Demolition discussed

An anti-demolition ordinance that would prohibit the destruction of buildings in the village historic district will be drafted by the village attorney in the near future.

During a special joint meeting between the Clarkston Village Council and the planning commission Aug. 3, it was decided that something needed to be done to preserve the historical buildings in the village.

The village council and the planning commission agreed that quick action was necessary.

"The thought of losing even one more house is just horrifying," said Trustee William Basinger.

The special meeting was called so the village council and planning commission could air their differences and come to a suitable solution, said President Sharron Catallo.

It was decided at the meeting that the revised historical ordinance be sent to the village attorney, John Steckling, for formal writing.

Then the ordinance will return to the planning commission and another joint meeting with the village council will be conducted to review the proposed anti-demolitition ordinance.

At the same meeting, a public hearing will be scheduled.

"I want to know what's on the public's mind," said planning commission member John Stuetzer of the anti-demolition ordinance.

The proposed ordinance will cover the historic district and deal with only the demolition of historic homes, said Stuetzer.

Both the village council and the planning commission said they are working to make the anti-demolition ordinance more flexible than the controversial historic district ordinance that was rescinded following public outcry.

"This one is less subjective and less offensive than the former (historic ordinance)," said Trustee Frank Millard. "When the public realizes we won't be out there with tape measures or color charts, they will settle down."

Positive wording will be used in the anti-

Girls Scouts dismiss lawsuit

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A lawsuit filed by the Michigan Metro Girl Scout Council against Springfield Township over a rezoning dispute on scout-owned land has been formally dismissed.

The dismissal order was signed by Judge James Thornburn in Oakland County Circuit Court on July 27.

"We dismissed the suit without prejudice against Springfield Township, which means, in effect, that there was no sense in going any further," said Bill Reddish, director of properties for Michigan Metro Girl Scouts.

The 188 acres of Girl Scout property in Springfield Township, operated as a scout camp, is bordered by Hillsboro and Crosby Lake roads.

According to Reddish, the property has been rezoned residential (R1A), and he said the purchaser of the scout property was satisfied with the zoning, which would require 2½-acre lots.

"The property was sold, so it was really up to the owner," Reddish said. At the time of purchase, the new owner reportedly planned to develop the land into residential lots.

The suit was filed in February of 1986 by the scouts following denial by the Springfield Township board to rezone the property from recreational to R3, which allows for 20,000-square-foot lots.

In standing firm on the board's decision, Township Supervisor Collin Walls said the scouts' zoning request "did not fit existing development patterns," and that the board denied the request because of the "physical restraints on the land which made it a great recreational area but not as desirable for residential."

But Reddish contended that the scout zoning re-

Too many vacations

The Aug. 10 regular meeting of the Clarkston Community Schools Board of Education has been rescheduled to Monday, Aug. 17.

"Enough members of the board of education had planned vacations that make it impossible to have a quorum," said Superintendent Milford Mason.

Four of the board's seven members must be present to validly transact business at a meeting.

The board will meet at 8 p.m. at the administration office, 6389 Clarkston Rd., Independence Township.

Legal opinion sought on camp contract

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Oakland County Board of Social Services reaffirmed its intent to involve the county prosecutor's office in the work-learn camp contract issue between Michigan Department of Social Services and a private camp management organization.

A special meeting was requested by board member Gail Colwell because she wanted to rescind her support of the board's earlier action, according to board chairman Howard Dell, who called the July 29 meeting.

At the regular meeting July 21, the three-member board voted unanimously to send a letter to the prosecuting attorney's office asking for an investigation.

At that time, board member John Firu said that since DSS did not present a copy of the contract to the board before it was awarded, the agency was "not in compliance" with state law.

DSS signed a contract with International Field Studies July 2 to run the controversial work-learn camps for young male offenders from Wayne County.

A primary site under consideration for one of the three camps is Camp Holly, a Girl Scout camp in Rose Township near Davisburg and Holly. Other sites in North Oakland County are also being considered.

Area residents have strongly apposed the camp, and approximately 90 of them were in attendance at the special social services meeting.

In a 2-1 vote, with Colwell voting against the motion, the board agreed to send a letter to the prosecuting attorney's office asking for clarification of Act 280.

Firu, who made the motion, stated earlier that his interpretation of the state law governing social services contracts within the county required the Oakland County Board of Social Services to review contracts before they are signed by the state.

The board does not have veto power over any proposed state contracts, but does review those awarded within the county.

"We've asked for a legal opinion," said Dell. "We're asking if the action taken by the state is legal."

Any investigation deemed necessary would be up to the prosecutor's office, which has not made a decision to date.

In the regular meeting, the board voted unanimously to not approve the awarding of the DSS contract. No action on this motion was taken at the special meeting.

Corrections

A story in the July 26 edition incorrectly stated that plans for condominiums adjacent to Deer Lake had been approved in concept by the Clarkston Village Council.

In fact, the council voted to send the proposal to the planning commission for its recommendation regarding the rezoning that would be required.

Information with photographs of roller skaters in last week's Clarkston News incorrectly stated the time remaining in the playground program conducted by the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department.

The playground program's last week is Aug. 10-14. For more information, call the parks and recreation department at 625-8223.

A story in the July incorrectly stated that there are 1,100 volunteers in the Clarkston Community Education Department.

In fact, there are about 1,100 volunteers working in Clarkston Community Schools.

quest was "identical to that suggested by Mr. Walls (at an earlier date)."

The Michigan Metro Girl Scout Council owned approximately 228 acres of land in the area. Two parcels totaling 40 acres adjoining the 188-acre portion were sold in 1984 and rezoned residential (R2), which requires one-acre lots.

Residents object to Walters Lake chemicals

BY KATHY GREENFIELD
Clarkston News Editor

Concern over the planned use of chemicals to fight weeds in Walters Lake has prompted some residents to circulate petitions.

Mary Zahm is one of four women leading the petition drive.

The lake off Clarkston Road in the northeast quadrant of Independence Township "is a mess. It's full of weeds, but most of us don't want chemicals used because it will contaminate the water, and they are telling us directly they don't know what it will do to us if we swim in it or drink it," she said, noting that it would take five or 10 years for any ill-effects to people to surface.

"We do think there's other methods that would be adequate without the need for chemicals at all," Zahm said.

They plan to present the petitions to the Walters Lake Board and attend the lake board meeting on Monday, Aug. 10, at 7:30 p.m. in the Clarkston High School Kirchgessner Theatre.

At its last meeting, the lake board approved a combination of weed harvesting and the use of the chemical weed-killers 2,4-D and Diquat for a two-year trial period. The cost is estimated at $23,000 annually.

Beginning next year, the harvesting with a weed-cutting machine is to involve the majority of the 79.6 acre lake and the chemicals are to be used along the shorelines where water is 5 feet deep or less, covering a total of about 10 acres. Harvesting and weed-killing treatments are to occur twice each year.

A special tax assessment district was formed to pay for the procedure and tax estimates have been mailed for the 509 parcels that would be affected by the levy. The annual cost would range from $142 for a lakefront homeowner to about $17 for vacant property in a subdivision with access to a community beach.

The Aug. 10 meeting is to discuss the proposed assessments, but the lake board can also address other concerns, said Chairperson Richard Kuhn.

The five-member Walters Lake Board was formed in October 1983. A majority of the lakefront property owners signed petitions requesting the formation of the board, which has considerable power under state law.

The lake board's mix of members are also dictated by law: Kuhn is the county commissioner (he represents District 5 on board of commissioners); Richard Holman is the township official; Howard Wandell is the state Department of Natural Resources (DNR) representative; Thomas Gregory is the resident; and Philip Sanzica is the member of the county drain commission.

Once formed, the board can determine a course of action to solve lake problems and can levy taxes on any property that benefits from the lake.

Kuhn said that 45 residents attended the Walters Lake Board public hearing in April. While the residents' votes are not binding, Kuhn said he asked for a show of hands regarding weed removal plans.

Of the lakefront dwellers, 29 signaled their desire to proceed and three were opposed, and nine off-lake residents indicated support and four were opposed, he said.

"That gave the board, at that time, the signal that if we ever intend to go along with a program, now is the time," he said.

As a member of five lake boards, Kuhn said it's his understanding that if chemicals are properly applied they are not dangerous.

But, he said, he would consider changing the plan if enough residents request such action.

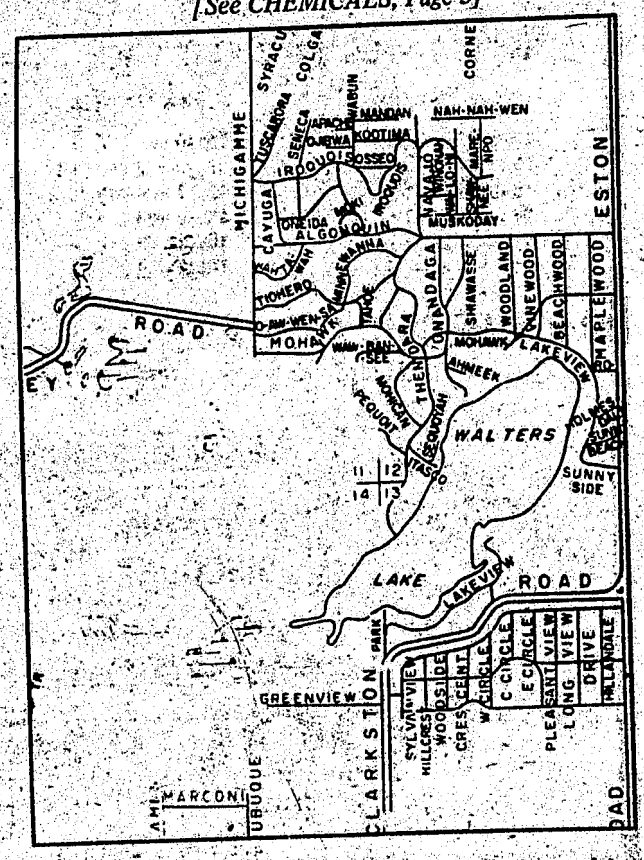

"If there's a ground-swelling of support of the lakefront property owners, then I suppose it's not a closed case at all," he said.

The lake board's obligations also include hiring an engineering firm to present recommendations for alleviating problems.

The report from Cleary Engineers Inc. recommended weed harvesting and the use of 2,4-D and Diquat.

2,4-D is absorbed into the root systems of weeds, making them grow rapidly and self-destructing. Di-

Dog attack thwarts 4-H showing

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Like other 4-H'ers, Maggie Sans had been working hard for months to prepare for the annual Oakland County 4-H Fair.

It would be the last year for the 18-year-old Clarkston High School graduate to participate in the fair and she was preparing three lambs and a sheep to show.

But all this changed on the morning of June 19.

The family noticed a lot of commotion in the barn at their Independence Township home. Upon investigation, they discovered a grisly scene.

Three dogs were in the pasture, eating the remains of two of Maggie's lambs that they had killed. The other lamb and the sheep were still alive, barely, huddled in the barn.

Two of the dogs jumped the fence and escaped. The family cornered the third and called the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

The neighboring owner of the captured dog voluntarily destroyed the animal. The owners of the other two dogs claimed they had lost control of the dogs and weren't responsible.

It took the family veterinarian a long time to repair the damage to the two survivors. The young ram survived, but Maggie's prize ewe did not.

"The three lambs I had purchased in March to work with," Maggie says. "But the ewe I have had for many years. She was kind of special. I got her for my birthday one year, and I named her Happy Birthday.

"It took the vet an hour just to sew up 50-75 tears on her," she continues. "We took turns watching her all day. I went out to check her at 7 p.m. and I thought she was sleeping. I touched her and she was cold.

"It was just too much for me," she says, looking toward the barn.

So Maggie concentrated on the surviving ram, nursing him back to health.

The ram didn't have a name before June 19, but now he is called Buddy.

"That night, I kept saying to him, 'Come on, buddy, you can make it,' " she explains.

After telling her story to the fair board, Maggie got special permission to replace her lambs for the fair. Normally, the rules state they must be purchased by May 1, but the board called Maggie's case "an act of God."

Maggie Sans, a 4-H'er for nine years, hugs Buddy, the lone survivor of a dog attack on three lambs and a sheep she would have shown at the Oakland County 4-H Fair. Next to Buddy is the new lamb she received special permission to purchase and show at the fair.

It was late, however, so Maggie only replaced one lamb to show.

"There wasn't time to put in all the work it takes to get them ready," she explains. "But it was very nice of the board to give me permission."

Maggie is president of the Oakland County Livestock Club, which she says is the largest livestock club at the fair.

"I wanted to participate this last year," she says. "I didn't want to lose touch."

She doesn't expect much out of her lone entry, but she is happy to be able to participate.

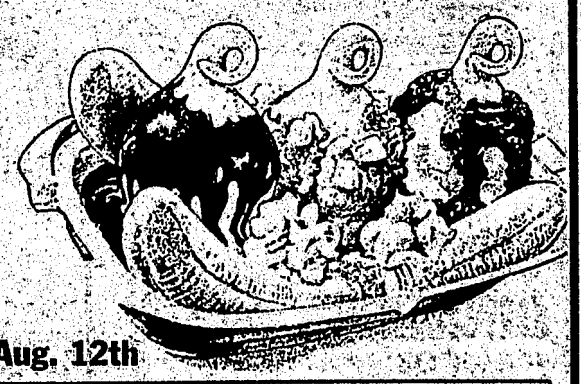

She says she will not show Buddy, because it wouldn't be fair to sell him as a market lamb.

