Board cuts 38 teachers from payroll

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A somber board of education voted to lay off 38 teaching staff members, cut two administrative positions and reassign two others in the Clarkston school district Monday night.

The votes were unanimous, with little discussion except that of board member Carolyn Place, who spoke on behalf of the entire board.

"Obviously, what we have to do tonight does not make us happy, but is necessary," she said. "It is painful for us as well as the staff involved, and we will do our utmost to get the message out and the millage passed so these things do not have to come to pass."

The teaching staff reductions include 15 positions at the elementary level, 18 at the secondary level, two in special education and three at the vocational school.

At the elementary level, the following people were laid off: Barbara Mack, Gloria Lacy, Carla Teare, Darrell Marsh, Betsy Patterson, Sandra Sanford, Joanne Stroebel, Betty Kozma, Geraldine Allison, Laurie Wilson-Eller, Beatrice Cohen, Linda Johnson, Doris Bonnell, Jean Bierlein and Lois Richardson.

Laid off at the secondary level were: Diana Lecky, Sandra Srabian, Kelly Cutshaw, Mari Ann Pace-Bleau, Cheryl Mix, Julie Mathews, Suzanne Kiser, Gordon Richardson, Kurt Richardson, Cliff Chapman, Paul Witek, Lawrence Mahrle, James Smith, Mary Tippen, Victor Hart, Dennis Templeton, James Wasvary and William Holmes.

At Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center, Robert Fleming, Esther Andrews and Jesse Riojas were laid off. In special education, Mary Pew and Caren Chamberlain were laid off.

The reductions in personnel were necessary, according to Superintendent Milford Mason, because of the overall financial posture of the district, program cuts that have been made in the 1987-88 school year and further cuts to be made in the 1988-89 school year, anticipated reductions in state aid funding, the expected return from leave of higher seniority teachers, and expected decline in enrollment at the vocational school.

Two administrative positions were also cut. Marilyn Allyn, Adult Education Outreach supervisor at Clarkston Community Learning Center, will be reassigned to a non-administrative position, possibly at the Learning Center, according to board president Janet Thomas.

Paul Tungate, whose duties have been split between teaching at the high school and serving as athletic director, would become a full-time math teacher at

Sprinklers save day

A new sprinkler system saved a building from total destruction during a fire April 23 at Clawson Tank on White Lake Road, Independence Township.

About 3:15 p.m. Saturday, firefighters were called to the fire, which began in the paint building and was apparently caused by combustibles placed near the heating ducts, said David Stover of the Independence Township Fire Department.

The sprinklers prevented the flames from causing too much structural damage, and the firefighters extinguished the blaze in about 20 minutes, he said.

The sprinkler system had been installed about a month prior, according to Stover.

"It saved the building; there's no doubt about it," he said. "They were fortunate they installed the system. Otherwise, he would have been out of a lot of money."

Firefighters spent about three hours cleaning up the scene, he said, adding that the damage was minimal and an estimate wasn't available yet.

New superintendent signs 3-year contract

The contract for Clarkston school district's new superintendent was approved at a special board of education meeting April 25.

Gary Haner, who will take over the job on July 1, was in the audience when the approval came.

Haner's three-year contract includes a $74,000 salary the first year. After that, he will be accorded the same percentage of increase as other administrators in the district.

The contract also includes a $5,000 tax sheltered annuity; health, life and dental benefits that are standard to the district; and an automobile.

"I appreciate Milford's willingness to help me," Haner said of retiring superintendent Milford Mason. "He has extended an open door."

Haner said he plans to be on hand for board meetings and visit Clarkston whenever possible until he officially takes over July 1.

Regarding the upcoming millage election, he said, "I feel confident it will pass. It is a wonderfully laid out campaign. I would encourage each one of you to get involved in it.

"I'm excited to return to Clarkston and to share the likelihood of success on June 13," he continued.

Haner began his career in Clarkston some 22 years ago, when he and his wife, Sue, did their student teaching in the district before joining the staff in 1966. He taught in Clarkston schools until 1971, when he left to serve as principal and then superintendent in other Michigan school districts.

Most recently, he has served as superintendent of Pinckney Community Schools, near Ann Arbor.

Layoff decision a tough one

Clarkston High School in the fall.

Two other administrators would be reassigned. Alberta Ellis, currently director of curriculum, will be reassigned to a position not yet determined if the millage fails in June.

Virginia Farmer, assistant principal at Clarkston Junior High School, will go back to community education and direct adult education at the Learning Center, according to Thomas.

If voters approve 5.5 mills for operational purposes on June 13, which would increase tax bills $5.50 for each $1,000 of assessed property valuation, programs and staff members cut from the school budget would be restored under Plan B. If the millage fails, the board will be forced to adopt Plan A.

Plan A would eliminate not only the above-named staff members, but also drop one hour at the high school and junior high levels; eliminate extracurricular activities for high school and junior high school students including sports; eliminate music, physical education, foreign language and reading support in the elementary schools; and close the elementary school media centers except for one day a week.

"If you lay off two counselors, a music teacher and a math teacher at the high school, for example, you are severely impacting programs," Thomas said. "If people don't have students in the school, they might not understand. They might just think the staff isn't needed."

"We're laying off people because we can't pay them," she said. "It's not because we don't have the kids."

Corrections

In the April 13 edition, errors were made in the listing of Paul Jensen as one of Clarkston High School's Class of 1988 students with Top 10 grade point averages. The listing should have said:

● Paul Jensen, son of Thomas and Carol Jo Jensen.

A photograph on the front page of the April 20 Clarkston News was incorrectly identified. It should have said that Brad Killinger and 11-month-old Alex, of Timber Ridge, Independence Township, spent the afternoon at Independence Oaks County Park watching Alex's siblings, Bryan and Dana, speed down the slide.

Mill Pond water level varies, upsets nature

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Clarkston Mill Pond water is again gently lapping the grassy shoreline, but for a few days last week, the water level had fallen about three feet beneath the solid edge.

Apparently, a combination of a dry spring and a delayed response to the dry spell contributed to the sudden drop.

Ed Adler owns the Clarkston Mills Mall, Washington Street, Clarkston, and the Mill Pond cofferdam on Washington Street.

Since his cofferdam controls the water level, Adler is responsible for lowering the level each spring and fall to prevent flooding, he said.

"It was lowered in anticipation of Mother Nature, but she didn't cooperate," he said. "When the ice started melting, we lowered it, like we normally do, but it didn't rain."

"I probably should have shut it down last week, but I kept thinking it would rain," he said.

After he closed the dam, representatives from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) had contacted him to raise the level again because it affected the natural resources, he said.

By April 25, the level was back to normal.

But the sudden change left residents concerned and surprised last week.

Bill Morse, a 24-year resident of Glenburnie, Independence Township, lives where the Clinton River widens and turns into the north Mill Pond.

Behind his residence and neighbor Art Johnson's Buttercup residence across the pond, the water surface had shrunk from 36 feet across to six feet across, and foot-deep sediment was deposited.

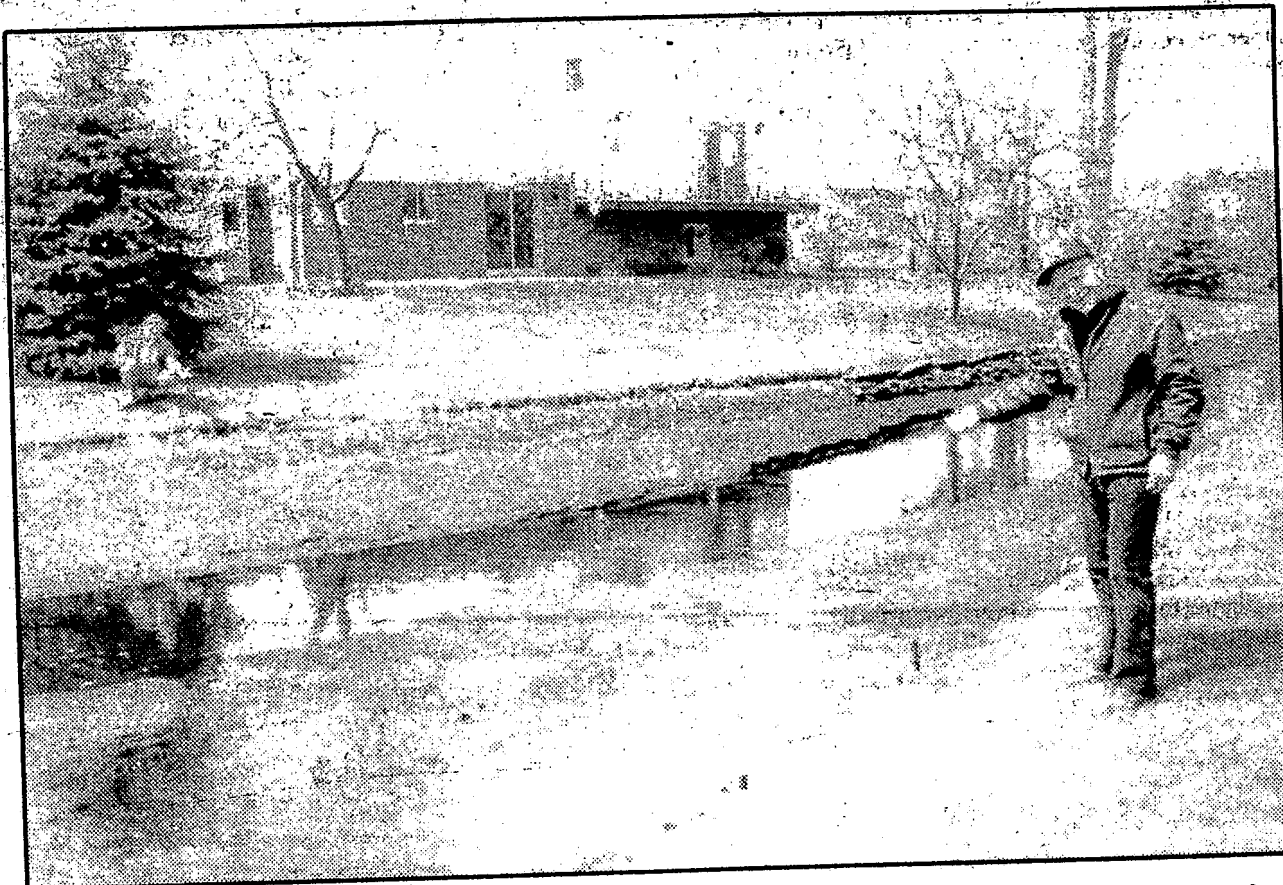

An avid fisherman and lover of the outdoors, Morse was concerned for the fish and the turtles and for the shoreline, which was beginning to collapse where the water washed it away.

"If the fish have laid eggs there, they're destroyed," he said. "It's destroying the bottom."

People sometimes take natural resources for granted, but it takes a long time for wildlife to return, once their habitat has been destroyed, he said.

"We've got plenty of water, but we have to protect it," said Morse.

DNR Conservation Officer Harold Troyer said the DNR would not be taking action on the situation and said

THE MOUTH of the Clinton River widens into the Mill Pond in the back yards of Bill Morse (right) and Art Johnson. Last week, the water lowering probably did not harm the environment.

"It won't hurt the Clinton River chain," he said. "I don't think there's a problem with fish eggs."

John Benedict, lake level technician for the Oakland County Drain Commission (OCDC), maintains the water levels for most lakes along the Clinton River chain, he said.

The Mill Pond, part of the Clinton River chain, is not monitored by the OCDC, although decades from now, it may be, he said.

"It's a lot like any of these bodies of water with old structures on them," he said. "We eventually end up with them. ... And it's on the main line of the Clinton River."

level dropped about three feet, shrinking the surface from 36 feet across to six feet across and depositing foot-deep sediment.

... It's quite a centerpiece for the village. It has historical value."

The Mill Pond is not alone in its low levels, he said. All throughout the chain, the levels have been much too low for this time of year, he said, adding the dams have been closed earlier than ever before. Ninety percent are completely closed.

"It's too dry," he said. "It looks pretty out there, a nice spring. But the buds are late this year. They're having a hard time with no moisture. If it doesn't rain, we'll have problems early. I hope I'm wrong."

March was Michigan's driest month in seven years, said Benedict.

Retail erosion is the issue

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Several downtown business owners spoke out at the village council meeting April 25 about the erosion of the shopping district downtown.

All were in agreement that action was needed soon, whether it be in the form of splitting the commercial ordinance or assessing business owners to raise additional funds to make the area more attractive for walking shoppers.

"The village is losing its character," said Joan

Kopietz, co-owner of Tierra Arts and Design. "I would like to see the village council - at the minimum - set up a committee."

After nearly two hours of discussion, the village council decided to send letters to all business owners inviting them to a special meeting May 23.

At that time, a committee will be formed to further look into the issue and recommend a course of action.

One suggestion would split the current commercial zoning ordinance into two parts (retail and office) to allow the village council control over the number of retail outlets downtown.

Another plan calls for special assessments to be levied to help improve the appearance of the downtown area.

"The answer to this problem is many, many things," said President Sharron Catallo.

One business owner said the decision to save the shopping district is up to the residents of Clarkston.

"Do the residents want to see the downtown area deteriorate?" asked Buck Kopietz.

Most of the discussion revolved around whether or not a special committee is needed to find a suitable solution.

Since only three of the 11 downtown business owners attended the meeting, village council members didn't think the committee was necessary.

"The purpose of the planning commission is that they have more time to analyze the situation," Trustee William Basinger said.

Planning Commission Chairman John Stuetzer had a different point of view.

"I disagree," he said. "I don't think it takes a great deal of research to figure out what is going on. This is your town, the planning commission works for you. We need to know where it ought to go."

