Township lad to perform for pope

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Persistence paid off for Jimmy Territo.

The Independence township 8-year-old, who aspires to be the first American pope when he grows up, wanted more than anything to have a chance to see Pope John Paul II during his upcoming visit to the Silverdome Sept. 19.

Through his own initiative, the third-grader realized his fondest dream--or better. He was chosen as one of 30 youngsters from the Archdiocese of Detroit to perform for Pope John Paul II at Hart Plaza in downtown Detroit the morning of his visit.

Jimmy wrote a letter to Bishop Dale Melczek, who is in charge of coordinating events for the pope's visit, saying, "I would like to know if I could participate with anything that children are doing to greet the pope on his visit."

Jimmy went on to write, "I would very much like to see him," and if there was any way he could, to "let me know and we'll try to work it out."

In response, the Rev. Patrick Halfpenny, director of the host committee activities, wrote back to Jimmy. He encouraged Jimmy to talk to his pastor, the Rev. Charles Cushing of St. Daniel's, and try to get tickets to the mass at the Silverdome through his church.

But Jimmy thought tickets through his parish lottery were intended more for adults, and that his chances would be slim.

Basketball star back from coup

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A failed coup attempt trapped a former Clarkston High athlete in the Philippines on Friday.

Tim McCormick, a center for the Philadelphia 76ers, was traveling with a group of players from the National Basketball Association for some exhibition games and clinics.

Because of the military action, both of the scheduled all-star games were canceled, said McCormick in a telephone interview from his home in Philadelphia Monday evening.

The 6-foot, 11-inch McCormick arrived safely at his home in Philadelphia Sunday, said his mother, Terri McCormick.

McCormick, a former Springfield Township resident, was confined to his hotel when fighting broke out in Manila Thursday. The mutiny against President Corazon Aquino by approximately 800 soldiers began with attacks on the presidential palace compound and other targets.

"We were not able to play the games because of the potential danger it put us in," said McCormick, who starred at Clarkston High as a basketball player before playing for the University of Michigan.

From his hotel room, McCormick said, he saw tanks and troops pass on the street below.

Loyal troops crushed the bloodiest attempt yet on Friday. At least 25 people had been killed and 275 wounded.

"It's pretty scary when 40 people get killed less than five miles away from you," McCormick said. His hotel in Manila was less than six miles from the battle site.

Persistence pays off for township 8-year-old

Undaunted, he contacted Archbishop Edmund Szoka's office. They again told him he would have to apply through the parish lottery. But they did send him a poster commemorating the pope's visit.

Shortly after that, Jimmy received a letter from the Rev. Clifford Ruskowski, chairman of the committee for the papal visit-Hart Plaza, informing him that he was chosen to perform with 30 other children and folk singer Josh White Jr. for the pope.

The children will sing "The Rainbow Song," which, like the visit, represents unity.

Jimmy says he was "thrilled" when he received the letter.

"When we sat down to go through the list of names and choose the children, we saw his letter," says Tawnya Bender, secretary to Ruskowski. "We felt it took a lot of initiative on his part."

Jimmy is one of the youngest children chosen, and the only one from the Clarkston area.

"This is such an honor. I hope I do a good job," Jimmy says.

Jimmy has attended rehearsals for the upcoming performance, and is eagerly looking forward to the morning of Sept. 19. Activities at Hart Plaza are scheduled to begin at 8 a.m. and end at 1:45 p.m. The children will sing just before the address at about 11:47 a.m.

The program will be televised world-wide.

"That's 40 billion people!" Jimmy exclaims.

He says, "I don't know how I feel about singing for the whole world, but I'm overjoyed that I can sing for the Holy Father.

"He is special. There's only one of him in the world," Jimmy says. "He represents God, and that is the most important thing."

The opportunity is much better to see the pontiff while performing at Hart Plaza than at the Silverdome, and Jimmy knows it.

He had considered taking the pontiff some of his uncle's Polish sausage, but his parents, Joseph and Beverly Territo, convinced him that isn't necessary.

So the youngster, who has Polish ancestry himself, is content to have the honor of performing for Pope John Paul II.

"I'll only be 21 feet away from him," Jimmy says, a bit of awe in his voice. "If he glances around, he might even see me."

Fire in bushes scorches school

A fire outside the Clarkston High School gym last Thursday may have been a case of arson, said Chief Gar Wilson of the Independence Township Fire Department.

"There were definitely kids around," said Wilson.

Fireworks were involved and possibly a flammable liquid of some sort, he said.

"It's very possible that there was an accelerant used. It's still under investigation," he said. "There were no injuries, fortunately. It could have been real serious."

The cheerleaders were having a slumber party in the gym that evening, he said. When they found out about the fire, one girl panicked and broke the window at the other end of the gym.

About 11:30 p.m., the fire started in some bushes at the north end of the gym, Wilson said.

Fiberglass panels and bricks were scorched and discolored two-thirds of the way to the roof.

The Fiberglass panels aren't available anymore, Wilson said, and he couldn't estimate the damage costs because school officials didn't know if they were going to replace the scorched material.

PROUD MELON GROWER Norman Spence holds up his Black Diamond watermelon for inspection. A bathroom scale confirmed his estimate that the melon weighed 40 pounds.

Watermelon whopper

BY KATHY GREENFIELD
Clarkston News Editor

Nestled in the hilly terrain outside the home of Norman and Janet Spence of Holcomb Road, Independence Township, is their melon patch.

Inside the patch grows the Spences' summer success story, a 40-pound Black Diamond watermelon, a variety, they'd been told,could only thrive in the South.

Perhaps it was the unusual summer with endless hot, humid nights, says Janet.

They know for sure that black, fertile soil isn't the reason for the melon's heft. Although they threw a little topsoil atop the patch before planting, Norman actually sports a scar from his gardening efforts in the gravel-laden ground.

While rototilling, he ran into a rock and injured his shoulder seriously enough to require surgery.

The Spences began their watermelon quest in April after a friend sent seeds from Athens, Ala., per Norman's request.

"They just don't sell them here," he says. "I always wanted to find out if I could grow a southern watermelon here."

They planted the seeds and nurtured them in a sunny room inside their home before transplanting them outdoors.

"Everyone said, 'Ah, you're never going to grow anything like that up here.' I said, 'Well, it doesn't hurt to try,'" says Norman.

After waiting patiently for the small curly vine closest to the watermelon dry up, the Spences are pretty sure the watermelon is ready for harvesting, but Janet admits to some apprehension.

"We don't want to pick it too early," she says. "It's scary."

Their patch also sports Michigan cantaloupes and Charleston Gray watermelons, plus another Black Diamond watermelon about two-thirds the size of the whopper.

They're excited about their success as first-time melon growers, but next summer, if the weather is back to normal, will be a true test of their watermelon growing prowess, say the Spences.

They've saved some seeds from the Alabama batch.

Things to do on Labor Day

A trio of Labor Day events await on Monday, Sept. 7, and weekenders at home can put some splash into the holiday on Sunday afternoon at a firefighters' waterball competition.

The Labor Day lineup follows:

SUNDAY, SEPT. 6
Waterball Competition

At noon, the Independence Township Firefighters Association puts its fire hose handling skills to the test with a waterball competition with various area fire departments. The battle will take place in Clarkston's Depot Park on Depot Street adjacent to Clarkston Village Hall.

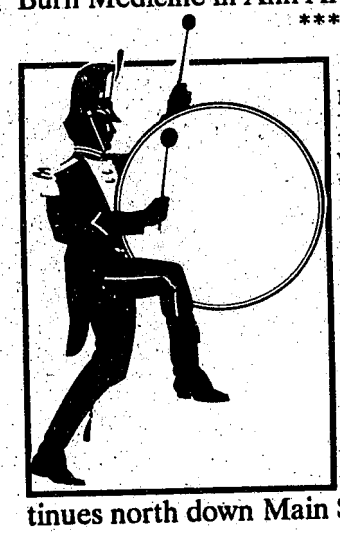
From 7 to 10 a.m., it's hot pancake time. The annual Labor Day pancake breakfast in Clarkston's Depot Park adjacent to Village Hall, 375 Depot St., is a rain-or-shine event.

On the menu are all the pancakes you can eat, sausage, milk and orange juice. The fee is $4 for adults and $3 for children.

All profits go to the National Institute for Burn Medicine in Ann Arbor.

***



At 10 a.m., it's parade time in Clarkston. Floats, bands and a variety of marchers will be among parade participants in the annual Labor Day visual delight sponsored by the Clarkston Rotary Club.

The parade begins at Clarkston Junior High School on Church Street, travels west to Main Street and continues north down Main Street, ending at Miller Road.

***

From noon to 6 p.m., sweet corn fans can feast at the annual American Legion Labor Day Corn Roast at the Campbell Richmond Post 63, 8047 M-15, just north of I-75.

There'll also be games for the children.

Building to grow

An addition to an existing building on Dixie Highway, Independence Township, is to provide office and retail space.

The township planning commission unanimously approved the conceptual site plan Aug. 27 for the renovations.

Engineer Del Lohff said the owner, James Long, planned to rent 3,020 square feet for retail and 640 square feet for office in the proposed structure next to Kinney's Shoes.

Papering tiger

Kathy Greenfield

If you need some advice on wallpapering, don't call me.

I dipped my toes, so to speak, in the sea of paste-up, put-up for the first time last weekend. It was a time filled with waves of woe and jubilation.

My husband, our resident wallpaper expert, was busy on the roof, so I decided to jump right in. With less than half of the room left to do, I figured it would be a breeze despite my total lack of experience.

Since the wallpapering project has been ongoing for months, I've had plenty of time to talk it over with friends and family.

My sister kept saying things like "It's so easy!" A neighbor kept telling me how much she enjoyed putting up wallpaper--a pleasant hobby of sorts.

Someone else talked about how rewarding such a project can be. Instant ambiance was just around the corner.

So there I was: measuring by holding the paper up to the wall, drawing a line only part way up and figuring the razor blades were sharp enough. Too much confidence can be a dangerous thing. But, I didn't know I was in trouble yet.

I dipped, I trimmed, I folded. I carried the limp paper to the top of the step ladder. I unfolded, I smoothed, I matched.

Somewhere in there, I decided it might be easier if the whole strip hung free, so I unfolded the entire piece. The previously matched part didn't match anymore. I pulled it away from the wall.

That's when I hollered for help. My friend on the roof, gallant person that he is, came to the rescue.

"Where's your line on the wall?" he asked.

"Why is the entire strip exposed?" he asked.

"Where's your wet cloth?" he asked.

"How come you don't have an overlap at the bottom?" he asked.

Somehow "Everyone said this was easy so I skipped a few things" didn't seem like an appropriate response.

I don't remember what I said, but he was kind. He saved the strip and encouraged me to continue.

By the third strip, things were going better. I was thrilled with my skill at rounding a window corner and feelin' good.

Later, I noticed that that particular strip went awry in the matching department about halfway down the wall.

For the record, the job isn't finished yet. I ran out of wallpaper with one strip to go.

Also for the record, the room is going to look wonderful if it ever gets finished. I'm thinking of doing the bedroom next ...

Letter to the editor

Remarks absurd

The Clarkston News apparently sees fit to print just about anything, including stupid rantings of bragging minor children. I refer to the Aug. 19 issue "Back to School" interviews on Page 35.

It would seem that the editor does little editing when untrue, disparaging remarks are printed, which are directed at local teachers. (Named or unnamed!)

