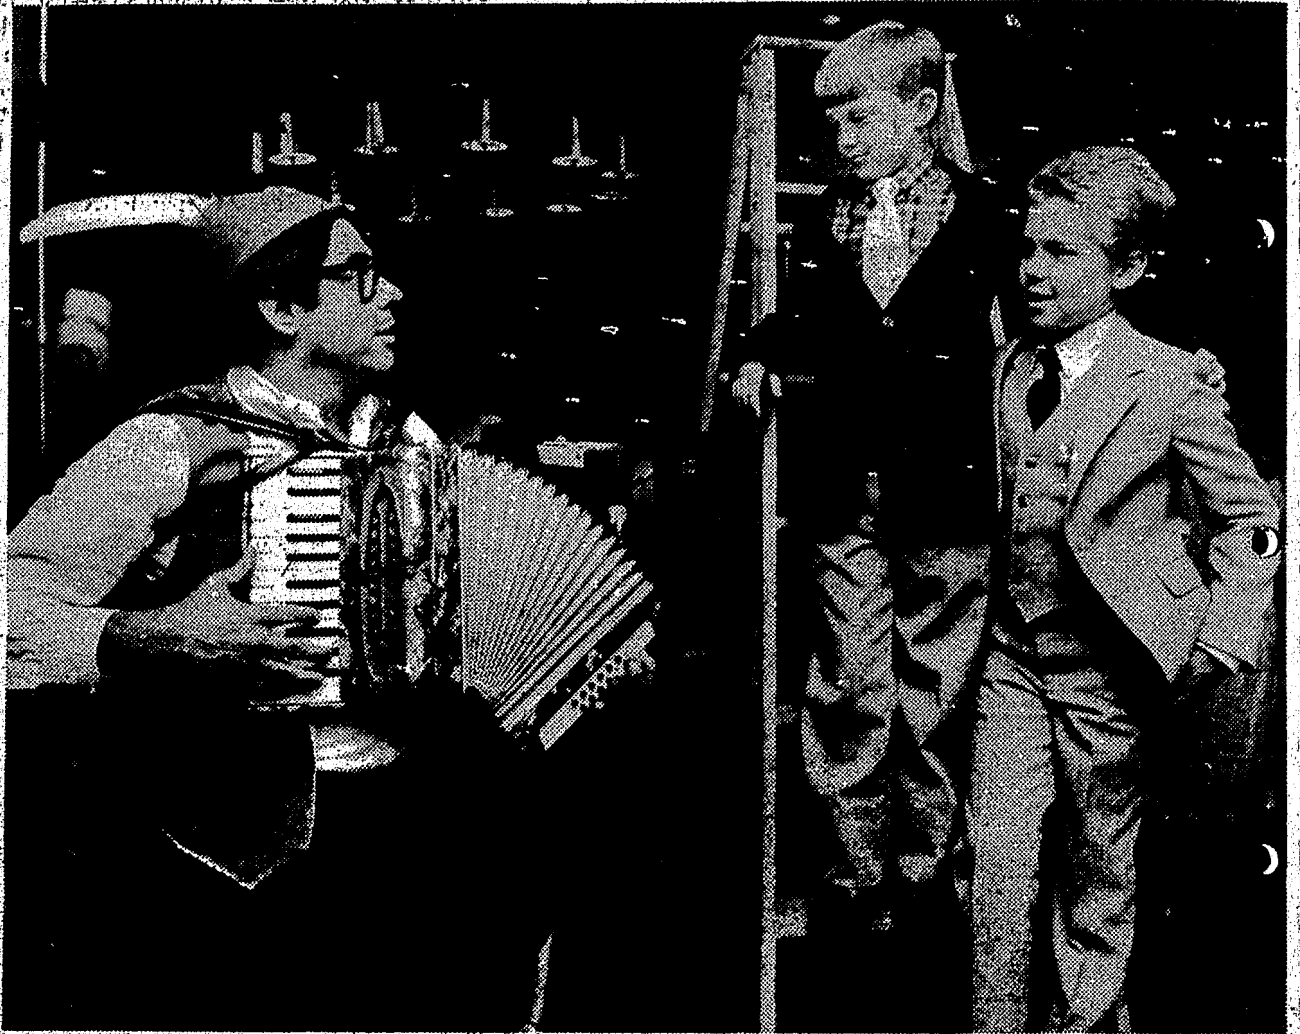

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Delray Hall of Independence Township and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fahrner of Independence Township.

Great-grandmothers are Mrs. Helen Fahrner of Waterford and Mrs. Emma Yarbrough of Midland.

Lamphere-Himes

Richard and Linda Lamphere of Laurelton Road, Independence Township, announce the engagement of their daughter Deborah Lynn to Scott Himes, son of Carolyn and Wendell Oates of Independence Township and Gary and Wilma Himes of Waterford. The bride-elect, a 1980 Clarkston High School graduate, was graduated from IBA State College of Beauty in 1986. She is employed by Expressions II Salon, Cape Haze, Fla. Her fiancé, also a 1980 CHS graduate, is an assistant manager at the Flying Bridge II restaurant in Englewood, Fla. A July wedding is planned.

Jeff Sutton (center), a first-grader at North Sashabaw Elementary School, portrays one of the children in a wedding reception scene in

Locals to appear in 'Hamtramck'

Four members of an Independence Township family portray guests at a wedding reception in the new situation comedy "Hamtramck," which debuts May 14 at 9:30 p.m. on Channel 4, WDIV-TV.

Linda Sutton and her three children, Jeff, 7, Joshua, 13, and Jennifer, 10, were all "extras" in the wedding reception scene for the production.

"My cousin, Sheryl Ross, is production coordinator and needed some extras," says Sutton, who lives with her husband, Dan and children in Independence Township.

"Hamtramck" is created, written and produced by Detroit area talent.

"This is an unprecedented event in Detroit television," said Henry Maldonado, program co-producer.

"It is an entertaining situation comedy made in and about Detroit with the high quality standards of a network production."

