M-15 plan on agenda

A public hearing about the widening of M-15 in Independence Township is scheduled for 7:30 p.m., Thursday, June 25, in the Clarkston High School auditorum.

The widening of about one-half mile of M-15 between Dixie Highway and Paramus Road is in the planning stages and would not happen before 1989, said Philip Chisholm, public hearings officer for the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT).

MDOT is holding the hearing so it can include comments from the area residents and government officials in its decision making, he said.

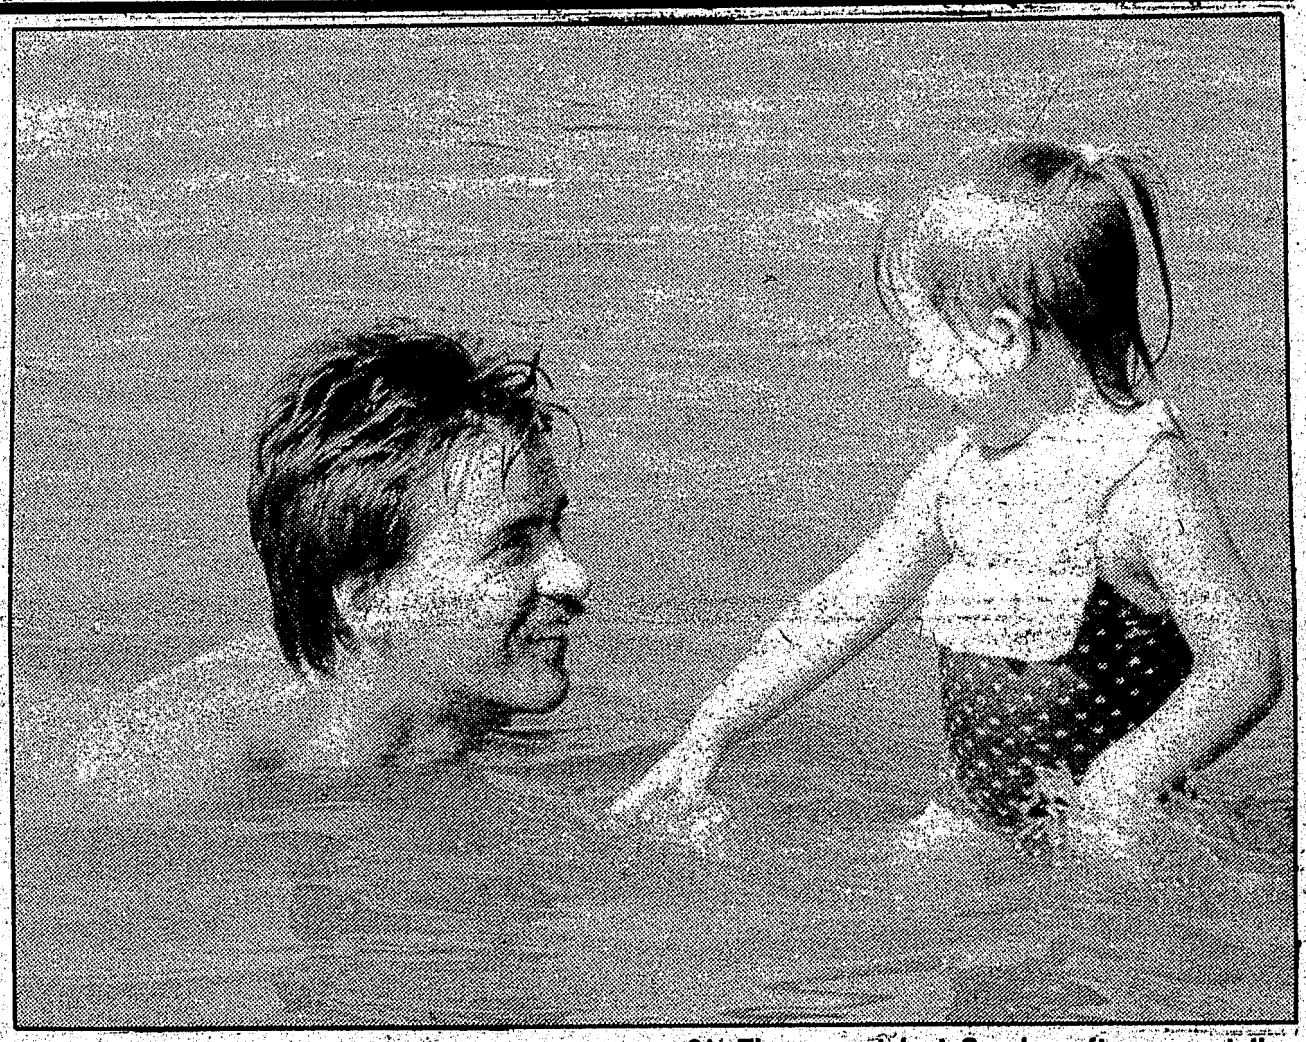

Chisholm will be at the CHS auditorium at 7 p.m. to answer questions before the hearing, he said.

Because the commercial nature of the project area generates a high number of left and right-turns, a five-lane plan with curb and gutter and enclosed drainage is recommended.

The outside lanes would be used for through and right-turn traffic, and the center lane would serve for left turns. The remaining lanes would carry through traffic in each direction.

A separate drainage project is also planned with the widening—from M-15 to Dollar Lake, west of M-15. The storm drain is to be established by the Oakland County Drain Commission, said Chisholm.

For more information, call MDOT at (517) 373-9534.

Devin O'Neill, 23, left behind fond memories

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

In the 23 years before his death last Thursday, Devin Werner O'Neill of Holcomb Road, Independence Township, built strong friendships and left good memories.

Devin O'Neill

"We were just very grateful for the years we had him," said his mother, Mikel O'Neill. "He made us very proud."

O'Neill's death was difficult for his parents and for his five brothers and sisters, and his mother was grateful for the help from friends, she said.

"We were overwhelmed with all the support and comfort and generosity," she said. "We would like to thank each and every person who gave us so much strength during this time."

His death was just two days after the death of a close family friend, she said.

"Mr. (Ted) Thomson was one of Devin's most favorite people," she said. "He used to go over and talk to Mr. and Mrs. Thomson by the hours.

"When he heard that (Mr. Thomson) died, he said, 'He was one of a kind. They just don't make men like that anymore.' "

Tom Hall, a friend of O'Neill's from Clarkston High School and Michigan State University, also shared memories of O'Neill.

"He had a wealth of knowledge," said Hall. "He really cared about everything. He had a zest. It wasn't like a book knowledge. . . . He gained it from caring about people.

"Devin was funny. He could always take a situation that was a nothing and make it fun. He added life and zest to everything," he said.

O'Neill was a good organizer—as class president of CHS, he organized the five-year class reunion last summer, said Hall, and he kept in touch with his friends.

"Sometimes he was quiet, but sometimes he would talk and talk for hours. . . . That's what I remember most."

O'Neill was killed in a car accident about 5 p.m. last Thursday, when the car he was driving westbound on Elizabeth Lake Road near Union Lake Road crossed the center line and hit the oncoming vehicle, said

Principals report on move for sixth-graders

BY ALISA NASS
Clarkston News Special Writer

Final preparations are under way for the moving of sixth-graders from three of Clarkston's five elementary schools to Sashabaw and Clarkston junior highs.

A progress report on the plan was made June 9 at the board of education meeting.

The move to alleviate overcrowding in the elementary schools was approved by the board in December.

Grades six through nine will occupy the two junior high schools. Clarkston, Pine Knob and North Sashabaw elementary sixth grades will make the transition this fall.

Andersonville and Bailey Lake elementaries are tentatively scheduled to move the following year, said Duane Lewis, Clarkston Junior High principal. With the moves, both junior high schools will be near or at capacity.

"We're going to be at 90 to 100 percent capacity, although we won't be overcrowded," said David Reschke, Sashabaw Junior High principal.

Parents' concerns were addressed at meetings in May and April. One concern was that the sixth-graders would be at bus stops with older kids, said Duane Lewis, Clarkston Junior High School principal.

To address this concern a buddy system is already in place, pairing older students with younger ones, he said.

Response from the parents was positive, said Lewis. "They came with concerns but left feeling pretty comfortable."

In addition to the parents' meeting, an orientation was held for the pupils. "They're pretty excited," said Reschke.

"We're ready to go," said Reschke. "We're in the final phase of the program. There will be some problems, but by and large we're in pretty good shape."

Corrections

A report in the June 3 edition on ing request by John Hudak incorrectly stated that Hudak sought the rezoning to provide housing for his mother-in-law.

Hudak is not married.

Apparently, the misunderstanding occurred when the proposed change to a house on Parview Drive was referred to as a "mother-in-law apartment" during discussion at the Independence Township Planning Commission meeting on May 28.

A mother-in-law apartment "is typically an efficiency-size unit added onto a single family unit" with a separate entrance, said Richard Carlisle, township planning consultant.

For zoning purposes, a house with a mother-in-law apartment is considered a duplex, he said.

The planning commission unanimously recommended denial of the rezoning because a subdivision deed restriction allows only single-family dwellings. The final decision rests with the township board.

Last week's report of the election results should have said the defeat of the 4.25 mill school tax increase proposal has prompted budget cuts of $674,500 in staffing and $346,300 in supplies and building maintenance.

The "Adventure in France" story in last week's Clarkston News should have said two weeks were spent touring European countries.

Rezoning denied

Almost 75 acres on M-15 at Oakhill Road in Independence Township is to remain rural residential.

On June 2, the township board denied a request from Leonard Grossman and his partners to rezone the site to local commercial and multifamily residential.

Before making the motion to deny the rezoning, Trustee Dale Stuart noted that Grossman was absent and the planning commission and township planner had recommended denial.

The board voted 6-0 to deny the rezoning. Trustee Daniel Travis was absent.

After the meeting, Grossman said he didn't know what he was going to do with the property.

"It's too early to tell yet," he said.

Ted Thomson leaves legacy of better town

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Edward D. (Ted) Thomson was a quiet man, but one who would publicly speak and act on an issue when necessary—and that was often, according to his son, Rick Thomson.

After he died June 10, community members showed their support and respect for his father, said Rick Thomson.

"It was phenomenal, the number of people who flowed through," he said. "I would like to thank the Catallos for their generosity for hosting the reception after the service."

His father had served the public officially and unofficially since he moved to Clarkston in 1951.

After he and his wife, Barbara, moved to Main Street, Thomson served two terms as Clarkston Village Council President in 1957 and 1959.

He was also a past member of the planning commission, the zoning board of appeals, the beautification committee and the Independence Township Solid Waste Committee.

Many people remember him for his work in the government.

"Ted always put the village first," said village council President Sharron Catallo. "He gave unselfishly of his time and never expected anything in return. He was a rare individual, and all of us have benifited by having known him, especially when we enjoy the tree-lined streets, a reminder of Ted Thomson and what he meant to our community."

Neil Wallace, former township planning commission chairperson and friend of Thomson, also respected him.

"For the community, he was our statesman," said Wallace. "He continues to be our conscience. Maintaining his vigilance and concern for the community and quality of life here is his legacy to us."

Thomson's son shared some memories of his father.

"Since he retired (from his position as executive vice president of world headquarters for Ford Motor Co.), about 80 percent of his dedication was for the village," said Rick Thomson. "He'd travel all over the country to find out about things. . . . He always did a lot of research before he opened his mouth.

"His honesty was incredible. A couple of times, he made people mad when he didn't cut them a deal. . . . He believed that what was fair for one was fair for all.

"People didn't always agree with what he said, but he always said what he believed to be true," he said.

Thomson was active in natural resources—saving animals and protecting wildlife and plants, said his son.

"He was a total humanitarian. He always put himself last as far as generosity goes.

"He was just a great dad—very supportive. He always took care of his family first before himself."

Most of his contributions to organizations or individuals were anonymous, said his son. He just liked giving to others.

"I never saw him indulge himself in a luxury. . . . He always indulged other people. He'd never buy a new suit when he could buy something for someone else. . . . He got satisfaction out of seeing someone else happy.

