

First, the steel beams

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Less than two months after an Aug. 3 fire completely destroyed Springfield Township's Tra-Tech Midwest factory, the new building was already taking shape.

Last week, steel beams defined the rising 400,000-square-foot plant, and concrete walls are to be erected this week.

"Things are as good as can be expected," said Tra-Tech President Grant W. Grebeck, who conducts business with other administrative personnel from three trailers on the Dixie Highway site.

"Although it's convenient, the close proximity can make it testy at times," said Grebeck of the crowded

Enrollment dips

Official fourth Friday Clarkston school enrollment figures show a dip in enrollment of 93 students.

The fourth Friday figures, compared to figures from the 1987-88 school year, are as follows:

Andersonville Elementary: 367 (407 last year)

Bailey Lake Elementary: 614 (641)

Clarkston Elementary: 552 (555)

North Sashabaw Elementary: 432 (435)

Pine Knob Elementary: 588 (576)

Clarkston Junior High: 732 (664)

Sashabaw Junior High: 996 (927)

Clarkston High School: 1,430 (1,599)

Figures for the junior high schools are up and figures at some of the elementary schools are down because all sixth grades have now been moved from the elementary schools to the junior high schools in a step toward the middle school concept.

The enrollment drop means less money for the district. Each student represents $3,191.25 in state aid.

According to Kathleen O'Donnell at the Clarkston Community Learning Center, enrollment is down there, too, by about 20 percent.

That's a significant drop, she said, and points to some layoffs for the first time in the seven-year history of the Learning Center in the near future.

Library operating millage off ballot

After debating over which local issues should face voters Nov. 8, Independence Township Board members found that the ballot isn't big enough to hold everything.

So township voters will not see a library operational request of one-half mill in the presidential election. One-half mill is 50 cents for every $1,000 assessed property valuation.

"On our voting machines, we only have one line to place all the propositions, be they state, county or local," said Clerk Richard Holman, who runs elections in Independence Township.

With four proposals from the state, one from the county and four from Independence Township, the township either had to drop one proposal or run a separate paper ballot for the ninth issue.

"Given how late my election people would have to work, I just couldn't (add a paper ballot)," said Holman. "Plus, it would be a hassle for the voters."

The decision to cut the operational millage request was tough, said Holman, adding that the options included the police millage renewal, a park improvement millage and a bond for a library addition.

Holman polled the board members to figure out which issue should be left out, he said.

"Of all of them, that was the one that was least important," he said.

The township will not schedule a special election just for the library operational request, said Holman, but the board could vote to include the issue on a tentative March 7 ballot, when the state may ask voters to reduce property taxes and increase sales tax.

Otherwise, the request would have to wait until August 1990, he said.

Comfy chair, roaring fire and a good . . .

Bookworms will find plenty to curl up with at the annual Friends of the Independence Township Library's Used Book Sale on Thursday, Friday and Saturday this week.

"We've been just collecting all kinds" of books, said James Hibler, library director. "We've got a lot of items at real good prices. A lot of good fiction, a lot of good non-fiction, some good hard covers, paperbacks and children's books."

Most of the books will sell for 25 cents apiece.

The sale hours at the Clarkston Masonic Temple, at the corner of Main and Washington streets in the village, are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Thursday, Oct. 6; 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Friday, Oct. 7; and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 8.

Adult education coordinator sets high goals

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Sharon O'Leary-Johnson's philosophy is that students learn best when they are responsible for their education.

The new adult education coordinator at the Clarkston Learning Center oversees the about 60 students enrolled in the alternative high school. The Clarkston Community Schools program is geared for students between 16 and 18 years old who for some reason dropped out of school.

Since the students are returning willingly to school on Maybee Road, they are eager to learn, she said.

"Students take an active part in school activities," she said. "They make arrangements for field trips and may revise the student handbook."

The students will conduct a Spirit Week this year as well as produce a school newspaper and a yearbook. They also will work on improving the school's public image.

On Oct. 10, a group of students will attend a Board of Education meeting to get a better grasp on what's happening to Clarkston schools and to show that they are interested.

As far as O'Leary-Johnson is concerned, this is only the beginning.

"We are here for a common goal," she said. "We will be working on building a community spirit. They (the students) are all fired up."

O'Leary-Johnson, a 1979 graduate of Michigan State University, began her stay in the Clarkston area in August. Before that, she worked in the Midland Intermediate School District's alternative high school program for a year, its first year of existence.

The mother of two made the jump to Clarkston as soon as the opportunity arose -- and hasn't regretted it for a moment.

"It's a great program," she said. "The students and staff really like it. It's an exciting place to be."

In the coming years, the Redford Township native plans to fine tune the adult education program to ensure that graduates are prepared to enter the working world.

Most of all, she'd like to develop an enterprise high school concept in which students make a product and market it to the public. Such a project worked well in Midland, she said.

SHARON O'LEARY-JOHNSON, the new adult education coordinator, is eager to help students help themselves through the various services available at the Clarkston Learning Center.

"Students learn to master skills," she said. "They get a lot more enthusiastic if they plan it. We'll move in that direction next year."

For now she's content in knowing the learning center provides an essential community service. She's also glad her philosophy matches that of the faculty and staff perfectly.

"We try to meet the needs of every individual student," she said. "We will help them to do anything but will do nothing for them."

JOHN SHELL and his brother Richard Shell (not pictured) of Creative Stone, Springfield Township, will spend about two weeks creating two stone pillars for the entrance to Lakeview Cemetery, White Lake Road, Independence Township. After the $5,800 job is completed, a gate will be installed, followed by fencing for the entire cemetery.

M-15 rezoning plan incites reactions

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Compliments, objections, applause and threats of lawsuits were the reactions from about 85 people who attended a Sept. 29 workshop on proposed zoning changes along M-15 north of I-75.

The Independence Township Planning Commission held the workshop to gain opinions from surrounding residents before holding a public hearing on zoning changes to M-15 between Cranberry Lake Road and I-

75. The public hearing has not been scheduled yet.

If the commission recommends changes, another public hearing would be held by the township board, which has the final say.

Before opening the issue to public discussion, planning consultant Richard Carlisle presented the proposals.

The commission and township board adopted changes to the master plan last year, said Carlisle, defining master plan as the township's official policy guide for growth and development.

The goal is to reduce land use intensity along M-15 while allowing businesses to serve local people and provide a desirable tax base, he said.

To implement the changes, several parcels along M-15 would have to be rezoned.

During the two-hour discussion, most of the about 35 people who spoke supported the changes, but most owners of property to be rezoned objected to the commission's suggestions.

Maria Baylis, who owns property east of M-15 near Amy Drive, objected to the change to office. She plans to develop the property as highway commercial and is considering a motel, she said.

John Lowell, a Greene Haven Drive resident, supported the rezoning to office.

"And I think we should do it in a hurry," he said. "I don't want a hotel shining down on my parcel."

Physician Loren Baylis, whose office is east of M-15, also objected to changing the commercial zonings east of M-15 to office. If residents could buy bread or milk so close, it would be helpful, he said.

"Local commercial has to be someplace," said Baylis. "By moving local commercial elsewhere, it would actually increase traffic."

Carlisle responded by saying the commercial planned for the M-15, Cranberry Lake Road intersection could serve the nearby residents, and offices would be less offensive to the residents who live in the Amy Drive subdivision.

Gary Stonerock, former township supervisor and the owner of an M-15 surveying business, also objected to the proposed changes east of M-15. He added that a research tech park, that would be allowed in the proposed zoning across the street from him, would create a lot more traffic than any development on his site.

"Think of that when you're trying to take my little piece," he said. "I'm not threatening. It's just a matter of one has to do what one has to do."

A 30-year township resident and business owner for 25 years, Stonerock added that the zoning change would be unfair after all these years.

"I feel like the village people," he said. "Are you going to help the local businesses or are you going to hurt them?"

He also suggested contacting state Rep. Mat Dunaskiss about the M-15 traffic problems and added that if the 85 people in the audience could promise the votes, the state legislator might provide the action.

Applause greeted Stonerock when he suggested widening M-15 and lowering the speed limit.

(See REZONING Page 27)

Here are proposed changes

In an attempt to prevent intense land development along M-15 north of I-75, zoning changes may be recommended by government planners.

At a public workshop Sept. 29, planning consultant Richard Carlisle proposed zoning changes that would make the land conform to Independence Township's master plan of the area.

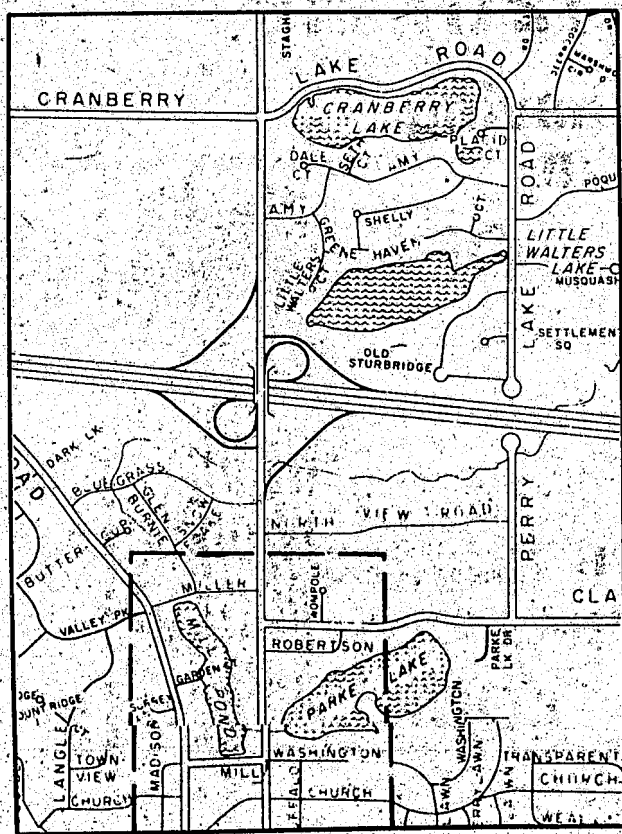

The planning commission is to hold a public hearing before recommending a course of action to the township board, which has the final say.

To implement the plans, the following zoning changes would be necessary:

- Local commercial -- which would allow such businesses as baked goods, beverages including liquor, books, flowers, drugs, gifts, hardware and personal services, such as hair care, doctors and dentists -- on three corners at Cranberry Lake Road and M-15; a change from the current highway commercial zoning, which would allow all of the above plus banks, insurance, real estate, strip mall, motels, building materials, and with special permission outdoor car, boat or garden sales.

- Research office (clean, high-tech office, with light warehousing) west of M-15, with single family residential behind the research office area west to Allen Road (a change from current zoning of highway commercial and single family residential).

- Office for the east side of M-15 (a change from the currently zoned highway commercial and motor vehicle service station).

THE PROPOSED rezonings involve M-15 from I-75 to Cranberry Lake Road.

Road conditions irk most Thendara residents

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Following summer-long invasions of dust clouds and a bombardment of autumn's raging rains, the roads in Thendara Park are filled with three- and four-foot trenches, more befitting a battlefield than a residential neighborhood.

Residents are upset, but after having lived in the area for years, they've become accustomed to the pitfalls of private roads.

