Pay hiked For full-time officials

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Pay raises for the supervisor, treasurer and clerk of Independence Township were approved for the first time in two years April 4.

The raises were each approved in separate votes.

In a 6-0 vote, board members approved a seven percent raise for Supervisor Frank Ronk, bringing his full-time salary to $45,000.

Voting yes were Clerk Richard Holman, Treasurer John Lutz and trustees Frank Millard, Daniel Travis, Mel Vaara and William Vandermark. Ronk abstained from voting.

Clerk Richard Holman received a raise of just over five percent to $40,000, in a 4-2 vote.

Voting yes were Treasurer John Lutz and trustees Frank Millard, Mel Vaara and Daniel Travis. Voting no were Supervisor Frank Ronk and Trustee William Vandermark. Holman abstained.

Board members voted 6-0 to approve the same raise for Treasurer John Lutz. Like Holman, Lutz will receive a raise of just over five percent to $40,000.

Voting yes were Supervisor Frank Ronk, Clerk Richard Holman and trustees Frank Millard, Daniel Travis, Mel Vaara and William Vandermark.

The raises go into effect during the township's next pay period.

Rape suspect back in court

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Steven A. Szeman Jr., the alleged ski-mask rapist, faces an Independence Township appearance April 14 on charges that he raped a woman in her Independence Township condominium.

The preliminary exam, scheduled for 10 a.m. in 52nd District Court, will be heard by Judge Gerald E. McNally. Szeman also faces preliminary exams in 47th District Court in Farmington Hills and 48th District Court in Bloomfield Township on a total of 49 charges, including criminal sexual conduct, armed robbery, breaking and entering, and assault with intent to rob.

Attorney Lawrence Kaluzny was chosen by the court to defend Szeman in the preliminary examinations, according to court documents.

Szeman, 25, was arraigned in the three Oakland County district courts April 5 after he was transferred to Michigan under heavy security from an Ohio jail, where he is serving a 140-year sentence for the rape of a Cleveland-area woman.

Szeman is in the Oakland County Jail on a $7.9 million bond.

If convicted on the Michigan charges, Szeman would first serve his term in Ohio and then would return to serve the Michigan sentence.

7 to run for 2 school board seats

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Seven candidates have announced their intention to run for two seats up for election on the Clarkston Board of Education, but only six of those will be on the ballot in the June 12 election.

Carolyn Place, who has served on the board for 16 years, filled out her petition and filed it by the Monday, 4 p.m. deadline, but didn't file the affidavit of identity. She announced at the April 10 board meeting that she will run as a write-in candidate.

"It was my desire to run, but in error, I did not file the affidavit of identification," she said. "It caused me to truly assess my reasons to run, (and) my reasons to run have not changed."

But this time she will not have the edge as an incumbent, she added. "I will have to work harder than the other candidates."

The other incumbent on the board whose term expires, Dr. Stephen Werner, is also running for re-election. Werner has served on the board for eight years.

Four of the other five candidates on the ballot are past candidates: Karen Foyteck, Sheila Hughes, Paul Van Klaveren and Robert Wyatt. The sixth candidate is Doreen Wright.

Candidates are running for two four-year terms on the board. There could be other write-in candidates, and announced candidates had until 4 p.m. Thursday, April 13, to reverse their decisions to run for school board by withdrawing their names.

Pay increases OK'd for three full-time officials

Those logging "no" votes in each case argued that the raises were too small.

"Last year there was no raise at all," said Vaara. "We should deal with the raises this year. There is no retroactive pay (from the first of the year), and several months have passed already."

"We're substantially under what is considered a reasonable pay scale for a township like this," Vaara added.

Board members spent several minutes in disagreement on the percentage of the increases.

"Four to four-and-a-half percent is the base I've most often seen reported," said Travis.

"I'd be in favor of a six percent raise," said Vaara. "That's the way I feel about it."

The raise amounts were determined, in part, by comparing salaries of officials in other townships.

Although the high salaries of township officials in Bloomfield, Waterford and West Bloomfield reflect the size of those communities, the population of Commerce and Orion townships are similar to that of Independence, Ronk explained.

"The raises put it on parity for Orion and Commerce," Travis said.

Before the board voted on the supervisor's raise, Holman voiced his support for the move.

"I'm in a unique position to understand the demands made on the supervisor," Holman said.

"The township has grown; jumping seven percent to $45,000 is not out of line."

"That doesn't mean that you have to follow suit with the clerk and treasurer (raises)," Holman added.

After the clerk and treasurer raises were approved, Ronk said he supported the increases.

"Taxpayers get every nickel out of them," Ronk said about Holman and Lutz.

Former county man jailed for rape

The former Oakland County resident is accused in the assault of 10 women from April, 1987, to March of 1988. Although most of the incidents occurred in the Bloomfield-Farmington Hills area, one is believed to have been committed in Independence Township.

In that instance, a 53-year-old woman was raped twice in her North Crest condominium, off Dixie Highway between M-15 and White Lake Road.

Similar to the previous rapes reported along the 14 Mile Road corridor, the assailant wore a ski mask and was carrying a knife.

The rapist was reported to be soft spoken and apologetic with his victims. In each instance he would identify a lone female, sometimes watching them for several hours, and would strike between 7 and 9 p.m. His victims ranged in age from 12 to 61.

A rape-task force, formed after a pattern in the assaults was recognized, received almost 500 tips from residents.

When a purse belonging to a Farmington Hills rape victim surfaced in Ohio, detectives focused their investigation there.

Szeman was arrested Nov. 10, 1988, in North Olmstead, Ohio, as he assaulted a woman in the area.

His fingerprint samples were sent to Oakland County where they were matched with those taken from a rape scene. A system involving DNA mapping—where blood, saliva and semen is matched from evidence recovered from rape victims—was also used in an attempt to link Szeman to the rapes in Michigan, according to Investigator Robert Gohl, of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department (OCSO).

Szeman, an Ohio native, lived and worked in Troy and Southfield. He moved to Rocky River, Ohio, in April, 1988.

Should teens, friends go to Florida?

Survey of parents and teens to provide parenting guidelines

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Should a teen be allowed to go to Florida with friends? And do parents really know what kind of parties their children attend?

Questions like these prompted Janet Colbrunn, family education chairperson of the Clarkston Area Youth Assistance Committee (CAYAC), to prepare a survey for parents of high school students, and another for the students themselves.

The intent was to help parents with guidelines and substantiate what works, she says. CAYAC updated its Safe Homes brochure using survey results and is mailing the brochures, with results of the two surveys, to parents of high school and junior high students.

For instance, she says, if 86 percent of the parents said they would not allow their teens to go to Florida, it might help others in the decision-making process.

Colbrunn handed the survey out to parents during parent-teacher conferences at Clarkston High School during the first semester. Earlier this semester, 929 students completed their surveys.

In the case of the parent surveys, the resulting 248 completed surveys provided a good sampling based on fourth Friday figures of 1,435 students in the high school, she says. But she adds that the sampling may not be representative of all parents, only those who attended the conferences.

One interesting discrepancy between the two surveys is what parents think their kids are doing and what the kids say they are doing.

For instance, from 92-76 percent of parents said they were sure parties were chaperoned and chemical free. But 77 percent of the students responded that drugs and/or alcohol were available at parties, and 84 percent said parties were not chaperoned.

"It showed a lack of awareness on the parents' part concerning what parties are like," Colbrunn says. "So I hope parents take the Safe Homes brochure seriously."

Clarkston High School SEARCH Coordinator Katie MacKay concurs, saying, "The biggest concern I have is parents' denial about kids drinking."

What kids don't realize, MacKay says, is that a lot of the pain they go through is a normal part of adolescence — getting along, setting goals, etc. For some, the drinking may seem like the easy way out. For others, drinking is a result of peer pressure.

The discrepancies in the surveys are similar to findings of a Michigan State University, East Lansing, study of thousands of high school students and their parents done in 1968, Colbrunn says.

But it is important for parents to recognize the need to set standards and expectations concerning their teen's social life and responsibilities. Research has shown that the most successful teens have parents who provide a proper balance of control and affection.

When limits are set, parents need to stand behind them and reinforce them with consequences, such as loss of privileges — even in the face of complaining and guilt-inducing tactics, such as, "You're the only parent who won't allow..." or "But I'm the only kids who can't..." used by some teens to get away.

"Equally important," she says, "Parents need to praise and reward their teens when they do show cooperation and responsibility. And they know the importance of continuing to give, even these older kids, hugs and kisses and telling them that they love them."

Parents need to be flexible in setting standards, Colbrunn adds, using reasonable judgment based on the teen's age and unique personality.

Regarding one question on the parent survey about allowing teens to stay overnight at the home of a friend after a party, some experienced parents indicated that these were occasions when teens later admitted to have experimented with alcohol, with less chance of being noticed by their parents.

Although most parents recognize that teen drug, alcohol and premarital sex problems are widespread, they ignore or deny the likelihood of their own teenager's involvement, Colbrunn says.

And although a majority of parents indicated a fairly strict set of standards for the teens in the surveys, many teens seem to be getting away with drinking, etc., and evading parental detection.

The survey results, she adds, make the Safe Homes brochure more applicable.

MacKay summed up the CAYAC surveys and brochure by saying, "Even if the survey results only make a dent (in the problem), it's worthwhile. No one thing makes a big change. But everyone getting involved, the community effort, could make a big difference."

ACCORDING TO THE SURVEY, parents and teens often have different ideas about what teens actually do and what they should be allowed to do.

Voters face $68.8 million bond issue June 12

Money to be used for school facility improvements that would last into the 20th century

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A $68.8 million construction and improvement program for Clarkston schools will go before the voters in the June 12 election.

The Clarkston Board of Education voted 6-0 to support the proposal of the school's architect, Tom Chen of Greiner, Inc., at the April 10 board meeting. Board Vice President John Needham, who was out of town, was absent from the meeting.

If a bond issue for $68.8 million is approved by voters, it would be levied over a 29-year period and would use the Michigan School Bond Loan Fund Program.

"The bond issue represents the needs of the district," said board President Janet Thomas. "If the voters approve, it will carry the children of this district well into the 21st century."

The bond issue would cover:

1. Additions to and partially renovating and partially re-equipping all district elementary school buildings.

2. Construction of and equipping a new elementary school.

3. Partially renovating and partially equipping Sashabaw Junior High School to be used as a middle school.

4. Partially renovating and partially re-equipping the present Clarkston Senior High School to be used as a middle school.

5. Construction of and equipping a new 1,800-student high school building.

The proposal of Greiner, Inc., based on North Central Accreditation standards, came after a long study of current facilities by citizens and school staff in the district as well as by the architect.

The proposed building program was also based on StanFred statistics for increased enrollment in the district, which is expected to climb steadily into the 1990s.

The maximum mills which would be levied under the bond issue would be 7.68, based on conservative estimates of projected SEV (State Equalized Value) increases. By law, the district can only levy the number of mills necessary to retire the debt, so if the SEV goes up more than conservatively projected, the levy would be reduced below the 7.68 mills.

One mill is $1 for every $1,000 assessed property valuation. To the owner of a $100,000 home with an SEV of $50,000, the cost would be approximately $380 a year in the years where the millage was that high, but for at least half of the 29-year debt; the millage would be less than 7.68. For instance, the last year of the debt, it would be .85 mill, or about $40 for the same homeowner.

Superintendent Gary Haner said the administrative staff was tremendously pleased with the work done by architect Tom Chen of Greiner and by the positive level of support from the school board for the proposal.

A key factor in asking voters for the whole package was the fact that the district could get into the state's guaranteed School Bond Loan Fund, Haner added.

"We could not begin to do 68 million dollars worth of work except for the State Loan Fund," he said.

"We are fortunate that the state's program enables us to make up for more than 20 years without major expansions and improvements to structures by borrowing the money at a low rate of millage, and by permitting us to extend the debt out over 29 years," he continued.

"I'm optimistic that Clarkston community's long-term pride in its schools will permit a successful election in June to bring schools up to modern standards."

Opinions

A little light reading

Julie Campe

I ran into another one of those Non-Fiction-Only (NFO) types the other day. It was inevitable that the conversation would turn to our latest readings.

He only reads history, and he was excited about his recent findings. So we talked a little, and then he asked me what I had been reading.

I told him I was finishing up John Irving's "A Prayer for Owen Meany." Before that I read some Joyce Carol Oates, and I couldn't wait to get started on "Love in the Time of Cholera," I told him.

"Oh," he said, sniffing and looking down his long nose at me. "That's nice, a little light reading."

He was more into facts, he said. He liked history because he could learn something from it.

"Ugh," I thought. There was that attitude again. It's so common among NFO readers. I kind of feel sorry for them. They obviously don't know what they're missing.

Facts — dates and places — are nice; they help put things in perspective, and they make great Trivial Pursuit players. But there's so much more to reading than just facts.

