The "incredible rock-like stability" of the United States economy in the last four years is likely to continue throughout 1989 and 1990, according to economist Dr. Lester Thurow.

But the United States could become a second-class economy unless steps are taken soon to reduce the budget deficits and become competitive worldwide, said Thurow, dean at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology's Sloan School of Management, during a lecture Oct. 5 at Oakland University, Rochester.

"We can't afford to have a recession, and that's precisely why we're not going to have a recession."

Lester Thurow

With a steady 3 to 4 percent inflation rate since 1985, the U.S. economy is a growth tunnel, where the Federal Reserve Board limits growth to 4 percent by raising the interest rates, Thurow said.

The U.S. growth of 4 percent, however, is twice as fast as the 2 percent annual growth in the rest of the world, and it can't go on forever, he said, although he predicts nothing drastic will happen in the near future.

"We can't afford to have a recession, and that's precisely why we're not going to have a recession," he said.

If a recession were to hit the economy in 1989 or 1990, similar to the 1981-1982 recession, the affects would be devastating, said Thurow.

U.S. banks would go bankrupt because of loans to Latin America; even now, 200 to 300 savings and loans go bankrupt a year; recently merged firms that are using every cent of profit to pay off debt would go bankrupt because of inability to make interest payments on loans.

Further, the government can't afford to fight inflation because high interest rates would risk a recession, he said.

The U.S. economy will remain steady as long as Japan and Germany and other nations continue to loan money to the U.S. to protect their trade surpluses here, (See ECONOMY, Page 4)

Visitors welcome

Kids who squeal with delight at the sight of fire trucks and adults interested in seeing the latest rescue equipment are invited.

In observation of national Fire Prevention Week, an open house at Independence Township Fire Station No. 2 is planned Saturday, Oct. 15, from noon to 3 p.m. The station is at the corner of Sashabaw and Clarkston roads.

Fire extinguisher demonstrations, videos, tours and refreshments will be offered during the open house.

Independence man claims he has AIDS

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A phone call from Kalamazoo may have saved the life of a 51-year-old Independence Township who said he has AIDS. The man reportedly took an overdose of pills Oct. 8 because of his affliction, according to a police report at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

The resident talked to his brother on the west side of the state around 3:30 p.m. Saturday and told him of his intentions. His brother called police in Kalamazoo, who notified the sheriff's department, according to the police report.

Around 3:54 p.m., sheriff's deputies and emergency medical technicians (EMT) from Independence Township rescued the man, who had swallowed two bottles of pills, and sent him Pontiac General Hospital, according to the report.

EMT Bob Pursley, who responded to the call, said that wasn't the first patient said to be suffering from the acquired immune deficiency syndrome the fire department has treated.

"He told us right away," said Pursley. "Usually, they tell you. I haven't heard of anyone, in Independence anyway, who ran (an emergency call) and found out later. ... That's my first real one I've dealt with directly, doing the treatment."

Extra caution must be used in treating AIDS victims, said Pursley.

"We make sure we take our precautions. We don't treat them any different, but we are a little more careful. ... We try not to get our face near them."

They wear rubber gloves and take care not to contact any bodily fluids, and after the run, they scrub with disinfectant soap, he said, adding that the same precautions are taken whenever bodily fluids are involved -- even in non-AIDS cases.

The emergency workers are protecting themselves from catching something and protecting patients from contracting anything the firefighters may be carrying, he said.

The prevalence AIDS is changing the health care world, said Pursley, after his rescue.

"It makes you think when you get back," he said. "I was talking to my wife about it. ... It does worry you. You wonder, 'Should I be doing this?' But they're humans, and you have to treat them just like anyone else. It's your job. ... It does scare you."

Parent questions football decisions

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Differences of opinion between parents and coaches have been around for eons.

But when Richard Oppmann came before the Clarkston Board of Education on Monday night, it was with a suggestion that rules had been violated and favoritism had been given.

Oppmann's son, Clarkston High School senior Scott Oppmann, was the backup quarterback to junior Dane Davis this football season. Then Davis was injured during the second game and was out for the season.

Football coach Kurt Richardson brought up freshman Dugan Fife for the starting quarterback position, and therein lies the crux of Oppmann's statement to the board.

"I don't intend to talk about player or coaching performance," Oppmann told the board. But he said he feels there was discrimination, that the freshman was given unfair advantage over the senior.

Clarkston Athletic Director Paul Tungate said after the meeting that he doesn't interfere with a coach's decision to decide who is qualified to play, and that he doesn't think there is a violation in this case.

The board listened quietly to Oppmann's statement. While they took no formal action, board President Janet Thomas said the wording in the rule book about the qualifications of ninth-graders playing varsity should be clarified.

The stage was set for the current disagreement when the state changed the rule this year to allow three-year high schools to use ninth-graders from other schools on the varsity team. Four-year high schools already had this ability.

Oppmann read the Clarkston rule book to mean a ninth-grader had to be "truly exceptional" at any level, and the administration interprets the meaning as exceptional at the ninth-grade level.

"We did have a lengthy discussion about this policy this fall," said board member Thomas Howard. "It was our understanding that the student would demonstrate outstanding ability and compete effectively with upper classmen."

Oppmann's son has been playing football, as a quarterback, since his freshman year. He played junior varsity in his sophomore year, and was third-string varsity quarterback last year. Oppmann said his son set five school records at Clarkston Junior High.

"He was never going to win any football scholarships," Oppmann said earlier, but his ability wasn't the point. He was a good, solid player who was just going to have a "satisfying time playing football in his senior year."

Oppmann's son started the third game of the season and Fife finished it. Oppmann said the coach told his son he would not be the starting quarterback. Oppmann also said his son didn't try out for other positions on the team at the beginning of the season because the coach told him he was "neck and neck" with Davis for the quarterback position.

Oppmann talked with CHS Principal Dr. Robert Burek, Tungate and Superintendent Gary Haner about the situation, but said he feels they "skirted the moral issue." His son resigned from the team after the third game.

Oppmann appeared before the board because he said the family decided it was the thing to do.

"How can we have a public school that doesn't support equal opportunity?" he said. "If even one person had come up to us and said we were wrong, we would have thought twice about pursuing this."

Tungate said after the meeting that he thought Scott Oppmann would have had an opportunity to play if he had not quit. "He's a good kid," Tungate said, but he stood by his feeling that there was no violation.

Haner said, "If something was so grievous that it warranted immediate dismissal (of the coach), it would happen." But this is not the case, he added. "All of Rich's concerns will be considered when the coach is reviewed at the end of the year."

No change is intended in regard to the coaching staff for this season, Haner said.

Fife's father, Dan, a former Clarkston athlete, University of Michigan basketball star, pro baseball player and current CHS basketball coach, had only this comment: "I feel (my son) has done well under the circumstances. It's a father's opinion, but I guess every parent is entitled to one."

QUADRIPLLEGIC'S MESSAGE:

'A car is a tool, not a toy'

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

As Clarkston High School students filled the auditorium for an assembly Oct. 5, conversations drifted from senior pictures to "Where are you going for dinner?" The noisy group hardly noticed when Jack Burnett was wheeled into the room and lifted onto the stage.

"I have to have everything done for me, all those little things you do for yourself in the morning like brushing your teeth and getting dressed, just because I had to prove myself one night in a car."

But it didn't take long before he had their complete attention.

Jack Burnett is a nationally recognized speaker, a quadriplegic who sustained his injuries during an auto accident in his senior year of high school. His goal, through straight talk and his own example, is to make students think twice about their driving habits.

Sponsored by the Michigan Association of Insurance Companies (MAIC) and the CHS group Students Against Driving Drunk (SADD), his program at CHS was part of MAIC's Fall Auto Safety Tour. During the two-week tour, Burnett will deliver his compelling message to high school students throughout eastern Michigan.

"This program is as much about facing life," Burnett told the students. "I'm going to show you an accident I had three weeks before graduation and 10 days before I turned 18."

To start things off, Burnett recreates all but the grinding finale of his drag racing accident 26 years ago through a slide presentation.

During the nearly one-hour program, the once noisy auditorium was unusually quiet. Students listened to every word.

ANNETTE CHARLES, a senior, talks to Jack Burnett after his program on auto safety. She was involved in a car accident on the first day of classes this fall.

He told them how his basketball scholarship, the senior prom, graduation and all his dreams were wiped out in a second.

"There is no reason for me to be in this wheelchair today except for my own stupidity," he said. "I'm paralyzed from the chest down. I've lost my legs."

"What I learned the hard way was that I didn't prove anything," he said. "I hope I can make you learn the easy way not to make the same mistake."

Burnett told the students that he wasn't looking for sympathy. He said he lives a good life now. He travels the entire country as a speaker, works on a computer and maintains an office, because he put his life back together and continued his education after the accident.

But there was a time, for one year after the accident, when he was told he wouldn't live. He said he really didn't want to, not if it meant living life in a wheelchair. He spent the next couple of years recuperating and rebuilding his life.

"You don't want to go through this," he said. "When you walk out of here, I want you to remember the wheelchair and avoid it at all costs. It means growing up a little. Have a good time, but get back safely."

He told them he "got away with it" for two years, but bad driving habits will eventually catch up with you. While there was no alcohol involved in his accident, he warned the students about drinking and driving. He warned them about speeding or "cheap thrills" like drag racing.

"A car is a tool, not a toy," he said. "It's your obligation and responsibility to do everything in your power to be a safe driver. Set good habits now and protect yourself and others around you."

"I had to change my attitude, and you have to change yours," he added. "When I ask you to drive safely, I'm not trying to take the fun away. I'm trying to make it safe so you can continue having it."

Students warmly applauded Burnett and asked him questions following his talk.

One student asked if Charlie, the friend who challenged him to the drag race 26 years ago, was injured. Burnett said no, not physically. But he had paid dearly for it mentally, agonizing over the guilt of causing his friend's paralyzing injuries.

Another asked if he was wearing a seat belt. Burnett said no, but he was certainly a living testimonial as to why you should wear one.

The highway patrol told him the car was in a controlled slide until the point where he could no longer hold onto the steering wheel. Had he been wearing a seat belt, he would have been able to stay behind the wheel and keep control. He might have wound up with a broken leg.

For some students in the audience, Burnett's message hit close to home. The impact on seniors Michelle and Marcy Spiece was illustrated by the tears in their eyes. The twins lost their father six years ago, two days before Christmas. He was the victim of a drunk driver.

Another senior, Annette Charles, went up to talk to Burnett after the program. She was involved in a car accident on the first day of school this year.

Charles summed up her reactions by saying, "His talk made me think I'm glad to be alive."

From accident victim to crusader

JACK BURNETT talked to the students about being responsible drivers.

In 1962, Jack Burnett was a senior in high school near Cincinnati, Ohio, with a scholarship to play basketball for a college in Kentucky.

One night just three weeks prior to graduation, after taking his date home, he ran into a friend named Charlie at a restaurant. Charlie bragged about his fast car and challenged Burnett to a drag race.

During the race, Burnett lost control of his car, a convertible. It slid 300 feet, flipped over several times and ended up on its top in a ditch. Burnett was left paralyzed from the chest down. He spent three and one-half years recuperating from the nearly fatal injuries sustained in the accident.

While in the hospital, Burnett watched a news report about two teenage boys involved in a fatal drag racing accident. He thought that if only he could have talked to those boys, he might have prevented the accident.

Burnett decided he could make a difference by talking to high school students about his experience.

He has been a public speaker since 1970 and has been sponsored by the Michigan Association of Insurance Companies since 1978 for a two-week auto safety tour of Michigan high schools.

He was also featured in a national advertising campaign to promote the use of seat belts, and received a commendation from former President Gerald Ford for his program.

Economy won't falter just yet, says economist

said Thurow, explaining that the U.S. economy works only with loans of $200 to $300 billion a year from the rest of the world. When the world decides not to loan the money, the economy will fall to recession.

But nobody knows how long the loans will last, he said, adding that the world is violating an important rule: Never loan money to anybody who has to borrow money to pay the interest.

"We're doing something in the U.S. that nobody has done in history," he said. "The wealthiest country in the world is the world's biggest borrower."

Currently, foreign loans are financing the U.S.

standard of living. With 10 percent interest, the U.S. will owe the rest of the world $500 billion, he said.

To retire the debt starting next year, Americans would lose 8 percent of their standard of living (compared to the 28 percent loss during the Great Depression). Plus the president elected this fall would not be re-elected, he said.

"Bush and Dukakis will probably bet lending will continue because to not bet lending will continue is just too painful," said Thurow.

To stop the borrowing, 2 percent of the money from capital markets must be returned; the federal budget must be balanced so borrowing won't be necessary; and Americans must be forced to save money.

To balance the budget, options include: raising taxes, lowering government spending and lowering public consumption, all of which would be the "statesman-like" thing to do as a president, whether a Democrat or a Republican, he said.

And it should be done as quickly as possible -- in January or February of 1989. That way, people would have time to forget it by the 1992 election, and the new president could blame some of the hardships on the former administration, he said.

But chances are slim that his advice will be taken. As an example, he cited Dukakis' first term as governor in Massachusetts, when he inherited a debt. He raised taxes, cut spending and balanced the budget -- and was defeated in the next election.

He learned a political lesson and probably will not make that mistake again, said Thurow.

The U.S. must once again become competitive in international trade, although the recent disasters have made it difficult, he said.

For instance, Latin America, the United States' best customer, went broke, causing a loss of $30 billion worth of exports to that region.

U.S. farmers suffered setbacks when, after help from the U.S., nations such as India, China, Pakistan and Bangladesh began feeding themselves. Plus, Europeans are now exporting grain instead of importing from the U.S.

Oil prices dropped so that 40 percent of the oil consumed in the U.S. is imported instead of produced in this country.

In 1992 when the European Common Market begins, the U.S. will also lose its status as the largest market in the world.

The status of the U.S. in the 1950s and 1960s has changed: Other nations have superior capital, superior technology, more widespread education.

"You've got this competitive world out there that Americans are going to have to face. ... The U.S. had never had a powerful counter-culture before."

Lester Thurow spoke at Oakland University's Shotwell-Gustafson Pavilion, Rochester, before about 600 business people at the Third Annual Business Forum.

ECONOMIST LESTER THUROW would advise the next president to begin reducing the foreign debt immediately.

sponsored by the OU School of Business Administration Student Board and Ameritech Publishing.

Staff economist for former President Lyndon B. Johnson's Council of Economic Advisers, Thurow has advised several Democratic presidential candidates on issues of public policy. He is the author of "The Zero Sum Society" and "The Zero Sum Solution."

Q&A session

After forecasting economic stability for the near future, economist Dr. Lester Thurow fielded questions from his about 600 listeners. Following is a capsule of his replies:

ON THE U.S. TRADE BILL: It was a "scream of pain" to do something, although it won't have much affect on the U.S. economy and is full of loopholes and exemptions.

ON CONGRESS: "I don't think the problem is Congress. ... The American system is not one where Congress can take leadership.

"We have met the enemy and he is US -- U.S.A. We don't want to do anything. ... We have a democratic country. If we want something done, it gets done. ... We're being ostriches, and we're pretending the rest of the world isn't there."

U.S. citizens need to change their ways of thinking and to save more -- that means consuming less, he said.

ON THE NATIONAL DEBT: By not addressing the issue now, Americans are only choosing to postpone the inevitable. Either Americans can consume less now and repay the debt or repay the debt later and consume less at that time.

ON NATIONAL HEALTH CARE: It's on its way. Currently, 12 percent of the gross national product is spent on health care, and the figure is rising. Forty percent of the money in health care is spent on people in the six months before they die. The rest of the world spends less and has a longer life expectancy.

"It's not because people want national health care but because people in business in private health insurance want out," he said.

Since the elderly make up the fastest growing segment of the population and with the rising occurrence of AIDS, private insurance carriers will be even more willing to leave.

International trade is also affected by the rising health care costs. Private U.S. companies must include the costs in their product prices, but foreigners don't include the cost because people pay for health care through taxes.

