High winds result in Main Street banner ban

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston Community Education's hopes for some highly visible publicity were literally blown out of the air -- twice -- during last week's storms, and the result has been a ban on all banners across Main Street attached to light poles.

The brand new banner announced "Community Education Registration, Aug. 15-Sept. 23" and sported the community education logo, a bright red "You Can" schoolhouse and community education's phone number, 674-0993.

The banner was hung between utility poles in downtown Clarkston across Main Street last Monday, Aug. 15, by Michigan Bell Telephone Co. employees.

Though it was properly constructed and had wind vents, the high winds accompanying afternoon thunderstorms for the next two days proved too much for the banner and the utility pole it was attached to, said Chris Scharrer, project coordinator with Clarkston Community Education. The banner blew down on Tuesday, was reattached and blew down again on Wednesday.

"Now I have $500 banner in the trunk of my car," said Scharrer.

And Detroit Edison has a damaged light pole, minus the street light, which came crashing down during the whole thing.

"It's a wonder it didn't pull that pole up by the

Here comes autumn — school begins

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

It's back -- that time of year that parents love! Children in the Clarkston Community School District return to classes on Aug. 31.

An increase is expected in pupil enrollment at the elementary level, according to Superintendent Gary Haner, and a similar enrollment to last year at the secondary level (grades 7-12).

School staff is still in the process of a "nose count" that will determine, along with the new enrollment, the exact student population, Haner said. But at this time, there are already 25 to 30 new teachers hired, some to fill the needs of increased enrollment and others replacing teachers who have retired or left the district.

This year, all of the district's sixth-graders will attend junior high school, which completes the first step toward a middle school concept. Last year, only a portion of the sixth grades were incorporated into the junior highs.

Also this year, two math support teachers have been added at the elementary level in accordance with Plan B following the successful millage election.

Roofing projects will be under way at four schools, Bailey Lake, Pine Knob and North Sashabaw elementary schools and Sashabaw Junior High, until about mid-November, Haner said, which may cause some temporary disruption.

But other than that, everything is in order, he said. "We're just down to the last few hirings at the elementary level, based on the count," Haner said. "Everything else is ready to roll."

Party in the park

Car buffs, ice cream lovers and Dixieland band fans have reason to gather in Clarkston's Depot Park on Friday, Aug. 26.

The Meadow Brook Historic Races Concours in the Park and the old-fashioned ice cream social to benefit Clarkston SCAMP are planned from 6 to 9 p.m.

More than 50 classic street automobiles and vintage race cars are to be displayed, with background music provided by the Mertsides Minstrels, a Dixieland band.

Admission to the park is free, and all proceeds from the sale of ice cream, donated by Stroh's, and soft drinks, donated by the Metropolitan Coca-Cola Bottlers, will go to SCAMP, a five-week summer camp program that serves about 200 handicapped children and young adults from northern Oakland County.

The annual Concours in the Park was originally scheduled Aug. 5 in conjunction with races at the Waterford Hills Raceway, but the party was forced to cancel due to tornado warnings and thunderstorms.

Depot Park is in downtown Clarkston, one block west of Main Street. For more information, call 373-2500.

Recycling effort under way for Oakland County

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Solid waste, a problem Oakland County has grappled with for years, may be reduced by recycling if communities will cooperate on the effort.

Catherine Chown, communications specialist for Resource Recycling Systems Inc. of Ann Arbor, made a presentation at the Springfield Township Board's August meeting. She is making similar presentations at communities throughout the county.

Resource Recycling has been contracted by the county to develop future waste management plans for every community.

"The county generates approximately 3,000 tons a day of solid waste," Chown said. "We feel there's a certain amount of responsibility on the part of each individual community to make the countywide waste reduction goal."

That goal, according to Chown, is a 20 percent reduction within five years. "It could be up to 60 percent with a very aggressive program," she said.

"We're trying to make everyone aware of the problem," she said, adding that landfills are hard to find these days, and incinerators are controversial.

"We should do anything possible to recycle and not use landfill," agreed Springfield Township Supervisor Collin Walls.

Resource Recycling's strategy for reducing the county's waste is to establish municipal and commercial recycling waste reduction and composting projects.

"We are to come up with a countywide plan with individual elements," she said. "Then it's in the county and individual community's hands."

Holly is currently involved in recycling, Chown said. "We would like to do some kind of regional coordination in Holly, because they are already active in recycling, and because they want to do it."

She told Springfield Township residents they were welcome to take glass or newspapers to the Holly drop-off center. In rural areas like Springfield, she added, drop-off centers would work better than curb-side pick up.

She said there were other products recycling programs could go after, such as metal and some plastic, and that they were looking into other hard-to-dispose-of items such as tires and batteries.

She also said that composting leaves, grass clippings and brush could reduce trash in the township by as much as 20 percent a year.

Phase one of Resource Recycling's plan will be the preparation of a report with long-term strategy and general recommendations by October or November.

Phase two will be detail planning, costs, regulations, etc., and should be completed by winter.

Phase three will be actual start of projects. Chown said Resource Recycling could help tailor programs to individual needs, and "even devise a PR program" for communities that decide to put the plan to work.

Resource Recycling Vice President Jim Frey said some communities could be ready for start-up by next spring or summer, and others, larger programs, might take a year or two to implement.

Cool, clear water spot

Softball players using Field 3 at Clintonwood Park will soon be able to quench their thirsts with a new drinking fountain.

A well and drinking fountain are to be constructed by low-bidder S. Ward and Son, Clarkston, for $2,242.80. The Independence Township Board unanimously approved the expenditure on Aug. 16.

Field 3, isolated from the other diamonds, is the only softball diamond at the park on Clarkston Road not served by water, said acting parks and recreation director Cheryl Stickley-Schreefel.

Correction

The starting time for orientation programs for sixth- and seventh-graders and all new students in grades eight and nine at Clarkston Junior High School was incorrectly reported in last week's Clarkston News.

Starting time is 7 p.m. at CJHS for the sixth-grade orientation on Wednesday, Aug. 24, and the Thursday, Aug. 25, orientation for seventh-graders and new students in grades eight and nine.

At Sashabaw Junior High School, the dates are the same, but the starting time is 7:30 p.m.

Maybee extension plan settles lawsuit

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Agreements between two developers and the Independence Township Board Aug. 16 provided a green light for 128 more apartments off Dixie Highway, a private Maybee Road extension and two-way status for Lingor Road with a dead end at Parview Drive.

The agreement followed four months of negotiations and resolved a lawsuit filed against the township by Fox Corp., the developers of Lancaster Apartments on Dixie Highway behind Hosler Pontiac.

The board voted 6-1 in favor of a consent judgment allowing the private road to cross the site of Clarkston Oaks shopping center proposed by developers Ed Boutrous and James Macksey. The judgment also made a change to a 1974 judgment, which prohibited the use of Lingor for the property now used for Lancaster Apartments.

Trustee Dale Stuart noted that one intent of the 1974 judgment was to prevent traffic from bothering residents on Parview Drive, which is why Lingor received a one-way status a few years ago.

Making Lingor two-way would allow a safer access point for Lancaster Apartments, as well as Cherry Hill Lanes North bowling alley and Bowman Chevrolet used car sales, he said, adding traffic problems on Parview Drive would be solved by blocking Lingor where it meets Parview.

Trustee Carol Balzarini, also a township planning commission member, cast the only no vote, stating that the new agreement allowed 16 more apartments than the planning commission approved and also allowed an extra 14 square feet on the Clarkston Oaks sign, which violates the zoning ordinance.

"I'm very unhappy that they're being allowed to add another 16 units," said Balzarini, after the meeting. "The control is totally out of the planning commission hands now."

Voting yes were Supervisor Frank Ronk, Treasurer John Lutz, Clerk Richard Holman and trustees Stuart, Daniel Travis and William Vandermark.

Lancaster filed suit against the township in April seeking permission to begin construction of the second phase of the project.

In July 1987, the planning commission granted conditional approval for the second phase of Lancaster with the stipulation that building could not begin until construction started on the Maybee Road extension (planned by the township for 1990) or the Dixie Highway widening in front of the apartments (planned for 1989).

The consent agreement allows the developers of Clarkston Oaks to build a private road from the Maybee Road traffic signal across the proposed shopping center property to serve the apartments. In exchange, Clarkston Oaks will be able to use a retention pond on Lancaster property.

Clarkston Oaks shopping center, planned for eight acres on the west side of Dixie Highway between Clarkston Motors and House of Maple, Oak and Pine, is to include a 42,000-square-foot building to house a Great Scott supermarket, an 11,000-square-foot building for a Perry Drugs and 20,000 square feet for other retail stores.

Clarkston Oaks developers are to purchase the property from Durant Enterprises, owned by Alex Dandy, owner of Hamady Brothers Food Markets.

The construction is scheduled to be finished by Oct. 31, 1989, said Clarkston Oaks developer James Macksey.

Lancaster Apartments rest on 48.8 acres. The 178 units in Phase I are nearly full, and some of the remaining 128 units could be ready to lease by spring 1989, said Dick Fay of Fox Corp. Construction was to begin Aug. 22.