"Hamtramck" is the story of the Hamlin family of Detroit's eastside and the conflict that develops when Marian Hamlin decides to marry what her father calls a "foreigner," a westside man from Farmington Hills.

Though it's a one-time show, it is contracted to do three more in the fall, Sutton says, so there may be another chance for the Sutton family to appear in the television show.

"It was a neat experience for my kids," Linda says. "They've all been on stage with the Lakeland Players in Waterford, but never on television."

Kids excited about computers

skills are developing, and the students are excited about computers.

In the fifth grade, students will be introduced to word processing, and in the sixth, computer programming.

"Our main emphasis is on correct positioning," Allyn says as she leads the class in some simple dictation and word recall. "Correct positioning of the hands (on the home row) and eyes up (not looking at the keyboard) are important."

Smiling and encouraging the students, Allyn works on accuracy, and urges the students to suggest words to try. She also involves the teachers in the half-hour class.

"They're a real big help," she says.

Allyn also takes the students on a "field trip" to the computer lab at the school to demonstrate how they can transfer their programs into the computers.

Each school has about eight type-rights for practice, and Allyn takes the remainder of the machines from school to school as she teaches.

"It's important that each student has a machine to work with," she says.

The pilot program was presented by Allyn and Paul Witek, computer coordinator for Clarkston Community Schools, to a state-wide convention in Detroit, and the response from other school districts was good, Allyn says.

The students do amazingly well. One of her pupils recorded 114 strokes per minute on the machine, and the norm is as high as 50.

"We're real proud of the program," Allyn says.

Summer school sign-up

Summer school at the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center will begin Monday, June 22, and end Thursday, July 30.

Classes meet Monday through Thursday from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. Students can earn one-half or one high school credit upon successful completion.

Tuition for high school students and graduates under 20 as of Sept. 1, 1987, and adults without a high school diploma is $35 for a one-credit program and $20 for a one-half credit program.

High school graduates over 20 will pay $150 for tuition for a one-credit program and $75 for a one-half credit program.

One credit programs are: metal machine trades, computer accounting and applications, electronics, and dental lab techniques.

One-half credit programs are Word Processing Workshop (must have keyboarding experience), in session June 22-July 9; and Problem Solving/Forecasting Using Lotus 1-2-3, in session July 13-30.

Registrations are being taken at the center at 8211 Big Lake Rd., Springfield Township. Call 625-5202 for more information.

Michigan at library

A free program on "Great Lakes Shipwrecks" is planned Wednesday, May 20, at the Springfield Township Library in celebration of the Michigan Sesquicentennial.

The multi-media presentation by David Trotter of Undersea Research Associates will be presented from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

Also in honor of the state's 150th birthday celebration, the library is:

- Conducting a raffle for the book "Michigan, a history of the Wolverine State;"

- Sponsoring a "Historical Photo Contest" beginning May 18 with prizes for those who can locate the most historical buildings still in use;

- And giving away Michigan maps.

The library is at 10900 Andersonville Rd. Call 625-0595 for more information.

BLOSSOM MAKER: Marlas Greiger is working toward certification as a master gardener through the Michigan State Cooperative Extension Service of Oakland County. The designation requires 40 hours of volunteer work and Greiger is working to perk up the courtyard and sidewalks between Independence Township Hall and the Township Hall Annex. "There's going to be annuals and blossoms everywhere, so it's going to be wonderful," she said. The township purchased the supplies. A Springfield Township resident, Greiger said she enjoys gardening and works at Bordine's in the greenhouse. "So I have everything," she said.

Timely donation for town clock

A timely contribution of about $3,000 toward the town clock came just before the deadline from a donor who wished to remain anonymous, said Frank Ronk, Independence Township Supervisor.

About $18,000 was raised, allowing the township sesquicentennial committee to send a check for the clock, to be delivered at the end of May, said Rita Burdick, committee chairperson.

Donations ranged from $3 to over $1,000, she said.

"We all worked very hard on it, and I'm very happy," she said, adding they expect another $2,500 from various organizations.

The 1904 Seth Thomas clock is to be purchased from a Florida antique dealer in celebration of the township's 150th birthday.

A dedication ceremony is planned for July 4th, although the committee has yet to decide where to put the clock.

The committee's goal for the town clock was $23,000, to cover the purchase, transportation and maintenance, so they're still looking for contributions, said Burdick, adding even small contributions add up.

"It's nice that people showed that interest and wanted to help their community," she said.

Knowledge masters almost reign in state

BY KATHY GREENFIELD
Clarkston News Editor

A team of Clarkston Junior High School students placed second in the state out of 26 schools and 87th in the nation out of 816 schools in the National Knowledge Masters Open.

"I'm very proud of them; very proud," said Suvonne Hogan, media specialist at CJHS and team sponsor. "They were ecstatic, of course. They should be proud of themselves."

The contest involved computers and 200 multiple choice questions. Sponsored by Academic Hallmarks of Durango, Colo., it included a contest last fall, in which the CJHS team placed first in the state. The fee, which covered both contests, was $45.

The purpose is "to recognize academic excellence," Hogan said. "The students do not receive any kind of award other than the knowledge they've done a good job."

After one period for practice the week preceding the contest, the students gathered around a computer. At the keyboard, Hogan could not see the questions, only direct the computer to place them on the screen.

The students had two tries to choose the correct answer. If the answer was correct the first time, bonus points were awarded for quickness. If the answer was correct the second time, two points were awarded.

The questions were related to the secondary school curriculum, with emphasis on mathematics (25 questions) and academic subjects. For fun, the list included two questions on "useless trivia."

"They enjoyed it so much, because it's competition—just the idea it's a national competition—and the results are back so quickly," Hogan said.

The team members, who volunteered to participate in the National Knowledge Master Open, were ninth-graders Matt Cook, Matt Forester, Ed Gilleland, Becky Kar, Wendy Manning, Dave McGuire, Ben O'Rourke, Sarah Taylor and Mark Young; eighth-graders Ethan Lee, Mike Mayer, Robbie Taylor and Jeff Waite; and seventh-grader Natalie Burge.