When talking to an NFO reader, I can't even reveal my strongest reason for liking fiction. If I mention that it's simply a pleasure to become absorbed in another way of life and another way of thinking, the NFO person will say he has no need for such an escape.

That would put a damper on my next reason for liking fiction — that I have always loved stories from childhood on up, whether told by my grandmother or read from a book.

I learned young that our minds can take us anywhere if we let them — away from terrible happenings on our planet or at our jobs or in our living rooms. Stories can give us options in our own lives — maybe we won't even use them, but we sure have fun thinking about them.

A true NFO type would be appalled at those reasonings. An NFO would surely reply, "Reading must be worked at, and if you're enjoying it too much, you must not be learning anything."

If I tell him I love to read and re-read my favorite books, an NFO looks puzzled and will politely refrain from speaking. But I can read his thoughts: "She must not be a very thorough reader if she has to re-read everything."

So when talking to an NFO person, I have to explain it in a way that he can understand.

Fiction is learning of a different sort. I will say. While non-fiction can give you dates and places and the names and activities of people, fiction can show you those same things.

It's so much more enjoyable reading something by Nathaniel Hawthorne or Mark Twain to learn the attitudes of Puritans or 19th century Americans than it is to read it in a history book.

While a history book will tell you that Puritans were strict and intolerant, Hawthorne's "The Scarlet Letter" will let you feel what strict and intolerant really mean.

Fiction also shows the universals in human nature, which could be even more important to learn than simply learning dates and places of wars and the names of the generals.

Maybe if we can understand human nature, we won't add any more wars to the history books, and future NFOs will have time to enjoy a yam or two.

Sashabaw sewer is good addition

It may be difficult for most of us to get excited about a sewer, but the Independence Township Board and planning officials deserve credit for approving the upcoming sewer extension planned for Sashabaw Road.

On the surface, the sewer won't have much affect on most of us. We'll probably only notice it when we face the occasional traffic delay during this summer's construction.

But if you look deeper, the project is something we should all applaud. It is of the stuff municipal planners always talk about.

According to George Anderson, director of the township's department of public works, every piece of property in the township will someday be served by a sewer — it will be mandatory (and we'll each pay for the part of the sewer that will benefit our property).

Most of us in rural areas are accustomed to our own septic system for depositing our waste. But septic systems take up a lot of space. And eventually, we humans will deposit so much waste in the earth that the earth won't have time to clean itself, and our water will become polluted by it.

Since we and other living things depend on ground water — not to mention nice, clean soil — we have to take pains whenever we can to prevent its pollution.

The sewer on Sashabaw Road is an excellent way to do it. Plus, by constructing it now — before too much development occurs on the septic tank system of waste disposal — we won't have to tear up landscaping and pavement to lay the sewer line, which would surely cost big bucks. And septic tanks won't be able to pollute the ground in that area.

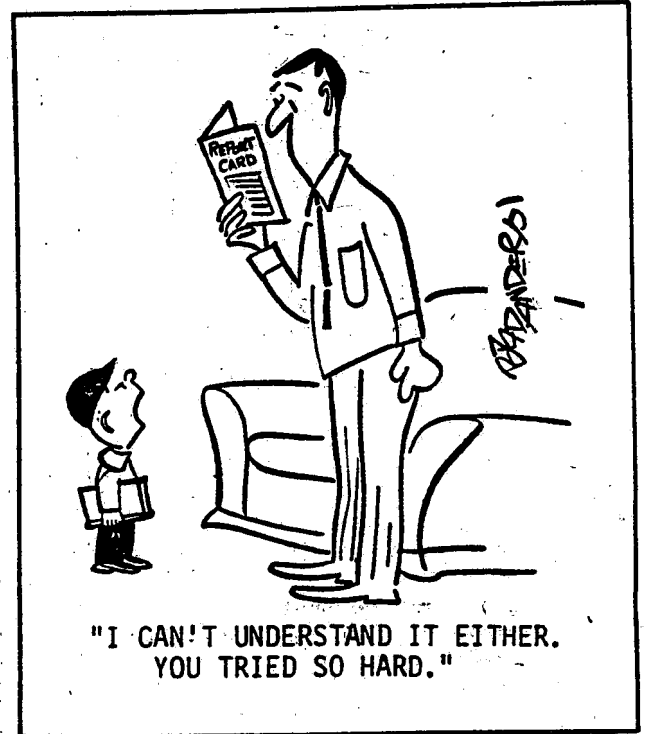

As an example of how bad it could be without the sewer, think of Dixie Highway, where many businesses operate on septic systems. Water and sewer line extensions are also planned for the Dixie Highway area, but what a mess that will be!

So it's good that the Sashabaw sewer is going in before development occurs. If the board had waited any longer, the development probably would have gone ahead without the sewer.

(A shopping center may go in at the southwest corner of Waldon and Sashabaw, and offices and research offices could be in store for the rest of the Sashabaw Corridor.)

The $390,000 project is to be paid for by the Sashabaw property owners who will benefit from the sewer. JLC

Jim's Jottings

If you spend enough time reading old newspapers you can run across stories like the following, which I found in the February 8, 1900 Oxford Leader. It's called "Heavy Artillery":

In a local Lime-Kiln Club the other evening one of our old veterans got off the following regarding the days when he punctured redskins—partly from duty and partly as a pastime—since.

While on duty in one of the western forts, he took a small howitzer which defended the fort and had it securely strapped to the back of an army mule, with the muzzle projecting over the animal's tail.

With this novel gun carrier he proceeded with the captain and a sergeant to a bluff on the bank of the Missouri, near which was encamped a band of friendly Indians. The gun was duly loaded and primed, the fuse inserted and the mule backed to the edge of the bluff.

The major, remarking something about the moral effect of the exhibition was likely to produce upon our Indian allies, stepped forward and applied the match.

The curiosity of the mule was aroused. He jerked his head around to see what was fizzing on his back, and the next second his feet were bunched together and he was making forty revolutions a minute, while the gun was threatening everything within a radius of half a mile.

The captain shinnied up the only available tree. The sergeant threw himself flat on the ground and tried to dig a hole with his bayonet to crawl into, while the fat major rolled over and over, alternately invoking the protection of Providence and cursing the mule.

Finally, the explosion came, the ball went through the roof of the fort and the recoil of the gun and the wild leap of the terrified mule carried both over the bluff to a safe anchorage in the river.

The discomfited party returned sadly to the fort. Shortly after, the chief of the Indians appeared and announced briefly, "Injun go home."

Questioned as to why, he thus explained: "Injun ver' brave; help white man. Injun use gun, use bow arrow, use knife; but when white man fire off jackass, Injun no understand."

Did you hear about the man who bought a new gadget—unassembled—and after reading and re-reading the instructions couldn't figure out how it went together?

Finally, he sought the help of an old handyman who was working in the backyard.

The old fellow picked up the pieces, studied them, and then began assembling the gadget. In a short time, he had it all put together.

"That's amazing," said the man. "And you did it without even looking at the instructions!"

"Fact is," said the old man, "I can't read, and when a fellow can't read, he's got to think."

Welcome to Salem, Massachusetts

The removal of Jan Gabier as assistant principal at Clarkston High School has proven to me that the "Salem Witch Hunts" are alive and well here in Clarkston.

Is this how over 25 years of dedication and service to Clarkston High School and the community is rewarded? Jan Gabier has carried out her duties as an assistant principal in a fair and professional manner, and that's more than can be said about her accusers! How she has endured this harassment is beyond me.

How can Bob Burek, high school principal, who doesn't even live in our community, have so much influence on Gary Haner, superintendent of schools, who has been here for less than a year, to bring about such a travesty of justice?

What has happened to due process? What has happened to fair play? What has happened to humanity? Who is really to blame? Who is going to be next?

Clarkston school employees beware — BIG BROTHER IS WATCHING?

Mad about taxes

If the board is puzzled over the bond defeat, maybe it's time to get a new board.

Ronk's statement that we could have enhanced our area and we did a real injustice is almost unbelievable. We missed a chance for Ronk to continue to build an empire, and maybe it could have been a shrine to him.

Does the board read? There is a tax revolution going on, and they appear to be unaware that the people want less government, not more.

Perhaps the chief, Wilson, should also make note of the fact that taxpayers have had it. He might look at ways to reduce the size of the full-time department. Then he won't need as much room.

For openers, we could eliminate the secretary and let the full-time firemen do her duties. There are many ways to get by with less taxes and quit trying to build an empire for your own interests.

What type of mentality does it take to figure out that property on M-15 is more expensive than property a block or two off M-15? The response time would be the same. It is only taxpayers' money, so spend it carefully.

Probably the surprise of the year was the defeat of this issue. It should serve as a warning to our elected officials that we are mad as h— about taxes, and perhaps they should act accordingly.

Citizens group to study growth

In December, the North Area Citizens Conference was formed.

Its goals are to ascertain the desires of those residents of the various townships and to promote those aims through good communication of information between the townships and the residents; and thus to promote good inter-governmental management and planning.

Like Citizens For Orderly Growth in Independence Township, we wish not to stop growth, but to promote it in a considered and sensible way to maintain and preserve the small town lifestyle and rural atmosphere which most of us value in this area.

This program has found interest and participation in Lake Orion, Oxford, Addison, Metamora, Independence, Brandon, Holly, and Dryden Townships, where we have members monitoring the meetings of the various township boards and planning commissions, so that we can notify residents of matters of specific interest to them.

One of the first steps to better planning is to promote citizen surveys to find how residents would like their communities to develop, to aid and guide the planning commissions and township trustees in evaluating proposed zoning in line with these desires. Lake Orion and Independence Townships have already conducted successful surveys. The NACC has submitted a proposed survey to Oxford Township, which is presently in the works.

Last week the 2nd "Brainstorming" session of the new Oxford Township Board to set their "Goals for the Future" took place. The community was dismally represented by only 7 residents.

With such poor participation by local citizens, it is small wonder that the Township Boards and Planning Commissions, operating in a vacuum, sometimes make radically unpopular decisions.

Cruising on
Uncle Sam

Jim
Fitzgerald

Our 65-foot yacht glided imperially out of Marco River into the Gulf of Mexico, headed straight for the orange glow of the world's most gorgeous sunset. A five-piece band played for dancing on the top deck, and a waitress brought me a fresh vodka and tonic. Dinner would be served soon. It was a private party for just 35 guests on a boat large enough for 120 passengers. On the Marco Island shore, condo residents came out onto their screened porches to watch as we floated our privileged position for all to envy. Nodding toward the awed gawkers, I whispered softly into my wife's ear:

"Those people have no idea that we have only $10.25 in our checking account."

And I thrust my glass of free booze toward the splendidly blue heavens and exclaimed: "Thank you, Uncle Sam."

It was by far the most wretchedly excessive evening of 30 spent in Naples, on Vanderbilt Beach, in southwest Florida. And, don't worry, my salute to Uncle Sam didn't mean that somehow I'd managed to get U.S. taxpayers to pay for my vacation. I meant Uncle Sam McCool, the man who married my mother's beautiful little sister, Florence Gleason.

Benevolent uncle still helps

Uncle Sam died almost 30 years ago. There are still a few old-time journalists around who remember him as an Associated Press reporter and later press secretary to Michigan Gov. Murray Van Wagoner in the 1940s. When he died, Sam was chief of public relations for Michigan Bell in Detroit, with a handsome office only a short walk from where his handsome nephew eventually accepted employment aimed at making sure the Free Press would become a failing newspaper qualified for a JOA.

In 1951, with no idea I would grow up to be Boris Karloff, Uncle Sam got me my first newspaper job, at the Lapeer County Press. He did this because I'd been offered a job with the United Press in Detroit, and Sam was deathly afraid his wife would invite me to live in their spare bedroom. He assured me that one or two years' experience on a small town paper would best prepare me for a newspaper career in the big city. It took me 25 years.

The yacht party was in honor of the 50th birthday of Don Nelson, a Detroit native who now has homes in Naples, northern Michigan and a suburb of Chicago where he owns a printing company. I think he prints money. Nelson is married to Ginny, the only child of Sam and Florence McCool. Ginny arranged the floating birthday bacchanalia, which was a surprise affair, and I was rude enough to crack that Don would be more shocked than surprised when he learned how much it cost him.

Later, I had to apologize. While I was enjoying the open air by leaning on the open bar, Cousin Ginny confided: "I paid for this party with the interest earned by stock that my father left me. So you can thank your Uncle Sam." Done.

Many of the party guests were from Michigan, so much of the cocktail gossip concerned the current Michigan news big enough to be reported by the Florida media. Several times I was asked if I knew anything about Terry Rakolta, the Bloomfield Hills woman who got on national television by complaining effectively enough to scare some sponsors away from a network sitcom whose sexy, fleshy content Rakolta had found so offensive she was forced to get off her exercise machine and switch channels so her children couldn't watch it and be ruined for life.

