Pay up!

*Pay-for-play deadline
set by athletic director*

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

With pay-to-play sports looming on the horizon, the best Athletic Director Paul Tungate can hope for is to avoid the worst.

Until the students show up with money in hand, ready to sign up on registration day, he won't know how bad (or good) the situation will be for the 1989-90 school year for Clarkston Community Schools.

"I hope it won't have an impact, but at this point, I'm in the dark," Tungate said. "I have to wait until Aug. 14. I won't know where we stand until then."

At that time, students will decide which sports will run this season. If a minimum number of participants in any of the sports isn't reached, it will be canceled, Tungate said.

For now, all he can do is review statistics from other school districts that require pay-for-play sports. Fortunately, Clarkston's situation isn't as bad as others.

Lapeer schools, for instance, used a full play-for-pay scale that called for students to pay $275 to play. Clarkston high school students will pay $164.

Lapeer had only half as many football players, no girls or boys track teams and no girls soccer. Since

Bacteria suspected in illnesses

Reports of sick children have prompted the closure of the Hidden Springs swimming pond in the Independence Oaks County Park on Sashabaw Road.

Health Department officials have begun testing the water for the shigella bacteria, which is known to cause the symptoms reported.

Independence Oaks personnel closed the pond Monday, July 17, after receiving calls from about 20 residents since last week, according to Ray Delasko, supervisor of the county park.

In most cases the children suffered from diarrhea and fever.

"It was our decision to close as a precaution," Delasko said. "We've had good quality water. This is a real surprise."

The Oakland County Health Department first checked the area visually, looking for things like sewer related problems, and found nothing. They checked the construction of a well serving the area, as well as the beach in general.

"At this point, we don't know what's going on," said Gary Frick, supervisor of environmental health services. "We've had a lot of reports of individual illnesses, and a common thread is Independence Oaks." Some of the reports called in to the health department have been from area hospitals, who have diagnosed the problem as a shigella infection, Frick said.

Results from the health department tests were to be completed late July 18 or July 19.

The bacteria is commonly spread by insects or through human contact. The disease can also be spread by

Country-western in Depot Park

You might want to get out your cowboy boots for this week's free concert in Depot Park, Clarkston.

The Skee Brothers, a country-western band, will be performing from 7-9 p.m. Friday, July 21, in the park on Depot Road in the Village of Clarkston.

The ninth annual concert series is sponsored by the Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce, and organizer Joan Kopietz recommends concert-goers take a blanket, picnic dinner and lots of bug spray.

Donations to help pay the Chamber's $1,400 portion of the $2,500 cost of the concerts are accepted at Clarkston area businesses and at the park.

The last concert this year is set for Friday, July 28, when the Tailgate Ramblers will perform Dixieland music.

Clarkston athletic director readies for season

Clarkston students will pay less, Tungate hopes the negative impact will be proportionately less as well.

While he's unsure of the student turnout for sports this fall, he knows he can count on the fans.

"Our spectator support will be as good as ever," he said.

Unfortunately, the fans will carry a portion of the pay-for-play sports programs through higher ticket prices.

The cost for football/basketball tickets now is $3, up from $2. Other sports are $2. These funds will only make up a small part of athletic budget.

More financial relief may come from the Clarkston Athletic Boosters. The club scheduled a special meeting July 18 to discuss the possibility of fund-raisers for the athletic department.

The money the boosters have now is earmarked for other things, and kids and their parents may want to get involved to make extra funds, President Dwight Spiker said. Personally, Spiker doesn't like the idea of pay-for-play sports.

"I don't like it. ... We went out last year and fought real hard for the millage, and they said it was for three years. This year, they say it's all gone," he said. "Pay-for-play would just try to put pressure on people to vote the millage in."

But that's not to say he's throwing in the towel just yet.

"If you've got to have it, you've got to have it," he said of pay-for-play.

Letter tells parents about pay-for-play

Parents of all student-athletes in the Clarkston school district should watch their mail boxes. News of the pay-for-play system is on its way.

Athletic Director Paul Tungate currently is in the process of mailing out a two-page letter outlining what will happen during the 1989-90 school year.

The letter includes an invitation to all parents of athletes to a meeting at the Clarkston High School gym on Monday, Aug. 7, at 7 p.m.

Part of Tungate's letter follows:

"As a result of the June 12 defeat of the Headlee override proposal, the board of education has to make cuts amounting to 1.6 million dollars. Therefore, athletics will be affected by a budget decrease of $156,000 which will result in a pay-to-participate program for the 1989-90 school year.

Following is the procedure and program details.

* The fee established will be $164 per athlete per sport in grades 9-12, and $100 per athlete per sport in 7-8.

* Payment will be due for all 9-12 grade sports on Monday, Aug. 14 (fall sports); Monday, Nov. 12 (winter sports); and Monday, March 4 (spring sports).

* Scholarships will be available to students with financial hardships. The school free or reduced lunch program will be utilized to permit scholarships. Students must apply to athletic director for this scholarship.

* There will be no refunds unless athlete does not make the team or an injury takes place which disallows participation. A doctor's authorization letter must be submitted, but if the injury takes place after the midpoint of the scheduled contest, no refund will be granted.

* The fee paid does not guarantee playing time for the athlete.

* A minimum number of participants will be established by the athletic director for each sport. If these numbers are not met, the respective sport will be canceled and money will be refunded.

* Any excess fees will be refunded at the end of the school year to each paying athlete."

Collector specializes in Apollo 11 moon mission

"That's one small step for a man, one giant leap for mankind."

Neil Armstrong

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

If you can't get to the moon, the next best thing to do is to dream about it or collect items about those who did.

Lillian Machowski has spent the last 20 years collecting memorabilia about the first landing mission on the moon July 20, 1969, when Apollo 11 touched down.

Machowski, a Shappie Road, Independence Township resident, has cataloged more than 660 items in her collection about Apollo and the astronauts aboard the rocket ship.

"Most of it I collected right after it happened," she said. "I asked for eyes and ears (of others) because I couldn't be everywhere (to do the collecting)."

Machowski said she has tried to keep most of the collectibles in their original wrappers or containers

"I was on the couch. Everybody was asleep. I was praying and crying -- I was so moved -- I woke up my father."

Lillian Machowski

marked with the price. Although she hasn't calculated how much she has spent on the items, they're becoming more valuable with time.

One of her favorite items is a picture of three astronauts, Neil Armstrong, Edwin (Buzz) Aldrin Jr. and Michael Collins, purchased for 19 cents at Wrigley's, a supermarket chain no longer in existence.

Most of the items bear price tags of 20 years ago, for example, gift wrap with space flight on it and packaged by American Greeting is marked 35 cents.

"There's a price you won't see today," said Machowski.

She even has a box of bubble gum, wrappers intact, about the size of baseball cards, bearing the Apollo flight.

Machowski likes to display her collectibles for other to see. She had several showings during the 10th anniversary at area malls, including Hudson's at the Pontiac Mall (now the Summit Place) and at Meadowbrook Mall.

She currently has over 100 items on display at Montgomery Developmental Training Center in Waterford where her 22-year-old daughter, Marsha, is a student.

Machowski has been married to her husband, Ed, for 41 years; and her son, Tom, has two sons. She's planning a trip to the space museum in Jackson with her grandsons.