Most agree that the roads -- plagued by severe drainage problems -- are the only drawback to the "land of enchantment" located on hilly terrain and enveloped with vibrant fall colors off Eston Road in the northeast corner of Independence Township.

No immediate help is in sight for such roads as Tiohero, which looks as if an earthquake split the sides of the earth revealing live electrical wires, gas lines and clogged drainage pipes.

One section is completely impassable, and some residents must park above or below the crevices because they can't reach their homes by car.

Colleen Waananen, who lives on Tiohero, worries about the safety of the neighboring children.

"My main concern is that some children will get down there and get electrocuted," she says.

Waananen also notes that drivers unfamiliar with the area could fall into serious trouble.

"Last night, for instance, a car came flying over the hill and had to slam on his brakes because it was dark, and he couldn't see (the crevice)," she says. "I'm just afraid someone will get hurt."

Another worry is that emergency vehicles won't be able to reach some of the homes, although township Fire Chief Gar Wilson says his department will do the best they can.

"That's a real problem up in there, believe me," Wilson says. "We've had ditches up there four feet deep. ... I can't take the truck across if it's not going to do me any good. We just try to pick our way through."

Ray and Dee Barker have lived on Nepahwin for eight years. Dee says their move may have been a mistake.

"We looked in the summer," she says. "The roads weren't like this. You just can't fathom what these roads are like until you live here."

Sharon Saunders, who serves as treasurer of the neighborhood and must collect money from each residence to pay for services such as snow plowing, dust control and road maintenance, says the roads aren't that bad.

"It gives the area a bad name," she says, adding that the fate of private roads are in the hands of the owners. "The only people who can fix it are the ones who live there."

She attributes the road problems to flaws in the original subdivision plat from the 1920s. To keep the roads in usable condition, each resident must pay money plus help out with a shovel when needed, says Saunders.

Until the road paving begins -- probably in spring of next year -- residents will have to live with the washed out road, because there's not enough money to pay for the road repair if residents also want snow removal.

Snow removal takes precedence because neither the United States Mail nor the Clarkston school bus will run in Thendara if the roads are not clear, says Saunders.

A CREVICE on Tiohero splits the road and later crosses it, making the street impassable by automobile. Road paving in Thendara Park is scheduled for spring.

Help may arrive in springtime

By next spring, crews of road construction workers may be on the offensive in Thendara Park subdivision, battling the dirt roads that are gradually slipping away into nearby valleys.

Residents have been working toward the paving for about 15 years, said Clerk Richard Holman of Independence Township.

Drainage easements -- permission to use property to run drains across -- are the last delay, he said.

After the easements have been obtained, the Township will file a lawsuit in Oakland County Circuit Court seeking permission to convert about 10 miles of private roads to public road status.

If the roads become public, the Oakland County Road Commission will be responsible for road maintenance -- snow removal, repairs and dust control.

Because the roads are private, the residents are responsible for all roadwork. About 264 property owners will be affected by the road paving. With an average frontage of 50,404 linear feet, the average homeowner's cost will be about $8,835.

Saturday, a $150 wicker chair was stolen from the front porch of a Main Street, Clarkston, residence.

Saturday, a $110 bicycle was stolen from a Glenalda, Independence Township, residence.

Sunday, an Overpine, Independence Township, resident scared away a masked prowler from her front yard.

Sunday, $707 in jewelry, a $100 clock, $190 camera, $180 electric typewriter, a $215 TV and a $487 TV were reported stolen from a Clintonville Road, Independence Township, residence.

The above information was compiled from reports at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

News wins 3 awards

The Clarkston News won three awards in the 1988 Better Newspaper Contest sponsored by the Michigan Press Association.

Second-place awards were given for sports coverage and lifestyle/family section. A third-place award was received in lifestyle/family section.

About the sports coverage, the judge wrote, "Excellent sports section. Well-rounded with plenty of action photos. 'Time Out' column (by Peter Auchter) is a real plus!"

The lifestyle section that won the second-place award led off with a feature by News staff writer Julie Campe. "Excellent writing ... 'Only Child' story gave this judge the chills. Writer has ability to show real personalities," the judge wrote.

The third-place lifestyle award led with a feature by News editor Kathy Greenfield. "Teens, teacher and poetry -- nice mix of topics -- good local photos and writing" wrote the judge.

Judges from the Georgia Press Association awarded nearly 350 certificates to daily and weekly newspapers throughout the state.

In the weekly circulation category for the News, 15 newspapers received awards. In all, 81 weekly newspapers and 46 daily newspapers entered the contest.

Announcement of the awards is made in conjunction with National Newspaper Week, Oct. 2-8. The theme of the 1988 observance is "Newspapers: Freedom in Our Hands."

Opinions

Bow-wow basics

Kathy Greenfield

Proof that yes, indeed, Clarkston is a small town was gleaned from a magazine by some friends. There was 20-item list, but two brought smiles to their faces. They went something like this:

"You know the name of every dog and where each one lives" and "The editor of the newspaper carries a camera."

I'll buy the camera criterion, but I'm not so sure about the dog one.

We've almost always had a dog or two and, over the years, we've lived in practically every kind of home from city to country.

The list includes the high rise in New York, the duplex in Virginia, the townhouse in Indiana and the apartment building in Kentucky. Moving (and we did) right along, also of note are the subdivision in Ann Arbor, the converted stable on a country road in Grayling, a couple of houses on lakes and a village home.

In every case, there were people who knew our dogs but didn't know us. Among the "good grief" expressions uttered was, "Oh, you're Flea's mother. He's a great dog."

Flea was our friendly Yorkshire terrier. In a fit of youthful humor, we named him after a counselor in one of those camps where all the leaders had nicknames.

I'm not sure what all this means, except that everywhere I've traveled, I've met people who are into remembering the names of dogs. They're adding to the collection when they say, "Oh! What's his name?" Or they listen when dog owners shout, "Here, Fido, Fluffy or Farfel."

They know which dogs are friendly and invite a pat on the head, and which dogs are of the junkyard variety.

The same people almost never say, "Oh! What's your name?" Dog name collecting is more fun than standard people fare: John, Mary, Susan, Jeff.

Having grown up in a relatively small town, I observed long ago that no matter where people live, they tend to develop connections of a small-town sort. They have a circle of friends that know everything about each other. They shop in stores frequently enough to know clerks by name or face even if they don't know the owners.

And so, if they don't know every dog in the entire city, chances are they will know every dog in an area large enough to be equivalent to a small town.

There could be a major difference for city dwellers, but only if they manage to isolate themselves totally in a huge apartment complex that does not allow dogs.

Actually, my friends provided a much better description of dogs in relation to small town life. Almost without exception, the dogs in Clarkston yards wag their tails when my friends walk by and shout, "Hello!" In other words, even the watch-dogs are friendly.

'If it Fitz . . .'

Logical explanation

Jim Fitzgerald

Now that she's in the first grade, Emily has school spirit. She has appointed herself a school cheerleader and created her own cheer, which she chanted for me, along with much leaping and clapping:

*If you don't play football,
You're a cheerleader;
If you're not a cheerleader,
You're in the crowd.*

I'll buy that, except for the boys and girls in the school band. Both my daughters were in the band, which afforded me my first close-up look at a uniformed member of a high school marching band. And I was prompted to write in the local newspaper that "there is no view to which distance lends more enchantment than that of a high school marching band."

I meant that band uniforms are handed down through the ages. Around 20 years earlier, my wife played trumpet in the same band her daughters eventually joined. Close inspection of yellowed, ragged identity labels revealed that one daughter was issued the same uniform her mother wore.

After I publicized the plight of young musicians forced to perform in old-fashioned, worn-out, ill-fitting uniforms, a wealthy alumnus presented the school with new uniforms. But by then I no longer had a daughter in the band, which is the type of bad luck usually visited upon people who marry trumpet players. It will be recalled that the Harry James-Betty Grable marriage didn't last.

Anyway, when granddaughter Emily returns home from school, she is greeted warmly by her 2½-year-old sister, Tricia. Their mother urges them to play together, but "sometimes Emily isn't in the mood."

"Mom, all my life when I didn't have anything to do, you told me to play with my imaginary friends and that's what I did," Emily explained. "Now you want me to play with Tricia, but she's real. I can't play with real people."

I'll buy that, too. As I recall, there used to be a TV show called "Real People" and it featured a large collection of people I'd never want to play with after school.

It is best to live in the world of imagination, where you can do whatever you want, whenever you want, with whomever you want. I never imagined I'd marry a trumpet player.

The other evening, Emily imagined she was an interviewer. She carried a portable radio and stuck its antenna in my face, saying: "Sir, please tell our listeners how it feels to have your car stolen."

I gave her a long, dramatic description of how violated, outraged, hassled and dismayed it feels to go to where you left your car and find it missing, gone, no longer there, stolen by some miserable creep who doesn't care if you have to walk or wait forever for a bus.

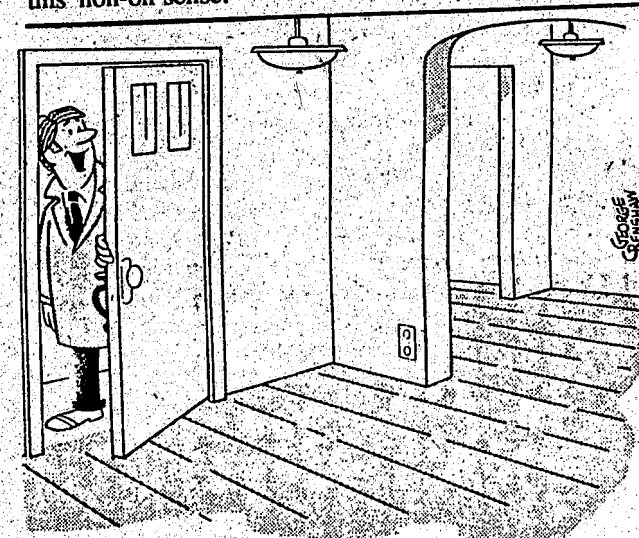

"Sir, please don't cry, it's embarrassing," Emily told me. She told the rest of the world, "We'll be right back on a happier note after these messages."

As for Tricia, she spent two days with us last week, long enough for me to finally figure out her language. She can say lots of ordinary words, but they don't sound ordinary because she adds syllables to them. "Cum-ear-ear-er" translates into "come here." When she doesn't want anymore to eat, she says "I'm-em-full-ull-ull."

Besides talking funny, Tricia walks well. But she was crawling a lot, so I asked, "You can walk; why are you crawling?"

"Be-cau-us it ma-ha-kes me ha-pey-ey," she explained.

What a coincidence. That's the same reason I write this non-on-sense.

"YOO-HOO, DEAR, STILL MAD AT ME?"

Jim Sherman

Jim's Jottings

For the first time in 35 years I'm going to repeat part of an earlier Jottings. It's not that it's such a great column, nor that I'm lazy. Tired maybe. You might be too if you'd written over 1700 columns of not too important stuff.

Anyway, here's what I had to say September 4, 1963.

It's been 19 and a half years since my last train ride and my children have never ridden on the Iron Horse, so last Sunday afternoon Jim-Jim, Luan and I boarded the Grand Trunk Western in Pontiac bound for Durand.

