Deer Lake enforcement to rise

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

By next boating season, Deer Lake area residents should have more enforcement on the lake, according to the Independence Township Board. After an Aug. 25 public hearing, the Michigan Department of Natural Resources recommended more enforcement on Deer Lake, said township Supervisor Frank Ronk at the Sept. 15 board meeting.

"We'll have to find more funding for Deer Lake," he said, adding the extra enforcement would cover the weekends and maybe an evening or two.

The officials in the parks and recreation department shouldn't be doing the enforcement, he said, so the township will have to hire people from the Oakland County Sheriff's Department Marine Division.

"Hopefully, by next season, the program will be in place," Ronk said.

Some board members recommended more than just extra enforcement.

EVERY YEAR AT CRAFTS AND CIDER, Pam Humphrey [left] of Harvard Street and Christine Truba of Iroquois Road spend some time shopping for silver earrings.

300 gallons of apple cider later . . .

The storm clouds held off last weekend, and the Clarkston Community Historical Society sold 350 dozen donuts and 300 gallons of cider at its 13th Annual Crafts and Cider Festival.

"The weather was supposed to be just awful, and it just didn't turn out that way," said President Jennifer Radcliff. "The community responded in kind. It was very encouraging to us."

About 25,000 to 30,000 people attended, she said.

Although the expenses haven't all been totaled, the historical society made over $6,000--more than last year, said Treasurer Peggy Bruni.

The money is to help finance the construction of a historical room at the Independence Township Library.

"It's very important for a community that's growing as fast as this one," said Radcliff, adding it will hold records and information about the area, as well as books and historical artifacts.

The festival was a good one this year, she said.

"I think the exhibitors are increasingly aware of the sophistication of the shoppers out here. . . The quality is increasing. This has become a fine craft show. The jurors did an excellent job. They started in October," she said, adding they'll start this October for next year.

Sold for the first time this year were mugs with a historical design by Independence Township artist Sally Kubani, said Radcliff. Less than 90 are left. To buy a mug, contact Sharron Catallo at 625-1440.

A chocolate milkshake last Friday brought a happy moment to a 16-year-old survivor of an accident involving a school bus two weeks ago.

Nancy Christine Rush, a Clarkston High School junior, has a broken jaw, among other injuries, and can only drink from a straw, since her mouth is wired shut, said her brother Don Rush.

When she was able to talk, the milkshake was one of the first things she asked for at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital, and the doctor immediately put it on her menu, he said.

"She's doing well," he said. "Folks can visit her now. That helps."

Nancy, a Clarkston Road, Independence Township resident, was injured Sept. 10, when the car in which she was a passenger collided with a school bus on Waldon Road, Independence Township.

The driver of the car, Janis Ridley, died in the accident. Ridley was also a junior at CHS.

They don't know yet when Nancy will be released from the hospital, but she begins therapy to help her walk this week, said Don. Nancy's femur, the large thigh bone, was broken in the accident.

Nancy and the Rush family appreciate all the support from family and friends, he said.

Traffic woes plague lake

Trustee Daniel Travis said he attended the DNR public hearing and heard mostly of problems with jet skis.

"I'm not in favor of jet skis on that lake," he said.

At the minimum, enforcement should be added to ensure that jet skis follow all the same laws as the other watercraft, Travis said. At the maximum, jet skis should be banned.

Travis also suggested limiting the public access to jet ski operators with proof of insurance for their watercraft.

Trustee Carol Balzarini agreed that jet skis should be banned.

She also suggested the Deer Lake study committee, appointed last November by the board, meet one last time to make a recommendation to the board on the DNR's recommendation.

The plans for Deer Lake are to be in place by the time boat keys are sold next spring.

POPE JOHN PAUL II acknowledges the crowd that came to see him at the Silverdome Saturday. The Dome was filled to capacity with 90,000. A 1,200 voice choir, many local singers, not necessarily Catholic, helped fill the pope's two and a half hour appearance.

Pope's visit stirs emotions

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Emotions ran the full gamut through crowds who gathered 70,000-strong in Detroit and 90,000-strong at the Silverdome when Pope John Paul II made his historic visit to the area last weekend.

That fact holds true for several Clarkston area residents who played an active part in activities surrounding the papal visit.

For Ivan Rouse, of the Clarkston Conservatory of Music, the papal mass at the Silverdome was "a great and special occasion."

Rouse was asked by the director of the Archdiocese of Detroit Music Commission to sing in the 1,200-voice choir, a request which he happily accepted.

"I thought as I drove to the Silverdome that (Pope John Paul II) is a direct descendent of those preachers in Rome in early Christianity," Rouse said. "He's a great man of peace, and society needs that."

For Bernie and Grace Heike and daughter April of Groveland Township, members of St. Anne Church in Ortonville, the mass meant a busy but satisfying day.

The family volunteered to be ushers at the papal mass, according to Grace, who works at The Clarkston News. It meant they had to go through security checks, numerous rehearsals, and spend a long day (9 a.m. to 8:30 p.m.) at the Silverdome.

"I never really got excited until we walked into the Silverdome," Grace said. "And it was the same way for my daughter. The atmosphere was overwhelming."

Grace said each section of the packed stadium seemed to try and outdo the last with cheers as the pope circled the arena when he entered. But when he spoke, a hush took over the stadium.

"I never had such a good experience in my whole life. It was one of the best things in my life, other than my first communion."

Jimmy Territo, age 8

"The man radiates a peace-giving, loving feeling," Grace said.

As serious as the occasion was, the day was not without its lighter moments.

It seems that Grace, overzealous in her ushering duties, attempted (per instructions) to keep people who didn't have the properly coded tags from entering her level at the stadium. But the men she attempted to stop all day turned out to be Secret Service men.

Progress continues in Thendara road quest

Fall 1988 could mark the end of the mud slides and dust clouds that plague the roads in Thendara Park Country Club subdivision.

A tentative agreement has been reached between Independence Township and the Frechettes, property owners along Algonquin Road who objected to an aspect of the road improvements, said township attorney Gerald Fisher.

The township board hasn't formally accepted the agreement, so he couldn't provide the details, he said.

If the board accepts the agreement with the Frechettes and the Oakland County Circuit Court

She said she was, understandably, quite embarrassed, but has since amused her friends by telling the story.

And for Jimmy Territo, the Clarkston youth who aspires to be the first American pope, singing for the pope at Hart Plaza in Detroit was more than special.

"I never had such a good experience in my whole life," said the 8-year-old. "It was one of the best things in my life, other than my first communion."

"I learned an awful lot about that little boy," said Jimmy's mother, Beverly, when her son reacted so deeply to the Hart Plaza event.

After the pope blessed the crowd, she said Jimmy looked up, choked with emotion, and said, "I know he looked at me and I know he blessed me."

"It was all he wanted," Beverly said.

"You know, even through that glass cage, you could feel the charisma of (the pope). You could feel his love," she said. "I think we're changed forever."

approves one more item, the road improvements could be scheduled for next fall, said Fisher.

The last item for the court to approve is a default judgment against the other property owners along Algonquin Road, he said. Last spring, the township filed suit against all Algonquin Road property owners to bring any objections to the road improvements out in the open.

Since the objections have been addressed, the township would like to move ahead with the project, he said. The court date requesting a default judgment is Friday, Sept. 25.

PIRGIM report 'outdated', area officials say

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

"Dramatic" and "outdated" are the terms local officials used when describing the PIRGIM report, issued Sept. 1.

PIRGIM, an acronym for Public Interest Research Group In Michigan, issued the report to illustrate the need for anti-dumping laws in Michigan.

The information is old, and the conclusions drawn are extreme, said local officials.

"From the information I have, two of the (three) things (in Independence Township) are way off base," said George Anderson, director of the Independence Township Department of Public Works.

Two problems have already been rectified, and the third is still undergoing testing, he said.

Collin Walls, Springfield Township supervisor, concurred.

"There's no new and exciting information," he said. "To the best of my knowledge, there is no current threat to the health of any residents in the community."

Walls called the report "an example of people with very good intentions putting out information which is a day late and a dollar short and unnecessarily causes alarm."

The problems in Springfield were either an accident or an illegal act, he said.

"All the legislation in the world isn't going to stop someone who intentionally and knowingly does something wrong," he said.

"Legislation's a good idea," he said, but he added PIRGIM's time would have been spent better on lobbying for more enforcement for existing laws and more money to fund enforcement and cleanup.

Mike Czuprenski, director of environmental quality analysis in the Department of Natural Resources (DNR), also thought the report was dramatic.

"In general, it's a little extreme," he said. "There are many sites on the list suspected of environmental contamination, but not necessarily known.

"Many sites we don't believe are as serious as they believe them to be," said Czuprenski, adding the report didn't differentiate the severity of the sites, but only listed them by the scores used by the DNR to prioritize them.

"We appreciate their conclusions that we are understaffed and underfinanced to address the problems, but I think the term 'toxic crisis' is a little dramatic," he said.

In Independence Township, the DNR is still testing wells in the Clarkston Road area, he said.

"That one is probably our most serious concern in the township," he said.

Low amounts of freon and benzene were found, and the state health department is to replace the wells or connect residents to a municipal system, he said.

Orion teen dies in crash on Dixie

An 18-year-old Lake Orion man was killed and two others injured in a three-car accident on Dixie Highway, Independence Township, last Friday.

About 9:30 p.m., Alexander Lee Sheppard of Cole Road, Lake Orion, was driving north on Dixie Highway, about a half mile south of Maybee Road, when he was hit by a southbound car that crossed over the yellow center line, according to reports at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department (OCSD).

After hitting Sheppard, the driver of the southbound car, Richard Herman Nelson, 31, of Briggs Road, Waterford Township, hit another car, driven by James Edward Coulson of Rolling Acres, Ortonville, according to the police report.

With all the testing, they're finding more information, which may help recategorize the site so it will become a higher priority, he said.

"We're hoping the score is high enough so we can use state funds to perform a hydrogeological study," Czuprenski said.

The study will help determine the cause of contamination—whether or not the former landfill is connected, he said.

PIRGIM Program Director Andrew Buchsbaum said he had received positive response from the report and many phone calls.

"People have taken the report seriously, which is good," he said.

"We've talked to a number of legislators. There's a lot of support to get something done quickly," said Buchsbaum, adding something may start this fall in the state Legislature.

Sheppard, who was not wearing a seat belt, was dead on arrival at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital.

Coulson was treated and released from Pontiac General Hospital (PGH). His passenger, Ruth Dorthy Coulson, 51, was treated and released Monday from PGH. Both were wearing seat belts at the time of the accident.

Nelson was also wearing a seat belt and suffered minor injuries in the accident during the rain.

Nelson was tested for the alcohol level in his blood, but the results aren't back yet, said OCSD Traffic Investigator Kim Rossman. Tickets or charges are pending the blood test results, he said.

Three sites in Independence considered toxic

Three sites in each Independence and Springfield townships were listed as toxic waste hazards in Oakland County in the PIRGIM report issued Sept. 1.

The townships are two of only eight communities in Oakland County with three or more sites, according to the report.

PIRGIM, an acronym for Public Interest Research Group In Michigan, issued the report to gain support for anti-dumping laws in Michigan.

According to the report, the following sites are listed in the Department of Natural Resources' (DNR) list of toxic hazards in Independence Township:

*Residential wells in the Sashabaw Road area; cause unknown; polluted with benzene, toluene, xylene and dichloroethane; wells on Elmdale, Oakvista and Pinedale roads were affected, as well as groundwater and soil; residents currently use the municipal water system instead of their own wells.

*Buckeye Pipeline near Deer Lake; possibly caused by leak in pipeline; soil and possibly groundwater affected; DNR, Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) action unknown.

*Residential wells in the Clarkston Road area; caused by landfills; midnight dumping suspected in Ben Powell landfill; polluted with chloroform, PCB; toluene, xylene, phenol, cadmium, lead, zinc and ammonia; wells on Perry Lake Road and Northview Drive were affected, as well as groundwater and soil and potential contamination of municipal wells; site under investigation by Oakland County; leachate from the unlined landfill is contaminated.

Also on the DNR list are the following sites in Springfield Township:

*Dumpsite on Shindler Road; caused by the illegal disposal of liquid industrial wastes from 1966 to 1988, barrels buried or drained into ground; polluted with paint sludges, solvents, PCBs, oils, greases and metals; affected the soil and groundwater; state paid for the removal of 1,500 barrels and some contaminated soils; site is on a national priority list and is scheduled for cleanup in 1988.

*Oakland County Road Commission salt storage area near Dixie Lake on Rattalee Lake Road and Dixie Highway; salt storage area not properly covered; polluted with sodium chloride; affected surface water, groundwater and residential wells; county performed hydrogeological study, installed monitoring wells, and built a cover for the storage pile and retention basins to receive runoff.

