School tax hike on ballot Tuesday

The polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 27, for a special Clarkston school district election.

On the ballot will be one question, a request for a tax increase of 4.25 mills for operating purposes for four years:

"Shall the limitation on the amount of taxes which may be assessed against all property in Clarkston Community Schools, Oakland County, Michigan, be increased by 4.25 mills ($4.25 on each $1,000) on state equalized valuation for a period of 4 years, 1987 to 1990, inclusive, for the purpose of providing additional funds for operating purposes?"

If approved, the school tax for the owner of an $80,000 house assessed at $40,000 would be $1,520 this year, an increase of $170.

School district residents who live in Independence Township vote at the same precincts as general elections.

Residents of Springfield and White Lake townships vote at Andersonville Elementary School. Residents of Waterford Township vote at Precinct 4 in Clarkston High School.

Paper, paper everywhere but not ...

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

It wasn't on the agenda. And it all began when Springfield Township resident Steve Jantz jokingly asked if the township was short on paper when copies of special meeting minutes weren't available for the audience at the Oct. 14 meeting.

It was the wrong question, judging from the snickers among board members.

"Look around and see what happens when we let (Township Supervisor) Collin Walls order paper for one month," said Township Clerk J. Calvin Walters, pointing to a mountain of boxed supplies lining one wall of the township hall.

According to Walls, "it was a really good buy," a contract for two years' worth of supplies with a guaranteed rate and time payments.

"But I never conceived they would ship the whole thing all at once," Walls said. "It was phenomenal."

Supplies not only line the township hall, but the rest of the hallways and every other available spot as well.

"It wasn't initially intended, but supply storage may be part of the basement renovation," Walls said.

Tire removal hits snag

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

In the past few weeks, complications have interfered with a lawsuit to remove 600,000 tires from 65 acres on White Lake Road, Independence Township.

To stop tire delivery on the site and to start tire removal, the suit was filed in Oakland County Circuit Court in July by Independence Township.

Slowing the process are questions of ownership of the tires and a method to stop tire delivery to the site.

Judge David F. Breck appointed former township attorney Richard Campbell as receiver in the case. Campbell is to present the court with a plan to dispose the tires and a plan to pay for the removal.

Although the gate to the property, behind the Depot Theatre on White Lake Road, has a new lock, trucks can still enter the site through a hole in the fence, said Campbell.

Since he received his appointment Oct. 2, more tires have been delivered, he said.

The tires should be removed as quickly as possible, said township attorney Gerald Fisher. A fire started on the property this summer, but fortunately extinguished itself before igniting the tire pile, he said.

Also, 14 years ago, the township filed suit against the property owner, Paul Eghigian, after a similar tire storage operation began on the property. A fire began at that time, too, and the tires did burn, said Fisher.

Illegally dumped on the property against zoning ordinances and fire codes, the tires are owned by William Smith, who leases the property from Eghigian, an Independence Township resident.

However, Smith's attorney presented the court with a memo signed by Eghigian, stating Eghigian is part owner of the tire business, said Fisher.

Eghigian denied ownership.

More time for sleep

It's time for leaves to fall, temperatures to fall and daylight-saving time to "fall back."

The change translates to a gain of an hour of sleep each day we lost in April.

So turn back your clocks: officially one hour at 2 a.m. Sunday, or before you retire on Saturday, Oct. 24.

Planners say no to rural rezoning . . . again

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Leonard Grossman's second request for rezoning of property at M-15 and Oakhill Road was recommended for denial by the Independence Township Planning Commission after a public hearing in which six people expressed opposition.

Grossman asked to rezone 12.38 acres at the southeast corner of M-15 and Oakhill Road from rural residential to single family attached residential.

Commission members unanimously voted on Oct. 8 to recommend denial to the township board, which has the final say on zoning changes.

The property has been for sale for eight years, and Grossman has not received any offers, he said, citing heavy traffic and nearby commercial property as deterrents for rural residential development.

North of Oakhill Road on M-15 is Brandon Township, which contains commercial and multiple zonings on M-15, he said.

His first request last year to rezone a portion to commercial and the rest to multi-family residential was recommended for denial by the planning commission and later denied by the township board.

The most recent request would allow development of the southern end of the property and retain the 2 1/2 acres of oak trees and the large wetlands area in the center, he said.

Township planning consultant Richard Carlisle said a maximum of about 15 units could be placed on the property under single family attached zoning.

With single family attached zoning, "the actual use is tied heavily to developability," he said. "It is a difficult site to develop in any respect."

Single family attached zoning does not exist anywhere in the township, he said.

During the 15-minute public hearing, all six speakers opposed the rezoning.

Sam Cataldo of Hadley Road, Independence Township, said the township has consistently denied similar requests to change rural residential zoning to higher density, and suggested that the board do the same in this case.

"It was (rural residential) when we (residents) started down this path. ... We had high expectations for the area to remain rural," he said.

Lu Hewko, a former planning commission member and a Whipple Tree Lane resident, said the property should remain rural residential.

"The ability to sell is directly proportional to price," he said, adding that Grossman probably bought the property at a low price and might have to pass the savings to buyers.

"Personally, I think it's not a good zoning," said Hewko. "It opens the way to spot zoning."

Commission members also voiced opposition to the request.

"I still feel the people who moved out there moved for the purpose of a peaceful existence," said Jo Fussman, adding that the zoning change could quadruple the density.

"I'm not in favor of flying in the face of the master plan and changing this to a dense area," she said.

Carol Balzarini said the township may not be able to keep the area rural forever, but "we should keep it rural as long as we can."

Brent Bair said the current master plan was adopted two years ago and reviewed within the last year with no changes to the area.

"The only reason to change the zoning would be a hardship and there's no proof of that," he said.

Richard Oppmann also expressed opposition the rezoning.

"The practices of Brandon (Township) in rezoning the area should not be propagated down to this area," he said.

Chairperson Joseph Figa said he was concerned over traffic and with setting a precedent.

"If we allow this there, people might want it in other areas too," he said.

Millage vote considered 'extremely important'

BY KATHY GREENFIELD
Clarkston News Editor

Milford Mason chooses the words "extremely important" to describe the Clarkston school district special election on Tuesday, Oct. 27, when voters will be asked to approve a 4.25 mill tax increase for four years.

The superintendent of Clarkston schools expresses guarded optimism about the election outcome, noting that Lake Orion school district voters passed a 3.9 mill increase on Oct. 12, which put its operational millage at 39.63 mills.

If Clarkston voters approve the 4.25 mill proposal, the district's operational millage will be 36.4 mills.

Mason also notes that the vote was reasonably close, 1,972 "no" and 1,504 "yes," when Clarkston school district residents rejected the 4.25 mills in June.

And he stresses that the district needs the money. "If we're not successful this time, quite frankly, we'll have to come back again," he said. "And not only will we have to come back, but in advance of coming back we will have to put in place further reductions that will make the $1.1 million reduction program of this school year look very small."

A people-to-people campaign has been developed to encourage more "yes" voters to go to the polls, Mason says, and the campaign slogan--"Clarkston Kids Can't Spell S_ccess Without U"--reflects the approach.

Teams of volunteers have telephoned district residents in an effort to identify "yes" voters. They will check the polling places Oct. 27 and make telephone calls to "yes" voters who have not appeared.

If voters approve the 4.25 mill tax increase for operational purposes, the district will receive a $1.8 million increase in revenue this year, which will increase its K-12 budget to $20.8 million.

Currently, the Clarkston school district ranks 27th out of Oakland County's 28 public school districts in revenue per pupil ($2,762.90). If the millage passes, the district will move up to 24th place with $3,082 per pupil. Enrollment in grades kindergarten through 12 is about 5,748.

With the added revenue, "our attempt will be to return the school program back to the 1986-87 operational level," Mason said.

The list includes hiring or reinstating four teachers at the high school level, four and one-half teaching positions at the junior high school level and three at the elementary level plus the possibility of hiring five teachers to alleviate overcrowding at the elementary school level.

At the elementary school level, physical education would return to twice a week from once a week, music would return to once a week from every other week and would be reinstated for kindergartners, the gifted education program would be restored to once a week rather than every other week, two librarians would return to provide three for the five elementary schools rather than one, an introduction to French would again be taught to fifth-graders and, as needed, four classroom aides would be recalled from layoff.

An assistant principal would be hired for Clarkston Junior High School, the athletic director would return to a full-time position, two special education aides would be hired, two library aides would be recalled from layoff, two bus drivers would be recalled, one grounds maintenance position would be restored and two-and-one-half custodial positions would be reinstated.

In addition, textbook series would be purchased for mathematics, science and social studies, and the district's five-year curriculum improvement program would be continued.

Car crash on Dixie injures 3

Three teens were injured and one man slightly injured in an accident on Dixie Highway, Independence Township, last Friday.

At 7:45 p.m. about a half-mile south of Maybee Road, Lisa Marie Langdon, 17, of Maybee Road, Independence Township, was driving southbound on Dixie Highway.

When she tried to pass a vehicle, which was stopped to make a left turn, she lost control of her car, crossed left of the yellow center line and hit a northbound car, driven by Giovanni Iacobelli, 40, of Hadley Road, Independence Township, according to reports at the Oakland county Sheriff's Department.

Langdon and her passengers, Angela Cumming, 16, of Rattalee Lake Road and Shannon Donkerbrook, 17, of Mann Road were injured and taken to Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital.

Langdon was treated and released Sunday; Donkerbrook was treated and discharged Saturday. Cumming was in stable condition on Monday.

Iacobelli suffered minor injuries. His passenger, Arthur Metzger, 32, of Holly was not injured.

All were wearing seat belts, according to the police report.

Langdon received a ticket for failing to maintain control of her vehicle.

Halloween details

Halloween festivities begin this weekend with a pair of free parties sponsored by the Independence Township Library on Saturday, Oct. 24, and continue with a parade around the park on Saturday, Oct. 31, at 1 p.m. in downtown Clarkston.

The parade was originally planned on Holcomb Road, but a $500 insurance fee canceled the roadway march, said organizer Gini Schultz.

Instead, the children and adults who arrive in costume can parade in Depot Park and snack on treats and cider provided by the Clarkston Farm and Garden Club. The park is on Depot Road.

Trick-or-treat hours are from 6 to 7 p.m. on Oct. 31 in Independence Township and the Village of Clarkston. In Springfield Township, trick-or-treat hours are 5:30 to 7 p.m. on Oct. 31.

The library parties begin with a "Pumpkin Carving Jamboree" for all ages on Oct. 24 from 10:30 a.m. until noon in the Church of the Resurrection, across from the library, at 6490 Clarkston Rd.

Participants must bring a cleaned pumpkin, a knife and, for those under 8 years old, an adult. Certificates for all participants and a Halloween movie will round out the event.

The library's annual "Halloween Costume Party" for children in kindergarten through sixth grade begins at 2:30 p.m., also at the Church of the Resurrection.

Entertainment includes a magic show and a short movie. Each child who wears a costume can enter the Ghost-a-Lottery, which will allow the awarding of prizes on a random basis.

Woman injured

A 24-year-old Waterford Township woman was injured when the car in which she was a passenger was struck by another vehicle on Andersonville Road, Independence Township, last Thursday.

Patricia Alice Johnson of Williams Lake Road was a passenger in a car driven by Pamela Renae Shafer, 25, of Clement Road, Independence Township.

Shafer was driving southwest on Andersonville Road, when a car pulled out from Water's Edge Condominiums and hit her at about 11:40 a.m., according to reports at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Shafer, who was wearing a seat belt, was not injured.

Also uninjured was the driver of the other car, Ruth Eileen Stout, 79, of Andersonville Road, Independence Township. Stout also was wearing a seat belt.

Johnson, who was not wearing a seat belt, was treated and released from Pontiac General Hospital.

Stout received a ticket for failure to yield.

Taxes rise for Orion district residents

December tax bills will include the extra levy of 3.9 mills for those Independence Township residents in the Lake Orion school district, said John Lutz, Independence Township treasurer.

Approved by Orion voters in the third millage election of the year Oct. 12, the 3.9 mills are for operational purposes.

One mill is $1 for every $1,000 in assessed property valuation.

The additional levy means a homeowner with an $80,000 house assessed at one-half market value, or $40,000 will pay a school tax bill of $1,675.24 compared to last year's $1,519.52, said Lutz.

Orion school taxes are 41.89 mills, which include 2.26 mills for debt retirement.

The December tax bill will be quite a bit higher than last year, because the 3.9 mills will be added in December this year. Next year, the mills will be divided between the June and December school tax collections.

A small portion of Independence Township, in the northeast corner, is included in the Orion school district.

Planners seek say on road cuts

Better traffic control was the purpose of a zoning ordinance amendment the Independence Township Planning Commission recommended for approval to the township board.

After a public hearing Oct. 8, in which no one spoke, the commission unanimously recommended the the change.

The amendment would give the planning commission authority to review entrances and exits to and from a site.

In the past six years, the commission has been performing the reviews without formal authority, said Richard Carlisle, township planning consultant.

"This justifies what you've been doing all along," he said.

The change doesn't address traffic signals and turn lanes farther down the road from a site, said commission member Brent Bair.

"Other than that, I think it's great," he said. "It's somehow the kind of thing I thought the community had the power to do all along. I guess it needs to be in writing. ... Development is going to occur, and we want to get all the things in place now."

Jo Fussman said the changes give the commission more power to compromise building size and unit counts to provide better traffic control.

Chairperson Joseph Figa agreed.

"I think it's been needed, and it makes it easier for us to make those determinants," he said. "It's going to help a lot."

The commission voted unanimously to recommend approval to the township board, which has the final say in ordinance changes.

Living in the first house on the left after the turn on a road marked "no thru street" has been quite an adventure.

Last Friday night we were sitting in our dining room, which sits right next to the driveway, and the cars were virtually lined up to turn around and, in the process, flash their lights into the room.

Over the years, we've frequently paused to see who's come to visit and have quickly realized that we're looking at who's come to turn around.

Idle conversation has sometimes turned to solutions to the irritation. We've talked about a gate, dumping nails--like that.

We've even considered a more creative approach, such as a neon sign with an arrow that screams, "Turn around here." It would be interesting to see if that would increase or decrease the barrage.

Our dining room has many windows, which are usually half-covered with shutters. Thus, people who are turning around cannot see inside.

During some recent remodeling, the shutters were down because we were painting the woodwork.

The four large windows each have nine little panes on top, so painting is a long-term project. We were wallpapering, too, and patching the ceiling.

The paint we chose was almost white. The former color was a deep green, so many coats later, it was time to scrape off the paint that ended up on the window glass.

During my many hours of standing at the windows, I realized that almost every car that turned around was using the driveway across the street.

No one wanted to turn right next to where I was parked at the window.

Thus, the solution: We could purchase a mannequin, place it in the window and point it toward the driveway.

Have you ever been snopping and felt a "presence" at your shoulder only to turn around and realize that a mannequin has been placed, too close for comfort, to the shopping area?

I have, which is why the solution will only exist in my imagination.

I'd rather put up with cars turning around than with a pretend person in the dining room.

Don't risk future

Voters in the Clarkston school district will soon have an opportunity to stand up for local education by supporting a millage to help our schools.

Some opponents of the millage have suggested that by defeating the millage, greater pressure will be placed on the Michigan Legislature to resolve the financial problems of our schools.

There is no question that we need greater help from Lansing. But it is foolish to think that we can expedite that assistance by risking the educational futures of our young people.

The high quality of our schools is one of the special things the Clarkston community has to offer.

Please don't diminish this community by denying our schools the ability to continue to offer quality educational programing. Support our school millage.

Kerry and Carole Kammer

Principal's sorry

I want to apologize to Mr. and Mrs. Trollman for my lack of contacting them concerning their son's moving from Mrs. Shupe to Mrs. Kozma's class.

I did attempt to reach them several times on Thursday evening, with the last attempt around 9:40 p.m. There was no answer, nor did I reach an answering machine. At that late hour, I stopped calling, assuming that no one was going to be home all evening, that the phone was out of order or they simply weren't answering, etc.

I did attempt to call again on Friday morning between 7:45 and 8:15 a.m., but the phone was busy. At 8:15 I got involved in a problem which took all of my time until early afternoon.

Unfortunately, with all of the moving of the classrooms that went on Friday afternoon, I simply forgot to call again. Again, I apologize for that memory lapse.

On Monday evening, I saw Mr. Trollman and realized I had still not reached them, so I apologized and explained what happened. On Tuesday morning I called Mrs. Trollman and apologized to her also.

Note: On that Thursday, I did manage to reach 32 of the 33 families involved in the move, spending nearly 11 hours on the phone between 9 a.m. and 9:40 p.m.

I sincerely hope that none of our citizens take my memory lapse as an indication that this fine school system does not care about parents or our students. Quite the opposite is true.