The remarks were insulting and absurd; to print them is irresponsible and inexcusable.

I think the editor owes an apology to the Clarkston teachers.

Barb Tyrrell

Jim's Jottings

Jim Sherman

Don Jensen writes a column each week in the Detroit Free Press about retirement. Being on the '50-plus' page I usually read it. In case I get there again I want to know how to live.

August 18 Jensen wrote: 'It would be depressing to be young with the heartaches and learning ahead of you. It is a comfortable feeling to be settled with Bev, the kids raised, and have minimum responsibilities as a retiree.'

The writer stated in this column that he was 72. Maybe in my next 11 years I'll change my mind, but right now I feel a lot of the learning wasn't only not painful, but enjoyable.

Jensen goes on to quote the famous, and recently deceased, film director, John Huston, who in his biography listed five things he'd do different in life.

We'll take them one at a time and comment thereto.

● Huston: I would spend more time with my children.

Me: Why? My wife did a superb job raising all three. They're a joy most of the time. And, if I spent more time with them they'd learn to hate me.

● Huston: I would make my money before spending it.

Me: One of my mottos is, 'If you don't save, you never have'. Plus I was never allowed by Hazel or my banker to spend what I didn't have, or couldn't afford. Sometimes, though, it takes gamblers on movies, products and ideas to make the world spin.

● Huston: I would learn the joys of wine instead of hard liquor.

Me: The biggest joy a person can get out of wine is working the cork screw. I haven't sipped the old vintages that sell for millions a bottle, but those I've tried from Spain, California, France and Paw Paw are far down the list from a sip of Beefeaters gin.

● Huston: I would not smoke cigarettes when I had pneumonia.

Me: Where Huston ever came up with that one I'll never know. Obviously, he lived most of his life exactly the way he wanted. Anyway, I was 13 when I had pneumonia and didn't start on cigarettes until at sea in WWII.

● Huston: I would not marry a fifth time.

Me: Neither would I. Or a second time.

Jensen went on to say he agreed with only Huston's first choice. As you can see, I agree only with the latter.

I started writing this column in my mind the day I read Jensen, over two weeks ago. I was going to come up with my own list of changes I would make if re-growing.

In those two weeks I have come up with only one change, and that's a maybe. Maybe I wouldn't have started writing Jottings 1,678 times ago.

Clarkston's Doc Denne, after reading my Will Rogers quotes, wrote, "He also said, 'I never met a man I didn't like'." Doc sent along a 15 cent Will Rogers memorial stamp . . . 15 cent?

Survey results are mixed

Tabulations from 116 surveys returned by readers of The Clarkston News reveal that the most popular items in the newspaper are people features, Independence Township news and editorials, in that order.

Over 90 percent of the readers who responded indicated that they read articles in the above three categories.

Next in line, with over 80 percent readership, are letters to the editor, Clarkston village news, Photo Inquiry, obituaries, school board news, Kathy Greenfield's column, Sheriff's Log and Around Town (the calendar of events).

Over 70 percent of the survey participants read Friendly Faces, Millstream (social news), Jim's Jottings, Fire Call, Bouquets and Incredible Edibles (a cooking column that has been replaced with What's Cooking).

Sixty percent or more read community sports, the All About Town cartoon, If It Fitz, Ken Temple's cartoon, Prep Profile and Microwave Plus.

At the bottom of the list are Springfield Township news (57 percent) and Community Cable Guide (42 percent).

We found more to be pleased about in the survey responses than we found surprises. Apparently, news, commentary and stories about people who live in our area please our readers the most and we will continue to devote the majority of our time on such reports.

We consider readership high for the items that placed at the bottom of the list. Springfield's population is less than half of the Independence-Clarkston area, and not everyone has cable TV.

Our readers asked for more stories about local businesses, more features and more commentary on the upcoming school district millage election.

Also suggested were stories on local crimes, household tips, more sports, reviews on concerts and books, more on religion, more about the village, history, animal stories, reports from Lansing legislators, more on school and student activities, and more photographs.

There was some criticism, including the following comments:

"There is entirely too much school news and way too much pertaining to school sports, etc. Not every reader has children in school. All this gets very tiresome."

"I really think your engagement and wedding announcements could be more current!"

"Journalists need additional training."

"Cancel If It Fitz. Completely ludicrous."

"The questions in Photo Inquiry are stupid."

"You don't give enough attention to Sashabaw Elementary and Sashabaw Junior High, but always a lot about Clarkston Elementary and Clarkston Junior High. Why? Are we the ghetto?"

"Mrs. Greenfield, why do you always take pictures of the kids at graduation who are acting like fools? Why don't you just stay home?"

The good news for us, however, was that most of our readers' comments were positive. In fact, they outnumbered the criticisms five to one. A sampling of the praise follows:

"I love The Clarkston News! So does my son in the Navy. It's a little piece of home wherever he goes."

"Love it! Gets better all the time."

"We really like the paper and look forward to reading it each week."

"Love every inch of it. Keep handy all week. Thanks."

"The Clarkston News is an excellent hometown newspaper. I enjoy it!"

"Look forward to reading weekly for the area news plus your views, which aren't always mine--which is good."

"I enjoy every week, clip and send to family members in Washington State, Ann Arbor and Sterling Heights."

"Great paper. Continue on."

"Keep up the good work!"

"The Clarkston News, I believe, plays a major role in the 'togetherness' of Clarkston and the town's success."

"I enjoy reading The Clarkston News. It's just like a visit back home."

"I think the paper is indispensable."

"Really like this paper. Also, the health care editions are read and passed on to other family members outside this area."

"It is getting more interesting and I enjoy reading about the progress of Clarkston and your coverage is excellent. Thank you."

"I like your paper."

We deeply appreciate the time so many readers spent responding to our survey.

We've already followed up on several of the story suggestions and we would appreciate hearing from anyone who has an idea or knows someone who would "make a good story."

A community newspaper relies heavily on its readers to provide story ideas and news tips. If you have an idea, don't hesitate to call--625-3370.

Cut from ash scene

Jim Fitzgerald

There's bad news for the thousands of people who paid $100 per ticket to see my movie debut in "The Rosary Murders" Thursday night. "The Ash Wednesday scene was cut entirely," Elmore (Dutch) Leonard just told me.

I was in the Ash Wednesday scene. In fact, my wife said I was the biggest ash in it.

Terrible Jean, my much older sister, was also in the scene, playing my mother. That's probably why the scene was scrapped: It was feared viewers would think she was too old for the part.

Leonard wrote the first screenplay for "The Rosary Murders," based on the fine mystery novel by Southfield's Bill Kienzle. It will certainly be recalled that Leonard, Birmingham's famed novelist-screenwriter, was recently named by Playgirl magazine as one of American's 10 sexiest men, along with such hunks as actor Tom Cruise.

"When my agent told me I was chosen one of the sexiest men of the year, I asked him what year that was," the 62-year-old Leonard said in explaining he wasn't offended that I said he looked more like Gabby Hayes than Tom Cruise.

HOWEVER, I was offended by the number of young whippersnappers who asked me who Gabby Hayes was. After all, if it weren't for Gabby Hayes, they probably wouldn't be young whippersnappers. But my wife and I have no right to disapprove of people who never heard of the greatest cowboy movie sidekick because, until a few days ago, I thought maybe Madonna was a press agent doing advance publicity for the pope's visit to Detroit.

It's true that, until she appeared on the front page of my favorite newspaper wearing a corset, I had only the foggiest notion what Madonna did for a living. There is something to be said for getting old, and I just said it. In a corset, Madonna looks as sexy as Gabby Hayes - or Elmore Leonard - in long underwear.

Anyway, as isn't unusual in Hollywood, Leonard's screenplay of "The Rosary Murders" was rewritten and he's now billed as co-writer, along with Fred Walton, who was also director.

"It's not the movie I wrote, but it's a good movie," Leonard said. Even without the Ash Wednesday scene.

Leonard's gracious attitude is refreshing, and you can take his opinion to the bank. In the past, he's never hesitated to knock what other people did to his words. He was among the first to warn that Burt Reynolds made a mess of Leonard's fine novel, "Stick."

Unfortunately, there's been a lot of published acrimony associated with "The Rosary Murders." Producer Bobby Laurel says author Bill Kienzle hasn't returned his calls; Keinzle says Laurel hasn't called. A lawsuit was filed.

LAUREL WANTED the movie premiere to benefit Holy Redeemer Church, where most of it was filmed, but Pastor Joseph Tobin said no thanks. Father Tobin said he was afraid the movie might besmirch the Catholic Church, and Laurel said Tobin refused his offer to show him the movie. And so on . . .

To me, it all sounds like petty misunderstandings that could easily have been settled over lunch. But what do I know about show business? I was dumb enough to introduce Terrible Jean to Bobby Laurel and thereby scuttle my movie career before it got past the back pew.

I'm delighted that Bobby Laurel, the former Detroit saloon pianist-crooner, went onward and upward to fool all the doubters who didn't think he could bring "The Rosary Murders" to the screen. I think it's grand that Thursday's Fisher Theatre premiere will raise enough money for Laurel's Holy Redeemer High Class of '56 Scholarship Fund, whether Father Tobin likes it or not.

I hope the movie is a huge success and helps Bill Kienzle, one of Detroit's nicest men, sell thousands more mystery novels. I hope sexy Elmore Leonard, in the Madonna style, wears long underwear to the premiere.

20 Deer Lake residents air woes

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Jet skis on Deer Lake were the center of a sometimes heated discussion at a Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) public hearing last week.

About 20 of the nearly 80 people in the audience spoke at the Aug. 25 hearing in the Kirchgessner Theatre at Clarkston High School.

Accusations against neighbors and stories of near accidents filled the discussion, along with solutions, which ranged from banning jet skis to hiring part-time law enforcement officers to patrol Deer Lake on summer weekends.

Ron Iacobelli, who owns a lot on Deer Lake, said he had seen a lot of unsafe jet ski use. He suggested the lake-front property owners all chip in to hire someone to patrol the lake.

"If we wait until the township does it, it might take awhile," he said. "I'm willing to pay a few hundred dollars a year to take care of it."

Charles Fellers, a Phelan Drive resident representing Deer Lake Pines subdivision, said the majority of the residents in his subdivision favored the following: Allowing the docking of boats at the park, allowing jet skis on the lake and allowing others to dock their boats on residents' lake-front property.

Ron Turner, an eight-year resident on Deer Lake, asked who enforced deed restrictions.

Residents in subdivision associations who moor their boats overnight are a problem, he said, adding most had deed restrictions disallowing the practice.

Eric Olsen, marine rules specialist for the DNR, said he didn't know who would enforce deed restrictions.

"Two or three people cause all the problems," said Turner. "They're a joke."

The proposed condominiums on Deer Lake pose a problem even if their deeds do restrict the docking of boats, since deed restrictions are difficult to enforce, said Turner.

He also suggested the public parking on White Lake Road be cut in half and the number of keys sold cut in half to reduce boat traffic.

He added that the problem with jet skis involved more than just kids.

"These are 40-year-old men out there, not little kids," he said.

After some name-calling and allegations against specific lake users from a few speakers, Nancy Walters of Phelan Drive spoke.

Since she owned lake-front property and belonged to a subdivision association, she understood both sides to most of the issues, she said.

"It bothers me to see the animosity between these two groups," said Walters. "The conversation has gotten away from the real issue, ... one of safety and the preservation of the lake.

