School cuts discussed

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Recommended budget cuts totaling $1.6 million that would curtail many school programs, eliminate SEARCH and possibly enact a pay to participate policy for extra curricular activities was reluctantly, but unanimously approved by the Clarkston Board of Education Monday night.

The $1.6 million in cuts represents the approximate amount the district will lose if voters do not approve a reversal of the Headlee rollback in the June 12 school election. Because of the Headlee law, the district can currently only levy 36.5622 of the 38.83 operational millage actually approved by the voters last year.

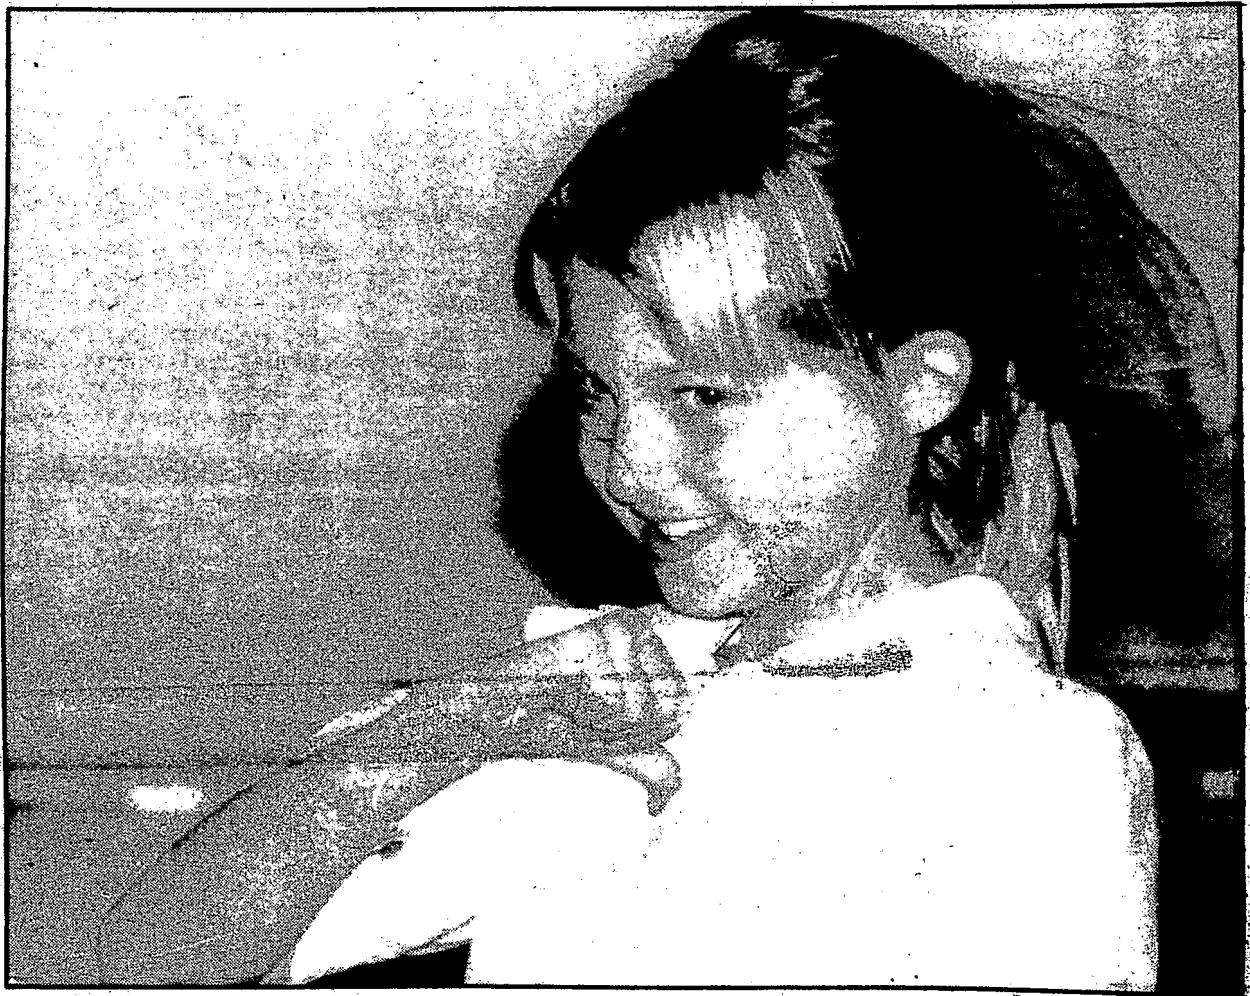

Building administrators, working with Director of Administrative Services William Neff, spent over 200 hours preparing the list of recommended cuts, using a philosophy of first cutting those areas that least affected the children, according to Superintendent Gary Haner.

The last area to be reduced included recommended cuts of five elementary teachers, six and a half junior high teachers and five high school teachers.

In support services and programs, cuts were recommended in the number of special education aides, media professionals, social workers and counselors. The elementary keyboarding and foreign language programs would be eliminated. The elementary gifted, music and physical education programs would be reduced.

SEARCH, the substance abuse program at Clarkston High School, would also be eliminated.

Szeman waives hearing on Independence rape

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

As expected, the accused ski-mask rapist waived his preliminary examination in an Independence Township district courtroom April 14th.

The case against Steven A. Szeman Jr., 25, will now be heard in Oakland County Circuit Court.

Szeman is charged with a total of 49 counts in the alleged assault of 10 women including one in Independence Township.

Charges against Szeman include first- and second-degree criminal sexual conduct, armed robbery, breaking and entering and assault with intent to rob.

After clarifying that Szeman wanted to waive his preliminary hearing, Judge Gerald E. McNally continued bond at $7.9 million dollars.

Szeman was brought in to 52nd District Court about 10:20 a.m., in the midst of another case being heard before the judge. He was led to the bystander section, where he sat talking quietly with his attorney, Lawrence Kaluzny.

After a few minutes, he stood mute before the judge as his attorney and Prosecutor John Slavin discussed the details of the waiver.

Szeman remained unhandcuffed throughout the short proceeding, although he was escorted by several plainclothes police deputies. He was handcuffed again outside the courtroom.

After leaving the courtroom, Szeman sat with his attorney for several minutes in the lobby, as officials signed the necessary paperwork at the counter.

Szeman was transported to Michigan from his Ohio prison cell where he is serving a 140-year sentence for the assault of a Cleveland-area woman.

He was arraigned April 5 in three Oakland County courts, within the districts where the alleged assaults occurred.

Although most of the attacks were centered along the Fourteen Mile Road corridor in the Bloomfield and Farmington Hills area, one woman was raped in her Independence Township home.

A 51-year-old woman had just returned to her home at North Crest Condominiums, on Dixie Highway between M-15 and White Lake Road, when she was raped by a man with a knife.

Szeman was arrested in November of 1988 while assaulting a Cleveland-area woman. His fingerprints, blood and semen were used in an effort to link him to the Oakland County rapes.

Szeman is in the Oakland County Jail.

He waived preliminary exams in 47th District Court in Farmington Hills and 48th District Court in Bloomfield Township.

$1.6 million in program cuts possible for schools

Board Secretary Mary Jane Chaustowich asked why the whole program would have to be eliminated.

"It is a good program, but one of the few at the high school that could be cut," said Neff.

Bob Brumback, director of special services, said, "I hope in further consideration we will deal with what we will do as alternatives for these students (if SEARCH is eliminated)."

It is a vital program in a critical area, he said. SEARCH and social workers work together. Just last year alone, there were 15 attempted suicides, he said.

And that figure is a modest one, Social Worker Jim Butzine and SEARCH Coordinator Katie MacKay both said later.

In non-personnel areas, reductions were recommended in retirement incentives, testing programs, junior high camping, thinking skills programs, administrative costs, substitute teachers and in-service expenses. The allocation for new textbooks would be cut in half.

In addition, costs would be reduced by eight percent for per-pupil building allocations, affecting teacher and student supplies. District insurance would be reduced from $4 to $2 million.

Under non-academic reductions, a junior high lunch room supervisor's position would be eliminated, as would the high school community service coordinator position. There would be fewer department heads, media aides, grounds and transportation employees.

But the item which drew the most discussion under the non-academic reductions was a 50 percent cut to the athletic budget, with a suggested pay to participate fee for students who wanted to be involved in athletics, clubs and other extra-curricular activities at the school which are not part of academics.

"It did not seem appropriate to run a full extra-curricular program when we were reducing programs and laying off teachers," said Neff.

For a student wishing to play in a sport, the cost might be $150. For a student who wanted to participate in French Club or drama or music, for example, the cost might only be $25 or $30, depending on how many students signed up. Rates for participation would have to be determined later.

"Am I to assume anything that's not academic would fall under this," asked Board President Janet Thomas.

"Yes and no," responded Neff.

Band and music classes would not be affected, but concerts and competitions would be. Student government, because it goes on during school hours, would not be affected, but most clubs would be.

Thomas asked, in the case of athletics, if other alternatives had been explored, such as eliminating some sports.

"We tried to reduce without eliminating programs," Neff said.

Athletic Director Paul Tungate, who estimated there were about 55 athletic teams, said he was at all the budget cut meetings.

"Personally, I don't advocate pay to play," he said, but he added that he would like to see grades 7-12 sports programs remain intact.

Clarkston High School Principal Dr. Robert Burek, and junior high school principals Dave Reschke and Duane Lewis all indicated that, in view of all the other cuts necessary, they approved of the pay to participate recommendation.

"I don't want to see the junior high programs decimated at the expense of the high school," said Lewis. "I would rather pay for my children to have the opportunity than tell them the opportunity wasn't there," added Reschke.