ON THE CANDIDATES: "I don't think there's anything wrong with either Bush or Dukakis. Bush and Dukakis are both talented human beings. The problem is the problems, not the candidates."

Too close to shore? Planners seek opinions

Residents who plan to build next to water in Independence Township may want to show up at a public hearing.

New 50-foot setbacks from bodies of water, 100 feet for septic tanks, are proposed by the planning commission, and commissioners want opinions from residents at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 27, in the Township Hall annex, 90 N. Main St., Clarkston.

The ordinance change would affect odd-shaped lots the most, said township planning consultant Richard Carlisle during a September discussion.

The current ordinance requires homes to be set back at least 25 feet from the rear property line, but sideyards only have to be set back 10 feet, he said, and a house with a lake, pond or stream at the side can now be built too close to the water.

"The closer you get to the water's edge, the potential is there for more building problems," he said. "We're looking at more than just public health and safety concerns.... We have some aesthetic and economic concerns here, too."

The Deer Lake Study Committee, comprised of township officials and lake property owners, recommended the new setbacks, said Carlisle.

If the ordinance change became law, exceptions would only be granted through the township zoning board of appeals.

Stolen golf cart found

One of two golf carts stolen from Spring Lake Country Club in Independence Township on Thursday, Oct. 13, was found the next day in Depot Park in the Village of Clarkston.

An early morning walker spotted the cart, said Dan Fife, an owner of the country club on Maybee Road, and he's hoping the other will be sighted and retrieved as well.

Thieves have taken carts, each worth about $2,500, from the club four times in the last month, Fife said. Steps have been taken to strengthen security including, most recently, the addition of chains.

Taste treat

Kathy Greenfield

I could see it in my mind's eye. Cassie with her glorious eyes looking at a stalk of celery filled with peanut butter and topped with raisins.

The goal was to take a photograph to illustrate the story on healthy snacks for children in this week's Clarkston News.

Cassie, who will be 3 years old on New Year's Eve, lives next door. When we first met, she was still a baby, still crawling and not yet talking. I can remember those first shaky steps and the months she spent as a tumbling toddler.

Now she's sure of herself, states her opinions clearly, and has kept her wonderful red hair and Betty Davis eyes.

I knew that Cassie's older sister Elizabeth is fond of peanut butter and celery, and brushed aside my fleeting doubts that maybe, just maybe, Cassie wouldn't share her sister's tastes.

I called Cassie's mom, asked if I could take the photo. We agreed that she would call me when Cassie woke up from her nap.

When the phone call came, I was in the midst of preparing dinner. After a conversation that included something like this, "Is that Cassie I can hear crying in the background?" we agreed on a time sandwiched in between what we both were doing in the next hour or so.

Since Cassie has reacted in the past with sparkling smiles to my husband, I asked if he'd like to go along. When you try to take a photo that's not candid, it's not a bad idea to have some help.

So off we marched down the sidewalk, camera loaded, flash turned on, plate of healthy snacks in hand. Ready.

We burst into their home before dinner was finished, so Cassie's plate was whisked away and replaced with the enticing snack. The crowd watching all this jumped into action.

"Come on Cassie, smile."

"Don't you want to try it?"

"Look at Kathy."

Said Cassie, "I don't like raisins. I don't like peanut butter."

"You don't have to eat it."

"Tell you what, Cassie, why don't you just take off the raisins?"

Cassie, bless her heart, cooperated as best she could. Coping with blasts of the flash, she furrowed her brow. She looked in awe at the way everyone was acting. She did, indeed, take off some raisins, and she even tasted a bit of the peanut butter.

It was so funny that the adults in the room couldn't help laughing.

Cassie's mom apologized, but it was OK. After taking virtually thousands of photographs of children over the years, I know that all you can ever really expect is the unexpected.

I also knew, however, that with a model like Cassie I couldn't go wrong. There was, indeed, a cute photo from the session to use with the story. I thought it would be fun to share a couple of the others that capture her reactions to the uproar.

Cassie's behavior, I thought, fit the occasion to a T. And just in case you're wondering if she has some aversion to healthy snacks, her mom told me that if I'd spread peanut butter on apple slices all would have gone well.

Also, since I had a whole plate of celery, peanut butter and raisins to take home, I decided to try some myself. Good grief, I liked it.

Cassie's reaction to the photo session could probably be best described as disbelief. Adults, you know, do the darnedest things.

Jim's Jottings

Though cynics often greet me with a comment like: "Did you just get back from another vacation?", I don't feel I travel much. I just write about it a lot.

If I were a real traveler I wouldn't have waited 62 years to go see the rocky coast of Maine. That's one of the few places I have longed to see for a long time. There's something about windswept waves hitting rocks that soothes my inner being.

Hazel and I took the last week of September for color touring Vermont and New Hampshire and seeing the coastline of Maine. We spent the first Maine night at the tip of a finger of land jutting into the Atlantic.

It was dark when we checked in, but we could hear the rolling water. I was up shortly after sunrise to get the full benefit of the early rays shining through the splashing waves.

What I saw was 50 feet of beach, three miles long. The only rock was in my head.

Unlike driving along the west coast, the ocean is seldom seen driving down the fingers of land reaching out from the mainland. In fact, the drive is boring. The only leaf color along the coast is green.

The lobster is good, however, and cheap. Speaking of lobster eating, that brings me to another reason I shouldn't have waited so long to go. Shell fish, lobster, crab, oysters, etc., are among the foods with the highest cholesterol reading.

My ex-doctor suggested I reduce my cholesterol intake. All doctors who suggest I change my lifestyle are my ex-doctors.

Another thing about the rocky coast of Maine... the tide is always out.

We studied the tide tables in the brochures, we talked to residents and we watched the water. The tables say high and low tides come twice each day, raising (or lowering) levels six feet. Rocks, decayed wharfs, and sandy shores appeared the same to me whenever I looked.

Which, for you cynics, was more often than once every 12 hours.

One more observation, then I'll quit for a while. No more trips are planned soon... unless I go to San Antonio for a convention this month.

All roads in Canada and the states we traveled are under re-construction. So are the bridges.

That's Gumperson's law: Whatever road you travel has a detour... every year.

And, all the orange clad stop sign holders have a cigaret in their mouth and a I-got-you look in their eyes. Also, wherever there are signs saying "left lane closed one mile ahead" some clown will stick the corner of his car in front of yours one foot from the end of the closed lane.

Age brings acceptance of this act, unless you drive in the center to block passing. Age brings cunning, too.

Letters to the Editor

No. 1 in recreation

I am shocked to read that the library one-half mill request is considered the least important item on the local ballot.

What does it say about our community when elected officials regard reading, i.e. education, unimportant? Indeed the library provides education for our lifetimes.

Where else can you find, without charge, information to build your house, patio, garden, repair your car and appliances, obtain counseling on marriage and child rearing, research investment strategies and job market. The list is infinite.

The parks and recreation department of a neighboring community was amazed to learn that 95 percent of their survey respondents voted the public library their number 1 recreation resource. Significantly, the library was a write-in candidate.

For children the public library provides (without charge) assistance with schoolwork, enrichment programs, e.g. storytelling, puppetry, craft and magic programs. For all ages the library is a resource in music, art, creative writing, literature and politics.

We already have fine parks and the recreation department is the recipient of our largess. We can put a hold on parks. Our library needs both space and dollars. It is our most important resource. Only the public library is open nights, weekends and during school holidays.

According to the State of Michigan, Independence Township spends 8.41 per capita for library service. By contrast, Orion with a similar population and opening a new library in December spends 13.68 per capita while Rochester spends 20.45. Can you name any other institution that will provide information and recreation for a lifetime at 8.41 a year?

To better serve our community the library deserves adequate space and funding. Give the library your vote of confidence. Vote yes for the library bond issue.

Irene Sloan Rauth

Addition needed

There is an issue on the ballot that my family feels very strongly about. We support the funding for the library addition.

It is necessary in order to have a library in Independence Township that will service our community adequately.

The present staff has done an amazing job with the limited facilities and resources. I am most impressed by their reaching out to the youth of this community.

We have a library staff that deserves our support and we have a community that deserves a library that will be a recreational and educational reading center.

I encourage this community to build the library now that will take us into the next century at prices that are still of this century.

Jim and Sher Butzine

The Roads We Travel

Gravel facts

Brent Bair

Many of the residents of the township and perhaps a few of the village live on gravel roads. Complaints regarding the condition of the gravel roads are common.

So how many miles of gravel roads exist in the township?

There are 1.98 miles of gravel county primary roads (Clintonville), 40.26 miles of gravel county local roads (for instance, Pine Knob, Oak Hill, Allen and Holcomb) and 12.11 miles of gravel subdivision streets, for a total of 54.35 miles of gravel public roads in the township.

Note that this does not include private gravel roads or gravel roads in the village. That data was not readily available.

The maintenance of the gravel roads is what concerns most of the people who have to use them. The Oakland County Road Commission budgeted last year for grading 17 times on primary gravel roads and 15 times on local and subdivision roads.

Next year the budget calls for 20 and 15 respectively, because they do attempt to grade "as needed." They actually graded 20 times on primary roads this year and decided they might as well budget for it next year.

Many residents would complain, "That's not enough!" So why isn't it? I suggest three general reasons: weather, increasing traffic volumes and resident expectations. A lot of rain or even an extreme dry spell can affect the ability to maintain gravel roads.

Also, as more people move to areas served by those roads and traffic volumes grow, the roads deteriorate faster after each grading.

Finally, many of the people who move to the rural areas come from cities where they lived on paved streets. They like the aesthetics of the rural area and gravel roads but expect the gravel roads to remain as smooth as the paved streets they were used to. Sorry folks, you cannot always have your cake and eat it too.

In the summer chloriding can help keep dust down and the road surface in smoother condition for a longer period.

This year four chloride applications were made (following grading) on those roads where property owners were willing to pay for it. The cost was 30 cents per foot, with the citizens picking up half the cost and the township the other half.

In my next column I'll discuss how you can get your gravel road paved.

Brent Bair is chairman of the Independence Township Planning Commission.

'If it Fitz ...'

Stroke of luck

Jim Fitzgerald

"They're back."

It was Sheldon Labret on the phone. He runs Zeidman's Loan Office on Gratiot. The sign on the front says, "Michigan's Largest Pawn Broker." Labret could put up another sign saying, "Welcome Back, Jim Fitzgerald's Golf Clubs."

That's right. The clubs that were stolen in April, along with my Olds, were stolen again in September, along with my newer Olds, and both times the clubs ended up at Zeidman's.

You may wonder why I keep storing my golf clubs in my car trunk. Because I want to get my name in the "Guinness Book of World Records," that's why. Is there a category for "Owner of Golf Clubs Most Often Stolen and Sold at Same Pawn Shop"? If not, I could always enter the "Most Stupid Owner of Golf Clubs" category.

Labret's latest call came last Wednesday, three weeks after my last remaining car disappeared. I wondered what he'd been waiting for. When the first Olds was swiped, he'd phoned the next morning. In fact, I didn't suspect the car was missing until Labret said he had the clubs from the trunk.

Labret apologized for the delay. He'd been on vacation and hadn't noticed my clubs until Sept. 26, although one of his clerks purchased them Sept. 7, the day after the theft. I said I'd forgive him if he promised to call quicker the next time my clubs came back.

Colorful bag has a history

At the risk of sounding egotistic, I should admit my golf clubs are fairly easy to identify because my name is written in huge script all across one side of the bag. It wasn't my idea. As it also says on the bag, I played in the 1975 Tony Lema Memorial Tournament on Marco Island in Florida. The sponsor, Deltona Corp., gave everyone in the tournament a bag with his name on it.

This was one of those "celebrity studded" events - while trailing an errand drive into the wrong fairway, I was almost hit by a ball clubbed by Jackie Gleason. Jack Parr and Joe Dimaggio also were there. And I've always treasured that colorful bag as a fond reminder that the only reason I was allowed to play in such famous company was that I was an old friend of a Deltona public relations man and I knew something shady about his past.

It should also be recalled that my clubs were won in a country club raffle so many years ago that the name of the then-famous golf pro on them is Gay Brewer. Today he would surely change his first name to Happy.

So you can see I've made a huge financial investment in my golf game. The truth is I play so badly I would have quit years ago if the clubs and bag hadn't been free. And I'd quit now if Michigan's Largest Pawn Broker would only stop reuniting me with the stupid tools of my double-bogey misery.

Someone wants part of fame

Zeidman's paid $10 for my bag of clubs both times, but there was one sign of appreciation between April and September. The first purchase included a golf cart stolen along with the clubs. The cart was also swiped the second time, but wasn't included in the second transaction at Zeidman's. I like to think my clubs increased in value because someone out there realizes they are on their way to the "Guinness Book of World Records."

My wife likes to think something different, because it was her cart.

The law requires the seller to supply the pawn shop with his or her name, address, right thumb print and personal ID. After the first car theft, I was naive enough to think this information might lead police to the thief. But all it did was lead them to a man who said he bought my property for $5 from "some guy named Larry," last name and address unknown. End of investigation. Am I dumb enough to think that, in this shoot-'em-up city, police have time to fingerprint recovered stolen cars?

However, if any police officer is interested, I can furnish all the pertinent information about the latest fellow to sell my property to Zeidman's, including something fascinating - but unprintable here - about his personal identification.

Isn't this fun?

More Letters

State of Michigan, the Springfield Township Board and residents.

The Springfield Township Planning Commission with Gorka as chairman established Environmental Protection and Review Standards that have won state planning awards and are still being used by townships throughout Michigan as a model for proper planning.

Zoning has been revised in our township to control rate and type of growth, to protect our natural resources including areas that are environmentally sensitive, and preserve the rural character many of us hold dear and hope our children and theirs will enjoy.

Gorka fought to keep the Girl Scout property from becoming zoned for multi-family dwellings.

Gorka helped defeat the proposal to convert beautiful property on Dixie Highway into a gravel pit.

Gorka met with county officials, State Legislature, Department of Natural Resources, health departments and the United States Environmental Protection Agency to get toxic waste dump sites cleaned up.

Gorka worked with Supervisor Collin Walls to expand services from the Oakland County Sheriff's Department for more protection for our township.

Gorka worked with his wife, Laurel, to get the Springfield Township Parks and Recreation Youth Group off the ground. This led to the parks and recreation department as we know it today.

Gorka is a member of Springfield Township Economic Development Committee, which is instrumental in improving the appearance and safety of Dixie Highway, helping local businesses expand and attracting new businesses to our township.

As for qualifications, Gorka's bachelor's degree from Michigan State University in financial administration and successfully management of budgets ranging as high as $22 million per year for large industrial corporations certainly speak for themselves.

His business experiences include serving as chief operating officer for a company with responsibility of more than a $15 million annual budget and 100 employees.

Services his company, Gorka & Associates Ltd., provide include identifying trends and planning for the future in business, cost effective management, setting policy for investment, and corporate development and consulting on investments. These items are all necessary for continuing positive township advancement.

Since Springfield Township will continue in a growth phase, the cost and size of government must be kept under control.

Gorka can help to do this and he can be instrumental in increasing revenue through sound and safe investment policies.

Gorka has worked for Springfield Township residents, has the qualifications for the job, not a small one by any means, and wants to be our treasurer.

Please vote for Joe Gorka on Nov. 8. Springfield Township's budget is $6 million and his expertise can only enhance the present township board.

Quality time spot

The reasons for the approval of a bond issue covering the expansion of our library sounds dull, doesn't it?

The recent shattering disclosures of the decline of moral values pays no attention to the affluence of a home or the depth of parental concerns, however, and it is a fact that young professional mothers and fathers now actively search for a home environment that can provide the best "quality time" for their children.

They want a community oriented toward the concept of good education as a prime requisite.

Make no mistake -- for serious mothers and fathers, it is nothing less than an almost desperate fight.

