Rotarians quit; cite sexism

BY KATHY GREENFIELD Clarkston News Editor

Two Clarkston Rotary Club members have made public their decisions to resign in the wake of the club's rejection of the first application from a woman. Although the rejection was officially based on classification rather than the sex of applicant Betty Simmons, both members have based their resignations on the issue sex discrimination.

Gerald McNally, a 52nd District Court judge and a member of the club's board of directors, cited the American Bar Association's guidelines for judges. The guidelines say it is mappropriate for a judge to belong to a gender-discriminatory club, McNally said. 1 do feel bad, because 1 have quite a few friends in Rotary and it's been fun," he said. Stewart McTeer, advertising director for The Clarkston News, had nominated Simmons for membership in the Clarkston Rotary Club.

I like (Rotary's) projects. I think they do a lot of good for the community, but there is no way that the newspaper, if it believes in the First Amendment or equal rights, can possibly be a member of any group that practices discrimination of any sort," McTeer said. How can we possibly support a group that won't let in half the country?"

Simmons is assistant vice president of Old Kent

Elmer DeBoer, 38, was kidnaped, robbed and shot to death around May 11, 1987, and police and the FBI are still looking for the people responsible, said Mary, a Waterford Township resident and mother of three who contacted local newspapers last week to try to keep people aware.

"I don't want nobody to forget who they are 'til they're caught," she said. "I don't want it to happen again. You don't want it shoved on the back shelf and forgotten about. Maybe somebody knows something." The murder is to receive nationwide attention when it appears on the NBC TV program "Unsolved Myster-ies," at 10 p.m. Friday, Feb. 5, after "Miami Vice." An Oakland Press reporter suggested the murder for the program, said Susan Michaels, a reporter for "Unsolved Mysteries," of Los Angeles, Calif. Two other mysteries had been suggested by the same reporter, and one has already been solved, she said, adding this case had a good chance of being solved since so much information is known about the suspects. DeBoer was a courier for Union 76 and was carrying between $8,000 and $10,000 when he was kidnaped by an employee, Melissa Munday, about age 16, and her boyfriend Jerry Strickland, about age 26

2 Wed, Feb. 3 1988 The Clarkston (Mich.) News Township tables condo plan. wants village to take lead

BY JULIE CAMPE Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Independence Township Planning Commission decided last week to let the Village of Clarkston lead the way in a site condominium project that lies in the village and the township.

"It seems to me, in the spirit of cooperation with the village, we should work along with them," said Chairperson Brent Bair at the Jan. 28 meeting.

I would like to see the village take the lead on this, perhaps given our concerns and comments, since we only have a small corner of it. ... We've got a piece of the action, not even the bulk of the action," he said.

The commission unanimously approved tabling the conceptual site plan for Village West until the village makes a decision and planned to give the village a copy of its opinions on the matter.

Commission members expressed concern about the private roads and about a pond that's part of the Clinton River chain.

To build in the flood plain of the pond, filling would be required, and commission members voiced objections to the procedure.

"I don't like it concept-wise," said Joseph Figa. "That's why the Clinton River has been in trouble over the years, because people have been building in the flood plains."

The spring-fed pond is to include a stone walk-way around the perimeter and a filtering system to keep lawn chemicals from entering Deer Lake downstream. A township administrative wetlands permit is also required before the project could begin.

Proposed by township resident Rudy Lozano, the project consists of nine "building envelopes" on almost six acres off White Lake Road on Deer Lake. The two private roads for the project would require variances from the township zoning board of appeals (ZBA) because the township has an ordinance against The Long the tot private roads.

Bair asked what power the township ZBA would have if the actual roads rested in the village. Township Planner Richard Carlisle said the ZBA should look at the entire site plan and be satisfied that the parts in the township would be adequately served. "But the village is in the driver's seat," he said. The planning commission is to consider the plan at a February meeting, after the village planning commission and village council have considered it.

In December, the village planning commission unanimously recommended approval to the council, which has the final say in site plans, but the village ordinance did not provide for site condominiums.

The village council is to adopt an ordinance to regulate condominiums and is to consider the site plan again on Feb. 8.

The site condominium plan is like a small subdivision, only the condominium association will own the land, and the homeowner will own the building site, in which a house of any design could be built, said Lozano.

He plans to live in the development and would be the developer, so he'll push for homes in an early American architectural style, he said

"We're trying to build a nice, quaint, very private situation of nine houses, probably upwards of $300,000 each," he said.

The condo association is to provide garbage removal and lawn and road maintenance; and no boats would be allowed on the beach property, at the request of other Deer Lake residents, he said.

arkston's Catallo creates stir

BY PAT YOUNG Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarence Catallo downplays the stir he created recenin the financial world.

"It's really no big deal," he says of his move from E.F. Hutton, where he was executive vice president of the company's Great Lakes region, to the position of senior vice president and manager of Paine Webber's North Central division.

The move is significant, however, because it comes at a time when Shearson Lehman Brothers Inc. is working for a smooth absorption of E.F. Hutton following a recent merger agreement. And other brokers in the industry have said that Catallo, a popular and effective leader, could attract other top Hutton brokers to Paine Webber.

Catallo was offered a top management position with Shearson Lehman, which he says he gave considerable thought to.

"Shearson is a fine firm, but they just didn't fit me spiritually," Catallo says. "The culture at Paine Webber is much more similar to the entrepreneurial spirit which prevailed at E.F. Hutton the last 23 years."

Catallo began his career with Hutton in 1965 as the firm's first Detroit-area traince. When he left Hutton on Jan. 7 to join Paine Webber, he was manager of Hutton's most profitable region, with headquarters in Birmingham. He was also a member of Hutton's internal board of directors.

His entire career with Hutton has been in the Detroit area and he lives in Clarkston. When he refused to move to Paine Webber's North Central divisional office in Chicago, the company agreed to move the offices to him. He is currently working out of offices in Farmington, but says the permanent headquarters will probably be in Birmingham.

"I'm flattered, of course," he says of all the fuss. "But I don't know where they get all this flamboyant stuff or this popular leader thing. Someone must have talked to my mother. She thinks I'm popular."

Catallo says he saw no reason to move from this area

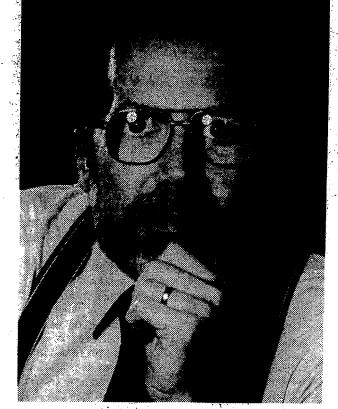

"It's a good place to live and do business. People don't realize how important Detroit is to the overall financial market," he says. "(Chicago and Detroit) are both fine cities, and we will maintain an office in Chicago. But it was really my decision as to where the headquarters would be. It was part of the deal and they (Paine Webber) never balked at it."

At Hutton, Catallo was responsible for 590 account executives in Michigan and Ohio. At Paine Webber, he will be responsible for more than 800 account executives in the eight-state North Central division, including Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota.

"Paine Webber is a major firm, with 4,200 investment executives (brokers) and a goal of 6,000," Catallo says. "Shearson has 12,000.

"When a firm gets that large, it's difficult to operate the way I like to," he says. "I like to operate with personal relationships. It's very important to me."

He describes Paine Webber as "unique at this point in time - one of the last remaining independents of its size," with sufficient capital to insure the safety investors are looking for in the current environment.

As far as luring brokers away from Hutton, Catallo says he's not attempting to do that. But he adds, "I'd be naive if I told you I didn't expect a few of my associates to join me, people I've had good working relationships with over the years, (but this is) to no fault of Shearson Lehman Brothers."

A few already have joined him, and he expects a few more, but he says he's not looking for "huge quantities of brokers" to leave Shearson-Hutton.

Catallo was graduated from Dearborn High School in 1958 and from the University of Detroit in 1963 with a degree in economics and management. He says he didn't really enjoy school, but he loves the action of the financial world.

"There's never a boring day," he says.

That carries over into his personal life as well. Catallo lives with his wife, Sharron, in a renovated historical church complete with bell tower in Clarkston. where Sharron serves as village council president. They share the home with numerous pugs that Sharron raises and shows, an aging Labrador retriever, a gathering of cats and a couple of birds.

They are both active in fund raising for SCAMP, a summer camp program for handicapped children and young adults. Sharron is also active in the historical society and the garden club. Catallo is a trustee with the Michigan Opera Theatre.

"... I don't know where they get all this flamboyant stuff or this popular leader thing. Someone must have talked to my mother. She thinks I'm popular."

Clarence Catallo

One of Cattalo's favorite pastimes is racing cars. He travels the circuit racing Lolas, "keeping his son company," he says. Son Curt, 20, races cars, too, following in the footsteps of his father.

Catallo is also a collector of cars and of hot air balloons. He is a licensed pilot and aeronaut (hot-air balloonist), currently owning three hot air balloons and two small balloons used for exhibits.

Curt is a junior at Bennington College in Vermont, studying poetry and literature. "For a taste of the real world," his father says, Curt works at the Board of Trade in Chicago in the summers.

The Catallos' 18-year-old daughter, Cara, is a junior at Simon's Rock of Bard College in Great Barrington, Mass., studying European literature. She also works as a reporter for the Berkshire Courier.

Both attend small, private schools. "I guess they don't like big organizations any better than I do," Catallo says.

He's fond of small towns, too.

"Clarkston is really a unique little community. That's why I had no desire to move out," Catallo says. "We all travel a great deal, but this is our home base - our roots."

Village still seeking its own police coverage

BY PETER AUCHTER Clarkston News Staff Writer

Slowly but surely, the village and Oakland County Sheriff's Department are reaching an agreement regarding police coverage for Clarkston.

It will cost the village approximately $60,000 a year for a deputy to provide traffic control. This price includes training, a patrol car and insurance for one man.

The proposed police contract between the village and the township called for the village to pay the equivalent of 2.5 mills for police protection, the same amount sheriff's department for 40 hours of coverage, Catallo said, Clarkston would give eight hours free of charge 'o the township in exchange for emergency coverage when the deputy is not on duty.

If the township isn't interested in the deal then the e would look for a willing partner w

- After a year of fruitless negotiations in 1987 with the township to get a contract that would provide the village with police coverage (including traffic control), the village council decided it was time to part company.

Representatives from the village council have attended several meetings with the sheriff's department and they expect to go to a few more before reaching a settlement, said Trustee Frank Millard.

"We have to go through a series of approvals," he said. "I understand that the township will keep serving us (with police coverage) until it's settled,"

The latest meeting representatives from the village council attended was Feb. 2 at the Oakland County Board of Commissioners office: At that time the village council had hoped to get the Public Services Committee's OK to sign a contract for police coverage with the sheriff compartment. Should the committee recommend the deal, then say - will do the same, said Millard.

wnship residents pay.

Last fall, township voters approved an extra 1.5 mills in taxes for the police fund, to increase total taxes for police coverage to 2.5 mills. Village residents didn't vote on the issue.

The 1.5 mills is equal to approximately $35,000. The village agreed to pay the extra amount in April in return for extra traffic patrol.

