Enrollment rises again

BY KATHY GREENFIELD Clarkston News Editor

Enrollment in Clarkston schools continued its upward trend this year with an increase of about 97 pupils in kindergarten through 12th grade on the fourth Friday in September.

State aid is based on the pupil count. This year, the district expects to receive $2,762 in state aid per pupil. Figures are audited by the state in November, so the number remains unofficial until later in the school year.

Last year, after 13 years of declining enrollment, the district experienced an increase of 65 pupils in grades K-12.

The latest increase places 1987-88 enrollment at 5,748, well below the district's all-time high of 7,095 in 1973. The largest drop occurred in 1981, when enrollment declined by 303 pupils.

Because the district's $20.1 million budget for 1987-88 was based on an expected decline in enrollment of 46 pupils, the difference of 143 pupils means an expected increase in revenue of about $395,000.

Superintendent of schools Milford Mason called the increase "a bit of a mixed blessing."

When school district voters rejected a 4.25 mill increase in June, the board of education approved $1.1 million in cuts and agreed to a deficit budget of $657,000.

The income due to the higher enrollment "will by no means scratch the deficit nor bring back teachers laid off in secondary or support teachers," Mason said.

The enrollment increase has resulted in some (See ENROLLMENT, Page 2)

Fight fires

Fire prevention movies and fire extinguisher demonstrations are the highlights of an open house at the new fire station No. 2 in Independence Township.

Scheduled Saturday, Oct. 10, from noon to 6 p.m., the open house includes cookies, coffee and cold drinks along with a tour of the new building at Clarkston and Sashabaw roads.

If the open house, planned for fire prevention week, goes well, they hope to make it an annual event, said Gordon Mason, assistant fire chief. "Fire prevention is important because a lot of people don't think about it until it's too late," said Mason.

"What we have elected to do ... is not make: any further moves until we know the results Oct. 27" of the special school district election when voters will again be asked to approve a 4.25 mill increase, Mason said. Administrative Assistant William Neff provided the figures per building.

Many of the new pupils reflected in the current fourth Friday count were enrolled in the district after last year's fourth Friday tally, which allows for a smoother transition.

Man dies, 2 hurt in I-75 crash

A 31-year-old Utica man was killed and two others injured last Friday in an accident on I-75 in Independence Township.

At about 8:15 p.m., Kenneth Jay, Fantozzi was driving northbound with two passengers in a 1987 Ford pickup truck, pulling an "Apache" trailer.

He was apparently forced off the road after being struck by a 1982 Buick driven by a 36-yearold from Flushing, according to Deputy Kenneth G: Hurst, of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department (OCSD). ti i ini fitti di Fantozzi's vehicle struck several trees and rolled over after leaving the roadway on I-75 between Dixie Highway and Holcomb Road, according to police reports.

"It's a clearer picture when you say we gained these students from October to October rather than June to October," he said. "They didn't all come here this summer.

"Another good thing, this year we'll get paid for them," he said.

Neff said he expects the current fourth Friday figure to change following the state audit. He also expects an increase in the number of students in special education and adult education, which also bring state aid.

When reviewing the current per-building pupil count, a change the school district made this year needs to be considered--sixth-graders from Clarkston, North Sashabaw and Pine Knob elementaries are now housed in Clarkston and Sashabaw junior high schools.

Fantozzi died at the scene. The passengers in his truck were thrown from the vehicle, said Hurst.

Victoria Fliam, 30, of Rochester, is in stable condition at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital, recovering from multiple injuries.

Edith Lawrence, 27, of St. Clair Shores, was treated and released from St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac.

The driver of the Buick, whose name is being withheld pending charges, was not injured and was taken into custody, said Hurst, adding that police are waiting for the results of a blood alcohol test

- No one was wearing a seat belt at the time of the accident, according to police reports.

Mom together with daughters Reunited: after 12-year search of country

BY JULIE CAMPE Clarkston News Staff Writer

Less than a month ago, Debbie Yoey's two children were just babies in her mind. She still imagined them as smiling Dana and spunky Donna, still plump with baby fat.

On Sept. 26, she saw them for the first time in 12 years--still smiling Dana, now 16, and still spunky Donna, 14.

Only now, Dana is a "roper" ("country" in Texas terminology) and Donna is a punker.

Debbie, a Hadley Township resident, described the reunion as the happiest moment of her life.

And more happiness is to come. She and her fiance, Dave Wedlake, are getting married today, Wednesday, Oct. 7: Dave plans to adopt the two girls to add to his own bunch of three children.

Debbie told her story from the Oxford Hills Country Club in Oxford Township, where she has worked for the past five months.

Now calm, serene, wise and bursting with happiness, it's difficult for a listener to imagine Debbie's unbelievably unhappy moments prior to this year.

Except for the past year, her life had been filled with one incredible event after another, she said. "The only thing happy is I have my girls back," she said. "Everything else is devastating.

"I'm still numb. ... It's like when bad things happen in your life, you can't believe it's happening. Now that something good has happened, I can't believe it."

Debbie skimmed over her childhood.

At about age four, she and her two sisters were the first female orphans at Camp Oakland in Oxford Township.

When she was 10 1/2, she was adopted.

She was married at age 17, to Dana and Donna's father. But it didn't work out.

"Girls are brought up to believe that when you get married, it's a fairy tale," she said. "Especially when you're unhappy at home, you think that when you get married everything will be perfect. He'll love you, and you'll be together the rest of your life, and you'll be happy."

But they had an unhappy and unstable marriage, and it ended in a bitter divorce, she said.

"I still had the fairy tale dream that everything was going to be OK, that he was going to come back and we were going to have our white picket fence," she said.

But he didn't come back. He was a musician, and at the time, they lived in Texas, she said.

"There was a time when I couldn't go to a restaurant or a store or any place because I'd see little children, and I'd start crying."

Debbie had custody of the children and their father had visitation rights.

One day, the girls, ages three and four, went to visit and didn't come back.

When Debbie went to find them, she found their father had moved. No one knew where he was. As a musician, he could be anywhere, she said.

A 12-year search began in which Debbie survived several surgeries, battled cancer and won, lost her adopted father to cancer and struggled financially and emotionally to find a job, stability and her children.

"When I was sick and trying to find a job, I couldn't afford a private investigator too often," said. But she searched the whole country.

HAIR COLOR, HEIGHT and music preferences were some of the first things Debbie Yoey's daughters wanted to know about her after 12 years of separation. The youngest,

Donna, had always imagined her mother in a three-piece business suit, said Debbie. A punker, Donna was relieved to find her mother was comfortable in blue jeans.

Years passed. Debbie was depressed and ill, on and off. She married again and went through another divorce.

"It didn't work out, I realize now, because of my state of mind," she said. "After that, I stayed away from relationships because I realized that until my life was whole again, I couldn't be happy." She couldn't bear the holidays because all she could think about were her children, and she would cry.

"I would work on holidays. I just wanted to stay away from my family," she said.

"A lot of people who were in my life, I would just push them away. They would say things. ... They meant to help, but I thought, 'How cruel.' ... I was bitter. I thought, 'How could God do this to me?'

Senior citizen horseshoe pitcher wins agair

BY PETER AUCHTER Clarkston News Staff Writer

From the Boy Scouts to a championship high school basketball team, Robert Seaman has just about done it all during the past 80 years.

The latest addition to the list for the Independence Township resident is horseshoe tossing. He began tossing the shoes about seven years ago.

Since that time, he has won enough trophies to line an entire wall in the basement of his home on Whipple Shore Drive that he shares with his wife of 58 years, Zelda.

While the awards are nice, it's the activity that Seaman enjoys most.

"You can start at any age," he said. "It's the greatest thing there is."

Seaman, a retired General Motors worker. belongs to the National Horseshoe Pitchers Association and is sanctioned to toss horseshoes around the world.

At a recent state championship meet, Seaman took second place in his percentage division and first among the senior citizens.

Horseshoe pitchers are divided up according to skill level. The percentage of ringers per 50 tosses decides opponents when the competition begins.

Seaman had a ringer percentage of 66.2 at the state tournament.

He said anyone can participate in the sport, but it takes time to master it.

