Plans unveiled for mall at M-15, I-75

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Medical offices, retail stores and possibly a bank, pharmacy and a "nice, sit-down" restaurant were proposed for 6.12 acres on M-15, between I-75 and Northview Drive.

After close to an hour of discussion April 28, a public hearing on the proposed planned unit development (PUD) for Independence Pointe was scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Thursday, May 26, at the Independence Township annex, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

A PUD is a rezoning of a parcel of land in accordance with a specific site plan. It allows different uses on one site and requires approvals from the planning commission and the township board, and public hearings at both levels.

Commission members expressed concern over the possibly dated architectural style and the proposed three entrances to the site - two from M-15 and one from Northview Drive.

"I like the idea of the village-like (design), but what I don't want to see is something you might see in West Bloomfield - one of these cutsie centers," said Joseph Figa. "I like the concepts. I like the shapes. ... This tends to be trendy."

Steve Secatch objected to the entrance on Northview, a residential street, but praised the layout and concept.

Jo Fussman favored a Northview entrance and only one M-15 entrance, as long as vehicles exiting on Northview were only allowed to turn right. Northview residents should give their opinions, she said.

The plans also drew praise. "It's quite a unique site," said Richard Oppmann. "I've seen this type of development in other parts of the country. It's worked out very well - the campus-type center."

One Northview Drive resident requested curbing, curving to the right, to prevent exiting vehicles from turning left onto Northview.

One commercial driveway is already planned for Northview Drive from the hardware store under construction on the northeast corner of Northview and I-75, said Donald Moody.

"Two of them side to side there doesn't make my day," he said.

Architect Gregory P. Heil, representing Poponea, Affolder Investment and Development (PAID), presented the commission with a plan for three buildings and mixed uses for the property, currently zoned planned shopping center on 4.7 acres and single family residential

Voters pour in

Over 500 new people have registered to vote in Independence Township since January - an indication of the population growth, said Clerk Richard Holman.

"We're just going bonkers," he said. "We can't believe it."

The number does not include the registration of voters who have moved within the township, only from outside the township, he said. About 14,181 residents are registered to vote.

"We have a very high proportion of our residents who are registered anyway," Holman said. "It's a reflection of affluence and education."

In addition, 101 Clarkston High School seniors were registered during CHS lunch hour April 26.

Springfield Township does not have figures for 1988, but 978 new voters were registered in 1987, for a total of 6,440 registered voters.

To vote in the June 13 Clarkston school election, residents who will be 18 by the time of the election must register before 5 p.m. Monday, May 16.

Voters may register at the Secretary of State office on Dixie Highway, the Independence Township office at 90 N. Main St., Clarkston, or the Springfield Township office, 650 N. Broadway.

Meet candidates in informal setting

An informal "Meet the Candidates Night" is planned Monday, May 9, so residents can get to know the candidates running for two Clarkston school board seats.

The event is planned from 5 to 7 p.m. in the Nickelodeon Restaurant, 10081 M-15 north of Clarkston. It is co-sponsored by the Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce and Clarkston CARES (Concerned About Responsible Education and Schools).

Eight candidates are running for two school board seats up for election June 13: Karen Foyteck, Thomas Howard, Sheila Hughes, incumbent John Needham, Thomas Sokolnicki, Dwight Spiker, Paul Van Klaveren and Robert Wyatt.

All eight candidates have been invited to attend.

They were not asked to make formal presentations, but rather to be on hand to meet people on an informal basis.

There will be complimentary hors d'oeuvres and a cash bar.

Two more "Meet the Candidate" nights are planned in June.

The Clarkston Area Optimists Club is sponsoring one from 7:30 to 9 p.m. June 8 in the 20 Depot Street restaurant, where candidates will be asked to make a presentation.

The League of Women Voters of the Clarkston Area is planning a non-partisan, informational "Meet the Candidate Night" for 7:30 p.m. June 2 in the Independence Township Hall annex.

Corrections

In the April 27 issue of The Clarkston News, the list of people who received superior ratings at the state Solo and Ensemble festival April 16 at the University of Michigan-Flint should have included the duet of soprano Jennifer Johnston and alto Kari Swift. They received a I Rating in site reading and performance.

The last name of Victoria Davis was incorrect in the information beneath the photograph on Page 1 of The Clarkston News last week.

Due to an error in a press release, an incorrect date was listed for evening registrations for playground and day camp programs offered this summer by the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department.

The correct dates are Tuesday, May 10, and Monday, May 23, from 5 to 7 p.m. at Township Hall, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

subdivision returned with a "better" proposal.

With compliments for the change, the board voted 6-0 to approve the new tentative preliminary plat, which they had reviewed once before but did not discuss because an easement dispute with nearby residents would not have allowed the road configuration.

After two months of negotiations with the two neighbors, the developers reached a compromise that allowed them to move part of a private road easement. The change to the plat also added five lots to the subdivision, which had originally been included in the plan but were removed when an agreement could not be reached with the holders of the easement.

Township Planner Richard Carlisle said the new plan and road configuration were safer and would better serve the residents who own the private easement.

"This was the version the planning commission originally favored," he said.

Engineer Jim Scharl of Kieft Engineering said the negotiations took a long time.

"Thanks for persevering," said Richard Oppmann. Other members of the planning commission also voiced approval.

"I'm really impressed with this sub," said Steve Secatch. "That's the type of residential development the community wants."

Deerwood III consists of 160 lots on 182 acres, north of Deerwood I and Deerwood II subdivisions, extending from Elkrum Drive and Deerwood Drive. The two access points to M-15 are to be from Cranberry Lake Road and Deer Ridge Drive, two existing roads.

A tentative preliminary plat shows the intentions of the developers and includes the layout of the roads, utilities and lots. Further approvals from the planning commission and the township board are required before construction can begin.

Well tests for contaminants continue

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

State officials are continuing to track the flow of hazardous materials in the Northview Drive, Perry Lake Road area that so far have contaminated 19 wells. They're trying to find out which direction the contaminants are flowing and how fast they're traveling, said Lois Elliott Graham, environmental sanitarian from the Michigan Department of Public Health.

Restaurant manager robbed, beaten

A 40-year-old fast food manager was robbed and beaten April 29 as she was making the night deposit at First Federal Savings Bank and Trust on M-15 in Independence Township.

About 10 p.m. Saturday, the manager stepped out of her car to make the deposit from the Dixie Highway, Independence Township, Burger King, when a hooded and masked man ran from around the building, punched her in the shoulder and tried to grab the deposit bag, according to a report at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

The bag fell to the ground, and the manager fought with him to retrieve it. The robber pushed her down, grabbed the bag and ran away, according to the police report.

The manager, who slightly injured her shoulder and knee in the struggle, returned to Burger King to call the police, who tracked the suspect with the canine unit but did not catch him.

Police are still looking for the suspect, who is possibly young and who wore a black winter-style mask and hood over his face and a black cotton ski jacket.

The amount stolen was not determined yet, said OCSO Detective Sgt. Doug Hummel.

Gas spill ignites in township home

Spilled gasoline was the cause of a house fire April 30 on Eastlawn in Independence Township, which caused $5,000 to $6,000 damage.

About 1 p.m. Saturday, an elderly couple were sitting in the ground level of their two-story home, when the dog barked and ran to the basement door. Thick, black smoke was pouring from beneath the door, said Capt. Steve Ronk of the township fire department.

Firefighters had the situation under control within 15 minutes, but the gasoline smoke left thick, oily, black residue in the entire house. Some of the basement contents were also damaged, he said.

About 20 minutes before the fire began, the man had moved his lawn mower from its storage spot in the basement. Apparently, he knocked over a gas can, and 3/4-gallon spilled on the floor, said Ronk.

"It just vaporized and found the gas flame on the hot water heater," he said, adding the spill was within five feet of the heater.

"It's a constant reminder not to store gasoline in houses," Ronk said.

Gasoline should be stored in a closed metal container outside and away from anything combustible, he said, adding that lawn mowers and motorcycles should not be stored in houses, either.

In addition, the couple's smoke detector had dead batteries and did not go off. If the fire had begun in middle of the night, the damage could have been much worse, Ronk said.

"Smoke alarms are so cheap now, everyone should be able to have one," he said.

Walls decides to run

Springfield Township Supervisor Collin Walls, who has served in that capacity for the past 12 years, has decided to run for the position again in November.

"I've decided to run for re-election," Walls said. "The bottom line is, I haven't found anything I enjoy doing more most of the time."

As of May 2, five petitions had been taken out in Springfield Township, four for the park commission and one for library board, but none had been filed.

Every elected township position, including seven township board seats, six park commission positions and six library board positions, will appear on the Nov. 8 ballot.

Springfield Township residents interested in running for a position still have time. Petitions with at least 26 registered voters' signatures (and a maximum of 100 signatures) must be filed before 4 p.m. May 31.

Petitions are available in the township offices, 650 Broadway, in downtown Davisburg.

"We know pretty much where the contaminant is right now," she said. "I don't know if it's going to get worse or how far it will go."

In May and June of 1987, 19 wells were found contaminated with ethyl ether. Some contained freon-type compounds and one showed benzene - a non-chlorinated hydrocarbon, which is a cancer-causing substance associated with landfills or gasoline.

Since then, residents have been using bottled water for drinking and cooking and are to be connected to the township's municipal water system this summer.

The contaminants are probably coming from an about 33-year-old landfill that was abandoned about eight years ago on Clarkston Road, Graham said.

So far, the peripheral tests north of Clarkston Road between Perry Lake Road and Wampole have not shown contaminants, Graham said.

In July or August, wells are to be tested on M-15 between Northview Drive and Clarkston Road and further east on the north side of Clarkston Road.

Wells on the south side of Clarkston Road will be tested on request if the state has the manpower and the laboratory time, she said.

They're not scheduled for testing this summer because the contaminants haven't yet reached the wells between the suspected source, the landfill, and the further wells, she said.

"We don't want to get too far (off the track)," she said, adding they want to find the direction of the flow.

The Department of Natural Resources is to apply for state money to monitor the west side of the landfill to see catch the contaminants' migration if they ever travel in that direction, said Graham.

The state doesn't have enough information on the geology of the area, so they can't predict what contaminants will come next, where they will travel, how fast they will go through the soil, or how dangerous they might become, she said.

She also can't predict if open water, such as Parke Lake or the Clinton River, will be affected.

"The (materials) are pretty volatile," she said. "If they do make it to the surface, it will dissipate quickly, so I'm not too worried about that."

At a recent public meeting about the contaminated wells and the connection to the township water system, Graham distributed a survey to the homeowners, asking for any and all information about their wells, soils and other geological information.

She asks that they return the information as soon as possible because she is leaving June 30 on maternity leave.

For more information, call Graham at (517) 335-9175.

Developer says he'll appeal

Planners deny Deer Lake site condo plan

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Criticism flowed both ways across the board table April 28 during discussion over the proposed Village West Condominiums off of White Lake Road, near Deer Lake.

The 1 1/2 hours of talk ended in a planning commission denial of the conceptual site plan for the nine homes and a disgruntled developer who said he would appeal the decision to the Independence Township Board.

Voting to deny the project, which rests in the township and the Village of Clarkston, were Carol Balzarini, Joseph Figa, Jo Fussman and Steve Secatch. Voting against denial were Bruce Mercado and Richard Oppmann. Chairperson Brent Bair was absent.

The plan had already received approvals from the Clarkston Village Council and the Clarkston Planning Commission, subject to the township's approval regarding the entire site, particularly the wetlands.

At the township commission meeting, Balzarini made the motion to deny conceptual approval. "It violates the intent of the Independence Township Wetlands Ordinance," she said.

Developer Rudy Lozano objected and said the commission was dealing with flood plains - not wetlands, - and the township did not have a flood plains ordinance. Therefore, the commission should only consider whether or not the proposal meets ordinance requirements, he said.

"That's been your problem for years," said Lozano. "You address private roads. It's not under your purview. You're not the (zoning board of appeals). You address the flood plains. It's not your purview. It's up to the (Department of Natural Resources).

"You're creating an obstacle that's going to force our developers to take legal action. People have the rights to do certain things with their property. ... You don't have the legal right to (address this)."

Balzarini responded with: "The community of which they are all a part is within our purview. ... I don't like the concept. I don't believe you should be building in the flood plain."

Before the 4-2 vote to deny, the commission discussed wetlands, flood plains, a road easement across the property and overnight boat storage at the lake access site.

Oppmann, who also serves as chairperson of the wetlands board, said the .65-acre pond would not require a review by the wetlands board but would require an administrative permit by the building department. The DNR would be responsible for overseeing the filling of the flood plains area and the filtering system for the pond, he said.

Balzarini voiced concern that the DNR might not be strict enough and said the lawn fertilizers might eventually make their way to Deer Lake, even with a filtering system built into the pond.

"Technically, the wetlands are very small. ... But Deer Lake is a wetland, and this has an impact on Deer Lake," she said.

Township Planner Richard Carlisle said the DNR has performed well with flood plains in the past: "The DNR has one of the most restrictive flood plain ordinances in the entire country," he said.

If the commission is concerned, the wetlands ordinance should be changed to address flood plains, he said.

Fussman said the DNR permit and the easement problem should be resolved before final township approvals are given.

"It seems to me like we're getting the cart before the horse," she said. Fussman also stated that boat docks should not be allowed at the lake access site.

Deer Lake area residents expressed concern over the road easement and boat storage.

Hillside resident Roy Haeusler said the road easement leading to his property has existed since 1888.

"It's been in the same place all that time," he said. "When they used the road as a logging road, they had the sense not to take it through mucky, swampy ground."

The new route is proposed for soft ground that would need to be dug out and refilled, and it might not be possible, he said.

"We don't want to be unreasonable. ... This is indeed a problem. If the job is to be done, it's because only one house (in the condominium plan) is affected by it," Haeusler said.

Gary Zabel of Phelan Drive lives on Deer Lake and did not favor boat storage at the condominium access to Deer Lake.

Even if the deed forbids overnight mooring (which isn't the case in the Village West proposal), it's up to property owners to enforce by lawsuits, he said.

"What you're doing is pitting property owner against property owner," he said.

The site condominium plan is like a small subdivision, only the condo association would own the land, and the homeowner would own the building site, in which a house of any design could be built.

The condo association is to provide garbage removal and lawn and road maintenance, and no boats are to be launched from the beach property.

Maintenance upgrade

A new mower is joining the fleet of maintenance equipment at Lakeview Cemetery, which operates under the Department of Public Works in Independence Township.

W.F. Miller Co., Novi, submitted the low bid of $5,872 for an Excel Hustler 251, and the township board voted 5-0 to accept the bid.

The cemetery is located on White Lake Road.

Opinions

Logically speaking

Kathy Greenfield

Trying to make some sense of it all:
The weather finally improved - and I came down with a cold.

Trouble trickled in last week when someone (people who catch colds are innocent victims, so I won't name names) in the office walked through the front door carrying a box of Kleenex.

Of course, the source could have been the person at home who sneezed, coughed and sniffled through several days a week or so ago.

Tracking germs is one small solace in the world of warm weather colds.

Does it mean that you're a left brain person if you try to find a logical explanation for everything - or is this yet another symptom of being a Virgo?

I was shocked when I rolled up to my house last weekend and found my never-sit-still husband merrily planting flowers everywhere.

"Eeek! It's too early to plant," screeched I. I had to soften. The yard looked terrific. And our neighbor Elizabeth was enthusiastically working by his side.

When a 5-year-old little girl tells you, with smiles and enthusiasm, that all these plants are in the ground in your honor because Mother's Day is only a week away, you quickly dump all thoughts of unplanning and stashing flats under cover for a month or so.

Thus, I joined in on the fun. There's one major plus to planting and weeding this early - no mosquitoes.

