'87 murder mystery may be resolved

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A TV show Friday night aided police and the FBI in the arrest of two former Springfield Township residents wanted in connection with the kidnapping, robbery and slaying of Elmer DeBoer, a 38-year-old Waterford Township resident.

After the NBC program, "Unsolved Mysteries," was broadcast nationwide Friday night, the Moses Lake, Wash., Police Department received about 20 calls informing them that the couple lived in Moses Lake, a town of about 12,000 people.

The suspects, Jerry Strickland, 26, and Melissa Munday, about 17, were arrested about 5 a.m. Pacific Standard Time, less than seven hours after the show aired, said Detective Sgt. Donald Bailey, of the Waterford Township Police Department.

Bailey was awakened by the first call from the Waterford police department around 4:15 a.m. Saturday, he said, adding he soon received other calls about the case.

"I was just happy and relieved that we finally got them," said Bailey. "That program is the greatest."

Since the criminals were apprehended, Bailey has fielded phone calls from media sources from all over the nation, he said.

"I'm doing OK," he said. "I'm getting a little gravel-throated from talking so much."

Ordeal for family of murder victim continues

BY JULIE CAMPE

Although the suspects in her husband's murder were found in Washington last Saturday, the ordeal isn't over for Mary DeBoer.

She was left emotionally raw after reliving the past nine months all in one day when she was deluged with questions from the media on Monday.

"They say it's better to talk about it," said the Waterford Township resident. "You can't keep it all inside. You'd go crazy. And Elmer's not here to say. There's still things you can do for him, even though he's not here."

Detectives from the Waterford Township Police Department called about 9 a.m. Saturday to tell her the suspects, Jerry Strickland and Melissa Munday, had been arrested in Moses Lake, Wash., following the NBC-TV broadcast of "Unsolved Mysteries" Friday night, she said.

"I was surprised it happened so fast," she said.

She remembered the relief she felt when she heard the news. "I cried. I really couldn't tell you how I felt. I just cried."

Mary imagined the sound sleep she would finally get after months of sleepless nights when she worried about the suspects' whereabouts, she said. But then she started thinking about all the events yet to come.

"It's not over," she said. "There's a long way to go. Now that they got them this far, what's going to happen? I don't know if they have enough evidence. Everything I hear is hearsay."

So instead of sleeping Saturday night, she got a lot of house cleaning done.

"It's not over with. . . You're reliving it over and over. You'll do it the rest of your life," she said. "I'd just like to see them put in jail. . . It's going to happen again. Somebody else is going to do it to someone else. But maybe these won't."

Her three children are still feeling the shock of it all, she said. "They really haven't said much of anything."

She appreciates all the help from friends and relatives, but the person who helped her the most isn't here to thank, she said.

She cried when she recalled how her husband, Elmer, who was found dead of gunshot wounds in Rose Township on May 11, 1987, was such a help when he was alive.

"Me and Elmer went through some pretty rough times," said Mary. "I got sick back in '82. I was in the hospital for six months, and I didn't know where I was half the time."

"Elmer would always tell me, 'Mary, we'll just take it one day at a time. I keep thinking about that. He's helped me the most, even though he's not here. He'll always be here for me.'"

"I know people will think I'm just saying this because he was my husband, but he was more than my husband; he was my life. Oh, we'd get mad at each other and yell, but there was a special bond there. It's hard to explain."

"I'll just take it one day at a time."

Board calls for 3 special meetings

Special meetings of the Clarkston board of education have been set for the next three Monday evenings.

On Feb. 15, the board plans to review the facilities study presented last month, with emphasis on setting priorities for repairs and renovations recommended by the architectural firm.

The board is expected to decide whether to go to voters to seek money for making repairs on school buildings.

On Feb. 22, a public hearing is planned on the proposed $1.8 million in proposed reductions for the 1988-89 school year. The plan for reductions includes elimination of after-school music, drama and sports, shortening the school day for junior and senior high school students by an hour, and increasing class sizes at the elementary school level.

The public hearing is designed to provide a chance for interested parties to react to the proposal.

On Feb. 29, the board is to approve the final plan of reductions for 1988-89 and to receive, but not act upon, a plan of reinstatement if additional money becomes available for that school year.

The special meetings are scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. at the administration office, 6495 Clarkston Rd., Independence Township.

TV show nabs murder suspects

He's waiting to hear about the extradition, he said. If Strickland agrees, then Bailey would go pick him up. If Strickland fights it, then Bailey would have appear in a court hearing in Washington, and the court would decide if Strickland should be extradited to Michigan, where he would be charged with the crimes.

Although Bailey knows the information only from the reports of others, he explained how Strickland and Munday were caught.

Apparently, Strickland saw "Unsolved Mysteries" and called a friend in Michigan, asking that person to notify the state police to tell them Strickland's whereabouts. The state police notified the FBI, the Moses Lake police and the Waterford police, Bailey said.

In the meantime, Strickland, Munday and their 1-year-old baby went to a friend's house, where Moses Lake police later arrested them with the help of information from people who had seen the TV show.

Strickland remains in Grant County Jail in Washington, where he told reporters he was innocent of the crimes and was not trying to hide from police.

Munday, who was a juvenile at the time of the crimes, is in a Grant County juvenile home and is reportedly 4-1/2 months pregnant with her second child. Their child remains with the friend whose residence was the location at which the police arrested Strickland and Munday.

Waterford police have warrants charging Strickland with first-degree murder, armed robbery, kidnapping and two counts of using a firearm in the commission of a felony, said Bailey.

Police think that Strickland and Munday, who lived together in Springfield Township, were responsible for abducting, robbing and killing Elmer DeBoer, 38, from a Union 76 gas station on Dixie Highway near Andersonville Road, Waterford Township.

Munday, a Maryland runaway, was a cashier at the station. Strickland, a West Virginia resident and prison parolee of Hagerstown, Md., was a former employee at a different Union 76 station. DeBoer was a courier for Union 76 and was carrying between $8,000 and $10,000 when he was kidnapped.

According to Waterford police reports, Munday called the gas station owners on May 11 and said she, DeBoer and her baby had been kidnapped.

DeBoer was later found by three boys in a Rose Township field with a handcuff around one wrist and two gunshot wounds in the back of the head.

Strickland, Munday and their infant could not be found and a nationwide search followed.

Surviving DeBoer were his wife, Mary, and three children.

Board approves buying 3 buses

Three new school buses have been approved for purchase by the Clarkston board of education.

The board unanimously approved purchasing the 72-passenger diesel buses for a total of $118,275 from Ride Equipment Co. of Saginaw.

In November, Assistant Superintendent Mel Vaara, the administrator who oversees the transportation department, asked the board to approve the purchase of six buses.

The board took the request under advisement, but questioned spending the money when the district was facing massive cuts due to defeat of a tax increase request by school district voters in June and October last year.

At Monday night's meeting, Vaara asked the board to approve the purchase of only three buses.

"If we have three more buses, that will give us a full fleet of 21 diesel buses for 1988," he said.

There are currently 21 bus routes and 18 diesel buses in the district fleet.

Vaara also said the board had until Feb. 10 to accept the price quoted in November for the buses.

Superintendent Milford Mason said new bids would have to be taken after that date. "It would be anybody's guess at that point," he said, regarding the possible cost.

After the board approved his proposal, a smiling Vaara wiped invisible sweat from his brow.

"You didn't think you were going to get that one, did you Mr. Vaara?" asked board President Janet Thomas.

"Can I start celebrating now?" Vaara asked, laughing.

Village, township renew police contract talks

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The on-again, off-again negotiations for police coverage for Clarkston between village and township officials are on again.

President Sharron Catallo informed the village council Feb. 8 of Independence's interest in negotiating a contract. Village council members said they liked the idea if a speedy solution can be reached.

Supervisor Tink Ronk contacted Catallo to see if the village was still interested in subcontracting from the township.

"I wish they (the township) would provide us with the coverage we want," said Trustee Douglas Roeser. "I still support (the idea) of the township doing it."

When negotiations between the village and township broke off after a year of frustrating talks in January 1988, the village sought to hire its own full-time deputy from the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Even though the township has shown renewed interest in allowing the village to subcontract for police coverage again, village officials will continue talking with the Sheriff's Department about hiring a deputy.

A full-time deputy would cost the village approximately $60,000 per year. The price includes training, a patrol car and insurance for one man.

The expenditure would come out of the village's general fund.

Under the proposed contract between the village and township, the village would pay 2.5 mills (or approximately $58,000) for police coverage.

Township residents are paying the same amount for their police protection.

Township voters had previously approved 1.5 mills in taxes for the police fund, to increase total taxes for police coverage to 2.5 mills. Village residents didn't vote on the issue.

Under the expired contract, the village paid 1 mill for police. Village council members agreed to pay the extra 1.5 mills in exchange for specific traffic control last April.

One mill is $1 for every $1,000 in assessed property valuation.

The problem that kept the two sides from reaching agreement was retroactive pay. The township wanted the village to pay for a full year while the village wanted to begin payment when the extra services started.

Since the township contacted the village about renewing the contract, retroactive pay must not be important anymore, village council members said.

During 1987, many different versions of the police contract when back and forth between the village and township. The village wants the last version - which attorneys for both sides agreed to - sent back to the township for approval.

The village council voted 6-0 to send the old contract back to the township.

Flowers say, 'I love you'

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Valentine's Day - it's a time for sweethearts to exchange tokens of their affection, and to florists this means one of the busiest days of the year.

If flowers could talk, they'd have some pretty interesting stories to tell, judging from the observations of local florists who create valentines to be delivered on this special day.

"Once, a lady ordered a balloon and a single rose for her husband, with detailed instructions," says Sandy O'Berry, a florist at Main Street Flowers in Clarkston. "She told us it was his first stop, and it had a note telling him where to go for his next stop."

The treasure hunt, of sorts, led the lucky husband to a wine shop for a basket of wine and cheese for two, and so forth. The last note directed him to the Renaissance Center in Detroit for a weekend getaway, where his wife was waiting for him.

Theresa Petherbridge, co-owner of Waterford Hills Florist, remembers a romantic occasion one Valentine's Day, too.

"We delivered one dozen roses with a proposal tucked in it," she recalls. "The delivery lady had to wait and hear the answer. When it was yes, a second dozen roses was delivered to the woman, and this one had the diamond ring in it. I don't know what we'd have done if she said no."

Petherbridge says they frequently deliver valentine flowers with gold chains and other gifts tucked inside.

On Valentine's Day, it's a foregone conclusion that florists will be working extra hard keeping up with the orders and deliveries.

Gayanne Wood, who owns her own shop, Gayanne's Floral Concepts on Dixie Highway, remembers back to a time during her 20 years in the flower business when she was working for someone else.

Her boss turned the tables on his crew while they were preparing flowers to make everyone else happy.

"He bought us all French silk chocolate pies as a reward for working so hard on Valentine's Day," she says. "It was a wonderful treat."

It's always fun to see young people in love, and Wendy Enneking, a florist at Country Greens in Clarkston remembers a special customer last Valentine's Day.

"A college student ordered a dozen roses," she says. "He was just head over heels in love, and he called back several times to check on the order."

In the process of calling, he accidentally ordered the roses four times, and the error wasn't discovered until he came in to pick them up. The understanding staff sold him his one dozen and saved the rest for another valentine.

Sometimes it's hard to say which comes first - the flowers or the romance, but when a gentleman came in to Country Greens in his robe to buy a single rose, it seemed safe to conclude that the flower was the finale.

"Holidays are so much fun for all of us," Enneking says. "We'll be working all day Sunday (Feb. 14) for last-minute customers."

But she doesn't mind. "It's a happy time for people," she says.

Country Greens, like all of the florists, have ordered hundreds of dozens of long-stemmed roses for the special day, not to mention sweetheart roses and other flowers.

But if you're going to order roses for Valentine's Day, be aware that it will cost. The price for a dozen long-stemmed roses ranges from $35 to $60 per dozen. Sweetheart roses are a little cheaper.

And what valentine wouldn't be happy with ANY flowers, given in the right spirit?

Wint elected for 11th term

Lew Wint of Clarkston has been elected to his 11th consecutive term as chairman of the 10-member Oakland County Parks Commission.

"I'm honored that the rest of the commission had enough confidence in my leadership to re-elect me. I'm honored. I'm appreciative. I do enjoy it," said Wint.

Lewis E. Wint

Madison Heights.