"People used to tease him about how he dressed, but he didn't care about those kinds of things. He didn't wear jewelry. . . . He was very charitable. I guess he did buy a new fishing pole now and then.

"He was a lover of fishing, primarily fly-fishing for trout, but sometimes salmon fishing.

"He loved any sport—golf, tennis, football, baseball. . . . Other than watching the stock reports, he didn't watch television.

He also liked to travel to the "out of the way places," like the jungles of New Guinea or Australia, said Thomson.

"He was a great father. I don't have anything bad to say about my dad. . . . As I got older, I found out how smart he really was."

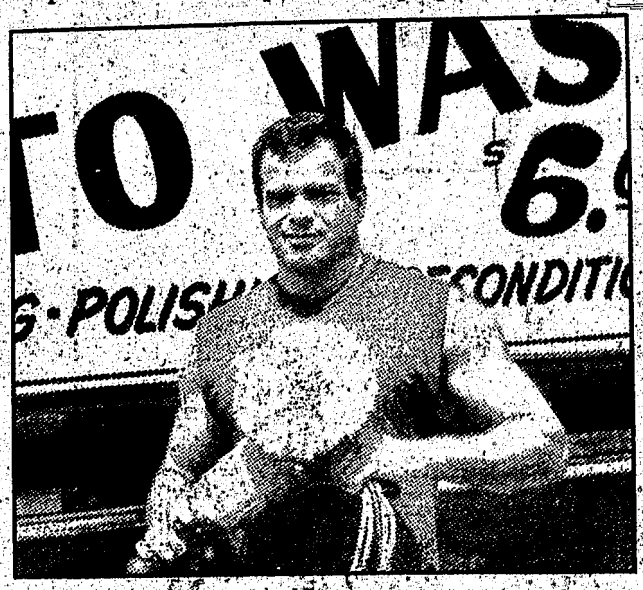

Last November, Ted Thomson was recognized with the "Community Pride-1986" award at the first Community Breakfast. Thomson, a village resident, had a "strong love for Clarkston and wanted to preserve its beauty," said his son, Rick Thomson.

Car wash owner fights to stay in business

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

An ongoing zoning disagreement between Independence Township and the proprietor of a car wash on M-15 may be decided in court later this year.

Craig Gulledge says his car washing business on M-15 is legal since the building he is in has been used for nothing else the past 30 years. The township disagrees.

Craig Gulledge, a Goodrich resident, is the sole owner of the hand car wash and restoration business that occupies the old Randy Hosler Pontiac building on M-15. The building is owned by Don Short, also the owner of Clarkston Glass on Dixie Highway.

Independence Township issued the business a zoning violation ticket in February. The case was heard in 52-2 District Court June 10 and at that time, Gulledge asked for a trial by jury. A new trial date has not been set, said township attorney Gerald Fisher.

The township may try to get the case moved from district court to circuit court since the lower court doesn't have the power to close the business, said Fisher.

The disagreement began last September when Gulledge opened his car wash business using some of the equipment left from when the building was a car dealership.

The township approached Gulledge soon after he began washing and restoring cars and told him his business was violating a zoning code.

At that time, the township was promised the business was closing. When it didn't, the ticket was issued, said Fisher.

Short and Gulledge said they are being treated unfairly by Independence Township and see no reason why the zoning has to be changed.

When the dealership rented the building, car washing and restoration—the exact work Gulledge is performing now—was allowed on the property.

"I see no reason why it (zoning) should be changed for something that has been done there for 30 years," said Short.

Gulledge agreed with Short.

"We are reconditioning cars here. This building was built for this purpose," he said, adding that he provides the affluent Clarkston area with a valuable service with his hand car wash business since normal automatic car washes tend to scratch the surface of cars.

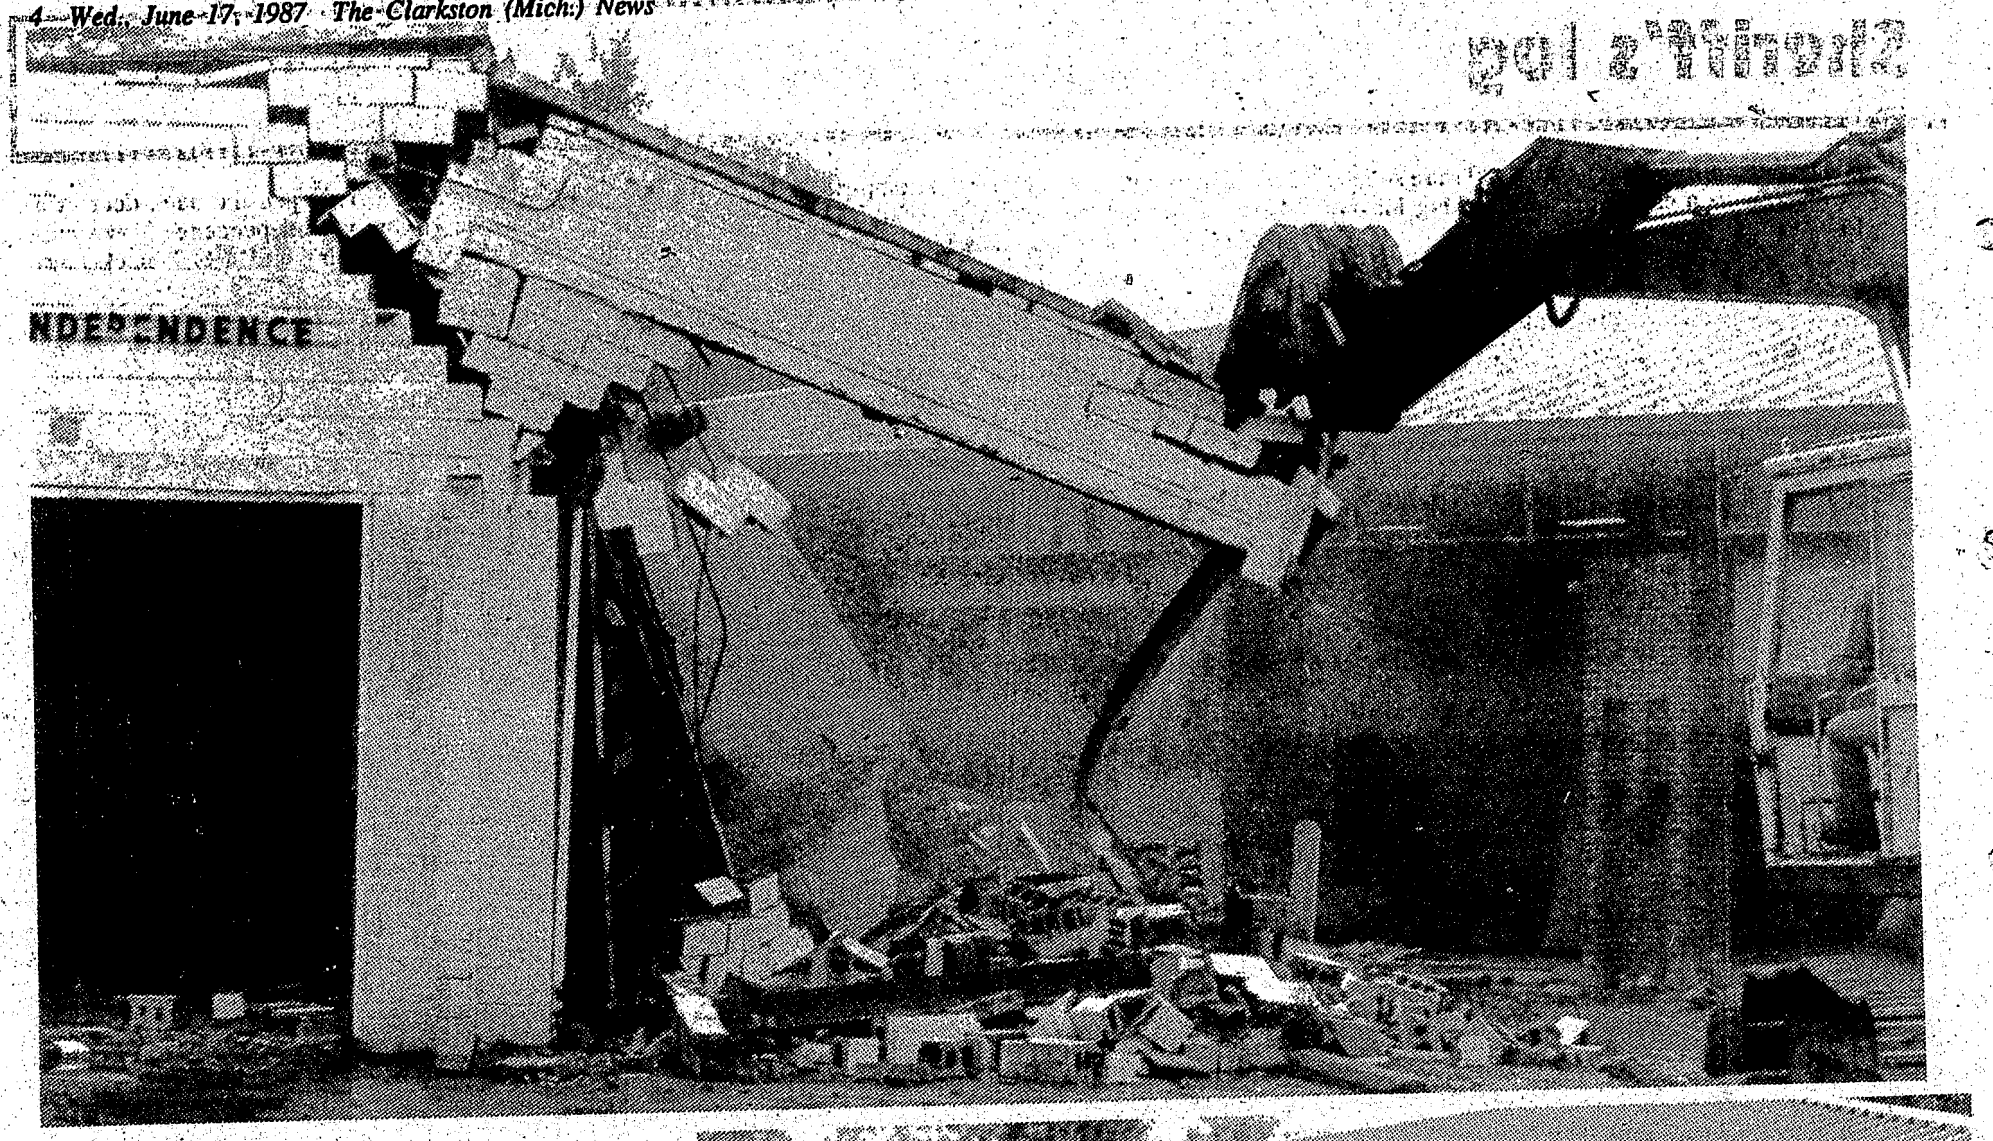

Most of his business comes from elderly residents who want to protect the finish on their expensive cars, Gulledge said.

Beverly McElmeel, director of the township building department, said the property is zoned for a shopping center.

A special land use permit is necessary if Gulledge wants to run his car wash business there, said McElmeel, and the township has been trying to work out a fair solution, but it hasn't been easy.

One avenue that Gulledge and Short could explore at this time is the zoning board of appeals, but they have chosen not to, McElmeel said.

"We are trying to work this out but we don't seem to be getting very far ahead," she said.

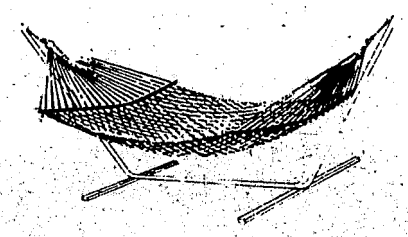

The walls came crashing down

The building that housed Independence Township Fire Station 2 for 33 years came down June 2 at the hands of Nationwide Wrecking of Utica. The new $522,000 station [at right] was built by O'Brien Waterford Construction Co. behind the old building at Clarkston and Sashabaw roads. Firefighters worked out of the old building until May 30 and have been reassigned to other stations until occupancy of the new station, targeted for June 27. [Photos by Pat Young]

Opinions

What's for dinner?

