Fire station might move

Residents to vote on issue

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

It's a facility Independence Township board members have dreamed of for years -- a township public health structure that would house not only the central fire station, but possibly a state police post and an Oakland County Sheriff's Department (OCSD) substation as well.

Board members will soon ask residents to take a step toward making that dream a reality.

The board voted unanimously Jan. 23 to ask voters to approve a $1.5 million bond issue in a special election Tuesday, March 28.

If voters approve the bond issue, the board can negotiate the purchase of an 18,000-square-foot facility on Ortonville Road, formerly the Hosler Pontiac dealership, which would house the proposed public health complex. The proposed site is on the west side of M-15, just north of the Village of Clarkston.

The township hopes to borrow the $1.5 million by issuing general obligation bonds to be repaid in 20 years.

To repay the debt, township residents would probably be charged an extra one-third mill a year for 20 years (See FUNDS, Page 12)

Friend saved by neighbors

Dad falls through Deer Lake ice and drowns

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A Super Bowl skating outing turned to tragedy Jan. 23, when two Clarkston men plunged through the thin ice at the north end of Deer Lake, claiming the life of one.

Henry Richardson, 38, of Foster Road, Independence Township, drowned in the icy water, and was pulled from lake about 30 minutes after he fell through the ice.

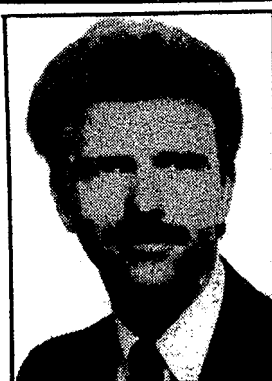

His companion, 41-year-old James Allen Evans, of Sagamore Drive, Independence Township, was rescued by two neighbors, who responded to shouts for help coming from the lake.

Evans was taken to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Pontiac, where he was treated and released.

The north end of the lake in Independence Township had only frozen in the last day or two and wasn't too thick, said Independence Township Fire Chief Gar Wilson.

"There is a lot of current up there because of the stream coming in by I-75," Wilson said.

The dangers were apparently unknown to Henry Richardson was a Clarkston attorney.

Richardson and Evans, as they skated to the area about 5 p.m.

Residents living in homes facing the lake told police they heard screams and saw the two men in the water.

Neighbors Matt Carson and David Hansen ran to the water and were able to pull Evans to safety, although Richardson was already underwater, according to an Oakland County Sheriff's Department (OCSD) report. Rescuers from the Independence Township Fire Department said Evans was breathing when they arrived and found him in a rowboat.

"They had him scooped up in the boat when we got there," said Capt. Steve Ronk. "He was freezing, just absolutely freezing."

OCSD divers arrived on the scene and entered the water in search of Richardson, assisted by township rescuers in ice-rescue suits.

His body was recovered in about 40 feet of water about 30 minutes later.

"The divers were quick; they were right on top of it," Ronk said, adding that some of the divers and 30 to 40 bystanders were frustrated that Richardson couldn't be brought back to life.

"In certain cases, it can be recoverable. In this case, he wasn't," Ronk said.

Ronk explained that in some cases, people can actually survive when cold water slows their bodily functions, but apparently Richardson had drowned before becoming cold, so resuscitation efforts weren't successful. "It was a frustrating thing," he said, adding that his department did all they could.

Ronk also expressed concern about the way Independence Township rescue crews heard about the emergency. Instead of getting the call through 911, firefighters overheard details of the incident on police radio.

"There is a real problem," he said. "We're working on that. That's not the first, and we've got to work it out."

On Monday, friends of Richardson expressed shock and sadness at the loss of their friend.

"I got to know him as a member of the Clarkston Area Optimist Club," said Bruce Mercado, a local dentist and member of the Independence Township Planning Commission.

"Henry was just a very community-minded, youth-oriented individual," he said. "In the three years that I've known him, he's been right there anytime I needed to call."

Richardson, a Clarkston attorney, leaves behind a wife, Narce, and two children, Jay and Laura, and many friends.

Loraine Reish attended the Detroit College of Law with Richardson from 1982 to 1985.

"We were alphabetically next to each other in class," she said. "He was a wonderful guy, a real good attorney. He was soft spoken, and not aggressive or nasty. He was a real good litigator."

"He was my best friend for three years. I loved him dearly," Reish said.

The funeral was scheduled for 11 a.m. Thursday, Jan. 26, at the Lewis E. Wint & Son Funeral Home, Clarkston.

Drowning victim loved area, was well-liked by friends, family

The 38 years of Henry Richardson's life were filled with friends and adventures and love of community, said his wife Narce.

"He was such an adventurous guy, very sports-oriented," she said fondly. "He had recently tried rock-climbing and has always loved water sports."

Richardson's love of sports may have led him to Deer Lake Jan. 22, where he and a companion ice-skated on the treacherous north end. Both Richardson and James Evans, 41, fell through the ice that afternoon, and although Evans was pulled to safety by neighbors, Richardson was unable to be saved.

Richardson, a recent graduate of the Detroit College of Law, opened his law office at 18 1/2 Main Street in Clarkston, above the Clarkston Cafe.

"He had opportunities to work in Southfield and Detroit, but he never really considered those," Narce said. "He just really loved Clarkston."

"He had a bird's-eye view of town, and he loved to watch people walking downtown, some heading off to the grill. He loved waving to people on the street," Narce said.

Richardson also leaves many friends in the Clarkston area Optimist Club, where he served as president last year.

During the first year of the club's existence, Richardson served as vice president.

The family attends the Community Presbyterian Church in Drayton Plains.

Narce said the couple's two children, Jay Thomas, aged 10, and Laura Renee, 8, are "doing pretty well."

Narce's sister and two brothers are traveling to Clarkston from their homes in Virginia and Texas, and her parents will come later to stay with the family for a few weeks after everything settles down.

Henry's sister, Irene Pederson, arrived Monday from her home in Texas. His mother, Pauline Richardson, will arrive with his younger sister, Paula Griffin, on Wednesday.

"We have no family in Michigan," Narce explained. "But we do have a large family of friends here, and that really helps."

PINE KNOB, viewed from the top of the ski area with the lodge visible in background, stands out against the snowless countryside.

The ski area currently has a variable base up to 28 inches in spite of the mild weather, according to Mark Tibbitts. He estimates the cost of creating man-made snow at somewhere between $300-$500, when Mother Nature isn't providing the natural kind.

High tech equipment fills in for Mother Nature

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Even when Mother Nature isn't providing the usual white winter blanket, people at Pine Knob Ski Resort are busy creating their own. And, if you haven't left the Clarkston area yet this winter, likely it's the only place around you've seen an abundance of the white stuff.

Driving along Sashabaw, Clarkston, Waldon or Pine Knob roads, which skirt the Independence Township ski area, or even along I-75, Pine Knob is an easy place to spot this year. It's a white mini-mountain surrounded by brown countryside, lit at night, giant snow blowers creating what nature has been pretty skimpy with so far this year -- snow, and lots of it.

According to Mark Tibbitts, general manager at the ski resort, they have a variable base of 28 inches, and even as much as 6 feet in a few areas. But it's not cheap.

Tibbitts estimates that it costs them between $300-$500 an hour to make their own snow.

Water and air are piped over the entire area, with hydrants at various locations to tap into with portable snow guns. The snow guns, which are moved around to different areas as needed, actually put the snow in huge piles about 50 to 100 feet out. Other equipment is used to spread it around on the hills.

That way, the man-made snow is only where they need it most, Tibbitts explains.

Snow guns create snow with just the right mix of water and air, which nucleate into frost-like particles. These particles are snow crystals, and are actually much more durable than nature-made snow flakes. Many of the 1988 Winter Olympics ski events were run on man-made snow.

The snow gun "fleet" at Pine Knob includes several different types of machines. Nine portable "top guns" were developed at Mount Holly Ski Area by the same people who now own Pine Knob.

The Mount Holly owners purchased Pine Knob Nov. 21 and also own Bittersweet Ski Area near Kalamazoo.

"Top guns" are capable of producing a larger quantity of snow, Tibbitts says.

They also have 10 portable S.M.I. Boyne Highlands, manufactured by Snow Makers, Inc., and a "fixed fleet" of eight S.M.I. tower guns. The tower guns are located in high-wear areas that always require snow.

Grooming is critical when temperatures stay above freezing, Tibbitts says, and make it necessary to go out daily with the high-tech grooming equipment. Grooming equipment is not only used to spread around the man-made snow, it also breaks up ice areas and carries the snow over bare spots.

About the only equipment that hasn't been pressed into active duty much this year is the kind that clears snow off the parking lot pavement.

"This business is like farming," Tibbitts says. "You're at the mercy of Mother Nature."

"You just have to try to control overhead and keep things in line with the number of skiers coming out."

He estimates that skiing is down perhaps 10 to 15 percent at Pine Knob this year. Yet Mount Holly is enjoying its second record year in a row.

"Mount Holly has always been an aggressive area, always offering something new," he says. "And it shows they are putting ski area money back in the business."

He hopes Pine Knob will gain the same reputation with Mount Holly owners at the helm.

Actually, he says, the mild weather we've been experiencing is more pleasant for beginners.

Real ski enthusiasts will suffer almost any bitter condition to enjoy their sport. Not so the beginner. Give them sunshine and a balmy day.

That's exactly what the resort was experiencing last week -- high 30's-40's and sunshine. Conditions looked surprisingly good, and the hills were full of skiers.

"We tried hard not to close, in spite of weather," Tibbitts says. "We prided ourselves in putting the area back in shape, even after overnight rain and 50 degree temperatures."

Weather predictions were for more than average snowfall this winter, but Tibbitts isn't looking for much help from Mother Nature. Still, a little help would be nice.

"When there are reports of snow, even predictions of snow, people head to the slopes," he says. "But when the snow doesn't fall, the mood just isn't here."

Sewer fees on the rise for some

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Owners of mobile home and multi-family dwellings in Independence Township will be charged an additional $384 when they hook up to sanitary sewer service.

The increase, approved by board members Jan. 17, will be charged as a one-time connection fee, making the total connection fee $960 per dwelling unit.

In past years, owners of the dwellings had been charged 60 percent of what was charged to single-family dwellings because studies had shown that the flow of sewage from these units was proportionately less, according to George Anderson, director of the department of public works (DPW).

In a memo to board members, Anderson explained that this formula addressed only sewage flows however, and not the benefit of having sewer service available.

Anderson explained that in Waterford Township, the court decided that the benefit of having a sanitary sewer available is not different for a mobile home park or a multi-family development than for single-family developments. The same ruling was reached in Waterford Township through an out-of-court settlement.

In addition, some modern mobile homes are as large, or larger than single-family developments, Anderson said.

Although the DPW will charge one full unit of benefit for sewer connections to all multi-family, mobile home and single family developments, the policy of charging multi-family and mobile home dwellers 6/10 of a unit for sewage flows will remain the same.

Dance is for dad and daughter

A special Valentine's event is set especially for little girls and their fathers.

A Daddy-Daughter Dance is 7:30 to 9 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 15, at the Independence Township Senior Center Carriage House in Clintonwood Park, Clarkston Road.

Sponsored by the parks and recreation department, the dance is for children in kindergarten through third grade.

The $4 per person includes music, food and a Polaroid picture. Registration is limited to 100 people. For more information, call 625-8223.

Architect, school board debate contract

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

During a special school board meeting Jan. 18, Charles Sherman of Charles W. Sherman Associates, Inc., asked the Clarkston Board of Education why his contract had been terminated.

After more than four hours, the Pontiac architect and the school board were still debating that question.

"Our position is that we have a legal and binding contract to provide service for a five-year period of time," Sherman said, adding that the board's decision to terminate that contract could cause great losses to his firm and that his legal counsel, James D'Agostini, advised his firm that they could recover those damages.

According to Superintendent Gary Haner, however, the school district's attorney, Mike Eschelbach, informed the district that the conditions for terminating the contract are spelled out in that contract and that Sherman's claim to recovering losses is not valid.

In a letter to Sherman in January, Haner reiterated his reasons for recommending cancellation of the contract:

1. The inappropriateness of an architectural firm doing both architectural and construction management type services.

2. The firm was chosen by the board without interviewing others in order to determine which architectural firm would best meet the school district's needs in the construction of new buildings, particularly a new high school (if such is approved by the voters).

Sherman's contract with the board was dated May 17, 1988, just prior to Haner taking over the duties of superintendent on July 1 from retiring school superintendent Milford Mason. Sherman has been the school architect since 1976 but worked with Mason and the board without a contract until the current contract was signed.

In a 4-3 decision Nov. 7, the board terminated Sherman's contract, allowing only for completion of the projects currently underway at the time (re-roofing at three schools).

But on Jan. 9, the board unanimously reinstated Sherman for the duration of the $5.2 million bond projects, stating that it would be in the best interest of the district in terms of time and money to do so, because he was already actively involved in the projects.

The board interviewed several possible school architects on Monday, and also met with Sherman, at his request, last Wednesday night, regarding school construction projects.

The bulk of the special meeting with Sherman was spent going over a lengthy list of concerns brought to the attention of Haner by administrators in the district's buildings after he had recommended termination of Sherman's contract.

The concerns dealt with performance on previous work, such as the multipurpose rooms added to the elementary schools in 1985, and the autistic wing added to Clarkston Elementary School (funded by Oakland Schools) this past fall.

Other concerns dealt with Sherman's proposal for a new high school, a project which began in 1986 in conjunction with a facilities report on the district's immediate needs.

Many of the concerns centered around: lack of communication between Sherman or his son, Gary, and school administrators; inability to work with Gary on school projects, or on low estimates versus final costs on projects. There were also concerns regarding follow-up and corrections when problems were found.

"I guess I'm having difficulty with all this," Sherman said. "Suddenly I find a general dissatisfaction. What I'm hearing makes me sad." He went on to say that perhaps his firm had become a little "complacent" because they had heard many compliments and had considered their working relationship with the district to be a good one.

While Haner was quick to say that the district, on a whole, was not unhappy with Sherman's previous work, an administrator from virtually every school in the district voiced some concern.

Board President Janet Thomas said later, "I think Sherman, as architect in the district, has done a good job."

As far as the problem with communications, she added, "You have to remember when you're working in a district this size, you have one contact person, not individual principles."

It was a point Sherman also made during the special meeting.

On the proposed new high school, there were concerns voiced over Sherman's knowledge or ability to tap into resources required to build a modern high school incorporating today's technological curriculum. There were also questions about who authorized the architect to go ahead with a design/model for a site not yet chosen by the board.

Sherman said he had worked closely with the administration on the proposed high school. Board President Janet Thomas later added that the proposal was not yet to the stage where it would be presented to the board for approval.

Also during the meeting, Sherman pointed to Brandon High School, which was his project, as an example of his work. The school was built, he said, at a cost of about $12.7 million, a lower cost than new high schools built in Oxford and Howell about the same time by other architects.

Contacted later, Brandon Superintendent Dr. Richard Wilson said the district was satisfied with the high school.

When asked about problems, he said, "You can't construct a building of this magnitude without some problems, but these have been cleared up."

A lawsuit between the Brandon school district and Sherman Associates was settled out of court. Wilson said the district's allegation was that the architect had not met his responsibility because a performance bond should have been secured before authorizing the contractor to proceed.

When the contractor ultimately defaulted, Wilson said, "The district felt the estimate of work yet to be completed was substantially inaccurate."

Sherman was asked by Clarkston board members if concerns listed in Haner's letter were being met. He said they were being taken care of.

When asked why the board signed a contract with Sherman in May of 1988 if there were concerns, Thomas said, "We felt comfortable with Sherman. The (school) attorney suggested clarifying certain areas (in the contract), and it was the board's understanding that any problems had been cleared up."

Sherman told the board that if his contract was canceled, the district would still owe him approximately $205,000 for work done. If he remained the school architect, however, this would be credited toward future work.

Sherman was paid approximately $550,000 for work that included a two-year study of facilities and a detailed facilities audit, work on the proposed new high school, and preparation of a list of work needed at the schools for the bond issue.

Most of that work would not be redone, however, as the information would be useful no matter which architect did future projects, according to Thomas.

Though no one would comment on the record, opinions differed as to whether money would be saved in the long-run with a different architect.

"The bottom line is that everybody is concerned and wants what's best for the students in the district," Thomas said.

It doesn't matter if there are different points of view, she added, "if it all comes together and the end result is what's best for the district."

Arson to blame for Sunnyside blaze

Arson may have caused a fire on Sunnyside in Independence Township on Jan. 20, according to Oakland County Sheriff's Department investigators.

Residents of the home told police that a door, found open after the fire, had been closed the night before, said OCSA Arson Investigator Robert Gohl.

About 2:30 a.m. Friday, residents were awakened by the family dog, and all escaped uninjured.

The fire was contained to the garage, and the structure was destroyed. A van and a pick-up truck were also damaged, said Gohl.

The cause of the fire is under investigation, according to Gohl, but appears to be of a suspicious nature.

Damages were estimated at $20,000 to $50,000.

A reward for information on the fire is offered by the OCSA Arson Investigator's Office.

Anyone with any information is asked to call 858-5073 or 858-4960.

Fireplace ashes start Misty Hill garage fire

An early morning house fire caused minor damage to a home on Misty Hill in Independence Township Jan. 22.

Members of the Fish family, residents of the home, had just cleaned their fireplace and put ashes into a garbage can inside the garage, said Capt. Steve Ronk, of the Independence Township Fire Department.

"That's a no-no," Ronk said. The ashes lit up and caught everything on fire around it.

"The sad part is that it's a brand-new home. They just moved in two weeks ago," Ronk said.

Luckily, the fire caused little structural damage to the building because the drywall kept the fire from getting at the house, Ronk said.

"They were lucky," he added.

King of quips

Julie
Campe

When the remodeling is finished on the top floor of The Clarkston News, it'll change things around here -- and just when we've become accustomed to such close quarters.

All of us writers will be moving to the top floor, so everyone on the main floor will have more room, and so will we. Even so, I'll kind of miss the way things are now.

True, it's really cramped right now. It's noisy, and it's difficult to concentrate in such a busy environment where so many conversations surround you.

But we've learned to cope, mostly by using humor.

For instance, reporter Pat (the Punster) Young sits writing at the word processor all day long, and she constantly tosses out puns whenever they occur to her.

And ad sales rep. Debbie Denton usually shocks us about once a week with some outrageous story. Her cohort, Grace Heike, is master at capturing the essence of a situation and, with one word or gesture, turns a tense situation into laughter.

The working conditions have allowed all of us to get to know each other really well -- probably better than we'd like.

As a result, a lot of good-natured teasing takes place. Call them "burns" or "cut-downs" or whatever, but the King of Quips is Stu McTeer, our advertising manager. He says that some of his sayings aren't original, but he usually manages to catch us off guard.

For example, when we heard that sports writer Peter Auchter would be coming to one of our office parties without his girlfriend one time, someone offered to get him a blind date.

Stu cracked, "She'd have to be blind to go with Pete."

When someone complained of having a cold, Stu, not missing a beat, said, "It proves germs can exist in a vacuum."

Once Pat mentioned that she had taken voice lessons as a kid, and Stu, from across the room, didn't even look up from his work but said, "Did you get a refund?"

A former salesperson, Gloria Johnson, was quietly telling a story one day, and she ended it with, "It really blew my mind."

Again, Stu shot out with, "It wasn't much of an explosion."

Another time, Leta Calcote, who owns the store beside us, walked through with a harness covered with bells.

"I hope the bells don't bother you," she said. "That's OK," Stu replied. "I'm used to working with dingalings."

Once, he asked for more staples from Business Manager Donna Fahrner, who's job it is to keep close tabs on office supplies, she says.

"How many?" she asked. "Can you spare an inch of them?" he asked, and was answered with a room full of laughter.

He told another person, "You can't be two-faced, or you'd be wearing the other one."

Naturally, we all tease him back. We tell him that you start to shrink when you get older, and that your brain cells stop replacing themselves, so you probably lose mind power with each minute you age.

He just answers with, "Remember, youth and intelligence is no match for old age and treachery."

Letters to the Editor

Seniors misled

Senior citizen members of AARP (American Assoc. of Retired Persons) are asking why did AARP lobby so hard for the passage of this so-called Catastrophic Act, which will heavily tax the Seniors and receive so few benefits in return? (The 1989 tax will be increased 15%, 1990 tax will increase 25% and by 1993 the increase will climb to 28% on your Federal income taxes.)

Why is AARP, to this very day, lobbying so hard not to have this Catastrophic Act repealed? (abolished)

Could it be because of their own selfish interests? They will benefit millions of dollars monthly. AARP is the nations largest direct mail pharmacy. The drugs given for AIDS patients, the organ transplant drugs, the pneumococcal vaccine and the Hepatitis B vaccine are the only drugs available under the Medicare Catastrophic Act. Not much of a drug benefit to AARP members or other Seniors. Wake up Seniors, we are being misled.

If you want this Medicare Catastrophic Act abolished, let AARP know they are not representing you. Call or write your Congressman and Senator and let them know AARP is not representing you.

We are making an impact! Every letter or voice will be heard.

