Libertarian veep candidate stops by

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

He's not for the "right-wing Republican socialists" nor the "left-wing Democratic socialists." He's for the people, says Libertarian Party vice presidential candidate Andre Marrou.

Marrou, who is on the Libertarian ticket with presidential candidate Ron Paul, spent the fourth of July weekend in Independence Township at the home of Tony and Doreen Wright. Wright is running for U.S. Representative for the 6th District, and his wife is running for State Representative for the 61st District.

Marrou spent most of his time campaigning and talking to the media while in the area. He, along with Wright, campaigned at the Phoenix Center. Marrou also made appearances in Detroit and Southfield and was a guest on several Detroit-area radio stations.

He was also busy petitioning, because Michigan now requires some 23,966 valid signatures for the Libertarian Party to be on the ballot this fall. Not so in 1980, when the Libertarian Party garnered almost a million votes with presidential candidate Ed Clark.

The signature requirement came in time for the 1984 election, when the Libertarian Party, only on the ballot in 39 states, received just 250,000 votes. But Marrou says they expect to be on the ballot on at least 47 states this fall, and hope to make an impact with 2 million to 12 million votes.

The Libertarian Party, he says, is America's third largest and fastest growing political party. More than 70 Libertarians hold public office today. Marrou, originally from Texas, is a former Alaska state representative and Paul is a four-term U.S. Representative from Texas.

"The Libertarian Party is based on individual liberty rather than governmental power," Marrou explains from the Pelton Road home of the Wrights.

Libertarians advocate absolute civil and economic liberties. They would abolish income taxes and federal regulation of free enterprise. They would keep troops out of foreign countries.

"What people ask me about most is about taxes," Marrou says. "They want to know how we expect to do away with the IRS. How would we cut government spending?"

He tells them they would cut government spending drastically, not replace bureaucracy as people left or retired, and cut out certain government programs.

"Welfare doesn't work," he says. "It forces young women to have illegitimate children and stay unemployed."

Fires by fireworks

Fireworks at Pine Knob Music Theatre were canceled July 4 due to dry conditions, but area residents seemed to have enjoyed their share of fireworks anyway, said Capt. Neil Ashley of the Independence Township Fire Department.

Fireworks were the cause of about 15 grass fires in the township over the holiday weekend, said Ashley, adding that sparklers caused quite a few.

No serious damage was caused, and no injuries were reported, he said.

"We don't usually run too many grass fires, and we've had more than usual because of the dry weather, but they really picked up over the weekend," he said. "We went pretty steady."

I-75 driver stabbed

A 23-year-old Flint man was stabbed once in the abdomen July 3 on I-75 near Sashabaw Road, Independence Township.

Reginald Somerville was treated and released from St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac.

About 10 p.m. Sunday, Somerville was driving southbound on I-75 when he saw that he was running out of gas. He stopped at the side of the road and flagged down a motorist to ask him for money to buy gas, according to his statement given to investigators at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department (OCSD).

A vehicle stopped and pulled over in front of him, and a man walked toward him, accusing him of tailgating. The man then stabbed Somerville and sped away, according to the report.

Somerville drove to the Amoco station on Sashabaw Road, asked for a piece of paper and pencil to write the license plate number of the suspect, and the station attendant called the police, said Detective Sgt. Doug Hummel of OCSD.

The case is under investigation, and the suspect, traced through the license plate number, is to be questioned this week, said Hummel.

Doctor wins teaching award

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston area internist Michael J. Baker received an "Excellence in Teaching" award in June. It is the second time the doctor, who is on the teaching staff of St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Pontiac, has received the award. The first was in 1986.

The house staff of residents chose the doctor they think did the best job of teaching for the award. Baker was one of approximately 30 doctors on the teaching staff at St. Joe's working with 20-25 doctors in residency at the hospital.

DR. MICHAEL BAKER, Clarkston area internist, recently received an "Excellence in Teaching" award from the house staff of residents at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

The award was presented to Baker on June 11 at a graduation dinner, after residents had completed their year of residency.

There are several ways the doctors perform in the teaching capacity, Baker said.

They work with residents on a day-to-day basis during rounds at the hospital, seeing patients as a team. They also participate in teaching conferences and in formal teaching situations where they work with three to six residents in two-hour sessions going over cases.

A fourth component of the teaching responsibility is working with residents at the doctor's office seeing patients.

"We can augment their training, broaden their exposure to the outpatient component," Baker said.

"I enjoy doing (the teaching) and I think it's helpful to me, too. It keeps me on my toes," he added. "I have to constantly rationalize and explain my treatment."

"I think most physicians feel a sense of responsibility to pass on our clinical skills and the 'art' that is involved with medicine," he said. "The more human aspects are not learned in a book. They are learned from a role model."

Baker received his degree in medicine from Wayne State University in Detroit and did his internal medicine residency at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital. He has been a physician in the Clarkston area for seven years.

Baker lives in Brandon Township with his wife, Connie, and their four children.

Cardboard recycling plan puts neighbors on edge

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A proposal to recycle cardboard in an industrial area of the township brought environmental, traffic and noise concerns from area residents and planning commissioners.

After a public hearing and an hour-long discussion June 30, the Independence Township Planning Commission tabled the special land use request and site plan until details were available on the concerns.

Information required includes the types of materials to be sorted, the customers from whom the trash is hauled, the hours of operation and type of outdoor storage. Commissioners also requested verification that permits are not required from the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and the Oakland County Health Department.

R.J. Hoffman, owner of a trash pick-up business and a landscaping company, said he planned to bring compacted cardboard to the 9,800-square-foot building to sort out any metal straps or non-recyclable materials.

After sorting, the cardboard would be compacted again and shipped to a recycling plant. The metal might be sent to a recycling facility, or it could be sent with other materials to a landfill.

Since landfill costs have increased by 100 percent over the last year, the sorting and recycling should save money in dumping costs, said Hoffman, adding only materials from his trash pick-up business would be sorted in the building. It would not be open to outside companies.

Trucks would make between five and 12 trips a day, and only empty containers would be stored outside. Hoffman picks up bins of compacted packing materials from customers such as Meijer's, Hudson's and Felice's. Township Planner Richard Carlisle commented on the proposal.

"As good citizens, we all can agree that good recycling facilities are necessary, and we've all got to do a better job handling our solid wastes," he said.

To protect the environment, the building would not contain floor drains, so any spilled liquids would not leave the building but would be absorbed by a kitty litter-type substance and swept up and carted to a landfill or, when necessary, a hazardous waste site.

Also, the site would have to be screened to prevent noise from traveling and to provide a landscaped view from the rear single family residential property. A sprinkler system or other fire protection device would also be needed, he said.

In the public hearing, about 10 people spoke about environmental concerns and about truck-traffic and noise.

Bill Holmes of Andersonville Road feared for the fate of a small, spring-fed pond on the property, which eventually feeds into Maceday and Lotus lakes in Waterford.

Papers from the facility could be blown all over, as well, he said.

Rosemary Head of Waterford Township asked who would monitor the operation and added that if the DNR were responsible, it wouldn't be monitored very often because the DNR is understaffed.

Mike Voss of Clement Road said White Lake Road was not designed to carry the number and weight of trucks generated by the industrial area. He claimed that many trucks have run off the road and ended up in his yard.

"We shouldn't add more trucks," he said.

Other White Lake Road property owners complained about illegal activities, such as outdoor storage, unlicensed vehicles or violations of the zoning ordinance.

Planning commissioners shared the residents' concerns and said they would not approve the plan if the environment wouldn't be protected.

"We have to have something there that will 100 percent prevent (contamination) if any accidents happen," said Joseph Figa. "Once (the pond) is destroyed, it's gone forever. We have to do all we can to protect that water."

Steve Secatch said the building department already had a lot of work with zoning enforcement.

"The DNR does not have the staff to regulate this type of plant," said Secatch. "It's going to put a lot of problems on our township to make sure this is run right."

Chairperson Brent Bair said: "I'm in favor of recycling. This is a sorting facility for recycling. ... I'd kind of like to see this work. I'd like to see more of this action in this country. The natural reaction is, 'Not in my backyard.'"

The property could be developed more intensely, requiring more trucks, he said, adding the developer has a right to use his own property.

The 10-acre site is part of a 32.76-acre parcel zoned heavy industrial and limited industrial.

Mobile park seeks expansion

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A possible expansion of Springfield Estates Mobile Home Park off Dixie Highway between Holly and Oakhill roads has area residents concerned.

A public hearing regarding the rezoning of 5.5 acres next to the park brought a dozen residents of Holly Greenview Subdivision, off East Holly Road, and other residents near the park to the Springfield Township Planning Commission meeting June 28.

"I purchased my property the first of April and (was assured that) the property would not be turned into a mobile home park," said Russ Hynes, who is building a home on Walnut Hill Drive in Holly Greenview Subdivision.

Several other residents of Walnut Hill Drive expressed concern about their property values, and one mobile home park resident spoke out against the expansion as well.

"I'm against further building until they do something for the people who already live in the park," said Norvell Wagner, a resident of Springfield Estates Mobile Home Park. "It's a sad commentary when people have to live in these conditions."

After hearing residents' concerns and a recommendation from township planning consultant Richard Carlisle, the planning commission tabled the rezoning request until a lawsuit is resolved on another 20 acres the mobile home park is trying to rezone.

Nearly two years ago, the park purchased the 20 acres north of the park, south of Oakhill Road, and asked for the single family residential zoning to be changed to mobile home. The township board has tentatively agreed to enter into a consent judgment on this acreage, pending agreement from park owners and representatives that they will comply with township ordinances and regulations.

State regulations on property zoned for mobile homes take the jurisdiction out of the hands of the township involved, and Springfield Township's ordinances are more stringent than the state code, according to township Supervisor Collin Walls. For instance, the township wants to approve site plans and have more control over park density.

A partnership, which owns the park, has now purchased another 5.5 acres adjoining the 20 acres involved in litigation, and through attorney Bart Lewis are seeking rezoning from single family residential to mobile home.

"I do not understand how this is going to benefit the community, when Holly Greenview is going in a positive direction," said East Holly Road resident Lawrence Cavalloro.

Another resident, Connie Burgess of Walnut Hill Drive, expressed concern over the odor from the sewage treatment plant that the county operates at the mobile home park and about overcrowding of Holly school

Crash halts chase

A 26-year-old woman, an innocent bystander, was injured in a police chase on Dixie Highway at White Lake Road around 2 a.m. July 2.

The incident is still under investigation, and not all of the reports were completed on July 5, but reports from the Michigan State Police (MSP) say that troopers were pursuing a vehicle traveling about 80 or 90 mph, when the suspect struck the vehicle driven by Nalta C. Nelson of Flint.

The suspect then fled on foot, and tracking dogs from the Oakland County Sheriff's Department were called in to help follow the man, who was later apprehended by MSP troopers, according to police reports.

While police were chasing the suspect, Independence Township firefighters cut Nelson from her car and sent her to Pontiac General Hospital where she was treated for minor injuries.

Rollover injures 3

Two Detroit residents were hurt and another seriously injured July 4 when their car rolled over on I-75 in Independence Township.

