Paczki popular on Tuesday

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Today, Wednesday, Feb. 8, is Ash Wednesday. It marks the beginning of Lent and the beginning of fasting for many people.

But yesterday, Feb. 7, was "Fat Tuesday," a time to indulge before the fast. And judging from the sale of "paczkis" in the area, a lot of people lived up to the tradition.

Paczki is a heavy pastry filled with raspberry, prune, lemon, custard, strawberry, blueberry or other similar delights. The pastries have long been associated with "Fat Tuesday."

"People love 'em," said Donna Paulson, manager of Main Street Deli in Independence Township. "We had a big demand."

Main Street Deli got in 32 dozen paczkis at noon, and by 1:30 p.m., they were all sold out.

At Dixie Donuts, located on Dixie Highway in Springfield Township, the demand was also good, according to Joyce Lucas, sales person at the shop. They opened at 5 a.m. with 70 dozen paczkis, and by 2 p.m. there were five left.

A steady stream of hungry customers was also seen leaving the Clarkston Village Bakeshop on Main Street, Clarkston, carrying big, white boxes of the pastries, but at press time, no one was available to give figures of how many were sold.

School bond nets low interest

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Series two of the $5.2 million bond issue approved by voters last June was sold Jan. 31 at an excellent rate, according to Bill Jackson, director of business services for Clarkston schools. This will save taxpayers in the Clarkston school district around $100,000 in interest over the 15-year life of the bond.

Northern Trust Company out of Chicago headed the group which won the bid at a net interest rate of 6.8936 percent. The group also included First of Michigan, Kidder Peabody and LaSalle National Bank.

The Clarkston Board of Education accepted the winning bid during a special meeting at 3:30 p.m. Jan. 31 in the board offices, immediately after the bond sale which took place at 2:30 p.m.

"We received 11 bids," Jackson said, "which is excellent."

The more bids there are and the more interest that is generated, he said, the better the price.

Last August when the first series was sold, there were only six bids. Even then, the district received a good interest rate of 7.2967 percent.

Series two was sold at an interest rate four-tenths of a percent less than the first series, Jackson said. "As we hear of interest rates going up, the interest on tax-exempt bonds actually fell."

A couple of reasons the district was able to get such good interest rates, he added, are the ability of the community to repay the debt and the district's management of the funds. If these are favorable, the good credit rating nets the district good interest rates.

The $5.2 bond issue was split, Jackson said, because it was to the district's advantage. Series one, or $3.69 million of the bonds, were sold last August. The remaining $1.51 million were sold this January.

Feeling a little blue? It could be the flu

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

You feel congested, achey and sick to your stomach. Chances are, the flu bug has bitten.

If it's any consolation, you're not alone.

A rash of flu-cases, although not quite an epidemic, have filled area doctors' offices.

"About one-third of the patients I'm seeing have flu symptoms," said Shobha Chandra, a pediatrician on Sashabaw Road, in Independence Township.

'Tis the season, some might say, but this year the flu has hit in a somewhat different fashion.

Not only are people generally sicker than in previous years, but they're older, too, according to pediatrician James O'Neill, who practices from M-15 in Independence Township.

"People I'm seeing are quite sick," O'Neill said. "It's odd because the age group it's hitting is primarily young adults."

Police link burglary suspects to 50 break-ins

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Two men, arrested after allegedly breaking into and stealing from a Grand Blanc home, have been linked to as many as 50 robberies in north Oakland County including those in Independence, Springfield and Oxford Townships.

Everette Duane Lafner, 27, of Pontiac and Steven David Kerr, 29, of Waterford were arrested Jan. 31 after an Oakland County surveillance team reported seeing the two break into a home on Pollock in Grand Blanc, according to Detective Steve Parker of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department (OCSD).

Grand Blanc Township Police made the rest, and Lafner and Kerr are being held in the Genesee County Jail on a $2,500 cash bond, awaiting a preliminary hearing on charges of breaking and entering.

The two face similar charges in Oakland County, along with charges of possession of stolen property, Parker said.

The two became suspects after one of them moved from an apartment and left behind property that reportedly had been stolen in other robberies, Parker said.

A three-day surveillance of the suspects culminated in their arrest at the home in Grand Blanc.

The Fugitive Apprehension Team, or surveillance team, first monitored the suspect's activity in an apartment in Pontiac.

At 10 a.m. Jan. 31, the two were seen leaving the apartment and were followed until they arrived in Grand Blanc around 11:10 a.m., according to the OCSD report.

At 11:18 a.m., the two allegedly pulled up to the home, and one went to knock on the front door. When no one answered, the surveillance team, watching through binoculars, said the suspect kicked in the front door and entered the residence.

After a moment, the suspect re-emerged and waved to the second suspect in the van. The two entered the home together and, for the next nine minutes, entered and exited with several items.

After loading the items into the van, the two drove out to the road, where they were arrested.

A search warrant was obtained, and a check of the suspects' residence uncovered several items that had been listed as stolen in other robberies, Parker said.

Among the items found was a parrot which was reported missing from a home on Clintonville Road in Independence Township. The parrot was later returned to its owner.

Flu strikes young adults in area

O'Neill said the flu typically infects young children and senior citizens, but in January primarily 25-50 year olds came down with the bug.

"I've had double the amount of patients I usually have," O'Neill added.

Checks with area schools seem to confirm the age differentiation in flu cases this season.

"We've had a few absences, but it hasn't reached a rate where it's been a concern," said William Neff, director of administrative services at Clarkston Community Schools. "Everybody else I talk to seems to have it," he added.

Those diagnosed with the flu suffer from body aches, headaches, fever, vomiting, diarrhea, congestion and chills.

"In that case, you can only treat patients systematically," said Dr. B. G. Patel, on M-15 in Independence Township. Patel added that although he has treated some flu patients, he has not been overwhelmed by cases, as other physicians have reported.

"Get plenty of rest," is the advice of Chandra. "And watch fever. Some people believe that in 24 hours a fever will be gone, but it can take as many as three to five days."

"Rest and Tylenol," advocated O'Neill. "Don't use aspirin, especially for children."

The best recommendation may be prevention, according to some doctors. Flu shots taken well ahead of time seem to work well in preventing the flu's onslaught, at least in adults.

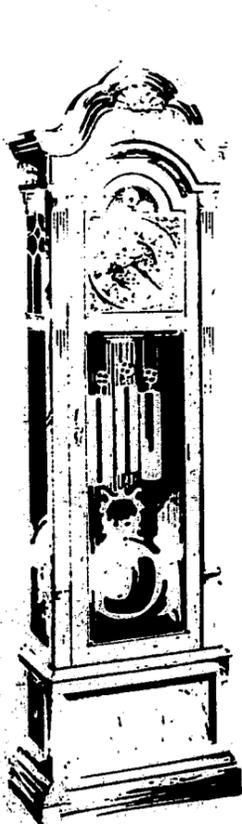

"In pediatrics, doctors typically administer the shots only to children with asthma, diabetes or heart conditions," said Chandra. "But in the older population, it's recommended."

Lenny the Lawyer: Davisburg man talks about his ongoing battle with cancer

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Mention the name Lenny Howarth and you will get a variety of responses. The 46-year-old Davisburg attorney is, at the very least, unique.

Many know him as a colorful, perennial political candidate, minister-by-mail, sparkplug of the Davisburg Rotary Club, cave-exploring adventurer, radical-thinking hippie of the 1970's, and conservatively dressed attorney of the 1980's, who stood on his head in front of his office for newspaper photos.

But friends know another side of him, a deeply sensitive humanitarian who cares about people.

Springfield Township Supervisor Collin Walls describes him as "the guy who has been known to take the last dime out of his pocket to help someone."

Lenny frequently used the barter system to help a client who might otherwise not have been able to pay legal fees. One of the first fees he collected when he opened his legal practice 18 years ago in downtown Davisburg was 10 bushels of wheat to feed the chickens at the family's home on Davisburg Road, Rose Township.

It was payment for a real estate closing and is documented, like many other memories, in the memorabilia which decorates his office. Actually he has two offices, a newer one with the "Lenny the Lawyer" awning in front, and the old office next door, painted like an American flag.

But today, the uncommon E. Leonard Howarth is battling a much-too-common disease -- cancer.

"At least it's a unique variety," he offers.

Lenny has cancer of the mucus glands in his digestive system. A large tumor was discovered during exploratory surgery last Sept. 7 below his stomach, pressing down on his intestines and rendering him unable to digest food.

He "eats" prescribed food in liquid form through a tube attached to an insert-a-port which is surgically implanted in his chest. He has lost 60 pounds and, like many cancer patients going through chemotherapy, has good days and bad days.

Still, the Lenny that most people know shows in his attitude and actions as he fights the disease in both conventional and less-orthodox ways. The Lenny that close friends know shines through in his willingness to talk openly about cancer and the way it has touched his life, in hopes that it will help others.

"Tell anyone with cancer to call me," he says. "I'll be happy to share what I know."

And that's a lot.

He hasn't worked in his law office since last July when he became too ill. His wife, Nancy, a certified legal assistant, and other attorneys have taken care of the workload. Instead, Lenny spends his time doing something he has always found a great deal of satisfaction in -- learning.

"If I could sum up the whole situation in one word, (that word would be) interesting," Lenny says. "I've learned so much about the medical establishment, and in that sense, I've even enjoyed it."

Lenny first experienced problems last spring. He had traveled to the Philippines in November of 1987 and at first thought he had picked up some jungle bug when he had trouble eating. After weeks of tests, a second opinion and exploratory surgery, the diagnosis came. By then, Lenny says it only confirmed his own suspicions.

"At this point I was almost dead of malnutrition, anyway," he says. "The worst feelings I had were for family and friends, not for me. I've always been able to

"You just don't think of Lenny and cancer in the same sentence. He's always been the most exciting, interesting man. He couldn't have something as ordinary as cancer."

Nancy Howarth

LENNY HOWARTH, long-time Davisburg attorney, is currently fighting a battle with cancer. He talks openly of what he has learned from the experience.

face death."

And as an adventurer, he has, on several occasions. Just to get home from the Philippines he had to ride an outrigger in 20-foot waves to get to the airport because the roads had washed out in a storm.

The oncologist told him the cancer was inoperable because it had spread out too far. They couldn't cure it, but they would try to control it with chemotherapy.

"It buys you time," Lenny says.

