AN ELECTRICAL PROBLEM, possibly with a television set, started the fire Oct. 7 that caused approximately $50,000 damage to a home on Lakeview Drive in Independence Township. It took township firefighters about an hour to bring the fire under control.

Fire guts Lakeview home

BY KATHY GREENFIELD
Clarkston News Editor

When he first smelled the smoke, William Wampfler thought someone was burning leaves on the cool and rainy Wednesday, Oct. 7.

"It got strong all of a sudden," he said, so he went outside to investigate and saw smoke coming from the roof of his home at 8675 Lakeview Dr. on Walters Lake off Eston Road in Independence Township.

He ran upstairs, where his daughter Caroline, 21, had been sleeping. She was screaming and trying to get out of a window that led to a two-story dropoff.

Wampfler led his daughter through the thick smoke to a window on the opposite side of the house that overlooks a second-story deck and smashed the window out.

His neighbor, Tom Gregory, had just arrived home for lunch and Wampfler shouted down for Gregory to call the fire department.

"I said, 'Yeah, right after I get you down,'" said Gregory, whose ladder removed the Wampflers from danger.

Pair of parades brighten October

A pair of new parades debut this month in Clarkston: Homecoming and Halloween.

The Clarkston High School Homecoming Parade is planned Friday, Oct. 16, at 4 p.m. It will follow the regular parade route from Clarkston Junior High, down Main Street to Miller Road.

Featured will be the homecoming queen and king in a horsedrawn "Cinderella" carriage and their court in a Cadillac.

Marchers will include the CHS fall sports teams carrying banners and there'll be music thanks to the bands from CHS and the district's two junior high schools.

Other schools in the district will also participate.

The Homecoming football game, vs. Lake Orion, is Friday at 7 p.m.

The Halloween parade, for people of all ages in costume, is planned Saturday, Oct. 31.

Those who wish to march down Holcomb Street to Depot Park should meet at the St. Daniel Church parking lot at the corner of Holcomb and Miller at 1 p.m.

Cider and snacks, provided by the Clarkston Farm and Garden Club, will be served in the park.

The pony that came to recess

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Bailey Lake Elementary School pupils thought it was great when a pony came to recess one morning last week.

Sauntering down from a neighboring farm on Pine Knob Road, the pony caused quite a bit of excitement when he showed up on the playground.

A pupil told building aide Kathy Norman, who was on playground duty at the time, about the friendly four-footed visitor.

"The pony has lived in the area a long time," Norman said. "We think we know who owns him, and they used to have children at Bailey Lake."

Maybe he thought if dogs can come visit their kids, ponies can too. At any rate, Norman and custodian Dave Whitehead led the pony home and tied him in his yard.

"The whole building was in an uproar," said school secretary Ellen Oliver.

The kindergartners were even allowed back out on the playground to see the pony.

And for working "beyond the call of duty," Bailey Lake Principal Doris Mousseau awarded Norman a special "bronco buster award" for her pony roundup.

20 acres rezoned by planning commission

With a concern over wetlands as a factor, the Independence Township Planning Commission recommended rezoning over 20 acres on Maybee Road from single family residential to multiple family residential.

At the Oct. 8 meeting, the commission voted unanimously to recommend the change to the township board. The commission makes recommendations about zoning, and the township board has the final say.

Before the vote, developer Dick Fay of Fox Corp. presented his plans.

The property, north of Maybee Road and east of Spring Lake Country Club, cannot be entered from Maybee Road because of a wide stream and other wetland areas at the front of the property.

Fox Corp., which has an option to buy the property, plans to enter from the property east of the site, about 28 acres already zoned multiple family residential.

Fox plans to build apartments, developing both sites as one project. The adjacent site could be reached from Maybee Road and from Sashabaw Road, north of the commercial property.

The master plan calls for multiple housing on the property, said Richard Carlisle, township planning consultant.

If both sites were developed to the maximum allowed, about 280 units could be built, Carlisle said, adding a more detailed analysis would give a more accurate figure.

Commission members favored the rezoning.

"I'll have problems with traffic when the site plan comes," said Brent Bair. "I have no problem with the rezoning. I don't see much else that can be done. ... Because of the wetlands, I would like to see both parcels developed together."

Carol Balzarini said improvements to Sashabaw Road would be needed.

"I think to develop as one total site is better than two separate parcels," said Chairperson Joseph Figa. "I think we're all concerned about the traffic. It's going to increase here as well as in other areas of the township."

After the meeting, Fay said he hopes to start construction next summer.

Fox Corp. also built Lancaster Apartments on Dixie Highway, Independence Township.

House damaged

The call to the fire department was made at 1:11 p.m. When the firefighters arrived, the fire had burned two holes through the roof and it took about an hour to get the fire under control, said Fire Chief Gar Wilson.

"The whole upstairs was the main fire area and it was a little bit of hell to get to it," Wilson said. "It was all down in rough-sawn cedar and it was really going."

Oakland County fire investigators have ruled the fire accidental and believe it was caused by an electrical problem, possibly a television set, he said.

The fire caused approximately $50,000 in damages, he said, and most of the damage was on the second floor with some water damage on the first floor.

Wilson said the house could be repaired and that it is likely the second story will be removed and rebuilt.

Wampfler's daughter was taken by private car to be checked for smoke inhalation. His son, David, was at work when the fire broke out.

Clarkston council ponders hiring own deputy

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Tired of dealing through Independence Township for police protection, the Clarkston Village Council decided Oct. 12 to seek a suitable alternative.

Hiring an Oakland County Sheriff's Department deputy full-time for $60,000 is one idea the village council discussed. The cost would include equipment and supervisory expenses.

If the proposed contract is signed, the village would pay approximately $35,000 for 20 hours of service per week.

The township board and the village council have finally ironed out the wrinkles in the wording of the new contract, but they continue to haggle over the payment schedule.

"They (the township) want to be paid for something we didn't get," said Trustee Douglas Roeser.

The proposed police contract calls for the village to pay the equivalent of 2.5 mills for police protection, the same amount township residents pay.

Due to a quirk in state law, the township stood to lose state equalization funds if the village paid a different tax amount for police coverage, so the village council agreed in April to pay 2.5 mills.

The dispute remains over when the payment should start.

The township wants retroactive pay; the village doesn't want to pay for something it hasn't received.

"They want to zing us by making us pay retroactively," said Trustee Frank Millard.

Village council members have grown tired of arguing with the township board, especially since they haven't been listening, said Millard.

"I have a problem with the township's lack of respect for our independence as a governing body," he said.

The village council decided to table the police contract issue Oct. 12 so the letter could be written to the Oakland County Board of Commissioners asking if Clarkston can contract for its own police coverage.

Some council members wanted to sign the contract and send it back to the township board to see what would happen. That idea was rejected.

"How many times can you beat your head against a cement wall?" said Roeser. "There is not much more that we can do."

For $60,000, the village would get a deputy and patrol car for 40 hours of traffic duty each week. Millard said it would be money well spent if the village took that route.

He cited the Pontiac Police Department, which called back 20 laid off officers and assigned them to traffic patrol.

All of them paid for themselves, he said. The same could hold true for the village.

"If we have our own (deputy), we will get the benefit of all his work," Millard said.

Should that happen, Clarkston may become known as a speed trap, the village council members said.

"Wouldn't that be great?" said Trustee Eric Haven.

A final reason why a full-time deputy would be a better bargain for the village is that Clarkston is guaranteed service. Through the township, the village doesn't get special consideration, said Millard.

"During the summer, they (the deputies) won't have time to cover the village," he said.

AS HE PULLS WEEDS at Sashabaw Junior High, Tony Lucca illustrates what "growing like a weed" must mean. Tony and 21 other student government members staged a "Cleanup Day" Saturday. They also raked, put down plastic and spread mulch. As student government president Missy Rinehart said, "We're doing an awesome deed."

Fire destroys Pine Knob barn

A suspicious fire totally demolished one of the original Pine Knob barns Oct. 7.

The call that the barn was burning came at 12:50 a.m. from the gas station on the corner of Waldon and Sashabaw roads, said Independence Township Fire Chief Gar Wilson.

"The whole building was on fire and that's really weird," Wilson said. "I had been by that barn 20 to 30 minutes before we got there and I didn't see a thing."

The barn was off Waldon Road just past the entrance to the Pine Knob golf course, condominiums and restaurants.

Wilson estimated that the barn was at least 100 years old.

Pine Knob officials have said they do not plan to replace the barn, so no official estimate was made of its worth, Wilson said, but his estimate was between $20,000 and $30,000.

"It was by no means a shambles. Any barn's a good barn," he said.

The barn was used for storage and about $2,500 worth of such items as overstuffed lawn furniture, fertilizer and rock salt were destroyed, Wilson said.

It took firefighters 45 minutes to an hour to get the fire under control and they worked until about 5 a.m. moving timbers and making sure the fire was out, he said.

Cop contract bounced back

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The decision to accept a police contract rests with the Clarkston Village Council after seven months of negotiating with Independence Township for extra police coverage.

At the Oct. 6 meeting, the township board voted 6-1 to accept a police contract between the village and township.

Contrary to the village council's wishes, the board also accepted township attorney Gerald Fisher's interpretation that payment of the 2.5 mills should cover the entire year.

Village Council President Sharron Catallo said the council did not vote to accept the contract because they weren't sure about when payments were to begin and the 2.5 mills should start when the extra traffic control begins in the village.

Clerk Richard Holman said the village's interpretation could result in the loss of $90,000 in state shared revenue for the township. Also, the money in the police fund would be used to pay the village's share, which means the township wouldn't have enough money to pay for marine patrol on Deer Lake next year.

"This is an awkward position," said Holman. "We're not looking for a fight with the village."

"We weren't either," said Catallo. "We could have signed it our way. We wanted to know how you feel about it."

Trustee Dale Stuart said the benefits were different for rural and populated areas. The police coverage is for the entire township, regardless of the village's specific needs.

Treasurer John Lutz and Trustee William Vandermark said the village should pay the 2.5 mills for the entire year.

"It would be hard for me to explain to outly-

Autumn outing

After touring the orchard, and munching on an apple or two, the fourth-graders from Joy McCurdy's Pine Knob Elementary School classroom learn how apple cider is made at the Ashton Orchard on Seymour Lake Road in Brandon Township. Tours of the orchard are common during the autumn season, said Sharon Ashton. Frequent visitors are from Pine Knob Elementary because the cider used to be pressed at the Ashtons' orchard across from the school. Now that the cider-making operation has moved, she encourages tours for older school children at the larger location. [Photo by Kathy Greenfield]

State to be sued over youth camp contract

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Oakland County Prosecutor's Office will be asked to file suit in Circuit Court against the State of Michigan for violation of a public act.

That was the decision of the Oakland County Board of Social Services when it met Oct. 9 to review the prosecutor's opinion that a contract between the State Department of Social Services (DSS) and a private company to run a proposed youth detention camp is invalid.

The board voted 2-1 to instruct the prosecutor's office to file suit. Chairman Howard Dell and Robert John Firu voted in favor of the action. Gail Colwell voted against it.

The board also asked for an injunction against the state to prevent payments to International Field Studies (IFS), the company hired to run the first of three youth camps, until the legality of the contract is determined.

According to Richard Thompson, chief assistant prosecuting attorney; the Department of Social Services violated Michigan law by entering into the contract with IFS without giving the county board of social services a chance to review it. Following the board's meeting last week, Thompson said the prosecutor's office will wait until they get a written communication from the board and then prepare the necessary pleadings. The suit could be filed within a week or so.

"We'll attempt to seek a preliminary injunction, but it's up to the courts to decide whether they want to stop all progress on this matter pending a decision," Thompson said.

Thompson also said there has been no response from the state, even though Patrick Babcock, DSS director, received a copy of the prosecutor's opinion.

DSS signed a $7.753 million contract with IFS in July to run a proposed work and learn camp for juvenile delinquents, primarily from Wayne County. North Oakland County has been considered a prime area for the camps, with Camp Holly in Rose Township one of the sites being considered.

The choice has met strong resistance from area residents, who fear security problems and question whether the program is the best solution to the youth crime problem.

Opinions

Aren't you hungry?

Kathy Greenfield

While reading my column last week, my son made the following observation:

"Your enjoyment of fall seems to be mostly linked to your stomach."

He's right, of course. And so am I when I say that sons were put on this earth, in part, to give their mothers a hard time.

In all honesty, though, there's something about this time of year that makes me want to eat a lot.

It probably has to do with some primal urge to stock up on fat for the long winter ahead.

Fat I don't need, but just last week, I stocked up on the ingredients for cherry cobbler and pumpkin pie. So far, I haven't made the cobbler.

I have also, in recent weeks, made many special trips to the orchard to buy apple cider. I also bought a big jar of honey ... for my tea.

Then there was the giant pot of steaming hot soup I made, not to mention the pot roast with lots of potatoes, spaghetti with extra cheese and meat loaf with baked potatoes smothered in butter.

I could continue along this grocery cart path, but I'll stop with a related observation.

Last weekend, I started to do a little Christmas shopping. As I talked my purpose over with the shop owner, she said she's noticed an increase in early shoppers this year.

We agreed that it must be the weather.

Wise Words

By Bruce A. Stewart

Luscious little lies
Layered my goodbyes
I see in the darkness with silk-covered eyes
Cold winds of fall breathe a fierce fire
Rock colored canyons scream my desire
I fall from grace and I'm taken down
No more respect
Tiptoeing around
Orange was the color
Mellow was the moon
Planning every day for another rocket soon
You can only play the blues
Of you've lived them once
Every day's a massacre
Every night's an ounce
You can only fight a battle
If the sword you hold is yours
Lose it or abuse
And the choice is theirs to ignore
Listen for a wise word
Leave it alone
It has no enemies
Just needs a new home

Dealing with alcohol

October has been named Substance Abuse Awareness Month by communities and agencies throughout Michigan.

Aware, a community based group to increase awareness and prevention of substance abuse, hopes all Clarkston area residents will try to learn more during this month.

Recent articles in The Clarkston News have shown what Just Say No groups are doing in the schools.

We present the following article on family drinking practices to help families think about their part in dealing with the problem.

The article is reprinted from the ADAMHA Newsletter, United States Department of Health and Human Services, September 1986.