It wasn't really that easy. The train is scheduled to leave Pontiac at 1 p.m. With the usual perfect planning we reached the depot at 1 p.m. The train wasn't in, but we could hear it coming.

I've heard railroads would like to get out of the passenger carrying business, and after the reception of the ticket agent in Pontiac I believe they'll make it. It was almost as if he didn't want to work on Sunday, let alone the trouble we caused by wanting to purchase three tickets.

He was good enough to ask the conductor to hold the train while he finished the price.

Anyway, the kids enjoyed the trip. Flipping the seats and foot rests, looking out the rear window, annoying fellow passengers, and flushing the toilets kept them pretty well occupied for the 45 minute venture.

Jim-Jim couldn't figure out what the sign "Please do not flush toilet while train is in the station" meant and Luan can't read so it didn't bother her.

Dad is retired from the Grand Trunk after over 30 years as car checker and clerk. He worked all that time in the Durand yard. I remember it as a busy place. Prior to and just after World War II, it was second to Detroit as the busiest in Michigan.

Now it is dying. Flint has taken over the assembling of trains involved in auto hauling which used to be a big part of the Durand business. The round house at Durand has been torn down, the mass of switch rails are deserted and the depot looks like it is seldom used.

The rail era for Durand is past.

Letters to the Editor

Look at positives

I have read for weeks the attitudes and generalizations voiced by ex-retail business owners and present business owners. They seem eager to be THE spokespeople for all business owners.

Perhaps those ex-retailers and present retailers who have voiced their opinions need to take a closer look at their attitudes, merchandise and personalities toward customers.

We have been in the retail business for the past 17 years in the village. We enjoy the people, who we consider not only our customers, but our friends.

Our business began solely as an antique business and has changed through the years to meet the needs of the community to include many household items, gifts, lamps, lamp shades, food and antiques.

The village is conducive to shopping, parking has never been a problem for us, and we look forward to serving the community needs.

Take note, the Clarkston Cafe and Tierra Arts have recently enlarged and must be encouraged. Coach's Corner's Dave McNeven isn't complaining and has a thriving business.

The recent article didn't mention that Charles Jackson's interior decorating business is viable and, as well as our shop, brings many outsiders to the village each day.

We well remember when, with a much smaller population, both Earl Terry's Market and Rudy Schwarze had successful grocery stores.

If a retailer meets the area needs, he or she will succeed. We would all appreciate your trying our shops to see what we have to offer before traveling outside the area or judging us without crossing the threshold.

We are all guilty of snap judgments. I well remember enjoying food seasoned, while on a trip, with Pickapepper sauce and thinking it would only be available on the islands. Wrong. Rudy's Market carries it!

Enjoy shopping in the village. We aren't all negative! You will be welcomed, receive personal attention and, I know, be surprised at with all you will find. Our appreciation to our customers-friends,

James, Gini and Sarah Schultz

Not good enough

I've been trying to come up with impressive quotes and persuasive arguments but have decided that this issue is so basic, the obvious facts speak for themselves.

We are in desperate need of a new library. The library should serve the needs of the entire community, yet our needs surpassed our facility's capabilities a long time ago.

We need rooms where students can study and research, where citizens can locate and absorb information they seek, where young children can learn to love books as a key source to opening their minds to life. We need books -- books for all of the people in our community who want to pursue knowledge.

How many times have citizens looked for information, looked in the card catalogue, looked at empty children's shelves only to find the resources weren't available?

The library is here to serve our community, and its potentials and capabilities are vast. Yet it's time for all voters to visit the library -- look at the shelves, look at the back room before the election.

The situation is apparent. We need a new library so we can all grow in intellectual ability, in awareness and in the appreciation of life that reading offers us all.

A bewitching tale

What do you do when you are a Michigan high school marching band and your program has a need for non-standard, non-existent, full-size witch's broom as an integral part of its choreographed routine? PANIC!

As a band booster vice president, given charge of coming up with props for the band and color guard for the fall marching season and Sept. 24 band invitational, I got very nervous and started holding my stomach in place.

But also, I thought, "There always has to be a first for everything." So I called a Detroit area broom distributor, D.Q.B., pleaded my case and asked for help. They did help -- by referring me to their supplier, Crystal Lake Broom Co. in Autaugaville, Ala.

I made the call, holding my breath, and heard Joe Williams at Crystal Lake Broom Co. tell me that no such item exists. But he also told me that to help a school band program out, he would special prototype a sample broom, as described, for approval and follow up with two dozen more special witch's brooms for the color guard -- compliments of Crystal Lake Broom Company.

A bewitching tale with a happy ending? It sure is! Our heartfelt thanks to D.Q.B. of Detroit and special thanks to Crystal Lake Broom Company and Joe Williams from the entire Clarkston, Michigan, High School Marching Band, Band Boosters and parents for your most generous offer of assistance.

A Clarkston, Michigan, salute to Southern hospitality.

Chamber search

Recently while entertaining relatives from England, I spent one hour trying to find the newly established Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce.

After asking a total of 12 people within town, I finally discovered it to be in the old post office building. Their phone number is 625-8055.

Please make the citizens of Clarkston aware that this service is available, as it is an asset to our community.

Laura Aulgar

Editor's note: The Chamber office has moved to 6300 Sashabaw Rd. in Independence Township, but the telephone number is the same. A photo of the new office location is in this week's Clarkston News.

Boosters galore

The Clarkston Band Boosters would like to express their appreciation to the great number of local individuals and businesses that helped support and facilitate our 12th annual Band Invitational on Sept. 24 at Clarkston High School.

A special thanks to Independence Parks and Recreation Department and Oakland County Parks and Recreation Department for use of their bleachers.

Our thanks also to our co-presenters of awards, Clarkston schools Superintendent Gary Haner and Dr. Robert Burek, CHS principal.

An extra special acknowledgment of gratitude to Assistant Superintendent Mel LeRoy Vaara. His contributions to the success of our program throughout the year are invaluable to us.

Loose liver relief

A tip of the cap to the Grand Trunk Railroad and perhaps the Oakland County Road Commission ... whoever is responsible for finally fixing the railroad crossing on Andersonville Road near Farley Road in Springfield Township!

We've lived out there nine years and that crossing has always been one that would shake your liver loose at anything over 20 miles per hour.

What a change! Wonderful!!

The Roads We Travel

Playing Robin Hood

Brent Bair

I mentioned in a previous column related to the funding of road improvements that Oakland County does not get back all of the road taxes (state fuel taxes and license plate fees) that it generates. Oakland is a "donor" county.

In fact, it is estimated that only about 56 percent (or 56 cents of every dollar raised in Oakland County) comes back for use in the county.

That 56 percent even includes the money spent in this county by the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) and SEMTA, also recipients of the tax revenue.

The remaining 44 percent (or 44 cents of every dollar) is used to subsidize roads in rural counties that cannot generate sufficient funds to meet their own road needs.

That's right, folks, over the years, the Legislature has been playing Robin Hood with our road tax dollars.

That does not mean, however, that the rural counties have been rolling in dough. For example, the Oakland County Road Commission (OCRC) spends more each year on electricity to run its traffic signals ($650,000) than the Keweenaw County Road Commission receives in road taxes from the state to take care of its 200-mile road system.

The OCRC will spend as much or more on salt, sand and chloride ($1.3 million) than the road commissions of Alger, Baraga, Benzie, Keweenaw, Luce, Mackinaw, Montmorency, Ontonagon and Schoolcraft counties will receive in state tax revenues to take care of their roads, and some of them have 700 to 800 miles to take care of.

Some people get upset that we don't get all our money back, and question why something has not been done about it. It is no simple matter to change the statewide distribution formulas to return more money to any particular county.

Note that Oakland County, for example, has 12 of the 110 seats in the State House of Representatives and only four of the 38 Senate seats.

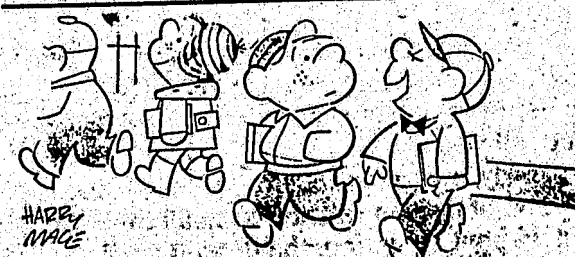

That does not mean changes have not occurred. Over the last 20 years or so, every time transportation legislation has been passed, efforts have been made to reduce the donor status of Oakland County. Consequently, we do get back more today than we did 20 years ago.

The transportation package of 1987 that included increases in several fees is an example of this effort. It included a mechanism for returning more money to Oakland without a direct change in the distribution formulas.

It created the Transportation Economic Development Fund and put some of the fee revenue in it. Since Oakland County is where the majority of the development is occurring in Michigan, Oakland is expected to get back two to three times more money with this method than it would through the normal formulas.

The motor vehicle registration fee that will be on the November ballot will finally be an opportunity to get back ALL revenues generated in our county from at least one tax. But I'll be discussing that in a future column.

Excellence report on school board agenda

Four national merit scholarship semi-finalists from Clarkston High School, Matthew Plec, Marie Powell, Jennifer O'Heren and Doug Treder, will be introduced to the school board and audience at the upcoming regular board meeting Oct. 10.

School board meetings are held on the second Monday of the month at 7:30 p.m. in the administrative offices, 6389 Clarkston Rd. They are open to the public.

Clarkston school employees with perfect attendance will be recognized at the Oct. 10 meeting, and a 1988-89 contract for school cafeteria association employees will be ratified.

Several members of the Clarkston schools staff who attended a workshop will give an update of the state reading objectives for K-12.

Also on the agenda for adoption by the board is a policy on communicable diseases.

Superintendent Gary Haner will give a report on the Committee on Excellence, which completed its task of putting priorities on a list of district concerns for the board to incorporate into goal setting.

Band wins 3 trophies

Three trophies joined the Clarkston High School Marching Band on its return trip from the Linden Invitational on Oct. 1.

The competition was the band's first of the season following the Clarkston Invitational, which it hosted and, therefore, could not compete in.

The band took a first place in Flight 2, plus two section awards in Flight 2 for percussion and for marching and maneuvering. The flight designations ranging from one to three are determined for the most part by the size of the band. The CHS band has 100 members.

The band's next scheduled performance is Saturday, Oct. 7, at halftime of the CHS Homecoming football game. The next invitational is Oct. 15 at John Glenn High School in Westland.

Which one will it be?

HOLDING HANDS for luck before they find out who will be "tapped" for Clarkston High School homecoming queen are (from left) Jodi Lawrence, Joelle Choops and Kellee Duty. Moments later, they knew it was Kellee. She was tapped on the head by homecoming

Be careful — don't become an accident statistic

Next week, the Independence Township Fire Department and other fire departments across the United States will observe Fire Prevention Week.

The annual event was established many years ago to remind us of the importance of fire safety. It always occurs in early October, falling on the week that includes Oct. 8, the date of the terrible Chicago fire of 1871.

That fire, popularly believed to have been started by Mrs. O'Leary's infamous cow, killed 250 people, destroyed most of the buildings in that great city, and caused some $168 million in property losses.

The city's buildings and sidewalks were largely made of wood, causing the fire to spread rapidly out of control. Only after this tragic fire did cities begin to write and enforce fire safety codes.