New catastrophic care a catastrophe

Senior citizens, not so seniors, and any others, wake up to the real affects of the U.S. Medical Catastrophic Coverage Act that is in force now that it is 1989.

Don't wait to sign the petitions circulating nationwide to have it repealed because the Act won't help 98 percent of us. We all are to pay for 100 percent of it -- with the increased Medicare premiums and that extra surtax of $22.50 per every $150 that we pay on top of our income taxes.

Write a letter or card, or call our U.S. senators and U.S. representatives:

Jim's Jottings

Never have I sat so far back in an airplane as I did on a recent flight to Arizona. When the dinners got to me and my choice was quiche, I took pen in hand.

The lack of food preferences was not the only drawback to sitting in arrears. For some reason, known only to the seat assigners, crying babies and talking youths are always put in the back end of a plane.

In our case the plane was a 727 owned by Northwest Orient. We were three rows from the back of the 27-row craft.

Being a window-seater, I quickly learned the blinking lights on the wing tips hit your peripheral vision, and the disturbance is magnified by the fogged up glass, which also cancels out our reason for preferring a window seat.

First class through row 21 flyers have a clear view of the ground and oncoming planes. People in rows 22-27 have to assume the ground is down there and no planes are coming.

Waitresses, excuse me, flight attendants, can't hear people in rows 22-27. "Can I have another bag of peanuts" goes into the overstuffed compartment overhead ... overstuffed by people in rows 1 through 22.

Rows 1-21 have three choices of dinners: beef, chicken and quiche. Back rowers have no choice. They get the item rejected by all the up-fronters.

Those in the forward part of the fuselage have many choices of liquors, wines and beer. Those in the tail have saliva.

Second class citizens in the tail have jacketless, overworked (from catering to the front and middle service demanding inconsiderates) and disheveled attendants. Up front they are perky, jacketed, smiling, and accomodating.

Rows 22-27 have unmatched semi-upholstered seats. Reclining is either prohibited or non-functioning.

There is only one exit, in the galley, serving rows 22-27, four served the middle and 18 serve first class. I have an idea that if trouble occurs oxygen masks fall in front of people in rows 1-21, while those in rows 22-27 are urged to fan each other with used napkins.

Name plates are missing from magazines in the rear of the plane. We got to read magazines customers didn't buy last month from the local pharmacy.

Like poor tipplers in ritzy restaurants, people in rows 22-27 are next to the kitchen.

Passengers in the tail wear t-shirts that read either: "I (heart) my car" or "Have you hugged your Harley today?"

All isn't bad in the back. The good thing is you get to see everybody on the whole plane. The full meaning of the expression "relief station" comes to mind.

Going there you see expressions of urgency and pain. Returning there are smiles, which grow as they pass rows 27, 26, 25, 24, 23, and 22.

The Roads We Travel

Lawsuits affect road agencies, too

Brent Bair

You've probably seen plenty of articles about how liability claims are impacting the medical profession. Well, it's impacting public agencies as well, especially road agencies.

The best way to demonstrate the magnitude of the problem is with some actual examples.

Over the last 10 years, the Oakland County Road Commission has paid out about $3 million to resolve liability claims against it, another $2 million for defense costs for those resolved claims and those yet to be resolved, and has reserved another $12 million for those claims that have been made and have yet to be resolved.

When the road commission was able to get insurance in the last 10 years, it paid a total of $2 million in premiums and those insurance companies paid out an additional $4 million to settle claims and still expect to pay out $2.5 million more for their share of the unresolved claims.

During 1986, 1987 and 1988, the road commission was simply not able to obtain insurance. During the other years, they were required to maintain a very high retention (deductible).

Currently, the road commission has a $3 million retention. The insurance policy does not pay until the settlement or jury award exceeds $3 million for any one claim.

The last numbers I obtained from the Michigan Department of Transportation indicated that they were paying out in excess of $18 million a year to resolve claims. That did not include defense costs. MDOT has not had any insurance for over a decade.

What kinds of claims are these that have resulted in so much money? Generally, they are claims (lawsuits) brought by people who have been injured in automobile accidents and who are alleging that the road was not safe and thus the road agency was negligent in failing to provide a reasonably safe road.

The allegations can range from bad signing to poor design of the road to poor maintenance of the road. Frequently plaintiffs' attorneys have alleged that virtually everything was wrong, perhaps hoping that one of the allegations will stick.

Many times road agencies are added by plaintiffs' attorneys as an additional defendant in a lawsuit because the road agency is viewed as being a "deep pocket," someone with lots of money.

In some situations, the road agency might even get stuck with paying the full amount of the jury award, even though the road was not the principal cause of the accident.

So what does all of this mean? Well, for one thing, it means that millions of tax dollars that were collected from the tax payers for the maintenance and improvement of roads is not being spent on roads.

Those millions of dollars could have paid for a lot of safety improvements, or the paving of many miles of gravel roads, or the widening of many miles of congested roads, or faster snow and ice removal, and so on.

Why so much money? Were the road agencies that negligent that they really owe all that money? How can they get stuck with the full amount of the award if the road was not the principle cause of the accident?

I'll address these and other questions in my next column.

Brent Bair is chairman of the Independence Township Planning Commission.

Jim Fitzgerald

A daughter of my extra sister was married Saturday. The wedding was lovely and the reception was sumptuous, although a trifle embarrassing for guests like me who aren't often invited to sumptuous parties.

At each place setting on dozens of round dinner tables in the banquet room of a plush hotel, there were two large linen napkins. Both napkins were on an otherwise empty plate. One was folded flat, in the customary neat fashion. But the other napkin was crumpled, as though discarded by a previous diner.

At first, when looking only at my setting, I thought there'd been an unlikely mistake. The tables were freshly set with countless silverware, plates and stemmed glasses of various sizes and shapes. Certainly no one had eaten at my table just before the wedding guests arrived. But maybe a waiter had carelessly dropped a crumpled napkin that was supposed to land in a laundry cart, not on my plate?

No. Looking around furtively, I saw that each person at the table had two large linen napkins, one crumpled. I wasn't going to say anything. I remembered a few years earlier, in a fancy New York City restaurant, when I'd used a knife to cut my half-lemon jout of a tight-fitting bag. It was embarrassing to be told I was supposed to squeeze the lemon juice through the bag.

No repeat of that social indiscretion was desired, so I was prepared to observe closely and treat my two napkins the same way my tablemates treated theirs. But they were also confused. One sophisticated gentleman put one napkin in his lap and the other in his collar. Everyone else agreed one napkin per thigh was pretty classy stuff, by golly.

Ultimately the dining room hostess politely implied that maybe our table should be awarded a prize for gusto gaucheness. Ours was the only table at which not even one person knew the second napkins weren't crumpled, for goodness sakes, they were artfully arranged. The idea is that soup bowls are placed on the top of these precious poufs of linen.

Not on my precious poof. I watched other diners cautiously spoon soup out of precariously balanced bowls, nervous as one-legged tightrope walkers. And I decided that, when it came to elegant table manners, there was something even sillier than squeezing a lemon through tight pants. I ate my soup from off a folded, poufless napkin. I had to bow deeper than everyone else to test the soup temperature with my nose, but the environmental damage in the immediate area was comparatively minimal.

It was comforting that I wasn't the only wedding guest embarrassed by deficient napkin etiquette. I wasn't that lucky with a second embarrassment, this one caused by Terrible Jean, my much older sister. You won't believe this, but I have hundreds of witnesses:

Terrible Jean's favorite thing to do at big parties is to seek out strangers and prompt them to admit they'd never heard of her little brother, the famous newspaper columnist. She especially enjoys it if someone lives in the immediate circulation area of a newspaper that publishes my column but absolutely never reads the newspaper.

Terrible Jean emits a heard-across-the-ballroom whoop whenever she discovers a non-reader, and immediately drags that person into my presence, like a trophy, and says: "LOOK, HERE'S ANOTHER ONE!" Terrible Jean captured several non-readers at Saturday's wedding reception, including the amazed priest who performed the ceremony, and I will furnish his name to non-believers.

The bride and groom were Suzanne Moons, originally of Detroit, and Donald Lanza of New York City. Suzanne is the daughter of Bob and Suzy Moons. I used to call Suzy my extra sister because I grew up with her and she bugged me as much as my four actual sisters did. And I loved her as much. Suzy's name has appeared in this column before, most recently in 1986 when she died.

The only time I cried Saturday was when I thought how hard my extra sister would have laughed her marvelous laugh at my embarrassment at the wedding of her gorgeous namesake daughter.

CHS senior wins cash prize from state Jr. Miss

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

Kellee Duty left with high expectations last week and returned with an award for poise and appearance, $800 in scholarship money, and the ranking as a finalist in the Michigan Junior Miss competition.

"She did a super job," said Barb Hamaker, chairperson of the Clarkston pageant in which Kellee placed first.

"She did a fantastic job," said Barb. "The people up there really liked her. On the committee, they said she was a beautiful person inside and out."

Kellee, who was a finalist in the Jan. 20 and 21 competition in Marshall, said she didn't expect to fare so well.

"I was completely surprised and shocked, and I loved every minute of it," said the Clarkston High School senior.

Hearing reset

It's back to the drawing board for Independence Township board members, who plan to create a special assessment roll for sewer improvements on Sashabaw Road.

A public hearing on the special assessment roll, heard before the board on Nov. 29, must be redone, township Clerk Richard Holman told board members.

Holman told the board that he made a mistake in a mailing sent to those affected by the special assessment, so the hearing did not meet the guidelines of the Michigan Public Acts ruling of 1954.

Board members voted unanimously Jan. 17 to reschedule the hearing for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 7, at the township annex, 90 N. Main St., Clarkston.

The sanitary sewer improvements, planned along Sashabaw Road, between McDonald's and Waldon Road, are estimated to cost about $390,500.

If approved, property owners along Sashabaw Road are to be taxed for the improvements according to how much their property would benefit from the sewer.

Alpena, ended up with the crown, and Kellee was proud of her, she said.

"We shared a lot during the week," said Kellee. "I loved her. She was a really sweet girl."

"I was especially happy for her, because she is someone who really needed the money for college. I think I was more overwhelmed when she won."

She also felt the impact from the about 80 Clarkston people who watched her perform.

"Clarkston had the biggest crowd," she said. "It would just overwhelm me. It was so loud. It helped me smile."

Her friends and family also showed their support during her week-long stay in Marshall before the pageant.

"All week, I got flowers and mail. It was the neatest feeling ever. It was so exciting," she said, adding that her family, in particular, was helpful.

"My whole family was wonderful. That made the whole stay so nice," she said.

She returned to school Monday in time for final exams at CHS. After graduation, she plans to attend Michigan State University, East Lansing, where all her winnings should help out.

In Marshall, she won $500 for being a finalist and $300 for winning the poise and appearance award. From the Clarkston's pageant, she netted $1,675 in scholarship money.

KELLEE DUTY was a finalist at the state Junior Miss competition Jan. 21.

Team strives for better school communications

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A successful communications program has two key elements -- leaders who are committed and people who are involved.

According to Susan Maciak, communications coordinator for Clarkston Community Schools, the Clarkston district has both. And on that upbeat note, she reported to the board of education during a special meeting Jan. 16.

An 11-member communications team has been meeting since September, many times before daylight, to put together short-term and long-term communications goals. They worked from a list of over 50 suggestions made by the public at an open meeting last August.

Superintendent Gary Haner, who came to the Clarkston district last July and made better communication one of his top priorities, has also been an active part of the team, representing the district and the board of education.

In addition to Haner and Maciak, the team includes: Mel Vaara, auxiliary services; George White, elementary schools; Vince Licata, secondary schools; Doug Pierson, Oakland Technical Center; Marilyn Allyn, community education; Howard Wright, teaching staff; Trudy Locher, support staff; Bill Bliesath and Durham Downs, community representatives.

2 special meetings

The Clarkston Board of Education will hold a special meeting at 7 p.m. Monday, Jan. 30, in the board offices at 6389 Clarkston Rd., to review the facilities report submitted to the board by the citizen's Facilities Review Advisory Board.

The next morning, Tuesday, Jan. 31, the board will meet again in special session at 7 a.m. in the board offices to further consider the choice of an architect for possible future school projects.

The team set 21 short-term goals for the 1988-89 school year, and 10 others for long-term consideration.

In addition, they identified 38 existing communications activities to be continued. These ranged from the employee recognition program to invitations to the community to attend special school events.

Maciak said communications goals were set in four areas: Internal (exchanging information with staff), external (exchanging information with the community), media relations (providing information for newspapers, radio and television stations), and community involvement (providing opportunities for face-to-face communication with the community).

Maciak highlighted a few of the short-term goals set by the team.

A new "open door" superintendent's policy will ensure two-way communication between the superintendent and staff members.

Informal, in-house employee newsletters are just getting started in all school buildings.

The school calendars will be extended beyond families with children in school. This year, they will continue the mailing to parents of graduated children. Anyone else wishing to be on the mailing list may call Maciak at the Clarkston Learning Center (674-0993).

Creating a district video and information packets are among the short-term goals, as is expansion of the key communicator program.

About 900 key communicators in the district are sent board briefs and other information on a regular basis. The program was begun by Barbara Banker, former communications coordinator who moved from the area last summer. Maciak took over as communications coordinator in August.

Interested residents in the district who wish to be part of the key communicator program may contact Maciak.

A "hotline" service will be developed to answer community questions on school issues. Also, Maciak said, they would survey the community annually on school issues.

More school-business partnerships will be developed. A recent example of such a partnership was the Chevrolet-Pontiac-Canada (CPC) training done at the Technical Center.

Some of the current communications activities will be enhanced, Maciak continued. The concept of "Clarkston's Blue Ribbon Kids" is being continued through a column in the "Clarkston Connection" identifying student achievements.

One way the team is working to improve media relations is by inviting area newspapers to meet with them during one of their morning meetings. Representatives of The Clarkston News will meet with the communications team on Feb. 3.

Through individual school teams and the communications team as a whole, Maciak said the goal is to maintain 6,000 one-on-one community contacts through a network of communication.

"The bottom line is to provide as much information in as many ways as possible," Maciak said, "And to listen to the community."

Tropical paradise at school fair

"Palekaiko," or tropical paradise, is the theme of the Clarkston Elementary School Fair this year.

Set for Saturday, Feb. 4, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., the fair should allow adults and students to get away from the mid-winter blues, said Trudy Locher, one of the organizers.

The Hawaiian style decor will match the workers, who will be dressed in island outfits. Games such as Tropical Bingo, Hang the Beach Towels and Bloody Mary's Haunted House will be featured. Food may be purchased at the Cannibal's Delight food stand.

Tickets (25 cents each) go on sale starting Jan. 30. And raffle tickets will also be sold the day of the fair. For more information, call 625-4900.

Township seeks to demolish Clinton Rd. house

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Bags of garbage stacked for months in a pantry. Pools of animal waste littering the living area. Rotting woodwork falling away from the house.

These are some of the violations listed within a file that dates back to 1982 about a house on Clinton Drive, Independence Township.

Labeling the property a health hazard, board members voted unanimously Jan. 17 to seek a court order to demolish the structure and to enforce the township's new property maintenance ordinance.

The homeowners have two weeks to fix all of the problems before the township asks the courts to demolish the property. But the homeowners are hoping for a longer time period before it's demolished.

Township Clerk Richard Holman told the board that William and Pat Edwards came to township offices on Jan. 17 -- the day of the public hearing -- asking the township for 30 days to make a good faith effort to clear out debris in the structure.

The couple told Holman that they still lived in the structure and that they believed the building was still sound.

Holman told them they would have to address the board at the public hearing that night, but they did not show up.

The Edwards also did not appear at the first public hearing about their house in October.

Pat Edwards, when contacted a week after the public hearing, said that the family did plan to clean up the property and planned to live in the structure.

"We've already been in there to clean it up," Edwards said.

"Over half of it is done already," she added. "I would assume that when they go in there and see what improvements have been made that they would extend (the time they've given us to make improvements)."

The township's new property maintenance ordinance was drafted as a means to deal with this particular case, said Frank Ronk, township supervisor.

At the Jan. 17 meeting, the board also ordered the department of public works to immediately drain the partially filled swimming pool on the property and to immediately secure entrances to the structure.

The action followed a public hearing, attended by about 10 neighbors of the deteriorating property. Some said the Edwards no longer lived in the structure but instead had moved into a house across the street.

Next-door-neighbor Mike Anderson said he and his neighbors were frustrated with their efforts in trying to get the area cleaned up.

"It's a definite disgrace to the neighborhood and the township," Anderson said. "(The house) hasn't been maintained in 10 years."

Anderson told the board that he had purchased his

"Everything was up in the air at that time. My daughter left the cat in there, and I didn't know it. I intend to clean up the house, but we all work. It's going to take some time."

Pat Edwards

home hoping that the property next door would improve.

Under the property maintenance ordinance, William Edwards, owner of the structure, was given two weeks to complete a list of improvements. If the improvements are not made in that time period, another hearing is set before the township board, and a court order may then be issued to demolish the property.

If the improvements are made in the two weeks, the demolition process is halted, and further review is made. The ordinance requires the township to give written notice of the improvements and to set a timetable under which they must be completed.

In order to get permission to demolish a structure, the township must first file a complaint in Oakland County Circuit Court under the nuisance order. Since that allows the property owner to respond, the process could take a while to complete, township attorney Gerald Fisher explained to board members.

Board members said they should take the quickest route to solve the problem, so Fisher advised them to file a court complaint as well as proceed with the township's current plans under the ordinance because he didn't know how long the actions would take.

Donald Phillips, zoning enforcement officer, outlined the events of the last several months:

*Aug. 2, 1988. A violation of the property maintenance ordinance was issued to the property owner, along with a citation.

*Oct. 2, 1988. When violations were not corrected, the owner was ordered before the township board.

*Oct. 18, 1988. The owner did not appear at the public hearing as scheduled for reasons unknown.

*December, 1988. An inspection warrant was obtained and signed by Judge Gerald McNally.

*December 1988. inspections were made by representatives of the health department, fire department and building department, along with plumbing, heating and electrical inspectors.

In memos given to the board, each one described the structure as a health and public safety hazard.

In a memo to Phillips, David Shadley, an Oakland County Public Health inspector, described the condition of the house as follows:

"An inordinate amount of clothing, furniture and other debris had been allowed to accumulate to a point that only a narrow path existed to allow entrance to the front door. This condition continued...where there existed dog and/or cat feces throughout the structure...This house in its present condition is a nuisance and public health hazard. It encourages an insect and rodent infestation which is detrimental to the community."

Edwards said most of the mess was made because the family's children were moving to another residence.

"Everything was up in the air at that time," she said. "My daughter left the cat in there, and I didn't know it," she added. "I intend to clean up the house, but we all work. It's going to take some time."

Under the township maintenance ordinance ordered into effect, the couple will have an opportunity to prove if their conviction to clean up the residence are true.

Brandon man killed in Sashabaw crash

A Brandon Township man was killed Jan. 23 when the car he was driving left Sashabaw Road and hit a tree in Independence Township.

Stephen C. Manning, 31, of Birch Street was driving north on Sashabaw Road near Stickney Road at about 3:10 a.m., reportedly on his way home from a Super Bowl party, said Capt. Steve Ronk of the Independence Township Fire Department.

According to the Oakland County Sheriff's Department report, the car ran off the shoulder, struck a ditch, became airborne, rolled over and hit a tree.

Manning was not wearing a seat belt and was thrown from the car, police said.

"There was no chance at all of survival," said Ronk, adding that the car struck the tree 12 feet off the ground.

"If the tree hadn't been there, he might have gotten a house," Ronk said. "It was one of the worst (accidents) I've seen."

Manning was pronounced dead at the scene and was taken to the Oakland County Medical Examiner's Office where an autopsy will be performed.

Manning was the only occupant of the vehicle. Police said they believe alcohol was a factor in the accident.

Arm and Shoulder Pain

Why suffer from arm and shoulder pain when in most cases there is a ready explanation and treatment? The cause, quite often, is a misalignment of one or more of the spinal bones, which causes an impingement of the nerves that leave the spine radiating into the neck, shoulders and arms. A thorough examination and analysis by a spine specialist should give you immediate relief and help us find the underlying cause of the problem and correct it. Get relief. Give us a call today.

Township residents to vote on funds for complex

-- about $18 dollars a year for a resident owning a $100,000 house, according to township Clerk Richard Holman. One mill is $1 for every $1,000 assessed property value.

"There is a definite need for a new fire station," Fire Chief Gar Wilson told reporters Jan. 20, as he ushered them into the cubicle that is his office.

"This used to be the front entrance," he explained, gesturing to the walls around him. "And we've put some walls up and created day beds for firefighters in the assistant chief's office."

The township began looking seriously at a new location for the fire department's central station about two months ago, Wilson said.

After considering and rejecting two other sites, the township checked into the dealership property and contacted the building's owner, Lehman Investment, owned in part by Ed Adler, who also owns the Clarkston Mills on Washington St., Clarkston.

When Adler said that the state police had expressed interest in the property, township and state police representatives discussed the possibility of the state leasing a portion of the building from the township, according to Wilson.

Although negotiations between state police and the township depend on whether the township buys the building, Wilson said the state would like the site as a replacement for its existing Pontiac post. Township board members said it's too early to determine how much the board would charge the state to lease the space, or how that money could be used.

