29 new teachers hired in Clarkston

BY PAT YOUNG Clarkston News Staff Writer

Twenty nine new teachers have been hired for the 1988-89 school year in Clarkston.

"Not since the early 1970's have we hired this many_ new teachers," said Conrad Bruce, director of personnel

Bruce said the large number of new teachers is due to a higher enrollment in the elementary schools, new scheduling at the high school and meeting state guidelines for special education, as well as resignations and leaves of absence.

"Adding new teachers to a staff is always exciting for the staff itself, because of new ideas and enthusiasm and likewise for the children in the district who benefit from this," said Superintendent Gary Haner. "I'm especially pleased for people in Clarkston, because it has been so long since any significant number (of teachers) has been added to the district."

The new teachers gathered for orientation and a special reception at the Clarkston school board offices on Clarkston Road Monday morning.

"It's tremendous, a very positive thing," Bruce said. "We're really proud to hire such qualified people."

The district started out, he said, with 600 applica-(See NEW TEACHERS, Page 4)

Early deadlines

Due to the Labor Day holiday, The Clarkston News has early deadlines for the Sept. 7 paper.

The deadline for display advertising is 4 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 1; for classified advertising, 4 p.m. Friday, Sept. 2; and for editorial material, noon Friday, Sept. 2.

The office is closed Labor Day, Monday, Sept. 5.

Pancakes kick off celebration

A pancake breakfast, parade, ice cream and corn roast fill the schedule for Labor Day on Monday, Sept. 5. The coming attractions are as follows:

PANCAKE BREAKFAST From 7 to 10 a.m., hot pancakes will be served by Independence Township Firefighters in the annual pancake breakfast in Clarkston's Depot park adjacent to Village Hall, 375

Depot Street. The menu includes all the pancakes you can eat, sausage, milk and orange juice. The fee is $4 for adults and $3 for children.

All profits go to the national Institute for Burn Medicine in Ann Arbor.

LABOR DAY PARADE At 9:30 a.m., a half-hour earlier than past parades, it's parade time in Clarkston. Floats, bands and a variety of marchers are to participate in the annual celebration sponsored by the Clarkston Rotary Club.

The parade begins at Clarkston Junior High School on Church Street, travels west to Main Street and continues north down Main Street, ending at Miller Road.

ICE CREAM SOCIAL During and after the parade, ice cream will be served by the Clarkston United Methodist Church, 6600 Waldon Road, Clarkston.

AMERICAN LEGION LABOR DAY CORN ROAST From noon to 6 p.m., parade-watchers can feast on sweet corn roasted by members of the American Legion Campbell Richmond Post 65, 8047 M-15, just. north of I-75.

The corn roast, a 25-year tradition, also features grilled hot dogs and kielbasa, chili dogs, sloppy joes, cold beverages, home-baked desserts and other treats, all at reasonable family prices.

Eight of 15 stores in Independence, Brandon and Orion townships were found selling alcoholic beverages to minors last weekend.

Using a sting operation, investigators from the Oakland County Sheriff's Department (OCSD) issued tickets to clerks at Quik Pik on M-15 and Hop-In on Clarkston Road near Eston Road in Independence, said OCSD Detective Sgt. Fred Scholz.

In Brandon Township, clerks received tickets at Cracker Barrel, Sashabaw Road; M-15 Party Store, M-15; Clark Oil, M-15; Baldwin Pharmacy, South Street; and Hamady Foods, M-15.

Zim's Bowling Alley on Baldwin Road, Orion Township, was also cited.

The clerks must appear in district court, and owners of the stores must appear before the Michigan Liquor Control Commission in Lansing, Scholz said.

Owners face penalties ranging from fines of $250 to $1,000 to a suspension of liquor licenses or closing the businesses, said Scholz.

The sheriff's department runs an investigation about once a month, each time in a different area of the county, said Scholz.

Labor Day traffic likely to be heavy Planning a weekend trip over Labor Day weekend? Traffic may be heavy, but no construction is allowed on state highways during the holiday to make traveling easier for motorists.

State Transportation Director James P. Pitz has ordered the suspension of all highway construction activity from 3 p.m. Friday until normal work starting hours on Tuesday.

Only emergency work will be permitted on state highways and freeways over the holiday weekend.

If the weather is good, highway travel could set a Labor Day holiday record, according to officials from the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT).

MDOT estimates that motorists will log 885 million miles over the holiday period from noon Friday, Sept. 2, to noon Tuesday, Sept. 6. That would surpass last year's current record of 835 million miles by six percent.

Forecasts are made using traffic trends established from traffic count data and general economic conditions.

The last investigation in the area was September of 1987, he said, adding citizens complained recently to the Michigan Liquor Control Commission, which requested the investigation.

Scholz did not expect to find so many businesses selling to teenagers, he said.

"That's surprising," he said. "With school starting, it's going to be even worse. ... The store owners have got to be extremely cautious at this point."

Not only is the sale illegal, but it's dangerous for kids, he said.

"Younger people sometimes have more difficulty controlling their actions after they've had alcohol," said

Scholz. "Sometimes it works as a negative force, causing additional problems -- break-ins, rape, fights."

Scholz described the sting operation.

Teen employees of the sheriff's department are

Teen employees of the sheriff's department are used -- people around age 17, he said. They also try to use people who look their age, so it's obvious that identification is needed.

The teens do not carry identification when they go into a store to buy alcohol. Boys carry a six-pack of beer to the counter; girls choose wine coolers, he said.

If the clerk asks for their I.D., they tell the truth and say they don't have any. If the clerk asks their age, the tell the truth and tell them their age (under 21).

If the clerk sells them the beverage and the teen walks out the door, the sheriff's deputies issue a ticket.

"We don't try to fool anybody or trick them," Scholz said. "We try to use people who look young. ... We don't think it's fair to the licensee to bring people in who wouldn't be questioned under normal circumstances.

Correction

The size of Pine Knob Manor Homes III building sites was incorrect in the Aug. 17 issue of The Clarkston News. The correct size is a minimum of 4,550 square feet.

Ninety percent of all licensees run a very honest operation. This is just a check and balance to make sure it remains that way."

Investigations may be repeated in the same area if many instances are found, Scholz said, adding the penalty is more severe with each violation.

The owners of a store in Commerce Township that repeatedly violated the law was recently fined $750 and will have its liquor license suspended for three days. A large, bright orange sign will be placed in its front window to let the customers know, said Scholz.

"That's tough because a lot of these businesses make their money from liquor," he said.

Teens are in trouble

Adults, especially parents, should take control, say teacher, detective

BY JULIE CAMPE Clarkston News Staff Writer

As program coordinator for SEARCH, a substance abuse program at Clarkston High School, Katie MacKay has seen and heard things that make the hair on the back of her neck stand out.

'I'm really surprised we haven't had more serious injuries than we've had," said MacKay. "I would never be surprised to hear a kid shot another kid in Clarkston -because of the stories I hear. It's incredible."

Detective Steve Parker of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department concurred with MacKay, and both gave examples and possible solutions.

Mackay, who begins her 13th year in Clarkston Schools this week, told of the stories she had heard in the three years SEARCH has existed.

"I would never be surprised to hear a kid shot another kid in Clarkston -- because of the stories I hear. It's incredible."

~Katie MacKay

One angry teen drove around the CHS parking lot with a loaded shotgun in his car, waiting for an opportunity to use it, she said, adding that sheriff's deputies were called in time, and a tragedy was averted.

Another kid stopped hanging out in a Pontiac gang after a knife was thrown through his back, puncturing his lung, she said.

Teens have broken into their neighbors' homes to get money to buy drugs. Or to find an empty house to use for a party. Or to find guns, she said.

Girls have become sexually involved with many different males and don't develop meaningful relationships.

Many teen problems stem from substance abuse, including problems with "just alcohol," the phrase parents sometimes use which characterizes the harmful attitude some adults have when faced with the knowledge that their children are drinking, said MacKay.

But alcohol is just as harmful as other drugs, and can cause more trouble since it's so available, MacKay said.

When substances are coupled with angry teens armed with guns and knives, serious injuries can occur in the heat of an argument, she said.

MacKay sees kids between the ages of 15 and 19, but junior high age kids are also involved, said Parker.

Some tell their parents they're going to a movie or to get ice cream but are gone for hours, usually just loitering, he said.

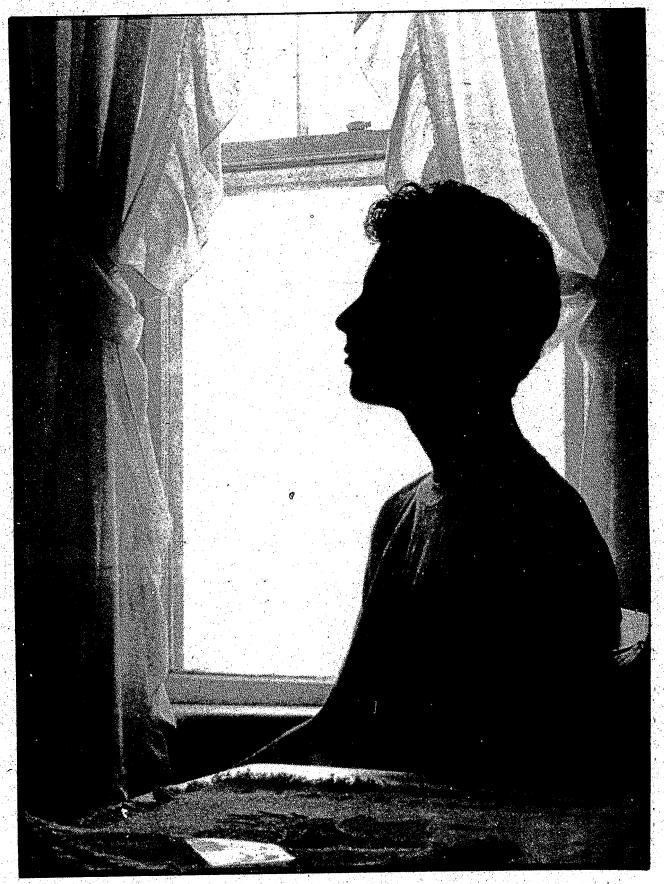

Kias nave been controlling their parents, and I think it's time the adults gain that control back.'

~Katie MacKay

'You get kids hanging around businesses, and older people don't even like to go in there because of the harassment," said Parker.

In Independence Township, teens of all ages loiter around Quik Pik on M-15 and Hop-In on Clarkston Road, said Parker, but he added that kids will stand around any store that sells alcoholic beverages and will wait until someone buys booze for them.

Other crimes include: Malicious destruction of property (spray painting buildings and cars, smashing mailboxes, turfing -- driving over a green lawn and splitting thes to thirth that or and driving; the

If they're caught, the teens are made to pay for the damage, which usually means the parents pay and the kids pay back their parents.

Adults should play a more active role in bringing up their children, he said.

"Parents need to take more control. It's like that TV news commercial, 'It's 11 o'clock, do you know where your children are?' Parents need to give their children a time limit.