Family Drinking Practices

Alcohol is a drug used by younger and younger children.

A recent study by Drs. Susan Ahmend and Patricia Bush at the Georgetown University School of Medicine has shed some new light on the formation of younger children's concepts and behaviors concerning alcohol.

The study was conducted with first- through sixth-graders in the Washington, D.C., area.

The most important predictor of alcohol use or intent to use was found to be "salience."

Salience refers to the child's opportunity to model his or her behavior after family members who drink and being influenced by helping out at parties, pouring drinks, etc.

Among elementary age youth, the family is more influential than peers.

Thus, the study suggests that adults should not engage their children in "drinking behaviors," e.g., not let them serve drinks, mix them or witness heavy or frequent adult use and intoxication.

The second predictor was found to be perceived peer use. As with older children, elementary age youth believe their peers are more likely to drink than they themselves.

The results indicate that the more a child serves/pours drinks, witnesses heavy and/or frequent drinking in the home, accepts intoxication and takes risks, the more likely he or she will use alcohol.

Jim's Jottings

Jim Sherman

I enjoy hearing (reading) stories of antics and remarks of little children. I've heard and read several of Art Linkletter's interviews on his "Kids say the darndest things" show.

I believe all kids do the same things in their very early years, yet I seldom hear of the same trick twice. Unless it's climbing in and out of bed sooner than expected, stripping off their dirty diapers, running naked away from mommy, and handling food like they can't get enough in their mouth with a spoon; or push their dish onto the floor because they like the pattern mixed vegetables make.

I know all babies look angelic when asleep, all babies have a look of guilt, and all babies have smiles that melt all parents.

However, because a few (one) person told me once he didn't read Jim Fitzgerald anymore because 'all he writes about anymore is his granddaughter', I haven't mentioned our grandson since he was born 27 months ago.

Fitz told me his columns on Emily bring more letters than any of his cynical, caustic commentary, including his remarks on the pope and Catholic church.

Others, too, have told me not to be sensitive, and write about red-headed Danny. Well, here goes, and as Eddie Murphy says at the beginning of his shows, if it isn't for you, turn it off.

I say Danny is all boy, mostly on what I've heard, but partly because I have no granddaughter to compare . . . yes, that's an announcement.

Danny loves to come see grandpa, not because I give more love than grandma, I can't, but I give tractor rides. I have two riding lawn mowers and he can't wait to get on the other one. Grandma chides him, 'never mind Grandpa, I'm Grandma', but she doesn't drive a 'turtler'.

He dumps out the too full basket of toys, he throws hard balls around the house, he tosses grandma's antique whatevers, he won't hold still for lovin' . . . he can do anything he wants without recourse. His grandma is a spitting immage of the description Bill Cosby has of his mother toward his children.

And, he can be embarrasssing. He came wandering into our bathroom one morning, where I was shaving, having just come out of the shower.

He stood to one side and starred at me. I suggested he go somewhere else, look somewhere else, but he continued to stare. I had to reach for my robe. How can a 2-year-old do that to me?

What else does he do to me? He sits on my knee on the tractor, and I hum while trying to bite his ear, and he squirms, and he giggles, and he melts this grandparent's heart.

I hope you weren't bored, and will read Jottings again next week.

Letters to the Editor

Never enough

Well, here we go again! After turning down the school millage vote, we are having another one rammed down our throats.

And if this $7,000 election is turned down on Oct. 27, they'll have another, at our expense, until it's passed. That's not right.

The problem is, it's not the kids that will benefit. That's the biggest joke of all.

The money will go to salary raises for the supervision--superintendent, principal, etc., who are overpaid as it is.

With all these $100,000 and $200,000 homes being built in the area plus the ones in existence, there should be plenty of money to run the schools.

If not, maybe we need to get rid of the school board, the superintendent, principals and teachers and start fresh with people who are more interested in kids than money.

Higher wages do not necessarily mean better administrators or teachers. According to them, there's never enough money. That's mismanagement of funds.

My husband was born in Clarkston and I have lived here since 1938. We graduated from Clarkston High School together. So you see, we are not NEW to the area or the situation.

We have always loved and been loyal to Clarkston and the schools but taxes have gotten out of hand. It's time to reverse the rising trend.

Come on, you NO voters. Don't be intimidated. Don't just sit back and gripe--get off your duffs and vote the school millage down.

N. O'Roark

Senior support

We are senior citizens who do not live in Clarkston, but have four grandchildren who do. We are very concerned about the upcoming millage election on Oct. 27.

Although we are on a fixed income, we have always supported school millages in our community. Good education affects us all. We would hope that the senior citizens in your community would vote yes on the millage proposal.

By doing so, they would ensure having a quality community.

Steven and Elizabeth Savel
Lincoln Park

On the Ballot

Part II: Millage questions continue

On Tuesday, Oct. 27, voters in the Clarkston school district will be asked to approve a request for an additional 4.25 mills for operation.

This is the second of a three-part series of most frequently asked questions of the Citizens for Millage Committee.

Coordinators of this committee are Jerry Greetham, Nancy Woodruff, William Neff and William Potvin.

How much money will the new millage generate for Clarkston schools?

The 4.25 mill increase will generate $1.8 million for the 1987-88 school year or about $300 more per student.

What will the new millage be used for?

Funds will be directed as soon as possible to restoring staff and programs that were cut after the defeat in June. Specifically, this includes:

~Recall of classroom teachers and aides who were laid off after the defeat in June.

~Reduced class sizes at all levels where overcrowding exists.

~Increased time for vocal music instruction: add to kindergarten program.

~Restore physical education instruction to twice a week at elementary level.

~Recall two elementary media specialists to allow for one for every two buildings.

~Reinstate athletic director to full-time position.

~Reinstate adult education coordinator to full-time position.

~Purchase of up-to-date textbooks for math, science, social studies and computer classes.

~Replacement of funds cut for teaching/student supplies.

~Purchase of additional computers for the junior highs and elementary schools.

~Curriculum improvements and additional course offerings.

~Recall of laid off bus drivers, custodians and grounds maintenance personnel.

~Restore fund equity to stronger position.

Since this request is for four years, the board also hopes to direct some funds toward expanding and improving services for the future.

How was Clarkston affected by the Headlee Amendment this year?

The district's operating millage rate was reduced from 33.33 mills to 32.1294. The 1.2006 mill reduction would have generated just over $525,000 for the 1987-88 school year.

Will Headlee affect the district again during the 1988-89 school year?

Projections say yes. The impact could range from .7 mill to 1 mill.

Will any of the money be used for salary increases?

The 4.25 is operational millage, which means it will be used for general school district expenses. This includes salaries.

The district is currently negotiating agreements with four employee groups--bus drivers, head and general custodians, and district administrators.

It needs to made very clear that funds will be used to compensate those groups as well as other employees that make up the district staff.

A school district is a people-intensive operation, and as such, 80 percent of the annual budget is allocated for wage and benefit programs.

What about plans for a new high school?

The current proposal is in no way related to the high school issue. The board of education is still studying the need for new or improved facilities. This issue will come before the voters some time in the future.

Passage of the 4.25 operational millage remains of paramount importance to the board at this time.

When was the last time voters were asked for a millage increase for the Clarkston schools?

In 1981, a request for an additional 3 mills was supported. A bond issue to build the multipurpose rooms passed in 1984.

What if the millage request is defeated?

The current program and staff reductions will remain for the rest of the 1987-88 school year. In addition, further reductions will be necessary for the 1988-89 school year.

Law only for some

Jim Fitzgerald

There are a few things you should know . . .

Several readers suggested the failure to enforce the no-double-parking law against members of exclusive Detroit clubs is nothing compared with the failure to enforce the no-strike law against teachers: "Our kids will never learn to respect the law if they see their teachers get away with breaking it."

Yes, but these complainers forget the most important thing, which is: School football games and practice continued as usual during the three-week strike by Detroit teachers. No player was denied a chance to benefit from the tackling and blocking required from a school system that offers students a well-rounded curriculum.

We should all be grateful that, although the teachers quit teaching, the coaches continued coaching. After all, what does it gain a youth if he knows how to read but can't catch a football?

As for the courts not hitting teachers with the law against public-employe strikes, many accuse judges of being big wimps afraid of the powerful teachers' union. But it is only fair to consider the judges' defense, which is: The no-strike law is really intended for fire fighters, cops, prison guards and other such public employes whose absence would endanger the public welfare.

Everyone knows that uneducated people are no danger to the public welfare.

Speaking of the importance of tackling and blocking, isn't it tacky for the University of Michigan to plug Bo Schembechler's TV show over the public address system during football games? Bo is a paid television performer, just like many other performers who don't get advertised free to a captive audience of 106,000.

Or maybe I'm being silly. Bo's show helps sell U-M football and attract 106,000 people to games, so the free advertising is a good investment. Maybe the Tigers should urge patrons to listen to Sparky Anderson on WJR or watch him in 1,234 TV commercials a week.

•

On Sept. 19, Christmas decorations were going up at Eastland Mall. On Sept. 22, "Oh Come, All Ye Faithful" emitted from my TV set, along with a plea to pick up the phone and order an album of Christmas carols. The money changers have taken over the temple, and soon the birth of Jesus will be celebrated before the conception. Have a nice 4th of July weekend.

•

Darn, I missed the six minutes of blank screen on Dan Rather's TV show the other evening. But I understand there'll be a rerun and perhaps a series. The only question is whether CBS can afford to pay Rather what he is demanding for leaving the studio in a snit five nights a week. Remarkably, CBS executives say it would be cheaper for him to leave in a limousine.

•

When I signed up for cable television, the salesman asked for the name, address and phone number of a relative or friend. It was at that moment I first realized I don't know the address and/or phone number of anyone except myself, and sometimes I forget that. I don't even know the addresses and phone numbers of my children. How embarrassing.

I told the salesman I keep that information in my desk. I used to keep it in my head, but that was before zip codes, area codes, automatic bank teller numbers, numbers needed for dealing with live tellers, video store numbers and countless other numbers turned my memory to mush.

It was also before salesmen got dumb enough to believe I have a relative or friend who would pay my bills if I didn't.

Treatment unfair

Living in Clarkston has always given me a high, but lately I have had my bubble burst several times. Once at a local car dealership and once at a local eatery.

Having frequented and supported these establishments and then being told not to come in here again after a misunderstanding is gross injustice to supportive customers.

Maybe the business owners should realize when they mistreat customers, it only hurts the customer for a minute to two but could have a devastating effect on their business in the future.

Business owners, beware. News travels fast in a small community like Clarkston.

Move not smooth

I am writing to comment on the article that appeared in this newspaper on Oct. 7 regarding the increase in enrollment in the Clarkston schools.

This article stated that because of this higher enrollment the school system received an increase in state aid funding.

This funding would be used to change various things including the changing of a split class into two separate classes at Clarkston Elementary.

Our second-grader was one of the "chosen" children in that split class. In mid-August we received a letter informing us that our child had been carefully chosen to be a student in that split class.

The letter invited us to a meeting a week before school started to meet the teacher. At this meeting, the teacher carefully answered questions and reassured us that she was well qualified and experienced in teaching a split class.

It was also made very clear to us that this split class was the result of the millage failure. Our son started school and began to adjust to his new class situation.

Open house at Clarkston Elementary was Wednesday evening (Oct. 7).

We attended and visited with our second-grader's teacher. She never indicated that a change was about to happen; instead, she assured us that our child was doing well.

The following evening (Thursday) our child informed us that he would be moved to a new room and was getting a new teacher on Friday (the next day).

He said he would no longer be in a split class. Instead, he would be in a regular second grade class.

Our child also mentioned that the principal would be calling all the parents to explain the new changes.

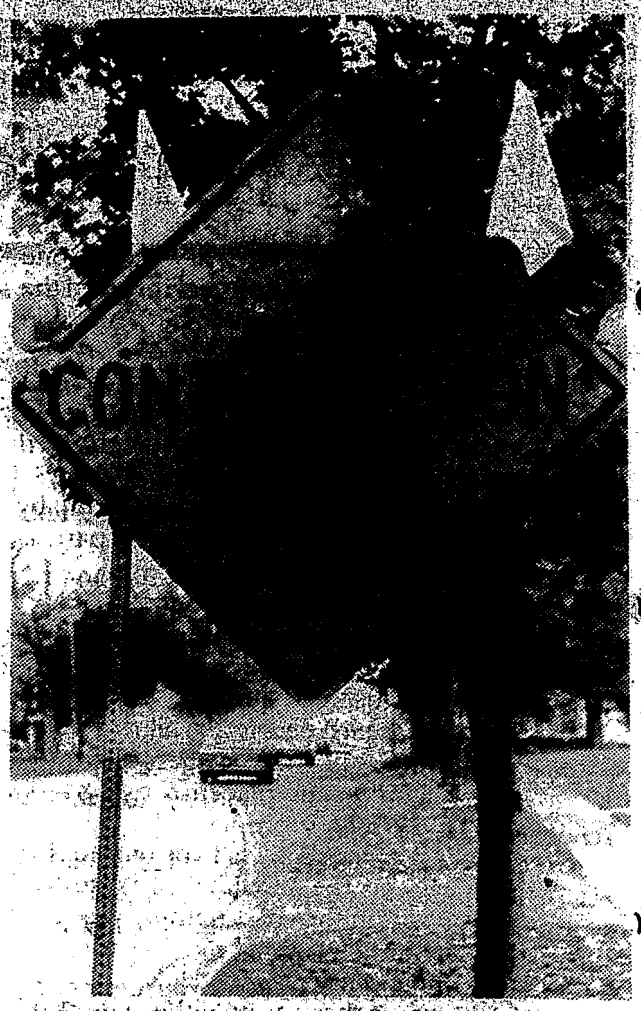

This is Sunday evening (Oct. 11) and we still have not received a call from anyone even remotely connected to the school.

I've spoken with a few other parents and several of them were notified by phone. We are working parents, (I'm sure we are not the only working parents in Clarkston) but we do have an answering machine.

They could have sent us a note. Many other events and matters are handled by written communication. (Especially misconduct in school.)