Machowski's daughter has cerebral palsy and requires 24-hour care, which Machowski lovingly administers. Because of Marsha's disabilities Machowski doesn't travel much except in her dreams.

"I like to write science fiction," she said. "I've probably been around the world four times."

Machowski doesn't stop with just her collection of the lunar landing. She likes to bake cakes and make candies and has a doll collection. Marsha also has a doll collection.

"I love gardening," she added to the list of her hobbies, and she wants to learn how to play the piano sometime in the future.

When asked if she would go to the moon if she had a chance she replied, "Oh, God, I'd love it."

She remembers clearly what was happening during the actual lunar landing that was televised on July 20, 1969.

"I was on the couch. Everybody was asleep. I was praying and crying -- I was so moved -- I woke up my father," she said.

LILLIAN Machowski poses with a picture of the three astronauts who landed on the moon: Neil Armstrong, Edwin (Buzz) Aldrin Jr. and Michael Collins.

Battling blight with ordinance

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A plan to better control the exterior condition of homes in Independence Township won a first approval from the township board July 11.

Members unanimously approved an addition to the Property Maintenance Ordinance, which establishes a procedure for handling property violations.

The new provision requires property owners to maintain exterior improvements so they will not result in a blighting effect, a reduction in surrounding property values or harm surrounding properties.

The improvements include things such as driveways, parking lots, screening, drainage and grading of a property.

The proposal was primarily designed to cover homes, under construction, said Beverly McElmeel, building department director.

"Homes that are under construction longer than what's reasonable -- say an 18-month period -- are a problem in the neighborhood," McElmeel told the board.

"I don't have an ordinance on the books that would allow me to deal with that situation," she said.

McElmeel described one home on Rattalee Lake Road that had been under construction for four years. The grounds were overgrown and ungraded, McElmeel said.

Under the ordinance, the property owner would be notified in writing of a specific problem. If the violations are not corrected within a period of time, a hearing is scheduled to allow the property owner to explain why the improvements should not be required.

Board members questioned the definition of "blight" and asked what constituted a violation.

Township Attorney Gerald Fisher said it was difficult to be more specific in the language of the ordinance because a wide range of situations may need to be addressed.

21-unit condo development in Springfield OK'd

BY BONNIE WATTLEWORTH
Clarkston News Special Writer

The Springfield Township Board unanimously approved the first phase of the Country Lane Estates site condominium cluster July 13.

Phase I consists of 21 condominium units to be built on part of a 100-acre site on Scott Road.

The board will consider and vote on Phases II and III of the development separately. These two phases would add 44 condominium units to the site.

When the plans were introduced to the board at the June 7 meeting, they were opposed by several area homeowners because of possible drainage and traffic problems.

Area resident Larry Howard voiced concerns July 13 that the site might increase water drainage onto his property, which has had problems with flooding in the past.

"It's one of my concerns that it will flood me right out," he said to the 7-member board. "There is water laying out there (on his property) right now."

But the plan passed by the board included amendments designed to protect area residents from possible drainage problems.

Engineer Del Lohff of Kieft Engineering in Independence Township, explained that the site plans include the addition of a berm, or dirt mound, which would increase the water storage capacity of an area near Scott Road.

"The area has excellent natural retention," said Lohff, who represented the developer. "We will be adding a slight amount of drainage, but we've got plenty of storage capacity."

Board Supervisor Collin Walls explained that drainage from the site will travel north into the berm area and northwest into a 13-acre wetland area.

The berm will allow extra water retention in the event of heavy rainfall, Walls said.

Howard said he had no objections to the addition of the berm.

Future Country Lane Estates buyers will own only their unit and the small parcel of land their unit occupies.

A condominium association consisting of all homeowners owns the property around the units. The association also is responsible for maintenance services, such as snow removal.

The association already has been created, but it has no members or board of directors, said the developer's attorney Lee Knauff. He compared the association to a skeleton.

"Life will be breathed into the skull," he said. "All we need to do is sell some lots and get some members."

Clintonville field hot spot for car thieves

BY BONNIE WATTLEWORTH
Clarkston News Special Writer

Two cars were stripped and burned last week in a field off of Clintonville Road north of Mann Road, Independence Township, a fire department official reported.

Capt. Steve Ronk of the Independence Township Fire Department said the Clintonville property seems to be experiencing a streak of similar arsons.

"It seems like every other night we're up with a gutted-out car," he said.

The quarter-mile area is a popular spot for out-of-town car thieves to drop off stolen vehicles, Ronk said. The thieves drive the stolen car to the property via I-75, strip it and then burn it.

"It's easy access -- it's a remote area," Ronk said. "They bring them up the expressway and dump them off."

Ronk also said he thinks the field's popularity stems from its "extensive network of roads," created by motorcycle riders and people who go "four-wheeling."

The Clintonville property has had similar streaks of vehicle-burnings in the past, he said.

One of the two cars destroyed during the latest streak was from Sterling Heights. The other was stripped and burned to the point that its vehicle number could not be identified.

"It had no identifying marks," Ronk said. "Everything was removed or burned."

The Oakland County Sheriff's Department's arson unit is investigating the incidents.

Cleanup set for next 2 Saturdays

So long, old sneakers, broken furniture and fallen tree limbs. Residents in Independence Township have two more Saturdays to dump refuse for a small fee.

Usually, township officials schedule a spring cleanup day, but this year it was delayed until three summer Saturdays. For the remaining days, the dump site at the department of public works is open 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday, July 22 and 29.

Participants must prove residency before dumping.

Following is the list of fees charged per type of load: automobiles, $5; automobiles with single-axle trailers, vans and pickup trucks, $10; pickups with single-axle trailers, flatbed single-axle trucks, dual axle trailers and five-yard pickup trucks all pay $25.

Several materials are not allowed, including: fuel oil drums, barrels, propane cylinders, automobiles or vehicles of any kind and chemicals of any kind.

Apartment developer wants exclusive water rights

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Sharp words over water rights were traded between Independence Township board members and a developer July 12.

The board was discussing a water agreement sought by Dart Properties for its 286-unit multiple dwelling development on Sashabaw Road, just north of Maybee Road.

Dart representative Bernard Leahy told the board that his company was having difficulty finding wells to supply adequate water levels on the 49-acre site.

Leahy said Dart wants sole rights to water in the wells until the area is connected to the township's water main loop system.

Board members did not like the plan.

"I think that's an unreasonable thing to do," said Trustee William Vandermark. "It's a complete break with past precedent. The purpose of having a dedicated water system is so they support each other."

After further discussion, Vandermark made a motion to table the proposal, which provoked a heated response from the developer.

"It's been 48 days (since this was first proposed)," Leahy said angrily, adding that township attorney Gerald Fisher was not providing a "sufficient response." He accused Fisher of not responding quickly enough to his attorney's requests.

Trustee Frank Millard responded by offering to reject the proposal that night if the developer insisted on a faster answer and intended to ramrod the proposal through the board.

Fisher also spoke up, saying he had already spoken with Leahy's attorney and had offered a proposal, but Leahy's attorney rejected it.

"They want to resume water rights for themselves," Fisher said. "It's inconsistent with the township."

"With all due respect, Mr. Leahy, you're out of line."