Chaustowich said the pay to participate idea bothered her. "I really feel this is going to create elitism."

Haner said there could be scholarships for needy children, adding "I don't think there's a student out there who couldn't earn $150."

Burek added that fundraising efforts could also help finance extra-curricular activities.

The recommended budget cuts represent about an 8 percent reduction in costs, should the voters not approve a Headlee reversal.

"When I take a look at this (recommendation), it turns us into a mediocre district," said Board Vice President John Needham. "I've got concerns, too, with pay to play, and eliminating SEARCH. I just wish I had a better idea."

Board member Dr. Steve Werner added, "In view of what we've heard, I don't see that we can come up with a better approach. I'm willing to listen; but not put it off any longer. It's time to approve it, or change it."

Township planners oppose manufactured home subs

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A 305-unit manufactured home sub planned along Mann Road has lost the support of the Independence Township Planning Commission.

After months of deliberations, planners voted April 13 to deny recommending planned unit development zoning (PUD) and conceptual site plan approval. The proposal now goes to the township board.

The vote to deny recommendation was 4-1. Voting yes were Joseph Figa, Bruce Mercado, Bruce Oppmann and Daniel Travis; Acting Chairperson Jo Fussman voted no; Chairperson Brent Bair and Steve Secatch were absent.

Rezoning an area to PUD allows a local government to maintain control over aspects of the project. If it were zoned as a mobile home park, the state would have control of its development.

Planners in opposition to the project argued that it didn't offer enough benefit to warrant a PUD rezoning, that it didn't contribute enough to the community's tax base, that it would create too much traffic for the area and would kill several trees.

The matter was debated before an audience of about 50 residents, many wearing home-made buttons indicating their opposition to the project.

Although public comment on the project was formally heard in January, the planning commission accepted comments from about a dozen people that chose to speak. Traffic, devaluation of property and tree damage were among their concerns.

Developer Gregory Christopher first approached planners last November with his plan to create a 76-acre manufactured housing community off Clintonville Road just south of I-75.

The manufactured homes are like mobile homes, but the trailer and wheels have been removed. The plan called for four units per acre, with extensive landscaping along winding streets.

The project's rezoning and site plan approval were tabled by the planning commission in January.

Christopher told planners April 13 that he hoped to move the entrance to the project to allow more trees to be saved.

Many planners complimented the developer's attitude and design, and discussed both its pros and cons.

"I've had concerns from the onset," said Planner Daniel Travis. "The road development will take all the trees, I'm afraid. It's not zoned for multiples; I can't support it."

Fussman argued that denying the project would contribute to "pricing our children out of an opportunity to live here."

"We are very concerned about traffic," said Bruce Mercado. "Ninety percent of you here are concerned about traffic — we hear you. I appreciate all of your comments."

"(But) every government has a responsibility to residents to provide an equal type of housing and a mobile home is one type," Mercado added.

"(The developer) is a very good person and this is a very good plan compared to normal," said Joseph Figa. "With regard to the tax base, it's very unfair that mobile home park units don't pay the same taxes."

Although individual mobile home park residents don't pay property taxes, the project would generate revenue through permit applications, sewer fees and a park property tax, according to Township Planner Dick Carlisle.

Carlisle also described a traffic study prepared by township engineers; the study determined that the proposed sub would create 1468 trips per day on area roads. Currently, 500 trips a day are made along area roads, the study said.

"It's relatively low now," said Engineer David Lakin. "The proposed PUD would provide a relatively low trip generation rate," he added.

Residents living in the area argued that traffic was congested in the area without the new sub.

"It takes 3-4 minutes to get out of (Mann and Clintonville) now," said one Mann Road resident. "If you bring more people in, are you going to put a street light in?" he added.

One resident, who told planners she was a certified nurseryman, said the project would have a drastic effect on mature oak and maple trees in the area.

"My estimate is that 80 percent of the mature plant material will die," said Mary Bauer, of Clintonville Road, Waterford Township.

Township planners received opposition petitions signed by residents in Auburn Hills, Lake Angelus, Waterford and Independence Township. The petition said those that signed were opposed to traffic, the impact of the project on area schools and the devaluation of property that would result from the project's existence.

Nanjo's owner rezoning OK'd

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

After a lot of research, a long discussion and the threat of a lawsuit, a change of zoning was approved for Nanjo's restaurant owner Nancy Clouse.

The Springfield Township board voted 6-1 to approve a request to return the property on Dixie Highway to C-1 (commercial). It had been changed to office-service zoning when the township's new zoning map was completed in 1987.

Voting no was Trustee Dennis Vallad, who said it was his understanding that the lot size (approximately one-half acre) was too small for C-1, and that the property's current non-conforming status would not significantly affect a mortgage application on the property.

The latter was a major point of Clouse's argument to return the property to C-1, and one her attorney, Tom Hunter, made during the meeting. He said that real estate appraisers and banks indicated that the non-conforming use of the property would create a greater risk for lending money and make it less desirable to potential purchasers.

"Mrs. Clouse is also concerned that if the business is destroyed, it couldn't legally be rebuilt," he added.

Responding to a question from Trustee Nancy Strole, Clouse said that Nanjo's has been operating as a restaurant for nearly 20 years. The building was originally a party store, then a candle factory before the the Clouses purchased it and began the restaurant.

Nanjo's sits on a narrow strip of land on Dixie Highway with Graham Road behind it. Before the new township zoning map was completed, all the surrounding property was residential and the Clouse property was commercial. Now all the property is zoned office service. A restaurant can operate in a commercial zoning, and also in an office-service zoning if it is attached to another building.

It was a look at the whole general area, not specifically at the Clouse property, which was already non-conforming, that led to the zoning changes, said Supervisor Collin Walls.

When he recommended that the request for a zoning change be approved, Walls said he had done a lot of review and research before making his decision.

It would not be in the best interest of the community to have a zoning map without some provisions for non conformity, he said.

"In my time, nothing has caused more problems than grandfather clauses and non-conforming (uses)," he said. "No matter what we do, the Clouse property is non conforming."

It is legally non-conforming, he added, but the lot size, the parking, the greenbelt and landscaping, all are non conforming. The property is unique to the township and has limited use no matter what the zoning is.

Later, Clouse said she was very happy with the decision. "It leaves me a lot more options."

Pool guests drop in

The weather may still be a little crisp this spring, and Therman and Judy Nichols' above-ground pool on Paramus Drive may still be covered, but recent visitors found the water to be just right.

Every year mallard ducks frequent the Independence Township neighborhood, puddling in ditches and enjoying handouts from residents. But this year, a pair of mallards took to the pool in the Nichols' backyard.

Though it still has a plastic cover, water has collected on the cover, and the ducks are enjoying the mini-pool this created. Besides, it keeps them out of view of the family's Brittany spaniel, who hasn't noticed the ducks above eye level.

"They're fun to watch," Judy bubbles. She's known by many as an animal lover. Last year she rescued a baby bird which had fallen from its nest in her yard. And she found a home for a stray cat — a now well-known cat named Willa in the Village Bookstore in Clarkston.

Dubbed "Daisy" and "Donald," the pair of ducks have entertained the Nichols family from the upstairs bathroom window — the only place a view down on the pool affords a chance to see them paddling around. Guests to the Nichols' home are also whisked upstairs to the bathroom for a look.

Last week, Judy noticed three more males in the pool, too. Do you suppose word is getting around in the duck community that the Nichols' pool is a great place to drop in?

Area youth have even more reason to be proud

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Some had helped save lives; others had volunteered endless hours of their time to worthy causes like "Just Say No" and SCAMP. But all of the 38 young people honored at the annual Youth Community Service Award Banquet had given special effort, and were being recognized for it.

The annual banquet, organized by Clarkston Area Youth Assistance Committee, took place April 13 in the Clarkston United Methodist Church on Waldon Road, Independence Township. Entertainment was provided by the Clarkston Junior High Ovation.

Steve Himburg, chairperson of CAYAC, introduced two judges in attendance from Oakland County Probate Court, Barry Grant and Sandra Silver, both of whom had high praise for the young people in attendance.

"You are the base of this community," Silver said. "It's because of people like yourselves that there are only four probate judges."

There could be a need for many more, she explained, if it weren't for the efforts of organizations like CAYAC and young people like those being honored.

Awards were presented by Merylyn Mallett, secretary of CAYAC, Sylvia Carter, whose late husband Al Carter was a long-time supporter of CAYAC, and Bunny Newmarch, executive coordinator for North Oakland SCAMP Funding Corporation.