"It's a skill just like bowling is," said the grandfather of three. "But this game is good for everybody, especially kids."

Seaman said that horseshoe pitching is one of the biggest sports in the state, yet few people know anything about it.

Since it's not a spectator sport like football, things are unlikely to change, he said.

"It's a pretty nice sport to get involved in," said Seaman.

Horseshoe pitchers square off for local competitions in Lake Orion, Lapeer and Oxford, and new players are always welcome, he said.

When he is not competing against area pitchers, Seaman can be found honing his skill in his backyard practice court.

Once that's done, he moves on to several other activities he enjoys just as much as pitching horseshoes.

Ice fishing, hunting and woodworking are three of Seaman's favorites.

He has also participated in the Senior Olympics three times. He has won three gold medals, two silver and one bronze.

His active lifestyle has rubbed off on the rest of his family. All three of his grandsons have made Eagle Scout in the Boy Scouts, for example.

For now at least, Seaman shows no sign of letting up in his hectic lifestyle.

"I've been an athlete all of my life," he said. "This is something that keeps me young."

Study may lead to community center

A combination senior citizen center and community center could be the result of a feasibility study under way in Springfield Township.

According to Sherry Swindell, Springfield Township parks and recreation director, phase one of a feasibility study should be completed by the township planning consultant Richard Carlisle within two weeks:

The study is centered on a storage building in Mill Pond Park to see whether or not it could be renovated for use as a senior center and community building.

Phase one of the study will include an appraisal of the building, structural integrity, compliance with code and a preliminary cost estimate for improvements to the building and mechanical and electrical systems.

The study is of special interest to many organizations that currently use the township hall as a meeting place, Swindell said.

Plans for expansion in township hall could mean converting the basement meeting area into additional offices and this possibility has caused concern among some community members.

"Members of several organizations have told me they are upset about having to find a new place to meet," Swindell said.

She added that several, including Rotary and Jaycees, have volunteered to help with the renovation of the Mill Pond Park building.

The township has set aside some money from the Community Development Block Grant toward financing the project, Swindell said, and would possibly seek other grants or set aside money from the general fund. Volunteer labor would help defray the building cost.

Dixie car sales OKd

John Bowman, owner of Bowman Chevrolet, plans to open a new and used car sales office across the street from his Dixie Highway, Independence Township, business.

pendence Township, business. On Sept. 24, the township planning commission unanimously approved the final site plan for the office at the location of the former Michigan National Bank office at the corner of Dixie Highway and Lingor Drive.

Bowman is to add additional landscaping along Dixie Highway and move the present sign pole so it conforms with township setback requirements.

Bowman plans to continue mechanical service and new car sales from his current office on the seast side of Dixie Highway, he said.

At the Aug. 27 planning commission meeting, commission members said the move would help control traffic at Bowman's busy Dixie Highway, M-15 intersection.

Dixie building to grow

An existing building on Dixie Highway, Independence Township, is to receive an addition and will house office and retail space, according to owner James Long.

At the Sept. 24 meeting, the township planning commission unanimously approved the final site plan for the site on the west side of Dixie Highway adjacent to the Kinney Shoe Store.

"We're very pleased with the landscape plan," said township planning consultant Richard Carlisle. "It's going to be an excellent addition to Dixie Highway."

Commission Chairperson Joseph Figa added his praise.

"I think the building's going to be quite attractive and the landscape plan is excellent," he said. "You've been very cooperative to work with. We appreciate it."

Dealing with grief is topic of

"Loss and the Path to Healing" is the topic of a program planned Thursday, Oct. 22, by the Clarkston school district's Special Services, the Lewis E. Wint & Son Funeral Home and Clarkston Area Youth Assistance.

The program will be conducted by Dr. William Jones, a counseling therapist, associate professor at Oakland University and consultant to many organizations including the Oakland County Health Department, Crittenton Hospital and the Michigan Funeral Directors Association.

Jones is an excellent speaker, said William Wint of the Wint Funeral Home.

"We feel as a group that individuals on a whole as well as the community have come to realize the need in establishing various tools in overcominggrief and the path to healing." he said.

"We are sure this will be a wonderful opportunity to establish the necessary tools needed in dealing with grief." The program is planned at the Kirchgessner Theatre in Clarkston High School at 7:30 p.m.

Turn lane to remove village parking

When the traffic light on M-15 and Waldon Road is installed next spring, Main Street will lose four street-side parking spaces, said Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) officials Sept. 24.

In a meeting with village council President Sharron Catallo, it was determined that four onstreet parking spaces will be eliminated to help the flow of southbound traffic on M-15.

A left-turn lane will be created on M-15 and the four parking spots will be converted into the through lane, said Catallo.

Catallo briefed the village council at its Sept. 28 meeting. The four spaces that will be eliminated are south of the Clarkston Conservatory of Music on the west side of the road.

Some of the council members were in favor of the plan; others were not sure.

"We have a lot just a block away," said Trustee William Basinger. "It's not a bad idea since it will speed up the traffic heading out of town." Trustee Douglas Roeser said he considered the residents of the village very good drivers and didn't see the need for an extra lane when the traffic light is installed in May.

John Stuetzer, a planning commission member, also voiced opposition to removing the parking spots ing spots. "We are encouraging a three-lane highway and that is only one lane away from becoming a four-lane one," he said.

Catallo said there may be further discussion with the MDOT to try and come up with a solution that will make everyone happy

My good friend Elizabeth, who is 5 years old, has given me a reason to look forward to winter. There are many reasons I don't look forward to winter and all of them have to do with being cold ... except for the one about the inevitable annual driving-on-ice tests.

I'm truly thrilled that there are many among us who love to ski, make snowmen, have snowball fights and go ice skating.

But winter, as far as I'm concerned, is delightful on a visual basis only. A post card would suffice.

Fall, on the other hand, is in the running for my favorite season. I like the color. The crisp air. Fresh apple cider. Candy corn. Halloween. The smell of burning leaves.

The other night, Elizabeth had been at our whouse for a visit and I was walking her home. Elizabeth," said I. "There's fall in the air."

I remembered noticing the pleased look on her face and wondering what it was all about as I drove off to be wherever it was I had to be.

Now I know and I am absolutely delighted. Because Elizabeth's reason for loving winter was so unusual and wonderful, I shared it with some friends.

A week or so later, in the light of an almost full moon, a bunch of adults were bouncing down

Paths waste cash

We have been watching with righteous indignation the wanton destruction of the environment along Maybee Road.

The "Golden Half-Mile Bike Path", which goes nowhere, is obviously costing megabucks.

I suggest that those taxpayer dollars should have gone toward worthwhile causes, e.g., schools, police or road construction, all of which would have benefited the majority of Independence Township citizens instead of only a few.

Society says thanks

The board of the Clarkston Community Historical Society wants to thank all of the people of Clarkston and Independence Township for your support of the 13th annual Crafts and Cider Festival!

Every year hundreds of people work together to create a festival of which we can all be proud. The work starts the week after we "fold our tents," as the exhibitor jury begins collecting applications for next year. Soon after, publicity begins to appear in travel and trade magazines.

Then the civic groups make their plans to be part of the weekend, the park is reserved, the banner permit is granted and our merchandise is ordered.

By the time we reach summer, we are in full swing. The set-up committee orders cups and napkins, cider and donuts, tents and tables. Volunteers are contacted, and we are ready!

We wish we could personally thank every one of you who helped make the weekend a success. Although we can't print every name, we know who you are, and we appreciate your contribution. In addition to all of the many individuals who helped us, there are several organizations which donated their time and services.

We want to thank the Village of Clarkston and its staff; the Independence, Township Fire Department, Parks and Recreation Department, Senior Citizens Center and Lakeview Cemetery; Smith's Disposal, Michigan Bell, Telephone Co.; Detroit Edison; Ottawa Park Cemetery; Clarkston American Speedy Printing Centers; E.F. Hutton; the many civic groups who added to the festival air; and The Clarkston News.

We want to thank all of you for your spirit of generosity and cooperation.

Friendly faces

A love of the outdoors and strong midwestern values are some of the reasons Kurt Boose and his family returned to Michigan after living in California for seven years.

