Village to seek cop contract on its own

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

At wits' end over the proposed police contract, the village and township may soon part company after 11 months of negotiating.

Representatives of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department will meet with village council members Nov. 12 to discuss the possibility of hiring a full-time deputy for the village to handle traffic control.

The council decided to consult with the sheriff's department after township Supervisor Frank Ronk sent a letter and old contract to village council President Sharron Catallo requesting that the village "take the avenue suggested or each of us (township-village) should do our own contracting for police services."

Trustee Frank Millard took high offense with the letter and contract proposal and said it should not be signed.

The contract the township presented to the village council Nov. 9 was the original one the council rejected a year ago, he said, and all the wording the village had requested during the year was removed.

"The township thinks they are in the driver's seat and can dictate to us," said Millard.

The village council decided to do nothing with the contract and wait to see what the Oakland County Sheriff's Department had to offer.

Hiring an Oakland County Sheriff's Department deputy would cost the village $60,000. The cost would include equipment and supervisory expenses.

For the $60,000, the village would get a deputy.

Board opts to table hot issue

BY KATHY GREENFIELD

Following vigorous debate and a plea by Assistant Superintendent Mel Vaara to buy six new diesel buses, the Clarkston Board of Education opted to wait for more budget information before making a decision.

"I wouldn't be before the board if I didn't think it was important," Vaara said. "I realize the district is under financial crisis. I just think it's important for our students."

Board member Stephen Werner replied, "We have to look at the whole picture" and stressed that the tax increase request of 4.25 mills failed for the second time on the October ballot.

Vaara, the administrator in charge of transportation, recommended purchase of the 72-passenger buses with Ward bodies and International chassis from Ride Equipment Co. of Saginaw. The firm's bid, the lowest of three submitted, was $39,823 per bus including $70 for an engine warranty, for a total of $238,938.

If ordered now, the buses would be expected

Gazebo plans hit a minor snag

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Plans to refurbish the Depot Park gazebo hit a snag Nov. 9 during contract negotiations with the builder.

Sunheiser Building Company, based in Rochester, specializes in constructing decks and gazebos.

The village council authorized Trustee Frank

Millard on Oct. 26 to get a contract from the company so the $24,600 construction project could begin.

Representatives from Sunheiser said they would need 10 percent of the money in advance and another 50 percent when the materials are dropped at the site before they could begin construction.

Village attorney John Steckling worried about what would happen to the project should Sunheiser pull out at the last minute if the contract the company presented was signed.

"I have a problem with giving him that much money up front," said Steckling. When the supplies are dropped at the site Steckling recommended someone should double-check that everything is in order.

Some village council members also were afraid to pay a large amount of money up front.

Donations from various sources will pay for the gazebo refurbishing project, which includes putting on a roof and extending the base of the unfinished gazebo in the park.

Since they are working with donations, village council members want to be sure the money will be well spent.

"You have to protect the people's interest," said Trustee Eric Haven.

Millard said giving the company the money in advance should not be a major problem.

"I want to see this thing get done," Millard said. "I don't foresee any problems (with paying in advance)."

Steckling was authorized to work out contract negotiations with the Sunheiser company and come to a solution as soon as possible.

"(Sunheiser) could be in there this week and begin the project," said Millard.

Contract dispute still drags on uty and patrol car for 40 hours of traffic duty each week.

The proposed police contract between Clarkston and Independence calls for the village to pay the equivalent of 2.5 mills for police protection, the same amount the township residents pay.

Last fall, township voters approved an extra 1.5 mills in taxes for the police fund, to increase the total taxes for police coverage to 2.5 mills. Village residents didn't vote on the issue.

The 1.5 mills is equal to approximately $35,000. The village agreed to pay the extra amount in April in return for extra traffic patrol since the township claimed it could lose state equalization funds if the village paid a different tax for police coverage.

The village of Clarkston currently pays 1 mill for police protection under the old contract with the township. One mill is $1 for every $1,000 in assessed property valuation.

New park lands on Springfield agenda

The Springfield Township monthly board meeting will be on Thursday, Nov. 12, instead of the usual Wednesday night because of Veteran's Day.

On the November agenda will be Shiawassee Basin, the 400-acre parcel of land in Springfield Township recently purchased for a park.

According to Township Supervisor Collin Walls, there may be a special presentation commemorating the culmination of the land purchase.

The meeting will be at 8 p.m. in the township hall.

LATCHKEY KIDS in the program at Andersonville Elementary, Seth Elmy, Tanya Hubbard, Tony Morrell, Kristy Kade and Stephanie Simons, play on the merry-go-round under the watchful eyes of Sue Deevey.

Latchkey program humming at Andersonville

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

"The clubhouse," as Andersonville Elementary School Principal Sharon Devereaux calls it, was humming with activity.

Grade-schoolers were running in and out of the modular building behind the elementary school, alternating between busying themselves at small tables, downing Rice Krispies snacks and frolicking on playground equipment in the schoolyard. All was under the watchful supervision of latchkey caregiver Sue Deevey, of course.

The dozen or so elementary school children were participating in a latchkey program initiated at Andersonville. It is the last elementary school in the Clarkston school district to get a latchkey program.

The program, according to latchkey coordinator Linda Irwin, was started in the fall of 1984 at North Sashabaw Elementary School with ninety-some students. The successful program has expanded tremendously, with seven programs in six buildings this year, servicing about 400 families in the school district.

The program, run under the auspices of Clarkston Community Education for kindergartners through sixth-graders, was created to prevent latchkey situations from happening, Irwin says. "We provide a caring atmosphere for children before and after school so they're not home alone."

Latchkey is popular with working parents. The cost is $1.80 per hour for one child and 50 cents per hour for each additional child in the family. The service is offered Monday through Friday before school from 7-8:30 a.m. and after school from 3:20-6 p.m.

After 6 p.m. the cost soars to $5 every 15 minutes, so it behooves parents to be prompt picking their children up after work.

Each program has a caregiver and if there are more than 19 students, an assistant. The new program at Andersonville is not at capacity (approximately 36 pupils), so parents can still take advantage of the service.

Latchkey is more than a "babysitting" service.

"We do homework every day and on Thursdays and Fridays we have pre-tests for spelling," Deevey says. "On Fridays we go to the library to read and see a video."

Tuesdays are gym days. Tuesdays are also "special breakfast days," when the children enjoy pancakes and bacon.

Snacks are offered every morning and afternoon. Deevey is given money to purchase the food and sometimes she has the children help her bake snacks. In addition to cooking, they do arts and crafts. They even helped her make curtains for the windows in the modular.

"We try to play games and make it like home," Deevey says.

Village rezoning request tabled due to vague zoning ordinance

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A vague zoning ordinance caused the Clarkston Village Council to table a rezoning request for a parcel of land on North Main Street next to Beverly's at the Nov. 9 meeting.

Dr. Bruce Harleton plans to purchase the land—if he can get it rezoned to business—and build a veterinarian clinic.

Harleton's proposal calls for an approximately 4,000-square-foot building to house everything he needs to conduct his business.

"There will be no commercial boarding," he said. "Most of the cases will be on a medical outpatient basis."

Pet grooming and supplies such as dog food would be handled in at the clinic as well, said Harleton.

None of the village council members objected to Harleton's plan for the lot should it be rezoned, but most worried about what could happen in the future.

"I think that this is a great idea," said Trustee Eric Haven, "but it would encroach on the residential district. That lot is the crux of the issue here."

Village council members feared that once Harleton retired or moved away any business could move onto the lot.

Because the zoning ordinance is so broad for businesses, members of the village council were leery of rezoning the land. An example cited was that Burger King could buy out a current owner and move in.

Harleton disagreed with the assessment. What happens in the future shouldn't be taken into consideration now, he said.

Trustee Frank Millard was the only member of the council who agreed with Harleton.

Harleton said his plan would be the best possible use of the land because the property is next to a business and the land has a high water table, making a residence unlikely.

Other village council members disagreed with Harleton's viewpoint.

"There is a strong desire to preserve residential land in the village," said Haven.

The village council directed the planning commission to review the lot and recommend its best possible use.

"It's a buildable lot, no question about it," said President Sharron Catallo.

Opinions

Not to

Kathy
Greenfield

Friday the 13th has always made me a little nervous. It also bothers me a bit when I break a mirror or see a black cat ready to cross my path.

I always think twice before walking under a ladder. And when I was a child, I remember rushing home to make sure my mother's back was not broken even though I had stepped on sidewalk cracks.

The reasons I have these reactions at all has everything to do with learning the sayings that begin with "It's bad luck to ..."

I've always been curious about how they started and have read theories on most of them. I don't remember the details, just that everything that begins with those four little words ends with some kind of irrationality.

This Friday the 13th will be the third we've had in 1987. When the first one approached in February, I received a news release from the University of Detroit titled "Friday the 13th Has its Good Points."

Much of the information from the Computerized Folklore Archive at the university was news to me, and now it can be news to you.

~Friday's child, in the nursery rhyme, is loving and giving.

~Arabs consider Fridays the best day of the week for weddings.

~Jewish tradition maintains that man was created on Friday and that when the Hebrew pilgrims were struggling in the wilderness, God gave them a double portion of manna on Friday.

~Christians regard Friday as the day of redemption.

~Folklore says it helps to count to 13 when you're looking for something you've lost.

~Thirteen is a lucky number in parts of Latin America and in Italy, where 17 is thought to be unlucky.

~A Mexican tradition has girls collecting 13 quintos from 13 boys on June 13, buying candles for St. Anthony and expecting to marry before the next June 13.

~Our country's fathers considered 13 a lucky number. Consider that the U.S. originally had 13 states, its flag had 13 stripes and 13 stars and even the country's slogan "e pluribus unum" has 13 letters.

~The number 13 also appears repeatedly on the U.S. dollar bill. There are 13 steps on the pyramid, 13 letters in the motto, 13 stripes on the eagle's chest, 13 leaves, 13 berries and 13 arrows, not to mention the 13 stars.

~Some people believe a baby born on Friday the 13th will be a good one.

~Social events by the Chicago Anti-Superstition Society and the Friday the Thirteenth Clubs of Los Angeles and Philadelphia convene either 13 minutes before noon or 13 minutes after to show their defiance to the date by breaking mirrors, walking under ladders and so on.

(Aren't you glad you weren't invited?)

Letters to the Editor

Bus woes aired

The Clarkston Schools bus drivers are experiencing several difficulties that we are unable to resolve through normal channels. We feel our only hope is to appeal to the taxpayers for their help and support.

We are in desperate need of new buses in our school district, but after attending the school board meeting Monday night, we found that it was tabled again until the December meeting.

We understand that the millage didn't pass and every department is feeling the crunch. The classrooms are overcrowded and we need school books badly.

Taking all that into consideration, we still feel the new buses should be top priority. After all, it isn't going to matter how crowded the classrooms are or whether they have new books or not, if we can't get the children to school SAFELY.