Friend to friend

Sweat it out

Dear Friend to Friend,

I have this friend that I don't understand at all. Lately, I've been confused about what I should do about this friend.

It seems like every time I talk to her, she is putting me down or is being really sarcastic toward me. This really upsets me, because I feel as if she's trying to tell me in her own little way that she hates me.

I've told her that it really upsets me when she does that, but it didn't really help. She's still doing it.

In a couple of months, I'm going to be away across the U.S. and I'll probably not hear from her too often. I really don't want our friendship to diminish like that.

Should I put up with her putdowns and sarcasm and hope she'll respect my feelings soon or should I stop trying with her even though I care about her a lot?

Confused

Dear Confused,

We understand why this is a frustrating situation. It is confusing because there is a conflict. She says she likes you on the one hand but verbally abuses you on the other.

We feel that you have taken the right steps by discussing your feelings about the situation. If she hasn't considered how you feel, then maybe you should spend a little time away from her.

Nobody deserves to be verbally abused. However, if this is a pattern in other relationships, maybe it is time to take an honest look at yourself.

After doing so and if you have not experienced this treatment in other relationships, then we suggest you become involved with other friends.

But keep an open mind because your friend may be going through some tough problems herself. Your friend might be going through what is called "separation anxiety" and her putdowns may be creating an atmosphere that makes it less painful when you leave.

Dear Friend to Friend,

It seems like the nearer graduation gets, the more pressure I am experiencing. Even though my parents keep the pressure on, I am developing the attitude that I don't care about my grades.

I have already been accepted to college and just want to enjoy the final days of my senior year. Any advice?

Senioritis

Dear Senioritis,

We feel there are two options to consider, but please think of the consequences of each before you decide.

First of all, you can just blow off school. The advantage would be having fun, but how will you feel with the consequences of letting yourself down, let alone how your parents would be feeling?

The second option is to sweat it out—there are only a few weeks left.

The advantage with this option is to feel good about your accomplishments, please your parents and build toward a promising future. You do have the summer to enjoy yourself.

Dear Friend to Friend,

Why are you doing this?

Dear Why,

We feel that it is important for people to have a place to turn to express their feelings. Sometimes it is nice to turn to someone who doesn't know you to get objective advice.

We feel that members of our panel have a variety of backgrounds and almost always there is someone in the group who can relate to a particular problem.

Letters to Friend to Friend are answered by a panel of Clarkston High School students working under the sponsorship of Aware, a community group devoted to action and education against chemical dependency.

Students can submit letters by placing them in the designated "problem locker" at CHS, Clarkston Junior High School or Sashabaw Junior High School.

Letters can also be sent to Friend to Friend in care of The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main, Clarkston, MI 48016.

Brenda on beauty

Soft is in

Brenda Ward

Look at the covers of your favorite magazines. The faces on the models are fresh and the makeup is barely there.

I'm certainly not suggesting that we all have model faces. A lot of work goes into those pictures and even though the makeup may look minimal, some makeup artist probably spent hours perfecting it on the model.

My point is to make an example of this spring and summer's very pretty, ultra-feminine look in makeup.

The big emphasis—skin that is in the best condition—you can achieve.

If you don't follow a regular skin care routine at home, now is the time to indulge in a professional facial. It will certainly give you a head start on the glow of summer.

The better shape your skin is in, the less time you have to spend on your makeup. After all, I've never met a woman who wanted to spend more than 15 minutes on her makeup in the morning.

I'm not advocating cover girl fussiness or photographic perfection; but a makeup look that is individual, natural and that adapts into your routine easily.

As guidelines, remember:

- Less is more.
- Soft is in.
- Don't go for an overdone look. Pick one feature, eyes or mouth, and emphasize it. The total effect should not be bold.
- Do not rely entirely on the color of the clothes you are wearing when selecting shades of makeup. Put the big consideration on the color of your skin and its undertones, the color of your eyes and the color of your hair.

Now that you have the look that you want in mind, here are a few pointers on application.

Foundation—Use foundation or makeup base only if you need the coverage to correct uneven skin tones or cover marks or blemishes.

I only use foundation on a client in the areas that she needs it. It is not a necessity. If you have smooth, clear skin, show it! Also, with the oncoming warmer days, you will be much more comfortable with less.

Dry skins need an emollient base. Oily skins will find staying power in a water base. Apply foundation with a clean makeup sponge for a sheer flawless finish.

Oily skin should be dusted with powder at this point to protect against shininess. Your foundation should match your skin exactly. If you have to blend it onto your neck, you're using the wrong color.

Eye shadow—Look for soft, muted pastels and dark smoky colors like taupe, slate grays and rich mauves. Save the frosted shadows for evening and then don't be shy about touches of gold, silver or copper.

The secret here is blending. I always feel like an artist when I apply eye shadow to a face. This is an area in which you should take your time. For a well-blended finish, invest in a small sable brush.

If your shadow tends to crease, or your skin is oily, use an eye shadow base.

Eye pencils are an excellent tool for accenting eyes. Use a soft stroke; smudge harsh lines.

Use shades of deep greens, blues, browns and violets. The days of harsh black are gone. Follow with mascara, only one coat for daytime. Save dramatic lashes for evening.

Blush—This is the minimal color emphasis this year. Blush should be very well blended—just a hint of color in clear reds, pinks or melons.

Dark colors are out on the cheeks. Use blush to give the face soft contour. I have my best results using a soft brush.

Save the little brushes they provide in the compact for your purse or for quick touch-ups.

If your brush color goes on too bright, soften with clear face powder.

Lipstick—Lipstick is back big. We're back to the days of glamour girls on this one. On the lips, any color goes.

To make your lipstick last, apply foundation to your lips lightly. Blot with pressed powder. Outline the shape of your lips with a lip liner as close to your lipstick shade as possible. Fill in with your lipstick shade and blot with a tissue. This is a kiss-proof, dinner-proof application.

These are basic makeup applications. If you have specific questions or need more detailed advice, all beauty questions will receive a reply.

Put your best face forward. Have a beautiful week.