California offered sunny weather, but unsettling values in some situations, said Kurt, who resides on Northview Drive in Independence Township.

The midwest offered more familiar conditions for raising a family.

"I prefer this area," said Kurt. "It's still wide open enough so you don't feel closed in. I was raised in Troy when it was still farmland. My parents still live there, but it's changed so much.

"This area is great," he said. "I think Clarkston is very family oriented. People are very caring."

Kurt owns Nature's Rain Irrigation, a company in which he designs, sells and installs. irrigation systems.

While California would seem the ideal market for water systems, the growth in Michigan also calls for irrigation systems, he said.

He works in Independence Township, as well as Waterford, Farmington, Novi, Southfield and other areas.

"I like being outdoors. I don't think I could be closed in. Even if it gets cold, I don't mind. It's great. I wouldn't have it any other way.

"I enjoy it so much. ... I like doing things by myself."

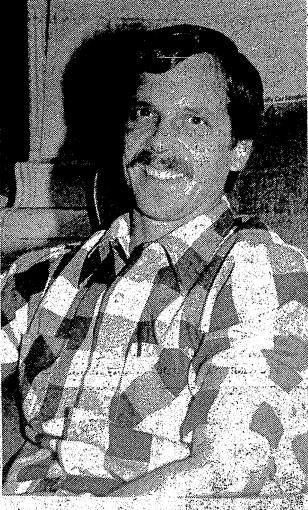

In the seven to nine months of Michigan's outdoor working weather, Kurt keeps a hectic. schedule. Up at dawn and home at dark, he and his crew work while the sun shines, he said.

But even so, Kurt keeps his work in perspective with his values.

"A lot of people in this business get so involved in their work, they don't take the time to be with their families, although I think that's changing more and more," he said, adding he didn't have extra hobbies.

"I like to fish, but mostly I like to spend time with the family. That's enough of a hobby for me."

Hoo ha hoo ha! Boy, that's a good one. There's nothing I like better than a good laugh, and I'm indebted to Mayor Young for the best guffaw in years. The subject was discrimination, something the mayor often deals with in his never-ending battle to guarantee equal rights for all citizens.

A few days ago, Young reacted to a Detroit News front-page photo of the illegal double-parking by Detroit Club members by saying he believed parking ordinances should be enforced in an even-handed manner, but:

"One of the things that happens at the DAC and Detroit Club is that there are a pool of doormen on duty so a car is not unattended."

The doormen, or valet parkers, keep the doubleparkers from creating a traffic problem, Young said. Presumably, the mayor believes those guys move an illegally parked car before it forces a corner-turning bus to swerve into oncoming traffic, or before an innocent motorist is trapped at the curb or behind a long line of cars that appear to be waiting for a green light but are actually waiting for several big shots to finish two-hour lunches.

Presumably, the mayor receives lavish gifts from The Great Pumpkin every Halloween.

AS DOCUMENTED here countless times, the true function of the Detroit Club valet parker is to harass nonmembers. He tells them they may not double park or even park in the public 30-minute spots at the block-long curb unless they are club members. If they defy him, he says he will make sure they are ticketed. He also barks at the rare meter maid who dares to violate orders from on high and ticket a club member's car. One meter maid told me her club tickets were torn up with the approval of her boss.

As a next-door neighbor of the Detroit Club, I can see things happen by simply looking out the window. Also, I provide a sympathetic:ear for Free Press employes ticketed for parking two minutes overtime only a few feet from where valet-guarded cars are imperviously doubleparked for two hours.

I'm not that personally involved with the situation at the Detroit Athletic Club, on the other side of downtown. But I've heard frustratingly ironic complaints from ordin-ary citizens who drive to nearby 36th District Court to pay ta da! - parking tickets. They also have to pay several dollars to parking lots while looking down the street at dozens of double- and triple parked cars stretching the length of the DAC block of the second DOES MAYOR YOUNG really believe the presence of doormen somehow justifies this blatant discrimination? Am I supposed to believe that I may double park for two hours in front of Ham Heaven just as long as I assign an attendant to my car? Hoo ha hoo ha! My wife attended our double-parked car in front of the Free Press by sitting behind the steering wheel. Twice in two minutes she was ordered by a meter maid to move on or get a ticket. Sure, in a town where kids get shot as regularly time passes, it's silly to complain about illegal parking.

But that's not the complaint. What bugs everyone except plush-club members; isn't the parking, it's the unequal enforcement of the law. Just because a man is rich enough to belong to the Detroit Club doesn't mean City Hall should treat him better than the man who lunches at a Coney Island. Especially in a town run by a mayor who so often speaks out against discrimination.

When the double parking at the Detroit Club became front-page news at the Detroit News, I figured I wouldn't bother writing about it anymore. But then Mayor Young said there wouldn't be any favoritism for the wealthy if everyone had a doorman, and I couldn't let that pass. I had to thank him for the great hoo ha hoo ha.

Will any of the money be used for salary increases? 1. 1. 1. 1. 1. 1.

The 4.25 is operational millage. This is used for general school district expenses, which include salaries.

Contracts expired June 30 with four employee groups. The district is currently negotiating agreements with bus drivers, head and general custodians and district administrators. It needs to be made very clear that funds will be used to compensate those groups as well as other employees that make up the district staff. A school district is a people-intensive operation and, as such, 80 percent of the annual budget is allocated for wage and benefit programs.

Depending on the individual's tax status, portions of the above amounts will be returned through both the federal tax and the Michigan income tax (the circuit breaker).

What happens to the extra money collected from property tax when the district's SEV increases?

If all other factors (students and membership state aid formula) remain constant, the increase in property tax collected is offset by a decrease in state aid by the same amount.

How much does Clarkston receive from state aid/property tax per pupil compared to other Oakland County school districts?

Clarkston ranks second to last (27 out of 28) in amount of money received per pupil. Only one district receives less than Clarkston.

County roadwork for '88 includes bridges

Two bridges are to be replaced and one curve improved in Independence Township next year by the Oakland County Road Commission (OCRC).

The OCRC also is to perform preliminary engineering to improve the Maybee and Sashabaw roads intersection.

On Andersonville Road, bridges crossing the connections between Lester Lake and Greens Lake and between Lester Lake and Van Norman Lake are to be replaced for $320,000 each, 90 percent ($288,000 each) paid from the federalstate critical bridge fund, said Dennis Pajot, OCRC representative.

The remaining $32,000 for each project is to be paid by the OCRC, he said.

The bridges have been on the critical bridge list since 1979, but other projects have always received a higher priority, said Pajot.

Finally, the bridges moved up in priority, he said.

On Sashabaw Road, a curve and other areas are to be improved between Sally and Oak Hill roads, Pajot said. Of the $524,000 cost, $393,000 is 🄊 to be funded from federal aid and $131,000 from the OCRC.

The OCRC also plans preliminary engineering for future improvements to the Sashabaw and Maybee intersection. The $55,000 cost is to be paid by the OCRC, he said.

By Suzanne Baumann It must be September. I'm back in school, Labor Day's over with, and, of course, everybody is wearing new shoes.

After a bit of research (looking down at other people's shoes, that is) I've decided that September must be New Shoe Month.

When you think about it, the whole thing's kind of sickening.

It may just be my taste in shoes. One pair of good shoes is enough to last me from one September to the next.

All I need is for them to wear with cut-offs and a T-shirt, as well as an evening gown. My parents aren't too wild about this idea, so I have a few different pairs of shoes.

White seems to be a popular shoe color this season. This could be dangerous.

There's one rule of thumb you must always remember with new white shoes: NEVER STARE DIRECTLY AT THEM! Many people have been blinded by bright, shiny, brand-new, spanking-clean white shoes. I have a pair, but I kind of hesitated buying them.

I like white, but I'don't like white. In my mind, a good shade of white only comes after standing in the mud for a couple of hours.

That would really reduce the embarrassment I get, not to mention the lawsuits from the the alout ing ald gauge-of-my people I blinded.

Perhaps we should all sign a petition to get rid of white shoes once and for all. Send it to the big shoe-making companies.

I can't do it alone.

Unless I'm a minority in this area, we could put mud-washed tennies on the shoe store shelves everywhere.