Kathy Greenfield

Years ago, this working mother was informed by her children that they preferred McDonald's hamburgers to those she prepared in a frying pan.

Thus, fried hamburgers were permanently removed from the menu that was already becoming painfully limited.

No one in the family ever wanted to eat dinner at 8 or 9 p.m., so our weekday dining has revolved around anything that can be prepared in a brief period of time.

Among the kinder reactions to meals in a hurry have been "I'm sick of chicken," "Spaghetti again?" and "I'm not hungry."

When I first started working full time nearly a decade ago, spaghetti sauce in a jar was unheard of, people were suspicious of microwave ovens and pizza was a treat instead of part of the weekly menu.

Now, I'm more certain about my family's bakery favorites than I am about their favorites that I bake. I've purchased so many chicken pot pies that nobody will eat them anymore. And everybody's thrilled when I make something like lasagna.

I still tell myself that I'm a good cook and I probably am. But I have a feeling that my children's fond memories are not going to include wonderful dishes I prepared when they were growing up.

I can't imagine them ever saying, "Mom, remember those wonderful fried pork chops you used to make?"

Jim's Jottings

Jim Sherman

George Bush doesn't want to say he's running for president of the United States until he hears from me.

He said so. In a nice letter he said, "I need your advice."

He went on, "I will be making my official announcement as a fully-declared Presidential candidate very soon. Before I do, I'd like to have your personal advice and suggestions." And, would I please fill out the enclosed survey.

The first item, in the biggest type, Bush wants me to say that I am proud to join his campaign team. The second item, in just as big type, he asks me for a $25, $50, $100 or other donation figure.

Now the vice president has got my attention, but not my money, he reduces the size of type and asks questions that can only be answered one way if you are American.

The first: As a WW II combat pilot . . . do you agree with my committment to a strong national defense? Well, I'm a WW II sailor and you bet I do. But, that's not the question America is asking. We want controlled, equitable spending for that strong defense.

Bush: Do you agree with my views that Social Security funds should not be tapped to pay for regular government programs or debts?

The largest segment of our country is in the near-or-at retirement age or over bracket. Bush just reached them all with that non-question.

Two of his eight questions are "rumor" oriented . . . "Some politicians in Washington have suggested" and "There is talk in Washington that". What Bush is saying is that some unknown or unmentionable or non-existent scoundral(s) make it possible for him to create a question to get the kind of 'yes' answer he wants.

Bush: Do you agree we should fight our trade imbalance by pressing foreign markets to open their doors for more U. S. goods and service?

Does Mr. Bush know some American product that is made better and cheaper that some overseas people will buy? And, to turn that around, would Americans buy foreign products if those made in this country were better and cheaper? Word the question that way in your next survey, Mr. Vice President.

Bush: Prior to my years in public service, I started an energy business from scratch where I created jobs, met payrolls, and developed breakthrough technology. Do you feel my firsthand business background strengthens my candidacy over those with little or no business experience?

Yes. Now tell us about the Iran-Contra affair from a businessman's point of view.

To touch still another base, Bush: Do you agree with my opposition to those who practice religious intolerance or censorship?

Yes. So does Jim Bakker, those who believe in taking "Huckleberry Finn" from library shelves, and the Nazi party, if it will get a vote.

Mr Bush won't get my response to his questionable questions, especially when it's not accompanied by a personal check. If he really wants my advice, which he asked for, I say, be honest up front. Ask the questions before you ask for money.

Special people

Thanks to some very special people, the graduation party at the Deer Lake Racquet Club following the ceremony at Pine Knob was a big success.

Thanks, first, to the racquet club for its cooperation and use of its facilities.

Secondly, thanks to the committee of parents headed by Pat Unsworth and Doty Savas who put forth so much time and effort.

Finally, thanks goes to Dr. Robert Burek (principal of Clarkston High School). Without his constant support, the project would never have gotten under way and the Class of '87 would have missed out on a very special memory.

Picking words for quoting

Jim Fitzgerald

Richard (Dick) Davis of Port Huron had a question for me: "How come you never write about Terrible Jean wearing her skirt tucked inside her bloomers?"

Immediately I was reminded of Fawn Hall, who was accused of sneaking secret papers out of the White House inside her underwear.

The accusation was made by Sen. Howard Heflin, D-Ala. He told reporters that Hall would testify at the congressional Iran-contra hearings that she used her underwear surrepitiously while she was secretary to Lt. Col. Oliver North, the fired National Security Council deputy.

Hall later denied the charge, but that probably didn't matter to Sen. Heflin; he had accomplished his purpose. By saying the young, attractive Hall put the papers in her underwear, he got his name in every newspaper and on every news show. If he'd said Hall put the papers in her purse, only the New York Times would have printed the story.

THE ONLY WAY the senator could have gained more publicity would have been to go into more detail, using such words as "bra" and "panties". I don't know exacly why Heflin wasn't more specific. "Underwear" is a decently titillating word, and will always make more headlines than, say, socks. But underwear is also boxer shorts and T-shirts, which are forgettable.

What I mean is, if President Reagan were ever asked if Ollie North told him that Fawn Hall had secret papers in her underwear, it might be reasonable for Reagan to say he couldn't remember.

But if the question specifically concerned the use of Hall's bra and/or panties as a hiding place, it would be unlikely for Reagan to plead forgetfulness. In fact, as in the case of aiding the contras despite Congress, he might brag that it was his idea to begin with.

It could be that Sen. Heflin simply didn't know which specific undergarment Hall allegedly used for secreting the secret papers. In which case he is to be admired for saying that the papers were concealed in her underwear instead of using the hopelessly generic "concealed somewhere on her person." Even the New York Post would have trouble converting that into a sexy headline.

As it was, the imaginatively smutty Post ignored the possibility that the secret papers might have been pinned to Fawn Hall's camisole. The Post's front-page headline was: "Pantyscam Furor."

It is just that type of inspired journalism that protects the public's right to know less than the truth, and allows U.S. senators to use the press to cover themselves with glory, not to mention garbage.

WHICH BRINGS US back to Richard (Dick) Davis, my best boyhood buddy. When we met by chance last week, he noted that I often write honestly about Terrible Jean, my much older sister, and wondered why I've never described the outfit she wore while terrorizing our Port Huron neighborhood more than 50 years ago.

"She always tucked her skirt into her bloomers so she'd look like a boy," Davis recalled.

"Bloomers" isn't a real sexy word that will knock your socks off. (Speaking of wearing apparel, why does nothing knock your pants off, but you can have your pants scared off? Probably because you wouldn't give me the shoes off your feet and I wouldn't want to be in your shirt.)

Nevertheless, "bloomers" is one of those titillating words that separate serious journalists from publicity-seeking politicians. And that's why - until prompted by an old friend - I never wrote about Terrible Jean wearing her bloomers over her skirt in 1934.

If I had, I would have said the constant sight of Terrible Jean's bloomers didn't cause a bloomerscam furor. It didn't turn the neighborhood boys on, but it did turn a couple of them into priests.

Village supports solid waste plan

To aid Oakland County's future solid waste problems, the Clarkston Village Council has approved spending $410 toward the construction of a waste-to-energy plant.

The Municipal Solid Waste Board asked the 28 member municipalities to pay a little extra money now since it will save them millions in the future, said chairperson Collin Walls in a letter.

The plant, once it's built, will convert solid waste material into steam energy that the member municipalities can use.

Oakland County will own the facility—which is to be built in Pontiac—but a private company will design, construct and operate the plant, said Jon Gaskell, Clarkston's representative on the Municipal Solid Waste Board.

The solid waste board is asking for an additional $48,334 to be added to the original budget for unforeseen expenses, $250,000 for "fast tracking" and $120,000 for a new sanitary landfill.

The "fast tracking" would allow certain jobs to be completed now rather than after approval of the plant's plan of financing. Approval of the plan will eliminate landfill disposal of one year's worth of solid waste (approximately 365,000 tons) and $14 million could be saved, Walls said.

The village council passed the resolution by a 5-0 vote on June 8. Trustees Douglas Roeser and William Basinger were absent.

"This is the only answer to the solid waste problem," said village President Sharron Catallo after the meeting. "It is not a problem that is being solved easily."

On June 2, the Independence Township Board passed a similiar resolution in favor of the waste-to-energy plant. The township agreed to contribute $22,108 toward the project.

Man charged in break-in attempt

An Independence Township man was arrested Friday after he tried to break into a home on Guyette Street, Independnece Township.

James Michael McAleer, 40, allegedly tore open a screen window and fired his .16 gauge shotgun into the house, while yelling to the occupant that he was going to steal the car and he "meant business," according to Oakland County Sheriff's Department reports.

McAleer was ramming the front door with his shoulder when he was apprehended by Deputy Steve Pearson.

He was arraigned Saturday in 52nd District Court, Division One, in Walled Lake by Magistrate Lawrence M. Doyle.

McAleer was charged with breaking and entering an occupied dwelling with intent to commit felonious assault, a 15 year penalty.

He did not pay the $2,000 cash bond and remains in Oakland County Jail.

The preliminary examination was set for 8:45 a.m., June 25 before Judge Gerald McNally at the 52nd District Court, Division Two, in Independence Township.

Blight revisted

Concerns of residents resulted in a vote by the Springfield Township Board to continue the first reading of a new anti-blight ordinance at the next meeting.

At the June 10 meeting, residents questioned a portion of the proposed ordinance that could be interpreted to require building storage or screening for farm vehicles.

The board also indicated a distinction should be made between usable farm equipment and that considered to be junk.

A CONSUMER SHOPPING TIP

When waterproofing your basement, make sure your contractor's reputable. Read your contract carefully before signing. Question all language you don't understand. Be prepared to remove your own interior basement walls if contract so states. And don't let a salesman tell you soil conditions and water table are irrelevant. They're important.

39 receive high school diplomas

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Thinking of girls throughout his school days distracted him and caused him to fall behind in his work, said Richard Ayers.

Before long, his high school days were over and he was left with just memories—but no diploma.

Ayers finally achieved his goal of graduating from high school June 10 when he joined 38 other classmates at the fifth annual Clarkston Adult and Alternative Education Graduation in the John Kirschgessner Theater in Clarkston High School.

Ayers was one of seven speakers who told the audience how they earned their diplomas.

At one point during his speech Ayers stumbled over a few words, then smiled and said, "Excuse me, but I don't graduate very often."

The packed house cheered Ayers on as he continued relating his experience.

"God performs miracles," Ayers said. "I am living proof."

He said that he faced many distractions in high school and junior high. Mostly they were girls with a few carburetors mixed in between, Ayers said.

"Girls remain at the top of my list," said Ayers as he finished his speech, adding that he would like to get into cosmetology.

Rita Armand didn't have many distractions in high school, but for one reason or another didn't earn her diploma either.

Armand said she was 32 years late getting her diploma, but that it's better late than never.

She got the inspiration to go back to school from a couple of sources—her children and Dear Abby.

Armand said she made sure that her children finished high school and earned their diplomas. Three of them went on to college.

"They did it (go to college) for me, so I went back to school for them. I felt that I owed it to them," said Armand.

A letter she read in a Dear Abby column one day only reinforced her goal of graduating from high school.

An older woman wrote to Abby with a problem that was similar to Armand's. She didn't have a high school diploma and was afraid to return to school because she thought she would be too old by the time graduation came.

Abby responded with, ' How old will you be if you don't go back to school?"

Logic like that made it easy for Armand to go back to school, she said.

As she left the podium Armand said, "I plan on enrolling in at least one college course . . . I'm not through yet!"

The commencement excercise was followed by a reception in the cafeteria of the high school. Friends and relatives were there to congratulate the happy graduates.

Before the high school diplomas were awarded to the students William Neff, director of adminstrative services, honored several graduates by giving them Presidential Academic Fitness Awards.

Students must attend class regularly and maintain a 3.0 grade point average to earn this award.

Those students are: Rita Armand, Sara Beaubien, Emmit Brumfield, Michelle Buhl, Peter Koneda Jr., Regina MacDonald, Christian Malik and Tonia Wood-Carson.