Brenda Ward, a Waterford Township resident, works in Independence Township as a skin care specialist, makeup artist and manicurist.

Readers with beauty questions can write to her in care of The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main, Clarkston, MI 48016.

Two in SEMCOG

Two Independence Township board members were appointed township representatives to the Southeastern Michigan Council of Governments.

At the May 5 meeting, the township board appointed Trustee William Vandermark as the township's representative and Supervisor Frank Ronk as alternate.

SEMCOG was established to jointly accomplish goals in areas in which governments may work together, such as roads or waste.

OFFICIAL NOTICE

Charter Township of Independence Notice of Township Clean-Up Days

The Charter Township of Independence will sponsor Township Clean-up Days Saturday, the 16th and Sunday, the 17th of May. Township residents may bring their trash to the DPW building located on Flemmings Lake Road for disposal. The hours of operation are from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. both days. Proof of residency will be required before dumping will be allowed.

Because of the tremendous costs of disposal, the Township is forced to levy a fee for dumping. Fees are as follows:

| ITEM | PER LOAD |
|----------------------------------|----------|
| Automobile | $ 5.00 |
| Auto with single axle trailer | 10.00 |
| Pick-up truck | 10.00 |
| Pick-up with single axle trailer | 25.00 |
| Flatbed single axle truck | 25.00 |
| Dual axle trailer | 25.00 |
| 5 yd. dump truck | 25.00 |

The following material will not be allowed to be dumped: Fuel oil drums, barrels, propane cylinders, automobiles or vehicles of any kind, chemicals of any kind.

Tickets for dumping may be obtained at the Township Treasurer's office located at the Township Hall, 90 North Main St., Clarkston, MI. Tickets will also be on sale at the dump site the weekend of the clean-up.

A CONSUMER SHOPPING TIP

When waterproofing your basement, make sure your contractor's reputable. Read your contract carefully before signing. Question all language you don't understand. Be prepared to remove your own interior basement walls if contract so states. And don't let a salesman tell you soil conditions and water table are irrelevant. They're important.

Bone up on calcium

Betty Wagner

Mother's Day and this week following have been designated as National Osteoporosis Prevention Week by Congress for the third consecutive year.

Osteoporosis, a disorder characterized by loss of bone tissue and an increase in fractures of the spine, hip and wrist, affects 24 million Americans. Most victims are older females.

Prevent this debilitating disorder by:

1. Eating a well-balanced diet that is high in calcium.
2. Exercising regularly using muscles that resist gravity such as walking and jogging.
3. Using alcohol and caffeine moderately and refraining from smoking.

The milk group is the primary source of calcium. The following recipes feature low-fat dairy products. Serve them to your mother for a great May gift.

ASPARAGUS SOUP

Adapted from "Microwaving on a Diet," published by Cy DeCasse Inc.

- 1 pound fresh asparagus spears, cut in pieces
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1/2 cup hot water
- 12-ounce can evaporated skim milk
- 1 medium onion, chopped
- 1 teaspoon instant chicken bouillon
- Nutmeg

Wash asparagus; snap off woody ends. Place in rectangular microwavable dish, cover with plastic wrap and microwave at high for 7 to 8 minutes, rotating dish once. Set aside.

Melt butter in 2-quart Pyrex dish. Add chopped onions; saute at high for 1 1/2 to 2 minutes. Add flour; microwave at high for 30 to 40 seconds.

Dissolve bouillon in hot water. Stir into onions. Stir in evaporated milk. Cover and cook at high for 4 to 5 minutes, stirring half way through. Cool mixture slightly.

Add asparagus pieces. Place soup in food processor or blender. Process until desired consistency. Add more low-fat milk or water for a thinner soup.

Return to 2-quart dish; heat at 80 percent power until desired serving temperature.

LAYERED FISH BAKE

Adapted from "Microwaving Light & Healthy," published by Cy DeCasse Inc.

- 6 uncooked lasagna noodles
- 1 can tomato paste
- 1 can whole tomatoes
- 1/4 teaspoon fennel seed
- 1/4 teaspoon thyme
- 1/4 teaspoon grated lemon peel
- 1/8 teaspoon cayenne pepper
- 6 to 8 large fresh mushrooms, sliced
- 1/2 cup shredded low-moisture, part-skim mozzarella cheese
- 1 bay leaf
- 1 pound fish fillets
- 15 ounces part-skim ricotta cheese
- 2 tablespoons snipped fresh parsley
- 1 tablespoon grated Parmesan cheese
- 2 tablespoons skim milk
- 1/4 teaspoon garlic powder

Prepare noodles as directed on package. Drain and set aside. In a 2-quart microwavable casserole, combine tomatoes, tomato paste, fennel, thyme, lemon peel, cayenne pepper and bay leaf.

Cover; microwave at high for 5 minutes, stirring once. Set aside.

Arrange fish in 8- or 9-inch-square microwavable dish. Cover with waxed paper. Microwave at high 4 minutes. Drain, flake and set aside.

Combine ricotta cheese, parsley, milk, Parmesan cheese and garlic powder in medium bowl. Remove bay leaf from tomato sauce.

Cover bottom of baking dish with noodles. Top noodles with half the tomato mixture, half the sliced mushrooms and half the flaked fish. Top with half the ricotta cheese and half the mozzarella cheese.

Repeat with all except remaining mozzarella cheese. Cover with waxed paper. Microwave at 50 percent (medium) for 20 minutes or until heated through. Add remaining mozzarella cheese. Let stand until melted.

Home economist Betty Wagner resides in Independence Township. Her "Microwave Plus" cable-TV show appears at 7 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays on Independence-Clarkston channel 11.

CHS teen center a success, plans underway for summer

After a successful opening night at the Clarkston High School Teen Center, the organizers are looking forward to the second session on Saturday, May 16.

"I don't think they had a huge turnout, but it wasn't bad," said Merelyn Mallett, president of Clarkston Area Youth Assistance.

"The ones who worked said the kids who were there had a wonderful time," she said. "They played euchre and ate pizza and were very well-behaved."