I pointed out that Rakolta is the sister of Republican activist Ronna Romney, daughter-in-law of former Michigan governor and presidential candidate George Romney, and Ronna was a viable candidate for U.S. treasurer. My questions were suitably impressed when I speculated that someday the treasurer of the United States might be brainwashed into refusing to sign money that would be spent on uplift bras or on Sundays.

Which would be OK, of course, just as long as no U.S. treasurer ever limits the spending money on TV shows where 20 people are shot every minute.

Onward and Upward, and be prepared for more here about my vacation. Uncle Sam didn't pay for everything, and I have an income tax deduction to justify.

The Roads We Travel

Potholes

Brent
Bair

Have you been dodging potholes this spring? Have you ever wondered what causes them? Have you noticed that they seem to appear more in the spring than during other times of the year?

There are two basic causes of potholes (or chuckholes). The first has to do with the age of the pavement. As asphalt pavement ages, it begins to crack.

In the spring during the freezing and thawing cycles, water seeps into the cracks. When the temperature turns cold again, the water freezes, expands and breaks the surrounding asphalt. Passing traffic breaks up the pavement further, turning a small pothole into a larger one.

The second cause of potholes has to do with the base of the road. The base is the layers of material upon which the pavement is laid. If a drainage problem occurs and the water is unable to drain properly from the base materials, it can accumulate into pocket. As the ground freezes in the winter, the accumulated water in the base material freezes and expands, forcing the pavement above upward.

In the spring, the water thaws, leaving a gap or unsupported pavement area. The weight of passing traffic breaks the pavement and more traffic causes the resulting hole to get larger. This is the more expensive type problem to correct, since the only way to prevent this situation from happening again is to tear up the pavement and repair the base.

Almost 1,800 tons of a special material called SylvaX will be used this year to fill potholes on state highways and county roads.

At a cost of almost $104,000, this material is more than twice as expensive as asphalt, but it can be used in cold, wet weather. So if you see a worker shoveling material on a cold day into a pothole filled with water, don't consider it a wasted effort. This material can be effective even in those conditions.

If you add the cost of labor and equipment, the average cost of repairing a pothole is currently estimated to be about $17 each.

Another 24,000 tons of hot mix asphalt, at a cost of almost $600,000, will be used this summer to fill potholes and patch or resurface short stretches of badly broken up or deteriorating pavement.

Be careful and watch for both potholes and the work crews repairing them this spring.

Join NACC now

Citizens become outraged at the highhanded and arrogant supposition of the Township Boards that only they know what is best for community planning, and often feel that local input is not only disregarded, but not wanted. The NACC hopes to act as a conduit for better communication and understanding between the Townships and their residents.

You as citizens can have a voice in how your township grows. We members of NACC hope more residents will take an active part in running our townships, by writing letters or attending meetings, with your suggestions for a better community.

If you are interested in joining NACC, please write with a contribution of $5.00/person to P.O. Box 890, Lake Orion, MI 48035. We will soon have our own "hotline" which you can call with your concerns and information for action.

P.S. Oxford Township presently has a vacancy on its Planning Commission, and has proposed to advertise for applicants. Let's see how the township follows its own "goals for the future".

Trash compactor proposed instead

Independence Spring Cleanup in limbo this year

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Price and progress may interfere with the annual spring cleanup in Independence Township this year.

Board members delayed a decision on setting the annual cleanup weekend to find a way to afford it. In the meantime, Supervisor Frank Ronk is to investigate the purchase of a compactor, to act as an alternative to the cleanup.

In past years, Spring Cleanup was a whole weekend when residents could haul refuse to the township department of public works (DPW) building on Flemings Lake Road.

When first established, it was free; but rising landfill costs prompted the township board to charge a fee in recent years. To dump, residents were required to prove residency in the township before they could participate.

In 1988, the township collected just over $7,000 in fees, while the cost of the cleanup totaled more than $40,000, said DPW Director George Anderson.

"Nothing has been budgeted (this year)," Clerk Richard Holman told the board. "We can not afford it."

Holman added that the township could come up with the money only by taking it from another budget but that he was opposed to dipping into the township's regular fund balance for the cost.

Supervisor Frank Ronk suggested the township purchase a compactor for the DPW building as an alternative to the annual cleanup.

"We would eliminate that crazy thing in May," Ronk said, referring to the cleanup. "It's almost out of hand. At the end of two days, it's collapse time; and we have a mess to clean up," Ronk said.

The compactor would be used year-round to dispose of spring cleaning items, Ronk explained.

A separate dumpster would be used for bigger items such as stoves or refrigerators, and no toxic or liquid materials would be accepted.

The contents of the dumpster would be sent to a sorting facility and would then either be recycled or taken to a landfill, Ronk said.

"Since the recycling issue has been raised, we're trying to increase the tempo," Ronk added.

Board members questioned how the procedure would work and whether the cleanup would be missed by residents.

"There is a positive feeling in the township about the cleanup," said Trustee Mel Vaara.

"I wonder if residents along (for example) Mann Road will take time to go all the way out to Flemings Lake Road," said Trustee Frank Millard.

Trustee William Vandermark suggested that the regular 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekday hours be extended to Saturdays.

Ronk told the board that he would investigate the cost and details of the compactor concept and would present them to the board at a later date.

Greenpeace solicitations on hold

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Representatives from Greenpeace Action will not solicit donations in Independence Township unless the board gets more details on their activities.

Members voted April 4 to table the solicitation request from the non-profit organization, based in Ann Arbor, until the board determines whether they are authorized by a national chapter.

Most solicitation requests don't need board approval according to a solicitation ordinance in Independence Township, but Clerk Richard Holman explained that the nature of the solicitation and the extent of the canvassing prompted him to bring it to the full board.

Greenpeace representatives asked to go door-to-door from May 1 to through June 30 during the hours of 5-9 p.m. on weekdays; and from 1-6 p.m. on Saturdays.

The organization submitted its canvassing request in a letter to the township clerk, with a copy of the staff list and a listing of vehicles to be used.

The letter explained that the group is working on issues such as nuclear disarmament, wildlife preservation and toxic pollution.

Township board members questioned whether the local efforts were part of the international effort and whether the hours could be regulated.

"I'd like some confirmation of who these people are," said Trustee Frank Millard.

"(As part of Greenpeace International), I would expect them to have stationary with little whales," Millard said.

Holman told members that he would confirm the group's status and report back to the board.

"We get phone calls about twice a week," said Trustee Daniel Travis. "I don't like the hours; I don't like the intrusion time."

Treasurer John Lutz told members that his neighbors were concerned with strangers coming to the door and would prefer not to be canvassed at all.

He was advised by township attorney Gerald Fisher that the group has a legal right to canvass the area.

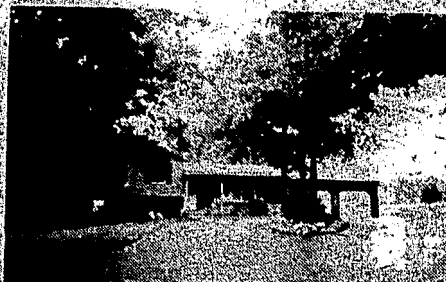

Supervisor Frank Ronk told members that his office should be contacted if any canvasser becomes too persistent or too belligerent.

Citizens for Orderly Growth

When Citizens for Orderly Growth (COG) first began, we decided that one of the first things we should do is conduct a survey of Independence Township residents on a broad range of issues related to future growth of the township.

With the help of Lucia Wilford, a market professional in Dallas, Texas, a comprehensive survey was developed. Lucia, who is the daughter of COG members Jerry and Lucia Wilford, also tabulated the results.

COG members distributed questionnaires in 22 areas covering about 5,700 homes. Contacting every 10th house, or the adjacent one if no one was home, they hand-delivered four-page questionnaires to 567 residents. Because the views of permanent residents were of primary concern, multiple unit rental complexes were purposely excluded.

Recipients were asked to complete and mail their questionnaires to COG by June 20, 1988; 274 questionnaires were returned.

The 48 percent response, which is exceptionally high, can be perceived as indicative of residents' concerns about growth. We also believe that the responses are representative of the township as a whole.

The questionnaires were sorted and tallied by the 22 areas and by four geographic quadrants, but the most useful tally was that of the entire township. The complete survey results were sent to the township planning commission and township board.

The survey numbers are not only large enough to provide meaningful percentages, but comparisons of responses from specific areas show little variation in concerns and interests throughout the township.

The following findings are based on analysis of the 274 questionnaires, representing the township as a whole:

- Relative to the rate of growth, 70 percent of the Residents happy with parks;

unhappy with roads;
don't want condos

Doug

respondents feel that growth is "a little too rapid" or "much too rapid." It is "just right" for 21 percent and "a little too slow" or "much too slow" for six percent.

● As to types of housing, 88 percent feel moderate or extensive development of single family homes is appropriate. Of this number, 47 percent opted for only moderate development, indicating some concern about increases in density within the township.

● Continuing with the above category, 62 percent to 64 percent want very limited to no development of condominiums or townhouses. About 25 percent favor moderate or extensive development of this type of housing.

● Apartment complexes and mobile homes are looked upon with little favor. Only 13 percent approve of even moderate development of 20-unit apartments and six percent of large complexes. Seven percent agree to moderate development of mobile home parks; the balance want very limited or no development of such parks.

How well is the township prepared to provide the necessary services to meet future needs?

● Two-thirds of the respondents are "very satisfied" with parks and recreation facilities. Six to 10 percent are "somewhat satisfied" and the remainder expressed some degree of dissatisfaction or had no opinion.

● A little more than 40 percent feel that the township is "somewhat prepared" or "very well prepared" to provide adequate crime/traffic control in the future. About 47 percent feel the township is "somewhat unprepared" or "not at all prepared" in this area.

● Fewer than 30 percent feel that road building and road repair will be adequately handled in the future. Sixty percent feel it will not.

● Forty-seven percent feel that the township is "somewhat prepared" or "very well prepared" to provide appropriate schooling in the future. Forty-one percent do not.

Although 82 percent of the respondents expect their taxes to continue increasing, those elements that are often thought to reduce the tax burden — light industry, office complexes and research centers — are not viewed with enthusiasm. About 80 percent of the respondents want "very limited" or, at most, "moderate" development of this kind.

The COG survey also covered retail establishments, health care, recreation and financial/legal services. Unfortunately, space does not permit covering all portions of the questionnaire. However, if anyone has any questions or would like to discuss the survey, please feel free to call me at 625-8474.

Dandy Lion Nursery School and Child Care Center Inc.

PHILOSOPHY STATEMENT

Dandy Lion Nursery School and Child Care Center was established to enhance developmental growth of all children and provide parents with a quality child care center. Children are guided to develop an initiative for learning, as well as a comfortable sense of self.

Children are grouped according to their developmental age, and activities are provided to enhance their skill levels. Dandy Lion Nursery School and Child Care Center is committed to the development of all aspects of the child: his or her self image, creativity, physical potential, and emotional growth.

The way in which a child views him or herself is the stepping stone from which he or she approaches all aspects of life. Children who feel loved, safe, and secure, develop a confidence that allows them to take risks, to try. The environment we maintain for the child stimulates their interest and encourages their natural curiosity and allows them to experience success again and again.

Our Pre-school Program includes interest areas in science, creative movement, art, math, music, and language. Our program has experienced teachers in the appropriate areas. At all times there will be a minimum of one staff member for every eight children. We are now accepting registrations for our summer and fall programs.

Newcomb's Service and Auto Sales

Newcomb's Service and Auto Sales - probably one of the few independent full service dealers in Auburn Hills.

Ron Smith, or "Smitty", as he is fondly called by his customers, the General Manager for the last 10 years of Newcomb's has this to say: "Because we're small, we work hard to earn business. In most cases we're on a first-name basis. Our low overhead gives us the price advantage and our pride makes you believe in us."

Tim Carpenter, Body Shop Manager echoes Smitty's sentiments. "I work for the customer's approval. I'm not satisfied with slip shod collision work."

Upwards of sixty automobiles priced from $100 to $7,000 may be seen & driven at Newcomb's large used car facility.

Located conveniently south of the Palace of Auburn Hills. Stop in and meet the friendly staff at Newcomb's.

Sewer on tap for summer

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

After almost a year of preparations, the Sashabaw Road sewer project faces one last hurdle before construction can begin as scheduled this summer.

Independence Township Board members voted 6-1 on April 4 to obtain easements along the proposed sewer line and to authorize the sale of bonds to finance the $390,000 project.

Easements — which grant the right to use property belonging to another for certain public projects — must be obtained from about 10 property owners along the sewer line before any work can be done.