"He's no longer market quality," she says. "The prime meat was torn."

But it isn't hard to figure out that she wouldn't sell Buddy anyway.

"I worked with him every day to nurse him back to health," she says. "When I'd go out to the barn, he would nuzzle me. I guess he's become pretty special. He's my Happy Birthday."

Chemicals, weed harvesting for area lake

quat kills plant leaves and stems on contact and thwarts their growth for five or six weeks.

Gerald Cleary, president of the engineering firm, said he doesn't recommend total harvesting because the weeds grow back too quickly.

"It gets very costly because the weeds are up in a matter of a week. They can grow 6 inches in a week in this kind of weather," he said.

According to studies by Dow Chemical, the manufacturer of 2,4-D, the chemical is safe if it is applied properly, Cleary said.

"Improperly applied, they can cause fish kills and so forth. Properly applied, there is little or no effect," he said.

He also said that he would not be offended if the lake board decided to reject the use of chemicals.

"I don't mind if the board decides otherwise. If there's a significant number of people who oppose it, that's fine," Cleary said.

"I hope we don't end up with that case in Walters Lake," he added. "The horror stories are simply not true based on scientific evidence."

Because the DNR has laws governing the use of chemicals to fight lake weeds, the agency oversees their application, said Wandell, an aquatic biologist with the DNR's Inland Lakes Management Unit.

The laws are strict, much more strict than most states, he said, and requirements include permit notification, posting of signs and follow-up visits by DNR officials. And firms that apply chemicals must file reports following each application.

What worries Wandell, however, is what people expect from chemical use.

"I try to point out that chemicals are a tool and they have advantages and disadvantages," he said. "I think our whole society is chemical-oriented: 'If you have a problem, chemicals will solve it.'

"We should not look at lakes as being swimming pools are bathtubs," he added. "We can alter Mother Nature, but let's not try to create things that never could exist.

"Our feeling is that you use chemicals to the minimum necessary to create a recreational usable lake," he said.

Harvesting and chemical use are a "pretty good short-term solution," he said, but long-term solutions are frequently ignored.

Lake board member Holman cited another concern: the use of weed-killing chemicals by lakefront residents. Although the practice is illegal, "I challenge someone to tell me that doesn't happen," he said.

If the weed problem is addressed, Holman said he believes people would stop the do-it-yourself practice.

Holman also noted that the harvesting-chemical combination has been used in the township's Van Norman Lake for two years and the lake is improving.

Another side to chemical use in Walters Lake is found in the water quality study of the lake prepared by Wallace E. Fusilier, PhD, in 1984.

The study was used by the engineering firm in reaching its recommendation of using harvesting and chemicals.

Fusilier recommended harvesting only.

". . . Walters Lake seems to be a prime candidate by takeover by a herbicide resistant species if the native vegetation is destroyed with herbicides," the report said.

Buzzing along

Kathy Greenfield

If I were a bee, I wouldn't spend much time in the hive.

Imagine the constant buzzing, the jammed pathways, the heat.

I've heard of taking the straight path to something referred to as making a beeline, but all the bees I've ever watched meander here and there at a seemingly leisurely pace.

Sometimes, when I look at a field full of wildflowers, I try to imagine what it would be like to fly from flower top to flower top touched by gentle summer breezes.

Usually, I don't seek respite with such thoughts. Clarkston is a town with plenty of trees and water for mental nature breaks.

But after my family spent a weekend in Toronto, Canada, my mind wandered a bit during the zip home past fields and tree clusters.

The buzz of the city has always had its appeal. People everywhere. Window shopping that provides a visual exercise in current social trends. Frequent surprises.

There was a panhandler playing spoons to the beat of a radio held by another man.

There was a couple breaking down a hot dog stand, hitching it to their car and driving off after a long, hot day on a street corner. Her purse flung over her shoulder and white cloth in hand, the woman kept polishing—even as the stand was hooked to the car.

There was the matter-of-fact statement "You're Americans" made several times that made me wonder just what that means.

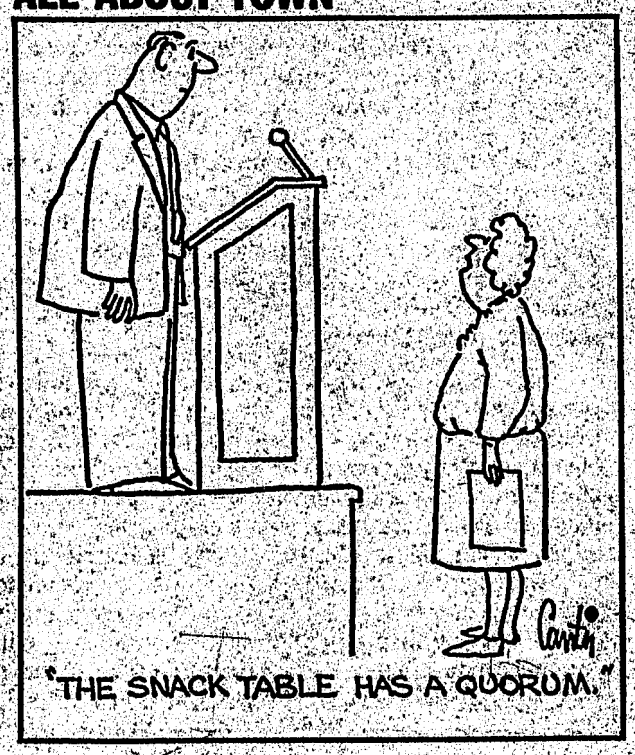

There was the cheerful busboy who told us he escaped from Vietnam several years ago on a boat and could never go back because he would be sent to jail. (Can you imagine leaving your country knowing you could never return?)

There was a man methodically checking all garbage cans and coin returns on newspaper vending machines.

There were brave bicyclists whipping along the busy streets just inches away from cars whipping along the busy streets.

The city hive was busy. A nice place to visit. Clarkston is a flower in the field.

ALL ABOUT TOWN

Editorial

People pay anyway

When the recent governors' conference broke up, there was a call for the federal government to put more money into fighting AIDS.

It's as if federal money is something above we the people.

Perhaps it is that attitude that creates a continuing higher national debt. Our congressmen, senators and presidents don't know federal money is our money.

Many people in Michigan are crying for a new method of raising money for education. Get rid of the property tax and bring on something that doesn't cost us anything.

Isn't that wonderful?

This week a committee approved a finance plan for funding schools in Michigan. It includes adding 2 percent onto the present 4 percent sales tax for schools.

Now, that wouldn't cost us anything, would it . . . if the property tax is dropped an "average of 40 percent" as recommended?

Adding 2 percent to everything we buy, except utilities, could, and probably would, have us paying more taxes for schools than we are now . . . and, that's likely the idea.

When you get right down to it, our tax dollars have the greatest strength when they don't leave our community. The more hands our bucks go through (county, state and federal) the more it sticks to others fingers.

When we vote to pay our property tax for schools, we can see it any time we want.

It sounds so great to say 'let's find another way to finance schools', but 'another way' will surely cost more and we'll get no more for it.

Besides, if the legislature gets a bill passed to raise sales tax and reduce property tax, a couple years down the line a legislature will remind us of our reduced taxes and find a way to raise them.

Remember, the sales tax was passed in 1933 as a temporary measure.

There is more to the committee's report than increasing sales tax and decreasing home owners' property tax. Businesses would be taxed a flat 23 mills.

And, the state will be asked to put an extra $200 million annually into schools, $85 million of it coming by not reducing the income tax 0.1 percent less than Gov. Blanchard and some legislators want.

Again, this committee must think the money comes from a magical formula, not from human beings. They talk of putting more money into schools like it just rolls off one of our presses.

It's interesting this finance committee did not take a vote on these proposals. They just recommended the legislature vote on them. How committee members actually voted remains a mystery.

It is no mystery, however, where the money will come from. As they say on radio station WRIF, "From you and I, BABY!"

It takes a constitutional amendment to adopt a statewide school tax on all industry and businesses. It takes a two-thirds vote by the legislature to get the sales tax increase on the ballot.

Expect a lot of sell by the state Board of Education and all others seeking more money for wages, furniture, buses, books, and basketballs, but remember where the money is coming from, and who it has to go through.

Jim's Jottings

Jim Sherman

Have we always been in a 'make it sound worse' reporting world?

I'll get to the weather in a minute, but first a fine example of what I mean. You know the Kuwait oil tanker with the American flag hit a mine, blowing a hole in the bow.

As it headed out of Kuwait with half a load of oil, the announcer said, "If it hits a mine again the damage could be much worse."

When I heard that I said to the tv screen, "True, and you could make it sound worse by bringing in the contras, communists, Kadafi, and trigger happy missile minders."

I think newspaper reporters put less fear in their ending paragraphs, but I'm prejudice.

Now to the weather. For several years weathermen, probably taking a page from tv news readers' world threatening 'if's', have been giving us a wind chill factor in the winter.

"Bundle up the kids today because the combination of temperature and wind speed will make their skin feel like 108 degrees below zero this morning."

We lived for decades without this life saving factor. If my mother had known the wind chill factor I bet she never would have made me walk 15 miles (it used to be one) each way to that 1-room Garrison country school.

Note the "if".

So, now that we have made parents in northern climes more cautious and fearful in winter, here comes the summer threat to all our well being.

This summer we have, ta da, "The Apparent Temperature". Naturally, it's hotter than the reading on the bank thermometer. Gotta make it sound worse. Gotta get listener/reader attention.

The apparent temperature is the actual temperature and the relative humidity. On July 20 the apparent temperature was 113 degrees.

Until I read that, I thought it was 92, which I didn't think was any hotter than the next day that was 93.

When I learned the apparent temperature, I immediately thought this must be what it's like crossing the Mohave Desert.

And, I wondered why Hazel let me play golf on such a hot day.

I've been very cognizant (Pete and Charlie's favorite word) of the fear factor reporters have been ending their reports with for several years. I vary between laughing at them and wanting to throw something.

"If there is no progress at the bargaining table tonight, no telling how long the strike will continue."

"If Secretary Schultz can't get the Russians to agree on an arms withdrawal today, there may not be a summit this fall."

"If the dog doesn't stop to water the tree, he'll catch that rabbit."

SCAMP praise

1987 SCAMP is over and I'm sure we speak for many parents when we express our thanks to all those involved in making this a summer to remember for our children.

The excellent and enthusiastic staff, Clarkston Rotary Club, parents, community and business support are all important components to a successful program.

It's no surprise that SCAMP has such an excellent reputation.

Our daughter eagerly looked forward to each new "SCAMP day." We observed her developing increased play skills, language and thinking skills, confidence in new situations and sensitivity toward others.

We're proud to live in a community that supports such a worthwhile program for young people.

Good memories

The Steve Secatch family would like to thank everyone for their support and kindness shown during the death of our son.

We would need a whole page in this paper to thank everyone.

As we know, and as everyone in this community has told us, Steve was a loving and caring person.

What people said about Steve, we see that in them. The similarities help us remember him that much more.

TRIBUTE TO STEVE SECATCH
By Amy Zubalik

A child was born, innocent and harmless.
A chance to see the world in a glass bubble,
a first look at dawn.

The child grows older, he sees the struggle of man. In turn he tries to make the world a better place to live.

Having ageless beauty and seeing only what he wants to see. Having God-given talents, and being able to be the best he can.

Thanking God each day he awakes, showing the world all he can do. Having a great mind and a big heart.

Then the day comes when he is needed in Heaven, for reasons only God himself knows.
His death consumed by all of those that love him. The pain hits hard and all around are faces full of sorrow.

We go on holding only precious memories of his life here on earth. While he is joined by other loved ones in a much more astonishing place.

Heaven, everything is peaceful, and it seems he hasn't really died. He has found another world, one with no incapabilities nor imperfections.

He is loved and missed by all, but he must remember us . . . for we shall see him again someday!

Amy Zubalik penned this memorial to Steve Secatch, a fellow 1987 Clarkston High School graduate who died July 24.

Many questions

I've been meaning to write for a while, and your survey form pushed me over the edge.

Basically, I'd like more meat in some of your local news instead of just a precise report on what happens at area meetings. What interests me are the motivations behind those board and committee actions.

For example:

1. Why does Supervisor Frank Ronk really object to Holly Stephens on the Independence Township Planning commission? What's behind this silly game-playing?

2. What was the real basis for the furor over the Clarkston High School football player's suspension last fall?

3. How do individual members of the planning commission feel about our projected growth? How do they intend to control it?

4. Why did so many parents of school children vote no on the recent Clarkston Community Schools millage request? Do you know how manipulated they feel by the board of education?

My second request is that you jump into some controversy and sort out a few of the areas of the village/township that have been neglected of late.

For example:

1. Does anyone else realize how woefully inadequate our library has become? (I have driven my children to Rochester on several occasions because they couldn't get enough information to complete school assignments.) Why doesn't the township board do something meaningful about that?

2. How is it that one of the village's historic homes on Parke Lake was allowed to be razed with so little notice? I don't recall reading anything about that, but it doesn't look good for preserving our village, does it? Do you care?

3. Why can't all of our village merchants clean up better? The parking lot next to you is pretty in the spring, then it goes to weeds and trash. These owners are people who live here. Can't they see?