*Pontiac Steel, Dixie Highway; cause unknown; polluted with heavy manufacturing substances; groundwater affected; DNR, EPA action unknown.

Along with the PIRGIM report came recommendations for environmental enforcement legislation.

*Shift the burden of paying for cleanup off taxpayers and onto polluters by imposing strict, joint and several liability on dumpers to force the parties responsible for the contamination to pay for the cleanup.

*Deter and reduce unlawful dumping by empowering the DNR to assess administrative fines on parties who violate the anti-pollution laws.

*Speed the investigation and cleanup of existing sites by giving trained local public health officials the authority to enter and investigate possible sites.

PIRGIM is a non-profit, non-partisan research and advocacy organization established, directed and supported by Michigan college and university students, with guidance from its professional staff.

The group's goal is to develop citizenship skills and shape public policy. Consumer protection, energy, the environment, housing, political reform and social justice are PIRGIM's principal areas of concern.

Dixie office OK'd

Construction of a Dixie Highway office may begin this year in Independence Township.

With several conditions, the planning commission approved the final site plan for the 20,000 square foot building to house the office of David Plautz, a builder and planner.

The approval was subject to comments from the township planner, township engineer and subcommittee approval of the fence, retaining wall and landscaping plan.

Planned for a site with residential buildings to the rear, the office is to be built on the east side of Dixie Highway south of White Lake Road.

The building is to be constructed of stone, brick, wood and copper--to give it a "residential look," said Plautz at a July meeting.

On Sept. 10, the commission voted 4-0 to approve the final site plan. Commission member Richard Oppmann was absent.

Quiet weekend

Kathy Greenfield

Driving along I-75 on Saturday was an almost eerie experience.

We knew, of course, that Pope John Paul II was due to arrive within an hour at the Pontiac Silverdome, which took the edge off the sights, but still ...

The state police cars at every exit ramp, the line of motorcycles with blue police lights flashing and helicopters in the sky changed the usual ambiance of the busy highway.

Perhaps most startling of all was the lack of traffic. It was refreshing and it brought back memories of the way it used to be 10 years ago or so.

We stopped to eat an early dinner at a normally packed restaurant and, as with the traffic, we found a different than normal situation.

We were seated immediately, the food arrived in a flash and there were empty tables all around.

The waitress told us extra staff members were on duty because large crowds were expected due to the pope's visit. The restaurant could have filled up later, but most of the staff seemed to be watching the pope on TV while waiting for customers.

Shortly thereafter, our travels took us to M-59 and right past the Silverdome when the pope was inside.

Then, the hovering helicopters offered an opportunity to wonder what they were watching for—a spooky train of thought, at best.

Again, the traffic was down to a trickle and police were everywhere. I couldn't help but think that we'd all be much better behaved as drivers if the police were always so visible.

The drivers on 75 and 59 were driving much closer to the speed limit than usual.

It was a bonus to a visit by a world dignitary that I never would have predicted and similar to the observations of Bill Bonds on the 11 o'clock news the night before when the pope arrived in Detroit.

More than once, Bonds exclaimed that he couldn't remember seeing so many smiling people on the streets of the city.

The report was the most positive one I can remember. It was so refreshing that I watched it to the end.

Fond farewell

A note arrived at The Clarkston News asking what happened to cartoonist Ken Temple.

Ken, we're happy to report, has been accepted at the Center for Creative Studies in Detroit where he will be studying industrial design.

He's moved to an apartment in Detroit and, much to our dismay, has decided he no longer has time to create cartoons.

He began drawing cartoons for our editorial page three years ago near the end of his senior year at Clarkston High School.

We were pleased to be able to share his work and hold especially fond memories of his creations. (Remember Ninja Pigeon?)

We wish him the best.

Editorial

Students should stay at high school

Student freedoms. What does that mean? During a discussion about whether Clarkston High School should become a closed campus, one in which students are not allowed to drive away for lunch, the phrase was used.

To take away a former privilege could be viewed as an erosion of student freedoms, the person said. Students and their parents could be upset.

Such a change could be cause for protest, especially since some students leave the building at noon time to travel to the vocational school and the CHS lunch area is not large enough to serve all the students.

Making students stay in the school during the half-hour they're allowed for lunch has been under discussion for years.

Such a move would create problems for a variety of reasons. Tables and chairs for dining would have to be available in more than one room. More supervision would be necessary. And so on.

The most recent revival of the closed campus discussion follows the death of a student involved in an automobile accident while driving back to school from lunch.

Wouldn't it be wonderful if we could think of a way to protect all of our young people from such tragedy?

And wouldn't it be wonderful if the solution was as simple as keeping all students in school during lunch time?

Yet while we realize that it's simply not that simple, we still believe that closing the campus isn't such a bad idea.

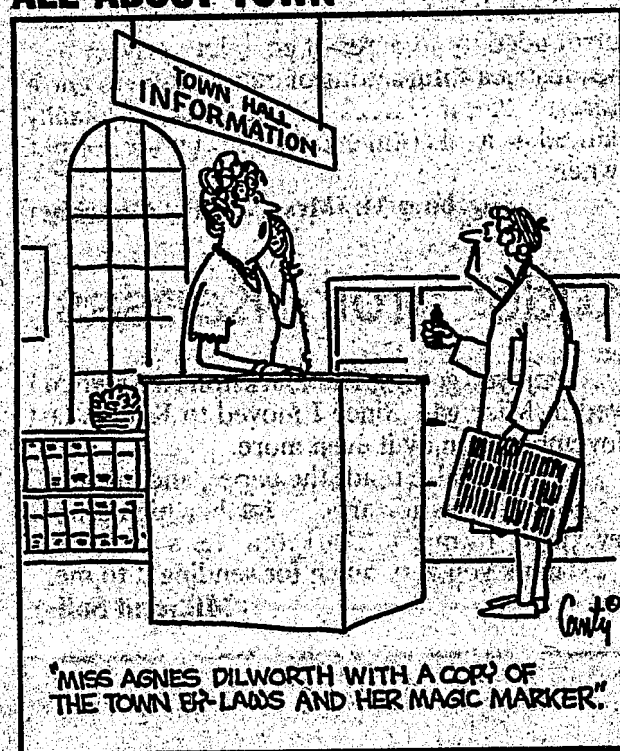

A couple of years ago, when closing the campus was also under discussion, during a casual discussion, we asked a couple of students how they would react to such a change.

The students said they wouldn't mind. Part of what was going on was that if you had a car, it was expected that you would dash out for lunch.

Adding peer pressure to the equation doesn't make it sound like much of a freedom at all.

Letter policy

We welcome our readers' opinions. Letters to the editor must arrive at The Clarkston News office by noon Monday to be considered for publication in Wednesday's paper. We reserve the right to edit all letters for brevity and clarity and to limit the number of letters from any one individual on any one topic. We discourage copies of letters sent elsewhere, and require all letters be signed and include a phone number and address. We may withhold names on request, but will not publish unsigned letters. Address all letters to: Letters to the Editor, The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main, Clarkston, MI 48016.

Jim Sherman

Jim's Jottings

A 'No offense intended' column. I think sometimes I look for phrases. Things like: That's what it's all about.

Athletes and coaches will say, "We had a game plan, ya know, and we followed it, and ya know, we won. That's what it's all about."

Educators use "That's what it's all about" in reference to earning diplomas. Promoters say it about when they see they have you thinking their way.

You can hear "That's what it's all about" on tithing, about helping crippled children, winning on a tv game show, or commenting on seeing an elderly couple holding hands.

As a phrase catcher, I think this one is used much too often, and seldom for what it's all really about.

Each day 25,000 Americans discover they have lice, spend $300 million on clothes, and eat 228,000 bushels of onions — that's a pile of onions 120 feet high and 75 feet wide.

I spoke of phrases above, an over used word in recent months is 'basically'. Basically, I believe ... Basically, it comes down to ... Basically, there is no difference between man and woman, except ...

In our house it's very easy to know when Hazel has been into the bread. The wire tie is turned the left-handed way. IT'S ONLY A MINOR IRRITATION!

Question 1. Does it depend on whether a person is right or left handed on which shoelace breaks first?

Question 2. Are there more cars on the road when it rains, or does it just seem that way?

Think of this: A Siamese archer fish feeds by knocking insects off twigs several feet above the surface of the water with a drop of water spit from its mouth. The aim is perfect. You don't see facts like that in the big papers. However, I did see in Sunday's Free Press that women eat more hot dogs than men.

Why fourth finger, left hand for wedding rings? The ancients believed that the fourth finger on the left hand could bind hearts.

Small boy in front of a dentist's showcase: "Mommy, when I need false teeth, I want that pair." Mother: "How often have I told you never to pick your teeth in public?"

And, in closing, I never remember whether a pleasant woman was pretty or not.

My name is Linda Lock, and on Aug. 28, I was in a car accident on Dixie Highway near the Davisburg intersection.

I wanted to thank all the people who helped me, especially one nurse from Clarkston, whose name I do not know.

I am doing OK and have all those wonderful people to thank.

Letter writer agrees

Reading and enjoying the articles in my Wednesday's issue of the Clarkston News 9-16-87, I fully agree with the expressions of a concerned citizen by the name of George Vitinoros under "Education is..." on Page 8 of your newspaper.

I had to look for my Great Encyclopedia Dictionary from "Readers Digest" to identify the exact meaning of the word ABYSMAL... in "Abysmal values of the twisting society around us making evil look good and good look evil."

I further liked the selection of Mr. Vitinoro's quote of Albert Einstein's saying, "It is essential that students acquire an understanding of, and a lively feeling for values... of the morally good. Otherwise he with his specialized knowledge more closely resembles a well-trained dog than a harmoniously developed person."

Finally, I could not more fully agree with his statement in the last paragraph of his letter, saying, "This lively feeling for values can be called the missing perception to education, good character development."

I would like to get in touch with Mr. Vitinoros, but my search in the telephone book for his name, address and telephone number was to no avail. I found only two listings under the last name of VITINAROS, Athanasios in Pontiac and Peter in Clarkston.

I also appreciated and agreed with the letter under "Group Concerned with Growth" but there the name and telephone number were given for whom and where to contact for more information.

We are subscribers to the Clarkston News since the early '70s and we have enjoyed it ever since.

We have resided at our present address on Pine Knob Road since Christmas of 1968 and are surrounded by 15 acres of complete privacy and the most beautiful setting of fields, pastures and a "forest" of pine trees in the back, originally planted as a Christmas tree farm by the former owner.

Kudos from Kansas

I enjoyed getting The Clarkston News when I lived in Michigan. Since I moved to Kansas last November, I enjoy it even more.

My sister also reads the paper, and my niece has gotten ideas for articles for her high school newspaper from The Clarkston News.

Thank you very much for sending it to me.

Caring community

Dear Friends,

Although words seem so inadequate, we wish to express our sincere thanks for your loving prayers and support these past 15 months.

When times were darkest, you were there with a hug, an apple crisp, a handful of flowers or a loving prayer that we didn't even know about. We thank you!

We sincerely appreciate your visits at the funeral home, the beautiful cards and flowers, the dinner and all you have done to make this an easier time for us.

We especially appreciate our family, the Rev. Heidi Reinker and Harold and Norma Goyette.

Many made contributions to the Michigan Cancer Foundation in Roger's memory. We are grateful that research continues against this dread disease.

A book on the outdoors, which Roger loved so much, was donated to Independence Township Library in his memory for others to enjoy.

BOY

By Bruce A. Stewart

Above the treetops the winter light plays,
Through the limelight the plaster clouds sway.
Dirt colored highways bruise my sight,
Geese and the lake free from fright.
Bending my belief to a strand of broken hair,
Swallowing my words as if under a dare.
I have a problem.
I have a feud.
I'm a down home southern boy trapped in blue,
Let me up, out and into my past.
Barefoot walkin' and sail ship masts.
Dandelion wine and nothin' but time.
Just a down home southern boy
Getting by fine.

'If it Fltz...' Searching for acceptable sin

Jim

I feel sorry for George Bush. As much as he wants to be president, he's never going to talk to Ted Koppel for an hour on television.

TV viewers want to watch Koppel or Barbara Walters interview Gary Hart and Donna Rice, or Tammy and Jim Bakker. No one cares that George Bush got drunk once.

Bush has written the story of his life, "Looking Forward," with the help of journalist Victor Gold. Gold assured the press that the book isn't just goody-goody stuff. It reveals that, at the age of 24, Bush encountered hard liquor.

"They carried him home in the back of a truck," Gold said. "He was dumped on the lawn, and a guy knocked on the door and said to Barbara (Mrs. Bush), 'Well, there's George.'"

Isn't that pathetic? Bush and Gold obviously have the right intentions; they want to temper Bush's gentlemanly image and assure voters that he's really a rascal. But c'mon: Getting drunk just doesn't cut it.