Wilson said the OCSD would create a substation at the location to replace its office now located in the township annex. The sheriff's department would not pay to occupy the space, under an agreement now shared with the township.

"We see nothing but good from this," Wilson said. "Both the county and the state would like to see operations out of the same building."

Wilson and board members said that approving the bond issue now may save taxpayers money in the long run.

"The rationale is that it would be cheaper for us ... to refurbish the Hosler property rather than build brand new," said Holman.

The township got a good deal on a parcel of land at the southeast corner of Waldon Road and Main Street last year and intended to build a new fire station there. However, the land is not zoned correctly for a fire station, said John Lutz, township treasurer.

Clarkston's bid for cityhood also played a factor in the decision to move, said Holman and Wilson.

"You will have people who say this is just too convenient, and we're just trying to dump the property we own in the village," Holman said. "But I believe the village is going to try to expand their boundaries anyway, and this way, they won't have far to go to have public service. I think it's in the best interest of the whole community."

If the village were to become a city, assets currently

Fire move fine

At least one village council member agrees with township officials that a proposal to build a new fire station outside of Clarkston is a good idea.

Trustee William Basinger said he wouldn't object if Independence Township decides to move the current fire hall on Church Street in the village to the old Randy Hosler building on M-15.

"It makes a lot of sense," he said. "It's a great location for a fire station. They would be close to the expressway and would have more lanes to turn the equipment around."

"We're not at all sure this will happen. We're dealing with so many unknowns."

Clerk Richard Holman

existing in both the village and the township would somehow be split up, said Lutz, township treasurer.

The village applied for cityhood last year and is awaiting a decision from the state boundary commission.

Whether or not cityhood goes through, the proposed fire station location would be good for both communities, said Wilson.

"We would still be close to the village," he said.

Mills owner to sell for fire, police

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

Ed Adler is looking forward to turning his M-15 building into a public safety building in conjunction with Independence Township, the Oakland County Sheriff's Department and the Michigan State Police -- although the details are still sketchy, and it may not even take place.

"We are in discussions with them," said Adler. "We have nothing definite in writing."

Adler is also negotiating to sell the Clarkston Mills on Washington Street, although that, too, isn't final, he said.

Last fall, Adler received township planning commission approval to renovate the old Hosler Pontiac dealership on M-15, just north of the Village of Clarkston. He planned to lease out office and commercial space.

But then the state police asked about using it to house their officers.

"I think they need the building," said Adler. "They've been looking for a place to relocate their Pontiac post, and they want to be near I-75."

Then, word spread along the grapevine, and township officials checked into the building, too, for use as a new fire station.

"It could be a public safety building," said Adler, adding it would probably be large enough to house a main fire hall, a training facility, the state police, local fire department and the deputies who serve the township and the village.

The sheriff's department also thought the move would be good. But Adler cautioned that nothing was for sure yet.

"In real estate, nothing is definite until it's definite,"

"But we would decrease our time in responding by not going through the village."

The current location on Church Street requires a trip through the sometimes congested downtown area of Clarkston on every response to an accident, fire or medical emergency.

The township has hired an architect to conduct a feasibility study, which will help the board determine whether the property is large enough to serve its needs.

"We're not at all sure this will happen," Holman said. "We're dealing with so many unknowns."

Township board members have not yet determined a strategy or decided how the election will be conducted -- whether ballot machines, punch cards or paper ballots will be used.

Holman told the board that the $5,000 average cost of conducting an election has been scheduled into the clerk's budget for 1989.

"This department has never been tough on the taxpayer for services it provides," Wilson said. "Anytime we can help, we do."

he said.

The township has yet to make an offer on the $800,000 asking price, and that will require voter approval. Plus, contracts would have to be ironed out with both police forces.

But Adler said he would probably start making the necessary improvements anyway, and if the deal fell through, the work would be useful on his original plans for an office and commercial space.

Adler represents Lehman Investments, which also owns the Clarkston Mills. He said didn't plan to sell the mills; rather someone made him an offer.

"The mills was not for sale, and if this buyer does not close, it won't be for sale," he said. "I've been having seller's remorse. I like the property, and it's stable now, as far as the tenants are concerned. ... It's a fairly decent place now. I have struggled with it for years, and it hasn't been viable."

The prospective buyer of the mills is excited to buy it but is working on the financing, said Adler. If all goes well, the new owner would keep its current use as offices and turn the former restaurant into offices. He even has a tenant lined up for the former 20 Depot Street restaurant.

As for the Mill Pond cofferdam, over which Adler has had a few conflicts with the Clarkston Village Council over repairing it, it will be sold with the Clarkston Mills, he said.

"That's a part of the property," said Adler.

This bee calls forth mountains and rivers

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Twenty-four volunteers from Sashabaw Junior High squared off in a battle of wits in hopes of winning a geography bee sponsored by the National Geographic Society.

Cari Sundquist topped runner-up Cassandra Friedl to move one step closer to winning a $25,000 college scholarship from the geographic society on Jan. 19 in Sashabaw's media center classroom.

The bee featured questions on geography -- the study of the earth and its inhabitants. All could be answered with a word or a simple phrase.

A sampling of questions asked include: Name three fossil fuels? or What river forms a boundary between Maryland and Virginia?

The school-level bee, where contestants answer oral questions, was the first round in the new National Geography Bee sponsored by National Geographic WORLD, the society's magazine for children.

With her victory, Sundquist now must take a written test; up to 100 of the top scorers in each state will be eligible to complete in a state bee on April 7.

Winners of the state meets will be flown to Washington, D.C. for the finals in May. The first-place contestant earns a $25,000 scholarship. Second ($15,000) and third ($10,000) place also win scholarships.

Half of the Sashabaw contestants were eliminated on the first day of the two-day competition. Those who made it to the finals beside the winner and runner-up follow:

Bernie Wright, chairman of the Social Studies Department at Sashabaw Junior High, conducted the contest.

Crafters wanted for upcoming shows

Organizers are preparing for upcoming craft shows and are looking for crafters who want to sell their winter wares.

Beach contract still unsettled

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

With summer looming just beyond the spring thaw, township board members decided Jan. 17 to begin negotiations with the Clarkston Village Council over the use of Deer Lake Beach for the 1989 summer season.

The lake, located off of White Lake Road, is in Clarkston and Independence Township, but the beach lies in the village. For about 15 years, the village has allowed the township to use the land to run summer programs that serve village and township residents.

Last season, when the township attempted to renew a five year contract with the village, council members would only sign a one year contract, said Frank Ronk, township supervisor.

At the time, township officials said a one year contract would discourage the township from investing in improvements at the beach, so they didn't sign the document but rather sent it back to the village, Ronk said.

At the meeting last week, township Trustee Frank

Millard reminded board members that he used to serve on the village council until he was elected to the township board in November. He outlined the village's hesitation regarding the contract.

First, an automatic renewal clause in the contract would have allowed the township to have five year user-ship as long as the village was given 60 days notice.

"Due to the status of cityhood (proceedings), it (the council) is uncertain of the relationship that would exist in five years," Millard explained.

Residents in the village recently filed for cityhood and are awaiting a decision from the state boundary commission.

Millard also said the village was concerned about the ability of its residents to use the beach, so they're not "choked out" by township residents.

Millard told board members that if the township approaches the village again, the council might be more agreeable.

Board members voted unanimously to open negotiations with the village over the use of the beach.

Village OKs Deer Lake condos

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

After 18 months of research and much discussion, the village council granted final site plan approval for an eight-lot condominium project adjacent to Deer Lake Monday.

Developer Rudy Lozano, representing Vintage Construction Co., was elated the council finally relented and approved the plan.

"I'm very pleased that it's finally over and I'm looking forward to getting started," he said, adding that there still are a few loose ends to tie up before construction can begin but all of the permits are already pulled.

The Independence Township Planning Commission

granted conceptual site plan approval of the project on Jan. 19 but Lozano must appear before them one more time for a final approval.

The project, called Village West, contains six acres off White Lake Road and is like a small subdivision, only the condo association would own the land and the homeowner would own the building site in which a house of any design could be built.

The condo association is to provide garbage removal and lawn and road maintenance, and no boats are to be launched from the beach property.

Originally, the plans called for nine lots but it was scaled back to eight in order to gain Department of Natural Resources approval due to the wetlands area.

Lozano expects to break ground on the project sometime in March.

Park fees hiked for non-residents

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

An old saying reminds us that if you want to dance, you have to pay the band.

A similar message was delivered recently to Independence Township non-residents, when board members said, in essence, if you use our parks, you pay the fee.

The board voted unanimously Jan. 17 to increase non-resident user fees for parks and programs by about $5 per activity or program. Members also approved a schedule of fees charged to township residents who will use park facilities in 1989.

The only major increase in the fee schedule for residents is the amount charged adult softball sponsors because the township is now providing the softballs. The price went from $130 to $230 for games played twice a week and from $90 to $150 for games played once a week.

A resident is defined as any person who resides in Independence Township or is employed full time in the township.

In the past, non-residents have paid non-resident fees only in the adult athletic league and at Deer Lake, according to Ann Conklin, director of parks and recreation.

However, township residents should not have to subsidize recreation programs for non-residents, Conklin told board members.

Conklin also stated that it was important not to make any of the programs cost-prohibitive to non-township residents by charging an extra fee.

Many board members agreed that the move was long overdue.

Alumni, parents and students might enjoy a bus drivers vs. teachers volleyball game at Clarkston High School gym at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 9.

The evening promises to be filled with action, laughter and food -- and all for a good cause.

Tickets are $1 for adults, 50 cents for students and $5 and under free. The proceeds from the match will go toward SCAMP, a summer day camp for disabled youngsters.

"We drive for the SCAMP program in the summertime, and most of us are involved with the kids one way or another," said Jenny Sansom, a Clarkston bus driver helping to organize the event.

"There are students I've grown attached to, and during the school year, I don't get to see them. So it's nice in the summer because we can get reacquainted," she said.

The bus drivers usually perform some charitable activity each year but missed it this year, she said.

Once before the teachers and bus drivers challenged each other in a volleyball game -- for a fundraiser that time, too. That was about eight or 10 years ago, when Ken Grable, the son of a bus driver, was seriously injured when a drunk driver crashed into him as he was walking at Central Michigan University, Mount Pleasant, said Sansom.

The money helped pay his hospital bills, she said, adding that everyone involved in the game had a good time.

The bus drivers feel good when they help others, she said. "Maybe this could help some kids financially who may not be able to attend SCAMP."

"We're more than just bus drivers. Sometimes I think the public forgets that. We're a strong group, and we think a lot of our community. ... A lot of times, parents and kids don't get to see the bus drivers as anything but authority figures."

CHS WRESTLERS are mix of emotions during their Greater Oakland Activities League meet against Waterford Kettering on Jan. 19. The match is the Wolves' only home appearance for the season. Clarkston faces its toughest challenge of the year Friday at the GOAL meet at Lake Orion.

Clarkston Junior High
Mason 47, Wolverines 45 (OT)

Jan. 17—Too many turnovers in the fourth quarter prevented Clarkston from winning the game in regulation. "They wanted it worse than us," said Coach Bill Bildstein.

Craig Garnett scored 16 points and grabbed 11 rebounds to pace Clarkston. Jeremy Deloney and Sean Halleran added eight points apiece. Jason Kinzler had 12 rebounds.

Wolverines 70, Pierce 55

Jan. 19—Deloney paced the team by scoring 24 points. Dave Smith added 19 points and four steals to the cause. Kinzler had nine rebounds and Devin DuPree had 10 points and seven assists. Garnett also passed the ball well, dishing out five assists.

The win boosts Clarkston's record to 6-2.

Sashabaw Junior High
Lake Orion 57, Cougars 47

Jan. 17—Injuries have haunted the Cougars on the court so far this season. Sashabaw played well in the first half, said Coach Jim Smith, but Lake Orion pulled away after the intermission.

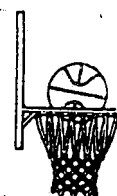

Jeremy Burke scored a team-high 12 points for the Cougars while Mark Peterson added 11 and Rich Gollar had 10. Tony Quigley chipped in with six points.

Mason 80, Cougars 52

Jan. 19—Despite 24 points and 11 rebounds from Burke and six points and 11 rebounds from Jim Drysdall the Cougars lost their fifth game of the season.

"We are taking our lumps right now," the coach said. "Two starters will be back next week for us (from injuries.)"

Kevin Heidisch and Dave Hernandez also played well for the Cougars, scoring seven and six points, respectively.

College Update

Dave Jokisch scored 25 points for Lake Superior, but it wasn't enough to prevent a loss to Hillsdale College in a men's college basketball game.

The Soo Lakers dropped a 103-92 decision to the Chargers on Jan. 14, dropping their record to 4-10 overall and 1-4 in Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference play.

Jokisch, a 1984 graduate of Clarkston High School, currently is shooting 53 percent from the floor and 81 percent from the free-throw line while averaging more than 16 points a game. He leads his club in assists with 72 and steals with 23 from his forward position.

Lake Superior hosts Northwood Institute Jan. 26 and travels to face league-leader Ferris State Saturday.

Time Out

Bottle

Auchter

If only there were some way to bottle that winning feeling and release it when and where it's really needed.

Persistent Time Out readers know I dislike people who believe winning is all sports are about, especially at the amateur level. Somehow, winning at all costs takes the fun out of it. Call me old-fashioned. But, I have to admit, next to a bright sunny day, nothing warms the cockles of my heart better than a victory in a sporting event.

Take, for instance, the wrestling program in the Clarkston school system. At CHS, the team has gone through some rough times during the past six or seven years. When Jason Campbell and Dave London made the state meet last year, it broke a long dry spell for the grapplers. Nobody outside of a vocal parent group gave much support.

Now, those two along with fellow senior Chris Luzi are captains and the Wolves' ship is certainly in shape. By far, the Greater Oakland Activities League—with Lake Orion, Waterford Kettering, Pontiac Northern and Clarkston—is the best this wrestling-rich county can offer and the Wolves are close to grabbing a share of the title. Look how far we have come, baby!

Only a poor outing at the league meet hosted by Lake Orion Friday would stop us. Here's betting that doesn't happen. Considering the number of tourneys the Wolves have won, it'll take a great effort to beat us. Should that happen the Wolves won't have any reason to hang their heads, their goal will still be accomplished. The program will get respect from opponents and fans alike now.

With every victory the team piles up, especially the routs in tournament play lately, more people seem to take note of the the wrestlers. Considering it was the only home meet of the year, a healthy number of fans turned out to watch Clarkston top Kettering last week. It was good to see. They even brought out the music reserved for volleyball and basketball games.

The switch is on, forget about Coca-Cola or Pepsi, wrestling is where it's at. Can't get a seat at the Palace of Auburn Hills to watch the Pistons? Put on your traveling shoes and watch the Wolves. They can't offer anything like a slam dunk (the refs frown on such actions) but it's exciting all the same no matter what level you wish to watch.

On Monday evening, another boisterous crowd gathered to watch the junior high schools battle it out. Both should provide plenty of talent for CHS coach Scott Strickler to work with and keep the wrestling program on the rise.

Same goes for the guys involved in the Clarkston Wrestling Club.

Yes, folks, there is a light shining bright at the end of the tunnel. They're almost there. Wanna hitch a ride?

CHS grad scores for OCC

With a little help from a Clarkston High graduate, the women's basketball team at Oakland Community College continued its winning ways.

Jackie Patrick, a 1988 alumni of CHS, scored four points off the bench during a 69-43 thrashing of Madonna College on Jan. 14. OCC began with a 19-2 run and never looked back.

STEVE MYRE races down the slope at Pine Knob for Clarkston High during a ski meet against Rochester Adams last week. The Wolves beat the Highlanders to keep their dual meet record unblemished at 4-0. Clarkston returns to the slopes Monday for a tri-meet against Bloomfield Lahser and Waterford Mott.

CHS skiers fly high

Girls team wins 3 with relative ease

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

On a scale of one to 10, the girls ski team at Clarkston High rates a perfect 10.

During its last few meets, the girls have steamrolled the competition, picking up perfect scores of 10 during victories over Rochester and Lake Orion. The Wolves defeated Rochester Adams 16-21.

Against Lake Orion Jan. 18 at Pine Knob, the Wolves' racing team finished in the top six places to rout the Dragons.

A day later against Adams, Tammi Mitchell took second, Tina Sheppard third, Carrie Roeser fifth, Karen Lowe sixth and Emily Winfield eighth as the Wolves edged out their toughest rival in the league.

The win was doubly pleasing for Clarkston since the Adams skiers were bragging beforehand that they were the team to beat, Coach Janie Huling said.

"We shocked them into reality," she said afterward.

On Monday, the warm weather didn't slow the Wolves down at all against Rochester as Mitchell finished with a 45.22 second clocking in first place. Heather Johnson (48.01) was second, Winfield (49.68) third, Lowe (50.10) fourth and Robin Menke fifth.

The win keeps the Wolves' record perfect at 4-0 and impressed Huling.

"They are massacring the opposition and taking no prisoners," she said. "Ten is their magic number and it has been coming up a lot lately."

Boys battle hard, victories pile up

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Three straight strong performances by the boys ski team at Clarkston High kept the Wolves' perfect 1989 record intact.

Clarkston beat Lake Orion, Rochester Adams and Rochester during the past 10 days to up their early-season dual meet record to 4-0.

The Wolves had little trouble disposing of Lake Orion on Jan. 18 at Pine Knob, winning 11-31. Clarkston's Rob Brown won the race going away.

"Rob Brown was the fastest (racer) by five seconds," said Coach Janie Huling. "We did quite well."

A day later against Adams, Clarkston won 13-27, with Brown leading the pack again. Shawn Lambouris finished third, Mike Chuchrelli took fourth, Brian Zoss fifth and Bart Roeser sixth for the Wolves.

On Monday, Rochester was Clarkston's latest victim on the slopes when it dropped a 15-23 decision.

Lambouris was the top racer for Clarkston with a second-place time of 41.09 seconds. Brad Gaulin (43.11) was third, Matt Warren (43.22) fourth and Brian Zoss (43.50) sixth.

Scott Tater of Rochester won the race with a time of 40.97.

Clarkston returns to action Monday afternoon at Pine Knob in a tri-meet against Bloomfield Lahser and Waterford Mott.

Wolves whip the Captains

Easy 81-49 GOAL victory

With the game all but over in the first quarter, Coach Dan Fife peeked into the Wolves' basketball future Friday.

Senior guard Darin Brandt, thanks to foul trouble, didn't log his usual number of minutes, forcing a young backcourt to run the show while he watched from the bench.

The transition was smooth; the Wolves hardly missed a beat as they trounced Waterford Kettering 81-49 on the road. Clarkston led 20-10 after one quarter and was never seriously threatened the rest of the way.

"Darin didn't play a lot and I wasn't sure that would be good for us," the coach said. "I didn't know if that could happen (and the Wolves could still control the ball well.)"

Fife said the team passed the ball across the floor well and played a smart game, minus their backcourt leader.

Five players scored in double figures for the Wolves. Kevin McCormick led with 18. Reggie Reed had 17, Dugan Fife 13 and Jim Huttenlocher and Melvin Hemminger 10 apiece. Hemminger, a senior who came off the bench, provided some unexpected scoring punch.

"Mel wanted to play well," the coach said. "He got his shot and played well."

Scott Weeks and Huttenlocher also were credited with good performances by Fife.

Overall, nine players scored for the Wolves including a fourth-quarter basket by Bill Knight who was promoted from the junior varsity squad.

Kettering had a terrible time finding the bottom of the hoop throughout the contest, and it cost them dearly. By halftime, the score was 38-20 in favor of the visitors.

McCormick and Huttenlocher provided most of the scoring early on, combining for 18 points before the intermission.

The rout continued to get worse in the second half as Clarkston emptied its bench yet still could do no wrong against the hapless Captains.