The negative, of course, is that in order to know when to provide protection for our young plants, we'll have to make it a point to listen to all weather reports, which can vary from hour to hour and still be wrong.

We were sitting in a family-type restaurant late one evening on a day when it turned a bit chilly after sunset.

The eatery's air conditioning system was still huffing and puffing away, however, and I was freezing.

After we asked, someone turned the thing off, only to have it return full force minutes later. The cooks turned it back on, they guessed.

We moved to a nearby table in a less drafty location.

When we reached our car, I remembered seeing the keys sitting on the table next to my husband - at our first location. He went back inside to retrieve them.

Middle age is heck.

"Yes, there is a catch to our retirement plan. First you have to get hired."

Tribute to moms

On April 2, I was in Florida celebrating my parents' golden wedding anniversary. Five weeks earlier, I thought my family might not celebrate that joyous occasion.

My mother suffered a heart attack, followed by triple by-pass surgery, followed by stroke symptoms that, fortunately, were not followed by a stroke.

There she was on April 2, looking radiant. She and my father stood there beaming while family and friends celebrated with them. It was worth it all.

This was "pay back" time. They had raised three, well, sometimes "difficult" kids, and we were just happy to show them how much it was appreciated.

As I raised a son myself, that appreciation grew. Being a mother, indeed, isn't always easy. Images of my "brattier" behavior came sharply back in focus many times as my son grew to an adult.

And even when kids have grown up and left the nest, I discovered a mother never stops agonizing over her children's trials in life.

Children don't come with instruction books, like microwave ovens or washing machines. Mothers just do the best they can to raise them, by instinct, I suppose, and by the examples set by mothers before them.

So Mom, to you and all mothers on May 8, here's a standing ovation.

Support was wonderful

I would like to thank my friends and neighbors for all of their overwhelming and never-ending support during my illness.

I would also like to thank the Independence Township Fire Department for their quick response and caring ways in my time of need.

The visits, flowers, cards, phone calls and balloons that I have received over the last few months have been absolutely incredible. If it weren't for all of your help and the help of area churches, I would have never made it through this difficult time.

All of you have been such good friends to me, and I will never forget everything that you have done for me while I was at home and during my lengthy hospital stay.

My sincere thanks,
Amy Elden

Jim's Jottings

The saloons in Cave Creek, (pop. 2,500) Arizona are a study of the Old West. I've been in that area about six weeks over the past three years, and while I don't go to one a day/night, I have hit my share.

One of them, Cave Creek Corral, formerly Harold's Place, was the backdrop for a movie two years ago.

It was all cowboy. "Locals" hung out there. The decor was early manure, with worn out cowboy boots nailed to the ceiling.

I say "was" because in the last year some restaurateur from Pittsburg (he has three places there according to his wife) put a million bucks into Cave Creek Corral. He tore it all apart and put it back together so it looked the same as it was before.

It was in the old Corral that Peter Kalohn strolled into one afternoon and loudly stated, "Show me a cowboy and I'll show you a coward". A craggy faced cowboy came forth (they're all craggy faced), looked down at little Peter and said, "I'm a cowboy!"

Kalohn looked up at him and said, "Well, I'm a coward. Let me buy the house a drink."

Along saloon row there's Crazy Ed's saloon, Horny Toad saloon, The Tree House saloon, and the Mine Shaft saloon, to name a few.

My son, Jim, was told to not miss the Mine Shaft. His mother and I, along with Charlie and Chic Drumheller of Oxford, decided to see if the place was ok for our 93-year-old son.

Here we met Sam the bartender. First I'll try to describe the Mine Shaft. Condemnation would be too good for it. Codes couldn't be written for the plumbing, electrical and heating. Air conditioning was by nature.

The barstools must have been worn out when they were carried across the desert by Sam Houston or Pancho Villa. You couldn't see the floor. The exterior was extremely rusted corrugated metal.

As for Sam, she was very friendly. She said, "You'll have to come to our party tomorrow (Sunday). It's our first annual closing party." Are you closing, we asked? "No, it just sounds like a good name for a party. It starts at three, but be here before dark. The regulars have to be home before dark."

We couldn't reject such an invitation. We arrived at 4:00 with our kids, having decided it wouldn't hurt them if they stayed close. Now then, if Harold's was for locals, the 'regulars' at the Mine Shaft must have been the reception committee for them.

I never saw such bow legs, so many badly worn boots and 10 gallon hats and plaid shirts and... it was cowboy.

The chorus line, made up of women's bodies God had imaged for a laugh and decorated with clothes designed by Ma Kettle, put on a second show just for us.

A choreographer would have upchucked at the sight, but, wow, did they, and we enjoy it.

And, we found out why the regulars had to be home before dark. They could never make it home after dark.

This place, like Harold's, has been sold. I'd understand if they bought new stools, but I hope they keep Sam and the rest of the atmosphere.

Letters to the Editor

Call for courage

Until recently, The Clarkston News had a rather strict policy of not publishing anonymous letters.

Not too many months ago, you permitted a letter to be published that personally attacked Fontie ApMadoc. A great many people, including myself, were shocked and angered. We hoped it would not happen again.

Last week, however, you printed an anonymous letter ridiculing the Independence Township Planning Commission.

Maybe you thought the letter was a "gut bustin hoot" as the author so cleverly described one of our planning commission meetings.

It seems to me that if someone is going to call us "bumkins," he should have the courage to sign his name.

What you may not know or have chosen to ignore is that this anonymous author is one of COG's so-called "surveillance team" sent out to monitor us and report back to COG.

If this is his public view of the planning commission, I can just imagine what kind of report he's giving the rest of the group in private.

I have stated before and I will state again, COG is apparently not interested in an informed opinion. This situation only serves to further erode the credibility of the group.

Carol Balzarini, Vice Chairman
Independence Twp. Planning Commission

Editor's Note: Our long-standing letter policy includes that "we may withhold names on request, but we will not publish unsigned letters." Accordingly, the author of the letter in question is not anonymous to us. We do not know if the letter writer is a member of the Citizens for Orderly Growth (COG) "surveillance team."

Think about future

Clarkston, a place that has grown incredibly, a good place to raise children in an excellent atmosphere. I should know, I have been here since I was eight, 12 years ago.

One of the reasons my family chose Clarkston was due to the excellent schools. Clarkston schools have had an excellent name across the county as one of the tops in the county.

People moved into the village and the township and so the population increased and the community prospered economically as property values went up.

Now we are faced with some problems, the millage, and the district needs help! The schools are overcrowded, the student-to-teacher ratio is climbing and we can not pass a millage.

No one who turned the millage down understands what the ramifications are on the future. They do not realize the long-run side effects.

If the millage does not pass this June, we can say goodbye to Clarkston as the community we presently enjoy. Eventually people will not be as anxious to move to Clarkston, so the property values will go down (simple supply and demand).

And like a few people I know, more will move out to better school districts, to leave Clarkston only a scarce shadow of what it once was.

I personally would never move back to Clarkston after what I have seen, a great number of hypocrites.

The Deerwood and Deer Lake (the village of Clarkston included) is the precinct to turn it down. You are the people who say how wonderful it is and prestigious it is to live in Clarkston, and then will not vote for a tax increase.

My question is, why won't you vote for the increase? Could it be you are overextending yourselves to keep up with the "Joneses" or are your children in private schools so it does not matter to you.

Well, if you can not afford the tax increase because you are so far into debt, may I suggest you learn to sacrifice, at least for the sake of the young minds that need a good, solid education.

They are the most valuable natural resource we have and it is on your shoulders when you vote.

I have talked to some of the teachers and students and they are frightened: If only you knew how you are going to hurt the students, just as a new and better curriculum was being developed.

Now instead of preparing students you will be making them suffer, because of your prudence or over-indulgence.

I do not mean to insult anyone by far. What I am trying to get across is that damage has already happened, so let's stop the walls from falling and work on repairing the ceiling.

So say "YES" June 13, or you and only you are to blame for making Clarkston suffer. Please think about the future.

Copper was there

The Michigan Humane Society sponsored the 5th annual Rosey Mutt Derby at the Michigan State Fair Coliseum on May 1, in conjunction with Be Kind to Animals Week (May 1-7).

When registering, each contestant received a green silk ribbon for participation. Entry fee was $5 and proof of registration and rabies vaccination was required.

The "runner" from Clarkston was Count "Copper," being classified as a large dog (25 inches at the shoulder) and assigned to run in heat 8.

Copper, who is a great sprinter and loves to run, run, run, but under his familiar conditions and surroundings, did not do so good. He was nervous from the beginning on.

When he was supposed to run from the starting line (held by an unfamiliar volunteer) to the finish line at the other end of the Coliseum (where owners were calling their dogs and encouraging them to run), he was completely mixed up, distracted by the many people and other dogs and the loud noise all over.

He did not know what he was supposed to do and just stood there, frightened. Finally he started slowly to walk to the side barrier, where a Humane Society handler held him until I came back to pick him up. He was shaking all over, and was overjoyed to see me and walk away to safety.

Did anyone else participate from Clarkston?

Inga Girschner

Growth concerns

Why do people move to Independence Township? Is it the peace and quiet, fresh air, good water, good landscape, good schools and good houses?

If the answers to those questions is yes, then how do we preserve these desirable things?

For one, we must discourage the kind of growth that will threaten the desirable things in Independence Township. On the other hand, we must encourage preservation of the desirable things in our township.

How do we provide new employment opportunities for our residents?

Although this is a support problem and not a habitation problem, cities such as Pontiac, Flint and Detroit are best suited for more factories, more employment opportunities and greater populations.

How do we create new employment opportunities for Independence Township residents in the big cities?

This can be efficiently done by the cooperation of Michigan's local, regional and state officials to create incentives to large manufacturing and research and development enterprises and to determine the best

'If it Fitz ...'

Jim
Fitzgerald

My car was Younged last week.

That's a joke. Actually, my car was stolen. I said it was Younged to poke a little fun at Mayor Young and the City Council, which just changed the name of the downtown riverfront from Civic Center to Colman A. Young International Civic Center.

Detroit already has a recreation center and a school named after Mayor Young. His name is on our buses, parks and other public projects; it's on the water tower at the Detroit Zoo in Huntington Woods. So, in the spirit of putting Young's name on things familiar to most Detroiters, I said my car was Younged.

It was Diane Edgecomb, president of the Central Business District Association (CBDA), who proposed the area including Hart Plaza, Cobo Hall, Ford Auditorium and the Veterans Memorial Building be named after Mayor Young in honor of his upcoming 70th birthday.

Tattoos all around.

Edgecomb also announced the CBDA is dedicating its annual festival at Hart Plaza May 20 to the mayor and has asked association members to celebrate his birthday by contributing a gift that will help beautify the waterfront. It's expected that members who come up with an appropriate gift will be rewarded with an attractive reproduction of Young's name tattooed on their bodies, exact location optional.

And everyone earning a tattoo will be allowed to jump into the Detroit River at the exact moment it is officially renamed Young's Pond.

But back to my missing car. It's undoubtedly unfair to imply Mayor Young is solely responsible for local crime, even though he did recently fracture good sense by authorizing a cut in the police force.

Or even though it's extremely unlikely there will be a grass-roots movement to name a typical low-income Detroit neighborhood after Young. Unless the name is Coleman A. Young Domestic Theft and Arson Center.

I realize it's churlish to say my car was Younged, but the awful statistics explain my unreasonable attitude: In almost 50 years of living in other cities, I never had anything stolen. During just the past six months here, cars belonging to my family have been stolen and/or broken into four times while parked in front of or behind my home. And I live in Lafayette Park, one of Detroit's best neighborhoods, within easy sight of police headquarters and a Greektown full of cops.

If the latest theft didn't add to such a dismaying total, it would be funny. It proved that obvious poverty is no defense against theivery. My newly Younged car is 11 years old, with a horrible anti-rust paint job (by me) and about 130,000 miles on the odometer. The only reason I kept it was to drive to Tiger World Series games. I thought no self-respecting thief would take that car as a gift.

Clubs, but car still missing

And, to add to the ironic merriment, I first learned about this urban crime from Dennis Spaulding, golf pro at the plush Tam O'Shanter Country Club in West Bloomfield. Spaulding phoned me Wednesday after a Detroit pawnbroker phoned him. Someone had just pawned the golf clubs from my car trunk, and Spaulding's decal was on the golf bag, left over from long ago, when he worked at the Lapeer Country Club where I was a member. The pawnbroker knew Spaulding and Spaulding knew the Jim Fitzgerald whose name was lettered on the bag.

To give you an idea how old those clubs are, I won them in a raffle in which the winning ticket was drawn by the baby-faced, first-term Republican U.S. representative from Flint, Don Riegle, who could barely afford campaign bumper stickers. Today, Riegle is a craggy-faced Democratic U.S. senator with more than $2.5 million in his campaign chest.

And the name on the clubs is "Gay Brewer." If Brewer were a well-known golf pro today, he'd surely changed his first name to Giddy. Unless Diane Edgecomb persuaded him to become Young Brewer in honor of the mayor's birthday.

Actually, my Younger car and golf clubs are so old, I don't care if I never get them back. I'd rather have one of those tattoos where I can sit on it.

Independence completes $6.7 million budget

The third and final phase of the $6,728,635 budget for 1988 was adopted April 14 by the Independence Township Board.

The $406,080 capital budget - for expenditures over $1,000 for items that would last three years or more - was approved in a 5-1 vote. The adoption required a $215,030 appropriation from the general fund surplus, a move that drew criticism from one board member.

After the meeting, Clerk Richard Holman explained the board members' positions.

Trustee Dale Stuart, who cast the only no vote, said the capital budget adoption would bring the general fund balance to one of the lowest points in many years, said Holman. In addition, Stuart said, the proposed budget was much too high and the board should be exercising greater fiscal restraint.

Other board members, however, thought the surpluses in the improvement revolving, vehicle and equipment, and budget stabilization funds, combined with the remaining general fund surplus, would leave the township with sufficient reserves, said Holman.

The about $500,000 total surplus is over 10 percent of the general fund budget, which is the recommended minimum fund balance, said Holman.

Voting in favor of the budget were Supervisor Frank Ronk, Treasurer John Lutz, Holman and trustees Carol Balzarini and William Vandermark. Trustee Daniel Travis was absent.

The township budget is adopted in phases to allow more time for discussion with more accurate figures, said Holman.

The $6,295,370 operational budget was approved in December 1987. Since the fiscal year ended Dec. 31, and the holidays created fewer opportunities for meetings, the board did not adopt the $27,185 budget covering non-union salaries until after the new year, Holman said.

"It was always a controversial enough issue, ... that we didn't want to tie up the operation portion by discussing salaries," he said.

The capital budget was not adopted until the figures for the 1987 fund balances were available in March, said Holman.

Following is a list of the proposed capital budget expenditure portion of each fund:

General Fund ($227,165 total): Vehicles, $15,800; equipment, $60,715; land improvements, $85,150; building improvements, $65,500.

Fire Fund ($121,000 total): Vehicles, $70,000; equipment, $36,300; building improvements, $14,700.

Water and Sewer Fund ($37,800 total): Vehicles, $32,800; equipment, $5,000.

Library Fund ($20,115 total): Equipment, $7,115; building improvements, $13,000.

Actual expenditures must be approved by the township board.

Boundary expansion is public hearing topic

Business people and residents have a chance to voice their opinions Tuesday, May 17, on the proposed new boundary lines for the Downtown Development Authority (DDA).

A public hearing is to begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Independence Township Annex, 90 N. Main St., Clarkston.

The township board proposed April 19 to widen the boundaries to include more of the southern portion of the township, such as Independence Square and the commercial frontage on Clarkston Bluffs Condominiums on Dixie Highway, and the Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital (POH) parcel at the corner of Dixie Highway and White Lake roads.

Trustee Daniel Travis noted that the POH-owned parcel was not included in the DDA originally because the corner was zoned residential.

