Superintendent search begins Friday

BY KATHY GREENFIELD
Clarkston News Editor

From a field of 59 applicants for the position of superintendent of Clarkston schools, 11 have been selected for interviews.

The board of education met Monday night with the consortium of administrative placement directors from Michigan's state universities to discuss procedures for interviewing the candidates.

The consortium, made up of representatives from Wayne, Central, Eastern and Western Michigan universities and the University of Michigan, reviewed the applications Monday afternoon and recommended the 11 candidates for interviews, said school board President Janet Thomas.

"We were really pleased. Working with the consortium went well," she said. "A number of them said they were really impressed with the field of candidates."

Consortium members are paid by the universities.

Their services are rendered without charge to school districts, except for travel expenses and meals and lodging, if necessary. Membership is composed of a representative from each state university, although they do not all appear for each assignment.

Of the 59 applicants, nine of whom were from out of state, the consortium originally selected 23 they considered qualified for the post. The number is unusually high, according to Thomas, which she attributed to the district's good reputation.

All of the 11 selected for interviews are from

Opinion time

Clarkston school district residents will have an opportunity Thursday, March 24, to react to Plan B, the proposal for restoration if voters approve a tax increase.

In essence, Plan B restores most of the programs and staff members that will be gone if the district is forced to carry through with Plan A and cut the district's 1988-89 budget by $1.7 million. Plan A would eliminate 29 teaching positions; drop one hour at the high school and junior high levels; eliminate extracurricular activities for high school and junior high school students including sports; eliminate music, physical education, foreign language and reading support in the elementary schools; and close the elementary school media centers except for one day a week.

Plan B recommends that voters be asked to approve an additional 5.42 mills for operational purposes on the June 13 ballot as well as a $5.2 million bond issue for building repairs.

The plan further suggests the sale of two parcels of "excess district property," 80 acres at Reese and Rattalee Lake roads and 19 acres on Waldon Road near Sashabaw Road.

Also suggested is the presentation of a bond request on the ballot by Dec. 15 for a new high school and conversion of the existing high school to a middle school.

The public hearing on Plan B is to begin at 7:30 p.m. in the administration office, 6389 Clarkston Rd. Audience members who wish to speak will be asked to put their names on cards as they enter the meeting room.

Due to interviews for the district superintendent post, the board will not vote on whether to accept Plan B on March 28 as previously announced. The date for making a decision on Plan B has not been set.

Keep off thin ice

With the upcoming spring thaw comes thinning and melting ice and the need to be careful, says Gar Wilson, Independence Township Fire Chief.

"This is the time of year that the ice starts becoming unsafe," he says. "I would start being leery of the ice. ... With the warm weather coming, it will be deteriorating fast, so people should be very cautious going onto the ice."

The fire department hasn't had any ice-rescue missions yet, but March and April are the most dangerous months of the spring season, he says.

Police release sketch of suspected rapist

Detectives have come up with a composite drawing of the suspect wanted for the March 5 rape and armed robbery of an Independence Township woman.

A $2,500 reward is offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the suspect.

Detective Sgt. Anthony Velat, who heads the investigation at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department (OCSD), said he couldn't reveal how they derived the suspect's description.

"We're supposedly informing the public, but he reads the papers, too," he said. "We don't want him to know how we got the picture. ... If we catch someone, we'll tell."

The suspect, who may live in the Sterling Heights or Warren area, is described as a white male between 28 and 38 years of age, around 5-foot-7 or 5-foot-8, with a medium build. His brown hair is wavy and combed back, showing a receding hairline, said Velat.

During the sexual assault at North Crest Condominiums off Dixie Highway, Independence Township, five rings were stolen by the suspect, who was armed with a long knife, possibly a military-style knife.

The suspect may try to pawn the rings, said Velat. Velat gave the following ring descriptions:

1. Twelve 1/33- to 1/40-carat round cut diamonds in two concentric circles clustered around a 1/4-carat round diamond.

2. Gold, chunky, heavy setting, almost dome-like with a round 2-carat cubic zirconium stone, surrounded by at least seven small round cut stones in a random pattern.

3. Plain gold band with a 5-carat emerald-cut alexandrite stone, pale lavender in color. Stone has a flaw.

4. Plain, narrow gold ring with an "S" shape, or serpentine shape, in a horizontal position.

5. Gold, braided knot-tied ring, with an etching on the knot portion.

Anyone with information on the suspect or the crime should contact the sheriff's department at 858-4950.

No connection likely

The 28-year-old Sterling Heights man arrested in Royal Oak after allegedly beating and raping a woman March 18 is probably not the ski-mask rapist wanted for the March 5 rape of an Independence Township woman, said Detective Sgt. Anthony Velat.

The arrested man doesn't have the same physical traits as the other suspect, said Velat, who heads the Oakland County Sheriff's Department (OCSD) investigation of the Independence Township rape and nine others in Birmingham, Bloomfield Township, Farmington Hills and West Bloomfield Township.

The suspect wanted for raping and robbing a 53-year-old Independence Township woman didn't have a beard or mustache, as the arrested Sterling Heights man did, he said.

Interviews by board begin Friday

Michigan. Their names cannot be released until they have been reached for confirmation for interviews, Thomas said. She expected a list to be available Wednesday morning.

The board has planned several special meetings to conduct hour-and-one-half interviews: three are to be scheduled Friday, March 25, beginning at 3:30 p.m.; four on Saturday, March 26, beginning at 9 a.m.; two on Monday, March 28, beginning at 5 p.m.; and two on Thursday, March 31, beginning at 6:30 p.m. All interviews are planned at the district's administration office, 6389 Clarkston Rd.

The interview sessions are open to the public. Although Thomas had originally announced that questions would not be allowed from community members, she said the board decided to change the policy. Those in attendance will be able to present questions in writing. About 10 minutes per candidate will be allotted for such questions, she said.

The announcement of the selection of the new superintendent has tentatively been set for the April 11 board of education regular meeting.

The new superintendent is expected to begin the job on July 1, the date current Superintendent Milford Mason's resignation becomes official.

Doctor says thanks with free service

In celebration of his 10th year in Clarkston, Dr. Harvey Rose is offering his services without charge on Tuesday, March 29.

A podiatrist, Rose will provide foot- and ankle-care services and diagnostic services free for infants and children from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., and for young adults and adults from 1:30 to 5 p.m. at his office, 6825 Dixie Highway, Independence Township.

Rose says he's providing the patient appreciation day "just to say thank you to Clarkston."

"The point is, there is no charge for X-rays that need to be taken, for any service rendered. No insurance will be accepted," he says. "It will just be a freebie day."

He's gearing the services to people who don't have insurance or don't have the money to see a foot specialist, Rose says.

No appointments will be taken, and the free services will only be for the day.

"If I can do it that day, I'll do it," says Rose. "If it needs to be scheduled, that would be different."

Darren Miller named Merit Finalist

Darren Miller, a senior at Clarkston High School, has big goals and is getting a good start on attaining them. The 18-year-old honor student was notified in February that he was one of 9,000 Merit Finalists in the country.

DARREN MILLER, a CHS senior, was selected recently as one of 9,000 National Merit Finalists in the country, based on his scores on the Scholastic Aptitude Test.

Miller took the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test as a junior. There were one million participants nationwide. He found out last September that he was one of 15,000 who moved to semifinalist status.

He then took the Scholastic Aptitude Test, and based on his scores plus his grade point average and recommendations from his counselor and principal, he was selected as one of the 9,000 finalists.

Dr. Robert Burek, CHS principal, introduced Miller and his parents, James and Lois, to the board of education at the March 14 meeting, and said Miller's selection as a finalist was a "tremendous distinction, not only for Darren and his parents, but also for Clarkston High School and this community."

Board President Janet Thomas thanked Miller for his efforts, and praised his parents for their support. "They're a fine reflection on our community," she said.

The finalist status qualifies Miller for scholarship competition, but Burek said whether or not he receives a scholarship, "the fact that he is one of 9,000 across this country is a rare distinction."

Miller is waiting to hear in April if he is one of 6,000 Merit Scholarship winners. That is also when he will hear if he is accepted at his first choice of colleges.

"That's when I find out everything about the rest of my life," he said, laughing.

Miller plans to pursue a degree in biomedical engineering. He has a 4.16-4.17 grade point average at CHS and is involved in Blue and Gold Club as well as National Honor Society.

Such good friends

There's nothing like somebody else's 40th birthday to get the creative juices flowing.

For Everett Gard, who reached the milestone on March 22, there was a special sign hung on the front porch railing of his home near the corner of Church Street and Snowapple Drive in Independence Township.

The sign began with a standard line: "Happy 40th Birthday Everett Gard." The rest of it carried the zinger: "Today's the first day of the rest of your middle age."

"There are just ongoing practical jokes among neighbors and friends. We always try to outdo each other," said Sitar, explaining their motivation.

She and Lewis designed the message a few days prior to its unveiling, opting for nothing bright in the color department.

"It's just black and white," she said. "What else, right?"

Knob applications here

Applications for summer employment at the Pine Knob Music Theatre are now available at The Clarkston News office and at Clarkston High School.

Because of the large number of people who request applications, the policy at the News is to provide one application per person. Hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday at the News office, 5 S. Main, Clarkston.

The completed applications are to be mailed to Pine Knob. The address is printed on the applications.

Quints all home, briefly

Minor ailment returns Veronica to hospital

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Amid pink and blue ribbons and silver "baby balloons," the last two of the L'Esperance quintuplets left William Beaumont Hospital, Royal Oak, on Friday. But on Monday, Veronica returned to the hospital due to a reoccurrence of apnea, a minor respiratory problem common to newborns.

As of Tuesday morning, Veronica's condition was listed as good, according to Carol Jonson, spokesperson for Beaumont Hospital. Veronica will remain in the hospital for about a week for observation. Alexandria continues to do well at home, Jonson said.

Alexandria and Veronica had gone home Friday in a donated limousine 11 days after Raymond Jr., Danielle and Erica. It was only one day longer than doctors originally predicted the nation's first "test tube" quints, born Jan. 11, would go home.

"I just feel like I'm finally getting my family home," said a smiling Michele L'Esperance, with husband Raymond by her side. Now, she will have to wait a little longer before the fifth baby is home.

What is life like with most of the quints at home? Besides being awake a lot, the couple said it was not that bad, just a matter of getting into a routine.

"We do feel a little stressed, but not overwhelmed," Raymond said.

Alexandria and Veronica remained in the hospital longer than the other three because they had a more severe case of apnea, according to Dr. Daniel Batton, director of newborn medicine at Beaumont. Veronica experienced the most problems with this condition of all the quints, especially while feeding. When Veronica and Alexandria went home Friday, both were wearing cardiac monitors.