Rita Armand, Teresa Aulgur, Richard Ayers, Sara Beaubien, Emmit Brumfield, Michelle Buhl, Kimberly Crawford, Damon Davis, Lisa Eckhardt, Lona Emery, Paul Flores, Robin Franzen, Kenneth Froling, Tami Goodman, Michael Haynes, Janice Keener, Martin Kellogg, Bertha Klein, Peter Koneda Jr., Joette Kovacik, Laura Lambert, Lea Lofton, Regina MacDonald, Christina Malik, Michael McClusky, Lisa McCreery, Scott McCune, Patricia Moore, Tammy Nale, Jeff Richman, Brandon Ryan, Daniel Schell, Darrall Shepherd, Gabrielle Shore, Sherry Stigall, Beverly Valenzuela, William Ware and Tonia Wood-Carson.

The expression on Lisa McCreery's face tells it all as she is congratulated by her family after completing the Clarkston Adult and Alternative Education commencement exercise at the high school June 10.

Planners praise Pine Knob condo plans

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A development may be coming to Independence Township that township planner Richard Carlisle considers "a unique approach."

Pine Knob Manor Homes, inside the Pine Knob complex off Waldon Road, Independence Township, are land condominiums or single-family detached condominiums—where the property only is owned by the condominium association and the homeowners build, own and sell their homes as in any single-family residential area, said developer Alex Bruni of Clarkston.

To be included in the deed restrictions, the architectural style is to be similar to the condominiums across the street, said Bruni, adding they would include gray stucco, copper bays and gutters and cedar shake shingles.

Homeowners could design any floor plan to almost any size, although the "envelopes" are designed for a 70-square-foot area, he said.

If larger homes are in demand, a few lots will eliminated so others can be enlarged, he said, adding the density may decrease, but not increase.

Carlisle praised the project.

"I think this type of development in the Pine Knob area is far superior to the conventional approach," he said.

"Its time has come in this area and in the state of Michigan," said Carlisle. "We don't have lots. What we have here are building envelopes.

"It allows for minor changes in the field for topographical conditions. . . . It allows for an extremely well-planned project. . . . The density is well under what could be permitted (in multi-family residential zoning).

"I think the way the site plan is presented is sensitive to the residents and to the character of the land," said Carlisle.

Commission member Jo Fussman expressed concern over losing trees, but Bruni said he plans to leave all that he can.

Other concerns were for storm water retention, road elevation and the turning radius for emergency vehicles. Bruni said the engineers would address all problems.

Two members of the audience voiced support for the project.

"We live in the area, and we're impressed," said Tom Bean, a Bristol Park Road resident.

The commission voted unanimously to approve the conceptual site plan.

After the meeting, chairperson Joseph Figa said, "I think it's going to be a really nice development and really complement what's already there. . . . It's going to be a less dense area, and it looks like they're going to really try to preserve the natural beauty that's already there."

Twenty-one homes are planned for the 9.649 acres, 2.17 units per acre, said Bruni.

Road closing sparks complaint

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Clarkston Village Council should show more consideration toward the shop owners on or near Depot Street when they close down the throughfare for special events, said Ed Adler.

Adler, who owns the 20 Depot Street Restaurant, claims people might have been turned away during the recent Fun Daze event and his business could have lost customers.

Adler wants the village council to have future event organizers prove they will not impede customer traffic when asking to have Depot Street blocked off for their special programs.

Adler was unable to attend the June 8 village council meeting and asked attorney Jon Gaskell to voice his complaint.

The complaint began when the restaurant's manager said he was denied entry on Depot Street during Fun Daze, said Gaskell. That made Adler think others may have been turned away as well.

Village council members strongly disagreed with Adler's assessment of traffic control during Fun Daze.

Trustee Frank Millard said he personally spoke with the manager of the restaurant during Fun Daze and let him through the barricade.

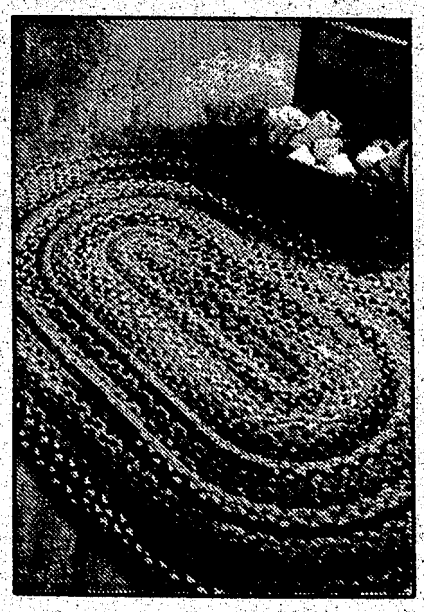

Millard added that anyone who asked for entry onto Depot Street, either to get to work or patronize the restaurant, was allowed to pass.

The restaurant's waitresses arrived for work and had no problems getting past the barricade, he said.

President Sharron Catallo was present throughout the day while Fun Daze was going on and watched the flow of traffic at Depot Street. She said she didn't notice anyone with a legitimate reason for entering the street getting turned away.

Therefore, there is no reason why the village council should pass additional legislation to handle the blocking off of Depot Street in the future, said Millard.

Trustee Gary Symons said that if Adler had a complaint about the way the village council shut down Depot Street, he should put it in writing and present it at the next meeting.

Beary good time

While digging into some red, ripe, juicy watermelon during a last day of school party last week, Nathan Evans keeps his bear closeby. The party had a bear theme, which was most appropriate, said the Andersonville Elementary School second-graders' teacher, Pat Andrus. Bears provided the theme for bulletin boards, a class flag and many projects throughout the school year. Each child took home a "Bears' Digest, 1986-87," a collection of articles by parents and children put together by parent volunteer Laura Kade.

Clarkston girls have fun 'horsing' around

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A grandfather's insistence on horse riding lessons for two Clarkston Junior High students has turned them into award-winning hunter jumpers in just a few years.

Holly Hetherington and Kim Applegate, both of whom will enter the ninth grade in the fall, started their horse riding careers together about five years ago when Holly's grandfather took them out to the Hadley Hill Farm in Ortonville.

Holly and Kim, who are best friends, liked what they saw on that first trip and it didn't take long before they were riding their own horses.

"I've always loved horses," said Holly, explaining why she got started in hunter jumper competitions.

Once they mastered the basics, the duo started participating in Michigan Hunter Jumper Association (MHJA) horse shows.

In the contests, the goal is to manuever the horse over obstacles on a course.

Holly and Kim have competed in competitions across the state over the past few years and have won many individual awards.

At the MHJA show at Havenhill Farm in Farmington Hills May 23-24, Kim earned eight ribbons for her efforts, including a championship ribbon in the Junior Working Hunter Division.

Holly took home 13 ribbons at the competition, including two reserve championships in the Regular Working Hunter and Non-Thoroughbred divisions.

Both girls have owned three horses during the five years they have been riding at Hadley Hill Farm.

Currently, Holly rides a horse named Centerfold, which her grandfather gave her as a gift for her last birthday. Kim's horse is named Casanova. She bought the horse about a year ago.

While going through almost a horse a year over the past couple of years may seem unusual, Kim said it's not strange at all.

"Sometimes you just outgrow your horse," she said, "so it really isn't that unusual."

While Holly and Kim haven't had their latest horses long, they like them already and they think the feeling is mutual.

"Your horses get to know you," said Holly. "They know when you don't come around for a while. They are not stupid like people think."

Holly and Kim train together at Hadley Hill Farm throughout the year with Celia Ryker. They said Ryker is a first-class trainer and has helped them learn a lot.

"She is one of the best around," said Kim.

To prepare themselves for a competition, the girls usually go out to the farm every day to work with their horses.

Kim said they average about three or four hours per day.

Holly and Kim said all of the hard work is worth it since they are having fun.

Holly Hetherington runs her horse Centerfold through a few practice drills at the Hadley Hill Farm to prepare for competitions she will enter this summer.

"It gives us something to do when other kids are just sitting around."
—Kim Applegate

"It gives us something to do when other kids are just sitting around," said Kim.

Currently, Holly and Kim are competing in the "B" circuit and both are hoping to reach the highest level—the "A" circuit—sometime in the future.

The difference between the two divisions is like night and day, said Kim.

"It takes a lot of practice and the 'A' shows are long and hard," she said, adding that competing in the Olympics is something she would like to do.

While Holly also hopes to make it to the "A" circuit some day, that is as far as she wants to go on the hunter jumper circuit. After that, she just wants to have some fun.

"I will always continue to have horses," said Holly.

One of the better rewards of the riding season, the girls said, is the annual year-end banquet at the Novi Sheraton Oaks sponsored by the MHJA.

One thing Holly and Kim have discovered since they bought their first horses five years ago is that the general public doesn't understand their sport.

"They think that this (hunter jumper competition) is like cowboys and Indians," said Holly, "but it's not."

Kim Applegate practices hard because she wants to compete in the Olympics some day.

Sports

Camp for future track stars

Three Clarkston coaches, in conjunction with Independence Parks and Recreation Department, are sponsoring a summer track camp.

The camp at Clarkston High School begins June 29 and lasts three weeks. Girls varsity track coach Gordie Richardson, a former Oakland County Coach of the year, Clarkston Junior High boys and girls coach Mike Taylor and Sashabaw Junior High girls coach Chris Kreuger will provide helpful advice for the participants.

All phases of track and field will be covered during the two-hour daily sessions that run Monday through Thursday.

The emphasis of the program will be on learning the rules involved with track and field events more than conditioning, said Taylor.

The program is geared for 9- to 14-year-olds. Participants in the program will be eligible for the Hershey Track and Field Meet in Lansing on July 17.

This meet is unlike any other track meet because it includes many varied events including the standing long jump and a softball throw that usually aren't part of a standard meet.

All pupils who sign up for the program at the parks and recreation office will receive a T-shirt after completing the camp.

The coaches put on a similar summer camp two years ago and 25 people signed up. Due to construction on the high school track, the program was canceled last year.

No track experience is necessary and pupils should come to the camp dressed to participate.

The cost of the program is $15. Call the parks and recreation office at 625-8223 for more information or to register.

Defense, pitching spark surge for Wolves

Defense is a key ingredient for a championship team in any sport. Most can't win without it.

Clarkston's varsity softball team followed that pattern this season and reached the regional finals before bowing out.

Renda Beck, who played first base most of the season, committed just one error and led the Wolves with a .990 fielding percentage.

Other outstanding performers defensively included Kris Castillo (.956), Marci Morgan (.933), Stacey Shurtz (.910) and Heather Luchenbach (.906).

Another strong point for Clarkston this season was pitching. Missy Odell and Luchenbach helped keep the opponents in check with their outstanding work from the mound.

Clarkston finished with a 19-16 overall record. Luchenbach had nine wins and Odell had eight to pace the team. Castillo picked up the other two wins for the Wolves.

Clarkston finished fourth in the Greater Oakland Activities League with a 3-5 record. A slow start to the season really hurt the team, said Coach Carla Teare.

"Overall, I couldn't be more pleased with the season but because of Easter we played too many games (in a row) and didn't get a chance to practice enough," she said.

At the plate, Odell was the leading hitter on the club, batting .407.

Shurtz finished with a .368 average and led the team in hits with 42 and runs batted in with 28. Luchenbach batted .359, Maggie Gdula .347 and Nicole Carry .344.

Outfielder Beth Tilley chipped in with 27 RBIs and 36 hits.

The Wolves had two players reach double digits in base stealing. Castillo had 11 thefts and Gdula 10 to lead the team.

Gdula also had six triples and paced the club with 10 sacrifices.

The team voted Odell, a senior, the Most Valuable Player.

Teare is losing just five seniors from this team and all of the returning nine players will be seniors next year.

The five graduating players are Kelly Laidig, Odell, Gdula, Jessica Shoup and Tilley.

Test skills at soccer camp

Two experts in the fundamentals of soccer will hold a summer camp for children ages 4 through 16 next month at Bailey Lake Elementary School.

Bob Bukari and Morris Lupenec have coached high school soccer teams and played the sport for many years.

Lupenec is a former Oakland County Coach of the year. Both Bukari and Lupenec played soccer while attending Oakland University.