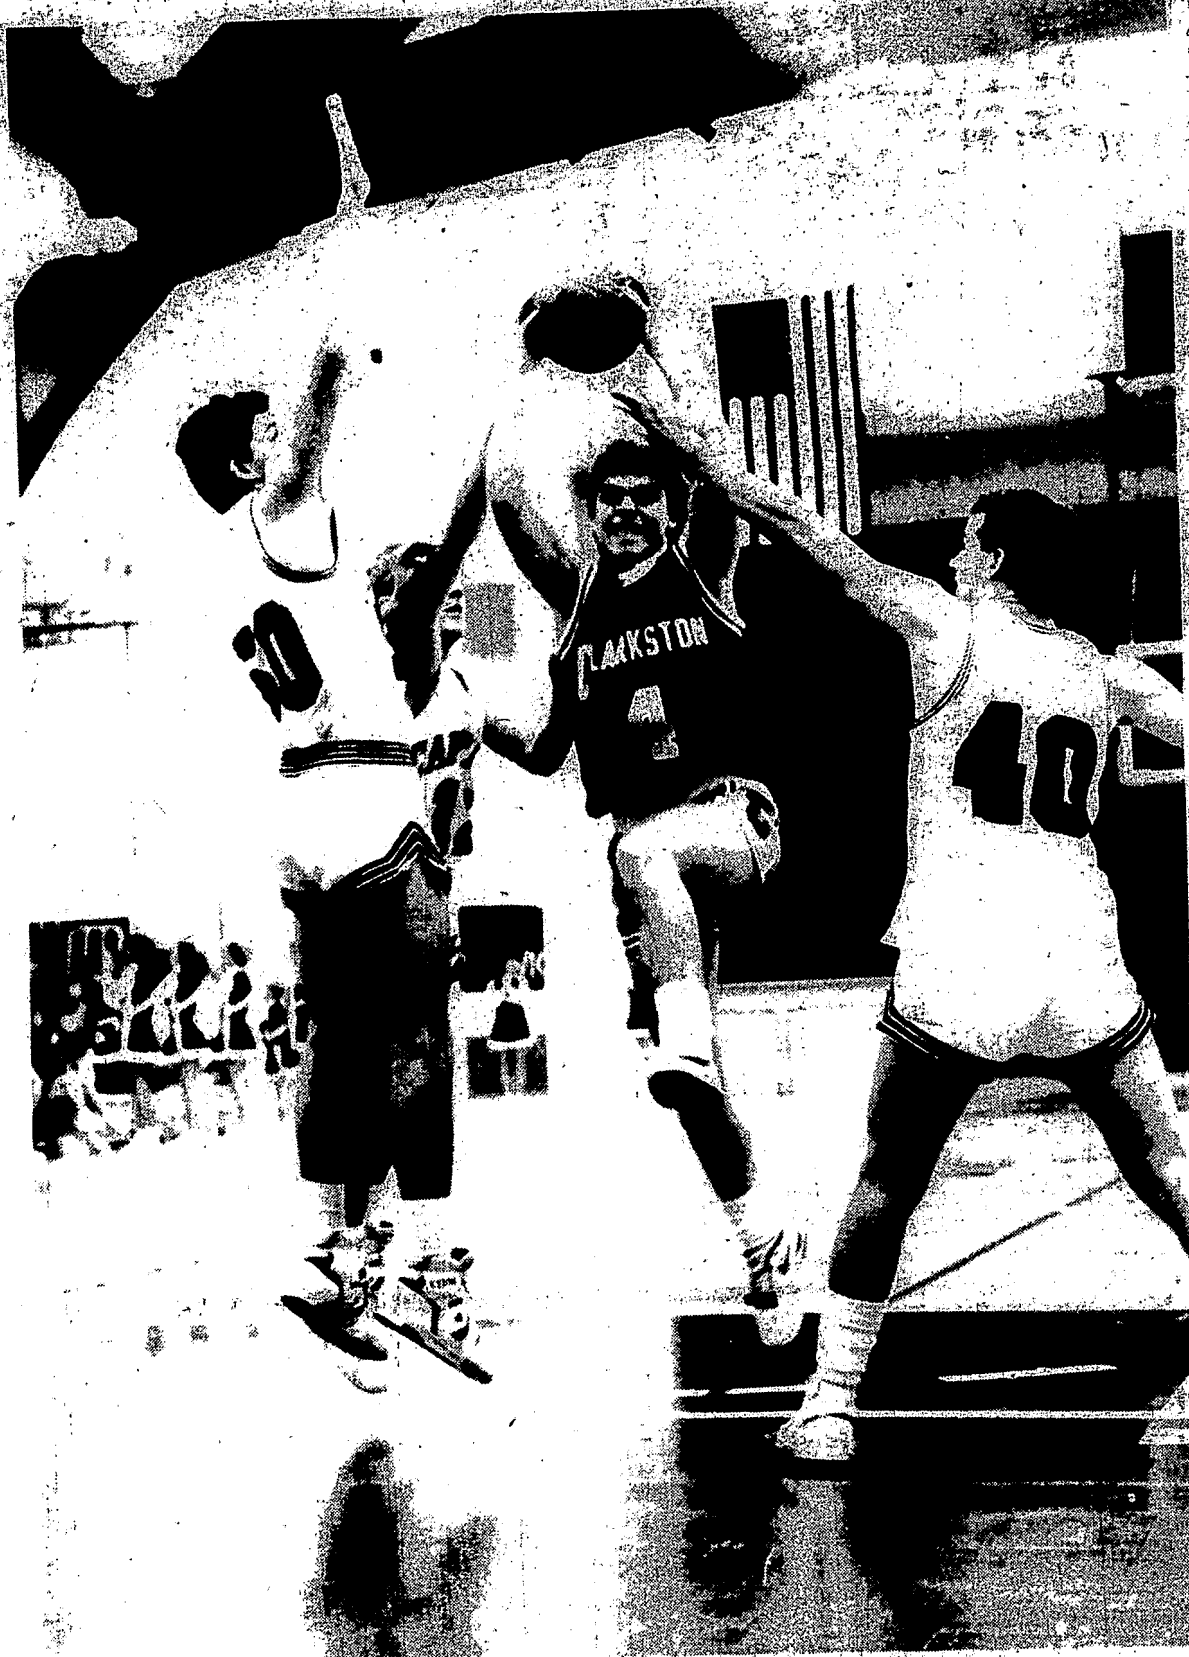

With the win, the Wolves up their Greater Oakland Activities League record to 2-2 and their overall mark to 7-4. Kettering falls to 0-4 and 2-8.

Earlier in the week, Clarkston hosted one of the top ranked teams in the state, Flint Northwestern. Unfortunately, the visitors came away with a 72-63 win.

McCormick scored 26 points to lead the Wolves, and Fife added nine.

A 21-13 third-quarter spurt by Northwestern helped it put Clarkston away. But the coach was far from disappointed with the loss.

"I thought that we played them very well, considering they are a top six team in the state," he said.

DARIN BRANDT drives to the hoop on Clarkston's first possession of the game and is fouled. He made one-of-two free-throw attempts to give Clarkston the lead.

Wolves split on hardcourt

Tough defense early and lots of offense late helped the junior varsity Wolves beat Waterford Kettering Friday.

Clarkston couldn't hit the target early in the game, said Coach Tim Kaul, but the score remained close thanks to the Wolves' good defensive play. When Clarkston's shooters heated up, the game was still there for the taking.

"We could have been blown out," the coach said. "We couldn't hit our early shots, but our defense kept us in. It was super defense."

Chris Wasilk had his best scoring game of the year with 22 points. Scott Trekman added 16 as the other double figure scorer for the victors.

Kettering led 12-7 after one quarter and 27-24 at the half but couldn't contain Clarkston's shooters after the intermission.

The Wolves finished the third stanza ahead by three (37-34) and eventually went on to win 52-43. Clarkston's overall record stands at 6-5.

Earlier in the week, the Wolves lost to Flint Northwestern at home, 50-42.

Trekman scored 18, and Bill Knight, playing his last junior varsity game before a promotion to the varsity level, added 13 for the Wolves.

Clarkston had trouble containing Flint's big center yet played well enough defensively to limit the victors to 50 points.

If the Wolves continue to play as well defensively as they have so far this season, they will wind up with a winning record, the coach said.

"The key is teams aren't scoring over 50 points on us," he said. "If we get a little more offense we'll be OK."

Improving spikers searching for stability

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Statistically, the varsity volleyball team has shown remarkable improvement from last season. Unfortunately, the same can't be said of the team's record.

Coach Gordie Richardson continues to push his squad in hopes it will help push the Wolves over the hump. He can see the light at the end of the tunnel.

"Statistically, we are far superior than we were last year," he said. "They are showing progress. It's hard to be upset (with a losing record)."

Clarkston's 4-8 record is deceiving in that it has faced many top-notch competitors including the first-, fourth-, sixth- and 10th-best teams in the state and unbeaten Rochester Adams (number one in Oakland County.)

On Saturday, the Wolves once again were playing against the best the state could offer in the Garber Invitational.

First up was Trenton, ranked 10th in the state among Class A schools. Clarkston lost 14-16, 10-15, despite leading 14-12 in the first game.

Coy Carlson blocked two shots to go along with eight kills and Jami Lerner was 10-of-11 serving to lead the Wolves. Kelly Avenall was perfect in serve reception.

"We had a chance to win, we should have won the first game but we couldn't get a point," said Richardson. "We played pretty well but didn't do enough with (our chances)."

Clarkston then clobbered Dryden in two straight 15-7, 15-4, as Susan McKoin racked up seven kills in 15 attempts. Heather Behrens added four aces serving.

Next, the Wolves split against Lapeer West, winning the first game 15-4 and dropping the second 10-15.

"We passed real well in the first game," the coach said. "They passed great in the second game. They really pounded the ball."

McKoin had eight kills, Jenny Grohs had 11 assists and was a perfect 11-of-11 serving as was Michelle Sykes (six-for-six).

Clarkston's biggest test of the day came against number one East Kentwood. It almost became the Wolves' best match.

The entire tourney stopped to watch the Clarkston-East Kentwood match when the Wolves raced out to a commanding 9-0 advantage in the second game in hopes of seeing an upset. But it was not to be as Kentwood rallied to take a 2-15, 12-15 victory.

"We had all the chances in the world but couldn't get over the hump," said Richardson. "I felt that we could have won."

Grohs was 10-of-10 serving with two aces; Behrens was six-of-six, and Wendy Cummings was five-of-five with two aces to pace the Wolves. Lerner was perfect in 10 serve reception attempts and had two blocks.

Wolves win Brandon Invitational, ready for toughest challenge yet

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

With another tournament trophy in hand, the Clarkston High wrestling team will set its sights on larger prey Friday.

A victory at the Greater Oakland Activities League meet at Lake Orion Friday afternoon could propel the surprising Wolves into a tie with the mighty Dragons for the league title. But it won't be easy.

"The GOAL meet will be the toughest tournament we'll be in all year," Coach Scott Strickler said.

Preliminary matches get underway at 4:30 p.m., and finals are set to begin three hours later.

Over the weekend, the Wolves ripped through a host of opponents at the Brandon Invitational, winning the tourney with 209 points. Its closest rival was Berkley with 118.5 points.

Champions for Clarkston were Chris Luzi at 112

Clarkston finished off the day in the playoffs with a three-game loss to Portage Northern 4-15, 15-7, 3-15. Lerner was perfect with her six serves; Behrens had an ace to go along with an eight-of-eight serving performance, and Cummings was seven-of-seven serving. Carlson and Grohs had four blocks apiece.

Lack of consistency hurt the Wolves throughout the tourney and throughout the current season, the coach said.

"We are not getting the serves when we have to have them," he said. "We've been close enough in some of them that we could have won. They (his players) know that they are capable of winning. We have to maintain our consistency."

pounds, Dave London at 125, John Terpstra at 145, Joel Davis at 171 and Jason Campbell at 189. Those in second-place were Tony Miller at heavyweight, Matt Boucard at 103 and Damon Michelsen at 152.

"We wrestled as well as can be expected," the coach said. "Our program is on the rise. Enthusiasm is starting to come back."

The Wolves were fired up earlier last week for their only home meet of the year. They topped GOAL rival Waterford Kettering 31-24 on Jan. 19.

Winners for Clarkston were Luzi, London, Adam Atkinson, Terpstra, Michelsen, Jerry Lawrence and Campbell.

The two teams will go at it again when district play begins next month. Strickler looks forward to the rematch.

"We are wrestling better and better all the time," he said. "We didn't overload the schedule, so the guys are starting to peak."

Wolverines defeat Cougars on mat, 54-34

A couple of key victories, including a last-second pin helped Clarkston Junior High defeat rival Sashabaw in a wrestling match Monday.

The victory ups the Wolverines' record to a fantastic 6-1 while Sashabaw falls to 4-2.

Steve Buday, at 75 pounds; Mike Cain, at 100; Joe Romzk, at 115; Jerry Anderson, at 120; Terry Melvin, at 125; Jeff Newlon, at 145 and Paul Krause at heavyweight all won matches for Sashabaw. Individual results for Clarkston were not available at press time.

Although the final score read Clarkston 54-Sashabaw 34, Cougars coach Jim Banes said the match was close.

"They have a good program," he said. "But the score doesn't reflect how close it was."

Mental mistakes by the Cougars when they needed to concentrate most cost them victories in three separate matches, Banes said. If Sashabaw could have hung on to win those, the Cougars might have been the winner instead.

Earlier, Clarkston beat both Waterford schools easily and slipped past Lake Orion.

Against Mason on Jan. 4 the Wolverines won 63-37 as Tony Fortuna, Pat Forbes, Jeff Ferrand, Jake Briggs, Jason Roughton, Joel Morris, Matt Seitz, Rick Detkowski and Will Madison all won their matches.

Against Lake Orion on Jan. 11, the Wolverines won 54-46 as Briggs, Roughton, Sean Mick, Gerik Granlund, Seitz, Detkowski, Steve Hunkele and Madison won their matches.

Clarkston then warmed up for the Sashabaw encounter by whipping Crary 65-27 on Jan. 16 as Forbes, Briggs, Mick, Roughton, Morris, Granlund, Seitz, Detkowski, Eric Venegoni, Chris Allen, Madison and Mike Dombrowski won their matches.

Sashabaw also has been wrestling well of late, winning three straight matches before Monday night's loss. The Cougars beat Imlay City 68-36, Pierce 75-27, Mason 83-30 and Brandon 71-30 after opening the season with a loss to Lake Orion.

Win free lesson

Beachball-volleyball, team handball or a chance for free karate lessons are available from Clarkston Community Education this winter.

Junior high or high school students interested in trying the karate class should write their name and phone number on a slip of paper and place it in the "karate box" at the school's office. A winner will be announced Jan. 30.

Karate instruction takes place twice a week, Monday and Wednesday, from 6 to 8 p.m. for four weeks.

Beachball-volleyball is offered for the first time in Clarkston. Beginning on Feb. 7 at Bailey Lake Elementary, the course runs four weeks and costs $12.

Team handball is a new game at the Olympics. It combines the familiar skills used in soccer, basketball and speedball. Beginning Feb. 7 at Bailey Lake Elementary, the course runs four weeks and costs $12.

Last day to register for the previous volleyball or handball courses is Feb. 3. Bring an envelope with your name, address and money to the school office to sign up.

MIKE ROBINSON of Sashabaw has control of Pat Forbes for now but can't hang on to win. The Cougars eventually lost to the Wolverines, dropping their record to 4-2.

After 7 years, church finds permanent home

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

After years of roaming from building to building, the Rev. Samuel B. Combs finally found a permanent home for his ministry in Independence Township.

Seven years ago, he began what today is called Victory Baptist on Reeder Road off Clintonville Road in his home with his wife, Barb. His reasoning was simple.

"I wanted to put a King James (Bible)-believing church in the area," the pastor said. "To try to be a blessing and further the word of God."

His congregation moved into the Reeder Road building in September when they rented the place from another church. The two groups later merged, with Combs preaching.

The pastor, who was born in West Virginia, has

Air compressor to help fire department

An air compressor and related accessory equipment for the Springfield Township Fire Department was approved in December as one of the items earmarked for federal Community Block Grant Funds (CDBG).

But Supervisor Collin Walls said the township has since learned that the equipment did not qualify for CDBG money. So in January, the board re-examined bids which had been received by Fire Chief Marlan Hillman for the equipment.

The board approved the purchase of the equipment, which is used to fill the breathing apparatus used by firefighters, from Coon-DeVisser of Royal Oak. The vote was 6-0, with Trustee Charles Oaks abstaining because he is an on-call firefighter for the township.

The $13,445 cost of the equipment includes delivery and installation.

It was not the lowest bid, which came in at just under $12,000, but the board agreed that it was the best and safest equipment offered by the bidders.

lived in the Lake Orion area since he was four years old. After winning a bout with alcoholism -- he hasn't had a drink in 17 years -- he knew God had plans for him.

He hopes to one day open a rescue mission in the area to help others overcome their problems just as he has.

"We want this to be a lighthouse for people to reach out to," he said.

For now, he's happy to have his parishioners worshipping in a building they own -- they purchased the building Dec. 1 -- after spending the past seven years in various buildings in the Lake Orion area.

Currently, Victory Baptist has 100 members, but visitors are always dropping by at every service, Combs said. The response after the initial visit has been favorable, he added.

Every third Sunday of the month, a special service complete with dinner and singers is conducted at Victory Baptist. Combs said he invites anyone in the community to come join them.

Although the seven-year journey hasn't always been easy for Combs, he knew it was the right thing to do from the start.

"It can be shaky but you have to stay with it," he said. "I knew the Lord would do it."

SAMUEL B. COMBS is happy to finally have found a permanent building to preach after seven years of moving from place to place.

Full time driver joins senior center

The road has been cleared towards a better transportation system for Independence Township senior citizens.

Jeff Cooper, the current part-time driver at the senior citizen center, got a green light from township board members to fill a full-time driver position, pending approval from the township employee union.

The union, AFSME, will decide whether to create a van driver classification within their contract. The position would pay a salary of $14,269 a year plus benefits.

At the board meeting Jan. 17, senior center director

Rina Chemin told board members that Cooper's good driving skills, friendliness and love for the job has helped to build the transportation program.

The transportation program has grown tremendously since the department switched from a volunteer driver to a paid part-time driver twelve months ago, Chemin said.

In his new full-time position, Cooper will, in addition to driving, supervise the proposed home chore program and will handle any emergency clerical work that should arise, said Ann Conklin, parks and recreation director.

Burglaries may be related

Three break-ins of residences on Clintonville Road, Independence Township, Jan. 20, are believed to be related, according to Detective Sgt. Thomas Quisenberry of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department (OCSA).

In the first incident reported, someone pushed in the front door of a residence on Clintonville north of Waldon Road, early Friday afternoon.

Police said several food items, jewelry and guns were taken from the home.

Police were later called to another home on Clintonville near Mann Road, where residents told police that sometime Friday afternoon someone had forced open a rear-side door, and stolen two birds, a rifle, a shotgun, a compound bow and a $500 video cassette recorder.

A third incident occurred on Clintonville Road and Mann, where another two birds were taken, as well as food, shoes, jewelry and electronic equipment. The burglars had gained entry through a front door that had been forced open, according to the OCSA report.

Tire tracks showed that a truck had entered the driveway and hit the mailbox when leaving. Samples of a brownish paint left on the mailbox were obtained for analysis.

"We have a very good reason to believe that these are related based on the method of entry," said Quisenberry.

"Entry was made in all three by a foot on the upside of a door," he said. "And all three happened within a few hours of one another on a Friday afternoon."

A Clintonville Road resident told police that she may have seen those responsible. The woman said she was getting her mail when she noticed a brownish-burgundy van in the driveway of a home on Clintonville Road.

The van traveled slowly down the street, and as it passed her, she noticed two white males inside. One waved at her.

According to her description, the two were young, and one wore a baseball cap.

Anyone with any information about the incident should call the sheriff's department at 858-4950.

Familiar face is new deputy clerk

Winds of change have recently blown through the Independence Township Clerk's office, but that suits the recently appointed deputy clerk just fine.

"I changed my major four times in four semesters at college," laughed Cathy DeRousha, who leaves her three-year position as clerk secretary.

DeRousha fills the deputy clerk job left vacant by Rosemary Howey, who was named the township's director of elections.

The deputy clerk administers personnel paperwork, logs township board meeting minutes and handles other secretarial details that may arise.

"It's a service-oriented job," DeRousha said. "If a resident walks in and needs something, I tend to drop everything."

Working on the computer system is her favorite aspect of the job, she said. When the system was installed in 1985, she was enrolled in a class to learn Lotus, a computer software program.

"They had (Lotus) here. It was fun to be one of the first ones to use it," she said.

DeRousha, who lives in Holly with her husband, Joe, is currently working toward a bachelor's degree in business administration at Oakland University, Rochester.

But that, too, could change.

"As for what I want to be when I grow up, I don't know, maybe management information systems," she said.

For now, at least, DeRousha will occupy herself with the world of Independence Township.

Reagan tribute idea began here

When President George Bush stood up following his swearing-in ceremony on Feb. 20 and proposed a tribute from all America to outgoing president Ronald Reagan, Independence Township chiropractor John Cowan was more than an interested observer.

He had suggested a nationwide tribute to outgoing president Ronald Reagan on Inauguration Day. Though what he really had in mind was a "Hands Across America" type of tribute where people everywhere would take a moment to salute the popular president as he left office, he wasn't at all unhappy about the tribute as it ended up.

In fact, Cowan is thrilled that his idea found its way into the Inauguration Day events.

"It made me feel good," Cowan said. "It shows me one person can make a difference."

Cowan, a Reagan fan since since meeting the former president while working on the 1980 Republican campaign, thought of the idea in November and promoted it through the media and through political channels.

By the time the proposal reached the inaugural committee, it was too late to put together a nationwide tribute, so the committee did the next best thing. They proposed a tribute to be viewed nationwide.

Cowan said he received a call from John Rivers of President Bush's transitional committee confirming the tribute was scheduled. He promptly set his video recorder for last Friday's events.

Following the swearing-in and totally unbeknownst to Reagan, Bush turned to him and said, "President Reagan, on behalf of our nation, I thank you for the wonderful things you have done for America."

Teen mom finds hope in alternative education

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

At 14, Tracie Grimes thought she knew it all. She was a freshman at Pontiac Northern High School in the fall of 1984, living with her parents, Rick and Mary Grimes.

