Join in parade and trick-or-treating

With crisp nights and turning leaves comes Halloween, the fall holiday people share with great pumpkins, ghoulish figures, and other un-earthly spirits.

It's an especially popular holiday with children who don costumes and, once a year, are allowed to go door-to-door collecting treats.

Trick-or-treat hours are from 6 to 7 p.m. on Oct. 31 in Independence Township and the Village of Clarkston. Hours are 5:30 to 7 p.m. on Oct. 31 in Springfield Township.

To ensure that the treats are safe, the Oakland County Sheriff's Department Boy Scout Explorer Post will screen candy at McDonald's Restaurants on Sashabaw Road and Dixie Highway in Independence Township. They will use a metal detector and give visual inspection to all Halloween treats brought in.

Earlier in the day on Halloween, children and adults who don costumes can participate in a Halloween parade. Scheduled for 1 p.m. on Oct. 31, the parade will take place in Depot Park, according to organizer Gini Schultz.

Those in Halloween costumes will parade in Depot Park and enjoy snack treats and cider provided by the Clarkston Farm and Garden Club. The park is on Depot Road in downtown Clarkston.

Tax fails

BY KATHY GREENFIELD
Clarkston News Editor

In a vote that left Clarkston Community Schools Superintendent Milford Mason "quite discouraged," the 4.25 mill tax request on the Oct. 27 special school election ballot was defeated by 239 votes.

Of the 4,467 district voters who cast ballots, 2,353 voted "no" and 2,114 voted "yes."

The results leave the Clarkston district in 27th place out of Oakland County's 28 school districts in voter approved millage for operational purposes.

"I guess I'm just not sure how people expect that we're going to be able to present a decent educational program in this area at a much lower level of taxation than that of like school districts," said Mason.

"But that having been said, the school district certainly has to respect the wishes of its voters," he added. "We'll operate the best we can with the resources we have."

While voter turnout was quite high, about 1,000 more than in the June school election, Mason said he had expected more voters. In 1981, over 5,000 citizens cast ballots when a 3 mill tax increase was approved.

The board of education met Tuesday night in order to approve rehiring teachers and support staff and reinstating programs for the district's 5,748 pupils--if the millage passed.

Overcrowded classrooms, outdated and too few textbooks plus reduced programs in music, physical education and foreign languages were among the reasons voters were asked to approve the tax hike.

If approved, the millage would have increased property taxes by $4.25 for each $1,000 of assessed property valuation. The district's $19 million budget would have increased by $1.8 million.

After the results were read, precinct by precinct, to the crowd of about 70 people in attendance, board President Janet Thomas said, "It was a disappointing outcome after all the hard work. I don't think too much more can be said at this time."

Time was also spent thanking those who worked on the election campaign.

"I would venture that in this room, everyone did something starting from the parade on Labor Day and ending at 7:30 tonight ... and yet it went down. It didn't go down because of lack of effort," said William Neff, administrator in charge of the election.

The board is expected to seek voter approval for a tax increase again, but it is impossible for additional funding to be approved for the 1987-88 school year.

Township seeks opinions on Oakhill mining

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Opinions and comments from residents are wanted by the Independence Township Board regarding additional gravel mining on Oakhill Road, east of Dartmouth.

A public hearing is scheduled at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 17, at the township hall annex, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

James Thornley, of Burroughs Materials Corp. which mines the west side of the property, told the township board Oct. 20 that his company would like to remove gravel from an unused area on the south side of Oakhill Road, east of Dartmouth.

To relieve the burden on the roads from the heavy equipment, Burroughs would pave a portion of Oakhill Road, said Thornley.

Township board members favored the project but wanted comment from the surrounding residents before they made a decision.

"The present owners ... have done a very nice job of handling a gravel pit, which can be very difficult to handle," said Trustee William Vandermark. "They've shown that it can be done, and it can be done right."

Vandermark was also glad the company would pay for the paving of Oakhill Road. "That's a real plus for the area," he said.

Burroughs is nearly finished mining on the west side of Dartmouth, said Thornley. The company has begun reclaiming the land and would like to begin mining on the other property.

Trucks would not be used on the new property because the material is to be conveyed through a tunnel beneath Dartmouth to the processing plant on the west side of Dartmouth, said Thornley.

If the economic situation remains the same, the entire project should be finished in seven years, he said.

About three lakes would be formed as a result of the mining on the 60-acre parcel, and the zoning and usage would return to suburban farm residential after the mining was finished.

Oakhill Road would be paved next year from Sashabaw Road to Dartmouth Road, he said.

To allow the additional mining, the board would have to amend for the fourth time a 1960 consent judgment that allows gravel extraction from the property, said Gerald Fisher, township attorney.

Most terms of the consent judgment would not change, including the 60-acre parcel of land to be given to the Independence Land Conservancy, Fisher said.

Condo plan OK for Springfield

During a special meeting of the Springfield Township Board on Oct. 22, developers of Software Lake Condominiums received approval to complete phase one of their project.

The developers, John Attia and George Sayed, had earlier received permission from the board to begin the first building of phase one. They may now continue with the three remaining buildings in phase one of the project.

The site plan was approved by the board in a 5-0 vote with the stipulation that minor elements and conditions the township engineer has requested be corrected and accepted by Township Supervisor Collin Walls.

The three-phase condominium project is located to the rear of Bavaria on the Waters off Dixie Highway.

When completed, it will include 98 condominiums with access through the Bavaria project.

Loss of on-street parking debated

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Alternatives to losing on-street parking on Main Street were discussed at the village council meeting Oct. 26.

Dr. Gary Ushman voiced his displeasure with the Michigan Department of Transportation's (MDOT) decision to eliminate the last four spaces on the west side of Main Street just north of Waldon when a stoplight is installed next spring.

"That's two-thirds of a block that will have no parking," said Ushman, who practices dentistry in a building on Main Street. "That's overkill."

MDOT recently decided that when the stoplight at Waldon and Main Street is installed, an extra lane will be needed for traffic heading south on Main.

Village council members also were opposed to losing more on-street parking if it could be avoided.

Trustee Douglas Roeser said he has always been against the plan and he always will be.

"(MDOT) has taken parking away from us before and I'm afraid they will do it again," he said.

Moving the center line to the east side of Main to accommodate an extra lane would allow two lanes heading south and on-street parking, Roeser said.

Other village council members agreed with Roeser.

"I think that moving the center line is a good idea," said Trustee Eric Haven.

Trustee Frank Millard said moving the center lane might cause havoc with drivers who are unfamiliar with the area, increasing the possibility of head-on collisions.

President Sharron Catallo sympathized with Ushman over the lost parking, but said that there was little she could do.

Originally, MDOT officials had wanted to remove five parking spots, but Catallo was able to reduce that number to four.

She said she will bring up the alternatives discussed Oct. 26 when she meets with MDOT officials in the future.

"This is a problem for the whole community," said Catallo.

Nothing will be started until the spring, she said, so there will be plenty of time to discuss the issue and strike a bargain suitable to all.

participated in the Independence Township Library's fourth annual Pumpkin Carving Jamboree on Saturday morning.

Rezoning sought on Dixie parcel

A 1.4-acre pocket of single family residential zoning on White Lake Road was recommended for rezoning to commercial by the Independence Township Planning Commission.

The commission voted unanimously Oct. 22 to recommend rezoning to the township board, which has the final say on zoning changes.

The property is owned by Thomas Boothby, who also owns the adjacent property and business, Boothby's Old Farm Shop, on the corner of Dixie Highway and White Lake Road.

The rezoning would allow both of Boothby's parcels (3.3 acres total) to be developed as one commercial site, said Richard Carlisle, township planning consultant.

The parcel is surrounded by commercial zoning, and the rezoning would make it comply in general with the master plan, which calls for office zoning, said Carlisle.

"It's not desirable as single family residential," he said. "It's more desirable to create larger commercial sites that can be adequately planned."

Commission member Jo Fussman voiced her agreement.

"It would make for a more cohesive development plan," she said. "Frankly I don't see why anyone would want to build a home in the area, smashed between two commercial sites."

The developers, Clarkson Heritage Group, plan to save the gift shop house, which will be used on the property or moved, said Ken Rogers after the meeting.

Although he didn't know what type of business the property would hold, Rogers said developers would also try to save the wooded area.

The Clarkson Heritage Group consists of Rogers, Ric Huttenlocher, Jim Huttenlocher, Ken Winship and Tom Snyder.

Maybee to grow

An extension of Maybee Road west across Dixie Highway is planned in Independence Township.

On Oct. 20, the township board voted 6-0 to proceed with the plan.

A public hearing is necessary to establish the special assessment district, said township attorney Gerald Fisher.

After the district is formed, the township must make good faith offers to purchase the property for the road construction, he said.

If the property owners don't accept, the board may have to consider condemning, or legally taking, the property, he said.

"I'd like to get it done to do it with the highway project," said Supervisor Frank Ronk.

Planners approve 21 Pine Knob condo sites

The final OK was given for 21 "building envelopes" secluded in the hilly and wooded terrain in the Pine Knob complex off Waldon Road, Independence Township.

With little discussion Oct. 22, the planning commission unanimously approved the final site plan for Pine Knob Manor Homes off Waldon Road, north of I-75.

To be developed in a "country French" architectural style to match existing condominiums, the 9.6 acres are zoned for single family detached condominiums.

Developer Alex Bruni said he planned to save as many existing trees as possible. The residents of each home would be landscaping their own individual "envelopes" according to township requirements.

Commission members liked the project.

"I think it should be a nice development," said Chairperson Joseph Figa. "It looks like you've gone out of your way to save everything you can."

One member of the audience also supported the condominiums.

"We're behind them all the way," said Dr. Joseph Arena of Bristol Park Drive. "It looks good. We trust them."

In the Pine Knob Manor Homes condominium project, the property only is owned by the condominium association. The homeowners build, own and sell their homes as in any single family residential area.

Homeowners can design any floor plan to almost any size, although the envelopes are designed for a 70-square-foot area. If larger homes are in demand, a few lots will be eliminated so others can be enlarged. The density may decrease but won't increase, said Bruni.

Township board debates possible CTAN losses

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Independence Township could be out $40,000 if township officials decide to settle with the Federal Internal Revenue Service (IRS) about consolidated tax anticipation notes (CTAN).

Officials expressed mixed views in accepting the the CTAN settlement but took no action at the Oct. 20 meeting.