The camp will be split into two age groups—a mini camp for ages 4 to 8 and a regular camp for ages 9 to 16.

Individual skill will be stressed along with small group tactics. Soccer T-shirts will be given to all participants at the July 13-17 summer day camp.

The cost for the regular session, which runs from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. each day, is $95. The mini camp, which runs from 9 until 11:30 a.m., is $49.

IT'S A GOOD TIME FOR THE GREAT TASTE SM

Clarkston's Harry Stormer takes a big cut, but doesn't connect, during a June 10 seniors softball double-header split for the Merchants against Troy at Clintonwood Park. Clarkston's "B" team won its game by a 15-1 score the same day.

Merchants win one over Troy

Like a fine wine, the seniors on the Clarkston Merchants team seem to get better with age.

After sweeping its season-opening double-header on the road against Hazel Park, Clarkston returned home to Clintonwood Park to face league powerhouse Troy.

The Merchants split against the Marinelli's. They won the opener, 3-1, and lost the second one, 8-1.

The Merchants got two runs off a bases-loaded hit by Bill Banghart to win the first game.

Clarkston and Troy were locked in a tight defensive battle most of the way. The winning pitcher was Bob Waddell.

In the second game, the Merchants fell on hard times and lost. The team didn't hit well in the game and most of the hard-hit balls were right at somebody.

Waddell was the pitcher in the second game.

With the split, the Clarkston Merchants' record is 3-1 in the Northeast/Northwest Senior Citizen Softball "A" League. The team plays the Clinton Juklin Chiefs at home June 17.

The Clarkston Merchants also field a team in the "B" division.

Against Troy, the Merchants emerged victorious with a 15-1 pasting of the visiting team.

Something very interesting came up during the rehearsal dinner for my older brother's wedding last Friday.

It was the making of a new sport. Better yet, it was combining the best of two sports into one exciting event that only Americans could enjoy.

During the course of a normal conversation, the subject finally got around to golf. It was only natural, since we were eating in a fine restaurant with a splendid view of the small rolling hills of a golf course.

We all were running out of interesting things to say when somebody mentioned how boring the sport of golf can be for spectators. How it needed something to spice it up a little bit to draw more interest.

Maybe television producers should get Howard Cosell to come out of retirement and do a few broadcasts. If that doesn't spark some interest, nothing will.

After a few drinks, the thought of full-contact golf was thrown out for consideration by the masses. It was an instant hit among the crowd. I can see it now.

Just imagine, Arnold Palmer throwing a flying cross-body block on Gary Player just before he's about to sink a three-foot putt in overtime at the Masters.

Now that's what I call entertainment. We're talking big ratings for this kind of event.

This new sport would mix together the best things from a hockey/boxing game along with all the finesse of a good golf game.

No longer would viewers have to wait for an eternity for some player to hit the ball and then leisurely walk after it. After all, a guy can't be thinking of what club to use for too long when 20 opponents are about to stuff him into the nearest gopher hole.

It will be exciting.

Ted Turner, who owns the cable superstation WTBS in Atlanta, could buy the rights to televise the game and call it the "New American Game Show." His rights would be taken away as soon as he tried to colorize the green grass with that crazy computer of his.

If that doesn't work out, there is always ESPN. That's the famous cable station that airs big-time wrestling and roller derbys back-to-back.

If viewers can handle these "sporting events," then full-contact golf should be an instant success. How could it fail?

Just think of all the advantages a pro league would bring to the sport of golf.

Golfers all around the world would finally get instant recognition. Bubblegum card companies would publish cards with the golfer's face on one side and important information—like how many times the golfer teed off on time—on the other.

Of course, I would become president of this new full-contact golf league. The rules would be simple, no hitting below the knickers and every man and woman for him- or herself.

No carts would be allowed on the course, except those that carried off the wounded to the clubhouse for a little rest and relaxation.

I'm ready to unveil this master plan sometime before the end of the decade or as soon as I get a corporate sponsor.

I wonder what John DeLorean is doing these days?

Nine wells shut down

The Clarkston News
Nine water wells were found to be contaminated with ethyl ether on Northview Drive and Perry Lake Road in Independence Township.
Freon type compounds were also found in five of the wells, said Lois Elliott-Wilson, environmental sanitarian from Michigan Department of Public Health (MDPH).
"These compounds themselves are not hazardous to health at the levels we're finding, but we know it's an indication of a degeneration of well water," said Elliott-Wilson.
"They may be the first compounds found off landfills," she said, adding she suspects the chemicals could be a result of an old landfill north of Clarkston Road, east of Perry Lake Road.
Until further testing is finished, they won't know the source for sure, she said.
To be on the safe side, the residents are to receive bottled water to drink and cook with, Elliott-Wilson said.

GOOSE WATCH: On a balmy evening at the Mill Pond, father and mother goose stand watch over their goslings, as they try to find something interesting to eat.

Clarkston man pedals 1,000 miles

Herb Rose of Clarkston rode his lightweight 12-speed bike more than 1,000 miles during an eight-day span in late May.

Rose started from his home on North Holcomb Street at 7 a.m. May 20 and rolled to a stop in St. Ignace on the evening of May 28.

He penned the following description of the experience:

"That second day was one of those instances where everything is 'go.' The weather was fine. The bike moved well. I felt terrific and rode 179 miles.

"The temperature dropped that night, and I rode the 120 miles to Munising in a cold rain with the wind straight off Gitche Gumee.

"The high reading for the day was 40 degrees Fahrenheit, and when I got to a motel I was in the first stages of hypothermia. I aborted my plan to ride the Keweenaw and turned south through Iron Mountain.

"The changed itinerary put me in Green Bay 25 miles west of the Ferry landing, and two days before the boat left. I finally got to Ludington and had a 270-mile, two-day ride home.

"Except when I was waiting for the Ferry, I averaged 132 miles per day.

"There were times when the weather would have had to improve to be miserable, but there were times that were fine and I shifted the bike quietly so as not to disturb the birds and animals in the woods around me.

"The final entry is that I am unquestionably glad I made the trip."

Baseball squad wins GOAL

When the season began, Coach Roy Warner knew Clarkston's varsity baseball team was a little green since only five players were seniors.

But the Wolves overcame the experience shortfall and won another Greater Oakland Activities League title with a 6-2 record. On top of that, Clarkston made it to the semifinals of the George Gary Tournament.

Individuals who performed well included senior Jeff Billig, who pitched and played outfield. Billig had four victories and a 3.04 ERA in 23 innings of action from the mound. At the plate, he led the team in doubles with 10 and walks with 22 while batting .358.

Junior Jeff Tungate, who was named the Most Valuable Player on the team, had a hand in two-thirds of the Wolves' victories. He picked up eight wins and added four saves against three losses for Clarkston. He also had a miniscule ERA of 1.20.

As a batter, Tungate hit .447 for the season and tied for second on the team with 24 runs batted in.

Senior Dave Larkin, tabbed the team's Most Improved Player, batted .419 and knocked in 22 runs.

Junior Stacy Turner, an outfielder, provided some offensive punch for the Wolves. He led the team in home runs (3) and RBIs (28).

Hole-in-one

James J. Smith of Holcomb Road, Independence Township, made his first hole-in-one while golfing on June 9.

Smith, 46, who has been golfing for 35 years, was playing in a golf league at Tyrone Hills Golf Course in Tyrone Township.

He made his hole-in-one on the 11th hole, 172 yards, using a six iron, according to the golf pro at the course, Dennis Husse. Smith scored a 43 for the nine holes of golf.

Lt. Kenneth Peppiatte of the White Lake Township Police Department.

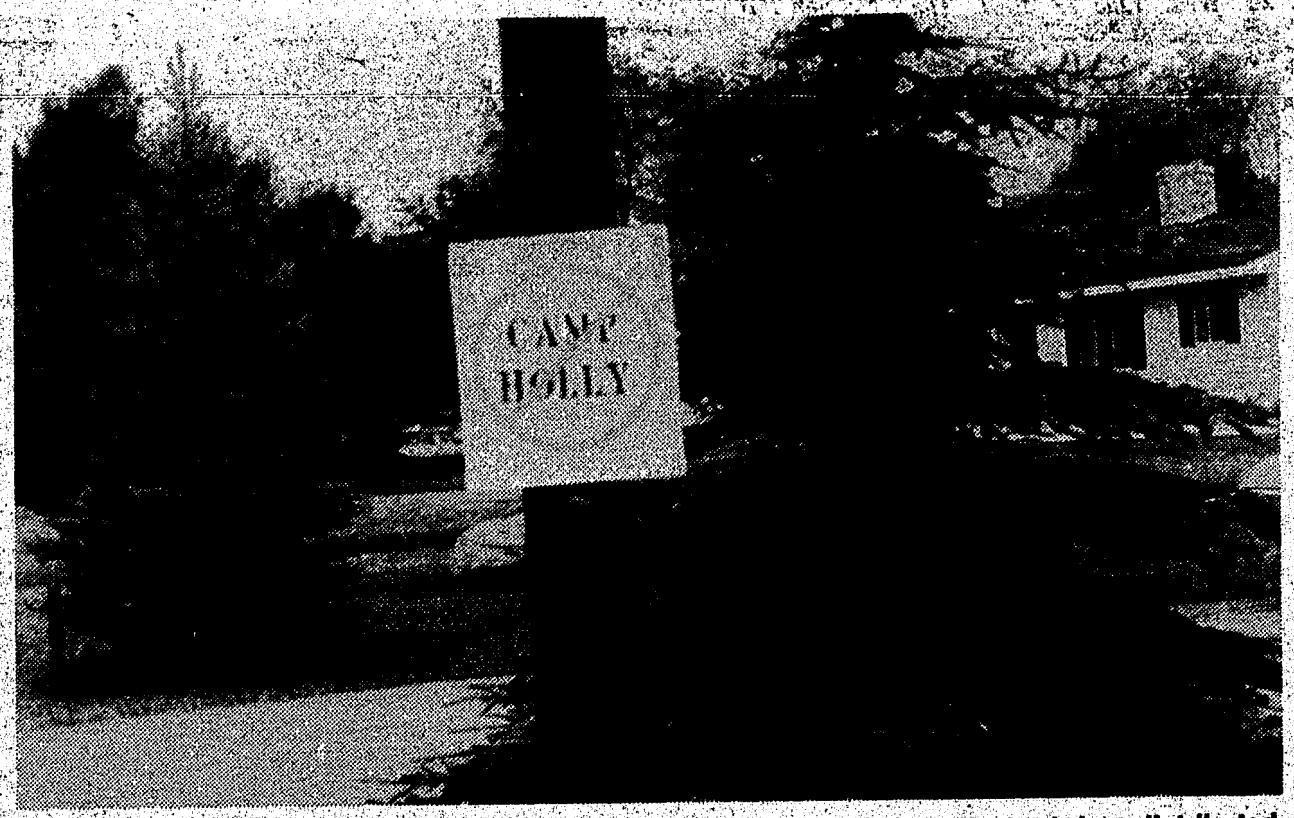

The driver of the other auto, a Suburban-type vehicle, was Claude Curry, 64, of White Lake Township. Curry suffered minor injuries and was treated and released from Huron Valley Hospital.

O'Neill was not wearing a seat belt; Curry was, said Peppiatte.

O'Neill was a telemarketing representative in the marketing division at Blue Cross Blue Shield, Health Care Network.

He was class president and was graduated with honors from Clarkston High School in 1981 and was graduated with honors from Michigan State University, East Lansing, in 1985. A member of the Young Republican Club, O'Neill was also a lifetime member of the MSU Alumni Association and a member of St. Daniel Catholic Church, Clarkston.

In addition to his parents, Dr. and Mrs. James O'Neill, brothers and sisters and other relatives, he is survived by his godparents, Dr. and Mrs. John Joyce of Troy.

This "No Camp Holly" sign is one of several along Davisburg Road in Springfield Township. The Neighbor Action Network has distributed over 270 similar signs.

Residents say no to Camp Holly

Red and white signs that say "No Camp Holly" can be seen at regular intervals as one travels west on Davisburg Road off Dixie Highway to the town of Davisburg.