Fisher added that the two sides could probably come to some kind of agreement on the water issue.

Supervisor Frank Ronk told the developer that the township would move as quickly as "your attorney can fall within the guidelines of the township."

After the heated exchange, which lasted for several minutes, Leahy picked up his materials and stormed out of the the meeting room.

The first man on the moon

"One small step for a man, one giant leap for mankind." With those words 20 years ago, astronaut Neil Armstrong secured a place in history July 20, 1969, as the first man to walk on the moon's surface.

Apollo 11, carrying Armstrong and Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. and Michael Collins, was the first manned spacecraft to land on the moon.

In May 1961, President John F. Kennedy had committed the United States to landing a manned spacecraft on the moon "before this decade is out." The moon landing program was named Apollo.

When Apollo 11 landed, and Armstrong stepped onto the moon's surface, he reported sinking approximately 1/8 inch into the fine powdery surface material.

Aldrin joined Armstrong, and together they took photographs, collected lunar soil and planted the United States flag.

Machine shop adds 2,500 square feet

Carbide Form Master, Inc., earned praise for its landscaping as well as approval for a larger office and shop.

The Springfield Township Board unanimously approved a 2,500 square-foot addition to the Dixie Highway business at the July 13 meeting.

Additions are planned for the back and front of the building, said company owner James Stoglin.

"We will be making the office bigger and the shop bigger," he said.

Board members did not let the plan go through without asking Stoglin about the addition's impact on surrounding landmarks.

Trustee Dennis Vallad asked if the addition, which will be five feet from a well, could cause health problems by interfering with the water supply.

Supervisor Collin Walls said the addition would not create health problems. But he did ask Stoglin if the addition would cause problems for utility workers trying to access the well.

"There is 15 feet alongside the building to get to the well," Stoglin said, adding that the space would give utility workers plenty of room to get to the well.

Vallad also asked if the addition would interfere with a utility pole and transformer that are 10 feet from the planned addition.

"The plans were drawn up by a licensed architect," Stoglin said. "He doesn't see a problem with it."

Carbide Form Master, Inc., is a machine shop manufacturing tools. But board members said no one would ever know it was a machine shop because of landscaping.

"You've made it an asset," said Trustee Lois Stiles, after approving the addition.

Opinions

To be

Julie

My sister Carol and her husband, Dan, witnessed a discovery the other day while watching volleyball games at Clintonwood Park.

They were sitting quietly on a picnic table under a tree, and apparently they were so quiet that two little kids playing there forgot all about them.

The little girl was playing with a doll, and a little boy was foraging the earth. Suddenly, he came running back to the little girl at the picnic table. He was carrying a stick.

"Look!" he shouted. "I've got poop on it."

"Really?" she answered, excitedly, and she bent over to get a close look at the stuff at the end of the stick.

They marveled for a moment, sniffing and testing and talking back and forth about the wonder of all wonders.

Soon they realized they had an audience, and they scurried to another picnic table.

About a year ago, my other sister Valerie was explaining to her 2 1/2-year-old, Ursula, that they would be moving to a new house.

Valerie carefully went over everything, telling Ursula that they would put all her belongings in boxes and would carry them to the new house.

Ursula seemed to grasp it all, and she went off to play. Soon, she ran back and asked, "Can I take my toys with me?"

Valerie assured her that all of her toys would accompany her on the move. Ursula went off to play again and soon ran back to see Valerie.

"Mom, can I take my books with me?"

Again, Valerie went over all of the items that Ursula owned and would be taking to the new house.

A few hours passed, and then Ursula casually asked, "Can Daddy and Sybilla (the cat) come, too?"

(The answer was yes.)

Once, when we were little, my brother Andy came and asked by brother Ronny and I for a gaw.

"What's a gaw?" we asked him, but Andy only got angry.

"Stop teasing me," he said. "You know what a gaw is. I need one. Where are they?"

We tried to get him to explain the gaw, but he only became angrier and angrier, and he refused, convinced that we were teasing him (we never would have done anything like that to our little brother, honest).

Finally, he burst out with it. "There's a whole bunch of gaws (gauze) around here somewhere, and I only need one. Why don't you just get it for me?"

I used to read a lot when I was a little kid, and sometimes I was disappointed to hear how words were supposed to be pronounced. If you read words to yourself, you can make them sound any way you want.

A full year must have gone by after I discovered the word "melancholy" in print and finally heard it pronounced.

I used to pronounce it in my head with the accent on the second syllable (melancholy). And I pronounced the "ch" as the "ch" is pronounced in "cheese," rather than "k."

It sounded so beautiful that I interpreted it to be a happy feeling. I wonder how many children's books I just didn't get because of that misinterpretation?

Letter to Editor

In support of flag

We of the American Legion, Chief Pontiac Post and Unit #377, are appalled that Gregory Johnson is being allowed to violate the sanctity of that which we hold so dear to our hearts: the American flag.

The high court talks about this man's constitutional rights. What about the constitutional rights of all the men and women who have paid the ultimate price to keep "Old Glory" free?

What about the men and women who are still in our VA hospitals? Where are their constitutional rights? Ask these men and women about Gregory Johnson's rights.

We have veterans in our VA hospitals so indigent that they can't afford a candy bar. Yet our government is still cutting back on services rendered to these people.

The latest is that they are allowed only one packet of sugar to a cup of coffee. How much is it costing our government to worry about Gregory Johnson's constitutional rights?

The proper and legal way to retire a flag that is torn and faded is to burn it but not the way Gregory Johnson chose to do it and for the reason he chose to do it.

Twice a year, Post #377 holds a "flag cremation ceremony," and we retire old flags with honor and dignity. Just recently, we retired 35 flags. It is a beautiful ceremony and one that should be held in a public place.

It is a shame that it took something like this to get us angry enough to realize just how much the "red, white and blue" means to us. Remember the name Gregory Johnson the next time Old Glory passes by, and salute that flag with all the pride you have in your heart.

Enough men and women died for it.

Jim's Jottings

It has been established the average time between throwing something out and needing it is about two weeks.

I was reminded of that by Bob MacDonald in the column he writes for his Gratiot County Herald in Ithaca.

I agree with Bob when he says months, even years can pass by without wanting an item stored away in the basement, desk drawer at the office, or overhead in the garage . . . articles I know will be needed someday.

Then, during a regular decade cleaning, the item is tossed, the need for it having been forgotten. Right after the trash picker-upper rounds the corner the emergency arises calling for the just-discarded thing. It isn't always two weeks.

On the other hand, we do get by . . . the world doesn't end or the problem go unsolved for lack of the thing. Don't worry, be happy.

I heard a hearing expert say much of the rock music played today is at decibels compared to a jet airplane taking off 100 feet away. The doctor was concerned at the increased number of younger patients with hearing deficiencies.

He said occupational health safety rules require people working in places with loud noise (like jets) to wear mufflers on their ears. Why not require those who listen to too-loud music to wear plugs, he asked? No answer required.

Americans collectively grow six square miles of skin.

McDonald's restaurants serve the equivalent of 2,250 head of cattle to hamburger-hungry customers.

The hearts of Americans collectively pump more than 400 billion gallons of blood equal to the flow of the Mississippi River at Vicksburg.