Voting yes were Supervisor Frank Ronk, Clerk Richard Holman, Treasurer John Lutz and trustees, Frank Millard, Daniel Travis and Mel Vaara. Voting no was Trustee William Vandermark, who has said throughout the planning of the project that a some of the property owners did not want the sewer.

Thirty-two property owners will finance the interest and principle payments on the bonds over a 15-year period as part of a special assessment district established in February.

Each parcel of land within the special assessment district is taxed according to how much it would use the sewer if the property were developed as currently zoned.

Several property owners have argued that the special assessment costs are too high and that their property should not be included in the district.

Dissenting property owners, however, did not file suit in circuit court within the time frame needed in order to dissolve the special assessment district.

The sewer line is planned along Sashabaw Road between McDonald's Restaurant and Waldon Road.

Construction may be completed this fall if work begins as scheduled.

Bean soup asked for from afar

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Bean soup must be big in China, and Alaska, and a lot of other places inside and outside this country.

Gini Schultz's Bountiful Bean Soup, in particular, seems to be getting a lot of interest these days, judging from the requests she's received in the mail for more of it.

Packaged under the name of Fragrant Hill Farm, the bean soup is one of many items, including herb teas and spice packets, that Gini markets at stores and occasional craft shows as well as at her family's Main Street Antiques and Country Store in Clarkston.

In the past, Gini has received requests from people around the country for packages of Bountiful Bean Soup.

"Mostly, it's people who received it as a gift and write and want more," she explains.

But in March when she received a request from China, on official letterhead of Royally Enterprises Company, Manufacturer, Exporter, and Importer in Taiwan, she was pretty surprised.

A couple of weeks later, she received a request from a woman Juneau, Ala.

"I don't want to get into the export thing, but I will respond to the request from Alaska and other states," Gini says.

And what does she think of all the attention her Bountiful Bean Soup mix, a blend of 11 different beans plus an herb packet for seasoning, is getting?

"I thought it was hysterical," Gini says, laughing. "I didn't realize my soup was quite so famous."

GINI SCHULTZ'S Bountiful Bean Soup Mix is more than just a local favorite.

Curbside pickup successful

Paper recycling in progress at Clarkston Disposal

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Everyone is talking about it and planning for it in Oakland County. But recycling already plays an active role at Clarkston Disposal Service in Independence Township.

Owner Rick Detkowski began curbside recycling of newspaper at Oakhill Estates in Springfield Township in February. Since then, he has added curbside recycling service on Independence Township, Bloomfield Hills and Waterford routes.

Detkowski purchased 800 plastic bins for customers to use for placing newspapers at curbside and has applied for state grant money ("Quality of Life" bond money) to purchase more bins and a recycling truck.

Currently, Clarkston Disposal Service has generated about a 60 percent rate of recycling for newspapers in the "orchards" subdivision area of Independence Township where he has 300 bins, about 65 in Bloomfield where he has 350 bins, and about 50 percent in Waterford, where the remainder of the bins have been placed with customers.

In Oakhill Estates, where he hasn't placed the bins yet, the return is lower, about 20-30 percent.

"I'm thinking of putting bins on all my routes," Detkowski says. "You get better results with the bins."

He is also considering adding stackable bins, for recycling glass and plastic as well.

Currently, he has to haul the newspapers to Royal Oak for recycling, but he has plans in the works for a recycling center of his own in this area that would be for all source-separated recyclable materials, including yard

CLARKSTON DISPOSAL Service employee Brad Potter collects newspaper from bins and places them in a recycling truck on a route in Independence Township. Clarkston Disposal is active in newspaper recycling, and owner Rick Detkowski plans to build a recycling center in the northern Oakland County area.

Paper recycling for community finally begins

waste, plastic, metals, glass, paper and cardboard.

Deikowski has already presented plans for Clarkston Disposal Material Recovery Facility to Oakland County and is waiting for approval from the county to be included in the county's solid waste plan.

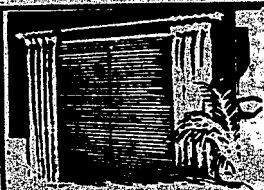

Recycling is a key component of Oakland County's plan to solve the problem of nearly 3,000 tons of solid waste created daily by residents.

Deikowski sees recycling as an important part of the solution, and adds that people need to be more environmentally aware today. From statistics compiled by the Ecology Center in Ann Arbor, he gathered the following eye-opening facts:

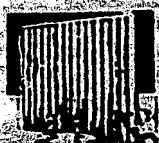

1. One three-foot stack of newspapers equals one tree.
2. It takes about 80 acres of trees to produce the Sunday New York Times just once.
3. Every person in the United States throws away about 540 pounds of paper a year.
4. Nature recycles a tin can into dust in 100 years; an aluminum can takes 500 years, and a glass bottle takes a million years.
5. For every $11 spent on groceries, $1 is spent on packaging.
6. The average family generates about 210 pounds of garbage each month.

PAUL READING reaches for the ball during his match against Pat Gladys of Rochester Adams.

Tennis team loses first on the road

Highlanders win 6-1 with strong showing

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Only Keith Turner's win at No. 1 singles prevented a shutout in the tennis team's season opener against Rochester Adams Friday.

The host Highlanders always field a tough team, but the Wolves nearly topped them last year (a 4-3 loss for Clarkston) and Coach Dick Swartout believed his crew would get over the hump this time around.

But that's not to say the loss spells doom for the rest of the season. On the contrary, things look pretty rosy for the Wolves in the Greater Oakland Activities League.

With a number of experienced players returning — a commodity none of the other league schools can boast of — Clarkston is the pre-season team to beat.

Turner, David Reading (No. 2 singles), Ian Halleran (No. 3 singles), Paul Reading (No. 4 singles) and the doubles team of B.J. Deloney and Kevin Ortwine provide Swartout with plenty of depth.

But on Friday, Adams had too much for the Wolves to handle.

Turner topped Ed Pasternak 7-6, 3-6, 6-3 at No. 1 singles in the only three-set match of the afternoon.

Clarkston returned to action Tuesday against another top team, Milford, and Swartout expects a battle to the finish. Look for results in next week's edition.

Wolves lose opener

Team unity necessity for success, head coach says

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

While losing to a strong team like Milford isn't a disgrace, it wasn't the best the girls track team could do either.

"We are capable of winning those kind of meets," said Coach Gordie Richardson. "We are having trouble putting it all together."

One emerging star in the 74-54 loss to Milford on April 6 is sophomore Carrie Roeser who was a member of two winning relays and finished second in the 1600-meter run and the 800. In the latter, she turned in a personal-best time of 2 minutes, 35.6 seconds.

"It was a real good day for her," the coach said. "She worked hard. We knew she was good last year, but we didn't think she had improved her times this much."

Others excelled as well. Senior Nicole Chinavare, who ran cross country in the fall, won the 800 and the 1600 and ran a leg in the two winning relays.

In the 100 and 200 runs, Michelle Folwell was the top gun for the Wolves.

Sonya Schaffer won the 400 and took part in the winning relays. Nicole Hocking won the long jump.

Senior Bree Michelsen finished third in the 100 hurdles and sophomore Stacey Secatch took third in the shot put with a put of 26 feet, 9 3/4 inches. It was Secatch's first varsity competition in the event, the coach said, and he was pleased with the result.

Milford won the 400 and 800 relays, and that's what turned the meet around, the coach said. Since Clarkston wasn't as strong as Milford in the field events, the Wolves needed to pick up points in the relays.

"We are not blessed with a whole lot of team speed," the coach said. "After we lost the two sprint relays, I knew we would be in trouble."

With a number of young inexperienced athletes on the team, much practice time has been spent on techniques. As the season wears on, the coach hopes the team will learn and grow together.

"We need to have everybody dedicated to being the best track team we can be," said Richardson. "We haven't pulled together."

The schedule didn't provide any breaks for the Wolves after the Milford meet. The Wolves faced Oakland County champion Rochester Adams on Tuesday.

KELLY O'NEIL of Clarkston churns out the final few steps of his relay leg during a season-opening meet at home against Milford last Thursday.

Time Out

Let
it
snow

Peter Auchter

Jingle bells, Jingle bells . . . oops, wrong season. Somehow snow without Christmas to look forward to just isn't the same. In fact, it's rather upsetting.

Worse yet, it wipes out a day of spring sports just when things were starting to get fun around here. Even more upsetting.

The girls soccer team, boys tennis team and both track teams kicked off the season last week, but the baseball team was stymied in its attempt due to poor weather on Monday. Hopefully, the softball team had better luck on Tuesday.

Oh well, I guess there always will be a tomorrow until the season ends. Then we'll have to wait until next year. And so on....

Last Friday, not exactly a great spring day, a tennis player from Rochester Adams decided battling the weather was just a case of mind over matter — he wasn't wearing any socks.

Last Sunday, opening day in a softball league I'm a part of was wiped out by the snowy conditions. I guess the thermal socks can go back in the drawer for another week.

***

Just a little note for all you faithful Time Out readers: the movie "Major League" is a scream. (In adult language, that means it's two thumbs up.)

As reported here first last week, the movie (you won't believe the ending, especially if you follow sports) tells of the trials and tribulations of a major league baseball team (the Cleveland Indians.)

Once again, and this time I actually saw the movie, I say it's a must see. (Honestly, the producers aren't paying me a cent for these valuable endorsements the past couple of weeks. They even didn't give me a free preview. I just like the movie.)

For you interested sports fans out there who also happen to own a Nintendo system (remember, you got it for Christmas), watch for reviews of the new sports games on the market. They're a real scream.

Maybe it will go away

Pain is the warning that there's a problem in our bodies. In chiropractic health care, we are not so much concerned with treating the pain as with correcting the cause of the pain. Ignoring the warning allows the damage to become worse. That's why it's important not to just wait for it to go away. Do something about it today... the chiropractic way.

Youth slows soccer team

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

After beginning the spring campaign with a deceptively lopsided loss to Lakeland, girls soccer coach Hana Olsen looks for better things to come in the weeks ahead.

The Clarkston High soccer team lost a 5-1 decision to the Eagles on April 4 but several top players were missing and others lacked playing experience.

"We have a young team," the coach said. "It wasn't a bad loss at all."

Kim Kolody, a sophomore, began her varsity career in the nets for the Wolves and played well despite the number of goals scored against her, the coach said. Erin McAuliffe and Sabre Lachman also turned in good performances at the opener.

Karen Lowe, a center defenseman, scored the lone Wolves' goal off a direct free kick.

Missing from the lineup for one reason or another were junior goalie Katie Rieman and midfielder Tami Mitchell. Both are expected to return and have a great impact on the team, the coach said.

Clarkston has a busy week ahead with four games scheduled for the next seven days. The Wolves begin the stretch at home against Oxford on April 12, then travel to Lapeer East the following day. They host Greater Oakland Activities League rival Lake Orion on Monday, April 17, and then face league foe Waterford Mott two days later on the road.

Track team falls to tough Milford

With a little more support, the boys track team may have beaten powerful Milford last Thursday. As it stands, the team will have to settle for individual glory.

While the Wolves won many events, the visitors piled up points by capturing second- and third-place finishes, Coach Walt Wyniemko said.

"We came up a little bit short," he said. "The problem is you have to come up with those seconds and thirds. We knew coming in it was going to be a tough meet."

Individually, Jody Lueck won the long jump, high jump and 110-meter hurdles. He also ran a leg on a winning relay team.

J.J. Price led all discus throwers with a toss 132 feet, 1 inch. Jeff Shupe won the 100 and the 200 dashes.

In the relays, Lueck, Erik Becker, Shupe and Marc Pierson combined to win the 800, while Dane Davis, Becker, Brett Kinzler and Shupe won the 400.

The team returned to action Tuesday against Rochester Adams.

Seniors win tourney

Using just six players, the Clarkston Merchants senior citizen volleyball team won the Warren Senior Class A-Minor Tournament recently.

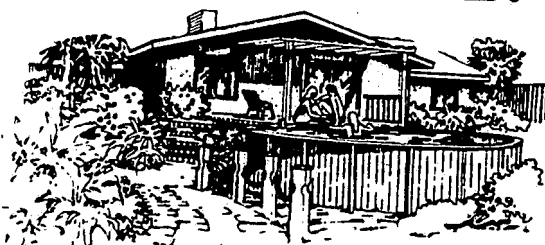

"Blackey" Blackerby, Glen Blackerby, Max Jarrette, Mike Miszazak, Pete Secord and Ed Cable combined their talents to beat Troy in the finals 15-6, 15-6.

Final standings of the league, before the tournament, follow: 1, Independence 45-0; 2, Waterford 28-17; Clinton Raiders 26-19; Troy Spartans 16-29; Warren Survivors 12-33; Warren Hawks 8-37.

JENNY DAVIS gives it her all during the long jump competition against Milford last Thursday.

