Selection process for prison continues

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Officials from eight north Oakland County communities, including Springfield Township, named as possible prison sites toured the regional prison in Lapeer Friday.

The meeting was not expected to add anything new to the announcement of the potential prison sites made earlier in the week, said John Dziurman, president of Wade-Trim/Dziurman, the Rochester firm contracted by the State Department of Corrections to select a site. Rather, it was intended to explain the process of the prison selection.

"In my opinion, this meeting is premature," he said. "But it was necessary because of the publicity this issue is receiving."

The eight communities named as potential sites for the 600-inmate regional prison so far are the townships of Springfield, Holly, White Lake, Oxford, Oakland, the village of Holly and Auburn Hills. But Dziurman said he has already had two or three more sites offered and sites could be added or deleted during the selection process.

The process, he said, will take several months. By the end of the year he hopes to have a tentative final list. Then the firm will go to the communities and get more information on the sites and do a development cost analysis on each site.

At this point, he said, more sites might be dropped from the list if they were too expensive to develop.

Widow angered over vandalism

Every night on the way home from work, Yvonne Haughton drives by Lakeview Cemetery and looks at the monument marking her husband's grave.

She lost Steven about this time last year when he died of a stroke at age 30. They had been married 11 years.

Driving by the cemetery has become "a way of being close to him and seeing him every day," she said.

What she saw Monday night, however, left her shaken. Someone had knocked down the monument made of black granite from Africa. It was laying on top of her husband's grave.

"I was screaming and I was in hysteria," she said. "I can't describe the feeling. I don't have a word for it yet."

Mrs. Haughton is offering a $200 reward for confirmation or conviction of the person or persons responsible for the vandalism. She can be reached at 625-8918.

"I'm not interested in conviction as much as confronting those kids," she said. She wants them (See REWARD, Page 10)

MAYBE IT WAS HIS HAT, but whatever the reason, Judge Gerald McNally raised over $400 selling newspapers in Clarkston on Friday morning. McNally purchased the hat after visiting the French Pavillon at the Epcot Center in Florida about five years ago.

Goodfellows newspaper sale a success

The annual Goodfellows newspaper sale last weekend provided about $2,850 for needy Clarkston area families.

"It was very successful," said Buck Kopietz of the Clarkston Rotary Club. "People were very generous this year."

The annual sale is a joint effort between Rotarians and Independence Township firefighters who gathered at corners to sell the newspapers to passing motorists.

The money is used to support "Shoes for Kids," in which referrals are made through the schools to Goodfellows. Any money left over is used for financial emergencies in the community.

Kopietz is especially proud of the Clarkston Goodfellows organization, because there is no administration cost.

The money collected goes even farther because the special edition newspapers are provided free as a community service by The Clarkston News and the shoes are sold at cost by Kinney's, he said.

"Everything goes directly to the community needs," he said.

Clarkston MEAP scores are top third in county

BY KATHY GREENFIELD
Clarkston News Editor

With one exception, the mathematics score in seventh grade, Clarkston school district officials are pleased with the test scores of fourth-, seventh- and 10th-graders in the Michigan Education Educational Assessment Program tests.

The annual MEAP tests in reading and mathematics, required by the State Department of Education, are designed to test basic knowledge.

The scores reflect the percentage of pupils who answered at least 75 percent of the test questions correctly.

As compared to the 28 public school districts in Oakland County, Clarkston's overall scores are expected to fall in the upper third, said William Potvin, Clarkston Elementary School principal who also oversees district-wide testing.

"I'm very pleased," he said. "It shows that with limited resources we are competing with people who have much more resources and doing better than them."

Oakland County has 28 school districts and Clarkston ranks 27th in revenue per pupil.

Of 418 fourth-graders who took the tests, 91 percent attained the reading goal and 89.7 percent the math goal.

"We're right where we should be. No big changes," said Potvin.

Of 438 seventh-graders who took the tests, 90.6 percent attained the reading goal and 73.5 percent the math goal.

"There's been a drop in the last three years from 77 to 73 (in math). That's a score we're not happy with," Potvin said. "We're very happy with 90s in reading in the seventh grade."

Of the 509 10th-graders who took the tests, 91.9 percent attained the goals in reading and 80.1 percent in math.

"Reading is up a little bit, probably where it's going to (stay), in the low 90s, which is an excellent score, by the way," Potvin said.

He was also pleased with the 10th-graders' math score, for more reasons than one.

"It points out that the 73 in math, even if it's a problem it's a temporary one," he said, adding that of the scores for northern Oakland County's 14 school districts, Clarkston was the only district in which tenth-grade math scores were higher than seventh-grade.

One factor for lower-than-expected math scores for seventh-graders is the new textbook series in math introduced in grades K-8 during the 1985-86 school year.

The new text has helped the fourth-graders do better on the test, but has probably had a negative effect on the seventh-graders, partially because math becomes more difficult in the higher grades, he said.

"The new series has been extremely well-received. Teachers are very happy with it, but there are these little holes," he said.

A grant received by the district will allow a mathematics and science improvement workshop for some teachers and one goal will be to strengthen skills where children have shown weaknesses. In addition to district-wide results, MEAP results are also received for individual pupils and for school buildings.

"The greatest concern was seventh grade and the plan is to bring the teachers together in grades four, five and six, look at weak areas and make changes in the curriculum," said Alberta Ellis, district administrator in charge of curriculum.

New budget tops agenda

When the Clarkston Board of Education meets Monday night, Dec. 14, the agenda will include the first formal discussion on the projected budget for the 1988-89 school year.

The news won't be good, said Superintendent Milford Mason.

The preliminary figures will show the need to make reductions of $1,754,000 and will set into motion a series of special meetings beginning in January to decide where the cuts will be made, he said.

Also on the tentative agenda are a proposal to purchase school buses, which was tabled at the board's November meeting.

In addition, the board will decide the selection process it will use to hire a new superintendent of schools. Last month, Mason announced his plan to retire in June 1988.

Other agenda items include employee recognition, introduction of Clarkston High School students who participated in the Washington Close-up Program, recognition for the gift from the Secatch family, recall of a teacher from layoff status, the second reading of the communicable disease policy (which includes AIDS) and the formal resolution for summer tax collection.

The board meeting begins at 8 p.m. at the district administration office, 6389 Clarkston Rd., Independence Township.

Toy drive begins

When Brooke Phaup was a student at Clarkston High School, she wrote a paper on Children's Village in Pontiac.

Now a secretary with Max Brook realtors in Clarkston, Brooke conducted a search for a place that would benefit from a toy drive sponsored by the firm.

She revisited Children's Village, a home for 213 abused and neglected children ranging in age from 2 to 16, and she knew she'd found the right place.

"Unfortunately, there were a lot more children than there were a few years ago," she said.

Community members are encouraged to help. A drop box for new toys, gift wrapped if possible, is located inside the Max Brook office at 27 S. Main.

Brooke suggests toys that would be enjoyed by either sex and she asks that each package include an age designation.

The deadline for donations is Thursday, Dec. 17. The office is open Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 9 p.m., Saturday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Giving tree thrives in Clarkston bank

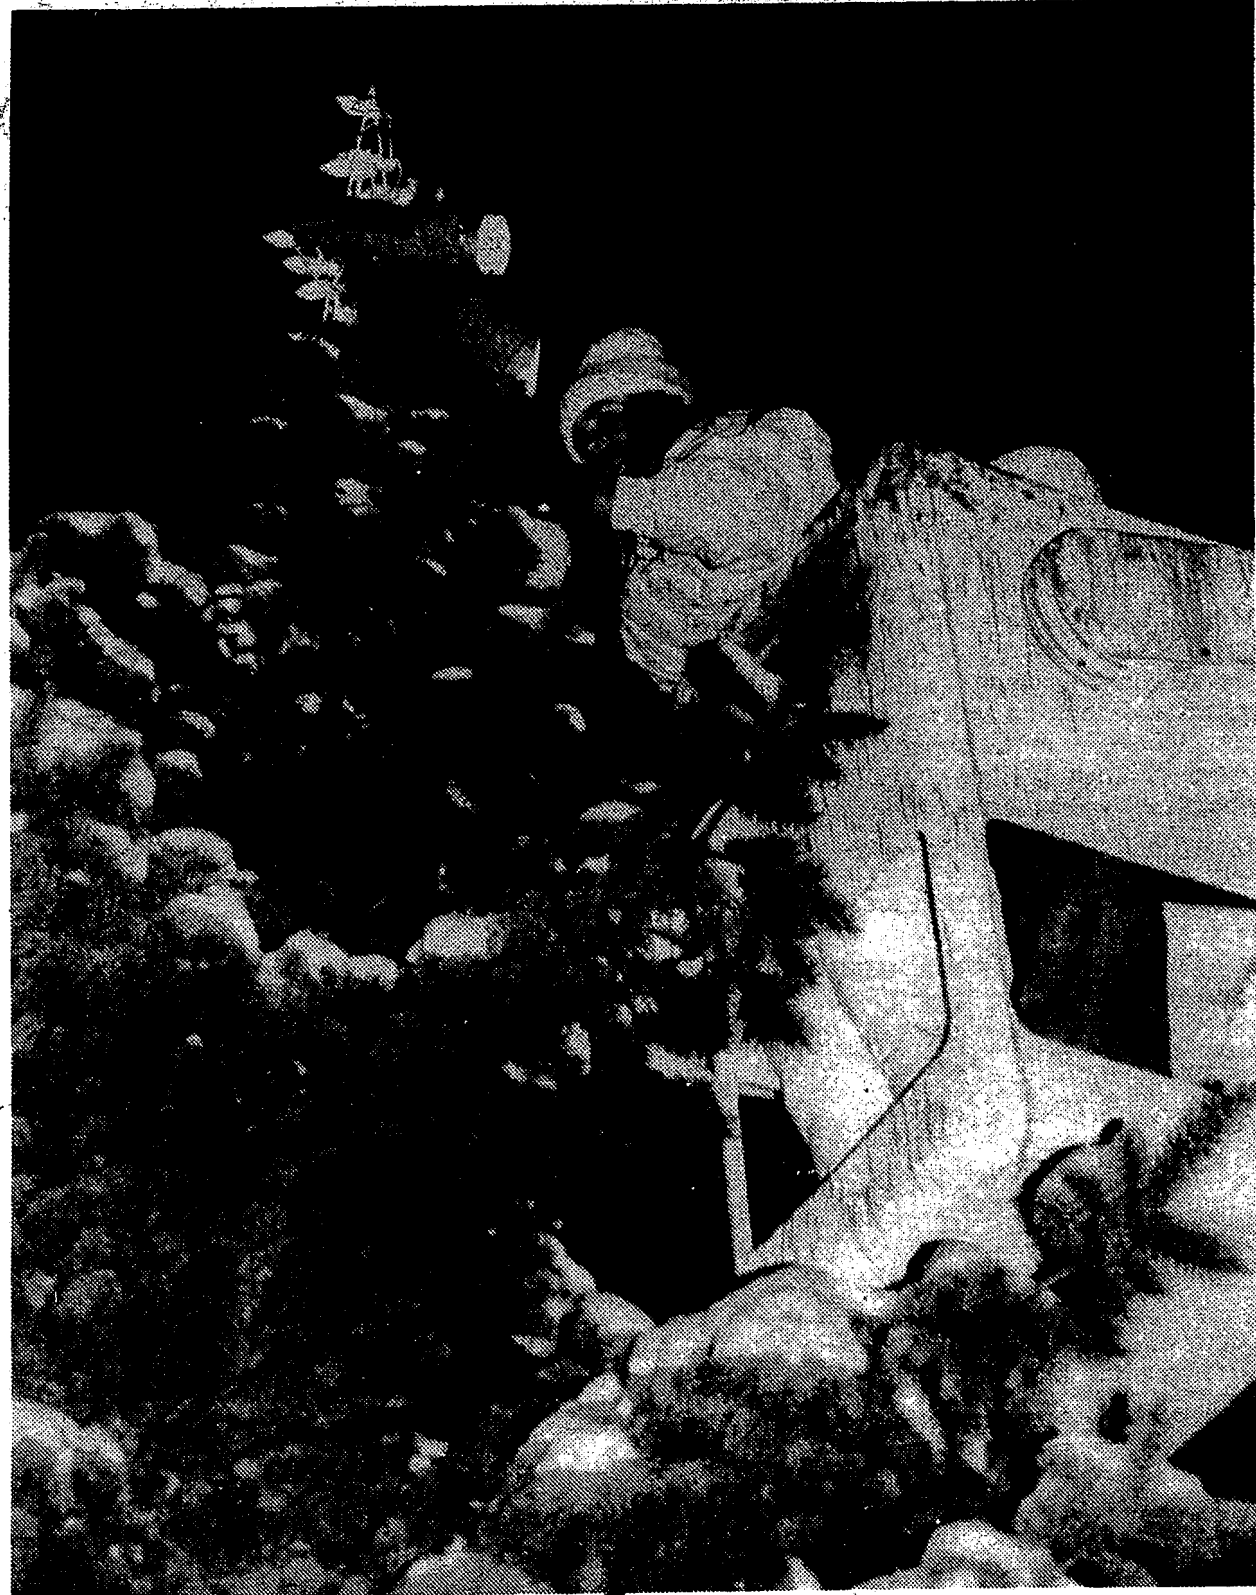

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Employees at the Clarkston Branch of First Federal Savings want to decorate the faces of needy children with big smiles this Christmas. To accomplish this, they decorated their office Christmas tree with very special ornaments.