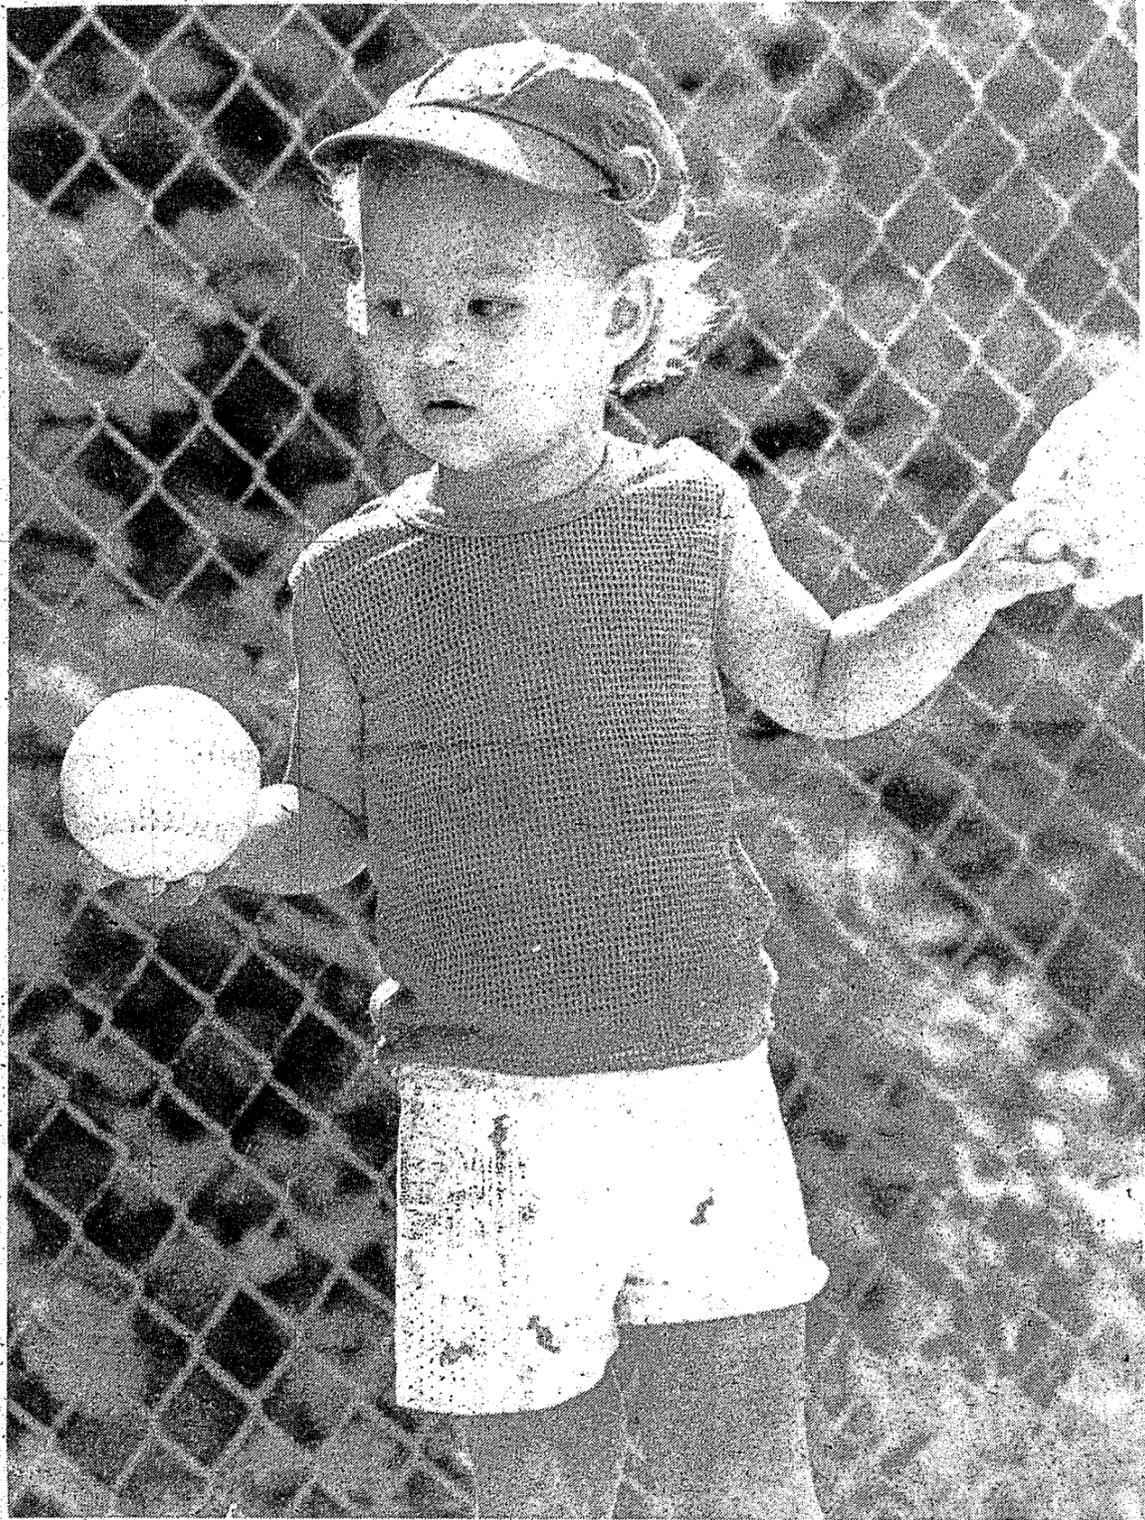

Fay was pleased with the consent judgment, he said, after the meeting.

"It's OK. It's a long time coming," he said.

The 1974 consent judgment restricted the property to 300 units, he said, adding Lancaster still meets the restrictions, with 296 units.

"It's really going to be nice back there," he said. "The topography will remain pretty much unchanged. The buildings will be built on the hillside."

Before Lingor becomes two-way, a public hearing will be scheduled, and other procedures must be followed, said Clerk Holman, after the meeting.

Investigation continues in rock throwing case

Police are still looking for the person who threw a grapefruit-size rock through an open car window, hitting an 18-year-old girl in the face after the Aug. 13 Aerosmith concert at Pine Knob Music Theatre.

Detective Steve Parker of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department (OCSD) said many witnesses have been interviewed, but more information is needed.

The victim, Janet Cowen of Farmington Hills, was discharged over the weekend in stable condition, said Dr. David Malicke of Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital.

Cowen was one of three passengers in a car driven by Richelle Hall, 17, driving southbound on Pine Knob Road, north of Waldon Road, Independence Township. Someone threw a rock through Cowen's open window, hitting her in the face. Her injuries required reconstructive surgery, said Malicke.

Cowen's father, Robert Cowen, has offered a $2,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the assailants, and a silent observer reward of up to $3,000 is also offered through the OCSD.

Anyone with information should call Parker or Detective Sgt. Doug Hummel at 858-4960 or 858-4950 after 5 p.m.

Community leaders tackle new study

Supervisor Frank Ronk met with the leaders of six other communities last week to discuss mutual problems in their growing communities.

Independence Township is experiencing some of the same problems found in the communities of West Bloomfield, Oakland, Rochester Hills, Waterford and Novi, whose government officials attended the meeting, said Ronk.

"Anybody that's got major highways going through their community between Flint and Detroit is going to experience problems," he said. "The secret of the thing is that we're trying to come together as a group."

The goal is for the communities to pool their resources and share ideas and thoughts to set a common path.

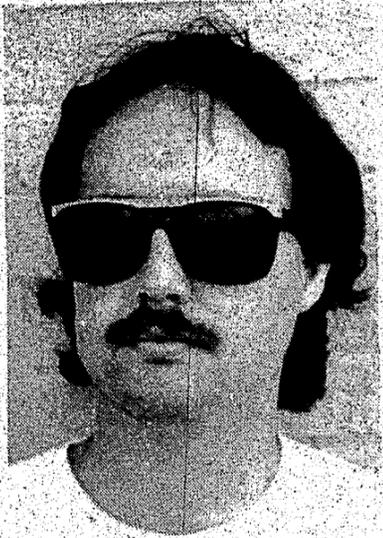

"We know we can't stop (growth), but we wanted to join forces," Ronk said. "We want to make it as smooth a transition as can be."

"I'm looking forward to being part of the group, ... to be a steering committee, if you will," he said, adding that another meeting is scheduled in September.

Springfield man faces child porno charges

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A 48-year-old Springfield Township man was among 12 Michigan men indicted on charges of child pornography Aug. 12.

Leon G. Townsend of Bridge Lake Road was charged with two counts of violating the Child Protection Act of 1984, said Assistant U.S. Attorney Richard Delonis, who is to prosecute the case.

Townsend allegedly mailed and received child pornography. If convicted, each count carries a 10-year prison sentence and up to a $100,000 fine, said Delonis.

Information gathered by the U.S. Postal Service provided the basis for the indictment of Townsend and 10 others. The 12th indictment was a result of an investigation by the U.S. Customs Service.

"This is the first time we've had that number at any one time," said Delonis, adding that the Child Protection Act is relatively new.

According to the act, child pornography is defined as visual depictions of minor children engaging in sexually explicit conduct. Written words do not constitute child pornography, but movies, photos, magazines or videos do, said Delonis.

Most of the pornographic material was produced in Europe, particularly Denmark and Sweden, he said.

The other defendants -- each to be tried separately -- include: Samir Isha, 29, of Troy; Ronald M. Winslow, 41, of Farmington Hills; Allen Arthur Porter, 38, of Madison Heights; Randy T. Edmundson, 36, of New Hudson; Michael J. Bowers, 30, of Livonia; Daniel Edenburn, 29, of Belleville; Johnnie R. Nickell, 41, of Taylor; Gerald S. ## Opinions

Fast

Kathy
Greenfield

Suddenly this summer, I realized what a lovely time of year this can be.

How many days have we had lately with tolerable humidity? My vote goes for about two -- and this is one of them. Now that my mind's clear, I have some thoughts to share.

While sitting in my car waiting for others to drive through the fast-food eatery line, I was thrilled to realize I was behind a sticker nut.

Pasted smack in the middle of his rear window was this quite large important message: "I slow/brake for tailgaters."

Coincidentally, we had been talking about the tailgater problem at work. For some reason, these dangerous drivers have been proliferating. They spring out of nowhere and hang on bumpers in every driving situation from rural roads to busy highways.

I haven't decided exactly why people tailgate, which is against the law, but I have some theories: 1) They enjoy harassing fellow humans. 2) They consider themselves the Rambos of the highway jungle. 3) They're under the delusion that they're good drivers and can handle anything that happens -- even if they create the jeopardy themselves.

A fellow worker said he always stops tailgaters by tapping his brake and slowing down a bit. If it doesn't work the first time, he does it again, and again. The tailgaters either pass or drop back.

Personally, I'm afraid of tailgaters who pass after watching too many of these stupid, hostile people-in-a-hurry ignore yellow lines, curves in the road and so on.

So, when I spotted the window sign, I decided I liked the idea. At least it would give potential tailgaters fair warning. I could imagine cars everywhere carrying the message -- instead of frightened Garfields.

Then I noticed the other stickers on the young man's car: "Star Trek Lives," "Choose Death" and "Meat is Murder" (a vegetarian in a fast-food lane?).

You don't suppose he was a bit of a character, do you?

Moving right along, how about drivers of bicycles? There's trouble with them right here in Clarkston town.

Apparently most children and youths are observing the rules and honoring the bright yellow and white signs that say "Walk Bikes" in a block-long area.

The adults are the ones who continue to go astray.

My source says several people, including himself, have been bumped and/or scratched on the sidewalk too narrow for both walking people and biking people by such things as protruding spokes.

Since my source is rather a feisty guy, he says things to adults who are breaking the rule. Their responses, typically, have been that they weren't going to ride far.

Frankly, I don't get it. People who ride bikes love exercise, right? If they're not in the mood to walk their bikes, they can drive around town instead of through it.

Why are so many people in such a hurry?

'If it Fitz . . .'

Let's pretend

Jim
Fitzgerald

Pretend I'm an atheist. I hereby offer to buy St. John Neumann Catholic Church in Lubbock, Tex., for $1 million so I can have it torn down.

It doesn't matter that I've never seen the church, or even been in Lubbock. I read enough about St. John Neumann's to know it should be destroyed before it contaminates the minds of God-doubting atheists, heathens and agnostics everywhere.

I read about it on the front page of my favorite newspaper. The headline said: "Virgin Mary in Lubbock? Throgs wait and watch." I almost had a heart attack. Mary visit a Texas church with no air conditioning in August? Is that the type of heresy we want people to believe?

The United Press International article began: "Between 10,000 and 15,000 pilgrims cried, pointed to the sky and screamed 'See her, see her' Monday night at a mass celebrated outside a Catholic church where three people said they received messages from the Virgin Mary."

Pilgrims? John Wayne used to call people pilgrims just before he shot them. Pilgrims are nothing more than tourists looking for strange places to pray in. They shouldn't be lured to Lubbock. They should be encouraged to stay home and stop creating traffic jams on western trails, not to mention cobblestone streets.

According to UPI, a woman who came all the way from Virginia said she saw "a veil lift from the sky to reveal a rose color, the figure of Jesus Christ and three rings she said stood for God, Jesus and the Holy Spirit, which Christians call the Holy Trinity."

Where is Madalyn O'Hair when she's really needed? If a Bible club meets in a school cafeteria, O'Hair raises a stink about praying in a public building. What about the public sky?

One man, after looking into the sky over St. John Neumann Church, yelled, "I saw the pathway to heaven." Are people supposed to believe they can't get to heaven without walking through Lubbock, being careful not to trip over rosy rings? C'mon.

The sky over that Lubbock church belongs to all of us, including atheists. No one has the right to claim God, Jesus and the Holy Spirit are floating in that sky. Such an idea goes against everything atheists believe in.

I know I don't have to look up at the sky over a Lubbock church if I don't want to. That's not the point. The point is that atheism teaches there is no God, Jesus or Holy Spirit and it's a grievous insult to atheists everywhere to say everybody's sky is full of Christian icons.

Don't tell me the Lubbock sky-watchers are merely fantasizing and don't really see what they say they see. They have no right to fantasize such things. You may say I can't be hurt by another man's fantasy, but I say this is a free country and no one can take away my right to squash anyone who disagrees with me.

If St. John Neumann Church is allowed to continue attracting pilgrims with Jesus-in-the-sky shows, other churches will do the same thing. And what about those three St. John parishoners who say they picked up messages from the Virgin Mary inside their heads? If too many Christians begin desiring that type of heavenly communication, they'll bring satellite dishes to pass at church suppers, which could interfere with normal TV reception for the rest of us.

Before the atheistic community is completely destroyed by spreading Lubbock skies, atheists should boycott all churches everywhere. You may say good atheists never go to church anyway, so what difference will that make? But I say good Christians never go to anti-Christian movies but they can smell the popcorn from outside the theater. Which is something that can't be said about Milk Duds.

OK, you can now stop pretending I'm an atheist; I'm really a prohibitionist. The only reason I wrote this is because I couldn't resist the temptation to demonstrate that some atheists could sound as dumb as some Christians.