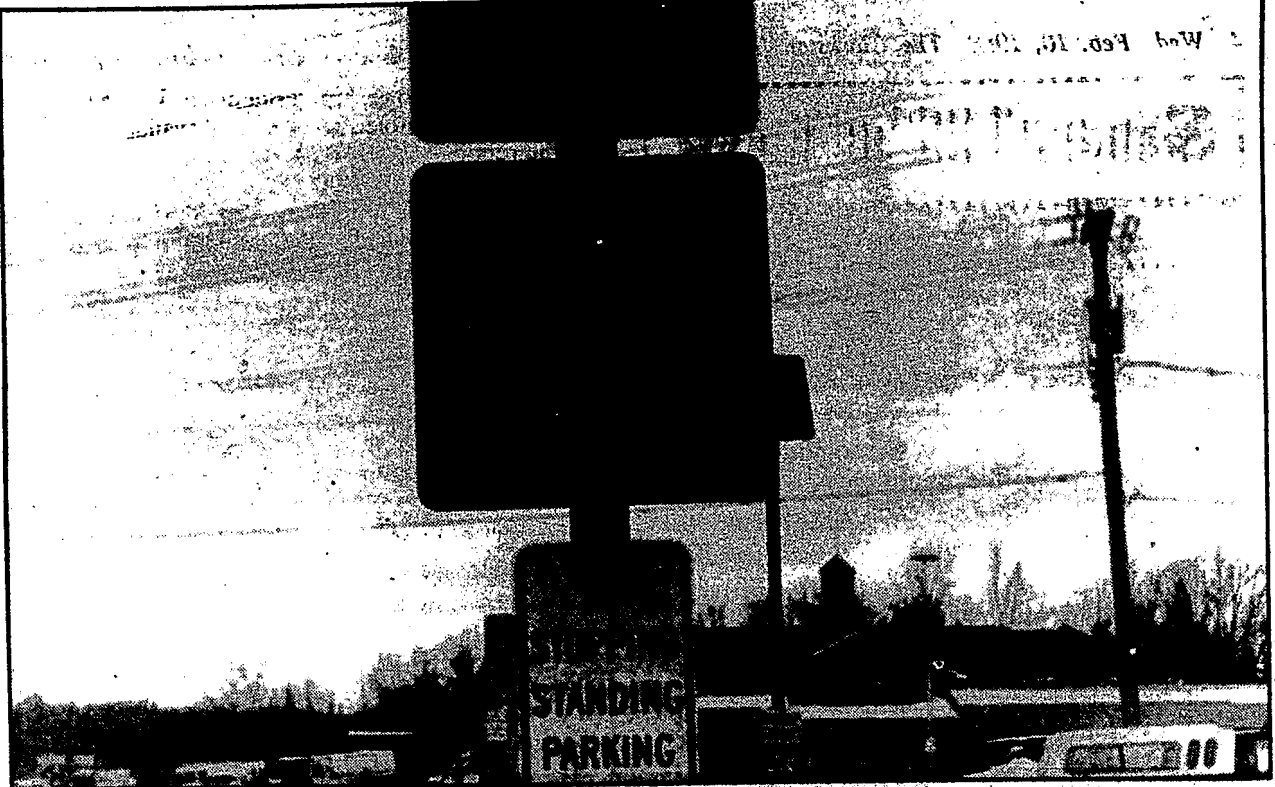

The pool is very similar to the one at Waterford Oaks County Park, only larger, he said.

Wint said the project he's looking forward to is the development of Orion Oaks for use by the handicapped. His work with Clarkston SCAMP, a summer camp program for handicapped children and young adults, has made him especially interested in the project.

"The fact that we're going to get it off the ground is very exciting to me," he said.

The commission is the policy making body that oversees budgetary issues, land acquisition decisions and staffing for the nine Oakland County Parks, which cover nearly 4,000 acres. The park system's budget for 1988 is $8.6 million.

Wint, the only Clarkston resident on the commission, is beginning his 15th year as a member of the commission.

ROUTE MARKERS like this one on Dixie Highway north of M-15 will soon replace the old US 10 designation, according to the Michigan Department of Transportation.

US 10 route markers to go

As far as Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) is concerned, the US 10 road designation for Dixie Highway no longer exists.

A few new US 24 signs were placed along Dixie from Telegraph Road to the I-75 connector in November due to departmental policy, said Tom Henderson, an official with MDOT. He could not elaborate further.

Because of construction along Dixie, some of the old US 10 signs were not replaced since they will be torn down when the work begins again, said Henderson.

The result is a confusing mixture of old and new signs, but Henderson doesn't see it as a major problem for area drivers.

"It's just a route change," he said. "It shouldn't affect local people, only transients."

He added that travelers unfamiliar with the area still should be able to figure out where they are with minimal problems.

Henderson said the old US 10 route designation will no longer exist in the area once all the old signs are removed.

Hearts and flowers

Kathy Greenfield

Every time I stand at the counter at the bakeshop (buying coffee, of course), I find myself oohing and aahing over the heart-shaped pink and red frosted cookies, cupcakes with hearts on top, and so on.

"I looove Valentine's Day. It's so pretty," I say, which I mean, but it's such an average thing to utter.

I'll bet the people who wait on customers in the bakeshop hear that expression or something very close to it at least 100 times a shift.

I found myself in a similar situation last weekend when I walked into a wonderful building and sat down at a table with some other people.

"This is such a beautiful building," said I, or something mighty close to that.

Funny thing was that those who arrived after I did said almost exactly the same thing. The woman who was there first was very gracious, responding with a smile and agreement to each almost identical utterance. She deserves a cupcake with a heart on top, at the very least.

The other place where I run smack into the sameness of us all is the market next door to The Clarkston News, where I shop almost daily and sometimes more than daily.

"Oh, everybody else is having spaghetti (chili, pork chops) for dinner, too," a cashier will say.

It makes me almost wish I was standing there with artichoke hearts, exotic spices and herbs, and boned chicken breasts.

The thing is I'd rather have spaghetti on a cold winter evening ... and I like to gush over Valentine's Day.

When we're in the midst of winter, bright red hearts and bunches of flowers and frilly lace and chubby flying cupids help offset the ice, cold feet and slippery roads.

By the way, have you seen the festive valentine bush behind the counter at the bakeshop? You'll love it!

Jim's Jottings

We listened to a journalist who was upbeat on America at the Michigan Press Association convention last week.

Bill Monroe, former anchorman and producer of NBC's Meet the Press, was the speaker. He said journalists would rather be called liberals than journalists, and are seemingly never optimistic or reflect it in their stories.

Yet he said, "Journalists are probably as devout a bunch of believers as you can find."

In reviewing his career (he retired from Meet the Press last year) Monroe said he had seen the U. S. survive racism, assassinations, Watergate, energy crises, conflicts in the Middle East, Cold War, Vietnam, Korea and double digit inflation.

Because of these major events, Monroe said, little attention has been paid to long term achievements of this country and the government and people of the United States have "underestimated themselves."

Insisting that there is no reason for Americans to take a gloomy outlook, he cited some achievements. He pointed out the flexibility of the auto industry in the oil crisis of being able to produce fuel efficient cars in a short period of time.

The cooperation between car companies and unions has increased productivity, the success of the mini vans and Taurus, and reduction in complaints on cars were mentioned.

Monroe said, "America draws minds." People want to come here to live and work. "America's standard of living is ahead of all the countries in the world except West Germany."

He said we should get away from the 'we can't do anything right anymore' attitude, and realize present health care has never been better, and life expectancy has nearly doubled since the turn of the century.

Monroe also mentioned the improvements in our educational system, activity here in computer technology and democratic influence in the Communist world.

"I'm not suggesting that the United States is going into its own 21st century world. We'll have to share with the rest of the world."

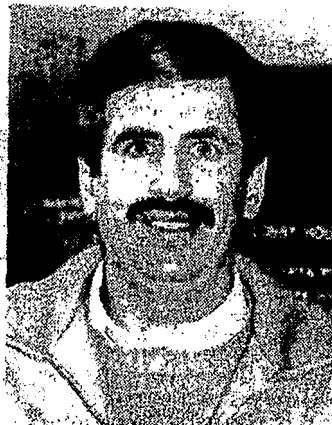

Monroe, who lives in Virginia, also talked about various past presidents. He had something, not particularly flattering, to say about Lyndon Johnson, Jimmy Carter, Richard Nixon, Ronald Reagan and others.

From that he concluded to the 400 newspeople, that the office of president of the United States isn't so all-fired important.

Because the United States is such a great country, he said, "This country is capable of launching ahead under Rodney Dangerfield or Erma Bombeck."

It's not for lovers only

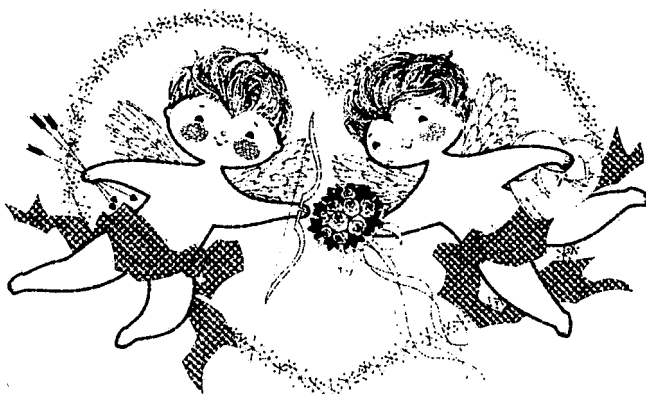

A couple of centuries after the birth of Christ, an Italian priest roamed Rome. Years after his death he would be known as Saint Valentine. Years after sainthood a special day was put aside in his honor.

Saint Valentine's Day is Sunday, February 14. It is traditionally a time for romance and lovers. It is a day to send flowers, candy, make proposals and to announce engagements.

As Dean Martin sang, "That's Amore". That is love. But, why has the day been sifted down for just sweethearts? Love is all around and likewise can be shared by all with anyone.

On this Valentine's Day, we extend this proposition: If you see someone you know or even somebody you don't know, acknowledge that person. Make them feel good. There are many ways to put across the feeling of caring:

A smile, hello, handshake or even just a nod of the head may cheer a person. And, it'll make you feel good too.

Try being courteous, kind and forgiving. Have a nice thing to say — remember how you felt when someone was kind, courteous or forgiving of you.

Saying something nice, making a person feel good isn't that hard to do — as they say in Italy "Lascia che viene l'amore" — let love come. Have a happy Valentine's Day. DPR

Jim
Fitzgerald

I answered the phone from my daughter Ferd, mother of Emily and Tricia. Ferd was crying so hard that, at first, I couldn't understand what she was saying. I only understood something was terribly wrong.

I knew someone close to Ferd had to be injured or sick, or abruptly dead. It takes only a second to be overcome by dismay. The sudden anguish made my legs weak.

All my grandchildren and my other daughter live near Ferd. My son was visiting her that weekend. Surely something awful had happened to one of the people I love most. Who?

"Jessie just died," Ferd finally said clearly.

My relief was so great I almost sank to the floor. And then came the guilt.

Jessie is - was - a dog. Some kind of a spaniel, around 10, too big to sit on your lap, but always sitting on your lap anyway. Jessie was a marvelous, loving pet, an important member of Ferd's family ever since her wedding, an everyday part of the life of Emily and Tricia for as long as they have lived.

But Jessie wasn't my child or grandchild.

I'm ashamed to admit I almost interrupted Ferd's sobs by shouting, "Whoopie, it was only Jessie!" What an insensitive lout. My daughter was heartbroken, and I felt like the Tigers just won the World Series.

It was a unique experience. I'd never before received such a bad-news, good-news communication; never before had my feelings plunged and then soared so quickly. I didn't know how to handle it.

Good Lord, I almost gave tearful Ferd heck for scaring me so badly. I almost suggested she should have begun the conversation by saying, "All your children and grandchildren are just fine, Dad, but there's this little problem with Jessie ..."

I wasn't that loutish. I said I was terribly sorry about Jessie and handed the phone to my wife. Mother and daughter cried together, and Mother went to spend a couple of days with the survivors. I was left alone with frozen dinners - and my thoughts.

PETS GET THE COLD SHOULDER

I thought about my article toward family pets; it's standoffish. I'm angered by any sort of cruelty to animals. I'm the columnist who regularly aims jibes at hunters who kill for fun. But on the other hand, I never romp or talk nonsense with dogs or cats. A hello and goodbye pat is about it. My grandchildren's pets soon learn this about me, and keep their distance in favor of the more visible gush abundantly available from other members of my family.