"Unless they have a specific activity, like a date or a dance or a show or something, there's no reason for them to be (out), just hanging around," he continued.
"If they can't do a planned activity, why can't they stay home and clean the garage or their bedroom?"

Deputies will try to call the parents, as well as ticket kids they find loitering or drinking; and the tickets usually require a trip to the 52nd District Court, Parker said.

However, teens over age 17 aren't required to tell their parents, and if the deputy can't reach the adults by phone at the time of the offense, some parents might never know.

"Parents even unknowingly pay the $25 for the violation," he said.

"If the kids do the damage, it's usually the parents who end up paying."

~Detective Steve Parker

When deputies call, some parents are annoyed and think the tickets are trivial, he said, adding parent cooperation is essential if the problems are to be stopped.

New committee will convene

BY PAT YOUNG Clarkston News Staff Writer

A "Committee on Excellence" will convene shortly after school begins this fall in the Clarkston school district.

Superintendent Gary Haner will spearhead the group, to be comprised of school board members, school staff members, representatives of parent groups, and any interested persons from the community."

"It will be a short-term committee to share concerns the community has with the district," Haner says.

The list of concerns will be prioritized and incorporated into goals set by the school board.

Haner says the board will pinpoint about three to six or seven top priorities to work on in the immediate future.

The Committee on Excellence will meet at 7:30 p.m. on three consecutive Mondays, Sept. 19, Sept. 26, and Oct. 3. These will not be board meetings, Haner stresses, though the board will be involved.

Anyone interested in being a part of the Committee on Excellence is asked to call the board office at 625-4402, or any school office, to express that interest.

If there are enough responses, Haner says the committee meetings will be moved to a larger area than the meeting room at the Clarkston Road board offices. The location will be announced at a later date.

Library hours change

The Independence Township Library will be closed Labor Day, Monday, Sept. 5; and winter hours will begin the next day.

Starting Tuesday, Sept. 6, hours will be 10 a.m to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday. The library, located at 6495 Clarkton Rd., is closed Friday and Sunday.

Is your child using drugs or alcohol?

With school back in session, children may face peer pressure to try drugs and alcohol.

Officials from Detroit Edison's "Say NO to Drugs" program say parents should pay close attention to their children, particularly during the school years when peer pressure is strongest. The first step toward beating drug or alcohol abuse is to recognize the signs.

Experts note that parents sometimes dismiss major changes in their child's personality as nothing more than an adolescent phase, and unfortunately, that's not always the case.

Counselors in the company's "Say NO to Drugs" program suggest that parents and teachers watch for the following behavior patterns that might indicate drug or alcohol abuse.

A sudden or gradual decrease in grades.

● A new set of friends, many of whom you máy find objectionable.

 Rapid changes in emotions, easily upset: Defiance of household rules, staying out late.

Peer pressure makes teens easy prey

"It hits all groups," she said. "There's no difference. But at both extremes, from the very wealthy to the very poor, it's harder to break through the denial. The more middle the family is, the more open they are and the more willing they are to listen and to be honest."

The kids who are better off are children with strong family relationships, who suffer the consequences when they break rules, who are loved and cared for and whose parents are involved in the child's activities, she said.

"The kids still get in trouble, but they have an easier time coming back," said MacKay.

Solutions are many -- one answer in itself doesn't necessarily solve everything, she said. Police, the court system, school officials and especially parents need to step in and make children feel the consequences of their behavior. "It's been a combination of things," she said. "It's been a slow, gradual process, and suddenly here we are, wondering what happened.

"When I was growing up, all adults were concerned about me. Everybody in the neighborhood knew me. If I (messed) up, no one was afraid to call my parents and tell

"(Recently), kids have been controlling their parents, and I think it's time the adults gain that control back," she said.

Schools are guilty, too, but they're only a reflection of society, she said, adding the situation was already improving at Clarkston High School.

(Principal) Bob Burek has done a wonderful job turning it around and dealing with it realistically," she said, noting that children are once again becoming involved in activities.

Residents in the Clarkston area have excellent opportunities for help -- through the many religious institutions or from the Clarkston Youth Assistance or from the counseling centers in the area, she said.

Since a lowered self esteem accompanies substance abuse, a strong value system is important; and it requires help from adults, said MacKay.

"Sometimes (kids) feel so out of control of their lives that they don't realize there are other lifestyles and choices available to them," she said. "All of society can help in this way, starting with the very young children and letting them make choices."

Opinions

The Roads We Travel

Road funding

I've commented on how the road needs in our area are growing and probably will continue to grow, and how funding to meet those needs is very limited.

Probably most of you who read this column have an opinion as to which roads need to be improved and what needs to be done. (That is assuming, of course, that there are people out there actually reading this column!)

Let's take a look at how much typical road improvements cost. I'll start with the more simple and less expensive ones and work up.

Apply new gravel to gravel road -- $10,000 per mile. Build a right turn lane -- $30,000 each Build a passing lane -- $30,000 each Pave a subdivision approach to a main road -- $30,000

each
Pave a more major road approach -- $45,000 each
Pave gravel subdivision streets -- $170,000 per mile
Resurface two-lane asphalt roads -- $170,000 per mile Widen an intersection to provide center turn lanes for signals -- $300,000 each

Pave a main gravel road with no special problems --$600,000 per mile

Pave a main gravel road with hills and swamps (bad soil)

-- $800,000 per mile Widen from two lanes to five lanes -- $3,000,000 per mile Widen from two lanes to four or six lane boulevard --$6,000,000 per mile

Note that not all of the costs shown above are just for pouring concrete or laying asphalt. The larger projects require more extensive design work and the purchase of right-of-way (additional land to build the project).

Can some of the above improvements be made for less money? Maybe, since these are average or typical costs, but be careful. Remember the old adage, "You get what you pay for?" Well, it applies to road work also.

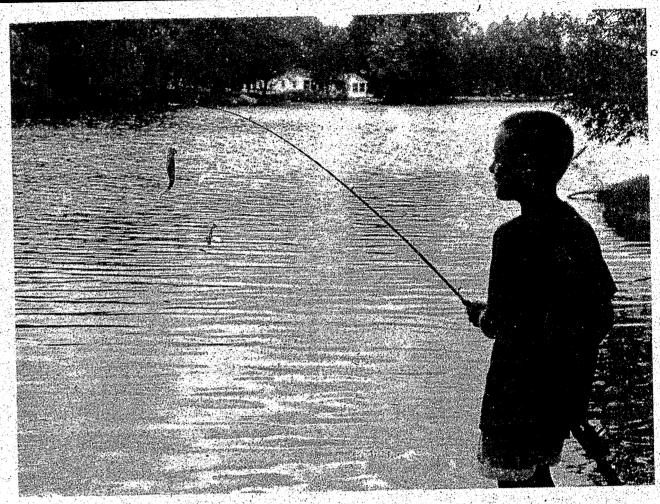

For example, you can resurface an asphalt road with only an inch and a half of material instead of the three inches of recycled material provided for in the above estimate and it will cost a great deal less. However, that thinner surface won't last as long and in the long run, it will probably prove to be a less cost effective fix to the original problem.

Does it cost more to build roads in Oakland County than elsewhere in the state? Sometimes. The cost of labor tends to be higher here, and with all our lakes and wetlands, the soil conditions often are not the best for constructing roads. On the other hand, there are a lot of contractors in southeast Michigan, and the high level of competition tends to keep the costs down.

In my next column, I'll discuss all the steps involved in a road improvement project, and why it sometimes takes so long to get a road improved even after the funding has been identified to do it.

Kathy Greenfield is on vaction. Her column will be featured on this page again next week.

Jim's Jottings

Jim Sherman

For the August 29, 1962 Oxford Leader I started Jim's Jottings: "Susan Kay joined the Leader's Sherman family at 7:57 Tuesday morning."

Now, 26 years and six days later, Susan Kay is leaving the Sherman family. September 3 she'll marry Tim Speed of Morenci.

She won't like it, but my most dominate memory of her is at ages 3 through 7. She was all arms and legs—slender arms and legs. And, when she jumped into my arms or I picked her up, she wrapped those arms and legs around me like a grape-vine to a fence.

I can feel her now, her arms tightly hugging my neck and her legs wrapped around my waist. She was tall and skinny then, and she hasn't changed. Except now she wouldn't have to jump in my arms. At 5-feet-8 she can stand flat footed and wrap her arms around my neck.

Her tall, slim stature makes her an ideal person to buy clothes for. Just buy a size 8. At birthday time and Christmas Susan's the easiest of the family to buy for. We went shopping last week, she tried on five dresses and they all fit perfect.

My wife and daughter, Luan, are green with

In a general way, things have not come easy for Susan. She got through high school with grades unacceptable to many colleges, though Central Michigan accepted her.

There high grades were very scarce. She supplemented her credits with community college work, she changed majors so often she nearly ran out of subjects she could handle.

I've made many remarks to Susan about her attending various colleges. One Christmas I gave her a car window with decals from five colleges pasted on it. She thought it was funny, at least outwardly.

I used to write her quite often always with her named spelled with a lot of z's, as in Suz-z-z-z. I even gave her golf tees with Suz-z-z-z. She wasn't exactly an early riser. One of my great joys when she was home was waking her up in the morning. I loved getting her out of bed just to hear her complain.

And she'd come down stairs with the sleepiest, most annoyed look, complaining with every step about my cruelty and my non-understanding of the need she had for adequate hours of sleep.

But, she did accomplish one thing in college. She found a fine young man. The courtship has lasted over seven years, which should be long enough for them to know each other pretty well. We who have been married over 30 years know, of course, we are still finding new traits in our mates.

As Susan says, "If we'd been living together as long as we've been going together we'd be legally married by now." But, I say, "If you'd been living with someone that long you wouldn't have a father to escort you down the isle."

Not only is Tim a fine young man, but he has chosen a most honorable profession...he's in sales at the Ypsilanti Press.

He must be a good man, he asked our daughter to marry him, and he's in the newspaper business. He also likes fishing, hunting, golf, boats, and cars.

Join us in wishing Susan and Tim a most happy lifetime together.

goofiest grandfather in the world.

I'll introduce Sherman later. Everybody knows who Iacocca is. He has, in fact, reached a celebrity status even beyond that of those entertainment icons - such as Cher and Sting - who need only one-word names. Iacocca needs no name at all.

At least, that was the case in the lacocca picture that caught my attention. It was a life-size photo of Iacocca's head, covering one full page of a two-page Chrysler Motors ad that ran in newspapers nationwide last week.

You saw it, but you didn't notice that nowhere was the huge face identified. It was taken for granted that you would recognize it.

The ad explained why Chrysler customers are satisfied customers. No one seeing that ad thought the pictured man was the service manager at a Chrysler dealer - the guy in the smock, carrying a clipboard, who says your warranty doesn't cover what's wrong with your car.