Clarkston currently pays 1 mill for police coverage under the expired contract with the township. One mill is $1 for every $1,000 in assessed property valuation; The 1 mill expenditure covers general police cover-age - not specific traffic control the council members want - for the village, said Millard,

But the village doesn't expect to pay the 1 mill rate forever. "In January we were paying 1 mill for police cover-age but I think it will go up to 2.5 in February," said President Sharron Catallo. "But we haven't discussed it it's likely the board of commissioners - which has the final ... officially with the township yet." When and if the village signs a contract with the Clarkston with off-hour police services.

"I don't think it (finding police coverage) will be a problem," said Catallo. "The eight hours are a bonus we are giving in hopes the deal will be accepted."

One problem that needs to be worked out prior prior to approval of a contract with the sheriff's department is when the deputy would patrol in the village, Breviously, the village council wanted to split a shift to provide four hours of coverage in the morning and four in the evening during the rush hours.

The sheriff's department told the village the hours would have to be taken consecutively each day for a total of 40 per week. Everything needs to be spelled out before the two parties sign, Millard said: "They (sheriff's department) don't want to promise something they can not guarantee," he said. The village council was not overly worried about the detail when it was discussed at the Jan. 25 meeting-"I've never felt that there would be a problem," said Catallo about working a deputy for eight hours straight. & Champerson

Deerwood III OKd after thir

On its third appearance before the planning com-ssion, the tentative preliminary plat for Deerwood III subdivision was approved Jan. 28. The commission unanimously approved the plat with two conditions: The plan must address engineering comments and must solve a private road casement problem by either a judge's decision or a recommendation on safety from the Oakland County Road Commission. The alternative, called Plan B, was not the first choice of the developers and the planning commission for the site off M-15.

The nearby residents also did not like the plan, but a disagreement between the developers and the residents over a private road easement prevented the first and third alternatives.

Before the vote, Chairperson Brent Bair voiced his concern over approving the plan.

"I am disappointed that we're back looking at Plan B and that things couldn't be worked out," he said. "With Plan B, we've got a lot of losers. The two landlocked parcels are losers. The future residents of the subdivision might be losers. The planning commission loses. The township itself loses with this situation."

But the proposal is legal and meets ordinance requirements, he said.

Residents in two landlocked parcels objected to the subdivision because the subdivision road would either eliminate their direct M-15 access or cross their easement.

Richard Campbell, who owns a group home for the elderly on 10 acres, said his business would lose its identity if his M-15 access disappeared.

Lorraine Hall, who owns 20 acres, said M-15 had been her legal address for years, and she didn't want to change it.

Plan B crosses the easement but still allows the M-15 access.

Safe keeping purchase

A fireproof cabinet to store flammable liquids will be purchased by the village council. .5 40

The $600 expenditure was approved by a 6-0 vote Jan. 25.

A safety inspection by the village's insurance company brought the potential hazardous situation to light. The insurance company recommended the exact kind of cabinet it thinks is safe for storing the flammable liquids, said Clerk Norma Goyette.

"I don't think that we have much choice," said Trustee James Schultz.

Vocational center tour on Sunday

BY KATHY GREENFIELD Clarkston News Editor.

John Tucker can think of several reasons why people should visit the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center during its Open House on Sunday, Feb. 7, from 1 to 4 p.m.

The list can be summed up with: changes, taxes and opportunity.

Tucker is an admissions counselor NWOVEC, ocated at 8211 Big Lake Rd., off Dixie Highway, in Springfield Township.

Dramatic changes have taken place since the building opened 17 years ago, he said. Notable is the addition of computers in nearly all of the 17 programs that range from computer accounting, food services and landscaping to dental and medical assisting.

The names on the doors are the same as 10 years ago, but it's markedly different, both in what's being taught and the equipment used in the program," Tucker said.

As technology changes, so does the vocational training, and people who have been in the building only four or five years ago are astonished at the differences, Sec. 3 he said.

The vocational education center, one of four in Oakland County, serves students from Brandon, Clarkston. Our Lady of the Lakes, Holly, Waterford Kettering and Waterford Mott high schools and adults living in the coinciding school districts.

All county property owners pay for the schools through a one-half mill county-wide tax, which covers 80 percent of the costs. The remaining 20 percent comes from state and federal sources.

NWOVEC is considered to be an extension of all the schools it serves, Tucker said, and the center concept was established to allow schools to offer quality vocational and technical courses without the considerable expense.

"In order to keep the student skills up to date, you have to keep the equipment up to date," he said, and taxpayers might be curious about how their dollars are spent.

The opportunity part of the appeal involves taking a first-hand look at what's available.

"We're just trying to make people aware of the good things going on," Tucker said.

The majority of students in the center's daytime program are high school juniors and seniors. Evening students are mainly adults interested in vocational and technical training.

During the past three years, 67 percent of the students who completed programs were placed in jobs related to their training and 35 percent of students attending the center have continued education related to their program.

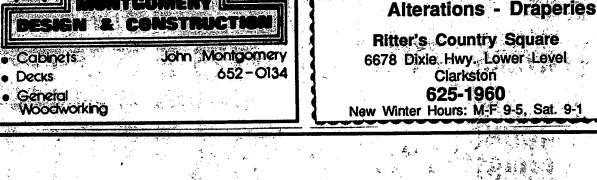

Those attending the open house will have an opportunity to see students working in the programs, talk to program instructors and students, and obtain information on how to enter the program of their choice.

It's snowing again, so I'm glad my computer faces walls without windows ... and I'm letting my mind drift:

I think I've finally figured out what it is about my organizational habits that is causing problems.

When I'm making mental or written lists, I have this huge category of items that simply don't count. I certainly don't write them down and I mentally dismiss any time they may take.

At work, the "this doesn't count" list is almost endless. It ranges from going through the mail to using scissors to trim newspaper copy fresh from the laser printer next to my desk to answering telephone queries (Can you give me the name of the company ... ?).

At home, the "this doesn't count" list is endless. It ranges from folding laundry to changing toilet paper to going to the grocery store.

Whenever I'm tempted to say "Nothing much" in answer to "What did you do today," my instincts are usually correct. People start easing on out of the room when others start giving detailed answers.

One thing I did yesterday that didn't count was watch TV

I was spending a quiet evening alone after a busy day at work, so I decided it was time to catch up on MTV. I like to watch a few hours of the music videos every once in a while to keep track of our changing society, so to speak. The channel was blank.

"Maybe I forgot the right numbers," thought I, so I flipped through a series of a dozen or so.

That's how I ended up watching "The Donna Reed Show," which I used to watch faithfully when I was a youngster.

There was Donna dressed in clothes fresh from the ironing board, her hair in a freshly combed page boy being a mother and wife fresh from the from days of yore.

She kissed her children goodbye at the door as they left for school, freshly made lunches in hand. She plotted a family vacation. She packed the bags. She mended the ski pants. She solved everyone's problems. She was wonderful.

She wasn't real, but how many real people do we see on contemporary TV programs? I don't know any family like the Huxtables, L.A. lawyer types aren't prevalent in my life and I used to atch "Dynasty

Different strokes

It's funny the things that brighten your day. I was at the closet, putting away a coat, when I peeked aimlessly out the front door window bored with the humdrum ritual of housecleaning.

What appeared to be a snow covered maple leaf dancing in the wind flitted across the front porch.

I started to look away when suddenly the leaf stood up on its hind legs to more closely examine the red bricks of our house. Quickly, it was up and then down and then once more moving across the porch.

I stood motionless, holding my breath like an enthralled child, hoping my presence even through the glass would not scare it away.

My heart began to beat a little faster as the realization came to me that I was seeing something I had never seen before - and this in the December of my 37th year.

Flat to the ground, it had the speed of, but was too long to be, a chipmunk. All white except for a few brown tufts of fur on its back, it was clearly camouflaged for winter and too small to be a squirrel.

My curiosity increased as I watched it jump and run down the length of our garden, its belly barely clearing the small drift of snow that had blown there. I decided to see if I could figure out what it was by looking in a sketchbook of Michigan animals that I own.

I searched the pages through beavers, martens, bears, rabbits, skunks, wolves, deer, otters and bats before I finally stumbled upon its identity: a least weasel. *

According to the book, "Michigan Wildlife Sketches," the least weasel is a little known and seldom seen animal, though it probably populates the entire state.

I felt lucky, yes even privileged, that this creature had ventured onto my porch in the sterile, concrete and brick environment that is my subdivision.

Several days later, as we dined over the holidays with good friends, I told them excitedly of my sighting.

They listened patiently before their 11-yearold son jumped up from their table to run to the basement. He was stopped in his tracks by a command from his mother who obviously knew what he was up to: "NO!"

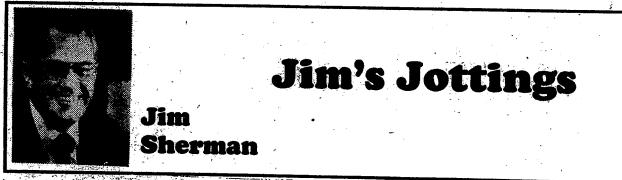

He returned to the table, but his own excitement could not be stifled. "We've got one in the freezer downstairs," he said. "We're going to have it stuffed."

I was so repulsed that I can't remember how it was they told me that they came to own the animal. Though they are hunters, I don't recall them saying they killed it.

It doesn't really matter. Though I adore this family, and understand that they appreciate wildlife in a way different from me, I can't understand the thrill they get from putting dead animals on display.

Animals look so much nicer when they are dancing in the wind.

Carolyn Walker's column appears twice each month in The Clarkston News.

After never receiving any seed catalogs in a lifetime, I got two this year. I have no idea why the seed (better called 'plant') catalogs haven't found their way into my mail. All the others seem to find me.

First I want to compliment the printers. The colors make the raspberries almost edible and the flowering crab trees smellable.

It's easy to see why the push is on for posey buying in January. It is then, as in boats and fishing tackle, that everyone knows they will have the timeand sweet com. I am no Green Thumber.

I figured a lower area of our yard would be most fertile because of erosion. I planted the trio just outside the range of our lawn sprinklers. Crop failure. The next year I changed brands. Crop failure.

The next year I changed brands and moved the garden to within the sprinkler range. Ditto results. My Big Boy tomatoes were little girls tomatoes, my com was a foot high by Labor Day and my zucchini grew to the size of a small gher I've fertilized commercially and organically. I've pleaded. I've mulched. I have also turned it back into lawn.

Our minds are filled with fairy lands of good. Ah, Spring! When I can turn the soil, par our favorite golf course, and build that wrap-around deck.

I'll have lots of time to cultivate the asters. Shrub trimming, even shaping, can fit the time slot between dinner and darkness with the longer daylight hours.

When we leaf through the pages nursery stock j. we give not thought to their ever needing pruning. They look so gorgeous people will line our road to get a glimpse of what 'Green Thumb' Sherman has it made out of his usually neglected yard.

Being a tomato: zucchini and sweet com lover I spent extra time mentally selecting seeds to bring the most beautiful and succulent species to our table.

But, because of all this time I have now to not weed, not mow, and not cultivate, I let my mind wander back to when I planted tomatoes, zucchini

As much as I love garden fresh, as much as I love to see beautiful growing things, as much as I love the outdoor work, vegetable gardening is not for me. On to the flower section.