The signs are the work of the Neighbor Action Network, an organization against the proposed resident camp for state wards at 242-acre Camp Holly owned by Michigan Metro Girl Scouts Council of Detroit.

The Department of Social Services is considering Camp Holly in Rose Township as a possible site.

Over 270 signs have been distributed, said Carol Jones of Springfield Township. "People have been coming to our home and picking them up," she said.

The organization has formed committees, which include a legal committee, public information, government liaison and information network, said Nancy Strole of Springfield Township.

The group also filed a Freedom of Information Act for the release of information from the DDS.

According to a spokesperson from State Rep. Mat Dunaskiss' office, a funding request for the camp puchase has not come before the state Legislature.

Board turns thumbs down on exotic dancers

BY ALISA NASS
Clarkston News Special Writer

Exotic male dancers are one reason an entertainment permit recommendation for the Old House Inn was rejected June 10 by the Springfield Township Board.

This was the second request by the owner, Wanda Rothermel, for a permit recommendation.

The vote to reject the recommendation was six to one.

"I am opposed to this because of the stated intended use. I don't think that activity belongs in this community," said trustee William Whitley.

Collin Walls, township supervisor, voted against the rejection.

"She would have been limited in the kind of entertainment she could have had. We have provisions with our zoning ordinances," Walls said after the meeting.

Entertainment permits are issued by the state Liquor Control Commission, but recommendations from the township and sheriff's department are part of the application process.

Wanda Rothermel, owner of the Old House Inn on Dixie Highway, submitted an application for a permit to be held in conjunction with the restaurant's existing Class C liquor license.

A request for a recommendation was first brought to the attention of the Springfield Township Board on May 13. The recommedation was denied by an unanimous vote based on technical reasons, which were: the building not complying with the fire code and the owner not providing information required by the township's ordinance. Rothermel was not present at the first meeting.

"I am definitely going to Lansing and have an appeal," said Rothermel after the meeting, June 10. "I feel they (the board) are discriminating. We don't cater to children. Apparently they feel everyone should be in church."

The entertainment, in the eatery's lower level, would be not only male dancers, but fashion shows and singers among others, she said.

Other businesses up and down the road, although not in Springfield but who are competition, have permits, she said.

The sherriff's department also withheld recomendation approval. "The department has taken the position not to issue any new permits" and go along with the township board, said Robert Wark, a detective-sergeant of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Once the permit is issued it stays with the bar, even if sold, said Wark.

Someone else could decide to bring in topless dancers, he said, adding, "We're not saying Mrs. Rothermel will be having that."

School cuts to grow by $500,000

An additional one-half million dollars in cuts from the 1987-88 proposed budget of Clarkston Community Schools could be made at a special meeting June 30.

"The cuts will not exceed $500,000. We will have to make across-the-board cuts," said Janet Thomas, school board president.

The proposed cuts do not include the $1.02 million in reductions already approved by the board of education due to the defeat of the 4.25 mill tax increase proposal on the June 8 ballot.

The board set the special meeting date during its regular meeting, June 9, after the board unanimously approved the tentative $19 million budget for K-12 education for the 1987-88 school year.

Prior to the regular meeting was the annual budget hearing presented to the board by William Jackson, district business manager.

The general fund should have a surplus of at least $803,000 for reserved vacation and sick leave, said Jackson.

The tentative budget has only $500,000, of which $220,000 belongs to community education, he said.

The statewide average for a general fund balance is over 10 percent of its expenditures. Clarkston's average is currently 2.6 percent, he said.

Jackson also noted that the proposed budget reflects a drop in state revenue of 12.54 percent or $673,428.

"With the renewal (3.79 mills), the community approved the 33.33 mills (Clarkston currently operates on), but with the Headlee Amendment we have to lower that to 32.194 mills," he said.

The Headlee Amendment was designed to allow income to grow only as much as the Consumer Price Index, or the official rate of inflation. Accordingly, when property values increase at a higher rate than the price index, tax rates are rolled back.

The concept behind the Headlee Amendment is that as a community's wealth increases, so does its ability to pay, resulting in less state aid, said Jackson.

State law requires approval of a tentative budget by June 30. The budget is amended after enrollment is determined by the fourth Friday count in September. State aid is based on the number of students enrolled on that date.

Apartment plans put on hold by commission

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Amid protests from the developers, the final site plan for Phase II of Lancaster Apartments on Dixie Highway was tabled by the Independence Township Planning Commission.

On June 11, commission member Brent Bair made the motion to table. The commission needed answers on the density calculations, carport plans and the special assessment district for the Maybee Road extension, he said.

The motion followed about 25 minutes of discussion.

"We have sat quietly for a long, long time," said Bill Fox, owner of developer Fox Corp. "We've tried to do things within our power. . . . We've done everything we can to assist you in getting the (road) access (to the site)."

Fox said his corporation had offered to help with the financing for a Maybee Road extension, either through a special assessment district or a loan to the Downtown Development Authority, which plans to extend Maybee Road around 1990.

He has also tried to buy the property to build the road, but the owner wasn't interested, he said.

"If there's a time problem, that shouldn't be our problem," Fox said. "That's not fair.

"We are now heavily involved in Clarkston. We have built what I consider to be a good project. . . . We feel it's time for the planning commission to make a decision. We're willing to be cooperative."

Because of the safety problems with the busy Dixie Highway at Maybee Road, Bair said he didn't agree with Phase I of the about 280-unit project and that access to the apartment site should be solved.

"I don't think it's fair to table. I want an answer tonight, yes or no."
—Developer Bill Fox

"It is not only a concern to the planning commission, but it's a concern to the people in the community," said Bair.

Currently, access to the site behind Clarkston Motors is through the Randy Hosler auto dealership.

Other commission members voiced concerns over carports, which weren't shown on the plan but may be added later. In Phase I, carports were added a year after the final site plan approval, and the commission said future carports should be shown on the initial plan.

Also, the Phase I plan showed 276 units for the entire project and the Phase II plan showed 280 units. By delivering the plan at meeting time, the developers didn't give the township planner time to perform the density calculations, said Bair.

After Bair's motion to table, Fox said, "You can't table. . . . I don't think it's fair to table. I want an answer tonight, yes or no."

The commission voted 4-0 to table the final site plan. Chairperson Joseph Figa was absent.

After the vote, Fox said, "You're taking my property rights. It's just not fair to make us wait for these types of items."

"We are not tabling for carports," said commission member Carol Balzarini, adding the commission can't approve the plan as it is, and it has no reason to deny it.

Phase I of the two-phase apartment complex is nearing completion on the west side of Dixie Highway on 48.8 acres.

Father, son team up for cable TV

BY ALISA NASS
Clarkston News Special Writer

A special father-son relationship for Gary and Brian Polley of Clarkston, started with an after-school enrichment class.

The class introduced them, over a year and a half ago, to the production of cable programs and United Cable Television's public access cable Channel 11.

Since that time, the two have been involved in the production of many programs. Their most recent program is "A World of Glass." The nine-week series features stained glass window maker Rocky Martina.

The main intention behind taking the class together was that "it was something both of us could do, and now," said Gary. "As children start to grow up you get farther away."

"We've gotten closer," said Brian. "We weren't as close and didn't talk too much before."

In addition to Brian, 14, Gary and Sally Polley of Holcomb Street have another son, Joshua, 7. Gary is a parts manager at Jacobson Trailer Sales.

Once involved in United Cable, there was no stopping the father-son team.

"It can consume you," said Gary. He described a period of time when he would come home from work and by 6:30 p.m., sometimes without eating, the two would leave for the studio, three to four nights a week.

The two are still involved, but "not to the extent we have been doing it in the past," said Gary.

"If we wanted to do it four nights a week and Saturday and Sunday, we could. You have to draw the line somewhere," he said. The work is without pay.

"It gets them out of the house together, which is nice," said Sally. "They discuss it all the time and we always have to watch their shows even if it's against Cosby."

Gary and Brian have been trained in editing, aesthethics, directing, studio and portable production. Currently they are the only father and son working together.

Brian [left] and Gary Polley are the only father and son team producing programs for United Cable Television of Independence-Clarkston's public access Channel 11.

"I probably enjoy directing more than anything," said Gary.

Brian most enjoys doing "the newest thing I've learned," he said.

"He's getting more involved than I am," said Gary of his son. "He goes over and plays with the computer. There is a lot of technical equipment he is very good at."

This summer, Brian plans to direct an interview program with local people and businesses. The program was his idea.

Brfore her husband and son became involved in United Cable's access program, said Sally, the family really didn't pay attention to the programs on Channel 11. Now they're big fans.

"The amount of productions coming out is more than other stations," said Gary. "I wish more people in Independence Township would take a look at Channel 11. There are some excellent programs."

Speech recounts the years from kindergarten to CHS graduation

Samantha Savas, secretary of Clarkston High School Student Council, was one of three chosen from the top 10 graduates to speak at the graduation ceremonies June 8.

"I was really excited," said Savas after the ceremony. "I've wanted to (speak) ever since my sister (Melissa) spoke at her graduation. . . . I was a little nervous, though."

Savas finished seventh in her class and was a member of the National Honor Society and the Blue and Gold Club. She participated in Powder Puff Football and Junior Miss.

Her speech follows:

Administrators, Faculty, Honored Guests, Parents, Fellow Graduates:

"When we leave this pavilion tonight, the things we will never forget are the memories of our past together; some wonderful, some painful, yet all representing a part of us that will last forever."

Today we graduate. It seemed like this day would never come; yet here we are, ready to close the door on one of the most important parts of our lives.

But when we leave this pavilion tonight, the things we will never forget are the memories of our past together; some wonderful, some painful, yet all representing a part of us that will last forever.

It's been a long time since our first day of school—getting on a huge yellow bus, beginning a whole new experience, each child making positively sure Mom bought him that Scooby-Doo lunch box. Kindergarten was the life, coloring and playing and naptime.

Then, first grade came, and it was time to go to school for a full day. We even had recess!

Who could forget playing marbles in the summer and making snowmen in the winter, trampling through the school with our snowmobile suits and boots on?

These were the days of the playground lady and jungle gyms. And when you got in trouble, the familiar command, "Go to the wall!"

Elementary school was our introduction into the glorious days of childhood. Dressing up for Halloween, sending valentines to everyone—including those kids you really didn't like.

There were those wonderful birthday parties when you forced your mom to make cupcakes for everyone in the class.

Of course, there were always those kids who had gotten into trouble and had to sit out in the hall.

And who can forget joining band or chorus or service squad? And, finally, the sixth-grade spelling bee. Little did we know we'd meet up with our competitors four years later.

And so grade school went on, each year blending into the next; now, a mass of jumbled memories.

Soon it was time to move on to the big junior high. It was easy getting completely lost in that huge school. So was asking some ninth-grader for directions and getting lost again, because no matter how hard you looked, you just could not find the elevator. But the biggest shock of all was—no recess!

Slowly our elementary friends faded and we met new kids. Now some of the important things in our lives were school dances, school musicals, ninth-grade camp and the big Sashabaw-Clarkston football game.

If you look around you, you'll notice that you probably can't even remember now who came from Clarkston and who came from Sashabaw.

As we look back, we can see that our memories of junior high are simple, happy ones. The time so-and-so fell in the hall, singing to the filmstirps in Mr. Biehl's class and when what's-his-name hid in the teacher's closet. Yes, junior high was fun.

But surely the most unforgettable time in our lives will be that of our high school years. We have gone through so much together.

"Who could forget playing marbles in the summer and making snowmen in the winter, trampling through the school with our snowmobile suits and boots on?"

But I guess the word that is most representative of the past three years is change. We've experienced four principals, two parking lot attendants, and let's not forget our three trusty hall monitors.

We have all had the pleasure of going through driver's education. Everyone remembers waiting until all of the cars drove up to the garage and then tearing through the parking lot to get those last few thrills before driving home 25 mph with your mother.

A lot of good those classes did when you ended up getting a ticket for some reason like driving your friend's car while his plates were expired.

But getting our licenses gave us the freedom to drive to school and go out to lunch, even if these luxuries could sometimes make us late for class or get our cars towed.