The driver of the vehicle, Shannon Von Williams, 17, was listed in good condition Tuesday at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac. Passenger Darnell Hayes, 20, was still in the emergency room Tuesday, and Gregory Spencer, 22, was treated and released. Passenger Dionne Lowe was not injured.

About 2:40 p.m., Williams was driving northbound on I-75 near Holcomb Road when the car pulled to the right and ran off the road, Williams told deputies at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Alcohol was not a factor, and all were wearing their seat belts, according to the police report.

Mobile home expansion plan is proposed

system by the addition of more mobile homes in the park.

Planning Commission Chairman Joe Gorka asked Lewis if there had been complaints about odor and Lewis responded, "We've never been notified of any problem with the Oakland County-operated sewage plants at the park."

General contractor Ben Thompson added that to his knowledge, no complaints had been registered through the proper authorities about the park-sewage plant.

But Burgess said they had gone through the proper channels and "gotten nowhere" about the odor problem.

Residents also questioned the fact that the property would not perk. Lewis said the land was "unbuildable" for single family homes because of the clay conditions, but was OK for the mobile home park because it uses the sewage treatment plant rather than septic. But planning commission members said they could not go on "averages," and that each parcel should be perk tested.

"In my opinion, the (20 acres) will be rezoned. If the (township) board doesn't do it, the courts will," Lewis said. "There is no development plan yet on the 20 acres. We are waiting for this 5 acres to lay out a development plan: This (5 acre) parcel (would be) surrounded on three sides by mobile home park."

He asked the planning commission to consider the parcel without consideration for the 20 acre parcel, but Gorka said "there were just too many questions that had to be answered" before the issue was tabled, and that surrounding land use had to be a consideration.

Lewis said later that the 20 acres plus the 5.5 acres would add about 132 more mobile homes to the park, with a density of about five per acre. About half of the lots would be for double-wide mobile homes, he said, and the lots closest to the subdivision would be double wides.

"I feel we've cooperated with the township and they've cooperated with us," Lewis said, "But we haven't agreed to total township control of the park."

"We've allowed as much of a buffer as possible between the park and the sub; it's larger than required. But the sub is higher and the park is visible anyway," he said. "No trees will hide the existing park or the expansion."

Balloonist breaks leg

A hot air balloonist was injured June 29 while practicing takeoffs and landings on Horseshoe Circle, Independence Township.

Glen Heath, 54, of Royal Oak suffered a broken leg when the balloon basket hit the ground too hard and flipped on its side, according to reports at the Independence Township Fire Department.

Pilot Roger Brown of Rochester Hills was not injured.

Horseshoe Circle is off Perry Lake Road near Shappie Road in the northwest quadrant of the township.

ANDRE MARROU, (right) vice presidential candidate on the Libertarian ticket, spent most of the July 4 weekend at the Independence Township home of Tony and Doreen Wright. Also Libertarians, Wright is running for U.S. Representative for the 6th District and his wife is running for State Representative for the 61st District.

played."

Marrou had ample chance to express his party's platform while in the area, then headed west on July 4 to continue his campaign. He is living in Las Vegas, Nev., until after the election for logistical reasons, even though he still votes in Alaska.

"I like returning to Michigan," he says. He has been here three times in the last year. "I am impressed by the people; they are educated, affluent and open."

"Incidentally, I've been bringing rain," he says.

His last two stops were in Wisconsin and Illinois, which, like Michigan, are parched. It rained in both other states, but not Michigan.

Who's shortest?

Kathy Greenfield

We stood, my sister and I, back-to-back in my parents' kitchen, waiting for the verdict. One of us was forever to maintain, once and for all, the distinction of being the shortest in the family.

This recent scene occurred for a couple of reasons.

First, my sister and her husband had moved to California some nine years earlier and we'd talked on the phone, jotted notes and looked at photographs, but I hadn't seen them for the period of time. They were home for a visit.

Secondly, as the time passed, we'd both told my mom that we were the shortest in the family. With five children, honors of this sort are something we all dabble in.

My brother, the tallest, is the only sibling with blue eyes, the same as Mom's. His hair's the curliest, the same as Dad's. My short sister is the only one with straight hair. My older sister's hair has some wave, the same as Mom's.

My youngest sister's hair is the darkest. She and I are vying for the curliest hair of the females honor. She says a mutual hair stylist told her that my hair is curlier. And so on.

Since there is so much variety, we've become a genetic pool of interest to those of us involved.

Height has long been an area of note. We now span from 5-foot-2 to 6-foot-1. Of the four daughters, two of us are short, two are above average, hovering around 5-foot-7, and no one is as tall as our mother, 5-foot-10. My brother, the tallest sibling, is taller than our father, who is just under 6 feet.

We have photos to prove my brother was once shorter than the shortest of us. I can remember many back-to-backs in the kitchen when he began passing everyone by.

So there we were, two middle-aged (I more than she) women standing in the kitchen back-to-back. As our spouses watched in minor disbelief (they've all been around long enough not to be really surprised), the truth came out.

She's the shortest by about one-half inch. I consoled myself by remembering that I had more space in which to stretch the differences in our weight. (I'm not telling exactly how many more pounds I weigh, but, OK, it's too many for a half an inch to make a difference.)

I'm still clinging to the glory of possibly possessing the curliest crown and chuckling at the subtle forms of sibling rivalry that follow us into adulthood.

Letters to the Editor

Ethics under fire

In an effort to keep the citizens of Independence Township informed and in good standing with their fire department, I would like to forward the following information to you.

Once again it has been brought to our attention that various residents of Independence Township have recently been contacted either by phone or by mail for donations claimed to benefit "Your Fire Department."

We have addressed this problem to the state union office in the past with little results. Although we have found that the actual name of the organization conducting these fund drives is Municipal Telemarketing (MT), they have used Professional Firefighters and Michigan Firefighters Association.

The state union, Michigan State Firefighters Union (MSFFU) has used this organization to generate funds to offset administrative expenses. They are not an illegal organization. It is their ethical values that are questionable, and it tends to give the public the wrong impression of their fire department.

The MSFFU has contacted Mr. Gary Kania (Director of MT) in the past about the use of local fire department names without permission. The response by MT was apathetic to the complaints, and due to the binding contract, the state cannot do anything about the problem until the contract expires Jan. 1, 1989.

At that time, the MSFFU is expected to terminate their agreement with MT. In the meantime, we ask that you use a common sense approach when asked to donate any money for any cause.

Ask who they are, who they represent, any references, and by all means, ask their address (do not accept a post-office box), phone number and the name of the caller.

Again, we would like to advise the residents of this area that at no time have we ever solicited over the phone or by mail to generate funds to operate this department.

The Independence Fire Department operates solely on a millage voted on by the residents of Independence Township. If anyone should be approached by an organization claiming to be associated with this department, we ask you to please forward any information you can obtain to the main office at 625-1924.

Song of praise

I recently received a clipping from your front page of June 1. I was pleased to see the vocal group featured "front page - center."

The end men, Jack Byers and Bob Jones, were the only familiar faces. Jack has done this for years, and Bob Jones is the one who remembers doing it from its instigation.

Bob surely remembers many people who have sung with him through the years and deserves recognition and appreciation for his long participation in this yearly event.

Jim's Jottings

Several years ago I complained to a doctor of a pain somewhere around my right hip joint. Pains like that are hard to pinpoint. One time a little pressure on the back of my leg would worsen the pain, sometimes it hurt from pressure nearer my spine.

The doctor recommended certain exercises. Lay on your back and alternately pull each knee up to your chin and hold it. Raise one leg at a time off the floor. Keep one leg flat, bend the other at the knee (still lying down) and turn part way over while leaving your hips flat to the floor.

Nothing difficult. And, not very time consuming. Over the following week I did it twice. What I found was . . . there is no right time of day to exercise.

In the morning, I feel, if I'm up I should be at work. Read the paper, wash and eat toast and jelly on the way to work.

I'm too dressed up to lay on the floor at noon and too busy or tired when I get home.

And, back pains, like many aches, go away after a while. A few years passed and the pain returned about the same time Bob Myers, publisher of the Lapeer County Press, wrote of his continuing back ailment.

Myers recommended a book, "My aching back" I think was the name. It gave too much background on back aches, but it did show the exercises a person should get in the habit of taking to avoid and relieve back troubles.

They included the steps the doctors had told me previously.

Again I made up my mind to exercise. I wouldn't get up earlier, I would go to work later. Morning had to be the best time to strain.

Three exercises and seven days later I was back on the read, wash and run routine.

Jogging was being built up as the best exercise in the world at this time, but, because my friend Jerry Olrich said the only reason people jog in the streets is to be seen, I opted for a treadmill.

The experts say 20 minutes three times a week will do wonders for your heart. Have you ever stood in one place, moving your legs, arms and mind for 20 minutes. It's the mind that goes. Watching tv or wearing earphones does not overcome the thoughts of what you should be doing at the office.

More time (and pain) had passed when Paul Harvey started promoting a Schwinn exercycle that forces you to exercise your whole body. The power of advertising sent me to the Schwinn dealer. The cost of their stationary bike sent me to Sears.

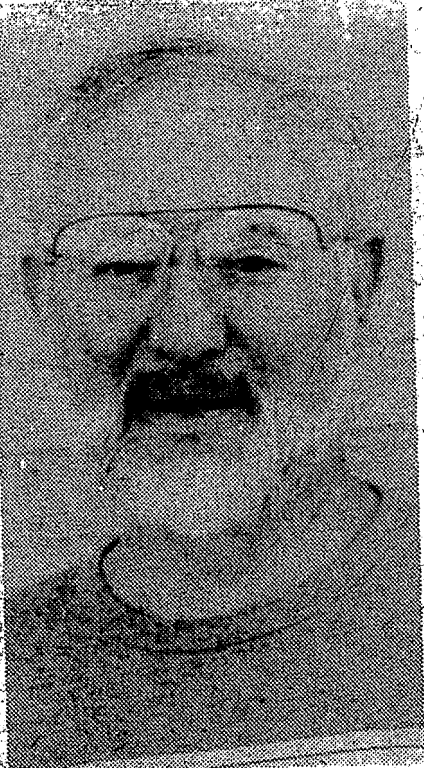

So, now I have a bike, treadmill, and the floor to chose from to combat pain, and prolong my life.

What I don't have is what is needed most. Although I should have it, I've never used it. I will power.

'If it Fitz ...'

Trials, tribulations of 33-year marriage

Jim Fitzgerald

For Father's Day, right on my dinner plate, my wife gave me a full loaf of white bread and a half-gallon carton of milk. Several important things have gone wrong with our 33-year marriage, and this was her way of saying she doesn't care; she thinks my legitimate complaints are a subject deserving derisive laughter instead of respectful consideration.

Usually, just before we sit down for dinner, she asks if I want bread. What kind of a question is that for a wife to ask her husband? And please don't tell me if I want bread I should get it myself. Ours is an old-fashioned, one-paycheck, relationship.

If we were both employed outside the home, as in so many modern marriages, I would happily exchange my aid in table setting for her aid in paying the bills. As it is, however, I finance all the bread, so it shouldn't be necessary for me to get a court order to force her to put the bread on the table.

"I don't know if I want bread, it depends on how hungry I am, and how much other food I eat," I always say. "Why don't you pretend this is a decent restaurant, or you are a decent wife, and just put a plate of bread on the table, and if I want some, I'll take some?"

