New chief

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A round of applause followed the appointment of Gar Wilson to fire chief by the Independence Township board.

At the July 21 meeting, Supervisor Frank Ronk recommended appointing Wilson to fill the vacancy left by former chief Dale Bailey, who died July 1.

As acting fire chief, Wilson has handled the position for about a year and has done well, said Ronk.

"He has accomplished some very difficult tasks as well as running emergency situations in the community," he said.

"You've got a big job ahead of you, and we'll give you all the help we can give you," he told Wilson.

In a memo to the board, Ronk outlined Wilson's experience.

Starting in the middle of the project, he's supervised the construction of fire station No. 2 at Sashabaw and Clarkston roads. He's added two fire engines and structured the department officers and men, said Ronk.

And his long time service and experience in the department would be beneficial, he said.

After the meeting, Wilson said he felt great about the appointment.

"It really almost choked me up; I was surprised," he said.

"It's kind of been a little difficult because of Dale (Bailey) being sick and running it for the last 8 mos. or a year. It's not like I'm going in with cold feet.

"I hope to just do the best job possible. I thank the board for appointing me. We've got a lot of projects going right now."

The board voted 5-0 to appoint Wilson. Treasurer John Lutz and Trustee Daniel Travis were absent.

Teen dies in fall from truck

BY KATHY GREENFIELD
Clarkston News Editor

A freak accident claimed the life of a Clarkston teenager July 24 when he fell from the rear of a garbage truck while at work.

Stephen M. Secatch, 17, of Main Street was riding on the back of a Smith's Disposal truck driving westbound on Kent Road in Brandon Township.

The truck was traveling at about 20 mph when Secatch lost his grip, fell to the pavement and struck his head at 10:36 a.m.

No one knows what caused his son to fall—the gloves he wore may have been slippery or he may have passed out from the intense heat, said Secatch's father, Stephen Secatch.

His son was working temporarily for the Independence Township disposal firm while waiting to turn 18 and begin working as a camp counselor for Independence Township Parks and Recreation. He would have turned 18 on Sunday, July 26, and was due to start the camp job on Monday, Mr. Secatch said.

The summer jobs were to earn spending money to use while attending Central Michigan University, Mt. Pleasant, where Secatch was enrolled to begin his freshman year in the fall.

Secatch, who was 6-foot-7 and weighed about 240 pounds, was active in basketball and football at Clarkston High School.

He had served under Coach Dan Fife as a first-string player on the varsity basketball team when it won the district championship in 1985-86 and the Greater Oakland Activities League title in 1985-86 and 1986-87.

"He was a fun-loving kid. He never got upset about things, and you never saw him mad. He always had a big smile on his face and got along with everyone," Fife said. "He really enjoyed sports and enjoyed life."

Fife described Secatch as a very dedicated member of the team who greatly contributed to its success. He was also a sensitive young man, who was worried about the future of Clarkston athletics after the recent millage failure even though he had already graduated, Fife said.

Secatch's circle of friends went beyond the athletes, Fife said. "Steve got along with everybody. He wasn't cliquish."

When word passed of their friend's accident, over 100 young people gathered on the lawn of the Secatch home, a tribute his parents will always remember.

Office praised

With a residential "look" about it, an office proposed for Dixie Highway, Independence Township, should blend well with the nearby homes, according to the township planning commission.

At the July 23 meeting, the commission unanimously granted conceptual site plan approval to David Plautz, a builder and planner who plans to build his 20,000 square foot office on the site, south of White Lake Road on the east side of Dixie Highway.

The building, to be constructed of stone, brick, wood and copper, drew praise from the commission members.

"It's a beautiful building," said Chairperson Joseph Figa.

"I'm very pleased with the . . . elevations," said planner Richard Carlisle. "It's just what we envisioned for the area. . . . The character of the building is pleasing."

On two sides, the site is bordered by residential housing, and Plautz plans to build a six-foot wooden fence to screen his business from them, he said.

He also plans to pay for landscaping on the homeowners' side of the fences, he said.

If he receives the necessary approvals, Plautz hopes to build this fall, he said.

"People don't know these kids in town. They really don't know them," said Mr. Secatch. "They just came over to the house and they didn't leave—and I'm not talking about a few kids. I'm talking as many graduating kids as you could think of."

In their son's memory, Stephen and Shirley Secatch plan to donate the money they had saved for eight years to pay for his college education.

The money will be used for something connected with athletics at CHS, although the specific purpose will be decided at a later date.

Those who wish to add to the Steve Secatch Memorial Fund can make contributions to the Clarkston Athletic Booster Club.

Maybee extension draws criticism

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Two of four property owners objected to an extension of Maybee Road west across Dixie Highway to Lingor Drive in Independence Township.

The property owners objected during a public hearing conducted July 21 by the township as a first step in extending Maybee Road.

Nine injured in crash

Nine people were injured in a two-car crash on Dixie Highway and Davisburg Road in Springfield Township Friday evening.

Toni Lynn Barraco of Clintonville Road, Independence Township, was driving southbound on Dixie Highway with three passengers when she attempted to make a left turn onto Davisburg and collided with a northbound car on Dixie, according to the police report.

Barraco, 17, and passenger Carlos Smith were taken to Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital, treated and released. Two of the passengers, Mark Gaches and Angela Waldin, remain in the hospital as of Tuesday.

The driver of the second car, Sammie Rosado, 29, and four of his five passengers were taken to Pontiac General Hospital, treated and released. The fifth passenger was not injured.

More paths OKd

About one mile of safety paths are to be added to Independence Township and Clarkston this fall.

On Clarkston Road in Clarkston, the steps at Robertson Court are to be removed and a path put in their place.

On Maybee Road in the township, the path at Chestnut Hills Subdivision is to be connected to the path from Dixie Highway.

On Waldon Road in the township, the path at Eastlawn is to be connected to Clarkston Elementary School grounds.

At the July 21 meeting, the township board accepted the low bid of $113,641 from Italia Construction Co. of Sterling Heights for the township portion only.

The Village of Clarkston is to finance the village portion.

Weekend offers activities galore

A parade of cars and an ice cream social highlight the events this weekend.

For free on Friday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., spectators can watch the practice of the 1987 Meadow Brook Historic Races at Waterford Hills Race Track on Waterford Road in Independence Township.

At 6 p.m. Friday, a Historic Car Concours and an ice cream social begin in the Clarkston Depot Park, Depot Road. The proceeds from the ice cream social are to benefit Clarkston SCAMP, the summer camp program for handicapped children and young adults.

At 7 p.m., the fourth free Concert in the Park begins with Emil Sutt and his Big Band playing patriotic and big band music.

At 10 a.m. Saturday, a parade kicks off the Meadow Brook Historic Races, featuring historic and exotic cars, clowns and balloons. Starting at Clarkston Junior High School, the parade ends at the St. Daniel Catholic Church.

From 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, the Meadow Brook Historic Races are to be the show. Adult tickets cost $7 a day or $12 for two days. Children under 12 are free. Tickets are available at all Detroit-area Buick dealers.

The hearing was on forming a special assessment district comprised of the four property owners who would be affected by the road and would pay for the extension.

Objecting to the extension, Alan Robb said he was the attorney for Durant Enterprises Inc., owned by Alex Dandy who owns Hamady Food Stores.

"You would be taking a major portion of our property to put a road through there, which we wouldn't need," he said.

"And you'd want us to pay for it. . . . We would strongly object, and we will oppose this every step of the way," he said.

The need was caused by a private development behind the Durant property, he said, referring to Lancaster Apartments.

Bill Hahn, owner of the Chrysler dealership property, said the business had space problems.

"If the road were extended, the leasee would have a real problem," he said. "We'd like to see it worked out, but we do have a problem."

Charles Fortinberry, the Chrysler-AMC dealer at the property, said he pays all taxes on the property.

The extension wouldn't benefit the business and it would limit the space, he said.

"I feel it would be a detriment to us," he said.

The board took no action and made no comments.

After the meeting, Supervisor Frank Ronk commented on the township's next step.

"We'll pursue the options," he said. "We've got to provide some means of access for all that development."

"I can't speak for the board," he said. "I personally would be willing to do whatever we had to, to get some relief out there."

As a last resort, the board might consider condemning the property, he said, adding he wouldn't like it to reach that point.

"In some cases, you can sit down with people and come to a rational decision without either side having to fight all the way," he said.

"Rad" is short for radical, which translates to "great" in adult jargon. The boys, who live on Amy Drive in Independence Township, said they ride to downtown Clarkston almost every day on their skateboards.

Proposed sewer extension brings objections

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A proposed sewer along Waterford Road, Independence Township, drew concerns from four property owners at the July 21 township board meeting. The sewer extension from Dixie Highway, along Waterford Road to Maybee Road was proposed by developer Joseph Kosik Jr., who plans to build condominiums and apartments on 35 to 60 acres off Maybee Road.

According to township regulations, he can't build his project without a connection to the township sewer system, Kosik said, adding that he plans to pay the estimated $400,000 cost.

In order to connect the sewer so the fluid will flow by gravity, which is required by the township engineers, Kosik needs permission from property owners along Waterford Road to construct the sewer beneath some of their property.

Some of the residents objected to the sewer on their property.

"We do not want the easement through our property," said Bob Lampela, president of the Oakland County Sportsmen's Club on Waterford Road.

"Our members don't want it; our board members don't want it. . . We will oppose it," he said, adding the easement would be in the middle of the archery range.

Trustee Dale Stuart noted that the archery range wouldn't be affected since the sewer would be beneath the ground.

Lampela said the club's constitution stated the land was to remain as it is.

Don McArthur, a Waterford Road resident, asked why Kosik didn't extend the existing Maybee Road sewer, since it was closer.

Township engineer Dave Lakin said Kosik's site was uphill from that portion of the sewer and was in a different sewer district. By extending the Dixie Highway township sewer, a gravity flow system can be used, he said.

McArthur asked why he wasn't better informed about the sewer proposal. "I'm a little surprised that we're talking condemnation. . . It's a little premature," he said.

Dan Hammond said he plans to build on a Waterford lot and wondered how the sewer would affect the site.

Kosik said a meeting was scheduled for the following night to answer the residents' questions.

His option to build on the property was nearing an end, and he asked for help from the board.

"I'm asking for a formal OK that if I'm not able to get agreements (from the property owners), I'll still be able to build the sewer," he said.

Stuart suggested tabling the issue until Kosik had met with the property owners.

"I'm not willing to consider condemnation unless the people know how they'll be affected," he said.