Organized crime's cold and deliberate manufacturing and distribution of crack is only one of the shocks that frightens us all. Don't think there aren't more coming.

Please try and remember that children who want to go to the library (please Mom, can we?) are taking the first steps that, throughout the world, successful and self-disciplined people have taken!

And it wouldn't hurt, chum, if you remember that in the eyes of worried parents your property becomes much more desirable in terms of dollars and cents if your community has an attitude exemplified by a library comparable to adjacent townships.

Remember, library yes!

Independence accepts most rollbacks

No one in the audience spoke during the Oct. 4 public hearing about tax rates in Independence Township, and the rates for 1988 were set with little comment from the board.

The total township millage rate is 6.9795 mills (down from 7.0074 mills levied in 1987), which will generate about $2.419 million in a year.

One mill is $1 for every $1,000 in assessed property valuation.

Under the Headlee Amendment, millage rates are automatically rolled back each year the state equalized value of property increases at a higher rate than the rate of inflation. New construction is not included in the formula.

Only the general fund rate was increased from a rolled-back rate of 1.2366 mills to 1.3068 mills, which will generate $461,600, or $24,795 more than would be generated without the increase.

The general fund provides money for township operations in assessing, building, parks and recreation, library and the offices of the full-time elected officials, the clerk, treasurer and supervisor.

All other millage rates were set at the rolled-back level.

For the fire fund, approved by voters in August, a full 3 mills will be levied, generating $1,059,700.

For the police fund, the rate was set at 2.342 mills, for $750,400 in revenue.

One board member objected to rolling back the safety path fund rate to .4385 mills, which will generate $147,300.

After the meeting, Trustee Carol Balzarini, whose husband, Don, serves on the township safety path committee, said the safety path fund should be increased to the maximum level allowed by law.

"I want the safety path millage to be as much as it can be," she said. "I don't want to see it get shorted. There's so much to be done."

Although the safety path millage rate of one-half mill was approved by voters in August, the full amount won't be levied until next year when the current millage expires.

Committee compiles ideas for school betterment

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

In a town meeting type atmosphere, a committee on excellence gathered to discuss concerns and ideas about Clarkston schools.

By the time they adjourned from the third and final meeting on Oct. 3, the core group of about 75 people had compiled a list of priorities for the school board to consider, with reduction of overcrowded classrooms at the top of the list.

"I was personally pleased with the number of people who came out and the level of interest and willingness to stick with it," said Superintendent Gary Haner, who spearheaded the committee.

He said he has used the committee on excellence format in other school districts as well, and it has always been successful.

During the first meeting on Sept. 19, a list of 94 suggestions was compiled by the group. During the second meeting on Sept. 26, each person made a list of what he or she deemed to be the top 10 priorities from the 94 suggestions. A composite list was compiled.

Results were also tallied using group associations: board of education members, teachers, administrators, support staff, and parents and other interested residents of the school district.

Different groups placed different emphasis on the priorities. For instance, members of the board of education put improving and expanding all counseling services at the top of their list. Teachers and parents put reducing overcrowded classrooms at the top of theirs.

Administrators' top suggestion was establishing and implementing a long-range facilities plan. Support staff wanted to see a return to the seven-period day in the high school as top priority.

When all the "scores" were in, the composite list of top 10 priorities looked like this:

1. Reduce overcrowded classrooms (where this problem still exists, such as at the fourth and fifth grade levels).

2. Establish and implement a long-range facilities plan.

3. Construct a new high school.

4. Implement a genuine middle school philosophy and approach.

5. Improve and expand all counseling services.

6. Update and expand all libraries.

7. Meet or exceed all North Central Accreditation standards (at the high school).

8. Provide more staff development to improve employee effectiveness.

9. Balance our curriculum to meet the needs of all students.

10. Add more "thinking skills" to district curriculum.

Haner said the list will be part of discussions and goal considerations when the board convenes for an administrative retreat on Oct. 17.

On Nov. 7, the board will formally approve about half a dozen goals for this school year, which will then be translated into administrative objectives. These goals, Haner said, will not necessarily be limited to those on the committee's list.

But the list compiled by the grass-roots committee will definitely help with goal setting.

"The real measure of (the committee's) success comes in our subsequent ability to convert this into board goals and attain them," Haner said.

Township pays for Thendara repairs

A few truckloads of gravel brought smiles to some faces on Tiohero -- a private road in Thendara Park, Independence Township.

After severe rains washed roads out so much that utility lines were exposed and cars couldn't pass on the roads, Supervisor Frank Ronk decided to step in and fill the trenches.

"I'm sure the people who live and drive on that road are tickled to death," said Ronk.

"The problem with that is they're private roads, and there's no help with private roads," he said. "We did it, and it's better."

Ronk said residents on other roads may appeal for help, but they shouldn't expect the township to engineer.

Residents on private roads are responsible for all road maintenance, he said. Thendara, in the northeast corner of the township, was an extreme case.

"It was impassable for emergency vehicles," he said, adding that the township would absorb the about $2,000 cost of the repairs.

Road paving in the subdivision and conversion to public road status is scheduled for spring.

Ray Barker, who lives in Thendara, expressed gratitude for the repairs.

"It's much better," he said. "I don't know how long it's going to last, but you can drive up and down the road now where you couldn't before."

Car flips on M-15

Two men who were not wearing seat belts were injured in a rollover accident about 4:27 p.m. Oct. 8 on M-15 south of Oakhill Road, Independence Township.

The passenger in the car, Charles R. Richmond, 38, of Pontiac was in improved condition Monday at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital.

The driver, Donald Robert Davis, 18, of Auburn Hills was discharged Monday from St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

Davis was driving north on M-15 south of Oakhill when he attempted to go around a vehicle turning into a restaurant, according to the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

The vehicle left the roadway and flipped several times, according to the report, which also cited that Davis was ticketed for driving under the influence of liquor.

Winter prep

BY KATHY GREENFIELD
Clarkston News Editor

Staff and pupils at Pine Knob Elementary could see, hear and smell the results of the $5.2 million bond issue approved by school district voters in June.

And for Pine Knob Principal George White, the school building's roof replacement provided an educational experience.

Last week, the job at Pine Knob was finished after three weeks of moving five or six classrooms a day and staying out of hallways under the portions of the building where roofers were at work to avoid the possibility of falling ceiling tiles. Classes met in the library, the multi-purpose room and hallways when necessary.

On the project's final day while standing on the roof, White shared his knowledge about the process of reroofing a flat building -- the layers of insulation, tar, tar paper and gravel sealed in place to stop leaks and improve energy efficiency.

The 30-year-old roof on Pine Knob Elementary was leaking so badly that one classroom was closed due to soaked carpeting that mildewed. The carpeting was also replaced, and the class that had been meeting in the music room all year now has a permanent home.

White praised his staff's patience and the crew's work. "We've been very fortunate. This has been an excellent construction crew and they've done an excellent job," he said.

He also expressed delight over the completion of the job. "I'm wearing a grin from ear to ear today," he said.

Pine Knob Elementary is one of four schools in the district undergoing roof work this fall. At Pine Knob, the entire roof was replaced; about 90 percent of the roof at Sashabaw Junior High will be replaced; and about 50 percent of the roofs at North Sashabaw and Bailey Lake elementarys will be replaced.

"These were the roofs in the worst condition of all roofs in the district. We had to get at this (project) this fall because we had so many problems last winter," said Conrad Bruce, administrative assistant in charge of overseeing the $574,252 project by All Roofing Co. of Warren.

Money for the repairs comes from the $5.2 million bond issue for repairs and renovations approved by school district voters in June. Roof repairs on other buildings and renovation projects inside the buildings are being planned for next summer, Bruce said.

UP ON THE ROOF: As a dozen workers complete the variety of roof replacement tasks at Pine Knob Elementary, Jerry Hudak mans a 100-pound mop dipped in 400-degree tar.

Junior high football Cougars 21, Crary 20

Oct. 5 -- Visiting Sashabaw raced out to a 21-0 halftime advantage only to see Crary make a game of it in the second half.

A failed two-point conversion with 15 seconds to play preserved the win for the Cougars, now 3-2-1.

Jon Wyniemko snuck over from 1 yard out for Sashabaw's first score. The try for the extra point failed and the visitors led, 6-0.

Shawn Flanigan scored on a 9-yard run and Dan Lamroux booted the extra-point attempt for a 13-0 Cougars' lead later in the first half.

A 23-yard pass from Wyniemko to Brian Davis capped the scoring for Sashabaw. Wyniemko passed to Jeremy Burke for the successful two-point conversion after the TD completion.

Offensive leaders for the victors were Wyniemko (7-of-15 passing for 87 yards) and Davis (100 yards rushing), said Coach Mike Stefanski.

"It wasn't pretty, but we'll take it," the coach said. "We dominated the first half."

Crary didn't get on the scoreboard until the fourth quarter, when it managed to get three touchdowns.

The victory ups Sashabaw's record to 3-2-1.

Wolverines 48, Brandon 0

Oct. 5 -- Clarkston doubled its win total of a year ago by crushing Brandon at home.

Luke Fedio paced the victors with two touchdowns. Dave Smith, Dan Griffiths and Don Pryor all notched one apiece. Griffiths ran in all the two-point conversions for Clarkston.

Pryor scored his touchdown after intercepting a Brandon pass.

Clarkston, now 4-1-1, hits the tough part of its schedule facing Pierce, Lake Orion and Sashabaw.

Clarkston High Junior Varsity Wolves 14, Pontiac Northern 12

Oct. 6 -- Mike Stanton's interception in the end zone late in the fourth quarter preserved the win for the visiting Wolves.

Chad Hetherington tipped the pass into Stanton's arms to thwart Northern's final offensive threat.

Coach John Craven was glad his club escaped with a victory since the Huskies dominated most of the way.

"We were caught flat," he said. "We were very lucky (to win) but then you need luck once in a while."

Joel Davis set up the first Clarkston score when he galloped 63 yards down to the Northern 4-yard line. From there, Jerrod Johnson took over and scored the touchdown. David Marks connected on the point-after attempt and the Wolves led, 7-0.

Northern reached the end zone next but couldn't convert the extra-point attempt and trailed, 7-6, in the second quarter. The Huskies then broke a big play with 15 seconds to go in the half, running for a 65-yard touchdown. Once again, they failed to at the extra-point attempt. The hosts went into the locker room at halftime up 12-7.

Johnson ran the ball well in the second half and scored the game-winning touchdown off an 11-yard run. Marks kicked the successful extra-point attempt.

Cut off at the pass

COACH RON FORBES is encouraged with the play of the junior varsity soccer team, even after a tough loss against Bloomfield Andover Monday evening. Jay Tudor, pictured, was one of several players who stood out in the game, the coach said. Others were Scott Tudor, Brian Ludwig, Jeremy Johns and Andy Deloney.

Basketball

Junior high basketball

Wolverines 25, Avondale 24 (OT)

Oct. 4 -- Clarkston snapped a 6-game losing streak with a thrilling victory against Avondale at home.

Traci Groner scored 13 points to pace the victors. Coach Kay Pierson was encouraged with what she saw.

"It was very exciting," she said. "They have shown tremendous improvement from the start of the season."

Clarkston High Junior Varsity

Wolves 41, Brandon 17

Oct. 4 -- Lauren Caston notched 15 points to lead visiting Clarkston over Brandon.

Carrie Roeser added 10 points and made a team-high 11 steals as the Wolves won their third straight game.

Wolves 44, Pontiac Northern 30

Oct. 6 -- Once again Caston was the leading scorer for the Wolves. She tossed in 13 points. Roeser paced the team in steals with 11.

With the win, the Wolves up their record to 8-2.

Golf

Clarkston High Varsity

Wolves 170, Waterford Kettering 175

Oct. 4 -- Clarkston kept a tight grip on first place in the Greater Oakland Activities League when it beat rival Kettering at Spring Lake Country Club.

Eric Brockman paced the Wolves by shooting a 41. Rob Wilson was next at 42. Brad Gaulin (43) and Dan Scribner (44) were close behind.

James Greig's 43 was Kettering's top score.

The win ups the Wolves' record to 7-2 in the GOAL and 9-3 overall.

Big finish

Rieman wins singles title during league tennis meet, team ends season in 3rd

Only powerful Lake Orion and Waterford Mott were able to top the girls varsity tennis team during the annual league meet.

Despite fielding a young squad, the Clarkston-troop managed to finish tied for second at the Greater Oakland Activities League tournament, propelling them to a third-place standing in the league overall.

"Considering we had an inexperienced team, we did a good job," said Coach Dick Swartout.

Katie Rieman pulled off an upset at No. 4 singles when she defeated the No. 1 seed from Lake Orion and topped Sue Rosin from Waterford Mott, 6-1, 6-2, in the finals to claim a singles championship for the Wolves.

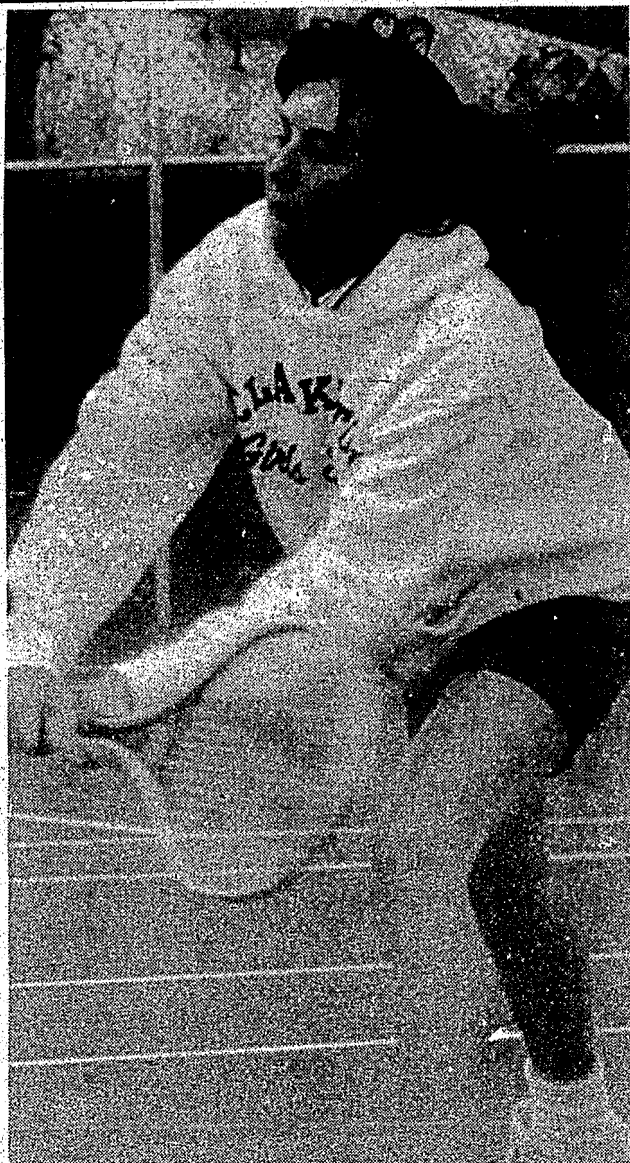

Others who played well include the first doubles team of Debbie Bellows and Kelly Jones and the third doubles team of Nancy Carosella and Heather Shaw. Both finished as runners-up to Lake Orion competitors.

Kim K. Morris and Caroline Allison from Clarkston were tabbed for the All-League team.

In the team standings, Lake Orion was first with 38 points. Waterford Mott and Clarkston tied for second with 28 points. Brandon (23), Waterford Kettering (13) and Pontiac Northern (10) brought up the rear.

In girls tennis, a team's dual meet record and finish in the league meet determine where it finishes in the final league standings.

Clarkston's dual meet record was 5-5. It finished in third place overall, behind Lake Orion and Waterford Mott. The Wolves were 0-4 in head-to-head competition against the top teams.

KATHY KRIER reaches out to poke the ball back over the net during the GOAL meet at Waterford Mott on Friday.