They could have told us Wednesday night at the open house, or a meeting could have been quickly called for Thursday night, before the

Sewer line to follow Waterford Road

After a public hearing Oct. 6 in which no one spoke, the Spring Lake sewer district received the formal OK from the Independence Township Board.

In a 6-1 vote, the board approved the plans, cost estimate, petition and special assessment district for a sewer to travel along Waterford Road from Dixie Highway to Maybee Road.

The estimated $420,000 is to be paid by Ronald Harmon, the owner of two 35-acre parcels on Maybee Road west of Spring Lake.

Harmon's property, zoned for multiple housing, needs sewers before he can develop, according to township requirements.

While the township requires a gravity flow sewer system, the board decided to allow a pump sewer system because property owners on Waterford Road objected to the placement of gravity flow sewers beneath their property.

The six- or eight-inch pipe is to be buried five- or six-feet deep on the shoulder of Waterford Road, entirely within the road right-of-way, said George Anderson, director of the township department of public works.

Right-of-way is the area on either side of the road that is used for signs and underground utilities.

Where trees are in the way, the construction company would try to save them by placing pipes under the road, if possible, said Anderson.

Also, if any damage to private lawns should occur, the damaged portions will be replaced with sod, he said.

Individual homeowners won't be able to hook up to the pipes because the water will be under pressure, said Anderson.

The pump will save money in the future because sewer lines for other developments can be hooked up to the pump station, Anderson said.

The project could begin in January, said Anderson. The township is responsible for the maintenance of the pump system.

With no comment, Trustee Carol Balzarini cast the lone no vote. In past meetings, Balzarini said the board should adhere to its policy of allowing only gravity flow sewer systems in the township.

Before voting, Trustee Dale Stuart said, "This does not mean we are agreeing in advance to any project out there," adding that any development must meet all township ordinance requirements.

Teen hurt in crash

A 16-year-old pedestrian was injured in a car accident at Clarkston High School last week.

About 2:35 p.m. during the rain on Oct. 7, Donald C. Hensley of Cherrywood, Independence Township, ran from between two buses in the school parking lot and then ran into a car, according to reports at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Hensley was treated and released from Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital.

The driver of the car, 17-year-old Heather Lyn Smith of Raymond Court, Independence Township, was not injured.

Smith was driving about 15 miles an hour, according to the police report.

No tickets were issued.

move.

It is my understanding that most articles for publication by your newspaper must be submitted to you by Monday at noon. If this is so, you were given the information for your article on or before your deadline.

That was a lot more time before we, the parents, were made aware of any change. This indicates to me that the school system finds it more important to inform the press of what is going to happen to our children, than to inform us the parents (we are also millage voters).

The Clarkston school system seems to be more concerned about receiving good press coverage than in maintaining and establishing good communications with the parents of their students.

Why didn't I call the school and get the information? I have found that when you call the school office to leave messages or leave articles at the front desk, they are sometimes to busy to notify the children.

So I assumed they would really be busy on Friday. I'm sure a move involving so many pupils is a very difficult thing to undertake and involves much hard work, a great deal of time and many people.

But the parents, who in the long run could have been the greatest help and maybe made the transition much easier for the children, were not allowed to help in any way ... or in our case informed.

I feel very little consideration was given to our children and we parents. This tells me that B-U-C-K$ mean more to the Clarkston school system than the actual S-U-C-C-E-S-S of our children in school.

Road comments

Good news to those who want that full traffic light at M-15 and Waldon Road.

In spite of a few minor objections, that intersection will be improved by the Michigan Department of Transportation.

I never expected it until after the Dixie-M-15 intersection is completed.

Next is to work toward the completion of the two north cloverleafs at I-75 and Sashabaw.

So far, the MDOT seems to believe that adding that southwest cloverleaf in 1979 (behind my house) was enough for the traffic congestion out here.

The traffic light at Sashabaw-Waldon has been a godsend to us who use it.

Of course, we all know that tax money paid for it and will pay for the light and changes necessary for the left-hand turns and changes of elevations with flaring of the lane widths at M-15 and Waldon.

Highway construction costs money (taxes). People pay taxes and cause traffic congestion and then complain when it is and still complain when it isn't congested.

The highway department is charged with the responsibility of it all.

It is our responsibility, each and all of us, to keep them informed of our own wants, needs and desires and not to give up out of frustration of the bureaucracy of it all.

So many citizens are so timid or discouraged or fearful of speaking their own minds in the face of some organized groups with their own set of goals to grind or polish.

Iva Caverly

Vote yes Oct. 27, says board trustee

It is imperative that the Oct. 27 millage pass, but how do you convince the responsible, concerned citizen who doesn't believe the millage is really needed; who feels enough money must be available because more taxes are now being collected; who feels there is fat to be cut from the budget?

There is no way in this letter to answer all the important questions; however, I hope I can provide the questioning voter some helpful insights.

Due to the structure of the state's school aid (funding) formula, our schools end up with no additional money even though more property taxes are collected.

If your taxes, like mine, went up last year because of an increased property assessment, this did not help the schools. Likewise, the added taxes, resulting from new homes being built in the district, do not help.

Why? Because the school aid formula is set up such that these types of increases do not increase the amount of money the schools get; instead, they reduce the amount the state contributes.

Also, the Headlee Amendment rollback we encountered this year resulted in approximately $500,000 less money for the school district.

Why? Because the millage reduction resulting from Headlee, when plugged into the state school aid formula, results in fewer dollars.

The above mentioned factors, in conjunction with a smaller than expected increase in the school aid formula itself, resulted in a far lower income projection than anticipated. This forced the Board of Education to make $1,100,000 in budget cuts last spring.

These were serious cuts in staff and programs. However, even though deep and painful, they are not deep enough to match the projected shortfall, even in light of an unexpected increase in enrollment this fall; a factor which will help us financially.

Clarkston is not a spendthrift district. With a per pupil income of just under $2,800, we are next to last in income per pupil of the 28 North Oakland County school districts.

Only through solid fiscal management by our administration and excellent performance by our teaching and support staffs, has Clarkston been able to provide a widely respected educational program.

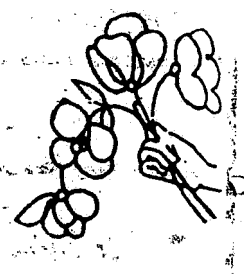

However, to maintain our reputation and ensure quality education in Clarkston, staff and programs must be restored.

The need for a "yes" vote is critical!

Tom Bills, Trustee
Clarkston Board of Education

400 PEOPLE chalked up the miles Sunday during the 11th annual Walk for SCAMP. This group crossed Main Street on their way to the three-mile walk, while others headed north for the 10-mile hike. "The community came out, as usual, in full force and was willing to make SCAMP 1988 a reality," said Weightman. ing subdivisions (that have less police visibility than the village) that the village is paying less than they are," said Vandermark.

"We're not a subdivision," said Catallo.

Supervisor Frank Ronk said payment should cover the entire year, and extra traffic control is a "perk" for the village.

Trustee Daniel Travis, who cast the lone "no" vote, said the two governmental bodies should work out a compromise.

"Maybe there is a middle ground," he said. "Maybe there is a sharing of the responsibility."

He also asked for written notice that the township would lose state shared revenue if the village didn't pay the entire amount.

Clerk Richard Holman said the extra deputies are based in the village, and it's not fair that the village not pay for the entire year.

"The village has benefited from increased visibility since the deputies have been on duty," said Holman. "You have a moral obligation to pay the 2.5 mills starting Jan. 1."

"I could understand that, if our problem was one of visibility--vandalism, break-ins," said Catallo. "But the visibility hasn't stopped the speeding. I still have the complaints. I can't go back to the people and say they've had the 2.5 mills (worth of coverage)."

Ronk, citing reports from The Clarkston News, asked Catallo about the council members' comments that they were tired of being rejected by the township board.

He asked her about the comment quoted in the article: "We gave them everything they asked for and got nothing in return."

"I don't think that's how they felt," said Catallo, adding the police contract had gone back and forth between officials too many times.

"I can't believe it took this long," she said. "That contract should be framed. It's so fragile. It's like the Constitution."

She couldn't speak for the council on the payment issue, she said, adding she would like written proof that the township would lose state shared revenue if the village didn't pay 2.5 mills for the entire year.

One mill is $1 for every $1,000 in assessed property valuation.

The new contract calls for an increase of 1.5 mills for a total of 2.5 mills for additional police protection in the village, including 20 hours a week of traffic control.

Last fall, township voters approved an extra 1.5 mills in taxes for the police fund, to increase the total taxes for police coverage to 2.5 mills in the township.

The village residents didn't vote on the issue because the money for village police coverage comes from the village general fund.

New development

Three lots are planned for 2.5 acres at the southeast corner of Eston Road and private Olde Oaks Road in Independence Township.

At the Oct. 8 planning commission meeting, developer Lynn Kacy received tentative preliminary plat approval for her project.

A house already exists on one of the lots, and she plans to build on the other two lots or to sell them, she said.

Teen terrorized

A 17-year-old boy was terrorized in an armed robbery of a residence on Scenic Ridge, Independence Township, last Friday.

About 9:30 p.m., the boy answered a knock on the door of his house, north of Deer Lake.

A young male said his car had broken down and he wanted to use the phone, according to reports at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department (OCSD).

When the man entered the house, two others entered behind him. One hit the boy with a club, and the boy hit him back with a baseball bat. They hit the boy again, and he fell to the floor, where he stayed while the robbers ransacked the house, said Lt. John Taylor of the OCSD.

Taylor said he didn't know yet what the criminals took. The incident is under investigation.

Although he was shaken up, the boy did not require medical attention, Taylor said.

New post created

A full-time ordinance enforcement officer will join the Independence Township Building Department staff.

At the Oct. 6 township board meeting, building department Director Beverly McElmeel recommended the additional position as a temporary alternative to hiring a full-time building inspector.

Since the building season is slowing, the hiring of a building inspector could wait until next spring, she said.

Instead, she proposed creating a new full-time position to handle the many ordinance complaints.

A part-time employee currently handles enforcement eight hours a week, which is enough time to address only the urgent problems, said McElmeel.

Some of duties of the position would include: monitoring wetlands and gravel pits and addressing complaints on junk cars and weeds and any other problems.

"We have needed, for a long time, to have a zoning enforcement officer," said Trustee Dale Stuart. "... I think it's a great proposal."

The board voted unanimously to create the position.

Football

Clarkston High Varsity
Midland Dow 34, Wolves 7

Oct. 9--The visiting Wolves hung tough with a bigger and stronger Midland Dow team for nearly three quarters before falling.

A successful fake punt in the third quarter, with Dow in front 13-7, gave the Chargers all the inspiration they would need.

"That fake punt broke our back," said Coach Kurt Richardson.

Dow ran up the score with a couple of touchdowns on the second team in the fourth quarter.

"The score was not indicative of the game," Richardson said. Dow was bigger, faster and stronger so it was only a matter of time before Clarkston fell, he added.

Keenan Powell scored the lone touchdown for the Wolves on a 37-yard screen from Josh Newblatt. Ken Phipps kicked the conversion.

Mark Pierson was singled out by Richardson for his fine skills at running back during the game.

The loss drops the team's record to 4-2.

9th grade football
Holly 16, Cougars 8

Oct. 7--A quarterback sneak by Chris Wasilk was all the scoring Sashabaw could muster.

The TD provided the host Cougars with an 8-0 advantage at the half.

A successful on-side kick started the second half for Holly and they went on to score twice to win the game.

Coach Tim Brennan singled out the play of the offensive line and Mike Moeller defensively.

"It was a good hard game for us," he said. "A long pass beat us in the end."

The loss drops the team's record to 2-3-1. But that doesn't disappoint Brennan too much.

"We are doing a lot of positive things--everything I wanted them to do," he said.

Flint Northern 42, Wolverines 7

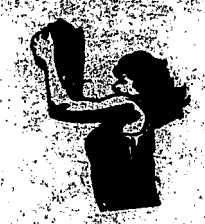

Oct. 7--Jerrod Johnson was the top offensive performer for Clarkston and scored the Wolverines' only touchdown of the game.

Flint scored all of its points in the opening half.

Mike Stoutenburg played well on defense, said Coach Steve Himburg.

The loss drops the team's record to 1-5.

"We still have three games left to play," said Himburg. "Hopefully we can still turn it around this season and put it all together."

Basketball

Clarkston High JV
Wolves 45, Brandon 27

Oct. 6--Balanced scoring from three players helped the Wolves down Brandon at home.

Emily Zubalik paced the team with nine points, while Stacie Deneen and Celeste Steinhelper added eight apiece. Ingrid Larson grabbed 10 rebounds.

"We are playing really well right now," said Coach Larry Sherrill.

Wolves 52, Pontiac Northern 25

Oct. 8--Deneen tossed in 12 points to lead the Wolves past another Greater Oakland Activites League opponent at home.

Other contributions came from Christy Graham (eight points, nine rebounds), Larson (eight points, 10 rebounds) and Michelle Darby (eight rebounds) as Clarkston overwhelmed the visitors.

Zubalik played an excellent floor game, said Sherrill.

"The whole team played well and we kept our turnovers down," the coach said.

The victory ups the team's record to 8-2 and 3-0 in the GOAL.

9th grade basketball
Cougars 52, Brandon 23

Oct. 1--Sashabaw responded to the challenge in front of their home crowd as they whipped Brandon on Parents Night.

Jenny Graham scorched the nets with 22 points while Sue Kramer added 12 more for the victors. Stephanie Cashin collected six points.

"It was an exciting victory for us," said Coach Jayne Bannister.

Cougars 36, Lake Orion 25

Oct. 5--Graham and Cashin scored 11 points each to power the visiting Cougars over Lake Orion.

The victory marked the final time Sashabaw has to play on the road this season. The Cougars' last six games are at home.

Soccer

Clarkston High Varsity
Wolves 4, Lakeland 0

Oct. 6--Bill Cashin scored two goals, one in each half, to lead the visiting Clarkston squad over Lakeland.

Darren Brandt and Zach Brown each netted a goal apiece in support of Cashin. Stu Smith and Corey Whisner combined for the shutout.

Since the JV season is complete, Coach Neil Granlund called up five JV team members to the varsity squad and he was pleased with their performance.

The defense was also outstanding, the coach said.

