Criticism, support greet tax hike plan

BY KATHY GREENFIELD
Clarkston News Editor

If the Clarkston board of education yearned for a consensus of opinion from the residents who spoke Thursday evening about Plan B, they were disappointed. Comments during the public hearing ranged from total opposition to tax hikes to questioning whether the proposed 5.42 mills would be enough.

And resident Barbara Johns announced a newly formed citizen's group called Individuals for Clarkston Area Responsible Education (ICARE). She cited a need for improving communication lines between the board and the community, and said people don't trust the school board.

ICARE would work to improve the situation and work for quality education, she said.

"We are tired of the rumor mills and the six-year-old gripes that exist in this township," she said. "New people can't remember why they moved here. They're wondering why we got the reputation of being a good school."

Plan B is the restoration and addition plan proposed by district Superintendent Milford Mason and his administration staff. If voters approve a 5.42-mill tax hike request in June, Plan B would use the $2.4 million in 1988-89 to restore almost all programs and staff to the 1987-88 level and purchase computers and two school buses.

Hopping along

Things will be hopping at the Sashabaw United Presbyterian Church on Saturday, April 2.

The church's ninth annual Easter Egg Hunt, open to all preschoolers through sixth-graders, is set to begin at 11 a.m. at 5300 Maybee Rd., Independence Township.

That old standby, the Easter Chicken, will greet the children; and there'll be eggs, candy, prizes and a bake sale.

Usually, around 200 to 250 children attend, said the Rev. William Schram.

During a meeting with church members who are volunteering to help, Schram took notes.

One of his favorite comments is Linda Seyler's: "When you've got a lawn as big as ours, you might as well use it."

He also shares the following, although he's not certain who said it: "It's great that the church can do this for the community and add to the people's fun at Easter."

The church is accepting donations of wrapped candy and hard-boiled eggs. They can be dropped off from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday. Call 673-3101 for more information.

Spring forward . . .

While some say it's too early, the United States government says it's time.

This Sunday, before you go to bed, set your clocks ahead one hour. You guessed it, it's Daylight Savings Time.

The saying goes, "Spring forward and fall back." So, if you go to bed at 2 a.m. Sunday, turn your clock to 3 a.m.

A THOROUGH SEARCH of the tall grasses at Springfield Oaks County Park didn't produce the Easter egg that 3-year-old Aaron Spencer wanted, but he later found a bright yellow egg in an open area, much to his delight. The Clark Road, Springfield Township, resident at- tended the Spring Fling activities with his mother. A downpour of rain and an airplane noise drove away a crowd of over 4,000 marshmallows followed the egg hunt March 26.

Planners OK office building trio on Sashabaw

BY JULIE CAMPE

Voicing concerns over intensity, traffic and landscaping, the planning commission approved the conceptual site plan for three office buildings on a 2.62-acre site on Sashabaw Road.

With two abstentions, the commission granted

Avoiding grass fires

A gust of wind was strong enough to turn some burning brush into a grass fire around noon March 26 on Genoa, Independence Township.

The fire was extinguished in about 20 minutes, but it could have been worse, said Capt. Neil Ashley of the township fire department.

The first grass fire of the season, it started when a homeowner was burning brush in his back yard, and the wind blew some of it over a fence to a neighboring yard, said Ashley.

Even with the wet weather, the windy season makes spring a prime grass fire season, he said.

"The wind dries it out fast," he said. "It's windy enough that it keeps the flames blowing."

For the next few months, residents should take extra caution when burning brush, Ashley said, offering a few tips.

1. Clear the area of heavy grass or other materials before starting the fire.

2. Always stay with the fire.

3. Keep the fire under control, and don't let it get too big.

4. Keep a garden hose or other source of water (buckets of water will do) near the fire at all times.

A permit is required to burn in Independence Township and can be obtained by calling the fire department at 625-1924.

conceptual approval subject to the comments of the township engineer, additional landscaping and a satisfactory joint access point with the adjacent parcel.

Abstaining were Joseph Figa, who is involved with the builder outside of the planning commission, and Bruce Mercado, whose dental office is across the street from the proposed Independence Township development.

Voting yes were Chairperson Brent Bair, Carol Balzarini, Jo Fussman, Richard Oppmann and Steve Secatch.

At a previous meeting, the proposal from developers Tim Warner and Nancy Caruso received special land use permission allowing more than one building on one site.

To be developed in phases, the three buildings are to provide 27,100 square feet of rentable space, and the proposed design offers the minimum parking and landscaping required by township ordinances.

The comments of the township planner and the commission members focused on the intense usage proposed for the site and the need for safety and a more aesthetically pleasing landscape design.

The plans include a joint access from Sashabaw Road with Caruso's Deli, just south of the site, west of Sashabaw Road, said Richard Carlisle, township planner.

The connecting driveway to the deli is too close to Sashabaw Road and will be even more dangerous when Sashabaw Road is widened in the future, he said. He suggested moving the driveway further back into the site.

Developer Warner said a four-foot grade difference exists between the two sites, and a driveway further back would be difficult.

Bair agreed with Carlisle.

"I, too, am disappointed in what I see in the proposed joint access," he said. "I was hoping to see something better than this. This looks like a quick and dirty solution. ... Couldn't we compromise and do something better? I think we can."

Balzarini said the plans should include a higher percentage of landscaping.

"Because this is so intensely developed, I think it's very important to get as much landscaping here as we can," she said.

Before motioning to approve the plans, Fussman spoke about the commission's hesitation to grant approval.

"We're all rather reluctant," she said. "This is a very quiet board up here tonight. None of us are thrilled about seeing the extreme intensification of this property."

COG tells township officials to stay away

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

At least one local government official was unhappy with a March 22 decision to exclude township officials and announced candidates for office from COG meetings except when invited.

Carol Balzarini, an Independence Township trustee and five-year member of the planning commission, had attended several meetings of the newly formed COG, Citizens for Orderly Growth, and was puzzled about the group's decision, she said.

Balzarini protested in a letter to the group after she was informed of the decision last week. She talked about COG's action.

"I was surprised. At first I thought it was a joke," she said. "I guess I was misled by the fact that they were calling it a citizens group. I think they should change their name to 'Certain Citizens for Orderly Growth' or 'Selective Citizens for Orderly Growth'."

The group was supposed to be apolitical, and it isn't fair or beneficial to exclude so many residents who care about the community, she said.

"I think it's unusual if they're concerned with maintaining growth, that they don't want anyone who's actively involved with growth," she said. "I'm beginning to suspect that it's a candidate group that just hasn't come out of the closet yet."

"The other thing is, if this has the earmarks of a private or exclusive group, should they be meeting in a public place? That's something for the schools to decide. Maybe they should be meeting in someone's house."

Balzarini's letter was the only one the group had received as of Monday, said Doug Carlson, COG chairperson.

"I'm not surprised to get this kind of reaction, and I can understand where Carol is coming from," he said. "I like Carol. She's a good township person."

The decision followed a long discussion about the officials' presence, and only one person voted against excluding them, he said.

"It wasn't an easy decision to make," he said, adding he didn't attend the meeting, but other members told him about it.

"It's a democratic group. It should not be taken by the township people as a negative thing," he said.

COG would like to promote "frank and open discussion," he said. But members thought they could speak their minds more often if township officials weren't present.

"A lot of our group members can't talk openly with them there," he said. "They do intimidate people."

Among the projects this year is a "civic searchlight," in which COG members will survey candidates for office and rate them according to their answers on growth issues, Carlson said.

"If we're going to get into this rating in an election year, how could we claim to be impartial if two or three people attended our meetings?"

"We're trying to remain impartial, but now we're being seen as a select group, lurking behind the scenes."

"A lot of our group members can't talk openly with them there. They do intimidate people."

Doug Carlson
COG Chairperson

... We're not a secret group. We're not plotting and planning."

The opinions and experience of the township officials are valuable, and COG members hope they're still willing to attend the meetings when they're invited, he said.

"I think they should change their name to 'Certain Citizens for Orderly Growth' or 'Selective Citizens for Orderly Growth.'"

Carol Balzarini
Independence Trustee

"We will invite them in, but we want the right, if you will, to have a closed meeting to discuss openly the issues. ... They're not out forever. Once we solidify our positions, we'll invite them in."

Board candidates can file petitions

Now's the time to begin collecting signatures for a petition if you're interested in running for an Independence Township office.

The full-time positions of supervisor, treasurer and clerk and the part-time positions of four trustees will appear on the Nov. 8 ballot, said Clerk Richard Holman.

Candidates must submit a petition with the signatures of 70 registered voters before 4 p.m. May 31 and they must sign an affidavit of identity, he said.

Petitions are available at the township hall, 90 N. Main St., Clarkson.

"It's advisable to submit early," said Holman, because the clerk's office reviews the signatures and candidates may need time to make adjustments.

So far, two people have submitted petitions, he said. John Lutz, current township treasurer, plans to run again for treasurer, and township resident George Vitaros plans to run for trustee.

AT AGE THREE, each received a bunny for Easter, and they've been raising the furry animals ever since. Ronald Keen (left), 17, and his brother, Robert, 10, of Andersonville Road, Springfield Township, now have 150 rabbits of eight breeds.

Veronica goes home

Veronica L'Esperance is back together again with Raymond, Danielle, Erica and Alexandria. Following a week's stay in the hospital for observation, Veronica left for home late Monday afternoon.

Veronica suffers from apnea, a respiratory disorder, while she is eating, said Pam Murray, a spokesperson for Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak, where the quintuplets were born Jan. 11 to Raymond and Michele L'Esperance.

The infant has shown no problems for two days and "her prognosis is excellent," Murray said.

The L'Esperances and their three older children are temporarily living with relatives in Warren until their new home in Springfield Township is completed.

The infants are believed to be the first "test tube" quintuplets born in the United States.

Firefighters to be wired for safety

New personal alarms should help ensure the safety of firefighters if they become injured, trapped or rendered unconscious for 25 seconds or more while fighting fires.

The Independence Township Board unanimously approved the purchase of 32 Lifeguard II personal alarm devices for $2,800 from Clarey's Safety Equipment, Minn.

The alarms are to be attached to each firefighter's self-contained breathing apparatus, which they are required to wear when they fight fires, said Capt. Steve Ronk in a letter to the township board.

If a firefighter is motionless for 25 seconds, the alarm sends a signal to the other firefighters, so the firefighter in need of help would be reached early, Ronk said.

Village planners to tackle retail loss

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Erosion of the retail commercial district downtown must be halted before it's too late, said one Clarkston business owner.

Buck and Joan Kopietz, owners of Tierra Arts on Main Street for the past 15 years, are concerned about the number of businesses downtown. The numbers are decreasing at an alarming rate, they said.

Another business, Aura Fine Arts, recently closed up shop for good, said Kopietz.

While retail is leaving, office space is rapidly increasing, he added. The balance between retail and office currently is leaning heavily toward the latter downtown.

From his perspective, that's bad news for business, said Kopietz.

"Retail depends on other retail," he said. "There are more offices in town than ever before."

The village's planning commission will review Clarkston's present commercial zoning within the village at its April 4 meeting.

The planning commission will then forward their findings to the village council for a decision.

One idea would split the ordinance into two sections, retail and office space. In this way, the village council could control the ratio between offices and businesses better, said John Stuetzer, a planning commission member.

Area business owners and residents are welcome to present their opinions at the meeting, he added.

Kopietz said something must be done to draw more people to the downtown area.

The average shopper usually will patronize an area where several shops are located, the business owner said. If the stores do not stay downtown, then the customers will find other alternatives.

"Offices don't draw traffic," he said. "Retail is important for the village."

When Clarkston's downtown area was booming with business, many customers would park their cars and walk from store to store.

Village Council President Sharron Catallo said she enjoys being able to walk to stores.

"I love shopping. When I don't have a car I can walk downtown," she said. "This is something that needs to be addressed."