Today, Fire Prevention Week provides a focus for fire safety. The Independence Fire Department also reminds citizens that fire safety must be a year-round concern. Fires kill thousands of Americans every year. Believing it won't happen to you is a ticket to tragedy.

Take this opportunity to learn some things about fire safety. The Independence Township Fire Department can help.

- Have smoke detectors in your home and keep them in working condition.
- Never smoke in bed -- it's too easy to fall asleep unintentionally.
- Wear close-fitting clothes while cooking and never leave cooking unattended.

● Be extremely careful with fireplaces and other sources of heat and flame.

● Don't overload electrical outlets and extension cords.

● Keep heating equipment in safe, working order.

● Store gasoline and other flammable materials only in safe containers -- outside the home.

Despite the legend of Mrs. O'Leary's cow, most fires are caused by carelessness. Fire deaths are needless. Burns are painful and disfiguring. And they can be prevented. So be careful -- don't become a statistic.

During Fire Prevention Week, Independence Firefighters will be in the elementary schools teaching your children fire prevention skills.

An open house is scheduled from noon to 3 p.m. at fire station No. 2 at the corner of Sashabaw and Clarkston roads. Refreshments, fire extinguisher demonstrations, videos and tours will be offered.

Optimum athletic performance requires top physical condition, and yet the very sport we participate in often puts enormous strain on the body and spine. Sudden twists and jolts may cause the bones (vertebrae) in the spine to move, causing spinal nerve pressure which affects body functions. Ironically, well-conditioned athletes may experience only minor discomfort, yet their overall performance may suffer. Simple spinal adjustments may make the difference between competition at your very best and a painful reminder of what might have been. 'Ozzie and Harriet' times are past

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY

Bob Kercorian, administrator of Fox Center, has some good news and some bad news for parents.

The good news is his clinic can help your child, no matter how bad things are, any time of the day or night.

The bad news is he blames the vast majority of problems in kids today on their environment. It's not like Ozzie and Harriet anymore, he said, and therein lies the problem.

"In spite of the reduction in the birthrate, the stresses are more (now)," Kercorian said. "We don't have the families of the 50s. There was some real security there. This is becoming a latch-key society. It's unfortunate."

Kercorian said kids can become anxious when something is going on in their environment that they can't sort out. Whereas adults might turn to overeating or drinking or sleeping a lot, in kids anxiety leads to behavior problems of all sorts, from depression to falling grades to violent behavior and drug abuse.

"The basic root of all these problems is a fear that all is not right; that something is going to happen," Kercorian said. "When youngsters become fearful, they need to do something about it. Anxiety itself causes other problems."

Kercorian said only about 3-5% of the adolescent population has biological (or inborn) anxiety disorders. The rest of the problems, he feels, come from environmental stresses. He said some 20-25% of all kids are at risk.

"The stresses are so great right now, and there's a lack of family support to see youngsters through this," he said.

If that sounds like the old 'blame it on mom (or dad)' routine again, you're right. The high divorce rate, kids coming home to an empty house, infrequent visitation with fathers, and stressed out, overworked mothers are all mentioned by Kercorian as the most pressing problems kids are facing today.

"Mental illness and substance abuse have been around for ages," he said. But the increase in the above-mentioned environmental factors cannot be denied.

Bob Kercorian, administrator of Fox Center at St Joseph's Hospital in Pontiac.

"Look at Detroit," he said. "The kids aren't any different. It's just so stressful... Even sick kids in a good environment stay healthy longer."

Kercorian is himself a parent, and he admits that if his wife hadn't been there for their kids, he doesn't know if he could have managed. He said parents, quite often, need help just like their kids do.

"Typically, parents — 90% of them — want the best for their kids," he said. "Basically people want to help their kids, but they don't know how to do it."

Kercorian cited some alarming statistics: 72% of the kids in correctional facilities come from broken homes; of those, 60% are drug abusers; depression is the second biggest killer of all kids; there are 5,000 adolescent suicides per year, and perhaps as many as 500,000 attempts.

"That's more than all the kids in Macomb and Oakland counties," Kercorian said.

That said, it's easy to see how a facility like Fox Center, which can treat at most 100 kids at a time, is dwarfed by the problem; it and other treatment centers in Oakland County are usually full.

Kercorian said the answer lies in prevention, rather than treatment. And in his mind, since we can't do a whole lot about the divorce rate or mothers that have to work outside the home, that means community support. He praised efforts like the "Just Say No" anti-drug campaign and Families in Action groups, saying such efforts are on the front line when it comes to helping kids.

"What's happening is the society or the community is taking over a lot of the functions," he said. "It's a beginning of a change in attitude; that's the key."

"It's a matter of everybody's responsibility; the schools, the courts, and we professionals. It's a community problem. I think the parents' action groups can be real significant. Those are the keys in providing community awareness."

Fox Center treats the kids who need more help than counselors or Community Mental Health clinics can provide. It has 24-hour, 7-day-a-week emergency room care, as well as in-patient and out-patient programs. The costs of treatment are covered by most insurance programs and Medicaid. For those without adequate insurance, a fee schedule can be arranged.

If you are concerned about changes in your child's behavior, and feel he or she needs assessment, Fox Center can help. Kercorian said parents shouldn't feel it means their kid is bad.

"Ideal kids can get depressed too," he said.

Armed robber strikes at Dixie service station

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

No one was injured, but a clerk was badly shaken Sept. 28 when an armed robber stole $220 from Jet Gas Station on Dixie Highway in Independence Township. Deputies found the 24-year-old clerk crying when they answered her emergency call around 1:40 a.m. last Wednesday, according to the Oakland County Sheriff's Department report.

Around 1:38 a.m., two men approached the store on the east side of Dixie Highway, south of Maybee Road, according to the clerk's reports to the deputies.

One man remained outside, apparently to act as a lookout. The other man walked to the back of the store, and when he approached the counter, he was wearing a nylon stocking over his face. He opened his jacket, pulled out a small pistol, and said, "Give me the money. All I want is cash." The clerk gave him all of the bills from her drawer, and the robber threw back a $2 bill, saying, "I'm not getting busted with this."

He then demanded the money from a safe and told the clerk to lie on the floor. After she heard the door close, she pushed the emergency alarm button.

The Oakland County Sheriff's Department canine unit tracked the suspects south to Old Kent Bank, where police think a get-away car was waiting.

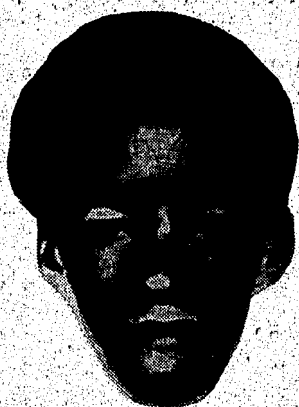

The crime is under investigation, and detectives are looking for a black male in his early to mid-20s, 6-foot-3, about 160 pounds, with a medium afro and a dark-skinned complexion.

No description was available for the second suspect.

Anyone with information should contact Detective Sgt. Douglas Hummel or Detective Steve Parker at 858-4960 or 858-4950.

A police composite drawing shows one of the suspects.

working conditions.

The remaining 70 Tra-Tech employees are operating the van conversion business from a temporary factory on Clarkston Road, Orion Township.

"Everything is going according to schedule," said Grebeck. "We've had no delays."

The construction has been speedy, and "it makes everybody feel great," he said. "People are looking forward to a nice, brand new working environment."

The fire that caused about $4 million in damages also destroyed the materials for the new 1989 models, so the anxiety that usually accompanies model changes was doubled by the destruction, he said.

"We're still in the process of trying to recapture designs and material," he said.

Grebeck appreciates the support from his customers and expects to occupy the new building by January.

LWV kicks off busy fall

The Clarkston League of Women Voters will kick off a busy fall when they meet at 8 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 6, in the Village Hall on Depot Street, Clarkston. All interested persons may attend.

During this election year, the league will be looking at issues and taking stands on items they have studied.

The league will take consensus on a year-long study of prisons, prison reform and alternatives at the upcoming meeting. They will also decide on a position concerning the land issue for the Independence Township Library, since the library funding was a study item last year.

Plans for the unveiling of the Clarkston "Know Your Town" book compiled and published by the league will be discussed.

The Oct. 6 meeting of the Clarkston League of Women Voters will also kick off the annual membership and finance drive.

The League of Women Voters is a non-partisan, issue-oriented organization dedicated to studying and informing the public of issues and concerns on a local, state and national level.

For further information, call Ann Glenn at 625-2775 or Millie Ham at 625-5486.

Clinic offers free shots

The Oakland County Health Division will conduct an Immunization Clinic for Lake Orion and surrounding areas at the Lake Orion United Methodist Church, 140 East Flint Street, Oct. 12, from 1-3 p.m.

Immunizations for measles, German measles, mumps, polio, diphtheria, tetanus, whooping cough and Haemophilus influenzae Type B (HIB) will be available.

A parent or legal guardian must accompany a child under 18. All previous records of immunizations, including notices pertaining to immunizations which might have been sent home from the child's school, should be brought to the clinic.

Immunizations will be given at the same time on the second Wednesday of every other month. The next scheduled immunization clinic will be Dec. 14.

For further information, call 858-1301.

Football

Clarkston Junior High Wolverines 12, Crary 12

Sept. 28 -- Dan Griffiths excelled on offense and defense for the Wolverines, who forged a tie against host Crary.

Five fumbles and two penalties hurt the team's chances of winning, said Coach Steve Himburg.

Griffiths, who rushed for 190 yards, scored one touchdown and Adam Kirk got the other one. Luke Fedio also had a good game offensively, picking up 95 yards rushing.

Clarkston was driving toward the game-winning score when time ran out in the fourth quarter.

The team's record is now 3-1-1.

Soccer

Clarkston High Junior Varsity Lake Orion 3, Wolves 0

Sept. 27 -- Jeremy Deloney and Matt Warren both played well for the host Wolves, but it wasn't enough as they fell against a tough Dragons squad.

The loss drops the team's record to 3-4.

Basketball

Clarkston High Junior Varsity Wolves 41, Holly 17

Sept. 27 -- The entire team played well and the scoring was spread among a host of players as Clarkston breezed past visiting Holly.

The victory ups the team's record to 6-2.

Sashabaw Junior High Brandon 25, Cougars 21

Sept. 29 -- The visiting Sashabaw team sank only 5-of-25 free throw attempts against Brandon in close loss.

Karri Sikes was the team's leading scorer with 12 points. Shelly Lewandowski added five points for the Cougars.

Double OT win sparks Wolves

CLARKSTON HIGH won in boys soccer twice last week, topping Waterford Mott in double overtime and beating Springfield Christian after trailing 2-0 in the first half. Shane Maroney advances the ball upfield for the Wolves on a free kick against Mott Sept. 29.

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Good things started happening when junior Andy LaFleur was inserted into the starting lineup for the varsity soccer team.

First, he scored two second-half goals against powerful Brandon during a 6-2 loss. He then notched a goal against Lake Fenton two days later. His latest scoring spree led Clarkston to a come-from-behind 6-3 win Sept. 30 at Springfield Christian.

LaFleur completed a pure hat trick -- three consecutive goals by the same player -- to put the Wolves out in front, 3-2, early in the second half. They led the rest of the way.

Coach Neil Granlund has seen marked improvement in the team since he juggled the lineup midway through the Brandon game.