Following is a list of the youth honored and the community activity in which they were involved:

Lawsuit dismissed

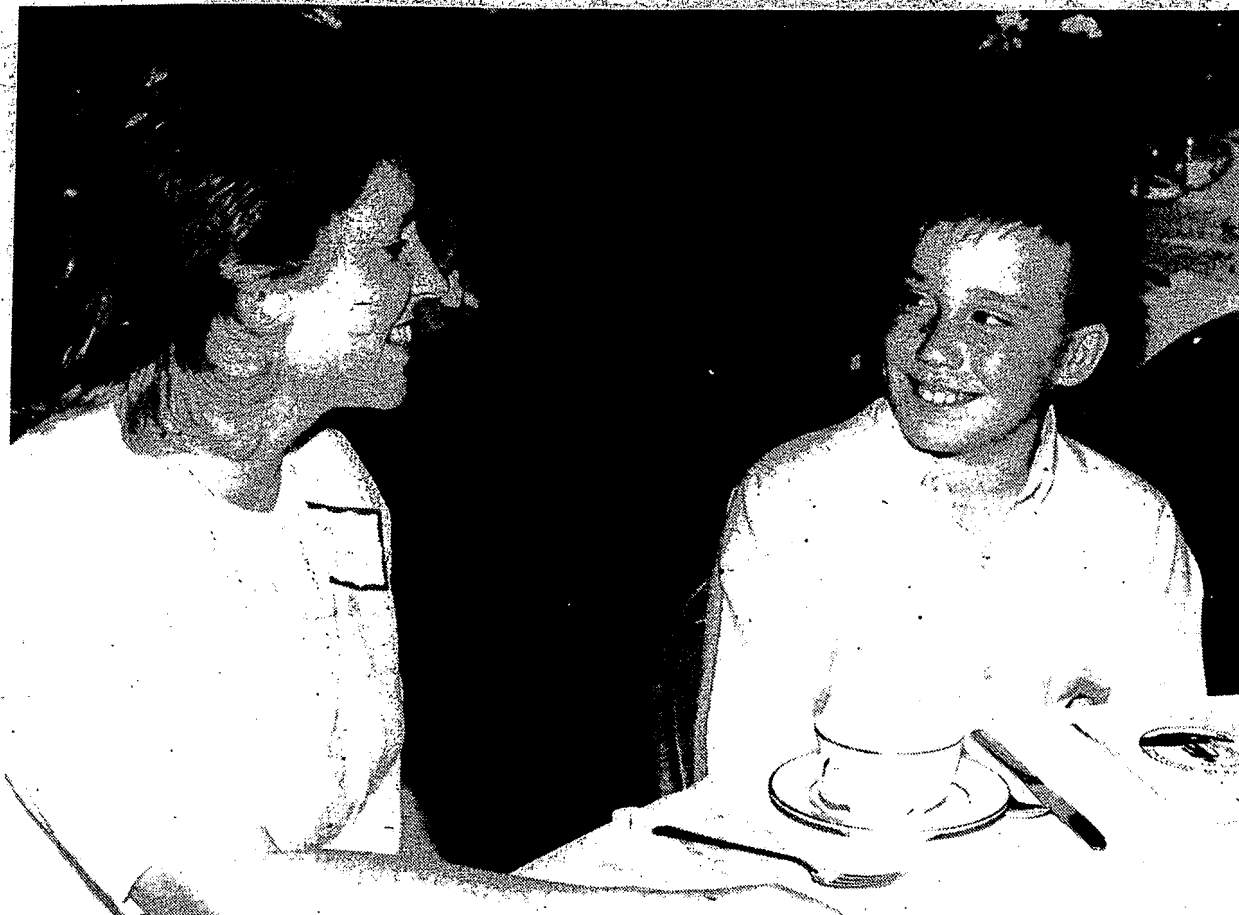

A lawsuit filed by AHR Packaging against Springfield Township reopening a zoning dispute on 188 acres of land previously owned by the Michigan Metro Girl Scout Council has been dismissed.

Springfield Township Supervisor Collin Walls made the announcement at the April 13 board meeting, later stating that the lawsuit was dismissed after discussion between the attorneys.

"It was an amicable dismissal by all parties," he said, and would probably lead to talks between the current owner of the land and the township in a less adversarial atmosphere.

Early in 1986, the girl scout council sued the township over zoning of the land, which was a former scout camp at Hillsboro and Crosby Lake roads. It was zoned recreational, and the scout council wanted it zoned a higher density residential than the township was willing to approve. That suit was dismissed in 1987.

The land, purchased from the scouts by AHR Packaging, was rezoned for residential with a minimum of 2 1/2-acre lots when the township's new master plan and zoning map were completed in 1987.

Steve received an award for rescuing his father from a fall through the ice.

Opinions

Gap still there

Julie Campe

A generation gap still exists out there, and it's evident in our language.

It seems that some expressions and sayings are lost on the younger generation, and some of the newer sayings make no sense to the "more mature" generation.

For instance, companies and organizations send press releases to newspapers all the time, but occasionally, they'll include one of those "sayings." If it hits the wrong generation, the whole meaning can be lost.

When a press release about a flea market started off with, "Everything from soup to nuts will be offered . . ." two of us commented that those were strange offerings at a flea market.

Another two on the staff laughed and thought we were joking. They were shocked (almost appalled) to learn that we were serious. That expression was totally foreign to the under-age 27 crowd. So they explained that it was just a saying to let us know that a wide variety of items would be at the flea market.

Once, a reporter wrote that a company had a "land-office business," and again, the under-27 crowd told her that her sentence didn't make sense. Do the owners sell real estate and rent office space, some wondered?

But the younger set were told that this expression simply meant "very busy," probably a hold-over from the days when land offices were set up in the west to handle the hordes of settlers.

One of the over-27 set had never heard the metaphor for pessimism vs. optimism: "A cup is either half empty or half full." Before she found out that the phrase wasn't original, the reporter had been raving over the creativity and spontaneity showed by the subject of her interview.

Other puzzling terms include "towhead," a very blond child, which was lost on the younger crowd; "bennies," short for benefits of a job, which was unknown to a variety of age groups (so maybe it's a regional thing?); and "crash and burn," which means to be so tired you lose all your energy and either fall asleep or veg.

Oops! "Veg" is another term that's sometimes lost on the older minds. It's short for "vegetate," when used as a verb (example: "I can't wait to go veg in front of the TV after work"), or "vegetable," when used as a noun (example: He watches the tube so much, he's a veg).

"Tube" means television, for those who aren't of the "tube" generation.

Crash and burn also carry separate meanings when used individually. To "crash" means to sleep soundly.

To "burn" means to be insulted.

If someone "burned" you by giving you a snappy one-liner that makes everyone in the room laugh, you are "burning (sizzle)."

Letters to the Editor

Put leaders back on track in schools

Because of a self-imposed exile, I have chosen not to attend the Clarkston school board meetings during the past couple of years; however, when it was brought to my attention that our new superintendent and the high school principal were on a head-hunting expedition at the expense of one of our longtime, well-respected administrators (namely, Jan Gabier), I found myself compelled to drag myself out of my couch potato position and once again attend a board meeting.

Now, everyone should give themselves this wonderful opportunity because it was better than network or cable TV!

At the onset of the meeting, everyone in the room was immediately transported back to Czarist Russia, as Mr. Haner let it be known by his tone and demeanor that he was in total control and that no one sitting to his left or right was to step out of line, or he would become one unhappy leader.

But as the meeting progressed, much to his chagrin, those people sitting to his left and right did indeed step out of line by not giving in to his request that Miss Gabier be relieved of her administrative duties.

The decision was obviously favorable to the audience and the one they were waiting to hear because suddenly the room emptied of most bodies, and the rest of us were left to witness the remainder of the dictatorial goings on.

The point of my little story is really twofold. As a taxpayer in the district for many, many years, I am extremely concerned that a new individual who was hired by a school board that I helped elect would be of the opinion that "his way" should become the only correct way to do things and to handle delicate situations.

I recall that Mr. Haner expounded upon the importance of open lines of communication upon being named superintendent for the district; in fact, we just recently received a mailing asking for input on the proposed building facilities issue.

If communication is truly that crucial to Mr. Haner, it seems that this matter with Miss Gabier would have had a way of working itself out to the satisfaction of all parties involved, the community included!

But that didn't happen, did it? In the end, it seems that the "Czar" and "Rasputin" go their way at the expense of another poor, defenseless peon of the system.

The second point I would like to make is that I question how long it will take the board of education to take the reins into control that they were elected to have and put leadership back on the right track in Clarkston.

I've always been of the opinion that people committed to the same goal should work together to achieve that goal — not that those with a differing opinion or way of approaching assigned duties should be treated as second class members of the organization.

I certainly hope that the taxpayers and electorate in our community soon will see some positive directions taken that will guarantee equal treatment for all.

A concerned voter and taxpayer

Property taxes are outrageous

I want my home. Do you want yours? High property taxes may force me to sell my home.

Within the past year or so, my millage will have increased by 17.3 mills, including the proposed school bond issue. This amount of millage will cost me an additional $605 a year or $50 per month (might pay light or gas bill).

Whatever happened to fiscal responsibility? Some individuals ask for millions of dollars and spend it anywhere and how they want to with no budget in mind. I have to budget my income, make ends meet and cannot receive more money anytime I want to.

Let us stop this rapid escalation of taxes now. We must vote "NO" to any millage increase, school bond issue or other tax increase until a new formula for property tax relief can be worked out.

A statement printed in the (April 5) Clarkston

News by Clarkston school board President Janet Thomas said, "We have to sell what we're proposing. The trick is to make people understand." What trick do we have to understand?

Seventy-million dollars for a school bond issue is ridiculous. I don't think the White House or the Taj Mahal cost this much money.

Letter unfair to sheriff's deputies

This letter is in regard to the previous letter written by David Whitehead of Holly in the April 5 edition of The Clarkston News. That letter was one person's opinion on why the fire department's bond issue was voted down.

I resent our Oakland County Sheriff's deputies being referred to as "arrogant boys in brown." They are police officers that serve our community, and we should be glad to have them here.

The phrase "constantly waddling in for doughnuts" is a stereotype that should not be used to describe the deputies. I know where I work people take coffee breaks throughout the day besides having a lunch break.

There aren't many places to have a coffee break after midnight. I don't feel a balanced meal is achievable with a Thermos and a goody sack in a vehicle.

At least he knows where to find a police officer if he needs one. Why is he so concerned about Independence when he lives in Holly anyway? I'm sure if he tries hard, he can find problems with the Holly police!

Salute to caring

By congressional resolution, April 9 through 15 was proclaimed National Volunteer Week.

This year's theme was: Volunteers Make a World of Difference.

Bay Valley Community Hospice joins in this celebration of volunteer recognition by saluting the many contributions and numerous hours of time donated to serving our hospice patients and their families. Congratulations to the volunteers who make "Hospice — A Special Kind of Caring" in the Clarkston community.