"Don't be silly," she always says.

Order to specification
To get bread in my home (except when we have company), I must custom order it in advance. Then my wife will put one slice on the table, not on a bread plate but on top of my meat or leaning against a candlestick. And if I don't eat it, and she has to put it back in the refrigerator, she says, "You didn't eat your bread, why did you ask for it?" She says this in a tone that plainly suggests I am the village idiot, she is Joan of Arc, and I just put a match to the kindling at her feet.

Put the bread back in the refrigerator? Yes, which brings up an important sociological question: What happened to the bread box? My wife insists that, because it takes me so long to eat a loaf of bread (I wonder why), the only way to keep it from getting moldy is to refrigerate it. I hate cold bread. She says if I don't want it cold, I should tell her on Monday that I want a slice on Wednesday, and she'll thaw it out in time.

Furthermore, my wife claims it has become so common to refrigerate bread that the bread box is now a thing of the past. I don't believe it. How do people know what something is smaller or bigger than?

Another thing I don't believe is the darkness that lately has been greeting me every night when I leave our bathroom to enter our bedroom. My wife usually goes to bed two or three hours ahead of me, giving her plenty of time to sink into a deep sleep. For most of the past 33 years, on my way to the bathroom, I've turned on the little light on the table at my side of the bed, so I won't have to worry about tripping in the dark after switching off the bathroom light.

A few months ago, something strange began happening: When I returned to the bedroom, my light was out. After this happened a few times, and I suggested we should call an electrician, my wife admitted she was turning out my light the second I disappeared into the bathroom.

Although her back is to the light, and her eyes are shut, she said that dinky little light wakes her up. I don't believe that any more than I believe the demise of the bread box. I accused her of wanting me to fall in the dark; she said I could see by the streetlights coming in the window. I said we lived on the 26th floor and those must be some light poles.

On Father's Day, along with the loaf of bread on my dinner plate, there was also a carton of milk because my wife needed the added laugh at my expense. I never know ahead of time how much milk I want, so I often suggest the carton be put on the table so I can pour as needed. My wife insists a carton of milk looks terrible on the dinner table.

Worse than a slice of bread leaning against a candlestick?

My problems are bigger than a bread box.

Former auto dealership to house stores, offices

A former auto dealership just outside the Village of Clarkston is to be spruced up outside and remodeled inside to make room for offices and retail businesses.

The final OK for Ed Adler's building on the west side of Ortonville Road, south of I-75, was unanimously given by the Independence Township Planning Commission with little comment June 30.

Adler also owns the Clarkston Mills Mall on Washington Street, Clarkston.

Before construction can begin, the final site plan is to be altered to show 12 conditions attached by the commissioners, including landscape modifications, dumpster relocation, the removal of underground gas tanks, the removal of the previous owner's debris on neighboring property, the connection to the township water system, and the addition of a five-foot-wide sidewalk to connect to the village sidewalk.

The Clarkston (Mich.) News Wed., July 6, 1988 9

The 2.53-acre site is zoned for a planned shopping center, and a small portion of the parcel rests in the village limits. Since no building construction is taking place, village approval probably is not necessary, said township planning consultant Richard Carlisle.

Steve Secatch recommended sending the plans to the village.

"I think we should have the courtesy to inform the village that a quarter-acre is in the village and that we are approving a sidewalk," he said.

Miklas is a 1984 graduate of Wayne State University Medical School and recently finished his residency at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac. He likes the "country setting" of the Clarkston area and is considering moving closer, he said. "I'm just happy to be here and to have the opportunity to work with Dr. Aenle," he said. "I'm excited." # Letter praises township planners

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

On the rare occasions when the planning commission or building department receives a letter of praise, Beverly McElmeel places it in a special file to be saved and reviewed later, perhaps when not-so-nice comments are received.

But the letter they received June 15 from a Waterford Township planning commissioner meant a lot to them, so they wanted to share it, she said.

"It's a very refreshing letter to receive," said the director of the Independence Township Building Department.

She complimented the professionalism in the building department office and in consultants Richard Carlisle (planner) and David Lakin (engineer), as well as in the commissioners.

"It was especially nice for the planning commission because the members do a lot of homework and research on a project, and it's nice to know that they are appreciated," she said.

Timothy Affolder, developer of Independence Pointe shopping center and office site, proposed for M-15 between Northview Drive and I-75, filled his letter with praise for the planning commission, the building department, the water and sewer department and all of the consultants.

After sending the letter, Affolder said he resigned from the Waterford Planning Commission at the end of June for reasons related to the township's handling of growth issues and because his business work has increased. He also suggested that the Waterford commissioners attend an Independence meeting as a learning experience.

Waterford is experiencing growth and development similar to Independence, and Affolder was pleased with the way Independence is trying to control it, he said.

"I don't usually (write letters), but I was impressed," he said, adding he had developed property in Rochester Hills, Bloomfield and Southfield.

"Independence was right up there with the top of them," he said. "They ask all the right questions. ... They're not off on some tangent."

"Independence just seems to be very well organized. ... They're interested in what's being built in the community rather than just voting on personality."

During the regular meeting, the board will discuss contracts between General Motors and Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center for employee retraining programs.

Add your opinions to COG survey

BY KATHY GREENFIELD
Clarkston News Editor

The "Township Growth Survey" by Citizens for Orderly Growth (COG) is nearing its end and the organization wants to give residents not asked to participate in the survey a chance to express their opinions.

Jerome Wilford, a member of the survey committee, said about 50 percent of the 600 to 700 surveys distributed door-to-door have been returned, and he's pleased because surveys normally achieve a 30 to 35 percent return.

"It indicates a high degree of interest," he said.

COG was established by Independence Township residents concerned about growth in the community. A "watchdog" organization, its members attend board and commission meetings as observers.

The surveys were distributed in Independence Township and the Village of Clarkston by about 20 COG volunteers to every 10th address. If no one was home at the 10th address, the surveyor kept knocking on subsequent doors in order to hand the survey directly to a resident. Rental units were not included in the sample.

The method used was another reason returns have been so high, Wilford said.

Based on accepted statistical standards, the end result should be 90 percent accurate in its expression of community opinion, he said.

In addition to the area as a whole, survey results will also be tabulated in about a half-dozen geographic areas of the township to clarify concerns of neighborhoods.

"A casual look shows a surprising uniformity in what people find satisfactory and less than satisfactory," Wilford said.

COG plans to present the survey results to township government officials to offer an overview of community opinion. The results should apply to future development, Wilford said.

"It's going to be increasingly under pressure with the widening of I-75 as well as the Dixie," he said.

The survey results from clipping the newspaper reprint will remain separate from the door-to-door version. "Essentially, it's to give more people an opportunity to express their feelings," Wilford said.

He asks that those who fill out the following COG survey mail in their opinions do so before July 20. The address is COG, P.O. Box 16451, Clarkston, MI 48016. The COG survey follows.

Township Growth Survey

Will you help chart a future course for Independence Township?

Citizens for Orderly Growth (COG) was formed in 1987 to promote the needs and interests of township residents as regards growth. Toward that end, COG is now conducting a survey of residents' opinions to help guide township officials - and candidates for office.

The following questionnaire, designed by a research professional, covers a broad range of concerns. We hope you will help us by circling the answers which best indicate what you want for Independence Township - relative to housing, zoning, schools, stores, services and traffic.

Busy hands

MEGAN MCGEOGH adjusts her hat during a mini-dress rehearsal for her Bible school class performance of "Noah Built an Ark" sung to the tune of "Mary Had a Little Lamb."

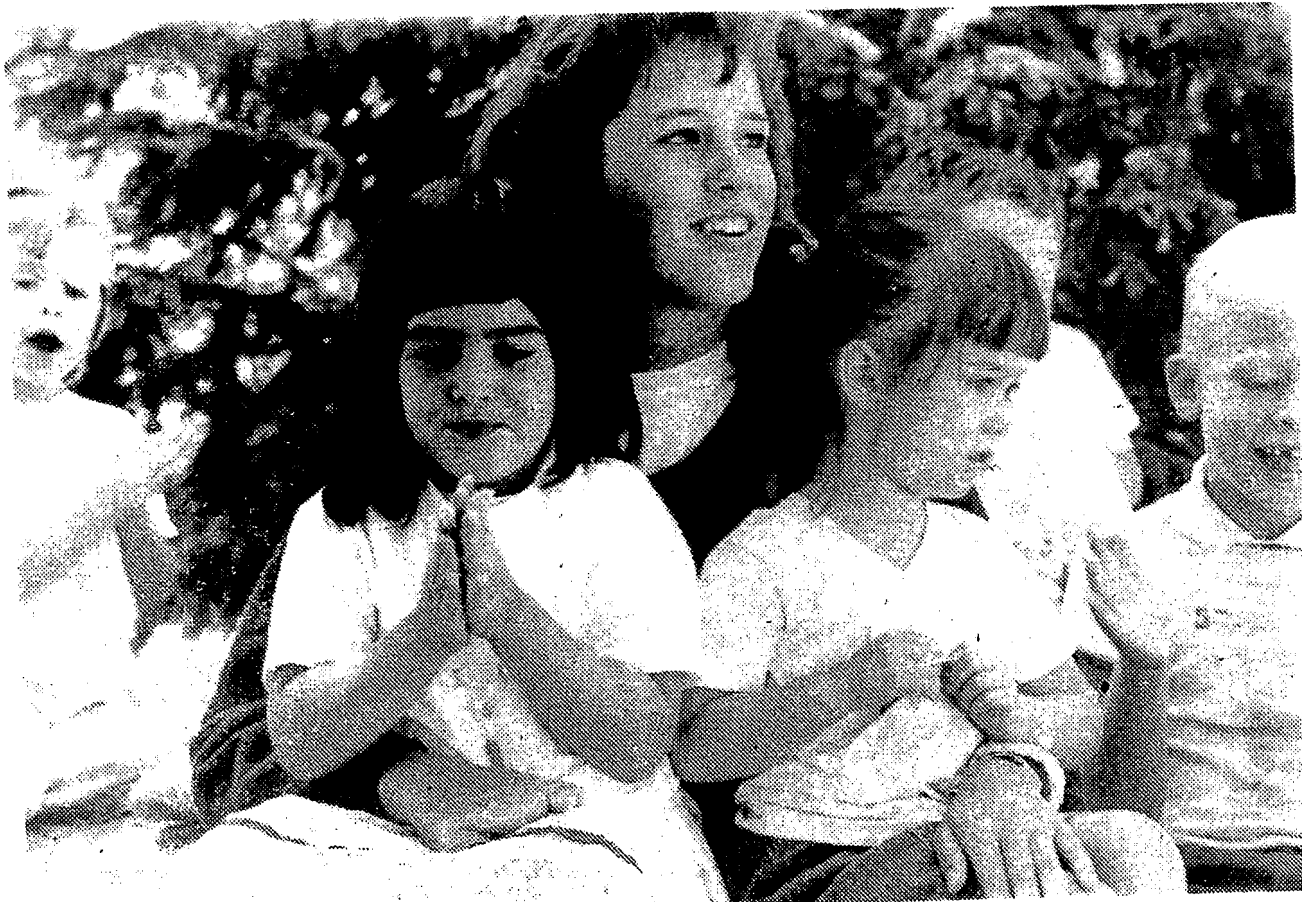

CUTTING AND PASTING are the necessary skills for making dinosaur dioramas during a craft session, and hard at work is Laura Ginn.