Rezoning for Deer Lake condos denied again

BY PETER AUCHTER Clarkston News Staff Writer

A rezoning request that would have placed condominiums near Deer Lake was denied by the village council Oct. 5.

Vintage construction president Ron Zilka, representative Dan Rush and Rudy Lozano explained their proposal to a full house of 25 residents who live on or near Deer Lake.

The public hearing was a joint meeting between the planning commission and the Clarkston Village Council on the issue as well.

In a 5-1 vote, the planning commission recommended denial, citing too many buildings and the increase in traffic the project would create.

Once the recommendation was received, the village council voted on the rezoning request without further discussion, denying the proposal in a 6-0 vote.

Trustee William Basinger explained why the request was denied.

"We have a duty to the public to uphold the health, safety and welfare of (village residents) and this rezoning request wouldn't do that," he said.

Besides, Vintage construction didn't show a real need for the new construction on Deer Lake, Basinger said.

Lozano spoke for Vintage construction when the public hearing began:

the public hearing began: The Deer Lake condo project called for six four-unit buildings on a five-acre site off White Lake Road next to the township beach.

Each unit would consist of two or three bedrooms and cost per unit would be approximately $250,000, said Lozano.

The homes would make good retirement places for area senior citizens, he said "This is something that will be a definite asset," he said. "This is within walking distance of the downtown area."

Since part of the property abuts Deer Lake, Lozano was quick to point out that boating facilities would not be provided. Anti-boating rules would be included in the bylaws to appease the other Deer Lake owners, he said.

But some residents still were not satisfied that the problem of too many boats could be solved that easily.

"We have bylaws (prohibiting boats) and they don't work," said Charles Myers of Sagantore Drive. "The individual homeowner, must take the (offender) to court and that costs lots of money."

When others raised concerns about disturbing the wetlands on the lakefront area, Lozano said the half-acre piece of property would be donated to whoever wanted it.

"We don't need the Deer Lake frontage to sell the property," he said. "It just would be a positive aspect."

Basinger asked the Vintage construction representatives how the project would help the village of Clarkston. He said that he knows of no one who has asked for $250,000 housing recently. Other residents of the Deer Lake area were in agreement with Basinger.

"I don't feel that it adds anything aesthetically to the area," said Robert Howse of Sagamore Drive. "I also feel that it will take away from my property (value)."

Lozano said that based on his experience, 15 years as a real estate broker, the surrounding property values would remain the same. said to the crowd, "It all comes down to this, can you trust us?"

After the village council denied the proposal, Lozano said the developers were back to square one.

"We will have to review our options now," he said.

Town mailboxes to be moved

The mailboxes on Main Street will soon have a new home, according to Bob Wehrly of the Clarkston Post Office.

The boxes in front of the law offices of Dennis Kacy will be moved to the Washington Street exit of the village parking lot.

While the post office didn't have to ask the village council's permission to move the boxes, Wehrly, did anyway at the Sept. 28 village council meeting.

"The mail trucks have to double park to empty the boxes and (Wehrly) is afraid an accident will happen sooner or later," said Village Marshall Charles Smalley, and people dropping off mail have been double parking.

Trustee Frank Millard said a better location for the boxes would be inside the parking lot thereby eliminating the problem of double parking Wehrly, the supervisor of mails and delivery, said the post office would make repairs to the sidewalk after the boxes were moved.

No one on the village council voiced any objections to the post office request.

In a final attempt to sway the public, Lozano

(REUNITED, continued from Page 3) "Now I look at it that it was to give me strength to go on."

Her search for her children continued wherever she went.

There was a time when I couldn't go to a restaurant or a store or any place because I'd see little children, and I'd start crying. I didn't want people to think I was crazy, so I stopped going anywhere," she said.

"There were times when I thought I wasn't going to make it. I thought, if they did ever come to see me, it would be in a mental home.

"There are times in my life that are blank. I just can't remember. I was depressed?

But in the back of her mind, the thought of. her children kept her going, she said.

"I always had their baby pictures. I had lost most of their things in a fire. But I had the pictures."

Finally, she began to let up on the search.

"I had to come to the conclusion that the girls. were being taken care of. ... It was like when someone passes away who you love dearly," she said. "I had to let go and try to find happiness."

Then, she met Dave.

"Dave has been so supportive," she said. They decided to get married and planned to live in and slowly fix up his old farmhouse on Big Fish Lake. The house had been in Dave's family for years, she said.

"I'm very much a loner," said Debbie: "Living at the lake, I could just sit there and find peace with myself. ... I was trying to discover myself and figure out how this had happened.

"About the time I had given up (the search), I got the phone call."

Debbie was reunited with her girls on Sept. 26. Since Dave's car and Debbie's car were old, a friend loaned her his new van for the trip to Texas, she said.

Dana returned with her to live. Donna remains in a hospital in Texas and plans to join them in about two weeks.

Talking to the girls, Debbie learned some of the incredible events in her daughters' lives.

They were told their mother had abandoned them, and that she later died of cancer.

When they were seven and eight, their father gave them up for adoption to their babysitters.

The babysitters raised them, but after giving birth to two of their own children, they wanted to give them back to their father.

and Son

Their father, now remarried with a 4-yearold daughter, refused to take them back.

Meanwhile, the girls were subjected to an a extreme view of life. They were withdrawn from school for two years because of religious beliefs.

"They were strict. The girls were punished for (doing) normal things," said Debbie. "They were thrown out of the house.

"If they did anything wrong, it was not discussed. They were punished. They were told it was because they loved them.

"They were never allowed to be children. ... They never even knew basketball games."

In desperation, Donna ran away.

"Had they not contacted me, both girls would have ended up in placement homes and separated," said Debbie. "With what time is left, I've got to let them know that they do have a home and they are loved.

"My main concern is to just keep them in school and try to keep things as normal as possible.

'They found me at the right time. Four years ago, I was still bitter. ... I've had to let go of those feelings That battle is over now.

T'm a little bit bitter because, now that they're back in my life, I know the things these people have done for them.

I have to teach them not to be bitter, no. matter what has happened to them, or else they won't be able to cope.

'To them, they've been kicked away, so a lot. of the feelings and emotions haven't even surfaced yet. ... They've never had a normal life."

With Dana home, Debbie is busy doing motherly things--laundry, school errands, dinner and lunch, up at dawn to meet the school bus. "It's like as a little girl, I had always dreamt it would be," she said. ".". It's tiring, I'll tell you."

Debbie will always remember the first phone call and the letter that followed from Dana. When the letter came, Debbie could only cry, and she couldn't see to read it, she said.

Dave had to read it to her, but he cried, too. She was overwhelmed with happiness, and it was pouring out of her, said Debbie.

She remembered how she felt: "I'm whole. I'm human. I'm not just walking through life.

"I'm still numb, being a mother for the first time," said Debbie. "It's like Dave says, I really do need him because he's been through the teens (with his three children).

Clarkston captures title share

BY PETER AUCHTER Clarkston News Staff Writer

While the prep football playoffs may be more than a month away, don't tell the Wolves. They are playing every game as if there were no tomorrow.

Clarkston returned home after a three-week absence Friday night to down Waterford Mott, 22-12, and up their record to 4-1.

Next on the schedule is Midland Dow on the road

"We are looking at that one as a playoff game," said Coach Kurt Richardson.

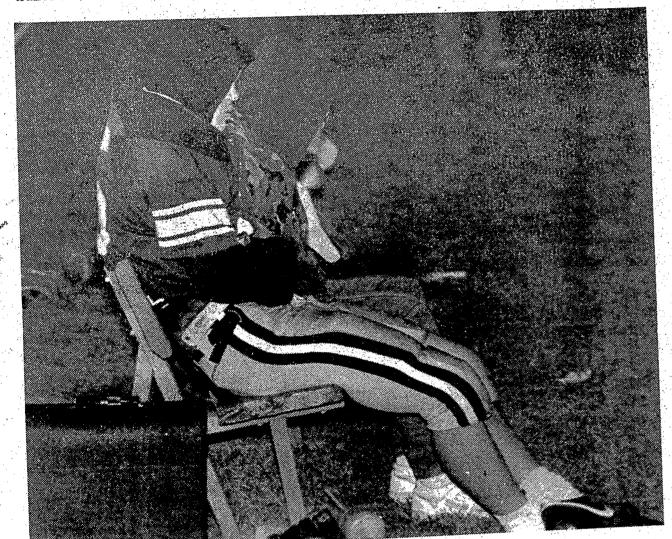

Against Mott, Clarkston fell behind early and trailed 12-3 at the half.