4. How do you feel about a five-lane swath of M-15 through the township? Have you thought of superimposing a photograph of that onto the landscape?

Overall, I wouldn't miss my weekly copy of The Clarkston News. And I realize that delving into public opinion can be time-consuming and difficult. But there is a lot more going on in this town than meets the eye.

Heart and soul

Bordine employee Marlis Gregor is to be complimented for her voluntary beautifying of the walks leading to the Independence Courthouse as part of her 40 hours of time volunteered to the community in some horticultural manner to be certified as a master gardener from the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service of Michigan State University.

Her choice of flowers as far as texture, color, height and design contributed to the diadem effect.

Moreover, she seemed to capture, in her living floral pattern, the spirit of freedom that is in the very heart of Independence Township.

Thank you, Marlis Greiget, for a job well done.

Elvis, Groucho and Coleman link

Jim Fitzgerald

Elvis Presley's Detroit fans might well ask: Where is Mayor Young when he's really needed?

The mayor has been accusing the local news media of negative reporting. He was angered by the extensive coverage given the 20th anniversary of our 1967 riot. He prefers that people be allowed to forget it.

But what about the 10th anniversary of Elvis Presley's death? It's Aug. 16 and my favorite newspaper is already immortalizing the mortality with a week-long series of articles. Seven straight days of reminding everyone Elvis is dead.

Talk about negative reporting. If the media would be positive, Presley's fans would forget he died.

PROBABLY MAYOR YOUNG hasn't complained about the news coverage of a 10-year-old corpse because he isn't an Elvis fan and doesn't mind being reminded that he's dead. Otherwise, the mayor could point out that no newspaper is making a fuss about the 10th anniversary of the death of Groucho Marx.

And the mayor would be correct. I stress that because he was wrong in making a similar observation concerning riot anniversary publicity. In a speech last Thursday, Young said, "1986 was the anniversary of the riots in Watts and in Newark, N.J. - and those events came and passed without a whimper from the press in Los Angeles and Newark." He was obviously referring to the 20th anniversaries of those riots.

A Free Press reporter took time off from reveling in memories of the Detroit riot to phone newspaper executives in Los Angeles and Newark. They said they published many articles on the 20th anniversary of their riots - which were in 1965 and 1967 respectively, so the mayor didn't even get the year right.

It's too bad the mayor talks when he doesn't know what he's talking about, but what can you expect from a man who doesn't care if the news media won't let people forget Elvis is dead?

As for Groucho Marx, he also died in 1977, just a few days after Elvis. There were no headlined hints about a secret autopsy revealing that Marx died of an acute perforation resulting from an unnatural relationship with a guitar pick. There is something to be said for waiting 86 years to die, and I just said it.

THE DEATH of Presley received much more publicity than the death of Groucho. This was not because Elvis was a better entertainer than Groucho. Don't be ridiculous, please.

Groucho simply outlived his greatest fans. And the lingering death of an 86-year-old man leaves behind no drug-tainted mystery to titillate the public. If Elvis had been 86 when he died, instead of 42, there would have been no fainting in Texas.

Remember? Immediately after Elvis bought it in the bathroom, his fans began competing to see who could mourn the most. Which non-relative wailed the loudest when first informed of the death? Which teenage girl on her way to the funeral first attempted suicide in an airport because Memphis-bound airplanes didn't have room for one more case of hysteria?

The Most Magnificant Mourner trophy should have gone to employees of a Texas Instruments Inc. factory in Midland, Tex. Dozens of them fainted, and a doctor blamed mass anxiety brought on by the death of Elvis. No other factory reported a similar increase in faintings. This indicated Texas Instruments employes mourned Presley more than anyone else did, at least under the group plan.

Anyway, 10 years later it's time for the mourning to stop, time to forget Elvis is dead. And Mayor Young is right, more positive reporting by the news media will erase such unpleasant memories. Long live Mayor Young. Also Fred Astaire and Jackie Gleason.

The above information was compiled from reports at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Vandals in lot

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The parking lot near the 20 Depot Street restaurant has become a "playhouse for vandals" after dark, said Ed Adler, an owner of the Clarkston Mills Mall.

Adler asked the Clarkston Village Council to look into the problem of vandalism in the parking lots by teens after dark at the council's July 27 meeting.

"We have a tremendous problem," Adler said. "The left side of the parking lot has become a playhouse."

Stolen hood ornaments and slashed tires have become too common an occurrence to ignore anymore, said Adler.

Six hood ornaments have be taken from his wife's car and Adler has had his tire slashed once. He said if a Mercedes is parked in the lot, the ornament is as good as gone.

Council President Sharron Catallo said she wasn't aware of how severe the vandalism problem was.

Adler asked the village council why he hardly ever saw police patrolling the lot after dark.

"That is something we can ask for in our new police contract," said Trustee William Basinger.

Proposal pending

demolition ordinance to avoid having people feel they are being "bossed around," members of the planning commission said.

Before he made a motion to have the village attorney draft the ordinance, Stuetzer said Clarkston might not survive without it.

"We have to take the steps to save our village now, otherwise we will lose it," he said adding that the historic homes are one of a kind. "There is something that has made Clarkston special."

Dam donation

Now that the Mill Pond dam is fixed, Ed Adler would like to give it away.

At the July 27 Clarkston Village Council meeting, the owner of the 20 Depot Street restaurant said he spent $10,000 recently to have the dam restored to working order and that the time is right to present it as a gift to the village.

Adler said he doesn't want to handle all the hassles involved with the Mill Pond dam.

"I'm not the government," he said of dealing with people's complaints about the dam or pond.

Adler asked the village council if a meeting could be set up to iron out the details of transferring ownership of the pond and the dam to the village.

"Let's discuss the terms with your attorney and start to make some plans in that direction," said Adler.

Discussion by village council members indicated support for village ownership of the dam although no vote was taken.

Adler said that before he would give the dam and pond away there were some things he wanted in return.

President Sharron Catallo said she would be willing to meet with Adler at his convenience to work out the details.

Cool off by using these suggestions

Are you looking for some simple ways to stay cool as the thermometer soars this summer?

Elaine Glasser, home economist with Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service, offers the following tips for saving energy costs:

•Keep drapes closed during the day to insulate the windows.

•Open windows at night to take advantage of the cool night Michigan air.

•Keep windows and doors closed during the day until the temperature inside is higher than the temperature outside. Then, open the windows.

•Close off rooms that are inclined to be warm—the kitchen, laundry room or utility room.

•Light bulbs, motors, TV sets and other appliances give off heat. Whenever you can, do not use them during the hottest part of the day.

•Use the kitchen exhaust fan when cooking, washing clothes and mopping—and a bathroom fan when bathing. These will remove both excessive heat and moisture.

It is possible to go through the summer without an air conditioner and still be comfortable in your home, says Glasser.

One cooling option is the whole house fan. This unit, installed in an upstairs hallway or in the highest, most centrally located spot in the house, will move summer heat buildup out of your house and into the attic.

The attic vents should be adequate to allow rapid exhausting of heat buildup, and household replacement air should come from the coolest source. This could be a low window on the north side of the house that's shaded by shrubs or trees.

An attic fan is another option, says Glasser. Mounted on the gable end of the house, it exhausts heated air from the attic very rapidly.

This means that attic heat will not migrate through the ceiling insulation and add to summertime heat load.

Another activity that helps cool the home is to wet down the roof (if it's accessible) and surrounding shrubbery, she says. The evaporation of the water will rapidly cool your home.

"I can't tell a casualty from a casserole."

Motor reward

Bud Campbell is offering cash for the return of his pontoon boat motor stolen last month.

"That wouldn't involve anybody getting arrested or anything like that," said the Clarkston resident, and the reward would be substantial.

He simply wants the $3,000 motor back.

The engine was taken off the boat while it sat in 30 feet of water in Middle Lake behind Campbell's home on Pinehurst Road.

Although it was two years old, the motor was in perfect condition, Campbell said. He had filled the gas tank only three times.

The theft occurred sometime during the evening of July 14-15. The engine's cables were cut, but there was no other damage to the boat. It's Campbell's guess that the thief or thieves worked from a rowboat.

Campbell can be reached at 625-3264.

Wrong-way car crash

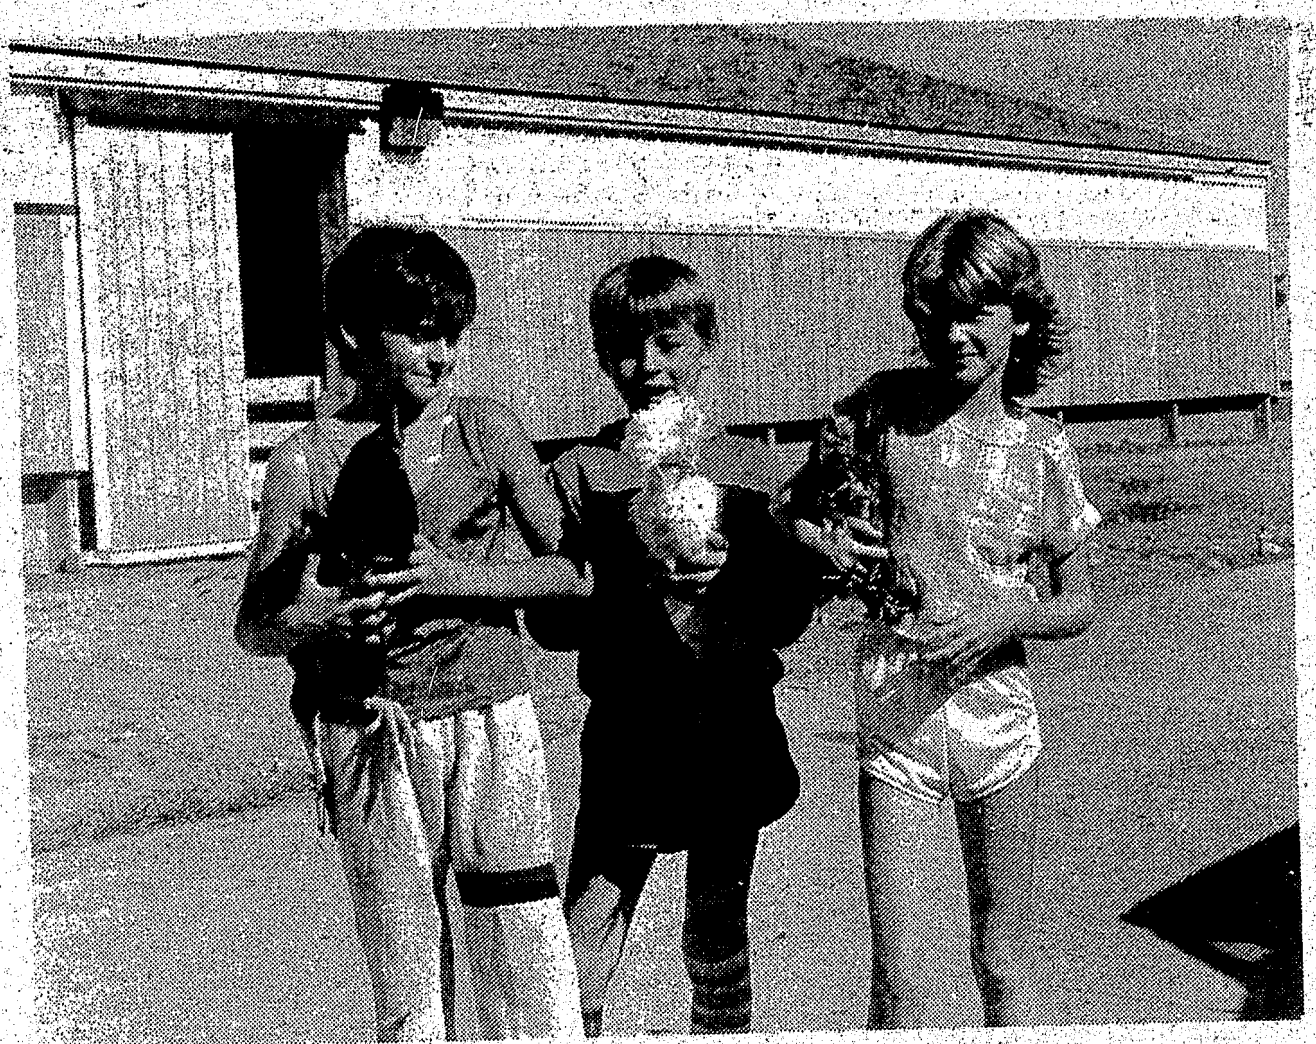

A New York man crossed the median on I-75 July 29 and struck two oncoming cars before stopping, yet only suffered minor bruises, according to an Oakland County Sheriff's Department report.

Phillip White was issued a ticket for driving under the influence of alcohol and was sent to Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital for treatment of minor injuries and then released, the police report said.

White was traveling northbound on I-75 about 7:30 a.m. when he crossed over to the southbound side near the Dixie Highway interchange and struck one car. He bounced off the car and continued traveling the wrong way down the expressway until he hit another car, police said.

Kimberly Carter of Davisburg and Barbara Hickman of Springfield Township were the drivers of the cars that were hit. Neither was seriously injured in the mishap.

Southbound I-75 was closed for a short time while crews cleaned up the wreckage, police said.