"Now that the master plan is amended, ... (that) portion should be involved in the DDA," he said.

The DDA was established in Independence Township to improve sewer, water, lighting and landscaping on parts of Dixie Highway and M-15 in the township.

The DDA is financed by a tax increment financing authority, which captures the taxes from that area and uses the money for improvements to that area only. No additional taxes are required, and residents from other areas are not taxed for the projects. The DDA does not use school tax money.

suitable land in the state for the enterprises to be attracted to the state.

What can we do in the way of incentives? Property taxes, utility rates (and the ability of utilities to serve the enterprises), labor costs, product supplier costs and shipping costs (rates trucking firms and railways charge) are all important factors that enterprises consider when they locate a factory or R & D center in Michigan, so when costs are reduced and services are improved, the incentives increase for enterprises to locate facilities in Michigan.

What about the high property taxes in Independence Township? High property taxes are the result of millages being passed by Independence Township voters.

If voters do not want a millage passed they should vote no on it. Deficits, however, usually result in township government and school board requests for millage increases.

How do we control spending in township government and the school board? Power is like a magic wand, those that have it want to make a lot of people happy as if there is no cost or pain to anyone else. As you see, the results of this can be devastating. Discipline is the heart of efficiency.

54 condos OK'd

Following a short discussion, Sashabaw Creek Meadows received final site plan approval for 54 site condominiums on 121 acres.

In a 5-1 vote, the Independence Township Planning Commission gave the final OK to the project west of Sashabaw Road, north of Clarkston Road, near Independence Oaks County Park.

Voting yes were Jo Fussman, Joseph Figa, Bruce Mercado, Richard Oppmann and Steve Secatch. Chairperson Brent Bair was absent.

Carol Balzarini cast the only no vote.

"I have opposed this project from the time this property itself was rezoned, and I will continue to oppose it," she said.

In the past, Balzarini objected to the density of suburban farm residential, which allows a 1.5-acre minimum lot size.

A site condominium allows the condo association to own the entire subdivision except for a 150-foot by 200-foot lot or building envelope owned by the resident, where a house of the resident's design is built. The association would be responsible for upkeep of roads, driveways and lawn and garbage disposal.

Cable firm gets $3,000

Cable Telecommunication Consultants of Virginia will get a $3,000 budget from Springfield Township to review the technical and financial aspects of a cable television proposal submitted by North Oakland Cablevision.

The Springfield Township Board gave unanimous approval to the decision on April 14.

At the March meeting, the board voted to give North Oakland first consideration as the provider of cable television service in Springfield Township.

Supervisor Collin Walls said the review should be completed in time for a recommendation at the May 11 township board meeting.

The township could have cable television service by late 1988 or early 1989.

A MAJOR MISUNDERSTANDING between Miss Wilkinson (played by Judy Rood) and Philip Markham (Vern Vackaro) causes Markham some embarrassment during this scene from "Move Over Mrs. Markham." The Clarkston Village Players' season finale opens Friday, May 6, for a three weekend run. Details are in Around Town on Page 33.

on the remaining portion. The township master plan calls for office on the parcel.

Set in a campus-like setting, a two-story, 20,000-square-foot medical office would be constructed in the center of the site. On both sides, one-story buildings totaling about 18,000 square feet would be leased for retail space, said Heil, of Smith/Schurman Associates, Bloomfield Hills.

Parking would surround the center, which would include "a pedestrian environment" with brick walkways, benches, lighting and landscaping between buildings and at entrances, he said.

The buildings would be set in a zig-zag pattern to lessen their impact on passers-by, and the entire parcel would be screened from the adjacent residential property on Northview Drive.

Board says no to railroad repair

Grand Trunk Railroad got a thumbs down on its request for money from the Springfield Township Board to repair a crossing on Andersonville Road.

Materials to repair the crossing ranged from $12,000 for a more permanent, rubber material, to $2,500 for timber. The board voted unanimously to reject the company's request.

"I'm appalled that we're even being asked to contribute, but I am also concerned about the condition of the crossing," said Supervisor Collin Walls.

"Somewhere we have to say no," said Trustee Charles Oaks. "This is a private company asking us for help (to repair their railroad crossing)."

Grand Trunk will, as they have in the past, repair the crossing anyway, Walls said, but it will be "in their manner" and not a permanent fix.

It would be on a smaller scale than the grocery store and shopping center proposed for the site in 1986 by different developers, which was denied the proper variances to build on the site, he said.

PAID's proposal of an all-brick building with a sloped, green metal roof has "a more residential character," giving an image of a "village-like, historical context," he said. "This development will be like a gateway to the Village of Clarkston."

Developer Tim Affolder said he hasn't signed contracts with those who would lease of the space, but the medical offices would be leased tomorrow - even with the abundance of medical offices already in the M-15, Dixie Highway area.

"Apparently, everybody comes to Independence Township to get well," he said.

The tenants of his site will probably target the higher income of the area, he said. Small specialty stores, such as a men's clothing store or a Merchant of Vino-type cheese and imported beer and wine store, would be ideal, he said.

The space is not for fast foods or carry-outs, he said, and although he hasn't advertised for the space yet, he's received inquiries from three upscale, sit-down restaurants.

Reprieve for farmhouse

A three-month extension was granted for the use of an old farmhouse for a construction office for Newport Condominiums on Clarkston Road, Independence Township.

At the request of developer Frank Walker, the township board extended the deadline to use the farmhouse, across from Clintonwood Park, from May 1 to Aug. 1. After Aug. 1, the farmhouse is to be burned in a practice session for township firefighters.

The office is to be used only for construction business, not for sales. The sales office is to be located in a model condominium, said Walker.

Kids learn computers are fun

Students in typing classes of yore also held their fingers on "home row," snuck glances at the keyboard and grimaced now and then as they hit the wrong keys.

The difference in this modern-day class is that the pupils aren't in high school, they're fourth-graders at Clarkston Elementary School learning "keyboarding."

All fourth-graders in the Clarkston school district

have taken or are in the midst of taking the four-week class that meets one-half hour daily for a total of 10 hours of instruction.

For their lessons, they use a battery operated keyboard that can provide feedback on speed.

Their instructor, Barbara Mack, was hired by the district one-quarter time this year to provide the lessons. Her other job is teaching word processing on computers to Oakland Community College students.

To say Mack is enthusiastic about her first-time experience teaching elementary school pupils is putting it too mildly.

"Their little minds are like sponges," she says. "You should see what they can do."

Mack was one of the teachers pink-slipped by the board of education on April 25. If the operating millage proposal fails on the June 13 ballot, keyboarding classes for elementary school pupils, and her job, will be eliminated.

The Rochester resident takes a philosophical approach to the possibility, saying, "While I'm here, it sure is a lot of fun," and continuing with more positive comments, including "It's a wonderful program," "Coming out to Clarkston has been my delight," and "The young people have responded fabulously to the program."

Mack also has positive things to say about the support of teachers she's met in the district.

Ruth Kelsey, teacher of the pupils photographed during the keyboarding session, illustrates that attitude with her opinion of the program.

"I'm happy that they are getting this instruction so early, so they can develop accuracy and speed that they will need as adults when working on computers," she says.

Real estate developer plans M-15 office site

Plans for a 10,300-square-foot office were approved in concept for 1.2 acres off M-15, north of I-75 in Independence Township.

Architect David Katz presented the plan for the two-story "Williamsburg-style" professional office to the planning commission April 28, and the commission voted 6-0 to approve it. Chairperson Brent Bair was absent.

"It's a nicely executed plan," said Joseph Figa. "I'm impressed with its completeness. The architecture looks like it will be very compatible to the area."

Developer Ozzie Jackson said he hopes to finish the building by May 1989 and plans to use the space for his company, Jackson Real Estate Development.

The site is zoned highway commercial and is near The Michael Group, on the east side of M-15.

Two more approvals are necessary from the planning commission before construction can begin.

Free concert May 11

A free concert featuring the music of artists ranging from the Beatles to Glen Campbell will be performed by the Clarkston High School Mixed Chorus and Chorales on Wednesday, May 11.

The Kirchgessner Theater will be decorated to represent a "gym dance" and the students will dress accordingly.

The one-hour concert, beginning at 7:30 p.m., will include the music of Simon & Garfunkel, Juice Newton, "Hair," John Denver, Buddy Holly, Neil Diamond, Stray Cats, the Beach Boys and the Carpenters.

Another attraction is the work of Karl Strommen. He represented a strong influence of jazz to young people in the 1970s with such standards as "Boogie Woogie Boy," "Rockin' Robin," "Blueberry Hill," "The Peppermint Twist" and "Rock Around The Clock."

PAM MILLHENSCH, D.D.S.

New dentist in town

The distinction of being the only female dentist in Independence Township belongs to Dr. Pam Millhensch, who joined the practice of general family dentistry of Dr. Michael Prudhomme on April 27.

A 1987 graduate of the University of Michigan Dental School, Millhensch previously worked at clinics in Detroit and Sterling Heights.

"I'm real excited about it," she said. "Because I've worked in large clinics before, this will give me more opportunity to make more decisions."

Prudhomme has practiced dentistry for 10 years in the Pine Knob Professional Plaza, 5649 Sashabaw, Independence Township. He, too, is pleased with the addition.

"There are a lot of people that would rather see a woman dentist than a man. There are certain people that prefer a male dentist. I think that's why it's a nice mix," he said.

Millhensch, a Bloomfield Hills resident, would like to become involved in the Clarkston community by speaking to preschool to high school classes. Her topics range from dental health to careers in dentistry.

Business Briefs

Sunburst's 1st birthday

On May 8, Sunburst Garden Center celebrates its first anniversary.

Owners of the business at 1160 Ortonville Rd. (M-15) in Brandon Township are Rich and Bonnie Hale.

"I feel very positive about it," says Bonnie. "I have really enjoyed it, more so than I thought I would. The people that come in are enthusiastic about the things they see here."

Woods joins staff at Insight

William Woods is now on staff as a substance abuse therapist at Insight at Colombiere, a residential program for the treatment of chemical dependency.

Currently working on his doctorate degree, Woods has a bachelor's degree in psychology and a master's degree in social work from the University of Michigan.

Before joining the Insight staff, he worked at Boysville of Michigan, a residential care treatment facility. While serving in the military, Woods saw an epidemic level of substance abuse and put together a successful substance abuse program.

"More extensive work needs to be done in the area of cocaine abuse," he said. "There are particular needs associated with this seductive drug that require special treatment."

Since 1978, Insight at Colombiere has provided a comprehensive, carefully supervised program of recovery, which emphasizes the importance of individual, family, employer and aftercare in the overall recovery process.

The treatment facility is located at the Colombiere Center, 9075 Big Lake Rd., Springfield Township.

Bauer receives certification

Mary Bauer of Bordine's Better Blooms of Clarkston has received certification from the Michigan Association of Nurserymen.

To qualify as a Michigan Certified Nurseryman, she was required to have practical experience in the industry, pass a written test reviewing the basics of the industry and commit to a continuing education process.

Brecht on Homearama team

Thomas G. Brecht, a Clarkston area resident, has been named to the Homearama committee. He is vice president of Standard Federal Bank in Waterford Township.

Homearama is a multi-million dollar cluster of new homes built for public display by the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan.

The sixth annual Homearama opens with a spring run, May 25-June 12, at Dunham Pointe subdivision on Dunham Road, just east of Heydenreich Road, south of M-59 and east of Romeo Plank Road in Clinton Township.

Help the elderly

People who are active in baking, gardening, reading, letter writing, stamp collecting, mime, singing, acting, woodcarving, basket weaving, painting or any other hobby can share their interests and provide needed interaction with the elderly at the same time.

National Nursing Home Week is May 8 to 14, and Grovecrest Care Center, Clintonville Road, Independence Township, would like to share the week with the community.

"The elderly have a lot to offer, and people can enrich their own lives through the experiences of the elderly," said Erin Asdell, activity coordinator at Grovecrest.

"Whatever a person's talent or interest is, there's a way to incorporate it here," said Asdell.

The week's theme, "Respect: The Heart of Caring," provides a good reason for visits from classrooms, student clubs and other community organizations or individuals, she said.

Sashabaw Junior High Cougars 7, Pierce 3

April 19 - Matt Smith was the winning pitcher for the host Cougars. He also knocked in two runs.

Darren Masters collected two hits, two stolen bases and two runs scored to help pace the offense.

Jimmy Jenkinson had two hits and two RBIs, Tony Miller had two RBIs and Eddie Langton added two hits. Cougars 10, Holly 8.

April 20 - Masters fanned five batters in two innings of work and was the winning pitcher. George Crouch picked up the save for Sashabaw.

Mike Corcoran went two-for-two at the plate with a double, and Roger Cohoon and Jenkinson each added a triple and RBI for the winners. Langton continued his hot hitting with a run-scoring double. Crary 5, Cougars 4.

April 21 - Playing their third game in as many days, the Cougars finally lost their first game of the season against an unbeaten Waterford school.

"It was a good game," said Coach Tom Smith. "There were a couple of breaks here and there, and we had a busy week and probably were a little tired."

Corcoran knocked in one run with a double, and Tom Hackbardt turned in strong performances at the plate and in the field.

He had two hits, including a double, and two RBIs and played steady defense in the field, said Smith. Cougars 8, Lapeer East 6.

April 27 - Visiting East started off fast with three runs in the first inning, but the Cougars were able to rally to win the game.

Chris Wasilk pitched the first four innings of the game, but Smith picked up the victory in relief when Sashabaw scored four times in the bottom of the fifth.

Hackbardt had two hits and knocked in one run. He also made a great catch to end a Lapeer East rally.

Jenkinson was aggressive on the basepaths and helped at the plate with a triple and two runs scored.

Mike Stanton had an RBI single, and Masters scored two runs.

Clarkston High varsity Wolves 4, Waterford Kettering 3 (8)

April 25 - Ben Underwood pitched the final inning and picked up the victory in relief of Jeff Tungate.

Tungate fanned 11 batters during the first seven innings.

Big hitters for Clarkston were Zach Brown and Doug Bronson with two hits apiece. Matt Carson collected one hit and two RBIs.

The victory upped the team's league record to a perfect 3-0.

Wolves 11, Lakeland 10

April 26 - The Wolves' bats were booming as five players in the home uniform hit home runs.

Clarkston pounded out 13 hits. Carson topped them all with three hits in four trips to the plate, including a home run.

Mike Peel, Tungate and Underwood all had two hits and a homer as well. Brown's lone hit for the day was a four-bagger.

Erik Mackson, who pitched three innings of five-hit ball, struck out two batters and was named the winner.

Clarkston Junior High Lake Orion 12, Wolverines 1

April 24 - The visiting Wolverines were stymied by an excellent pitching performance by the Dragons.

Clarkston only managed three hits in the contest. Mason 9, Wolverines 4.

April 28 - Kevin Juzysta smacked a home run to start the game, but Mason turned out to have too much horsepower for Clarkston.

Jerrod Johnson also had a home run among his two hits for the day.

The team hit the ball well, said Coach Bill Bildstein, but were not able to score much because the hits were spread out.

"We didn't bunch them together," he said.

Errors costly for JV Wolves

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Errors came back to haunt the junior varsity softball team during its four games last week.

The Wolves split the games, and their record stands at 8-4 as of May 1.

Coach Al Cuthrell, in his first season at the helm, hopes to teach the girls a strong work ethic before the year ends.

"We are cruising along pretty well," he said. "They (the players) have looked a lot more mature lately."

Clarkston started the week with a close, 6-5, loss to Waterford Kettering on the road April 25. The Wolves got out of the gate quickly and held an early lead in this one.

Unfortunately, several errors by the Wolves allowed the Captains to take the lead. Clarkston then rallied to tie the game in the top of the last inning before giving the game away with more errors in the bottom of the seventh, Cuthrell said.