I wasn't always that way. I remember, as a child, sleeping with a collie named Cappy, and crying uncontrollably when he died. I remember the anguish of my young children when their pets died. Once I ran out and bought a new puppy to give them at the same time they learned their old dog was wiped out by a car.

It must have been these experiences that, somewhere along the line, shaped my present attitude toward pets. I decided there was enough sadness inevitable in life without setting myself up for more by becoming attached to a dog who, because of a much shorter life span, would inevitably die while I was loving it.

GRANDPAS CAN BE WRONG, TOO

While thinking these thoughts, I learned by phone that six-year-old Emily was afraid to lie down and sleep because Jessie lied down and died. Should I tell her - and her mother - they wouldn't be so troubled if they hadn't loved a mere dog?

No. Instead, I sent Emily a note: "Some people (like grumpy grandpas) think it's dumb to get attached to pets because they are just going to die and make you feel bad. But the grumps are wrong. Loving a pet is worth it because it's so much fun - and the pet appreciates it. If all of you hadn't loved life. And you will always have nice memories of Jessie. I'll write a column about her and you can put it in your scrapbook to read years from now."

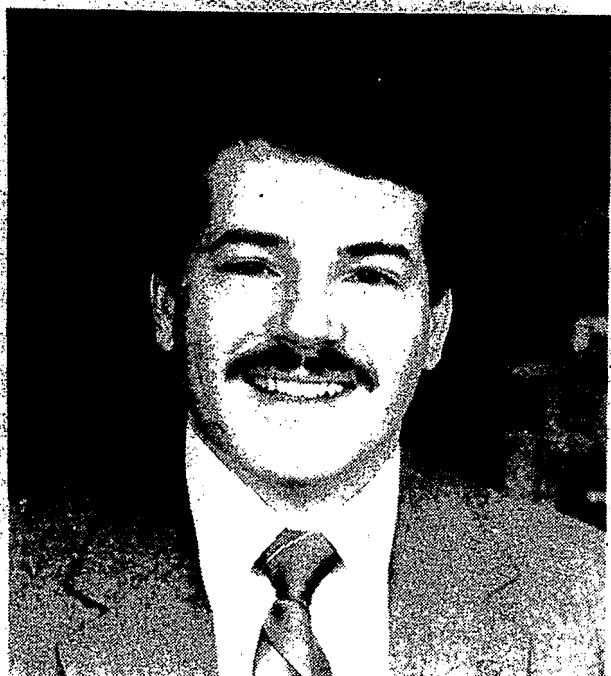

This is the column. And I will be nicer to Jessie's replacement, also inevitable.

WORD HAS IT THAT the haunted house at the Clarkston Elementary School Fair was a frightening place. That might be why Kristine Tippen is smiling, despite the witchy costume of parent volunteer Pam Tweed, as she makes her way to the exit door.

New group's goal is to help people

In addition to his new post as president of the Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce, Dr. Bruce Mercado is secretary-treasurer of the Clarkston Area Optimist Club.

BY KATHY GREENFIELD
Clarkston News Editor

The first president of the newly formed Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce wants to see the organization firmly established during his tenure.

"... and then we can start being a unified voice," said Dr. Bruce Mercado, who describes the chamber as "a very thorough and organized approach to promoting the area and sound development."

Mercado, 30, a dentist, now presides over the 19 officers, including 15 members of the board of directors, elected at the chamber's meeting Feb. 4. Members were also asked to sign up for committees.

The chamber is an action agency designed to meet community needs. It also serves as an information bureau, providing answers for questions about the community and helping people determine the proper authority when they have concerns.

Mercado has strong feelings about the chamber's potential to address community problems and needs, such as traffic, planning, promotions, transportation, zoning and taxes.

He is especially pleased about the club's ability to respond to chamber members' concerns about the recent increase in commercial property assessments.

Township Supervisor Frank Ronk and Assessor David Kramer have agreed to lead a group meeting for business owners, which is open to the public as well, at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 25, in the Clarkston Community Schools administration building, 6495 Clarkston Rd.

The purpose is to explain why assessments were increased by as much as 200 percent, to explain the appeals process and to allow time for questions.

When talking about the chamber's potential to serve the community, Mercado said the committees are the key.

Some committees primarily service member needs, such as health insurance and planning social events and business seminars. Each type of business also has a committee to serve as an avenue to express needs and concerns - retail, service, manufacturing and industrial, and professional.

Other committees have broader purposes:

> The fund raising committee develops and coordinates annual fund raising projects, such as raffles, a golf tournament and possibly a community activities calendar.

> The cultural committee's first project is taking over planning for the annual Concerts in the Park on Fridays during July.

> The political action committee operates independently of the chamber to fund chamber-approved candidates.

Owners or employees of businesses in the Clarkston area are eligible for memberships, Mercado said, and that includes firms that do business in the community, such as Michigan Bell.

Individual memberships are also available for any interested resident, although such members cannot vote.

Mercado has been active in the formation of the chamber over the last several months, and he said he's met more business people during that time than he's met in the two-and-one-half years he's lived and worked in the community.

Other top officers are Vice President Jack MacLachlan, President-Elect Thomas Rebb and Treasurer Brenda Orlando.

Members of the board of directors are: one-year terms - Kay Blevins, Bud Grant, Buck Kopietz, June McGowan, Burke Ried; two-year terms - Chris Downing, Myron Grosz, John Lutz, Valerie Phaup, Mike Rooney; and three-year terms - Joan Gottschalk, Bill Jackson, Faye Mersino, Simone Prince and Betty Simmons.

Snowmobile hits car

A 22-year-old snowmobile driver was seriously injured Friday when he ran into a car on Whipple Lake Road, Independence Township.

About 9:25 p.m. Feb. 5, Mark Tribi, 34, of Harvard Road, Independence Township, was driving eastbound on Whipple Lake Road and turned left onto Syracuse, when he was hit by a westbound snowmobile, driven by Carol Roger Lumm of Columbia Road, Independence Township, according to reports at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Tribi, who was wearing a seat belt and was not injured, did not see the snowmobile because it didn't have lights, according to the police report.

Lumm was in fair condition Monday at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac. He received a ticket for driving an unregistered vehicle, according to the police report.

Board upholds wetlands denial

A decision by the wetlands board to deny permission to build a pond on Horseshoe Circle was upheld by the Independence Township Board last week.

"The petitioner could not ... show where the wetlands board didn't act appropriately," said Supervisor Frank Ronk, after the meeting, about the board's decision to deny the appeal.

Developer Howard Bloch had requested permission to build the pond on Lot 15 in Equestrian Lake Village Subdivision off Perry Lake Road.

Bloch appealed the decision when the wetlands board denied permission.

The township board chose not to re-hear the issue, but to base its decision on the information submitted to the wetlands board, said Ronk.

The board agreed with the original decision, he said.

After the meeting, Bloch said he planned to file suit in against the township because he disagreed with the board's decision.

Jury finds Sen. Fessler guilty

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

After three hours of deliberation and three days of hearings, a jury of six people found state Sen. Richard Fessler guilty of resisting arrest and a reduced charge of impaired driving Feb. 3.

"We were pleased with the result, at least as far as it went," said Robert Larin, defense counsel for Fessler. He said they might appeal the case after the sentence is issued later this month.

"I thought it was fairly tried," Larin said, adding that the jury spent three hours on the decision, when a jury usually spends about an hour on cases such as this.

"The problem is, Bloomfield Township is a very nice police department," he said. "The arresting officer and Sen. Fessler are nice people. ... The senator thought the officer overreacted, so he grabbed his wrist. The jury thought Sen. Fessler shouldn't have done that. ... Both people are very nice people."

Fessler was charged with drunken driving and resisting arrest after he was arrested July 25 while driving the wrong way on Square Lake Road near Woodward Avenue.

Jurors reduced the charge to impaired driving due to intoxication, which carries a penalty of a $300 maximum fine or 90 days maximum in jail or both. Penalties also include four points on his driver's license, rather than six for drunken driving, and a mandatory three-month suspension of his license.

Fessler could also be sentenced to a $100 maximum fine, a maximum 90 days in jail or both for resisting arrest, said Larin.

Fessler must undergo routine screening by a special committee who looks for drinking problems in anyone convicted of an alcohol-related driving charge, Larin said.

"I think we will find that the senator does not have a drinking problem," said Larin, adding that 80,000 people a year are charged with the same charges and undergo the same screening.

Fessler represents the 17th District in the Michigan Senate. The district covers over half of Oakland County and includes Independence and Springfield townships.

No teacher, no class for autistic kids

A class for autistic children has been delayed because the Clarkston school district cannot find a qualified teacher, but plans are under way for two such classrooms in the fall.

Robert Brumback, director of special services for the district, reported the latest information on the center program to the Clarkston board of education Monday night.

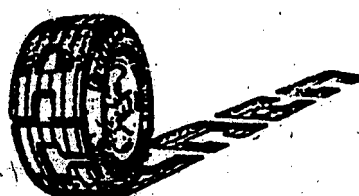

The autistic program, to be used primarily by children from northern Oakland County, will be funded entirely by Oakland Schools, the intermediate school district which provides services for the county's 28 school public districts. The funding includes the planned purchase of portable classrooms or a permanent addition to a school.

Brumback told the school board that every effort was being made to find a teacher, and an interim plan would be established for the autistic child who lives in the Clarkston district as soon as possible.

Assistant Superintendent Mel Vaara said that meetings with Oakland Schools have resulted in a proposal for a permanent structure at Clarkston Elementary School on the east side of the building adjacent to Eastlawn Avenue.

The cost would be between $168,000 and $198,000, he said. Also under consideration is putting up portable classrooms, which would cost about $100,000 plus insulation.

Vaara said he expected a decision in two to three weeks, and Brumback added that the goal was to have the classrooms ready for the opening of school in fall 1988.

Village council amends zoning ordinances

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A new section of the village's zoning ordinance was adopted Feb. 8 after much discussion by village council members.

The new portion of the ordinance deals with condominium developments in the village and will become law 20 days after being published.

The new section of the ordinance contains two parts: engineering designs and standards, and basic information on how to build a quality project.

The vagueness of the village's zoning ordinances concerning condo developments was discovered when developer Rudy Lozano presented his plan to build on a six acre parcel of land abutting Deer Lake on White Lake Road five months ago.

"We have no measures (currently) to control projects like this," said village attorney John Steckling. "We have no basis to give approval of a site plan, because we don't have the regulations in place."

The village council will not give site plan approval to the plan until the new section has become law in 20 days.

Before approving the new section by a 6-0 vote, village council members discussed problems which may arise in the future. Such items as wetlands, private roads and adequate room for fire emergency vehicles to get in and out of condo developments were discussed.

Trustee Douglas Roeser was leery of approving the new section before the above problems were solved to his satisfaction.

"I think some thoughts should be given to wetlands," he said. "I think it is crazy not to consider it."

Talk then centered on drafting a wetlands ordinance for the village to help control wetlands in Clarkston. Village council members will look at the township's wetlands ordinance for some ideas and bring the issue up at a later date.

Private roads that are a part of cluster condo projects also could cause the village headaches in the future, Roeser said.

But Trustee Frank Millard disagreed.

"I think that we have adequate protections," he said of any problems arising out of private roads in the village.