Nancy, who has been married to the man for 21 years adds, "Lenny was, at least in his head, prepared to have cancer. I wasn't. I thought it was a parasite from the Philippines. I had a difficult time with this. You just don't

"In a way, this has been good for me. I've had to sit down and confront myself. On the whole, this could turn out to be a very positive thing."

Lenny Howarth

think of Lenny and cancer in the same sentence. He's always been the most exciting, interesting man. He couldn't have something as ordinary as cancer."

Lenny says he "started adding things up" when cancer was diagnosed. "This has to be done and that has to be done. We cut down on expenses. I didn't want to leave my wife and children in dire shape."

He also says it is frustrating to be physically weak when he was used to being so active. "I would play five games of handball in a row."

But Lenny and Nancy Howarth don't dwell on the negatives. They live for the positives.

"In a way, this has been good for me," he says, explaining that he got away from the spiritual side of things in the 80's. "I've had to sit down and confront myself. On the whole, this could turn out to be a very positive thing."

He's gotten back to meditation, thinking, reading. "One of the hardest things in the world is to slow down," he says. "It's go, go, go all the time. This has forced me to stop."

"I think stress caused it. It depresses your immune system," he says. "We all have cancer, but your immune system constantly destroys the abhorrent cells."

"Another outlook to this cancer is that it could be a curative thing," he continues. "I pushed myself too hard. I had to get out of the materialistic world."

"It may be a cure, if it doesn't kill me first," he adds, illustrating one of the most important pieces of advice he has for others.

LENNY AND NANCY HOWARTH, married 21 years, left on a trip to the sunny Florida keys this week as Lenny recuperates from cancer treatment.

"Keep a sense of humor and a positive attitude," he says. "Get exercise, take care of yourself as much as you can."

Medication and "visualization" are other important steps to fighting the disease, he says. Research shows that these things are characteristics found in people who survive cancer.

Visualization, he explains, is trying to change your body through mental images. "Some people see little Pac Men eating the cancer cells out."

The cost of Lenny's illness has left him reeling and left him with less-than-positive thoughts about cancer societies.

"The (societies) are a farce," he says. "Neither offers (much) help to the individual suffering. The money goes to research and foundations."

He estimates that cancer care costs $450 million a day. "If they found a cure, they would go broke. It's a very profitable business."

Lenny was treated at Harper Grace Hospital in Detroit, the same hospital that treated and cured his mother's cancer. They put him on TPN (total package nutrition) and implanted the insert-a-port.

"It's very handy," Lenny says. He can take care of everything himself at home.

At first, he was told the feeding and home care to provide it would cost him $11,000 a month. Instead, he does it himself, and gets a big discount on the food from Pharmacy II in Rochester. But it still costs $5,000 a month.

A lot of his friends have rallied around him as the medical expenses climbed. The Davisburg Rotary raised $31,000 at a community service event.

And when the Howarths had trouble paying college tuition at Vassar for their youngest daughter, Erin, 18, Rotary came through with a $4,300 scholarship. Their other daughter, Alyce, 19, lives at home and attends the University of Michigan, Flint.

"I don't know what I did to deserve all this," he says quietly, recalling all the help and support he has received. "If I never worked again, I could work full-time for Rotary."

Among the many interests of Lenny is I Ching, a Chinese method of divination. Casting coins, he gets hexagrams which tell him how to approach a problem.

"The last hexagram I got said I was a traveler," he says. "I take that to mean I'm traveling through all these different therapies, studying them, learning about them."

Lenny is a traveler in another sense. Monday, he and Nancy left in their 1972 motor home for the Florida keys. Lenny plans to do much of the driving. They will visit Nancy's brother and enjoy the sunshine, and fly home the end of February, because Lenny has chemotherapy every 28 days.

But in May they will fly back down and drive the motor home up the east coast. They will pick up Erin at school, along with two classmates, one from Greece and one from Brazil, and travel back to Michigan.

Sunshine makes Lenny feel better, Nancy says. So do the massages he gets a couple of times a week to help circulation in the lymphatic system and the minerals to help the flow of oxygen and the spiritualist who stimulates his immune system mentally. He also recommends reflexology, which is working on pressure points.

"These are just some of the things I've done that help," he says. "Even if you don't live, you live a better life while you do."

CHS teacher of the semester likes a challenge

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

It's easy to see why Bill Genshaw was chosen teacher of the semester by Clarkston High School students last week.

When he talks on one of his favorite topics -- history, for example, or the abstract idea of education, even -- his voice is filled with urgency, and his expression is intense.

Even after 21 years of teaching at CHS, Bill still "gets up" for his classes in world history and media.

"It remains a challenge," said the Independence Township resident. "It doesn't get old. I've been through the material a hundred times now. But it's the intellectual freedom to pursue areas you probably wouldn't be able to pursue working in industry."

Bill is finishing work on a dissertation for a Ph.D. in educational systems development from Michigan State University, East Lansing, and his time after school has been filled with his own studies for the past seven years; so the honor awarded by the National Honor Society was a complete surprise, he said.

"I was amazed and flabbergasted, and I can't quite figure out what happened," he said. "We have some fine teachers, and I know there's good competition for it."

"I feel honored and embarrassed by it," he said.

But the award was no surprise to his students. Holly Walker, a sophomore enrolled in his world history class, voted for him with no second thoughts.

"He's my favorite teacher," she said. "He makes it interesting. He has more information than the book has, and he kind of broadens everything."

"He's fair, and he lets you know right to the point what he wants and what he expects. He's got a sense of humor, and I just like him," she said.

High school students are the perfect age to teach, Bill said.

"There's a certain amount of sophistication, but at the same time, there's a part of them that can be sparked with enthusiasm. When you see the face light up, where they can see how things fit together ... that's what I like. I like their exuberance. I like the candidness. I appreciate it even when it's not very complimentary."

"They're good people. I've always enjoyed dealing with them. I've always felt comfortable with students in a classroom, more so than (with) adults, even."

Bill was hired to teach history but brought media classes to the school in 1975. Now the program encompasses photography, audio equipment and video equipment. The students even produce programs on the local cable station (Channel 65).

"That program grew with the help from former superintendent, Mr. (Milford) Mason," said Bill, adding that financial woes of the school district have cut into the program in recent years.

And with the change in the curriculum -- more required classes and no study hall -- it's difficult to recruit students, he said.

A MAP AND TELEVISION tell the story of Bill Genshaw's media and history classes at Clarkston High School. "I really like the people I work with," he said. "For the most part, they're good teachers, and they spend a lot of time with the kids." When not working or studying, Bill likes to exercise, travel, listen to music, and spend time with his son, Marc, a senior at East Lansing High School.

"Kids are pretty tight now with their schedules. They don't have much room to experiment," he said.

But classes such as media, and his non-required world history classes, are important, said Bill.

"You have to give students an opportunity to excel," he said. "I had one student who came back and said, 'Mr. Genshaw, if it weren't for media, I wouldn't have stayed in school.' He graduated. We owe that to them."

Schools have begun to return to the basics -- reading, writing and arithmetic, which is good in one way but not so good in other ways.

"The problem I'm dealing with right now is content as opposed to process. When I deal with world history, I want to deal with it in depth, with discussions."

"Kids are better writers than in the past. Some of their thinking skills are better. They're losing something, though, in the time crunch. You make assumptions that they know certain things, and I can't do that anymore."

When they write, they need something to write about, he said. Another example: World history used to be taught in three classes at CHS, but it's been cut to two.

"When you have to cut, how can you deal with that? What do you leave out?" he said.

Ideally, education should involve content and process, he said, adding that history does a good job of joining the two, as does the media class.

"In a sense, I have the best of both worlds there," he said.

Until summer, Bill will be working hard to finish his work on his doctorate. "I don't know what I'm going to do with it. Once I have it, ... I guess I'll have it," he said.

For now, he'll continue the work that he loves -- teaching teens. "I've just really enjoyed it. It's been a really important part of my life."

"I really like to see it click. It's exciting. It's a charge. Occasionally, it's so good, it's like electricity. It's worth waiting for that to happen."

Garbage haulers consider recycling as cure

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Everyone creates it, and everyone is going to have to cooperate to reduce the problem.

The consensus of opinion among independent haulers is that this is the key to solving Oakland County's growing solid waste problem. And in a county that generates nearly 3,000 tons of solid waste per day, it's no small problem.

Recycling and incineration are two ways to reduce solid waste and help alleviate the problem of overused landfills. Current landfills in the county are estimated to last only five more years.

Garbage haulers in Independence Township are watching the current trend toward recycling with interest as landfill space dwindles and dumping fees skyrocket. All agree that recycling and incineration are coming.

"I feel it's a must down the road," said Ken Smith of Smith's Disposal. "Something has to give. Recycling, incineration or something has to be used."

Smith said they would get into it if they had to but were still learning more about it.

"It's just starting up (around here)," he said, and how good it works depends on how it's run.

Don Moore of Moore's Disposal echoed his feelings about the necessity of recycling.

"There's so much waste, and Americans are spoiled," Moore said. "They're used to just bagging it up and setting it out."

A large percentage of garbage is recyclable or could be incinerated. The time for landfills is limited, he said, so recycling is probably a favorable solution.

"I hate to see the crisis coming," he said. "But recycling needs to be here before it's too late."

Moore's Disposal doesn't have any plans for recycling as yet, but Moore said he thinks it needs to be a group effort.

"It's something for the county and township to think about," he said, suggesting perhaps a flat rate for recycling and incinerating at a center, such as some areas already have.

One local hauler, Rick Detkowski of Clarkston Disposal Service, is already making plans for a material recovery facility and began a pilot program for curbside pick-up of newspapers this week in Oakhill Estates, a mobile home park on Dixie Highway in Springfield Township.

"We're basically going to see what happens there," he said. "We hope to branch out to more areas and would like to move into Clarkston."

While they are just recycling paper for now, Detkowski said they would like to get into all recyclable items eventually.

With that in mind, he has already made proposals to the Oakland County Planning Commission and is looking at possible sites in Holly and Springfield townships.

"Recycling is the thing of the future," he said. "I think we have to divert some of that waste from going into the ground. Our landfills are filling up. In some states, recycling is mandatory."

The Clarkston Disposal Material Recovery Facility and Transfer Station would be consistent with the county's solid waste management plan, Detkowski said.

The facility would recycle cardboard (about 12 percent of solid waste), film plastics (one percent of solid waste), newspapers (one percent), high grade paper (one percent), wood and yard waste (two percent), metals and white goods such as old appliances (one percent).

