Nine wells shut down

BY JULIE CAMPE
The Clarkston News

Nine water wells were found to be contaminated with ethyl ether on Northview Drive and Perry Lake Road in Independence Township.

Freon type compounds were also found in five of the wells, said Lois Elliott-Wilson, environmental sanitarian from Michigan Department of Public Health (MDPH).

"These compounds themselves are not hazardous to health at the levels we're finding, but we know it's an indication of a degeneration of well water," said Elliott-Wilson.

"They may be the first compounds found off landfills," she said, adding she suspects the chemicals could be a result of an old landfill north of Clarkston Road, east of Perry Lake Road.

Until further testing is finished, they won't know the source for sure, she said.

To be on the safe side, the residents are to receive bottled water to drink and cook with, Elliott-Wilson said.

M-15 hearing set June 25

When M-15 is widened in Independence Township in the next decade, the plans should include comments from residents and officials.

That's the goal of a public hearing scheduled at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, June 25, in the Clarkston High School auditorium.

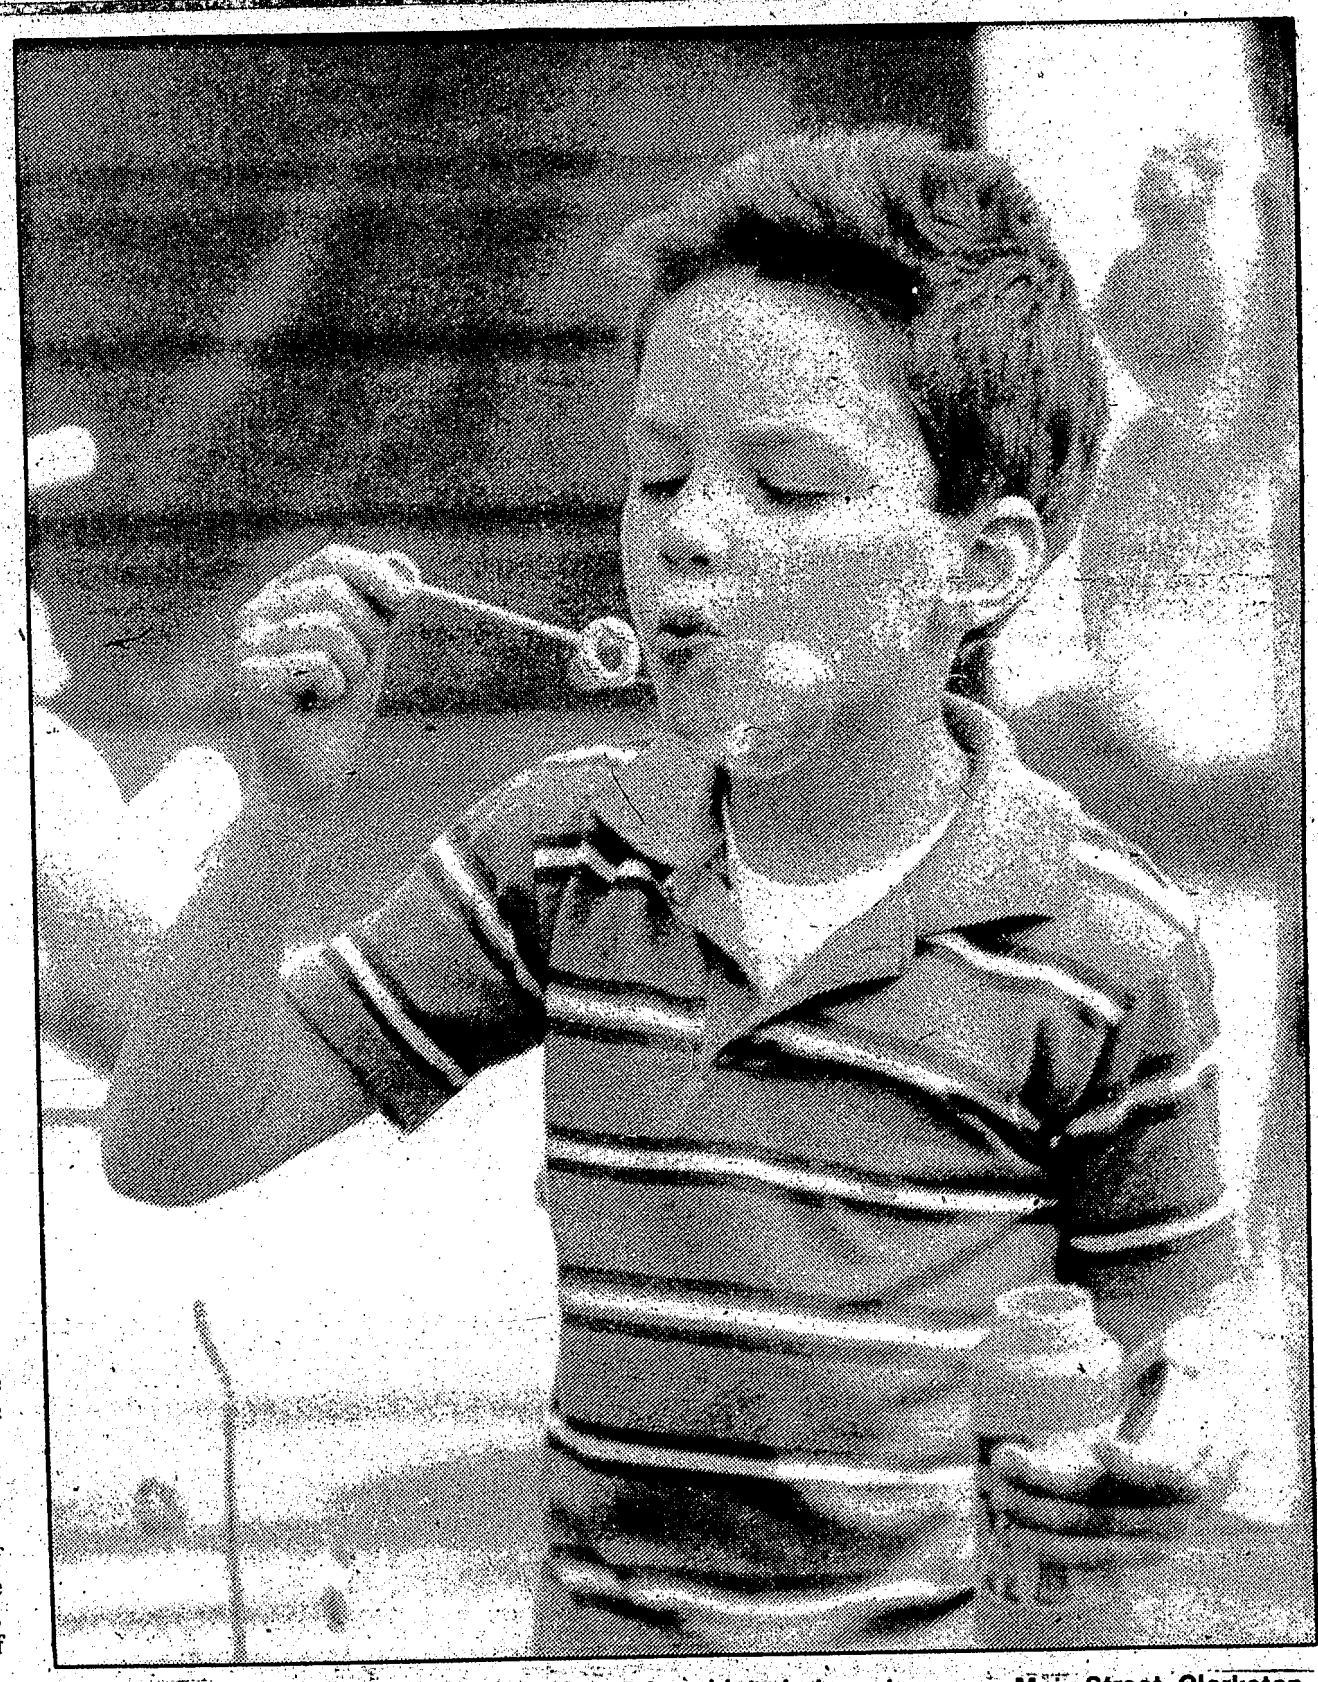

Although not yet scheduled, the widening of M-15 between Dixie Highway and Paramus Drive could happen in or after 1989, said Philip Chisoholm, public hearing officer for the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT).

During the planning stages, MDOT is counting on residents to express their concerns, he said.

"It has a lot of impact," said Chisholm. "It's not a poll. We're not counting how many people are for or against it. The crucial thing is why are people for or against it . . . because that enters into the decision making.

"We hear things like it's too noisy or the traffic is too heavy or it's too close to my house. But the things we're always concerned over are the hidden reasons

A BIRTHDAY BUBBLE: Bubbles went fast Friday, and Andrew Robeson, 6, takes time blowing his. He and the other children from Cedar Crest Academy celebrated Michigan's 150th birthday, as well as the 150th birthday of the historic Lynn house on Main Street, Clarkston, where the party was held. Andrew's classmate, Jenna Lynn, invited her whole class over for the party in her backyard. Her brother David, 4, also played games and ate hot dogs with the class.

9 Independence wells declared contaminated

"Generally, the wells that are deeper are not affected," she said, adding the owners of the contaminated wells have been asked to provide her with any well information, including well depth.

The next step is to see if any other wells are affected, she said. With the help of the Oakland County Health Department, they plan to start at the center and test the peripheral areas, Elliott-Wilson said.

"So far, it's confined to the west side of Perry Lake Road," she said.

To get the residents off bottled water, the Michigan Department of Natural Resources is to help determine if deeper wells will solve the problem or if the residences should be connected to the township water system.

Further testing is required to choose the best solutions, she said.

"It's not horrible chemicals we're finding, but I think we've got a problem out there and we need to do some investigation," she said.

Northview resident Leonard Smith owns one of the contaminated wells, he said, adding he received a letter from MDPH May 22.

"It's not horrible chemicals we're finding, but I think we've got a problem out there and we need to do some investigation."
—Lois Elliott-Wilson

His water has had a strong odor for years, said Smith.

"It smells awful. It tastes awful. It actually stinks so you don't want to drink it," said Smith.

Until he gets bottled water, Smith is using water from his daughter's house, he said.

Elliott-Wilson said ethyl ether and freon compounds shouldn't cause an odor.

The bottled water is to be paid for from the Super Fund, established by the Michigan Environmental Response Act (MERA), said Elliott-Wilson.

Although the landfill is listed as a priority in the MERA, it's not serious enough to receive funding for cleanup. When drinking water is affected, though, the act will pay for bottled water followed by an alternate water supply either from another well or community water system, she said.

The MDPH has routinely tested the area wells for about five years. This is the first time they've found a contaminant, she said.

George Anderson, director of the township's department of public works, said he had not talked to Elliott-Wilson yet and no residents had called him about their wells.

The landfill was used for about 25 years up until about seven years ago, he said.

"I'm amazed those chemicals are in there," said Anderson. "I thought it was just a residential landfill."

While freon compounds could come from old refrigeration materials, ethyl ether is usually from industrial waste, he said.

Residents in the area should request to have their wells tested, said Wilson.

why (people favor or oppose the widening).

"We want people to tell us what they think," he said.

Chisholm and others will be at the CHS auditorium a half-hour early to answer specific questions, he said, adding they only record concerns of the speakers during the hearing.

A description of the widening, maps and other information are at Independence Township Hall, 90 N. Main St., Clarkston.

Voters face 2 tax questions on June 8 ballot

BY KATHY GREENFIELD
Clarkston News Editor

Voters who go to the polls Monday, June 8, will decide whether to renew 3.79 mills and approve an additional 4.25 mills for the operation of Clarkston Community Schools.

Also on the ballot are two seats for the Clarkston board of education. Incumbents Janet Thomas and Elaine Schultz are unopposed on the ballot for the four-year terms.

The polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Both millage requests are for four years. One mill is $1 for each $1,000 of assessed property valuation.

Thomas, a Warbler Drive resident, is co-owner of Thomas & Wiar, an accounting firm in Independence Township. She has been on the school board 12 years. She has been president of the board the past eight years.

Schultz, a housewife, has been on the board four years, all of which she has been treasurer. She resides on Clinton Road.

As of last week, voting by absentee ballot was very slow with only nine ballots returned, said William Jackson, district business manager, who also oversees elections.

In 1981, the last time a millage increase was on the ballot, almost 5,000 people voted and the 3-mill increase for 10 years was approved by 275 votes.

The majority of school district residents reside in Independence Township, where voters use the same polling places as during general elections.

One polling place was changed during the last general election, and Jackson asked that voters be alerted to the change. Those in Precinct 8 now vote at Clarkston Elementary School rather than Clarkston Junior High School.

The election will cost the district between $1,500 and $2,000, the majority for printing ballots, Jackson said.

In an agreement reached with Independence Township last year, the township provides precinct workers in exchange for the storage of voting machines in school district buildings.

The agreement saves the district about $5,000 on the annual school election, Jackson said.

Results of the election will be posted at the district administration office, 6389 Clarkston Rd., Independence Township.

Jackson said he expects the results to be in by 10 p.m.

Normally, election results are announced at the school board meeting, which traditionally meets on the same date as the annual school election.

There will be no school board meeting June 8 because the Clarkston High School Class of 1987 is graduating that evening at the Pine Knob Music Theatre.

The meeting has been rescheduled to Tuesday, June 9, with the annual budget hearing at 7 p.m. and the regular meeting at 8 p.m. The board meets at the administration office on Clarkston Road.

Election is the talk of the town, says Mason

BY KATHY GREENFIELD
Clarkston News Editor

While it's been said the campaign for the June 8 school district election has been low key, Superintendent of Clarkston Schools Milford Mason balks at the suggestion.

"Clarkston Connection," the district newsletter mailed to all residents in May, was filled with information about the 3.79 mill renewal and the 4.25 new mills, he said.

There were also 19 coffees to provide election information in residents' homes, communications were sent home from individual schools and a brochure urging voters to vote "yes, yes" on the two tax requests was mailed to each resident's home this week.

In addition, the millage committee is working to identify "yes" voters and to call them back and make sure they vote June 8, he said.

"To say it's low key kind of baffles me," he said. "Low key means a small article tucked back into the newsletter."

Mason said people may be reacting to what he calls making cuts "in a very thoughtful way."

"We're not batting people over the head with reductions, contrasted with campaigns we've heard about," he said. "We tried to make our cuts on an across-the-board basis. We've not tried to seek sensitive areas, cut them out and use that as clubs."

In discussions, the board of education has been certain the 3.79 mill renewal will pass, as is the tradition with Clarkston school district voters.

In case the 4.25 new mills do not meet voter approval, the board has approved a plan for reducing expenses.

The $1.2 million in cuts include a halt on textbook purchases, the reduction about 15 teaching staff members, the reduction of music, foreign language and physical education for elementary school pupils and cutbacks on teaching supplies.

Such reductions would be devastating, Mason said.

"We're charged by the students, but even more important by the constituents in our community, of providing a quality educational program. We will not be able to do that without the additional support," he said.

If voters fail to approve the 4.25-mill increase, the Clarkston school district will have the lowest level of public support of any in-formula school district in Oakland County and will fall below the average of operational levies across the state, Mason said.

The state average is 33 mills. Clarkston currently operates with 33.33 mills, but if the millage increase fails, the number will drop to 32.13 due to the Headlee Amendment.

If voters approve the 4.25-mill increase, $1.5 million will be generated, enough to cover the $1.2 million and cuts and provide a cushion for next year when the Headlee Amendment will be in force again, Mason said.

The Headlee Amendment was designed to allow income to grow only as much as the Consumer Price Index, or the official rate of inflation. Accordingly, when property values increase at a rate higher than the price index, tax rates are rolled back.

"The big deal is when you're an in-formula school district, the amount of money you get, state and local money, is controlled by the amount of millage you get. When that lowers, the state of Michigan lowers our state aid because the millage is lower," Mason said.

"We're in a no-win situation, which doesn't leave us any alternative except to ask people to at least maintain our level of support," he said.

Mason said he continues to be proud of the district's achievements despite its current ranking of 27th out of 28 public districts in per pupil expenditures.

"We've got a lot of people what will work hard with what we have and work to their fullest with that," he said.

Raises are in school staff's future

The hottest question regarding the passage of a 3.79-mill renewal and the 4.25 new mills for Clarkston schools on June 8 is this: Will district staff members get raises?

The answer, according to Superintendent Milford Mason, is yes.

"To be honest and straightforward, 80 percent (of our budget) goes for people and benefits," he said. "Most assuredly, money will be used for contractural obligations, which includes pay raises."

Clarkston teachers just finished the first year of a three-year contract, which includes pay raises of 6 percent for each of the three years.

"We have to meet our obligations with our employees even if we're in a cutback mode," Mason said.

In addition, the agreement for building administrators (principals and assistant principals) has not been set for next year. They were previously covered by a three-year agreement.

And central office administrators, whose salaries are set annually, generally receive similar raises to those agreed upon for building administrators.

For the past two years, administrators have received raises of about 5.4 percent.

The last time district salaries were frozen was in 1983-84, when the state's economy was in a recession.

Eggs of killed swan fail to hatch

BY KATHY GREENFIELD
Clarkston News Editor

The six eggs removed April 5 from the nest of a pair of swans killed in the channel between Woodhull Lake and Lake Oakland are dead.

On May 22, the eggs were removed from an incubator at the Bloomfield Hills school district's Farm and Garden Center on Square Lake Road, said Brenda Weathers.

The school plans to keep the eggs for exhibit purposes, she said.

After the swans were killed by rifle fire, Weathers and neighbors on the Independence Township channel, also known as Clinton Lake, retrieved the eggs.

Weathers kept them warm under lights in her den and began searching for someone who could properly care for the eggs. After numerous telephone calls, she ended up donating them to the school.

Then the waiting began to see if they would hatch.

"If you didn't try, how would you know?" she said.

Weathers was disappointed over the outcome, but looking on the positive side, she said if eggs are ever left again, the residents will know what to do immediately.

"Hopefully we'll never have to do this again," she said, but "we're still hearing gunshots on this lake. It's going to take more than killing birds before all this stops."

The weekend the swans were killed, residents saw a junior-high-school aged boy wearing a bright blue jacket with a hunting license on back shooting a rifle toward the water. The boy's companion, about the same age, was wearing a brown jacket. The suspects have not been found.

Swans are protected by state and federal laws. Killing a swan is a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of up to $100 and a jail sentence of up to 90 days. In addition, anyone found guilty of killing a swan must make restitution of $500 to the state.