But Batton said their prognosis is excellent, as is that of the other three. He said it is not unusual for premature babies to be on monitors. (About 20 percent of premature babies go home with monitors.)

Batton also said the babies will be monitored closely by the hospital's follow-up clinic.

The L'Esperance family is temporarily living with relatives in Warren until their new home in Springfield Township is ready. According to Raymond, that should be in about two weeks.

They are getting a lot of help with the quints from family members, their other three children, and from the Visiting Nurse Association of Metropolitan Detroit. Visiting nurses and home health aides will continue helping the L'Esperances for about seven weeks, according to Ann Spence, pediatric services manager of the association.

Current weights of the quints are: Raymond, 5 pounds, 10 ounces; Erica, 6 pounds, 12 ounces; Danielle, 7 pounds, 10 ounces; Alexandria, 7 pounds; and Veronica, 7 pounds 4 ounces. They require about eight feedings and 14 to 15 diaper changes per day.

But according to Spence, the L'Esperances have everything pretty organized. "The house was calm, cool and collected," she said. "I was surprised."

The largest bedroom in the new, 2,800-square-foot, four-bedroom home in Springfield Township will be designated the nursery, Raymond said. And the whole family is looking forward to moving in.

When asked if the life would ever be normal for the quints, Michele said, "I want them to be special all by themselves. I will help them work on individual self-esteem so they will be known as Raymond, Danielle, Erica, Veronica and Alexandria, rather than the quints."

RAYMOND AND MICHELE have become accustomed to press conferences since the birth of the babies, believed to be the nation's first "test tube" quintuplets.

MICHELE AND RAYMOND L'Esperance took Alexandria and Veronica, the last of their quintuplets, home from the hospital on Friday. But on Monday, Veronica returned to the hospital due to a reoccurrence of a respiratory problem.

Fate of stumps rests with Legion

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Some of the Lake Oakland stumps have been removed, and the fate of others are uncertain even as they rest on shoreline at the north end of the lake in Independence Township.

"The whole thing is up in the air," said George Kuhn, Oakland County Drain Commissioner.

At a meeting March 12 at American Legion Chief Pontiac Post 377, Legion members delayed their decision on the acceptance or rejection of the stumps until after another meeting to gather the opinions of the about 300 members.

"We told them we'd have to have a meeting between ourselves, and we'd let them know by April," said Al Roper, senior vice commander of the post. "They can't do anything now anyway because the ice is so thin. They'll have to wait until winter."

The portion of Lake Oakland in front of the Legion post is used mostly for fishing and swimming, he said.

The stumps "won't interfere with us," he said. "I think it will be OK for what we want to do. ... There was no problem with us, but we have 300-some members. I'm sure it will be OK with the Legion."

Officials from the DNR could not be reached for comment.

The stumps were originally placed on four areas of the frozen Lake Oakland to replace fish habitat damaged by residents who overzealously cut tree stumps last fall during a four-foot lake lowering authorized by the DNR and the Oakland County Drain Commission.

When residents protested the size and sudden appearance of the stumps, a compromise was reached in three areas, where "substitute logs" of concrete pipes and mats of crushed stone on fabric are to be placed instead of stumps.

The DNR proposed keeping the fourth area natural by placing some of the five-foot stumps in front of the Legion hall, where lake users don't water ski.

Township opposes Blanchard's plan

A resolution was unanimously adopted by the Independence Township Board in opposition to a statement made by Gov. James Blanchard in his 1988 State of the State message in January.

In Blanchard's "The Michigan Strategy," he proposed legislation to stop local governments from using zoning ordinances to prohibit juvenile work camps and other facilities in their communities.

The legislation could also create a loss of local control in zoning for adult foster care homes, billboards and mobile homes, the regulation of commercial forest lands and the siting and management of solid waste facilities.

If Blanchard's proposal were adopted by the Legislature, the township would have no voice in the issues, said Clerk Richard Holman, adding the board members wanted local control to remain as it is.

Residents should have a say in the use of land in the township, he said.

Property in neighboring Springfield Township and in Holly were on the state's list of possible sites for a juvenile work camp last year, and if Blanchard's proposal had been in effect, the residents in the municipalities would have had no voice.

Last year, residents formed a group called RAID (Residents Against Ineffective Detention) and urged meetings between state officials and area residents to help inform both sides of the facts and concerns.

Because of legal and procedural problems, the state temporarily dropped the plans for the 100-bed facility for a work and learn camp for juvenile "first-time" offenders. New plans are under way for a 50-bed facility.

Democrats vote for presidential choice Saturday

The Michigan Democratic Party caucus Saturday is to determine the presidential preference of 138 of Michigan's 151 national delegates.

Voters in Independence, Springfield and Rose townships and Clarkston may cast their votes at the Independence Township Hall, 90 N. Main Street, Clarkston.

Hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, March 26. The polls are open to any registered voter who will be 18 or older by the Nov. 9 general election and who identifies himself or herself as a Democrat. Caucus voters do not have to be registered party members. Seventeen-year-olds who will be eligible to vote in November will be allowed to vote in the caucus.

"We want to include as many people as possible," said Wanda Reager, office manager for the Oakland County Democratic Party. "There's no primary in Michigan, so we want to give everyone a voice."

On the ballot in Michigan are Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis, U.S. Rep. Richard Gephardt of Missouri, U.S. Sen. Albert Gore of Tennessee, the Rev. Jesse Jackson, U.S. Sen. Paul Simon of Illinois and former U.S. Sen. Gary Hart of Colorado.

The actual delegates are to be selected at the May 7 congressional district convention. The delegates chosen at the state convention are to attend the national convention, where a president and vice president will be nominated and a party platform determined.

In the Michigan Republican Party convention Jan. 29 and 30, Vice President George Bush received the most delegates, followed by U.S. Congressman Jack F. Kemp of New York and Pat Robertson of Virginia, respectively.

School isn't easy

Kathy Greenfield

Junior high schools aren't foreign ground to me. As a reporter, photographer and editor, I've spent plenty of time interviewing individuals, snapping pictures and, on occasion, speaking to classes.

So when I was invited to a celebration, called "Come See for Yourself," at Sashabaw Junior High School, I figured there wouldn't be any surprises.

The three-hour visit was in recognition of National Middle School Week. At Sashabaw, I was one of five community members who accepted the invitation.

Roughly two hours were spent in classrooms. I visited four, spending half a class period in algebra, science, drama and computers. A panel discussion, in which the panel of junior high students outnumbered the remaining visitors, was the final event.

Thinking about junior high school is something most people do when they're there and when their children are there - no different than any level of education.

Later, I found myself talking to people about junior high school. A three-hour visit brings back memories and affords lots of time for quiet observation.

Some thoughts follow:

I was impressed with the teachers, something I didn't expect to be a main reaction. I have always respected and admired the job they do, and when that's a given, observing them at work should merely result in a nod-of-the-head reaction.

I like junior high school kids. They're everything intensified: more spontaneous, more honest, more thoughtful, more brash than their younger or older counterparts. I found them refreshing. The best question someone asked me was, "Are you somebody's mother?" That's called jumping right into a conversation.

School isn't easy. After so many years of absence from algebra, I couldn't just sit down and join in the lesson. Ditto science, not to mention my zero classroom knowledge about computers.

Peer pressure is not a new concept, but while it stays the same the details change. I am upset that one student said ninth-graders feel pressure to drink alcoholic beverages at parties. For the first time in my life, I'm finding some appeal in the concept of Prohibition.

Everyone wants to give advice. Each time a youngster expressed an opinion, a visitor was compelled to tell the youngster what he or she should do. I heard advice ranging from how to shake hands to how to ignore your peers. It's no wonder that kids sometimes appear to be not listening.

My opinion that Clarkston school district voters need to increase school taxes was reinforced. I want to be able to say, "Not guilty" to the charges of stuffing kids in classrooms, taking away electives and not providing them with a decent chance to prepare for their futures.

Jim Sherman

Jim's Jottings

It's only been in recent years that I've heard much of Greektown in Detroit. And, it was our kids who made reports from time to time.

Oh, I've read about the activity ... the building, the People Mover stops in Greektown, and Trapper's Alley.

But, I was never there until Saturday night.

There is no particular reason for not going. I've enjoyed Greek parties in the past, having been to St. George's Festivals on Woodward in Pontiac a few times ... lapping up the drink, savoring the kabobs and starving for the pastries.

What moved us to go to Greektown was Oxford's token Greek, Art Voikos. I've come to like Art a lot more since he changed my middle name. I sign myself James A. Sherman; Art calls me James 'Awesome' Sherman. Mother wouldn't mind.

We unashamedly asked Art and his wife, Red, to take us to Greektown. Weddings, funerals and other church services make them frequent visitors, and they could show us around.

Indeed, they did. Their restaurant choice was the Laikon Cafe, 569 Monroe. Art picked us up so we could get there before the lines formed, but it appears the popularity of the area has grown so there is no such time.

Reservations, and maybe our host, made our wait short. The menu needed some interpretation, but mostly we tested Art's authenticity. Then, oh, the basket of bread, the flaming cheese hors d'oeuvres, the pickled squid, and a garlic dip that will ward off colds for 14 years.

We questioned Art's ancestry when he commented on his dislike of garlic. We questioned his taste when he ordered spinach pie.

For the rest of us it was lamb ... chops and stew ... extremely tasty. One other comment about the menu. I haven't seen dinner prices that low since the 60's.

We waddled out of the Laikon and took a much needed walk to Bouzouki's. It was for the walk and an after dinner repast that we went there. The fact that they feature belly dancers had nothing to do with our decision.

We took a slight detour heading away from Greektown. During Art's saloon owning career (he owns Rob's Bar in Oxford now) he has, of course, met many entertainers. One whom he has known for 40 years (though that doesn't mean Art has been in the business 40 years -- he looks 41), is Jerry Robinson.

This night he was at his piano at JoAnn's Restaurant and Lounge, 6700 E. 8 Mile. If we had gone to the 1940 Chop House on Jefferson between 5 and 7 we could have listened to Jerry there.

At our table he said at 17 he knew what he wanted to do and he's been doing it ever since, and he's now 64. He had a 3-piece band at London Chop House some years ago for over 4 years, and has played in many of Detroit's finest places.

Listening to a piano being played like that is enough to make me a night person. Name it and Jerry Robinson can play it, and when he sings Nat King Cole it's mellow, mellow, mellow.

Fun evenings like Saturday night are to be savored in the mind just as the food was savored by the body.

The children suffer Physician praise

I have been reading for the past few months all the pros and cons of the Clarkston schools millage. I would now like to add my own opinion to the list.

My family and I moved from Waterford school district seven years ago to Clarkston, because of the schools. My two children, Keith and Michael, didn't want to continue going to school in Waterford because of the same kind of problems plaguing the schools there.