The only points the team could muster in the first half were on a 22-yard field goal by Ken Phipps with 1:07 left before the intermission.

Mott scored earlier on a 15-yard run by Sean Harrington and a 47-yard fumble recovery by Kirk Brandon. Both attempts for the point after failed.

"We were breaking our own backs with stupid mistakes," Richardson said of the first half. Clarkston finally got rolling in the second half, as the running backs controlled the game.

"All three of the backs ran well," said Richardson. Stacy Turner led the pack with 120 yards, Mike Gilbert chipped in with 86 and Keenan Powell added 27 as the Wolves amassed 253 yards on the ground.

ALL OF THE WOLVES were pumped up for Friday night's game against Waterford Mott and Michael Bilbey was unhappy that he had to warm the bench due to injuries.

Slick passing sparks rout for Wolves

Slick passing helped the Wolves overwhelm confidence booster for the team. o make things happen for we are starting ourselves," he said.

Clarkston finally was able to punch it into the end zone in the third quarter when Turner knifed his way through the heart of Mott's defense and scored from 9 yards out.

The point after attempt failed and the Corsairs led 12-9 with 7:06 left in the third quarter.

That touchdown seemed to give the Wolves new life and they soon were on the attack again. An interception in the end zone finished their next drive.

But the Wolves were not to be denied for long in this contest. Turner scored again in the third quarter, this time on a 25-yard sweep to put Clarkston in front for good.

David Thompson closed the door on Mott in the final quarter when he returned an interception 15 yards for the final touchdown. Josh Newblatt kicked the conversion for a 22-12 win.

After a productive first half, Mott was stymied offensively the rest of the way.

"The defensive coaches made some adjustments in the second half," said Richardson.

Mike Wells led the team in tackles with eight. Mark Oswald and Thompson also were singled out by the coaches for their outstanding play.

The victory over a Greater Oakland Activities League foe bumps Clarkston's record in the league to 3-0. A win over Lake Orion Oct. 16 would clinch the Wolves second consecutive GOAL title.

"The worst we can do is tie," said Richardson. "This will be the first time that Clarkston has ever won back-to-back (GOAL titles)."

Netters fall to Dragons again

Lake Orion seems to have the Wolves' number whenever they face each other in a prep tennis match.

For the past four seasons, Clarkston has finished runner-up to the Dragons in the Greater Oakland Activities League.

Clarkston battled Lake Orion twice last week and ended up on the short end of the score each time to finish second. The Wolves' record is 7-3.

"They really played as hard as they could," said Coach Dick Swartout, "but Lake Orion always seems to come out on top."

The Dragons own a 33-match winning streak in dual meets, said Swartout. Clarkston lost by identical scores of 5-2 to Lake Orion to finish its season

Ashley Adams and Shelly Rood were victorious in singles play for the Wolves when they faced Waterford Kettering Oct. 1 in a prep soccer contest at home.

Clarkston whipped its GOAL rival 7-0 to up its record to 5-7-1. The improved play of the team has impressed Coach Neil Granlund. "We were passing so good in the first half nobody could have stopped us," he said.

The Wolves peppered the Kettering goalie with 13 shots in the opening 40 minutes of play and jumped out to a comfortable 4-0 lead at the half.

Bill Cashin completed a hat trick in the first half by scoring three times. B.J. Deloney tallied the other marker in the opening half.

Clarkston continued to press in the second half and midway through, blew the game wide open. Jim Brueck, Matt Zabel and Zach Brown collected a goal apiece to finish off the scoring for the Wolves.

Granlund said that scoring lots of goals is a

Cashin had two assists to go along with his three scores and Darren Brandt, Paul Reading, Brueck and Brown all had one assist.

The Wolves remain unbeaten in their last three contests after a slow start this season.

Clarkston tied Lake Orion, 1-1, Sept. 29 on the road.

"It was a very well-played match by both sides," said Granlund. "We are coming on strong and I hope that it continues."

Chris Blimka scored the only goal for Clarkston in the second half. Cashin picked up an assist on the play.

Now that the Wolves are starting to jell, Granlund looks forward to post-season play. "If we continue to play like this, we will be ready for the tournaments," said Granlund. Clarkston's next game is Oct. 9 at home, 5 p.m., against Oxford.

the Dragons Sept. 30. In the league meets at Waterford Mott, Adams and Kim K. Morris won singles matches for Clarkston's only points.

"Some of the matches were fairly close and we were ahead early in them," said Swartout. But the Wolves were not able to hang on.

The Wolves placed seven people in the finals of the league meet, making it another dual meet against Lake Orion for all intents and purposes, said Swartout.

In a non-league battle, the Wolves were dealt another blow when they lost a tight match to Milford Sept. 28 at home.

Adams, Rood and the doubles team of Shelley Purdy and Kelly Parker were winners for Clarkston in a 4-3 loss.

Clarkston now will participate in the regionals at Waterford Oaks on Friday. The 200th ranked player in the world, Rochester High's Amy Fraser, will be there.

Tiger fever even struck a few people up here in Wolf country over the weekend. It was hard to escape it.

At the football game Friday night against Waterford Mott (we won again) many spectators brought along tiny transistors so they wouldn't miss any of the game.

Since I obviously didn't come properly prepared to cheer on the Tigers I had to rely on the folks around me to update the score every few seconds or so. Don't ya just love a winner?

In more ways than one, the football game on the field mirrored the game down at Tiger Stadium.

Visiting Toronto jumped out to a quick 3-0 advantage

Visiting Mott vaulted in front of the Wolves 12-3

The Tigers rallied to win the game and tie the Blue Jays in the standings.

The Wolves took control of the contest and

Detroit made its fans silly with happiness,

Speaking of the weather, just before the sec-to fall. Unfortunately, it only lasted a couple of minutes.

But that was long enough for the fans to get their raincoats on and prepare for a miserable half of football watching weather.

As it turned out, though, the wet stuff stopped and the game resumed unhindered. And Clarkston won.

I'm looking forward to covering a game in the snow and cold as much as my next trip to the dentist's office. The choice between numb gums and numb toes is a tough one to make.

If Clarkston continues to win as they have this season, only one loss wrecks their record, the weather won't bother me at all.

Covering a winning team warms the cockles of my heart, folks. Keep up the good work.

Finally, I'd like to close this week with a story about the Tigers.

Seniors top juniors in powderpuff game

BY JULIE CAMPE Clarkston News Staff Writer

Not even the rain dampened the spirits of the 150 girls who played powderpuff football at Clarkston High School Monday night.

Tradition prevailed, and the team of 60 seniors narrowly beat the team of 90 juniors with a score of 27-25.

"I thought it was a great game," said senior-Coach Al Bartlett. "The juniors were a very worthy opponent, almost too worthy."

The ball was up and down the field the entire evening. Rain kept passes to a minimum, and the players battled it out in a muddy field, he said.

To win, the seniors had to score in the last one-and-a-half minutes of the game.

"It was probably one of the better games I've seen," said Bartlett. "It was even. It was a little rough, but that's the game of football. It was worth the bangs and the bruises.

"They're young. When you're 17, the body has amazing recuperative power."

He was proud of the team's good sportsmanship, he said.

"The girls handled the rain very well. Since my years of football, ... I had forgotten the joy of standing on the sidelines on an October night in the rain," he said. "But powderpuff is a neat tradition."

The juniors' coach David Ragatz was equally pleased with his team's play and attitude, he said. This has got be be the classiest bunch of girls I've ever been associated with," he said. "They went out in one week and worked harder and learned more than any other girls I've been with." His fourth year of coaching powderpuff, Ragatz was especially impressed with his quarterbacks, who called all their own plays, he said-Ragatz and his friend, defensive coach Toby great," said Ragatz. Aldritch, were happy with the experience. "I think it was fantastic, even with the rain," he said.