"The defense only allowed seven shots on goal while we had 26," he said. "It's important not to ignore what they have done."

Oxford 2, Wolves 1

Oct. 9--Clarkston's game plan for this Parents Night contest was to shut down the Wildcats' Chris DeBoer who is averaging three goals a game.

The Wolves accomplished that feat--DeBoer only collected one--but they lost a close battle.

Cashin scored the only goal of the game for Clarkston on a penalty shot in the second half.

The game was still scoreless at halftime.

"I couldn't have asked for a better played match," said Granlund of his charges.

Defensive standouts included Brown, Tom Haden Eric George and Mark Colwell. All of them helped to shut down the high-scoring Oxford team, Granlund said.

Tennis

Clarkston High Varsity
Regional at Waterford Oaks

Oct. 9--The Wolves won victories in all seven of their first round matches. Two of those advanced into the semifinals.

Ashley Adams and Shelly Rood both were ousted after the second round of play. Clarkston finished the regional with nine points.

The performance of the team during regional play pleased Coach Dick Swartout.

"I thought we would finish right there," he said. "It depends on how lucky you get with the draw."

This meet closes out the 1987 season for the Wolves. As far as the season is concerned, the coach only had good things to say.

"They played well this year. They deserved what they got," said Swartout.

Cross country

Clarkston High Varsity
Clarkston at Oakland County Meet

Oct. 10--The boys team continued to improve their standing in the Oakland County Meet at Marshbank Metropark.

Four teams finished below the Wolves, as Clarkston ended up 33rd. Sean Cervantez ran a good race, said Coach Mike Taylor.

"Our times were competitive, so we did moderately well," said Taylor.

The girls team was missing a runner but still managed to place third behind Rochester Adams and West Bloomfield.

Of those two teams, only West Bloomfield is in the same region as Clarkston. The other five teams finished below them at the meet.

"There is a lot of prestige in the Oakland County Meet but everybody's goal is the state meet," said Taylor. "Everyone wants to know how you do in the state meet."

Sonya Schaffer finished eighth and was the top Wolves runner. Kate Conlen was running in third for a good portion of the race before dropping back to 13th at the end.

The top 25 individual finishers at the meet earned a medal, said Taylor.

Lisa Palazzola (38th), Meredith Green (42nd) and Emily Winfield (78th) also participated in the race.

Wolves whip Huskies for 3rd GOAL win

STACEY SHURTZ made the most of extra playing time last week when the Wolves were short a player due to an injury.

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Wolves started fast and finished with a flurry en route to beating league foe Pontiac Northern Oct. 8.

A 10-0 spurt to start the game, keyed by three baskets by Kris Castillo, placed the Huskies in a hole they couldn't climb out of.

The 71-40 victory capped an important week at home for the Wolves, now 7-3 overall and 3-0 in the GOAL. Clarkston defeated Brandon, another Greater Oakland Activities League rival, Oct. 6.

Four players scored in double figures to pace the Wolves. Jenny Grohs and Rhonda Jokisch scored 12 points apiece.

Castillo finished with 10 points and six steals and Michelle Baker added 11 more along with collecting seven assists.

After the fast start, Clarkston cooled off during the second quarter due to lack of intensity, said Coach Dave McDonald.

"We were struggling as far as smoothness is concerned," he said. "I didn't see anything wrong with the way we played the game."

Clarkston built an 11-point cushion at halftime (33-22) and then roared through the second half.

The late surge caught McDonald by surprise.

"We got more aggressive in the second half. I thought that we would do it the other way around," he said.

When the Wolves started to lose their edge a little McDonald said that Baker, a three-year varsity performer, was able to hold the team together.

With a little more than two minutes left in the game and Clarkston well out in front, Pontiac Northern's head coach Leola Greer was ejected from the contest for verbally abusing the officials.

Baker sank the technical free throws.

McDonald singled out the play of Castillo and Grohs, saying they have been playing excellent ball recently.

With center Ali Fedio out of the lineup due to injury last week, Stacey Shurtz was able to log time on the court. She finished with eight rebounds against Northern.

"It was a good game since everybody got some playing time," said McDonald.

All of McDonald's injured players are expected to play this week.

"We will be going full-strength from now on," the coach said.

The Wolves have won five of their last six games, their only loss in the streak coming on the road against Howell.

Defense led JV gridders past Dow

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

While their latest victory wasn't as impressive as the rest, the junior varsity football team isn't complaining.

The Wolves defeated visiting Midland Dow, 14-8, Oct. 8 to up their record to a sparkling 4-1-1.

When Dow scored on its first possession of the game, it snapped a 16-quarter shutout string by the defense.

The feat didn't go unappreciated by the offensive unit during the past few games.

"You have to give credit to the defense," said quarterback Dane Davis. "They got the school record for shutout quarters."

On that history-breaking drive for Dow, the Chargers were helped by two lucky breaks.

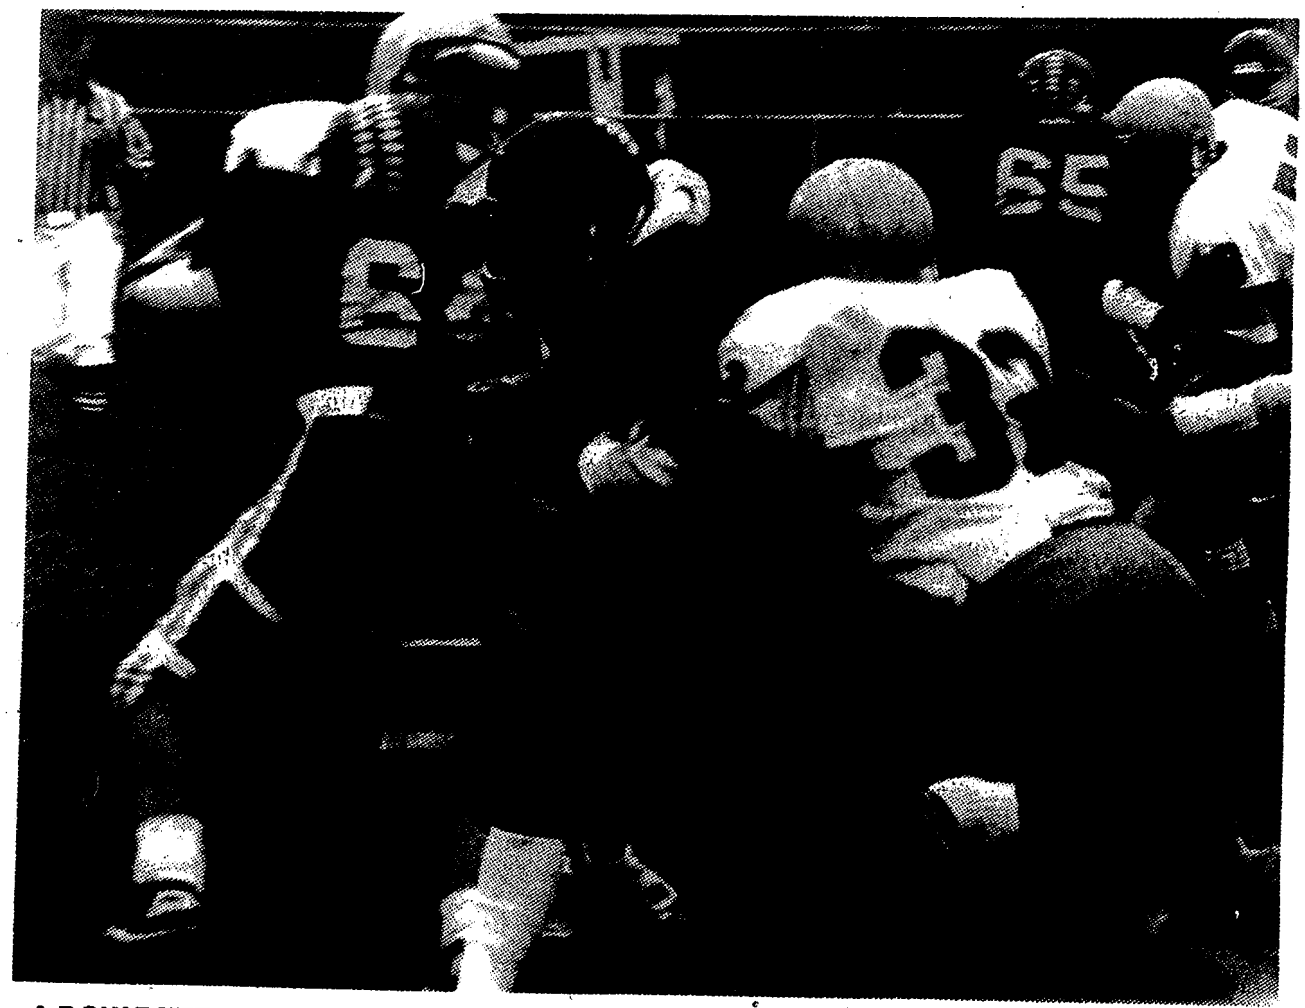

First, a bad snap on a punt attempt forced the punter to run for his life and he managed to pick up a first down in the process.

Later, a third down pass play appeared ready to fail when the Wolves tipped the ball into a Dow receiver's hands for another first down.

"We were not ready in the first half. We didn't do well in practice all week," said Davis, who completed 6-of-13 passes for 120 yards and one touchdown.

The Clarkston coaching staff agreed with that assessment of the team.

"We didn't play up to our capabilities," said Coach John Craven. "We were real spotty tonight."

A DOW DEFENDER has a good hold on Tom Benedict during an Oct. 8 battle at Clarkston High. Benedict still managed to gain more than 100 yards on the ground to pace the Wolves over Midland Dow 14-8.

On the plus side, Clarkston held a good-sized Dow squad to just eight points, Craven said.

Clarkston finally got untracked late in the first quarter when Tom Benedict ripped Dow's defense with a 61-yard run to give the Wolves their first good scoring opportunity.

Kevin Keilitz capped that drive with a 3-yard run on fourth down early in the second quarter. Glen Adams ran in the two-point conversion to tie the game.