He estimates a total of 18 percent of solid waste is recoverable. Tires remain a problem, but there is a market to resell old batteries.

Detkowski estimates one to two years before the facility would be ready for start up. The service would be available to other haulers, and a drop off center would be opened for residents as well.

He has applied for grant money from the "Clean Michigan Fund" and is looking into bond money from the "Quality of Life" fund.

"We have to solve the problem," he said. "We can't ship it off to other counties."

He sees recycling as one of the solutions, and even has pamphlets to distribute to school children about recycling.

"We need to educate people," Detkowski said, adding that people are becoming more environmentally aware today.

It won't be easy, but people must learn and change their ways.

They have to.

Curious cat finds hot spot

Normally, Rick Detkowski is in the disposal business, not the furnace business.

But last Friday he left his busy workday at Clarkston Disposal Service to hurry home and dismantle a furnace vent.

It seems the family cat, in particular, one curious 4-month-old kitten named Grady, ventured into a heating duct in a remodeled area of the Detkowski home on Eastlawn, Independence Township.

Rick's wife, Cherri, placed a frantic call to the office to tell him the cat was in the furnace.

Cats do seek warmth, but Grady might have found the direction he was headed to be a little hotter than he could handle.

After taking a vent apart, Rick coaxed the frightened kitten out, a little dirtier, but otherwise no worse for the wear.

All this transpired while the Detkowski's 15-year-old son Rick and 8-year-old daughter Brittney were at school.

"Brittney would have been horrified," Rick said after returning to his office. "She loves kittens. Grady is really her pet."

Opinions

Jargon

Julie Campe

We've had a lot of phone calls lately from people wanting to buy an article in the newspaper or wanting to put an ad on the Millstream page.

To clear up the confusion, I thought some people would like to know what all this newspaper jargon means.

An ad (short for advertisement) is something you pay for. Usually, ads appear at the bottom of the page and have boxes around them and tell something about a business or a service. Individuals might put a small ad in the back of the paper, where they're classified into categories, such as garage sales, used cars, for rent, etc.

Articles (stories written by reporters) are not sold, although some people try to buy them directly and indirectly. A news article might deal with a new development or a new tax rate or a traffic accident. A feature article is something to read just for fun -- about an interesting person or event.

We accept items for Millstream (engagements, weddings, honors, etc.) for free because we figure that's a part of community news. The same goes for Around Town -- we don't charge because people probably want to know what's going on.

Then there's the editorial pages (Pages 6 and 7 in this paper), where letters, columns and editorials appear. This bit of writing you're reading at this very instant is a column, as are the regularly featured writers: Publisher Jim Sherman, Jim Fitzgerald, Brent Bair and Peter Auchter's Time Out column in the sports section. Columns usually have a photo of the writer on top and can be written about nearly anything the writer wishes to cover.

Other columns in The Clarkston News are Betty Wagner's Microwave Plus, Pat Young's What's Cooking, and Friend to Friend.

An editorial, on the other hand, does not have a photo with it and usually takes a stand on an issue of one sort or another (yes, we think you should vote for this; no, this action should be illegal, etc.). Occasionally, we print guest editorials -- opinions from non-staff members.

Letters to the editor also appear on the editorial pages. Letters can be written about nearly anything but may be edited for newspaper style or even shortened to fit the space. Bouquets are thank-yous to individuals or the community as a whole, but a letter thanking a huge list of sponsors for an event or something is sent to the ad department where it can more appropriately be charged for the space rather than giving free publicity that may cost more in newsprint than the original donation to the organization writing the thank-you letter.

Letters must be signed and must include a telephone number, although names may be withheld on request. However, we do our best to talk people into using their names. Letters without names lose their credence, and people should not be afraid to admit to their own opinions.

Some use the excuse that they fear reprisals against their children, but I consider that a lame reason. First, most adults are not so unkind, and second, kids are tougher than we give them credit for. They can handle it or at least should be given the opportunity. And parents set a good example by stating their opinions and then standing by their convictions.

Senior insurance not what it seems

Public beware! Especially the senior citizens who will pay for this Catastrophic Insurance Act in conjunction with their Medicare.

We are not told the whole truth. U.S. Rep Sander Levin stated recently that seniors now will have "better coverage and benefits" from this new very costly Catastrophic Insurance. He is so wrong!

Without the Catastrophic Insurance Act our present Medicare/Medicap/Medicade gives adequate coverage at a reasonable cost.

Levin states that the hospitalization has been expanded to 365 days from 150 days and is an extended "benefit." Who is he kidding! The hospital stay now is of short duration, on the average of three to seven days, and then we are discharged. However, our hospital deductible has now increased to $564 from $540, a $24 increase!

Also misleading is the nursing home coverage. Did you know it only covers "skilled" nursing homes? Ninety-eight percent of nursing home patients are considered custodial care patients and will not receive any benefit from this nursing home coverage. Why are we not being told the facts?

Levin states prescription drugs will be covered beginning in 1990. Remarkably deceiving and misleading. He is not telling the whole truth!

First, another additional premium will be added in 1990 when drugs take effect and only two drugs will be covered and only after you pay a $550 deductible in a calendar year. The one drug covered will be "certain antibiotics" given intravenously safely at home. What about the "certain antibiotics" given in the doctors offices? No!

Let it be known AIDs patients will benefit from these "certain antibiotics." However, how many senior citizens are sexually promiscuous or drug users and will get AIDs? Not much of a benefit for seniors!

The only other drug that will be included in 1990 will be the immunosuppressive drugs used for organ transplant recipients, after one year usage of these drugs. How many seniors will benefit from these drugs, as seniors are at the bottom of the waiting list for organ transplants and understandably so?

How many seniors will "benefit" from this prescription drug program? It's a sham! Seniors and only seniors will be paying for AIDS and organ transplant recipients, as they will be covered under the Catastrophic Insurance Act. It's unfair and discriminatory for only seniors to pay. We, indeed, are being ripped off.

Did you know our premiums increase automatically every year and our deductibles increase also and we still have to pay for unapproved charges? Where are all these so-called "benefits" we are told we will receive? However, in all fairness, two or three percent will get to see some benefit.

Now comes the good part. According to the Institute for Research on the Economics of Taxation, 46 percent of senior citizens will pay the additional surtax on our federal income tax return, and 56 percent will pay by 1993.

What is this surtax? For each $150 tax liability you pay on your federal income tax, add another $22.50 tax. In other words, your 1989 taxes will increase 15 percent, to be paid in 1990.

Wait, it gets better. In 1990, your taxes increase 25 percent. You will now pay $37.50 per $150 tax liability, and by 1993 your additional surtax will increase 28 percent, to $42 per $150 tax liability. Wow, are we being taxed to death!

However, the so called "good news" is there will be a ceiling so you will pay no more than $1,600 per couple in 1989, and by 1993 you will not pay more than $2,100 additional surtax. How nice, all because of the Catastrophic Insurance -- or is it just another way to increase our taxes?

Wake up seniors, we have been misled. However we can do something about it.

In January, Congressman Harris W. Fawell introduced a bill to repeal (abolish) the Medicare Cata-

Jim's Jottings

CBS Evening News watchers will remember the interview Dan Rather had with George Bush.

I certainly do. I'd put Rather on a pedestal with Lowell Thomas and Edward R. Morrow. After the interview a footstool was too high for the CBS news reader.

Rather asked Bush a question, didn't like the way Bush was answering, interrupted, tried to drown Bush out, appeared to lose his temper, then cut off the dialogue with a brisk, "Thank you, Mr. Vice President."

This was weeks before the November election. About the first of this year I predicted Rather wouldn't be around six months after the inauguration because of his inability to communicate with President Bush.

Well, from what I learned last weekend, Rather could easily be around through Bush's years.

One of the speakers at Michigan Press Association's annual winter convention was Richard Threlkeld of ABC's World News Tonight. He had previously been with CBS for 12 years.

He mentioned the Rather-Bush interview during his speech, but didn't elaborate. Afterwards I sought his opinion on that interview.

He said, "Both men prepared for the interview. Bush hired a man to imitate Rather, asking questions Dan Rather could be expected to ask. And, Rather had someone take Bush's place in a pre-broadcast session."

"They knew what was coming. There were no surprises," Threlkeld continued. "But, Rather came off looking badly because he appeared to browbeat a guest on his program."

I asked, "Did Rather lose his temper?" "Yes, and that's something else you can't do (as an interviewer)."

Since Threlkeld started his journalism career as a weekly newspaper writer/salesman I have confidence in his integrity, honesty, and accuracy. I have none of the above in Dan Rather.

I now, also, question interviews of all public figures. We know presidents are prepared for press sessions by their aides, but are people from the press telling aides what they are going to ask?

Are there no cold questions? Are they all in the script like follow-up questions Detroit's news readers ask reporters after they have given their report?

Has honesty in tv reporting gone the same way as arguments over issues in presidential campaigns?

Threlkeld says negative issue campaigning won the last election for Bush, and it's the way to win in the future. Polls prove Bush's showing Dukakas being soft on crime, soft on environment, and opposed to a strong defense won the election for him, though none were true.

And, the press, Threlkeld said, failed to question the accuracy of Bush's ads.

He said it to a room full of press people. It made us all feel very proud.

strophic Coverage Act. Please call your congressional offices. Write letters and/or send telegrams to your own congressman and senators in Washington to support this bill.

By the way, United States Representative Dale E. Kildee has a toll-free number to call. It is 1-800-662-2685.

Also, it's imperative to write U.S. Senator Lloyd Bensten and U.S. Representative Dan Rostenkowski who are on a commission to again study and review this act but are standing firm not to have this Catastrophic Act repealed.

Rostenkowski of Illinois has said that there will be no public hearings, and the opposition will not be given an opportunity to speak.

Write today to: Senator Lloyd Bensten, Hart Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20510, and to Representative Dan Rostenkowski, 2111 Rayburn Building, Washington, D.C. 20515.

Also, sign a petition presently circulating throughout the United States, asking to repeal this Catastrophic Act. Hopefully, we will have one million signatures.

We senior citizens are a large voting block now; so perhaps our politicians will vote to eliminate this catastrophe. If not, remember him or her in the next election.

Clarkston is great

I would like to say a special thank you to some special people in Clarkston for supporting Kellee in December when she represented Clarkston in the Aloha Bowl in Hawaii -- Barb Hamaker, Dr. Robert Burek, Smith's Disposal, Becky Craig and the Gaulin family.