CONCENTRATION IS A MUST during the bead stringing session and so is sharing the bead boxes. Brian Larsen is good at both.

Ana Williams (left) and Jenny Hopician. About 98 children, ages 3 to fifth-graders, took part in the summer activity last week.

STRINGING BEADS for necklaces of their own design is a craft activity of Sara Stolk and the other children at vacation Bible school.

Sky-high hobby full of thrills

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Even 24 years of experience in the Airborne didn't prepare Howard Steele's father for his first hot air balloon ride.

At first, the elder Steele thought his youngest son, the 12th child in the family, had gone off the deep end when he bought a used balloon in 1985.

"He thought that I was nuts," said the Cedar Grove, Independence Township, resident. "But after his first ride he said, 'When can we go again!'"

Such a first experience with hot air ballooning runs in the family.

The sport instantly caught Steele's fancy after he bought his wife, Michelle, a ride on her birthday a few years back. The experience was beyond belief, he said.

Dennis Kollin, the pilot on that fateful first trip into the clouds who has 1,400 hours of flight time, eventually taught the master electrician how to fly.

The exorbitant cost of a new balloon and equipment (they can run anywhere from $14,000 to $18,000 for a three-person model) forced him to purchase a used one.

Some pilots are lucky enough to talk a corporation into buying a balloon as a huge mobile billboard, he said. But those cases are the exception, not the rule.

Once the balloon, a FireFly AX7 by Balloon Works named "Autumn Daze," was in his possession the learning process began in earnest. He continues to learn something every time he goes flying, he said.

His 77,000-cubic-foot balloon can safely carry two passengers and a pilot. When deflated, the envelope (balloon) weighs in at 550 pounds and folds up into a neat package that fits in the back of a pickup with the rest of his equipment. Fully inflated, the balloon weighs 2.6 tons.

Moving such a large object around is no easy feat. He stresses the importance of training over all else.

After 10 hours of flight he could apply for a private operator's license. To earn the license he had to go through ground school, a flight check by the Federal Aviation Association and a test flight with an FAA examiner.

After 35 hours of flight time, he could apply for a commercial license to fly for hire. To play it safe, he waited until he had accumulated 100 hours before going for that license.

"They really put you through the course," he said. "You have to know your stuff. (FAA officials) know you will be flying more."

Near tragedy helps Bohl to succeed

CHS grad fully recovers from serious head injury; next hurdle is U of M

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A near fatal accident on the soccer field five years ago altered Jim Bohl's outlook on life forever.

He suffered a head injury while playing for the Clarkston High School junior varsity soccer team Sept. 22, 1983. The Pine Knob Road, Independence Township, resident butted heads with a player from Birmingham Brother Rice.

The collision, which left the Brother Rice player unhurt, ruptured an artery in his skull. He needed emergency surgery at Crittenton Hospital in Rochester about four hours later.

After a five-week drug-induced coma to keep his brain from swelling and reduce the possibility of brain damage, his future was clouded.

Once he awoke, Bohl rededicated his life - especially concerning academics.

"Before the injury I had my share of D's but after the injury it was down to business," he said. "I changed my attitude. When you see all those people who pray for you it makes you cling to life a little more."

The result of his hard work over the past few years is proudly displayed on a wall in his bedroom splattered with Star Wars posters. It's his diploma from Oakland Community College.

He graduated magna cum laude (3.76 grade point average) with a degree in liberal arts. The commencement ceremony was June 11.

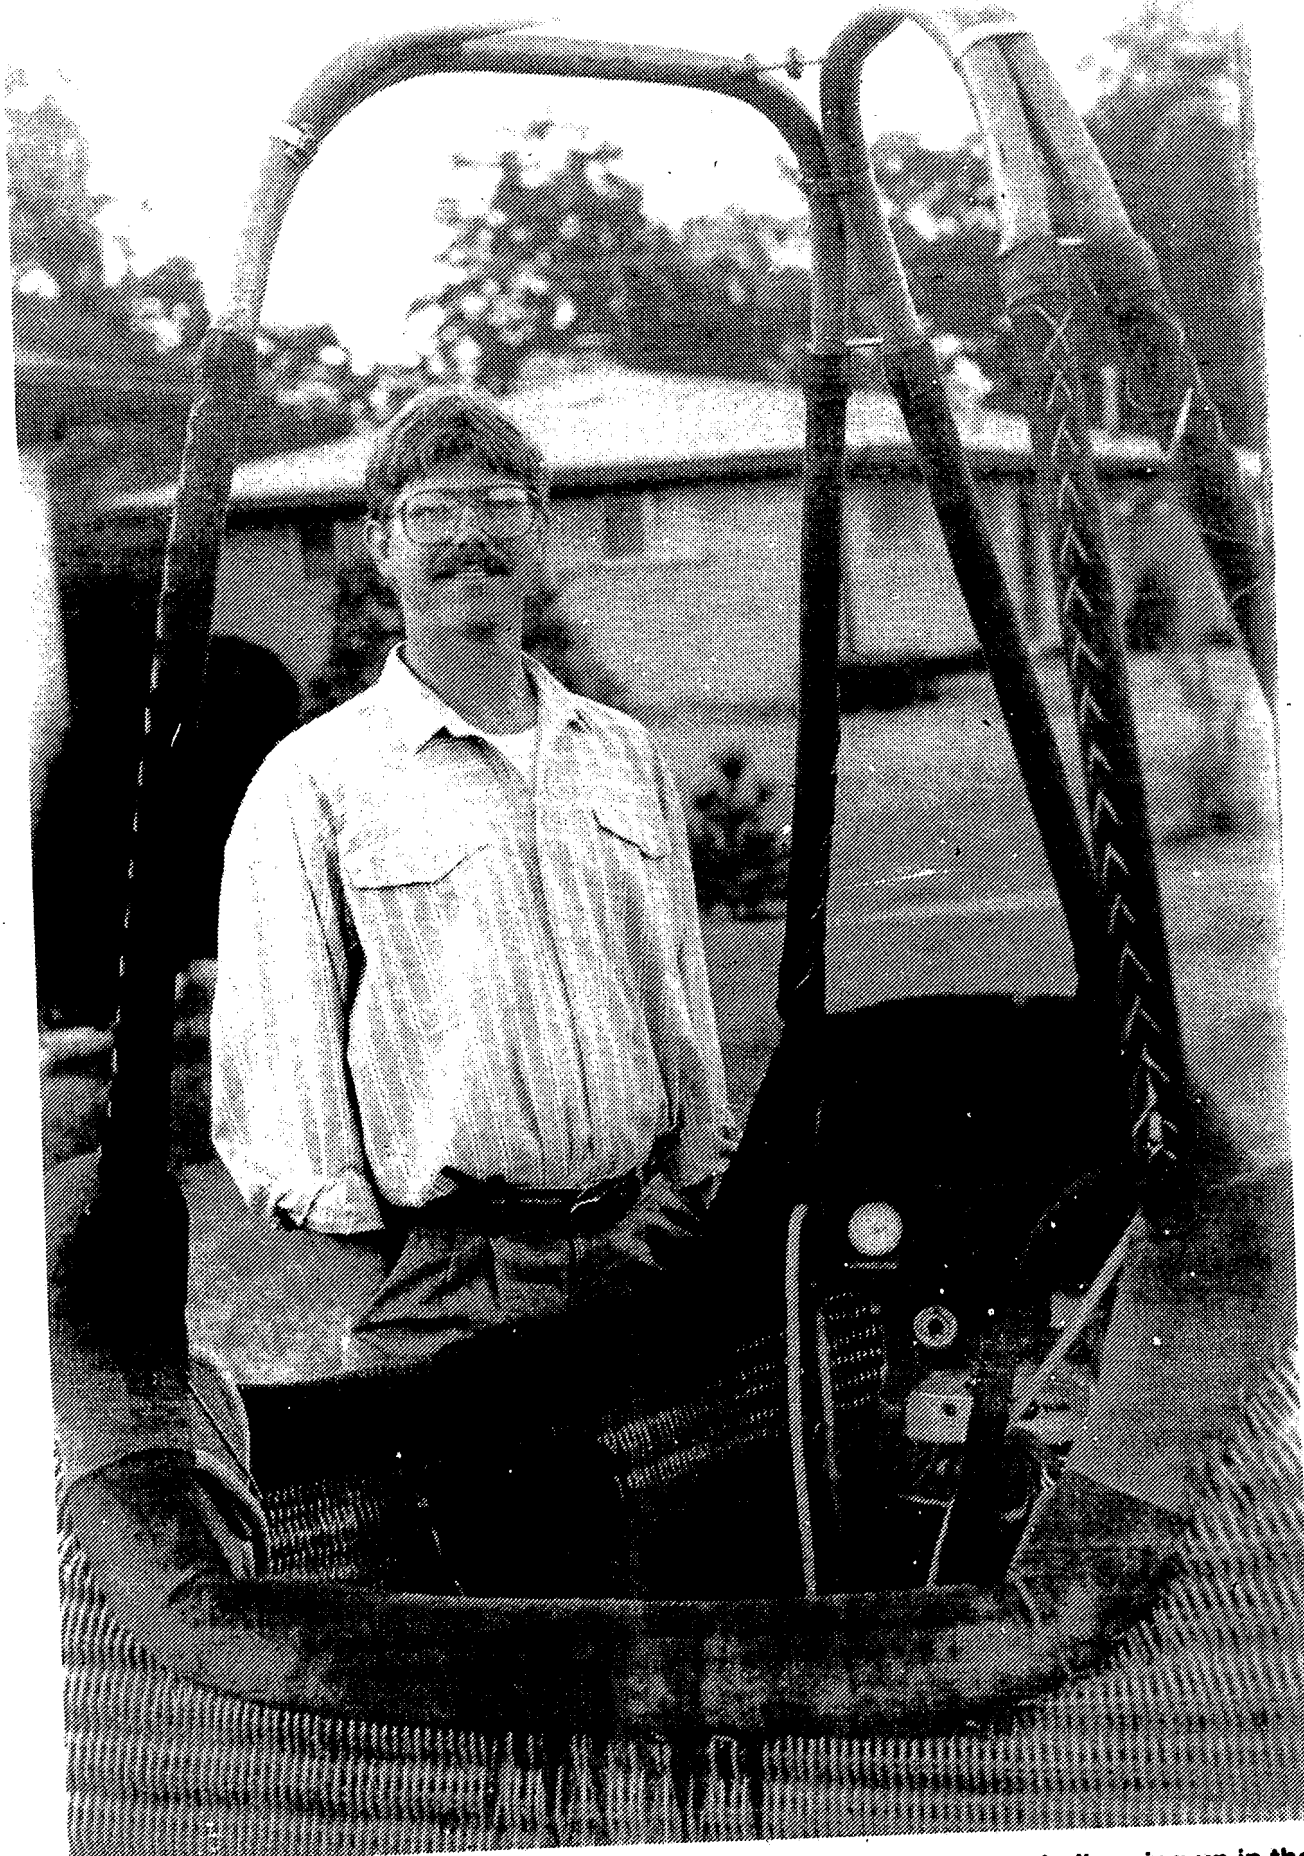

While he was the one who did the work, he said he couldn't have done it without the help of a couple of special people.