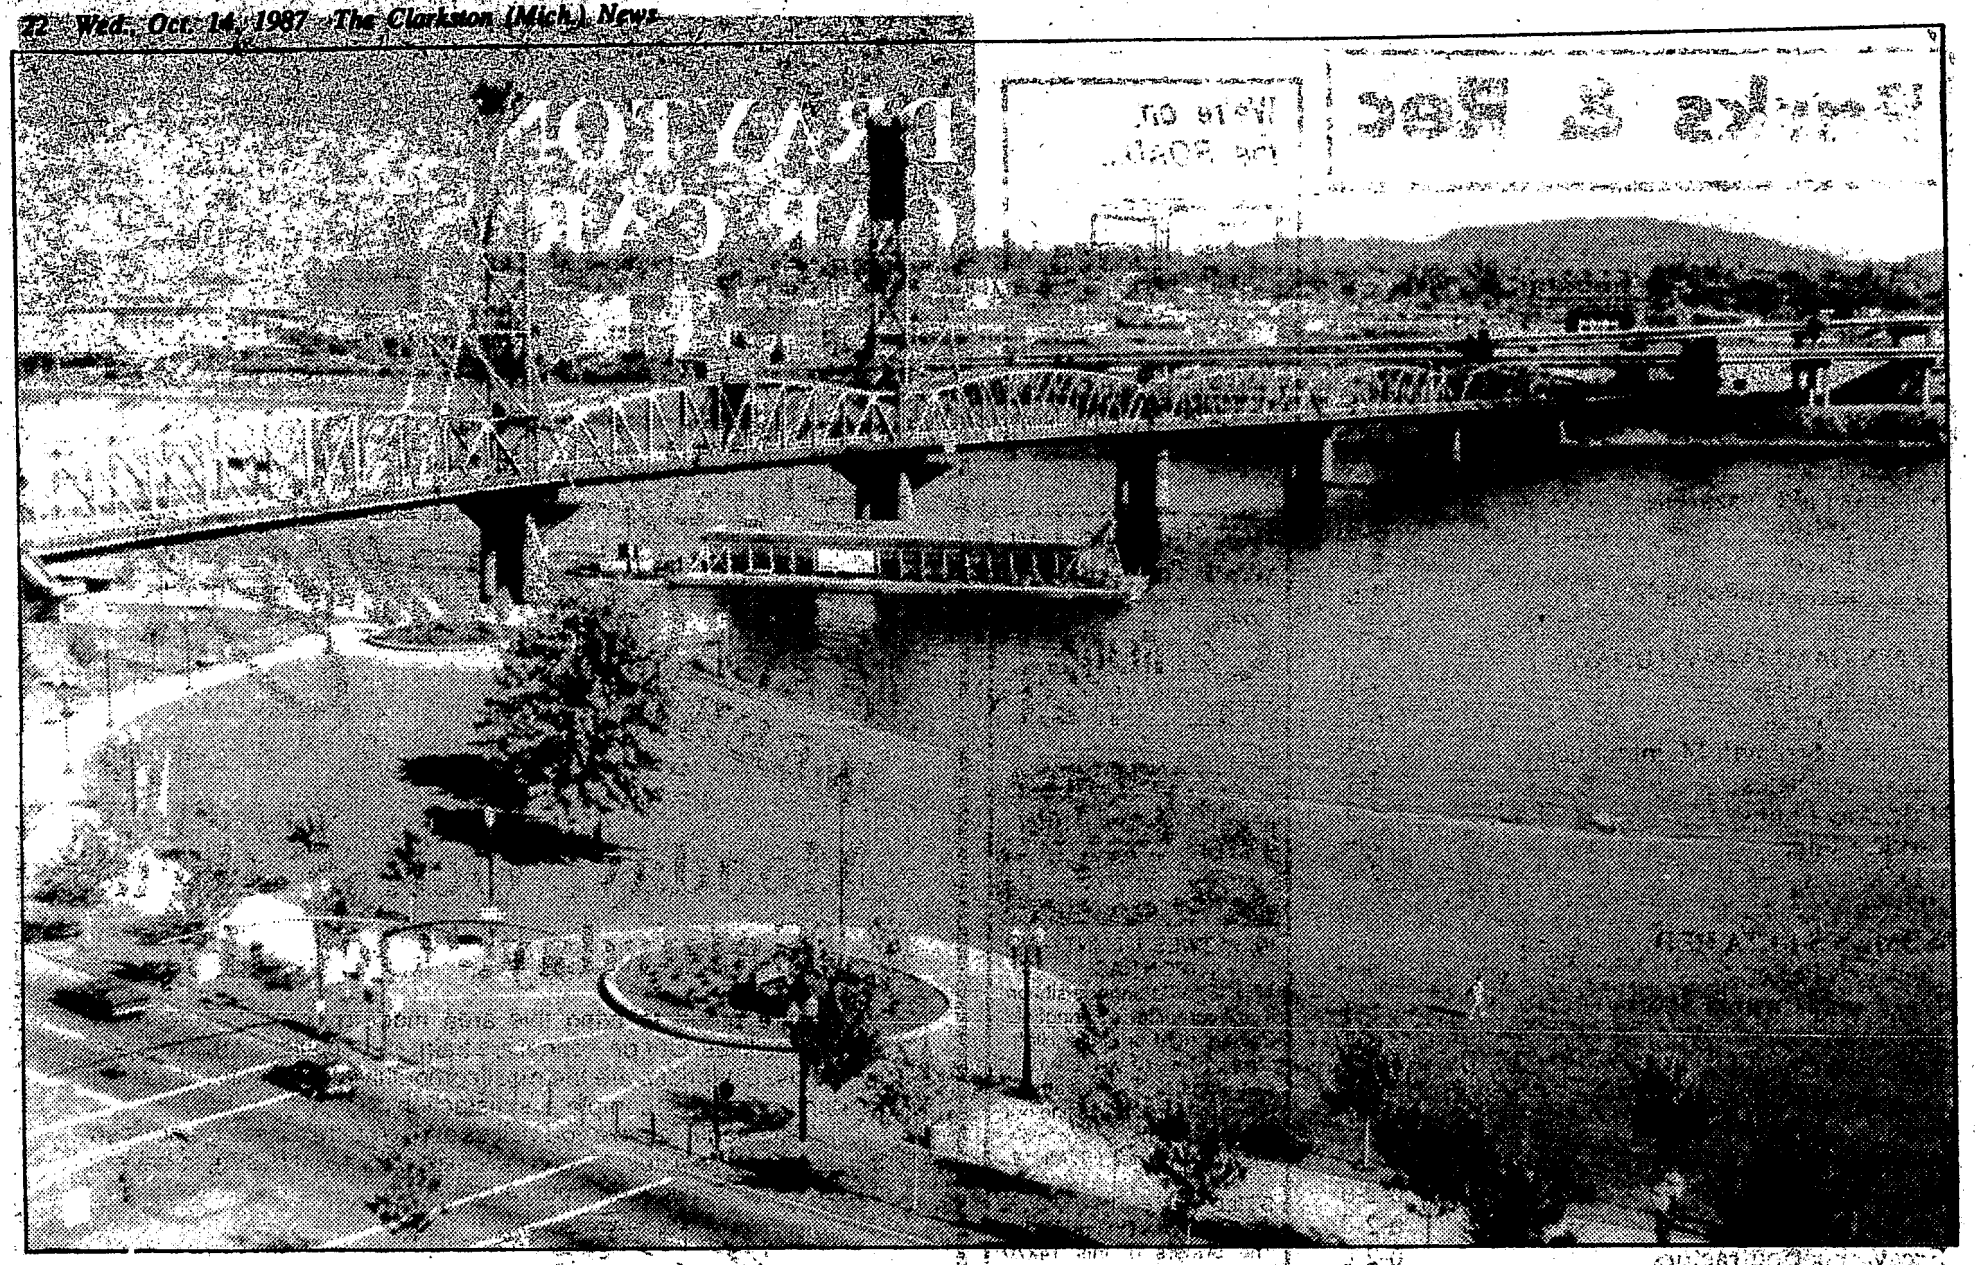

That was all the scoring Clarkston would do in the opening half.

"We were scrambling all night long," said Craven of the Wolves' troubles.

Keilitz snared a 78-yard TD pass from Davis in the second half to win the game.

Noland Golub, with 13 tackles, and Tony Simmons paced the defense which was able to shut out Midland the rest of the way.

The Wolves play Lake Orion on the road Oct. 15 and another win would clinch the Greater Oakland Activities League title.

Exploring Oregon, not like Lewis-Clark

By Jim Sherman, publisher

Oregon is supposed to be wet, Lush greens and bright flowers, but umbrella time with rain featured over 250 days a year.

It wasn't . . . but neither tourists nor natives were complaining. They loved the high temperatures and the dryness of late September and early October.

We waited in 80 degree temperatures outside Portland International Airport for a bus. Inside the bus it was is in the 90's.

The driver chided us about umbrellas and our having the wrong impression about Oregon climate. "Don't let the word get out of us having 90 degree weather in October," he said.

Hazel and I were in Portland at the National Newspaper Association convention looking at equipment, learning how other newspapers 'do it', and visiting the new Advertising Museum.

We had decided to spend some more days in the state and tell our readers our views of Oregon.

It was a fun, full trip and I won't get through it all this week. Since we started in Portland, so will this series.

When we left the dock for a paddleboat ride on the Willamette River, we couldn't believe we were headed north. After all, Oregon is a square state. Not so in the northeast corner where the Columbia River separates Oregon from Washington.

Portland is a major seaport several miles in from the Pacific. The fresh water of the Columbia is great for cleaning ship bottor and Portland has drydocks for that purpose. We were told barnacles fall off in fresh water.

Of course, Portland ships considerable lumber, which is about all you see after you're a half mile inland.

Dinner on a cruise-paddleboat is what I call food-filler, but the sightseeing is just fine.

Oregon's governor Neil Goldschmidt told the newspaper people of his master plan for the state. It includes having some industrial development in every community.

He also said, "We encourage move-ins and tourism". It was just a few years ago when Oregonians practically closed its borders to newcomers. They wanted things left as-is. Now, with 80 percent of their land federally owned, the push (economy) is for people.

The rivers, the Columbia, and the Willamette that dumps into it, are major movers of materials. Tug boats move barges of aggregate, container barges and floats of logs constantly up and down.

Portland is divided in two by the Willamette and seven bridges provide access. The downtown waterfront has been, or is being, made park-like. The Marriott hotel we stayed in faced the river and park. We paid $59 for our rooms, but most are $96.

Three blocks away, still waterfront, is the not-so-great homeless people area. They can buy a pint for less than a buck, and still bodies lay on sidewalks. It's an area slated for renovation.

Portland boasts being the "City of Roses", yet we saw just 3 rose blossoms. But we saw lots of dahlias in our walking and riding trips around the city.

We found Portland people friendly, but in no hurry. We noted, "If the world has not always needed patience, it does now. Go slow and speak slowly."

We asked a tour guide if our observations were right and she agreed, Oregonians are more laid back. However, I don't think it was an Oregonian we saw coming into the hotel restaurant (a class place) in his sweat suit.

Which brings us the food. On Oregon's coast, that means salmon. In our week we had raw salmon, pickled salmon, salmon pate, baked salmon, smoked salmon, salmon salad, and salmon with various vegetables, including rice.

The state also has a pretty good grape growing, wine producing area in the northwest, hundreds of acres of apple orchards, lots of hazel nut trees, and a surplus of deer, which are raising havoc with young trees. It's a hunter's delight, except it's too dry for tracking.

We saw a herd of elk grazing beside the road one day, but we saw no deer.

Oregon has 2.6 million people. Half of them are in Greater Portland. That gives you some idea of how populated Outer Oregon is. You drive a lot of miles inland without seeing people, and in October cars, too, are rare.

Next week we'll tell you more about it.

Oregon observances

Oregon has numerous picnic/camping areas. And, they have 3 types of camping permits: Golden Access for seniors over 62 and handicapped, free; Golden Eagle, all camps, one year, $25; Individual permits from $1 a person to $7.50 a car.

* * *

It's so dry in Oregon farmers are irrigating pasture land with portable piping.

* * *

Had Lewis and Clark had the 1987 summer weather they may have never returned to St. Louis.

* * *

The Oregon dunes look very inviting for bare feet and buggies. They are high and look soft. Dune buggy rentals are available.

* * *

Traffic is very light this time of year in Oregon. Maybe that's what accounts for our seeing very few road kill.

* * *

A great, scenic drive is along the Umpqua river on Highway 38 east of Reedsport, the "Gateway to the Dunes".

* * *

As in California, we recommend driving north on highway 101. You have the sun at your back and you're on the inside of the road.

* * *

Portland's freeway drivers would be crushed in Detroit. Very few drive up to the 55 mph limit.

* * *

Cars on a average are older in Oregon. And, there is a minimum of billboards . . . almost too few. However, the state has signs giving names of motels at their entrances.

* * *

Oysters taste different in Oregon, even when you get them at Dan & Louis Oyster Bar in Portland. Dan & Louis have their own oyster beds on Yaquina Bay. However, the other sea foods are great in this no-alcohol, out-of-the-way restaurant that features lots of sea atmosphere.

Peter Auchter

The commercial was all ready to be filmed when Midland Dow screwed it up. Now they will have to start all over again.

What I'm referring to is the amazing streak the junior varsity football team had broken Oct. 8 at home against Midland Dow.

The defense didn't give up any points for four whole football games. That translates into 16 quarters or 192 minutes. (I wonder what that would be in metric?)

I heard that American Express was all ready to sign a contract with the boys for a new commercial featuring the faces no one knows, the DEFENSE.

The script would go something like this: Do you know us? Our opponents do, but not many of you fans in the stands can recognize us with our helmets on.

That's why we carry the American Express card. It provides us with instant recognition around the world, on or off the playing field.

Get one today. You'll be glad you did. You can even use it to charge off the expense of a game ticket.

A couple of strokes of bad luck--they say it's better to have bad luck than no luck at all--and the streak ended at 16 quarters. Now the commercial idea has gone down the tubes.

While it might not be the same as seeing your own mug on the boob tube, I thought I would take the time to say what a nice job these guys have done on the football field.

Let's take our collective hats off to the group and give them some well-deserved praise.

On defense, Noland Golub, Jerry Lawrence, Bill Kringer, Wally Wyniemko, Tony Simmons, Mark Hamlin, Matt Eby, Guy Kennedy, John Anderson, Kevin Keilitz, Ron Gibson and Glen Adams all have been superb.

Oct. 15 is an important date on the Wolves' calendar. They will take on Lake Orion in hopes of capturing a Greater Oakland Activities League title.

During all of the homecoming hoopla, the Wolves may silently be crowned champions of the GOAL in front of a hostile Lake Orion crowd.

At least they get to finish the regular season at home. Maybe a small parade before that game would be a nice touch.

But a commercial on television would even be better for those guys. Maybe they can still earn a spot.

Let's see, they have three games left in the season (Lake Orion, Flint Central and North Farmington) and already have three shutout quarters in the bank.

If they continue to play well, the streak could reach 15 quarters.

In case anybody cares, it would be the same in metric measure.

Clarkston keeps Tae Kwon Do title

Clarkston's karate kids won again, despite the fierce competition they faced at the 17th annual Tae Kwon Do championships in Akron, Ohio, Oct. 10.

Joe Sanders, instructor for the Clarkston Community Education program, said his 45-member team brought home 54 trophies to win the championship for the second year in a row.

"I am so proud of those kids," said Sanders, "This was one of the hardest fought matches during the past two years."

The reason for the competitiveness was the national publicity Sanders' group has received for their outstanding ability.

With 283 trophies won during their last six tournaments, the group knows how to win.

Even though the other teams were shooting for Sanders' club, tempers didn't flare during the heat of competition.

"There was outstanding sportsmanship," said Sanders, "not just by my team but by all of them."

The team championship trophy will be presented to the club by two-time Olympic medalist Kiel Soon Park sometime in November. Park is the president of the International Council of Martial Arts Education.

At that time, Sanders will be made a fifth degree blackbelt.

Sanders took his entire competing team of 45 people along with him to Akron. The spirit displayed by his group and their fans pleased him.

"It was very rewarding to see the new members come through under intense pressure," he said.

Some of the top performers for Sanders included brothers Brian and Eric Engelhard who won three trophies apiece.

All of the students in attendance wanted to hang onto their team championships at all costs.

For example, Brian Childers competed in the form competition even though he broke an arm only eight days before. He took second place.

Another student, Reese Vogel, was knocked silly by an accidental kick below the belt but was able to return and fight two more matches. He won first in fighting and form.

"My kids always put it on the line," said Sanders.

The women's team remained unbeaten at this competition.

Patty Stapleton and Linda Childers, who are sisters, won two trophies apiece to lead the way.

Overall, it was an enjoyable weekend for Sanders and his karate kids.

"It's very satisfying to see students so happy (after they won) because of all the hard work they put in," said Sanders.

Individual trophies will be awarded to the students at Pine Knob Elementary on Oct. 14.

A comedy beyond belief!
She looked fertile but she wasn't. He seemed nice but he was an ex-con. They couldn't have a baby, nor could they adopt one. So the simple solution of course, was to steal one from someone who had more than enough! With this zany logic, RAISING ARIZONA sets off on the fast track to hilarity. Add two grizzled criminal types to complicate matters, and you have the birth of a wild and wonderful comedy. Starring Nicolas Cage and Holly Hunter as the doting baby-nappers, RAISING ARIZONA is howlingly irreverent and smashingly unpredictable.
1987, Rated PG-13, Closed Cap., Color, Hi-Fi Stereo, 94 Minutes.

Rincon plays and teaches sport

Deer Lake pro leads dual life

PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

As a tennis teacher, Gilberto Rincon takes full advantage of the opportunity to see younger talent develop.

As a tennis pro, Rincon consistently places among the top players in his age bracket in tournaments around the country.

Rincon, 38, is the head tennis pro at the Deer Lake Racquet Club on White Lake Road in Independence Township and that allows him to live a dual life, both teaching and playing professional tennis.

"Seeing the improvement in players and knowing that you had something to do with it is what I like best," said Rincon, a resident of Lapeer.

While teaching championship students is fun, Rincon keeps it all in perspective.

"I don't want to take the credit. I just like to know that I made a contribution," he said.

An inborn competitive nature keeps Rincon on the professional circuit.