I would also like to express feelings of heart-felt gratitude for all the support Clarkston provided in Kellee's vie for the Michigan Junior Miss title in Marshall.

I knew I made the right decision when I decided to stay in Clarkston so the kids could go to Clarkston schools.

Again, thanks, Clarkston.

The Roads We Travel

Planning isn't the problem

Brent Bair

I've often heard comments to the effect that the reason we have all these road congestion problems is because of "poor planning." Usually, those comments are made by people who don't have the foggiest idea about what kind or amount of planning has occurred.

Road agencies have been working with communities for decades to identify future road needs. The Michigan Department of Transportation has a 10-year construction program detailing what will be built around the state over the next 10 years to address identified and projected road needs.

While the Oakland County Road Commission only prepares a three-year construction program, it maintains and periodically updates a Master Right of Way Plan that has been adopted by both the road commission and local communities.

Using projected land uses and travel patterns, the road commission and local communities reach an agreement as to the type of road (number of lanes) that will eventually be needed and thus the width of the right of way needed to build that road.

Once adopted, the communities, in reviewing site plans for development, require that buildings be set back a specified distance from the right of way line identified in the Master Right of Way Plan. Thus, when road widening does eventually occur, there are no new buildings in the way that must be purchased and torn down.

Communities sometimes even get developers to dedicate the needed right of way so that it would not have to be purchased later on when road widening is proposed. The preparation of such a plan and the pursuant actions by the communities are examples of GOOD planning.

The oldest Master Right of Way Plan for the entire county that I've seen dated back to 1971. However, this type of planning went on long before that, and I have seen reference to the adoption of such a plan in 1953.

Through a series of meetings with communities, the plan was last updated in 1981, but it will be updated again this year. It is no small task to go out and meet with the 61 communities in this county and reach an agreement as to what a particular road should look like sometime in the future.

Under the plan adopted in 1981, the majority of the major roads in Independence Township are designated as collectors with 86 feet of right of way for no more than a two-lane road (eg. Allen, Pine Knob, and Cranberry Lake roads), or as thoroughfares with 120 feet of right of way that eventually could accommodate a five-lane road (eg. Sashabaw, Clarkston and Maybee roads).

There are no roads designated for enough right of way to accommodate a boulevard. The closest road with that designation is Baldwin road with 150 feet, which could accommodate a four-lane boulevard.

The problem is not planning. The problem is funding. Current road funds go for maintaining the existing system. Additional funds are needed to make significant improvements to the system.

Unfortunately, none of the new revenue generated by development goes to road agencies. Those new revenues, namely property taxes, go to the schools, townships, county general government, etc., but not to the Michigan Department of Transportation or the road commission.

Even the best-laid plans aren't worth much if the money is not there to carry them out.

Brent Bair is chairman of the Independence Township Planning Commission.

Not fair

Remember that famous old movie scene where Gene Kelly tap-dances in the rain? At one point, Kelly bumps into a police officer. That officer probably didn't work for Detroit's Municipal Parking Department. Our vigilant guardians of parking spaces don't like to get out of their police cars when it's raining.

At least, some of them don't - the ones patrolling the area around Warren and Audubon streets, near Outer Drive. That's according to Marvin Sutton, who operates a furniture-repair shop in that neighborhood.

On Monday, I wrote about a Grosse Pointe Park woman who received a gutter ticket for a "coach stop violation" on Warren near Audubon. As later explained to her by a regular police officer, not a meter maid, a "gutter ticket" is one that's never put on a windshield. The parking officer turns in the city copy of the ticket, getting credit for a job well done, and throws the cited motorist's copy in the gutter. The motorist doesn't know he or she was ticketed until receiving an overdue-payment notice in the mail several weeks later.

I thought that was a lousy, lazy, sneaky way for a city employee to treat the public. Martin Sutton said that, as far as he could see, it wasn't sneaky.

"Several times when it's raining I've seen meter maids sit in their little cars and write tickets and simply roll down the window and throw the car owner's copy into the gutter," Sutton said. "They don't try to hide what they're doing. I wish I had a camera."

Remember the warning

How's that for blatant, screw-you injustice? Remember, it's not important whether the ticket is deserved. What's important - and infuriating - is the car owner doesn't get a chance to pay the original $20 fine. The rain-shy officer makes the $5 overdue charge automatic, and you can bet most of the screwed motorists pay it. They think maybe the ticket blew off their windshield, it's worth $25 to avoid the hassle of going to court, and there's always that capitalized threat on the overdue notice: pay up or YOUR LICENSE TO DRIVE MAY BE WITHHELD.

If Detroit had a monsoon season, the gutters might be clogged with soggy evidence of how our city encourages people to park in another town. Or join the Detroit Club and park in the middle of the street without getting a ticket.

After the original column on gutter tickets, I heard from more than a dozen readers similarly victimized by the scam. There isn't a room to print all the horror stories, so I picked Sutton's as the most fascinating. Or maybe the experience of a Wayne State University student is more fascinating. See what you think.

The heels of justice

The student, a Taylor resident, asked that his name be withheld. On Tuesday afternoon, near the Wayne campus, he watched while a parking officer "got out of her little white Dodge Omni." It wasn't raining.

"She dropped something on the ground and stomped it into the dirt with her heel. I'd read your column about gutter tickets the day before, so I was very interested in what she was doing. After she drove away, I picked up what she'd thrown away."

It was, of course, a parking ticket, the hard copy that's supposed to go on the cited car. According to what the officer wrote on it, the ticket had been written a few minutes earlier, two blocks away, on Fourth Street, for a "parking meter violation."

Along with the discarded ticket, the student got the license number of the officer's Omni. This information is available to the Municipal Parking Department if Director Helen Irving or any of her underlings is interested enough to phone me.

I certainly won't hold my breath. I've made similar offers to share information with Irving in the past, and they were ignored. In fact, I've long had the feeling that no one in the city administration, from Mayor Coleman Young on down, gives a good damn about how unfairly our parking ordinances are enforced.

Welcome to Detroit. But be smart and park somewhere else, especially if it's raining.

Sashabaw to be evaluated at national level

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Sashabaw Junior High School was honored Jan. 31 during ceremonies in Lansing as one of the top 10 middle schools in the state.

Twenty schools, 10 middle schools and 10 high schools, were recognized as outstanding schools in the Michigan Department of Education Exemplary School Program.

Awards were given to the schools during a 1 p.m. ceremony by State Superintendent of Public Instruction Donald L. Bemis and State School Board President Sherry Jacobus.

Sashabaw, which was the only Oakland County in-formula school to earn the exemplary status, received a joint proclamation from the state house and senate as well as an engraved plaque to display in the school.

Sashabaw Principal Dave Reschke and Assistant Principal Vince Licata said they were extremely pleased with the honor.

"We're thinking about doing something with the award in conjunction with student council," Licata said, though no plans were set yet for the event.

Traveling to Lansing to receive the award were Reschke, Licata, Superintendent Gary Haner, Clarkston Board of Education President Janet Thomas, and three teachers from Sashabaw Junior High who served on the school committee that worked on the application for exemplary school status.

The three teachers, chosen from seven who served on the committee with Reschke and Licata by drawing from a hat, were Bev Bronson, Cindy Hartwell and Neil Granlund.

The other four who worked on the committee were Lee Brown, Kathy Davis, Dick Swartout and Mari Ann Pace-Bleau. They did not go to Lansing for the ceremony because regulations only allow seven delegates to attend from each school.

Licata said the school received word on Monday that a team from Washington D.C. would be visiting, because the middle school has now advanced to national competition along with the other 19 exemplary schools. The 20 will represent Michigan in the U.S. Department of Education Secondary School Recognition Program.

The purpose of the recognition program is to identify and call attention to a national group of schools that are unusually successful in meeting the educational needs of all their students.

Other criteria include strong leadership and effective working relationships among the schools, parents and community, an orderly and conducive learning atmosphere in the school, and effective resolution of problems that affect student learning and daily school operations.

This was the first year Sashabaw Junior High had applied for the recognition. Two years ago, Clarkston Junior High School received exemplary school status in the same state program.

Teen injured in scuffle

An Independence Township teen was injured in a fight during a party after the Feb. 4 Clarkston High School basketball game.

Mark Anthony Bailey, 17, of Newcastle Drive, Independence Township, suffered cuts to his back Friday, after he and another teen fell through a living room window, according to an Oakland County Sheriff's Department report.

About 30 people had gathered at a residence on Dvorak Road in Independence Township after the CHS basketball game against Brandon Friday, according to the police report.

Witnesses told police that Johnnie Whitaker, 21, a resident of the home, went outside after hearing that a fight was about to break out in front of the residence.

Whitaker reportedly stepped between the two fighting teens and then was confronted by Bailey, who told Whitaker to stay out of it, according to witnesses listed in the report.

When Whitaker told Bailey to mind his own business, he was pushed by Bailey, the report said.

Several blows followed, and the two eventually fell through the front window of the residence.

Bailey, the son of television anchorwoman Doris Biscoe, was taken to a nearby hospital where he received several stitches.

Bailey agreed to pay the $820 damage to the window. No charges were filed in the incident.

Ferris State computer course taught in Clarkston

Clarkston schools and Ferris State University will offer Microcomputer Applications in Education Telecourse during the winter term at Clarkston High School.

The hands-on sessions will be held from 6 to 9 p.m. on Thursdays. Meeting dates for the sessions are: Feb. 23, March 2, 9 and 16, and April 6. The course will be taught by CHS teacher, James Ashmore.

This three-credit computer literacy course, conducted by the Ferris School of Education through FSU's Gerholz Institute for Lifelong Learning and the office of academic computing, provides educators having little or no prior microcomputing experience with computer skills to write tests, maintain an electronic grade book, track student progress and keep student profiles.

Others may take the course to learn how to use a computer to track a budget, write letters, maintain an address file and keep records.

Topics covered include parts of a microcomputer and how they work, basic computer terminology, care of hardware and magnetic media, elementary MS-DOS operating system commands, practical use of software and an overview of five types of applications programs -- communications, data base management, graphics, spreadsheet and word processing.

The course uses IBM-PC compatible hardware and Express Calc, PC-Write and PC-File+ software.

Telecourse lectures and demonstrations (on local Independence-Clarkston Cable TV Channel 65) are supplemented by instructor-guided applications laboratories. The course is also available as an individual study correspondence package.