Again, with time to think, there was no reason to spend any time on anything except-the marigolds. Rabbits have eliminated thoughts of pansies, petunias and morning glories. I haven I given up yet on geraniums (and neither have the rabbits), I just keep putting the pots higher off the ground.

Same for the impatients. I grow them by putting them in hanging pots with some ivy dangling over the side. Trouble is, they are too high for Hazel to

CBS News asked vice president and presidential candidate George Bush to answer questions on Dan. attacked Rather. Both spent much of the 9 minutes Rather's show 2 Mondays ago. Bush said he would only do it live... Parts Bart

Rather started by saying the CBS poll showed 33 NIL S percent of the people who like Bush don't believe him as to his roll in the arms-for-hostage swap and the Contra affair. The newsman showed numerous clips of statements seemingly contradicting Bush's statements of his involvement. STREET, STREET Bush said it was all a rehash, that his statements were well founded after investigation; and he thought he would be given the opportunity to state his position on education, etc.

Rather pushed Contra and hostage. Bush speaking at the same time.

It was interesting from the standpoint that the interviewer and professional newsman showed little professionalism, and that the professional politician showed little smoothness and lacked conviction.

Both lost the 9-minute scuffle, with Rather the bigger loser.

However, we believe none of the 33 percent who don't believe Bush's roll in the arms and Contra deals changed their minds. We weren't polled, but we believe Bush, for political not patriotic reasons, has not been telling the truth of his involvement. JAS

The Clarkston (Mich.) News Wed. Feb: 3, 1988

Sometimes I receive heavy responses to light columns. I poked fun at the "fool father" who practically weeps for joy in an AT&T TV commercial because his daughter surprisingly decides she wants to chat with him long distance- while the meter ticks - for as long as she regularly chats with her mother.

"My father will read that column and cut it out for me to see the next time I come over, because he will have seen humor in it," a Detroit woman wrote. "What he won't do, though, is realize that all my life I have wanted him to be as interested in me and my life as that man in the commercial is in his daughter's life. You and your self-centered viewpoint have only cemented the notion that all it takes to be a father is a weekly paycheck and a legible signature on a report card every three months.

"Mr. Fitzgerald, I'm not saying there aren't greedy, spoiled children out there - there are. I am saying that most times it goes deeper than VISA cards and phone bills. I tried all my life to find my father even though we lived under the same roof. The impossible part was getting him to look for me, when he wasn't even aware I was lost.

"I'm 30 years old now, and the damage is done. It's hard to love him because I don't know him; and I don't want to get to know him now because I just don't like him anymore.'

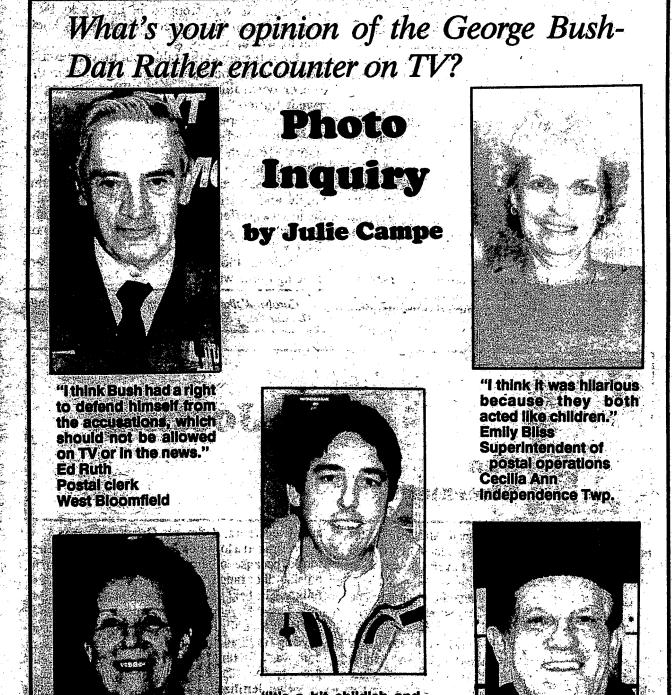

Well. That's something for Old Dad to think about the next time he automatically hands the phone to his wife because it's their daughter on the other end of the line. IN ANOTHER COLUMN, I joked that there are more widows than widowers over 60 because, unlike today, it used to be traditional for the husband to work himself into a premature funeral trying to make enough money to pay the bills run up by a wife who was "only" a homemaker and contributed no income to the family treasury.

A Dearborn Heights woman responded: "There are more widows because men do not take as good care of themselves as do women healthwise. When was the last time you had a good general checkup? My husband has cancer which could have been cured if he had seen a doctor when he first noticed the symptoms. He waited almost a year without saying anything.

This is the same attitude most men have. Men will not take the time to sit in a doctor's waiting room, nor the time off from work to check on something that could be serious but they deem inconsequential."

NOT SO HEAVY was the response from Mark Grebner, an East Lansing seller of computer services and advice to political campaigns. Describing himself as "a local institution and tourist attraction," Grebner said, "I don't actually read your columns, you understand. I: ...rt of skim them for references to politics or Emily." While skimming, Grebner noted my declaration that the Careford ( Second Careford & House ) and

For the Clarkston board of education it was a trip to Bountiful, an imaginary place where everything could be perfect.

The two-hour presentation Jan. 18 of facility needs led by Charles Sherman, senior partner of Charles W. Sherman Associates Inc, Architects of Pontiac, included a detailed report of repairs recommended for each

Asbestos tests required again

A new federal law that requires tests for asbestos in all public buildings by federally certified companies could prove costly for the Clarkston school district.

The tests could cost as much as $5,000 a building. said Assistant Superintendent Mel Vaara. The district has nine buildings in which students meet, two office buildings and a maintenance garage.

At a special meeting Jan. 18, Vaara told the board of education that the presence of asbestos was found to be at acceptable levels in all school buildings three or four years ago when district staff members performed the tests.

"But that is out the window. Now you have to get federally certified companies to do that," he said.

If asbestos problems were found, the district would be responsible for eliminating them, which could be very expensive, Vaara said.

The tests must be completed by Oct. 1, 1988. Two district staff members took a class last month in the removal of asbestos and Vaara said he has also received such instruction. The training will allow them handle minor asbestos problems, he said.

building owned by the district plus preliminary plans for a new high school.

"This is the most fun we've had in a couple of years," said board member John Needham after the presentation was completed.

"And we can't do anything about it," added board President Janet Thomas.

The facilities study was commissioned by the board in December 1985 and each building was visited by Sherman representatives in 1986 and '87, before school district voters turned thumbs down on a request for an operating millage increase of 4.25 mills twice, in June and October of '87.

The board realized that it would be useless to ask voters to approve bonds for a new high school and for renovations and repairs to existing buildings when the millage denial created serious problems for the day-today operation of the district, so discussion on the new high school ceased.

But in December, the need for building repairs and for priority setting for those repairs resurfaced during a board-administration workshop at a conference center in St. Clair, said Superintendent Milford Mason.

In the first step toward setting priorities for repairs, the board agreed that the facilities report should be presented.

Sherman's detailed recommendations for each. building ranged from floor replacement, improving lighting and painting to much more serious problems.

The report recommended no longer using Clarkston Junior High School for regular classes and outlined methods for changing Clarkston High School and Sashabaw Junior High School to middle schools for grades six through eight.

The new high school plan was for grades nine through 12. Sherman said the plan had not been completed and could not be until the board met to agree on details, but it was drawn for a site on a 138-acre parcel at White Lake Road and Dixie Highway, which the school district does not own.

Before the millage defeats, the board had directed Mason to inquire on the availability of the property and the owners had granted the architects permission to visit the property. No money has exchanged hands and price has not been discussed, Mason said after the meeting.

The high school plan design resembled a half wheel with spokes. The majority of the building was two stories high with a 1,000-seat auditorium, subject area wings and full physical education facilities.

At the end of the presentation, Sherman presented the board with a list of priorities for repairs and renovations to existing 12 buildings, which include eight schools, bus maintenance, special services, administration and the Clarkston Learning Center.

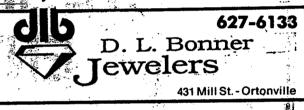

Topping the list was roofing; code violations; safety with defective curbs, sidewalks, etc., citing conditions at Bailey Lake as having major need; and asbestos in mechanical insulation, floor tile and ceiling tile.

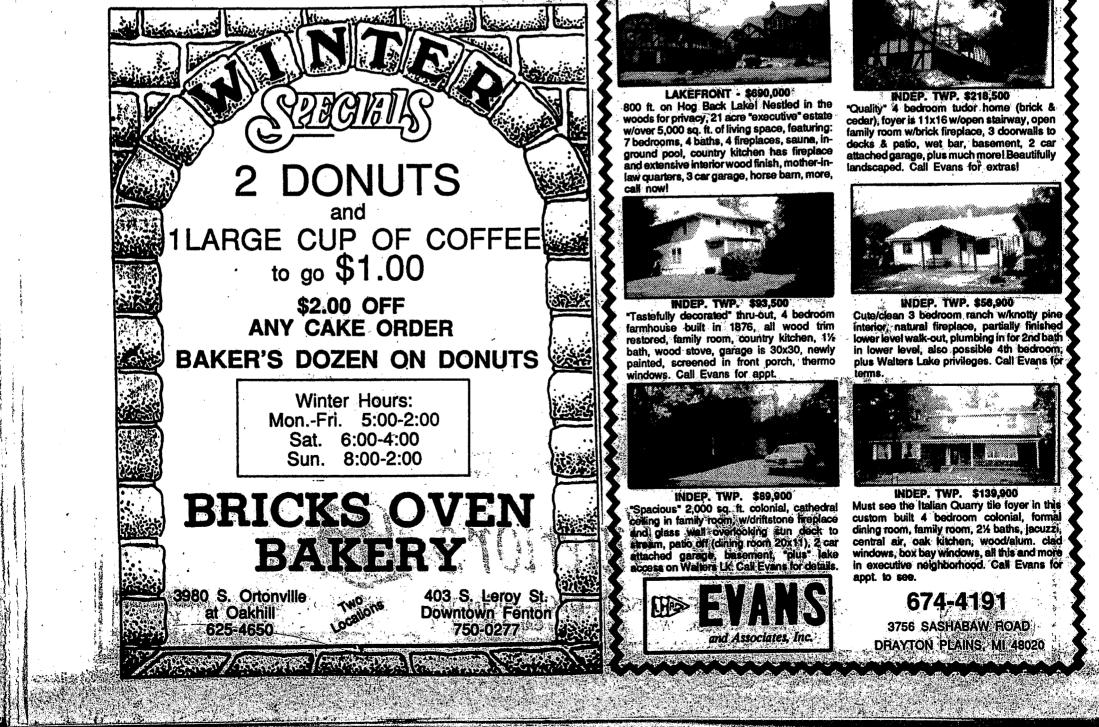

Priority number two was comprised of boiler replacements at Clarkston Elementary, South Sashabaw and the bus garage; and energy conservation measures.

Number three was remodeling with unit ventilator replacement and cabinetry, and major appearance items including ceilings and floor coverings.

