Neglected burro taken from farm

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

On a tip from neighbors who had occasionally fed him, a badly neglected burro was taken from a Springfield Township farm by the Michigan Humane Society Saturday.

"Milton," as the burro is called by shelter staff, had been adopted through the federal Bureau of Land

Management's adopt-a-burro program.

Under the program, homes are found for American burros born in the wild which have become a problem as their numbers grow. There are reports of western ranchers slaughtering the animals or of the animals perishing from hunger or the elements.

But at a time when animal rights groups across the nation are questioning the federal program's follow-up and monitoring of adopted animals, Milton's sad plight may fuel the debate about whether the burros are better off adopted.

The lice-infested burro was found in a small, dark stall packed two feet deep with manure, according to Barbara Ellico, assistant manager of the Michigan Humane Society's Auburn Hills shelter, where the burro was taken for treatment.

Though the animal could get out of the stall, it was

Teens charged in seven-state robbery spree

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Three teens charged in an Independence Township armed robbery were arraigned in district court Feb. 28, amidst the glare of camera lights from Detroit's three major TV stations.

In addition to the armed robbery of Dandy Oil on Sashabaw Road in Independence Township, the three teens are suspected in the theft of a truck from Orion Township, the theft of a van in Columbiaville, and in a trail of convenience store armed robberies in Indiana, one in Kentucky, two in Tennessee, two in Georgia and three in Florida.

Michael Duane Fee, 18, of Pontiac is being held in the Oakland County Jail on a $100,000 cash bond.

Two juveniles will be tried for armed robbery as adults, said Detective Sgt. Thomas Quisenberry of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Held in Pontiac's Children's Village on $100,0100 cash bonds each are Keith Scribner, 15, of Pontiac, April May Metzelburg, 14.

The preliminary exams for all were set for Thursday, March 9, before Judge Gerald McNally of 52nd District Court, Independence Township.

If convicted, the three could face a maximum life sentence, Quisenberry said.

"At the bond hearing, we tried for a high bond and we got it, due to the nature of their crimes," Quisenberry said.

The three were arrested in the stolen van in Galveston, Texas, on Feb. 15, as they allegedly tried to break into several parked vehicles.

After being arraigned on charges in Texas, the three were extradited to Oakland County to face charges on crimes allegedly committed here.

In the Feb. 11 hold-up of Dandy Oil, two men described as "very dirty" by the clerk on duty, approached the counter and asked for money and cigarettes.

The clerk told police that one displayed a silver automatic handgun.

An OCSD report said the two then fled on foot to a waiting vehicle. Police believe that Metzelburg may have been the driver of the vehicle, Quisenberry said.

Oakland County authorities first contacted officials in other states because the suspects have relatives living there.

AIR MASKS make it possible for firefighters to enter the heavy smoke while battling a blaze at Giroux, Springfield Township, residence. Departments from four townships were called to assist with the fire that caused about $50,000 damage.

Stove to blame for Springfield fire

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Firefighters from four townships were called to battle a blaze believed to have started in a wood burning stove Feb. 16.

The fire started just after noon in the basement of a home on Giroux, Springfield Township, and caused about $50,000 damage.

"It was a wood burning stove that had been added onto a furnace," said Springfield Township Fire Chief Marlan Hillman.

Hillman said the fire apparently started along the floor joist where the furnace flue connects.

A member of the Gable family, living in the home, escaped the blaze with the family dog and suffered no injuries.

"It was pretty well going by the time we got there," Hillman said.

Fire traveled across the basement, up the partition to the second story and across the roof to the other end of the building.

When firefighters arrived, flames were roaring out of a right rear window, Hillman said.

Firefighters from Springfield, Independence, Groveland and Holly townships responded to calls for assistance in the blaze.

Hillman said there were no particular difficulties in battling the fire; by about 2 p.m., there were still a few hot spots inside the house, according to firefighters on the scene, but the blaze had been brought under control.

The structure suffered extensive heat and smoke damage, and the fire damaged some of the rooms.

Area farm owner investigated for animal cruelty

too painful for him to move because his hooves had grown so huge that they caused him to have problems standing up, she said. Also, his hooves had begun to curl up due to his inactivity.

"Imagine yourself trying to walk with flippers on," Ellico said.

The burro, which should have weighed about 900 pounds, was a malnourished 350 pounds when found.

After receiving the tip, the society's Cruelty Investigation Division obtained a search warrant signed by Judge James P. Sheehy of the 52nd District Court in Rochester Hills before going to the farm.

The owner's name is being withheld pending completion of an investigation by the cruelty division. But Ellico said the owner was an active 4-H member, with awards and ribbons from numerous animal projects.

Other animals on the farm appeared to be in much better condition than the burro, except for two ponies that the society ordered the owner to obtain care for within 10 days.

"It's disgusting," Ellico said. "The adopt-a-burro program and the 4-H should both follow up on their programs."

On Monday, the Auburn Hills shelter's supervising veterinarian Rachael Jones, her husband Christopher Keely, who is a large animal veterinarian, and Karl Gubert, a foot and hoof specialist, spent several hours

"He seems to have a bit of a gleam in his eye today. This has to be the best he's been treated since he was wild. I wonder where he got his will to live."

cutting nearly 10 inches off each of the burro's hooves.

The veterinarians also gave the dehydrated animal fluids intravenously. Gubert and Keely both reported that it was the worst case of its kind they had seen.

Though the owner told investigators that the animal was too aggressive to allow its hooves to be trimmed, Ellico said the burro had shown no tendency toward being mean, though they did sedate him for the long hoof trimming process, something the owners could have had done, too, in order to trim the hooves.

The burro was apparently the second adopted by the Springfield Township farm owner. The first one died a few months after it was adopted in August of 1987, and the burro currently being cared for at the shelter was adopted over a year ago.

Ellico said she is not sure what will happen following the investigation. "It's just a matter of justice taking its course."

On Tuesday, Milton was doing "fair," she said. He was moved indoors due to the cold weather and his weakened condition.

When his hooves were trimmed, he didn't know how to act. It was like he was on roller skates, she said. He has not stood up much since the ordeal, and was not standing on Tuesday.

"But he seems to have a bit of a gleam in his eye today," Ellico added. "This has to be the best he's been treated since he was wild. I wonder where he got his will to live."

Donations are being accepted at the Michigan Humane Society's Detroit branch to pay for Milton's specialized care. The address is 7401 Chrysler Dr., Detroit, 48211.

Glasnost brings two to Independence Township

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

Glasnost showed up in Carolyn Goyette's Allen Road living room in Independence Township Feb. 19.

She and her husband, David Katz, and a few neighbors hosted two visitors from the Ukrainian -- the second-most populous republic in the Soviet Union.

Just as Mikhail Gorbachev's word suggests, the discussion was open, and before the Sunday afternoon gathering ended, Tamara Mikhailovna Kishchook and Yelena Nikolayevna Konstantinova had won the hearts of their new American friends.

Tamara and Yelena are principal and assistant principal, respectively, in a school in Kiev, which houses 900 students in grades kindergarten through 10.

Tamara and Yelena arrived in Michigan Feb. 17 for a three-week visit to Birmingham Groves High School, where Carolyn is an English teacher. They spent the weekend with Carolyn before moving in with their host families in Birmingham.

The visit is the first of its kind from the Soviet Union, and Groves was the only Michigan school chosen to receive some of the 300 students and teachers in the exchange. The school's Russian language program was a big factor in the decision, said Carolyn.

Later in the year, Carolyn will spend three weeks in Kiev, where the students there will test their English on her.

The exchange program between the two countries is to last 10 years, said Yelena, who spoke English well and translated for Tamara.

Kiev gets lots of foreign visitors, so they had a good idea of what to expect from the United States, she said. "How we imagined America, it turned out," she said. "From American visitors, we had heard Americans were hospitable."

Before they arrived in Michigan, they visited Washington, D.C., which reminded them of some Soviet cities because it was neat and clean.

They were impressed that George Bush's son and grandson visited Armenia and some hospitals following the devastating earthquake.

"The visit of his son gives us the hope that George Bush will follow the policies set by Reagan," said Yelena.

In the Soviet Union, Gorbachev is extremely popular and charming, Yelena said, adding that the people fear that he's all alone in government and that not too many support him at the top. So they're not sure how long Glasnost will last.

"The visit of his son gives us the hope that George Bush will follow the policies set by Reagan."

visitors, Yelena Nikolayevna Konstantinova (center) and Tamara Mikhailovna Kishchook.

Assessments up for most in township

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

When Donald Gentile went to his Dark Lake Drive mailbox last week, he -- like all other Independence Township property owners -- found his yearly notice from the Independence Township Assessing Department.

Gentile read that his assessment had gone up 27 percent from last year's assessment.

"That's an awful kick in the pants," Gentile said in a call to The Clarkston News. "A 27 percent increase in one year is very difficult to absorb."

Gentile's 27 percent increase was likely one of the highest, said township assessor David Kramer, who added that some residents received no increase at all.

In offering an explanation for the difference, Kramer said that the township had been broken down into 82 neighborhoods. A neighborhood was defined as a group of homes that economically complemented each other and were in the same general area.

During the past year, the assessing department studied land values in each neighborhood as they compared to sale prices.

The market value was determined for each neighborhood, and the assessment is calculated from that amount. So in a neighborhood where the houses keep selling for higher and higher amounts, that means the value is increasing and will be assessed to show that value.

State law mandates that all property be assessed at 50 percent of its market value, an amount known as the state equalized value (SEV).

For Gentile, who lives in Deer Lake Farms, a 27 percent increase adds about $1,100 to his base tax. His assessment is close to $5,000 for a house valued at $180,000 (or assessed at $90,000, half the market value.)

Gentile said it was too much of an increase to pay in one year.

"My salary certainly hasn't increased by that much," Gentile said. "I don't live in the Taj Mahal. I live in a 2,250-square-foot frame house."

"It's almost becoming unaffordable to live here."

Like Gentile, many other people were not happy with their assessment notices.

"We've been pretty busy all day," Kramer said. "But there have been a fair number of calls just to see how the process works."

Kramer said that a number of people had questions about the Headlee amendment to the state constitution.

Under the Headlee amendment, if an SEV of a taxing authority -- such as a school, a township or a village -- goes up more than the rate of inflation, the millage rate is automatically rolled back so that a property owner's taxes don't increase greater than the rate of inflation.

"What that means, however, is that the township or school gets no more income from the existing property than the rate of inflation," Kramer explained.

An electorate can override the Headlee amendment, something the Waterford school district has done for the past two years, Kramer said.

Kramer said property owners who wish to dispute their assessments may schedule an appointment with the township board of review, which has scheduled hearings for March 13, 14 and 15.

The board of review determines the accuracy of an assessment and will decide if there's a case of hardship -- whether a person literally cannot pay his property tax.

Anyone with questions about their assessments should call the assessing department at 625-8114.

But so far, it's great, they said. They notice it most in the information sources.

"We used to get all our information from the BBC or the Voice of America," said Yelena. Now they get it from news services within the country.

In Kiev, TV programs in the Soviet Union are broadcast in Russian and in Ukrainian.

At their school, all teaching is in Russian, which is the language of communication across the entire Soviet Union; but from first grade, students learn Russian and English languages. From second grade, they learn Ukrainian.

It's important for children to learn their native language, said Tamara, adding that the Soviet Union contains over 100 nationalities. If the native languages are lost, so, too, will be many of the cultures.

"To lose our national language is to lose everything that is dear to you," Tamara said, through Yelena's translation.

Carolyn's neighbor, Terry Haran, noted that language problems are cropping up in the United States, too, especially in Florida, California and Texas, where the Spanish-speaking population is increasing.

When Tamara discovered that Carolyn's neighbor, physician Joseph Territo, worked for Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital, she asked if it was a public hospital.

"Yes," answered Joe.

"Ah, then people don't have to pay?" she asked.

"Well, no. They do have to pay," said Joe.