The channel is in the northeast quadrant of Independence Township. Homes line the channel's west side and the east side is undeveloped.

$500 offered for swan killers

Oakland County Prosecuter L. Brooks Patterson is providing a $500 reward for the arrest and conviction of those responsible for killing three swans in Independence Township.

All three swans were found in the channel between Lake Oakland and Woodhull Lake. The channel is also known as Clinton Lake.

A pair of swans were killed by rifle fire the first weekend in April. Residents spotted a junior-high-school-age boy shooting a rifle toward the water and found empty 22-caliber rifle shells. The boy was wearing a bright blue jacket with a hunting license tacked on the back.

The third swan was killed in mid-March. It was found floating in the water with its legs and neck tied to a brick.

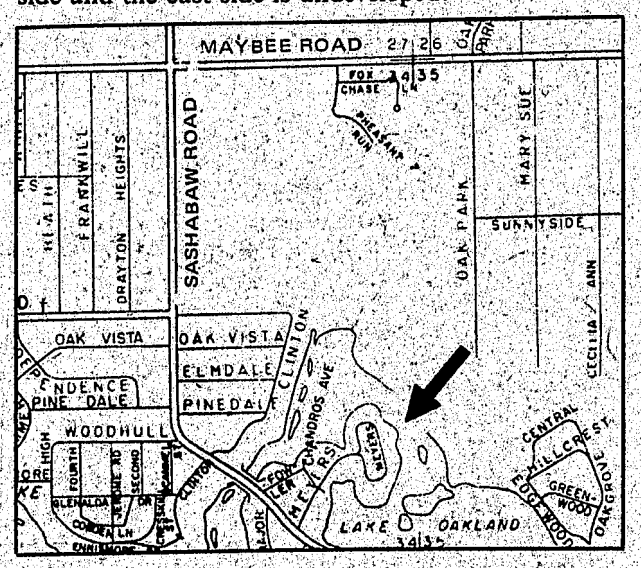

"It's just indescriminate killing of wildlife. They're so beautiful on Lake Oakland. This can't be tolerated," said Patterson, who lives on Lake Oakland in Waterford Township.

Anyone with information on the swan killings can remain anonymous by calling 858-0656 and leaving a five-digit number or a code name, Patterson said.

After the information leads to the arrest and conviction of those responsible, the person can call back and claim the reward.

"All I want is the name of the person or persons responsible," Patterson said.

If the swan killing incidents involve different people, $250 will be rewarded for the information about each crime, he said.

Three swans have been killed this spring in the channel between Lake Oakland and Woodhull Lake in Independence Township.

Village matches township cop tax

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Clarkston Village Council finally accepted Independence Township's request for additional money for the new police contract at its May 26 meeting.

The village council voted 6-0 to approve a 1.5 mill increase for the additional police coverage that began Jan. 1 but was able to avoid raising residents' taxes to pay for it.

Clarkston's state equalized value recently increased, said President Sharron Catallo, and that will help cover the additional cost of raising the millage.

An important factor in the decision was that had Clarkston decided not to accept the 1.5 mill increase, Independence Township could have lost money from the state due to a quirk in the state equalized value formula that computes how much money each municipality gets.

The village pays for police protection out of its general fund and will be able to continue doing that despite the increase, said Catallo.

Currently, Clarkston pays 1 mill for its police coverage out of its 7.4 mill general fund. With the increase, the village now will pay a total of 2.5 mills for its police contract.

Catallo said the village wants selective traffic enforcement and a car to answer emergency calls written into the new contract in exchange for accepting the millage increase.

That would include 20 hours of routine patrol per week during peak traffic hours between the times of 6 a.m. and 6 p.m. in the village.

The township contracts for police coverage from the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, and the village contracts with the township for the same coverage.

Last fall, township voters approved an extra 1.5 mills for the police fund. Since village residents didn't vote on the issue, the village contract called for a similar increase to double the police coverage.

One mill is $1 for every $1,000 in assessed property valuation.

The police contract proposal went before the township board at its June 2 meeting to be approved.

"It's still up in the air," said Catallo of the village's police contract. "But I can't see any reason why (Independence Township) wouldn't accept it."

Concerts fill Fridays in July

BY KATHY GREENFIELD
Clarkston News Editor

Clarkston's popular Concerts in the Park series begins in just one month.

Because July has five Fridays this year, there will be five concerts. They are planned from 7 to 9 p.m. on July 3, 10, 17, 24 and 31 in Depot Park, adjacent to Clarkston Village Hall, 375 Depot Rd.

"I'm always excited about it because people enjoy it so much," said Joan Kopietz, concert organizer and co-owner of Tierra Arts. "People start asking me in January about concerts. In fact, I got my first check in December this year."

The majority of the concert costs are paid by donations. The music is co-sponsored by the Village Business Association and the Pontiac Federation of Musicians, which uses a national grant from the Music Performance Trust Fund to pay a portion of the costs.

This year, the village's portion of the cost is $1,400. Contributions can be made by dropping money in the Band-Aid boxes found in village business establishments or by contacting Kopietz.

This is the fifth season Kopietz has organized the concerts, and she wants some help.

"I'm interested in organizing a community support group—people who wish to work on the concerts," she said. "It's impossible for me to do it all anymore."

The committee would be responsible for arranging for the bands, raising money, helping set up for the concerts, producing the program and selling refreshments at the concerts.

"What I could really use, if someone has one, is a small refreshment wagon that we can just wheel in and wheel out," Kopietz said. "Right now the refreshments are kind of tentative. If I can't get someone to sell the refreshments, I may not have refreshments this year."

To volunteer for the committee, call Kopietz at 625-5111.

The 1987 Concerts in the Park schedule follows:

July 3—Emil Sutt Band, featuring patriotic music.

July 10—Len Heller Band, featuring sounds of the '40s.

July 17—A polka band.

July 24—Tentatively scheduled, a brass ensemble playing band concert music.

July 31—Emil Sutt Band, featuring a variety of easy listening music and the big band sound.

Hide and seek

Kathy Greenfield

As I drove around searching for the Sheraton Hotel in Novi, I pondered taking the day off and trying to find my way back to relatively rural Clarkston.

After asking four people for directions, however, and attempting to follow them, I was determined to show up for the newspaper seminar.

I finally found the place a couple of hours before lunch. That's as close as I can get to positive thinking about the experience.

The trouble began when I decided not to check a map or ask anyone other than a co-worker, who was also attending the seminar, for directions.

"I-75 to Telegraph to 696 to M-275," he said. "After you turn on 275, I've been told you can't miss it."

I zipped through the traffic-jammed highways and byways with time to spare. I knew I was getting close and started concentrating on signs.

There are green signs scattered everywhere along expressways. I never saw one that said Novi. (Later, I noticed a small water tower with the city's name on its side. Is Novi a secret?)

What I did see, in my rearview mirror, was Hilton in huge letters and Novi (I was pretty sure) in much smaller letters.

"OK," I thought, "that's not the hotel I'm looking for, but it must be right down the pike."

I drove too long searching for something that wasn't there, pulled off the highway, stopped in an office building parking lot and pulled out a map.

I asked a man getting out of his car if he knew where the hotel was. He didn't, said getting back to Novi was complicated and provided directions for the "easiest route."

Next came the little town of Northville. A dairy store with a parking space in front beckoned. I asked if anyone knew where the Novi Sheraton was. The woman at the counter said she knew where the Novi Hilton was . . . but the Sheraton?

A woman appeared from the rear of the building, laughed, and provided some easy-sounding directions to the place I was getting desperate to find: "Turn right at the light, turn left at the third light, drive over the expressway overpass," and so on.

When I passed the Novi Hilton, I knew I was in trouble. I pulled into a bank parking lot. A man was unloading a lawn mower from the back of a truck. He gave me the easiest-sounding directions of all, which led straight back to the Hilton.

"I can't believe this," I kept thinking.

Next, I tried a party store. The shopping strip in which it sat had a name that sounded familiar—someone had mentioned it in connection to the elusive Sheraton.

There was no connection, of course, but the man at the cash register—after shaking his head and asking if I meant the Hilton—really did know how to get to the Sheraton.

My joy at finally being where I was supposed to be was dampened considerably by being almost an hour late. No one was later than I.

The man who gave me the original directions, however, admitted that he, too, was a little tardy.

His directions had been for the Hilton. He had driven directly to the wrong hotel, and thinking he was at the right place, had gone inside. He was immediately directed to the five-mile route that led to the Sheraton.

I tried to smile as he told me the story.

Millage increase necessary

Should Clarkston school district voters approve the 3.79-mill renewal and the 4.25 new mills on June 8 to operate its public schools?

We agree with the brochure mailed by the district to its residents that provided the answer: "Yes, Yes!"

The reasons are many.

Simply put, they include the basic need to continue providing a solid education for our young people and the need to recognize the excellent job our district has done with less money per pupil than all but one other district in Oakland County.

This is not the time to object to the many problems Michigan has with its manner of funding public schools. The only ones we'll hurt are ourselves.

Clarkston residents live in the community because they enjoy the rural life. As voters, they have gone to the polls and solidly rejected plans for a high-rise hotel and for gravel mining.

Those are the types of businesses that could put Clarkston out of the state formula and into having enough tax money to avoid being hurt by the present state funding formula, which ignores the fact that all state residents contribute substantially to the tax base whether or not they live in the communities where they work and shop.

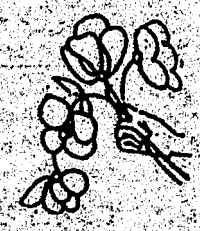

The formula needs to be changed. Hopefully Lansing will get the message some day.

In the meantime, we need to support our schools—and, quite frankly, our property values.

ALL ABOUT TOWN

Jim's Jottings

Jim Sherman

It's getting so I hate to see June come around. I look at my appointment calendar and the entire summer seems to be totally obligated.

Of course, it's my own fault. I didn't have to accept those invitations that came the first warm days of spring. I could have scheduled in "leisure time" when I bought my calendar in December, just as I did birthdays, anniversaries and conventions.

It's a psychological thing. Summer isn't gone in June. Actually, the entire season is ahead. But when most of the 62 days of July and August are pre-planned I wonder when I'm going to absorb some rays and energy in my back yard.

When can I leisurely mow the lawn, go fishing in the lake out our back door, trim some trees, clean up the abandoned dog pen, or refinish some furniture that didn't get done in the winter because I would have so much time when warm weather got here.

When will I get to weed the few hundred flowers I felt so good about planting in April and May?

Some people will think that my July is not all that full of "obligations". Some people don't regard a week of golf at Gull Lake as something a person suffers through. However, when I'm there, I can't be relaxing on a lounge at home.

And, when you cross out a week on the printed month you are like crossing out a week of your life, one quarter of a month is spoken for, and you weren't fishing.

True, you weren't at the office, but the deadlines and stress are still there . . . getting to the first tee on time can wreck the nerves of even the most seasoned journalist.

That's what I'm looking for, stressless days of summer without retiring. Days when I don't care if school keeps or not, if it rains or shines, if my tie is straight and my pants and jacket match, and I can just watch for that dad blamed mole that's chasing another grub (or mole) through the roots of my grass.

I want summer to be made up of days when a tough decision is whether the grill is too hot. I want to be able to take whatever time is necessary to invent a lure that even occasionally catches fish, a mosquito repellent that does, a self-cleaning window, and an unclutterable garage.

But, I want to look busy doing it. I don't want my workaholic neighbor razzing me as he, working alone, puts the fourth addition on his house in three years.

What I think I'll do is put this 'think time' on my 1988 calendar, right between a week of golf at Gull Lake and the Press Convention at Mackinac Island. The trouble with that is, when June 1988 gets here my calendar will be just that much fuller, and my psyche will still have that summer fullness feeling.

Teacher tribute

I would personally like to thank a man who has taught me so much in my three years at Clarkston High School.

He is dedicated to his work as a band director and his students are his top priority. He respects us for who we are and strives to make us the best we can be.

When we went to Toronto May 16, we could have never gotten that first place without his help and support. He has taught us so much about music and even life itself.

I will personally miss him very much, but I will use all he has taught me in future years.

My sincere thanks to you, Mr. Clifford Chapman. You deserve the best. This school district is lucky to have you.

Thanks for the memories,

Tami Topous
Clarkston High School Senior

Say yes to kids

Our very excellent Clarkston School Board, administration and teachers have been able to provide our children with a superior education opportunity due to all of our citizens supporting our much needed millage renewals and new millages.

Please continue this deserving support by going to the polls on June 8 and voting "yes" on the renewal and "yes" on the new millage.

You are not just voting "yes" for a millage--you are saying "yes" to Clarkston, education and all of our children and teachers.

James A. O'Neill, M.D.

Please vote yes

On June 8, Clarkston voters will decide the fate of two millage proposals for the Clarkston schools. Few issues are as confusing as school millages, yet none are more important to our community.

The first request asks for a 3.79 millage renewal. Once passed, this will result in no tax increase for property owners.

But a renewal simply is not enough for Clarkston schools to stay even with previous years.

The reasons are threefold: First, there is a projected decline in enrollment despite the grouwth we see all around us. This is due to the overall declining birth rate affecting Oakland County.

Second, the Consumer Price Index has remained constant while local property assessments have increased. This results in a net loss of funds due to the Headlee Amendment. While Headlee rolls back millage rates, the state's contribution to the district is also decreased.

Third, the governor's state aid proposal of 3.4 percent for 1987-88 is well below the 7 percent for 1986-87.

This means that Clarkston Schools cannot maintain current operations with only the 3.79-mill renewal. Without the additional 4.25 millage, a $ 1 million loss will result in staff and program reductions

Tammy's Mask-ara

Jim Fitzgerald

It was undoubtedly one of the nastiest things I ever said: "Tammy Bakker could make a homosexual out of Rambo."

I hope God will forgive me. My wife did. She was the only one within hearing when Tammy made me mean. My wife said she thought God would even forgive Ted Koppel for allowing Tammy Baker to appear on ABC-TV's "Nightline" show Wednesday.

It was my first exposure to Tammy on TV. I'd read about her and seen her photo in newspapers and magazines, of course. Newsweek published a cover photo of her that I didn't believe. I figured she didn't really look like that; the printer must have goofed up the color separations or something.

My apologies to the printer; she really does look like a Halloween mask. But it's not nice - not Christian - to judge a woman by her appearance, even if she did do it to herself with cosmetic overkill. Every morning my mirror says I have no right to call anyone ugly. I was willing to believe there was a beautiful person beneath Tammy's mascara.

But, then she opened her mouth, and I'm honestly ashamed of my reaction. I literally cringed. I could feel my skin shrivel. I looked away from the TV screen and burrowed into a corner of my big chair, as though seeking refuge from this awful woman that Ted Koppel invited into my living room.

I felt embarrassed, and I didn't know why. Was I embarrassed for Tammy for making such a fool of herself in front of millions of TV viewers? Was I embarrassed for her husband, Jim, who had to sit next to her while she did it? Was I embarrassed for the television industry - that such a technological marvel would be used to circulate the giggly blather of Tammy Bakker?

After considerable thought, I decided I was embarrassed for the thousands of the "faithful" sucked in by the TV ministry of Tammy and Jim, the people who sent them money to spend on incredibly lavish living. Certainly those people must feel like gigantic fools, and I cringe for them.

Although it was increasingly painful, I watched Koppel's interview of the Bakkers to the end. It was like being unable to resist gawking at a bloody car wreck.

I watched as Tammy said she was worried about her dog Snuggles because he no longer has an air-conditioned doghouse. I heard her giggle inanely and say she shopped at discount houses and didn't know her PTL salary was more than $1 million per year. I almost screamed when Tammy said she and Jim "were the most normal people" in the world.

Jerry Falwell accused Jim Bakker of having homosexual relationships. Bakker denies it. I don't know the truth, and don't care. It is dismaying that Falwell obviously believes homosexuality is a terrible sin, even worse than preachers using Jesus Christ to steal money. The Bible told him so, of course.

That's the same Bible - according to what Jim Bakker told Koppel Wednesday - that told Jim not to sue Falwell for slandering the Bakkers. "The Bible says don't take your brother to court," Jim said.

The American Bar Association should invite Jim Bakker to speak at its next national convention.

The Bakkers say they want to have a regular TV show again. I know one worthwhile thing that a new Jim and Tammy show could accomplish: It could save marriages. Husbands unhappy with their wives would see Tammy preen, and listen to her giggle. They would understand why Jim Bakker might have an affair with a rock.

These husbands would realize they could have done much worse, and would love their wives afresh simply for being themselves or anyone else except Tammy.

Also, Tammy on TV could enrich me. I could open franchises and sell plastic replicas of my zinc TV Throw-up Pot.

Village approves $348,338 budget

An increase of nearly $30,000 for a new police contract highlights the 1987-88 budget approved by the Clarkston Village Council on May 26.

The village budgeted $14,268 for police coverage last year and under the new contract recently approved by the council, Clarkston will now pay $43,767.50 for the police coverage it has been receiving since Jan. 1. Treasurer Artemus Pappas said $5,000 is retroactive pay.

Residents' taxes will not increase to cover the bill for the additional police coverage. The money will be taken out of the reserves in the general fund, said Pappas.

The general fund revenue is $268,213 compared to $234,178 last year.

The general fund, of which $114,725 is collected in taxes, is used for such things as elections, village employee salaries, parking enforcement and street lighting.

Adminstration and general expenses are projected at $64,257, with one-third of the amount going toward Village Hall maintainance.

Miscellaneous expenditures are projected to cost $87,443, of which nearly half will go toward police coverage.

The street budget also was approved at $80,118 this fiscal year compared to $70,069 last year.

The street budget, of which $25,500 is from state revenue sharing, is used to improve or maintain the streets, pay for equipment and tools and cover Department of Public Works employees' salaries.

The village council also lowered the sewer bond interest redemption fund millage to 1 mill this year. Pappas said at one time the fund had been 12.5 mills.

The council said the 1 mill would be enough to retire the debt. One mill is $1 for each $1,000 of assessed property valuation.

throughout the school system and will halt any new curricular programs.

Keep in mind that if we approve the 4.25 millage, the predicted 1.2 mill Headlee rollback will reduce the millage to 3.05 mill. This represents only $3 per $1,000 of assessed property value per year: a small price to pay to keep our school system even with past years.

Consider that Clarkston schools currently ranks 27th out of 28 Oakland County Schools in revenue spent per pupil.

Let's assure that we don't sink to the very bottom. Please vote yes for both millage requests on June 8. Our children and our community depend on your support.

Bruce W. Harlton, D.V.M.

Story praise

I just finished reading the article Alisa Nass wrote about me and my work with the Clarkston Ambulatory Care Center.