Jim's Jottings

My golf game is so bad I could walk away with no regrets. It has caused me to reflect on reasons for the demise of this daytime sin in my life.

Partially, we can blame the wand and not the magician. I came to the conclusion last fall that I had about 10 years of reasonably good golf left, so I deserved a new set of clubs.

And, since the pros are switching to metal woods, I should, too. The salesman agreed. I swear I haven't hit two straight drives in a row since I hook, I slice, I dribble. I sky. I pay.

When I took my wandering ball troubles back to the salesman, he said, "Let's face it, Mr. Sherman. You haven't been playing much golf this year." What he meant was, "You jerk, if you don't practice you can't expect to play good golf."

Which brings us to another excuse for poor play on the links. It's the weather. Perhaps I don't put a high enough priority on golf, but it really can be too hot to play. Plus 90 degrees with equally high humidity pushes me into the pool. It doesn't pull me to the pasture.

That took care of July. Then came August. The heat/humidity stayed, and the rains came. You know what that did to your lawn! Well, it did the same to mine. I got the same goose grass, with the same inch-per-hour growing speed, as you did.

No time for golf. Four hours of lawn care a day is enough to ruin everyone's golf game. It has also tested my belief in the All Mighty, motherhood, Gumperson's law, law of averages, Mother Nature, gravity and the Constitution.

If we'd lost WWII I wouldn't be mowing grass. I have three lawn mowers. That's not bragging. One is an old reel hand mower I bought at Camp Oakland for $5. I trim near the pool with it to lessen debris in the filter.

I have a nine-year-old 14-hp tractor with a 42 inch cut. The blades always need sharpening, (I believe in cutting off the tops of mole mounds and shredding fallen branches inches in diameter or less), and frankly, I'm scared of it. I've been hit by stones thrown from other rotary mowers.

And, I have a 20-year-old Toro three section reel mower with a sulky. It has a 70 inch cut that, if usable, would give me time to play golf. Unfortunately, the thing's been broken most of the summer.

The ignition went. A bracket broke that Toro hasn't been able to replace in 6 weeks. The battery died. A roller broke. And, the blades are dull. Who sharpens reel mowers any more? Who owns reel mowers any more?

What I was planning to do with my new golf clubs was practice the short irons in my yard this summer. You know, sharpen my game. Since that couldn't happen because I was never able to keep the grass at the right length to find a struck Topflight, my game's as dull as my blades.

The only thing I can think of that's good about the whole scene is that at least I'm on the right side of the grass.

Season's greetings

Even in this hot weather I have heard that the Clarkston High School football team has been practicing for the last few weeks.

The cheerleaders have been working on their "cheers" throughout the summer. I know personally the marching band has practiced every Thursday since before July 4.

Also the band students attended band camp the third week of August. My two kids informed me that they practiced their music in the morning and evening.

They not only worked on their music, they also learned new formations that they will be executing during this year's fall competitions. At these competitions, our students are able to meet other band students as far north as Petoskey and as far west as Grand Rapids.

In the afternoon at camp, the kids worked on symphonic music to help sharpen their music skills.

I personally want to wish the CHS football team, the cheerleaders, the pom pom squad and the marching band a great season.

A proud band booster,

Samantha Dolsen

Shaping the future

Citizens for Orderly Growth would like to thank the residents of Independence Township for your participation in the survey on growth recently published in The Clarkston News.

The interest shown by so many citizens is evidence of your concern over growth and your willingness to take an active role in shaping the future of your community.

The results of the survey have been shared with the township board. We hope that they will carefully review those results and be guided by their constituents' viewpoints in all future deliberations.

Friendly Faces/Ellen Buday

FAMILY: Ellen lives in Independence Township with her husband, Thomas, and their three children, Robyn, 16; Tom Jr., 14; and Steven, 12.

OCCUPATION: Community School Facilitator at Bailey Lake Elementary School for the past three years. There is one part-time facilitator at each of the five elementary schools. There are also facilitators in the secondary schools.

Facilitators coordinate all the after-school enrichment programs within a building, hiring the teachers and supervising the programs. They work for Jeanne Molzon, youth enrichment supervisor, and serve as "communicators" between the building staff and community education.

They work four hours a week in the building on such activities as communications and special events. They also greet new parents within the district.

REWARDS: "I really enjoy the work," Ellen says. "You meet a lot of people and are working with people who enjoy what they're doing." She says you have happy people -- both teaching and taking the enrichment classes.

ROOM FOR MORE: There is currently an opening for a facilitator at Clarkston Elementary School, according to Molzon, preferably a parent with a child in the school.

Anyone interested in becoming a Community School Facilitator may contact Molzon at 674-0993.

ELLEN BUDAY has been a Community School Facilitator at Bailey Lake Elementary School for three years.

The Roads We Travel

Having a voice

Brent Bair

I have heard comments from several township and village residents frustrated because they felt that a particular road needed to be improved and that nobody listened to them.

They didn't understand the decision-making process and how they might influence it. As you move from smaller to larger agency, it does become more difficult, but not impossible. Let's take the easiest one first and go from there.

The Clarkston Village Council ultimately has the final say regarding the expenditure of village funds on village streets.

While the village only has about 3.5 miles of streets to take care of, it only receives about $28,000 a year in state fuel tax and license plate fee revenues to maintain those streets.

That isn't much when you remember that occasionally those streets have to be resurfaced, drainage repaired, and so on; however, if you have a concern regarding a village street, approach your village council.

They are your elected officials who are naturally sensitive to the concerns of their constituents. If you can solicit the support of neighbors, petitions are often very effective.

The Oakland County Road Commission (OCRC) is NOT part of county government and, thus, not under the control of elected officials. Michigan is the only state I know of where the county road agency is separated, by state constitution, from the remainder of the county government.

I can only guess that the drafters of the constitution decided to remove county roads from the political process.

The three members of the Board of Road Commissioners are appointed by the County Board of Commissioners but then operate the agency independent of the rest of the county, receiving operating funds directly from the state.

The OCRC's state fuel tax and license fee revenues are considerably more than the village, but the OCRC is also responsible for the largest county road system in the state, about 2,400 miles, with 137 miles in Independence Township and just over a mile in the village.

With a system this size the OCRC, by necessity, operates on a "worst first" basis. Priority systems have been established for safety improvements, resurfacing projects and major road widening projects.

Two of the three road commissioners are former county commissioners and, thus, are sensitive to the political process.

Petitions help, but getting the support of the village council and/or township board is even more effective, since the OCRC often looks to the local communities to help pay for the improvements. Also solicit the help of your county commissioner (Richard Kuhn).

The Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) is probably the most difficult to influence. MDOT is controlled by six transportation commissioners appointed by the governor. One of them (Rodger Young, the current vice chairman) is from Oakland County.

While MDOT obviously has the biggest budget to work with, it is responsible for over 9,500 miles of state highways around the state. Petitions help, and getting the support of the village and/or the township would help even more.

However, getting the support of your state legislators (Sen. Richard Fessler and Rep. Mat Dunaskiss) is probably the most effective thing you can do in dealing with a state agency. Both have been very effective in getting more road funding for our county.

What about the federal level? Probably the best thing going for our area right now is Congressman Bob Carr. He sits on an important House subcommittee and has been successful in getting federal funds for roads in the Pontiac area and perhaps for Sashabaw Road.

A word of appreciation from constituents might encourage him to keep up the good work and bring more funds back to our area.

When asking for road improvements, it might be helpful if you know how much the improvement will cost. For example, how much does it cost to pave a mile of gravel road in Independence Township? I'll cover that in my next column.

Balloon fest beckons with activities galore

Classic cars, carnival games and square dancing are all a part of the third annual Hot Air Balloon Festival in Springfield Township this weekend.

Activities begin at 10 a.m. for the 12-hour extravaganza Saturday at Springfield Oaks on Andersonville Road, sponsored by Oakland County Parks and Recreation along with several other groups.

The Young At Heart senior citizen group will sell baked goods and crafts, Neighbor for Neighbor will have a pic sale and the Waterford-Clarkston Business Association will sponsor a cake walk.

Free tours of the Davisburg Historical Home, an ice cream social and a jail sponsored by Springfield Parks and Recreation are also part of the festivities. The Davisburg Rotary Club will run the food concessions and a chicken barbecue from 5-7:30 p.m.

Hot air balloons are scheduled to take off at 6:30 p.m., weather permitting.

Spots in the Classic Car Show are still available, said Rob Coffey, recreation supervisor for Oakland County Parks. Owners of unusual cars from pre-1930s to the present should contact Coffey at 625-8133 for more information.

Although admission is free, fees will be charged for food and some activities. For more information about the festival, call 625-8133 or 858-0906.

Aug. 16 and asked for facts and figures to justify the purchase.

"We are spending (money) without design in a program without understanding what our needs are. ... It's out of line," Stuart said.

Treasurer John Lutz said business has increased in the township, and the computers would help handle it. "It's the volume that is going through our township that requires hard copies," he said.

Clerk Richard Holman said the computer expenditures will save money.

"This is money well-spent," he said. "We've been able to spare ourselves (from hiring) two, if not three, file clerks."

Stuart asked for figures backing up Holman's statement, figures he's asked to see several times, he said, adding that the township has more people working in the offices now than before computer processing began in Independence.

The purchase is to provide one IBM computer for the assessing office and one terminal for public use at the office counter in the assessing department.

Every day realtors and others seeking information tie up a clerk for almost the entire day, said assessor David Kramer. By adding the counter computer, the public could access the information by themselves and would be charged for printing the data.

The other computer -- to hold information that changes daily -- is a substitute for a file card system formerly maintained by Oakland County. The county no longer provides the service, so the township information is already obsolete, said Kramer.

The clerk's office is to receive another IBM printer that will be used to prepare purchase orders.

The treasurer's office is to get three IBM computers and a printer to make copies of spreadsheets and schedules and to prepare tax bills. The two computers and one terminal currently in the treasurer's office are to be installed in other township offices.

Attackers weren't football players

The Aug. 7 assault on two Pine Knob concert-goers involved a former Clarkston High School football player but no one from the current team, said Detective Dave Pement of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department (OCS).

One of the assailants has been identified as a former CHS football player who graduated two or three years ago, said Pement. The incident is still investigation, and no warrants have been issued yet, he added.

CHS football Coach Kurt Richardson said none of his players were involved, and he wanted to set the record straight because people have been asking him questions about the fight.

"I'd like to think that we've got some pretty good kids," said Richardson. "They're not angels, by any means, but they're not going around beating up people and saying they're on the football team."

"I don't want people thinking that it's our kids doing this," he said.

According to the OCS report, two married couples were waiting in their car in a line exiting Pine Knob Music Theatre, Independence Township, when two truckloads of men claiming to be CHS football players attacked them.

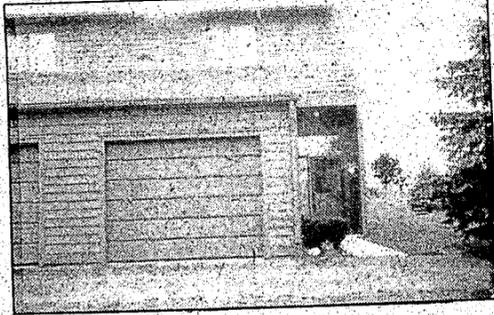

One of the victims suffered a broken nose and a concussion, and the other needed stitches, said Pement.

According to the ex-football player, whose name is being withheld until he is charged with a crime, the fight erupted after a verbal argument following the Alabama concert, said Pement.

At first, the fight involved one truckful of people and the two couples, but the second truckload jumped into the fight to help their friends in the first truck, said Pement.

A quick peek into the past

As workers prepare to replace the blond face brick that once covered Morgan Service at Main and Church streets, Clarkston, a glimpse at the building's past comes into view.

The gas station was originally part of a Chevrolet dealership, the remainder of which is now the Independence Township Fire Hall on Church Street.

The office portion was built in 1926, the first addition behind the office was constructed in 1930 and the front addition was completed in 1945, said owner Dick Morgan. Morgan began operating the station in 1932. His father, Sam, purchased the building in 1936 and Morgan bought the building from his father in 1948.

Plans are to install a facade of cedar planking, and the front window was replaced with one that will open.