"This lake is one of the cleanest in Oakland County. That's why we moved here. ... It's so much easier to preserve the lake and take care of it now rather than wait until later. ... One of the ways to preserve it is to control the traffic.

"It's not a matter of hating jet skis and it's not the noise, although it sounds like a chain saw all day. The problem is safety," she said. "We have no enforcement. ... I don't want to stand on my dock and yell all day. That's not my job."

She cited instances of jet skis following skiers closely, playing chicken, towing tubers and carrying two people. All are against the law.

"It's an extreme hazard. An accident will happen. Maybe that's what it's going to take," Walters said.

Applause followed her comments.

Olsen asked Walters how many complaints she had signed with the Oakland County Sheriff's Department. If people call and request to sign the complaints, they have a guarantee of enforcement, he said.

"I do sign complaints," said Bob Hurlbert, a former law enforcement officer and former prosecuting attorney.

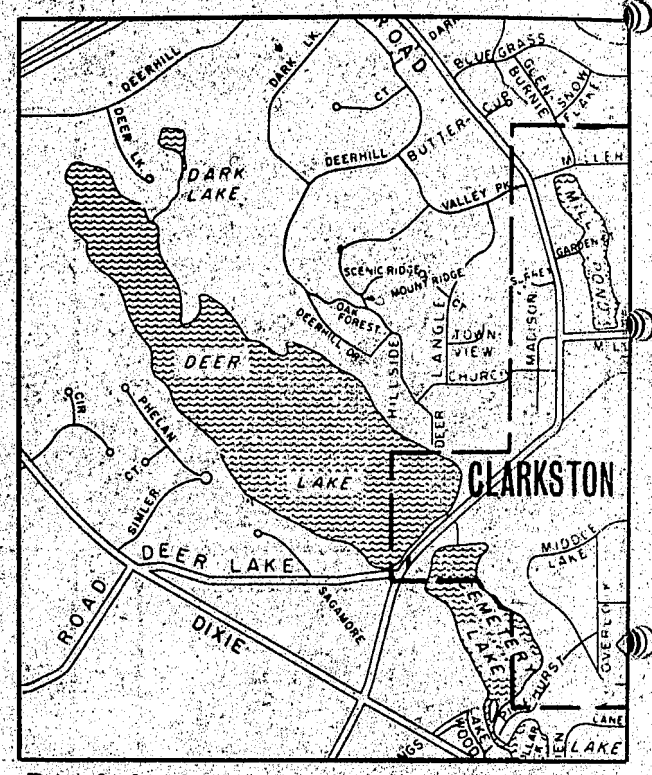
"But in the real world, we don't have enough law enforcement officers in Oakland County. ... The problem is, these vessels endanger the others on the lake. There really is no effective enforcement. The only thing to do is ban them."

The audience applauded Hurlbert's remarks, as well.

Olsen said it would be hard to ban only jet skis, or personal watercraft, as the DNR classifies them. The ban probably wouldn't stand up in court, he said. Jet skis meet all standards in Michigan.

As for the noise, jet skis don't exceed the 86 decibel limit in Michigan, although, cumulatively, they may sound louder, he said.

"The machine doesn't do a thing wrong. ... We have to take care of the bad guys," he said.



Deer Lake, in the southwestern portion of Independence Township, contains 79 acres of boatable water.

Ron Wagner said peer pressure works with lake residents, but not with people who enter from the public access.

Others told tales of narrow escapes from accidents with jet skis, and Barb Zabel of Phelan Drive, Independence Township, submitted photographs of jet ski operators breaking the law.

Within a week, Olsen said, he would make his recommendation to the sheriff, the township and the DNR law enforcement department.

"There is a problem on Deer Lake. I recommend added enforcement," he said.

Whenever people see a serious problem, they should call the sheriff's department, Olsen said. "As citizens, you have to make a positive move. We have to get the bad guys in court."

Most of the people arrested will be neighbors, Olsen warned.

Parks perk up

Several Springfield Township parks have been upgraded with new equipment, according to Sherry Swindell, Springfield parks and recreation director.

A small gazebo was constructed at Mill Pond Park and new playground equipment for younger children has been added to Karl Shultz Park.

Lighting and a new softball backstop were added at Green Lake Park and a new softball backstop has been added at Holcomb Road Park, where there is an ungraded, informal ball field.

A new resident of Springfield Township, 15-year-old Dean Cassar, helped prepare the new playground area at Karl Shultz Park for sand. Working toward his Eagle Scout badge in Boy Scouts, he organized eight scouts from his former area in Bloomfield Hills, Troop 1022, to help with the project.

"The scouts spent all day last Tuesday (Aug. 25) digging out dirt around the new equipment," Swindell said.

The boys worked with a Springfield Township crew on the project. Sand was to be brought in to the playground area as soon as weather permitted.

Now that parks have been upgraded, Swindell said, "The Springfield Township Parks and Recreation Commission would like to encourage local residents who live in areas close to Springfield Township parks to keep an eye on them to prevent vandalism."

If anyone notices unusual activity in the parks, Swindell suggests that they contact the Oakland County Sheriff's Department at 634-4495 or 858-4911.

She said they have not had as much trouble this year with park vandalism, but added that it seems to run in cycles.

"With the help of local residents, we can work on curbing park vandals," Swindell said.

CHS STUDENT COUNCIL president Angela DeLaRosa shares her enthusiasm for school with incoming sophomores, new students and their parents by welcoming them with speeches.

Words of welcome from CHS

Editor's note: Clarkston High School Student Council president Angela DeLaRosa gave the following speech during an orientation session Aug. 25 to welcome all sophomores, new students and their parents to CHS.

CHS Assistant Principal Jan Gabier suggested we share the speech with readers of The Clarkston News.

BY ANGELA DELAROSA

Hi! On behalf of the student body, I would like to welcome you to Clarkston High School.

I can imagine that you are probably starting to get a little nervous about coming to a different school.

Well, that's OK because I'm a little nervous right now. But I promise you that after a few days, you will feel right at home.

Upperclassmen might have tried to scare you a bit by telling you stories about needing elevator passes or no sophomores allowed on the bench. Those stories aren't true.

We like to think of ourselves as a big family. You'll be surprised at how friendly everyone is.

Our school is extremely full of spirit. We always have a super turnout at our athletic events and the dances which follow. Dances have become somewhat of a tradition here. They generally have interesting themes to help keep a change of pace.

Adults are always telling us how our high school years will be the best time of our lives.

The years that you spend at CHS will definitely be your best. You have so much to look forward to.

Homecoming is the first big event of the year. It has many festivities that go along with it. There's field day, tapping, powder puff, the parade, the game and, finally, the dance.

As you can see, our school is overwhelmingly active. There is always something to do to keep you, and your parents, on the go.

You parents will probably feel like a taxi service by the end of the year, but it's worth it and greatly appreciated.

I know this will be a fun and rewarding year. I'm looking forward to it. I hope you are too.

Even though all drivers were wearing seat belts, one person was injured in a three-car accident on Dixie Highway, Independence Township, on Monday, Aug. 24.

About 10 a.m., a car southbound on Dixie Highway, driven by Yvonne Alma Hess, 48, of Holly turned in front of a northbound vehicle, driven by Danian Scott Regep, 21, of Union Lake, according to reports at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Regep's vehicle bounced off Hess's car and hit a vehicle on White Lake Road that was stopped at the light, according to police.

Cabinet shop to set pace for improvement

A call for fairness accompanied Joseph DeLude's request for conceptual site plan approval from the Independence Township Planning Commission.

On Aug. 27, the commission unanimously approved the plan for his proposed cabinet shop on White Lake Road, Independence Township.

DeLude, who already operates a cabinet shop on White Lake Road, plans to build a new 6,200 square foot building to house his business, Cabinet I. In the future, he may add a 1,000 square foot brick office, he said.

But the township's enforcement of ordinances and requirements may be unfair, said DeLude.

White Lake Road is a mess, he said, citing vacant trailers on one lot, tall weeds on others, virtually no landscaping and aesthetically displeasing buildings.

The landscaping required of his new site may be particularly unfair, he said.

"There is nothing on White Lake Road that has this type of landscaping," said DeLude. "This is a nice plan for an industrial area."

He plans to wait to build his brick office until he sees what direction the White Lake Road area will take, he said. If it's upgraded, he'll build. If it continues the way it is, the resale value of his property wouldn't warrant the cost of the improvements.

DeLude also asked about the new township fire station on Sashabaw and Clarkston roads. The asphalt drive doesn't have curbs over the culvert, and the landscaping isn't finished, he said.

Commission Chairperson Joseph Figa said the fire station has to meet the same requirements as any other building in the township.

Figa also commented on the White Lake Road area.

"That area needs a lot of upgrading, there's no two ways about it," he said. "But it has to start somewhere."

Commission member Carol Balzarini said DeLude would be a good example.

"It's going to be a definite improvement to the area," she said. "Hopefully, some others in the area will take the hint and do something about theirs."

Construction is to start as soon as he receives all the necessary approvals, said DeLude after the meeting.

Church to break ground this month

After over two years of planning and approval seeking, the Rev. Loren Covarrubias of Mt. Zion Temple received his final OK to build a new church.

The Independence Township Planning Commission unanimously granted final site plan approval Aug. 27 for the proposed 26,000 square foot building planned for 20 acres on Maybee Road, near I-75.

Originally, the plans called for a 40,000 square foot building and parking for 1,200 cars--too intensive a use for the rural residential area and an erosion of the tax base, said commission members at that time.

At the most recent meeting, commission members expressed satisfaction with the scaled-down version of the church, which included aesthetic modifications to the barn-like structure.

"The building has come a long way," said Richard Oppmann. "It will be a fine asset to the community as it will to the congregation."

"I think it's a much improved building," said Chairperson Joseph Figa. "I think we've shown a lot of cooperation on both sides."

The commission approved the plan with the following conditions: using dimensional shingles on the roof, correcting the building height on the drawing, adding landscaping around the building and showing the sign location.

A September ground breaking is planned, said Covarrubias after the meeting.

Commission approves used car lot

Moving part of the used car display and sales office to the west side of Dixie Highway, Independence Township, should ease the traffic problem for John Bowman Chevrolet.

On Aug. 27, the township planning commission unanimously approved a special land use to allow the sale of used cars.

The commission also unanimously approved the conceptual site plan for the business with four conditions: additional landscaping, different sign placement, elimination of the dumpster and the installation of traffic directional signs.

Bowman plans to sell used cars and some new cars at the former Michigan National Bank site on the west side of Dixie, he said. The current business on the east side is to continue housing new car sales and the service department.

Most of the commission members' comments concerned landscaping and traffic.

Township planning consultant Richard Carlisle said the new lot should improve the situation at the current lot, at the Dixie Highway and M-15 intersection.

"Now, on the current site, people try to pull in either drive," he said, adding the confusion could be eliminated.

Used car sales would generate less traffic than other uses permitted on the highway commercial zoning, he said.

"It's a difficult location, but this is far preferable to other uses," Carlisle said.

Cougars' goal: improve on subpar records

The boys football team and the girls basketball squad at Sashabaw Junior High are looking for better things after mediocre seasons last year.

Despite coming off a .500 year and facing a difficult schedule, more than 50 kids tried out for the Sashabaw Junior High football team.

Since most of the players are still diamonds in the rough, it's impossible to predict how the team will fare, said Coach Tim Brennan.

In his fifth year with the team, Brennan is pleased with what he has seen from his club so far in practice. But he is quick to add that it's too early to tell.