I was very pleased with the insight and accuracy she was able to portray in the article.

I also greatly appreciate the time and effort involved in capturing the spirit and detail of my professional and personal life—not an easy job with such a diverse schedule!

Alisa's professionalism will certainly stand her in good sted as a journalist.

I wish her much success in her future career.

Beverly Walters, R.N.
Director of Nursing and Education
Clarkston Ambulatory Care Center

Editor's note: Alisa Nass, an Oakland University student, is working for The Clarkston News this summer as a student intern.

Millage support

As a former Clarkston school board member, I know well how fustrating it is to communicate the realities of a state school funding system that cuts support for our youngsters' education as our property values (and of course, taxes) go up.

It's stupid, unfair, and a few expletives deleted.

But it's also the way it is for now, along with a now unfair Headlee Amendment stipulation.

Therefore, I urge you to vote YES for both the Clarkston schools millage renewal and increase.

To vote otherwise is to punish our kids, hurt our community and cut off our nose to spite our face.

Robert D. Walters

Speed lowered

The speed limit on Big Lake Road between Scott and Hillsboro roads will be lowered to 25 miles per hour.

About 15 residents signed a petition asking the Springfield Township Board to declare the area residential and reduce the speed limit, said Mary Preston of Big Lake Road.

"They're speeding down the road," said Preston. "People go 40 to 45 miles per hour with no regards to kids on their bikes.

"A lot of people assumed that (25 mph) was the speed limit already because it is residential," she said.

The speed limit for an unposted dirt road is 55 miles per hour.

On May 13, the Springfield Township Board approved the speed limit change in a unanimous vote. The board has requested the Oakland County Road Commission to post the signs.

Once people know they will be ticketed, they will slow down, Preston said.

"I know that the Oakland County deputies can write tickets, and we all intend to call," she said.

Man hurt in crash

An Independence Township man suffered serious injuries Thursday when the car he was driving collided with another car on Dixie Highway, Independence Township.

Kevin North, 19, was admitted to Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital and was released Tuesday in good condition, said a hospital spokesperson.

North was driving southbound on Dixie Highway, south of White Lake Road, when a car failed to yield and pulled out from a private driveway onto Dixie.

North couldn't avoid hitting the vehicle, and his car rolled over after striking it, according to the Oakland County Sheriff's Department report.

The other driver, Cecile Berg, 62, also from Independence Township, was issued a citation for failing to yield. Berg was not injured.

Building to begin in February

O'Neill seeks rezoning for medical center

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A planned unit development (PUD) is in the works for the proposed Clarkston Health Care Center between M-15, Hidden Lane and Dixie Highway in Independence Township.

On May 28, the township planning commission unanimously recommended a zoning change from local commercial and planned shopping center to PUD at the request of developer, pediatrician James O'Neill.

A PUD allows various uses under one zoning, and the site is developed as one concept.

The planning commission makes recommendations of zoning changes, and the township board has the final say.

Township planner Richard Carlisle commented to the commission on the zoning change and site plan.

"All the changes that have been made are very positive. . . . It's going to be a beautiful building," he said.

Carlisle also liked the landscaping design.

"It's exemplified in its simplicity. . . . We don't have a botanical garden through there, but we have a variety of plants with lots of textures and colors," he said.

The plan also received praise from the commission members.

"The building is very, very attractive," said Chairperson Joseph Figa.

"I'm impressed by what I've seen tonight," said Brent Bair.

The three-level building is to be part of a 12.54-acre medical facility, comprised of O'Neill's present building, the Clarkston Village Clinic/Clarkston Ambulatory Care building and the Clarkston Professional Plaza on M-15.

The new 80,000-square-foot building, designed by architect Thomas Gunn, is to be constructed west of the existing buildings, and is to share parking and one driveway each to Dixie Highway and M-15.

Constructed with sandy beige and soft red bricks, the building is to be topped with cedar shingles.

The center is to offer 24-hour urgent care, outpatient surgery, the offices of area physicians and specialists' offices.

The urgent care may be operated in conjunction with a major hospital group in the area, said O'Neill, adding he couldn't release the name until the contract is settled.

Also included in the plans are outpatient mental health services, day care for mentally and physically disabled adults, community education programs and a medical library.

Construction is to begin around February if all the necessary approvals are received, said O'Neill after the meeting.

Cook honored

Cook was nominated by Mount Carmel Mercy Hospital, Detroit, for his years of dedication and support to the hospital's programs and services.

As a volunteer, Cook has served as president of the 500 Club, which hosts an annual Golf Day to raise funds for medical research; co-chairs the Friends of Mercy, a community-based organization which raises funds for hospital programs; co-chairs the Planned Giving Committee of the hospital's Fund Development Council; and is a charter member of Mount Carmel's President's Council.

The tribute is sponsored annually by the Michigan Chapter of the National Society of Fund-Raising Executives (NSFRE).

New tractor brings smile

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Before she got the new John Deere tractor, Linda Richardson used to dig the cemetery earth in some grave conditions.

In the winter, the old tractor sometimes wouldn't start, said the Lakeview Cemetery superintendent. And she practically froze outside in the winter. And in the rain, she couldn't see.

She was so excited to have the new (smaller, more maneuverable, yet more powerful) tractor that she called The Clarkston News.

"I love it," she said on Thursday, when the tractor had served only one day at Lakeview.

"I haven't let anybody else drive it yet. . . . I think they just felt sorry for me. In the winter, I'd come in and I'd be so cold."

The new tractor has a heated cab and windshield wipers. It cost $31,000, but with a $5,000 trade-in on the old one, the net cost was $26,000.

Plus, this one is 4-wheel drive—so no more precarious situations on the hilly terrain, she said.

She did research before making the purchase.

"I knew that once we got this new one, that's it. We're not going to get another one, at least as long as I'm here," she said.

"People who know tractors and back hoes say that this is the Cadillac of tractors. . . . Plus, John Deere came in low bid."

Symons rejoins village council as trustee

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

After a six-year absence from the job, Gary Symons says he is looking forward to working on the Clarkston Village Council once again.

President Sharron Catallo recommended Symons for the vacancy created when Fontie ApMadoc resigned April 27.

"I am very pleased that he is willing to serve again," said Catallo after the council approved the appointment in a 6-0 vote.

Symons, who has lived in Clarkston 11 years, practices dentistry in the building he owns on Main Street. He resides on North Main Street.

He previously worked on the village council from 1977 until 1981. Symons said he quit at that time because it wasn't fun anymore.

"You just get to the point where you burn out," Symons said. "I didn't have the motivation or enthusiasm (to do the job) anymore."

One of the things Symons worked on during his first stint with the village council was historic preservation of buildings. He said he plans to continue pushing for legislation that protects historic buildings from being modernized.

It was this concern that originally got Symons involved on the village council.

"The village is starting to feel pressure from the growth of the township," said Symons, adding that he likes the village's historic small-town look.

Three new members have been elected to the council since Symons left his post, and he said he is looking forward to working with them.

"I'm impressed with the people on the council now and that is one of the reasons that I came back," said Symons. "We all see eye-to-eye; our philosophies are the same."

Symons will take his seat on the council June 8. Since he was appointed to fill the position, he will have to be elected in the spring for the balance of ApMadoc's term.

Planners give carports green light

Carports are the next step for Lancaster Apartments on Dixie Highway in Independence Township.

At the May 28 meeting, the final site plan showing the 168 carports was approved by the township planning commission.

The matter was tabled at the May 14 meeting, pending an agreement between the commission and developer Fox Corp. on the location of the carports.

Township planner Richard Carlisle said he was satisfied with the outcome. He had called the first plan "spot carports," adding they were scattered all over the site with no continuity.

With this plan, they eliminated the "checkerboard effect," he said.

The commission voted 4-1 to approve the final site plan, subject to approval of the building materials and design by a subcommittee of the planning commission.

"I think the whole commission feels very strongly about the looks of the carports, only because they came as an add-on," said Chairperson Joseph Figa.

Commissioner Richard Oppmann voted "no."

"These structures should be integrated into the plan at the start and should be a part of the overall plan," he said.

Phase I of the two-phase apartment complex is under construction on the west side of Dixie Highway on 48.8 acres behind Clarkston Motors across from the Maybee Road intersection. Phase II construction is to begin this fall, said Dick Fay of Fox Corp.

Planners oppose in-law duplex

John Hudak's mother-in-law may have to find another place to live.

Hudak's rezoning request to allow a duplex in Waterford Hill Golf Estates on Parview Drive, Independence Township, was recommended for denial by the township planning commission because of a deed restriction.

Hudak had planned to build a home for his family connected to a home for his mother-in-law, he said.

But a duplex requires multi-family residential zoning, and the deed restriction in the subdivision only allows single-family residential.

At the May 28 meeting, township planner Richard Carlisle commented on the restrictions in his comments to the commission.

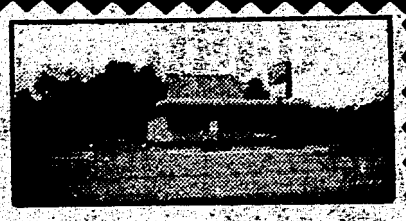

"Although the township doesn't get involved with enforcing deed restrictions, in good faith, we can't recommend approval with knowledge of the deed restriction," he said.

The commission unanimously recommended denial of the rezoning to the township board.

Commission Chairperson Joseph Figa said the property should not be rezoned.

"That could open it up for other homes in there to do the same thing," he said.

The planning commission makes recommendations to the township board, and the township board has the final say on rezonings.

Sampler inspires history lesson

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Lester Smith and his relatives plan to donate a 192-year-old sampler to the new Michigan museum under construction in Lansing.

But a lot of people today don't even know what a sampler is, said Smith, a Davisburg Road, Springfield Township, resident.

His is a framed piece of linen cloth about a square-foot in size that was embroidered by his great-great-grandmother Elizabeth Yeoman. She started the sampler in England when she was about 11.

At the top is the alphabet. In the middle are trees, flowers and dogs. At the bottom is Elizabeth's name, the date (Oct. 10, 1795) and some initials—probably those of her brothers and sisters.

It's a little faded, but it's in good condition, considering its age, said Smith.

He and some of his relatives are interested in genealogy and history, and they thought the sampler would best serve them and their posterity in the museum, Smith said.

Elizabeth brought the sampler with her when she and her husband, William Parker, came to the United States.

It took them nine weeks to get across the ocean, said Smith.

They settled in Pennsylvania. Their four sons moved to Canada and their five daughters moved to Springfield Township. The daughters all married, and one of them, Elizabeth, married William Green.

Of their eight children, Letitia married James Oliver Smith.

That's part of Lester Smith's genealogy—Michigan pioneers, he said. His son has applied for a Michigan Sesquicentennial Pioneer Certificate—for people who can prove their ancestors settled in Michigan before Dec. 31, 1837.

"Can you imagine settling in Michigan 150 years ago? With Indians and wolves? They didn't have television, telephone or anything like that, so they made their own social lives," he said, pointing to the sampler.

Discovering your past is interesting, he said.

"You get fired up about it," said Smith. "It becomes a challenge and it becomes exciting. Then you spend all your time doing it."

Some of his ancestors left their marks in the area. Foster Road and Bigelow Cemetery were named after his relatives.

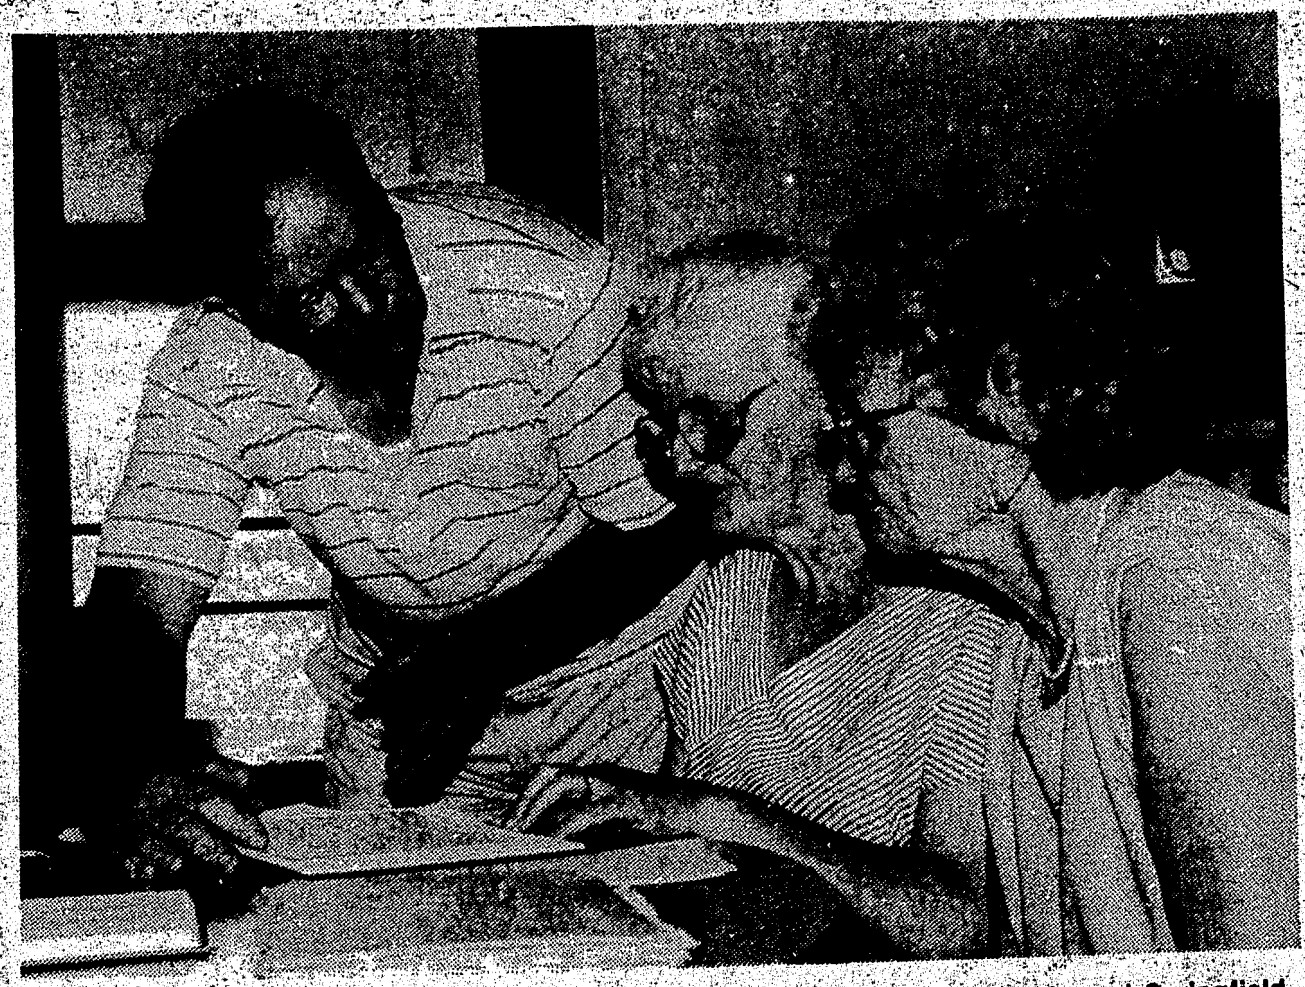

And several descendants still live in the area: Dorthea Horton in Holly, her daughter Barbara Clark in Springfield Township, Alice Hardy in Holly, David Fields in Springfield Township and Rex Fields in Rose Township.

If you're interested in your genealogy, said Smith, a lot of sources of information are available.

Family Bibles, memories of living relatives, county birth, marriage and death records, 10-year census records (in the Lansing library—take a magnifying glass with you and look under the municipality for the name); and county property certification records.

And don't forget the attic, he said.

"You go into an attic, and you find a whole trove of photos and things. . . . So many times, they just throw them out," he said.

Lester Smith and his distant cousins Barbara Clark [left] and Dorthea Horton are descendants of some of Michigan's and Springfield Township's first pioneers.

From photography to salad making, activities abound for senior citizens

The Springfield Township "Young at Heart" senior citizens group has a number of activities scheduled this summer.

Membership forms are available for the group, which meets every Thursday at the Springfield Oaks Activities Center, 12451 Andersonville. The $3 membership fee includes a monthly newsletter and discounts on trips and programs.

Highlights for the summer include a "Photography for Fun" class from 1 to 2 p.m. on June [illegible] and 11. Seniors must bring their own cameras to the [illegible]e class.

On June 17, the group plans a trip to Crossroads Village for the third annual "Salute to Seniors." The day includes entertainment, craft and bake sales, working demonstrations of the mills and old-fashioned crafts, plus a chicken luncheon.

An "Oriental Salad Making Demonstration" is planned June 25 by culinary arts graduate Nancy Tilley. Seniors can observe how the unusual salad is prepared, and then taste the results. Cost of the luncheon is $1 for members and $2 for non-members. There will also be a slide presentation on the "Country of China."

The senior group is planning to attend Oakland County's "Senior Play Day" June 29 at Waterford Oaks County Park. Pre-registration is required for the activity-filled event.

Two activities coming up in July include a hearing aid check and hearing test screenings at the Activities Center on July 2, and a "Christmas in July" trip to Frankenmuth on July 16.

Persons interested in the Young at Heart programs may contact Sherry Swindell, director of Springfield Township Parks and Recreation, at 625-4802 or 634-3111.

Clarkston High Varsity
Rochester District

May 30—The Wolves won the opening game of their district over Grand Blanc, 5-4.

Heather Luchenbach was the winning pitcher for Clarkston. Missy Odell picked up the save.

The Wolves had only six hits in the game and no one had more than one.

In the championship game, the Wolves registered a 10-5 victory over Rochester.

Odell was the winning pitcher. She tossed a three-hitter.

Beth Tilley had three hits in four plate appearances. Jessica Shoup smacked a bases-loaded triple in the third inning and finished with three RBIs. Stacey Schurtz contributed two hits.

Coach Carla Teare said Shoup's bases-clearing hit put the Wolves out in front to stay.

Clarkston will travel to Waterford Mott Saturday for the regionals. The Wolves are scheduled to play at 10 a.m.

Sashabaw Junior High
Cougars 14, Clarkston 2

May 26—Heather Koneda had four hits, including one double to pace the Cougars over the Wolverines.

Other top hitters included Kathy Paulsen and Julie White with two hits apiece. Lori Highlen chipped in with a double.

Clarkston Junior High
Sashabaw 14, Wolverines 2

May 26—The Cougars exploded for nine runs in the final two innings to rout the Wolverines in their final clash of the season.

The loss left Coach Dennis Bronson a little frustrated.