He'll vote 'no'

With the State Equalized Value increase and renewal of the 3.79 mills, even with the Headlee rollback, my summer tax bill for schools was over 8 percent more than last summer.

Now, the Oct. 27 millage vote to add an additional 4.25 mills would increase the tax by another 13.9 percent.

It's obvious that the school board wants a still bigger piece of a larger pie. These figures don't include the added school revenue that will be generated by the new construction going on in the township.

A total increase of almost 22 percent seems ridiculous when compared to the recent UAW contract settlements of 3 percent, after six years of stagnant wage rates, while the teachers are getting Hospitals advertise their patient care and won't take a patient with a broken leg for three weeks.

Neither of those statements are universally true, yet both are true in some instance.

We accept the car maker's pitch, we've heard them so long we forget some statements are truly unbelievable.

The neighbor, Dick Kroninger, who believes sleep is something you do in a later life — after all the nails are pounded, slipped climbing down from a ladder.

As one foot slipped the other caught in the ladder, which tipped and put a new angle on his detaching ankle.

It hurt, but Dick knew it was just a sprain and he could get rid of the pain by climbing the ladder a couple more times and pounding a few more nails.

While he was climbing, the splinters in his lower leg bone, broken in three places, were slipping past each other, shortening one side. Dick, not wanting to spend the rest of his life walking around the mountain to show his legs were the same length, decided to seek treatment.

Naturally, he had to wait three days to let the swelling go down. Then he needed repair. His hospital of first choice said they wouldn't be able to set his leg and pin it for three weeks.

Competition being what it is, the second hospital got Dick pinned and cast in three days.

One other note about downed-Dick. He went in a week later to get a walking cast. As it was being applied, on the way home in the car, and after he got home he complained how bad it hurt.

The nurse said, "Wear it!" Then he got a call at home . . . "Come in tomorrow morning. We put the wrong cast on you."

For years I've loved the looks of the Volvo automobile. If I were to buy a foreign car, I'd say to myself, it'll be a Volvo. I talk to myself about such things because I will never buy a non-American car, and I don't want my car making/selling friends to think otherwise.

On my recent trip to Oregon I got to drive a Volvo. I asked for a Buick, but Hertz, which is now owned by Ford, had a better idea.

Anyway, I drove it, uncomfortable, for 800 miles. Beginning with fitting the key for starting, to the hard sitting, and on to the instruments on the dashboard which can't be seen because the steering wheel is in the way, I didn't like it.

Try not seeing how fast you are going for 800 miles in unknown territory. Ah, well, it started every morning, which isn't always the case with the driver.

Editorial Vote 'yes' on millage

It should come as no surprise that we're recommending a "yes" vote on the Oct. 27 ballot request for 4.25 mills for Clarkston schools.

We supported the same millage when it was proposed and defeated by voters in June and after the election, I expressed my dismay.

We recommend a "yes" vote for a variety of reasons, certainly the most important being the children in our community.

They are faced with overcrowded classrooms, textbook needs, supply shortages and a standstill on programs designed to improve course offerings.

For those who do not have children in school, points to ponder include society's responsibility to educate its youth and, more selfishly, what will happen to property values if "Clarkston schools" ever starts to mean something negative.

After attending the vast majority of Clarkston board of education meetings for the past eight years, I have no problem on the credibility of the district's need for more money.

Readers of The Clarkston News have called and asked for some answers on specific points regarding the district's operation and its needs. The questions and answers follow:

Aren't the salaries of teachers and administrators in the Clarkston district too high?

Oakland County's 28 school districts seem to provide the most fair means of comparison because most teachers who work here live here. We can relate to their cost of living, and living expenses fluctuate within the state.

According to figures compiled by the Michigan Department of Education, the average salary for Clarkston teachers in 1985-86 (the most recent available) was $31,969. The figure ranked the district 16th out of the county's 28 public school districts.

The amount reflects the longevity of most Clarkston teachers, for the beginning salary in 1987-88 for a first-year teacher with a bachelor's degree is $19,019. Most of Clarkston's teachers have been with the district 10 or more years and many hold advanced degrees, for which they are paid more.

The state education department also ranks "administration and business" costs which include administrators' salaries plus some transportation costs and custodians. Clarkston ranks 24th out of Oakland County's 28 districts.

"As far as administration and teachers alike, if high salaries were a person's objective, it's pretty evident they would go someplace else in Oakland County," said Clarkston school district Superintendent Milford Mason, noting that last year the district lost teachers to Troy, Farmington and East Detroit because, in part, their wages would be higher.

With so much development in our community, I can't help but wonder where all the tax money is going. Aren't our schools getting a lot more money?

For the 1987-88 school year, revenue per pupil increased a modest $9.90 over last year to $2,762.90. A formula is used across the state to provide school revenue for districts with low tax bases. Such districts are referred to as "in-formula" and Clarkston is one of them.

As Clarkston's tax base increases, the residents pay a larger portion of the amount per pupil as determined by the formula and the state's supplement decreases.

We understand the district has a great deal of money in surplus funds. Why can't that money be used instead of increasing taxes?

According to William Jackson, district business manager, the state average surplus is 10 percent, and Clarkston's is 6.9 percent. The percentage would drop to 3.4 percent in 1988 without an increase in taxes.

Jackson said he considers 10 percent to be a proper amount, primarily because it allows the district to operate without the added expense of borrowing money while waiting for tax payments.

In addition, a surplus offers a buffer if the economy is bad, enrollment declines or major repairs are suddenly needed, he said.

The district's healthy surplus of 17.1 percent in 1980 made a difference when the state slumped into a recession, state aid was reduced and enrollment declined rapidly in the early 1980s. While other districts were cutting programs mercilessly, Clarkston was able to maintain.

On the Ballot

Lottery doesn't cover expenses

On Tuesday, Oct. 27, voters in the Clarkston school district will be asked to approve a request for an additional 4.25 mills for operation. This is the last of a three-part series of most frequently asked questions of the Citizens for Millage Committee. Coordinators of this committee are Jerry Greetham, Nancy Woodruff, William Neff and William Potvin.

What will the new millage be used for?

Funds will be directed as soon as possible to restoring staff and programs to the level of the previous school year. Specifically, this includes:

~Recall of classroom teachers and aides who were laid off after the defeat in June.

~Reduce class sizes at all levels where overcrowding exists.

~Increase time for vocal music instruction; add to kindergarten program.

~Restore physical education instruction to twice a week at elementary level.

~Recall two elementary medial specialists to allow for one for every two buildings.

~Reinstate athletic director to full-time position.

~Reinstate adult education coordinator to full-time position.

~Purchase up-to-date textbooks for math, science, social studies, and computer classes.

~Replacement of funds cut for teaching/student supplies.

~Purchase of additional computers for the junior highs and elementary schools.

~Curriculum improvements and additional course offerings.

~Recall of laid off bus drivers, custodians, and grounds maintenance personnel.

~Restore fund equity to stronger position.

Since this request is for four years, the Board also hopes to direct some funds toward expanding and improving services for the future.

What about the state lottery? Doesn't that money go to education?

Justice on 4-3 vote

Watch out! Eighty-year-old Carfon Foltz remains on the loose. The state Supreme Court ruled Tuesday that he can't be jailed forever for trespassing.

The high court overruled Oakland County Circuit Judge James Thorburn, who, in 1984, sentenced Foltz and several other dangerous peace-game players to stay in jail "conceivably for life" or until they promised never to picket at Commerce Township's Williams International Corp., manufacturer of engines for nuclear missiles.

Thorburn is the judge who, in 1966, acquitted a defendant, Michael Odell Parker, who admitted participating in a crime in which the victim was robbed, shot twice, thrown down a sewer and left to die.

Parker wasn't sentenced to one day in jail. Foltz, a retired minister, served almost 100 days for refusing to promise not to repeat his terrible crime - stepping on a factory driveway to protest nuclear weapons.

Thorburn's reasoning was that after the victim - 21-year-old Jeffrey Dudley - was shot twice, Parker stopped his accomplices from shooting him a third time. Thorburn said Parker saved Dudley's life.

But not for long. About a year later, Dudley died of a heart condition that his doctor said was induced by the robbery attack. It was too late to change Thorburn's freeing of Parker, but what the heck. It wasn't as though he'd committed a serious crime, such as picketing for peace.

Oakland County Prosecutor L. Bizarre Patterson, proving he's not always bizarre, was so enranged by Parker's non-sentence that he began "keeping a file" on Judge Thorburn. "I feel at some point in time I will have enough evidence of misconduct to file charges with the Judicial Tenure Commission," Patterson said recently.

IRONICALLY, I changed Patterson's middle name from Brooks to Bizarre in 1985 when he accused another Oakland County judge - Martin Boyle - of "bizarre" behavior after Boyle refused to put some peace-game players in jail forever for trespassing at the Williams plant. Patterson charged Boyle was "prejudiced in favor of the defendants" because he is active in a lawyers group that support control of nuclear arms.

But Patterson's zeal for objective justice wasn't extended to Thorburn, who, offering no proof, once publicly suggested that the Williams protestors were part of a communist conspiracy. Thorburn sent many of them to jail without Patterson complaining about Thorburn's obvious prejudice against peace-game players. That was really bizarre, and worth the name change.

Anyway, Carfon Foltz and the others were subsequently freed without making the I'll-never-do-it-again promise demanded by Thorburn. This was a tacit admission that it's outrageous for trespassers to be punished more severely than those who take part in a robbery and shooting. Tuesday's Supreme Court decision merely confirmed that justice should be blind, not stupid.

BUT I'M NOT celebrating too wildly. I've read all 66 pages of the brief submitted on behalf of Foltz and companions by the Detroit law firm of Goodman, Eden, Millender & Bedrosian. It includes the pleadings of three Michigan bishops concerning the devastating implications of Thorburn's decision on religious freedom. Also the opinion of three Michigan law associations concerning the constitutional prohibition against cruel and unusual punishment.

To me, the brief overwhelmingly proves the case against stifling dissent by locking people up until they promise to stop protesting nuclear weapons - or anything else. There should be no question about it in a free nation.

But the court vote overruling Thorburn was 4-3. That means there are three state Supreme Court justices - Dorothy Comstock Riley, Robert Griffin and Patricia Boyle - who apparently think Carfon Foltz still should be in jail. Talk about bizarre.

Wetlands board puts off Heather Lake dredging

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The construction of a canal at the east end of Heather Lake will be delayed at least until next spring.

After three residents voiced objections to the project at the Oct. 13 Independence Township Wetlands Board meeting, the board voted 3-2 to table the wetlands permit request until spring.

Newcastle Drive resident Jerry Trzcinski said the lake was still recovering from damage to the west side.

Developers had performed hydraulic dredging in the Orion Township side of the lake and sediment is still 18 inches deep, he said.

"The lake is ruined right now," he said. "The residents would just like it let alone. ... We're not saying not to dredge. We just want to give it a chance to come back."

Tom Hopcian, a Hawksmore Road resident, asked that the canal construction wait a year.

"You're taking a big, big chance," said Hopcian. "(The developer) won't guarantee it, and no one will guarantee it, that the level will come up and the clarity will come back."

To provide lake access to seven lots, the developer, Heather Lake Association, plans to construct a canal around some wetlands at the east end of the lake.

Board member Holly Stephens voiced concerns over the project.

While the canal would surround the wetlands with water and ensure the wetlands' survival, the canal would also separate the wetlands from the land, preventing the wetlands from performing their important filtering function, said Stephens.

Fertilizers from the Walters Lake area travel to Heather Lake and the wetlands prevented many of the chemicals from entering the lake, she said.

"My concern is that the people on Heather Lake are going to have the same problems Walters Lake has now," she said.

Chairperson Richard Oppmann said the dredging would not be hydraulic and would be monitored by the township. As township engineer Dave Lakin pointed out, it would be better to dredge now, while the lake level is lower, and give the lake the chance to recuperate over winter, said Oppmann.

William Vandermark suggested tabling the permit until spring to see if the lake would return to normal over winter.

Vandermark, Stephens and Harry Mosher voted yes. Oppmann and Robert Pilarcik voted no.

Township businesses will display wares

Businesses will have a chance to show their wares and services, and residents will have a chance to see them at the Chamber of Commerce introduction Wednesday, Nov. 18, at the Deer Lake Racquet Club.

The kickoff of the Independence Township area Chamber of Commerce is planned from 6 to 9 p.m., said township Treasurer John Lutz.

"We have so many people moving to the community and they're constantly asking us at the township hall, 'Where is the Chamber of Commerce?,'" said Lutz.

When new residents hear the Clarkston area doesn't have one, they ask for recommendations on services or businesses, he said.

"I don't think we should be doing that," said Lutz. "It puts us in a bit of a political pickle."

The chamber will attempt to unify the concerns of the retail, service, industrial and professional communities, said Buck Kopietz, one of the organizers.

"The Chamber of Commerce can help establish a fair planning approach to community development," Kopietz said.

Although no one has paid dues yet, about 45 businesses in the area are interested, he said.

For $25, businesses may purchase a table for the Nov. 18 meeting. For more information, call John Lutz at 625-5111 or Bruce Mercado at 625-9444.

Join hallway walkers

Starting Nov. 2, residents can walk indoors at Clarkston High School and Sashabaw Junior High School.

Except for holidays, the schools will be open from 4:30 to 8:30 p.m. for walkers until April 29, said Mel Vaara, assistant superintendent of Clarkston Community Schools.

This is the second year the schools are offering the facilities, he said, adding, "It was an exceptional program last year."

People like to walk for their health or for fun and it gets darker and colder in the fall and winter, he said, and the school halls allow exercise without driving to a mall or indoor track.

Residents applaud lake level lowering, boo fee

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Although the lowering of Oakland and Woodhull lake levels had already begun, the project received formal approval from the Independence Township Wetlands Board on Oct. 13.

Comments from the standing-room-only crowd of about 50 people included praise for the presentation by Robert Fredericks, deputy Oakland County drain commissioner, and complaints about the $50 township fee for individual wetland permit requests.

The northern portions of both lakes rest in Independence Township off Sashabaw Road and the majority of the lakes, as well as the controlling structures (dams built by the Ford Motor Co.), are in Waterford Township.

In the public comment portion of the meeting, DNR biologist Ron Spitler urged residents to follow the DNR rules and to report illegal activities.

"This is a very special project," said Spitler. "There's a lot of good will. Let's keep an eye out there."

Kerry Kammer, former state senator who sponsored the Michigan Wetlands Protection Act and current member of the DNR committee, favored the project, if the residents followed the rules.

Otherwise, habitat may be damaged and fish may be killed over the winter, he said. Illegal activities would also lessen the chances for similar projects in the future.

Others asked the board to consider reducing the township's individual $50 permit fee or give a group rate, since a large number of people would be improving their personal property at the same time.

Beverly McElmeel, director of the township building department, said the wetlands board did not set the fees, so the residents should make the request to the township board.

> "This is a very special project. There's a lot of good will."
> ~Ron Spitler
> DNR Biologist

Individual permits were necessary because group permits reduced the likelihood of accountability, she said.

Before the public comment, applause greeted Fredericks' explanation of the lake level lowering process.

A temporary four-foot drop in the lake levels was requested by residents who wanted to remove hazardous tree stumps. Because of the barely submerged trees, boat damage and personal injury have occurred, he said.

The lowering was approved by the Oakland County Circuit Court, which set the lake levels about 30 years ago, and by the Department of Natural Resources (DNR), which monitors lakes and wetlands in the state.

Because Independence Township has a wetlands ordinance, approval from the township wetlands board was also necessary, he said.

Since both lakes are deep, a gradual four-foot drop won't affect the ecosystem too much, he said. Fall is the ideal time to lower the lake, since the level is naturally low anyway and plants and other water life are beginning their dormant winter stages.

The lakes are to be gradually raised by December, before ice forms.

The lake clean-up procedure is as follows: After the lake is lowered four feet, a neighborhood crew of volunteers will place Michigan Bell flags on the logs they would like removed. DNR employees will follow and remove flags or mark where the logs may be cut. Then, volunteer crews may cut the logs. Afterward, DNR employees will inspect the work.

Any removal of stumps or additional lake work requires DNR permits and township wetland permits if the work is in Independence Township.

Unauthorized work could damage the habitat for water life and any work done without a permit is against the law and punishable by fines.

It's an ideal time to do other work: repair deteriorating seawalls and improve beaches or erosion control, said Fredericks.

McElmeel said the township will use the DNR applications to issue permits, so double paperwork isn't required. The $50 individual permit fee covers engineering reviews and inspections, she said.

After the meeting, McElmeel said she plans to ask the township board to reduce the permit fee if some of the inspections could be combined.

After individuals apply for DNR permits for private shore work, they will receive the permits in the mail, said Spitler. No work should begin without the permits.