The board voted 5-0 to table the sewer extension decision. Treasurer John Lutz and Trustee Daniel Travis were absent.

Marine safety bills in state Senate

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Four bills for better marine safety were introduced into the state senate by state Senator Richard Fessler in the past year, said Rick Simonson, legislative aide to Fessler.

"Michigan has more boats registered than any other state in the nation," said Simonson.

The bills "would make lakes safer," he said, adding the bills should ensure safer boats and safer operators. He outlined the bills.

Senate Bill 4 calls for a fee to be charged to violators of the marine safety act. The revenue would go to the marine safety education fund, he said. That would affect such statewide rules as the 86 decibel limit, he said.

Senate Bill 5 would require boat mechanics to be licensed, he said.

"We have found that there is some interchanging of parts," said Simonson. "In many ways, they can be (interchanged), but others can cause serious problems. For example, exchanging starters can cause explosions."

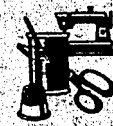

Senate Bill 371 would revise the marine safety advisory council.

Senate Bill 372 would require driver's education courses to include at least 6 hours of instruction in recreational vehicles and water safety.

In some instances, small children operate ski sleds, causing safety problems, said Simonson. The courses would at least help with adult operators.

The state Legislature probably wouldn't take action on the bills until next summer, he said.

Dr. Tarlika Dhabuwala opened her family medicine practice in 1982.

'I like people'

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Although she loves to talk, Dr. Tarlika Dhabuwala likes listening and finding out about others, too.

In her family practice on M-15, Independence Township, she has the opportunity for both.

"I like people," she said. "I always thought I could never go into a dull branch (of medicine), like pathology, where you don't talk to the patient."

"I like patient contact. I like to talk with them. I like them to feel they're talking to an old family-style doctor."

Her desire to practice medicine began in childhood in India. She was the only girl in a family with six boys.

"My father always thought the girls should be independent," she said. "He encouraged me in education. From a child I always was interested in medicine."

After she finished her residency at Pontiac General Hospital, she worked with another physician before opening her own practice.

"I love it," she said. "It gives you a lot of independence. It gives you your own hours."

"Most of the people are very nice. I worked in an emergency room in Detroit, and it was a whole different group of people."

"There are different groups of people here, too. Some want to talk, and some want quick care."

Dhabuwala also manages to work an evening or two at the Clarkston Ambulatory Care Center, across the street from her office.

"There are a lot of things that I don't get a chance to do in my practice that I get to see there," she said.

She lives in Bloomfield Township with her husband, C.B., who is a urologist at Wayne State University, Detroit.

She and her husband like music and art, and she enjoys her home life, she said.

"I try to be a good housewife. My husband is very understanding," she said.

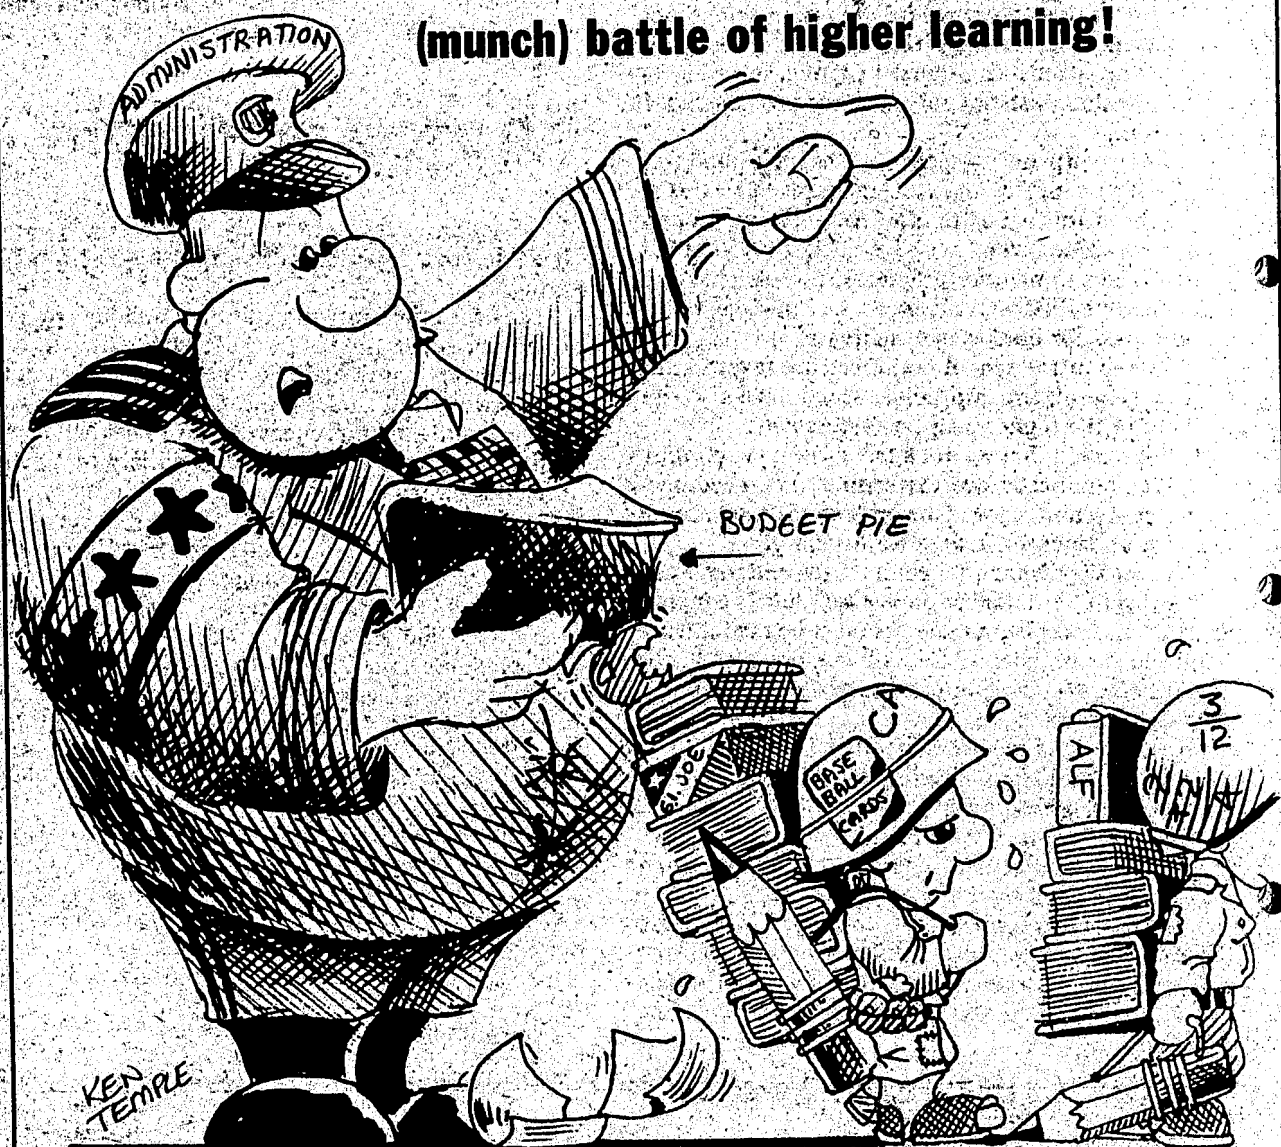

Dhabuwala also likes history, and she tries to exercise regularly.

"I try three times a week like I advise my patients, but I can't always do it," she said.

Do you know someone who works in the Clarkston area and deserves recognition for a job well done? We'd like to share your praise. Drop us a line at The Clarkston News, 515 S. Main, Clarkston, MI 48016, or call 625-3370.

Jim's Jottings

Jim Sherman

I took a picture this week of a half dozen young boys jumping off a bridge into the Clinton River. It brought back memories.

Some are very vivid. Like the time I was walking across the railroad bridge over the Shiawassee River in Vernon . . . and a train was coming.

I was a tike, maybe 5 or 6. The swimming hole was almost under the bridge, and some in the group just jumped into the water.

I remember not liking to walk those railroad ties in the first place, and looking down through them. Someone, I don't know if it was relative or friend, picked me up and carried me off the bridge.

I was just a little older when my brother, Dair, pulled me from an over-the-head situation, also in the Shiawassee River, but in a settlement called Newburg.

As I think back at the family swimming days, I wonder now if the folks didn't use the treks as family cleaning days. Usually, soap was along, and it was more fun when the bars were Ivory. We could soap our heads, throw the soap up stream and get our heads rinsed in time to snatch the soap from the current as it passed by.

I also remember the non-Ivory soap . . . diving for it, missing it and then having to use the sand-embedded soap.

Family swimming almost certainly followed a day of haying or some such sweat-wrenching day.

Sometimes, when we lived west of Durand, it would be to Knaggs Bridge, sometimes through a buckwheat field off Miller Road. Seems like it was always the Shiawassee river.

Then when I got older and on my own, about 15, we'd gang up at the Shiawassee River Dam in Shiawtown, short for . . . you guessed it.

For just a fleeting minute, Shiawassee Town was going to be the site of the capitol of Michigan. It is the geographic center of the lower peninsula.

But the dam was the attraction. First we'd jump off the concrete walkway, then jump or dive off the top of the dam, and then we'd climb up the railing or as high as we could and jump.

My kids would never be allowed. Perhaps we weren't. Certainly, the township, state, county, federal government and the United Nations would prohibit it today.

There'd be trespassing laws, liability concern, insurance cancellation, and investigations all carrying penalties up to and including expulsion from the human race.

But, what the hey? It wasn't even fun. I wonder today if all those other ne'r-do-wells were as scared as I jumping from some 30 feet in the air into perhaps 60 feet of water with no beach to swim to, just that concrete walk.

However, I was glad to see the ol' swimmin' hole still exists for kids today . . . until the city fathers think they have to cut out the fun.

Letters to the editor

Tax bill surprise

I am writing this letter in reference to the school tax defeat. After reading the Clarkston News and listening to various neighbors, I decided to review my taxes for the past seven years I have resided in Clarkston.

To my surprise, my school taxes have gone from $2,021.10 to $2,781.35, an increase of $760.25. Most of this is due to an increase in my property equalized value, which has risen from $63,600 to $71,500. Not to mention the latest assessment which has gone to $79,400. As one can see, millage doesn't have to pass for our taxes to increase.

On top of the school tax, there are taxes such as county, general, fire and police which have also risen because of the higher property assessment.