"It's all because of my parents - especially my mother," the 20-year-old said. "It must have been really hard for her, but they had faith and that helps."

His mom celebrated her birthday June 30, happy with the thought her son has made a complete comeback from his serious injury and is headed down the road toward success.

"It's a miracle he has come this far," said Rosalie Bohl. "We are excited about his achievements. My husband and I are proud of him."

The next step for Bohl is the University of Michigan (See SOCCER, on Page 22)

HOWARD STEELE of Cedar Grove, Independence Township, stands behind the basket he calls home when ballooning up in the wild blue yonder.

Local man rides plant-to-plant

On June 11, Herb Rose of Clarkston was one of six bicyclists who attempted to ride in one day from the General Dynamics Tank Plant in Warren to the General Dynamics Tank Plant in Lima, Ohio, a distance of 180 miles.

Two of the riders had trouble with their knees, one stopped bicycling after 70 miles and another after 130. One man lost the route, then had to hitchhike in order to guarantee being off the road by dark. A tandem made the distance without help.

Said Rose: "At 60 years old, (I) was the oldest rider. I was also the baldest. Unfortunately, they don't give awards for bald."

Jackson team logs no-hitter

Just when opponents thought it was safe, a pitcher for Ozzie Jackson did it again.

Following in the footsteps of Pony League teammate Chad Hetherington, Corey Olsen tossed a no-hitter June 28 to help his team to a 2-1 victory.

Ozzie Jackson, 4-0, trailed the entire game until its final at-bat in the seventh inning when the team pushed across two runs for victory.

A double by Olsen got the winning rally started for the victors.

Call for coaches

Three coaching jobs are available in the Clarkston Community School District.

Athletic Director Paul Tugate is accepting applications for two ninth-grade girls basketball coaches and one ninth-grade cheerleading coach.

Time out

Gut reaction

Peter Auchter

At first, the assignment sounded simple enough: Capture on film the raw emotion children display while bumper bowling.

Sure enough, plenty of boisterous cute kids turned out at the alley ready to roll June 29. They didn't disappoint me in the slightest - just confused me a little.

I wish I had paid attention during physics in high school, the information probably would have shed some light on the subject. Oh well, I guess hindsight is 20-20. Maybe you can figure it out.

Bowling, to me, is of the Saturday afternoon television variety on ABC's Wide World of Sports. Lots of leg kicking, arms swinging and plenty of funny expressions. The thrill of victory and agony of defeat etched on the athletes' faces.

Let's set the scene for those who have jobs that require you to work during the daylight hours these games are played:

The kids, all between the tender age of 3 and 6, would cradle the ball - usually weighing three times their body weight - between a pair of chopstick-like arms as they waddled up to the foul line.

Sometimes mom would lend a helping hand by directing them to the proper lane or acting as a caddy if there is such a thing in a bowling alley.

Following a few seconds of deliberation, off went the ball in one direction and the bowler in another.

Now, what's that scientific nonsense about an equal and opposite reaction for every action on an object?

If this were true, then the kids would either crawl back to their mothers at a snail's pace or the bowling ball would race down the alley and smash into the pins at 100 mph plus.

You see, every time the kids bowled they had this curious tendency to do an abrupt about-face and head for the hills as fast as they could. It was as if they fully expected the ball to explode when it reached its final destination. A BIG explosion at that.

After an eternity (or at least a minute or two), they would merrily wander back to their lane to find out what happened. Gee, I wonder if they got bored or just accidentally found their way back?

More often than not, the kids discovered their first effort wasn't a strike (that's bowling lingo for awesomely perfect) so they had to prepare for another bombing run.

And so it went, with the kids wearing themselves out by running back and forth a couple of hundred times. Who said bowling isn't good for your health?

In case you're unaware, bumper bowling is a game designed for the young or lousy since the gutters are filled with tubing - thereby avoiding the dreaded gutter ball.

Everybody can play this game with relative ease. It just appears as though nobody wants to watch it up close.

So much for a magic moment at the bowling alley.

in Ann Arbor. Sixty credit hours from OCC transfer to U of M, and he plans to graduate with a bachelor's degree in computer science or computer engineering field in two years.

But a degree in mathematics with the ultimate goal of becoming an instructor also is a real possibility. The excellent teachers he learned from at OCC definitely had an influence on him, he said.

"I like to speak and I enjoy sharing ideas," he said. "You have to get into a position where you can make a difference."

This summer he is keeping busy by working at F & M in the receiving department. He also works out five days a week at American Body Building and Fitness on Maybee Road. Recreationally, he plays basketball and golf.

Now that all his troubles are behind him, he's looking forward to moving to Ann Arbor in the fall and living with friends in an apartment while attending U of M.

Register for junior golfing

Springfield Township Parks and Recreation still has openings for the junior golf league which begins July 19 and continues through Aug. 16.

The league, which will meet Tuesday mornings at Springfield Oaks Golf Course, is for boys and girls ages 8-17 who have previous golf experience. Youths will be divided by age groups and play from three to nine holes depending on experience.

Participants must provide their own golf clubs and balls.

A mini-tournament will take place at the end of the program. Trophies and awards will be given to participants.

Twenty participants are needed to hold the league. For more information on the league or other summer recreation programs in Springfield Township, call the parks and recreation office at 634-0412 or 625-9622.

Senior softballers compete for World title

Like annual family reunions, the seniors on the Clarkston Merchants softball team return to Clinton Township each summer to visit with old acquaintances.

Many of the players who competed in the National Association of Senior Citizen Softball Players Championship from June 30 through July 2 at Iceberg's Sports Center know each other like brothers.

"A lot of these guys play ball in Florida," said John Thomas, of the Clarkston Merchants. "During this tournament, it's like old home week."

While all of the players play hard and are determined to see their team win, they keep the games in perspective.

One team, wearing old-fashioned pin striped uniforms and hats ala the Pittsburgh Pirates, went so far as to list the individual players' date of birth on the back of their jerseys. Last summer, the youngest player on the team was born in 1917.

The Merchants, who play their regular-season games in a 55-and-over league, entered the 60-and-over bracket at the tournament in hopes of turning around an early season slump. The switch worked wonders.

In the opening contest of the tourney on June 30, the Merchants whipped the "Incredible Hunks" from the Warren-Roseville area by a 17-2 score in a mercy game.

George Messinger started the game off on the right foot by slamming a double to right for Clarkston. The team went on to score twice in the first inning and never was threatened.

Clarkston continued to pound the opposition into the ground, winning, 12-7, and, 24-3, before losing to Northern Virginia 10-6 and the New York Tigers 6-3 Saturday morning.

"We had been hitting great," said Thomas of the Merchants after the New York game. "But it just deserted us in this game."

The New York-Clarkston game was tied 2-2 after three innings. The Tigers went in front for good with one run in the fourth on a triple and an infield single. They put the game on ice with three more runs in the sixth.

Clarkston rallied for one run in its half of the sixth on a single by pitcher Bob Waddell and an RBI double by Ed Cable but could get no more.

CLARKSTON PITCHER Bob Waddell tosses another offering to a batter Thursday afternoon, as the fans watch from behind the backstop.

More games make McCormick camp fun

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

When it was all said and done, the annual Tim McCormick Basketball Camp was declared a rousing success for all.

For the third straight summer, the camp drew a record amount of students. This time around 160 campers turned out for the week-long activities at Clarkston High School that ended July 1.

"This was the best camp by far," said McCormick, a former Springfield Township resident and CHS graduate. "I had a great time."

He is a four-year veteran of the National Basketball Association and currently plays for the New Jersey Nets.

Throughout the week coaches taught the students, from grade four through nine, the basics of basketball:

Kids can relate

When you're 6-foot-11, it's hard not to stand out in a crowd - especially when those surrounding you are children.

But former Springfield Township resident and current NBA center Tim McCormick says his height or working status hasn't gotten in the way of his coaching ability here in Clarkston.

"The majority of the kids here are not that interested in me as a (professional) basketball player," he said. "They talk to me as a friend."

McCormick does his best to cultivate a warm and friendly atmosphere during his camp.

During the final moments of this year's camp, while handing out a few New Jersey Nets pennants, he even took a light-hearted jab at his new team that left the crowd laughing.

"I know the New Jersey Nets didn't have a good year (they finished near the bottom of the league), but put these pennants on your wall and not in your closet," he said.

McCormick was traded from Philadelphia around Christmas and finished out the season in New Jersey.

Although he will dearly miss the Philadelphia area, he has coped with the situation well.

"It's part of my job," he said of the trade. "I'm very fortunate to be in the NBA. There are a lot of ups and downs, and you have to take them in stride and stay on an even keel."

He is looking forward to the start of a new season, hoping it will bring with it a fresh start for him.

"I want to keep on improving," he said. "I want to establish myself as a center in the NBA. I feel really healthy and motivated right now."

McCormick graduated from Clarkston High School in 1980 and went on to lead the University of Michigan to a National Invitational Tournament title.

shooting, dribbling, defense and team play were just a few of the topics.

There also were basketball videos for kids to view and hopefully learn from.

In years past, the campers always left yearning to play more games. Organizers expanded the schedule this year to accommodate the hoops fans.

"This year we put more emphasis on games," said Mike McCormick, Tim's younger brother. "We wanted to emphasize the fundamentals of the game."

Apparently, the formula was just right, because the campers had the time of their life.

"I really like the games," said Evan Brown, who signed up for the early morning program. "They were fun."

Matt Mathiak is a veteran of McCormick's basketball camps and said he liked watching the videos.

All of the coaches were pleased with the efforts put forth by the campers and there were no glitches to foul up the program, said McCormick.

Before letting the students go when the camp was over Friday afternoon, McCormick dispensed a few words of advice to the kids.

"I've seen improvement in all of you," he said. "But you have to go home and work on it every day. You came here for a purpose. I'm going to see a big improvement in all of you next year."

At home floating in the sky

He earned his commercial license and went into business for himself to help offset the high cost of the equipment and insurance. For $250, Great Lakes Horizons will provide a three-hour balloon ride for two, champagne, color wallet-sized picture and a collector's pin featuring "Autumn Daze."

The Steeles are especially pleased with the oval stick pins since Michelle helped design them. It features their balloon floating in the blue sky and a reflection of it over a pond.

Just as race car drivers collect patches, balloonists around the world exchange pins.

"Ours is a lot different," he said. "We are proud of it."

They are also proud to take part in a wholesome activity such as ballooning. When Howard participates in rallies, the whole family can tag along and have fun.

Since balloonists fly only in the early morning or late evening (for safety reasons) the middle part of the day is open for sightseeing with his wife and two sons, ages 6 and 3.

"It furthers the family concept," he said. "I can't do that with electrical work."