After much discussion back and forth, the village council decided Catallo and Kopietz should write a letter to business owners informing them of the special meeting.

Trustee James Schultz said assessments should be mentioned in the letter, since they are one possible solution.

"People will come (to the meeting) when it hits them in the pocketbook," said Kopietz.

COG will survey township residents

On Saturday, members of Citizens for Orderly Growth plan to begin knocking on doors of Independence Township residents and asking them to fill out surveys and mail them back.

While Saturday's beginning will cover mainly the northern half of the township, the remainder will be canvassed within two to three weeks, said Jerome Wilford, a member of the COG survey committee.

The group is working toward receiving 600 to 700 responses, a number that would be statistically significant with the township-village population of about 23,600.

"The goal is to provide guidance to township administrators and candidates for office as to the township residents' opinions about various aspects of growth," said Wilford.

Toward that end, a report will be written and made available to township officials and the general public, he said.

COG is not asking respondents to sign the surveys, but they will be asked to state the area of the township where they reside.

Those who are not asked to fill out a survey but would like to express their opinions will be given an opportunity to complete a questionnaire at a later date.

COG is a citizen group formed in 1987 due to concern about growth in the community and the effect the growth will have. About 20 of the club's members plan to distribute surveys.

'Constitution for Kids' makes learning fun

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

North Sashabaw Elementary School third-, fourth- and fifth-graders got a first-hand experience on how the United States Constitution works last Friday.

Greg Clevenger, a Rochester area high school teacher who has won numerous awards for his innovative teaching techniques in social studies, presented an hour-long assembly, "Constitution for Kids," to the pupils.

Clevenger, an Independence Township resident, is presenting the assembly at all of the Clarkston elementary schools as well as Sashabaw Junior High. The $125 cost of the program, aimed primarily at fourth- through eighth-graders, is being paid by each school.

Clevenger's box of props hints at the unique lesson for pupils. He uses ethnic hats to illustrate how the citizenry of the United States is made up of many peoples.

He uses an Abraham Lincoln mask when he discusses the legislative branch, because Lincoln was a congressman for one term in the late 1840s. He dons a Ronald Reagan mask when he discusses the executive branch of the government.

"Is anybody excited about the Constitution?" he begins. An enthusiastic response indicates that the pupils know they are in for a treat in this particular social studies "class."

"I try to involve each of these kids in one way or another," Clevenger says.

He encourages the pupils with words like "I'm impressed" when they answer questions correctly. He puts complicated words of the Constitution into everyday language by comparing them to everyday things in life.

He leads them from the preamble of the Constitution to the legislative, executive and judicial branches of government, getting them involved every step of the way.

The pupils become "senators," voting on mock bills to outlaw pit bulls as pets, extend the school week to 5 1/2 days, or ban the sale of cigarettes. (Predictably, the extended school week lost by a large margin.)

They appointed "presidents" who had the opportunity to veto or sign the mock bills into law, and "supreme court justices," who donned robes and presided over a mock court.

Clevenger makes them use the legislative process and makes them think.

He gives them copies of the Constitution, and he tells them, "I challenge all of you to be good citizens. ..."

"SUPREME COURT JUSTICES" hold a mock court during an assembly last week at North Sashabaw Elementary School. Five of the

Beer battle

An 18-year-old Union Lake man was arrested April 24 after allegedly stealing two 12-packs of beer from Hop-In on Clarkston Road, Independence Township.

Erik Donald McDonald was arraigned at the 52nd District Court, Independence township, April 25, and charged with possession of a forbidden weapon (a four-year sentence), larceny of a building (a four-year sentence) and resisting and obstructing a police officer in the performance of his duties (a two-year high misdemeanor).

Bond was set at $500 or 10 percent on each count for a total of $1,500. As of April 25, McDonald had not posted bond and was being held in Oakland County Jail.

The preliminary examination was set for 9 a.m. April 29 at 52nd District Court.

According to witnesses, around 1:40 a.m. Sunday, two men entered the Hop-In and attempted to buy beer. When they were asked for their identification, they grabbed the beer, ran from the store and sped away in a vehicle, said Detective Sgt. Doug Hummel, of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

A few moments later, the suspects were stopped on Clarkston Road near Baldwin Road, where police also found two teenage girls in the car, said Hummel.

When police attempted to frisk McDonald, he ran, and a deputy chased him, said Hummel. When the deputy caught him, McDonald spun around and tried to hit the deputy, but the deputy ducked and brought McDonald to the ground, where he was handcuffed behind his back, said Hummel.

During the scuffle, a pair of brass knuckles fell from McDonald's pocket, said Hummel.

Later, while screaming obscenities, McDonald three times stepped through his handcuffed hands, so that his hands were in front of him instead of behind his back. Each time, the deputy handcuffed McDonald tighter.

After the last time, the deputy handcuffed McDonald with one hand over his shoulder and the other behind his back, said Hummel.

Bad news about Detroit

Jim Fitzgerald

As a visitor from Detroit, I was the butt of cocktail-party jokes in Naples, Fla. The taunts concerned lawbreaking, and I was humiliated for my hometown. Thanks a lot, Frazier Kimpson and Paul Harvey.

Kimpson is deputy director of the Detroit Municipal Parking Department. Harvey, of course, is the famous Chicago broadcaster whose several daily radio programs are heard nationwide. His ultra-conservative views are apparently especially popular along Vanderbilt Beach, a plush strip of expensive condos and hotels on the Gulf of Mexico in north Naples.

Many people who winter on Vanderbilt Beach seem likely to nod in agreement when Harvey explains it's OK for our troops to play war games in Central America just as long as the noise of our tax money exploding doesn't wake up President Reagan, who is worn out from defending Attorney General Edwin Meese and needs his naps.

In fact, in view of Harvey's obvious relish in broadcasting that the No. 2 official in Detroit's Parking Department was a parking scofflaw, someone should ask Harvey if it isn't equally ironic that the nation's chief law enforcement officer is constantly being investigated on charges of breaking the law.

Barbed questions go unanswered

"How many people have been murdered by the detective in charge of Detroit's homicide division?" "How many burglaries have been committed by the cop in charge of the burglary squad?" "Is it true that the head of Detroit's anti-cruelty-to-animals department was seen kicking cats?"

Those are the type of knee-slapping questions I was forced to field in Florida after Paul Harvey let the world in on Detroit's embarrassment: A threat to withhold their driving licenses prodded many Detroiters into finally paying long-overdue parking fines, and one of them was Kimpson.

Records showed Kimpson owed $859 on 34 tickets dating to June 1982. Isn't that a gas? The person second in charge of enforcing parking ordinances has been flouting those ordinances for six years. It's government officials like Kimpson who give broadcasters like Harvey - and columnists like me - the opportunity to make honest citizens laugh to keep from crying at the absurdity of life among the hard-core phonies at City Hall.

My Florida tormentors wanted to know how Kimpson could possibly justify his hypocritical behavior. I had no answer. Kimpson was unavailable for comment when the Free Press revealed his parking record last month. His boss, Parking Department Director Helen Irving, didn't have anything to say, either. That didn't surprise me.

Rules bend for big shots

Irving quit returning my phone calls several years ago. I don't blame her for getting sick of listening to me gripe about the blatant discrimination practiced by her department. I've been doing it since 1976. Members of the Detroit Club, around the corner from the Free Press, are allowed to double park free the length of the block while eating two-hour lunches. But ordinary citizens, a few feet away, are fined for parking one minute overtime at the curb.

Why? There is only one honest answer. Detroit Club members are wealthy big shots whom Mayor Young, a club member, doesn't want to offend. And the City Council is too wimpy to insist that the Parking Department treat all citizens equally.

Irving isn't going to give that honest answer, of course, so it's easier to simply not talk to me. Interestingly, the last time I couldn't get her on the phone - in February 1987 - I settled for talking to an "aide" who refused to give his name for publication. He said he "wasn't authorized to comment on the alleged illegal parking allowed for members of the Detroit Club only."

Alleged? It's not alleged, it's a fact that any fool can see by simply looking at the double-parked cars and the nearby sign prohibiting them from being where they are. I invited Irving's aide to come see for himself any weekday afternoon and he said he might if he could find the time.

I don't know if that anonymous aide was Frazier Kimpson, but it wouldn't surprise me. He sounded like a big phony.

Jim's Jottings

Back from Arizona . . . where the temperatures were in the mid-90's, but we couldn't gloat because you had 80's in Michigan.

. . . Though I could mention that we had 80's and 90's for 15 days and Michigan's peek at summer temperatures was somewhat shorter.

Here I go talking about the weather. What else? Weather makes a vacation, whether it's a weekend or two weeks. Weather comes right after health as a topic of conversation in casual meetings.

And, I'm going to make weather, of sorts, the thrust of this column. Weather appears to be "everything" to Arizona. Since 1979 the Phoenix area has averaged 65,000 new people each year. Many are retirees coming for the weather.

People bring cars, which create pollution in the "valley", which hangs there because the weather (wind) neither moves it or cleanses it.

This people/weather combination makes for a different weather report than we get in Michigan. Quoting the Arizona Republic newspaper, The Lawn Watering Guide each day tells how much water is "needed on your Bermuda-grass lawn if you last watered 3 days ago", .72 inch.

Also mentioned April 10 was the pollen count of Olive, 492; Mulberry, 43; Ragweed, 40; Mesquite, 29; Maple, 24; grasses, 20; Citrus, 18; Pine, 16; others, 84.

And, there's a mold count: Smuts, 116; fragments, 75; Ascomycetes, 22; Cladosporium, 17; rusts, 15; Alternaria, 14, others 94. The Republic also carries a 24-hour pollution report.

Even if the past seasons in Arizona produced the average amount of rain, which they didn't, water is the worry of the southwest. The Arizona Dept of Water Resources has drawn new water-conservation rules to be met by 1995.

Some towns and cities in the Valley will distribute free low-flow shower heads to homeowners and ask businesses to buy the latest gadgets to cut down on water waste.

Farmers around Phoenix, Tucson, Casa Grande and Prescott may have to shift to low-water-use crops.

Undoubtedly, future subdivisions will have an increasing number of natural (desert) lawns. Golf courses will have green landing and tee areas, with desert in between. And, the courses will be allowed only if future watering comes from affluent housing developments.

This short water situation elsewhere in America is one more reason the Great Lakes states have growth futures.

Other reasons are the four seasons, and the occasional 80 degree temperature in April that brings out tulips, convertibles, short sleeves, and smiles.

This brings me to a definition of optimism: Sunshine is delicious, rain is refreshing, wind braces one up, snow is exhilarating. There is no such thing as bad weather, only different kinds of good weather.

Adventure in Bountiful

Kathy Greenfield

At my house, when the cereal and cracker boxes are lined up neatly in a single row and you can see the light bulb when the refrigerator door is opened, people begin to get nervous.

"There isn't any food in the house," someone moans, so a trip to Bountiful is pondered.

Usually a few days later, at least one of the starving masses faces fierce beasts - tailgaters, lane-chargers, brake-riders and the like - and arrives, tense but unscathed, at the destination.

Through the flapping door, the adventure commences, punctuated by the crash of a suddenly unstuck hinged side of the cart.

Past the soothing gatherings of unwrapped fruits and vegetables, true tests awaits.

Where else but in Bountiful would you find labels, jars, boxes and cans designed by people who know how to scream "buy me" silently?

Where else but in Bountiful would you find 250 varieties of white bread, 100 brands of hot dogs and 50 variations of white toilet paper?

"Let's hurry up and get out of here," says the starving family member still strong enough to push the cart. But there's something we need in every aisle.

Finally, the weary shoppers approach the journey's final leg and the last weird creature: the red eye that beeps most every time food passes it by.

The old adrenalin starts pumping anew when the total is announced. Just in time, too. Those highway beasts are waiting to liven up the bringing of a little bit of Bountiful home.

Letters to Editor

Moving too fast

Many years have passed since my last publication in this newspaper, at which time I was opposing the proposed construction of some ski-slope hotel. Now an even more serious issue has developed.

There is actually an effort under way to pave my childhood road.

Perry Lake Road: The road I tripped down on my way to the bus stop, stooping to pick up a stone and throw it across the field; the road my brother and I would gallop our horses down, caught up in a youthful illusion of the Wild West; the road that only 10 years ago provided the most colorful display of autumn's beauty; the road that provided the most challenging of slalom courses for the new driver.

My home still stands at the end of the road, perhaps with a new roof and a few less surrounding fence posts. The inevitable growth has occurred, however, and the road no longer provides the same for the newcomers.

The road now provides for a moment of disgust as a wheel catches on a pothole; the road simply provides an obstacle that delays the new fast-paced travelers.

My thoughts are simple to those of you who desire smooth going, slow down and enjoy the ride.

Happy Trails,

Help halt erosion

An open letter to Village of Clarkston and Independence Township residents:

On April 11, several village business owners attended a village council meeting to discuss the erosion of the village retail district.

John Stuetzer, planning commission chairman, and three village planning commission members were also in attendance.

We think it is important that the community know the outcome of this meeting.

1. John Stuetzer made a presentation concerning the options available through the village zoning ordinance to begin to lay the groundwork for the future development of the downtown district. The planning commission takes its direction from the council.

John asked repeatedly for a motion from the council concerning different plans he presented. The council chose to take no action or give any specific direction.

2. The council reacted with surprise that there was a problem with the retail district. To quote, this was "news to them." We find it appalling that the people who were elected to represent the best interests of this community and its citizens had no idea there has been an erosion of the downtown retail district.

This problem has not happened overnight. We should all ask ourselves how this group can be truly representative of this community if they are not familiar enough with the downtown district to know we are experiencing problems.

3. Several council members' behavior bordered on being rude. Not only did they seem rather put out that we were there, one council member went so far as to shout, "What do you want from us?"