It is agreed that we are a fast growing community and that our needs are expanding. We need more police protection, more fire protection, more county help, more teachers, more of everything!

I feel that what this community must realize is that we can't have it all at once. Clarkston is caught in a Catch 22 position and choices must be made. Do we want excellent schools at the expense of fire and police protection, or do we want the opposite? Which is the greater priority?

This year happened to be when our property was re-assessed and when the request for more fire and police revenue was passed. This may be the answer to why the school millage failed.

As a tax payer, all of these requests have to be considered year to year. I am not trying to deny or slow down progress in Clarkston, only paying for what I can afford, one thing at a time.

Vincent D. Rizzo

Wonderful News

The July 15th issue of the Clarkston News was wonderful!!! Your "Page One" article on "Residents want millage on ballot" was well written and pointed out major areas of concern expressed by residents.

The citizens asked for more information on why we must pass the 4.25 operational millage at the July 13th school board meeting. The board tried to answer many concerns.

Photos not fair

I felt it necessary to clarify the pictures shown July 22 in your paper regarding the summer Latchkey program.

The Community Education Latchkey program under the supervision of Linda Irwin and the direction of caregivers Laura DeVault at Clarkston Elementary and Patsy Brad and Carole Castillo at Pine Knob along with their staffs choose to have weekly themes in order to provide children with a variety of activities over the summer.

These themes included "Winter Week," "All About Animals," "All About Me," "At Home in Latchkey," as well as several others.

The "At Home in Latchkey" activities pictured were not children being used to clean the school as their parents paid for a quality day care program, but rather a fun week in which children were given materials and told to choose what they wanted to wash or water paint while wearing painters' caps.

This theme also included baking bread, cooking, ironing crayons on fabrics, etc.

Latchkey strives to make the before and after program unique from the Parks and Rec. program by each day's activities varying, with Monday sensory, Tuesday gym, Wednesday VCR or outside, Thursday cooking and Friday reading and music.

The summer Latchkey program provides child care for children in grades K-6 in a cooperative venture with Independence Township Parks and Recreation day camp and playground program.

Our staff provides care from 7 to 10 a.m. and 4 to 6 p.m. so children with working parents can have an opportunity to attend the Parks and Rec. programs from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

If parents would like to enroll their children in the program, openings are available for the first two weeks in August. Call the Clarkston Learning Center at 674-3141.

News should expand coverage

Annual awards mark The Clarkston News as an outstanding community weekly. But there remains an area where I feel you might do more and better for the community, and by example the nation.

The area is that of academic news and commentary, recognizing the increasing importance of education.

Two things re-started my thinking. Most recently was the millage vote.

Earlier was an issue of the News which noted the placement of two Clarkston students as National Merit finalists. Another item reported the selection of eight Students of the Month. Third was the honor roll. Altogether, 31 inches were devoted to education.

(There was a delightful feature and photo on four exchange students, but it gave more attention to junk food preferences than to academic comparisons.)

In that same issue, sports coverage totaled 150

Mayor,

Referring to the killings of three police officers in Inkster, Mayor Coleman Young said Detroit news media are "probably a little disappointed that it didn't happen in Detroit."

Of course. As a member of the Detroit media, I never hear of a murder in Inkster, or a bombing in Beirut, that I don't wish all that blood had been shed in Detroit.

Young's thesis is that the local press sensationalizes Detroit's problems for the enjoyment of suburban readers. "It's another example of the media fouling their own nest. I don't know whether they think this region, the suburbs to which they appeal with their sensationalism and their hype, can survive without a healthy central city . . . They obviously believe that," Young told reporters Saturday immediately after making similar accusations during a speech in Kennedy Square at a rally organized by parents who have lost children to gunshot wounds.

The mayor is currently most peeved by the extensive press coverage of the 20th anniversary of the 1967 riot. So I asked my suburban reader - Freddy of Bloomfield Hills - if he liked me to write about Detroit's problems, especially 20-year-old crimes. I also asked if he thought Bloomfield Hills could survive without Detroit.

"Riot revivals are more interesting than your grandchildren," Freddy answered. "And Bloomfield Hills could survive longer without Detroit than it could without professional lawn service."

OK, in response to suburban reader demand, it is hereby reported that, although I then lived many miles away, I was in downtown Detroit the weekend the 1967 riot began. Along with dozens of other out-state editors, I was a guest of Detroit Edison at something called "Editor's Day Off." It included a free lunch and Tigers tickets, and was dreamed up by the late Charley Manos, who was then an employee of Edison's public relations department.

At the time, I thought Edison was merely seeking favorable publicity from editors greedy enough to appreciate better electricity through freeloading. But now I realize Charley's real motive was to expose out-of-town newspaper writers to the terrors of Detroit. Soon after, not surprisingly, Charley became a columnist for the Detroit News.

Charley's plan failed on me. Driving out of Detroit that Sunday afternoon, I did see a lot of smoke, but I thought it was my own blurred vision left over from closing the hotel bar the night before. It was Tuesday before I heard anything about the urban riot, and I never did tell the readers of my rural newspaper that I'd been in Detroit when it started. I was afraid they'd realize what a lousy reporter I was and quit trading turnips for subscriptions.

That was 1967. As for more current crime news for my suburban reader: I thought that I would never see a crime fighter who went to more fancy parties than Detroit Deputy Police Chief James Bannon. But, according to recent society pages, he is being surpassed by Cmdr. Gil Hill of "Beverly Hills Cop" fame. I heard that Hill gets mentioned in party news so often that Tom and Diane Whatstheirname are positively green with envy - and plan to enroll in the Police Academy.

Finally, along with all Inkster murders, another thing I wish would happen in Detroit is the "Leaning Tower of Pizza" that Domino's Tom Monaghan is building near Ann Arbor. If Monaghan, instead of Little Caesars' Mike Ilitch, restored Detroit's Fox Theatre building, it would list. Then the media could tell gullible suburbanites that the Fox was straight but every other downtown building was falling down. That would really scare them away.

If that sounds silly, please understand I am adding to become a speech writer for Mayor Young. I always say, if you can't out-silly 'em, join 'em.

Teen injured in accident

One teen remains hospitalized Tuesday after an accident involving a motorcycle and car on Parview Drive on July 23.

Following the crash of the motorcycle they were riding, Christopher Butler and John Rottenbeck, both of Wellesley Terrace, Independence Township, were taken to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac.

Butler and Rottenbeck were wearing helmets when the accident occurred, the police report said.

As of Tuesday, Butler, 15, was still hospitalized. The accident occurred when Matthew R. Montgomery of Baker Circle, Waterford, was turning his car left into a driveway. The motorcycle passed a car ahead of it and struck Montgomery's vehicle.

According to the police report, Montgomery said he did not see the motorcycle.

Montgomery, 19, wasn't injured in the accident. Neither driver was ticketed.

Participants wanted for Labor Day parade

Floats and marchers are wanted for the Labor Day Parade planned Monday, Sept. 7, said Judge Gerald McNally, chairperson of the event.

The parade theme is "Made the American Way." Entries will be judged and prizes awarded by the Clarkston Rotary Club, the parade sponsor. Dr. James O'Neill will serve as Grand Marshall.

To enter or sponsor a float, contact McNally at 625-4997 or 5850 Lorac, Suite 1, Clarkston, MI 48016.

Volunteers for United Cable Company plan to film the Labor Day parade for the first time, said McNally.

inches, with dramatic photos and attention-grabbing headlines.

My concern is about this imbalance at a time when we face mounting needs for a better educated populace.

Currently, we are called upon to improve America's competitive position, referring, of course, to the trade deficit and not to Olympic medals.

Beyond this, however, there is increasing recognition that the nation's future depends on education in technology and science, social services, management and worker skills, environmental protection and creative arts.

The question is whether these are proper subject matter for a community weekly.

You might find an answer in considering the worth of these objectives:

1. To encourage and motivate students toward academic achievement.
2. To develop adult support, parents and voters.
3. To recognize and encourage teachers and administrators.
4. To note that as our natural resources deplete, we are dependent increasingly on an educated human resource.
5. To mark The Clarkston News for still higher honors.

If this course has value in your estimation, you will want to discuss it with school administrators, faculty and students. For starters, you might consider:

1. Features on achievers in various disciplines: math, sciences, vocational arts, language and communications; social services. Add student and teacher commentary on how the field affects our future.
2. Recognition of grade point improvement at all levels—not just honor roll.
3. Student round table discussions, including faculty and local professionals, on how school meets real world needs, and how it might do better. Include theater, arts and athletics.

4. Telephone interviews with students in colleges and universities, and graduates in the work world on how school helps—and how it might help more.

5. Coverage of academic competitions: Tape discussions between Clarkston students and those from other schools as to how they perceive the world they are entering and the role of education.

6. Format: action photos in the lab, at the chalkboard, at a computer terminal, word processor, welder, potting bench, food processor. Pics and quotes of lively discussions. Interview with a parent whose youngster has lifted a grade point average from 1 to 1.9.

Staffing hours would be available if academic news and commentary replaced some other items—including sports copy.

There might also be some help from journalism students, though your supervisory time would jump.

Once started, however, you might establish a local "foundation" comprised of business, professional and industrial interests which would fund a staff person. You might also qualify for a grant from a university journalism department.

To test the idea, I hope you will consider broadening school coverage for two semesters.

Jerome Willford

Village council approves rezoning for condominiums

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A proposal to rezone a parcel of land near Deer Lake for condominiums was approved in concept by the Clarkston Village Council.

Ron Zilka of Vintage Construction in Auburn Hills wants to build 24 units on the about 6 acres off White Lake Road.

Rudy Lozono presented Zilka's case to the council at the July 27 meeting.

The plan calls for $200,000 to $250,000 condos, and if all goes well, the buildings could be occupied by next spring, said Lozono.

The first step in getting the zoning change was to bring the proposal before the village council.

They approved the plan in a 5-0 vote. Trustees Frank Millard and Eric Haven were absent.

Now that the village council's approval has been secured, the proposal goes before the planning commission at its next meeting Aug. 3.

If the planning commission passes the plan as well, the next step is a public hearing, said Lozono.

Once the proposal gets that far, Lozono will begin going through the same rezoning process with Independence Township since part of the land lies in the township.

"This (condominium project) will be an asset to the village and Independence Township," said Lozono.

The land is the same property that Frank Walker tried to build condominiums on several years ago, Lozono said, but steps are being taken to ease the anxiety of property owners around Deer Lake.

Since the property fronts Deer Lake at one point, Lozono said village residents fear a boat launching facility may be installed to allow even more access to Deer Lake.