The following day, Clarkston traveled to Lakeland to face the Eagles. The Wolves broke loose offensively in a 13-5 rout.

Michelle Sykes and Rebecca Poche paced the attack with three hits apiece. Jennifer Roselli, Andrea D'Aiuto, Shaun Wilson, Jennifer Wagner and Laurie Highlen all added two hits to the attack.

The team as a whole collected 17 hits in the game. After a rainout on Thursday, the Wolves returned to action Friday afternoon at home against league rival Lake Orion. The two teams split the double-header.

In the opener, the Wolves pulled out an 8-3 victory. Clarkston had eight hits in the game. Roselli made three hits and Wagner two for the Wolves.

The game was close most of the way, the coach said.

In the second game, the visiting Dragons responded with a 5-2 victory in five innings. When double-headers are scheduled, the first game goes a regulation seven and the second goes five innings.

Errors helped Orion capture the win in the second game, the coach said.

"We have to learn to throw more accurately," he said. "We have to strive for perfection."

While the team as a whole has shown improvement from day one, Wagner and Roselli both played well last week, the coach said.

Wagner, who is the team's designated hitter, is hitting the ball with authority. Roselli, on the other hand, is an excellent bunter. She has two bunt singles this season.

Clarkston returns to action Thursday with a double-header against Brandon at 3:30 p.m.

JENNIFER ROSELLI gives it her best shot by sliding into first base but the umpire still calls her out to end the inning during a junior varsity softball game last week.

Girls track team ready for Huskies

Just as they did last season, the girls track teams from Clarkston and Pontiac Northern are on a collision course toward the league title.

The Huskies barely beat out the Wolves for the Greater Oakland Activities League title last season when they were the host team for the league meet.

This time around, Clarkston will be the home team during the league meets and they hope results will be in their favor.

The Wolves tuned up for their May 10 confrontation with Pontiac Northern by whipping both Waterford schools recently. But that doesn't mean Clarkston will cruise through the rest of the schedule.

"The league is as good as a year ago," said Coach Gordie Richardson. "Pontiac Northern and Lake Orion are tough."

Against Kettering on April 19, the Wolves coasted to a 98-30 victory.

Celeste Steinhelper won the high jump with a leap of 4-foot-8. Kettering's Amy Foltz finished as the runner-up, two inches behind Steinhelper.

Ali Fediot took first in the discus with a throw of 103-2 1/2 well ahead of the competition. Kathryn Bowers, of Kettering, was next in line and her toss was less than 86 feet.

Cindy Lundsford won the 100-meter hurdles with a time of 18:62. Teammates Brie Michelsen (19:30) and Sarah Kortge (20:00) finished right behind her to sweep the event.

The young hurdling crew of five girls is a bright spot on this year's team, the coach said. With a little more seasoning, they should be a force to be reckoned with.

"It takes a long time to develop hurdlers," he said. "If they continue (to excel) we will be very good next year."

Clarkston picked up another sweep in the 100 dash as Jane Selent (13:50), Michelle Folwell (13:73) and Michelle Baker (13:83) shut out Kettering in the event.

Continuing the success they enjoyed in cross country, the distance runners keep on winning.

Kate Conlen (5:46.44), Sonya Schaffer (5:48.2) and Meredith Green (5:51.03) swept the 1600 run.

Other winners for Clarkston included Nicole Chinavare in the 400 dash, Green in the 800 run, Selent in the 200 dash and Schaffer in the 3200 run.

All four of the Wolves' relay teams won. Clarkston also beat Waterford Mott recently. (See scoreboard for details.)

Richardson said Clarkston will host its first girls invitational meet on May 14. Right now approximately six teams have accepted, including some from the Flint area.

"There will be some good speed," he said. "The scores will be spread out."

Getting better

After a slow start, the varsity baseball team's record is creeping back over the break-even mark.

The Wolves helped themselves last week, winning three-of-four games, including two-of-three against Greater Oakland Activities League rivals.

But as with the spring weather, the Wolves have been running both hot and cold early this season, said Coach Roy Warner.

"Things have been predictably unpredictable so far this season," he said. "One game we get 17 hits and the next, two. Hopefully, the weather will stay warm and we will be able to string a few (wins) together."

Clarkston started the week with a single game at home against Waterford Kettering. The Wolves pulled out a hard-fought 4-3 victory in extra innings on April 25.

Ben Underwood, in relief of Jeff Tungate, was the winner. He pitched the eighth - and final - inning. Tungate fanned 11 Captains during his seven innings on the mound.

Clarkston exploded the following day against Lakeland at home for five home runs, resulting in a 11-10 victory. The Wolves pounded out 13 hits against Lakeland pitching.

Carson paced the team with three hits and a home run. Mike Peel, Tungate and Underwood all had two hits and a home run. Brown also knocked one over the fences.

Clarkston then visited GOAL foe Lake Orion for a double-header on Friday. The two teams split the twinbill.

Lake Orion took advantage of a few Clarkston errors in the first game to score five unearned runs off Tungate, who allowed only one earned run to cross the plate.

Despite the good pitching, the Wolves lost, 7-4. The defeat was the first league loss for the team this season. Only the first game of a double-header counts in the league standings.

Jim Shuttleworth got the nod for the Wolves in the nightcap and responded with a good performance. He struck out nine batters and walked one to pick up the victory.

Aaron Hesse hit a home run and went three-for-three at the plate to pace the offense en route to a 13-5 victory.

Weather report

Peter Auchter

Track and field events used to be a good summer activity. Tank tops, shorts and plenty of sun are what it's about.

After the lousy weather of late, I must say the track meets in the rain, hail, snow, wind and cold are kind of neat to watch - from the press box with the heater on full blast.

I thank the Lord for a small favor like this.

I can't even imagine what it must be like - are there no rainouts in track? - to play a sport out of season.

It makes for a miserable situation for all. One statistician couldn't even get his car keys out of his pockets after a recent meet because his hands were frozen. This happened during the final week of April.

This is insane.

It's not the way the sport is supposed to be played. It's like Arena Football. Very unnatural and weird. Someone may become emotionally impaired if this goes on much longer.

I'm just about ready to ring the scrawny little neck of that old spring-predicting groundhog.

Other spring sports like baseball, softball and soccer are no better off.

Umbrellas, blankets and space heaters are becoming more and more common. Of course, all it takes is a few days of sun and everyone will be breaking out the suntan lotion in search of a savage tan.

That's Michigan.

For now, though, everyone is content just to stay semi-warm and dry. I just keep dreaming of summer. It helps me cope a little better.

During one of the more pleasant days during the past few weeks, I had an excuse, oops, assignment that got me out of the office for a couple of hours.

I had to watch, oops again, report on a Clarkston High softball team.

Just before gametime, a friendly umpire remarked, "On days like these, you have the best job in the county."

I just nodded my head in agreement, not really considering what he said.

When I got home that evening, I happened to notice the faint tan lines developing on my arms. (I have got to learn to take my watch off more this summer.)

I guess the ump was right this time.

But true to Michigan weather, the fans and I were back to shivering a few days later.

Oh well, at least no one can say the spring season has been dull and boring.

Soccer team ends week with 'nightmare'

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Injuries were girls soccer coach Hana Olsen's worst fear heading into the spring season.

Her fears turned into "a nightmare" Friday evening during a 2-1 loss to Greater Oakland Activities League rival Waterford Mott at home.

The defensive-minded Wolves were missing Karen Lowe and then sweeper Shelley Purdy had to leave the game for a few moments when she was shaken up on the field.

Because there are only 12 girls on the team, Clarkston played shorthanded while Purdy was recovering on the sidelines.

Mott scored its first goal of the game just after Purdy left the field. Both of the Corsairs' goals were the result of Clarkston defensive miscues.

"Nothing went right for us," said Olsen. "We did everything we were not supposed to do."

The loss was the team's second in a row (the other was against Lake Orion; see scoreboard for details) and left the Wolves' record at 2-2-2.

Clarkston had many offensive opportunities in the game but were continually frustrated by Mott. The score was tied 1-1 at halftime and the Wolves continued to press the visitors but couldn't put the ball in the net.

"I think we had something like 24 shots on goal - in the second half," the coach said. "It was a totally frustrating evening."

But even in defeat, some good things were mixed in with the bad.

Tami Mitchell played well for the Wolves, Olsen said. Also, the team wasn't expected to be a powerhouse this season anyway.

"Two losses isn't all that bad," she said.

Clarkston got on the board first in the game against Mott on a goal by Jackie Jablonski. Mott managed to tie it up when the Wolves' goalie Sue Haran and the defense got their signals mixed up.

In the second half, Haran made several excellent saves to keep the ball out of the net. Mott picked off a rebound from a diving save, however, and booted it in for the game-winning score.

Clarkston's problems in this game were easy to point out.

"No one could get on the ball," the coach said. "It was a bad game."

The team received more bad news over the week-end when it was determined Purdy would have to miss this week's game against Milford on May 4 due to a strained knee.

The problem could have been worse, but Fenton canceled its game against the Wolves on May 5, said Olsen. With only one game scheduled, the team will get a chance to lick its wounds and hope they heal.

Olsen is confident the team will be able to bounce back in style after disappointing back-to-back defeats.

"We'll give it a good shot," she said. "Everyone will work hard."

It's 4am. What's a nice guy like me doing in a life like this?

What I'm doing is looking for the kind of girl who is not the kind of girl who would be at a place like this. Looking to meet someone like me.

But with women, like life, anything is possible.

Not easy, but possible.

ERIC PHILLIPS pitched excellently against Lake Orion Friday afternoon but still was a tough-luck loser.

Lack of offense

Along with every other spring sports team, the junior varsity baseball team has suffered through an unseasonably cold spell.

Unlike a few others, however, the Wolves managed to get out of a frigid April with a winning record. As of May 1, the team's record stood at 6-4 overall and 2-2 in the GOAL.

Waterford Kettering hammered Clarkston on April 25 with a 14-2 victory, but the Wolves didn't let the big loss get them down. They rallied for a 16-8 win over Lakeland the next afternoon.

Eric Phillips had a hot bat, going four-for-five at the plate and knocking in five runs. Todd McGauchlin and Tony Simmons each had two hits.

After a rainout on April 28, the Wolves hosted Lake Orion for a double-header on Friday.

The visitors won both games by one run, as the Clarkston bats fell silent.

Eric Phillips and Kevin Keilitz both pitched excellent games for Clarkston yet lost due to lack of support, said Coach Kurt Richardson.

The Wolves led, 1-0, heading into the top of the seventh and were only two outs away from victory when the Dragons rallied to score two runs. Lake Orion then hung on for a 2-1 win.

Things didn't get better for the home team in the nightcap, as the Wolves lost a squeaker, 3-2.

They have reason to be proud

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Fifty-one young people were recognized for their special efforts in the community by the Clarkston Area Youth Assistance at its annual Youth Community Service Award Banquet on April 28.

The banquet took place in the Clarkston United Methodist Church on Waldon Road, with entertainment provided by The Sashabaw Junior High Encores under the direction of Jan Merz.

The presentations were made by Gregg Seaman, coordinator of SCAMP, Louise Parker and Sylvia Carter, co-chairpersons of the youth recognition banquet. Carter presented the first annual Al Carter Memorial Award for Outstanding Campers in honor of her late husband, who was active in Youth Assistance for 24 years.

Following the presentations, Judge Norman Barnard from Oakland County Probate Court praised the young people honored, saying, "They've shown responsibility and they've done something for someone else, and that's a very great thing."

He also praised the parents, adding that "they deserve a plaque, too."

Speaking to a full house of sponsors and supporters of Youth Assistance, as well as parents and volunteers from many other community activities, Seaman summed up the evening in three words: "Aren't you proud?"

Following is a list of the youth honored and the community activity in which they were involved:

Summer care sign-up

Registration for the summer session of the 1988-89 LatchKey Program starts May 9.

Necessary forms must be completed plus the $10 fee must be paid at the Clarkston Learning Center, 5275 Maybee Rd., between 7:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

The office will be open until 6:30 p.m. on June 1 and 7 to accommodate those who work.

The fall session registration begins on June 1. The hours for late registration are the same as above.

Pupils recognized for academic skill

Eleven seventh- and eighth-graders from Sashabaw Junior High School participated in the seventh annual search for academically talented junior high students by the Center for Talent Development of Northwestern University.

Certificates of recognition will go to Renny Abraham, Jennifer Baumann, Steve Bowers, Robb Colbrunn, Melissa Fletcher, Stacey Frodole, Natalie Luhrs, James Miller, Stephanie Ranta, Tonya Strong and Jennifer Zamora.

The students qualified for the program by scoring in the upper 5 percent on verbal or mathematical portions of standardized achievement tests.

Some of them took the College Board's Scholastic Aptitude Test in January, which is usually taken by high school juniors and seniors, to provide more information about their abilities. They also received information about summer programs available for the academically gifted.

"It's definitely an honor, being selected," said Karen Engle, a counselor at SJHS.

"We have students that score right up there with what high school seniors would score," she added. "It's just amazing how well they can score on these tests. It's really mind-boggling."

The Center for Talent Development serves eight midwestern states. Over 25,000 students participate in the talent search each year.

Handbell choirs to stage benefit show

Four handbell choirs are performing in "A Spring Ring" on Sunday, May 15, at the Clarkston United Methodist Church.

"It's a fund-raiser to send adult choirs to the handbell festival in November in Flint," said Judy Mellen, director.

A featured number is "This Is my Father's World" with brass timpani and organ accompaniment.

Performing in the 7 p.m. concert in the church sanctuary will be the Carillon Ringers and Jubilate Bells, adult groups; the Chapel Ringers, a junior high group; and the Angelus Bells, a fifth- and sixth-grade group.

Refreshments will be served following the concert.

Tickets may be purchased at the door for $4 for adults and $2 for senior citizens and students or at the church office, 6600 Waldon Rd., Clarkston.

Springfield gives cash to 2 groups

Holly Area Youth Assistance and Clarkston Area Youth Assistance, both of which serve Springfield Township, received contributions of $1,500 each from the township this year.

Dick Jacobson and Doug Quinn, representing

Leaky roof to be fixed

A roof repair should temporarily stop the rain from entering Fire Station No. 3 on Maybee Road, Independence Township.

A 2,300 square-foot area of the roof is to be repaired for $6,246 by Bud's Roofing, Pontiac.

The township board approved Bud's Roofing's low bid at the April 19 meeting. Construction is to begin at the end of May.

The fire fund does not have enough money to replace the entire roof, estimated to cost about $13,090, said Assistant Chief-Fire Marshal Gordon Mason, adding the repair should help for a few years.

Holly Area Youth Assistance, were at the March board meeting to request the donation and thank the board for its support. Garry Pullins, of Clarkston Area Youth Assistance, was at the April meeting for the same reason.

The contributions were up $100 from the $1,400 donations last year.

Both youth assistance groups have expanded their efforts aimed at the prevention of delinquency, building children's self-worth and strengthening family ties through such programs as PLUS (one-on-one relationships with an adult and child), teen drop-in centers, summer camps, counseling and education.

At the April meeting, Pullins recognized the township board's liaison, Jackie Brown, for her help with Youth Assistance.

He also concurred with a comment Trustee William Whitley made at the March meeting following the contribution to Holly Area Youth Assistance.

Whitley's comment was, "We gave $40,000 to chlo-ride and only $3,000 to kids in the budget. We should consider more money for the kids in 1989."

Township aids OLHSA

The Springfield Township Board approved a donation of $500 to the Oakland Livingston Human Services Agency (OLHSA).

The donation was specifically for the field services operation, including the Outreach Program of OLHSA, which coordinates resources in Springfield and Rose townships in the Davisburg area.

Supervisor Collin Walls was against the donation to OLHSA, saying, "I think OLHSA should reassess their priorities."