When two council members talk continuously between themselves throughout the agenda time, we think we have a right to question their sincerity. At the end of the meeting, one planning commission member expressed to us her embarrassment at their behavior.

4. The council chose to take no specific action, even after several members of the audience offered specific suggestions to begin a problem-solving process and volunteered their time to serve on special committees.

Only Eric Haven, who expressed his concern after the meeting, seemed willing to tackle our problem.

The old adage "action speaks louder than words" certainly must apply to this situation. Although they say the words of concern, their decision not to take any action or give specific direction clearly sends a message to the retailer of the village.

You, the citizens of this community, have to decide if you want to live in a community with no downtown.

Do you enjoy the personal treatment afforded in our village? Do you want to lose the support of the retailers through the donations to community service groups, schools, churches and scouting groups?

Have you enjoyed the various events that happened over the years through the efforts of the business district (Concerts in the Park, Spring Stroll, Village Days)?

We are sure you do not want to lose these special things. It is what living in Clarkston is all about.

The business owners need your support to help solve a problem that has reached crisis level. We are asking that you:

1. Call a village council member and voice your concern over the decay of downtown retail.
2. Attend a council meeting with us. We'll be there every second and fourth Monday until we get satisfactory results.
3. Sign one of the petitions of support that are in businesses here in town. You don't have to live in the village to show your concern.

Unite against trash

Spring is a time of renewal, beauty and freshness.

As you watch flowers bloom, the tree buds burst and color fill your sights, take a good look around and notice the trash and litter everywhere in the township.

Our roads are full of papers, packages, appliances, car parts, furniture and whatever else can be imagined.

A move to the country has surprised me to see that many people put their garbage out and let it blow away. Teenagers throw fast food litter out the car window rather than throw it in the trash when they get home.

Construction materials blow from the sites to the nearest obstacle waiting for the wind to change so they can blow somewhere else.

We are proposing a township clean-up day. We can't clean up alone, so we are calling on friends and neighbors - young and old - to clean up specific areas.

Calling all scouts, youth groups, church organizations, homeowners, civic clubs - let's all work together to make this a community effort. It will make us all proud.

If anyone has any ideas or suggestions and want to help, contact Larry and Michaelene Hearn, 625-0156.

Campfire thanks

I would like to take this opportunity to tell you how much the Clarkston Campfire groups appreciate the fine articles you have written about us and, also, the numerous photographs you've published.

We try very hard to offer a program that will teach our children, in fun and exciting ways, how to be responsible citizens in their community and schools, and it is so rewarding for them to be recognized in the paper for their efforts.

It is our belief that the future lies in the hands of our children and it helps to know that we have the support of the "News" behind us.

Traffic concerns

Our group, Citizens for Orderly Growth, is greatly concerned over the lawsuit recently filed by the developers of Lancaster Apartments in an attempt to force the township to allow construction of Phase II without adequate, safe traffic access.

Traffic on Dixie Highway was already very bad and has been made worse by Phase I of this development. Funneling the traffic from Phase II, more than 100 additional housing units, through a single uncontrolled access point will make the situation intolerable - even more inconvenient and more dangerous.

The developer's proposed solution of routing some portion of its traffic through adjacent neighborhoods is not only contrary to the limitations of the existing consent judgment, it accomplishes nothing more than creating traffic and safety problems in an existing residential area.

We are concerned that the township government will enter into a consent judgment with the developer to avoid litigating this issue. This solution ignores the best interests of township citizens.

In recent years, the township has opted for consent judgments too often, which has seriously compromised the ability of the citizens to maintain and defend the quality of life in Independence Township.

We expect our elected officials to vigorously defend this case. This is the only way to prevent this developer, and all others, from operating with complete disregard for the interests of current residents.

The planning commission had an opportunity to avoid this situation by not allowing Phase I of the Lancaster development to begin until the traffic situation had been satisfactorily resolved.

Unfortunately, a majority of the planning commission did not heed the warnings of the obvious traffic problems that would be created.

We hope that having created this situation, the township government will now step up to its responsibility and not take "an easy way out."

Hunger is a problem in Independence too

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A silent problem exists in the Independence Township area, creeping first into one family and then striking another.

Even in the more rural areas such as this, hunger is a reality, said the Rev. William Schram, of the Sashabaw United Presbyterian Church.

"In Independence Township, we're more fortunate than other areas. It's usually not a chronic problem. It's usually short term," said Schram, who is in charge of distributing Independence Township Ministerial Association (ITMA) funds raised by the annual CROP Walk for Hunger.

Here, it strikes quickly and leaves gradually when residents are laid off, suffer serious illness or injury, or are divorced or separated, he said.

"On the surface, some people don't look poor," he said. "It makes it hard (for them) to ask for assistance. ... You can still have your house and your car, but you have to make a choice between food or utility payments. A lot of people today live on the limit of their income or just a tad beyond."

If someone loses a job or suffers a medical emergency that isn't covered by insurance, disaster can befall a family overnight, he said.

"For some people, how quickly they can get their feet back under them (depends on outside help)," said Schram.

Some people, such as senior citizens, simply won't ask for help and stretch their fixed incomes and go without some basic necessities, he said, and many who need help are never seen.

"If they don't have the money for shopping, you won't see the people," he said. "It's a silent problem."

Usually, help received from the ITMA is a $25 food voucher to be redeemed at local grocery stores - just to carry the family over a rough period.

Sometimes United Way refers someone to the association for one-time-only help for rent or utility bills or gasoline to get to and from work.

Three-fourths of the CROP Walk money goes to fight world hunger, while the remaining money fights local hunger, said Schram.

Grim statistics illustrate the need for fund-raising such as the CROP Walk, he said.

According to a February 1987 report by the Church World Service, which sponsors nationwide CROP Walks globally, one billion people are chronically hungry; 13 to 18 million people die each year because of hunger related causes; of those, between 9 and 14 million are children under age 5. Stated another way, 24 people die each minute of hunger and starvation, he said.

In the United States, about 20 million people may be hungry at a given period each month, and more American children die of poverty-related causes than of traffic accidents and suicide combined.

Reading delight

Carolyn Walker

My mother sometimes had a very forceful way of getting her point across when I was a little girl.

For instance, I recall the first time she took me to a library to introduce me to the wonders of reading. I was about six or seven at the time.

She squeezed my little hand in hers, dragged me bodily into that venerable institution (on a day when I would rather have been swimming), up and down the aisles, then shoved my face between the pages of "Charlotte's Web" and said, "You are going to read that book."

I remember her pointing a determined finger and my heart sinking at the prospect.

We checked out the book, and sure enough, I read it - and by the due date, too. Mother hovered over me on the couch every night and listened while I read the tale to her with great protestations.

When I finished the book, I found myself, much to my own amazement, moved by the events of the story and glad that I had read it. I had to concede mother's superior judgment this one time.

Thus it was that I embarked on the pleasurable pursuit of reading.

All of this is by way of saying that I recently read a most wonderful book that I would like to recommend to all you readers out there.

It does what a well-written book is supposed to do; it makes you feel good all over. The book is called "Cold Sassy Tree" and is the first novel of journalist Olive Ann Burns.

If there were any justice in this world, "Cold Sassy Tree" would be a blockbuster best seller on all the major reading lists, required reading for all American junior high and high school students, and a major motion picture to boot.

"Sassy" is the story of 14-year-old Will Tweedy and his grandfather, E. Rucker Blakeslee, a recent widower, who scandalizes his small Georgian town by marrying Miss Love Simpson just after his first wife's demise.

The characters are so real that you feel you've known them forever and you hate to bid them farewell when you turn the final page.

Burns, with her easygoing style, is able to evoke a full range of emotions in her reader. In addition, she has filled her pages with wisdom and insight.

Do yourself a favor and invest in a copy. You'll be glad you did. "Sassy" is pure reading pleasure.

Church addition OK'd

An 8,000-square-foot church addition received the final OK from the Independence Township Planning Commission on April 14.

In a 6-0 vote, the final site plan for St. Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church was approved with two conditions.

A safety path and more landscaping were required in front of the building. Eventually, the safety path on Sashabaw Road is to connect Clarkston Road with Independence Oaks County Park.

Planned for 10 acres on the west side of Sashabaw Road, north of Clarkston Road, the addition to the 11,000-square-foot building is to house classrooms, not more pews.

Construction is to begin in May and be completed by November, said Bill Billig, chairman of the church building committee.

Elderly health care facility proposed

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Mediplex, a proposed health care facility for the elderly, is on the drawing board again - this time with plans to eliminate housing for the independent elderly and a call for quick action.

Mediplex received final approvals in December, 1985, from Independence and Springfield townships in the form of a consent judgment - a court approved agreement governing the circumstances of the development.

Developer Jonathan Truslow, from the Massachusetts-based Mediplex company, appeared before the Independence Township Board April 19 with a request for speedy deliberations and a request to alter the initial proposal.

The board voted 5-0 to send the proposal to the planning commission for site plan reviews and public hearings and to consider opening the consent judgment at a later date.

Board members said they would be willing to call special meetings, but they probably would not come close to meeting the time deadlines.

Originally, plans for the 26-acre site northeast of Dixie Highway at I-75 and the Deerwood subdivision called for a three-phased project: elderly independent housing, a convalescent center with 120 nursing beds for people who need round-the-clock care, and 60 beds for the aged, which includes housekeeping, cooking and bathing for people who do not need serious medical attention.

After performing a new market study, Mediplex found the area would not support a housing project, such as apartments, for independent elderly persons, said Truslow.

He requested to proceed with the two-phase convalescent center only, on the 11-acre Independence Township portion only, and to leave the Springfield Township portion and the independent housing project for the future and for a different developing company.

"The market study showed we would not get enough residents in the living care portion, so it would not carry the project," said Truslow. The plans for the 60-bed facility for the aged and the 120-bed facility for people who need medical attention are still the same, he said.

To complicate the circumstances, Mediplex's certificate of need (CON) - issued by the state for any health care facility built in Michigan - may be revoked, pending the outcome of Mediplex's lawsuit against the state.

If ground-breaking begins this fall, the CON will be allowed to stand, said Truslow, adding Mediplex's certificate of need and several others were issued under a court order and had no expiration date. However, state officials verbally told him to halt the project if ground-breaking did not start this fall.

The lawsuit seeks a confirmation of no expiration date, he said, adding it could take a long time.

To start construction this fall, all approvals, including a change in a consent judgment between Mediplex and Independence and Springfield townships, would have to be completed by the end of June, said Truslow.

He explained his company's position. "A company that had a vision worked a long time at it, and when we checked the market, it seemed less strong, ... and we couldn't build what we wanted to," he said.

"Either we write off everything and give up, or we build upon a proposal in a very short time. We know it is asking quite a lot from the boards we have to get approvals from.

"We are prepared to work as hard as we can, ... but we need to be realistic. ... We're against the wall. We have only one thing we can do."

The changes would require public hearings in both townships and reviews by both planning commissions, in addition to township approvals and agreements over a new consent judgment.

Township board members expressed concern that the Springfield portion is landlocked behind the Independence portion and that it might never be developed. They requested that the Springfield portion be restricted to uses for the elderly and that a road configuration be designed.

They suggested further negotiations with the state since the time constraints could not be met.

"There's a chance in a million that it would work in that time frame," said Trustee William Vandermark, adding his calculations showed at least 12 to 14 weeks if there were no problems.

"I would not be in favor of a change in the consent judgment that would not cover the entire parcel," he said. "It would leave the other portion in limbo. ... The second site is very, very dependent on the first site. ... It's very important that both sites be planned in the long term at the same time."

Springfield Township Supervisor Collin Walls, who was at the meeting, said the project should not straddle the township line if it is to be scaled down. He added that he did not represent all of the board members.

"The fact of not having that facility there for our residents is not something I look forward to," he said. "I'm not sure even if it's humanly possible to meet that time schedule. ... I believe the Springfield Township Board will do whatever we can to move as quickly as we can, if you ask us to. As long as you don't put the hoops too high, we'll do our best to jump through them."

Trustee Daniel Travis said the housing portion of the original plan was a good transition between residential areas and an institution. But the health care facility is still needed in the area, he said.

"I, too, would hate to see the loss of it," he said. Support for the project, but not the time restrictions, also came from Treasurer John Lutz, Clerk Richard Holman and Trustee Carol Balzarini.

Supervisor Frank Ronk and Trustee Dale Stuart were absent.

CAT students share creativity

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Colorful cats, hinting at the personalities of young artists who created them, decorate the Clarkston board of education meeting room.

The cats were created by Clarkston Academically Talented (CAT) students at North Sashabaw Elementary School for Gifted Child Week, April 24-30, at the suggestion of Alberta Ellis, curriculum director for Clarkston schools.

Gifted Child Week, celebrated throughout Michigan this week, recognizes that children are a most valuable "natural resource." A resolution by the State Board of Education also recognizes the importance of gifted and talented education throughout the state.

Five gifted students from Clarkston spent Tuesday in Lansing at a student legislature luncheon, dining with Rep. Mat Dunaskis and Sen. Richard Fessler as part of Gifted Child Week.

Shane Trese, Robb Colbrunn, Janae Cooley, Carla Merritt and Christy Colbrunn also talked with their legislators about benefits and inadequacies of state funding for gifted programs.

From 7 to 9 p.m. on May 12, CAT students will belatedly celebrate Gifted Child Week with their annual project night, according to CAT instructor Sue Banworth.

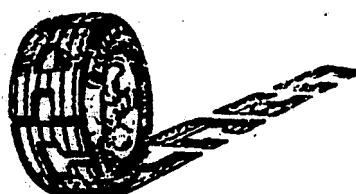

The event, to take place in the CAT classroom at North Sashabaw Elementary, is open to parents, teachers, and anyone else who is interested in seeing what the CAT students do.