But it was difficult to explain to Tamara, who described two types of hospitals in the Soviet Union -- public, which are free, and private, which must be paid for but which are the best.

She said the philosophy in the Soviet Union is beginning to change. Marx's axiom isn't quite the same anymore. Now the society works thus: "From each according to his abilities, to each according to his work (instead of need)."

Joe noted that as the Soviet Union trend is toward the private sector, the United States trend is toward the public sector.

Other guests at Carolyn's gathering were: Tom Kearney, a teacher at Birmingham's Derby Middle School; Betty Haran; and Beverly Territo and her son, Jimmy.

Yelena and Tamara each said they were glad to meet the individuals in Michigan, and it would be good for U.S. citizens to meet their Soviet visitors.

"Let us look at each other in the eyes," said Tamara. "Let them be comfortable. Let them be quiet because we know we're not going to threaten each other."

Could affect recycling proposal

Illegal dump found on Hoffman's Waterford land

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

When Robert Hoffman's proposed cardboard recycling facility comes before the Independence Township Planning Commission again March 9, he'll do his best to explain "the facts" to the commission.

The site plan for the White Lake Road facility was tabled in December, pending the creation of a township site monitoring ordinance and solutions to possible environmental problems.

However, in November, Hoffman -- former Waterford Township Supervisor -- was cited for illegal burning on his Waterford Township property on Hospital Road. And recently, he was cited for illegal dumping on the same site.

Firefighters first discovered the 100-by-300-foot pile of debris, four feet in depth, said Waterford Township Engineer Thomas Blust.

Independence Planning Commission Chairperson Brent Bair said the Waterford findings could have a bearing on the commission's decision March 9.

"We have reason to be concerned with that kind of track record," Bair said. "Even in Independence, he went ahead (with some procedures) without the necessary permits. On top of that, we have a pond on the site. ...

Frankly, we are going to be reconsidering the special land use permit."

Treating violation, not personality

It might be awkward for Waterford Township employees to issue citations against their former boss, but they're trying to treat the illegal dumping on former Waterford Township Supervisor Robert Hoffman's site as they would any other case.

"We're trying to treat it exactly as if it were anybody else," said township engineer Thomas Blust. "In that respect, what's right is right, and what's not right is not right. We're treating the violations, not the personalities involved."

"We're trying to treat it exactly as if it were anybody else."

Engineer Thomas Blust

"I think it should be approved. ... Recycling is an absolutely great idea. It just makes sense. The fact that this is the first facility of its kind, I can understand that people look at it closer."

Developer Robert Hoffman

"It's not that we're against recycling. ... Our problem has been this particular site, and compounded on top of that is the track record of the individual."

300-unit Whispering Lakes OK'd for Sashabaw

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Comments about Whispering Lakes included "nice design" and "good quality" when the Independence Township Planning Commission voted 6-0 to approve the garden-style apartments off Sashabaw Road.

Voting yes Feb. 23 were Chairperson Brent Bair, Joseph Figa, Jo Fussman, Bruce Mercado, Steve Secatch and Daniel Travis. Richard Oppmann was absent.

The approval is contingent upon wetlands permits, approval from the zoning board of appeals for an oversized sign and several changes handled administratively between the building department and the developer.

During the hour-long discussion, representatives from Dart Properties, Inc., of Mason, the developer of the project, presented the commission with a huge, color drawing of just under 300 apartments, slated for a 49-acre site east of Sashabaw Road near Pine Knob Elementary

"It's nice to see a site that leaves as much open space."

In his presentation, Paul Sieron said the landscaping included 131 shade trees, 66 flowering trees and 128 evergreens.

Sieron explained that the developer planned to create two man-made lakes and additional wetlands on the property, adding to two existing wetlands areas that already exist. Wetlands would then make up a total 16 percent of the property.

Township planning consultant Richard Carlisle told the commission that the project more than met the 12 percent landscaping requirement and that he recommended approval of the project.

Township engineering consultant David Lakin, who said a township wetlands permit would be needed, suggested adding more fire hydrants and questioned the water levels of the proposed lakes. He, too, recommended approval of the project.

The issues raised by planning commission members ranged from screening the project from the nearby school to the style of the mailbox structure to the placement of parking structures.

"There's a baseball diamond back there," Secatch told developers. He suggested that the land be built up around the border of the property to hide the development and its lakes from children who may wander from the diamond and the school area.

"It's nice to see a site that leaves as much open space," said Figa. Figa questioned the developers on their plans for maintaining the lakes on the property, adding that "there's nothing worse than creating a swamp vs. a nice lake."

The developers were questioned about the huge Whispering Lakes sign planned for the outside of the development, which exceeds the township sign ordinance, limiting signs to 10 square feet.

Sieron told planners that Dart Properties planned to seek a variance for the sign. "We're at a disadvantage with the wetlands in front," Sieron he said.

In response to the sign, Bair, who also serves on the ZBA, told developers, "I strongly recommend that you come before the planning commission with a rendering of the sign. The zoning board of appeals will look at the planning commission for its recommendation."

Dump discovered on Hoffman's land

Independence Township, and Hoffman received special approval July 27 last year.

"I'm real concerned," Bair said, adding that he didn't want people to get the wrong impression. The commission approved of the general concept of recycling and wanted it to work.

"It's not that we're against recycling. ... Our problem has been this particular site, and compounded on top of that is the track record of the individual," he said.

The 9,800-square-foot building is proposed next to a pond that's part of the Clinton River chain, connecting lakes in Independence and Waterford townships. In the past, commission members expressed concern that the pond could become contaminated if something were accidentally spilled at the sorting facility.

Hoffman said he shouldn't have a problem getting approval in Independence after the commission members know what's going on.

"The problem is nobody has the facts," he said. "They have to look at the rules in Independence Township and see if we've met them, and we have. I think it should be approved."

His facility is necessary because recycling is the key to solving the diminishing landfill problem, he said.

"Recycling is an absolutely great idea. It just makes sense. The fact that this is the first facility of its kind, I can understand that people look at it closer. But it's also important that government takes action. The sooner we get it going, the sooner we're on the road to solving the problem."

The planning commission is to consider the site plan at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, March 9, at the township annex, 90 N. Main St., Clarkston.

The record

Julie Campe

My first professional hockey game (as a spectator, of course) started off kind of boring. Tori had warned us that our seats weren't too good, and she wasn't kidding.

We were in the very top row of Section 18A at Joe Louis Feb. 23. The seats kind of level out up there, so if we wanted to see the whole game we had to stand.

Even standing, my view wasn't too good. I was surrounded by tall people.

To our left, a group of spectators were talking hockey: "#@% you! Get the @#%%@#%@@ puck, you @#%#@# @#%%."

I didn't know too much hockey jargon, so I didn't know what they meant. I had better luck understanding the conversation of two little kids a few rows away.

"Mom, he touched me," screamed the little one. "Make him stop touching me."

The mom ignored them, and the big one poked his brother with a small plastic hockey stick and smiled. The little one slugged him.

On the ice, a Pittsburgh Penguin tangled a Red Wing's legs up with his hockey stick, and the Red Wing slugged him. The crowd cheered.

By the time I had discovered the scoreboard through all the advertisements, Pittsburgh had already scored two goals.

Before that night, I had only heard of Red Wings Petr Klima, the guy with the alleged drinking problem, and Bob Probert, the guy with the alleged attitude problem.

"You have to know Yzerman," said Craig, when I told him this information. "The one who's up for the record for most goals scored in a season?"

"Oh, yeah," I said. "I've heard of Eisman."

I looked around and stifled a yawn. Soon, Pittsburgh scored their fourth goal. When they scored their sixth in the second period, the Detroit crowd cheered for them.

"This could be a long night," I thought.

Just then, Klima scored the first goal for the Red Wings, and the fans cheered wildly. I clapped, too.

I decided to stand on my tiptoes for a better view. I did it just in time. Number 19 shot a quick one past the Pittsburgh goalie and into the net, and Pandemonium broke out. Everything became dark and loud. Everyone was yelling and jumping like crazy so that they blocked out all the light. I couldn't see a thing, but I could feel the whole arena vibrating. The excitement was contagious.

"Yzerman broke the record," my husband, Chris, yelled to me.

"Ah, hockey is a good sport," I thought, cheering loudly.

Four more goals were scored, and then Yzerman tied the game at 6-6 with his 57th goal of the season. This time, the crowd went really wild.

But soon the buzzer ended the final period, and the game went into overtime.

I decided to find a better vantage point. I moved down the aisle a little and talked to an employee wearing a red coat.

"I just love hockey," she said, her eyes riveted on the rink. Her fingers were crossed tightly, and she held them close to her face.

The Wings held on for five minutes, and with the buzzer came a sigh of relief from the employee. It wasn't a win, but at least the Wings broke their losing streak at home, she said.

After the game, the walk down those many steps didn't seem as long as the walk up.

Opinions

The Roads We Travel

Firsts for Michigan

Brent Bair

In my last column, I provided information on the history of roads. But what about Michigan? Has Michigan contributed anything in terms of being the first to do something related to roads?

Yup, and there were some really interesting contributions at that. Here are some "firsts" that you can add to your trivia game, compliments of the Michigan Department of Transportation, published in their flier, "Transportation Trivia."

Where was the first mile of concrete highway built?
On Woodward Avenue between Six and Seven Mile Roads in Detroit. It was built by Wayne County in 1909 at a cost of $13,537.

Engineers from other states came to see how it held up under "heavy" traffic conditions, and the success of this experiment helped speed the development of modern highways.

I've been advised that the original pavement still exists, although it lies under layers of resurfacing material.

Who invented the white center lines on highways?
A Wayne County roads commissioner, in 1911, came up with the idea of white center lines to separate lanes of traffic traveling in opposite directions.

Who developed the first yellow "no passing" lines on highways?

Michigan Governor Fred W. Green (1927 to 1930) was the first to suggest that hills and curves with restricted sight be marked with a yellow line to warn motorists not to pass.

The State Highway Department evaluated the proposal, and in 1928 hundreds of gallons of yellow paint were sent out with instructions to department workers to paint yellow center lines on all hard surfaced state highways where motorists had less than 500 feet of clear sight.

Michigan thus also became the first state to systematically survey sections of highways for "no passing" conditions, in addition to marking them with yellow paint.

Where was the first freeway built?
The first freeway was the Davison Freeway in Detroit. Construction was started in 1941 and completed in 1942.

It was built as a military access highway to aid defense workers in their travels and to aid in the movement of manufactured military goods.

It is 1.3 miles long with 11-foot-wide lanes (the current standard is 12 feet). It crossed 30 north-south streets, most of which were closed. North-south traffic was channeled onto seven new very busy bridges.

The concrete pavement was flooded after it was poured and the concrete literally cured under water. The Davison Freeway has never been resurfaced.

Where is the first automobile tunnel built between two nations?

Under the Detroit River between Detroit and Windsor. This mile-long tunnel was first open to traffic in 1930. It cost $23 million to build.

I'll have more Michigan travel trivia for you in my next column.

Having a one evening fireside chat with Albert John Patrell is worth four hours of college credit... if your major is animal husbandry.

Before heading north on a snowmobile trip with Patrell, friend Chic Drumheller said, "You'll get a column out of this."

She's right, but only through my intense listening was I able to get enough copy for a column.

I carry notepaper wherever I go, including on the knee deep snow trails. Whenever we stopped for a breather I took out my pad and pencil and waited for Patrell's words worthy to repeat in a family newspaper.

The first page was blank for a long time — most of the 4 days of tolerance. Oh, he's funny, telling one story after another, but you sort of have to be there.

I did learn some things about John Patrell on this long weekend I hadn't learned in our 15-plus years of friendship.

He has a strong belief about cleanliness; bathing. He believes very strongly that bathing too much is harmful to your health.

In front of the fire one night John told Rick Patterson, Pansy Baldwin and me how bathing opens pores in your skin and lets germs come into your body.