For that reason, boats will not be allowed on the property, Lozono said. The beach area will be turned into a park for the residents of the condos.

Also, only 24 units are planned instead of 36.

"We want to build small but make it a good, quality product," said Lozono, adding that the plans calls for one building per acre.

"The main problem he had before was density," he said of Walker's failed attempt to rezone the land.

Luzi's public service efforts include membership on the Clarkston Community Schools Board of Education from 1976-84 and on the Salary Recommendation Committee and Personnel Policies Committee of Independence Township.

He resides in Independence Township with his wife Marie Ann and sons, Scott, 18, and Chris, 16.

Final concert in Depot Park

This Friday, the audience in the Clarkston Depot Park might remember Emil Sutt and his Big Band from the July 4th free concert in the park.

Sutt's band plays again this Friday from 7 to 9 p.m. An ice cream social and a historic car concours, starting at 6 p.m., will share the park.

The "Star Spangle Banner" will open the concert, followed by such selections as "When You Wish upon a Star," "Summertime," "Chim Chim Cher-ee" and "On Broadway."

"76 Trombones" will provide the background sound for the children's march, the grand finale of the concert and the end of the month-long concert series sponsored by the Village Business Association.

Village has new engineering firm

Hubble Roth & Clark Inc. (HRC) was named the new village engineering firm at the July 27 Clarkston Village council meeting.

Trustee James Schultz made a motion to switch from the JCK company located in Novi to one that is closer to Clarkston. HRC is in Bloomfield Hills.

Lack of communication with JCK was one of the main reasons for the switch, said President Sharron Catallo.

"They (JCK) never returned my phone calls," said Clerk Norma Goyette. "He was always in conference every time I called."

A representative of HRC was at the meeting and gladly accepted the company's new position.

"Thank you for your consideration. We hope to serve you properly," said Gary Tressel, project manager.

Rolling along

Being close to the ground is safer for Erin Trempte, who says she's having fun, but "I keep on falling down."

Andy Miller does his best to maintain his balance while wheeling around on the asphalt.

"That was very fun," says Cristi Oliver after this maneuver on roller skates while holding hands with playground supervisor Denise Luczycki.

The skates and turtles were provided for the afternoon by Oakland County Parks and Recreation's Skatemobile.

All-star game showcases preps

BY PETER AUCHTER

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Dan Jokisch wants to make a name for himself as an excellent football player. His mission begins with a prep all-star game Aug. 1.

Jokisch, who played split end and defensive back for Clarkston High last season, was selected to the East squad for the seventh annual Michigan East-West All-Star Football Game.

Jokisch, of Ellis Road in Independence Township, will attend the University of Michigan in the fall, following in the footsteps of his brother Paul who graduated this spring. He will wear the same jersey number as his brother.

But that is where he wants the comparison to end. He doesn't want to use his brother's name as a stepping stone to his personal success on or off the football field, he said.

His performance in games like this all-star contest play should help him accomplish that goal.

"I'm going to try to stand out a little bit," said Jokisch. "I want to show them (the fans) that I am a top recruit."

Last year, Jokisch was sitting in the stands at Spartan Stadium watching the all-star game, but this time around he will be an active participant. He only hopes that the weather will be better.

"Last year it rained when I went," Jokisch said. "I hope it doesn't again this year."

One of the major concerns of many of the participants in this all-star contest is the threat of injury.

The thought of having fun and playing in an all-star game outweighed the injury factor in Jokisch's mind, he said.

The players for the two 40-player squads reported for nine days of practice July 23.

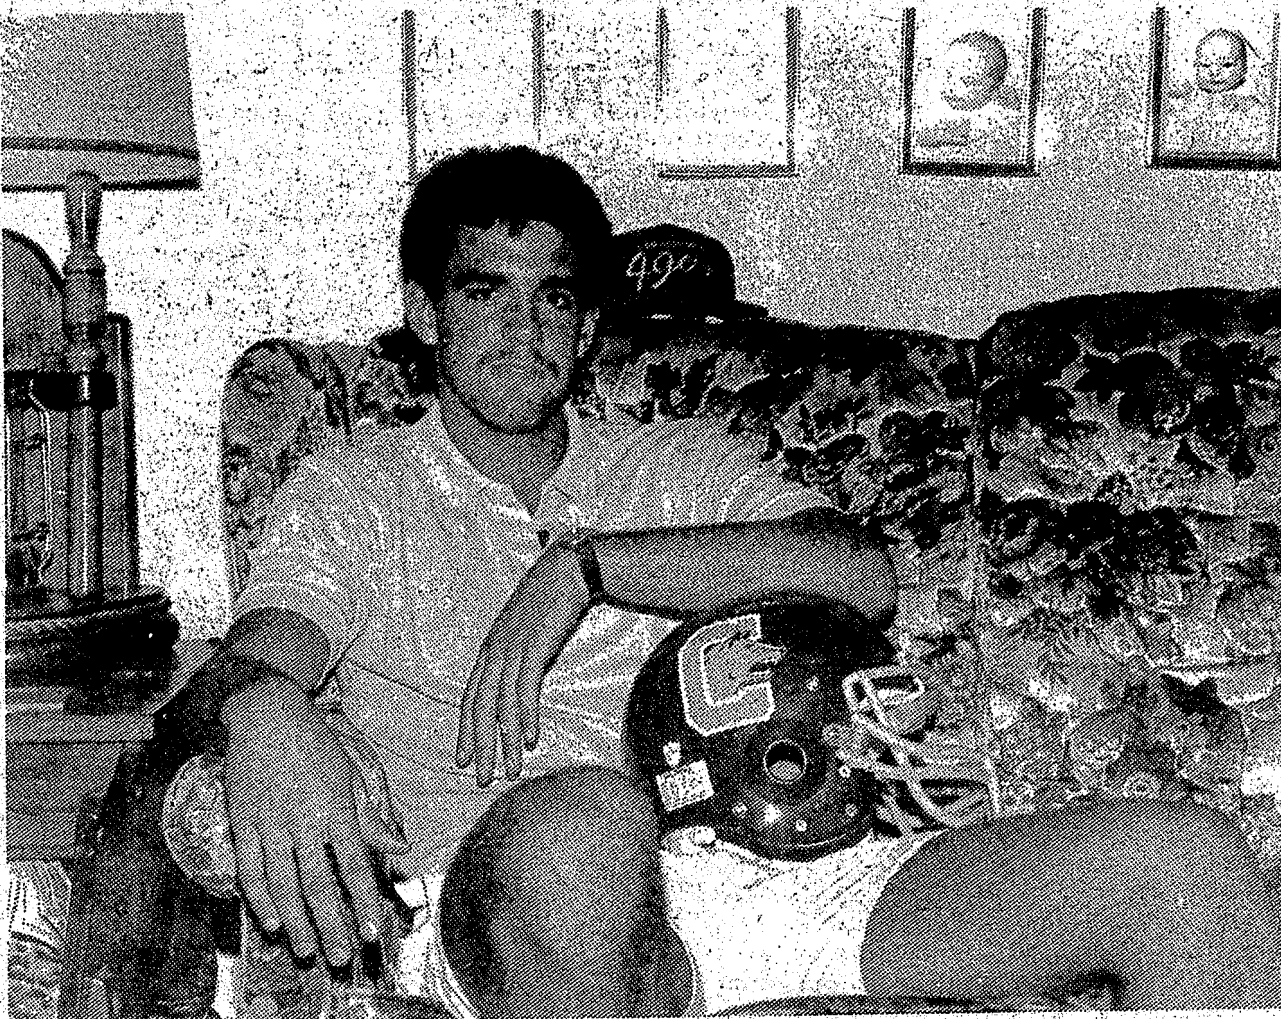

Students who graduated this year are eligible for this all-star game. Players are nominated by their high school coaches and selected by committee.

No team can send more than one player to the game.

During his high school days, Jokisch did double duty playing both offense and defense. While it was physically exhausting, Jokisch enjoyed every minute of it.

"Defense was fun to play because you get to hit so much," he said.

Jokisch was a two-way player because he excelled at both—especially during one game in his junior year.

Dan Jokisch holds the Clarkston High School football helmet he will don for the final time

Clarkston was trailing Pontiac Northern by a point with a minute left in the game.

First, a touchdown by the Wolves was called back due to a penalty. Then, Clarkston earned a couple more yellow flags on the following plays to set up a fourth-and-long situation.

Jokisch snared a pass over-the-middle and scored the game-winning touchdown.

He then ended Pontiac Northern's final rally with an interception to seal the victory for Clarkston.

Now that high school is over, Jokisch will begin during the East-West All-Star game at Spartan Stadium in East Lansing.

his career as a Wolverine August 16 when fall practice begins.

Since he visited the school often while his brother attended U of M, Jokisch is familiar with the program.

That will give him an edge over other incoming freshman, he said.

"I won't be as nervous and will be able to be myself," Jokisch said.

If he can maintain his composure, Jokisch might end up being even better than his older brother.

"They (coaches) see my brother in me a lot," Jokisch said. "How far I go depends on how hard I work."

49ers sign Jokisch

Paul Jokisch, a former University of Michigan stand-out wide receiver, signed a contract to play football with the San Francisco 49ers July 22.

Jokisch, whose family resides on Ellis Road in Independence Township, has reported to the 49ers training camp in California in an attempt to make the club.

Jokisch prepped at Birmingham Brother Rice, becoming an all-star in both football and basketball. He concentrated on football at U of M after his sophomore season.