His latest accomplishment on the court was a silver medal at the United States National Men's 35's Grass Court tennis championships in Newark, N.J., Sept. 20.

"It was a real strong field," he said. "It is the goal of every tennis player to play in a national tournament."

Rincon picked up tennis in a roundabout way after attempts at other sports didn't work out.

He was too short for basketball, too small for football but just right for tennis. Rincon has been in the game ever since.

"Seeing the improvement in players and knowing that you had something to do with it is what I like best."
~Gilberto Rincon

In addition to various local tournaments, he has been invited to participate in tournaments in, among other places, Tucson, Ariz.; Texas; New Jersey; Rhode Island; and Chicago.

He also was invited to play in tournaments in Europe but declined because he doesn't like to travel abroad.

The good weather all year long makes Tucson the ideal place to play tennis, said Rincon.

"That will be the center of the tennis world in the future," he said.

In a couple of weeks, he will leave his family of three and head down to Tampa, Fla., for another national tournament.

With each passing year, Rincon becomes more selective in his tourney appearances. Since most of his salary comes from teaching, he can afford to.

"The difference in age in this bracket is great," Rincon said of the many challenges he must face. "New players are always coming in."

THE DESIRE TO WIN still burns strong in the 38-year-old heart of Gilberto Rincon, tennis pro at the Deer Lake Racquet Club.

Junior highs battle it out on court

Like prizefighters, Sashabaw and Clarkston Junior High battled it out in the high school gym Oct. 8.

The Wolverines got in the final punch of the afternoon and were able to slip away with a 36-25 decision.

Both teams took turns controlling the tempo of the game. Sashabaw started fast and held a 14-4 advantage early in the second quarter when Missy Rhinehart sunk a basket.

The second half was a different story for the Cougars, now 4-5.

"I can't explain what happened in the second half," said Cougars' coach Jayne Bannister. "The girls were up to win this game and practiced for it all week."

Clarkston closed the gap to 14-12 at the half, and continued the comeback in the second half when they outscored Sashabaw 24-11.

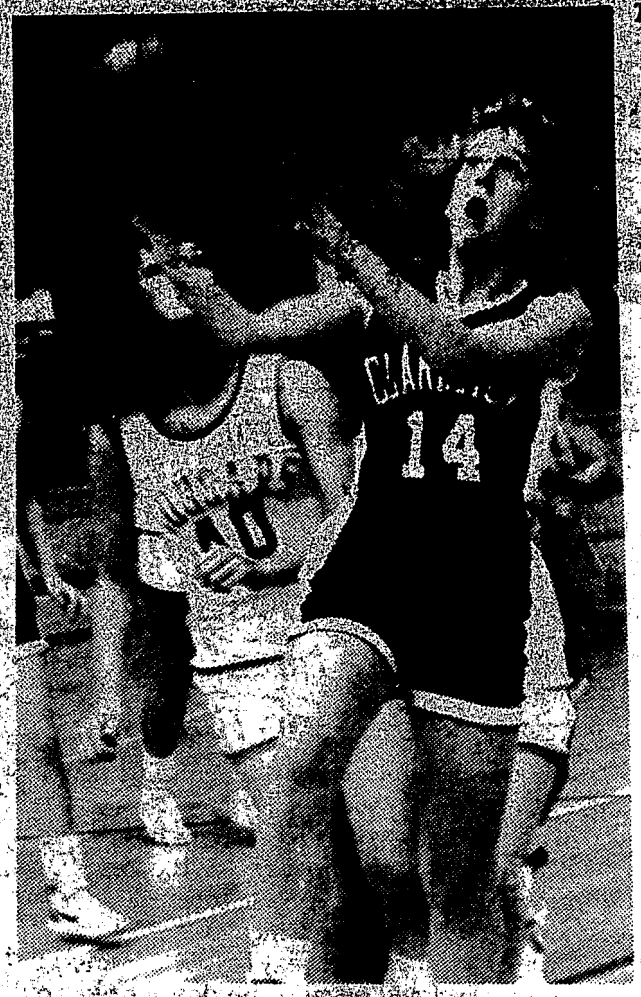

After three quarters, Clarkston had a 33-18 lead. McChesney scored 15 points to pace the Wolverines.

Carrie Roeser added 10 more for the victors. Becky Kosek and Beth Walker chipped in with five points.

The spacious court size at the high school also had an effect on the game, said Clarkston's coach Dennis Bronson.

"The bigger gym cut down on the scoring," he said. "We had our opportunities but they just didn't go in."

Bronson expected Sashabaw to challenge the Wolverines early and he was right.

DETERMINED TO SCORE, Carrie Roeser heads straight for the basket during the second half of an Oct. 8 game pitting Clarkston against Sashabaw.

Top performers for the Cougars include Stephanie Cashin, Jenny Graham, Kelly Collier and Sue Kramer. Shannon Duby also has been playing well of late, said Bannister.

"There is all kinds of potential on this team," said Bannister. "We just have to get the right formula."

Golf club finishes with league title

The Wolves were denied glory once last week but rebounded to end the prep golf season on a high note.

After missing out on the state playoffs by just four strokes during regional play on Friday, Coach Jim Chamberlain's crew won the Greater Oakland Activities League meet Monday afternoon.

Clarkston accomplished its goal by winning the league meet with a score of 326. That gave them the league title as well.

Eric Brockman paced the Wolves with a 79 during the league meet. Jeff Brock finished at 81 and Steve Stapleton (82) and Randy Nelson (84) followed them.

"We won the GOAL by eight shots," said Chamberlain whose team ends up 10-3 on the year. "They came back strong when they had to."

Stapleton was the team's top performer in the regionals, he shot an 83. Clarkston finished sixth in their region.

Despite the disappointment in the regionals, the season was good for the Wolves in many ways, said Chamberlain.

The Wolves finished seventh in the Oakland County meet, sixth in the Hartland Invitational, sixth in the regionals and first in the GOAL.

Ironically, two of the three losses suffered by the Wolves came against GOAL opponents, Brandon and Waterford Kettering.

Car hits cyclist

A 68-year old motorcyclist was injured last week when a car pulled onto Waldon Road, Independence Township, and hit him.

About 2:30 p.m. Oct. 5, Marshall F. Charter of Pear Street, Independence Township, was driving eastbound on Waldon Road, when he was hit by a car that pulled out from Paramus, according to reports at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Marshall was treated and released from Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital.

The other driver, Venola Delene Bumka, 41, of Englewood, Springfield Township, was not injured.

Bumka, who said two kids standing on the corner blocked her vision, received a ticket for failure to yield the right of way, according to police reports.

Gas station robbed

Cash from the register at the Clark Gas Station on Sashabaw Road, Independence Township, was taken in an armed robbery last Saturday.

At about 7 p.m., a red-haired white male entered the station and pointed a black revolver-type gun at the station attendant, according to Lt. John Taylor of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

According to the police report, the robber said, "This is a stick-up. Give me your money."

The attendant gave him the money and the robber fled on foot, said Taylor. The canine unit tracked him to a nearby street, where police assume he was picked up in a car, he said.

The amount of money stolen is not known yet, said Taylor.

Police are looking for the man, described as about 19 years old, 5-foot-5 and about 120 pounds with a slim build. The robbery could be connected with other robberies in the area, he said.

JUST SAY NO was the message Jennifer Fauss and Kristen Billig gave to fourth-graders at Pine Knob Elementary School Friday during an anti-drug abuse presentation designed to prevent youngsters from becoming addicted early in life.

Slogan is 'Just say no'

Students deliver anti-drug message

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A select handful of Clarkston High School students, working in teams of two, began a tough assignment on Friday.

The students, members of the "Just Say No" Club, made the first of many presentations to fourth-, fifth-, sixth- and ninth-graders in the Clarkston school district. Their goal: convincing the students to say no to drugs.

In a fourth-grade classroom at Pine Knob Elementary, Jennifer Fauss and Kristen Billig began their presentation by introducing themselves and asking the pupils what they wanted to be when they grew up.

Hands shot up from the sea of attentive faces, and a variety of answers, from teachers to astronauts, were given.

The team replied, "That's good. We want to help you do that by telling you to stay away from drugs, because drugs can ruin your life."

Jennifer and Kristen gave the pupils facts on drugs and alcohol, and told them how they effect people. The pupils raised their hands and related stories that showed, indeed, just how many lives are touched by drugs and alcohol.

The team showed the pupils how advertisements try to make make alcohol "look good." But they said, "It really isn't. Don't be fooled."

They talked about peer pressure, but assured the pupils "it takes more guts to say no. You're not cool if you use."

"We don't do it because we want to be in control," Kristen said. "We want to be able to know what we do and remember what we did."

"We don't want to screw up our lives," Jennifer added."

Both girls said they have seen what it's done to other people.

"I have a cousin things started going wrong for," Jennifer said. "He started to abuse alcohol and drugs, and he committed suicide. I saw what it did to our family and I wouldn't want to cause all that pain. That's why I say no."

The girls left a big "Just Say No" card in the classroom for all the pupils to autograph and gave each student a "Just Say No" pledge card.

High school presentors were nominated by teachers or volunteered for the "Just Say No" Club. Before appearing in front of the younger students, they had to go through a four-hour training session.

Half the $100 cost of the training was paid for by the Clarkston Optimist Club. When Bill Graham of Oakland Automotive Supply read about it, he sent MacKay a check for the other $50.

It's "kind of special" when people offer that kind of help, said Katie MacKay, co-sponsor of the "Just Say No" Club with CHS teacher Ned Burdick. She thinks the "Just Say No" kids are kind of special, too, for getting involved.

One of the presentors last Friday, Dean Condron, said he is involved "because I want to help young kids understand about drugs. It's an opportunity I didn't have when I was young."

And at the end of her fourth-grade presentation, Jennifer said, "I'm involved because I believe in this, and I think it's important that (these pupils) know what they'll encounter."

All of the presentors left behind the same message: "We're proud to say no."

34 who care

Thirty-four Clarkston High School students joined the "Just Say No" Club and volunteered to make presentations to younger students about the dangers of drugs.

Kids help kids stay drug free

The first meeting of a new "Just Say No" Club at Clarkston Elementary School drew a roomful of excited pupils. Approximately 75 youngsters were expected to sign up for the club.

Jeanette Sanders, founder of the school's "Just Say No" Club, was on hand Oct. 6, along with a half dozen volunteer adults, to get the club organized for the school year.

The club is an offshoot of the AWARE group which fights drug abuse, Sanders said.

Once a month, the pupils will meet for educational meetings to learn about drug abuse. During the rest of the month they will also meet occasionally for other activities, such as parties or trips or sporting events.

They are already planning to march in the Clarkston High School homecoming parade with a "Just Say No" banner.

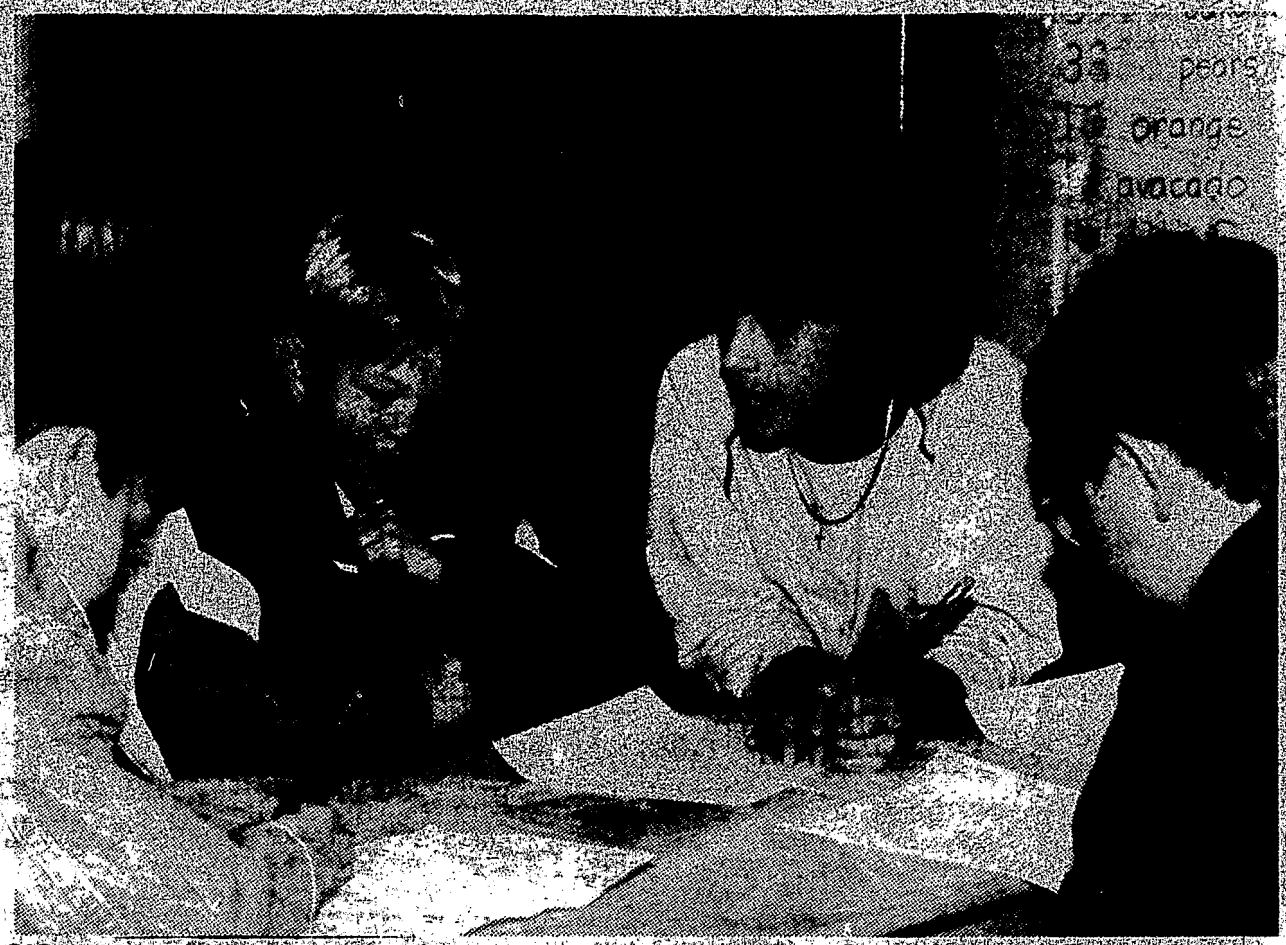

October is national "Just Say No" and Substance Abuse Awareness Month, Sanders said. Pledge cards signed by the pupils would be sent to the Nancy Reagan Just Say No Foundation in Washington, D.C.