In a way, Indianwood is for all

To have such a successful event take place in your community has got to be a big plus.

The U. S. Women's Open golf tourney staged at Indianwood Golf and Country Club last week could not have been improved upon for course design, publicity, hospitality, and or participation.

The most outstanding women golfers in the world were here playing on one of the most outstanding golf courses in the world. High praise was heaped on owner Stan Aldridge by golfers, Ladies Golf Professional officials, PGA representatives, and visitors.

Laura Davies, 1987 U. S. Open winner from England, said Indianwood was the finest golf course she has ever played on. She plays all over the world.

Aldridge was beside himself with the success of the tourney. He asked a long-time member, "Did you ever believe you would see such a thing at Indianwood? In my wildest dreams I didn't see this event being this successful."

He talked about the 1,100 volunteers who worked the Open, then he talked about his neighbors who called to offer help . . . and the township officials . . . saying/asking, "Don't you think the whole community benefits from something like this?"

We certainly do. The event itself, then the trickle down benefits from word of mouth, from visitors who see the course and the area, and from the media. "Everybody has been just so darn nice," Aldridge said.

In his eight years of ownership Aldridge has brought Indianwood from a failing, 64-member golf course to a prospering, 550-member complex with two 18-hole courses and a clubhouse facility that is second to none.

Indeed, Indianwood is today a major draw, attracting people from throughout Michigan. All within the general northeast Oakland area and maybe all of southeast Michigan can boast of having Indianwood Golf and Country Club in our midst. JAS

Life in the fast lane

Swarms of student drivers are on the roads this summer.

Along with the telltale sign on the roof, you can always spot them from a long way off. They drive at a snail's pace, the driver locked in a death-grip with the steering wheel.

I now dart around these people, in defiance of my own humiliating first experiences behind the wheel.

I blame my father, who, when he's not teaching me to drive, can do no wrong.

I was never allowed behind the wheel of a car during my pre-license days.

What developed was a deep-seated fear of "drivers-ed.," that portion of high school that every normal kid really looks forward to.

I dreaded that day when I would have to climb into the driver's seat, strapped in, alongside my instructor with two fellow classmates waiting in the back seat.

Would I ever get it to go forward? Which one was the brake? Would I remember and not jerk and jolt around the school parking lot?

In time, I obtained my learner's permit and a real fear of driving set in.

My father favors the quick, dodging-in-and-out-of-traffic method when he drives, muttering frequently under his breath.

During those early days with the learner's permit he would reach new levels of frustration, quickly becoming impatient with my nervousness.

I vividly remember one incident in particular. I was carefully motoring my family down an interstate, intent on following every instruction. Conversation between the others was casual, until my dad looked over and loudly demanded to know, "What in #$%^ was going on!" I was driving 45 miles per hour and was going to cause an accident, he said.

I meekly replied that I was just following the speed on the sign, uninformed that minimum speed signs shared the highway with speed limit signs.

My brother, two years away from his license, took the golden opportunity to join my dad in his loud prediction of my driving future.

I am now, of course, an experienced and accomplished driver, and I can add several things to the lessons they never teach you in driver's training.

* Never, ever, stop after starting forward at a green light. This can cause certain reporters to hit you from behind, especially on Lapeer Road.

* Never, ever, cross a parking lot diagonally without looking to see who is traveling the right way, like certain reporters who have just gotten their cars back from a rear-end accident that occurred on Lapeer Road.

* And never, ever, drive below the speed limit in a driver's education car. It drives experienced, accomplished drivers crazy.

Girls can do 'stuff' too

Jim Fitzgerald

Grandchildren can cause trouble, as President George Bush recently discovered. As in the case of other inconsequential problems confronting the White House, a constitutional amendment is needed.

During a recent interview, according to the Associated Press, Bush "was hard-pressed to explain why his grandson, and not his granddaughters, gets to go on the presidential fishing trips."

The president's weak explanation left him wide open to charges of sex discrimination.

"When they get older than about 3, I will do that," Bush said in trying to explain why the granddaughters are left behind when he and 13-year-old George P. go fishing. Actually, four of Bush's seven granddaughters are older than 3, including 7-year-old twins and George P.'s 11-year-old sister.

President Bush also said George P. "does stuff" that the granddaughters don't do. The plain implication was that granddaughters can't do stuff.

Equal access to 'stuff'

The U.S. Constitution requires equal opportunity for all citizens, regardless of gender and some other characteristics. If it weren't for the dumb Constitution, no one would see anything wrong with Bush taking his grandson fishing, but not his granddaughters. So the president is expected to ask Congress and the 50 states to approve a constitutional amendment relating to stuff females have a right to do.

The amendment process certainly seems a wiser route than for Bush to seek relief from the U.S. Supreme Court. It's true that the court majority has recently begun waffling on some relatively unimportant issues, such as the right of a woman to control her own body, or the right of minorities to breathe in public.

But when it comes to the crucial issues that most concern our citizenry, history suggests the court will continue to rule that females must be allowed to do the same stuff as men, including equal use of "Gone Fishing" signs.

Unfortunately, it takes a long time to amend the Constitution. It could be several years before Bush can tell his granddaughters that the United States Constitution specifically proclaims it's legal for him to leave them on shore when he takes his grandson fishing and other stuff. In the meantime, Bush remains vulnerable to accusations of sexual discrimination from his granddaughters, not to mention halfhearted hugs and snide feminist remarks, even if he is the president.

As an experienced grandfather, I know how important it is that Bush try to retain his granddaughters' respect during this waiting-for-the-amendment period. He can do that by always projecting an admirable image that will impress the girls with what a warm, generous, clean-living person he is, no matter what other minor faults he might have.

Deceive the little darlings

That's what I do, and I do it so well that my daughter Ferd keeps notes on what my two youngest granddaughters say to indicate how my behavior has shaped their opinion of me:

Ferd eavesdropped while 7-year-old Emily and her classmate Maureen compared grandfathers. The subject under discussion concerned where the old guys were willing to go, and Emily's immortal words, as recorded by her mother, were:

"Grandma can get Grandpa to go anywhere they serve vodkatonic."

Emily said it as though the words should be embroidered on a pillow cover.

On another day, Gerd was making my traditional birthday/Father's Day gift - a huge pan of thick chocolate fudge - that her family would deliver to my home the next day. Three-year-old Tricia was watching and musing, and said this for posterity:

"I'd better lick the spoon. After we give the fudge to Grandpa, he hides it and never lets me have any."

President Bush can have his constitutional amendment proclaiming that granddaughters can't do stuff. I want an amendment proclaiming that they can't say stuff.

Elementary student's music interest is noteworthy

Few seven-year-olds will listen to classical music -- much less compose it. But Jenni Salata is not your average seven-year-old.

The Ranch Estates Road, Independence Township, second-grader plays Mozart on the violin, Bach on the piano and composes some surprisingly complex pieces of her own.

"When Jenni was two-and-a-half she told us she wanted to be a composer and a violinist," says Jenni's mom, Lynn, proudly. "She said the violin was the sweetest sound in the orchestra."

True to her word, Jenni has learned to play those sweet sounds. She stands with perfect posture in a corner of her family's living room, the tiny violin tucked securely under her chin, and draws the bow gracefully over select strings.