Rick, a pharmacist, asked John, "Where'd you read that, Readers' Digest?" Patrell couldn't remember if it was Popular Mechanics or New England Journal of Medicine. He was convinced, however, that he was right.

Before shutting off the hot water to come home, I asked John if he was through with the hot water. He said, "I was through with it yesterday."

I should have had a hint to John's sanitary feelings when he asked what to take north. I said we'd be gone 4 days, so take at least a couple changes of underwear.

He said, "I usually get two days on each side, and take a putty knife and wire brush."

Enough about John's hygiene. Here's some pure Patrell:

John: "I forgot the piano!"

Rick: "Why would you bring a piano snowmobiling?"

John: "Because I left my keys on it!"

Me: "John, the new loan office for the bank is almost finished."

John: "Where they building the corral?"

Me: "Why does the bank need a corral?"

John: "For the horses."

Me: "Horses? Why would they need horses?"

John: "For the loan arranger!"

Patrell impressed everyone with his matched luggage... two brown grocery sacks from Drumheller's IGA.

Facilities planning a timely matter

Your call for facilities planning by the township was very accurate and timely.

It is no surprise to anyone that Independence Township is experiencing an incredible building boom. With the continuation of the current policies, we can expect our population, business and traffic to increase even more dramatically in the next few years.

This expansion will require more and better services; that means more staff and, in turn, requires additional facilities.

Having those facilities in place will convince people considering Independence that we have shed our backward notions that this is just a nice place to live.

If we are to become an integral part of Metropolitan Detroit, we must demonstrate now our willingness to meet the challenge of dynamic growth. To do otherwise is to ignore the inevitable development of our community to its full potential.

Great anniversary

A few months ago The Clarkston News ran a story about the 70th wedding anniversary of Herman and Ella Jaenichen. Compared to a record like that, we are amateurs. We have just celebrated our 54th. Instead of looking ahead to our 70th, we look back to our 25th. It is then we realize that we are no longer as young as we used to be.

When you are no longer as young as you used to be, you get fussy about what you eat and where you eat. Every day we hear about cholesterol and saturated fats. We learn about food additives and who should avoid them. We learn about fiber and how important it is. So when we learn about all of this, what do we do about it?

We eat our lunch often at NWOVEC (formerly Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center, now called the Oakland Technical Center). Check the school schedule. That's where they know about healthful food. The teachers there know how to plan it, how to cook it, and how to serve it.

Every year, a new group of career-minded high school students come to learn from these teachers. At the start of the term, some students are shy and uncertain. By the end of the term, they are smiling and self-confident. It's fun to watch them grow.

NWOVEC is a good place to meet old friends. Last week, we went there to celebrate our 54th. We were accompanied by two friends, Helen Woolfenden and Daisy Dowling. One of the nice things they do there, if you pass the word to Chris Kevern, is help celebrate birthdays and anniversaries.

While we were there, we ordered our favorite food -- orange roughy, done to perfection; fresh vegetables, cooked to preserve the vitamins; rice; bran muffin; and a crisp and tender salad.

Tonya, our waitress, was a delight. She served us well, smiling and gracious as she did so. The other students smiled and gave us a little wave as they passed back and forth from the kitchen to their tables.

During our meal, Scott Bennett, a student cook, shared with us a project he and others are working on. He showed us a tray filled with creative food art -- fruits, vegetables, mushrooms, etc., all of which had been sculptured to serve as a garnish for beautifying a plate of food.

Who would think of making a five-pointed star from an orange peel? The students are getting ready to participate in a culinary arts fair where their work will be judged.

At the end of the meal, the students gathered about our table and sang out lustily, "Happy Anniversary to You." They then presented us with a card that they, along with their teachers, had signed.

We are happy to share the names of all the folks who signed our card: teachers, Chris Kevern, Robert Fleming, Barb Stelmach and Roberta Allen; and students, Tonya Youngman, Valerie Nickerson, Todd Brockman, Michelle Lemond, Tina Lemond, Kris Czyz, Keven Baugh, Liz Vaughn, Gina Van Houten, Gene Holman, Pauline Ray, Casey Locklar, Mark Ledford and Scott Bennett.

We are sending this letter to you at The Clarkston News because we don't know how else to let those wonderful teachers and their students know how much we appreciate their fine food, their fine cooking and their service given with a smile.

I think many other customers of NWOVEC who were not there last Thursday, will be glad to join us in saying, "Thank you for a job well done."

Roy Haessler,

Tired of missing paper sections

Our Feb. 15th edition of The Clarkston News arrived again today with the second section missing. This has happened several times, as it gets lost in the mail probably.

Isn't there some way that it can be secured together so it will travel across the country? If there isn't, there is no reason for us to subscribe to it any more, even though we look forward to it and enjoy reading all of it.

I expect to be hearing from you on this matter.

Letter can't be real

As a teacher at Clarkston Senior High, I was more than appalled after reading the Friend to Friend column in the latest edition of The Clarkston News.

My concern is over the letter which appeared "from a student" which praised Self-Esteem Week and at the same time chastised members of the teaching staff regarding their alleged reactions to the program that was developed for the student body.

To begin with, Self-Esteem Week concluded today, Feb. 24. The letter in question made it sound as though this event had occurred before our mid-winter break.

Knowing that letters must be received by the paper on the Monday before the issue goes to press, I wonder how long ago this letter was submitted in order to make it into the current issue of the paper.

Secondly, since logic makes one realize that this letter was falsely written and submitted, one must ask whether any of the letters printed in the Friend to Friend column are truly legitimate. I can recall several letters which have appeared that could have been quite damaging to one's character if names were allowed to be printed.

It is stated at the end of the column that a group of students and an advisor comprise the committee that writes the replies to the letters that are received.

If this is the case, these students should be made aware that they could be held legally accountable for any libelous material that appears in print. Furthermore, if there is an adult connected with the group, that individual should certainly be intelligent enough to know of the legal ramifications of libelous printed material.

Self-Esteem Week was a positive experience for the student body and was also well received by the teaching staff. I am sure that we all believe that giving up instructional time for the development of positive attitudes among our students is another one of the many reasons we are educators.

I certainly hope the letter in question did not have a negative effect upon how we are viewed by the community.

Sixtysomething

Jim
Fitzgerald

The often-heard complaint about the popular TV show "thirty-something" is that the characters whine too much. What have they got to whine about? Don't they realize things could be twice as bad?

This week's episode of "sixtysomething" concerned my day with 3-year-old Tricia. It began in a Rochester shopping mall where my wife and I joined Tricia and her mother. The plan was that mother and grandmother, with several friends, would dine in a fancy restaurant and then see the matinee at Meadowbrook Theatre. Tricia and I would dine at McDonald's, ride the merry-go-round at a Kmart, and see widdo woowoo on the VCR in Tricia's home.

As we waited for the rest of the theater party to gather, it was remarked that I wasn't the only grandparent designated for baby-sitting duty that day. A friend of a friend of my wife was bringing her 2-year-old son, and his grandmother would also meet them at the mall. Just like me, she would generously take over on child-care while the parent went off to have a good time.

I thought it was nice that I would meet another baby-sitting grandparent, someone with whom I had so much in common. Perhaps we two old folks could compare notes on how hard it is to keep up with the youngsters. Maybe she would sit and knit, and I would read my newspaper, while the two little kids ran around the mall and trampled innocent strangers. Maybe she knew a McDonald's with a discount for senior citizens.

Shocked by grandma

The little boy and his mother arrived first, and I made some lame jokes about how grandparents can come in handy as long as they remain spry enough to leave their retirement homes for more than a couple of hours at a time. Naturally, I noticed the pretty nicely built young woman in tight jeans join our party, but paid her no special notice until she was introduced as the little boy's grandmother.

Grandmother! I was soon breathless from holding my stomach in. I wanted to tell her I also had a 20-year-old grandchild, except I didn't want to see the look of no surprise on her unwrinkled face. So I simply shuffled off to lunch, leaning on Tricia.

At McDonald's, Tricia said she had to go potty. She wouldn't go inside the men's rest room, and I wouldn't go inside the women's rest room. No problem, Tricia said, she could go by herself. I stood outside the door and waited, and waited, and waited. Several kind young mothers - grandmothers? - asked if there were anything they could do to help, but I assured them my senility hadn't yet reached the stage where I couldn't deal with a 3-year-old child: I stuck my head inside the women's rest room and asked if anything were wrong. From an unseen spot, Tricia yelled "No!" We had this same conversation five times.

The search for woowoo

Finally, Tricia emerged to say her pee went the wrong way, and she should change her pants before we went to Kmart because she didn't want to get the merry-go-round horse wet. All I had to do was zip up her jacket against the cold and head for her home. But, no matter how hard I concentrated on the job, I couldn't get the lousy zipper prong (or whatever you call the damn thing) into its miserable slot.

A young mother - grandmother? - at the next table said I was taking the wrong approach to the job - from the front. She said if I stood behind Tricia and reached around her, the zipping would be easy. All I could think of was funeral home workers who have to lie down to comb their hair. But I did as instructed, and the zipping was easy. I should have known that.

At home after we changed everything except her socks, Tricia said she wanted to see "widdo woowoo." Even after she said it a dozen times, I had no idea what she was talking about. After tearing the room apart, I finally came up with the correct video. Tricia wanted to see "Little Lulu." I should have known that, too.

Tricia later told her mother she had a good time with me, but "Grandpa is dumb." I wouldn't put it that way. I'd simply say the reason for whining about being sixtysomething is you forget what you used to know when you were thirtysomething.

M-15 driver falls asleep, hits 2 cars

A Pontiac man told police he fell asleep at the wheel before hitting two other cars on M-15, Independence Township, Feb. 25.

Kevin Walfred Perry, 25, of Pontiac was driving south along M-15 near Cranberry Lake Road around 5 p.m. Saturday, according to an Oakland County Sheriff's Department report.

Perry reportedly fell asleep, hit a guard rail and then struck a six-passenger vehicle driven by Adam John Conrad, 35, of Clawson.

The two cars left the roadway, causing Perry's car to flip over and hit another car which was unoccupied.

Perry was not wearing a seat belt at the time of the accident. He was taken to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital (SJM), Pontiac, where he was treated and released late Feb. 28.

Although all of the occupants in the second car were wearing seat belts, the impact injured Thomas Conrad, 9, a passenger. He also was taken to SJMH, where he was treated and released.

Perry was ticketed for careless driving and for driving with a restricted license.

A fence and a tree were damaged in the incident.

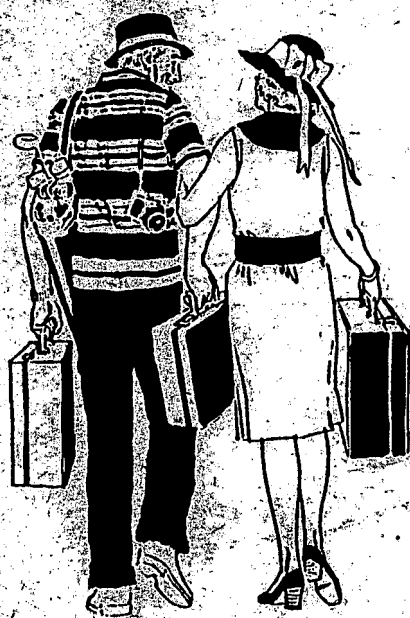

Road paving gets help

Plans to pave the remainder of Clarridge Road, from Cherrywood to the end of the gravel road, were helped along by the Springfield Township board Feb. 9.

The board unanimously voted to contribute 7 1/2 percent ($2,138), the usual contribution from the township, to the $28,500 project.

Residents of north Clarridge Road are to pay the rest through special assessment, at about $2,500 per property owner.

A contribution toward paving the other portion of Clarridge Road, from the blacktop at Davisburg Road to Cherrywood, was approved by the township board last September.

Independence pledges to demolish Clinton home

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Independence Township Board reaffirmed its desire to demolish a Clinton Drive residence, voting unanimously Feb. 21 to proceed with condemnation of the property.