Soccer team doesn't lose its spirit

Players call own practice

Even though the varsity soccer team lost twice last week, Coach Neil Granlund was impressed with what he saw.

Two weeks ago, visiting Brandon blew Clarkston away during a 6-2 thumping. It was a different story Oct. 6 when the Wolves visited the Blackhawks Oct. 6 in Ortonville.

Clarkston nearly upset the highly-rated Brandon before falling 2-1 in the final minute of play.

"It was a well played game," said Granlund. "An excellent match. Brandon was lucky to come out with that one."

B.J. Deloney netted the only goal for the visitors off an assist from Ryan Forbes early in the second half to tie score at 1-1. Offensively, the Wolves had many good chances.

"We moved the ball well," the coach said. "Nice short passes. The kids felt very well after the game."

Despite the disappointing loss, the team wasn't depressed after the game, the coach said. In fact, the players voted to practice the following day, even though the team traditionally has taken homecoming night off.

Earlier in the week, Clarkston lost against GOAL foe Waterford Kettering 3-0 on the road. Cold weather, combined with a flat performance hurt the Wolves, the coach said.

With four games left in the season, Clarkston is preparing for district play. The draw was conducted in Milford Oct. 11, results will be published in next week's Clarkston News.

Getting his kicks

JAY TUDOR moves the ball upfield against Brandon during a junior varsity soccer game Oct. 6. Clarkston had a rough time against the host Blackhawks and lost the contest. The team rebounded with a strong effort against Bloomfield Andover Monday evening, but their opponents won anyway, 4-2, despite goals by Devin DuPree and Jeremy Deloney.

Pride keeps Wolves alive in second half during loss to Pontiac Northern

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Inspired by the seniors, the varsity football team refused to relinquish its pride despite a lopsided loss to Pontiac Northern Friday night.

Two long touchdowns during the final minute of the first half broke open a close contest and deflated Clarkston's ego during its homecoming, setting the stage for an all-out onslaught by Northern in the second half. But it didn't happen. The Wolves fought back.

"We really wanted to win it for the seniors," said junior John King. "(Mark) Hetherington and (Jason) Campbell got everybody going during halftime. We still wanted to win it."

But Pontiac Northern had too much firepower for the Wolves to handle. The Huskies rolled to a 43-9 victory.

With the win, Northern snapped a five-year losing streak against the Wolves. Four one-point defeats and a three-point loss in overtime last season (after the Huskies held a 21-0 fourth-quarter lead) left the visitors with a powerful urge to seek revenge.

On the opening drive of the game, Clarkston marched 69 yards down the field to set up a 27-yard field goal by Ken Phipps with 5:20 left in the first quarter. The large home crowd cheered in anticipation that Clarkston would snap its two game losing streak. The Wolves were on a roll.

"Everyone was pumped up coming out of the locker room," King said.

Northern didn't get on the scoreboard until the second quarter, when it scored four touchdowns to build a comfortable halftime cushion.

The first TD capped a 65-yard drive. After the successful kick on the extra-point attempt the visitors led, 7-3.

On Northern's next possession Doug Lederman recovered a fumble on Clarkston's 49-yard line to stop the Huskies in their tracks. But the offense couldn't take advantage of the situation and turned the ball over on downs.

During the last five minutes of play, Northern hit paydirt three times, on a 21-yard run and screen passes of 39 and 53 yards to send Clarkston reeling into halftime.

"They are definitely a speed team," said CHS head coach Kurt Richardson. "But our kids didn't quit, they played hard."

Northern scored the only points in the third quarter on a 23-yard TD run to end a 56-yard march down the field.

Lederman, for the second straight week, broke through the Huskies' front line and blocked a punt to set up Clarkston's final score of the game in the fourth quarter.

Quarterback Dugan Fife dove into the end zone from the 1-yard line with 1:18 left. King ran 10 times during the 57-yard scoring drive, picking up 45 yards. He finished with 110 yards rushing.

Northern closed out the scoring with a 67-yard run with just 43 seconds left to play.

"We prepared well and it paid off," said Northern's coach Jon Brown. "The offensive line did a h-- of a job blocking and we came out and ran our offense."

Clarkston faces Greater Oakland Activities League foe Brandon on the road Friday night.

Time Out

Cold feet

Peter Auchter

Random thoughts of another Clarkston High School homecoming gone by ...

I'm overjoyed that so many people from all walks of life in this town are concerned about my job. After the football game Friday night, several people commented on how lucky I was Clarkston lost big during homecoming since there would be plenty of other things to write about.

Positive things, happy times and anything else I could find, if you know what I mean. Why dwell on the negative of a 43-9 loss? After all, it's only one game in a long, long season. We'll talk about the team again next week, OK?

First things first. Where is all that hot weather we experienced this summer? It was a little on the chilly side for all the happy festivities. Just ask the shivering members of the homecoming court who had to watch the game from ice-cold metal folding chairs. Gee, why not have them sit on a bucket of ice, too?

The weather also seemed to affect the young rose-bearing girls who were part of the halftime ceremony. Bundled up in huge jackets just prior to and just after their job of handing a rose to each female member of the court was complete, the girls probably were dreaming of hot chocolate and warmer times. So was I.

Not counting the final score of the football game, everything went off without a hitch. No major bloopers here, thank God. Take your cameras elsewhere. Bernie Smilovitz of Channel 4 fame.

Earlier in the day, the sophomores, juniors and seniors squared off for bragging rights as the best class during the Queen's Assembly in the high school gym. Six games were to determine the winner.

The seniors, winning four events, won the championship. The junior class finished a close second.

Events from a tug-of-war to a relay race with scuba gear highlighted the pep assembly. They also mummified students in endless rolls of toilet tissue just to see who could finish the job first.

One scary moment occurred during the hula-hoop race in which a half-dozen or so people run down the gym floor at full speed with the hoop around them.

About halfway through the race two or three people in each group fall down, get their throats tangled in the hoop and then are dragged the rest of the way to the finish line. Gee, they think this is fun?

Oh well, I guess to each his own. Their memories of homecoming probably will be better than mine. All I can recall is being crushed into the stands during halftime as everyone moved to the concession stands at once.

I also recall cold feet and cold weather. Some things never change.

Harriers fail to derail foe for 3rd time

Lake Orion tops Clarkston

After beating Lake Orion twice in earlier invitational, the boys cross country team couldn't pull off the hat trick during a dual meet between the Greater Oakland Activities League-rivals last week.

Clarkston lost the meet, 26-31, and fell to 2-2 in the league and 2-3 overall. Coach Mike Taylor gladly would have traded the two earlier wins for a victory in the head-to-head competition.

"We did not run well," he said. "We needed to be sharp and we weren't sharp."

Jason Wenger was the top runner for the Wolves, finishing in second place with a time of 18 minutes, 18 seconds. Dennis Ryba won with a clocking of 18:11.

Paul Brisson was the other Clarkston runner in the top five, crossing the finish line third with a time of 18:50.

At the beginning of the season, Lake Orion didn't appear to be strong. Clarkston beat the Dragons in the Holly Invitational and the Oakland County Cross Country Meet. Unfortunately for the Wolves, things have changed in Lake Orion.

"They were a better team than we thought they were," Taylor said. "They have gotten their act together."

The top teams in the county gathered at Marshbank Metropark in West Bloomfield Township Saturday for the annual Oakland County meet. Clarkston finished 26th out of the 38 competing teams.

Although none of the boys managed to win a medal, Jim Havelin ran his best race of the season.

"He popped a real good race," Taylor said.

The team will be busy this week, facing Lakeland Oct. 13 and Ann Arbor Gabriel Richard on Saturday after hosting GOAL foe Brandon Oct. 11.

"Brandon will be tough," the coach said. "They have been ahead of us all year."

Varsity basketball team off to good start

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Preseason forecasters took one look at the formidable opponents on the varsity girls basketball team's schedule and predicted they'd struggle all year.

Well, a gritty bunch of Wolves continue to buck the odds. They collected their seventh victory in 10 games under first-year head coach Larry Mahrle last week on the road against Pontiac Northern.

Clarkston, although it didn't particularly play well, managed to top the Huskies, 54-31, and bump its Greater Oakland Activities League record to 3-0.

"No one gave us a chance to be 7-3," said the coach. "I'm real pleased to be 7-3 at the halfway point. This is a good win on the road for us."

Jenny Grohs, one of only two seniors on the squad, scored 12 points, dished off five assists and ran a smart floor game to pace the Wolves, said Mahrle.

Susan McKoin notched 16 points, and Rhonda Jokisch scored 10 and grabbed 11 rebounds up front for the bigger and taller Clarkston team.

McKoin put Clarkston out in front midway through the opening quarter by completing a three-point play and following up with another bucket on her next trip down the court. The junior's five-point scoring spree put the Wolves ahead for good at 15-9.

Jokisch and McKoin added a basket apiece before the quarter ended to extend the visitors' edge to 19-9.

Clarkston maintained its 10-point advantage through the second quarter, going into the locker room at the half ahead, 27-17, after a basket by Kelly Avenall.

Tough defense by the Wolves combined with poor shooting by the Huskies limited the hosts to just two points in the third quarter. Clarkston scored 13 during the stanza to put the game on ice at 40-19.

At one point in the fourth quarter, Clarkston led by 26 points.

Touchdown salute

Wolves top Lake Orion, still perfect

Nothing fancy or special, the girls cross country team just keeps on winning.

The Wolves latest conquest was over host Lake Orion Oct. 4 when they won, 21-34.

"They weren't pushed too much," said Coach Mike Taylor of his talented running corps. "They did what they had to."

All-State junior Sonya Schaffer led the way for the victors once again, crossing the finish line first after 21 minutes, 7 seconds. The closest Lake Orion runner was Carin Drouillard who clocked in at 22:58.

Lisa Palazzola (22:11) finished behind Schaffer in second place. Nicole Chinavare (23:20) and Emily Winfield (23:45) took fourth and fifth place, respectively.

The big meet of the week for the girls was the Oakland County Cross Country tournament at Marshbank Metropark in West Bloomfield Township Saturday morning.

As a team, the Wolves (10th place) finished as the highest ranked squad from the Greater Oakland Activities League. Individually, Schaffer won a medal for her 15th-place finish. Her time was 20:22.

"I thought that we'd be better," said the coach. "We could have run 20 seconds better apiece."

Sashabaw beats Clarkston in basketball

Fans who attended the first battle of the junior highs for supremacy in girls basketball this season probably had trouble recognizing Clarkston and Sashabaw the second time around.

Neither team was wearing disguises on the court, but the disciplined game both teams played may have surprised some people. The coaches were pleased to see the improvement their charges displayed during host Sashabaw's 30-19 victory Oct. 7.

"We have come a long way," said Clarkston's Kay Pierson. "We have been working on improving ourselves."

Her counterpart over at Sashabaw Junior High, Laurie Collard, echoed her sentiments. "Both teams have improved a lot," she said. "They are a lot more organized than in the first game (also won by Sashabaw)."

Both teams had trouble scoring early in the game. Clarkston led, 8-6, after the first quarter. Christine Stamas scored six points for the Wolverines during the opening stanza.

Sashabaw took the lead for good in the second quarter on a pair of free throws by Karri Sikes. By the end of the third quarter, the score was 24-16 in Sashabaw's favor.

A defensive switch by Sashabaw proved to be the key to victory.

"We were beating them one-on-one," said Pierson. "But when they went to a tight zone defense, it proved to be too much for us."

Stamas was Clarkston's leading scorer, she finished with eight points. Ashley Zirwes added six more for the Wolverines.

Sikes topped Sashabaw's offensive stars with 11 points. Shelly Lewandowski was next with seven points. Three players -- Amy Holland, Karan Dunham, Amy Harrison -- had four points apiece.

The victory, snapping a four-game losing streak, boosts Sashabaw's record to 3-5.

ASHLEY ZIRWES of Clarkston Junior High pulls down a rebound against cross-town rival Sashabaw during first-half action Friday afternoon. The Cougars won the game, 30-19.

Doing the color and the coast

By Jim Sherman, publisher

This was our year to see the rocky coast of Maine. And while we're at it, take in the fall colors of Vermont and New Hampshire.

For years I've wanted to see the rugged Maine waterfront... see and hear the sea bursting on the rocks. Just set and watch it for about a week.

In preparation I talked a lot to former visitors, even former residents. "You have to take a cruise out of Portland." "You have to drive down 209 to Sebasco Estates." "You have to shop at L. L. Bean in Freeport." "You have to visit Bar Harbor." "You..." It all sounded interesting and inviting.

But, first the color. We were told the fall transformation comes three weeks earlier in the White and Green Mountains than in Michigan. That made our timing of the last week of September about right.

And, it was.

We sped across Canada and New York as fast as possible to get to Bennington in the southwest corner of Vermont. Ron Bunker, of Lake Orion, told us to take Hwy 9 east of Bennington for a drive on Hogback mountain.

We didn't find the name, but the drive was typical of what we would experience the next three days... a road bordering a creek or river bed, up and down and around curves with expanses of color splashed against the hills, through the villages of Searsburg and Woodford.

Historians note Bennington as another of the "turning points of the Revolution". Here, August 16, 1777, the colonial militia turned back Gen. Burgoyne's British troops. The huge Bennington Battle Monument, 306-feet tall, complete with elevator, can be seen from afar.

We took Historic 7A north and suggest you do the same. It's curvey and slow, and it's loaded with craft and antique shops, seemingly in every house (my note says "rare is the house that's a home"), but it's a great drive for the first-time, unhurried tourist.

It quickly became obvious to us that Vermonters love their houses white. We would learn in the days ahead Vermont houses are white, New Hampshire houses are unwhite and Maine houses are add-ons.

The posted speed limit in Vermont is 50. It needn't be posted. Seldom are the roads straight enough to permit 50 mph driving.

Five of our seven days of driving were sunny and bright. The deep reds, oranges, browns, faded greens and golds, with just enough pine green for contrast, proved the promoters of northeast color tours to be right.

It was magnificent!

If there is a way to improve the scene it would be to have water rushing over the rocks in the rivers and streams. The drought hit New England, too.

Besides Historic 7A, we drove highways 30, 4, 100, 14 and 302 up and through Vermont. A couple observations: We saw no strip malls or shopping centers outside the towns; we saw no billboards; two towns boast of Norman Rockwell exhibitions, but he lived only in Arlington; we saw no birch trees (a Michigan advantage along with our crimson reds); we learned American chop suey in Vermont is goulash in Michigan.

An unexpected treat in VT came on a wrong turn in Barre. This is the home of the huge granite quarry of "Rock of Ages". New Hampshire is nicknamed the granite state, but Barre has the quarry.

The first town in New Hampshire on 302 from VT is Woodsville. A difference in the two states is immediately evident. Gone are the well kept, white houses. The green and tan houses are much less impressive.

However, the colors are as gorgeous, especially with some birch mixed in, the sides the Green Mountains are as color laden as the White Mountains, there are many more lakes, and they have Mt Washington and the cog railroad.

The area around Mt. Washington is Bretton Woods. Last May three brothers, Paul, Michael and Roger Dowd bought the 2,600 acre area from The Satter Companies. They're planning to spend many, many millions on the resort area over 15 years.

The big feature is the Mount Washington Hotel, built in 1902, which at first glance reminds you of Michigan's Grand Hotel. It's just as white, bigger and just as expensive. Rooms range from $85 to $225 per person per night, plus 15 percent gratuity and tax. Oh, yes, you get two meals.

We stayed across the road at The Lodge, also owned by Dowds, for $90 a night, plus tax, no meals. We ate at Fabyan Station, a converted depot, also owned by Dowds. The atmosphere and food was fine... honey fried chicken

If you can see the men, or the ladder, in this picture you get the idea of this Rock of Ages quarry.

Adults can ride to the top of the 306-ft Bennington Battle Monument for 50 cents.

was great, $6.95.

