Voters will ponder 5.5

BY KATHY GREENFIELD
Clarkston News Editor

On the June 13 ballot, Clarkston school district voters will be asked to approve 5.5 mills for operational purposes and a $5.2 million bond for repairs to existing buildings.

The board of education unanimously approved the ballot questions at Monday night's meeting.

The 5.5 mills are a bit higher than the 5.42 mills originally proposed for the restoration plan if voters approve the millage request.

The .08 mill was added to restore introductory foreign language classes for fourth-, fifth- and sixth-graders, in compliance with a request made during the public hearing last month regarding the plan.

If voters approve the operational tax hike, which would increase tax bills $5.50 for each $1,000 of assessed property valuation, programs would be restored to the 1986-87 level.

If voters reject the tax, the board-approved plan to reduce the 1988-89 budget by $1.7 million would go into effect. Among the losses would be 29 teaching positions; all extracurricular activities including sports, marching band and drama; and physical education, music and

8 seek 2 seats

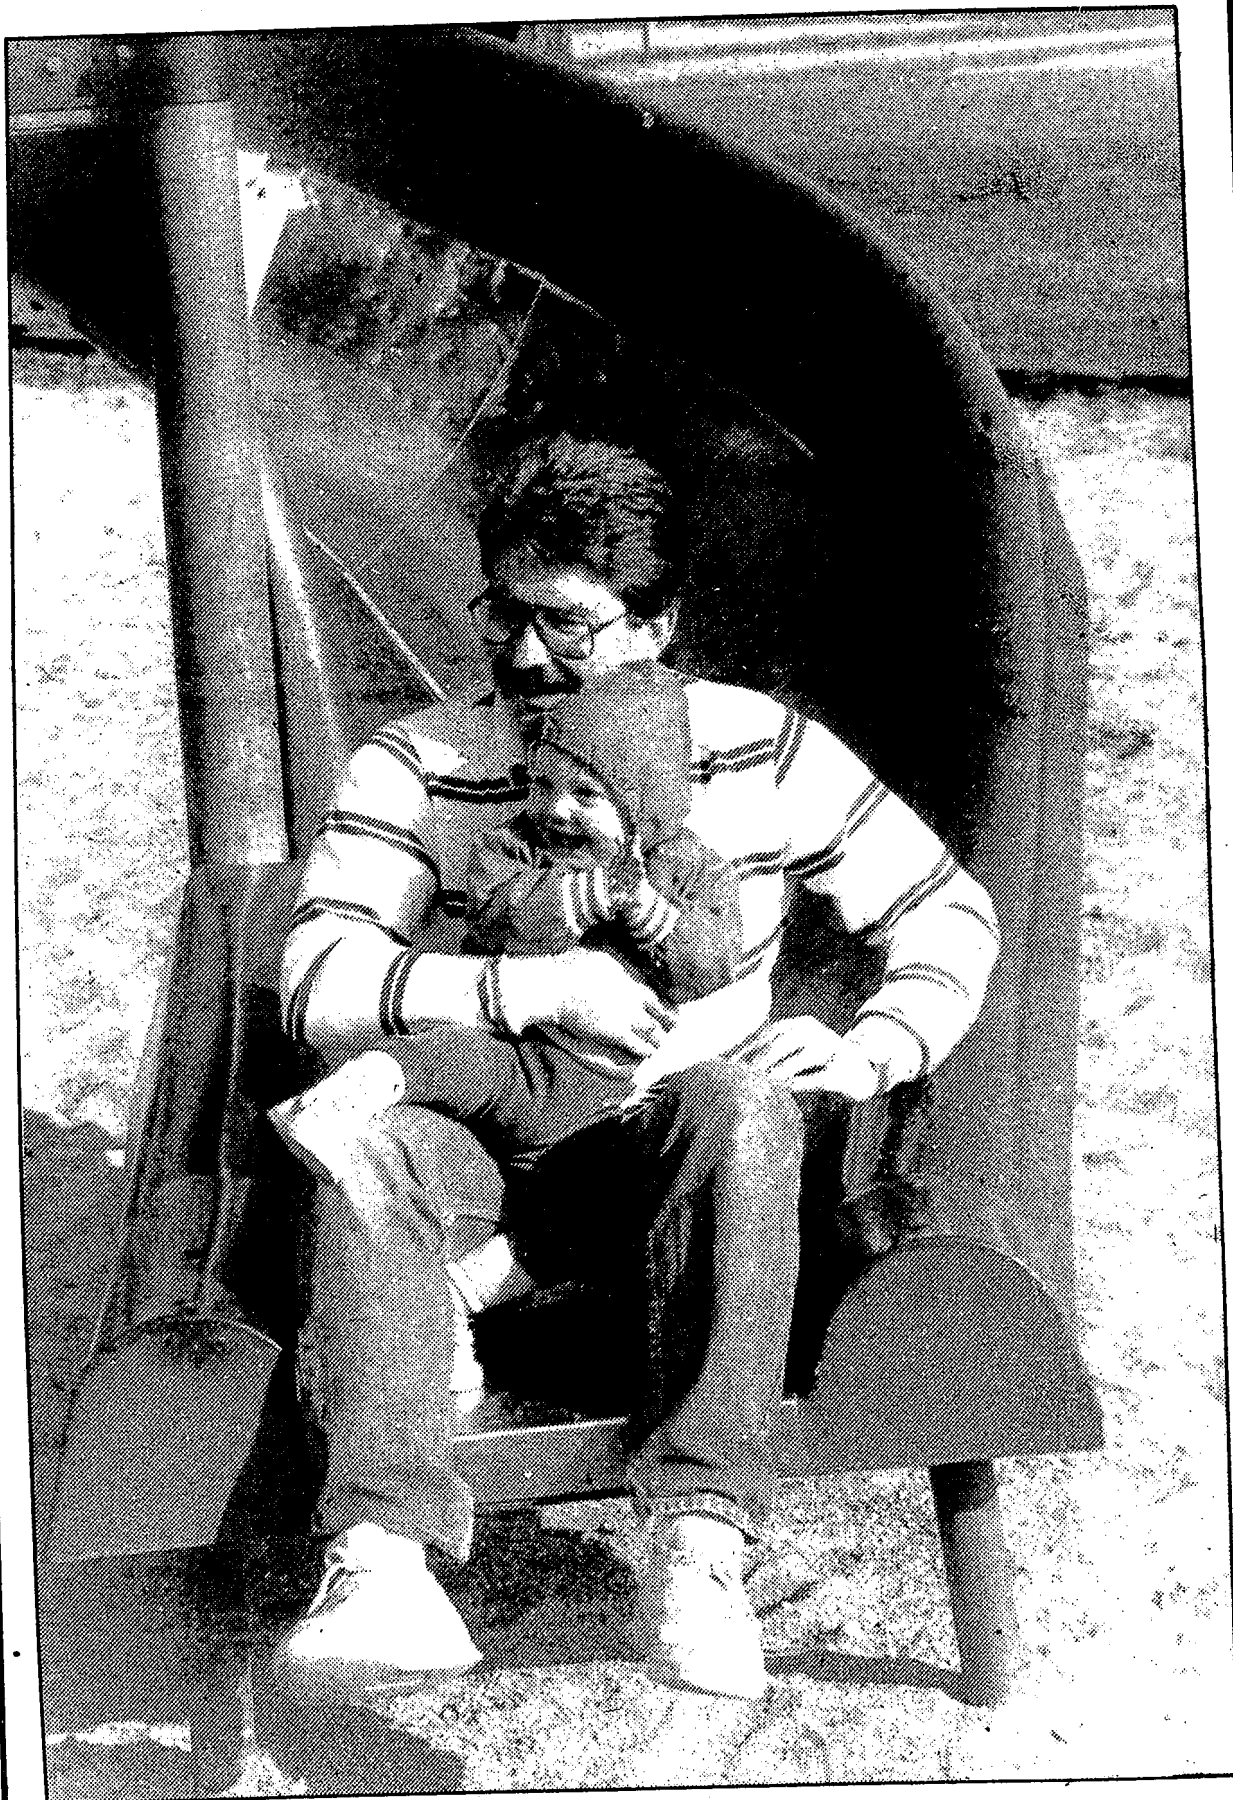

Eight Clarkston school district residents have joined the race for the two board of education seats up for election June 13.

District Business Manager William Jackson announced the candidates at Monday night's board of education meeting. The deadline for filing for the four-year terms on the seven-member board was Monday at 4 p.m.

The candidates' names will appear on the ballot unless they formally withdraw within three days, Jackson said.

The candidates are:

- Karen E. Foyteck of 6960 Langle Dr., Independence Township.
- Thomas L. Howard of 8265 Perry Lake Rd., Independence Township.
- Sheila J. Hughes of 5342 Parview Dr., Independence Township.
- Incumbent John H. Needham of 6116 Middle Lake Rd., Clarkston. Thomas Bills, who held the other seat, is not running for re-election.
- Thomas Sokolnicki of 5811 N. Edgar Rd., Springfield Township.
- Dwight Spiker of 5421 Burgundy, Independence Township.
- Paul Van Klaveren of 6443 Woodglen Dr., Independence Township.
- Robert Wyatt of 8181 Deerwood, Independence Township.

Voters to decide fate of school budget in June

(SCHOOL BUDGET, continued from previous page) foreign language for elementary school pupils. In addition, the secondary schools would decrease hours, from six to five at the high school and from seven to six at the junior high schools.

Before voting to approve putting the 5.5 mill request on the ballot, several board members voiced opinions about the proposal.

Mary Jane Chaustowich said she had some reservations about increasing the amount after voters twice defeated a 4.25 mill request in 1987.

"I don't have a problem with asking for 5.5 as long as I don't believe it's going to cost us a 4.25 success," she said. "I'll go along with it, but I want to express my concern about it."

John Needham responded by calling the 4.25 mills inadequate to address the needs.

"What I heard the citizens say (during the public hearings) was, 'Tell us what you need to fund an adequate educational program,'" he said.

Also discussed was that no one talked about the 4.25 mills at the public hearings on proposed restorations and cuts. Some said they wouldn't approve any increase and others agreed more money was needed.

Some time was spent discussing how many years the 5.5 mills would last before another increase could be sought.

Business Manager William Jackson said he believed it would last three years, based on several variables including an 11 percent increase in property values, a 4.5 percent rate of inflation, tax rate reductions ranging from .75 to .25 mills due to the Headlee Amendment, a stable district enrollment of 6,051, an increase in state aid and salary increases of about 4 percent annually.

Speaking on the uncertainty of it all, Carolyn Place said, "So all we can say is this is our best intent, and go for it knowing what the needs are."

Board President Janet Thomas said the board should plan to stick to the three-year span before considering seeking any more tax increases for operational purposes.

"I would assume that even though financial times are volatile, we'll just have to make this one do," she said.

If voters approve the bond issue, giving the district permission to borrow $5.2 million for 15 years, 9 months, the money would be used to make repairs and to bring the district's buildings up to code.

The tax rate the first year would be .5 mill because the loan would exist for only a portion of 1988. For subsequent years, the rate would be .75 to .93 mills or less, Jackson said, depending on the rate of increase in assessed property valuations.

Also included in the administration's proposal for restoring staff and programs were requests that the board authorize the sale of excess district property and seek voter approval by Dec. 15 for new high school.

The board agreed to authorize the sale of 19 acres on Waldon Road near Sashabaw Road and 80 acres at Reese and Rattalee Lake roads, but Thomas cautioned that the land would not be sold unless the offers were substantial.

After the meeting, Jackson said he would provide information about the property to the North Oakland Board of Realtors rather than select a specific real estate firm. The school board would then consider offers presented and discuss any sales commissions at that time.

Jackson said the money from any sale would go into the building and site fund, and it could be used for property improvements, such as fencing or athletic fields; building additions; or renovations.

He reiterated that the property will not be sold at a give-away price and that offers are not expected to pour in.

Beach contract OK'd

Residents will again be able to use Deer Lake from the White Lake Road, Clarkston, access site maintained by Independence Parks and Recreation.

The township board voted to renew a five-year lease with the Village of Clarkston. In exchange for maintaining the site, the village allows the parks and recreation department to use the lake property without charge.

"If somebody wanted the property, they'd be after us and nobody is," he said.

Moving toward eventually seeking voter approval for a new high school, the board decided to wait until after the June 13 election to name a 25- to 30-member citizen committee to study the issue and make recommendations.

Thomas stressed that voters need to understand that the June 13 ballot requests of 5.5 mills for operational purposes and a $5.2 million bond for building repairs "have nothing to do with (a) new high school."

Police contract receives township approval

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A new Oakland County Sheriff's Department contract for police coverage was approved by the Independence Township Board on April 5.

For the remaining nine months of 1988, Independence Township is to pay $46,523 for each of 12 deputies - an annual rate of $62,030 per deputy or $558,276 total for the rest of the year ($737,435 for the entire year).

PTO hosts talk on school finances

The financial condition of the Clarkston school district will be the topic of a meeting planned Monday, April 18, at Clarkston Elementary School.

The school's Parent Teacher Organization (PTO) has opened the meeting to community members. Three board of education members are expected to attend.

The purpose is to provide a greater opportunity to ask board members direct questions in a less formal setting than a board of education meeting, said William Potvin, principal of Clarkston Elementary.

Plan A, the program and staff reductions that will occur is the millage request on the June 13 ballot fails, and Plan B, the restoration plan if the millage is successful, are to be discussed with ample time for questions and comments.

The PTO also wants to express its support of the millage request, Potvin said.

The meeting is to begin at 7 p.m. in the school's multipurpose room at 6595 Waldon Rd., off M-15 just west of the Village of Clarkston.

"It's the best buy around. It's staggering, the cost to provide your own. They provide a very good service."

William Vandermark

The previous contract expired March 31, and the fee covers all costs including equipment and supervision. Starting in January 1989, the cost is to increase to $65,219 per deputy per year or $782,627 annually.

The Village of Clarkston contracts with the township for police coverage, thus paying a portion of the expense - $43,459.32 per year - from its general fund.

Supervisor Frank Ronk was pleased with the contract.

"It's the best game in town right now," he said. "The only other game in town is to have your own. We have three townships who have their own and are considering sheriffs because it's thousands cheaper."