Well, we've experienced two rainy homecomings, field days, dances and the celebration of the 25th year of Clarkston High School. And I don't think anyone will ever forget Alex Yarber flying around the Spanish class.

Many basketball games were played away because of the unexpected bubbling of the gym floor.

Well, we've left a lot of new things for the underclassmen. The new gym floor, the new scoreboards, the new track, the new field and, of course, the new fence outside the school.

We also learned a lot about culture around the world, thanks to our exchange students. We learned about Uruguay, England, Norway—Tipp City. Yes, these new friends opened our eyes up to the rest of the world.

Recently, we had the chance to attend our senior-junior prom. Well, maybe I should say senior prom. It was a special night for everyone, and our thanks is expressed to the junior class.

It will be a cherished moment in all of our hearts and provide us with memories to look back upon for years to come.

"Soon it was time to move on to the big junior high. It was easy getting completely lost in that huge school."

There were also a lot of proud moments for us concerning sports. This year alone, we were the GOAL champs in football, girls' and boys' basketball, girls' soccer and volleyball. Our volleyball team went even farther and was district champs.

Cross-country won their league meet; ski team was first in their league; and our varsity cheerleaders took first place at camp.

And who can forget the infamous bench-clearing brawl? Even Jeff Billig got up for that one.

And then there was that glorious week from April 18 to April 26 called spring break. Well, I don't think I'm going to get into that, but I will say that most of us reached our main goal, which was to have fun.

On the other hand, for those of us who went to Hawaii, the main goal was to run down the police station stairs and yell, "Book 'em, Dano!"

Well, we couldn't find a police station anywhere, so we took our MacGruder's and went to the beach.

But along with the joys, there were also the tears. Sophomore year, we had the chance to listen to David Toma and learn from his experience. We can thank him for the many chemical-related programs started as a result of his visit.

Our junior year, we experienced the tragic death of our principal, Mr. John Kirchgessner. He was a great man, teacher and friend. Our loss was great, but the memories of such an understanding and caring man will last forever.

This year, another speaker, Jim Tuman, urged us to show how much we love and care for each other. He was right.

Especially now at this turning point in our lives, we should really let each other know how important we are.

Because tonight is our last night together, and as the song says, "This is the time to remember."

ACTION AND EDUCATION AWARE WAR ON DRUGS

Double standard

Dear Friend to Friend,

Congratulations to Kelly Saunders, our new senior class president! The overwhelming support for Kelly demonstrates the type of leadership we, as students, admire.

She has turned her life around through her successful fight with chemical dependency.

I hope she can turn some things around at Clarkston High School—because on the surface it would appear that the Clarkston schools have taken a strong stand on the fight against substance abuse with their athletic policy calling for team suspension for athletes using tobacco, alcohol or other drugs.

But, in reality, a double standard exists within our school.

The message we students are getting is that the average student must follow the rules but if you are related to the right people, you can do anything you want without having to be responsible for your behavior.

The old slogan "It's not what you know but who you know" must be true at CHS. This injustice is causing many students at CHS to be really angry and frustrated.

We don't want students rewarded for drug abuse or we will never achieve a drug-free school. Do you have any ideas or suggestions on how to deal with this double standard?

Also, how do we inform the CHS faculty that they are giving us (the students) a mixed message by condemning drugs and then condoning a certain student's behavior?

Please answer in your "Friend to Friend" column in The Clarkston News. We hope you don't ignore us, too.

The students have taken the first step toward a drug-free school. Now, how do we get the support of the CHS faculty?

Students Angry Over Mixed Messages and Double Standards

Dear Students Angry Over Mixed Messages,

We appreciate your concern about Clarkston High School and about drug and alcohol use by students. There is no question that often there is a double standard not only in our schools but also in society.

Popular athletes frequently have special privileges. Yet the fact that you've singled out one person in your letter (which was shortened for print) suggests that you may be jealous of that individual.

However, you've raised some valuable questions that we'll try to answer as best we can.

How do you deal with the double standard? We think you've taken the first step by writing this letter. The next steps involve commitment and perserverance.

How do you involve the high school faculty? That's tougher. We think there is a real need for the high school faculty to be more knowledgeable about chemical abuse and more faculty members should be actively involved in clubs and organizations involved with school problems.

By all means, talk to your teachers about your concerns. Ask them to attend club or organization meetings. We realize, though, that this might be difficult if you don't feel particularly close to any of your teachers.

As to other things you might do, join such organizations as the Blue and Gold Club, FACT or Students Against Smoking. These three organizations are interested in improving the school's image just as you are.

But be aware of the peer pressure against joining such groups. Anyone who takes a stand must expect pressure or even ridicule.

You can also encourage your parents and the community to support millage votes. This last millage election, in which a 4.25 mill tax increase for operational purposes was defeated, will eliminate the SEARCH program at the high school.

That means counseling for alcohol and drug abusing students will be eliminated along with a parent support group and support for students who are coming back from treatment programs.

You can also get involved with the AWARE group, which is dedicated to fighting drug and alcohol abuse through community involvement, education and awareness.

Dear Friends in the Community,

This is a thank you to the parents who put on the post-graduation party at the Deer Lake Racquet Club.

It was a great success and we appreciate the effort put forth by parents and sponsors of this all-night, non-alcoholic party for seniors.

It was a last chance for friends to get together in a fun atmosphere and we hope this can be an annual tradition.

Friend to Friend

Letters to Friend to Friend are answered by a panel of Clarkston High School students working under the sponsorship of Aware, a community group devoted to action and education against chemical dependency.

Students can submit letters by placing them in the designated "problem locker" at CHS, Clarkston Junior High or Sashabaw Junior High. The problem lockers remain available for use during the summer.

Letters can also be sent to Friend to Friend in care of The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main, Clarkston, MI 48016.

Get details on Pan Am Games

Brochures and order forms for tickets to the Pan American Games on Aug. 7-23 in Indianapolis, Ind., are available at the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department.

"We are one of the few outlets in the state where you can get them," said Timothy Doyle, director of parks and recreation.

Over 4,000 Olympic hopefuls from 38 nations in North and South America, Central America and the Caribbean plan to participate in 27 sports and 286 different events. There are nearly 400 ticketed sessions.

Each year, the Pan American Games are conducted at a different site.

"This year, they're fairly close to Michigan, so by selling tickets it might be more appealing to Michigan residents," Doyle said. "I wouldn't mind going myself and may indeed do that."

The tickets were made available to parks and recreation departments statewide through the Michigan Recreation and Park Association, Doyle said, but participation was optional.

The parks and recreation office in Independence Township Hall, 90 N. Main, Clarkston, is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays. For more information, call 625-8223.

Civic groups needed

Now is the time for civic groups to contact the Clarkston Community Historical Society to be part of this year's Crafts and Cider Festival.

The 14th annual Crafts and Cider Festival in Clarkston is scheduled Sept. 18, 19 and 20.

Traditionally, the civic group booths provide food concessions, entertainment, face painting or any service they wish to provide, said Jennifer Radcliff, president of the historical society.

For information, interested groups should contact Larry Gilleland at 625-6017, Radcliff at 625-8181 or write to the Clarkston Community Historical Society, P.O. Box 261, Clarkston, MI 48016.

2nd-grader's poem tops state contest

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Quick as the hand can reach for the doorbell, the front door swings open and a beaming 8-year-old says, "You must be the woman from the Oakland Press. Please come in!"

Coming up behind him, his mother laughs and explains, "I told him a local paper was coming out."

And so, The Clarkston News interview with Jimmy Territo began. It was no ordinary interview, but then Jimmy is no ordinary second-grader.

End-of-the-year awards had just been handed out at Bailey Lake Elementary School where Jimmy is a pupil in the class of Gayle Swanson. He proudly produces a fistful of award certificates for the reporter's examination.

"I saw a Michigan commercial. I thought it was pretty neat and it just sparked my imagination on this."
—Jimmy Territo

But the award Jimmy prizes the most is his first-place award in the state's Sesquicentennial Reflections contest.

The contest was sponsored by the Michigan State Board of Education Sesquicentennial Advisory Committee in cooperation with the Michigan Parent Teacher Association. Entries were judged on creative ability and expression of the theme: "We Are Michigan in Celebration: A Past to Remember, A Future to Mold."

Jimmy's first place in literature earned him a framed certificate and a gold medallion with the state seal on one side and the sesquicentennial logo on the other. He competed with pupils statewide from kindergarten through third grade.

He won the state recognition with a poem, "I am Michigan," describing the assets of the state in creative detail.

He also entered a short story, "Yes, Mythigan!" about a giant spirit who had a muddy mit filled with seeds and grains, which eventually produced the state

[See HONORS, Page 43]

Jimmy Territo, a second-grader at Bailey Lake Elementary, displays the first-place medallion and certificate he won in the state Sesquicentennial Reflections contest as well as school awards he brought home last week.

Tanning tips

Brenda Ward

SPF, PABA, aloe, zinc. These are words and abbreviations that pertain to the most widespread liesure activity under the sun . . . tanning.

If you are confused about what is best or safest for your skin, hopefully I can shed a little light on the subject.

When my clients ask me questions about the sun and their skin, I give them advice on what I call safe tanning.

A safe tan is an enhancement to any skin tone. It is a tan accomplished gradually and sensibly with proper use of protective products.

Anyone, however, under a doctor's care for any skin disorder should remain out of the sun as much as possible.

To take the mystery out of sun product label ingredients, here is a glossary.

SPF stands for Sun Protection Factor. It is fact, not fiction, that the sun's ultraviolet rays are harmful. The SPF number in a product tells you how much longer you can tolerate sun exposure before you will begin to burn.

For instance, an SPF 15 easily translated means you could stay in the sun 15 times longer before you will burn. An SPF of 2 means about 50 percent of the sun's rays will penetrate your skin; an SPF of 30, only 3 percent.

While considering your correct SPF, keep in mind your natural coloring. A fair-skinned blonde or redhead will always use a higher SPF than an olive or sallow brunette.

To make your tanning product most effective, apply generously and evenly at least 15 minutes before exposure to the sun. If you are in and out of the water, reapply often unless your product is waterproof.

Most waterproof sunscreens are good for 80 minutes in and out of the water. There are specific products for eyelids and lips, too. If you are a diehard sun worshiper, they are worth the investment.

PABA is a sunblocking agent currently under controversy over its long-term effects on the skin. Your best bet for now is to avoid any synthetic form of PABA. The natural substance comes from the healing aloe vera plant, which is soothing to burns.

Zinc is a mineral used in an emollient base. Although it's white (also available in flourescent colors) and may look silly, it gives total sun protection to sensitive areas, like noses, in intense sun exposure situations.

Self tanning creams are for those who want to play it safe entirely. The active ingredient is not a pigment or dye but produces an interaction with the proteins in the outermost layers of the skin.

The result is a warm color that will last temporarily. Shop the better department stores for a product of this nature. The finer cosmetic lines have eliminated orange-looking results.

Always apply the product carefully and evenly for good results and always wash your hands immediately after use.

Here is an example of how to produce a deep, even tan that will last all summer with relatively no peeling.

Remember, it is proven that ultraviolet rays do damage your skin and can accelerate the signs of aging. This is a guide to the safest way.

It's Wednesday, a good day to try a tan accelerating product. These help bring your skin's melanin reserves to the surface quicker. Use Wednesday, Thursday and Friday on all areas that will be exposed to the sun.

On Saturday, using your skin's proper SPF lotion or cream, sunbathe for a minimum safe time (usually 40 to 90 minutes, no longer).

On Sunday, using the same SPF lotion, sunbathe again and increase the duration of exposure only one-half time.

During the week, care for your skin well. Use a moisturizer daily. Repeat the same procedure next weekend.

If you are on vacation, follow the same steps daily until you are tolerating the sun for two hours or have achieved your desired tan.

You can lower the SPF of your product after two weeks of consecutive exposure.

In your non-sun time, indulge in highly moisturized creams that will help replace what the sun takes away.

Clarkston boy wins top honors in contest

of Michigan. His story and poem were finalists at the school level.

When asked where he got the idea for his mythical story, Jimmy replies, "Well, actually, the state looks like a mit. Since it's pretty big, the guy had to be pretty big. The mit had to be muddy so things would grow in it."