My 19-year-old son, Keith, graduated from Clarkston High School in 1986. He got his chance for a great education in the Clarkston school system. He is currently working and becoming a part of this community.

I always thought this was what it was all about, the children. How many of you parents have asked your children how they feel about the millage election?

My youngest son, Michael, is a junior at Clarkston High School this year, and when we discussed this subject, he was quick to say he wished everyone would think about the children when they get their next chance to vote on the millage.

If a cut means losing the sports program and a shorter day for students, don't you think we should all take another look at what we decide to do about this issue?

Is this really the kind of education you want for your children or grandchildren? I think not.

I'm not saying my husband and I are happy to pay more in taxes, but when you look at WHO really suffers, it's another story.

We, on the other hand, would be willing to pay any amount to have the high standards of education that every child deserves.

Let's get the pride back in Clarkston where it belongs! Let's give every child in our community the gift of knowledge that we wanted for our own children.

Brenda Cox

I'm writing about the article in Outlook in The Clarkston News, Section B, on March 9 about Clarkston Foot Specialists Dr. David Hunter and Dr. Mayer Salama.

In this past year, 1987, I had foot surgery done on both feet. Dr. Hunter was the one who did the surgery. I feel he is an excellent doctor.

He made the surgery my choice and took the time to point out what could happen. He is very willing to spend the time talking with you. I find this very admirable and hard to find in doctors today.

Jaycees come through

The North Oakland SCAMP Funding Corp. would like to extend a thank you to the Clarkston Jaycees for their generous donation of $1,000.

Clarkston SCAMP is in its 13th year of providing a five-week summer experience for children and young adults with special needs. It is with the efforts of many caring individuals and groups, such as the Clarkston Jaycees, that this unique program becomes a reality each year, and we are certainly grateful for their continued support.

'If it Fitz . . .'

What
a hoot!

Jim
Fitzgerald

Gov. Blanchard recently said he was afraid casino gambling in Detroit would lead young people to believe they could get rich without education and hard work.

Isn't that a hoot? What does the governor think about the ubiquitous advertising for the state lottery - in newspapers, on TV, radio and billboards, and pulled by helicopter? "Someone will win - why not you?"

Why not, kid? The odds are only about 7,000,000 to 1 against you.

I've never been to a racetrack. I'll go when a horse tells me he enjoys being whipped and kicked and exhausted just so some bozo gamblers can bet on him. But Lewis Herrick of Lathrup Village has been to the races, and this is what he said in a letter to the Free Press:

"Gov. Blanchard . . . or his appointees should be witness to the goings-on at Ladbroke Detroit Race Course on any given Sunday or holiday to observe the pathetic scene when track management offers free admission to ladies and 'their children.' They would be devastated to see children . . . in all sorts of unpleasant surroundings . . . the three- to six-year-olds literally are left alone to play on floors in less than sanitary conditions. Others, aged ten to thirteen, are left to their own vices, causing all kinds of mischief as they are not chaperoned by a responsible adult."

"But even more disheartening is overhearing these children asking their parent or parents to bet on a horse for them."

How does the governor like that for leading children to believe they can get money without working for it?

How about the youngsters, in grocery stores and shopping malls, who see their parents stand in line to buy lottery tickets? What do bingo mothers tell their children?

The hypocrisy is monumental.

Lottery messages all over

Does Gov. Blanchard really believe casinos would have a worse influence on children than the lottery? In Las Vegas and Atlantic City, you must be 21 to enter a casino. In Michigan and dozens of other states, a five-year-old can look at TV and see what a joyous occasion it is when some lucky gambler wins the lottery. There's nothing on the 6 o'clock news about the mother who spends $20 a week on the lottery but doesn't feed her children properly.

If the governor wants to oppose casino gambling, that's fine. Most people would say he's on the side of the angels. But it's nonsense for him to give children as a reason. Statewide, our children are continually bombarded with colorful hype about the marvelous chance to get rich quick playing the lottery. They watch adults gobble the bait.

The influence of a few Detroit casinos on children would be piddling compared to a TV feature about a man who bought a plush home, three cars and a yacht with lottery winnings. If Blanchard doesn't realize that, we've got a dumb governor.

When it comes to gambling and children, perhaps the toughest thing is making a child understand why it's legal to bet a dollar on the lottery but against the law to put a quarter in a slot machine. Or why it's lawful to go to the track and bet on horse races all over the country, but illegal to bet on blackjack and dice.

How do you justify that kind of discrimination to a child? Moral grounds are crumbly - no one is forced to gamble, and Mother plays the lottery. Casinos will attract crime and high-rollers? That's another hoot. We already have crime up to our eyebrows, and the welfare mother dreaming of hitting it big can easily spend a bigger percentage of her income on lottery tickets than a high-roller spends on craps.

No way would gambling even come close to solving all Detroit's problems. It would merely provide a few jobs and some glitz to attract tourists - to downtown, not Belle Isle, please. It's easy to be against casinos, but I can't be that hypocritical.

I'll change my mind when Gov. Blanchard says the state lottery should be outlawed because it's a bad influence on youngsters.

Eyes

By Bruce A. Stewart

Back to the road and back to the range.

I gotta believe this is insane.

Somewhere in the shadow of your eyes,
I feel my goodbyes.

But how can I read what's on your mind.

I'm taken by surprise with those glorious eyes.

Bringing me down and pulling out the alibis.

So when I say I don't know your place,

Don't betray me with that face.

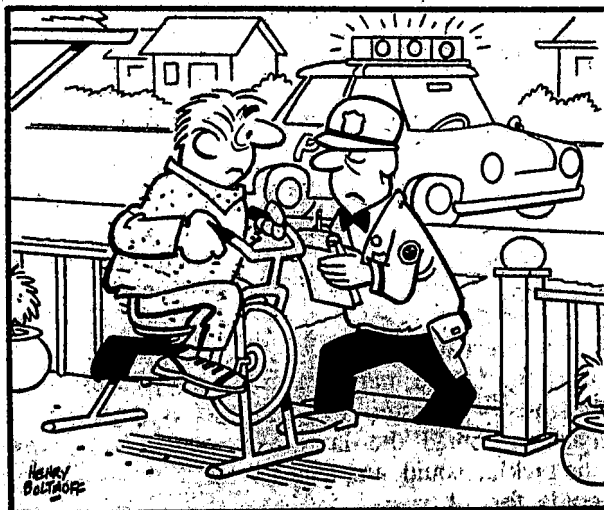

Show me I've always been blind and a little too kind.

Take the color from my heart and ask not why it starts.

Touch my face with the look of beauty and reply.

Take me with those glorious eyes.

Bruce A. Stewart resides in Independence Township.

As tornado season nears . . .

You are driving down the road and you notice the sky has turned unusually dark.

As it begins to rain you hear a noise that resembles the sound of a roaring train and in the not so far distance you spot a gray, whirling funnel cloud. What would you do?

One of nature's most catastrophic forms is the tornado. A tornado travels at an incredible speed sometimes reaching 300 miles per hour, giving it the power to tear through a brick building as if it were made of paper.

It can drive a piece of straw through the center of a tree and can toss cars as if they were children's toys.

The destructive path of the tornado cannot be stopped, but with education we can be prepared for its menacing effects.

"When a tornado WATCH is issued it means conditions are right for a tornado to develop. Be prepared to take shelter and keep informed on the latest weather conditions," said Gail Christie, manager of EMS/Emergency-Management in Pontiac.

Oakland County EMS/Emergency-Management offers the following advice to help ensure your safety during the tornado season.

- A tornado warning means a tornado has been sighted and confirmed in the area. Take cover immediately.

- When seeking shelter from a tornado take a flashlight and a transistor radio into the shelter area with you. Go to the center of your basement and take cover under a workbench, heavy table, or go under a stairway.

- If no basement is available, seek shelter in the center of the house, in a closet or bathroom with no windows.

- Never go near windows when a tornado threatens and do not take the time to open one before taking cover.

- If you are in a mobile home or car, leave immediately and take cover in the nearest permanent structure or lie flat on the ground in the nearest ditch or ravine. Protect your head and body by covering yourself with a blanket or sleeping bag.

For additional information about tornado safety or Tornado Safety Week, contact Christie at EMS/Emergency-Management, 858-5300.

Building director renamed to EDC

Beverly McElmeel was reappointed March 11 to another six-year term as a resident agent on the Independence Township Economic Development Corporation (EDC).

The township board unanimously approved the appointment of McElmeel, who also is director of the township building department.

The EDC was established to encourage commercial development by approving the financing of local developments with tax-exempt bonding if the development meets federal regulations.

2 board of education seats up for election

Petitions for candidates for the Clarkston Community Schools Board of Education are now available at the administration office, 6389 Clarkston Rd.

Two seats, currently held by Thomas Bills and John Needham, are up for election on June 13. The terms are for four years.

Twenty valid signatures are required on the petitions, which means that 20 of those who sign must be registered voters in the Clarkston school district.

Candidates must sign an affidavit of identity, also available at the administration office, and both forms must be submitted by April 11 at 4 p.m.

Office hours at the administration office are 7:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. The office will be closed Good Friday, April 1, and hours will be shortened during to 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. during Easter week, April 4-8.

Jobs may change

Notices that they could lose their existing posts are going to four Clarkston school district administrators. In two motions March 14, the board of education voted 4-0 to approve the actions.

Marilyn Allyn, a coordinator in the Community Education Department, and Paul Tungate, half-time athletic director, will be notified that they could be reassigned to non-administrative positions.

Alberta Ellis, director of curriculum services, and Virginia Farmer, assistant principal at Clarkston Junior High School, will be notified that they could be reassigned to other administrative positions.

As he made the recommendation for the notices, which must be presented to administrators 90 days before the pending changes, Superintendent Milford Mason said the reasons were the overall financial condition of the school district and an anticipated reduction in state aid.

Independence OKs cable-TV purchase

Parades, concerts, sporting events and township and village meetings could soon be seen regularly on Independence-Clarkston cable-TV Channel 65.

The purchase of a used van and two color video cameras was approved unanimously by the township board March 15.

The used cargo van is to provide transportation for the new cameras and the remote projection studio and shouldn't cost more than $9,000, said Clerk Richard Holman after the meeting.

The two Sony 3000 camera packages are to cost $19,799.16 from Video Concepts, Southfield, he said.

The new cameras are to replace two older cameras that have been in and out of repair for two years. The older two are to be used for portable video cassette recorders, and the new cameras are to be used with the new remote production studio in the van, he said.

Road improvement costs split

Stickney and Whipple Lake roads are to be improved with Tri-Party money this year in Independence Township.

Tri-Party projects in the township are funded by a one-third contribution from each: Oakland County general fund, the Oakland County Road Commission and Independence Township.