Last on the list were exterior improvements including draining, paving and building repairs and minor appearance items.

The board took no action on the report, but after the meeting Mason indicated that the board is expected to address the major repair problems before the end of February.

10 Wed., Feb. 3, 1988 The Clarkston (Mich.) News Planners question concept

condominium' subdivision put on hold

BY JULIE CAMPE

SITE THE

The planning commission wanted more information about "building envelopes," so the conceptual site plan of the proposed 54-lot Sashabaw Creek Meadows was tabled last week,

Trinity Investments, the developers who also built Chestnut Hills subdivision off Maybee Road, Independence Township, proposed "site condominiums" instead of subdivision lots for the 121-acre site north of Clarkston Road, west of Sashabaw Road. The firm is owned by Ben Benson, Joseph Benson, M.A. Benson and Arthur Jackson.

"This is a whole new area for us," said commission member Carol Balzarini, after she made the motion to table the site plan. She said the commission needed more details.

The commission is to consider the matter Feb. 11, after the township attorney reviews the concept, the township planner reviews the master deed for the development and a state official comments on the legality of site condominiums.

Richard Oppmann cast the only vote against tabling the issue because he said site condominiums weren't appropriate for Sashabaw Creek Meadows, as they were appropriate for Pine Knob Manor Homes because of difficult topographical conditions.

In October last year, the commission approved 21 site condo lots for Pine Knob Manor Homes off Waldon Road, Independence Township.

Balzarini started the discussion by saying she heard at a lecture that day that site condominiums were illegal.

Attorney William Myers, representing Trinity Investments, said "condominium" doesn't refer to a particular form of real estate; rather it's a type of ownership.

A site condominium allows the condo association to own the entire subdivision except for a 150-foot by 200"I'm puzzled by why we're all of a sudden getting all of these site condos. I don't like private roads."

Joseph Figa

foot lot or building envelope owned by the resident, where the house of the resident's design is built. The association would be responsible for upkeep of roads, driveways and lawn and garbage disposal.

Developer Ben Benson said private roads were desirable because they require less development time than county roads. The roads would still meet county standards, he said.

"I'm puzzled by why we're all of a sudden getting all of these site condos," said commission member Joseph Figa. "I don't like private roads. If the condominium association doesn't take care of them, the township gets all the calls."

Chairperson Brent Bair said the township had an ordinance against private roads in new developments, and a variance from the zoning board of appeals (ZBA) would be necessary.

The ZBA doesn't like private roads, especially as extensive as in the proposal, he said. He suggested building public roads because the association could still pay for private services.

"That's the basic service that you don't want to lose. The road commission can serve as a backup at least," said Bair. Benson countered that by the time all the subdivision materials are in order, they could lose the current good market.

"There's been a tendency in this country more and more to offer external services," he said. "It's still not widespread out here. We don't know how the market will accept it."

They're aiming for the "fall-off" market from Rochester, people who want a quick access to I-75, he said. "Rochester, has become so unaffordable that people are looking for other places to go."

people are looking for other places to go." Developer Jackson said, "This is a concept of the future. We're going to use it in Independence Township and Waterford Township and Brandon as often as we use it in West Bloomfield," Myers noted that condominium associations can be more effective than subdivision associations.

"I sense a strength in a condominium association that is not present in a subdivision association," he said. "It's a private government, in effect."

Audience member Rudy Lozano of Tamarack Park favored the project. He said he had lived in the community for 17 years and was a former member of the planning commission and township board. He, also, had a site condo proposal before the commission that night, he said.

The site condos offer a "carefree" concept for people who don't like maintenance and who don't want a common wall between them and their neighbors, he said, adding he works in real estate and thought the idea would be popular.

"I think it's a h-- of a concept. I think people are going to love this concept," said Lozano. "We don't have to rely on big government anymore to do our roads for us. People like condominiums because there's no maintenance.

"We don't need Big Brother. Who's going to buy this? The YUPPIE, the couple that both work and don't have time to mow the lawn," he said.

Shoplifters net $500

Wice three women shoplifted over $500 worth of items in Boyerly's Howers and Gifts last week, the owner and employees were angry.

"The whole thing is they think they got away with something," and they did," said Joyce Hovis a floral designer at the shop on M-15 Independence Township. In the middle of the afternoon last Friday, the women entered the store and browsed, said Hovis. While one bought a $2 potpourri item from the only cash register attendant, the others laughed and talked and casually walked out of the store with an antique gun, a brass lamp, a porcelain doll a brass pot, twostuffed bears and other miscellaneous items.

and other miscellancous items. "These girls, I feel it wasn't their first time. They've been around the block once or twice," said Hovis. The tigred levels at Beverly's are filled with thousands of items. large and small, and they don't know for certain yet which items were taken. The cash register was at the back of the store, so the attendant didn't see the shoplifting, said Hovis.

Because of the incident, the cash register will be moved to the front of the store, and two people will be on duty at all times when customers are present, she said, "It's really sad because it's a nice store, and it has a lot to offer people in the area without driving too far," Hovis said.

"I just want other people to be aware that they're still out there. And the police said that unless you catch them on the property, there's nothing you can do."

Grand entrance for baby

Corey Vincil came to world in such a rush Sunday that her mother didn't have time to make it to the hospital. Firefighter Capt. Steve Ronk delivered the 19inch, 7-pound, 4-ounce baby in her Park Drive, Independence Township, home at 3:52 a.m. Jan. 31. "Things moved right along," said Ronk, who has / delivered two other babies in his job with the Independence Township Fire Department.

"It was really smooth," he said. "The only thing that lingers in the back of your mind is if something goes wrong. But if things are right, and the baby's in the correct position, everything's OK."

Delivering babies was part of Ronk's training as an emergency medical technician.

"It's really pretty easy," he said. "It's a natural act. It's really a coaching job. The more you do, the less nervous you are, and the more confidence you can pass on to the mother.

"She was very good. She did a really good job once we started, ....It's a tough spot for a lady to be in. All of a sudden, you have three strangers who are going to deliver you baby."

"They were real nice. ... (Ronk) did an excellent job. He made you feel real comfortable. ... They put the whole situation at ease and made it relaxed."

Corey's father, Glenn, was "shocked" at his daughter's dramatic entrance into the world, said Ann,

The Vincils have a 2-year-old daughter, Gretchen, who also arrived suddenly. After enduring a traffic jam, she was born only 10 minutes after reaching the hospital, said Ann, adding she didn't plan to have more children.

"Ithink we'll call it quits now, because I'm afraid it will only come quicker," she said. Corey's grandparents are Clinton and Annette Vincil of Ortonville and Fred and Drita Miller of Goshen, Ind.

Wed., Feb. 3, 1988 The Clarkston (Mich.) News 12 Varied agenda set for board next Monday

School buses, facility needs and a new center program for autistic children are among items on the tentative agenda for the Monday, Feb. 8, Clarkston board of education regular meeting.

The administration will recommend that the school board approve the purchase of three school buses, half as many as the original proposal, said Superintendent Milford Mason.

The recommendation is based on financial constraints, and part of the cutback procedure will also be condensing transportation as much as possible, he said.

Decisions on critical priorities for facilities needs will involve roof and heating system repairs and replacement, Mason said, and it is likely a special meeting will be set later this month to further discuss the problems.

Discussion about the autistic program, which is to begin this month, involves whether portable classrooms or permanent building additions should be used beginning next fall. The center program will be funded entirely, including classroom expenses, by Oakland Schools, the intermediate school district that oversees the county's 28 public school districts. The money comes from a special education tax paid by all county property owners.

Also on the tentative agenda are employee recognition, recognition of this year's DAR Award winner at Clarkston High School, a request for board approval of a trip to London by 31 persons including about seven CHS students, a request for approval of amended graduation requirements and a personnel matter.

The board meets at 8 p.m. in the district administration building, 6389 Clarkston Rd., Independence Township.

Letter to Editor

MP wants letters

I am a soldier over here in West Germany and I would like to share information with the people of my home town of Clarkston.

I receive The Clarkston News over here and it always seems to warm me with a touch of home. Thank you for the memories and news of Clarkston.

I would appreciate it if you could publish my enclosed letter to the people of Clarkston.

Joshua D. Bliss

Hello! That seems to be the only sensible opening statement. I am Joshua D. Bliss, known to most as "Dave."

I am a 1986 graduate of Clarkston High School and I'm presently serving in the Army as a military policeman in Hanau, West Germany. I'm enjoying my stay overseas by traveling.

Although the dollar is low, it is still worthwhile to visit Europe and I strongly encourage a trip to Europe. While most people save up for vacation in the sunbelt or in Hawaii, they're missing a chance to see many different countries in Europe.

I would suggest taking language lessons. In most places in Europe, German is spoken, so you can enjoy many countries by knowing basic German. You must also plan your trip.

What do you want to see, to do, what do you like? Although you might not know of any specific cities to see or do what you want to, that's where I can help you out.

If it's a major fire, or a minor oddity, we want a call at The Clarkston News. . . . . . 625-3370

I can mainly help you out if you plan to travel to Germany or Austria, since I travel these two countries the most.

I could also help you out, but not as well, in Spain, France, Holland, Belgium, Luxembourg, Switzerland, Liechtenstein, Netherlands and West Berlin.

If you send a list of what you want to see or do or even if you're just curious about where the best place for anything is, just send me a letter and I will be pleased to respond and enclose a basic travel outline. The address is:

Jan 27 - Hot shooting by Jeff Tungate sparked the Wolves over Lakeland in a non-league contest at home. Tungate finished with 28 points for the victors. Josh Newblatt added 13 for the Wolves.

Clarkston pulled away from Lakeland after halftime with a 14-0 spurt and coasted to victory.

Jan 29 - The Wolves fell behind early and then came back to make a game of it.

Unfortunately, the Wolves made just 4-of-14 free throws in the fourth quarter and it cost them a chance to

All the varsity basketball team could see was green, in the stands and on the court. It proved to be too much for the Wolves to handle in one night.

The stands at Lake Orion were chock full of nuts disguised as high school students. White-and-green pom pons, banners and faces were all that could be seen. And then there was Darrell Green.

Green, a 6-foot-3 center for the Dragons, controlled the inside game for Lake Orion and helped them capture a 62-56 win over Clarkston for first place in the Greater Oakland Activities League by a half-game.

While Green scored 19 points for the winners, it seemed like a lot more. Just ask Coach Dan Fife.

"It seemed like he had 50 points out there tonight," Fife said afterward. He was surprised to find out the youngster only notched 19.

The large boisterous crowd coupled with a lowceiling in the gym proved to be quite unnerving for the visitors.

"It was loud in there," said Rob Sanderson, who scored six points for the Wolves. "We were not used to that."

Jeff Tungate led all Clarkston scorers with 17 points. Mike Barnes had 16 and Chip Galley added 10.

The Wolves, now 6-4 overall and 3-1 in the GOAL, started off on top 4-2 but quickly fell behind as the crowd noise took its toll. The closest Clarkston could get after that was four points.

At times, the Dragons led by as many as 15 points. Barnes and Tungate began a final rally for Clarkston late in the fourth quarter and the Wolves were within four points with just 50 seconds left.

But Lake Orion canned most of its free-throw opportunities down the stretch to seal the win. The Dragons' last six points were scored from the charity stripe.