Today, few retail businesses can rely on the secondary customers since the best parking spots are being used by the offices, Kopietz said.

"We don't have enough space in town," he said. Because of the eroding base of retail outlets, area residents won't be treated to as many special events as they were in the past, he added.

The Midnight Madness sale, band concerts in the park and Christmas celebrations all were sponsored by retail business, Kopietz said.

Losing retail business will hurt everyone, not just the business owners, he added.

"It all depends on what people want to see," he said.

Interviews continue this week

BY KATHY GREENFIELD
Clarkston News Editor

With nine interviews completed and two to go, the search for the next Superintendent of Clarkston Community Schools continues.

"It's going very well," said board of education President Janet Thomas on Tuesday morning. "Generally speaking, we've been really impressed with the candidates."

Board members conducted interviews Friday evening, all day Saturday and Monday evening. The final two candidates are to be interviewed Thursday, March 31, at 6:30 and 8:30 p.m., at the administration office on Clarkston Road.

The interview sessions are open to the public, and at least a half-dozen members of the community have been present for each, Thomas said.

The board's procedure has been to take notes, but not to compare notes, she said, in order to be fair to each candidate.

After the final interview on Thursday, the board will probably decide if there is a consensus on top candidates and may decide if second interviews are desirable, she said.

Although the board originally planned to select a superintendent by its April 11 regular meeting, Thomas said the process could take a week or two longer. Current Superintendent Milford Mason's resignation is effective July 1.

Candidates interviewed so far are Dr. Robert Brenner, superintendent of Wayland schools; Roy M. Bassett, superintendent of the Woodhaven school district in Flat Rock; Dr. Timothy R. Jenney, superintendent of Parchment schools; Dr. Jon Reynolds, superintendent of Waverly schools in Lansing; Dr. Robert J. Burek, principal of Clarkston High School; Dr. Michael Shiber, superintendent of Clarenceville schools in Livonia; Robert W. Bass, superintendent of the Western school district in Parma; Thomas W. Riutta, superintendent of Allen Park schools; and Dr. Gary Jackson, superintendent of Huron Schools in New Boston.

The candidates to be interviewed Thursday are Robert D. Spencer, superintendent of Central Montcalm schools in Stanton; and Dr. Gary Haner, superintendent of Pinckney schools.

Opinions

Pens travel in packs

Kathy Greenfield

Myth: Reporters carry pencils (or pens) and notepads at all times.

Theory: Pencils (and pens) stray at will. This statement could, in fact, be fact. All the evidence points in that direction.

A story with a clever headline - "The Buck Starts Here" - in the April edition of Life magazine got me started on this.

The piece, under the heading of Travel, followed the journey of a $1 bill during a week. It was a photo story, capturing forever moments when people used the bill to pay for food, as change, to tip, and so on.

The bill began its travels in Chicago and floated around some bars and eateries, a beauty shop, a football game and a hospital before taking a flight to California. Finally, as the week ended, it paid for a strawberry soda pop and a pickle, was last seen in an ice cream truck driving down a street lined with palm trees.

The five-page spread began with the claim that bankers said it couldn't be done and ended with the offer of $1,000 for anyone who finds the bill.

A few days before I read the story, a couple of my bucks were used for pens. I bought my favorite kind for note taking. "This time," I thought, "I'm going to try to keep track of these beauties."

Theory: Pens travel in packs. They group themselves with five or six varieties of writing utensils and plot to run out of ink and break lead at the same time.

Theory: Similarly, pens enjoy vacationing together. Their favorite spots are telephone-side, but they can't stand ringing so they go into hiding whenever the sound occurs. They can't wait to get out of purses.

Theory: Pens release some sort of scent that makes people who work in the same office and live in the same house buy the identical brand and color at the same time. They'll do anything to hear someone say, "Is that my pen?"

Proof for all this could be as close as my camera. A few days devoted to the task would probably do it. In fact, the idea might sell. Life might be interested in a series.

If I could just find the phone book ...

Lady, part two

Carolyn Walker

Auntie was permissive when the first rays of the afternoon sun peeked in the windows of her dining room and the cowgirls got the urge to ride their horses.

Ever understanding of the cowgirls' whims, Auntie would get out the good dining chairs and lay them on their sides near a smoldering fire.

She would fashion reins out of strings attached to the chair rungs (so the cowgirls would know which way to aim their horses) and put pillows, saddle fashion, across their backs.

With a saddle pack of towels rolled behind the pillows (no cowgirl should be without her toiletries), the cowgirls would mount up. Lady circled once or twice around them, protectively, before retiring to her bed near the fire.

The cowgirls' travels, and the fury of their rides, were all that their imaginations could conceive.

They slapped the chairs' haunches, urging them over mountain and stream and through the deepest forests. Auntie would watch for marauding enemies from behind a stuffed chair.

It seemed to the cowgirls that the lazy, long summers of their childhoods would go on forever - and that Auntie, imagination intact even in late middle age, would always be there, along with Lady, to lead their games.

Theirs was a wondrous world of dreams.

When the horses needed grazing, the cowgirls would slip from their backs. And with Lady following close as if to catch them should they slip,

Auntie would lead them up the steep, dark hallway stairs to the uncharted territory that was her room.

Her knees alternated creaks with the worn steps they climbed, but the cowgirls paid little notice. Their imaginations ran ahead to the drawers of costume jewelry, the vanity topped with perfumes, the antique dolls stashed in a trunk in Auntie's closet.

Upon arrival, Auntie would reach down to pat Lady with one hand and fling open a window with the other.

The humid summer air, smelling of the city, would rush them and they would fan it by their faces with their hands.

The cowgirls, their eyes wide with anticipation, would sit on the edge of Auntie's bed waiting for her to unfold her life to them.

She would spread it out appreciatively atop the bedspread: scrapbooks, diaries, letters, journals, pictures and stories.

Then would come again the reassuring strokes of the hair. "Some day these things will be yours," she would say, looking away into the adoring gaze of the collie.

For the cowgirls, those days seemed too far away to ponder. But they came, in fact, rushing pell-mell over one another, like the weighty black clouds of summer.

Carolyn Walker's column appears in The Clarkson News twice a month.

Jim's Jottings

They don't build houses like they used to. Take my grandmother's house, for instance.

Grandma Black lived on Erie Street in Albion. Her house was across the road from the railroad tracks, which ran along the north wall of the enclosed athletic field of Albion College.

My grandfather, who I really don't remember, was a college janitor. He may have had total responsibility in college maintenance, or swept floors, I don't know.

Whatever he did, he and grandma lived in this huge, three story house. Part of it was off limits. Grandma rented rooms (and board) to that Methodist college's students. When she was 80 she was still with the students, as a house mother for one of the fraternities.

We lived about 70 miles from grandma's house in the early '30's, and were not frequent visitors. Once or twice is all I remember. And, the thing I remember most is the thing that's so different from day's houses.

Grandma had an attic.

What should be an attic in our house, for the grandkid's sake, is filled with loose insulation. My next house will have an attic like grandma's. You know, a place where kids can go nuts finding treasures.

The only attics kids see today are on television. It's moving day and the family is in the attic reminiscing over each picture, old hat and souvenir. It isn't real. It isn't today.

My grandma's attic had a box of discarded jewelry that we pawed through like miners at Sutter's Mill in '49.

Ah, the wealth we had as youths in our imagination. (We have the same thing today and we call it the state lottery.)

Our fantasies were interrupted occasionally by Mother shouting up the stairs, "You kids, don't get into anything, and make sure you put everything back where you found it."

When you're 7 years old, that order makes sense.

And, there were clothes. Grandma, like my wife, Hazel, never threw out anything. Grandpa was gone, but his clothes lived on. Heavy wool coats. Hats ... maybe that's where I got my fondness for hats. You can be anything depending on your hat. Peter Lind Hayes, the comic, made a whole career changing characters with a filled hat rack.

Shoes. I tried walking in Grandma's shoes. Thankfully, that mood passed as soon as I left the attic. And, I clogged all over the attic in Grandpa's worn out shoes.

Grandma did a lot of sewing (didn't all grandmas in those days?), and she kept her dress form in the attic. And there were pictures, and feathers, and quilts, and other things she was going to use some day, I suppose.

I don't know if grandma's house still stands on Erie Street in Albion, but if it does, and if I ever get near there again, I'm going to try to check it out for that jewelry box.

Hit us where we're weak

When you want to ask people for money you look for a weakness. You may want to make the fat person feel guilty when asking for money for the starving. Fear is a great seller for insurance, burglar alarms and fire extinguishers.

So, when the Oakland County Road Commission sought yet another way to ask citizens for more money they hit us with potholes.

The OCRC is working every angle possible to come up with $750 million over 10 years it says they need for county roads.

County Executive Dan Murphy says every road in the county would be closed with detours if the OCRC got that much money. He said it would be nearly impossible to spend that much, and it isn't needed.

The current "surcharge for potholes" campaign would have car owners paying an extra $25 for every car and truck for 10 years. It will be on the August ballot.

The proposal, approved but not endorsed by the county board of commissioners, would generate about $19.6 million a year. Of that, $981,000 would go to the state, $10.8 million to the commission, and $7.8 to cities.

The money is supposedly earmarked for road repairs (potholes). We can assume that money currently in the OCRC budget for repairs is not earmarked. Therefore, the money that would have gone for repairs could be allocated for all other OCRC purposes.

So, since all the money is going into the same, large 'road' pocket, why the plea for $25 for potholes?

Ah, because all of us have potholes, and none of us like potholes. It's our weak spot on roads. At least you have a chance to vote on it August 2. JAS

An apology

The photograph of Ruth Hedeman in last week's Clarkston News did not meet our usual standards of quality. From the print, it was impossible to determine that it would reprint so poorly. She requested an apology, and we are sincerely sorry for any embarrassment or discomfort for the poor quality of the photograph may have caused.

Absentee details

I went to the (Clarkston) school board meeting Thursday night, and did I get an education.

Can you imagine that one speaker asked how his group could get hold of about 5,000 absentee ballots? Apparently he is the president of a property owners association in this area.

How can anyone be so lacking in understanding of election procedures and still expect us other property owners and parents to follow his lead?

Of course, Mrs. (Janet) Thomas, school board president, tried gently to educate him into such a vital procedure of each voter, himself or herself, applying at the township hall for his own or for her own ballot.

I did state that I would and have "voted against all millage requests," not only for schools, but fire, police, sidewalks, etc., because we have to pay for sewers we don't have. That raid on our pockets has been going on since the middle '70s and will continue on into the next century.

It is up to each and every one of the registered voters to study the issues, decide who to trust and then to vote on election day or arrange to vote, legally, by absentee ballot.

It is your choice, but don't accept any ballots handed out otherwise.

An absentee ballot voter,
Iva Sommers Caverly

Editor's Note: A signed application must be received before an absentee ballot is issued, and the application can be kept on file for up to 75 days before the election. Applications can be requested by mail, telephone or in person at Independence Township Hall, 90 N. Main, Clarkston, MI 48016. (625-5111)

The best resource

The agenda for the April 4 meeting of the Clarkston Planning Commission includes a review of current commercial zoning within the village, our findings and recommendations going to the village council.

In an effort to permit closer control over commercial use, the commission is initially considering dividing the existing single category into two zones, retail and office.

We'll also consider the influence such changes may have within the village as well as Independence Township's growth and impact.

To expedite this review, several members have taken on the task of researching our existing ordinance, Independence Township's ordinances and other documents. Their findings as well as input from the public will help determine our recommendations.

For this reason, I would encourage residents and business people to attend or otherwise provide input (my number is 625-7208, village hall is 625-1559). Our best decision rests with our best resource, the public.

C. John Stuetzer, Member
Clarkston Planning Commission

Housing killers

There's an old saying, "An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth." This excerpt of a simple but effective wisdom states that if you kill another of your kind, then your life on this planet will be short-lived.