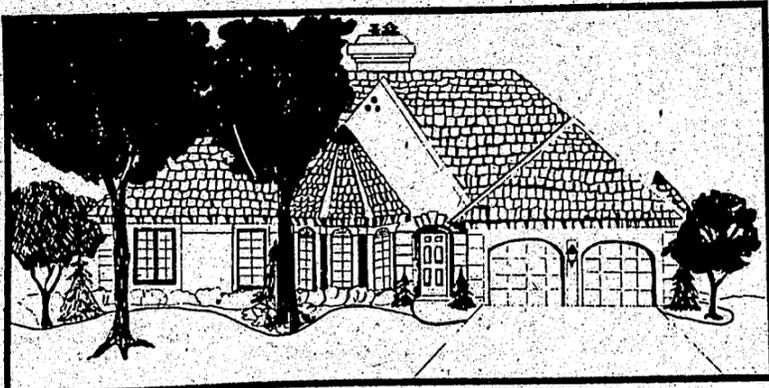

Morgan said he would like to have most of the work, being done by Harley W. Thomas builders of Brandon Township, done by Labor Day.

"I would by all means like to have the siding on before the huge crowd for the parade," he said.

CHRIS SCHARRER displays the fallen community education banner that ended up in the trunk of her car after it was removed from its perch over Main Street.

Banner can hang on building once

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A Main Street business came to the rescue of last week when Mother Nature wreaked havoc on a Clarkston Community Education banner.

Tierra Inc. will allow the large canvas banner advertising registration dates to hang from its building the rest of this week and all of next week as a public service, said Joan Kopietz, co-owner of the business. She stressed this was a one-time-only deal.

"It's an exception that's needed because of an emergency," she said at the Aug. 22 village council meeting. "This is the only time I would allow it. It won't happen again."

After the large sign was knocked out of the air for the second time -- damaging the utility pole it hung from -- Detroit Edison placed a ban on the banners. Edison suggested building a special pole just for banners next to its utility poles at a cost to the village.

Due to crowding problems, the village council was reluctant to put the extra pole on the corner of Church and Main streets.

Without the cooperation of Tierra, Clarkston Community Education's banner would have ended up in cold storage. Chris Scharrer, project coordinator with Clarkston Community Education, was thankful for the offer.

"I don't want to set a precedent and cause her problems," she said to the village council. "If it's a possibility then I would sure appreciate it."

The village council decided to waive its temporary sign ordinance and grant the request for the banner since it was an emergency situation.

Village attorney John Steckling was asked by President Sharron Catalo for his opinion on the matter. "Legally, I would say no, but the council could grant it on extenuating circumstances," he said.

In the future, village council members will suggest that those organizations wishing to publicize an event do so with flags -- such as the ones used for the Concerts in the Park -- instead of banners.

"I don't want to see another pole," Trustee James Schultz said. "We'll ask people to put up flags instead."

High winds force banner from poles

roots," said Dick Morgan, owner of the service station at the corner of Main and Church streets, where the light pole is located. "It was really whipping. (The pole) swayed back and forth two to three feet. It's always like that when there's a banner up. Second time this summer it's broke a light off."

Scharrer said Detroit Edison employees told her Wednesday that they could not put the banner back up and that no more banners would be allowed on the pole.

Contacted later, Detroit Edison spokesperson Ralph Mertz said, "We don't have a policy against putting things on the utility poles. We do work with communities on this."

The poles in Clarkston have outlets for Christmas decorations, he pointed out.

"But it has to be a safe, approved use and we do require (permission) to put anything on the poles," he said. "There's no problem if the poles are heavy, but light-duty poles (such as the poles in Clarkston) are not designed to take banners."

A probable solution, Mertz said, would be for the village and Detroit Edison to come to some financial agreement to install a sturdier pole.

Or, there might be another solution.

Terry Herban, district installation and maintenance manager for Michigan Bell, said, "Michigan Bell has a community relations team in the Clarkston-Waterford area. It's a possibility that they could provide poles for such a use."

In the meantime, Scharrer is looking for a business, a wall, anything, on which to display the banner that is neatly rolled up in her trunk.

"We're not giving up," she said.

Warrant is issued

A warrant has been issued for the arrest of an Independence Township man wanted in connection with the Aug. 13 rape of a 25-year-old woman on Round Lake beach.

The woman, who was visiting from out of town, was an acquaintance of the 24-year-old man charged with the crime, said Detective Steve Parker of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

The name of the alleged rapist is being withheld until he has been arrested and charged with the crime, said Parker.

The rape reportedly occurred on the beach of the lake off Syracuse and Harvard roads in the northeast corner of Independence Township, north of Whipple Lake Road.

The charges of third degree criminal sexual conduct, which involved force or coercion, carry a 15-year felony sentence, Parker said.

Automobile safety belts make traveling safer

BY DESIREE MARCKS
Lake Orion Review Staff Writer

With the Labor Day weekend right around the corner, many people are making plans to take one last summer trip, head to the beach or visit out-of-town relatives. Regardless of the destination, when the driver and passengers wear a seat belt it makes the trip safer.

During holiday weekends a greater number of motor vehicles travel on the road and the more vehicles there are on the roads, the greater the chance for accidents, Sgt. James Heiligenthal of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department-Traffic Division, said.

In the serious accidents that result in an injury or even death, Heiligenthal said, the department finds that the driver and/or passengers are not wearing seat belts.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration estimates that seat belts have saved more than 8,000 lives and prevented 95,500 injuries in the last five years.

The resultant injury of an accident depends on many variables, Heiligenthal said, including the position the individuals are seated in the vehicle and the angle of the attack.

For example, if a person wasn't wearing a seat belt and was involved in a head-on crash he could smash into the steering wheel or windshield.

According to NHTSA, seat belt laws have been enacted in 32 states and the District of Columbia. Children are protected by law in all 50 states and the District of Columbia. Children, under the age of four, are required to ride in approved child safety seats or use seat belts whether they are riding in the front or the back seat.

Heiligenthal said people may think they can protect a child by holding it on their lap while riding in a motor vehicle, but he added, it just doesn't work. He said a passenger holding a child on his lap would only increase the injury to the child, not protect him from harm.

In the event of an accident, the child would be thrown forward and the person holding the child would also go forward, creating what Heiligenthal termed the "sandwich effect".

According to NHTSA, the safest place for the child safety seat is in the back seat of a car.

Seat belts have been standard equipment on all cars sold in the United States for the last 20 years and have proven to be effective in helping the human body withstand the impact of motor vehicle crashes, according to NHTSA.

Today's belt systems, the organization states, are easy to use, plus they are designed to offer comfort and some movement without compromising protection. The lap and shoulder belt combination, for example, offers maximum protection so that crash forces are absorbed and distributed across the strongest areas of the body—the bones of the hips and shoulders.

The shoulder belt portion is attached to a retractor mechanism that's designed to let the webbing move freely in and out, except during sudden deceleration, when it locks automatically, keeping occupants in place and preventing them from striking the dashboard, windshield or other hard interior components.

Belts also protect motorists from being ejected from the vehicle, a frequent cause of death or injury for people not wearing belts.

According to NHTSA, if used incorrectly safety belt systems are less effective. The most common and dangerous form of misuse is placing the shoulder belt under the arm or behind the back which allows the body to pitch forward and possibly strike the steering wheel, dashboard or windshield.

Heiligenthal said the most common complaint he hears about people being required to wear seat belts is that they feel it's an infringement on their civil rights.

"They also say it wrinkles their suit, hurts their shoulder or they usually wear it and they just plain forgot," Heiligenthal said.

Heiligenthal said a motorist not wearing a seat belt is issued a civil fine of $25, and not more than $100, plus has to cover court costs. He said the amount of the fine not only applies to the driver, but also each passenger and children under the age of four, regardless of their position in the vehicle, even if they're sitting in the back seat.

Heiligenthal said the department knows it can't prevent all the accidents, but it can try to do something about reducing the severity of them. And getting individuals to wear their seat belts at all times is a step in that direction.

Deathly delicious fruit

Perhaps the most sinister of tropical fruits is the akee. Its toxic flesh and seeds have killed more than 5,000 people since 1865.

National Wildlife magazine reports that the fatal fruit is still popular in Jamaica. The akee is both safe and delicious when fully ripe and cooked.

Fastest fish, care to guess?

You might guess the fastest fish in the water is the shark ... but you would be all wet.

According to Ranger Rick magazine, researchers believe the sailfish is the fastest fish in the water.

The sailfish can swim up to 68 mph, about as fast as the cheetah can run, and the cheetah is the fastest animal on earth.

Dixie Lake fees are meeting topic

The Dixie Lake Improvement Board will conduct a public hearing on special assessments to lake side and lake area residents at 7:30 p.m. Friday, Sept. 2, in the Springfield Township Hall, 650 Broadway.

A three-year special assessment, at a projected cost of $30,750 per year, is earmarked for lake improvements and restoration of Dixie Lake, located at Davisburg and Dixie Lake roads in Springfield Township.

The average cost for an on-lake resident this year is about $190 and for an off-lake resident with lake privileges, $38.

Approximately $15,000 of the $30,750 would be for weed harvesting, $8,750 for herbicide treatment and the remaining $7,000 for engineering feasibility evaluations and administrative costs.

David Fields, township representative and secretary on the lake board and also a lake front resident of Dixie Lake, said appeals to the assessments will be heard at the Sept. 2 public hearing, but he doesn't anticipate the proposed annual budget figure to drop much.

The board was formed in November 1986 to improve the water quality and the multipurpose use of Dixie Lake.

Since that time, fish population and quality has improved, and the quality of the lake has improved for boaters, Fields said, and more recreational use of the lake has occurred due to the board's efforts.

"In the first harvesting this year (the end of June), we harvested 700,000 pounds of weeds from the lake," he said.

In addition to Fields, the board includes Dixie Lake homeowners representative Paul Dombrowski and representatives from the Oakland County Board of Commissioners, the Department of Natural Resources and the Oakland County Drain Commissioner.

Cemetery gate approved

An iron gate and four beams will cover the entrance to Lakeview Cemetery on White Lake Road in Independence Township.

On Aug. 16, the township board unanimously approved the $5,067 purchase from low-bidder Wen Enterprises of Detroit.

The gates will be incorporated with the front stone fence currently being repaired by Creative Stone, Clarkston.

Board praises Independence Pointe Mall plans

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Following a quick discussion Aug. 16, Independence Pointe shopping center received compliments and unanimous township board approval for a planned unit development (PUD) on 6.12 acres on M-15 at I-75.

A second reading and adoption is necessary before the zoning change takes effect. A PUD is a rezoning of a parcel of land in accordance with a specific site plan. It allows different uses on one site and requires approvals from the planning commission and the township board.

Three buildings are planned for the property at the northeast corner of M-15 and Northview Drive -- a two-story, 19,850-square-foot medical office and two 9,450-square-foot buildings for retail use including a sit-down restaurant and a bank.

The board approval restricted the remaining retail space to uses that would be allowed under a planned shopping center zoning -- the designation of 3.7 acres before the PUD takes effect. The remainder of the site is zoned single family residential.

Developer John Poponea said his company did not want fast food, video stores or high volume traffic for the campus-like setting proposed by Poponea, Affolder Investment and Development.

"We want an upscale project here," he said. Architect Gregory P. Heil said the pedestrian-tailored design includes an all-brick facade with a prefinished green metal roof.

"We've selected forms that have somewhat of a residential character about them ... to let this development act as a gateway to the Village of Clarkston," he said.