Student council sponsor Holly Stephens said her only regret about the game was the weather. "It's too bad that it rained," she said. "It's the only chance the girls have to play football in their

DRIPPING WITH RAINWATER, the juniors on the sideline Monday don't seem to mind the bad weather. The seniors used umbrellas when they weren't playing.

WITH THE FAMILY DOG peeking onto the scene, Lois Pickering tends the family's herd of dairy goats at their Brandon Township home. All three of their daughters have been top 4-H winners with the goats over the past 17 years.

Goat raising is family project

BY PAT YOUNG Clarkston News Staff Writer

Raising dairy goats has been a family affair at the Pickering residence in Brandon Township for Patricia, the youngest, just earned three top awards at the 136th annual Michigan State Fair-youth goat milking, showmanship, and grand champion dairy goat.

She is now studying business and computers at Suomi College in Michigan's Upper Peninsula and wants to run her own farm someday. Lois says she is extremely proud that they've raised three daughters into responsible adults. "You know, I had someone ask me once, would you rather spend your money little by little keeping your kids out of trouble, or all at once getting them out of jail," she says. "We've never had to worry about the drug problem or anything like that." through the Michigan DHIA for milk production.

They're not set up to sell their goat milk, but they use as much of it as they can for their own consumption and to feed the animals. Even the neighbors cats benefit.

17 years.

It was that long ago when oldest daughter Becky, now 25, told Lois and David Pickering she wanted a 4-H project. They answered an ad for a dairy goat and Becky's goat project was under way.

Becky went on to win many top awards with her goats in 4-H, including overall showman at the fair.

The family has been raising goats ever since, and two more daughters, Michelle and Patricia, have followed in their older sister's footsteps.

Michelle, now 23, still shows dairy goats as an open class exhibitor and works for the American Dairy Association as a public relations agent promoting dairy products.

Both of the older girls are licensed by the American Dairy Goat Association to judge shows throughout the United States. Lois just began a career in real estate and David works at General Motors Truck and Bus, but she says they still enjoy raising the goats.

"Dairy goats get such bad publicity," Lois says. "But they're clean animals and (contrary to public belief) they don't eat tin cans."

Dairy goats have to be milked twice a day, just like cows, and the Pickerings' goats are tested

Lois occasionally makes feta cheese or ice cream from fresh goat milk.

"Goat milk tastes about the same as cow's milk," she says.

The fat content in goat milk stays suspended, instead of making a layer at the top like cow's milk, she says, which is why goat milk is considered more digestible.

Though the daughters are all grown, showing goats will still be a family activity. Even the Pickerings' 5-year-old granddaughter, Marie, got into the act this summer by helping show goats at the Ingham County Fair.

"We like the thrill of showing," Lois says. And then there's the fact that the family has built their herd into some of the top goats in the nation, including one champion goat in the top 10 milk producers.

My sister is going back to school after four and a half years of motherhood. She had to leave school at age 17 because she was pregnant.

I'm having concerns about how to go about helpingher have the confidence and perseverance to go back to school.

Do you have any suggestions on what I can C say or how I can help?

The Mother's Sister

Dear Mother's Sister: Some of her anxieties may include the fear of not being academically successful, feeling uncomfortable around strangers and the fear of the unknown. Any new situation or confrontation creates anxiety. She may be worried about having additional responsibilities of being a mother and a student.

Knowing her feelings and her situation may. help you to relate with her. Try to give her support in the previously mentioned areas.

Help build her self-esteem and confidence by tellingher that you believe she will be a success. By putting yourself in her shoes, you can help her help herself.

Dear Friend to Friend:

O

My best friend, John, has been having a really rough time. His mom just married this guy that John cannot stand.

My friend felt so strongly against their marriage that he moved away from home. He stayed with friends for a while and is now living with his

Dear Best Friend:

It is good that you realize that your friend has a problem. As you probably already know, the hard part is helping him realize it, too.

First of all, he has to be willing to change. If he doesn't see the problem maybe you can try to help him see it with a heart-to-heart talk.

You want to try to help him the best that you can, but please don't try to take the weight of the world on your shoulders.

All you can do is be there to talk to him and be his friend.

LETTERS TO FRIEND TO FRIEND are answered by a panel of Clarkston High School students working under the sponsorship of Aware, a community group devoted to action and education against chemical dependency.

Students can submit letters by placing them in the designated "problem locker" at CHS, Clarkston Junior High or Sashabaw Junior High. Letters can also be mailed to Friend to

The Clarkston (Mich.) News Wed., Oct. 7, 1987 31 Ad Good Mill Sin. Oct. 11, 1997 earn how to prevent fires

Fire Prevention Week is a good time to think about wood stove safety, says the Michigan State Police Fire Marshal Division.

According to the Division, there have been an alarming number of fires directly attributed to woodburning stoves, fire places and chimneys. The property loss from those fires has mounted to millions of dollars, the Division adds,

The primary causes of the fires included: *Improper installation of wood heating appliances - The Division says improper installation includes placing the appliances too close to combustible walls, improper floor protection, unsafe installation through walls or ceilings and placing fumiture, wood or clothing too close to the appliance. *Improper maintenance or operation - including a creosote build-up in chimneys and stove pipe conectors, improper disposal of ashes and escaping sparks and embers.

*Improper installation of venting pipes or chimneys - The Division says this includes stove pipes that are installed too close to walls or ceilings and improper wall, ceiling and attic space penetration.

*Use of flammable liquids to kindle fires *Failure of automatic control devices *Fuel overload - placing too much fuel in the appliance with disregard for its capacity. The Division suggests several checks that homeowners can make themselves. Included are assuring that the appliance is 36 inches from combus-tible walls, that it is placed upon a non-combustible pad or hearth; and that all combustible materials such as furniture, logs, newspapers and clothing are placed at least 36 inches from the stove.

Also, the chimney and stove pipe connectors should be cleaned and inspected for signs of deterioration or damage.

Members wanted

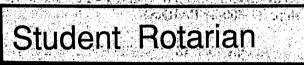

The American Business Women's Inde-Spring Charter Chapter will welcome new prospective members at its fall enrollment event on Tuesday, Oct. 13.

The dinner and program at the home of Jan Strong will begin at 6 p.m.

ABWA is open to all employed females who are interested in enriching their own lives by helping other females further their education through financial scholarship aid.

Business meetings are conducted monthly and include dinner, a speaker and planned program.

For more information about the Inde-Spring chapter, call Jan Strong at 394-0730 or Barbara McKesner at 625-2495.

CHS junior selected

Clarkston High School student Scott Zumwalt has been selected as a student Rotarian.

Each month, the Clarkston Rotary Club selects two outstanding student leaders who are devoted to community service.

Scott, a junior, meets this "service above self" standard. Scott does volunteer work at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital and is a member of the Michigan Youth Ministries, a church youth group.

Scott also participates in a variety of school activities, such as the Drama Club and the school's Mime Troupe.

He plans to attend a four-year college and pursue an acting career,

CHS Guidance Corner

By William Hartwell Director of Guidance

The 1987 Senior Class of Clarkston High School set a new mark of over $120,000 in scholarships and grants to initiate their college studies.

This incredible showing is a credit to these students, their parents and to the staff throughout our district.

The majority of the awards were made through individual colleges and universities, the State of Michigan, local organizations and clubs, unions, Student Council and the National Merit Scholarship Program.

To our CHS graduates, our sincere wish for continued success and congratulations on a job well-done.

A complete list of "local" scholarships will be published next spring. (Examples include Boost-Rotary, American Legion, Beardslee, ers, Kirchgessner Memorial, etc.)

Students may also obtain awards directly from colleges to which they have been admitted and plan to attend in the fall of 1988.

Throughout the year, "special" scholarships (for instance, leadership, minority group, church affiliated, military association, future career choice) are announced and posted on our Scholarship Board.

Fire safety tips from Red Cross

This list of fire safety tips comes to you from the American Red Cross, Southeastern Michigan Chapter, in, space heater or heating stove? The surrounding surfaces window. Ventilation prevents suffocation that can be () conjunction with National Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 4-10:

*Do not smoke in bed.

- *Discard oily and paint-soaked rags.
- *Keep matches away from children.