"That's made a difference," he said. "Andy's a spark plug. Not only is he scoring but others are too."

The Clarkston team needed a spark to get it going after Springfield scored two quick goals to start the game.

"We were a little tired at the beginning," the coach said. "We knew that would be a problem because we played a lot of soccer the night before."

Despite the slow start, LaFleur remained confident the Wolves would win if their passing improved.

"We needed to get the ball up to the forwards," he said.

After missing two excellent scoring opportunities, B.J. Deloney netted the Wolves' fourth goal. John Koslosky got the next one, with an assist from Carl Schmidt.

Dave Reading, who left the game with a bloody nose in the first half, drilled in the final goal. Schmidt collected two assists while Kyle Bray, Deloney and Paul Reading added one apiece to the scoring attack.

For Springfield, Jeff Ocker knocked in two goals and Scott Hine one, but it wasn't enough. Still, Coach Todd Vanaman was pleased with what he saw.

"They could have blown us away," he said. "We picked it back up. This was one of our better efforts during the past few weeks."

With the loss, the Eagles' record falls to 6-6. The Wolves' mark is 4-6.

A day earlier, Clarkston hosted Greater Oakland Activities League foe Waterford Mott and eked out a 3-2 win in double overtime.

Matt Mellen drilled in the game-winning goal with 7:33 left in the second extra session off a rebound. Deloney collected an assist on the play.

Varsity football team loses on big play

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

If good efforts counted as victories, then the varsity football team's record would be vastly improved.

Unfortunately, only the final score counts in the won-lost column, and the Wolves have been coming up short in that department lately.

Nobody has blown out the Wolves yet; the games are always within reach. But time after time and game after game, opponents cash in off big plays for the winning points.

Waterford Kettering used a 50-yard TD pass from Jim Miller and a 67-yard run by James Tiffin to erase a 18-14 Clarkston lead in the second half Friday night and pull out a 30-18 victory.

"Big plays," said Wolves' head coach Kurt Richardson. "They make 'em and we don't."

Clarkston finally got itself a big play in the third quarter when Doug Lederman led a host of Wolves into Kettering's backfield to block a punt. The ball was recovered on the Captains' 4-yard line. Dugan Fife scored on a 1-yard plunge three plays later to put Clarkston up, 18-14, but that was all the scoring they would do.

"We sucked it up on defense when we had to," said Kettering's head coach John Deliegghio. "Clarkston (versus Kettering) is a great rivalry, and they came out and hit us tonight."

Kettering opened the scoring on its first drive. A 1-yard run by Miller capped the 74-yard scoring drive with 7:24 to play in the first stanza.

Later, Mark Hetherington recovered a fumble on Waterford's 36-yard line to provide the Wolves with an excellent scoring opportunity.

Fife finished off the eight-play drive with a nifty 10-yard pass to John King for a touchdown. His 14-yard aerial to Kevin Keilitz earlier in the march down the field helped keep the drive alive.

Clarkston missed the extra-point attempt, however, and trailed, 7-6, with 10:07 to play in the first half.

Kettering hit paydirt again just a down after Keilitz broke up a pass completion with a hard tackle. Scott Lamphere rambled 46 yards with a screen pass to boost the visitors' advantage to 14-6.

The Wolves' slumbering offense finally awoke in the second half behind good blocking from the offensive line, Richardson said, especially the play of seniors Jason Campbell and Chris Ketzler.

Hetherington capped a 67-yard scoring drive with a 2-yard run to cut the deficit to 14-12. A pass play on the two-point conversion attempt was unsuccessful.

Lederman then blocked a punt on Kettering's next possession to set up Fife's touchdown.

Kettering didn't roll over and play dead, but regrouped to score the game-winning touchdown.

Clarkston threatened to score late in the game, but turned the ball over at the Kettering 4-yard line on downs in the waning seconds.

One bright spot for the Wolves was Chris Parker's punting. Besides side-stepping a Kettering player rushing in to block a kick, he had a net average of 31 yards on five boots.

Wally Wyniemko also played well, said Richardson. On one pass reception over the middle, he ripped the ball away from a Kettering defender after a momentary interception.

Time Out

Team play pays

Peter Auchter

A thrilling double-overtime victory for the varsity soccer team at CHS against Waterford Mott last week may be the turning point of the season.

After a very slow start (1-5), the Wolves finally seem to have their act together. There are plenty of games left on the schedule -- many against top-notch competition such as Lake Orion and Brandon -- but the season could be a great one. After a lit's not how you start that counts, but where you finish.

Watching the team in action twice last week (a rare treat), I could see a definite change from early season games. Maybe they've got a little more confidence and it's helping, or maybe they've improved fundamentally. Whatever it is, it's working wonders. Bring on the big boys!

Before the season began, Coach Neil Granlund said the team, especially the forwards, would be speedy. He also said the team would rely on a multitude of passes to get the ball down the field and into the net. With a few adjustments to the lineup, his prediction finally is coming true.

I truly believe the high-scoring losses the team has suffered are a thing of the past. (Or at least I hope they are.)

One reason for my belief is the apparent lack of a superstar on the team. Nobody is being touted as the Wolves' "savior." Everybody has to work hard for a victory, and that's just the way Granlund likes it.

Everybody is doing his job, marking his man, not getting caught out of position. This is the stuff victories are made of: teamwork.

Above-average Joes working together will beat a good superstar any day of the week. It happens all of the time, just watch major league sports on television. David can beat Goliath in today's world. Why do you think the Detroit Tigers are so successful under Sparky Anderson's guidance? The guy believes the team comes first; superstars are just an added bonus. (So long Lance Parrish and Kirk Gibson.)

As of this writing, the soccer team has six games left. Its record stands at 4-6. If they lose to Brandon and Lake Orion again (these will be nail biters, I guarantee) and beat Oxford (previously lost 1-0), Lake Fenton (won 3-0), Waterford Kettering (lost 1-0), Lakeland and Milford, the Wolves would finish 9-8. A win against Brandon or Lake Orion and it's 10-7. Not bad for a group of guys who dug themselves into a 1-5 hole.

But talk is cheap. The team will have to continue its improvement for any of this to come true. In other words, they'll have to play like a T-E-A-M.

Soccer team wins twice, lifts spirits

Mott, following a disturbing trend for the Wolves, scored the first goal of the game when a player headed the ball into the net off a throwin.

"We are letting the other team score first on us," said Granlund. "I'll have to get the players out earlier and scrimmage them before a game."

Dennis Miller scored the equalizer midway through the opening half on a long shot from the left side of the field. LaFleur notched the go-ahead goal 13 minutes before halftime after some slick dribbling to outmaneuver Mott's goalie.

Nobody scored through the first 30 minutes of the second half. It appeared Clarkston had the game won when a Mott player lifted a bloop over goalie David Patterson's head for the tying goal.

Patterson made a good stop on a close-angle shot in the waning moments of regulation to keep the game tied.

Ryan Forbes and LaFleur applied pressure to Mott during the first 10-minute overtime, but neither team could break the deadlock. After switching sides, Mellen provided the heroics for the hosts.

Patterson made another good save to preserve the victory during the the second overtime session.

Eagles search for consistency

It's been an up-again, down-again season for Springfield Christian's varsity soccer team.

The Eagles sport a 6-6 record as of Sept. 30 when they lost to visiting Clarkston, 6-3, but Coach Todd Vanaman isn't discouraged.

"I think that we'll do well in the second half of the season," he said. "We've lost some games that we shouldn't have."

Against Clarkston, Jeff Ocker netted two goals and Scott Hine got one for the Eagles, who jumped out in front 2-0 in the first half. The Wolves then scored six straight goals to win easily.

Three days earlier on Sept. 27, Springfield lost a heartbreaker against Inter-City Baptist when the winning goal was scored off a penalty kick. Ocker collected the lone goal for the visiting Eagles.

"It's been a character building season for us," the coach said.

Springfield's last win was against Valley Christian at home Sept. 20. The Eagles whipped their opponent,

10-2, as four players scored. Hine had a career-day, collecting five goals. Ocker chipped in with three, and Bill Hampton and Dave Marsh added one apiece.

Tough times ahead

Tough competition is nothing new for the girls varsity basketball team. In fact, the Wolves have dealt two top-rated teams their only losses of the season.

Rochester Adams and Milford lost while playing host to Clarkston in September. The Wolves' latest conquest was 46-24 over visiting Holly on Sept. 27.

Susan McKoin tossed in 17 points and Rhonda Jokisch collected 10 rebounds for the victors. With the win, the Wolves' record stands at 5-3 overall.

After visiting Brandon Oct. 4 (results unavailable at press time), the team travels to Pontiac Northern Oct. 6 and hosts Waterford Kettering Oct. 13.

Then Clarkston has to face Flint Central and Flint Northern in tough non-league action.

Annual swap at Pine Knob

Sales begin 10 a.m. on Saturday, end 3 p.m. Sunday

Old skis, ice skates, ski boots and winter clothing can come out of the attic or basement next weekend for a chance at a new life.

The annual ski swap is planned from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 8; and 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 9, in the main lodge at Pine Knob Ski Resort, Pine Knob Road, Independence Township.

Sponsored by the National Ski Patrol, the swap gives people a chance to get money back on their expensive winter sports equipment, allows area buyers to get a good deal on sports gear and raises money for the ski patrol.

"This is really a good chance for people to get into the entry level of skiing," said Patrol Director Ty Damon.

Ski patrol staff will help price the equipment, said Damon. Proceeds from the sale will buy first-aid equipment used by the ski patrol volunteers for winter rescue.

All equipment must be dropped off between 5 and 10 p.m. Friday, Oct. 7, and unsold equipment must be picked up by 4 p.m. Sunday.

JV Wolves top Captains, stay unbeaten

In a battle of the unbeaten, the junior varsity football team emerged victorious Sept. 29 against Waterford Kettering.

A balanced attack on offense helped the Wolves, now 5-0, beat the Captains, 26-14, and up their league record to 3-0. The victory was the team's 12th in a row, dating back to last season.

"I'm really pleased," said Coach John Craven. "It was a big win against, by far, the best team we have played."

Jason Kinzler set up the first touchdown by ripping through Kettering's line for a 28-yard gain. He capped the scoring drive with a 3-yard run. Chad Hetherington added the extra point for a 7-0 lead.

Kettering returned the favor by scoring a touchdown of its own and a two-point conversion to boot for a slim, 8-7, advantage.

Just before halftime, Clarkston rallied to take the lead off a 35-yard TD pass from Hetherington to Darrin Master. The extra-point attempt failed, leaving the score at 13-8 in favor of the visiting Clarkston team.

The Wolves buried their opponents in the second half on a 8-yard touchdown run by Todd Johnson, and a 40-yard pass play from Hetherington to Derek Raymond. Hetherington kicked another successful extra-point after Raymond's score to make it a 26-8 ball game.

"The first half was pretty even," the coach said. "But they got away from their game plan in the second half and we dominated."

Offensive leaders for the victors were Kinzler and Hetherington. Running behind good blocks from Matt Howe, Kinzler finished with 110 yards rushing on 18 carries. Hetherington completed 5-of-6 for 115 yards.

The defense as a whole, allowing only 30 points in five games, has been a bright spot for the Wolves.