A committee of CHS students and adult members of Youth Assistance established the teen center, which made its debut May 2. The center is run by students.

Students in grades nine through 12 who attend

Clarkston schools may participate, and each may bring a guest, if desired. Guests must also be high school students. Hours are 7 to 11 p.m. with the doors locked at 9 p.m. Admission is $1.

Activities include volleyball and basketball in the gymnasium, games and dancing. Pizza and pop are sold at cost.

Plans are to continue with the CHS Teen Center on June 5 and 19, and perhaps through the summer if students are willing to continue working at the center and there is enough participation, Mallett said.

Plans are firm to reopen the center on a regular basis beginning next fall when the new school year begins, she said.

PRAYER TO THE Holy Spirit. Holy Spirit you who make me see everything and who shows me the way to reach my ideal. You who give me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me and you who are in all instances of my life with me. I in this short dialogue, want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you, no matter how great the material desires may be. I want to be with you and my loved ones in your perpetual glory. Amen. Thank you for your love towards me and my loved ones. Pray this prayer 3 consecutive days without asking your wish, after the third day your wish will be granted, no matter how difficult it may be. Then promise to publish this prayer as soon as your favor has been granted. Wish granted. M.M. ILLX19-1

Renata Srugls, a ninth-grader, prepares to display her automatic shoe cleaner.

Nicole Dolsen's mess-free rodent cage probably makes her parents as happy as she is about her invention. The entire student body displayed their creations at the Invention Convention Friday in the Sashabaw Junior High School cafeteria.

Before returning to class Friday, Todd Thornberry checks out Jeff Snyder's aericele diving apparatus.

If Julie Johnston has her way, Trivia Hangman will be the best-selling game of 1988. Here Tam-

Invention Convention

BY JULIE CAMPE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Ideas ran rampant at the Invention Convention at Sashabaw Junior High School Friday, when the entire student body showcased their original creations.

A doggie drier by Amy Rayner includes a dog-sized tube filled with shredded paper towel for a dog to run through after a bath or a walk in the rain.

A rocket-powered skateboard by Mark Frasa is the challenge kids all over the world have been waiting for.

Velcro bed sheets by Aaron Meyer are sure to change American lifestyles by putting an end to sheet-tucking.

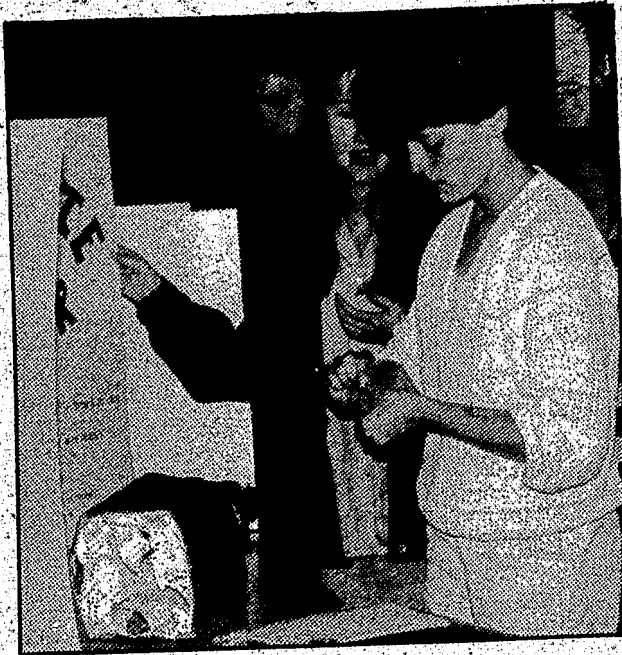

Chris Wasil's squeezable jelly tube, made of flexible plastic, is planned to eliminate sticky jelly jars and knives, making jelly easier to spread.

Shannon Glova's heated toilet seat will probably peak in sales this winter.

A snore preventer practically ensures the end of sleepless nights by those who sleep with snorers. A ball sewed into the back of a piece of clothing prevents people from sleeping on their backs—the most common snoring position. The inventor is unknown at this time.

The six-week project at the school included an "intent to invent" form, a research paper on an inventor, a mock patent application and the actual invention. The invention didn't have to work perfectly, but it did have to be original, said Roger Bower, coordinator of the program.

The projects were graded and the kids received ribbons for participation or merit. Parents viewed the projects Friday night.

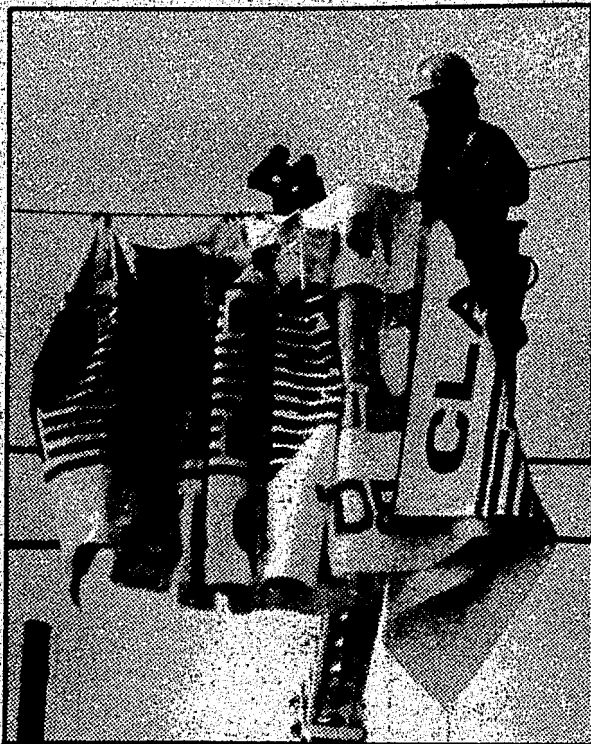

For the dog, Amy Rayner dreams up the doggie drier for the family's favorite animal to run through after a bath or a walk in the rain.