*Do not overload electrical circuits. *Never use a gas range or an oven to heat our kitchen. Any unvented heating appliance is capable of producing deadly fumes. Don't leave the door of a lit oven open. Children could burn themselves. *Keep an appropriate fire extinguisher on a wall away from the stove. *During snow storms, be sure to shovel the snow away from the fire hydrant. It could save your home or that of your neighbors.

*If your clothing catches fire, wrap yourself in a blanket or rug and roll on the ground to extinguish the flames. Do not run.

When using space heaters and heating stoves: *make sure they are in good working condition BEFORE using. Never use fuel-burning appliances without proper vents to the outside - they produce deadly fumes.

Maintain clearancein all directions around the samust leave it on, turn it down to its lowest setting. Open a should not be too hot for your bare hand. *

*When refilling an oil unit, avoid overfilling it. Cold oil will expand when warmed and cause burner flooding. Don't fill your heater while it is burning. •If you are using an approved UL labeled space heater in the bedroom, turn it off before going to bed. If you by a draft created by the heater.

Planning saves lives, homes

Last year, 242 Michigan residents lost their lives to fires. Of this number, over 22 percent of the deaths were children, ages 12 and younger, says the Michigan State Police Fire Marshal Division. The Division suggests the following methods for alerting residents of a fire: *Sound an alarm to alert all occupants of the fire. *Evacuate the building quickly. Don't stop for a favorite pet or valuables. Once outside, do not re-enter the house. Never try to hide from smoke or fire.

*Stay low if there is smoke. The best air available is near the floor.

*Feel the door of the room you are occupying. If it is hot, or if smoke is coming in around the door, do not open it. Immediately use an alternate escape route.

*Pre-arrange a family meeting place outside the home, and wait there for other family members. Never go back into a burning building for any reason.

*Assure that the fire department has been contacted. And, remember, small children should never try to extinguish a fire.

Choosing your final resting place together, in advance, is economical and thoughtful.

Birthday 'limo 'ride

When Andy Harp first sees the limousine at the side door at Pine Knob Elementary [top], he doesn't suspect that the ride is his surprise birthday present. But after the 10year-old pupil in Rosemary Krause's class performs his duties of escorting kindergartners to their proper places, he figures it out and hugs his mother. Theresa. His dad, Terry, and grandfather Dale Rolfe also witnessed the surprise. Andy and five of his friends rode in the limousine, chauffeured by Craig Petersen, first to the Clarkston Village Bakeshop. Then the car, followed by his parents, went to Tally Hall where the boys planned to feast and make a recording in the sound booth.

Class of 1966 rallies to help classmate

Tickets are still available for a '50s and '60s dance planned by the Clarkston High School Class of 1966 to help classmate Bob Lynady, who suffered an aneurysm a year ago.

The benefit dance is planned for 7 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 17, at the Deer Lake Racquet Club. White Lake Road, Independence Township. Tickets are $25 a couple or $13 for singles.

Lynady is unable to work or care for himself or his wife and two children. His classmates hope to raise money for the family to help meet the's expenses.

Deer Lake Racquet Club is donating the banquet room; a disc jockey is donating his services; and local merchants are donating food for hors d'oeuvres and raffle prizes. A cash bar will be available.

To buy tickets or donate money or goods, call organizers Denise (Novotney) Howard at 625-7617 or Linda (Bennett) Ryan at 625-5261.

Tickets are also available at the Clarkston Cafe or from the following organizers: Chris Ton? Dianne (Martin) Wilson, Linda (Nolen) Kaul, Modest (Woodard) DeRoseau, Mike Madison, Sue (Woodcomb) Bradley and Steve and Darlene (Craven) Barnett.

Light board agenda

A report on the Clarkston school districe) fourth Friday enrollment is the headliner for the Clarkston board of education meeting Monday, Oct. 12.

Also on the tentative agenda are the recall of a laid off teacher due to an increase in enrollment and ratification of the master agreement between the district and the head custodians.

In further action, the board is expected to approve the appointment of Plante and Moran as the district's auditing firm, receive a report fro. the community education department and recognize staff members for exemplary conduct.

The board meeting is to begin at 8 p.m. at the district administration building, 6389 Clarkston Rd., Independence Township.

Independence teen to appear in TV special

SCOTT WOOD of Independence Township recently participated in a Channel 7 program / on teenage pregnancy to air this fall.

BY PAT YOUNG Clarkston News Staff Writer

Scott Wood recently had the opportunity to do some lighthearted acting to help make a serious subject hit home with young people.

The Oakland University student, a resident of Independence Township and a 1987 graduate of Clarkston High School, participated in a program produced by WXYZ TV-Channel 7 on teenage pregnancy. The program, called "Teens and Sex: Making Choices," is scheduled to air sometime this fall.

"Every year they (Channel 7) put on a public service type of program, and this year they are trying to inform youth about teenage pregnancy," Wood says.

Wood got involved through the Academy Singers, a group that performs at Oakland University. He has performed with the Academy Singers for five years.

Because the director, Gene Grier, gets the singers involved in some television program every year, Channel 7 chose "a few names from the list," Wood explains.

They weren't singing. They were acting or filling scenes in the skits as extras. Another Clarkston-area resident, Matt Ford, and a few of his friends also were extras, Wood says.

Wood's main part was in a skit illustrating the need for safe sex by showing football teams with and without protection.

"It was the stereotypical youth team against the team of 'consequences," Wood explains. The skits were used to "lighten up" the pro-

"The program tries to inform youth about being safe," Wood says. "They say in the show that whether they should or shouldn't have sex is up to the youth, but if they do, be safe."

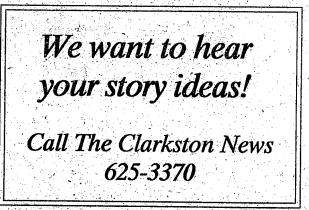

In addition to his lines in the football skit, Wood also participated as an extra in a beach scene.

"The beach scene was filmed at the Belle Isle beach," Wood says. "That was a lot of fun."

He is majoring in music education and wants to compose as well as teach music. He says he enjoys being involved in productions, both in front of the cameras and behind the scenes.

"I like being involved, especially in the technical stuff," he says.

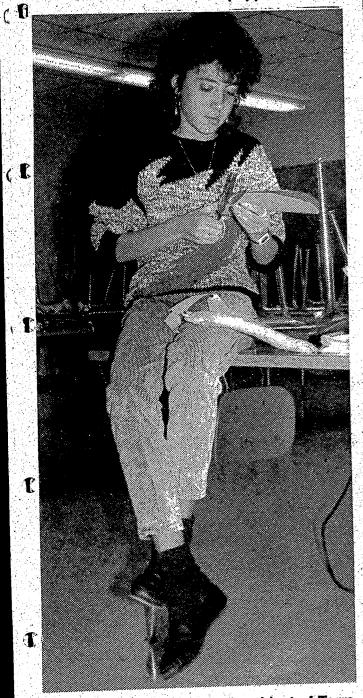

Wood has also been involved in filming public access cable television programs at United Cable Television in Independence Township. He started in high school through a media program, and since graduation has helped as an adult volunteer with the programs.

College applications--don't va' just love em? Yesiree, I rank doing the old applications just above having my nose pierced with a tie tack.

Unfortunately, they're one of those necessary evils (college applications; not nose piercing). If you wish to go to college, you must fill them out, like it or not.

How many of you realize what a college application really is?

What we have here is the world's smallest autobiography. Yours. Think about it. It's a regular trip down memory lane.

This is your life, whether you want to see it again, or not. It is time for the specters of highschool-past to come back just one more time. Their names are distant, yet familiar.

You know what I'm talking about.

"Hey, 10th-grade Health. I remember that class. I hated that class--and it showed! Ow, look at these grades.?

"Junior English. Yeah, things could have been better in there. It was those darn referrals. I guess 12 is just too many."

Then, of course, there are still a few ghosts left that have made the decision to linger a bit. These are the ghostly beings known most commonly by their abbreviated names.

They are also the center, the veritable heart, of any college-bound senior's application. We know them simply as the GPA, ACT and the SAT.

They are the cause of sleepless nights, chewed fingernails and heavy use of drugs (just kidding, folks).