Large turnout despite oppressive heat

Historic races remain a hit with fans

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Despite sweltering heat for most of the weekend, the third annual Meadow Brook Historic Races were a resounding success, said Chairman Jim McIntosh.

Temperatures hit a record-high 96 degrees Sunday afternoon but the show went on anyway, he said.

"The crowd was decent, but I noticed that they were sitting around a lot more than in previous years," said McIntosh, a former Waterford Hills Road Racing president who retired from racing two years ago.

People were seeking a cool place to sit and view the races and then not moving again, he added.

While the final attendance figures won't be available until late Wednesday, McIntosh figured they had done quite well.

"We had a good spectator and driver turnout," said McIntosh.

The annual historic races were developed to provide vintage car owners the opportunity to show off their automobiles in a unique way, he said.

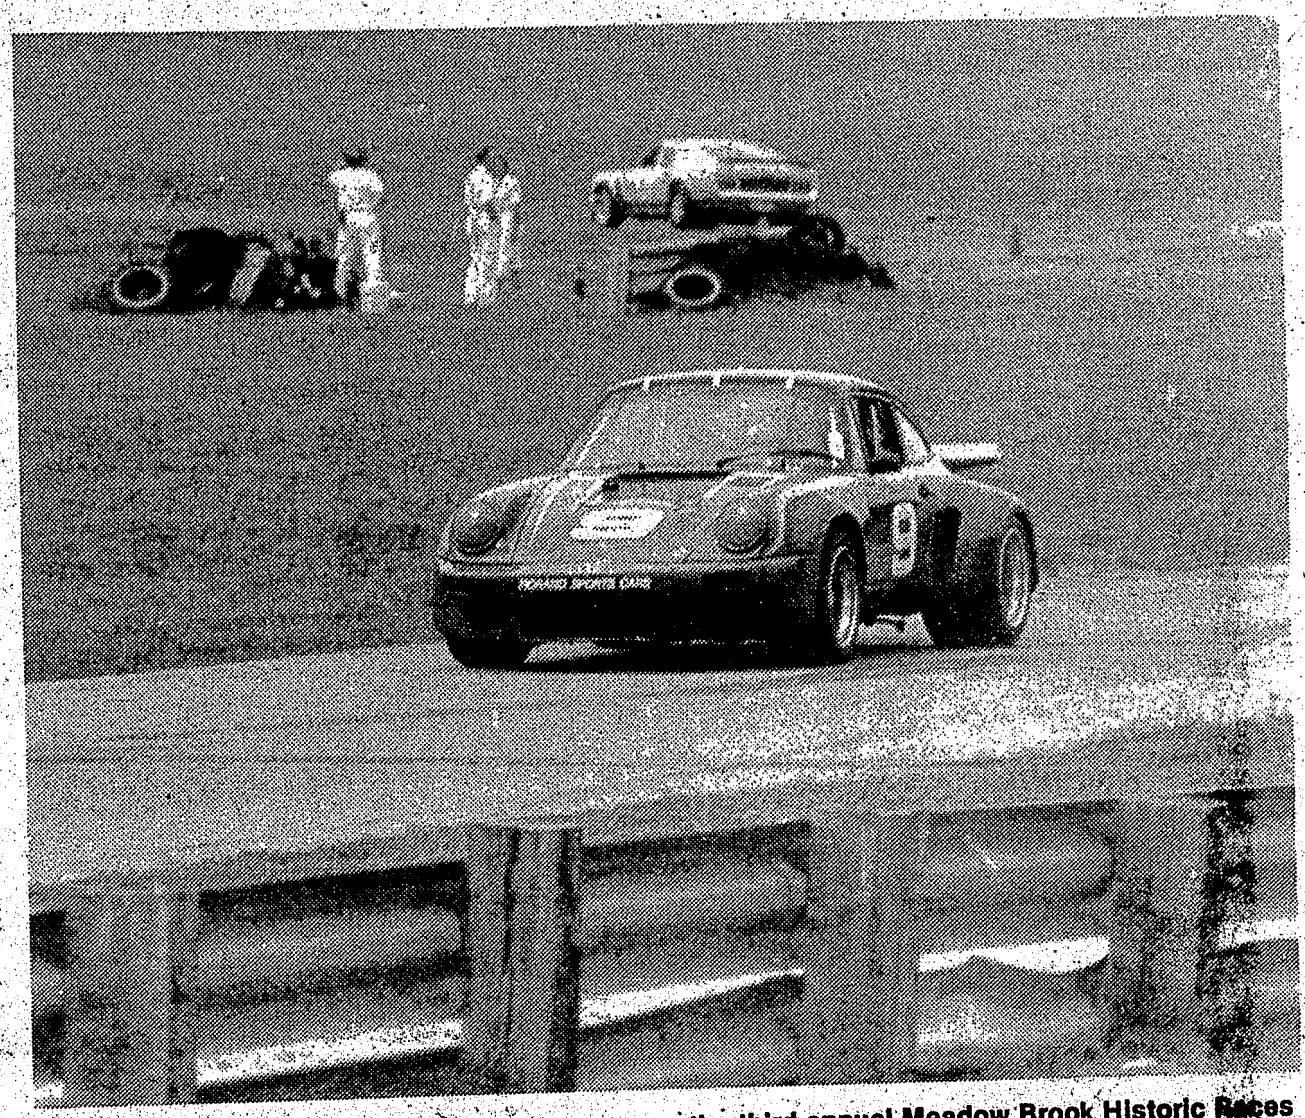

Participants from as far south as Florida and as north as Ontario came to the track at Waterford Hills in Independence Township to take part in the three-day weekend festivities.

The only area resident involved in the races, Clarence Catallo of Clarkston, ran into some bad luck.

On Saturday, Catallo spun out his 1966 Lola racer and didn't finish the race. His luck didn't improve on Sunday when he couldn't get his car started, said McIntosh.

There was plenty of racing for all to see over the weekend as 14 different classes battled it out on the 1.5-mile asphalt course at Waterford Hills.

The honored carmaker this year was Lotus. Two special races were run in which only Lotus cars could enter.

Racers from across North America visted Independence Township over the weekend for the third annual Meadow Brook Historic Races at the Waterford Hills Road Racing Track.

Clarkston goalie sets his sights on college

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

For Robert Laurie, playing hockey has become a way of life.

Laurie, 17, has been on ice skates for the past 12 years of his life, and this summer he participated in a hockey camp in Marquette.

The Amateur Hockey Association of the United States (AHAUS) sponsored the training session on the campus of Northern Michigan University to evaluate, train and identify national caliber players as a part of a development program.

About 100 athletes from the Midwest, many from Minnesota, were invited to the event.

The senior at Clarkston High School was chosen to participate in the program in Marquette from his performance in other AHAUS events, he said.

He jumped at the chance to play in front of a crowd of scouts and coaches, Laurie said.

"You get some exposure from these things," he said.

During the week-long session that began June 28, the athletes were run through various on-ice and off-ice drills. They divided the players into teams and held scrimmages to break the monotony.

As he prepares for his final year in high school, Laurie looks forward to attending college and continuing his hockey career.

At this time, his choice of which school to attend is still wide open.

"I want to go where the need is," said Laurie, adding that he doesn't want to sit on the bench during his college days.

The Marquette program isn't the first camp Laurie has attended. He has also gone to Colorado for a hockey specialty camp.

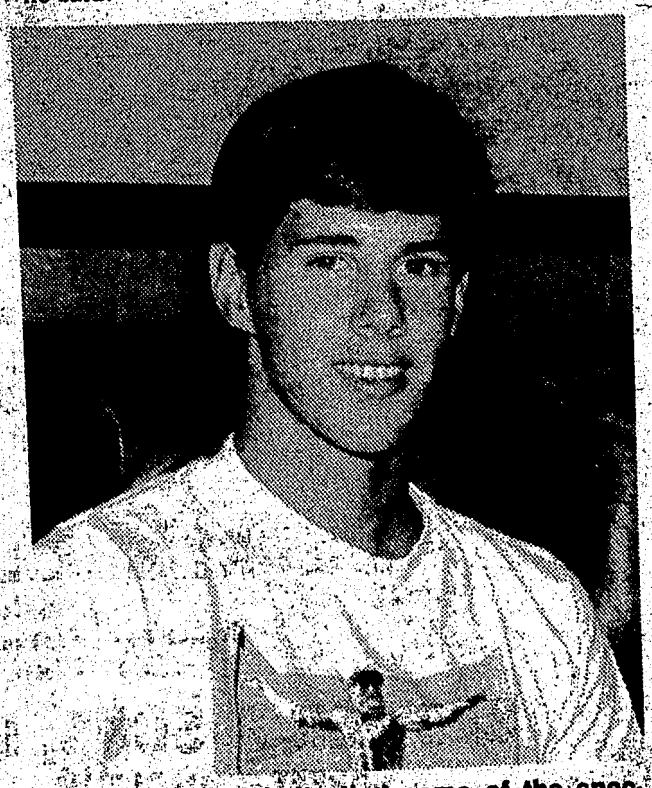

A goaltender, Laurie said he's just learning how to get comfortable at his position.

"I like playing goal because you get to watch the game," he said. "I like to see the rough (physical) stuff."

But that's not to say Laurie's job is all fun and games—not when a frozen rubber object is shot at you at about 90 mph.

"You have to learn not to flinch," he said.

He began his career as a netminder simply because there was a shortage of goalies on the team, he said.

Robert Laurie admits that some of the spectacular saves he makes are sheer luck—but he'll take them all the same.

Now that he's settled into his position between the iron posts, Laurie is ready for all challengers.

As a goalie, the buck (or better yet, the puck) stops with him. If the team wins, he looks good. If they lose, then he looks bad.

Laurie doesn't let the pressure get to him and always looks for a little luck.

"When I make a big save, I feel pretty good," he said. "But half the time those saves are just luck."

Since Clarkston High doesn't have a hockey team, Laurie keeps his skills sharp in a Detroit midget league. He plays for the Bloomfield Jets.

Practice for the upcoming winter season begins in about a month. Until that time, Laurie will stay in shape by playing pick-up games with friends at local ice rinks.

The light-hearted contests are one of Laurie's favorite activities during the off-season.

"I like these games because there is no pressure," he said.

CHS sports tryouts

Tryouts for girls varsity and junior varsity basketball and practice for girls tennis are just around the corner.

Students interested in playing for the Clarkston High basketball teams should bring a completed physical form to the high school gym Aug. 10.

The tryouts for varsity and junior varsity basketball run from 9 a.m. until noon.

Also on Aug. 10, the girls tennis team will hold its first practice at Clintonwood Park from 3 to 5 p.m. A completed physical form is required for all who wish to participate this fall.

For further information on the girls tennis team, call Coach Dick Swartout at 625-1567.

Time out

Fourth and long

Peter Auchter

Boy, how time flies when you have a job.

This is the first summer of my life I have worked full time. It makes a big difference. Unlike other summers, time has quickly disappeared on me.

Memories of the spring-like days of June are still dangling in my mind as we head into a steamy August. Where has most of the summer gone?

This is not a complaint on my part since August is the best time of the year for me. Football season is just around the corner.

I can already hear the crack of the pads, the grunts and the groans, as the gladiators battle it out on the green gridirons for the supremacy of the world.

I'll admit it right now, I'm a football junkie.

It will be especially pleasing this autumn since I won't be going to school and my weekends will be homework free.

All I need now is cable television so I can tune into games around the clock once the football season gets under way.

Football has been in the news a lot already this summer.

Nationally, Kansas City outfielder Bo "I'll take the money and run" Jackson decided to pick up the game as a hobby when the baseball season ends.

Closer to home, the Clarkston area will most likely be represented in the National Football League this upcoming season by Paul Jokisch, who signed with the 49ers recently.

Even closer to home, I'm looking forward to covering Clarkston football, not only on the high school level but every single game in the area that I can possibly attend during the fall months.

Weather permitting, of course. Have you ever tried to write notes down on a soggy piece of paper? How about a soggy piece of shredded wheat? It's hard to tell the difference between the two after a while.

But that doesn't happen too often, so why worry? Football remains my favorite sport, even if I have to sit through rain, sleet and snow to watch a game.

Fighting off the elements is what makes attending football games fun. At least that's what I say now, sitting in an air-conditioned office on Main Street.

Just as the players must go through rigorous training to prepare themselves for the upcoming season, so too must the football junkie.

After all, it takes a lot of stamina to push down hot dog after hot dog while sitting on a damp plastic seat with snowflakes fluttering everywhere.

Getting ready for road games is just as taxing. The television must be properly tuned, the fridge full of (insert favorite beverage here) and the pillows on the couch have to be fluffed.

I'll admit it's a tough job, but somebody has to do it. So why not me?

Now if only the Lions can turn their fortunes around this season, everything will be perfect.

Well, almost everything. I still have to go to work.

Mighty Miss champ crowned

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The J.E. Hurrell & Associates team got off to a fast start en route to winning the Mighty Miss recreation department championship title July 30.

The Hurrell team defeated Country Value Hardware 19-7 in the finals to finish the season with a 12-2 record.

"We've not given the competition much help early in games this season," said Manager Jim Hurrell.

True to form, the Hurrell team scored six times in the opening inning to set the pace of the game quickly. Country Value tried to play catch-up ball, but failed.

Country Value got one back in its half of the first but never could get any closer despite a lot of vocal support from its fans.