After gathering the names, ages and sizes of needy children from area schools and churches, the staff made paper teddy bear ornaments reflecting the information and hung them on the tree at 5799 M-15.

For the second year, bank employees are encouraging people to take an ornament with a child's name and buy him or her a gift. Fliers explaining the "giving tree" are available.

For the second year, the employees, too, are buying gifts for needy children rather than for

Lend Santa a helping hand

If the idea of helping Santa Claus with a supply of candy canes, little bags of candy or oranges or apples is appealing, Bill O'Brien wants to hear from you.

The Chicago native moved to Independence Township in August to establish the Clarkston Decorators with his brother, Tim, and Douglas Kreis.

They missed their families at Thanksgiving, so they decided to take steps to bring some cheer to Christmas.

Each plans to be part of the Santa Claus group, with O'Brien in the lead role, his brother as a helper and Kreis as an elf.

Their calendar is filling up, with visits planned to Pontiac General Hospital, Waterford Village School, the nursery school at the Clarkston United Methodist Church, Grovecrest Nursing Home and the Goodfellows' "Shoes for Kids" program at Kinney Shoes.

"I don't know if I'm going to get any work done this month, but we'll have a good time," O'Brien said.

Appearing as Santa is something he's done for 15 years, although he took a five-year break before moving to Clarkston.

"We're new around here. We don't have our family up here and they can't come up for Christmas," he said. "Instead of being alone, it feels good to have a lot of people around."

Anyone wishing to make a donation can leave a message at 625-8257.

each other. They are also collecting food and preparing food baskets for several needy families in the area.

Giving gifts to the children rather than the exchange of gifts between employees was the brainchild of branch manager Joan Gottschalk, said assistant branch manager Annette Snow.

"To me, the joy of Christmas is giving," says Snow. "I only wish I could see the look on the child's face when (he or she) opens the gift. That's what Christmas is all about."

Her feelings are echoed by customer service representative Mel Badder.

"Mainly, we wanted to do something to ensure that no one is forgotten during the holidays," he says. "This allows us to show our community spirit a little."

And like the "giving tree" flier says, it helps promote "the true meaning of Christmas."

Basket case

Kathy Greenfield

Shopping early for Christmas is like rolling the dice. If you're lucky, the gift will still be perfect when the holiday arrives.

While part of me admires the highly organized and the bargain hunters among us, another part is curious.

What do these people do when the item they discovered no longer fits the now heavier or thinner person on their list? What if their sixth sense has been so perfect that the intended goes out and buys whatever it is for him or herself? And so on.

I think there must be a lot of gift juggling going on ... and heaven knows what they do with the leftovers.

My early shopping is usually kept to a minimum because I have major problems finding storage space and remembering where I hide things. But every once in a while, I run across something perfect for someone on my list. Such was the case last September.

A bread basket beckoned. "Marie, Marie, Marie," it said. "You're right! My sister would love to call you her own," said I.

The basket wasn't enough all by itself, so I started buying appropriate little things to put inside. The collection had reached perfection when Marie announced that she'd signed up for a class.

You've got it. Basketweaving.

During the six-week class, she'd make six baskets. Feigning general interest, I requested a list. She wasn't sure what they all were, but the ones she knew didn't include the one I suddenly cared about most.

When several classes rolled by and she'd made a pie basket, a weed basket, a small fruit basket and a larger fruit basket, I began to breathe a bit easier.

Then she told me what the project was for the final night of classes. You've got it. A bread basket.

Marie's baskets, incidentally, are wonderful. She has a knack. And she's really pleased about being able to make things she can use in her own home.

After pondering such things as the number of occasions in a lifetime when more than one bread basket is required and the potential joy involved in switching from bread basket to bread basket for variety's sake, I put her name back on my gifts needed list.

Editorial

Is there a Santa Claus?

The late Charles A. Dana, editor of the New York Sun, gives the true picture of Santa Claus in this reply to a little girl's letter:

Dear Editor: I am eight years old. Some of my little friends say there is no Santa Claus. Please tell me the truth. Is there a Santa Claus?

Virginia O'Hanlon

Dana replied in this editorial, which still holds a distinguished place among the literary triumphs of American journalism:

Virginia, your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age. They think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible by their little minds. They do not believe except what they see. All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children's, are little. In this great universe of ours, man is a mere insect, an ant, in his intellect, compared with the boundless worlds about him, as measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole truth and knowledge.

Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas, how dreary the world would be if there were no Santa Claus! It would be as dreary as if there were no Virginias!

There would be no childlike faith, then, no poetry, no romance, to make tolerable this existence. We should have no enjoyment except in sense and sight. The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would then be extinguished.

Not to believe in Santa Claus! You might as well not believe in fairies! You might get your papa to hire men to watch all the chimneys on Christmas Eve to catch Santa Claus; but even if they did not see Santa Claus coming down, what would that prove? Not everybody sees Santa Claus. The most real things in the world are those that neither children nor men see. Did you ever see fairies dancing on the lawn? Of course not; but that's no proof that they were not there. No one can conceive or imagine all the things that are unseen or unseeable in the world.

You may tear apart a baby's rattle and see what makes the noise inside, but there is a veil covering the unseen world that not the strongest man, not even the united strength of all the strongest men that ever lived, could tear apart. Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance, can push aside that curtain and view and picture that supernal beauty and glory beyond. It is all real. Ah, Virginia, in all the world there is nothing else real and abiding.

No Santa Claus? Thank God, he lives, and he lives forever! A thousand years from now, Virginia, nay, ten thousand years from now, he will continue to make glad the hearts of children.

Jim's Jottings

A thought and a comment or two.

I've mentioned before about a former editor of The Oxford Leader starting a newspaper in Glennallen, Alaska.

Linda Weld has been joined by husband, Jeremy — he in printing, she in editorial and advertising sales. Jeremy even quit being a Ranger to help cut a swath across a journalistic field.

The Copper River Country Journal just completed its first year of twice a month publication. I previously told you they brought their printing press in by dog sled. The Welds have now added a room onto their house, business is so good.

Incidentally, they started building in October and had to drive pilings for a base. They'll pour footings next summer.

What I started to report, as in their Nov 19 issue, their school district is in bankruptcy court. They have a $4,670,000 budget and they are bankrupt even though they have a balanced budget.

It has something to do with the Alaska changing the way they treat federal funds for schools.

It also has something to do, I think, with salary structure. Four administrators split $315,000, or $78,750 each.

41 teachers split $2,250,000, or $54,878 each. That's one of the things bothering Linda. Her competitor's (there are two papers in Glennallen, pop. 363) wife is a school teacher and makes more money than both she and her husband (and the teacher's husband).

Both the Copper River market and Park's Quality Foods had turkeys at 69 cents a pound for Thanksgiving.

Then there's the matter of men's clothes and sizing thereof. One of my rounder friends once remarked, as he stretched his shirt over his body in the locker room, "Obviously, the Tiawanese don't know anything about making shirts for Americans."

What the Tiawanese, Italians, and South Americans do know is average sizes. American men are 5'9", 160 pounds. Clothes sizes go each way from there in full percentage increments. No halves.

Dress shirts are 16-17 neck, 34-35 sleeve, tapered. My neck size is 16 1/2, sleeve 35. Certainly not tapered.

So, I ask the clerk, 'will the neck fit?' "Yes." "Then it doesn't fit the 16 or 17 neck?" "Yes, one size fits all."

'What about the sleeve, is it 34 or 35?' "Yes."

Do they think we're buying socks? Oh, oh. Right. One size sock also does not fit all. I've got some with heels at my calf. Tiawanese apparently make one size for the far east and one size for the west. They should advertise, 'two sizes fit all'.

This sizing isn't new. It's been around since Sears averaged out people in small, medium and large. X-large came later and the XX-large came with the 'I quit-smoking' generation.

Each of us is told, and each of us believe, we are not average. There is never an average day. Even Dow Jones averages don't. Only in clothes do we average.

Of course, if we didn't there would be no Kmart, Sears, Penney, Hudson, Target, Mervyn ... or Bonwit Teller or Saks Fifth Avenue. I was startled to see S, M, and L on a $198 sweater at Bonwit Teller until I saw it was made in the far east.

I guess Bonwit Teller is just your average high priced store.

Nothing to fear

I am writing again to address "Whatever Happened to Live and Let Live" (Clarkston News, Dec. 2).

You addressed me as "Too Petty to Print." Remember, I signed my name and you may address me as a person. In fact, you may confront me face to face. Perhaps we could sit down and discuss our differences.

You missed the point of my letter. I still say The Clarkston News was wrong to withhold your name since you were attacking a person, not an issue.

Now you claim that was an error on the part of the News, but you still want to hide for fear of "hostility."

What are you afraid of? No one is going to harm you for having a difference of opinion. This is, after all, America!

By the way, I've only lived here for 40 years, so by your reckoning I'm a Johnny-come-lately, but I still care a great deal about this township and the village of Clarkston.

May the spirit of peace dwell in your heart this holiday season.

Mine not needed

Once again Clarkston/Independence Township is being threatened with the dangers and problems of an additional gravel mine. A gravel mine that we don't need.

The neighbors of the existing Salem pit made it clear to the township board, at the Nov. 17 public hearing, that a new pit would have several negative consequences.

Unfortunately, the township board chose not to discuss it at the public hearing so it is not clear where they stand.

Apparently, the board already had in hand proposed amendments to the consent judgments that govern and restrict the use of the properties of both the existing and the proposed pits.

This, together with the statement of one board member that he favored the proposal, indicates the board is ready to approve it.

Even more unfortunate, what comments were made by the township officials and representatives indicated the township would lose in court if they didn't approve the new pit.

Although there was a brief, general discussion of the controlling court rulings, the board was not prepared to and did not discuss what consequences can be the basis to deny a new gravel pit.

Our neighbor, Highland Township, successfully prevented a gravel pit there, despite court action, by realizing the consequences and siding with the citizens, rather than cowering to the threats of developers.

Highland Township was prepared to show the courts that very serious consequences would result.

What consequences? The negative impacts on traffic safety for one. And substantial increase in traffic noise for another. A predicted decrease in the residential property values in the neighborhood and along the haul route was also considered. And Highland Township demonstrated that the operation would negatively impact further residential development and its tax base.

Will it be any different in Independence Township? Not likely, not if you listen to the people who have suffered through repeated extensions of the deadlines by which it was to be closed.

So why must we wait for the township board to reject this proposal? If they feel expert testimony is needed at this stage to reinforce the neighbors' first-hand knowledge, it should be obtained immediately.

The board should be leading on this issue, as other boards have in the past, to prevent these developments and their very serious consequences.

These gravel pits will have a significant effect on our entire community. And the way our local government officials handle it will have a significant effect on our entire community.

We don't need another in a series of consent judgments, we need to say enough is enough and stand up to developers' threats.

There is really no reason to wait to reject this new gravel pit and resolve to discontinue the existing operation as soon as possible.

Search for friends

Would it be possible for you to help me locate a few long-lost friends of mine? I am looking for Tonya Cook and Chris Ritter.

I know Tonya attends MSU, but who knows where any student lives there - they even have two zip codes because it is so large.

Then again, any school is big to me. Wingate's largest building is no larger than the Mills Mall (is that still there?).

About Chris, he is the last Nomad in the United States. He may be at college or maybe on another excursion to Utah.

They both know who I am and know that they owe me not only a letter, but a detailed explanation of their whereabouts.

Speaking of faults

Jim

Fitzgerald

Men are much more likely than women to be disgusting.

That statement pretty well sums up the response of female readers to my request for examples of grievous breaches of humanity committed exclusively by men.

The request was made to dilute Male Chauvinist Pig charges resulting from my declaration that women are much more likely than men to delay the progress of civilization - hold up supermarket, toll booth and bank lines - by waiting until the last second to begin searching purses for material they could easily have reached for 10 minutes - or 10 days - earlier.

Charles Lentz of Midland even suggested segregation: "A tip of the hat for the piece about female slowpokes ... Since Express Lines and Cash Only signs in grocery supermarkets are almost meaningless, why not Male Lines and Female Lines?"

Before getting to the disgusting stuff, I should concede not everyone agrees it's solely women who cause queue frustration in supermarkets. K. M. Wolak of Lathrup Village described this experience in the 12-or-less checkout lane at a Farmer Jack's in Southfield:

"In front of me was a gentleman who had 20 items. As the cashier began to ring them up, he began to fumble in his pocket ... As he gazed at the few dollars his searching brought forth, he mumbled something to the cashier about his wife not giving him enough money ... He made the clerk subtotal his groceries, then add just enough so that he wouldn't go over the amount he had. Then they had to decide which coupons he could use and whether or not some were for products he had had to remove from his purchases. Of course, the wife is clearly at fault here. Imagine expecting a mere man to buy groceries. So much for life in the fast lane!"

NOW, LET'S MOVE into the gross lane. (Warning: Children may not want their parents to read any further.) Nancy Need of Rochester wrote:

"Imagine my consternation and disgust while driving down Woodward ... to find these impeccably groomed executives in their highly polished BMWs, Mercedes, etc. sharing a trait which I thought was reserved for construction workers, factory laborers and ball players - opening their car doors and ... SPITTING! Never have I seen a woman do this.