We're talking about buses that pull so badly one way or another when the brakes are applied that the driver can hardly hold it on the road or a school bus that's been on the road daily with a gas tank ready to fall off.

We're talking about buses that are so cold during the winter that the driver comes in crying, buses that have holes in the floor boards, windows that won't defrost, mirrors that are constantly out of adjustment, bus stairwells that have been welded back together twice this school year alone.

Please be aware that these things are only a drop in the bucket compared to all our other daily repairs.

The rapid growth of our special education program has outgrown the service we can provide due to lack of drivers and buses. There are many special education students who are eligible for the program, but we cannot accommodate them.

Taking all this into consideration, a very strange thing has happened that we bus drivers cannot understand.

We were told that if we did not subscribe to the school's Blue Cross insurance, we would be offered $720 instead. Sixteen drivers agreed to do this, if the school would agree to pay this amount by separate check, so it would not put us into a higher tax bracket.

This would be a savings of approximately $26,880 this school year. We were told emphatically "NO," that they would not issue us a separate check.

Therefore, we have a definite problem understanding that our school district is having any type of financial problem.

Bus Drivers Association

Use facts, not kids

Aren't we above using manipulative tactics? How well we all know the manipulation of children in Russia but what about our public school systems here?

Our children do not belong in the middle of millage elections.

The Clarkston school district lets elementary students be carriers of pro-millage literature and also verbal comments home to parents.

How disgraceful to have our children marching in a Labor Day parade to convince us to vote yes for a millage increase. That convinced me to vote no!

Let's let the ADULT taxpayers make ADULT decisions based on information - not marching young innocent faces down Main Street!!

Jim's Jottings

Opening Day is the climax of 52 weeks of talking about Opening Day.

Opening Day, OD, is, of course, opening day of the Michigan buck hunting season. (Regardless of DNR's licensing practices, it's bucks only in our camp.)

OD means a whole bunch of 'honey do' jobs have been done around the house to help pave the way for an ever earlier goodbye kiss from the Mrs.

OD for those of us who 'go north' for our hunting is also a time when we take lip heat from those who don't.

There are the, "You wouldn't shoot Bambi, would you?", and the, "There's more deer right here than there is where you go", and the, "You going to take your gun this year?" remarks.

In a way, the answer to all these is, yes.

However, there are a lot more Bambis living than shot in our camp. There will be nine men hunting in our camp this year. I've been in hunting camps for over 35 years, and I don't believe there have ever been two bucks killed in one year. The average is less than one.

So, you can see, deer hunting we go, deer shooting we don't. This local area can have the largest deer herd in Michigan, and I still wouldn't hunt here.

But, yes, we do take our guns. We'll likely go to the range one morning before season and clean the barrel as we try to hit the bull's eye. However, unless we are attacked, most of us will not disturb the woods with a loud gunshot on OD.

We WILL act like deer hunters. We'll roll out of bed about 5:30 a.m., eat a light breakfast, avoid perfumed soaps when we wash, pull on our long johns, put on all the cold weather gear we have and head for the woods.

We also load the car with hot dogs, cookies, buns, onions, and chili for lunch. When it comes right down to it, the thing we hunt for all morning is lunch, and the thing we hunt for in the afternoon is the evening fire-side cocktail and fellowship.

We'll poke around in the woods, not getting too far from a road, just in case some deer dragging has to be done. We'll watch the nervous chickadees flitting ever closer. We'll hope a porcupine moves enough for us to spot him. They are fascinating creatures.

But, we will be very still a lot. We'll listen hard for cracking twigs, rustling leaves, or snoring. They'll turn out to be the wind, squirrels, or imagination.

There's more imagination in deer hunting than anything else. Macho man with his gun and knife, his foul language and unshaven face, his appetite and his hangover.

He cooks for himself, he does dishes, he gets up early, stays up late, sleeps in the woods, otherwise abuses his body more than any other time the rest of the year.

I can hardly wait. Bring on Opening Day!

Gravel concern

The article in The Clarkston News on 10-28-87 regarding Burroughs Materials Corp.'s desire to extend their Oakhill gravel mining operations eastward across Dartmouth should be of great concern to residents of the area.

Due to what this could do to property values, the increased noise level from mining operations, traffic from gravel trucks on Dartmouth, Indianwood and Eston roads, and necessary zoning changes, area residents need to express their views.

Have your views known. Attend the public hearing at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Nov. 17, at the Independence Township Annex, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

Norbert and Joanna Ackerman

Dubious trade-off

As a resident and nearby property owner, I am opposed to the township board approving the expansion of the Burroughs Material Corp., allowing gravel mining on the east side of Dartmouth Road.

This property is zoned suburban farms. Our property and our neighbors' property are suburban farms. None of us would have chosen to purchase land next to a gravel pit.

The noise, dust, ugliness and general nuisance of living next to a gravel pit would have turned us away. We looked forward to the planned completion and closing of the original operation on Oakhill Road.

If the township board approves the change of the land use of this property for any length of time, our quality of life, property values and salability of our homes will nosedive.

The paving of Oakhill from Sashabaw to Dartmouth is a dubious trade-off for the amount of damage to be done to the surrounding property owners. (If gravel trucks weren't traveling on Oakhill would there be a need for paving?)

Our own road (Indianwood) has suffered the noise and choking dust of passing gravel trucks even though entrance and exit to Burroughs was supposed to be restricted to Sashabaw/Oakhill roads.

Violations were common and would resume in earnest with the new operation.

Gravel operations are extremely noisy. I believe mining of gravel will disturb the water table and affect our wells. No one wants to live next door to one. I am surprised our township board would even consider it.

I urge all residents in the Indianwood-Dartmouth-Eston area to attend the township board meeting Nov. 17 at 7:30 p.m.

Be there - be heard - our township board will approve this if we don't let them know that we are in opposition.

Logic questioned

We moved to Clarkston in June from out of state. I followed the attempt to pass the millage very closely and volunteered some time to promote this worthy effort.

I thought I understood how the millage worked until I read a recent letter on the editorial page from a 1987 Clarkston High School graduate.

She assured the reader that the millage should not pass because no one paid extra money for her education.

Please set me straight. During the 12 years that young lady was in school, was there a masked millage passer? Was there a phantom benefactor pumping huge sums of money into the educational process of the Clarkston children?

Have all those people who worked so hard to pass that millage been under the gross misconception, perhaps, that the citizens of this fine community have been passing millages for years to increase their property taxes because, for some perverse reason, we believe we get in education, as in every fact of life, exactly what we pay for?

Was this millage an effort to dupe the community and no one picked up on it until that letter was published?

The young lady also set the record straight on class size. She very clearly points out that the overloaded classes will prepare the students for overloaded classes in college.

Does this mean that, after all, two wrongs do make a right?!!

In a broader sense, can this mean that the many decades of research and studies which have been irrefutably proven that a smaller student-teacher ratio has a direct and positive effect on learning actually be a communist plot to undermine the American educational system?!!!! INCREDIBLE!!

Enlightening revelations aside, one thing about her letter concerns me. She graduated fifth in her class using that kind of logic.

That is proof in itself that this school system is in a state of dire peril.

Peggy Rieman

Action needed

I am a 1982 graduate of Clarkston High School and I am now a second-year graduate student at Ball State University, Muncie, Ind.

My parents are year-round residents of Clarkston; my brother and I are residents part of the year. Members of our family are no longer in the Clarkston school system; however, our support continues.

I am writing this letter in response to a recent letter to the editor with the headline "College prep?" by 1987 CHS graduate Teresa M. Hofman.

I hope Ms. Hofman and others who share her view are reading this. The fact that Ms. Hofman felt deprived of new textbooks and had overcrowded classrooms is no reason to "wish" this onto incoming students because that is how it was for her.

Action should be taken wherever and when needed to improve the quality of education for all students, whether it is "free" or not.

Ms. Hofman, please save your letter and when you graduate from Northern Michigan University, take it out and re-read it. Hopefully, your views toward education will have changed.

Student speaks out

I am writing in response to a letter sent in by Teresa Hofman, a 1987 graduate of Clarkston High School now attending Northern Michigan University, who was opposed to the millage issue.

I am a 1965 graduate of Clarkston High School. It is very disappointing to me that the millage failed, and also that even some recent graduates do not understand how vital this issue is.

I am currently a junior at Michigan Technological University and I understand how important new facilities are including textbooks, laboratory equipment, a wider selection of classes to choose from, more teachers for more "personal attention," etc.

'If it Fitz ...'

When seconds are first

Jim Fitzgerald

For me, watching TV sitcoms would be more satisfying if reruns were run before first runs.

This is coming to you from the same guy who, a few years ago, advised readers to get second opinions first from doctors. A survey made by a medical insurer revealed that second opinions often were more encouraging than first opinions. So why not skip the first opinion and go directly to the second doctor, thereby getting better news about your health while saving money? Makes good sense to me.

The thing about situation comedies is I usually don't watch them until they're in reruns. That's my method of culling out the chaff. I figure if a sitcom isn't good enough to be sold in the rerun market, it is chaff, and I don't want to waste my time watching seed coverings and other debris that was separated from the seed when the grain was threshed.

My favorite sitcoms are "WKRP in Cincinnati," "The Mary Tyler Moore Show," "Cheers," "M.A.S.H.," "Taxi," "Barney Miller" and "Buffalo Bill." I didn't begin watching any of them until they went into reruns.

But the rerun method of culling isn't perfect; some chaff gets through with the wheat. "The Jeffersons" and "Facts of Life" come immediately to mind. To avoid uncultured debris, I rely on TV listings plus gut instinct. My gut tells me I won't enjoy a show synopsized like this: "Mike wants Sally to learn tattooing," especially if there's a cute kid in it and the guest star is Bert Convy.

I ALSO PAY attention to what the television critics say, but with reservations. You have to be careful of critics who protect their reputation for sophisticated good taste by recommending trash by qualifying it as "good trash." If there were any such thing as good trash, there would be no sense in running the grain through the threshing machine.

The best idea is to follow a critic's advice only after the sitcom has gone into reruns, only if Sherman Hemsley isn't in it, and only if the episode description in the TV listings doesn't make your gut suspect that the dreadful blond from "Three's Company" is making an uncultured comeback.

And even with all these precautions, you can run into chaff if reruns begin while first runs are still being produced. Currently I'm watching "Cheers" reruns on three different channels and enjoying them so much I can't resist also watching the new episodes on NBC Thursday nights. And on Thursday nights I miss Shelley Long so much I could cry.

That's probably not fair to the young woman who replaced Long as the object of Ted Danson's lust, nor to everyone else connected with the first runs. Compared with most TV sitcoms, first-run "Cheers" is still fine. But compared with the "Cheers" episodes that feature Shelley Long, the new shows are a big disappointment.