While the loss was disappointing, Fife did see something positive.

"They are bigger and can jump higher," he said. "But both teams played well in the second half."

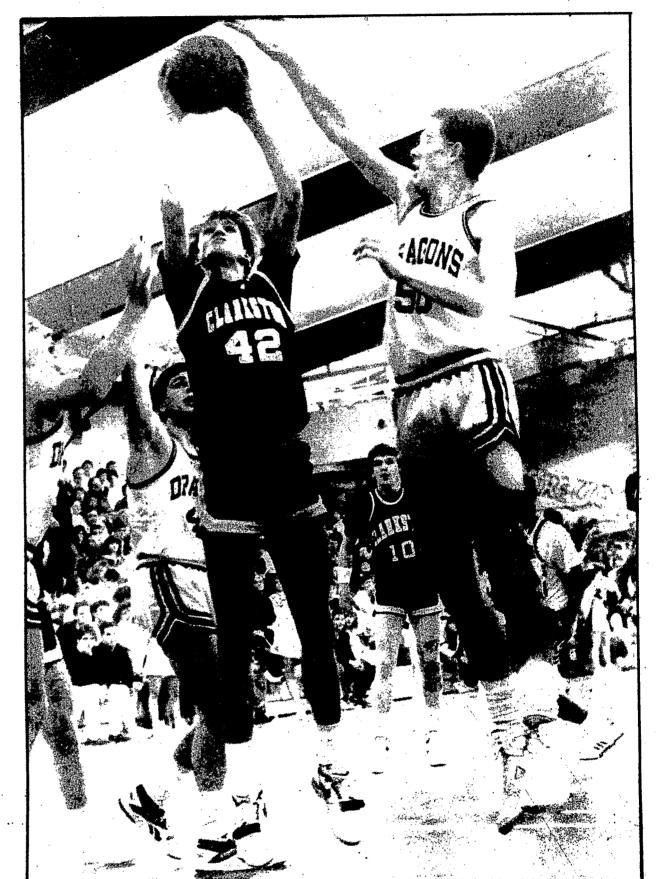

Clarkston limited Lake Orion to six points in the third quarter. Unfortunately for the Wolves, they only scored seven themselves.

Fife said the Wolves can not afford to slack off at any time or it will cost them dearly.

"We are not going to out-talent anyone," he said. "We can't afford not to be sharp out there."

Gibby's mom speaks out

BY PETER AUCHTER

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Fan reaction from Kirk Gibson's signing of a lucrative contract with the Los Angeles Dodgers last week ranged from vicious slams to high praise.

Gibson's mother Barb, a teacher at Clarkston High School, put it all in perspective after the smoke cleared from the initial onslaught.

"I know Kirk as Kirk," she said on Monday. "There will always be someone who likes you and someone who doesn't.'

Gibson, a free agent in 1985, recently was freed from his current contract with the Detroit Tigers by an arbitrator who ruled he was colluded against by the owners.

He had until March 1 to find a better offer than the Tigers' deal.

When news of Gibson's signing a $4.5 million contract with the National League Dodgers spread around the Metro area like wildfire among baseball fans over the weekend, area media sources quickly sought the start in fiery temper and competitive spirit also rubbed some the public's opinion on Gibby's decision.

The Oakland Press displayed its findings on the front page of Sunday's paper, exclaiming how happy the fans were to be rid of Gibson once and for all.

"I thought that (the headline to the story) was very tacky," said Gibson's mom. "It was their prerogative (to do that), but that doesn't mean I have to like it."

Gibson's mother hopes the change of scenery will do her son a world of good.

"I'm delighted for him," she said. "He will handle the new situation beautifully."

One perk that Gibson's mom can no longer enjoy as easily is having the luxury of seeing her son play in person.

Since he is now in the Nations! cague, Gibson will face a whole new set of opponents. American League teams, like the Tigers, only face National League clubs during the World Series.

The closest Gibby will get to his home town is Cincinnati, Chicago or New York. But that doesn't mean his mom will miss out on much action.

Seeing National League stadiums for the first will

The girls and the boys ski teams finished their dual meet season with near perfect 6-1 records after whipping Detroit Country Day.

The girls headed into divisional play with a sweep, winning the top seven places.

Once again, Shelly Purdy was the top racer for Clarkston She was clocked in at 51.27 seconds. Wendy Zoss (54.17), Tina Sheppard (54.51), Jackie Jablonski (54.90), Crissy Gibson (58.34), Tammy Mitchell (58.40) and Emily Winfield (62.11) followed Purdy.

The final score had the Wolves winning, 10-38.

At this point in the season, said Coach Don Balzarini, Zoss is the most improved skier on the team. She has become better and better with each race. Purdy and Sheppard have raced well all year, he added.

With a 6-1 record, the Wolves are alone in first place among the girls teams. Still, Balzarini thought an unbeaten mark would not have been out of the question.

"We could be skiing a little better," he said. Balzarini also said the boys team could stand to improve a little, despite its 6-1 record. Against Detroit Country Day, the Wolves won, 14-

27. Top skier for Clarkston was Shawn Lambouris with a time of 47.56. He finished in second place.

Following Lambouris, were Tim Snyder (47.56), Jeff Shupe (48.34), Jim Brueck (49.03), Bart Roeser (52.45) in second through sixth place, respectively. Andy Yarber ended up in eighth place with a time of 64.12.

The victory enables Clarkston to tie for the league lead at the end of the dual meet season.

Most improved skier for the boys is Lambouris, said

Lately, a lot of fans have been stopping me on the street or at games and asking a simple question. Unfortunately, I don't have a quick or simple answer.

The scene usually unfolds something like this:

"Where's the pictures?" they all ask, all wideeyed and inquisitive.

"Not in the paper," I reply with a sigh.

It seems as though people have been seeing me at a lot of their games recently snapping photos of their heroes in action. But when the paper hits the streets, the pictures are nowhere to be seen. What gives?

Well, it's a long story. So I thought I would take the time to explain it now so I won't have to keep repeating myself.

We at Sherman Publications Inc. (SPI we like to call it) are having a bit of difficulty with our photographs. It seems as though some kind of demon-sort of like the noid in the Domino's Pizza commercial - is attacking us. We are helpless against this unknown assailant.

For now all we can do is hold a little prayer session each and every day in hopes it will keep the dreaded demon away. If for nothing else, this little episode in my life is giving me yet another reason to go to church.

Another topic often brought up by fans and enemies is my bias toward a team and I wish to address that issue now.

I do not favor one school over another nor one sport over another nor girls teams better than

It's the demons lurking around Clarkston that help me decide which sports photos get in the paper. They just destroy three-quarters of my choices and actually leave me with no choices. I use whatever turns out best.

a with a stand of the stand

No scientific formulas here, just plain old luck. It kind of makes me shutter every time I pick up a camera. (That was a joke of sorts, get it?)

While losing pictures is no laughing matter, I must joke about it to keep from going insane. Or at least a little goofy.

Speaking of which, a vacation to Orlando, Fla., at this time of the year would not be a bad idea at all. A visit to the Magic Kingdom complete with Mickey, Minnie and Goofy would be good medication to soothe my ragged nerves.

But then why should my nerves be ragged? My picture is always going to be in the paper so I guess I really can't complain.

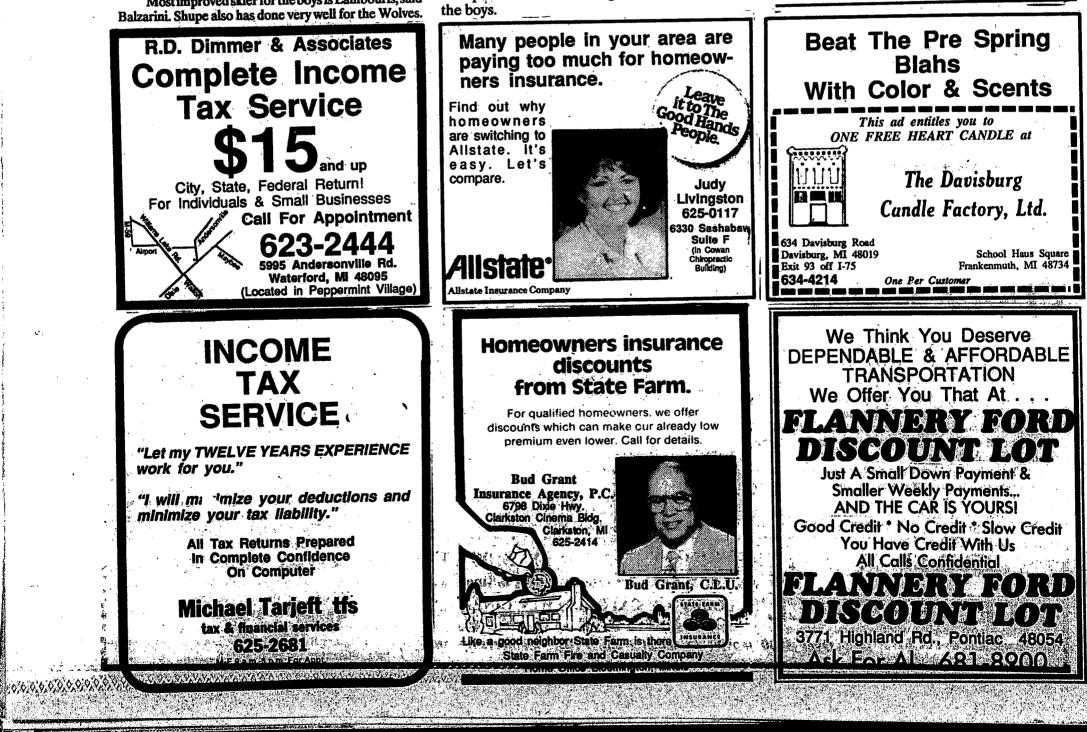

Things could be worse.

(Knock on wood.)

A final note, for all you sports people out there, keep on playing. I'm sure I'll get a good picture of you sooner or later.

So don't call to ask where it is, please!

Your ideas count! Give us a call at The Clarkston News. 625-3370

Despite several unusual events, one thing did stay the same at the Pontiac Northern-Clarkston wrestling match last week - the Huskies won,

The Wolves have always lost to Pontiac Northern for as long as Coach Scott Strickler can remember. Clarkston's 37-26 loss on Jan. 28 will go down in history as just another defeat at the hands of the Huskies.

"We lost a couple of key matches," said Strickler. "They (Pontiac Northern) are solid from top to bottom and they will be tough (to beat)." With the loss, Clarkston's dual meet record falls to 17-3 overall. The Wolves' Greater Oakland Activities League mark was tarnished as it fell to 3-1.

The dual meet was delayed when the official didn't show up on time. Then problems with the audio system caused another delay when the national anthem was to be played.

After all the delays, the two teams finally got down to business. Unfortunately, the results were the same as usual for the Wolves.

"It's the story of our lives," said Strickler. "We just can't beat them.'

Through the first half of the meet, both teams battled back and forth for the lead. Clarkston took its first lead of the night on John Terpstra's pin with 11 seconds left in the first period.

But that's when Pontiac Northern kicked in with extra effort and opened up a 31-14 advantage with only three matches left.