"You men also leave much to be desired in stopping for a wiz mid-morning along I-75. I also have never seen a woman relieving herself thusly."

Along the same line, Mary Rupley of Livonia offered: "My female friends and I have discussed this (flatulence) and we all agree that males have much more gas and are preoccupied with its existence and elimination, whereas females are only concerned with the odor after its elimination."

RUPLEY, a veterinarian, also had this fascinating observation: "When I suggest to my male clients that they have their male pets castrated, you can see them physically cringe, as though you are going after the owner and not the pet. Frequently, even after explaining the medical, behavioral and social benefits of neutering, they still refuse. I rarely, if ever, get this response from female clients, or when I am discussing neutering female pets."

Several readers pointed out that women never leave the toilet seat up (but they always leave it down). Many women suggested men are much more likely to act like they're dying when they only have the flu.

Also, to return to the supermarket, many women think only men deserve to be arrested for the reckless pushing and inconsiderate parking of shopping carts.

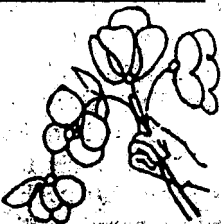

Maybe there should be Male Aisles and Female Aisles. Onward and Upward.

Red letter day

Dear Amy Ginn, Heather Flor, Meredith Higdon, CJHS Student Council and all CJHS Students:

What a special treat you brought to us last Wednesday. The leadership and participation of many students made Nov. 25 a red letter day for a group of very surprised CJHS teachers.

What a joy to be treated to banners, carnations, a faculty memory book and a very special, individually served, luncheon. You really made our day.

It's no small task to throw a party for 45 and we sincerely acknowledge all your efforts on our behalf.

Sincerely,

Mr. Keegan, Mrs. Brumback, Mrs. Well, Mr. Bronson, Mrs. Palace, Mrs. Granlund, Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Lacy, Mr. Conklin, Mrs. Colwell, Ms. Lindeman, Mr. Ostrom, Mr. Craven, Mr. Samuel, Mr. Cooper, Mr. Olivier, Mrs. Glover, Mrs. Hogan, Mr. Rathburg, Mr. Bihl, Mr. McDonald, Mr. Lamm, Mr. Wasvary, Mrs. Dilling, Miss Mathews, Mrs. Tyrrell, Mrs. Shelton, Mr. Sherrill, Mrs. Patterson, Miss Teare, Mr. Lewis (principal) and Mrs. Farmer (assistant principal)

Sewer district OK'd

The Spring Lake Sewer special assessment district was approved Dec. 1, naming developer Ronald Harmon the sole member of the district.

Harmon is to pay the estimated $420,000 construction cost for the force main sewer system in 10 annual installments. The township is to borrow the money through the Michigan Municipal Bond Council and Harmon is to repay the money. The township will be responsible for maintenance of the sewer.

The sewer line is to follow Waterford Road and to connect the existing Dixie Highway sewer to the developer's 60-acre Maybee Road building site in Independence Township.

The township board voted 6-1 to approve the assessment district.

Trustee Carol Balzarini voted no because the township has a policy against force main sewer systems, and she said the board should only accept gravity flow systems.

Training sessions involve fire and ice

New rescue and equipment maintenance techniques are in store for firefighters in Independence Township.

Firefighters in the township will learn about ice and water rescues during a Jan. 23 and 24 seminar in Clarkston.

Sponsored by the Independence Fire Department, the seminar is also open to other communities that wish to contribute toward the $1,700 fee, said Chief Gar Wilson.

The township's portion may be as high as $500, he said, at the Dec. 1 meeting.

The board unanimously approved the expenditure.

Also in January, four Independence firefighters plan to attend a free Watrous Pump School in St. Paul, Minn., where they will learn how to maintain the water pumps in the fire trucks, said Wilson.

Since the maintenance crews work in pairs, the four Independence men represent two shifts, he said.

The board unanimously approved the $1,041 expenditure to cover transportation and room and board for the three-day class.

Death defiers

Carolyn Walker

The first time I cheated death I was a cocky teenager.

I stood on the raft, sucked in the deepest breath I could muster and dove into the cloudy warm lake. I went deep and, as I had done many times before, prepared to swim the length of the structure under water.

I knew that lake like the back of my hand. Its depth. Its silty bottom. Its scattered patches of seaweed. The minnows and the blue gills and the snapping turtles that called it home.

I stretched my body out, kicked hard, and as I swam exhaled air, watching bubbles rise around the raft's supporting barrels to the sunlit surface. I can still sense the serenity and the quiet of that murky world.

Nearing the end of my air supply, I decided to surface. To my surprise, and utter horror, I hit my head on a barrel. Somehow, I had lost direction and never cleared the raft.

Trapped, I struggled to hold in the last of my oxygen. I reached up and felt for the slimy edges of the barrels. I couldn't find them.

Totally disoriented by this time, I knew my only option was to swim furiously in a straight line and hope that I could reach safety before the instinct to inhale became too strong. I got lucky. I made it.

I remember rejoining my friends, who hadn't even missed me, and as I walked to shore, feeling absolutely exhilarated by the whole experience.

I cheated death again on Nov. 29. Only this time it wasn't nearly so exciting.

Maybe it's because I'm older and wiser now. Maybe it's because I felt so completely out of control. Maybe it's because I had one of my children with me. Whatever, the experience left me badly shaken.

Needed at church to direct the children's choir, which was going to sing during the service, I had no choice but to go out in that Sunday's thick fog.

I remember thinking just before impact that I had hardly seen any cars on the road during the 20 minute drive. The weather, no doubt.

I sat at the intersection, waited for my light to turn green and paused just long enough to make sure the other traffic was going to stop. Seeing no cars, I proceeded to turn onto M-24.

I crossed the first of two lanes and was well on my way across the second when two headlights beamed down upon me. Realization: Somebody's running a red light!

I remember stepping on the gas pedal in hopes that I could get out of the way. I remember impact-lurching to my left as if in slow motion, my shoulder and hip slamming into the door, my head shattering its window into a zillion pieces.

I remember my car spinning completely around. I remember my daughter crying. And I remember all the crashing noise and confusion stopping while a realization came over me: It's over. We're still alive.

I will always believe that after the grace of God, the only reason my daughter and I, as well as the other driver who was traveling over 50 miles per hour, walked away from that accident was because somewhere, sometime, someone invented the seat belt.

Our legislators did the right thing when they passed the mandatory seat belt law. Take it from someone who is older and wiser, and only half as cocky as she used to be: Seat belts work. Wear them.

Township budget tops $6 million

A $6,198,640 budget for 1988 was approved unanimously by the Independence Township Board on Dec. 1.

Compared to the $5,841,945 budget approved for 1987, the $356,695 increase in expenditures is spread nearly evenly throughout the budget, said Clerk Richard Holman.

In revenues, the general fund increased by $126,000 over 1987, said Holman, citing as the causes increases in interest and rent, property taxes, charges for services and an estimated increase in state shared revenues.

The new budget will become effective Jan. 1 and will be in place until Dec. 31.

The approval included:

- > General Fund revenue, $2,400,270; expenditures, $2,384,500.
- > Cemetery Fund revenue, $11,000; expenditures, $1,700.
- > Economic Development Fund revenue,

$1,200; expenditures, $350.

Springfield still on list of possible prison sites

A new tentative final list will be made and public hearings will be conducted in the communities. At that point, he said he would put together a citizen selection committee which would sit down with his firm and select a site or sites to recommend to the state.

"I am looking for input from the community as to who would be good representatives from the county for this committee," he said.

Springfield Township Supervisor Collin Walls, who attended the Friday meeting, said that with the exception of fences, the Lapeer prison is much like a small, attractive college campus.

He is taking a "wait and see" attitude about the Springfield site.

"There are some redeeming factors to the Springfield site, but lots of negatives," Walls said. "The biggest deterrent to the Springfield Township site I see is the psychological factor for residents in the area."

The Springfield site is in the southwest quadrant of the township off Woodland Trail adjacent to the toxic dump. Walls said the former dump site could possibly affect or be affected by the prison.

He was also concerned about the visitors to such a facility but said, "We are trying to remain as open-minded as possible."

Concern about the prison, which would house inmates from Oakland County, has been voiced by officials from many of the potential areas. A frequent question at the Friday meeting was "Why not in Pontiac?"

Oakland County Executive Dan Murphy has strongly opposed the north Oakland sites and has strongly recommended the land immediately north of Clinton Valley State Hospital.

"And isn't it surprising that Holly village, Holly Township and Springfield Township were also considered for the youth camp?"

State Rep. Mat Dunaskiss

But Pontiac Mayor Walter Moore said Pontiac has a disproportionate share of facilities now. And Dziurman said the Pontiac site was dropped because the Department of Mental Health refused to allow it to be used for a prison.

State Rep. Mat Dunaskiss, who represents Oakland, Springfield and Oxford townships, also opposes the north Oakland sites, as well as the selection process.

"I think it's very disappointing that the state has gone to this process, using an independent service as a heat shield for government," Dunaskiss said. "And isn't it surprising that Holly village, Holly Township and Springfield Township were also considered for the youth camp?"

"The logical choice is Pontiac," he said. "I think the city would benefit from the 300 jobs it would create. Let's face it. They're losing population. I think they're being short-sighted on this."

Dunaskiss said he is working with townships involved to come up with their own evaluation and make a strong case against using those sites.

He also said no matter where the prison ends up, there are two demands that should be met: It should be a medium, not a minimum security prison. And all prisoners should be in uniform in case of an escape.

Reward offered for vandal's identity

to understand that what may have been a lark for them was devastating to her.

The monument may have attracted the attention of vandals in the park because it is unusual, she said.

The granite is rare and it is etched on the back with the scales of justice, Haughton was an attorney, and with two tennis rackets to signify how the Haughtons met and the sport they enjoyed throughout the years they were married.

Linda Richardson, superintendent of the cemetery at White Lake Road and Dixie Highway in Independence Township, said the monument was probably knocked over Saturday night or early Sunday morning.

It appeared to be undamaged, but it will have to be reset on its base, she said.

A boot mark on the top of the monument indicated that someone knocked it over using a karate-type kick, she said.

"I just think it was kids out there messing around," she said.

Vandalism and flower thefts at the cemetery are an ongoing problem, she said, but she's hopeful that a chain-link fence and wrought iron gates to be installed around the cemetery in the spring-time will improve the situation.

Rezoning pass first readings

The first readings for zoning changes on White Lake Road and Maybee Road were each approved unanimously by the Independence Township Board on Dec. 1.

On White Lake Road, a 1.4-acre pocket of single family residential is to change to commercial.

The property is owned by Thomas Boothby, who also owns the adjacent property and business, Boothby's Old Farm Shop. The Clarkston Heritage Group is to develop the property.

The Boothby house is to be preserved, said developer Ken Rogers, adding several people were interested in buying the house and moving it.

The change is consistent with the master plan and will make the corner parcel a better development, said Richard Carlisle, township planning consultant.

A second reading and adoption is necessary before the rezoning takes effect.

On Maybee Road, a 20-acre parcel of single-family residential property is to change to multiple family residential.

The Fox Corp., which developed Lancaster Lakes Apartments on Dixie Highway in Independence Township, has an option to buy the land.

Fox plans to build apartments and develop the 20 acres in conjunction with an adjacent 28 acres already zoned multiple family residential.

The site is north of Maybee Road and west of Sashabaw Road, behind the Food Town shopping center.

The zoning change is consistent with the master plan and could help in preserving the wetlands on the property, said Carlisle.

"It makes sense that these two sites be developed together," he said.

A second reading and adoption is necessary before the rezoning takes effect.

Kids gain personal growth at camp

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The wilderness surrounding Eagle Village in northwestern Michigan was recreated on the inside: wooden "mountains" for rappelling, ropes and safety harnesses for crossing "crevasses."

The man-made equipment provided the environment for a "New Horizons" personal growth training program attended by 18 pupils from Cedar Crest Academy in Springfield Township.

The village in Hersey, Mich., is a non-profit corporation started to provide a unique training experience for youths. For the 18 fifth-, sixth- and seventh-graders from the private day school near Clarkston, it was an experience they would never forget.

The pupils attended the three-day camp in November, along with instructors from Cedar Crest and educational director Betty Moen.

"It was a very powerful experience," says Moen. "The students spent their days learning about communication, cooperation, caring, challenge and risk taking."

The equipment on the inside represented the challenges on the outside and the "issues of life," says Moen.

The pupils were involved in group processes and individual challenges. One of the personal challenges involved climbing a 40-foot tower while attached to the safety harness.

It was a scary experience, according to Jennifer Flannery. Her fear was echoed by many of the pupils, but they also said by the time they had completed the climb, they really felt good.

"The hardest part for me was the rappelling," says Tracy Moen. "You really had to think about challenging yourself. It was 40 feet down. And another part, with the ropes, you had to think of a way to do it. Again, you had to think about challenging yourself."

They were learning something significant, says Betty Moen. They had to find a way to do it themselves. Nobody was going to rescue them. And she says, "if you don't move, you don't get anywhere."

In a team experience, the pupils had to learn to work together to accomplish something. For instance, they had to cross an imaginary river by only touching four times.

The teams used members as a bridge and some teams took as much as four hours to cross. If they made a mistake, they had to start over.

"It was a learning experience which taught you to work with with your team and to trust," says pupil Brady Galan.