I'M HAVING A similar experience with ABC's "The Slap Maxwell Story," which most critics say is the season's best new sitcom. They say it's as good as the late "Buffalo Bill," which has the same star, Dabney Coleman, playing much the same character. It isn't.

Because I'm currently enjoying "Buffalo Bill" so much in reruns, I'm also tuning in to "Slap Maxwell." The new show is OK, but not nearly as good as the rerun. On Wednesday I keep wishing Dabney's Slap would be as appealing and funny as Bill was on Sunday.

That's the problem - the contrast between rerun and first run is too immediate, sometimes it's the same day. There's no time to forget how good the rerun was. Obviously, the only solution is to run the reruns long before the first runs run.

If you hesitate to agree with me, and want a second opinion, why didn't you get it first? Cull me anytime.

Ode to Old Friends

By Virginia Vliet Radtke

Perhaps I have not done what was expected of me,
By moving far away.
Then again, whose choice is it,
Yours or mine to say?

Would you have me to remain
With ones who forget loyalty,
Who caused me great, unnecessary pain,
Who forgot the Golden Rule?

They scoffed at how I feel,
Put years of service behind.
They live in worlds not real
And caused me loss of piece of mind.

Then again, whose choice is it
To move so far away.
Is it yours or mine to say?

They gave me no alternative,
Those torn and grieving feelings of mine, you see,
But to go and wander far away
To try to set them free.

There is an inner strength
Among animals, birds or bee.
Come, walk softly my friends,
Through these peaceful forests with me.

A hummingbird, a flock of wild turkey,
A nesting loon or herd of deer.
Do not worry my friends,
There is no real loneliness here.

I did not do what was expected of me,
By going so far away,
But if God offers one peace of mind,
It's where one ought to stay.

Although I miss each one of you, on any given day,
If life becomes a struggle, I hope you truly find
A wonderful place, as restful as mine.

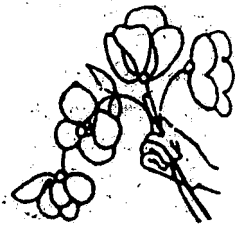

Thank you for your friendship over all these years,
Your thoughts, concern and even your tears.
My friends will always remain very special,
So set aside all your fears.

I did not do what was expected of me,
By moving far away.
But remember to smile when you think of me,
I'm just a memory away.

appreciated

We would like to thank everyone who participated in the Oct. 17 benefit dance for Bob Lynady: the donors, the organizers and especially Linda (Bennett) Ryan and Denise (Novotney) Howard.

The money is going to help the family a lot, and the dance was terrific. The place was jam-packed, and the food was fabulous. It was good to see all the kids again.

Oregon kudos

Dear Jim,

I spent my growing up years on the Oregon coast in Tillamook County. Hope you had a chance to taste our cheese from there. I moved to Michigan in August 1936.

I sure appreciate your articles on Oregon. It brings back memories.

I lived in Nesbaw. I went back there in 1982 for a 50-year reunion in Cloverdale and got to see the devastation on Mt. St. Helen.

Thanks once more for your wonderful articles.

Opinion of Bill Myers

Too tall a ladder, too narrow a view

William A. Myers is a retired Lapeer County editor and investments manager from Boca Raton, Fla.

You want to extend your reach. Some of us are content with an ordinary stepladder, high enough to paint some window casings on the first floor. Others are more ambitious. They want to paint the second story. So they get a regular ladder that goes up maybe 12 feet. It's more risky and it had better be sitting on level ground.

The macho type wants to paint the cornices and under the eaves. So he gets an extension ladder - two ladders in one. The top one hooks over one of the upper rungs of the one underneath. It gets pretty shaky and wobbly. The do-it-yourself painter then compounds the risk by trying to reach out too far to the left or right from the top of the ladder.

With all that leverage at the top, the ladder starts sliding sideways, like an upside-down pendulum. It crashes to the ground.

This is called a "correction."

I call it falling on your fanny because you had no business being up that high on a shaky ladder, trying to act like a professional painter, or a fireman, or a Flying Wallenda.

Early last summer, I wrote here about the market being too high. It was historically high in terms of prices of relationship to earnings. An average stock earning $5 a year was selling for $100 - 20 times earnings. If you got all the earnings, it would take you 20 years to get your investment back.

Dividends were near historical lows, around 3 percent - before taxes. Say 2.25 percent after your income tax.

Stock prices were historically high relative to book value. If a company was worth $1 million (assets minus liabilities), the market was valuing it at $3 million - three times its worth measured by net assets.

All these factors - prices too high in relation to earnings, dividends and assets - were obvious months ago.

This is the simple country boy approach.

People whose money I handle would nudge me now and then and point to a stock market that had gone up 40 percent since New Year's. I kept them fully invested in bonds.

One client has always insisted on managing by herself quite a bundle of stocks she inherited. In June, I wrote to call her attention to the items I've just described. I suggested she put stop-loss orders in of, say, 5 percent under the market. The market then was around 2600.

She didn't do it. She is now a half-million dollars less rich than she was before.

Oh, bonds went down, too. It's a little different in that field, though. Bonds pay off at 100 cents on the dollar when they mature. And when does General Motors or IBM stock mature?

In the meantime, the after-tax return on bonds is four times what stocks were bringing in. That's right - stocks at 2.25 percent, after-tax, on dividends. Tax-exempt municipal bonds are 9 percent, taxable Bell Telephone bonds, 11 percent.

All this year, I had no answer when people asked me, "Where is the market going?" I don't have an answer now. I said all along it was too high. I said it was too high at 1600, I said it was too high when it hit 2000 and I said it again at 2700. I sounded like a needle stuck on a record.

A lot of folks just turned me off. Who wants to listen to a country curmudgeon when there are lovely sirens singing their seductive airs?

Kids are still kids for elementary principal

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

To Jack Hayden, children are essentially the same now as they were 27 years ago, when he first began working in the Clarkston school district.

Now principal of North Sashabaw Elementary School, Hayden still enjoys his work in education.

"I don't believe they've changed that much," said Hayden, a Waterford Township resident. "Kids are exposed to a lot more these days, so they can verbalize more. ... But kids are still basically kids."

"Even the games haven't changed much. They still jump rope and play marbles and kickball. ... They still like to slide on the ice, and it's still forbidden."

"Behaviorally, I'm convinced our discipline is as good now as it was then. Kids are a little more worldly now. More kids are open. You can talk with them. They used to be afraid to talk to teachers."

A few more social problems appear, possibly due to more single-parent homes, more homes in which both parents work and a higher divorce rate, he said.

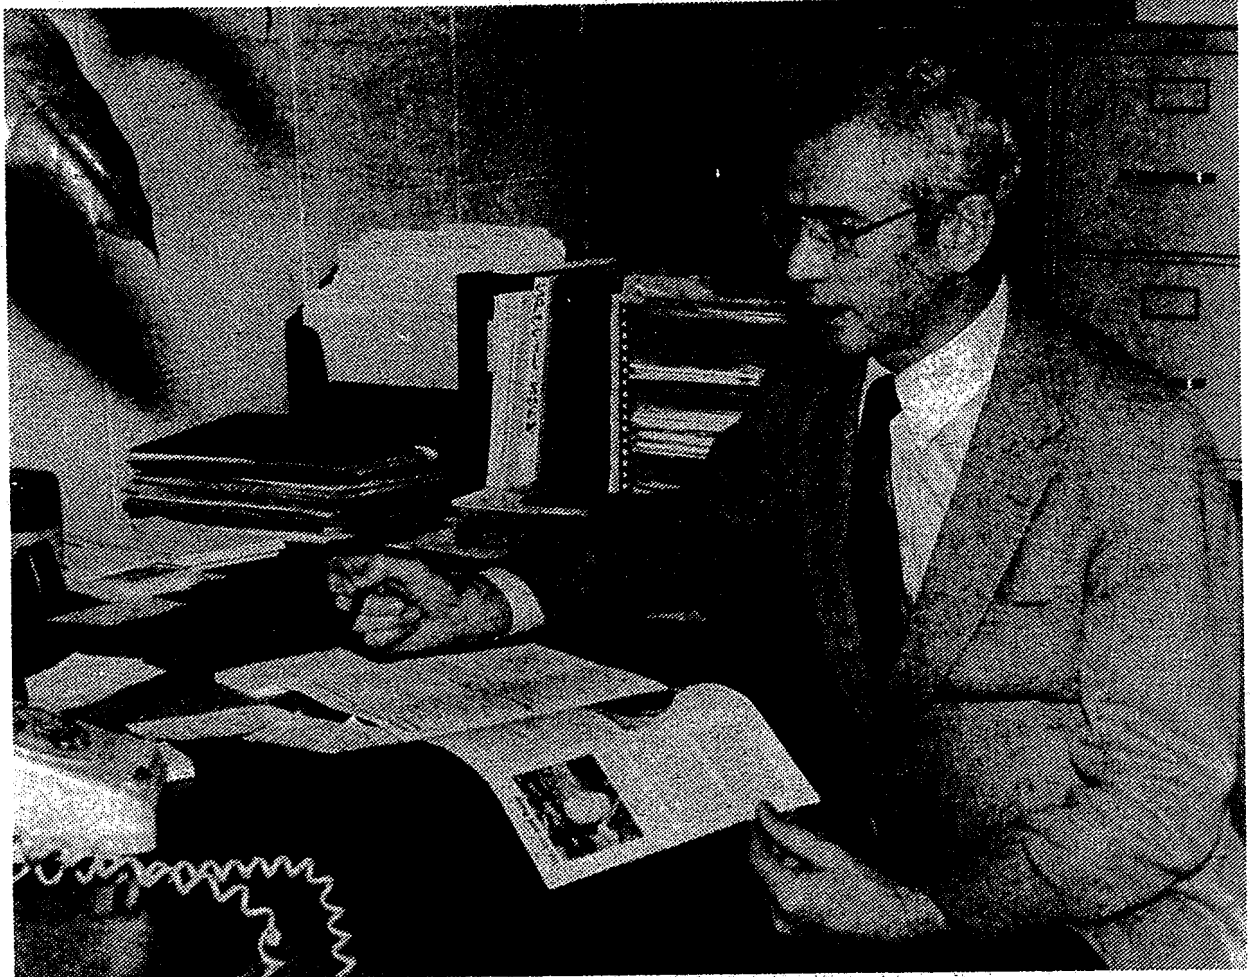

The most dramatic change is the increasing role of parents in a child's education, he said.

"When I first started, it seemed parents weren't welcome in the schools. ... Now parent involvement is a real plus in the schools. (It could have started when) the 'ME' people of the '60s wanted to be involved."

"It's helpful. ... If for some reason parents stopped working with us, I don't know what we'd do. It would create a void."

Hayden also praises the teachers, noting the increasing number of teachers with higher degrees and training.

"The staff is a real highlight of my job," he said. "I don't think the general populous realizes how good the teachers are.