Now at 18, Tracie (Grimes) Farmer knows she didn't.

Dark-haired, slender, and mature beyond her years for having lived so much of life so fast, Tracie is an honor student in the alternative education program at the Clarkston Community Learning Center on Maybee Road, Independence Township.

In January of her freshman year at Pontiac Northern, Tracie became pregnant. She talked her parents into letting her marry her boyfriend, Randy, who was several years older than she was.

The Clarkston News

Reflections

Section 2

Wednesday, January 25, 1989

"At 14, I had a dream, like everyone, of having a family," Tracie says. "But when it happened, I found out it didn't work."

She left Pontiac Northern and attended an alternative education program in Oxford until the summer of 1985. That summer, turning 15 and still expecting, Tracie moved with her husband to Independence Township. She had a son, Rickie, in September.

"I heard about the alternative ed. program in Clarkston, and tried to get started," she says. "I got all signed up, got accepted, went through the interview."

Tracie began having marital problems. She left her husband shortly after Rickie was born and moved back in with her parents, who at that time lived in Independence Township.

In spite of her problems, she did attend alternative education for about three weeks that fall. But her son, then two months old, became very ill and had to undergo surgery.

"I just told (alternative education) I'd be back next semester," she says. "Needless to say, I did not."

Tracie and her husband got back together just before the holidays of 1985, but she says he did not want her to return to school, where he thought she had friends and a separate social life.

In June of 1986, she left her husband again, this time for good. "I found out he was going out on me," she says.

"I felt insecure for a long time, but not now. I feel I can do it myself. I've done it this far. I have to do it for me and for my son."

Tracie Grimes

TRACIE FARMER, a Clarkston alternative education student, visits with her 3-year-old son, Rickie, who attends the Funshine Child Care Center in the same building.

"I thought I might be an outcast when I came here. I was so young, with a baby, getting divorced at 16."

Tracie Grimes

She returned again to her parent's home and in the fall of 1986, she came back to the alternative education program.

"I thought I might be an outcast when I came here," she says. "I was so young, with a baby, getting divorced at 16."

But she found the students to be supportive and friendly and the staff in the Clarkston Learning Center to be friends as much as principals, teachers and social workers, she says. "And that's what counts the most. It's one big family."

"They don't make me feel any different than anyone else," she says. "They accepted me, took me in, talked to me. No matter how many times I gave up, they were there to encourage me to keep going."

Tracie did keep going through the 1987-88 school year. And while she attended classes, her son Rickie attended the Funshine Program in the same building, a licensed child care program which is open to the public, but gives first priority to children of students attending alternative or adult education classes.

But then in the fall of 1987, everything she missed in life caught up with her, and she started having personal problems.

"My parents were going through a divorce. My son (who has chronic asthma) was in and out of the hospital," she says. "I was trying to be my own person, trying to be independent."

But at the same time, she says she wanted to be young again and make up for what she had missed out on. She started missing a lot of school due to both her son's illness and her own problems.

"I didn't want to deal with school, people -- everything," she continues. "I was growing up and realizing what the world was all about."

Later, she says she realized that school was the one thing she could deal with. "The one place I could go and be me."

She lost all her credits that fall. In January of 1988, the staff put her in adult education, which is less structured but allows for even fewer absences. Things started out OK, she says, but then her son became ill again. She missed too many days and again lost her credits.

"Over the summer, everything was just falling apart," she says. "I knew I had to do something for myself."

"Tracie has done an outstanding job. She's emerged as a leader. She's a member of student council. She's got a lot of confidence and realizes life will go on, and she will survive."

'Curious' CHS senior wins essay contest

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

With "Freedom, Our Most Precious Heritage" as the theme to work with, Marie Powell made the time to enter the Clarkston Area Optimists Club essay contest and won.

The Clarkston High School senior is number one in her class with an overall grade point average of 4.071. She is a National Merit Scholarship semi-finalist and said she is entering as many scholarship competitions as she can, such as this essay contest.

The local Optimists Club contest was overseen by Vince Licata, assistant principal at Sashabaw Junior High School, Dr. Robert Burek, principal at Clarkston High School, and three other CHS staff members.

It is part of a competition sponsored by the National Optimists, and Powell, as the local winner, has advanced to district competition.

Fifty district winners are chosen to go on to a writing seminar in Valley Forge, Penn., conducted by the Freedom Foundation. Three national winners are chosen at this conference and awarded scholarships. First place winner receives $5,000, second place, $3,000, and third, $2,000.

"Marie's was an outstanding essay," said Licata.

There were about a dozen essays entered in the contest, he said. The high school competition took place in November and December. Essays had to be between 400 and 500 words long on the chosen theme of freedom.

Second place winner from CHS was Ann McClellan, and third place honors went to Stacy Grutza. All three students received certificates and pins for their winning efforts.

Marie was honored last Wednesday at the Optimists Club breakfast meeting at Spring Lake Country Club, Licata added.

She is the daughter of Carolyn Cottick of Independence Township and Thomas Powell of Dryden Township.

She moved to the Clarkston area with her mother at the end of her ninth-grade year, and participates in many school activities.

This year, Marie is acting president of Drama Club, a member of girls select ensemble, president of National Honor Society, a member of Just Say No Club, the community relations committee, student leadership group, and quiz bowl.

Registration begins at learning center

Evening registration for Clarkston Adult and Community Education began Jan. 23 and continues through Thursday, Feb. 2.

Hours at the Clarkston Community Learning Center, 5275 Maybee Rd., will be extended to 7 p.m. Monday through Thursday during registration.

Saturday registration is also set from 9 a.m. to noon on Jan. 28 for the convenience of working people who would like to enroll in evening programs.

Academic advisers will be on hand to help new and returning students plan high school diploma programs.

Area residents will also be able to register for community education classes in arts, crafts or hobbies, business, fitness and parenting.

For more information, call 674-0993.

In past years, she has also been active in forensics, cross-country track as the manager, French Club, F.A.C.T. (Fighting Alcohol and Chemicals Together), student government, and SADD (Students Against Driving Drunk).

She has also been involved in community activities, such as youth choir and flute ensemble at the Clarkston United Methodist Church, and participating in lessons in vocal technique.

"I just love to be involved in everything," Marie said. "My problem is I'm too curious about everything. It's fun, but it takes lots of time."

Marie's best subject is math, but she enjoys writing, too. She aspires to be a nuclear or electrical engineer and hopes to attend the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge.

MARIE POWELL, a Clarkston High School senior, is the winner of an essay contest sponsored by the Clarkston Area Optimists Club.

CPR class held

A CPR (cardiopulmonary resuscitation) class is being offered free of charge at Springfield Oaks Activities Center, 12451 Andersonville Road, on Feb. 9 and 16. The only cost for the class is an optional $10 book.

Co-sponsors of the class are the Young at Heart senior citizens group and the parks and recreation department in Springfield Township.

Dean Farner, a certified instructor and a Springfield Township firefighter, is teaching the class, which will take place from 1 to 3 p.m. on both Thursdays in February.

Interested people need to pre-register before by Wednesday, Feb. 1, by calling Sherry Swindell, parks and recreation director, at 625-9622.

"I won't know until this spring if I'm accepted," she said. But she does know that she's already accepted at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, in the College of Engineering.

The dark-haired senior is only 16 years old, having skipped the seventh grade.

As to the future?

"I would kind of like a job in research," she said thoughtfully. "I like to go deeper and see what else is there."

Pet of the Week

Two playful puppies

These two little fuzzy-faced puppies are 8-week-old German wire-haired pointer mixes. Both are black and white, and look like they might have a little Labrador in them as well.

The puppies, named Indigo and Ivan, are brothers from a litter brought to the shelter. They are playful, adorable, and easy to fall in "puppy love" with.

Indigo and Ivan can be adopted at the Michigan Humane Society, 3600 Auburn Rd., Auburn Heights, 852-7420. Hours at the non-profit shelter are 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

The adoption fee for each is $55, which includes a deposit on neutering when they are six months old.

Lecture series canceled

"Hometown Celebration," a lecture series planned by Clarkston Community Education, was canceled due to lack of community response.

"I'm disappointed, but I'm not completely abandoning the idea," said Chris Scharrer, project coordinator for the adult and community education.

She said she is looking at other ideas for the fall enrichment program.

The decision to cancel came last Tuesday, when ticket response was low and the first lecture of the series, scheduled for Feb. 2, was approaching.

Scharrer said they had received very positive comments on the lecture series, but not enough positive ticket sales.

The series would have spotlighted four well-known speakers from the southern Michigan area: celebrity mother Barbara Gibson, local author Jim DuFresne, Detroit Police Commander Gilbert Hill, and Comedy Castle owner Mark Ridley.

After a disagreement with her father, she moved into friend Pam Ayotte's home in Pontiac. Pam said she would watch Rickie when he was ill and couldn't attend Funshine.

"My friend wanted to see me make it," Tracie says. And she did. Tracie came back in the fall of 1988, where she is on the A-B honor-roll. In October, she moved back to Independence Township to be closer to school. Meanwhile, Rickie has recovered from his illness and is back in Funshine.

Tracie hopes to get her diploma in June and attend Otero Junior College through a tuition incentive program this fall.

According to Alternative Education Principal Sharon O'Leary-Johnson, about 41 students are currently in the program, chosen from interviews and careful screening by herself or Kathryn Larkin, the social worker.

"Basically, alternative education kids had trouble with regular high school," Johnson says.

Some, like Tracie, are young mothers whose children can attend the Funshine Child Care Center, which is under the direction of Margie Ried. The center is also utilized in the parenting and child development classes.

As for the alternative education students, they appreciate the credits they earn -- it may be the first time they've really succeeded in high school. They know, if you ask, just how many credits they have earned so far, because it's valuable to them. Tracie is just one of the success stories.

"It's not easy for these students, especially with young children to get ready," Johnson says. The school has a strict policy about tardiness -- even a few minutes late counts against them.

"Tracie has done an outstanding job," Johnson says. "She's emerged as a leader. She's a member of student council. She's got a lot of confidence and realizes life will go on, and she will survive. She shows that to a lot of students."

"My parents were going through a divorce. My son (who has chronic asthma) was in and out of the hospital. I was trying to be my own person, trying to be independent."

Tracie Grimes

She's not a quitter, Johnson adds. Even when she discovered, after taking her G.E.D., that she might come up short on credits to graduate in June. Graduation requirements are identical to those approved by the Clarkston Board of Education for adult education and are accepted as fulfilling graduation requirements for high school.

"She considered not coming back on Monday, but she did," Johnson says. Tracie plans to take extra classes in the second semester to graduate.

Johnson's words ring true when Tracie talks about her plans.

"I can do anything I want if I put my mind to it," she says. "I'd like to work in a hospital, maybe with asthmatic patients because I know a lot about it.

"I'd just like to help people," she continues, "Because of everything I've been through."

"I felt insecure for a long time, but not now. I feel I can do it myself. I've done it this far. I have to do it for me and for my son."

To other teens with problems who don't think they can make it she says, "They have to make it for themselves. There's always an alternative out there. They just have to find it -- sometimes right inside themselves."

At 18, she says she can't be like a lot of her friends. She has responsibilities as a mother, but she's learned a lot through her experiences.

"Maybe I could tell people going through what I went through that it's not the end of the world," Tracie says. "There is a tomorrow."

January is nearly over, and many of us are struggling to maintain our resolution to eat healthier foods. And it is a struggle as the long winter days drone on.

We read that beans contain no cholesterol, are high in fiber and fill us up without filling us out. But did you also know that 1 cup contains more iron, zinc and vitamin B6 than a 2-ounce serving of meat? But protein from meat is of higher quality. However, by combining beans with a grain (rice, in the following recipe), we boast the protein quality to be comparable to meat.

MOUNTAIN SOUP This hearty soup tastes even better the next day. Add a fresh vegetable salad and some corn muffins for a complete meal.

- 1 pound pinto beans
- 2 cloves garlic
- 1 medium onion, chopped
- 4 cups water
- 1 14 1/2-ounce can stewed tomatoes, plus one can full of water
- 3/4 cup brown rice
- 1 4-ounce can green chilies, chopped
- 1/2 teaspoon chili powder
- 1/2 teaspoon cilantro
- 1 teaspoon cumin seeds
- Rinse and pick through beans. Place in a 3-quart

microwavable dish or soup tureen. Cover with water and a lid. Microwave at high power for 12 minutes; reduce to 50 percent (medium) power for 80 minutes. Stir 1 or 2 times during cooking.

Stir in green chilies and spices. Continue cooking at 50 percent (medium) for 10 to 20 minutes or until beans are soft.

My husband and I ate Mountain Soup for days and offered a bowl to everyone who stopped by. So here is a Navy Bean Soup for two or three days for us empty nesters.

MICROWAVE NAVY BEAN SOUP

- 1/2 pound navy beans
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1 onion, peeled and cut into 6 wedges
- Black pepper to taste
- 1 cup chopped cooked ham
- 1 teaspoon ham base, optional
- Rinse and sort through beans. Place in a 2-quart microwavable dish. Cover beans with water and the dish with a lid. Microwave at high for 10 minutes; reduce to 50 percent (medium) for 1 hour.

Stir several times during cooking. Add more water if needed. Add ham base, black pepper and chopped ham during the last 10 minutes. Serve with whole grain rolls for complete protein.

Friend to Friend

'My parents are too involved'

Dear Friend to Friend:

I have a friend who is my age and very mature, but I'm afraid she is going to go too far and do something she is way too young to do (especially in the 80s).

She has been dating on and off a guy from 8th grade until now. She is only a junior and is engaged to be married in April or May.

I don't want to tell her what she can and can't do, but I think she is making a big mistake. I know she doesn't think it's right, either, but she says she's afraid of losing him if she decides to wait.

I don't want to see her get herself stuck in a bad situation. He is not the best guy in the world. In fact, I've heard from my friend that he is involved in some bad stuff, and he has hit her before.

I hate the way she makes him sound like the only one but then tells me all he does bad to her. Can you give me some advice to help her see that there are a lot more fish in the sea?

Fellow Junior Friend:

This is a problem we haven't heard much about. Most guys are not into marriage at that age. If he's older than 16, maybe he has made a career plan for himself and wants her to be a part of it.

But now is not the time for a 16-year-old to be tied down with one guy for the rest of her life. Something you may want to tell her is that she needs to make sure he is the right person for her.

The one sure way of finding that out is giving the relationship time -- which he is not allowing her to have. It could also be helpful to better understand if they are really suited for each other by going to a therapist or counselor who specializes in premarital counseling.

You can also point out to her that she will be changing and maturing a great deal during the next few years. Consequently, she may be a far different person in two or three years.

How can she possibly know that the person she is attracted to now will be a compatible person for her in the future? Also, getting married now may seriously delay (perhaps for 10 or more years) her getting to know who she is and what she wants to be in life besides a housewife.

Finally, if she's basically gone out with only one boy, how could she hope to know that this is the only person or the right person for her? She would have to date other people to discover this.

If she marries him because of his pressure, she is not as concerned with finding out what's right for her as much as not losing what she has.

It's nice to know that you care enough about your friend to ask for assistance. As you know, you can't make the choice for her, but you can be there to support her no matter what she decides to do. Good luck.

Dear Friend to Friend:

I shouldn't be complaining! I have the perfect family life. My parents love me; they show they care; they love to be involved with me. I just feel they are to involved.

I'm the baby of the family, and everyone else has left home, so I'm like any only child now. The trouble is since my brothers and sisters have left, I have heard twice as many complaints from my parents.

It used to be divided a little when the whole family was home, but now I'm the center of attention, and my parents will yell at me for things that never mattered before.

I work hard and always have for the grades I get, but somehow, if I mention a bad test, they'll get on my case about it. Before, it was like they trusted me and knew I would get it under control alone.

If my room is a mess, it becomes the big issue, and before they could have cared less, as long as they didn't have to see it.

This is really bugging me because I'm adjusting as much as them, but it's so hard when they're always right there!

How am I supposed to tell them to lay off without hurting them? I know they're just trying to care, but I can't take it about everything in my life. Please help me!

Sincerely,
Suffocatingly Alone

Dear Suffocating:

Even though you perceive your family to be perfect, that doesn't mean it's problem-free. You seem to be appreciative that your parents care so much, but maybe you can use some of our suggestions on how to deal with this stress.

First of all, try to see it from their point of view. They see you growing older, and they probably feel that they shouldn't have to tell you to clean your room.

Before your brothers and sisters moved out, their attention was divided among you (the children). Now that they're gone, and it's just you, most of the attention is directed toward you.

The first suggestion obviously would be to talk to them and explain the way you feel. They may not even realize that they are doing this to you. Make sure to do this when things are calm instead of in the middle of an argument. Be sure to point out the areas in which you have been responsible, for example, that you do get good grades.

If after the discussion you find no difference, try and pick some areas that you might be able to better in. But remember, you can't be perfect. Talking to your parents is really the only thing you can do, but if things get that out of control, try talking to a school counselor about it.

Also, keep in mind that they really do want the best for you, and they show it by "getting on your back."

"Director" shall mean the president of the Village of Clarkston, or the president's designate.

"DNR" shall mean the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

"Lot" as used herein shall mean a designated platted lot or metes and bounds descriptions of a parcel. When dealing with a condominium project, "lot" shall mean that area designated as a limited common element which is adjacent to and surrounding a single family residence or single structure within a condominium development.

"Material" shall mean soil, sand, gravel, clay, peat, debris and refuse, or any other substance, organic or inorganic.

"Official maps" shall mean the official watercourse and/or wetlands of the village, as amended, or updated from time to time, which maps shall be on file in the offices of the director.

"Operation" shall mean the making of additions or deposits, performing any construction or excavation activity, removing, improving and/or developing land in any manner, or any combination thereof.

"Ordinary high-water mark" shall mean the line between upland and bottom land which persists through successive changes in water levels, below which the presence and action of the water is so common or recurrent that the character of the land is markedly distinct from the upland and is apparent in the soil itself, the configuration of the surface of the soil and the vegetation. On an island lake which has a level established by law, it means the high established level. Where water returns to its natural level as a result of the permanent removal or abandonment of a dam, it means the natural ordinary high-water mark.

"Owner" shall mean any person who has dominion over, control of, title to and/or any other proprietary interest in designated wetland and/or watercourse areas, or title to an obstruction, natural, or otherwise, to wetland and watercourse properties.

"Remove" shall include to dig, dredge, suck, pump, bulldoze, dragline, or blast.

"Runoff" shall mean the surface discharge of precipitation to a watercourse or low area. Delayed runoff can occur from sudden warming after winter precipitation accumulated as snow and/or ice.

"Seasonal" shall mean any intermittent or temporary operation which occurs annually and is subject to interruption from changes in weather, water level, or time of year, and may involve annual removal and replacement of an operation, obstruction or structure.

"Soils."

(1) "Poorly drained soils" are those soils from which water is removed so slowly that the soil remains wet for a large part of the time. The water table is commonly at or near the surface during a considerable part of the year. Poorly drained conditions are due to a high-water table, to a slower permeable layer within the soil profile, to seepage, or to some combination of these conditions.

(2) "Very poorly drained soils" are those soils from which water is removed from the soils so slowly that the water table remains at or on the surface a greater part of the time. Soils of this drainage class usually occupy larger or depressed sites and are frequently ponded.

"Structure" shall mean any assembly of materials above or below the surface of the land or water, including, but not limited to houses, buildings, plants, bulkheads, piers, docks, rafts, landings, dams, sheds, or waterway obstructions.

"Temporary" shall mean a time period as specified in the use permit, or if unspecified, shall mean an uninterrupted time period less than one (1) year in duration.

"Upland" shall mean the land area adjoining a lake, stream, or watercourse, above the ordinary high-water mark, uses for which are essentially nonaquatic.

"Watercourse" shall mean any waterway or other body of water having well defined banks, including rivers, streams, creeks, and brooks, whether continually or intermittently flowing, and lakes and ponds, or as otherwise shown on an official watercourse and/or wetland map.

"Wetlands" shall mean poorly drained and very poorly drained soils (as defined in this article) one (1) acre or more, including those which are either covered with water or on which the water table is at or near the surface for a considerable part of the year and which, by nature of their surface or subsurface soil characteristics, either contribute to the replenishment of subsurface water supply or are self-contained water resources, and shall also mean land characterized by the presence of water at a frequency and duration sufficient to support, and that under normal circumstances does support, wetland vegetation or aquatic life, wetlands are commonly referred to as bogs, swamps, marshes, lakes, rivers, streams, or ponds. Wetlands shall also mean those areas designated as wetlands on the official wetlands map of the village.

SECTION 17 Findings.

It is recognized by the Village Council that wetland conservation is a matter of Village concern inasmuch as a loss of a wetland, and particularly, in cumulation with other losses of wetlands, will deprive the people of the Village, or others, of flood and/or storm control, wildlife habitat, protection of subsurface water resources and provision of valuable watersheds and recharging groundwater supplies, pollution treatment, erosion control and sources of nutrients, and it is further recognized by the Village Council that rapid growth, the spread of development, and increasing demands upon natural resources, have resulted in the shrinkage of the critically necessary domain of nature, wetlands, and watercourses, and have had the effect of encroaching on, despoiling, polluting, or eliminating many watercourses and wetlands, and other natural resources, and the public trust therein, and that preservation of the remaining wetlands and watercourses in an undisturbed and natural condition shall be, and is necessary to maintain important physical, aesthetic, recreational and economic assets for existing and future residents of the village and of this state.