Copies of the five comprehensive lecture/demonstrations are available on VHS tapes for a $15 rental fee. The tapes also are available for reserve viewing and study at Clarkston High School.

Students may register on a non-credit ($135), undergraduate credit ($168) or graduate credit ($219) basis. A materials fee of $30 covers instructional materials, including a textbook and necessary computer software.

Complete registration information is available by calling Ashmore at 625-0900 or 797-4631.

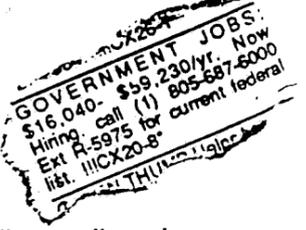

Suspicious want ads

Attorney General Frank J. Kelly has warned the general public against solicitations which are appearing in classified ad sections of newspapers. The ads create the impression federal and state civil service jobs are being offered.

"These solicitations are fraudulent misrepresentations. One gets the impression from the ad that it is a legitimate employment opportunity, or at least a legitimate employment agency.

"In reality, after calling a toll number you are pressured into paying nearly $30 and left with the impression you will receive helpful information on actual job opportunities. All you receive is a booklet which contains information that can be found in any free government pamphlet or general telephone numbers that can be found in any telephone book. For people truly interested in a job, the information is virtually useless," Kelly said.

It's worthy of note because such ads have appeared in this paper's classified ad section in prior editions.

School board meeting on Monday, Feb. 13

A new school district volunteer program as well as programs at the Oakland Technical Center-Northwest Campus will be spotlighted during the Clarkston Board of Education's monthly meeting on Feb. 13.

The board meets at 7:30 p.m. in the district administrative offices, 6389 Clarkston Rd.

Also on the agenda will be a report on 1988-89 MEAP results by Director of Administrative Services Bill Neff.

MEAP (Michigan Education Placement Assessment) is a mandatory test given annually to grades four, seven and 10 in reading, math and science.

The board is to also vote on a resolution appropriating funds for the litigation account of the formula school district caucus, which is fighting the inequality of state funding of schools by challenging the constitutionality of the current funding formula.

Jazz concert

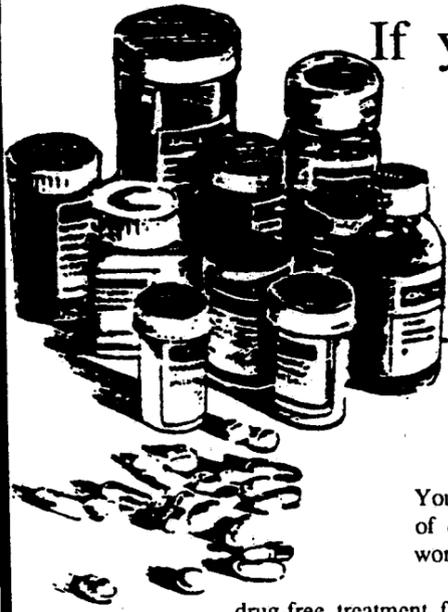

A jazz concert is sure to delight listeners Sunday, Feb. 12, at the Deer Lake Racquet Club, White Lake Road, Independence Township.

The Motor City Jazz Quintet is to begin performing at 6:30 p.m., and the show is to last until 10:30 p.m.

Sponsored by the Clarkston Conservatory of Music, the tickets are $10 and are available at the conservatory or Tierra on Main Street, Clarkston, or at the door.

The jazz quintet plays all over the Detroit metro area and can often be seen at the Bird of Paradise in Ann Arbor.

The group is comprised of Walt Szymanski, Scott Peterson, Paul Keller, Jon Knust and Phil Kelly. Kelly, on acoustic piano, was a former student at the Clarkston Conservatory of Music.

Firefighters honored for long-time service

The Independence Township Fire Department honored a few of their own Feb. 4, including seven retiring members who collectively had chalked up more than 100 years with the department.

The awards were granted during the Ladies Night Banquet, held at the Spring Lake Country Club primarily to thank those who accommodate the erratic schedules that firefighters are required to keep.

The retirees received a special award designed with an actual fire department helmet halved and mounted onto a plaque.

The retirees honored included: Bob Campbell, 15 years; Bob Krick, 16 years; Robert Morris, 25 years; Ray

I-75 accident hurts 1

A Pontiac man was injured Feb. 4 when he struck a parked car on I-75 about two miles south of Sashabaw Road.

Robert James Jackovatz was driving south on I-75 around 1:40 a.m., when he struck a broken down vehicle on the right-hand shoulder of the highway, according to an Oakland County Sheriff's Department report.

Two of the southbound lanes were open to traffic at the time; the third was blocked for construction.

According to the report, Jackovatz fled on foot south toward Clintonville Road after the accident.

Brandon 19-15-12, Cougars 17-2-15

Feb. 1—Sashabaw and Brandon scrimmaged when the officials didn't show up for the regularly scheduled contest and the Cougars came up short in two of the three contests. Deanna Lisle and Karan Taulbee are the most consistent players for the Cougars, the coach said.

"They have been improving although the scores don't show it."

Time Out

Peter
Auchter

In the near future, Clarkston and Tiger Stadium will have a common bond.

The ballpark on the corner of Michigan and Trumbull downtown soon will join the Village of Clarkston on the National Register of Historic Places.

Hopefully, that will help preserve the old gal and keep baseball downtown for a few more years at least. Maybe when it gets real old, it could be a museum of sorts for occasional special ballgames -- like an All-Star or Old Timers contest. The place has so much to give to so many.

As the upscale crowd at the Palace of Auburn Hills tragically shows, new stadiums don't attract the true sports fans. It'll turn a family atmosphere where everyone gets into the action into one where only the best-dressed will show up and then sit on their hands throughout the contest. What a fate for America's favorite game!

Mayor Coleman A. Young and Tigers' owner Tom Monaghan endorse the idea of moving the Bengals to a new stadium, maybe even (yuck) a dome. Ohh, to play in a covered stadium. We could end up as great as the Seattle Mariners who call the Kingdome home. They have yet to register a winning campaign.

Sure, Tiger Stadium smells a variety of smells that aren't always pleasing to the nose, but that's what gives it character. It wouldn't be the same if you didn't have to stand in line to go the bathroom between innings. What's wrong with a little peeling paint? It makes the place seem more like home.

When talk first began about moving the Tigers out of Tiger Stadium, a group of dedicated fans banded together in an effort to stop it. The Tiger Stadium Fan Club currently puts out a newsletter to keep interested parties briefed on what's happening with our landmark. In it they ask readers to write in support of Tiger Stadium. I encourage you to do the same.

Getting historical recognition for the place is only the first step. Young and Monaghan need attitude adjustments; we need to forcibly change their minds on the issue. It's the only way to go.

The best way to get the job done is to complain. If enough people can bellyache about a problem, it usually is solved rather quickly. No one likes a nag.

So, if you care enough, write a few lines to the fellows and tell them to keep their grubby little fingers off Tiger Stadium. We like things the way they are.

Frosh plays waiting game

BY PETER AUCHTER

With one start already under her belt, Ali Fedio looks forward to playing regularly for the women's basketball team at Grand Valley State University.

But for now, the 1988 graduate of Clarkston High School will have to be content with her supporting role behind senior Sherrie Davenport and wait for her turn in the spotlight.

At Clarkston High, Fedio blossomed in her senior year averaging 17 points, 12 rebounds and nearly three blocked shots per game and won All-County and Player-of-the-Week honors. But now, as a freshman in college, the learning process begins again.

"It humbles you and makes you work that much harder," she said of her time on the bench this season.

Fedio and her teammates invaded Lepley Sports Center at Oakland University Saturday to face the league-leading Pioneers. The Lakers lost a close battle 65-62. Fedio played sparingly and managed to grab one rebound during her limited time on the court. Davenport paced the club with 23 points.

Although she's sitting now, Lakers coach Pat Baker-Grzyb expects big things from Fedio in the years to come.

"We're looking for some good things from her," she said. "She has progressed very well for us. She has gotten some quality minutes, and that's important (for her development.)"

"I think she'll be a good player for us down the stretch as a junior and senior and hopefully as a sophomore."

Right now, Fedio is the seventh or eighth person on the depth chart and enjoys squaring off against Davenport while preparing for games.

port while preparing for games.

"During practice I work hard, and she works even harder," said Fedio, adding that she's slowly adjusting to college life. "It's getting better all the time."

Grand Valley has six games remaining in its 1988-89 season.

League title within reach of hoopsters

BY PETER AUCHTER

Nobody was happier to hear the final buzzer sound Friday night than Clarkston basketball coach Dan Fife. The Wolves and Brandon acted like a couple of prizefighters instead of prep basketball teams during a chippy contest won by Clarkston 72-65. Artistically, the game was U-G-L-Y.

"It's great to get this game over with," said a relieved Fife after the game. "Our kids kept their composure, and I'm happy for them."

Plenty of taunts flowed freely back and forth between the teams throughout the contest, and it eventually led to pushing and shoving. In between all the antics, Clarkston was able to polish off the pesky Blackhawks.

Four players reached double figures for the Wolves, accounting for most of the scoring. Reggie Reed paced the team with 21 points including two three-point shots. Kevin McCormick scored 16; Dugan Fife had 14; and Darin Brandt added 11. Scott Weeks chipped in with eight points, including six in the second half.