Meeting date changes

The November meeting of the Springfield Township Board will be Thursday, Nov. 12, at 8 p.m. in the township hall.

The meeting was changed from the usual Wednesday night because Nov. 11, Veterans Day, is a legal holiday.

after prizes and administration, go to the state school aid fund, this source provides only 17 percent of total school operating revenue.

What happens to the additional money collected from increased assessments and property taxes?

Because the Clarkston school district is "in formula," an increase in the property values within the district does not increase the total operating revenues.

Schools are considered "in formula" if the local property tax generated per student does not exceed the guaranteed amount calculated by the state formula. Presently, Clarkston locally generates 66.3 percent of its revenues and receives approximately 29.6 percent from the state. The remaining revenues (4.1 percent) come from federal and other miscellaneous sources.

As the revenue goes up due to new assessments, the state aid portion declines, offsetting the increase.

In order for local assessments to directly increase local school revenue, Clarkston would have to be "out of formula." This would require a significant increase in the total property value for the district without a change in the school aid formula.

Why should people who don't have children in the Clarkston schools support this request?

First, senior citizens and other taxpayers may qualify for a full or partial tax rebate. Under the Michigan Homestead Tax Credit Law, senior citizens (65 years old or older) whose property tax liability exceeds 3.5 percent of their household income can obtain a rebate of 100 percent of the excess up to $1,200.

For other taxpayers, the rebate is 60 percent of the excess.

How will the fall enrollment affect district finances?

While the revenue received for the additional students will help the district's financial status, it is not sufficient enough to alleviate the budget deficit or to justify recalling secondary or support teachers.

What about plans for a new high school?

The current proposal is in no way related to the high school issue. The board of education is still studying the need for new or improved facilities. This issue will come before the voters some time in the future.

Pair of buildings OKd

Two buildings instead of one are to be built on one lot on White Lake Road in Independence Township.

At the Oct. 8 planning commission meeting, Joseph DeLude received final site plan approval and special land use permission for the two buildings on one site.

A 6,200 square foot building is to hold his business, Cabinet I. In the next two years, he plans to build a 1,000-foot office in the front of his cabinet shop, he said.

A second building is to store trucks, trailers and other machinery for Al Cunningham's construction company, Cunningham Construction.

By building at the same time, the two companies can save in engineering, construction and landscaping costs, said DeLude.

With little comment, the commission voted unanimously to approve the final site plan and the special land use.

After the meeting, DeLude said he hopes to start construction this fall.

6 percent per year for three years.

While we are being told that Clarkston schools are the second lowest in per pupil spending in north Oakland County at $2,753 each, one has to wonder about the currency of those figures, when, in the Oct. 7 Clarkston News, the budget for the year is listed at $20.495 million for 5,748 students, which works out to $3,565 per student.

The above discrepancy, plus the statement by the audit note in the Clarkston Community Schools annual financial report published Sept. 30 which states: "The general purpose financial statements referred to above do not include the general fixed assets account group, which should be included to conform with generally accepted accounting principles," indicates that the facts are not being presented to us in a straightforward manner

I'll vote no.

Charles H. Vaughan

Student support

We can't spell success without U! This refers to all those who want to provide the children in this community with a good education. We need your vote; it counts.

For those of you who have doubts about the millage, let us look at some facts.

First of all, Clarkston's revenue per pupil is 27th out of 28 in Oakland County. This means that our school board is stretching the money the best they can, since in quality, we certainly aren't 27th out of 28. But the money just won't stretch far enough anymore.

Secondly, Clarkston is 20th out of 28 in millage rates. If we raised our millage the proposed 4.25 mills, we would be 10th out of 28, but we would still be behind Waterford. Thus, raising our millage would put us in line with the other school districts.

I know nobody likes to pay taxes, but it's time to look to the long run instead of just the short run. First of all, the little amount that you pay extra in taxes to have a top-notch school system is a lot less than the amount it would increase the value of your property.

There is also the possibility that you will be supporting some of the same children later on through welfare, abortion, crime, etc., because they were not able to receive a proper education.

I also realize that the elderly sometimes feel that they supported the schools for many years, but now that their children are grown their responsibility has ended.

You should ask yourself this question, how would you like it if the people in your grandchildren's community decided it was not their responsibility to provide for their education?

Looking at another aspect in life, you can draw a parallel between this and Social Security. My paycheck and my peers' paychecks are and will continue paying for your Social Security check. So why not invest in your future, the children of this community.

We all need one another to get by in life, so please support us.

Corey Whisner
Senior at Clarkston H.S.

Kids' viewpoint

Our Clarkston schools are being cut back because of the millage failure. We are not getting enough activities.

They are cutting back 25 minutes of our gym classes. Our music class is being shortened and we do not have chorus. We do not have computers and foreign language, which were fun.

Before, in C.A.T. (Clarkston Academically Talented), we went once a week and now we will go only once every two weeks. Sports are being cut back for boys and girls in the junior high. We do not have a librarian to keep up the library.

The textbooks are getting old, worn out and hard to read. We do not have a lot of space to move around because the classes are filled with people.

We need new buses because many of the ones we have now are crowded and old. The desks that we have are falling apart and getting old and grubby. The buildings are old, and when it rains, we have to put buckets in the halls to catch the water.

The millage will not support the money for the new high school.

It's hard being a kid.

You can help make this year a success by voting YES on Oct. 27.

Important to all

When we moved to Michigan three years ago, we were willing to pay more for a house in order to live in the Clarkston school district because of the community support for quality schools.

We sensed that the citizens of Clarkston were building a sound structure for education.

We are proud that our schools are constructed on a strong foundation of basic educational principles and also embellished by quality programs that meet the needs of a variety of students in a variety of ways.

Despite the fact that our structure is stronger and sturdier than the educational systems in some surrounding communities, it has cost us less than the others because of good planning and management of the funds over the years.

Unfortunately, due to increased costs and decreased state support, the growth has temporarily come to a halt and in some cases been dismantled as programs have been reduced such as physical education, gifted programs, computer science and foreign languages, to name a few.

There are some gaping holes where blocks of new textbooks and new curriculum offerings should belong. Signs of stress can be observed in the overcrowded classrooms.

Nevertheless, we are pleased that Clarkston is blessed with many citizens who care about education and will join the other YES-voters on Oct. 27 to ensure the continued maintenance and construction of quality education for Clarkston kids.

But is it only the kids? Ultimately, that educational structure reflects on the value of your home. Let's face it. Good schools are important to everyone in the Clarkston school district.

Cedar Crest Academy plans classroom expansion

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Cedar Crest Academy, a private day school opened in Springfield Township in 1984, received approval from the township board to expand.

In a 6-0 vote at the Oct. 14 meeting, the board approved a site plan for the addition of two classrooms at the school.

"Three years ago, I remember very well the aggravation you went through to convince us this would happen," Township Supervisor Collin Walls told Bette Moen, educational director, and Dolores Imbrunone, administrative director at Cedar Crest, both of whom were in the audience when the site plan was before the board.

"You said, 'Trust me, it will be an asset,'" Walls continued. "You did it far beyond my expectations; it is an asset to the community."

Cedar Crest Academy began its first academic year in 1984, using a local church for classroom space and a 6,000 square-foot, fieldstone-fronted home on the school property as an administration building.

Today, the landmark house still serves as the administration building on the 107 acres of school property north of I-75 on Dixie Highway. It also houses the library and music rooms.

A contemporary classroom building was constructed the following year, the building which is now being expanded.

"I always wanted to educate children in a way befitting their needs and society's needs," said Moen of the school she and Imbrunone founded.

Two main objectives of the school are individualized education for each child and problem solving in both academia as well as social-emotional areas, Moen said.

The school has 85 pupils in junior kindergarten (4-year-olds) through seventh grade. They are planning an eighth grade program in the near future. The school is accredited with the State of Michigan and teachers are state certified.

One day after the site plan approval by Springfield Township, the building permit was obtained and ground was broken for the new addition.

"We've added a lot of things since we started," Moen said, including string orchestra, wind and string ensembles as well as Orff music. They've also added French at all grade levels and an art program that includes pottery and fiber art studios.

In the winter, they have a cross-country ski program on the school acreage. While there are no competitive sports, a physical education program is offered.

Budget hearing Oct. 22 at town hall

A public hearing on the Springfield Township 1988 budget is scheduled Oct. 22 at 7 p.m. in the township hall.

The proposed 1988 budget has expenditures and transfers of approximately $785,000 in the general fund, compared to $803,000 in 1987. The main difference in expenditures is road improvements done in 1987.

The proposed fire budget is $140,000, up about $20,000 from 1987 due to vehicle purchases.

The police budget is proposed at approximately $241,000, an increase over the $230,000 budget in 1987 due to estimated increases in contract costs.

Copies of the proposed 1988 budget are available in the township offices in Davisburg.

Board OKs deputy treasurer pay hike

The Springfield Township deputy treasurer's salary was raised to a $15,000-per-year rate due to increased responsibilities during the illness of Springfield Treasurer Patricia Kramer.

Voting 4-2 on Oct. 14, the board approved the salary through 1988. The deputy treasurer's salary could also be reconsidered when all employees' salaries are reviewed this December.

Voting against the motion were Township Supervisor Collin Walls and Trustee William Whitley. Both expressed concern about filling the position should the current deputy treasurer, Lois Stiles, decide to leave.

According to Walls, Stiles had requested a salary of $16,380.

Kramer, who has served as Springfield Township treasurer since 1974, became ill in July. She is recuperating and has been unable to resume her duties at the township on a full-time basis. She was absent from the township board meeting.

Kids still count

I would like to respond to a couple of letters printed Oct. 14.

In regards to the letter written on the subject of the second grade split at Clarkston Elementary, I, too, believe the transition could have been smoother.

However, I was also present at the open house given before the start of school, and I was the person who asked, "If there is more money, will there be a new teacher added to the second grade?" The answer was "yes."

We were told at that time students from the existing second grade classes, along with the split, would make up the new class.

Although I found out about the new class through a parent and my daughter the day before it occurred, we knew it was a possibility before school started.

The principal did phone our home around 9:30 p.m. the night before the class change to explain the procedure to us.
and prepare the students and parents, but in the long run, the change is much better for the students.

Unfortunately, it does take B-U-C-K-S to spell S-U-C-C-E-S-S. For me, it is money well spent. I get angry with the way things are run from time to time, but I won't take it out on the kids by voting no on Oct. 27.

I don't want to see computers, foreign language, physical education, books and class size sacrificed.

We have fought hard to make these things available to our children. I'm not in favor of high taxes, but I am in favor of my children receiving a good education.

I would also like to comment on the letter written by the woman who has lived in Clarkston since 1938. She stated they have always loved and supported Clarkston and the schools. We still need your support.

There are a lot of caring an dedicated teachers and administrators in Clarkston who do a terrific job with minimal resources. I'm a parent as well as a teacher. I want what is best for my children as well as my students.

I'm also tired of people saying teachers care more about money than the kids. I remember a year when we took a pay freeze. No one ever mentions that.

Until there is another way to finance education, I will continue to vote yes for millages, not because I want a raise, but because I am a parent and believe that well-educated children are our most valuable resource.

I want my children and students to have every possible advantage. What was good enough five, 10, 15 years ago is not enough for our children going out into the world today.

Please vote yes Oct. 27; a lot of other districts already have--Waterford, Utica, Lake Orion, Romeo--to name a few.

To borrow a slogan from our last millage campaign six years ago, "Kids Count in Clarkston." My kids still count, and so do my students.

Mary Tippen

Wage freeze quest

The time is fast approaching (Oct. 27, 1987) when the Clarkston school district residents must say yes or no to a proposed 4.25 mill property tax increase.

Failure of this same proposal in June of this year prompted school administrators to scramble for justification to sell the need for the millage increase.

However, at subsequent school board meetings since the failure, wage and salary issues were discussed and proposals made "behind closed doors." Obviously, such proposals will not be approved until after the Clarkston school district residents approve a millage increase.

If this should come to be, then we (Clarkston school district residents) lose, and the administration wins, since the school board has the sole power to approve such administration wage increases if the funds are available.

They have already warned the district that some portion of the 4.25 mills will be allocated to wage and salary increases.

History usually repeats itself, and if we look back to 1981, when an increased millage vote was approved, generous wage and salary increases were immediately approved after the vote.

Personally, I haven't seen any salary raises the past couple of years. The only things I see rise are my property taxes, groceries, expenses, etc.

I guess I will have to tighten my personal budget. I think most Clarkston school district residents are experiencing a wage freeze or even reduction in these times.

The Clarkston school district administration should freeze their wages and salaries and become more efficient also.

Concerned Clarkston
School District Resident
(Name withheld by request)

Negativism noted

As an educator in a neighboring school district and member of the Clarkston community, I would like to respond to the negativism in last week's editorial section concerning the school millage proposal.

Does it help our children if we are negative toward the Clarkston school staff who tried to contact all parents of children in the first/second grade split issue at Clarkston Elementary School?

Does it help our children to put their future and our most important investment on the bottom of the priority list?

Does it help our children to take our anger out on them because of a perceived loss of control over taxation at the state and federal level?

Does it help our children to be in larger class sizes in the effective learning process?

Does it help our children to feel that their educational needs are secondary to our desire to hold taxes down?

Does it help our children to have to continuously wait for money to benefit their learning environment?

If you answer yes to any of these questions, I ask you to reconsider your answers. Remember that our children are our hope for the future, the future we hope to be a part of also.

Our children learn from our modeling. Let's model concern, dedication, support and most of all HOPE.

I HOPE you vote YES in October.

Liz Talbot

Trustee explains

By now your readers have been exposed to quite a few statistics on the upcoming school millage.

Obviously they are important. They tell the story of a district that is conservatively managed with one of the lowest expenditures per pupil in the area. Our millage rate is also one of the lowest in the county.

Taking this into consideration, reasonable people ask why all of a sudden does the Clarkston school district need more money?

In my two years as a trustee on the Clarkston school board I've gained considerable insight into school finances. I'd like to share my thoughts.

The need for additional millage is not a sudden need. It's been building for the last several years. It's hard to project exactly when you need additional millage because of variables such as how much the state aid formula per pupil will provide, how many students we will have, etc.

Basically, for in-formula districts such as Clarkston, the state provides a certain number of dollars times the millage rate times the number of students minus the money raised through local taxes.

The school board and administration only request a millage increase as a last resort. First, we must satisfy ourselves that our budget for teachers, support personnel, supplies, materials, utilities and insurance is conservative and as tight as we think possible.

Over the last four years, we have been forced to dip into the reserve recommended by our auditors. Presently, this reserve is only 3 percent of expenditures. The recommended state average is 10 percent.

We try and achieve a balance between our ability to pay and what's required to provide a solid educational program for the kids in Clarkston. Our current revenues are no longer enough to do the job.

We have been forced to make cuts that really hurt our effectiveness.

The additional 4.25 mills we are requesting your approval for is absolutely necessary to help us provide the kind of education our kids need and deserve.

Please vote yes.

John Needham

Board debate precedes hiring brother

More discussion than usual surrounded the hiring of a laborer for the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department.

On Oct. 6 in a 4-3 vote, the board approved hiring Brian Doyle, the brother of Timothy Doyle, director of the parks and recreation department.

Brian Doyle has a bachelor's degree in recreation and parks administration and is working toward a graduate degree in the field.

At a previous meeting, Doyle suggested hiring his brother, assuring the board that no favoritism would interfere with the work or relationships with other employees.

After discussing the issue, the board agreed to hire Brian Doyle, if he would agree to not ask for a raise or promotion in the next two years he planned to work for the township.

He agreed to sign a contract, but the employees union later told the township they would not accept the agreement. The township labor attorney also said the agreement would not stand up in court.

Voting to approve the hiring were Supervisor Frank Ronk, Treasurer John Lutz and trustees Dale Stuart and William Vandermark.

Along with Clerk Richard Holman and Trustee Daniel Vandermark, Trustee Carol Balzarini voted no.

By hiring Brian Doyle, the township jeopardized its relationship with other employees, and the act violates the newly adopted personnel manual, she said.

Supervisor Frank Ronk said the manual set policies for most situations.

"This was somewhat of a special situation," he said, adding the caliber of person should always be taken into consideration. "Brian was head and shoulders above anyone else."

Trustee Dale Stuart also supported the hiring.

"If the brother issue is a problem after two years, it's a problem for two years," he said. "If it is a problem, we'd deal with it as it comes, as we would with a problem with any other employee.

"I frankly don't see how we could lose in this situation," he said. "We might want him to stay longer than the two years."

Trustee William Vandermark said it wouldn't be right to discriminate against Brian Doyle because he is a relative. With his outstanding background, he'll be a benefit to the township, he said.