A 900-foot stretch of Stickney Road is to be widened east of Pine Knob Road, estimated to cost $32,000. The township's portion is about $10,666.

Whipple Lake Road is to be improved with gravel and drainage ditches between Eston and Pine Knob roads, estimated to cost $82,000. The township's portion is about $27,333.

A $14,000 excess is to be used for gravel on township dirt roads.

Township population, county road mileage and community accident history are the criteria used to allocate Tri-Party money.

Clarkston athletes win honors

Besides enjoying much success as a team, many athletes from Clarkston High School won post-season honors for outstanding performances during the year, from their league and teammates alike.

Basketball

All-League, first team
Mike Barnes

Second team
Jeff Tungate

Honorable Mention
Josh Newblatt
Chip Galley

Barnes, a senior, was named the team's most valuable player. He also won a $1,000 scholarship from Smith's Disposal in memory of Steve Secatch.

Fellow classmates Jeff Tungate and Josh Newblatt were honored with the John Kirchgessner Award for their leadership abilities.

James Huttenlocher won the Steve Secatch Memorial Award as the most improved player on the team.

Volleyball

All-League, first team
Ali Fedio

Second team
Tara Carncross
Jenny Grohs

Honorable Mention
Sue McKoin
Heather Behrens

Carncross, a senior, was tabbed as the team's most valuable player for the 1987-88 season. She also set a school record with 45 percent perfect-passes percentage this year.

Stacy Grutza won the most improved player award for the Wolves. The junior was the team manager last season.

Wrestling

All-League, first team
Jason Campbell, at 185 pounds
Dave London, at 119 pounds

Second team
Troy Martin, at 198 pounds

Third team
Eric Wall, at 105 pounds
Mark Oswald, at Heavyweight
John Terpstra, at 132 pounds

Campbell and London were named the co-MVP of the team this season.

Campbell, a junior, also won the Mr. Victory, Pin Man and Quick Pin awards.

The most improved wrestler was Matt Boucard at 98 pounds. The Coach's Award went to Terpstra.

Skating

All-League, first team
Shelley Purdy

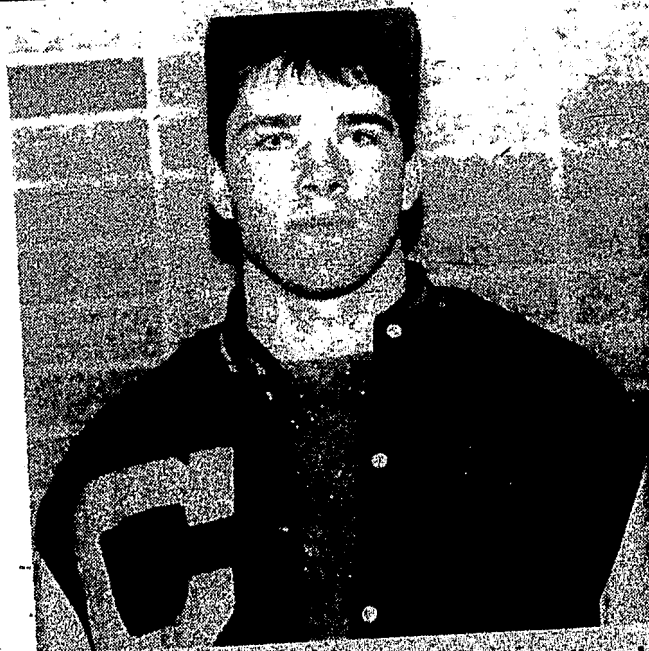

ALI FEDIO stars in three sports for the Wolves: basketball, volleyball and track.

SHELLEY PURDY is the lone Clarkston representative on the All-League team.

MIKE BARNES' steady play in the backcourt for the Wolves make him an excellent selection for the All-League team. He also won a scholarship from Smith's Disposal in memory of Steve Secatch.

VARSITY WRESTLERS Jason Campbell and Dave London both make the All-League team for the Clarkston Wolves. They also shared the team's Most Valuable Player award.

Madness defined

Peter Auchter

"March Madness" is a mania unlike all others on God's green Earth.

It's when fans of a sport, in which grown men run around in colorful short shorts, fall victim to playoff fever. At this time there is no known cure.

Webster's defines "madness" as: 1. state of being mad; insanity. 2. Rabies. 3. Senseless folly. 4. Frenzy; rage.

Hmmm, the first two possibilities don't apply to basketball fans (at least not around here), but the last two sure do.

Senseless folly, frenzy and rage are all a part of "March Madness."

The first part brings to mind thoughts of fans painting their faces in their school colors and tossing toilet paper or other objects on the court.

Frenzy and rage come into play once the games begin. Winners are deliriously happy while losers scowl at officials, opponents and mostly themselves.

If sportswriters happen to be in the vicinity, all of a sudden they become the scapegoat. (I like my bucket of water on the rocks, please.)

Unlike most fans in the area - who only attend games when their favorite teams are involved - sportswriters get the opportunity to witness "March Madness" day-in and day-out.

At the local level, I had the chance to see Clarkston, Springfield Christian and various parks and recreation teams from Independence Township. Each was a unique entity.

Fans crawled out of the woodwork to see the Wolves play this year, unfortunately the playoffs didn't last too long. The fans slinked away from the Clarkston district in droves once the home team was eliminated.

Too bad, they missed some good basketball. Once the high school gym was emptied of crazy high school fans, the parks and recreation leagues moved in.

No fanfare here, just a lot of huffing and puffing as the players raced up and down the court time and time again. The only madness here is figuring out why these guys torture their bodies every week.

The American Association of Christian Schools Midwest Regional Tournament at Springfield Christian Academy was a totally different type of madness.

The Eagles were shooting for a chance at a national title a couple of Saturdays ago, and I was there capturing it all on film.

There was no senseless folly, frenzy or rage, just a group of dedicated students cheering on their favorite team.

When it was all over, the fans and players shed a few tears and quietly exited the gym until next year.

As an outsider peering on their game, I couldn't help but get caught up in it. The emotions were real.

This is "March Madness." Nothing else in the world comes close to matching it.

DEAN MOSCOVIC plays three sports at Brother Rice High School, but wrestling is the most thrilling and rewarding, he says.

Experience is on his side

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

High expectations and pressure can easily tie stomach muscles into knots even a large dose of Alka-Seltzer won't soothe.

Dean Moscovic, an Independence Township resident, learned a lot about nerves during his first attempt at capturing a state crown in 1987. He attacked the meet differently this year.

"I was a lot more mentally tough, that was one of the biggest things," he said. "I felt a little more strong also."

The junior at Brother Rice High School finished the 1987-88 season unbeaten in his weight class.

He then wrestled the state title away from four opponents in Battle Creek during the 41st annual championships, the last weekend in February.

Moscovic finished the season with a 57-0 record in his 155-pound weight class, a feat he didn't find easy.

"It's hard," he said. "You have to hate to lose."

Wrestling in an event as large as the state tournament can be unnerving for a young wrestler, and, as Moscovic noted, it seems as though all eyes are trained on your every move.

But, the attention and mental toughness required to succeed in the sport are what attracted him.

Moscovic also plays football and baseball at

New program helps teachers get fit

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

For many Clarkston High School teachers, the ends certainly justify the means.

A recent survey among teachers in the school district revealed a desire for a wellness training program. That was all CHS teacher Rebecca Craig, also an aerobics instructor, needed to know.

She recently started a fitness program for teachers to help them lose weight, eat better and get into shape for summer.

Some people like to walk, others work with weights; it doesn't matter to Craig what the teachers do - just as long as they get into shape.

"It's nice to see them get started," she said. "Some of the people who are now walking are ones you would have never expected."

Teachers walk before school, after school or on their own, she added. They must walk at least three times a week.

Craig first inquired about beginning a health program for teachers two years ago, but the support from the masses never materialized as it has this year, she said.

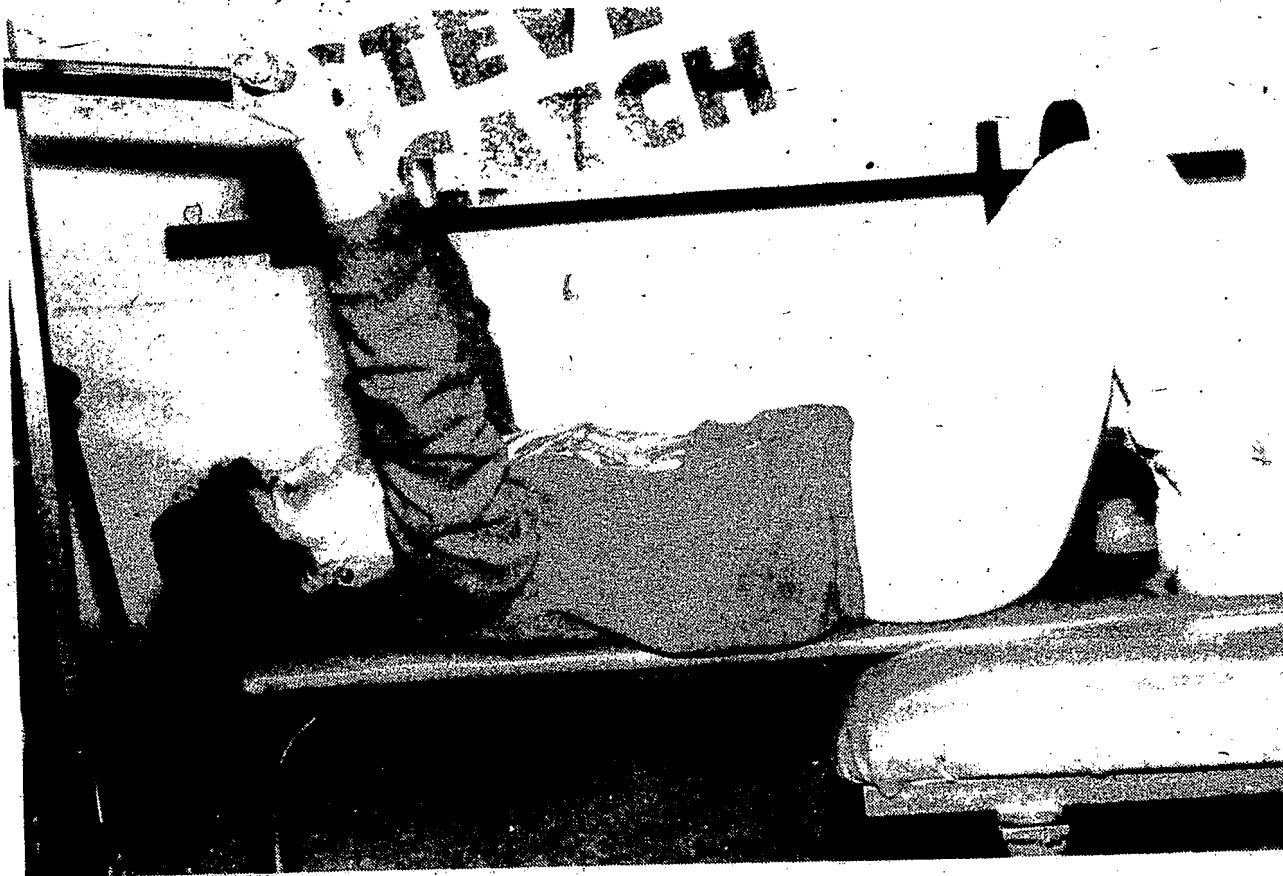

"I hope it will grow and get bigger and bigger," she said, adding that healthy employees are better workers. More than 100 teachers signed up for the stress management talks and 30 are working out in the wellness program.