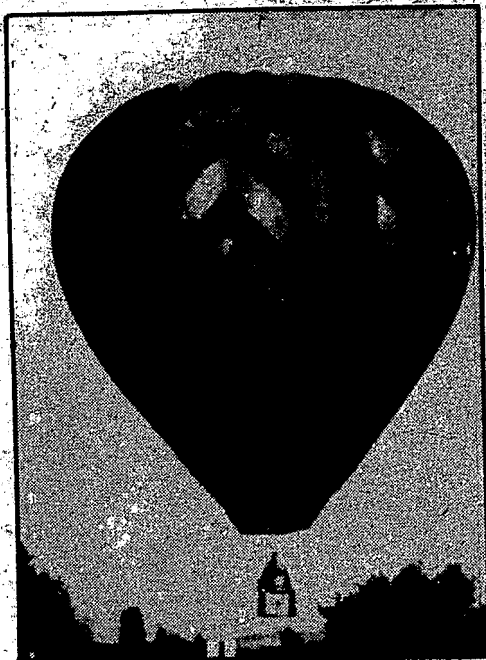

A typical rally goes as follows:

Balloonists start off at the event base and fly out a minimum of three miles and a maximum of eight. Then they must fly back to base where a 80-foot bow tie is drawn on the ground with an "X" marked in the center.

Participants score points by dropping a 3 1/2 ounce bean bag with a six-foot long streamer as close to the "X" as possible. The bags touching the bow tie anywhere are disqualified.

Ballooning and navigational skills are needed to succeed in this type of contest, and so is a great deal of luck, said Steele, membership chairman of the South East Michigan Balloon Association (SEMBA).

"There have been great balloonists who have flown a balloon for a long time who can't do this," he said of the tasks performed at the rally.

WHEN INFLATED Steele's hot air balloon weighs 2.6 tons. Deflated, the balloon folds up into a package small enough to fit in the back of a pick-up.

Although by his own admission he is inexperienced compared with other balloonists at these competitions, he has turned in better performances.

At the Michigan Challenge in Howell two weeks ago he finished third, ahead of a seven-time world champion and many other talented balloonists.

After the race, he was ecstatic.

"I went there to see what I could do and I beat out some of the big guys," he said. "I was tickled to death. It was a good feeling."

IMPRESSIONISTS such as Ravel and Debussy appeal to Quentin Chiappetta, who doesn't categorize himself. "I'm only 17. I don't want to narrow myself down," he said.

Young pianist to study in East

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Music is like another language to Quentin Chiappetta, a 17-year-old Clarkston resident who is rapidly becoming proficient in this form of communication.

Quentin graduated from Interlochen Arts Academy this year and applied at "a few easy schools" plus a long shot - the Eastman School of Music in Rochester, N.Y., which is affiliated with Rochester University.

He's still trying to overcome the shock of his acceptance at Eastman, says Quentin.

Nicknamed "The Harvard of Composition," Eastman accepts only six composition students each year. About 125 people apply from all over the country.

"I was pretty surprised," Quentin says of his acceptance. "I'm still in shock about it."

To apply at Eastman, Quentin sent them his portfolio containing scores he had written. Then he traveled to New York for a "grueling" audition, including a performance on the piano. Next, they tested his ear training and knowledge of theory, and they asked him to sing.

"They test every musical thing on your body," he says.

Next year, he's required to study two instruments in addition to the piano, plus he'll audition on the piano again in front of a jury to make sure he's up to par.

Although he's a little nervous, he's looking forward to it, he says. "The atmosphere is kind of like Interlochen, so that will make it easier. Plus, I've been away from home, so I've got that in my pocket."

He began playing violin in the third or fourth grade but switched to piano after his mother received one for her birthday.

Ivan Rouse, of the Clarkston Conservatory of Music, gave him lessons and quickly became his mentor, says Quentin.

"He's been there by my side all the time. He's helped me out a lot," he says.

He credits his parents for raising him to be independent and for sending him to Interlochen.

"My parents never pushed me into it, but they were always there to support me," he says, mentioning that some people regard music as an impractical thing to study.

On the other hand, Quentin doesn't understand some people's preoccupation with money or material things.

"I can't be interested in that, yet," he said. "There's more to it. ... I just enjoy music. I don't want to do anything else."

Over the summer, he's working at the Main Street Deli in Independence Township and is composing music and playing the piano.

Music moves the man

After 63 years, Springfield Township resident Emil Sutt still enjoys writing and performing

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

In his 63 years of playing woodwinds, Emil Sutt has worked in clubs run by the Mafia, witnessed gun fights and the war-time black market and accompanied stars at live theaters in the area.

He has organized bands and composed music and arranged others' works. An avid reader and lover of art, Emil never tires of music - all music, but especially the classics, he says.

In his hilltop studio overlooking his Springfield Township home on Susin Lake, Emil smiles a lot, and his voice bursts with enthusiasm when speaking of his lifetime love.

The 72-year-old still enjoys composition. "I love writing," he says. "I prefer writing to anything I do. It's a creative process, and you love hearing it played back."

Although Emil's band is well known in the area (they play again in Clarkston on Friday, July 29, at Depot Park), Emil prefers writing to performing.

"I'm basically very shy in front of people. I'm really not an actor or performer. I just enjoy playing. Music is a strange phenomena. ... You express yourself emotionally. You sort of bare your soul," he says.

Through music and the study of other art forms, Emil has found his path to happiness.

"I have no regrets. I love my lifestyle. Probably the reason I'm healthy is because I've enjoyed everything I've done," he says. "I have a terrific wife. She's very supportive. She's a very fine vocalist. That's how we met. I asked her to sing for the band."

It all started at age 9, when Emil began playing the saxophone, a relatively new instrument. His Catholic school taught him the basics of music in Cleveland, Ohio. In childhood, he also enjoyed reading, music and art, and he earned a college scholarship for his talents as an artist.

In college, he studied art and music, and just to be safe - accounting. For 11 years, he worked in the accounting department at General Motors, but he always played in bands in the evenings and has since supported himself solely with his musical talents.

"Money has never been the main criterion in my life," he says. "I prefer doing something that's important to me. If it doesn't pay, it doesn't pay. If you have mental health, if you're happy in your work, you'll have a good life."

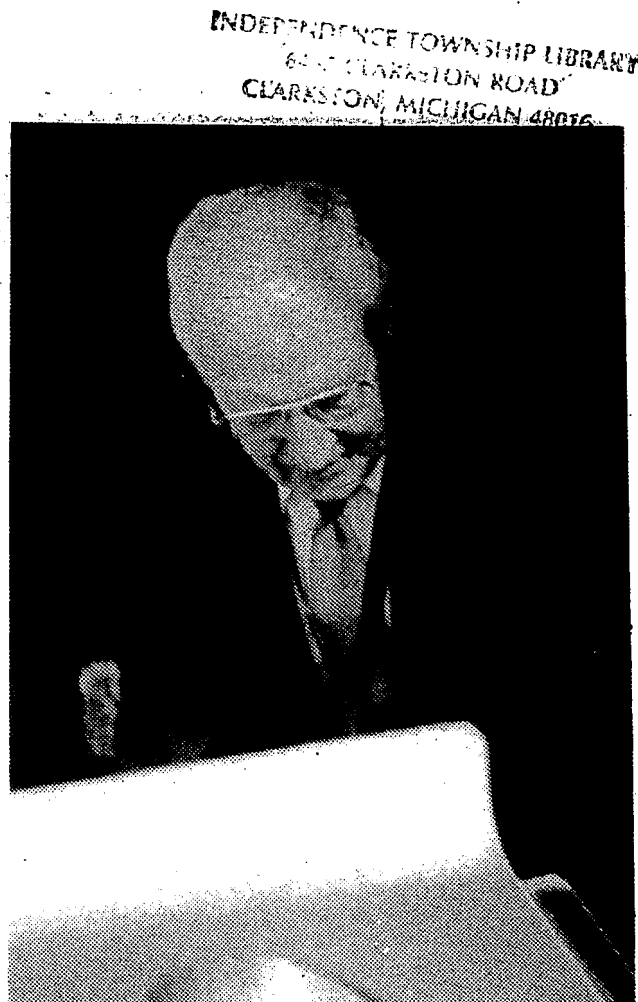

Lately, he's found another fulfilling activity - teaching. Although usually a listener, he found he had to talk a lot with children, Emil says, sharing his philosophy.

"Teaching has very little to do with music, basically. It's personality on personality. Each child is different," he says. "I love teaching. It keeps me healthy-minded because young people are active. And it brings back memories of high school and junior high."

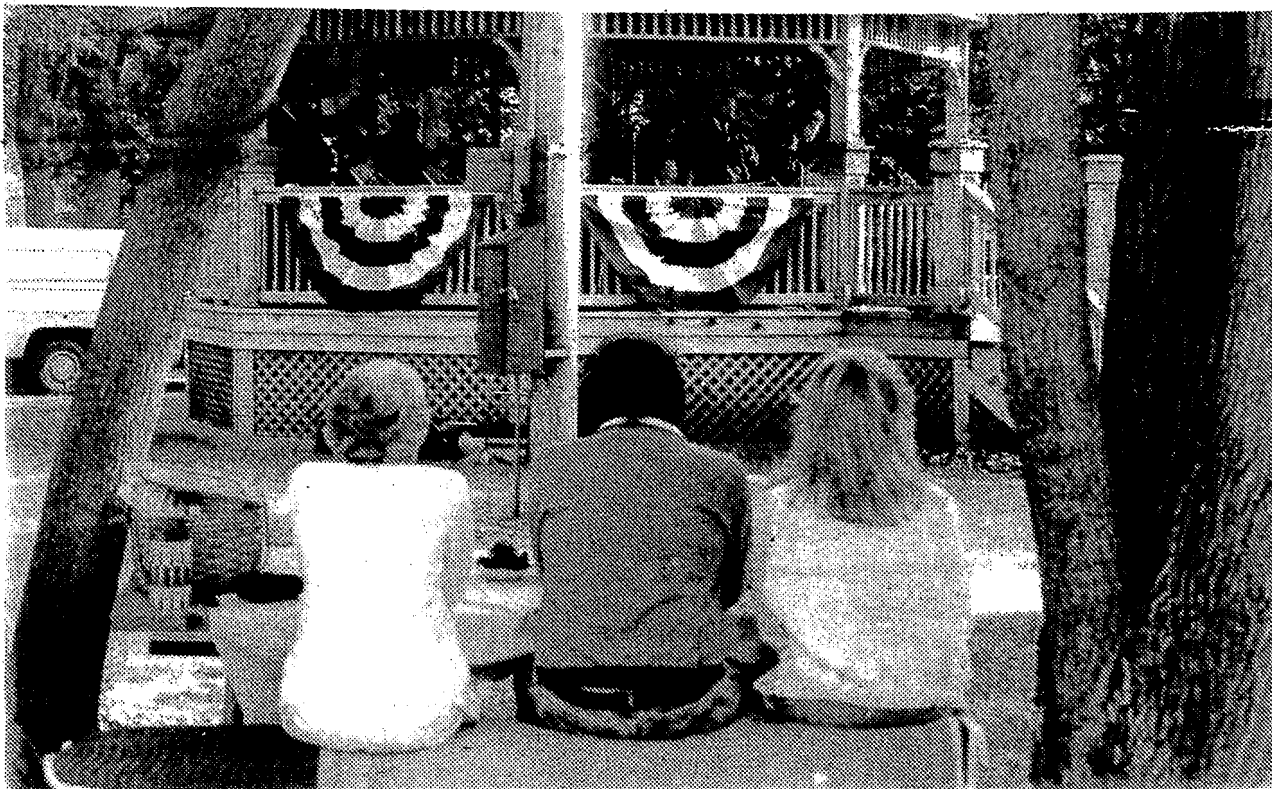

He advises all young people: "Don't try to please other people, just please yourself. You're never going to please everybody anyway."