Clarkston USA Fun Daze

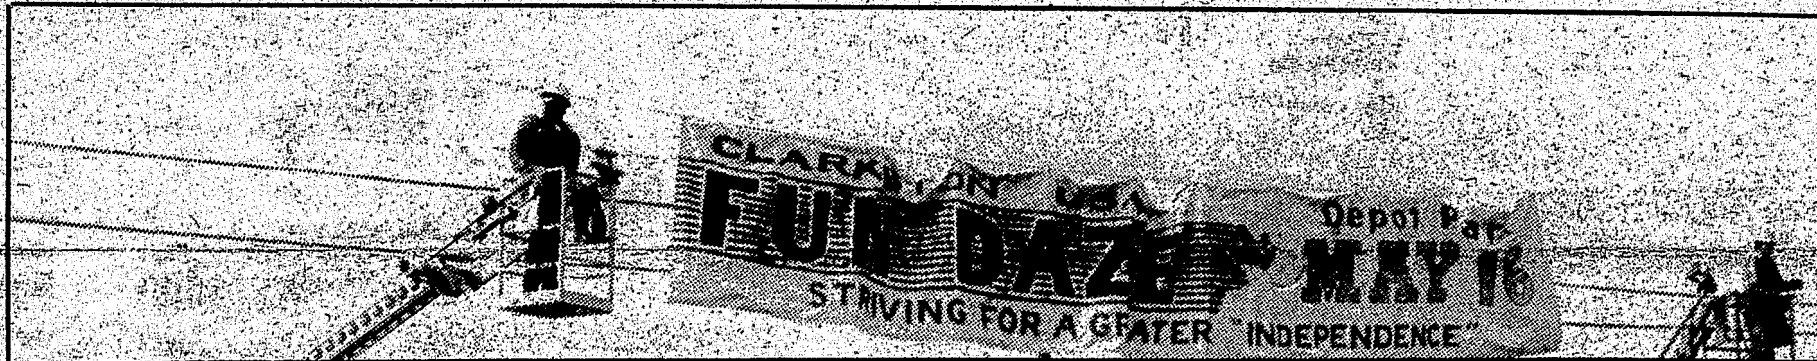

is Saturday, May 16, in Depot Park

A supplement to The Clarkston News and Penny Stretcher

May 13, 1987

The banner goes up over Main Street with the help of Michigan Bell employees.

The Fun Daze schedule of events

In the beginning, some members of the Clarkston Rotary Club decided to add another fundraising effort to their agenda.

The idea came up for a running event and the first planning session was about a year and one-half ago.

After numerous meetings and hours spent on expanding the original idea, Clarkston USA Fun Daze emerged with several organizations participating.

The first-time event is on Saturday, May 16, with the bulk of activities from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. in Clarkston's Depot Park on Depot Road, adjacent to Village Hall and behind the Clarkston Mills Mall.

"The Fun Daze is no more, no less than a vehicle by the people for the people," said chairperson Dick Greenfield. "It is meant to be a vehicle the township can count on every year the weekend before Memorial Day.

"The steering committee has adopted 'Striving for a Greater Independence' as the motto to stand by, not only this year but in years to come."

Profits from the $2 Fun Daze button sales and the raffle will be used for improvements in Depot Park and other community projects. People wearing buttons (or hand stamps if the buttons sell out) will be able to take advantage of several activities in the park.

Plans are already under way for next year's Fun Daze and people are talking about a two-day event, Greenfield said, with a street dance, dog show, parade and display of antique cars and boats as possibilities for the future.

This year, Fun Daze includes a variety of activities suited for all ages and interests. The schedule of events in Depot Park includes the following:

7 a.m.—Registration begins for the runners and walkers. All participants in the 1-mile or 5-kilometer fun walks or runs and the 5-K and 10-K races must register. Those who have pre-registered for the 10-K and 5-K races can pick up their race packets with numbers and T-shirts.

Fees for the 10-K and 5-K races are $9. Medals will be awarded to all participants in these two events and the fee includes a T-shirt. Trophies will be awarded to the top two male and female finishers in each division—12 and under; 13 to 17; 18 to 29; 30 to 49; and 50 and over.

The races are co-sponsored by the Clarkston Rotary Club, the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department and Runnin' Gear.

8:30 a.m.—Breakfast is served by Independence Township firefighters. For about $2, the menu will be corned beef, scrambled eggs, roll, juice and coffee. The breakfast will continue until the food runs out.

9 a.m.—Raffle tickets go on sale. The cost is $1 apiece or six for $5. The prizes, donated by local merchants, include a membership to the Deer Lake Racquet Club, season passes to the Pine Knob Ski Resort, a hot air balloon ride, dinners, brunches, baked goods, bagels and gift certificates. Profits from the raffle will be used for improvements to Depot Park and/or other sites in the community.

9 a.m.—The entertainment begins. Music will be provided by the Independence Township Senior Center band "The Senior Strummers" and disc jockeys playing Top 40s music other tunes.

The Clarkston Rotary Clown Troupe makes its debut appearance. The Oakland County Parks and Recreation Department will provide a moonwalk for children and other activities. A strolling magician will tie balloons and perform on-the-spot tricks.

Popcorn and cotton candy will be available from the Clarkston Optimist Club; the Clarkston Christian School will sell baked goods; and Fun Daze button wearers will be provided with free soft drinks from Burger King and free ice cream provided by E.F. Hutton, the corporate sponsor of Fun Daze.

Also on display will be the E.F. Hutton "cold air" balloon for an upclose look at a flying machine.

9:15 a.m.—The 1-mile fun walk or run begins. Each participant will be encouraged to carry a free green or yellow helium balloon imprinted with Fun Daze. (There will be no medals or awards for this event.)

10 a.m.—The 5-K walk, 5-K run and 10-K run begin. Participants will be encouraged to carry Fun Daze balloons. Along the way, at least three aid stations will provide runners and walkers with water, orange slices and other treats.

At the end of the runs, participants will be asked to vote on their favorite aid station—the winner will receive a trophy. Refreshments for runners at the finishing line will include granola, yogurt, sparkling spring water and oranges.