The top five concerns teachers listed in the survey were fitness, nutrition, weight loss, safety and stress management.

Decaffeinated coffee and healthy snacks are now available in the teachers' lounge so people can better control their diets, she said.

Since the school district dealt with the stress factor, Craig concentrated on developing a fitness program anyone could follow. As a result, three new members are joining the wellness program every week.

(See WELLNESS, Page 26)

BRAKE PRICES?

UNTIL THEY PULL
THE WHEELS,
THEY'RE PULLING YOUR LEG.

Think about it. How do some brake places know what your next job'll cost if they've never seen your brakes to begin with? Answer: they don't.

Fact is, there's no way anyone can figure out exactly what the price will be. There are just too many possibilities.

That's why at Midas, we pull all four wheels before every brake job. To get inside your brakes. To inspect them. To positively determine what's gone wrong. From a nine dollar can of fluid to a new master cylinder.

And when we're finished, we'll give you a pinpoint estimate of the entire job. With a price that won't go up when the job's done. That's our promise to you.

So when it comes time to pay, you'll have a leg to stand on.

DNR seeks to save parks

An all-out law enforcement effort is under way by the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) to stop the devastation of state park, state recreation area and wildlife/game area lands caused by the illegal use of off-road vehicles (ORV).

ORVs include quad-runners, dirt bikes, 4x4s, and other off-road, wheeled recreational vehicles. Snowmobiles are not wheeled vehicles and may use state areas posted for snowmobile use when there is at least a 4-inch base of snow.

According to DNR Parks Division Chief Jack Butterfield, the problem is getting out of control, especially on state lands in southern Michigan.

"Park rangers and law enforcement officers are authorized to and will cite anyone caught riding ORVs on these lands," he said.

Driving ORVs in non-designated areas in Michigan is a misdemeanor with a penalty of up to 90 days in jail and/or a $100 fine. Driving unlicensed, motorized vehicles on public roads is also illegal and punishable with fines and jail sentences as well as impounding of the vehicle.

Jean Kokx, a park ranger at the Ortonville Recreation Area, said that especially this time of year ORVs become a big problem in parks. The weather gets nice, people get out on their ORVs, and the ground is still very fragile.

Other local areas that have ORV problems, Kokx said, include the Bald Mountain Recreation Area and Holly Recreation Area.

DNR officials report illegal ORV activity in these and other state areas has stripped and eroded vegetative land cover, disrupted wildlife and jeopardized pedestrian safety.

The only state park with a designated ORV area is Silver Lake State Park in Oceana County, on the west side of the state, according to the DNR. All other state park, state recreation areas and wildlife/game areas are off-limits to ORVs.

The state maintains over 1,600 miles of trails for ORV use in northern Michigan, including groomed woodland trails on state forest land in the Upper Peninsula and the northern half of the Lower Peninsula. An additional 1,240 acres are open to ORV use at the Motorsport Area in Roscommon County.

A list of ORV trails are contained in the Michigan Cross Country Cycle Trails guide, published annually by the DNR. Guides are available at all DNR offices or through DNR's Information Services Center, P.O. Box 30028, Lansing, MI 48909 (517-373-1220).

Wellness is a hit at CHS

One of the teachers involved is James MacArthur. The computer teacher works out in the weight room on Monday and Wednesday evenings for a couple of hours with fellow instructors.

His interest in the wellness program began several years ago when he developed a weight lifting program for girls at Clarkston High. He fills the same role now, helping teachers tone their bodies.

Working with weights isn't easy, the teachers say, but the results are worth it.

With the summer season fast approaching, the incentive was there for English teacher Linda Denstaedt.

"After two kids I decided I needed to do something," she said.

The aches and pains associated with a good workout even can be beneficial for those not even associated with the program.

While the teachers work out in the weight room or walk in the halls at the high school, students often are impressed with what they see, said Craig.

"It's a good role model for the kids," she said. "They see us (working out) and say, 'Hey, that's neat!'"

Township teen captures title

Brother Rice. He is a defensive safety on the gridiron and a centerfielder on the diamond. Nothing, he said, matches the individual thrill that comes from pinning an opponent in a wrestling meet.

"It's something that grows on you," he said. "It's a (whole) different mentality."

The winning mind-set he gets on the mat carries over. When playing baseball or football and the game is on the line, he wants to make the big play, he said.

Moscovic, son of Richard and Toni of Waldon Road, used to hang around the high school wrestlers when he was in sixth grade. The Wolves' coach at that time was Rick Detkowski.

He credits Detkowski with helping develop his winning style on the mat. Even today, Moscovich sees the former high school coach at his meets and he still learns from him, he said.

As a junior, Moscovich has reached the pinnacle of success for a high school wrestler. But that doesn't mean the fun has gone out of the sport. It's just starting.

"It's hard to be satisfied," he said. "There always will be new guys to wrestle."

"I know it will be a challenge and I'll be ready for it."

Clinic for cheering

A cheer clinic, open to boys and girls from second grade up, is planned Saturday, March 26, by the Clarkston High School cheerleaders.

Participants may sign up at the door and pay the $3 fee, which includes a beverage. They should bring a sack lunch and wear shorts and tennis shoes.

The clinic is to run from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. in the Clarkston Junior High School gymnasium.

Proceeds will be used to help pay for the cheerleaders' uniforms.

Common sense approach can prevent accidental poisonings

Through March 26, the Emergency department at Crittenton Hospital, Rochester, will offer a free packet with tips on preventing childhood poisonings in the home.

The kit includes a telephone sticker listing the number for the Poison Control Center at Children's Hospital.

Poisoning follows car accidents as the second leading cause of death among toddlers in the United States. The statistic is sad because most could have been prevented, according to the hospital staff.

"The most common poisons ingested by children are household products such as medications, paints and insecticides," said Brad Walters, MD, Crittenton Emergency department. "These products are especially dangerous to children since they are easily accessible in most homes."

Walters advised parents to lock all household and garden products, as well as medications. Childproof locks prevent young hands from getting into cabinets, but leave the cabinets easily accessible to adults.

"Only a locked cabinet will do," said Walters. "A high shelf is not adequate protection for the inquisitive child."

Not only are household products dangerous, but household plants also pose a threat to curious children. "Some plants are very poisonous and many of these are house plants," said Emergency department Head Nurse Maggie Corey.

What should a parent do if a poisoning occurs or if it is suspected that a poisonous substance was ingested by a child?

"The very first thing adults should do is the obvious," said Walters. "Remove the poison so no further ingestion can occur, and make sure the child is breathing and awake."

"If there is even any suspected ingestion of a toxic substance, including a medication, it's important that parents contact the Poison Control Center before going to the emergency room," said Corey.

The phone number for the Children's Hospital Poison Control Center is 745-5711.

Walters advised that Ipecac, a syrup that induces vomiting, should be kept at every home where there are children. However, Ipecac should only be administered under the direction of a physician or guidance of the contact person at the Poison Control Center phone number.

The Emergency personnel offered the following tips to reduce the risk of childhood poisonings:

- * Lock up all medicines.
- * Never refer to medicines as candy.
- * Avoid taking medicines in the presence of your child.
- * Never store medicines near food.
- * Discard and destroy old products and unused medicines.
- * If you are called away to the phone or doorbell, be sure all boxes containing medicines or household products are put away.
- * If there is a poisoning, call for help promptly and don't panic.

Business Briefs

She opts for diamond

March 12 was a lucky day for Springfield Township resident Rhoda Haight. That was the day she became the $1,000 grand prize winner at Waterfall Jewelers' ninth semi-annual anniversary celebration.

The family-owned jewelry store is located at 5649 Dixie Highway in Waterfall Plaza. The three-day anniversary celebration March 10-12 culminated with a drawing for the $1,000 prize at 5 p.m.

According to Chris Strong, one of the family members at Waterfall Jewelers, Haight has already picked out a diamond ring.

Haight said she was very surprised and excited when they called to tell her she won.

"I was the luckiest girl in town," she said.

Peterson is concerts director

Kari E. Peterson has been appointed to the position of Concerts Director at San Jose State University, San Jose, Calif.

A former Clarkston resident, Peterson is a 1984 graduate of Michigan State University, East Lansing.

She is currently studying graphic design at San Jose State University and residing with her husband, John Fletcher, in Campbell, Calif. She is the daughter of Ken and Elaine Peterson of Independence Township.

Retired astronomer calls Clarkston home

BY CAROLYN WALKER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

"There are more things in heaven and earth, Horatio, than are dreamt of in your philosophy."
Hamlet: Act 1, Scene 5

There are answers to some of the heavenly mysteries that puzzled Horatio centuries ago.

If he could leap from the pages of Shakespeare and hurdle time, he might find them in the presence of Clarkston's Ruth Hedeman.

Hedeman, 77, is a retired astronomer who spent much of her adult life studying the sun and its effects on the earth from the McMath-Hurlbert observatory near Lake Angelus.

The prestigious observatory, founded in 1930 by Dr. Robert McMath, his father Francis C. McMath and Judge Henry S. Hurlbert, could have been Clarkston's, Hedeman says.

But, alas, it was not to be. Discouraged by Clarkstonites from building the observatory along the shores of Deer Lake, where they vacationed, the McMaths erected the structure, instead, in a corner of a garden near their Lake Angelus home.

Civil engineers and businessmen by trade, the McMaths were deeply interested in astronomy as an avocation, Hedeman says.

At the observatory, "they applied photographic techniques to their study of the stars, moon and planets," she says.

"The grounds, the buildings and the solar telescope were deeded to the University of Michigan in the early '30s and Dr. McMath was appointed as its first director. Much fundamental, basic research in the study of the sun was done there. It was a unique institution known all over the world."

Hedeman was part of that excitement.

Calling herself a "misplaced Marylander," Hedeman says her interest in astronomy dates back to her days as a student at Baltimore's Goucher College, where mathematics majors were allowed to study astronomy.

A 1931 graduate, Hedeman taught mathematics in Baltimore before becoming a WAVE in the United States Naval Reserve, where she was an aerological officer during World War II. Her job involved forecasting the weather for the Navy.