It's advice Emil seems to have followed his entire life and advice he says he'll continue to follow.

"I'm just learning," he says.

MUSIC CAN MAKE PEOPLE HAPPY says band leader Emil Sutt, before a concert in Depot Park, Clarkston on July 1. Emil also plays at Meadowbrook Music Theater, Rochester, and the Star Theater, Flint, when needed. Big band and contemporary music please the crowds, but Emil and the band like to play something "far out" every once in a while, just for the challenge.

PARK TABLES are perfect seats for music fans of all ages during the annual Concert in the Park series that began Friday night with the Emil Sutt Band. The concerts, sponsored by the Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce, run from 7-9 p.m. every Friday in July.

The music continues at Clarkston's Depot Park on Friday, July 8, with Ler Heller and the Shadows performing in the Concerts in the Park series.

"It's a small band, but they make a big band sound," said Joan Kopietz of Tierra Inc., organizer of the concerts.

The band, which performed in the summer concert series last year, plays a selection of music spanning the 1930s to 1960s. "They just do a little of everything," Kopietz said.

The free concert begins at 7 p.m. in the park adjacent to Clarkston Village Hall, 375 Depot Rd., with music planned each Friday in July at the same time.

In its ninth annual run, the series has a new sponsor, the Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce. Previously, the programs were sponsored by the Village Business Association.

The the Music Performance Trust Fund pays for half the cost of each concert as long as performers are members of the Pontiac Federation of Musicians. This year, the five concerts on each Friday in July will cost a total of $1,575.

The money comes from donations dropped in the "Band Aid Boxes" found in local businesses, from the sale of soft drinks and popcorn during the concerts and from sponsors, patrons and band box donors who donate cash to the cause.

The names of the sponsors and patrons are listed on the back of the concert programs that are distributed free of charge each week to concert-goers.

There are many people on the list who willingly donate each year to keep the concerts alive, said Kopietz.

"If it weren't for them, we wouldn't have (the concerts)," she said. "These patrons and sponsors should be thanked by everyone."

In an effort to encourage more community involvement, clubs have been asked to help sell refreshments and distribute programs this year. This week, the duties will be performed by members of the Clarkston Optimist Club.

And the concert bands play on . . .

I tried aerobics

Guys, next time you see an aerobics class being put through their paces don't laugh; try it. Chances are you'll wake up crying the next morning.

Do you know this guy: "Aerobics? Why, I don't need that sissy stuff. I'm a man, a real man, by God! I bench press Volvos, scorn quiche, get jock itch. I'm tough! Tough, tough, tough."

I've run across a few of his kind before. To a lesser degree, I was him.

"That's nice. Go do your little aerobics and remember, if you should - gasp - break into a sweat or glisten or whatever you call it, stop. We don't want to hurt ourselves, do we?"

I'd then proceed to do what I considered a grueling "manly" workout using Nautilus machines or free weights.

My workouts are usually pretty strenuous. So when a couple of aerobicizing friends (The Clarkston News' very own Pat Young and Deer Lake faithful Doreen Schwarze) brought up the matter of me coming to class one day, I figured it would be something I could handle.

Granted, I did have misgivings about keeping in step (a Solid Gold dancer, I'm not), but as for stamina, no sweat (so to speak). Remember, tough, tough, tough! ... Yeah, remember the Alamo.

So what happened? Allow me to answer that question by explaining what didn't happen. I didn't have a baby. I was sure I was going to. But alas, I didn't.

The sharp pains in my stomach the next morning were merely my muscles telling me we all do stupid things in our lives.

I didn't, and don't for a very long time (like never), plan on telling anyone aerobics is too easy or "unmanly." On the contrary, whoever can do aerobics on a regular basis has my utmost respect, man, woman or other.

I didn't know I could hear my heart pounding so clearly when I stood still (actually I did, but haven't in a while). I didn't know something that looked so easy could be so difficult.

And now for the really funny part - going in I didn't know I'd actually enjoy aerobics. Pat, Doreen, see you next week!

She was there!

One-two-three. Bend-stretch-breathe deeply. He was the youngest person working out on this occasion, though certainly there are often younger bodies in the class. In this particular case there were a few considerably older - and most were having more fun.

I've seen happier faces on people in the dentist's office than the one Dave Kwasnick was wearing during his first aerobics class at the Deer Lake Racquet Club.

Dave works at the club, and I had prodded him to try aerobics and write a summer column on the experience. An aerobics buff myself, I made sure I was on hand for the memorable occasion.

By the end of the hour-long class, his apprehensive expression had turned to a sweaty smile, though he may have been smiling because the class was over. I didn't ask.

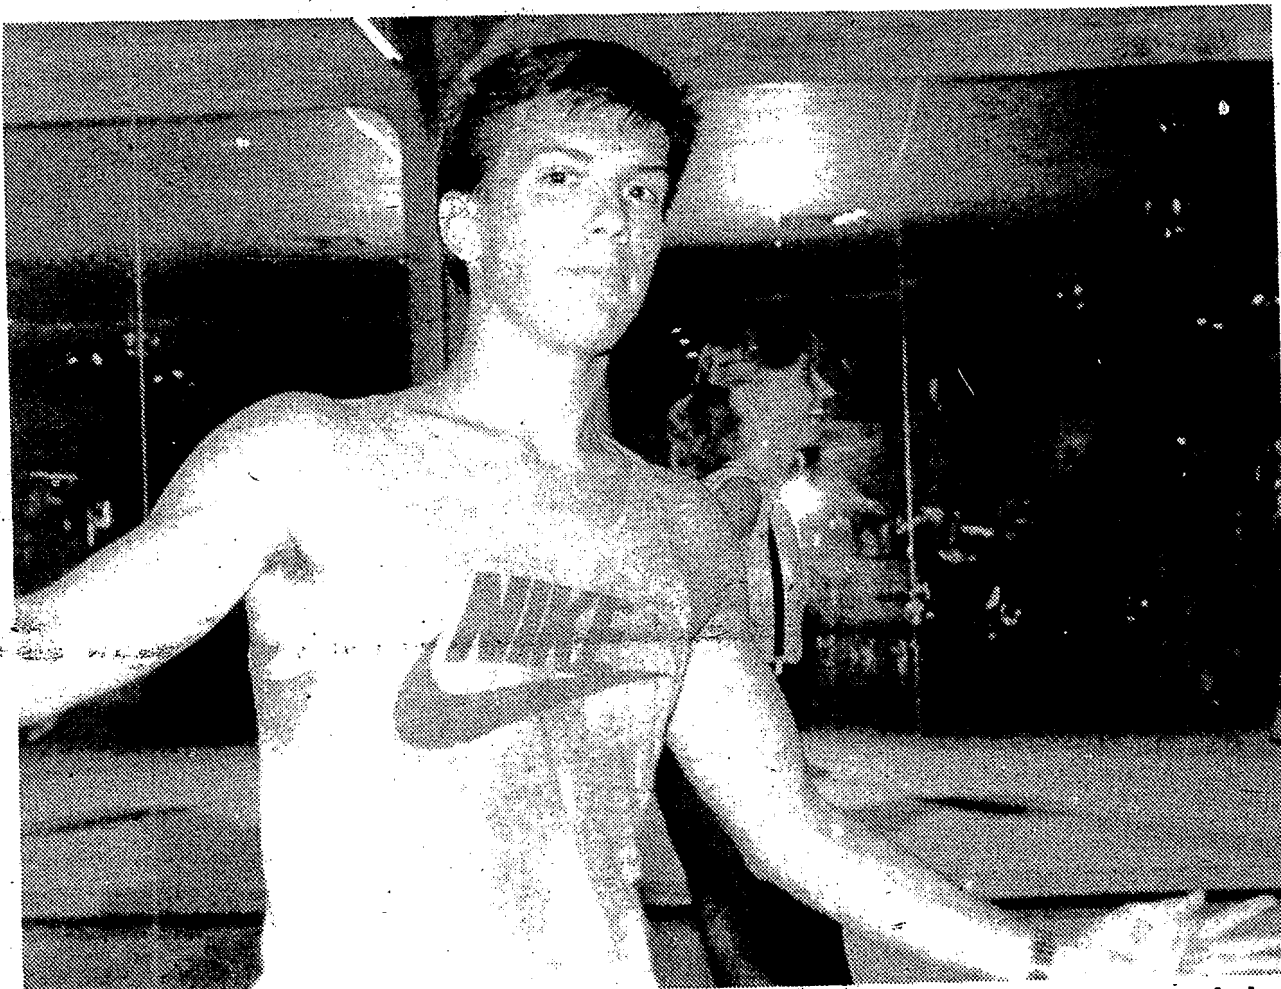

Now, at 18 and freshly graduated from Clarkston High School, Dave has the stamina and the strength. In fact, he works in the Nautilus equipment room at the club. But aerobics is different.

Some guys think it's "sissy stuff" and others are afraid it will kill them. Some put it in the same category as disco dancing - it's on their "never" list.

But guys, Dave is living proof that aerobics is really just a fun way to exercise. Everyone can do it at his own pace ...

One-two-three. Halfway through the class, I noticed Dave's face is a little flushed. Breathe, Dave.

Leigh Lozano, daughter of Rudy and Susan Lozano of Independence Township and a seventh-grader at St. Hugo's in Bloomfield Hills, visited Space Camp on June 12-17.

Highlight of the five-day program is a simulated mission using space shuttle and mission control mockups built specially for Space Camp.

"You got a special part just like in a real shuttle," said Leigh, whose role was payload specialist No. 2 on the mock mission. "I thought it was really fun and very educational."

Open to youngsters in grades four through seven, Space Camp introduces trainees to the history of space exploration during tours of The Space and Rocket Center in Huntsville, Ala. They also visit NASA's Marshall Space Flight Center and Space Station.

Microwave tools: Helpful tips for wise choices

Microwaving has become a fast and easy way to warm up or cook almost any food imaginable. People who purchase microwaves quickly learn which containers can be safely used in microwaves and which should be avoided.

Metal or objects containing metal should be avoided, says Linda Exum, Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service Home Economist.

Metal pans and dishes, aluminum foil and even twist ties should not be used, she says.

Oven-proof and ceramic dishes are preferred for microwave cooking, some glass dishes or painted bowls contain a metallic substance and are not suitable for use.

To test your dish, place a cup of tap water and the empty dish in the oven and microwave on high for one minute. If the water gets hot and the dish doesn't, it can be used. If the dish is hot, do not use in the microwave.

Plastics such as strong thermo-plastics are formulated for use in the microwave and won't melt. Foam cups will heat liquids but will melt with fats and sugars. Plastic wrap is a good cover because it will trap heat and steam.

Wooden spoons can be left in a dish for stirring, and rolls may be heated in a straw basket. As a rule, don't cook in wood more than five minutes.

Paper products such as paper plates and paper towels are easy, convenient and versatile tools for microwaving. Paper towels can be used to line bowls, wrap products or act as a spatter shield for the bottom of the microwave oven.