Pages aren't long enough No one thought the huge head belonged to an anonymous model hired to pose because his face reflected the rugged American character typical of the Chrysler buyer who can look at the sticker price and not faint. Everyone immediately knew the actual-head-size photo was Lee Iacocca because everybody knows that no other car corporation chairman needs a full page to accommodate his popularity. The Chrysler advertising agency realizes that before buying a Ford, people kick the tires, but before buying a Chrysler, they check the gossip columns to see who Lee Iacocca's dating. I figure the only reason the photo wasn't actually life size form head to shoes is that newspaper pages aren't long enough. And, just to make room for all of Iacocca, Chrysler, will probably be the first auto company to publish a six-foot-long owner's manual. A life-size phto of Iacocca's entire body is just what I need to improve my own snapshot image. Emily, my sixyear-old granddaughter, likes to blind me by anchoring a newspaper page to my face with my eyeglasses. Emilythen leads me around the house, bumping me into furniture in a futile search for my plate of fudge, which she has hidden.

My wife thought a grown man with a newspaper page stuck inside his glasses was such a strange sight that she took a picture of it. And I was subsequently chagrined to note that I did indeed look foolish, not only because of the newsprint looking through my glasses, but also because my pants were baggy and my sweater was torn. I would look much better if Emily pinned me behind a six-foot photo of Lee Iacocca.

Not the goofiest, after all This is where Ben Sherman of Manistee comes in. I thought surely the snapshot of me with the newspaper page behind my glasses, with a little girl leading me by the hand, portrayed the goofiest grandfather in the world. But Sherman's wife, Alyce, sent me a photo of what their 31/2-year-old granddaughter, Yolande, did to Ben.

"While Ben read his newspaper, Yo kept bringing out Grandma's beads and necklaces and piling them, one by one, on his head," Alyce Sherman reported. "When they'd hang down over his glasses, she'd rearrange them carefully. This went on for about 20 minutes. Neither one spoke a word during the whole time."

In the snapshot, Ben Sherman looks like the jeweled, crowned King of Siam reading the newspaper. He looks goofier than I did reading the newspaper inside my Sees. Not many of us can get through life famously with glasses one name less than Cher. Not many of us get life-size photos of our face in all the newspapers. But there are consolations.

There are grandchildren, and when we let them make fools of us, we have less face to lose.

Jet fuel spill contamination on I-75 contained

BY JULIE CAMPE Clarkston News Staff Writer

Residents are off bottled water in the Flemings Lake Road area near the site of the June 10 jet fuel spill on I-75, but government officials are still waiting for more test results.

Cheryl Wallace, an environmental quality analyst for the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, said residents can finally relax.

"The (water) wells look fine," she said, adding soil samples from the spill site showed some contamination, but an upcoming site evaluation should give more information.

For now, residents are OK drinking their own well water, she said.

Random tests of water wells in the area, performed by the Michigan Department of Public Health (MDPH), were negative -- nothing toxic was found.

Water tests run by environmentalists hired by Leaseway Transportation, whose truck lost 900 gallons of fuel when it rolled over in June, show less than two parts per billion of benzene, toluene and xylene (BTX) and showed total petroleum hydrocarbons (TPH) ranging from less than one part per million to less than three parts per million, said Wallace.

At those levels, residents don't have to worry, and the results could mean the water is not contaminated at all, she said.

Leaseway's test results for BTX most likely show the limits of the study, said Wallace. In other words, the environmental company didn't have technology to detect anything less than two parts per billion.

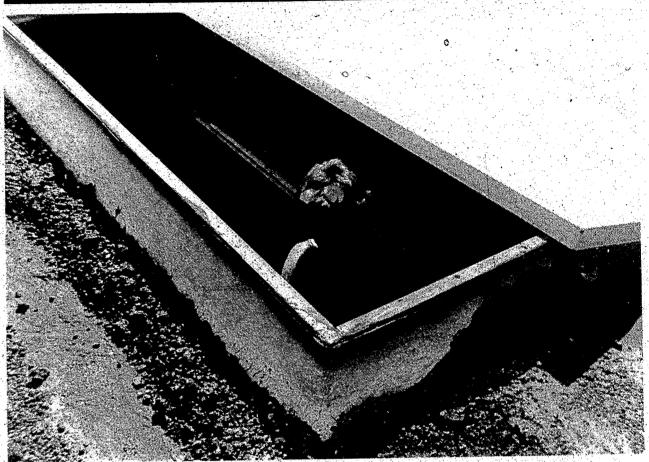

MDPH officials are to resample the area in a month to confirm the first results. If everything comes back clear again, residents can indeed sigh in relief, Wallace said.

If the health department finds something in the second tests, then Leaseway is to resume paying for bottled water for the residents.

Wallace commended the residents for taking an active part in the cleanup and for wanting information.

"When you really don't know what's going on, you tend to overreact. But once you get an understanding, you don't worry as much," she said: "When this first started, it was a big panic. But that was because residents didn't know what was going on. ... They don't have any other available water. ... I would react exactly the same way they did."

SKYLIGHTS at Pine Knob Elementary School are closed off as part of the roofing job. Don Robertson from All Roofing in Warren works from a ladder inside a classroom and allows his head to protrude from the roof. The repairs to four roofs in Clarkston School are to cost $666,740.

Millage vote

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

It's official. Springfield Township voters will be asked to approve an operational millage for the Springfield Township Library in the November election. But they will only be asked to approve a half mill, not the one mill that barely lost on the primary ballot.

"We thought it would be accepted more readily than a mill," said Mary Watson, chairman of the library board.

The library board knew that Springfield Township Parks and Recreation Commission was asking for a half-mill for operation and development of park facilities in November, and board members didn't want voters to feel too much was being asked for, she said.

The unanimous decision to put one-half mill on the November ballot came at the Aug. 23 library board meeting. A half mill is 50 cents per $1,000 of assessed property valuation.

"The half mill is sort of a minimum kind of effort to raise money for the library," said Jim Banes, chairman of the campaign committee and a candidate for the library board in the upcoming election: "We talked about what was realistic for now, and came up with one-half mill.

"We will have a more intensive campaign, add more posters, do a mailing again," he said. "That should put us in the ballpark."

Banes added, "People don't realize how important the library is. There are 3,000 people, or over 25 percent of the residents using the library."

The rural library is housed in a historic building at Andersonville and Hogback Lake roads, formerly Andersonville School, with no room for expansion, said Cathy Phillips, library director.

A building fund is still needed, she said, but for now, the immediate need is operational money.

"The money has to come from somewhere, and there's just not enough in the general fund (through which the library is currently funded)," she said. "If the library is to continue to grow and operate, we're going to need this millage."

Murder suspect scheduled for sentencing Sept. 9

BY JULIE CAMPE Clarkston News Staff Writer

Sentencing is scheduled for Sept. 9 for former Springfield Township resident Jerry Strickland, who was convicted Sept. 22 of first-degree felony murder for shooting Elmer DeBoer to death on May 11, 1987.

The 28-year-old was also found guilty of kidnapping and robbing DeBoer, a courier for a Waterford Township Union 76 Gas Station on Andersonville Road; and two counts of using a firearm in the commission of a felony.

Jurors spent five hours deliberating the case before Oakland County Circuit Court Judge James Thorburn.

The trial took a long time because over 40 witnesses testified, said assistant prosecuting attorney Charles Spiekerman.

"It's not an easy case to try because you know you had a murder, and I was certain he was guilty, so you just want to make sure everything goes right," he said, adding the Waterford police did an excellent job gathering evidence.

"Elbert Hatchett (defense attorney) is a brilliant attorney, and if anything was wrong with the case, he would have found it," said Spiekerman.

"The trial went good because we got the conviction, and he was guilty," he said. "It was a well-tried case, and it was the right verdict."

Strickland and his girlfriend, 18-year-old Melissa Munday, were the subjects of a nationwide search following the robbing, kidnapping and slaying of DeBoer, 38.

Strickland was found with his pregnant girlfriend and their infant son in Moses Lake, Wash., after the NBC-TV program "Unsolved Mysteries" outlined the circumstances of the crimes and showed photographs of Strickland and Munday.

According to police evidence, Strickland and Munday, who lived together in Springfield Township, robbed DeBoer of about $11,000 when he stopped at the Waterford Union 76 along his daily route.

Munday, who was a minor at the time of the crimes, worked at the gas station and allegedly helped plan the theft. The couple then kidnapped DeBoer, and Strickland took DeBoer to a Rose Township field where two boys found DeBoer's handcuffed body with two bullet wounds to the head May 12.

Charges of kidnapping and murder were dropped against Munday in exchange for her testimony. But the mother of Strickland's two children is to appear in Oakland County Probate Court Sept. 19 to face charges of armed robbery.

Munday's mother from Maryland is caring for the two children.

First degree murder carries a mandatory life sentence.

ORGANIZATION is easier before students fill the classroom, says 5th-grade teacher Marilyn Brown, who spent Aug. 25 at Pine Knob Elementary School.

2 hurt in I-75 crash

Two Independence Township men were seriously injured Aug. 27 when the car they were driving rolled over on I-75 near the weigh scales.

About 4:20 a.m. Saturday, Robert James Fenbert, 23, of Langle Court, was driving north on I-75 when another car on the side of the road pulled in front of him, according to the Oakland County Sheriff's Department report (OCSD).

Fenbert sideswiped a third car sitting vacant on the highway shoulder and then collided with the car in front of him before rolling off the highway, according to the OCSD report.

Fenbert, who was not wearing a seat belt, was released from Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital Monday in stable condition, said Dr. Robert Aranosian.

His passenger, David Anthony Cipparone, 20, of Mustang, remained in stable condition at POH on Monday. Cipparone was not wearing a seat belt.

No one else was injured, but construction barrels were damaged in the crash. Tickets are pending the investigation.

I-75 pileup halts traffic

Traffic was jammed for a few hours Aug. 24 on southbound I-75 following a six-car accident during rush

About 5:50 a.m. Wednesday, several cars slowed for traffic near Clintonville Road, and a car driven by 47year-old Kenneth Wayne Tendall of Flint ran into the rear end of the car ahead of him, causing a chain reaction accident involving another three cars, according to the Oakland County Sheriff's Department report.

Just seconds following the accident, a car driven by Edward Herbert Jaster, 29, of Flint ran into Tendall's vehicle, complicating the chain of accidents.

No one was seriously injured in the accident. Tendall and Jaster received tickets for basic speed violations, according to the police report.

The activity is mind boggling

By Jim Sherman, publisher

These are interesting days to be in the newspaper business in this section of Oakland County. At least they are interesting to this country boy from mid-Michigan. They've been that way since about the time GM built in Lake Orion.

Interesting is probably not the right word, but neither is exciting, intoxicating, upbeat, or spectacular when used individually. However, all these words can be used to describe the feelings I've experienced watching what's happening to the acreage around us.

It certainly never crossed my mind while growing up in Shiawassee county that I would be invited to see how the "Big Boys" do things.

I went to a picnic marking the opening of some factory land last week that cost more than I grossed my first year in the newspaper business.

Two weeks ago I went to the opening of The Palace ... with 10,000 other people . . . all eating and drinking for two hours or more, no cost. It was a public relations show that cost the owners more than our gross sales figure of this year.