Trustee William Vandermark also voiced support for the agreement.

"It's the best buy around," he said. "It's staggering, the cost to provide your own. They provide a very good service."

In 1986, voters in Independence approved an additional 1.5 mills for three years for the police fund, allowing the hiring of six extra deputies in January 1987 to double police coverage.

Added to the existing 1 mill for police protection that expires in 1990, the 1988 police fund is $746,200, which will cover the entire cost of police coverage.

One mill is $1 for each $1,000 of assessed property valuation.

CHS announces 11 top graduates

The "Top 10" graduates from the 500-member Clarkston High School Class of 1988 were introduced at the board of education meeting Monday night.

Most of the honored scholars were in attendance, as were most of their parents and a grandparent or two. The proud group filled the meeting room.

Board President Janet Thomas began the presentation by saying that the Top 10 "signifies or typifies what we are all about."

CHS principal Dr. Robert Burek noted that 11 students received the designation because of a duplication in grade point averages.

After the introductions, Burek praised the students for their positive contributions to Clarkston High School.

"It really is an outstanding group of young people, and we're proud to present them to the board of education tonight," he said.

Earlier this year, it was decided to provide more status for the Top 10 graduates by not designating a valedictorian and salutatorian.

The Top 10 and their parents are:

- Kelly Ballard, daughter of Bruce and Carol Ballard.
- Rhonda Bowes, daughter of Gary and Peggy Bowes.
- Douglas Bronson, son of Dennis and Beverly Bronson.
- Allyson Bugai, daughter of Albin and Virginia Bugai.
- Mark Colwell, son of Dennis and Mary Lynn Colwell.
- Paul Jenson, son of Thomas and Carol Jo Bowes.
- Robert Laurie, son of Robert and Arlene Laurie.
- Wendy Law, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Law.
- Darren Miller, son of James and Lois Miller.
- Kelly Parker, daughter of Richard and Marsha Parker.
- Rachel Young, daughter of James and Carolyn Young.

Shotgun blast kills man in Springfield

A 37-year-old Leonard man was shot to death April 10 in Springfield Township after a struggle over a shotgun at his ex-wife's home.

Michael Stokes, 37, was pronounced dead at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital at 10:40 p.m. Sunday.

The shooting occurred at about 9:20 p.m. Sunday after Stokes arrived at the Claypool Road residence of his ex-wife, Robin Stokes, and refused to leave, according to a report at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

The homeowner, Floyd Frick, 29, appeared at the door with a shotgun and asked Stokes to leave, and Stokes still refused, the report said.

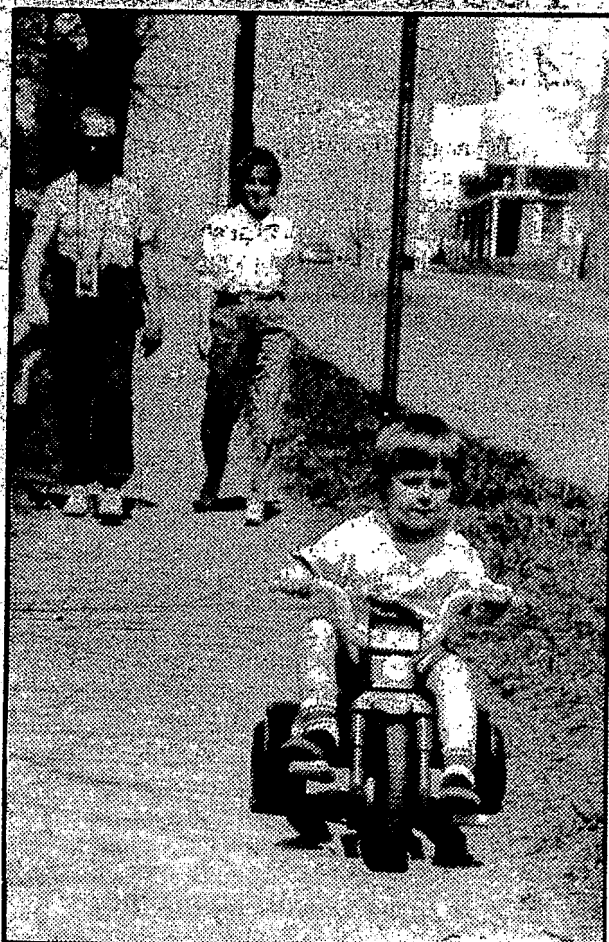

Next, Frick and Stokes briefly struggled over the gun, and the gun went off, striking Stokes in the chest, said Detective Sgt. Anthony Velat of the OCSD. Robin Stokes witnessed the shooting.

Frick was arraigned Monday in 52nd District Court and charged with open murder, which carries a life sentence, and felony firearm, which carries a mandatory two-year sentence. His preliminary exam was set for April 22.

According to Oxford police, Stokes had an outstanding warrant for his arrest from September 1987, charging him with leaving the scene of an accident and aggravated assault.

Stokes, a self-employed carpenter, was survived by his son, Jason, of Oxford; brothers, William and Edward of Oxford, and David of Kingsley; and sisters, Diane Hill of Lapeer, Susan Richards and Linda Haynes of Pontiac, and Cynthia Hoffman of Leonard.

The funeral was scheduled for 11 a.m. Wednesday, April 13, at the Huntoon Funeral Home, Oxford.

Preventive approach to good health awaits at local Health-O-Rama site

After last year's Health-O-Rama, a member of the community approached Chairperson Mary Jane Chaustowich with heart-felt thanks.

The woman said she had been telephoned only a few days after she had blood work done at the local Health-O-Rama site and had been advised to visit her physician.

"She was able to catch a problem, which had real potential for being a real problem, before it became a problem," said Chaustowich.

The story illustrates what the project is all about. This year, the date to visit the Independence Township site is Thursday, April 21.

Hours are 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Church of the Resurrection, across from the Independence Township Library, at 6490 Clarkston Rd.

Participants, who must be over age 18, will be offered the following free tests and services: height and weight, vision, glaucoma, blood pressure, health hazard appraisal, and counseling and referral.

For a $3 fee, colorectal cancer screening kits will be available, which must be mailed back to a laboratory.

The blood panel fee is $10. Those who participate should not eat for four hours prior to the test. Water, plain tea or plain coffee are the only recommended intakes.

Chaustowich points out that the four hour period can be at any time during the day. When everyone arrives at 9 a.m. for a blood test, a wait can result, she said, but if some people have breakfast, or lunch, and arrive throughout the day, it's much smoother.

Last year, over 225 people took advantage of the local Health-O-Rama opportunity. The number broke all previous records for the about seven years its been in existence.

"It's a wonderful opportunity to get a blood panel test for $10 which will give a person a readout for 21 different problem possibilities," said Chaustowich.

For people who don't have medical insurance, the opportunity is worth taking advantage of, she said. The cost for the services in a more traditional setting could be over $150.

For those who do have insurance, the money saved is significant enough to help keep the high cost of insurance in check. In 1987, 54,172 people participated at the 100 sites in southeastern Michigan.

Local sponsor of the project is the Clarkston Community Women's Club. Several community members as well as club members serve as volunteers. Medical assisting students from the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center round out the volunteers.

Health-O-Rama is sponsored by WXYZ-TV Channel 7, Blue Cross Blue Shield of Michigan and the United Health Organization at the over 100 sites from April 5-29.

For additional information on other sites, call the Project Health-O-Rama Hotline at 424-8600. Hours are 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Concerned parents work to pass next millage

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A group of Clarkston area parents recently formed Clarkston CARES (an acronym for Concerned About Responsible Education and Schools).

With a nucleus of about 15 people and an immediate goal of working on the millage election and working to improve the lines of communication between the community and the schools, the group introduced themselves to the Clarkston Board of Education last month when they announced their organization.

"We started out with a basic mission, to try to improve the communication lines between the school board and the community," says Bill Bliesath, president of the group. "Overall, we will look at a broader mission, to assist the school board, the schools and the teachers in disseminating information that the community can understand and digest."

He says CARES wants to increase the flow of information as well, and make sure people understand how complex issues, such as the Headlee Act, work.

Rumors get started, he says, when people don't understand the facts. He cites school raises six or seven years ago.

"The raises were nominal, but the information was not was not communicated well," he says, "So the average citizen was allowed to carry that (misinformation about raises)."

Barbara Johns, spokesperson for CARES, reinforces Bliesath's comments, saying, "We exist because we believe that communication lines have been poor, and we want to establish a good, two-way system to help build more understanding of educational issues within the community."

Besides Bliesath and Johns, officers of Clarkston CARES are Sandra Frasa, secretary, and Carole Kammer, treasurer.

The group's immediate task is to work on the upcoming millage effort, with members taking an active part on several committees.

Because state law says that the millage campaign cannot be promoted with school funds, Johns says the group will work to raise funds to finance the millage campaign.

While admitting that the present school crisis has jolted the group into action, Johns says that members are determined to continue the effort after the millage vote.

"We hope to run a series of very brief, simple informational articles to help explain the effects of taxes," Bliesath says. "But we can't speak for the whole community as 12 or 15 people. We want to encourage the community to tell us what they're looking for, too."

Bliesath says they hope to distribute questionnaires to solicit the community's point of view, and perhaps do a limited phone survey.

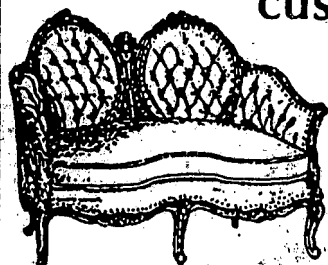

"We feel like there's been a vote of no confidence in the school board with the millage failure," he says. "We would like to be of assistance to the school board and get an honest response from the community."

Citizens who want to contribute to the effort or get more information on the group may write to Clarkston CARES for Millage, PO Box 16503, Clarkston, MI 48016.

...with the effects of STRESS in our lives. We have all encountered and have had to try to deal with stress in our homes, relationships, and workplaces. Finances, responsibilities, crime, drug abuse and even illness all add stress to our lives. The result of stress that is more than our body can deal with, may surface as headache, backache, high blood pressure, indigestion, insomnia and fatigue, to name a few.

This need not be. Chiropractic health care offers an alternative.

Chiropractic is a drug-free approach to regaining and maintaining good health. By releasing impinged nerves within the spinal column, chiropractic treatments allow your nervous system to function properly, ultimately allowing your entire body to more readily adapt to the stresses and strains of everyday living. The Independence Township Fire Department has responded to 290 calls to date in 1988.

Teens blamed for 4-acre grass fire

Teenaged arsonists apparently were responsible for a four-acre grass fire April 9 on Bitterbush Road, Independence Township.

Firefighters were called at about 7:15 p.m., and the fire in the wooded and swampy area was extinguished in about 20 minutes, said Capt. Steve Ronk of the Independence Township Fire Department.

A few hours before the fire department was called, the property owner told two boys, about 15 years old, to stop trespassing with their dirt bikes on his property, said Ronk.

The fire had been burning for a few hours before the fire department was called, so the boys were probably responsible, he said.

"I don't think it's a deliberate arson - it's more of a malicious kid-type thing," he said. "We've had a rash of arsons, but nothing that's a real crime wave."

The grass is dry in the spring before everything turns green, said Ronk, so people should take precautions not to let their fires get out of control.

"People out burning leaves have to be careful that the fire doesn't extend too far," he said. "Things are dry. People just have to be extra careful this season."

ATV lands on driver

A 25-year-old Independence Township man was seriously injured April 9 when the four-wheel all-terrain vehicle he was riding flipped over and landed on top of him.

Douglas James Muenz of Dora Lane was in stable condition Monday at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital.

Around 1:15 p.m. April 9, Muenz was riding his Honda ATV up a dirt hill on private property off of Clintonville Road when the vehicle turned over and fell on him, according to reports at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

No tickets were issued, and alcohol was not a factor, according to the police report.

Awhile back, I read a column that I've been thinking about ever since. Unfortunately, I can't remember the columnist's name to give credit where it's due.

I do remember that when I read it, it made me smile. Here's why I think of it often: The general theme was that his life would make a great comic strip or cartoon, but not a great novel.

This could apply to you, too. I know it applies to me.

I have this dog that you have to ask politely to move over if you want to sit on the living room couch. When you call him, he'll wait long enough to let you know he's only responding because he's good and ready.

If you call the cat, he arrives in a flash, hoping that you've put food in her dish that he can get to first.

Once, when I was foolish enough to walk with him to downtown Clarkston he behaved fairly well until I reached Washington and Main streets.

He dragged me across the street, twisting my legs in the leash, trying to get to the front door of Carol's Village Grill where they give free hot dogs to former friendly neighbors that wag their tails.

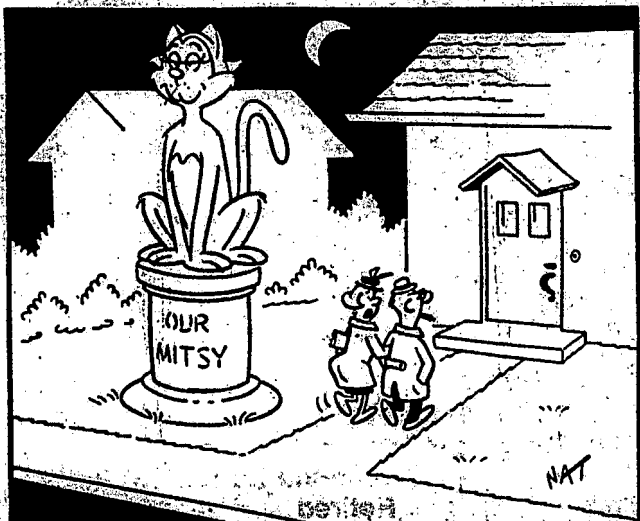

I have a cat that eats dog food. She's pudgy enough to be a good friend of Garfield's. She purrs all through dinner, hoping fine morsels will find their way to her dish. If that doesn't work, she coughs.

My husband has this philosophy that any household appliance that worked once will work forever. When our clothes dryer started taking all afternoon to dry a load of clothes, he sprang into action.