"You've got to hand it to them," said Strickler, who saw his club's winning streak in the GOAL snapped. "They turned the tables on us."

Clarkston won two of those to make the final score close.

Winners by pin for the Wolves were Terpstra at 132 pounds and Jason Campbell at 185, who punned his opponent with 56 seconds left in the first period. Eric Wall at 105 and John Anderson at 126 won by decision for Clarkston. Heavyweight Mark Oswald won by disgualification.

Dave London ended up with a 6-6 draw in his match at 119 pounds.

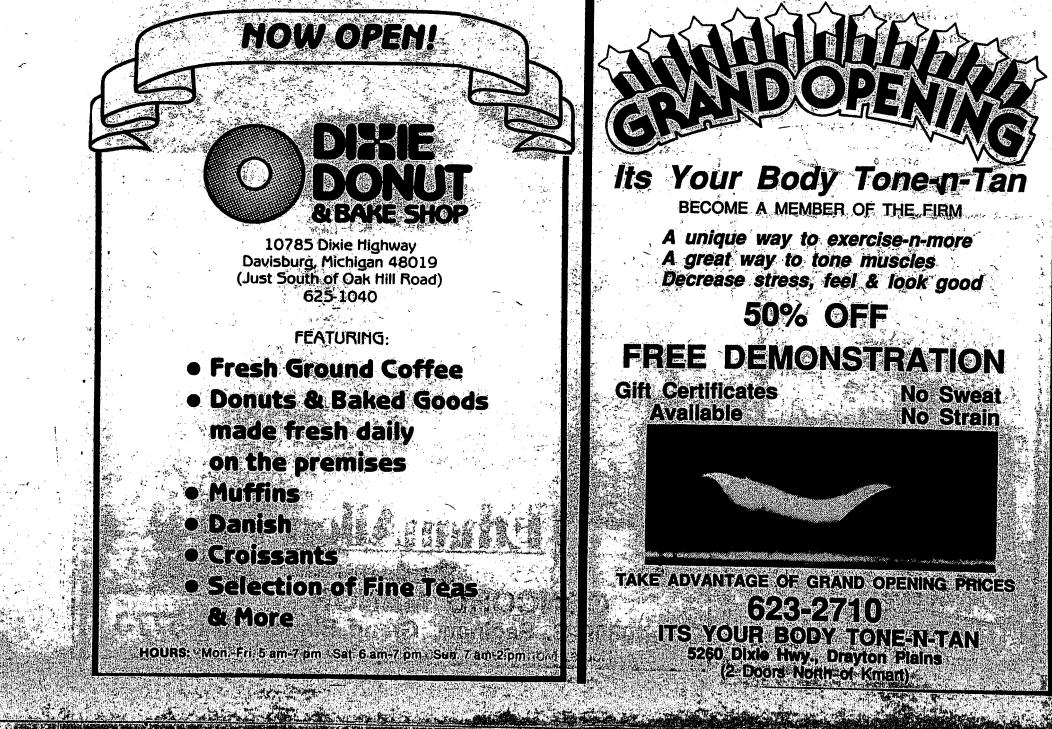

Clarkston faced GOAL power Lake Orion Tuesday night, but results were not available at press time.

ONLY INCHES AWAY from a pin, Dave London works extra hard to finish off his match against

Baja adventure

A Clarkston-area man recently was one of only 43 bicyclists to ride 1,200 miles, the length of the Baja Pennisula.

Herb Rose, of the DATP Program Office, took part in the 13th annual tour organized by Bob Wagner of Convair Division.

Rose began his adventure on Dec. 18, 1987, and finished Jan. 6, 1988. Many times he carried food on his bike since he might ride 65 miles between stores.

Nights were spent in hotels or motels with four people per room. Once they camped in a long abandoned trailer park, a desolate area littered with metal and plastic trash, said Rose.

After many miles and many aches and pains, the trip ended at Cabo San Lucas, the lowest point of the Baja. Tears, bear hugs, laughs and congratulations were exchanged between all those who were able to finish the grueling tour.

Statistics tabulated after the fact told of the courage required to finish the event in one piece.

Riders biked about 80 miles per day, with the shortest being 38 and the longest 134.

Rose gained a lot out of the experience and certainly would do it again.

"The circle of my friends has been widened, the number of challenges met has increased, my experiences enriched because of my exposure to a group known as 'Baja 13'," he said.

Grapplers win

In its own tournament, the Clarkston wrestling club had 18 members win medals over the weekend.

Of the 18, five wrestlers finished in first place for Clarkston.

Zachary Sartell (55 pounds) was second in the 8and-under novice age group.

In the advanced bracket, Arron Grant (45) took first, Ricky Rank (45) third, Cory McClanahan (50) third, Andy Auten (55) third, Joshua Simpson (65) second and Franco Vega (65) first for Clarkston.

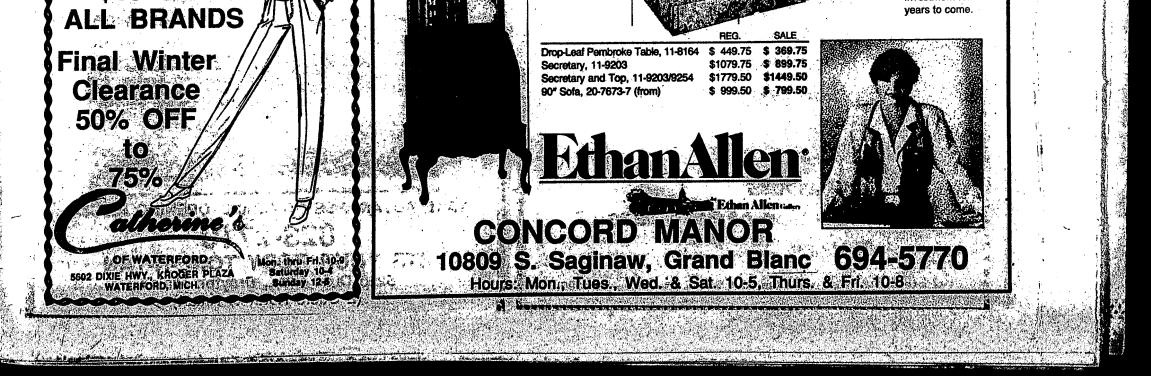

Eric Craven (80) finished in third place in the 9- and 10-year-old novice age group. Advanced division winners were Jason Tiefenbach (55) in second, Brandon Rank (60) in first and Dennis Busch (60) in third place.

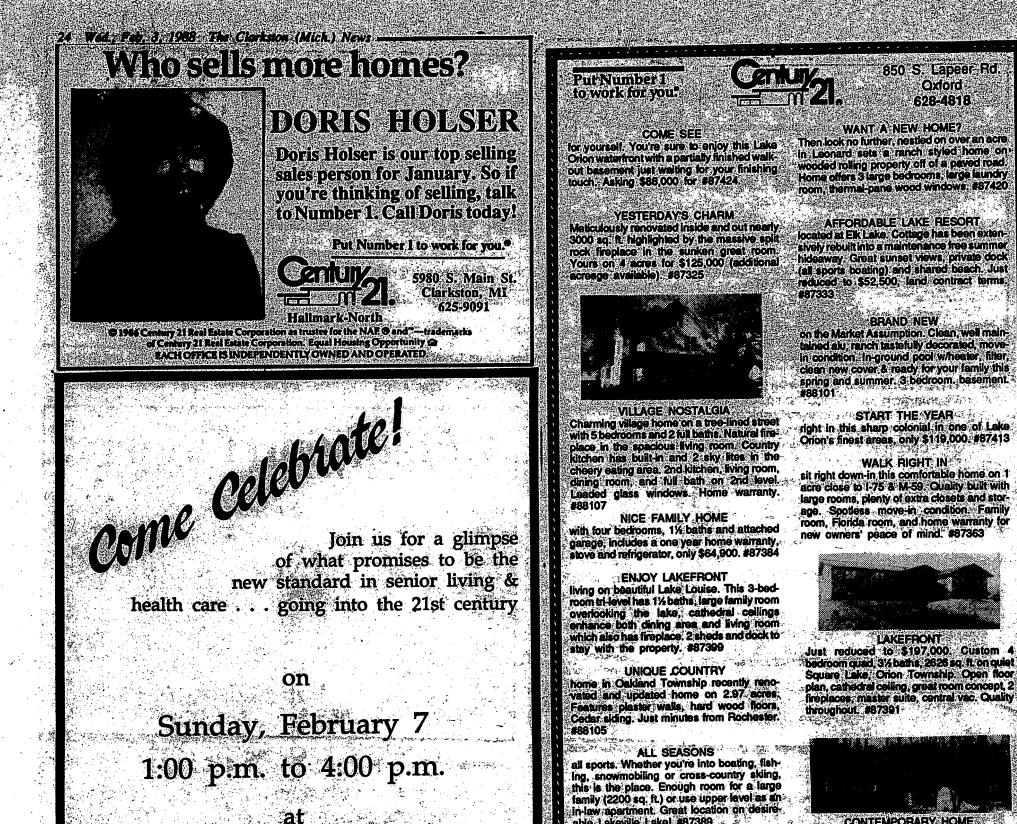

The advanced age group winners in the 11- and 12year-old bracket were Chad Granlund (60) in first, Corey Grant (70) in third, Armin Michelsen (80) in second and Eric Endreszl (90) in second.

Chris White (126) finished second in the 13- and 14year-old advanced age division and Damon Michelsen (138.5) did likewise in the 15- and 16-year-old group. Joel Davis (192) finished in first place.

Ride a Rolls-Royce, buy a lake picnic for 10

Top Salesperson of The Year

Looking for something unusual for your valentine? The Clarkston United Methodist Women have the ultimate gift solution.

After an evening at the group's Valentine Auction on Saturday, Feb. 13, your true love could have a gift to brag about.

About 40 items are expected for the live auction, said Marty Johnston, co-chair of the event with Gini Schultz.

Among the offerings are a ride in a Clarkston parade in a Rolls-Royce, a pontoon ride with water sports and a barbecue, spaghetti dinner for eight, chili dinner for six, a pie a month, a pontoon ride for 10 with cocktails and hors d'oeuvres, a picnic on Maceday Lake for eight to 12 and a condo for a fall or spring weekend at Boyne City.

Another 100 or so items will be featured in a silent auction. Among the choices will be chocolate pizza, casseroles, craft items, handmade pillows and stained glass.

The auction raises virtually all the money needed for the group's projects, Johnston said, but there are many other reasons to attend.