Of his poem, Jimmy explains, "I saw a Michigan commercial. I thought it was pretty neat and it just sparked my imagination on this."

Jimmy is the youngest of six children of Joseph and Beverly Territo of Independence Township. Dr. Joseph Territo is the medical director at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital and Beverly, a homemaker, jokes that she would like business cards to describe her profession as "grandma."

Raised in a family of "adults" (there are 16 years between Jimmy and the next youngest child), the precocious youngster has a vocabulary that would be envied by many high school students.

"We don't even talk like that," Beverly says, laughing. "I don't know where he gets it."

She fondly describes her son as "the caboose," a reward for raising the others.

Jimmy doesn't read his favorite books, he memorizes them. And he constantly "entertains" his family.

On the day of the awards assembly, Beverly says Jimmy came home clutching the medallion to his chest and said, "Oh, mother, now I know how the governor or the president feels when they win an election!"

He was distressed, however, because he "didn't have an acceptance speech prepared."

Jimmy is a good student and enjoys competing for awards. Even in kindergarten, he won a school trophy in the Reflections contest with a poem about the solar system.

A boy of many interests, his fascination with science and the solar system gave way to dinosaurs, and now, to religion.

Asked what he wants to be when he grows up, Jimmy doesn't hesitate to confidently tell you he wants to be the first American pope.

If that sounds like an impossible dream, you haven't met Jimmy Territo.

I am Michigan

By Jimmy Territo

I am a land of natural resources,
Of copper,
Of the White Pine,
Of cherries and apples,
Of fossil fuel and iron ore,
A land of recreation,
Of ski slopes,
Of trout ponds and great lakes,
A land of buildings,
Of teepees and log cabins,
Of museums and colleges,
Of car dealers and hospitals,
I am Michigan and I am famous for the Mackinac Bridge and the automobile.
I remember all my people,
The Indians, the fur trappers, the settlers and inventors.
I am a very proud state,
And I celebrate my past, and want to have a good future.

Big Boy challenge

When the managers at the Clarkston Big Boy heard Red Cross needed blood, they thought of a way they could help.

They're sponsoring a drive Monday, June 22, from 2 to 8 p.m. at the Clarkston United Methodist Church on Waldon Road, Clarkston.

The Big Boy's night shift is challenging the day shift—the losing managers get banana cream pies in their faces, said Steve Gitre, a night manager.

"I know they're in a critical supply of blood, especially this time of year, with all the summer accidents," said Gitre. "We just thought it would be good for the community."

The Oakland Red Cross gave each Big Boy employee (105 of them) a pledge sheet, and the employees are getting people to pledge to give blood, he said.

Also, information is available at the restaurant so customers may give blood.

"We're trying to make an annual event out of this," said Gitre.

Retired Ford executive remains avid car buff

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

When Gene Bordinat visits the little town of St. Ignace June 25-27, he will no doubt see many familiar designs displayed at the 1987 Straits Area Antique Auto Show.

Bordinat, retired vice president of design for Ford Motor Co., will serve as this year's guest of honor for the 12th annual auto show.

During his 20-year career at Ford Motors, Bordinat was responsible for the design of all the Ford vehicles, including the Mark III, Mustang and Ford racing cars. He was also responsible for advanced design projects including the mid-ship engine, plastic bodies and the small family van.

Bordinat lives with his wife, Teresa, in a comfortable home overlooking Pine Knob and spends his retirement years traveling, reading, writing and, of course, visiting an occasional auto show.

"It's rather amazing when you think of it," Bordinat says of the Straits Area Auto Show. "There's this little town of St. Ignace (population about 2,800) and you have 60,000 people in it. It tells you something about car enthusiasts."

He says the St. Ignace show, which opens June 25 with the Mackinac Bridge rally and tour, is getting to be one of the largest.

A "Down Memory Lane" parade highlights the activities on Friday, followed by an evening of entertainment. The auto show is scheduled to open at 9 a.m. on Saturday.

The Bordinats plan to be on hand for the full slate of events at the show, along with many other well-known names in the automobile industry.

The course of Bordinat's automotive career was formed in 1939 when, as a teen-age student, he attended the former General Motors Design School in Detroit.

"My intent at the time was to get into the advertising world," he says. "Then I heard about this school.

Gene and Teresa Bordinat pose by the Clenet which is part of his car collection. He will be guest of honor at the Straits Area Antique Auto Show in St. Ignace on June 25-27.

"Cars had always been an avocation of mine," he says. "But it hadn't occurred to me that people designed them."

Bordinat, who also studied at the University of Michigan, describes his stint at the Design School as a "wonderful education."

"Design schools are a good source of automotive designers," he says. "In fact, the Center for Creative Studies in Detroit vies with any today for designers."

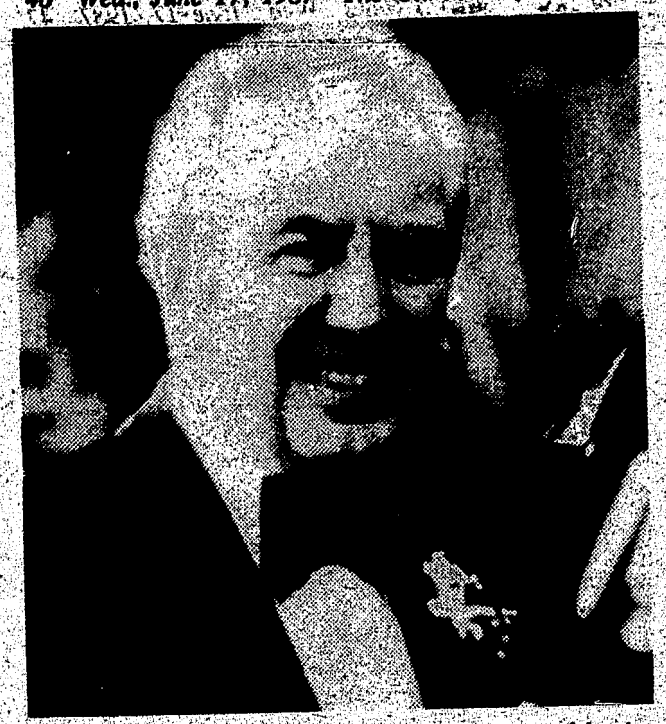

Bordinat worked at General Motors as a junior designer before accepting the position as head of all advanced styling at Ford.

He saw five Ford presidents come and go during his career, and began writing a book about Ford after retiring in 1981. It was to be entitled "My Days at the Court of Henry II," but Bordinat has shelved the manuscript for now.

"For one thing, the publishers wanted me to lambast Iacocca, and they wanted me to weave into the story the academics of designing a car," Bordinat says. "I decided those were two things I wasn't interested in.

"Third, it was fun to start writing, but then you're into nine months of rewrites and nine months of editing. It's hard work," he says. "How important is this? I could be doing other things known as retirement. When you reach 67, you wonder how many nine-month chunks you have left."

The retired Ford executive, reminiscing in the relaxed atmosphere of his library, says the transition to retirement was easy.

He turned down the presidency of a middle-sized company shortly after retirement because it was "too big a chunk out of his life," but he certainly stays busy at "retirement."

He and his wife just returned from a three-month driving tour of Mexico, and they both enjoy gourmet cooking.

Two cars, the last of his car collection, reside in his garage. A Clenet, one of only about 250 made of that particular model, is from the first series built by Alan Clenet. The other is a Mangusta, a prestigious Italian car made by Ghia.

He drives—what else?—a Lincoln Continental.

"They say the romance with the car is dead, but a lot of that had to do with government involvement," he says. "I think the media had the feeling that the romance was dead, but nothing could be further from the truth.

"Cars are probably the second largest purchase of a person's life," he says. "I think people still have a love affair with their cars."

An Apple for the Teacher

by Tom Ford

Educator of note

In the spring of 1986, Jan Merz heard a new kind of music.

For the last 12 years, Jan Merz has been the vocal music instructor at Sashabaw Junior High School. But her involvement with music has been long-standing.

When she attended Southfield Lathrop High School, she was a member of the concert choir, Madrigals, band and orchestra. In addition, she was a member of the National Honor Society, girls swim team and synchronized swim club.

Jan liked music so well she majored in it at Alma College, where she was a member of the Acappella Choir, was an "Alma Singer" and was a flutist with the orchestra.

Alma has remained in Jan's blood. She is an alumni class agent and a master volunteer for the school. She was their choice for Most Outstanding Woman in America in 1980!

After graduation, she spend four summers at Fred Waring workshops. She has sung with the Oakland Community Chorus where she met her husband, John.

John has his own company, Graphmark Services, which markets imprinted sportswear, Jan has been assistant choir director at Northbrook Presbyterian Church, Birmingham. John and Jan have enjoyed travel and camping.

Jan works part time. The classes she teachers are seventh-grade chorus, girls chorus, mixed chorus and the "Encores," a group she started. They are a group of eighth- and ninth-graders who perform with show-choir style.

They have performed in Detroit for the Michigan Curriculum Directors Conference, in Lansing at the Capitol Building during Michigan Week and at nursing homes through the Christmas season.

Last fall, Mr. Gene Grier, a composer and music instructor, dedicated the song "We're Movin' On" to Jan and her students.

In the spring of 1986, Jan heard a new kind of music. This new music an also be referred to as "Todd."

Jan had the summer to spend with her new son. But when school started, it was back to work.

Jan feels that she has the best of both worlds!

An Apple for the Teacher is provided through a committee of the Clarkston Education Association.

This week's author is Tom Ford, a metal shop teacher at Sashabaw Junior High School.

Circus bash

Clarkston Elementary School kindergartner Tommy Bolten poses in the "class clown" board for picture taking at the end-of-year picnic at Depot Park on June 9.

"Pocket Lady," alias Cherri Detkowski, gets lots of attention from kindergartners at the end-of-year circus picnic. Her pockets were full of candy and each pupil could choose some.

There were elephants and lions and tigers—straight from the Animal Crackers box. But the balloons, peanuts and painted faces were real, and so was the enthusiasm of kindergartners enjoying a circus-theme picnic at Depot Park June 9.

"It's an end-of-the-year bash," says Corena Bell, room mother who organized the event. She also made the clown hats, bows and ruffles the pupils were all wearing.

Assisting Bell was Lisa Pambid and a dozen or so other kindergarten moms who were busy blowing up balloons, monitoring games and trying to keep track of about 55 excited 5- and 6-year-olds.

The mothers also stenciled circus designs on T-shirts for the pupils and helped create their clown faces for the circus picnic.

Morning kindergartners, from the classes of Pat Johnson, Mary Ann Dedrick and Geri Allison, walked from Clarkston Elementary School to the park about 9 a.m. and then enjoyed games, story reading and lunch before walking back to the school by 11.

The Clarkston Elementary School second-grade class of Sherrill Bailey enjoyed a circus picnic in the park the same afternoon.

Bell, who has a second-grader as well as a kindergartner, again spearheaded the activities.

Awards pay tribute to honors graduates

The 122 members of the CHS class of 1987 who graduated with academic honors also received Michigan Academic Award certificates.

Academic honors were recognized with pins presented to the cum laude (3.0 to 3.499), magna cum laude (3.5 to 3.799) and summa cum laude (3.80 and up) graduates.

To receive a Michigan Academic Award, students must have obtained a "B" average in grades nine through 11 and in the first semester of 12th grade; completed at least 13 high school credits in English, math, science and social studies; and participated in co-curricular or extra-curricular activities or unpaid community service.

The award certificates were signed by Gov. James Blanchard, Norman Stockmeyer Sr., president of the State Board of Education; Clarkston schools Superintendent Milford Mason; and CHS Principal Dr. Robert Burek.

Scholarships and awards

Members of the Clarkston High School Class of 1987 received more money in scholarships and awards than any class in the history of the school.

The awards totaled $120,700 this year, an increase of almost $60,000 over last year.

"We just have a class that has been given many, many honors," said William Hartwell, director of guidance at CHS. "All in all, it was a very good year."

Local scholarships tallied $21,450; college awards, $61,050; and Michigan state school and tuition grants, $38,204.