"These teachers are real specialists anymore. They're extremely capable. They do the basics and more. These people are sharp. It's a pleasure to work with them."

"Clarkston has been a truly wonderful place to work," he said.

One parent, Marilyn Stanley whose daughter Caryn-Jean attends the fourth grade at North Sashabaw, appreciates the work of Jack Hayden.

"He's a fine principal. A very fine man. I'm very impressed with him," she said. "He really does care about the kids, and that's important."

GOLFING, FISHING, and hunting are the hobbies Jack Hayden enjoys when he's not working.

Hearing about Oakhill mining

Residents will have a chance to speak their minds next Tuesday about gravel mining on Oakhill Road in Independence Township.

A public hearing is scheduled at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, Nov. 17, at the Township Hall Annex, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

The mining company, Burroughs Materials Corp., asked the township board Oct. 20 for permission to remove gravel from the south side of Oakhill Road, east of Dartmouth.

The company is completing its work on the west side of Dartmouth and a change in consent judgment between the property owners and the township would be necessary for the additional mining.

To relieve the burdens on Oakhill Road, Burroughs plans pave Oakhill Road from Sashabaw Road to Dartmouth Road if the additional mining permission is granted, said James Thornley, a representative of Burroughs, at the Oct. 20 meeting.

Dartmouth Road is not to be used in the additional mining. A conveyor is to carry the material through a tunnel beneath Dartmouth Road, Thornley said.

Business Brief

Harbert named director

Clarkston area resident Dennis R. Harbert has joined Blue Ribbon Inc. as director of market planning and development. In his new position, Harbert will direct a specialized staff to monitor sales activities, coordinate advertising and public relations, establish and direct the training process for agents and oversee the research and development of new products and services. Prior to joining Blue Ribbon, Harbert was with Merit Marketing in Cincinnati, Ohio. He holds a master's degree from Michigan State University and is a member of the American Marketing Association. Blue Ribbon, a subsidiary of Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Michigan, offers wellness programs and a wide range of health care benefits products and consulting services.

Board approves grant proposals

Improvements to the senior citizens center are to be one of the uses of next year's Oakland County Community Development Block Grant to Independence Township.

The township board unanimously approved a resolution to accept the about $56,000 grant with the following allocations:

15%...Commercial Assistance Program
15%...Public Services, including Consortium for Human Development, Chore Service, Home Meals, SCAMP and Clarkston Area Youth Assistance.

38%...Minor Home Repair, for such serious problems as septic systems, wells and heaters.

10%...Senior Citizens Improvements
17%...Special Assessments, for such expenses as sewer, water or roads.

5%...Contingency
The amount of money to be received isn't known for sure yet, but is estimated at about $56,000, said Treasurer John Lutz.

Community development money is to be used for projects to help the needy and projects must meet county criteria.

Scoreboard

Basketball

Clarkston High Varsity Wolves 43, Waterford Mott 22

Nov. 3--Clarkston had one of its best games of the season, according to Coach Dave McDonald.

The Wolves committed only seven fouls and kept their turnovers in the teens as they beat Mott at its own slow-down type of game.

"It was a control game," said McDonald, "but we pushed it up in the second half (and pulled away for the win)."

Michelle Baker scored 17 points to pace the victors in this GOAL battle.

Sue McKoin was the next leading scorer with eight. Ali Fedio topped the team in rebounding with nine. Jackie Patrick had six assists.

The victory helped the varsity basketball team keep pace with league leader Waterford Kettering. The Captains remain one game ahead of Clarkston as of Nov. 9.

Wolves 58, Pontiac Northern 49

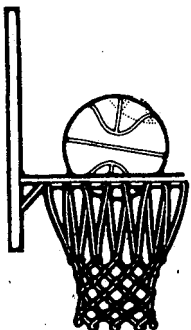

Nov. 5--The visiting Clarkston team outscored the Huskies, 25-6, in the second quarter to run away with the game.

"We were too rough for them inside," said Coach Dave McDonald.

Ali Fedio paced the team in scoring with 17 points and rebounding with 15 boards.

Michelle Baker netted 16 points and Jackie Patrick dished out six assists.

The victory ups the team's record to 11-7 overall and 7-1 in the GOAL.

9th grade basketball Wolverines 61, Brandon 12

Nov. 2--Clarkston got out in front quickly and never looked back as it raced to an easy victory over Brandon.

Jenny McChesney scored 12 points to pace the victors. Beth Walker added 11 more for Clarkston.

Carrie Roeser and Becky Kosek made eight points apiece.

Wolverines 41, Avondale 12

Nov. 3--The Wolverines ended the basketball season on a high note with a rout of host Avondale.

Clarkston opened up a 29-1 lead at halftime and coasted the rest of the way.

Walker scored 11 points for the victors. McChesney made 10 and Roeser added eight.

Lapeer West 39, Cougars 33

Nov. 4--Sashabaw finishes the season with a 7-8 record as the Cougars go down to defeat in their final home game.

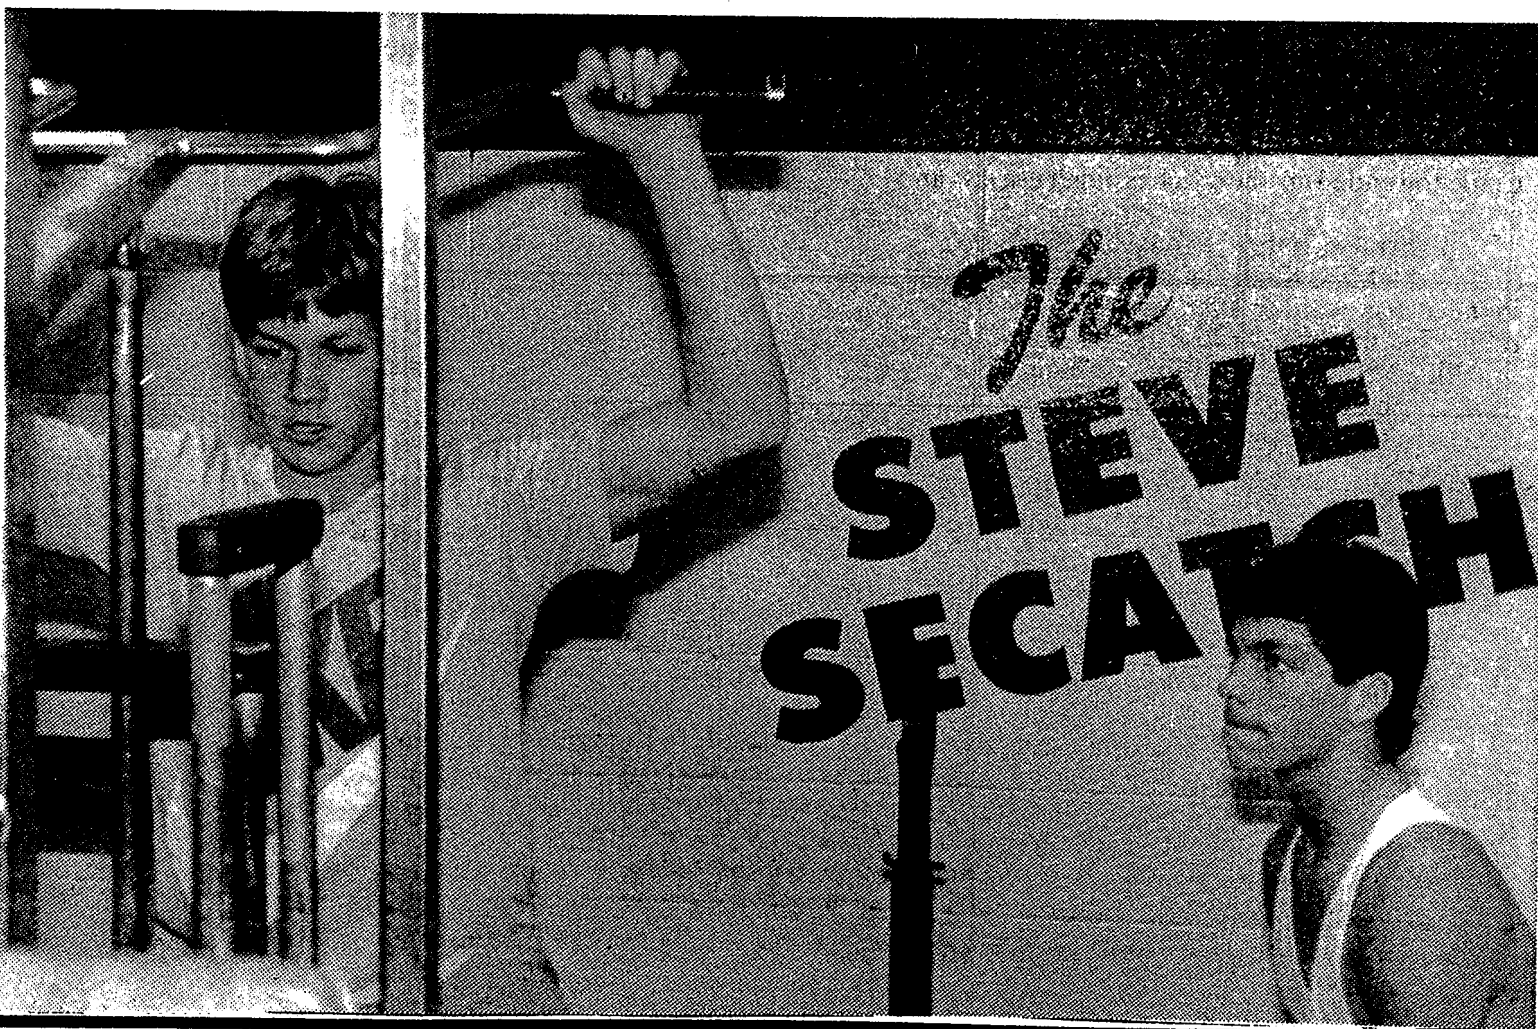

Jenny Graham scored 10 points to lead the team in scoring. Stephanie Cashin added eight more for the Cougars. Lauren Caston had seven and Missy Rhinehart made five points.

Missy Crites and Shannon Duby combined for three more.

Sashabaw lost three of its top players during the final moments of the game to hamper its chances of winning, said Bannister.

New and improved

The weight room at Clarkston High School was recently upgraded through donations from the Secatch family that totaled more than $6,000. A new padded floor, paint, new pads on the benches and cables on the equipment were purchased with the money. The high school paid for new lights and ceiling improvements, said Athletic Director Paul Tungate. The weight room will officially be dedicated to Steven Secatch, who was killed in an accident this summer, on Nov. 11. An open house will follow the ceremony. Here, Matt Misiak [left] and Jerry Lawrence try out the new equipment after school last week.

Girls cross country takes 10th in state

Continuing a recent upward trend, the girls cross country team finished the 1987 season 10th in the state.