There have been other celebrations that have impressed me with the extent of planning, the imagination of presentation, and the thoroughness of attention to detail that boggle my mind.

The opening of the New Course at Indianwood and some other affairs staged by Indianwood owner Stan Aldredge come to mind as "wonder why I was invited?" events.

The most recent occasion I was invited to that gave me chills for being there was the "Picnic in the Park" that marked the opening of Phase II of Oakland Technology Park in Auburn Hills.

OakTech Park is being developed by Schostak Brothers & Co, Inc of Southfield. Phase I included Comerica headquarters, World Computer headquarters, a Schostak office building, GMF Robotics, and many more facilities.

The biggie in Phase II so far is ITT's auto division headquarters, a $42 million building that is going up, now.

This phase's land is owned by Comerica and the development manager is Schostak Brothers.

We got to the picnic a little early and was the first to take a tour of the site in a van. A tape recording by to personality George Sells "sold" us building lots along the way. The picnic was obviously for potential

Just the tour was impressive . . . all underground utilities, wetlands, paved roads, lighted streets, boulder (397 of them) landscaping.

The picnic pavilion was a big tent. Caterers came in semi trucks with portable barbecue pits. Hot hors d'oeuvres were cooked on long sticks and put in heated woks. Bowls were carved from ice to keep fruit cold. Numerous drinks were available. Several bite size deserts filled the tables along with cheeses, vegetables and a lady slicing roast beef for sandwiches.

I mean, you're taking layout, and you haven't even got to the real sales pitch yet. Television screens lined the 'room'. There was a video show from before the first ground breaking to now, plus what appeared to be a time lapse picture of a building going up within

The Picnic in the Park was a time for meeting new people and renewing acquaintances for those connected with with the project. Above, right, Jerome L. Schostak, chairman of the board of Schostak Brothers & Company, Inc., chats with Pat Nowak of Oakland University.

TV camera lined the tent (room) as Philip Houdek, program director of Oakland Technology Park, gave introductions.

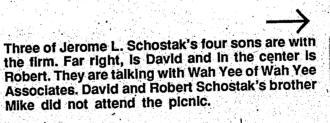

the park being built by a computer.

It's things like this that bring out the adjectives in me, and though I may not understand how something was done, I do understand why it's done. It's to impress, it's to sell, it's to make things happen, and it's to please themselves and others.

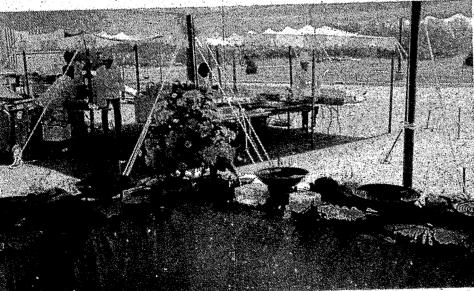

The park picnic, The Palace, the new golf course.

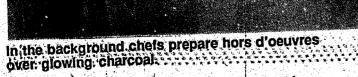

they are just part of what's making northeast.

Oakland county so exciting, interesting, intoxicating, upbeat and spectacular to this country boy from mid-Michigan, and maybe to you, too.

Holly crafts festival boasts food and fun

Crafts, food and entertainment provide a weekend of fun in the 15th Annual Carry Nation Festival in Holly, on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 9-11.

Nearly 100 artisans and crafts people are to exhibit their wares from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. all weekend in downtown Holly, where thousands of visitors are expected to attend, said Barbara Mirsky, one of the festival organiz-

Sponsored by the Carry Board of Commerce, entertainment includes music and children's games such as an egg toss and cake walks.

From hot dogs and cotton candy to please the children and shish-kabobs and pierogies geared for adults, everyone should be able to feast over the weekend, said Mirsky.

The festival is named after the famed prohibitionist Carry Nation, who made a stop in Holly on her way across the country in 1908, creating chaos against the defiance of liquor laws. The festival is funded solely from donations and fund raisers.

The Carry Nation Festival in the southern portion of Holly Township can be reached by Clarkston area residents by driving north on Dixie Highway or I-75 to west on Holly Road, which travels through the Village of Holly

Dunk tank coming

During the Labor Day festivities, parade-goers can release their frustrations at the dunk tank.

The Clarkston Area Jaycees are sponsoring the dunk tank at the American Legion Hall on M-15 following the 9:30 a.m. parade in Clarkston.

Among the targets are Bill Wint, Tom Lowrie, Joy Leonard and Jaycee President Kate Kuechle.

The price is three throws for 25 cents or seven for 50 cents. The money will be used to support community activities.

We've got a great name for frozen yogurt.

Walker strides toward the gold in Seoul

BY PETER AUCHTER Clarkston News Staff Writer

When he missed making the 1984 Olympic team, a Springfield Township man refused to give up his dream of capturing a world or Olympic title.

His dedication to race walking, plus helpful hints from a training coach, propelled him to victory in an Olympic qualifying tournament earlier this summer in Indianapolis. As a result, the athlete earned a spot on the United States Olympic Team headed for Seoul, South Korea, and the Summer Olympics.

Gary Morgan of Norman Road began race walking competitively around 1981. When the victories weren't piling up, he decided to seek assistance.

"About two years ago I got a coach," the 1978 graduate of Pontiac Central said. "Things started to happen then."

One of the better 'things' to happen was the world championships in Rome last year. He finished 29th. Disappointed with his performance, he eagerly awaited the Olympic Trials this summer.

Remembering the '84 tryouts, Morgan blocked out the distractions this time around. Instead, he concentrated on the job at hand -- winning a spot on the team.

"I knew what I was doing," he said of his previous experience. "It helped me."

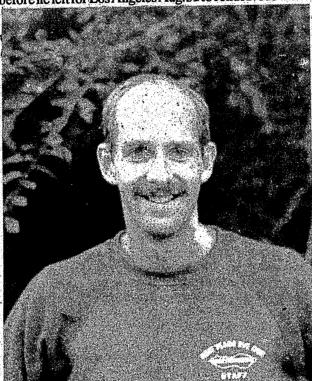

Race walking is a difficult sport to master, since it's both an athletic event and an art form, Morgan said. Participants must lock their knee on every stride and always have one foot in contact with the ground. Three mistakes, caught by the judges, disqualifies an entrant. They also must have endurance.

"It's all legs," he said. "You have to be stronger than a runner. You also have to be thinking all the time."

Ever since he claimed a spot on the Olympic team, he's become a mini-celebrity. An interview by WDIV-

TV 4 reporter Isiah Thomas, local newspaper sportswriters, dozens of well-wishers plus endless hours of practice place a premium on his time away from work.

Fellowemployees at Pontiac Motors jumped on the bandwagon and gave the electrician a rousing farewell before he left for Los Angeles Aug. 31 to rendezvous with his teammates. Signs, complete with his picture, were plastered on the walls at work, wishing him the best of luck

After a one-week stay in L.A., the entire American entourage travels to Tokyo, Japan for another week to help the athletes adjust to the 12-hour time difference. From past experience, Morgan doesn't anticipate any problems.

"Jet lag doesn't bother me much," he said. "I've flown out West and done a race the same afternoon or the next morning."

The United States team arrives in Seoul for the summer games Sept. 15, but Morgan will have to cool his heels in a hotel room for eight days before it's his turn to shipe

He will bide his time by either reading or writing, he said. Once the games are over, he'll spend some time touring the Asian country, especially the areas outside of Seoul.

Competing against the best athletes in the world, Morgan is setting his sights on a top 10 finish.

"I'd like no less than a top 10 finish," he said. "If I'm having a good day and (I'm) close at the end of the race, then I'm going to give it all I've got."

In high school, a pudgy Morgan took up sports to help rid his body of an extra 10-15 pounds. He joined both the cross country and track teams while at Central.

Later in life, he's continued to enjoy active sports like cross-country skiing.

"I like to eat too much," he said. "I'm a health nut and I want to keep (physically fit)."

While preparing for races, Morgan usually works out at Indian Springs Metropark in White Lake and Springfield townships a couple of days a week and in Dearborn where his coach, Frank Alongi, lives.

The 8-mile bike trail at Indian Springs, complete with mile-markers, makes for an ideal place to time workouts.

No matter how he fares at the summer games -- first place or last -- Morgan will continue to train and workout on a regular basis. His incentive, however, will be much greater should he fail to capture the gold this September.

"I'll always have to do some type of sport," he said.
"It's hard to maintain this level but I will stick with it because I'd like to be a world or Olympic champion."

Football team searches for killer instinct

Confidence will make or break the varsity football team this fall, said Coach Kurt Richardson.

"If we get off to a good start people had better watch out for us," the second-year head coach said. "I feel confident about (the players) but they have to believe in

Only two players from the offensive unit return for another season. They are Jason Campbell and Rob Himburg.

A battle between Scott Oppman and Dane Davis for the number one quarterback slot still hadn't been decided Monday evening, just four days before the season opener against Grand Blanc Sept. 2. The final decision may not be made until game day, the coach said.

John King and Brett Kinzler, both running backs, and wide receiver Kevin Keilitz should make an impact in their first varsity season. The play tight end/outside linebacker Wally Wyniemko also will be important for the Wolves, Richardson said.

Throughout training camp, Keilitz and Himburg have been the best pass catchers, the coach added.

Defensively, the Wolves return a few more players and should be solid. Chris Ketzler, Joe Martinez, Mark Hetherington and Doug Lederman all saw playing time last season.

Just as in years past, many of the athletes will be shuffled around until the proper team chemistry is discovered.

Springfield shooting for national title

As defending state champions of the Michigan Association of Christian Schools, the members of the Springfield Christian Academy soccer team have their work cut out for them this season.

The Eagles began 1988 season on the right foot by capturing a tournament title in Houghton recently. The victory marked the fourth Springfield championship there in six years.

"They were good close games," said Coach Todd Vanaman, of identical 2-1 victories for his charges in the tournament games.

Springfield topped Indiana Christian 2-1 in overtime in its first game and then bumped off Emmanual Baptist of Tolado 2-1 in the championship match.

About a dozen seniors, including a transfer student, will provide the Eagles with plenty of experience on the field this fall. A handful of juniors and sophomores round out the roster.

Striker Scott Hine, who notched two goals and one assist in the season-opening contests, and center halfback Dave Marsh are the top returning veterans for Springfield. Roger Carlson will be the number one goaliefor the team.

Other players who are expected to contribute throughout the season are defenseman Jeff Ocker and midfielder John Laturneau, the coach said.

Transfer student Dave Goforth, who injured his knee last season, will return strong and add toughness to the team from the sweeper position.

Should the team accomplish its goal of winning another MASC title this season, the Eagles will set their sights on bigger prey -- the American Association of Christian Schools national championship in North Caro-

A scheduling conflict kept the team from attending the nationals last season, but all efforts will be made to get there this fall should the Eagles qualify, the coach

The next wave

Soccer is rapidly becoming one of my favorite spectator sports. I don't have the lungs to play the game, but it's a lot of fun to watch.