"You had to have a lot of patience," says Ben Snapp.

"And you had to be honest," adds Eden Smith. "If you touched down, a leader would ask, 'Could you live with that?'"

The pupils learned, they said, that it was easier to be honest.

They learned trust and responsibility when their own safety was in the hands of their classmates in a "trust fall." Teams would catch an individual who voluntarily fell from a table, an experience they enjoyed so much that they eagerly put on a demonstration.

They learned self-confidence, too, and many said they wanted to repeat the experience ... and do it better.

"I learned that you can do almost anything if you give 100 percent of effort," says Melissa Palmer. "And I learned that whatever you do doesn't have to be perfect or better than someone else, but the best YOU can do."

After each experience, be it the ropes course, the tower climbing, a blindfolded walk with a team member or a solo walk at night, the completion was greeted by "Oreos," a circle of hugs and congratulations from leaders and classmates.

The motto at Eagle Village is "I did it."

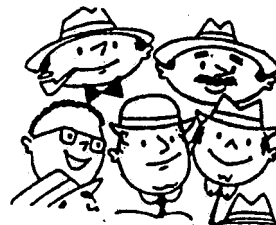

CEDAR CREST ACADEMY pupils re-enact a "trust fall" they experienced while attending a personal growth camp in November. Falling into the arms of his classmates is Brady Galan.

Dec. 4 - The host Wolves hung with the Shamrocks most of the way but faded in the stretch during a season-opening loss.

Kevin McCormick scored 10 points to pace the hometeam. Walt Winiemko and Jason Brown made eight more apiece.

"We still have a long way to go," said Coach Tim Kaul.

CHS drops season opener

Shamrocks pound Wolves

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Redford Catholic Central has whipped Clarkston in the past and each time the Wolves have regrouped to post a winning year.

Coach Dan Fife hopes the trend continues for the 1987-88 varsity team.

CC totally dominated the Wolves Friday night and defeated them, 82-50, in the season opener for both clubs.

"They beat us in every phase of the game," said Fife. "But they have beaten us three times by a blowout and we have always bounced back."

Clarkston hustled right from the opening tipoff but couldn't convert many of its shots. Through sheer determination, the Wolves often had two or three chances to score each trip down the court.

Against weaker competition, the Wolves may have gotten away with it. Catholic Central, as all good teams should, took advantage of the situation.

Fife said his club's execution would have to be perfect if they expect to beat the better teams.

"Our schedule is one of the toughest," he said, "and our kids have to rise to the occasion."

Catholic Central scored the first two baskets of the game and led, 17-12, after one quarter.

Jeff Tungate, who finished with a team-high 19 points, scored to draw Clarkston within a bucket, 21-19, but the Wolves could get no closer the rest of the way.

The Shamrocks built up a 38-26 margin by halftime.

Catholic Central coasted into the final quarter with a comfortable 64-37 advantage, but the Wolves continued to hustle long after the issue was decided.

"I wasn't disappointed in their effort," said Fife. "We have to do this every time out."

A tall front line was one thing Clarkston had trouble coping with all night.

The tallest starting players for the Wolves are Chip Galley (6-foot-4) and Mike Barnes (6-3).

The Shamrocks can place five players measuring 6-3 or more on the court.

Unfortunately for the Wolves, height can't be taught by the coaching staff.

"We don't match up well with them," said Fife.

In the loss, Fife said Tungate and Josh Newblatt played good games. Galley scored 11 points and Barnes 7 for Clarkston.

The Wolves returned to the court Dec. 8 at home against Pontiac Central. Results were not available at press time.

DARIN BRANDT drives for two against CC. The Wolves still the game, 82-50.

Spikers set sights on improvement

A new coach, only two seniors and a host of new players make up the girls volleyball team at Clarkston High this season.

Gordie Richardson took over the helm of the varsity club from Nancy McCarrick. The Wolves were nearly unstoppable during McCarrick's tenure, making Richardson's job harder.

"Nancy is a hard act to follow," said Richardson who coached the JV team last season. "But I am looking forward to the season."

Last season, the Wolves won the Greater Oakland Activities League title and a district crown before dropping out in the regionals.

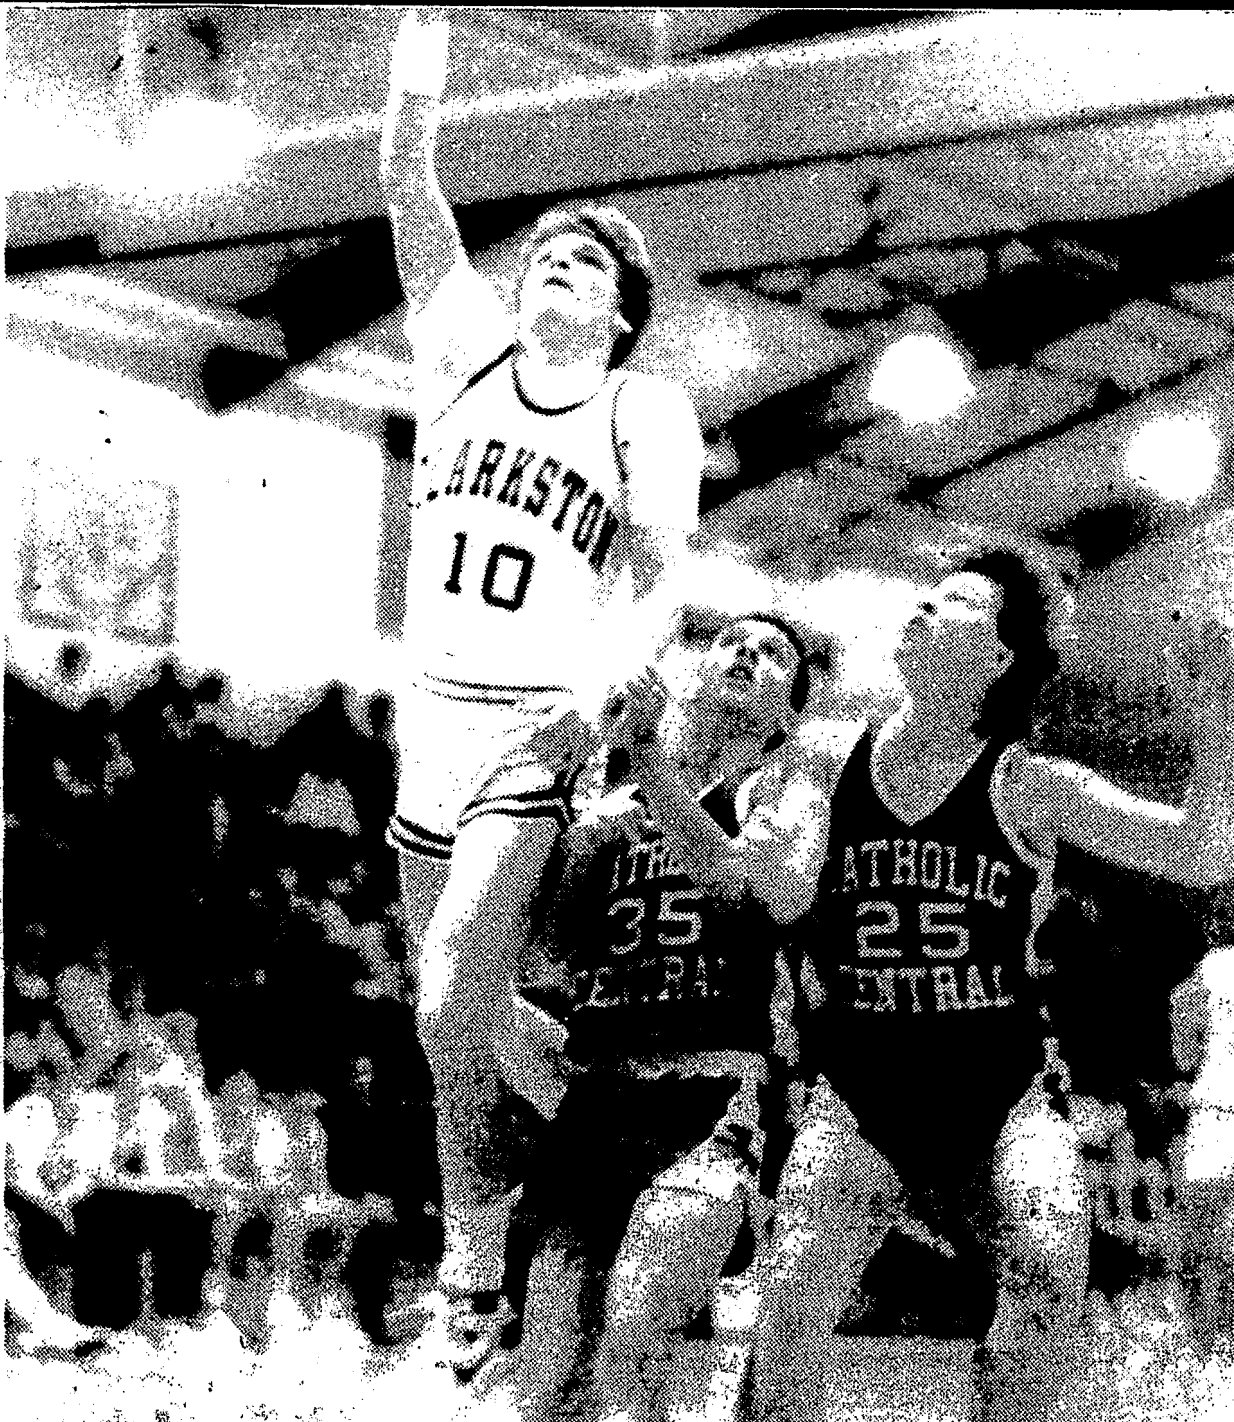

Seniors Tara Carncross and Ali Fedio return from that successful squad and are expected to lead the club.

Especially during the early parts of the season, Richardson looks for the seniors to help the younger members learn their roles better.

Richardson knows both seniors can handle the job from his time coaching girls track last spring.

Time out

At the game

Peter Auchter

There was a good reason for the screaming you may have heard drifting from the gymnasium at Clarkston High Friday night.

It was the fans!

Actually there was more there than just the fans hollering and hooting up a storm.

Let's see, there were the cheerleaders, the pom pon squad, the pep band and the Wolves' mascot. To keep the fans entertained in between all the music and cheering, a couple of boys basketball teams played a game.

When it was their turn to shine, the Wolves played their hearts out. It doesn't matter that the final score was 82-50 for the visitors. They played hard.

If the Wolves continue to play this well, capturing another Greater Oakland Activities League title will be the least of their worries.

Hustle doesn't come close to describing the attitude the Wolves displayed on the court Friday night.

Why didn't they win if they played so well, you say?

Because Redford Catholic Central is that good. The Shamrocks also happen to be blessed with height.

But before I get too far off the subject, let me say I was impressed with the whole picture Friday night.

A good turnout by the fans, even a few with basketballs on their heads, helped cheer on the Wolves. So did the cheerleaders and pom pon squad.

Even the mascot brought holiday cheer.

The pep band entertained the crowd with various musical selections.

As I sat back and took in the view, I thought to myself, "This is what high school sports is all about."

It made me miss being in high school. (Yes, that does happen to some people.)

Too bad more sports teams can't enjoy the same kind of enthusiasm. I started to think of some logical reasons why the place was rockin' and rollin'.

I guess it's a fact of life some sports are more popular than others. It just seems like a shame others can't join in on the fun.

Maybe the day of the week influences the fans more than I first thought.

Football and boys basketball are scheduled for Friday nights. As long as teenagers exist on this planet, Fridays will be party night.

Whoever heard of Thank God It's Wednesday, anyway? (Spaghetti lovers not included.)

Seniors expected to guide spikers

"They have been successful in all of the sports they have been in," he said. "We have some great athletes here (at Clarkston)."

The league season is shaping up to be a good one this year with the addition of Brandon High.

Brandon, Lake Orion, Kettering, Mott and Pontiac Northern all are looking to knock the Wolves out of first.

"There are no freebies in the league this year," said Richardson.

Brandon has had a strong program during the past four years. Kettering has fantastic athletes, Mott has a new coach and Northern has made tremendous improvement, he said.

With very few players with varsity experience on the squad, the Wolves will need to get tournament-tough early in the season if they hope to defend their GOAL title.

Clarkston will get a good opportunity to see other teams in the state during the Kiwanis Classic on Saturday, Dec. 19.

Thirty teams will compete at three sites (Oakland University, Rochester Adams and Rochester High) providing coaches with a chance to evaluate how their team is progressing.

Since it will be the opening match for many clubs, it's hard to pick a favorite.

"It's a pretty good tournament," said Richardson. "The teams with experience will do good this early in the season."

Oswald is a 'Trekkie'

Mark Oswald is a senior on the varsity wrestling team. He also played football for the Wolves in the fall.

Born: Sept. 20, 1969.

Nickname: Oz.

Favorite sports: Wrestling and football.

Favorite foods: Pizza.

Favorite music group: Black Sabbath.

Favorite movie: "Summer School."

Favorite TV show: "Star Trek."

Favorite place to hangout: At home.

Favorite thing to do: Be with friends.

Prep profile

Biggest thrill: Going 8-1 in football.