THE SUN'S ACTIVITIES were the focus of studies by astronomer Ruth Hedeman. She did most of her work at the McMath-Hurlbert observatory near Lake Angelus.

Later, taking advantage of the G.I. Bill of Rights, she forsook mathematics in 1945 to pursue a master of science degree in astronomy at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor.

While a graduate student, she worked as an assistant at the university-owned observatory, becoming a staff member following her graduation.

Her research there, along with that of colleague Dr. Helen Dodson Prince, focused on activities on the sun and their subsequent effects on the earth and its atmosphere.

Reflections

Wednesday, March 23, 1988

Citing examples, Hedeman says she studied films of solar flares. Ejected from the sun at the speed of light, energy from a solar flare reaches the earth in eight minutes, influencing such things as radio waves, power transmissions, electrical currents, X-rays and cosmic rays, she says. These events would, in turn, make an impact on such organizations as power companies, the military and the space agency.

"These can have tremendous effects on the earth,"

Classroom project passes test of time

A STATE MAP and a robin are the themes for the covers for the "Michigan History Keepsakes" of Ben Gabriel and Beth Fletcher, fourth-graders in Joy McCurdy's class.

"Michigan History Keepsakes" of Ben Gabriel and Beth Fletcher, fourth-graders in Joy McCurdy's class.

Education, just as everything else, changes over the years, but some classroom projects are timeless.

For over 20 years, Joy McCurdy's fourth-grade pupils have studied Michigan and put together their personal "Michigan History Keepsakes."

The pupils work on state-related history, geography and map skills from February until the end of the school year, and they each design a cover for their collection. For over 20 years, volunteer students and Clarkston Junior High School shop teacher Tom Lamm have cut the covers to size for the project.

Then the fourth-graders choose a design and use wood-burning tools and colored pencils to create the keepsakes.

"I have a lot of seniors coming back to me and saying, 'I still have my Michigan book,'" McCurdy said, and one of her current pupils, Michelle Mason, is the daughter of a former pupil who does, indeed, still have the book she created years ago in McCurdy's classroom.

After fourth-graders Beth Fletcher and Ben Gabriel demonstrated the wood-burning process with their completed covers, they expressed their opinions of the project and their plans for the books they will take home in June.

"I think it's pretty fun. We learn about Michigan and do all the projects," said Ben. "I'm just going to keep (the book) for a long time, and I'm going to show it to my parents."

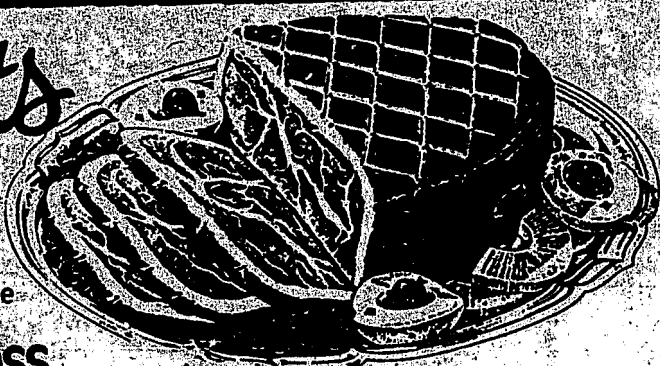

"I like it because I learned some things that I didn't know. If we do some more projects like this next year, then I can know what I learned this year," said Beth. "I'll keep it, and every once in a while, I'll probably take it out and look at it."

The project will culminate with a field trip to Lansing in May, including a visit to the state Historical Museum and lunch in the Stevens T. Mason cafeteria, named after the state's first governor.

This year, the pupils will also visit a furrier in Birmingham for a lesson on the current process of working with pelts, because trapping for fur was the state's first industry, McCurdy said.

Green and White Club hosts citizens at CJHS

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Adopt a Citizen day at Clarkston Junior High School was really "rad" (short for radical, meaning cool or good).

It had been 10 years since I had been a student at CJHS, and except for their hair styles, clothing and slang, the students in the newly formed Green and White Club could have been my peers when I attended school.

They were polite and enthusiastic toward their 14 visitors, whom they invited for lunch and class during National Middle Level Education Week.

As Principal Duane Lewis addressed the group of 30 or so people in Room 5 on St. Patrick's Day, it started to come back to me.

And with the ringing of the bell and the trip to Mr. Craven's fourth-hour history class, I felt almost as if I had never left CJHS 10 years ago.

Students were talking, laughing and hurrying to get their conversations in before the bell rang. Lockers slammed, and with the second bell, the halls were suddenly silent.

Fortunately, I reached Mr. Craven's 8th-grade history class just in time, with the help of ninth-grader Amy Tower, who had adopted me for the day and who showed me the ropes again at CJHS.

After we were seated, a latecomer arrived, and snickers and "burns" came from the other students.

But Jacob Snapp didn't seem to mind. He groaned a little about being late, and he laughed. Then he put his books on his desk and took his place at the back of the room. He was bad (pronounced baaaad, meaning good or cool).

For the third time, he had to stand all hour for being late, he explained. If he's late one more time, he'll have detention, he said. But it didn't seem to bother him.

No, things hadn't changed much.

Later in the class and later at lunch, some of the students helped figure out what had changed in a decade.

Ten years ago, if you saw someone who was good looking, you referred to them as a fox or a hunk, I told them.

Although they were polite, they couldn't help giggling. It was clear that I had "biffed," or made a mistake.

Now, you would say, "She's hot!" or "Sweet!" or "He's got the look!" they told me. Otherwise, you would be considered a "geek" or a "nerd."

Fingers pointed at a classmate when a "brownie hound" was explained. Everyone knows a brownie hound (or brown-nose) is someone who's in good with the teachers, said Holly Hetherington.

They had classifications for everyone.

People who participate in sports are called jocks or musclemen. Smart people are called brainers or dexters (a Poindexter without the poin).

Surfers or skaters wear their bangs long enough to cover their eyes, and they wear surfer clothes - bright colors, baggy shirts, shorts and pants. And they skateboard.

Burnouts or high-ons or friers smoke and wear their hair long and wear black T-shirts with names of rock groups on them.

They all have a universal greeting, though. It used to be "Hey, Dude!" Now it's "Hey, Jake!" And instead of saying, "Hi, how are you?" they say, "What's up?" or "How's it going?"

Now, if you forget your pencil, you might try to

Special awards trio

Special awards were presented to three entries in the annual science fair for grades one through seven at Our Lady of the Lakes Elementary School.

Courtney Scribner, grade five, won the Grand Award for "Do Honey Bees Have a Favorite Color?"

Douglas Staszak, grade five, was selected to have his project idea, "How Do Muscles Work?", incorporated into the "Growing Healthy" program used in Oakland County schools.

Shannon Carolin, grade five, will have her project, "What Is a Tornado?", on display at the Oakland County offices during Tornado Safety Week.

The fair was Feb. 24 at the school on Dixie Highway in Waterford Township.

New arrival

Bruce and Marcia Mercado of Snowapple Drive, Independence Township, are the parents of a baby girl.

Kristen Marie was born March 3 at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac. She weighed 7 pounds, 3 ounces and measured 19-1/2 inches long.

She was greeted at home by her 3-year-old sister, Stacey.

Grandparents are Milford and JoAnne Mason of Independence Township and Philip and Marion Mercado of Rochester.

Great-grandparents are Mary Mason of Charlotte and Harold and Mildred Smith of Hastings.

SUPER SPELLER: Evan Brown spelled auditorium, the word missed by the runner-up, and gymnasium to win top spot in the Pine Knob Elementary School Spelling Bee on March 11. "I liked it, because everybody said, 'Congratulations' and they said it over the P.A. and stuff," said the fifth-grader. Evan and the other top spellers from his school will join the fifth-grade winners from the Clarkston school district's five elementary schools at a district spelling bee on May 4. From Pine Knob, those eligible to compete are Evan, Ryan Schilling, Aaron Yates, Kelly Wormnest and Amanda Thornton. Holly Neville is the alternate.

Pizza party is reading reward

Reading is alive and well at Pine Knob Elementary School, says Principal George White, and he has figures to back up his claim.

The school's "Book It" reading incentive program, which began five months ago, ended last week. During the time period, the school's pupils read 6,131 books and 82 percent, or 371 pupils, participated in the reading fest.

"It's turned out to be very, very successful," said White.

Book It was sponsored at Pine Knob and at schools across the nation by Pizza Hut. As an incentive to read, the firm rewarded each child who reached a monthly goal with a free pan-sized pizza and every class in which every pupil reached the monthly goal four out of five months had a pizza party. At Pine Knob, four of the 20 classrooms partied last week.

This was the first year for the program at Pine Knob, and White said he's so pleased with the results that he plans a repeat next year.

A DESKTOP pizza party is the reward for class participation in Book It, and Jason Hughes munches away contentedly.

Engagement

TOUTANT-DENEEN: Mr. and Mrs. Bernard L. Toutant of Snowapple Drive, Independence Township, announce the engagement of their daughter Paula Suzanne to Daniel James Deneen, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Deneen of Waterford Township. A Sept. 10 wedding is planned.

At college

Jodi Trzcinski is playing first base on Alma College's women's softball team, which plays its first home game of the season against Aquinas College on March 31.

A freshman biochemistry major at Alma, Trzcinski is a graduate of Our Lady of the Lakes High School. She resides in the Clarkston area.

***

Julie Monroe, a sophomore at Central Michigan University, Mt. Pleasant, is vice president of the Student Foundation.

The 50-member organization is involved in student-alumni relations, community services and campus programs.

Monroe, a graduate of Clarkston High School, is studying secondary education and mathematics at CMU. Her parents are Albert and Gara Monroe.

***

Michael Peterson will be a featured performer in the Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia American Music Concert on March 27 at Central Michigan University, Mt. Pleasant. Peterson, a Clarkston area resident, is a sophomore at CMU. He plays the bass-baritone.

Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia is a professional music fraternity that promotes creativity, performance, education and research in American music.

Grads

David S. Batchelor and Scott G. Miller have graduated from the ITT Technical Institute in Indianapolis, Ind.

The Clarkston area residents both received associate of applied science degrees in electronics engineering technology, a 96-week program.

Honors

The list of University of Michigan-Flint scholars for the fall semester includes seven local students.

Joanne Beck, a Clarkston High School graduate; Polly Counts, an Oakland Christian High School graduate; Morgan Poole, a Roper High School graduate; and Stephen Johns reside in the Clarkston area.

Jane Lloyd and Brian White, both Holly High School graduates, reside in the Davisburg area.

Lloyd and Poole received perfect 4.0 grade point averages for the semester.