BRENT COOLEY, assistant principal at Clarkston High School, lost a bet with principal Dr. Robert Burek during Field Day over who would win and paid the price by getting hit by a pie thrown by Burek in front of a cheering crowd of seniors Cooley bet against.

Agreement smooths way for paving

With a lot of smiles and sighs of relief from the township board, the first legal obstacle to paving roads in Thendara Park, Independence Township, was overcome.

At the Oct. 6 meeting, the Independence Township Board unanimously agreed to a consent judgment with the Frechettes, owners of the Clarkston Golf Course on Eston Road.

After the vote, Trustee William Vandermark said, "It's a great milestone to see this accomplished after 15 years. ... I guess I have to say a big thank you to the Frechettes for sitting down with us, and to our attorney and engineers and homeowners for starting it."

Trustee Dale Stuart said the homeowners in the area deserved gratitude for accepting $8,000 payment on so large a property.

Jean Frechette also commented after the meeting.

"It's agreeable to us," she said. "They made every effort to comply with us. The big thing was we didn't want them infringing upon the golf course."

The Frechettes, whose property abuts the Algonquin Road entrance to the Thendara Park subdivision, had objected to the road paving because they feared the loss of a golf course hole and trees in the construction process. Plus, they objected to paying the estimated $20,000 for improving a road they don't use.

The judgment, to be signed by Judge Robert Templin of the Oakland County Circuit Court, allows the Frechettes to pay a fee to equal the average homeowner's cost--about $8,835. Also, the golf course will not lose enough property to eliminate a hole.

Since the Frechettes own over 50 percent of the property frontage in first portion of Algonquin Road, their objection could have halted the project.

The board also voted unanimously to begin the engineering for the project, estimated to cost $100,000.

After the engineering plans are finished, the township must enter a "friendly lawsuit" to ask the Oakland County Road Commission to declare the roads public, said township attorney Gerald Fisher.

A title search must begin before a special assessment district can be formed to pay for the improvements, said Clerk Richard Holman.

Construction is still a year or two away, he said.

Sashabaw rezonings receive board approval

Research office and motor vehicle service station are the new zonings on Sashabaw Road adopted by the Independence Township Board.

Most of the discussion took place during the first reading of the proposed rezonings, and little comment preceded the second reading and adoption.

On Oct. 6, the board voted unanimously to rezone 29 acres at the southeast corner of Clarkston and Sashabaw roads from rural residential and local commercial to research office.

The board voted 6-1 to rezone from highway commercial to motor vehicle service station two parcels on the southeast corner of Sashabaw and Maybee roads.

With no comment, Trustee Carol Balzarini voted no.

Football

9th grade football
Mason 22, Wolverines 12

Oct. 14--Visiting Mason downed Clarkston with a 22-point explosion in the second quarter.

The scoring blitz ruined a fine day for Jerrod Johnson, who carried the ball for 261 yards and two touchdowns.

Johnson scored from 3 yards out and 70 yards for Clarkston, now 1-6.

"If we had played as well in the first half as we did in the second the story might be different," said Coach Steve Himburg.

Josh Bennett and Joe Webb were singled out by the coach for outstanding play defensively.

Clarkston faces Pierce next week, a team it lost to earlier in the year. Himburg is looking forward to the rematch.

"We are pretty evenly matched teams," he said.

The Wolverines then cap the 1987 season with a game against Sashabaw.

Cougars 14, Milford 0

Oct. 14--A strong running attack and sparkling defensive play led the host Cougars past Milford.

Eric Hund rushed for 163 yards on 20 carries to pace the offense.

Chris Wasilk and Matt Smith scored one touchdown apiece. George Crouch caught a successful two-point conversion attempt on a center eligible play.

Defensively, Greg Heaton had 11 tackles and Bryce Jarret and Mike Moeller turned in stellar performances for Sashabaw.

The victory evens the Cougars' record at 3-3-1 and provides the chance to finish with the third best mark in the school's history should they win their final two games (Flint Central and Clarkston).

Clarkston High JV
Wolves 18, Lake Orion 12

Oct. 15--The Wolves jumped out to a quick 12-0 lead and cruised to an easy victory. Their record is now 5-1-1.

A trick-play pass from Kevin Keilitz to John King covered 40 yards and gave Clarkston its first touchdown. Lake Orion quickly tied the game when they returned the kickoff for a score.

Dane Davis put Clarkston back out in front in the next quarter and the Wolves appeared ready to take a lead into the locker room when Lake Orion scored on a long bomb as the half ended to tie the game again.

Clarkston put the game on ice in the third quarter when it used up eight minutes on the clock during a 75-yard scoring drive.

King made his second TD of the game to clinch the win for the Wolves. Both the varsity and junior varsity teams finished unbeaten in the GOAL this year for the first time in school history.

Basketball

Clarkston High Varsity
Brighton 74, Wolves 65

Oct. 13--The visiting Wolves ran into foul trouble and dropped this game on the road.

Ali Fedio scored 25 points for Clarkston and Michelle Baker and Kris Castillo added 11 apiece.

Clarkston led most of the way, but Brighton was able to catch up when the Wolves got into foul trouble, said Coach Dave McDonald.

The Wolves' record drops to 7-5, 3-1 in the GOAL after Thursday's loss to Waterford Kettering.

Clarkston High JV
Brighton 40, Wolves 30

Oct. 13--The Wolves suddenly can't buy a basket to save their lives and it has cost them a couple of games this week.

Ingrid Larson scored seven points and Emily Zubalik added six more for Clarkston in the losing effort.

Waterford Kettering 49, Wolves 32

Oct. 15--The Wolves couldn't keep up with a high-flying Kettering team as their record fell to 8-4 overall and 3-1 in the GOAL.

Larson led the team in scoring again with 10 points. Zubalik and Erin McAuliffe chipped in with six apiece.

Celeste Steinhelper paced the team in rebounding with seven boards.

"We are just have a hard time scoring right now," said Coach Larry Sherrill, summing up his team's problem last week.

9th grade basketball
Mason 60, Cougars 20

Oct. 12--Jenny Graham scored 14 points for Sashabaw as they went down to defeat at home against a powerful Waterford squad.

Cougars 39, Crary 38

Oct. 19--Graham tossed in 20 points, including the game-winning basket during the final second, to pace the Cougars over Crary.

Sue Kramer made a couple of key steals during the final minute of play and finished with six points.

Stephanie Cashin made four points for the victors.

"Thrilling, that's all you need to say to describe this game," said Coach Jayne Bannister.

Sashabaw took control of the game early but Crary came roaring back in the fourth quarter to make a game of it.

The Cougars' record is now 5-6.

Pierce 49, Wolverines 18

Oct. 12--Poor shooting by the Wolverines didn't help them at all in this road loss to Pierce.

Clarkston shot only 16 percent from the floor.

Wolverines 45, Lakeland 15

Oct. 14--Carrie Roeser tossed in 12 points and Jenny McChesney added 11 more as Clarkston crushed Lakeland.

"We played a pretty good game," said Coach Dennis Bronson. "But then Lakeland isn't that strong a team."

Lake Orion 43, Wolverines 41 (OT)

Oct. 19--The Dragons took Clarkston out of its game plan by continually fouling the Wolverines and it helped them win the game.

Clarkston had 47 chances at the free throw line and converted just 17. The team scored just two points in the overtime.

McChesney scored 22 points to lead Clarkston and Roeser added eight more.

The loss drops the team's record to 7-4.

Cross country

Clarkston High Varsity
Brighton 17, Clarkston 46

Oct. 13--Jim Hotary finished fourth in the race with a time of 18:16. He was the top runner for Clarkston.

Other fine performances were turned in by Mike Kovalesky (18:55) and Jason Wenger (18:57) who finished ninth and 10th, respectively. Sean Cervantez finished 12th at 19:33.

The Wolves were hurt in this meet since several runners were out of action due to injuries. Those who did compete did well, said the coaches.

"Brighton has a good team," said Coach Mike Kaul. "But we are real happy with the times that we ran."

Gabriel Richard Invitational

Oct. 17--The boys team finished in 11th place ahead of Flint Southwestern despite not having the services of two runners.

Hotary was once again the top runner for Clarkston, finishing the race in 17:35.

Soccer

Clarkston High Varsity
Milford 7, Wolves 5

Oct. 15--Five players scored a goal apiece for the Wolves as they went down to defeat in their final regular season game for 1987.

Bill Cashin, Jim Brueck, B.J. Deloney, Zach Brown and Paul Reading all netted one goal.

The game was tied 4-4 at halftime but Milford was able to pull away in the second half.

"They wore us down," said Coach Neil Granlund. "We were pretty even and we kept coming back."

GOAL battle ends with Wolves loss

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston took an adage to heart Oct. 15 during a prep basketball game and nearly beat powerful Waterford Kettering.

When the going gets tough, the tough get going, perfectly described the work ethic displayed by the Wolves during a 67-57 loss.

"I wasn't discouraged at all," said Coach Dave McDonald of his team's first loss in the GOAL. "We played an excellent second half."

Unfortunately for the Wolves, the Captains had built up too much of a cushion by halftime to overcome.

Kettering started out of the gate fast, outscoring Clarkston 10-2 before the Wolves knew what hit them.

"The first five or six minutes decided the game," said forward Jenny Grohs. "We were down 10-2 and it's tough to come back."

Instead of rolling over and playing dead, the Wolves responded to the challenge and closed the gap.

Led by Kris Castillo, Clarkston was down by just four points, 15-11, late in the opening stanza. But Kettering kept its composure and a comfortable lead with two more buckets to close out the quarter.

"They hit the shots when they had to," said McDonald.

The second quarter was both hot and cold for Clarkston. At times the Wolves were within seven points; other times they were buried 14 points down.

At halftime, Kettering led 35-24.

McDonald regrouped his troops in the locker room during the intermission. Clarkston outscored the Captains 33-32 in the second half.

The third quarter began with a 6-0 Wolves' scoring run that closed the deficit to five points. Once again Kettering's sharp shooters went to work and bumped the lead up to nine.

By the end of the third quarter, the Captains led by 16 points.

During the final stanza, Clarkston rallied to within seven points with two minutes left. Kettering then ran out the clock.

The key to the game was Kettering's start, said McDonald.

"We were afraid they were going to do that," he said. "I was afraid that once we got down they would annihilate us, but they didn't."

Ali Fedio, returning from an injury, scored 14 points to pace the Clarkston attack. Sue McKoin netted 11 points and Grohs added 10.

While they went down to defeat on the road, the Wolves think it will be a different story when Kettering visits Clarkston Nov. 10.

"I think that we can beat them on our court," said Grohs. "I'm looking forward to it."

The loss drops the Wolves' record in the GOAL to 3-1.

Clarkston lets spirit shine

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The spirit of the varsity football team continues to shine through during the 1987 season.

After an emotionally draining loss to Midland Dow the week before, Clarkston returned for a homecoming game against Lake Orion Friday night.

All signs pointed toward a letdown, now that the state playoffs are a long shot. But that didn't happen.

"I was scared that we wouldn't be ready for this game," said quarterback Josh Newblatt. "But it just goes to show you the character of this team."

The Wolves controlled the game from start to finish and routed the Dragons, 29-8, to complete a 4-0 GOAL season.

Clarkston, now 5-2 overall, started the scoring on its first possession of the game. Mike Gilbert capped a 56-yard drive with a 10-yard run.

On the touchdown, Gilbert ran into a wall of Lake Orion defenders as he swept around the right end of the line. Before anyone knew what happened, Gilbert did a 180 degree turn and scampered into the end zone.

"I was just trying to keep my feet," said Gilbert. "I could see the whole left side of the field was open."

Newblatt kicked the conversion for a 7-0 edge.

The defense held the Dragons on downs during their next drive and Clarkston was soon in

Deer Lake tennis tourney

Clarkston teen wins Fall Classic

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Clarkston area isn't known nationally as a producer of tennis talent, but if an Independence teen has his way that will soon change.

Keith Turner, a sophomore at Clarkston High School, recently won in his age bracket at the Deer Lake Fall Classic tennis tournament.

The 15-year-old competed in the 16-and-under division and coasted through the early rounds of the tourney. He was finally challenged in the semifinals and championship round.

"I lost the first set each time and then won the next two," said Turner. "I was real happy when I won."

Now that he has decided tennis is his favorite sport, he will be spending more time on the court.

Other sports Turner has played include basketball and baseball. He dropped them in favor of tennis because he's determined to make his presence felt.

"There haven't been a lot of good tennis players to come from this area," he said. "I figure there have been only a couple of women (who have done well in tennis)."

His hard work has not gone unnoticed by Deer Lake Racquet Club pro Gilberto Rincon.

"He has really developed since he decided that tennis is going to be his sport," said Rincon. "He is doing a lot better now."

A typical week includes lessons with Rincon on Monday and Wednesday and practice on the other weekdays.

Turner credits Rincon with his success on the court.

"Gilberto has helped me a lot," he said, adding that serving is his weak point at the moment.

"I lost the first set each time and then won the next two. I was real happy when I won."
~ Keith Turner

Turner usually enters tournaments about once a month.

Most of the time he enters local tourneys so he can build up his confidence level, Turner said.

"It wouldn't feel right to travel a long way and then lose in the first round," he said.

An exception to that rule could be made in December should he be invited to the Western Open in Ohio.

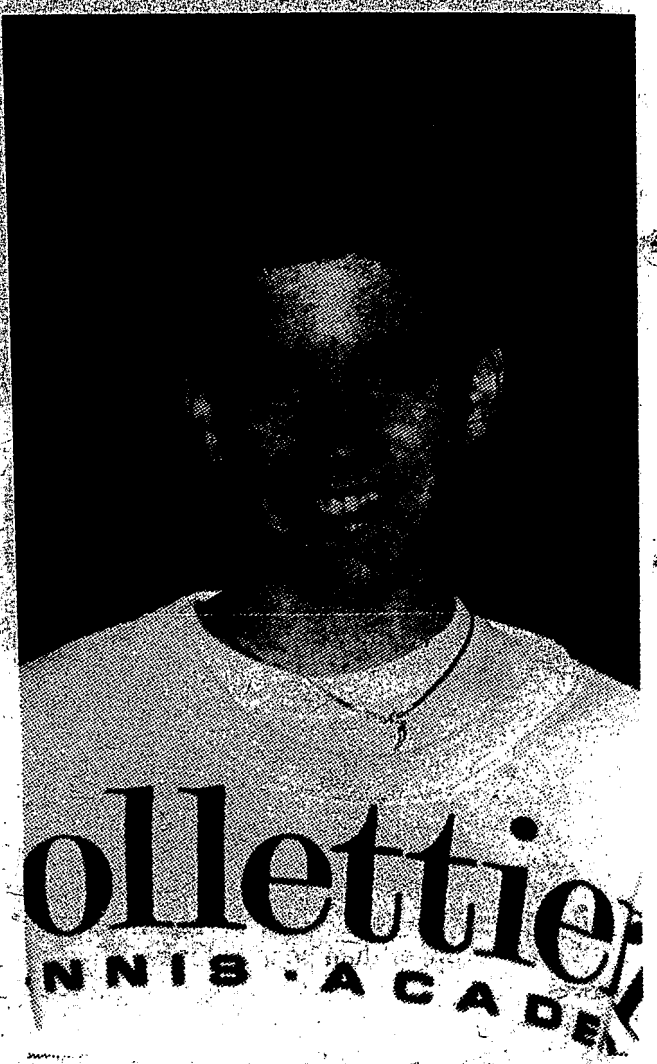
The competition pits the top 128 junior tennis players in the midwest against each other. Invitations are given out based on previous performances in other tourneys.

Last year was an off year for Turner so he will have to wait and see if he is invited.

"I'm going to send an application in and hope they accept me," he said.

A long range goal for Turner is to play tennis in college. To attain that, he will need to get coaches' attention.

One way he will do that is by trying out for the tennis team at Clarkston High in the spring.



KEITH TURNER credits the success he has had on the tennis court so far in his young career to Deer Lake Racquet Club tennis pro Gilberto Rincon. Turner will try out for the CHS tennis team in the spring.

Harriers win

Unheralded and underrated, the girls cross country team burst into the spotlight last week.

In the span of five days, the Wolves tied the number two team in the state and beat the number one.

The Wolves visited Brighton for a race against the No. 2 team and ended up tying, 28-28. Clarkston raced without its fifth runner, which might have helped determine the outcome.

Clarkston lost the Brighton meet on a tie-breaker (best sixth runner). In effect, it was a loss by zero points.

Jenny Mahler was the top runner for Clarkston, finishing second in the race with a time of 20:12.

Sonya Schaffer took fourth with a time of 20:20 while Lisa Palazzola (24:49) and Emily Winfield followed her.

Coming off that important meet, Clarkston traveled to race in the Ann Arbor Gabriel Richard Invitational on Saturday.