Hurrell said that teamwork has helped his club succeed on the diamond.

"When one person is down another comes along and picks up the slack," he said. "That's the way it has been all season."

The biggest inning Country Value had was the fourth when it scored four times. Country Value ends up with a record of 9-5.

Even though they didn't win the championship, Manager Barbara Burge was pleased with what her team accomplished this season.

Last year, the team was totally disorganized. Burge labeled it a "wreck" team. The result was a fourth-place finish.

Country Value rebounded in 1987 and even beat the J.D. Williams team who had previously won the league three times. That was something even the Hurrell team didn't do this season, said Burge.

"The girls have really come a long way," said Burge. "They have been playing against teams who have been together for years and doing well."

Dave Smith, director of the junior league program for the Independence Parks and Recreation Department, awarded trophies to both teams after the game.

3-man golf tournament

A three-man scramble golf tournament will be held at Springfield Oaks Golf Course Aug. 8.

In the tournament, each team hits three shots after choosing the best-positioned ball from the previous shots, according to coordinator Gary Berschbach.

The 18-hole tourney is to begin at 8 a.m. Golfers will be charged $90 per three-man team. Registration deadline is Aug. 6.

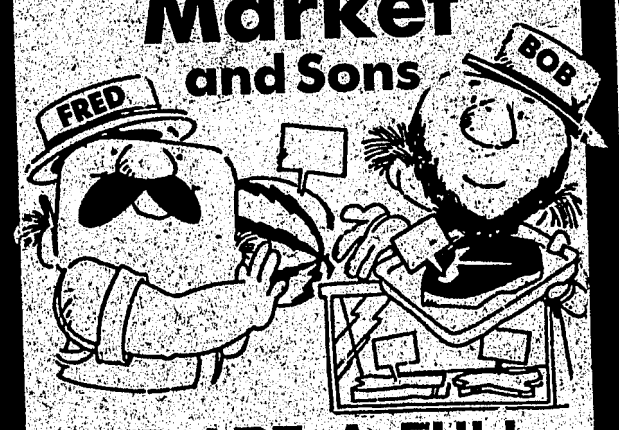

"This is one of the most popular 'scramble' tournaments in the county," said Berschbach.

The event is sponsored by the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission.

Springfield Oaks Golf Course, which hosts several tournaments and invitationals throughout the summer, is on Andersonville Road, near Hall Road, in Springfield Township.

For more information, call Berschbach at 625-2540.

Merchants closer to title

The Clarkston Merchants, a senior citizen softball team, took a big step toward contending for the league title July 29.

The Merchants defeated the league-leading Warren Raiders twice on the road to up their record to 8-3 in the Northeast/Northwest Senior Citizen Softball League.

Warren leads the league with a 10-3 mark. Clarkston finishes its season on the road Aug. 5 with a double-header against Oak Park.

Should the Merchants pull off another sweep of the Oak Park club, they would tie for the league title.

"We're all charged up," said player Ray Koskela of the Merchants games versus Oak Park. "We are looking forward to playing them. They claim that they are a good team."

Against Warren, Clarkston defeated the Raiders 9-6 and 3-2.

In the opening game, the Merchants trailed 6-4 heading into their final at-bats when the team exploded to score five times.

The big hit in the inning was delivered by George Messinger. He had a bases loaded double to spark the rally.

Strong defensive play and the pitching of Bob Waddell helped keep Clarkston close early, Koskela said.

The Merchants turned the tables on the Raiders in the second game when they were the ones to grab the early lead.

Clarkston scored twice in the opening inning and then blanked Warren until the bottom of the final inning.

The Raiders scored twice to tie the game but couldn't get the winning run in.

Clarkston won the game in extra innings when Harry Stormer scored on a sacrifice fly by Earl Mudge.

...but he still caught ball

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Chamberlain brothers will always remember the July 26 softball game against Buddy's Pizza.

Ron Chamberlain, 23, was playing left field for Sadows Auction Galleries team in the first inning on that Sunday afternoon at Clintonwood Park in Independence Township.

"He was going back for a long fly ball and he fell and hit a fence pole," said Ron's brother Jeff, 19. "He broke the bone beneath his eye."

Ron went to Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital and the rest of the Sadows team continued the game.

In the third inning, Jeff was on the mound.

"I was pitching, and a line drive hit my finger and busted it all up," he said.

So, he, too, went to POH. Ron was still waiting to be seen in the emergency room, so they waited together.

"It was wild," said Jeff. "When my mom got the second call from the hospital, they told her they had Jeff. My mom thought it was a mistake because they just told her about Ron. But it wasn't a mistake."

The team managed to finish the game without Jeff and Ron, but they didn't win.

"My dad was playing, too, and he survived," he said.

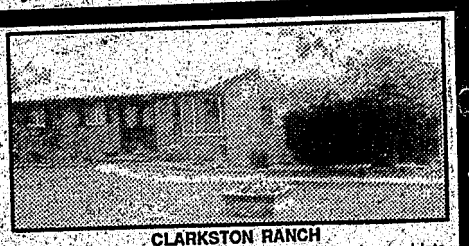

Ron was still in the hospital Monday and Jeff's finger had been wired back together, he said, adding he was out for the season.

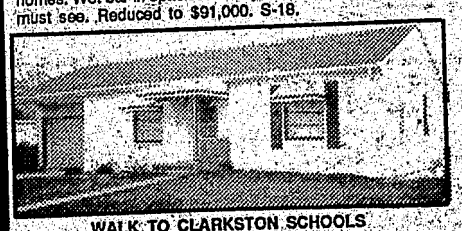

"But, hey, Ron caught the ball!" said Jeff.

Gold joins Cowan Clinic

Dr. Ron Gold recently joined the staff at Cowan Chiropractic Clinic on Sashabaw Road, Independence Township. Born in Detroit, Gold is a graduate of Southfield Lathrup High School. He attended Arkansas Tech University and Grand Valley State College and was graduated from Life Chiropractic College in Marietta, Ga., on June 18. Gold's interests include basketball, running and swimming.

McCurdy promoted

Cheryl R. McCurdy, former quality assurance manager of the General Motors Hydra-matic Willow Run Plant, was promoted July 1 to operations manager of Plant One. A Clarkston area resident, McCurdy was graduated from General Motors Institute, Flint, in 1973 with a bachelor's degree in industrial engineering and in 1986 received her master's degree in business administration from the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

Blood needed

Blood donations traditionally decline during summer months but never the need which is constant, according to the American Red Cross.

The Red Cross Bloodmobiles will be at St. Daniel Catholic Church, 7010 Valley Park Dr., from 8:30 a.m. until 2:30 p.m. on Aug. 16. For an appointment, call Arline Moore at 625-4580.

Blood can be donated by anyone in good health between the ages of 17 and 70 who weighs a minimum of 110 pounds. Donating blood takes less than an hour, is relatively painless and can save as many as four lives.

Donations are also accepted at the Bloomfield Donor Center, 2388 Franklin Rd., Bloomfield Hills. For an appointment, call 494-2871 or 494-2802.

To kill a bug

They swarm in your barbecue. They bite you as you mow the lawn. They'll be your uninvited house guests.

These creepy, crawling, flying, biting creatures can ruin that afternoon nap you planned in the back yard as well as a camping or fishing trip.

To help reduce the mosquito population in your back yard, Elaine Glasser, home economist for Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service, offers the following suggestions:

•Dump out pails, pans and any open containers after a rain. Get rid of old tires or puncture them to drain water. Mosquito eggs must be in water to hatch and these containers make ideal breeding grounds.

•Fill in drain areas where water stands—gutters, ditches and low areas in your yard. Mosquitoes even like holes in trees that collect water.

•Repair holes in your tent before you set out. Mosquitoes are tiny (smaller than ¼ inch) and only need a tiny hole to get to you.

•Wear long-sleeved shirts and long pants in the early mornings and evenings when mosquitoes are most likely to strike. The less skin you expose, the less of a target you are.

Putting the finishing touches on the heating units inside the new station is Mark McCusker, an employee of O'Brien Waterford Construction, the general contractor. The building replaced the 44-year-old building that had housed a tractor store before becoming the township's second fire station. The new building can sleep eight and holds a classroom, office, weight room and a bay for five trucks.

Ready for use

Rod Shaul helps prepare the ground around Independence Township Fire Station No. 2 for seeding. Independence Township firefighters got permission from the township board to landscape the new station at Sashabaw and Clarkston roads in exchange for jackets and hats they had been wanting, according to Fire Chief Gar Wilson, who says they could do the job for half the money of a contractor. Hot dogs and beverages were also supplied to the firefighters-turned-gardeners on Saturday.

Fire Chief Gar Wilson didn't just give the orders, he got involved in the landscaping project.

Friendly faces

Smiles bloom with flowers

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Roses, daisies, carnations and baby's breath are the customary surroundings of Becky Holman.

A part-time floral designer at Country Greens, Main Street, Clarkston, Becky loves all the flowers, especially the more unusual ones, she said

Working on Mondays and Saturdays, Becky cares for the plants, changes the displays, tends customers and cleans flowers, in addition to arranging fresh, silk and dried flowers.

"That's what I like here. We all do everything here," she said.

She learned her skills at the Southwest Oakland Vocational Education Center in Walled Lake about 15 years ago, and she's used the knowledge in different jobs since.

But she especially likes working at Country Greens.

"I liked this store and the way that they did things," said Becky.

"Usually, everybody is really friendly. And flowers are such a fun thing. People come in and say, 'Oh, we'd love to work here.'

"Usually, people buy flowers for fun things—birthdays, babies, anniversaries. We sell dead flowers for 40th birthdays."

The hardest arrangements to make are for funerals, she said, adding it's difficult to see people grieve.

A Michigamme Road, Independence Township, resident, she drives only 10 minutes to get to work, which is a benefit, she said.

"And I like working right down the street from Rick," said Becky.

Rick, her husband, is the Independence Township Clerk and his office is also on Main Street, Clarkston.

With two children at home, Erica, 7, and Jessica, 4, the job gives Becky a chance to leave the house and work in the field she enjoys.

"They're busy girls. They like to come in the store, and they love it when I bring home flowers," she said.

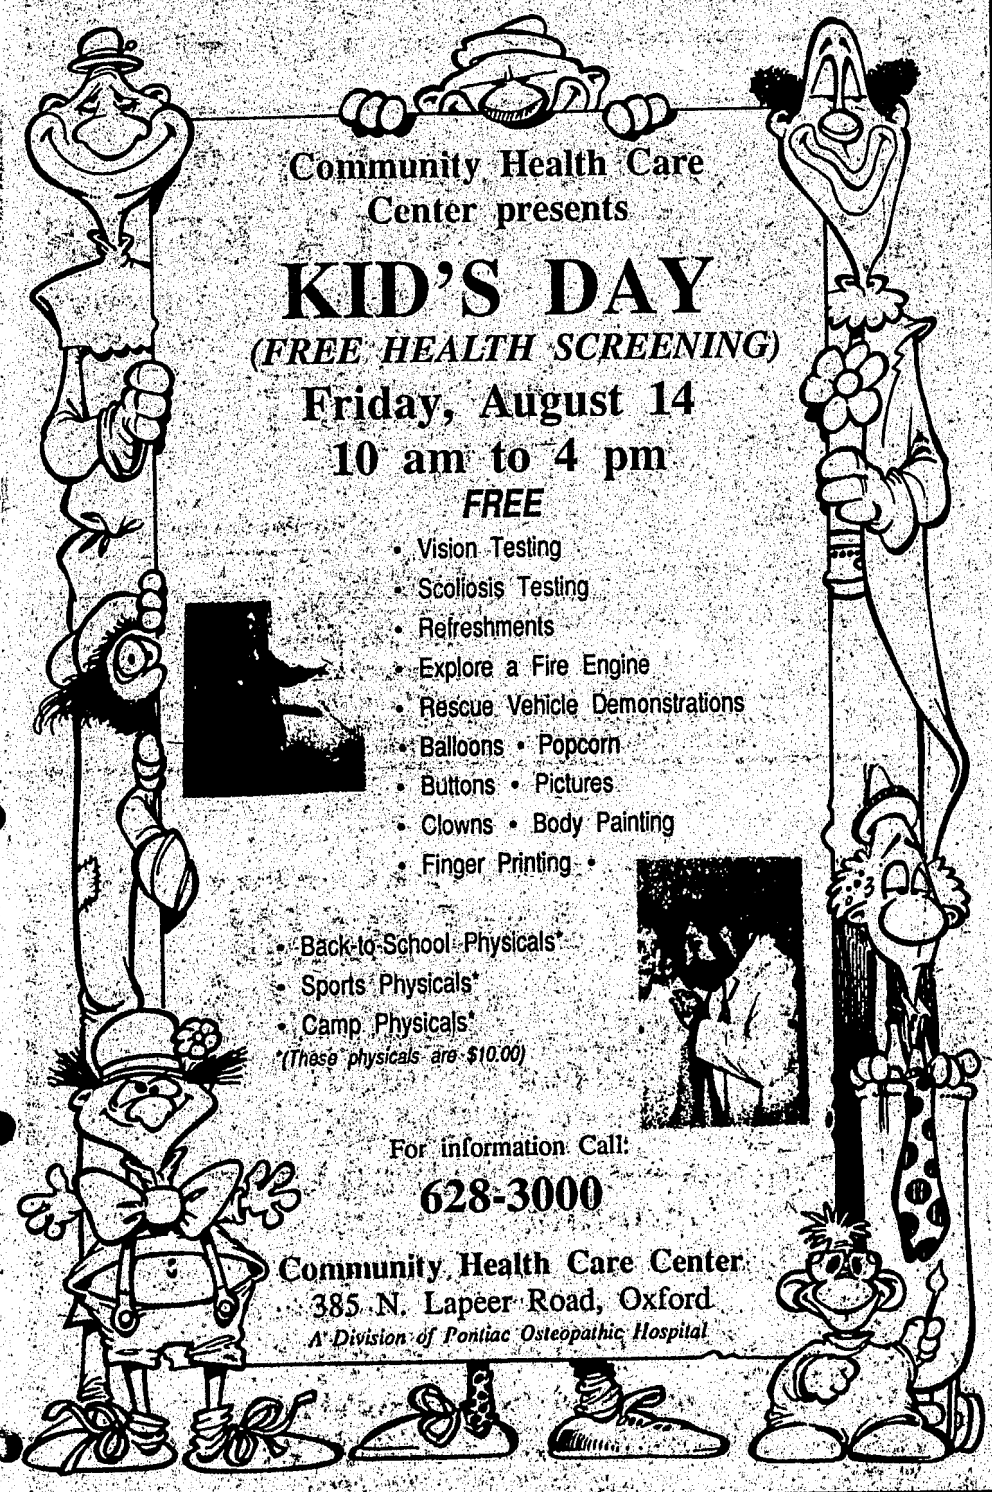

At work, Becky's co-workers appreciate her.