SECTION 18 Intent and purpose.

It is the purpose and intent of this article, in view of the findings specified in Section 17 above, to promote and maintain a harmonious and compatible land use balance within the Village and to obviate the nuisance condition which would arise with the indiscriminate development of existing wetlands and watercourse areas; to provide for the protection, preservation, proper maintenance and use of Village wetlands and watercourses in order to minimize disturbance of and to them; to prevent damage caused by erosion, scarification, sedimentation, turbidity and/or siltation; to provide for the protection of soils capable of providing necessary filtration for the maintenance of aquifer stability; to protect against loss of wildlife, fish, or other beneficial aquatic organisms, or vegetation, and also against the destruction of the natural habitat thereof; to minimize the phenomenon of environmental deterioration; to secure safety from the dangers of flood and pollution, to prevent loss of life, property damage and other losses and risk associated with flood conditions; to protect individual and community riparian rights; to preserve the location, character, and extent of natural drainage courses; and to provide for the enforcement of this article and coordination of the enforcement of appropriate local, county, and state ordinances or statutes and corresponding agencies.

SECTION 19 Validity and necessity.

The Village Council declares that this article is essential to the health, safety, economic and general welfare of the people of the Village, and to furtherance of the policy set forth in Article 4, Section 52 of the Constitution of the State of Michigan.

SECTION 20 Construction and application.

(A) The following rules of construction apply in the interpretation and application of this article:

(1) In the case of a difference of meaning or implication between the text of this article and any caption or illustration, the text shall control.

(2) Particulars provided by way of illustration or enumeration shall not control general language.

(3) Ambiguities, if any, shall be construed liberally in favor of the protection and preservation of natural resources.

(B) It is the intent of this article to promote flood protection, however, this article cannot be relied upon for determining where floods may occur.

SECTION 21 Wetlands review board.

(A) A wetlands review board is hereby established, consisting of five (5) members selected by the Village Council, one (1) member to be selected from the Village Council, and one (1) member to be selected from the planning commission, and three (3) members to be selected from the electors of the Village. The term of the members from the Village Council and planning commission shall coincide with the terms of office of the respective individuals selected, and the terms of the three (3) other members shall be three (3) years, except that of the members initially appointed, one (1) shall serve for one (1) year, and one (1) shall serve for two (2) years, and one (1) shall serve for three (3) years. All vacancies for unexpired terms shall be filled for the remainder of such term. Members may be compensated for their services on the board as provided by Village Council resolution.

(B) The review board shall establish its own rules of procedure, and shall with the director, administer this article. Three (3) members of the board shall constitute a quorum.

(C) The review board shall conduct at least two (2) meetings each year, and such other meetings as shall be necessary or expedient in the administration of this article.

(D) The review board shall adopt the official Village of Clarkston watercourse/wetlands map within thirty (30) days of the establishment of the board.

(E) The review board shall annually, before March 31, or sooner as it deems necessary, recommend to the Village Council, amendments or revisions to the watercourse/wetlands maps.

SECTION 22 Prohibitions.

It shall be unlawful for any person to do or assist in any of the following unless and until a written permit is obtained from the village pursuant to this article:

(1) Deposit or permit to be deposited any material, including, without limitation, structures, into, within, or upon any wetland or watercourse area, or within twenty-five (25) feet of the edge of any wetland or watercourse designated on the official maps of the village.

(2) Remove or permit to be removed any material from any wetland or watercourse area, or from any area within twenty-five (25) feet of any wetland or watercourse designated on the official maps of the village.

(3) Dredge, fill, or land balance bottom lands or wetlands.

(4) Enlarge, diminish, or alter a lake, stream, or any other naturally or artificially occurring waterway.

(5) Create, enlarge, or diminish any natural or artificially constructed canal, channel, ditch, lagoon, pond, lake, or other waterway for navigation or any other purpose, whether or not connected to an existing lake, stream, or watercourse.

(6) Erect, enlarge, or operate a private or public marina.

(7) Construct, place, enlarge, extend, or remove a temporary, seasonal, or permanent operation or structure upon bottom lands or wetlands.

(8) Construct, extend, enlarge or connect any conduit, pipe, culvert, curbing, or open or closed drainage facility erected for the purpose of carrying storm water runoff from any residential site of two (2) or more single-family residences or from a multiple residence, commercial site, parking area, paved or unpaved private or public road, or any other land use permitting discharge of silt, sediment, organic or inorganic materials, chemicals, fertilizers, flammable liquids, or any substance producing turbidity, except through an interceptor, retention or settling filter, or treatment facility designed to control and eliminate the pollutant before discharged to any lake, pond, stream, or watercourse, provided the design of such facility must first be approved by the village or the DNR.

(9) Construct, enlarge, extend, or connect any private or public sewage or waste treatment plant discharge to any lake, pond, stream, water or drainage course, or wetland except in accordance with the latest requirements of and permit by the County of Oakland, State of Michigan and/or the United States, to the extent that such entities have jurisdiction.

(10) Pump surface waters for irrigation or sprinkling of private or public uses other than for any governmental entity and individually owned single-family residences from lakes, ponds, rivers, streams or waterways except when the waterway is wholly contained within the user's property.

(11) Drain, or cause to be drained, any water from a wetland.

SECTION 23 Activities not requiring a permit.
A permit under this article shall not be required to do or assist in any of the following, subject to compliance with all other applicable laws, ordinances, rules and regulations:

- (1) Fishing, trapping, or hunting.
- (2) Swimming or boating.
- (3) Hiking.
- (4) Grazing and/or watering of animals.
- (5) Noncommercial gardening and nursery practices.
- (6) Installing for noncommercial use a seasonal dock, raft, diving platform, or other water recreational device customarily utilized for single-family purposes.

(7) Minor repair of existing watercourse banks and adjoining upland areas and existing structures when the following criteria are present:

- (a) The repair requires less than three (3) cubic yards of material.
- (b) The repair is necessary for erosion control or protection of aquatic life.
- (c) The repair returns the area to its natural state.
- (d) The repair materials are similar in type to the surrounding land areas.
- (e) The minor repair is done in a manner which prevents pollution of the existing watercourse during and after the repair work.

(8) Emergency repair, replacement or removal affecting more than three (3) cubic yards of material in wetlands, watercourses, and adjoining upland areas when the following criteria are met:

- (a) An emergency condition is present in which immediate action is required to prevent:
 - (1) Imminent, massive, and destructive flooding.
 - (2) Significant spread of a chemical, radioactive, or other hazardous material.
- (9) Emergency use of and drainage of water from any source as required by the fire department.

SECTION 24 Application for permit.
Permits required under this article shall be issued only following the submission of an application to the Village containing at least the following information, accompanied by the required fee established by this ordinance:

- (1) The name, address, and telephone number of the applicant and of the applicant's agent.
- (2) The name, address, and telephone number of the owner of the property, and if different than the applicant, a letter from the owner authorizing the activity proposed in the application.
- (3) Specify the project location, including, as applicable, the street, road or highway, section number of the township, name of subdivision, and name of any body of water which will or may be impacted.

(4) Description of proposed activity.
(5) Five (5) copies of drawings of the proposed activity, including at least the following:

- (a) Title block, including the applicant's name, name of body of water, section of township, description of activity, scale of drawing, and date drawing was prepared.
- (b) Location map stating source of the map, nearest main road, cross road, and route to project site.
- (c) Existing and proposed structures clearly identified, the dimensions of each showing existing shore features and manmade structures and the length of shore frontage, water depths and bottom configuration around project. If existing structures were previously authorized by village, state or federal permit, show corresponding permit number.
- (d) Typical cross sections of existing and proposed shoreline, waterline, structures, dredge cuts and fills, including dimensions and elevations, location of wetlands.
- (e) A description of construction materials such as: thickness, slope, type (stone, concrete, etc.) and size or weight of riprap material when placing a protective facing on earth retention structure. Include the total amount (volume) in cubic yards of all fill or dredge material.

(f) Existing water depth and ground surface elevations referenced to (low water datum on International Great Lakes) U.S.G.S. quad sheets and areas flooded by water part of the year, existing shorelines and high-water marks, flow, and circulation patterns, if any.

(g) Names and address of the owners of adjoining property on both sides, and if on a stream, address of opposite riparian, and the relative location of any structures which may exist along shoreline of adjacent properties. If there are no adjacent structures, show existing shorelines. Size relationship between proposed project and total area, e.g., one acre fill in fifteen-acre wetland.

(h) If proposed activity involves bulkhead construction, show the distance along both property lines from the face of the bulkhead to the center line of a street or other definable reference point, e.g., northeast corner of concrete patio, twelve-inch maple on west property line.

(i) If activity involves dredging, furnish the following:
(1) If the dredging material is to be placed onsite, outline the disposal areas on the drawing. If the dredge material is to be hauled away, provide a vicinity map showing the disposal area. If more than fifty (50) cubic yards of fill are required, indicate the location or source of fill.

(2) Show method of containing dredge material to prevent reentry into any waterway or wetland. Describe all procedures by which applicant proposed to minimize adverse effects of construction.

(j) If activity involves flood plain alterations, proposed and existing contours must be shown on a site development plan.

(k) If activity involves a bridge or culvert crossing, furnish the following:

(1) Typical stream valley cross section representative of the channel and flood plain area downstream of the proposal.

(2) Plan view of the proposal.

(3) Cross sectional view of the proposed structure superimposed on the existing structure (if applicable). This view should include the existing and proposed road center line profile for the width of the stream valley or a minimum of three hundred (300) feet either side of the structure.

(4) Photographs of the structure, channel, and flood plain areas.

(5) A profile view of the proposed structure showing the proposed end treatment and bank stabilization.

(1) If the project activity involves dam construction, provide a sketch showing the head and approximate flooded area.

(6) State whether project involves: dredging, filling, draining, or construction work in inland lakes or streams, or wetland areas; work in riverine flood plain; new or replacement ridge or culvert; or dam construction or reconstruction. In the event work is proposed in a floodway area, a hydraulic engineering report prepared by a registered professional engineer showing the impact of the proposal on flood stage or discharge characteristics may be required by the wetlands review board.

(7) State whether the proposed use will be public, private, commercial, or other (specify), and state whether the proposed use will be served by a new on-site sewage disposal (septic tank) system.

(8) Specify the location or source of fill, if more than fifty (50) cubic yards are required (for other than commercial source), specifying the county, township, section, and quarter section, and include a vicinity map.

(9) State the location where any dredge soils will be disposed, including the county, township, section, and quarter section, and include a vicinity map.

(10) Describe any project alternatives considered.

(11) State whether the project is water dependent.

(12) State the date upon which the activity is proposed to commence, if a permit is issued.

(13) State the estimated time for the work or activity, and state a completion date.

(14) State if any portion of the proposed project is now complete, and if so, identify the completed portion on the drawing submitted, providing the dates on which any and all work was done.

(15) State why the project will not cause pollution, impair, or destroy the water or any natural resources.

(16) List all federal, state or other local governmental agency permits or certificates required for the proposed project, and specify permit approvals or denials already received. In the event of denials, explain the reasons for denials.

(17) State whether there is any present litigation involving the property on which the project is to be situated, and/or with respect to the project itself, and, if so, describe such litigation.

(18) State the name, address, and telephone number of neighboring waterfront property owners.

(19) Zoning classification of project land and adjoining property under and pursuant to the Clarkston Village Zoning Ordinance, as amended.

(20) A written statement in the following form:

The applicant acknowledges that the application for and receipt of a permit from the Village of Clarkston does not relieve the applicant from applying for and obtaining all other necessary permits from Oakland County, the DNR, the State Health Department, and/or the United States Army Corps of Engineers prior to the commencement of work. Applicant further acknowledges that he has conferred, or will confer, with all of these entities for the purpose of ensuring that applicant has obtained all required permits prior to commencing work.

(21) Signature of applicant.

SECTION 25 Application review.

(A) General review procedure.

(1) For all proposed projects and/or activities not reviewed pursuant to subsection (B), below, and in cases where a hearing has been requested pursuant to the provisions of subsection (B), below, the following review process shall apply.

(2) Upon receipt of an application, or upon request for a hearing, as the case may be, the director of the planning department shall forward the application to the wetlands review board after verifying that all required supporting material is available.

(3) The wetlands review board shall set a date for hearing on the application, and shall send notice of the time, date, and place of the hearing to the owners of the property, based upon village records, within six hundred (600) feet of the property on which the proposed project or activity is to take place. Such notice shall also be sent to all village council members, and to all persons, subdivision associations, and lake associations registered with the village which are contiguous to the property and/or wetland affected. The notice shall include a summary of the proposed project or activity, or a copy of the permit application. The wetlands review board may further direct that notice of the hearing be published.

(4) At the scheduled meeting, the Wetlands Review Board shall consider the application, provide an opportunity for the applicant to address the Wetlands Review Board, and provide an opportunity for interested persons to address the matter. The hearing may be adjourned from time to time, as deemed necessary by the Wetlands Review Board, and, if it appears that impairment, pollution, and/or destruction of a wetland or other natural resource may result, and that technical expertise is required, the Wetlands Review Board may require an environmental statement, environmental assessment, or environmental impact study to be provided by the applicant, or may submit the application to the Village Engineer for examination and investigation upon payment by the applicant of the monies projected by such Engineer to be reasonably necessary to make an examination and investigation of the application and provide a report thereon.

(5) Within a reasonable time following the completion of its consideration, the Wetlands Review Board shall make a written determination to issue the permit, issue the permit with specific conditions, or to deny issuance of the permit.

(6) If the permit is issued, conditions imposed shall be for the purpose of insuring that the project or activity complies with this Article, and/or results in minimum impact upon natural resources. The permit shall also specify a time period for commencement and completion of all activities. Additionally, the permit may require the posting of a cash bond or irrevocable letter of credit in a reasonable amount to insure compliance with the permit.

(7) Effectiveness of a permit shall be conditioned upon a signature of or on behalf of the applicant attesting to the following:

All operations permitted or approved by this permit shall be conducted in such a manner as will cause the least possible impairment, pollution, and/or destruction of natural resources.

(B) Special review procedure for certain projects and/or activities.

(1) If the project and/or activity meets either of the following criteria, review shall be conducted pursuant to this paragraph:

(a) The entire project and/or activity is situated on a parcel where only one (1) single family residence will be built, and the wetland being impacted is not, and will not as a result of the project and/or activity become, a permanent or seasonal part of a wetland which is not located on the same single-family residential lot or parcels.

(b) The wetland to be impacted is less than one (1) acre in area, and such wetland is not, and will not as a result of the project and/or activity become, a permanent or seasonal part of other wetlands.

(2) Projects and/or activities which meet the criteria set forth in either subsection of paragraph (B)(1) above shall be reviewed by the director in light of the standards and criteria set forth in subsection (C) of this section.

(3) If the proposed project or activity is found to conform with the standards and criteria of subsection (C) of this section, and with all of the requirements of this article, a notice of intent to issue a permit shall be sent by first-class mail to the owners of property within six hundred (600) feet of the property on which the proposed project or activity is to take place, based upon the records on file at the village. Such notice shall also be sent to all members of the village council and the wetlands review board and to all persons, subdivision associations, and lake associations, registered with the village which are contiguous to the property and/or wetland affected. The notice shall include either a copy of the permit application or summary of the proposed activity or project, and a specification or summary of the proposed activity or project, and a specification that it is the intent of the village to issue a permit unless a written request for an appeal is received within thirty (30) days from the date of mailing. The planning director may also publish a summary of the proposed activity and intent to issue a permit in a newspaper of local circulation, specifying the required date within which a hearing must be requested, which date shall correspond to the end of the thirty-day period from the date on which the aforementioned notices were mailed. Any person interested in the activity and/or project may request that the application be reviewed pursuant to subsection (A) of this section. Such request shall be forwarded to the wetlands review board, and the wetlands review board shall either proceed with the application under subsection (A) of this section, or return the application for administrative review under subsection (B) of this section.

(C) Review standards and criteria. In arriving at a determination with respect to the issuance of a permit under this article, the director of planning and/or the wetlands review board shall take into consideration at least the following standards and criteria:

(1) A permit shall be issued only if the proposed project or activity is clearly in the public interest, and is otherwise lawful in all respects.

(2) In determining whether the activity is in the public interest, the benefit which would reasonably be expected to accrue from the proposal shall be balanced against the reasonably foreseeable detriments of the activity, taking into consideration the local, state, and national concern for the protection and preservation of natural resources from pollution, impairment, and/or destruction. If, as a result of such a balancing, there remains a debatable question whether the proposed project and/or activity is clearly in the public interest, a permit shall not be issued. The following general criteria shall be applied in undertaking this balancing test:

(a) The relative extent of the public and private need for the proposed activity.

(b) The availability of feasible and prudent alternative locations and methods to accomplish the expected benefits from the activity.

(c) The extent and permanence of the beneficial or detrimental effects which the proposed activity may have on the public and private use to which the area is suited, including the benefits the wetland provides.

(d) The probable impact of the proposal in relation to the cumulative effect created by other existing and anticipated activities in the watershed.

(e) The probable impact on recognized historic, cultural, scenic, ecological, or recreational values and on the public health or fish or wildlife.

(f) The size and quality of the wetland being considered.

(g) The amount and quality of remaining wetland in the area.

(h) Proximity to any waterway.

(i) Economic value, both public and private, of the proposed land change to the general area.

(j) The necessity for the proposed project.

(3) A permit shall not be issued unless it is shown that:

(a) An unreasonable disruption will not result to aquatic resources; and

(b) The proposed activity is primarily dependent upon being located in the wetland; and

(c) A feasible and prudent alternative does not exist.

(4) The manner in which the activity is proposed to be undertaken will result in the minimum negative impact upon the wetland and attendant natural resources under all of the circumstances.

SECTION 26 Effectiveness of permit and appeal.

(A) A permit issued by the board after hearing shall not be effective until ten (10) days following the date of issuance.

(B) An interested person who is aggrieved by the determination of the board may request an appeal of the board's decision to the village council.

(C) A request for appeal must be filed within ten (10) days following the board's decision. If an appeal is requested during such ten-day period, the effectiveness of the permit shall be suspended pending outcome of the appeal.

(D) The village council shall determine whether to consider the appeal based upon the minutes of the wetlands review board, or based upon an entirely new hearing. If a new hearing shall be conducted, notice of the time, date, and place of the hearing shall be mailed to the owners of the property, based upon village records, within six hundred (600) feet of the property, and also mailed to all persons, subdivision associations, and lake associations registered with the village to receive such notices.

(E) The procedure for the hearing shall be the same as set forth in Section 25(A), above, governing the procedure before the wetlands review board.

(F) If the village council determines to consider the appeal based upon the minutes of the wetlands review board, the applicant, and other interested parties as allowed by the village council, shall be entitled to be heard by way of argument and citation of authorities prior to the council's determination.

(G) The village council, based upon its appellate review, may reverse, affirm or modify the determination and/or permit issued by the board.

SECTION 27 Permit contents.

The permit issued under this article shall contain at least the following:

(1) The name and address of the person to whom the permit has been issued.

(2) The name and address of the owner of the property on which the activity or operation shall occur.

(3) A statement of all conditions imposed in connection with the issuance of the permit.

(4) The date by which any construction, removal, deposit, or operation must be completed, i.e., the expiration date of the permit.

(5) The amount of any cash bond or irrevocable letter of credit and the institution issuing such irrevocable letter of credit as determined necessary by the wetlands review board, or planning director, as the case may be, to ensure compliance with the permit as issued.

(6) A statement, countersigned by the permit holder, substantially conforming to the following:

All operations permitted or approved by this permit shall be conducted in such a manner as will cause the least possible damage and encroachment or interference with the natural resources and natural processes within wetlands.

(7) The legal description of the parcel to which the permit pertains.

SECTION 28 Posting of permit.

Upon issuance of a permit, and prior to the undertaking of any on-site work, the person to whom the permit has been issued shall post a copy of the permit on the property in a conspicuous place which is accessible for inspection and reading by the public.

SECTION 29 Fees.

(A) With the filing of an application, a deposit shall be made payable to the village in the amount of three hundred ($300.00) dollars.

(B) If an environmental statement, environmental assessment, an environmental impact study, or review by the village engineer or other professional kind is required by the village, a further deposit shall be made in an amount determined by the wetlands review board at the time the board imposes the requirement for such submission, based upon the nature and extent of the study or review.

(C) All amounts of deficiency shall be paid, and all amounts of overage shall be returned, prior to or concurrent with final action on the application.

SECTIONS 30-45 Reserved.

ARTICLE III. DRAINAGE DITCH OBSTRUCTION.

SECTION 46 Definitions.

The following words and phrases, when used in this article, shall have the meanings respectively ascribed to them:

"Drainage ditch" means any natural or man-made channel, stream, natural depression or draw.

"Obstruction" means any dike, structure, building or other blockage which restricts or otherwise impairs the flow of water in a drainage ditch.

SECTION 47 Order of removal.