Although the piano's note structure is different from violin, Jenni is able to switch her ability and move to the piano with ease.

"I can actually take piano songs and move them to the violin," Jenni says simply.

Jenni chooses to play a piano piece that requires both hands and a change in octaves.

When finished, she answers that it doesn't have a title yet; she's made it up just that week.

One of her composition pieces, entitled "Hunters in Woods," won a first-place trophy in Bailey Lake Elementary School's Reflections contest.

Jenni recalls that her first interest in classical music started with her dad, John.

Five teachers recalled

Clarkston school board unanimously approved the recall of five teachers at the July 10 meeting.

Reinstated teachers are: Kristine Nemesi and Gayle Conwell to half-time positions and Debra Wilson, Barbara Mack and Pamela Neville to full-time positions.

The teachers are filling vacancies created for child care leave and retirement, plus a half-time Title I reading position and a new position at the Oakland Technical Center.

The position at the Tech. Center is funded by Oakland Schools, and Clarkston schools budgeted the money for all other positions, said Superintendent Gary Haner.

"My dad listens to the radio, and one day on the way to preschool it was Mozart's birthday, and I heard this music. It was a violin," Jenni explains.

What followed was a fascination with anything having to do with Mozart, Lynn says.

"My kids fight over whether to watch "Amadeus" or Don Giovanni's opera on video," she laughs.

Jenni proudly displays Mozart posters in her bedroom; she created a big Happy Birthday poster in honor of the great composer's birth.

The family now observes the date with a party each year -- complete with invitations from Jenni. One year the party drew 50 people, who spent the day playing and singing Mozart's works in the living room.

The Salatas do what they can to encourage their daughter's healthy appetite for classical music but are careful not to push Jenni.

"Once she decided she like music, we looked for things for her to read. There were few things on Mozart for children, so we read novels, a bit each night," explains Lynn.

"Although she was young, there was a responsibility for us to do something to keep that interest going. (But) we're not going to force feed it," she adds.

Jenni, who chooses to spend from three to six hours a day at the piano, needs little encouragement.

The Salatas do have season tickets for the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and size Jenni's tiny violin as needed.

Jenni takes it from there.

Nan's Beauty Talk

It's a very demanding world. Things break down, backfire, go awry. Complications mount. Sometimes it seems like everyone needs something from you - your time, your money, your ideas, your energy. Rarely do you feel like you retrieve as much as you put out. There is, however, one exception. When you walk into Nan's Salon, you don't only walk out with shorter hair or less grey hair or more curl. You've also received an hour (or two or three) of expert's time, devoted solely to your appearance and, as a result, to your well-being. You're pampered, you're catered to, you're rejuvenated. All you have to do is sit back and let us take care of you. The results are long-lasting. The price is manageable. *You could win a brand new television by participating in Nan's "Friendly Referral" contest. New officers elected to school board

On July 10, the Clarkston Community Board of Education elected officers for the 1989-90 school year, installed two new board members and awarded plaques to out-going members.

After board president Janet Thomas administered the oath of office to new board members Karen Foyteck and Paul VanKlaveren, she was re-elected president for the 10th time. She has served on the board for 15 years.

Other officers are: John Needham, vice president; Mary Jane Chaustowich, secretary; and Thomas Howard, treasurer.

Needham originally abstained from voting on the election of a vice president, but when the votes were tied between Elaine Schultz and himself, he voted for himself to win the post.

Before the election of officers, Thomas presented the awards to Carolyn Place and Dr. Steven Werner.

"Carolyn Place is a guest tonight and has not been one for 16 years," said Thomas.

Paul VanKlaveren, newly elected board member, said Place had been helpful when he was elected and offered him good advice.

Thomas also spoke highly of Werner.

"Werner has been on the board for half as long, and his hair was a different color," said Thomas jokingly. "He has cared deeply about what we should provide for students, and we appreciate him."

Needham concurred. "He is a strong advocate of the kids," he said.

swallowing contaminated water.

Shigella is basically a diarrhea illness and is not considered dangerous to people in general good health. For people with severe diarrhea, however, the bacteria can be harmful, according to Frick.

Health officials say the shigella bacteria has been an area-wide problem this year, although they don't know why the number of infections has been higher.

Routine sample tests are conducted weekly at Hidden Springs for coliforms, which are indicator organisms, Frick said. There has never been any indication that there is a problem with the pond.

Hidden Springs was man-made in 1976. The three-acre pond is fed by Crooked Lake. The county spent about $60,000 this year to improve the pond, adding more sand, making the pond deeper and installing a liner for weeds, according to Delasko.

Along with the water tests, health officials are taking samples from food concessions and drinking water wells.

"If we don't find the bacteria, I don't know what we'll do," Delasko said.

The park was closed initially for 72 hours; Delasko said park and health officials will re-evaluate the situation on July 20.

Springfield balloon festival set for July 22, 23

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The skies over Springfield Township will be dotted with hot air balloons Saturday and Sunday, July 22 and 23, during the 4th annual Hot Air Balloon Festival at Springfield Oaks County Park.

This year the festival on Andersonville Road, Springfield Township, has been extended to two days, including three scheduled flight times for balloonists. Lift-off times are 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday plus 6 a.m. Sunday. About 15,000 people are expected to attend.

For this year's festival, Balloonmeister Ric Brown is responsible for the activities balloonists and ground crew members will participate in.

About $1,000 in prize money could be awarded this year, said Brown.

Two volunteer groups are helping to serve patrons food at the festival -- the Rotary Club of Davisburg and Northwest Oakland Community Service (NOCS).

The Rotary Club will sponsor a chicken barbecue on Saturday afternoon. They also have concession stands throughout the festival area.

Rotary funds raised during the festival will benefit families in the area during the Christmas holidays. Roger Bower of the Davisburg Rotary said food baskets will be filled for those in need, or money will be used for different projects within the community.

NOCS is also serving food -- a pancake breakfast with sausage and juice. The group will offer a low-calorie breakfast of fresh fruit and muffins.

Helen Vergin, board member of NOCS, said doughnuts and coffee will be served before the launch, and the pancake breakfast will be served immediately following the balloon lift-off.

This year, the festival was expanded to include games, a bus tour of Davis Historical Museum, an antiques market and folk art fair, pony rides, hay rides, contests, a live Broadway revue and a classic car show.

Springfield Township Parks and Recreation Director Sherry Swindel said several volunteer groups -- Neighbor-for-Neighbor, Young at Heart, and Springfield Township Youth Group -- will be helping with the expanded festival activities this year.

Peeling paint causes concern for library

BY BONNIE WATTLEWORTH
Clarkston News Special Writer

The Springfield Township Library will have to wait awhile before its peeling paint is repaired.

The township board tabled a request for a $5,000 loan to replace the building's exterior paint with siding because the library board did not present enough information.

"I advise that we table this request and ask the library board to come up with an analysis of what is needed," said board Supervisor Collin Walls July 13.

Library Trustee and Secretary Jim Banes talked to the seven-member board about the loan. He said the library board asked him to present the request primarily to get the township board's reaction to the idea.

Banes showed the township board costs for siding from several companies. But the library board was uncertain which bid it would choose, he said.

He did estimate $5,000 would cover most of the costs. The library would pay back the money within three years, he said.