John Terpstra, Johnson, Mike Stanton, Brian Martin, Damon Michelsen, Tim Robertson, Greg Heaton, Dave Eby, Mike Moller, Raymond, Chris Figa, Mike Richmond and Ken Clark all have stood out defensively, Craven said.

Against Kettering, Johnson's interception and Martin's important fumble recovery (his second in as many weeks) were instrumental in keeping Kettering off-balance.

"The kids played really well," the coach said. "It was a tough game."

Clarkston travels to face unbeaten GOAL foe Pontiac Northern at 4 p.m. on Oct. 6.

Cross country needs boost

With no superstar performer to lean on, the girls cross country team is learning the meaning of team play first-hand.

After four meets, the girls' overall record stands at 3-1 with a loss only to highly rated Brighton marring their outstanding mark. The Wolves are unbeaten (3-0) in the Greater Oakland Activities League.

The only experienced runners are seniors, Emily Winfield, Nicole Chinavare and Bree Michelsen plus All-State junior Sonya Schaffer and Lisa Palazzola.

"The girls' (roster) is really thin," said Coach Mike Kaul. "There are no sophomores. Our work will be cut out for us (next fall)."

To their credit, the Wolves are holding all the other GOAL teams at bay and may claim another league championship.

Clarkston, in its first home meet of the season Sept. 27, whipped Waterford Mott, 15-40. The Wolves swept the first five spots in the race to win going away.

Schaffer and Palazzola finished first and second, respectively, in the meet. Winfield took third, and Chinavare and Michelsen rounded out the top five.

Harriers improving

After years of struggling to break even, the boys cross country team is basking in the glory of early season success.

Even practices seem more bearable for the 14-member team nowadays, since the team sports a winning record in the Greater Oakland Activities League at 2-1. Last season, the team finished in the GOAL cellar.

"The guys seem to be coming up," said Coach Mike Kaul. "The league seems to be pretty compatible. (Waterford) Mott and Brandon should be the top teams."

Considering the Wolves have no seniors on the team, their 2-2 overall record may indicate good times are finally coming, the coach added.

Runners Jim Wenger and Paul Brisson were the top performers for Clarkston in its 20-36 loss to Waterford Mott at the Wolves' first home meet of the season Sept. 27.

After traveling to Lake Orion on Oct. 4, the Wolves return home Oct. 11 for a meet against another GOAL rival, Brandon.

He's a winner

An Independence Township boy recently advanced to the regionals of the Punt, Pass and Kick tournament after winning a competition at Shell Park.

Justin Dionne won the 8-year-old division to qualify for the Rochester regional Oct. 15. He beat out other Clarkston area kids Jeffery Drolshaven and Bryan Haggard.

Casey McCloney of Davisburg finished second in 9-year-old group and Brian Oppman of Independence Township third, as the only other competitors from the Clarkston area.

Sixty-seven kids, ages 8 to 13, competed Sept. 26 at Shell Park in a tournament co-sponsored by the Independence and Waterford parks and recreation departments.

Objections, praise greet M-15 rezoning proposal

"Speed kills. ... I've witnessed three deaths, one in my own driveway, these past six months on M-15," he said.

Also objecting were two attorneys, who are negotiating a sale of 50 acres at the northwest corner of Cranberry Lake Road and M-15.

Clarkston attorney Leo James, representing the seller, said he would "firmly object" if the buyer backs out of the deal because of the proposed zoning changes.

Waterford attorney Frank Proctor, representing the buyer, refused to reveal the intentions of the buyer but said his client planned to use the highway commercial zoning, and the commission should not change the zoning.

Cranberry Lake Road resident Nancy Crosby, supported the commission's efforts but suggested it go one step further.

"I'm trying to raise small children on Cranberry Lake Road," she said. "I'd rather not see it developed at all. If you can't do that, I'd like it to be residential."

Bob Brumback of Cranberry Lake Road complimented the commissioners.

"I think we need the commercial development within our community," he said. "This is a very natural site. ... I applaud your efforts to see that something happens in our area."

Commissioner Carol Balzarini explained the township's intentions for the area under discussion.

"Historically, the philosophy of both the planning commission and the township board is to keep development north of I-75 as low as possible," she said. "If we strongly believe that what we're doing is right, we're not going to worry about lawyers threatening us."

Applause followed her comments.

Commissioner Joseph Figa also voiced concern about growth in the township.

"Most people who moved out here did so to get away from Troy and other developed areas," he said.

"I'm concerned about the residential integrity of the area."

Chairperson Brent Bair closed the meeting with an open invitation for all to return.

"All of your comments, pro and con, are appreciated," he said. "Do come back. We need your advice, your thoughts."

After the meeting, Bair said he was pleased with the workshop.

"I was encouraged to see so many people," he said. "That was impressive, but this is an area of concern to people."

"We tend to use meetings like this to get a sense of the community and to get a direction of where we want to head. ... Generally, people like the concept of less intense development."

Chamber office now on Sashabaw

Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce officials hope the new office location will ease frustration felt by people who couldn't find the former site on Main Street, Clarkston.

The office is now in Suite B of the building where chamber President Bruce Mercado's dental practice is located at 6300 Sashabaw Road, Independence Township.

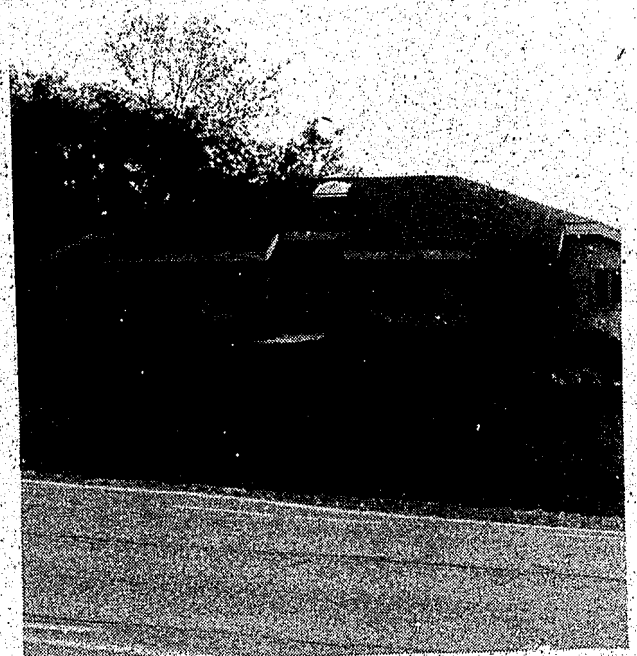

The gray fieldstone building just south of Waldon Road, east of Sashabaw Road, also provides more space, said Mercado.

"The other location was in the village (of Clarkston), but it was in the basement," he said. "It should be more visible on Sashabaw Road."

With 18 people on the chamber board, the new office's conference room should be useful, Mercado said, adding that the office will be filled with helpful information.

"I really want people to take advantage of it and use it," he said.

The chamber phone number, 625-8055, remains the same.

THE NEW office of the Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce is in the same building as President Bruce Mercado's dental practice.

TONI MAZZA illustrates the smooth ride of a Buick in a promotion for the 1989 models. The Pine Knob Elementary pupil was chosen through a modeling agency. Red-haired Toni appears in Buick catalogs, in national magazines and on a television commercial.

ATHOME in Waterford Township, Toni Mazza is nonchalant about the national exposure she's receiving as a model in Buick ads.

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Her bright red curls or her sunny little smile may be why, but whatever the reason, 6-year-old Toni Mazza has a healthy start on her college fund.

Toni, a first-grader at Pine Knob Elementary School, was chosen to model for an illustration used in a Buick catalog and brochure promoting the 1989 model year. The assignment evolved into a national television commercial and into an ad for national magazines.

Toni is the daughter of Jeff and Corrine Mazza of Waterford Township. She has a 5-year-old brother, Drew, a kindergartner at Pine Knob, who also has bright red hair.

When they were just toddlers, Corrine sent their pictures to Affiliated Modeling in Southfield at the suggestion of friends and relatives. The agency called a couple of times with possible modeling jobs in the past, but Corrine says "if just didn't work out."

"I'm not really trying to push or promote my kids," she says.

This time when they called, they were looking for a little boy.

When she took Drew to McCann-Erickson, the advertising agency in Troy that does the Buick ads, she brought Toni along.

The photographer took Toni's picture, too, and the rest is history.

Korean kids share culture with schoolmates

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Seoul, South Korea, is a long way from Clarkston, Michigan. But two pupils at North Sashabaw brought the countries a little closer last week when they told their classmates about the land across the ocean.

Sun Lee, 10, a fifth-grader at North Sashabaw, and her 9-year-old brother, Woo Lee, a fourth-grader, were born in Seoul. They moved to Independence Township seven years ago with their parents, Sang and Soon Lee.

Dressed in traditional Korean costumes, they gave a presentation to schoolmates on Korea and on the 1988 Summer Olympics, which were just held there.

With a little help from Joanne Stroebe and Sue Banworth, CAT (Clarkston Academically Talented) teachers, Sun and Woo put together handouts for the other pupils, a huge bulletin board and a display of Korean books, dolls, ornaments and other items of interest.

"The kids did a lot of work putting together their presentation," Stroebe said.

Sun told the pupils that Korea has the largest steel plant, the largest military and the spiciest food in the world. Children study from 8 to 5 and only have a month of summer vacation, but they also get a month of winter vacation. She also told them the country is 1,900 years old.

Education is important in the crowded country where competition is high to get into the universities. Students even go to school half a day on Saturday.

South Korea is located on a peninsula in east Asia and is about the size of Indiana. Seoul, the capital, is one of the five largest cities in the world with a population of more than 10 million.

Outside Seoul, the country is made up of beautiful mountains with deep valleys and plains dotted with farms.

Woo gave the pupils some history and highlights about the Olympics, and told them the five Olympic rings stand for the five major continents that participate in the games. He also told them that South Korea was given the honor of designing the reverse side of the Olympic medal for 1988.

The emblem, with swirls of purple, red and yellow, stands for the harmony of heaven, earth and man.

Sun and Woo both said they liked America very much, but sometimes missed their homeland. Last year, they went back to Korea with their parents for a two-week visit.

While the two Korean pupils gave their presentation in the classroom of third grade teacher Pam Dunlavey, there was an extra child in the class, sitting in the teacher's lap, who was interested in what was going on.

The visitor was Pam's 4 1/2-year-old adopted Korean daughter, Sara.

Pam's reaction to Sun's and Woo's presentation was echoed by other teachers at the school: "Wasn't that great?"

WOO AND SUN LEE tell the classmates at North Sashabaw Elementary School about their native country of South Korea and about the 1988 Summer Olympics held there.

PAM DUNLAVEY holds her adopted Korean daughter, Sara, on her lap while Korean pupils Woo and Sun Lee give a presentation to her third-grade class.

Pupils provide hurricane help

'It is unbelievable, the amount of things they brought in'

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

It was one thing to hear of the devastation of Hurricane Gilbert, largest storm of the century, on the evening news. It was quite another to live it, as did the residents of Jamaica.

An island in the Caribbean no larger than Connecticut, Jamaica suffered 36 fatalities from the storm, which swept across the island last month. Eighty percent of the homes were damaged and 500,000 are homeless.