"I feel it would be in our best interest to participate with the settlement," said Treasurer John Lutz, but the board should wait to take action until the state treasurer sends an official resolution.

Clerk Richard Holman also suggested settlement.

"If we want to borrow from U.S. banks, the state of Michigan shouldn't have a cloud," he said. "Having the IRS come at us in a public way is a dark cloud."

Trustee Daniel Travis voiced disapproval.

"How can that be a cloud against us?" he asked. "They changed the rules after the game had been played. ... If we don't fight them, we're the good guys. If we do, we're the bad guys. It doesn't make sense."

Trustee William Vandermark recommended settlement.

"I don't like the way it's turned out, but we don't have a choice, fellas," he said.

Sharon Taylor, a Garden Court resident, suggested the township fight the CTAN settlement and urged township Supervisor Frank Ronk to fight the settlement.

"If it was illegal to begin with, then the IRS has no right to collect on illegal money," she said. "The people in this township elected Mr. Ronk as a fireman. That's a symbol of something—that a fireman, unarmed, can see us through anything."

The officials took no action and planned to wait for a resolution from the state.

In a memo to the board and in an oral presentation, Lutz explained the settlement before the officials talked about it.

Without making an official ruling, the IRS stated recently that CTANs are illegal, even though it ruled 10 years ago that CTANs were permissible.

In September, the IRS demanded, as a penalty, a percentage of the municipalities' interest earnings on the notes—about $40,000 for Independence Township.

The township should still collect about $42,000 of the estimated $82,000 interest earned.

At its Sept. 15 meeting, the township board did not accept the settlement because board members wanted to see what the other municipalities were going to do.

Lutz said the following municipalities planned to settle with the IRS: Waterford Township, Orion Township, White Lake Township, Commerce Township, Southfield Township, Kalamazoo Township, Delhi Township, Southfield and Birmingham.

"There are still many positives that we were able to accomplish by using the CTAN program," he said in his memo. "We were able to help the school system with a cash flow deficit, resolve for 1986 who is entitled to tax investments earnings and we saved money in auditing tax investments."

Sunheiser and ask for a written contract detailing what will be done and for how much.

The village council voted 7-0 to approve the gazebo plan.

The proposed plan calls for the gazebo to be built with cedar wood and shingles. Everything currently in place will be torn down, only the masonry work will be left.

Money to build the gazebo isn't an issue right now and the village council doesn't expect any problems in the future.

"People are waiting to see if it will become a reality before they donate," said Millard, adding that the village already has received many donations and is only a few thousand dollars short of the estimate.

Depot Park gazebo to be refurbished

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A refurbished gazebo for Depot Park could be completed by Christmas, said Trustee Frank Millard at the Oct. 26 village council meeting.

The village almost has enough funds to add a roof and extend the base of the current gazebo, and the council plans to go ahead and sign a contract.

Millard, Trustee James Schultz, John Stuetzer and Susan Basinger are members of a special committee created to decide what design would look best in the park.

"Construction of the old gazebo was decided upon by the committee instead of purchasing a pre-fabricated one," said Millard.

Millard said the gazebo in a Rochester park featured in The Oakland Press caught his eye and he contacted officials there to find out who did the work.

Sunheiser Building Co. built the Rochester gazebo and it will do the work on Clarkston's, Millard said. The company specializes in constructing decks and gazebos.

A firm bid of $24,600 was given by the Sunheiser company to add the roof and expand the base. The village council instructed Millard to contact

Haunted handle?

Kathy Greenfield

We were in the bathroom, he in the shower and I at the sink, discussing the toilet handle. These kinds of delightful things just happen when you've been married forever.

I had just flushed the toilet and he said, "Make sure the handle doesn't stick. I've found it stuck every time you've used it."

I realized that a stuck toilet handle takes on major importance when you're in the shower, especially in our house, because any secondary use of the water means the shower will trickle--in this case with hot water only.

All that understanding aside, this is what I said, I admit it, a bit sarcastically, "Don't worry. It won't stick because I'm standing right here."

"Are you suggesting the toilet has taken on a life of its own?" he gasped.

"Of course," said I. "It would explain everything."

Case No. 1: On many more than one occasion, after the lights are out, dog and cat settled, and the house quiet enough to hear water running ever-so-quietly, I've had to get out of my warm bed to jiggle the toilet handle.

Case No. 2: Late one night, the toilet started humming. I don't think it was running, but something was vibrating under the tank. It was shortly after some husband repair work. Jiggling the handle worked.

Then there are all those times when I've been accused of not making sure the handle was unstuck.

Frankly, I think it's a plot of some kind. Every time the toilet hears my husband thumping up the stairs, it starts to run, knowing his blood pressure will rise.

That, or the toilet loves the sound of his voice shouting. "Who left the toilet running?"

The market movement

A year ago the Detroit Free Press asked people to guess when the stock market Dow Jones averages would hit 2,000. It was less than 1,800 at the time. We guessed 1992.

It went to 2,700.

This should prove our knowledge of the stock exchange, futures and bond market. Knowing our shortcomings keeps our savings in banks. Which, based on the past five days, isn't bad.

Experts, including President Reagan, tell us there is no logical reason for the gyrations on Wall Street. "The indices are good," the president said.

Jay Smith, of JLS Financial, says, "The fundamentals that made it (the stocks) go up are still in place."

So why did the market drop 100 points Friday and 508 Monday. Some blame the Japanese for their decision to stop buying American stocks. (Their market went down first.)

We listened to a panel of experts Monday night: One said (often) this is the beginning of a great depression. Another said Reagan has put dummies in as secretary of treasury and to head the Federal Reserve.

The third said he's been telling people to sell utilities for years and been predicting the market fall for six weeks.

Gloom and doom, but all said, "Don't sell now!"

Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, things looked better. Brunswick, owner of Sea Ray Boats, closed Monday down 10 points and opened Tuesday up 4. Upjohn, IBM, Ford and many more opened up... while the Japanese market closed very much lower earlier in our day.

Also, Tuesday, Chemical Bank lowered their prime interest rate a half point, which is what all three of the above experts said would have to happen. They are right about something.

Jim Sherman

There was the Monday night football game on Channel 7, a William Holden 'shoot 'em up' on cable, and Larry King, also on cable.

King was interviewing three financial experts, and being interrupted by his studio to get the latest report on the Japanese stock market opening.

I've tried to watch Larry King in the past, and couldn't take it. These three experts were equally unimpressive. Yet every time I switched on William Holden, I had a twinge of conscience I was missing history.

The Stock Market had just dropped 508 points, and I wanted to know if the second great depression was just ahead. Of course, I didn't find out. The experts' opinions were divided on the subject. They did seem to agree that the Black Tuesday of 1929 wasn't felt hardest until 1934.

Being born in 1926 my memory of the suffering is weak. Everyone was just like us, though Dad worked every day on the railroad. He also brought home gunny sacks of coal he'd pick up along the tracks.

We'd wear hand-me-downs, put rubber jar lid seals on our shoes to keep the soles from flopping when they wore loose, and take mashed bean sandwiches to school. But we played like the kids today, skating on a pond, swinging on ropes in the barn, and play cowboys and Indians.

We shivered beside the kitchen range, but our

While the stock market was climbing 1,000 points in a year, did you notice any difference in your way of life? Auto companies announced layoffs, service industries announced openings. Groceries, rent and gasoline stayed about the same.

We had no more money during the bull market. Some Wall Streeters maybe got rich. Some "insiders" got nailed for their activity and some mergers took place. Monday's plunge took those items off the front page.

So, as the changes were few on the way up for the common man, changes will also be few on the way down. We don't know what the up market did, we don't know what the down market will do.

We take some comfort in listening to and reading experts' opinions on just what will happen. Since there is no majority opinion, we have to assume things will remain about the same. This interim just gave us a third thing to talk about: How's the weather? How do you feel? and How's about the stock market?

Halloween advice

A Clarkston News reader has asked that we make an appeal to parents of trick-or-treaters.

"Remind parents to tell their children that when a house has no porch light lit not to go there as we are out of goodies," said the senior citizen.

The reader noted that those who trick or treat after 7 are "the bigger kids being greedy, trying to get as much as they can."

Some residents apparently don't mind a few stragglers, but those who do should be assured that when their porch lights go off, the stream of trick-or-treaters will end.

Jim's Jottings

shiver was no different than kid's shivers today. We complained of always having beans, and kids do that today. The 5-6-7-8-year-olds didn't know any more about the economy then, than they do now.

Later we learned about the great depression. The bread lines. The begging. The hobos. The community help programs. The fights for jobs. The suffering.

We learned of the CCC programs to give work to young men. We got to know of the WPA and PWA that gave men jobs on public works projects. And, we were to hear people tell us the only thing that really brought about the recovery of the U.S. economy was World War II.

Still, in the 1930s a lot of people did work and earn money. New car models were introduced each year. And, most banks reopened after a short holiday. Some merchants and doctors had to take chickens, etc. in lieu of money, which helped both sides a bit.

All in all it was a bad scene, but only a few were really unable to live through it. There are those today who think the generations since the mid '30's would do well to suffer some of those economic setbacks.

I started this by wondering why I chose stock market crash talk over a good gunfight. I guess it's something my father said of the great depression. When I was about 20, I asked him how bad it was.

His response was, "I would never try to live through another one."

Merchants' plea

Why have so many merchants in villages and small towns gone out of business?

It isn't because they aren't friendly or give service with a smile and personal recognition. "How is your family?" and "Yes, we will help Youth Assistance, the school yearbook, a local person or family who need help, the churches, the fire department, Rotary, SCAMP, Camp Fire, scouts, door prizes, ads, etc., etc."

How many of us will drive to Pontiac, Rochester, Birmingham and Troy without even giving Clarkston merchants a thought. It's really hard for a small business to make a go of it these days.

Try us. We live here, pay taxes here. We are interested in you and your families. We support the schools, the churches.

We have good quality merchandise, we are fair and square and we love you and your children.

College prep?

I wish to express my views on the millage. I am a 1987 graduate of Clarkston High School, now a freshman at Northern Michigan University.

I am not "for" this passing. When I attended CHS, the classes were overcrowded and we had old textbooks, etc., etc., but I seemed to handle it. In fact, I graduated in the top fifth of my class.

Why should my parents, who still live in Clarkston, have to pay for them? No one paid any extra for us, Class of '87, for new books, extra teachers, etc.

I believe, if anything, it will help prepare these high-schoolers for college. All of my classes have 40-plus students.