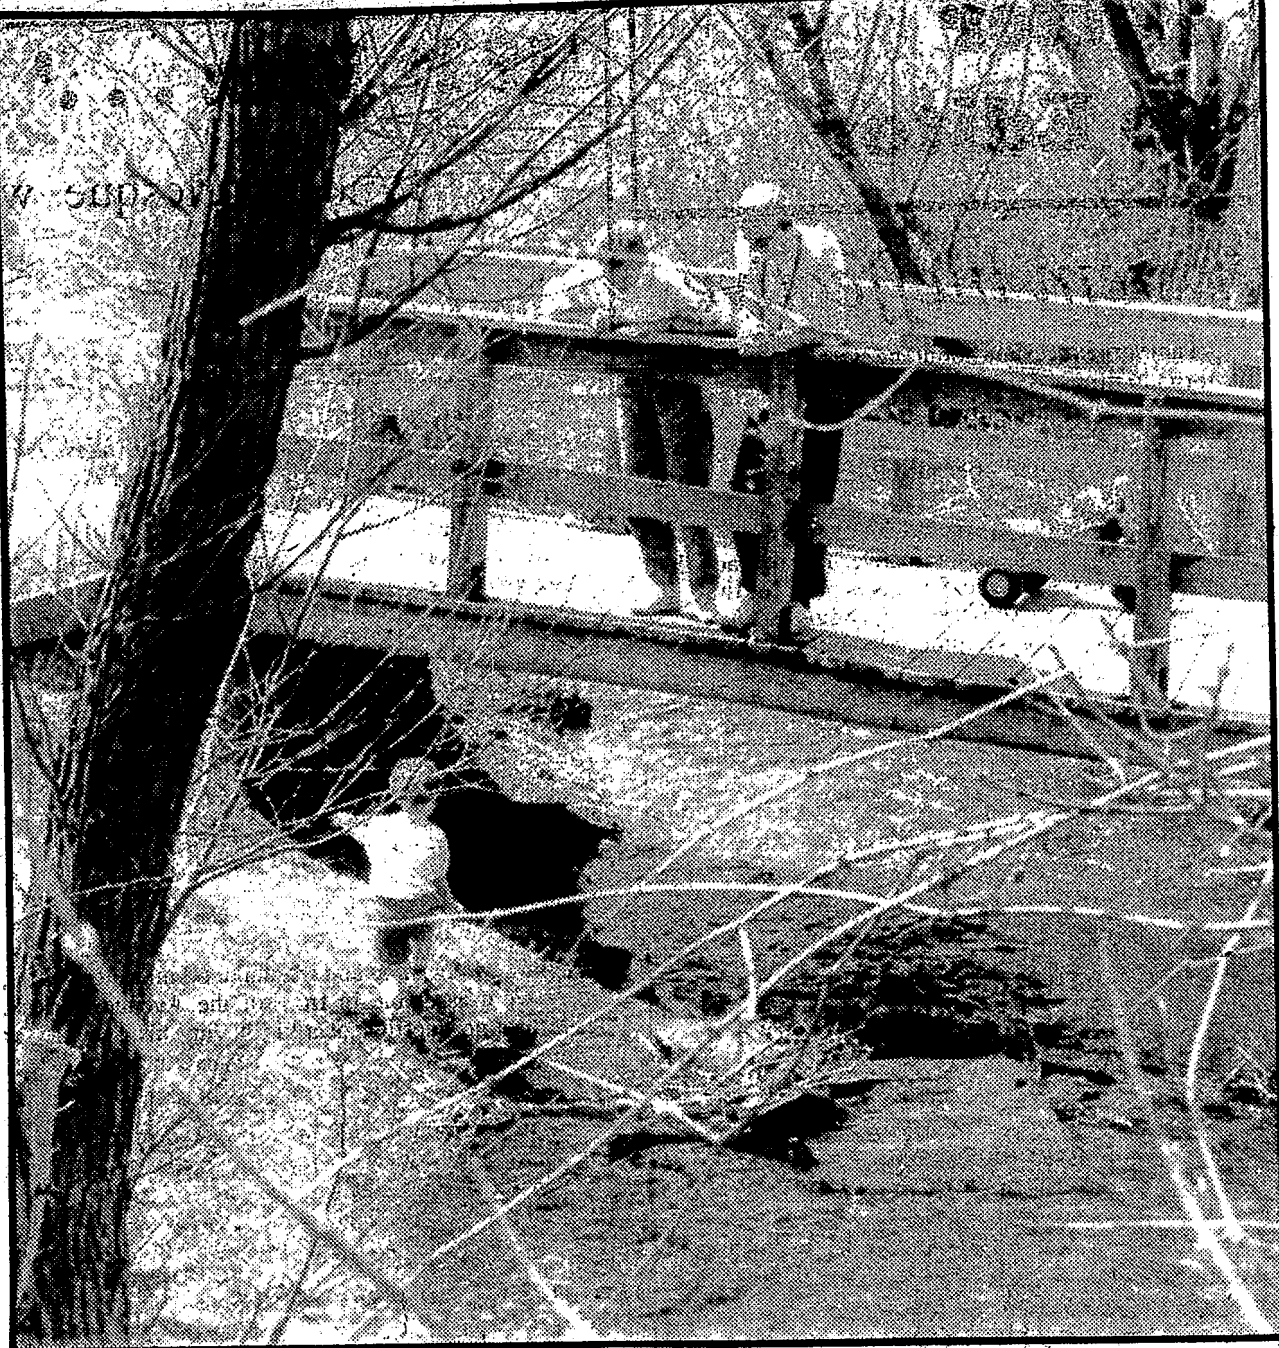

After the man at the appliance store noted that parts don't exist for 30-year-old dryers, he figured out another way to fix it. Now it only takes a couple of hours to meet the task. Detroit Edison likes us.

The other night when we went out to dinner, everyone else's meal found its way from tray to table before mine took a dive for the floor.

And so on.

It was an average Saturday. Not much doing at the old homestead. A little cleaning. A little television. A little taxes, if that's possible.

I was busy waltzing about the house with the vacuum cleaner, oblivious to all except the machine's monotonous drone.

Meanwhile, the Perfectionist was laboring at the table over last year's deductible donations to various worthy causes and an accompanying government list of suggested item prices.

Children's clothing. Check. Kitchen utensils. Check. Used toys. Check.

Suddenly, without warning, came a cry from the kitchen that even the vacuum in all its hungry motoring could not drown out: "What the h-- is a foundation garment?"

It stopped me cold.

I don't know why, but shutting off the vacuum to respond to his query, I got this crazy vision of four poured-cement basement walls (sans house) with reinforcement rods protruding toward the sky, wearing an upside-down girdle taut at the corners, its metal fasteners flapping against the re-rods and rain coming down over the whole unsightly mess. A little muddy grass grew up about my vision.

I waltzed into the kitchen.

"A foundation garment," I said, tilting my head coyly and smiling to suppress the unexpected image, "is, well, you know, one of those things."

I moved my hands up and down my sides to demonstrate and thought of the ways I could explain said item: It's one of those things that makes a tie seem, well, comfortable. It's one of those things that puts the "prop" in "proportion."

I gestured again and spoke: "It's one of those things that shoves you, alternately, up and down, displacing your flab in such a way as to give you one evening's worth of perfect body." The Perfectionist seemed puzzled.

"It's a girdle," I choked as he blushed.

Women of America, it strikes me that (women's lib aside) we have reached a pinnacle of freedom when the day comes that we must define a foundation garment to our loved ones.

Praise heavens! And tell it to the IRS.

System ineffective

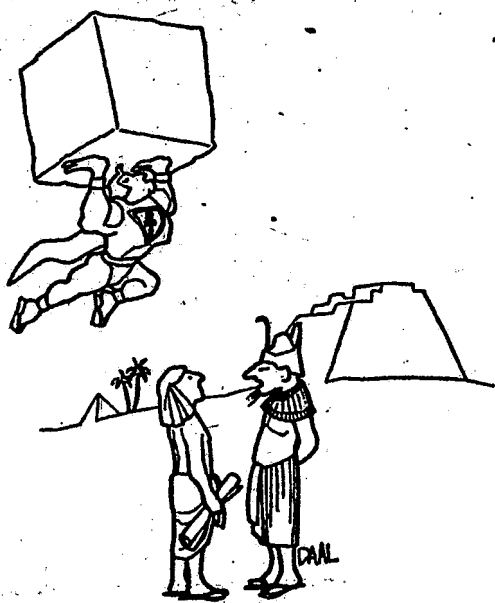

I am very concerned about the system used to sound the tornado sirens. Gar Wilson is correct in his statement that people are treating it as a joke.

Many times the siren sounds and people rush outside to look around - because it has stopped raining and the sun is coming out.

As far as I am concerned, the system by which the siren is sounded is not at all effective. The tornado that struck Clarkston on Easter Sunday is proof of that.

The process of the sirens sounding needs to be drastically changed or we could face very serious consequences next time.

When burlesque was big

Jim Fitzgerald

While Jim Fitzgerald is vacationing, we're running columns he wrote for other newspapers before coming to the Free Press in 1976. This one's from 1969.

It's incredible - but comforting - that Scurvy could still be alive and well in a Detroit burlesque theater.

It's comforting to be reminded that kids didn't always get their behind-the-barn kicks by smoking pot and printing dirty words on walls. They used to skip school and steal away to the big city to see strippers jiggle while baggy-panted comedians panted.

It's incredible that Scurvy could still be at it. I first saw him in 1942, and he didn't look too young then. But there was an ad in the Free Press last week for the National Theatre, "Detroit's biggest & best burlesk." And it said "hilarious comedy by the one and only, original Scurvy." He must be 90 by now, the world's oldest Dirty Old Man. Ah, nostalgia . . .

A dozen high-school boys would leave home for school but go to the poolroom instead. We'd break up into groups of two or three and hitchhike 60 miles to Detroit, where we'd assemble in front of the Avenue Burlesk. There was no question of a kid having his own car, or swiping Dad's. It was early in World War II and everything was rationed except a father's wrath.

But thumbing a ride was easy. When a motorist stopped, I'd tell him we were on our way to Detroit to enlist in the Marines. At the same time, my buddies would sing "Remember Pearl Harbor." One old man not only gave us a ride but also $1 each with the admonishment to "kill one for me."

The box office sign said minors weren't allowed inside the Avenue. But they had a bicycle rack outside. I was 14 the first time I went and the kids with me called me Pop. To be too young to buy a ticket to the Avenue, you had to be a fetus.

We were easy targets

We sat in the front row. The comics were always peering down and saying something hilarious, such as "I see kindergarten got out early today." Boy, we would fall on the floor. The first comic who said this to us became famous on TV about 10 years later. Remember Pinky Lee? He was a lot funnier at the Avenue.

The pratfalls were fun. So were the hucksters who sold pictures previously available only in France. To fully appreciate the photos, you had to hold them up to a bright light. That meant you had to get home before you learned you'd been gypped. There were dirtier pictures in the National Geographic.

But all of that was incidental. We were at the Avenue to see the girls take it off. Zowie. They'd flick their tassels right in our noses. The drummer would whop his drum, a redhead would shake her shaker, and I was a man of the world. What was there left for me to do, except maybe kiss Betty Grable? And hurry back to school to tell the sissies what they'd missed.

That was yesterday. Kids don't sneak off to burlesque houses today. Why bother? On the TV Academy Award show, Barbara Streisand showed as much skin as any Avenue stripper. Many waitresses dress below the belt only, and not much there. If a movie doesn't have a nude scene, it probably isn't a talkie.

This doesn't mean the kids are worse today. It just means the burlesque business is lousy. The strippers have diversified, with outlets on every corner, and you'd better check out the Avon lady before asking her in to meet Grandmother.

We adults have fashioned a world in which it's darn hard for Junior to feel illicit and illegal. He can't do it behind the barn because it's been replaced by a carport. He can't do it laughing at Scurvy because Mom is home laughing at dirtier jokes on the Johnny Carson show.

That's progress, I guess, just like air conditioning and anti-ballistic missiles. Only an old foggy would knock it.

But please pass me a bright light while I thumb through my old scrapbooks.

Super Fund to pay for water line

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The owners of 19 contaminated wells along Northview Drive and Perry Lake Road may be drinking and cooking with bottled water for only a few more months.

Construction is to begin by July to connect the residences with the township municipal water system.

The water line is to be extended from Olde Sturbridge subdivision, north of I-75, to Perry Lake Road, south of I-75.

The project requires a tunnel beneath I-75, and the water line will travel south along Perry Lake Road to the back of the Church of the Resurrection on Clarkston Road. A branch will also travel west along Northview Drive from Perry Lake Road to the back of the commercial property on M-15.

The Independence Township Board voted 5-0 to sign a contract with the Michigan Department of Public Health (MDPH) to allow the estimated $362,950 in construction, to be financed by the Super Fund established by the Michigan Environmental Response Act.

In May through July 1987, all the wells were found contaminated with ethyl ether. Some contained freon-type compounds and one showed benzene - a non-chlorinated hydrocarbon, which is a cancer-causing substance associated with landfills or gasoline.

Since then, residents have been using bottled water for drinking and cooking, paid for by the Super Fund.

The contamination was probably caused from the Powell Landfill on Clarkston Road that was used for about 25 years before closing about eight years ago, according to MDPH officials.

Supervisor Frank Ronk commended Department of Public Works Director George Anderson for his work on the project.

"To get two projects ... in two years is unheard of," he said.

In February, 1987, the Super Fund financed the extension of the municipal water system to the Sashabaw Road area at the south end of the township. Seven wells were found contaminated with toxic gasoline, said Anderson.

Holcomb residents seek road paving

Residents from Springfield and Independence townships have decided to do something about the worsening road conditions on Holcomb Road.

"People have talked about it for a long time," said John Zerba, an Ellis Creek Drive, Springfield Township, resident. "We have to start somewhere, and nobody's ever done a petition."

Zerba presented the Independence Township Board with petitions signed by the owners of over 50 parcels of property along Holcomb Road.

According to the Oakland County Road Commission (OCRC), Holcomb Road carries four-and-a-half times the amount of traffic a dirt road is designed to handle, said Zerba.

Many new homes have been built in Independence Township, and water drains from the properties into the road, leaving huge ruts, he said.