The action came after heated debate between board members and Keith Sirlin, attorney for the owner of the structure, who argued that despite missing a township-imposed deadline, his client still intended to complete extensive renovation needed to bring the building up to code.

The township board's unanimous vote continued two courses of action. The first, following the township property maintenance ordinance, requires the owner to complete renovations within a certain deadline to avoid demolition. The second, a suit filed in Oakland County Circuit Court, also requires the owner to show improvements to avoid demolition.

Township attorney Gerald Fisher told the board that he would ask the court for an immediate hearing in the matter.

On Feb. 7, the demolition proceedings were suspended after board members agreed with Sirlin's request to allow the homeowner to show his intent to renovate the structure.

On Feb. 10, township representatives met with the homeowner, William Edwards, and developed a plan for renovating the structure, part of which included a timetable for clearing out debris from the house, said Fisher.

But the debris was not cleared out, so it was impossible for the builder to move forward, said Fisher.

In a memo to board members, building department director Beverly McElmeel said, "This department recommends condemnation of the deteriorated structures as they appear to be beyond the repair process."

Sirlin argued that as United States citizens, the owners of the structure had certain rights.

protect those rights," he said.

"I ask you to think twice and be more considerate of working with us on this problem."

Supervisor Frank Ronk responded to Sirlin: "I need to remind you that neighbors of that property have put up with that house for years. They've had enough. They have rights also."

Trustee Mel Vaara stated that the owner had missed an opportunity to make good with the township.

"They made some promises two weeks ago and they were not done. We have to uphold the rights of all township residents," Vaara said.

In an effort to give the property owner the "benefit of the doubt," Trustee Frank Millard asked board members to consider giving the Edwards another day to clear out debris.

"I understand the board's feelings, but it may be possible that there is a misunderstanding here," he said.

When board members rejected Millard's idea and voted to continue condemnation of the property, Millard voted with them, explaining, "Paramount to protection of all, and in support of the building department, I vote yes."

The Clinton Drive residence has been inspected by the fire and building departments and by plumbing, heating and electrical inspectors, as well as the county health department.

In memos to board members each described the structure as a health and public safety hazard.

Independence takes a closer look at Bay Court

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

After calling Bay Court a gold mine, Independence Township Board members voted to study just how much gold they got when they purchased the 50-acre park last May.

The park sits on Greens Lake in the southwest tip of the township along Andersonville Road.

On Feb. 21, the board voted unanimously to approve a two-phase process: A $4,500 study of the main building on the property, and the formation of Friends of Bay Court Committee, made up of interested community members who will assist in the development of the park.

Parks and Recreation Department Director Ann Conklin told members in a memo, "It's imperative to find out whether or not the building is structurally sound enough to be included as part of the overall master plan for the park."

The township engineering firm of Hubbel, Roth and Clark, who will conduct the study, said the analysis would not exceed $4,500, Conklin said.

The structural analysis would include a survey covering, among other things, mechanical, heating and ventilation, and architectural concerns.

"I think it's necessary," said Travis. "We don't really know what we have out there. This is a normal step. I'm in favor of it."

As for the second phase of the study, "input from the community is vital," Conklin told the board.

The Friends of Bay Court Committee would be made up of interested community leaders and individuals who would assist in the entire development of the park, including funding and public relations, Conklin said.

Conklin told board members that some community members have already expressed interest in the committee but that she would accept their suggestions for future members.

"I think it's necessary. We don't really know what we have out there. This is a normal step. I'm in favor of it."

Trustee Daniel Travis

The 50-acre park includes a 9.8-acre lake and was purchased for $500,000. The township funded $125,000 of the cost and received a $375,000 grant from the Michigan Land Trust Fund for the rest of the amount.

Clarkston schools buy $400,000 computer system

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Following a presentation viewed jointly by the Clarkston and Lake Orion school districts, the Clarkston Board of Education voted unanimously to accept the recommendation of the administration and approve the purchase of an in-house computer system for business and student services.

The Lake Orion district, while indicating approval of the idea at the joint meeting, will not take action until the regular board meeting next week.

"It's a good system," said Bill Jackson, director of business services for Clarkston, following the Clarkston board's decision to go with International Business Machines/Computer Management Technology.

In a resolution the board approved, it also authorized Superintendent Gary Haner or his designee to negotiate a contract with IBM/CMT and bring it back to the board for approval at the March 13 meeting.

The resolution also authorized him to notify Oakland Schools of their decision because up until this time, the Clarkston district has paid Oakland Schools for their data processing services.

An on-going study of computer systems has been in progress for several years, Jackson said, but the increased fees of Oakland Schools, plus the decrease in the cost of setting up the technology prompted the Clarkston board's action.

The yearly usage fee for Clarkston to use the services of Oakland Schools has been about $62,000, but that fee will go up to $111,000 as of July 1.

This is due to the fact that Oakland's system has to be updated, and the cost of that is being distributed to the schools which use the service.

There will also be a one-time charge of approximately $250,000 for the equipment needed.

The IBM/CMT system Clarkston is looking at will cost about $400,000 to set up, and perhaps another $10,000 a year in annual maintenance costs, Jackson estimated.

Presentations were made to the joint boards Monday evening by the consulting and auditing firms of Plante & Moran and John Dorsey & Associates.

It was estimated that the district could save between $175,000 and $450,000 over the five-year duration of the contract, and after the system was paid off, the savings would continue to increase.

"Primarily, it's a financial issue," said Haner. But there are some risks, too.

Jackson explained that with Oakland Schools, there is a consortium and a back-up support system. With their own system, there are fewer personnel to work with the system. But, he added, there are 675 users of the system nationwide, and if Lake Orion also goes with it, there would be support between the two districts.

In studying the system at other districts, Jackson said it is a "very impressive system."

The system is to handle business services such as budget, general ledger, purchasing, accounts payable, cash receipts and disbursements, warehouse inventory, fixed asset inventory, payroll and personnel.

Student management applications include student records, scheduling, grading and attendance.

Clarkston fares well in MEAP score

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

MEAP (Michigan Educational Assessment Program) test results in Clarkston schools have traditionally compared well statewide.

Compared to surrounding districts in Oakland County, Clarkston ranks "in the middle of the top half" of the districts, according to Clarkston Elementary School Principal William Potvin, who coordinates the testing program in Clarkston.

But the test format is changing, Potvin told the Clarkston Board of Education at its regular meeting in February, and the change will probably cause a dip in test scores across the state.

MEAP is a testing program started by the state in 1973, with testing mandated in reading and math. In the 1988-89 school year, science also became a mandated testing area. (Previously, it was optional, as are other testing areas, such as health.)

Students in the fourth, seventh and tenth grades are tested each fall. The state may change the science portion to spring, testing grades five, eight and 11.

In the future, Potvin said, reading tests will reflect the new definition of reading, with more emphasis on overall comprehension than on individual skills. Testing in other areas, such as science, have already or will become more difficult as the testing changes.

The reading area, for instance, is broken into smaller parts for most testing, Potvin explained later. The new trend tests more on the overall picture and application of it.

"I think it's more the state department of education looking at the end result as opposed to individual skills along the way," he said.

For the 1988-89 school year MEAP results, Clarkston students scored this way:

Fourth graders -- reading, 90.3 percent passed the test (scoring between 75 and 100 percent) compared to 82.3 statewide; math, 92.6 percent (87.0 statewide); science, 58.6 percent (45.5 statewide).

Seventh graders -- reading, 91.8 percent (83.4 statewide); math, 76.7 percent (72.4 statewide); science, 38.5 percent (32.5 statewide).

Tenth graders -- reading, 88.5 percent (80.7 statewide); math, 74.9 percent (68.5 statewide); science, 36.4 percent (25.6 statewide).

"We do consider the MEAP test to be a valid test of essential skills in those areas," said Superintendent Gary Haner. "And while we are pleased to be scoring better than state averages, we feel the students could score better in some areas."

However, he added, as they look to the changes taking place in the MEAP tests, it seems that it will be more difficult to prepare students for the tests, and that will have a negative impact across the state.

It may require instructional changes, Potvin told the school board.

William Neff, director of administrative services, agreed. "While we're pleased with the work that is done to have our students where they are, we're not satisfied with the test results when we look at where we're at in comparison to surrounding districts. We want to be better."

Teacher talk schedule changes

For the second semester of the 1988-89 school year, the Parent-Teacher Conference schedule at Clarkston High School has been revised to accommodate more parents.

The new schedule is as follows:
4-7 p.m. Tuesday, March 14 - Parent-Teacher Conference.

6-9 p.m. Thursday, March 16 - Parent-Teacher Conference.

Friday, March 17 - No school for CHS students.

Time Out

My team

Peter Auchter

My season of discontent is almost complete. One game remains in my inaugural attempt at fielding a competent recreation basketball team.

So far its been an interesting experience. What else can you say for a team that's gone 1-8?

Every Sunday, anticipation builds before the game. After donning the uniform and heading over to Clarkston High, the thrills begin. With each passing week, a new challenge faces us.

When we are clicking on all cylinders, or nearly all cylinders, the game is fun. When we are not in tune -- well, it can get pretty ugly.

Each player on the team has his own personal trait, something that makes him stand out in our crowd of no-names.

First off, we have our outside shooter. His parents named him Olof, but we call him Zig. All I can say about Zig is that when he's on, he's on, and when he's not, he's not. Needless to say, his offense is an important part of our team.

Wearing jersey number 1, and that definitely tells you something about his personality, is Paul. He's our fast-break artist. Only problem is that once in a while he'll catch a quick outlet pass with his back. Oh well, nobody on the team is perfect.

Then, there is Hunter. A guy who willingly (honest) joined the team after a horrendous 0-5 start. He's given us quality minutes, but the team still struggles for some reason. (Can't be lack of talent, can it?)

Vince is another player who logs a lot of minutes for us on the hardcourt. His forte is the driving layup. Doesn't matter how many large bodies are in the way, he weaves his way to the bucket with gusto.

My roommate Mike idolizes the Detroit Pistons and enjoys playing down low and then jump shooting for points while kicking out his legs a la John Salley. So far he hasn't taken anybody out underneath the basket with his karate-like kicks, but I'm sure the day will come.

Chris, my younger brother, provides height and bulk for the back-up crew when we need it. He knows his role and plays well when he gets the chance.

Another Mike, our big guy on the team, has high school playing experience (meaning he's a step up on the rest of us) and provides us with a bulk of our scoring.

Rounding out the team are Dan and Carl. The former also has high school playing experience and helped settle the team down in the early stages of the season when we were in disarray. The latter provides depth at guard, a position we are sorely lacking in.

In my role of owner, general manager, coach and player I've come to realize that I'm under-qualified for all of them. Luckily, I didn't give up this job before the season began.

I doubt there's much demand for a 6-foot-3 forward who can't hit the broad side of the barn with a medicine ball. If I could lift a medicine ball, that is.

Hoops team handles East

The varsity basketball team scored early and often on Monday night in the opening round of district play at Clarkston High School.

The host Wolves dismantled the 11-10 Lapeer East Eagles 84-41 to advance to the next stage against Lapeer West on March 1. Ten players scored for Clarkston, with Kevin McCormick leading the way with 25.

Reggie Reed had 11 points including one three-point shot, Jim Huttenlocher 10, Darin Brandt and Jason Brown eight apiece and Scott Weeks with seven.

The visiting Eagles stayed with the Wolves in the opening quarter, trailing 18-11 after eight minutes of play. But the hot-shooting Wolves blew the game open in the next stanza to stake itself to a comfortable 38-23 halftime lead.

Wolves rally for win

Frosh guard sparks winning rally with three pointer

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

After a little convincing from his father-coach in front of a boisterous home crowd, Dugan Fife showed Waterford Kettering why he's the second-leading scorer on the varsity basketball team.

With Clarkston trailing by two points late in the third quarter, Coach Dan Fife angrily called a timeout. After a week's rest from an emotional last-second overtime victory over Waterford Mott, the Wolves needed a boost if they were to win Friday night.