RICHARD THOMPSON, Oakland County Prosecutor and resident of Independence Township, talks to teens about drugs.

Prosecutor praises CHS teens

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston High School and other winners in the Big League Challenge were honored at a reception hosted by the Oakland County Prosecutor's office April 5.

CHS brought home a first-place trophy in this year's Big League Challenge, an anti-drug campaign competition organized by the prosecutors in Oakland, Wayne, Macomb and Genesee counties.

The campaign kicked off last fall with Detroit area sports celebrities joining in issuing the challenge, and it culminated in March with an awards ceremony attended by all participating schools.

Winning schools in Oakland County, those who earned the most points for their anti-drug efforts, were honored last Wednesday in the Oakland County Commissioner's Auditorium.

"You're one of my favorite groups," Oakland County Prosecutor Richard Thompson told the group of students, teachers and others involved in the campaign. "We're here to celebrate your efforts in the anti-drug campaign."

It was ironic, he told them, that at that very moment two floors up, two Rochester students — one a class president — were being arraigned on felony charges for delivery of drugs.

Even though the county has doubled its effort, he said, "We can't do it alone. That's why I'm happy there are people like you assisting us."

Law enforcement attacks the supply side, but as long as there is demand, there will be supply. They hope to eliminate the demand through programs like those in schools today, he said, by educating people, getting students involved in anti-drug campaigns and influencing their peers.

One tool Thompson talked about which hasn't as yet been used in Oakland County is the citizen's grand jury. It would allow the county to compel people to give testimony under oath or face charges.

"We need to get to those people at the top (of the drug trade) who insulate themselves (from the law)," he said.

He also thanked the students for their work and asked them to continue.

Sheriff John Nichols echoed Thompson's praise for the students: "Nothing can be successful without getting to the users — the victims," he said.

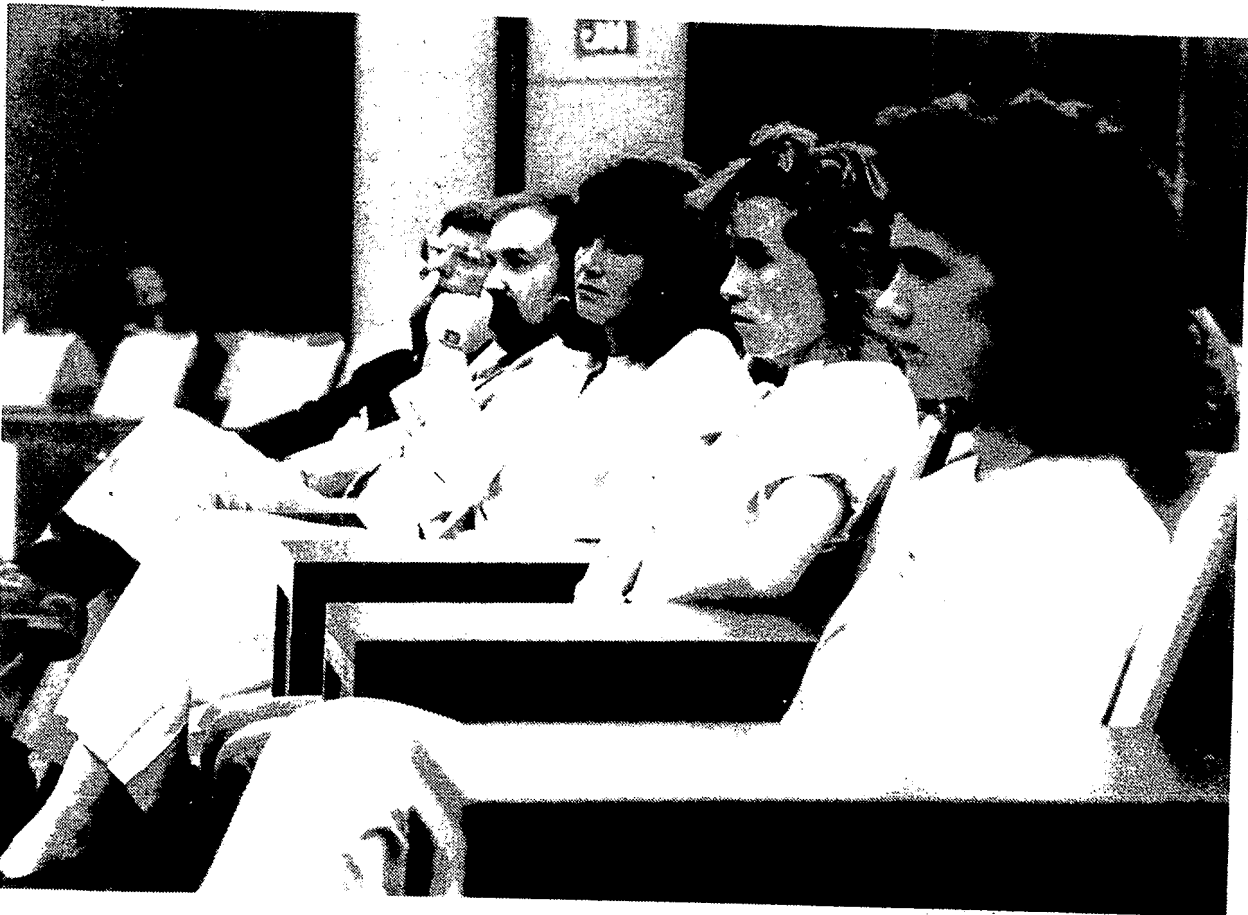

There are no real survivors in drugs, he added.

"The real hope is groups of people like you who take the challenge," he said. "It takes a great deal of fortitude and stamina to stand up to it. You deserve all the credit in the world."

Attending from Clarkston were the two CHS staff members who coordinated the Big League Challenge there, Katie MacKay and Bill Curtis, two sophomores, Britt Ried and Kimberly Kurz, as well as the Rev. William Schram of Sashabaw Presbyterian Church. All are involved in the Clarkston community anti-drug campaign.

Reporter's Notebook

When discussing the failure of the fire station bond issue, Trustee Mel Vaara scolded fellow board members with the following statement: "Some of us didn't work hard enough for its passage. Maybe if we had worked harder it would've passed. Many were not even aware that there was a vote."

In another special election matter, Clerk Richard Holman credited Waterford Township for helping Independence Township save money. Special ballot boxes were borrowed from the township next door to accommodate a paper ballot election. Taxpayers saved about $1,200 with the use of paper ballots, Holman said.

The surprisingly tame public hearing on the Thendara Park paving project drew comment from the Independence Township Board April 4. "That was the smoothest, most interesting, most cooperative public hearing I've ever experienced," said Supervisor Frank Ronk, who has seen several. "It's certainly one of the largest with regard to the most impact on residents. We're assessing $10,000 (for most residents). I would like to commend those people there."

A Clarkston area resident called in to inform us that a bunch of Clarkston High School seniors had observed "Senior Skip Day" by showing up at the Detroit Tigers home opener April 7.

Although they can get in trouble for skipping school, the seniors did it anyway.

The caller was concerned because he heard the news on a Detroit-area radio station which interviewed the students outside the stadium, where they stood with their hot dogs and beer. Skipping is one thing, but drinking and driving is a totally different story, he said.

When Gary Haner accepted the position of Superintendent of Clarkston Schools last year, he was returning to the same district where he and his wife did their student teaching over 20 years ago. Now the Haners are carrying their return to Clarkston one step further.

They just purchased a home on Snowapple Drive, Independence Township, the same street they lived on before when they resided in Clarkston.

Florist asks township to ban street-side vendors

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A plea from a local florist may result in severe restrictions for vendors in Independence Township.

Board members promised to consider a vendor ordinance after hearing a complaint from the owners of Waterford Hill Florist during the March 4 township meeting.

"Vendors on street corners sell potted plants," said

Belinda Seal, co-owner of Waterford Hill Florist. "That hurts us."

Seal said she had contacted several other florists, and the owners agreed with her.

"We have five major holidays that get us through the year," said co-owner Theresa Petherbridge. The two told the board that vendors come with trucks filled with 700-800 plants and sell them.

"We have to pay (sales tax, property tax and personal business tax) on what they're selling off of a truck," Petherbridge added.

Board members expressed surprised that a vendor ordinance did not exist.

"We have a solicitor ordinance that only covers people going door-to-door," explained Clerk Richard Holman.

Holman said that some vendors have been given restricted permission by the township zoning board of appeals to sell goods at a given time and place.

But even restricted vendors damage florists' livelihood, according to Waterford Hill's owners.

"We want you to enact an ordinance that will get rid of these people," Seal said. "If we pay taxes, and we're here in the community, that's our right."

Township attorney Gerald Fisher told members that the board could enact an ordinance to either limit vendor activity or disallow vendors altogether.

Although most board members favored a vendor ordinance of some type, some urged caution.

Trustee Daniel Travis warned that a vendor ordinance could affect non-profit organizations such as Girl Scouts, who sell cookies each year.

"You have to look at public benefit along with the affect on private venture," Travis said.

"We're going to need it," said Trustee Mel Vaara. "We don't want anyone just setting up on any corner."

"It looks trashy," added Trustee Frank Millard. Supervisor Frank Ronk said the board would work on it.

Jobs for youth offered

Summer work and job training is available to 14 through 21-year-olds who meet certain qualifications, but interested people should call now for an appointment because the application deadline is Friday, April 28.

The offerings are from the Clarkston Career Center for those who meet income guidelines or have a disability or handicap.

Those interested will learn skills such as how to fill out an application, how to succeed in an interview, and what to expect on the job — all in preparation for the summer jobs they will receive.

The jobs pay minimum wage and begin June 19 for eight weeks; around mid-August the jobs will require 30-35 hours a week.

A variety of jobs working in the schools are offered, including: maintenance, painting, clerical, library-aides, camp aides and day-care aides. An effort will be made to match jobs with participant interests.

Applicants must be a resident of Independence, Orion, White Lake, or Waterford townships, or of the cities of Pontiac or Auburn Hills.

The Summer Youth Employment Training Program is funded through the Federal Job Training Act Partnership.

A parent or legal guardian must accompany youth for the initial application. For more information and an appointment contact Jill Boggess at 674-4791 at the Clarkston Career Center.

2 special meetings

Possible program cuts or the 1989-90 school year will be the topic before the Clarkston Board of Education during a special meeting on Monday, April 17, at 7 p.m.

The budget cuts are recommendations that, if necessary, the district would make for the next school year.

Another special meeting is planned for 7:30 p.m. Monday, April 24, in the board offices to consider teacher layoffs.

The next regular school board meeting is Monday, May 8, at 7:30 p.m.

Anti-Diet Weight Loss

The New Alternative

SUFFERING IS OPTIONAL

If you have tried dieting in the past and failed, you are not alone. For many, diet is part of the problem, not it's solution. Thin people don't want to eat more than they should. So how come you do? When you learn to think about food the way thin people do, then you will eat casually and controllably, just as they do.

Based on successful work with overeaters in therapy, this unique, ten-week program was developed to help healthy people to finally control their eating without the need for discipline and the constant struggle against temptation.

WHY WAIT?

This small-class experience is not another diet or food supplement program, but a new opportunity for a permanent change in your relationship with food and your body. You can be happy with both, NOW.

PREVIEW: April 18, 1989 7 p.m.-9 p.m.

To give you a full description of this effective solution to over-eating, we offer a full, two-hour preview at our offices. Admission is $10. Call early to reserve your place, as seating is extremely limited.

Opinion of Bill Myers

Of planes and trains

William A. Myers is a retired Lapeer County editor and investments manager from Boca Raton, Fla.

The Wall Street Journal tells us that people are objecting to airplane fares and are taking trains instead.

My cousin Patty Cripps in Flint, Mich., was one of those. Instead of flying to Florida in January, as she has for years, she and her daughter Nancy chose to come by train. It wasn't easy.

Time was, if you wanted to go to Florida this way - pre-World War II, that is - you'd take the C&O to Detroit, catch the 11 p.m. train and stay on it until you saw palm trees 36 hours later. You were then in Miami.

Since then, a few detours have been added. You can take the Grand Trunk (I will not call it Amtrak; it was and always will be the Grand Trunk), but you don't head south. Nothing as logical as that. You go west to Chicago.

Once in Chicago, then you reverse and go east. That's right, east. East to Philadelphia. By now, 24 hours have elapsed. In days of yore, you would have been in Atlanta. But ugh! You're in Philadelphia - and there's no train until the next morning.

"But that's all right," said Patty. "I've never been in Philadelphia, and that will be neat."

Only people who have never been in Philadelphia talk like that.

Now it is D+2, and the travelers are still shivering and shaking and dreaming of Florida. But they are of stout heart. Another day and a half and they will see the sun.

The round-trip will cost them $700, compared to $300 by air.