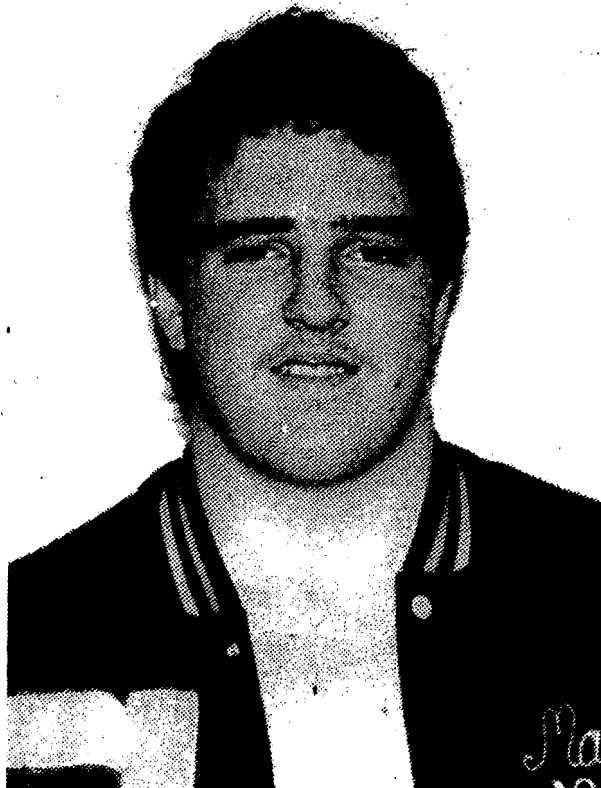

Biggest accomplishment: Making the varsity wrestling team in 10th grade.

Idol: Troy Martin.

Goal in life: To make it out of high school.

Most embarrassing moment: In ninth grade he made the wrong call on a coin flip and his team had to kick off to start each half.

If he could change one thing about himself, he would be: Quicker.

MARK OSWALD likes to listen to Black Sabbath's music.

Grapplers win 2

Two convincing victories and a close loss highlight the season opener for the varsity wrestling team.

Clarkston beat Walled Lake Central, 42-24, then whipped Waterford Mott, 62-9, before losing to host Milford, 40-30, during a road match Dec. 3.

Several wrestlers had outstanding performances for the Wolves.

Chris Luzi, Mark Oswald, Jason Campbell and Troy Martin were undefeated. They registered all of their victories on pins.

The loss to Milford caught Coach Scott Strickler by surprise.

The Wolves rebounded in style Dec. 5 during a tournament in Grand Blanc. Clarkston took fourth out of nine teams in the tourney and finished ahead of GOAL powerhouse Pontiac Northern.

The three teams to place higher than Clarkston, a Class A team, were Class C champion New Lothrop, Class B runner-up Mount Morris and Class B Fenton. The classes are based on high school enrollment, with A being the largest.

Needless to say, Strickler was pleased with the performance.

"I knew it would be tough," he said. "Classes don't mean much in wrestling since it's one-on-one, so it's pretty encouraging."

Seven Wolves won medals at the tournament.

Oswald took first in the heavyweight division, Campbell finished second in the 185-pound class, Martin (198) wound up third, Wall (105) took fourth, Dave London (119) third, Tim Kerr (145) fourth and Jerry Lawrence (155) fourth.

Two ways to send joy to the world.

"I DON'T KNOW WHEN I LAUGHED HARDER..."

Charlie Brown would feel at home

Springfield Township's third annual community Christmas tree lighting celebration will take on the air of a Charlie Brown Christmas this year, because the new tree at the Mill Pond Park is a mere five feet tall--and growing.

The community event will take place at the Mill Pond Park on Davisburg Road at 4 p.m. on Sunday, Dec. 13.

There will be cider and donuts compliments of the Davisburg Rotary Club and a visit from Santa Claus with gifts for the children.

The Rev. Mel Leach of the Davisburg United Methodist Church will tell the Christmas story and the Rev. Dick Hazen of the First Baptist Church of Davisburg will give the Christmas prayer. Springfield Township resident Ray Garrison will lead people in singing Christmas carols and will lead church choirs in singing a Christmas cantata.

"We would like to invite local choirs and civic groups, as well as the general public, to participate in this traditional holiday celebration," says Sherry Swindell, director of Springfield Township Parks and Recreation.

"We would also like to encourage children to bring handmade tree ornaments to help decorate our Charlie Brown Christmas tree this year," she says. "Popcorn and cranberry strings and cookies are nice treats for the birds. And they wouldn't be too heavy for the branches of our little tree."

Full steam ahead for gazebo

Construction on the new Depot Park gazebo has begun and the project should be completed by Christmas, said Trustee Frank Millard.

The Sunheiser Building Co. of Rochester won a bid to build a new gazebo for the park. Donations from village residents will pay for the construction.

Sunheiser recently tore the old gazebo down to its base to begin the project. Due to the Thanksgiving holiday and deer-hunting season little more was accomplished last week, said Millard at the Nov. 23 village council meeting.

"He will begin in earnest (this) week," said Millard. "Things are going well."

Sunheiser doesn't expect any problems passing the building codes so the project should go smoothly, said Millard.

Since the project began, some additions were made to the original plan for the gazebo.

One such change was a center handrail for the front steps since the stairwell is more than 88 inches wide. Also, a 30-foot long ramp for the handicapped might be added in the future.

Lot will be expanded at park

The purchase of $4,500 worth of gravel will allow about 200 more parked cars at Independence Township's Clintonwood Park next spring.

On Dec. 1, the township board unanimously approved the purchase from R.R. Farms, Ortonville.

The gravel is to create a six-inch base for a parking lot next to the new soccer fields in the park off Clarkston Road, said Timothy Doyle, director of the parks and recreation department.

About $9,000 was spent last year to develop the fields, he said.

Most of the gravel will be delivered now, and it will be completed in the spring--in time for the April soccer season, he said.

"That's a very attractive price," said Trustee William Vandermark. "I think we'd be smart to do it."

After the board approved the expenditure, Doyle said, "Our soccer program thanks you."

Phone messages make an impact

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

In this modern age, communication technology is reaching new peaks--some even affordable to the average person.

For instance, the answering machine is no longer limited to use in offices. The machine also can be found in homes of busy people or people who don't want to answer the phone.

Many people are still hesitant about leaving messages. But with more widespread use, the task is increasingly more interesting.

Creativity is becoming the standard. In just a few months, a caller could hear a variety of funny, mundane and unusual messages.

Some are mixed with music--marching music, soft instrumental or even hard rock.

Some messages make a person laugh.

A Clarkston school teacher left this message near the end of summer this year.

"Summer's almost over, and if you think you're going to find me home between now and Sept. 1, you're out of your ... mind, honey! I'm going to take advantage of every minute left."

With much enthusiasm in her voice, another area resident said the following:

"OK, folks, you're in for the thrill of a lifetime. I created a new phone message, mainly because I erased my old message. Hang on to your socks, here it goes."

She also included the normal information--wait for the tone, leave your name, phone number and a brief message.

Using a British accent, one Clarkston area man left this for his callers.

"Hello. You have reached the country estate of the -- family. This is Thomas the Butler speaking. Obviously, these people are too lazy to answer the phone."

He followed with information about leaving a message and he included, "If you don't leave a message, they won't return your call."

New sign will feature old bell

Next spring, a 150-year-old bell will ring with township history in front of the Independence Township Hall, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

The township board ordered an Independence Township sign and showcase for the bell, donated by the Mann family, at the Dec. 1 meeting.

The bell had been in the Mann family for 150 years--as long as the township has existed. Last year, Bart Mann and his sisters, Lolita Horsch and Louise Johnson, donated the bell in observance of the township's sesquicentennial celebration.

Worthington Woods Works, Southfield, will make the sign and showcase, as well as other directional signs for the township property.

The board unanimously approved the expenditure, not to exceed $9,000. The sign and showcase for the bell will cost $3,368.

"We're setting a good example," said Trustee Carol Balzarini. "We're doing what we want other people in the township to do when they put signs in."

"I can't tell a policy from a polyp."

Construction starts for park gazebo

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A sizable donation from a concerned citizen, who wishes to remain anonymous, helped get construction started on the Depot Park gazebo, said Trustee Frank Millard of the village council.

The construction of the gazebo is a culmination of many years of consideration and has drawn from the opinions of many people, said Millard.

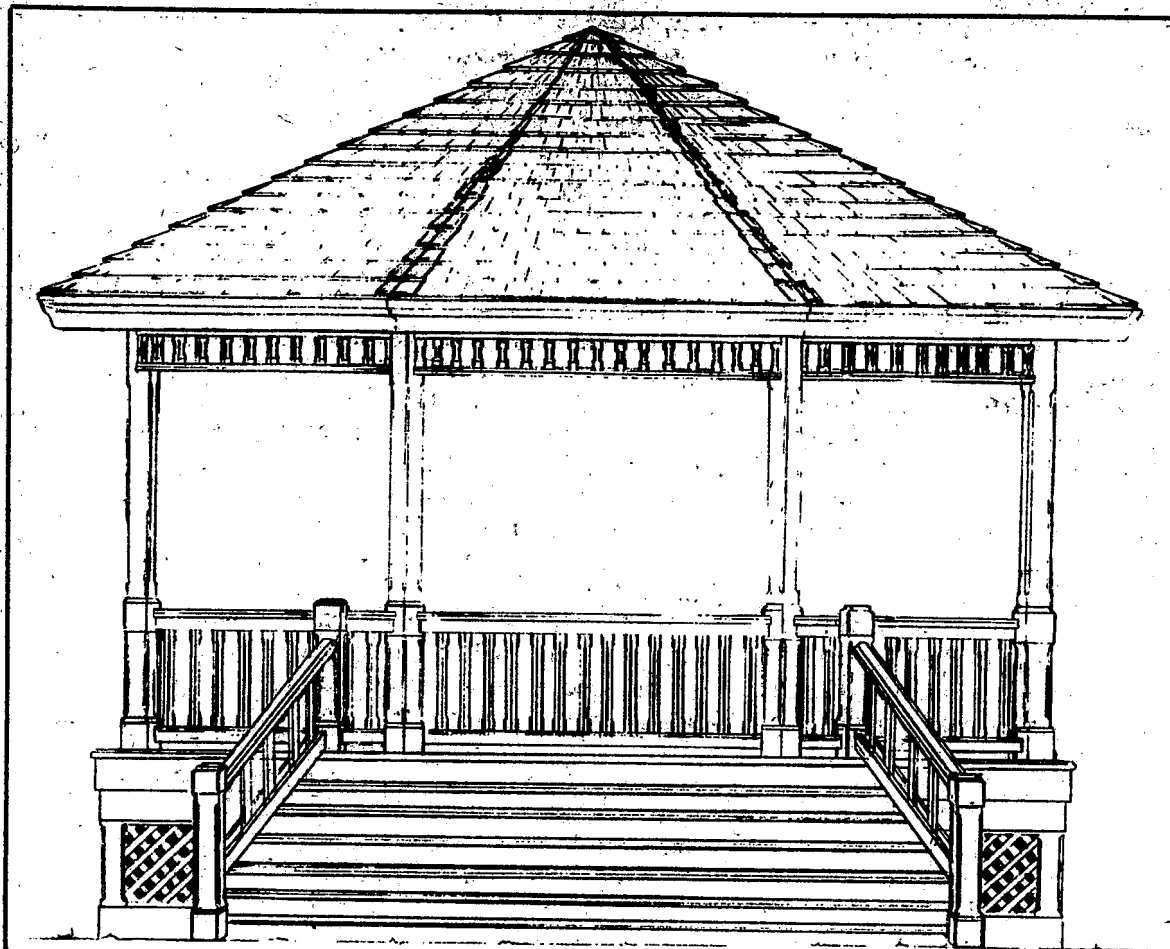

The Sunheiser Building Co. of Rochester is doing the work and construction is expected to be completed by the end of the year.

Planning and supervision of the project is being handled by Sunheiser's president, Gary Daniel.

"He has done a great job so far," said Millard.

Sunheiser Building Co., of Rochester, specializes in building decks, patios, gazebos and general home improvements. Millard discovered the firm when he admired a gazebo in a Rochester park and asked who had built it.

Millard, Trustee James Schultz, John Stuetzer and Susan Basinger are the members of a special committee created to select a suitable design for the gazebo.

THE VILLAGE OF CLARKSTON GAZEBO

The village council voted 7-0 on Oct. 28 to approve the gazebo design.

Construction materials include cedar with a cedar shake roof, said Millard. The old gazebo has been stripped down to its masonry base. New construction will begin from there.

A firm bid of $24,600 was given by the Sunheiser company to complete the project.

Lot gets final plat approval

With one condition, the 13-lot Independence Valley subdivision on Pine Knob Road received final preliminary plat approval Dec. 1 from the Independence Township Board.

Before the 6-1 approval is official, developer Dr. John Ylvisaker must provide an easement for a second access to the site in case future phases of the project are not completed.

Ylvisaker, of Bloomfield Hills, plans two additional phases for a total of 51 lots on 140 acres, east of Pine Knob Road, near Sashabaw Road.

The board's approval pertained to the first phase only.

The length of the 1,700-foot cul-de-sac concerned some of the board members.

Trustee Carol Balzarini cast the lone dissenting vote.

"We're calling this a temporary cul-de-sac, but I think it's more like a permanent cul-de-sac. ... I don't think we should be approving something of this length," she said.