We were told we should make reservations for the cog railroad trip up Mt. Washington. By staying at The Lodge we got $7 off the $27 ticket. The 10 a.m. train (one car of 48 people) was full, but they ran two trains.

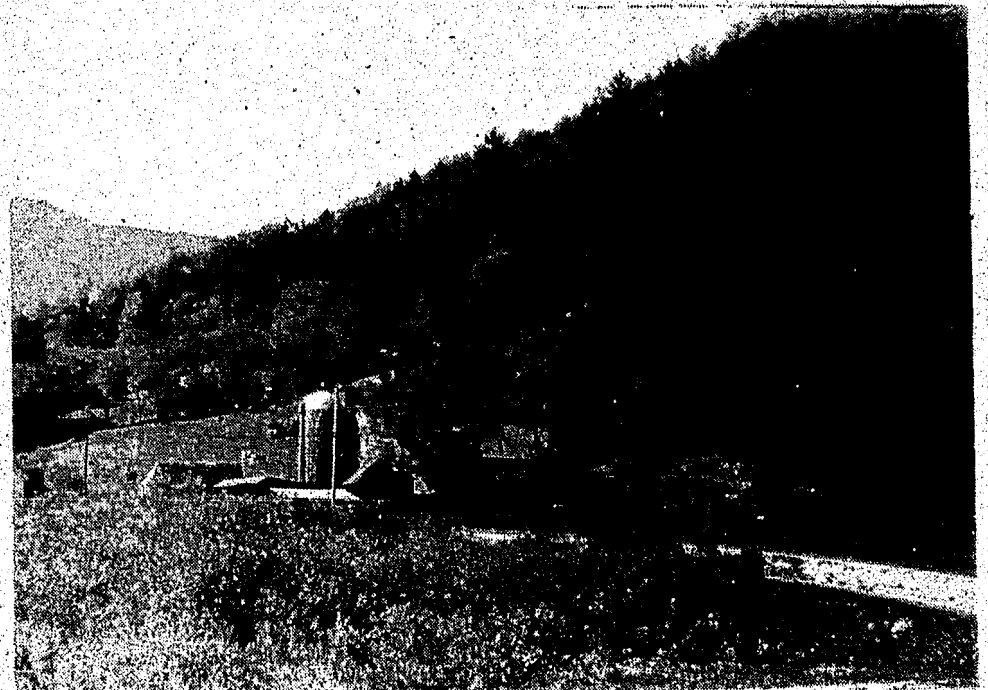

One of our employees, Lori Shafer, refused to ride the rickety road a couple weeks ago. Such is the looks of the track and reputation of the train. Since its founding in 1869 the roadbed probably hasn't been improved.

But it matters not about the rails, it's the driving cog that has to go straight. And, it does. At one point, Jacob's Ladder, the climb is 37 degrees. The trip takes 3 hours and includes 20 minutes for snacking, buying curios, and sight seeing at the top.

In our case there was no sight seeing. When we got to

New England boasts of having many covered bridges. This one, on route 100, goes to a private residence.

Black and white photography doesn't do this Vermont hillside justice. Imagine it in full color.

Acadia Park and antiquing

the top, the engineer said, "Trust me. When you leave the train walk straight ahead. There's a station there."

At 50 feet away we couldn't see it for the fog and frost. The highest winds ever recorded anywhere, 231 mph, April 1934, were here. On our day the winds gusted to 80 and the temperature was 38. Ice formed on the hand-rails. It was not a pretty sight, and they give no refunds for weather.

We would return through New Hampshire and Vermont, but for now, on to Maine on 302.

We planned to stay at Sebasco Estates north of Portland, but a convention, and nighttime, forced us to plan B. The only other place to stay on that finger of land south of

Pick your places to see the sea splash on the rocks.

Bath was Spinney's at Popham Beach.

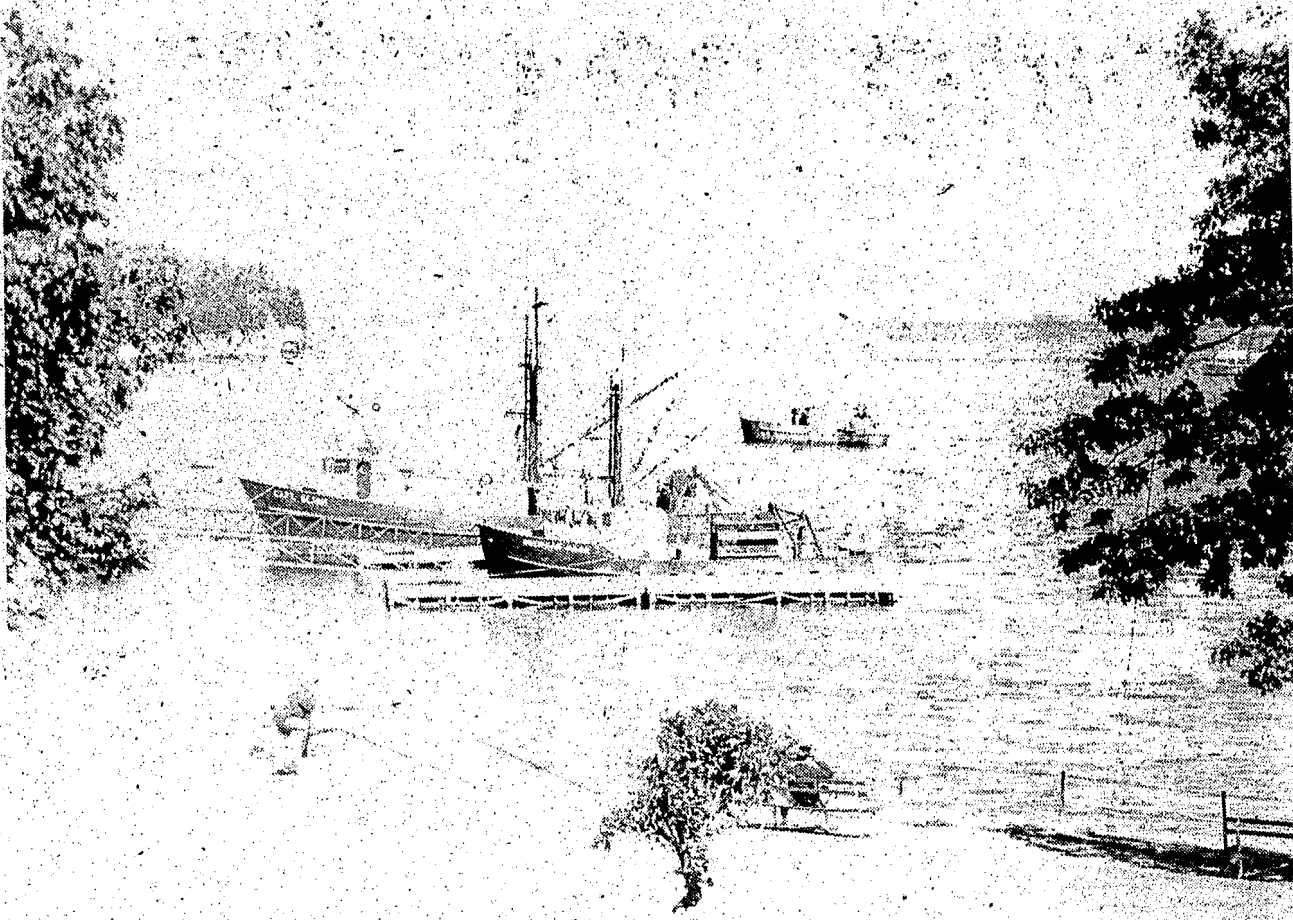

You won't find Spinney's in the Mobil or AAA guide. Their 8-unit motel was full, but we could stay in the house and share a bathroom.

This was a first (and last) for Hazel and I. It was here another of Gumperson's laws came to mind: If your retention capacity is until 2:30 a.m., (as is mine) so it is with the other bath sharer.

Spinney's, owned by Jack and Fay Hart, has a small restaurant. Last year they served 45,000 pounds of lobster. If this little place serves that much lobster, you have to wonder if we won't run out. Especially, at $9.95.

Hart said there are size limits on lobster, just like fish. Only with lobster there's a too big size.

The drive from Bath to Spinney's is 17 miles. And, you seldom see water until the end. That means you better know where you're going before you start. There are hundreds of these 17-20 mile long fingers running out of the mainland. Experimenting takes too much time, and there's little to see but trees. Even the houses are hid. But the roads are good.

So you pick places like Boothbay Harbor (which we didn't) and Bar Harbor. The disappointing thing about Bar Harbor is it's distance. It is nearly four hours from Bath.

Downtown of Bar Harbor is tightly compressed souvenir, t-shirt and artist shops, with several restaurants. The harbor is picturesque... dotted with islands and sail boats.

We lunched at Duffy's Quarterdeck overlooking the harbor. While watching passers by I was reminded of all the stories we've printed on people retiring... with plans "to travel a lot". It's true. They do.

Acadia National Park is a major attraction at Bar Harbor. Most of the island is Park. It's Cadillac Mountain is the highest point on the Atlantic coast north of Brazil. The sun couldn't have been brighter or the sky clearer on our visit. The view is outstanding.

Of course, we had to shop L. L. Beans and Freeport. Leon Leonwood Bean started selling waterproof boots there in 1917. He started making them 5 years earlier.

Mainly a mail-order company, L. L. Bean's retail outlet, which is 2 floors big, and expanding right now, has only closed twice in over 10 years, once from a downtown fire and once for a hurricane.

Currently, the town is becoming an outlet city with popular named clothes, china, and shoes.

Except for the turnpike on the way east, we drove few miles on roads wider than two lanes. And, except for never really seeing the rocky coast of Maine with the sea splashing, we were not disappointed.

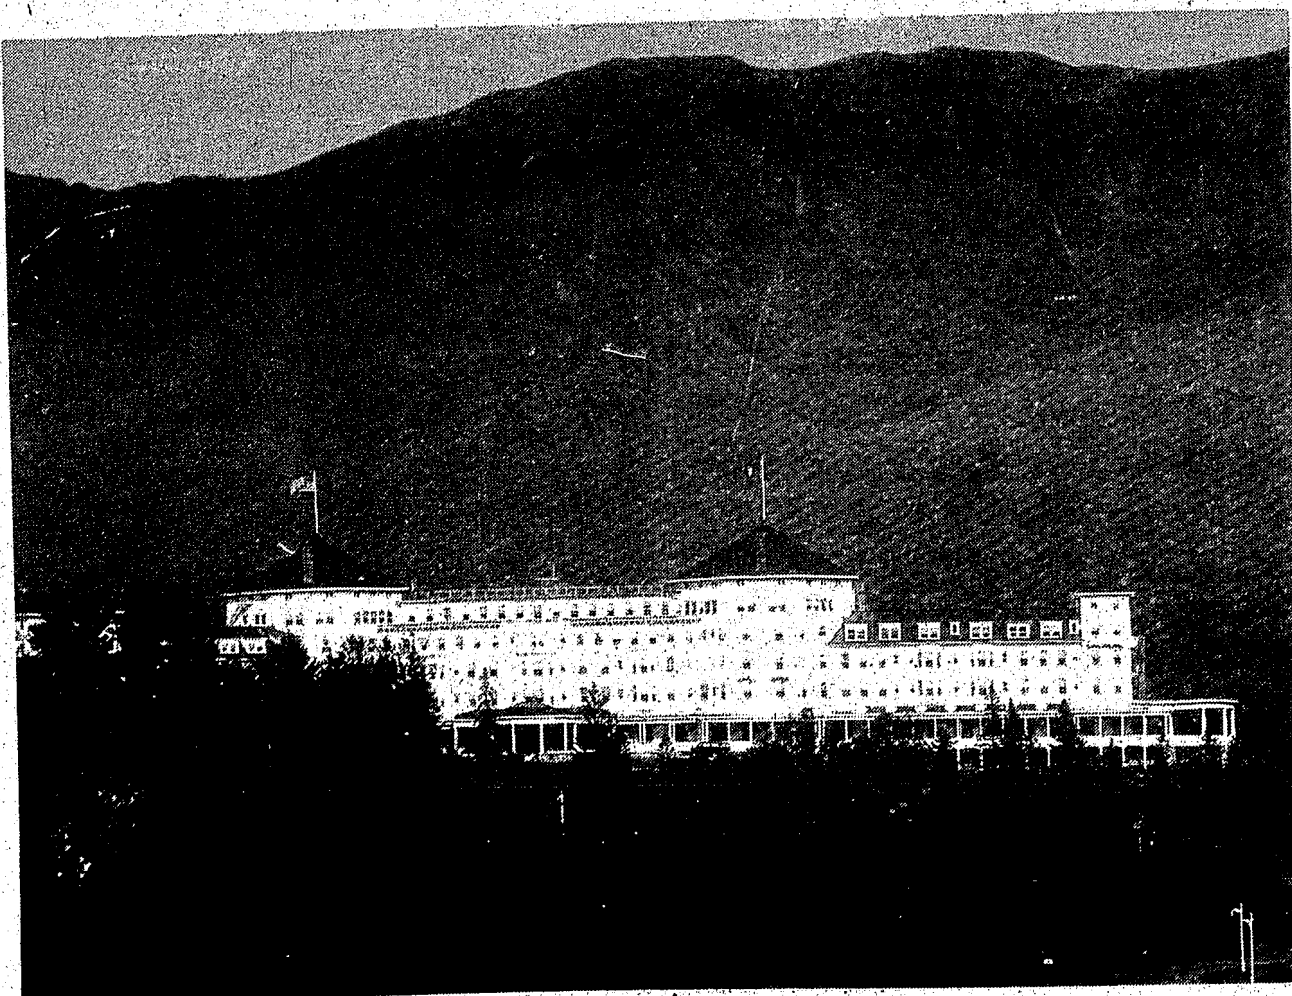

The colors were great. The people cordial. The weather fine. What else is there?

What else... well there's Hazel's favorite pastime, antiquing.

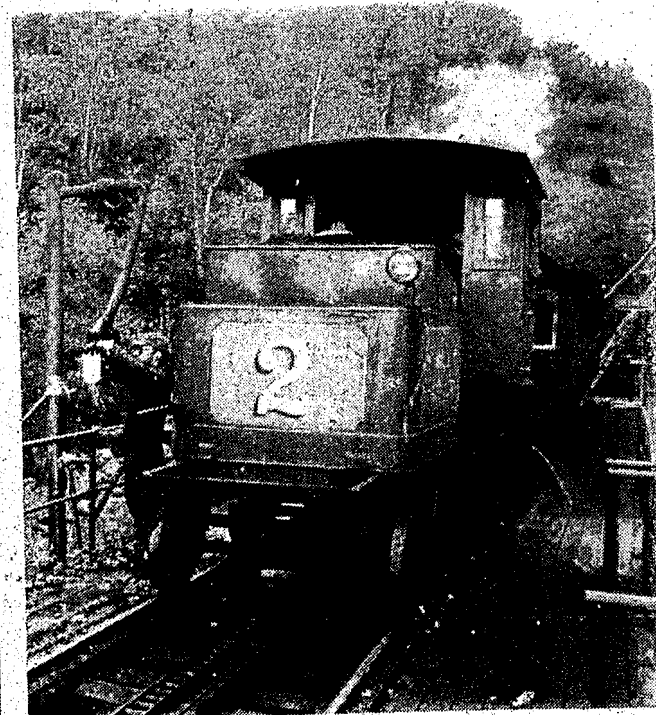

Seeing her check the prices was like watching new car shoppers check the sticker. She was shocked. The prices for baskets, lion's ware, tin things, and iron animals, things she would like to collect, were higher than in Michigan, and we thought Michigan was high.

For those who like antique shopping I suggest Historic 7A, Quechee, VT (35 miles east of Rutland), and Madison-Bouckville, N. Y. Of course, there are millions more, but these are condensed areas with malls with as many as 70 dealers.