These high-schoolers don't know how good they've got it. They should appreciate their schooling while it's still free to them!

Differences noted

I read with interest your story on the new congregation led by the Rev. Kurt Gephardt. I certainly agree that another "warm and friendly" congregation can be of benefit to this community.

I would like to clarify a little the relationship of the Presbyterian Church (USA); of which Sashabaw Presbyterian Church is a member, and the Evangelical Presbyterian Church, of which the Clarkston Church Project is a member.

First, note that Evangelical in their name is capitalized because it is not used as an adjective but is part of the official name of their denomination.

The PC (USA) and the EPC are separate denominations and to offer one merely as an offshoot of the PC (USA) does not give due credit to the integrity of either body.

The EPC is a result of a distinct choice by a group of churches that removed themselves from the PC (USA) and then formed their own body, the EPC.

The two denominations are on friendly relationships, in part because we respect the differences on viewpoints, in areas such as church leadership.

The clearness of the differences is perhaps highlighted by the fact that some of the EPC's understandings that to them indicate greater congregational freedom are seen as greater restrictions by the PC (USA).

We are also on friendly relationships because we can agree that each church acknowledges Jesus Christ as its head and sees its mission as sharing the love of Christ in word and deed.

I write this letter with the full knowledge and understanding of the Rev. Kurt Gephardt. We each fully intend to work together in this community with pride in our denominations and in our common mission in Christ.

Band concerns

Recently, the city of Grosse Pointe lost a very important asset, their high school marching bands.

According to officials at one of their two high schools, participation had fallen off for several years. Therefore, the program was dropped. The students cited lack of respect among their peers and community apathy as reasons for the program's demise.

In Clarkston, our band students are experiencing the same problems.

Our young people practice many hours to perform at all the home football games, only to face, for the most part, a disinterested crowd and name calling by some of their fellow students.

As unbelievable as it may sound, objects are also thrown by some of these students directed at the band.

Where is our student body's support for one another? Is respect being taught in these students' homes? Would a football game be the same without a band?

Ask someone from Grosse Pointe. They now are sorry that something wasn't done in time to save theirs.

Bands have always been an important part of our high schools. Many times their members, as well as their accomplishments, go unrecognized.

Clarkston's various bands are comprised of many talented musicians and some of the finest students in our system.

We are very proud of our young people who stay committed in spite of everything, and give us their best. They deserve the support and respect of teachers, the administration, parents, the community and especially their peers.

Let's not let what happened in Grosse Pointe happen here.

Bear killing wrong

In response to your notice in the paper under "Have you told us what you think yet?" and your article by Julie Campe about "Independence man bags bear—Blackface weighed 500 pounds," I have to tell you the following thoughts of mine:

There are many people in Independence Township who enjoyed the article and pictures of the "bear of a lifetime" that the man found and shot in the Upper Peninsula.

For me, the story was disgusting, especially from the point of the man calling it "a divine

Hang up
wrong priority

Jim
Fitzgerald

State Rep. Debbie Farhat, D-Muskegon, has introduced a bill that would make it a misdemeanor for someone to "initiate a telephone call and, without speaking, deliberately hang up" once a call is answered.

I've been wondering when someone would do something about the terrible danger of my wife answering the phone and finding no one to talk to. I've been so worried about the huge hole that unexpected dial tones would make in her life that I haven't had time to worry about admittedly less important but still crucial problems, such as the shooting of Detroit kids, crack cocaine and old people without enough to eat.

It is expected that the Legislature and Gov. Blanchard will act on this proposed anti-hang-up legislation with the same brilliant efficiency it displays when dealing with other important legislation, such as the attempt to raise the speed limit to 65 m.p.h.

First, a senator will be invited by a dial tone lobbyist to fly the Concorde to Paris for dinner. The senator will return to Lansing with the suggestion that it would be too harsh to punish a person for hanging up just once. He (or she) will seek an amendment allowing each phone caller 100 unpenalized hang-ups a month. He will also ask where to go to convert francs into dollars.

Next, a representative will make a speech claiming the anti-hang-up law would violate the civil rights of a person with an uncontrollable urge to create a dial tone (this person will hereafter be designated the hanger). The representative will promote the use of an electronic phone attachment that will eavesdrop on the person called (hereafter designated the hangee) after the hang-up.

IF THE HANGEE hollers "TRACE THAT CALL," the hanger's phone attachment will buzz and the hanger will have time to pack, have plastic surgery, and leave the country before the cops arrive at his door.

Gov. Blanchard will swear to a Democratic God that he will veto Rep. Farhat's bill unless it is amended to require extra punishment for a hanger who victimizes a hangee who has one of those gimmicks that intrudes on a phone call in progress to signal that another call is waiting. The governor's reasoning will be that it is especially cruel for a hanger to force a hangee to interrupt a valid call only to be greeted by a dial tone.

However, a majority of the Legislature will reject Blanchard's suggestion on the grounds that the threat of overly severe punishment would stop too many hangers from coming out of the closet.

Blanchard will say OK and back off so far that the Legislature will be encouraged to award free lottery tickets to hangers who don't breathe heavily before dropping the dial tone on hangees.

THE SENATOR from my district, at my request, will amend Farhat's bill to deal with recorded phone calls. Recently I put down my dinner fork to take a call from Contempo Fashion Jewelry. The recorded voice asked a series of questions, interspersed with beeped blanks to accommodate my answers. The purpose was to discover if I wanted to take free training that would qualify me to sell jewelry from my home.

The only question I answered was my age. After the beep, I said "61 beeping years." It is my belief that if simple hangers are guilty of a misdemeanor, the people responsible for recorded phone calls are felons and should be sentenced to life imprisonment in a phone booth.

But I'm being silly. Almost as silly as Rep. Farhat and other legislators who waste so much time and tax money on nonsense. When the speed limit is raised to 65, everyone will drive 85, but police will stop only phone-equipped cars driven by hangers using dial tones to attack hangees.

Farhat is farout.

Tax hearing offers comment option

Residents will have a chance to speak their minds about the tax rate in Independence Township.

A truth-in-taxation hearing is scheduled at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 3, at the township hall annex, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

"We want public comment," said Treasurer John Lutz, adding it's a good time for people to get information on how the rates are set, the Headlee rollback and other tax concerns.

Unless the township plans to lower the millage rate, a hearing is required by law whenever the rate of inflation is lower than the increase in property values during the year, said David Kramer, township assessor.

New construction is not included in the formula, said Kramer.

"We're a hot spot in the county, so not only do we have a lot of new construction, which increases the state equalized value in the township, but we also have an appreciation of property in the township," he said.

Those factors can be discussed at the hearing, he said.

Yellow truck joins fleet

A new yellow 3/4-ton pickup truck will soon be used for work in Independence Township.

On Oct. 20, the township board accepted the low bid of $11,993.79 plus tax from GMC Truck.

The truck, to be used for water and sewer maintenance, will replace a 9-year-old vehicle, said George Anderson, director of the township department of public works.

Family says thanks

We wish to convey our sincere appreciation to the Lewis Wint family and staff for all their help and comfort in assisting us during our most recent loss of our mother.

We know how hard it was for them since they were going through the same loss and pain we felt with their loss of their wife and mother.

Party was wonderful

Dear Friends:

We wish to thank the parishioners of The Church of the Resurrection and all of our other friends in Clarkston who joined together to make the retirement dinner and celebration they gave us a most happy and memorable one.

It truly was a wonderful event. Everyone who had a part in its arrangements and flawless presentation did everything perfectly.

We were overwhelmed by the attendance, the entertainment and the gifts.

Although we plan to relocate to the south after the end of the year, we always will consider Clarkston as home and visit as often as we can.

We would like to extend our appreciation to the Oakland County Sheriff's Department and Independence Fire Department for their quick and professional response to the fire on Oct. 7, 1987.

Because of their actions, limited damage was done to our property.

Some wetlands permits and fees are waived

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

For individual dock and seawall repairs on Lake Oakland and Woodhull Lake, wetlands permits and fees were waived Oct. 20 by the Independence Township Board.

At the request of Charles H. Vaughan, a Meyers Road resident who presented the board with nearly 50 signatures from lake residents, the board voted 6-0 to waive the township's $50 fee, the $300 escrow amount and the permit requirement for the cutting of stumps and the repairs of docks and seawalls.

Permits are still required for the removal of silt or more extensive projects, and the fees for these projects, which cover engineering reviews and inspections, are to be reduced by 50 percent, to $25 in most cases.

The waiver applies to this project only. The Oakland County Drain Commission (OCDC) and the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) are to oversee the work.

This summer, residents requested a four-foot lowering of the lakes so they could cut the submerged stumps that are navigational hazards.

By Nov. 3, the DNR is to designate which stumps may be cut and volunteer crews may then perform the work. The water level is to begin rising again in December.

In over an hour of discussion, 12 people from the crowd of about 25 spoke in favor of the waiver.

Since the lakes would be four feet lower for only a month, the residents wouldn't have time for all the permit paperwork, said Vaughan, and the fees would make improvements too expensive for some residents.

After resolving some confusion about Trustee Daniel Travis' motion to waive the fees and permits, the board members also expressed approval of the waivers.

"In most cases, our fees and permits are a repetition of what the DNR are going to do," said Trustee William Vandermark. "I'm in favor of taking a more lenient approach."

Treasurer John Lutz praised the residents for taking care of their property.

"I think it's good that everyone is making an effort to clean the lake up," he said.

The lakes are located in the southeastern portion of Independence township off Sashabaw Road. Most of the lake area is in Waterford Township.

Fire department adds office computers

Computers are coming to the fire department in Independence Township.

Software from Curtis-Wilson Computer Co., Waterford, will be installed in fire station No. 1 for $2,750, including maintenance and training. The township board voted 6-0 to approve the expenditure on Oct. 20.

For free, the company will install two companion software pieces at each of the other two fire stations, said Gordon Mason, acting assistant fire chief.

To be used on a trial basis, the companion software may be purchased next year for $2,900 if the fire department employees are satisfied, said Mason.

In the beginning, the software will allow more easily audited files, better annual reports and the merger of stations, he said.

happening" after quoting in the beginning of the report "that this particular black bear had been photographed by nationally known photographers for seven years," and the man found it a thrill to kill the bear with a 30-06 rifle and have it gone forever.

It was a thrill for the man to bag this 500 pound bear which was "a trophy for a lifetime for any hunter, especially a bear hunter," and the man had known of its existence for the last four years.