"She's just a fun person, easy going, real easy to get along with," said Wendy Enneking. "She's just a happy person, and she's always intrested in what she's doing."

Do you know someone who works in the Clarkston area and deserves recognition for a job well done? We'd like to share your praise. Drop us a line at The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main, Clarkston, MI 48016 or call 625-3370.

"I'm usually happy to be here," says Becky Holman, explaining her smiles.

Cheryl Tiedeman, Oakland County 4-H queen for 1987, poses with Mickey, a pig she is showing at the 4-H fair this week at the Springfield Oaks Activities Center. The Oakland County 4-H Fair continues through Aug. 8 at the Springfield Oaks Activities Center on Andersonville Road, Springfield Township.

Teen queen reigns over 4-H Fair

Cheryl Tiedeman, a Groveland Township 4-H'er, holds one of her favorite 4-H projects, a paper tole picture.

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Oakland County 4-H Fair week (Aug. 3-8) is especially busy for Cheryl Tiedeman, a Brandon High School senior.

Cheryl has been named Oakland County 4-H queen, and is reigning over the '87 fair with Ron Keen, 4-H king. The court includes runners-up Kevin Scramlin and Cindy Applegate.

Cheryl won the honor through judging on leadership, county and state 4-H projects and 4-H awards. Candidates were interviewed separately by a panel of two judges.

As 4-H queen, Cheryl will participate in many activities. With a long-time interest in clowning, she helped put clown faces on children in Brandon Township during a recent program.

In addition to her queenly obligations at the fair, Cheryl is showing her pigs.

She has worked with pigs for the last four years in 4-H and has also shown rabbits, plants and flowers, sewing projects and crafts including paper tole, string art and country wood carving.

As an 11-year veteran of 4-H, Cheryl has won many awards, but her biggest honor came last year when she earned national 4-H Congress, the highest 4-H award.

"It was so much fun," she says. "We stayed in an elegant hotel downtown (the Chicago Hilton and Towers) and dressed up all the time."

She was there for one week in December and says she not only enjoyed meeting other 4-H'ers from all over the country, but enjoyed seeing the beautiful Christmas decorations in downtown Chicago as well.

Cheryl says she filled out "lots of records from all my years in 4-H" to win the national 4-H Congress honor. She had to focus on one project for the judging and she chose crafts. She first won district and then state with her crafts.

"I know I've enjoyed all the things I've done in 4-H," Cheryl says.

Her mother, Marlene, adds, "And I know it takes a lot of parental help, too." She has been an active "4-H mom" for many years.

Cheryl lives on Oakhill Road in Groveland Township with her parents, Chuck and Marlene, and older sister, Christine, a college student who has also been active in 4-H for many years.

"4-H is neat because of meeting all the new friends, and learning to do so many different things," Cheryl says. "I've gotten so much out of it. If I have kids, I hope they will be in 4-H."

Gems from Emerald Isle

Betty Wagner

A three week motor trip through Ireland prompts me to offer traditional as well as microwave recipes for this article, as microwave ovens are not prevalent on the Emerald Isle.

The only one I saw was in a castle occupied by a retired English couple. A few other people said they had one but seldom used it.

I had been told that the food of Ireland was bland, but if you love very fresh fish, fresh vegetables, salads and whole-grain breads, then few spices are needed to enhance the natural taste. Maybe that is considered bland to some.

Each morning began with an Irish breakfast of Muesli (a dry cereal of wheat, oats, raisins and nuts) or porridge (hot oatmeal) followed by bacon (similar to our ham), sausage and eggs.

But the most enjoyable breakfast offering for me was the whole-meal (whole-wheat) soda bread that must be eaten fresh.

For lunch, "pub grub" could be a real treat if we found one that served homemade soup, especially mushroom or hearty beef, and smoked salmon on brown bread or fresh salmon salad.

A pint of Guinness or Smithwicks certainly enhanced the taste of any lunch. Coffee, afterwards, was served with floating whipped cream or fresh butter.

I could never seem to resist fresh salmon either poached or grilled for dinner. Fresh caught lobster, crab claws and many other flat round fish were also wonderfully delicious served as either appetizers or entrees.

And potatoes, the Irish staple, were always served for dinner, either baked, steamed, boiled, roasted or mashed and mixed with milk and chives and called Champ.

Many other fresh vegetables accompanied the evening meal. And the salad greens were very tender, sweet and hardly needed a dressing.

At some restaurants, a cheese course was offered before dessert. Ireland is experiencing a revival of farmhouse cheeses. Some that I sampled and enjoyed were the strong-flavored soft Milleens, the unique creamy soft Cashel Blue and the soft plain and smoked Gubbeen.

How fortunate I was to visit Giana Ferguson's Dairy Farm and watch her make the Gubbeen cheese.

My favorite dessert was Irish Coffee; however, the meringues, light lemony cheesecakes and Bailey's Irish Cream Cake were delicious too.

A definite highlight of my Irish holiday were the three glorious days spent at The Balleymaloe Cooking School under the direction of Darina Allen.

What a beautiful and bountiful Cook's Holiday she provides with her mother and father-in-law, Myrtle and Ivan Allen; brother, Rory O'Connell; and other family members.

FRESH SALMON STEAK

Serves 2

¾ pound fresh salmon steak
Non-stick vegetable spray or 1 tablespoon butter
Lemon
Fresh, snipped parsley
Microwave browning grill

Spray grill with vegetable spray; preheat at high for 8 minutes. If using butter, add after preheating. Press salmon steak onto grill. Microwave at high for 2½ minutes.

Turn, squeeze lemon over steak; microwave for 2 to 2½ minutes more or until steak is barely cooked. Sprinkle with chopped parsley and let stand for 3 minutes. Serve with lemon wedges.

EVELYN WRYNN'S BROWN SODA BREAD

10 ounces whole-wheat flour (2¼ cup plus 1 tablespoon)
1 tablespoon bran
8 ounces white flour (nearly 2 cups)
1 teaspoon baking soda
2 ounces margarine (½ stick)
1½ to 2 cups buttermilk

Sift flour and soda together. Cut margarine into flour till crumbs. Add milk to moisten. Knead on board, with a shaking of flour, till you can lift dough (not too long).

Put into greased cake tin. Cut a cross on top. Bake at 400 degrees for 40 minutes. Reduce temperature after 20 minutes to 350 degrees. Serve immediately.

IRISH COFFEE

Heat glass by pouring hot water into it. Stand a teaspoon in the water. Pour out water and add very hot coffee, sweetened to taste. Add Irish whiskey. Remove spoon from coffee.

With another spoon, slide freshly whipped cream over the spoon and onto the coffee. This procedure allows the cream to float on top of the coffee. Sip the coffee through the cream.

Home economist Betty Wagner resides in Independence Township. Her Microwave Plus cable-TV show airs Mondays through Thursdays at 7 p.m. on Independence-Clarkston Channel 11.

Tafoya, Braun wed in Colorado

Denise Tafoya and Erich Braun were united in marriage June 20 in Colorado Springs, Colo.

The Rev. P. Pederson performed the 2 p.m. ceremony under large yellow and white canopies banked with matching flower arrangements in the garden of the couple's new home.

The bride wore a white silk tea-length dress with a fitted bodice and carried yellow and white roses and lillies.

The matron of honor, Martha Tindell, sister of the bride from Belen, N.M., wore a pale yellow tea-length silk gown.

The best man was Randy McAlexander of Colorado Springs.

The bride, a graduate of New Mexico State University, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eloy Tafoya of Belen. She is a first-grade teacher at Colorado Springs District 11 Taylor Elementary School.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Clarkston High School and Northwestern Michigan College, Traverse City, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Braun of Deer Lake Road, Independence Township. He is employed by Lazy H construction.

The couple took their wedding trip to Montego Bay, Jamaica.

Newlyweds: Erich and Denise Braun.

Biology booster

Mary Fowler, a Clarkston High School science teacher, was one of 30 teachers selected to participate in a five-week workshop at Michigan State University, East Lansing, in June.

Sponsored by the National Science Foundation and MSU, the workshop created new laboratory exercises and developed lecture presentations in molecular biology.

The workshop's goal was to create opportunities for high school students to experiment in molecular biology and gain better insights into potential uses and careers in the field.

An Apple for the Teacher

Never the mother-of-the-bride, but . . .

by Jan Modesitt

Marlene Reed, who teaches family living and psychology at Clarkston High School, was born in Milwaukee, Wis., but grew up in the area of Hancock.

While attending Suomi College in the upper peninsula, Marlene met Lynn Reed, a young student from New York, who is now her husband of 25 years.

Marlene and Lynn married and moved to California, where they both attended Fresno State. Upon Lynn's completion of his teaching degree, the Reeds moved back to Michigan.

Marlene finished her degree work on a B.A. in social studies at Oakland University, Rochester, with a major in psychology and a minor in United States history.

After doing her student teaching at East Hills Junior High in Bloomfield Hills, Marlene became an integral part of the teaching staff in social studies at CHS for 19 years.

Marlene is quick to cite the importance of "family" in her life. Her husband is a professor of physical education at OCC, where he also coaches the men's basketball team. He is a former coach of the cross-country running team.

Lynn's basketball team was recently crowned the National College Champions of the 1987 season, and Lynn was awarded several coaching honors including being named Division II coach of the year.

Marlene and Lynn have two sons, of whom they are justifiably proud.

Their older son Darren, 23 and a graduate of the U.S. Air Force Academy in Colorado, is currently serving his active duty as a jet pilot stationed at the Strategic Air Command (SAC) Base in Loring, Maine. Brett is a 14-year-old junior high student active in basketball, football, track and band.

The Reed family is a close-knit family, one that enjoys traveling together and sharing family interests, primarily in the sports area.

When asked about her hobbies, Marlene doesn't pause for a second before smiling and responding, "shop, shop, shop!"

In addition to this evident favorite hobby, she finds enjoyment and satisfaction in reading, gardening, needle-point projects and (when time permits) painting portraits in oil.

In the classroom, Marlene is strong on discipline and professionalism, yet her kind and caring personality, her evident sensitivity to students' needs and her ability to be comfortable with the subject matter of her courses make for usually large class sizes.

"The kids make it so worthwhile to be teaching."
—Marlene Reed

Marlene's teaching strategies encourage abundant student involvement and interaction. She helps her students realize that the learning process can be enjoyable as well as informative and stimulating.

In all her classes, Marlene frequently uses resource people from the local community as well as additional persons from Oakland and surrounding counties.

She is greatly appreciative of the time and experience that such resource people offer to her students as they pursue the course objectives.

Although Marlene will never be "Mother-of-the-Bride" (since she has two sons), she has helped arrange and plan numerous "weddings" during her years of teaching family living at CHS.

One of the class projects each semester that continues to be particularly effective is that of the "wedding" including an area clergyman and complete with cake and punch after the "ceremony."

Two years ago, Marlene was rear-ended in a car accident which resulted in injuries to her knees, back and neck. At this point, she has undergone two surgeries (with still more to come) and lots of physical therapy.

Making no excuses for herself, she admits that during her long recovery period, the days and weeks in the classroom have been exhausting and oftentimes painful, yet she praises her students for their understanding and helpful attitude, claiming that "the kids make it so worthwhile to be teaching."

Marlene's hope is that as a result of her classes, the students will learn additional coping skills in dealing with "real life issues" and that each student will come to better understand others as well as to understand himself/herself.

Her philosophy on youth and teaching can be observed throughout her room in the various quotations and thoughts that are posted.

One of her favorites, which Marlene strives to illustrate through her teaching, is that "young people need models, not critics."

An Apple for the Teacher is provided through a committee of the Clarkston Education Association. This week's author is Jan Modesitt, a mathematics teacher at Clarkston High School.

Twirler dreams of becoming Golden Girl

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

As far as Carrie McAlister is concerned, bigger is better.