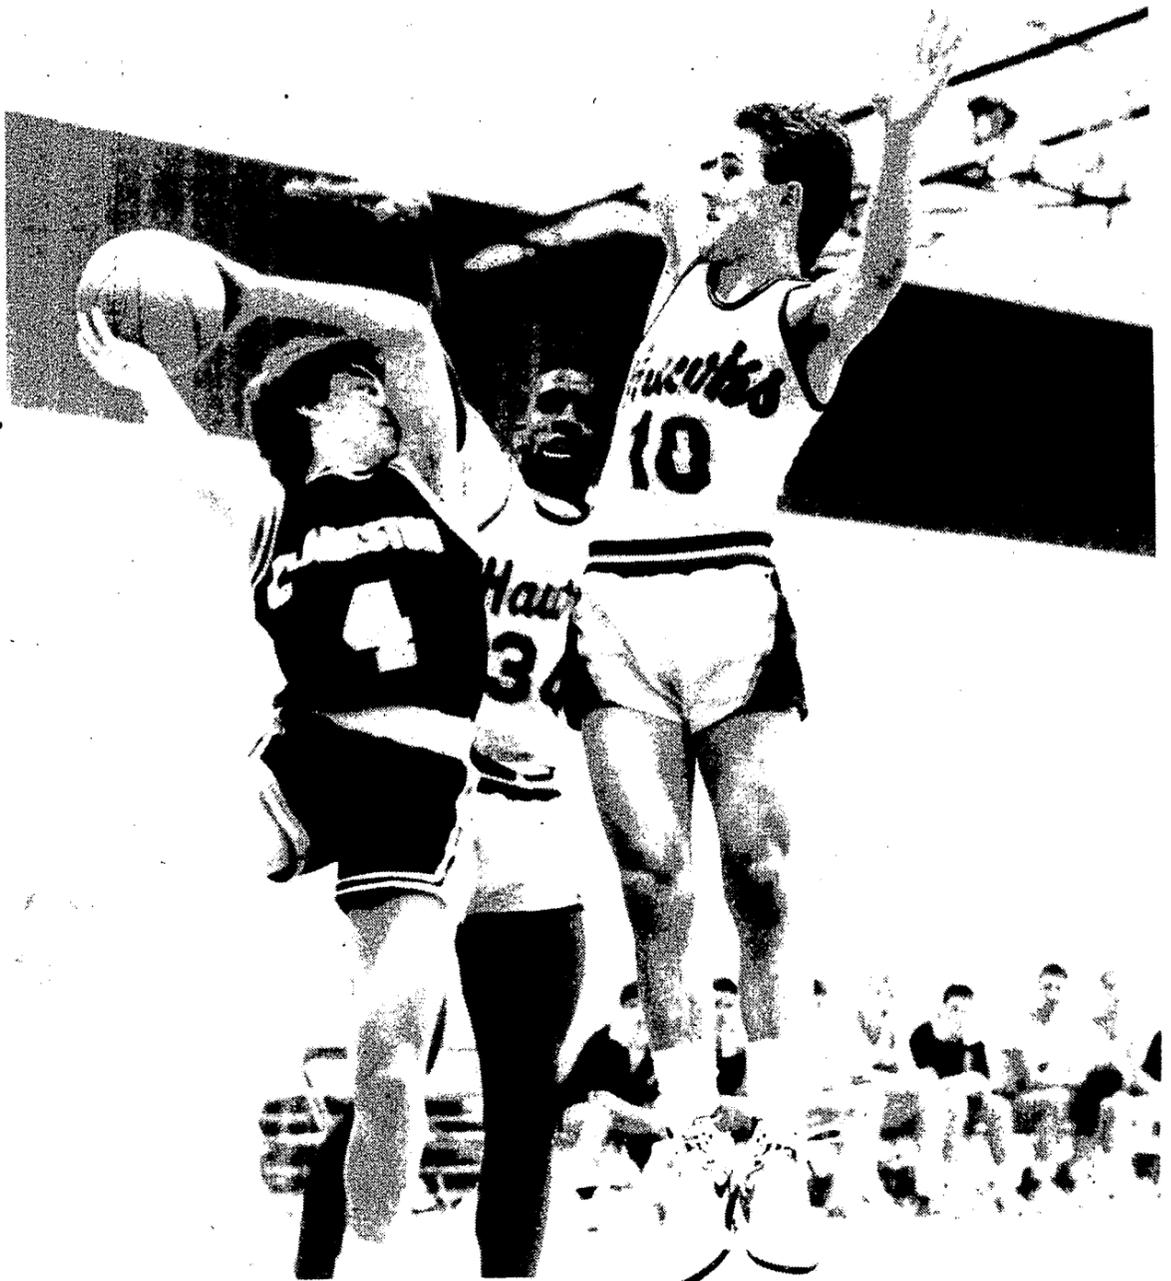

The victory ups the team's overall record to 10-5 and its league mark to 4-2. Coupled with GOAL leader Pontiac Northern's loss to Lake Orion Friday, Clarkston still has a chance to tie for the title.

At Brandon, the teams traded baskets during the first quarter, and the score was knotted at 10 after eight minutes of play. Clarkston took control early in the next stanza, building up an 18-11 advantage behind the scoring of Fife and Brandt.

Brandon rallied to tie late in the quarter before another Clarkston surge put the Wolves out in front 25-20 at halftime.

The Blackhawks got as close as two points in the third quarter before the Wolves stepped it up a notch offensively to put the game away. Heading into the final quarter, Clarkston led 51-41.

Whiplash is most commonly the result of an auto accident. Whether the head is snapped forward or backward, the shock is felt in the neck when the head moves one way and the body another. and pushed its advantage to as many as 12 points before the hosts rallied to make it close in the end.

Earlier in the week, the Wolves lost to unbeaten Rochester at home 59-56 despite getting 17 points from McCormick and 14 from Jason Brown.

Rochester led 14-10 after one quarter and built up a 30-24 lead by halftime. A 17-13 run in the fourth quarter helped the Wolves get back into the game, but they couldn't pull it off.

Pontiac Northern comes to Clarkston Friday for an important GOAL game, beginning with the junior varsity contest at 6 p.m. Northern slipped past Clarkston 72-70 earlier this season.

College update

Lake Superior State College's basketball team continues its struggles to reach the .500 mark in league play and senior Dave Jokisch continues to lead the way.

The Clarkston High School graduate scored 43 points in two games last week, helping the Lakers split their two contests.

In a 88-83 win against Northwood Institute, Jokisch netted 17 points. Against league-leader Ferris State two nights later he had a team-high 26 to go along with a team-high of seven rebounds.

On the season, Jokisch leads the team in shooting percentage (117-of-220, .532), rebounding (5.2 per game) and assists (5.4). The forward has a scoring average of 19.2 points.

CHS wrestlers continue to shine on mat

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston High's wrestling program continues to reach new heights under Coach Scott Strickler as seven athletes qualified for regional play.

Jerry Lawrence, John Terpstra, Chris Luzi, Adam Atkinson, Jason Campbell, John Anderson and Joel Davis all will go to the Class A regional meet at Lansing Sexton Saturday.

The previous high for regional qualifiers under Strickler's tutelage was five two years ago. He was especially pleased to see Lawrence and Terpstra capture individual titles.

"I've never had two district champions," the coach said. "Once the kids knew it was do or die, they did well. To get this far is an accomplishment."

Lawrence, wrestling at 160 pounds, decisioned Rick Linnell of West Bloomfield 7-6 to win his title, while Terpstra, at 145, decisioned Rich Helfer of Novi 4-0 for

Wolves place 2nd

Thanks to a strong performance, the junior varsity volleyball team finished second in a tournament it hosted Saturday.

During an up-and-down day, the Wolves finished down with a two-game loss to Royal Oak Kimball 15-5, 15-6 in the finals of the tournament at Clarkston High School.

The Wolves defeated Rochester 15-11, 15-9 in the semi-final round while Kimball topped Stevenson.

Individually, Jodi Lopucki had 13 kills on the day, and Becky Kosek had 16 serving aces. Amy Blome and Sue Cohoon also played well, said Coach Kecia Powell.

"They did better than I expected," the coach said. "There were times when they were up and times when they were down."

Currently the team sports a 9-13 record after a 3-2-1 showing during the tournament.

JV hoops team tops Rochester

Although the starring names were different, the results remained the same for the junior varsity basketball team.

Clarkston won twice last week behind the scoring of Scott Trekman on Jan. 31 and Chris Wasilk Friday night.

Trekman scored 21 points, and Bill Knight added 13 more for the Wolves as they beat Rochester 63-43 at home. The Falcons came into the contest with only one loss, making the victory especially sweet.

Three nights later, the Wolves dominated Brandon and won easily 66-27. Wasilk was the team's leading scorer with 19. Knight had 14 in support.

Clarkston played the game without Trekman who his first-place finish.

Of the seven qualifiers, four are returning underclassmen.

"It's good that the young kids get experience," the coach said. "They have been looking pretty good, and I couldn't ask for more (than that)."

Before the individual regional action on Saturday, the Wolves had to handle the team districts on Feb. 8 at Linden High. Waterford Mott, Kettering and Holly will compete along with Clarkston at the meet. The Wolves and Captains should battle for the crown.

Since CHS has won only one team district in school history, Strickler looks forward to bringing home a second title.

"I have been working toward this all year," he said. "I really want to take this one."

was out with an illness, but the team didn't miss a beat.

"It was good to see us play that well without Trekman," said Coach Tim Kaul. "It was a good week for us."

Against Brandon, the game was relatively close in the first quarter, with Clarkston holding a 15-10 lead after eight minutes. But good defense limited the Blackhaws to just two points in the next stanza, while the Wolves poured in 17 to stake themselves to a comfortable 32-12 halftime lead.

The second half turned out to be no kinder to the Blackhaws as the Wolves scored at will to finish off their hosts.

LO, Wolves remain tied

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Although it wasn't pretty, the varsity volleyball team continued its winning ways in the Greater Oakland Activities League.

Clarkston hosted a tough Waterford Kettering squad Monday and won in two games 16-14, 15-11 to bump its GOAL record to 6-1. The Wolves are tied for the league lead with Lake Orion, who also is 6-1.

"It was kind of an ugly match," said Clarkston coach Gordie Richardson. "It wasn't poorly played, but we didn't do a lot of exciting things."

Jamie Lerner and Jenny Graham, who was filling in for the injured Susan McKoin, paced the victors with six kills apiece. Jenny Grohs had 20 assists and Heather Behrens was 15-of-15 serving with three aces. On the year, Behrens is serving at an excellent 98 percent clip.

Graham, who also had two aces, caught Richardson's eye with her outstanding play.

"She had a real good night," he said. "She was playing the ball better."

Eight service errors slowed the Wolves offensively but they countered with 10 aces. If Clarkston had served better, the final scores wouldn't have been as close.

"We were in control most of the way," the coach said. "It was a big win. I was very concerned (before the match) but we did a pretty good job."

The Wolves now face a rapidly improving Pontiac Northern squad on Feb. 8 at Northern before hosting their own invitational on Saturday.

Nine teams, plus host Clarkston, will compete in the Clarkston Invitational at the high school Saturday. Rochester, Royal Oak Kimball, Royal Oak Dondero, Ferndale, Flint Northern, Sterling Heights Stevenson, Lansing Waverley, Romeo and Warren Woods Tower all will vie for the championship. Play gets underway at 9 a.m.