11:30 a.m.—Emcee Brent Cooley leads the opening ceremony featuring celebrity guest Joe Falls. An Independence Township resident, Falls is sports editor and columnist for The Detroit News. A Clarkston Rotary Club member, Cooley is assistant principal at Clarkston High School.

Noon—A free magic show, one-half hour long, is presented by Doug Scheer. Audience participation, comedy and a variety of illusions are planned during The "Scheer" Magic Show.

12:30 p.m.—The awards ceremony begins and the winners of the races will receive their trophies. Winners will be drawn for the raffle prizes at this time, as well.

Artist Jeanne Howley talks about painting the Fun Daze banner as it's put in place in downtown Clarkston. Due to the toxic paint fumes, Howley painted the banner in a barn.

Banner was created in barn

BY ALISA NASS
Clarkston News Special Writer

The colorful Fun Daze banner in downtown Clarkston took minutes to put in place compared to the hours Jeanne Howley spent painting it.

The banner took two days to paint, one for each side, said Howley. Made by an awning company from vinyl, it measures 30-by-5 feet.

"When I painted it in the barn, it was across one wall and around the corner," said Howley.

"But when you get it up there it looks like a postage stamp," she said as three men from Michigan Bell hung the banner around 9 a.m. on May 1. The posters advertising Fun Daze were also painted by Howley.

Howley, who lives near Sashabaw and Maybee roads in Independence Township, has painted banners for churches to collision shops.

As an artist, Howley began painting banners as "something to pay for my brushes and paints," she said. Howley has sold her paintings around the area mainly by word of mouth.

Breakfast with a difference

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

No one can ever accuse the Independence Firefighters of standing pat.

Instead of serving their usual all-you-can-eat pancake breakfasts, the firefighters will cook up corned beef hash, scrambled eggs and cinnamon rolls along with juice and coffee to celebrate the first Fun Daze in Depot Park on May 16.

"We wanted to do something different," said Gar Wilson, acting fire chief. On Labor Day, the firefighters dish up pancakes for breakfast.

"We couldn't afford to do (the pancake breakfast) since we have a man come out and cook them for us."

The cost of the breakfast, which will start at 8:30 a.m. and end at noon or when the food's gone, will be about $2.

Wilson said he has tried to keep the cost as low as possible.

The money raised from the breakfast will go into their general fund and will probably be donated to charities like the Burn Center and the Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy fundraiser, Wilson said.

"Right now we don't have the money earmarked for anything," he said.

One problem the firefighters have run into so far is attendance. They have no idea how many people will show up at Fun Daze and that makes buying the proper amount of food difficult.

Wilson said he expects approximately 150 people to eat breakfast in Depot Park.

"We don't want to overbuy," he said.

Clarkston teens embrace Fun Daze effort

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Besides those running or walking, at least four other Clarkston High School students will be involved with Clarkston's first Fun Daze.

As in any walk or run, the participants need refreshments—especially water. Manning one of about five aid stations will be Kristi Martin and Kirsten Kuehl of the Blue and Gold Club.

Matt [left] and Paul Zabel look forward to getting the runners "fired-up" before the Fun Daze run next week. The brothers work as disc jockeys at dances.

Members of the club, formed this year to perform school and community services, plan to paint banners and make up cheers or songs of encouragement, said Martin, adding she's looking forward to the day.

"They say some people are really serious about it, and they won't even stop for water, so you have to run along beside them to give them their water," she said.

Martin and Kuehle are serious about the run, too. At the end of the race, the runners are going to vote for their favorite aid station, said Martin. They hope to be one of the best.

Before the run even starts, twins Matt and Paul Zabel have something in mind to get the runners "fired-up."

"We'll play inspirational music like 'Rocky' or 'Chariots of Fire' and top 40," said Matt.

As disc jockeys, they and their partner Doug Schiete, are well equipped for the task. Since November, they've been playing music for high school and junior high school dances—mostly "old stuff—50s and 60s music," Matt said.

Stationed at the Depot pavilion, they plan to let their assistant principal and Daze emcee Brent Cooley use their microphone, said Matt.

Cooley is proud of the students' involvement.

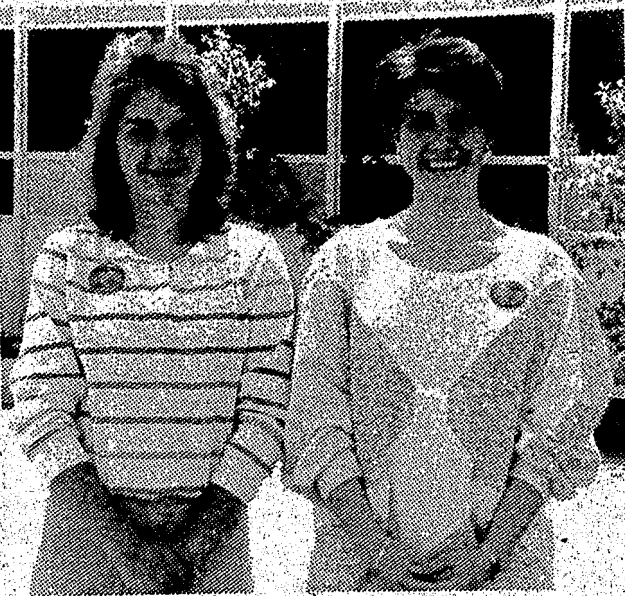

"There's a lot of excitement building for Fun Daze," he said.

"We need to have community kinds of activities for kids. We have a lot, but we don't have enough.

Kids should have a vehicle for expressing their concern for the community.

"We know kids are going to be involved and active one way or another, but why not help and offer something constructive?

"It's just good to see kids be a part of the effort," he said.

Kristi Martin [right] and Kirsten Kuehl are part of the 50-member Blue and Gold Club at CHS.

REACT will watch

If runners or walkers in the Clarkston USA Fun Daze events need help, Oakland County REACT will be on the job.

The volunteer organization plans to establish a communications center in Depot Park and place 10 to 12 people in CB-equipped vehicles or with hand-held CBs along the race courses.