The sign up also made club members eligible for a drawing. Twenty-five prizes will be awarded at the school.

In addition to the adult volunteers, Sanders had the assistance of members of the high school "Just Say No" Club at the first elementary school meeting, Kelly Saunders and Kirsten Kuehl. The girls helped pupils fill out pledge cards which meant they pledged to lead a drug-free life.

As fourth-grader Paul Rumph was signing up for the club, he said he was doing it "to tell people not to use drugs."

Stacy Tippen, another fourth-grader, said she joined "because I think it's right to say no to drugs."

SIGNING UP for the "Just Say No" Club at Clarkston Elementary School are [from left] Aaron Gilford, Jeremy Crawford, David Brown and Paul Rumph. Helping is Kelly Saunders, a Clarkston High School senior actively involved in fighting drug abuse. The elementary school club had its first meeting with leader Jeanette Sanders.

The bride designed her dress, made of nine yards of white antique satin in the skirt and train, with a bodice of satin and pearls. A large bow in the back of the dress and puffed sleeves completed the picture. A white tulle veil with seed pearls crowned her head.

Friend to Friend

Why did she leave me?

AWARE
ALCOHOL AND EDUCATION FOR RESPONSIBLE LIFESTYLES
WAR ON DRUGS

Dear Friend to Friend:

I have a friend whose parents got divorced a few years ago and he is now reacting to all of the past traumas that he has faced.

When this person's parents got divorced, his mother had tremendous psychological problems.

It was a very damaging experience to go through.

The son was extremely strong throughout the whole experience and survived with success. Finally, after about two years of psychoanalysis, the mother recovered.

Now the mother and son have begun to develop respect, trust and have finally built up a relationship.

The only problem is that the son will never be able to completely trust or respect his mother because he cannot ever forgive her for the past experiences.

How can I help him realize and believe that he still has rash feelings brewing toward his mother from the past? How can I help the two of them regain respect for each other?

Concerned

Dear Concerned:

We know your friend has been, and is still going through, a lot. Your friend seems like he is trying to reach out to you and open up.

We know that trust and respect are hard to rebuild, especially when it is with an important person in your life--such as your mother.

The following is some advice you might offer your friend.

The first thing he might do is sit down and talk to his mom. The two of them need to open up and slowly work on developing a better relationship.

His mother and he will be able to communicate better if she understands all that he is feeling.

Your friend should be encouraged to let go of past resentments in order to build future relationships.

It might be helpful for him to talk to his father. It is possible his father understands his mother better than anyone else and, therefore, might be able to offer constructive advice.

However, you friend will have to use his own judgment when deciding whether to use his dad as a reference.

Finally, we admire your sensitivity toward your friend and his problem.

Dear Friend to Friend:

There's this girl I met when I was working that I really was interested in. The problem was that she had a boyfriend.

We went out a couple of times before I found out.

I heard about her boyfriend at work and then confronted her. She explained to me that they had not been getting along and she wanted to end the relationship with him. So naturally, I agreed.

But I didn't want to start a relationship with her until they actually broke up. When they did, we began to go out.

We went out for three months and then I found out that her ex-boyfriend had been coming over and calling her the whole time.

When I confronted her, she explained that she was trying to avoid him, but a week later she broke up with me.

My question is, why did this happen to me? I really didn't think I was doing anything wrong.

Dumped On

Dear Dumped On:

It doesn't appear that you did anything wrong. We know it's hard when you like someone and you think they like you back only to find your feelings weren't mutual.

Sometimes relationships break up for reasons beyond a partner's control. However, it is very important to keep your self-esteem intact so you can be ready to explore other relationships.

To do this usually means finding things to do that make you feel good. Different people have different things to make them feel good when their self-esteem is threatened.

Members of Friend to Friend, for instance, find the following worthwhile: playing video games, talking to friends, reading special poems, listening to favorite music, shopping and physical activity.

Sometimes you can even let yourself feel depressed, and that's OK, too.

From experience, we can tell you that you will benefit from what you have gone through because it will help you learn how to stand on your own and depend more fully on yourself.

Keep feeling good about yourself and, above all, enjoy other relationships that come along.

LETTERS TO FRIEND TO FRIEND are answered by a panel of Clarkston High School students under the sponsorship of Aware, a community group devoted to action and education against chemical dependency.

"Clarkston Kids Can't Spell 'S CCESS' Without U." It's the slogan for the school millage campaign.

I'm sure many of you have either seen it posted or heard it somewhere before.

Well, I have another slogan for you. I don't know if you're familiar with this one. "It's Awfully Hard for Clarkston Kids to Learn Without Books."

Or how about, "Overcrowded Classes Make for a Poor Learning Environment."

Any of these ring a bell? Maybe not; therefore, I'll explain.

First, I'll tell you this--the defeat of last June's millage proposal created many problems. The largest of these was a total school budget shortfall of $1,757,000.

This severe lack of money, in turn, created the need for reductions. These reductions came to the tune of $1.1 million cut out of Clarkston schools' staff and services.

Even with this action taken, there remains a budget deficit of $657,000.

Now keep in mind that we are talking about taking money away from a school district (Clarkston) that ranks 27th out of the 28 school districts in Oakland County in income per pupil. Enough said.

Speaking as one who is still covered by the label "Clarkston Kids," let me tell you what all this means.

It means students aren't allowed to take textbooks out of their classes due to the fact that there aren't enough books and if they are lost they cannot be replaced.

Now let's suppose you're a student in one of these classes and you become ill. You're going to be out of school for quite a few days and want to make up your homework.

OK, no problem, you can make it all up ... just as long as you come back to school to do it.

But you can't. You're sick! Big problem--you can leave if you want to, but the books stay. Sorry, there just aren't enough to go around.

It means this scene from "A Day in Clarkston Senior High School."

"Because there are so many of you in this class, we had to borrow a few desks from across ..."

"Please, those of you without books, double-up with someone and try to ..."

"This class is going to be a bit crowded until we can get some extra help, so just ..."

"It'll be a wait before we can fix that. You see, when they made the cut, we lost ..."

The effects of last June's millage defeat are clear--too many things are too tough on too many people.

What does all this mean? It means vote "YES!" for the millage request on Oct. 27.

Microwave Plus

Peachy request

Betty Wagner

Most of us love to receive mail. I especially enjoy hearing that people are reading and watching "Microwave Plus."

A recent letter from a friend said, "My husband and I sampled your Peach Dumpling ... and it was simply delicious. The hostess prepared hers in a micro/convection oven, but said that you had the same recipe for the regular microwave oven. If this is true, could you please share this recipe with us?

"We enjoy your column and think your TV program is charming ... somewhat wacky at times, which delights my husband and myself. Keep up the good work."

This letter made my day, so here is the microwave version of:

ASHTON ORCHARD'S BIG PEACH DUMPLING

1/4 cup butter
3/4 cup flour
3/4 cup sugar
3/4 cup whole milk
1 teaspoon baking powder
29-ounce can sliced peaches, drained
For topping, mix together:
3 tablespoons rolled oats
3 tablespoons brown sugar

1. In a 2 quart casserole dish, melt butter at high power for 45 seconds or until melted.

2. Mix milk, flour, sugar and baking powder into butter. Stir in drained peaches.

3. With a rubber spatula, move batter out of center and insert a small juice glass in center of dish with open side up.

4. Microwave at 50 percent power (medium) for 11 to 12 minutes, rotating dish one-half turn, halfway through.

5. Sprinkle on topping. Microwave at high power for 2 to 3 minutes or until top is no longer liquid. Let stand on heat-proof surface for 10 minutes before serving. Remember dumplings are soft, not cake-like. Serve with vanilla yogurt flavored with peach schnapps or orange extract.

~~~~

Another friend said she had lost Chocolate Velvet Cheese Fudge from Irene Cameron of the Dairy Council of Michigan, so here is a reprint of that delicious treat.

CHOCOLATE VELVET CHEESE FUDGE

2 sticks butter
8 ounces Velveeta cheese
1/2 cup cocoa
2 pounds confectioner's sugar
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups chopped nuts

1. Cut each stick of butter into pieces to hasten melting. Place in 6-8 cup Pyrex bowl or measure. Microwave at high for 1 1/2 to 2 minutes until melted.

2. Add cheese that has been cut into pieces. Microwave at 50 percent power (medium) for 2 to 2 1/2 minutes. Stir in cocoa, vanilla and confectioner's sugar.

3. Cook at high power for 4 minutes, stirring every minute. Fudge should be liquid. Stir in nuts and pour into 9-by-13-inch pan that has been lined with waxed paper. This saves washing the pan. Refrigerate.

~~~~

Both these recipes are very quick and easy and would be good choices for card club desserts.

Thank you for your requests and letters. If you have a recipe that you would like converted to microwave instructions or any ideas for columns, address them to The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main, Clarkston, MI 48016.

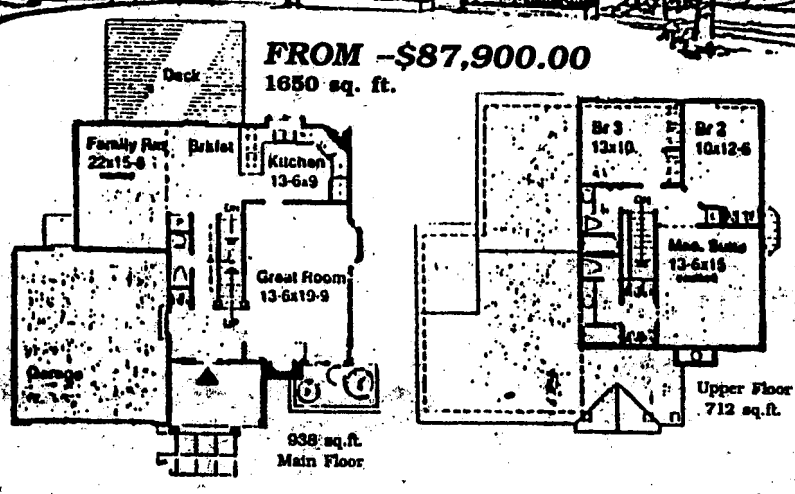

HOME ECONOMIST Betty Wagner resides in Independence Township. Her "Microwave Plus" cable-TV show airs Mondays through Fridays at 7 p.m. on Independence-Clarkston Channel 65.

Rev. Stewart retires after 27 years

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

In a world that seems constantly changing, Episcopal Priest Alex Stewart and his work have been a consistent source of stability for his parishioners.

For 27 years, Stewart has been rector of the Episcopal Church of the Resurrection on Clarkston Road in Independence Township.

He and his wife, Edith, plan to retire at the end of the year, after Alex turns 65.

Born in Scotland and raised in Detroit, Stewart received a bachelor's and a master's degree from Wayne State University, Detroit.

After working in the personnel department at Ford Motor Co., he decided to study for thepriesthood.

He was ordained at age 35, after studying at the Michigan Diocesan School of Theology, now called the Robert Whitaker School of Theology.

After assisting at St. John's in Midland, the bishop asked him to start a parish in Clarkston.

When the parish was established 27 years ago, the congregation met in Clarkston Elementary School for five years until their church building could be built.

Although the building is undergoing changes--the church members are adding more space--the people of the church are much the same.

Stewart and the parishioners still like the old ways of doing things, he said.

"We haven't changed that much," he said. "We're pretty conservative."

They still use the old prayer book and old hymnal, even though new ones are available, he said.

His parish reflects the changes in the country, he said, adding not much is different, despite how it seems.

"You really can't generalize," he said. "We see a mix of people. You just follow the cycles of the country in that way."

He mentioned the few changes he had noticed.

"We are now again seeing a lot of young families. We have been seeing families, but the children were all older.

"It was a typical small town when we came here and now it's a suburb."

"We see a lot more old people because there are a lot more old people in the church."

Now, more women are working, so, often, no one is home when he makes his calls, he said.

"I used to be able to make my calls in the day," he said. "Now, I can go to six or seven houses in a row and not find anyone home."

Other changes have occurred within the community, he said. With all the growth, there's a lot of traffic, as he can see from his home on Clarkston Road, Independence Township.

"It was a typical small town when we came here and now it's a suburb," he said, adding more commuters live here.

In his tenure with the church, Stewart has witnessed a lot, but nothing too unusual has happened, he said.

Once, a groom didn't show up for a wedding, he said. But the couple were married a month later.

The most difficult part of his job is the death of children, he said. Car accidents, cancer and other illnesses claim the life of children, he said.

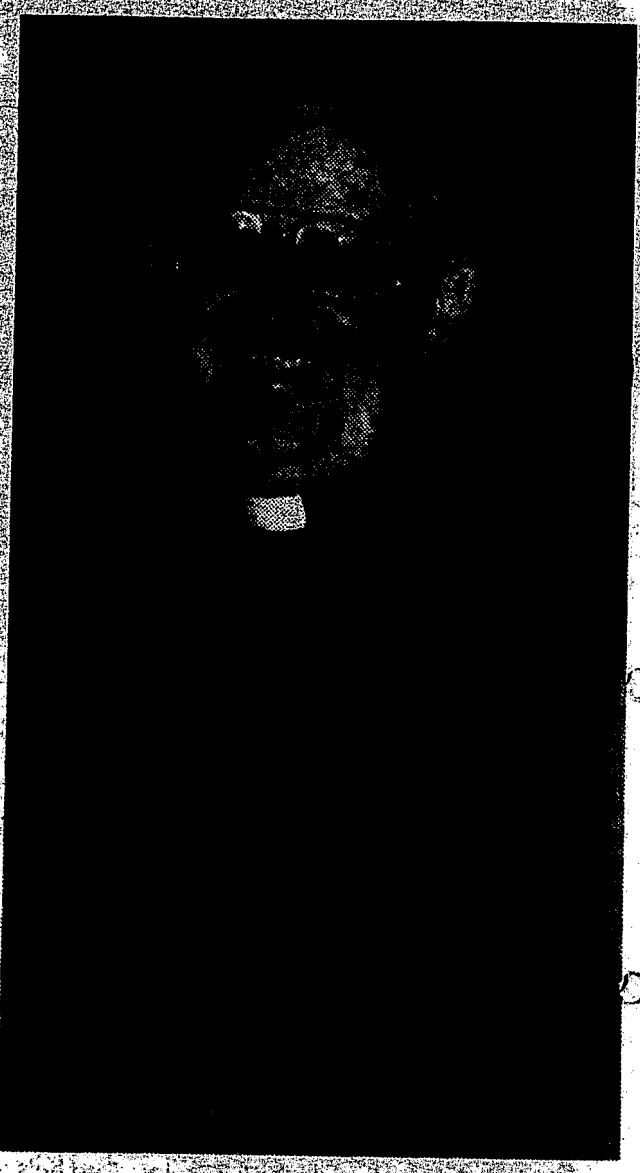

"We've had many children die. For a while, we had more funerals for children than anyone else. Deaths are never easy, but when it's a youngster, it's especially difficult."