Among other works, the students will display their independent study projects. These are done with a topic of their choice, Banworth says, and range from red pandas to far-away countries.

After thoroughly researching their topics, Banworth says, students do visual and oral presentations for the project.

A VISIT TO CLARKSTON includes a stop at Independence Oaks County Park, Clarkston Road, for Ovid residents Bill Calverley and 5-month-old Katie, who spent the weekend of April 16 and 17 with the Zelinski family of Wildwood Loop, Independence Township.

Spring Clean Up days coming in May

Goodby rusty handlebars, old sneakers and boxes of rubbish. A whole weekend has been set aside for residents, neighborhoods and community groups to deposit their debris in one huge pile, to be hauled away by the township.

For the second year, fees will be charged per load to help pay for the dumping costs, said George Anderson, director of the township department of public works.

The Spring Clean Up Days are scheduled for 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, May 14 and 15, adjacent to the DPW building on Flemings Lake Road (off Clarkston Road at Almond Lane), Independence Township.

The following materials are not allowed to be dumped: fuel oil drums, barrels, propane cylinders, automobiles or vehicles of any kind, and chemicals of any kind.

Fees are: $5, automobile; $10, auto with single axle trailer, pick-up truck or van; $25, pickup with single axle trailer, flatbed single axle truck, dual axle trailer or a five-yard dump truck.

Tickets for dumping may be obtained at the township treasurer's office, 90 N. Main St., Clarkston, or at the dump site during the clean-up weekend.

Proof of residency will be required before dumping will be allowed.

Saturday, $340 was stolen from a residence on Dartmouth, Independence Township.

Saturday, a vehicle window was smashed at the ride pool lot on Sashabaw Road at I-75, Independence Township.

Saturday, a rock was thrown through a window at Baker's Family Market on Andersonville Road, Independence Township.

Saturday, a vehicle window was shot with a pellet gun on Lingor, Independence Township.

Saturday, two vehicle windows were smashed on a vehicle on Parview Drive, Independence Township.

Saturday, four Independence Township teens were given tickets for possession of alcohol on Clarkston Road, Independence Township.

Sunday, a $200 gas grill was stolen from a residence on Klais, Independence Township.

Sunday, over $1,200 of stereo equipment was stolen from a vehicle on Tuson, Independence Township.

Sunday, a $2,000 gold ring was stolen from a Chestnut Hill, Independence Township, residence.

Sunday, $50 damage was caused to a door when someone tried to break into a residence on Jerome, Independence Township.

The above information was compiled from reports at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Biker killed

A motorcyclist was killed April 24 when he rounded a curve on Sashabaw Road, Independence Township, at a high rate of speed and left the road, striking two trees.

Wade Russell Wagner, 20, of Hazel, Brandon Township, was driving northbound on Sashabaw Road, just south of Pine Knob Road around 1:54 p.m. Sunday when the accident occurred, according to reports at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department (OCS).

Witnesses said he was traveling too fast and could not make the curve, and his motorcycle crossed the southbound lane before leaving the road, striking two trees and flipping end over end, according to the police report.

Alcohol was not a factor, according to the OCS report.

Honor society welcomes 30 new members

As 30 students patiently waited to be inducted into the National Honor Society, a guest speaker shared a scary moment with the audience.

When Alberta Ellis returned home recently she discovered her home had been burglarized. Most of her prized jewelry was gone but her NHS pin from her high school days remained.

While she politely declined to tell exactly when she got it, the director of curriculum of Clarkston Community Schools proudly wore the pin as she spoke before the crowd in the high school's Kirchgessner Theater.

After the current members reaffirmed their NHS oath during the April 20 ceremony, the new members were led by candlelight onto the stage for induction. Names of the 30 new members follow:

Seniors: Megan Balloid, Bryan Erickson, Christine Friedl, Amy McDonald and Allan Watson.

Juniors: Peggy Agar, Kelly Avenall, Michelle Cochran, Steve Cook, Gary Jackman, Christine Lisle, Ann McClellan, Bree Michelsen, Kelly Miller, Robert Newton, Alicia Nyberg, Jennifer O'Heren, Kevin Ortwine, Kerri Ranta, Ross Rosenthal, Beth Samuel, Jeff Shupe, Kelly Stickney, Elizabeth Webb and David Woodruff.

Sophomores: Shonn Colbrunn, Michelle Darby, Rebecca Kar, Wendy Manning and Susan McKoin.

The members who reaffirmed their oath to the National Honor Society were as follows:

Ashley Adams, Kevin Baert, Nancy Bailey, Kelly Ballard, K.C. Baran, Kristin Billig, Rhonda Bowes, Kyle Bray, Jeff Briggs, Doug Bronson, Allison Bugai, Tara

No help available

About 50 low to moderate income residents won't be receiving township help this year in paying for their portion of sewer, street, lighting or water costs, or other special assessments, as they have in past years.

"We're too affluent," Independence Township Treasurer John Lutz told the board April 19.

Less than 38.46 percent of township residents are categorized in the low to moderate income bracket this year.

Thus, the township does not qualify to use Community Development Block Grant funds - from Oakland County Community Development - to help pay for public facilities, such as streets, sidewalks, curbs, water lines, sewer lines and drainage ditches, said Lutz.

"It's affecting the whole county," he said. "We're not losing the funds, we just have to reprogram them."

The change is unfortunate, he said. "We were funneling the money to the right people on a direct basis," he said, mentioning many of the recipients of the money were senior citizens on fixed incomes or others on low income.

Instead, the estimated $36,000 may be used for the senior citizens center, planning and management, minor home repairs and making Bay Court Camp barrier free.

Bay Court is the new township park on Greens Lake off Andersonville Road.

LARRY MCGEE plays Walter Pengbourne, a stiff and very shy person, in the Clarkston Village Players' latest production, "Move Over Mrs. Markham."

Clarkston Players prepare for finale of 1987-88 season

Due to the overwhelming turnout all season, the Clarkston Village Players will add an extra date for their play "Move Over Mrs. Markham".

The final play of the season is considered to be a comedy of errors, said director Marlene Sewick. The veteran of the Clarkston Village Players declined to elaborate on the plot for fear of giving away the ending.

Performance dates are May 6, 7, 13, 14, 20 and 21 with curtain time at 8 p.m. A special Sunday show at 7 p.m. May 15 has been added to the schedule.

Tickets are available at Tierra Arts and Design on Main Street in Clarkston for $5 or by calling 363-0188 evenings after 5 p.m.

The Clarkston Village Players' theater is located at 1681 White Lake Rd., between Dixie Highway and Andersonville Road in Independence Township.

Softball

Clarkston High JV
Milford 12, Wolves 11

April 19 - Clarkston lost a wild game due to fielding errors, said Coach Al Cuthrell.

Wolves 14, Pontiac Northern 7

April 21 - The visiting Clarkston team pounded Northern twice for a double-header sweep.

The Wolves merced the Huskies in the first game as Lisa Manzo and Shaun Wilson collected four hits apiece.

Jamie Law and Kathy Paulson were the winning pitchers for Clarkston.

Clarkston High Varsity
Wolves 7, Milford 0

April 19 - The visiting Wolves were involved in a tough defensive battle most of the way before scoring six runs in the final inning.

Sashabaw Junior High
Cougars 12, Brandon 0

April 14 - Julie Brazel was the winning pitcher and Lauren Caston smashed a home run to pace host Sashabaw to its first victory on the young season.

Pierce 13, Cougars 3

April 19 - Missy Rinehart had three hits for the Cougars as powerful Waterford Pierce won one on Sashabaw's home turf.

Cougars 18, Holly 16

April 20 - Under muddy, rainy conditions Sashabaw and Holly dueled until the finish and the visiting Cougars came out on top.

Nikki Grutza, Caston and Rinehart all had three hits apiece to lead the victors.

The victory evens the team's record at 2-2.

Baseball

Clarkston High JV
Milford 7, Wolves 2

April 19 - Clarkston suffered its first defeat of the season with a loss at home against Milford.

Wolves 20, Pontiac Northern 2

Wolves 29, Pontiac Northern 1

April 21 - Tony Simmons had a grand slam home run to pace Clarkston to victory on the road.

Eric Phillips had four hits in five trips to the plate for the Wolves.

Phillips and Kevin Keilitz were the winning pitchers. Neither one allowed more than two hits.

Track

Sashabaw Junior High
Cougars 85, Pierce 34

April 20 - Tracy Chamberlain and Stephanie Cashin won multiple events to pace Sashabaw to victory on the road.

First-place winners for the Cougars are as follows:

800-METER RELAY - Fran Moreau, Lynn Parkinson, Dawn Kelley and Sarah Veltigian.

LONG JUMP - Chamberlain, 13-foot-7.

Soccer

Clarkston High Varsity

Wolves 4, Lapeer West 0

April 25 - Clarkston continued to play excellently as the Wolves picked up their second victory this season at home.

Erin McAuliffe and Tami Mitchell scored first-half goals for the victors and Nancy Carosella and Bridget Brown (assist by Karen Lowe) notched a goal apiece after halftime to pace Clarkston.

Sue Haran earned the shutout in goal because of the excellent play of the defensive unit.

Shelley Purdy, Angela Buchanan and Katie Rieman all played well.

The team's record now stands at 2-0-2.

Girls team allows only one goal in four games

TWO CLARKSTON WOLVES sandwich an Oxford forward between them in an attempt to steal the ball. Jackie Jablonski (left) and Bridget Brown, who scored the Wolves' only goal of the game, played excellent defense as did the whole team.

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The ball, and probably the game, was only inches from the goal line when senior sweeper Shelley Purdy arrived on the scene.

With a sliding kick, she scooped the ball away from danger midway through the second half of a girls soccer game pitting Clarkston against Oxford Friday night.

The game ended in a 1-1 draw thanks to Purdy's heroics.

"I was so scared," she said afterward. "It was so close."

Oxford had another chance to score seconds after Purdy's spectacular save when the ball was bounced off the crossbar.

Bridget Brown had notched Clarkston's goal earlier in the second half off a scramble in front of Oxford's net.

After Monday night's 4-0 victory over Lapeer West at home (see scoreboard for more details), the Wolves' record stood at 2-0-2.

Against Oxford, as it has done all season long, the defense did an excellent job.

"The defense played very superbly," said Coach Hana Olsen.

Besides Purdy, Katie Rieman and Angela Buchanan were outstanding on defense. Goalie Sue Haran had nine saves.

Oxford opened the scoring in the contest with a goal during the first half.

Clarkston had many good opportunities to score, but couldn't cash in on any.

When the Wolves finally did score on Brown's goal, they continued to press Oxford until the final whistle, but couldn't notch another one.

Township man skis for national title

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

His birth certificate says he's entering middle age, but a Sashabaw Junior High School teacher still has plenty of gusto.

During the winter months Timothy Hewelt, 40, can be found on area ski slopes, competing in recreational ski races for fun and small prizes.

When summer rolls around, Hewelt puts away the skis, hops on his 10-speed bike and has fun riding with the Dog Tired Bike Club he helped create.

The Independence Township resident pushes himself as hard as he can in sporting activities because he enjoys it. Especially the skiing.

"When I started up again six years ago, I became a fanatic," he said.

The fanatic is now part of a national champion recreational ski team. Hewelt and five others from Michigan joined forces to compete in the Plymouth All-American Ski Series in Vail and Beaver Creek, Colo., on the weekend of April 9.

To qualify for the finals, skiers from coast-to-coast must compete at five races in their area throughout the ski season.

Middle America races were hosted by Mount Holly, Alpine Valley, Schuss Mountain, Pine Knob and Caberfae. The regional was at Boyne Mountain. All of the sites were in Michigan.

The top four men and two women from each of the four regions (Pacific, Rocky Mountain, Atlantic and Middle America) in the recreational ski association are invited to compete in the finals in Colorado, both as a regional team and individually.

The Plymouth All-American Ski Series is the first competition to include skiers from coast-to-coast.

Hewelt, as the second oldest skier among them, finished 15th in the individual competition out of 16 skiers with a time of 42.77 seconds. Racing on a steep course where World Cup events are staged, he said he was just happy to finish.

"My goal was to finish ahead of somebody and I did that," he said. "(The course) doesn't give you much confidence."

The ski series championships use only the bottom third of the course, he said, but speeds still were around 40 mph.

"It was quite a course," he said. "If you were not careful, you would end up airborne for 25 feet."

One of his team members, Kevin Karl of Sterling Heights, won the individual competition with a time of 32.70.

Hewelt, a teacher in the Clarkston school district since 1969, skied when he was a child in Hazel Park, but dropped the sport for wrestling in high school.

Staying active athletically whether it be cross-country skiing, sailing or volleyball is a must for him year-round.

Biking, however, is another sport he has strongly pursued recently.

Last year, he pedaled 160 miles in 24 hours during the Belle Isle Marathon. He plans to enter again this year with members of the Dog Tired Club and to reach his goal of 200 miles in one day.

Then when winter rolls around, it will be back to the slopes and the recreational ski race leagues. It's almost like a bag of potato chips, he can't seem to stop at just one.

"It's fun racing," he said. "You see people race after race, and there is a lot of camaraderie."

Tournament time

Girls basketball players - including some from Independence Township - will take part in an upcoming AAU/Junior Olympics tournament in Waterford.

Games will be played in Waterford Kettering and Mott High School gyms the weekend of April 30. The state championship game is to begin at 2:30 p.m. in Kettering's gym May 1.

Teams from across Michigan will converge on Waterford to vie for the state title.

The Lady Knights basketball team hosts the tournament and will enter squads in the 15-and-under and 13-and-under divisions.

Weekend passes cost $5 for adults and $3 for children under 12. Daily tickets cost $3 for adults and $2 for children.