That's why the 11-year-old Independence Township resident practices her baton twirling skills so much—she likes the rewards.

"I'll continue to do this until I get sick of it and that will be quite a while," said Carrie.

Carrie, who resides on Oakhill Road, recently won a second-place trophy in a World Twirling Association competition in Lansing that is almost as big as she is.

The award weighed in at 15 pounds.

She has nestled the huge award around the many others that decorate the McAlisters' living room. The rest of her 115 trophies are stored in the basement.

The latest title Carrie claimed is Miss Petite Majorette of Michigan. She won that title at a competition in Livonia during the month of May.

To win the lofty titles and weighty awards, a young girl must be judged in four different phases, said Carrie.

The participants must twirl a baton, do a fancy strut (twirling with gymnastic moves), model and perform in a talent show.

In the talent portion of the program, Carrie sings.

To help keep herself at the top of the hill, Carrie plans to enroll in ballet and gymnastics courses to learn different moves and improve old ones.

Carrie picked up baton twirling only two years ago when she noticed someone practicing in a school yard, she said.

Once she became interested in baton twirling she began by putting on "shows" for her family in their back yard.

As luck would have it, Carrie lives near a nationally recognized twirling coach, June Lauer, and soon was practicing four hours a day to perfect her skills.

The only problem she has run into has been finding a place to practice. A school's gymnasium is a good spot, but scheduling time between events during the school year proves difficult, she said.

Practice tends to get boring, but the thought of competing against the best never does, Carrie said.

"The competition is inspiring," she said of the many meets she has entered in Michigan, Ohio and Indiana.

Carrie has competed for about two and a half years and has won first-place trophies against girls who have twirled batons for five or six years.

Carrie hoes her hard work will pay off in the future. She has dreams of becoming a Golden Girl for the marching band at Purdue University in West Lafayette, Ind.

The Purdue band has a special section for baton twirlers and the Golden Girl position is the "leader of the pack."

Carrie McAlister will perform in North Carolina this summer at a national competition. That will be the farthest she has ever traveled to compete.

Carrie will travel to North Carolina for a national competition this summer. The day will mark the first time she has ever competed outside the Midwest region.

A question

David Kwasnick

What is college? According to Webster, college is "an independent institution of higher learning."

Is that it? I think maybe ol' Daniel isn't quite sure what college is either. Or at least that's how it seems.

Actually, there are many times when I'm not sure what to think about college.

I've heard all different points of view. Some current college students say that college is an incredible think-tank in which all your time is spent slaving over studies on a dorm room desk.

And parties? I'm sorry, you hardly have enough time to go to the bathroom, let alone join in frivolous social activities.

Is this college?

Others speak of college like it's some sort of extended summer camp for young adults.

Yeah, dude, college is a real blast. It couldn't be better. Why last night me and the boys downed that keg like it was nothin'! And the night before that, I . . . . Huh, my grade point average? Well, it's .95, but I'm, um, tryin' real hard. Besides, if I flunk out here, there are plenty of other colleges that'll take me, I think . . .

Is this college?

To tell you the truth, I don't know the answer to the question, "What is college?" But I also don't know if there is any one answer.

I tend to think there isn't. It seems it's up to the individual going off to college to make of it whatever he or she wants. Everyone who goes on to a higher education holds his or her own individual answer.

What is college? It's whatever you want it to be, plain and simple.

Area woman earns county honor

BY KATHY GREENFIELD
Clarkston News Editor

Jeanne Molzon is one of 60 women who will be honored as "Oakland County's First Ladies" at a reception Oct. 7 when the Artrain comes to the Oakland County Service Center in Pontiac.

"It's totally overwhelming and very exciting," said the Independence Township resident.

Molzon was unaware she had been nominated for the honor until she received notification of the award by mail.

The award will recognize women who have given their time and energy to their communities without fail and without fanfare.

Before joining the staff of Clarkston Community Education four years ago, Molzon's volunteer activities in Clarkston schools and her church frequently surpassed the normal 40-hour work week.

Now employed full-time as Youth Activities Coordinator for community education, her volunteer activities have dwindled, but she continues to be active in the volunteer movement.

She was elected vice president of the Michigan State Volunteer Program for 1987-88. Established last year, the group meets three to four times a annually and hosts a statewide convention for school volunteers.

"It's really just a double honor to have both things this year," she said.

While the Michigan Sesquicentennial Oakland County Advisory Council is not revealing who made the 60 nominations for "First Ladies" of Michigan, the council was so impressed with the nominees that each will be honored, said Virginia DeBenham Rodgers, chairperson of the county council.

"We felt that they were worthy of recognition, every one of them," she said. "Obviously their peers, co-workers or friends felt they deserved recognition, so we will honor them all."

From the 60 names, the county council nominated 17 for the state award and eight were selected by Michigan Women's Commission in Lansing. The numbers were determined by population density.

"They were excellent, every one of them," said Rodgers. "It was so difficult."

Only the names of the eight state award-winners were released and Molzon, the only Clarkston-Davisburg area woman nominated, was not on the list, Rodgers said.

The eight will be part of 150 women from across the state honored as "First Ladies" for Michigan as the Women's Commission's contribution to the state's 150th birthday celebration.

Clarkston connection

A naturalist working at Mackinac Island State Park has a Clarkston connection.

Paul Zelenak, a 1977 graduate of Clarkston High School, serves as the guide for a free, one-mile tour on the north end of the island.

Cathie Evans, a 1978 graduate of Clarkston High School and Springfield Township resident, went on the 40-minute excursion during a visit to the island.

"It's just a nice little tour," said Evans. "It was real interesting and he's the only one doing this. This is the first year of the program."

Zelenak identifies trees, plants and wildlife and answers questions from the walkers.

Zelenak worked at other jobs before deciding to return to school to study forestry, she said, and he is now a student at Lake Superior State College.

The tour is offered Saturdays through Thursdays at noon, 1:30 and 2:30 p.m. The starting point is near British Landing and the tour includes a climb up a 45-foot-high observation tower.

Seniors to compete in state olympics

Seniors can showcase their athletic abilities and have fun, too, at the eighth annual Michigan Senior Olympics on Saturday, Aug. 15.

Open to persons age 55 and over, the olympics will take place from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at Oakland Community College-Orchard Ridge Campus, on Orchard Lake Road in Farmington Hills.

The competition will feature leisure-oriented (open) events, including arts and crafts, shuffleboard, golf putting, dancing and checkers, as well as traditional (closed) sporting events, such as archery, track and field, cycling and swimming.

"We've designed a number of events for passively active, as well as athletically inclined seniors," chief of parks Dan Stencil said. "We're trying to get as many seniors involved as possible.

"The state olympics includes all the pomp that the national event has. Senior athletes march onto the field during an opening ceremony. It's exciting for the participants as well as the spectators," he added.

Participants must pay a $2 registration fee. In addition, those who want to compete in closed events must pay $1 per event. There is no entry fee for open events. Registration deadline is July 23.

Every athlete will receive an official Michigan Senior Olympic T-shirt. Medals will be awarded to the top three places in individual closed events. Ribbons will be awarded to the top five places in open events. Athletes will also receive meal tickets.

The senior olympics are sponsored by Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission, Michigan Recreation and Park Association, Blue Cross-Blue Shield of Michigan and the Coburn Clinic.

More information is available by calling 656-1403.

Class on wills

A class on "Do-It-Yourself Wills" is being offered by the MSU Cooperative Extension Service of Oakland on Monday, Aug. 17, from 7 to 9 p.m.

Tim Currier, attorney, will be the speaker for the evening at the Oakland County Health Department, 1200 N. Telegraph Rd., Pontiac. The cost is $2 a person.

The new Michigan Statutory Will Law now allows residents to write their own legal wills. For those who have an uncomplicated estate, the class offers practical instructions for preparing a do-it-yourself will and pointers on how to avoid common problems.

After the will is completed, it must be witnessed by three adults who have not been designated to receive money or possessions. The will may be filed in probate court ($5 fee) or kept in a safe location.

For further information on do-it-yourself wills or to register for the class, call the extension service at 858-0895.

View vintage fashions

Admission is free to the Vintage Fashion Show and Ice Cream Social on Sunday, Aug. 9, at St. Anne Church in Brandon Township.

The Ladies Guild is sponsoring the event, a celebration of Michigan's 150th birthday, from 2 to 4 p.m. at the church, 825 S. Ortonville Rd.

Fashions will be provided by the Ortonville and Holly historical societies and residents are modeling their own vintage clothing. Calcote Country of Clarkston is also donating the use of fashions and floral arrangements.

Ice cream sundaes will be sold.

ACTION AND EDUCATION AWARE WAR ON DRUGS

Dear Friend to Friend,

My parents insist that I go to church with them every Sunday. I get tired of them pusing their religion down my throat. I like to sleep in on Sunday mornings and relax. Tell me how I can convince them to leave me alone!

Lazy Sunday Lover

Dear Lazy Sunday,

There are many components to a human being—emotional, physical, mental and spiritual. Often, as teenagers, we may neglect one of these areas for a while, but it is important to develop all of them.

We side with your parents that you should go to church and get a good background on what religion is and really means. When you are out on your own, then you can make a logical choice about religion; but not knowing about it would be unfair to you when you have to make that choice.

However, many churches offer services at a variety of times, and maybe you can compromise with your parents. But talk to them, and listen to what they have to say. Fighting and shouting will get you nowhere.

Personally, we think you are lucky to be getting your religious background and that your parents want to spend this time with you on Sundays. Try to make the best out of this, and who knows? You may really enjoy it.

Dear Friend to Friend,

I am a girl, 15-years old. My problem is that I am 6 feet tall! I keep getting remarks such as "How's the weather up there? Suffer many nose bleeds?"

I was at a pool party in my bikini and heard some girls giggling that I looked like a broomstick with two bandaids. I wanted to die.

Finding dates is another problem. My brother, who is 6 feet, 4 inches, goes out with a girl of 5 feet, 5 inches. Everyone thinks they are a cute couple, but if I even talk to a guy that short, all of the smart remarks start again.

I'm on the girls basketball team, but I want a "normal" life after basketball. HELP!

Sad Green Giant

Dear Sad Giant,

We have empathy for you, yet at the same time, we are jealous. We know at 15 that your peer group can be very mean, also that the majority of boys your age haven't started their growth spurts.

Everybody has physical features that they aren't proud of, and the more you worry about them, the more you emphasize your vulnerability.

Kids can pick up on what bothers you, and many times, that makes them want to tease you all the more. That's the down side.

The positive side is that tall, thin women are in! Many of the models and actresses are striving for that tall look. That's why we girls are jealous, and it may be why those girls were teasing you.

Another plus is boys your age are beginning their growing process and will soon be catching up to you. Many boys and men feel that they aren't tall enough, and many girls and women feel they are too tall. Some think they're too fat, others, too thin.

We are all guilty of letting others dictate how we should feel about ourselves, but it boils down to: YOU HAVE TO LEARN TO LIKE YOURSELF!

Doing things like you are, joining the basketball team, will help you build self esteem. Keep finding other things that make you feel good.

Another thing you might try is going to one of the larger department stores and getting professional help in your choice of clothes. The same clothes don't look good on everyone, and finding the right ones for your body style could make a difference in how you feel (That bikini might not have been the most flattering for your figure).

Be nice to others, and do things to make yourself feel better, and others will notice you for the real you.

Dear Friend to Friend:

I live at home with my mother and stepfather. I don't have a problem with my stepfather. I actually get along with him pretty well.

But not with my mother. She is always so critical and against everything I do. She doesn't like my friends, the way I dress or the concerts I like to go to.

I've thought about running away, but I like the school I go to, and my friends where I live. What do you suggest?

Ready to Run Away

Dear Ready:

Thank goodness you haven't run away yet. That will probably only lead to big problems for you, and the chances of it solving your problem ma; be slim.

Instead, you might let someone you trust know that you've thought of running away. In your situation, it might be your stepfather, whom you seem to like and trust. If he can be a friend, perhaps he can act as a go-between with your mother.

A serious discussion between the three of you might then be held. It is important that in such a meeting that you be able to say some of the things that have bothered you and that you would like to have a better relationship with your mother.

Such a discussion or meeting is not likely to solve all the problems, but it could be a useful start. In fact, afterwards, you might need to begin working with a family counselor who could help you and your mom learn to talk about problems, so she understands you better, and so you don't have to continue to think about running away.

Dear Friend to Friend:

I'm almost 17 years old, but my parents still treat me as if I were a little kid.

I mean, I have to always let them know where I'm going and when I'll be back. I have a curfew, and they say they have to meet my friends before I go out with them.

When I don't tell them where I'm going, or when I've come home later than my curfew, they say I'm immature and that I'm not living up to my responsibilities.

Am I immature? I have a part time job, and I haven't been in trouble with the police. Why do they treat me like this?

Almost an adult

Dear Almost:

All of us have felt the same thing at times. We want to be treated like adults, while our parents insist we're too young to do just exactly what we want without letting anyone know what we're doing, with whom, and when we'll stop doing it.

Sometimes we hate it. Yet, when we look at our younger brothers and sisters, we know they need discipline and limits. We did, too, once.

We guess the problem for parents is to know when to stop treating us like we were kids or teenagers and trust us completely.

There are usually problems and conflicts between most kids, ages 16-19, and their parents as we become more independent, and they want to hang on to us and protect us.