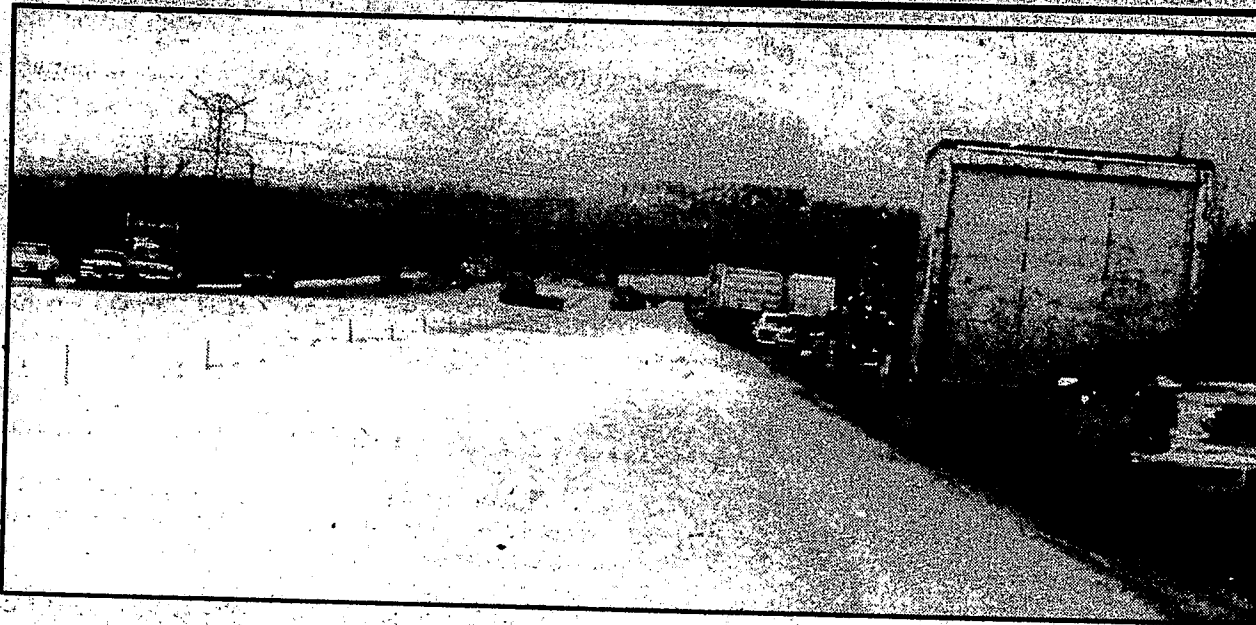

Finally, a letter from the township fire marshal was presented at the meeting stating what type of conditions must exist in condo developments to allow fire vehicles easy access. His recommendations regarding space requirements need to be followed by condo builders, village council members said.

The finishing touches

Five electrical outlets and a vandal-proof light fixture were installed in the Depot Park Gazebo at the cost of $675 recently.

The village council approved the expenditure in a 6-0 vote at its Feb. 8 meeting.

Other than placing preservatives on the wood finish in the spring, the gazebo project is complete, said Trustee Frank Millard.

A PINE-COVERED HILL in Independence Township is visible in the background of this accident involving three trucks on northbound I-75 around 10:30 a.m. Friday. Traffic was slowed for over an hour while Michigan State Police (MSP) and Oakland County Sheriff's Deputies tried to clear the scene. Another accident, involving a car and a tractor trailer on the icy overpass at Clintonville Road, occurred just before the trucks jackknifed, said Phil Ostafinski, a motor carrier officer with MSP. No one was injured in either accident, he said. The trucks ended up in the median, in the ditch and sideways across the highway, blocking all northbound lanes. [Photo by Julie Campe]

Six school buses flunk safety test

Of the 35 school buses in the Clarkston fleet, 19 passed inspection, 10 received yellow tags and six were red-tagged during the annual inspection conducted by the Michigan State Police from Jan. 22-28.

Considering the age of several of the buses, that's not bad, said Kevin Bickerstaff, transportation supervisor.

In 1987, when 44 percent of the buses passed compared to 54 percent this year, Clarkston was among the best 20 percent out of 60 surrounding districts, according to Bickerstaff.

The inspector this year said he felt confident Clarkston would again place in the top 20 percent, Bickerstaff said, adding, "He thought we did an excellent job for what we have to work with."

Tagged buses must be repaired, but the yellow tags indicate a condition not serious enough to keep the buses off the road. Red-tagged buses must not be used until the repairs are completed.

Among the yellow conditions were low air pressure, strobe lights not working, heater problems and loose seats. Red conditions included a flat rear inside tire, brake light out and brake problems, said Assistant Superintendent Mel Vaara, who oversees the transportation department.

Everything was repaired the same day, he said. "We'd prefer not having any tagged buses at all. Our equipment is safe, but it's getting old, too," Vaara said. "When you have an old fleet, they need constant repair."

The district's oldest buses in service are from 1974 and 1975, and some have up to 140,000 miles on the odometer.

The fleet is comprised of 27 buses that run full routes and eight spares. Six are special education buses and two are special education spares.

AT THE BOTTOM, Brett and Sarah Steel, ages 8 and 3 respectively, have to face the long climb back to the top of their Dark Lake Drive hill.

Meeting date changed

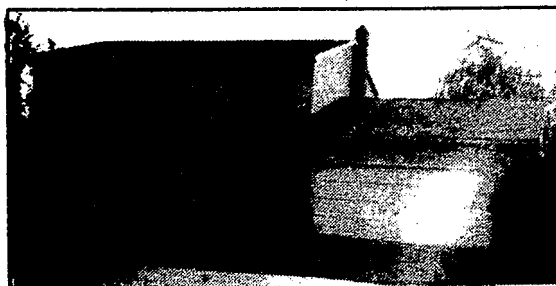

Due to the village election, the council's regular meeting on March 14 will be pushed back a day.

In a 6-0 vote, the village council approved the date change to March 15. The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Village Hall, 375 Depot Rd.

Expansion talk

The Maybee Road extension west across Dixie Highway now has a proposed method of financing.

To pay for the estimated $454,187.50 cost, the township board voted 4-2 Feb. 2 to form a special assessment district, comprised of Durant Enterprises, which owns the Hamady Food Stores' vacant parcel; Fox Management, which owns the Lancaster Lakes Apartments; Frank Kulha; and Clarkson Motors.

After the meeting, Supervisor Frank Ronk said a public hearing on the special assessment district would still be necessary, and he didn't know when construction would begin.

Trustees Dale Stuart and William Vandermark voted against forming the district because none of the benefiting property owners were present at the meeting, said Ronk, adding they would have a chance to speak at the public hearing.

Voting in favor of the district were Supervisor Frank Ronk, Treasurer John Lutz and trustees Carol Balzarini and Daniel Travis. Clerk Richard Holman was absent.

Two teens arrested for B & E

Two Waterford Township teens were arrested Jan. 29 for breaking and entering at a Church Street, Independence Township, residence.

Matt Racosky, 18, was charged with breaking and entering and faces a preliminary hearing before Judge Gerald McNally Feb. 11 in 52nd District Court.

The hearing is to determine if a crime was committed and if Racosky could have been a part of it. If so, Racosky will be bound over to Oakland county Circuit Court, said Detective Sgt. Charles Williams of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Racosky remains in Oakland County Jail with a $5,000 bond.

The other teen, age 16, is to face hearings in a juvenile court, said Williams, adding his name couldn't be released because he is a juvenile.

According to Williams, neighbors saw teens enter the residence about 8 p.m. and called the police, who picked the suspects up walking westbound on Waldon Road.

Property stolen from the house was found between the teens and the house, said Williams.

The back door of the house had been forced open, the bedrooms had been ransacked and several items had been stolen, he said.

Wolves win after talk from coach

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A heart-to-heart talk by Coach Gordie Richardson worked wonders for the varsity volleyball team before its league match against Waterford Mott last week.

This year's team has struggled against top-notch competition and it has begun to wear down the team mentally. Richardson tried to inject some much needed confidence into the Wolves before their Feb. 3 match.

"I'm not giving up on you guys," he said. "You guys can make it happen."

The Wolves made it happen against the Corsairs by winning in three games, 15-3, 4-15, 15-7, to up their Greater Oakland Activities League record to 4-2. Clarkston's overall mark is now 5-12.

In the opening game, the Wolves started fast and built up an 11-1 lead en route to an easy victory.

Unfortunately, the winning spirit didn't carry over into the second game.

"We just stopped playing and started watching the ball fall in," said Richardson.

The Corsairs fell behind, 4-2, early in the second game but soon rallied for eight straight points to take control of the game.

Clarkston got back on track in the third and deciding game when Jamie Lerner served up seven straight points to hand the Wolves an 8-4 lead.

"She pulled us out of the fire," said Richardson. "She really ripped some tonight."

Lerner finished the night 7-of-9 in the serving department with four aces. Jenny Grohs was a perfect 12-of-12 with three aces. Ali Fedio was 6-of-6 with three aces to pace the Wolves.

While the Wolves don't have their backs against the wall just yet, the victory over Mott was important all the same.

"The kids need to know they can win," said Richardson.

A disappointing loss to new league rival Brandon Feb. 1 was an example of what lack of confidence can do, the coach said.

"I thought that we would turn it around this week," said Richardson. "(A win over Brandon) really would have helped us."

But knowing how to win isn't the team's only problem. Clarkston also will have to improve its blocking and passing skills if it hopes to remain competitive this season.

"If there has been anything that has really hurt us, it's that we are not controlling net play," said Richardson.

Hopefully the Wolves will get better soon, Richardson said, because Clarkston will host a volleyball tourney on Feb. 13.

TARA CARNCROSS reaches for the ball as it heads over the net during a match against Waterford Mott Wednesday evening at home. The Wolves won the match in three games.

Cougars do not fare well against tall Northwestern

Flint Northwestern was just a little too tall and too quick for Sashabaw on the basketball court.

The Cougars hosted the Wildcats Feb. 2 and proved to be quite hospitable, as Flint won, 64-37.

Sashabaw, now 4-6, started out with a 4-2 lead early in the game. But the Cougars were not able to keep up with the Wildcats the rest of the way.

Flint led, 16-8, at the end of the first quarter. Northwestern bumped its advantage up to 14 points midway through the second stanza.

At the half, the Cougars trailed, 29-16. George Crouch was the leading scorer for Sashabaw with eight points.

While Sashabaw may have been overmatched against Flint Northwestern, the Cougars have been enjoying some success of late.

The Cougars beat cross-town rival Clarkston, 54-43, as Chris Wasilk scored 16 points to pace the victors.

"We are getting better all the time," said Coach Charlie Shires. "They are a good bunch of kids."

In a 59-42 loss to Waterford Mason on Jan. 28, Wasilk scored 13 points for Sashabaw.

Shires said the Cougars have good team balance and have been getting strong efforts from a lot of different players this season.

Wasilk has done an excellent job running the offense while Greg Heaton and Derek Raymond have been forces inside.

Wingers George Crouch and Mike Corcoran also have added some scoring punch to the Cougars' attack. Darren Masters has played well off the bench for the Cougars.

Sashabaw still has five games left on its schedule and a chance to finish with a winning record. But the task will not be easy to accomplish since Lake Orion, Milford, Brandon, Mason and Pierce still are ahead for the Cougars.

Time out

Four star salute

Peter Auchter

During my travels as a sports reporter, I have visited many different gyms. Friday night, I finally completed the Greater Oakland Activities League circuit by visiting Brandon High School.

What follows is a quick and terribly shallow critique of what I have experienced this season.

Before I begin, let me explain my detailed grading system. It's really easy to memorize since its essentially the same as the movie rating system in all the local papers.

Four stars means superb, three stars means suitable, two stars means so-so, and one star means it's sewage.

Let's start out close to home at the high school in Clarkston. The gym is big and spacious when compared with others. It's also remarkably clean thanks to the diligent work of the custodians.

I'd give it three-and-a-half stars, since a perfect rating would make it look like I'm biased or something.

Moving on to other destinations, Lake Orion's crowded little crock pot gym sticks out in my mind as the loudest I have ever been in. With the low ceiling and stands near the court, it certainly wouldn't be a suitable site for a convention of claustrophobics.

If you enjoy sitting in a closet while listening to sporting events on the radio with the volume turned all the way up, this gym's for you. Just because it's a weird kind of place and can have a devastating affect on visiting teams, I'll give it three stars.

Both Waterford schools have well-lit, modernized gyms to play in, with Mott's two-tiered stands adding a unique touch to the Corsairs' home. Kettering has nothing to be ashamed of either. But then again, they have nothing to brag about.

I'll give Mott three stars and Kettering just two.

Which brings us to Pontiac Northern. Another nice place to visit, but nothing really stands out. My rating: two stars.

The final place is Brandon's gym. First impressions mean a lot and I was really pleasantly surprised at what I saw Friday afternoon during the GOAL wrestling championships.

The home of the Blackhawks was big, big, big with plenty of room for a host of activities. Even the multi-colored scoreboard was neat to look at.

All they need to top it all off is a diamond-vision TV screen for instant replays to make it a four-star gym in my book.

Oh, what the heck, I'll give it three-and-a-quarter stars since they are new to the GOAL and I enjoyed my visit there so much.

The only thing holding the place back from a perfect rating is its location - it's not in Clarkston.

CHS skiers finish 2nd

The girls and boys ski teams' second-place finishes in the dual meet season mean they will advance to the South East Michigan League championships this week.