To keep foods moist, dampen paper towels before wrapping foods. Avoid using recycled paper, since it may contain substances that could ignite.

Whatever utensils you use with your microwave oven, exercise care. For further information, call the Oakland County cooperative Extension Services Foods Hotline at 858-0904.

'Dog days' here

While August, when Canis Major is high in the evening sky, is the usual time for "dog days", this year the warm weather associated with dog days has come early.

The hot, humid days can prove as miserable for pets as for their owners.

In an effort to keep pets comfortable and safe, the Michigan Humane Society offers tips for pet owners:

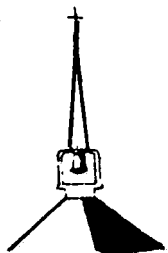

- ~ Never leave a pet in a parked car. The temperature can rise to an unbearable level in a very short time.
- ~ If the pet is kept outdoors, be sure there is shade available.
- ~ Fresh, clean water must be available at all times.
- ~ Exercising is best done in the early morning or late evening when temperatures are lower.

What's Cooking

Flavor endures

Pat Young

With all the state-of-the-art cooking equipment and techniques today, it's fun now and then to take a look back in time.

A dust-covered cookbook dating back to 1913 had this wonderful, old-fashioned recipe for corn fritters.

The book proclaimed that the fritters are a "palatable accompaniment to roast chicken," but they would be a fine addition to a backyard barbecue as well.

CORN FRITTERS

- 1 tablespoon melted Crisco (or any liquid vegetable shortening)
- 1 can crushed corn
- 1 cup flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1/4 teaspoon white pepper
- 3 tablespoons milk

Put corn into bowl, add Crisco, salt, pepper, flour, baking powder and milk. Mix well and drop in spoonfuls on a greased griddle. "Fire brown" on both sides. Sufficient for 12 corn fritters.

Boat safety courses are offered this month

Boating accidents accounted for 1,066 deaths in 1986, according to the National Transportation Safety Board.

Since some basic boating knowledge could have prevented many of the accidents and Oakland County accounts for 10 over 10 percent of Michigan's boaters, the county sheriff's department is making a special effort to train new boaters, especially those in the 12-16 age group.

Persons between 12-16 are required by Michigan law to have completed an approved boating safety course before operating a motor boat alone. The six-hour course is also available to adults.

Classes are being formed at the following locations:

- Oakland County Sheriff's Department Marine Division, Tuesday and Thursday, July 12 and 14, from 9 a.m. to noon.

- Waterford Parks and Recreation Department, Tuesday and Thursday, July 12 and 14, 6 to 9 p.m.

Lake associations, boating clubs and other groups interested in safety on the water can arrange for classes for their groups or neighborhoods by calling the marine division at 858-4991.

Volunteers needed

The Michigan Cancer Foundation (MCF) North Oakland Unit in Pontiac needs volunteers for daytime work.

Volunteers perform a variety of activities necessary for cancer patients and their families to receive services, including general office work, community referrals and telephone contact work with patients and health care professionals. On-the-job training is provided.

Interested persons should call the North Oakland Office at 332-5620.

The Michigan Cancer Foundation is a Torch Drive/United Way agency.

Amphitheater provides perfect setting for series

BY KATHY GREENFIELD
Clarkston News Editor

Down the path next to the Independence Oaks Nature Center, tucked among the whispering trees and natural greenery, sits the Sadie and Irwin Cohn Outdoor Amphitheater.

The amphitheater will be a popular evening spot for those who want to enhance their knowledge and appreciation of the outdoors by attending a series of special programs, with two planned this month, and one each month in August, September and October.

Nature and history are the focal points, said Kathleen Dougherty, head naturalist at the county park in Independence Township.

The purpose of the series "is to provide people with information and also provide settings for these artisans who have messages rather than just entertainment," she says. "It's a beautiful setting. We're hoping for a successful season."

For $1 a person per program plus the park vehicle entry fee, the following special presentations have been scheduled:

● Friday, July 8, "Wildlife Encounters," with representatives of the Michigan United Conservation Clubs, will include live animals to highlight wildlife concepts at the 7 to 8 p.m. program.

● Friday, July 29, "A Visitor From the Past," with Baptiste, a French fur trader of the late 1700s, will provide a glimpse of life in earlier Michigan. Indian legends, songs and audience participation will bring the 7 to 8 p.m. presentation to life.

● Sunday, Aug. 28, "Just Friends," with songs of simpler times to music of the dulcimer, celtic harp, guitar and banjo, will entertain from 3:30 to 5 p.m. The group has performed at the Detroit Institute of Arts, festivals, libraries and schools.

● Sunday, Sept. 18, "Prairie Pete and Sister Sarah" will bring to life daily existence on Michigan prairies in

THE SADIE AND IRWIN COHN amphitheater is an excellent place for communing with nature, and for a series of programs that go beyond entertainment. "You have the back-the 1800s. The program is planned from 2 to 3 p.m.

● Sunday, Oct. 2, "Earthsongs" by Douglas Wood will combine art, science and environmental education through the magical media of music from 3 to 5 p.m. The Minnesota artist is well known throughout the Midwest.

Those who wish to attend the programs should purchase tickets in advance if possible by visiting the nature center or calling 625-6473 to pre-register. The park vehicle entry fee is $3 weeknights, including Friday, and $4 on weekends. The Cohn Amphitheater was built in 1987 through donations from the Oakland Parks Foundation. It may be used by schools, senior citizens and other groups. The benches provide seats for about 200, the facility is wheelchair accessible and a screen is available for slide presentations. A fire circle is included for group sing-alongs.

Independence Oaks County Park is on Sashabaw Road, two and one-half miles north of I-75.

Malls and all

Suzanne Baumann

Sometimes I think it would be fun to live in a shopping mall, spending my days playing on the escalators and switching wigs on the mannequins.

Everything I could possibly need would be there: food at the restaurants, bedding at the home furnishing departments, bathing in those big fountains, and entertainment in all those bookstores, record shops and movie theaters.

The clothing stores would supply me with an endless wardrobe, and, thanks to all the shoppers, I could make new acquaintances every single day.

Aren't mall people great? I love 'em.

Perhaps some of you know already about the expansion in store for Pontiac's Summit Place mall; the one claiming to include "106 exciting new stores."

Perpetually arranged throughout the mall's premises are displays showing an artist's rendition of the new wing on a typical day, complete with shoppers walking through. Ever seen it?

The artist did a nice job, yet with one exception: He doesn't know the first thing about the kind of people found in a mall.

The entire picture is nothing but middle-aged Caucasians in suits going from one store to another. I thought, Where are the guys with beer bellies and ponytails? (They make up a quarter of the mall's population.)

How about the retirees in groups of four or five who bring their own food, sit on a bench and talk? They're everywhere. In fact, the suit-wearers are probably one of the least common sights.

High school and college students were overlooked completely in the picture, all except for one solitary young man. He had a loose-fitting jacket (perhaps suede), a white T-shirt and crew-cut hair. Definitely not a frequent mall-goer.

Most of the young adults I see hang out in groups. A composite of all these groups would be someone wearing an anti-apartheid jacket, a T-shirt adorned with Greek letters and blue hair that reaches to the end of his fingertips... that is if he held his arms up over his head.

The cheerful young families overlooked: Dad carrying the baby while Mom pushes 4-year-old big brother in the stroller. The boy wears a Burger King crown, the salivated remains of a Slurpee dripping from one end of a straw and into his lap.

Every store has its special sounds and all customers seem to conform to them.

The shops with loud music and flashy lights are filled with laughter and phrases such as "Ooh, isn't this adorable?" The stores with middle-of-the-volume-knob music and no special lighting have the staff talking among themselves.

The places with no music and bright, white lights have salesman and customer in conversation. Finally, in the stores that go very minimal on both lighting and music, people don't dare to open their mouths unless they have to.

The one thing I can't stand about malls are those big "sculptures": Somebody chisels out a 50-foot semicircle of granite and calls it a sculpture.

Yes, it looks all right, it fits in, but it's not art. See it once and there's no more to see. Get too close to it and the security guards come after you. I guess I just don't get it.

It's hard sometimes to believe that 30 years ago malls in this part of the country were altogether unheard of. We've adjusted rather well, haven't we?

Suzanne Baumann will begin the 10th grade at Clarkston High School in the fall.

NOTICE OF PENDING CLASS ACTION TO OBTAIN
RIGHT OF WAY FOR STORM DRAIN CONSTRUCTION
PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that under MCL 213.51 et seq., an action has been commenced by the Independence M-15 Drainage District, a statutory corporation under Chapter 20 of the Drain Code of 1956, MCL 280.1 et seq., to acquire right of way for the construction, maintenance and repair of a storm drain, the route for which will pass through certain sections of land that were platted as private roads and alleys in the Supervisor's Plat establishing the Clarkston Estates No. 2 Subdivision.

Any owner of a lot in the above-mentioned Subdivision, and any other party having any property interest in such lots, has the right to be included as a defendant in the class action and to pursue any rights and remedies available under the Uniform Condemnation Procedures Act, MCLA 213.51 et seq. Any person desiring to so participate in the action must file in writing an appropriate election statement, and file any motion seeking to challenge necessity under MCLA 213.56, with the Oakland County Circuit Court, referencing the case number above, on or before July 15, 1988.

The Independence M-15 Drainage District has estimated that no compensation is payable to any lot owner for the right of way being sought in the platted private roads and alleys, and has also ascertained that no damage to any lot owner's property or to the private roads and alleys will occur, and that no adverse financial impact will be caused to any lot owner in the Subdivision. Therefore, if judgment, whether by default or otherwise, is entered in favor of the Independence M-15 Drainage District, no compensation will be paid by the Independence M-15 Drainage District to any lot owner in the Subdivision or any other interested party. A final judgment in this class action will bind all lot owners in the Subdivision and any other parties having any property interest in any lot in the Subdivision.

Copies of the Complaint, Declaration Of Taking and Statement Of Necessity have been mailed to all owners of lots abutting the sections of platted private roads and alleys within which construction will occur and, in addition, should any lot owner or other interested party wish to obtain copies of the Complaint, Statement of Necessity or Declaration Of Taking, such copies may be obtained either from the Circuit Court for the County of Oakland, 1200 N. Telegraph, Pontiac, Michigan 48055; from the Office of the Oakland County Drain Commissioner, 1 Public Works Drive, Pontiac, Michigan 48054; or from Jon R. Steiger, Dickinson, Wright, Moon, Van Dusen & Freeman, 525 North Woodward Avenue, P.O. Box 509, Bloomfield Hills, Michigan 48013, 646-4300, attorney for the Independence M-15 Drainage District.

Parade rolls through town

PARADE GRAND MARSHALL Bob Krick led the parade in a car driven by Capt. Mike Fahrner of the Independence Township Fire Department.

CARS, CARS, and more cars participated in Clarkston's July 4 Parade Monday. Over 500 people later viewed 35-40 cars on display in Depot Park for the Clarkston Touring and Chowder Society's first "cars in the park" post-parade event.

THE CLARKSTON NEWS float, "Volunteers are the Heart of the Community," captured a second place award in the July 4 parade. The theme this year was "Volunteers of America."