It must have been a thrill to sit for three days in his archery blind and lay out a "plan" how to outsmart this beautiful creation of God who has granted the bear the same rights of freedom and survival as are granted to you and me by the man-composed Constitution and Bill of Rights.

The hunter might be respected and loved by thy fellow citizens for some other of his good qualities, but for people who love nature and adore the beauty of wildlife while still "on the hoof," it is impossible to agree with his devotion to prove to himself how smart and skilled he is when it comes to destruction of "game" animals.

For the readers of The Clarkston News who agree with my viewpoint, I would like to note a few wise quotations:

Animals are not brethren,
They are not underlings;
They are other nations,
Caught with ourselves
in the net of life and time.

~Henry Beston

Hast thou named all the birds without a gun?
Loved the wood-rose, and left it on its stalk?
Unarmed, faced danger with a heart of trust?
O, be my friend, and teach me to be thine!

News not there

Too bad.

On Wednesday, Oct. 14, The Clarkston News was alerted about a spelling bee that was to be held at the local Knights of Columbus Hall on Maybee Road the following evening.

This bee was sponsored by the State of Michigan Chapter K of C Youth Improvement Program.

It was felt that this being a district function, we would invite local talent to participate.

However, Clarkston Junior High declined as well as Sashabaw Junior High. We were informed that they would be involved in the Detroit News and Lawrence Tech spelling bees.

Both of these are at least 40 miles away. We then invited three other local schools, who were pleased to compete, and they sent 17 students to participate.

Results of this competition produced the following winners: Champion Carla Thomas and Runner-up Mark Bzdok, both of St. Joseph's, Lake Orion; Runner-up Soya Lee of Waterford Pierce Jr. High; and Runner-up Pamela Andrews of Lady of the Lakes.

Refreshments were served after the bee to all the pupils and their families.

Too bad, The Clarkston News did not have their photographers on hand to give these and other young people some incentive to improve their academic skills.

Contract views

Township officials have made several questionable statements relative to the prolonged delay in offering a satisfactory contract for policing traffic in Clarkston.

1. One official is quoted as saying that the village "should be part of the community. Everybody else is paying 2.5 mills. I don't feel that we should take out an area and allow them to pay a lesser fee."

The fact is that "everybody else" voted on the 2.5 millage increase. Village residents were excluded by law from voting on this question, and the village has been consequently excluded from traffic control.

Recognizing that the village is not "everybody else," but is a political entity, the township offered a contract for limited traffic control--20 hours weekly--for which the village would pay 2.5 mills. But, there were provisions which would limit service to less than 20 hours which the village could not accept.

2. Township officials now state that $90,000 will be lost in state-shared revenue based on the loss of payments by the village. Why, in view of this concern, was the township not more diligent in negotiating a contract?

Instead, month after month passed with no response to village concerns, and no effort whatsoever to control speeding by cars and trucks on Main Street, Holcomb, Miller Road, Depot Road and Clarkston-Orion Road.

The township clerk talks about the village's "moral obligation" to pay. What about the township's moral obligation to control traffic in return for the money they now say is due them?

3. Township officials talk about the benefits of a police presence, of the "increased visibility" of the deputies. They can easily correct the error of this assumption by looking out the windows of their offices.

The fact is that the presence of the police station within 200 feet of Main Street and of deputies cars parked near the bakeshop has no effect whatever on traffic speeds.

Purchase of machines designed to save lives

An anonymous $5,000 donation to the Independence Township Fire Department will help buy three machines that could save more lives, said Fire Chief Gar Wilson.

The township board voted 6-0 to purchase the automatic defibrillators.

A grant from Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital (POH) will provide 60 hours of training on the new machines for each emergency medical technician in the township fire department, Wilson said at the Oct. 20 board meeting.

The defibrillators will cost $20,550, with half paid by POH and the ambulance company Paramed Inc. and half paid from the township fire fund.

With the $5,000 donation from the Independence Township resident who wishes to remain anonymous, the township's portion will be $5,275, Wilson said.

The machines are instruments which stop ventricular fibrillation, a lethal heart arrhythmia that's 100 percent fatal but reversible if treated in the first few minutes.

The defibrillator tells the medical technician when to provide shock--the only way to save the patient's life if he has ventricular fibrillation, said Wilson.

Usually, hospital emergency rooms or ambulance employees would provide the service, but because hospitals and ambulances are so far from this area, the local fire department employees can reach a patient much quicker and save an estimated 40 percent more victims of ventricular fibrillation.

"Right now, we're running 60 percent medicals," said Wilson, adding the cost of medical equipment is straining the fire fund, which was intended to pay for firefighting equipment and expenses.

Independence is one of five townships in the state chosen for the defibrillation program. Groveland, Brandon, Oxford and Orion are the other townships.

Not just moms fight drunk drivers

BY DON RUSH
Oxford Leader Editor

Moms, dads, brothers, sisters, friends and relatives are getting upset everyday--actually several times a day.

Here's why:

~On an average, 22,000 people are killed annually by other people driving under the influence of alcohol.

~The leading cause of death for 15-24-year olds is traffic crashes.

~50 to 90 percent of traffic fatalities are alcohol related.

"The chances are one in two that you or someone close to you will be killed or seriously injured by a drunk driver, one person every 23 minutes," Oxford Township resident Greg Bein said. "It is hard to ignore."

Bein is the president of Oakland County chapter of Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD) and the chairman for the Michigan Committee.

Bein and his wife Penny are also victims of a drunk driving accident--as are many of the volunteers for MADD.

"We're a victim-oriented organization. We are a support group for those who need help. We are involved in education, legislation and try to prevent drunk driving," he said.

Six years ago in September, the Beins' 4-year-old daughter, Nicole, was killed by a drunk driver. The driver was one of their Brandon Township neighbors.

"We moved out (of Brandon Township) that day," he said.

Soon afterward, they joined MADD.

The long-range goal of the organization is to make the organization unnecessary, Bein said. That is where education comes in.

"We're trying to branch out to education and cut the fatalities. It is working. In five years, the number of deaths is down from 25,000 to 22,000. We've made the headway. It is no longer cool to drink and drive. The social awareness is up. We want to be able to look back and say, 'That was a neat group.'"

While awareness is taking place socially,

according to Bein, in the courts it is lacking.

Victims of drunk driving usually feel victimized twice, by the person who kills and again by the justice system. Victims' rights are not a high priority.

"You're used to thinking that good always wins. It doesn't. You have a judge who says, 'Your kid is dead. I can't do anything to help you. It was an accident, and I don't want to ruin this man's life.' Driver's licenses aren't even taken away."

"When a person calls and says, 'I want to get this guy,' It's hard to tell them, 'If you're lucky, the man may get one year in the county jail.'"

"You have a choice of drinking. Maybe you didn't intend to have an accident. But you did intend to drink."

"The chances are one in two that you or somebody close to you will be killed or seriously injured by a drunk driver, one person every 23 minutes."

~Greg Bein

"I have a tough time with that. The damage is done. People tend to put the blame on somebody else. It was the bartender's fault; it was their friend's fault. They have no remorse. It is an uphill battle."

"Look at the kids we are losing. Class officers, fun kids, kids with the brightest futures--and suddenly there is no future at all."

With little support from the judiciary system, Bein said MADD also keeps track of victims' cases--when they are to appear. They are working on "an English version of victims' rights in Michigan" and a checklist of what to look for in a lawyer.

"We suggest people compare lawyers before choosing. We've had people get lawyers that are barely competent. You don't get a general practitioner to do brain surgery."

MADD was started in 1980 in California and then spread east.

"We had people tell us to our face that we (MADD) would be gone in three years. Now we are getting corporate support. We have all these programs which we could implement."

"The problem is not money. It is getting volunteers to operate them. I'm not knocking donations, but we could use some help."

"Unfortunately, most of the people don't get involved until they have to--we get dragged in reluctantly. The popular misconception is that MADD is for mothers. You don't have to be. Those people who come and help are special people. My hat's off to them. We are limited only by our imagination, and I have a good imagination," Bein said.

MADD, he said, does not solicit. "We don't scan the paper for accidents and call. It is intensely personal. We don't want to intrude. People call us."

The first Wednesday of the month, fatal victims support group meets at a church in Waterford.

"It is good to get together with somebody who is feeling the same--to see that things happen to other nice people. It is good to talk."

"It is different than losing a child to disease. With a drunk driver, you have somebody to blame. You think--I thought-- 'I don't drink and drive, I don't have to worry.' But who's keeping the other person on his side of the lane?"

This month, MADD has a couple of programs going. One is called "Aardy's Army." It's for kids who plan to go trick-or-treating this Halloween.

Aardy stands for: Alcohol (drug) Abuse Really Destroys You.

The other program is a joint operation with Volkswagen of America, called "Drive for Life."

For one day, Oct. 24, drivers sign a pledge that they will not drink and drive.

For more information about MADD, call 333-3060.

"It might be an answering machine, but that is the volunteer situation right now," Bein said.

Cemetery visits prove enlightening

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Sixth-graders in the Clarkston Academically Talented class at North Sashabaw Elementary spent a blustery afternoon last week studying timeworn tombstones at the Sashabaw Plains Cemetery.

Though it's nearly Halloween, they were not perpetuating social attitudes that come from books and movies portraying cemeteries as places full of ghosts and ghouls. Rather, they were learning a new way to do research, gathering information from a new source.

Their experience began before they ever left the classroom. They were given field investigation notebooks and told how archeologists and anthropologists use cemeteries as a resource for information.

In the cemetery, they gathered the same kind of information as archeologists, examining grave-stones for types and content of epitaphs as well as names, dates and causes of deaths.

From the information, archeologists and anthropologists learn about people who lived at certain periods in history. The pupils would learn of people who lived in this area before them.

Once back in the classroom, teacher Sue Banworth invited Charlotte Maybee, secretary of the Sashabaw Cemetery Association, to talk to the children about the cemetery history.

An Independence Township native whose great-grandfather and grandfather were also active in preserving and managing the cemetery, she was well prepared to do so.

The pupils had drawn maps of the cemetery, and Maybee showed them old maps and record books from the association files.

The pupils asked about names and symbols on some of the markers. The lamb, for instance, was frequently used on children's graves. Veterans graves were marked by the names of the war in which they served.

The Sashabaw Plains Cemetery in Independence Township is a registered Michigan Historic Site.

When it was founded by the "Sashabaw Burial Association" in 1949, lots were $1. A hitching post at the cemetery entrance is a reminder of by-gone days.