Over the years, I have changed my views on this highly controversial yet necessary law. If I had to agree with any of (Oakland County Prosecutor) Mr. (L. Brooks) Patterson's proposals, I would most certainly be behind his death penalty bill a 110 percent.

I recently read an article in the Detroit News about a small boy who, while sleeping in his bed, was set on fire by his father. I believe this episode occurred in 1983, and his father is due to be released sometime this summer.

Other than being furious over reading this, I couldn't fathom what kind of judicial system tried this poor excuse for a human being. I could walk into a party store with an empty gun and receive more time than this individual. This type of criminal is a waste of time and the taxpayers' money.

You would be unable to convince me that this type of person has been restored into a normal human who

'If it Fitz...'

Anyone
listening?

Jim
Fitzgerald

While Jim Fitzgerald is vacationing, we're running columns he wrote for other newspapers before coming to the Free Press in 1976. This one's from 1971.

I ran out on my front porch and hollered at a passing car: "Robert Stack gave Shirley Temple her first screen kiss."

The driver didn't stop and applaud. He didn't even honk his horn. He obviously flunked Art Appreciation in college. I'll bet the jerk doesn't even know why "The Little Colonel" was a unique movie. (Because it started out black and white but switched to Technicolor near the end.)

You may wonder why I yelled at a motorist. Because nobody was home to yell at, except two cats, that's why. And I quit talking to the cats two years ago when I discovered the dummies didn't even know the name of Simone Simone's leading man in "The Cat Woman." (Kent Smith.)

If you're smart, say so

My amazing intelligence has led me to the discovery of a rather profound truth: There is no sense being smart if no one knows it. What I mean is, the last man on Earth is bound to be stupid. Why should he bother being smart when there is no one around to look at him in awe and say: "Gee, you're smart."

There's a TV show called "The Movie Game." Two panels of movie stars compete to see who knows the most about movies. They're usually pretty good, but I'm always better. My only problem is getting my family to sit down and see how great I am.

"It's 7 o'clock, time for Movie Game," I say. And everyone gets up and leaves the room.

I don't care who the two male stars of 'King Kong' were,' my son says.

"Bruce Cabot and Robert Armstrong," I say. "How do you people expect to learn anything?"

TV set won't listen

So I am left alone with the TV set, with no choice but to run and scream answers between questions. For instance, the question might be who played the Laird Cregar role in the remake of "I Wake Up Screaming?" The answer is Richard Boone, and I will also tell you that the original version starred Betty Grable, Victor Mature and Carole Landis, who killed herself after an unhappy love affair with Rex Harrison, who later sang "Why Can't a Woman Be More Like a Man?"

That's quite a mouthful. And I have to run into the sewing room to tell my wife, and into my daughter's bedroom to tell her, and into the basement to tell my son who is hiding - and still get back to the TV for the next question.

"And I came up with the right answer three seconds before Shirley Jones' panel got it," I tell my amazed family.

"You are truly a marvelous man," my wife says.

Dad's an embarrassment

But the other day she also said: "The children have asked me to ask you to do them a favor. When they have guests, would you please not run through the house screaming that Stuart Irwin threw watermelons to Judy Garland in her first movie? It embarrasses them and they don't know how to explain you to their friends."

"It is a terrible thing for children to be ashamed of their father," I said. "I remember that movie where Frankie Darrow had no respect for his dad, Lewis Stone, who also was a brilliant man, and..."

"I think it would be simpler if we all just leave the house when the Movie Game is on TV," my wife told the kids.

"Take the cats with you," I said. "They don't even know who Simone Simone was, and she was part cat."

So now I am forced to yell at passing cars: "Hey, Mrs. Frankie Laine and Helen Parrish were the other two girls in Deanna Durbin's first movie, 'Three Smart Girls.'"

That should screech brakes. Onward and Upward.

More Letters

cares and loves. The process of caring and loving takes at least one-quarter of your life to learn and appreciate.

I find it no way possible that in five years this man has seen the light of eternal goodness and being able to differentiate right from wrong.

It's like what recently happened in Detroit to this mother, father and their little girl. This (other) man was charged with rape and armed robbery a few years ago and got out of a 25-year sentence in a few years to do the same and then some.

Let's just say, for instance, (what would have happened) in this case if the father had survived. If he was employed, he would indirectly be paying to house the person who murdered his wife and child.

This makes about as much sense as the senior citizens who still pay taxes after working 60 years of their lives. In no way are these two problems alike, but they give pros and cons of what our civilization is constantly contending with.

"WELL, IF IT ISN'T MR. FRIZBE!... THE SAME MR. FRIZBE WHO MADE A HOUSE CALL AND FIXED MY PLUMBING LAST WEEK."

Why is there such a gap in understanding that the people who murder and rape do not deserve a second chance to do the same? Let me close with a couple of lines from a Barbara Henning poem:

"Later he holds down a friend's blond head on the curb and his right fist beats her. Her blood is vivid red and the boy wonders why he's happy."

Pets need care

While baby chicks, ducks and bunnies may be cute and cuddly, grim statistics indicate that a great many of such pets are either maimed or dead within one week after Easter.

The few who survive rough play are rejected later or disposed of due to zoning restrictions.

It is very difficult for the Michigan Humane Society to find homes for un-housebroken chickens and ducks, even if they are named after cartoon characters.

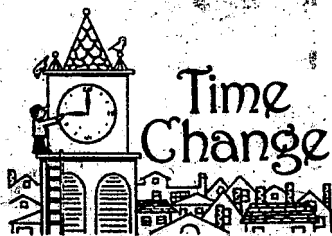

The Society urges everyone's cooperation in making the Easter season a happy and humane one for all living beings.

Chocolate or stuffed, plush pets are suggested as a substitute for the occasion.

Because It Takes More Than Money To Make Money

Opinions on budget cutbacks divided

The school board previously approved Plan A, which defines cuts of $1.7 million for 1988-89 if a tax increase is not approved, resulting in the loss of 29 teaching positions and all extracurricular programs including sports; a reduction to a five-hour school day at Clarkston High School and a six-hour school day at the junior high schools; and elimination of music, physical education and some reading support in the elementary schools.

The public hearing on Plan B lasted nearly an hour and one-half, and about 15 people spoke.

Edwin Masters said he opposed any tax increase, suggested that the money be raised by addressing the school finance issue with state legislators, asked that the district provide only the basics and criticized the methods used in millage campaigns.

"When you use a conscience-grabbing campaign to make parents feel guilty ... that is a wicked way to do it," he said.

Masters also asked the board to "remember the kids of yesteryear in Clarkston still count, too" because they won't be able to afford homes in the community if taxes keep going up.

Two Clarkston school district teachers spoke, each voicing concerns about items that would not be restored under Plan B.

Betsy Patterson asked the board to reinstate the elementary school introductory foreign language program.

She spoke about offering young children an opportunity to think globally and a chance to build interest and excitement toward learning another language.

"It is an important, inexpensive and valuable part of our total curriculum," she said.

Holly Stephens expressed concern about the demise of the seven hour day at CHS. With Plan B, there would be six hours. If a tax increase fails, the school hours would drop to five. Seven hour days at CHS have contributed to Clarkston's reputation as an excellent school system, she said.

Stephens, a 14-year teacher at CHS, said the basics are being eroded, and because of cutbacks over the years, 10 fewer teachers at CHS handle the same number of students, and fewer college prep and non-college prep courses are offered.

"I would suggest that you make academics a top priority," she said. "This system can't pretend to be like districts having twice as much money."

Stephens also suggested that the board eliminate school bus transportation and use the money to keep academic standards high.

Gil Duhn, president of the Deer Lake Farms homeowners association, said his neighbors were concerned about the quality of education and about property values, which can drop 10 to 20 percent if schools are in trouble.

He also noted that people do not understand the Headlee Amendment or why increased assessments do not mean more money for the school district. He further suggested that students pay to ride school buses.

Board President Janet Thomas said children cannot, by law, pay for school bus rides. Much of the transportation costs are covered separately by the state, so the savings would not be extensive, she said, and special education buses could not be eliminated.

With so many working parents, eliminating the busing would be unwise, she added.

Bruce Trollman said a millage has to pass in June or the district will never recover and suggested that the board realize that people will not vote for a four-plus millage.

"I'm sure in this school district, you could sell 3 mills," he said. "At least that would be half a loaf; better than no loaf."

Mike Fauss said objections to an unfair system of supporting education by the state are not worth destroying the Clarkston school district.

"Whatever we do, we've got to vote for the millage and preserve the educational system," he said.

Others who spoke included the Rev. Robert Walters, former board of education member and pastor of Calvary Lutheran Church.

Walters said if the 5.42 mills passed, it would cost him less than $5 a week to pay the tax increase.

"If I can't choose to spend a little bit less than $5 ... I ought to move to communist East Germany where they don't have a choice," he said.

Near the hearing's end, Thomas said she had hoped to come away with a "feeling for what the people of this district would be willing to support."

"There obviously is not a clear delineation," she said.

The board plans to decide whether or not to make changes to Plan B at its regular meeting on April 11 and to set the millage amount for the June 13 ballot.

Officer-in-charge supervises Clarkston Post Office

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The first few days have been hectic, but Benjamin Long knows he will enjoy his new assignment in Clarkston.

As the officer-in-charge at the Clarkston Post Office, Long is temporarily filling in the vacancy left when William O. Kinsley II was promoted to field director for operations in Royal Oak.

So far, the 30-year veteran from the Postal Service likes what he has seen from the community.

"I think a small (town) is where it's at," he said. "I think I'm going to like it here."

Long, who lives in Lapeer County, will stay in Clarkston until a new postmaster is hired. He could work as little as two weeks or as long as three months before that happens, he said.

The inspired effort from all the workers at the post office has impressed Long.

Everyone is working hard to provide the best possible service to the community even though no one has been looking over their shoulders.

"This community is lucky to have people so aware of their jobs," he said. "That says a lot for the last manager."

He began his long stay with the post office as a clerk and carrier. Then he trained for a supervisor's job and continued his career in administration.

Previously, he was the officer-in-charge in Rochester. Other cities he has worked in include Southfield and Troy.

During his stay in Clarkston, Long will help the post office during a transition period when the postage rates increase April 3.

He has personally experienced other increases and knows what to expect from the public. He also knows the extra money generated is needed.

"We are not a profit-making company, but we do have to break even," he said.

To help customers ease their way into the new rates, the post office will extend its hours on Thursday, March 31. The office also will be open late on April 8, Long said.

There might even be a special window at the post office just for 25-cent stamps, he added.

"Hopefully all of the customers will bear with us through this transition," he said.

BENJAMIN LONG has worked for the Postal Service for 30 years and looks forward to serving Clarkston.

Mind's Eye

By Bruce A. Stewart

Dreams make sense when nothing else fits the plan.
Clouds kiss the sky and feet fall forever.

Running and getting nowhere
Screaming and nothing coming out

Water tastes like wine and dirt like caviar.
Emotions get the best of our beds.

So real the presents we dream up,
We wake wondering.

The mind's time off and a circus it plays for us.
A powerful tool and a deadly weapon taunts reality.

Turning reality into nightmares,
And the past into the present.

For an instant we remember and an eternity we forget.
Some can't forget the mind's impressions of fate.

They live a horror and have no dreams, just nightmares.
They don't need to sleep to look into the past,

Just a reason to forget it.
Let the winds blow.

Let them change the past.
Time passes when left alone.

Grasp a dream and make it last.

Fire department adds one firefighter

Despite objections from one board member, an on-call firefighter in Independence Township has been hired for full-time employment.

Bob Pursley was to start as a driver-engineer March 19, filling the position of Jack Bailey, who has been unable to work for two months because of an injury.

The board voted 6-1 to hire Pursley.