He mentioned the OLHSA kitchen as an example of poor spending, but he was quick to praise the Outreach Program of OLHSA.

"The one-on-one Outreach Program does an exceptional job," he said.

The motion for the $500 contribution passed on a 4-3 vote. In addition to Walls, Clerk J. Calvin Walters and Trustee Charles Oaks voted against it.

Adoptive mother faces new challenge

BY CAROLYN WALKER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Cathy Sabo has to be one of the beautiful people. She's compassionate. She's courageous. She's a credit to her cause: Motherhood.

Motherhood did not come easily to Cathy, 37. She went through three tubal pregnancies, other miscarriages and in vitro fertilization, then endured seven years on a waiting list before finally adopting her first baby, Amanda, with her husband Bob three-and-one-half years ago.

A short time later, life was in full bloom at the Sabo house when adopted son Robby came to stay.

Sadly, the Sabo family was destined to suffer a terrible loss. Bob died of a heart attack, at 38, before Robby could celebrate his second birthday.

It has been four months since his death and Cathy is picking up the pieces of her life admirably.

As she does so, she pauses to consider, often, the feelings of the children's birth mothers.

She respects them for their courage in making the difficult decision to give up their children.

She sends them letters and pictures and sometimes talks with them by phone. Knowing that they wanted their children to grow up in a two-parent home, she wonders how she will tell them about Bob's death.

"They selected us because we were this wonderful couple," Cathy says. "They didn't want single parents."

Cathy and Bob, who met both of their children's natural mothers before birth, adopted their children privately.

Amanda came to them as the result of a newspaper advertisement, Robby as the result of a friend who knew about his birth.

Someone else had advertised for him, she says. Robby was promised to that couple, who later rejected him because of health problems he suffered at birth.

Because private adoptions are illegal in Michigan but not in Kansas, the birth mothers went to Kansas for their deliveries then gave over their children to the Sabos.

In accordance with the law, no fees were paid to the birth mothers.

Cathy says that she and Bob were nervous about meeting the birth mothers. "It was scary for us. We wanted them to like us. Once we met, we were so glad we did it."

Robby, who spent time in the intensive care unit because of his birth problems, will someday have the thrill of seeing his first days of life on film. A video was made at the hospital which includes him, Bob, Cathy and his birth mother. "We shared caring for him together because he was in ICU nine days," Cathy says.

Cathy believes that having met the birth mothers, she will find it easier to explain their adoptions to the children when the time comes. She also has letters for the children from their natural fathers explaining why they adoption agency advisory board and co-chairperson for the Child and Parent Services support group, a separate entity.

were adopted.

"It's almost like there was a bond built between us before the child was born," she says, adding that she doesn't feel in the least threatened by the women.

"I have a lot of faith in the birth mothers. If they came to my door today, I'd probably just invite them in. I don't feel threatened by that."

Instead, she says her worst fear is that she will be inadequate as a single parent. "I've always felt kids need a mom and a dad. I know I'm a good mom, but I'm still just a mom. That's the thing that scares me the most."

It's clear when watching Cathy interact with her children that she will meet the challenge. They bound noisily in and out of her lap with that special spark of life reserved for happy children.

"I wanted a baby. My husband wanted a baby," she says, wistfully. "I don't ever want to forget what it was like to want a child and not have one."

New college grad is 'Mom' to five

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Graduation is taking on a whole new perspective for the Law family of Independence Township this spring.

On April 30, Michelle Law, 21, graduated from the University of Michigan, magna cum laude, with a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree.

On June 15, Wendy Law, 18, will graduate among the top 10 in her class from Clarkston High School. And in between, on May 5, their mother, Joanne Law, will receive her Bachelor of Science in Nursing degree from Wayne State University. She, too, will graduate with magna cum laude and was recently inducted into Sigma Theta Tau, International Honor Society for Nursing.

Joanne and her husband, Chuck, have six children. With the two oldest, Michelle and Jody, 20, in college, and the other four, Wendy, Jamie, 16, Meghan, 11, and Shaun, 9, at home and attending Clarkston schools, Joanne returned to college to complete studies for her nursing degree.

"It's been such a busy life with six children, I guess the empty nest syndrome got to me," Joanne says. "I want something to keep me busy when the kids are gone."

Joanne became a licensed practical nurse after graduating from high school, but didn't work while the children were young. When Shaun, her youngest, was near school age, she went back to college.

"If I waited for him to be 18, I would be too old to go back to school," she says.

She began her studies at Oakland Community College, earning her associate's degree, but the nursing program was full, so she applied at Wayne State University, and received a two-year merit scholarship for the nursing program.

She began her college studies part time for three years, then full time for three years, studying between household chores and on Sundays.

Graduation is special this year for the Law family

JOANNE LAW, mother of six (five girls and a boy), poses by photographs of two of her daughters. All three women are celebrating graduations this spring.

"I'm used to the bustle of family life, so it was not distracting when I studied," Joanne says.

Her family was very supportive. Chuck, who owns a lounge in Madison Heights near Hazel Park Raceway, arranged his schedule around his wife's. He prepared some of the meals, and the children each had various chores to do around the house.

Joanne's last class was April 26, just in time to prepare for her oldest daughter's college graduation April 30.

The family gathering was a celebration of both Michelle's and Joanne's college graduations. They will have an open house in June for Wendy's high school graduation.

"It's been hard work," Joanne says of her imminent graduation. "And I feel I've been a good role model for the children. They see Mom working on homework."

"The children are proud of my accomplishments and I'm proud of theirs," she adds.

Joanne interviewed and was hired the same day at Detroit Receiving Hospital. She will take the summer off and begin her new career in the Pulmonary Intensive Care Unit in September, working three 12-hour shifts.

"That way, I will have four days at home," she says. It will be the best of both worlds.

SELLING YOUR HOUSE?

By Kay Kelley

Your Real Estate Investment

Do you think of yourself as a big-time investor? You may be a very successful "investor" if you own your own home. Housing has traditionally been a TOP INVESTMENT.

Now, if you've done well with your investment, doesn't it make sense to protect that equity when you sell, and get the best price you can?

History indicates that sellers who take advantage of an agent, end up with a better price than the do-it-yourselfer does—better enough to cover the commission, in most cases. There's no hassle about advertising, staying home to show the property, or dealing with unpleasant strangers.

Sell your home the easy way. CALL TODAY AND ASK FOR KAY.

Backstage mom:

Mary Schulte makes sure the show goes on at Bailey Lake

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

She stands in front of the stage, coaxing, encouraging and directing young performers. Some of the children have come to her with their own acts. For others, she has created parts. Mary Schulte, a former professional dancer and currently a teacher as well as a musician, is director of the Bailey Lake Elementary School talent show for the third straight year.

This year's show, called "A Rainbow of Talent," is scheduled for 7 p.m. Tuesday, May 10, in the Bailey Lake Elementary School multipurpose room. The pupils will also perform for Grandparents Day and a volunteer luncheon at the school.

Three years ago Schulte helped Bailey Lake PTA and the school's principal Doris Mousseau organize a talent show. Linda Lewis coordinated the show and Patti Hopcian helped with rehearsals.

Like Schulte, Lewis and Hopcian have grade school pupils at Bailey Lake who participate in the show. But another perennial helper, co-director Salma Stimmel, helps Schulte just because they are friends and she enjoys it. She has no children at the school.

Schulte's husband John and Stimmel's husband Burkhardt also help with the show, putting together sound and lighting.

For the past two years, Schulte has been able to rehearse during school with the pupils. This year, she graduated from Oakland University with a degree in elementary education and took a teaching position in the Rochester school district. Talent show time is a little more hectic.

"But the first year, we only had two weeks to prepare," says Schulte, who also has a 3-year-old, Carl, as well as her second-grader, Jessica. "This year, we started way in advance, because I knew I wouldn't be able to rehearse with them as much."

The show has grown tremendously, she says. They have over 70 students participating, with acts that range from song and dance routines to a comedy news act. Other Bailey Lake pupils' artwork will be displayed and writings will be done as dramatic readings, to music. "We wanted to include all of their talents," Schulte says.

More parents are involved, too, Schulte says. There is a large committee of parents helping in many capacities with the show.

"It's going to be a wonderful show," says Mousseau. "We're fortunate to have someone with Mary's qualification's to help." Schulte has performed for about 10 years professionally, but she remembers the times as a child when she performed in school productions.

"There's a tremendous feeling of accomplishment and success when the students get up on stage," she says. "It's very encouraging for their self-esteem."

"In rehearsal, they're just having fun," she says. "But when there's an audience, I can see the change in them. Their faces just beam."

MARY SCHULTE, director of the Bailey Lake Elementary School talent show, works with pupils during rehearsals before the May 10 show.

Junk drawer: the sequel

Suzanne Baumann

Nearly six months ago, I wrote a column that I used to clear out all the "junk" from my mind.

The purpose of the article beneath your eyes, if you haven't guessed already, is to supply an outlet for my head's spring cleaning.

To start with, I'd like to express my feelings toward a certain contemporary hair style worn by many young women lately.

I'm talking about the bangs that are forced by curling irons and hair spray to back-bend to the crown of the head, resulting in something that looks like a hairy piece of sewer pipe up top.

No offense to the people who wear their bangs this way, it looks OK, I suppose, but why do you do it?

It takes longer to style than the average, and besides, it's impractical. Wearing hats and walking through low-hanging doors just mess it up, not to mention spitballs.

I have seen many a school girl emerge from a rowdy classroom with little wads of paper rolling around in her "hair tunnel" in the same manner of a skater up a concrete wall.

So I admit it: If it wasn't for style and artistic expression, I'd do nothing with my hair but wash, comb and maybe have it cut when it grows too long.

Some predictions:

● In the future, blenders, hair dryers and vacuum cleaners will be considered musical instruments.

● Before the end of this century, two new successful versions of "Dancing in the Streets" will be recorded.

● Some wise guy is going to cast Shelley Long and Martin Short in the same movie because he likes the sound of those names together.

I don't adjust to change very well. For the past couple years, our family has purchased tooth paste in a pump. When we got a tube for a change, I actually squeezed from the bottom up and replaced the cap when I was through! When we used tubes regularly, these were things I would have never dared to do.

Small birds seem to have the biggest voices.

There always seems to be a dead animal on Dixie Highway between the Clarkston Cinema and the apartments across from them.

Crying while lying flat on your back will just get your ears wet.

How many people really use those pull-strings to open Band-Aid wrappers?

The people who need to listen the most always seem to be the ones who refuse to hear.

What percentage of the air we breathe has been inside a balloon at least once?

Will the human race ever learn the importance, if any, of mosquitoes?

If gold fish were really made of gold, they would sink.

I recently read a true story where a boy my age poured gasoline on his live dog and set fire to it. I've learned that when a sick story is fiction, I laugh. When it's factual, however, I can only ask myself over and over, "Why?"

In February, people always seem to get a craving for watermelon.

As a student, the most frequently used excuse I've heard this year is, "The millage didn't pass."

When writing, never use, "Ha!" as a complete sentence; especially in a business letter.

Is there anything more annoying than water-resistant watches on bands that aren't waterproof?

Who is going to be around to blow up the world six times?

To keep a mannequin standing, a metal pole is used to prop it up. In order for the dummy to wear pants, a hole is cut out for the pole to go through. Who wears those pants when the display is changed?

In a way, it's good to be a little ignorant. We wouldn't drink sugar/caffeine-free pop if we concentrated on what is in it instead of what isn't.

If we stay alive long enough, we'll always find at least one reason to live.

When a child's toy claims to "stimulate the imagination," compare it with an empty paper towel roll.

In elementary school, the school bus driver always thanked me for throwing my used tissues in the wastebasket at the front of the bus. If any of you readers are in the same situation, let me say this: She's thanking you for keeping the bus clean, not because she's hard-up for tissues.

There should be more ice cream trucks on the freeway. If there happened to be a traffic jam, at least we wouldn't go hungry.

About dandelions: Some people think they're flowers, others say they're weeds. Some find them very useful, others consider them pests. Some people harvest them, others like them killed!

They're either considered beautiful or ugly. Pick one, and no matter what you do, it leaves a stain that won't wash off for quite a while. How many people do you know that identify with the dandelion?

Some say the sequel of a movie is never as good as the original. I think now I have a little insight as to why.

BOBBY BRAZIER won the Clarkston Community School District Spelling Contest for Sixth-Graders by spelling eradicable, that which may be eradicated, or removed.

Benefit performance

A benefit performance of the Clarkston Village Players latest production, "Move Over Mrs. Markham" will be presented on May 18.

All proceeds from the show will be donated for the Class of 1988 Post Graduation Party for Clarkston High School seniors at the Deer Lake Racquet Club.

Tickets for the 8 p.m. performance cost $5 and are available in the office at Clarkston Elementary and at the Clarkston Learning Center.

The play will be staged at the Depot Theater on White Lake Road in Independence Township.

Sixth-grade spelling champ is 'honored'

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Bobby Brazier wiped out the competition with his correct spelling of "eradicable," winning the Clarkston Community Schools District Spelling Contest for Sixth-Graders.

Bobby, a student at Sashabaw Junior High School, won over runner-up Christy Swartout, a pupil at Clarkston Junior High School.

The district spelling contest was broken down into fifth- and sixth-grade competitions this year, explained William Neff, director of administrative services for Clarkston Community Schools, because there are sixth-graders in the elementary schools as well as the junior high schools. The district is in the process of moving all sixth grade classes to the junior high schools by the next school year.

The sixth-grade competition took place at the Clarkston Board of Education offices April 27. The top five spelling bee winners (plus one alternate) from each school competed in the district contest.

As the winner, Bobby won a dictionary. The runner-up, Christy, earned a Thesaurus, and all competitors received certificates and group pictures of the contestants.

"I felt honored and happy," Bobby said after the competition. He has been in spelling bees before, but never won.

He says his parents, Bob and Theresa Brazier, were proud, too.

Bobby plans to be a pediatrician when he grows up. And yes, he can spell that, too.

Friend to Friend

Set a good example

Dear Friend to Friend,

My letter appeared in the Feb. 10 Friend to Friend column. I signed it "Afraid to Drive." I had been in two accidents and said I would just as soon never drive again.

You advised me to confront my fear. At first, I thought this was kind of dumb advice, but I tried it and it worked!

You said to take it gradually by first sitting in the car in the driveway, and when I felt comfortable there, to drive down backroads. Now I'm driving all over town. I want to thank you, because I also tried this advice in other areas of my life, such as tests.

With driving, you start with the basics and keep adding until you overcome your fears. That is what I did about tests.

I always panicked and froze up, but now I read through the test all the way, then I go through and answer all of the ones I know right away, and, finally, I look over the others and answer them when I feel more relaxed.

I hope others got what I did from your advice. Thanks again.

NO FEAR HERE

Dear No Fear,

Thank you for the letter. It's always nice to know that we've been able to help someone.

Dear Friend to Friend,

I am planning to go to the prom with a group of friends. My problem is that they are all planning to drink before it.

I am not a prude and I have had drinks before at parties and stuff, but prom is kind of special. I have talked to my date about this and she says, "Don't worry about it. If you don't want to drink, you don't have to, but I am still going to."

We have been going out for a while now and I don't want to make a big issue out of this, but I'm afraid that

I'm going to feel uncomfortable. Am I being stupid?
STRAIGHT GUY

Dear Straight,

You don't mention what school you go to, but at Clarkston High School, if you get caught having consumed ANY drug, including alcohol, it is an automatic 10-day suspension. This might forfeit graduation.

Ten days out at this time of year could really hurt your credits. Besides this point, we think you will want to remember your prom.

This is a really big investment and being straight and having energy for fun to last through the whole night is what it's all about.

You can't do anything about your girlfriend's behavior ... let her know how you feel, set the good example, and we hope you have a blast! You will be respected.