A chilling effect

Every successful school enjoys a good deal of academic freedom. Both student and teachers must freely experiment with ideas and ideal, free to accept and reject, free to discuss, free to fail and succeed.

Overlooking for a moment that the transfer of Jan Gabier was most unfair and unchristian, the malignant effects will linger for years. Her transfer will have a stifling and chilling effect on the meaning of academic freedom.

Teachers will wonder who is next, maybe me. The bars of fear will be placed inside every teacher. I would prefer Joe Clark with his baseball bat and bull horn.

Name withheld on request

It's their choice

Let's see. We don't have enough money in the "right" budget at the township to do the spring clean-up. But we do have the money for the politicians to again raise their own salaries.

Maybe the "spring clean-up" is difficult, but it's easier, cleaner and cheaper than cleaning up random dumping in ditches and fields throughout the countryside.

I guess it's all about incentives and priorities. Theirs, not ours.

A different view

A tip of the sarcastic hat to the planning commission and the township board of Independence Township from a Springfield Township resident who only has to drive past the devastation on the corner of White Lake Road and Dixie Highway!

You play hell with any condominium, multiple housing, God forbid a hotel, and you let a supermarket developer absolutely lay waste to a large parcel of land that is absolutely in the forefront of people's eyes!

Now I can drive by that corner and say to my grandson, "See Danny, there used to be trees and a lovely old house here. But isn't that bulldozer doing a wonderful job of pushing the stumps around!"

What you really needed was another supermarket! Office buildings or even condominiums would have been better than this!

Victim's pay price

For too long, criminals have had more rights than their victims. April 9 through 15 was National Victim Rights Week, which gives us the opportunity to focus on the needs and rights of victims. Our two Michigan senators, Carl Levin and Donald Reigle, helped co-sponsor this congressional resolution.

Did you know that years ago crime victims in our country were not notified of or when an arrest was made of an offender. They were not informed about a criminal case unless they were asked to testify. They rarely knew the outcome of their case.

Things are better now for victims, but there is much more to be done. Mothers Against Drunk Driving will continue to work toward the recognition that victims have constitutional rights and that the rights of all citizens must be respected.

It is reassuring to know that California, Rhode Island, Florida and Michigan all provide constitutional protections to victims. Forty-six states have victim compensation funds. Both Republicans and Democrats made victim's rights part of their election year platforms.

Victims and their advocates across the country have organized a grass-roots movement that has gained the attention and support of lawmakers and judges. It's a movement that is having a powerful effect on the way we approach the question of criminal justice.

Still, the statistics are sobering. The Michigan State Police report that in 1987 in Michigan, there were 591,913 violent crimes committed. On our roadways, 1,632 persons were killed, and 808 or 49.5 percent were listed as alcohol-related fatalities.

It is hoped that Victim Rights Week helped all of us to understand that the price of crime is too high, and so far, it's the victims who have paid the price.

The Roads We Travel

Time to sign up for dust control on gravel roads

Brent Bair

Do you live on a gravel road? Are you tired of the dust from passing vehicles? Would you also like to see the smoother condition of the road in front of your house right after a grading last longer between gradings?

Through the application of brine or calcium chloride, this is possible. Will it make a gravel road as smooth and dust free as a paved road? No, but it helps.

While it is offered as a dust control program, the application of mineral well brine in Independence and Springfield townships will also help keep the gravel road smoother between gradings.

The brine attracts moisture from the atmosphere and the ground, and the moisture acts as a binder on the fines (dust) in the gravel, preventing them from becoming airborne. The treated surface tends to withstand the ravages of weather and traffic.

Unfortunately, the applications work better under some conditions than others. For example, periods of minimal rainfall and low humidity (e.g. last summer) will result in less moisture being attracted by the brine and result in a lower level of effectiveness.

Other factors can reduce the effectiveness also, with high traffic volumes leading the list. Sandy soil and lack of shade trees can also have negative effects.

If for any of these reasons the condition of the road becomes so bad that it must be graded between applications, the application is lost.

The Oakland County Road Commission is currently taking applications for the 1989 dust control program. The cost is 32 cents per foot for a total of four applications, with minimum orders of 1,000 feet ($320 for four applications).

Independence Township will pay half (16 cents) of the cost for its residents who sign up, and Springfield will pay almost 70 percent (22 cents) of the cost for its residents. The gravel road resident signing up for the service pays the remainder.

The brine is applied at the rate of 2,000 gallons per mile. The width of the application is 16 to 20 feet. It cannot be applied to roads that have been oiled, as the brine tends to run off and thus is not effective.

The application schedule for Independence and Springfield townships will be: first application May 2 to June 1; second application by July 4; third application by August 15; fourth application by Sept. 15.

The road is scheduled for grading first, with the application to follow.

It can be very scenic living on a gravel road, and that is why some of our residents built their homes on our gravel roads. However, there are also sacrifices, especially in the summer.

The application of brine can sometimes make these conditions at least a little more bearable.

If you live on a gravel road and are interested in this program, you have until April 28 to sign up. For more information, contact the Oakland County Road Commission's Department of Citizen's Services at 858-4804.

Brent Bair is chairperson of the Independence Township Planning Commission.

Jim
Fitzgerald

Not because her son said she reads this column regularly, but for six million other reasons, today I'm saying hello to Clara Fisher, an 89-year-old resident of St. Clair.

It is occasionally suggested that this column be used to send greetings to individual readers. For instance, Mary and Ellie Reinfeldt, former area residents now living mostly in Riverview, Fla. Someone said the Reinfeldts are a marvelous couple who have my column clipped and mailed to them, and it would "brighten their day" to read their names here.

Sorry, I can't do that.

Except for Clara Fisher. She rates special consideration because her son, 62-year-old Chuck Fisher of Lansing, got what was coming to him.

Chuck and I were fellow students at St. Stephen High School in Port Huron around 45 years ago.

"You stole my girlfriend," he told me Monday.

I remember; her name was Noreen. Our romance lasted for several years, but she was eventually stolen again, this time by a golf pro named Jerry. He gave me my first golf lesson. I long ago forgave Jerry for taking my girl, but I still hate him for the horrible slice that has cost me 5,000 golf balls in the woods.

Reporter gets involved

As for Chuck Fisher, for a while he was a newspaper reporter in Cheboygan, Wis., where he and his wife, Kerry, were involved in an incredible story. It began in 1960 when Fisher wrote an article about a woman who died in the hospital while giving birth to twins. She left seven other children, and her husband couldn't handle the added burden of two infants. At the time, the Fishers had one child and another on the way, but Chuck asked Kerry if she'd like two more, and she agreed.

The twins lived with the Fishers as foster children for about two years. Their father refused to allow the Fishers to adopt them. Finally, Chuck said it was either adoption or the father could have the two kids.

Soon after, the father was killed in an accident. Probate court was going to split up his nine children, spreading custody among various relatives. The Fishers thought the children should stay together, and insisted they be allowed to adopt the whole gang. And by then they had five children of their own.

"The probate judge said he thought we were nuts, but he eventually said OK," Fisher said Monday.

Fourteen children on a reporter's salary? How?

"We got along fine. Something always happened to make things possible," Fisher said. "The kids thought we were rich."

Chuck Fisher didn't get rich until last week when he won $6 million in the state Lotto jackpot.

Fisher told reporters he would use the money to spoil his wife, Kerry. What he didn't tell them was they were divorced 10 years ago.

"But we still have a very close relationship, although separate addresses," Fisher said. "Every time I suggest we marry again, Kerry asks 'Why ruin a good thing?'"

How does it feel to become so rich so quick? "There was no great excitement," Fisher said. "I was calm because I always knew I was going to win. I was absolutely sure."

Credit goes to higher power

Fisher credits his good fortune to "my spirituality and a higher power. At AA meetings, that's what we call God, as we understand him." He said he attends Alcoholics Anonymous meetings regularly and hasn't tasted booze in 11 years.

Fisher will retire this month as assistant to state Department of Transportation Director James Fitz. He plans to move to San Diego where one of his children lives, and the weather is unlike Michigan's.

All 14 children survive - the youngest is now 26 - and Fisher doesn't argue with the suggestion that his $6 million prize is his reward for giving a loving home to nine siblings who wanted to stay together. "I feel blessed," he said.

I feel happy for my long ago rival for a girlfriend, and for his family. It has been a real kick to say good morning to Clara Fisher.

May banquet to benefit area wetlands, wildlife

In a state with more fresh water than any place on earth, there are growing concerns for diminishing wetlands and wildlife habitats. For this reason, the Interlakes Chapter of Waterfowl U.S.A. was formed two years ago to help rebuild wetland habitats in Michigan.

The chapter is currently planning its second annual banquet to fund their conservation projects, according to co-chairpersons Greg and Kathy Hyde. The Interlakes Chapter is based in Clarkston, and has already contributed to local as well as other Michigan projects.

In the chapter's first year, members raised money for 30 wood duck boxes and contributed to the Drayton Plains Nature Center to restore a pond for waterfowl.

In their second year, they are continuing to contribute to the Drayton Plains Nature Center, and joining efforts with another Michigan chapter of Waterfowl U.S.A. to create a series of ponds in the Verona State Game Area in Michigan's thumb. The 250-acre marshland area, a mutual project with the Department of Natural Resources and Michigan Wildlife Habitat Foundation, will be not only for waterfowl, but marsh birds, fish, deer and other wildlife.

One thing that makes Waterfowl U.S.A. unique, Greg says, is the fact that 80 percent of the funds raised are used in Michigan.

Interlakes Chapter's upcoming benefit banquet is planned for May 4 in the Main Event at the Pontiac Silverdome. A cash bar opens at 6 p.m. with dinner planned for 7 p.m.