Next to the cemetery, the Old Sashabaw Presbyterian Church, referred to as the century building of the Sashabaw Presbyterian Church, sits like a silent sentinel. Though they are separate operations, the church and the cemetery share a common history.

Football

Clarkston High JV Wolves 20, Flint Central 8

Oct. 22--The host Flint Central club got on top first in this contest, scoring on a 70-yard interception return, but that was all the scoring it would do.

Kevin Keilitz scored the first touchdown of the game for the Wolves and also ran in the two-point conversion for an 8-6 lead.

Dane Davis scored the next touchdown off a quarterback sneak to put Clarkston up 14-6 at halftime.

Keilitz closed out the scoring in the second half with a 5-yard run to paydirt.

Once again the defense totally dominated the game, allowing the Wolves to pick up an easy victory.

Seven defenders finished with five or more tackles, the coaches said.

The game was played under terrible weather conditions, said Coach John Craven.

"It was snowing so hard at the start of the game that (the coaches) could hardly see our (white-shirted) players on the field," he said.

Clarkston's record improves to 6-1-1 with one game left in the season. The Wolves have won six games in a row.

9th grade football Pierce 34, Wolverines 14

Oct. 21--The host Pierce club wore out the Clarkston team and eventually pulled way to win the game.

Good offensive games were turned in by Jerrod Johnson and Mike Herban, said Coach Steve Himburg.

Clarkston picked up 271 yards on the ground despite being on the defensive side of the ball most of the game.

The Wolverines' record drops to 1-7.

Cougars 23, Flint Central 14

Oct. 21--Three running backs totaled 326 yards for the host Sashabaw team as they rolled past Flint Central.

Eric Hund, Matt Smith and Joe Kilgore all rushed the ball well.

Scoring touchdowns for Sashabaw were Darren Master, Hund and George Crouch.

Defensively, Derek Ramond had eight tackles and Mike Stanton had six. Ramond, Jason Wenger and Mike Moeller all had outstanding games and were named captains of the week.

The victory ups the team's record to 4-3-1.

Basketball

Clarkston High Varsity Flint Powers 64, Wolves 47

Oct. 20--Ali Fedio and Michelle Baker scored 12 points apiece for the Wolves but it wasn't enough as they fell to the high-flying Powers team.

Clarkston High JV Flint Powers 34, Wolves 17

Oct. 20--The Wolves played well defensively, said Coach Larry Sherrill, but still had problems scoring and it cost them the game.

Waterford Mott 61, Wolves 50

Oct. 20--Celeste Steinhilper scored 14 points, had seven rebounds and made four steals to lead the Wolves in a losing cause.

Ingrid Larson added 10 points for Clarkston. The team's record falls to 8-6.

"We just gave up too many points in the first half," said Sherrill. "We outplayed them in the second half."

The coach added that the team improved on its play during the past week but still came out on the short end of the stick.

9th grade basketball Pierce 53, Cougars 30

Oct. 22--Jenny Graham paced the Sashabaw club with 10 points and Stephanie Cashin and Sue Kramer added six apiece in support as the Cougars went down to defeat.

Missy Crites added four more points for Sashabaw.

Cougars 55, Lakeland 27

Oct. 26--The Cougars cruised to an easy victory at home behind 12 points from Crites.

Graham netted 11 points and shot 75 percent from the free-throw line. Cashin made 10 points.

Kramer and Lauren Caston scored eight points apiece.

Sashabaw, now 6-7, started off slow, leading only 22-16 at halftime, but turned it on in the second half.

"The girls really charged ahead in the second half," said Coach Jayne Bannister. "It was a fun game to coach."

HERE IT COMES, ready or not Jackie Patrick has to be prepared to catch a quick pass from Michelle Baker during first half action of Thursday's game against GOAL rival Waterford Mott. Clarkston won the game 60-44.

Varsity team wins 21-7

The Clarkston (Mich.) News Wed., Oct. 28, 1987 19

Teamwork aids gridders

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

For the second week in a row, senior Mike Gilbert responded to the challenge and led Clarkston to victory, this time over Flint Central.

The varsity football team downed the Indians 21-7 in their final home game of the 1987 season Friday night. Gilbert scored two touchdowns and rushed for more than 100 yards.

"I thought that the backs ran real well tonight," said Coach Kurt Richardson, adding, "It was a complete victory for us."

Flint Central opened the scoring in the first quarter. The key play in the drive was a roughing-the-passer penalty that wiped out an interception by Eric Hutchins.

Kirk Whitmore scored on a 14-yard run to hand the Indians the early lead. The point-after attempt was good for a 7-0 edge.

That would be all the scoring the Wolves would allow on this cool night.

"We were confused on defensive coverage," said linebacker Mike Wells of the Indians' scoring drive. "I knew we could play better than that."

Clarkston, now 6-2 overall, knotted the score on a 72-yard drive that was capped by a 32-yard screen pass play from Josh Newblatt to Gilbert.

Newblatt kicked the conversion and the game was tied 7-7 with 11:00 minutes left in the first half.

"The key to this game was Josh (Newblatt)," said Richardson. "He called half of the game at the line."

The Wolves wrapped up the game later in the second quarter after a fumble recovery by Wells on the Flint Central 36-yard line.

Gilbert eventually scored the touchdown on a 3-yard run. Newblatt kicked the point-after for a 14-7 advantage.

Newblatt scored the final touchdown for Clarkston on a four-yard run. He also kicked the successful conversion.

The outstanding play of the offensive line, which helped provide the running backs with room to operate, didn't go unnoticed by the coaching staff.

Jason Campbell, Duane Brennan, Troy Martin, Dave Kwasnick, Mark Hargett, Joe Martines and Dan Souheaver all have done a great job this season, said Richardson.

Tight end Jeff Buchman also played well Friday night, the coach said.

As the season draws to a close, each victory becomes more sweet for Clarkston.

"People didn't believe in these kids and were picking them for 2-7," said Richardson. "They (the players) are not big and they are not strong but they do have heart and know how to win."

Clarkston closes out the season Saturday afternoon on the road against North Farmington.

Wolves stay alive in race for GOAL

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The varsity basketball team wasted little time in disposing with Waterford Mott Thursday night, keeping their hopes of a GOAL title alive.

A fast 11-2 start provided the Wolves with enough cushion to breeze past the Corsairs 60-44 at home and up their second-place GOAL record to 4-1.

Waterford Kettering remains in first place with a 5-0 league record. The Wolves and Captains meet again in Clarkston November 10.

Ali Fedio paced the Wolves, now 8-6 overall, with 16 first-half points. She finished with 20 in the game.

Jackie Patrick had 11 points, 11 rebounds and eight assists for the victors. Sue McKoin scored nine points and Michelle Baker added seven more.

"We just had a little too much for them up front," said Coach Dave McDonald. "It was a good league game for us."

Led by Fedio's scoring, Clarkston soared out to a 15-4 advantage midway through the opening quarter. Mott closed the gap to 19-15 by quarter's end.

The Wolves opened up the lead again at halftime, 38-25. Clarkston kept up the pressure in the third quarter and coasted into the final stanza up 46-36.

McDonald saw several things he liked about the Wolves as they dominated Mott Thursday night.

Sophomores Rhonda Jokisch and McKoin played outstanding games, both blocking shots and passing the ball well, he said.

"They showed a lot of promise tonight," he said.

McDonald also singled out the play of Baker and Patrick.

Time out

Battle of Clarkston

Peter Auchter

The battle lines have been drawn, the schools are preparing for the worst.

You think the millage vote was tough? Well, think again because it's time for Sashabaw and Clarkston junior high schools to clash on the football field again.

Both sides are ready for the Oct. 28 game and are bursting with emotion.

"I have a quote for you, Clarkston will win this game," yelled Wolverines' assistant coach Bill Bildstein from across the practice field late last week.

Sashabaw won the first game in the series earlier this season 30-0, but don't expect to have such an easy conquest this time around.

Assistants from Sashabaw said records can be thrown out for this game; emotions will determine the outcome. The Cougars are preparing for Clarkston as if their lives depended on it.

Sashabaw enters the game with a 4-3-1 record with wins over Clarkston, Flint Northern, Milford and Flint Central this season.

Clarkston sports a 1-7 record with a victory over Flint Southwestern heading into the final game.

Once the game begins, all of that is meaningless. It becomes a one-game season for these clubs.

Both teams use basically the same kind of attack to down their opponents. Run the ball until you drop.

For example, Sashabaw rolled up 326 yards on the ground during a victory over Flint Central Oct. 21.

Even though they lost Oct. 21, the Wolverines amassed 271 yards rushing in a loss to Waterford Pierce despite being on the defensive side of the ball most of the game.

It doesn't take a nuclear physicist to figure out what the other team's game plan will be. That's why emotion will play such a big part of this game.

Who will cheer louder in the stands, Sashabaw or Clarkston?

Who will hit harder on the field, the Wolverines or Cougars?

Who will run faster, catch better, be the winner, Sashabaw or Clarkston?

There are also other factors that make this one a biggie for Clarkston and Sashabaw.

Pride is a big part of the game, said the coaches.

"Whoever can win this game won't have to turn their jackets inside-out when they walk up town," joked Clarkston coach Steve Himburg.

That piece of advice will come in handy should any of you loyal supporters forget to attend the game 6:30 p.m. Oct. 28 that Sashabaw will host this time. Just look to see who is wearing what.

It should be great fun. (The game, that is).

5-year-old skier wins state recognition

STEPHANIE GILLESPIE started her prospering career in skiing after watching her older sister Kristi handle Pine Knob slopes.

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

When it comes to snow skiing, Stephanie Gillespie seems to have no fear.

Stephanie doesn't stick to the easy slopes either, said her mother, Patti Gillespie. She has tried them all, except the most advanced run.

The 5-year-old Independence Township youngster recently won national recognition for her talents on the ski slopes of Pine Knob.

In the nationwide Coca-Cola Jr. NASTAR racing program, Stephanie finished seventh among Michigan children age 4 and under last winter.

"We were surprised she (did so well) and are very proud of her," said Gillespie.

The Coca-Cola Jr. NASTAR program ranks the top 10 boys and girls in six age categories in each of 43 states. Racers are ranked according to their single best NASTAR handicap earned last season.

Stephanie finished with a 113 handicap at Pine Knob last season. She entered just two races, but it was enough to capture an award.

She probably inherited her competitive spirit on the slopes from her father, Roger, and 8-year-old sister, Kristi.