It's especially good to see the high school programs at Clarkston High School -- both the girls last spring and boys this fall -- get more fan

Maybe some day there again will be a nation. wide professional soccer league so everyone can enjoy this wonderfully international sport in America. Maybe somebody could buy Wayne Gretzky for $20 million in a couple of years and teach him soccer. What's good for hockey, might be even better for soccer.

If ever there will be a national league of soccer, the system of developing players and fans has to start from the ground up.

Realistically one player -- no matter how good he or she plays -- is not going to make Americans watch soccer. It has already been tried with the New York Cosmos' Pele of the disbanded North American Soccer League. Aren't we supposed to learn from our mistakes?

As the trade of Canadian-born Gretzky proves, the natives want to see a home-grown product in action, not some high-priced over-thehill prostitute from Europe.

What we need are good development programs and incentives to get youngsters involved in the sport. Now I'm not talking about giving a 16year-old a car, but rather emotional support by showing up for -- and when called for -- cheering yourself silly.

Trust me, cheering for players really works. Why do you think there are so many students out at the football tryouts? They like getting hit? They like waking up sore the morning after a game? No

The lure of the fans, the cheerleaders, the press clippings spurs these guys on the gridiron Friday night after Friday night. The same thing can happen with soccer. The possibilities are

Some of the smaller colleges around the area are beginning to pay close attention to the soccer trend and are adjusting their athletic budgets accordingly.

Just this fall, Schoolcraft Community College offered 1988 CHS grad Bill Cashin a conditional soccer scholarship. When major universities around the area and around the country jump on the bandwagon and field varsity soccer teams, complete with scholarship monies, the soccer era in the United States will start.

Once the college ranks are chock full of soccer players, the tycoons in the business world will take note. They'll see a chance to make a quick buck and start a new nationwide soccer league. Only this time it'll work, since the fan support will have developed at the same rate as the players' Maria Cara Service Services of

Wolves prepare for season opener Friday

"If the kids can show us they can play, then we'll find the time for them," said Richardson.

Another important aspect of the club is special teams play. The place-kicking game, with Ken Phipps, is under control; and a heated battle between Chris Parker and Phipps is underway for the punter's spot on the roster.

Five days before the season opener, the coach was still searching for the killer instinct in his players' eyes.

"We are not playing with a lot of intensity," he said.
"We're not real hungry, and you have to be with our schedule."

Clarkston digs right into the heart of its schedule from the get-go with a road game against Grand Blanc. The Bobcats not only have the home field advantage but also the revenge factor, Richardson said.

The Wolves, who finished 7-2 last year, beat Grand Blanc 22-21 in the season opener last year with a late touchdown and two-point conversion.

But that's not to say the game will be a lost cause for Clarkston. If the Wolves stick to the basics, they should do all right.

"We need to play with intensity and some heart,"

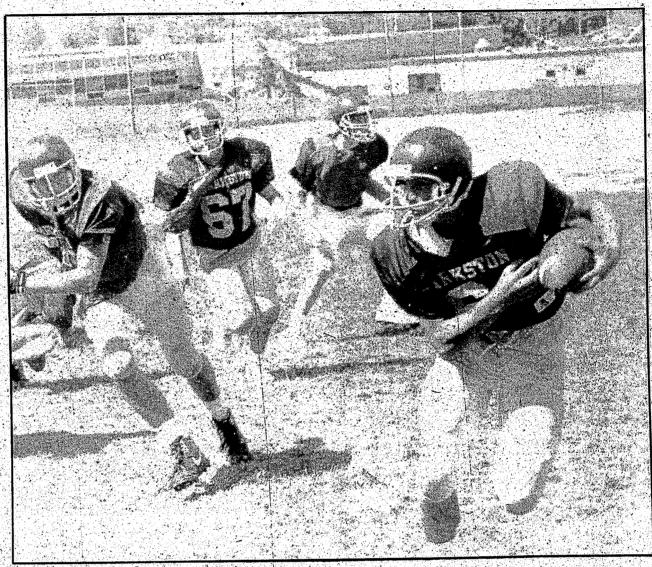

Park boasts 9 holes

Area golfers will have a new place to play this week when the first nine holes of a proposed 18-hole course at Indian Springs Metropark opens for business.

The cost of the development in Springfield and White Lake townships is projected to exceed $2.1 million.

Opening Sept. 2, the hours are as follows: Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to dusk; Saturdays, Sundays and holidays, 7 a.m. to dusk.

Entrance to the park is along White Lake Road, between Teggerdine and Cuthbert roads. For additional information, contact the metropark at 1-800-24-PARKS.

Entering her golden years, a retired General Motors worker wards off Father Time through participation in sporting events.

Leona Revoldt of Shappie Road, Independence Township, recently won two medals and two ribbons in the Senior Olympics in Southfield for her outstanding abilities. While she enjoyed the victories, the competition could have been better, she said.

"I'd like to see more seniors compete," she said. "They can do it if they set their minds to it."

On Aug. 15-16 in Southfield, the Independence senior won a gold medal in horseshoes and took a silver in shuffleboard. In addition, she earned ribbons for her performances in bocci and basketball free-throw shoot-

Her gold-medal performance in the horseshoe competition qualified her for the second annual national Senior Olympics in St. Louis, Mo. in 1989.

Last year, she participated in the inaugural event and brought home a silver medal in the horseshoe toss. "They really had a nice program," the mother of two said of the nationals.

While waiting for the St. Louis competition, the volunteer worker at Pontiac General Hospital keeps busy entering -- and winning -- competitions anywhere she can find them.

● At the Virginia State Olympics, she won a silver in the horseshoe toss.

 At the Pontiac Golden Olympics, she took home a first-place trophy for horseshoe and bocci.

After 32 years of work at General Motors Truck and Coach plant and numerous Olympic challenges, Revoldt senior remains eager for more.

"I'm going to keep doing it as long as my health allows," she said.

Fall fastpitch tryouts

Registration for the Orion-Oxford girls fastpitch softball team is running smoothly, but a few more players would be welcomed, said the club's vice-president.

The three-year-old, non-profit organization's main goals are to help players improve skills and earn scholarships to college, William Adkins said. The annual fall tryout is scheduled for 11 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 10. Players should come prepared with shoes, glove and bat for a couple hours of work.

Those interested in trying out for the team should show up at the Orion Township-field on Joslyn Road between Clarkston and Waldon roads. For more information, call Adkins at 628-0899.

Inspired players please new hoops coach

BY PETER AUCHTER Clarkston News Staff Writer

Injuries played a large role in determining the fate of last year's varsity basketball team at Clarkston High School.

Before the season began, the Wolves lost sharpshooter Jane Selent for the season and throughout the schedule various players (Ali Fedio, Kris Castillo, etc.) missed games due to injuries. Clarkston never got into a groove yet finished with a 15-8 record.

Many of the players from last year are gone, but new head coach Larry Mahrle has noticed that the team's determined spirit remains the same.

"This is a real excellent group," he said. "They have had an excellent summer in camp at OCC (Oakland Community College) and have a great attitude."

Despite the oppressive heat in July, team member diligently worked out during the summer camp twice a week to prepare themselves for the upcoming season.

Of the 12 players on the varsity, only two are seniors. Nine juniors and one sophomore round out the roster. Senior Jenny Grohs, one of the few returning players, will be looked upon to provide leadership for the younger members of the team, Mahrle said. How fast the inexperienced athletes can learn under fire will go a long way toward determining the team's fate, the coach added. "We'll be very young and need steady improvement," the 10-year coaching veteran said. "How we develop will be the key." With 6-foot-2 Rhonda Jokisch and 6-foot Susan McKoin manning the front line, Clarkston shouldn't have scoring troubles inside against many teams. They also should be able to shut down opponents at the other end of the court.

"It's defense that will win you the ball games," the coach said.

The other members of the varsity basketball team are Lisa Manzo, Kelly Avenall, Michele Darby, Celeste Steinhelper, Tami Mitchell, Jodi Lopucki, Cristy Graham, Jenny McChesney and Ingrid Larson.

Clarkston opened the 1988 season with a home game against Pontiac Catholic Aug. 30. Results were not available at press time. The Wolves return to action Sept. 1 at home against Rochester. The junior varsity game gets underway at 5:30 p.m.

Varsity soccer to 'challenge' league teams

BY PETER AUCHTER Clarkston News Staff Writer

Soccer is finally coming of age at Clarkston High School-not a minute too soon for Coach Neil Granlund.

With 52 students out for the team this summer, the addition of two volunteer assistant coaches and renewed support from the boosters club, the team appears ready to take its place among the 'major' sports on campus.

The large turnout of players doesn't boast any one outstanding athlete, but what the Wolves lack in talent

Along with all the extra students out for the team, three Clarkston High graduates volunteered to help coach the team. Ron Forbes, who also heads the junior varsity team, Derek Brown and Mike Kovalesky allow Granlund more flexibility in his coaching since players get more personal instruction.

Forbes, who played soccer for Spring Arbor College, looks toward a successful varsity season from what he's seen during the early practice sessions.

Clarkston area men call racing their hobby

BY PETER AUCHTER Clarkston News Staff Writer

Weekend warriors come in many different varieties. Some are fishermen, others bowlers. More adventurous souls race cars.

Two Clarkston area men, whenever they can find the time, head for the Waterford Hills Road Racing track in Independence Township the last weekend of the month from May through September.

Both attended last weekend's races, in search of fun, not glory or large payoffs.

BOB ANDERSON of Independence Township give his Triumph a final inspection before a race Saturday at Waterford Hills.

Bob Anderson of Sashabaw Road, Independence Township, and Tim Campbell of Dixie Highway, Springfield Township, have similar racing experience and goals in racing. At one time, the friends even worked at the same General Motors plant.

An Indiana native, Anderson acknowledged his heritage gave him a boost into this recreational activity.
"Racing is big in Indiana," the design engineer said.

"And I've always enjoyed fast cars."

Along with his wife Teresa, he treks back to his home state every year to visit friends and attend the Indianapolis 500.

This summer is his third as a racer with Waterford Hills Road Racing, Inc., a non-profit organization with a volunteer board of directors. It is the only track in the nation owned by the members race there, said publicist Calvin Cortright.

Anderson became familiar with the workings of Waterford Hills as a crew member a few years back. Later, he bought his first race car -- a red and white Triumph Spitfire:

Last season, his most successful yet, Anderson won his class championship at the track. Racers accumulate points according to how well they perform during each two-day weekend competition throughout the summer; the one with the highest total wins. Cars are placed in 23 different classes (or divisions) with compatible vehicles.

He's only gotten out to the track three times this summer due to a busy schedule, making the defense of last year's title difficult. But that doesn't bother him much.

"It's a fun hobby," the 30-year-old said. "Things are coming around to where they were last year (timewise)."

Pitting kitty-corner from Anderson is a former coworker of Anderson's at the G.M. Pontiac Fiero plant.

Like Anderson, Campbell is a 3-year veteran of the club circuit at Waterford Hills but this summer decided to try a new class. He sold his formula Ford in favor of a red and black Fiesta in hopes of increased competition.