Next Monday, the Wolves host Lake Orion in a match that could decide the GOAL championship.

Long-stem red rose still top Valentine seller

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Just as winter clenches its icy grip comes a holiday to warm even the coldest constitutions - Valentine's Day, a time for pink hearts, endearing whispers, chocolates and love.

And as romantics rejoice, area florists chime in. "It's our busiest day of the year," said Robin Blichok, a designer at Beverly's Flowers and Gifts, on M-15 in Independence Township.

"Flowers are still Valentine's statements," said Susan Essmaker of Country Greens, also on Main Street, Clarkston.

But just as the holiday promises profits in pocket-books, it possesses the potential to plant thorns in their sides.

Stolen truck recovered

A reckless driving incident ended in the recovery of a stolen vehicle for Oakland County Sheriff's Deputies Feb. 4.

Last Saturday, a resident on Timber Ridge Trail, Independence Township, called police to report a reckless driver at the intersection of Timber Ridge Trail and Maybee Road.

The resident said the pick-up truck drove recklessly but eventually stopped, and two white males fled toward a field on Pelton Road, according to an Oakland County Sheriff's Department report.

When police arrived, they found the truck in the road with keys in the ignition.

The owner of the vehicle, when contacted at his Clinton Ridge home by telephone, said the truck had been stolen without his knowledge.

It was later determined that a radar detector had been taken, and a cigarette burn had damaged the seat.

The owner said the keys to the vehicle had been left in the ashtray before the vehicle was stolen.

"Last year a big storm made deliveries almost impossible," Essmaker recalled.

In other years, summer drought resulted in a shortage of roses, boosting prices.

"We won't have a problem with roses this year," said Shirley Wilson, co-owner of Creations Best on Washington Street. "But prices do go up."

"Our supplier sends us a list in January and says this is what the price is going to be for Valentine's Day," she added.

"It's a common misconception that we boost the prices for roses over everyday prices," said Essmaker. "The fact is, it costs us a whole lot more from the wholesaler. It's supply and demand, they take a hit all year, and this is a time to make up for that."

Customers who paid $30 for a dozen roses all year round can expect to pay $45 for the same dozen roses at Valentine's Day, said Wilson.

Despite the high prices, Cupid's arrow still finds its mark.

"We had one lady that sent three dozen roses to Elvis before he died," said Essmaker.

"I remember the (flower shop) owner took the money right to the bank to make sure it wasn't counterfeit," she laughed.

Low interest rate

If they sold more than $5 million in one year, the government could recapture some of the interest earnings, he explained.

The $5.2 million bond issue is financing roofing repairs and needed maintenance in school buildings throughout the district.

Among the 11 bids were several local financial institutions, Jackson said. Oxford Bank was the third best bid. Another bidder was National Bank of Detroit, who was the winning bidder in the bond sale last August.

Essmaker also recalled a man entering the flower shop in just a robe to purchase one long-stem red rose for the object of his affection.

In today's world, choosing the proper gift for your Valentine is no bed of roses. The options are endless.

"Red roses are still number one over anything," Essmaker said, "but special wire service flowers and arrangements are also popular."

At Beverly's, the hearts have it. "We don't do that much in fresh flowers, but we do sell a lot of heart wreaths, heart mugs, heart teddy-bears and heart sachets," Blichok said.

At Creations Best, more men are receiving flowers, and more women are buying themselves Valentine's presents. "But they're not flowers," Wilson said.

"Our silks (silk flowers) have sold quite well, and we still compete with candy," Wilson said.

"There's just no substitute for a long-stem red rose," Essmaker mused.

And just one more case for flowers. "Flowers aren't fattening," Essmaker said.

Car fire closes I-75

Traffic lanes on I-75 were closed for about 10 minutes on Tuesday, Jan. 31, to make way for firefighters battling a vehicle fire.

A 1989 Plymouth Reliant caught fire in the north-bound lanes of I-75 near Dixie Highway in Springfield Township.

The owner of the vehicle told police he saw sparks coming from the back of the car and when he opened the hood he discovered a fire in the engine.

Oakland County Sheriff's Deputies said that when they arrived on the scene, the car was completely engulfed in flames.

Police closed I-75 for Independence Township firefighters, who arrived and put out the blaze.

Bailey Lake students write about Valentine's Day

The following are thoughts on Valentine's Day from pupils in Duane Proctor's fourth grade class at Bailey Lake Elementary School.

Valentine's Day is like the beginning of spring, always bringing something new. It is like a sky of blue filled with white shapes called clouds. Valentine's Day has wonderous colors and beautiful cards filled with joy from the heart.

-Julie Drallos

Valentine's Day is special because it shows people love and warmth and kindness and care, but the very most important thing is love. Love by your friends and parents and family, and you should give love to others as they do to you.

-Mandy Carlson

Valentine's Day

Valentine's is sweet,
Valentine's is when you
Give cards that say be mine,
Valentine's is a very special day,
Valentine's Day is Feb. 14,
Valentine's is for hearts and cupid,
Valentine's is just not cards ...,
It's love and joy.

-Becky Lynady

Valentine's Day

Valentine's Day is for love
And care, hugs and kisses,
Hearts and more hearts,
Pink, red and white,
Kindness and friendship.
That's what Valentine's Day
Is all about.

-Tina Trombly

A Valentine Poem for You

Valentine's Day is happy.
Valentine's Day is grand.
Valentine's Day is a special day for you.
Valentine's Day is a time to let someone
Know you care about them.
In school, we trade Valentine's Day cards
And have a party to celebrate.
Valentine's Day is a day
To let someone know you love them.

-Kate Gleason

Valentine's Day is not far away
I know, it is very true,
I can see it in your eyes of blue.
The happiest day of my life
Is when you make me your wife.
Cupid came down from above
And shot me with an arrow of love.
His arrow went straight to my heart
It tears my emotions apart.
I love you so my dearest love
It is very sad but true
You don't feel the same way I do.

-Rachel Hall

When it's love

Rosemary Lewis' third-grade pupils at Clarkston Elementary School wrote poems about emotion. These students chose love as their topic.

Love is bright pink.
It tastes like candy.
And it smells like the summer breeze.
Love reminds me of warm arms around me.
It sounds like mom calling me home.
Love feels like swimming.
By Laura Ball

Love is bright colors.
It tastes like fruit.
And smells like flowers.
Love looks like sunshine.
It sounds like music.
And feels like loving someone.
By Mandy Thompson

Love is pink.
It tastes like fresh air.
And it smells like roses.
It reminds me of hugs.
And sounds like music.
Love makes me feel like a nice person.
By Jennifer Bauer

Love is the color of dark red.
It tastes like a strawberry.
Love smells like a rose.
It looks like a heart.
Love sounds like music.
It feels like a kiss.
By Brooke Knas

Love is white and pink.
It tastes like cherries.
And smells like sugar in the air.
It looks like hearts.
Love sounds like heartbeats.
It feels like happiness.

ESSAY WINNERS at Clarkston Junior High are (from left) Staci Hill, Sally Basinger and Erin White. The eighth graders competed in an "America and Me" essay contest.

8th-graders win with essays on United States

Three eighth graders at Clarkston Junior High School earned honors with essays they penned about America.

The students, Sally Basinger, Staci Hill and Erin White, earned first, second and third place respectively in the 20th annual America and Me essay contest sponsored by Farm Bureau Insurance. The contest is open to eighth graders across Michigan.

All three will receive awards at the junior high school during the spring awards assembly. Sally, as first place winner, will advance to state competition in May.

At the state level, 10 essays will be selected by a panel of judges that includes Gov. James Blanchard and Lt. Gov. Martha Griffiths. Prizes include savings bonds valued from between $500 to $1,000.

Clarkston Junior High English and reading teacher Bill Rathburg, who has been involved in the contest for a number of years, judged the original entries at the school and sent 10 essays to Farm Bureau Insurance.

"I do it because it gives them a chance to compete around the state," he said.

A panel of judges selected by Farm Bureau chose the top three essays.

Sally said she wrote her first place essay on her dreams for America.

"I just hoped it would become a better country," she said.

Staci wrote her essay on pollution in America.

"I want the water and air to be cleaner," she said. She described the pollution problem and how people could help make it better.

Erin wrote about career choices in America.

"There are so many, it is hard to choose," she said. "But it's something everyone has to work at to make America better."

Student works to fill brother's shoes

JEFF AND FRED SABER earned themselves employee of the year honors at Kinney Shoes on Dixie Highway in Independence Township. The two began at Kinney's at age 14, and with help from work co-op programs have established themselves in a career.

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

When you enter The Kinney Shoe Store on Dixie Highway on Independence Township, you might notice salesmen that are a bit friendlier, a bit more hardworking than usual.

For at least two of the store's employees, the effort is no accident. Fred and Jeff Saber have tread carefully through the more than five years each has worked at the store to make a career for themselves.

Fred Saber, the older of the two at age 22, started at Kinney's when he was 14. With help from an area vocational program, Fred worked for six years to elevate himself to store manager and store employee of the year.

His brother Jeff, 19, also began at Kinney's at age 14 and since then has filled his brother's shoes, earning the employee of the year honor for 1988 and breaking store records for daily and weekly sales.

"School is just on the edge for me," Jeff said shyly. "I think it's better for me to work."

And work he has, putting in 15 hours a week at the store in addition to his class work at Clarkston High School where he'll graduate this Spring.

"I'm proud of what they've done," said Mary Ann Saber, the boys' mother. "College isn't for everyone, and it wasn't for them."

"Education is important, but you can do other things with your life," she added.

"The more I'm here, the more I learn," said Jeff, who plans to start full time at the store after graduation.

"I just look at the assistant managers and then apply my own technique," he said. "I always try to make the customer happy and have a positive attitude and smile."

Along with their good looks and ambition, the two share a mutual respect for one another.

"He's a real good employee," Fred said about his younger brother. "He knows what needs to be done."

Jeff added, "We get along better than most might think. We've been with this thing all the way through. He treats me like any other employee."

Fred is aspiring for a district manager position with Kinney's and then possibly a regional manager's spot.

If the past is any indication, Jeff will be right behind, aptly following in his brother's big footsteps.