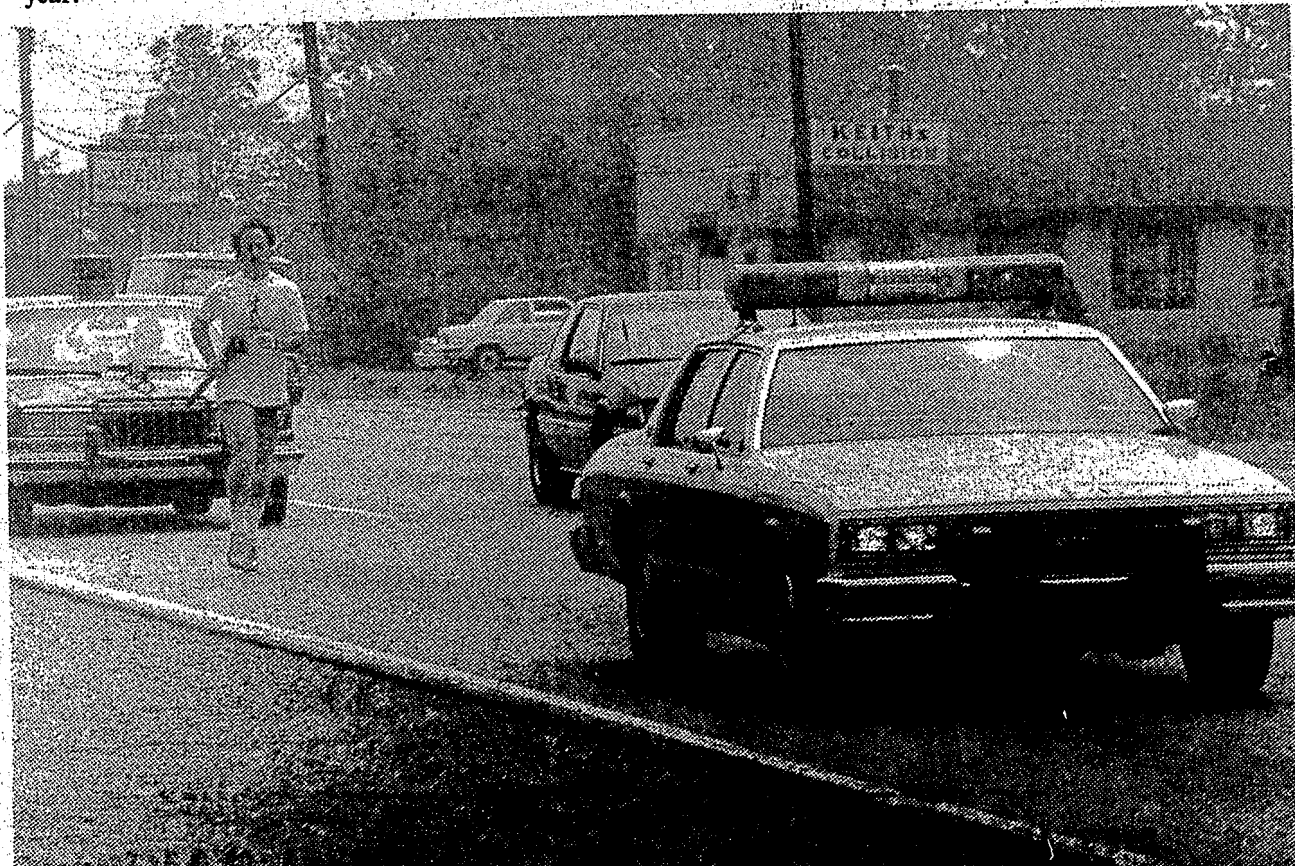

Last week, Jokisch left for California in good spirits.

Since the 49ers top receiver Dwight Clark has undergone three knee operations during the off-season and is doubtful for the upcoming season, the 6-foot-8 Jokisch is just what San Francisco needs, said Dan Jokisch, Paul's younger brother.

"San Francisco is the best team he could go to right now," said Dan. "If Clark doesn't come back, Paul can step right into (the line up)."

Jokisch was taken in the fifth round of the draft by San Francisco.

The 49ers are not scheduled to play the Detroit Lions during the regular season at the Silverdome. The closest Jokisch will get to his hometown is Aug. 8 in a preseason exhibition game in Canton, Ohio.

Time out

Cheering for a winner

Peter Auchter

"Scooby-dooby do!"
 "Scooby-dooby do!"
 "Come on Tigers, go, go go!"
 "Come on Tigers, go, go go!"

Those were the sounds the people sitting in Section 433 at Tiger Stadium heard throughout the late innings of Saturday's game against the California Angels.

Through a stroke of luck—even if it was all bad—I was able to sit between a group of junior high school cheerleaders in the upper deck seats deep in right field. I could tell they were not local yokels because their supervisors said they would have to stop for gas in Novi.

I could tell they were in for a long haul when the bus driver said they could no longer stop for dinner when the game went into extra innings.

Just the mention of dinner, however, made me hungry enough to devour three and a half hot dogs while watching the game.

(What happened to the other half, you say? I couldn't let my girlfriend starve, now, could I?)

After I finished with my snack, I decided to pay attention to what was happening on the field.

Slugger Kirk Gibson had smacked a homer in the first inning, Larry Herndon cracked another later in the game and even the battered Darnell Coles chipped in with a four-bagger for the home team.

But that was all they could muster. I had a bad feeling that home runs were not going to be enough to win this game. Detroit had to find another way to score.

But they didn't, and sure enough the Angels stormed back to tie the game in the ninth inning.

It's just what everybody needed on a hot steamy, muggy and sweaty afternoon—extra innings.

The guy sitting next to me was sweating so much he must have lost at least 50 pounds. I think he's down to a slim and trim 325 pounds now.

When the Angels loaded up the bases in the top of the tenth, it appeared our suffering wouldn't last long.

At that point, it didn't matter who won or lost, just as long as we could get out of the heat.

The Tigers held on and retired the Angels without allowing a run and the suffering continued.

So did the cheering.

"Scooby-dooby do!"

"Scooby-dooby do!"

"Come on Tigers, go, go go!"
 "Come on Tigers, go, go go!"

I thought I was going to go mad.

When the first two Tigers up in the bottom of the tenth were retired with ease, I decided it was time to entertain myself.

I began a light-hearted conversation with my roommate's girlfriend when I heard the crack of the bat.

By the time I looked back at the field, the ball was gracefully sailing into the stands below me and the game was over.

The Tigers had won it! Lou Whitaker had just hit the game-winning home run. Detroit was now only one game behind the dreaded Yankees.

Better yet, it meant that I could finally get out of the heat.

That was something worth cheering about.

Games next stop for softball team

A softball team in the Independence Parks and Recreation league will be a part of the first Great Lakes State Games.

The Great Lakes State Games, styled after the Olympic festivals, are scheduled in Marquette July 31-Aug. 2. Participants in 27 different sports ranging from archery to wrestling will meet on the Northern Michigan University campus to compete.

The Oakland Merchants, who own a 7-5 record in the Men's Beta League, won a Southeastern Regional against a team from Mount Clemens to earn the berth, said Manager Dennis Westphal.

The regional games were played at Clintonwood Park on June 6-7.

Team members are looking forward to the trip up north.

"This is going to be something different," said Westphal. "It really is a big deal."

Roger Belcher has eight home runs and is batting .450 for the Merchants. George Reynolds is batting .520 with two home runs and four triples.

Bill Dwork, Mike Martin and Tony Hool all have batting averages well over the .500 mark, said Westphal.

Medalist speaks

The first American to win a gold medal in Greco-Roman wrestling will speak about goal setting at Independence Oaks on Aug. 5.

Steve Fraser, who took his medal at the 1984 Olympics, will demonstrate Greco-Roman wrestling with an audience volunteer. He will also explain how goal setting requires making a plan, setting the plan in action and accepting mistakes.

Fraser will speak to the Independence Parks and Recreation summer program participants at 11 a.m. at the Trailside Shelter.

Fraser acts as a spokesperson for Domino's Pizza Distribution Corp. and serves on the U.S. Olympic coaching staff and the Board of Directors of USA Wrestling. He also does assistant coaching work at the University of Michigan.

OCC mini camp

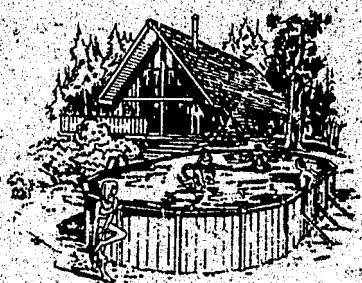

A mini basketball camp for boys and girls in junior or senior high school will take place at Oakland Community College's Auburn Hills Campus July 30.

Charles Coles and Bob Sippel, head and assistant coaches at Central Michigan University will conduct the junior high clinic from 9:30 a.m. until noon. The high school time is 1-3 p.m.

The fee is $15. Shooting, offensive footwork, individual offensive technique, ball handling and implementation of team concepts are all part of the clinic.

ETE offers vacations that educate

BY PETER AUCHTER

Clarkston News Staff Writer

A Clarkston-based travel agency arranges several trips a year with sports fans in mind.

Educational Travel for Everyone (ETE), on Dixie Highway in Independence Township, recently sent a group of Clarkston, Lake Orion and Oxford people on a tennis excursion to Wimbledon in England and Roland-Garros in France (the site of the French Open).

Another sports-related trip sent golfers to the site of the British Open to play a few rounds of golf and do a little sightseeing.

James Hinga, president of ETE, said his personal love of sports helped in the decision to offer these kinds of trips for his customers.

The tennis trip was especially rewarding since the members of his group were allowed to play on the clay courts in France that are reserved for the ranked tennis players in the world, Hinga said.

He has been in business for about a year and more and more people are using his services, he said.

"People want to get more out of their trips than to just say they have been there," Hinga said of his educational services.

While some of his trips are sports orientated, Hinga still stresses education on all of his tours. He also offers alternate field trips for people if they don't like sports but still want to go on the trip.

Before his customers depart on their trip they are given information on how to act, what to wear, what to visit and where to find additional information to make their trip more pleasant.

Travel guides, complete with maps and a color slide show, also help ease the travelers culture shock.

Hinga tries to keep the travel groups between 15 and 40 people to make sure everyone gets enough individual attention.

"Our greatest advertising is word-of-mouth," he said. "That's why we will always be a people-first company."

Plans are already underway for another tennis trip, this time to Australia.

The group will travel to Australia and New Zealand in January to watch a few matches at the Australian Open.

"January is the ideal time to visit Australia since it's the peak of their summer season," Hinga said.

Another popular excursion during the winter is a trip to Western Canada for those interested in skiing,

James Hinga, president of Educational Travel for Everyone, specializes in arranging trips for those who want more out of a vacation abroad than just relaxation.

Hinga said.

Besides offering these sports related trips Hinga, also sends people on strictly educational trips to a country like China.

Some of the trips he arranges can be used by college students looking for credit, he said.

"Most of the programs are educational related,"

Hinga said.

Since opening up shop in the Clarkston area a year ago, Hinga has noticed an exceptional interest in international travel by residents.

"It's surprising how many exchange students and traveling business people a small community like this has," said Hinga.

Third annual historic races

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Antique cars were meant to be seen in their natural element—the race track—and not in a museum, said Jim McIntosh, coordinator of the Meadow Brook Historic Races.

The Waterford Hills Race Track in Independence Township will host the third annual showplace of historic automobiles July 31 through August 2.