Trustee Dale Stuart, who cast the lone dissenting vote, objected to hiring a full-time person because the union contract provides for short-term coverage for a disability. Since Bailey's disability isn't long-term, the township should follow the union guidelines, he said.

Fire Chief Gar Wilson made the hiring request. He said Bailey's absence makes one of the shifts one person short, and the shifts are already hard-pressed to meet calls.

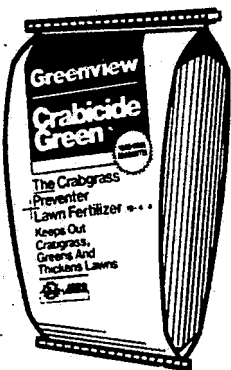

To remedy the manpower shortage, Wilson said he had planned to request the hiring of three new people next year - one for each shift. In effect, Pursley is simply being hired early, and only two more people would be hired next year, he said.

By hiring Pursley now, he said, money would be saved by decreasing overtime hours for the other employees, and each shift would be properly covered while Bailey is recovering.

After Bailey returns to work, Pursley is to work on the daytime shift, because it's the most difficult to fill with on-call firefighters and runs short of people during busy times, said Wilson.

With the hiring of two additional full-time people next year, all shifts would be equally covered, he said.

PERCHED ON A ROCK, Connie Pierce (left), 5 1/2, of Jardine Road, and Kerl Dershem, 6, of Dilley Road, taste their hard-boiled prizes.

The Springfield Township residents found several eggs aplece at the Spring Fling March 26 at Springfield Oaks County Park.

Hard-cooked eggs: Be an eggs-pert

One of Easter's oldest and most loved traditions is a basket full of brightly colored hard-cooked eggs. If eggs are to be used after the holiday, properly cooked eggs will yield the best product. Once the eggs have been hidden and found, keep them refrigerated as much as possible.

Do not eat hard-cooked eggs that have been out of refrigeration more than six to eight hours.

"It's no wonder 'hard-boiled' has come to mean a tough character," says Linda Exum, Oakland County Cooperative Extension Home Economist.

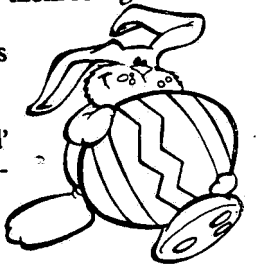

Boiling toughens the delicate protein of eggs. More gentle cooking pays off in tenderness. The method of turning off the heat when the water reaches the boiling point has two advantages: It won't toughen the eggs and it saves energy.

Start by putting the eggs in a single layer in a saucepan. Add enough water to come to at least one inch above the eggs. Cover and quickly bring just to boiling.

Turn off the heat and let the eggs stand, covered, for 15 to 17 minutes for large eggs. Immediately run cold water over the eggs or put them in ice water until completely cooled.

The fresher the egg, the harder it is to peel after it is hard-cooked. Buy eggs to be hard-cooked a week to 10 days in advance for easy peeling.

Crack the shell all over by tapping gently on a table or counter top. Roll the egg between the hands to loosen the shell, then peel it off, starting at the large end. Holding the egg under running cold water will make the process easier.

The above report was provided by the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service. (Foods hotline, 858-0904.)

THE TOY DOLL (played by Laura Richardson) and the Teddy Bear (Matt Baker) didn't know what to do when the little train broke down.

PINE KNOB ELEMENTARY students were captivated by the performers Monday afternoon when the Mrs. Richley's first-grade class staged the musical, "The Little Train."

Little players in action

Photos by Peter Auchter

CARDBOARD BOXES took the place of train cars for the first-graders in a musical production about a little helpless train stuck at the bottom of a hill with a full load of toys. The students were preparing to perform in front of their parents Tuesday evening.

Toronto, a city on the move

Downtown travel has a number of modes, by leg, car, cab and of course, trolley.

By DON RUSH
Oxford

During the 1970s the city fathers of Toronto decided their fair, old city needed a shot in the arm.

The buildings were of the grand, old architectural design — turn of the century and before. They were (and are) grand, indeed, but they needed more.

What they did, was turn Toronto into one of the most sophisticated cities this side of New York. Intermixed with the grandness of an era gone by, they created a modern wonder city.

For example:

The Eaton Center, an underground maze of shops. The Eaton Center is Canada's largest mall, with over 300 stores, 17 cinemas, hundreds of restaurants and more — basically anything one's heart could desire can be found there.

However, the Center is only a part of a larger underground network called the Concourse — in essence an underground city. The Concourse can be reached by a number of stairways throughout the ground level streets of Toronto. The Concourse is also accessible through a number of downtown hotels (of which there are a good number.)

Another modern marvel is the C.N. Tower. The Tower should be a marvel well into the 21st Century. Located on 301 Front Street, this tower is 1,815 feet, 5 inches tall. (It's hard to miss, even miles away.)

Built in 1976, the tower hosts a magnificent view of the city. It has numerous shops and restaurants and takes 58 seconds to reach the top by elevator.

Underneath and a little towards the Toronto Bay, the city is constructing a new stadium for the Toronto Blue Jays Baseball team. Just as Detroit Mayor Coleman Young would like to have done for the Tigers, Toronto's new stadium, the Skydome, will have a retractable dome. It should be completed for the 1989 season.

The city's population is 2.3 million. About a third of them are descended from the Chinese. They boast the largest "China Town" on the North American Continent. And, because of that on just about any corner you'll find a Chinese restaurant.

Toronto has a number of dinner theaters, ranging from ballet, opera, comedy, and magic to just good ol' drama. Outside of the city are subdivisions for the rich and famous, where houses sell for up to $5 million. There are castles, theme villages, tours of the bay . . .

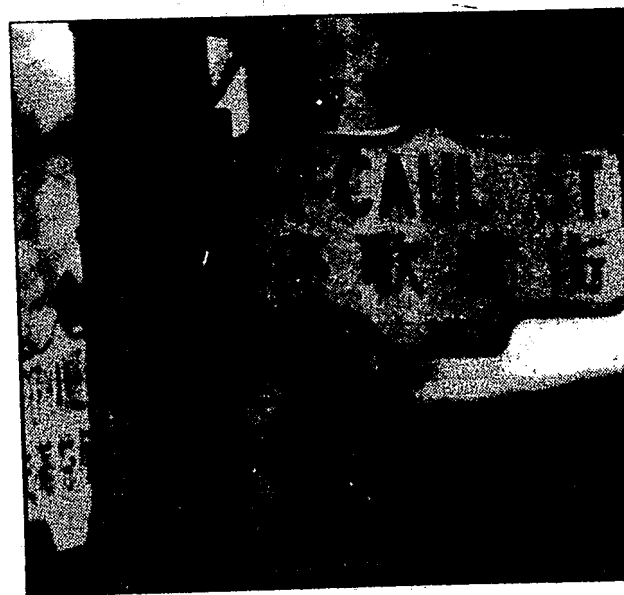

Toronto in a few words, is tough to see in a day, or on your own. There is too much to see, do and experience. A good way to get acquainted with the city is through a bus tour.

From Detroit a bus ride will take approximately 4 hours. There are a number of charter companies that make such a trip. The company I used was called Chatham Coach Lines. The driver, Don Mitchell, is the Detroit liason. He was pleasant, funny and handled the bus well. His number is 963-2256.

Another avenue to explore in chartering buses is a "bus broker". A broker has access to a number of companies, and is able to accommodate from a few people on up to a large group. A broker to try is Miles M Vieau, 227-7666.

The C.N. Tower, in the heart of Toronto, is a site to see, and an example of the city's desire to become more sophisticated.

A testimony to the city's Chinese population: In China Town, the street signs are written in Chinese as well as English.

Clarkston wrestler wins state title, six others in club grapple in finals

Brandon Rank brought home a state title for the Clarkston Wrestling Club from a tournament in Hartland recently.

Rank, wrestling in the 8-and-under group at 61 pounds, finished first in the Mid-Michigan Wrestling Association state finals March 19. He was one of seven competitors from the Clarkston club entered in the tournament.

Jason Tiefenback, Dennis Busch, Chad Auten, Eric Hund, Bryce Jarrett and Rick Mini were the other wrestlers for Clarkston.

Tiefenback, who wrestles in the 8-and-under class at 55 pounds, finished second in his division. In the 13- to 14-year-old group, Mini finished fourth.

The top four wrestlers in each division were awarded medals.

All seven qualified for the state meet by winning at the Rochester Regional tournament March 12.

Other Clarkston wrestlers attended the Michigan State Wrestling Association Tournament at Eastern Michigan University on March 13.

Arron Grant won a first-place medal in the 8-and-under age group at 45 pounds. In the 11- to 12-year-old division, Corey Grant (75 pounds) and Armin Michelsen (80) took third.

Ricky Rank (45) and Charlie Myer (40) finished second and third, respectively, for Clarkston in a AAU match in Anchor Bay March 6.

Finally, some members of the wrestling club traveled south to Liberty, Ohio, for the Black and Orange Trophy Tournament on March 19.

In the 7-and-under age bracket, heavyweight Josh Simpson finished first and Andy Auten (55 pounds) took third.

Arron Grant also took home a first-place award at 50 pounds, as did Brett Walter (67 pounds) and Corey Grant (74) in the 10- and 11-year-old age class. Michelsen (81) finished second.

Jeff DeRoseau was a first-place winner in the 12- and 13-year-old age division for Clarkston. He wrestled at 77 pounds.

UP AND OVER goes hurdler Michelle Darby during a practice session on the Clarkston

High School track last week. The girls track team is preparing itself for the opening meet of the season against North Farmington High School on April 14.

Dedicated seniors ready for final fling

Only four seniors are among the 24 athletes who made the Clarkston High girls track team this spring. The low number comes as no surprise to Coach Gordie Richardson, however.

"Normally you don't have a lot of seniors (in track), because it takes a lot of hard work and dedication," he said.

Marginal athletes tend to drop the sport before their senior years due to the tough conditioning requirements, the coach added.

Only those who are extremely dedicated to the sport remain.

Those seniors are sprinters Jane Selent and Michelle Baker and distance runner Kate Conlen. Ali Fedio will handle the shot put and discus events for the Wolves.

"They are the kids who enjoy the sport," he said. "It's hard to (find kids) who run for the joy of running."

The rest of the team will be comprised of underclassmen, including several members of the cross country team.

Especially in the hurdle events, the sophomores rule this spring.

Richardson, who has coached the varsity for a decade, knows where to place the emphasis if the Wolves are to win consistently this spring.

Winning the field events, or placing high, is an important factor in dual meet competitions, the coach said. The Wolves can't afford any mistakes this year.

"The league has gotten better in field events," he said. "The field events have gotten us off to fast starts (in previous years)."

One weakness Clarkston will have this spring is a lack of experienced high jumpers. Otherwise, the team should be able to hold its own, he said.

If everyone stays healthy, depth may prove to be the downfall of the team if they can't field a quality athlete in every event.

Clarkston lost out to Pontiac Northern in the Greater Oakland Activities League meet last season by the slimmest of margins, one point. The Huskies should be the team to beat again this year, said Richardson.

He also is keeping a wary eye on Lake Orion. The Dragons have enjoyed a very successful year in all sports, and track should be no exception, he said.

The coach also noted that his team will be hosting most track meets this season. Only the Pontiac Northern meet is away among league competitions, he said.

Currently, he is sending out queries for a May 14 girls invitational to be hosted by the Wolves. Even if the invitational doesn't pan out, Clarkston will be the center of attention when they host the GOAL meet May 21.

"There is a lot of track people to see," Richardson said. "We could use the support."

The Wolves open the season with a meet against North Farmington on April 14.

Boys team races clock at annual EMU meet

The Huron Relays were the first test for the boys track team at Clarkston High School.

As far as the coaches are concerned, the Wolves neither aced or flunked it.

High schools from across the state and Ohio converged on Ypsilanti for the Class A meet at Eastern Michigan University on Saturday.