While the library's coat of paint is only a year old, it started peeling immediately.

"We thought the paint would last for 10 years," Banes said. Library officials discussed the problem with the company who sold paint.

"They said, 'There's nothing wrong with our paint -- there's something wrong with your building,'" Banes said.

He explained the library was caulked so tightly that no moisture remained in the wood. Because of this, paint will not adhere to the building.

Banes said the library board thinks the only viable option is to replace the flaking paint with siding.

"Otherwise, we'd be painting it constantly," he said.

The library already has raised $1,000 toward a new exterior through donations and fund-raisers, Banes said.

The township board is to vote on the loan when the library chooses a siding company or researches other possible options, such as stain.

ORDER FOR HEARING

At a session of said Court, held in the Courthouse, City of Pontiac, County of Oakland and State of Michigan, on July 11, 1989.

PRESENT: HON. JUDGE N. O'BRIEN,
CIRCUIT COURT JUDGE.

This matter having come before the Court on the Complaint filed by the Charter Township of Independence, requesting that certain roads in the Thendara
Park Country Club Subdivision and Sunny Beach Country Club Subdivision be determined to be public highways, and the Court being fully advised in the premises;

NOW, THEREFORE, IT IS ORDERED

What an idea

Peter Auchter

With practice for the upcoming high school football season just a couple of weeks away, it's time to think about pay-to-play sports.

What a great idea!

Let's charge the kids a fee to bust their behinds every day so they can be cheered/jeered for nine Friday nights this fall. Hooray!

Wouldn't it be great if your boss made you pay him a little something each week for allowing you to work for him?

Of course, you wouldn't have to pay that fee if it bothered you. There are plenty of other jobs in the world, I guess. You'd just have to give up that one.

I think somebody out there is playing without a helmet.

Yes, the mighty taxpayers of the land are teaching our young lads and lasses a lesson in life -- and they aren't charging for it either. The adage, "You don't get something for nothing" certainly holds true here. (I guess hard work to be the best doesn't count.)

We should be grateful to them. We should thank them.

Considering time spent with school, home work, practice and taking part in fund-raising activities or part-time jobs, most parents of student/athletes probably won't see much of their offsprings during the fall semester.

While football is the most prominent example, the other fall sports are in the same boat. Or, more realistically, in a much smaller craft in a much larger lake since there is as much fan interest in them combined as football alone.

Where have the good times gone?

Coaches will have an extra hard time convincing hesitant students to try out for the team since it'll cost the student something if he/she is successful.

Now the student/athlete won't only pay with blood, sweat and tears but Mastercard and Visa as well.

Where will it all end?

Hopefully things will work out for the best under this program. The Clarkston community should be strong enough to weather this storm until the next millage election.

At best the athletic programs may suffer; at worst we may lose a sport or two.

Maybe then people will see the light.

Soccerfest coming to Clintonwood Park

Soccer will rule in Clintonwood Park next month during a Soccerfest sponsored by the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department.

Exhibitions between two under-12 Bonanza girls' teams and two 30 & over men's teams highlight an afternoon of activity Saturday, Aug. 12.

There is no cost to attend, and the first 250 people to arrive qualify for a special giveaway. The event is open to everyone.

Other activities at the Soccerfest 1989 include skill clinics, games and challenges, videos and registration for fall/spring soccer. Concessionaires and soccer vendors (offering discounts on shoes and other equipment) also will be there.

For more information on Soccerfest 1989, call the parks and recreation office at 625-8223.

SEAN TRACEY has a firm grip on the ball while waiting for the next batter.

For the third time, students say he's the best teacher

BY BONNIE WATTLEWORTH
Clarkston News Special Writer

If Clarkston High School students could grade teachers, they definitely would give their anatomy and physiology teacher an A-plus.

Bill Mackson, 49, of Deerhill Drive, Independence Township, recently received the CHS Teacher of the Semester Award. The students vote for the teacher who they feel deserves the honor.

"I'm always honored," said Mackson, who has won the award three times. "The reason is that it's the kids doing the talking, and that's important to me."

A teacher can win the award once every two years. Mackson was the first to win Teacher of the Semester and has won it every time he has been eligible since the National Honor Society started the award six years ago.

Mackson, who graduated from CHS in 1957, attributes his popularity with students to his honesty.

"I'm right up front with them," he said. "When they're in my class, they know exactly where they stand." Mackson said his favorite part of his job is the time he spends with students in the classroom.

"In my estimation, that's where education really is," he said. "It's where those young men and women walk in the door everyday, and I try to give them 100 percent of what I've got everyday."

He tries to make each student feel important, he said.

"I'll go out of my way to give them all the help they need," Mackson said.

He said he has earned the respect of his students through his only classroom rule: "I treat you the way you treat me."

"If you treat me with respect, I treat you with respect," he said. "That's why the disrespect is never there."

He said he thinks a mistake many teachers make is that they treat the students as if they are enemies.

the trap with the underground trip mechanism needs no bait or poison.

Finally, a trap easy to set with an underground trip mechanism that is specifically designed to eliminate moles from lawns and gardens.

The Mole Marshal MOLE TRAP is the only trap we know of, that has a 2-way underground trip mechanism.

When the trap is set and pressed into the ground over the Mole Tunnel, and the safety pin is removed, the trap can be triggered from either direction by the mole. The Mole Marshal MOLE TRAP is made of rust resistant material, and is designed to give years of service. It comes complete, ready to use, with a convenient slot-tool for easy setting.

CHS instructor remains active throughout year

"It's as though there is a war beginning in September and ending in June," he said. "That's not the way it should be. The kids in my class know I'm not trying to draw battle lines."

Instead of battling the students, Mackson lets his students know exactly what they should expect from the class and on a test. He makes sure his students understand "Mackson's law." If he gives information in class, it will appear on the test.

"If there are 500 things given, there will be 500 things on the test," he said. "Consequently, there isn't any guess work."

During the summer, Mackson is working as a carpenter with his 18-year-old son, Erik, who just graduated from CHS.

Mackson used his carpentry skills to do much of the construction work on his home, which he, his son and wife, Jan, have lived in for 17 years.

He also has run a snowplowing business during the past 17 winters. To finish plowing by the time school starts, Mackson said he gets up at 2:30 a.m. and plows until 7 a.m.

"The days keep getting longer as I get older with this snow plowing thing," he said.

"I'm always honored. The reason is that it's the kids doing the talking, and that's important to me."

Bill Mackson

He started the business when the subdivision he lives in needed a private party to do snow removal.

"Someone had to do it, so he figured he might as well be the one," Jan said. "Then he started picking up more business."

Despite the early hours and growing business, Mackson said he never missed a day of teaching because of his snow removal business. Teaching is his first priority.

"I'm just trying to do the best possible job I can," Mackson said. "I think the kids respond, and I think if you asked them, they'd say they don't mind coming to anatomy and physiology."

Fired up to dump

WHEN CARS or trucks pull up, Phillip Stamper and other Clarkston Disposal employees help unload debris into waiting trucks. As of 11:30 a.m. Saturday, 85 loads had been dumped, said Rick Detkowski, owner of Clarkston Disposal.

BILL ROSE takes advantage of Independence Township's cleanup day with his neighbor, Jim Himmelsbach. Dumping for a small fee at the township department of public works property is allowed for two more Saturdays.