Whenever the flow of stream water or surface water in any natural or man-made channel, natural depression, natural draw or other drainage ditch is obstructed by any obstruction which in the opinion of the building inspector causes or will cause flooding or damage, the inspector shall order such obstruction removed by the owner of the land so as to provide for the free flow of water therein.

SECTION 48 Permit-Required.

No person shall construct or reconstruct any building, structure or dike, or otherwise obstruct the flow of stream or surface water through any natural or man-made channel, natural depression or natural draw through which water normally flows unless a permit has been obtained from the building department.

SECTION 49 Application.

(A) Contents. Any person desiring to obtain a permit to construct, alter, repair, or reconstruct any building, structure, or dike, or any other obstruction which obstructs the flow of stream or surface water through any watercourse or natural or man-made channel, natural depression or natural draw, shall state the following:

(1) The name and address of the applicant, and if the applicant is other than an individual, the names and addresses of the principals thereof;

(2) The place where such construction, reconstruction, repair, or alteration is to take place;

(3) The reason for and effect of the construction, repair or alteration;

(4) The type of construction to be used in such construction, reconstruction, repair, or alteration together with a description of the materials to be used.

(5) A site plan or drawing of the proposed construction, reconstruction, repair or alteration.

(6) A topographical map including, but not limited to, existing ground elevations and the proposed alterations to be made to the watercourse, natural or man-made channel, depression, or natural draw.

(B) Fee. At the time of filing an application with the building department, the applicant shall deposit with the clerk an application fee of twenty-five ($25.00) dollars.

(C) Issuance. If the building department determines that the proposed structure, alteration, or repair will not interfere with the flow of natural stream, surface, or storm water, and does not cause or will not cause flooding or other damage and will not injure adjoining property, it shall issue a permit to do the proposed work in the manner specified in the application and in accordance with the plans submitted with the application.

(D) Changes. The building inspector or his agent may make MIE GRAVERSEN, 22, stops by The Clarkston News office with her former soccer coach, Hana Olsen. Mie lived in Clarkston four years ago as an exchange student.

Exchange student revisits friends

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

She flew in with the wind and visited old friends, checked up on former teachers and played tennis. Almost as quickly, she was gone. Her return trip to Clarkston was just another adventure for Mie Graversen, 22, a Copenhagen, Denmark, resident.

She first came to know Clarkston as an exchange student at Clarkston High School four years ago, when she stayed with Barbara Fairbank and played soccer for CHS coach Hana Olsen.

Since then, she's traveled the world, met new people, parachuted and studied medicine.

"I travel a lot," she said Jan. 9, two days before she flew back to Copenhagen after a return visit with the Olsen family. "I've been traveling since I left here."

Australia and New Zealand are favorite places to visit, she said, adding that traveling invigorates her.

"Just going to see some new things, meeting new people, going somewhere and not knowing where to stay or what to do. Now I've got friends all over the world. It's really nice."

But her visit to Clarkston was just what she needed, she said.

"This is like my second home. It's great," she said. "It's not enough time to be here, a few weeks. It's just too short. I'll have to come back."

The last day of her visit, she planned to visit teachers at Clarkston High School. "I'm looking forward to seeing Mr. Wenger," she said. "All the teachers were really, really nice to me but especially him. That's a big part of feeling at home in another country."

After that, she planned to return to medical school, where she'll study for three months and then take three months off for more travel.

Greenland is her destination this summer, where she'll work as a cook with geologists.

"I'm a lot more likely to see a polar bear than a human being," she said. "I know. It's completely different from medicine. ... It sounds like I do a lot of things, but I spend a lot of time studying."

She plans to enter neurology research and hopes to go on lots of expeditions. They'll give her a break from her intense field.

"That's one thing I learned from my host family here -- to be spontaneous and do things you like. ... I've met some very spontaneous people here. It's nice to get an idea and do it."

And she needs the trips for excitement, she said. So she might as well combine work with travel because she needs the work for money for more traveling.

One of her next goals is to earn a license to fly a helicopter, she said. And, of course, to travel the world some more.

"I will come back here, that's for sure," she said.

Try your luck

Skilled ice fishermen can win an array of prizes at the "Catch of a Lifetime" ice fishing contest, beginning Jan. 21 at Addison Oaks and Independence Oaks County Parks.

Contestants will try to catch the largest Northern Pike and the largest panfish (bluegill, sunfish, perch or crappie).

All fish must be caught at the park and checked by the park supervisor on duty during the contest hours of 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekends during the month of February. The fish will be judged by weight times length.

Prizes such as annual motor vehicle passes, complimentary boat rental and passes to waterparks will be awarded for first, second and third places in the two fish categories at each park.

Addison Oaks, located on West Romeo Road nine miles north of Rochester and Independence Oaks, on Sashabaw Road, Independence Township, charge a park entry fee of $4 per vehicle on weekends and holidays for Oakland County residents.

For more information call the parks directly; Addison Oaks at 693-2432 or Independence Oaks at 625-0877. The parks are open daily from 8 a.m. to sunset.

OFFICIAL NOTICE NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING such suggestions, recommendations, modifications or changes in materials presented him as he deems necessary to prevent flooding and avoid damage.

SECTION 50 Enforcement.

(A) Whenever the building inspector determines that any existing obstruction as outlined in Section 47, causes or will cause flooding or other damage, the building inspector is authorized to enter the land and order such obstruction removed.

(B) Whenever an obstruction, building, structure, dike, or alteration which has been constructed pursuant to Section 49, does not conform to the submitted application, or after completion, causes or will cause flooding or damage, the building inspector shall order such obstruction repaired, altered, or revised so as to not cause flooding or damage.

(C) When the building inspector has ordered repair, removal, or alteration of the obstruction, building, structure or dike, and the owner refuses or otherwise fails to comply with such order, the building inspector shall cause the removal, repair or alteration, and the costs may be assessed against the owner of the land.

(D) If the owner of the land shall fail to comply with the order of the building inspector and fail to remove the obstruction, building, structure or dike, or if the obstruction, building, structure or dike is removed or altered or repaired by the village and the owner of the land should fail to pay for the alterations, repairs, or removal of the obstruction when notified of the removal, and the amount due by the building inspector, the owner of the land shall in addition to the assessment in subsection (C) be subject to punishment for violation of this ordinance.

SECTIONS 51-75 Reserved.

ARTICLE IV. FLOODPLAIN MANAGEMENT.

SECTION 76. Intent.

It is the intent of the village in adopting this article to significantly reduce hazards to persons and damage to property as a result of flood conditions in the village; to comply with the provisions and requirements of the National Flood Insurance Program; to protect human life, health, and property from dangerous and damaging effects of flood conditions; to minimize public expenditures for flood control projects, rescue and relief efforts in the aftermath of flooding, repair of flood damaged public facilities and utilities, and the development of flood damaged homes; neighborhoods, commercial and industrial areas; to maintain stable development patterns not subject to the blighting influence of flood damage; to designate floodplains and institute floodplain development regulations and general development standards; to establish regulations concerning the same; and to provide for the administration of this article and to provide penalties for violation.

SECTION 77. Definitions.

The following words and phrases, when used in this article, shall have the meanings respectively ascribed to them in this section:

"Base flood" means the flood having a one (1%) percent chance of being equaled or exceeded in any given year.

"BOCA Code" means the Builders Official Code of America as adopted by the Village.

"Building department" means the department of building of the village.

"Flood" or "flooding" means a general and temporary condition of partial or complete inundation of normally dry land areas as a result of the overflow of inland waters, or the unusual and rapid accumulation of run-off or surface waters from any source.

"Flood boundary and floodway map" means the official map issued by the Federal Insurance Administration, where the boundaries of the areas of special flood hazards have been designated, hereinafter referred to as "FBFM."

"Flood hazard area" means land which on the basis of available floodplain information is subject to one (1%) percent or greater chance of flooding in any given year.

"Flood insurance rate map" means the official map of the village, on which the Federal Insurance Administration has delineated both the areas of special flood hazards and the risk premium zones applicable to the community, hereinafter referred to as "FIRM."

"Flood insurance study" means the official report provided by the Federal Insurance Administration containing flood profiles, the water elevation of the base flood, and may include a flood boundary floodway map.

"Floodplain" means any land area susceptible to being flooded.

"Floodway" means the channel of a river or other watercourse and the adjacent land areas which must be reserved in order to discharge the base flood.

"Regulatory flood datum" means the 100-year floodplain contour line, synonymous with base flood elevation.

"Structure" means anything constructed or erected which requires permanent location on the ground or attachment to something having such location, including, without limitation, a walled or roofed building, mobile home, or storage facility.

"Substantial improvement" means any repair, reconstruction, or improvement of a structure, the cost of which equals or exceeds fifty (50%) percent of the market value of the structure either before the improvement or repair is started, or if the structure has been damaged or is being restored, before the damage occurred. For the purpose of this definition, such term does not include any project for improvement of a structure to comply with existing state or local health, sanitary, or safety code specifications which are necessary solely for the reason of assuring safe living conditions, or any alteration of a structure listed on the National Register of Historic Places or a state inventory of historic places.

"Village" means the Village of Clarkston, County of Oakland, State of Michigan.

SECTION 78 Interpretation of local ordinances.

(A) The Army Corps of Engineers' Flood Proofing Regulations, a technical guide cited in Appendix B of BOCA, shall be utilized by the building official in the enforcement of Section 872.6 of BOCA.

(B) The most recent flood elevation data received from the Federal Insurance Administration shall take precedence over data from other sources.

SECTION 79 Requirements.

(A) Where an area of special flood hazard has been identified on the FIRM, but no elevation data is available, new or substantially improved structures in the identified area shall meet the standards of one of the Sections 401.2 through 401.5 or 612.2.1 through 612.2.3, as applicable, of the regulations of the Army Corps of Engineers.

(B) Where an area of special flood hazard has been identified on the FIRM, and elevation data is available:

(1) New and substantially improved residential structures shall meet the standards of one of the Sections 612.2.1 through 612.2.3, as applicable, of the regulations of the Army Corps of Engineers; and

(2) New and substantially improved nonresidential structures shall meet the standards of one of the Sections 401.2, 401.3 or 612.2.1 through 612.2.3, of the regulations of the Army Corps of Engineers.

(C) First floor elevation information shall be provided to the building department for structures in the special flood hazard area as identified on the FIRM, indicating the elevation of lowest habitable floor, whether the structure contains a basement, and the elevation to which the structure has been flood proofed. Information so provided shall be maintained in the records of the building department.

SECTION 80 Disclaimer of liability.

The degree of flood protection required by this article is considered reasonable for regulatory purposes and is based upon engineering and scientific methods of study. Larger floods may occur on rare occasions. Flood heights may be increased by man-made or natural causes. Thus, approval of the use of land under this article shall not be considered a guarantee or warranty of safety from flood damage. This article does not imply that areas outside the flood hazard area will be free from flood damage. This article does not create liability on the part of the village or any officer or employee thereof for any flood damage that results from reliance on this article, or any administrative decision lawfully made.

SECTION 81. Violations and penalties for noncompliance. No development shall be permitted within a floodplain area without full compliance with the terms of this article and other applicable regulations. Any person, firm, or corporation undertaking work on or improvement of property in violation of the provisions of this article shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, fined not more than five hundred ($500.00) dollars for each such conviction, or shall be punished by imprisonment for a period not to exceed ninety (90) days for each offense, or by both such fine and such imprisonment as determined by the court.

SECTION 82. Effective Date.

This ordinance shall take effect twenty (20) days after passage.

Made and passed by the Village Council of the Village of Clarkston on the 28th day of November, 1988.

Check label before de-icing sidewalks

The Michigan Concrete Association reports that some de-icing products can chemically attack and destroy the surface of concrete driveways, patios and other exterior concrete flatwork.

The list of "don't use" products includes de-icers that contain ammonium sulfate or ammonium nitrate. These cause surface scaling or flaking, and induce severe chemical attack on the concrete surface.

Fertilizers should never be used as de-icers. These often contain chemically active ammonium nitrate that attacks and destroys concrete of any age.

Consumers are advised to read the label of name brand de-icers. If they contain chemicals other than salt (sodium chloride) or calcium chloride, they should not be used.

If the label is incomplete or suggests that the chemical be removed from the concrete after de-icing, the Michigan Concrete Association recommends that the product not be used.

The most acceptable method of concrete de-icing is a light application of salt or calcium chloride. For new concrete this year, it is suggested that the consumer not use any de-icing product for the first winter. Sand can be applied for traction.

The Michigan Concrete Association offers a free booklet, "Homeowner Care of Driveways," available by sending a stamped, self-addressed number 10 envelope to: Michigan Concrete Association, 2500 Kerry St., Suite 206, Lansing, Mich. 48912.

JAY TINDALL JR. competes primarily in races of 25 miles or longer. He frequently changes the order of his dogs in an effort to keep them fresh. The strategy apparently works as in this case, where Tindall captured first place.

And three 70-mile trips a week

Family life revolves around 16 dogs

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

When the Tindall family stumbled upon their first dogsledding race 16 years ago during a snowmobiling expedition in Kalkaska, they never dreamed the sport would come to dominate their lives.

The Tindalls, who live on Holly Road in Springfield Township, now own 16 dogs, all pure-bred Siberian huskies, rated the top dogsledding team of its type in the world at a recent competition in Canada.

The team started when, at age 10, Jay Tindall Jr. bought two puppies with his allowance. "Frustrating" doesn't completely describe that first year, when Jay Jr. finished last in every single race, he said.

With persistence and patience, however, Jay Jr. captured the state's junior championship the following year, and at 13, he became the youngest person in the state ever to compete in a 150-mile race.

With a team of just four dogs, Jay Jr. began the race in weather registering 30 degrees below zero. Forty-eight hours later, he reached the finish line in second place, with just one dog still pulling his 40 pound sled. The other three dogs were on board.

Now 26, Jay Jr. has come a long way. "I now run that race in about 20 hours," Jay said modestly.

The family has plenty of competition. Two separate dogsledding organizations thrive in Michigan, boasting a combined membership of about 250 people. Participants travel throughout the state for seven to eight weekends a season to take part in dogsledding races.

"And when they win, you're so happy -- they know you're happy; they jump around and just smile at you."

Jay Tindall Jr.

Throughout the weekend, races are run in all different shapes and sizes, from the one-dog sleds to the "unlimited" sled teams, which can add up to 12-14 dogs.

"With a 12-dog team you have about 40 feet of dog stretching in front of you. Very, very few people can handle that many," said Matt Dilloway, member of the organization known as M.U.S.H.

Incidentally, the command "mush," commonly associated with dogsledding, is believed to come from the French term for "to go," which is pronounced "march."

The dogs used in the races vary, from the pure-bred Siberian Huskies owned by the Tindalls to Alaskan huskies to German shepherds and even Irish setters.

"Every year you see a lot of experimentation," Dilloway said. "The Irish Setters are a thing of beauty, but what you really have to strive for is endurance," Dilloway said.

The Tindall family said their Siberian Huskies exhibit better endurance than any other dog. The dogs are bred and trained at the family's home, and a great deal of their strategy depends on this, they said.

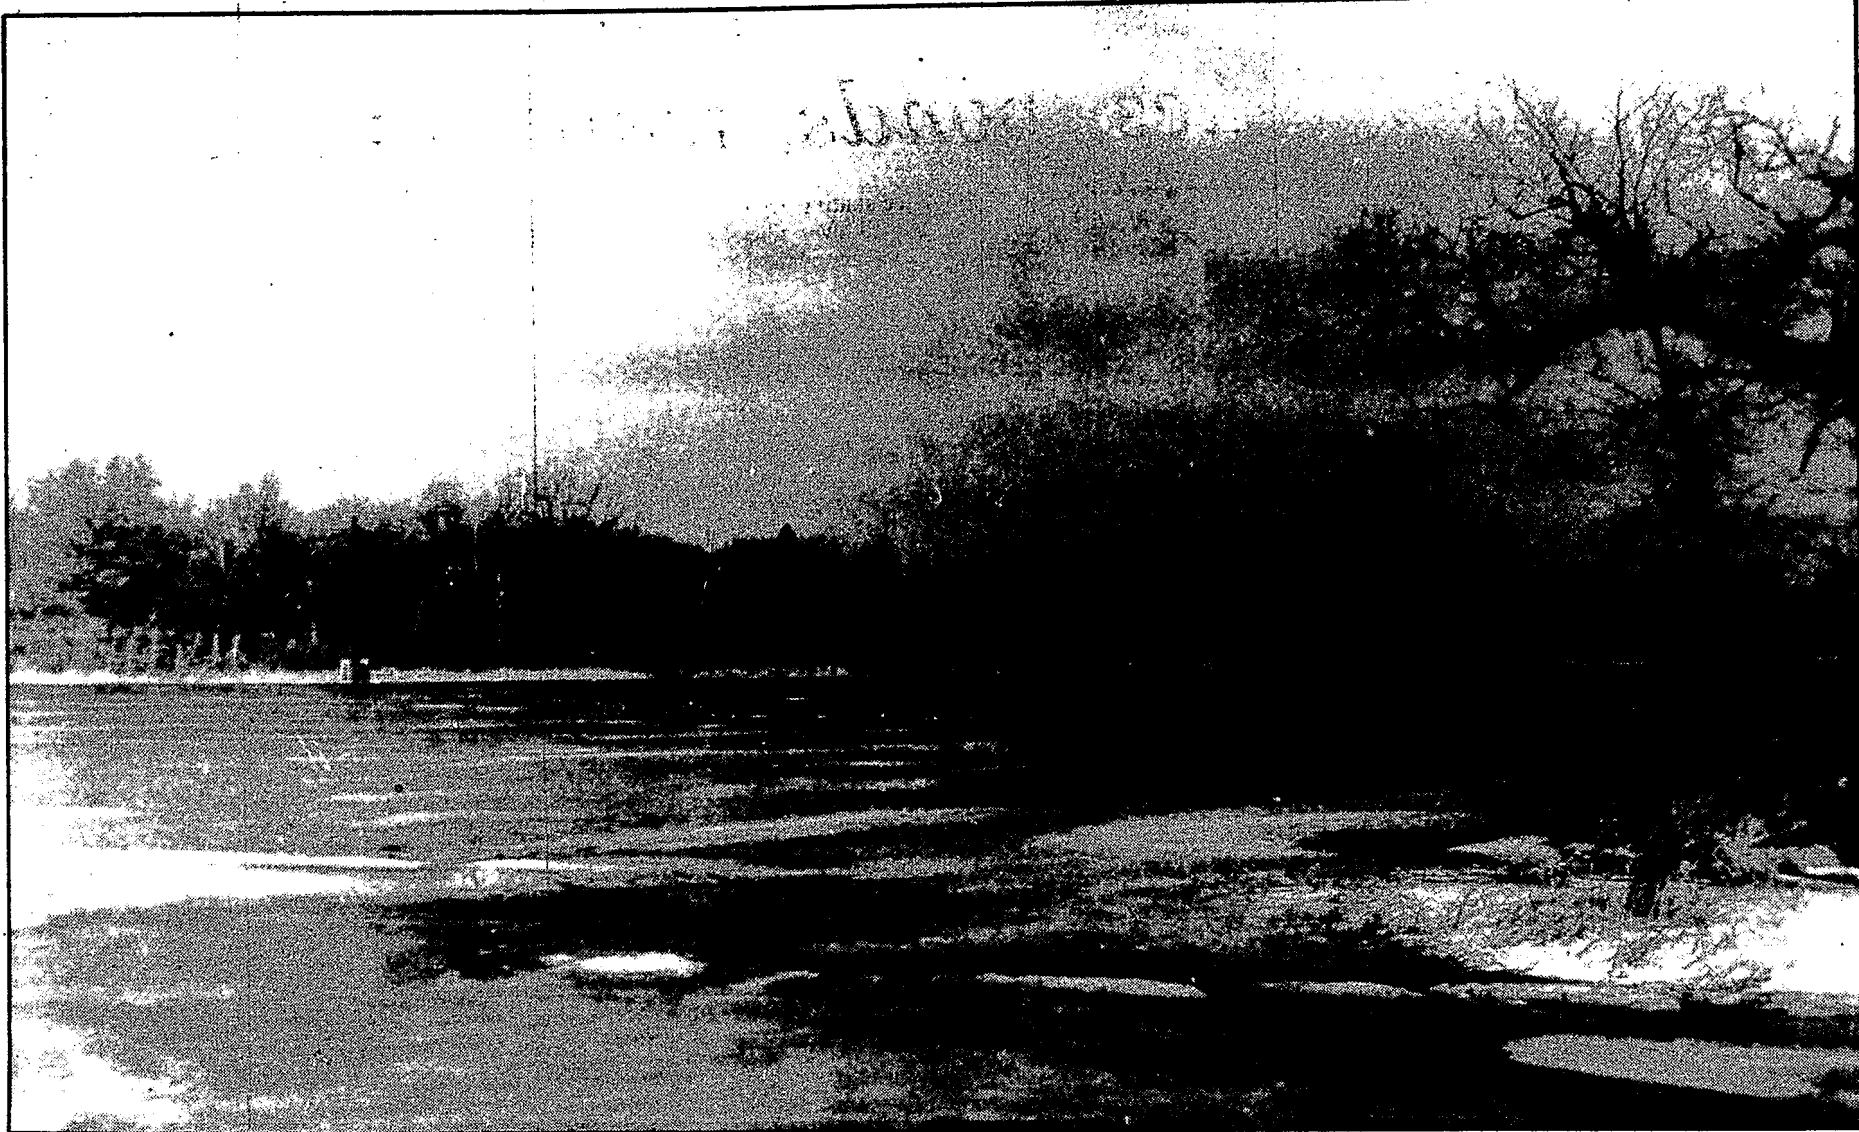

"You have to really know your dogs," said Jay Sr.