"We have a paved subdivision, which doesn't do us a whole lot of good driving a mile and a half on dirt roads," he said. "We're getting a lot of big homes now. We're developing. It was a slow start, but now it's moving."

Supervisor Frank Ronk said he would give the petitions to the OCRC.

Three years ago, he requested that Holcomb Road be evaluated by OCRC and placed on its list of priorities, but it's not at the top of the list, he said.

"The traffic out there has got their attention, also," he said. "The petitions by you people will certainly help its priority."

Since Holcomb Road is a through-road from Independence to Springfield Township, it serves more people than just the residents, he said, adding a special assessment district couldn't be formed to pay for paving in that circumstance.

Zerba said he planned to approach the Springfield Township Board with the request as well, although he enters his Springfield Township home from the portion of Holcomb Road in Independence Township.

Search continues for ski mask rapist

No new evidence on the ski mask rapist has been found since evidence from a March 31 Farmington Hills attack turned up in Cleveland, Ohio, over Easter weekend.

Detectives are still following leads and investigating, said Detective Sgt. Charles Williams of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Chief William Dwyer of the Farmington Hills Police Department (FHPD) said Monday they had received no new information and officers were still working on the case.

Last week, police began investigating a link between rapes in the Cleveland area and the 11 rapes in Independence, Bloomfield and West Bloomfield townships and Birmingham and Farmington Hills.

In the past year, eight attacks by a masked, knife-wielding man occurred in the Cleveland area during periods when no sexual assaults were reported in Oakland County.

The rapes may not be connected, but physical evidence from the most recent Farmington Hills attack was found in Cleveland, indicating the rapist probably spent Easter weekend in the city, according to reports at the FHPD.

Blood tests show that two rapists are probably responsible for the 11 rapes in Oakland County, and investigators are unsure if the Independence rape is connected, since it's so far from the 14 Mile area where the other 10 rapes occurred.

The Independence sexual assault of a 53-year-old woman occurred at the North Crest Condominiums on Dixie Highway, between I-75 and M-15.

As in the other 10 attacks, the suspect wore a ski mask, carried a knife, acted apologetically toward the victim and apparently had stalked the victim before surprising her in or outside her home.

Based on the most recent evidence, police are looking for a suspect who has traveled to Cleveland who matches the following description: short, medium build, sandy-colored hair, mid-20s, apologetic, soft-spoken.

Anyone with information should call the OCSD at 858-4950 or the FHPD at 474-6181. About $8,000 in rewards are offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the rapist.

Lancaster developers sue to begin second phase

Apartment owners, township differ over starting date

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Developers of Lancaster Lakes Apartments filed a lawsuit last week seeking permission to begin construction of the second phase of the project on Dixie Highway, Independence Township.

In July, the planning commission granted conditional approval, with the stipulation that building could not begin until construction starts on the Maybee Road extension or the Dixie Highway widening in front of the apartments, whichever comes first.

Developer Dick Fay of Fox Corp. said road construction is too far off. The Dixie widening of the portion in front of the apartments has been delayed until next year, and the Maybee Road construction is planned for 1990, he said.

The owners of Fox Corp. want Phase II to begin this year, he said.

"It's costing us a lot of money to have the development just sit there," said Fay.

Fox Corp. bought the property behind Cherry Hill Lanes North while the property was under a consent judgment that only allowed the current entrance next to Hosler Pontiac, he said.

Now the township says the entrance is unsafe, but that's not the responsibility of Fox Corp., said Fay.

"That's totally off site," he said. "They should fix it. That's the obligation of the government. They should be the ones to take care of the streets."

"We're always more than willing to comply with what the township asks for. ... Our development ... is an asset to the community," he said.

Commission members approved the project with the stipulation, because they were worried about the health, safety and welfare of the drivers, said Chairperson Brent Bair.

"Our principal concern was the safety for both the people who would occupy the apartments and the people on Dixie," said Bair.

The minimum safety feature would be a left turn lane from Dixie Highway, but even that wouldn't be too safe, he said, adding the Maybee Road extension and the left turn lane would be best.

"We'd already approved what was to go in," he said. "The only condition was there has to be a relatively safe access. It's not there yet."

Lancaster Lakes Apartments rests on 48.8 acres west off Dixie Highway, across from Maybee Road. The complex is to contain about 280 units.

DEPOT PARK was the scene of many people enjoying balmy weather last week, including Lori Watts and Dave Ruckey of Waterford Township, who take a break after bicycling.

Focus: Sashabaw and Maybee

Study to prepare roads for future growth

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Despite objections from one board member, a detailed $20,500 study of Sashabaw and Maybee roads was OK'd by the Independence Township Board.

Township planning consultant Richard Carlisle and township engineer Tom Biehl proposed the study of land use and traffic to determine the future township development policies and the placement of roads and utilities.

The money was donated from the township Economic Development Corp., which was formed to promote and control growth by increasing the tax base (by encouraging the building of taxable projects), putting people to work and bringing services to the community.

Trustee Dale Stuart cast the only no vote at the April 5 meeting after Carlisle said the Oakland County Road Commission (OCRC) has jurisdiction over Sashabaw Road.

"What difference is it going to make if we study and decide it (should be) three or five (lanes) if the road commission decides it should be something else?" asked Stuart.

Carlisle said the OCRC doesn't have time nor manpower to do local planning.

"The road commission is relying very heavily on local communities," he said. "The road commission is not going to do it all anymore. ... They're going to come back to you to improve the roads for growth you've allowed. ... Either the community takes it into their own hands, or they accept the fate of what happens."

With a shopping center proposed for the southwest corner of Sashabaw and Waldon roads and an apartment complex proposed for Maybee Road behind Food Town, there's an urgent need for the study, said Carlisle.

Eventually, the roads will need to be widened, and the township planners should ensure that future developments are built with enough room for future widening, utilities and proper setbacks, he said.

"Sashabaw Road has been an area of a great deal of concern to the township and the planning commission for the past several years," said Carlisle. "From all evidence of many other strategic corridors further south along I-75, we should all recognize that Sashabaw Road is going to be an area of substantial growth in the township."

He cautioned that the study is not to determine how much growth the township can handle, but rather "how might growth be modified to accommodate what we can handle?"

"There are very definite limits to what we can do. This study will explain that in detail," he said.

Before the 4-1 vote, board members commented on the study. Treasurer John Lutz and Trustee Daniel Travis were absent.

Supervisor Frank Ronk said road officials have determined that there probably will never be an I-75, Clintonville Road interchange.

"It's extremely important to look at Sashabaw and Maybee roads because that will carry all that traffic," he said.

Trustee Carol Balzarini spoke on behalf of the planning commission, although the other commission members hadn't seen the study proposal yet.

"I think we would all encourage that the study be done," she said. "It has been a concern of the planning commission for as long as I can remember. ... It's something that needs to be done badly."

Trustee William Vandermark said the current master plan reflects an ultimate density of 50,000 to 55,000 people, more than double the current population of about 22,000.

"That's an awful lot of people," he said. "It's going to take some very good planning to handle that. ... The local community has control over density, which directly affects the road."

Clerk Richard Holman said road construction possibly could be paid through tax increment financing (TIF), in which tax revenues from the designated area are captured for use in that area only. The TIF would not affect school taxes and would not raise taxes. The U.S. Supreme Court ruled recently that TIFs were legal, he said.

The study is to cover Sashabaw Road from Clarkston Road south to the township line at Lake Oakland and Maybee Road from Dixie Highway east to Clintonville Road.

To be completed in about 90 days, the study is to cover the following:

● Roadway options - three-lane, five-lane or boulevard.

● Utility plans - water, sewer, storm drainage.

● Development policies - setbacks, curb cuts, acceleration and deceleration lanes.

Since the upcoming apartment and shopping center projects need the information, the study should ensure that the utilities won't have to be replaced in 10 years, said Biehl.

"We want to make sure the developer's money is well spent," he said.

Village West condos gain 1st approval

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Plans for a condominium project abutting Deer Lake in Clarkston moved one step closer to reality when the village council conditionally approved the site plan.

Four stipulations were spelled out in Trustee William Basinger's motion Monday evening to approve the plan - subject to review of the master deed - for a cluster condo project on nearly six acres off White Lake Road.

The conditions to the agreement for Village West were:

- No changes can be made to the site plan.
- The site plan must be approved by the village engineer as submitted.
- A master deed must be submitted to the village council for review.
- The fees - to be determined by the village engineer - must be paid.

The condominium plan is like a small subdivision only the condominium association will own the land and the homeowner will own the building site in which a house of any design could be built, said developer Rudy Lozano.

Since the parcel of land lies in the village and township, the developer must get approval from both governing bodies.

Six of the nine homes in the proposal lie in the village, two would be split and one would lie in the township.

Once the village council gave its OK to the project, the developer could return to the township planning commission to secure its approval of the conceptual site plan.

The township planning commission tabled the issue in January to allow the village to take the lead in deciding whether or not to approve the plan since the majority of the project lies in the village.

At the same time, the township planning commission voiced its concerns over several problems with the site plan.

One problem was that the spring-fed pond on the property is to include a stone walk-way around the perimeter and a filtering system to keep lawn chemicals from entering Deer Lake downstream.

To build in the flood plain of the pond, filling would be required and commission members voiced objections.

Paving appeals to Perry Lake people

Mud, potholes and ruts are the springtime norm for dirt roads such as Perry Lake Road in Independence Township, and the residents at the end of the road north of I-75 are tired of the problems.

Frank Taverna of Olde Sturbridge Trail presented the township board with a petition signed by residents in Olde Sturbridge subdivision, requesting the paving of their portion of Perry Lake Road. Residents were eager to sign, said Taverna.

"People just grabbed it out of my hands. ... No one refused to sign it," he said, adding this winter was particularly hard on the road, and it deteriorated to terrible conditions.

"It was originally designed for a much smaller amount of traffic," he said. "There are 40 new homes."

Pledge sheets available for annual CROP walk

Walkers, runners and outdoor lovers will have an opportunity to perform their hobbies and to raise money to fight hunger at the same time.

Sponsor sheets for the Third Annual CROP Walk on May 15 will be available at area churches starting Friday, April 15.

Registration for the 10 kilometer walk is to begin at 1:30 p.m., with a 2 p.m. kickoff from Calvary Lutheran Church, Bluegrass Drive, Independence Township. Participants are to collect sponsors to pledge money for each kilometer walked.

One-fourth of the money raised will be used locally, tions.

Since the flood plain is mainly in the township, the village need not worry about it, council members said.

"It's up for their own review and determination (of what to do)," said Basinger.

The board voted to accept the petitions and recommend that the Oakland County Road Commission (OCRC) act upon them.

If the only way to pay the estimated $250,000 cost of paving is to assess only the frontage owners, then residents probably wouldn't be able to afford it, Taverna said.

But residents within the three subdivisions off Perry Lake Road might also be willing to be assessed, if it's allowed, he said.

Supervisor Frank Ronk said it might be legal to assess the subdivision residents without Perry Lake Road frontage since the road is a dead-end street and only serves residents at that end.

He said he would present the petitions to the OCRC and find out about the assessment district.

and the rest will be used nationally and worldwide to fight hunger. Sponsors of the Clarkston walk are the Church World Service-CROP and the Independence Township Ministerial Association.

Walkers can pick up pledge sheets at the following churches: Clarkston United Methodist Church, St. Daniel Catholic Church, Sashabaw United Presbyterian Church, Calvary Lutheran Church and Drayton Heights Free Methodist Church.

CROP is an acronym for the Christian Rural Overseas Project.

Township candidates can file now

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Now is the appropriate time for residents to think about elections in Springfield Township, according to township Supervisor Collin Walls.

Every elected township position, including seven township board seats (supervisor, clerk, treasurer and four trustees), six park commission positions and six library board positions will appear on the Nov. 8 ballot.

When the state switched to four-year terms, staggered positions were done away with, Walls said, so every elected position in every township position in the state is up for election in November.

Springfield candidates must submit a petition with the signatures of at least 26 registered voters (and a maximum of 100 signatures) before 4 p.m. May 31, and they must sign an affidavit of identity. Petitions are available at the township offices, 650 Broadway, in downtown Davisburg.

"It is unfortunate that at the township level there is no competition," Walls said. "We miss the opportunity to explore new ideas and debate."

The time to correct that is now, he said, as the deadline approaches for candidates to enter the race.

"It could be as simple as (26) signatures on a petition," Walls added. "Maybe, if they don't want to run themselves, residents should talk to friends and neighbors who would be good candidates. I know the community is full of good candidates."

Walls, who has served as township supervisor since Dec. 8, 1976, is undecided about whether he will run for re-election, but promises a decision by May 1.

"It would be unfair to the township to wait longer than that," he said.

Walls has run unopposed for supervisor since he was first appointed to the position in 1976 when Don Rogers resigned.

Prior to that, he said he never won a position he ran for against another candidate. In the early 1970s, he lost a trustee seat by six votes, and in the 1976 election, he lost in the race for supervisor by three votes, only to be appointed to the position in December anyway.

After 12 years as supervisor, Walls said that if he runs, he intends to win.

As of April 8, no petitions had been filed in Springfield Township.

Sewer extension probe

A proposed Sashabaw Road sewer extension from McDonald's to Waldon Road would allow the development of a grocery store and shopping center at the southwest corner of Sashabaw and Waldon roads.

The Independence Township Board voted 5-0 to direct the engineers to prepare a cost estimate and to prepare a hearing to form a special assessment district to pay for the project.

The extension was requested by Arkan Jonna, a developer and owner of five grocery stores in Michigan, who needs the sewer before he can build a medium-sized, full-operation grocery store and shopping center.

George Anderson, director of the township department of public works, said most of the property owners along Sashabaw Road favored the project and were willing to be assessed.

THE CHILL of ice cream and warmth of a mother's lap provide a metaphor for spring-time thanks to Ann and Jenny Mizusawa of Clarkston.

Sheriff's Log

Friday, April 7, a $1,500 furnace and $1,800 worth of building materials were stolen from a residence on Waumegah, Springfield Township.

Friday, someone drove over a lawn off Fawn Valley Drive, Independence Township.