"Everything we hit was right at them," he said, adding that his club was down 5-1 after five innings.

Pierce 11, Wolverines 10

May 28—Due to the hot weather, the teams decided not to play a season-ending double-header as scheduled. The coaches opted for one eight-inning game instead.

Bronson said the lead went back and forth several times, but the Wolverines were unable to hang on. Despite the loss, he was pleased with the his club's performance.

Clarkston finished the regular season with a record of 10-7.

Soccer

Clarkston High Varsity
Milford 2, Wolves 0

May 28—Clarkston closed out the regular season on the road with a disappointing loss to an undefeated Milford team.

The Wolves finished with a 9-8 overall record and a 5-1 mark in the Greater Oakland Activites League. They tied for the title with Lake Orion, also 5-1 in the league.

Baseball

Clarkston Junior High
Wolverines 12, Sashabaw 1

May 26—Corey Olsen was the winning pitcher for the Wolverines in a rout over the Cougars at home.

Larry Liford and Todd Bennett had two hits apiece.

Pierce 7, Wolverines 6

May 28—Clarkston dropped both ends of a double-header on the road to end the season on a sour note.

Cougars 12, Mason 1
Mason 6, Cougars 3

May 28—Sashabaw closed out the regular season with a split against Mason at home.

In the opener, the Cougars banged out 14 hits to rout Mason. Dave Coin was the winning pitcher for Sashabaw. He threw a five-hitter.

Glen Adams was the top offensive player in the game. He had six RBIs and three hits, including a three-run homer in the first inning.

Mike Ponkey had a double, a triple and a run batted in for the victors. Kevin Keilitz knocked in two runs and Rich Johnson had two hits and scored twice.

Kevin Bellows had one hit and scored once.

Sean Clauw had one hit and one RBI, while Matt Boucard went one-for-two from the plate and knocked in a run.

The Cougars also managed to play errorless ball.

Wolves finish season with a weird one

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston ended its varsity baseball season with a loss that Coach Roy Warner labeled one of the weirdest.

The Wolves lost to Bloomfield Hills Cranbrook 13-3 in the semifinals of the George Gary Tournament at Pontiac's Jaycee Park on May 28.

This game featured a little bit of everything for the Wolves including a player ejection, back-to-back balks with the bases loaded and questionable calls by the umpires.

"I wished it would have turned out better but these things happen," said Warner.

Four batters had a hit apiece for the Wolves in the semifinal loss.

Rob Ronk went one-for-three from the plate with a triple, while Mike Peel, Dave Larkin and Jeff Tungate all collected a hit apiece.

Cranbrook started out fast in the game and the closest the Wolves ever got after the second inning was five runs. Clarkston trailed 8-3 after three innings.

The Wolves were frustrated at the plate the entire evening, and they left the bases loaded in the third inning.

Waterford Kettering and Waterford Mott squared off in the other semifinal in the invitational tournament. Mott advanced to the championship game against Cranbrook.

Clarkston finishes the season with a record of 19-7. The team also won the Greater Oakland Activities League title.

"It's been a very good season since we had such a young team," said Warner, adding that only five members will be lost to graduation this year.

One thing that made Warner proud of the team was the way his charges battled day-in and day-out. Of the Wolves' 19 victories, only three were what he considered easy games.

Clarkston relied on teamwork to overcome its inexperience in the field, Warner said.

Both clubs win 10 games

Cougars, Wolverines end up as winners

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The two junior high softball teams ended the season on different ends of the spectrum.

Sashabaw celebrated the end of the season by taking two from Mason at home May 28, while Clarkston fell on hard times and dropped its last game to Pierce.

The Cougars rallied to score three runs in the final inning of the opening game to steal a 4-2 victory away from the visitors.

In the nightcap, Sashabaw and Mason fought back and forth the entire game before the Cougars once again scored in the final inning to win, 7-6.

Michele Covault had a two-run homer to spark the victors in the second game.

The Cougars' final season record stands at 10-6. Coach Deanna Eberle said it could have been even better with a little luck in a few close games.

"We lost a couple that we shouldn't have," she said.

One solid spot on the roster for Sashabaw is its pitching. Eberle said the pitchers are the strength of the team and they have shown great improvement as the season progressed.

While the Wolverines may have lost the last game of the season, they have no reason to hang their heads over their 10-7 record under first-year coach Dennis Bronson.

The tally marks Clarkston's best record in the last few years.

Bronson has noticed a trend this season. Of the team's seven losses, five have come at home. Also, several of the defeats came after two- or three-day layoffs.

"I thought that we could have done a little better than that, but I am pleased with the results that we have," said Bronson.

A strong area this season was defense, which helped pitcher Jamie Law compile a fine 8-5 record.

Bronson said Law pitched well in the team's two losses last week but got no offensive support from her teammates.

Overall, Clarkston was a good hitting team this season. The squad's batting average finished around the .400 mark. Several individuals swung hot bats for the Wolverines.

Shaun Wilson was the top hitter on the team. She batted a sizzling .548 for the season. Becky Poche hit .484 and Michelle Driscoll ended up at .479.

On the list are a junior golf league, golf lessons, Gymboree, horseback riding lessons, karate, parent-tot enrichment, dog obedience, roller skating lessons, swimming lessons, youth track club, day camp, junior softball league, volleyball leagues, basketball leagues, aerobic excercise, tennis lessons, junior tennis league, therapeutic programs and volleyball tournaments.

For more information on any of these programs, call the parks and rec office at 625-8223.

Boys team takes 1st

Clarkston wins county track meet

At the recent Oakland County meet for ninth-grade track teams, Clarkston did remarkably well. The trend continued when the seventh- and eighth-graders competed in a similar event.

Clarkston's boys team finished the meet as the best team in the county.

The Wolverines collected 64 points to slip past runner-up Boulan Park by two points. Defending champion Orchard Lake finished a distant sixth with 28 points.

The result really didn't come as a surprise, since Clarkston was undefeated in the dual meet season.

Three boys won events for the Wolverines.

Aaron Knapp took first in the 200-meter dash with a time of 26.6 and Jerrod Johnson won the pole vault, clearing the bar at 8 feet, 6 inches.

Joel Davis won the 400 dash with a clocking of 55.8.

The Wolverines also managed to set a school record. Clarkston's 800 relay team of Joe Webb, Mike Herban, Al Manser and Davis smashed the school record but still lost the race to Boulan Park by two-tenths second.

Other good performances for the Wolverines included Manser's sixth-place finish in the 100 dash (12.84) and the fifth-place finish of the 1600 relay team of Derek Moscovic, Kevin Juzystra, Brian Alessi and Matt Dougherty with a time of 4:06.

Kevin Kozlowicz and Davis tied for third in the high jump with Jeremy Rodner of White Lake and Jason O'Branovic of Churchill at 5 feet, 2 inches.

Finally, Webb finished fifth in the shot put with a throw of 38 feet, 4 inches.

The girls team didn't fare as well as the boys, but they managed to place a few athletes.

The Wolverines finished 12th in the team standings with 13 points. Defending champion Abbott won the girls' portion of the meet once again with 76 points.

Carrie Roeser ended up in third place in the 1600 run with a clocking of 6:03.8. She also did well in the long jump, taking sixth in the county with a leap of 13 feet, 10 inches.

The 400 relay team of Roeser, Laura Maierle, Stacy Secatch and Jenny McChesney finished third with a time of 56.4 seconds.

Sashabaw Junior High also competed in the meet—22 boys teams were invited compared to 20 for the girls—and the boys took 13th place and the girls 10th.

For the girls team, the 800 relay team finished third with a time of 2:00.2 and Stephanie Cashin won two individual events to pace the Cougars in the meet.

Cashin was the runner-up in the 400 dash, crossing the finish line in 1:03.4.

She also took fourth in the long jump (14-3).

For the boys team, Jay Tudor finished third with a time of 2:17.3 and D. Raymond was the runner-up in the 3200 run (10:59.4).

Warner earns gold for hard work

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Usually the only time anyone notices a coach is when he or she makes a mistake or yells at the officials.

Things are slowly changing. Coach Roy Warner, for example, recently won an award from the Scholastic Coaches Magazine and the Franklin Life Insurance Co.

The "Select Circle Award" was presented to Warner, a Clarkston High School baseball coach since 1969, by Dennis Pursell, an agent for Franklin Life Insurance.

The award was developed to honor coaches nationwide with outstanding won-lost records.

So far, Warner has won 260 games against 118 losses.

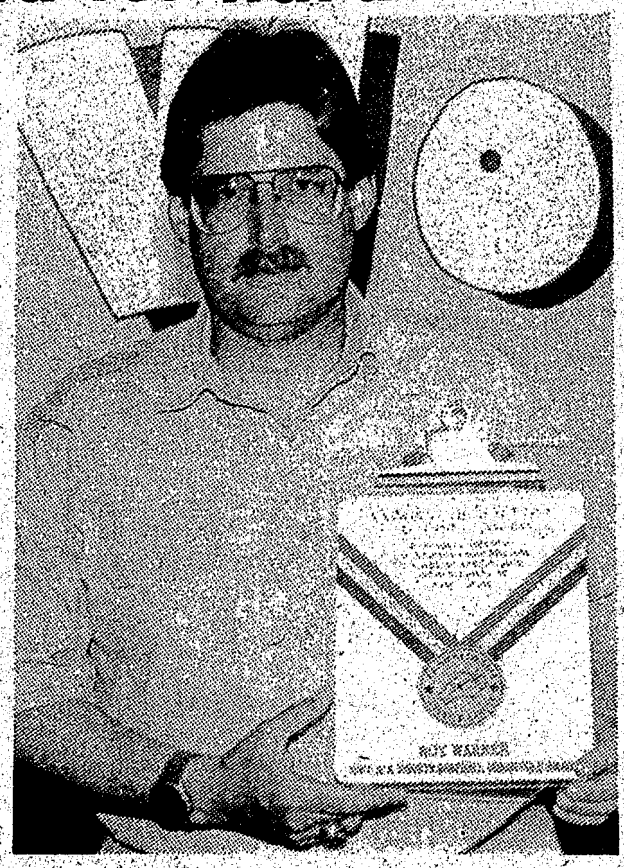

Pursell said the award recognizes coaches on three levels—gold, silver or bronze—depending upon the number of games won. Warner received the gold for his efforts.

"This is quite an honor," said Warner. "There are a lot of good coaches in the nation."

While racking up the impressive record, Warner guided his teams to back-to-back Greater Oakland Activities League titles, including one this year. The Wolves won a district title in 1982 under his tutelage.

He was also named Oakland County Coach of the Year in 1985.

Athletic Director Paul Tungate said Warner is probably the winningest coach in Clarkston High history.

Roy Warner recently won an award for his outstanding winning percentage as a coach at Clarkston High School.

Fish for fun

The March of Dimes will sponsor a family fishing tournament and picnic June 6 in Independence Oaks County Park to help support research aimed at preventing birth defects.

The festivities run from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m. Participants can register for the contests between 8 and 11 a.m.

Admission is $6 for adults, $3 for children and $12 for a family group and includes the park and contest entry fee as well as the picnic lunch.

Prizes will be awarded for the biggest and best fish caught on Crooked Lake. Grand prize is an electric trolling motor.

Participants can bring their own boats, they must have electric motors only, or they can rent boats at the park.

No fishing license will be required.

The picnic lunch includes hamburgers, hot dogs, potato chips and peanuts. Trampolines, a watermelon seed spitting contest and a 50-50 raffle highlight the long list of activities.

Netters finish season strong

Wolves have winning future

While the Wolves didn't win a league title in tennis this year, the team's performances in the regionals and Greater Oakland Activities League meet show better things lie ahead.

Clarkston finished the dual meet season with a very deceiving 6-4 record, said Coach Dick Swartout.

Each loss was a 4-3 match, he said, including two tough losses to the Wolves' rival, Lake Orion.

"Every time that we lost it was real close. These guys played really hard," said Swartout, and opponents usually had to play three-set matches to defeat Clarkston.

The Wolves ended up in third place in the GOAL, behind Lake Orion and Waterford Mott. The regional meet, however, was a completely different story.

The Wolves finished in a tie for fifth out of the 16 teams in its Class A regional May 16. Swartout said six of seven first-round matches were victories for the Wolves. That helped build up valuable points in the team standings.

While Clarkston enjoyed a lot of success in the opening round of the regionals, the Wolves fell on hard times during the next set of matches and only one player was able to advance.

Senior Grant Reading played well all afternoon and finally was defeated by the returning state champion at No. 1 singles.

The entire squad gave their GOAL opponents something to think about until next season with a strong third-place finish in the league meet May 19.

At No. 2 singles, Peter Hollis ended up in third place. His younger brother Steve was the runner-up at the No. 3 singles position.

Paul Reading was third at No. 4 singles. All three doubles teams placed as well.

Jeff Brock and Eric Chambers were runners-up as the third doubles team, as were David Racine and D.J. Deloney and Dave Reading and Cory Whisner.

Clarkston finished third in the team standings at the league meet with 16 points. Lake Orion had 21 points; Waterford Mott, 18.

One bright spot for the Wolves is that most of the players will return next season. Only Grant Reading and Peter Hollis will be lost to graduation.

"It's looking pretty good for next season," said Swartout. "All of the other teams in the league are losing (a lot of) players."

Hope helped Wolverines salvage baseball season

When a team gets into a losing streak, sometimes its easy to give up and say, "Wait until next year."

Clarkston's ninth-grade baseball team found itself in that situation earlier this year, but the Wolverines fought back and made this a season to remember.

After getting off to a horrendous start, the club pulled itself together and posted a 10-9 record.

"They did a pretty nice job after starting out 1-5," said Coach Dave McDonald.

The team also managed to set a couple of school records during its second-half surge.

Todd Bennett finished the year with a batting average of .526, which broke a nine-year-old mark at the school.

Another big swinger in the Clarkston lineup was Bill Knight. He completed his junior high career with the second most runs batted in for the Wolverines.

Larry Liford collected the most extra base hits in a career to set another mark.

Pitcher Corey Olsen took advantage of the offensive support and came close to setting a record for most wins in a season. His six victories were two shy of the school mark.

CHS wins sports award

Clarkston High School recently was awarded the All-Sports trophy from the Greater Oakland Activities League for the 1986-87 school year.

The GOAL awards schools points for the place they finish in the division in each varsity sport.

Division winners earn five points, runners-up get four and third place get three.

Clarkston totaled 65.5 points during the year. Lake Orion finished second with 53.

"What really helped us is that we won the division in several sports," said Athletic Director Paul Tungate.

The Wolves won GOAL titles in the following sports this year: football, boys and girls basketball, boys and girls soccer, girls cross country, volleyball and baseball.

Time out

Just lucky, I guess

Peter Auchter

That's it. I'm convinced that Detroit sports fans are doomed to cheer for losers for the rest of their lives. Or at least not have a champion to be proud of.

It all became clear to me last week while watching a National Basketball Association playoff game on television.

Five seconds remained in the game. The Pistons were ready to snap a 16-game losing streak at the Boston Gardens and take a three-games-to-two lead back to the spacious Silverdome that Isiah calls home.

Then disaster struck. The cruel hand of fate guided a pass into Larry Bird's hands and he quickly dished off the ball to Dennis Johnson. Johnson then sank the winning field goal with one second left.

It just wasn't meant to be. The Pistons didn't have any luck, and without it they are not going to become NBA champions anytime soon.

Don't get me wrong, it's not time to run and cover our heads with paper bags, but the loss was frustrating to take all the same.

Let's relive that magical moment once again.

The Pistons led by one point—107-106—and time was running out in the game as the Celtics brought the ball up the court for one final attempt.

I could barely keep my eyes on the screen. I thought I was going to jinx the Pistons. I could already see it coming. Boston would wait until a second remained in the game and then sink the winning shot, thereby not allowing the Pistons a chance to win.

But then a minor miracle occurred. Boston screwed up and the Pistons got the ball out of bounds with five ticks left on the clock. The Pistons began celebrating in front of a stunned packed audience in the steamy Boston Gardens.

Pistons' fans across the country faithfully watching the game, while the VCR was taping "Moonlighting," also were jumping up and down with glee saying, "We did it! We did it! WE BEAT THE CELTICS IN THE GARDEN!"

To illustrate just how great the moment was, my roommate began doing his impression of rookie Dennis Rodman after a ferocious slam dunk by dancing in front of the little portable color television in our apartment.

By the time things had settled down and I had a clear view of the TV again, it was all over.

I wish he hadn't moved out of the way because the Pistons had thrown the game away. Now it was the Celtics' turn to start celebrating an incredible victory.

The old Boston mystique came back to haunt the Pistons. No matter how injured the Celtics were, they had one thing Coach Chuck Daly's crew didn't seem to have this year—luck.

Of course, the Pistons managed to come back from that devastating defeat to win one more at home, but this loss will not soon be forgotten. It's sure to make all the highlight films for the next few years.

Now that the series is over, fans can sit around the pool all summer and mournfully say, "What if?" until the next season starts.

Just to be a good sport after the fact, I'd like to wish the Boston Celtics good luck against the Lakers. In fact, I'd like to send a special wish to Bird.

"Go break a leg." (Just kidding, of course.)

Tickets top 125

Over 125 tickets have been sold for the Clarkston High School class of 1987 post-graduation party as of Tuesday morning.

The party, which will begin at 10 p.m. and continue until 4 a.m. at the Deer Lake Racquet Club, will follow the graduation ceremony June 8 at the Pine Knob Music Theatre.

Many activities, use of the club facilities, and lots of food are in store for party-goers.

After the first 100 tickets were sold Monday, a drawing took place for two tickets to the Beach Boys concert at Pine Knob. Winner of the two tickets was CHS senior Kristi Bass.

When 200 tickets have been sold, a second drawing will earn the winner a free ticket to the post-graduation party.

Tickets to the party are available through Friday during lunch hours at Clarkston High School. Cost is $10 per person.

More information about the post-graduation party is available by calling co-chairmen Dody Savas at 625-8285 or Pat Unsworth at 625-3985.

Summer fun for tots to adults

Summer program registration is under way at the Springfield Township Parks and Recreation office.

For youth, Springfield Township is offering swim lessons for ages 3-16, summer day camp for ages 6-12, tennis lessons for ages 8-17 and a youth basketball clinic for ages 8-16. A youth group for ages 13-17 meets weekly for a variety of activities.

Adult programs offered include golf, tennis and swimming lessons.

Summer programs for the senior "Young at Heart" group include horseshoes, shuffleboard, golf league and co-ed volleyball.