"Their primary purpose is simply to be there in case someone needs assistance," said Carole Wiggins, treasurer of the REACT team. "If people are in trouble, they can look for REACT people."

The team performs an identical service in Clarkston each year during the annual Walk for SCAMP. They also work at the West Bloomfield Half-Marathon, the Troy Walk for Mankind and the Senior Citizen Olympics at the Orchard Ridge Campus of Oakland Community College.

Free family entertainment

He'll bring 'Scheer' magic

BY KATHY GREENFIELD
Clarkston News Editor

When magician Doug Scheer presents The "Scheer" Magic Show at noon on Fun Daze in Clarkston's Depot Park, he might look familiar.

Now 21, the Southfield resident has been doing magic shows, since age 11, as far north as Frankenmuth and as far south as Charlotte, N.C.

"It's been my passion for 10 years—longer than that, really, because when I was young, I never thought of anything else for a while," he says.

He has staged about 2,000 magic shows, including 435 as featured entertainer at Carowinds Amusement Park in North Carolina.

He's also put on mini-magic shows at tablesides in restaurants such as Marvin Gardens in Birmingham, Carlos Murphy's in Southfield and Warren, Pistachio's in East Lansing and the Pour House Restaurant in Lansing.

A senior at Michigan State University, Scheer plans to graduate in June with a degree in communications.

He's managed to pay practically all his college expenses by performing as a magician and in the process, he found his career goal.

He's going to become a full-time magician.

"It's a great time," he says. "I don't plan to have a real job for a long time."

For Fun Daze, he'll do "a family-type show where the kids and everyone will enjoy it," he says.

Outdoor performances can be tricky because of such factors as the wind, but among the certainties during Scheer's half-hour show are sawing somebody from the audience in half, mind reading, lots of comedy, the use of volunteers and a rabbit magically produced at the end of the show.

"People who see a lot of magic might be interested to see this show because they'll see a lot of things they've never seen before," he says.

Before the free show, Scheer plans to mingle with the crowd at Depot Park. He'll tie balloons into animal shapes and share close-up magic—"pulling coins out of ears and things like that."

He'll also pass out booklets with how-tos on easy-to-master magic tricks.

"Magic is something anybody can learn. Anyone can do what I am doing, any 5-year-old can learn to do this—with about 10 years' practice," he says.

Magic has been part of Doug Scheer's life since he was a kindergartner and saw a magician perform. "I was astounded—for the rest of my life," he says.

"The Senior Strummers" include Donald Counts, bass guitar; Stanley Fay, drums; Russ Perry, guitar; Francis Rose, fiddle; and Herb

Senior band's 'rarin to go'

Members of the Independence Township Senior Citizen group will help out in several different ways at Fun Daze on May 16.

"The Senior Strummers" will provide country-western music and oldies but goodies from 9 to 10 a.m. and 1 to 2 p.m. at the gazebo in Depot Park.

"We've been confined all winter and rarin' to go," said member Russ Perry.

The seniors will also help blow up helium balloons from 9 a.m. and will man a water station for the running races, which start at 10 a.m.

Fun Daze-goers who use designated parking lots will find getting to the village park easier, thanks to the seniors. The two senior citizen vans will be available to shuttle people from distant parking lots starting at 9 a.m.

Bring on the clowns

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Greasepaint faces framed by bushy wigs and preposterous, brightly colored outfits are not the usual garb for businessmen.

But for seven members of Clarkston Rotary Club who have formed the only known Rotary Clown Troupe, this is the perfect dress code for those occasions when they slip out of the realm of reality and into the bigger-than-life fantasy world of clowning.

The Rotary Clown Troupe was created when chapter president Floyd Seal, an accountant, realized there were no clowns in the Rotary-sponsored Labor Day parade and thought, "How could there be a parade without clowns?"

The troupe was formed last summer. All seven members spent a day in "Clown Alley" at the Shrine Circus in Detroit learning techniques and makeup. They also got instruction from long-time clown Homer Biondi of Independence Township.

They have already been active at various events, and they will be "clowning around" during the Clarkston USA Fun Daze May 16, an event co-sponsored by the Clarkston Rotary Club and Independence Parks and Recreation.

But being a clown is more than just clowning around. It's serious business, according to clown troupe member Dick Beardsley, a General Motors manufacturing consultant in real life.

"You have obligations to be something special," he says, "Especially to children. They expect clowns to be something other than mom and dad."

Clowns are not supposed to be like ordinary human beings. In fact, they cannot eat, drink or smoke while performing. No unpainted "human" skin should be seen.

In addition to Seal and Beardsley, clown troupe members are Tom Murphy, who transforms himself from a financial officer into "Spud," a colorful clown with a brown, fuzzy creature for a companion; and Henry Flores, a GM training specialist in human resources, who becomes an endearing hobo. It also includes George McCausland, a computer specialist; Frank Rivers, a GM engineer; and Peter Buchanan, a cemetery manager.

Dick Beardsley begins the tedious task of transforming his face into a clown character. In the photo at right, Tom Murphy and Beardsley clown around with the new Rotary clown car.

Another Rotary project was the acquisition of a $1,300 "official clown car," which will debut during the Fun Daze festivities and will return with the clown troupe for parades and other events.

There are four types of clowns: the hobo, the white-faced clown, the character clown, and the auguste clown (with bright colors and exaggerated features outlined in black).

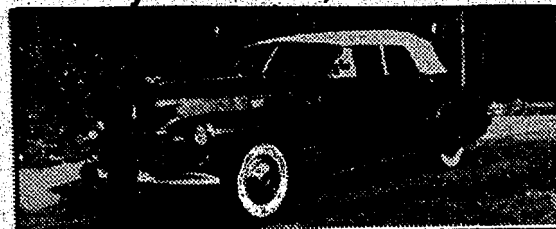

But they all share common desires: to entertain, to put on another face and do something different, to make people laugh.

Being a clown is a lot of work. It takes an hour just to do the makeup. And then there are the hours of staying "in character" during performances.

"You give a lot, but you get a lot back," Beardsley says. "Life is so serious. This gives you a chance to experience something that's not."