Friday, a 20-year-old Pontiac man was given a ticket for possession of alcohol in a vehicle on Cramlane, Independence Township.

Friday, a 12-speed men's bicycle was found in Depot Park, Depot Road, Clarkston.

Saturday, a camping tent was stolen from a backyard on Snowapple Drive, Independence Township.

Saturday, a $330 leaf blower, $800 gold ring and 35mm camera were stolen from a Curtis Lane, Independence Township, residence.

Sunday, a 1980 Mazda caught fire on Dartmouth, Independence Township.

The above information was compiled from reports at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Independence seeks insurance expertise

Independence Township is turning to its residents for help in choosing an insurance coverage plan.

Township officials are asking for volunteers with expertise in insurance to help discriminate between policies from two companies that differ by $80,000, said Clerk Richard Holman.

Township officials aren't sure if one policy would underinsure the township or if the other charges too much, he said.

"We would appreciate that type of involvement," said Holman, at the April 5 meeting.

Interested volunteers should call the township hall at 625-5111 as soon as possible.

Junior highs get on the ball for '88

Return to CHS football field excites varsity soccer team

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

For the first time since 1986, the girls soccer team at Clarkston High School will play on the football field. The team played all of its home games on the rocky field at Sashabaw Junior High School last season while the track was repaired at CHS.

When informed the team would once again have to make Sashabaw its home, the coach and players balked.

Coach Hana Olsen, the athletes and parents packed a school board meeting March 14 to voice their displeasure over the decision to move them back to Sashabaw Junior High once again.

At that time, the players were upset.

"It's the principle of the thing," said senior Shelley Purdy. "It's our field and I feel we are being discriminated against."

Olsen began the discussion by asking the board and administration to reconsider the decision to keep the girls team off the grass to allow it time to recover from the heavy football season.

The field, she said, was in usable condition and the team felt discriminated against because the boys soccer team uses the field in the fall.

Also junior high school teams have used the field as well as the Clarkston Chiefs little league football team, the coach said. All varsity teams must be treated equally, she added.

Several other speakers supported the girls soccer team.

Athletic Director Paul Tungate then said he would schedule games for the girls team at the high school only if the architect said it was OK.

Some problems needed to be worked out before use of the field could be approved, he said.

After a review of the playing surface, the architect said soccer games could be played at CHS through April because the grass growing season doesn't begin until May, Tungate said.

Clarkston now will play its first five home games at the high school and then finish out the season with its last three home games at Sashabaw Junior High School.

"I think that it's a pretty fair compromise," said Tungate.

Olsen also was pleased with the architect's decision and wanted people to know that administrators were behind the team all the way.

"I'm really thrilled that we are getting the field," she said. "We have gotten a lot of support from the school (administrators). It's been overwhelming."

The Wolves open their season at the high school against Greater Oakland Activities League foe Lake Orion on April 13 at 5 p.m.

A wait-and-see attitude prevails at Clarkston and Sashabaw junior highs as the ninth-grade softball season begins.

The cross-town rivals met in the opening game of the season April 12. Results were not available before press time.

While it's still early in the year, both coaches are optimistic their teams can turn in winning seasons. A brief preview of each team follows.

Clarkston

Since the weather hasn't cooperated much, the team didn't have the opportunity to practice outdoors more than once or twice, Coach Dennis Bronson said.

Therefore, he can't properly gage how tough his team will be this season. On paper the Wolverines appear strong.

"We have just as much talent" as last season, he said. "Just not as much depth."

The coach doesn't have to work on dedication. Several players attended a Sunday afternoon practice only hours after returning from Easter vacation.

A couple of strengths for the Wolverines are plenty of speed on the basepaths and good defensive skills.

Bronson was happy to find last season's five-inning junior high doubleheaders eliminated. Teams will now play regulation seven-inning games only.

Five-inning games didn't allow enough time for strategy to play an important role. The game was usually over before anyone realized what happened, the coach said.

Two players are already penciled into the lineup as pitchers and two others may join them, the coach said. If they can consistently get the ball over the plate, Clarkston will be very successful, he said.

Sashabaw

Rival Sashabaw also aspires to be a successful team this season. But unlike the Wolverines, the Cougars practiced regularly during Easter vacation.

New coach John Matheus looks forward to a good season for the Cougars.

"Hopefully working out over Easter will give us an edge," he said. "Clarkston has a lot of talent on its team."

A good portion of this year's roster is filled with plenty of people from the track team, he said. Speed should not be a problem area for the Cougars.

Sashabaw also should be able to hit the ball well, the coach said.

Matheus also will institute a platoon system in an attempt to use as many players as he can.

The starters will probably go four innings and then others will play the final three, he said.

STACEY CARPENTER throws the ball back to Coach John Matheus during softball practice session at Sashabaw Junior High last week.

Time out

Sunny side up

Peter Auchter

At last, I can finally see the light at the end of the tunnel. It's getting brighter every day.

By the time you are reading this column, high school spring sports will finally have begun. I'm tired of those two-hour practices where no one but me keeps score.

I want to see some winners, losers and all-around intense competition on the ball field. I want my sports!

While it may seem silly, watching some of the kids practice their various activities has been the only thing keeping me sane during the loooong Easter vacation.

It's also been fun in a weird sort of way. After all, I'm not the one running around sweating my head off or freezing my buns off. (Go figure Michigan weather.)

For me, it's all fun and games. If only I knew what was going on.

How many consecutive pitches has this person missed? Will the pitcher ever get the ball over the plate?

How many times will the same fielder miss first base by 50 feet with a throw from across the diamond?

How fast are the runners circling the track? So many questions and so little time to get answers. I'm overwhelmed by the experience.

I'll guess that everything will be exposed now that the season is under way.

No longer will anyone be able to hide an embarrassing mistake by saying, "Oops, I meant to do that."

This Easter vacation has certainly been an eye-opening experience for me.

Clarkston without sports is like corn flakes without the milk. Nobody is going to die from it, but it's extremely boring, dry and no fun.

Just a few weeks of inactivity around here gives me the heebie-jeebies should the millage fail again.

A few weeks of suffering is OK, but a whole year - or more - is asking too much. I hope and pray every night that the voters will say "yes" to Clarkston schools.

Soon I'll be making the rounds to visit all the area sports teams and take in a game or two.

Rumor has it I only venture outdoors when the weather is warm and sunny (I guess I'm a real fair-weather fan), so I'll do my best to keep it going.

Maybe I'll even break down and buy a decent pair of sunglasses. The kind that attach to the tops of my eyeglass frames a la Dwayne Wayne of "A Different World" TV fame.

After all, nothing can beat a bright and sunny day.

Three grapplers win titles in final match of season

Three wrestlers from the Clarkston Wrestling Club captured state championships at the Michigan State Wrestling/AAU meet April 10.

Arron Grant, Armin Michelsen and Jeff DeRoseau all were victorious in the club's final meet as a team this season.

Grant placed first in the 45-pound division of the 8-and-under class. Andy Auten (60 pounds) and Franco Vega (65) finished second in their respective weight classes.

Michelsen (85) won his medal in the 11- to 12-year-old group. Corey Grant (75) finished second and Brett Walter took fourth in the same division.

DeRoseau (75) was the lone winner for Clarkston in the 13- to 14-year-old group.

Andy Storrs (50), Jason Tiefenback (55) and Brandon Rank (60) all finished third in the 9- to 10-year-old division. Jason Simpson (75) ended up in fourth place for Clarkston.

A day before the state championships, some members of the club traveled to Mason, Mich., to participate in a USA Federation meet.

Winners for Clarkston were as follows:

8-and-under: Arron Grant (45 pounds), first place; Franco Vega (65), first place.

9- to 10-year-old: Jason Tiefenback (55), second place; Andy Storrs (50), first place; Jamie Bartly (65), first place.

11- to 12-year-old: Corey Grant (75), first place; Brett Walter (65), first place.

13- to 14-year-old: Jeff DeRoseau (75), first place. While the team competition is over until next year, some wrestlers from the club may continue on their own.

The regionals for individuals will be hosted by Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti in June.

The national championship is set for the July 4 weekend in Indianapolis, Ind.

High hopes

Concern over lack of preseason practice time tops the list of worries baseball coach Roy Warner has heading into the 1988 season opener Thursday.

Since Easter vacation arrived early this year and good weather didn't, the players had few opportunities for live practice drills outside before they scattered for spring break.

"Our weakness right now is not having enough time outside," said Warner. "We are going to have to put it all together (when practice resumes)."

On the flip side, the team returns plenty of seniors for the pitching corps. Only five players graduated from last season's Greater Oakland Activities League champions (19-7).

Jeff Tungate, Zach Brown, Jim Shuttleworth, Aaron Hesse and Jeff Briggs are all seniors. Juniors Ben Underwood and Erik Mackson round out the pitching corps.

Behind the plate, Mark Galen and Mike Peel will see some action for the Wolves.

The infield defense will be anchored by Josh Newblatt or Tungate at first base. Matt Carson or Mackson will play second and team up with shortstops Hesse or Bill Larkin. At third base, John Koslosky or Brown will attempt to tame the hot corner.

The outfield also is stocked with plenty of experience for the Wolves.

Doug Bronson, Darin Brandt, Randy Nelson, Underwood and Newblatt will be stationed in the outfield for Warner's troops.

Defense should be a strong suit for the Wolves, the coach said.

Clarkston probably will have to fight off Waterford Kettering and Lake Orion for the league championship.

"The league race will be tough," he said.

The tax deadline is almost here.

Taxpayers are still confused about the sweeping changes in the tax laws. Our experienced preparers are working extra hours through April 15. It's not too late for us to get you the biggest refund you have coming. If there's ever a time for H&R Block, it's now.

Attitude is an asset for Wolves

Clarkston High's varsity softball team has developed an attitude - and Coach Carla Teare likes it that way.

"They have an excellent attitude and it's a real strength," she said of her players. "They work hard and do what ever they are asked to."

With seven returning seniors and seven juniors, things are looking up for the Wolves in 1988.

Kris Castillo, Jackie Patrick, Wendy Scroby, Stacey Shurtz, Kari Abbott, Marci Morgan and Heather Luchembach are all returning for another year.

Some of the returning seniors will begin the year as starters. Should they play well, they will keep their jobs, Teare said, if not then someone will be available to take over.

Making players fight for a starting spot helps provide incentive to improve as the season progresses, she said.

"There is no set lineup," she added. While Clarkston didn't have a spectacular regular season record last season, the Wolves peaked at just the right time to capture a district crown. The season ended one game away from a regional championship.

The same type of scenario could unfold this season since the Greater Oakland Activities League will be very competitive, the coach said.

"The schedule is quite difficult," she said. "But records are not as important" as doing well in the playoffs.

Clarkston will play in tournaments in Royal Oak and Sterling Heights, as if the competition in the league were not enough.

"It'll be a good chance to see what they can do," the coach said.

Both Waterford Kettering and Mott should be able to field potent teams as will Lake Orion, the coach said.

Even new league member Brandon will cause the Wolves some problems.

The season begins April 14 at home against Lapeer West.

Small turnout for soccer team

A shortage of players may come back to haunt the girls soccer team at Clarkston High School this season. Heading into the year, Coach Hana Olsen has enough players to fill all the positions but is sorely lacking in the substitute department.

Should the injury bug bite, it could spell doom for the Wolves.

"If we have an injury we are going to be in trouble," she said.

On the bright side, six seniors will return from last year's team that won a share of the Greater Oakland Activities League title with Lake Orion.

Those players are Shelley Purdy, Sue Haran, Bridget Brown, Jackie Jablonski, Angela Buchanan and Crissy Gibson.

Several underclassmen will complement the core group of veterans.

Tami Mitchell, Nancy Carosella, Katie Rieman, Karen Lowe and Erin McAuliffe will provide the new blood.

With the early arrival of Easter vacation this year, practice time has been hard to come by. Therefore, Olsen has a hard time deciding how good a team she really has this time around.

But defense, especially goaltender Haran, should be a strong point.

"We should be all right," she said. "We have good defensive activity and our offense should get stronger (as the season progresses)."

New GOAL member Brandon has given Clarkston trouble in the past and that probably won't change this season, the coach said.

Lake Orion also will field a powerful team, she added.

"We will struggle," she said. "But we have to keep the attitudes positive and go from game to game."

Clarkston gets a tough test early in the season by opening at home, on the CHS football field, against Lake Orion, April 13 at 5 p.m.

CAYAC sponsors parent-teen talk

Parents and teens may attend a free presentation of "How Parents and Youth Can Talk About Sex and Love" by Roy Short, professor emeritus of sociology from the University of Wisconsin, on Tuesday, April 19.

The presentation, sponsored by the Clarkston Area Youth Assistance family education committee, is to begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Clarkston High School Kirchgessner Auditorium.

Also under the sponsorship of Youth Assistance, Short will present student-only programs: "Love or Infatuation" at Clarkston High School on April 19 for some seniors, and "Premarital Sex: Why Wait?" for some students at Clarkston and Sashabaw junior highs on April 21.

Janet Colbrunn, chairperson of the family education committee, learned about Short's presentations when teaching parenting classes through Youth Assistance about a year and one-half ago.

She wrote to him in Colorado and, subsequently, made a presentation to Oakland County Youth Assistance leaders. Four groups are sponsoring talks by Short this spring and six or more are planning for presentations in the fall.

"What with the AIDS epidemic and the increase in sexual promiscuity, pregnancy and such, there's a reason to give kids a reason to say no," Colbrunn said.

Short "doesn't just preach to kids, he gives them scientific facts on the consequences of premarital sex," she added.

Short is also making a church sponsored appearance at the Drayton Heights Free Methodist Church on Sunday, April 17. His topic at 6 p.m. will be "How Will Premarital Sex Affect Your Marriage?" The church is located at the corner of Winell and Maybee roads.

A related four-part video series, "How to Help Your Child Say No to Sexual Pressure" by Josh McDowell, is also planned at the church on Wednesdays, April 20, 27 and May 4, 11, from 7 to 8 p.m.

SOCIOLOGY PROFESSOR Ray Short is to talk to parents about talking to kids on sex and love.

SLENDER SINBAD is an Italian greyhound.