"I knew we were going to struggle to win," the coach said. "It seems that way every time we have an emotional win."

During the third-quarter timeout, the coach told his son in simple terms what needed to be done. When play resumed, the freshman from Sashabaw Junior High delivered -- just as his father knew he would.

"I have a lot of confidence in him," the coach said. "When I got on him (during the timeout) he responded."

He's young and is gonna' lose confidence."

Dugan buried a three-point shot just before the buzzer to end the third quarter to put Clarkston up 32-31, much to the delight of the partisan home crowd.

Seconds later the Wolves were on the prowl again, and Fife let go with another triple try. This time, however, the shot sailed over the basket. With chants of "airball" cascading down from the visitors section, senior Kevin McCormick rebounded the miss.

SCOTT WEEKS drives to the hoop for a basket during second-half action against Waterford Kettering Friday.

Brown wins giant slalom

Results of state ski meet

If not for a disputed disqualification on his slalom run, senior skier Rob Brown would have finished off his prep career at the state meet as a dual champion.

As it turned out, though, Brown still could lay claim to being the best in Michigan in the giant slalom. He finished the race in 37.47 seconds to beat out Tom Tobart of Petosky, who crossed the finish line in 37.84. Traverse City's Jeff Owens was third with a time of 38.79.

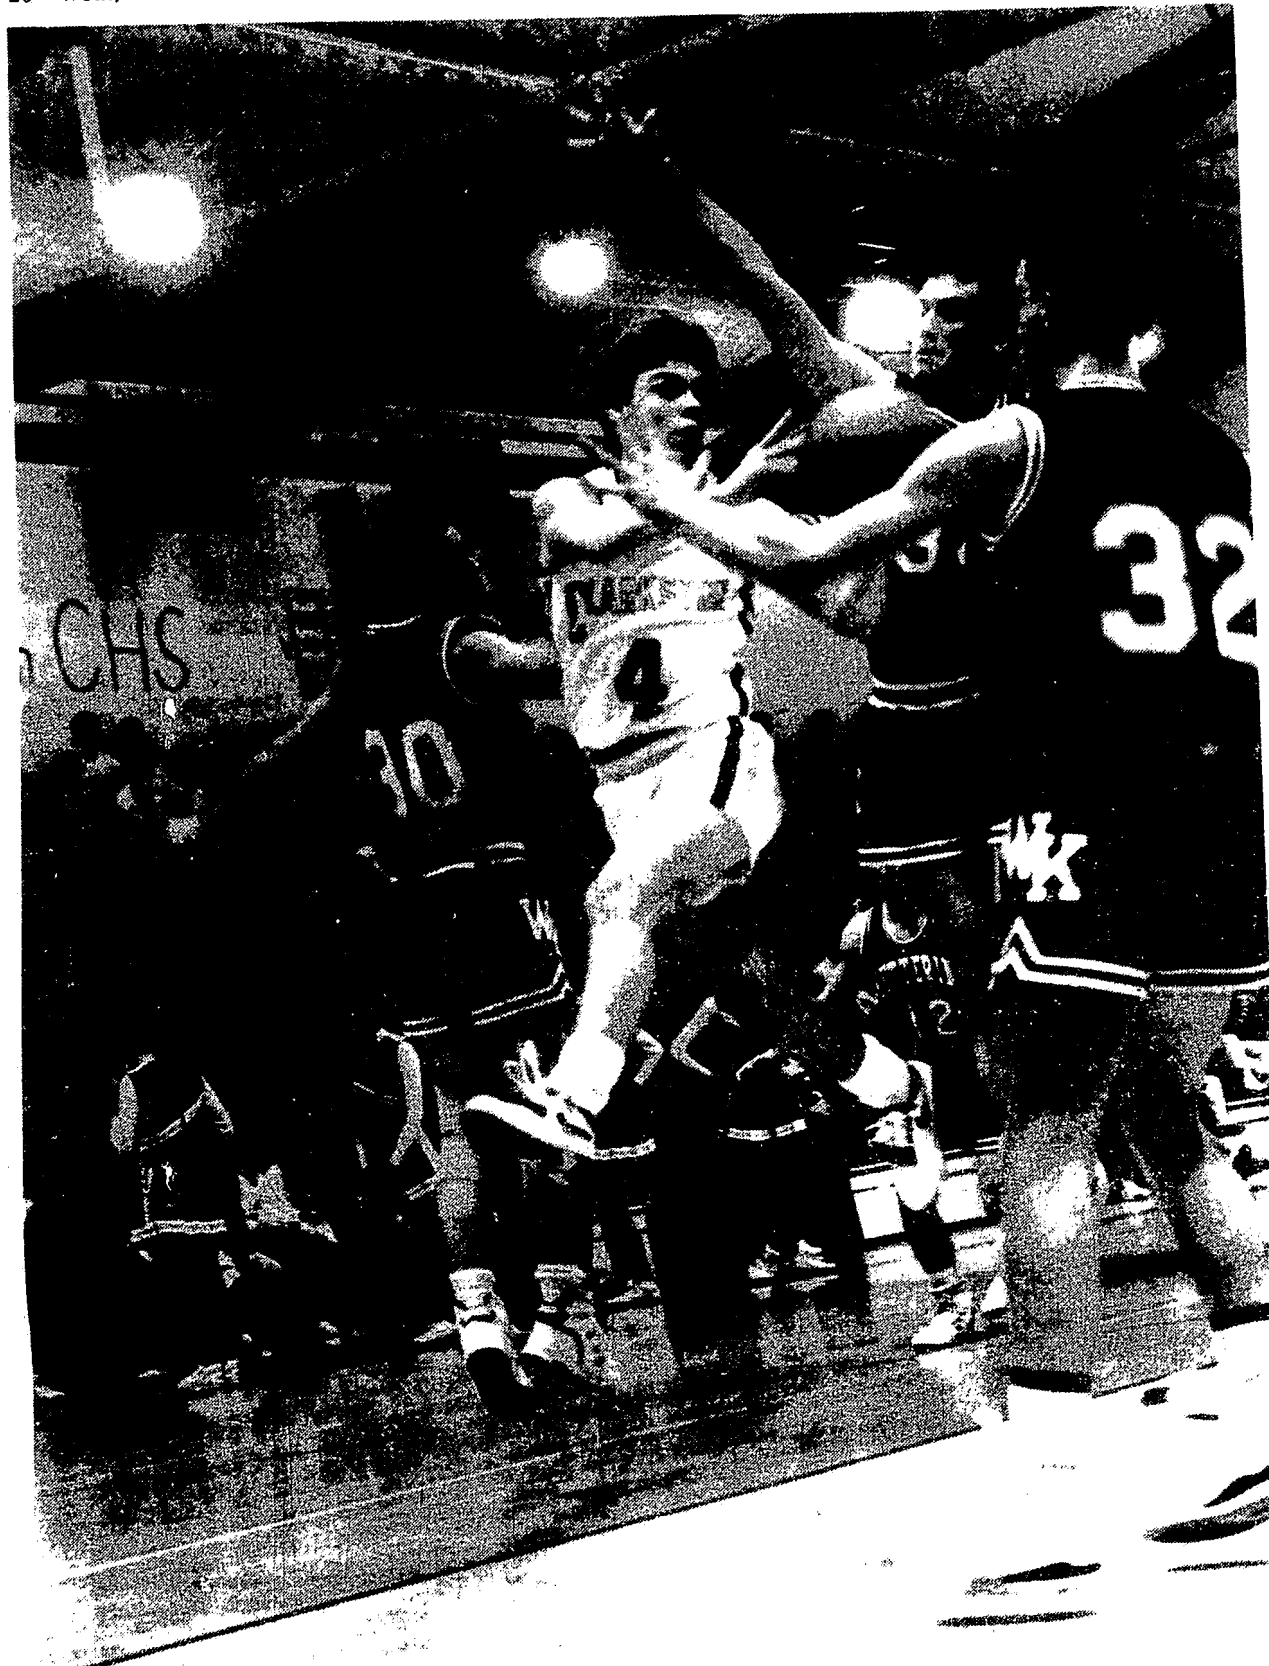

Traverse City captured both the boys and girls Class A titles. Clarkston was sixth in the boys and 10th best in the girls meet.

The other top performer was the Wolves' boys team was Shawn Lambouris. He finished in 21st place with a time of 40.62.

Sarah Schultz, a Clarkston resident who skies for Kingswood, raced well at the state meet to help the girls team finish 9th best in the state.

The top three schools in the state for the boys are Traverse City (78), Petosky (119) and East Grand Rapids (136). Clarkston had 186 points.

For the girls, Traverse City had 51 points, Cadillac had 110 and Petosky 163.5. Kingswood finished with 216 points and Clarkston had 323.

DARIN BRANDT, a senior guard, finds himself in familiar surroundings as he dishes off to a teammate for another basket against Waterford Kettering Friday night.

Rally wins GOAL game for Wolves

Dugan didn't make the same mistake twice when he got the ball back as he connected for another triple to bump Clarkston's advantage to 35-31. The Wolves led the rest of the way.

The 48-42 win over Waterford Kettering closed out the Wolves' regular season with a 15-5 record. They also finished as co-champions of the Greater Oakland Activities League with an 8-2 mark.

As the final score indicates, the Wolves had a battle on their hands the entire way.

"That's a Kettering-Clarkston game," the coach said. "Kettering did a nice job, they made us work on defense."

Five players, the entire starting lineup, did all of the scoring for the victors. McCormick led the way with 13 points. Fife had 12, and Jim Huttenlocher added 11. Darin Brandt chipped in with seven points and Scott Weeks had five.

Huttenlocher opened the game with the hot hand, hitting back-to-back baseline jumpers to put the home team out in front early at 4-0. Kettering managed to close the gap to 9-7 later on in the stanza, but a two-on-one fast break led by Brandt ended with another Huttenlocher basket to increase Clarkston's lead to 15-10.

Kettering came close to grabbing the lead in the second quarter as well, trailing by just a point before McCormick sank two free throws and a basket. The Captains eventually caught up before halftime and went into the intermission with a 22-21 advantage.

In the third quarter, it was Kettering's turn to hang on to a slim lead as it fought several Clarkston rally's before Fife hit his buzzer-beating triple.

With three minutes and 20 seconds to go, Kettering made one final run to get within two points, but the Captains didn't have enough gas to get over the hump.

RESULTS

Why cover up the problem, when eliminating the cause will result in true relief? In chiropractic health care we believe that the secret to good health lies within your body, not your medicine cabinet. Drugs only temporarily cover-up the symptoms of disease. Chiropractors concentrate on your spine, which protects the nerves which link the control centers in the brain and all other parts of the body. If you are suffering from a spine-related problem, there's not a drug in the world that will make you better. Isn't it time you gave chiropractic a try?

JV team ends with victory

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Coach Tim Kaul couldn't have ask for a better ending to the 1988-89 season for Clarkston High's junior varsity basketball team.

Not only did the Wolves top Waterford Kettering 61-44 at home Friday night, 10 players scored, and everybody played.

Clarkston closes with a 14-6 record in a season in which it faced such heavyweights as Detroit Catholic Central, Ferndale and Flint Northwestern.

The victory against the Captains pushed the Wolves' streak of limiting opponents to less than 50 points to 19 games.

Kaul mentioned a couple reasons for the Wolves' success on the hardwood.

"One of the key elements to our success was Billy Knight's progress," the coach said. "(Scott) Trekman provided the leadership we needed."

Almost everybody on the 14-member squad started at least one contest during the season, making for lively practices sessions as the reserves fought for extra playing time, the coach said.

Nobody had any playing time complaints after the convincing Kettering victory as the Wolves spread the scoring over 10 players.

Trekman, the only junior on the squad, led the way with 15 points. Knight scored 11; Chris Wasilk had nine, and Jerrod Johnson, eight.

Other scorers for the victors were Dereck Raymond with six, Greg Heaton with four, Luke Fedio, Mike Stoutenburg, Mark Galbraith and Darren Master with two apiece.