You have to add a little to the train fare to pay for that bottle of Pepto Bismol you'll need after the cellophane-packed sandwiches at the train lunch wagon.

After all those smart-aleck observations on trains, guess who is going through the Canadian Rockies by train this spring? Jennifer Birdsong and I, that's who.

And the fellow who tipped us off about the trip is none other than Canada's Flying War Ace, Burke Seitz of Toronto. Not many people know about it, naturally, because the railroads don't believe in advertising their wares.

The Canadian National and Canadian Pacific have been doing the transcontinental trip for a century or so, but until recently it wasn't possible to arrange an all-daylight ride through the Rockies. Best you could do was catch a late evening train out of Banff or Jasper, see the Rockies for an hour or two before dark, and then wake up in the morning in Vancouver.

You slept through gorgeous mountain scenery that rivals the best of Switzerland. It took a bit of train-scheduling, but the railroads managed to work it out.

But now the trip has been split into two segments. You can see the whole Wild West in broad daylight.

We'll take the train at Calgary in the morning, go through Banff, where the Rockies begin, and start climbing to the Continental Divide. They used to have a little stream there with its flow diverted so that half flowed to the Pacific and the other half back to Lake Superior and the Atlantic. Or maybe the Hudson's Bay. It doesn't matter much. Streams don't care where they go; it's a merry life.

Then the train goes through a figure-eight tunnel in the side of the mountain and comes out underneath the tracks where it first disappeared. That's how it gets down to Kicking Horse Canyon, where you see nothing but white water for hours as you follow the twisty path through the Rockies. Mount Robson, some 14,000 feet, is to the north. It's covered with glaciers around the peak.

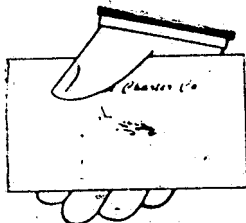

The country is as wild as it ever was; except for the railroad and a highway. No towns, no billboards, not even a McDonald's. By late afternoon, the train gets to Kamloops, and you stay overnight there.

Come morning, you reboard and continue to Vancouver, through the Coastal mountains, daylight all the way.

We'll stay only two days in Vancouver, because we've been there a couple of times together. Then

Delays from trains offset high airfare

we'll take the train back, again stopping at Kamloops overnight.

This time, instead of returning to Banff and Calgary, we'll branch off to the north and go to Jasper National Park in northern Alberta. This is my favorite of all places in the Rockies. Jennifer hasn't seen it before.

We'll rent a car there after a few days' stay and drive down the valley to Lake Louise, Banff and Calgary, and then fly to Michigan for another summer at Beulah on Crystal Lake.

Lake Louise is sort of compulsory, because everyone has to say they've been there.

Lake Louise and Banff dredge up some memories of long ago. And I do mean long ago. Calvin Coolidge was president then, and I was wearing short pants. Mother was still trying to housebreak me.

My Dad had gone on ahead on assignment for the Detroit News when he decided he needed some company and telegraphed back for me to join him in Banff. Uncle Bill Forsyth took me to Chicago, put me on the Soo Line, gave the porter two dollars and told him to put me off at Banff. There on the platform was Pappy.

We went on and did about the same trip that Jennifer and I will do this June. As Yogi Berra said, it's déjà vu all over again.

SCHOOL SOCIAL WORKER Dorothy Leaming talks with second graders in Leah Storto's class at Bailey Lake Elementary School during the first session of her three-part "Caring Bears" program, in which she helps pupils learn a wider range of social skills.

Alternative to punching and tattling

Behavior skills taught to elementary students

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston Schools Social Worker Dorothy Leaming uses hypothetical situations, "caring bears" and homework assignments to help first through fourth graders widen their repertoire of behavior skills.

"One of your friends is breaking a rule. ... Discuss how you might handle this."

"A friend is wearing a new outfit ... which you think is fairly ugly. When he/she asks how you like it, what will you say?"

One diplomatic first grader answered the latter question by saying, "I would tell him I liked the buttons."

Leaming says she was motivated by the fact that little children don't have a great repertoire of behavior skills. Punching and "tattle telling" are two skills they do have, however, in response to situations.

Her purpose was to give them wider variety of behavioral alternatives, "to think imaginatively, to become better citizens and to express themselves verbally."

The "Caring Bear" program she developed over the Christmas holidays and introduced to Andersonville Elementary School in the second semester was designed to teach them friendship as well as socialization. She created the program using her own components as well as some she gleaned from conferences and literature.

So far, Leaming has presented her three, 1/2-hour sessions to seven classes at Andersonville and is presenting them to 11 more at Bailey Lake Elementary School.

Those are the two schools where she is the social worker. She has more time now, she adds, since the millage passed last year and there are more social workers in the schools.

"It allows for more creativity in the buildings to do some different types of interventions with kids," she says.

Two "golden rules" the children learn in Leaming's program are:

"I will behave to others as I would like them to behave toward me."

"I will not judge a person until I have walked a mile in their moccasins."

She begins her first session with a discussion of the vignettes, or hypothetical situations for them to consider and a homework assignment.

Reflections

Wednesday, April 12, 1989

Pupils are asked to think of someone who is a friend, then draw a picture and write about one thing they do that helps to be a good friend.

In the second session, there are more vignettes, more discussions and another assignment—find someone new in the community and do something nice for them.

The third session deals with why kids are left out and what can be done about it. She reads to them from the Dr. Seuss book, "The Sneetches." And she finishes up the program with a "friendship circle" of yarn where pupils tell something nice they have done for a friend.

"It is important for (young children) to differentiate between feelings and behavior," Leaming says.

Pupils like the friendship part of the program and related homework assignment, she said. The assignments are bound into a book for each class.

Sometimes, to keep the younger pupils attention throughout the program, she stops for a brief "exercise and stretch" break. But generally, the pupils get pretty involved with the discussion of friendship and socializing. It gets them thinking.

"I think kids have the right ideas but haven't learned the behavior yet," Leaming says.

Also, she says, children are expecting a perfect world. She helps them find the skills to deal with it when they find out it's not.

More food at crafts & cider festival this year

In order to improve on their annual Crafts & Cider Festival the third weekend in September, the Clarkston Community Historical Society plans a couple of changes.

A Marketplace theme will include the normal fare of hot dogs, soda, popcorn and sweets. However, this year the society is encouraging exhibitors to sell canned and preserved foods and for civic groups to offer fresh fruits, breads and other foods.

The society also will develop an area near the playground in Depot Park to display activities geared toward their interest.

The historical society encourages civic groups and individuals who would like to participate in the Marketplace, to contact Larry Gilleland as soon as possible at 625-6017.

ASHLI BALL'S first-place story was about nutrition and the effect of anorexia. She is a seventh-grader at Clarkston Junior High School.

CJHS pupils' papers solve future problems

They may not be world problem solvers just yet, but their ideas won them top honors in a statewide writing contest.

Clarkston Junior High School (CJHS) students Ashli Ball, a seventh-grader, and Shea Kammer, an eighth-grader, were asked to write about future problems as an assignment in their honors English classes.

Teachers Barb Glover and William Rathburg sent in eight entries to the future problem solving writing program based in Ann Arbor.

Of the 300 total entries, Ashli captured first place, and Shea placed second. Seven of the CJHS stories made it to the semi-final round of evaluations.

"I've done this for four years, and this is the best showing from CJHS," said Rathburg.

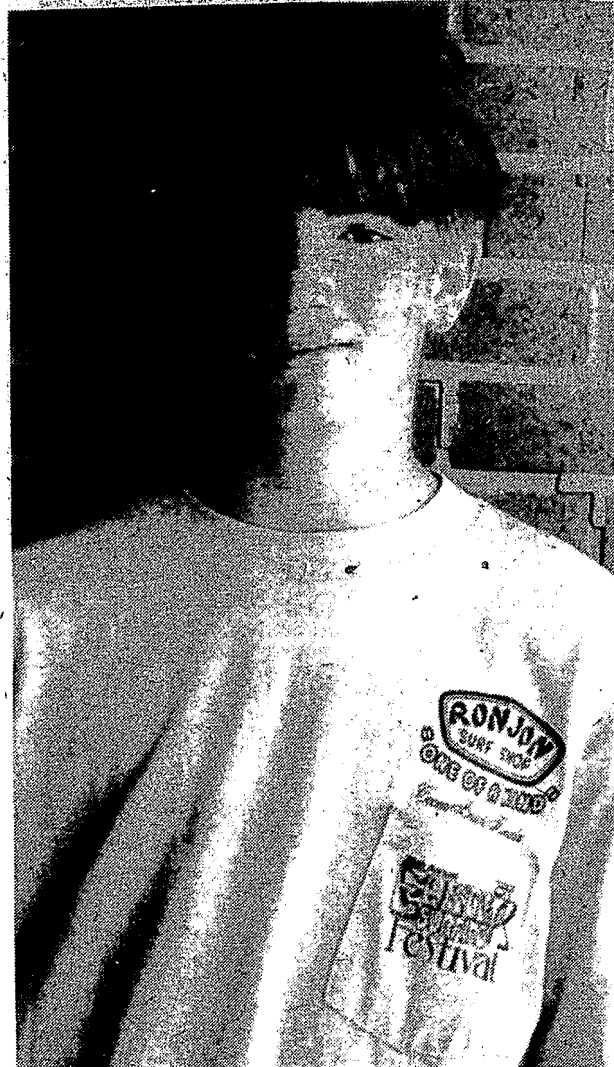

Students entering the future problem solving program are asked to write a short story involving a problem that exists today and will likely last 25 years into the future.

Ashli's piece on nutrition described a young girl and her grandmother who worried that the world would become extinct in a "blind run for slimness."

Shea wrote about energy sources, describing a rich boy who learned that not everyone was prepared for a loss of energy. The boy eventually helped another he found dying alongside a roadway.

Ashli and Shea are to attend a recognition banquet in Ann Arbor. The top three state winners go on to compete in a national contest this summer.

~Tracy King

FUTURE ENERGY sources was Shea Kammer's topic that captured second place. His story described human reactions in a future world depleted of energy.

Maize and blue bonding

Kristen Bilicki

What is it about spring that possesses ordinary people to tan their bodies, run off to the Sunbelt, drive fast with the windows down and blare songs like Joe Walsh's "Life's Been Good to Me So Far," on the radio?

Maybe it has to do with a sense of freedom that comes with the warmth. Cabin fever and bundling up in down coats seem to have finally gotten the best of them.

Just as they thought they couldn't take another snowflake, and the idea of scraping their windows sent chills down their spines as they huddled by heaters on frigid mornings, a new inspirational feeling swept through the air.

With the warmth of spring came the college basketball finals. With that came an attitude of camaraderie for fellow man and Michiganders throughout the state.

Just looking at the TV, reading the paper, walking down the street or sitting in the living room, people gathered in pride. Wolverine hysteria could be witnessed everywhere.

I, being an avid non-sports fan, was amused by this sudden brotherhood among men, boys, women and even girls. It was interesting to watch the excitement of people, who all seemed to exchange the same words: "Well, do you think they can take it?"

Unanimously, the answer was always in favor of a win and a slaughter of whoever stood in the way of the invincible Maize and Blue.

This left me questioning the idea of why? Why all of a sudden did everyone want to "bond?"

I discovered the answer yesterday. I was riding down the expressway with one of these typical sports fans who was telling me how he never doubted the players' abilities and that he knew they would win.

He scoffed at me because I told him that they would lose. "See, see, I told you they would win," he said.

"We're number one; we are the champions!"

I didn't really care if they won or lost; I just wanted to see his reaction to a threat to the unbeatable gladiators, who assembled everyone into one huge brotherhood. I must add that this person was one of the many to throw off the jackets and drive with the wind in his hair as the radio loudly boomed.

Then, as we neared my house, the radio announced the Wolverines won again, and this inspired him more.

The need to share in the thrill of bouncing that ball and throwing it to a game-winning basket as the spring sun beat down was too inviting.

Before I knew it, I also was "shooting" baskets. Unfortunately, most of mine seemed to land everywhere except for the net.

As my teacher in the thrill of victory and another sports fan began to play, I stepped back to the sidelines and began to observe again. This brotherhood amazed me.

As I looked up into the high afternoon sky, I realized the reason for the sudden emphasis on physical activity. Spring fever had invaded, and it seemed to be infecting at the rate of the black plague. People everywhere welcomed Michigan's win as an excuse to get out to vent some of their frustrations, to lighten up and play, basking in the warm, fresh air.

What is it about spring? Who really cares, as long as it brings a little happiness and allows people to put the frozen thoughts of winter behind them. In addition, the association of sports fans and the feeling of companionship with other fans is a nice change from the reality of crime, pain and the slight possibility of still having to scrape frozen windows on a miserable 20-degree morning.