"We had a good turnout. I'm really happy with that," Brennan said. "They did good in a scrimmage we had and things are going pretty smooth (in practice)."

When looking at the schedule for the upcoming season, Brennan doesn't see many pushovers. Besides Flint Central and Northern, the Cougars probably will pick up a game against Brother Rice to fill a void left when Crary dropped its football program.

If Sashabaw continues to improve as they have during practice, Brennan said they will remain competitive.

"They (his players) improve so much from day-to-day," he said. The Cougars open the season on the road against Lakeland on Sept. 2.

When the talk turns to girls basketball, the same problems that haunt the football team still exist.

A fresh batch of girls are prepared to improve on a subpar record from a year ago for the ninth-grade girls basketball team.

Coach Jayne Bannister, in her third year at the helm of the team at Sashabaw, looks forward to the upcoming season.

An aggressive group of girls, some who refined their basketball skills by attending summer camps, will be ready for the season opener Sept. 9 against Milford.

Sashabaw has been practicing since Aug. 10, and while it's hard to tell how good the team will be things look promising, Bannister said.

"I'm very optimistic," said Bannister. "We are off to a good start."

Unlike last year, when Sashabaw started the season with a string of home games, the Cougars will play six straight road games before having their Oct. 1 home-opener against Brandon.

"It's going to be tough to keep the morale of the team up," said Bannister. "But then the schedule is always tough."

Should the Cougars get past the first half of the season in good shape, the final half will be a breeze. Sashabaw finishes the year with seven straight home games.

Hunter safety course offered at Oakland Sportmen's Club

A safety course for hunters is planned at the Oakland County Sportsmen's Club in Independence Township during September.

There are four sessions and students enrolled must attend all four to pass the class, said club manager Arthur Miracle.

The class, to be conducted in the log club house and the brown range house, is open to adults and youths. Enrollment will be limited to ensure proper instruction, said Miracle.

Students must be 12 years old by Dec. 31, 1987, to take the class. A birth certificate or written proof is required.

The sportsmen's club has offered the class for the past decade and it has proven to be quite popular.

"We have had to turn people away in the past," said Miracle. "That's the reason we are limiting the class size."

In the 12-17 age group, 100 students will be allowed to enroll. For the adult group, 50 can sign up for the program.

The hunter safety course runs on Sept. 10, 13, 19 and 20. The $4 registration fee is not refundable. The final day of registration is Sept. 10.

Students enrolled in the course will learn about safe gun handling, how to read a compass, how to identify game and rifle and shotgun use, said Miracle.

Upon completion of the course, students may purchase hunter safety patches for $1.

FOOTBALL PRACTICE AT Sashabaw Junior High is in full swing as the 50 players in camp prepare for their season opener against Lakeland Sept. 2. The players prepared for a scrimmage game by running around the field behind Mason Junior High Friday afternoon.

Time out

Nothing better to do

Peter Auchter

A couple of weeks ago I had nothing better to do with my time on a beautiful Saturday night, so I jumped into my car and drove out to see my girlfriend in St. Clair.

As luck would have it, my old car didn't break down and I managed to show up on time.

If I had known what would be in store for me, I think I would have stayed home and cleaned the bathroom instead.

Since there isn't a whole lot to do in St. Clair, besides watch the boats float down the river, we decided to take a road trip up north to a putt-putt golf course in Port Huron.

The cool night air was setting in as we prepared to play our first game. Two of my girlfriend's sisters tagged along because they couldn't find dates (actually they just enjoy my company), so we had a chummy foursome for our golf outing.

Because I was playing on an unfamiliar course, I got off to a slow start. If there wasn't a five-shot limit on each hole, I still would be standing at the first one. (All of the holes at the course were listed as Par 2).

The only thing that kept me from quitting the silly game at this stage was that I had nothing better to do at the time.

As the game wore on I got the hang of it. Over the last nine holes I was as hot as the kitchen stove. But I still finished fourth, by a single stroke. Oh well, it's not who wins or loses but how you play the game.

It's just too bad that I had the misfortune to play with three sore winners.

Since I was a glutton for punishment, a second game of golf was paid for (not by me) and the comedy of errors continued. The only difference was that this time it wasn't me.

I was acing holes left and right and humming right along while my girlfriend was wallowing behind in dead last.

I couldn't figure out why there was such a great change in our play from game to game. Maybe the flash on the camera I was using had something to do with her score. I don't know.

After a fast start, I cooled down and went back to shooting a bunch of fives. But then so was everybody else, so I thought I had a good chance of winning. Or at least climb out of the cellar.

When the it came time to total up the score after the game, everyone mentioned how late it was getting and that it was time to leave.

I was told that the score would be totaled up if I took them out to Taco Bell with my last $20.

Somehow in the confusion of ordering the steak sandwich that Jim McMahon swears by, I forgot to ask to see the scorecard.

When I remembered a few days later that I had never heard the final scores announced, I asked to see the scorecard.

We do have freedom of information acts signed in as law now. I was ready to go to court, but the defendants had conveniently "lost" the evidence.

Now I will never know how that game came out. It was my one chance to redeem myself for the lousy performance I had in the first game.

If anyone happens to see a scorecard from a putt-putt course in Port Huron swirling around town with the rest of the litter, please let me know. I'm dying to find out how well I did.

I guess the only recourse I have is to challenge them to another game.

If nothing else, it will give me something better to do with my Saturday nights.

BRAKE PRICES?

UNTIL THEY PULL THE WHEELS, THEY'RE PULLING YOUR LEG.

Think about it. How do some brake places know what your next job'll cost if they've never seen your brakes to begin with? Answer: they don't.

Fact is, there's no way anyone can figure out exactly what the price will be. There are just too many possibilities.

That's why at Midas, we pull all four wheels before every brake job. To get inside your brakes. To inspect them. To positively determine what's gone wrong. From a nine dollar can of fluid to a new master cylinder.

And when we're finished, we'll give you a pinpoint estimate of the entire job. With a price that won't go up when the job's done. That's our promise to you.

So when it comes time to pay, you'll have a leg to stand on.

Wolverines play numbers game this year

The coaches at Clarkston Junior High are playing a numbers game this fall with the size of their rosters.

On the down side, the number of boys on the football team dropped from about 60 last year to 28 this season, said Coach Steve Himburg.

The loss can be attributed to the smaller ninth-grade class size at the junior high this fall, he said. What kind of affect that will have on the Wolverines performance is still unknown.

"We have some good ball players on the team but it's hard to say how we will do (record wise)," said Himburg.

A positive side-effect from the small roster size is that the athletes will get more personal attention from the coaches, Himburg said.

Last year the Wolverines had only two coaches. This year they are going with four. Besides Himburg, Don Peters, Bill Bildstein and Daryl Williams will be on hand to help guide Clarkston Junior High.

"Playing ninth-grade football is a real learning experience," said Himburg. "Sometimes things don't start clicking until midseason."

The Wolverines, who finished 3-6 last season in Himburg's first season, face a tough schedule this year. And it could get tougher, said Himburg.

Besides facing rival Sashabaw twice, Clarkston must tackle such talented teams as Flint Southwestern and Flint Northern. Crary dropped its ninth-grade football program this season, leaving an open date on the Wolverines' schedule.

Brother Rice was then penciled in as a tentative opponent for the Oct. 21 game.

While the boys team lost about half its number of players, the girls basketball team remained the same. In fact, it even grew a little bit.

Usually, Coach Dennis Bronson likes to carry 12 girls on the roster each season, but this year he's throwing all caution to the wind and keeping a lucky 13.

About 21 girls played eighth-grade intramural basketball last fall and a majority of them make up this year's squad.

It's difficult to tell how well the team will perform this season, said Bronson. Clarkston finished with a 5-12 record last year.

Bronson has determined so far that his team has been blessed with speed. That will help them compete with the Waterford schools, he said.

Unfortunately, Clarkston doesn't have a lot of height on the team and rebounding could become a problem.

To help develop a stronger ninth-grade program in the future, a 7th/8th grade program is being instituted this season, said Bronson. But that won't help the team this fall.

"How we do this season depends on how we come along during the season," said Bronson.

The girls team opens the season Sept. 9 against Brandon on the road at 6 p.m.

Summer softball winding down

The softball diamonds at Clintonwood Park were busy with playoff action last week as the Independence Parks and Recreation Department summer softball league closed out its 1987 season.

Champions were named in the men's gamma, sigma american, sigma national and co-recreational leagues.

Davies Masonry team, which finished 9-1, won the co-rec title with a 19-9 win over Rinke Chevrolet, which also ended up 9-1 on the season, in the finals.

Terry Machine capped off an unbeaten regular season (12-0) by whipping Dixie Party Store, 7-5, in the championship game of the sigma national league playoffs.

In a tight battle for the sigma american playoff title, Baldwin Big Boy topped Energy Shield, 6-4. Both teams sported 10-2 records after the regular season.

The closest battle for a title came in the gamma league. Double M Fab team slipped past the Videomatics, 6-5, in the championship game.

Dexter powers Springfield over Plymouth

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Under threatening skies, Springfield Christian Academy poured in four first-half goals, including one in the first seconds of play, to remain unbeaten in prep soccer.

Springfield Christian whipped Plymouth, 8-2, at home to up their season record to 3-0-1.

Jeff Dexter paced the high-powered attack by pumping in four goals. He started the scoring assault by netting the first goal seconds after the game began.

The importance of getting the first goal of the contest, especially early in the game, wasn't lost on Coach Dave Vanaman.

Dexter's goal was a confidence booster for Springfield Christian, said Vanaman.

It's a good feeling to get this many goals," he said. "We played a lot better this time than against Emmanuel."

The Eagles and Emmanuel played to a 1-1 draw Aug. 25. Vanaman said his team played "a little flat" in that game.

Three players scored for Springfield Christian besides Dexter. The balanced scoring attack pleased Vanaman.

"We don't have any superstars on this team," he said.

The Eagles have to help themselves if they are to be successful this season, he said.

Andy Bull and Dave Marsh knocked in a goal apiece and Paul Adams had two goals. Marsh paced the Eagles in assists with three in the game.

Springfield Christian controlled the tempo of the game from the start, never letting Plymouth catch its breath.

The visitors didn't score until early in the second half and then again midway through the final half when the contest was all but decided.

The Eagles opened the 1987 season with a tournament at camp Co-be-ac. Springfield Christian won both of its games to finish first in the tourney.

Springfield Christian returns to action at home at 3:30 p.m. Thursday and 11:00 a.m. Saturday in the school's Labor Day Invitational.

SCOTT HINE of Springfield Christian gets ready to boot the ball upfield during a soccer game against Plymouth at home Friday afternoon. The Eagles won the game, 8-2.

Traffic solution eases eatery plan

A traffic solution from Independence Township Planning Commission member Brent Bair drew praise and allowed a compromise between restaurateur Harvey Render and the township planning commission.

On Aug. 27, the commission unanimously approved the final site plan for the reconstruction of Harvey's Colonial House Restaurant on Dixie Highway, Independence Township.

The approval came after a half-hour discussion, in which all parties agreed to Bair's solution to the traffic hazards at the busy site.

Before a fire put the restaurant out of business two years ago, the site had three accesses, two from Dixie Highway and one from Rockcroft.

At first, Render disagreed with suggestions to close one access and use the others as a one-way exit and a one-way entrance.

"I've been on this location for 26 years," he said. "I know the traffic problems."

He planned to have a one-way entrance on one, but an exit and entrance on the others, he said.