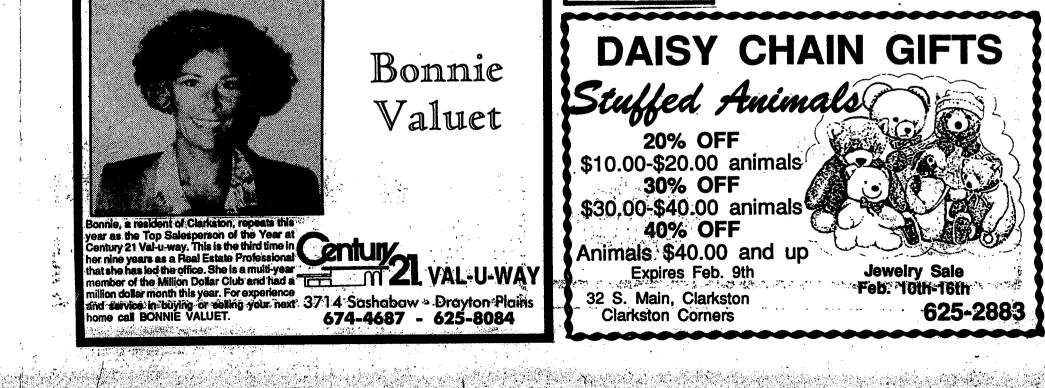

"It is a fun night out. It's a nice night of fellowship as well as a money maker," she said.

The $2-a-person ticket covers snacks and punch during auction times and a dessert buffet afterward.

All items will be on display when the doors open at the church Fellowship Hall at 7 p.m. The silent auction will continue until 8, with the live auction set for 8:30.

Tickets, which must be purchased in advance, are available from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays at the church office, 6600 Waldon Rd., Clarkston, or by calling Johnston at 625-2589 or Schultz at 625-3062.

Man hit on M-15

A 48-year-old Springfield Township man was seriously injured Sunday when he was hit by a car on M-15, Independence Township, after trying to help in another accident.

About 6 p.m., Kenneth M. Lagrance of Dixie Highway, Springfield Township, arrived at the scene of an accident with his tow truck and apparently stepped in front of an oncoming southbound vehicle, according to the reports at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

He was in stable condition Monday at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac.

It was dark and rainy, and the driver of the oncoming vehicle, JoAnne Elizabeth Herban, 45, of Woodglen, Independence Township, did not see Larrance in time to stop, according to the police report.

Neither Herban nor her passenger, Terry Herban, 48, were injured.

No one was seriously injured in the first accident, which occurred in front of Lewis E. Wint and Son Funeral Home on M-15.

Tour St. Joseph's

St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Pontiac will sponsor a tour program for people who want to make wellinformed health care choices.

Tours will be conducted on Sunday, Feb. 21, between 1 and 3 p.m. and reservations are required.

Guests will visit various areas of the hospital including: the birth center, physical therapy, pediatrics, cardiac rehabilitation, same- day surgery, the laser center and Mercy women's care center.

Participants will have an opportunity to have their questions answered in a personalized setting and receive information. Refreshments will be served.

Tour group size is limited and reservations are required. Call St. Joseph Mercy's Community Relations Department at 858-3160 to make a reservation.

Strickland, a West Virginia prison parolee of Hagerstown, Md., was a former employee of a different Union 76 station.

Apparently, the couple abducted DeBoer from the station, robbed him, shot him and left him in a field in Rose Township, where he died of gunshot wounds to the head.

Detective Sgt. Donald Bailey, of the Waterford Police Department, said the suspects could be anywhere in the United States or Canada, so the "Unsolved Mysteries" program could be helpful.

"They've had pretty good results," Bailey said, "Anything's worth a try. We've got to get these people off the street before they hurt more people."

Police told Mary DeBoer that the couple may be in Colorado, but she's unsure, she said.

Boys and girls will have a chance to show their basketball skills and compete for a free Piston's game in a basketball contest Saturday, Feb. 13.

Sponsored by the Clarkston Area Optimist Club, the Tri-Star Basketball contest is for children ages 8 through 13, who will compete in one of six age groups.

The contestants will be evaluated in passing, shooting and dribbling from 9 to 11 a.m. at Clarkston Junior High School. Entry forms are available at all elementary schools in the Clarkston school district, Coach's Corner, Carol's Village Grill and at CJHS the day of the competition. They may also be obtained from Pat O'Rourke at 625-4256.

Winners in each age group will be awarded plaques at an 11:15 a.m. ceremony Feb. 13. The optimists will also sponsor the winners at the district Tri-Star Basketball Tournament on March 12, which includes a banquet and a Detroit Pistons Basketball game.

The assignment was inspired by a play the pupils hadread, "The Arcade Kid" by Michael McGreeley, said Duling, an English teacher at Clarkston Junior High-School. The play was adapted from Mark Twain's "The Prince and the Pauper.

She wassurprised that the students liked the assignment and decided to ask them to typeset their stories on word processors. Afterward, the pupils provided their own illustrations. The final works were laminated and displayed around the school. Following is a sample of the work.

By Amy Leininger I woke up in a well-decorated room with a queensize waterbed, in which I was.

I got up and looked around, vaguely remembering ceing this room before-on television! I had awakened in a celebrity's apartment.

I had studied this place so well when I had seen it in a magazine that I knew where things were. As I walked around, I heard the phone ring. It was Well, at least I knew who I was. I never was a good player at Wheel of Fortune, but now I get a golden opportunity.

As I got ready that night, I broke a fingernail! Soon, I arrived, driving my red Porsche.

As soon as I was in the building, I said, "Hello," to Pat and the contestants.

Later, when I was turning blocks, my fingernail broke and fell off.

I screamed out in pain and found myself landing with a thud in my old bed. Was I glad!

Mother, daughter give sewing a creative twist

Florence Haynes and Terri Turcsak share more than the business they co-own in the lower level of Ritter's Country Square on Dixie Highway. They are a mother-daughter team.

Flo, as everyone knows her, has been sewing for 30 years at different businesses and in her home. She even. made clothes for the man who portrays Donald Duck at Disney World.

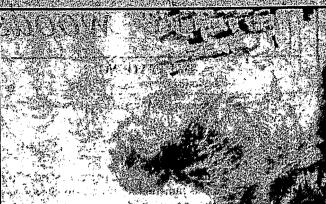

Daughter Terri began sewing at the age of eight, continued through 4-H Chib, and then began sewing with her mother out of their Ortonville-area home. "Terri and I always talked about opening a shop," Flo says. And when they outgrew sewing at home, that's exactly what they did.

Creative Sewing opened last summer with just the two of them. But soon Flo's cousia, Margaret Bennett, joined them full-time and Mary Pekier, Flo's sister, joined them part-time. They are currently looking for a third employee. third employee.

"We call this our little family circle," Flo jokes. Another daughter, Mary Floyed, will help them this summer. Business is booming at the little shop, judging from the overflowing racks of alterations. They also do custom dressmaking and draperics. They just completed the model for Clarkston Bluffs, creating all the window coverings as well as the bedspreads, toss pillows and padded headboard, and then did the first condo sold in the complex.

Sewing gets in your blood," Flo says. "It's just (See MODIER Page 51)

Despite the exertion compounded by my lack of skill, cross-country skiing provides a oneness with nature Area parks are a good source of cross-country that is hard to describe. It's a sport that even non-winter people could enjoy. It's like a walk in the woods--on skis. After an hour or so of swooshing silently along, my legs hinted of the complaints they would register in a big way the next morning. Then, a familiar path and a house in the distance told me we were almost there.

By Bruce A. Stewart How did it start?

What were the intentions? How do I abide and heed? How do I perish and become another? We exist for a calling. We'd go west for a shilling. A note of greenback. Mankind builds for it. We salvage lives for it. Philanthropy opens barriers to the difficult problems we inherit or merit. Though we desire to disburse it so foolishly. It's only one thing to humanity. It's eternal status. Have it, live. Don't, die or pretend to exist. Who has forecasted me to write these soon to be hierogtyphics? I feel a fringe without sensations. The animals, the heavens. The inversion, the pandemonium. So nonpareil to be one union. To kill another. Is there an end?

Pestilence regulates enough.

Acts of God are mishaps we may or may not deserve. Yet we rape and stab.

Is there a safe way out of something we know nothing about?

Christian Soldiers Wanted

Here's your chance to get involved with an unusual church. We don't plan on growing by attracting people from other churches. We're going after the unchurched people in the North Oakland County area. And we need a few good Christians to fill out our core group. We believe the bottom line for every Christian should be helping others to know Christ. If you share this belief, we invite you to visit next Sunday or call us at 625-7332. We're only 30 people now. And we worship in the Carriage House at Clintonwood Park, Who knows, you might even rub elbows with a few tax collectors before it's over. Sunday Service 10:30 AM.

Think about it. How do some brake places know what your next job'll cost if they've never seen your brakes to begin with? Answer: they don't.

Fact is; there's no way anyone can figure out exactly what the price will be. There are just too many possibilities.

That's why at Midas, we pull all four wheels before every brake job. To get inside your brakes. To inspect them. To positively determine what's gone wrong. From a nine dollar can of fluid to a new master cylinder.

And when we're finished, we'll give you a pinpoint estimate of the entire job. With a price that won't go up when the job's done. That's our promise to you.

So when it comes time to pay, you'll have a leg to stand on.

Life as a Famous Skier

By Jessica Budry As I awaken in the morning, my life seems quite normal, until I step outside my house. Everyone comes running toward me, asking if I'll teach them to ski.

Just then, I realize I am a famous skier, for I picked up the newspaper on the porch step, and I'm on the cover-The headline reads: World's Most Famous Skier.

I decide to give people skiing lessons. Giving the lessons is fun for the first few hours, but then people began asking for autographs. Reporters were swarming around me, and I didn't get any free time. Life became impossible.

By the time I'm finished giving the skiing lessons, I'm ready to go home and get in bed. As I get in bed; I am hoping I wake up in the morning without being famous.

Tget up the next morning, and as yesterday, my life seems quite normal, so I stepped outside. There were no people rushing toward me. There weren't any news reporters with cameras. There was nobody at all.

I walk down the street, and my friends come out of their houses. Just then, I get nervous. "What if I'm still famous? I won't have any free time. People will be crowded around me so much that I won't be able to walk, and I'd be living my life on the slopes! Oh, God, I hope I'm not famous," I think to myself.

But to my surprise, they ask if I want to go to the movies.

"You mean you don't want to ski?"

"Nope," they say.

"Good, sure. Let's go," I say.

I think to myself, "It's nice to get a lot of attention. Being famous is not for me. I'm glad I'm not famous because I want to be me, not somebody people are going to put on a pedestal."

Being a Celebrity

By Kathy Jackman I think I would like to be a movie star and the best one I could ever be. So one day, I woke up to a maid calling me, and I was a movie star.

I woke up in my own private hotel suite, and it was the fanciest of the whole hotel. Within this room, I find a heart-shaped waterbed and a huge chair and couch set that had pink hearts on them. It has a kitchen with every kind of utensil you could possibly need. There is a dresser and a huge full-length, four-way mirror with gold trimming on the edges.

Being famous is going to be great! I love the richness and attention - especially being served on a gold platter and not having to do the dishes and other chores.

But after I found out my day's schedule, I find out being a celebrity isn't so great. My day is jam-packed. First, I eat. Then I have to go to three press conferences. By then, it should be noon, and I eat. Then, I go to another press conference. After that, I study some more. Then I eat dinner and practice my lines some more. Finally, I go to sleep. Being a big-time celebrity is not so great. Maybe I should go back to being my old self.

So I think I will go to sleep and dream I want my old self back.

Wow! I'm myself again. I really like being me!

36 Wed. Feb. 3, 1988 The Clarkston (Mich.) News

The following are a collection of thoughts about a flight I recently took from Detroit Metro Airport to Roanoke, Va.:

Metro - Where else can you pay $9 for two cokes, fries and a bacon cheeseburger that resembles something the Red Wings play with?