Clarkston Force karate team wins again

The trophies keep piling up for the Clarkston Force karate club.

At last count, instructor Joe Sanders' team has won more than 400 trophies during the last seven tournaments. The Force has been named team champions four times during the same time period.

"It's been a hard-fought tournament series," Sanders said. "Very evident was the spirit of competition."

The team's latest success came at the 16th annual Tae Kwon Do Karate Championships in Youngstown, Ohio, April 16.

While the team won 42 trophies (15 firsts, 12 seconds and 17 thirds), one family nearly stole the show.

Jason Viner won three first-place trophies as Clarkston's big winner. His 6-year-old brother Justin was awarded a first-place honor as well.

To top things off, their mother Sharon finished first in her division. All told, the Viners took home a third of the team's first-place trophies.

Other top performers for Clarkston were brothers Mike and Joseph Cuthbertson, who won five trophies. Joseph brought home two firsts and Mike achieved two thirds and a second.

Sanders was especially pleased that his troops were able to hold up under the pressure since they were two-time defending champions.

"There was a tremendous amount of interstate rivalry," he said. "Our tournament year is now off to a rip-roaring start."

The Force will begin to concentrate its efforts on fund-raisers so new team uniforms can be purchased, said Sanders.

The next big tournament isn't until September, when the Force will defend its grand championship at the 18th annual United States Open in Akron, Ohio.

Wrestling champs

Two wrestlers from the Clarkston Wrestling Club won state championships during the Michigan Wrestling Federation Tournament.

Arron Grant (45 pounds) and Franco Vega (65) finished first in their respective weight classes in the 8-and-under age group at the meet in Holt.

Other age groups also competed for a regional title at the same location April 16.

In the 9- and 10-year-old age division Jason Tiefenback (55) finished in fifth place and Jamie Bartley (70) took second for Clarkston.

Brett Walter (65) was a first-place winner and Corey Grant (75) finished second in the 11- and 12-year-old age group.

Jeff DeRoseau also brought home a first-place award from the regional competition in the 13- and 14-year-old age division.

The state championships, hosted by Grand Rapids Junior College on April 22 and 23, provided the next hurdle for the Clarkston wrestlers.

Walter won again and Corey Grant finished in fifth place in their age group. DeRoseau also was a first-place winner.

The three now will participate in the Nationals in May at Bloomsburg, Pa.

While they have done nothing as remarkable as discover life after death, Clarkston High's girls soccer team has excelled so far this year with a defense more spooky than Beetlejuice.

With the roster down to 12 (11 starters, one substitute), Coach Hana Olsen wasn't expecting to win the World Cup with the Wolves. Instead she wanted to work with the team throughout the year and hopefully see the results improve from game to game.

Three games into the 1988 spring season, Clarkston has terrorized opponents by allowing only one goal. One measly little goal. During 240 minutes of play, the team committed only one grievous unforgivable error.

Nobody could ask for anything more from the defensive standpoint. Everyone deserves an A+ for the job she has done. The Wolves have stuck with opponents better than a pair of socks fresh from the dryer. It's eerie.

But that's not all, there's plenty more to know about these Wolves. The team also seems to have a little help from the hereafter.

Take for instance the golden opportunity Oxford had to score the go-ahead goal midway through the second half of Friday night's game.

With the goalie out of the net and the ball rolling straight and true for the far corner, senior sweeper Shelley Purdy raced back and swept the ball away at the last moment.

Oxford continued to press and nailed the crossbar above an empty net on the same play before goalie Sue Haran secured the ball to end the threat.

An exciting series like this - under normal conditions - ends with one team celebrating a goal scored. For some reason, Clarkston was able to dodge the bullet.

Maybe the team has its own guardian angel watching over it. Maybe it just got lucky. Maybe they are an awesome team in sheep's clothing. Who knows?

Entering Monday night's game against Lapeer West at home, Clarkston's record was 1-0-2.

Don't cool the champagne bottles just yet, the team still has a long way to go before any of that stuff is needed.

While the Wolves are stingy on defense, they also haven't been too generous on offense.

Clarkston has scored just five goals in its three games. While it may sound OK, so do White Castles to a starving man.

Four of the team's goals were in one game.

To be fair, Clarkston also had several excellent scoring opportunities in Friday's game against Oxford.

Only once did the team convert. Before any one panics, there is a simple explanation for the problem.

Maybe the angels forgot to read their manual on how to play offense.

GETTING SET TO BUNT is Clarkston's Marci Morgan during a 16-5 rout of Pontiac Northern. The Wolves romped over the Huskies, 12-0, in game two of the double-header.

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The confrontation between Clarkston and Waterford Kettering in varsity softball lived up to the pre-game hype - a classic pitchers' duel.

Kettering scored twice in the top half of the first inning and then rode home to victory behind the spectacular pitching of Heather Van Dyke at Clintonwood Park Monday afternoon.

The 2-1 loss to their Greater Oakland Activities League rival dropped the Wolves' overall record to 4-2 and their GOAL mark to 3-1.

The Captains scored all the runs they needed on two walks, one hit and a double steal. Wendy Scroby just missed a running catch at the knees in right field with two outs and no runs scored yet.

But Kettering won the game on the run scored off the double steal.

"That turned out to be the difference in the game," said Clarkston coach Carla Teare. "I was hoping we would play good defense."

For the most part, the Wolves did an excellent job in the field. The team turned one double play to snuff out a Kettering threat in the sixth inning.

After her teammates staked her to an early lead, Van Dyke came out of the dugout throwing smoke. She fanned two of three batters she faced in the Clarkston first. Van Dyke finished with eight strikeouts.

The Wolves scored their only run of the game in the third inning when Kari Abbott led off with a single to right. It was Clarkston's first hit in the game.

Tisha Sherman then hit into a forceout. Heather Behrens followed with a walk to put runners on first and second. After an out by Kris Castillo, Stacey Shurtz knocked in Sherman from second with a single to right.

Shurtz was thrown out at second when she tried to advance on the throw to the plate to end the inning.

Clarkston didn't threaten again until the seventh inning when it managed to put a runner on second with

Springfield's bats boom for exciting win

SPRINGFIELD CHRISTIAN'S Mike Boven takes a mighty swing at an offering from a Fairlane Christian pitcher April 22. Boven finished the game with a triple and single.

A two-strike, two-run home run by Shannon Bullock in the bottom of the eighth inning powered Springfield Christian over Fairlane Friday afternoon.

The Eagles, now 3-1, beat the visitors, 7-5, to make a winner of Scott Hine, who pitched four scoreless innings in relief.

Fairlane opened the scoring in the first inning, but Springfield soon rallied and staked itself to what appeared to be a comfortable 5-1 lead later in the game.

The visitors were able to battle back and tie the score by the sixth inning with the help of a few errors by the Eagles.

Fairlane didn't threaten to score in either the seventh or eighth innings, said Coach Todd Vanaman. But a good defensive play by Springfield in the top half of the eighth charged up the whole team, the coach added.

Jamie Chadwell started the game-winning rally with a one-out single to center. Bullock followed with his heroic home run.

Earlier, the Eagles beat Holly, 8-3, and Bethany, 7-0, to get the spring season off to a good start.

Randy Perry was the winning pitcher for Springfield against Holly. Mike Boven got the honor against Bethany.

The team's only loss this season came on the road against Dansville, 6-0.

Springfield returns to action at home on Friday against Dryden at 4 p.m.

Win makes Wolves happy

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

While the weather didn't improve much from the week before, the disposition of the players on the varsity baseball team certainly did.

Clarkston opened the season with a last-inning loss to Lapeer West at home under terribly cold conditions April 14.

A week later, on April 21, mother nature still wasn't cooperating and the players still huddled underneath heavy blankets while waiting for their turns at bat.

But the results improved as the host Wolves beat back the Huskies from Pontiac Northern in both ends of a double-header to up their record to 3-4.

Clarkston started off fast in the opener, scoring three times in the first inning. The Wolves added one in the third and two in the fifth en route to a 6-5 victory.

Jeff Tungate went the distance and picked up the win. He struck out 11 batters.

The Wolves kept the pressure on the Huskies in the second game by once again scoring in the first inning. Tungate cracked a one-out single to right to get things started and then was sent home on a double by Ben Underwood.

A solo home run to left by the Huskies tied the game in the next inning.

The score remained tied until the bottom of the third when Tungate again started a rally. This time he did it with a two-out single.

After a stolen base, Underwood picked up another RBI with a single. During the play, the Huskies threw the ball away and allowed Underwood to circle the bases. He was eventually thrown out at the plate to end the inning.

The Huskies rallied to re-tie the game in the fifth inning when they scored on two singles and a sacrifice fly.

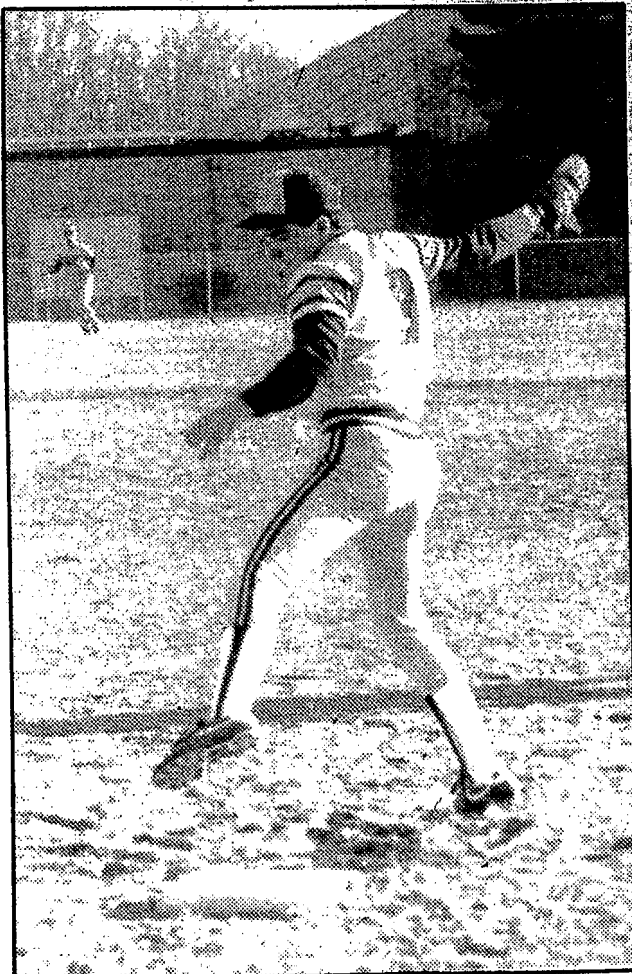

Clarkston blew the game wide open in its half of the inning and coasted the rest of the way to an easy victory.

Zach Brown struck out to start the inning but was safe at first when the catcher couldn't field the wild pitch after the third strike.

Mark Galen then attempted to sacrifice Brown to second. Galen was safe when the first baseman dropped the ball for an error. John Koslosky also was safe on a Huskies' error and a run scored.

Matt Carson singled in another run. Tungate was given an intentional walk to load the bases, and Underwood followed up with an RBI single. Aaron Hesse and Mike Peel both plated a run apiece with ground outs.

After five innings of play, Clarkston held a comfortable 7-2 advantage. The Wolves finally won the game, 7-3. Brown was the winning pitcher.

JEFF TUNGATE stretches to grab a throw at first base during action against Pontiac Northern April 21.

Big match ahead for tennis team

Although the boys tennis team lost its match against Rochester Adams, Coach Dick Swartout wasn't at all upset with the Wolves for a couple reasons.

First, it was the team's first loss this season against three victories. Clarkston was off to a good start, he said.

Secondly, the Wolves stuck with a tough Adams squad until the final match before losing by a 4-3 score April 19 on the road.

"Adams usually has a stronger team (than Clarkston)," said the coach. "Since we had a chance to win (the match), it means that we have improved."

Winners for the Wolves were Keith Turner at No. 1 singles, B.J. Deloney and Kevin Ortwyne at No. 2 doubles, and Todd Cook and Eric Chambers at No. 3 doubles.

Swartout was eager to pencil in tough teams like Adams on the tennis schedule this spring to better prepare players for the regionals.

So far the tough schedule is paying off in terms of team victories and individuals gaining experience.

"I'm pretty happy" with the way the season is going, the coach said. "We have played well."

In another match, the Wolves returned to their winning ways by beating Lapeer East, 5-2, on April 21.

Winners for the Wolves were Turner at No. 1 again, David Reading at No. 2 singles and Steve Hollis at No. 3.

The doubles teams of Brad Dedrick and Corey Whisner, and Chambers and Cook also were victorious.

Turner and the combination of Chambers and Cook are unbeaten in four matches this season, the coach said.

Clarkston now will concentrate on showing other Greater Oakland Activities League opponents what they have learned during the non-league portion of the schedule.

Waterford Mott will visit Clintonwood Park to battle the Wolves at 4 p.m. April 27.

Early in the season, Swartout said the Corsairs would be the team to beat for the league title. Four matches into the year, his thinking hasn't changed.

Wolves lose GOAL game

two outs. The Wolves were not able to get the runner home.

"We didn't hit (Van Dyke) well," said the coach. "She is just a great pitcher."

Heather Luchenbach was the losing pitcher for Clarkston. She fanned four and walked three while giving up just four hits. At one point in the game she retired eight straight batters.

Earlier in the week, Clarkston hosted GOAL rival Pontiac Northern for a double-header at Clintonwood and whipped the Huskies twice.

In the opener, the Wolves scored four times in the first inning and added seven more in the second to stake themselves to a comfortable 11-4 lead after two innings. They coasted to a five-inning 16-5 victory.