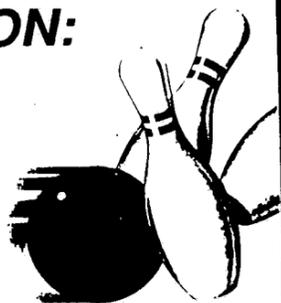

St. Valentine

Stories recounting the origins of Valentine's Day are as varied as flavors of ice cream.

According to one legend, St. Valentine was a young Roman imprisoned by Caesar. While he was in jail, St. Valentine wanted to get word to his family that he was alive.

He managed to pick the petals from the roses growing outside his window and pierce them with the words, "Remember your Valentine." The petals were then delivered by a dove.

Microwave Plus

Perfect for lent or holidays

Betty Wagner

This year Valentine's Day, Lincoln's and Washington's birthdays occur after Ash Wednesday.

Valentine's Day is celebrated with sweets for your sweetheart; the president's birthdays are associated with cherry desserts. But Ash Wednesday is the beginning of Lent, a time of fasting and penitence for Christians. Many people observe Lent by giving up sweets and desserts.

With a little planning we can "sweeten up" nutrient-dense foods without adding extra empty calories, incorporate them as part of our daily dietary allotment, and still celebrate the holidays without negating our Lenten resolutions.

CHERRIES JUBILEE

- 3/4 cup tart, red pitted cherries in water
- 2 tablespoons cherry liquid
- 1 teaspoon kirsch or 1 teaspoon almond extract
- 1 cup low fat vanilla yogurt, divided

Place yogurt into dessert dishes. Heat cherries and liquid in microwave at high for 1 minute. Measure kirsch or almond extract into an oven-proof glass measure or custard cup.

Heat at high for 15 to 20 seconds, ignite and pour over cherries. Carefully spoon flaming cherries over vanilla yogurt.

If you choose not to ignite the cherries, add either flavoring to the hot cherries and spoon over yogurt.

CREAMY CHERRY CREPES

- 1 recipe low-fat crepes (see recipe below)
- 2 cups low-fat vanilla yogurt
- Slivered almonds

Red, tart cherries packed in water
Place 2 to 3 spoonfuls of yogurt down the center of each crepe. Roll crepe around yogurt. Spoon cherries and juice over crepe. Sprinkle slivered almonds over top.

CREPES

- 1 cup all-purpose flour
- 1 1/2 cups skim milk
- Vegetable oil
- 1 egg, slightly beaten
- 1/4 teaspoon salt, optional

Blend flour, milk, egg and salt. Heat lightly oiled 6-inch skillet on conventional range. Pour 2 tablespoons batter in skillet; cook until golden brown on bottom. Turn over. Brown other side.

Repeat with remaining batter. Left over crepes may be frozen between 2 layers of waxed paper. Makes 18 crepes.

Recipe is from "Microwaving on a Diet."

BANANA SPLIT

- What a great lunch!
- 1 medium banana
- 1/2 cup low fat vanilla or cherry yogurt
- 1 teaspoon chopped nuts
- 1/4 cup tart, red pitted cherries

Split banana in half lengthwise. Place mounds of yogurt on banana. Sprinkle with nuts; pour cherries and juice over top. Enjoy!

HOT CHERRY SOUP OR PASTA TOPPING

- 1/4 cup cold cherry juice
- 1 1/2 tablespoons cornstarch

- 1 cup red, tart cherries
- 1/4 cup cherry juice
- 1 8-ounce carton cherry yogurt
- 6 ounces cinnamon/nutmeg
- Fettuccine, cook according to package directions
- Slivered almonds

Heat cherries and 1/4 cup juice at high for 2 minutes. Stir in yogurt. Heat at 70 percent (roast) for 1 minute. Mix cornstarch into cold cherry juice. Add to yogurt-cherry mixture. Heat at 50 percent (medium) for 1 minute. Stir and heat for another minute. Serve hot as a soup, or toss with cooked fettuccine; top with slivered almonds and serve as an elegant pasta dinner accompaniment or a nutritious sweet ending.

CHS singers perform well at solo & ensemble

Clarkston High School students participating in the Solo and Ensemble Festival Feb. 4 at Royal Oak Kimball High School fared well, according to Grayce Warren, vocal music director of the CHS Music Department.

"Twenty-seven events represented CHS at this district level of competition. Of that number, 23 events were award-winning events," she said. "All of the 14 'Rating I' events will now compete at the state level of competition at the University of Michigan, Flint Campus, on April 8."

Warren also noted that the Madrigal Singers have received a Rating I for eight consecutive years at the district level of competition. "This is an outstanding accomplishment," she said.

At 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, Feb. 9, many of the ensembles and choirs were scheduled to perform music from the Feb. 4 festival during a free public concert in the Kirchgessner Theatre at CHS.

Below are the results of the Solo and Ensemble Festival.

Ratings, from the Michigan School Vocal Association Handbook, are as follows: Rating I, an excellent level of performance and musicianship for the event and classification judged; Rating II, a good performance, but had minor defects in performance or ineffective interpretation. How to safely use snowblowers

If the recent winters are any indication of impending weather, those who own snowblowers will get plenty of use out of the machines this season.

People should realize that a snowblower is a powerful machine that can cause serious injuries when used improperly, said John Keller, a safety expert with Detroit Edison. Injuries are associated with the moving machine parts, flying objects and slips and falls.

Following are tips on the safe use of snowblowers.

Familiarize yourself with the machine.

~ Read the owner's manual carefully and refer to it often.

~ Know the parts of the machine that can cause injury. Belts chains and blades can catch clothing and cause serious injury to fingers or toes. A hot engine or muffler can burn you. The discharge chute can release snow, ice, stones and other objects with dangerous force.

~ Make sure to check cords, prongs and receptacles on your electric snowblower. Repair cracked or frayed wires which can result in electrical shock or fires.

Prepare for the job.

~ Remove sticks, stones and other objects from the area to be cleared.

~ Use the snowblower as soon after the snowfall as possible, but make sure there is enough light for good visibility.

~ Dress warmly, but don't wear any scarfs or clothing with loose ends. Use footwear with good traction, and wear safety glasses or eye shields.

~ Inspect the snowblower to make sure all safety shields are in place and parts are fastened securely.

~ For gasoline-operated snowblowers, check the oil and fill the gas tank. The gas tank should be filled outdoors with the engine turned off and while the engine is cool. The spark plug wire should be disconnected.

~ Let the engine and moving parts warm up.

Operating the snowblower:

~ Use only approved cords and plugs when starting or running an electric snowblower.

~ Plug the starter cord into the snowblower before plugging it into a wall outlet. After starting, remove the cord from the wall outlet before removing it from the machine.

~ Before attempting to unclog, adjust or inspect the snowblower, make sure the engine is shut off and moving parts have stopped. Disconnect the spark plug wire. Use a stick or broom handle when clearing clogged snow from the discharge chute. Once the snow is cleared from the blades, pressure is released, and the blades can come down on the operator's hands -- even with the engine shut off.

~ Stay clear of the auger and impeller and the discharge chute while the machine is running or the blades are spinning.

Friend to Friend

Accidents may be stress-related

Dear Friend to Friend:

Help. I have such a strange problem that it's driving me crazy. I'm the ultimate clutz. Everything I touch somehow falls apart or gets screwed up. I hate it. I'm known as the disaster area in my family. It seems like accidents look for me because I'm always involved in one.

It used to be cute when I was small, but now I'm seventeen years old and I feel so stupid when I walk into walls, break a glass, or trip on the stairs -- all at least once a day.

I know that accidents are human things, but I feel like I have an abnormal dose of it. How can I prevent myself from feeling so embarrassed or can I solve this problem somehow? Please hurry. Beware of walking disaster.

Dear walking disaster:

We have two suggestions from the members of our group. One is that you consider that sometimes accidents are either related to stress or increased by stress.

Take a look at your lifestyle and consider ways that you can reduce the amount of stress in your life.

Eating the right foods, getting enough rest and regular exercise along with learning to face and cope with problems may be useful in helping deal better with your stress level and thereby help to reduce accidents.

Another suggestion has to do with you accepting that you have a problem of being a clutz and dealing with it in other kinds of ways.

You have indicated in your letter that you realize that to have accidents is human. However, you should apply an old maxim about humanness to your situation. That maxim is that to err is human, to forgive is divine.

We're suggesting that you accept that perhaps you do have an abnormal number of accidents, but it is important for you to forgive yourself and accept yourself for your strengths not your weaknesses.

Do not regard it as a sign of weakness or abnormality that you are a clutz, but accept it as part of your uniqueness and as something for which you need not be embarrassed or humiliated about.

To increase your body consciousness, perhaps some dance classes or aerobic classes might be useful.

Dear Friend to Friend:

I am very frustrated. I am good friends with a teacher in high school that I respect very much. We usually get along very well and we love to joke around with each other.

I have one major problem with him, though. Because we talk a lot and he knows me so well, he knows what's important to me.

Anytime an important subject comes up, he always cuts down my opinions.

After, he always tells me he is "just kidding," but I get so sick of hearing him cut me down. It hurts me inside and frustrates me outside and this causes big conflicts which I hate.

I think he thinks I make these conflicts up just to fight with him for fun, and that just frustrates me more.

I just don't know what to do. I've tried to talk to him about this, but he always seems to turn it into nothing or blows it off. Please help me out.

Secretly Hurting

Dear Secretly Hurting:

We can tell this really bothers you. And well it should. We know it does hurt when someone you respect and consider a friend uses the relationship to inflict pain.

As a teacher and as an adult, he has a psychological advantage over you, and the way he's using it isn't fair. Since you have already tried talking with him, we won't suggest that.

However, we do give you credit for attempting that approach. The one thing that is left is for you to change how you are handling things.

What will be important for you to keep in mind if you continue the relationship with him is that you do not have to feel insulted, "cut down" or hurt by his put-downs or lack of respect for your ideas and opinion.

In other words, you can like your own ideas and thoughts and appreciate yourself for having opinions no matter what he thinks about them.

His opinions may not be any more valuable than yours.

You can listen to what he has to say (even if he doesn't give you the same respect) and evaluate his opinions based on your own information and values.

Just don't take his badgering of you personally (we know this will be hard to do at first.)

Don't be afraid to let him know that your opinions differ from his and use the joking relationship you already have to keep things on a light level when you do disagree with him. Good Luck.

Friend to Friend is provided by a panel of Clarkston High School students working under AWARE, a community organization dedicated to Action and education against substance abuse. Letters may be addressed in care of The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main, Clarkston, MI 48016.