In fact, watching her sister ski piqued Stephanie's curiosity enough to make her want to try it.

"I bugged my dad until he let me ski too," said Stephanie, who was only 3 years old when she began.

When looked at in context, it's easy to see how Stephanie got hooked on snow skiing.

From the first good snowfall until the first signs of spring, the Gillespie family can be found at Pine Knob almost every weekend.

"Sometimes we eat dinner in the car and meet my husband at Pine Knob," said Gillespie.

Stephanie didn't know she had won the award from the Coca-Cola Jr. NASTAR racing program until it came in the mail.

Even afterward, she was unaware of the enormity of her accomplishment.

"What does it mean to be seventh in the state?" she asked her mother when the award came.

Along with being ranked seventh in the state, Stephanie will receive a certificate of accomplishment, a patch and be listed on the Coca-Cola Jr. NASTAR State Rankings Poster.

The Coca-Cola Jr. NASTAR is America's largest youth recreational ski racing program and is open to kids of all abilities. Last season, more than 100,000 youngsters raced in the competitions.

Stephanie was the lone skier from Pine Knob, in any age bracket, to win an award.

Candle Factory in gift guide again

For the third year, since its inception, the Michigan Gift Guide includes the Davisburg Candle Factory.

The guide, which features nearly 200 companies, is published by the state Commerce Department's Office of Products Promotion.

"It's really neat to be in it again," said Mary Tebo, owner of the historic candle factory in the town of Davisburg.

"It's great for PR and advertising and lots of individual people look at the book because it goes to all the tourists, too," she said.

Prices are not included in the guide, but color photographs and addresses and telephone numbers of the Michigan businesses assure that shoppers can get an idea of the kinds of products each business manufactures and receive more information in time for the gift-giving season.

The gift guide is available by calling 1-800-MIPRODS or writing to the Michigan Department of Commerce, Office of Products Promotion, P.O. Box 30004, Lansing, MI 48909.

Springfield OKs spending $1.2 million

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Apparently, Springfield Township residents had little quarrel with the proposed $1.2 million budget for 1988. Only a few were on hand for a budget hearing Oct. 22 and one of those was Springfield Township Fire Chief Marlan Hillman.

The board was short two trustees, Ruth Ann Hines and William Whitley. But Supervisor Collin Walls, Clerk J. Calvin Walters, Treasurer Patricia Kramer and trustees Glen Vermilye and Charles Oaks provided a quorum.

The 1988 budget was adopted 5-0 with little discussion.

The police fund was approved at $257,700, an increase over the $236,700 budget in 1987 due to an estimated increase in contract costs.

The fire budget was approved at $120,500, which includes $18,500 for vehicle purchases. Hillman also asked for and received approval for spending $1,500 to clean and refurbish Fire Station 1.

Oaks, a volunteer firefighter with the township, abstained from voting on the fire budget.

The general fund was approved at $792,155, down from $803,575 in 1987 due to road improvements done that year.

Included are $30,000 to do a master plan and some fencing in the Shiawassee Basin Preserve, a newly-purchased 400-acre park just west of downtown Davisburg, and $25,000 for a new administrative position in the planning and building department.

The parks and recreation department and the township library received less than requested. The library budget was approved at $58,000 (compared to the request for $79,360). The parks and recreation budget was approved at $65,000 (compared to the request for $95,440).

Both library and parks are funded almost totally by the general fund, according to Walls.

Walters said both should be encouraged to seek millage on the next available ballot, which would be August 1988.

Because Springfield is a charter township, the 1988 budget had to be adopted by Nov. 1. The budget reflects a calendar year, January through December of 1988.

CHARLOTTE MAYBEE talks to the pupils about the history of the Sashabaw Plains Cemetery. She is secretary of the cemetery association.

KATIE RESCHKE, a sixth-grader in the Clarkson Academically Talented program, records gravestone information during a cemetery field investigation.

ords gravestone information during a cemetery field investigation.

Graveyard interests students

ciation were in many cases the same people who founded the church, according to Maybee.

The pupils in the CAT class were intrigued by facts about the cemetery, and were astounded to learn that the sexton (manager of the cemetery) made between $1 and $3 per year in the mid-1800s.

They poured over old pictures Maybee brought to the classroom. After Maybee's presentation, they were also interested in seeing if they could find their own relatives' names in the record books. Maybee told them she has many relatives (both Maybees and Beardslees) buried there.

As a follow-up, the pupils wrote epitaphs and designed tombstones, made graphs using their information, and compared tombstones past and present. (For example, old tombstones were made of lime and sandstone, but today's are made of marble and granite.)

The pupils went one step further and tried to solve a growing problem in heavily populated areas: where to put new cemeteries on ever-decreasing available land.

Who knows? Maybe one of these sixth-graders will design the cemetery of the future.

Getting into Halloween spirit

WHEN CARS SLOW, and people look at the Halloween decorations, the Kinneys are pleased. In their Clarkston Road yard, a ghost poses with Bob, Kim and Ryan, 3. Tricia, 10, was at school when the photo was taken. A giant pumpkin and 26 others were used.

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

For Bob and Kim Kinney, it wouldn't be Halloween without a ghost or two among their willow trees.

Although around Oct. 31, the Kinneys usually hang ghosts outside their house on Clarkston Road, Independence Township, this is the first year they have really decorated for Halloween, said Kim, adding they always decorate for Christmas.

With help from their children, Tricia, 10, and Ryan, 3, the Kinneys used 26 pumpkins plus a giant pumpkin, glowing Jack-o-lanterns, ghosts hanging from trees, a few ghosts tucked among the trees and a scarecrow, which wears Bob's overalls and a pumpkin head and carries a pitchfork.

Even the tire swing holds a pumpkin.

The decorations are a family activity, said Bob.

"I'm laid off from GM right now," he said. "I don't have anything else to do. I thought it would be exciting. I like to watch the cars slow down to take a look at it."

"I do it mainly for the kids, but adults like it, too. The kids get a kick out of it. It's something the family can do."

Kim thinks holiday decorations are just plain fun, and it pleases the kids, too, she said.

"We just like people looking at it," Kim said. "That just makes us happy."

Already, they're planning for Christmas.

"I just love decorating at Christmas time," said Kim. "We have over 4,000 lights. People stop and look. That just thrills me to the bone."

"I don't worry about the electric bill. I don't worry about nothing. It's just fun."

Wint remembered as one who cared

By Kathy Greenfield
Clarkston News Editor

Diane Wint left a legacy of caring when she died Oct. 22 at age 50.

In addition to co-owning and operating the Lewis Wint & Son Funeral Home in Independence Township since 1959 with her husband Lew, she was active in many community organizations and in the Clarkston United Methodist Church.

"She was a very approachable, sensitive, caring, giving person," said the Rev. Douglas Trebilcock, pastor of the church. "She herself was ill at the end, but it was always, 'How are you doing?' She was a very giving person. That is one of the things I will always remember about Diane."

Clarkston SCAMP, a summer day camp program for handicapped children, was supported by the Wints from its beginnings. Lew Wint was the North Oakland SCAMP Funding Corp.'s first president, and Diane was at his side, said George White, current president.

Mrs. Wint served as one of the first chairpeople of the annual SCAMP Home Tour, which continues to be a major fund raiser.

"She was hard-working, and she had a love and a caring for people," said White.

The funeral service for Mrs. Wint was Oct. 26 at the Clarkston United Methodist Church with Trebilcock and the Rev. Charles Cushing from St. Daniel Catholic Church officiating.

About 1,800 people visited the funeral home and between 700 and 800 people attended the funeral.

The community's response was "unbelievable," said Lew Wint. "We're overwhelmed by the flowers, the people, the contributions, the food." Many people said they were there because the Wints had helped them, and their presence, in turn, provided a great deal of comfort for the family, he said.

Mrs. Wint is also survived by her daughter, Mrs. Leonard (Joy) Wint and son, Bill Wint and his fiancée Dree Chartier, all of Clarkston; parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Eule of Bloomfield Hills; brother, Richard Euler and his wife Nancy of Illinois; grandchildren, Kenny and Kelly Leonard; and sister-in-law, Lane Barrett of Missouri.

Memorials may be made to Mrs. Wint's church, SCAMP or the Michigan Cancer Foundation.

Solley, owner of Brandon store, dies

Alan F. (Al) Solley, owner of Solley's television and appliance store in Brandon Township, died Oct. 19.

Mr. Solley started servicing and selling major appliances 40 years ago. He learned refrigeration in service and went to school in Chicago after leaving the armed forces.

His first store was a building behind his home on M-15 south of Ortonville. Later, he built on his present site, next door to his home, and the building has since been doubled in size, plus he added two storage buildings.

Mr. Solley, 67, and his wife, Beatrice, who survives, had been married 49 years. He had lived in Brandon Township all his life.

Mr. Solley, who is registered in Who's Who in America, was a member of the Ortonville Baptist Church and Michigan Farm Bureau. He was a veteran of World War II and had been a long time supporter and coach of little league baseball in the area.

He was the father and father-in-law of Alloy and Tom Thurlby of Clarkston, Judith and Charles Heichel of Oxford, Hazel and Lee Kellogg of Deerfield Beach, Fla., Errol Solley of Stuart, Fla., and Alan D. and Melissa Solley of Clarkston.

His sister, Edna Carmean of Ortonville, and brother, A. William Solley of Crosswell, also survive as do 14 grandchildren.

Mr. Solley died at Cleveland Clinic, where he had been a patient for about two weeks.

Funeral services were arranged by Sherman Wilk Funeral Home, Ortonville. The memorial service was Oct. 23 at the Ortonville Baptist Church with the Rev. Bill Bronkema officiating. Burial was in Ortonville Cemetery.

Mr. Solley was in business 40 years.

IT'S SILVER ANNIVERSARY TIME for Tom and Bonnie Jones, who were married on Oct. 27, 1962.

Joneses celebrate 25th

Tom and Bonnie Jones celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary Oct. 27.

Eighteen-year residents of Prairie Lawn in Waterford Township, the Joneses have three children, Kirk and Kelly, who live at home, and Kim Donnelly of Ortonville. They have one grandson, Tommy.

In recognition of the occasion, Kim wrote a poem in her parents' honor.