We closed out trip with a stay at the Residence Inn, a suite hotel in Buffalo. With a kitchenette complete with popcorn popper and popcorn, coffeemaker with supplies, fireplace, ice maker and the usual hotel offerings. It was a fine ending to our first 2,335 mile, driving vacation.

Legendary Mount Washington Hotel, since 1902.

The cog railroad engine appears level, but it's set to climb Mt. Washington, sometimes at 37 degrees, where the front of the passenger car is 12 feet higher than the back of the car.

Naturalist shares nature's lessons

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

If Timothy Nowicki had his way, adults wouldn't be afraid to show their childlike wonder at nature's treasures.

An assistant naturalist at Independence Oaks County Park, Nowicki notes that children aren't shy about expressing delight about what they see.

A section of the nature center includes guessing games for children, where they can touch or see or smell something and then try to identify the object.

Kids roll around and hoot and holler, he said, but adults stand aloof and maybe sneak a peek.

"The natural world has a lot of things to teach us, inspiration, invention. ... We have only been on this earth a very short time."

Indeed, much of Nowicki's inspiration for his weekly column for the Observer & Eccentric newspaper chain and for his weekly five minute talk during Jimmy Launce's program on WJR Radio, comes from his children: Janice, 4, and Michael, 18 months.

One day, Nowicki and Michael were walking outside when Michael became intensely interested in fallen apples found on the ground.

An ant crawled out of the first apple Michael picked up, thrilling him to no end, said Nowicki. The next apple had tiny teeth marks, where a mouse had taken a taste.

Nowicki cherishes those moments and wants others to experience them.

With a biology background and a master's degree from Central Michigan University, Mount Pleasant, Nowicki's first jobs were as personnel manager and account manager in industry. When he lost his job, it was a perfect opportunity to pursue his strongest interests.

In addition to his naturalist job and writing, Nowicki illustrates his newspaper articles, photographs nature, teaches at Schoolcraft College and talks to community groups.

"I'm not going to be a millionaire in this work," he said. "It just fulfills my own personal goal, teaching people about the virtues and values of wildlife."

The best place to learn is in the wild, not from a book, according to Nowicki.

"It's much easier to learn out here," he said. "Teaching kids about the out of doors can be really stale in a classroom, but out here, you can touch things and feel the wind on your face and see the birds. You don't see many animals in the middle of a shopping center parking lot."

Nature benefits everyone, he said. According to government surveys, one in two adults in the United States enjoy nature in some way.

"More than half the population -- that's tremendous pressure to preserve wild areas," he said.

He'll present program for land conservancy

Writer, photographer and naturalist Tim Nowicki will be speaking on the values and virtues of wild land for the Independence Land Conservancy at 8 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 20.

Held in the Clarkston Village Hall on Depot Road, the free meeting is open to the public.

Nowicki's presentation will include a slide show of his nature photographs -- "artsy shots," says Nowicki.

With close-up photos of patterns in the sand or ice crystals, Nowicki said he hopes to encourage people to get outdoors and see things in a different light.

IT'S ABOUT TIME
FINE GRANDFATHER CLOCKS

ASSISTANT NATURALIST Tim Nowicki gives tours as part of his job at the Independence Oaks Nature Center. The Livonia resident credits the county board of commissioners and others who set aside land for seeing the value in land and wildlife preservation.

The obvious reasons for preservation include saving the habitat for plants and animals, saving oxygen-producing plants and saving the wetlands, which serve as natural filters for man-made pollutants.

Nowicki's list, however, goes beyond the obvious.

"The natural world has a lot of things to teach us, inspiration, invention. ... We have only been on this earth a very short time," he said.

He calls recycling -- one of the basic principles of the natural world -- one of the best lessons. Nothing in nature is wasted; it all returns to the earth to be reused, just as man-made products could be reused.

Plus, nature can relieve some of the stress from working in a crowded, pressure-filled society, he said.

"Just walking through the woods is very therapeutic. It's an opportunity to cleanse the soul and the neurons," he said. "You don't have constant reminders of man-made objects."

For those in society who are geared to the dollars and cents involved, it makes economic sense to preserve natural areas, he said.

Once all the wetlands are filled and forests are chopped down to make room for buildings, the functions nature performs will have to be provided by man.

The cost to provide a filtering system now performed by cattails and other wetlands plants would be so high, it would be unaffordable. Also, the most monetarily valuable properties are those that abut lakes, forests or other natural beauties, he said. Big trees make subdivisions more valuable.

"People are beginning to see that they can incorporate the natural features of the land," he said. "Everything has its place, and we are all interrelated."

With more information, developers and others will understand and preserve the world, he said. "The more people know about something, the more they appreciate it."

Ski season won't be cut short at Pine Knob

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

When schools with ski clubs and customers who hold season passes started phoning, Pine Knob Ski Resort General Manager John J. Nederlander became concerned about the rumor which was circulating.

People are getting the idea that Pine Knob will close in December, he said, but that is just a rumor.

"We will be open through the whole season," he said. Weather permitting, the season could begin by Thanksgiving and last into late spring.

This season, he said the slopes will be open for snow boarding as well as skiing. There is a new ski school director, Jeff Trim. And one skiers' bar has been transformed into a kids' lounge and arcade. The other bar, "Off the Wall," will be open for adults as usual.

Other changes are in store for the local ski resort. "We're looking for a new image," Nederlander said.

The Nederlander Corp. has owned Pine Knob since 1984, but he said they have had problems with regulations that were too strict.

This year, they will have more of a "Disneyworld" atmosphere, he said. They are doing more "convenience construction" at the site, and will have a more lenient, fun, "amusement park atmosphere."

They hope to curtail theft this year with new fencing constructed around the entire area and only one entrance. They also added a free ski corral where skis are watched.

"We want to do a lot more with handicapped this year, too," said Assistant Manager Shelly Vailiencourt. One event in the planning stages is a winter Special Olympics.

They also plan up to four winter festivals, with one or two planned for Christmas break. And they are trying to organize two nights of non-pro adult ski leagues instead of one.

The rumor of an early closing had been circulating for a while this year, but Nederlander said he didn't think that much about it until customers started calling to ask if it was true.

"The main thing is, we want people to know we'll be open," Nederlander said.

Dixie Highway fire considered arson

An Oct. 9 fire that caused $4,000 damage to Pontiac Steel, Dixie Highway, Springfield Township, may have been set to cover up a break-in and robbery.

"Somebody broke in and took some business machines, scattered files all over and set it on fire," said Springfield Fire Chief Marlan Hillman, whose crew spent two minutes extinguishing the small fire around 10:05 p.m. Sunday.

According to Arson Investigator David Pement from the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, the criminals broke into the factory across from the Whoopee Bowl through a front window and then stole several items including a typewriter, copier, radio and two telephones.

Then, the arsonists grabbed business files, threw them on the floor and ignited the pile, he said.

The fire could have been worse, but Sunday was the first day of a third shift, and a worker noticed the fire in the office around 10 p.m., said Pement.

"The fire department did a good job putting it out," he said.

The fire was not connected to the Aug. 3 fire that completely destroyed Tra-Tech Midwest van conversion less than a mile away from Pontiac Steel, he said.

"My heart went to my throat as soon as I heard the dispatch," said Pement. "I thought, 'Oh, no, not another one.'"

Investigators have no suspects yet, but anyone who saw a car pull in or out of the business around 8 or 8:30 p.m. Sunday should call Pement at 858-4960 during the day or 858-4950 after 5 p.m.

"It's kind of hidden because the fence goes all across the property and is covered with vines," said Pement, adding that the only chance a witness could have would be seeing a car pulling in or out.

A battery-operated clock that stopped at 8:54 p.m. means the fire probably started about 20 minutes prior, said Pement.

Contract for 8 OK'd

A one-year contract for the administrative office secretaries was ratified by the Clarkston Board of Education on Oct. 10.

The contract, which runs from July 1988 to June 1989, calls for a 5 percent pay raise for the eight non-union employees.

Clerk salaries begin at $255 a week and go to a top of $292 a week. Receptionist salaries range from $294 to $347 and secretarial salaries from $316 to $416 per week.

Director of Personnel Services Conrad Bruce said the salaries are "almost at the bottom of the county" for central office employees. On a list of 20 school districts, Clarkston's salaries were fourth from the bottom.

"I fell in love with Deer Lake just like everyone else."

Everett "Mac" McDougle

IF WEATHER PERMITS, Mac McDougle eats many meals outside while sitting on the swing set on his porch overlooking Deer Lake. Because his home sits on a steep hill, the swing set had to be delivered by carrying it over the roof of his home.

Lifetime of memories

AN EARLY PHOTO of McDougle at his Deer Lake cottage reveals a lot without trees. The Vliets of Vliets-on-the-Hill, later called the Green Acres Inn, raised cattle that grazed on the hill and kept trees from growing. Now, some 40 years later, the property on the east side of the lake is teeming with trees and other natural growth.

BY KATHY GREENFIELD
Clarkston News Editor

Deer Lake connections flow as 72-year-old Everett "Mac" McDougle shares the stories of significant moments in his life.

His reminiscing includes his first, and only, face-to-face encounter with auto magnate Henry Ford in 1933.

Then a high school student, McDougle was an usher in Detroit's Masonic Auditorium. His blue eyes sparkling, he remembers taking Ford and his wife the long way around to their seats. McDougle wanted everyone to notice.

Before taking his seat, Ford expressed anger at the exhibition by swearing at the young McDougle. After the performance, Mrs. Ford found the chastised teen, noted that he shouldn't have created the spectacle, and apologized for her husband's behavior.

"I wouldn't care if he spit on me. He's Henry Ford!" was McDougle's spunky reply.

A letter provided the next contact. By then, McDougle had graduated in 1940 from Michigan State University and had taught high school in Roseville two years before joining the United States Air Force.

While stationed overseas in 1944 during World War II as a first lieutenant, he wrote to Henry Ford. McDougle had learned earlier that Ford owned property on the 140-acre Deer Lake, and "I fell in love with Deer Lake just like everyone else," he said.

His letter requested a chance to buy some lake property from Ford "if I make it out of here."

Safe back home in Royal Oak two years later, he was contacted by a Detroit real estate company. Ford was ready to sell six lake lots, but the firm couldn't put them on the market until McDougle decided if he wanted to purchase them.

McDougle wasn't interested because the lots were on the west side of the lake. He wanted land on the eastern shore to allow visions of sunsets and better swimming. Lakes in Michigan always have hard bottoms on eastern shorelines due to western prevailing winds, he said.

"I wrote back and thanked him," McDougle said. "I kicked myself afterward for not buying the lots."

Meanwhile, McDougle purchased a lot with 50 feet of lake frontage on the east side of Deer Lake in 1945. The same year, he married Mary Alice Kirchner of Adrian. On the day he proposed, he took her to the Clarkston Cafe. "In those days, they didn't have steak dinners," he said. So McDougle used some of his ration coupons next door at Terry's Market and convinced the folks at the Cafe to prepare the special meal.

After dinner, the couple walked over to the shores of Deer Lake, where McDougle popped the question.

The McDougles spent many weekends in the cottage they built on Deer Lake in 1946 by rolling building materials down the hill. Their stays at the lake followed the tradition started years earlier when McDougle and his mother were frequent visitors to Clarkston, then a resort town, from Royal Oak.

REFLECTIONS

Section 2

Wednesday, Oct. 12, 1988 Page 33

McDougle has fond memories of childhood visits to the Deer Lake Inn and Green Acres, both on the shores of Deer Lake, and of the Caribou Inn in town at Main and Washington streets next to the Mill Pond, where he learned to swim. The inns have all burned or been torn down.

In 1960, the McDougles cut the roof off their cottage and added a house on top. The couple and their three children became Deer Lake residents shortly thereafter. A teacher, counselor and coach at Royal Oak High School, McDougle had been required to live in Royal Oak for many years, but the rule softened and he

What's Cooking

Clean out the garden

Pat Young

Now that the first frost has dusted the garden, you may find yourself with baskets of produce plucked from the plants to save them.

Here are a couple of good Texas recipes to use up some of that produce in a most delicious manner. The recipes are from the files of Sandra Ramirez, a Clarkston clothing designer who likes to cook in her spare time.

CALDO (A Spanish soup)

- 1 1/2 pounds beef or chicken, cubed
- 1 small cabbage
- Potatoes
- Carrots, celery, onions
- Corn, peas and other fresh vegetables
- Pasta or rice
- Onion and garlic salt
- Camino seasoning
- Beef or chicken bouillon
- 1 8-ounce can tomato sauce

In a large pot cook meat with seasonings, to taste, in a little water until meat is tender. (Camino can be found in the spices section of grocery stores.)

Then add vegetables, cut into big chunks, bouillon and the can of tomato paste. Sandra says it's a "season and add whatever vegetables you like" type of soup. She adds about a teaspoon of each seasoning.

Throw in a handful of uncooked pasta or rice. Do not stir often. Add water as needed while soup is cooking.

It's a good "cold weather" supper to serve with warm French bread.

SALSA

- Jalepeno peppers
- Onion
- 1 small green pepper
- Garlic and onion salt
- Salt and pepper
- Fresh or canned tomatoes
- 1 can tomato salsa or sauce

Boil chopped Jalepeno peppers first in a little water. (If using fresh tomatoes, you may want to stew them briefly, too.) Then put peppers in a blender with cut up tomatoes, onion, green pepper, tomato sauce and seasonings, to taste. Blend briefly.

Serve as a dip with chips or as a sauce with any number of dishes.

Writers to convene at Oakland U.

If writing is your game -- or your goal -- there is still time for new and experienced writers to register for Oakland University's 27th Annual Writers' Conference set for Oct. 14-15 on the campus near Rochester.

To register for the conference and its special events, call 370-3120, between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m. weekdays, until 5 p.m. Fridays. The conference, co-sponsored by Detroit Women Writers (DWW) and OU's Division of Continuing Education, is open to the public.

Keynoters for the annual affair include prominent author Elmore "Dutch" Leonard, who will address conferees Friday evening after dinner at Meadow Brook Hall, and award-winning novelist/poet Brad Leithauser, who will be guest speaker at the Saturday luncheon in the Oakland Center.

Professional writers, editors and agents from every field will share their expertise with conferees at workshops, lectures, critiques and one-on-one discussions. A book sale, featuring books authored by conference speakers, workshop leaders and DWW members will be conducted Saturday.

Concert songs will celebrate beginnings

"New Beginnings ..." is the theme of the first Clarkston High School vocal concert this year, scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 19, in the Kirchgessner Theatre at CHS.

Music for the concert was chosen to observe the beginning of a new school year, new choirs, a new president for the country and new hope for Clarkston schools with the June millage approval, which provided the funds to continue music education in Clarkston, said CHS vocal music department director Grayce Warren.

"It's a concert designed to entertain and to introduce the CHS choirs to the public," she said. A reception will follow the performance.

The program features the Choralaires, Mixed Chorus, Varsity Concert Choir, Girls Select Ensemble, Barbershop Ensemble and the Madrigal Singers and includes selections such as "Gonna Rise up Singing," "Morning Has Broken" and "First We Must Be Friends."

The groups are also rehearsing for Christmas performances, and civic groups can begin calling now to set dates for the choirs to perform for their organizations.

"We're looking forward to a busy and productive season," she said.

Try these healthy snacks for kids

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Parents who follow heart-healthy diets are doing themselves a favor, but they're not necessarily helping their young children, according to Vikki Lasota, a registered dietitian at Crittenton Hospital in Rochester.

Children need the four basic food groups: milk; meat, eggs and poultry; fruits and vegetables; breads and cereals.

They need some fat in their diets, unlike adults who should follow low-cholesterol diets. Children need the calories for proper growth, Lasota says.

Whole milk is one example she cites.

"Particularly children under two should have whole milk," she says. After that, if growth is good, parents can give them low-fat milk.

"You have to look at it on an individual child basis."

Lasota gives some suggestions for health snacks for healthy children.