How about cocaine? And I don't mean 39 years ago, I mean last month. And has Bush ever been a patient at the Betty Ford Center? Bush can hardly expect to be invited on TV talk shows if he can't say he was at Betty Ford's clinic so long he got out so he could quit staring at her face-lift.

When he is accused of being a whimp, Bush often cites his combat record in World War II. Big deal. Has he ever assaulted a reporter? Bush won't get an hour with Koppel until he at least slugs a photographer for invading the privacy of his public life in a glitzy saloon.

When Gary Hart cut short a fishing vacation in Ireland to hurry home and confess his sins on TV, he didn't leave without adding to his deadbeat legend. He neglected to pay the $600 rent for his vacation home. This was peanuts compared with the $1 million-plus he still owes for his 1984 and 1988 presidential campaigns, but every little debt helps.

ORDINARY PEOPLE like to hear about big shots who don't pay their bills. They like to see on TV or in the newspaper that Gary Hart can afford a vacation in Ireland but he can't pay a three-year-old printing bill owed to a small businessman who can't afford a vacation in his backyard.

That's the great thing about Gary Hart, TV-wise. He's not only an admitted adulterer, he's a world-class celebrity deadbeat. Last week Hart told Koppel he was sorry about his campaign debts but said nothing specific about paying them.

Speaking of specific, it would be fair if Donna Rice gave Hart a share of the money she is being paid for wearing tight jeans in TV commercials. She wouldn't be making all that money if Hart hadn't joined her in doing nothing specific.

Hart told Koppel he was relaxing, with his guard down, when Donna Rice just sort of dropped into his lap, and he was embarrassed to see that she wasn't a friend of his wife. That's the sort of stuff George Bush is up against in vying for media attention.

TRY TO visualize Ted Koppel bearing down on Bush, on live TV, and saying, "After this commercial message, I'm going to ask you the question that all America wants answered." The question is: "Did you throw up from drinking too much Jack Daniels in the back of a truck 39 years ago?"

And Bush answers: "I am profoundly sorry to have to admit that in the 63 years of my life, I once drank too much. But I will never get specific about what I drank. All I can say is I used bad judgment and for that I want to look into the camera with wet eyes and tell my children I am sorry."

It will never happen. People won't turn on TV to watch minor sinners or loose jeans. You might as well ask them to watch a presidential candidate discuss foreign policy, the national debt, or something else important.

Village OKs anti-demolition law

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

An ordinance prohibiting substantial alteration or destruction of buildings in the historic district was approved by the village council Sept. 14.

In a joint meeting with the planning commission, a public hearing was conducted to decide if an anti-demolition ordinance should be approved. No one from the public was in attendance.

The new ordinance is based on the old historic district ordinance but it only deals with demolition, which makes the document less restrictive, said Trustee Frank Millard.

The council passed the proposal in a 7-0 vote. It will take a couple of months before being enacted due to the paperwork involved, said Clerk Norma Goyette.

"I'm extremely happy with this ordinance," said President Sharron Catallo. "It's a very fair ordinance."

The anti-demolition ordinance reduces the scope of the controversial historic district ordinance and only deals with substantial alteration, demolition and moving of a structure in the village's historic district.

"There was total aesthetic control before (with the old ordinance), but this one limits it," said Steckling.

The village historic district, as established by the National Register of Historic Places in 1980, includes buildings from the northern village limits south to one house past Waldon Road and from the west bank of the Mill Pond to the east bank of Parke Lake.

North Holcomb Street, both sides, up to Surrey Lane is included in the historic district; Robertson Court is not.

Substantial alteration is defined as changing more than 30 percent of the structure, said Trustee William Basinger.

Changes include those to the surface of the wall and the supporting structure underneath, he said.

Additions on the rear of the building would not violate the ordinance, Basinger said.

A special consideration was made for additions in the rear since they couldn't be seen from the street, he added.

Steckling advised the village council that a historic commission would be the enforcing body for the anti-demolition ordinance and not the village council.

Individual village council members could sit on the commission; however, they all couldn't be members, Steckling said.

A village council and/or planning commission member on the historic district commission would greatly enhance communication channels, Catallo said.

The discussion then turned to accountability of the historic commission when it acts on the anti-demolition ordinance.

"You should make them report more often," said Goyette. "Speaking as a resident, I know how bad it got last time."

Tire cleanup set in motion

At the request of the Independence Township Board two weeks ago, attorney Richard Campbell was appointed receiver to rid the township of an illegal dump of 600,000 tires on White Lake Road.

Campbell was appointed by Oakland County Circuit Court Judge David F. Breck.

The township also requested that the judge allow Campbell to sell some of the property to pay for tire removal, said township attorney Gerald Fisher.

Breck reserved judgment on the method of compensation for Campbell until a dispute is solved between Paul Eghigian, owner of the 65 acres on White Lake Road, and William Smith, lessee of the site and owner of the tires, said Fisher.

Eghigian's property is zoned residential, so the tire dump, begun in May this year, is not allowed, said Fisher.

People can flock to sheep shearing

When sheep are sheared, they lose 10 to 15 pounds instantly.

"They get up and shake themselves and, boy, they really feel good," says Gloria Bellairs, owner of Hillside Farm in Springfield Township.

Members of the community are invited to see the shearing process, free, during Wool Away Days on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Oct. 1, 2 and 3.

From 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. each date, there will also be wool weaving, spinning and carding demonstrations by local fiber artists and lamb to taste.

The purpose of Wool Away Days is twofold, says Bellairs, who has operated the farm with her husband George for 16 years.

"We open it to the public because it's educational, something that people don't normally see," she says.

Many children have never seen shearing, she added, and have no idea how wool grows or how it is processed into yarn and fabric.

"I even enjoy seeing shearing myself and I've seen it hundreds of times," she says.

The second reason is to alert the public that wool is sold on the farm.

Groups that plan to view the shearing should call first so crowds don't get too large for close-up observation (625-2665).

The farm's address is 8351 Big Lake Rd. about one block off Dixie Highway adjacent to the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center.

A red ribbon tied on the farm's mailbox will mark the spot.

Two new autos in store for officials

Two new cars may replace two old cars used by Independence Township employees this fall.

With one condition, the township board accepted the prices on two Chevrolets from John Bowman Chevrolet of Independence Township at the Sept. 15 meeting.

With no conditions, the township is to accept the $11,334.30 cost of a 1987 Chevrolet Celebrity for the building director.

The director's present vehicle is to be used by the building inspector, whose township vehicle is "dead in the parking lot," said George Anderson, director of the Department of Public Works, and who bargained for the prices.

The vehicle for the supervisor, whose present car will be used by Anderson (whose township vehicle is to be sold), won't be purchased from Bowman unless the company can match the percentage of discount offered by Wally Edgar Chevrolet.

"I agree that we should support local businesses, but local business should be competitive," said Trustee Dale Stuart, who suggested the condition.

For Bowman's price to be competitive to Wally Edgar's $12,779 price, the price for the 1987 Celebrity must be lowered from $13,089.55 to $12,998.12, said Clerk Richard Holman, who figured the percentage of discount.

Stuart said the township vehicles don't need the extra optional items that will be coming with the new cars, but the items are found when the township waits until the last minute to buy cars from the lot instead of ordering in advance.

Ronk said the township's policy of filtering cars through top officials to other employees should be changed, so cars with minimum options may be purchased.

The board unanimously voted to approve the purchase of the two vehicles, providing the condition is met.

Grant uses eyed

After unanimously adopting a cooperative agreement resolution for the federally funded Community Development Block Grant on Sept. 9, Springfield Township Board members discussed potential expenditures.

Supervisor Collin Walls estimated the allocation to be "somewhere between $20-26,000," based on the 1987 allocation of $26,000 and 1986 allocation of $32,000.

A three-year plan, suggesting some potential programs in the broadest terms, was recommended by the board, including: economic revitalization and elimination of blight, recreational facilities and parks, senior citizen center and more sidewalks and paths in the township.

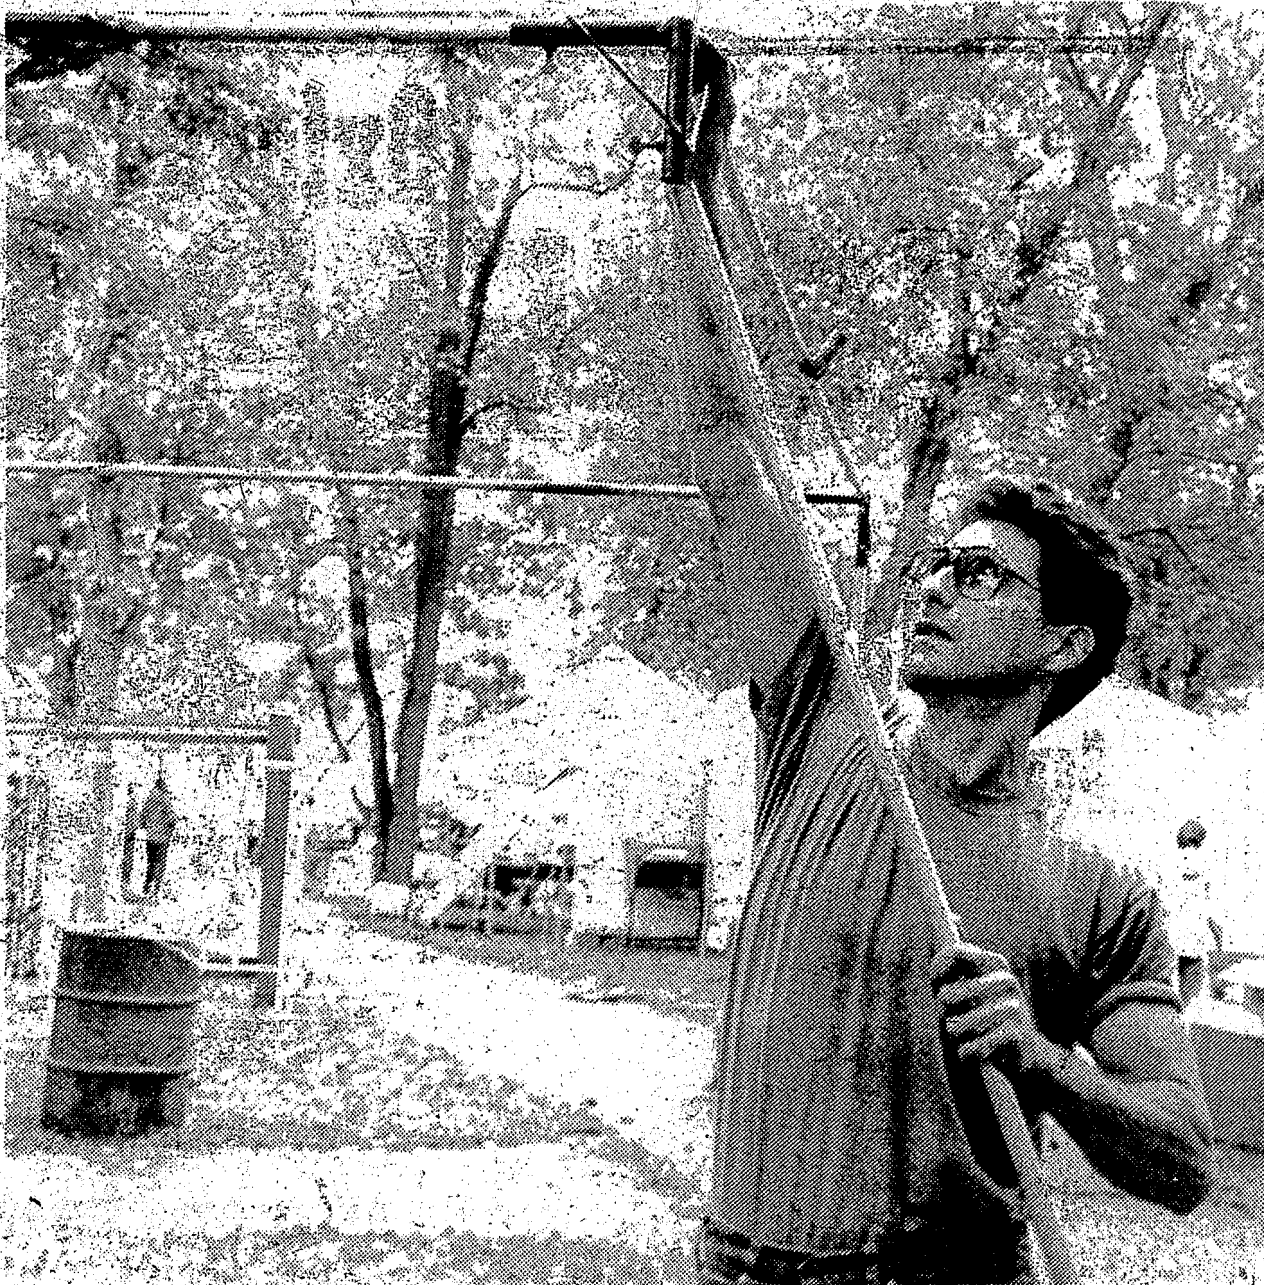

Basement relief

Springfield Township offices are suffering from "growing pains" and the township board has decided the best solution is to expand into the basement and spare the hall.