A variety of discount-priced amusement park tickets are available at the Springfield Township offices between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

Also coming up are some Walk Michigan events. On June 10, there will be a "Walk with the Springfield Rotary Club." The walk will begin about 8 p.m., following the Rotary meeting in the Springfield Township Hall.

The final Walk Michigan event in Springfield Township is 10 a.m. July 11. The "Michigan Sesquicentennial Walk" will be a one-mile walk around Karl Shultz Park, and all participants will receive a ribbon. Parks and recreation Director Sherry Swindell is encouraging people to have a family picnic following the walk.

Walk Michigan events are co-sponsored by Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Michigan and the Michigan Recreation and Park Association. Walkers will have a chance to win an expense-paid trip to Mackinac Island.

Springfield Township will have its drawing on Aug. 3 at the Township Hall. Last year's trip winner from Springfield Township, Maureen Losh, has been asked to do the drawing.

For more information on summer activities and fees, call the township parks and recreation office at 625-4802 or 634-3111.

On the ballot

Final installment in millage series

On June 8, Clarkston school district residents face two local questions—the renewal of a 3.79-mill property tax and a request for 4.25 new mills.

This is the last of a three-part series of most frequently asked questions of the Citizens for Millage Committee. Coordinators of this committee are Jerry Reeves, Alan Weverstad, Michele Weverstad and William Potvin.

Who can vote in this election?

All registered voters who live within the boundaries of the Clarkston school district.

Where are the voting places?

Precinct 1—Independence Township Hall
Precinct 2—North Sashabaw Elementary
Precinct 3—Fire Hall (Sashabaw Road)
Precinct 4—Clarkston High School
Precinct 5—Pine Knob Elementary
Precinct 6—Bailey Lake Elementary
Precinct 7—American Legion Hall (M-15)
Precinct 8—Clarkston Junior High
Precinct 9—Clarkston Methodist Church
Precinct 9A—Andersonville Elementary
Precinct 10—Clarkston High School
Precinct 11—North Sashabaw Elementary

How long are the polls open?

Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Monday, June 8.

How much does Clarkston receive per pupil compared to other Oakland County school districts?

Out of the 28 school districts in Oakland County, Clarkston ranks second lowest in revenue per student. Only one district receives less.

How does Clarkston compare with other districts in the amount of millage levied?

Twentieth out of 28 districts (23 out of 28 including operational debt). In north Oakland County, only one school district has a lower millage than Clarkston.

What will the two millage proposals cost the average taxpayer?

The cost is figured on the assessed valuation, which is half the amount your home is worth on the market. Since the 3.79 is a renewal, it will require no additional taxes.

The tax rate will only be affected by the 4.25 new mills. Because the 1.2 Headlee rollback will be absorbed by the millage package, the increase will only be an additional 3 mills, or $3 more per thousand dollars of assessed valuation.

Assessed Value	Market Value	Per Year	Per Week	Per Day
$20,000	$40,000	$60	$1.15	17¢
$30,000	$60,000	$90	$1.73	25¢
$40,000	$80,000	$120	$2.31	33¢
$50,000	$100,000	$150	$2.88	42¢
$60,000	$120,000	$180	$3.46	50¢
$70,000	$140,000	$210	$4.04	58¢
$80,000	$160,000	$240	$4.62	67¢

Depending on the individual's tax status, portions of the above amounts could be returned through both the federal income tax and the Circuit Breaker of the Michigan income tax.

Why is it important that both the 3.79 mills and the 4.25 mills be approved?

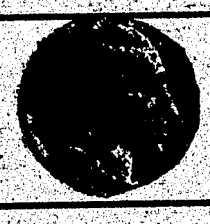

1. The Clarkston school district has provided a good sound basic education program throughout the years.

2. When surrounding school districts were cutting curricular programs and extra-curricular activities, Clarkston was operating a full program in both areas.

3. The school district has responded to parental requests and curricular need for additional programs by starting a gifted program, elementary physical education, computer instruction and foreign language. Additional credits were required in mathematics and English.

4. This has been done with a conservative levied millage rate, without frequent requests for additional millage and with a low per pupil expenditure.

5. There are significant new textbook adoptions needed and significant curriculum improvements planned for the near future that require adequate financing.

Cafeteria manager listens to the students

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

In the past 24 years, Lee Funk has had to keep up with the latest food trends for teenagers.

As cafeteria manager at Clarkston High School, one of Lee's duties is planning the menu.

"Food service now has changed to the point where its biggest competitor is McDonald's," said Lee. "Consequently, we have had to offer the same thing—hamburgers, fries. We even have a non-carbonated pop."

To keep the lunchers happy, the cafeteria offers five entrees, said the Cramlane, Independence Township, resident.

"When I first started, you took what the government told you was healthy for you," she said. "Right now, we're listening more to our customers. We're listening to our students.

"In the last two years, the kids have gone back to the old-fashioned grade A lunches, spaghetti and all," she said. Lasagna and turkey and gravy are some of the most popular dishes.

Lee shared some of the observations she's made over the years.

"The majority of the kids are very well-behaved now days. . . . In the early '70s, we could see a definite reaction to the 18-year-old drinking age. You'd see some come in under the weather.

"Now, a lot of the older ones go out to lunch, and it's a good thing. I don't know where we'd seat them if they all decided to stay here," she said.

The students make her job enjoyable.

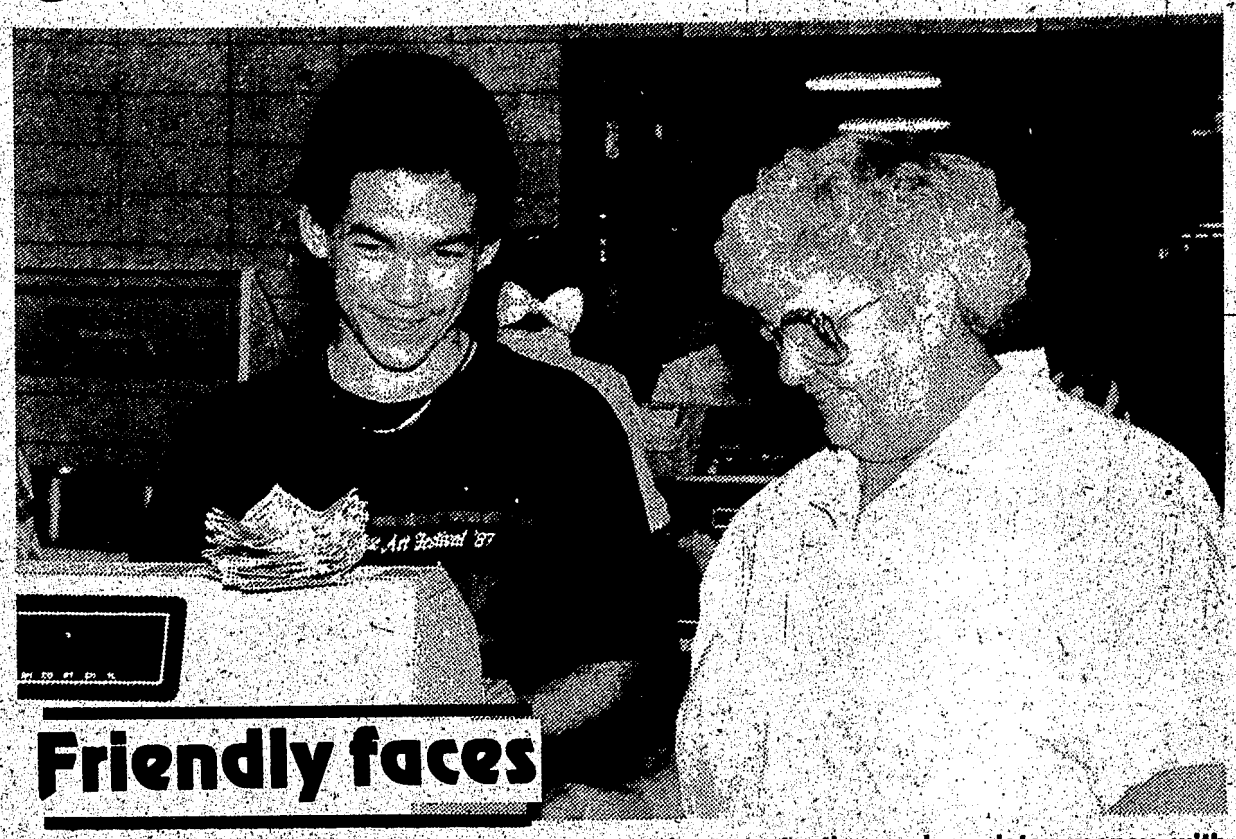

"They're young, and they keep me young," Lee said.

She's going to miss the CHS cafeteria, said Lee, because she plans to retire this year.

"My husband (Dick) retired last year, and I felt we should have some time together," she said.

"We're going to just take every day as it comes and not live by the clock. . . . We're going to do what we want to do when we want to do it. But I've never done it before, so I can't tell you if I'm going to like it."

Her granddaughter, Katie, 4, should like it because, said Lee, "if I'm not working, I'm playing with my granddaughter."

Friendly faces

Lee Funk has enjoyed working with the students at Clarkston High School and will miss work when she retires, she says. Here, she counts the cash register money with senior Shawn Petty.

Adventure in France

Loneliness sets in at first, but the charm of Avignon prevails

Editor's note: In the second portion of a three-part series, Independence Township resident Sharon Hahn shares her memories of her second visit to Avignon, France, earlier this year.

BY SHARON HAHN
Clarkston News Special Writer

It was like coming home.

As I left the train station, I deliberately walked past the taxi stand, preferring to see on foot the little town I'd left the year before.

Avignon, France, was more than just a memory to me. It was the town that reaffirmed my individuality. I had come alone, knowing neither the people nor the language, and in three short months had developed a circle of good friends and quasi-family.

I had done it once. I could do it again. And I confidently headed for the Hotel d'Europe, my final splurge at luxury before I tightened the belt and located an affordable apartment.

Prices were up and the dollar was down. I was losing $20 on every $100 compared to the year before. I tried not to think about it.

It was mid-February and my return trip home was two months away, but I had so much I wanted to do in those few short weeks.

My tentative schedule allowed me four weeks for school (I was determined to master the French language), one week to see parts of France I couldn't reach on a weekend, and the final two weeks I reserved for a quick trip through Switzerland, Austria and southern Germany with my mom.

The next day was Thursday, and school wouldn't start for me until the following Monday. In the morning, I headed to school to get the address of where I'd be living.

Frederic Millet, now 4, changed in the year since my first visit to Avignon. He was much more sophisticated and talkative, and he would get so frustrated when he had to slow down his speech so I could understand.

The Centre d'Etudes Linguistiques d'Avignon (C.E.L.A.) finds living accomodations for their students . . . be it a hotel room, foyer, a room with a French family or an apartment.

A family would be nice, I thought, but I preferred the independence and the privacy of an apartment.

I checked out of the hotel by 11 a.m., leaving my baggage behind until I knew where I was staying.

The secretary at the school gave me an address, but added that the apartment wouldn't be available until 7 p.m. No big deal, I thought. I'll just kick around for eight hours.

It was one of the coldest days Avignon had offered me. The icy wind from the Alps was decidedly painful. I left the school, bracing myself against the wind and reciting platitudes like, "No one said this was going to be easy."

It was not a good day for an outside cafe, so I headed for McDonald's. I ordered a cup of coffee and a box of McDonaldland cookies. I needed a little touch of the familiar to face the day ahead.

She gave me a cheeseburger and french fries. Must be my accent, I thought. I ate the cheeseburger.

I headed to Gallaries Lafayette, the large department store in town, and wandered up and down the aisles of all three floors trying not to watch the clock.

The wind refused to lessen. Women walking down the street had to grip their head scarves with one hand, holding their bags tight against their bodies with the other.

It was so cold!

Down the block was Quick Hamburger, another fast-food outlet with coffee the shade of char-broiled steak. I had three cups.

The Monoprix (a dimestore) sheltered me for a time. Then it was back to McDonald's . . . and so on.

Until 7 p.m.

My landlady was a young French woman who, with her husband, owned a facial salon and the building it was housed in. She excused herself from the gentlemen lathered in facial creams and escorted me up the back stairs (two flights) to my apartment.

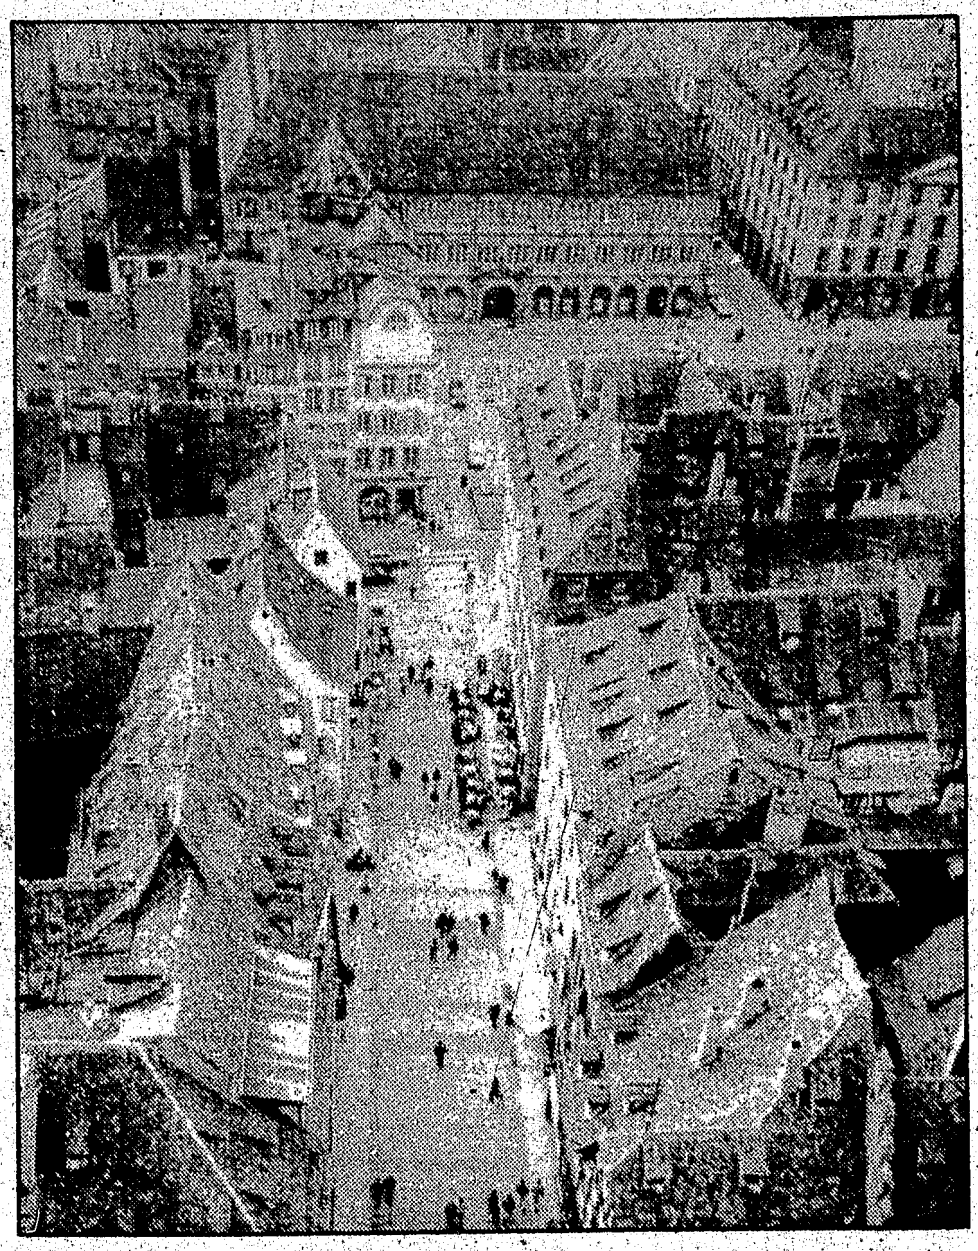

She quickly explained how the couch became my bed, the roll-up wooden shade on the exterior of the window would ensure my privacy at night, and the cupboards above the small sink, stove and refrigerator held everything I would need for cooking.

I thanked her, and she hurried back to work.

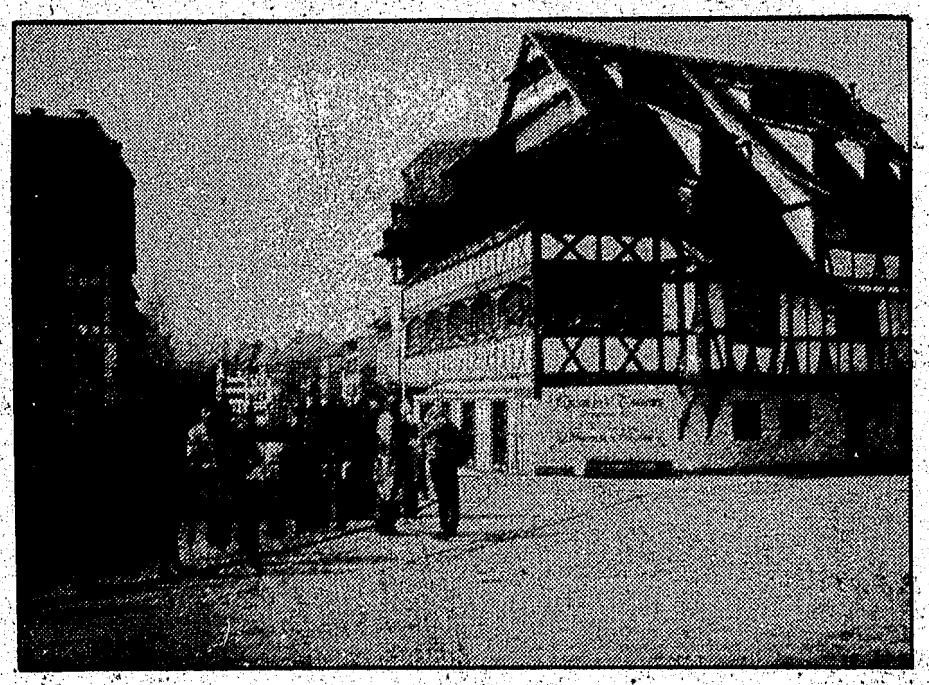

The room was bright. It was clean. And . . . it was very small.

I felt like Alice in Wonderland—much too big for this tiny room, I thought. It wasn't until I had returned from the hotel with my

[See WRITER, Page 38]

By climbing a tower with 330 steps, I was able to enjoy the view from the top of Cathedrale Notre Dame in Strasbourg, France. The circular tower has no resting stops and I had to pull off to the side to let young people pass!