Jackie Patrick had four RBIs, Scroby had three and Dana Austin two for the Wolves. Jodi Lawrence was the winning pitcher.

In the second game, Luchenbach and Patrick combined to no-hit the visitors en route to a 12-0 victory. Behrens had a triple to pace the offense.

Time is their needed gift

The number of people performing volunteer work in Clarkston Community Schools during the first semester this year was quite remarkable.

Tutoring students, working in offices, overseeing computer sessions and providing assistance in the libraries, they numbered 475 - and they put in 6,958 3/4 hours in 10 school buildings, including the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center.

Last year, the total hours for the year were 11,794, says Jeanne Molzon, district volunteer coordinator, and she's pleased with the increase.

"The ultimate goal is a better education for the students," she says.

Improved record keeping is part of the reason the numbers are up, but a great deal of the credit goes to the volunteer coordinators in each building, she says.

They recruit volunteers, run training sessions and match interests with needs. They also monitor, evaluate and plan an end-of-the-year recognition party for their groups. The coordinators number 11 - and all their work is on a voluntary basis as well.

To illustrate how much a building coordinator can accomplish, Molzon cites North Sashabaw Elementary.

Records showed that 40 volunteers put in 600 hours at the school last year without a coordinator, while this year 61 volunteers have worked 1,248 hours under the guidance of a coordinator during the first half of the year alone.

The coordinators "do a really good job," says Molzon, and she provides a list: Jean Vallad at Andersonville, Linda Lewis at Bailey Lake, Linda Bemister and Beth Lawrence at Clarkston Elementary, Pat Nienstedt at Pine Knob, Marilyn Lash at North Sashabaw, Sandy Chester at Clarkston Junior High, Elaine Schultz at Sashabaw Junior High, Kathryn Roller at the vocational school, and Mary Himburg and Andrea Tappero at Clarkston High.

In honor of National School Volunteer Week, April 18-22, a cross-section of volunteers were interviewed. Their stories follow:

Steve Himburg, Learning Center

The benefit to volunteering in Clarkston Schools are many for Steve Himburg.

His credentials allow him to teach kindergarten through 12th-grade, and he works two days a week teaching various subjects at the Clarkston Learning Center on Maybee Road.

In the previous 11 years, Steve volunteered his time one day a week at the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center, but it's been years since he's taught in a real classroom, he said. He's enjoying his return.

"What I like best is just being with the kids, just seeing them do well and seeing them succeed," he said.

Steve helps people to succeed in other ways, as well. He's the ninth-grade football coach at Clarkston Junior High School, and he's involved in SCAMP and the Clarkston Area Youth Assistance.

Steve also widens the horizons of his pupils by his mere presence. Teaching from his wheelchair, he finds that some students have never met anyone with a disability.

"There's curiosity," he said. "We're pretty open about the questions. It doesn't seem to make any difference after a while. ... For some of them, it's their first exposure. It works out fine."

len's fourth-hour psychology class at the Clarkston Learning Center. Himburg is qualified to teach kindergarten through 12th grade. He volunteers two days a week.

Teens, seniors socialize through CHS club

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

There was a definite age gap among the people seated at the Clarkston High School cafeteria tables, but there was no generation gap in the conversation.

CHS students had invited members of the Independence Township Senior Citizen Center to lunch, and then treated them to a tour of the high school on April 19.

While the seniors enjoyed veal Parmesan specially prepared by the school cooks and served by the participating students, conversations with their young hosts ranged from school topics to sports to summer plans.

It was obvious that both young and old enjoyed the interaction.

Following lunch and a quarter-mile stroll through the halls, seniors and students exchanged "gifts." Students gave CHS pens and notepads. Seniors gave tiger baseball tickets to students. Seniors and students will attend the game together.

The senior citizen lunch was one of many activities the student volunteers helped organize and participate in throughout the school year.

They are part of about 60 student volunteers on the senior citizen committee of Blue and Gold, a service organization open to all students at the high school.

"It's the best committee," said Marni Banker, a senior. She also participated last year.

"I like working with the senior citizens," added Chris Lisle, a junior. "They're fun."

Joe Horan, one of the seniors who has enjoyed many activities with the students, said of the program, "I like it. They make me young again."

The Blue and Gold committee has been very active this year. Students participated in an "Adopt a Senior" program, card tournament, bridge lessons and canned goods collection. They staged Halloween and Valentine's Day parties.

At Christmastime, they decorated the senior citizen center, sang carols, made fruit baskets for shut-ins, and shared the Christmas spirit at a party.

"I've been working with the kids all year. They help us with so many activities," said Sharon Turner, assistant to the coordinator at the senior center. "I think it's great that they get some recognition for this. You always hear about the bad things kids do. And these kids are doing such a good thing."

Turner added that the seniors "made a lot of friends this year" in the high school students.

The senior citizen program could possibly be the forerunner of a credit course offered to students for community service, according to CHS Assistant Principal Brent Cooley.

"The value of kids and community service is a critical component of learning," said Cooley. "The community and schools both gain when the kids give of themselves. And we have a lot of great kids."

KELLIE WILTFANG, a member of the CHS senior citizen committee, had the chance to entertain her grandmother, Amanda Brewer, when seniors visited the school.

JOE HORAN, from the Independence Township Senior Citizen Center, chats with Chris Lisle, while Marni Banker (standing) looks on at Clarkston High School. CHS students involved with a senior citizen program at the school invited the seniors to lunch and a tour.

They're unavoidable.

We can be exposed to them every hour of the day. No matter who we are, what we do, no matter what our age, interests or income, there's one out there with our name on it waiting for the perfect moment to pounce.

It's the ever-watchful, ever-knowing candy bar advertisement.

Candy bars seem to be advertised everywhere we look. After a little consideration, I can see why. The majority of United States citizens have eaten them. They're not emotionally distressing, frightening or offensive to speak of.

Although some health-conscious people may not eat them, nobody honestly despises them or wishes to ban candy bar eating.

Because of this, we see them advertised through all forms of media, in every type of magazine, on all the radio stations and during practically every television program. They come in all forms.

The following is a small study of five different types of common candy commercials.

#1. The Food Fantasy Commercial: Candy is creatively portrayed doing or being something it normally is not. Human-like M&M's dive into pools of candy coating. Hershey's kisses are several times larger than the person standing beside them. A piano's black keys are replaced by Twix bars.

Imagine this was reality. One bag of chocolate kisses would fill up the entire grocery store. Our fingers would get sticky trying to play the piano. Thousands of cannibalistic youngsters would have the eyes, arms and legs of their snacks "melt in their mouths - not in their hands."

#2. The Street Scene Commercial: Flashy-dressed people with detectably inflated egos sing, dance and holler out praises to a candy bar that only one person (if even that many) actually bites into within the length of the commercial.

All vehicles are parked on the sidewalk. Secretly, I hope a steamroller finds its way on the set and flattens down all these annoying peacocks.

#3. The Mirror of Life Commercial: They compare to the street scene, only more personal - people are doing what look like everyday things as they eat.

The "deliciously different" pitch for Butterfinger (a candy bar made of dried-up flakes of peanut butter) falls under this category, but is a little different.

Their philosophy is that people a bit unlike the rest of the crowd would want to eat a candy bar unlike all others. What they seem to have forgotten is that by eating the same Butterfinger, all those "different" people would lose their uniqueness.

In the commercial, a boy is shown roller-skating through a library while eating his crusty peanut butter. Peculiar, yes, at first glance, but why? Perhaps the answer lies in the fact that most libraries don't allow food and skates, especially both at once.

#4. The "Are We Supposed to Get This?" Commercial: A conversation between a couple reminiscing about the last time they shared a particular candy bar. Aah, how romantic.

"What if there were a town called Watchamacallit and it were covered with a layer of caramel?" asks another capillary in this vein of commercials, and then proceeds to tell us about the layer of caramel in Watchamacallit candy bars. Figure that one out.

#5. The "Candy Bars Are Good for You" Commercial: Skiers, ranchers and such come up to the camera and talk about how they love their candy bar because it gives them so many calories to burn.

Others say, "Sure, it's got chocolate, caramel and nougat in it, but it's as good as a complete meal. Know why? 'Cause it's got peanuts in there, too."

Candy bar companies must think peanuts are the miracle food of the twentieth century. While we're at it, how many high energy diets have you seen that include "a Milky Way a day"?

I've read the stories about the possibilities of life on other planets and how it might be picking up our television messages. If this is true, I'm sure they have a heyday with candy bar commercials.

Suzanne Baumann is a ninth-grader at Sashabaw Junior High School. She is working with The Clarkston News this school year through the SJHS Mentorship Program.

Engagement

ZAWACKI-FULCHER: Alexander and Janette Zawacki of Bentley announce the engagement of their daughter Caroleigh Janette to David Joseph Fulcher, son of Dale and Diane Fulcher of Independence Township. The bride-to-be will graduate in June from Northeastern School of Commerce, Bay City. Her fiancé is working toward a degree in teaching at Madonna College, Livonia. A September wedding is planned.

Vocal music students fare well at festival

Clarkston High School and the junior high schools in Clarkston fared well at the state Solo and Ensemble Festival April 16 at the University of Michigan-Flint.

Participants in the competition, sponsored by the Michigan State Vocal Association, had to earn a I Rating at the district level to compete at the state level.

The judges' comments were highly complimentary, said CHS Director Grayce Warren. Some of the comments included: "Good diction, vitality, vibrant upper register ... a very nice voice for such a young singer, good Italian ... voices very mature and resonate, good stage presence and posture ... lovely sound ... sung beautifully ... rhythm, tonal patterns good, pitches and rhythms very accurate."

The selections performed were difficult in many ways, and some were in other languages, said Warren.

"I thought it was an outstanding performance and a great representation for our school - especially considering the caliber of music they performed," she said.

Receiving a I Rating (superior) were soloists: Baritone Marty Brown, tenor Matt Ford and soprano Carrie Slade; duets: Alto Rebecca Abdo and soprano Melissa Sloan; quartet: soprano Rebecca Bridges, alto

Kimberly Cosner, tenor Bryan Erickson and bass Kevin Baert.

Also receiving a I Rating were the Madrigal Singers: Rebecca Bridges, Jennifer DuPree, Kelly DuPree, Jennifer Johnston, Rhonda Bowes, Laurie Clements, Kimberly Cosner, Kari Swift, Mike Ely, Matt Ford, Bryan Erickson, Jeremy Roberts, Kevin Baert, Marty Brown, Jim Huttenlocher and Allan Watson.

Receiving a II Rating (excellent) were soloists: Soprano Rebecca Bridges, baritone Mark Young and baritone Scott Zumwalt.

Warren appreciated the talents of her accompanists, high school students Rhonda Bowes and Kelly DuPree and Clarkston Junior High School Vocal Music Director Gloria Lacy, she said.

Directed by Gloria Lacy, three CJHS ninth-graders received a I Rating for their trio: Christi Oppmann, Britt Ried and Anissa Howard.

Directed by Jan Merz, Sashabaw Junior High ninth-grader Erin Gaiser received a II Rating.

The junior high directors were happy with the performances.

"The girls worked very hard, and I was pleased with their wonderful ratings," said Lacy.

In service

Air National Guard Staff Sgt. Lynette M. Trese has completed the visual information production documentation specialist course at Lowry Air Force Base, Colo.

The course trains selected service members in basic photographic and motion picture documentation skills. Graduates are qualified for worldwide assignments in support of Air Force and Department of Defense activities.

A 1971 graduate of Brandon High School, she is the daughter of Thomas and Laone Trese of Oakhill Road, Brandon Township.

Navy Petty Officer 2nd Class Anthony J. Tipolt, recently received the Navy Achievement Medal for his superior performance of duty while stationed aboard the guided missile frigate USS Stephen W. Groves, homeported in Mayport, Fla.

The son of Maryann Tipolt of Parview Drive, Independence Township, Tipolt is a 1975 graduate of Gwinn High School, Gwinn. He joined the Navy in January 1985.

Carl Chupa of Griggs Drive, Independence Township, is home for good after serving almost three years in the Marine Corps.

When the 1985 Clarkston High School graduate left the corps, he was a lance corporal. Now he plans to serve in the inactive reserves for the next five years, he said.

He is the son of Linda and Dan Chupa, the brother of Karen, who serves in the Air Force, and Brian, who left the Marine Corps in January.

Honors

Amy Travis has received the Purdue Music Organization Scholarship for the 1988-89 school year.

A telecommunications major at Purdue University, West Lafayette, Ind., she is a 1987 graduate of Clarkston High School.

Her parents are Dan and Betsy Travis of Perry Lake Road, Independence Township.

Clarkston tops all in band festival participation

Clarkston Schools once again were well-represented during the solo and ensemble festivals last month.

Over 400 students representing eight bands - more than any other district - participated in the festivals sponsored by the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association.

At Howell High School March 26, the Clarkston High School Wind Ensemble and the CHS Symphonic Band earned First Division Ratings - the highest mark awarded by the judges - under the direction of Cliff Chapman.

The two CHS bands are to attend the state festival April 30 in Grand Rapids.

The Junior High School Festival at Fowlerville High School March 19 included the Sashabaw Junior High School wind ensemble, symphonic band and the concert band, which all received First Division Ratings and were directed by Doug Doty.

Directed by Julie Mathews from Clarkston Junior High School, the wind ensemble received a Second Division Rating, and the seventh-grade concert band earned a Third Division Rating.

Directed by Cliff Chapman, the CJHS eighth-grade band received a First Division Rating.

The junior high bands that received First Division Ratings are to compete at the state festival May 7 at Brandon High School.

At the March 26 Solo and Ensemble Festival at Howell High School, Clarkston High School once again performed well.