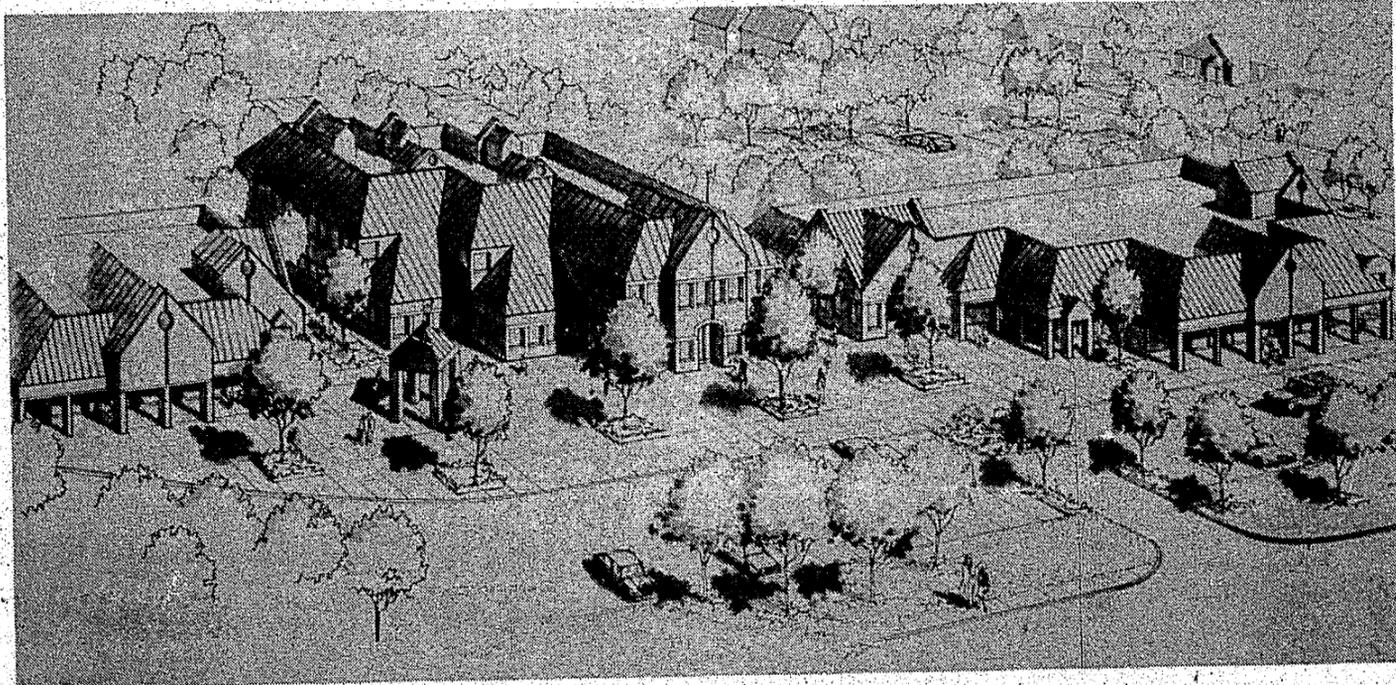

Board members praised the plan. "That's beautiful," said Trustee Dale Stuart. "I think that would be a great addition."

Board members rejected Trustee Carol Balzarini's request to remove parking spaces near the Clinton River at the I-75 entrance ramp from M-15.

"I think everything we can do to keep away from the Clinton River, we ought to do," Balzarini said.

Heil noted that the developers had already removed spaces near the river at the request of the planning commission, and Stuart noted that township engineers said the space between the parking lot and river was adequate.

"I prefer the extra spaces," Stuart said. The site contains one boulevard entrance from M-15 near Northview Drive, a right-turn-only exit onto Northview Drive, and a right-turn-only exit onto M-15 near I-75.

With benches, landscaping and low lighting, Independence Pointe shopping center is geared toward pedestrians. The three-building development, proposed for 6.12 acres east of M-15 between I-75 and Northview Drive, is to hold medical offices, a restaurant and retail stores.

Kids win gold in mock Olympiad

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

TRAINING WHEELS help Ben Banworth handle the curves easier in the bicycle obstacle course during the third annual Olympiad on Olde Sturbridge Drive.

Should they reunite somewhere down the road, the children on Olde Sturbridge Drive will have plenty of fond memories.

An annual weekend Olympiad for the neighborhood youngsters in Independence Township provides good times for all since the goal is participation, not competition, according to resident Rick Knas.

"Although we keep times for first, second and third place everybody gets the same medals" during the awards ceremonies, he said.

For the third straight summer, the parents on Olde Sturbridge have banded together to create a mock Olympic competition for their children. Activities stretched over a weekend vary from bicycle obstacle courses to balloon tosses to a 40-yard dash.

"This has been our best year," Knas said. "It would be great if other neighborhoods could pick up on this."

While the games on Aug. 20-21 were just for kids this time around, the parents are eager to join the fun and probably will participate next year, as they did in 1986 during the inaugural event.

An "official" Olympiad Village, consisting of various colored tents resting in front of Knas' home, was a new edition to the festivities this year. All the children - plus a few volunteer fathers - spent Saturday night out in the tents. The kids were leery about the overnight adventure at first but were greatly relieved when they discovered boys and girls slept in separate places, Knas said.

The Olympiad also was spread out over two days for the first time this summer.

"We tried to do everything in one day (the first two years), and it made for an awfully long day," he said.

Some of the traditional events from the Olympics are carried over into the Olde Sturbridge Olympiad. Saturday night the children paraded down the street waving homemade flags while theme music blared out of the back end of a Chevy van. Flashlights took the place of torches, including a large one representing the eternal flame.

About 18 kids, ranging in age from toddlers to 9-year-olds, participated in the Olympiad. A few more were on vacation with their families. Picking a weekend suitable for everybody can be difficult, Knas said. The young athletes don't care when it happens -- just as long as it does.

LAUREN UHAZIE, 10 months old, is too young to compete so she lends a little moral support for her neighbors while watching the games Aug. 21.

Karate lessons begin

Registration and classes for beginning or advanced karate lessons start Wednesday, Aug. 31, at Pine Knob Elementary.

Classes are Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays for four weeks. Lessons cost $28 for the family discount or $20 for the beginner's special.

For more information, call 394-0114 or 674-3141.

Time out

Rain galore

Peter Auchter

Go figure. The first good rainstorm all summer hits town the same evening the playoffs for Independence Parks and Recreation softball teams begin.

Does Mother Nature have something against softball, my dear people? If so, I wish she'd take her complaints elsewhere.

I had the evening (Aug. 17) planned to perfection: Watch a couple of championship games and an all-star contest for the women's leagues and then head home for something to eat.

Well, as you probably could guess by now -- I wouldn't make a good mystery writer -- the torrential downpour brought a quick end to my Wednesday night fun. The games were canceled and rescheduled for a more inconvenient night (for me, anyway). What a bummer.

So, instead of driving to Clintonwood Park and catching some softball action on the diamonds as the sun slowly sets in the background (it's really relaxing; you should all try it sometime) I had to float my car down Holcomb Road, carefully steering past the leafage and branches in the street, on my way home.

It was great fun. It almost made me wish I lived on Holcomb; nothing's better than a built-in swimming hole on a hot mid-summer day.

Before I left the office, the power went out, and I was left to fend for myself in the dark. I quickly discovered the office needs more windows, and less furniture. Sardines would feel right at home at 5 South Main.

Anyway, I made it back to my apartment all right and spent the next few moments peeling off my wet undershorts. At the same time, I was feeling mighty low over the cancellation of the games.

I recently joined a group of college buddies who are on a team in a softball league in Avon Township. Now that I'm a player, I have a whole new perspective on the game. I could catch the little innuendoes that befuddle those who don't play the game.

I was ready to make good use of my newfound wisdom through better picture-taking for The Clarkston News. But it was not to be. I just ended up all wet.

Oh well, maybe it was for the better. The area farmers were probably dancing in the cornfields until the cows came home.

Maybe this storm marked the end of this summer's drought. Then again, maybe it was just a wet tease. Who can figure on the weather?

Senior citizens boast state title

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

When the National Senior Citizen Olympics rolls around next year, a spunky group of Independence athletes will be there.

The Clarkston Merchants senior citizen softball team recently won the right to represent Michigan during the national event hosted by St. Louis, Mo., in 1989 through its participation in a state playoff in Southfield. "We had a good series," said Manager John Thomas. "We won a trophy and everybody on the team got gold medals."

More than 600 people participated in various events from track and field to arts and crafts at the Southfield Civic Center for the Michigan Senior Citizen Olympics on Aug. 15-16.

Clarkston, entered in the 60-and-over age division for softball teams, beat Masters (an all-star team of players from Troy and Mount Clemens), 13-5 and 8-7 in eight innings, for its first two victories in the tournament.

In the opening game, the Merchants were behind 4-2 in the fifth inning. They exploded for 10 runs in the fifth to coast to an easy win. The rematch took an extra inning to decide.

WDIV-TV Channel 4 of Detroit was on hand during the tourney and filmed portions of the Clarkston-Masters match-ups for their Sunday night "Sports Final Edition" program. The clips were aired during the Aug. 21 show.

The Merchants finished out the two-day event with romps over Western Michigan (15-1) and Canton (32-1).

A relaxed, positive attitude helped the seniors conquer their competition at the olympics, said Ray DeFiore, one of the players. They were especially proud of the accomplishment since they competed as a complete team, not a bunch of players put together as an all-star crew.

"They picked the best players they could find, and we beat their fannies," said DeFiore.

Due to their age, a half-dozen of the players are over 65, this might be the last hurrah for the current edition of the Merchants who have played together eight years.

"It's our last year for it," said Thomas, whose team has struggled all season in its 55-and-over league. "We will have to recruit some (younger) players to remain competitive next year."

The Merchants' "B" team didn't have any problems remaining competitive in league this season.

In its final game of the year, the Merchants whipped Troy, 10-3, at Clintonwood Park on Aug. 17 after scoring eight unanswered runs late in game including a home run by Nick Sassie.

The "B" team finished with a 14-4 record. They played teams from Rochester, Novi, Warren, Troy, Waterford, West Bloomfield and Hazel Park.

Pitcher, 70, and catcher, 14, lead victors

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Athletes of all ages can peacefully coexist - and succeed - in slo-pitch softball. Two members of the First Church of God team proved the point on the diamond this summer.

The May-December combination of a 70-year-old pitcher and a 14-year-old catcher brought second looks from many opponents as the Clarkston Road, Independence Township, church team marched through its league season en route to the championship Aug. 13.

Independence Township residents George Thompson and Ryan Farrand took it all in stride during the 12-game Monday night league.

"I've had a lot of comments on it," said Thompson, who also plays for the Clarkston Merchants senior citizen softball team. "We have quite a good time."

The league championship is especially sweet for the twosome since it's Ryan's first year on the team and Thompson's inaugural season as manager. Both are anxiously anticipating next season.

"You bet," said Thompson. "We'll play 'til we can't play anymore."

The 70-year-old remains active year round with fishing, golfing, bowling and "anything that has to do with sports."

Ryan, entering the 10th grade at Clarkston High School this fall, used to play softball in a youth league for his former church in Rochester. He also enjoys other sports and plans to try out for the basketball team at CHS.

Everyone gets along well on the church team that includes six players with family ties. Ryan and his father Dick Farrand, Gene Hargett along with son Mark and Jeff Spires with son Jeff Jr. make up a large portion of the club.

"They have done a lot of hard work," said Thompson. "The fellas really feel good about winning the trophy."

In addition to the large team trophy, each team member picked up a smaller trophy to keep for himself.

THE DUO of pitcher George Thompson (left) and Ryan Farrand teamed up to create an unusual combination of youth and experience on the softball diamond this summer.

Spectators wanted

The action at Clintonwood Park continues to heat up. Playoffs for the Men's Gamma Leagues sponsored by Independence Parks and Recreation begin this week.

The finals are scheduled for 8:30 p.m. Friday, Aug. 26, at Clintonwood on Clarkston Rd. There is no admission and the public is encouraged to attend.

An all-star game will follow the championship the same evening. That game will get under way at approximately 9:45 p.m.

New look

Newcomers make up roster for CHS girls tennis team

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Fresh faces greeted girls tennis coach Dick Swartout this summer when the Wolves began working out at Clintonwood Park.

The top three singles players from a year ago -- Ashley Adams, Rhonda Bowes and Coreen Hummel -- were graduated in June, leaving a large hole to fill for the Clarkston High School coach.

Combined, the three singles players amassed an outstanding 110-20 record during three years of varsity play. They will be sorely missed, the coach said.

"They were good," said Swartout. "We will have people who have never played (on the varsity level) before."

A new ruling by the state high school athletic association, allowing ninth-grade students to participate in high school sports statewide, will help compensate the loss. Three of the newcomers on this year's squad are freshmen.

Before the ruling, ninth-graders had to be part of the high school student body or the junior high they attended had to adjoin the high school to be eligible for varsity sports.