Beck, Counts, Johns, Lloyd and White have been received class honors for completing the last 28 semester credits with a 3.5 or better grade point average.

***

Four Clarkston area students are on the dean's list for the winter quarter at Michigan Technological University, Houghton.

Dawn A. Eschker, a senior, is majoring in business administration.

Denise M. Girschner, a senior, is majoring in medical technology.

Andrew R. Hollibaugh, a junior, is majoring in electrical engineering.

Jennifer R. Zahm, a sophomore, is majoring in electrical engineering.

Club notes

Shannon Chapple was selected as Junior Miss Auxiliary at the annual Americanism Dinner at Chief Pontiac No. 377 American Legion.

She was chosen for all the volunteer work she does at nursing homes and veterans hospitals and for the physically and mentally impaired, the elderly, her community and her post and auxiliary.

Receiving the Americanism Awards were Leroy and Leona Puckett, James Rollison, Lucy Gulda and Theresa Meerseman. The awards are given for many years of volunteer service to the community, state and nation. All recipients are members of the Auxiliary and Post of Chief Pontiac.

Michigan defined

One of life's great anomalies - having the robin appointed as the Michigan state bird.

The snow owl would have been a good choice; the penguin a shoo-in. But the robin? Definitely, most certainly not.

The robin symbolizes all that is warm and green and fresh; in essence, spring. In essence, not Michigan, at least not now.

As you can tell, I, like many of you no doubt, am not too impressed with the state's version of spring. It doesn't have one.

I think that when North America was being fashioned, an error was made. Somebody created an overabundance of warm spots - Florida, South Carolina and such.

Upon noticing this error, other places were soon created to, thus, counteract this mistake by a sort of "Divine Bureaucracy," if you will.

One of these places eventually became Michigan. That's Indian for "Which way is south?" There aren't many Indians in Michigan any more.

Actually, I doubt that I'd mind this time of year so much if I'd been born a Michigander. (Although I find it hard to believe anyone, Michigander or otherwise, could honestly enjoy this weather.)

I'd simply accept it and say, "Oh, well," when I looked out the window. But this is only my second spring, for lack of a better word, in Michigan.

Before then, I spent eight years in southeastern Virginia; a place where spring came as early as late February. Where daffodils bloomed and died before Easter, only to be replaced by bikinis. Say no more.

Back in Virginia I had this certain concept of spring in the great white-encrusted North. It was when all the buds on the trees came out and turned green before fall came - at which time they would turn brown and die.

Oh yeah, there was some other season in-between there, too, but it was too short to make a difference. From the looks of things, it seems I wasn't very far off the mark.

Call IRS Sunday

Until April 15, it's still tax season.

"Early in the year we tested opening our toll-free telephone lines on Sundays," said IRS district director John Hummel. "The test worked well. We found that taxpayers were more likely to be working on their tax returns on the weekends, and that they appreciated the opportunity to be able to call us on Saturday or Sunday."

For that reason, and to meet the increasing telephone call demand, the IRS has re-established Sunday hours for toll-free telephone assistance, from 1 to 5 p.m. The IRS also has expanded hours during the rest of the week through the end of the tax filing season on April 15.

Toll-free hours are Mondays from 8 a.m. to 8:30 p.m.; Tuesdays through Fridays from 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.; Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.; plus the new Sunday hours from 1 to 5 p.m.

The toll-free IRS number is 1-800-424-1040.

OFFICIAL NOTICE

Notice Charter Township of Springfield Public Hearing

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE PLANNING COMMISSION OF THE CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF SPRINGFIELD will hold a PUBLIC HEARING at the regular meeting on Tuesday, April 19, 1988, beginning at 7:30 p.m. at the Springfield Township Hall, 650 Broadway, Davisburg, Michigan. The Public Hearing will cover:

Amendments to Zoning Ordinance No. 26:

Article XVII:

Amending current language to: 1) revise the powers and duties of the Zoning Board of Appeals, 2) revise variance standards, and 3) revise procedures for appeals.

The section dealing with variances (17.01) subparagraph 4 is substantially revised by eliminating the hardship test and enumerating the standards for determination of practical difficulties.

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that zoning ordinance texts may be examined at the Clerk's Office, Charter Township of Springfield, 650 Broadway, Davisburg, Michigan, during regular office hours Monday through Friday until the date of the public hearing.

J. Calvin Walters, Clerk

Help for seniors

Help is available for senior citizens.

Oakland-Livingston Human Service Agency (OLHSA) has an Outreach worker servicing Northwest Oakland County.

The service is for persons 60 years of age or over and involves the following areas of need: energy, social security, counseling, legal aid, senior chore service, telephone reassurance, homebound meals, package of life, friendly visiting, personal care, transportation, nutrition, employment, and home share.

Trudy Long, Outreach worker, serves 11 townships including Brandon, Groveland, Independence and Springfield.

Area seniors may set up an appointment at the Independence Township Senior Center by contacting Long at 625-8231. She is also available for appointments between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. at the Ortonville, Highland, Holly and Addison senior centers, and between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. at the Orion center.

The OLHSA Outreach program is funded by the Area Agency on Aging.

Pet of the Week

Make Helen happy

Helen needs a very special family to love her. She is a 5-month-old German wire-haired pointer who was kept in a garage on a chain.

She got tangled up in the chain, and it cut off her circulation. As a result, she has lost most of her sight. But it hasn't affected the loving, happy-go-lucky personality she was born with.

It is possible that Helen could experience other medical problems because of the temporary lack of oxygen she suffered, but it is also possible she could regain more sight. She is certainly willing to give back all the love and more that a special family could give her.

Helen can be adopted at the Michigan Humane Society, 3600 Auburn Rd., Auburn Heights, 852-7420. Hours at the non-profit shelter are 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

The adoption fee for Helen is $55, which includes a $25 spaying fee.

HELEN NEEDS a very special home.

Village of Clarkston

Junior high jargon fest

"hork" (or take) one from someone. If you forgot your gunch (or lunch) money, you'd try to "scam" (or mooch) it from someone.

They call lunch gunch because that's what it tastes like, said Amy, my adoptive student.

With the humor and analyzation of their peers came the honesty that I had forgotten was a trademark of teenagers.

I asked them about their parents, and they simultaneously said, "Pffffff!" or something like that. Their mutual reactions made them laugh.

Paul Cole said his dad didn't like his pink pants. But Paul wore them anyway.

Robin Link said parents now days were just too protective. They have to learn to let go, and let their kids date and wear the clothes they want to wear, she said.

It's hard for them, though, she said. Everything's so new to them.

Holly said her parents were suspicious of her if she went to a party, and they would wait up for her. If she just went to a girlfriend's house, they didn't wait up, she said.

But there wasn't too much to be suspicious of, said Robin. Peer pressure to try alcohol or drugs isn't that bad. If you say no, your friends don't bother you about it, she said.

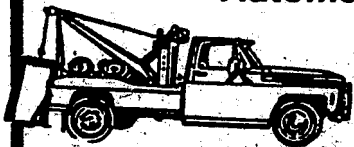

"They ask you, but they don't pressure you," said Holly.

Mostly, you should just be an individual and be yourself, said Robin.

That's the most "rad" thing to do, they agreed.

Spring Fling is for all ages

An Easter Spring Fling scheduled for noon to 2 p.m. on Saturday, March 26, will offer activities for everyone in the family.

The second annual event will take place at Springfield Oaks Activities Center, located on Andersonville Road in Springfield Township.

The schedule of events is as follows:

Noon: Young at Heart senior citizens coffee and bake sale; walk registrations, and Easter Basket Raffle sponsored by Pontiac/Waterford Parents Without Partners.

12:30 p.m.: Walk with the Easter Bunny. This is a Walk Michigan event for all ages, co-sponsored by Springfield Township Parks and Recreation, Michigan Recreation and Park Association, and Blue Cross/Blue Shield of Michigan. All participants in the walk will be eligible for a drawing in August for a trip for two to Mackinac Island.

12:45 p.m.: Easter egg hunt, sponsored by Parents Without Partners. This event will include three separate age groups for the hunt of real eggs: preschool, 5-7 years, and 8-12 years. A limited number of prizes will also be given away.

1:30 p.m.: Airplane marshmallow drop. Thousands of marshmallows will be dropped from an airplane. Children can pick up the marshmallows and exchange them for a small bag of Easter candy. There will be a limited number of colored marshmallows, which can be exchanged for a special prize or candy. The special prizes were donated by McDonald's of Holly and McDonald's on Sashabaw Road, Independence Township.

The Easter Spring Fling is co-sponsored by the Springfield Township Parks and Recreation Department, Oakland County Parks and Recreation, and the Pontiac/Waterford Parents Without Partners.

Donations and other special service contributions have been made by Oakland County Clerk Lynn Allen and by White Lake Boy Scout Troop 44.

For more information about the Easter Spring Fling, call 625-8133.

More kids can go to summer camp

The 7th annual Clarkston Area Youth Assistant bowlathon was a big success, according to Youth Assistant Chairman Merelyn Mallett.

The fund-raiser on Feb. 21 at Cherry Hills Lanes on Dixie Highway drew almost 40 bowlers, she said, which is more than last year.

The top winner was Nancy Weightman, who raised $1,020. Second place went to Sally Seaman, who raised $888; third place was Dave Merz, with $595; and fourth was Bev Miles, who raised $525.

Over $5,000 was raised by the participants, who collected their donations through sponsors for the bowling event.

"We raised more money than we did last year, which is fantastic," Mallett said. "All of the money goes to summer camp programs, and the money raised (at this year's event) will send well over 100 Clarkston children to camp this summer."

Community Cable Guide

Easter themes abound

Tutor follows granddad's footsteps into business

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

An energetic 23-year-old and his grandfather are working together to make learning fun for all.

Jamey Wittenberg opened his own tutorial service in downtown Clarkston two weeks ago. For the past six years, he learned his trade at his grandfather's tutoring business in Flint.

His grandfather, Ben Bayer, is a retired remedial reading teacher from Flint and currently tutors students out of his home. The business has been very successful over the years, Wittenberg said.

The two often talked about branching out into other locations but never acted on the idea until now.

What's New in Business

Since he has family in the Clarkston area - he is currently living with his father - Wittenberg said it makes sense to expand here.

But by no means does the move mean a split between grandfather and grandson.

"Talking with my grandfather helped me develop my philosophy," he said. "I always trusted my grandfather's experience."

Bayer, who has a master's degree, taught in Flint and California before retiring approximately 14 years ago.

During the six years he worked for his grandfather, Wittenberg discovered the strong and weak points of a tutorial service.

He plans on smoothing out the rough spots to provide customers with the best possible service.

Personal attention and one-on-one sessions between students and tutors are a couple of things Wittenberg can offer his customers. He said he wouldn't want it any other way.