But Bair, who is director of planning and development at the Oakland County Road Commission, expressed worries with safety.

"I'm concerned with three access points to such a small property," he said, citing confusion and probable hurried attempts by customers to get off Dixie as quickly as possible.

He suggested eliminating three parallel parking spaces at the south end of the property, eliminating the northern Dixie access and adding four angle parking spaces at the north end of the parking lot.

Township engineer Dave Lakin suggested widening the southern Dixie access to allow exit and entrance and restricting the Rockcroft access to exit only.

"I think it would function better," said Bair. "It would be safer, and you might even gain a parking spot."

"Fantastic," said Render. "I like the plan. That was a good suggestion, Brent."

After the meeting, Render said he plans to build as soon as the building code reviews are performed on his property.

"I've got blocks and mortar sitting on the property now," he said.

Woodland Trail wins county stamp of beauty

Narrow, winding Woodland Trail in Springfield Township is now officially a natural beauty road.

The nod of approval came Aug. 26 from the Oakland County Road Commission in a unanimous vote.

The board acted on the recommendation of Susan Foltz and Bill McIntee, Oakland County environmentalists who conducted a public hearing on July 29 in Springfield Township regarding the Woodland Trail designation.

The designation for Woodland Trail, which winds easterly off Ormond Road for about a mile and a half, is effective immediately. The road commission said signs would be erected in the near future.

Lee Ann Oliver, one of the Woodland Trail residents active in the effort to get the designation for the road, said she is delighted with the decision.

Residents began the drive to get the natural beauty designation nearly a year ago. The road harbors a lush variety of native plants, and residents wanted the road to remain in its natural condition.

In 1979, Woodland Trail, formerly Shindler Road, drew attention when a toxic industrial dump site was discovered nearby. But the site is now clean and there is no evidence of the once toxic landfill.

Only 12 other roads in Oakland County carry the natural beauty road designation, a program begun in 1970 by the state to identify roads with unusual or outstanding natural beauty.

When the signs are posted, they will not only inform the public of the designation, but also warn road crews not to disturb roadside vegetation.

M-15 tree stops car

A Union Lake man was injured last Friday when he missed his turn and hit a tree on M-15 in Independence Township.

About 1:45 a.m., Dennis Lee Stepp, 30, was exiting from northbound I-75 onto M-15, according to reports at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

It was dark and raining, and he crossed M-15, fell into a ditch and hit a tree, according to the report.

Stepp was in good condition at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital on Monday.

He was wearing his seat belt when the accident occurred. He received a ticket for failure to use due care and caution, according to police reports.

His passenger, Francis Graves, was not injured.

2 hurt in Dixie crash

In the rain last Friday, two people were injured in a three-car accident on Dixie Highway in Springfield Township.

About 5:10 p.m., Christopher Fleming Vanscoyoc, 18, of Holly, was driving northbound on Dixie and turned left in front of an oncoming car, driven by Linda May Lock, 18, of Holly, according to reports at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Vanscoyoc hit Lock, who hit another northbound car driven by Paul Francis Gatton, 27, of Clarridge Road, Springfield Township, according to the report.

Gatton, who was wearing a seat belt, was not injured.

Lock was wearing her seat belt and was treated and released from Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital.

Vanscoyoc was not wearing a seat belt, according to police reports. He was treated and released from Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital and received a ticket for failure to yield.

Cars collide on Dixie

Two children were injured in a collision on Dixie Highway, Springfield Township, last Saturday.

About 12:30 p.m., Gregory Raymond Horn, 18, of Milford, was driving northbound on Dixie Highway south of Bridge Lake Road when a car pulled out in front of him, causing a collision, according to reports at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Raymond was not injured.

The other driver, Bonnie Jean Matusik, 35, of Gaylord, also was not injured. She received a ticket for failure to yield, according to police reports.

Of the passengers in Matusik's car, Carol Jean Pierce, 14, was not injured. Leanna Jo Matusik, 4, sustained minor injuries and Michael Lyle Pierce, 8, was treated and released from Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital.

All drivers and passengers were wearing seat belts.

Friendly faces

Waitress serves warmth with every dish

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

After living in five states in the past few years, Leslie Cascone was glad when her husband Michael's job brought them to Clarkston.

"We really like it here because we're from the east coast," she said. "I'm from Massachusetts and Michael's from New Jersey. Clarkston struck me as a New England town. I like its quaintness. I like the small-town atmosphere."

A waitress at Carol's Village Grill on Main Street, Clarkston, Leslie has met a lot of people in town since moving to Townview, Independence Township.

"There's a lot of friendly faces here. When I see them on the street, I may not always know their names, but we always say hi," she said.

"It's fun because my husband says to me whenever I go downtown that there's 1,100 people in the village of Clarkston, and you must know 900 of them."

The activities of the area impress Leslie as well.

"Michigan is a nice place to live. It has everything. The lakes are great. There is so much to do," she said.

"Clarkston is great because the kids can walk to the Mill Pond and go fishing or go to Deer Lake. And on the days I work, they usually pop down once a day to see me."

Leslie has worked at the restaurant four years, starting before it was called Carol's Village Grill.

"I wouldn't call it a challenging job, but I like it," she said. "I like waiting on people. I like meeting people."

Leslie's job is her first since the birth of her children, Christopher, 13, and Jill, 9.

"Don and Carol (Borngesser) are really good to work for," Leslie said, adding they allow her to work only two days in the summer.

"If I want a day off, they give it to me. It's just a nice job for me," she said. "It's part time. I'm home with the kids after school.

"It was hard for me in the beginning because I'm not a very outgoing person. My husband is. Every time we moved, I had to learn to meet people.

"I was nervous starting this job, ... but I guess I've learned to relax, and it's worked. I love it."

Her employers appreciate Leslie's enthusiasm.

"I really enjoy her being here," said Carol Borngesser. "She does a good job for us. ... She is just pleasant to be with, and she laughs at everything I say.

"We have some good summer help, but I miss her when she's not here," said Carol.

DO YOU KNOW SOMEONE WHO works in the Clarkston area and deserves recognition for a job well done? We'd like to share your praise. Give us a call at 625-3370 or drop us a line at The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main, Clarkston, MI 48016.

Leslie Cascone enjoys cross country skiing, needlepoint and reading in her spare time. The Townview, Independence Township, resident also likes to spend time with her children.

Behind the scenes:

Cable-TV studio buzzes as programs are put on film

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

There is a flurry of activity in the United Cable Television studio on Waldon Road as a crew prepares to film four 15-minute programs of Cherie's Craft Corner.

The craft show is one of many produced for Public Access Cable Channel 65 by volunteers from the community.

Hartwick's image at the table is multiplied on half a dozen screens, some in color, some in black and white.

The crews are trained and supervised by Joel Burnell, public access coordinator for United Cable Television of Independence Township, a franchise of United Cable Television of Oakland County. United Cable provides the non-profit, public access channel.

Volunteers include adults who come home from their jobs, taking long enough to change into comfortable clothes before spending the evening filming in the Independence Township studio and high school students who find the volunteer work an interesting extracurricular activity.

All are busy as the time draws close for cameras to roll.

Gary Polley, the director of this production, climbs up and down a tall ladder adjusting lights. He is the one responsible for making sure that everything goes smoothly during the filming.

Polley is in charge of lighting, sound, camera angle, and positioning of people on the show.

"The director is the guy that tries to put all the ideas together on three-quarter-inch video tape," Polley says.

The talent for this show is Cherie Hartwick, who manages the craft and art department at Tierra Inc. in Clarkston. She is busy setting up for the show at a table in the brightly lit studio.

Hartwick's shows are usually a half-hour long, but these are special, 15-minute after-school shows for children.

"The producer is the person who gets everything together at the right night doing the same show."
—Producer Nancy Rose

She usually works alone on the program, but children are used to help make the crafts in the special children's shows, so several children are milling around the studio waiting for "showtime."

Producer Nancy Rose is giving last-minute instructions to the crew.

CRAFT CORNER preparations completed, Cherie Hartwick of Tierra Arts and her sixth-grade helper Fiona Brown, prepare to do potato printing as Cherie's Craft Corner is filmed for Independence-Clarkston Public Access Cable Channel 65.

In commercial productions, producers are the financial backers. With public access programs, the producer is responsible for coming up with program ideas and then pulling together a volunteer crew to implement the concept.

"First I get an idea, then I find the talent to do it, and then I get with Joel on a date to shoot it," Rose says. "The producer is responsible for everything to get the show ready to film. If you need a writer, you have to find that, too.

"The hardest part is pulling together the volunteer crew," she says. Needed are three camera operators and a floor director, who reports to the director, plus other crew.

"The producer is the person who gets everything together at the right time on the right night doing the same show," she says.

Hartwick has an art education degree from Purdue University, West Lafayette, Ind., and has been teaching crafts for seven or eight years, so she says coming up with ideas for her show is not a problem.

"To prepare for a show, I decide what craft I will demonstrate, and then make an outline of how I will present it," Hartwick says. "I don't work from a script."

Then, she pulls together all the supplies she will need. For the kids' shows, she made kits of what they would need to use on the show.

During the show, she works on a craft as she explains how to make it and tries to have samples of finished products to exhibit.

"Hello, I'm Cherie Hartwick. Welcome to my craft corner."
—Cherie Hartwick

"Sometimes, it takes 45 minutes to get camera angles and sound ready," Hartwick says. "But once we get started, we usually keep on rolling until the show is finished."

SCAMP honors caring couple

Clarkston SCAMP said thanks to Lew and Diane Wint at a recent luncheon in their honor.

The Wints were treated to lunch at the Clarkston Cafe on Aug. 19 and were given a sketch of their Clarkston home by the board of the North Oakland SCAMP Funding Corp., said secretary-coordinator Bunny Newmarch.

The board decided to honor the Wints while "doing some reflection about where we've come from and since the beginning and how SCAMP has grown," she said.

SCAMP, a summer camp for handicapped children and young adults, began in 1976. About 75 attended the five-week camp that summer. This year, the enrollment was about 200.

In 1977, the funding corporation was formed and Lew Wint was one of the people directly involved. Through the efforts of the corporation, the camp is funded mainly through fund raisers and donations. Most campers pay a nominal tuition fee.

Lew also served as president of the funding corporation and Diane was chairperson of the original Christmas card program and has been involved in numerous fund raising activities over the years.

"They've just been real supportive and active--and there when we needed them," said Newmarch.

Our want ads blanket over 31,000 homes like a soft summer rain. 625-3370

Strange Language puts twist into new music

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

John Bickford and his band, Strange Language, have a bit of classical influence buried in their new wave sound.

Although they're not sure how to classify themselves, their sound is new, said John.

"Five years ago, I would have called us new wave, but now, new wave is pop," he said. "Basically, we want to please ourselves, but we want to please the listening public, too."

John talked from his Main Street, Clarkston, home, while a video recording of Strange Language's live performance played in the background. A musician friend, Rick Molter, recorded their performance during the show at Windsor Auditorium last week.

In one song, three melodies ran rampant at the same time--the subtle classical touch, said John.

It was the first live performance for the band members, whose goal is to record rather than perform live locally, he said.

"When you're doing the local things, you're taking time away from writing," he said, adding they'd like to skip the local performances and get right to recording.

The Windsor show gave them a chance to work on their live performance, he said.

"It was very exciting," said John. "I love the response of the audience. For me, that was my whole motivation to play music."

The audience was actually whistling and hollering, said John, which is surprising, since they probably didn't know their music.