Pupils at North Sashabaw Elementary School decided to do something to help their southern neighbors. A mountain of non-perishable foods, summer clothing and miscellaneous supplies were collected through a schoolwide effort.

This week, the donations were picked up by the Salvation Army in cooperation with the West Indian Organization of Detroit.

The items will be personally delivered this weekend by a former Jamaican resident. American Airlines is transporting the goods free of charge.

Marie and Lloyd Gordon, Jamaican born, have lived in the United States since 1979. They happen to reside in Rochester Hills, next door to a teacher from North Sashabaw Elementary School.

During a discussion with her neighbor Joanne Stroebel, the idea was formed to offer the North Sashabaw Elementary pupils the opportunity to help, Marie Gordon said. The pupils responded in a big way.

For second-graders, the effort evolved into a lesson in social studies as well, said to teacher Debbie Bowser. They talked about hurricanes and helping others.

"The students learned how to help people in need as a group," she said. "It is unbelievable the amount of things they brought in."

Marie Gordon is flying to Jamaica on Oct. 9 because of the storm. She has family and friends there.

"I want to see what I can do to help," she said. A nurse, she has spent her days off working on Jamaican aid efforts in the Detroit area since the storm.

Her parents' home lost its roof in the storm, but fortunately, they were not injured.

"It really is amazing to see the kind of help we're getting," she said. "And I'm sure the people in Jamaica appreciate it."

COLLECTING SUPPLIES for Jamaican hurricane victims are North Sashabaw Elementary School pupils Emily Hartz and Andy Auten. The schoolwide effort produced a mountain of goods that will be taken to Jamaica personally by a former Jamaican resident.

'Bacon was 19 cents a pound and bread was a nickel a loaf'

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

When Georgia Meacham turns 90 on Oct. 8, she will celebrate with 75 to 100 family members and friends. There will also be birthday greetings from President 90 YEARS YOUNG: Georgia Meacham of Springfield Township will celebrate her birthday Saturday at a party with family and friends.

Ronald Reagan and Gov. James Blanchard.

Her grandchildren are planning a party in her honor from 6 to 10 p.m. Saturday in the Springfield Estates Clubhouse.

Georgia has lived with her great-grandson, Michael Marcum in the Springfield Estates Mobile Home Park in Springfield Township for three months. Before that, she lived in the Bavarian Village Apartments, also in Springfield Township, for nearly four years.

She was born in Missouri in 1898 and came to Pontiac, Mich., in the early 1920s when she was the young wife of the late Edward Meacham. It was "Depression times," she says, and they came up here looking for work.

"I never was on welfare," she says proudly. But, she add, it didn't take much to live on back then. "Bacon was 19 cents a pound and bread was a nickel a loaf."

Georgia found a job at Pontiac Motors with a starting salary of 35 cents an hour.

"In those days, entertainment was going to someone's house to play cards," she says. "We went to the show once in a blue moon. Couldn't afford it very often."

They walked everywhere, she said, until they had the cash to buy their first car -- a brand new one for just over $400.

The Meachams lived in Pontiac for many years. For the last 15 years before Georgia retired at age 68, she worked as a nurse attendant at Clinton Valley Hospital in Pontiac. Even after retiring, she continued to work for the hospital until she was 71, driving patients from the hospital to family care homes and county referrals.

Of her three sons, two are still living, Edgar Aulgur of Springfield Township and George Aulgur of Pontiac. She has five living grandchildren, eight great-grandchildren and two great-great-grandchildren.

She just returned from visiting old friends in Missouri, among those a 99-year-old first and his sister, 89. Longevity runs in the family, she says.

Georgia moved back to Missouri for about 13 years after retiring, but plans to stay in Michigan now, where she is surrounded by most of her family and many friends.

Pet of the Week

How about a bunny?

This big, brown, lop-eared bunny prefers the indoors and people to the outdoor world of other critters. He's not used to being around dogs and cats or other domestic pets.

His name is Snyder and he's a 1-year-old "gentle giant" of a rabbit -- very friendly and lovable. He would be a wonderful children's pet. He's even litter box trained.

Snyder can be adopted at the Michigan Humane Society, 3600 Auburn Rd., Auburn Heights, 852-7420. Hours at the non-profit shelter are 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

The adoption fee for Snyder is $20, which includes his neutering before leaving the shelter.

Tierra Arts and Design co-owners win award

JOAN AND BUCK KOPIETZ of Tierra Arts and Design were awarded the Employer of the Year Award from the Waterford-Clarkston Business and Professional Women's Club.

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Tierra Arts and Design has received the Employer of the Year Award from the Waterford-Clarkston Business and Professional Women's Club (BPW).

Owners Joan and Buck Kopietz will officially receive the award from BPW on Oct. 13.

"Ultimate surprise" is how Buck described his reaction.

Joan, a member of BPW said, "I was aware of the program we're running in BPW, but was surprised when we got the award."

This year is the first for the BPW program. Forms were sent out to the Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce and businesses in Independence and Waterford townships. It was also announced at BPW meetings. The selection was made from nominations sent in.

According to Joan Rogers, president of BPW, the award was given to Tierra because of community involvement, and because the Kopietzes work toward women's issues in the working world.

"We're very proud to be giving them the award," said Rogers.

Women hold managerial positions at Tierra, a company that also provides training for job advancement and flexible scheduling for women with children.

The Kopietzes were active in Clarkston's observance of the country's bicentennial in 1976 as well as Independence Township's sesquicentennial. They were officers in the Village Business Association and are current members of the Chamber of Commerce.

They spearhead the annual Christmas tree lighting ceremony as well as Concerts in the Park. Joan is also active in BPW, serving as historian and co-editor of the newsletter. Buck serves on the SCAMP board and is teaching a "Starting Your Own Business" class at Clarkston schools adult education.

Tierra Arts and Design has grown from 144 square feet and no additional employees to 5,000 square feet and nine employees 15 years later.

BRAKE PRICES?

UNTIL THEY PULL THE WHEELS, THEY'RE PULLING YOUR LEG.

Think about it. How do some brake places know what your next job'll cost if they've never seen your brakes to begin with? Answer: they don't.

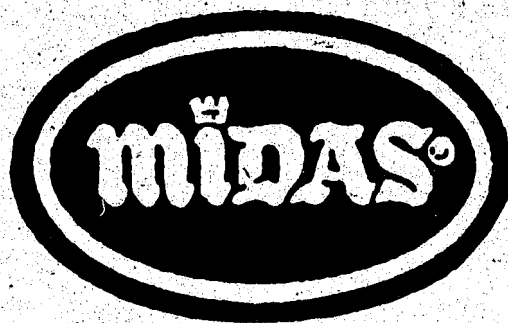

Fact is, there's no way anyone can figure out exactly what the price will be. There are just too many possibilities.

That's why at Midas, we pull all four wheels before every brake job. To get inside your brakes. To inspect them. To positively determine what's gone wrong. From a nine dollar can of fluid to a new master cylinder.

And when we're finished, we'll give you a pinpoint estimate of the entire job. With a price that won't go up when the job's done. That's our promise to you.

So when it comes time to pay, you'll have a leg to stand on.

In 1974, Barbara Harris wrote "Let's Cook Microwave." Her 207-page book, recommended by "Consumers Guide," is in its 26th printing, and over 700,000 copies have been sold.

Barbara is a creative, personable and humorous teacher, and her book reflects her easy-going personality with easy-to-prepare microwave recipes.

I've known Barbara for about five years; we attend the same professional conferences. Her book is packed full of delicious recipes and microwave cooking tips, and I'm pleased to present a few offerings to you. Enjoy!

VANILLA PUDDING

1/3 cup sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 1/4 cups milk*
1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla

In a 4-cup glass measure, mix sugar, cornstarch and salt. Stir in milk. Microwave (high) 5-6 minutes, stirring every minute until mixture boils. Add vanilla. Pour into serving dishes; chill until served. Top with fruit or whipped cream. Serves 4-6.

The pudding may be left in dish, chilled and topped with fruit to serve. It also makes an excellent vanilla pudding pie. After preparing pudding, pour into a 9-inch baked pastry or crumb pie shell.

*I made one recipe with 2 percent milk and another with skim milk. The skim took one additional minute to thicken.

PUMPKIN BARS -- Yummy in the fall.

1/2 cup soft butter
1 cup brown sugar
1 egg

1/2 cup pumpkin
1 1/2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon pumpkin pie spice
1/2 cup raisins
3/4 cup chopped walnuts

In medium bowl, cream butter and sugar; stir in egg and pumpkin. Combine with flour, soda, cinnamon and pie spices. Fold in raisins and nuts. Pour into 12x8-inch glass dish. Microwave (high) 8-10 minutes, rotating 1/4 turn halfway through cooking. Rest 10 minutes. Frost with cream cheese icing if desired. Makes 24.

CREAM CHEESE FROSTING

For a flat cake, the frosting spreads evenly. For bundt or uneven, heat a minute and drizzle over cake.

4 ounces softened cream cheese
3 tablespoons softened butter
1/2 pound powdered sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla

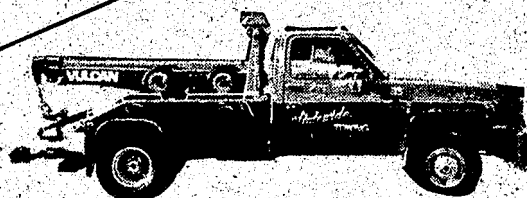

In a small bowl, soften cream cheese and butter (high) 1/2-1 minute. Blend in powdered sugar and vanilla until light and fluffy. Makes 1 1/2 cups.

CHILI

1/2 cup chopped onion
1/4 cup chopped green pepper
1 pound lean ground beef
1 1-pound can tomato sauce
1 1-pound can whole or stewed tomatoes
1 1-pound can drained kidney beans

1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1 1/2 to 2 1/2 teaspoons chili powder
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
1/4 teaspoon monosodium glutamate (MSG)

In a plastic colander in a two-quart glass casserole, combine onion, green pepper and crumbled ground beef. Microwave (high) 6 minutes, stirring every 2 minutes. Pour off drippings.

Transfer ingredients to glass casserole. Add tomato sauce, tomatoes, beans, salt, chili powder, pepper, mustard and MSG. Microwave (high), covered, 10-12 minutes, stirring halfway through cooking. Rest, covered, 5 minutes. Serves 4-6.

I omitted MSG.

Recipes tested in 600-700 watt microwave ovens.

Young model discovered at brother's shoot

(MODEL, from Page 29)

Buick LeSabre, holding a goldfish bowl on (his or her) lap," says Jay Qualman, general director of advertising for Buick Motor Division of General Motors.

Qualman says the usual format is to go through agencies and then narrow down the talent selection. He says when he saw Toni's picture, "it was an easy choice."

When they decided to use the same environment for a television commercial, he says there was some concern about using Toni because she had no acting experience. They shot the commercial twice, one as a back-up using an experienced girl.

They chose the commercial with Toni, red curls and dimpled smile visible from the back seat of a Buick driven down a mountain road, goldfish hardly swaying in the bowl on her lap.

The commercial began airing on television Sept. 12, running during Olympic coverage and Monday night football. It will probably be used over the course of the 1989 model year, Qualman says.

As for Toni, she is totally unaffected by the whole thing. She just thought it was fun.