That's part of the process of becoming an adult. While it usually isn't easy or smooth, it is usually helpful for the teenager to try to put themselves in their parent's shoes and try to understand what they're trying to do.

It's also helpful to know that often parents are unsure of themsleves and frequently make mistakes.

For instance, they may not trust us enough, or they may try to treat us as if we were younger. That's the way it goes, even in the most loving families.

Your best defense in surviving your own teenage years is to try to keep a sense of humor, and remember that someday you'll probably be making the same efforts (and mistakes) with your own kids.

Letters to Friend to Friend are answered by a panel of Clarkston High School students working under the sponsorship of Award, a community group devoted to action and aducation against chemical dependency.

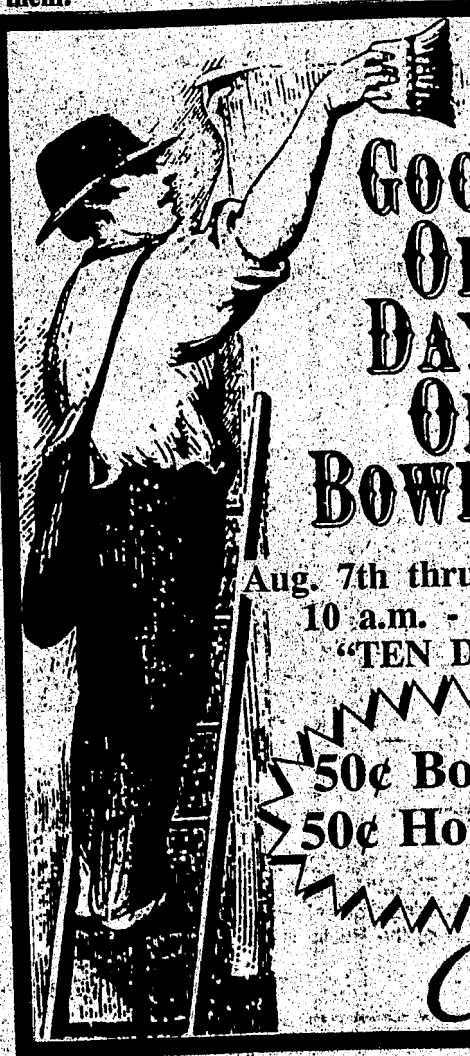

Students can submit letters by placing them in the designated "problem locker" at CHS, Clarkston High or Sashabaw Junior High. The locker is available for use during summer months.

Letters can also be sent to Friend to Friend in care of The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main, Clarkston, MI 48016.

Church honors community groups

The members of Sashabaw United Presbyterian Church have decided to take a slow summer month and do something special.

The congregation is honoring a club or organization each Sunday in August.

"One of our members came up with the idea and said it is certainly a part of the ministry of the church to show appreciation to groups and organizations outside the church who make a significant contribution to the quality of life in the area," said the Rev. William Schram.

Representatives of the five groups have responded with pleasure to the invitation to attend a Sunday service at the church on Maybee Road in Independence Township, said Schram.

During each 10 a.m. service, the honored group will be presented with a certificate of appreciation and a letter outlining the organization's contributions.

"It's the first time we've done this, but we hope to make it an annual event," Schram said.

This year, the groups were selected based on personal experiences of church members.

The list is: Aug. 2, Independence Township Senior Citizen Center; Aug. 9, SEARCH, the substance abuse program at Clarkston High School; Aug. 16, Clarkston Community Historical Society; Aug. 23, Well Child Clinic; and Aug. 30, American Legion Post No. 377 on Mary Sue Street.

As pastor of the church, Schram said he's delighted with the recognition program.

"I love it," he said. "Too often, churches can look just within themselves and sometimes think they have to do everything. It's appropriate to show our appreciation to the kinds of people who do things we think are good."

Grads to meet

The Clarkston Senior High School Class of 1977 will hold its 10-year reunion at the Deer Lake Racquet Club.

The celebration is planned Sept. 4 from 7 p.m. to 1 a.m.

The cost is $32.50 per person in advance for dinner, open bar and music.

Interested graduates are requested to RSVP before Aug. 15. Write to Cynthia Steele Harrison 6661 Maple, Clarkston, MI 48016 or call 625-3558 to make a reservation.

An additional $10 per person will be charged for all tickets purchased at the door.

New CHS students can enroll now

Before the upcoming new student and sophomore orientation at Clarkston High School, students new to the district are strongly encouraged to pre-enroll, says Brent Cooley, CHS assistant principal.

Students can report to the high school office between 7 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. weekdays, meet with an administrator and receive information about the high school, its operation, a handbook and a curriculum guide.

The pre-enrollment will "provide for a smooth transition at the beginning of the school year," Cooley said.

Orientations are planned for three dates.

The first, for parents, all sophomores and all new students in grades 10-12, is Tuesday, Aug. 25, at 7:30 p.m. in the high school gymnasium.

Speeches will outline procedures, policies and activities and the students will be welcomed to the school.

"Last year, we had over 1,000 people here. It was very well attended," said Cooley. "Certainly it's critical that they get off to a good start and that's why we encourage them to attend."

The second orientation on Wednesday, Aug. 26, is for sophomores only. The students are to meet at 9 a.m. in the high school lobby adjacent to the main office.

The third orientation on Thursday, Aug. 27, is for new juniors and seniors only. It begins at 9 a.m. in the lobby.

"Each of these is designed to help our new young men and women in their transition to a new building," Cooley said.

The first day of school for all students in the Clarkston school district is Wednesday, Sept. 2.

For more information on the high school, call 625-0900 between 7:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. weekdays.

Reunions

West Bloomfield, Class of 1961—A dinner-dance class reunion is planned Aug. 22 in Santia Hall in Keego Harbor. Cost is $24 a person. A picnic is also planned Aug. 23 at the Marshbank Park. For dinner-dance reservations, call Rennee (Shabas) Lockwood at 363-0385 or Jeanette (Beyett) Barriger at 682-8803.

Pontiac High School, January and June Classes of 1947—The party is planned Saturday, Sept. 12, at the Deer Lake Racquet Club in Independence Township. Cost is $25 a person. A mixer party is scheduled at 6 p.m. Friday night at the Elks in Pontiac; no reservations necessary. Write to: Class of 1947, P.O. Box 313, Pontiac, MI 48056.

PRAYER TO THE HOLY Spirit. Holy spirit. You make me see everything and show me the way to reach my ideals. You give me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrongs that are done to me and you are in all instances of my life with me. I, in this short dialogue, want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you no matter how great the material desire may be. I want to be with you, my loved one, in your perpetual glory. Amen. Persons must pray this prayer 3 consecutive days without asking your wish. After 3 days your wish will be granted, no matter how difficult it may be. Then, promise to publish this dialogue as soon as the favor has been granted. Thanks, St. Jude, for favors receivd. Are You Interested In Joining A Community Credit Union?

A group of people in the Clarkston area are interested in organizing a Community Credit Union. A Credit Union is a totally unique savings and lending organization; unique in that it is a completely non-profit financial institution whose sole purpose is to assist people in the sound management of their financial affairs. Credit Unions are committed to providing their members with high return savings plans and economical sources of credit. Members of the credit union are more than just customers; they're owners who share in the earnings through dividends on savings and reduced rates on loans.

We are surveying the residents of Independence Township and also the persons who work in our community in order to get their views on the organization of a credit union. Following is a survey that we would appreciate you filling out and returning to the address that appears at the bottom as soon as possible.

THANK YOU VERY MUCH FOR YOUR TIME!

Please answer the following questions. Thank You.

1. Do you think a Community Credit Union is a good idea?

YES _____ NO _____

Please state why you feel this way_____

2. Do you belong to a credit union at the present? If so, which credit union?

YES _____ NO _____

Which One_____

3. If you belong to a credit union, would you support ours by transferring your account to a community credit union?

YES _____ NO _____

4. Would you utilize our credit union for

SAVINGS_____BORROWING_____BOTH_____

5. Would you like to be able to participate in payroll deduction through your place of employment?

YES _____ NO _____

6. If you are an employer in our community, would you be willing to allow your employees to participate in payroll deductions with the credit union?

YES _____ NO _____

COMMENTS, VIEWS AND SUGGESTIONS ARE WELCOME. PLEASE INCLUDE YOUR NAME AND ADDRESS SOMEWHERE ON THE SURVEY (if you wish). Thank You.

Parade on wheels

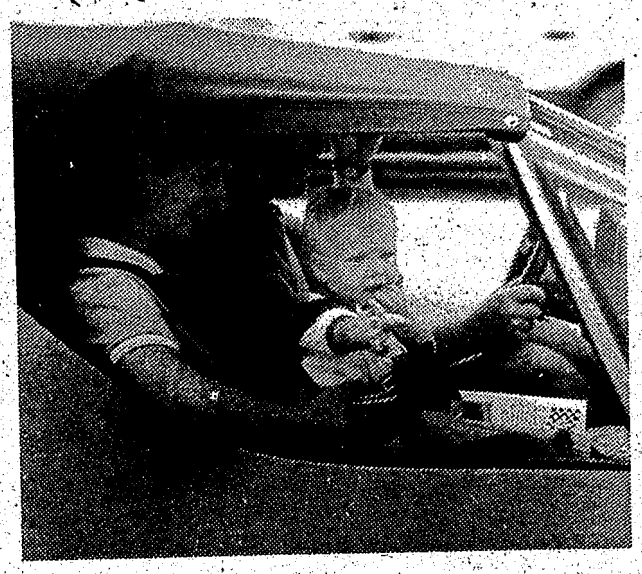

The crowd is sparse for the kick-off parade for the Meadowbrook Historic Races at the Waterford Hills Road Racing Track. How sparse? One lane remained open for traffic.

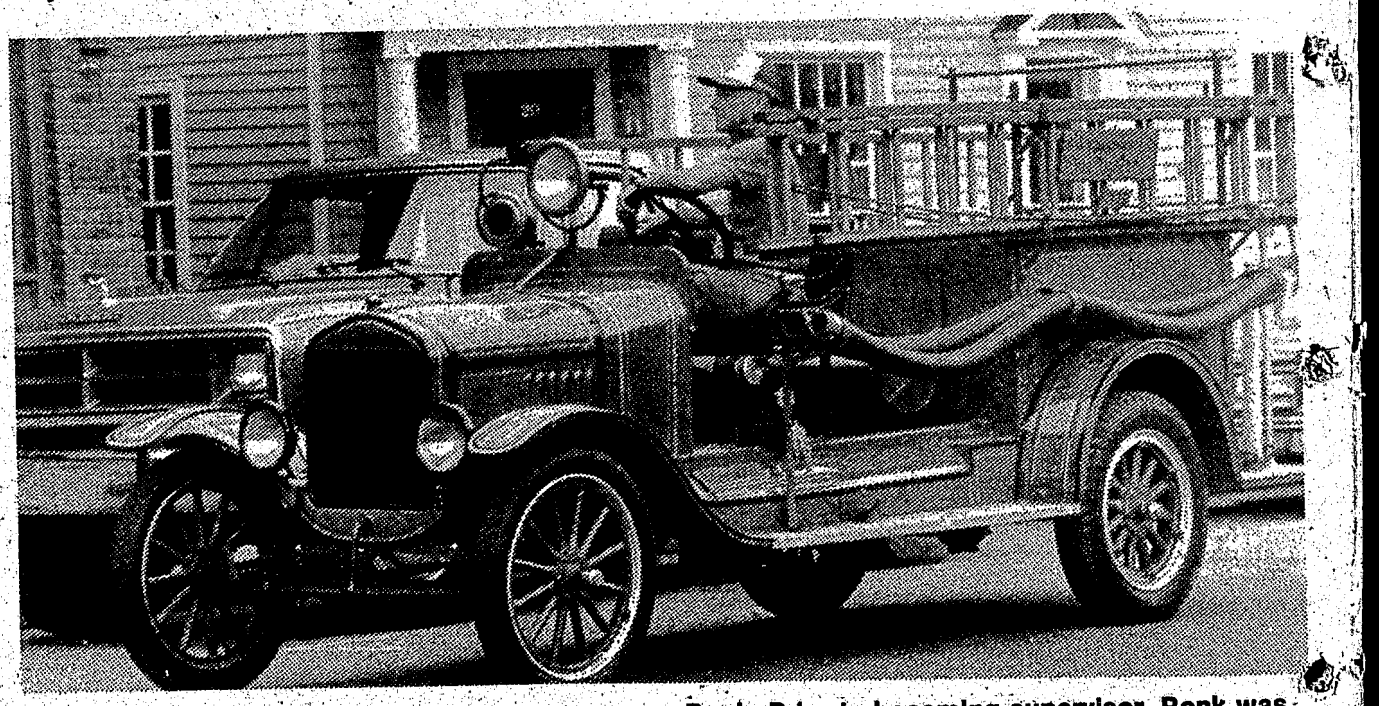

The driver of a Fronty Ford Special, an old-fashioned race car, is dressed for the occasion as he tools down Main Street during the Saturday morning parade.

Scott Robeson of Independence Township selects wheels attached to a vehicle of another sort during the brief parade of cars.

A tot shows his delight with the parade by stretching for a wave.

An antique fire truck is the vehicle of choice for Independence Township Supervisor Frank Ronk. Prior to becoming supervisor, Ronk was chief of the township fire department.