A basket by Knight and a three-point bomb from Wasilk got Clarkston rolling right away against Kettering, and the Wolves never looked back.

Midway through the second quarter, Wasilk hit his third triple of the night to increase Clarkston's advantage to 26-9. At the half, the Wolves led 33-16.

The Wolves continued the onslaught in the second half as Trekman canned his third triple of the night to make it a 41-18 laugher.

A late rally by Kettering that fell far short made the game appear closer than it really was.

Volleyball districts begin

Clarkston's varsity volleyball team returns to action Saturday in district play at Waterford Mott.

The Greater Oakland Activities League champs, sporting an 18-13 record, will face the winner of Tuesday's Lake Orion-Waterford Kettering match at 9 a.m. in the south court.

Rochester Adams and Holly will also play at 9 a.m. on March 4 in the north court.

Jokisch excels as Soo Laker

Dave Jokisch, a forward on Lake Superior State's basketball team, continues to lead his club in several offensive categories as his final season on the hardwood draws to a close.

The Clarkston High graduate leads the starters in free-throw percentage at 84 percent on 139-of-165 shots.

He also is tops in assists with 126 and rebounding, pulling down five boards a game.

Lake Superior, in Sault Ste. Marie, currently has a 8-17 record, 4-11 in Great Lakes Intercollegiate Conference play. The Soo Lakers close out the 1988-89 campaign with a road game against GLIAC foe Grand Valley, Allendale.

KARAN TAULBEE prepares to serve the ball back into play for the Sashabaw Cougars during the team's final match of the 1988-89 season on Feb. 8.

Springfield board donates funds to senior group

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Hollyhock senior citizen group will benefit from a $450 donation unanimously approved by the Springfield Township board on Feb. 9.

The board tabled the request for money at the December board meeting, asking for more information about how the money would be used and how many Springfield Township residents use the services of the Holly group, which meets in the Community Education Building, 111 College St. in Holly.

Anne Grate, president, and others from the all-volunteer group were at the January meeting to answer questions from the board.

Donations come from the townships of Springfield, Rose, Groveland and Holly, and Holly Village. Grate estimated that at least a dozen Springfield Township seniors use the services.

"For the small amount we receive, for which we are grateful, we give a lot in return," she said, including games, classes, retired senior volunteer programs, dances, homebound service, meals, trips.

In making the motion to contribute to the Hollyhocks, Trustee Nancy Strole said, "Springfield is in a transition area and has the good fortune of being served by several services."

But she suggested that the board try to better assess the services they contribute to before the next budget is approved.

Springfield Township also supports the Independence Township Senior Citizen Center by contributing half of their Southeast Michigan Transit Authority credits, amounting to approximately $3,000, for operation of the senior citizen van, and this year contributed $450 to Northwest Oakland Community Services, an organization which assists seniors and other people in the community.

The other half of the township SEMTA credits are contributed to Holly for operation of their senior citizen van.

New member on board of review

Sharon Balhorn of Shaffer Road has been named to a one-year temporary position on the Springfield Township Board of Review.

Her nomination to the board was unanimously approved by the Springfield Township Board at its February meeting to fill the position vacated by the temporary resignation of Mary Miller. A long-time member of the board of review, Miller had to take the time off for personal reasons.

The three-member board of review also includes Sheryl Wendt and Rollin Bird. The board's job is to review the assessment roll to ensure that it is equitable and properly done and also to hear individual appeals by property owners.

COG invites township residents to join

Residents concerned about the future of the Clarkston area may be interested in joining Citizens for Orderly Growth (COG).

COG began a membership drive last week, sending forms and questionnaires to prospective members who live in the Independence Township.

COG meets the second Wednesday of each month at 7:30 p.m. at the Clarkston Village Hall, 375 Depot Road, Clarkston. Membership cost is $10. For more information, call Kathy Honorowski at 625-7964 or Merry Kaski at 625-9449 or write: COG, P.O. Box 16451, Clarkston, MI 48016. COG's next meeting is Wednesday, March 8.

Formed about a year ago, the group brought together citizens from all over the township who were concerned about the impact of growth on the community.

Since then, COG members have conducted a townshipwide comprehensive survey on growth, compiling citizens' views and presenting them to township officials.

The meetings include discussion on recent township board, planning commission and zoning board of appeals actions, as well as plans of potential developers.

The group also invites speakers and holds workshops to better inform the members about the options for the community.

After reaching a consensus, COG takes its concerns and proposals to township officials.

St. Daniel church addition clears first hurdle

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

An addition to St. Daniel Catholic Church in Independence Township met with approval from the township planning commission Feb. 9.

Planners voted 5-0 to give conceptual approval to a site plan on the addition to the parish and religious hall of the church.

Voting yes were Chairperson Brent Bair, Jo Fussman, Bruce Mercado, Richard Oppmann and Daniel Travis. Steve Secatch was absent, and Joseph Figa abstained from the vote because he is a member of the church and supports the church building fund.

The 8,600-square-foot addition would create more classroom area, space for adult meetings, a nursery and office, and storage space, according to Father Charles Cushing, a priest at St. Daniel.

The discussion generated by the site plan was minimal and centered primarily on landscaping.

Planners were told that landscaping around the structure would be enhanced, and trees in the path of the improvements would be relocated.

"Residents have said there was not enough precaution with excessive construction run-off into the upper Mill Pond," said Jo Fussman, regarding previous work done at the church.

"I'd like to ensure that the pond is protected," she added.

Planner Richard Carlisle suggested the commission contact the township engineer regarding the run-off problem.

When contacted later, Cushing said the church is conducting a special building fund program to pay for the proposed addition.

He asked anyone who is interested in assisting with the program to contact the church at 625-4580.

M-15 sub OK prompts traffic light request

Approval of the proposed Cranberry Pointe subdivision could result in a needed stop light at M-15 and Cranberry Lake Road, according to Independence Township Board members.

The board unanimously gave tentative approval to the preliminary plat for the project, slated for the corner north of Cranberry Lake Road east of M-15. A tentative preliminary plat shows the layout of the lots, roads and utilities.

Members also passed a related motion to ask the Michigan Department of Transportation to consider a traffic light at the corner, a request that had previously been denied.

"They're going to have to do something if this is approved," said Daniel Travis, township trustee.

The extreme topography of the site does not allow access onto Cranberry Lake Road, prompting the developer to create a boulevard entrance onto M-15, according to Richard Carlisle, township planning consultant.

Approval of the developer's plan would create a 42-lot subdivision on the 29-acre site. The developer, Biltmore Properties Corporation plans eventually to sell the sites to builders.

Deer Lake beach contract signed

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Independence Township may be at the helm in the running of Deer Lake Beach for another five years.

Board members Feb. 21 authorized the signing of a five-year contract with the Village of Clarkston allowing use of the beach. Clarkston Village Council members did likewise with little discussion after a 4-0 vote on Feb. 27.

Although the lake, located off of White Lake Road, is in both Clarkston and Independence Township, the beach lies in the village.

For the past 15 years, the village has allowed the township to use the land to run summer programs that serve township and village residents.

Last season, the township and village were unable to reach agreement on whether the contract should be a five-year or a one-year document.

Township Trustee Frank Millard, who has also served on the village council, earlier explained that the village was hesitant to sign the longer contract because cityhood negotiations were underway.

Residents in the village recently filed for cityhood and are awaiting a decision from the state boundary commission.

At the Feb. 21 meeting, board members briefly discussed the need for security at the beach.

Trustee Mel Vaara suggested that caution lights be looked into as the season approaches.

$1,240 purchase clears way for Dixie water line

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Another obstacle has been cleared by Independence Township Board members in their effort to extend a water main along Dixie Highway.

Board members voted 6-0 Feb. 21 to purchase a small strip of land owned by Gary and Patricia Lessel, after attempts to gain an easement across the Lessel's property were unsuccessful.

An easement grants the right to use land belonging to another for such things as roads, electrical wiring or underground utilities.

Voting yes were Supervisor Frank Ronk, Clerk Richard Holman, Treasurer John Lutz, and trustees Frank Millard, Mel Vaara and William Vandermark. Daniel Travis abstained from the vote.

The vote clears the way for the township to purchase the roughly 10-foot strip of land for $1,240.

The Lessels lease a building on the east side of Dixie Highway between the building housing Deer Lake Cleaners and Ritters' Farm Market.

During talks with township officials, Lessel said he has no intention of hooking up to the water line and that having the line would not lower his fire insurance rates, Ronk told the board.

The township recently completed months of heated negotiations with another property owner -- John T. Long -- about an easement across his Dixie Highway property.

A contract between Long and the township was reached in mid-January, stipulating that the township limit tap-in fees and that construction be done on a Sunday and completed within one day, among other things.

In negotiations with Gary Lessel, the township is also required to complete the work within that Sunday, Ronk said.

The township has acquired easement agreements from eight or nine other property owners along the proposed water extension route.

Construction of the water main, planned to begin this spring, would connect two to three water systems to act as a back-up in case of water failures in the area.

Springfield deputy treasurer gets a raise

The deputy treasurer of Springfield Township, Phyllis Bradford, got a $1 per hour wage increase, from $5 to $6, but it won't cost the taxpayers an extra penny.

In making the recommendation to increase her wage to $6 per hour, Treasurer Lois Stiles stressed that she had a ceiling of $6,000 per year for the deputy treasurer. It simply meant the deputy would work fewer hours to earn the same wage.

She stated that the deputy treasurer's salary had not increased since August of 1987.

The motion to raise the deputy treasurer's wage was passed unanimously by the township board at the February meeting.

Teen earns national award for work on wetlands

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

At the age of 18, Ronald Keen II of Springfield Township has an enviable resume, awards too numerous to list, four scholarships, and a desire to preserve what precious land remains unspoiled by man.

On Tuesday evening, Feb. 28, during a special Boy Scout court of honor, he earned yet another distinction.

Ron became one of the youngest recipients -- the first from either Springfield Township or the Clinton Valley Boy Scout Council -- to receive the William T. Hornady Bronze Medal Award.

The scouting award is a national recognition of special dedication, exceptional initiative and leadership, and distinguished service to conservation.

Ron, now a freshman at Lake Superior State College, Sault Ste. Marie, is majoring in natural resource technology with a major in park management. It is a field he has prepared himself well for.

The 1988 Holly High School graduate earned not only the rank of Eagle Scout, but three Palms, the Order of Arrow and Son's of Liberty Citizen Award. He earned 36 scouting merit badges, nine of which were conservation related. He remains active in Boy Scout Troop 192 as an assistant leader.

He also distinguished himself in high school, lettering in cross country, track and basketball and earning an American history award.

After 11 years as a 4-H member, he earned nine All Star patches and nine county medals (including rabbits, conservation, forestry, veterinary science and leadership). He was the state winner in leadership and attended the National 4-H Congress in Chicago and Washington Focus and Capital Experience in Lansing.

He was active in many rabbit projects, earning his rabbit registrar's license in 1986. (Appropriately, he even shares his senior picture with a beautiful, white rabbit.)

Ron is the son of Ron and Mary Keen. His 11-year-old brother Robert is also active in 4-H and scouting, and his mother is the long-time 4-H leader of the Davisburg Busy Bees.

Ron earned scholarships from Oakland County Soil Conservation and the National Farm and Garden Club. He also earned the Michigan State University 4-H Rabbit Scholarship and the Michigan United Conservation Club/MichCon Conservation Project Award.

His heart has always been outdoors, it seems. Wildlife projects ranged from raising pheasants and establishing habitats for small animals to studying and making displays on the fox and the white tail deer.

He also started and is maintaining a bluebird trail. He donated bluebird houses to schools and the senior citizen group in Springfield Township and held a workshop for scouts and 4-H'ers to build and mount bluebird houses around the Springfield Oaks Activities Center.

The William T. Hornady Award was based, in particular, on his wetlands and conservation projects.