La Petite France is found in Strasbourg in a portion of the city that was destroyed during World War II and reconstructed. None of it's old, but it's pretty.

Clarkston attorney discovers joy of cycling

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Flora Newblatt gave herself a birthday present last spring that could evolve into a lifetime of enjoyment.

After a friend told her how much fun bicycling is, Newblatt decided to give it a try.

She hadn't been on a bike since her children were little, but she loves the outdoors and enjoys being active, so it seemed like a natural pastime for the Clarkston attorney.

She purchased a 12-speed bike at Kinetic Systems, a bicycle shop in downtown Clarkston, and has been an avid biker ever since.

"They really helped me understand bicycles," Newblatt says.

She was soon riding on Sundays with The Flying Rhinos, a bike group associated with Kinetic Systems. The Flying Rhinos is a racing group, but has branched out into a touring group as well. It now includes those people who enjoy serious riding rather than serious racing.

She also rides on Saturday with the Clarkston-Orion Express, a group with riders at all levels of experience.

Both groups depart from Depot Park. The Clarkston-Orion group leaves at 9:30 a.m. on Saturdays. A 75 cents per person charge is donated to the American Youth Hostels.

The Flying Rhinos leave at 8 a.m. on Sundays. On both days, bikers can plan for a ride anywhere from 20 to 40 miles. The Saturday rides mostly in the Clarkston-Lake Orion-Oxford area. The Sunday group rides to Indian Springs Metropark and throughout the park.

"The Sunday group is generally people associated with the bicycle shop. They are maybe a little more into technique," Newblatt says.

Chuck Fosse, a United States Cycling Federation official, leads The Flying Rhinos ride on Sundays. And sometimes Jeff Noltz, one of the owners of Kinetic Systems, is on hand to help people with proper riding technique.

"It's really not our group, it's just so many people who like to get out together and ride," says Noltz. "If someone wants to come out and join us, just go at their own pace and not get intimidated, I think they'd enjoy it.

"The people are very friendly," Noltz continues. "And I think you can learn a lot, too."

Noltz describes Newblatt as a "wonderful example of someone who came out to ride and has what it takes to enjoy riding.

"She's going the full nine yards," Noltz says.

"I just like to try something new," Newblatt says.

That is evident in other areas of her life as well. She was a teacher before going back to school to earn a master's degree in developmental psychology. Then she took time out to raise a family. Her youngest son was three when she went back to school for a law degree.

She graduated from law school in 1976 and was an assistant prosecutor in Genesee County before moving to Clarkston where she opened her law practice on Main Street in 1978.

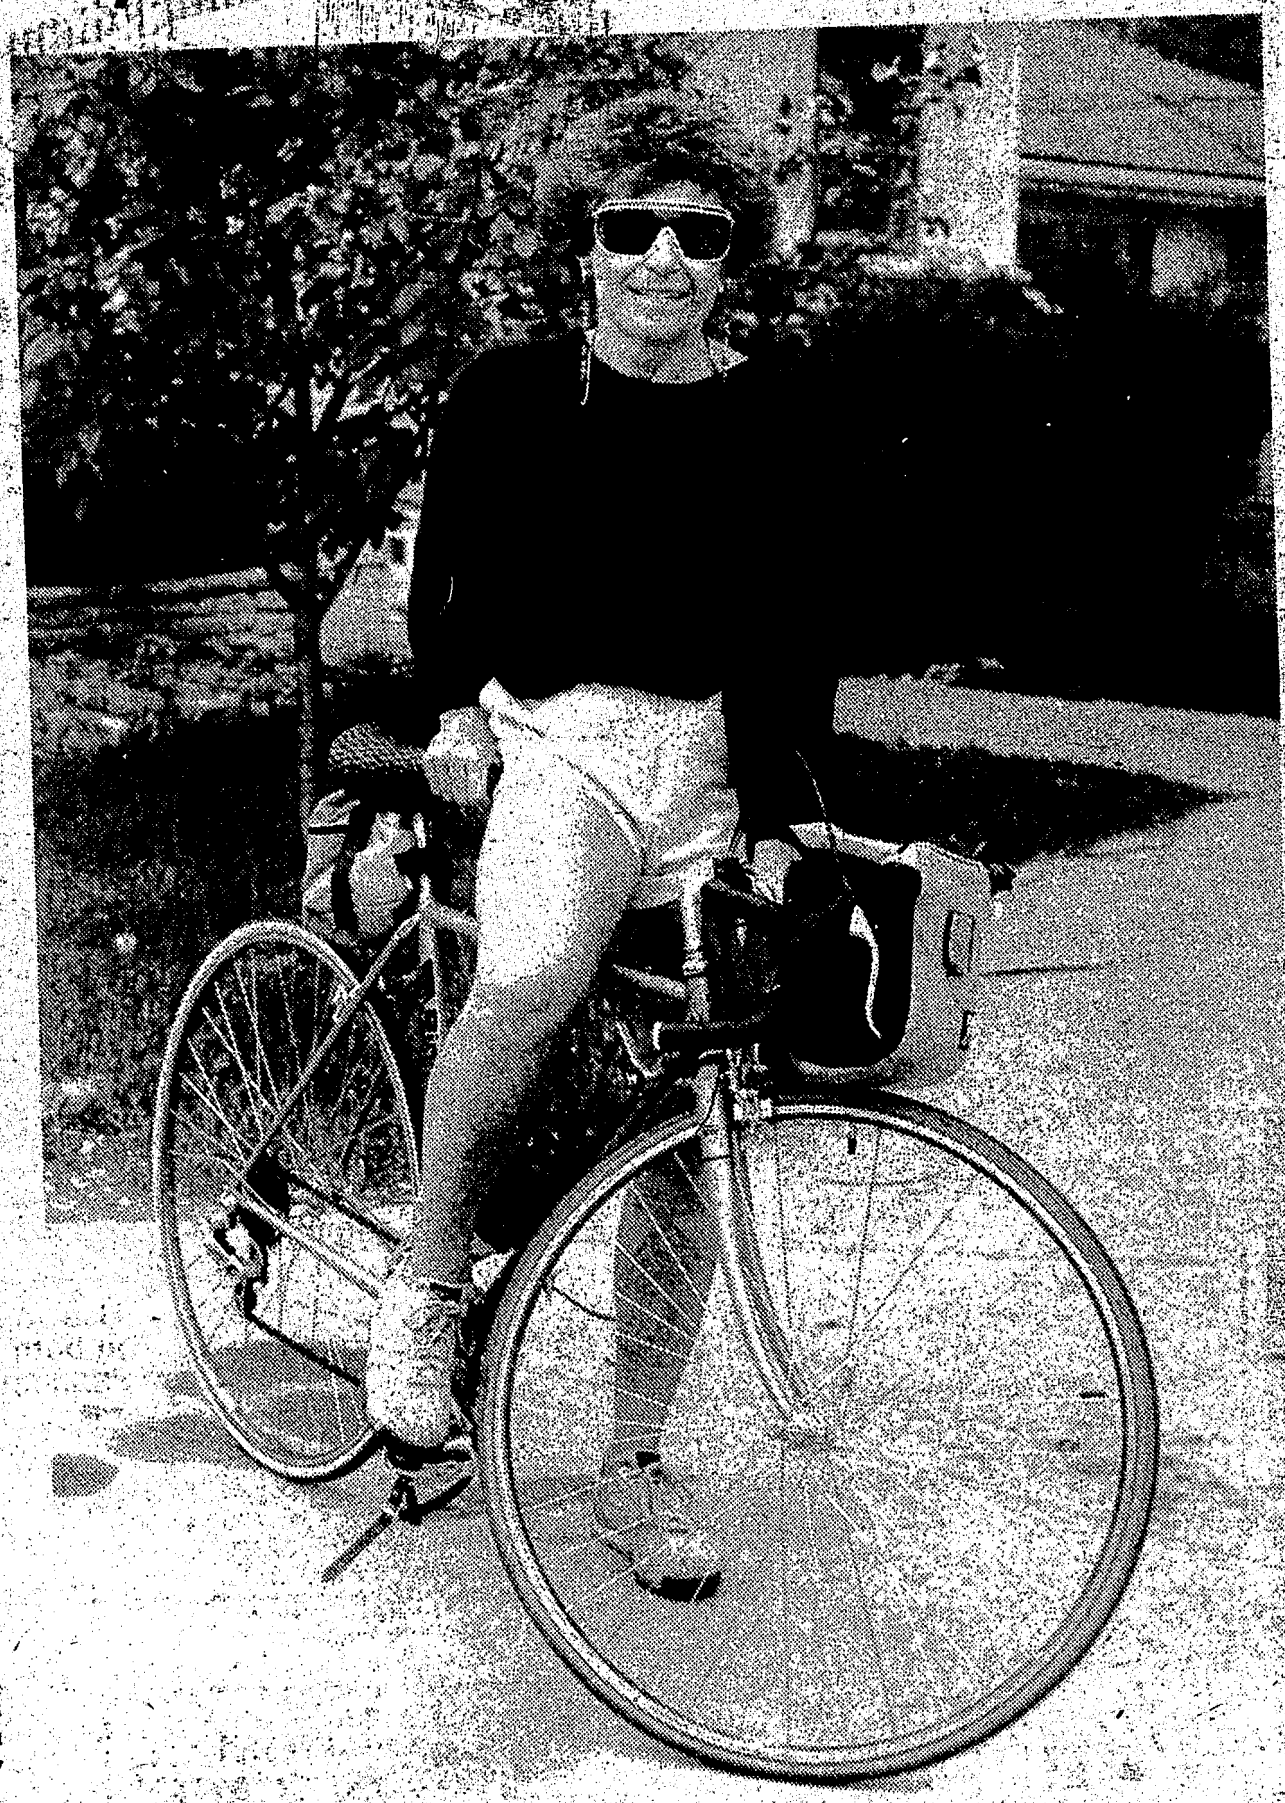

Newblatt's husband, Stewart, a federal judge in Flint, does not share her bicycling pastime. But they do enjoy running, tennis and golf together.

Sons, David, 21, Robert, 20, and Josh, 17, are not into bicycles either.

"They're usually sleeping when I ride on Sundays," Newblatt says, laughing.

This is her only "solo" sport, and she enjoys it tremendously, especially the weekend rides.

"It's a lot of fun and a nice way to meet people who share the same interest," she says. "I like the speed and the feeling of freedom you get on a bicycle."

Flora Newblatt enjoys a spin on her bike near her Independence Township home. She rides with other bikers on weekends, putting in 20 to 40 miles on Saturday and on Sunday.

BPW installs 1987-88 officers

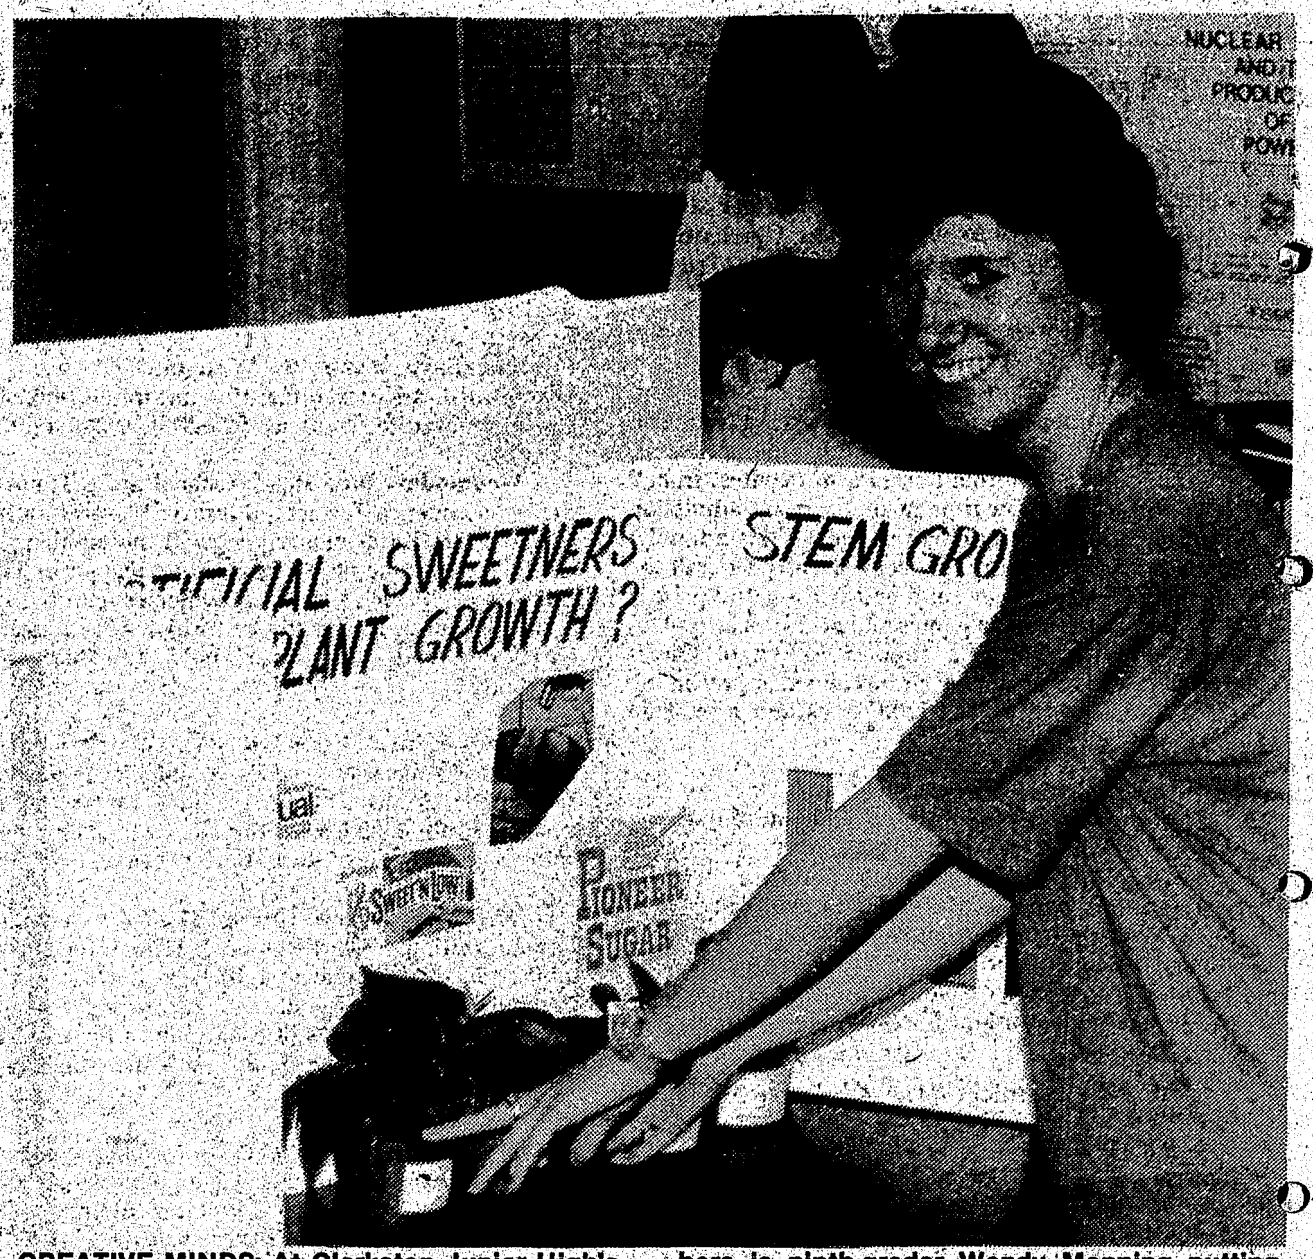

Officers for 1987-88 were installed in May by the Waterford-Clarkston Business and Professional Women's Club.

President is Joan Rogers of Drayton Plains; President-Elect Irish Walker of Clarkston; Vice President Lorraine Hewitt of Clarkston; Secretary Fran Dickie of Orchard Lake; Corresponding Secretary Arlene Stone of Clarkston and Treasurer Rebecca Ridley of Pontiac.

Martha Wheeler, BPW chapter president from 1982-84, conducted the ceremony. Several past presidents were also in attendance: Patricia Beach of Clarkston, 1972-74; Mary Williams of Pontiac, 1974-76; Noreen Campagnoni of Pontiac, 1984-85; Denise Schons of Clarkston, 1985-86; and outgoing president, Sharon Johnson of Holly.

The BPW club, an international organization founded in 1919, is open to all women actively engaged in a business or profession. The Waterford-Clarkston chapter is one of 112 in Michigan.

The club's next meeting is June 11. For more information, call Joan Kopietz at 625-2511.

CREATIVE MINDS: At Clarkston Junior High's school fair Friday, students could enter homemade projects in many different subjects, such as history, drafting and science. ***

Robin Toretta of Eckles Road, Independence Township, graduated with an associate's degree in early childhood development from Oakland Community College this spring.

She won a partial scholarship to Central Michigan University, Mt. Pleasant, and plans to begin there in the fall.

Toretta is a 1984 graduate of Clarkston High School.

New arrival

Jim and Sue Misener welcomed their son into the world April 25.

Zachary was born at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac. He weighed 6 pounds, 10 ounces and measured 19 inches long.

Grandparents of the Stanton Road, Brandon Township, resident, are Pauline Nottingham of Stockbridge and Geneva Misener of Waterford Township.

Honors

Kristin Whisner has been selected to receive the Helen Waldvogel Donley Scholarship as part of the Scholar-Leader Program at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, for the coming academic year.

She is one of 28 students selected as Scholar-Leaders from nearly 350 applicants. The designation is based on leadership ability, personal merit and outstanding academic achievement.

Scholar-Leaders reside in uniquely furnished rooms in two of the university's oldest residence halls and participate in a leadership development program. Scholarships cover the room fees.

David Frayer was among over 30 students "tapped" into the distinguished honorary Mortar Board in traditional May Morning Sing ceremonies at Michigan State University, East Lansing.

Unsuspecting initiates were awakened by current Mortar Board members at 7 a.m. May 1, blindfolded and taken to MSU's Beaumont Tower, where family, friends and Mortar Board members waited to honor them in the annual induction ceremony.

Initiates are chosen on the basis of scholarship, leadership and service to the community. They are selected by a secret process and notified of their acceptance with the annual "kidnapping."

Frayer is a graduate of Andover High School. His parents are Donald and Jean Frayer of Bristol Parke, Independence Township.

Barbara Eckert has been inducted into Adara, a senior women's honorary society at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

Membership in the society recognizes senior women for leadership and service.