McIntosh, a Brighton resident, raced for more than 20 years before selling his car two years ago. He joined the Waterford Hill Road Racing Club in 1971.

Racing is something that McIntosh has always enjoyed, he said.

"You get an incredible high not found in other sports from racing," he said.

In charge of overall organization and administration of the event, McIntosh is a previous Waterford Hills club president. He served as an assistant steward during the 1986 races.

This weekend, races will be run both Saturday and Sunday. Approximately 75 cars have been entered into the competition, he said.

"We are still in our infancy," said the 45-year-old engineer for American Motors. "Each year we will get a little bigger."

Participants will come from as far away as Alabama, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Canada. McIntosh said the Meadow Brook race was advertised in various vintage car magazines throughout the year to attract a wide variety of entrants.

Word-of-mouth advertising also has helped the Meadow Brook races to grow.

"We had some racers in from California last year, and when they went back home they wrote some favorable articles about us in their magazines," said McIntosh.

This year's races feature Lotus, and a special Lotus-only event will be held during the weekend.

The English-based company exclusively builds race cars, and the co-chairman of the company will be at the Lotus-only race, said McIntosh.

Another popular race from the past, the Volkswagen GTI Media Challenge, will return to pit Detroit area media and the national automotive press against each other.

The Metro Buick Dealers of Detroit are helping to sponsor this year's race and tickets can be obtained at any Buick dealership, said McIntosh.

The Waterford Hills track will be buzzing with action July 31 when the vintage cars go through a practice session from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m., said McIntosh.

Spectators will be allowed to watch the practice session for free, he added.

Racing starts at 10 a.m. and ends at 6 p.m. on both August 1 and 2.

Tickets at the gate cost $7 for one day and $12 for a two-day pass.

Next week: 4-H Fair in Springfield

Food, livestock, flowers, woodworking and photography are some of the items that will be displayed at the Oakland County 4-H Fair next week at Springfield Oaks.

A carnival is featured among the special events planned Monday through Saturday, Aug. 3-8, from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. Also on the list are a demolition derby, figure-eight race, tractor pull, livestock auction, 4-H dance (members and alumni), country-western concert and big time wrestling matches.

Trophies will be awarded to the "Best of Show" in the 4-H judging categories. Ribbons will be awarded to the top six places in each category.

Parking is $3 a day or $10 for the week. Tickets will be sold for the special events and carnival rides.

The Springfield Oaks Youth Activities Center is on Andersonville Road, near Hall Road, in Springfield Township. For more information, call 634-8830.

Site for dry cleaners gets approval

A building for a dry cleaners and coin laundromat may be constructed this fall on Sashabaw Road, Independence Township.

At the July 23 meeting, Sang Jin Lee received unanimous final site plan approval from the planning commission to build on a 18,300 square foot lot near Maybee Road.

Since the lot is smaller than required in the township, Lee received variances from the Zoning Board of Appeals for the amount of frontage and the size of the lot.

Commission members said the plans met all requirements.

"The landscaping, for the constraints of the property, is very well done," said Jo Fussman. It will be an asset to the property."

While the ordinary pet dog is snoozing or catching Frisbees on weekends, some dogs are learning to herd livestock.

Bob and Ann Blount conduct sheep dog training clinics for people who want to develop their dogs' livestock herding abilities. Their five-acre Pineridge Aussies farm is on Mann Road in Independence Township.

"There are a lot of people who do not have stock to work their dogs on," said Bob, a 37-year-old welder at Pontiac Motors. "I enjoy helping people get their dogs going."

"I have started a good 15 or so people on herding their dogs," he added.

Herding is a form of recreation that can lead to competition beyond the usual obedience tests. The training also breeds a closer relationship between the dogs and their owners, said Ann, a 34-year-old veterinary technician.

"The American Kennel Club doesn't recognize herding trials or titles," she said. "Because it is not recognized, herding ability is not bred for and it disappears. I would hate to see it disappear."

At clinics, Bob starts the dogs and owners on duck herding. He determines if the dog has herding interest, where problems lie and he gives the owner pointers on working the dog.

Ann operates a video camera so owners can view tapes later and observe how the dog performed and how they worked the dog.

Most dogs at the clinics have not worked with livestock before. In the sheep pen, a dog usually stays near its master at first and Bob does not direct it much.

"They get their curiosity built up till they want to get out and play with the sheep," said Bob; then they will start working.

The Blounts say their clinics benefit dog owners.

A man brought his three-legged dog to a clinic. "He thought the dog was useless," Bob said, and as Bob started working the dog, the owner did not show much enthusiasm.

"He just moped around with his hands in his pockets," said Ann, but when the dog started herding sheep, his owner perked up. And by the end of the session, the owner was excited and actively directing the dog.

"That is what I like about helping people with their dogs," said Bob. "It is seeing the looks on their face after the dog has done something good for them."

For competition, Sunny, 3, a red mural Australian shepherd, cannot grip the sheep while herding them. He may ram them with his shoulder or trip them with his nose or use other tricks he might know, but Sunny must be gentle, said his trainer, Bob Blount.

Bob, Ricky and Ann Blount give Sunny the attention he loves.

"I can't tell a casualty from a casserole."

BRAKE PRICES?

UNTIL THEY PULL THE WHEELS, THEY'RE PULLING YOUR LEG.

Think about it. How do some brake places know what your next job'll cost if they've never seen your brakes to begin with? Answer: they don't.

Fact is, there's no way anyone can figure out exactly what the price will be. There are just too many possibilities.

That's why at Midas, we pull all four wheels before every brake job. To get inside your brakes. To inspect them. To positively determine what's gone wrong. From a nine dollar can of fluid to a new master cylinder.

And when we're finished, we'll give you a pinpoint estimate of the entire job. With a price that won't go up when the job's done. That's our promise to you.

Student's success brings satisfaction

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Corinna Ohrnberger's school years have been marked by many awards.

But the accomplishments themselves, not the awards, bring satisfaction to Corinna. Every accomplishment she talks about is punctuated with the statement, "I'm very proud of that."

The German-born, American-raised student lives with her parents, Peter and Karen Ohrnberger, in their Independence Township home. She also has two brothers, Erik and Klaus.

Corinna graduated this year from Roeper City and Country School in Bloomfield Hills with a 3.9 academic grade point average.

She received the president's academic fitness award, the Society of Women Engineer's certificate of merit for science and math, and a certificate of recognition from the State of Michigan Competitive Scholarship Program for outstanding academic achievement.

She was one of three seniors at Roeper who received the Roeperian empire award for involvement in the school and community.

Had she decided to attend Hope College, she would have received a four-year Hope presidential scholarship. Instead, Corinna elected to attend Kalamazoo College, where she received an honor scholarship which will pay $2,000 a year for four years of school.

She will play basketball at Kalamazoo, and proved throughout high school that her athletic ability is award-winning as well.

For all four years of high school, Corinna earned athlete of the year in basketball, volleyball and soccer.

She was named most valuable player in basketball for four years, in volleyball for three years and in soccer for two years.

She made first team all-league in basketball for four years and in volleyball for three years. She was also named all-state honorable mention for two years in basketball and was invited to the all-girls basketball camp for two years.

"In my junior and senior year, our basketball team won conference championship. We were undefeated," she says. "It was the first time in Roeper history. We were very proud of that."

This summer Corinna is working as a waitress at Spring Lake Country Club prior to leaving for college.

She hasn't decided on a major area of study yet but knows she wants to go into a career "where I use what I know to perform a service for people."

"I like people," she says. "I guess that's why I like my job as a waitress, because I like to deal with people."

Corinna is not worried about choosing a career, saying "I'm only 18. I have lots of time to decide what I want to do with the next 50 years of my life."

Three weeks before college starts this fall, she plans to participate in a Kalamazoo College land and sea program.

The program will involve one week of sailing a 60-foot square-rigger on the Georgian Bay, and then two weeks of hiking, canoeing and camping in the area.

"I love being by the water," she says. "And I love swimming."

There seems to be much Corinna loves to do in life. She took an art class during her senior year, and loves working in pottery. And she loves doing spon-

Corinna Ohrnberger was graduated with honors from Roeper City and Country School. The Intaneous things with her friends, like playing putt-putt golf or going for a midnight swim on a whim.

"Between working and visiting with my friends from Roeper, I know every expressway in southeast Michigan," she says, laughing.

"I've never understood how people can be afraid to do things," she says. "What is life if you're going to sit there and let it pass you by?"

Corinna was the yearbook editor at Roeper for the last two years, a job which was time consuming but rewarding.

"I'm so proud of that book," she says, again using that familiar phrase.

dependence Township resident plans to attend Kalamazoo College this fall.

The yearbook covers the entire school, from kindergarten through high school, but the 42 seniors each had a page of their own.

Corinna's page reflects the many-faceted person that she is. There is a picture of her riding horseback and a picture of her parents, as well as snapshots of sports, friends, favorite teachers and her radio—she loves music.

But a quote from George Orwell at the top of the page is what this young woman says describes her best. It reads: "On the whole, human beings want to be good, but not too good, and not quite all of the time."

Sayles wins top award

Beth Sayles Richards of Sayles Studio of Waterford and Clarkston was one of the top award winners in the National Professional Photographers of America Convention in Chicago, Ill. Richards' print "Abiding in the Vine" received a merit award of excellence, which draws her closer to the coveted "Master's Degree." The photograph was taken of the Mike Key family of Clarkston last fall at the Drayton Plains Nature Center. The Professional Photographers of America is devoted to the advancement of professional photography through educational programs, trade show exhibits and print competitions.

Sidewalk remodeling approved

The Clarkston Village Council approved a plan for sidewalk remodeling on Clarkston Road.

The proposal calls for the steps to be flattened into ramps at the corner of Robertson Court and Clarkston Road, making the path more accessible to bikes and the handicapped, said Trustee James Schultz.

The cost will be over $8,000.

The village council approved the plan in a 5-0 vote on July 27. Trustees Eric Haven and Frank Millard were absent.

The village council pay one-third of the cost, with Oakland County and the county road commission paying the remainder, said Schultz.

Maintenance law

An end to boarded windows and incompleted projects is on the way for Independence Township.

At the July 21 meeting, the township board approved and adopted the second reading of the property maintenance ordinance.

While the ordinance doesn't allow the township to dictate paint color or other aesthetic decisions, it could be applied to buildings with septic failures or unsafe electrical or plumbing conditions.

The ordinance also establishes the procedure the township must follow in requiring maintenance to property.