"It will help sports like tennis, track and soccer," the coach said. "You are going to see a lot of it."

Only two of the 12 players on this year's team have varsity experience. Kristin Allison and Kim K. Morris, along with freshman Caroline Allison, are expected to compete for the top three singles positions.

The other players on the team are Marla Rieman, Nancy Carosella, Kelly Jones, Katie Rieman, Debbie Bellows, Heather Shaw, Claire Hulleza and Kathy Krier.

While Swartout is working with many new players this fall, so will his counterparts at other Greater Oakland Activities League schools. Many of them also lost top athletes to graduation, but the road to the league title won't be any smoother.

"Lake Orion still will be the strongest," he said. "They always get players out."

The season gets under way Aug. 31 with a road match against Troy.

Township pushes for water meters

Over 50 water customers in Hillview Estates subdivision will see more than double the normal charges on their next quarterly bill.

The township board unanimously approved the increase to $125 a quarter in an effort to encourage the residents to install meters.

Currently, 54 customers pay a $52.60 flat rate per quarter for water, while the other 56 subdivision customers pay $83 to $300, depending on the amount they use as monitored by a meter at each residence, said George Anderson, director of the township department of public works (DPW).

"You pay for what you use. It's a very fair system," said Anderson.

Neighbors of the 54 residents have registered complaints with the DPW office about the unfair billing system, said Anderson.

With the increase to $125 a quarter, the flat rate customers "are still getting a good rate," said Anderson, adding it would be more fair if they used meters.

Residents would be required to purchase the $135 meters, but the DPW would install them free if requested within 90 days, said Anderson, adding water customers usually pay a meter installation fee.

If residents don't install a meter within a year, the flat rate will double to $250 per quarter.

The cost discrepancy occurred when the developer of the first part of Hillview Estates abandoned the project, leaving water supply up to the township. The water system previously had been a private system, but when the second part of the subdivision was developed, the township was called in to take responsibility, Anderson said.

All new users of the township water system are required to use meters, and the 54 residents in Hillview Estates are the only unmetered users in the township.

The subdivision is located in the northeast corner of the township, south of Indianwood Road and east of Eston Road.

Rezoning plan receives first OK

About four acres on Indianwood Road received the first OK to be rezoned from rural residential to suburban residential in Independence Township.

The township board unanimously approved the first reading Aug. 16. A second reading and adoption is necessary before the rezoning takes effect.

Developer Donna Stephens plans to divide the parcel into three 1.3-acre sites and to build and sell houses on them, said Beverly McElmeel, director of the township building department.

The change was recommended by the planning commission at the request of Stephens, McElmeel said.

The site, in the northeast corner of the township, is located across from Hillview Estates, an area zoned for single family residential development, which allows a higher density than the proposed zoning change. Suburban residential zoning requires a minimum of 33,000-square-foot sites. Rural residential has a three-acre minimum.

YEAR OF THE SUNFLOWER: The corn didn't produce as much as usual, but a batch of sunflowers that planted themselves are thriving in the garden patch of LeRoy and Joan Davis. The tallest measures some 11 feet, and "they don't usually get that tall," says LeRoy.

Joan compares the record-breaking heat of this summer to conditions in Kansas, where sunflower fields are commonplace. Thirty-four year residents of the Clarkston area, the Davises have lived in their Sashabaw Road home since 1982.

Community education strives to help students

Stressing that they "want people to take a look at what Clarkston has to offer," the Community Education Department of Clarkston Community Schools has chosen "Discover the Difference ... in Clarkston" as the theme for fall programs.

"The theme was chosen because we feel there is a difference in Clarkston. It is uniquely personal," said Kathleen O'Donnell, director of community education. "People come to us with an expressed need and we help them achieve their goals."

Fall programs include adult education, a high school diploma program, alternative education, a high school program for out-of-school 16- to 18-year-olds, and technical training for adults who want to upgrade their skills.

APL, a work-at-your-own-pace diploma program, is an option for motivated adults over 20. Adult Basic Education, or ABE, is available for adults who need to improve math, spelling and reading skills.

Programs for children include Latchkey, before- and after-school day care, kindergarten half-day care, and Funshine day care for children ages two weeks to five years.

Adult and youth leisure time classes and special attractions are also offered through the Clarkston Community Education Department. New fall programs include a Dale Carnegie course, builders' license seminars and real estate license preparation workshops.

The Clarkston Learning Center, 5275 Maybee Rd., features a job placement center that is open to all people enrolled in community education programs.

Registration for high school completion programs continues through Sept. 23. Interested persons can stop by the Learning Center or call 674-0993 for more information.

160-lot Deerwood III nears final approval

Another approval is necessary, but the 160-lot Deerwood III subdivision is one step closer to construction.

With little discussion, the Independence Township Board unanimously approved the final preliminary plat for the subdivision off M-15, north of I-75 on Aug. 16.

The board action is conditional upon a written agreement over a private road easement dispute with two neighboring residents that delayed project approval by a few months last spring.

The preliminary plat shows the layout of the roads, lots and utilities. A final plat must also be approved by the Independence Township Board.

The other phases of Deerwood sold quickly, and construction of the first part of Phase III is planned next month off Elk Run Drive if everything goes well, said developer Stewart Mahler.

The 182-acre site includes preserved areas for parks, and development is to occur along extensions of the existing Elk Run and Deerwood drives, which will form a loop through the subdivision. The two access points to M-15 are to be through the existing Cranberry Lake Road and the existing Deer Ridge Drive.

Northview sewer bid lower than expected

Northview Drive residents will be paying less than expected for a sanitary sewer to be installed in conjunction with a federally funded water system.

The $348,059.55 low bid, which the Independence Township Board unanimously accepted, came from T & M Contractors of Auburn Hills.

The price includes $124,846 for installing the Northview Drive sanitary sewer, to be paid for by benefiting property owners. The cost is 7 percent less than expected, said township engineer Tom Biehl of Hubble, Roth and Clark.

A charge of $171,127 -- for a water main to be extended south under I-75 from Olde Sturbridge subdivision to Perry Lake Road off of Clarkston Road -- is to be paid for by the Federal Super Fund, because 19 residential wells on Northview and Perry Lake Road were found contaminated with toxic substances believed to originate at an abandoned dump site on Clarkston Road.

The township is to contribute $52,085 to connect the proposed water main on Perry Lake Road to the existing water line on Clarkston Road at the Clarkston Gardens subdivision (Snowapple, Cramlane, Almond roads) to tie in that portion of the municipal water system.

The sewer and water lines are to be installed by Nov. 15, and a new road surface is part of the construction deal.

Does your child have SCOLIOSIS?

Without formal knowledge about spinal anatomy, parents frequently detect only the most severe scoliosis after it has progressed. Trained experts, D. C.'s receive many hundreds of hours of classroom, laboratory and clinical education on the spine and its properties, while medical doctors and nurses receive far less formal training in spinal anatomy. The common medical approach is to "watch and wait until it's bad enough to brace," or resort to surgery, which may or may not help. Chiropractic has proven effective in detection, prevention and correction of scoliosis. Medical cooperation in advanced cases may prove helpful, but chiropractic spinal adjustments may well avoid serious surgery.

Survey prompts tax request by Springfield parks & rec commission

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Results of a survey indicate a great deal of support for a Springfield Township community center. Results also indicate strong support for a millage to fund parks and recreation facilities within the township.

The survey was sent out in February to a random sampling of 25 percent, or approximately 667 households in the township. Over 27 percent of the households returned the survey, resulting in a successful sampling of about 7 percent, according to township planner Richard Carlisle, who prepared the conclusions and recommendations based on the survey results.

Over 47 percent of those responding indicated their families would use a community center at least once a week, while 11.6 percent said they would not use a center at all.

Over 70 percent said they would support a millage to fund park and recreation facilities, including a community center, with the greatest support expressed for one-half mill.

At its Aug. 9 meeting, the parks and recreation commission voted to place a half mill for operation, maintenance and development of parks and recreation on the November ballot.

As a result of the survey and of feasibility studies on the Mill Pond building, the commission also voted not to pursue an exclusive senior center at this time.

Feasibility studies show that renovating the Mill Pond building, located in Mill Pond Park near downtown Davisburg, was not advisable, according to township Supervisor Collin Walls.

The study estimates the cost of renovation work at $45,000. Any additions to the current shell, could add up to another $15,000. The estimated cost of building a new structure would be $25,000 to $30,000 more than renovating the old building, he said.

The township board recently adopted an economic development plan that recommends a town center, which would include government offices and a community center at some central location in the township. A new library could also be incorporated into the center.

Recommendations, based on the survey results, reinforce the idea of a community center. The recommendations suggest that such a center would be used more than individual facilities and save the township money by having jointly shared parking, utilities, restroom facilities, etc.

Walls said the township is outgrowing its current town hall complex in downtown Davisburg.

Within three to five years, some sort of new facility will be needed, he said, and it could quite possibly incorporate the town center concept.

Women in transition

The many causes, and how to ease the stress

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

You're 40, engrossed in career and community, and suddenly find that your husband has been transferred to the West Coast.

Or you're a homemaker, raising a family, and find yourself alone with young children due to death or divorce.

Clarkston area psychologist Peter Keelin says there's a name for it -- women in transition.

It's a label for that time in a woman's life when stress is caused by a traumatic change -- death of a husband, divorce, serious illness, empty nest syndrome (when the children grow up and leave home), or transfer of a husband that causes a wife to change jobs.

But sometimes transitions are worked out through compromises.

Keelin says he counseled such a couple, the wife was vice president of student affairs at a Florida university and the husband was vice president of academic affairs at a university in a neighboring state.

They took turns commuting on weekends, and lived that way for five years.

"They were both Ph.D.'s, and that was the only way they could both pursue their career goals," Keelin says. "When you have two people very self-motivated, you may have to make these compromises."

But if one makes a sacrifice, it's usually the female, he says. The husband is the traditional breadwinner, and the wife may have to settle for less because of his moves.

Sometimes, he says, it makes women feel like they are not in control of their lives.

"And the only way out of that, really, is if the female educates herself in an area she is really interested in and enjoys, one that she can stand alone in," he says.

If a woman is comfortable as a homemaker, then she is not under the same stress in transition as one who is involved in a career that has to be interrupted.

But the biggest stress factor is death or divorce.

"If a woman doesn't have a career or profession, they are hurt the most (in that situation)," Keelin says. "They become the 'new poor' because they can't maintain what they've got."

Then there is the tremendous emotional factor of a divorce.

"Women who go through divorce are so depressed that even if the husband agrees to help them with a career, sometimes it takes one to one-and-one-half years to get over a divorce, and they may only have two years to prepare for a career," Keelin says. "It can be really difficult."

Women today are a little different than women in transition years ago. They are more educated, he says. And there is much in the media designed for a female audience.

For instance, a 50-50 relationship, a partnership of sharing in a family, is constantly suggested these days.

He says if he counsels couples in a situation where both work and must divide up homemaking chores, he may suggest they set up an account where both partners contribute proportionally (according to their earnings) to the household costs, and then buy the help to do the chores.

At the end of the month, money left in the "my own money" account is split equally or used in investments based on a joint decision.

This way, Keelin says, it is fair and there is no hurt ego, no "second class citizen" feeling on the part of the lesser wage earner.

Empty nest syndrome can be a big transitional problem for women, too, especially in larger families. Keelin says it hurts even more if the marriage relationship is poor or if the woman does not work.

"If a partnership is weak, or if a woman does not have a career, she throws herself into being a good mom," Keelin says. "When kids leave, there is nothing to do, no one to nurture."

Mom faces new town, empty nest with cheerfulness

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Transition is something Barb Banker has faced a lot during her 24-year marriage as her husband, Larry, received transfers around the country.

Currently employed by the Keebler Company, with headquarters near Chicago, Ill., her husband has been "commuting" to Clarkston for three years so their daughter, Marni, could graduate from Clarkston High School this June. Their son, Brad, 22, is also a CHS graduate.

A recent promotion within Keebler necessitates their move to the Chicago area. Barb says it's "high time," but it's not a move she is making without regrets.

She leaves behind a career with the Clarkston school district and "10-year roots" in the Clarkston community. It is the place they have lived the longest since their marriage, she says.