The featured attraction at that meet was Ann Arbor Pioneer, the No. 1 girls team in the state.

Because of the strength of the squad, A.A. Pioneer splits up into two squads. The team consisting of the top two runners on the squad participated in a meet at Eastern Michigan University Friday night.

That meant Pioneer's top runner against Clarkston was actually its third best runner. She still had a competitive time with the Wolves' best runner.

"I don't think that he was giving us credit," said Coach Mike Kaul of the A. A. Pioneer coach. "We are stronger than people think."

The Wolves won the invitational 32-55 over Pioneer. Once again Mahler was the top runner on the squad.

"She has really turned it on during the past two weeks," said Coach Mike Taylor.

She finished with a time of 19:56 just ahead of teammate Schaffer who clocked in at 19:58. It was the first time the runners were able to break the 20 minute mark, said the coaches.

Palazzola and Meredith Green also ran good races for Clarkston, which placed five runners in the top 10 to win the meet easily.

Prep profile

He just wants to have fun

Zach Brown is a senior on the Clarkston High varsity soccer team.

Born: March 23, 1970.
Occupation: Works for lawn maintenance.
Favorite sport: Soccer.
Favorite food: Pizza.
Favorite music: Rock.
Favorite TV show: "Cheers."
Favorite movie: "Principal."
Favorite place to hangout: Wherever friends are.
Favorite thing to do: Go to parties.

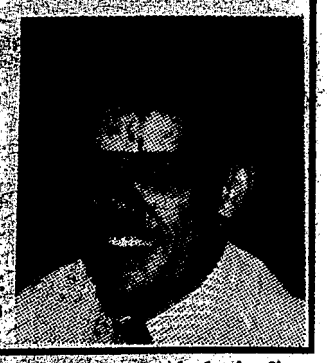
Time out

Bumming around



Peter Avchter

Idle thoughts while pretending to work . . .

Everyone else in this publication has had his or her shot at swaying the voting residents of the village to pass the millage request for the schools, so I want to jump on the bandwagon before it's too late.

I'm going to take a new approach to this subject. I'll tell you how the millage affects me.

First of all, the high school gym needs to have some new lights installed. That's what I would ask for. (If anyone was in the mood to ask.)

The place isn't bright enough for me to take good pictures without a flash.

The southeast corner of the gym is the only place I can take usable photos. If you've been wondering why I don't move while at the game, it's not due to laziness on my part.

With new lights installed in the gym, I once again would be free to roam the entire floor and follow the action. Right now, I have to wait and hope in the southeast corner of the gym.

New lights would help to make my job a lot easier. But then who asked me?

A second reason why the millage should pass is to keep the school activity calendar full of events.

Otherwise I wouldn't have much of anything to write about. That would really bum me out.

I never knew what a powerhouse Clarkston was in prep sports until I began this job exactly six months ago come Oct. 21. (How many people remember the exact day they started their first job?)

Some of the fall sports are already winding down and the early returns are impressive.

The girls tennis team, led by Ashley Adams, Rhonda Bowes, Shelly Rood, Kim K. Morris and a host of others took second place in the GOAL this season behind unbeatable Lake Orion.

The boys golf team, with Steve Stapleton, Randy Nelson, Jeff Brock, Eric Brockman, Ken Mercier and Rob Wilson leading the way, won the GOAL.

On the football field, the Wolves only get stronger. The varsity squad clinched first place for the second year in a row. Even the junior varsity gridders will take home a GOAL crown this fall.

All in all, not a bad start for the sports year. What will they do for an encore? Maybe a state championship looms in the future for one of our teams.

But I don't want to put extra pressure on any one team at this time. I would hate to become a jinx. That would really bum me out.

Finally, I'd like to say that I will be attending the rest of the football games this season.

As it has turned out, the only two losses on the year for the Wolves came during games I didn't go to. I was late to one road game and the Wolves barely pulled the game out in overtime.

I'll try to be prompt from now on, I promise. I wouldn't want to be considered a bum.

Season ends in frustration

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A frustrating season for the varsity soccer team finally ended Monday afternoon in the opening round of regional play.

Clarkston, 6-10-1, lost to Swartz Creek, 3-2, in a game that mirrored most of their losses this season.

"It was disappointing for all of us," said Coach Neil Granlund of his club's fortunes this year. "The team was almost there so many times."

The Wolves' frustration stems from four straight losses that ended their season. All four defeats were by six goals combined. One game went into double overtime.

Against Swartz Creek, the Wolves got goals from Bill Cashin and Dan Tassen to tie the game, 2-2, at halftime but it wasn't enough.

Swartz Creek, playing host to the Wolves, converted a mistake into the game-winning goal during the second half of play.

While the season ended on a sour note, there were some highlights for the Wolves this year. One of those was having a high-scoring left winger.

Cashin finished the regular season with 22 goals and eight assists and was Clarkston's top offensive performer.

Earlier in the week, the Wolves faced Waterford Mott and battled the Corsairs into double overtime before falling 6-4.

Clarkston started out on top 1-0 and the match was hotly contested the rest of the way. Regulation time ended with the score knotted at four.

Cashin netted two goals to pace the Clarkston attack. Paul Reading and Mark Arsenault collected one apiece.

Stu Smith and Corey Whisner shared time in goal for the Wolves.

With a few players out with minor injuries, Clarkston was caught short of substitutes during the overtime periods.

Waterford Mott scored once in each of the two mandatory overtime periods.

Because they were so close, the loss hurts even more for the Wolves, said Granlund.

"When you have the talent and get so close it really hurts," he said.

Karate lessons

Karate registration is taking place for a course taught by four degree black belt Joe Sanders at Pine Knob Elementary School.

Two classes are available, one for those 7 to 11 years old and another for junior high through adult students.

Cost is $28 for four weeks of instruction. Students attend class for an hour and a half on Monday and Wednesday and two hours on Saturday.

A family discount also is offered for all students. For example, two can join for four weeks for $50.

A special rate is given to beginners who wish to try out the sport. Students in this program attend class Monday and Wednesday only for an hour and a half each night. The rate is $20 for four weeks.

The first night for the Clarkston Community Education program is Oct. 26. Students can register at that time. For more information, call 394-0114.

Wolves whip Dragons to clinch GOAL

the end zone again.

Newblatt snuck over from the 1-yard line with 1:25 left in the opening quarter to complete a 41-yard drive.

Joe Herron ran the ball in for a successful two-point conversion and Clarkston led 15-0 after one quarter.

In the third quarter, Newblatt scored his second TD of the game. Once again he plowed over from the 1-yard line.

He also booted the conversion attempt to give Clarkston a 22-0 advantage heading into the final stanza.

Lake Orion finally got on the board in the fourth quarter when Matt Hunter blocked a punt and fell on it in the end zone for a touchdown.

The Wolves closed out the scoring when Gilbert ran 55 yards with a fake punt. Ken Phipps kicked the conversion for the 29-8 final score.

After the convincing victory, everybody rested a little more comfortably, Coach Kurt Richardson included.

"We had some doubts that for the kids everything after Midland Dow was going to be anti-climactic," said Richardson.

The coaches said the defensive unit played an outstanding game.

Chris Locher and Mark Hetherington had interceptions and Newblatt recovered a fumble.

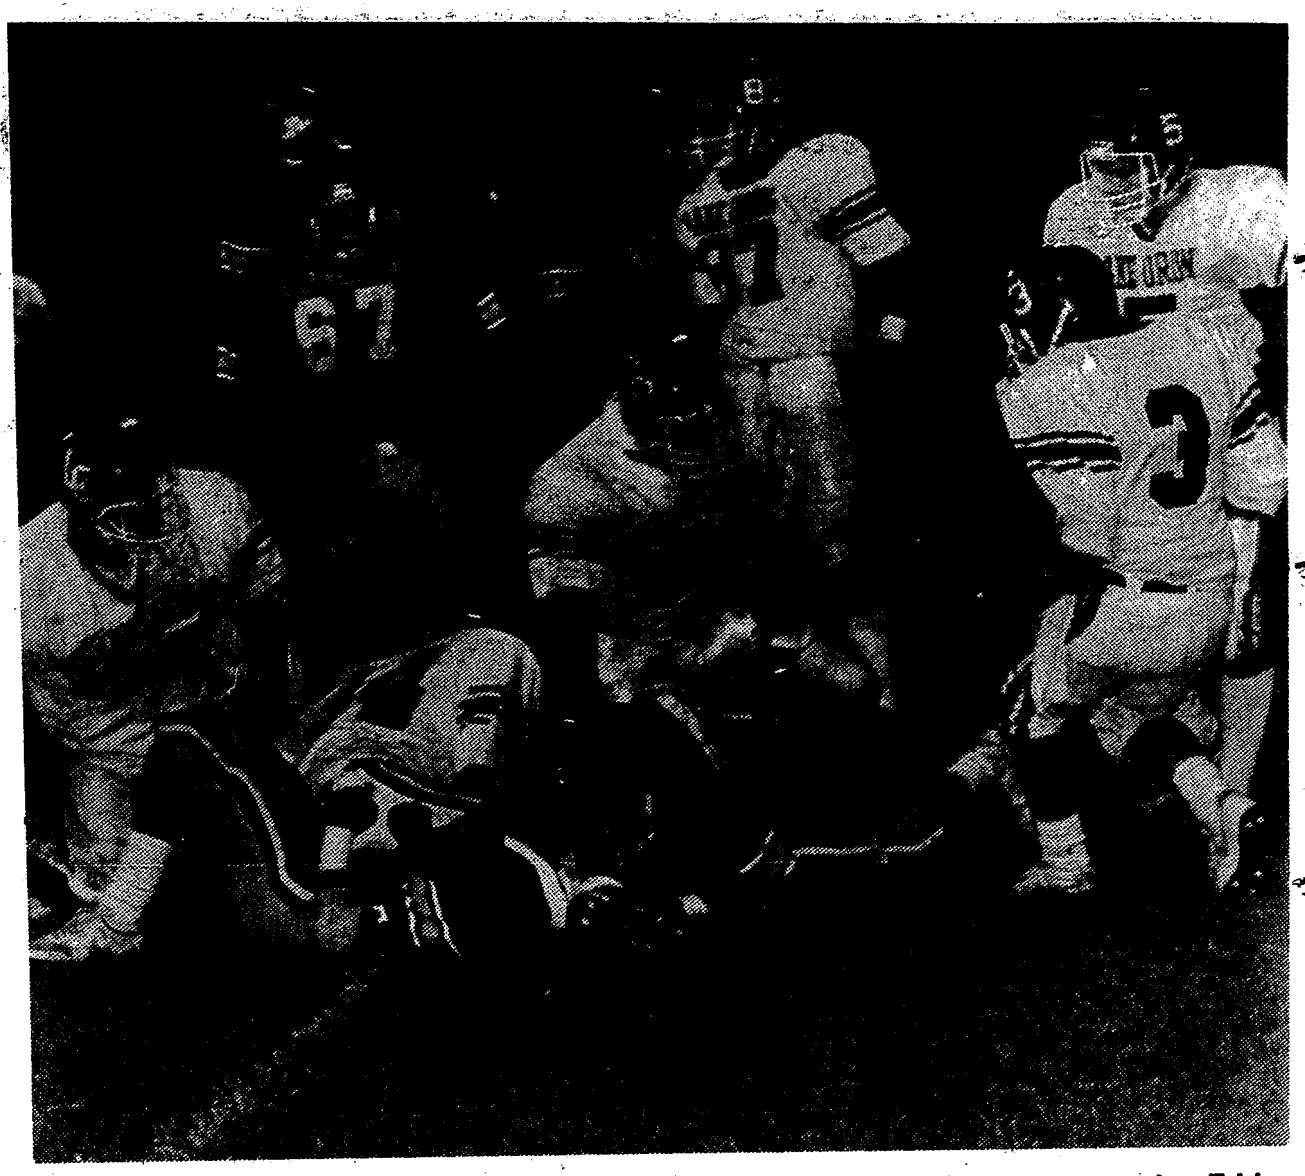
Other defensive standouts included Eric Hutchins and Tim Hale, the coaches said.

The victory marks the second consecutive 4-0 GOAL season for the Wolves. It is something that they have never done before.

"This is the first time that Clarkston has repeated and it feels great," said Gilbert.

Clarkston plays Flint Central Oct. 23 in its final home game of the 1987 season.

"They are a .500 team but they will be tough," said Richardson.



THE MAN WITH THE BALL is buried somewhere in this pile of football players from Clarkston and Lake Orion. The Dragons and Wolves squared off for homecoming Friday night and Clarkston won easily.

Marathoner learns a lot about herself

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Janet Thon found out what she was made of last Sunday.

In her first marathon, Janet finished 184th of 320 women with a time of 4:04.30. Over 3,000 people participated in the Detroit Free Press Marathon, from Windsor to Detroit on Sunday.

"I did better than I thought I would," said Janet, a resident of Fawn Valley Drive in Independence Township.

She didn't even get blisters. Her legs and lower back were a little tired on Monday, but that was all, and she looked good.

She began the grueling 26.6 miles with her friend, Tom Sampey of Orion Township. Tom first got her into running about two years ago, said Janet. She fit the training into her busy day at work--a day care center in her home.

"She did excellent," said Tom, adding Janet maintained about 9-minute miles in the race.

And the race was fun, said Janet.

In the tunnel beneath the Detroit River, Tom increased his speed, and Janet found another running partner, Langston Clark.

"I ran with this guy for a while, and he was great," she said.

Later in the race, Tom's knees began to hurt, and Janet and Langston caught up with him.

"If it weren't for them and their support, I might not have run all the way," said Tom.

Langston, who chattered almost the whole way, kept their spirits up, said Janet, adding he told Vietnam stories.

"He told us that in Vietnam, they'd say, 'Love the pain. Love it.' It kept us going," she said.

Four hours is a long time, and her mind was busy, said Janet.

"A lot of it is, 'This is easy. This isn't hard. This feels great. I'm feeling fine.'

"Sometimes when I was really into it, I thought, 'It's my spirit that's running, not me.' And spirits don't get tired.

"I though a lot about my kids and a lot about my good friends. I thought about the food at the end. ... I started worrying about Tom's knees."

"It was an experience going through so many hours of pain," said Tom. "That's where her energy and support come in. It makes a big difference. ... You just dig into your own resources and come up with gut energy."

Belle Isle was the end, where "the cake is," as Langston would say, said Janet. Waiting with a picnic lunch and champagne were Janet's three children.

And Tom's daughter was there to walk with him for a half-hour until his legs would work again, he said.

"That's a great feeling, crossing the finish line," said Janet.

And she found out what she was made of.

"You find out about what strength you have. Maybe you don't know what perseverance or stamina you had--not just physically, but your will.

"It's not just running. It's more about learning about yourself,"she said. "It's a life lesson."

WEARING THEIR MARATHON shirts, Janet Thon and Tom Sampey pose for a photo a day after finishing the Detroit Free Press Marathon in exactly the same time--4:04.30.

His next stop, New Zealand

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

When Jim DuFresne talks about Glacier Bay National Park, Alaska, his enthusiasm shows.

His voice fills with awe as he describes the glacier--almost blinding as it sparkles on a rare sun-filled day.

He chuckles as he remembers the people he's met--Bonnie, an old friend who's an artist and who lives in a log cabin and runs a kayaking business in Gustavus; Anne, whom he met on a side trip rafting down a river and with whom he later traveled in a difficult and beautiful trip down the coast of Alaska; and Joe, who also shared the coastal trip, as well as other adventures.

He dedicated his latest book to those three. "Glacier Bay National Park: A Backcountry Guide to the Glaciers and Beyond" is more than just a guidebook, though.

He gives the reader the feel of the place, as well as sound advice on travel arrangements, kayaking routes and hiking routes--rated easy, moderate and difficult.

A Woodside Road, Independence Township, resident, Jim's photographs, as well as photos by others, enhance the book: bears, whales, seals, waterfalls and icebergs.

His friend, John Svenson, is the perfect choice as an illustrator. Svenson lives in a cabin in the middle of the Alaskan wilderness. He sketches in solitude and listens to the public radio station for messages. If Jim has to contact Svenson, he leaves a message at the radio station, and Svenson will eventually hear it and then travel to the nearest town to use a phone.

Glancing through the book as he talks, Jim laughs. "To me, this book is full of great memories," he says.

As he writes in the epilogue of the book, they're "memories of powdered ski runs, the glint of the full moon on icy slopes, the cries of migrating sandhill cranes as they skirted the glacier and continued north.

"Later that night we watched from our campfire as two black wolves danced in the reflections of the moonbeams on the water. As I drifted off to sleep, I could hear the surf giving a thunderous applause and wondered if it was for the wolves or for us having journeyed here to observe them."

Each section of the book also starts with a narrative to give the reader the sense of being there.