The board approved and adopted the ordinance in a 5-0 vote. Treasurer John Lutz and Trustee Daniel Travis were absent.

Car falls in lake

A car carrying two women in their mid-20s plunged into a lake off Andersonville Road in Independence Township Friday evening.

Margaret Rene Brown of Pontiac and her passenger Christiane Theriault of Auburn Hills were taken to Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital and treated for injuries.

As of Tuesday, Theriault had been released from the hospital while Brown was still a patient.

According to the police report, Brown, 28, lost control of her car on a curve on Andersonville Road just past Parview Drive, crashed through a guard rail and landed in the lake below at about 5:30 p.m.

Charges are still pending in the case, the police report said.

Suite sales soar

July, 1988 looking good

By Jim Sherman, publisher
On schedule!

That's good news for the owners of the Entertainment Center of Auburn Hills.

It's great news for sports fans, concert goers and circus fanciers.

We were given the grand, mid-construction tour of the arena that is gaining interest and creating excitement at the M-24-I-75 interchange by Ron Moretto. He's project engineer for R. E. Dailey & Company, the Southfield firm that has the general contract.

As an indication of how interest has grown, the initial offering said "there are only 98 suites". Now, 140 suites have been designed into the facility and 40 more are an option.

Sales have gone so well two additional private elevators are being installed. Originally, the suites were to be on two levels, they are now on three levels.

These suites, which owners can decorate if they wish, go for $40,000 to $125,000 each. They hold 10 to 14 seats and include two tickets to every event, closed circuit tv, kitchenette, wet bar, telephone and private restroom.

By July, 1988 the suites and 21,000 seats will be ready for the first of an expected 200 events a year. Besides being the home of the Detroit Pistons, they are booking motocross, wrestling, soccer, boxing, tennis, ice shows, rodeos, gymnastics, shows... just about every type of attraction that will make it a paying venture.

Right now the 55 acres is a beehive of activity. Up to nine cranes have been on site at one time. A huge, 300,000 pound ringer crane is hoisting roof trusses in place.

One truss, they are made in St. Louis and assembled on site, is 380 feet long, 20 feet high on the ends and 27 feet in the center. Each of the three sections weighs 140,000 pounds, "and they are going together perfectly," Moretto said. The roof has a 250-ft radius.

The trusses are exposed, with insulation and built-up roof covering them. In the center they will hold the four-sided, full-color scoreboard that features action close-ups, instant replays, and computer graphics.

Supporting the trusses are columns of concrete, 4 feet in diameter, 90 feet high. They resembled the Roman Coliseum when first erected.

Duct work is being assembled now, with drywall exteriors to improve acoustics. The four penthouses, as Moretto calls them (mechanical rooms) have ducts the size of a semi-trailer.

The Entertainment Center will be round on the outside, and oval inside. The exterior, going up now, is pre-cast concrete, which is insulated and poured onto rose-sand colored brick, which will become the veneer. They are made in Detroit.

The seats will be metal, mounted on pre-cast seating system. When asked if the seats would be as steep as those in Joe Louis Arena, Moretto said, "We are getting maximum seating from the design."

From our high up view, we'd say it's a long way up and you're not far from the floor.

The levels are: arena, club, concourse, upper seating and upper suite. The lockers, storage and much of the equipment will be on the arena floor, which is 30,000 square feet. Center offices are on the club level, and studding and drywall have been started for the offices.

There are eleven concession stands, 400-seat banquet room, 200-seat cocktail lounge, and 150-seat restaurant. There will be telescoping seating on the arena floor, which has not been included in the 21,000 figure.

Throughout the construction the DNR, Michigan Dept of Transportation, all the utility companies, and other city, county and state agencies have been involved. Wetlands were taken into consideration in the land movement; however, a hesitation in Moretto's voice makes one wonder if there is adequate ingress and egress.

Auburn Hills Entertainment Center was designed by Rosetti Associates/Architects/Planners.

The owners of the $55 million arena are Bill Davidson, owner of the Pistons, Robert Sosnick and David Hermelin.

The Center is designed so every seat will have an un-blocked view. It was also designed, according to their literature, "to be one thing... THE BEST!"

Woodland Trail residents seek preservation of roadside beauty

BY PAT YOUNG

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Woodland Trail is a narrow, dead-end dirt road that winds easterly off Ormond Road in Springfield Township for about a mile and a half.

While it is only a short line on a road map, the wooded trail harbors a lush variety of native wildflowers and trees. Many residents of the road and surrounding areas of Springfield Township believe it is important to preserve the road in this condition.

Accordingly, they presented a petition to the Oakland County Road Commission to designate Woodland Trail as a Natural Beauty Road.

A public hearing on the issue is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, July 29, in the Springfield Township Hall in Davisburg.

The idea was formulated about a year ago, according to Lee Ann Oliver, a resident of Woodland Trail and member of the Springfield Township Planning Commission.

She along with Joe Gorka, another planning commission member, and other residents of Woodland Trail gathered the needed petitions. Not only Woodland Trail residents, but Springfield Township residents on neighboring Shaffer, Hillsboro and Big Lake roads signed the petitions as well.

Ron Swift, an Eaton Road resident, volunteered to prepare a videotape of Woodland Trail for presentation to the road commission. The 12-minute video was filmed last Wednesday.

Other than a close-up of the Woodland Trail road sign at Ormond Road and a "road ends" sign at the eastern end of the road, viewers might think they were watching the opening scene of a wilderness movie.

With birds volunteering background music, the camera takes viewers on a leisurely ride down the trail. Towering trees provide a canopy against the sky, and a variety of wildflowers hug the dirt embankment.

Oliver occasionally points out plants of interest: elderberry bushes, May apples, sassafras trees, ferns, grapevines and delicate species of wildflowers.

In 1979, Woodland Trail, formerly Shindler Road, was getting a very different kind of public attention when a toxic industrial dump site was discovered nearby. But the site is now clean and there is no evidence of the once toxic landfill.

The Board of Oakland County Road Commissioners will ultimately decide whether to designate Woodland Trail as a Natural Beauty Road.

A number of factors will be considered in making the decision, according to Dennis Pajot, road commission spokesman.

Among those factors are native species of vegetation, scenic qualities of the area, whether there is objectionable development, the road surface and speed and traffic patterns.

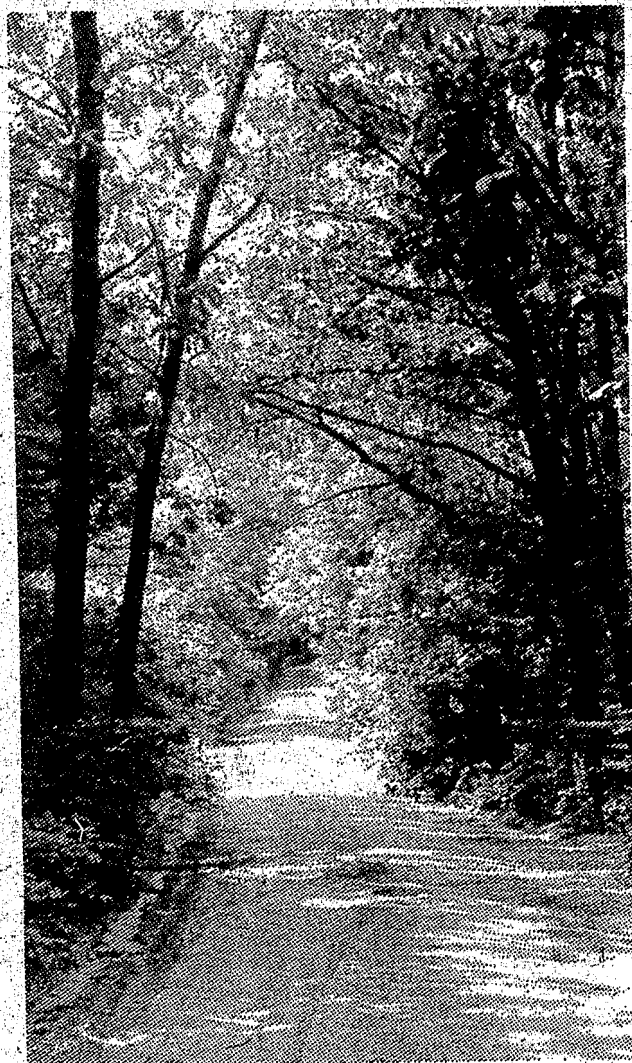

Residents say the road is worthy of the designation because of its natural canopy of trees, many species of wildflowers and the wildlife, including fox and deer, which are attracted to the area.

Should the road commissioners agree to add Woodland Trail to the list of 12 other Natural Beauty Roads in the county, most of which are in northern Oakland County, the road would be preserved in its natural condition.

It's not likely the road would ever be paved, though the designation does not guarantee that, Pajot said. The designation would guarantee, however, that roadside vegetation would not be disturbed by activities within the control of the road commission.

The State of Michigan adopted the Natural Beauty Road designation program in 1970 to identify roads that have unusual or outstanding natural beauty. Although it is not a tourist program, it is geared to promote such roads for residents and the public to enjoy.

If Woodland Trail receives the designation, which Pajot said could take as long as a month or two, a sign would be posted to inform the public. It would also warn county crews not to disturb roadside vegetation.

growing along Woodland Trail, while his sister Lacey looks on.

Friend to friend

Should I tell?

Dear Friend to Friend:

A person I know at the high school, who is a member of the National Honor Society, stole an exam, finished it at home and turned it in.

I've been thinking about this since the end of school. I told this person at the time that I couldn't believe he actually did this. What should I have done? Is there anything I can do about it now?

Cheated Out

Dear Cheated:

You have a RIGHT TO BE ANGRY. Cheating goes against the standards of the National Honor Society, which is an honorary organization for outstanding scholars.

We know many students do cheat and that you risk ostracism by telling on cheaters. Cheaters should not succeed at the expense of hard-working students, but most of us have difficulty with the idea of being a "tattletale." Yet, in a competitive system where grade-point averages make a difference about who gets into college, honest students are not on an equal basis with dishonest students.

Because the grades have now been turned in for the year, telling will not change anything. Nor will repeating to yourself the phrase that "cheaters don't win out in the end." Sometimes it seems like they do.

Many times in life you will run into cheaters and judging others by your moral codes may leave you frustrated and angry. You do need your own system of values and morality so that you can live more comfortably with yourself. Perhaps your greatest satisfaction in life can come from knowing that whatever you've accomplished has been done on your own merits and abilities.