After a successful season (seven dual meet wins, just one loss), the team members predicted they would finish in the top 10 and they did—but the Wolves knew they could have done better.

"I think that we were all disappointed with (10th place) a little bit," said senior Kate Conlen. "We were all hoping to do just a little bit better."

The rough conditions of the course at Groesbeck Golf Course in Lansing probably contributed to the 10th place finish.

Conlen, a four-year cross country runner, said it was the toughest course she has ever run.

Sophomore Sonya Schaffer finished as the top Clarkston runner in the team race at 19th. She was the only Wolves' runner to earn All-State honors.

The top 25 times in the team and individual race are combined to make up the All-State team.

Other runners who scored for Clarkston included sophomore Jenny Mahler (30th), Conlen (38th), sophomore Lisa Palazzola (57th) and Emily Winfield (150th).

While injuries played a key role in where Clarkston ended up, the coaches didn't use it as an excuse.

"Other teams there had the same problem," said Coach Mike Kaul. "I understand Ann Arbor Pioneer was without their top third or fourth runner but they were still strong enough to win."

Pioneer won the state meet. West Bloomfield, which defeated Clarkston by a point in the regionals, took second.

Injuries aside, the outstanding performance of the sophomore class at the state meet impressed Kaul. Clarkston will continue to be strong in girls cross country, he said.

For the past five or six years both junior high schools have been feeding the Clarkston program with quality runners who are ready to compete against anyone, said Kaul.

"We have been real lucky," said Kaul. "There are always a couple of good ones."

Kaul said Chris Krueger's work with the girls at Sashabaw Junior High has really helped improve their skills.

"He is always sending us girls who are way ahead of everyone else," said Kaul.

Schaffer, a product of Sashabaw Junior High, was the only All-State winner for Clarkston this year.

Mahler, a former Clarkston Junior High runner, has been the top runner for the Wolves during the last half of the season.

MICHELLE DARBY passes the ball to a teammate during first-half action of Thursday's JV game against Pontiac Northern.

JV Wolves keep rolling

While the varsity basketball team battles for the GOAL crown, the JV squad just keeps rolling along.

As the season progresses, Coach Larry Sherrill continues to see improvement. The Wolves upped their overall record to 11-7 (GOAL 6-2) with two wins last week.

The wins didn't come as a surprise for Sherrill.

"(Victories) start to come at the end of the year when they learn what to do," he said.

Clarkston started out the week Nov. 3 against Waterford Mott at home and battled into overtime before winning, 49-44.

Celeste Steinhelper made the extra session possible by sinking a free throw with no time left on the clock.

She paced the team in scoring with 13 points. Steinhelper also collected nine rebounds and five steals for an excellent all-around performance.

Ingrid Larson also scored 13 points for Clarkston.

"This was one of the best team efforts of the year by us," said Sherrill of the Wolves' domination on the court.

The Wolves' fortunes began turning around at the Lake Orion game Oct. 27, said Sherrill. Clarkston won that game, 46-33.

The team began playing with more intensity and started instituting a running game. Since that time, Clarkston has won three-of-four games.

One of those three victories was a 64-18 pasting of Pontiac Northern on the road Nov. 5.

Clarkston, as the score indicates, controlled the game from start to finish. The Huskies, who only dressed five players for the contest, never held a lead in the game.

An 11-0 scoring run by the Wolves in the second quarter opened up the floodgates. Clarkston held a 26-11 edge at halftime.

"We have been playing with more intensity and better defense lately," said Sherrill.

Lisa Manzo topped the team in scoring with 13 points. Larson added 12 points and 19 rebounds for the victors.

Clarkston heads into the stretch run of the season at home. The Wolves' final game is Nov. 17 at home against Lake Orion.

Senior takes softball to England

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Senior citizen softball players might not draw much attention in America, but several Britons did a double-take when a group of them visited Great Britain recently.

The National Association of Senior Citizen Softballers (NASCS) and Pan American Airlines co-sponsored an eight team tournament to promote the game in England.

One of the players invited to participate was Bob Waddell of Mary Sue Street in Independence Township.

Waddell, who plays for the Clarkston Merchants senior citizen softball team, was chosen mainly because of his outstanding ability. He pitched a no-hitter in the softball world series this summer.

The eight teams, two from Michigan and one each from New York, Virginia, New Mexico, Colorado, Ohio and California, played a round-robin tourney in 10 sites from Sept. 18 to Oct. 3.

On the softball diamond, Waddell's Michigan team finished second in the tournament behind Virginia. Michigan's Blue team placed third.

The white team was leading the Virginia squad in the fifth inning of a seven-inning game before losing, said the 60-year-old Waddell.

When they were not playing games or sight-seeing, the teams went to a local park and practiced. That's when the trip became interesting, said Waddell.

While playing at the park, several Britons decided to join the seniors and learn the game of softball. It wasn't an easy transition for them.

"They didn't know how to squeeze the glove shut and the ball would just bounce away," said Waddell. "They looked like little kids playing, but they really liked it."

The seniors left behind a few softballs for the young Britons to play with after they returned home, said Waddell.

The main aim of the trip was to promote the sport of softball in England, but the seniors had plenty of time to see the sights as well.

"We were busy all the time," said Waddell. "I have never seen so many cathedrals in all of my life."

Organizers of the trip coordinated the sightseeing activities for the seniors, so they were able to maximize their time.

They saw the changing of the guard in London and Big Ben along with old castles and inns, said Waddell.

"I took a ton of pictures," he said. "This is a trip that everyone should make once in their lifetime."

The NASAS plans to make the tournament an annual event, said Waddell. Possible future locations include New Zealand, Japan and other European nations.

Township boy 2nd best in state tourney

Coordination, talent and a little luck is all one needs to succeed in the annual Punt, Pass and Kick tournament.

An Independence Township 9-year-old had the coordination and talent taken care of but failed to get a little luck as he finished second in his age bracket.

Bradley Agar of Snowapple Drive participated in the finals of the event during halftime of the Detroit-Dallas football game at the Silverdome on Sunday.

The only person to finish ahead of Bradley also would have won had he been in the 10, 11 or 12-year-old age division.

"That shows you the boy who beat him really had an outstanding day," said Tim Agar, Bradley's father.

Pizza Hut and the Michigan Department of Parks and Recreation sponsors the event. Entrants are weeded out at 32 local competitions. The field narrows even further at six regional competitions.

Bradley won the Troy regional in his age bracket. There were six age groups ranging from 8 to 13 years old.

The event is more than just fun and games and the participants know it, said the elder Agar.

"You get one pass, one punt and one kickoff-style kick and if you flub it that really hurts your score," he said. "There is a lot of pressure involved in it."

A Clarkston Elementary fifth-grader, Bradley is also a member of the Clarkston Chiefs freshman little league football team, which recently won a super bowl game at Clarkston High School.

"He has had a lot of exciting times during the past two weeks," said Agar.

Note: The following piece was written before the battle between Clarkston and Waterford Kettering Nov. 10 for the GOAL basketball title. But whether the Wolves won or lost the game, the ideas expressed below remain the same.

Gutty performances by the girls varsity basketball team has gotten it a long way this season.

Before the year began, Coach Dave McDonald knew he would have a talented squad and hoped to contend for a Greater Oakland Activities League title.

Then injuries, something that all teams must live with, struck down several key performers.

Injuries are an easy excuse to explain losses as they begin to pile up on a club missing one or more starters. It's not uncommon experience.

But the players who remained didn't let up and kept on playing... and winning.

It is a tribute to them that they have gone this far in the race for the GOAL title against league powerhouse Waterford Kettering.

Forget the records, the team has done well this season. Better than anyone could have expected. For that they should be proud of their accomplishment.

Clarkston's overall record won't come near what it was last year but then it really doesn't matter. What counts is how they played this year.

The Wolves played over their heads at times and deserved a little applause for all they have done. It doesn't matter if they win or lose the GOAL title. They have won something more important and valuable than that—respect.

Clarkston has gotten this far by playing as a team. Not just one or two superstars carrying the club, but everyone contributing any way they can.

A clutch free throw here, a key steal there, the Wolves won't go down without a fight. A different player steps into the limelight and helps the Wolves to victory.

Granted, the top teams in the state have proved to be too much for Clarkston, but the Wolves can (and have) stuck with everyone else.

Clarkston closes out the regular season Nov. 17 at home against GOAL foe Lake Orion. Then the team will partake in post-season play. Since Clarkston hosts its district, maybe the Wolves could finish with a district championship.

Or better yet, a regional crown. Or even better, a state title.

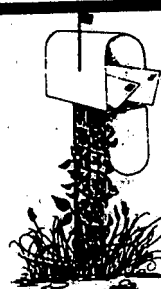

But don't let me get ahead of myself, let's take it one miracle at a time.

Road trips downfall of junior high teams

Long homestands and even longer road trips marked the junior high girls basketball season. Clarkston and Sashabaw Junior High fell victim to the long period of time between home games.

"We were forgotten about a little bit," said Clarkston coach Dennis Bronson. The Wolverines played eight out of their last 10 games on the road.

Clarkston entered that long stretch of games with a 5-1 record. The Wolverines finished up at 9-7 by winning their last two games. For Bronson, that was a sign of maturity.

"The girls got down (after all the road games) but recovered to win the last two," he said. "It was rough playing all those games on the road."

A couple of tough losses late in the season created a little frustration for the team.

"The season could have been better, but overall I'm pleased with it," said Bronson.

Top performers for Clarkston included Jenny McChesney, Beth Walker, Becky Kosek and Carrie Roeser, said Bronson.

"They were the most consistent players all season," he said.

Renewed optimism kept the Sashabaw team rolling all season long.

After a 2-4 start, the Cougars rallied to finish with a 7-8 record and impress Coach Jayne Bannister.

"I wouldn't trade this season for any other I have had here," said Bannister. "It has been great."

Sashabaw got off to a bad start since it had to play its first six games on the road. When the losses started to pile up, things looked bleak for the Cougars.

"It was tough to keep the moral of the team up after all of those road games," said Bannister. "But we had great parental support all season."

Outstanding performances by Jenny Graham, Stephanie Cashin, Missy Crites and Sue

Kramer helped keep Sashabaw competitive this season, said Bannister.

The Cougars finished the season winning three out of their last five games.

Sashabaw cheerleaders win trophy

Sashabaw Junior High School's cheerleaders really have something to cheer about.

The 10 girls on the Sashabaw Junior High squad earned a fourth place during "Spirit Day" competition Oct. 24 at Central Michigan University, Mount Pleasant.

The fourth-place win was particularly difficult to achieve because the competition was sponsored by Dynamic Cheerleaders Association (DCA), according to the team's coach, Pat Andrus.

"DCA competition is a very competitive thing," Andrus says. "Squads are there by invitation, and only the best teams go there to compete."

The girls competed against 15 to 20 other squads at the junior high (ninth-grade) level. Hundreds of teams from all over Michigan were there to compete at all levels in the day-long competition.