Pet of the Week

Shy, sweet Sinbad

Sinbad is not bad at all. He's a 2-year-old Italian greyhound, very small and slender, and brown in color. He is so small he looks like a miniature greyhound.

He's a little shy, but he's a playful and happy sort of guy, and warms right up to people.

This dog, who originally came from a breeder, would be best in a one- or two-person home with no children or other pets.

Sinbad can be adopted at the Michigan Humane Society, 3600 Auburn Rd., Auburn Heights, 852-7420. Hours at the non-profit shelter are 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

The fee for Sinbad is $30, plus a $20 fee to neuter him before he leaves the shelter.

New Life Weight Control offers new program

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

New Life Weight Control Centre is offering a new weight loss program this spring.

"We want people to know they have a choice," says owner and registered nurse Mary Douglas.

Mary set up most of the behavior modifications for the new plan, and registered dietitian Dorothy Cheal designed the food plans. Dorothy, a consultant at the center, has a master's degree in foods and nutrition.

"The new program is less structured. Clients visit weekly instead of three times a week," explains Jane O'Connor, registered nurse on the center staff. Jane has a bachelor's degree in science and nursing from the University of Pittsburgh.

New Life Weight Control, located in the Clarkston Professional Center at 5770 S. Main, still offers the older, more structured weight program as well. Mary says the plan is very popular with the clientele.

"The new plan is designed for people who need less discipline," Jane explains. "It is also designed for the person who likes and is able to have more control over what they eat."

With the new plan, called Circle Slimming Plan, people actually help design their own meals. The diet allows higher calorie intake with less weight loss (about 1 to 1 1/2 pounds per week).

"Some people are happier with higher calories and less weight loss as opposed to losing weight faster and being more restricted in their eating habits," Jane says.

The new plan, because it involves fewer visits, is less expensive. It could be geared to group meetings, but

What's New in Business

Mary says they have found most people like the individual attention.

Both plans incorporate the "feeling good about yourself" positive attitudes and behavior modifications (changing eating habits) that have proven successful at the center. And both are based on good sound nutrition, Mary says.

Both are also geared to rotation of calorie intake. Mary explains that the body adjusts to the lower level of calories and lowers the metabolic rate. If a person goes to a normal, higher calorie diet for a brief period and returns to the low calorie diet, the body responds by giving up some fat.

The biggest difference in the new plan is the less strict, easy-to-follow diet.

Mary says the New Life circle plan is for those who want to trim down sensibly with a program they can enjoy for a lifetime of good eating.

Making The Move

Two or three months ahead is not too soon to get estimates from the movers, arrange for packing cartons. Fill out change of address cards, gather up medical and dental records. Transfer bank accounts.

It's smart to get rid of excess belongings in a garage sale. Start packing a little at a time. It's a big job. Disconnect phone and power here and have them connected there.

Last minute jobs include emptying the refrigerator, cleaning the stove. Are all closets empty? Windows closed? Load your vacuum cleaner on the van LAST so it's ready FIRST in your new location. The FIRST step in successful moving is to CALL TODAY AND ASK FOR KAY.

From East Germany, with love

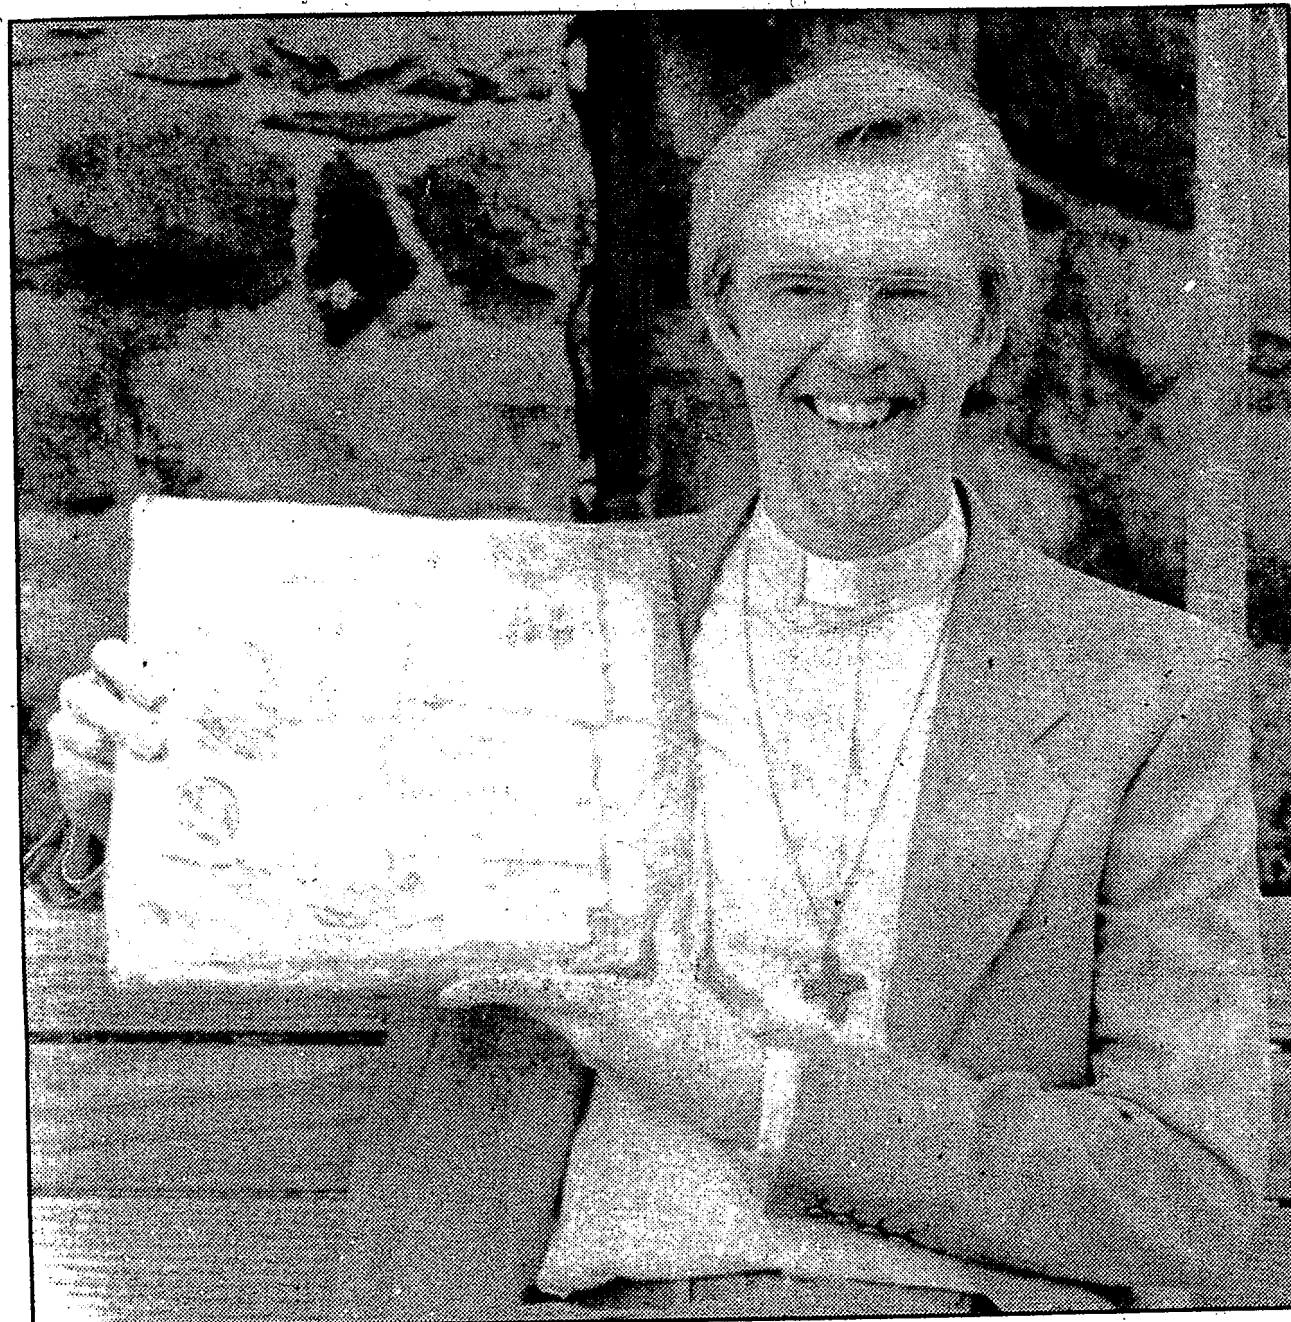

Phone number carries package from abroad

BY KATHY GREENFIELD
Clarkston News Editor

Under the shiny plastic wrap, the package looked frazzled. Corners of the brown wrapper were missing - worn to shreds as it was transferred from here to there during its long journey from Erfurt, East Germany, to Clarkston, USA.

The Rev. Robert Walters, the addressee, carried it into The Clarkston News unwrapped.

THE REV. ROBERT WALTERS is most pleased that this package arrived from East Germany. "I have to give the post office credit, because they got it here with no address," he said.

Everyone always complains when the United States Postal Service does something wrong, he said, so he wanted to share an example of something done extraordinarily right.

Postmarks were too faint to determine the date the package was mailed, but the address was clear: Dr. Robert D. Walters, Calvary Lutheran Church, followed by the word "home," Walters' home telephone number and USA.

Notes from U.S. postal workers were also clear. "Try Detroit, MI," someone wrote. Another jotting said, "City - State - Zip -." At one point, someone stamped the familiar finger with "return to sender" pointing to Clara Meuller's return address in East Germany.

Walters remembered the woman, and said he was surprised that she would send a package. They spent roughly 15 minutes walking with a group of people after attending a concert at the St. Severus Cathedral in Erfurt, East Germany, where Martin Luther was ordained as a priest 1507.

The woman spoke only German, so most of her comments were directed to Anke Ossenberg, a West German theology student in the 16-member group touring Martin Luther areas in East Germany.

Walters remembers some mistrust - something he found to be a common feeling between citizens of East and West Germany. The group thought the woman might have been looking for a handout, he said.

"We kept walking, and she kept talking to Anke along the way," he said.

During the walk, Walters gave the woman his card, with his name, the church name and address, and his home telephone number. When the package was sent, the number, street, city and zip code were ignored in preference for what followed the word "home." It was clearly meant to be a gift for the American visitor.

Walters carefully removed the wrappings, saving the bits and pieces, to find a folder stamped with an apology for the condition of the package from the U.S. Postal Service in New York, N.Y. Inside were a postcard featuring a bronze of Albert Schweitzer in Africa and a song booklet titled "Lieder fur mehr als einen Tag," or "Songs for More Than a Day."

"Oh, my golly!" he exclaimed when he unwrapped the other item: a wooden plate carved with hands clasped in prayer and the excerpt from the Lord's Prayer, in German, "Give us this day our daily bread."

Earlier in the conversation, Walters had shared the reaction of the Detroit postal service employee who dialed the telephone number on the package and realized he'd tracked down his man: "You made my day!"

Happy that Clara Meuller's address was intact so he could send a letter thanking her for the unexpected and thoughtful gifts, Walters broadened the remark: "Brightened my day? It brightened my whole week!"

Classic '69 Mustang reborn from rust

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The street machine was nothing more than a pile of rust on four mushy tires when a wide-eyed 14-year-old first spotted it several years ago.

One could never guess the car's former deteriorated shape by looking at it today.

Diligent work after school and on weekends by Springfield Township resident Larry Gruber Jr. transformed the now candy-apple red 1969 Ford Mustang Mach I to its original eye-catching form.

Working alongside his father, the teen converted the rusted relic into a cherished collector's item in a few short years.

But a highly polished car hasn't been the only positive result.

"It's been a nice experience," said Larry Gruber Sr. "It's a nice thing for a father and son to do together."

They are currently working hard to completely restore the vehicle before the younger Gruber, a senior at Clarkston High School, heads off to the Army in July.

Restoration of vehicles is nothing new for the Gruber family.

They have a long-standing tradition of father and son working side-by-side in the garage on their mutual hobby.

Larry Sr. is glad to help his son, because he fondly remembers the days when his father helped him.

Both father and son gain immeasurable pleasures from their mechanical labors, but neither would make a career out of it.

"It's fun and I enjoy it, but it's just a hobby," Larry Jr. said.

His father has developed the same philosophy.