Jim recently finished a book on Michigan, entitled "Michigan: Off the Beaten Path," one of a series by different authors on different states.

All summer, Jim traveled the less known areas in Michigan, reaffirming his love of the state.

"It's going to wrench my heart to leave the kids, I'll tell you."

"Michigan is really a neat state. We're lucky," he says, mentioning the Great Lakes, the hills and the streams.

The book is to be released next spring and, already, Jim is planning his next project--a revision of a travel book on New Zealand.

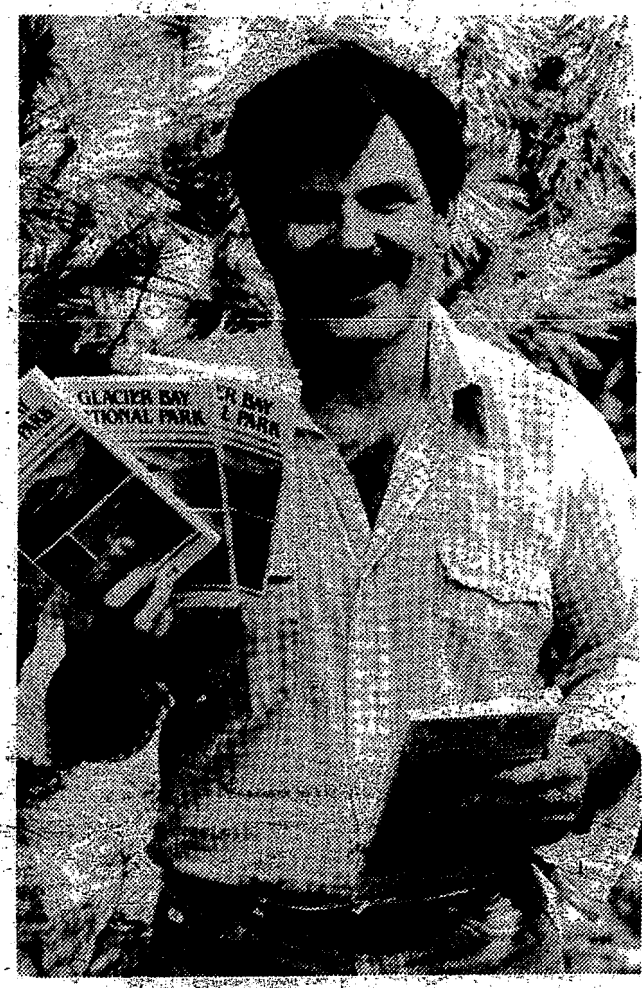
This time, it will be more difficult to do the research.

In the past, Jim traveled for a few months in a country and used the rest of the year to write the book.

This year, not only will he be leaving his wife, Peggy, but he will be leaving behind his children, Jessica, 5, and Michael, 1 1/2.

While Peggy works as district sales manager for General Motors, Jim writes and takes care of the children, and they split the household chores.

"My lifestyle might be unique to a lot of people, not to other writers," he says. "... I don't make a whole lot, but there are some benefits that you can't measure in terms of monetary value.



JIM DUFRESNE POSES in his back yard with a handful of his latest books.

"It's going to wrench my heart to leave the kids, I'll tell you," he says.

Jessica is in kindergarten, but Michael spends every day with his dad except for the one day he spends in day care, when Jim travels to Saginaw, where he is an outdoor columnist and free-lance writer.

Jim leaves Dec. 27 for New Zealand and plans to return sometime in March.

'Al' even likes dogs

Albino squirrel attracts a crowd in a hurry

The white squirrel was so friendly that the Hetherlngtons named it Al, short for Albino.

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

It wasn't an apparition, but rather an unusual occurrence in nature that Jeff and Jorja Hetherington witnessed in their back yard last week.

A red squirrel resident of a tree in their backyard had a new family of four: three red babies and one white one.

"The white squirrel is an albino," said Hetherington, who lives on Washington Street in Clarkston. "He has pink eyes and is pure white."

This was confirmed by Lynn Conover, assistant naturalist at the Independence Oaks Nature Center, who said, "Albinos in nature are not an impossible thing, but they are rare. If it has pink eyes and is pure white, it's pure albino, and if it has some color or pigment, then it's a partial albino."

Being albino wasn't the only unusual thing about this baby. Unlike his siblings, he was extremely friendly. He would come right up to the family, even running right over Hetherington's shoe, taking food from the three children and letting the family dog lick him.

He was too friendly, perhaps. Hetherington was worried when he hadn't seen Al (short for albino) for a day or two. Albinos are more vulnerable because they lack the natural colors that would normally hide them from danger, and their eyes are more sensitive to light.

A neighbor saw a cat with the albino squirrel in his mouth, confirming Hetherington's worst fears.

Al's life may have been short, but he gave the Hetherington family a chance to get to know one of nature's rarest creatures.

There's a church a poppin' in Independence

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

After a demographic study of the area and a phone survey of the residents, the Rev. Kurt Gebhard and his colleagues started a church.

The evangelical Presbyterian church doesn'thave a name yet, said Gebhard, a Costa Mesa Court, Waterford Township, resident. For now, it's called the Clarkston Church Project and members have met in the Senior Center at Clintonwood Park since February.

For their first "public appearance," they sold popcorn at the Crafts and Cider Festival in Clarkston. The sticker on the bag read, "There's a church a poppin'."

They hope to use popcorn to reach others, said Micki Harding, the public relations representative for the church.

Harding, a Curtis Lane, Independence Township, resident, said they may send popcorn in the mail along with church information.

According to their studies, about 30,000 people live in Independence and Springfield townships and about 10,500 don't go to church.

"There's a lot of unchurched people in the area," said Gebhard, adding that's who they hope to attract.

In their phone survey, they found that time was a factor in the decision to go to church or not. With both parents working these days, Sunday was one of the few times a family could be together, he said.

In looking for a church, "people want a friendly, warm atmosphere," said Gebhard. "They want folks they can relate to. Secondly, they're looking at the minister."

Gebhard and the about 35 others in the church hope to fill the needs of the community. Church is important to maintain strong family values, he said.

"We have to have something solid on which to base what we live. ... For us, it's the Bible," he said.

Although resources are small now, the church hopes to offer a lot in the future, such as activities for singles, families and couples.

"People want a friendly, warm atmosphere. They want folks they can relate to."
~Rev. Kurt Gebhard

"We want to grow," said Gebhard. "That's our vision."

Someday, they'd like to number over 200, so they can offer the programing for different needs, he said.

In the meantime, they're trying to make church a comfortable experience. For example, someone who's not familiar with church might not understand the symbolism behind communion. So they observe communion in a church member's home, so the newcomer won't feel uncomfortable.

And they don't pass a collection plate.

"We've found that people think that church is only interested in money. ... We're not primarily interested in people's money. Those committed to the project will finance it," he said, adding an offering box is at the back of the room and a note in the bulletin reads, "God welcomes a cheerful giver."

They wanted to remove the pressure to give, and there is a scriptural basis for not using a collection plate, he said.

"It's not wrong to pass the plate, but it's in keeping with our philosophy of the church (not to pass the plate)," he said.

Another effort toward comfort occurs during the service, in which they use only contemporary music, such as Amy Grant.

Gebhard realizes that people have different needs in churches, he said. "We're different kinds of folks. Some of us like basketball. Some of us like basket weaving."

They hope to either fill the needs of the individuals or direct them toward another church which might better suit them, he said, adding he understood the struggles of finding a church.

An agnostic in college, he had thrown Christ out because he had seen a lot of hypocrisy, said Gebhard.

"But if we judge Christ by other people, it's an unfair comparison," he said. "We want to break down barriers so people can see Christ for what he is. He's changed our lives and we want to give them the opportunity to see him as well."

The Clarkston Church Project is an offshoot of the mainline Presbyterian Church of U.S.A., he said, adding this branch allows more freedom within each church.

Worship services are at 10:30 a.m. Sunday; children's church is 11 a.m.; coffee and fellowship is at 11:30 a.m.

For more information, call the church office at 625-7332.

COMMUNITY INVOLVEMENT is a characteristic special to the Clarkston area, says the Rev. Kurt Gebhard, mentioning Aware and other service groups. Gebhard resides in Waterford Township, with his wife, Elaine, and children, Devin, 9, and Michelle, 7.

New arrival

There is a new arrival at the Island Lake, Ill., home of Jeff and Dorrie (Trarop) Cook and and their 5 1/2-year-old son, Andrew.

Adam Jeffrey was born Oct. 15, weighing in at 9 pounds, 13 ounces. He was 22 inches long.

Grandparents Don and Janet Trarop were on hand from Yuma, Ariz., for the event.

Paternal grandparents are Dan and Betty Cook. Great-grandmothers are Dorothy Dontje and Doris King, all living in Pontiac.

At college

Carol Staly of Clarkston presented her work in a poster session at the Association for Research in Vision and Ophthalmology meeting last May and will do another poster session in November at the annual meeting of the American Society for Cell Biology.

Staly is a master's degree candidate at Oakland University, Rochester. Her poster is titled "Evidence for Microtubule Based Motility in Corneal Endothelium."

Staly is working in the biology lab of assistant professor Sheldon Gordon.

Mike Koslosky, a Clarkston High School graduate, is a member of the 1987 soccer team at Central College, McPherson, Kan.

Koslosky, a freshman pre-med major and a midfielder on the team, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Koslosky of Independence Township.

Jim Hall, a Clarkston High School graduate, is a member of the 1987 freshman football team at Brown University, Providence, R.I.

The 6-foot-2, 200-pound wide receiver is the son of Loraine and Thomas Hall of Independence Township.

A three-year honor roll member at CHS, Jim lettered three times in football and track and twice in basketball. Under coach Walt Wyniemko, he was captain of the football team for two years and was selected All-League his junior and senior years and All-County his senior year.

YACHTING, MILL POND-STYLE, is perfect for an autumn day because, says "first mate" Jim Degen, "We don't get wet that way." Captain of the radio controlled cruiser is the mate's son and namesake, Jim Degen. The elder Degens were visiting their son and his family in Independence Township from Amherst, N.Y. Club notes

The 20th annual birthday dinner was held recently at Chief Pontiac No. 377, American Legion, to honor the past commanders and the past presidents of the post and auxiliary.

The Department of Michigan Commander Roy Cicotte was presented his War Bonnet.

The Junior Auxiliary also presented the Department of Michigan Auxiliary President, Corrine Lovelock, with an Indian Princess headband.

Special guests for the evening were 18th District Commander Roger Wall, President Sally Baker, Department Miss Poppy Shannon Chapple, Department of Michigan Junior of the Year Kim McClusky and Junior Miss Poppy Heather Rollison.

David Kasat is the post commander and Violet Asplund is the unit president.

Five past department commanders also attended. The Junior Auxiliary helped with the serving and doing dishes.

Earl and Ivy Lee Reinhardt, members of the Chief Pontiac #377, American Legion, recently went to the Region 5 Conference held in Indianapolis, Ind., to attend schooling for the national American Legion programs for the 1988 year.

Ivy Lee, field service director for the Department of Michigan, gave a report on what her department has done for the veterans in nursing homes and their own homes. Earl is on the National Americanism Committee.

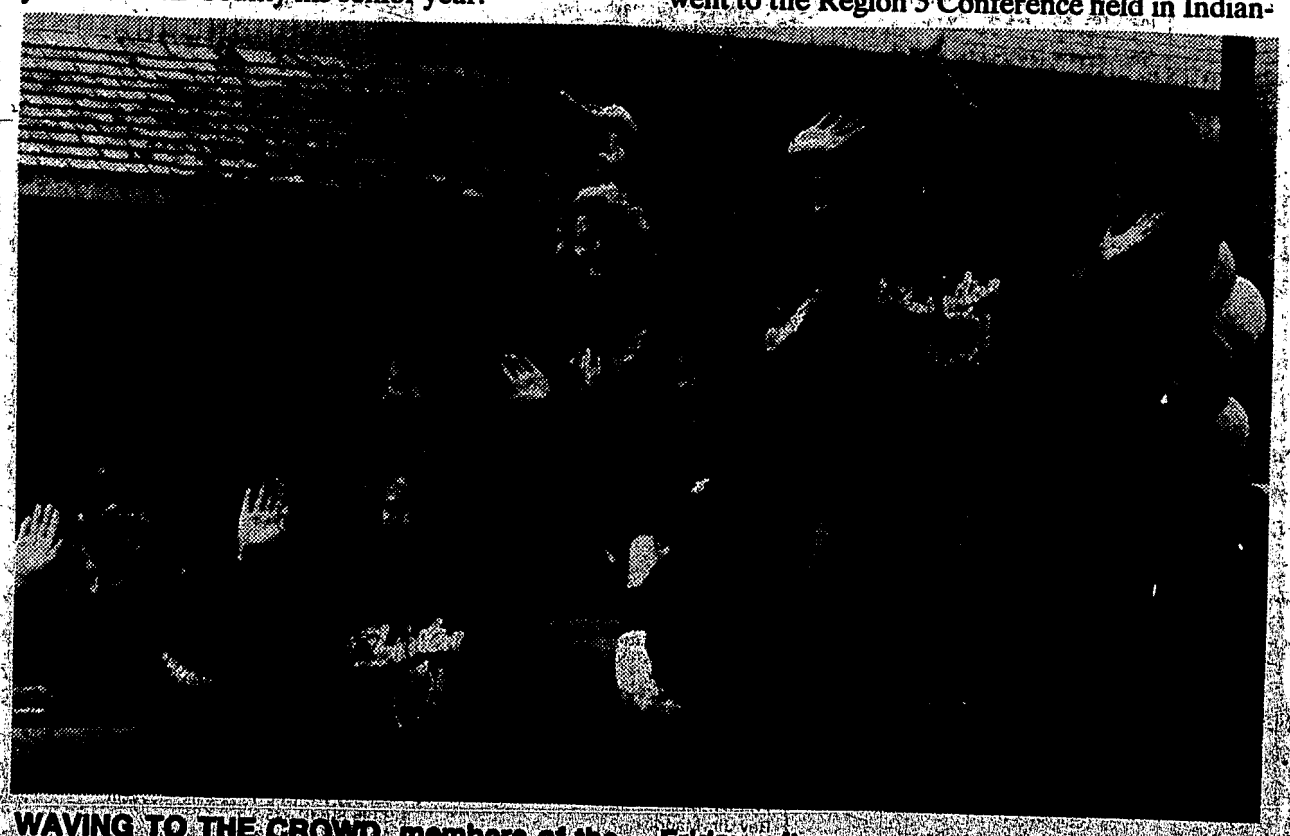
Sashabaw Plains Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution celebrated its third birthday Oct. 9 with a luncheon at the historic Holly Hotel.

Mrs. David Merz baked and decorated the birthday cake that was served to the members and the invited guests.

Joining in the celebration were four area regents: Mrs. Charles Roush, General Richardson Chapter; Mrs. George R. Morse, Ezra Parker Chapter; Mrs. Michael J. David, Quakertown Chapter; and Mrs. David Rosenberger, Piety Hill Chapter.

State Regent Mrs. John F. Weaver was the special guest and gave an interesting and informative program about "Colonial Inns and Taverns."



WAVING TO THE CROWD, members of the varsity girls basketball team are sitting down on the job as they travel down Main Street Friday afternoon during the homecoming parade.

Honors

Eight students from the Free Methodist Church, Maybee Road, Independence Township, were selected as members of the honor society of Society of Distinguished American High School students

The honored students are: Lisa Lake, Mike Koslosky, Doreen Stuart, Catherine Passmore, Kim Cosner, Steve Roggenbaum, Diane Passmore and Carrie Ford.

As members, the students will have an opportunity to compete for college scholarships.

The students' sponsor, H. Frank VanValin, received the society's national Appreciation Award for "devotion to the development and encouragement of student leaders."

In service

Marine Pvt. Ronald Olsen recently reported for duty with the 2nd Marine Division, Camp Lejeune, N.C.

A 1985 graduate of Clarkston High School, he joined the Marine Corps in March 1987. His parents are Dale and Rosemary Grable of Oak Park Drive, Independence Township.

Let me explain . . .

David Kwasnick

Field Day--last of the great pagan rituals (in Clarkston, anyway).

I mean it doesn't quite rank up there with throwing virtuous young women into volcanoes, but who does that anymore, with the exception of a few big-city schools.

Basically, and may I add, blandly put, Field Day is the culmination of Spirit Week, the week of activities leading up to Homecoming designed to promote school spirit.

It's loud, it's rowdy and it's fun--it's Field Day. It's insanity.

There you have it, the Reader's Digest definition of Field Day. Now I know a good number of you are already aware of the goings-on involved in this rite of fall. But let's pretend you're not, just for the sake of argument.

Could you imagine what it would be like trying to explain to someone exactly what takes place?