A man and a woman
joined hands for life
He as her husband
She as his wife

Two hearts beat as one
and life unfurls
They share birth of a son
and the birth of their girls

Their life's been fulfilling
They've truly been blessed
We love them both dearly

AT THE BENEFIT DANCE Oct. 17, Bob Lynady and his wife Kathy pose for a photo. Over $5,100 were raised for Bob's family to help recover after Bob's aneurysm left him unable to work. About 400 people, including Bob's former Clarkston High School classmates, neighbors and family, attended the '50s and '60s dance at the Deer Lake Racquet Club. "It turned out great," said Linda (Bennett) Ryan, one of the organizers.

Course for parents begins Nov. 9

A three-session workshop on a step-by-step approach to raising happy, well-behaved children is offered by Clarkston Area Youth Assistance beginning Nov. 9.

Lee Canter's "Assertive Discipline Workshop" will be presented by youth assistance member Janet Colbrun using materials purchased from Canter's training institute.

The sessions are planned on three consecutive Mondays, Nov. 9, 16 and 23, from 7:30 to 9 p.m. at Sashabaw Junior High School. The $10 fee per parent or couple covers the cost of Canter's best-selling "Assertive Discipline for Parents."

The workshop is an offshoot of a one-session program on Canter's methods that was offered by youth assistance in March.

The three-session workshop will cover the concept in more detail, provide concrete examples and allow parents to ask questions, said Garry Pullins, youth assistance social worker.

The techniques "are applicable to any age child, from youngster all the way up to teenager," Pullins said. "That's what's so good about it, you can apply it to the whole range."

To pre-register, call Clarkston Area Youth Assistance at 625-9007.

Grandparents are Marion and Clara Alice Wylie of Greenfield, Ohio, and William and Alice Harrison of Rocky River, Ohio.

Army Spec. 4 Vern L. Campbell has participated in the NATO-sponsored exercise, Return of Forces to Germany '87 (Reforger).

The exercise was designed to evaluate plans and support agreements between NATO member nations, to exercise West Germany's ability to support deploying forces and to test the ability of European-based units to quickly link reinforcing units with their pre-positioned equipment.

Campbell, a 1980 Clarkston High School graduate, is the son of Dolores and Robert Campbell of 5234 Maybee, Independence Township.

He is a wheel vehicle mechanic with the 1st Cavalry Division at Fort Hood, Texas.

Student Rotarian

Not everyone is aware of the men's group that meets on Monday nights at Deer Lake, it's the Rotary Club.

For the past three Monday evenings, I had the honor of being a student Rotarian. It was a pleasant experience that I enjoyed very much.

These men are extremely active within the community. I was deeply impressed as to how much they care about others.

I have to admit, the first night I was a bit nervous knowing that I was going to be the only girl among them. When I got there, they were so friendly that all of my nervousness washed away. They do some pretty interesting things at these meetings—they sing Rotary songs, they have many silly rules which they must abide by and if they are broken the sergeant-at-arms is ready and waiting to collect the $25 fine which goes toward certain activities.

I even caught Mr. Cooley, an assistant principal at CHS, breaking a rule. It's a real relief to know that there are still people around who truly care. I'm very fortunate to have been able to attend these meetings firsthand.

Friend to Friend

Sweetheart isn't her name

Dear Friend to Friend,

I am a senior at Clarkston High School. I had a conflict with a certain male teacher.

The teacher refers to me as honey and sweetheart. I find this very offensive.

He has also been very chauvinistic toward me and other girls, making crude remarks about a woman's body.

I have grown to hate this teacher. What should I do?

Mad

Dear Mad,

Here at Friend to Friend, we have received many complaints concerning similar difficulties. Students and adults are having to face this problem every day.

We're sure you didn't bring this on yourself. It's not your fault that you are experiencing uncomfortable feelings.

The teacher may not be sensitive to the reactions that he may be causing. Many times adults, both men and women, do or say things that make other people uncomfortable without realizing it.

Men have been socialized to feel that they have to be in control. One way to be in control is to make others feel inferior, with words or actions.

When someone makes you feel this way, it is important to let them know that they have offended you. Maybe this will prevent any future comments of the same nature.

Some things you might say when someone calls you "honey" or "sweetie" - "That's NOT my name" or "My name is ..."

We feel that it was very inappropriate for the teacher to make references to a woman's body in the ways you have described in any situation, but especially in a classroom setting.

It is really important to seek the help of a trusted adult or authority figure in this situation.

As a last resort if the teacher doesn't change his ways, you might want to consider dropping the class.

We admire you for standing up for your beliefs instead of thinking that your feelings don't matter.

Letters to Friend to Friend are answered by a panel of Clarkston High School students working under the sponsorship of Aware, an organization devoted to combating chemical use and dependency among Clarkston young people.

Cougar Tracks

Winter Dismay

By Matt Sailor

If there's one thing I don't understand, it's why people who hate winter live here in Michigan. Look around, it's happening already. People are complaining about the cold and it's not half as bad as it's going to get.

Just wait until the snow begins to fall and people have to shovel driveways. Then the complaining will be almost unbearable.

Do these people have a right to complain? I think not. They knew what they were getting into.

Perhaps they were people from down south who were fooled by the picturesque Michigan commercials that show people enjoying winter activities, but forget to show the ice storms, stuck cars, etc.

Could it be that the citizens of Michigan are too concerned with the problems winter causes to see its beauty? What could be more beautiful than, say, the sun rising over a blanket of new-fallen snow?

Don't forget the joys of winter sports, such as sledding, skiing, ice skating, etc.

So this year instead of complaining all season, see how much fun winter can be.

Authors of works featured in "Cougar Tracks" are Sashabaw Junior High School ninth-graders enrolled in Dick Swartout's media class.

Pleasing pumpkin

Betty
Wagner

Pumpkins are so much fun! Their round, appealing shape and flashy, warm color truly invite the attention they get from October through December.

Recently I observed several pumpkin patches from about 500 feet aloft. Lots of orange dots were visible on a brown background.

It was then that I realized how much I love the mellow taste of pumpkin and the versatility of this funny fall vegetable.

Not all the pumpkin's appeal is in eating it. Human-like qualities are attributed to it by all the children, young and old, who carve it as a jack-o'-lantern for Halloween.

Some tasty microwave recipes for your enjoyment include Peppery Pumpkin Soup and Pumpkin Bars. And with the wonderful microwave oven, fresh pumpkin can be at your fingertips in 12 to 14 minutes.

PEPPERY PUMPKIN SOUP

- 1 pound can pumpkin
- 1 14-1/2 ounce can chicken stock
- 1/8 teaspoon white pepper
- 1 cup 2 percent milk
- 1 cup low-fat sour cream

Combine pumpkin, chicken stock, pepper and milk in a 2-quart Pyrex measure, bowl or soup tureen. Microwave at medium high (70 to 80 percent) power until temperature probe registers 160 degrees (about 5 to 10 minutes) or until hot. Stir well.

Whisk in 1 cup low-fat sour cream. Serve immediately. Sprinkle with cinnamon, nutmeg, mace or pumpkin pie spice if desired.

PUMPKIN BARS

(Reprinted with permission from "Microwaving Fruits & Vegetables" by Barbara Methven and Sara Jane Thoms, 1981, Cy DeCosse Inc.)

- 1 cup all-purpose flour
- 3/4 cup brown sugar
- 1 cup cooked or canned pumpkin
- 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon pumpkin pie spice
- 1/3 cup chopped nuts
- 1/4 cup chocolate chips
- 1 egg

Vanilla yogurt sprinkled with cinnamon

Place all ingredients except yogurt and cinnamon in mixing bowl. Blend at low speed, then beat at medium speed 1 minute.

Spread batter in 8-inch round Pyrex cake dish that has been treated with vegetable spray. Cover with wax paper. Place dish on a microwavable plastic rack.

Microwave at 50 percent (medium) power 6 minutes, turning 2 to 3 times if necessary to even out cooking pattern. Increase power to high and cook for 5 to 6 minutes, turning 2 to 3 times if necessary.

Very little unbaked batter should appear through bottom of dish when dish is removed from oven. Let stand for 5 to 10 minutes to finish cooking.

Serve with a dollop of yogurt sprinkled with cinnamon.

Wash small pie pumpkin (2 to 3 pounds). Make 6 slits around lid area with a sharp knife. Place in microwave oven next to a juice glass full of water. (This will add more moisture to oven and soften rind of pumpkin for easier cutting.)

Microwave at high for 6 to 8 minutes. (Vegetables cook for 6 to 8 minutes per pound.) Using hot pads, remove water from oven. Remove pumpkin and cut off lid; cut pumpkin into wedges.

With a sharp knife and a spoon, remove seeds and pulp from pumpkin. (Save seeds for roasting.)

Place wedges and lid in a microwavable baking dish; cover with plastic wrap. Microwave for remaining 6 to 8 minutes or until pumpkin is cooked.

Let stand until cool enough to cut away rind. Mash pumpkin and use in favorite recipe. If finer pumpkin texture is desired, place through food mill or in food processor.

The above recipes were tested in a 650 watt microwave oven. More time may be added for lower wattage ovens and less time for higher wattage ovens.

HOME ECONOMIST BETTY WAGNER resides in Independence Township. Her "Microwave Plus" cable-TV program airs week nights at 7 on Independence-Clarkston Channel 65.

NWOVEC STUDENTS in the food service program, Tammy Swalwell and Dennis Theakston, both from Clarkston High School, serve lunch to CHS teachers Grayce Warren [left] and Barbara Gibson during an in-service day workshop at the center.

School eatery adds carry-outs

Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center's food service facility will open its doors to the public on Nov. 4, providing lunches from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Tuesdays through Fridays.

Food in the sunny cafeteria and the Northwest Inn dining area of the facility is prepared and served by high school juniors and seniors in the vocational food service program at NWOVEC, under the watchful supervision of instructors Robert Fleming and Chris Kevern.

Students are from the Waterford, Brandon, Holly, and Clarkston school districts, as well as from Our Lady of Lakes High School.

Students in the program prepare the food, do the cooking, wait tables, run the cafeteria line and do the cleanup, Kevern said. She and Fleming run the program and prepare the menus.

A new feature at the food service facility this year is a carry-out-only day (Tuesdays), when people will be able to order soups, pizzas, entrees and other carryout items.

Wednesday will be buffet day, with a different specialty featured each Wednesday.

Nov. 4, opening day, will feature oriental stir fry. Nov. 11 will feature a Mexican fiesta; Nov. 18, a Scandinavian entree; Dec. 2, roast strip loin; and Dec. 9, Greek and Italian specialties. The final buffet before semester break, Dec. 16, will be a special Christmas buffet.