"I like it a lot," he said. "There is only a one or two second difference between the cars, and this makes it more challenging."

Originally from Buffalo, Campbell moved to Michigan to attend college. He graduated in 1982 from General Motors Institute in Flint with a degree in automotive engineering. He currently works at the Milford Proving Grounds.

His involvement with racing evolved through his work in the automotive field, he said.

"I've admired the drivers as I got closer to high school," the 29-year-old said. "I'm interested, but I don't want to make it my profession."

TIM CAMPBELL is suited up and ready for action just before an afternoon race at Waterford Hills Road Racing Saturday.

The 1.5-mile paved track at Waterford Hills suts his weekend needs perfectly. A good number of the racers who faithfully attend every month travel with family members, and, in between events, there's time for a good deal of socializing.

"It's a really nice weekend," he said, jokingly adding that, "Having grease up the arms is the only drawback."

Most of the participants gladly exchange spare parts whenever they can to keep as many cars running as possible. Since there isn't large sums of money on the line, people are more than willing to help, he said.

About the only thing these racers can shoot for on the track is the satisfaction of a job well done.

"I'm proud of him," said his wife, P.J.

New additions bolster boys soccer team concession stand sales and announcers for all the home games. Hopefully, it will help attract a few new fans to the game, the coach said.

International rules, where players from both teams side on the same side of the field and check into the game through a scoring table as in basketball, also will be adopted this season. The fans from both teams will share bleacher space directly opposite from their team.

"It will make for exciting soccer," the coach said of the numerous off-season changes. "We will try to make it as convenient and exciting as possible."

About eight players were lost to graduation from last year's tough-luck 6-10-1 team that lost four of its games by a total of six goals.

Chris Blimka, Shane Maroney, Mike Rich, Carl Schmidt, John Koslosky and B.J. Deloney return from last year and will help lead the team, said the coach.

From early indications in practice, Clarkston should be able to move the ball down the field without much difficulty.

"We have really quick forwards," the coach said. "This is going to be a quick-passing team? They get the ball downfield and it's pass, pass, pass."

The varsity team gets its 1988 season underway at home 5 p.m. Sept. 2 against Avondale.

Even though both Waterford schools dropped their junior varsity soccer program due to lack of interest, Clarkston had no trouble finding competition.

Tough schools like Grand Blanc, Brandon and Bishop Foley will keep the team on it's toes all season.

A new high school ruling, allowing all ninth-grade students to participate in high school athletics, made an impact on the Wolves this summer. Nine players on the junior varsity team are freshmen.

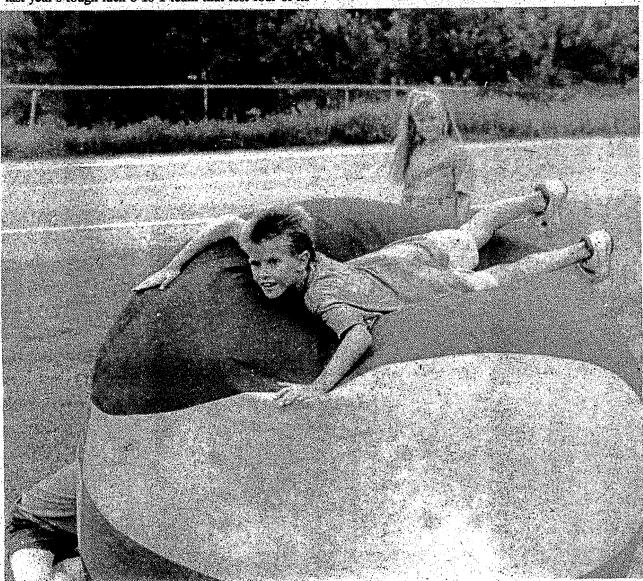

The ruling is good news for Granlund since the junior high schools don't have a soccer program, the students will get an extra year's worth of game experi-

Bishop Foley will host the CHS junior varsity team for its season opener 5:30 p.m. on Sept. 7.

Thoughtless thieves

Ellen Miller was saddened this summer when someone stole the flowers from her late husband George's grave in Lakeview Cemetery.

Miller, a Pine Knob Road resident, went to the Independence Township cemetery on the 4th of July, watered her geraniums and left for an hour. When she returned, the flowers were gone.

"All I had were four geraniums," Miller said. "In the dry weather, I went (often) to water, and all of a sudden, they weren't there anymore."

She shook her head and frowned and said she couldn't understand the people today.

"The principle of taking flowers from a grave. ... I'm not a person to really get ugly, but I guess I did (when I found out)," she said.

Miller said friends also had noticed plants stolen from the graves of loved ones at Lakeview Cemetery on White Lake Road, as well as other cemeteries.

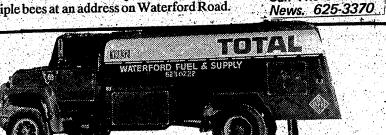

They've been doing it a lot. I don't know if people like that read the paper, but maybe it will make somebody think twice."

The theft is especially difficult for the grieving families of the deceased, Miller said, adding people should have more respect and consideration for others.

RUBY, A MINIATURE Sicilian donkey, can't keep from nosing into the picture of Paul Helzel and his 5-day-old pygmy goat, one of a set of triplets from Spice, an aguita goat. The curious Ruby and other miniature donkeys stand 35 inches tall at the shoulder, but are still larger than the pygmy goats, which stand 20 Inches high at the shoulder. When Ruby isn't following Paul, she hangs around with his 35 goats.

Rural hobby never gets his goat

BY JULIE CAMPE Clarkston News Staff Writer

Paul Helzel is a quiet man who prefers the noise of birds, crickets, bullfrogs and pygmy goats to the loud cars of more populated areas.

With a high-pitched bleat, his knee-high goats almost sound like children, calling "Ma-ma-ma," to their mother.

Reflections

Wednesday, August 31, 1988

With only grassy hills and a few trees between the goats and their caretaker's new house, Paul can easily hear them. In just a few slow strides, Paul is with them in the corral, where he talks to them affectionately, all the while petting the 35 heads or so in his herd.

The Rose Township resident and his wife, Judy, recently moved to their home on a gravel Davisburg Road after living on Pine Knob Road in Independence Township for years, where their children, Sara and Kirk, were raised.

Paul's new 11.5-acre homestead; with a house built from scratch by his own design and labor, is perfect for his hobby after his workday is finished as superintendent of District 2, Oakland County Road Commission.

"I just like animals," says Paul. "It doesn't matter what they are. I like these. They're small. I used to have (See TINY, GOATS, Page 30)

TWO OF SPICE'S THREE five-day-old baby goats search for more milk from their mother in in a stall at Paul Heizel's goat farm on Davisburg Road, Rose Township.

Tiny goats are his unusual pet

(TINY GOATS, from Page 29) dairy goats, but they take up so much time.

Dairy goats must be milked every day, but pygmy goats just need food, water and attention, says Paul. They have the same personalities as regular goats and still need to have their hooves trimmed, but they don't eat as

As he talks, the goats watch him and nuzzle close to him.

"Everybody accuses me of being a goat man, but that doesn't bother me," he says, explaining that the goats would be even more affectionate if he had fed them grain recently. Instead, they've been eating the choicest morsels of grass from the fields.

In addition to his miniature herd, Paul raises Sicilian donkeys, also miniatures, who love to be in the middle of the goat herd.

Then, there's Petunia, the friendly pig who lives in a slightly smelly pen and acts like a dog, says Paul.

"She can't help it. She's never been around any other pigs to know what she's supposed to act like," he says, adding, "Pigs are no dummies."

The farm wouldn't be complete without a dog and numerous cats, which can be found under steps, in tall grass and lazing around on the back porch.

The goats are almost as calm and peaceful as Paul.
The friendly creatures treat visitors with gentle curiosity, politely searching all the possessions of newcomers.

Many people have misconceptions about goats, and Paul doesn't mind telling the facts.

"Goats like to browse," says Paul. "They like brush and stuff, but I feed them hay; and there's grain. They don't like tin cans. That's a big myth. They're fussy."

Although most of his time has been spent building his house this year, Paul also enjoys showing his pygmy goats and judging other shows. Some years he trayels around the country, judging national and state shows.

Paul can't choose a favorite among his animals, explaining, "I'm not partial. I like them all.... I guess I am sentimental about them."

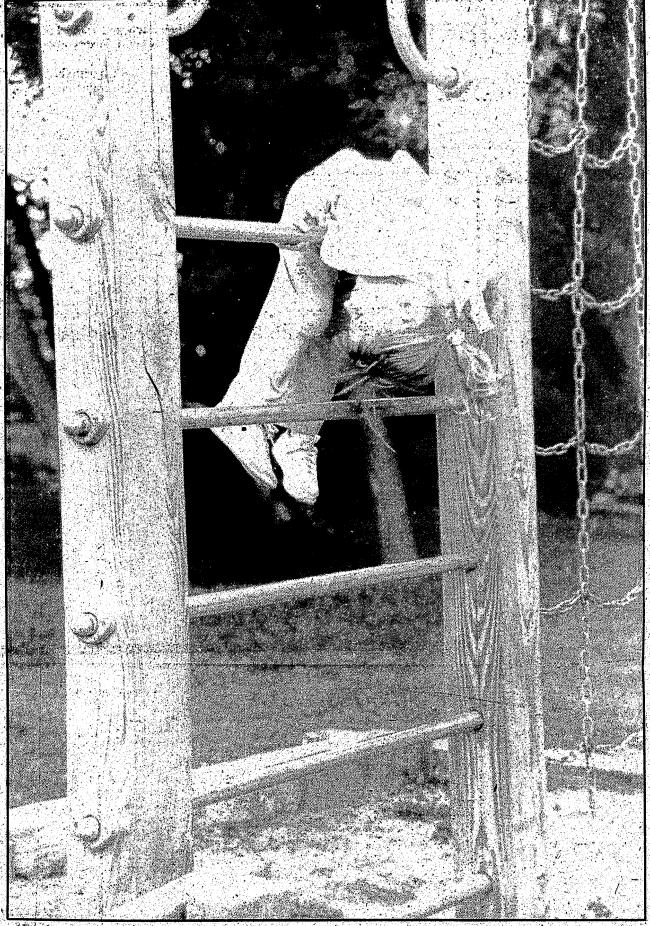

Take a safety break over holiday weekend

Labor Day vacationers with a long drive are invited to stop for free coffee and refreshments in the I-75 rest areas between Dixie Highway and Holly Road in Springfield Township over the holiday weekend Sept: 2,3,4 and 5.

Extra helpers in crime prevention

School children on their way to and from school can turn to Detroit Edison field workers for extra protection

Utility workers in vehicles marked with the "Eyes and Ears" crime prevention logo are trained to report

If emergency personnel aren't in the immediate area, the Edison employees will use their radios to report suspicious persons, fires, crimes, accidents an other emergencies to the appropriate agencies.

Field employees are advised not to apprehend anyone involved in an apparent crime. Instead, employees report the information to their dispatchers.