There will be raffle tables (one especially for the ladies), door prizes, and auctions featuring the work of award-winning artists. A number of other items will also be auctioned, including carved decoys that Greg carves with his father, John Hyde, better known as the "Clarkston carver."

Tickets to the banquet are available at $35 each or $60 per couple by calling 625-0072 or writing Waterfowl U.S.A., P.O. Box 284, Clarkston, before April 27. A ticket includes membership in the chapter and a print by federal duck stamp artist Neal Anderson. It also includes the satisfaction of knowing you're helping preserve Michigan's wetlands.

"Because of the tremendous drainage of wetlands in Michigan and the pollution problem, many people feel we need to spend more (to preserve it)," said Greg, who is a science teacher with Brandon Schools.

GREG HYDE holds a sample of one of many items to be auctioned at the second annual banquet and auction of the Interlakes Chapter of Waterfowl U.S.A. Tickets can be purchased for the May 4 banquet to benefit wildlife by calling 625-0072.

"Some people think marshlands are an eyesore, but they're a wildlife habitat," he continued. "Things need to be done to restore marsh birds and ducks, a place for them to live. Without habitat, they can't survive."

Springfield OK's speed change on 2 dirt roads

In contrast to last month's heated discussion over a 25 m.p.h. speed limit on Clark and Dilley roads in Springfield Township, there were few residents in attendance and even less discussion when the township board said yes this month.

In a unanimous vote at their April 13 meeting, the board voted to request the Oakland County Road Commission to post 25 m.p.h. speed limits on the full length of both gravel roads, and also assess the need for any hazardous conditions signs, such as hidden driveways or curves.

Clark Road runs between Andersonville and Bridge Lake Road, and Dilley Road runs from Davisburg Road to Clark Road, where it ends.

At the March board meeting, residents disagreed as to whether the roads should be posted for residential, meaning 25 m.p.h. limits, or left unposted. Under Michigan law, drivers can go up to 55 m.p.h. on unposted gravel roads, depending on whether conditions are safe to go that speed.

To complicate the argument last month, a petition to post the road 25 m.p.h. turned in to the board in the fall of 1988 had been lost in the interim as residents disagreed as to whether the required 51 percent of them had signed it.

But residents in favor of the speed limit circulated another petition and brought it to the township in time for the April board meeting.

There's a folk sound in town, thanks to doctor

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The seriousness of Dr. Michael Baker's daily work as a Clarkston internist contrasts sharply with his life at home.

His Reese Road country farmhouse brims with frolicking children, running gaily through rooms filled with musical instruments.

Patrick, the baby, bounces in step with the Irish folk tunes that have become a regular part of his family's lives.

The friendly folk music heard on the family's phonograph will sound throughout North Oakland County over the next few months, thanks to the efforts of Mike Baker.

He has organized the 1989 Possum Corner Coffee House Series, a number of concerts at Oxford's Upland Hills Farm by musicians from around the world.

Although Baker's wife says he undertook the gargantuan task because he "has a few screws loose," Baker explains that there just wasn't much folk music available in North Oakland County.

The Possum Corner series spotlights blues, folk and Irish musicians in almost weekly concerts from March through May.

The artists play such instruments as guitar, accordion, mandolin, fiddle, dulcimer, banjo, flute and whistles.

"It's people music," Baker says. "The one thing that appeals to me, is that it's accessible to the average person. You don't have to be a master musician to play it or partake in it."

Baker speaks from experience.

The tall, red-bearded Irishman says that, like most people, he liked rock-and-roll when he was younger. He became tired of it; it sounded redundant, he says, so he got into country and bluegrass instead.

After some lessons and casual playing with friends, Baker became an accomplished musician and singer. His band, Modesty Forbids, is one of the groups featured in the Possum Corner 1989 series.

FOLK ENTERTAINER GARNET ROGERS is traveling from his native Canada to perform April 20 at the Upland Hills Farm in Oxford as part of the Possum Corner Coffee House Series, organized by Clarkston internist Dr. Michael Baker. The singer/musician begins his show at 8 p.m. Tickets are $7.

"He's wonderful, he's one of the best singers," says Coni Baker about her husband.

Quite a number of the musicians in the series are renowned, according to the Bakers, who would know about such things.

One of the headliners in the series is Garnet Rogers, a folk entertainer from Canada, who comes to Michigan on the heels of three solo albums.

Along with a the multitude of other performers, a square dance has been scheduled on one of the dates at Upland Hills Farm.

The Possum Corner series was inspired by an informal concert at a party the Bakers planned.

"We had it in a barn in Clarkston and so many people showed up we couldn't even move," Coni says.

"We had my band and a bluegrass band and another one from Detroit—it was a massive success," Baker adds.

Baker quickly arranged a deal with Upland Farms, and in a separate venture sponsored a band from Ireland that played at Independence Oaks.

"They were right off the boat," Baker says.

The Possum Corner Coffee House Series now functions as a full-fledged, not-for-profit, corporation. Like other corporations it demands a lot of time and energy.

"It gets into your blood," he says. "Originally before we did this we would say 'We could do that here, why go all the way to Ann Arbor.'"

"Now at times we say 'Wow, why didn't we just go down to Ann Arbor,'" Baker says laughing.

Despite the effort required, Baker enthusiastically pushes forward to get the word out about Possum Corner series.

He's talking with Oakland County officials about the possibility of a summer series at Independence Oaks, making Possum Corner a full-blown Possum concert.

Health-O-Rama offers low-cost health screening

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Every year after Health-O-Rama, people come forward to say how the project helped them discover a problem they didn't know existed, according to local Project Coordinator Mary Jane Chaustowich.

"The whole point of this is to give everyone an opportunity for early detection of problems," she said. Entering its tenth year, Health-O-Rama offers free health tests as well as additional tests at a nominal fee to anyone over 18 who wishes to take advantage of the service.

The philosophy behind the project is that a healthy lifestyle should consist of good nutritional practices, frequent exercise and periodic health checks. For one or two hours of your time, you can gain information that can make the difference between serious illness and good health.

This year, Health-O-Rama will take place in the Clarkston area on Thursday, April 27, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Church of the Resurrection, across from the Independence Township Library, at 6490 Clarkston Rd.

Participants will be offered the following free tests and services: height and weight, glaucoma, health hazard appraisal, blood pressure, vision, counseling and referral.

For a $3 fee, colorectal cancer screening kits will be available. They must be mailed back to the laboratory by July 3.

For a $10 fee, a blood panel — a profile of 21 tests — will be available.

Those who wish to take advantage of the blood panel must not eat for four hours prior to the test, other than water, plain tea or plain coffee.

But that doesn't mean that everyone should show up at 9 a.m. before breakfast for the blood tests, Chaustowich said. Rather, the whole service runs much smoother if some people have breakfast, wait four hours, and then come to Health-O-Rama. The four-hour fasting period can be at any time during the day.

Health-O-Rama is a good opportunity for those who do not have medical insurance, since similar tests in a doctor's office cost over $150. And even for those who do have health insurance, the money saved by over 54,000 people using the service annually just in southeastern Michigan alone helps keep insurance costs in check.

Health-O-Rama is sponsored by WXYZ-TV Channel 7, Blue Cross Blue Shield of Michigan, and the United Health Organization (a United Way Agency).

Locally, Health-O-Rama is sponsored by members of the Clarkston Community Women's Club, who volunteer their time to the project annually.

The club is assisted by student volunteers from the Oakland Technical Center-Northwest Campus. The student volunteers, who help with weight, height, vision, etc., are coordinated by Mary Schwabe, instructor in the medical assisting program at the Tech Center.

Chaustowich said they are also grateful to the Rev. Charles Lynch of the Episcopal church for following in the Rev. Alex Stewart's footsteps by giving use of the church at no charge as a community service.

Health-O-Rama will be going on in southeastern Michigan through April 28. For information on any Project Health-O-Rama site, call the Project Hotline at 424-8600 between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Tax reform meeting planned

A tax reform meeting which took place in Groveland Township on April 5 was attended by concerned residents, officials and administrators from many north Oakland County school districts, including Clarkston, Brandon and Holly.

Reporting on the meeting at the Springfield Township board meeting, Supervisor Collin Walls said the group uniformly agreed that there is a problem with school funding and that something needed to be done about it.

"It was a good meeting," he said.

The tax reform group plans another meeting at 7 p.m. April 27 in the Brandon High School complex, just east of Ortonville Road in Brandon Township, and expects an even wider range of attendance.

Earlier this year, resolutions were passed by boards in the northern townships calling for a unified effort for property tax and school financing reform, which led to the tax reform meetings. The meetings are open to the public, and anyone concerned with tax reform is invited to attend.

Hosts needed for foreign exchange students

Would you like to do something worthwhile for yourself, your family, your neighbor and even for the world at large?

Consider an adventure with a foreign exchange program. International Education Forum is a non-profit public benefit organization that brings about 1,200 high school age students from around the world to the United States each year.

Host families are needed for September this year. Families are to provide room and board and the enthusiasm to share their family life with a teenage visitor for three, five or 10 months.

The students are thoroughly screened and tested for their ability to take part in the program. They provide their own spending money and have full medical coverage.

The students come to share in our culture and lifestyle and to learn English better. They bring a world perspective unattainable through books.

Fun for family at Fun Daze

Plans are underway for the third annual Fun Daze in downtown Clarkston late next month.

Many area organizations are taking part in the festivities on Saturday, May 20, said Fun Daze chairman Brent Cooley.

For example: the Clarkston Area Jaycees will conduct all of the games for the younger children, the Clarkston Optimists Club will stage its annual bike rodeo and safety inspection in Depot Park and the Clarkston Athletic Boosters Club will run the concession stands.