Dear Friend to Friend:

I was talking to one of my friends the other day and she told me that when she was 9 years old her older brother sexually molested her. She's 17 now and I'm the first person she's ever told.

When she told me, I was confused about what to say to her. I've never had anything happen to me like this and I didn't know what to say. What should I have said to her?

Concerned

Friend

Dear Concerned:

First of all, it's important to just be a good listener. Second, it's helpful to reassure your friend that it wasn't her fault. Because it's such a sensitive issue, people feel hesitant to talk about it and, therefore, may keep such feelings of self-blame to themselves for a long time.

We know now that as many as one out of three girls are a victim of molestation by the time they are 18. (Also, one out of five victims of sexual molesting are boys.) So, there are many girls and women who have been molested and never talked about it.

Even though it may be shocking or painful for you to listen to such problems experienced by a friend, and even though you may feel helpless by "just" listening, you are doing your friend a lot of good by being there for her.

If she is too upset about the past now that she has begun to talk about it, you can suggest that she get professional counseling.

By writing in and asking for this advice, you've shown yourself to be a caring friend. Continue to be there for her and maybe she'll have the chance to return the favor some day.

Letters to Friend to Friend are answered by a panel of Clarkston High School students working under the sponsorship of Aware, a community group devoted to action and education against chemical dependency.

Students can submit letters by placing them in the designated "problem locker" at CHS, Clarkston Junior High or Sashabaw Junior High. The problem lockers remain available for use during the summer.

Letters can also be sent to Friend to Friend in care of The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main, Clarkston, MI 48016.

G.M. employee finds new job

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

When Roger Angott of Ortonville was laid off from General Motors in January of 1987, he says he "saw it coming."

He had only one and one-half years of seniority at the GM Lake Orion plant, where he worked as a stock chaser and sometimes subbed as an operator on the line in the soft trim department.

But even as GM workers were being laid off, retraining programs to help them find new jobs were being instituted by GM and United Auto Workers.

Angott read advertisements at the plant about the various retraining programs. He qualified for a program offered through the Clarkston Community Education Department by taking a test in February.

Angott said employees could choose two programs to be tested for and he qualified for both programs he chose, but the Brandon Township resident decided to go with the Clarkston training.

Twenty-five of 85 applicants tested for the Clarkston training program were chosen. Training took place at the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center on Big Lake Road in Springfield Township, which is overseen by the Clarkston school district.

The funding source of the training program was GM-UAW, out of the Metropolitan Pontiac Retraining and Employment Project (Metro-PREP).

"They're trying to get the people retrained," Angott says. "It's up to us to take advantage of it."

According to Barb Banker, Clarkston community services coordinator, this is the only public school district that participated in the GM-UAW retraining program, solicited because of the vocational school and placement programs.

Banker coordinates the program with Jack Ellis, Clarkston adult education vocational director.

The 500-hour electro-mechanical technician course prepared the former factory workers for entry level positions in the repair and installation of such items as small appliances, computer and business office machinery, cellular telephones, and residential and industrial wiring.

The course began in March and finished in July. After the classroom training, representatives of the placement staff worked with the trainees on job seeking skills. All trainees received assistance with their job searches.

The placement office for adult community education, which is located in the career center on Maybee Road in Independence Township, was instrumental in the job skills and job search portion of the training.

Judy Munroe is the placement coordinator. Kim Hassinger, one of the placement consultants, worked with Angott. He was the first of the trainees to locate a new job.

"I was just lucky," he says.

But Hassinger is confident that all who went through the training will find new positions.

"The prognosis is good," she says.

Clarkston has bid on another GM-UAW training program this fall.

"They're doing the best they can," says Banker.

"This is a joint effort between GM and the United Auto Workers to cooperate and look after the employees."

Angott agreed that GM and UAW are trying to help get the employees retrained, but he says too little was taught in too many different areas.

"I think the people who went for training would be better off if they were trained in only one of the areas," he says.

Angott, however, is quick to say he is very glad he took the course and that the job search helped.

"We learned a lot about resumes that most people wouldn't think of," he says.

Of the technical training, even though he says it wasn't enough to please most employers, he says, "I would have to go to a two-year course to learn (the same material)."

He also thinks some of the problems with the training are already being corrected for the next session.

Angott just began his new job last week at G.M. Underwriters in Rochester (no relation to General Motors), as head of maintenance. He is in charge of repair and maintenance of the building and office machinery.

"I think I'm going to like it," Angott says.

"There is room for improvement (in the retraining program), but a lot of positive came out of it," he adds. "It did me a lot of good."

Roger Angott, 25, of Ortonville went through a GM-UAW retraining program conducted through Clarkston schools and began his new job last week in Rochester.

What's cooking?

Pat Young

A hint of cloves

You planted a few zucchini seeds, and then watched with eager anticipation as the first green-skinned squash formed. Now, you are giving them away to friends and neighbors by the armloads as the prolific plant keeps generating new produce.

But zucchini is a versatile food, usable raw in salads, cooked as a vegetable side dish, or shredded and baked into delicious zucchini bread. You can even shred zucchini now and freeze it to make zucchini bread this winter. Just a hint of cloves in this zucchini bread recipe richens the flavor.

ZUCCHINI BREAD

- 3 eggs, slightly beaten
- 2 cups sugar
- 1 cup vegetable oil
- 2 cups unpeeled, grated zucchini
- 3 cups flour
- 2 teaspoons vanilla
- 2 teaspoons cinnamon
- 1/4 teaspoon cloves
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/2 teaspoon baking powder

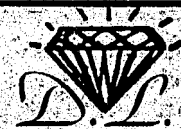

Sift together dry ingredients and mix well with moist ingredients in large bowl. Pour into TWO greased and floured bread pans. Bake at 350 degrees for one hour, or until loaves test done.

The saga continues for town clock

BY JULIE CAMPE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Don and Dorothy Conroy and their children felt at home walking down Main Street, Clarkston, during their vacation last week.

The family, from Darlington, Wisc., ran into a familiar face—the new town clock.

They were visiting their best friends, Jim and Joyce Fisk of North Eston Road, Independence Township. The Fisks showed them the new home for the timepiece.

Don chuckled when he talked about seeing it again.

"I've lived in Darlington all my life. I've walked by this clock ever since I've been walkable," he said. "We were really shocked that you got it here. It looks great. It looks almost exactly the same."

In Darlington, a town of about 2,000 people, the clock was silver when it was last seen about five years ago, he said.

"It has a new face because vandals shot it with a deer rifle one time," he said. "Somebody bet (a guy) he couldn't hit the clock. He did."

The Conroys plan to take pictures and give the new whereabouts to their hometown newspaper. People might be curious to know, said Don.

"All the natives (of Darlington), of course, were upset when the old clock left the town. They thought the old jeweler would have left it," he said.

Instead, the jeweler sold the clock to an antique dealer in Florida and the dealer sold it to the Independence Township Sesquicentennial Committee this year.

"It went from one small town to another," said Jim.

The Conroy kids also liked the ending of the clock story.

"I think it's really neat that of all places it ended up where my mom and dad's best friends live," said the Conroys' daughter Cara. "It looks great. It fits in perfect here."

The Fisks of North Eston Road, Independence Township, and the Conroys of Darlington, Wisc., take turns visiting each other. This year, the Conroys came to Clarkston to see the town clock that used to rest in Darlington. In the

Pet of the week

Cocoa is a colorful calico cat.

A cat of many colors

Take a splash of color, namely gold and black on white, add a sweet personality and good manners, and you have the makings for a wonderful pet.

That's the recipe for Cocoa, a 2-year-old, short-haired calico. She's litter-trained, loves children and is good with other cats. She's had no experience with dogs.

Cocoa can be adopted at the Michigan Humane Society, 3600 Auburn Rd., Auburn Heights, 852-7420. Hours at the non-profit shelter are 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

The adoption fee for Cocoa is $15 plus a spay fee of $25.

Church in Germany installs Clarkston glass

BY ALISA NASS

Clarkston News Special Writer

As a gesture of friendship, a gift from the Calvary Lutheran Church in Independence Township will become a permanent part of the Friedenskirche Church in Biberach, West Germany.

Twenty members from Friedenskirche visited Clarkston two years ago and brought a bell made by a member of the congregation as a gift.

When 31 members of Calvary Lutheran Church returned the visit last July, they took along a "Luther Rose" in stained glass.

The Luther rose is Martin Luther's seal and a symbol of the Lutheran Church.

Since Friedenskirche members were planning to install new stained glass windows in their church, they decided to incorporate the pane from Clarkston into one of the new windows.

A banner was also taken a gift and an identical one was made to be hung in the sanctuary at Calvary Lutheran.

The banner depicts the world with a pair of hands opened above it. On one continent is the word Clarkston above a set of crosses and across the ocean is the word Biberach above a steeple.

The stained glass pane was crafted by Calvary member Sue Weatherington. "Its nice," she said about the plans.

It took 32 hours to make the pane, which was one of three she has made for Calvary Lutheran, she said.

"I just saw the sign and I had my dad design the plans. I gave it to Pastor Walters and he wanted one for the church (Calvary Lutheran)," she said.

When the group decided to go to West Germany, they asked Weatherington to make another as a gift.

"I think it's so neat," said Walters. "She has wonderful ability and now it becomes a permanent part of a church window in Biberach."

Weatherington, who has been creating stained glass class pieces since she took a course seven years ago, was not part of the group that traveled to West Germany.

The group that went stayed with families while in West Germany.

"You don't have to go many places to learn the culture," said Jan Eby, whose family went. "You could sense it and see it."

The idea for the visits came about after Walters and his wife, Beverly, traveled to West Germany with friends.

During that time, they visited Pastor Eberhard Gohner of the Friedenskirche Church, whom Walters had met at the Lutheran School of Theology in Chicago, Ill.

The Walters will make a third visit to West Germany this year. During the visit, they will attend the dedication ceremony of the new windows and visit Anke Ossenbergh of West Germany, who was an intern at Calvary Lutheran.

Sue Weatherington holds a duplicate of the stained glass pane she made as a gift for the Friedenskirche Church in West Germany.

"The other day, I saw a bear," sing the Girl Scouts, while they rest under the trees at Independence Oaks County Park during 90 degree weather. The Cadettes on the picnic table lead the song and the others echo the words. On Wednesday last week, it was too hot for their regularly scheduled activities. But they still managed to earn badges by making shelters, building fires and reading compasses.

Carmen Lund, 7, is from Clarkston Troop 100, and she quickly learns the words.

for a seat while they learn the latest Girl Scout songs at day camp.