On Thursdays and Fridays, the NWOVEC facility will serve lunches from a regular menu.

They also serve for special events and meetings. If people have questions about the facility's service, Fleming suggests they call 625-5202 or 5363.

NWOVEC booklet wins top award

A booklet designed to encourage students to attend the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center has won a "distinguished" award in a communications contest.

The 12-page information booklet with color photographs and descriptions of the school's programs of study received 1,000 points out of a possible 1,000 in the annual Michigan School Public Relations Association Communications Contest, said Douglas Pierson, assistant principal for NWOVEC.

"I just happened to think one day, 'Well this is a nice brochure, why not enter it in a contest?'" said Pierson, so he dug into his pocket for the $5 entry fee and mailed it off.

He was pleased that the booklet, which was printed by students, won a top award. "There were a lot of us that worked on it," he said. "It was kind of a team effort of a lot of people here."

Everybody now!

David Kwasnick

Inspired by the wonderful weather of late (Oct. 21, 22), I have taken it upon myself to produce a work, a masterpiece, that will sum up just how I feel about this topic.

(If you believe any of this, it's obvious you missed my last bit of poetry in The Clarkston News!)

To be sung to the melody of "Santa Claus Is Coming to Town" (and very soon if the weather stays the same).

"Weather Like This Can Really Get Me Down"

Why is it
Snowing outside?
They tell me it's October.
I think someone has lied.

Weather like this can really get me down!

Now the cold ain't so bad,
It's really not at all.
I just don't like it snowing,
When I have to play football.

Weather like this can really get me down!

Some of you may like snow
(For reasons I can't see).
But if you do, come back in winter
And you can shovel snow for me.

Sooooo (Everybody now)

I hope it stops snowing
At least until it should.
'Cause right now there's a snowman
Where my jack-o'-lantern stood.

Weather like this can really get me down!

Lake disappointing, lions deafening

Crater Lake High-Sea Lion low

By Jim Sherman, publisher

We've heard people describe the blueness of Crater Lake in Oregon so many times, we had to see it.

We took highway 26 from Mt. Hood to 97 and to the north entrance of Crater Lake. We went through Madras, spent the night in Redman, and on through Bend.

Just south of Mt. Hood is the Warm Springs Indian Reservation. It's startling to come out of the National Forest of trees and into the reservation of high country desert. Miles of flat land, sagebrush and rocks.

Then more miles of trees. As the governor said, 80 percent of Oregon is federal land. An interesting thing near some of the villages is motels advertising horse accommodations as well as rooms.

When you enter Crater Lake National Park from the north you are already at 6,000 feet. It isn't much of a climb to the rim of the lake at 7,000 feet.

For those unfamiliar with Crater Lake Park . . . Crater Lake gets its name from the lake in the middle of the crater island out in the lake. The surrounding lake surface is at 6,000 feet.

Approaching the area from the north you travel over thousands of acres of nothingness . . . Pumice Desert its called, nearly barren fields of light weight, frothy lava poured out during the final eruption of Mt. Mazama.

A half million people visit Crater Lake a year. This year the park service raised car rates from $2 to $5 and there has been an increase in attendance.

There are several turn-out observation areas. Begging birds come out at one of them, and a ranger told us later not to feed them because they forget how to feed themselves in the winter.

Frankly, we were disappointed in Crater Lake. Maybe we anticipated too much. Maybe it was the unclean appearance of workers in the cafeteria-gift shop. It wasn't the weather, which was sunny and warm.

It was probably this disappointment that made the trip southwest from the lake so long. Of course, it could have been the mountain driving. It was much like the 2-lane roads of Kentucky and Tennessee, hairpin cutbacks.

By the time we reached Reedsport and Florence on the coast we were exhausted. But, some chowder at Mo's on Siuslaw Bay renewed our spirits.

The next morning we stopped at Sea Lions Cave, discovered in 1894. Family owned, in 1961 a hole was dug 215 feet down through the rock and an elevator installed. Just outside the elevator is a huge cavern, opening to the ocean.

The noise is deafening. Hundreds of sea lions yelping. They cavort in the water, climb ever higher on the rocks, swim in and out and lay around. These chunks of blubber sure are fun to watch.

The trip up highway 101 is not unlike the northern California coast . . . gorgeous views of white, foamy ocean waves splashing on the rocky shore, or sneaking up on the sandy beaches.

Crater Lake. They say it's 'amazingly blue', and it is.

Sea lions in another location brought smiles to our faces. We drove the wharf lined street along Newport's bay. Newport boasts of being the "Largest Dungenous Crab Port". There are thousands of crab traps on shore and hundreds of fishing boats in the harbor.

We stopped to look at the water and noticed the sea lions wallowing in the bay. Up to a dozen were rolling around eating fish heads, etc. while sea gulls picked up the access.

Hazel and I thought it was a great show. A local told us they were a nuisance.

We turned inland from Lincoln City toward Portland. This is the wine area. There are a half dozen wineries around McMinnville, and state owned tasting stations along highway 18. We find these stations are for connoisseurs, those interested in what grape comes from vineyards with various rainfalls.

They don't talk chablis and zinfandel and muscatel. They talk $15 a bottle, not $3.98.

On through Portland to Washougal, Washington, home of Pendleton, the maker of wool clothes. We wanted to check out their factory outlet.

It was disappointing. A grab-bag, small building with too-eager buyers picking up things that didn't really appear to be bargains. 20 percent off don't do it.

Except for that one mountain drive, we enjoyed Oregon. Its river fronts, sea side, mountains, orchards, and its people are great. We didn't have a single bad experience with anyone. Their governor said Oregonians are friendly people, and it wasn't just political talk.

Sea Lions scavenger fish heads in Newport harbor.

No flash cameras are allowed in the cave, and our time exposure puts this picture out of focus, but you get the idea. Hundreds of sea lions are in the cave, many fighting for higher spots on the rocks. Those that make it to the top act like kings.

'Miss Personality'

Arlene is a 1-year-old black and white cat who came to the shelter as an "unloved pet," but she quickly proved the feeling is not mutual.

She loves people and animals, and she even "hugs" people when she is picked up. She is already spayed and litter trained.

Arlene can be adopted at the Michigan Humane Society, 3600 Auburn Rd., Auburn Heights, 852-7420. Hours at the non-profit shelter are 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

The adoption fee for Arlene is $25.

Susan and the haircut horror

Suzanne
Baumann

I got my hair cut last night. It's not an extreme change; so far nobody's noticed it, or if they have they've been too polite to say anything.

I walked up to the front counter. "I'm Suzanne Baumann," I said, "I'm here for a haircut."

"Okey-dokie," a heavily made-up receptionist replied. "Ah ... did you say Susan or Suzanne?"

"Suzanne."

"All right, Susan. That'll be about a 20 minute wait. Have a seat."

I hang up my coat, pick up a nature magazine from the table, and make myself become involved in an article about road kill. Just when I really get interested they call me up.

"Susan?"

A cross-eyed lady with all sorts of cuts and Band-Aids over her fingers introduces herself as my hairdresser and seats me in a barber's chair. "How would you like your hair cut, Susan?"

"Shorter."

"Well, shorter in what style?" She goes on to list a bunch of hairstyles I've never heard of before.

"Kind of this in the front, this on the sides, and do the back like this," I say, unintentionally confusing the lady with hand gestures.

She pauses a moment. "Could you take your glasses off?"

I give her my glasses, which she carried away out of my sight (without my glasses that's about five feet).

Just then the other hair stylists walk by, laughing.

"Oh, lucky you," they say to the cross-eyed lady, sarcastically, "God must be getting you back for what you did to that poor man in here yesterday."

I gulp.

"Yeah, I'm sure glad I don't have to work on her hair. It's sooo thick!"

"Shut up," my hairdresser snaps. "You just might get her next time she comes here."

Frightened with this thought, they all turn back to their work.

After a constant half hour of hearing scissors snapping in my ears and getting bits of hair up my nose, I am finally turned toward a mirror. "How does it look?" she asks.

"You tell me," I reply. "You have my glasses."

Eventually I see myself in the mirror and feel like crying ... I always do, even after a good haircut, which this wasn't.

I went home and played with my hair for the rest of the night and finally got it perfect: Exactly what I had before I walked in, only shorter.

Happy swingers

SOME DAYS ARE MADE for going for a swing and sunny Sunday, Oct. 18, was one of them. After giving daughter Jade, 4, a push, Lanny Jackson jumped on a swing of his own in Clarkston's Depot Park. He glided for a while until 20-month-old Mark asked for a push, too. Later, the trio enjoyed ice cream cones in town. [Photo by Kathy Greenfield]

PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT. Holy spirit. You make me see everything and show me the way to reach my ideals. You give me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrongs that are done to me and you are in all instances of my life with me. I, in this short dialogue, want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you no matter how great the material desire may be. I want to be with you, and my loved ones, in your perpetual glory. Amen. Persons must pray this prayer 3 consecutive days without asking for your wish. After the 3rd day your wish will be granted, no matter how difficult it may be. Then, promise to publish this dialogue as soon as your favor has been granted. Thanks St. Jude for favors received. Meet Mark Thompson Used Car Manager at Wally Edgar's Used Car Connection

I promised Mr. Edgar I'd reduce our used car inventory to make room for trade ins on our '88 cars. We've been slicing prices everyday. Wednesday night we stayed open until midnight, with prices at final reduction. Prices are now totally reduced with a great selection of used cars and trucks. Prices will remain at rock bottom Thursday and Friday, October 29 & 30 to clear out the remaining vehicles. We want to prove again that the deals are for real at Wally Edgar Chevrolet Buick, your used car connection.

LITTLE WITCHES SOMETIMES need help with their capes from their moms, and that's the case with 4-year-old Lindsey Wallace and her mom, Cathy Rush, during the Halloween Costume Party put on Saturday by the Independence Township Library.

A BRIGHT RED wig tops off the clown costume of Michelle Curry.

ALL AGLITTER AS an Egyptian girl is 9 1/2-year-old Brynn Allyn.

WEARING A PROPER dracula cape is 5-year-old Zak Woodard who can spell his first name, but says, "I don't know my last name yet." His dad helped out.

AMY MCCLANAHAN, 9, as "Nurse Bloodthirsty" carries a large needle.

THE BLUE eyes of Justin Clark, 6 1/2, are offset with darker blue and black accents. His mom handled the dracula makeup, said Justin, who felt "fine, but weird."