The Sashabaw Junior High cheerleaders are: Kim Choops, Heather Coxen, Abbey Forbes, Nichole Grutza, Mary Hicks, Denise Liveratos, Melissa Noel, Angela Oemig, Julie Srock and Sara Veltigian.

This is the second year in a row the Sashabaw Junior High cheerleaders have placed at DCA competition, according to Andrus, who is also a teacher at Andersonville Elementary School. Assisting her in coaching the team is Miranda Morales, a former Sashabaw Junior High School student.

More Letters

found myself competing with kids from all over the state and nation, and fortunately, I found myself to be very well prepared.

I cannot thank my teachers enough for helping me as much as they did, but many people fail to realize that teachers cannot do it alone.

In our constantly advancing world, every day brings something new and it is very difficult to keep up if you're using the same material someone used seven or eight years ago.

Another thing that I find very disappointing is the fact that when new lights were needed for the football field, we got them with little difficulty.

But when the opportunity arose to give our kids a better education, we said no - twice.

That really tells me something about how the people in Clarkston feel about our kids and their future.

Teresa Hofman closes by saying, "These high schoolers don't know how good they've got it. They should appreciate their schooling while it's free to them."

I'm sure those who try to further their education at distinguished institutions will find out how good they've got it when many of the kids they're competing against have better backgrounds, only because their community went out of its way to help them.

On behalf of the kids in the Clarkston school district who will feel the negative effects of this millage failure, thanks a lot to those of you who voted no and showed how much you really care about our future.

Scott C. Meyland

Pressure unfair

We voted no on Clarkston school millage. We are for education but against using and abusing children.

They are not in school to be brainwashed, threatened and frightened by teachers, daily office announcements and other children for them to convince their parents how to vote.

Love has nothing at all to do with the way one votes.

Your solid block of yes voters exercised one of the few remaining freedoms left in this country, the private choice at the polls.

I wasn't called but know some who were that told you yes to get you off the phone. Those who said no, you tried to convince and wanted to have a board member call.

Some said yes to keep their children from being harassed.

Other points - Why are new books always way down the list when they would benefit all the students? How many students included in the fourth Friday count was funding received for who then moved away? Why are we holding all this valuable vacant land if a new high school is to be built elsewhere?

There are many young families and senior citizens (we are in neither of these groups) who truly cannot come up with the few cents per day you claim it would cost. Everyone doesn't get a raise every year. Higher pay has not proven better quality.

If this district is in such poor financial condition, how could we find $7,000 for a special vote to be held? There is talk of having yet another vote. Is there no end to the $7,000 amounts available for this?

Once per year should be the limit for requesting millage increases. The budget should be based on the amount available not what is wanted.

A complete picture with all the facts would make the difference, too. If we can't afford sports, band and all these special classes that benefit a small percent, then the people involved will have to pay to participate.

The school system does not pay for piano, dance, baton, and etc., lessons; scouts; or other special interests that some students have.

I and our four children are all Clarkston graduates. We at present have grandchildren in the system with others coming up. Make common sense and honesty on all issues the goals in any future requests. Let's hear from others who voted no.

Please withhold my name to protect those of our grandchildren who share the same last name.

The flip side

Re: "Slum similarities," a letter to the editor printed on Nov. 4.

I, too, am disgusted! Not with the looks of our village but with some of the so-called good and friendly people of Clarkston.

What we don't need is another self-righteous know-it-all telling us not only how to live but how to maintain our places of business.

It is easy to sit and complain about property you don't own. I'm sure I speak for a lot of other businesses in Independence, it's hard enough to continue in business without criticism from some opinionated hypocrite.

You even fear for the safety of people going to downtown Clarkston. You have many grand ideas. Maybe you could donate the funds necessary to repair all unsafe conditions.

You seem to resent the council for never doing anything about your plan for the watering of the big evergreen. I wonder if it was the tree that was so important or was it just the use of your plans.

You can remember that there is a patch of grass in need of mowing or where there is garbage overflowing in a parking lot, but you honestly can't remember how you voted on such an important issue as police protection! Get Real!!!

About "the little old lady sitting on the curb shooting tires of those d-- gravel train trucks." My, you have made yourself look very innocent, but we know the real you. Capable of Malicious Destruction of Property, Discharging of a Firearm in a Residential Zone and Endangering the Lives of the very people you claim to love so much.

Clarkston has grown and prospered for more than 100 years before we were blessed with your presence and I'm sure it will continue to do so after you've gone. My sympathy goes to the poor, unsuspecting town in N.C.

Bus decision to wait until December

in June, Vaara said, and 60 percent of the bill would be paid out of the '87-88 budget and 40 percent out of next year's budget.

Vaara noted that the purchase would make the fleet all diesel. The six gasoline powered buses to be replaced are 12 to 14 years old, have electrical problems and are in constant need of repair, he said.

The current fleet is comprised of 34 units which include five spares and two special education spares. Buses currently transport 3,200 general education and 90 special education pupils per day.

Due to the millage failure, said board member John Needham, he expected budget cuts for 1988-89 would equal or be greater than the $1.8 million in cuts for the 1987-88 school year.

Board member Mary Jane Chaustowich said she would be more comfortable with allowing time for a harder look at finances. She also noted that no one had suggested the buses were dangerous and all the existing buses had passed state inspections.

Board member Carolyn Place suggested approving the purchase of three buses, since the expenditure was already in place in the budget.

The only strong show of support for the purchase came from board member Thomas Bills, who noted that the board had opted to keep the bus purchase in the budget for this school year despite other budget cuts.

"The decision then was there was a legitimate need and that's not going to go away," he said. "I hate to see us allow too much time to expend and not keep up with that program ... so I'm supportive."

In a unanimous vote Monday night, the board tabled the purchase proposal to the Dec. 14 regular meeting agenda.

In the interim, the board plans a special meeting for general discussion on Monday, Nov. 23, at Andersonville Elementary School at 7:30 p.m.

54-lot subdivision wins first OK

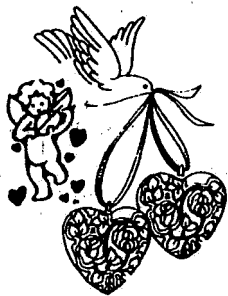

With a few conditions, a 54-lot subdivision off Sashabaw Road received preliminary plat approval from the Independence Township Board last week.

The approval is final if the soil conditions are OK for a septic system and if the deed restriction includes provisions for a potential special assessment district for future municipal utilities.

With no comment, Trustee Carol Balzarini cast the only no vote. In the past, she voted against the project because she wanted the area to remain rural residential zoning instead of its current suburban farm residential.

Planned for 121 acres on Sashabaw Road north of Clarkston Road, the subdivision--Sashabaw Creek Meadows--backs up to Independence Oaks.

The developers, Trinity Investments, also developed Chestnut Hills subdivision off Maybee Road in Independence Township.

WITH A TINY, WHITE HELMET given to her by a motorcycle helmet salesperson, Sweet

Pea, 9, is fashionably protected from harm. Every year, the dachshund participates in a parade in Daytona, Fla., and every year, her photo appears in the newspaper.

Whatta gal!

Sweet Pea is her name, sidecar riding is her claim to fame

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A petite female with soft brown eyes and short brown hair, Sweet Pea's favorite pastime is motorcycle riding.

She prefers sunny days to the cold and windy weather coming up, but even in fall, her neighbors see her riding in the sidecar with her true love, Robert Wilson.

She wears a dainty white helmet and cuddles up in a wool blanket while smiling into the wind, her Harley Davidson kerchief flapping around her neck.

In colder weather, she wears a colorful knit sweater and it looks good with her dark coloring.

"Sweet Pea is one of the best examples of true love you can find in the world," says Robert, who has known her all her life. "It's just loyal true love. ... Anything she knows I want her to do, she does."

He looks at her and smiles, and she returns his gaze with a little wag of her tail.

Sweet Pea was born nine years ago on the eve of Robert's annual trip to Daytona, Fla., where he and his children have raced motorcycles for 22 straight years.

When he returned, Sweet Pea helped soothe Robert's grief over losing his wife in an automobile accident a few years prior.

Ever since, Sweet Pea has traveled to Florida with Robert and has made excursions with him around their Maybee Road, Independence Township, home.

THE SIDECAR ALSO PROVIDES popular seating for Robert Wilson's grandchildren.

Robert has made several, so the whole bunch can ride together with their parents.

Only once has Sweet Pea jumped from the sidecar. In Florida, a squirrel ran in front of the motorcycle and Sweet Pea couldn't resist. Her helmet still shows the battle scars from her tumble.

Robert and Sweet Pea have shared a lot together, he says. Dinner, for example.

"Sweet Pea loves prime rib and all that stuff," says Robert. "She loves ice cream cones."

She prefers to eat whatever Robert eats and refuses meals if they can't eat the same foods, but she politely refrains from eating all fast foods except Arby's roast beef sandwiches.

"Once I gave her a small hamburger, and she just sniffed it and wrapped it back up and shoved it with her nose out of sight," says Robert.

A tool-maker at Pontiac Motors, Robert works the afternoon shift. Sweet Pea greets him at the door most nights, unless she's already in bed.

"I'll come home and find her with her head on the pillow and under the blankets. She likes to be covered up," he says.

He looks at Sweet Pea with a smile. And if dogs smile, Sweet Pea surely smiled back.

Brick's Oven Bakery brings Barry family home

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Five years ago, the Barry family opened a bakery in Fenton. Last month the family corporation expanded into a second store, closer to "home."

Originally, home for the Barry family was the Ortonville area. When the Le Croissant Bakery was for sale this fall, they jumped at the chance to purchase it, says Jerome K. Barry III, who runs the new bakery with co-owner David Kidd, his brother-in-law.

The former Le Croissant Bakery, which sits on the Independence-Brandon township line at 3980 S. Ortonville Rd., is now called Brick's Oven Bakery. There's a story behind the name.

"The bakery was a team effort. We wanted a good foundation and to not leave out any 'bricks,'" says Barry. "All of us represent a 'brick' in the foundation in the family business."

The bakery on M-15 (Ortonville Road) has a country air and fits right in with the family's idea of an old-fashioned, "down-to-earth" type of bakery. The name also implies an old-fashioned, brick oven, Barry explains.

The Fenton Brick's Oven is housed in a national historic site, and Barry speaks proudly of their renovation of the building. Now they are busy getting their second store set up for baking.

Currently, they bake everything at the larger

What's New in Business

Fenton store.