The girls team, 6-1, finished in second place behind Rochester by two points in the standings and one point in front of Rochester Adams.

In the girls slalom race at Pine Knob last week, three Wolves did well.

Jackie Jablonski finished 12th, Tammy Mitchell took 15th and Wendy Zoss 17th.

Giant Slalom finishers include Shelly Purdy in third place, Zoss in 10th, Jablonski in 13th, Tina Sheppard in 14th and Mitchell in 19th.

Clarkston did quite well for itself considering 56 skiers were involved in the races, said Coach Don Balzarini.

The boys team, 6-1, finished in second place in the dual meet standings, two points behind Cranbrook and six points ahead of Bloomfield Andover.

In the boys slalom race, Jim Brueck was the top Wolves skier in ninth place. Shawn Lambouris took 10th for Clarkston.

Finishers in the Giant Slalom event were Brueck in fifth, Todd Roesser in 8th, Tim Snyder in 13th, Lambouris in 17th and Andy Yarber in 19th.

Once again, the Wolves did well at the meets since 56 racers where entered in the events.

The S.E.M.L. meet is scheduled Thursday at Pine Knob.

Clarkston grapplers are 5th, claim 2 titles in GOAL meet

JOHN TERPSTRA has his hand raised in victory during a consolation match at the GOAL meet in Brandon on Friday evening.

Despite two champions, Clarkston still finished a disappointing fifth in the league wrestling meet.

Dave London captured the Greater Oakland Activities League crown at 119 pounds while teammate Jason Campbell did likewise at 185 for the Wolves, who finish the dual meet season with a fine 17-4 overall record and a 3-2 mark in the GOAL.

Both London and Campbell were able to control their opponents and pin them for the league title.

Other finalists for the Wolves were Eric Wall at 105, John Terpstra at 132 and Troy Martin at 198.

Even with the poor finish, Clarkston was able to double the number of champions it brought home from the league meet.

"It was rather disappointing," Coach Scott Strickler said. "But we are in a tough league and we had an off afternoon."

To no one's surprise, Lake Orion captured the GOAL championship. Pontiac Northern, Kettering, Brandon, Clarkston and Mott finished behind the Dragons.

In an effort to provide everyone on the team with a chance to wrestle, Strickler sent his "B" team along with the junior varsity wrestlers to a tournament on Saturday.

The host school, Bryon, won the invitational with 162 points. Clarkston finished in fourth place with 87 points. Lansing Christian just missed out on fourth place with 86.5 points.

Top wrestlers for the Wolves were John Terpstra who took second in the 132-pound division and Sean Cervantez (138) did likewise in his weight bracket.

Jon Mahler (167) and Jeff Martin (hwt) both finished in third place in their respective weight classes.

"I'm very satisfied with where they finished," said Strickler.

At the same time, Bryon was host to a junior varsity tourney. The Wolves finished in third place.

Placing for Clarkston were Adam Norris (138) and Matt Cook (126). Both won their respective weight divisions.

The varsity team now will prepare for the pre-districts on Feb. 10 at Lake Orion. Clarkston will then move onto the districts at Walled Lake Western on Saturday.

Strickler said the pre-district competition is a new idea this year, and coaches will be asked by the Michigan High School Athletic Association to comment on it after the season ends.

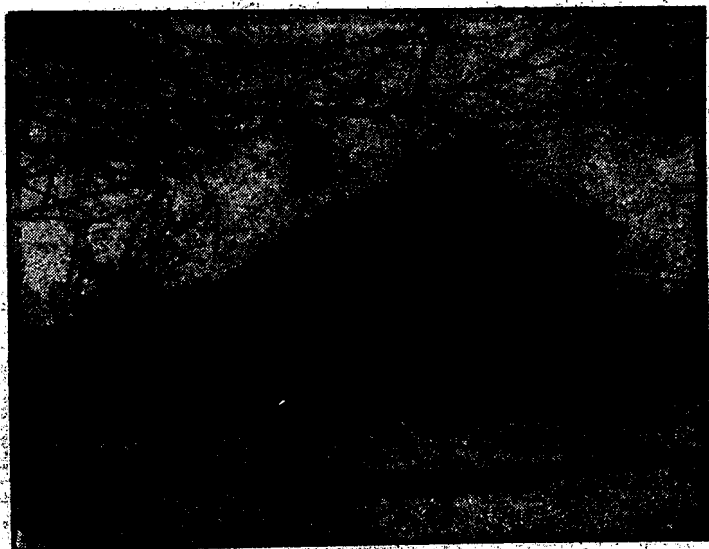

"Basically, they are trying to eliminate more kids early," he said.

Comeback complete for Jokisch

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Only a junior, Dave Jokisch seriously considered hanging up his sneakers for good last spring when his injured knee didn't respond favorably to treatment.

The searing pain was a constant reminder of how far away he was from returning to the skill level which earned him All-County honors at Clarkston High School.

But he never gave up hope and managed to return to the hardcourt pain-free this fall as a forward on Lake Superior State College's basketball team.

Not only has he returned to basketball, he is a starter on the team, averaging more than 35 minutes a game. But there were many hardships to overcome before his triumphant return.

Last fall, he still had trouble jumping and currently gets fatigued from all the minutes he has logged his season.

Jokisch's hard work during his successful comeback attempt hasn't gone unnoticed by Soo Lakers Coach Bob Eldridge, who has nothing but good things to say about Jokisch.

"He is such an intelligent player and a great passer," said Eldridge. "He is having a greater year than anyone - including himself - could have expected."

Jokisch is averaging more than 10 points per game and nearly six assists. His knack for finding the open man, especially forward John Gilbert, makes him a valuable member of the team, Eldridge said.

"I like to set up John (Gilbert) just as much as I like to score," said Jokisch of his passing skills.

Since he is a big man, standing 6-foot-6 and weighing 200 pounds, his ability to pass the ball makes him a unique individual on the court.

He also knows what he needs to do to help Lake Superior contend in the Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference.

"He knows he is not the star," said Eldridge. "He knows how the game should be played."

Jokisch returned home Feb. 6 when the Soo Lakers played at GLIAC rival Oakland University. The game provides a double thrill for Jokisch since he gets to play in front of family and the OU coaching staff, which passed up an opportunity to recruit him out of high school.

Both Jokisch and Gilbert, a Fenton native, like to gang up on Oakland whenever they can.

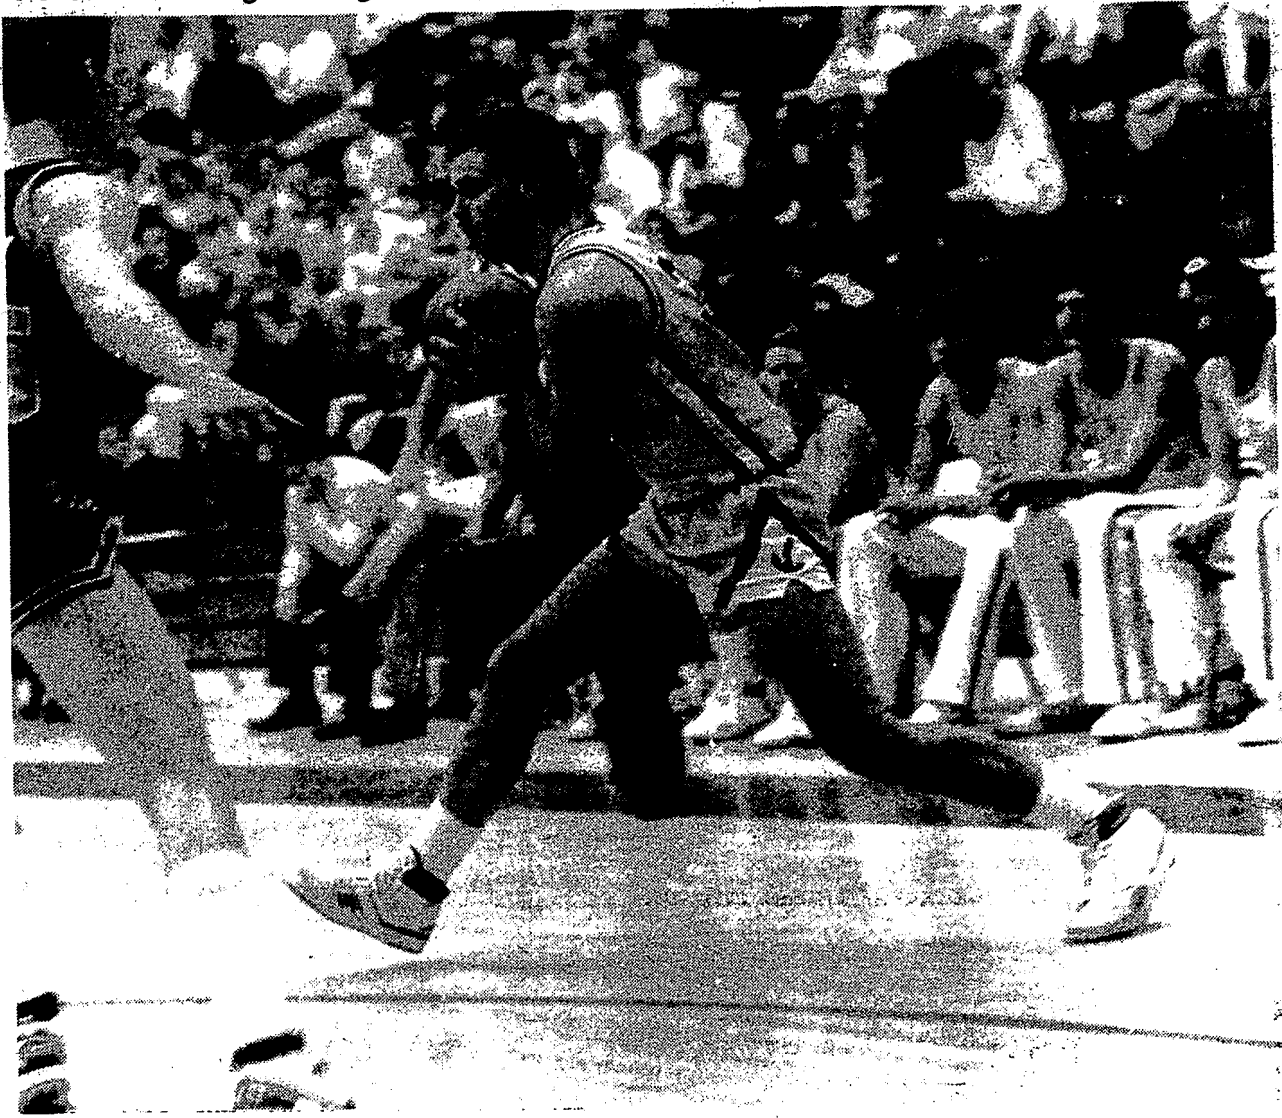

Unfortunately, the Pioneers had the last laugh this time around with a 72-70 win Saturday afternoon. Gilbert missed a lay-up, which would have tied the game, as time expired.

"This loss hurts more than Thursday's loss (against Wayne State)," said Jokisch. "We really want to come in here and beat (OU head coach Greg) Kampe because he overlooked us coming out of high school."

In an earlier contest this year in Sault Ste. Marie, Jokisch scored the winning basket during the final seconds of a 96-94 win for the Soo Lakers.

Eldridge hopes the good times will continue for Jokisch and Lake Superior now and in the future.

"It'll be good to have him back," he said. "It's a plus."

DAVE JOKISCH prepares to dish off another assist during second half action at Oakland University Saturday afternoon. He finished with five assists and scored seven points against the Pioneers.

The Wolves romp as 'Gator' shines

Signs warning opponents "Beware of the Gator" should have been posted outside the high school gym Friday night.

Jeff "Gator" Tungate scorched the nets for 31 points and practically "ate" Brandon alive as the Wolves whipped the Blackhawks, 81-37, in a GOAL basketball game Feb. 5.

Mike Barnes was the other double-figure scorer for the Wolves with 17 points.

Clarkston, now 8-4 overall and 4-1 in league play, showed new member Brandon how rough and tough GOAL teams can be. The Blackhawks lost their fifth straight league contest.

The victory kept the Wolves in second place in the GOAL behind Lake Orion (5-1).

Tungate started the game red hot, hitting baskets from the perimeter with ease. His sharp shooting helped spark the Wolves to a 27-4 advantage in the first quarter.

At one point in the explosive first period - in which Clarkston jumped out to a 32-8 lead - Tungate scored 11 points in a 13-2 scoring surge.