"It (personal attention) should be a natural part of PERSONAL ATTENTION is something all students should enjoy, says tutor Jamey Wittenberg.

learning," he said. "Learners need to understand the subject fully."

Wittenberg helps students currently in school from pre-kindergarten age through college. He also said people not going to school have come to him for help to improve their reading or math skills.

No pressure is placed on students enrolled in a tutoring course to complete assignments in a certain time period, he said.

Usually, the tutoring sessions last an hour, but at times the lessons are learned faster or slower. There are no definite time limits on any one session, he said.

Wittenberg sets a goal at the beginning of each lesson and then works with the student to realize that goal. Both student and tutor keep working until the job is accomplished, he said.

Currently, he is enrolled in a master's program at Oakland University, Rochester, and is working toward a degree in general education.

He tutors customers in any subject, but his strong points are mathematics and science.

"I have always been a pretty good student and I used to help people while I was in school," he said. When a customer asks for a certain service, such as foreign language instruction, Wittenberg calls on the best tutor available, he said. He has several tutors who work on an on-call basis to provide a wide variety of choices for customers.

Wittenberg is looking forward to serving the Clarkston community in the years ahead, just as his grandfather is doing in Flint.

"I really enjoy this," he said. "It's really neat."

The Clothes Tree celebrates 16th anniversary

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Ann Morgan doesn't just dress for success; she thinks for success. And she is about to celebrate the 16th anniversary of her successful business.

Morgan opened The Clothes Tree in a little shop on M-15 south of Clarkston (where Speedy Printing is now located) in the fall of 1973. On April 1, 1981, she moved it to larger quarters at 5643 Dixie Highway in Waterford Township.

Township.

"We outgrew our store, and at that time, there wasn't another location in Clarkston to give me the size I needed," Morgan says.

Soon, her new location in Waterfall Plaza wasn't large enough either, so she expanded into the neighboring store space on April 1, 1986, doubling the size of her clothing shop. By this time, her office alone was as large as her original store on M-15.

Because April 1 indicates the successful growth of her store, Morgan celebrates the anniversary of her business on that date, even though the store originally opened in the fall.

Though Morgan has since incorporated her store and calls it Ann's Clothes Tree Inc., customers still know the shop by its original name.

What's New in Business

Morgan attributes her success to a wonderful staff of people who work for her and to loyal customers.

"Now, daughters and granddaughters of some of the customers I started with are shopping the store," Morgan says.

She also attributes her success to hard work and determination.

"It never went through my mind that I wouldn't make it," she says.

It wasn't always easy.

Morgan says she got into the business because she'd been selling clothes since she was a 16-year-old in Detroit. Though she tried other things, she came back to retail because that's what she really enjoyed. But she readily admits she didn't know much about the "inner workings of business" when she started.

"I made a few mistakes, but I learned from them," she says.

Her store survived the oil embargo, depressed times and a burglary in 1980, which she says "cleaned out the store."

She borrowed $2,000 from her sister-in-law, Betty Bell, and started over.

"The word 'can't' is not in my vocabulary," Morgan says. "I feel so fortunate because I enjoy what I do. And I believe with all my heart you can accomplish anything you set out to do in life."

ANN MORGAN, owner of The Clothes Tree in Waterfall Plaza, is celebrating the anniversary of the shop she opened 16 years ago. The store was originally located on M-15.

Bookstore sponsors first writing contest

The "Clarkston Mystery Writing Contest" makes its debut this year thanks to the efforts of Georgene Sloan, owner of the Village Bookstore.

"I think a bookstore in a small town should take part in the community, and this was one thing I could think of to become involved and to involve the community in writing," she says.

The winner of the contest will be honored at a dinner with the contest judges: Sloan; Dianne Evans, an English teacher at Clawson High School and Clarkston resident; and Kathy Greenfield, editor of The Clarkston News.

Their winning mystery will also be printed in The Clarkston News.

If there is enough interest, Sloan says she would like to make it an annual event.

The contest rules follow:

> Write a mystery story set in Clarkston and Independence Township.

> Stories will be judged on literary merit. Entries must be original and unpublished.

> Contest entrants must be non-professional writers at least 18 years of age.

> Employees of the Village Bookstore and The Clarkston News and their immediate families and the immediate families of the judges are not eligible to enter.

> Maximum length of the story is 1,500 words; limit, one entry per person.

> Entries must be typewritten, double spaced; use one side of paper only.

> Entrant's name, address and telephone number must be typed on a separate sheet of paper and placed at the end of the story. Your name must not appear on any other page of your entry.

> Keep a copy of your story. No entries will be returned.

> Deadline for submission is 6 p.m., Wednesday, May 4, 1988. No exceptions. Entries may be submitted by mail or hand delivered to the Village Bookstore, 26 S. Main St., Clarkston, MI 48016.

> The winner will be announced in early June. For further information, call the Village Bookstore at 625-1355. Copies of the rules are available at the bookstore.

Students praised for their math skills

Five Clarkston High School students were honored for their achievements in the 31st Annual Michigan Mathematics Prize Competition. The students are: Douglas Bronson, Paul Jensen, Darren Miller and Michael O'Connor, all seniors, and Marie Powell, a junior.

The students and their parents were introduced to the board of education on March 14 by Jan Modesitt, chairperson of the mathematics department at CHS, and given framed certificates of achievement.

The statewide math competition is open to all high school students on a strictly voluntary basis. About 23,000 students throughout the state elected to participate in this year's contest, including 45 CHS students, according to Modesitt.

Part I of the competition, which is co-sponsored by several corporations in Michigan plus the Mathematical Association of America, consists of a 100-minute test. The top 1,000 students are invited to take Part 2 of the test, which included the five students honored at CHS. The combined scores from Parts 1 and 2 determine the rank of the top 1,000 students statewide.

"Five is the most students we've had come up through Part 1," Modesitt said, adding that last year they had three, one of which scored in the top 100 students.

She said the five are outstanding students of academics and also active in other areas, such as music and athletics, which makes them well-rounded individuals.

"I'm very proud of their achievement," she said. "It's a credit to them as students as well as their families."

Feast on 'lasagna'

Surprisingly good things can come from recipes with an "ethnic mix." The following recipe for Mexican lasagna is one good example.

While early spring temperatures still make it fun to fill the house with warmth and good aromas from the oven, try this hearty casserole on your family.

MEXICAN LASAGNA

- 1 pound lean ground beef
- 1/2 cup chopped onions
- 1 can (15-ounce) Mexican-style beans
- 2 cups chopped tomatoes
- 1 can (4-ounce) chopped green chilies
- 1 package (1 1/4-ounce) taco seasoning
- 6 flour tortillas (8-inch), halved
- 2 cups (8 ounces) shredded Co/Jack cheese

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. In large skillet, brown ground beef and onions. Drain. Stir in beans, chopped tomatoes, green chilies and taco seasoning.

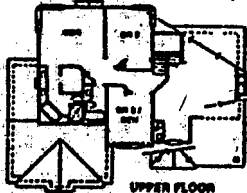

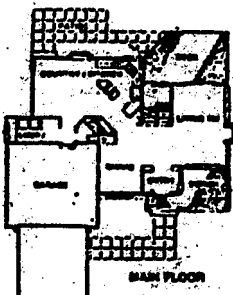

Layer half the tortillas on bottom of an 11-by-7-inch greased baking dish. Spread half the meat mixture over, and sprinkle with half the cheese. Repeat layers.

Bake for 30 minutes at 350 degrees. Let stand 10 minutes before serving. Makes 6 to 8 servings. Serve with salsa, if desired.

Astronomer looks back through time

she says

In addition, Hedeman says she was privileged to be a member of the American Astronomical Society and International Astronomical Union. As a member, she traveled extensively and met many famous and interesting physicists, astronomers and scientists, she says.

Hedeman retired from the observatory in 1979, when it was closed by the university.

She and Prince then collaborated as consultants in solar research for The Applied Physics Laboratory at Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Md.

Now retired completely from the field, Hedeman looks back on her vocation with enthusiasm and fondness.

"The whole field of work was exciting," she says. "It was tremendously interesting. There was always something new happening on the sun."

Clarkston acreage

Like new ranch near village on 10 acres. Four bedrooms, 2 1/2 baths, first floor laundry & formal dining room, make this a very liveable home. Great room has wood burning fireplace & cathedral ceiling. Also included are an attached 3 car garage and 30x40 pole barn, $135,000.

This is the year to have your dream home built and I would like to be your builder. Interest rates are dropping and prices are steady. We have several 1 1/2 acre lots on paved street near Clarkston. Some are wooded and suitable for walkout basement. House and lot together in this sub would cost approx. $100,000, depending on style of home. Give me a call & lets talk about it.

14 teams venture in an Odyssey of the Mind

BY KATHY GREENFIELD
Clarkston News Editor

When the word team is used, it generally refers to an event that involves competition on a physical level.

Fourteen teams from the Clarkston school district were recently involved in team competition of another sort.

As the name infers, mental power and creativity were the primary tools in the "Odyssey of the Mind" Region I Competition at Farmington High School on Feb. 27. About 160 teams, from kindergarten age through high school, participated.

Although none of the local teams advanced to state competition, reaching the regional level was a significant achievement, said Joanne Stroebel, a consultant with the Clarkston school district, who served as coordinator of seven of the local Odyssey of the Mind teams with Clarkston school district teacher Sue Banworth. Sashabaw Junior High School teacher John Matheus also served as coordinator of the seven teams.

"All the kids are winners in this that come to the competition, because they solved the problem," Stroebel said. "These kids deserve a lot of credit for what they did, because it really takes a lot of time and effort."

The school district also has reason to be proud, she said: "It is kind of amazing for such a small school district like Clarkston to send so many teams."

The teams worked on their projects for about two months. They were required to select one of five long-term problems and present the solution. Parents or teachers served as coaches, who were there for consultation only. The ideas were required to come from the children.

Teams that chose the Atlantis problem, for example, had to design a vehicle that looked as if it could be submerged, build it and take it to the competition.

Using remote-controlled arms on the vehicle, team members were required to collect artifacts and sea samples from Atlantis, including a statue, pottery, humorous Atlantis item, Atlantis coin, Atlantis map and a sea creature.

They had to perform a skit, with a sea monster and a crisis, using props and costumes of their own design. The problem had to be completed in 10 minutes in a precise amount of space. They were limited to a budget of $75.

The teams also participated in a spontaneous problem, a "brain-storming" type session in front of judges.

Each long-term problem was "very, very detailed" with "very stringent rules," Stroebel said.

The goal is to encourage even greater participation in the Odyssey of the Mind competition. There are three divisions, based on age, with Division I for the youngest and Division III for the oldest.

"It's a lot of fun. The kids really do enjoy it," she said. "It's for kids who really care about hands-on. It's certainly for using the mental power and creativity that children have."