This move will be different, however. With Marni a freshman at Michigan State University and Brad a senior at New York University, it will be the first time Barb has faced an "empty nest" as well as a new home.

"Maybe I won't meet as many people (without the children around)," Barb says. "But on the other hand, Larry and I will have this freedom."

"My son told me, 'Mom, you're going to have this resurgence of freedom with no children to nurture,'" she says, laughing. "But they'll be coming back, and always will."

Barb says she might be "ignoring" the empty nest syndrome. She says they bought a house in Illinois that the kids would love, so they'd come back to it. The new home is in Barrington, a northwest Chicago suburb that Barb says reminds her of Clarkston.

"Maybe I'll finish my master's degree (she has taken several graduate-level classes toward a dual major of psychology and sociology, and has a bachelor's degree from DePauw University in Indiana), and then maybe

Pet melting heat wave

David Kwasnick

A few miscellaneous observations about this peculiarly warm weather of ours:

Michigan -- a meteorologist's nightmare. We get the best of both worlds here, don't we? In winter there's the look-ma-my-toes-just-turned-blue cold everyone knows and loves, and now in the summer we get heat capable of melting most house pets.

Which brings me to another point. Attention, all you knowledgeable people who leave animals locked in your cars during shopping jaunts.

Why bother killing them slowly? Why not just run right home and stuff Fluffy in the microwave? You'd achieve the same results in far less time. If you're going to be cruel, might as well be cruel correctly.

Is it just me or has this heat taken the fun out of some of summer's staple activities?

"Hey, look, it's 101 degrees. Let's go lay out." Excuse me? Sounds like something two pieces of bacon would say to each other.

And how about swimming at Deer Lake? Wow, that's almost refreshing! Sorry, you can't blame the high water temp on the little kiddies, either.

So, Reagan signed an aid package for the farmers. How about doing the same for people without air conditioners?

Actually, I shouldn't talk. Thanks to a.c. my house is a constant cool 79 degrees Fahrenheit (gloat, gloat).

But I do know what it's like to be without. Especially at night when your sheets suddenly spring to life. "Argh! Get them off me. They're alive. They won't let go. Back! Back!"

Just think, the next time you see a fly straddling a piece of flypaper, you'll both have shared a common experience.

At least I can't complain about the drought anymore. Quite the contrary, every time it rains around here I find myself scurrying for cover amid a tempest of thunder, lightning, tornado sirens and flying branches.

What ever happened to gentle summer showers? I guess they've gone the way of moderate summer temperatures. And the dinosaur.

David Kwasnick, a 1988 graduate of Clarkston High School, will begin his freshman year at Michigan State University in the fall.

Mother prepares for changes

not," Barb says. "I'll just wait until I get there and see. "No doubt I will go back to work," she adds. "I get a lot of personal gratification out of working, and I feel confident there's a job over there for me."

She heads for Chicago with a multi-faceted resume that includes experience in school public relations and career planning.

Barb began with Clarkston schools six years ago in community education, teaching job search skills to the unemployed in 1982. She was promoted to community services coordinator in 1983 when the Career Center was formed and got into the "school PR business" when Community Education took responsibility for the school district newsletter.

"I really believe that public relations is human relations and knowing people's needs," Barb says. "I would like to find a job (in Illinois) that has management responsibility, maybe a placement service or a school PR program."

One thing is for sure, she says. After teaching job placement she knows what to do with this transition in her life.

"Every move for us has been a positive one, a new frontier," she says. "There's no reason to believe this one

Help for crises

She was getting support from the kids, he says, and now they're gone.

When several of the transition situations happen simultaneously, the stress increases. But there are ways to deal with the stress, Keelin says.

Women can go into a female support group for women in transition. There is one available at Oakland University. Or they could go to other women's centers, churches, mental health clinics or private counseling.

Keelin says a lot of the community college system in Michigan is set up with courses for men and women in mid-life career changes. They are designed for people, regardless of the reason, who have to "retool." And they help a person to identify what they want out of life in terms of career changes.

There are such programs in place at Oakland Community College, he says, "and they are good programs."

Keelin estimates that about 50 percent of the women between the ages of 30 and 50 in Oakland County go through a divorce crisis. Then there are all the other factors which cause women-in-transition situations.

"It's something," he says, "which affects a large segment of the population."

won't be, too."

But as she looks at the "for sale" sign the front yard of her home on Deerhill Drive in Independence Township, there is sadness, too.

"The emptiest time starts when all the boxes are on the floor. That's when it stops being my house," she says. "I want to remember it with pictures on the wall, magazines here and there, the things that make it your house."

The move to Chicago is back to a familiar area, with relatives and friends nearby, but it's still a move away from friends.

"I think if we both had our choice, we wouldn't move, but there's no choice," Barb says.

"I intend to be optimistic. Outlook is important. It's a matter of looking at the cup half empty or half full," she adds. "But the unknown is the kids not being home. Call me again in November and ask me how I'm doing!"

Stress guide out

"Stress and You, a guide to better living" is the name of a booklet recently written by staff at the Women's Health Center of Clarkston.

The book is currently offered free, but eventually there will be a nominal charge (about 75 cents) to cover the cost of publishing, said Mike Mosharo, administrative director of the center.

The booklet was written by James Windell, M.A., and two nurse practitioners, Julia Johnson and Victoria Rose. Windell is one of three counselors on the staff at the center, and is also a free-lance writer in the area of psychology.

Johnson and Rose, both with master's degrees in nursing, are certified nurse practitioners, who work in collaboration with the doctors but see patients on their own.

The book, in part, is an introduction to stress management, to create more awareness of stress, Mosharo said.

The center offers counseling to couples and individuals, and particularly emphasizes women's issues, such as relationship problems and the stress of daily functioning, according to Dr. Gayle Beck, a psychologist at the center.

The booklet includes self tests to determine if you are under stress and offers ways to manage and reduce stress.

In the opening definition of stress, the booklet reads: "While you can't avoid the kinds of normal stress which we have come to accept as a part of everyday life, you can learn to live with and adapt to the changes that go on around you."

Beason, Fairbanks wed in Alabama

The marriage of Mary Kathrine Beason and Michael Edward Fairbanks took place Saturday, Aug. 20, at 6 p.m. at the Weatherly Heights Baptist Church in Huntsville, Ala., with Dr. G. Todd Wilson officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Thomas Beason of Huntsville, and the bridegroom is the son of Clarkston area residents Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Fairbanks.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white slipper satin. Scallops of Schiffli embroidery created the portrait neckline, and Schiffli lace encrusted with pearls extended over the sculptured bodice and circled the dropped waist above the circular skirt that flowed into a cathedral train.

LuAnn Beason, sister of the bride, and Kellie Coxsey, cousin of the bride, were maids of honor. Bridesmaids were Wendy Beason, cousin of the bride; Sandy Bruce; Paigh Hendrix; Karen Johnson; Kathy Kloske, sister of the bridegroom; Ola Luther; Melanie Nix; and Laurie Walker.

Flower girl was Dierdra Cole, niece of the bridegroom. Ring Bearer was Ryan Cole, nephew of the bridegroom.

Best men were Patrick Fairbanks, father of the bridegroom; and Paul Blum. Groomsmen were Pat Fairbanks, brother of the bridegroom; John Ortiz; Mike Pena; Scott Robinson; Kevin Smith; Frank Wessling; John Wiedemann; and Chris Wood.

Ushers were I.B. Alexander; Kevin Bridges, Everett Brooks; Mike Lobes and Greg Stedman. Junior groomsmen were Kevin Fairbanks and Christopher Fairbanks, nephews of the bridegroom.

The couple will reside in Huntsville.

HOW TO DO A LITTLE BUSINESS ON YOUR OWN...

Holding a garage sale is a fun way to do a little business on your own... but it takes a bit of planning.

Like you'll want to decide what to sell and how much to charge for each item... and then you'll need price tags so other people will know what you're charging.

And you'll have to be able to make change for all your customers... so that means you should have lots of one dollar bills and an assortment of coins.

Then you'll want to advertise your sale to attract that crowd. You can do it with a sign or signs in your neighborhood... but you'll want a bigger crowd than that... so you'll run an ad in Classified, which tells the time and place of your sale to a host of potential buyers.

One more thing... get up early the day of your sale! When people read about a Garage Sale in Classified, they shop early.

Have fun with your little business adventure!

An Apple for the Teacher

Betty Anderson

By Dorothy Leaming

Who has backpacked through Europe, made corn husk dolls, been a speech pathologist in Clarkston for 16 years and is married to Charlie Robinson? Betty Anderson, that's who.

Betty grew up in Highland Park and was graduated from high school there. She earned a degree in speech pathology from Western Michigan University and got her master's degree in speech pathology from Eastern Michigan University after she began working in Clarkston.

Though Betty enjoys working with all age groups, she chose to teach in SPICE (Special Program in Childhood Education) and began in September 1982.

She says that it is exciting to be involved in the first school experience of children with special needs and she believes that early intervention makes a real difference.

This is especially important for parents because of the mutual sharing of information, and because it sets the stage for future positive communication.

Individual educational plans are developed for each student, and this requires preparation and organization. The rewards are the smiles and hugs of kids when she sees them developing and growing to be more responsible.

One project Betty has especially enjoyed has been presenting the puppet show "Kids on the Block." This is a group of disabled and non-disabled puppets and the story line is designed to help children understand those who have handicapping conditions. The presentation allows them a chance to ask questions and become aware.

Betty's family was a supportive one, and her decision to become a teacher was influenced in part by her sister, now a Farmington teacher. Also, her mother-in-law is a former Clarkston teacher.

Betty is the mother of 4-year-old Erin and 3-year-old twins, Elizabeth and Kristy. She is the stepmother to Heather Robinson, a high school senior living in Massachusetts.

Prior to marriage, Betty made two trips to Europe, one involving seven countries through which she and two friends backpacked.

Betty is clever at a variety of crafts and once conducted after-school classes for interested teachers. These days she is into gardening, and though she is becoming impressed with the "green thumbery" of her children, there was time when plants were "unplanted" as soon as she planted them.

Over the years, she has been collecting dolls. Some are old china dolls, some belonged to her Italian great-grandmother and some she has gathered on her travels. Her doll family now numbers around 100.

More structured activities include the Calvary Lutheran Church where she serves on the church council and in the Christian education department as a substitute teacher and during vacation church school.

Together with about a dozen others, she meets monthly with a group called MOM'S CO (Mothers of Multiples, Clarkston Organization), a wonderful support group. She plays racquetball and loves swimming.

Betty admits that similarities between the students and her children sometimes get to her, and she looks forward to the day when a break is more than milk and cookies.

GARDENING AND doll collecting are among Betty Anderson's hobbies.

In the meantime, however, she is buoyed by patience and a sense of humor, qualities this Clarkston teacher has to spare.

Marine duty influenced woman's life

AMONG PHYLLIS BRADFORD'S activities are athletics, publishing and membership in the Waterford-Clarkston Business and Professional Women's Club. The former sergeant still feels pride when she sees the U.S. Marine Corps emblem.

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

After more than 40 years of living as a civilian, 65-year-old Phyllis Bradford can easily recall the feelings of being a sergeant in the United States Marines.

The Ember Road, Springfield Township, resident joined the corps in October 1943, following the path of her brother.

"The war was on, and it just seemed like you wanted to be part of it," she said, adding national patriotism ran rampant, and everyone felt the effects of the war.

"The war was very much a part of our lives," she said. "But we were rather isolated. We had it easier probably than the civilians because we didn't have rationing."

After boot camp at Camp LeJeune, North Carolina, Phyllis lived in the women's barracks at the Marine Corps base in San Diego, Calif., and worked as a payroll

H&R Block to Offer Tax School In This Area

Thousands of people are learning the skill of income tax preparation from H&R Block and are earning money as income tax preparers.

H&R Block, the world's largest income tax preparation service, is offering a basic income tax course starting August 29, 1988, with morning, afternoon, evening and Saturday classes available. Classes will be offered at many convenient area locations.

During the 13 week course, students will study all phases of income tax preparation and receive actual experience in preparing individual returns. Experienced Block instructors will teach current laws, theory and application, as practiced in Block offices nationwide. There is a classroom discussion on each tax subject and practice problems at every level. Courses are programmed to teach students increasingly complex tax problems as study progresses. Students will find the course both interesting and challenging.