The person you're explaining all this to could be a neighbor, relative, in-stater, out-of-stater, male, female, plant, animal, rock ... it doesn't matter. They'd still want you committed.

It would probably go something like this:

"Yeah, that's right, the whole student body goes into the gym. Anyway, students from all three classes are called down to the gym floor to be in certain events. Like the one that starts it all off.

"These people have to sit on a bag of ice for the entire duration of Field Day ... How long? Oh, it's only for about an hour. Any true Michigander can do it!

"OK, now while these people are sitting on ice, there are different events going on around them ... it's sort of like a circus.

"For example, there's this great eating event. Four people from each class get in line, for a total of 12 people. One at a time they race to a table.

"On the table are 12 bags, one for each person. Whatever's in the bag you choose, you must eat. Like what? Well, let's see, there's baby food ... Really, you have to eat this stuff, no joke.

"There's baby food, about a dozen pieces of licorice, a liter of Coke to be guzzled, not sipped, and oh, I'd say about 15 caramels ...

"No, no one's done that recently, they usually manage to keep it down. The goal of this, uh, activity, is the class that finishes all four bags first wins ...

"Yeah, I suppose it's winning. Pretty strange, huh? Don't worry, I'm not done yet.

"You see there's this other thing. It's sort of a baseball bat relay ... that's right, baseball bat.

"Anyway, in this relay the rules go like this: You run to the far end of the gym, take a baseball bat and put the bottom of it to your forehead. Next, spin around it 15 times. Now run back to where you started. That's the hard part.

"Sure, everyone's so dizzy it looks like happy hour just ended. People fall down, run into things, can't walk straight. It's great! Whoever gets all their people down and back in this event ...

"Huh? Of course the principal knows we're doing this.

"There are some other events, too, like this one where two people get their legs tied to each other and have to run around a lot ... No, it's not punishment.

"Or this other thing were four people stand on a couple of long, flat boards and try to move them in unison. And for the last event, music is played as these people hop around a lot in front of everyone else. I think it's supposed to be lip-synch.

"How do we get people to do these things? No problem, they volunteer ... Seriously ... No, stop laughing, I'm serious! ... Really! ..."

Exploring Oregon, not like Lewis-Clark

By Jim Sherman, publisher

President Jefferson asked Captains Lewis and Clark to find a passage through the Northwest Territory. They didn't find "the" passage, but they did walk to the Pacific Ocean from St. Louis, Mo. and back.

They found it on the Washington side of the Columbia River, but the weather was so severe that November, they went across the river to make their headquarters.

Their campsite is named Fort Clatsop for the Clatsop indians. The 32 people in the party (one died) can likely be credited with starting Oregon's reputation as a wet state.

In their 106 days at the camp just outside Astoria, it rained all but 12 days. A replica of the fort has been built based on a Clark sketch. The park around the fort is marked by signs on trees and vegetation named by Clark.

Tired of unseasoned food, some campers walked west to what is now Seaside, Oregon, and made about a quart of salt from the sea water. The town boasts a stone saying Lewis and Clark reached the end of their trail there January 2, 1806.

Seaside also boasts a huge, sandy beach with a 2-mile promenade, shops, stands and sleeping accomodations.

Visiting with a newspaperman from Washington, we learned he came to Oregon three days before the convention to enjoy the state's shoreline. He said Washington doesn't have a coastline like Oregon.

The Oregon coast is a photographers paradise. And, though the ocean is cold, the beaches are very popular for vacationers . . . Seaside's population expands from 5,300 year-'rounders to 40,000 in the summer months.

We stayed one night in Astoria, 30 minutes north of Seaside. Lewis and Clark probably walked through Astoria, the oldest settlement west of the Rockies. The town is named for John Jacob Astor, the big fur trader, whose men established a fur trading post there in 1811.

Astoria was a rip-roaring town in the early days, being called litle San Francisco in relation to shanghaiers, saloons, and ladies of the night.

Two world wars and two catastrophic fires sobered Astorians. Their huge fish canning industry dropped from 34 plants to 0. The riverfront is mostly decayed. Many stores and homes are vacant.

But, there are signs of recovery. Some big, old hillside homes are being renovated, there is some riverfront activity, on which they have a great, new maritime museum.

You can rent these 3-wheelers and race up and down Seaside Beach . . . if you're very young.

They took 106 days, we took 7

For the 'press', Astoria's players did a melodrama based on the old seafront activity, a jazz band played to promote their jazz festival in October and Scandinavian dancers (Astoria has a large Scandinavian population) entertained to promote their festival.

Coxcomb hill rises 700 feet above Astoria. Atop the hill the Astor heirs and the great northwest railroad built a 125-ft, 166-step tower, for Astor's contribution to the community.

It was too foggy to have a view to enjoy the morning we climbed it.

A Portland Information Center told us to take highway 84 east, and turn onto the 'Columbus River Scenic highway, which is clearly marked'. It wasn't, but we found it. Two nice waterfalls are on the route, Wahkeena and Multnomah. The latter is a 542 foot cascade.

Bridge of the Gods, near Bonneville Dam and Fish Hatchery.

Being a lover of bridges, we were drawn to Bridge of the Gods on Columbia Gorge, Cascade Locks. The bridge goes to Washington. A bridge we liked even more is over the Siuslow River in Florence.

The most beautiful landscaping we saw in Oregon was at the Columbia Gorge Hotel. Now a national historical site, the hotel has been restored to its original classic style.

Visitors first see the grounds . . . a blending of many flowers, bridges over a wandering stream, shrubs, trees, arches and stone paths.

We were told eating there is expensive, so we moved on toward Timberline Lodge at Mt. Hood. To get there one has to drive through the city of Hood River. It seems out of place, but Hood River, nearly 100 miles inland, is famous for wind surfing on the Columbia River. Seems it gets very gusty in the gorge.

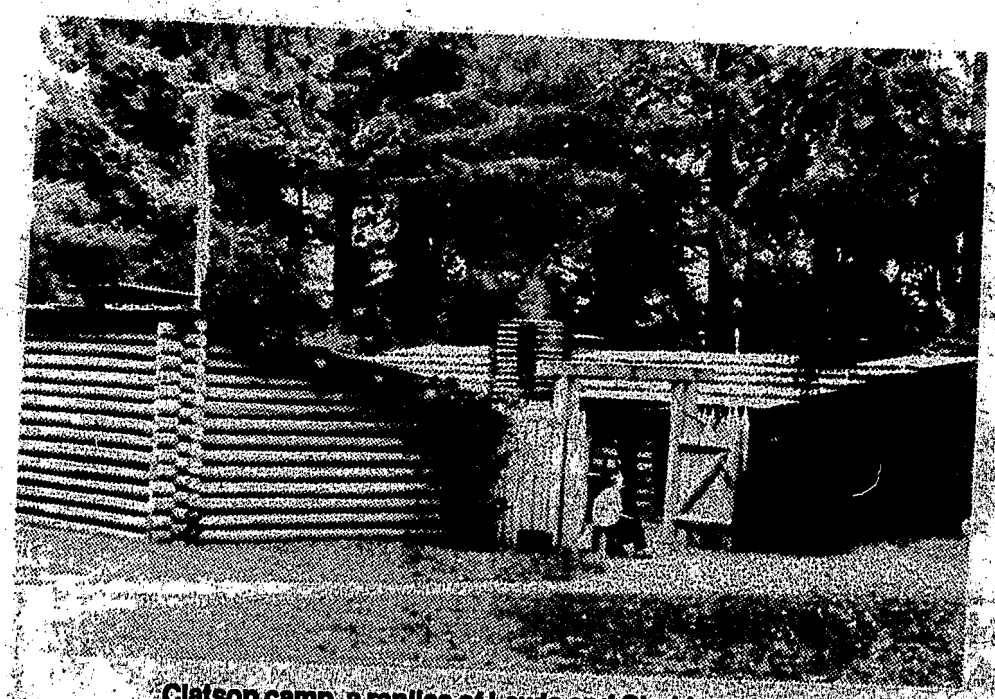
Mt. Hood at 11,235 feet is visible for many miles from all directions. Up close it's not so pretty, as is the case with other mountains without snow. The snow on Mt Hood this day was the same sand color as the hill.

Timberline Lodge is at the 6,000 foot level. Famous as a ski-tourist resort, it was built as a WPA project in 1937, and FDR is its hero. His pictures are prominent. Lunch is in the $8-$9 range.

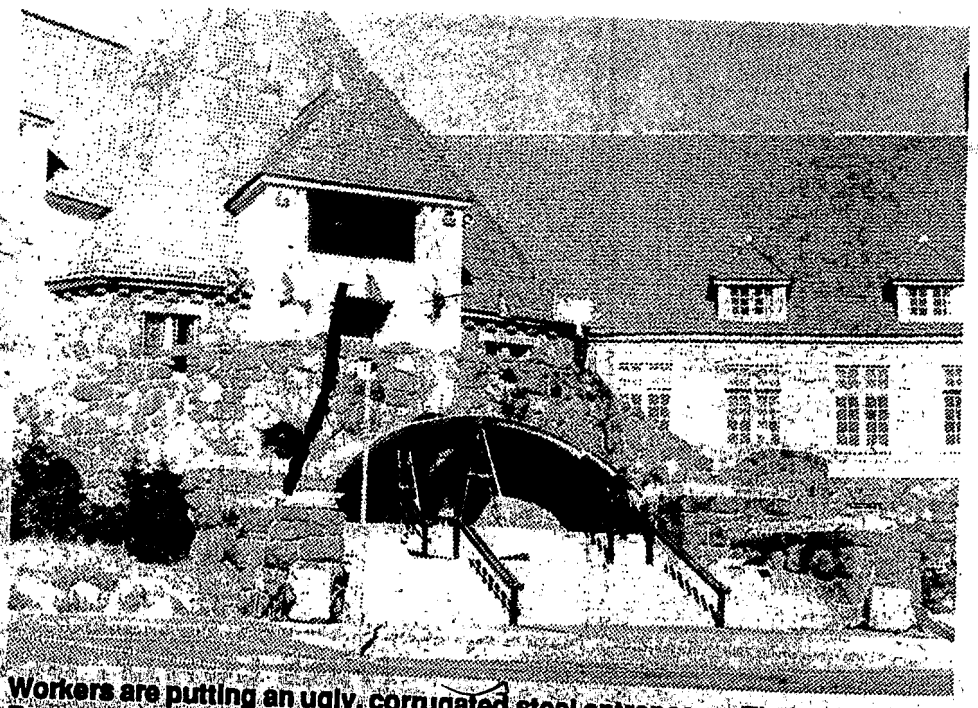
Next we'll take you to Crater Lake and back to the Oregon Coast.

Multnomah Falls, second highest waterfall in the U.S. Hiking trails go to the top.

Mt. Hood looks more sand covered than snow covered this time of year. Skiing stopped on Labor Day, will start Nov. 1, probably.



Clatsop camp, a replica of Lewis and Clark's camp for 106 days.



Workers are putting an ugly, corrugated steel entrance on Timberline Lodge. Because they get 15-ft of snow, the state requires the entrance for safety. It'll come down in May, skiing should start Nov. 1.

Pet of the Week

LET CAMILLE into your life. [Photo by Kami Buchholz]

She's quite a lady

Camille is a petite, approximately 2-year-old cat who is quiet, tidy, housebroken, and has a sweet disposition to match her ladylike manners.

The short-haired, orange tiger cat arrived at the shelter as a stray, but immediately established herself as an adorable little lady and a good potential pet.

Camille likes other animals, and she's already been wormed and had all her shots.

Camille can be adopted at the Michigan Humane Society, 3600 Auburn Rd., Auburn Heights, 852-7420. Hours at the non-profit shelter are 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

The adoption fee for Camille is $40, which includes her spaying.

Kids can improve their study skills

Junior high school students can find help studying and taking tests in a workshop at 6-8 p.m., Wednesday, Nov. 4, at Sashabaw Junior High School.

Parents are requested to attend at no cost. The fee per child is $13.

The registration deadline is Friday, Oct. 30, at the Clarkston Learning Center, 5275 Maybee Rd., Independence Township, or call 674-3141.

The areas of concentration are to include: Dealing with nervousness, reviewing, taking notes from lecture or text, dealing with low grades, writing a non-copied report, concentrating, getting organized, remembering things, studying for tests, answering true/false and multiple choice questions, and writing an essay question.

Friend to Friend

He just brushes her off

Dear Friend to Friend:

I don't have any problems. I would just like to congratulate the Tigers. I believe that the Tigers, especially Trammell, Alexander, Morris and Evans, were the winning force in Toronto. And who could forget Herndon's division-winning homer?

Tigers Fan

Dear Tigers Fan:

Thanks for writing. We share your excitement.

Dear Friend to Friend:

My best friend Kevin has been going out with a girl for nine months. He treated her really well for about the first month of their relationship, but since that time they've been going downhill.

She is really good to him and she's really in love with him, but he just brushes her off.

Although he practically ignores her, he is very jealous and she puts up with it. I've told her to break up with him, and she has a couple of times, but they always end up back together.

Not only does he trash on his girlfriend, but he also trashes on his good friends.

What can I do to help him see what he is doing and change his attitudes?

Disappointed and FURIOUS

Dear Disappointed:

We see three problems in your letter. Yours is the first that we think you should deal with.

You have to be feeling resentment and anger right now. What is happening is that you are having to watch two of your friends hurt each other a great deal. This wouldn't be easy for anyone to take.

You are already heading in the right direction by trying to help and support them.

You might want to try to talk to them both at the same time, if you haven't already, and tell them how you feel. By doing this, you can give them both the same message.

However, when you do this, talk to them with what we call "I" messages. (Say things like "I feel this way when ...") Avoid criticizing his behavior or hers. The purpose of this would be to make them understand how you feel without offending them or placing any blame.

You have control from your end of these relationships, and by bringing this problem up to them, you run the risk of losing a friendship or a closeness.

But if you don't bring it up to them, you run the risk of having to keep your feelings to yourself, which will most likely break up your relationship anyway.

The other two problems, those of Kevin and his girlfriend, are not within your control. You cannot change the behavior of others. Remember that you are not responsible for them nor for their relational problems.

Dear Friend to Friend:

My girlfriend and I have been dating for a year and neither of us have been involved in using drugs including alcohol. But recently I have discovered that she has started drinking alcohol.

I don't know to what extent this is, but to me any usage is too much.

We are going to a party next weekend and I am afraid of the confrontation that might occur. I really care about this girl and I don't want to tell her how to run her life, but what can I do?

Should I confront her before the party or just stop worrying so much and let things happen naturally?

Lecture and workshop seek to end rivalry

For a lecture and a workshop from the authors of "Siblings Without Rivalry," free bus transportation is available from Clarkston High School to the Birmingham and Bloomfield Hills locations.

Sponsored by Oakland County Youth Assistance, which includes the Clarkston Area Youth Assistance Committee (CAYAC), the programs are to explore the following questions:

How do we intervene helpfully when kids fight? How do we handle sibling comparison? How do we manage our own unresolved sibling conflicts and minimize their effects on our children? How do we encourage our children to develop more positive family roles and lessen stereotyping? How do we guide our children in managing their angry feelings towards their siblings?

The authors, Adele Faber and Elaine Mazlish, are to appear from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., Wednesday, Oct. 28, at the Seaholm High School Auditorium, 2436 West Lincoln (at Cranbrook), Birmingham. Admission is $5. Questions and answers will follow.

The authors are to host a breakfast and workshop at 9 a.m. to noon, Thursday, Oct. 29, at the Birmingham Unitarian Church, 651 N. Woodward (at Lone Pine), Bloomfield Hills. Admission is $10. The program is to focus on practical applications of the book and is to include attention to teachers, counselors and parent educators.

To pre-register, call the CAYAC at 625-9007.

My First Article (Sort Of)

Suzanne Baumann

Recognize the name of this columnist? Don't be upset if you draw a blank. I'm new here.

Actually, I'm working with a school mentorship program which got me behind this little red desk at the News office downtown about a half hour ago. They certainly put me right to work!

Allow me to introduce myself. My name's Suzanne Baumann and I'm a ninth-grader at Sashabaw Junior High.

Ever since last year, my social studies teacher has been asking my classmates and me what our goals are career-wise. I figure I might be a writer of some sort.

Now I can say I'm a "columnist who doesn't get paid" --a step up from a "kid who wants to get her name in the paper" like I was not very long before this.

I've been fortunate enough to have a few other writings of mine appear in The Clarkston News.

If you have a very sharp memory, perhaps you know me from the profound statement "Mothers are nice women who have children" sometime around Mother's Day 1981.

You see, the second grade class at my school was asked to tell in their own words what mothers were to them. I was lucky enough to be in the second grade at the time.

I turned up again in the winter of '84 with a long short story about a rabbit who had a party on Christmas Eve even though her parents never celebrated the holiday.