When the board contracted with a consulting firm to do a space and design study this summer, Supervisor Collin Walls said they were considering several alternatives including using the township meeting hall for the additional office space needed.

But further study has shown that the basement is the most viable route for expansion, and the board decided unanimously on Sept. 9 to limit the study to the basement area.

When the expansion is done, numerous groups that meet in the basement of the Springfield Township Hall will have to find new locations for their meetings.

IRS ruling could cost Independence $40,000

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Independence Township is one of 61 communities in Michigan involved in a conflict with the Federal Internal Revenue Service (IRS).

At the Sept. 15 township board meeting, attorney Donald Keim explained the IRS' recent stand against consolidated tax anticipation notes (CTAN), which could cost the township about $40,000.

Keim is a partner in the law firm Miller, Canfield, Paddock and Stone, which represents the township in bond issues. The firm is one of about three in Michigan involved in bond counsel, said township Treasurer John Lutz.

The IRS stated recently that CTANS are illegal, even though 10 years ago, the IRS ruled that tax anticipation notes were legal, said Keim.

Although the IRS has not made an official ruling, it plans to penalize the municipalities involved by demanding a percentage of their interest earnings on the notes, retroactive during the entire 10-year period.

If the municipalities don't pay, the note-holders will be taxed for their interest earnings over the past 10 years, said Keim.

"I've heard of blackmail and green-mail, but now I've heard of red, white and blue mail," said township Trustee Daniel Travis.

Independence, which has been involved in the program only one year, could lose about $40,000 of interest from the first issuance of CTANS if the municipalities decide to agree with the settlement, said Lutz. The township would still collect about $42,000 of the estimated $82,000 interest earned.

The CTAN allows municipalities with populations under 50,000 people to consolidate and borrow money on the anticipated tax money. The

"I've heard of black-mail and green-mail, but now I've heard of red, white and blue mail."

Trustee Daniel Travis

incoming tax money is then invested to earn a higher interest rate than the interest paid on the notes.

An anonymous letter suggested the IRS investigate the CTANS, said Keim.

The problem is there's no way to challenge the decision because it wasn't an official ruling, and the IRS will hear no discussion, he said.

The only way to bring up the issue with the IRS is if a note-holder sues a municipality next year when the IRS tries to make them pay retroactive taxes on their earnings, said Keim.

Trustee Dale Stuart questioned the rationality of the decision.

"How can the IRS ask us to pay money that was paid by rules existing at the time?" he said.

"They have threatened with this tremendous club," said Keim, adding the decision could hurt the credit ratings of municipalities, which could affect the borrowing power of the township in such matters as borrowing for road or sewer improvements.

Further, said Keim, until a settlement has been reached, the interest on the township's invested money has been frozen either by the state treasury or the IRS.

Another problem is the IRS did not specify how many communities had to agree to the settlement in order for the IRS to accept the agreement, said Keim. Some of the larger municipalities would be required to pay close to a million dollars, and they just don't have the money, he said.

Township attorney Gerald Fisher said the township's options were to settle with the IRS, fight the IRS or offer a counter-settlement.

But the township would weaken any agreement by acting alone, he said, adding they should talk with other municipalities to reach a joint decision.

The board voted unanimously to table the settlement issue.

After the meeting, Lutz commented on the state's CTAN program.

"It was good for everybody," said Lutz.

The schools, which operate on a tight budget, could have their money immediately instead of receiving money as it came in over a period of months, he said. The note-holders would earn interest in a virtually risk-free investment, and the township would earn the interest from the invested tax money, as well as eliminate expensive auditing costs.

Tax anticipation notes were created originally to provide municipalities and school districts with money while waiting for delinquent tax money, he said.

CTANS will not be used by the township in the future, and the township will revert back to the former method of collecting taxes and holding them until paying periodically those for whom the township collects taxes, such as Clarkston schools and Oakland County.

Michigan is the only state in the country that used tax anticipation notes.

Kids 'n' crafts

A TREE PERFECT FOR CLIMBING offers a Crafts and Cider Festival view for Kevin Dissmore of Walled Lake. "You can see everything," said Kevin when he climbed down. "I heard there was a place where kids can make crafts. I was looking for that."

"BUN" GOES EVERYWHERE WITH Natalie Galloway, 3, of Ortonville. During Crafts and Cider on Saturday, the much loved stuffed animal rode atop her stroller.

INSTEAD OF LOOKING AT the crafts of others, Elizabeth and Jennifer Stephens of Waterford Township spend a few moments making creations of their own during the Crafts and Cider Festival. The girls were stringing colored macaroni at the Kids Kraft Korner, the booth of the Clarkston Junior Miss organization.

Scoreboard

Basketball

Clarkston High Varsity

Wolves 50, Milford 46 (OT)

Sept. 15--Ali Fedio scored 21 points and pulled down 17 rebounds to pace the Wolves.

Michelle Baker added 11 points for the victors. Sue McKoin added a pair of clutch free throws to clinch the win in overtime for Clarkston.

"It was a good game," said Coach Dave McDonald. "We are playing as good or better than I expected."

Clarkston High JV

Rochester 55, Wolves 34

Sept. 3--Rhonda Jokisch scored nine points and pulled down 12 rebounds in losing cause for the Wolves.

Stacie Deneen added eight points for Clarkston as it opened the season on a down note.

Wolves 42, Rochester Adams 26

Sept. 10--Clarkston evened its record to 1-1 with an easy win over Adams at home.

Jokisch scored 10 points and grabbed a dozen boards to pace the Wolves. Ingrid Larson also had 12 rebounds.

Wolves 48, Milford 43

Sept. 15--Jokisch and Emily Zubalik pumped in 10 points apiece to pace the offense. Jokisch added 11 rebounds.

Jodi Lopucki had eight points and made a game-high 10 steals for Clarkston.

The victory upped the team's record to 2-1 and that was a good sign said Coach Larry Sherrill.

"We're off to a pretty good start," he said.

Flint Northwestern 47, Wolves 17

Sept. 17--Clarkston drops its second game of the season, this time to a talented Flint Northwestern team.

"They really have a strong program up there," said Sherrill.

9th grade basketball

Wolverines 53, Cougars 32

Sept. 15--The host Clarkston club opened up the game with 21 points in the second quarter en route to a victory over rival Sashabaw.

Jenny McChesney scored 26 points and had 11 rebounds for the victors. Beth Walker had seven points and Carrie Roeser had 12 steals to pace the defense.

Pierce 53, Wolverines 18

Sept. 17--Clarkston started off slow in this contest and never was able to catch a high-flying Pierce team.

The Wolverines were down, 11-0, before they managed to score but Coach Dennis Bronson still was pleased with the performance of his players.

"We just were not used to this kind of intensity," he said of the game against Pierce.

Clarkston's season record is 2-1.

Cross country

Clarkston High Varsity

Holly invitational

Sept. 19--The girls squad finished in third place and came home with a trophy for their efforts.

Scoring for the girls were Sonya Schaffer (8th) 20:05, Kate Conlen (22nd) 20:53, Lisa Palazola (24th) 21:00, Jenny Mahler (31st) 21:42, Nicole Chinavare (42nd) 22:27 and Amy Rice (46th) 22:49.

Marquette won the event and Dearborn Edsel Ford finished second.

All of the girls won medals and those in the top 25 also won an individual trophy, said Coach Mike Taylor.

"Their performance was the best by any Oakland County team," he said.

Clarkston competed without the services of two top runners in Meredith Green and Emily Winfield. Another, Rice, wasn't running at full speed.

For the boys team, seniors Jim Hotary and Mike Kovalesky led the team. Sophomore Jason Wenger also ran well for the Wolves.

Football

Clarkston High JV

Wolves 6, Pontiac Northern 0

Sept. 17--After allowing 32 points in a season-opening loss, the Wolves defensive unit has registered back-to-back shutouts.

Kevin Keilitz had a 3-yard run in the second quarter for the only scoring in the game.

Tony Simmons and Jack Garnett were singled out by defensive coordinator Joe Lingenfelter.

"The defense as a whole did a great job," he said. "It was a total effort."

The defense had three quarterback sacks and three fumble recoveries, Lingenfelter said.

The Wolves' record is now 1-1-1.

9th grade football

Mason 34, Cougars 12

Sept. 16--Eric Hund's 55-yard touchdown romp and a sneak by Chris Wasilk were the only highlights for the Cougars as they dropped their first game of the 1987 season.

Misplayed balls and a fumbled snap on a punt attempt set up the first three Mason scores and the team never looked back.

Sashabaw's record falls to 1-1-1 on the season.

Wolves stun

GOAL rival

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Dramatic comebacks have become a trademark for the 1987 varsity football team.

First, the Wolves opened the season at home with a come-from-behind victory over Grand Blanc with a last-minute touchdown by Stacy Turner.

The storyline continued Friday night when Clarkston staged a rally that probably will not be forgotten soon by the players or anyone in attendance.

Pontiac Northern held a 21-0 lead heading into the fourth quarter and appeared in total control of the game.

But Clarkston did an abrupt about face during the final 12 minutes of play and eventually won the game in double-overtime 24-21 at Wisner Stadium in Pontiac.

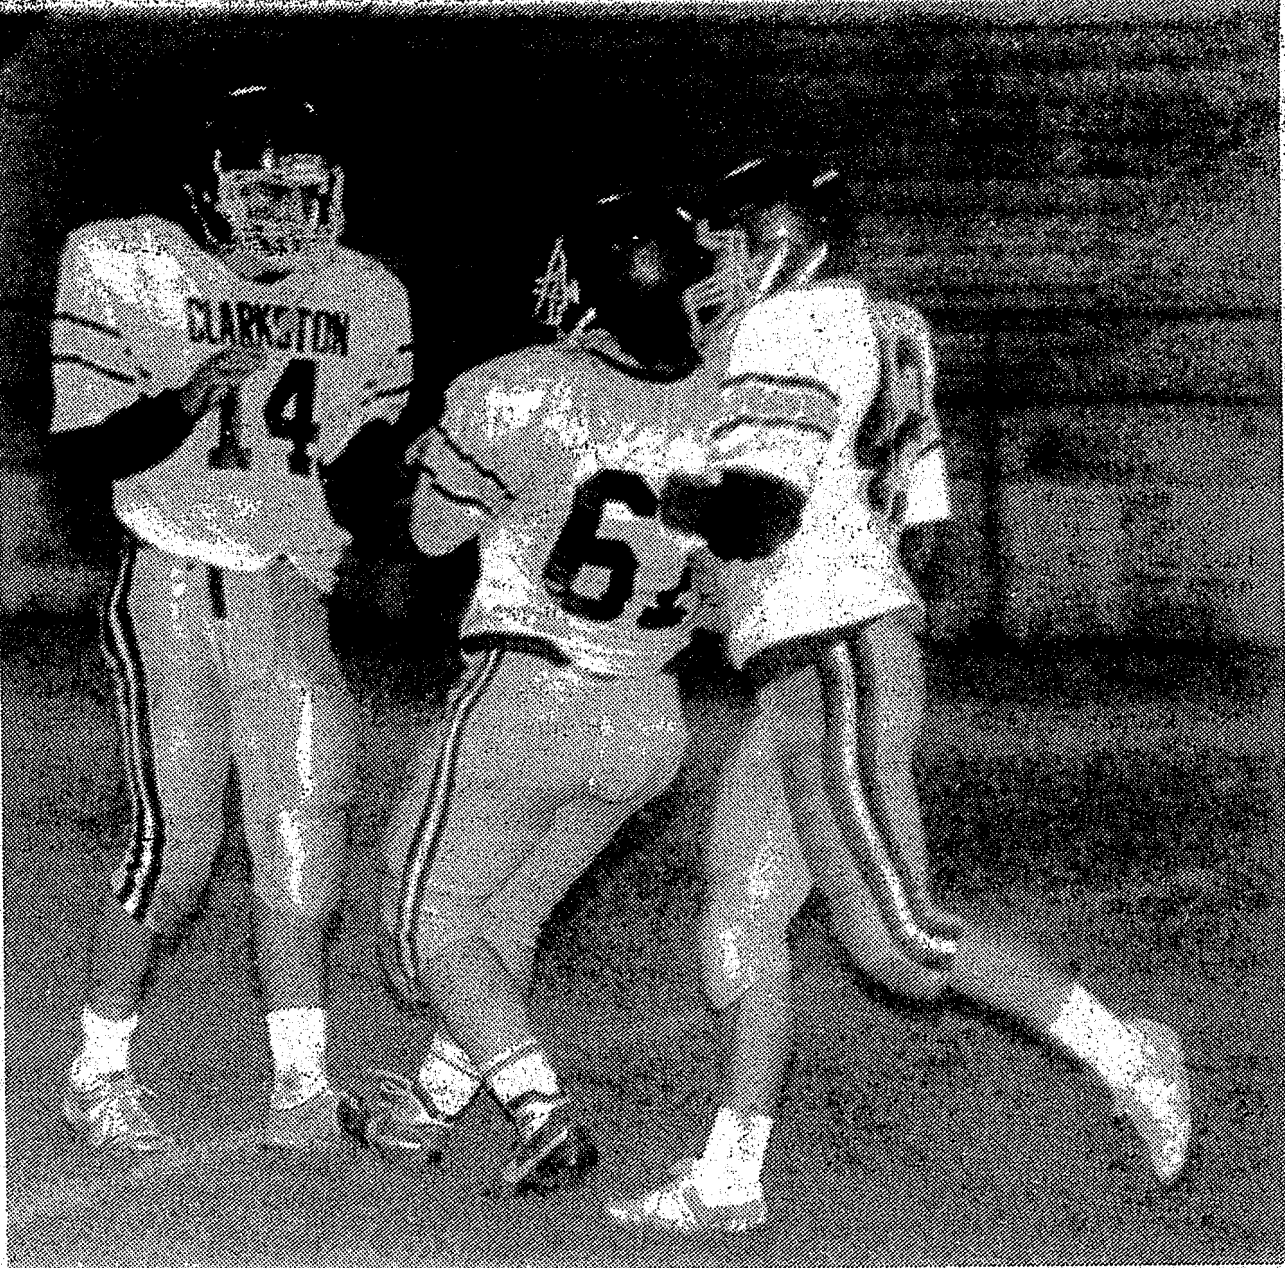

"I've never been so proud of everybody," an elated Coach Kurt Richardson said afterward. Clarkston's record is now 2-1.