Trustee Dale Stuart also expressed concern. "It is a long cul-de-sac, ... three times as long as what we say is appropriate. ... We want assurance that there will be another access (if the next phases aren't developed soon)," he said.

Trustee William Vandermark said the cul-de-sac could set an unwanted precedent for other developments.

A final preliminary plat shows the intentions of the developer, including water and sewer plans, unusual topographical conditions and the layout and design of the development.

It allows a developer to proceed with actual construction of the subdivision--the roads per approval from Oakland County Road Commission and the storm sewers per approval from the township engineer, according to Beverly McElmeel, director of the township building department.

Before building permits are issued, the board must approve the final plat.

Chilling dip surprises men

Two Independence Township residents were chilled Sunday when their boat capsized on Morgan Lake, leaving them struggling in the ice and water for about five minutes.

Between 10 a.m. and noon Sunday, the men were in their boat, cutting their way through the 3/4-inch thick ice on the lake off Dora Lane in the southeastern portion of the township.

They dropped something overboard and when they leaned to retrieve it, the boat tipped, said Capt. Steve Ronk of the township fire department.

"Luckily, a neighbor saw them," said Ronk, adding the neighbor went out in his boat to pick them up.

The men were already cold and it was difficult to stay afloat in heavy clothing among the ice chunks, he said.

"The ice is really dangerous at this time," said Ronk. "There was no reason for those two to be out there in the first place, but you have to check the ice first."

"We always have problems in early spring and early winter. People have just got to be careful and not take the ice for granted."

Before walking on ice, you should cut a hole and measure the thickness, he said. Generally, four inches is thick enough to hold a human, but the thickness can vary with the current and should be checked often, he said.

"This is a bad time of the year for this. Dogs have trouble, too. Snow-covered ice looks just the same to them as snow-covered ground," he said.

Varied programs for seniors

Programs on planning a will, staying healthy and traveling to San Diego are planned for next week at the Senior Center, Independence Township.

> On Tuesday, Dec. 15, at 10 a.m., attorney James DeMeglio, of Oakland County Legal Aid, is to address "Will and Estate Planning." He will discuss the avoidance of probate, inheritable property and the creation of your own will. Questions and answers will follow, as well as a demonstration in completing a statutory will.

> On Wednesday, Dec. 16, at 11 a.m., a resident physician from Pontiac General Hospital (PGH) is to talk about "Staying Well in Winter." Topics include discuss safety tips, good nutrition and helpful exercise.

> On Thursday, Dec. 17, at noon, a special travel program will highlight the San Diego trip offered by the senior center in February. A travel agency representative is to show slides and answer questions.

The senior center is in Clintonwood Park, 5980 Clarkston Rd., between Sashabaw Road and M-15. For more information, call 625-8238.

Naturalist shares snowshoe tips and history

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Snowshoes are quiet—Mike Orick's favorite reason for liking them.

A naturalist at Indian Springs Metro Park, he likes to sneak up to observe wildlife as he travels almost noiselessly through the woods.

Snowshoe outings

In January, three weekends of snowshoeing are to be offered to outdoor lovers.

The use of snowshoes is free for the guided hikes along the 10 miles of trails available at Indian Springs Metropark on White Lake Road in Springfield and White Lake townships.

The naturalists at the park will be offering the following programs:

> "Tracking on Snowshoes," with snowshoe instruction and wildlife tracking, Saturday, Jan. 9, at 10 a.m.

> "Snowshoe Shuffle," includes a nature hike and snowshoe instruction; Sunday, Jan. 17, at 1 p.m.

> "Winter Wildflower Search on Snowshoes," includes a hike with emphasis on the hidden wildflowers; Saturday, Jan. 30, at 1 p.m.

The park is open every day from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. and admission is free, although a fee may be charged next summer. The nature center is open 1-5 p.m. weekdays and 10-5 p.m. weekends.

Guiding the snowshoeing will be supervising naturalist Steve Horn and naturalists Mike Orick, Karen Blake and Mike Broughton.

In preparation for the snowshoeing programs scheduled for January at Indian Springs, Orick researched the history of snowshoes to share with other outdoor lovers in the area. Following is his information.

A crude form of snowshoes was first used about 6,000 years ago in China and eventually in Eurasia and Scandinavia. That form evolved into skis in Scandinavia and into the present day snowshoe after traveling to North America across the Bering Strait, which may have been land at the time.

In North America, Indians and Eskimos developed the snowshoe into its present form using white ash trees, which they cut so the trees would fall into a river and soak enough to bend easily to form the snowshoe frame.

White ash is still used to make the frame and aluminum is also used.

The webbing is made from rawhide or Neoprene, a material that doesn't stretch when it's wet and doesn't dry rot.

The binding, which holds the foot in place, is also made from rawhide or Neoprene.

A good pair of snowshoes, less expensive than skis, can be made from kits or purchased from sporting goods stores. They will last a lifetime, said Orick.

The three most common types of snowshoes are the Alaskan—long, narrow and good for open country; the Bear Paw—oval, without a tail and good for a heavy pack; and the Michigan or Beaver Tail—oval, with a tail and easy to maneuver in a forest area.

Snowshoes work by distributing a person's weight over a large area, allowing a person to walk in deep snow without sinking.

Some animals have natural snowshoes, said Orick. A snowshoe hare, for instance, has long fluffy fur on its feet. A grouse has stiff hair between its toes only in winter.

Excellent in deep snow, snowshoes are also suited for heavily wooded areas and rocky terrains, he said.

"They're really easy to use," he said. "Ten minutes and you're ready to go. ... It's as simple as walking."

77-year-old tells tales from yesteryear

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

If you have the time to listen, Bill Kelley has the time to "tell a few lies" about times past in Clarkston.

The owner for 40 years of Clarkston Lumber on Holcomb Road, Clarkston, says telling tales is an essential part of his business, the same as cutting the lumber for free for his customers--it's the way things were done in the old days and the way they should be done still.

"I'm an old-timer, I guess, and I just can't see robbing somebody," says Bill, 77.

"If he had a suit on, and you were digging a ditch, he'd jump in and help you. That's what kind of a guy he was."

It all started when Bill was called to serve in World War II after working as a foreman for Pontiac Motors for 12 years.

After the war ended, he was home only two days in 1944 when he received a call from Miller and Beardsley's lumberyard.

He was on staff at the lumberyard until 1950 when he bought the business with Bart Mann and Clark Souby. Three years later, Bill bought it from his partners.

In the six-year period before he bought the business, it was owned by Chad Lippincott, a former Deer Lake area resident and one of Bill's favorite people.

"He was a Santa Claus," says Bill. "You don't find many moneyed people like that."

Lippincott owned several auto dealerships in the Flint area and used to allow every one of his employees to drive a new car for free, Bill says.

When Lippincott met Bill, he doubled Bill's salary, gave him a new car to drive for a year and gave him a credit card to keep the gas tank full.

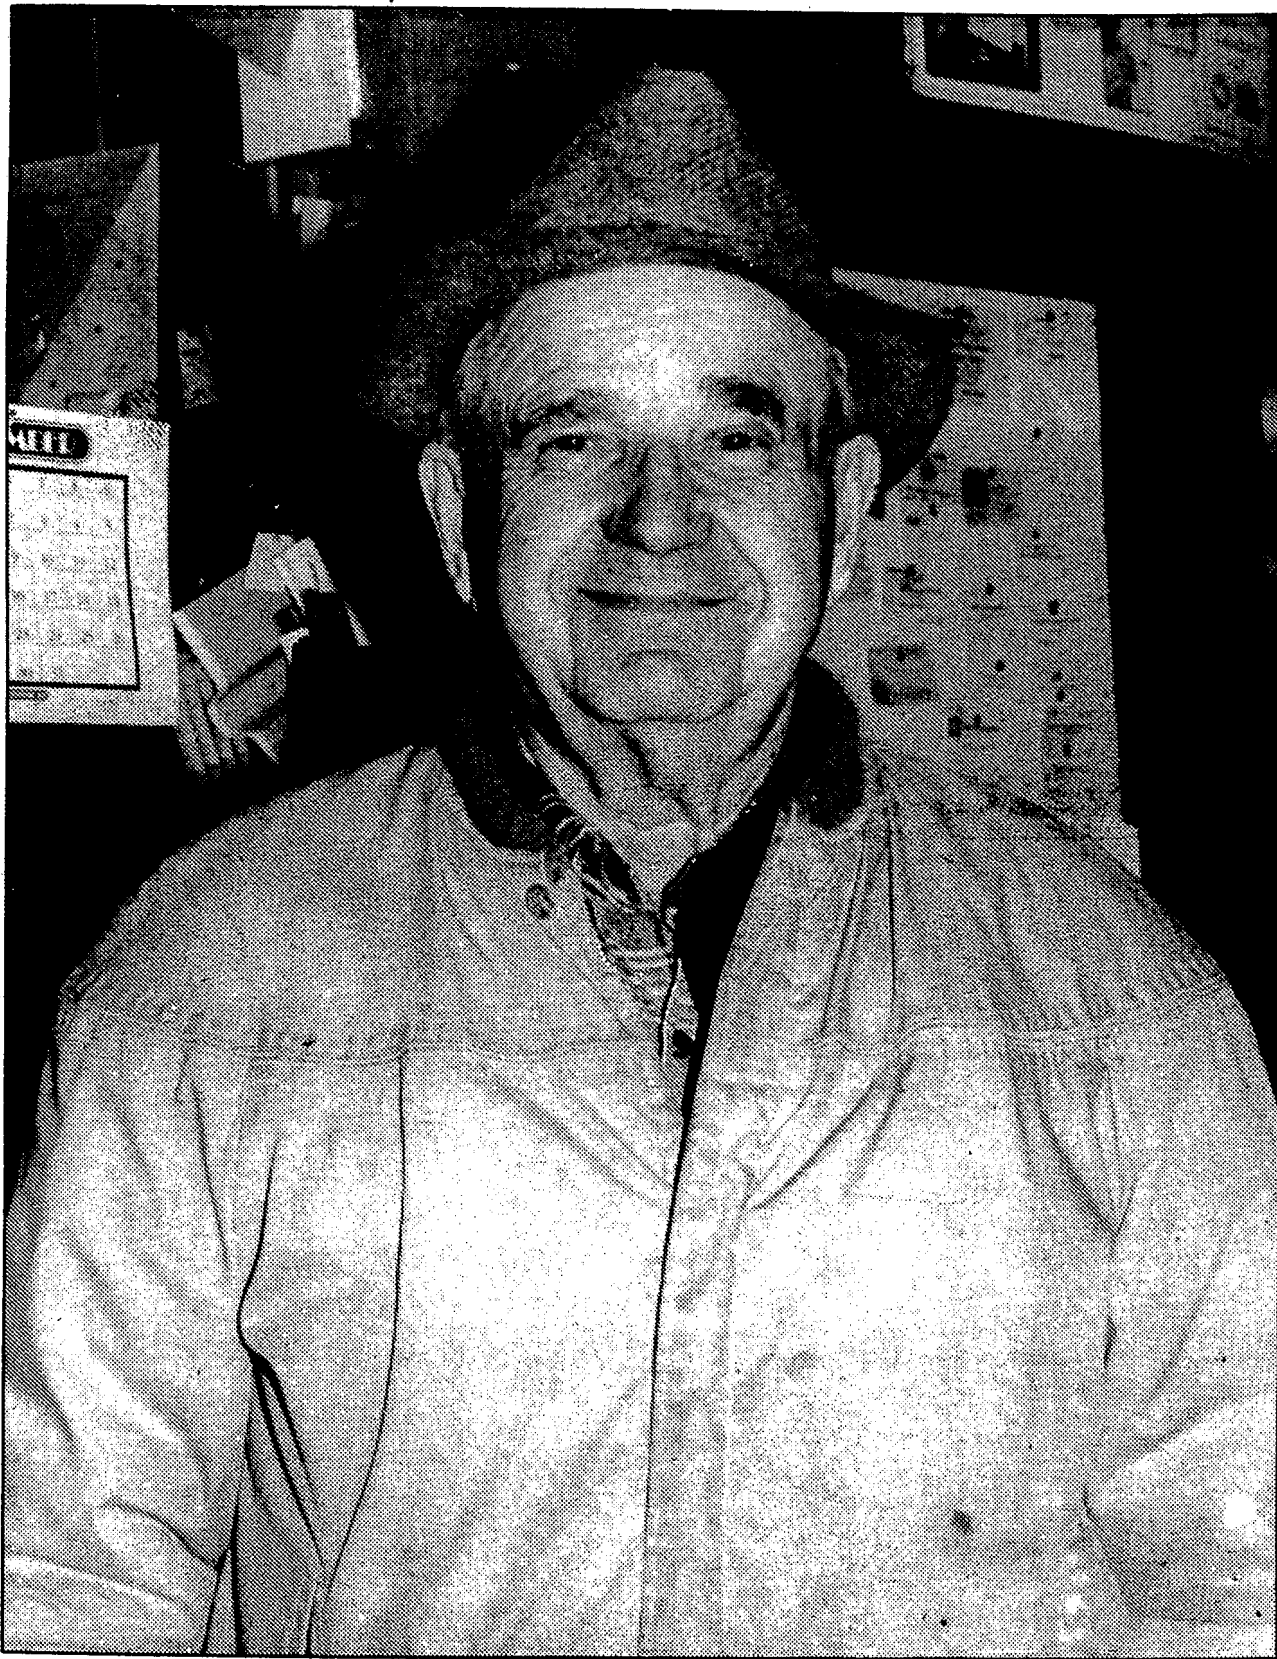

"Oh, he was a guy," says Bill. "If he had a suit on, and you were digging a ditch, he'd jump in and help you. That's what kind of a guy he was."