Standings or places among the 60 schools didn't mean much at this meet for the Clarkston coaches, they only wanted to know how competitive the Wolves are at this time.

They were pleasantly surprised with the results. "It's really encouraging," said assistant coach Mike Kaul. "We are in good shape and that's a good starting point."

But because the track at EMU is indoors and the rest of the schedule the Wolves face is outdoors, the times are deceptive, said Coach Walt Wyniemo.

Indoor tracks are only half as long as their outdoor counterparts, so the runners need to make twice as many turns. As a result, the times will be different, the coach said.

Some of the top performers for the Wolves include the 4x800 meter team of Chris Locher (2:12), Chris Vandermark (2:14), Mike Kovalesky (2:12) and Mike Barnes (2:08).

Jody Lueck clocked in at 8.1 seconds in the 55 meter high hurdles. Jeff Shupe finished the 55 meter dash in 7.2 seconds.

The distance medley relay team finished its race in 11:35.

Locher (55.5), Lueck (24.4), Shupe (24.1) and Kovalesky (2:14.1) combined their talents in the sprint medley relay.

Chris Vandermark finished the 1600 meter race in 4:55.

The boys team opens the regular season against North Farmington April 14.

Force wins big again

Only eight members of the Clarkston Force karate club ventured south to a tournament in St. Louis, but they performed like a large well-oiled team.

The Force won 19 medals, including six gold, competing in a field of 180 people in St. Louis, Mo., during a weekend tournament.

"I'm extremely pleased," said instructor Joe Sanders of his team's performance in the 14th Annual Moo-Duk-Kwan Tae Kwan Do Karate championships.

The Clarkston club won six gold medals, five silver and eight bronze.

One performance in particular stood out, said Sanders.

Denire Schultz, a right-hander, won a silver medal in form and a bronze for fighting despite having her broken right hand in a cast. She competed with 12 other women in her division.

"That's spirit for you," he said.

Other big winners were Brian Bowman (one gold, two silver), his brother Alan (three bronze) and Brian Childers (two gold and one silver).

The St. Louis competition was just a little warm-up session before the entire team travels to Youngstown, Ohio, to defend its grand championship at the 14th annual Tri-State Championships.

The Force has finished on top in this particular tourney for three straight years.

"The competition will be stiff," Clarkston's instructor said. "Other instructors have called us the target."

The Tri-State Championship is scheduled April 16, and Sanders is optimistic his troops will prevail once again.

"Hopefully, we will do the usual," he said. "It's going to be a hard-fought tournament."

Time out

In the air

Peter Auchter

Ah, spring ...

Nothing beats hanging out at the track watching the athletes practice during a warm spring day.

Last week - when the weather became warmer than a mother's hug on a blustery winter day - I snuck out of the office and headed to the high school.

Athletes of all shapes, ages and sizes were stretching, running or just hanging out, taking it all in stride while preparing for the first meet of the season.

Armed with a camera filled with the last roll of film in the office mind you, I decided to catch the Wolves in action.

There were relay runners relaying the baton back and forth, hurdlers hurdling and high jumpers jumping. I tell ya, the place was hopping with action.

The hurdlers practiced the three-step, a maneuver not to be confused with the fox trot, folks. Sometimes they hit it right, other times they just hit the hurdle. Either way, it was fun to watch.

Some hurdlers had several knocks and nicks on their knees that they proudly displayed. If for no other reason, the marks proved they had been practicing hard all week.

Who cares if they can't three-step all the time?

While everyone was busy as a bee, some still found the time to notice a camera was in the vicinity and plea for a picture.

"Hey, you want a picture of the next state champ?" one of them ask me. "This would look great on the front page."

Others just stopped dead in their tracks and struck a pose for the camera. How convenient!

Of course, while deciding what pose looked best, a rapidly approaching herd of runners stampeded around the corner ready to trample anything and anyone in the way of the finish line.

Luckily, there were no injuries as the person in question slipped out of the way at the last moment.

Too bad, because THAT would have been a fantastic photo. I'm talking about front-page material. A prize-winning photo if I ever saw one.

Oh well, I guess I'll have to wait for another chance. I'm sure something funny will happen sooner or later if I hang around long enough.

Maybe I'll even learn to do the three-step.

Seniors will lead them

Underclassmen are ready to soar

While Coach Walt Wyniemko stresses team involvement, a small pack of seniors will be the team leaders for the boys track team at Clarkston High this spring.

The Wolves opened the season Saturday with an annual indoor meet at Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti Saturday afternoon. Results are elsewhere in this edition of The Clarkston News.

Wyniemko, who has coached at the varsity level at CHS for nine years, and assistant Mike Kaul look toward the core group of 14 seniors to guide the 32 underclassmen through the rugged schedule.

"We are fairly young," said Wyniemko. "The leadership of our seniors will be a very big factor."

One of the team's goals is to keep its winning tradition intact. The Wolves' lone loss during the past three seasons in dual meet play was to Greater Oakland Activities League foe Pontiac Northern.

All of the GOAL teams - including new member Brandon - should have good seasons, the coach said, but competition is the name of the game.

Top performers for Clarkston in the shot put are Keenan Powell, Andy Chinavare and John Mahler. With a 135-foot throw from junior J.J. Price last season, the discus should be a strong event for the Wolves.

Brian Garwood will handle the long jumps and Jody Lueck, a transfer student, will help in the hurdling department, the coach said.

In the running events, Clarkston has a large pool of talent.

Sprinters are K.C. Baran and Jeff Shupe. Chris Bailey and Mike Kovalesky along with newcomer Mike Barnes will hold their own in the half-mile.

Chris Locher will run the quarter-mile while Chris Vandermark, Jim Hotary and Paul Reading will pace themselves in the grueling two-mile event.

Heading into the season, Wyniemko is stressing the importance of teamwork to his young charges.

"Everybody has to be a part of it," he said.

The juniors and sophomores will have to come through in the clutch for the Wolves and pull their own weight to keep the team competitive, he added.

Their contributions will be important even if they never cross the finish line first the entire year.

Meets are not always won by the team with the most first-place finishers, the coach added. Second and third place also play a vital role in determining who wins and who loses. Especially in dual meets.

While the weather has not always cooperated, the Wolves will keep working to cut down their times to competitive numbers before the dual meet season begins April 12.

At this point, with the team running against itself in practice sessions, it's difficult to determine how strong the Wolves will be, Wyniemko said.

Wolverines begin again

As is the case every year, Clarkston Junior High can't wait to play rival Sashabaw on the baseball diamond.

This time around, the Wolverines won't have to wait long - the Cougars are penciled in as the opening day opponent on April 12.

New Coach Bill Bildstein can hardly wait to test his troops.

"That should be a good battle," he said.

The pitching and catching for Clarkston will be handled by Chad Heatherington and Jason Jones. When one is on the mound, the other will be behind the plate, said Bildstein.

As a team, the coach wants the Wolverines to create a little action on the basepaths by running a lot.

Since it's ninth grade baseball, experience usually is a rare commodity. Therefore, he will stress the fundamentals of the game.

Assisting varsity Coach Roy Warner for the past three seasons helped Bildstein gain a greater understanding of baseball, and he plans to teach the Wolverines what he learned.

Warner "knows the fundamentals," Bildstein said.

"He's just like a college coach. I have learned a lot from him."

A .500 record or better is possible for the Wolverines this season, the coach said.

New job title

Dr. Daniel Bielak recently was named the drug control chief for the United States Olympic Committee, Sports Medicine Division.

Bielak, who runs the Clarkston Family and Sports Medicine Clinic with Michael Therriault, recently evaluated the 1988 Winter Olympic Hockey team before the start of the Calgary games.

The drug control officer is responsible for supervising the procedure of drug testing of Olympic caliber athletes.

Bielak, who graduated from Wayne State University and the Chicago College of Osteopathy, will be responsible for the education of athletes, coaches, administrative and medical personnel about appropriate use of medications.

Hall of Fame beckons umpire

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Umpires are trained to ignore hoots and hollers from the crowd and players alike that come after a controversial call.

But when the foul cries come from your own mother, it becomes difficult to swallow.

Elliot "Butch" Panes, umpire in the Michigan United States Slo-pitch Softball Association (USSSA), knows the feeling all too well.

"You blew that one ump," Panes heard someone shout from a crowd of 10,000 at a game he officiated a few years back.

The criticism really didn't hit home until after the inning ended. That's when he discovered his mother was the one who chewed him out.

Today, he looks back on the incident and laughs. It's all in a day's work for an umpire, he said.

He shared the story about his mother criticizing his call with the audience during his acceptance speech when he was inducted into USSSA's Hall of Fame recently.

During his 18 years as an umpire, he has heard a lot of catcalls and learned to block them out, as long as the angry feelings disappear when the game's over.

"I'm fair with them," he said. "Hopefully I'm not just an umpire but a friend."

Panes, of Glenburnie Drive, Independence Township, keeps himself busy on the diamond all summer long.

Outside of league play, he also has officiated at many celebrity softball games - including a few pitting the crew at Pine Knob against a visiting band.

Some of the celebrities Panes has met are Detroit Lion William Gay, boxer Thomas Hearns, singer Bob Seger and retired Detroit Tigers Norm Cash and Jim Northrup.

Previous assignments include three USSSA Law Enforcement tournaments and two Professional Slo-Pitch World Series.

Despite all his success on the diamond, umpiring remains a hobby for Panes. Some guys play ball to relieve anxiety after a long week at work, he umpires.

"I've learned to block out the name calling," he said.

"I'm proud of the fact that I've only thrown out three players in 18 years."

The 37-year-old keeps busy by umpiring one night a week and weekends in leagues in Sterling Heights, Softball City and Canton tournaments.

He also goes to national tournaments during the Labor Day weekend.

One of the people who keeps him going is his wife of five years, Judy.

"She is a big supporter," he said.

He began his career as an umpire in college while attending Michigan State University in the early 1970s.

He noticed that the umpiring was less-than-perfect in the school's intramural league, so he signed up to become an umpire.

He hasn't regretted his decision for a moment.

"I never could have gone this far as a player," he said. "I know that."

Since he has to cover expenses such as travel and equipment, there isn't much money to be made.

"I do it purely to be a part of the game," he said.

Panes was inducted into the hall of fame March 5 at a dinner in the Southfield Hilton. Several other people, including Little Caesars owner Mike Illitch, were honored along with him.

While the recognition from the league was nice, nothing can come close to matching the kudos given an umpire by a losing team, he said.

"I appreciate it just as much (as entering the hall of fame) when a losing team says, 'Good job,'" he said.

ELLIOT "BUTCH" PARNES recently was inducted into a softball hall of fame for his outstanding work as an umpire during the past 18 years.

He's a good sport(sman)

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The way a friend in fifth hour described the township's parks and recreation basketball league each day persuaded a Clarkston High School senior to experience it first-hand.

Brendan McMullen, 17, not only enjoyed his first year of playing ball on Sunday afternoons in the Pony League, he won the Steve Secatch Sportsmanship Memorial Award.

While his team's name, White Death, sounded sinister, McMullen was the just the opposite, said League Director Steve Nicholson.

"I think that he is an asset to the community," the director said. "He showed up to play and not to run his mouth off."

McMullen has played baseball for about a decade in recreational leagues and currently is a member of the band at the high school.

He decided to join Independence Township's basketball program after hearing about it from a friend all through last season.

Now he knows why his friend had so much to say. "It was excellent," McMullen said. "I looked forward to it (every week)."

When the sportsmanship award - along with a handsome trophy - was presented to McMullen last week, he was dumbfounded.

"I was in major shock," he said. "I was surprised."

Nicholson said the sportsmanship award was dedicated to Steve Secatch because of his pleasant outlook on life. Secatch died last summer in an accident while at work.