After the opening quarter, Coach Dan Fife substituted freely and allowed everyone on the bench an opportunity to play a little.

Brandon outscored Clarkston by a point in the second quarter to head into the intermission down 44-21.

Tungate and the regulars returned after the break and he proceeded to hit his third triple of the night to spark yet another run by the Wolves. The subs returned in the fourth quarter to polish the Blackhawks off.

The big victory over the struggling Blackhawks came as a big relief for Fife.

"I was very concerned that we would not be prepared for them," he said. He was afraid the Wolves would look past Brandon. Clarkston beat Brandon by only 10 points last season.

The scoring onslaught by the Wolves overshadowed a stellar defensive performance by the entire team.

Barnes and Darrin Brandt, in particular, stymied Brandon all night long, said Fife.

"We played good defense," he said. "That was the key (to the easy win)."

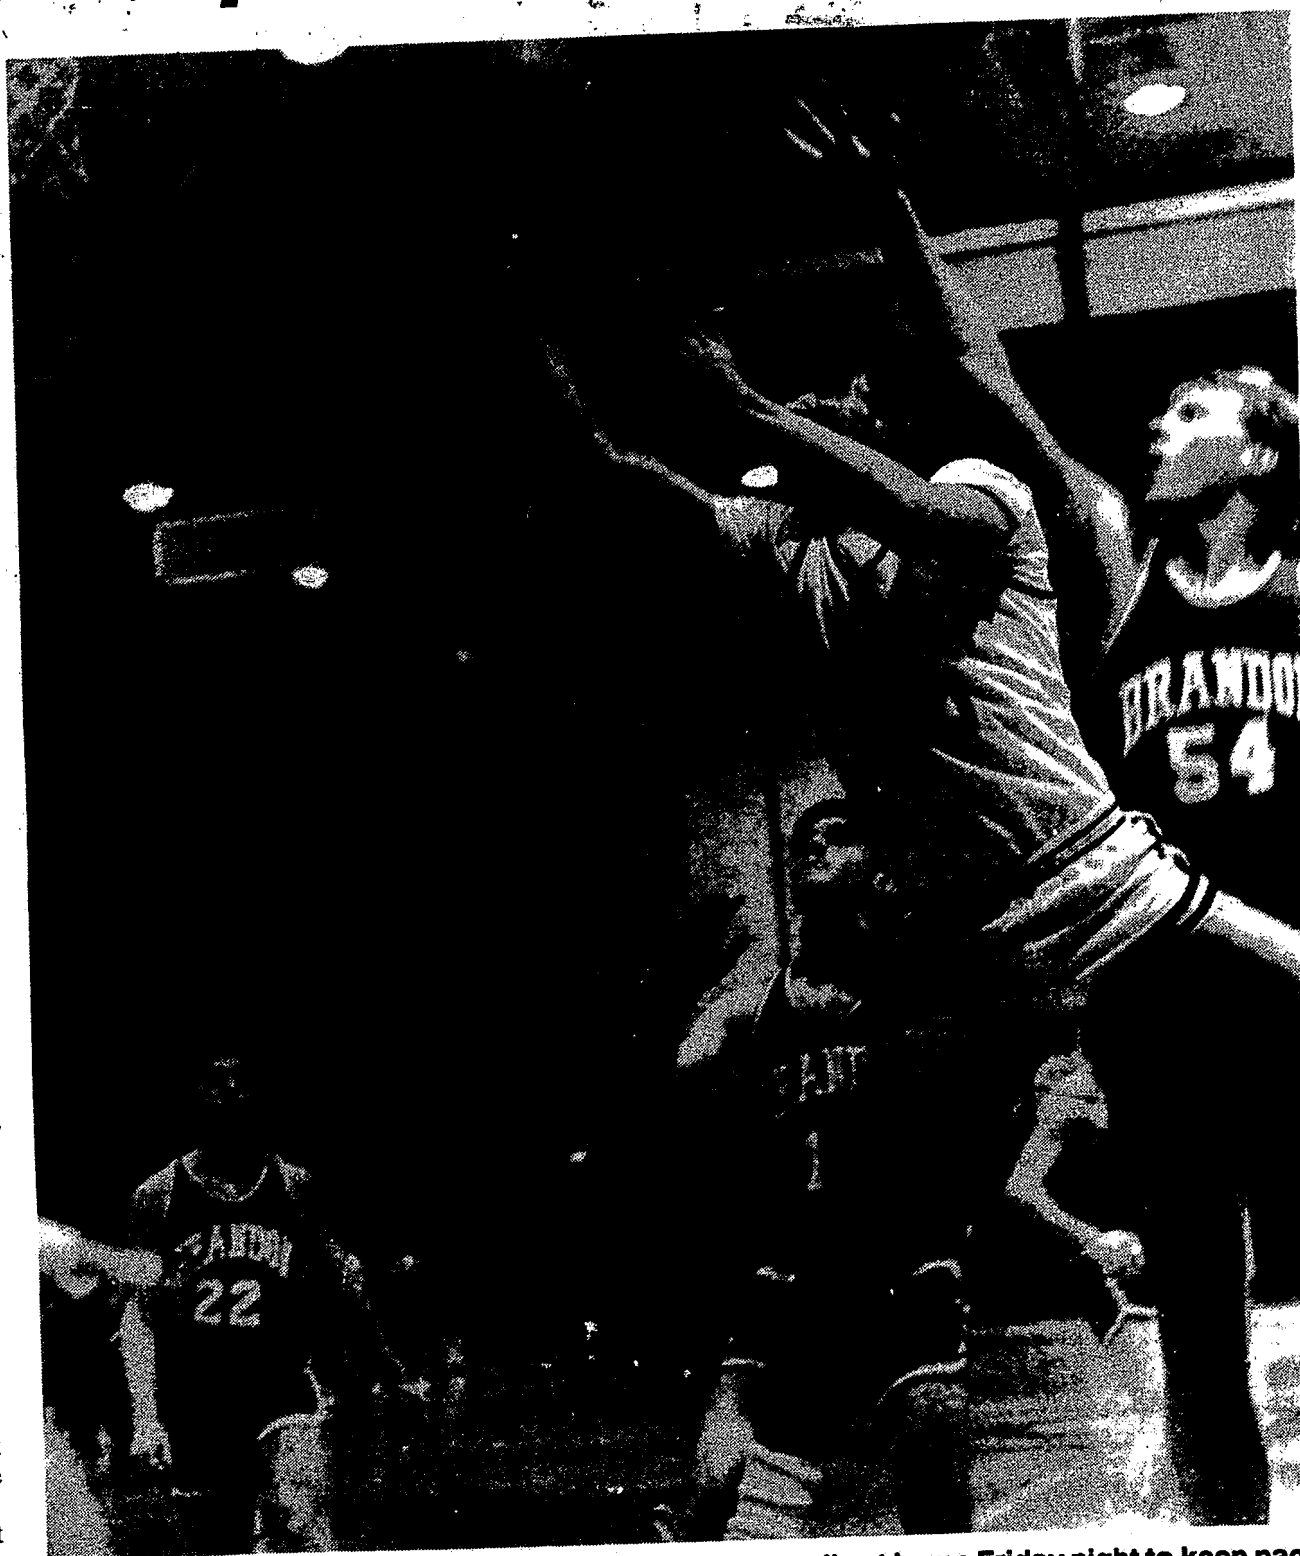

Brandt also continued to dish out assists as though they were a dime a dozen.

James Huttenlocher was the leading scorer off the bench with six points. Keenan Powell, Rob Sanderson and Ben Underwood also played well for the Wolves.

Thoughts of how badly the team played against Catholic Central in the season opener in December are nearly forgotten now.

"We have come a long way (since that 32-point loss)," said Fife.

Clarkston now gears up for a battle on the road against GOAL rival Pontiac Northern Friday night. The Wolves whipped the Huskies the first time around earlier DRIVING THE BASELINE is the Wolves' Josh Newblatt. Clarkston whipped GOAL foe Brandon easily at home Friday night to keep pace with leader Lake Orion.

BRAKE PRICES?

UNTIL THEY PULL THE WHEELS, THEY'RE PULLING YOUR LEG.

Think about it. How do some brake places know what your next job'll cost if they've never seen your brakes to begin with? Answer: they don't.

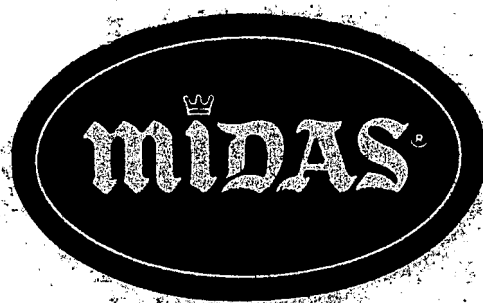

Fact is, there's no way anyone can figure out exactly what the price will be. There are just too many possibilities.

That's why at Midas, we pull all four wheels before every brake job. To get inside your brakes. To inspect them. To positively determine what's gone wrong. From a nine dollar can of fluid to a new master cylinder.

And when we're finished, we'll give you a pinpoint estimate of the entire job. With a price that won't go up when the job's done. That's our promise to you.

So when it comes time to pay, you'll have a leg to stand on.

Wolverines snap 7-game losing streak

After seven straight losses, Clarkston was just plain happy to win a game.

The ninth-grade basketball team slipped past Brandon Feb. 4 by the slimmest of margins (54-53) during a close and exciting game.

"It's a victory and we will take it," said Coach Bill Bildstein. "I don't care how you win as long as you do." Clarkston, now 3-7 on the year, built up a 30-23 lead at halftime and appeared on its way to an easy victory.

But Brandon would not play the part of the submissive victim and rallied to make a game of it in the third quarter.

"Brandon played hard tonight," said Bildstein.

The visitors were within a basket of tying the contest when the Blackhawks missed five shots in a row. Clarkston's Tom Prote then drove the length of the floor and sank a shot to bump the Wolverines' lead up to 34-30.

At the end of the third quarter, Clarkston held a slim two-point advantage.

Brandon was able to tie the game several times in the final stanza, but the Blackhawks were never able to get over the hump.

A basket by Mike Stoutenburg with 2:45 left in the contest gave Clarkston its final lead of the game at 50-48. Brandon missed several key shots down the stretch as Clarkston was able to hang on for the win.

Prote was the leading scorer for Clarkston with 14 points. Chad Hetherington scored 11 and Stoutenburg added 10 for the victors.

The final score - while close - was especially pleasing for Bildstein since the Wolverines managed to break the 50-point barrier.

"We have been working on our shooting," he said. "It's great to score over 50."

The victory over Brandon probably helped take some of the sting out of Clarkston's second loss to Sashabaw this season.

Stage notes: Pine Knob's Simone Prince shares behind-the-scenes stories

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The slopes at Pine Knob Ski Resort are covered with skiers now. But last summer, the scene was quite different.

Each summer, the Independence Township ski resort turns to another type of outdoor activity, as picnic baskets, blankets and concertgoers abound on the grassy hill overlooking the Pine Knob Music Theatre.

The woman behind the scenes of all this is Simone Prince, promotions and public relations director for the music theater and ski resort.

The Clarkston News Reflections SECTION 2

Wednesday, February 10, 1988

It is her responsibility to put together promotions for both seasons. She works with radio stations, newspapers, tour sponsors and artists' managers, depending on the season and the promotion.

Sometimes in the summer, that's a constant job as new concerts are added to the schedule on a weekly or even daily basis.

She also handles public relations contacts, fielding complaints and compliments alike.

"It's the good calls that make my job worthwhile," she says.

Her job is busy, sometimes tough, but always interesting, she says.

In the winter, she has time to be creative and come up with unique promotions for the ski season. In the summer, the promotions are more cut and dried.

"There's only so much the entertainers are willing to do," says the 23-year-old Oakland University graduate from her office in the ski lodge. Outside her window, skiers glide down the snowy slopes.

For a minute, she can relax and reminisce about the interesting "backstage stories" that are a common occurrence in the summer half of her job.

"In the summer, my job is more demanding," Simone says. "But it's definitely the most exciting time. You're working with different people and different styles."

The first entertainer last season at the Pine Knob Music Theatre was Billy Idol.

"He was the first and only one to completely trash the dressing room," Simone says. "Things were broken, the place was a mess. But you don't ask why, you just send a bill."

"It's still exciting to shake hands with stars like Liza Minnelli. But people are people. Some are demanding, some are easy to work with."