Receiving First Division ratings were received by the following students:

Doug Treder, junior, tenor sax solo; Russ Simonson, junior, baritone sax solo; Mark Frasa, sophomore, baritone solo; Chris Fromm, junior, piano solo; Ann McClellan, Doug Treder - alto sax duet; Nicole Chinavare, Paul Reading, Kristen Billig, Tim Garten, Kim Toretta, Chris Johnson - brass sextet; Brendan McMullen, Matt Mellen, Chris Fromm, Brea Michelsen, Scot Greetham, Jeremy Roberts, Nicole Dolsen, Aaron Kurilik - percussion octet.

Receiving Second Division ratings were: Kim

Toretta, junior, horn solo; Art Ripley, sophomore, alto sax solo; and Sherri Mitchell, senior, flute solo.

All participants of the solo and ensemble festivals from Clarkston High School are members of the CHS Wind Ensemble or Symphonic Band.

Each performing event is prepared outside of school and takes a high degree of individual commitment excellence, said Chapman.

Band students rate at districts

To qualify for the state level solo and ensemble festival, Clarkston High School students first had to compete at the district level Feb. 13 at Farmington Harrison High School.

Those receiving First Division Ratings - the highest marks awarded by the judges - were eligible to compete at the state level March 26.

Douglas Treder, junior, tenor sax solo; Kari Griffith, senior, trumpet solo; Chris Fromm, junior, piano solo; Ericka Flanagan, sophomore, piano solo; Mark Frasa, sophomore, baritone solo; Christy Kuklinsky, sophomore, clarinet solo; Andrew Byrne, sophomore, piano solo; Art Ripley, sophomore, alto sax solo; Steve Christensen, sophomore, snare drum solo; Jennifer Carr, junior, piano solo; Kim Toretta, junior, horn solo; Sarah Korige, sophomore, clarinet solo; Russ Simonson, junior, baritone sax solo; Sherri Mitchell, senior, flute solo; Ann McClellan and Doug Treder - alto sax duet; Nicole Chinavare, Paul Reading, Kristen Billig, Tim Garten, Kim Toretta, Chris Johnson - brass sextet; Brendan

Rebecca Hahn, Sashabaw Junior High

In her first year of volunteer work with Clarkston schools, Rebecca Hahn was surprised.

A helper in Jan Inman's reading class at Sashabaw Junior High School on Mondays, Rebecca also types the list of overdue books for the media center on Fridays.

"It's more rewarding than what I thought it would be," she said. "The only thing you hear in the press is negative. These kids really aren't negative. It's fun. They actually want to work with me."

She works on a one-to-one basis in the reading class.

"I just really enjoy working with kids this age," said Rebecca. "They're fascinating and challenging at the same time."

Rebecca's children, eighth-grader Jennifer and seventh-grader Jeffrey, attend SJHS, and that makes the job even more worthwhile.

"I really felt it was important to be involved in the school my children are a part of," she said.

SYLLABLES ARE PART of spelling and part of Rebecca Hahn's work with students at SJHS. Here, Sirena Ward, 15, performs well in her session with Rebecca.

Marilyn Lash, North Sashabaw

According to volunteer coordinator Marilyn Lash at North Sashabaw Elementary, Lynda Podzikowski is especially suited to her volunteer work in the Learning Resource Center (LRC).

"It takes a person who's real patient and considerate," said Marilyn.

Lynda and co-volunteer Stephanie Forsyth had the necessary qualities for Mary Jo Griggs' LRC class, she said.

Although Lynda has volunteered for six or seven years in Clarkston schools, this is the first time she's been involved in LRC, she said.

Mostly, she comes in two afternoons a week and works on math with one student at a time.

"I enjoy it," she said. "I love kids. ...I've always liked kids, and kids have always gotten along with me."

Her own children are Chris, a fifth-grader at North Sashabaw Elementary, and Cathy, a seventh-grader at Sashabaw Junior High.

"My kids are getting a little bit bigger now," she said, adding this gives her an opportunity to work with younger kids, too.

Lynda also coaches girls softball and plays the sport herself, as well as playing racquetball and volleyball. And her backyard playground is a favorite for the neighborhood children and relatives for whom she babysits.

(See VOLUNTEERS, Page 40)

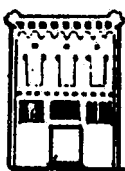

MOST PUPILS IN LRC come in for an hour a week of individualized attention, so a few came to class especially to pose for a photograph with volunteer Lynda Podzikowski.

Expect the best.

Busy volunteer finds multitude of rewards in helping others

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

"The greatest use of a life is to spend it for something that will outlast it."

William James

Psychologist William James' quotation best explains Christine Wyatt's devotion to helping other people, she said.

"It's my favorite quote," said the Deerwood, Independence Township, resident, as she explained how she came to be honored April 18 with 63 other Michigan volunteers for their outstanding contributions.

For Christine, volunteering has become almost a full-time job and a major part of her life.

"I don't feel that it's work," she said. "All the time I give, I get back in learning new skills and meeting people.... They have different ideas and different perspectives on life. I'm always amazed at people's willingness to work together in solving problems of the community."

Helping others is one of the biggest responsibilities of belonging to society, she said.

"I think it's important to volunteer," she said. "The world just can't run on paid people. There just isn't enough money to pay people to do what needs to be done."

"We have to pull together and look at the needs of the community. We need to leave something behind for the future, for our children."

"We have to pull ourselves out of our narrow focus and see the wide picture. There's a lot of human need.... The government can't provide it all."

Wyatt was honored April 18 at the Westin Hotel in Detroit during a Volunteer Expo breakfast to kick off the National Volunteer Week.

The breakfast was sponsored by the Junior League of Birmingham, Detroit United Community Services and Michigan National Bank.

Wyatt and the other 62 volunteers received certificates and were asked to sign the governor's honor roll, which will be made a permanent record of the state.

She did not expect the honor.

"I was completely shocked," she said. "When they called me up on the phone, I thought they wanted me to work on some committee. I was completely shocked. It was totally unexpected. And all I had to do was show up."

Wyatt was born and raised in Birmingham but has lived in Independence Township for 11 years, she said.

As project director for the Junior League of Birmingham - a group which promotes volunteerism by training volunteers - she helps fund and helps train people for nine programs, including: alcohol abuse community education projects, HAVEN - a domestic violence shelter in Pontiac, the Read Aloud program in Oakland County, and the volunteer coordinating program in Oakland County.

In addition, Wyatt is on the board of directors of HAVEN, serves on the Child Abuse and Neglect Council, County of Oakland, and is active in developing programs for prevention of child abuse and the education of people about child abuse for the Clarkston United Methodist Church.

She credits her family - husband, Bob, and children, Jillian and John - for supporting her efforts.

"I couldn't have done it without them," she said.

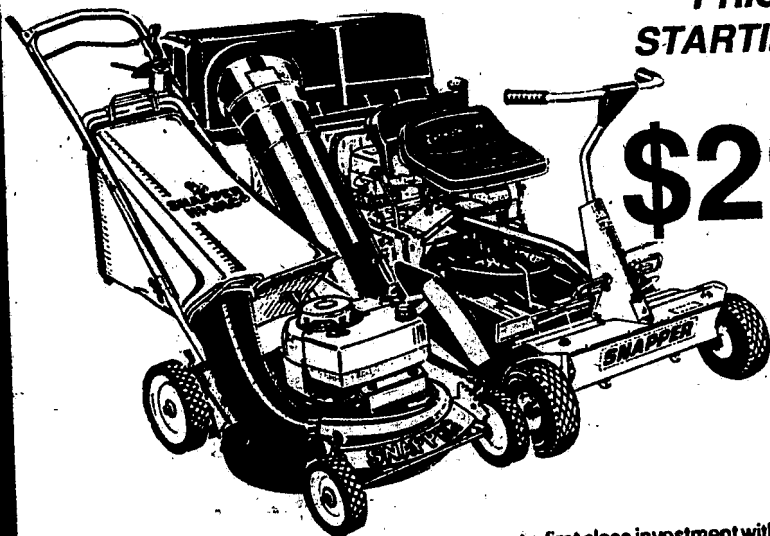

IT'S CHARACTERISTIC of her father to call the newspaper about her recent honor, says Christine Wyatt, adding her parents were also supportive of her childhood activities. "Parents are just like that," she says. "Now that I'm a parent, I'd probably do the same thing."

Third-grader takes award second year running

JIMMY TERRITO displays the notice he received of winning third place in the Michigan PTA Reflections Contest, and the book that inspired his poem, "I Am Stonehenge."

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Once again, Jimmy Territo's ability to transfer his thoughts into words has paid off.

The Bailey Lake Elementary School third-grader has, for the second year in a row, won an award in the Michigan PTA Reflections Contest.

Jimmy won a third place award with his poem, "I Am Stonehenge." He will receive his award with other winners from around the state on May 1 during a special brunch in Lansing.

Jimmy has never been to Stonehenge, but his mother visited England last year and brought home a book on the prehistoric monument that has lured visitors for centuries. Jimmy's curiosity was piqued.

The subject of this year's Reflections contest was wonders of the world, and Jimmy says the idea of writing about Stonehenge just popped into his head.

The day he received notice in the mail that he won an award in the Reflections Contest, he also received a note from the Vatican that the "Holy Father has received the kind letter you sent."

It was an exciting day for Jimmy.

He had written to the pope last September, the same day Pope John Paul II visited Detroit and Jimmy was one of the children who performed for him. Jimmy wrote to thank him for visiting our country, and even sent him a picture of himself. He received one of the pope in return.

"I thought, wow, this is great to have," Jimmy says. "I felt glad the pope liked my letter, and I am also glad they liked my writing in the PTA."

It's been exciting year for the precocious 9-year-old.

He has become an altar boy ahead of the usual 10-year-old age limit at St. Daniel Catholic Church in Clarkston.

He starred as Charlie Brown in a school play, and has written a comedy act for the school talent show in May.

Jimmy, who aspires to be the first American Pope, has decided he might be an actor first.

"I was excited to find out the Pope was an actor before he was a priest," Jimmy says. "And I found out there's kid actors, too."

His winning poem follows:

I Am Stonehenge

I am a structure of many mysteries and wonders,
An ancient circle of sarsens and bluestones, large boulders from miles away.
I am a formation from the hands of prehistoric laborers.
I am Stonehenge.

I proudly sit upon a grassy plain in England.
The ways of my construction puzzle modern man.
Humans question my purpose.

Some believe I serve as a calendar, a courtyard, a temple,
a burial place, a battlefield or an observatory.
My outer circle, inner circle and Heel Stone hold secrets of the past.

My Heel Stone casts a perfect shadow on my Altar stone on the summer solstice, when my entrance faces the sunrise.

Many come to stand within my circles to listen for callings from long ago.

My history and my powers are prehistoric wonders.
Come, and experience my mysteries.

On being 18

David Kwasnick

Hey, guess what? Something special recently happened to me. I celebrated my 18th birthday. I'm now officially 18 years old. OK. So what?

Eighteen (18), what does it mean? It means I am now considered an Adult. Just in time, too. Riding that tricycle around the house was getting pretty tough.

Along with being an adult, I can expect certain privileges. For one thing, I can now be arrested as a full-fledged grown-up - no more minor. Something I've been waiting for, for quite a while.

Also, I can now frequent a few of Windsor's more famous cultural centers - "You'll dance where for $5?" - not to mention sample their native brew.

I also get to intensify my relationship with a certain very powerful and influential Uncle. Yes, Sam and I get to learn a lot about each other.

If I choose (and I will), I now have the privilege of exercising my right to vote. I can actually take part in electing our next president.

Depending on how well I choose, Sam can call me right back and return the favor. "Don't like Michigan weather? No problem. Honduras is much warmer. You might even say - hot."

In this case, you would be reading opening statements in my column such as, "How many Sandanistas does it take to screw in a light bulb?"

In all seriousness, though, I believe I know what being 18 means. It means that like it or not, people will start expecting you to be responsible for yourself, if for no other reason than your age alone.

You will have to start relying on and answering for yourself as an individual. For, whereas childhood must end, adulthood will not.

David Kwasnick is a Clarkston High School senior.

Betty Wagner

Here is a tasty main dish that can be quickly assembled with ingredients from your pantry shelves, then easily cooked in the microwave oven.

ARTICHOKE LINGUINE

- 1 tablespoon olive oil
- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1 cup chicken stock
- 14-ounce can artichoke hearts, drained and quartered
- 4-ounce can sliced mushrooms, drained
- 1 tablespoon minced dried parsley
- 2 teaspoons lemon juice
- 1/4 teaspoon white pepper
- 1/2 teaspoon garlic salt
- 3 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
- 1/2 pound cooked linguine or spaghetti

Microwave butter and oil at high power for 30 to 40 seconds or until melted. Stir in flour; cook at high power for 45 to 60 seconds or until mixture bubbles. Gradually stir in chicken stock.

Working parents' time

Registrations for the playground and day camp programs offered by the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department will be taken the evenings of Wednesday, May 11, and Monday, May 23.

Hours at the office inside Independence Township Hall, 90 N. Main, Clarkston, will be from 5 to 7 p.m.

The evening hours are for working parents who cannot register their children for the programs during the parks and recreation department's regular daytime hours.

Microwave Plus

Pantry pleaser

Add garlic salt, pepper, parsley and lemon juice. Cook at high power 2 minutes, stirring every minute. Add mushrooms, artichoke hearts and Parmesan cheese. Microwave at 80 percent (reheat) power 2 to 3 minutes or until hot.

Serve over cooked linguine or spaghetti. Sprinkle with more Parmesan cheese, if desired. Garnish with a sprinkling of dried parsley.

Home economist Betty Wagner resides in Independence Township. Her "Microwave Plus" cable-TV program airs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 8 p.m. on Independence-Clarkston Channel 65.