The final hero of the game, there were many along the way, was sophomore Ken Phipps, called up to the varsity team just last week, who split the uprights with a 25-yard field goal in the second overtime.

Another big player in the comeback during regulation was fullback Keenan Powell. He finished the game with five catches for 59 yards and an additional 91 on the ground.

Clarkston started the heroic comeback early in the fourth quarter when Powell rumbled into the endzone from 26 yards out with 10:39 to play.

JOSH NEWBLATT tries to huddle up the Wolves quickly during a fourth quarter drive against the Huskies. Clarkston won, 24-21, in overtime.

Tri-athletes run in the family

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Tri-athletes are not gluttons for punishment, says Sally Banks, it just appears that way.

Banks, who has two children involved in the sport, said people get caught up in the excitement during the competitions and forget about the pain—for a while at least.

Her 21-year-old son Scott, who is attending Central Michigan University, was the first member of the family to get involved in the sport.

The festive attitude and enthusiastic people who participated in the event made Banks want to try it for herself. She hasn't regretted it yet.

"The sense of accomplishment far outweighs the pain," said Banks, 42.

Banks belongs to a tri-athlete club associated with the Flying Rhinos bicycle group based at the Kinetic Systems bike shop on Main Street.

The youngest member of the group is Banks' daughter Kelly, 8. She is affectionately called the "Littlest Rhino" by the other group members.

The Bailey Lake Elementary School pupil recently entered an Iron Man competition for kids in Grand Blanc and won the 7- and 8-year-old division easily. She placed second in the 10-and-under bracket.

"The competitions for the kids are just getting started," said Banks. After watching her brother and mother compete, Kelly couldn't wait to get started either.

"The fever sort of spread through the whole family," said Banks.

[See NO PAIN, Page 24]

Rally falls short for basketball team

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The girls basketball team missed one tornado Sept. 17, but ran into one named the Wildcats at Clarkston High School.

Flint Northwestern raced out to nine-point lead in the second quarter against the Wolves and was able to weather a late rally to win the game, 40-37.

A tornado warning delayed the start of the game by 15 minutes. Once the game began, Clarkston jumped out to a 6-0 lead.

The team fell on hard times after that streak and trailed, 15-10, after one quarter. Clarkston was able to close the gap to one point in the second stanza before Flint pulled away.

Coach Dave McDonald said that was the key to the entire game.

"They nailed everything in the first half," he said.

Flint led 26-19 at halftime and wasn't seriously threatened until the final minute of the game.

The Wildcats opened up a 39-24 edge after three quarters and appeared to have the game under control. Clarkston rallied in the final eight minutes of play by outscoring Flint, 13-1, to make the game close.

"Half-court to half-court we knew we were a better team," said McDonald. "It was a good game."

All Fedio paced the Wolves attack by scoring 14 points. Michelle Baker made seven and Jackie Patrick added six more.

"We did better in the second half," McDonald said. "Flint is a good team."

Clarkston's record falls to 2-2. That has been a pleasant surprise for McDonald.

"We are playing better than I thought we would at the start of the season," he said.

The Wolves' next game is at Holly on Sept. 24.

JACKIE PATRICK prepares to pass the ball to a teammate during Thursday night's game. The Wolves lost to Flint Northwestern 40-37.

No pain, no gain for tri-athletes

Typical conditioning for a tri-athlete like Banks includes running in the morning, swimming in the afternoon and then biking afterward. All of it is necessary if the athlete wants to finish the race standing up, she said.

"You can't enter a race without training," she said. "You have to put your time in and be disciplined."

Some tri-athalons have as many as 4,000 participants while others have as few as 150, but Banks' goal remains the same—to finish the race.

Since the tri-athalons are a marathon sport the emphasis is on finishing since only the top five people are awarded money.

"It's just you against yourself," said Banks. "Anybody can do it if they can endure the pain."

So far this year, Banks has entered four tri-athalons and two bi-athalons. She has finished first once, twice three times and third twice in her age group.

In a team tri-athlon at Metro Beach near Mount Clemens, Banks teamed up with Mary Machowicz and Virginia Howcraft to win first place in their age group.

Winning the events is nice, but that isn't what keeps Banks running when her body says stop. The friendship and camaraderie exhibited by the athletes is incredible, she said.

During the running portion, many of the participants pair up and encourage each other to finish the race.

"The people are great; they are very supportive," said Banks. "When somebody gives you a pat on the back, it gives you an extra surge."

The tri-athlon fever was brought into the Banks' residence by Scott, who works at Kinetic Systems. From there it mushroomed into a full-fledged addiction, Banks said.

"Try one and you'll be hooked too," she said.

Mackinaw race

Two teams from the Flying Rhinos bicycle club finished third and fifth in the annual "Big Mac Attack" race over the weekend.

Kinetic Systems bike shop, on Main Street, sponsors the Flying Rhinos team. The club sponsored the Mount Pleasant to Mackinaw City race this year.

The 165-mile race is a four-person time trial type of event.

A men's team from Ann Arbor won the race in six hours and 45 minutes. This year marked the first that a women's team participated. They finished the race in nine hours and 17 minutes.

The Flying Rhinos "A" team of Keith Jakober, David Belton, Joe Matthews and Mark Dodge took third place with a time of 6 hours and 57 minutes.

"B" team members Bob Weddle, Jamie Smith, Scott Banks and Dave Fletcher coasted in with a time of 7 hours and 21 minutes to finish fifth in the nine-team competition.

This event is the longest of its kind in North America, said Fred Hunt, a team member.

Tri-athalons good conditioning

Workouts are a normal part of the tri-athlete's conditioning program and the members of the Flying Rhinos team are no different.

There are approximately 70 people in the biking club sponsored by Kinetic Systems of Clarkston and about a dozen of them are involved in tri-athalons.

The most active member of the group also happens to be the manager, Mike Roudabush of Ortonville.

Workouts are conducted at Waterford Hills Road Racing Track in Independence Township on Tuesdays and Indian Springs Metropark in Springfield and White Lake townships on Thursdays.

People in the group range in age from their 20s to 50s, Roudabush said.

Age isn't a factor in this competitive sport, and the advantages of becoming a tri-athlete are many, he said.

"Training in three sports (swimming, biking, running) provides less risk of injury," he said. "The cross training helps to build muscles. They complement each other."

The 31-year-old tri-athlete said he works out about two or three hours per day to stay in shape for the grueling event.

A typical race includes .9 mile of swimming, 26 miles of biking and 6.2 miles of running. The full-fledged Iron Man competition consists of 2.4 miles of swimming, 112 of biking and 26.2 of running.

Roudabush has been involved with the Flying Rhinos club for about two years.

He began his career as a tri-athlete when he participated in a mini tri-athlon like the ones at Metro Beach.

A quarter-mile swim, 14 miles of biking and a three-mile run are all that's required.

"That's how I got hooked," Roudabush said, adding, "I could still walk and talk afterward."

Time out

Purity in sports

Peter Auchter

The football strike is looming; college players are being suspended left and right for rules violations; the world of sports is in an uproar.

Something needs to be done. The insanity has to come to an end before any real damage is done.

Prep sports are the only sanctuary left for the true-blue sports fans. They are the only untainted activities left in the world. They must be preserved at all costs.

Please, I urge all of you out there in newspaper land to join our cause and save prep sports.

While pro players are out haggling over million-dollar contracts and college players are talking to every agent they happen to see on the streets (or in the locker rooms) prep athletes live for game day. Nothing else matters.

All of them are striving for the glory of victory while trying to avoid the agony of a loss.

It's refreshing to know that people still do things the honest way. Even if it's just a basketball or football game. (Or any other sport for that matter.)

I just wanted to take the time to thank all of the prep athletes around the world for the good job they have done.

To show you care about the integrity of sports, support your local prep teams. Not just the football or basketball or baseball teams, but ALL of them. For without you, the cheering and cheerful fan, prep sports wouldn't be the same.

Sorry, but the cost of a game ticket isn't tax deductible, as a contribution to Green Peace would be, but the thought is the same.

This has been pretty heady stuff for me to write (lucky for me I get to do this while sitting), but I felt it was time to call the kettle black.

Most writers would rather cover a professional team or college club instead of "getting stuck with the preps."

You can count me out of that group of people. I wouldn't consider that a promotion. I would lose a lot more than I could ever gain.

If I ever stopped covering prep sports, I would lose the candid interviews with people genuinely excited about the game they play day-in and day-out.

That may seem like a minor detail, but it means all the world to me. Something has to be said for the little guy.

They may not play in 100,000-seat stadiums, but they display all the heart and character (maybe more) than so-called professional athletes.

Now that I have that off my chest, I say "On with the games!"

The girls basketball game offered a little bit of everything for the fans Sept. 17 at Clarkston High School.

First, the officials for the junior varsity game didn't show up on time. Principal Dr. Robert Burek filled in until they did late in the first quarter.

Then, just before the varsity game was to begin a tornado warning was issued for eastern Oakland County and the game was halted.

After a 15-minute delay, the game finally resumed without further incident.

Despite outscoring Flint Northwestern, 13-1, in the final quarter, the Wolves still lost the game.

Doubles teams spark Wolves to victories

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Strong play from the doubles team, considered a weak point, has sparked the Wolves to a 3-1 start in the 1987 prep tennis season.

During the practice sessions in August, Coach Dick Swartout knew the doubles players would decide the outcome of many games. So far they have come through in style, Swartout said.

"I'm real happy with their performance," he said. "They played well and were aggressive."

Clarkston opened the season with an easy victory over Brandon. The doubles teams won in straight sets.

The combinations of Christy McAuliffe-Kristin Allison, Shelley Purdy-Kelly Parker and Sheri Rico-Kathy Garascia all won easily.

The Wolves suffered their first loss of the season against Hartland, 4-3. Due to personal conflicts, Swartout had to field a makeshift lineup. He said that was a contributing factor in the loss.

All three doubles matches were swept by Hartland but all were hotly contested.

The team of Allison and Kim K. Morris lost 5-7, 6-4, 2-6; Parker and Purdy fell 1-6, 6-4, 5-7; and Rico Garascia were defeated 1-6, 6-7.

Clarkston rebounded three days later to beat Lapeer East at home, 5-2.

Prep profile She wants to change world

Ashley Adams is the No. 1 singles player on the girls tennis team for Clarkston.

Born: Dec. 19, 1969

Occupation: Teaching tennis, decorating for weddings with a catering service on week-ends.

Nickname: Skippy, Crashley and brat.

Favorite sport: Tennis.

Favorite food: Spaghetti.

Favorite type of music: Soft rock.

Favorite TV show: "Moonlighting."

Favorite thing to do: Hangout with friends.

Favorite hangout: Wherever it's convenient.

Favorite movie: "Stand By Me."

Idols: Mom and Dad.

Biggest thrill: Going to Europe.

Biggest accomplishment: Beating a rival during her sophomore year in the regionals.

Goal in life: To make a difference in the world.

Most embarrassing moment: Driving a car into a tree in front of her home.