The dogs begin training in September, when the Tindalls hook them to a wheeled cart to run up and down their street. Eventually, the dogs run 20-mile stretches up in Mount Morris, a 70-mile trip that the Tindalls make four to five times each week.

Although the family doesn't reveal much of its strategy, Jay Jr. said he learns which dogs like to lead, which dogs like the left or right side, which dogs like heavy snow, which dogs like to run together -- and the list goes on and on.

Some of the team's success is attributed to the "magic meatballs" that Jay Jr. concocts regularly in the family kitchen. The meatballs are made of eggs, peanut butter, honey and beef and are thrown to the dogs ice fish anywhere on the lake, skate at a special ice rink on an inlet of the lake and play hockey. The winter activities depend on the cooperation of Mother Nature, though.

Winter in the parks

Good places to fish, skate, ski and hike

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

If you're not the type who hibernates during the winter, there are plenty of activities to keep you busy at area parks.

There are nature walks at two area parks, and, if you aren't fond of winter temperatures, some inside activities, too.

If Mother Nature cooperates with a little of the white stuff, most area parks offer cross-country skiing and some offer sledding areas. Even without snow, while the temperatures remain cold enough for safe ice, there is ice skating and ice fishing.

Below is a sampling of the activities available at five area parks:

INDIAN SPRINGS METRO PARK

Located off White Lake Road about 4 miles west of Andersonville Road, this metro park straddles Springfield and White Lake townships.

There are about eight or nine miles of marked and groomed cross-country ski trails, weather permitting. A full set of equipment can be rented for $6.50 plus a $2 insurance charge; $1 is refunded if the equipment is returned undamaged.

Park hours are 8 a.m. to 8 p.m., but skiing is only until dark. There is no charge to enter this Metro Park.

There's also a small hill for sledding, but no toboggans are allowed -- just saucers and sleds.

Naturalists at the park also try to keep biking and hiking trails plowed so walkers can still enjoy their pastime, too, but caution should be used because ice may still remain on the paths.

On Sunday, Feb. 5, Supervising Naturalist Steve

NEAR THE SHORE of Deer Lake Beach, the ice is melted, making ice fishing unsafe. After a long, hard freeze, however, the ice should be thick enough once again to support a few shanties and their owners.

Horn is leading a winter wildflower identification program that begins at 1 p.m. and lasts about two hours. Participants will walk out to areas of dried flowers left from summer blooming.

The flowers, Horn said, have distinctive shapes and flower heads by which they can be identified. People who enjoy arranging dried flowers might especially enjoy this program.

Pre-registration is required, but there is no charge for this program. More information on park activities and programs is available by calling 685-1561.

INDEPENDENCE OAKS COUNTY PARK

This county park is located at 9501 Sashabaw Road in northern Independence Township. Park Supervisor Ray Delasko lives on the property.

There are three different marked and groomed cross-country ski trails, Delasko said. The beginning trail, Lake Shore, is 2.5 miles and follows a flat area around 68-acre Crooked Lake. Beginners can also ski in an area around the buildings.

The intermediate trail, Rock Ridge, is 2.7 miles. A lookout tower along this trail offers a panoramic view, Delasko noted.

The advanced trail, Spring Lake, is 3.2 miles and has more challenging hills.

The park is open 8 a.m. to sundown every day. Residents can buy an annual vehicle sticker for $16, or daily entry is $4. During the week it is $3. The park is patrolled by volunteer ski patrol on weekends.

Cross country equipment can be rented at $8 for about four hours ($1 is refunded if the equipment is returned undamaged). Ski lessons are available on weekends at $12 without equipment or $16 with equipment provided. More information is available by calling the park at 625-0877.

Delasko said they are looking into the possibility of snow making equipment for trails by the lake, "especially after the mild winters we've had lately."

Parks offer lakes, ponds, trails and woods

Weather permitting, a cross-country ski race is scheduled for Feb. 4 sponsored by Blue Cross/Blue Shield and Independence Oaks. Experienced racers will compete at 10 a.m., and a novice race is scheduled for 1 p.m. Call the park to register.

An ice skating area is maintained on Crooked Lake near the boat rental area, and a separate hockey area is maintained adjacent to the ice skating area.

Ice fishing is available all over Crooked Lake, weather permitting, but if fishermen plan to leave an ice shanty overnight, they must register with the park. There is an overnight charge of $5.

A warming shelter, Twin Chimneys, overlooks Crooked Lake. Firewood for the two fireplaces is provided on weekends.

Independence Oaks Nature Center, located within the park, offers a variety of winter activities as well.

On Jan. 28, a nature walk with the naturalists is scheduled from 10 to 11:30 a.m. -- Ice Time Investigations.

On Feb. 3, a Ground Hog Day cross-country ski tour is planned for the evening between 7 and 9 p.m. If you've never skied across snow washed with moonlight, you're in for a treat.

Courtin' Time is a program scheduled for 7 to 9 p.m. Feb. 18. It is a nature walk and program on owls, who prefer the winter months for such activities.

Pre-registration is required for many of these and other winter classes scheduled at the Nature Center. Call 625-6473 to register or obtain more information.

SPRINGFIELD OAKS COUNTY PARK

This county park is located on Andersonville Road near Davisburg in Springfield Township. The golf course is at 12450 Andersonville Rd., across from the Springfield Oaks Activities Center.

Cross-country skiing is available, weather permitting, on the golf course, but there are no groomed or marked trails. The park is open from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. weekdays, and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays. There is no charge.

More information about Springfield Oaks is available by calling Robert Coffey, recreation director, at 625-8133.

SPRINGFIELD TOWNSHIP PARKS

The township operates several parks, but most of the winter activities are centered at Mill Pond Park at 495 Broadway (Davisburg Road) just east of downtown Davisburg.

Ice skating and ice fishing are available, weather permitting, on the horseshoe-shaped pond within the park. Parks and Recreation Director Sherry Swindell said they prefer if ice skaters use the area east of the parking lot, behind the small gazebo.

The park is open from 9 a.m. until dark (about 5 p.m.) every day. More information on township parks is available by calling Swindell at 625-9633.

INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP PARKS

Most of the township parks are closed in the winter, but the gates at Deer Lake Beach off White Lake Road in the township are locked open in the winter, according to Sheryl Schreefel, assistant director of parks and recreation.

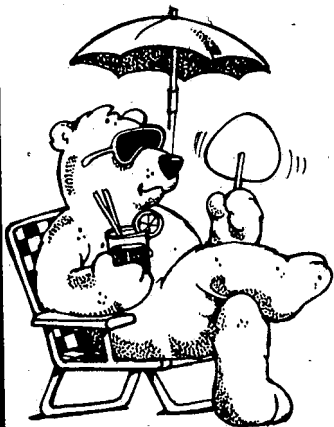

At Deer Lake, people can ice fish and, if they want to clear the snow, ice skate as well.

Next year, Schreefel said, they hope to have cross-country skiing and other winter activities available at the township's newest park, Baycourt, off Andersonville Road.

More information on township parks is available by calling 625-8223.

Before venturing out on lakes at any area park, be sure to call and check on conditions. Never go on the lakes when conditions aren't safe.

Solar bear

Polar bears come equipped with thick fur and a good helping of blubber, but these bears are also mobile solar collectors.

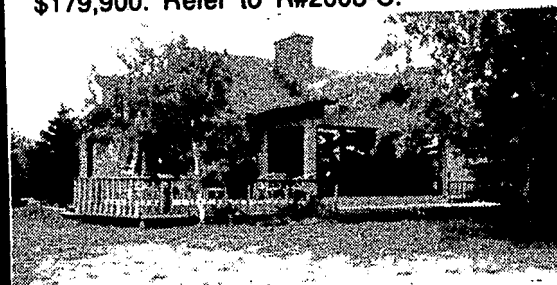

International Wildlife magazine reports that the long hairs of the bear's pelt are transparent; they allow sunlight to penetrate all the way to the skin. And the bear's skin is black, which absorbs the sun's heat.

What's Cooking

Winter day recipes

Pat Young

When winter's chill causes the utility bill to creep upward, many homeowners have turned to the airtight wood stove as way to help keep the house warm. Some stoves come with screens so you can still enjoy the esthetics of a crackling fire; others don't. But most do have a flat top surface that can do more than warm the house.

Simmering foods on the top of a wood stove gives you dual use of that energy, and brings back esthetics of a different kind -- memories of old-fashioned cooking from another era.

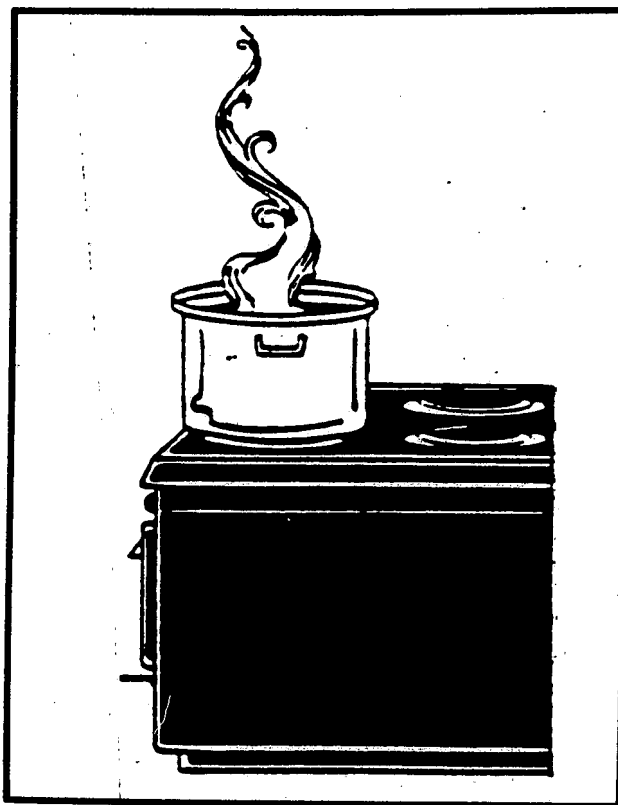

Below are two recipes that work wonderfully on a wood stove, or will do just fine on a modern stove, too.

The first, a hearty goulash, comes from the pages of a cookbook called "Woodstove Cookery--At Home on the Range." The second, a rice pudding recipe, comes from the files of Independence Township resident Barb Zabel, who frequently cooks on her own wood stove at home.

Try them both for a winter meal, perhaps with a loaf of warm bread. What a wonderful meal to enjoy on a brisk winter day!

GREAT GOULASH

- 2 tablespoons vegetable oil
- 2 medium onions, chopped
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 3 tablespoons sweet Hungarian paprika
- 2 pounds lean stewing meat, cut in 1-inch cubes
- 1/2 teaspoon caraway seeds
- 4 cups chicken or beef stock
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 4 peppercorns
- 2 medium potatoes, cut in 1-inch cubes
- 1 1/2 cups tomatoes, peeled and chopped
- 2 green peppers, chopped
- 1 pound mushrooms, cleaned and halved
- 1/2 teaspoon marjoram

In a Dutch oven or other heavy pot, lightly brown onions and garlic in the oil over moderate heat; add meat and brown lightly. Remove from heat while stirring in paprika, caraway seeds, stock, salt and peppercorns.

Bring the liquid to a boil; cover and set aside to simmer until beef is almost tender. Then add potatoes, tomatoes, peppers, mushrooms and marjoram. Simmer for another 30 to 40 minutes or until meat and vegetables are tender. Skim off any fat.

Serve as is or with dollops of sour cream.

BARB'S RICE PUDDING

- 6 cups milk
- 2 cups water
- Dash of salt
- 1 cup short-grained rice, washed
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 2 eggs
- 3/4 cup sugar

Barb suggests using a very heavy pan, and as with all wood stove cooking, be sure the heating surface is not too hot. With the pudding, it might be necessary to sit the pot off to the side of the stove to keep ingredients from sticking to pan.

Combine the milk, water and dash of salt in heavy pan; bring to boil. Add rice; return to boil. Cook for about 40 minutes (stirring occasionally) on top of wood stove.

Then remove pot from wood stove and put on regular range top. Let it cool down slightly. In a small bowl, beat eggs with sugar. Add a small portion of the rice-pudding mixture to the beaten eggs, beating constantly as you add it, until egg mixture warms slightly. Then, add mixture back to large pot slowly, stirring constantly over low heat until egg mixture is completely incorporated into pudding mixture and has thickened a little.

Remove from heat and add vanilla. Pour into pan or bowl. Pudding will thicken as it sits.

Serves 10 or 12 (less if you have real pudding fans in the house). Pudding can be sprinkled with cinnamon before serving.

Fuzzy ideas about wool

Many people are confused about the seemingly innumerable types of wool and are uncertain about how to care for the fabric, says Elaine Glasser, Home Economist for the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service of Oakland County.

Perhaps the biggest mistake people make with wool is having it dry-cleaned too often. Unnecessary cleaning may break down wool fibers and shorten a garment's life. Because wool is naturally resistant to wrinkles and soil, many wool garments require only proper hanging and a simple brushing after wearing to look crisp and neat.

Clothes made of wool need to be hung where they can breathe because wool needs air to help it spring back into shape. Hang wool clothing on wooden or contoured plastic hangers.

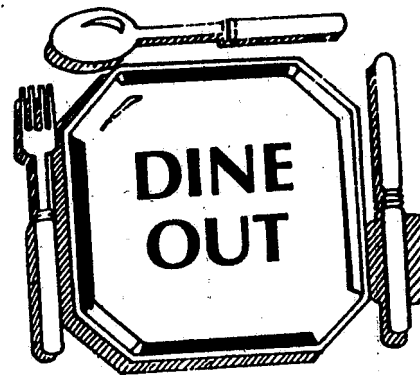

Giving wool garments a 24-hour rest period between wearings will help them last longer.

Couch potatoes: World at their fingertips

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

If your idea of winter sport is the vigorous rubbing of limbs, or the angry scraping of frost from your windshield, you're likely one of them.

A lounge lizard, a couch potato, a cocooner -- labels that have taken root as firmly as the "potatoes" themselves.

Like the big, sometimes half-baked vegetable that is their namesake, the couch potato is here to stay. And the rest of the world works hard to cultivate their existence.

There has always been an Avon lady or a diaper service to accommodate the homebody, but services in today's world afford one the luxury of virtually staying indoors for months.

Who needs shopping malls when you can browse on T.V.? Some restaurants now deliver, along with video stores and grocers. And if you feel the need to exercise, heaven forbid, you can forego the healthclub for a trainer at home.

There are music teachers, landscapers, beauticians and maids. Doctors will make house calls, and caterers will bring banquets.

Some credit card companies will remember all your birthdays, call you with reminders and send off your gifts.

Party organizers will build complete birthday parties in your home, resplendent with carnival rides, musicians and large animals.

The birth of technology has bred an explosion in convenience. The proper blending of hardware and software can bring us computer banking, computer dating and computer learning. All without leaving the house.

Those in the know say that it's going to get worse. Computers will soon open our doors, turn on our lights and dial our phones.

The rise of the recluse hatched the home entertainment center, with mandatory remote control.

Oh, these lazies, they have it made. The world is at their fingertips, as they nestle in their couch.

What about world travel, out-on-the-town, and out-and-about?

Hogwash, the potatoes sneer.

That's nothing but out-of-style.

Watch out for signs of frostbite

With the chill of winter come many health considerations, including the threat of frostbite.

Frostbite can strike surprisingly fast, especially at temperatures below 8 degrees Fahrenheit, according to Barbara Bober, M.D., of the Rochester Hills MercyCare Family Medical Center.

The wind chill can also affect body temperature, she said. When the body is exposed to cold temperatures, it increases circulation to vital organs to maintain a "core temperature." This causes decreased circulation to extremities, such as hands, feet and ears. The face area is also at risk because it is often fully exposed.

On extremely cold days, it's best to stay inside as much as possible, but if you have to go outside, remember:

- Wear a scarf, a hat and gloves or mittens.
 - Wear appropriate layers of well-fitted clothing.
- Some signs of frostbite are:

- A burning numbness indicating early stages of frostbite.
- A change in skin color and temperatures from red to gray, then to an icy wetness which indicates tissue damage.

If these symptoms occur, slowly warm the affected area with lukewarm water, blankets or a warm compress, said Bober. After warming, if the skin swells or blisters, seek medical attention.

Heavy snow

When you're done rolling and packing snow into a snowman, be glad you don't have to carry it anywhere. According to Ranger Rick magazine, a six-foot snowman might weigh over 300 pounds.

JAY SR., JAY JR. and Karen Tindall pose with their top-ranked Siberian husky dog-sledding team, which has competed in races throughout the U.S. and Canada. The dogs make the trip in this custom-made dog trailer, and the dogs love it, the family says.

throughout a race.

"And boy do they stink up the house," Karen Tindall added.

The Tindalls' dog-sledding endeavors are definitely a family affair. Jay Sr. competes often against his son, all the while playfully arguing that his son chooses all the better dogs.

Karen, along with sacrificing her kitchen for meatballs, regularly meets her husband and son at the crossroads of long-distance races, to see if they need anything.

"I just worry," she said, laughing.

The family reminisced with one another about that awful first year and Jay Jr.'s losing streak.

"The dogs kept getting all turned around; they would fight among one another; the line would get tangled, or we'd get lost," recalled Jay Jr.

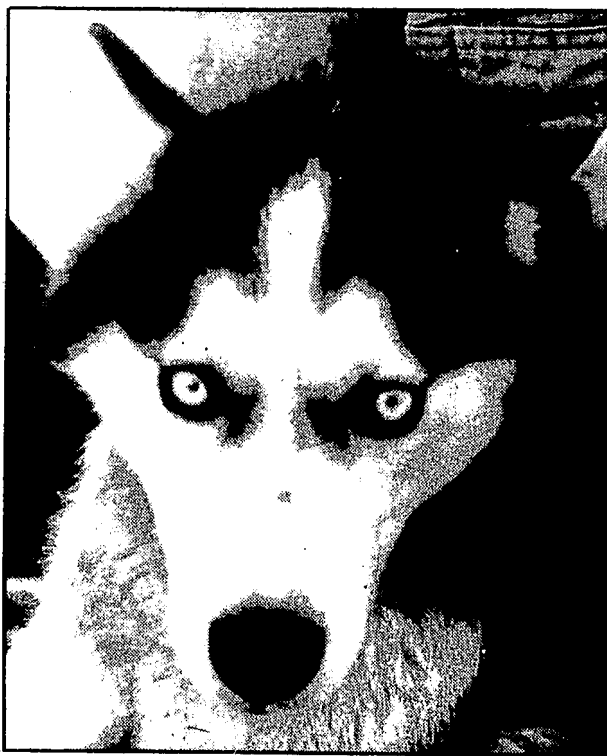

The family described their worst incident as the time a line broke, and a whole team of dogs ran down Dixie Highway.

But the family agreed that all of the effort and cost involved in the sport is worth it.

"You raise these dogs from pups, and you just get so proud of them," Karen said.

"And when they win, you're so happy -- they know you're happy; they jump around and just smile at you," Jay Jr. added.

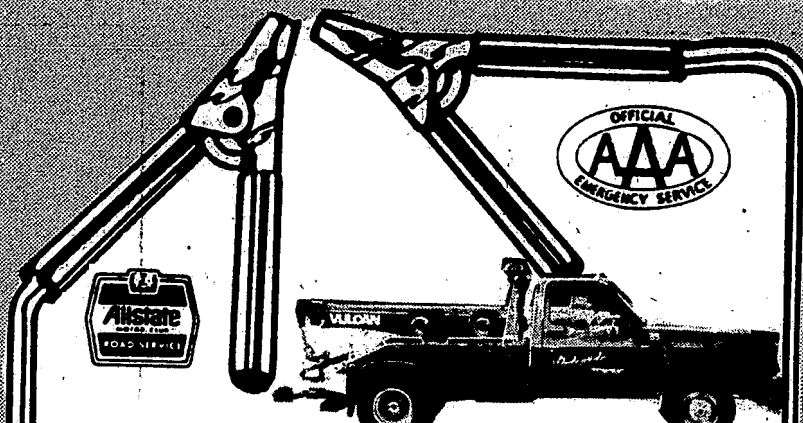

THIS SIBERIAN HUSKY puppy will begin training with the Tindalls when it reaches 6 months old. The family's 16 dogs react to the sight of their dogsled with excited yelps and wriggling bodies.

"You raise these dogs from pups, and you just get so proud of them."

Karen Tindall

JAY TINDALL SR. breeds and trains his family's 16 pure-bred Siberian huskies. Weather permitting, Tindall and his son, Jay Jr., compete in several dogsled races held throughout the state each year.