Luckily, this rabbit had a priest for an uncle who talked it over with her parents and "They lived happily ever after."

My most recent article, "The Great White Eyesore," appeared last week.

I was assigned to write a feature article for my media class, and my teacher submitted it to the newspaper.

If you happened to read it, I want you to know I'm not mixed up about the dates. (The article stated, "It must be September.") The explanation is easy, I wrote it in September.

So I end my first official column. If you didn't like it, don't worry ... sooner or later I'll write something real good.

Hopefully that little statement will keep you hanging on until the next time.

Charter Township of Independence Notice of Public Hearing On Increasing Property Taxes

The Township Board of the Charter Township of Independence will hold a public hearing on a proposed increase of .1321 mills in the operating tax millage rate to be levied in 1988.

The hearing will be held Tuesday, November 3, 1987, at 7:30 p.m. at the Independence Township Hall Annex, 90 North Main, Clarkston, Michigan.

If adopted, the proposed additional millage will increase operating revenues from ad valorem property taxes 1.8% over such revenues generated by levies permitted without holding a hearing.

If approved, the 1987 millage rates would result in the following tax levies:

Market Value Of Property	1986 Tax Levy (7.76 Mills)	1987 Tax Levy (Max. Rate W/Out Hearing-7.3129)	1987 Tax Levy (Max Rate With A Hearing-7.4450)
$ 50,000	$ 194.00	$ 182.82	$ 186.13
75,000	291.00	274.23	279.19

What's Cooking?

Pat Young

Tender and tasty

Put smiles on the faces of your little ghosts and goblins by giving them delicous pecan sandies for Halloween.

Of course, the adult Halloween treat lovers in your house will find these tender cookies irresistible, too.

PECAN SANDIES

1 cup butter or margarine
1 cup solid vegetable shortening
1 3/4 cups sugar
3 cups flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
3/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 to 1 cup finely chopped pecans

Cream together butter or margarine, shortening and sugar; beat until sugar is dissolved and mixture is fluffy.

Stir together flour, baking powder, baking soda and salt. Stir into butter-sugar mixture. Stir in pecans.

Roll dough into balls about one inch in diameter. Place on ungreased cookie sheet and flatten with glass dipped in flour.

Bake in 350 degree oven 15 to 20 minutes or until slightly golden. Makes about six dozen cookies.

Teens can volunteer

An introductory meeting for teen volunteers at Wheelock Memorial Hosptial is planned at 7 p.m. on Wednesday, Oct. 28.

Formerly called Candy Stripers, the teens are to meet in the hospital cafeteria at 7280 State Rd., Goodrich, MI. Parents may also attend.

Requirements include: 1. Desire to work with all age groups in a hospital setting; 2. Must be at least 15 years old; 3. Must have transportation to and from the hospital; 4. Written parental permission.

For more information, call Mrs. Dingman at the hospital between 3 and 11 p.m. at 636-2221, extension 231 or 251.

Free talk on urology

The latest on medical advances in treating kidney stones, impotence and prostrate cancer will be covered in a free talk by David Harold, M.D.

The presentation is planned from 7:30 to 9 p.m. on Wednesday, Oct. 28, in Dr. James O'Neill's office, 5885 M-15, Independence Township. It will include slides and a question-and-answer session.

Registration is not required. For more information, call 625-CARE.

OFFICIAL NOTICE

Village of Clarkston
Planning Commission

The regular monthly meeting of the Clarkston Village Planning Commission was called to order by Chairman MacArthur at 7:33 p.m., Monday, October 5, 1987.

Roll: Present: Galbraith, Hunter, Mauti, Johnston, MacArthur, Spelbring and Stuetzer.

Absent: Borngesser, excused.

This meeting was held jointly with the Village Council.

Roll: Present: Basinger, Roeser, Catallo, Schultz, Symons, and Millard.

Absent: Haven.

The minutes of the September 14, 1987 meeting were read. The addition of Spelbring's name to those present at September meeting was noted. The minutes stand as read.

The agenda was reviewed and accepted.

The Public Hearing for proposed condominium development on White Lake Road was opened at 7:38 p.m.

Mr. Rudy Lazono presented the plans of the Vintage Construction Corp. for the approximate five (5) acres of property within the Village and the one (1) acre of property in the Township. This area is located on White Lake Rd. next to the Township Beach area. Also present for the presentation were Ron Zelka and Dan Rush, the principal owners of the Vintage Construction Corp.

The property in question is presently zoned Residential (2) and would need to have Zoning changed to multiple for condominium development.

Vintage Construction proposes to construct Twenty-four (24) units. There would be a combination of townhouses with 2 and 3 bedrooms, and ranches with 2 bedrooms. Units would be approximately 1600 sq. feet. Costs to be $200,000 to $250,000.

Mr. Lazono told the audience there would be individual wells and that there is sewer connection available to the property. He said he understood that boat traffic was of concern to residents of Deer Lake and said there would be no boat launching or docking allowed for the project. There is 50 feet frontage on Deer Lake with this parcel. Condominium residents will have access to beach on this frontage.

Mr. Charles Myers of 7230 Sagamore Drive spoke of his concern of control of boat traffic on Deer Lake. He stated there is a problem at present and addition of condominium residents would contribute to more traffic.

Mr. Lazono said it would be possible for the Condominium Association to limit and/or set controls for this situation. Also there was a possibility of Association furnishing insurance for Deer Lake property owners Association. The insurance costs would be incorporated into monthly charges for condominium residents. He also said the development would possibly give the Deer Lake property Association the property on the Lake.

Mr. Allen also spoke of his concern about the additional lake traffic and his concern for liability on the part of the Deer Lake property owners if they would assume the lake front property in this parcel. Mr. Lazono said the property could also pass to the Clarkston Land Conservancy. He stated he was willing to work on this matter in any way to make development acceptable to Deer Lake residents.

Barb Zabel spoke regarding the traffic that would be generated from the development onto White Lake Rd.

Sharon Hurlbert spoke as to effects of development on present and future values of homes on the lake.

Robert Howse stated that he does not feel condominium development adds anything to Village or Community in any way. He feels it not acceptable in any way.

Betty Duris questioned Mr. Lazono as to what will happen to a stone building presently on property as this is somewhat of a Deer Lake landmark. Mr. Lazono said they would attempt to preserve the building.

Another Deer Lake resident questioned Mr. Lazono about the present road easement on the property to the five houses behind the property. Mr. Lazono said there were no easements recorded . . . the easement is questionable.

MacArthur asked Mr. Lazono who has current ownership of parcel. Mr. Gary Walsh is the owner and Vintage Construction has a current option.

Mr. Basinger questioned whether the request for re-zoning showed need or hardship. There appears no need or hardship can be demonstrated by current proposal.

The Public Hearing was closed at 8:43 p.m.

MacArthur asked for motion by Planning Commission.

Johnston made a motion that no change of zoning for this parcel of property be made at this time and that the parcel remain R-2.

Mauti seconded the motion. Motion passed with five yeas and one nay.

Recommendation was passed verbally to Village Council.

Catallo asked for Village Council vote upon Planning Commission's recommendation.

Basinger made motion to deny rezoning as no reasons were demonstrated for a change of zoning. Schultz seconded the motion. Motion passed with 6 yeas.

Planning Commission continued with items under New Business.

Mr. Robert Essick, Attorney, representing Emmanuel Mayo, presented plans for Plumb House property if the zoning could be changed from residential to commercial. A lengthy discussion was held regarding the current and valid ownership of the property. It was suggested to Mr. Essick that when it is determined who owns the property that he return with his proposal.

At the November 3, 1986 Planning Commission meeting a recommendation that this property remain B-1 was made to Village Council. The Council changed B-1 to R-1 at their December meeting. Basinger stated reasons for their decision on this change.

Mr. Bruce Harleton, along with David Katz, Architect, presented his site plan for construction of a Veterinary Clinic on Lot 3, (08-20-252-003), located at the end of Village property on M-15.

Spelbring made a motion that the Planning Commission make a recommendation to the Village Council that a joint meeting and Public Hearing be held as soon as possible for a proposed change of zoning on this lot. Johnston seconded the motion. Motion passed.

Basinger reviewed material regarding word changes in Zoning Ordinance under Article V, R-1 and R-2. One family Residential Districts.

It is felt by the Village Council that it may have been an oversight in drafting the original zoning ordinance and that it was intended that this section be arranged as now proposed.

ARTICLE V - R-1 AND R-2 - ONE FAMILY RESIDENTIAL DISTRICTS

SECTION 5.00 - Intent: The R-1 and R-2 One-Family Residential Districts are intended to provide an environment suitable for families who typically will have children. To achieve this goal, uses are basically limited to low-density one-family dwelling units, together with certain residentially-related facilities which will help provide a satisfactory neighborhood environment. Commercial and other uses which tend to be incompatible with this intent are prohibited.

SECTION 5.01 - Principal Uses Permitted: The following uses shall be permitted, subject to any limitations described herein:

1. One-family detached dwellings.

SECTION 5.02 - Principal Uses Permitted Subject to Special Conditions: The following uses shall be permitted, subject to the specific conditions hereinafter imposed for each use and subject further to permission of the Zoning Board of Appeals in accord with the provisions of Section 13.02-2 of this Ordinance following review and recommendation by the Village Planning Commission.

1. Two and Three Family Residential housing units may be subject to the following:

a. The minimum lot area, dwelling unit size, lot coverage, and yard setbacks shall be maintained for each dwelling unit within the structures as required by the single family residential zoning district which applies to the land in question.

b. Off-street parking shall meet the minimum requirements for dwellings permitted in the RM-Multiple Family Residential District.

2. Publicly owned and operated libraries, museums, parks, parkways and recreational facilities.

3. Churches, subject to the following:

a. Buildings of greater than the maximum height allowed in this district may be permitted provided front, side, and rear yards are increased above the minimum required yards by one (1) foot for each foot of building height that exceeds the maximum height allowed.

4. Signs, as provided in Section 10.07.

5. Utility and public service facilities and uses needed to serve the immediate vicinity, including transformer stations and switchboards but excluding storage yards.

Public, parochial and other private elementary, intermediate and/or high schools offering courses in general education, subject to the following conditions:

a. No building shall be closer than fifty (50) feet to any property line when said property line abuts or is adjacent to land zoned for residential purposes.

Stuetzer made a motion that suggested revisions presented by Basinger be made and Planning Commission recommend to the Village Council this action be taken. Spelbring seconded the motion. Motion passed.

MacArthur postponed items on Agenda under Old Business to next meeting.

Galbraith made a motion to adjourn meeting at 10:05 p.m. Stuetzer seconded the motion. The next regular meeting of the Planning Commission will be held on Monday, November 2, 1987.

Respectfully Submitted,
Geraldine Hunter
Secretary

Brenda on Beauty

Your way

Brenda Ward

Fall is here with all its majestic colors, crisp fragrant breezes and although the daylight is a little less than summer, fall sunshine is quite dazzling.

Fashion designers and cosmetic colorists seem as though they have scooped these color schemes right from nature. Fall is my absolute favorite season, my only regret begin that it doesn't last long enough. I find the mix of color, texture and scents absolutely intoxicating.

Color in fashion as well as makeup is alive, warm, flowing and rich. Fashion is making a return to the classics tailoring detail and flair are key factors in all styles of clothing from casual to evening.

For once in America's fashion history we have short skirts and long skirts both very much in style at the same time; fitted body-conscious knits as well as loose and sweeping wools in style at the same time.

It's a fashion phenomenon, the result of all those designers and dictators of style realizing that we are all so individual.

This fall, celebrate your own personal sense of style. This is the time you can really get away with anything. Indulge in rich fashion statement colors like claret red, ink blue, rich olives and teal greens.

Grays from pale chalk to deep charcoal are a big hit. Black is so very in from denim to stain and velveteen. Navy blue with lots of Channel era gold accents is a classic presence. Tweeds to plaids, dots to paisleys and don't overlook those fun accents in animal prints.

Cheetah dots to tiger stripes, use these accents sparingly in gold, bronze, yellows and black. Make an entrance, make a statement, revel in your own sense of style and have fun with it.

Makeup and hair news are retrospective of the 40s. Chic, sophisticated glamour almost innocent, surprisingly sexy. This past spring we got a break with soft casual prettiness.

This fall in your hair and makeup pay attention to detail. Eyes are definite and emphatic. I like to use the word smoldering to describe the look.

Make your eyes and mouth both say "wow" in makeup as in fashion; we see great eyes and mouths in vogue at the same time, even with casual looks of fashion.

Earthy tones of russet, bronzes, browns and taupes are the color front-runners for eyes with colored mascaras in wines and teals are being used for fun, surprising bursts of color.

Cheeks are buffed down to a minimum of color, once again just enough to give your face contour only.

Lips are running away with strong colors, although a frosty sheer soft-colored mouth is very in for evening looks.

Hair is a little more controlled with styles and cuts that offer great versatility. Once again, short and long are both very in at the same time.

Hair stylists, makeup artists and even your manicurists are valuable assets in helping you make the most of your best this season. It is the season of hair shows and beauty festivals.

The creative force of beauty designers are fresh with new ideas and techniques and we have seen the visions of fashion and style from all over the world right here in Oakland County.

Remember beauty is as individual as the leaves that fall from the trees. Yours is quite unique. Celebrate fall and explore all of your possibilities.

PRAYER TO THE HOLY Spirit. Holy spirit. You make me see everything and show me the way to reach my ideals. You give me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrongs that are done to me and you are in all instances of my life with me. I, in this short dialogue, want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you no matter how great the material desire may be. I want to be with you, and my loved ones, in your perpetual glory. Amen. Persons must pray this prayer 3 consecutive days without asking for your wish. After the 3rd day your wish will be granted, no matter how difficult it may be. Then, promise to publish this dialogue as soon as your favor has been granted. Thanks St. Jude for favors received. Meet Mark Thompson Used Car Manager at Wally Edgar's Used Car Connection

Quality selection and fair, honest prices - that's what sells used cars. To make room for trade-in's on '88's Wally said "Slice the prices and sell them out before the end of the month." I told Wally I'll do whatever it takes. And I will. If you're in the market for a quality used car, be sure to check out the Used Car Connection at Wally Edgar Chevy-Buick. "Where the Deals are for Real!"

Teachers gain substance abuse savvy

While students have the day off on Monday, Oct. 26, Clarkston High School teachers will meet for a Substance Abuse Awareness Conference.

The in-service for teachers will meet from 7 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. and cover such topics as chemical dependency, signs of drug abuse and children of alcoholics.

Substance abuse awareness and active support of wellness are two goals of the conference, said Katie MacKay, the coordinator of SEARCH at the high school. SEARCH is an acronym for Support Education Awareness Resources for Chemically-free Health.

"More teachers have taken an interest and realize the importance of it and how it impacts upon their teaching styles in the classroom," said MacKay.

The teacher conference is an outgrowth of a four-day workshop on substance abuse sponsored by the school district and Clarkston Area Youth Assistance last year.

About 100 community members including 16 CHS teachers and administrators attended the four-day workshop, which will offered again, MacKay said.

The teacher in-service is part of a three-year plan which includes building self-esteem in students, staff wellness programs, adding courses on substance abuse to the curriculum and working toward prevention of substance abuse.

Craft show openings

An annual event staged by the Andersonville Elementary School P.T.O. is their Christmas Craft Show.

This year's show will be Dec. 5 and 6 from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in Andersonville Elementary, 10350 Andersonville Rd.

More than 50 tables of crafters and artists will display everything from baskets and quilts to Christmas decorations, toys and other crafts.

Crafters may obtain applications for a table at the show by calling 625-0509 or 625-8672. The show is not limited to handmade items, according to organizers. They will consider new items and other arts and crafts.

No black and white answers

Me

Dear Me:

These are tough questions that at some time we are all faced with. This is a gray area with no black and white answers.

We all agree that this issue sounds important enough to you that you should talk about this with your girlfriend. However, we want to caution you to be prepared for possible outcomes.

Confrontations can go one of two ways, working out and becoming closer or becoming more distant and eventually breaking up.

Before you talk to her, think about how much you are willing to accept or put up with about her drinking.

Our group realizes that it is unrealistic to expect that no one else will use, but you have to stand up for what you believe.

We encourage you not to tell others how to run their lives and are glad you feel this way about her.

When you put yourself as the number one priority and feel secure with your own beliefs, it gives permission to others to follow.

If this does make you feel uncomfortable to an extreme and it becomes a problem, don't feel selfish to want to break this off. It is a tough problem, with no easy answers. We wish you luck.

Remember to do what you feel is right. Please let us know what happens.

LETTERS TO FRIEND TO FRIEND are answered by a panel of Clarkston High School students working under the sponsorship of Aware, a community group devoted to action and education against chemical dependency.