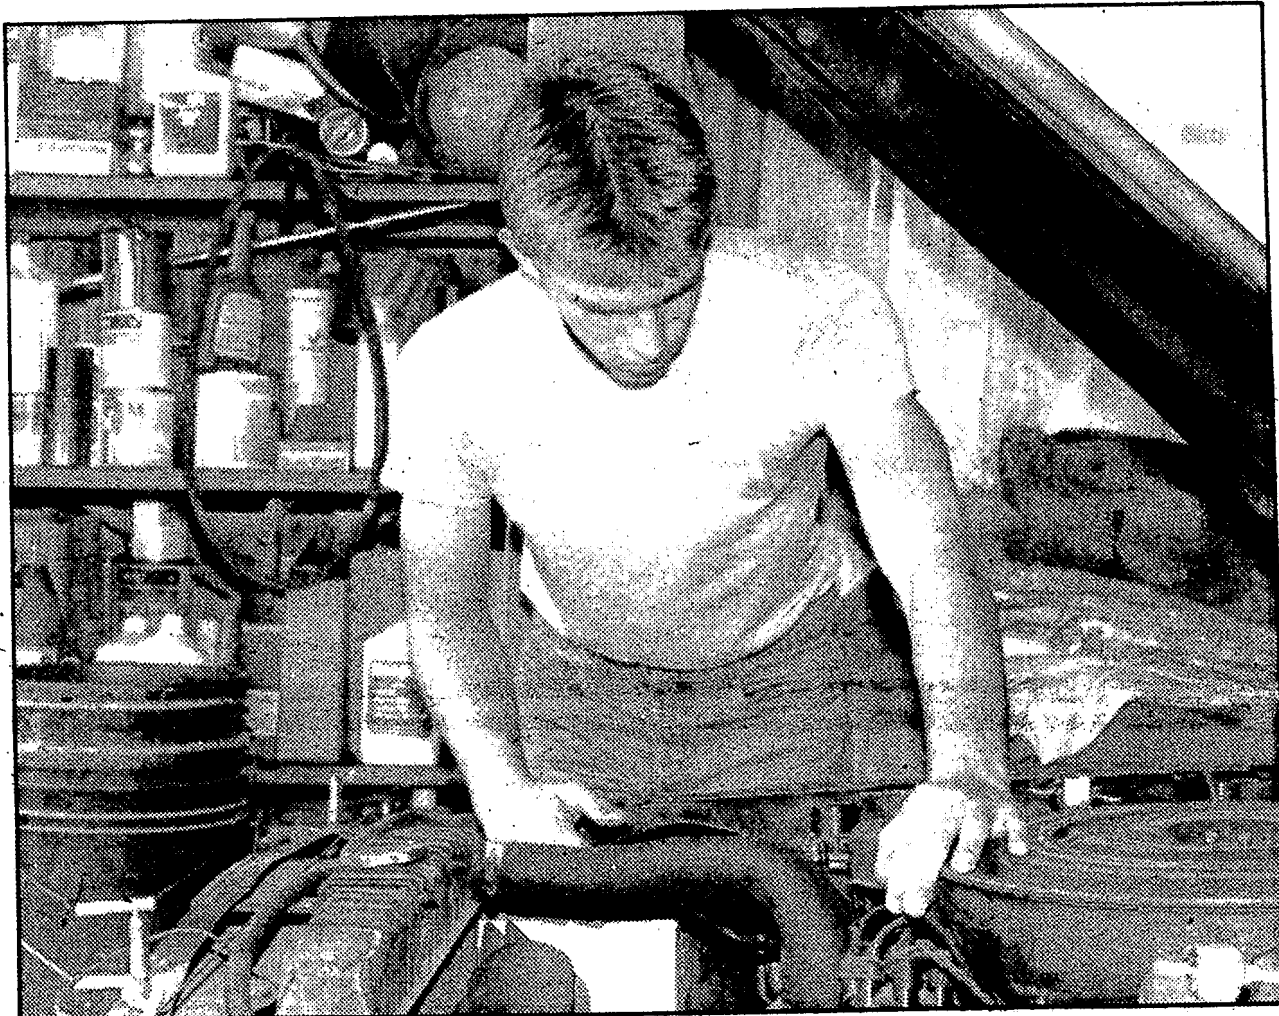

During the late 1970s, he owned a collision shop on Sashabaw Road. He worked on many antique and unique cars including two Porsches owned by Clarkston resident Clarence Catallo.

When the business became a chore, he sold it and went into accounting. But his appreciation for older vehicles never died - especially when they are of the rare Mustang Mach I variety.

"This generation doesn't know about big V-8's," he said while watching his son fire up the Mustang for a short test run.

With a 1967, 1968 and two 1969 Mustang models on the premises, the Gruber residence resembles an antique automobile shrine.

The latest addition joined the collection about three years ago. The Gruber family noticed a "For Sale"

LARRY GRUBER checks out the engine of his 1969 Ford Mustang Mach I. When the restoration project is complete, the motor may be the only original part left.

sign on the rusty Ford in an open field on a return trip from Saline.

Young Larry liked the car and wanted to buy it. Once the $300 purchase price passed hands, the restoration project began.

Whenever a birthday or other gift-giving opportunity arose, friends and relatives had a large list of spare parts for the car to choose from. Slowly but surely, the project creeps closer to completion every day.

The garage full of tools and equipment left over from the collision shop provided father and son with everything they needed.

tion project is complete, the motor may be the only original part left.

"We put our own labor into it, so it has been a fairly inexpensive restoration," Larry Sr. said. "It's an investment and a hobby." From rusted out floorboards to a fresh coat of paint, almost everything has been replaced on the Mach I.

The old but powerful engine may be the only original part left when the project is complete, Larry Sr. said.

When the younger Gruber returns from his stint in the Army, the Mach I will be in storage waiting for him. In all probability, so will another restoration project, he said.

From antique cars to painted ponies, Abbotts are collectors extraordinary

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

At virtually every parade in Clarkston, you are likely to see Jon and Barbara Abbott in their 1956 Rolls Royce or their 1965 Thunderbird convertible.

At every flea market, antique show, or anywhere there is something unusual to see, buy or collect, you are likely to see them again.

The Abbotts collect everything from carousel figures to cars and miniatures. They once had a merry-go-round in the back yard, and an antique buggy graces the circular driveway of their Independence Township home.

Jon owns hundreds of scale model cars, a number of push pedal toy cars and has collected 50 or 60 of the "real thing" over the years.

"I've owned antique and collector cars since 1950," he says. "I started back when they were cheap."

While he currently owns the Rolls Royce and Thunderbird, he has also owned exotic cars such as the Bugatti over the years.

His Rolls Royce has a rather exotic status itself. Named the Most Elegant Car at the Meadow Brook Concours d'Elegance in Rochester last year, the one-of-a-kind model Rolls was also the London Show Car in 1956.

The most famous car he owned was a 1940 Lincoln Continental that belonged to Dr. Sam Shepherd.

Consider choices before buying credit insurance

If you've recently bought and financed a car, or made another major purchase, you've probably been asked to buy credit insurance.

This is the insurance, typically offered with installment loans, that pays off the loan in the event of the borrower's death or disability.

Credit insurance clearly benefits the lender because the loan will be repaid no matter what happens to the borrower. But does it benefit the borrower?

Before you accept credit insurance, these are the things you should know:

1. Credit insurance is usually optional. Lenders may insist that you need it, trying to pressure you into making a purchase, but they can't force you to buy. Don't be pressured. Take time to think about whether or not you really need credit insurance.

2. Credit insurance adds to the cost of the loan. Usually expressed as cents per $100 of the face amount of the loan, with maximum premium set by each state, the national average cost is around 60 cents per $100. Put another way, credit life insurance adds about one percent to the interest rate of a loan, and credit disability (or accident and health) insurance adds about two percent. If you take both credit and disability, assuring repayment of the loan in the event of either death or disability, you turn an interest rate of 12 percent into an interest rate of 15 percent.

3. Credit insurance is term insurance. Credit life insurance, specifically, is usually written as declining balance term insurance. The coverage starts with the face value of the loan and declines as the loan is repaid; the premiums meanwhile, remain fixed. But credit insurance actually costs more than term insurance bought from an insurance agent.

You may want to consider credit insurance if:

- You are either in poor health or elderly, so that regular life insurance would either be unavailable or very expensive.

- Your family will be heavily burdened by paying off a combination of debts.

- You want to cover a small short-term loan, so small that a commercial insurance company will probably not be interested.

If you decide to buy credit insurance, compare prices carefully and understand what you're buying. And leave a note with your loan papers; otherwise your family, despite the insurance, might continue paying the loan after your death.

But you may not want to buy it at all. For most people, consumer advocates agree, credit insurance is a poor buy. That's because most people can do better buying insurance through an insurance agent. The insurance you buy through an agent, moreover, can be used by your family to meet its most pressing needs. It won't be pre-allocated to pay off a specific debt or designated to go to a specific lender.

Noise level raised for race weekend

In preparation of the fourth annual Meadow Brook Historic Races at Waterford Hill Race Track in August, the township board approved a sound waiver for the usual 75 decibels and set the sound limit at 105 decibels for the weekend.

Planned for Aug. 5, 6 and 7, the races will be minus the Saturday parade this year, said Michael Sheridan, president of GPI Publishing, the producer of the races.

"We're not in the parade business," he said, adding it may return in future years, as the event grows.

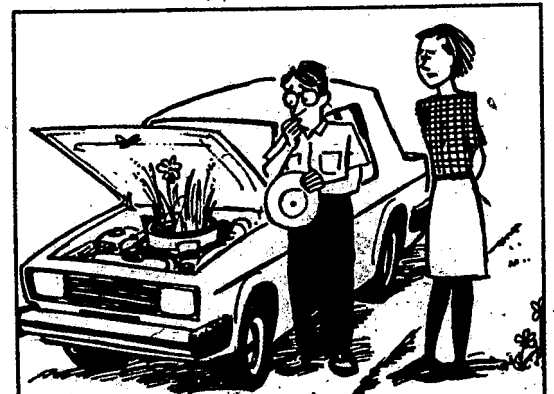

The Friday evening concourse in the park is scheduled again to benefit SCAMP and has steadily been improving in past years, he said.

This year, the national association for Porsche owners has scheduled its annual meeting during the event. Ferrari owners are planning to attend in 1989 and Jaguar owners in 1990, he said.

More sponsors are to participate with the Friday night concourse, which will help SCAMP, he said.

"We'd like to see SCAMP's benefit multiply 10 times, because they're certainly a worthwhile organization," he said.

Sheridan said the neighbors surrounding the Waterford Hill Race Track on Waterford Road, Independence Township, will again receive free tickets for the event, to help compensate for the noise levels.

"Honey, maybe for the car's birthday we should buy it a new air filter."

Collections are life-long fun for area couple

Jon has a complete set of presidents' signatures, plus his great-great-grandfather's Civil War letters. He collects chalk figures from carnivals as well as other carnival memorabilia.

He has a complete set of Norman Rockwell's work, including the Saturday Evening Post series and many other of the artist's famous prints.

Stieff stuffed animals (the "Cadillac" of stuffed animals) and antique furniture add charm to their home, which has a museum atmosphere about it.

Memorabilia is ornately framed (Jon is in the wholesale art and picture frame business), displayed in glass-doored cabinets or lined up on shelves. No room in the house is immune to the Abbotts' collections.

An old popcorn machine stands in the basement. Nearby on a wall hangs a framed poster of Riverview, Chicago's once famous amusement park, along with tickets from all the amusement rides in the park. Antique baby buggies and barber chairs cradle collectible dolls.

"I come from a family of pack rats," Jon says, explaining his inherited instinct to collect.

"We see something unusual that strikes us, and we buy it," Barb adds.

In addition to a home brimming with collectibles, they have two garages full.

Daughters Kellie, 19, and Kari, 17, are used to their parents' pastime since they have grown up with it. But Barb says the girls never liked the attention it drew. And the Abbotts have definitely gained attention.

They are nationally known as top collectors in the carousel field and have been written up in numerous publications including the recently published book "Painted Ponies."

And it is the brightly painted carousel figures, posed in timeless strides on their poles, which draw the eye throughout the Abbott home.

Their most famous figure, a saddled goat, dominates one corner of the living room. One of only three such pieces remaining in the country, the goat has been reproduced for a 12-piece series that the Franklin Mint is creating and has also been reproduced for a soon to be printed carousel calendar.

Jon and Barb say they would like to run a museum and gift shop when they retire.

"We like people and tourist traps," Barb says, laughing.

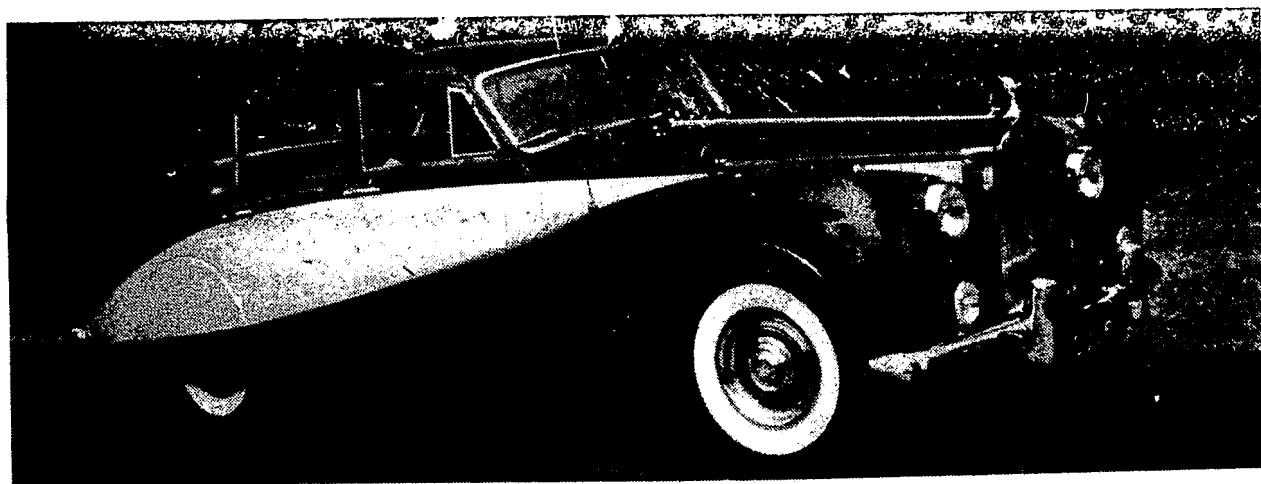

Jon looks at his collections as his retirement in more ways than one.

"It's more fun than the stock market and I enjoy it," he says. "I can walk by and look at all my little goodies. Our collection is our retirement program."

JON ABBOTT collects scale model antique and collectible cars, such as this Rolls Royce, and he also collects the real thing. His 1956

Rolls Royce or 1965 Thunderbird convertible are frequently seen in Clarkston parades.

THIS 1959 ROLLS ROYCE belonging to Jon Abbott of Independence Township earned the Most Elegant Car Award last year at Meadow Brook Concours d'Elegance in Rochester.

Lemon Law helps owners when new cars turn sour

You can squeeze a lemon, but that doesn't mean you'll get any juice - especially if your lemon is a new car.

The Michigan "Lemon Law" might be the consumer's only out if he or she happens to purchase a new car which is constantly in the repair shop.

Even then, according to Jack Chase, Research Director with the Detroit Consumer Affairs Department, retribution could be elusive.

"The consumer has to go through an arbitration process, and they have to build a case accordingly," Chase said.

During arbitration, the new car owner must produce accurate maintenance records showing where the car was repaired, how many times, and for what reasons.

They have to build a real paper trail. The car buyer can really screw up his case if he can't prove he had the oil changed on time.

"They have to be prepared and organized or else they'll lose," Chase said. "I've served on the panel of arbitration at Ford, and so often a consumer had a lemon but just failed to build a case."