Nicholson discussed the idea of creating an award in Secatch's memory with Director Tim Doyle and Manager Sheryl Stickley-Schreefel as well as Secatch's father. All gave their approval.

McMullen brought the same type of spirit Steve did to the basketball court, said Nicholson.

"There is a good nature about them," he said.

The Pony League is for kids age 15 to 18, and McMullen said he may return for another year of action next winter.

His main concern after graduation from CHS this spring will be college.

He plans to attend the Lawrence Institute of Technology, Southfield, in a business program and transfer to a state school and pick up a music minor.

Intramural sports will also be on his agenda.

"I'm into sports," he said.

BRENDAN MCMULLEN was speechless when he was presented with the Steve Secatch Sportsmanship Award from the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department.

Fresh start

A fresh group of athletes are ready and willing to improve on last season's sub-500 record for Sashabaw's ninth-grade baseball team.

Coach Tom Smith holds the same optimistic outlook.

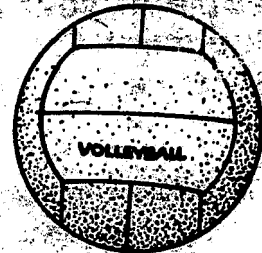

"I'm looking forward to a good season," he said. Forty students signed up for baseball this spring and 32 of them showed up for practice.

Smith said he found cutting the roster size down to a workable number for one coach (16 players) a difficult task.

"It was a pretty good turnout," he said. "They are good kids."

Of the students left, many are ready to blossom into talented athletes.

After talking with area recreation league coaches, Smith said he's confident he has a good group.

Store robbed by gun-toting man

A case of beer and $125 were stolen March 17 by a gun-wielding robber wearing a baseball hat and a knit scarf at the Hop-In on Clarkston Road in Independence Township.

No one was injured in the incident, and police are still investigating, said Detective Sgt. Charles Williams of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department (OCSD).

Before the robber arrived around 10:35 p.m. Thursday, March 17, a young black man entered the 24-hour convenience store near Eston Road and tried to buy a case of beer, according to OCSD reports.

While he was searching for identification to prove he was old enough to buy alcohol, a white man entered the store, wearing a red and white baseball cap, brown-rimmed glasses and a blue scarf over his face.

He was carrying a blue, short-barreled pistol, and he yelled to the customer to hit the floor.

The armed man then walked toward the cashier, pointing the gun at him, and demanded all the money from the drawers in the back room.

"Don't be looking at me," he shouted at the cashier,

The Clarkston (Mich.) News Wed., Mar. 30, 1988 27

and with the gun to his back, he forced the cashier to the back room, where they found the assistant manager counting money.

The robber grabbed some of the money and pulled the phone cord from the wall. He continuously told the employees keep their heads down, so they couldn't see him.

The robber warned the employees to stay in the back room for an hour, and then he ran out of the room.

After the employees heard the outside door open, they went into the store, and found the robber gone. The customer and the case of beer were also gone.

The customer is not a suspect in the armed robbery, said Williams, adding police are following a couple of leads on the identity of the armed suspect.

The wanted man is about 5-foot-10, 160 pounds, of medium build and estimated to be in his 20s, said Williams.

Anyone with information should call the sheriff's department at 858-4950.

Independence ups dust control share

After the snow melts and the mud dries, dust probably will plague gravel roads in Independence Township.

To combat the dust clouds, the township board voted unanimously to participate again in the Oakland County Dust Control program and also voted to increase the township contribution to the cost.

The township is to pay 15 cents per foot instead of 12 cents per foot toward the total charge of 30 cents per foot. The residents are to pay the remaining 15 cents.

Usually, residents organize the chloride program for their area, said Clerk Richard Holman.

Residents who want their roads chlorided should contact the Oakland County Road Commission Citizen Service Department at 858-4804 for an application. Applications must be submitted to the road commission on or before April 29.

Shop opens

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

There's a new face in one of Clarkston's most familiar shops.

Susan Essmaker recently purchased Country Greens from Cindy and Mike Krause. Eventually, Essmaker plans to move to the Clarkston area, but for now, she commutes to the store from Mt. Clemens.

"I had planned to buy a shop within three years anyway, but this one came up, and it has all the elements of my interest and experience," Essmaker says. "I've always been interested in country history."

Country Greens is a florist and gift shop with a definite country flavor. It conjures up thoughts of hand-woven baskets and the aroma of potpourri for most who have browsed the shop in downtown Clarkston.

Essmaker says she likes the fact that you can blend antiques into the store, and says she plans to continue the same shop traditions, the same unique items and high quality flowers.

"It's so nice here," she says. "I like a place where you can walk around downtown. I missed that."

Though Essmaker comes from the Mt. Clemens area, she grew up in Sault Ste. Marie, a place much like Clarkston with water and countryside.

Of Clarkston she says, "I love the little lakes, the hills, the whole atmosphere."

Essmaker says she was "raised among the roses,"

SUSAN ESSMAKER adds a few items to the Easter tree at Country Greens in downtown Clarkston. She recently purchased the florist and gift shop from Mike and Cindy Krause, and says they were very helpful in the transition of ownership.

with four generations of rose growers in her family. She is the only retailer.

Essmaker has experience in retail florists, sales and management, and a degree in accounting. For the last five years she has sold real estate in Macomb County, but came back to the florist business when she acquired Country Greens.

"Country Greens is a place you feel good because you came in," she says. "It makes a difference in your day. It's like a treat."

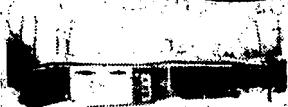

One thing she says she wants to do is establish more business accounts for the store, and get involved with interior decorators in the area, "maybe even have our own consulting in the home."

She is excited about the shop participating in the SCAMP homes tour again this year, and plans on becoming quite involved in the community.

"I'm planning to join the Chamber of Commerce and do other things to preserve this community," Essmaker says. "Coming here, I feel like I'm coming home."

Falling radio starts fire

A garage fire, apparently started by an electrical wire from a fallen radio, caused about $2,000 damage to a residence on Heath Road, off Maybee Road in Independence Township, on March 26.

The owner used a garden hose and almost completely extinguished the fire before firefighters arrived, said Capt. Neil Ashley, of the Independence Township Fire Department.

Firefighters spent about 20 minutes putting out the rest of the fire and checking the attic for additional flames, said Ashley, adding only smoke entered the actual house.

One garage wall, part of the roof support, shelves, a radio and minor tools were lost in the fire, he said.

Before the fire started, the homeowner was cleaning some tool parts with gasoline on a workbench in the garage, and a radio was hanging from the ceiling, where it was plugged into an electrical socket, said Ashley.

While the homeowner was in the house, the radio must have fallen, knocked over the gasoline and ignited materials in the garage, he said.

No one was injured in the fire.

New classrooms planned for church

After a half-hour discussion, the planning commission granted unanimous approval of the conceptual site plan for an 8,000-square-foot addition to St. Trinity Lutheran Church on Sashabaw Road in Independence Township.

Planned for 10 acres west of Sashabaw Road, north of Clarkson Road, the addition was approved subject to buffering the rear parking lot from adjacent residential property and adding landscaping in the front greenbelt between the church and the road.

"In general, I like what I see," said Chairperson Brent Bair. "I think you've done a good job."

The addition to the 11,000-square-foot building is to house classrooms, not more pews, and parking will be added to meet township requirements.

Some of the landscaping, mostly donated by church members in memorium, will be relocated to allow the addition, said Bill Billig, chairman of the church building committee.

If all approvals are received this spring, construction is to begin in May and be completed by November, he said.

New owner

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

In a small, quiet office above the Clarkston Cafe in downtown Clarkston, Sandra Ramirez works at what she does best. Sewing.

It is what she has done for the last 26 years of her life. Even as a child, she created rag dolls and clothed them. Coming from a large family, she helped clothe them, too.

Designs Inc. By Sandra opened in Clarkston in January. Sandra previously owned a bridal and alteration business on Huron Street in Pontiac. With a little help from her fiance, Charles Stewart of Independence Township, she moved to the Clarkston location.

What's New in Business

She has plans to expand into a larger sewing area and manufacture her own label. But for now, she is content building a new clientele.

"I like the area," Sandra says. "It takes people awhile to get to know a business is here."

Building her business shouldn't be too tough. She has an impressive resume.

Sandra attended Oakland University, Rochester, on a scholarship and continued her education in Texas, her native state. She has a master's degree in sewing and design.

In Dallas, she worked at Mockingbird Bridal and had her own designs modeled at the Dallas Country Club. She has also worked at Nieman Marcus, Jacobson's, and Saks Fifth Avenue and has worked for designer Lillie Rubin.

In Room 12 above the Clarkston Cafe, Sandra

SANDRA RAMIREZ puts the finishing touches on a custom-made bridal veil she beaded herself. She recently opened Designs

Inc. By Sandra and does alterations, custom bridal work, formal wear, dressmaking and creates designs under her own label.

alters old clothes or creates new ones for men and women. She does tailoring work for men, including restyling of old suits. She does custom bridal dresses, custom bridal veils that she beads by hand and makes other accessories for the wedding, including silk bouquets and hairpieces.

She enjoys remaking older clothes - antique clothes are her specialty - and can bring them up to date or adjust them to fit a different size.

"Sometimes girls like to wear their grandmother's dress for a wedding," she says.

She also designs clothes for people, and hopes to sell her own designs to area stores when she expands. She also makes custom draperies.

And her prices? She says she likes to keep them to "something the working person can afford." She can have orders ready in a day or two for special circumstances, but prefers a week or two for custom orders. She will happily give estimates and fashion advice to her customers.

On clothing racks in her office are outfits for a wedding party, several bridal veils, proms and graduation outfits and a complete outfit of Florida clothes for a woman heading out on vacation.

Inside the waistband of a meticulously created pair of white shorts for the Florida-bound customer is Sandra's "autograph." The label says: "Specially Fashioned By Sandra."

Beautiful eggs? Naturally!

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Coloring Easter eggs can be as easy as looking in your refrigerator for the "natural" dyes.

Participants at Saturday's "Spring Egg-citement" program at Independence Oaks Nature Center off Sashabaw Road learned about egg customs and natural Easter decorations. The program was conducted by art teacher and part-time seasonal naturalist Candy Garbacz.

Easter has been a spring celebration for thousands of years. It is a time of rebirth, with a multitude of legends and myths surrounding the holiday, says Garbacz, and eggs have always been a part of that celebration.

Garbacz demonstrated how people can decorate eggs using natural dyes used by the Pennsylvania Dutch.

Holly schools schedule kindergarten signups

Parents who live in the Holly Area School District are to register their children who will be 5 years old on or before Dec. 1, 1988, at one of the three elementary schools.

In Springfield Township, Davisburg Elementary School at 12003 Davisburg Road holds registration Wednesday, April 20, from 7 to 8:30 p.m.

A short program on child development and regular and developmental kindergarten will be presented, and enrollment forms will be available. Children are welcome to attend.

For more information, call 634-4301.

Pet of the Week

An Easter goose?

Jade is a domestic Chinese swan goose, a rare breed not usually found here.

He is as friendly as a goose gets, which means he doesn't exactly run up begging to be petted, but he is not at all aggressive, either.

He would decorate any yard with elegance. All he needs is a small pool (even a wading pool would do) and a little "goose house" to spend the nights in. A fenced yard would be helpful, though once he gets used to his home, he probably won't stray from it.

Jade can be adopted, just in time for Easter, at the Michigan Humane Society, 3600 Auburn Rd., Auburn Heights, 852-7420. Hours at the non-profit shelter are 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

The fee for Jade is a $5 donation, and shelter workers would be happy to offer advice about owning a goose.

JADE IS a goose of rare breed.

Too pretty to eat

Ukrainian Easter eggs keep ancient tradition alive

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Hanging like jewels in a display case at Tierra Arts and Design are intricately decorated Ukrainian eggs.