Independence Township Parks and Recreation also is heavily involved in the event as are a couple of student groups (Interact and Blue and Gold) from the high school, the chairman said.

While many of the games and fun times will remain the same from the past two years, the course for the fun runs and road races is different, the chairman said.

The races will begin in Depot Park and follow Depot Road to Main Street then right to Middle Lake Road and back into the park for the finish.

"It's going to be a lot more exciting," said Cooley, adding that balloons will line the course. "Lots of things will be raffled off. It'll be a positive family experience."

For more information about Fun Daze including registration details, call the organization's hotline at 625-3550.

LARRY MCGEE, as Judge Frump, practices his role for the Clarkston Village Players latest production, "Tumbleweeds." The play runs Fridays and Saturdays in May with the first performance set for Friday, May 5 at 8 p.m. Tickets cost $5 and are available at Tierra on Main Street in Clarkston. (Photo by Peter Auchter)

Time for Fido's tags, county conducting census

Oakland County Animal Control Division will be conducting their annual dog census in the area from about mid-April through September.

Officials will be going door to door and writing citations to those dog owners who don't have a 1989 Oakland County dog license. The owner will have 15 days in which to purchase a license and call it in. If they fail to get a license in that time, the citation will be turned over to the appropriate district court.

"Last year, we visited 20,000 households and wrote 5,000 tickets," said Carl Anderson, manager of the Oakland County Animal Control Division. "It's the best program we've had."

It is important for people to get their dogs licensed, he stressed, especially with recent cases of rabies in the county turning up. A license is the only way that Animal Control can tell if a dog has a current rabies vaccination.

Proof of current vaccination is mandatory in order to purchase a dog license. Pet owners can buy a license at any township office in Oakland County, regardless of which township they live in.

Another thing Anderson stressed is that owners should put the tag on the dog's collar as soon as they purchase the license. It's the dog's ticket home.

"If they get away (from home), we can get the animal back (to the owner) if they have a tag," he said.

"It's all in a computer."

Animal control workers will be knocking on doors at a variety of daytime and evening hours. They will be easily identifiable by their uniforms and badges.

SEMCOG to meet in Detroit

A group hoping to guide economic growth in greater Detroit is seeking review of its goals and objectives from SEMCOG, the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments.

SEMCOG's executive committee will act on that request April 27 at 2 p.m. in the Holiday Inn Fairlane, 5801 Southfield Service Dr., Detroit.

The goals and objectives were devised by Greater Detroit Economic Development Group, comprised of the leadership of Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties, the city of Detroit, the Michigan Department of Commerce and the Michigan Department of Transportation.

The group claims economic growth and development should occur around existing, under-utilized roads, sewers, schools and other facilities. The approach, the group says, would help control taxes, preserve neighborhoods and rural areas, revitalize older urban areas and protect recreational and environmental resources.

Pain in the Neck?

A pain in the neck could be the result of everyday stress and strain, as well as a jolt from an accident or sports injury. Emotional stress caused by one's job, family or bills can cause abnormal contraction of the neck muscles resulting in pain and stiffness. Jobs, like secretary or auto mechanic, that require a lot of leaning over, tend to make people force their necks forward and hunch their shoulders.

By releasing impinged nerves within your spinal column, chiropractors allow your nervous system to function properly, eliminating the cause of the pain, as well as the pain itself. Let us take care of your pain in the neck. Call today!

Track team searches for first win

Wolves improving

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Although the girls track team has improved since it's season-opening loss to Milford, the Wolves remain winless in 1989.

Clarkston traveled to face last year's county champ, Rochester Adams, on April 11 and lost 77-51. The Highlanders won three of four field events and never looked back in this contest.

"We have a problem making up the points we are losing in the field events," said Coach Gordie Richardson. "But we didn't do badly. It was a better performance than the week before."

Bree Michelsen's 4-foot, 8-inch effort in the high jump was the lone Wolves win in the field events. Nicole Hocking placed second in the long jump at 14-1 and Tracy Chamberlain third at 13-9 1/2.

Clarkston won both the 1600 and 3200-meter relays with Carrie Roeser, Stacy Secatch, Nicole Chinavare and Sonya Schaffer finishing with a time of 4 minutes, 22.61 seconds in the former and Roeser, Jenny Mahler, Chinavare and Schaffer clocking in at 10:12.78 in the latter.

Michelle Folwell took seconds in the 100 and 200 dashes with times of 12.95 and 27.59, respectively. Schaffer was second best in the 400 at 1:06.5.

Clarkston swept the top two spots in the 1600 run thanks to strong performances from Roeser (5:41.5) and Chinavare (5:41.64).

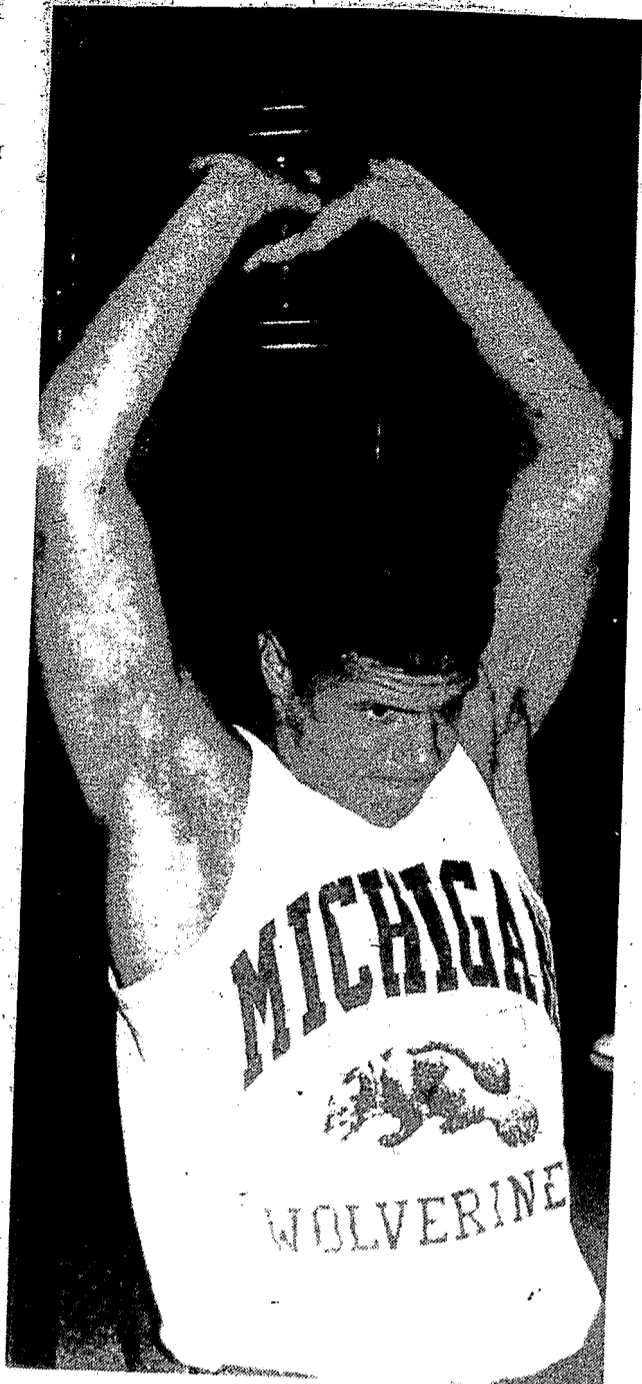

Schaffer won the 800 with a time of 2:33.27, Roeser was second at 2:35.32 and Chinavare third at 2:37.1.

Mahler won the 3200 with a time of 12:41 and Lisa Palazzola finished third at 12:53.

Besides a strong showing in the field events, Adams proved difficult in the hurdles.

"They hurt us in the hurdles," the coach said. "We didn't score a point."

Time Out will return next week.

JOHN KING works out in the weight room at Clarkston High preparing for the Lift-a-thon Friday night.

Lift for charity

After raising $3,500 last year, students at Clarkston High School hope to double that figure during a lift-a-thon Friday night.

The event, at Clarkston High School, is open to all students either as spectators or participants, said football coach Kurt Richardson. Activities get underway at 6:30 p.m.

Proceeds from the event go toward the weight room and the football program, the coach said. T-shirts will be awarded for the best lift and the person with the most pledges.

Anyone interested in joining should contact Richardson at the high school, 625-0900.

New twist for hoops camp

There will be a new twist to the annual Tim McCormick basketball camp this summer. Three students will have the opportunity to enter free thanks to a writing contest.

In 100 words or less kids have to tell why they want to attend McCormick's camp. On June 1, the directors will decide the three winners, said Mike McCormick. All contest entries should be mailed to Tim McCormick Basketball Scholarship Contest, 6595 Middle Lake Road, Clarkston, Mich. 48081 in care of the athletic department.

"It'll create a little excitement and provide an opportunity for those kids who couldn't (otherwise afford it) to come to camp," he said.

The week-long camp at Clarkston High School, open to students in fourth through ninth grade, begins June 21 with the same format as last year. A University of Michigan or Detroit Piston player may make a special appearance during the camp.

Tim McCormick is a former Springfield Township resident who currently plays in the National Basketball Association with the Houston Rockets.

NICOLE HOCKING gets a fast start out of the blocks during a relay race at Clarkston High School recently. Hocking and her teammates are still searching for victory No. 1.

Track team routs Adams

It's either feast or famine for the boys track team at Clarkston High in 1989.

On opening day, the Wolves were routed by Milford at home. The next time out on the track, on the road no less, Clarkston was a winner. A big winner.

"We went from one extreme to the other," said Coach Walt Wyniemko of facing powerful Milford and then not-so-hot Adams the following meet. "I think that (coming off the Milford meet) helped us."