Jaycees elect officers

Officers for the 1988-89 year were elected April 20 by the Clarkston Area Jaycees.

Kate Kuechle is president; Joy Leonard, community development vice president; Anne Birtsas, individual development vice president; Jon Carter, management development vice president; Mary Forst, treasurer; Debbie Easton, secretary; and Blaine Aldrich, newsletter.

Kuechle is the first female president and the 26th president of the Clarkston Area Jaycees.

The community service club meets the third Wednesday of every month at Cherry Hill Lanes in the Green Room. New members are welcome.

If it's a major fire, or a minor oddity, we want a call at The Clarkston News. 625-3370

Anti-Diet Weight Loss

The New Alternative

SUFFERING IS OPTIONAL

If you have tried dieting in the past and failed, you are not alone. For many, diet is part of the problem, not it's solution. Thin people don't want to eat more than they should. So how come you do? When you learn to think about food the way thin people do, then you will eat casually and controllably, just as they do.

Based on successful work with overeaters in therapy, this unique, ten-week program was developed to help healthy people to finally control their eating without the need for discipline and the constant struggle against temptation.

WHY WAIT?

This small-class experience is not another diet or food supplement program, but a new opportunity for a permanent change in your relationship with food and your body. You can be happy with both, now.

PREVIEW:

To give you a full description of this effective solution to over-eating, we offer a full, two-hour preview at our offices. Admission is $10. Call early to reserve your place, as seating is extremely limited.

Pet of the Week

SHE'S SHORT a leg, but long on personality.

Good-natured Amy

Amy is a very special little pup. One of her hind legs was amputated after she was hit by a car, but the 3- or 4-month-old black terrier mix hasn't noticed the difference.

She is still the upbeat, good-natured, people-oriented pup she was when she had all four legs. The loss hasn't slowed her down one bit.

Amy could use a very special family to give her all the love she deserves.

She can be adopted at the Michigan Humane Society, 3600 Auburn Rd., Auburn Heights, 852-7420. Hours at the non-profit shelter are 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

The adoption fee for Amy is $55, which includes a deposit toward having her spayed at the shelter when she is 6 months old.

Park perk-up in Springfield

A clean-up day is scheduled for May 7 at Green Lake Park, off North Bay and Foster roads in Springfield Township.

Residents of the Green Lake area are encouraged to come out and help in the effort, according to Sherry Swindell.

"We want to encourage some pride in that park," Swindell said.

In the past, she said there has been trouble with vandalism in the tiny "vest pocket park" near the Green Lake subdivision.

OFFICIAL NOTICE

Notice of Township Clean-Up Days

The Charter Township of Independence will sponsor Township Clean-Up Days on Saturday, May 14th and Sunday, May 15th. Township residents may bring their trash to the DPW building located on Flemmings Lake Road for disposal. The hours of operation are from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. both days. Proof of residency will be required before dumping will be allowed.

Because of the tremendous costs of disposal, the Township is forced to levy a fee for dumping. Fees are as follows:

ITEM	PER LOAD
Automobile	$ 5.00
Auto with single axle trailer	10.00
Pick-up truck or van	10.00
Pick-up with single axle trailer	25.00
Flatbed single axle truck	25.00
Dual axle trailer	25.00
5 yd. dump truck	25.00

The following material will not be allowed to be dumped: Fuel oil drums, barrels, propane cylinders, automobiles or vehicles of any kind, no chemicals of any kind.

Tickets for dumping may be obtained at the Township Treasurer's Office, located at the Township Hall, 90 N. Main Street, Clarkston, Michigan. Tickets will also be on sale at the dump site the weekend of the clean-up.

COVERING NEW BOOKS is Dorothy Lowe's task on Monday, April 18, at CHS. She also works with the computer, the card catalog and anything else in need of attention.

Dorothy Lowe started as a volunteer in Clarkston schools when her daughter, Karen, began first grade.

Now that Karen is a sophomore at Clarkston High School, Dorothy works two hours a week in the media center at CHS - filing in the card catalog or covering books or helping with whatever full-time media employees Katherine Wlodarczyk and Shirley Condron need.

"It's a little bit of time you can give for a needed service," said Dorothy. "It really isn't that much time. I'm a busy person, like anyone else. It keeps you in contact with the school."

Dorothy is involved in other volunteer organizations, such as Girl Scouts and church, as well as work, but she finds the time for school volunteer work every year.

"I have always volunteered," she said, adding it helps fulfill her life. "I think that's true of any volunteer organization, you support those things that are important."

Official Notice Charter Township of Independence COUNTY OF OAKLAND NOTICE OF HEARING REGARDING DOWNTOWN DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY BOUNDARY ADJUSTMENT

Take notice that the Township Board of the Charter Township of Independence, Oakland County, Michigan, will hold a public hearing on Tuesday, the 17th day of May, 1988 at 7:30 p.m. at the Independence Township Hall Annex, Charter Township of Independence, Oakland County, Michigan, to consider an amendment to Chapter 22 of the Code of Ordinances.

The proposed ordinance amendment pertains to enlarging the boundaries over which the Downtown Authority will exercise its powers.

Further information may be obtained from the Township Clerk, 90 North Main Street, Clarkston, Michigan.

This notice is given by order of the Township Board of the Charter Township of Independence.

TO SHOWCASE the life-size projects, they are taken off the wall and held by their crea-

hallway was filled with displays in readiness for Clarkston Elementary's annual fair.

Kids create memorable blend of art, science

BY KATHY GREENFIELD
Clarkston News Editor

A scavenger hunt for 30 large pieces of corrugated cardboard took fourth-grade teacher Natalie Hewko and her husband to a furniture store.

They removed staples, trimmed edges and cut the boxes they found into child-size rectangles before loading them into Hewko's station wagon for the ride to Clarkston Elementary School.

Each pupil's basic shape was traced on a brown board, and the youngsters took their raw projects home.

The assignment: Design a life-size, three-dimensional version of the body's digestive, respiratory and circulatory systems on a cutout of their body shapes.

"They were to be as creative as they wanted to be," said Hewko.

The finished projects were hung with care in a school hallway last week in preparation for Clarkston Elementary's annual art and science fair.

As Hewko pointed out the endless variety of objects used to make the 3-D models, it was apparent that she was delighted with the results. They turned out to be a most appropriate, and unusual, blend of art and science.

One pupil used broccoli for the brain, while others opted for sponges, pieces of bread, a rice cake, a light bulb - and a calculator.

For the liver, someone glued down a brown mitten. A tennis ball, because it thumps, became a heart. Cinnamon sticks represented an esophagus; twisted nylons a small intestine.

Corn, rice and onion chips were teeth. A circular pattern of chestnuts portrayed the large intestine. Red licorice became veins.

Fluorescent clay, seashells, fluffy wool, cotton balls, macaroni, cereal of all sorts, an egg, brightly colored felt cutouts, pieces of foam, cotton balls, wristwatches (that personal touch) ... all were used successfully.

The pupils were encouraged to discuss the assignment with their parents and to look in books.

"That's how we get ideas," said Hewko.

Four pupils, chosen to talk about the project because their finished products ended up hanging together on a segment of the hall wall, agreed that the assignment was fun.

"My favorite part was looking around the house and looking for things, and doing the (red licorice) veins," said Marc Desrochers. "My dog kept tearing off the veins and eating them!"

Leah Howard used almost all natural materials for her model, including a cluster of sumac for the heart and appropriately shaped seashells for several of the organs.

"We had a lot of stuff back on the hill, and my mom's friend went to Florida and we got a lot of seashells," she said.

Leah's model also sported an anatomically correct twisting of rope for the small intestine, which measured 17 feet, 4 inches - precisely four times her height of 4-feet-4.

Stephanie Burklow learned "that salivary glands look like leaves" - and she used some off a plant in her house on her cardboard figure.

Marc's memorable lesson involved learning the shapes of the organs, including the stomach and liver.

Tony Reppuhn found out "where everything went and how they work."

When it was time to return the projects to school, Tony's mom was the driver for his cardboard creation and that of a friend. The boys sat in the back seat.

"My mom's driving with the two bodies in the front," said Tony. "People were wondering what we had in the car."

The answer: They were carrying proof that learning can be tackled with creativity, laughter and memories too good to forget.

SELLING YOUR HOUSE?

By Kay Kelley

WHOSE AGENT?

The family ready to buy a home comes to a real estate agent for help. The homeowner wanting to sell comes to the same real estate agent. Question: Who do I represent?

The answer is clear: I am working for the SELLER. Though there are legal and ethical considerations owed to a buyer, my first loyalty is to the SELLER.

I try to match up buyers and houses, but I am working for the SELLER. Especially when it comes to negotiating price or other concerns, I provide my sellers with enough information so that they can make a logical decision, so that they can ACCEPT - REJECT - or COUNTER a service contract. Put me to work for you. CALL TODAY AND ASK FOR KAY.

Dressed for the weather

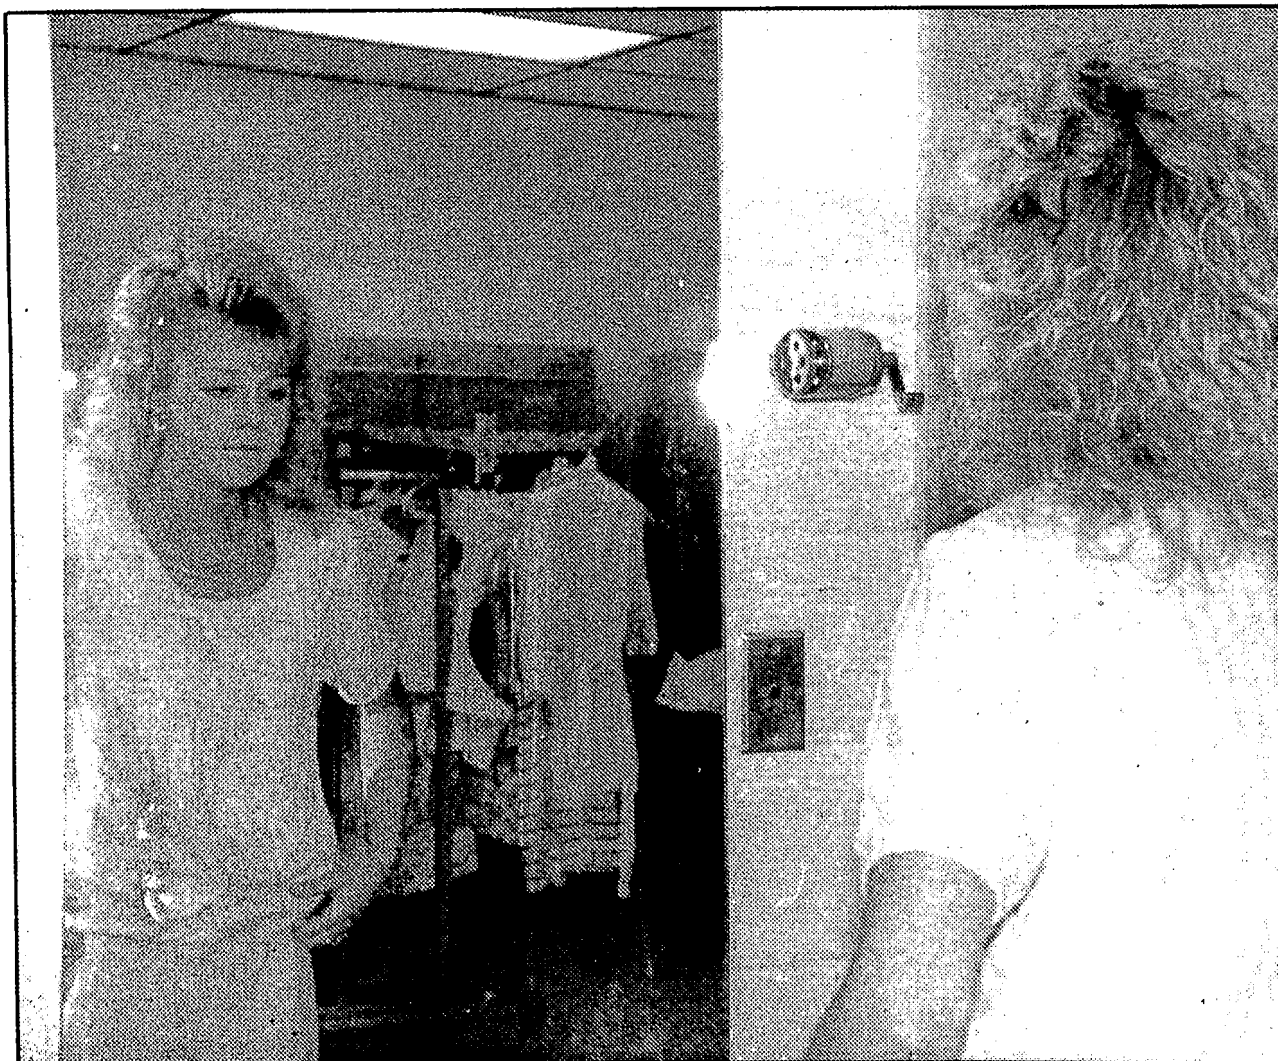

WHILE SPECTATORS finish their lunch prepared by students in the foods services, Dale Wisnleski of Waterford Kettering circulates, showing spring fashions.

HAIR SPRAY keeps hair looking its best, and Jan Fosse, a Waterford Kettering senior, adds a final touch during the annual show at the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center. Clothing was provided by Coach's Corner and K-Mart.

CINDY MILLER, of Waterford Kettering, checks with the mirror before she appears before the audience. The proceeds of the fashion show are to support Distributive Education Clubs of America.

A TAPED SOLE keeps the shoes in good condition during the fashion show. Clarkston High School senior Christina Rohn performs the trick for the models.