Toni and her mother were flown to Oregon, expenses paid, for the filming of the television commercial.

For those four days alone, Toni made around $2,000, and she will get residuals every time the commercial runs.

Corrine says she's not looking for further modeling for Toni, although she wouldn't turn down a good opportunity if it came her way.

"Once was a good experience for both of us," she says. "The whole thing was very interesting and gave me a new outlook on how much work goes into a 25-second commercial."

Friend to Friend

Homecoming worries

Dear Friend to Friend:

I am concerned about a friend of mine, but I'm tired of being concerned. She seems extremely depressed all the time, and she handles it by giving off an "I don't care" attitude. She used to be involved in many activities but is pulling out of these activities one by one. She even has a hard time getting to school. All she wants to do is sleep!

The other thing that concerns me is that she is starting to drink more and even smoke pot. She won't listen to any of her friends who try to help. Therefore, she's losing all her friends.

I want to be a good friend, but I'm getting tired of her not trying to change. Any suggestions?

LOSING PATIENCE

Dear Losing Patience:

It's always difficult to deal with someone who is depressed without being dragged down with them. Your first step is to make sure you take care of yourself so your attitude isn't influenced or brought down by your friend.

We firmly believe you should find additional help for her. Sometimes people who are very depressed can't reach out for the help they need. Therefore, you need to help them find it. Talk to her about it, and if she is hesitant or denies a problem, don't give up.

You could talk to your school counselor or social worker. If she won't go see a counselor or social worker, work out a plan with the counselor to get her down there. Maybe you could go with her.

Often when someone needs help, they need a lot of support. Then, once she starts getting some help, continue to support her.

Depending on how depressed she is, it might take awhile for her to start feeling better. During this time, she might be cranky, withdrawn or not really care about things. This is when she needs you most of all.

It is possible, too, during this time that she might be testing you (unconsciously) to see how strong the friendship is. Often depressed individuals have trouble trusting others. When you turn your back on them, it just means you are one more person they can't trust.

Try to remember that our friends go through bad times as well as good times. Even though she might act like she doesn't want or appreciate the friendship, it's important for you to support her through her bad time. Dealing with the depression of a friend is very difficult, and we congratulate you for sticking by her.

Dear Friend to Friend:

I really feel I should get some exercise in my life. I'm a high school senior and with all the pressures I face, I don't feel I have the time or an efficient way to get exercise.

I am involved in band, Blue and Gold, building the senior float and other extra activities. So, I can always find a way not to get exercise. I guess I want to or I wouldn't be writing this letter.

Do you have any way to motivate me to begin an exercise program?

ULTIMATE PROCRASTINATOR

Dear Ultimate:

We know it's always easy to find excuses not to do things you should be doing. Here's what we would recommend:

1. Start using a notebook and write goals for what you wish to accomplish.
2. Use a calendar to make notes about what you will do to exercise every day.
3. In your notebook select a number of activities you do for exercise. (These might include riding a stationary bike while watching television, swimming, jogging, walking, aerobics class, racquetball or wallyball.)
4. Also in your notebook build in a reward system for yourself. List how you will reward yourself daily and weekly for regular exercise. Make a notation on your calendar about how you will reward yourself for exercise. (You might want to put away a little money each week to buy something you want, or you can reward yourself by seeing friends or doing other things that make you feel good.)

Other things we might suggest to make regular exercise more likely include setting up an exercise program with one or more friends. That might even include joining a league or team that involves a sport (tennis, bowling and racquetball are three possibilities).

Since you are involved in many activities, you may experience stress and tension. Exercise is one good way to deal with the pressures of being a senior and having many responsibilities.

In addition, with exercise you should find that you have more energy to keep up with all your activities. Finally, after all we've said, you just have to go out and do it. Write back and tell us what worked for you. This might help out other procrastinators.

Dear Friend to Friend:

With Homecoming almost here, I'm feeling a little insecure. I haven't attended this kind of event before so I'm a little unfamiliar with:

1. Attire
2. Do I take her out to dinner?
3. Do I buy a corsage?

4. How much money should I spend? (I want to impress her and have a good time, but I don't want to be ridiculous and broke.)

Because this is coming up soon, I need some answers quick. This is a minor problem, I guess, but maybe other guys have the same problem.

HOMECOMING HORROR

Dear Homecoming Horror:

It only feels like a horror. It's going to be a really great experience for you.

We can't speak about other schools, but Clarkston's Homecoming is usually semiformal. Most of the guys wear anything from nice pants and a sweater to sports coats and suits. The girls go all out (which gets a little out of hand) and buy or borrow tea-length dresses.

About the dinner issue, there are many choices available. Some do choose to go out to dinner afterward, but that is not a necessity. There may be parties thrown by your friends or you can organize one yourself. Have everyone bring munchies or videos.

We think it would be fun to try to have a formal type of party, in which case you could ask everyone to bring hors d'oeuvres to pass around. These could include finger sandwiches, pickles, olives and veggie trays.

Yes, it would be appropriate to buy her a corsage (and a boutonniere for the guys). But keep it simple and relatively inexpensive.

Have fun, but don't go broke. Homecoming is not supposed to be an extravagant event. One way to keep it simple is to top the evening off by going out for dessert. Most important -- Have fun! And keep it safe.

Friend to Friend is provided by a panel of Clarkston High School students working under AWARE, a community organization devoted to action and education against substance abuse. Letters may be addressed in care of The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main, Clarkston, MI 48016.

Wenchwork wows 'em

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

From her shop at the Michigan Renaissance Festival, the wench in medieval dress half sang, half spoke in a robust voice: "Hey, hey! The Wenchwork Shop is the place to be! We've got Jezebel and sweet Annie ..."

Back in the 20th century, Judy Hite, the American literature and English teacher, instructs students at Andover High School in the Bloomfield Hills School District. In her spare time, Judy Hite, the herbalist, makes "herbal and floral fantasies" and gourmet food products sold by her company, Wenchwork.

"Between my products and my love of literature, the Renaissance Festival is the perfect place for me," Judy says with a broad smile that seems to brighten the room as well as her face. "I think I was born in the wrong century. I should have been born in the 16th or 17th century."

Her house, at least, takes her back one century. Only a few steps from downtown Clarkston on Washington Street, the quaint, 150-year-old house provides her perfect haven. Rustic wooden beams furnish showcases for herb wreaths. Nooks and crannies and polished wooden floors lend themselves to her antiques.

A serene view of Parke Lake and the aging wooden barn that graces her back yard are framed in the sliding glass door of the dining room. The entire house as well as the barn and yard is fragrant with flowers and herbs. The third floor of the barn provides a drying room for her herbs, most of which grow in lush gardens throughout the yard.

When the last weekend of the Renaissance Festival has ended, she reacquaints herself with "heaven" -- that's what she calls the basement of her home. Baskets and dried herbs hang from the ceiling. Neatly stacked boxes of dried flowers for flower arrangements fill shelves along the walls. A wooden bowl on one workbench holds the beginnings of a batch of potpourri. Classical music from a radio drifts on the air.

"I was always interested in herbs," Judy says.

They play a major role in her pastime-turned-business, which all began when she made gifts for friends. "But eventually, they don't want any more herb vinegar -- ever!" she says, laughing.

About eight years ago, Judy visited the Michigan Renaissance Festival, fell in love with it and opened a shop -- the Wenchwork Shop -- in order to become a part of it.

At that time, she lived in Birmingham with her three children, two sons and a daughter who are now 24, 27 and 29. But Birmingham became a bustling city, and Judy looked for a quieter town.

"I put a pointer on the map where I worked and drew a circle 20 miles around it," she says. "I figured I wouldn't mind driving 20 miles to work."

Ironically, she had driven by Clarkston every year to go to the Renaissance Festival, but never stopped. When she finally did, she said it was like "coming home."

That was four years ago. She has lived in the village ever since. Once active in volunteer programs at Greenfield Village, teaching classes about herbs and tending gardens, she has given it up as her business grows.

Wenchwork was a generic name she gave the business because it encompassed all her herbal products. She makes flower arrangements, herbal wreaths, potpourri, herbal vinegars, mulling spices, hot mustard and the wonderful Jezebel sauce she hawks every year at the festival. It's a sweet sauce with just a hint of a kick, good for basting meats, dipping vegetables or just about anything in between, she says.

Judy was almost disappointed this year when she won the costume award instead of the "hawking award" she has earned for the past four or five years at the end of the festival run.

"Everyone knows that teachers have big mouths," she says, laughing again.

Wenchwork products didn't start showing up in stores until about a year ago, when Judy took some in to Fred Schwarze at Rudy's Market in Clarkston as a gift. He coaxed her into getting the licenses and approvals from the state to market the goods.

She rents the kitchen of Carol's Village Grill to package the products on Sunday afternoons. And now some of the delights of Wenchwork can be found on the shelves of Rudy's Market, at Carol's Main Street Deli, at stores in Fenton and Holly, and in at least a dozen other stores from Birmingham and Bloomfield Hills to Grosse Pointe Farms and Detroit.

Her products will also be featured in the 1990 edition of the Michigan Specialty Food Guide, "Our Best to You!" According to the editor of the guide, Sue Callaway, the products are very good and very well done.

Sitting at a wooden table in her dining room, her miniature sheepdog, Jeremiah, looking on with interest, Judy fashions an herb wreath of sweet Annie from a pungent pile of cuttings nearby.

"I'm really excited about being in the Specialty Food Guide," she says. As school and business keep her busy, she is looking for someone to do the marketing end of Wenchwork for her, saying, "I'm not the salesman type."

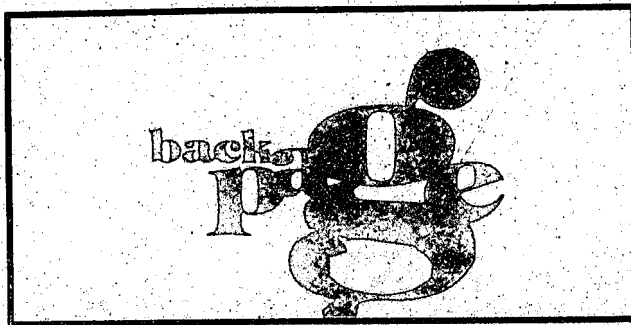

True. Judy Hite is more like the robust wench of the 16th or 17th century hawking Jezebel sauce, or the teacher of the 20th Century spreading her love of literature to high school students.

"There's a million things I'd like to do," she says, her zest for life ever present. "I'm a schoolteacher, but I'm going to be a lot of other things before I'm done."

In years past, as a member of the Birmingham Historical Society, she gave candle making demonstrations. "Anything, as long as it's colonial crafts," she says.

Somewhere in the future, she sees the prospect of a retail shop.

"I'm not a person to sit still," Judy says. "I firmly believe you retire from one job to get on with something else you want to do."

JUDY HITE of Clarkston, an English teacher and an herbalist, makes a wreath of sweet Annie for her business, Wenchwork. She also makes herbal sauces, vinegars, mulling spices, potpourri and other "herbal fantasies."

A WENCH OF THE 16TH CENTURY, alias Judy Hite of Clarkston, hawks her wares at the annual Michigan Renaissance Festival off Dixie Highway in Holly. The rest of the year, she sells some of her Wenchwork products at stores throughout metropolitan Detroit.