Dear Friend to Friend,

I was going with this girl for about three weeks and I asked her to go to my school's prom. She seemed very excited and she said yes.

I bought the tickets, rented my tux and a limo. Then I found out she is seeing another guy and she doesn't want to go to prom with me anymore. I am so angry and hurt. Do you have any advice for me?

BATCHING IT FOR NOW

Dear Batching It,

This is not uncommon. Many people do not have a date for the prom. Our best suggestion for you is to not let the money you have already invested go to waste; try to find another date.

You don't have to take someone that you are seriously dating. Maybe you would have more fun with someone you consider a good friend.

We understand that you are probably hurt and feeling rejected, but this situation may turn out for the best. Try not to let your hurt feelings get in the way of making your senior prom a lot of fun.

Dear Friend to Friend,

My problem concerns my best friend. We have been friends for a few years now and enjoy doing stuff together.

However, it seems like every time we make plans, something happens and she can't make it or she's late. I've sat home many times when I was supposed to be going out.

Also, she always wants me to come to her house, but she rarely comes to mine. My mom is starting to bug me about all of this. I guess it's because she sees how upset I am when I get stood up.

I know it's not usually my friend's fault - she's just doing what her mom tells her. How can I continue to be good friends with this person and not get hurt by her lack of responsibility?

JUST WANNA BE FRIENDS

Dear Just Wanna Be Friends,

We can tell you are very frustrated, and you have every right to be. Step back for a minute and evaluate the importance of this relationship.

You can't change what her mother expects her to do. If you continue to make plans with her, you are setting yourself up for a fall.

We feel this girl isn't treating you like a real friend, and we are wondering why you are willing to put up with this. You might want to consider that maybe she is just using her mother as an excuse.

We recommend that you give this "friend" some space and start making plans without her. Don't ignore her, but don't depend on her so much. It sounds like you are a valuable friend but feel you deserve better!

Friend to Friend is written by a panel of Clarkston High School students working through Aware, an organization devoted to education and action against chemical abuse.

Mother's Day question

'How can
I keep my mother smiling?'

The plan was to print all of the answers the children dictated to their teacher and some of the portraits of their moms.

Then we saw the pictures drawn by the first-graders in Susan Powers' class at Andersonville Elementary.

So here they are, reduced to fit, 20 delightful drawings and the children's answers to the question: "How can I keep my mother smiling?"

Mrs. Powers created the question. The answers are certain to bring smiles to mothers everywhere - and to those who have mothers.

They're proof - once again - that children just being themselves are the greatest Mother's Day gift of all.

"I hug my mom when she is sad. I tell her good stuff, like the newspaper is here. I vacuum my room and the hallway. That is all I need to do to make my mom smile."

Dennis Cox

"I give her candy. She really smiles when I keep my 4-wheeler off the lawn. I clean my room even though I didn't mess it up - my brother did."

Joshua Stutzman

"I let her use my money when she needs it. I get the mail for her. When someone comes over, I go outside. I spread out the dirt we had in our yard. She paid me $10."

Micah Taylor

"I take the laundry to the basement. I help her clean the house. I hug and kiss her before and after school. I do goofy and silly things - like act like a clown."

Olivia McCune

"I clean up my room. Sometimes I feed my dog. I give her a hug and a kiss. I do my chores like dusting the house and vacuuming the car. I help carry in the groceries. I help cook dinner. She smiles at me when I am playing."

Lisa Rosenberger

"I clean my room. When I get in the mud, she smiles, but only if I have my play pants on. I give my dog a bath, which he doesn't like. I fold my clothes and put them in the drawer. She really smiled when I gave her a ring."

Jeff Green

"I feed the fish and the cat. I dress myself in the morning and walk to the bus stop all by myself. I make my own breakfast. I remember to put the milk back in the refrigerator."

Joshua Davis

"I help clean the house. I keep my room clean. I feed my dog and help cook dinner. She smiles when I give her a big hug. I almost forgot. I always help carry in the groceries."

Tinamarie Dominguez

"I feed the dogs. I take the dirty clothes to the laundry room. I give her a lot of hugs. I work hard to get four completes on my weekly progress report."

Scott Glyn

"I give her a Hershey Kiss. I hug her and kiss her. I clean up my room."

Katie Pierce

"I clean up my room. I give her a hug at night when I go to bed. I take her out to dinner. When I get good notes from school, especially the note I got from Mr. Wright."

Phillip Fortineas

"I feed my dog. She really smiles when I stay off my dad's grass seed. When I am excellent in school, she smiles. I fight with my brother and sister, but that doesn't make her smile."

Steffan Butler

"I fold our clothes and take them upstairs to put them away. I help clean up the house. I pick up my brother's clothes. I am quiet so that my brother can sleep. I write her letters and put XOXOXO at the bottom."

Laura Garner

"I help her clean the dishes. I give her flowers. I also help her clean the house. She has a big smile when I give her a kiss. I work real hard at school and I listen to the teacher."

Stacey Centers

"I keep my 4-wheeler at my friend's house so that I don't wreck up the grass. I pick up the newspaper from across the road. I mow the lawn and she pays me $50 for mowing 50 acres - that's $1 an acre. And that's about it."

Adrian Bassett

"When I get a certificate in my weekly folder. I do a lot of chores around the house. I give my dog his water. I also feed my turtle and fish."

Ryan Wells

"I help her wash the dishes. I help my mother give the dog a bath. I give her lots of hugs. When I put on my grandmother's hat and go outside dancing in my swimsuit, she smiles a lot. She even laughs."

Kara Upperstrom

"I go to bed when she tells me. I do all of my work at school. I clean my room. I play with my baby brother so that my mother can wash the dishes."

Susan Vagts

"I give her flowers. I clean up my room. I always give her a hug when she is sick. I get her things. Like this morning, when she had a stomach ache, I got her purse so that she could give me some lunch money."

Ron Wells

"I wash the dishes. I clean my room. I eat what my mother gives me for lunch and dinner. I tell her where I am going. I get her some tea when she wants it."

Scott Green

Berry good muffins

Soon it will be "berry season." Already fresh berries from warmer climates are available in the local markets.

Here's a bran muffin recipe that is wonderful with fresh berries. It is also delicious with apples, apricots, bananas, nectarines, peaches or dark sweet cherries.

FRUIT BRAN MUFFINS

- 1 1/2 cups whole bran cereal
- 1 cup milk
- 1 egg
- 1/4 cup cooking oil
- 1 cup all-purpose flour
- 1/4 to 1/3 cup sugar
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon finely shredded lemon peel (optional)
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1 cup desired fresh fruit

Chop fruit. (If using apples, bananas or peaches, peel first.)

In small bowl combine bran and milk, let stand 3 minutes or until liquid is absorbed. Stir in egg and oil. Set aside.

In separate bowl, stir together flour, sugar, baking powder, soda, salt, lemon peel and cinnamon. Add bran mixture all at once, stirring just until moistened. (Batter will be thick.) Fold in fruit.

Fill greased or paper-lined muffin pans 2/3 full. Bake in 400-degree oven for 20 to 25 minutes. Makes about 15-16 muffins.

Springfield adds summer programs

Several new programs have been added to the summer schedule in Springfield Township, according to parks and recreation director Sherry Swindell.

This year, Springfield Township will offer junior golf league, a two-week youth basketball clinic, outdoor co-ed volleyball and a walking fitness program.

The township also began a rental program for pavilions in two of the township parks, Mill Pond Park off Davisburg Road near the downtown area, and Karl Schultz Park, off Dilley and Davisburg roads.

Reservations can be made through Springfield Parks and Recreation, 625-9622. A minimal fee will be charged for the rental. Both pavilions have group grills and restrooms.

Golf and bowling leagues will be new offerings for senior citizens, and Swindell is organizing a "Friends of the Parks" group for interested residents of any age.

Other summer programs in Springfield are summer day camp, youth tennis lessons, swim lessons, and adult tennis and golf lessons.

Swindell is inviting teens to get involved as volunteers for special community events, and if there is enough interest, will also organize a teen group.

Registration for summer programs begins the first of May. Also the first of May, discount amusement park tickets will be on sale at the township offices in downtown Davisburg.

Plan 'C'

The Clarkston Community School District is, without a doubt, financially strapped. Well actually, it's more like financially strapped, slapped and assaulted.

So far, the school district has presented its solution to this problem in the form of Plans A and B. At this time, I would like to unveil Plan C - a light-hearted look at several forms of revenue as yet untapped by CCSD.

The first option that comes to mind would fit in line perfectly with the image and morals of the school district. It's a clean, wholesome effective way of raising quick cash.

Yes, ladies and gentlemen, I give you the Support Our Schools (SOS, incidentally) Bake Sale '88.

Think of it as one big community picnic. Imagine that - games, music, door prizes (as long as they cost under $1 and there are no more than three - we need the bucks) and, at 50 cents each, about 3.5 million of your favorite cupcakes.

Yes, Mom won't be out of the kitchen for quite a while.

Of course, fund-raisers don't have to be limited to just bake sales. Clarkston students could try their hand at selling candy door-to-door, with all students selling four tons or more and receiving as a reward a tasty treat from the CHS cafeteria.

Or maybe a walk-a-thon is the answer to Clarkston's empty coffers. Participants could find sponsors to give them a certain amount of money for each mile walked. So, anyone for a nice leisurely stroll to Beijing and back?

On the other hand, if the Clarkston Community School District isn't above taking a walk along the seedy side, a whole new door of alternatives could be opened.

phere and picturesque setting is just perfect for, let's say, a gambling casino!

I can see it now, Deer Lake Roulette Club - show girls, neon lights, bus trips, evangelists, little old ladies from Ohio blowing retirement money - a windfall of revenue!

And what about organized crime? What if they decide to set up shop? Organized crime invading Clarkston would be sort of like deer hunting with an Uzi - pointlessly easy.

Here's a flash! What if Ivan Boesky was our schools' superintendent instead of Milford Mason?

Sure, Boesky's probably still in jail, but we'd also be using Maseratis for driver training. And we sure as heck wouldn't be in this mess!

David Kwasnick is a Clarkston High School senior.

Pet of the Week

She's some cookie

Oreo is black and white (naturally). She's a mix, but nobody is sure exactly what of. She could be part shepherd, or beagle, or spaniel.

What the shelter staff is sure of is that the 29-pound, short-haired dog is very friendly and would make a wonderful house pet.

Oreo is already housebroken and is good with children. Approximately 1 year old, she's still in the "puppy stage" and likes a toy to chew on.

Oreo can be adopted at the Michigan Humane Society, 3600 Auburn Rd., Auburn Heights, 852-7420. Hours at the non-profit shelter are 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

The adoption fee for Oreo is $65, which includes her spaying before leaving the shelter.

OREO IS GOOD enough to keep.

A LIVING "WAX MUSEUM" was created by sixth-graders at Springfield Christian Academy. Virginia Winters, their teacher, "presses a button" to hear famous historical facts about Abraham Lincoln, portrayed by Jason Morga. Other famous people in foreground are Clara Barton (Kelly Hibbs) and Betsy Ross (Noel Winters).

Making history spring to life

Pupils portrayed the characters of: George Washington (Josh Armstrong), Pochontas (Joy Batt), Emily Dickinson (Candace Carnell), Thomas Jefferson (Brent Coursen), Abigail Adams (Amy Denyes), John Quincy Adams (Jeremy Eickholdt), Benjamin Franklin (Brent Ford), Martha Washington (Jenny Forsten), Mary Todd Lincoln (Shannon Gilbert), and Clara Barton (Kelly Hibbs).

Also portrayed were: Capt. Nathan Hale (Adam Koyl), Florence Nightingale (Wendy Lampkin), Douglas MacArthur (Aaron Lucas), Sir Walter Scott (Brian McNamara), Abraham Lincoln (Jason Morga), Davy Crockett (Allen Rockafellow), U.S. Grant (Andrew Vanaman), Robert E. Lee (Chris Vaughn), Louisa May Alcott (Angie Werner), Hans Christian Anderson (Andy Wall), and Betsy Ross (Noel Winters).

The pupils, who created most of the costumes themselves, also had to prepare three-page reports about their characters, according to Virginia Winters, the teacher who initiated the project.

Characters were taken from a second semester reading book, "Of America," Winters said, and helped the class better understand the backgrounds of the historical figures.

Encores in top 3

The Sashabaw Junior High Encores, under the direction of Jan Merz, were among 10 high schools and four junior high/middle schools that participated in the Northern Region Show Choir Invitational Festival at Macomb Community College on April 27.

Each group performed a 10-minute show for the other participants and a panel of judges.

At the end of the festival, the judges selected the three top groups to participate in a public performance that evening.

The Sashabaw Encores were one of the three choirs invited to return for the concert, which also featured the Magic Company, a select high school group sponsored by MCC, and the Maccombers, the college show choir.

This year's Encores include eighth-graders Bruce Avenall, Kristi Bailey, Jeff Coxen, Karen Dunham, Amy Holland, Gerry Kenyon, Pella Lazaris, Wendy McFalda, Brian Miller, Mark Peterson and Karen Taulbee.

Ninth-graders in Encores are Bill Barber, Heather Coxen, Chris Erickson, Erin Gaiser, Nichole Grutza, John Haden, Matt Howe, Lynn Parkinson, Hollie Tanney and Scott Tudor.

Beautiful balloon

Its flight launches friendship between third-graders and 95-year-old

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

With all of his third-grade classmates watching, Joel Stoner opened his neatly wrapped package slowly, to make the moment last longer.

Finally, his bundle fell open, and among the treasures, he found a battered bit of blue, which brought a smile as wide as his round cheeks would allow.

His classmates "oohed and aahed" and then set about busily opening their own packages, which rustled barely audibly beneath their happy chatter.

Once again, Joel's blue balloon had traveled the distance between Clarkston Elementary School and Uniontown, Ohio. This time, the U.S. Postal Service made the delivery.

Wednesday, April 27, was the sixth happy event in a saga of balloon-related activities that began when Sharon Wenger's class joined other third-graders in a balloon send-off celebrating leap year.

Joel's balloon brought the only response for his class - a letter from 95-year-old Elina Loutzenheiser, who received his airborne message Feb. 26, 11 days before her birthday.

The children were thrilled with her note and amazed at her 95 years, said Sharon. So they used crayons and colored markers and quickly sent off birthday cards.

Elina, with the help of her daughter Virginia Snively, who hand-made a beautiful thank-you card, wrote back, sending Elina's photograph and a newspaper article on her birthday surprise.

Virginia wrote: "You and your class will never know how much the children's cards have meant to my mother. She can barely see, but she sits with a magnifying glass and looks them over and over."

Once again, the children were surprised and thrilled, said Sharon.

"When she sent this picture, it really meant a lot because they could see what she looked like, this mystical woman," she said.

To show their gratitude and to share part of their lives with her, the children filled a hardcover book with pictures of themselves and sent it to her.

Then came the big surprise. A huge box arrived April 27 with a gift for every child. Packages for girls were topped with a comb. Packages for boys were topped with a pencil.

Inside were wall plaques, books of word games, and small toys that made the children squeal and giggle.

"She must know little kids real well because she really hit the jackpot," said Sharon.

Once again, Virginia wrote a message on a hand-made card, telling the children they had been very kind to her mother, and they wanted to show their apprecia-

She wrote: "My mother took everything out of one drawer in her dresser and put the things you have sent to her in it. She shows them to everyone. It was so nice of you to take the time to make the book and also for her to see pictures of the children."

As a double treat, the surprises arrived just in time for a birthday celebration for 9-year-old William Evans, whose mother baked cupcakes for the children that day.

The contact with Elina and Virginia has made the children feel good to be able to make someone else feel good, said Sharon, after the excitement subsided.

Already, they're planning their next step. First, the kids are going to mail individual thank yous, only two or three a day, so Elina will get continual mail for a while.