Scouting officials and representatives of Springfield Township were on hand for the awards ceremony Tuesday night.

Because Ron's projects have directly benefited Springfield Township parks as well as exemplified the spirit and goals of the township, the township board unanimously passed a resolution honoring him at their February board meeting.

Ron has done leaf and tree identifications. He has planted trees and wildflowers with young 4-H'ers. He built a display on acid rain and how it effects our forests.

He also built displays on wetlands that included wetland maps and photographs illustrating what wetlands should look like, and what man is doing to destroy them by filling them in, developing them and spilling oil on them.

The displays were set up at the Mill Pond Park and Springfield Oaks in Springfield Township. His wetlands display were also exhibited at the Oakland County Fair and will be exhibited at the Michigan State Fair.

One of the wetlands displays was sent on to the State of Michigan and was recently displayed by the Michigan United Conservation Club.

"We need wetlands," Ron says. "They're an important part of the water cycle. It has to go through that stage in the cycle. It has to have a place to be stored before going into the aquifer."

"The way we're building in the '80's, we're just thinking money and short term. We're not thinking into the future," he continues. "I think it's important that we conserve our environment, because we're going to have to live on this planet."

The show goes on

GREG WILSON, in the role of Howard, is surprised when his wife informs him the police are asking questions.

CAST MEMBERS Carol Davis (playing Karen) and Melissa Breckenridge (as Miss Cunningham) have a friendly chat. The Clarkston Village Players latest production, "Something to Hide" runs the first three weekends in March on Fridays and Saturdays beginning at 8 p.m. Tickets are available at Tierra Arts in Clarkston or call 363-0188 after 5 p.m.

VERNE VACKARO, as the Inspector, lights his pipe while asking Karen a few friendly questions about her husband Howard.

KAREN STANKYE plays Stella, the maid.

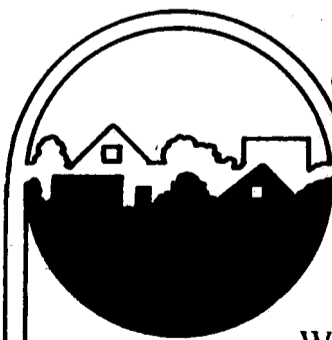

HOWARD AND KAREN, cast members Greg Wilson and Carol Davis, try to figure a way out of the mess they are in during this English murder mystery produced by the Clarkston Village Players.

Club holds workshop on foreign exchange

Teens who have dreamed of traveling to "far off lands" won't want to miss a program at Clarkston High School at 7 p.m. Thursday, March 2, in the media center.

The program, a workshop on hosting or becoming a foreign exchange student, is sponsored by a new club at the high school. Interact Club is sponsored by Clarkston Rotary, with Rotary member and CHS Assistant Principal Brent Cooley as the sponsor.

The Youth for Understanding workshop will feature speakers, including Jerry Roberts, a Youth for Understanding representative, who will give students and parents information on the foreign exchange program.

Also, an exchange student currently enrolled at Clarkston High School will give the inside story on going to school a long way from home.

Anyone interested in hosting or becoming a foreign exchange student is invited to attend the workshop.

For more information, Call Cooley at 625-0900.

Veterinarian discusses allergies

Clarkston area veterinarian Bruce Harlton will share his personal experiences with the physical, psychological and behavioral effects of allergies in his life at a Clarkston Area Youth Assistance Committee (CAYAC) program Tuesday, March 7.

The program is part of a parenting series put together by CAYAC and Family Education Committee led by Chairperson Janet Colbrunn. It will take place at 7:30 p.m. in the Clarkston High School Kirchgessner Theatre.

Harlton will talk on "Allergies: The Hidden Culprit." He said his relationship with allergies is due to problems in his own family.

"I'm trying to get sympathy for allergy sufferers," he said. "Allergies can affect your whole performance."

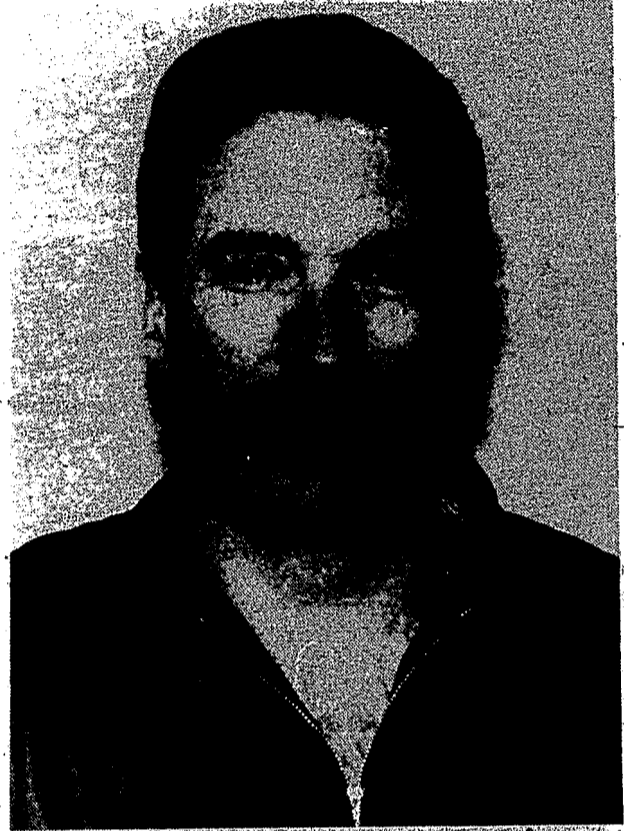

He will relate to the audience what it's like to have allergies. They are very treatable and easier to diagnose than people might think, he said.

Harlton wrote a story that was published in Red-book magazine in the early 1980's about his experience with allergies.

He has been a veterinarian in the area for 12 years and owns North Oaks Animal Clinic, Independence Township.

Parents and residents are also invited to attend "Sixty Minutes," a follow-up, CAYAC parenting discussion group led by Colbrunn at 7:30 p.m. March 14 in Sashabaw Junior High School.

VETERINARIAN Bruce Harlton will speak to parents March 7.

Crocodile tears

If you don't want a crocodile to spot you, you're better off in the water than on land, but be sure to keep still.

International Wildlife magazine reports that crocodiles enjoy good vision on land, but underwater, everything is a blur.

Pet of the Week

Fearless Fluffy

Fluffy is just that. He's a long-haired, orange and white manx cat. Manx cats have no tails to speak of, but that doesn't detract from their appearance or their personality.

Fluffy has a great personality. He's no "couch potato," say shelter workers. Instead, he loves attention and is very playful.

Fluffy can be adopted at the Michigan Humane Society, 3600 Auburn Rd., Auburn Heights, 852-7420. Hours at the non-profit shelter are 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

The adoption fee for Fluffy is $25. The 3-year-old cat is already neutered.

Microwave Plus

Freezer to microwave

Betty
Wagner

Papa Paul's Pasties are a Michigan product produced in Marquette and found in freezer cases of local grocery stores. They come in beef and vegetarian style and in several sizes.

Both flavors contain no fillers, extenders, preservatives, food coloring nor monosodium glutamate (MSG). Twenty-eight percent of the pasties' calories are from carbohydrate, 16 percent from protein and 56 percent from fat; so it is recommended that other meal accompaniments add no more fat.

The beef pasties also contain potatoes, cauliflower, carrots, broccoli, corn, peas, green pepper, rutabaga, onion, margarine, salt and pepper.

Heat them in the conventional oven from the frozen state at 350 for 30 minutes or 3 minutes at high power in the microwave.

Both are wrapped in crusts made of flour, lard, margarine, nonfat dry milk and salt.

Papa Paul's Pasties, prepared by Linda and Paul Bartels and family, provide a tasty entree for a quick meal. As would be expected, the crust is crispier when heated in the conventional oven, but the pasties are just as flavorful when heated by the timesaving microwave method.

Home economist Betty Wagner resides in Independence Township. Her "Microwave Plus" cable-TV program airs on Independence-Clarkston Channel 65.

Newsletter nets OK

A four-page newsletter containing pertinent information about Springfield Township will arrive in residents' mailboxes this spring on a trial basis.

With Trustee Nancy Strole spearheading the effort, the newsletter will be published twice this year at a cost of about $2,000.

The green light for the newsletter came with a 5-2 vote of the Springfield Township board. Treasurer Lois Stiles and Trustee Charles Oaks voted against the idea.

Oaks said that residents already get information in other forms.

"We're not talking about duplicating information," Strole said. "But residents need basic information -- who to call, taxes, lots of things not covered by newspapers."

The board has an obligation to communicate, she added.

The newsletter will be bulk mailed to township residents in the spring and fall this year. The cost of bulk mailing is five cents per letter.

The board agreed to the newsletter with the stipulation that feedback would be requested. If there was good response, they would consider the newsletter again next year.

Golfing in

There are no outstanding picture spots on Tatum. This is the mounded 9th green. It's just a good course, well kept, with efficient management.

The fastest greens I ever puttied were on Desert Mountain. This is a shot of the 138-yard, par 3 number 12. Can you see the man in the trap in the middle of the green?

I didn't go to the highest of the 11 tees of No. 15 to take this picture, but you get the idea of the height and shape of the tees. It's a wedge shot.

By Jim Sherman, publisher

'Don't go out there for your ball without a club in your hand. There may be a snake.'

That's the first warning a golfer hears when his ball goes off the fairway on a desert golf course.

But, heck you shouldn't go into a lot of the rough on Michigan golf courses without a club in your hand. There may be a snake.

There may be a difference in the desert because of the bite, and there are also various other creatures people like to warn you of. Of course, no warning makes your ball go straight. Neither does it keep you out of the desert.

Desert shots add to the excitement. And, it keeps your mind off the double bogey you are about to get.

There was no fear of snakes on two of the five courses we played in Arizona, January 17-22. There was lots of bogey fear.

At TPC Scottsdale and the Phoenician in Scottsdale, there is just out of bounds and water to attract your shots. We were more wary at Tatum Ranch Golf Club, Desert Mountain and Eagle Creek.

Tatum is a new, 3-year-old course at Cave Creek. It's the beginning of 1,400 acre development, and billed as 'Northeast Phoenix's only non-private desert golf course'.

Plans call for Tatum Ranch to have a 342-room resort hotel and all types of housing, stores, etc. Now they have only roads and the course. Bob Cupp, the man who designed the New Indianwood in Lake Orion, designed Tatum.

From the white tees it's 6,357. The course is still maturing, but it's a good track. It's well trapped, with water on just one hole.

Most desert courses have several holes with no fairway in front of the tees. All the 18-holes at Tatum are that way, some more lengthy than others, but all fairways are easy to reach from the tee.

Cupp moved the desert around to make mounds, and he left a lot of natural desert growth to keep it interesting.

Cost of playing ranges from $27 in the summer to $45 Jan-April.

The Phoenician is the most beautiful golf course I have ever played. The entrance has a waterfall on each side, with lots of flowers. The road borders the 18th fairway, which is a dog leg right (semi-circle better describes it) with water on the right and in front of the green.

It follows the 114-yard par three 17th which has water between tee and green with a rocky waterfall just left of the green . . . and flowers.

The Phoenician layout has changed since we played it two years ago. The owners closed it for 18 months while building a resort with 605 rooms, two 3,300 presidential suites ($3,500 a night), 13,000 sq. ft. health center, an acre of pools, 4 restaurants, convention center, etc. . . all tucked into the foot of Camelback Mountain.

A fence surrounds the course. On the civilian side are condominiums and residences, all in the very high rent district. It seems all back yards have pools, waterfalls, and flowers, each or all. They also have those round, white dimpled balls laying around.

Number 12 hole plays up Camelback Mountain, 438 yards. Number 13 tee is on the side of the mountain, overlooking whatever is southeast of Scottsdale.

Number 14 is the invention of the devil. You tee off 150 yards over desert to an acre size landing spot. Your second shot should be over desert, up hill, just short of a huge, deep sand trap.