New church addition

A new addition to Clarkston United Methodist Church at 6600 Waldon Rd. will be consecrated on Sunday, Sept. 4 at the 10 a.m. morning worship.

Former pastor, the Rev. James R. Balfour, will be present for the consecration, along with former pastor, the Rev. William A. Richards.

The planning for the new addition began five years ago under the ministry of Balfour, and the first part of the building was constructed under the ministry of Richards.

The Rev. Douglas R. Trebilcock is the present pastor at the church.

The new 700-square-foot building includes choir rooms, two kitchens, parlor, library, offices, elevator, youth rooms and curriculum center. There is also a new 40-space parking lot.

General contractor for the building was John Stewart Associates of Milford, and Judge Robert Carr was building chairman.

The building is now in full use, ready for the fall program season at the church.

The public is invited to the consecration activities. which include the service of consecration 10 a.m. Sunday, Sept. 4, followed by an open house at 11 a.m. and a potluck dinner at 11:30 a.m. Call 625-1611 for reserva-

Consecration activities continue on Labor Day. Sept. 5, with an ice cream social at the church from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m. Cones, sundaes, coffee and iced tea will be served in fellowship hall and from the conference room window during and after the parade.

Labor Day

Unions played early role in establishing national holiday

Some historians trace the idea of a day set aside to honor labor all the way back to the Bible, where the 4th Commandment talks about a day of rest after 6 days of

"On it you shall not do any work, neither you, nor your son or daughter, nor your manservant or maidservant, nor your animals, nor the alien withing your gates." (Exodus).

History has recorded that there were times when that commandment was forgotten. The industrial revolution, coupled with heavy immigration to the US in the early part of the century, resulted in factories that ran constantly, used child labor and paid sweat-shop wages.

The modern observance of Labor Day was inspired by those poor working conditions. It is generally believed to have been first suggested by Peter McGuire of New York, president of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America.

In 1882 at a meeting of the New York Central Labor Union, McGuire suggested the idea of an observance to recognize labor's contribution to the nation, just as there were already days set aside for religious, military and other civil observances. It was to be purely a private affair, and people were asked not to skip work to attend the festivities. Apparently, some didn't listen; records show 10,000 workers paraded in New York on September 5, 1882.

McGuire is said to have chosen that particular day because it fell on the Monday midway between July 4th and Thanksgiving, and could generally be expected to have good weather. The event was such a hit it quickly became an McGuire was an appropriate person to come up with the idea. He was the 10th child of an Irish-American family and began his working career at the tender age of 11 when his father went off to fight in the Civil War — the lad went to work at a furniture factory. He became an eloquent speaker and early proponent of the 8-hour work day.

By 1894, Labor Day was being celebrated in 30 states, and President Grover Cleveland made it a holiday for federal employees and the District of Columbia. Now, it is a national holiday observed on the first Monday in September in all 50 states, as well as all US territories and possessions.

Labor Day is also celebrated at different times in Australia, New Zealand, much of Europe, and the Soviet Union, where it is called May Day and observed on May 1.

learning the skill of income tax preparation from H&R Block and are earning money as income tax preparers.

H&R Block, the world's largest income tax preparation service, is offering a basic income tax course starting August 29, 1988, with morning, afternoon, evening and Saturday classes available. Classes will be offered at many convenient area locations.

During the 13 week course, students will study all phases of income tax preparation and receive actual experience in preparing individual returns. Experienced Block instructors will teach current laws, theory and applicadiscussion on each tax subject and practice problems at every level. Courses are programmed to teach students increasingly complex tax problems as study progresses. Students will find the course both interesting and challenging.

Courses are ideally suited for people who want to increase their tax knowledge and learn how to save money on taxes or who are looking for a rewarding career. No prerequisites are required to enroll.

Qualified course graduates may be offered job interviews for positions with Block. Many accept employment with Block because of the flexible hours available. However, Block is under no oblition, as practiced in Block offices gation to offer employment, nor

Thousands of people are nationwide. There is a classroom are graduates under any obligation to accept employment with Hark Block.

> One low course fee includes all textbooks, supplies and tax forms necessary for the completion of the course. MELOCHE FROM THE WATTERWORTHS

Pet of the Week

FEATHER YOUR NEST with this pet.

Needs a place to roost

Abbacab, a 1-year-old green and yellow parakeet, would be a good companion. He takes up very little space, and doesn't require a lot of time to care for.

He's a great listener, and could be taught to talk or whistle. He's not particularly fond of dogs or cats, for Abbacab can be adopted at the Michigan Humane Society, 3600 Auburn Rd., Auburn Heights, 852-7420. Hours at the non-profit shelter are 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday. The shelter will be closed on

The adoption fee for Abbacab is $5. For an extra donation, a cage is available, too.

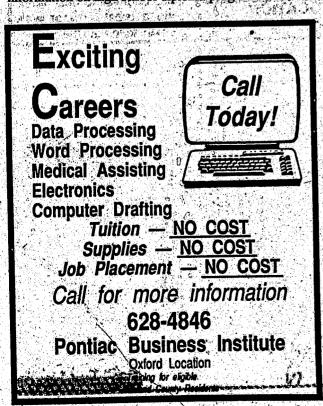

Ads push for diplomas

High school dropouts are the focus of a nationwide advertising campaign launched last week to draw attention to the problems of people who have not finished high

Government statistics show that more than half a million students drop out of high school annually in America. A series of 30-second television commercials. and radio spots will aim at bringing them back.

The public service announcements were released by the Council for State Government in Lexington and the Advertising Council in New York.

Residents in the Clarkston area who have not finished high school are urged to stop at the Clarkston Learning Center, 5275 Maybee Rd., or call 674-0993 for: information on high school diploma programs.

New phone procedures for some customers

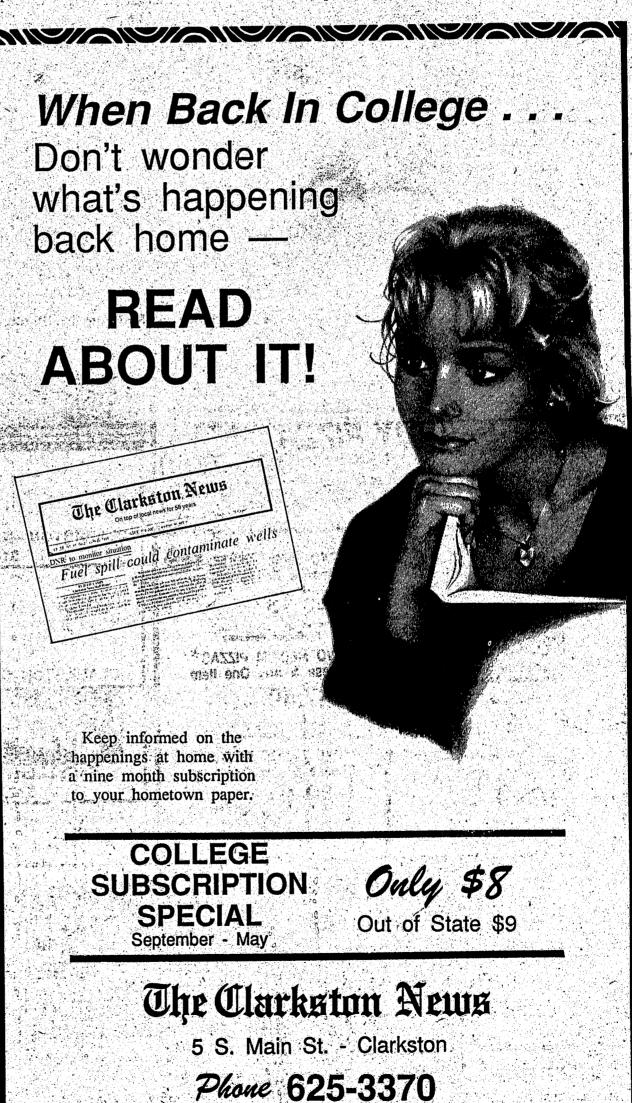

Michigan Bell customers in the 394 exchange area of Clarkston now must use new dialing procedures to make local or long distance calls requiring an operator.

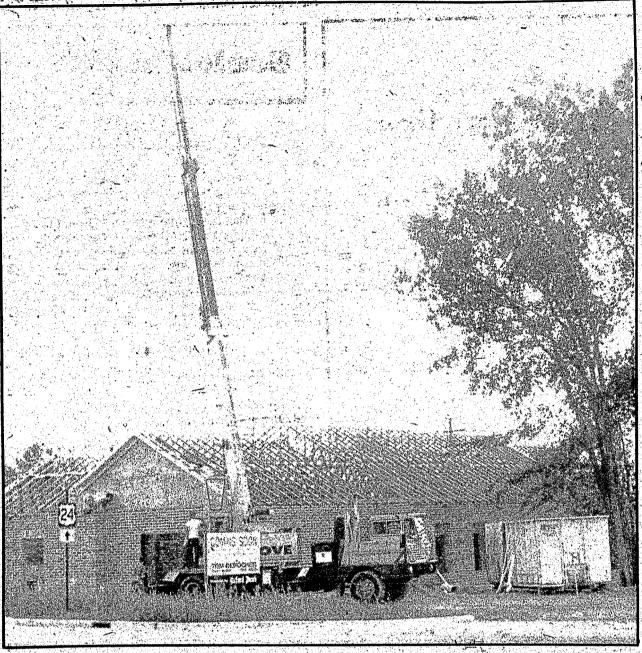

Customers won't notice any difference when placing direct-dialed calls, but callers dialing "O" will reach a Michigan Bell operator who will only be able to provide assistance on calls within the customer's local calling

Customers who need operator assistance from a long distance company must dial "OO" or contact the long-distance company for instructions on how to place operator-assisted calls.

The telephone company resumed providing its own local and long distance operator service in August of 1986 and is continuing to phase in the change across the state, according to Vince Fordell, local public relations manager. These operator services were provided under contract by AT&T for Michigan Bell since the breakup of the Bell System in 1984.

Michigan Bell operators handle calls such as collect, bill-to-number, person-to-person and requests for assistance within the state's calling areas, which correspond roughly to area codes, said Fordell.

WORKERS FIGHT HIGH WINDS to place the trusses on the Clarkston Car Wash Aug. 25 In Independence Township. The Dixle Highway business, across from the A & P on

Special Olympics speakers available

Michigan Special Olympics has a pool of volunteers ready to make presentations to civic groups, professional organizations, churches, clubs and other groups.

The Speakers Bureau has been going strong for two years, according to Barb Mosher, MSO communications coordinator. The Special Olympics message has been shared with thousands of people around the state.

The MSO Speakers Bureau is made up of coaches, volunteers, parents of Special Olympians, MSO board members, area directors and other supporters.

To request a speaker, contact Mosher at Michigan Special Olympics, 127 Rowe Hall, Central Michigan University, Mount Pleasant, Mich. 48859, (517) 774-3911.

Special Olympics is a year-round community sports program for mentally impaired athletes of all ages and abilities, with chapters operating in all 50 states and in 75 foreign nations.