Surviving the tornado season

You are driving down the road and you notice the sky has turned unusually dark. As it begins to rain, you hear a noise that resembles the sound of a roaring train, and in the not so far distance you spot a gray, whirling funnel cloud. What would you do?

One of nature's most catastrophic forms is the tornado. A tornado travels at an incredible speed, sometimes reaching 300 miles per hour, giving it the power to tear through a brick building as if it were made of paper. It can drive a piece of straw through the center of a tree and toss cars as if they were toys.

The destructive path of the tornado cannot be stopped, but with education, we can be prepared for its menacing effects.

When a tornado WATCH is issued, it means conditions are right for a tornado to develop. Be prepared to take shelter and keep informed on the latest weather conditions.

Oakland County Emergency Medical Service (EMS), Emergency-Management offers the following advice to help ensure your safety during the tornado season:

~ A tornado warning means a tornado has been sighted and confirmed in the area. Take cover immediately.

~ When seeking shelter from a tornado, take a flashlight and transistor radio into the shelter area with you. Go to the center of your basement and take cover under a workbench, heavy table or go under a stairway.

~ If no basement is available, seek shelter in the center of the house in a closet or bathroom with no windows.

~ Never go near windows when a tornado threatens, and do not take the time to open one before taking cover.

~ If you are in a mobile home or car, leave immediately and take cover in the nearest permanent structure or lie flat on the ground in the nearest ditch or ravine. Protect your head and body by covering yourself with a blanket or sleeping bag.

For additional information about tornado safety or Tornado Safety Week, contact Gail Christie, manager of EMS/Emergency-Management at 858-5300.

Advice for young people using microwave ovens

It's after school, and children across America are racing home to enjoy one of their favorite late-afternoon activities: eating snacks.

They rush into the kitchen, pull open the refrigerator, pile their favorite sandwich fixings on some bread and head for the microwave oven. Microwave oven? That's right! With more parents employed outside the home these days, children are taking on more household management and self-care responsibilities, according to Elaine Glasser, home economist with M.S.U. Cooperative Extension Service.

And when youngsters cook today, they most frequently use the appliance of the 80's -- the microwave oven.

Here are a few basics that kids and the rest of the family should know for safe and effective use of the microwave oven:

1. Use only microwave-safe utensils -- store microwave-safe utensils in cabinets that can be easily reached by all family members.

2. Cover most foods before cooking -- appropriate covers include:

- White paper towel or napkin when cooking bacon, heating sandwiches or bread;

- Waxed paper when cooking meats, chicken, fruit and some vegetable casseroles;

- Heavy duty plastic wrap when cooking vegetables or fish in uncovered dish (poke holes in wrap to vent heat and steam);

- Glass cover when cooking foods that spatter, casseroles in sauce, and items that require long cooking times.

3. Use potholders -- microwave oven walls don't get hot, but foods and dishes do. Keep potholders handy.

4. Let food stand after cooking -- food continues cooking after it is removed from the oven, so let it stand one or two minutes before serving.

5. Lift lids away from face and eyes -- be careful when removing wraps and tight covers.

6. Keep microwave oven clean -- make sure the oven and its door gasket (seal) are clean at all times.

What's Cooking

On the lighter side

Pat Young

As the weather warms, many people have been out swim suit shopping for the summer months ahead. Some have already donned swim suits during spring break trips to Florida. And then, some may have noticed that a few extra pounds mysteriously collected on their bodies during the winter months.

But not to worry. Those pounds are usually nothing that a little yard work and light eating won't cure. As for the light eating part, here's a great, go-with-everything salad recipe. It's not only pretty to look at, but it's delicious to eat and low in calories.

PARMESAN VEGETABLE BOWL

3 medium zucchini, bias-sliced 1/4 inch thick (about 4 cups)

2 medium tomatoes, cut in wedges and seeded

1 small head cauliflower, broken into small buds

1/2 cup light salad oil

1/3 cup vinegar

1 (1-ounce) envelope light Italian cheese salad dressing mix (or plain light Italian dressing mix and several tablespoons of Parmesan cheese)

In large bowl, combine zucchini, tomatoes and cauliflower. In screw-top jar, combine oil, vinegar and salad dressing mix. Cover and shake vigorously to blend. Pour dressing over vegetables, stirring gently.

Cover and refrigerate for several hours. Drain before serving. Makes about 8 servings.

Pollution patrol

In the Canadian province of Ontario, they're pinching petty polluters.

International Wildlife magazine reports that residents who remove antipollution devices from their cars may find themselves holding a ticket.

The Canadian Ministry of the Environment launched the unique program to keep small violations from building to big environmental problems.

PRAYER
the Parental touch that HEALS

Thursday, April 20, 1989 at 8 pm
by Jean S. Raymond of Ada, Michigan

member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship

Can we expect God to listen to our prayers and to answer them? How do we pray? This lecture explores the ways in which prayer is used in Christian Science to bring about healings of relationships as well as physical healings. It addresses the issues of parents and children, and the relationship of each one of us to God, our heavenly parent. Parables and stories from the Old Testament and the New are used as examples of the timelessness of the Bible as a guide for parents today.

The lecture will be given in the church auditorium of

First Church of Christ, Scientist

71 S. Washington Street, Oxford, Michigan

Friend to Friend

Why are people so insensitive?

Dear Friend to Friend:

I want to ask a girl to the prom but I don't want to do the same old thing.

Do you have any suggestions as to how I can make it more special?

I really want this to be nice, but I don't have any good ideas. Help!

A Romantic at Heart

Dear Romantic:

We're impressed that you are trying to make this special for this girl. She's lucky!

The female members of our panel have a couple of suggestions you might want to try:

* Find out her favorite kind of flower, and send her a bouquet with a note attached asking her to the prom.

* Send her a nice (perhaps engraved) invitation — but send by Federal Express.

* Go to a local T-shirt shop and have the invitation to the prom printed on a T-shirt. Send the T-shirt to her house.

* Send her daily notes (perhaps in rhyme), and on the 5th or 10th day, let that note be the actual invitation to the prom.

* Ask her out to dinner, and over dessert, give her a poem written especially for her by you. Then ask her to the prom.

Maybe these ideas will get you started thinking of things on your own. If a girl is asking a guy to the prom, these suggestions can be used also. Girls can be romantic, too.

Good luck, and we hope you have a good time at the prom.

Dear Friend to Friend:

I was asked, along with 40 other students, by Dr. Robert Burek, the principal of the high school, to write a letter about my favorite teacher in the Clarkston school district.

This was for an academic awards ceremony, and a few of the letters were chosen to be read and presented to the teachers.

My essay wasn't chosen, so I had the opportunity to sit and listen to the ones that were read.

I thought the essays about favorite teachers was absolutely great! It was a positive experience for both the teachers and the students.

The teachers had the chance to hear that they were (and are still) appreciated by their students.

The students had the opportunity to make the teachers happy and let the teachers know about the positive ways they affected the student's lives.

* triggered a lot of emotion in a lot of people, and it was really nice to see. It was a very special addition to an already neat night.

I just wanted to let people know how I felt about the night. It was good for everyone.

Letter Perfect

Dear Letter Perfect:

It certainly sounds like you had a great experience. It's nice when everyone — both students and teachers — come away from an experience feeling good.

It sure must make teachers feel like they are doing something worthwhile. We think most teachers are dedicated to being good instructors and kid's friends.

We're excited that this new idea was such a success and that you had a chance to see it firsthand.

Dear Friend to Friend:

Can you believe this? I am tired of too much positive attention from my boyfriend! Whenever I have a problem, he keeps bugging me until I tell him what it is; then he keeps at me telling me to cheer up, that things will get better, not to worry, etc.

Sometimes this drives me so crazy! There are times when I am mad and don't want to cheer up. I know this sounds bad, but how can I get him to leave me alone at times like these without hurting his feelings?

Grumpy (sometimes)

Dear Grumpy (sometimes):

Relationships are often difficult because you tend to get very close. When somebody cares about you, they don't like to see you unhappy.

Even though you are in a relationship, there are still certain feelings you want to keep to yourself and problems you need to work out on your own. You have a right to be angry or experience any other feelings. It's how you put your feelings and behaviors that makes them right or wrong.

Are you taking your anger out on him? Maybe that's why he wants you to cheer up. After taking a good look at yourself and you can honestly say you're not taking it out on him, you have a choice to make.

You're going to have to pick between gritting your teeth and bearing it, possibly avoiding him, or if things seem to be going pretty smooth, sitting down and telling him that sometimes you have to just enjoy being angry, when he bugs you about it, it only adds to your aggravation and if you're upset with him, you'll tell him.

All relationships have their ups and downs and the important thing is to keep the lines of communication open.

Dear Friend to Friend:

I feel many people are very insensitive at times. It seems as though people don't know when to quit, and they keep on until they hurt other people. They are such jerks!

Like in one class we are trying to learn preventive measures surrounding suicide and some jerk laughs and says, "They should just jump!"

Oh! It makes me so mad!

Then the wonderful conversation about guns in another hour.

It was driving me nuts, I didn't care who was right or wrong, but neither person would listen to the other's side.

I just wish people would be more sensitive toward others.

Frustrated

Dear Frustrated:

We know what you mean. It seems sometimes that everyone is insensitive to everyone else.

At times it is frustrating and a bit overwhelming. What can you do about it?

How about looking for those people who are sensitive and do things to show kindness and understanding toward others.

Try to remember that some kinder and gentler things also tend to happen every day too.

Talk it over with a friend or trusted adult. Talking sometimes helps to put things in perspective.

Not everyone is insensitive, but if they all seem to be, getting your feelings out can ease some of the frustration.

Finally, practice being sensitive in your own life and in the ways you can set a good example for others.

Friend to Friend is provided by a panel of Clarkston High School students working under AWARE, a community organization dedicated to action and education against substance abuse. Some of the questions are actual letters, while others are formulated by the panel from real-life problems. Letters may be addressed in care of The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main, Clarkston, MI 48016.

Visitors to L.B.# Meats + Deli on M-15, Independence Township, may recognize the dress and face of owner Les Lambrecht, but the surroundings may surprise them.

After spending 10 years in the kitchen of the Deer Lake Racquet Club as a chef, Lambrecht now spends his day behind the sparkling counter of his new butcher-deli, open since January.

"My dad has been a butcher all his life, so I picked up both trades," Lambrecht said. "It's a nice combination; it has already paid off."

"When a (customer) comes in, it's easier to sell them what they want; and they ask me how to do this or that with it," Lambrecht said.

The former chef admitted that he misses cooking but said it was time to work for himself.

"Now all the headaches are going to be mine," he said.

Although the shop is monopolized by a huge counter filled with tantalizing meats and cheeses, Lambrecht said the display is not fully representative of what he offers.

"I keep a minimum amount in the counter. Most of my meats are cut fresh to a customer's order," he explained.

What's New in Business

When asked whether the cholesterol craze has affected a business centered around traditionally fatty foods, Lambrecht answered that he has learned to adapt.

"I sell Amish chickens, and I will soon sell Amish cheese," Lambrecht said. He explained that the Amish allow their livestock to grow naturally without the aid of growth-induced hormones, so the products are less fatty.

In addition to the sizable meat and cheese case, L.B.# Meats + Deli features a counter to provide for deli portion of its name.

Although the deli now takes back seat to the butcher part of the business, Lambrecht said the deli will be expanded to accommodate a growing demand.