An economics major, Eckert is vice president of the Student Alumni Council, a member of the Economic Society and a member of the U of M Marching Band. She was graduated from Clarkston High School in 1984.

Her parents are Roger and Karen Eckert of Middle Lake Road, Clarkston.

Jeffrey Dean and Richard Lay, both of the Clarkston area, were named to the academic honors list for the spring quarter at Ferris State College, Big Rapids.

To be eligible, a student must compile a 3.5 grade point average in at least 12 quarter hours of graded work.

Lisa Verbouw of Independence Township was initiated into the National Honor Society of Phi Kappa Phi at Central Michigan University, Mt. Pleasant.

Phi Kappa Phi recognizes superior scholarship in all academic disciplines.

Admission is by invitational only. Students must be nominated and approved by the local chapter.

Writer shares memories of Avignon

baggage, climbed, again, the two flights of stairs, tried to outrun the timed light in the hallway, that I collapsed on my couch and asked, "What am I trying to prove?"

I had never felt so alone.

I wrote postcards saying, "Wish I Were There."

It was time for another platitude, so I promised myself, "This, too, will pass."

I pulled the bed out as my landlady had shown me. As I went to put on the clean sheets, I brushed against the lamp cord hanging down the wall from the shelf above.

Brass lamp and glass shade toppled over onto me, crashing to the tile floor where broken glass spread in every direction.

I crawled into bed and refused to listen to any more platitudes.

In the morning, I packed my overnight case. I much prefer traveling alone to staying in one place by myself. I had decided to spend the weekend in Aix-en-Provence.

"All the world wants to live in Paris," the guidebook said. "But all of Paris wants to live in Aix-en-Provence." At one time it was filled with aristocracy. Today you're more apt to see American students.

My train to Marseille, with connections to Aix, was late—a rarity in European train travel. A young man in Legioneer's uniform, and speaking the king's English, told me we could catch another train about to leave from another track if we hurried.

"Et, moi aussi?" (Me too?) asked a young Algerian lad who was standing nearby.

The three of us ran for the train. As we settled down in our seats, I asked my young English friend how he happened to be in the French Foreign Legion.

"For the adventure," Alex said. "My dad and I don't see eye-to-eye, so I tell 'im I'll be gone five years in the Legion, 'n goodbye. 'e didn't believe me. 'e didn't even say goodbye."

It's true, he said, about people joining the Legion to begin life anew. The Legion doesn't care who you're running from, he said. Wives, creditors, the police . . . whoever. If you're honest with them, they'll give you a new identity in exchange for five years' service.

But Alex wasn't hiding out, he said. Six months after he joined, his commanding officer told him the French government had had inquiries from his parents. They were trying to locate him.

The young Algerian lad and myself were treated to non-stop outrageous tales of life in the French Foreign Legion. Before I knew it, we were pulling into Marseille.

"I told 'im, 'Sure, you tell them where I am,' " he said. "Bet 'e believes me now."

The young Algerian lad and myself were treated to non-stop outrageous tales of life in the French Foreign Legion. Before I knew it, we were pulling into Marseille.

They walked me to my connecting train and gave me goodbye kisses on the cheek (as they do in France).

"Write your mom," I told Alex. He grinned, and they left.

The past hour had completely refreshed my dampened spirits. Sometimes it takes so little, I thought.

Monday morning found me in class with Yuko from Japan, Vibakur from Denmark and Hernan from Ecudor. We were joined the following weeks by Maria and Christian from Austria and Erkhardt, Bettina and Thomas from Germany.

Classroom discussions were lively and they spilled over into coffee breaks. It was non-stop French, as it was our only common language. There were no other Americans at the school while I was there this year.

In the afternoons, I once again watched Frederic, now 4 years old, in exchange for my school tuition. Frederic's mother and father owned C.E.L.A. and combined home and school in a lovely large maison, turned hotel, turned school.

Frederic wants to learn English, they said.

On weekends I traveled to Montpellier, an ancient university city, and Lyon, the gastronomical center of France. I even took in an auto show in Geneva, Switzerland, with my husband one weekend.

On my week off from school I headed to Limoges, the porcelain-producing town 250 miles southwest of Paris. Walking through a porcelain factory, I saw fine china being painted by hand. And I watched the tedious process of enameled jewelry being made.

From there I went to Strasbourg, bordering Germany. The people of Strasbourg are said to have "the discipline of the Germans and the grace of the French."

I found them delightful, and much more receptive to Americans than the rest of France.

My last French weekend, I decided to spend in Avignon. I had washing and packing to do for my three-country tour with my mom, and the apartment was paid for through Monday.

Sunday morning, I headed for Place des Carmes, not far from the school, for the weekly flea market. Old books, dishes, jewelry, clothes—whatever your fancy—were lined up in front of vendors, priced for negotiating.

Musicians played on street corners with a hat propped in front to receive a sou or two.

I sat on the steps of the palace and enjoyed the entertainment. And I "people watched" a lot.

A young man took care, as he walked, not to jostle the cat that rode atop his heavy backpack, basking in the sun.

Adolescents with skateboards and roller skates tried to outperform their friends.

It was a day for families, I thought, feeling a twinge of loneliness. Mothers and fathers with their little ones scrambled aboard the white petite train that would take them to the highest point of Avignon. Up in back of the palace, overlooking the Rhone, sits a beautiful park.

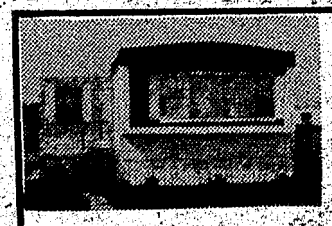

It was there that I met Monsieur Ferrati. He was retired from the police force and often came to the park to visit friends.

He spoke no English but was patient with my French. My dictionary passed back and forth between us all afternoon. He talked of life in the rural French countryside and he told me tales about the lives of the popes.

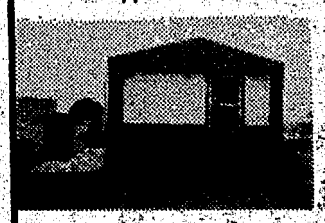

He makes a mean pomme (apple) torte, he said, and promised to make one for me should I return next year.

I left Avignon with mixed emotions. There was sadness in leaving my youthful charge under the watchful eye of another. But there was so much of Europe still left to be seen.

I boarded the train to Geneva to meet my mom, and with guidebooks in hand, began planning the next two weeks.

Schramm named Miss Majorette

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

To say Monica Schramm has won a lot of trophies for her baton twirling skills is an understatement.

More than 700 awards line the walls of the Schramms' home on Andersonville Road in Springfield Township. The most recent is the Junior Miss Majorette of Michigan trophy she won May 16.

The 14-year-old ninth-grader at Clarkston Junior High School participated in the competition sponsored by the Drum Majorettes of America at Clarenceville High School in Livonia.

The girls were judged in four categories and the scores combined to determine the state champion in each age group.

Participants had to model in a gown, perform in a talent show without baton twirling, do a fancy strut (baton twirling while doing a gymnastic routine up and down the length of a basketball court) and do a baton routine.

Monica, who has been twirling a baton since age six, was involved in a dance recital the same weekend and didn't find out she had won the title for the 13 to 14 age group until the following day.

"It was a hectic weekend," said Billie Schramm, Monica's mother.

But the busy schedule hardly seemed to faze Monica. She has traveled all across the South to compete in baton-twirling competitions and summer camps.

Some of her stops have included North Carolina, Florida and Ohio. Monica will return to North Carolina the first week in August for the nationals.

While she already has won more awards and trophies than she knows what to do with, Monica continues to set lofty goals.

"I want to become a Majorette Queen of America next year," said Monica adding that the title is for the 15- to 20-year-old age group. "It's as far as you can go (in competition)."

Monica Schramm already has filled up her basement with trophies and now is starting on the living room. She's sitting next to the trophy she won May 16.

To attain that goal, Monica says she usually practices about three or four hours a day during the school year and then travels to camps during summer vacation.

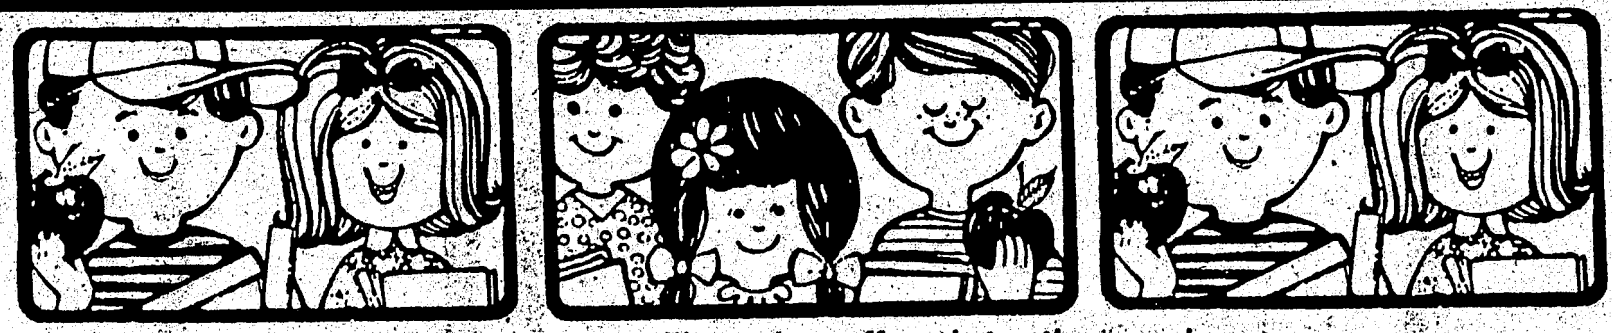

Other things that Monica enjoys are tap dancing and gymnastics. Her mother said that she recently was given a Presidential Academic Fitness Award and is on the honor roll.

Monica started taking baton lessons to be with a friend. She plans to help others learn her remarkable skill next fall when she teaches a class at Andersonville Elementary School in the after-school program.

An Apple for the Teacher

Twofold goal

by Gene Lewis

Louise Dube began her teaching career in the Detroit public school system.

In 1971, when the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center opened, Louise was employed by Clarkston Community Schools as a business education teacher in the Total Office Procedures Systems Program.

She has grown and changed along with the program's curriculum content and name, and currently continues as a business education teacher in the Automated Office Program at NWOVEC.

Louise earned a two-year secretarial service certificate from the University of Detroit and went on to earn a bachelor's and a master's degree from Wayne State University.

She also holds memberships in the Michigan Business Education Association (MBEA), the Association for Supervision & Curriculum Development and other education-related profressional organizations.

Prior to entering the teaching profession, Louise spent 11 years in the secretarial field working for the General Motors Corp. and the remainder of this time period as a legal secretary and a secretary for a financial firm.

This experience has served her well in bringing the "real" world of work to her students and also was a catalyst in her returning to school to become a business teacher.

Louise's family life is devoted to her husband, Raymond, and to her parents who she feels so fortunate to have had for so many years. An additional family member is her dog, Bambi, who brings added fun to her life.

Although Louise and Raymond do not have children of their own, when Louise is asked this question, she always is able to respond with "a large quantity"—to the surprise of the questioner—as she tells them the number of students she presently is working with at NWOVEC.

"Teaching is like a kaleidoscope—ever changing."
—Louise Dube

Louise feels that teaching has brought her many rewards and has given her an extended family as well. She keeps in contact with many of her students who graduated years earlier.

The pursuit of educational interests to bring excellence into the classroom continues to be a major goal of Louise's.

She was involved in the pilot program of the Instructional Enrichment Program (a thinking skills program) and she continues utilizing skills exercises in the classroom.

In addition, Louise is presently expanding her knowledge in the area of Teacher Effectiveness Training.

Louise says that her teaching philosophy is twofold: to academically prepare our young people for a future in which their choices cannot even be anticipated today, and secondly, to aid our youth in developing a positive self-concept that will allow them to meet the many challenges they will face.

Louise would like to see every graduating student prepared along two paths—one that would enable them to possess the credentials to pursue a post-secondary education, and a vocational/technical skill path which would allow them to obtain employment.

In this way, students would be prepared for either direction, depending on their choice or their circumstances.

Louise says that "teaching is like a kaleidoscope—ever changing. Technology, social issues, professional growth, all impact this profession and form new shapes. Students, also, are each unique (their own shape) in their development and our profession allows us to aid them in forming newer, enlarged shapes for their future."

As an educator and believer in sharing of one's knowledge, Louise maintains a link to the secretarial profession by conducting workshops through the Oakland Intermediate School District to update educational secretaries on new technology and methods.

In addition to all of this, Louise still finds time to participate as a member of St. Hugo of the Hills Church, enjoys needlepoint and plays the organ. In fact, she is presently continuing her music training through weekly organ lessons.

An Apple for the Teacher is provided through a committee of the Clarkston Education Association. This week's author is Gene Lewis, special needs coordinator at the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center.

CHS honors Class of '87 scholars

BY ALISA NASS
Clarkston News Special Writer

Clarkston High School seniors recently marked another milestone in their journey to graduation.

Awards Evening, May 26, honored over 120 students for their various achievements throughout high school.

Awards and recognitions ranged from departmental awards, Presidential Academic Fitness awards and scholarships to pins for those graduating cum laude, magna cum laude and summa cum laude.

Family, peers and teachers strongly supported each recognition with applause.

In addition to the awards, principal Dr. Robert Burek introduced the exchange students who have attended CHS for the past school year.

The five exchange students are Ricardo Rebufello of Uruguay, Patrica VanRossum of Holland, Eva Magnemyr of Sweden, Martina Stahl of West Germany and Simon Lawlor of England.

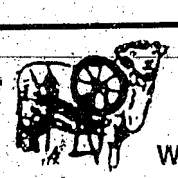

Rebufello, VanRossum, Magnemyr and Stahl spoke concerning their experiences at CHS and how they will miss it.

For Stahl, attending CHS meant seeing her first football team and cheerleading squad. She also had the opportunty to attend school dances including the prom.

"We have no school dance in Germany whatsoever, and I just thought it was great," she said.

Craig Haywood returns to his seat after receiving the departmental award for instrumental music. Haywood was drum major and a member of the University of Michigan Youth Band.

AWARE — ACTION AND EDUCATION IN THE WAR ON DRUGS

Broken promises

Dear Friend to Friend,

My stepfather smokes pot. He tells me not to do it (wouldn't anyway) and not to hang around people who do. In my opinion, he's saying, "Do as I say, not as I do."

He drinks a lot; so does my mom. Some nights it's pretty heavy, some nights a little and sometimes not at all. I told them that they might become alcoholics, but they won't listen.

I'm supposed to leave this summer to go up north. I don't want to come back if that's what they're going to do.

Worried About Health

Dear Worried About Health,

We are glad to see that you realize your parents have a problem. We feel even better about your decision not to fall into the same trap.

We also think it is good that you have approached your parents. All the decisions you have made so far have been good ones.

But we think that your decision to stay up north would be just a way of running away from your problems.

A very important thing to do is approach your parents again and let them know that you love them and are worried about their well-being.

There are many other teens with this same problem. Some of them join Alateen groups for support in dealing with chemically dependent parents. You could also find a social worker that you feel comfortable with to explore your options.

We realize young people who have members of their family who are chemically dependent are in a high risk category to become involved with substance abuse.

We want to stress the importance of communicating your feelings with someone you can trust and from whom you can get support.

Dear Friend to Friend,

I like this guy and I've known him since fifth grade. We went together in eighth grade (me) and ninth (him).

I broke up with him four times, because when we had dances in junior high, I always danced with a lot of people. I didn't think he would approve of me dancing with other guys, so I broke it off every time.

Now he's in the 12th grade and I'm in 11th. I realize what a great guy he really is. We've been friends since we broke up, but now I like him so much I can't stop thinking about him.

I want to tell him, but I don't know how.

In Love but Can't Say

Dear In Love but Can't Say,

Obviously from your letter, it has been several years since you've gone out with this guy. It's really special that you are still such good friends.

You may run the risk of losing your friendship if you decide to pursue anything more than that. What you really need to do is weigh your options.

Is having a relationship with him more important than maintaining a friendship? And, do you think he would seriously give you a fifth chance?

This is something you will have to decide. Please write back and let us know what you do decide.

Dear Friend to Friend,

I liked this guy since school started and he says he likes me. We were close for a while.

He told me that when he went into the Navy, my name would be on his checks and I could take as much money out as I needed (sweet). He was going to get a tattoo with my name on it.

Also, he was going to go up north with me for a few days. I don't have a class ring, so he said he'd buy me one.

Lately, he's been nice but bogue (real). His ex-girlfriend bugs me. Prom came up and I, for sure, thought he was going to ask me because we got along so well at the start. He asked another girl, but she couldn't go.

I thought maybe he would ask me, but he asked another girl. She's going as friends.

He's a senior and I'm a junior. I like him so much, but I already told him that. He acted like he cared, but around his friends he acts like I'm not there.

I was asked out by another guy, but I asked the other guy (my love) if it was OK. He said no, because we were going out. Well, my love never asked me out!

Love but Hates

Dear Love but Hates,

We feel that actions speak louder than words. It appears he is making several promises without any intention of keeping them.

You seem to already know that he is treating you very badly. Why stay? Move along to situations that will make you happy.

Letters to Friend to Friend are answered by a panel of Clarkston High School students working under the sponsorship of Aware, a community group devoted to action and education against chemical dependency.

Students can submit letters by placing them in the designated "problem locker" at CHS, Clarkston Junior High or Sashabaw Junior High.

Letters can also be sent to Friend to Friend in care of The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main, Clarkston, MI 48016.

CHS computer team wins $2,000 scholarship

Two Clarkston High School seniors captured first place in Detroit College of Business-Flint's "Comp-U-Tition 1987" in May.

Roger Vernier, president of the CHS Computer Club, and Eric Hopp, vice president of the club, competed as a team against eight other high school teams in the North Oakland County-Southern Genesee County area.

The "Comp-U-tition" tested computer business applications skills under strict time limits. Teams had two hours to solve five computer programming problems.

For winning first place, CHS received a $2,000 scholarship for a high school senior to attend DCB-Flint in the fall. The recipient will be chosen by CHS no later than June 19.

Vernier and Hopp each won a $75 cash prize. They were the only team to solve all five problems.

A second team from CHS consisting of Paul Jensen and Lew Gallagher placed fifth in the contest.

Two computer science teachers at CHS, Lydia Kazewych and James Ashmore, sponsor the Computer Club at the school and had high praise for their teams.

"These kids are all very proficient programmers," Kazewych said.

Vernier said that he liked the way the contest was set up, because they were able to use their own equipment and work in different rooms.

The CHS teams worked on Tandy 1000s from the computer class at the school.