Tour managers, she says, are sometimes more difficult to work with than the artists themselves. Idol's managers asked for two orders of Kentucky Fried Chicken in less than half an hour. The bigger the artist, the more demanding the manager usually is, she adds.

The entertainers leave behind some interesting memories for Simone.

Frank Sinatra arrived with 40 bodyguards, more than any other entertainer to date.

Mikhail Baryshnikov requested absolutely no air

SIMONE PRINCE, promotions and public relations director for Pine Knob Ski Resort and Music Theatre, stands before the now quiet theater entrance. When ski season ends, the theater will once again come to life, adding new stories to her interesting collection.

conditioning (because it cramps the muscles for a dancer). It was a particularly hot night and, Simone says, "It was stifling backstage."

Whitney Houston requested water on tap, not too hot and not too cold.

One incident that sticks in Simone's mind deals with a band called "The Outfield." They requested 12 cans of cat food, but she says, "I never saw any cats around." They also requested 12 clean pairs of socks every night.

"Each entertainer puts special requests on a rider, and we don't question why," she says. "Usually they are special meal requests and things like that, but sometimes we get strange requests. We just honor them if we can."

One rock group requested condoms and posters of nude women.

The people who are the best to work with and the most personable are the country performers, Simone says.

Barbara Mandrell always travels with her son. Kenny Loggins brings his whole family along, the wife and children.

"He's just a real nice person to work with on and off stage," Simone says. "It's like he doesn't even realize he's a star."

Willie Nelson prefers to use his own trailer for his dressing room, and keeps to himself. But that doesn't mean he's not one of the good guys.

"A little boy who is wheelchair bound with an incurable disease wanted to meet Willie Nelson," Simone says. "We get lots of requests from people who want to meet the stars for one reason or another, but it's not usually possible to arrange it."

This situation was special, however, and Nelson said "sure."

Simone thought he would just shake the boy's hand when he was wheeled backstage, but Nelson went much further. He not only gave the boy many autographed souvenirs, but he gave him his phone number and said, "Now, if you ever need to call me for any reason, you just call this number."

"Willie is a real giving person," Simone says.

Sometimes the groups are "just plain fun," she says. The band "Night Ranger" was tied in to a promotion with a radio station where people won the chance to be "Roadies for a Day."

The band and crew really let the winners get involved, actually put them to work setting up, and everyone had a good time.

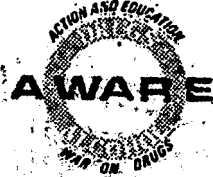

When asked if her job is glamorous, Simone responds, well, sometimes.

"It's still exciting to shake hands with stars like Liza Minnelli," she says. "But people are people. Some are demanding, some are easy to work with."

"I've passed the 'star struck' stage long ago," Simone says. "If anything, I get more excited doing the promotions and watching the public react to their favorite performers."

Friend to Friend

Afraid to drive

Dear Friend to Friend:

I've only been driving for a few months and already I've had two accidents.

They weren't even my fault, but now I'm scared to death to ride in a car and I don't care if I ever drive again.

I know this sounds dumb, because most kids my age love to drive. Am I normal? Do I have to drive again?

Afraid of Driving

Dear Afraid:

Yes, you are normal. When anyone has frightening experiences happen, it increases their nervousness and fear about repeating those experiences.

You are now afraid that if you drive again you are certain to be involved in another accident. As long as you don't drive or ride in a car, that can't happen.

However, it is quite unrealistic to believe that you can exist without driving. The longer you avoid driving, the worse the fears and anxieties will become.

Therefore, you need to get behind the wheel as soon as possible. You could start out by sitting in the car in the safety of your garage or driveway.

As you feel more comfortable doing that, then perhaps just maneuvering the car in the driveway might be the next step. When you do drive, pick a quiet street without much traffic, so there is little chance of another accident.

Keep doing these preliminary steps until you feel little anxiety or fear.

If these steps don't work, you might need to see a psychologist who could assist you reduce your fears.

Dear Friend to Friend:

I am a senior in high school and have been going with this guy for three years. He is in his mid-20s and we are really happy together.

Today I found out that I am pregnant. Abortion is not even a consideration. I want to keep my baby and so does my boyfriend.

The problem is I don't know how to tell my parents. This is the last thing they would expect of me.

I don't know what to do. Please help!

Pregnant Teen

Dear Pregnant Teen:

First of all, you must tell your parents about your situation.

Talk to your boyfriend about what is going to happen when the baby is born. Come up with a logical and responsible plan that may help your parents accept it better.

Your parents will probably respond emotionally at first. They will be angry, hurt, disappointed and maybe act irrationally.

They may say a lot of things they don't really mean. You should keep this in mind. Be very patient with your parents and they will eventually come around.

You'll need their support during the pregnancy and in the beginning of your child's life. Your parents' input will be valuable to you and your boyfriend in your decision making.

Some questions you may want to ask yourself are: Will you get married? Where will you live? How will you support your new family?

An important thing you need to begin thinking about is that you need to take care of yourself for the baby's sake. That should include no drugs, alcohol or smoking.

You need to seek immediate medical care to be sure that the baby is in healthy condition. The doctor should be able to give you suggestions on healthy habits to follow, such as the amount of weight gain, exercise, eating habits and prenatal instructions.

If you feel that the responsibilities of raising a child are too overwhelming, you might consider giving the child up for adoption.

The first person you must consider is the baby. You have to be very unselfish right now and be aware that the best interests of the child are most important. Talk to a school counselor or school nurse.

We can't emphasize enough the importance of being physically, emotionally, financially and spiritually able to make such a major decision.

Please talk to professionals to give an objective opinion. Our hearts are with you. Please keep in touch.

New arrival

It's a boy for Rick and Carol Hinzpeter of Pine Valley Road, Independence Township.

Daniel Rick was born Saturday, Jan. 30, at Crittenton Hospital, Rochester. He weighed 8 pounds, 11 ounces and measured 21 inches long.

Grandparents are Merrill and Ruth Hinzpeter of St. Louis, Mo., and Dolores Wright of Aspen, Colo.

Great-grandmother is Ethel Hensel of St. Louis, Mo.

Honors

Two students with local connections are on the Alma College, Alma, dean's list for outstanding academic performance during the 1987 fall term.

Senior James Barresi, a 1984 graduate of Our Lady of the Lakes High School, Waterford, is majoring in history. His parents are Frank and Sandra Barresi, former Clarkston residents now residing in Louisville, Ky.

Sophomore Colleen Moore, a 1986 graduate of International School in Frankfort, West Germany, is majoring in political science. Her parents are Harry and Carol Moore of Caribou Road, Independence Township.

Engagement

GUZMAN-LESLIE: Mr. and Mrs. Ramiro Guzman of Reynosa, Tamps, Mexico, announce the engagement of their daughter Miriam D. to Cary Kenneth Leslie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Leslie of Snowapple Drive, Independence Township. The bride-elect is a graduate of Universidad Valle Del Bravo in Mexico. Her fiancé is a graduate of Michigan Technological University, Houghton. Both are employed by Delnosa, a subsidiary of Delco Electronics Corp. in Mexico. The couple are planning a March wedding in Reynosa, Tamps, and a blessing service March 26 in Clarkston.

TWO OF THE SIX WINNERS in the advanced baton twirling category at the Mini Nationals

Clarkston twirlers capture national titles

Courtney Grimes and Monica Schramm are masters of the fancy strut, the basic strut and the military strut.

Both girls used their skills to capture national championships in a baton twirling competition last month.

Of the six age groups in advanced competition, it's amazing that four winners were from Michigan, including Monica and Courtney of the Clarkston area, said Debby Ballard, Courtney's mother.

"All you hear is that northern girls could never win a national championship because it's hard to practice all year with winter," said Debby.

The girls practice at least two hours a day wherever they can - in elementary school gyms when the principals let them in, at Springfield Oaks and in racquet clubs.

"The kids have to want to do it because they have to practice every day, even if it's Christmas," said Debby.

Her daughter became interested in baton twirling as a child, when a doctor recommended dance or baton to help correct a foot problem. Courtney has been hooked ever since, said Debby.

Courtney, 10, and Monica, 15, belong to Drum Majorettes of America, N.C., and are students of Cheryl Wimberley of Port Orange, Fla., so they fly back and forth for lessons.

"It's an expensive sport," said Debby, but added the benefits are great.

"Courtney has friends from all over the United States, and she's penpals with them. She's traveled all over."

Their instructor was present at the three-day annual national competition in Cleveland, Tenn., and the girls performed well, said Debby, who accompanied her daughter.

She remembered the moment when the announcer pronounced Courtney as a winner.

"I cried," she said. "I'm not a yeller. Some mothers are screamers. I cry. I was so thrilled. I knew she had worked really hard this year, but I didn't know it would pay off so big."

"I could see the look on her face, and she was just smiling from ear to ear. Her teacher from Florida was there, and they hugged and cried."

Courtney, a fourth-grader at Pine Knob Elementary School, and her family live on Snowapple Drive, Independence Township.

Monica, a Clarkston High School sophomore, is the daughter of Gunther and Billie Schramm of Andersonville Road, Springfield Township. Monica sometimes performs during half-time at CHS basketball games.

POSTER CONTEST WINNER Kelly Berg received one of 57 top division prizes in the Detroit Edison Co.'s 21st annual Electrical Safety Poster and Comic Strip Contest. There were more than 12,000 entries from the company's six divisions. Kelly won in the seventh-grade category. She's a student at Clarkston Junior High School. (Photo courtesy of Detroit Edison)

Senior Notes

Study skills workshop is for grades 9-12

A one-night study skills workshop for high school students is a first-time offering through the Clarkston Community Education Department.

The workshops have proven popular for junior high students, and there were many requests for a similar course designed for older students, said Jeanne Molzon, youth program coordinator.

Karen Davison will lead the program for ninth-through 12th-graders on Thursday, Feb. 18, from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. in Room 804 at Clarkston High School. The fee is $14.

Topics to be covered include learning how to outline, tips on report writing, note taking, answering essay questions, ways to study and review, and fighting fear and panic during tests.

The registration deadline is Friday, Feb. 12, with registrations taken only at the Clarkston Learning Center, 5275 Maybee Rd. Hours are 7:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. weekdays. Call 674-3141 for more information.

A kickoff potluck dinner is planned Saturday, Feb. 13, for all participants in RENEW.

For more information on RENEW or to sign up for the potluck dinner, call Kathy Desrochers at 625-7397 or Arline Moore at St. Daniel's church office, 625-4583.

Touch textured skin of a snake

Michigan's fascinating wildlife is the topic of a free family program sponsored by the North Oakland Association for the Academically Talented.

"Furs, Feathers, and Scales - Michigan Wildlife" will be presented Thursday, Feb. 18, by Jennifer Putenny, a naturalist at the Exhibit Museum of the University of Michigan. She will explore the wonders of the animals: How they hide, what they eat, where they live, how they move and protect themselves.

Audience members will be able to touch the downy feathers of an owl, the textured skin of a snake and the thick fur of a black bear, to name just a few of the mounted specimens and skins that will be presented during the hands-on demonstration.

The one and one-half hour presentation is to begin at 7:30 p.m. at Sashabaw Junior High School, 5565 Pine Knob Rd., Independence Township.

Pet of the Week

THIS PERKY PUP is named Charity.

Give Charity a home

Her name is Charity, and she needs a family with a little of that in their hearts.

Charity is a 6-month-old shepherd mix who is already spayed. She's housebroken, though she may need a little "refresher course."

This pup is very active, compatible with other pets, loves children and has lots of personality. She is a medium-sized dog with wiry hair like a terrier, shepherd coloring and perked-up ears.

Charity can be adopted at the Michigan Humane Society, 3600 Auburn Rd., Auburn Heights, 852-7420. Hours at the non-profit shelter are 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

The adoption fee for Charity is $35.

Church to make telephone survey

Telemarketing techniques from the business world are being used this month in a church telephone survey.

About 22 volunteers from North Oaks Community Church are to make about 10,000 phone calls in Independence, Springfield and Waterford townships and Clarkston to find out if people go to church, and if not, if they want to be on the North Oaks mailing list.

Between four and eight people are to call from 7 to 9 p.m. Sunday through Friday and 10 a.m. to noon on Saturday, said Kurt Gebhard, pastor of the church.

They're attempting to identify the people who don't actively attend church, said Gebhard.

According to national telemarketing statistics, after 10,000 calls, the church should have a mailing list of 1,000 people and can expect about 100 more people at the Easter service, he said.