Tennis is her sport, but Ashley Adams' idols are her mom and dad.

Shelly Rood, Morris and McAuliffe all won singles matches while the doubles teams of Purdy-Rico and Garascia-Katie Rieman also were victorious.

The Wolves won again at home Sept. 16 when they topped a small Pontiac Northern squad.

Ashley Adams won easily at No. 1 singles when she beat Lisa Williams, 6-2, 6-1. Rhonda Bowes downed Vicky Jones, 6-0, 6-0, while Morris and Allison won with identical 6-0, 6-1 scores.

Clarkston returns to action Sept. 23 against Waterford Kettering at home.

Field goal in OT wins game for Wolves

Phipps kicked the conversion and the Wolves trailed, 21-7. But the team was still way behind.

"Nobody gave up in that situation," said Richardson of the determination his club showed.

Pontiac Northern, which rolled up 334 yards in total offense, finally was shut down by the Clarkston defense in the fourth quarter. Matt DeBoer had nine tackles and two more for losses to lead the defense.

When Pontiac Northern attempted to punt, Michael Kolody broke through the line with a host of other Wolves to block the kick around the Huskies' 17-yard line.

That play seemed to spark the entire team as they quickly moved the ball in for another score. Quarterback Josh Newblatt, who was 12-of-22 passing, snuck over from the 1-yard line to complete the scoring drive.

A two-point conversion pass play failed, however, and Clarkston trailed, 21-13, with less than six minutes to play.

Once again the Clarkston defense held firm, and Pontiac Northern had to punt. A shanked punt put the Wolves in good position with a little more than two minutes left.

Richardson never doubted that his team was capable of driving the ball down the field to tie the game.

"I can't say enough about these guys," he said. "If you have enough heart you can do it."

A 32-yard screen pass from Newblatt to Powell brought the players on the Clarkston bench to their feet.

Powell's 7-yard TD run with 1:17 left provided the Wolves with the chance to tie the game.

A screen to Powell from Newblatt on the ensuing two-point conversion attempt accomplished the goal.

Neville LaMotte's interception ended Northern's last drive in regulation time.

In the first overtime, Clarkston fumbled the ball away on third down.

Pontiac Northern returned the favor by fumbling on second down on its first try in OT.

Overtime in high school football consists of each club getting four downs to score from the opponents' 10-yard line.

The Huskies started the second OT on offense and after two incomplete passes, a screen netted only five yards.

Clarkston's defense once again rose to the occasion and blocked a field goal attempt.

A personal foul penalty on the play forced Clarkston to start its second overtime from the 25-yard line.

Powell picked up 7 yards on a draw and 10 more the next time he carried the ball. A third down play didn't work and that set up a field goal opportunity. Phipps made the most of it.

Clarkston visits Greater Oakland Activities League rival Waterford Kettering at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

Sewer belongs to township

Sewers built for the Grovecrest Nursing Home on Clintonville Road were formally accepted by the Independence Township Board.

Builders of Grovecrest installed and financed the sewer two years ago, and the township owns it even though the board has never formally accepted the system, said George Anderson, director of the township Department of Public Works.

At the Sept. 15 meeting, the board voted unanimously to accept the sewer.

Township. Also on the trip were Marge and Dick Adamson and Eddie Wekmark.

North to Alaska!

Independence couples motor to 'America's last frontier'

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Just talking about their three-month trip to Alaska brings pleasure to Leroy and Joan Davis, Doug and Pat Roy, and Bill and Bernice Cunningham.

Pouring over photographs taken on the trip brings back tantalizing memories of unspoiled beauty, colors almost too bright to be true, abundant wildlife and friendly people in America's "last frontier."

The three couples, plus Dick and Marge Adamson, who were just returning from the trip, traveled together to Alaska this summer. All are retired and long-time residents of Independence Township. Also joining them on the trip was Pat's father, Eddie Wekmark, who lives in the Upper Peninsula.

"It was 200 miles of gravel to get to the top of the world."

Leroy Davis

"It was like, we're all retired and we should go to Alaska," Joan says, laughing. The four couples are good friends and are still friends, they joke, even after three months of traveling together.

They drove in four vehicles, two motorhomes and two vehicles pulling trailers, camping along the way.

The four families left separately from the Clarkston area around the end of May and met at Edmonton, a city in Alberta, Canada, with one of the largest enclosed malls in the world.

The 5.2 million-square-foot mall encompasses over 800 stores, a pool and an amusement park, plus hotels and restaurants.

As spectacular as the mall was, the couples agree that it was only a small hint of the highlights to come on their trip.

From Edmonton they drove to Dawson Creek to get on the Alaskan Highway in British Columbia.

"That's the highway built during World War II to provide supplies to troops," says Doug.

Their next stop was Liard Hot Springs, where they took a dip in water that ranged from 110-120 degrees. The springs existed before the ice age, and tropical plants usually found in South America survived the ice age at the springs and still grow there in lush abundance.

"One of the nights we were there was the summer solstice, the longest day of the year," Bernice says. "It never really got dark."

"You don't want to go to bed," Bill adds.

For about three weeks, they enjoyed nearly "nightless" days on their travels north.

At Watson Lake in the Yukon, they continued a tradition started in World War II when a lonely soldier tacked up a hometown sign along the highway. The group added an Independence Township sign to the display of worldwide signs which now lines the road for a quarter of a mile.

They watched a follies show in Whitehorse, the Yukon capital, and gambled in Dawson, the only city in Canada where gambling is legal, before crossing "the top of the world."

"It was 200 miles of gravel to get to the top of the world," Leroy says of the high road just past Dawson. "But when you get there, it's 360 degrees of mountains."

That's where the group entered Alaska. From then on, Leroy says, "you could always see mountains."

The first town they encountered in Alaska was called, appropriately, Border.

Their memories of Alaska include daisies that grow five feet tall, wild poppies in every color imaginable and cotton growing wild in the fields.

"And all along the way we had the best cinnamon rolls," Bernice says of a specialty that every restaurant proudly featured.

A visit to Denali National Park highlighted their Alaskan visit. They took an 84-mile bus trip through the park, as only park buses or human feet are allowed in the park. No private vehicles may enter.

They were told that Mount McKinley "hides 300 days of the year," and their visit was no exception. It was too cloudy to see the lofty peak, but the cloud cover coaxed a variety of wildlife into view, including moose, elk, caribou, black bears, grizzly bears and cubs, dall sheep and eagles.

Outside of Anchorage, they visited Porter Glacier and in Seward, Bill and Eddie tried a little fishing, landing a 15-pound salmon. It was "respectably sized" by Michigan standards, but nothing compared to the 195-pound halibut and 70-pound salmon they saw on the docks of Seward.

Leroy and Bill golfed at Soldotna and at Fairbanks, where they were given a certificate for golfing the "farthest north golf course in the world" on the astro-turf greens.

Crossing Thompson Pass, noted for having the most snow in the world, the group entered Valdez and took a side trip by boat to the Columbia Glacier.

Joan brought back a piece of the glacier and keeps it in her freezer, chopping off pieces to use for special occasions. It's a common practice to take home "souvenir glacier." Columbia Glacier can afford it, with a mass 6 miles wide, 1,000 feet deep and 17 miles long.

At Haines, they got on the ferry boat to begin their journey home on 900 miles of the Alaskan Marine Highway. The boats are huge, holding up to 1,000 passengers and 180 standard vehicles as well as trucks filled with groceries to be delivered along the way.

The ferry cost for each couple was about $1,000, depending on the size of their vehicle, which cost 30 cents a foot to ferry.

Their first ferry stop was at Juneau, the capital of Alaska, where they took a two-day plane and boat trip to Glacier Bay, at a cost of about $600 per couple.

"We were up close to the glacier," Pat says. "You could hear it calving."

Mill Pond whopper

FROM THE UPPER MILL POND, Clarkston, this 40-inch, 15-pound northern pike was caught on Labor Day by Mark Pearson (right), who was assisted by Mike Gross, both of Glenburnie Lane, Independence Township. Their neighbor Jo Fussman, who snapped the photograph, said the boys had fished for years in the Mill Pond and had never pulled out such a large fish. The pike took 10 minutes to reel in, and Pearson let it go after the photo was taken, she said.

Engagement

FOOR-BROWN: Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Foor of Fenton announce the engagement of their daughter Patricia Lynn to United States Navy Petty Officer Mark A. Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry P. Brown, formerly of Clarkston. A spring wedding is planned.

Club notes

Members of the Sashabaw Plains Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution met at the 20 Depot Street restaurant in Clarkston for their September meeting.

Regent Miss Charlotte Maybee entertained the group with a program which began with a discussion on the book "Decision in Philadelphia" written by Christopher Collier and James Lincoln Collier.

She told of the gathering for the Constitutional Convention and described life in Philadelphia during the 1780s.

During the meeting, plans were made for participation in the Crafts and Cider Festival in Clarkston on Sept. 18-20.

The chapter will be selling apple dessert and meringue cookies from their booth at the fair.

$5,500 IN SCHOLARSHIPS were awarded by the Inde-Spring Charter Chapter of the American Business Women's Association, and the recipients were (front row) Christine Hardy, Deborah Kappler, (back row) Kristen Ehrstrom, Sharon Staton and Karl Payment and (not pictured) Andrea Zanotti. The association is committed to the educational advancement of women through local and national scholarship programs. The organization's next meeting is Sept. 27 at 6:30 p.m. in the King's Court restaurant, Waterford.

Home business moves with township family

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

When Valerie and David Ries and their two daughters, 8-year-old Michelle and 4-year-old Erin moved to Deerwood, the Clarkston area not only gained a new family but a new business as well.

Valerie had been selling Longaberger baskets for two years in the Virginia suburbs of Washington, D.C.

When the family moved in July, she brought her home demonstration business with her, though she still has four consultants who work for her in Virginia.

Her new Deerwood area home has proven a good showplace for the baskets, but she stresses that the heirloom-quality baskets are not just for show.

The Longaberger basket tradition began nearly 100 years ago in Dresden, Ohio, and the art of basketmaking has been continued by members of the Longaberger family.

They are handwoven of hardwoods such as oak and maple, and each basket is signed and dated by the weaver.

The baskets were originally made to carry pottery and farm produce, so they were built to last. Today, the baskets are manufactured by the Longaberger family in exactly the same way.

Additional basketweavers needed to keep up with the basket business are trained by the Longabergers and must serve an apprenticeship before creating the Longaberger baskets.

Valerie tells the "Longaberger story" every time she displays the baskets at a home party, including the fact that David Longaberger, grandson of the original Longaberger and fifth child of J.W. and Bonnie Longaberger, reactivated the business after it shut down during the depression.

What's new in business?

"He saw the reawakening of appreciation for folk art and American handicrafts," Valerie says.

Valerie's own plunge into the Longaberger business began when she visited her parents' home in Illinois and saw a Longaberger basket of her mother's.

"It was a snap decision when I saw the basket," she says. "I just loved it."

Four weeks later Valerie did her first show in Virginia, and she's been showing the baskets ever since.

When she goes to a party, she takes about 50 baskets of various shapes and sizes with her to show, and she talks about the original use of each basket. She also talks about how people can use baskets in their daily life.

The Longaberger baskets range from little berry and fruit baskets to large picnic baskets and hampers.

There are also baskets for Easter, marketing, carrying cakes and pies and doing laundry. There is even a baby cradle.

Doll cradles and purses as well as a few wooden items such as butter paddles and shaker peg boards with shaker baskets are also offered.

"I enjoy meeting new people and having a business of my own that also coincides with raising my family," Valerie says of her business. "It's not like a sales job at all. I get to tell people about the baskets, which I love and think are very well made.

"The demonstrations are casual and informal," she says. "It's like a night out with the girls."

VALERIE RIES brought her Longaberger basket business with her from Virginia when she moved to the Deerwood area in Independence Township in July.

Friend to friend

What can I do?

Dear Friend to Friend:

I know a girl who knew both Janis Ridley and Nancy Rush. I don't know what to say to her.

I don't know either of the girls myself, but I feel like I want to do more than just say something to someone who was their friend. I feel rather helpless.

At the time of the accident, I have heard that some kids directed traffic. Maybe there is something I can do.

My heart goes out to the families of both girls.
Deeply Concerned

Dear Deeply Concerned:

We must admit that we're feeling much of what you're going through. Perhaps through this letter, we can feel somewhat less helpless.

We know that often we don't know what to say to someone (like your friend who knew Janis) when they have experienced a loss.

Here are some things, though, that you can say when you're expressing sympathy.

"I'm very sorry."

"Please accept my sympathy."

"I'm sorry, is there anything I can do to help?"

"Although I didn't know your friend, I know this has been a terrible loss for you. Anytime you need to talk about it, don't hesitate to call me."

Anyone who has experienced a death or a loss of a friend needs to talk about it. They also need kind words, sympathy and the emotional support that comes from just being there.