"But don't overdo it, either," he cautioned. "No one wants to know how many times you drove your mother-in-law somewhere and your car broke down. Accurate records are all you need."

Although the Michigan lemon laws are a function of the state, they are also tied into the Federal Trade Commission through Federal legislation. It's the Federal government which sets the criteria for arbitration.

The actual arbitration can take 30 to 45 days and go in several directions.

If the manufacture does not win the case, the board may order repairs to be done to restore the car to its original condition. The board can also order the manufacturer to replace the car or give the consumer a refund.

Even with a replacement or refund, the car owner may have to pay mileage for the time the car was driven before the original complaint was issued.

One point Chase emphasized was that the lemon laws do not cover either leased or used cars.

"There have been attempts at legislation to include leased cars under the laws," said Chase, "but used-car legislation shows little promise."

According to Chase, used-car lemon laws have been explored.

"But," he said, "Those in favor of putting used cars under the law differ too widely on conditions the law could cover."

Bone up on car care with this pop quiz

This is the time to plan motoring vacations in the good old United States of America.

The best vacations are the ones that are trouble free; everyone enjoys good health and the car performs the way it should.

To provide a few hints about some of the main points of preventive maintenance, Car Care Council offers this quiz.

1. When the oil warning light turns on, it means you need to add a quart. True or false?

2. More than half of all radiator hose or fan belt failures occur in emergency situations. True or false?

3. Before towing a trailer or hauling heavy loads, the automatic transmission should be checked. If the fluid is brown, it should be replaced. True or false?

4. The oxygen sensor is part of your car's air conditioning system. True or false?

5. Loose steering is the number one mechanical cause of accidents. True or false?

Answers

1. False. When the oil light turns on, it means the engine is losing oil pressure, possibly due to a worn oil pump, to low level or to a leak in the system. Turn off the engine as soon as possible to prevent major damage.

2. True. Eighty percent of belt and hose replacements are unscheduled. This generally is the least convenient and most expensive way to get the work done. Preventive maintenance can help minimize catastrophic car trouble.

3. Absolutely. The automatic transmission fluid should be checked before subjecting it to heavy loads. When the fluid appears brown instead of red and smells like burned varnish, have the fluid and filter replaced.

4. False. The oxygen sensor is part of the emissions control system. It "sniffs" exhaust gas to determine whether the engine is putting out harmful emissions. The oxygen sensor will signal an engine malfunction, often before the driver would realize his car needs diagnosis and a tune-up.

5. False. While loose steering certainly can be a major contributor, the number one cause of highway accidents is brake failure. Car Care Council recommends periodic brake inspection, especially before leaving on an extended trip. Key points to watch: worn pads or rotors and fluid leaks.

Check emission

You don't always need an exhaust check to discover your car's emission controls are out of order.

Keep a check on the gas mileage; if the car begins using more than the normal amount, get it checked. Another indication is poor idling or hard starting.

If you notice the engine or performance deteriorating, something may be amiss in the emission control system.

More often than not, a professional engine analysis will quickly locate the problem. Car Care Council recommends an annual diagnostic check as a preventive measure.

Take away guesswork in choosing insurance

Insurance is one product you purchase that you hope you never have to use. But when you do have to make a claim, you want to make sure you get quick and satisfactory service.

Next to your home, your car is probably the second largest purchase you will make. Question and compare coverage to be sure your investment is well protected.

Do you have to buy car insurance?

Most states require you to prove you can pay for another person's injuries and damages in case you are found legally responsible for causing an accident. If you buy a car on credit, the lender usually requires collision and comprehensive coverage to protect the investment.

How are claims handled?

As you shop, compare the length of time it takes to settle claims. How many estimates does the company require? Does it have a drive-in claims office? Can you select the repair shop or does the company specify where repairs are to be made? What is that company's record for dropping clients after an accident?

When should you shop for car insurance?

Once you've narrowed your choice down to two or three cars, inquire what the insurance cost will be for the different models. Be sure and add this to your budget when figuring what car you can afford.

Insurance premiums are more costly for high performance cars. If you have your eye on a sleek sports car, be forewarned: Many insurance companies will not insure these higher risk vehicles. You may have to obtain coverage from the non-standard market at higher rates.

What information is required when purchasing insurance?

Information you will need before you begin to shop is a list of all licensed operators in your household, their age, sex, operators' number, and driving record. Plus information on the car such as model, serial number, as well as where it will be garaged, where and how many miles will it be driven.

If you are in a car pool, you may be eligible for a discount if you do not drive every day. Also, if you have a college student who lives away from home, who does not have access to the car there, you may get a break on the premium, as well.

How much coverage do I need?

That depends on the value of your car and your financial picture, and how much loss you are comfortable in assuming yourself. Most people do not have enough money saved to cover a serious accident, repair costs and medical expenses.

You need liability coverage - insurance that pays for injuries or damages you cause. Liability coverage is mandatory in most states, but the minimum coverage varies. Because of the cost of accidents has increased greatly, you should consider carefully whether these minimum amounts provide you with enough protection.

Additional coverage often can be purchased for a relatively small increase in your premium. Under the medical payments coverage section, liability or fault is not a factor. The insurance company will pay for reasonable and necessary medical expenses up to the dollar amount you select for everyone covered under your policy.

Collision coverage pays for damage to your car, even if you are at fault. Most drivers have a $200 deductible. The higher the deductible, the less expensive this coverage becomes. As your car gets older, you may want to decrease the collision coverage, or opt to drop it altogether.

How can you save money on insurance?

Some insurance companies will give a discount to good drivers. Ask how long you must have a clean record and how large a discount you get.

Don't place too much weight on discounts. Keep them in perspective with overall price and service. By knowing the right questions to ask and the basic elements of an auto policy, you can save on insurance and take comfort in knowing you're properly covered.

Does your cooling system stand up to summer strains?

Now is the time to make sure your car's cooling system will withstand the summer driving strains of higher speeds, heavier loads and extended hot-temperature idling.

To prepare yourself mentally, here is a list of warm weather warnings that will help keep you out of trouble.

1. Don't worry about the engine running hot for a short period of time, as long as the liquid coolant in the radiator does not boil. If it boils, the radiator will lose this fluid, and you will have to stop, let the system cool and then add water before moving on.

2. Don't stop and turn off the engine when the dashboard light flashes "hot" or when the temperature gauge rises above its normal position. This could cause the coolant to boil. Just slow down 5 or 10 mph, turn off the air conditioner and, if possible, shift down one gear. This will give the engine every chance to cool off by itself.

3. Don't remove the radiator cap when the engine is hot. By removing it, you will relieve the pressure in the cooling system and probably cause the coolant to boil. You also could get a hot shower. After the engine has stopped boiling, wait about 45 minutes, then check the level of coolant by removing the radiator cap. But if the coolant starts to boil as the cap is removed, wait another 20 minutes and check it again. Don't remove the radiator cap until the pressure is gone from the cooling system.

4. Don't let anyone remove your car's thermostat to correct an overheating problem. You should, of course, replace a defective thermostat, but don't ever run without one. The thermostat keeps the engine oil clean and minimizes wear on all parts. This engine efficiency also means a cleaner exhaust and more miles per gallon of gas.

In spite of the critical job performed by the engine cooling system, it is the most neglected system in the entire automobile. And neglect of the cooling system, especially drive belts, radiator hoses and the coolant, is the main reason for engine overheating.

Tiger tickets go 'poof'

When Andy Nichols heard that the next Tiger trivia question was going out to someone in Clarkston, the 14-year-old began to get nervous.

"He said, 'My heart stopped pounding. I just knew it was me,'" said his mother, Judy Nichols.

The brief warning on TV Channel 4 on Friday during the Tiger baseball game didn't make the question any easier.

When the telephone in the Nichols' Paramus Drive, Independence Township, home did ring, the question turned out to be difficult: "What uniformed Tiger led the National League in hits in his rookie year in 1959?"

Tiger buffs Andy and his dad, Thom, guessed, but their response was incorrect. The answer was announced after the third person called responded correctly: Vida Pinson, batting coach for the Tigers.

For Andy, the thrill of being called and hearing his name on TV was reason enough to feel good about the experience, even though he didn't win the pair of tickets to a Tiger game.

"He wasn't disappointed," said his mom. "He said it wasn't like they were giving away $1,000."

Microwave Plus

Dinner in a dash

It's easy for the time to slip away during a lovely spring evening.

Whether we're enjoying the great outdoors by working in the yard or going for a walk, suppertime seems to come upon us before we've had time to prepare for it.

Baked potatoes with traditional, ethnic and unusual toppings can be prepared in the microwave for a tasty supper in minutes.

One large potato, scrubbed and pierced once with a long-tined fork, cooks in the microwave at high power in about 5 minutes. Smaller potatoes are ready in less time.

Each potato needs to stand for 5 minutes to finish cooking. For a few potatoes, I wrap them in foil and place on the dinner plate to aftercook. For four or more potatoes, I place them in a casserole dish, wrap it in foil or a large tea towel and place it on the table to aftercook.

1 lrg. potato	High power	5 min.*	Stand 5 min.
2 lrg. potatoes	High power	7 min.	Stand 5 min.
3 lrg. potatoes	High power	8-9 min.	Stand 5 min.
4 lrg. potatoes	High power	10-12 min.	Stand 5 min.

*These times are approximate, depending on the age of the potato, the kind of potato and the wattage of your microwave oven. The flesh of the potato should be slightly firm, but able to be indented with the thumb when removed from the microwave for standing.

Toppings are limited only by your imagination, taste and the strength of your stomach.

1. Mexican Potato: Place contents of can of refried beans in a microwavable dish. Reheat at 80 percent power until hot. Spoon on cooked potato along with shredded Monterey Jack cheese, prepared taco sauce, chopped green chilies, black olives, chopped tomatoes and sour cream or substitute.

2. All-American: Mix warmed hot dog chili sauce with sour cream and/or plain yogurt, top with shredded sharp cheddar or another cheese of choice.

3. The Sophisticate: Mix together chopped marinated artichoke hearts and sliced canned or fresh mushrooms; heat, then spoon on cooked baked potato.

4. The Dieter: Mix plain low fat yogurt with an herb combination such as Mrs. Dash and precooked chopped broccoli. Place on piping hot potato.

5. The Seafarer: Stir small cooked salad shrimp into hot veloute sauce. Spoon over hot baked potato and garnish with chopped green onions. To prepare Veloute Sauce, melt 2 tablespoons butter and add 2 tablespoons flour and a few grains of white pepper. Microwave for 20 seconds or so, until bubbly. Add 1 cup fish stock or chicken bouillon. Cook at high power 2 to 3 minutes, stirring every minute. Stir in white wine or vermouth to taste.

6. Pizza Potato: Cook Italian sausage in microwave until done. Mix with prepared or homemade heated pizza sauce. Spoon over cooked potato. Sprinkle with mozzarella cheese and/or Parmesan cheese.

7. Vegetarian: Just about any precooked vegetable can be spooned onto a hot baked potato and topped with heated pasteurized process cheese spread.

Country Value hardware store in Independence Township. It was their last chance to find old milk bottles and other mementoes of Lowrie Dairy.

Dairy diggings

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Tom Lowrie, owner of a landscaping business in Springfield Township, spent a lot of time around the first of April digging things up instead of planting them.

Beads of sweat were running down his face, a combination of the warm spring sun and his excitement, as he unearthed bits and pieces of his family roots.

Lowrie was digging at the site of his Uncle Keith and Aunt Hilda Lowrie's former dairy on M-15 just south of I-75 in Independence Township.

The site was being excavated and footings laid for the new Country Value Hardware Store to be located there, and Lowrie knew it was his last chance to find old milk bottles and other mementos of the dairy bearing his family name.

Between April 2 and 5, Lowrie had unearthed a dozen glass dairy bottles, many with the name Walter Dairy on them, the name of the family from whom the Lowries purchased the business in 1947.

He had yet to find a bottle with the Lowrie Dairy name on it, but he did find something bigger.

"Wow, look at this!" he shouted, holding up a 5-gallon metal milk can with Lowrie Dairy imprinted on the side. His aunt and her daughter, Ann Lowrie Gillis, stopped digging below to come up and inspect the prize.

Lowrie's aunt and uncle ran the dairy until 1968 when Keith passed away. About six months after his death, Hilda closed the dairy and sold the property.

"When we switched to cardboard cartons, I used to throw the heavy glass bottles out here," she said, gesturing to the area where Lowrie and his his cousin, Ann, were digging.

Ironically, Lowrie has bid for the landscaping contract at the new hardware store, so he may be helping bury forever any remaining mementos of Lowrie Dairy after the hardware store is completed.

What mementos have been collected will be passed among Lowrie family members, and Lowrie says he may even leave a bottle at the new hardware store, as a symbol of the history of that piece of property.

"People in Clarkston have fond memories of my Uncle Keith," Lowrie said. "He was the nicest guy.

People would just leave their back doors open and he'd put the milk in the refrigerators for them."

Lowrie has other childhood memories of the dairy, such as getting ice from the freezer to suck on during the warm summer months.

The Lowries have been long-time residents of the Clarkston area. Lowrie's grandfather farmed the land where Colombiere Center now stands.

"In 50 years, I think my grandkids are going to be digging in my yard for Lowrie Landscaping shovels or T-shirts," Lowrie said.

A LOWRIE DAIRY milk can and various glass dairy bottles are some of the rewards the Lowrie family garnered after spending a sweaty weekend digging at the site.

and daughter, Ann Lowrie Gillis, at the former dairy site, where they have unearthed many artifacts from the dairy.

DIFFERENT LEVELS on playground equipment at Clintonwood Park make it perfect for a game of tag. Heading the group up the ladder is Jerad Mucci, 5, followed by Brad Bowen, 10, and Adam Vandis, 8. From the ground, Jessica Dalrymple, 7, watches.

JILL LAWSON, 7, shows her Spidey-like qualities as she climbs up the slide at Clintonwood Park on Clarkston Road in Independence Township.

Vacation fun

THE WARM SAND provides a peaceful play area for Tiffany Mucci, 3, of East Washington Street, Independence Township, who went to Clintonwood Park with her mom and brother.