CARROLL DAVIS of Pine Knob Trail has the help of his neighbor, Jim Chittick of Sunnyside Street, to dump Jim's truck of Carroll's trash last Saturday, one of Independence Township's three cleanup days. For a small fee, residents may dump at a site on Flemings Lake Road.

Hearings cover shopping center, church, ordinance

Four public hearings have been scheduled before the Independence Township Planning Commission at 90 N. Main St., Clarkston, at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, July 27.

Public comment will be taken on the following proposals:

* Arkan Jonna-Independence Partner has requested the rezoning of 23 acres on the southwest corner of Waldon and Sashabaw Roads for a shopping center and offices. If approved, the land would be rezoned from single family residential and planned shopping center to planned unit development (PUD).

A PUD zoning is tied to a specific plan and needs approvals from both the planning commission and the township board.

* The planning commission has received a request from the Rev. John D. Rathbun for a special land use permit on a five-acre parcel at the intersection of Clarkston and Clintonville roads. Pastor Rathbun plans to create the Clarkston Church of God on the northwest corner. The area is currently zoned single family residential.

* Township officials plan to create an addition to the township zoning ordinance to allow for review of site condominium projects.

For more information on the above public hearings, stop in at the township building department between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, or call 625-8111.

* The planning commission will consider the rezoning of 10 parcels on the east side of M-15, south of Cranberry Lake Road, north of Amy Drive. The petitioner wants to change the zoning from commercial to office.

Opinion of Bill Myers

An overprotective mother
shot down by flying ace

William A. Myers is a retired Lapeer County editor and investments manager from Boca Raton, Fla.

One of my favorite heroes is Burke Seitz, sometimes referred to in flights of fancy in this column as Baron von Seitz, the flying war ace of Kamloops, Canada.

Burke was in the prosaic job of summer camp counselor when the war broke out in August 1939. He wanted to enlist at once, but the law stopped him until he was 17½. So on that very day, he was before the recruiting board, and shortly after, he was off for not-so-Merrie England.

A modern-day mother heard these details recently and was properly impressed - indeed, astounded that a youngster of such tender years would want to be a warrior. (I had heard that she was still bathing her son until he was 16.)

"Why, Mr. Seitz," asked this woman, "whatever did your parents say?"

The reply was in the best Seitz tradition:

"Good-bye."

Such were the gallant airmen of two generations ago. They don't make 'em like that anymore.

At the Montessori school down in St. Croix in the Virgin Islands, there are five rules of behavior drilled into the 63 youngsters regularly. The rules seem to work. Indeed, if these rules or something as effective didn't work, there would be chaos. Most of the pupils are of pre-school age.

The rules:

1. Be truthful.
2. Respect each other's bodies.
3. Speak sweetly.
4. Work quietly.
5. Follow Teacher's instructions.

My son Bill and his wife Gabrielle run the school. It has grown from 11 students to 63 in five years.

If you're driving from New York or New England south, it's worthwhile to stop at the Carlisle Indian School in Carlisle, Pa.

No longer confined to admitting only Indians, Carlisle at one time was the only college Indians could attend. While academically it was pretty good, it got its biggest publicity from its football team, coached by Pop Warner. (In the late '20s, Pop went on to Stanford and became even more famous there.)

I was fascinated by the college cemetery. In the early days, when deaths were more common among young people, students were buried there on the campus. The names on the headstones were intriguing:

Tomicock - Eskimo
Hayes, son of Friday - N. Arapahoes
Lottie Screech - Ute
Samuel Flying Horse
Rebecca Littlewolf
Abe Lincoln, son of Chief White Thunder - Sioux
Anastasia Achwack - Alaskan
Cooking Look - Alaskan
Laurry Short - Piegan
And in the adjacent lot:
Edward Upright - Sioux

Fanny Charging Shield - Sioux
Lucy Pretty Eagle, 1884 - Sioux

There was a vase of violets at her grave, over 100 years later.

The Manhasset (Long Island) Press reports you can define the nature of public meetings by the bumper stickers of those attending.

They have messages such as "No Incinerators in Hempstead Harbor," "Stop the Nuclear Arms Race Now," "Save the Whales" and similar statements. Then we have acronyms: TURN (Taxpayers United for Recycling Now), which just delivered petitions with 8,569 signatures calling on North Hempstead to hold a "recycling" referendum; RMBPW (Residents for a More Beautiful Port Washington); CSMH (Coalition to Save Hempstead Harbor); MOMI (Mothers Opposed to Mass Incineration); and NYPIRG (New York Public Interest Research Group).

Well, good luck to 'em all.

In Lapeer, Mich., we had a garbage group called BIG - Bury It in the Ground.

The editor scolds me that these columns must contain some reference to things financial, even in the dog days of a hot summer.

Okay, okay.

Friday, five Clarkston-area men broke several glasses at the Deer Lake Inn on Dixie Highway, Independence Township.

Sunday, a purse was taken from a car parked at the Pine Knob Music Theatre.

Sunday, a $360 coin collection was stolen from a residence on Bow Pointe Drive, Independence Township.

Overprotective mother

percent rate stays in effect for the full five years. Compounding, you would have $15,400 in 1994. Your total income would be $5,400, then taxable. Say your rate is 28 percent. So you have a net of $3,888 after tax.

If you just bought a corporate bond yielding 10 percent and had to pay tax each year on the income, the net rate would be only 7.2 percent. In five years: five times $720 equals $3,600. Not as good as the annuity, although you'd have more freedom to cash in without penalty (assuming no change in interest rates).

For choice No. 3: why not a tax-exempt zero coupon, which would automatically compound for five years? Put the $10,000 in one yielding only 7 percent and in five years it would become $14,100, for a gain of $4,100 in net no-tax income. Better than the annuity by $212.

During the once-a-decade cleaning of my files, I ran across tax tables for 1979. Maybe a couple excerpts will cheer you, when compared to 1989 rates. For a joint return (figures are slightly rounded):

Income	1979 tax	1989 tax
$30,000	$6,200	$4,500
$72,000	$26,200	$16,300

Also in the cleaning, there was a 1984 ad for zero coupon Treasuries. Yield was 11.20 percent - over 2 percent, or 200 basis points, better than today's yields.

Sunday, a 50-year-old man sustained four broken ribs while trying to break up a fight between five or six youths at a party at his neighbor's house on Pine Knob Road, Independence Township.

Sunday, an unknown person threw a beer bottle through a window of a sedan parked in the lot at the Pine Knob Music Theatre.

The above information was compiled from reports at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Jessie, 6. Now 4 1/2 months of age, the goats can usually be left on their own to frolic in the Doyles' Perry Lake Road, Independence Township, yard. But before the goats learned to stay in the yard, they were fenced up and had to be walked on leashes for exercise.

Goats part of family

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

Nancy and Rick Doyle and their family got a big laugh when they read a story in The Clarkston News a few weeks ago about two goats on leashes.

"I was just flipping through The News, ... and I just died laughing when I read it because I knew who they were talking about," said Nancy, who lives on Perry Lake Road, Independence Township.

In the story, Freda Mason, 80, talked about what a surprise she and her cousins from Flint received when they saw two little girls walk two goats on leashes down Northview Drive, Independence Township.