By working separately, teams didn't know how they placed until the results were announced, but Hopp said he felt they had "done pretty well" on their problem solving.

If it's a major fire or a minor oddity, we want a call at the News.

Schools pay tribute to 10 retirees

BY KATHY GREENFIELD
Clarkston News Editor

An evening filled with memories, fond farewells and laughter marked the retirement of 10 Clarkston Community Schools staff members.

The party on May 27 was at the Deer Lake Racquet Club in Independence Township. Over 200 people filled the banquet hall, dined from a buffet and listened to two hours of tributes and thank yous.

Notable was the warmth shared between members of the educational community. Among the honored retirees were a principal, teachers, teacher's aide, secretary, cafeteria workers and custodians.

Each retiree was presented with a plaque by school board member Carolyn Place. When the presentations were over, Place took the microphone to praise Mel Vaara for organizing the banquet this year and every year since its inception four years ago.

She said she wanted Vaara to know "how much we appreciate all the work he has done for the district."

When Place was done, she and Vaara shared a hug. It was a perfect final touch for an evening filled with loving moments.

A capsule of each tribute follows:

Nancy Albyn

Alphabetical order, that educational mainstay, provided the sequence of tributes, making Nancy Albyn the first on the list.

Albyn, an English teacher at Clarkston High School for 17 years, was introduced by Jan Gabier, an assistant principal at CHS.

She talked about Albyn's 10 years as choreographer for CHS musicals and one of Albyn's encouraging comments to dance neophytes: "When I get through with you, you'll be able to dance the waltz at your own wedding."

Gabier noted that Albyn, a Rochester resident for 23 years, plans to move to North Carolina.

"Nancy, we love you. We're going to miss you, and please come back and see us," she said.

After Albyn accepted her retirement plaque, she reminsced: "I've had 17 wonderful years; some funny, some frustrating, some both. I've enjoyed every minute of it."

Lena Belle Barber

Next in line was Lena Belle Barber, a 21-year employee. She spent 17 years as a custodian at CHS and the last four years as a custodian at Clarkston Junior High.

Superintendent Milford Mason kept the crowd laughing as he began his remarks about Barber, who was on staff at CHS when he was principal of the school.

Mason fondly called Barber an outspoken adviser and an "institution in Clarkston with a big 'I'."

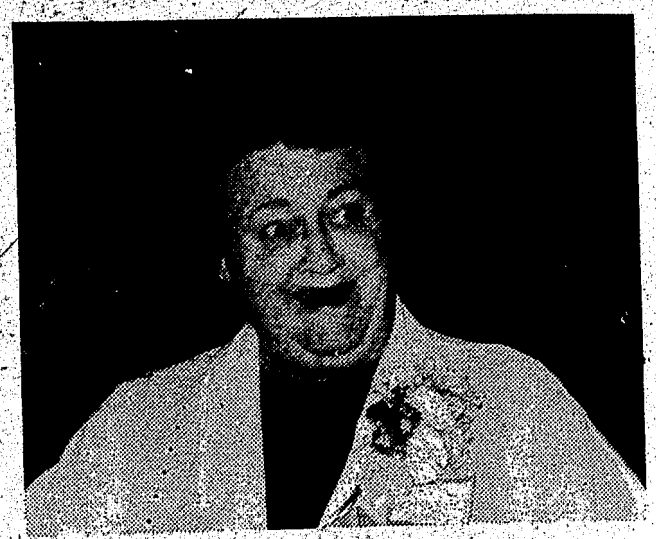

"We are honoring here tonight the person who authorized the phrase, 'Yeah, but . . .' " he said, and "Lena Belle was probably the first person I've run into who realized that if kids didn't make a mess, you wouldn't have a job."

Barber was respected by students and "got into the life of the high school" by volunteering for such tasks as ticket taking and helping out at banquets, he said.

"She gave true meaning to the old truism, 'If you want to find out what's going on at high school, ask the custodian,' " he said.

Mason wrapped up his speech by noting that he enjoyed the years they worked together and suggesting that Barber "remain the free spirit you are."

Barber said, "I always wanted to do that!"

She began her thank you by teasing Mason. "I told Mason if he went to the board office, his hair would turn white. It only took two weeks," she said, and concluded by praising the "nice friends" and "nice people" she met on the job.

Gus Birtsas

Up next was Gus Birtsas, a 33-year employee, the last 15 as principal of Sashabaw Junior High School.

Assistant Superintendent Mel Vaara provided words of praise for Birtsas. "He carried the flag for Sashabaw," said Vaara, and he credited the principal for his constant concern about the success of all of the

A group gathers around Pat Thomas after the retirement banquet is over. Thomas taught at Litchfield and Pontiac before coming to Clarkston in 1954. In the future, she may teach remedial reading through an adult education program.

The crowd responded by providing a standing ovation for Birtsas.

Birtsas, in turn, praised everyone on his staff, the administration and members of the boards of education.

"The parents and students have been outstanding. They've been a source of inspiration for me," he said. "They (the students) keep you young—most of the time. I wish I could thank them all. . . . I just feel very fortunate to have been a Clarkston employee for all those years."

Maxine Connelley

Maxine Connelly's introduction came from Jo Vaara, a kindergarten teacher at North Sashabaw Elementary. Connelly, a 34-year employee, taught second grade at Clarkston Elementary.

Over her years of teaching, Connelly led almost 1,000 children in the Pledge of Allegiance 6,120 times and ate lunch with 7-year-olds 6,120 times, Vaara said.

"Your work made a difference to almost 1,000 kids. We owe you a debt of gratitude," she said.

Connelly's response revealed her retirement reluctance. "I still can't believe this," she said, "I'm not going to quit teaching. I'm going to move to California and keep right on."

Elsie Davis

Elsie Davis, a cafeteria helper for 15 years at Sashabaw Junior High, was unable to attend due to recent open heart surgery, but Bonnie Lochler, her food service manager, provided her tribute.

Davis made her welcome when she became manager in 1980, Lochler said, and the students also appreciated her friendliness.

"She was nicknamed grandma by the students, which made her happy," said Lochler, who noted Davis' practice of humming as she worked.

"Just keep humming, Elsie," she said.

Lela Funk

Lee Funk, a 24-year district employee, has been manager of the CHS cafeteria for 15 years.

Mary Claya, district food service director, credited Funk with a successful operation "that cannot be matched by any other high school in Oakland County."

"Lee's not only a good manager, she's a darned good cook," said Claya, and she wished Funk success in her new career of retirement.

"I just want to say thank you, and thank you to the Clarkston school system for allowing me to have 24 years of . . . enjoying my job," she said. "And also being with the nicest group of people I have ever known."

Louise Mauti

Ginny Farmer, her immediate supervisor, praised Mauti's "bubbling enthusiasm and energy."

"She made our work place a very special and productive place to be," she said.

After retiring, Mauti was home one week before taking sales jobs in two businesses in Clarkston, Farmer said.

Mauti said she plans to enjoy more time to travel, and she indicated she's enjoying retirement.

"It's worth it. It's great and I love it," she said.

Betty Schulte

The tribute to Betty Schulte, 21-year staff member, most recently a paraprofessional with the SPICE program for preschoolers with special needs, was made by Pat Brumback, director of the SPICE program.

Brumback's speech centered on a box filled with "show and tell" items.

A garage sale sign symbolized Schulte's practice of searching through Clarkston garage sales for toys for the program. A used paint shirt represented the need to dress in sweat suits for work.

And, the last item, a large red construction paper heart was included because "that's what she has," said Brumback.

"We'll miss her very much in the program," she said.

Schulte said, "It's been wonderful. We're going to move to Florida, but we'll miss Clarkston. Clarkston has been wonderful."

Patricia Thomas

Next in the lineup was Pat Thomas, a teacher for 32 years. She taught fourth, fifth and sixth grades at Clarkston Elementary.

William Potvin, Clarkston Elementary principal, said he's known Thomas 24 years and has been her direct supervisor five years.

"Pat's a very good teacher . . . and that says a lot. It's what she's done for 30-some years and she does it well," he said.

Potvin also praised Thomas for her sense of humor.

Potvin said, "I will miss Pat a great deal. So will our staff and an awful lot of parents and kids."

Thomas showed her sense of humor by offering some words of wisdom, which included "No child ever throws up in the bathroom" and "When you learn everything you need to know, you're too old to remember."

"Thank you. It's been wonderful, and I'll steal a line from Mae West: 'Y'all come up and see me sometime,' " she said.

Nelda Wegman

Last in the alphabetical order was Nelda Wegman, a 25-year employee, the last five as head custodian at Sashabaw Junior High.

Principal Gus Birtsas said Wegman's staff members had to hustle to keep up with her.

"We feel the building looks great at all times and that's due a great deal to Nelda's leadership," he said, adding that "she was one of the best workers we've ever had."

Wegman said, "I worked for the school district a long time and I loved it. I'll miss you."

Pet of the week

Katrina is a great conversationalist.

The cat meows

Four-year-old Katrina is a spayed, solid black cat due for a little good luck.

She has a sweet disposition and gets along well with other animals. She has a funny little habit of sticking her tongue out when she meows—and she's a great conversationalist. All she needs is a new family to converse with.

Katrina can be adopted at the Michigan Humane Society, 3600 Auburn Rd., Auburn Heights, 852-7420. Hours at the non-profit shelter are 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday. The adoption fee for Katrina is $25.

Sitting in car can be dangerous

Did you know that a car's interior temperature can rise to 102 degrees in 10 minutes, even with the windows slighty open?

The inside of your car can be a death trap during the summer months. In fact, at any temperature above 50 degrees with the sun shining anyone can be in danger of heat stress while waiting in the car.

This is especially true of the elderly, children and pets. Air conditioned cars can be just as deadly when the cooling system is shut down.

"It is vital that the public become more aware of the dangers of leaving the elderly, children and pets in the car during the summer months. We hope that with more awareness heat stress accidents can be prevented," said Oakland County Executive Daniel T. Murphy.

If heat stress should occur, immediately apply an ice pack to the head and neck area to bring down the victim's temperature. You should then seek medical attention for the victim.

"If the victim suffers from body temperature of over 105 degrees for longer than a few minutes, irrepairable damage can be done to the nervous system," said Carl Anderson, manager of Oakland County's Animal Control.

The above report was provided by the Oakland County Department of Public Information.

A suggestion that saved GM $7 million won a $20,000 bonus for Allen Yenglin—and a title.

$20,000 suggestion

Allen Yenglin holds the title of "suggester for the year."

He was selected for the honor for 1986 by the Michigan Chapter of the National Association of Suggestion Systems (NASS).

The award was presented during a regional conference at the Holly Hotel on May 8. He is now automatically entered in the national competition in New Orleans this fall.

Yenglin is currently employed with the Saturn Corp., a wholly owned subsidiary of General Motors, as an operating technician assigned to manufacturing engineering.

He was an hourly technician at the Buick-Oldsmobile-Cadillac Group's Orion Assembly Center when he submitted his award-winning suggestion.

"My suggestion was revising the roof reinforcement, which eliminated an interference that was causing leaks," Yenglin says. "I put in a tremendous amount of work to find the answer to the problem."

His suggestion led to an improved process for the installation of sunroofs on GM cars and resulted in a savings to GM of over $7 million in its first year of use.

For his suggestion, Yenglin was awarded GM's maximum suggestion award of $20,000 in early 1986.

Yenglin resides in Springfield Township with his wife and two children.

00106 Proposal Guaranty. Each proposal shall be accompanied by a certified check, money order or bid bond payable to the Owner in an amount not less than five percent (5%) of the maximum proposed amount. Such guaranty shall be forfeited to the Owner in the event that the bidder fails to enter into a contract with the Owner within ten (10) calendar days after written notice of award of contract by the Owner or his agent.

(1) Proposal guarantees will not be required for proposals less than $10,000.00.

00107 Proposal Conditions. The Owner reserves the right to reject any or all bids, to award the contract to other than the low bidder, to accept any or all alternates, to waive irregularities and/or formalities, and in general to make the award in any manner deemed by him, in his sole discretion, to be to his best interest.

00108 Contract Security. The successful bidder shall furnish bonds covering the faithful performance of the Contract and payment of all obligations arising thereunder, each in the amount of 100% of the Contract. Premiums shall be paid by the Contractor. Form of bonds shall be AIA A311 (no other will be accepted).

(1) Contract security bonds will not be required for proposals less than $10,000.00.

ANNUAL SCHOOL ELECTION

NOTICE OF ANNUAL ELECTION OF THE ELECTORS OF CLARKSTON COMMUNITY SCHOOLS OAKLAND COUNTY, MICHIGAN TO BE HELD JUNE 8, 1987

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE SCHOOL DISTRICT:

Please Take Notice that the Annual Election of the School District will be held on Monday, June 8, 1987.

THE POLLS OF ELECTION WILL OPEN AT 7 O'CLOCK, A.M., AND CLOSE AT 8 O'CLOCK, P.M.

At the Annual School Election there will be elected two (2) members to the board of education of the district for full terms of four (4) years ending in 1991.

THE FOLLOWING PERSONS HAVE BEEN NOMINATED TO FILL SUCH VACANCIES:

Elaine Keeley Schultz
Janet R. Thomas

TAKE FURTHER NOTICE THAT the following propositions will be submitted to the vote of the electors at the Annual School Election:

I. MILLAGE RENEWAL PROPOSITION

Shall the limitation on the amount of taxes which may be assessed against all property in Clarkston Community Schools, Oakland County, Michigan, be increased by 3.79 mills ($3.79 on each $1,000.00) on state equalized valuation for a period of 4 years, 1987 to 1990, inclusive, for the purpose of providing additional funds for operating purposes (this being a renewal of 3.79 mills for operating purposes which expired with the 1986 tax levy)?

II. ADDITIONAL MILLAGE PROPOSITION

Shall the limitation on the amount of taxes which may be assessed against all property in Clarkston Community Schools, Oakland County, Michigan, be increased by 4.25 mills ($4.25 on each $1,000.00) on state equalized valuation for a period of 4 years, 1987 to 1990, inclusive, for the purpose of providing additional funds for operating purposes (this being a separate proposal in addition to Proposition I at this same election)?

THE VOTING PLACES ARE AS FOLLOWS:

Precinct No. 1, Independence Township Hall Annex, 90 North Main Street.

Precinct No. 2, North Sashabaw Elementary School, 5290 Maybee Road.

HOME TOUR PARTY: On Saturday, about 90 people purchased tickets for the SCAMP Home Tour V candlelight tour and the private champagne reception at the historic church-turned-residence of Clarence and Sharron Catallo on Buffalo Street, Clarkston. Participation was down a bit from last year for the $50-a-ticket fundraiser, said Bunny Newmarch, secretary-coordinator for the Clarkston SCAMP Funding Corp. But on Sunday, 238 people paid $15 a ticket to tour the six homes, about the same as last year, she said. Proceeds from the annual tour benefit Clarkston SCAMP, the five-week summer camp for handicapped children and young adults. "I really think it went well. We've had lots of nice comments about it," said Newmarch.

THANKSGIVING TO St. Jude. O, Holy St. Jude, apostle & martyr, great in virtue & rich in miracles, near kinsman of Jesus Christ, faithful intercessor of all who invoke your special patronage in time of need. To you I have recourse from the depth of my heart & humbly beg whom God has given such great power to come to my assistance. Help in my present & urgent petition. In return, I promise to make your name known & cause you to be invoked. St. Jude pray for us all who invoke your name. Amen. Say three Our Fathers, three Hail Marys, three Glorias. Publication must be promised. Say this novena for 9 consecutive days. Z.W. !!!RX20-4*

125- CARD OF THANKS

MANY THANKS TO my friends, neighbors and family for the flowers, candy, phone calls and cards while I was hospitalized, and after I got home. They really made my day brighter. Love Merle Sparks. !!!LX22-2

WE WISH TO THANK our neighbors and many thoughtful friends for their expressions of sympathy during our recent berevement. We extend our deepest appreciation to Rev. Murphy and to the Edward Bossardet family for their support and kindness. We share many warm and pleasant memories of a very special man who will be deeply missed by all.
The family of Harmon A. Fritch. !!!LX21-1

130-IN MEMORIUM

IN MEMORY OF TODD Rea, seven years ago, June 1, 1980. When the family gets together, there is one we fail to see, it fills our hearts with sadness thinking how it used to be. It broke our hearts to lose you, but you did not go alone, for part of us went with you the day God called you home. Deeply missed by his parents, Gerry and Karen, sisters Tammi and Patti and brother Steve. !!!LX21-2*

Dipper's delight

The parties aren't over yet, at least they aren't for me. The wedding showers are just beginning and graduation parties remain in full swing.

Here is a dip that can be used with bread or crackers.

SPINACH DIP

1 package frozen spinach, drained
1 cup Hellman's mayonnaise
1 pint sour cream (16 ounces)
1 box dry Knorr's Vegetable Soup Mix
1 small chopped onion

Combine ingredients in order listed. Serve with pumpernickel bread slices or hollow out the center of a round loaf of bread, put the dip in the middle and arrange bread cubes or slices of bread around the outside.

The dip is also good with Triscuits or any of your favorite crackers.

PWP expands

As smaller chapters have folded, the Rochester chapter of Parents Without Partners has continued to grow.

Included in the 1,000-member organization are about 50 parents from Clarkston along with residents of Lake Orion, Oxford, Pontiac, Utica and Sterling Heights, said Dan Platz, a member of the chapter's board of directors.

"It's a support group, basically, when you're newly single and looking for something to do with your children," Platz said. "We have all these different activities. We teach people, more or less, how to cope. It helps you get through a transitional phase in your life."

Meetings are the second and fourth Thursdays of each month at 7:30 p.m. at the Rivercrest Banquet Facility at Ayon and Livernois roads, Rochester.

Additional activities include family picnics, speakers, discussion groups, family camping and weekend trips.

Orientation for new members is free. National membership dues are $25 annually.

For more information, call 651-3511 or 628-5248.

Selective Service System

DO YOU KNOW AN 18-YEAR OLD MAN?

If you do, he should know that he is required to register with the Selective Service System. Young men born on or after January 1, 1960 must register within 30 days of their 18th birthday. All it takes is five minutes to fill out the simple form at the local post office.

So if you have a student, son, relative or neighbor who is 18, or about to turn 18, make sure they know about Selective Service registration.

For posters, brochures and speakers, contact the Selective Service System, Washington, D.C. 20435.

Registration. It's quick. It's easy. And it's the Law.

Printed as a public service.

Weather cooperates

After a dip in Hidden Spring to cool off, John Athan, 4, of Pontiac, finds perfect entertainment in the sand. His parents Judy and Chris brought him for the day.