John, who is co-owner of a vintage clothing store in Birmingham, talked about his role as a musician.

"Music has always been an essential part of every society," he said. "I've always felt that as a musician, you're a servant. You're taking on the obligation of providing that service."

John and two of his long-time partners, Peter Arndt and Tony Simper, compose all the lyrics and music. The band's newest members, Al Waltz and Cliff Thomas, also contribute, he said.

"It's extremely difficult," he said. "We occasionally yell at each other, but we have a working relationship where we can talk and have it all out. ... There is never any tension held."

John enjoys composing and arranging, he said.

"It's a way of expressing ourselves and our experiences in a medium that can reach a lot of people that wouldn't read a book. ... We can benefit others through our experiences. Our songs are abstract images of our personal experiences in life."

The group practices almost every night, which is hard, since most of the members have full-time jobs.

"We're very dedicated. It doesn't leave much time for anything else," John said.

John, it seems, has been around music his whole life.

"My roots are in folk music, sitting on a stool playing an accoustic guitar," he said.

He played the trumpet, trombone and baritone in school in Florida, he said. And he was influenced by his family, who moved to Clarkston when he was in high school.

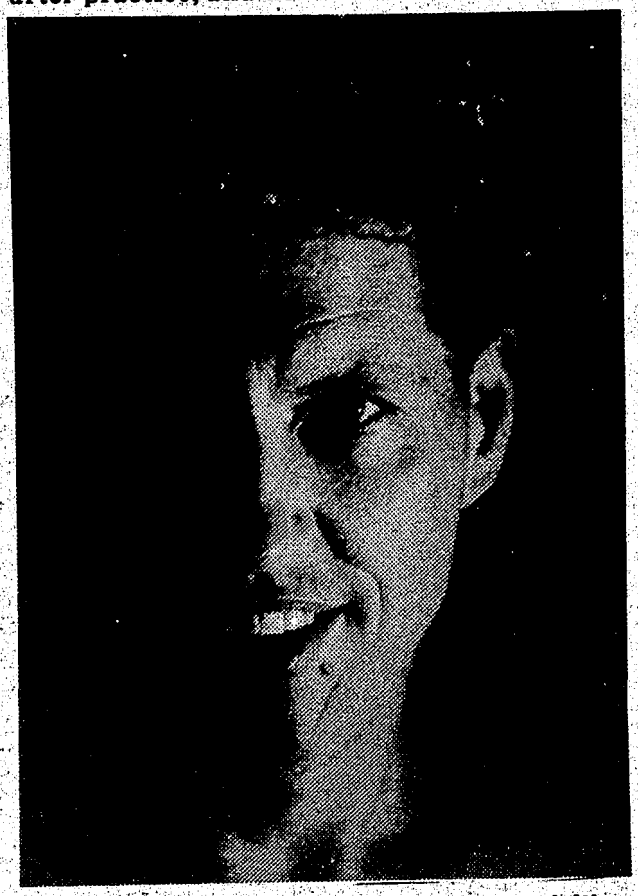
John chose to stay in Florida, but his family's interest in music still reached him, he said. His father plays the harmonica and his mother plays the piano and sings with the Sweet Adelines and the Clarkston United Methodist Church choir.

"My grandmother, Essie Smith, used to be the librarian in Clarkston for years," he said. "She was a great ragtime pianist. She was incredible. The sweetest little lady I've ever known."

John is proud of his band and hopes to keep writing likable songs, he said.

He's proud of one other aspect of his band, too.

"Except for alcohol, we're a drug-free band," he said. "We don't go out and get drunk after practice, and none of us are alcoholics."



ONE OF JOHN BICKFORD'S favorite activities in his band is composing and arranging music.

WONDER DRUGS

Friend to friend

I hate school

ACTION AND EDUCATION AWARE WAR ON DRUGS

Dear Friend to Friend,

I'm 17, I have a car but no friends and I've never gone out with a girl. All I really like to do is work.

On Fridays, I go out with my mom to the Dairy Queen. Is this normal?

Almost a Nerd?

Dear Almost,

You have some very positive qualities and learning the value of work early in life doesn't make you a nerd. You may be shy, however, or you haven't learned how to easily and comfortably involve yourself with others.

To get involved with other people, you can join sports, clubs or organizations. This may sound too simple, but we have found that being in groups is the best way of meeting others.

In a school, church or community organization, everyone is there for a common purpose and usually there isn't the pairing off that makes you feel like an outsider.

As for not having a date yet, don't worry about it. Lots of people don't date a great deal before their twenties.

Going out with your mother indicates another good quality you possess: A quality relationship with your mother.

With several things going for you, all you need to do is to become a little more assertive in meeting people. We think you're OK.

Dear Friend to Friend,

I had worked up a lot of trust with my parents. But then I did something foolish and lost all of their trust. How can I get them to trust me again?

Unsigned

Dear Unsigned,

Most of us have done something foolish at one time or another to destroy our parents' trust in us. It seems to come with the territory of being a teenager.

Letting them know how much you regret what you did might help. The only way to right this, however, is by trying extra hard to earn back their trust.

It usually takes time and always involves more than just saying you're sorry. Parents judge how much they can trust you more by your actions than your words.

Dear Friend to Friend,

I hate school. As far as I'm concerned, it stinks. I wish I didn't have to go. I think I might quit. What do I do?

Confused

Dear Confused,

You don't sound confused. You sound like you know for sure that you dislike school.

But, dwelling on your hatred of school won't make it easier to go to school. In fact, it will make it harder.

What you have to do is develop a positive attitude about anything in life that is tough for you. That includes school.

Developing a positive attitude about school means that you have to find some good reasons to go to school and remind yourself of these reasons every day.

But, don't quit. Everyone gets discouraged about school at some time. You'll need an education to accomplish almost anything worthwhile in life.

Going to school now, while you are young, will certainly be easier in a lot of ways than when you are older.

Stick with it and get a high school education, then at least you'll have that behind you. You can stop school for a while then to decide your next move.

Not quitting school can be a valuable experience for the rest of your life; the sooner you learn to hang in there when the going is tough, the better person you'll be forever.

LETTERS TO FRIEND TO FRIEND are answered by a panel of Clarkston High School students under the sponsorship of Aware, a community group devoted to action and education against chemical dependency.

Students can submit letters by placing them in the designated "problem locker" at CHS, Clarkston Junior High or Sashabaw Junior High.

Letters can also be sent to Friend to Friend in care of The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main, Clarkston, MI 48016.

Health volunteers enjoy their job

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

At the Child Health Conference, the volunteers are attracted to the children for different reasons.

"I like working with the children," said Leona Stelmach of Waldon Road, Independence Township.

"You're with them all day, and then you go, and they're not your responsibility. You're like grandparents," she said.

Working for a half-day twice a month, the volunteers measure and weigh the children and provide blood tests, developmental tests, physicals, immunization and counseling.

An Oakland County preventive medicine program, it's free to families who can't afford medical care for their children, ages two months to preschool.

The program in the Clarkston area started at the Independence Center on Sashabaw Road, Independence Township. And with it, started Leona 17 years ago.

"I'm the only original left," she said.

The program moved to the Church of the Resurrection on Clarkston Road in Independence Township until the remodeling began on the building. Then, it moved to the Clarkston United Methodist Church on Waldon Road.

Agnes DeNise of Eastview, Independence Township, has been a volunteer for 11 years.

"I like the babies--to touch their hair, their faces," said Agnes. "I love to look at their feet. That's what I like."

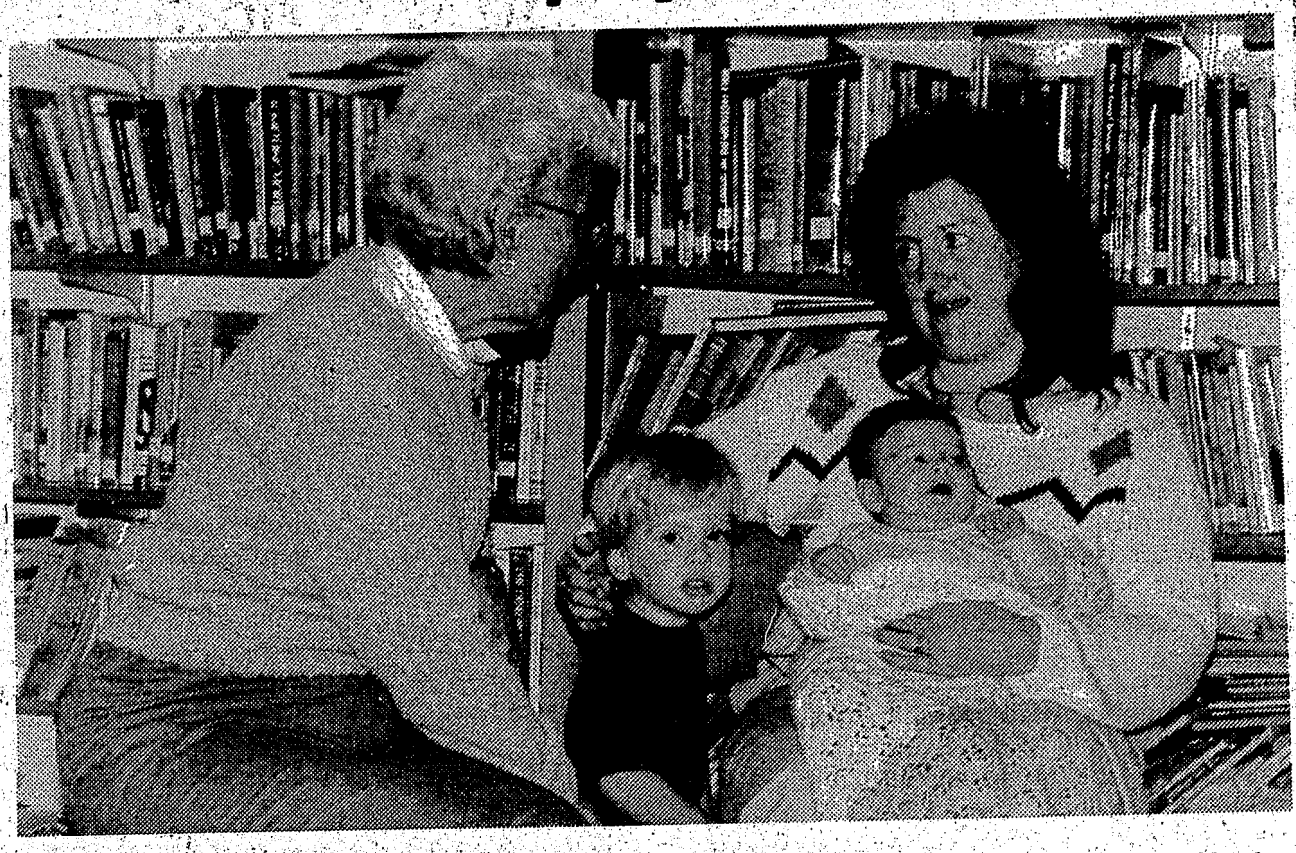
Leona likes the babies, too.

"When babies come in, we measure their heads, so now, whenever I see a baby, I look at their heads," she said.

For six-year volunteer Ruth Purslow of Main Street, Clarkston, it was a chance to return to her specialty after retiring from Pine Knob Elementary School as principal.

"I like being with children again," she said. "I've been in education for 40 years. ... I miss the kids. ... I like to keep busy."

Leida Kelt of Parview Drive, Independence Township, has volunteered for 12 years.