No matter how high your scores are, your parents want them to be higher.

"Hey John, a 27 on the ACTs! That's great. When can you take them over?"

Do they know this is taking years off our lives? Maybe it's their way of punishing us for things we did and thought they had forgotten about.

Ah, but it's all part of being a senior. What can be better than reliving the days of old by sitting. down at the kitchen table and answering a couple hundred personal questions?

Nothing--save being accepted at the college of your choice and creating something new worth remembering.

DAVID KWASNICK, A SENIOR at Clarkston High School, also writes for the CHS newspaper, Wolf Tracks.

Teens ban together for rally on drug abuse prevention

BY DESIREE MARCKS Lake Orion Review Staff Writer Classroom discussions in area schools won't focus on math, reading and science Friday. Instead, students will be learning about the dangers of using alcohol, tobacco, marijuana and cocaine.

Student presenters from Lake Orion, Oxford, Clarkston, Rochester and Rochester Adams will share knowledge gained from two mandatory training sessions and personal experiences with elementary, middle school and junior high students on Oct. 9.

Teams of two presenters will visit classrooms to give a four-part presentation and invite the students to the "Just Say No" rally on Oct. 10 in the parking lot of St. Joseph's Catholic Church on Lapeer Road,

Police Liaison Tim Fagan said the students work in pairs for support and because "another person reinforces the message so it doesn't sound like one lonely voice:"

During an Oct. 5 training session, several students expressed concern about how much they were expected to help with problems they may encounter at their presentations.

"No one's expecting you to go in there and fix things, but you can show them opportunities and techniques and they can take it from there," Julie Robertson-Pettit, a special education teacher at Blanche Sims Elementary School, said. "All you're doing is giving them the tools to make that decision."

According to Fagan, educating the younger students about the dangers of substance abuse is what the presenters are trying to accomplish.

The key thing is that if a person falls in love with their experience with pot, they will continue to/use it," Fagan said, "But what you want to do is prevent them from experiencing it the first time."

Kye Ferguson, Lake Orion High School counselor, said students must remember two things when they are talking to the children. One is that children are very much under the influence of adults.

"You have to make them aware that all adults don't make good choices," she said. "And you're there to provide information to help kids make good choices for themselves."

Ferguson said presenters must also remember not to make judgment statements about a situation that may seem normal for the child. She said the child whose parent is drunk every night might think all parents get drunk.

You must realize you are not there to be counselors. You are there to give them information and be a role model," Ferguson said. "The power you have is giving your message, we can't be saviors for all people all the time."

Pop a good guess

A great pumpkin, the biggest one the Independence Township children's librarian can carry, is the prize in the library's annual popcorn guessing contest.

Entry blanks - and the pumpkin filled with popped corn - are on the circulation desk at the library at 6495 Clarkston Rd.

LOHS senior Michelle Maloney shared part of her. presentation from 1986 with the presenters. She told them to use words the children could understand and give examples they could relate to. Maloney then gave an example to demonstrate how she would explain addiction to drugs or alcohol.

"It's just like chocolate," Maloney said, "I really like chocolate, so once I start eating it I can't stop and I want more and more."

Maloney, who runs track and cross country, said she will tell the students she doesn't do drugs because she is too afraid of how it will harm her body:

Clarkston senior Kirsten Kuhel said she hopes her message gives some students the confidence to say no to substances:

"I know how much influence high school students had on me at that age and I want to keep them (younger students) from feeling the pressure from friends that they have to drink," Kuhel said.

LOHS senior Sheryl Kaye said she thinks there is more pressure on the younger students today than there was on her at the same age.

Tnever even heard about drugs or alcohol until I was in high school," Kaye said. "Now they say kids are hearing about it in 3rd or 4th grade. I think it's becoming more widely used by older kids, and the younger kids are following."

Kaye said she will try to get the children to ask many questions by giving them a chance to speak.

"You need to let them talk because if they have a chance to talk they will feel more satisfied with your answer and they will learn more," she said. "You also need to put it in a way that you're not preaching at them and they'll really listen."

Fagan said the younger students are targeted because the age of first use is much lower than it was years ago: He said the use of marijuana among teens is down, but cocaine use is rising.

He said trends in drugs depends on what is the "hot new drug." Fagan, who predicts "designer" or chemicallymade drugs as a future fad, said the fast-paced lives people lead and mass media have contributed to the early use of substances.

Only recently, Fagan said, have people realized teens can become addicts and that it's okay to talk about substance abuse.

"Our goal is to put straight kids in front of other kids and tell them it's okay not to use drugs," Fagan said. "In a sense we're using peer pressure. People always think of peer pressure in a negative sense, but it doesn't have to be that way."

Blackface weighed 500 pounds

With a tale that could be straight from a William Faulkner story, Bill Morse told about the "bear of a lifetime" that he found last week.

A Glenburnie Drive, Independence Township, resident, Bill left a few days late this year for his annual bear-hunting expedition in the Upper Peninsula.

But it didn't stop him from finding Blackface, the 8-foot long, 400-pound black bear (over 500pounds "on the hoof") that had been photographed by nationally known photographers for seven years.

"A 500-pound bear is a trophy of a lifetime for any hunter, especially a bear hunter," he said.

Bill had heard of the bear in the last four years, when he was hunting from his brother Richard Morse's camp or from his friend Tarmo Sabolainen's camp.

This time, he was up with his friend, Tom Balmor. They were in "Hiawatha land, the south shore of the Superior, in the wayback" of Marguétte County, he said.

"I'm not going to be too specific (about the location) for obvious reasons," Bill said.

When Bill described the events, it was as if he was reliving the incident.

For three days, he had sat in an archery blind, but he didn't see anything. Then, he laid out his "plan" and awaited Blackface from his cover on the ground, with his 30-06 rifle resting in a notch in a log.

It was about 10 minutes before 8 p.m.; Saturday, Sept. 26, when Blackface followed Bill's plan and showed up.

"He knew I was there, but he couldn't find me," said Bill. "He was searching wide for 40 minutes. But I couldn't see him in the thick stuff. "I knew from my time in the Navy that first sight wins the fight."

Blackface, the wise old bear that he was, seemed to be walking in his own footprints because Bill did not even hear a twig break, he said. And later, when Bill looked, only one set of footprints appeared on the trail by which Bill had tracked Blackface and on which Blackface returned to find Bill.

Suddenly, Bill saw the bear behind a big noplar tree, surrounded by the "thick stuff." The trees were thicker than blades of grass, he said.

Bill carefully looked through his four-power scope.

"He started back behind the tree. He couldn't s nell me. He couldn't find me. He started to come o it.

"I saw his nose in the scope and waited until I saw the whole head. Then, I touched the trigger, and he just slumped and went down."

THE BULLET WAS RECOVERED from just behind Blackface's ear, said bear hunter Bill Morse. For now, the meat is stored in the freezers of friends, he said.

another shot in the back of the neck just to make sure."

Blackface was dead. Up close, Bill could see the notch in his left ear, probably from a past fight.

Bill's next task was transporting the bear to his truck, about 100 yards away. First, he ran to a phone and called for help. His brother Richard showed up with two "husky young guys," said Bill.

By then it was dark, so Richard was using a flashlight to light the path while he helped the other three carry the beast.

But it was dark, and Richard tripped on a vine and fell, fracturing his shoulder, said Bill. "So all he was good for was holding the flashlight."

It took one hour and 40 minutes to drag the bear to the truck, and it took 20 minutes to hoist a sty in its left eye and a golf-ball sized growth behind its right ear, said Bill. Most black bears have a brown muzzle, and Blackface is unusual with a pure black face, he said.

There wasn't a sound. Blackface just kicked his feet, he said. But Bill approached cautiously, knowing from the previous five bears he had killed how dangerous a wounded wild animal could be. "I always watch the head, and there was no movement of the ears or the head. So I pulled out my Uncle George (.357 caliber gun) and fired it onto the truck, Bill said.

The bear was fat, getting ready for winter, he "Of all the millions of acres of woods up there, he and I meet nine miles into the woods," he said. "What a thrill. ... It's kind of like a divine happening."

The bear was identified by its pure black face,