Sometimes your presence alone, offering your hand in silent sympathy, or a hug can mean a lot to someone who is dealing with a death.

Often, there are plenty of people expressing their sympathy at the time of a tragedy, but when almost everyone goes away, then it is lonely and depressing for someone who has lost a friend.

It is important, therefore, that you continue to be a source of support in the weeks and months following a death.

Finally, when we experience a loss through death, it makes us aware of our own mortality. While it is tragic to lose a young life, it serves as a grim reminder that life is all too fragile and short.

What we do with our life is tremendously important. How much good we do for others may be a way of measuring how well we are using the time we have on earth.

Like Deeply Concerned, our sympathy goes out to everyone who knew Janis Ridley, and we wish a speedy and complete recovery to Nancy Rush.

Dear Friend to Friend:

Last year my parents told me to get a job. I couldn't get a job because I didn't have a car.

This year I have a chance to get a co-op job, but now they won't let me work because they want me to study so I do well in my senior year.

What should I do?

Car-less and Career-less

Dear Car-less:

It seems like it's tough to understand your parents' reasoning sometimes. We have the same difficulties at times, so we know your confusion.

Have you tried talking to your parents and have you actually presented the problem the way you see it?

Try explaining to your parents that you're not interested in low grades or greater independence from them.

You can tell them, however, that you want to be responsible for your own life as much as you can.

After all, you can argue, you will be leaving home to go to school in another year and you need to be working toward the maturity and responsibility that will require.

Allowing you to work at this new job would be a step in that direction.

Remember that parents have their own particular concerns and they often have difficulty letting go and letting you make your own decisions.

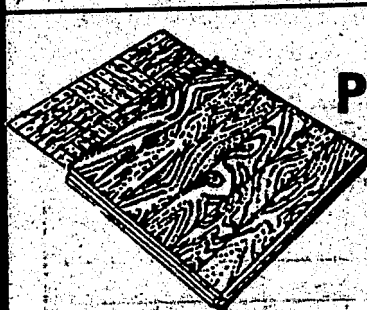

Presenting ideas and plans in a calm, reasonable and mature manner may impress them much more than an emotional, angry argument.

LETTERS TO FRIEND TO FRIEND are answered by a panel of Clarkston High School students under the sponsorship of Aware, a community group devoted to action and education against chemical dependency.

Students can submit letters by placing them in the designated "problem locker" at CHS, Clarkston Junior High or Sashabaw Junior High.

Letters can also be sent to Friend to Friend in care of The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main, Clarkston, MI 48016.

Brother cooks from the heart

BROTHER LOUIE AOWAD prepares ribs for the evening meal at the Colombiere Center in Springfield Township, where he is director of food services.

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

He's a small man who has found a big place in a lot of people's hearts.

And though it's been said that the way to a person's heart is through the stomach, it's not just the delicious meals that Brother Louie Aowad whips up that make him special.

Brother Louie is director of food services at Colombiere Center, north of Clarkston in Springfield Township, and has been a Jesuit brother since he joined the Society of Jesus in 1948 at the age of 23.

He came to Colombiere for the first time, as part of a pioneer group at the new center to open the kitchen, in 1959 from Milford, Ohio, where he had been assigned to a kitchen in 1950.

He's been cooking ever since, though he's worked in all kinds of other ways in the society as well.

In 1963, Brother Louie was sent to the Jesuit Provincial Residence in Detroit, and then spent two years (1967-69) at North Aurora, Ill., theologate before returning to Colombiere in 1969.

Stopping to wash his hands and briefly attend to some paperwork in his office, Brother Louie took a few minutes' break from lunch preparation to sit in the sunny dining room and reflect on what it is like to be a Jesuit brother.

"A Jesuit brother takes his religious vows and lives in a community, like a nun," he explains. "But he is not ordained like a priest."

Living and working in a Jesuit community is something Brother Louie says he has never regretted, though leaving home was hard.

Born in Ohio in 1925, he had decided by the eighth grade that he wanted to be a Jesuit brother.

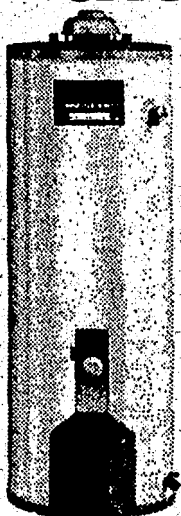

"At one time, I thought I was giving up so much," he says. "As it turned out, I have received the hundredfold Our Lord promised."

Colombiere, operated by the Detroit Province of the Society of Jesus, houses a Jesuit community of 10 brothers and 31 priests, as well as an infirmary.

Colombiere also runs a drug abuse program called Insight, with participants in the program living at the center for 28 days.

Brother Louie oversees meal preparation for all of the above, plus numerous conferences and [See BROTHER, Page 33]

Enthusiasm reigns following 10-day seminar

BY KATHY GREENFIELD
Clarkston News Editor

The piece of paper Colleen McLaughlin tucked in her pocket said this: "Act five times more enthusiastic."

The amazing thing about it, says the Clarkston High School junior, was that it worked.

After Colleen returned to her Springfield Township home from the 10-day Operation Enterprise High School Program in August in Hamilton, N.Y., she and her parents noticed the difference.

"I'm not sure we got the same kid back who went," says Colleen's mom, Gloria.

"I can't sit still. I'm always trying to do something now," says Colleen.

She won the chance to attend the program conducted by the American Management Association by winning a contest for the children of employees of Kuhlman Corp. of Troy. Her dad, James, works for the firm as a tooling engineer.

Working from brochures about the program, Colleen wrote an essay stating the reasons why she wanted to attend.

One of the main reasons, says Colleen, had to do with her activities in Job's Daughters, an organization associated with the Masons.

Colleen is Honor Queen of Bethel No. 50 in Okemos, the family's previous home before they moved to the Clarkston area a year ago.

"Because I run the meetings, I wanted to learn to speak in front of people and organize the meetings," she says.

Now 16, Colleen was "only 14 or 13" the last time she was Honor Queen. "I was a mess," she admits about her previous experience at the helm of the group.

This time around, however, she's bubbling with--what else?--enthusiasm.

The reasons for the change have everything to do with her experiences with Operation Enterprise.

Colleen says she made 20 new friends from all over the United States, gained confidence in herself and learned some techniques for relaxation, dressing for success, organization, management and life planning.

In addition, she learned to understand herself better.

One exercise involved answering a personal concept questionnaire. When Colleen read the traits attributed to her "type," she was amazed. The description was so accurate that "it was kind of scary," she says.

A good career choice for her personality type, according to the test, would be a surgeon or an artist. Colleen has long wanted to become an artist-designer.

Other traits included perfectionism and strong dislike for testing and criticism.

The program participants also practiced the type of management skills that fit their personalities--and Colleen's group won the competition.

Among the many adult speakers, one or two a day, was Harold Card, the president of H & J Card Associates. Enthusiasm was his theme.

He talked about "how you should believe in yourself and you could do anything," says Colleen.

In addition to suggesting use of positive strokes by smiling, praising "or any kindness you could do for another human being," Card was responsible for having the students carry around the pieces of paper with the enthusiasm goal.

As she looks back at how she felt about traveling out of town to face a group of strangers, Colleen notes that she was sad to leave home--and sad to leave the new friends she made in New York.

Overall, she's glad she had the experience. "I'm more enthusiastic and more confident than I was before," she says.

AFTER WINNING A CONTEST, Colleen McLaughlin spent 10 days in New York this summer attending the Operation Enterprise High School Program.

This invitation could be as good as gold.

Old-fashioned treat

What better tradition is there in September than picking fresh Michigan apples at a local orchard? And what could be better than whipping up a good, old-fashioned apple crisp when you get home?

The following recipe is time-tested, and has the hearty approval of my own family. It's especially good hot from the oven with ice cream or whipped cream.

OLD-FASHIONED APPLE CRISP

- 4 cups thinly sliced, peeled apples
- 1/2 cup packed brown sugar
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 cup all-purpose flour
- 3/4 cup granulated sugar
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 egg, slightly beaten
- 1/3 cup butter or margarine, melted and cooled
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon

Mix first three ingredients and arrange in a shallow baking dish, approximately 10x6x2 inches. Mix next four ingredients (flour, sugar, baking powder and salt); add egg and mix until crumbly. Sprinkle on apple mixture.

Drizzle the butter or margarine over this and sprinkle with cinnamon. Bake in 350 degree oven for about 35 minutes, or until golden brown on top.

Brother serves 2,000 meals

retreats held at the center.

That averages about 120 people for breakfast, lunch and dinner, with perhaps 200 on week-ends. His day begins at 4 a.m.

He has the highest praise for his kitchen staff of 18 people, which includes full-time and part-time help, as well as high school students.

He is the only brother in the kitchen, unlike the days when the kitchen was staffed with only brothers and no lay people.

"I've worked with a lot of wonderful brothers, too," Brother Louie says.

"We have a unique community," he adds. "We have everything right here. There's so much opportunity to help people. And so many people benefit from the center, like the Jesuits who have worked hard all their lives and are in the infirmary."

Typical of his friendliness, Brother Louie makes it a point to learn at least the first names of people in the Insight program at the center.

"They come here with such a low opinion of themselves," he says. "They're to be commended for doing something about their problem. It takes a lot of courage."

There's a lot of stress involved with a job that requires staying on schedule to deliver over 2,000 home-cooked meals a week every week of the year.

"It's a constant job," he says. "But I like being needed and useful. And there are few jobs where you can make people happy three times a day."

"Our life here is a life of work and prayer," Brother Louie says. "My work has brought out the best in me."

Those who know him would agree.

Season's greetings

David Kwasnick

Let's hear it for fall. That's right, fall! Too many people seem to dislike this time of year. Why, I'm not always sure.

So, on behalf of this season fast approaching, I'd just like to say a few words.

What's so wrong with fall? OK, I'll admit it does have some drawbacks. The leaves, for example. While they're on the trees, they provide some of the most dazzling scenery you'll find all year.

When they fall off, however, and are laying on your lawn or are plastered to the car, these leaves might as well be one of Bowser's special presents. And they are greeted with about as much appreciation.

But then again, you don't have to cut the grass anymore!

Also, fall seems to be thought of as a cold weather season. Not true. Blame this label on a bum rap from Old Man Winter.

Cool weather season seems a much more appropriate title for fall. Compared to what comes after it, it definitely is a cool-weather season.

How many times have you pulled the snow shovel off the wall in October and November? Now think January and February. There is a slight difference.

As for good points, fall does have them. The first one has to deal with the school calendar.

Let's face it, fellow students, fall is one of the best times of the school year. I mean, you get to see all the friends you haven't seen since last year.

Besides, there is a lot to do by school standards. You have the football games and the dances after them, girls basketball, the numerous annual pagan rituals of Homecoming, plus several holidays.

Also, the weather is usually good enough to pretty much still do as you please.

And if all this fails to interest you, take consolation in the fact that school is still relatively new in the fall, so you are not as bored now as you will be in, let's say, February when your idea of a social activity is a trip to the vice principal's office.

But, more seriously, fall has another side—one a bit deeper.

Fall is, as it begins the year's finale, a time for reflection. It's an opportunity to look back on all the other months, sifting through them to find the good and the bad.

It's also a time for change, even correction, depending on what you find. For as this new season sets in, the shadow of another year follows not far behind.

Fall is a pretty special time.

DAVID KWASNICK, A SENIOR at Clarkston High School, also writes for the CHS newspaper, Wolf Tracks.

Call for preschoolers

Story Hour for Preschoolers will again be offered at the Springfield Township Library.

Stories, crafts and movies will be featured for 3- to 5-year-olds on Fridays from 11 a.m. to noon.

The fall session begins Friday, Sept. 25. Pre-register for the program by calling the library at 625-0595 or stopping in at 10900 Andersonville Rd.

OFFICIAL NOTICE

Village of Clarkston

Minutes of the regular meeting of Clarkston Village Council, September 14, 1986, 375 Depot Road, Clarkston, Michigan 48016.

Joint meeting with the Planning Commission.

Meeting called to order by President Catallo at 7:40 p.m. followed by the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag.

Roll: Present: Schultz, Roeser, Millard, Haven, Basinger, Symons and Catallo.

Absent: None.

The Planning Commission minutes were read by the Secretary J. Hunter. Planning Commission member, Prucher, announced her resignation from the Planning Commission.

The agenda was added to and approved.

Public hearing opened at 7:50 p.m. for Anti-Demolition Ordinance. The attorney had prepared an Anti-Demolition Ordinance for both the Planning Commission and Village Council to go over. This is the same as the Historic District Ordinance. Public hearing closed at 8:20 p.m.

Basinger made a motion to adopt a Historic District Ordinance covering the substantial alteration, moving or demolition of Historic structure, the language of ordinance to be contained in the draft ordinance submitted to the Village Council by the Village Attorney on September 4, 1987, with the following changes in wording:

(1) The Phase - "substantial alteration" be substituted for "alteration" wherever the latter appears.