WITH TIME TO CHAT every once in a while, Director Kathy Nicholson starts to feel like the patients are almost relatives, she says. Here, she talks with Julia Bogner of Pine Knob Lane, Independence Township and her two children, Joshua and Jessica.

"I like to get out and meet people," she said. "If you're used to working, a little volunteering is nothing. ... The way I feel, I'm needed. And I have the time."

Elaine Peltier, a 12-year volunteer from Lakeview, Independence Township, likes working with the other volunteers.

"The people we work with are so nice," she said. "I think it's a wonderful program for mothers with young children. They get such a good physical here--better than what they would at the doctor's."

Clarkston director Kathy Nicholson values the work the volunteers do.

"They're just tremendous," she said. "And our clients--they're almost like family, we've been here so long. And some of the volunteers know their parents because they've worked in the schools.

"I don't know what I'd do without them," she said. "They're just like grandmothers. The volunteers are very humble. They deserve recognition," said Kathy.

In 23 clinics last year, the volunteers saw 373 children, said Kathy. For more information or to make an appointment, call the Child Health Conference at 858-1311.

THEIR VOLUNTEER WORK allows Leida Kelt (left) and Ruth Purslow to keep busy after retirement.

MEASURING BABIES is part of the fun for Leona Stelmach, a volunteer for 17 years in the Oakland County Child Health Conference in Clarkston. Here, she's with Nedra Charmichael of Springfield Township and her three-month-old son Adam. Substitute volunteers are Mae Cobb and Margaret Sutherland.

BABIES' FEET ARE what Agnes DeNise of Eastview Road likes best about working with children.

FELIX PREFERS houses to hutches.

Hoppin' good pet

Felix is an English-mix, 6- or-7-month-old rabbit, but don't tell her. She thinks she's a little person.

She loves corn chips, cats and being held.

The little black and white bunny is a very people-oriented pet and she's even trained to a litter box.

Felix can be adopted at the Michigan Humane Society, 3600 Auburn Rd., Auburn Heights, 852-7420. Hours at the non-profit shelter are 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

She must be spayed before going to a new home, and the total adoption fee is $10.

Microwave-plus

Healthy choices

Betty Wagner

Back to school means hungry appetites for after school snacks.

With today's interest in nutrition, school age children can learn early how to snack or graze with healthy choices.

The microwave oven provides a safe way for school-age children to be self-sufficient and prepare their own after school snacks.

Here are some fun and yummy offerings from The Reynolds Wrap Kitchens of Reynolds Metal Co., Richmond, Va.

CORN-ON-THE-COB

Tear off a sheet of Cut-Rite wax paper large enough to wrap one ear of corn. Clean the corn; wash and pat dry. Place corn in the center of the wax paper.

Place 1 tablespoon butter on corn. Fold up wax paper around corn and twist edges to close tightly. Place in microwave-proof dish.

Set microwave at high power for 3 minutes. Start oven. After 3 minutes, if corn is not tender, turn over and microwave for 30 seconds more or until tender.

Note: To microwave more than one ear of corn, add 3 minutes for each additional ear.

DIVE IN POTATO DIPPERS

1 carton (16 ounces) plain low fat yogurt
1 package (1 ounce) ranch style party dip
3 baking potatoes
2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
1 teaspoon seasoned salt
1/2 cup shredded Colby cheese

Place yogurt and party dip in a small bowl. Stir with a spoon to mix well. Cover with Reynolds Plastic Wrap and refrigerate.

Scrub potatoes. Cut each potato in half lengthwise. Cut each potato half lengthwise into 3 wedges. Arrange potato wedges in a spoke circle, like a bicycle wheel, on a large microwave-proof plate.

Brush potato wedges with butter; sprinkle with seasoned salt. Cover plate with a sheet of wax paper.

Place in microwave oven; cook at high power for 6 minutes. After 6 minutes, use potholders and turn plate halfway around. Microwave at high power for 7 more minutes.

If potatoes are not tender when pricked with a fork, microwave at high for 1 to 3 minutes or until potato wedges are tender. Use potholders to remove from oven.

Remove wax paper. Sprinkle cheese over potatoes while the potatoes are hot enough to melt the cheese. Serve with prepared dip.

Refrigerate leftover dip. Serve with raw vegetables or corn chips.

Time savers

Brenda Ward

"I'd really love to, but I don't have the time."

TIME, the big factor that all of us run our work and recreation by. And somehow it always seems that we just don't have enough time.

Today, the role of women is constantly expanding. We are wives, mothers, lovers, friends, women of all careers. The list goes on.

While our roles in our personal and public lives continue to demand more and more from us, so does the desire to always look our best and to do the best things for ourselves.

Recently during a regular monthly facial, a client and I were discussing a beautiful famous singer.

"She's so gorgeous," my client said, noting that the singer was also close to her own age. "Gosh, I wish I could look like that."

"Well," I said, "if you had a facelift, hair extensions, a personal masseuse and a private exercise instructor, you would look like that too!"

"She does all that?" my client asked.

"That's what I read," I told her.

"Oh, forget it," she said. "I'd never have time for all that."

We both laughed.

I use this conversation as an example. We all have the best intentions for ourselves when it comes to looking our best, but children, families, career and community sometimes restrict the time we have to spend.

I have run across hundreds of women of all colors, ages and walks of life, and we all have one thing in common. We all like a few shortcuts!

This week, here are a dozen little beauty tips to make the most of time.

When changing day makeup to night, don't remove eyeliner or mascara. It's too messy. Repair smudges with a cotton-tipped swab and liquid eye makeup remover. Result: A fresh face 10 minutes faster.

Quick-dry nail polish by dipping nails in a bowl of ice water for 5 minutes. Lightly smooth baby oil over each nail tip.

Don't have time to deep condition dry hair? Apply your favorite conditioner (hot oil works best for this) onto dry hair before bed. Leave it on, sleep in a shower cap. Shampoo as usual in the morning.

If eye or lip pencils are too soft to resharpen, stick them in the refrigerator.

A quick pick-me-up: Keep your favorite eau de toilette in the refrigerator. Spritz on bare skin for a fragrance that's pure exhilaration!

Add a few drops of your favorite perfume to any unfragranced lotion and you'll have instant scented lotion at a fraction of the cost.

Rx to perk up droopy hair that's got to make it all evening: Use electric rollers. Spry on hairspray before you comb the curls out.

Two baby's teething rings kept in the freezer will help temporarily reduce swelling in puffy or tired eyes. Place rings over eyes (place a tissue over eyes to protect makeup). Lie down and relax for 10 minutes.

Sleeping with a neck roll will save any hairstyle almost perfectly overnight.

Quick face-lifting mask: 2 egg whites beaten with a squeeze of fresh lemon. Paint on in an upward direction using cotton balls. Wait until tight and dry; rinse off. Makeup will go on extra satiny.

If you're in a big hurry, you can really get more done in a bath than a shower. Shave, pumice knees, heels, elbows, have a mask on your face, save your hairstyle, even polish your toes. RELAX.

A quick, exactly 20-minute nap is more revitalizing than an hour when you're really tired and it's not quite bedtime.

Any one of these may just come in handy when you are running short on time.

Have a good week, and make sure to take a little time for yourself. You do deserve it!

Clarkston Catholics to join crowd with pope

BY ALISA NASS
Clarkston News Special Writer

Some 234 members of St. Daniel's Catholic Church of Clarkston plan to join an estimated 90,000 people to hear Pope John Paul II say mass Sept. 19 at the Pontiac Sliverdome.

"I don't think it's an opportunity many American Catholics have and I am delighted," said Laura Creamer of Independence Township.

"You have both the religious significance of attending a mass by a pope as well as a historical, newsworthy event in the Pontiac area," said her husband, Andrew Creamer.

The Creamers entered their names in St. Daniel's lottery for Sliverdome mass tickets.

"When we initially heard about the lottery we didn't think our chances were very good. As time went on, it appeared not as many people were planning to attend," said Andrew.

The number of tickets each parish received from the Archdiocese of Detroit was based on parish size.

"We tried to be as fair as possible in the ticket allocating," said Brenda Marshall, assistant director of communication for the papal visit.

The number of tickets allocated ranged from 25 for smaller parishes up to 400 and 500 for the larger parishes.

Overall, everyone was "pleasantly surprised and very happy" with the number of tickets they received, said Marshall.

St. Daniel's parish, which received 234 tickets, has around 1,100 families or 4,500 members, said the Rev. Charles Cushing, parish priest.

The only requirement for a ticket was that one be a registered member of St. Daniel's.

The lottery "was slow at first but then it went overboard" with more requests than tickets, he said.

Reports from news sources about the expected crowd size and number of tickets available compared to the number Catholics might have discouraged people at first, he said.

Cushing also talked about the significance of the pope's visit.

"It's important for people to identify with their faith," he said.

"With him you have a center of unity. The unity is important because it makes the realities of faith more familiar in the lives of people and it enables them to be able to see their relationship to God and themselves more clearly," he said.

Of the lottery winners contacted by The Clarkston News, some expressed concern about the crowds but all were excited about the opportunity.

"I've had relatives call me from Cleveland asking how they can get tickets. It is a great honor to be picked. I am very fortunate I can get a ticket," said Mary Jane Harrison of Independence Township.

"He's a world leader, a symbol of peace and you only have one chance in a lifetime to see him," said Sonia Woods of Springfield Township.

Sonia plans to attend the mass with her parents, Francis and Donald, and grandmother, Mary Bustos.

"To me it's an honor," said Ann Graunke of Waterford Township. "In 1979, my mother had got in touching distance. She just thought the experience was so wonderful, so I wanted that experience."

Ann is attending the mass with her husband, George, and their daughter, Mary.

"I was real excited to see our names" on the list, said Mary, because the family thought maybe one member would be able to attend but not all three.

"I dislike crowds and almost didn't put my name in," said George.

Transportation for the members of St. Daniel's will most likely be a carpool to the Phoenix Center and shuttle buses to the Sliverdome, said Cushing.

"All the bus services are tied up," he said, adding that the policy of the Clarkston school district is not to lend out school buses.

The question of how to get to the Sliverdome is important because no private cars will be allowed to park in the Sliverdome parking lot.

For security reasons, "everyone will have to go through a magnetometer, like at the airport," said Marshall. Purses, cameras and bags can be taken in, but people are asked not to bring coolers or picnic hampers.

A two hour pre-event is planned for entertainment, she said.

Various Christian musical groups are to perform and there will be video presentations on family life and the different ministries of the church. Pope John Paul II is to arrive by helicopter and, before mass, circle the inside field of the arena in the popemobile.

Mass is scheduled to begin at 4:10 p.m. and is expected to last two and one-half hours.

"It should be a very exciting day and we hope a very enjoyable day," said Marshall.

Negative stress factor in burnout

Most of us have heard about people suffering from "burnout," particularly as it relates to jobs.

Sometimes these people weren't even aware they were going through burnout. Being able to recognize some of the possible causes and symptoms may help you to avoid going through burnout yourself.

Negative stress is a factor in many burnout cases, says Elaine Glasser, Home Economist for Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service of Oakland.

Everyone needs some positive stress in their lives, but working in an environment with a lot of negative stress can make your work become less efficient and less effective.

As negative stress builds up, you may find that it takes more time and energy to do the same amount of work you used to do.

Does you job or life seem to lack challenge? Or do you have unclear goals that shift back and forth or goals that are unattainable (too high or too broad)?