For toddlers, she recommends lightly cooked vegetables, small pieces of peeled fruit with seeds removed, graham crackers or enriched crackers, dry cereals and soft pieces of cheese or meats.

For preschoolers, ages 3-5, she suggests raw vegetables and fruits (they need not be peeled), frozen treats made from fruit juice, peanut butter spread on apples or vegetables such as celery, and yogurt. She suggests buying unsweetened yogurt and adding the fruit at home for less sugar content.

Nuts are another healthy snack for any child over age 2.

For the finicky eaters, Lasota has a few more suggestions. If a child won't drink milk, try hot chocolate or fruited milk shakes. If a child is overweight, low fat milk can be substituted for whole milk.

"You have to look at it on an individual child basis," Lasota says.

Sometimes just making food look attractive will convince a child to try it.

"Ants on logs" are celery sticks stuffed with peanut butter and raisins placed on top. Soft sandwiches can be cut into interesting shapes with cookie cutters. Ice cream cones can be filled with pudding or yogurt.

Parfaits can be made with fruit and yogurt. Attractive salads can be made with fruit and Jell-O. English muffin pizzas are tempting after-school snacks.

Serving breads made with zucchini, carrots, pumpkin, banana, raisins or other fruits and vegetables offers extra nutrition, Lasota says.

She also offers tips for modifying recipes to make them more nutritious.

Healthier chocolate chip cookies, for instance, can be made by using half whole wheat flour and half refined flour. Also, you can cut the fat by one-half, the sugar by one-third and use fewer chocolate chips. Fats and sugar can be cut down in other cookie recipes, such as oatmeal, and raisins can be added.

"You end up with a very tasty recipe," she says, "With a lot more fiber and nutrition."

BALLET DANCING

I like ballet. It is fun. In ballet every step is with a point you could say. Every weekend I go to ballet. My teachers name is Mrs. Mareyin, her real name is Sandy Mareyin.

Every year we have a resital. Last year are class was Flori Dori girls. The year before that are class was Aristo-cat, this year I don't now what I am going to be. I have had Mrs. Mareyin for ten years now. And this year I might have her again.

The place I go to is called Sandey Maryin's dance studio. One weekend one other teacher teaches there her name is Debey. The room I take it in has a lot of bars and mirrors. When I grow up I want to be a ballet star.

New arrival

Tori Elizabeth Thompson was born Oct. 4 at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac, to Beverly and Mark Thompson of Clarkston. Tori weighed in at 7 pounds, 14 ounces.

Waiting at home for his new sister was 2-year-old Bryce.

Grandparents are Clancy and Doris Thompson of Brazil, and Roscoe and Betty Bell of Washington state.

Grads

Six Independence Township residents were candidates for degrees this summer from the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

Four of the students were to graduate with bachelor's degrees: Julie Ann Beamer of Boyne Highland Trail in literature, science and the arts; Thomas J. Hall of M-15 in engineering; Katryn M. Noonan of Bristol Park Drive in literature, science and the arts; and Ronald J. Oliver of Frankwill Road in engineering.

Two of the students were to receive master's

Childs, Nicol exchange vows in Durand

Kim Childs and Rodney Nicol exchanged marriage vows at the Durand First Congregational Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Childs of Durand. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. John Nicol of Maybee Road, Independence Township.

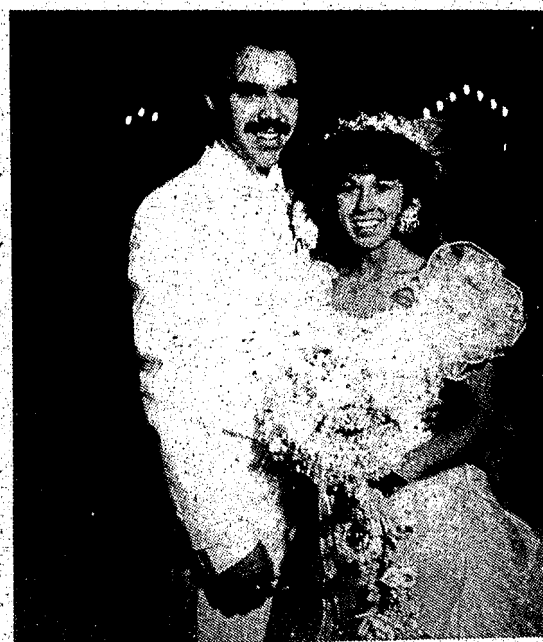

For her June 11 wedding, the bride wore a white satin and lace gown with a hand-beaded bodice; short, ruffled crystalline sleeves; flowing crystalline Austrian sheered pouf skirt; and cathedral train.

Sue Bibb of Durand served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were the bridegroom's sister Deanna Warden of Fullerton, Calif., Chris Brown of Durand and Renee Juhl of Flint.

Courtney Childs of Durand, the bride's niece, was flower girl. Patrick Cadwalder of Anaheim, Calif., the bridegroom's nephew, served as ring bearer.

Best man was David Juhl of Flint. Groomsmen were Paul Childs, the bride's brother; Dan Lederman of Clarkston; and Paul Sheppard of Clarkston. Ushers were John Herron of Clarkston and John Sanders of La Mirada, Calif.

The reception was held at the VFW Hall in Durand. The newlyweds spent a week in Nassau, Bahamas, for their honeymoon. They are residing in Grand Blanc.

NEWLYWEDS: Kim and Rodney Nicol.

At college

Kenneth C. Baran, son of Lawrence D. and Margaret A. Baran of Hummingbird Lane, Independence Township, has been officially accepted into the U.S. Military Academy's Corps of Cadets as a new member of the class of 1992 during the annual acceptance parade.

The parade followed six weeks of rigorous basic cadet training at the West Point, N.Y., academy.

The new recruit is a graduate of Clarkston High School.

Stained glass artisans recreate Fox windows

FITTING CUT STAINED GLASS into lead trim are Scott Floer (left) of Sterling Heights and Craig DePriest of Independence Township.

About four hours work goes into each of the 64 glass panels for The Fox.

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Sometimes the stained glass from a Waterford Township glass shop inspires awestruck reactions, and workers expect similar responses to their current assignment to replace 60-year-old windows in Detroit's Fox Theatre.

Scheduled to reopen in November after complete restoration, The Fox project brought craftsmen together from all over Michigan.

Rocky Martina, former Independence Township resident and owner of A World of Glass on Andersonville Road, was elated when his shop was chosen to reproduce 64 door-size panels of stained glass for the $30 million renovation project on Woodward Avenue.

"It's a real thrill to be working in a building like that," said the White Lake Township resident.

Martina grew up in East Detroit, so he remembers the days when The Fox was open. He marvels at the restoration project's results.

"It was just too magnificent to take in in one viewing," said Martina. "Everything was so dirty and grimy. It hadn't been cleaned in 60 years. It's just awesome when you walk in there."

Martina was selected for the work after bidding on the project. Working from old black-and-white photos of the original glass panel designs, he matched the glass colors to the other colors in The Fox. But he declined taking all the credit for the work.

"It's really the guys who work for me who are responsible for the line of quality coming out," he said.

His employees appreciate the importance of The Fox assignment.

"This is a nice job because it's historical," said Scott Floer of Sterling Heights. "To know that thousands of people are going to see your work -- that's neat, too."

Preserved between two weather-resistant panes of glass, their stained glass should survive the ages of dirt and weather better than the originals in The Fox, said Dennis Phillips of Howell.

With glass imported from Germany, higher quality lead, and cement instead of putty to fill the cracks, the

Stained glass to end up in Detroit

 windows are going to be the highest quality, he said.
 "It all stems from our personal pride," said Phillips.
 "I just remember that I've always liked stained glass,

DENNIS PHILLIPS of Howell cuts glass to match a design drawn on paper.

growing up in a Catholic family and going to St. Anthony's."

Since he was raised on the east side of Detroit, The Fox job has special meaning to him.

"That was the most beautiful, beautiful building I've seen," he said. "To restore things of age and beauty is a good thing. Kids today don't have that to look at. Things today are square and geometrical. Everybody today is going square and drywall. Nobody wants to spend that time anymore."

Floer agreed, but he has found a way to integrate the two worlds.

"There's not much change in the way we do things and the way they used to do things years ago, other than just a few saws," he said.

Craig DePriest of Parview Drive, Independence Township, plans to show any visiting relatives or future relatives The Fox.

"Our work's going to be around here even after we're not here," he said. "It's a good feeling knowing people see your work every day."

DePriest's family owns a glass business in Arizona, but they supply the glass for high rises rather than stained glass creations. Although DePriest enjoyed the family business, he likes the creativity involved in stained glass work.

"I love height, but when I stand back and look at this, I can't believe it," he said. "I can't even believe I made it."

The reactions to The Fox windows will probably be similar to the reactions to some of their other work, said DePriest.

"We made these two windows for a lady, and she almost cried over it," he said. "When somebody says it's beautiful, it makes me feel great."

Creations Best features gifts, flowers and more

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Just in time for the holidays, Becky Holman and Shirley Wilson have opened a new shop in Clarkston. After month-long preparations and well over 100 hours of labor, the two women are opening Creations Best Flowers and Gifts at 2 E. Washington St. in Clarkston.

What's New in Business

Though Becky and Shirley have actually been doing some business such as wedding flowers all month, the little shop, tucked behind the Masonic Temple just off the northeast corner of Washington and Main streets, officially opens for business on Friday, Oct. 14.

Creations Best Flowers and Gifts is a full-line florist shop, featuring everything from high-style fresh flower arrangements to natural dried and silk arrangements. They already have some weddings booked as far away as June 1990.

But it also showcases gifts -- "Things you can't find elsewhere," Becky says -- as well as primitives, antiques and reproductions of well-known artists. The women proudly produce one fine example of the latter, Williamsburg pillows that just arrived.

The shop is fragrant with the aroma of potpourri and candles, and freshly painted walls hold wicker baskets and wreaths. Among the items displayed throughout the shop are the works of two local basket makers, which Becky says they offer at "very reasonable prices."

The shop's name was chosen because, "We wanted to be able to do a little bit of everything," Becky says.

In addition to floral arrangements and gifts, they will do home decorating, even decorate Christmas trees for people, if requested.

Becky, who is married to Independence Township Clerk Richard Holman, has been a floral designer for 12 years. Most recently, the Independence Township resident worked at Country Greens in Clarkston for three years.

This is Shirley's first venture into business, but she says she has been involved with home decorating and antiques "all my born days."

Shirley is married to Independence Township Fire Chief Gar Wilson. Both are life-long residents of Clarkston who only recently moved to a home outside the village in Independence Township.

The women plan to continuously change their antiques and will look for items requested by customers.

They create many natural decorations using paper ribbon and raffia, which is like a dyed grass. Both are popular decorating accents today. The two women hope to eventually turn a small back room with hardwood floors into an "exhibition room" to display their decorating talents.

There are also plans for special promotions as Becky and Shirley celebrate the opening of the new shop. Their enthusiasm brightens the rooms of Creations Best Flowers and Gifts almost as much as the sun shining in the windows.

Anti-Diet Weight Loss

The New Alternative

SUFFERING IS OPTIONAL

If you have tried dieting in the past and failed, you are not alone. For many, diet is part of the problem, not it's solution. Thin people don't want to eat more than they should. So how come you do? When you learn to think about food the way thin people do, then you will eat casually and controllably, just as they do.

Based on successful work with overeaters in therapy, this unique, ten-week program was developed to help healthy people to finally control their eating without the need for discipline and the constant struggle against temptation.

WHY WAIT?

This small-class experience is not another diet or food supplement program, but a new opportunity for a permanent change in your relationship with food and your body. You can be happy with both, NOW.

PREVIEW: October 25, 1988

To give you a full description of this effective solution to over-eating, we offer a full, two-hour preview at our offices. Admission is $10. Call early to reserve your place, as seating is extremely limited.

Friend to Friend

'I'm really stressed out'

AWARE

Dear Friend to Friend:

For over a year now I have had a long distance relationship. It was very special and at one point at least in the beginning it was love. But since then several things have changed.

I used to be very dependent on the relationship and on the guy. It has been nine months since I have seen him, and because he never wrote it seemed he was the one falling out of love. So I broke up.

I dated other people and really enjoyed it. After that, he began to change. He wrote and really began trying. But now, after the hurt, I've fallen out of love with him.

He is now dependent on me instead of the other way around. He used to party a lot and if I tell him the truth he might begin it all over again.

I know I'm not responsible for his actions, I just don't want to hurt him by sending him a Dear John letter. How do I let him down easy but quickly so I can start getting over the pain?

LOVE STINKS

Dear Love Stinks:

Girlfriend-boyfriend problems are always hard to solve. Your mind may not know what to do but your heart tells you differently.

In your letter, you told us that you were dependent on each other but at different times. We feel that someone can only depend on you if you allow them to and vice versa. First of all, you have to examine the reasons why you allow him to be dependent on you.

Relationships should not be based on dependencies -- but rather on mutual support, friendship and love. We also think a relationship should be based on honesty. Therefore, the only solution we can see is for you to tell him your real feelings.

Most guys would like a phone call rather than a Dear John letter. You may indicate in a letter that there are things you need to share with him but you would feel better if you could speak on the phone. Then, we're afraid that you have little choice but to break it off. It's painful and not nearly as quickly done as you would like.

Then, take a long look at yourself and this relationship and try not to get into the same situation again.

Breaking up is never easy and always at least one person will be hurt. But, relationships are rewarding and can be long-lasting when they are based on mutual support, trust and honesty.

You may know in your head everything we've told you, but we hope our support allows you to do what's best. Good luck.

Dear Friend to Friend:

I had a really gross day! And today it started off with an argument with my mom. She said I should have great grades and with progress reports coming out soon she said they better be or I have to quit some of the activities I'm in.

I went to physics and thought I aced the test. I got it back today and it was only a 79. Then, I went back to anatomy and got a "D" on that test.

I know this may sound dumb, but I'm really stressed out. At times I feel like I'm going nuts! All this is very important to me now, so I couldn't bear to give up any of my activities. Help me, please!

SINKING FAST

Dear Sinking Fast:

We couldn't tell from your letter if your activities are short term or long term. If they are the type of activities that will end soon, maybe all you can do is grit your teeth and wait for them to end.

If, on the other hand, your activities are more long term, then you have to prioritize your schedule. This could very well mean that you will have to give up some things you really don't want to.

We think that you must feel like your mom that your grades are important. You seem to be headed for college, so your mother is right, that may be the most important thing for you.

You may not like what she's doing, but there is a good reason for her concern. You may be like some of us in that you take on too many activities and have too many interests, so you end up being stressed and feeling overwhelmed by the pressure.

If you've read other answers of ours over the past few weeks and months, we've given recommendations for students dealing with stress.

Take time out for yourself, organize your schedule, and perhaps you may have to say no once in a while to new activities and things you'd like to take on.

Friend to Friend is written by a panel of Clarkston High School students working under AWARE, a community organization devoted to action and education against substance abuse. Letters may be addressed in care of The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main, Clarkston, MI 48016.

Election workers sought

Early detection of breast cancer...

It could give you time to enjoy the important things.

A regular breast x-ray is your best defense against breast cancer. Found early enough, 9 out of 10 breast cancers can be cured.

The Breast Center of North Oakland Radiology has been designed especially for women who need a breast x-ray. With the attention of our breast care professionals, your regular breast x-ray will be precise, personal and comfortable.

Our state-of-the-art equipment produces extremely accurate images of breast tissue, using a very low dose of radiation. Our program also includes a special videotape on breast care, a review of breast self-examination methods and an opportunity to discuss your own breast care with our nurse.

Ask your doctor for a referral to see us. Or call us direct and make your own appointment. We'll forward your test results to the doctor of your choice. To make an appointment or find out more about the Breast Center, call us at 625-7750.

Having a regular breast x-ray is one of the best things you can do for yourself. Because your grandmother wants you to be around for a long time to come.