The Clarkston area is a nice area, he said, adding he raised his children here: Phyllis, David, Bruce and Joan.

After searching the south, Stewart and his wife have decided to move to Auburn, Ala., he said.

"We just wanted to be where there were young people and kids," he said.

"We wanted to go to a college town where there were things doing and classes to take. It's a small town. Auburn University is there. It's warm.

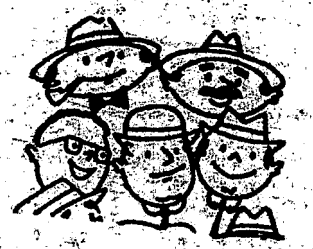

THE REV. ALEX STEWART of the Episcopal Church of the Resurrection and his wife, Edith, plan to retire and move to Auburn, Ala. at the end of the year.

"I've lived in Michigan all my life, but when spring doesn't come until the first of May, (it's too long of a winter). I would like spring to come the first of March, if not earlier."

Although he's ready to retire, he might miss fishing and golfing with his friends, he said.

Gentle Julian

Julian hails from Detroit--he's a motown spaniel mix, black and white in color. And he's an easy going guy who would much rather be a loving housepet than an unloved stray.

Julian is 10 months old. He's compatible with other dogs, but has not been around cats or small children as yet. He's well behaved and very trainable.

Julian can be adopted at the Michigan Humane Society, 3600 Auburn Rd., Auburn Heights, 852-7420. Hours at the non-profit shelter are 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

The adoption fee for Julian is $25 plus a $25 neuter fee.

Dealing with grief

For medical, educational and religious professionals, a free program by counseling therapist William Jones, Ph.D., may help them help others with grief.

Jones is an associate professor at Oakland University. His presentation for professionals is planned from 4:40 to 6 p.m. on Thursday, Oct. 22, in the Clarkston High School Library.

He is to address the following questions:

How do I respond to my classroom if there is a loss? How do I tell students or staff that a death has occurred? If one of my students dies, how do I deal with it? How do I know when a student needs additional help? How do students of different ages respond to loss?

Sponsored by Clarkston Community Schools Special Services, Lewis E. Wint & Son Funeral Home and Clarkston Area Youth Assistance, the program is free to any professional.

For more information, call 625-3330.

Free counseling

For any person who has experienced the loss of a significant person due to death, illness or divorce, help is available in a free program by counseling therapist William Jones, Ph.D.

An associate professor at Oakland University, Rochester, Jones has conducted 73 such presentations per year for the past five years.

His Clarkston presentation is planned at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 22, in the Clarkston High School Kirchgessner Theatre.

He plans to address the following questions:

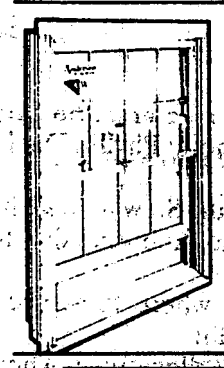

When will I feel better? Are the feelings I'm having normal? How do I help a friend or family member in pain?

Sponsored by Clarkston Community Schools Special Services, Lewis E. Wint & Son Funeral Home and Clarkston Area Youth Assistance, the program is free. For more information, call 625-3330.

Allstate agent likes new office

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The insurance business has turned out to be a good career choice for Judy Livingston.

"I like to help people," she said. "When I was in school, I wanted to be a teacher.... I'm the oldest of four kids. I guess I've always been the big sister."

An agent for Allstate Insurance Company, Judy was happy to move into her new office at 6330 Sashabaw Road, Suite F in Independence Township. Although the new sign isn't up yet, her office is in the back of Cowan Chiropractic.

Judy has 13 years of insurance experience and has been with Allstate for eight years--in Pontiac and Rochester.

The best part about her Sashabaw Road office, open since July 31, is that it is just three miles from her Sashabaw Road home on Whipple Lake, where she has lived for 18 years, she said.

"I decided I wanted to work here in Clarkston because I've lived here so long," she said. "I love the area. ... It's the small town community. Everybody is so friendly. It's just a nice place to live.

"Plus, it's so close to I-75, even customers who live far away can get here," she said.

Judy offers life, auto, home, mobile home, recreational vehicle and renter insurance, as well as small business insurance, she said. Her office hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Since Allstate is a nationwide firm, accidents in other parts of the country are not a problem, nor is moving to or from Michigan, she said.

One of the newer programs offered by Allstate is Universal Life, which builds money for retirement from which clients may also borrow, she said.

Especially now, said Judy, "insurance is important for people to protect themselves from liabilities."

Next spring, Judy plans to offer car window etching, so clients may put their vehicle identification numbers on the windows. Not only is it good practice in case of auto theft, but lower rates are available for clients who take the precaution, she said.

For now, Judy is happily decorating her office.

Three posters of Humphrey Bogart movies and one of James Dean line the walls of her new office.

"I just love old movies," said Judy.

What's new in business?

Dumb dog

By Gary Lisle

Beyond a doubt, the absolute dumbest dog in the world is my German shepherd, Shannon.

Have you ever seen a dog who can't run without falling because her back end can't keep up with the front?

Or a dog that can't jump off a raised surface, like a picnic table without landing on her back?

Well, that's my dog Shannon.

She is a 2-year-old female disaster. She walks, or runs, around as if looking for a brick wall to run into and will many times succeed in finding a tree or person as a substitute.

She would run in front of a Mack truck head on if her ball happened to be rolling down the road toward it. (So watch out, you truck drivers coming down our road doing 45 around the corners--she'd go right through your truck if her ball was on the other side.)

Shannon will also go through a bush or small tree in order to reach her ball right on the opposite side.

It never occurs to her that it would be easier and less painful to go around the bush.

The dog thinks that it has to take the same path as her precious ball--it goes under and through a picnic table, she goes under and through the picnic table; it bounces off a wall, she bounces off a wall.

But enough about her ball. Back to her clumsiness.

I guess a person can't say it's all her fault--part of her clumsiness is because she has some inherited nerve problem.

I wonder what her clumsy parent was like. Now that I think about it, she probably didn't have any parents. She was probably spontaneously generated from a box of rocks with three sides and no bottom. Ha!

As if all these things weren't enough, Shannon can't jump up on people (with her front paws) without knocking them down or clawing them.

In short, Shannon isn't happy unless she does damage to someone or something all of the time. I don't know how, but I manage to put up with her.

Even though this dog seems to be the dumbest animal on earth, she is still a great friend to have around.

DDA appointment

Sue Richey was appointed last week to the Downtown Development Authority (DDA) by the Independence Township Board.

A resident in Northcrest Condominiums, Richey is to fill the residential representative position left vacant by the resignation of Gerald Darnell last year.

Darnell left because of a job transfer, said Clerk Richard Holman, at the Oct. 6 meeting.

The board unanimously approved Richey's appointment.

The DDA is a specially designated district to be improved using tax increment financing in that area only.

Improvement plans include sewer, water, lighting and landscaping projects to be completed by 1992.

The DDA includes Dixie Highway from the southern township limits to White Lake Road and M-15 from Dixie Highway to Paramus.

As property values increase and taxes rise, the DDA captures the extra tax money (except for school tax money) from the DDA only to be used in the DDA only.

Learn CPR now

More people know how to jump start a car than know how to jump start a life through CPR, according to the American Red Cross.

A free one-day mass CPR (cardiopulmonary resuscitation) training program is sponsored by the the American Red Cross Thursday, Oct. 22, at the Pontiac Silverdome. Even parking is free.

Between 9 a.m. and 7 p.m., a new three-hour class begins every 15 minutes.

The classes are to cover CPR and the Heimlich Maneuver--the technique for removing foreign objects from the airpath.

Certificates will be awarded to those who successfully complete the course by both the American Red Cross Southeastern Michigan Chapter and the American Heart Association of Michigan.

CPR is a way to keep oxygen rich blood flowing in a person whose heartbeat and breathing have stopped--jump starting a life.

Pupils pen Soviets greetings

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

With the Russian alphabet taped to the blackboard and copies of greetings translated into Russian on their desks, pupils in the CAT class at North Sashabaw Elementary School attempted to build a bridge of friendship across the ocean.

The children, sixth-graders in the Clarkston Academically Talented program, were making greeting cards to send to school children in the Soviet Union, enhanced with pictures of themselves, artwork they were drawing to illustrate America, and as much Russian as they could master in an afternoon.

The greetings, along with poetry, bookmarks, letters and other gestures of friendship, would be hand carried to the Soviet Union by members of Peace Links (Women Against Nuclear War).

The women, including Annette Remsburg, founder of Peace Links Michigan, Barbara Levin, wife of Michigan's United States Sen. Carl Levin, and 18 other Peace Links representatives from around the country left Oct. 10 for the Soviet Union.

The delegation will spend two weeks traveling in the Soviet Union and, as the Peace Links newsletter put it, will "explore commonalities and learn to appreciate differences."

According to Sue Banworth, CAT teacher-coordinator, CAT pupils are the only ones in the area making things to send to the Soviet children.

The Peace Links trip to Russia will be covered by the "Today Show" and Women's Day magazine, Banworth said.

Helping the CAT pupils with their Russian project last week was Joanne Stroebel, a member of Peace Links and former CAT teacher whose position was cut from the budget after the millage failure.

The pupils were taking the project very seriously.

"I think it's important that we're doing this because we're going to be talking with Russian girls and boys and we can transmit peace," said Carla Merritt, a sixth-grader at Clarkston Junior High.

"The kids translate now and make peace, and in the future there's not going to be as much fighting," added Ronnie Nichols, a sixth-grader at Sashabaw Junior High.

Shana Linseman, another sixth-grader from Sashabaw, observed, "I think us kids can do a better job of making friends with Russia than President Reagan."

And Janae Cooley, also from Sashabaw, said, "I think it's important that Russians see that we're smart and we're not the bad guys."

Perhaps Joel Leonard of Clarkston Junior High echoed the hopes of Peace Links members when he said, "If we start talking to Russian kids now, there will never be any such thing as nuclear war."

CHS crash victim improves

A lot of kids might think a semester off from school is a dream come true, but Nancy Rush can't wait to get back.

The Clarkston High School junior is recovering from a car accident and can't return to school until January.

She's not in too much pain, and she watches a lot of TV, but still, said Nancy, "I'd rather be there."

It's good to see her friends when they visit, she said, adding they bring her homework.

Soon, she'll be getting help from a tutor. But even so, she'll probably have to drop two classes.

On the bright side, next week she might be able to eat solid foods again. Because of a jaw broken in two places, Nancy's mouth has been wired, and she could only eat liquids, she said.

Right now, she uses a walker to get around--to keep the weight off her broken femur (thigh bone).

She really appreciates the support from her friends, said Nancy.

When she was still in Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital, two friends brought her a banner signed by all her friends at school, she said.

"I was happy. It made me feel better," Nancy said.

MIKE, JOEY AND JIMMY Mannor check the view from a fire truck after a firefighter lifts them high up onto the seat.

VISITING THE FIRE DEPARTMENT'S open house and being able to climb behind the wheel of a 1925 fire truck (used for parades), puts a smile on the face of 4-year-old Nicholas Higgins of Waterford. Nicholas visited the fire station on Saturday with his grandparents, Wayne and Lillian Higgins of Bluegrass Drive.

H. S FACE GLOWING with the excitement of it all, 2-year-old Ronnie Knoebel shares the moment with his mom, Kathy. Every time they drive by the fire station, they look to see if the doors are open, but this was her son's first chance to see fire trucks up close, said Kathy.

1st open house fun for all

Surrounded by giant red fire trucks and led by an Independence Township firefighter, the children would show their shyness by standing very close to their parents or grandparents.

Then they would sit on the seat of a 1925 fire truck or climb on the back of a fire truck or spend a few moments in the driver's seat of a tanker.

Their faces would glow.

Adults, too, liked what they saw while on tour of the new Independence Township fire station at the corner of Clarkston and Sashabaw roads.

"All in all, people were pretty impressed with the size and the kind of operation we have," said Fire Chief Gar Wilson.

"It went super," he said. "We had pretty close to 70 families and we figure about 250 people."

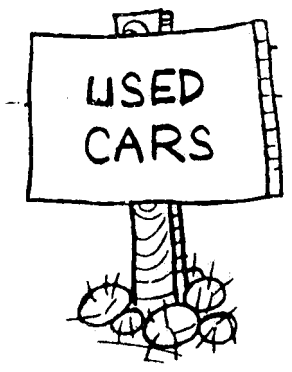

Plans are to make the open house an annual event during Fire Prevention Week, which falls during the first full week of October.

Digging in

MATT SMITH pitches mulch into place. Student government purchased the plastic, the school provided plastic bags and the students brought gloves, rakes and shovels.

Photos by Kathy Greenfield

CUTTING SLITS IN THE PLASTIC so the bushes can come through are Ami Lucca and Eric Emiry. After working from 9 to noon, the students were rewarded with hot pizza.

KAREN DUNHAM uses a shovel to spread the mulch atop the plastic weed-fighting sheets.