"I fell to the bottom. Lucky for me, some boys saw me and when I came back up, they reached under the ice and pulled me out."

Another tale--the famous bank robbery of 1930 on Main Street, Clarkston--is a good one to hear.

"I was right on the steps when it was robbed," Bill says.

He was across the street getting a haircut from Doug when he heard the bank alarm. Doug grabbed his pistol and they both ran across the street.

They were on the steps when the robbers ran from the bank and jumped into a running car parked in front of the bank. They later discovered the car had been stolen from Drayton Plains.

Since Bill had just bought a new Chevrolet, the town sheriff's deputy (Bill's uncle, Archie McIntyre) wanted to use his car to chase the criminals.

Bill said no.

In the meantime, Frank Leonard from Ford's Garage (where Rudy's Market is now), ran after the get-away car with a shotgun.

Then Ed Steet came out with his .30-06 and shot two bullets through the car as it was turning left on Waldon Road from southbound Main Street.

"It was quite a deal. And I was mixed up in the whole thing."

The bullets didn't stop the car and a search ensued to a swampy area on Waldon Road, where (See STORIES, Page 35)

AHHHH!

they found the stolen car.

Townpeople surrounded the swamp for hours, but when no one came out, they figured another car had picked up the criminals, leaving the get-away car as a decoy.

Later, an Oxford boy who had helped in the robbery felt guilty and confessed to his mother, who told police where the other robbers could be found—at a farmhouse in Lapeer.

Since Bill had the new car, he went with the county sheriff, undersheriff and other deputies to make the arrest.

They caught one robber working in the fields, Bill says.

The other was inside the house. When the sheriff and undersheriff went to the door, the robber fatally shot them and then killed himself.

"It was quite a deal," Bill says. "And I was mixed up in the whole thing."

Bill has lived all of his 77 years in the Clarkston area, as did his father and grandfather before him. Some of the stories from the earlier generations have remained alive with Bill.

"One story, my granddad had told my dad, and my dad told us kids," he says.

"On Saturdays, the farmers used to always come to town. They'd go to the saloon, where the (Clarkston) Cafe is now. That burned, but now it's rebuilt," he says.

"One day, they came out (of the saloon), and one horse and buggy were gone. In those days, if they caught somebody stealing a horse, they'd hang them right there."

The farmers were getting angry and were ready to cause trouble, when one of the smarter ones followed the horse tracks. It led right into the Mill Pond, he says, laughing. Nothing was left above water.

"One day, they came out (of the saloon), and one horse and buggy were gone. In those days, if they caught somebody stealing a horse, they'd hang them right there."

"I used to tell people that story and they thought I was pulling their leg," he says.

Then, in the 1940s, Henry Ford came to town. "He practically made the town," Bill says.

Ford built a cofferdam and it broke.

"Everything went down the creek," Bill says.

"We went out on Depot Road, they call it now, and in all the pockets there were fish swimming. We could grab them by the handfuls. Everybody was taking them, with baskets, buckets and bags."

Eventually, the bottom of the Mill Pond was visible and Bill's story was confirmed. Sunk in the mud was a horse buggy.

"The horse was gone, of course," says Bill.

"The turtles probably ate it."

The buggy now rests in Henry Ford's museum in Dearborn, Bill says.

Bill also remembers his boyhood in Clarkston. He used to get two weeks off from school every winter to work.

"Every winter, Russ Walter would cut ice on the Mill Pond and put it at the north end of the pond," says Bill.

They would cut a channel in the middle of the pond to scoot the ice chunks to the north end.

Once, he was walking backward while pulling some ice and he fell in.

"I fell to the bottom. Lucky for me, some boys saw me and when I came back up, they reached under the ice and pulled me out," Bill says. "It was zero-degree weather."

They threw him into a car and he was rushed to his sister's house on Clarkston Road, where he took a cold bath to melt off his clothes.

"After they thawed, I put different clothes on and went back to work," he says.

It didn't occur to him not to finish work for the day, Bill says, thinking back.

Bill and his wife, Florence, live in the Clement Road, Independence Township, house they planned before they were wed. They were married three days before the war started and it was difficult getting the wiring to finish the house, he says.

Now, their two children, Terry and Cindy, lend a hand when Bill needs help at home or in the business. They've been helping a lot lately, he says.

Two years ago, Florence discovered she had lupus—a disease that affects her skin and muscles so much that she has slowly lost the ability to care for herself, says Bill.

"My family is after me to sell this because my wife is bad," he says. "But I've been here all my life and I like to meet people. That's just my nature. I kid and joke with everybody."

"I have a lot of people who don't even come in to buy. Just come in to talk. ... I'll be here awhile."

Remember him

James Mather, a 1985 Clarkston High School graduate, will spend his first Christmas away from home this year on a ship in the Mediterranean where he's serving with the United States Navy.

His mom, "Joan," would like to provide a surprise for her son, so she's asking for holiday cards and letters to "show him we care."

Mail should be addressed to:

ming. Helpers for the cooking class are pupils in the Latchkey program at Clarkston Elementary. Other enrichment programs offered at elementary and junior high schools include creative science, sewing, volleyball, computers, French, basketball and art.

Club notes

The juniors of American Legion Chief Pontiac Post No. 377 recently installed new officers.

President is Kim McClusky; vice president, Shannon Chapple; secretary-treasurer, Heather Rollison; chaplain, Krista Ruditis; historian, Samantha Morley; sergeant-at-arms, Nichole Rutterbush; and assistant sergeant-at-arms, Tar Chapple.

Special guests at the installation were Post Commander David Kasat and his wife, Linda, and the Auxiliary President Violet Asplund.

The juniors were busy in October and November hosting parties at Grovecrest nursing homes in Clarkston and Pontiac and a pizza party for 52 residents at Oakdale Center in Lapeer, taking gifts to the veterans at Clinton Valley, putting on a bingo party at the Battle Creek Veterans Hospital and visiting the Legion Villa where they took their adopted veteran out to dinner. They also hosted a Halloween party at the post home for 75 children.

Junior Miss Poppy Heather Rollison and Department Miss Poppy Shannon Chapple observed Veterans Day by placing a poppy-covered cross at the post flag pole during the observances by Legion and auxiliary members.

The drill included a 21-gun salute in honor of the veterans of all wars.

New arrival

It's a boy for Wayne and Marcia Bailey of Oak Park.

Michael Dean weighed in at 8 pounds, 12 ounces. He was named after his maternal grandmother's grandfather and his paternal grandfather.

His grandparents are Howard and Mary DeWolf of Tampa, Fla., Bob and Sophie Wiegand of Clarkston and Bill and Barbara Bailey of Plantation, Fla.

Great-grandfather is Lester Lake of Bradenton, Fla.

Grad

Victor E. Quigley II has received a bachelor's degree in applied physics from Michigan Technological University, Houghton.

He resides in the Clarkston area.

Annual bash

Over 100 people gathered Friday at the historic church-turned-home of Clarence and Sharron Catallo for the Clarkston Community Historical Society's annual Christmas party. "It's the one time of the year that the society just meets each other as friends without a project. It really starts the season for a lot of us," said Jennifer Radcliff, society president.

Microwave Plus

Dandy candy

Betty
Wagner

Microwave ovens are popular holiday gift items. They are especially appealing this holiday season because of compact ovens that are offered at very affordable prices.

"Better Home and Gardens Step-by-Step Microwave Cookbook" would be an excellent gift choice for high-wattage and low-wattage microwave oven owners.

It is a comprehensive cookbook and reference guide and one that features low-wattage instructions.

The book contains an overview of basic microwave cooking techniques, helpful hints and defrosting and cooking charts. Many cookbooks contain this information, but the nutritional analysis charts for each recipe make this book special.

There are over 300 fully tested recipes of appetizers and snacks, beverages, breads and cereals, main dishes, sauces, vegetables, soups and stews and desserts.

More than 300 colorful photographs make cooking techniques simple to understand and "doneness" easy to determine.

The book is available at a reduced holiday rate of $19.95 until Dec. 31. After Jan. 1, it will retail for $24.95.

Two recipes selected from the candy section are perfect for fancy gift giving. For cooking these candies, use a heavy-duty glass container (a Pyrex measure does well) that has no cracks or chips and has not been dropped.

Dropping a container creates stress though it may not crack and the heat of the syrup may shatter it during oven use.

NUT BRITTLE

3/4 teaspoon baking soda
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup light corn syrup
1 1/4 cups raw peanuts or coarsely chopped raw cashews, almonds, pecans or walnuts
1 tablespoon butter or margarine

Lightly butter two large baking sheets or 15-by-10-by-1-inch baking pans, then set aside. Sift baking soda, then set aside.

In a 1-quart heavy-duty glass or Tupperware Ultra 21 casserole, combine sugar and corn syrup. (Mixture will be stiff.)

Cook, uncovered, on 100 percent power (high) for 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 minutes or until sugar is dissolved and mixture comes to boiling, stirring twice to help dissolve sugar. Avoid splashing mixture onto sides of casserole. Stir in nuts. Without stirring, cook, uncovered, on high for 4 minutes more. Stir in butter or margarine. Cook, uncovered, for 2 to 3 minutes more or until candy reaches hard-crack stage (295 to 305 degrees) and syrup is a clear, golden color.

After 2 minutes, check candy every 30 seconds. To test for hard-crack stage, drop syrup into very cold water. The syrup should separate into hard, brittle threads that snap easily.

Quickly sprinkle baking soda over mixture, stirring constantly. Immediately pour onto prepared pans, dividing mixture in half.

If desired, stretch candy thin by cooling for one minute then using two forks to lift and pull it. Cool, break into pieces. Store tightly covered at room temperature. Makes 1 pound (16 servings).

Low-wattage ovens: For sugar and corn syrup mixture, cook on high for 4 to 5 minutes. For nut mixture after adding butter, cook on high for 5 to 6 minutes, checking every 30 seconds after 5 minutes.

Nutmeg Brittle: Prepare Nut Brittle as above, except add 1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg with the butter and margarine.

CHOCOLATE TRUFFLES

1 6-ounce package (1 cup) semisweet chocolate pieces
1/3 cup butter or margarine
3 tablespoons milk
1 beaten egg yolk
3 tablespoons orange juice or desired liquor or liqueur
Unsweetened cocoa powder, powdered sugar, chocolate-flavored sprinkles, coconut or chopped or ground nuts

In a 4-cup measure, combine chocolate, butter or margarine and milk. Cook the mixture, uncovered, on 100 percent power (high) for 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 minutes or until soft enough to stir smooth, stirring once during cooking.

Gradually stir about half the hot mixture into beaten egg yolk. Return all of the mixture to the 4-cup measure. Cook, uncovered, about 1 minute or until bubbly, stirring every 30 seconds.

Stir in orange juice, liquor or liqueur. Cover and chill about 1 hour or until mixture is cool, evenly thickened and smooth, stirring occasionally.

Beat the cooled chocolate mixture with an electric mixer on medium speed about 2 minutes or until slightly fluffy. Cover and chill about 15 minutes or until mixture holds its shape.

Drop from a level teaspoon onto a baking sheet lined with waxed paper. Cover and chill about 30 minutes or until firm.

Roll into balls, then roll in cocoa powder, powdered sugar, chocolate sprinkles, coconut or nuts. Store covered in the refrigerator. Makes three-quarters pound (about 48 pieces).

Liquor options: Use rum, Irish whiskey, brandy, kirsch, amaretto, hazelnut liqueur, coffee liqueur, praline liqueur or orange liqueur.

MICHIGAN DEPARTMENT OF NATURAL RESOURCES

All in a night's work

Suzanne Baumann

I'm sitting in school and I notice several blocks of wood suspended in midair directly above my head.

I reach up for one and discover it is no longer wood, but a comic book. I start to flip through the pages when all of the sudden hundreds of people are pushing shopping carts through the walls.

I run down a spiral staircase that appears out of nowhere until I bump into a mirror. I notice that my face is completely white, my eyes are pink and I have no hair.

Then, reflected in the mirror, I see the ghostly shape creeping up behind me. It's ... it's ...

A dream!

Strange things, dreams are. I can be doing some of the most strenuous activities and instead of getting tired, I'm getting some rest.

It's a toss-up as to exactly what dreams mean. Some people say all dreams have an inner meaning. Others think they're random thoughts the mind pieces together during the day and then draws out at night.

I agree most with the latter, but sometimes I wonder if there just may be a little symbolism present.

I'd say nearly half of my dreams involve driving a car. It has been like that ever since I was five years old. I still don't completely know how to drive, but when I'm asleep that doesn't matter.

My favorite driving dream took place one night last year.

I am in the back seat of our car wearing a pair of enormous purple sunglasses and have aluminum foil wrapped around my neck. My parents are scolding me for dressing this way in public.

Then, all of the sudden, my family disappears. I reach over the seat to the steering wheel and drive a little way. It starts to rain. The car becomes a bicycle without brakes. I'm wheeling down Dixie Highway, unable to stop, when I notice a huge truck blocking all the lanes.

I hit it and am thrown off into Lakeview Cemetery. I lie on the wet ground, hug the bike and softly mumble "Y for victory."