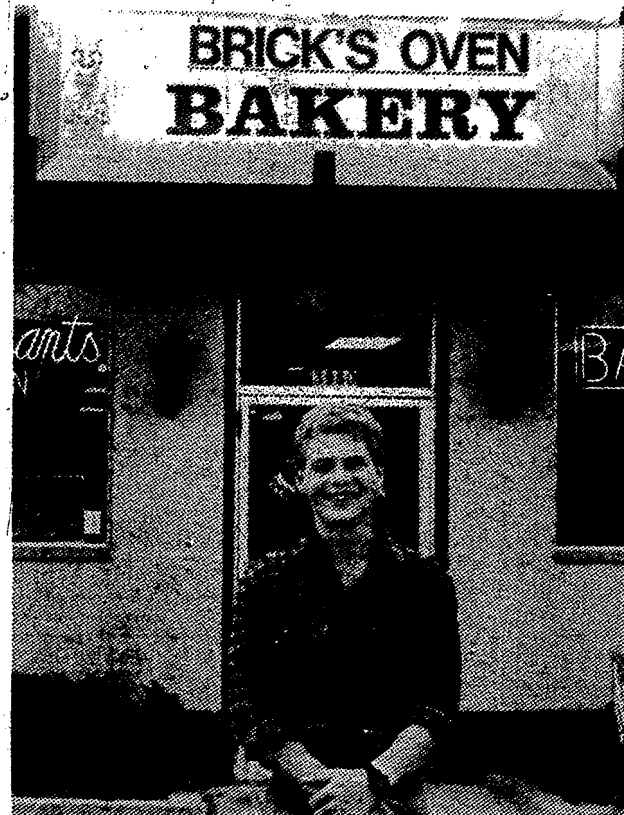

"We are a specialty cake and pastry company," Barry says. "We do special orders and carry a unique product line including a variety of puff pastries and cakes."

For example, customers can order multi-flavored cakes, such as a cake with a bottom layer of dense chocolate and a top layer of banana sour cream walnut.

The bakery also carries a variety of croissants, Danish, cookies and a minimum of eight varieties of bread. It is a carry-out bakery, which also offers beverages and, in season, ice cream. Winter hours at the shop are 6 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday, 6 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, and 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. Sunday.

"We originally got into the bakery business by helping run a little bakery in Ortonville," Barry says. "We went from there to Fenton, but we've actually been shopping for another store on M-15 for a while."

"We've always wanted to come back to this area," he says. "It's home."

JOHN BARRY, one of the family owners of the Fenton Brick's Oven Bakery, tends shop at the new Brick's Oven on M-15 north of Clarkston.

Caramel corn keeps grandfather's legacy alive

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Popcorn, sugar, syrup, peanuts, butter, molasses and salt, proclaims the bright yellow and brown label. But it can't possibly prepare you for the crunchy delight within the bag of Grandpa Schiefelbein's Gourmet Caramel Corn.

Joan Pearson of Independence Township lovingly carries on the legacy of her grandfather with every melt-in-your-mouth bag of caramel corn she prepares.

She uses the same ingredients, the same method and even the same brand of plastic bags her grandfather used to make the caramel corn for so many years.

Albert Schiefelbein came to America from Germany as a young boy. He began making the caramel corn in 1928, continuing until he was 80 years old.

He converted a garage on his farm in Kaukauna, Wis., into a candy factory, making not only caramel corn but other sweet treats as well.

Joan says her mother remembers going to fairs to sell it and delivering it to stores. He only made caramel corn through the fall and winter when the humidity was lower. For Joan, too, it is a seasonal business.

Joan and her husband, Bob, went to Wisconsin and learned the process with help from her grandfather. Just before her grandfather died, he gave Joan the first copper kettle he used in the business. It is too old to use now, but Joan displays it at craft shows where she sells the caramel corn.

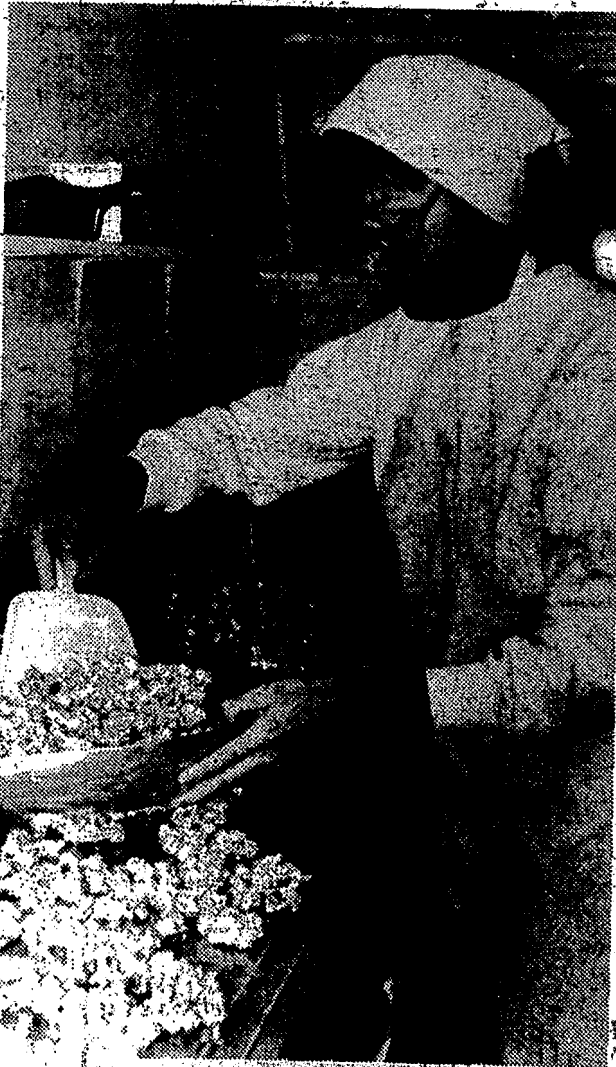

The family recipe and the copper pot were put away while Joan pursued her career, working in a medical office for 18 years.

"But after I retired, I kept searching for something to do," Joan says. "Pastor Bob Walters asked if I'd like to help out in the church office, which I did every Tuesday. But something was still missing."

Then Joan's aunt, Henrietta Rosner, or Aunt Hine as she calls her, suggested making grandpa's caramel corn last year and Joan's new business began.

Her second cousin, Will Lau, makes the caramel corn in Wisconsin but was delighted to have another member of the family get involved.

Joan is licensed by the Department of Agriculture to make her product. Her first show was at the Oakland County Sportsmen's Association, where her husband is a member, and the response was great, Joan says.

Almost a year later, Aunt Hine - Joan describes her as a "great saleslady" - helps with the bustling business. Bob serves as "chief tester and taster." And Joan's daughter, Kay, works alongside her learning the process.

"Kay is very sensitive to the right taste and color," Joan says, stressing that everything, including temperature, must be just right.

Everything is made from scratch, Joan says, and she has gone to great trouble to find exactly the same ingredients her grandfather used, right down to the peanuts.

The caramel base ingredients are cooked in a copper kettle (a newer version of her grandfather's), while the butter (real butter) is melted and the popcorn is popped and screened (so only the biggest kernels are used). Then the action begins.

Everything is quickly mixed and tossed together in the huge, copper pot and then spread on a stainless steel table to cool before it is bagged.

One batch makes 12 8-ounce bags, which sell for $2.25-$2.50. Joan sells them at craft shows, cider mills and at several shops in the North Oakland area including Main Street Deli.

She hopes to someday do mail orders, fund raisers and to "slip in some donations for needy children at Christmas."

She tenderly preserves a tattered old collection of her grandfather's candy cookbooks, called "Ragsdale's Original Scientific Course of Candy Manufacturing," the edges of the books crumbling with age and years of use.

"It's nice to know three generations of the family have carried on," Joan says.

When "Grandpa" made the corn, it was called Caramel Crisp but when Joan started making it, she changed the name to Grandpa Schiefelbein's Gourmet Caramel Corn.

"I felt badly I didn't start it when he was still alive, so we named it in his honor," Joan says. "Grandpa would be thrilled to know I'm continuing it."

Pet of the Week

ANDORA WOULD ADORE a loving family.

Bring Andora home

It took a little tender loving care to nurture Andora back to health.

The short-haired, brown tiger kitten arrived at the shelter injured. But she's all healed now, at 7 months old, and she's hoping for a loving home.

Andora will have a slight limp, but that won't detract from all her good points. She's very well-behaved, while still being mischievous like all kittens. She likes other animals and is litter-box trained.

Andora can be adopted at the Michigan Humane Society, 3600 Auburn Rd., Auburn Heights, 852-7420. Hours at the non-profit shelter are 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

The adoption fee for Andora is $40, which includes spaying.

The cold facts

Suzanne
Baumann

The cold viruses are on the loose and my nose couldn't be angrier.

Every year around this time I always seem to get sick. Oh, the watery eyes, the fevers, the achy muscles ... I can get along with them, but the one thing I can't stand is a stuffy nose.

My nose seems to be stuffed up nine months out of the year. Between colds and allergies May, June and part of July are the only times my sinuses have any peace.

I'm getting allergy shots now, so by next summer hopefully I'll be able to breathe through my nostrils for more than 10 seconds per day.

I'm lucky enough to have a family that makes sure I'm comfortable during a cold. A box of Kleenex on my bedside table. Scottissues sitting on the bathroom counter. Puffs behind the toilet.

There's a box of tissues in every room in my house ... only I rarely get to one soon enough. I always start to sneeze when my hand's just inches away from the tissue box.

One summer day a couple years ago I experienced a particularly embarrassing moment. This was the year my allergies were worst of all.

I was nicknamed "goose" from the sound I made blowing my nose. I was in a store with my parents that day and felt a big sneeze coming on.

Of course, being the forgetful 12-year-old I was, I didn't bring a tissue. At the very first tickle deep inside my nose I tried to ask for one, but it came out like "Dahh-ahhoes ah-ah-anybody ha-ha-have aaaAACHOO!!!"

Getting back to colds, though ... sleeping is the hardest part, most would agree. I'm a side-sleeper. I start the sleeping on my left side. This makes everything drain into the left side of my head.

I roll over to my right. Everything from the left side of my head drains back over to the right side.

This goes on far into the night until I finally give up trying to breathe through my nose and open my mouth. I wake up with an unbearably sore throat.

I know, I know, you're probably saying to yourself, "Why doesn't this little jerk just take some medicine and quit complaining?"

Trust me, I've tried. Our medicine cabinet at home is filled with all sorts of capsules, tablets, caplets, syrups, lozenges, nasal inhalers and rubs -- all of which I've taken the correct dosage for at one cold or another. They just don't seem to work.

Overall, I guess colds aren't as bad for me as I make them sound. I know I can live with them ... but not that I want to.

Sick of being sick

Do you know what I really hate? Being sick, I honestly do. There is absolutely nothing good about it.

Now some of you are probably saying to yourselves, "What do you mean, nothing good? You get to stay home, watch TV, miss school. It's great!"

Well, first of all, let's get something straight. I'm not talking about the I-used-a-Kleenex-so-I-think-I'll-stay-home-today kind of illness.