Next, Josh Pambid's mom, Lisa Pambid - who organized the balloon launch - offered to make a lap robe for Elina. Each child will make a hand print on a square and sign it, and it will be like a quilt.

Finally, the kids are going to make a video, with appearances from each child, who will speak to both women.

TEACHER SHARON WENGER and the children surround Joel Stoner as he pulls the ragged balloon remains that came especially for him from Elina Loutzenheiser of Ohio.

PACKAGES ARRIVED for each child in Sharon Wenger's third-grade class. Carin Kirk, 9, blows a bubble as she opens her gift with Cassie Sanford watching.

Insight at Colombiere: A place for healing

Adult alcohol and cocaine addicts find ways to change their lives

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

In the midst of 450 acres of tall trees and asparagus lawn, a large building rises, stretched across a hill, surrounded by the wind, the birds and other animals that share the forest.

The serene environment provides the perfect setting for Insight at Colombiere, which offers comprehensive treatment for alcohol and drug abuse.

"It's beautiful," said Program Director Larry Schmidt. "It's very healing."

The surroundings are reminiscent of ancient healing centers around the world that were often located in temples, he said.

Office Manager Donna Clancy concurs.

"It's not an institution at all," she said. "They don't feel caged in. They have the freedom to walk the 450 acres on their free time, although we keep them pretty busy. ... It's a perfect environment for what we're trying to do here."

Insight, which also has facilities in Flint, Lansing, Saginaw, Detroit and Florida, rents space from the Colombiere Center on Big Lake Road in Springfield Township. Colombiere also houses the Clarkston campus of the University of Detroit and a retirement center for Jesuit priests.

Almost a village in itself, the private, non-profit Insight is located in a two-level wing where 55 substance-free clients, each with a private bedroom, spend 14 to 28 days facing every facet within themselves.

Some are recently referred by detoxication units at area hospitals. Some are referred by employers, family members or themselves.

They come to Insight from all walks of life, and they answer tough questions and try to restore their bodies, their minds and their relationships. Hopefully, they will learn to smile again, while soaking up the peace, quiet, solitude, education and friendship found at Insight.

With a week-long waiting list, the center is usually filled to capacity. About 90 percent of the clients are men, with an average age of 32.

At any given time, women comprise only about 10 percent of the clients, said Clancy, adding social conventions may contribute to this.

"Women aren't allowed to have a problem in society," she said. "It's OK for a man to have a problem and go take care of it. But it's not OK for women. They're supposed to be the caretakers. And a lot of women have to care for their children and their job, and they don't have time to leave."

During their stay, a special women's therapy session addresses problems particular to females.

abused by men and women are alcohol and cocaine, said Clancy.

"The biggest pull toward addiction with cocaine is once you've used it, you don't want to quit, so it's real hard to stop," she said.

Part of the healing process requires support from friends and relatives of the clients, said Clancy.

"We strongly encourage any family involvement we can get," she said. "It's a family disease. It not only affects the person with the problem, but it affects their family, their job, their life."

Watch out for sugar

It is common knowledge that sugar adversely affects dental health. But it is a common misconception that only white and brown refined sugar, sucrose, is the only dentally harmful sugar.

Dental researchers now know that all types of sugars can promote tooth decay. These sugars include sucrose, fructose (fruit sugar), glucose, lactose (milk sugar) and maltose (grain sugar).

"Eating foods that contain sugars allows the bacteria in plaque (a thin film of bacteria that forms on everyone's teeth), to produce acids that attack teeth and cause tooth decay," says Cheryl Westphal, president of the American Dental Hygienists Association.

It would be difficult to eliminate all foods containing sugar from your diet, since the nutrients found in these foods are essential to your health.

"The object is to eat less retentive (or sticky) sugars less frequently and not throughout the day," says Westphal. "Learn to use foods that contain sugars wisely."

To help you do that, the American Dental Hygienists Association offers the following low-sugar recipe:

FROZEN PEACH WHIP

- 1 cup water
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 3 peaches
- 1/2 cup dry milk powder
- 2 tablespoons yogurt

Scrub and slice peaches. Combine ingredients in blender or processor until frothy. Pour into paper cups and freeze.

Are you diabetic?

SEE YOUR DOCTOR

While everyone should have an annual check-up, there are some symptoms that should encourage you to see your doctor right away. They indicate you may have diabetes, a disease that could be a killer if not treated promptly and properly.

These symptoms include: unusual thirst; frequent urination; weakness after normal tasks; excessive tiredness or drowsiness; blurred vision; an uncontrollable craving for food, especially sweets; tingling, numbness or pain in the legs, feet or fingers; frequent skin infections or itchy skin.

A four-ounce glass of orange juice fulfills an adult's daily requirement for vitamin C—about 60 milligrams.

Insight: A healing place

Every morning at 8:15, the therapeutic community (TC), comprised of all staff and clients, meets in the TC room. People who are graduating are accompanied by their families, and they use the opportunity to say goodbye.

"It's a very emotional experience," said Clancy. "Some of them are like, 'I was next to death, and now I'm going to be OK.'"

When someone succeeds, the good feelings are contagious, said Schmidt.

"There's a wonderful feeling of satisfaction in seeing someone break through," he said. "Clients get that and start glowing, and then the staff starts glowing."

"Miracles happen on a daily basis. That's what's special about this place. Sometimes it's little things - someone who's been sad and broken all their lives, and they start to smile."

For a complete recovery, every aspect of a person's life must be addressed: the family and the physiology, biology, psychology and spirituality of a person, he said.

He defined spirituality as a higher power within each individual, contrasted to the institutionalized spirituality of religion.

"The most solid recovery is when a person really gets into the spirituality of themselves," he said.

Not a lot of research has been done for such wide-ranging problems within substance abusers, Schmidt said, adding many of the staff members are pioneers.

"We're being space explorers, except we're inner space, not outer space," he said.

Clancy and Schmidt were filled with praise for the about 65 staff persons - therapists, nurses and clerical employees.

"It's the most dedicated, devoted staff I have ever seen in my life," said Clancy. "There's so much work to do, and they all care."

"It takes a special kind of person to do this job," said Schmidt. "There's a strong resiliency. My teacher said, 'You always have to balance gravity with levity.' That's what happens here. It's a survival mechanism; otherwise, we just wouldn't make it."

On one wall of an Insight hallway is a huge Jellinek chart - a model created by Dr. Jellinek that charts the progression of substance abuse. At the end, only three possibilities are shown: Death, insanity or recovery - the choices each client must make, said Clancy.

With all the problems, it seems the work would be emotionally draining, but that isn't the case, said Clancy.

Larry Schmidt

"It's emotionally uplifting," she said. "All you have to have is one person call and say, 'You have saved my life.'"

Programs at Insight include: Traditional, for a person's first-time residential experience; Renewal, for someone who's been a client within two years and has been substance free but has relapsed; Family Therapy; Group Therapy; Individual Therapy; Women's Group; Creative Expressions, therapy through art and music; Stress Reduction; Couple's Therapy; and Children's Therapy.

Intervention, the newest program, is for people who are identified as difficult - they won't talk, and they won't go anywhere for help.

For intervention, a family member can make an appointment with a professional at Insight and plan a strategy. At a future date, the professional will help the family in a "loving intervention" at the client's home, and a bed will be waiting at Insight.

Insight also offers a variety of lectures - some for free - from professionals who would be willing to speak to community groups and schools, said Schmidt.

"We rarely get requests," said Schmidt. "That's a shame because that could really save Clarkston some money."

That many people don't know Insight exists could be a reason people don't call, he said. Another reason could be that people are only beginning to become aware of the problems.

"My hunch, as a psychologist, is that Clarkston is going through denial about substance abuse in their own community," he said.

However, people are becoming more aware, and some are even starting to talk about it - a good sign, he said.

Is there relationship between cancer, viruses?

Questions may be directed to: Cancer Answers, The Cleveland Clinic Center, One Clinic Center, 9500 Euclid Ave., Cleveland, Ohio 44195. All questions will be answered by mail.

Q. What is bone marrow transplant and why would someone need it?

A. Bone marrow is a spongy substance inside bones that produces many elements of the blood. In bone marrow transplant, all blood-forming cells in the bone marrow, both normal and cancerous, are destroyed and then replaced by transfusion with normal bone marrow cells from a donor.

Some individuals with cancer can have their own bone marrow withdrawn at an early stage of illness, or when their disease is in remission, then stored until it is needed. Their own marrow is then given back to them.

Bone marrow transplantation may be used in leukemia patients after chemotherapy, radiation therapy or other treatments have destroyed leukemia cells.

These same treatments are needed to decrease the likelihood that the patient's immune system might reject the donor's bone marrow.

After the bone marrow is transplanted, it begins to produce an entirely new population of blood cells. If the new marrow is not rejected, and the leukemia cells do not recur, the individual has a chance for treatment-free survival.

Patients with lymphoma (abnormal growth of infection-fighting cells in the lymph nodes) may also be candidates for bone marrow transplantation if they have not responded to standard drug treatments.

Their own bone marrow is often used to stop the destructive effects of chemotherapy on the marrow cells. Higher doses of chemotherapy and radiation therapy can then be given to destroy their lymphomas.

Bone marrow transplants may be suggested for patients with other cancers that resist standard treatment.

Age, general health and prior treatment for other diseases must be considered in deciding whether an individual might benefit from bone marrow transplantation.

Roger Herzig, M.D.

Dept. of Hematology and Medical Oncology

Q. Is there any relationship between viruses and cancer?

A. Viruses have been well established as a cause of cancer in animals. For example, the Rous sarcoma virus (chickens), feline leukemia virus (chickens) and murine sarcoma virus (mice) belong to the family of retroviruses, a type of virus known to cause cancer in animals.

However, a direct link between cancer and viruses has not been firmly established for humans.

Viruses such as human papilloma virus, hepatitis B virus and Epstein-Barr virus may be related to the development of certain cancers in humans, but further investigations are needed.

Researchers have discovered that proto-oncogenes (genes that may contribute to the development of cancer cells when activated in the wrong way) are present in human and animal chromosomes.

Studies continue to focus on whether cancer is caused by activation or mutation of these proto-oncogenes. Further studies are needed to understand the function(s) of proto-oncogenes and their relationship to human cancer.

Amiya Banerjee, Ph.D.

Department of Molecular Biology

Q. My mouth and throat are dry and sore from the anti-cancer drugs I'm receiving. Do you have any suggestions as to how I can relieve this discomfort?

A. Your doctor may have specific recommendations for you, such as using artificial saliva.

However, some general suggestions to help increase the moisture in your mouth are: Drink plenty of liquids; suck on ice chips; use sugarless gum to increase moisture; put cooked foods in a blender so they will be easier to swallow; eat moist foods such as fruit and ice cream.

Also, look for the development of mouth sores (stomatitis). Your physician can prescribe medication to reduce discomfort from stomatitis.

Avoiding foods that are spicy or have a high acid content (such as tomatoes and oranges), and keeping your mouth and gums clean can also help prevent mouth sores.

Brian Bolwell, M.D.

Dept. of Hematology and Medical Oncology

Q. I am a healthy 36-year-old woman, but am concerned about developing breast cancer since it seems so prevalent. What should be done to detect breast cancer early?

A. Breast cancer is the most common cancer found among women in the United States. Although breast cancer affects one out of 10 women, most women can be cured with early detection.

The American Cancer Society (ACS) recommends regular checkups for all women and a combination of breast screening techniques for detection.

For women without symptoms, both the ACS and

Popeye the Sailor would love this dish

Although fresh spinach is available year-round, it's most plentiful in the spring. So in the coming months, you can expect to see young, dark, tender spinach leaves that taste best and offer the most nutrition.

The iron content of spinach made Popeye the Sailor Man "strong to the finish," but today nutritionists prize this leafy vegetable for its high levels of vitamins A and C, both linked to lower cancer rates.

Spinach has been around for a long time, but Renaissance Italy brought spinach fully into Western culture with a variety of splendid "Florentine" dishes.

Spinach is delicious served raw in salads or prepared in soups, souffles, quiches, omelets, crepes, lasagna or casseroles. Steamed spinach makes a tasty vegetable dish seasoned with herbs such as basil, dill, oregano or tarragon.

When selecting fresh spinach, look for crisp, dark green leaves, as spinach grows limp and yellow with age.

If spinach is available only in plastic bags, make sure the bag springs back when pinched to assure crispness. Also check for any signs of slime or decay that indicate improper handling or refrigeration.

Fresh spinach usually contains some sand or grit, so be sure to wash it in cold water before using.

The following meatless version of this favorite dish combines spinach and tomatoes for good taste and high vitamin content.

SPINACH RICOTTA LASAGNA

- 6 ounces lasagna noodles (uncooked)
- 1 29-ounce can tomato puree (about 3 1/2 cups)
- 3 to 4 teaspoons dried basil
- 1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
- 10 ounces fresh spinach, washed and stemmed (or 1/2 of a 10-ounce package frozen)
- 1 1/4 cups part skim ricotta cheese
- 1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese (2 ounces)
- 1/8 teaspoon pepper
- 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg (optional)

Cook the lasagna noodles according to package directions. In the meantime, in a small bowl stir together the tomato puree, basil and garlic powder.

If using fresh spinach, steam for 2 to 3 minutes until wilted and tender but still bright green. If using frozen spinach, cook as directed on package. Drain; squeeze by handfuls to remove water. Chop coarsely.

Place the ricotta cheese, all but 2 tablespoons of Parmesan cheese, pepper and nutmeg in food processor or blender; puree until smooth. Add the cooked spinach and process until well blended. (This process may also be done by hand.)

Assemble the ingredients in a 13-by-9-inch baking pan. Begin with a thin layer of tomato mixture, then a single layer of pasta.

Spread half of the spinach-ricotta mixture on top, then add 3/4 to 1 cup tomato mixture. Place down another layer of pasta, the remainder of the spinach-ricotta mixture on top, and more tomato mixture.

Top with a final pasta layer, the remaining tomato mixture and the remaining 2 tablespoons of Parmesan cheese.

Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Let the lasagna stand for a few minutes after removing from the oven before slicing.

This recipe makes 6 servings, each with 238 calories and 5 grams of fat.

"Good Food/Good Health" is provided by the American Institute for Cancer Research, Washington, D.C. 20069.

Mid-life anxiety?

The anxiety and depression often blamed on menopause are most often caused by the stress of middle age. There is little evidence that menopause directly causes depression and anxiety; rather, it is part of mid-life - a time associated with change and many final and often troubling life events.

During women's middle years, children claim their final independence and leave home, often leading to a sense of loss, according to Elaine Glasser, Home Economist for Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service.

For women with careers, mid-life can mean accepting the reality of not meeting career goals, and then setting new job objectives. For those whose goals have been met, there's a need to reorder priorities and answer the question, "What now?"

Death of a parent, or increased dependence of parents, are other events associated with middle age. Underlying the sorrow and, if it occurs, the extra physical and emotional care for elderly parents, is the facing of one's own death.

Menopause changes a woman's view of herself as a child bearer, and for many this is difficult. Menopause is the final statement on child-bearing, and hot flashes can be unwelcome and oft-repeated reminders that the changes of menopause are at hand.

Most menopausal symptoms are not severe and can be easily tolerated. Glasser urges those providing care for women to take advantage of opportunities for patient education and counseling.

Studies show that 10 percent of menopausal women have no symptoms at all. Some 80 percent have hot flashes and other symptoms of a temporary nature, and 10 percent have severe symptoms.

The average onset of menopause is 50, the duration of hot flashes is usually two-four years, and there must be 12 consecutive months without a menstrual period for a woman to feel confident about not using contraception.

Your middle fingernail grows faster than the others.

Anti-Diet Weight Loss

The New Alternative

SUFFERING IS OPTIONAL

If you have tried dieting in the past and failed, you are not alone. For many, diet is part of the problem, not its solution.