Paragraph 3 - J to be deleted on Page (2).

Paragraph 3 - I to be reworded to read "Ordinary Maintenance and repair" shall mean the mending or restoration of any exterior siding or surface of an existing structure to a good and sound condition of after weathering, deterioration, decay or damage, by the use of materials of the same general dimensions as the part or surface being restored. Examples include painting, weather, stripping, replacing gutters, replacing siding, etc.

Paragraph 3 - L to be reworded to read "Substantial Alteration" means any construction, remodeling or demolition resulting in:

- (1) the removal or reconstruction of at least 30% of the exterior surface area, or any wall or supporting structure thereof;
- (2) the removal or reconstruction of at least 30% of the exterior surface area, of any roof, or supporting structure thereof;
- (3) Any combination of Sub-paragraphs (1) or (2) above resulting in the removal or reconstruction of 15% of the total exterior surface area of the building or supporting structure thereof.
- (4) The removal or relocation of any doors or windows, except those on a rear wall, as a rear wall would be determined under the zoning ordinance.

Section 6 (1) change word "their" to "its".

Seconded by Symons. Roll: 7-Yes. 0-none. Motion carried. Basinger was excused from the meeting at 9:50 p.m.

Richard Huttenlocher from the Village Insurance Company went over all of our Insurance policies.

Roeser made a motion to pay the bills totaling $46,276.24. Seconded by Millard. Roll: 7-Yes. 0-None. Motion carried.

Motion by Schultz to adjourn at 10:37 p.m. Seconded by Millard. Motion carried. Meeting adjourned.

Norma Goyette,
Village Clerk

Larger classes require change in calculation

For the first time, the special staff-music, physical education and reading teachers--had to be included when calculating class size in the elementary schools to qualify for extra state aid.

If grades K-3 have 25 students or less per teacher, the district is entitled to $14 per student--about $85,000, said Business Manager William Jackson at the Sept. 14 Clarkston Community Schools Board of Education meeting.

It's an incentive from the state, he said, adding that previously he used only the primary instructor to calculate class size. If he hadn't included the extra teachers, the ratio would have been over 26 students per teacher, he said.

"Our class sizes are higher this year than ever before," said Jackson after the meeting. "We were lucky we were able to get this money."

Another incentive from the state requires the students in the district to meet the state graduation requirements by 1988-89.

By meeting those requirements, the district is entitled to $30 per student--about $180,000, he said.

"Last year, we committed to provide the conditions for these incentives," he said, adding the expected money--a total of about $265,000--had already been included in the budget.

The board members unanimously approved a resolution adopting the incentive programs for the year.

Community cable guide

News at 7:30 p.m.

"Independence Update," the weekly news-format program by Clarkston High School students enrolled in the advanced media class, is back.

The students are assisted by their teacher William Genshaw and by the staff of United Cable Public Access Television of Clarkston.

Crewed and anchored entirely by students, the program will air Mondays through Fridays at 7:30 p.m. on Independence-Clarkston Channel 65.

WEEK OF SEPT. 28-OCT. 6

6pm- Cherie's Craft Corner: Cherie Hartwick of Tierra Arts and Design of Clarkston hosts the series about crafts with Clarkston kids.

6:30pm- This Is the Life: The contemporary drama series is sponsored by St. Trinity Lutheran Church of Independence Township. This week's episode is to be announced. 7pm- Microwave Plus: "Irish/American Ethnic Foods" is the topic with home economist Betty Wagner of Independence Township.

7:30pm- Clarkston High School Media II Presents: "Independence Update" features community and school news, local sports and special reports.

8pm- Oakland County Parks: "Special Events."

8:30pm- Shirley's World: Dr. Howard Schwartz, veterinarian and owner of Clarkston Veterinary Clinic is the guest of Independence Township psychic Shirley Lynch.

9pm- Best Medicine Co.: Take a serious look at the benefits of humor with Clarkston resident Joe Armstrong (Joe Hoo).

9:30pm- "Dreamer": What Really Happened to Joseph?, a special presentation of the Drayton Heights Free Methodist Church of Clarkston.

Indian talk at Indian Springs

Michigan Indians, past and present, will be the topic of discussion at Indian Springs Metropark this Sunday.

Archaeologist Rick Zurel will present a slide show and artifacts to illustrate the lifestyle and customs of Michigan Indians in the past, as well as present day Indians.

The free program, presented in celebration of Michigan's Sesquicentennial, is scheduled at 1 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 27.

The park is on White Lake Road in White Lake and Springfield townships.

For more information, call 685-1561, extension 482.

From waterfalls to eagles, it's a place to revisit

In addition to seeing sea otters, porpoises, seals, whales and puffin birds at their glacier visits, the group saw waterfalls so plentiful they are unnamed, but long remembered for their beauty.

They made two more ferry stops, including one at Ketchikan, where they saw impressive totem poles built by the Indians.

Legend has it that if you rub a totem pole, fortune will come to you within 24 hours. Leroy became a believer after he rubbed one and then found a gray pearl ring on the ground which was later appraised at $400.

In addition to seeing sea otters, porpoises, seals, whales and puffin birds at their glacier visits, the group saw waterfalls so plentiful they are unnamed, but long remembered for their beauty.

They had to change ferries at Prince Rupert and made their final departure from the ferry at Port Hardy on Vancouver Island. From there, the group took different routes back to Michigan, arriving home around the first of September.

There are only a few bad memories they can remember, such as 300 miles of pot-holed gravel, frost heaves in the roads that gave them a roller coaster ride and gasoline that averaged $1.36 a gallon as they drove 10,000 miles.

Mostly they remember the beautiful, unblemished scenery.

"When you thought it couldn't be topped, something even more beautiful was around the corner," Pat says.

Bernice, who kept a detailed journal of the trip, brought home a souvenir given her by a church she visited. She also brought home a soft, white puff of Alaskan cotton she plucked from the roadside.

Bill brought home a moose jawbone he found, which will remind him of the magnificent wildlife living in what he calls "truly the last frontier of our country."

"When you thought (the scenery) couldn't be topped, something even more beautiful was around the corner."

Pat Roy

Doug brought home memories of the 200- to 300-foot-tall sitka spruce trees at Ketchikan and the sight of hundreds of salmon running upriver to spawn.

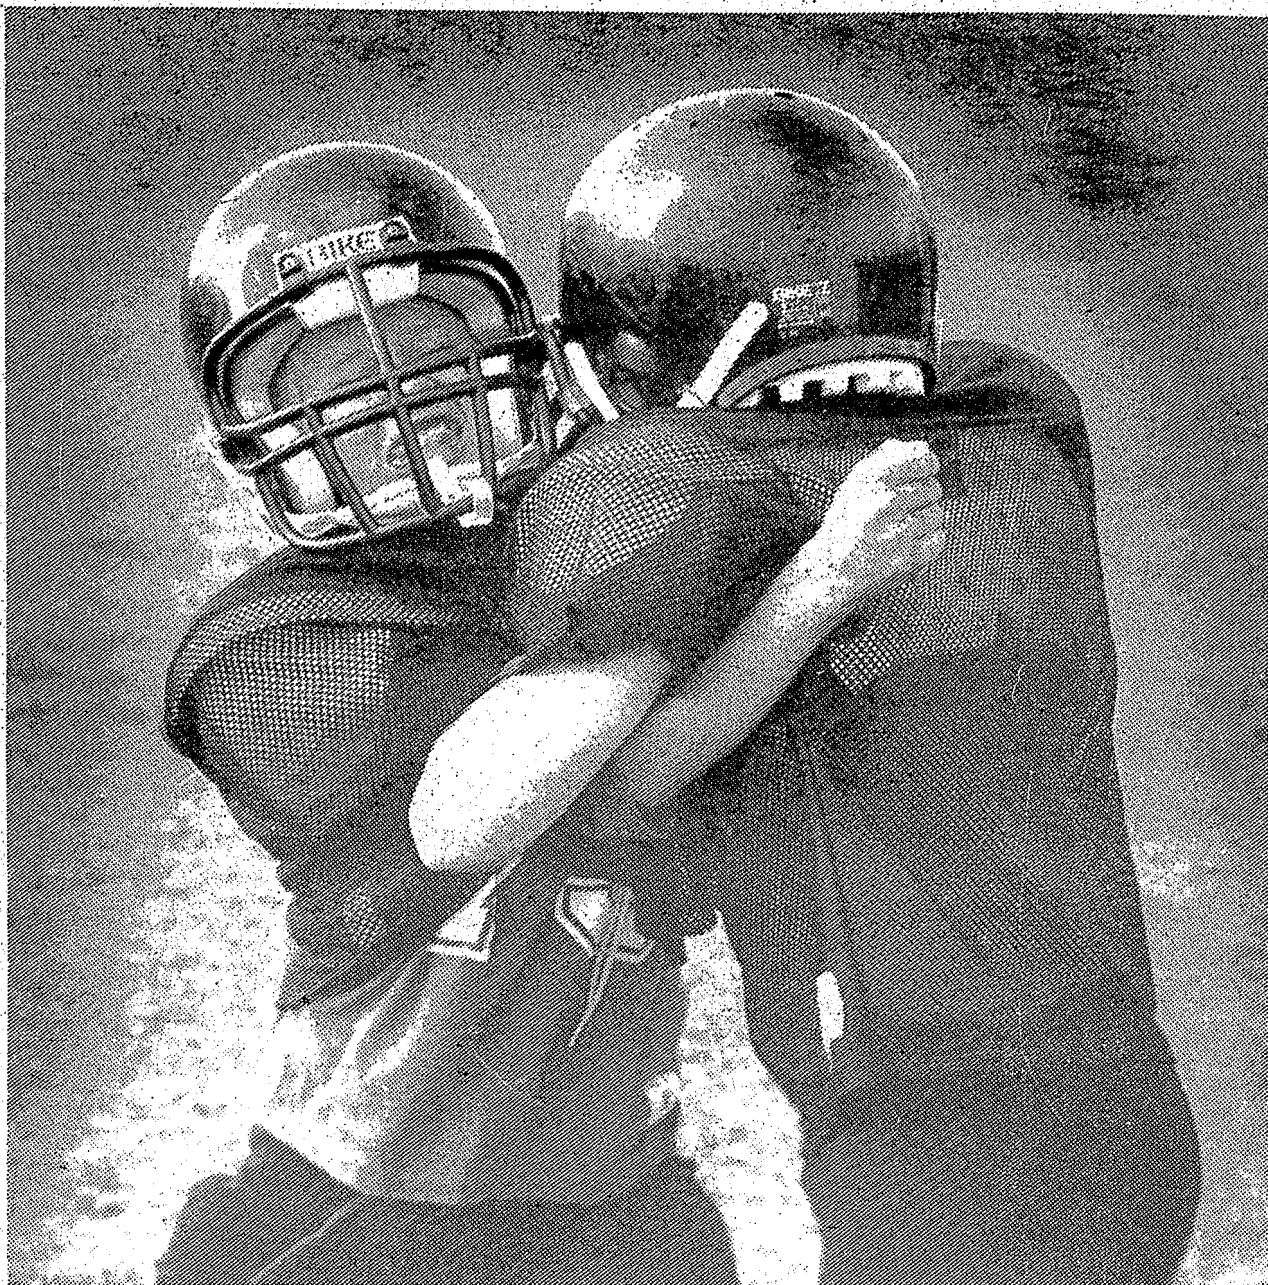

Leroy and Joan have already put together a memory-filled scrapbook of pictures they took along the way.

And all of them agree, Alaska is a place to revisit.

BLOCKING AND TACKLING are necessary techniques if youngsters want to accomplish football dreams. Practicing are Brian Dankert [left] and David Justice of the Chiefs.

CATCHING PASSES in traffic is a skill all receivers must learn, and the Clarkston Chiefs try their hand at it during a practice session Thursday afternoon.

Chiefs offer game to remember

The winner of the annual football raffle for the Clarkston Chiefs will have something to cheer about.

The prize is four tickets to the University of Michigan-Ohio State University football in Ann Arbor on Nov. 21 plus limousine service to and from the game plus a tailgate lunch from the Clarkston Cafe.

Proceeds from the sale will be used for equipment for the Chiefs, an independent football team for 8- to 13-year-olds with cheerleaders of corresponding ages.

Between 150 and 200 youngsters are involved in the program, said Paul Bennett, Chiefs board member and chairperson of fundraising.

It costs about $200 to outfit a child to play football, Bennett said.

"Last year, we spent $12,000 for equipment for the kids--the year before, $10,000--so it's quite a sizable expense," he said.

The raffle tickets, which sell for $1 apiece, are available from any Chiefs board member, by calling 623-3307 or at The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main, Clarkston.

The drawing is Nov. 14.