If so, you may be a candidate for burnout. Other possible causes of burnout include becoming overly committed to your work, being an "overachiever" or identifying too closely with your work.

How can you tell if you're going through burnout?

Physical or emotional exhaustion or illness, feeling that you don't control your life and feeling that you are "stuck" in your job or your life are all symptoms of burnout.

Burnout is reversible, Glasser says, and there are ways to avoid the chances of being caught up in it. Most of these can be applied to daily situations. Some of these suggestions are:

Look at one day at a time.

Deal with one problem at a time.

Limit the number of obligations you accept at any one time.

Learn to say no without feeling guilty.

Learn to make priorities of tasks and obligations.

Keep goals realistic and updated.

When change is occurring in your life, realize it will be stressful and allow for it in your thinking.

Take time to total your positives, recognize your capabilities and count your successes.

Senior notes

Free eye check

Meeting some of the needs of the area's older residents is the goal of a Springfield Township senior citizen group. They offer an alternative place to visit.

A potluck lunch and bingo follows the Young at Heart board meeting in the Springfield Oaks Activity Center Sept. 10. The meeting begins at noon.

The following week, the sightmobile from the Balian Eye Center in Rochester will be visiting for free vision screening between the hours 10 a.m. and 3 p.m.

Interested senior citizens can call to set up an appointment. the screening process includes the individual's health history, blood pressure is taken, patient is tested for glaucoma and cataracts, and eyeglass prescriptions are reviewed and recommendations are given to the patient.

There will be a potluck lunch and a senior dance on that Sept. 17 afternoon as well.

The Young at Heart senior citizen group is sponsored by the Springfield Township Parks and Recreation Department and meets once a week on Thursdays at the Springfield Oaks Activities Center on Andersonville Road.

Channels switched

Almost all of United Cable Television's 59 channels have moved around this week, including the public access channel that moved from Channel 11 to Channel 65.

United sent notices of the changes to all its Independence Township customers, and they've only received one call about the changes, said Halla Claffey, customer service representative.

Still, it's confusing, she said.

While technical reasons may have prompted the change, the new channels have provided unity on all of United's channels, including Independence Township, Orion Township, Royal Oak, Rochester, Berkley, Ferndale, Troy, Auburn Hills, Pontiac Township, Huntington Woods and Farmington.

A couple of new channels, including fashion and a Spanish speaking show, are scheduled to begin this fall, she said.

The newest program on public access Channel 65 features Clarkston resident Joe Armstrong ("Dr. Hoo"), who will discuss the many benefits and appropriate uses of humor.

Programs on Channel 65 are broadcast Monday through Thursday evenings from the Waldon Road studio of United Cable Television.

IMPROVE PRODUCTION

Set Aside 10 Minutes To Plan Your Day.

Time management experts say that setting aside ten minutes of planning time a day can increase productivity by at least ten percent.

Set aside the same time slot each day (best: first thing in the morning or last thing in the evening) and limit it to ten minutes.

Longer planning periods can involve too many details and can actually hamper productivity.

When in doubt, throw the food out

Summer storms or winter winds in Michigan are very likely to knock power lines down. What do you do with no electricity and a freezer full of food? Don't panic!

Freezers are well insulated, and each package of frozen food acts as a block of ice protecting the food around it, says Liz Thieleke, Oakland County Extension Home Economist.

"Resist the temptation to look inside the freezer," she says. "Keep the door closed for as long as possible."

Ordinarily, a fully stocked freezer will keep foods frozen for two days after losing power. A half full freezer can maintain freezing for roughly one day. Generally the power is restored by this time.

A general rule of thumb to remember is if foods are still partially frozen (contain ice crystals and still very cold to the touch), they can safely be refrozen. The eating quality may be slightly affected, but are safe. Mark those packages which have thawed and been refrozen and use as soon as possible, says Thieleke.

Discard any meat, fish or poultry product that has thawed to room temperature. Refreeze thawed fruits or use to make jam or jelly.

Completely thawed vegetables that are still in good condition can be cooked and refrozen. When commercially frozen products say do not refreeze, throw them away.

Use good judgment when refreezing thawed food. Remember, when in doubt, throw it out. For more information, call the Food Hotline at 858-0904.

Help in hiring

A free workshop designed for employers to help sharpen interviewing skills is offered by the Clarkston Career Center.

How to save money by taking advantage of local employment and training programs will also be covered.

Topics to be discussed include: interviewing techniques, lawful/unlawful pre-employment inquiries, targeted jobs tax credit, reimbursement for on-the-job training and assessing applicants through aptitude and interest training.

The workshop is planned Oct. 8 from 8:30 until 10:30 a.m. at the Clarkston Learning Center. Enrollment is limited. Call Kim Hassinger at 674-4791 to register.

Don't panic

David Kwasnick

"What do you want to be when you grow up?"

Remember that question? I'm sure you do. It was usually being asked of you by some overly enthusiastic aunt or a curious playmate.

It was sort of a fun question, one that allowed your imagination to run a little wild.

"I want to be an astronaut, a jet pilot, a star quarterback, etc." The list goes on. The catch was you were allowed to use your imagination. There always seemed to be so much time to decide.

It's been quite a few years since then. You've changed and so has the question.

It's no longer "What do you want to be when you grow up?" It's now: "What are you going to major in?" "What are you planning on doing after high school?" "What are you going to be doing a year or two from now?"

The questions aren't all that much fun anymore.

Actually, the whole thing can be scary. I mean, it seems like a monumental task deciding how you will make your livelihood.

And if you look at the big picture, to the future, it is monumental. Your career is the means by which you will support yourself for the better part of your life.

It will play a part in determining the lifestyle you will lead and the people you will meet. It may even help you decide whether or not you want to get married and start a family.

That's the big picture--the scary stuff

Don't let all this overwhelm you. Take it one step at a time. There are many decisions and choices that don't have to be made now. They can be made more comfortably later, farther down the road.

As you reach your senior year, however, and make the basic decision on whether to continue your education, go into apprenticeship or join the work force, it's really important to not lose that imagination you had as a child.

Now is the time to believe in yourself.

You can be whatever you want to be. There are so many careers to choose from that the possibilities are endless. The choice is yours to make.

What DO you want to be?

PRAYER TO THE HOLY Spirit. Holy spirit. You make me see everything and show me the way to reach my ideals. You give me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrongs that are done to me and you are in all instances o' my life with me. I, in this short dialogue, want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you no matter how great the material desire may be. I want to be with you, my loved one, in your perpetual glory. Amen. Persons must pray this prayer 3 consecutive days without asking your wish. After 3 days your wish will be granted, no matter how difficult it may be. Then, promise to publish this dialogue as soon as the favor has been granted. Thanks, St. Jude, for favors receivd. Long nights common at cable studio film, some of the crew is huddled in the control room, where adjustments are being made to lighting and cameras.

Hartwick's image at the table is multiplied on half a dozen screens, some in color, some in black and white.

The director is the one who will decide throughout the show which of the three cameras is "on line," or actually filming on the video tape. He will relay his orders to crew at the equipment in the control room.

Curtains are pulled to cover equipment behind the table where Hartwick is seated in the studio, and the child seated with her is given instructions.

A "quiet on the set, please" from the director indicates it's almost time.

"Floor director, do you have your head set on?" the director asks from the control room.

"Need audio for talent," he says, addressing crew in the control room.

More conversation drifts from the control room before the door is closed and the camera rolls.

There is a brief silence before quiet lead-in music can be heard.

"Hello, I'm Cherie. Welcome to my craft corner," Hartwick begins.

Oops! A signal from the floor director indicates that there will be a restart.

"Talent, we're about ready. Ten seconds," the director says.

Muffled, from the control room, a countdown--three, two, one, zero--can be heard just before the music begins again.

After repeating her introduction, Cherie launches into an explanation of spud duds, or potato printing on shirts, as she cuts a potato and presses a cookie cutter into it to make a stamp.

After preparing the stamp, pouring fabric dye into shallow plates and preparing a shirt for decorating, she demonstrates the craft briefly before having her young helper, Fiona Brown, perform her own demonstration.

A three-minute sign is held up by the floor director. Hartwick glances subtly at the sign and begins her wrap up as the show comes to a close.

There is a brief "intermission" while Hartwick cleans up from the first craft and prepares for the next filming. Two new children are placed at the table and Hartwick lays out the materials for beaded Christmas ornaments.

While lighting is reworked, Burnell and the crew monitor equipment in the control room.

"Give me a head and shoulders on three, please," Burnell says, testing the equipment.

As the cameras roll, Polley watches the screens intently, giving orders to the cameramen through his headset.

Behind the closed doors of the control room, the conversation centers on the screens: "Oh, look at that face!" Burnell says, as one child, Julie Kerton, sticks her tongue out and furrows her brow as she concentrates on beading her ornament.

The camera zooms in on Kerton's face, and then to the other girl, Regina White, who shows equal concentration.

"Tilt up, tilt up!" Polley orders, and the camera raises obligingly.

From the corner of the control room, Rose tells director Polley there are five minutes left. Polley relates the information to the floor director in the studio, who in turn signals Hartwick.

Another show wraps up. Two more will be filmed before the night is over.

Nights like this are common, Burnell says. "Something is going on almost every night, and sometimes during the day, too."

Shows are also filmed with remote equipment on location, rather than in the studio. And then there is the editing, which the producer usually does.

"Half-hour shows take an average of several hours, but can take as much as 10 or 20 hours to produce," Burnell says. "There are a lot of factors involved."

For Burnell, it is a career. For the volunteers, the "lights, camera, action" of filming cable television programs is an exciting and fun way to serve their community.

Toy sales to benefit needy people

A toy openhouse in the area will benefit homeless children and their families in Michigan.

Scheduled for 10:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Thursday, Sept. 10, the proceeds from the toy sales are to finance COTS, an acronym for Coalition on Temporary Shelter.

Linda Schoemer, senior manager of Discovery Toys, will host the open house in her home at 4985 Lakeview Blvd., Independence Township, off Clarkston Road, between Pine Knob and Eston roads.

The toys are educational, durable, non-racist, non-sexist and non-violent, said Schoemer. They're good for Christmas and birthday gifts, or they may be donated to the COTS program, she said.

Toys range from puzzles, books, games and art supplies to rattles, teething rings and building blocks.

Sales receipts will be given, and the purchases and donations of toys are tax deductible, she said.

The purpose of COTS is to eliminate the duplication of services to homeless families and to provide shelter to families with immediate emergencies.

For more information, call 394-1389.

League to begin

Prospects are bright for a League of Women Voters of Clarkston after an informational meeting Aug. 26 drew 18 interested residents.

An organizational meeting for the League of Women Voters of Clarkston is planned at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 22, in the Clarkston United Methodist Church. People are asked to use the Church Street entrance.

Membership is open to all citizens 18 years and older. Men have been welcome in the league since 1974.

The League, a national, non-partisan organization formed in 1920, strives to promote political responsibility through informed and active participation of citizens in government.

More information about the Clarkston branch of the League of Women Voters is available by calling Katherine Payne at 625-5464, or Ann Glenn at 625-2775.

Style conscious?

A fashion show planned by St. Daniel Church will highlight the latest styles from Country Cords clothing store.

The fashion show will take place at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 15, in St. Daniel Church, 7010 Valley Park, off Holcomb in Clarkston. There is a donation of $3 for the show.

Hors d' oeuvres, desserts and other refreshments will be served. There will be door prizes donated by many area merchants.

More information about St. Daniel's Fashion Show is available by calling 625-3032 or 627-2658.