Jody Lueck won three individual events for Clarkston and ran a leg in a winning relay for the Wolves, now 1-1. Lueck finished at 20 feet, 5 inches in the long jump, six feet in the high jump and 15.55 seconds in the 110-meter hurdles. J.J. Price finished atop the pack in the discus with a throw of 141 feet.

Jeff Shupe won the 100 and 200 dashes with times of 11.19 and 22.9, respectively. Chris Blimka won the 400 with a clocking of 53.6, Jason Wenger the 1600 at 4:59.3 and Jeff Locher the 300 hurdles at 44 seconds.

"Their (Rochester Adams) sprinters were pretty good but they were not as strong as they have been in the past," the coach said.

The 3200 relay team of Blimka, Paul Brisson, Chris Vandermark and Wenger won with a time of 8:43. The 800 relay team of Shupe, Marc Pierson, Erich Becker and Lueck finished first at 1:36.5 and the 1600 relay team of John King, Joel Davis, Aaron Knapp and Blimka won with a time of 3:43.2.

The 400 relay team of Dane Davis, Becker, Brett Kinzler and Shupe clocked in at 46.3, good for first place.

ABOUT $300 was raised in the Dance for the Heart aerobics session sponsored by the Clarkston High School Student Council April 8 in the CHS gym. About 30 adults and students showed up for the two-hour program.

Here, Luann Lennox, manager of Body Language in Waterford Township, encourages the group about midway through the period. Also participating were instructors and students in classes run by the Deer Lake Racquet

Club and Independence Township Parks and Recreation. Fresh oranges and orange juice were provided for the dancers. (Photo by Julie Campe)

Pothole season is here — at $17 per repair

How much does it cost to fill a pothole? About $7 for a small pothole patch. About $17 for an average pothole.

Michigan's first major thaw revealed numerous potholes, cracks and disintegrating pavements and the Michigan Department of Transportation is working constantly to patch and repair highways as problems appear. So are the 83 county road commissions and hundreds of municipalities.

MDOT estimates it will use at least 18,000 tons of patching materials during the first six months of 1989 to patch holes on the 9,550 miles of state highways. The average pothole requires 30 pounds of filler.

Because potholes and cracks are primarily caused by moisture under and on the pavement, coupled with Michigan's freeze and thaw cycles, the best way to reduce the number is to ensure that roads are well sealed and have good drainage systems. That helps keep water out of the sub-base beneath the pavement.

The department imposes weight restrictions on certain highways during the spring break-up period when pavement is highly vulnerable. These are imposed on trucks when the ground begins to thaw.

Liberty Bell nominees sought

This year, as in the past, the Oakland County Bar Association is seeking nominees for its Liberty Bell Award to be presented to a person outside the legal profession whose community service has strengthened the American system of freedom under law.

The purpose of the award is to accord public recognition to men and women for promoting a better understanding of the Constitution and the Bill of Rights and encouraging greater respect for law and the courts.

Past award winners have served the community in various ways, including service to charitable boards and commissions and through other volunteer work.

To nominate someone for the 1989 Liberty Bell Award, send his or her name, a brief summary of his or her activities and a telephone number where the candidate may be contacted to: Liberty Bell Award, c/o Oakland County Bar Association, 1200 N. Telegraph, Suite 532, Pontiac, 48053-1057.

Nominations must be submitted by May 12.

School cuts possible

Before they approved the recommendations, the board agreed that some areas could be changed or "fine tuned" later, such as the pay to participate program.

"I do believe the pay to play is going to be very misunderstood," Thomas said. "It's the one political issue in this whole thing."

But board member Tom Howard said, "It's going to cause problems no matter where we cut. People felt the millage would last three years."

The reason it hasn't, according to Director of Business Services Bill Jackson, is threefold. There was a reduction in student enrollment last year that was not anticipated costing the district about $450,000, the state is withdrawing $1.3 million in aid due to changes in the formula for the next school year, and labor costs went up more than anticipated.

The recommended reductions for the 1989-90 school year all center around the state's funding of schools, a point Reschke made when he said, "I hope, in all this discussion, we don't kill the messenger."

Clarkston High post-graduation party planned

"Welcome to the Islands" is the theme for the third annual post-graduation party planned for Clarkston High School seniors.

This year's party will begin at 10 p.m. on June 7, following graduation ceremonies earlier in the day, and continue until 5 a.m. the next day. The party will again take place in the Deer Lake Racquet Club on White Lake Road. The racquet club is made available for the party at a reduced rate.

Co-chairing this year's committee of parents planning the event are Mike and Pam Morris. CHS Principal Dr. Robert Burek is the administrative liaison.

"We've had a great turnout of parents helping this year," Pam said.

There are eight committees working on the senior party, plus a subcommittee working on the senior dinner, which will take place June 4 in the Spring Lake Country Club.

Activities planned for the post-graduation party are similar to previous years. There will be a disk jockey and other entertainment, use of the tennis and racquetball courts and indoor pool, games and other activities planned, including computer button pictures, a popular item at last year's party.

Food will be served all night from grass huts befitting the island theme of the party, and a breakfast will be served at the end of the party.

The committee is again seeking donations of prizes, food items and monetary help from community merchants and organizations, Pam said. This year they have specific requests as well — beachballs, balloons and a helium tank.

Tickets for the party will be on sale at the high school between May 22-30 during lunch hours.

Again this year, once at the party, students must stay. If they leave, they may not return. A parent committee and school administrators will be on hand to monitor the party, but there has been little or no trouble with the past parties.

Typical island decor will carry the party theme throughout the racquet club, and participants are invited to dress for the islands. T-shirts with the theme are being given out for early purchasers of tickets.

Seniors are encouraged to bring their cameras and yearbooks as they close out their high school years at the post-graduation party.

"Kids get real emotional at the end," Pam said. "Some even came back to the high school last year after the party and slept on the lawn in sleeping bags."

While students are helping with publicity posters and other plans for the party, basically it is something the parents get involved in, said Charlotte Cooper, who is in charge of decorations for the party. "It's our gift to them."

CHAIRING THE CHS post-graduation party for seniors this year are (from left) Pam and Mike Morris. Charlotte Cooper is chairman of decorations, which this year will follow the theme, "Welcome to the Islands." Tickets at $10 will be on sale from May 22-30.

Taxes, Taxes, Taxes

by Burnell King

Home sweet home.
Where the taxes roam
Higher, higher, higher
To each successive buyer.
These taxes will stop
Only when you and I drop.
Our children will take over
Thinking they're in clover.
But taxes will go on
When our kids are gone.
Let all taxes stop now
for us, our children, let's vow!

Opinion of Bill Myers

The Clarkston (Mich.) News Wed., April 19, 1989 27

The long and the short of it

William A. Myers is a retired Lapeer County editor and investments manager from Boca Raton, Fla.

What happens to a $10,000 bond bought at par in January 1989 if interest rates in one year:

1. Drop a full point or 1 percent

A two-year government bought at a rate of 9.15 percent will be worth 100.9. (It will then have only one year to maturity). A 10-year government bought at the same rate of 9.15 percent will go up to 106.3. A 10-year corporate bought at a 10 percent rate will be a mite higher - 106.8. A 10-year tax-exempt bought at a 6.9 percent rate will be 106.9.

Summary: The 10-year bonds show capital gains seven times as much as the short bonds - the two-year maturities - bought now.

Now look at what 30-year bonds do a year from now if rates drop a point or 1 percent:

A 30-year government, bought at a rate now of 9 percent will go up to 111.2. A 30-year tax-free, bought now at 7.75 percent, will go up to 112.6.

So the long ones, the 30-year maturities, climb nearly twice as much as the 10-year bonds - and 12 times as much as the short two-year bonds bought now.

Question: If you think interest rates are going down, what's the big deal in buying short bonds?

2. If rates climb a full point or 1 percent

The two-year government falls off only to 99.1. The 10-year 9.15 percent government drops to 94.2. The 10-year corporate 10 percent bond falls to 94.4. The 10-year tax-free drops a little more to 93.6. The 30-year 7.75 percent tax-free sags to 89.5.

The short government turns out to be the best buy in this time frame of one year. Since it had only two years to run originally, after a year there is only one year to go to maturity, when it will pay off at 100. It essentially gets out of the comparisons percentage-wise.

The 10-year bonds fall off about 6 points and the 30-year ones drop about 10 points. The extra yield of 0.8 percent doesn't do much to compensate for the extra four points of drop in price.

Question: Why on earth would you want to buy long bonds?

Answer: Because your investment horizon goes out more than a year - or at least, mine does.

Assume a $10,000 investment now. Flip the calendar to 1999 - 10 years ahead. The 10-year tax-free, which yields 6.9 percent, matures, and you receive $10,000, your original investment. You have gotten $690 in interest annually for the period.

Bond redeemed $10,000

Total interest 6,900

Total return $16,900

The 30-year bond in 10 years is now a 20-year bond in the market, and if nothing has happened to interest rates, it is worth more because it's a shorter bond. It would sell on a 7.40 percent basis instead of the 7.75. So factor that into the climb of 1 percent in rates we have assumed in the above comparisons, and the bond has still fallen to $9,375 in the market. But: it has been earning $775 in interest every year.

So:

Market value $9,375

Total interest 7,750

Total return $17,125

So I'm a little bit ahead, and I have some high interest locked in for the rest of the bond.

Final comments: If rates go down, you're in clover with longer bonds. If you sell, your capital gains are several times as much as with shorter bonds. And if rates go down and you don't sell, you still have the larger coupons or interest returns coming in. Short bonds mature and replacements come in at lower rates in this event. With longer bonds, your annual income is higher.