Thin people don't want to eat more than they should. So how come you do? When you learn to think about food the way thin people do, then you will eat casually and controllably, just as they do.

Based on successful work with overeaters in therapy, this unique, ten-week program was developed to help healthy people to finally control their eating without the need for discipline and the constant struggle against temptation.

WHY WAIT?

This small-class experience is not another diet or food supplement program, but a new opportunity for a permanent change in your relationship with food and your body. You can be happy with both, now.

PREVIEW:

To give you a full description of this effective solution to over-eating, we offer a full, two-hour preview at our offices. Admission is $10. Call early to reserve your place, as seating is extremely limited.

Three free brochures available on breast cancer, lumps

American College of Radiology (ACR) recommend an initial or baseline mammogram for women between ages 35-40, a mammogram every two years for women ages 40-50, then yearly mammograms after age 50.

The ACS and ACR suggest that all women should perform a monthly breast self-exam. This should be done three to five days after the end of the menstrual period (or on the same day of each month for postmenopausal women) so that any change can be recognized as soon as it occurs.

More than 70 percent of breast lumps are found by women themselves and most lumps are benign. Early detection means early treatment and, thus, increased cure rate.

If you would like more information regarding early detection, write to us for the following free brochures: "Questions and Answers About Breast Lumps," "How to do Breast Self-Exam" and "Getting Ahead of Breast Cancer."

Q. I am a teacher and have a 15-year-old student with leukemia in my class. Do you have any suggestions regarding such students?

A. If you are able to obtain specific information about your student's situation, it will help you to provide a supportive classroom atmosphere and guide you in planning your role as a teacher.

Some questions you will want to address are:

What are the possible side-effects of the student's treatments, including effects on appearance and behavior.

What is the approximate schedule of upcoming treatments, procedures or tests that may result in absence from class?

What is the student's understanding and knowledge of the illness?

What do parents/students want classmates or other staff to know?

Does the student wish to talk directly with the teacher regarding any of the above?

Most adolescents cope well with cancer if they have trust in their doctors, parents, teachers and other significant people in their lives.

Having a student with cancer in your class may put you in touch with your own feelings regarding a life-threatening illness. You should share these feelings with others, perhaps even the student and parents.

Within your own school, the school nurse, counselor or other teachers who have taught students with cancer or other chronic illnesses can help.

If you would like additional information, write to us for a free booklet, "Students With Cancer: A Resource for the Educator."

Stroke will strike half-million in '88, says AHA

Imagine a city of a half-million people - every man, woman and child in Denver, Colo. Now imagine the devastating effect on lives, the economy and the health care system if every one of them suffered a stroke.

That's the toll stroke will take in 1988 in the United States, according to American Heart Association statistics.

Its new publication "1988 Stroke Facts," the AHA says about one-third of those who suffer strokes, or 152,700 people, will die. Stroke is the third leading cause of death in the U.S., followed only by coronary disease and cancer.

Besides being a major cause of death, stroke is also the leading cause of disability, both physical and financial. And of the estimated two million cases of disability resulting from stroke in the U.S., one-third are wage earners 35-65 years old who have become unemployable because of their disability.

The AHA estimates that the cost of stroke-related health care in the U.S. will be $12.9 million in 1988. The figure includes cost of physician and nursing services, hospital and nursing home services, medication costs and lost productivity due to disability.

Despite these sobering statistics, there is some good news. For the past 40 years, the death rate from stroke has been dropping at a rate of about 1 percent a year and has dropped 36.4 percent since 1976.

Stroke affects blacks more often than whites, both men and women. While the 1984 age-adjusted stroke death rate for white men was 33.8 per 100,000 people, it was 56.2 for black men.

White females suffered strokes at a rate of 28.9 per 100,000; the rate among black women was 46.4.

Like heart disease, stroke has risk factors. Some you can change, others you cannot. But because stroke is such a devastating disease, it is critically important to control those risk factors that can be changed.

The treatable risk factors include high blood pressure, heart disease, high red blood cell count and transient ischemic attacks (TIAs). These "mini-strokes" often are early warning signs of stroke.

Stroke warning signals include sudden weakness, clumsiness or loss of feeling in an arm, leg or side of the face or loss of vision or speech. TIAs usually last less than five minutes though in some cases they may last as long as 24 hours.

About 10 percent of all strokes are preceded by these mini-strokes, but individuals who have had TIAs are almost 10 times more likely to suffer a stroke than someone who has not, according to AHA.

Risk factors you cannot change are age, sex, race, diabetes, prior stroke, heredity and an "asymptomatic carotid bruit." This is an abnormal "whooshing" sound heard in the carotid artery of the neck using a stethoscope.

A bruit indicates the buildup of fatty deposits in that artery that are shutting off blood flow to the brain, even though no symptoms are present.

Recent studies have also shown a strong link between cigarette smoking and stroke. Other secondary factors that can indirectly increase the risk of stroke and can be controlled are high blood cholesterol, excessive alcohol intake, lack of exercise and obesity.

These risk factors are directly related to heart disease and heart disease increases the chance of stroke, the AHA says.

Once a stroke occurs, patients can be treated with surgery, drugs, acute hospital care and rehabilitation. Even though 38 percent of stroke victims die within the first 30 days, about half of them are still alive seven years later.

But according to the Framingham (Mass.) Heart Study, 31 percent of stroke survivors need help caring for themselves, 20 percent need help walking and 16 percent have to be institutionalized seven years after suffering a stroke.

Therefore, the AHA emphasizes, prevention remains an alternative to the expensive and intensive rehabilitation necessary to achieve independence after a stroke.

One of the most important things you can do to prevent a stroke is to control high blood pressure, the most important risk factor for stroke.

Almost one in three American adults has high blood pressure. If you're taking medication for it, be sure to take it every single day, because controlling high blood pressure significantly reduces your risk of stroke.

If you have had any of the warning signs (listed above), see your doctor immediately. Modern technology makes possible several tests that can help diagnose the problem.

It is now possible, for instance, to examine how the brain looks, functions and gets its blood supply. Most of these newer tests are safe and painless and can be undergone as an outpatient.

Once a diagnosis is made, medication or surgery may be needed to prevent a subsequent stroke.

For more information on stroke prevention and treatment, contact the American Heart Association of Michigan, 16310 W. 12 Mile Rd., P.O. Box 160, Lathrup Village, MI 48076.

Good night, good day

Experts on mental health believe you can better face the day's joys and sorrows if you've had enough rest the night before.

How much is enough? That, say sleep experts, can vary. Some people need far more than the customary eight hours - some less.

What is Reflexology?

Reflexology is a therapeutic technique in the Natural Health field, which deals with the nerve endings that are located in the hands & feet. These nerve endings act as reflexes to each gland, organ & part of the body. (7,200 nerve endings in one foot).

Toxic acid deposits form & crystallize causing blockage of proper blood & nerve supply to reach the reflex area. These deposits are caused by stress, improper diet, lack of exercise, injury to a gland, organ or part of body. These deposits are formed in other areas of the body, but more so in the hands & feet for they are the farthest from the heart.

Reflexology's purpose is to free these nerve channels which is done by the hands of the Reflexologist. Once these deposits are broken down - they are picked up by the blood stream, dissolved instantly & brought through the eliminating system. Since 24 qts. of blood pass through the heart every 3 minutes & the blood transfer is made in the hands & feet, one usually notices results during & after the 1st treatment.

Approach imported ceramic ware with caution

Americans with a fondness for lead-glazed ceramic products, particularly those obtained overseas, should be alert to the potential that these products may have for causing lead poisoning.

Improperly manufactured ceramic ware can release excessive amounts of lead into food, leading to serious, even life-threatening reactions.

Lead is a common component in glazing materials for ceramic dishes, bowls, pitchers, plates and other earthenware. The glaze is a thin, glassy coating that is applied and fused onto a shaped body of clay.

For the fusion process to be safe, the lead glaze has to be fired to a high enough temperature for a sufficient length of time.

Temperature and time vary, according to the glaze formulation, the size of the ceramic and other factors.

Products not properly formulated and fired, especially those used to store acidic foods for prolonged periods of time, present the greatest danger to consumers. The acid in the foods can speed leakage of the lead from the finish.

There is no way to tell by simply looking at a piece of ceramic ware whether it has lead in it or, if it does, whether the glaze was formulated and fired to meet accepted standards.

Although most companies follow accepted manufacturing practices (recent inspections by the Food and Drug Administration indicate that U.S. ceramic producers are complying with required standards), an alarmingly high number of foreign companies producing ceramic ware do not.

Because of the failure of their products to meet accepted standards, FDA currently is concentrating on ceramic ware imported from Italy, Macao, Mexico, North Korea, Pakistan, the Peoples' Republic of China and Thailand, among other countries.

FDA experts warn that products ordered by mail or brought into this country by tourists, military personnel and other overseas travelers often have been the source of lead-poisoning cases in recent years.

At the same time, inherited antiques and old ceramic products discovered in attics or acquired at yard sales and craft shows have also posed public health problems.

Lead consumption can be devastating and even life-threatening. High levels of lead in the body can damage the nervous, reproductive, cardiovascular, immunologic and gastrointestinal systems, as well as the kidneys and liver and the process by which blood is formed.

In children, even low lead levels can cause learning and behavior disorders and impair growth.

One of the primary dangers of lead poisoning is insidiousness. While a single exposure to lead concentrations may not immediately produce dramatic symptoms, prolonged exposure to hazardous levels of lead may be initially overlooked as a source of these symptoms, and the patient may have to endure a period of physical and emotional agony until the proper diagnosis is made.

For this reason, it is important to be aware of the problem as well as its manifestations, and to take steps to avoid it.

How to minimize exposure to lead in ceramic ware? Here are some tips from the FDA.

● Don't store goods in ceramic ware. Use glass or plastic containers for foods with high acid content, such as orange and tomato juice and other fruit juices, wines, tomato sauces, vinegar, and so forth.

● Be wary of products purchased overseas. If you can't be sure that they meet accepted safety standards, don't buy them, or at least don't use them for serving or storing food.

● Be similarly wary of antiques and collectibles. Family heirlooms and items sold at garage sales, craft shows, antique shops, flea markets and other such outlets may have been made before the establishment of accepted manufacturing practices.

● Be cautious of ceramic items made by amateurs or hobbyists. Glazes that are safe can be obtained by hobbyists, but you have no way of knowing if proper techniques and equipment were used. The safest course is to buy for display only.

Exercise good sense before joining club

The following "Consumer Awareness Bulletin" regarding health clubs was issued by the Oakland County Chamber of Commerce:

1. Check health clubs carefully. Visit during hours you would normally use it and check for overcrowding during that period. See if the facilities are well maintained and clean.
2. Ask when you can use the club. It may be limited to men or women on certain days.
3. Ask about employee qualifications or training.

4. Read fine print in all contracts or special offers. Make sure verbal promises or conditions are put in writing.

5. Find out how long you have to change your mind and get your money back. Also ask about refund policy for cancellations.

6. Ask a consumer protection agency or the Better Business Bureau if they have received complaints about the club. Also, find out if state law protects you if the club closes unexpectedly.

Ready to shed extra pounds?

With the anticipation of summer and warm weather, most people are ready to shed their heavy winter clothing and those extra pounds.

"Don't rush out to buy a massive supply of diet pills or drinks," warns Thomas J. Petinga, D.O., director of the Emergency Center at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac.

"Successful weight loss means losing weight safely and keeping it off, and the best way to do that is to eat less and exercise more, or preferably, a combination of both. Before starting your diet plans, it's wise to consult a physician," he says.

Katie Bullock, dietitian at St. Joseph's, offers the following advice to dieters:

- Aim for a weight loss of one to two pounds per week. For women this can be achieved by consuming approximately 1,200 calories per day; for men, 1,500 calories.

- Reduce food portions but maintain a balanced diet from the four basic food groups consisting of grains and cereals; dairy products; fruits and vegetables; and meat, poultry, fish or eggs.

- Limit your intake of fats, sweets and alcohol.

- Exercise regularly. Consult a physician for guidelines if you have been inactive.

- Examine your present eating habits and try to find creative ways to modify your diet.

- Consult a dietitian for help in establishing a meal plan and tips for maintaining weight loss.

Aspirin — should you take it?

Editor's Note: The following suggestions are offered as a public service by the Meadow Brook Health Enhancement Institute at Oakland University, Rochester. The author is Dr. Timothy J. Ismond, medical director of the institute.

The findings of the "Physicians' Health Study," reported in the Jan. 28 issue of The New England Journal of Medicine, provides a promise of an easy treatment for the modern scourge - atherosclerosis.

In this study, fewer heart attacks and deaths from heart attack were seen in the men of heart attack age who took one Bufferin (aspirin 325mg) every other day.

Should you start taking aspirin? Several points need to be considered before you do.

First, your personal health needs may differ from those of study participants. Subjects in the aspirin study were selected from a group of physicians. Only 10 percent of all physicians asked to participate actually were included in the study.

Thus, all individuals who were unwilling or had good reasons to keep themselves out of the study were not included.

It is possible that if large numbers of the general population took aspirin, different beneficial outcomes as well as undesirable outcomes would result.

What are the possible undesirable outcomes? Allergic reactions, ringing of the ears, stomach irritation and bleeding problems - including strokes and gastrointestinal bleeding - are well-known adverse reactions to aspirin.

Although side-effect rates were low in the experimental group, extrapolation to the general population should not be made at this time.

Secondly, the researchers were not sure whether all subjects realized a reduced risk of heart attack. It is possible that only those individuals at high risk benefit from taking aspirin.

Since the report was preliminary, we believe it is prudent to wait until more research has been compiled before making recommendations to individuals with few or no cardiac risk factors.

For some the temptation to offset dietary and lifestyle indiscretions with an aspirin every other day may be irresistible.

The temptation of a quick-fix solution as a substitute for important lifestyle changes (smoking cessation, weight loss, low fat diet, blood pressure control) would be shortsighted.

To assume that taking aspirin eliminates the need for lifestyle change would be an erroneous conclusion to draw from the aspirin study.

Modification of cardiovascular risk factors, including cigarette smoking, hypertension and hypercholesterolemia, continue to be the fundamental strategy for reducing the risk of heart attack. In addition, the risk of developing other chronic illnesses will be reduced with little chance of an undesirable side effect.

For individuals considered at high risk for atherosclerosis or who have had a heart attack, aspirin may be an important part of a treatment strategy.

Those who fall into this classification should discuss the possible use of aspirin and other lifestyle changes with their physicians.

For those who are at low risk and are apparently healthy, a "wait and see" approach may be best.

Meanwhile, we can all concentrate on lifestyle modifications such as: reducing dietary fats, controlling blood pressure and avoiding smoking.

Some important tips about medicine

This information is taken from one of a series of Medication Education (ME) booklets developed by Roche Laboratories, a division of Hoffmann-La Roche Inc., a major health care company. These booklets have been prepared to help you use your medications to your best advantage.

If you are taking medication, here are some important reminders:

- Never exchange medication with a relative or friend, no matter how similar your illnesses may seem.

- Try to avoid alcoholic beverages when taking any medicines.

- Keep an up-to-date list of all the medicines you are taking. Show the list to any physician who intends to prescribe another drug for you.

- Don't expect your medicine to make you feel better immediately. Give it time to work.

- Don't be lulled into a false sense of security if you start feeling better after a day or two. Stopping your medication too soon may cause a relapse or flare-up of the original problem.

- Make sure you understand when each of your medications should be taken because timing can have a strong effect on the success or failure of certain medicines.

- Because a number of medications may cause temporary drowsiness, be particularly careful when driving a car or operating any dangerous machinery.

- If you have skipped a dose of your medication, don't try to catch up by doubling the next dose on your own.