Is it just me or do mirages apply to parking spaces, too?

The security personnel manning the metal detector at Metro was made up of Charlie's Angels plus 50 years. No offense to anyone, but if there's a sly-looking Iranian with a big grin waiting to board my flight, I'm takin' the _bus.

Why do metal detectors only pick up metal sometimes? Oops!

I love that little speech the stewardess gives at the head of the plane, " ... and remember your seat cushion doubles as a floatation device." If this plane was headed quickly for the deep six, I think I'd be more worried about saving what was sitting on the seat cushion.

Emergency exits are located at the noted points about the aircraft." That's OK. If there's an emergency, I'll make my own.

There was only one small child on the flight out of Detroit. But he was loud enough to make up for all his buddies who didn't come. Do they have a union?

Is it legal to say, "in case of an emergency" and "enjoy the flight" in the same sentence?

Smoking is permitted only in the rear of the plane. It is not permitted in the aisle seats or the lavatory." Don't we like smokers? Why not just get rid of them altogether before they end up sitting in baggage.

Would you trust a man who said, "Your flight is on Airlines - there's nothing like 'em.

The Clarkston (Mich.) News Wed. Feb. 3, 1988 39 Schools take time to say thanks to custodians

BY PETER AUCHTER Clarkston News Staff Writer

While students had the day off, custodians in the Clarkston school system earned a special bonus of their own Friday.

During a regular in-service meeting at the high school on Jan. 22, 42 custodians were surprised with certificates of recognition for their hard work and dedi-

"We appreciate how nice and how caring you are," said Mary Himburg, building facilitator for Clarkston Elementary. "Never have we heard, 'It's not my job'."

The building facilitators, who oversee after-school programs, sponsored the recognition program for employees. Last year, bus drivers were honored, said Jeanne Molzon, coordinator of the youth enrichment program for Clarkston Community Education.

The awards ceremony took place before a regularly scheduled meeting since it was the only way to get all the custodians together without raising suspicion, said Molzon.

The smiles and laughs shared by the custodians showed the plan worked to perfection.

"We have never had anything like this before," said David Campbell.

"It's great," said David Merz. "Too bad it only lasts one day.'

Each custodian received a certificate and was the subject of a little story shared with the group.

Some quips were more memorable than others, but all brought cheers and laughs from those watching and waiting for their turn to shine.

"We are all one big happy family," said Andy Pinner, adding that Assistant Superintendent Mel Vaara was the head of the family.

One example of the family spirit occurred when it was Dwight Parsons' turn to receive a certificate. Molzon announced that it was his birthday and Vaara led the custodians in a rousing rendition of "Happy Birthday." When Karen Ohrnberger presented Merz with his award, she remembered when her daughter attended Bailey Lake Elementary and would forget her bike at school. Merz would take the bike inside at night so the younger Ohrnberger would not get in trouble from her parents, she said.

The building facilitators just couldn't say enough about the helpful custodians.

Testimonials from teachers also were read to the custodians.

Where would we be without the custodians?" one teacher wrote. Another one wrote, "Latchkey couldn't make it without you."

Molzon best summed up the reason for the recognition ceremony when she said, "Sometimes people just forget to say thanks."

A VERY REPORT

A free contest is cooking on the Microwave Plus cable-TV program on Channel 65. Seven local merchants have donated wonderful prizes and all of us involved in the show truly appreciate their support.

Our special thanks go to Mr. G's Hair & Skin Care Center, 20 Depot Street restaurant, Food Town markets, Downey's Potato Chips, Rudy's Market, Appliqued Sweat Shirts by Gay Ann and The Clarkston News.

For information about the contest and how you can win these great prizes, watch United Cable, Channel 65, Monday through Friday evenings.

Don't delay! All entries must be at the cable office by Monday, Feb. 22.

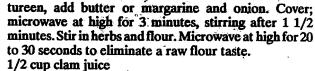

To further pique your interest, here is my microwave adaptation of 20 Depot Street's unforgettable shrimp chowder.

SHRIMP & MUSHROOM CHOWDER

- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 medium onion, finely chopped
- 3/4 teaspoon dill weed
- 3/4 teaspoon thyme

- 1/2 teaspoon sage
- 3 tablespoons flour

In a 2-quart Pyrex measure or microwavable soup

14 1/2 ounce can chicken broth or fresh chicken stock 8 ounces fresh mushrooms, thinly sliced 8 ounces cooked salad shrimp, defrosted 12 ounce can evaporated milk* Nutmeg

Blend clam juice and chicken broth into flour mixture, stirring well. Cover. Microwave at high power for 5 minutes, stirring after 2 1/2 minutes. Add mushrooms, shrimp and milk. Microwave, uncovered, at 70 percent power (medium high) for 5 to 8 minutes or until desired serving temperature is reached.

*Note: If a reduced fat soup is desired, substitute low-fat evaporated milk. If a thicker soup is desired, stir in 3 tablespoons potato starch.

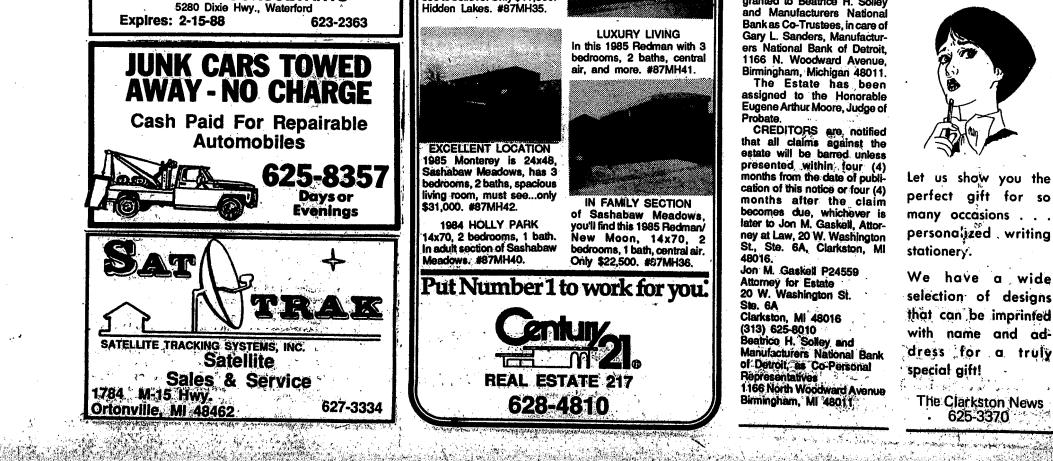

Home economist Betty Wagner resides in Independence Township. Her Microwave Plus cable-TV program airs Monday through Friday on Independence-Clarkston Channel 65.

PRAYER TO THE Holy Spirit. Holy Spirit. You make me see everything and show me the way to reach my ideals. You give me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrongs that are done to me and you are in all instances of my lite with me. I, in this short dialogue, want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be seperated from you no matter how great the mate desire may be. I want to be with you, and my loved ones, in your perpetual glory. Amen. Persons must pray this prayer 3 conse-cutive days without asking for your wish. After the 3rd day your wish will be granted, no matter how difficilit in may be. Then how difficult it may be. Then, promise to publish this dialogue as soon as your favor has been granted. Impossible wish granted. IIILX4-2

Then came the Christmas rush Currently, they are preparing for five weddings between now and April, as well as proms They also rent tuxedos at Creative Sewing, which comes in handy when the couple is matching colors. And how does the mother-daughter relationship work in a business?

"We've always worked well together," Flo says. Terri agrees, adding, "We've always been best of friends.

They give heavy metal a good name

BY JULIE CAMPE Clarkston News Staff Writer

While heavy metal music is commonly associated with drugs, eight teens in two high school bands plan to break the stereotype when they perform a benefit concert to help fight drugs.

"Nemisis" and "Raisin Cane," comprised of four 16-to 18-year-olds in each, plan to perform at 7:30 p.m. on Sat., Feb. 6, in the Kirchgessner Theatre at Clarkston High School.

"It was completely all their idea," said Katie MacKay, program coordinator for SEARCH, an acronym for Support, Education, Awareness, Resources for Chemical-free Health.

"They pursued it, and they thought it through," she said. "We've really come a long way in the last three years. ... When kids come to me and want to do something, that's a nice healthy sign. They could have gone somewhere else." used inside, although he found out later a few people had drunk alcohol outside.

But the party inside proved his point: "You don't need drugs to have a good time," he said.

Peer pressure is great, and sometimes you're not accepted if you don't drink, but people shouldn't succumb, he said.

With music, "it's a natural high. It's a rush," he said. Ron Boggs, rhythm and vocals in Nemisis, said they can't control who's attracted by heavy metal music.

"It doesn't matter who's there," he said. "The issue is against drugs. ... You have to realize that people do use drugs, and some probably will that night."

"We hope everyone comes and has a good time. This is what it's all about, to have a good time without drugs."

"We want to put of 100 percent," said Greg Woodruff, guitarist for Nemisis.

The groups rehearse almost every day. Nemisis, comprised of Greg Woodruff, Ron Boggs, Greg Fugate and Denny Townsend, rehearse at Greg Woodruff's house, where his mother is fairly supportive by letting them practice there, said Greg.

"Most of the time, my mom just leaves and goes to Vic Tanny's," he said.

Raisin Cane, comprised of Rich, Derek Marshall,

They told her that "kids can have a really good time . when they're straight," she said. "That's what sold me on the idea. You have to support that."

It was Jeff Fugate's idea. The drum player for Nemisis thought the groups could use exposure, and they needed a sponsor, he said, adding he immediately thought of MacKay.

Rich Deciantis, guitarist and lead vocalist for Raisin Cane, agreed with Jeff's choice.

"We really support Miss MacKay and SEARCH," he said "We'd like to thank her and all she stands for." The bands had played at the teen drop-in center and had received a good response. Plus, "drug-free" sells tickets, said Jeff.

And it's an opportunity to break the image of heavy metal music, he said.

As an example, he said he had a party at his house for about 90 people, and no alcohol or other drugs were Rich Deciantis

"But we want to tell people not to use drugs that night at least," said Jeff. Rich said the concert could serve as an example.

Rich said the concert could serve as an example. "We hope everyone comes and has a good time. This is what it's all about, to have a good time without drugs." None of the musicians would even consider drinking or other drug usage while on stage, said Rich. "This is our business. We're totally professional about this. We don't want to get drunk and then go up on stage (drunk)," he said:

Kyle Thatcher and Brent Beer, rehearses at Rich's house, which has a sound-proof room, so his parents probably only feel the vibrations, he said.

The two bands are excited about the performance and hope others are, too.

The $2 lickets are available only in advance and may be purchased in the commons area at CHS or from Katie MacKay.

The proceeds are to provide educational video tapes or money to bring in speakers, said MacKay SEARCH provides: an Insight Group for students who have drug-related behaviors: Concerned Person's Support Group for students who have family-members or friends who abuse drugs: Aftercare Support Groups for recovering drug-abusers: Parent Group to educate parents about drug usage; and other groups. SEARCH also sponsors the elementary school Just Say No clubs and an annual drug educational Center.