It's part of a national program, "The Phone's for You," to help new and existing churches begin or expand, said Gebhard, adding 5 million calls will be made nationwide in the program.

"We've been having a very good response," he said. "Very few, less than one-half of one percent, have been anything close to negative. Most people are very friendly. In fact, people already involved in churches have been encouraging us."

"It's a good use of time management. ... It's contacting a lot of folks in a short period of time."

Gebhard agreed that the approach wasn't traditional, but he said it was useful.

"It's a safe way, rather than going around knocking on people's doors and putting them on the spot. ... I think it's great. Certain principles in life hold true in every area of life. We can take these techniques and use them to spread the good news," he said.

The church meets at the senior center at Clintonwood Park on Clarkston Road in Independence Township, but they plan to move to the Clarkston High School band room in March, he said. For more information, call 625-7332.

Wacky winter

David Kwasnick

Let's face it. Winter is weird. There's no other way to describe it.

Think about it for a moment. Name a season that has more weird weather, clothes or activities. Go ahead, try it. It can't be done.

Just that name - winter - says something. It's like some sort of test question: Circle the word that doesn't belong in the group - A. spring, B. summer, C. fall, D. winter. Easy question; circle D.

It's an oddball. Consider the other seasons. Spring - pretty self-explanatory. Flowers come up, animals come out, birdies chirp, etc. Summer - kind of a long, low sultry word; plus it sounds a lot like a stove setting. That should tell ya' something. Fall - that describes it. The flowers croak, leaves fall from trees, the animals go away, simple.

Ah, then comes winter. Winter, winter, what is it? What does it mean? It's not something that can be done. Nothing winters. (Although things do occasionally shrivel up, freeze and die; but you just can't name a season that.)

And what happens during winter? To that there is an answer: It gets cold (usually) and people walk around saying, "Geez."

Geez, as in "Geez, I hope the wrecker gets here soon." "Geez, how was school today?" "Geez, little Bobbie's tongue is stuck to the window again." That kind of Geez.

During winter, people also engage in activities that say a lot about who we are - a bunch of north-of-the-border loons with snow and too much time on our hands.

Don't get me wrong. I enjoy winter sports. Skiing is a big favorite of mine. But they do seem a bit comical.

Case in point, ice fishing. Doesn't sitting on a frozen lake in well-below-freezing temperatures hoping to catch a fish strike you as the least bit funny?

And what about skiing. "Hi, I'm standing here on top of a hill with boards stuck to the bottom of my feet. I will now attempt to go down the hill without hitting anything or injuring myself. No, no one is forcing me to do this."

See what I mean? I won't even touch curling!

The only thing weirder than winter is the people who like it!

David Kwasnick is a senior at Clarkson High School.

Christian Soldiers Wanted

Here's your chance to get involved with an unusual church. We don't plan on growing by attracting people from other churches. We're going after the unchurched people in the North Oakland County area. And we need a few good Christians to fill out our core group. We believe the bottom line for every Christian should be helping others to know Christ. If you share this belief, we invite you to visit next Sunday or call us at 625-7332. We're only 30 people now. And we worship in the Carriage House at Clintonwood Park. Who knows, you might even rub elbows with a few tax collectors before it's over. Sunday Service 10:30 AM.

Calvary honors church volunteers

The Leader of the Year and Faithful Servant Award recipients for 1987 have been selected by Calvary Lutheran Church.

The award winners were selected during the church's 27th Congregational Meeting on Jan. 31.

Don Berg was named Leader of the Year for devoting much of his time, energy and talent to benefit the church located on Bluegrass Drive in Independence Township.

Berg has been a member of the church for eight years. He previously served on church councils in four other locations. At Calvary, his activities have included council membership and service on the finance committee, as co-treasurer and as an usher.

Waterford area residents, Berg and his wife have a married son and daughter and one grandchild.

Clarkston area residents Bill and Sandy Engel were co-recipients of the Faithful Servant Award. The honor is for persons who have faithfully served the church behind the scenes, often without the knowledge of those benefiting from their labors.

Bill is a baker at the Village Bakeshop in Clarkston. Over the years, he and Sandy have donated cookies, donuts and many hours of their time helping with Easter breakfasts, youth lock-ins and dinners. They have organized many successful fundraising dinners.

Sandy initiated and led the fourth- through sixth-grade Youth Group for many years. The group continues to be an active part of the church.

The Engels have two daughters. They have been members of Calvary for seven years.

Kids can sharpen baby sitting skills

Sixth-graders interested in attending a baby sitting workshop may now register at the Independence Township Library.

Thursday night sessions are planned on Feb. 25 and March 3 from 6:30 to 8:30. Attendance is required on both nights to receive a certificate.

The workshop, including all handout materials, is free. Students must be at least 11 years old to attend.

The sessions will be conducted at the Church of the Resurrection, 6490 Clarkston Rd., across from the library. For more information, call 625-2212.

Bowl-a-thon to help send kids to camp

The seventh annual Bowl-A-Thon for Clarkston Area Youth Assistance is scheduled for Sunday, Feb. 21, at the Cherry Hill Lanes North on Dixie Highway.

"This is our only major fundraiser," says Youth Assistance Chairman Merelyn Mallett. "The money goes to support camp, and last year we sent 107 children from the Clarkston school system to camp."

You don't have to be a serious bowler to participate, Mallett says. "It's just an afternoon of fun."

The Bowl-A-Thon is scheduled from 1 to 3 p.m. People who want to participate may pick up sponsor sheets from Garry Pullins at Youth Assistance, 625-9007.

Participants collect sponsors, at so much per pin, or just a set donation. There is no charge to participants for the three games of bowling during the Bowl-A-Thon.

Families and friends can make up their own teams or people can join one when they get to the event.

Further information about the Youth Assistance fundraiser can be obtained by calling Pullins.

Clothing drive

If you start now, you can get a head-start on spring cleaning and also have a chance to help others with your old belongings.

The Clarkston High School National Honor Society (NHS) is sponsoring a clothing drive from 7 a.m. to 2:35 p.m. Monday, Feb. 15, through Saturday, Feb. 20.

They'll accept new or used clothing, and they especially need children's clothing and winter wear, said Mike Kolody, a member of the NHS.

New toothbrushes, soap and other personal-care items are also needed, he said. The items will be distributed from St. Michael's Church, Pontiac, and other churches in the Pontiac area.

Worth the calories

If January is for dieting, then February must be for breaking diets, especially on Valentine's Day.

Treat your special valentine to this easy-to-make dessert that tastes like a moist, fudgy brownie cake with a bottom layer of cherries.

To me, chocolate is always in season, and cherries are appropriate in February, since George Washington made them famous.

CHOCOLATE CHERRY CAKE

- 1 21-ounce can cherry pie filling
- 2 1/4 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 1/2 cups sugar
- 3/4 cup unsweetened cocoa powder
- 1 1/2 teaspoons baking soda
- 3/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 1/2 cups water
- 1/2 cup cooking oil
- 1/4 cup vinegar
- 1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla

Spread the cherry pie filling evenly over the bottom of a greased 13-by-9-by-2-inch baking pan. In a large bowl, stir together flour, sugar, cocoa, soda and salt. In another bowl combine the water, oil, vinegar and vanilla.

Add liquid ingredients to flour mixture all at once and stir just to moisten. Pour batter evenly over the cherry pie filling in pan.

Bake in 350-degree oven for 30 to 35 minutes or until cake tests done. Cook at least 10 minutes. Serve with a dollop of whipped cream or garnish with more cherries, if desired.

Double-duty dance

Dance for fun and for a good cause at the fourth annual Valentine Dinner Dance sponsored by the international sorority Beta Sigma Phi.

The party is planned Saturday, Feb. 13, from 6:30 p.m. to 1 a.m. at the American Legion Post No. 63 on M-15 in Independence Township. Music will be provided by the three-piece combo "The Breeze." Tickets are $15 a person.

Proceeds will be shared with HAVEN (Help Against Violent Encounters Now), the shelter in Pontiac for abused women and children.

Tickets should be purchased in advance. For more information, call 674-3569 or 625-8715.

Charter Township of Independence NOTICE OF APPROVED ZONING ORDINANCE AMENDMENT

At a regular meeting held on February 2, 1988, the Township Board of the Charter Township of Independence approved an amendment to the Township Zoning Ordinance #83, as amended. The approved zoning ordinance amendments pertain to the site plan review process.

Sections 5.12.6 Standards for Granting a Site Plan Approval.

Add a subsection 5.12.6 (f) which would read as follows:

CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF INDEPENDENCE
PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO SECTION 5.12
OF ZONING ORDINANCE:
SITE PLAN REVIEW

(AS REVISED FOLLOWING JANUARY 5, 1988 TOWNSHIP BOARD MEETING)

Add a Subsection 5.12.6(f) which would read as follows:

(f) The means of ingress and egress to and from the site shall be planned with the objective of achieving recognized planning, engineering and safety standards, and such ingress and egress shall not result in an unreasonable risk of danger to persons and/or property on the site and/or off the site. For the purpose of attempting to alleviate an unreasonable risk the Planning Commission may make a discretionary determination that the cause of traffic volume must be adjusted, e.g., reduction of the number of residential units and/or the square footage of space used for nonresidential purposes, provided that such a determination shall be made with the advice and concurrence of a consultant having expertise in the subject matter. In general, this standard shall be met based upon the design of ingress and egress in terms of the number, location and design of access(es), and utilization of acceleration, deceleration and passing lanes and approaches. The Planning Commission shall review the ingress and egress proposed for the purpose of promoting and protecting traffic safety, and shall require and/or limit improvements accordingly. Development design standards adopted by the Township shall be applied where applicable.

Delete from Subsection 5.12.6(a) the following phrase in the first line of such Subsection: "proper ingress and egress"

90-year-old lives 'for the future'

EVA MASTERS turned 90 on Jan. 19.

BY CAROLYN WALKER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Eva Masters has spent the last half of her life, 45 years, living in Clarkston. In January, much of what's good about that life culminated in one big happy celebration at the Deer Lake Racquet Club.

Eva, who's still basking in the glory of it all, was feted as she turned 90 by family and friends who traveled from across the United States to honor her. From New York, Illinois, Ohio and other states, they came to party.

Safe from February's chill, Eva sits in her apartment this day surrounded by flowers and cards honoring her Jan. 19 birthday, talking non-stop about those that mean the most to her.

She mentions her large family, church work and birthday card from President and Mrs. Reagan. ("I thought that was real nice.")

Born in Caro, Mich., and widowed 19 years ago, Eva is eager to share information concerning her five children, 17 grandchildren and "about 14 great-grandchildren."

Some served their country during wartime, one is a nurse, one, daughter Martha Johnston who gave the party, used to teach and is a Clarkston planning commissioner, and, oh, those grandkids.

"I just live for the future," she says. "I do what I can every day. I don't like to talk about my past. I'm still enjoying life..."

She chuckles good-naturedly when asked to explain how she can have "about 14 grandchildren." There was a recent addition outstate, she says.

A past-president of the Clarkston United Methodist Church women's society, she still offers her time as a telephoning volunteer and knitter for church projects.

"It makes me feel good to do things for other people," she says. "I like to work with younger folks."

She glances out the window, pensively, as the subject changes again. "I don't really feel 90," she says with a twinkle in her eye. "I'm 39 and holding. The doctor says I'm going to celebrate my 100th birthday."

4 honored as CHS students of month

Four Clarkston High School students have been recognized as Students of the Month for January.

On the list are Chuck Carpenter, son of Jason and Karen Carpenter of Oak Park Road; Robert Potts, son of Robert and Carol Potts of Guyette Road; Jeff Tungate, son of Anne and Paul Tungate of Transparent Drive; and Corey Whisner, son of Robert and Marilyn Whisner of Fawn Valley Drive.

A second component of the recognition program is planned in March when all students with a 3.8 grade point average or better will receive an academic chenille letter at a special program in their honor.

PRAYER TO THE Holy Spirit. Holy Spirit: You make me see everything and show me the way to reach my ideals. You give me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrongs that are done to me and you are in all instances of my life with me. I, in this short dialogue, want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you no matter how great the material desire may be. I want to be with you, and my loved ones, in your perpetual glory. Amen. Persons must pray this prayer 3 consecutive days without asking for your wish. After the 3rd day your wish will be granted, no matter how difficult it may be. Then, promise to publish this dialogue as soon as your favor has been granted. Impossible wish granted. ILLX6-2