Courses are ideally suited for people who want to increase their tax knowledge and learn how to save money on taxes or who are looking for a rewarding career. No prerequisites are required to enroll.

Qualified course graduates may be offered job interviews for positions with Block. Many accept employment with Block because of the flexible hours available. However, Block is under no obligation to offer employment, nor are graduates under any obligation to accept employment with H&R Block.

One low course fee includes all textbooks, supplies and tax forms necessary for the completion of the course. Certificates and 7.5 continuing education units will be awarded upon successful completion of the course. Master, Visa and Discover cards are accepted, or a time payment plan is available.

Registration forms and a brochure for the income tax course may be obtained by contacting H&R Block office at

Former sergeant is active senior

 clerk in the men's mess company, comprised of soldiers just out of boot camp who prepared meals for a few weeks before being shipped overseas.

"I didn't have a glamorous job," said Phyllis. "It was nine-to-five, like any other job. There was nothing different about it except we wore a uniform."

The entire experience was "fun," said Phyllis. Even now, thoughts of the corps bring back good memories. As president of the Michigan Chapter No. 1 of the Women Marines Association, Phyllis knows from the twice-a-year meetings that other Marines feel the same way.

"There's one thing all Marines had in common," she said. "We called it the Esprit de Corps."

She defined it as being intensely proud of the corps, loyal to your comrades, and jealous for the good name of the corps.

"It's very real to the people," she said. "It's hard to explain. If you see a uniform or the emblem, there's a real feeling, just seeing it. Or hearing the music, of course. They probably feel the same way today."

After leaving the corps in November 1945, Phyllis attended Wayne State University, Detroit, on the G.I.

Bill and received a degree in accounting. She used her skills in various offices in the area until retiring in 1980.

Even now, she uses her skills in an on-call basis with the Springfield Township treasurer's office, helping out in busy times, such as tax season.

Phyllis also continues her athletic activities begun in the Marine Corps, playing coed softball and volleyball at the Waterford Township Senior Center. She went so far as to place first in the basketball free-throw in the Michigan Senior Olympics on Aug. 15 and 16.

"I got my competitive spirit from the Marine Corps," Phyllis said.

Before her husband, Don, a former teacher at Andersonville Elementary School, died four years ago, they were involved in publishing "Sheep Tales," a newspaper for raisers of sheep; the "Bradford News," a family newspaper; and "Fun With Fungus," a book written by an acquaintance about carving fungus found in the woods.

Phyllis still produces the newsletters for her church, the Unitarian Universalist Church of Flint, and she also spends time as treasurer of the Springfield Township Senior Citizens Center.

S(o)uper starters

Betty Wagner

Michigan produce is ripe for making cool, refreshing soups, and tart cherries and honey rock cantaloupe are high in taste and low in calories.

When temperatures soar, appetites tend to wane. Sometimes we grab for quick high-calorie foods for energy that add fat but little nutrition. For a sweet yet nutritious treat, start your next supper with one of these easy to prepare soups.

TART CHERRY SOUP

3/4 pound tart Michigan cherries, fresh or 1 pound can, packed in water*
2 cups white grape juice, divided
1 to 2 cups vanilla yogurt
Fresh mint leaves

Pit fresh cherries or defrost frozen cherries. Add to 1 cup grape juice. Cover; microwave at high power for 5 minutes. Reduce to 50 percent or medium power for 3 minutes.

Add 1 cup cold grape juice. Pour into blender and process until smooth. Strain to eliminate skins. Chill. Just before serving, whisk in 1 to 2 cups vanilla yogurt depending on thickness desired. Garnish with fresh mint leaves.

*When using canned cherries, drain cherries, reserving juice. Add white grape juice to cherry juice to make 2 cups and use the mixture in place of the grape juice.

COLD CANTALOUPE SOUP

1 6-ounce can frozen limeade

1 can full of white grape juice or white wine
1 honeyrock cantaloupe, peeled, seeded, cut into chunks
2 cups vanilla yogurt
Fresh lime twists or thin wedges

Remove lid from limeade. Microwave juice at high power for 1 to 1 1/2 minutes or until defrosted. Place cup up cantaloupe, lime juice and grape juice in blender. Blend until liquid.

Chill. Stir in yogurt just before serving. Garnish with a twist or wedge of lime.

Note: If cantaloupe is not very ripe, after liquifying and before adding yogurt, place in Pyrex bowl and microwave at high power for 4 to 5 minutes, then simmer at 50 percent power for 2 minutes. Then chill, whisk in yogurt and serve.

Several weeks ago, I offered a microwave recipe for Bran Berry Loaf. The same batter may be used to make bran muffins in the conventional oven.

Just fill muffin cups 3/4 full and bake in a preheated 400 degree oven for 15 to 20 minutes, or bake one at a time in the microwave oven at high power for 20 to 30 seconds. Six will take about 2 to 2 1/2 minutes when baked in a microwave muffin ring.

Springfield hires new planning coordinator

Doug Lewan, 24, of Royal Oak began work as the planning and development coordinator for Springfield Township on Aug. 16.

The position is a new one created by the township and approved by the township board in late spring.

Lewan's duties will include establishing and directing the planning department for the township and working on economic development within the township.

He has a degree in planning from Northern Michigan University and work experience with a civil engineering firm, both in the office and on field inspections.

"It's a brand new position (in Springfield Township), so the whole thing right now is getting to know the community," Lewan said. "One of the first tasks will be getting to know the business owners and finding out their perceptions of what's needed and how we can help."

For now, Lewan will be commuting from Royal Oak to his rural job. He noted that since he is going the opposite direction from most of the traffic, which commutes from the rural communities to the city, the drive is not so bad.

Pet of the Week

Make Sam smile

A family move left Sam behind, but this 4-year-old female basset hound would sure love to give a new family a try.

Sam is good with other pets, with children, with adults, with just about everyone and everything. She's just a nice, laid-back pet, with the drooping ears and sad face typical of basset hounds.

She's a big girl, at 56 pounds, and has a big heart to match.

Sam can be adopted at the Michigan Humane Society, 3600 Auburn Rd., Auburn Heights, 852-7420. Hours at the non-profit shelter are 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

The adoption fee for Sam is $70, which includes her spaying before leaving the shelter. She is up to date on shots.

SEEMS LIKE SAM got left behind.

Cookbook artists wanted to help good cause

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Two students from the Oakland Technical Center-Northwest Campus will create the artwork for a cookbook authored by Betty Wagner to benefit SCAMP.

The student artist who will create the cover for "Seasons -- A Celebration of Microwave Cookery" is Lynn Jensen, an Oxford Township resident who will be a senior at Oxford High School this year and again attend the technical center (formerly called the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center) in Springfield Township.

Kelly Erickson, a Waterford Township resident, 1988 graduate of Clarkston High School and a former student at the technical center, will design the seasonal lead-in artwork for each section.

Both young women were students in the advertising design class of Larry Keech, instructor at the technical center who used the contest for SCAMP cookbook art as a class project for his second-year students.

"I knew SCAMP needed the art, and I just wanted to help," Keech said.

STUDENT ARTISTS Lynn Jensen (standing) and Kelly Erickson will design the artwork for a cookbook authored by Betty Wagner to benefit SCAMP.

Free seminar at OCC

The free seminar "Transitions" is scheduled to begin the week of Sept. 19 at all campuses of Oakland Community College.

The program is designed for persons needing support, direction, educational guidance and career planning. Discussions will focus on personal growth and decision making plus economic and academic growth.

The two student artists' work was chosen over dozens of student entries.

Wagner and Bunny Newmarch, executive coordinator for North Oakland Scamp Funding Corp., chose the winning designs. Both said it was hard to choose from so many well-done entries and that they appreciated the participation of so many students.

Erickson, who is attending the Center for Creative Studies (CCS) in Detroit this fall, took photographs around Oakland County to use in creating the pen and ink line drawings for the seasonal lead-in sections.

"I've always been interested in drawing," said Erickson, who aspires to be a graphic designer.

Jensen, who also plans to attend CCS in Detroit after she graduates next year and major in advertising or art direction, designed a tree depicting the four seasons for the book's color cover.

Both said they were volunteering their efforts on the cookbook to further their drawing experience and to help a good cause.

SCAMP is a five-week summer camp for children and young adults with special needs, serving the north Oakland County area.

Baumann

It's carnival season and rides are open wherever you look! Going up, going down, and every which way around. They're always an interest to me.

I'm not picky when it comes to carnival rides. There's nothing too fast, slow, high or low. Of course, I can't speak for everyone.

Such as the people who faint at the mere sight of a roller coaster. The cringers. If you don't know one, you probably are one.

A person whose face changes colors throughout the ride. A cringer usually goes to a fair to play bingo and visits a theme park to see dolphins jump through hoops.

He/she is almost always seated next to a friend on an extremely scary ride -- most likely a friend who wouldn't quit pestering until they've been on everything, or perhaps it was the cringer's idea altogether: The "if I get killed, at least someone I know will go down with me" philosophy.

On the opposite end of the spectrum, of course, is the ride athlete. This rider knows exactly when to scream, when to hold both arms in the air, when to spit off the sides, and most importantly, when the lines will be shortest.

If a cringer's being pestered, it's most likely an athlete doing the job. If you had such good timing and talent, you'd want to show it off as well.

Also talented is the educated rider, the authority on carnival machinery. It's quite possible you have met one: Somebody who knows how long the standard ride will take, altitude, speed, death and injury toll, etc., etc., and is always willing to share this information with anyone who shows what might be considered a remote display of interest.

An expert is also quick to point out a frayed lap belt and vomit stains on the seat.

Of course, you can't enter an amusement park or fair without coming across two or three complainers, maybe more.

These folks are never satisfied: "Two tickets?! Last year, you only charged one!" ... "C'mon, speed this thing up!" ... "You're going too fast!" ... "If this harness puts one wrinkle into my new outfit, I'll sue!" ... "Must they always play '70s heavy metal music on the Tilt-a-Whirl?" ... "I'm bored!" ... "You mean that was it?" ... "They better sell corn dogs here!"

This scale could never be complete without a couple of the people who have seen it all before and apparently couldn't care less -- the "ride burnouts."

They get on (usually alone), sit down and when time's up, they leave for the next attraction: No emotion, no reaction ... doesn't look around or listen, just feels the motion and vibrations; body and mind in two different places. Maybe they're just good actors, I don't know.

Finally, let's not forget the macho "Carousels-are-for-little-kids-and-sissies" people. They annoy me the most.

They wouldn't touch the mares that go 'round no matter what you do. Close the park, turn off the polka music, run it at midnight when there's a new moon, and they still wouldn't step within six feet of the thing.

The world would be so much nicer if people didn't have so much dignity.

In conclusion, I'd like to reassure everybody shorter than 48 inches, pregnant or with a heart condition, you're not missing too awfully much from my point of view.

A moving experience can happen when you're standing still.

Kids on stage at Summit Place

Several local youngsters were in the spotlight last weekend at the Back-to-School Fashion Show at the Summit Place Mall in Waterford Township.

About 400 children auditioned for the opportunity to model clothing from the mall's stores, and 50 were selected.

The Clarkston kids were Zachary Crane, 4, a preschooler at Clarkston Preschool; Nikki Giroux, 6, a first-grader at Bailey Lake Elementary; Amy Licatovich, 5, of Transparent Drive, a second-year honor-guard model; Ryan Miller, a second-grader at Bailey Lake; Ashley Morgan, 3, ready to begin Clarkston Preschool; and Adam Watson, 6, a first-grader at Clarkston Elementary.

PHOTOGRAPHERS probably scare the fish, say 8-year-olds Kenny Gola (with net) of Bluewater Drive and Ed Lesniak of Clark Road, but the boys try their best to catch some water creatures during an Aug. 19 visit to the Mill Pond Park in Springfield Township.

Last days of summer

THE BEACH at the Mill Pond Park in Springfield Township provides a good spot for Melissa Lesniak, 13, of Clark Road to practice a dance routine.

FROM SUMMER PRACTICE, Jeanette Mierkiewicz, 4, of Bluewater Drive, Springfield Township, knows all there is to know about swinging on the swings at Mill Pond Park.