I don't have too many nightmares. I could say practically any of my dreams would be scary if they happened in real life, but the dreams by themselves don't scare me too often.

For instance, once I dreamed I was being forced into a career of professional wrestling. To avoid this, I went to some strange house and hid in the bathtub.

A character from a TV show I saw that evening started to hit me over the head with a Frisbee. I ran away and some of my friends from school started chasing after me with electric toothbrushes.

If this really happened, I would be screaming, but for a dreamer, it's all in a night's work.

Pink Elephants

By Bruce A. Stewart

Stygian darkness

They sit

Men in stone cage walls

Wait for the eternal ship

Eyes of a sad shadow shape

Seen the shirt they bare before

Life owes them nothing

The uneven score

Battle of the bums

Having no anthem, no hymn

The song they sing is blue and red

No white

Gin in the cool night

Keep the fire burning

No sleep without fight

Much wrong, little right

Morning wakes to a scent of stale wine

Nightingales no longer vocalizing

Church without chimes

Bread for life unkind

Washroom politics

The unfound dirty dime.

Pick service companies carefully

An alert from the Oakland County Fire Prevention Society about fraudulent fire extinguisher service companies is worthy of note, said Independence Township firefighter Gordon Mason.

"It's happening in the whole county; the whole state," said Mason.

The message, from society President Lawrence Wesson, follows:

Throughout lower Michigan many complaints have been received by local fire departments of unsafe and fraudulent servicing of fire extinguishers and retardant fire suppression systems.

These companies will use several methods to gain access and authorization to supposedly perform the service, although other methods may be used:

1. May represent themselves as being sent by the local fire department or fire marshal.
2. May represent themselves as being from the legitimate company that normally services the equipment.

3. May use threatening tactics by saying they will call the fire marshal and have them shut down if work is not done today.

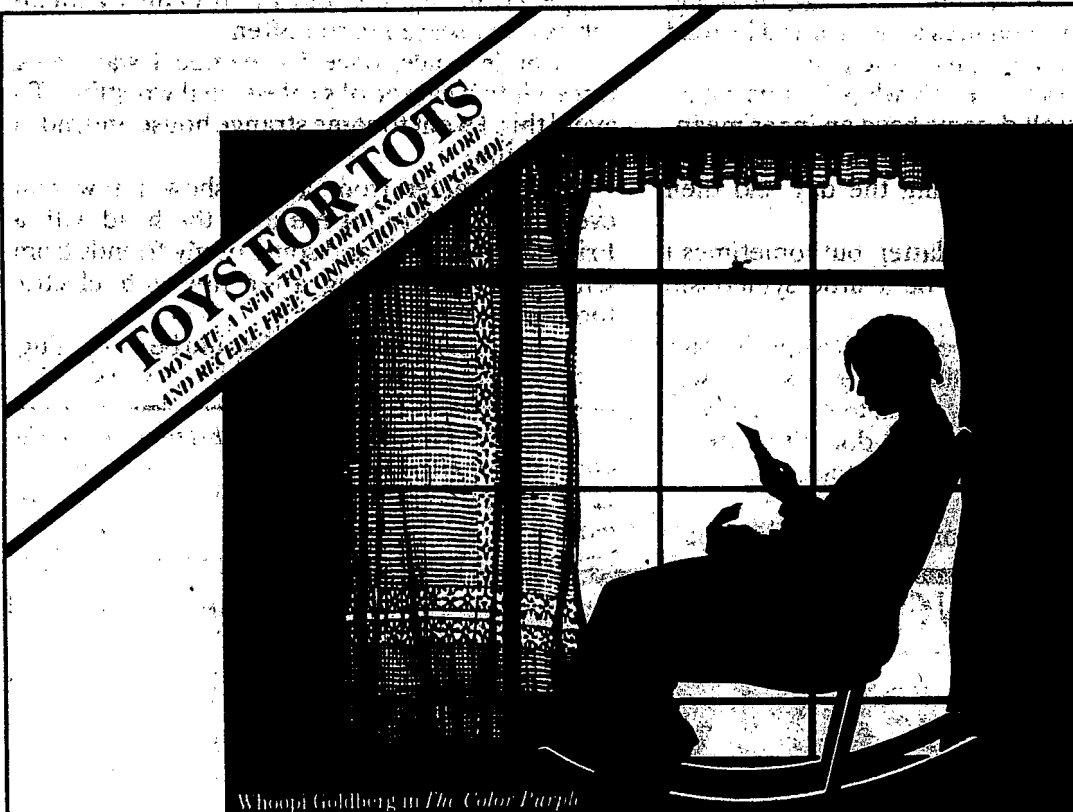

4. Will always demand immediate cash payment.

5. May look for small businesses that have only one employee in store and may intimidate him.

6. May operate in evening hours and weekends when owners may not be present.

The proper service is not being performed by these companies.

There are many qualified and competent companies in lower Michigan. If there is any doubt of the qualifications of your portable fire extinguisher or hood system service company, call the fire marshal immediately. The number in Independence Township is 625-1924.

The gift game

Let's relax a moment and listen to the joyful sounds of Christmas, shall we?

"Now, two days only! Save 20 to 50 percent off!" ... "I have an original idea, let's get Dad a tie this year! ... "Mommy, can we go home? I think I'm going to be sick. Mommy, can we go home, please? I think I'm going to be sick on you!" ... "C'mon, get up. Only two more stores to go. Shopping's not shopping unless we hit all the stores!"

Oh yes, Christmas shopping. What could be more pleasing to the senses or more rewarding to the heart? To that question, I don't know the answer.

But then, again, what could be more painful to the pocketbook or nerve wracking to the mind? With the exclusions of a major operation and maybe ransom of a loved one (mothers-in-law not included), nothing comes close.

Every year it seems as though Christmas shopping is the same. Especially in malls.

Here we are in this colossal building, packed to capacity with people. It's hot.

It's always hot in malls around Christmas time. Stay there long enough and you feel like you've just been on a Northwestern flight in rough weather—with the top down.

And Santas, don't forget the Santas. I say "Santas" (plural), for contrary to popular belief (the belief that there is only one Santa Claus) malls seem to make Ol' St. Nicks multiply faster than rabbits.

There are two types of Santas, the sitters and the standers.

The standers are easy to spot. Just look for a long line of children and at the end of that line will be a sitter Santa. And even if the Jolly Ol' Chap is standing, he is as equally easy to identify—just look for the wet knee.

Now, the standers are a bit different. They can be found either: 1. ringing a bell next to the mall entrance; or 2. sitting in a nearby doughnut shop with their beards pulled down sipping coffee.

In sad acutality though, Christmas shopping is or at least has the potential to be rather ironic.

It seems to be a game, no, an investment through which the only reason a gift is given is for the hope of something in return.

Christmas shopping can merely be shopping under the rationalization of Christmas. If it were customary to give gifts on Ground Hog Day, then we'd be cramming the malls again, wallets in hand.

I realize this isn't always the case. In reality, it's probably not like this more times than it is. But it happens. It happens enough to be noticed; and it happens enough to know it's not right.

David Kwasnick is a Clarkston High School senior.

GRIN AND BEAR IT: Ingrid Smith hugs the giant teddy bear she won in a drawing at Beverly's Flowers and Gifts of Clarkston. Second-prize winner of a fresh flower Christmas arrangement was Becky Basinger. Third-, fourth- and fifth-prize winners of poinsettias were Diane Steverlynch, Joann Spencer and Pat Applegate. Beverly Short, owner of the shop, gave away the prizes during an open house Nov. 29 to introduce her new shop location and her Christmas stock, which includes fresh greens and poinsettias as well as dried flowers and gifts.

Human needs are the topics for the Jan. 21 League of Women Voters meeting at the Village Hall, 375 Depot Rd. Clarkston, at 7:30 p.m.

The topic is also on the agenda for the national organization, said Ann Glenn, president of the Clarkston branch.

"Some people aren't interested in the national level, but it will have a great deal of impact on Detroit," she said.

At the Clarkston meeting, open to the public, the league will begin studying services, housing, medicine and education in the Clarkston community.

"We urgently need interested and willing people who would like to know more about their community and are willing to be observers for the village, township and school board meetings," said Glenn.

Prisons are the topic of the February meeting, she said.

For more information, call Glenn at 625-2775 or Millie Hamm at 625-5486.

Wanted: letters

From the Department of the Navy comes this plea:

Thousands of United States Navy sailors and Marines will be spending the upcoming holiday season far away from their families and loved ones aboard ships in the Persian Gulf.

You can show your appreciation for their sacrifice by sending a holiday card or letter to a sailor or Marine serving his country at sea.

Send cards of letters (no packages) by first class mail (22 cents postage) to:

Simple tips to avoid accidental poisoning

To keep the holidays full of happy memories, Dr. Thomas Petinga Jr. offers the following cautions to prevent accidental poisonings.

Be most alert around children less than 5 years old. They are the group at highest risk for accidental poisonings, said the director of the Emergency and Trauma Center at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital-Pontiac.

Holiday plants, if ingested, can prove to be hazardous to both children and adults.

*Mistletoe and the Jerusalem Cherry are toxic and dangerous plant.

*Holly berries may cause nausea, vomiting, abdominal pain and diarrhea.

*Poinsettia's toxicity is usually limited to local mouth irritation.

*Pine needles are not toxic, but can cause problems if they are swallowed or come into contact with a child's delicate skin.

Some Christmas decorations can prove to be hazardous if ingested or inhaled.

*"Angel Hair," which is really spun glass, can irritate skin and eyes as well as possibly cause corneal abrasions. If swallowed, it can cause internal bleeding or lesions in the intestine.

*"Snow spray," although not toxic when dry, is a respiratory irritant when sprayed. Avoid the spray in your home if anyone in the family has asthma or hyperactive airway disease.

*Some of the tiny blinking Christmas lights contain methylene chloride. If the contents of several of these bulbs are inhaled or ingested, a child could become dizzy or hallucinate. The broken glass can also cause internal cuts and scratches.

*Glass, plastic or plastic foam ornaments and tinsel can block a child's airway and cause choking.

More recent safety hazards are the tiny button batteries used in watches, cameras and other electrical equipment. They are easily swallowed and can get caught in the throat or esophagus.

If anyone in your family is a suspected victim of accidental poisoning, call your doctor or go to the nearest hospital emergency center. The number for St. Joseph Mercy Hospital's poison information center is 858-7373. The hospital's emergency and trauma center number is 858-3101.

Brokerage firm opens in Independence Township

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The projected population expansion in the area was one reason First of Michigan Corp., a brokerage firm, opened an office on M-15 in Independence Township.

"There's a lot of growth coming to this area, and we see that continuing well into the future," said broker Tim Moore of Fenton. "Generally, Clarkston is an affluent community. ... People feel better doing business locally."

Jim Amburn of Clarkston, another broker in the office in the Clarkston Professional Plaza, thought the Clarkston area was an ideal spot for a full-service brokerage firm.

"Clarkston's growing by leaps and bounds," he said. "We're delighted to be here. ... I moved here. We love the area."

"There's a void between Birmingham and Flint. It's an area that's been basically neglected," he said.

As a full-service brokerage firm, the company has a seat on the New York Stock Exchange, which is an advantage over some of the other regional firms, said Moore, adding First of Michigan has 30 offices in Michigan plus offices in Illinois, New York and Indiana.

Since the firm is conservatively managed, it has an advantage over the larger full-service firms, Moore said.

"We're doing real well, where some of the big boys are hurting. ... The stock market (fall) did not hurt us like it did the others," he said.

At First of Michigan, they handle almost everything, including stocks, bonds, tax free investments, mutual funds, certificates of deposit, money market, options, insurance, annuity projections and financial planning.

They help people in developing a retirement plan or selling stock for a new business, said Amburn.

"Most people are really savers," he said. "They're not investors. People are looking for a better return than they can get at a bank."

About 80 percent of their business falls into this category, he said.

Moore and Amburn are the first two brokers at the office and three more are to join them by January, said Moore.

The job suits them both, they said.

"Everything keeps changing, and it's up to us to find the best place to move people's assets," said Amburn. "The markets do change. ... In recent times, they've changed dramatically and sometimes overnight."

"It's always changing," said Moore. "There's a lot of challenge in dealing with new things, meeting new people."

"There's a lot of satisfaction in meeting someone with a 6- or 7-year-old child and knowing you've helped them 12 years down the line in putting that child through college."

SINCE NOV. 16, Tim Moore (left) and Jim Amburn have been in their brokerage office in the Clarkston Professional Plaza, 5825 M-15, Suite 104A, Independence Township.

PRAYER TO THE HOLY Spirit. Holy spirit. You make me see everything and show me the way to reach my ideals. You give me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrongs that are done to me and you are in all instances of my life with me. I, in this short dialogue, want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you no matter how great the material desire may be. I want to be with you, and my loved ones, in your perpetual glory. Amen. Persons must pray this prayer 3 consecutive days without asking for your wish. After the 3rd day your wish will be granted, no matter how difficult it may be. Then, promise to publish this dialogue as soon as your favor has been granted. Impossible wish granted 11-16-87, JAS. INTENSE CONCENTRATION brings forth the poem from the 3- and 4-year-olds at the Calvary Lutheran Church in Independence

Christmas story

Calvary Lutheran Church, Independence Township, practiced on Thursday afternoons for their upcoming Christmas performance.