Ukrainian eggs were created long ago in pagan times as part of a rite of spring and sun worship ceremonies. When broken, the yoke represented the sun and the whites, the moon.

The tradition carried over into Christianity. Symbols on the eggs became Christian symbols, such as stylized crosses.

Every design and symbol on the Ukrainian egg has meaning. The colors have meaning as well, and each community creates its own designs.

Traditionally, the eggs were done during the Lenten season. Ukrainian families would sit down and do 40-50 of them - as many as they needed for the coming year.

A symbol of good luck, the eggs were given as gifts on many special occasions, such as the birth of a baby or at a wedding. Light colors were given to children, darker colors to adults.

The delicate eggs, still created by Ukrainians today, may be purchased for about $6 at Tierra. But people can create their own Ukrainian eggs, too, according to Cherie Hartwick, craft consultant at the Clarkston store.

They carry all the supplies needed, and Cherie happily gives demonstrations on the art in a special corner of the store set up just for Easter. They also have numerous books on the subject and a video people can rent.

Thursday (March 31), Cherie is doing a program on Ukrainian eggs on her show, "Cherie's Craft Corner," on Clarkston cable-TV Channel 65.

While she is quick to point out that hers are not as intricate as the genuine thing she sells at Tierra, she says everyone can have fun decorating eggs the Ukrainian way.

The necessary supplies are fairly simple: whole raw eggs (the insides dry out eventually), a tool called a kistka (a wooden stick with a brass funnel wrapped with copper), and the dyes (they are not edible, so the eggs are intended only for decoration, not for eating).

The kistka is heated over a candle, then a little beeswax is scooped up with it. As the wax heats, it comes down through the tip of the funnel, which is used to draw a design on the egg. First, draw everything that is intended to be left white. Then dip the egg in the lightest colored dye.

The next design drawn will remain the color of the first dye. The egg is dipped in progressively darker dyes, and whatever design is drawn after each dipping will remain the color of that dye.

When all desired designs are drawn on the egg and it has been dipped in the darkest color, carefully hold it up to the candle to melt the beeswax and gently wipe off the wax.

When clean, the egg can be rubbed or sprayed with varnish to preserve the design. The dyes can be saved for later use.

"They are just too pretty to put away after one short season," Cherie says. "They can also be made as Christmas ornaments."

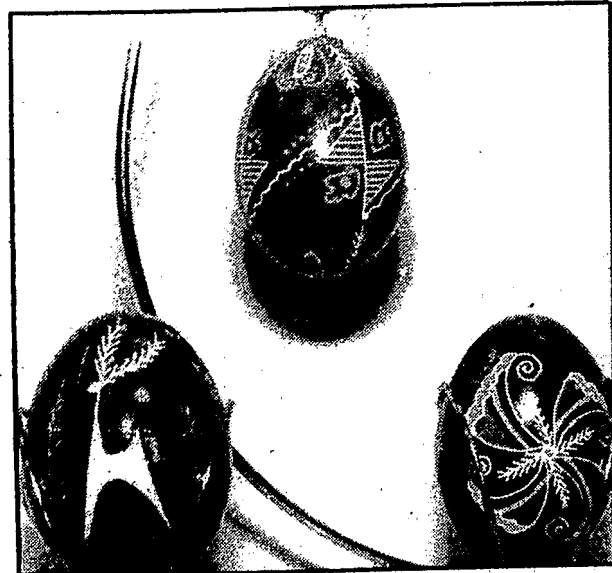

To make eggs as beautiful as the genuine Ukrainian eggs would take patience and a lot of talent. But most people just like to have fun with the technique.

And for the less artistic who want to make their own, Cherie points out that Tierra has "cheaters," shrink wrap Ukrainian designs you can put on eggs.

And these eggs, if hard boiled and properly stored, would be safe to eat when Easter is over.

CHERIE HARTWICK, craft consultant at Tierra Arts and Design of Clarkston, demonstrates the technique used for decorating Ukrainian Easter eggs.

UKRAINIAN EGGS, intricately designed with layers of dye, are available at Tierra Inc. For those who want to try the technique, supplies and how-to books are available.

Camp Fire candy bars melt into tasty desserts

BY KATHY GREENFIELD
Clarkston News Editor

The Camp Fire clan gathered round the kitchen table to dip fruit slices and angel food cake into the melted chocolate bars.

With great curiosity, they tasted the treats they created. Their automatic reactions ranged from "Mmmm" and to "Yuck," deftly illustrating the rating clarity consistently shown by youngsters.

There seemed to be no clear consensus on what was delicious and what wasn't - except for the chocolate, which was finger-licking good.

Perhaps the biggest lesson for the charges of Camp Fire leaders Chris Forton and Jane Olinger was that there can be more to candy bar eating than ripping off the wrapper and taking a bite.

The candy adventure is directly related to the Camp Fire fund-raiser coming up from April 15 to May 1 when members of the organization will sell milk chocolate with almonds candy bars to neighbors and friends for $2 a bar.

A percentage of proceeds from the sales will go directly to each club, and the girls and boys will receive prizes for their efforts including patches and other awards. Profits also pay for Camp Fire programming for 5- to 18-year-olds in the Camp Fire - North Oakland Council, which is composed of Avondale, Rochester, West Bloomfield, Clarkston, Brandon, Lake Orion, Oxford and Waterford.

The council provided the following recipes, which are perfect ways to use the Camp Fire candy bars:

CHOCOLATE FONDUE

Makes 2 1/2 cups

1 pound milk chocolate candy

3/4 to 1 cup heavy cream

3 tablespoons brandy or imitation brandy flavoring

For dipping: strawberries, pear and apple slices, seedless grapes, banana chunks, tangerine and orange slices, pound cake squares, angel food cake squares.

1. Combine chocolate candy and 3/4 cup heavy cream in a heavy saucepan. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until chocolate is melted. Add brandy. Remove from heat.

2. Pour into small fondue pot; surround with fruit and cake. Spear pieces of fruit or cake on fondue forks; twirl into sauce; provide small plates to catch drippings. If mixture becomes too thick, stir in additional cream.

DOUBLE CHOCOLATE MARSHMALLOW PIE

Makes one 9-inch pie

1 chocolate pie crust

5 ounces milk chocolate

1 cup (1/2 pint) whipping cream, whipped

20 marshmallows

1/4 cup milk

In heavy saucepan, over low heat, melt chocolate, marshmallows and milk, stirring occasionally. Remove from heat.

Chill 1 hour or until completely cooled. Fold in whipped cream. Turn into pastry shell. Chill 4 hours or until set.

If desired, garnish with additional whipped cream and chocolate. Refrigerate leftovers.

CAMP FIRE members David Olinger and Andrea Forton learn that fondue is fun, as they dip cake and fruit slices into the mixture featuring melted Camp Fire candy bars.

CAMP FIRE leader Chris Forton slices the Double Chocolate Marshmallow Pie created from a Camp Fire candy bar.

JANE OLINGER, also a leader of the Camp Fire group, is wowed by the taste of the pie she baked.

Microwave Plus

After Easter: ham stew

Ham and chocolate are two foods that consistently appear on the Easter dinner table. Following are some tips from The Reynolds Wrap Kitchens in Richmond, Va., for preparing treats using these foods.

STIRRABLE HAM STEW Serves 4

Great for leftover ham, but a little salty for those of you who mind.

1 1/2 pounds cooked ham, cut into 1/2-inch cubes
3 cans (10 3/4 ounce each) cream of potato soup
2 cans (4 ounce each) whole mushrooms, drained
1 cup chopped pecans
1 cup chopped onion
1/2 cup grated carrots

Line two 1 1/2 quart microwavable casseroles with heavy duty Reynolds Wrap. If you wish to serve one now, omit foil lining from one dish. In large mixing bowl, combine all ingredients. Spoon half of the stew into each casserole.

To cook immediately: Place unlined dish in oven. Microwave, covered, on high power for 8 to 12 minutes, or until heated through, stirring once.

Seal for freezing this way: When lining casserole, leave a 1 1/2-inch collar around edges. Fold foil smoothly to sides and bottom of dish. Place food in dish. Cover with piece of foil the same size as casserole and collar. Press air out from center toward sides. Fold edges of foil up and over. Press together to seal tightly. Freeze in dish until solid. Remove foil package from casserole. Label contents, date and number of servings. Return to freezer until ready to serve.

To defrost and cook stirrable casserole: Score aluminum foil with sharp knife around bottom of frozen casserole. Peel foil from top and bottom of casserole, leaving sides intact to shield food. Place food in original dish. Cover loosely. Microwave at 50 percent (medium) power for 15 minutes. Remove foil, stir. Microwave at 50 percent power for 5 to 10 minutes, or until heated through. Stir, then serve.

Tip for microwaving ham: Mold aluminum foil strips over top and side edges of ham half. Cook fully cooked boneless, rolled ham at 50 percent (medium) power for 10 to 15 minutes per pound; canned ham at 50 percent power for 6 to 8 minutes per pound; and bone-in, fully cooked for 11 1/2 to 14 1/2 minutes per pound starting at high power for the first 5 minutes, then at 50 percent power for the remaining time.

Cooking times are from Microwaving Meats by Barbra Methven, Microwave Cooking Library, copyright 1979 by Publication Arts, Inc.

EDIBLE CHOCOLATE DESSERT SHELLS Serves 4

3/4 cup semi-sweet chocolate morsels
2 teaspoons shortening
Orange sherbet
Vanilla ice cream
Orange liqueur
4 baking shells
Foil

Cut four squares of Reynolds Wrap aluminum foil about 1 inch larger than baking shells. Mold foil over back of four baking shells (about 4-5 inches in diameter). Turn under excess foil. Place shells on foil-lined cookie sheet.

Melt chocolate and shortening in 2 cup Pyrex measure at 50 percent (medium) power for about 3 minutes, stirring every minute.

Coat shells with chocolate by using the back of a spoon and carefully spreading chocolate over back of foil-lined shells. (Do not spread chocolate over edge; this will cause chocolate to crack when removing from baking shells.) Refrigerate 1-2 hours.

Carefully remove baking shells from refrigerator, leaving foil backing on chocolate shells. Peel foil from chocolate shells by placing chocolate side down on serving plate and gently peeling off foil. (Note: Excessive handling of chocolate shells may cause softening.) Refrigerate an additional 30-60 minutes or until firm.

Before serving: Fill with scoops of orange sherbet and vanilla ice cream, top with liqueur.

Spring break, 1492 style

Let it be known that Spring Break, as it is widely called, is not as recent a tradition as one might think. Quite the contrary is true.

Spring Break's primal beginnings can be traced not to a group of overactive hormonal adolescents, but instead to the New World's founder himself - Christopher Columbus.

Little is known about the actual life of Columbus, except for the fact that he was a sailor and liked women.

This in itself, it has been said, was all that was needed to give Christopher the inspiration for his fated voyage. Thus, in April of 1492 the first recorded Spring Break began to take shape.

Problems, however, soon arose. Columbus, in dire need of financial backing, was forced to seek monetary assistance from Spain's King Ferdinand and Queen Isabella.

At first, the monarchs balked at the idea, but they were eventually swayed to Columbus' cause by the explorer's plea, "But all my friends are going!"

So after much deliberation, Christopher was given his sorely needed funding ... as long as he promised not to spend it all in one place and remembered that "money doesn't grow on trees, you know."

Consequently, on Aug. 3, 1492, with the smell of suntan lotion permeating the breeze, Columbus and his belated band of sun-seekers took flight.

Sailing in a vanguard of three vessels, the Nina, the Pinta and the flagship, Meister Brau (the good ship Michelob being too expensive to obtain), it became apparent the voyage would not be an easy one.

The living conditions were atrocious, with several men unable to shower and forced to share incredibly small, dark, hot and steamy quarters. (Not entirely unlike today's Spring Breakers.) It soon became unbearable.