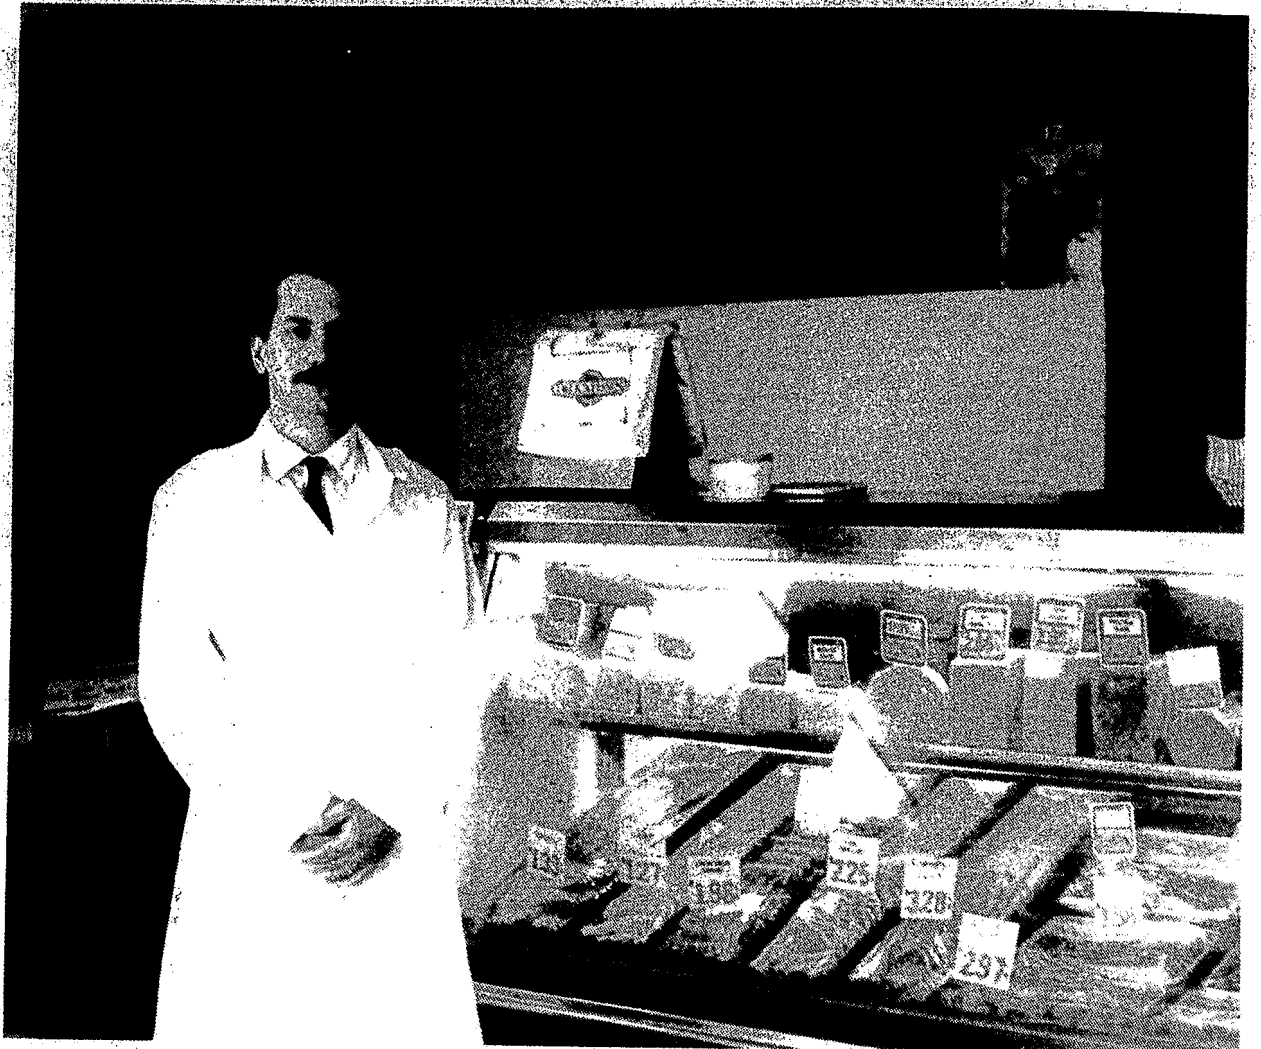

Catering and sausage-making comprise the rest of Lambrecht's business.

The former chef said although many people are puzzled by his transformation from the glamorous role of chef to butcher, he made a practical decision.

"A lot of people asked me why I didn't open up a restaurant," Lambrecht said. "But a restaurant takes a lot more money."

"I bought everything. Everything is paid for," he explained. "With a restaurant you need a financial backer for five years. You may have a good month and then a bad month."

"You have to build up to that."

LES LAMBRECHT, formerly a chef at the Deer Lake Racquet Club, has traded his soup spoon for a carving knife in the creation of L.B.# Meats + Deli on M-15.

Chorus gets high ratings at festival

The Ovation's, a select chorus at Clarkston Junior High School, earned high ratings at the Michigan School Vocal Association (MSVA) District 4 Choral Festival which took place March 16 at Farmington High School. They received all ones, the highest, or superior ratings.

"It is very unusual for a group to receive straight ones," said Clarkston Junior High Choral Director Anita Carlson, "especially a junior high group."

Choirs must perform two pieces, one of which is from a required list, Carlson said. Three adjudicators listen to the performance and give the choir a rating (one is the highest, four the lowest) based on technical skills, expression, intonation, diction and all other aspects of the singing.

The Ovation's Chorus were given ones by all three adjudicators. They also sight read for a fourth judge and received a superior rating in sight reading as well.

The chorus is made up of eighth and ninth graders. Students who participated in the festival are:

Heather Austin, Becky Brock, Tammy Buchanan, Kim Carpentier, Chris Davenport, Amy DesRochers, Kim Dryden, Tanya Dylag, Cheralyn Evans, Jessica Forbes, Jason Freeland, Rachel Gunn, Steve Hall and Amy Leininger.

Also, Shannon Lyons, Brooke Manuel, Shalae Montney, Tina Nolen, Jenelle Oakley, Emily Rabideau, Jody Randall, Hope Simmons, Cheryl Smith, Kari Stanley, Heather Steinhilper, Staffinea VanCamp and Pam Vernier.

Signs of child sexual abuse and where to find help

Studies indicate that one in every four females and one in seven males will be sexually assaulted before the age of 18.

About 75 percent of child sexual abuse cases are perpetrated by someone known to the victim. Does a child you know have any of the following symptoms?

*Extreme changes in behavior, such as loss of appetite.

*Recurrent nightmares or disturbed sleep patterns and fear of the dark.

*Regression to more infantile behavior, such as bedwetting, thumb sucking or excessive crying.

*Torn or stained underclothing.

*Vaginal or rectal bleeding, pain, itching, swollen genitals or vaginal discharge.

*Unusual interest in or knowledge of sexual matters, expressing affection in ways inappropriate for a child of that age.

*Fear of a person or an intense dislike at being left somewhere or with someone.

*Other behavioral signals, such as aggressive or disruptive behavior, withdrawal, running away or delinquent behavior, failing in school.

If so, chances are the child may be the victim of sexual abuse.

Help and information is available from the following United Way organizations:

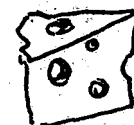

- H.A.V.E.N. (Help Against Violent Encounters Now) at 334-1274 (24-hour crisis line) or 334-1284,
- Oakland Family Services at 332-8352,
- Catholic Social Services at 334-7173, and
- Child Abuse and Neglect Council at 332-7173.

Tax deductible items for car and property owners

Motorists filing 1988 federal tax returns should note an increase in the standard mileage rate for business use and the continuing phase-out of interest deductions.

"Current laws for motorists are generally easy to understand," stated Stan O'Connor, AAA Michigan tax manager.

The standard mileage rate for reimbursement of motoring costs was raised from 22.5 cents to 24.0 cents in 1988. Employee Expense Business Form 2106 contains details.

O'Connor cautions that only 40 percent of interest on auto loans for personal cars is deductible for the 1988 tax year. The deductible amount drops to 20 percent for 1989 and 10 percent for 1990.

"But, if a car is used in business, the business portion of the interest remains fully deductible," he said.

Consumers who use credit cards to pay for gasoline, motor oil or repair services for personal cars may claim only 40 percent of interest accrued on unpaid card balances.

Credit card interest for fuel and services is being phased out on the same schedule as vehicle-loan interest.

Additionally, all Michigan motorists may still deduct license plate fees on federal returns because fees are based on value rather than weight.

Michigan's license plate fees have been on value since the 1984 model year.

Sales tax on cars has not been deductible since 1987.

Cars used for charitable, medical or moving purposes carry the same deductions and rates this year as last.

For charitable work, a motorist may deduct 12 cents per mile, or the actual cost of gas and oil.

For medical or moving purposes, drivers may claim 9 cents per mile or the actual cost of gasoline and oil.

Parking and tolls for all three purposes are also deductible.

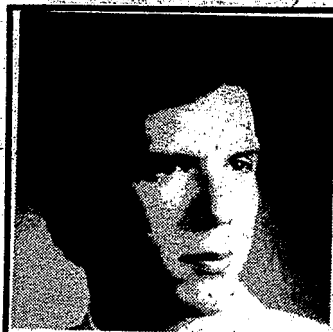

"Homeowners should be aware that interest on mortgage loans on a first or second home continues to be deductible to the extent that the interest is attributable to loans that do not exceed the fair market value of the home," O'Connor explained.

Interest on any excess loans will become nondeductible over the same five-year phase-out as other personal interest.

"Homeowners might find it advantageous to finance car purchases with home equity loans rather than with traditional car loans," O'Connor said.

A new institution for U of M

Hey, look who's home from MSU for spring break — me! To tell you the truth, I wanted to go to Florida. But it's a little hard to write an article for The Clarkston News when you're neck-deep in sun-soaked, bikini-clad bodies.

So here I am. I have my priorities, you know. Besides, if I were down there, I wouldn't be able to read interesting newspaper headlines, such as The Detroit News' "Prison hospital proposed for MSU."

Imagine that! A prison hospital at Michigan State Univ... Whoa, wait! That's where I go to school! Can't those guys put that thing somewhere else? Some place more suitable, more fitting. Some place like maybe... U of M!

Why U of M? Funny you should ask. I happen to have a list here; a top ten list for all you David Letterman fans, that answers that very question.

So without further delay, I give you the Top Ten Reasons Why The Michigan Corrections Department Should Locate Their New Prison For The Mentally Ill At The University of Michigan.

Reason #10 - School officials could do away with the present student union.

Reason #9 - The number of escape attempts would drop drastically.

Reason #8 - Football recruiters would have a major new talent pool.

Reason #7 - Campus life would be enhanced.

Reason #6 - Prisoners with delusions of grandeur would fit right in.

Reason #5 - It would be an attractive addition to the campus.

Reason #4 - Prisoners need to be punished.

Reason #3 - Bo could use a few more friends.

Reason #2 - Yellow and blue look good in stripes. And finally...

Reason #1 - One good institution deserves another.

And there you have it, the ten best reasons. A pity I can't use the other 150.

David Kwasnick is a freshman at Michigan State University, East Lansing.

Pet of the Week

Six Guinea pigs.....

They don't take a lot of space. They're inexpensive to keep. And they're not a lot of work in exchange for an animal to love. In other words, Guinea pigs make good pets.

Guinea pigs come in all varieties, colors and lengths of fur. Like all animals, they have their individual personalities, too. Some become very people-oriented and love to be held.

The Guinea pigs pictured above are babies, ranging in age from 3 to 9 months old—just the right age for molding to your own lifestyle.

These Guinea pigs can be adopted at the Michigan Humane Society, 3600 Auburn Rd., Auburn Heights, 852-7420. Hours at the non-profit shelter are 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

The adoption fee is $5. Prospective owners can also purchase a "Guinea pig house" for a small additional fee.

WHO IS ON THE Lord's side let him hear what the Spirit saith Unto The Churches. Awake to the Righteousness of God and Sin Not! Repent! Come out from among them (believe that I am He! Beye doers of my word) and be ye separate, saith the Lord. Take the Sword of the Spirit-the Word of God and the shield of faith - belief in God's Word and His Christ! If they persecuted me they will persecute you, saith the Lord. It is given to you not only to believe on Christ but to suffer for his sake! come, saith the Lord, and be led of my Spirit! Look to my son. Do not be followers of men but listen and be valiant for My Truth upon the earth with your whole heart. Turn you from being followers of men (in your heart) and believe my sheep, that Hear My Voice, to pasture. Lose Your Life in this life and you will live! Come unto me, saith the Lord. Be of a willing heart to receive and my words! Beware of circumcision. If you deny me before men I will deny you before the Father. The fear of men is a snare! Come. Believe with your whole heart. I am the Beginning and the End, saith the Lord. Let him that hath an ear to hear, hear what the Spirit is saying to the Churches. Take heed. Overcome. IILX15-2

A CHORUS NUMBER in the CHS spring musical, "The Boyfriend," features the entire cast of students. The play will run April 13-16 and 20-22 in Kirchgessner Theatre. Reserve seat tickets are $4 ($3 for performances on April 13, 16 and 20). Tickets can be reserved by calling 625-0900.

CHS production sure to please

Won't you Charleston with the Clarkston High School Performing Arts Department as they present their annual spring musical?

"The Boyfriend" is a lighthearted look at life in the 1920's, written by Sandy Wilson. Set in the south of France at an exclusive school for girls, the carefree spoof is guaranteed to make you smile. Full of light songs and dancing, it's a production the whole family can enjoy.

Director of the play is Barb Gibson, with Grayce Warren as musical director and Cliff Chapman directing an orchestra of CHS students. Choreographer is Marilyn Kettler.

Performances in the Kirchgessner Theatre begin at 8 p.m. on Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, April 13, 14, 15 and 16, and Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 20, 21 and 22, with a matinee on Sunday April 16 beginning at 2 p.m. Admission is $4 for all performances except those on April 13, 16 and 20 when it is $3. All seats are reserved. Reservations can be made by calling the high school at 625-0900.