Deer Lake resident shares memories and share volunteer tips

moved where he wanted to be.

"Once I got over the hill, I was in paradise," he said about coming home to Deer Lake.

In the early '60s, McDougle penned another letter about purchasing property on the lake, this time to Mrs. Looker, a neighbor. He offered the elderly woman $10,000, a trip to the grocery store once a week and snow removal from her walk.

In 1970, after Mrs. Looker's death, the letter resurfaced during a fruitless search for a will. The judge who was handling the estate said, "Give McDougle first chance to buy the property." Thus, his lake holdings increased.

"It proves that writing letters sometimes has an effect," he said.

Recently, McDougle parted with some of his lake-front property. "I'm too old to start building a house, and anyway you wouldn't have this view, not the same," he said. His house on a hill sits above the treetops, offering a breathtaking panorama from the kitchen, living room and back porch.

For about 20 years, McDougle taught swimming and sailing lessons in Deer Lake. His students entertained parade-goers on July 4 by putting on swimming exhibitions in the Mill Pond, and he founded the Deer Lake Regatta on Labor Day and July 4 with about 24 small boats of students. Bob's Hardware of Clarkston provided the trophies.

"We had people lined up on shore and everywhere. They came to see," he said.

But times change. The regatta continued under other direction for a time -- with larger boats -- then fizzled. McDougle's taxes for his Deer Lake home site and cottage were $33.80 in 1949. Now they top $4,000. He can remember when lots on the lake sold for $12,500, significantly less than the $125,000 price tag for property these days.

"The place is now populated with doctors, lawyers, merchants and dentists," he said. "I could never buy in here now."

Perhaps that's all the more reason to savor his environment and maintain his individuality.

Sixteen years ago, McDougle retired from Royal Oak High School after spending 35 years in education. He says he's among the oldest residents on the lake, and he's proud of having the only home without a lawn. The natural environment suits him, and the creatures, just fine.

"I have all the animals, the raccoons and snakes," he said. "They don't bother me. They come here. They're protected."

And while the lake is too busy with power boats on Sundays, nature prevails most other days. Deer Lake continues to offer a perfect backdrop for McDougle's classical music collection.

"It's different every day," he said. "We get such gorgeous sunsets. They just splash across that sky. They're beautiful."

Pet of the Week

Pup loves people

Sluggo is a 7-week-old black and tan ball of fluff who needs a very special home.

The little Bouvier mix puppy was brought to the shelter at one week of age because his mother died. Shelter staff bottlefed and nurtured the little orphan into the robust pup he is now. He loves people and other animals.

When full grown, he will be a big dog. Because he was not raised in a litter and had no natural mother to "train" him, he may need obedience training to help with the chore.

Sluggo may be adopted at the Michigan Humane Society, 3600 Auburn Rd., Auburn Heights, 852-7420. Hours at the non-profit shelter are 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

The $55 adoption fee includes a deposit on his neutering at the shelter when he is six months old.

Curtis Gaines is still up in the air over the prize he won in a raffle at the Hot Air Balloon Festival in August.

The Clarkston High School sophomore had the winning ticket for a free hot air balloon ride, compliments of Serenity Balloons Inc. of Utica. Last week the weather and Curt's schedule finally cooperated on a mutual day, and he took to the air. Had he purchased the ride, it would have cost $115.

As balloonist Ren Sagaert took him and three other passengers aloft, Curt, who has never been flying in anything before in his life, said he was a little apprehensive. But not for long.

"It was fun," he says. "You look down and cars look like little toys. You could still hear dogs barking, even at 1,000 feet up. From where we were, we could see the Silverdome and the Renaissance Center."

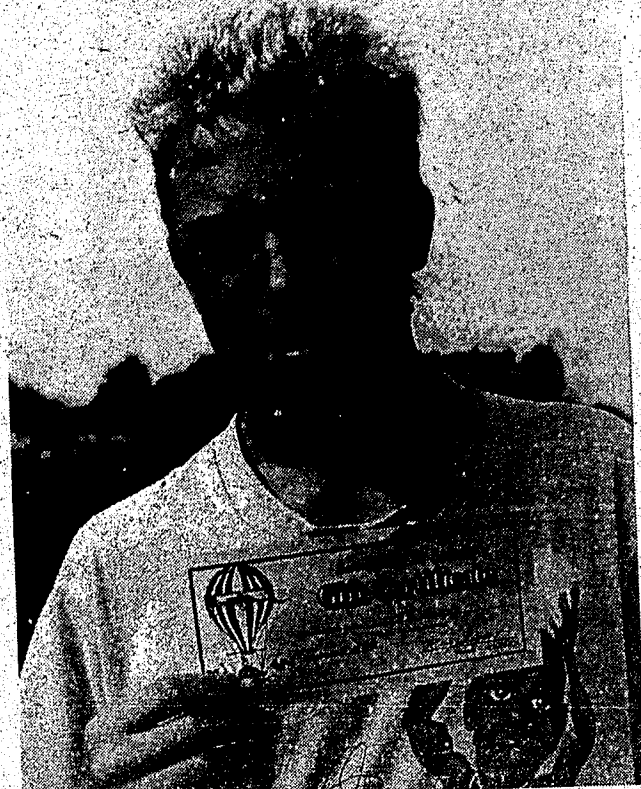

Curt lives with his grandparents, Ed and Doris Mullins, on Davisburg Road in Springfield Township. But it was his mother, Marilyn Smutney of Holly, who bought him the $1 raffle ticket.

The annual Hot Air Balloon Festival, co-sponsored by Oakland County Parks and Springfield Township Parks and Recreation, took place Aug. 27 at the Springfield Oaks Activities Center off Andersonville Road.

Friends of the Springfield Township Parks Committee sponsored the raffle to raise money for a campaign to pass a half mill for operation, maintenance and development of parks and recreation within the township. Township voters will be asked to approve the millage on the Nov. 8 ballot.

When Curt went for his balloon ride last Thursday, he got hands-on experience inflating and deflating the balloon, too. The pilot's wife, Joyce, and the passengers were the crew.

"They said it was more fun for the passengers," says Curt's grandmother, Doris. "That way, they got first-hand involvement in the flight. (The Sagaerts) were really nice folks."

CURTIS GAINES of Springfield Township holds the certificate for a free hot air balloon ride he won with a $1 raffle ticket at the annual Hot Air Balloon Festival.

The Mullinses drove along with the chase vehicles during Curt's one-hour flight. The flight began in a baseball field in Romeo and ended in a farmer's field in the Shelby Township area.

At the end of the ride, the balloonist treated his passengers to champagne, except for Curt. The 15-year-old got Pepsi.

BRAKE PRICES?

UNTIL THEY PULL THE WHEELS, THEY'RE PULLING YOUR LEG.

Think about it. How do some brake places know what your next job'll cost if they've never seen your brakes to begin with? Answer: they don't.

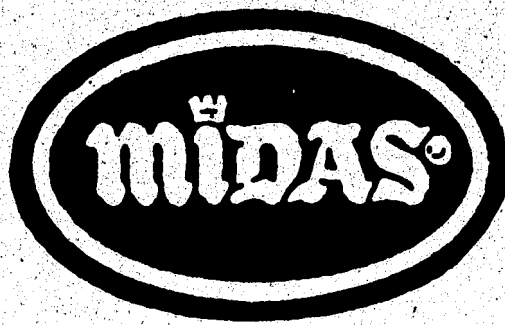

Fact is, there's no way anyone can figure out exactly what the price will be. There are just too many possibilities.

That's why at Midas, we pull all four wheels before every brake job. To get inside your brakes. To inspect them. To positively determine what's gone wrong. From a nine dollar can of fluid to a new master cylinder.

And when we're finished, we'll give you a pinpoint estimate of the entire job. With a price that won't go up when the job's done. That's our promise to you.

So when it comes time to pay, you'll have a leg to stand on.

CHS students rally to fight against drug abuse

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Teacher Katie MacKay yelled a warning before she opened the door, but wadded paper was still flying when she entered the room with a visitor.

"You guys, what are you doing?" asked MacKay.

"We're having fun without drugs," piped up one student before MacKay could issue a reprimand.

Laughing, the Clarkston High School students were pleased with the twist on their newfound knowledge about drug abuse.

Members of CHS Just Say No club, the 10 juniors and seniors also volunteered to take part in the Big League Challenge, an anti-drug campaign competition between high schools in Oakland, Genesee, Macomb and Wayne counties.

Points will be awarded each time a school conducts anti-drug measures, such as posters, rallies or talks to elementary school children. Prizes to the winning schools are sports passes.

Already, the students received free T-shirts at the Pontiac Silverdome kick-off and met Channel 4 News-woman Carmen Harlan and Detroit Lions Quarterback Chuck Long. Isiah Thomas, Detroit Pistons Guard, is also a sponsor of the program.

The celebrities provide an extra incentive to say no to drugs, said the students, most of whom are athletes themselves -- all are involved in other high school activities.

Just as professional athletes are role models for others, high school athletes may influence their peers, said Michelle Darby, adding that athletes shouldn't use drugs, including alcohol.

"The athletes are leaders that people look up to," she said.

Amy Newmarch explained further.

"If athletes in our school don't use drugs, maybe the other kids won't," she said.

Ideas to fight drug-related problems included better organization at dances -- possibly a system using citizens band radio to communicate and provide safe rides home to students who are unfit to drive.

The students estimated that between 80 and 90 percent of their peers on sports teams use alcohol and other drugs, so maybe early contact with anti-drug messages would be beneficial. Through Just Say No, they will be speaking to elementary school children.

"It's important for us to be role models for elementary kids," said Kevin McCormick. "They look up to us."

Although the 10 students involved in the Big League Challenge don't use drugs, they could see how easy it would be to try them, said Darby, adding that peer pressure, attention and friendship could be motivating factors.

"People here aren't extremely nice to new people," she said. "(Drugs) are a really easy way to be accepted."

The group gave advice to get around drug problems.

First, respect yourself and your body -- drugs aren't good for your health, said Susan McKoin.

Find friends with your own interests and don't give up, said McCormick. Find somebody who enjoys your activities.

Drug-free activities for weekends include attending sporting events, going to movies or out to dinner or just to a friend's house.

"Keep a positive mind," said Darby. "Stand up for what you believe in."

Kelly Avenall pointed out that drug use doesn't affect only the user.

"You're selfish to start drugs," she said. "It hurts not only you, it ruins your parents', your friends' lives."

Newmarch, Michelle Darby, Shawna Jordan, Susan McKoin, Kelly Avenall, Jeff Locher, Joe Cote, Jeff Shupe and Kevin McCormick.

Intolerance of drugs is Red Ribbon purpose

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Red Ribbon campaigns will hit communities across America during "Red Ribbon Week," Oct. 23-30, and Clarkston is no exception.

Begun in 1985 to create an awareness of alcohol and other drug problems, the National Federation of Parents for Drug Free Youth Inc. is the organizer behind the campaign.

In Clarkston, AWARE ("Aware Declares War on Chemical Dependency Through Action and Education") and the Clarkston Optimists Club are organizing local activities in conjunction with Red Ribbon Week.

"We want to promote communitywide awareness of drug abuse and a communitywide effort to deal with it," says the Rev. Bill Schram, spokesperson for AWARE.

On Oct. 25, people are encouraged to wear red clothing or red ribbons at schools and in the community. Schools are also invited to have poster contests.

The Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce and Clarkston Rotary Club are helping get businesses involved. Merchants are invited to display red ribbons, which may be purchased for a donation to help fight drug abuse.

On Oct. 28, Schram said there may be a balloon launch or other activity during halftime of the Clarkston High School football game.

Both the Village of Clarkston and Independence Township are being asked to approve a proclamation of Oct. 23-30 as Red Ribbon Week. And churches are being asked to note the occasion during services on Oct. 23.

Schram also said they are encouraging everyone in the community to observe a substance free day on Oct. 25 in conjunction with Red Ribbon Day in the schools. This includes caffeine and tobacco, he said, since they are addictive too, and widespread.

This is the first year the Red Ribbon Campaign has staged a national effort. The Michigan campaign is being sponsored by United States Attorney Eastern District of Michigan, Drug Enforcement Administration and Elks of Michigan. The campaign is also endorsed by Gov. James Blanchard and the Michigan Office of Substance Abuse Services.

Infant-parent class starts next week

"Baby and Me," a new group for parents and infants under age one, will begin meeting next week at the Drayton Heights Free Methodist Church on Maybee Road in Independence Township.

The weekly meetings will take place from 1 to 2:30 p.m. on Mondays for infants up to age 6 months and on Wednesdays for infants ages 7 to 12 months. Child care will be available for older children.

The instructor is Jan Colbrunn, Clarkston area resident and mother of three.

"Baby and Me will offer innovative ways for parents to play and learn with their infants and gain knowledge of positive parenting techniques," said Colbrunn. The list includes infant exercise, infant massage and positive parenting techniques.

To register or for additional information, call Oakland Family Services at 858-7766.

Parents can hear tips on self-esteem for kids

Some practical answers to "How do you build children's self-esteem?" will be provided by nationally known speaker Art Fettig on Thursday, Oct. 20, at Clarkston Elementary School.

The free program will begin at 7 p.m. in the multipurpose room of the school at 6595 Waldon Rd. It is open to parents, grandparents, parents-to-be and any interested adult.

Everyone he's talked to about Fettig has said he's

The purpose of the campaign is to present a unified and visible commitment to healthy drug-free lifestyles. The red ribbon is the symbol of intolerance to drug use.

Party time

Oct. 27 is party night for ghosts, goblins and grem-lins who want to put on their traveling clothes and celebrate Halloween a little early.

The Thursday evening Halloween Costume Party is for children in grades kindergarten through sixth. Hours are 7 to 8:30 at the Springfield Oaks Activities Center, 12451 Andersonville Rd., Springfield Township.

The $3 admission fee covers the Vampire Magic Show, donuts and cider, a costume contest with prizes and a bag of treats to take home.

A limit of 150 children may attend the party sponsored by the Springfield Township library and parks and recreation department and the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Department.

Registration for tickets must be made in advance by visiting the library at 10900 Andersonville Rd. or Township Hall at 650 Broadway. For more information, call 625-4802 or 634-3111.

"absolutely fantastic," said William Potvin, principal at Clarkston Elementary.

The school's PTO is covering the expenses for the evening show. Potvin said he would like to see a full house.

"There are specific things you can do as a parent or grandparent to help build kids' self-concept," he said.

Fettig will also be at the school for the day. He'll be leading assemblies for pupils in the morning and a program for teachers in the afternoon.

Richards, Norma Stalions and Pat Smith, all teachers at North Sashabaw Elementary.

Pencils with heart

If the message is "A teacher's influence is never erased," there's only one logical way to present it.

Due to the efforts of Alpha Delta Kappa, an honorary sorority for women educators, each of the 400 employees in the Clarkston school district received a pencil with the special message.

The major purposes of the sorority are to promote high standards of education, to promote educational and charitable projects and to build fellowship and recognition among women educators, said Norma Stalions, president of the 21-member Epsilon chapter that covers the Clarkston, Holly and Pontiac areas.

The main community projects of the group are walking for Clarkston SCAMP, a summer camp program for children and young adults with special needs, and a donation to the Youth Assistance Committees in the Holly and Clarkston areas.

THE AVERAGE RAPIST
GETS ABOUT 3 1/2 YEARS.
MOST VICTIMS GET LIFE.

The rapist gets off easy.

The victim, on the other hand, can be sentenced to a lifetime of living with fear, with guilt, with shame.

Where do you go to learn how to live normally again? Where do you go to put the pieces back together?

She got help at a Rape Crisis Center. They got help from the United Way. Thank God the United Way got help from you.

Your single contribution helps provide therapy for a handicapped child, a warm coat for a homeless man, CPR training for your co-workers, job training for a former drug abuser.

Or, in this case, counseling for a rape victim. A woman who, without your help, would have faced a lifetime of paying for a crime she didn't commit.