Not happy

David Kwasnick

Thees is about a little song I heard Eet's sung by some Jamaican bird I'm in a hurry and not too happy.

He say in life we must conquer trouble
Well, hey mon, I hate to burst your bubble,
But I'm in a hurry and not too happy.
In a hurry and not too happy now.
O-o-o-o-o-o-o-o-o-o-o
Ackoo- koo Ackoo- koo
(Various other acoustical body sounds)

On every station thees song's all you're fed,
If he comes to Detroit, thees mon is dead.
I'm in a hurry, and not too happy.

My car is smokin', for work I'm late
Thees day is not exactly going great.
I'm in a hurry and not too happy, now.
In a hurry and not too happy, now.
O-o-o-o o-o-o-o-o-o-o-o
Ackoo- koo Ackoo- koo

The nearest gas station is eleven mile
I'd soon as scream as crack a smile.
I'm in a hurry, and not too happy.

And on my radio is thees singing' clown

Tellin' me not to be depressed and down.
He say, "don't worry, be happy."

Don't worry, be happy?

Well, Meester Clown, I'm sure this will pass
But right now I'd like to kick your ... self Cause I'm in a hurry and not too happy.
In a hurry and not too happy, now.

Women's Fashions

Ancestors inspire teen's creativity

BY PAT YOUNG. Clarkston News Staff Writer

From photographs, a painting hanging on his dining room wall, and the memories of family members, 16year-old Travis Williams created a real conversation piece for the annual family reunion.

The Clarkston High School junior constructed a scale model of the family's original homestead, right down to the interior walls and doorways and the green and white paint on the wooden exterior.

"I had to do something to top my mom," he says with a grin when asked why he would spend almost 30 hours building the model this summer. She put together a 66-page book of family history for the occasion, with genealogy she compiled over the last 15 years.

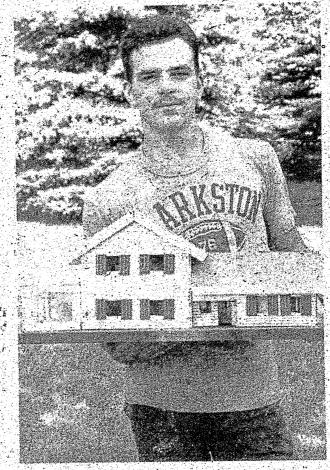

Travis lives with his parents, Darrel and Faye Williams, on Orr Road in White Lake Township, bordering Independence and Springfield townships. There are five other children in the Williams family: Kevin, 25; Keri, 21; Wade, 12; Courtney, 9; and Alexis, 7. A multitude of relatives are also in the neighborhood.

'You can't get lost trying to find us," Travis says with another grin. "There are four generations of us on the road--just ask any one of them."

It all began in 1922 when Travis' great-grandparation ents, Albert and Nellie Orr, bought 210 acres in the area, including the 40 acre parcel where many members of the family still live. They built the original homestead on the other 170 acres. That property is now part of the Pontiac Lake Recreation Area, and the house was torn down, replaced by the Orchard Hills Campground.

As years passed, many other family homes were built in the area, including the row of homes along Orr Road, named after the family. But it is the original homestead where Faye grew up and her mother, Virginia Orr Jenks, was born. And it is that home full of memories which Travis reproduced for the family reunion.

"I also thought it would make a nice Christmas present for my grandmother (Virginia)," Travis said. She is the main sparkplug for the annual reunion, and spends almost the entire year planning for it, Faye says. Her mother, now widowed, lives next door on Orr Road. Travis "hung out" a lot at his grandparents' home

TRAVIS WILLIAMS, a Clarkston High School junior, holds the scale model of his family's original homestead he constructed for a family reunion this summer.

"I think the person who had the most influence on me was grandpa (Ermon Jenks)," Travis says thoughtfully. "I just wish he had been around longer so I could have gotten to know him."

Ermondied in 1978 when Travis was only seven, but had a great deal of influence on Travis' future plans, Handy with tools, Ermon passed his love for building things on to his grandson.

Travis has taken over a corner of the basement in his family's home for a workshop.

"I practically live down here," he says.

When he began his homestead model, his great uncle, Lee Orr, drew pictures of the floorplan from memory. Travis took it from there.

Built of 3/4-inch white pine with sandpaper shingles on the roof, he spent only $5.83 on the project, mostly using materials he had in his shop. He started four days before the reunion and worked every night, finishing it the day of the reunion, which took place the first part of August.

He was still blowing on the paint to make it dry," his mom laughs.

"Family has always been a high priority with us. We've all grown up as a family," Faye says.

We didn't realize there were people who weren't relatives until we started school," her sister, Brianne

For now, the homestead model sits in the dining room of the Williams' home, mirroring the homestead portrait hanging above it as well as Travis' future goals. When he finishes school, he aspires to be a builder.

"But I'll build full-scale houses," Travis says, the easy grin returning again. "There wouldn't be much money in scale models.".

Local artist wins honor at Michigan State Fair

BY JULIE CAMPE Clarkston News Staff Writer

Louise Van Loon was pleasantly surprised when her porcelain was accepted for the Michigan State Fair this summer, but she didn't expect to take second place in the amateur division with a porcelain piece painted with a

"It was really surprising, but gratifying, too, to see all the work you do culminate in something like that,"

The Hummingbird, Independence Township, resident had never been to a state fair, and she had never shown her work or taught classes, although she's been painting since 1983, she said.

"I really enjoy it. I can't remember a time I wasn't drawing even as a small child. But I never pursued it."

While most other porcelain entries were of flowers, Louise entered a portrait, one of her favorite subjects, and fruit, to be different.

'I love doing portraits because when I was small, I used to make my own paper dolls," she said. "I just loved to draw. It really didn't matter what it was."

While she and her husband, Alan, were raising their family, she drew portraits of her five children: Cliff, Anne, Kathe, Mary and Amy.

Now she enjoys making porcelain gifts for them and their families. She makes miniature dishes for her grandchildren and lamps, jewelry, plates, trays, bowls and boxes for other loved ones.

Fired in her own basement kiln, over 800 pieces were created by Louise in her spare time. Most have been given away as gifts.

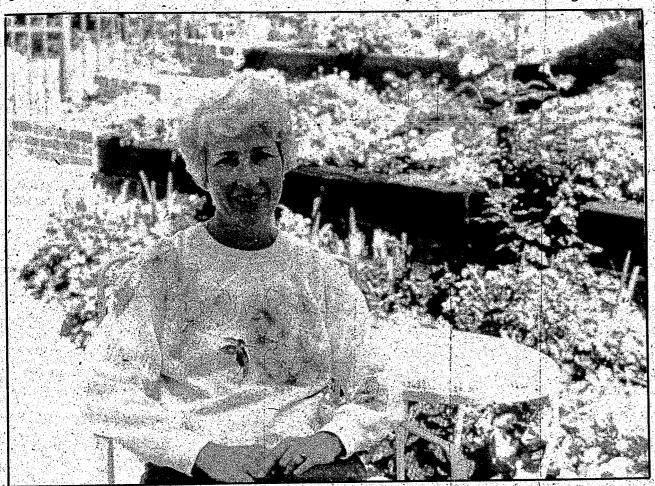

"When Christmas comes, I like to give something I've made myself. It has more meaning if you put a little bit of yourself in there."

Her hobby seems to be a good companion to her occupation, a registered nurse at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital. In both fields, the people are kind and considerate, said Louise.

"Everybody I've met in china painting are so giving of themselves, their talent, their time. They're just loving people. It's nice to be around them," she said.

Louise tries to fit porcelain painting classes into her busy schedule and has taken classes at Oakland University, Rochester, and from local teachers, including Dorothy Thiese, who Louise credits for encouraging her to enter the state fair.

She also declines taking all the credit her success. "I know I have a talent, but it's from God because I haven't studied this all my life. ... I am thankful for that ability."

HER BACKYARD TERRACE full of flowers Inspires some of Louise VanLoon's porcelain work, which numbers over 800 pieces so far. Louise resides on Hummingbird.

What's Cooking

Picnic pasta

Pat Young

Planning a picnic over the Labor Day holiday? Here's a simple but delicious pasta salad to compliment those fresh garden fruits and vegetables or those grilled hot dogs and hamburgers.

Expecting a crowd? Just double the recipe! The leftovers will keep in the refrigerator for days.

RIGATONI SALAD

- 1/2 package rigatoni, cooked and drained
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 cup vinegar 1 cup oil
- 1 package dry Italian salad dressing mix
- 1/4 to 1/3 cup green pepper, chopped
- 1/4 cup pimento
- 1/2 cup onion, chopped
- Fried bacon, crumbled, or bacon bits

Mixsugar, vinegar, oil and dressing mixtogether. In a large bow, combine with pasta, pepper, onion and pimento. Garnish with bacon bits.

Marinate several hours before serving.

IN STOCK OVER 150 NEW 1988 BUICKS YOU PICK THE PRICE!!

The severe weather this summer greatly affected our sales. We are now behind our sales quotas and our 4 acre facility is overloaded with cars-and more on the way. WE MUST MOVE THESE CARS OUT!

For ten days, Monday 8/22-Friday 9/2, Dreisbach Buick, Pontiac's largest Buick dealer will offer to the public its entire 1988 new car inventory - and you set the price! Not a few select orders; not non-existing ordered cars; but all Dreisbach Buick's inventory in stock, new 1988 models (except Grand Nationals). No price leaders!

Upon request and presentation of this ad, we will show you our invoice and the amount of dealer participation in the rebate programs, and you pick the profit that you feel is fair. Invoice is the amount Dreisbach Buick paid General Motors Corp. at the time the vehicle was purchased from GM. Included in the invoice amount are factory holdbacks and destination charges, some or all of which may be refunded to Dreisbach Buick by General Motors.

The fact that we are a volume dealer and we are overstocked with inventory forces us to take this unusual approach to moving out inventory - and you are the beneficiary! With significant "cash back" programs being offered by General Motors on most of our model lineup, this is your opportunity to select the car you want at a price you didn't think possible. THIS IS FOR RETAIL CUSTOMERS ONLY. WE WILL NOT KNOWINGLY SELL TO DEALERS! There is absolutely no reason to wait for lower prices! Trade-ins welcome. Must take delivery by September 2, 1988 and must present this ad at time of purchase.

We also have a few new 1987 leftovers, demonstrators, and factory cars at under GM factory invoice on a first come, first served basis!

We will also have our leasing manager on hand to help custom-make a lease to fit your budget.

RETAIL PURCHASES ONLY! NO DEALERS PLEASE, MUST PRESENT AD AT TIME OF PURCHASE

for all your customers . . . so that means you should have lots of one dollar bills and an assortment of coins. Then you'll want to advertise your sale to attract that crowd. You can do it with a sign or signs in your neighborhood . . . but you'll want a bigger crowd than that . . . so you'll run an ad in Classified which tells the time and place of your sale to a host of potential buyers. One more thing . . . get up early the day of your sale! When people read about a Garage Sale in Classified, they shop early. Have fun with your little business adventure