When I say sick, I mean sick. Sick as in it's about 3 a.m. and you've been up since midnight. Your stomach hurts so bad you wish you'd either have a baby or God would strike you dead, 'cause either one would be an improvement.

When you feel that bad, nothing is fun, regardless of where you are or what you're doing.

You can be at home in bed watching "Jeopardy" or off on some beach in Tahiti with a dozen native girls. It doesn't matter. Life has the same outlook when you're sick--it's awful.

And another thing--it is humanly possible to watch only so much television in one day. From the beginning, everything seems OK. You watch a little of this, a little of that, a few cartoons. No problem.

But after a while, when you find yourself flipping through the channels and stop to watch Mr. Rogers put his slippers on, you know you've had too much.

However, if there is one thing I truly hate about having an ick (especially a stomach ick), it's the cuisine. Variety, that's the name of the game.

Breakfast--weak tea and toast, lunch--weak tea and toast, dinner--let's be different, shall we, weak tea and crackers.

Now, this menu is as much mental as it is physical, for even the thought of anything that might be disagreeable (and that's just about everything but the WT&T diet) is liable to send you scurrying toward your favorite john.

Sooner or later, though, you know you'll beat this thing and you will be fine again ... until you go back to school.

Four words, that's all it takes to completely ruin your day. Just find one of your teachers and ask, "What did I miss?" The first thing he or she will do is say, in that semi-sadistic way, "Well, let's see," and pull out the old daily planner.

If the teacher tells you what the assignments are, you are probably going to be all right. There aren't that many.

But if he/she reaches for something to write on, pack it in! You were better off at home with Mr. Rogers and his slippers. But then again ...

David Kwasnick is a senior at Clarkston High School.

Microwave Plus

Squash 'n' sauce

Betty
Wagner

Squash is one of fall's most nutritious bargains. I recently purchased spaghetti squash for 25 cents a pound.

Spaghetti squash is a complex carbohydrate that is low in fat, high in Vitamin A and contains about as much Vitamin C as a 6-ounce glass of tomato juice.

Studies indicate that vegetables cooked in the microwave oven retain 50 percent more vitamins than vegetables cooked by traditional methods. This is because there is less cooking time to destroy heat-sensitive vitamins and no water, which absorbs water-soluble vitamins.

Recently a friend asked if spaghetti squash could be cooked in a microwave oven. Here is the procedure as well as my favorite spaghetti sauce recipe and tips on how to toast squash seeds in the microwave oven.

Pay careful attention to piercing the hard rind of the squash and to the cooking time. Otherwise, steam could build up within the squash and it could explode and create an unnecessary mess in the oven.

SPAGHETTI SQUASH

- 1 1/2 pound spaghetti squash
- 1 juice glass full of water

Pierce squash deeply with a long-tined fork 3 or 4 times. Place in microwave oven next to juice glass full of water.

Microwave at high power for 9 to 10 minutes or until rind is soft enough to cut. Remove from oven, cut squash across lengthwise to retain long spaghetti strands. Remove seeds and stringy fibers.

Place in microwavable baking dish, cover with microwavable plastic wrap and cook at high for 9 or 10 more minutes or until inside pulp is done.

Serve with butter as a vegetable or with spaghetti sauce in place of pasta.

Note: Vegetables require 6 to 8 minutes per pound in the microwave.

SPAGHETTI SAUCE

- 1 pound lean hamburger
- 2 cups tomato juice
- 1 medium onion, chopped
- 1 4-ounce can mushrooms
- 2 small cans tomato paste
- 1/4 teaspoon thyme
- 1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
- 2 tablespoons oregano
- 2 tablespoons parsley flakes

Place hamburger in a firm plastic colander and set inside a Pyrex pie plate. Microwave at high power for 2 1/2 minutes.

Add chopped onion and continue to cook at high for 2 1/2 minutes or until meat is nearly done and onions are limp. Place meat and onions into 2-quart Pyrex bowl.

Add remaining ingredients, cover loosely with wax paper to prevent spattering; microwave at high for 10 minutes, reduce to 30 percent (defrost) for 20 minutes. Stir several times to distribute heat throughout.

Serve over spaghetti squash or cooked pasta.

SQUASH SEEDS

(Pumpkin is the most lovable squash.)

Remove seeds from squash (pumpkin) cavity and place in a colander or strainer. Rinse with running water, separating seeds from stringy fibers.

Turn seeds out on waxed paper to dry. Place in a Pyrex measure or custard cup with butter (2 tablespoons seeds to 1 teaspoon butter).

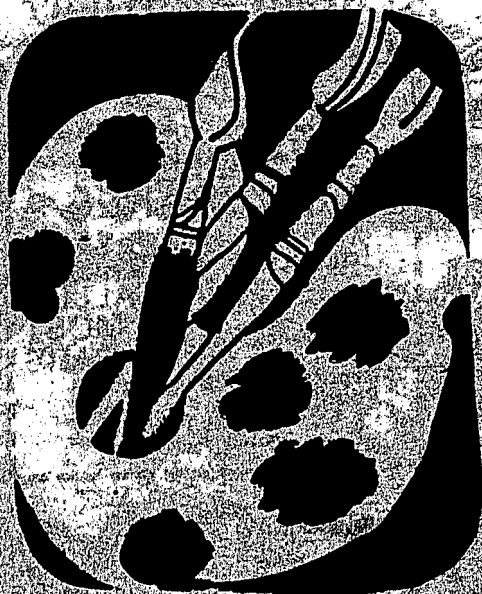

Microwave at high power until seeds are toasted. Stir every minute. Sprinkle with seasoning salt when toasted; turn out on wax paper to cool.

These recipes have been tested in a 650 watt full-size microwave oven. More or less time may be necessary for higher or lower wattage ovens.

HOME ECONOMIST BETTY WAGNER resides in Independence Township. Her "Microwave Plus" cable TV program airs weekdays at 7 p.m. on Independence-Clarkston cable Channel 65.

SAT test help to air on cable TV

To help high school students prepare for the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) and the American College Test (ACT), United Cable Television of Oakland County and the Learning Channel will soon sponsor a program.

The "College Exam Review Series" will air on cable-TV Channel 32 in Independence Township and Clarkston as follows:

Help at 4-H Fair

The Oakland County 4-H Association has begun planning for its 1988 fair, Aug. 1-6.

Under the direction of newly elected President L.C. Scramlin, committees have been established to handle many of the fair duties.

Still needed are volunteers in such areas as advertising, promotion, fair book, ribbons and trophies, budget and rules.

4-H Fair Board meetings are planned the third Monday of each month beginning Nov. 16 and continuing through the fair date until Sept. 19.

For further information, call Scramlin at 634-3043.

Vacuuming or Torture?

BY SHANNON GLOVA

Does anyone really like vacuuming?

I mean, does anyone really enjoy the torture referred to as cleaning the carpets? Well, I certainly don't like it.

There are many problems that come with vacuuming, not to mention the pure fact that we have to do it.

I'll be vacuuming and all of a sudden, the bag pops and dust goes all over my clean rug. Then, of course, there's the dreaded dust inhalation.

Vacuuming can also be very strenuous on the heart for us poor teenagers. Pushing that large vacuum puts unnecessary pressure on the heart that aches for freedom from drudgery.

Despite these health hazards, I'm sure there's some poor soul out there who loves vacuuming.

Heaven help them if they have smiles on their faces while being blown in the face by vacuum cleaner dust.

Students whose works appear in "Cougar Tracks" are ninth-graders enrolled in Dick Swartout's media class at Sashabaw Junior High School.

Public Notice

Representatives from Burroughs Materials Corporation have requested Township approval of a plan which would allow aggregates to be removed from the east property by a front-end loader or dragline crane, placed on a conveyor and transported to the existing Salem operation for processing and removal.

As part of this plan, Burroughs has offered to pave Oakhill Road between Sashabaw and Dartmouth Roads.

The property in question is identified below:

IRS wants to pay

More than 1,000 tax refund checks were returned to the Internal Revenue Service this year because they were undeliverable and the list includes three with Clarkston mailing addresses.

The IRS believes most of these taxpayers moved or changed their last names during the year and failed to notify the Postal Service or the IRS.

If you are due a refund from your 1986 federal tax return but have not yet received it, contact the IRS.

Taxpayers should call the IRS at 1-800-424-1040 for information.

The following people from the Clarkston area had their refund checks returned to the IRS: Norma J. Logan, Mark J. and Vellie M. Smith and Keith E. Bailey.

'His Handiwork' celebrates 4th year

Four years ago, the Episcopal Church Women opted for a change and decided to switch from a bazaar to a craft show.

The plan worked so well that this weekend, they'll hold their 4th Annual Craft Show "His Handiwork."

Featured will be 34 crafters, including many who have had booths before. They will offer everything from country items, wreaths and baskets to wood carvings and pen and ink sketches.

Another highlight is the bakery/deli by the church women. Pies, cookies, breads and candy are just a few of the goodies offered. Always a favorite are the "party mix" and the famous Stewart shortbread made by Edith Stewart with an old family recipe.

The church is located at 6490 Clarkston Rd. (off M-15) and the hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

For more information, call 625-1751.

PRAYER TO THE HOLY Spirit.
Holy spirit. You who make me see everything and who show me the way to reach my ideal.
You who give me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me and you who are in all instances of my life with me. I, in this short dialogue, want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you, no matter how great the material desires may be. I want to be with you, and my loved ones, in your perpetual glory.
Amen. Thank you for your love towards me and my loved ones.
Pray this prayer 3 consecutive days without asking your wish, after the third day your wish will be granted, no matter how difficult it may be. Then, promise to publish this prayer as soon as your favor has been granted.
Thanks St. Jude for favors received. IILX45-1

WHILE PRACTICING, Tracy Shaver doesn't have roses cradled in her arms but she will the night of the Junior Miss Show.

Practice poses

"Dames at Sea" is the theme of this year's Clarkston Junior Miss contest at Clarkston High School on Saturday, Nov. 14.

Twenty CHS seniors will vie for title and scholarships.

Judging is based on scholastic achievement, a private interview with the judges, group physical fitness and poise and appearance routines and individual talent presentations.

Tickets for the program at CHS cost $5 and are available from all contestants as well as Jr. Miss Chairperson Barbara Hamaker. The program is to begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Kirchgessner Theater.

KATE CONLEN'S dance routine involves a series of moves around the stage with a decorated fan. The 20 CHS girls in the Junior Miss Show met for practice three nights last week.

JUNIOR MISS hopefuls turned out at Clarkston High School last week to practice their skills for the Nov. 14 show in the Kirchgessner Theater at CHS. Here Julie Rouse tap-dances to the beat of the music.

SWAYING TO THE BEAT of the music, Pam Squires moves around the stage during a practice session on Thursday.

RACHEL YOUNG brought her french horn to practice the tune she will play for the judges of the Junior Miss Show.