Now the other side of the coin: if bond prices go down, your bonds are worth less. Well, if you have to sell ahead of maturity, you'll take a loss. Some of it - indeed, maybe all the loss - will be absorbed by the higher income you had while you owned them. It depends on the length of time and the amount of drop in price.

You'll save a little on commissions with longer bonds. You buy a two-year bond instead of a 30-year bond, you'll make 15 trips to the market and pay a commission each time over the 30 years.

Brokers tend to push the shorter maturities, because in bad markets the prices don't fall off so much. Customers feel falls in price more than they do gains, for some funny reason. Who needs an unhappy customer?

Most do-it-yourself investors I know like shorter bonds. They feel safer in a field which is sort of strange to them.

I mention a bond due in 2020, and they say, "Wow! Boy, that's a long time to maturity."

I ask gently, "And when, pray tell, does your IBM stock mature?"

The Clarkston News

SECTION 2

Township woman wears many hats

BY PAT YOUNG
Clarkston News Staff Writer

By day, you might find Dr. Pam Marin, executive assistant to the president of Oakland University (OU) in Rochester, busy with administrative duties, coordinating special functions or dealing with leaders of student government on special projects.

Several times a month in the early morning hours, you might find her in the heart of Pontiac at HAVEN (Help Against Violent Encounters Now) leading a board meeting or sub-committee meeting.

Marin serves as president of the board for HAVEN, a domestic violence shelter and sexual assault counseling center serving Oakland County, where victims of abuse can get the help and encouragement needed to rebuild their lives.

In the evenings, she might be lecturing in an OU class in the counseling program. And on Saturday mornings, she is frequently back at OU, running various tests in the testing center, such as admission tests, exams for real estate licenses, etc. She works with testing agencies who use the university testing facilities.

You might just as likely find her, any time of day or evening, involved in her own career counseling program.

"When the board meets at HAVEN, it puts you face to face with the issue. It's no longer an abstract issue. It's real."

She does training and counseling based on the Myers-Briggs Type Indicator, a unique, internationally utilized testing program that allows her to interpret personalities and strengths in people and is useful in areas such as enhancing team work in businesses and offices.

The common link in all of Marin's activities is people.

"So much of (what I do) I don't consider as work," Marin says. "My administrative responsibility at OU is what I consider work."

"The other things I chose to do," she says. They are things she does in her "leisure time."

"The work is very rewarding — HAVEN, Myers-Briggs, teaching," she continues. "All of it is serving my fellow man."

There was a time in her life when tennis and bowling also fit in, but time constraints and back problems have phased out such activities.

Still, on summer weekends, you might find Marin and her husband, Bob, spending a leisurely weekend on their boat. You won't often find Marin at her Thendara Park, Independence Township, home, though.

"I've been pretty lucky. Everything I've been involved in, I've enjoyed."

"I have an understanding husband and two understanding dogs, Rusty and Dusty," she laughs.

Her husband is busy with his own business, the Shell Oil Station at Maple and Crooks in Troy.

"I've been pretty lucky," Marin says. "Everything I've been involved in, I've enjoyed."

Marin got involved with HAVEN seven years ago as a member of the board of directors and executive committee. She has chaired numerous committees over the years and was elected president of the board in February.

DR. PAM MARIN, executive assistant to the president of Oakland University, Rochester, was recently elected president of HAVEN's board of directors in Pontiac.

Her original involvement came when HAVEN wanted an OU representative on the board, and she was recommended for the job.

Part of the reason was due to her administrative knowledge, she says. But the other link is her background in counseling and her special interest in working with adults.

"It was a real natural for me," she says.

She is actively involved in various fundraisers for the shelter, such as an upcoming bowling benefit in April and a summer golf outing. There probably isn't a committee she hasn't been involved in.

Several other area residents serve on HAVEN's board, too, including Capt. Carl Matheny of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department and Rosemary Gilchrist of the Preferred Medical Associates. Christine Wyatt served last year and this year is a part of the HAVEN staff.

One of the most frustrating parts of working on HAVEN's board, Marin says, is that she would like to be more involved.

"The interest is in the people we serve," she says, the families who turn to HAVEN for help.

But she says, "You can only spread yourself so thin."

So she had to come to grips with, "What are my strengths to best serve?" and she gives to HAVEN her expertise in administration.

The counselor in her finds other outlets, like helping offices put their work force to better use through the Myers-Briggs Type Indicator.

"The Myers-Briggs was created in the 1920's based on a Swiss psychologist, Carl Jung," she explains. A mother — Jung's student — and her daughter formed a team and collaborated on putting the program together.

It has been used for over 20 years by counselors and psychologists.

"It is a rich, cross-cultural theory," says Marin, who uses the test extensively in her own career counseling work.

Marin earned a bachelor's degree in psychology (See MARIN, on Page 31)

HAVEN harbors victims of violence

HAVEN (Help Against Violent Encounters Now) occupies a unique place in the community as Oakland County's only domestic violence shelter, able to house 15 to 20 families.

HAVEN, a United Way and United Foundation agency, has prevention, counseling, support and intervention programs available, including a 24-hour-crisis intervention hotline (334-1274) for people in need.

They also offer outreach counseling programs in the county. One is located in Southfield, the other in a Clarkston-area church. Groups meet once a week in the outreach program. Currently the Clarkston group is a six-month program for the batterers, the offenders who physically or emotionally abuse their partners.

"I think it is good for people to know we're out there (in the communities)," said Joyce Wright, director of communications for HAVEN.

During 1988, HAVEN handled 5,509 crisis calls, made 710 speeches and presentations, offered emergency shelter to 794 individuals, provided victim advocacy support (legal, medical and human services) to 403 individuals, and counseled 408 individuals for child sexual assault.

More information about HAVEN programs is available by calling 334-1284.

Marin serves on HAVEN board

with a minor in mathematics from the University of Detroit in 1970 and a master's degree in education from U of D in 1971. She earned her Ph.D. in guidance and counseling from the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, in 1984.

"I like to deal with the here and now, the concrete things. I like to see the results. I've learned the necessity of the abstract, and you need to do both. But when I have the choice, I like to roll up my sleeves and do it."

She is also registered as a National Certified Counselor and a National Certified Career Counselor.

In addition to continuing education programs, as well as many extra-curricular activities and committees she serves on at OU, where she has been employed since 1973, Marin has served on numerous other community service projects. She also has published articles and lead presentations in her field.

It is easy to see that Marin likes to get involved, and likes to deal with real issues.

A good illustration of this is the fact that HAVEN's board prefers to meet at the facility itself rather than a different, perhaps more convenient location.

"When the board meets at HAVEN, it puts you face to face with the issue," she says. "It's no longer an abstract issue. It's real."

It is important for Pam Marin to be physically involved in those causes she works for.

"I like to deal with the here and now, the concrete things," she says. "I like to see the results. I've learned the necessity of the abstract, and you need to do both. But when I have the choice, I like to roll up my sleeves and do it."

T.O.P.S. open house

The annual T.O.P.S. open house is set up for those who are interested in "Taking Off Pounds Sensibly."

The meeting is set for 7 p.m. Thursday, April 20, at the senior citizens carriage house in Clintonwood Park, off Clarkston Road, Independence Township.

T.O.P.S. offers support and information with fun incentives to make a more enjoyable trip toward a new, slim body.

Friend to Friend

Prom weekend looms

Dear Friend to Friend:

I'm a senior girl and it's kind of getting close to Prom time. I went to a Prom last year, and I had a really good time.

But this year, I have no one in mind to go with. I feel like I should.

I could arrange other activities for Prom weekend with no problem, but I hesitate because I'll feel like I'll regret missing out on a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity.

It seems like everyone is so excited, but I'm not. I mean it's fun to think about it; but a lot of the thrill is gone because I went last year.

Peer pressure is playing a part in this, too. When people ask if I'm going, I don't know what to say because if you say "no," others will think that you just aren't good enough to get asked, I hate feeling this way, but I do.

I know my reasons, but I just don't feel I have to explain to them,

How can I deal with this, because it still bothers me.

Outcast

Dear Outcast:

Prom seems to be on every senior's mind these days. The more you hear people talk about it, the more anxious you become.

We feel Prom is only important if it's important to you. You don't have to please your peers. It's most important to be happy with yourself and your decisions.

There is always the opportunity that you could ask someone, not as boyfriend-girlfriend, but just as a friendly date relationship.

If you're worried about what others think about you not being good enough to be asked, don't! It will drive you crazy! You need to find that self-confidence from within.

Don't think that you are the only one with "Prom-anxiety" because it's all over the place!

You need to get your priorities in order, so this one thing doesn't take over all your thoughts.

There are many other great experiences to look forward to in the future. Focus on those. Don't let what someone else think ruin the good time you are looking forward to.

Good Luck and we hope you have fun at whatever your decision turns out to be!

Board of Education tax hearing planned

Clarkston Board of Education will hold a Truth in Taxation public hearing at 7 p.m. Thursday, June 1, in the board offices, 6389 Clarkston Rd., Independence Township.

The public hearing is necessary, by state law, in order for the school board to levy the current operational millage rate (36.5622 mills), minus any Headlee rollback, when property tax assessments have increased.

One mill is $1 for every $1,000 assessed property valuation. According to the Headlee amendment, the millage rate is rolled back whenever property values increase at a rate higher than the rate of inflation.

PRAYER TO THE HOLY Spirit. Holy spirit. You make me see everything and show me the way to reach my ideals. You give me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrongs that are done to me and you are in all instances of my life with me. I, in this short dialogue, want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you no matter how great the material desire may be. I want to be with you, and my loved ones, in your perpetual glory. Amen. Persons must pray this prayer three consecutive days without asking for your wish. After the third day your wish will be granted, no matter how difficult it may be. Then promise to publish this dialogue as soon as your favor has been granted. ILLX16-1