My tee ball was sliced into the desert, my second shot was safe, third into the trap, fourth over the green into rocks, fifth shot still in the rocks, drop out, chip short, chip long, with a closing gimme 20 ft. putt.

Number 14 tee is indescribable. It's a par 126. It has 11, count 'em, eleven tee pads, each one higher than the first . . . on Camelback Mountain, looking down at the roof of the 8-story resort hotel. All are held up with stacked stones.

A neighbor of Eagle Creek protests cans, and loud music. Lot's of fo now that they're settled. This the desert

The beautifully landscaped, 6,033-yard (white tees) Phoenician costs $80 to play.

They were setting up for the Phoenix Open when we played TPC Scottsdale. There must have been 50 tents of various sizes and 200 johns. We played the Thursday preceding the tournament.

The course was in great shape. Fairways were overseeded with rye, with the bunkers and roughs Bermuda grass a dead brown color. The greens read 9 for speed, whatever that means.

It was our fourth trip around the Tournament Player's Stadium course. And, frankly, it's not great. Golf is $63.90 for cart, tax and golf. (You can play the TPC Desert course next door for $15). If you hit the ball reasonably straight, you won't find the out of bounds. Little desert is left, but there are lots of traps, and some water.

In our foursome of Dick Buechler of Oxford, Rich DeSantes of Royal Oak and Pete Kalohn of Lake Orion, only Pete and Dick found water, both on the par five fifteenth.

The course is heavily played; a ranger keeps things moving right along, though with few lost-ball hazards, play moves anyway.

Regular tees measure 6,049, 900 yards shorter than the pros played it. With the 1989 TPC winner coming in 21 under par, you know the course isn't tough. It was designed by Tom Weiskopf and Jay Morrish.

Desert Mountain is a Jack Nicklaus designed course. He is also chairman of the Club. The owners of this development have 8,000 acres of desert and mountain to carve out three golf courses, hundreds of lots ($165,000 minimum), 53,000 sq. ft. club house, fitness center, tennis courts, restaurants, etc.

We played the Renegade course, the only one of the three courses that non-members will be allowed to play. We played it free after taking a drive around the property with a salesman. The whole area is private, with a guard at the entrance.

He told us all the lots on the Renegade and Cochise courses are sold.

Yes, they have several more that will serve both the Cochise and Geronimo courses. Developers moved the first rock three years ago and 460 sites have been sold.

Jim Flick, an editor with Golf Digest Magazine, is head golf instructor. They expect 4,000 units without memberships, and 1,500 regular memberships.

Salesman Jack O'Keefe said all the $645,000 lots have been sold. The minimum you could expect to have involved is $325,000 on a half acre lot with 2,200 sq. ft. house.

Perhaps you saw a golf game (The Desert Scramble) on tv last year between Americans Nicklaus and Lee Trevino vs The Shark and his teammate from Australia, Ian Woosnam. It was at Desert Mountain. In April backers hope to start the annual Traditional Desert Mountain, $600,000 Senior tourney.

The course is almost a big circle. You never see another hole once you start. There are long trips from green to tee. All tee shots are over desert to landing areas. Many fairways are lined full length with a trap, and greens are well trapped.

The par three 12th has a deep pot bunker in the middle of the green. I was in it. The greens are slick. Remember I said the greens at TPC were 9. These were 15, nearly twice as fast.

But they are big, the fairways quite lush, the tees well groomed... the whole thing is first class.

And, we played Eagle Creek, twice. It's convenient and inexpensive, if not in good condition.

Eagle Creek has problems... man and nature. Eagle Creek is the name of the golf course of the Rancho Manana Resort. Sportscaster Joe Gargioli is part owner.

It's in its second year. Last year it was private. This year if you have $38 you can play the 6,233 (white tees) course. Neighbors fought the golf course zoning. They wanted the area left desert. They would have accepted a horse ranch.

When the course's water source proved to have arsenic, they had to pipe water over a mile. As a consequence, the tees and greens are fine, but the fairway has occasional green patches and lots of exposed earth.

Still, the layout has potential. A few half million dollar homes are being built on it. Four holes are on the side of a mountain, giving a fine view of the rest of the course.

There's water on 4, 5, 6, 10 and 18, huge drop offs into desert waste on 3, 7, 11, 12, 13, 14, 16, and 17. Ask Pete Kalohn what he shot and he'll tell you how many balls he found.

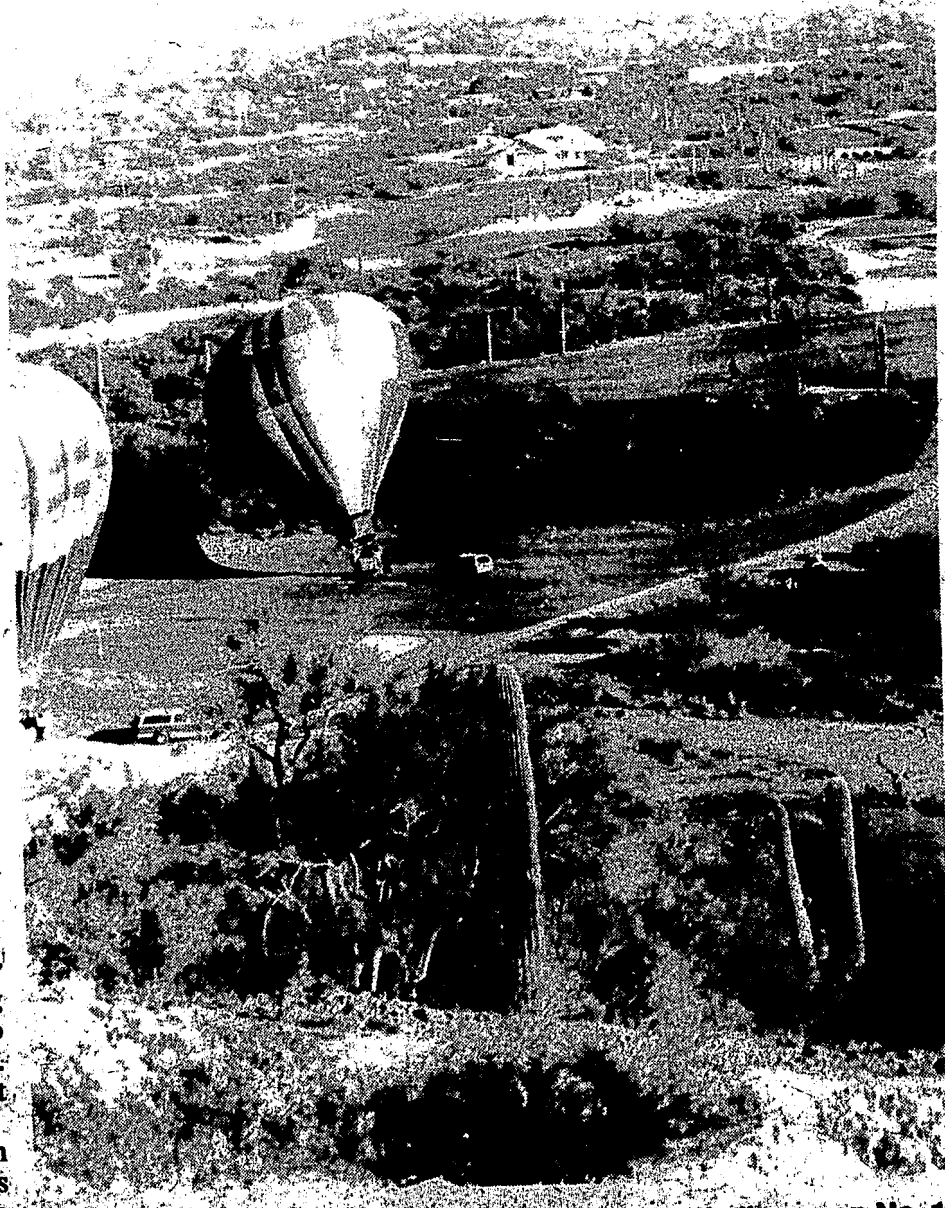

The weather isn't great in mid-January in that area. It froze solid four nights in a row, making early starting times very cold. A couple days it got to 65, but mostly it was 55-60 degrees. Only on the TPC did the cold wind get to us.

Desert golf is no different from Florida and Michigan golf as far as scoring. If you hit the ball straight, no problem. If you don't, there may be snakes.

Looking down from a TPC Scottsdale stadium hill at No. 18, toward the large, well appointed club house. Across the water on the left are some of the tent-stands in place for the Phoenix Open. On the tee are Rich DeSantes and Pete Kalohn.

Tatum, Phoenician, TPC, Desert Mountain, Eagle Creek

A view from the tee of No. 12 at Eagle Creek. The balloons on No. 11 green were being used for a course promotion. No 11 fairway is above the green. A deep wash runs along side the green. Directly in front of the 12th tee is a large saguaro cactus with many ball marks.

the golf course with signs, garbage... want the desert left untouched... picture is from the tee at No. 16.

Easter Seal ambassador hails from Independence

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Easter Seal Society has done a great deal for Marcie Rathsburg of Independence Township. And for the past several years, she has repaid that favor.

Marcie, who was diagnosed with multiple sclerosis in 1972, is the local ambassador for the 1989 Easter Seal Telethon. Last year, she was pictured in promotions for the Easter Seal Telethon, and the year before, she appeared on the telethon as well as manned the telephones for pledges.

Since 1982, she has received recreational therapy and attended an adult skills class through the Easter Seal Society.

When they asked her to be the ambassador for the 18th annual Easter Seal Telethon, she said she thought it would be a real honor.

"The Easter Seal Society helps so many people," she said.

The telethon will take place from 11:30 p.m. Saturday, March 4, through 7 p.m. Sunday, March 5. National host for the ninth year is Pat Boone, with co-host Mary Frann.

Local co-hosts for the telethon, which will be broadcast on WDIV-TV Channel 4, is WDIV news anchor Mort Crim and NFL quarterback Gary Danielson. This is the 10th year Mort Crim has hosted the event from the Channel 4 Detroit studios.

The local telethon is sponsored by the Easter Seal Societies of Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties.

Sharing the limelight with Marcie is the 1989 Poster Child Joseph Crews of Wayne, a 13-year-old who was diagnosed with spina bifida at birth.

From youngsters to adults with all kinds of disabilities, the Easter Seal programs offer so much to so many people, Marcie said.

"It is a place of encouragement," she said. "They can always help or tell you where to go for help."

Easter Seals is the largest and oldest voluntary health care agency in the world, offering physical and occupational therapy, equipment loan, therapeutic recreation services, day camping and postural screening.

The adult skills program Marcie attends weekly in Waterford was just beginning when it was first suggested that she attend.

"I really enjoy it," she said. "Everyone has a disability, so there's a comfortable, non-competitive situation. There's a lot of camaraderie."

Marcie was the busy mother of five children working as a library aid in the Clarkston school district when she first noticed that she tired easily. Then, it became more difficult to walk. After being hospitalized in 1972, she discovered that she had multiple sclerosis, or MS as the disease is known.

MS attacks the brain and spinal column. Many small, hard areas appear, interfering with the normal functions of the nerve pathways. It is a disease which attacks people in their prime. There is no known cause and no known cure.

"It's a frustrating disease, because you never know from day to day what your physical condition is going to be," Marcie said.

"You continue on and do what you can do," she said. "It is important to keep an up attitude. Stay positive."

to get around.

Jack, who is a General Motors employee, not only encourages her to attend the weekly Easter Seal meetings but also provides an extra hand now and then, bringing in arts and crafts supplies.

Marcie's children are grown now, and she has four grandchildren.

From the Clarkston-area home where she has lived since 1969, she continues to keep an "up" attitude, and looks forward to her role as ambassador for the Easter Seal Telethon.

"People should contribute," she said. "You never know when you might need their help, too."

The local telethon last year raised $1.2 million. Almost 75,000 people in the tri-county area were served by Easter Seal programs during 1987-88.