Halfway to the New World, their supply of fresh water and fresh underwear exhausted, the crew began to grumble of mutiny. They demanded that Columbus turn the expedition back for Spain.

To this, the famous explorer - ever the consummate thinker - had one reply. "Hot babes!" All deckhands were soon back at work.

During the pre-dawn of Oct. 12, 1492, islands - the present day Bahamas - were finally sighted by a lookout. Soon after, Columbus and his thankful crew made their historic landfall.

Under the seal of Partius Nackedus (an enduring motto present throughout the Bahama Islands as well as Florida today), Christopher claimed the newfound territory in the name of hedonists everywhere.

The ceremony was watched closely by the scrutinous eyes of the island's fearful natives. It was at this time that Columbus experienced his first contact with the native North Americans.

With each side wary of the other, the curious factions approached cautiously across the open beach. Nothing but the pounding surf could be heard as they faced each other - civilized man with all his ages of knowledge and refinement versus the wild, unabated savage.

Nothing but silence, silence ...

Suddenly, the uneasy stillness was shattered as the Bahamian chief, in his best traditional JAMS and sunglasses cried out, "Hey mon, let's limbo!" And they did just that.

Thus was celebrated the first, though belated, Spring Break, an event steeped in tradition and proudly upheld by righteous youth everywhere.

Easter Egg tips

There is no end to the creative possibilities for expression on an egg shell.

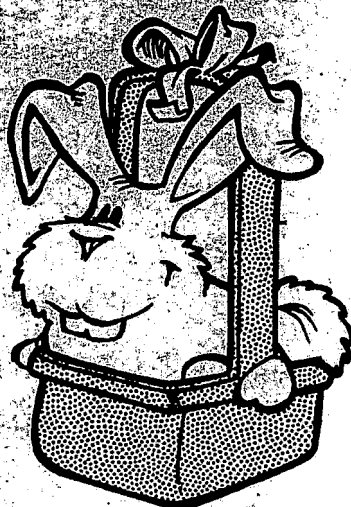

Eggs can be painted or colored with crayons or felt-tipped pens, turned into funny faces or animals, trimmed with sequins or dyed in a variety of hues.

If eggs are to be dyed, washing in a mild detergent solution helps remove shell oil so the color adheres evenly. Commercial egg dyes or food coloring work perfectly.

Here are some special Easter Egg tips from the American Egg Board to keep in mind:

- Wash hands before handling cooled eggs and before coloring them.
- If eggs cannot be colored right away, store in their cartons in the refrigerator.
- Do not color, hide or eat cracked eggs.
- When coloring eggs, use water warmer than the eggs.
- Store colored eggs in their cartons in the refrigerator until you hide them.
- After eggs have been hidden and found, keep them refrigerated.
- Do not eat hard-cooked eggs that have been out of refrigeration for more than six to eight hours.

The above information was provided by the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service. (Foods hotline, 858-0904.)

Speeches win awards

Suzanne Baumann and Jeff Killion were winners in the annual Clarkston Optimists Club Oratorical Contest. The junior high school students subject for the competition was, "Destiny - choice, not chance."

Baumann, a ninth-grader at Sashabaw Junior High, finished first in the girls portion of the program on March 16 at Clarkston Elementary School.

Amy Desroches, a seventh-grader, took second and Natalie Burge, an eighth-grader, finished as runner-up. Both attend Clarkston Junior High.

Killion, a seventh-grader from CJH, was awarded first place in the boys competition on Monday.

Second place went to Greg Flynn and the runner-up was Brenden Kelly. Both are students at Clarkston Junior High.

Each first-place winner received a $200 savings bond from the Clarkston Optimist Club to help further his or her education.

They also advance to a regional competition at Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti on May 7. Should the Clarkston students win at EMU, they will attend the state competition at Schuss Mountain Resort on May 24.

The prize they will be after is a $2,400 scholarship.

Friend to Friend

Wise decision

Dear Friend to Friend,

My mother and I are always arguing because she thinks that I watch too much television. My grades are up, but when I get home from school, I like to sit down, relax and watch television. Help me settle this argument.

I WANT MY MTV

Dear MTV,

By your letter, we cannot tell how much TV you're really watching. Maybe you should keep a chart so you can see for yourself if you really watch too much TV.

We think it is important to relax and unwind after school, but there are other ways to unwind. Some of the ways members of our group unwind are exercising, reading, listening to music, taking a nap, sports and chores. (This should also make your mom happy.)

Compromise with your mom and work out a schedule of when you can watch TV and when you will do other activities. You may even find that you have more energy and that you enjoy other activities more.

Dear Friend to Friend,

I'm totally against drinking for myself, but I faced a situation on Saturday night that I just want your opinion on. I went out with three of my best friends and our two little sisters. We all went dancing.

Two of my friends wanted to stop and get some beer. So we pulled into the party store and asked the gentleman in the car next to us to buy for us, which he did.

After we got the beer, I didn't want my little sister or her friend to be involved with this, so we dropped them off at the dance, and we cruised through McDonald's.

My two friends drank as I and my other friend got a pop. We sat in the parking lot and drank.

I think my other friends who were drinking felt uncomfortable because they asked us if we wanted a beer, and we said no. At the end, they felt more uncomfortable than we did.

Even though I had a very, very good time, I wondered what you thought and what I should do if it happens again.

STRAIGHT AND PROUD OF IT

Dye eggs naturally

She used blueberries for the blue dye, red raspberries for the red, saffras for bright orange, spinach for green, and onion skins for pinkish orange (red onions) and pale yellow (yellow onions). Marigolds can also be used for yellow.

First, chop the material and put in an old pot (the dyes will stain the pot). Then add four cups of water and simmer until it becomes desired color. Strain out the chopped material and add alum or vinegar as a mordant, to make the dye adhere to the egg shell. The dyes will adhere better if warm when dipping the eggs.

Before dyeing hard-boiled eggs, wipe them clean with a vinegar and water solution. Designs can be drawn on the eggs first with paraffin wax.

Garbacz suggested other natural egg decorations as well. Clovers or small flower petals can be pressed on the egg and covered with cheesecloth before the egg is dipped. After the egg is dyed, the outline of the leaf will be left on the egg. Bits of decorative plant material can be glued on after the egg is dry, too.

Garbacz demonstrated that all it takes to decorate an Easter egg is a little imagination and a few natural materials, but she did stress that dyes must be edible if the eggs will be eaten later.

LARGE SELECTION OF GOOD USED TIRES
AND USED AUTO PARTS AT SUPER BARGAIN PRICES

Dear Straight and Proud of It,

You should be proud of being straight. Everybody in our group feels you used very good judgment by not using, but we have a couple of concerns about some things you mentioned.

For example, the impression that may have been left with your little sister and her friend. A good idea may be to sit down with your sister and explain to her that it wasn't a typical evening and explain how you are against drinking and other drugs.

Make sure she knows that you weren't drinking and that you felt good about the decisions that you made.

Plus, she must have felt bad because you just dropped her off after she had made plans with you. A couple of us in the group have had that happen to us, and we felt bad also.

Another concern is about the open intoxicants that you had in the car. It's against the law, and even though you weren't drinking, if you were to be pulled over by the police, you could receive a ticket for minor in possession - just for being in the car with beer.

We're also concerned because you could have been in danger, with your own life as well as others, if the person who was driving was drinking.

If you wanted to really prove a point to your friends, maybe you and your friend should have gotten out of the car with your sister.

Because you chose to stay in the car, you have, in effect, given your friends permission to drink, which is called enabling. Again, we commend you on your decision on not to drink.

PRAYER TO THE Holy Spirit. Holy Spirit, You make me see everything and show me the way to reach my ideals. You give me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrongs that are done to me and you are in all instances of my life with me. I, in this short dialogue, want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you no matter how great the material desire may be. I want to be with you, and my loved ones, in your perpetual glory. Amen. Persons must pray this prayer 3 consecutive days without asking for your wish. After the 3rd day your wish will be granted, no matter how difficult it may be. Then, promise to publish this dialogue as soon as your favor has been granted. Impossible wish granted. IILX34-2*

Hobby keeps a song in their house

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

It began innocently enough.

Harold and Linda Cloutier of Waterford were looking for the perfect Christmas gift for Harold's father. Since he always talked of the canary he once owned and how it would sing, they went shopping for one.

That was over eight years ago.

Since then, a room in the Cloutier basement has been transformed into canary condos, filled with colorful, singing canaries. This time of year, it is also filled with fur-lined nests of tiny babies, eyes peering over the side, necks outstretched and mouths open, waiting for food.

"When we first started looking for a canary and I heard it sing, it sent chills down my spine," says Harold. "It was such a beautiful song."

They wound up keeping the canary they bought for his father and started visiting canary breeders.

"We decided to try breeding some ourselves and had excellent luck the first year," he says. "We had canary cages everywhere - on counters, on the television."

Next, they found out there were clubs of canary breeders where they could get more information. Then they discovered the clubs held shows. They started by just going to the shows and watching; then they entered their own canaries.

"The first year, we came home with lots of trophies," Harold says.

More trophies and ribbons followed, so many in fact, that Harold and Linda have given away some.

A NEST OF NEW BABIES is checked by canary breeder Harold Cloutier of Waterford.

He and wife, Linda, began raising canaries after falling in love with their beautiful song.

Currently, one of their birds is a Best of Show Norwich, having won the honor over all types of cage birds.

In addition to Norwiches, they raise Red Factors and Lipochromes, all songbirds, but the Norwiches are the rarest and are raised primarily for showing. They are also the most expensive, selling for about $150 each.

Raising canaries is a mutual hobby for Harold and Linda. When they get up in the morning, all the birds must be fed. Harold and Linda dish up a mixture of grains and chopped seeds, hard-boiled eggs and vitamins into feeders of the 15 to 20 adults. They, in turn, feed the hungry babies.

By the time breeding season is over, the Cloutiers might have as many as 150 baby canaries to care for.

In the evening, the feeding is repeated when the Cloutiers arrive home from work. Harold teaches sixth- and seventh-grade math and computers at Brandon Middle School. Linda is director of communications at Orchard Lake Country Club.

The former Independence Township residents have two sons, Matthew, 14, and Mark, 12. Though the boys have dabbled in canary raising, they don't share their parents' exuberance for the hobby.

"When I walk into the (canary) room, I say, 'Hi kids, it's me,'" Linda says with a laugh.

She checks all the nests for "surprises" that may have arrived while they were at work and excitedly points out a newly hatched baby, fragile and nearly featherless, eyes still shut.

Mother canary has already disposed of the broken egg shells, but three other eggs are still waiting to hatch in the nest with the new baby.

It was Linda who founded the National Plainhead Canary Club while they were attending a national show in Texas. She is still secretary-treasurer of the club, and she is past president of the Midwest Cage Bird Club. She oversees a lot of the breeding, and they both keep meticulous records on every bird.

Harold, happy to share the hobby with his wife, says his Saturday chores include the laundry and the cage cleaning. He has been show secretary for the Midwest Cage Bird Club for the last couple of years.

The canary condos have been made more sophisticated over the years.

Harold has added automatic light timers - when the lights go out, the birds are quiet - and an automatic watering system to each cage. The floors of the cages are removable, creating larger cages with more "flying room" for the birds after nesting season is over.

The Cloutier travel trailer sits idle in the driveway this time of year, but soon they will whisk their most prized birds away to shows.

They also sell birds all over the country, and even "bird sit" for relatives and friends who have the offspring of their brood.

On those rare occasions when they are off to shows on weekends, Linda says the grandparents babysit "both the birds and the boys."

A large parrot reigns over the dining room. Outside, wild birds the Cloutiers have befriended are visible, including a mourning dove with a broken wing that visits the back porch frequently. Bird feeders and a large bird bath are positioned throughout the yard.

A chorus of canary songs wafts up the basement stairs, and Harold smiles, saying, "That's why we raise canaries."