Two of the Doyles' children regularly walk the Alpine-pygmy goats, but they didn't know they caused (See GOATS, next page)

THE DOYLE GOATS are so nimble that they follow (from left) Ashley, Kelley and Jessie everywhere. Oreo (in back) is tough and pretends she's butting heads with anyone who will play with her. Cocoa is a little more on the gentle side. Part Alpine and part pygmy, the goats probably won't grow much larger, according to Nancy Doyle.

that much of a stir, said Nancy.

Kelley, 8, said they used to walk the goats a lot because the animals used to be fenced in and needed exercise.

When her mother showed her the article, she laughed, said Kelley.

"I thought it was pretty funny," she said. "We walk a lot. ... A couple of times we had a person come up, stop their car and say, 'What funny-looking dogs you have.'"

Kelley and her sister, Jessie, 6, spend a lot of time with their 4 1/2-month-old goats, Cocoa and Oreo. Cocoa is a soft brown color, and Oreo is black and white. Oreo, who is full of spunk and one time got her head

Prevent mold, mildew

Damp, humid, summer weather can be an invitation for mold and mildew to develop.

Mildew is a thin, usually black, although sometimes white, growth produced on many kinds of surfaces by molds.

Molds are simple plants that belong to a group known as fungi. They are always present in the air, but those that cause mildew need moisture and certain temperatures in order to grow.

Molds that cause mildew flourish wherever it is damp, warm, poorly lighted and/or where air is not circulated.

In homes you'll find them most often on cotton, linen, rayon, silk, wool, leather, wood and paper. Most synthetic fibers resist mildew.

As these molds grow, they cause considerable damage. They often leave a musty odor. They discolor fabrics and sometimes eat into them so severely that the material rots and falls to pieces. They also discolor paper and leather.

If you want to guard against these "monsters", the key points to remember are to keep any place where mildew is likely to grow as clean as possible, well-ventilated and disinfected.

Reduce or eliminate excess moisture by improving air circulation or using a dehumidifier. If you clothes dryer is vented, have it exhausted to the outside to remove moist air.

Expose dark areas to natural or artificial light whenever possible.

Disinfectants inhibit growth. Common household bleach is one that can be used. There are also a variety of anti-mildew products which, in addition to removing the stain, also help prevent future mildew growth.

caught between the porch bars when she was playing, is Jessie's favorite.

But Kelley likes Cocoa the best.

"Cocoa is nicer, and I think she's cuter, but Oreo is funnier because she'll butt heads with you," said Kelley.

The goats are a part of the family, said Nancy, who studied to be a veterinary technician at Michigan State University, East Lansing.

Since she's not working in the veterinary field, she keeps in touch with her vocation through her animals, she said.

"Goats are great pets," Nancy said. "They're easy. They're friendly. They're pretty smart. ... They stay. They're interesting little animals, real personable."

The goats were de-horned at 5 days of age for safety reasons, so it's easy to see how some people mistake them for dogs, said Nancy. Cocoa, with a short tail and brown coat, could also be mistaken for a deer.

"They look like deer, but they act like dogs," said

Kelley. "They always want to be around you."

When Kelley, Jessie and their 3-year-old sister, Ashley, aren't playing with the Cocoa and Oreo, the goats play by themselves on a jungle gym.

The wooden climbing structure was built by the Doyle's neighbor, Paul Bennett, who gave it to the goats when his son outgrew it.

The goats can also be caught napping on top of the bunny cages, where Snowball -- a white, floppy-eared rabbit -- and Dusty Rose -- a pointed-eared rose-brown rabbit -- are kept.

On the back of the Doyle's spacious property is a pond, where four Peking ducks swim (another Peking duck flew away with a mallard). They are sometimes joined by other waterfowl.

The Doyles also have a cat named Buster and a dog named Junior.

"We don't really live on a farm," said Nancy. "It's just some people's perception of what a farm is."

Performing arts camp structured for 'rising stars'

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Many little girls dream of being a ballerina, and Hope Waller was no exception.

She spent her childhood in Clarkston working to make that dream come true -- spending grueling hours in the studio and enduring the criticisms of her teachers.

At a crucial stage, early in her career, one of her instructors told her she was too fat, that she would never achieve greatness and that she should quit immediately.

Hope, now tall, red-haired and graceful, ignored the advice but often recalls the experience as a motivation to teach others.

"A lot of (dance instructors) are not certified teachers; they're not trained in child psychology," Hope laments. "They can't deal with a six- or eight-year-old girl who is anorexic."

"You can't conduct your business like you're going

"I can't lose it; I can never stop dancing. If I don't dance that day, I don't feel like I accomplished anything."

to turn out prima ballerinas," she adds.

Hope is conducting her own "business" in Independence Township this summer. She has created The Rising Star Performing Arts Daycamp, a special summer program offered through the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department.

The camp will cover several aspects of theater including: singing, dancing, creative acting, costuming, rehearsals and nutrition. The week-long camp will culminate in an actual performance.

Hope plans to call upon her years of ballet, tap and jazz training, as well as her experiences in the Midstate Regional Ballet Theatre. She holds a teaching certificate from Alma College, Alma, where she indulged her love for choreography, creating several performances throughout the year. During one school semester, Hope lived in Paris, France, and trained with ballerinas there.

Along with training in dance and obtaining a teaching certificate, Hope studied as a French major and now works for a manufacturing firm. She admits that she's diversified but says dance is her true love.

"I can't lose it; I can never stop dancing," she says. "If I don't dance that day, I don't feel like I accomplished anything."

Camp geared to young talent

Young dancers, actors and vocalists may be interested in a day camp offered through the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department.

The Rising Star Performing Arts Daycamp is taught by Hope Waller, a Clarkston area resident who recently graduated from Alma College, Alma. The camp is offered to boys and girls in grades 3-8.

Session I runs Monday through Friday, July 31 to Aug. 4; Session II runs Monday through Friday, Aug. 7-11; the camp is held daily from 9-3 p.m. The location has not yet been determined.

The fee is $85 for residents. To register, call 625-8223.

"There are days when I wonder what I'm doing to myself; my injuries just scream," she adds.

One of the camp's lessons involves health and nutrition.

"You can't stop eating just because you're going to be a star," Hope says.

Part of Hope's psychology is that everyone has potential and that training in dance doesn't always ensure that one learns the proper technique or that one was taught properly.

"I don't want to be just another studio out there," Hope says, adding that she'll teach the more creative aspect of dance.

For those who hope to learn at the camp in order to move on to careers in dance, Hope says there is plenty of opportunity in the area.

"The regional ballet is screaming for kids," she says.

The Rising Star Performing Arts Daycamp may be a good place to start.

Library space program for kids in grades 1-6

A special space program for kids is set for Friday, July 28, at the Independence Township Library, 6495 Clarkston Rd.

Students in grades 1-3 will meet at 1 p.m., grades 4-6 at 2:30 p.m. (Other than the program, the library is closed on Fridays).

Two 4-H interns are to present an hour of fun and information, including a video showing how astronauts live and what they wear and eat.

The program will then move outside, where children can have a relay space game and learn how to make paper bag rockets.

At school

Gregory Hamman, a senior at Clarkston High School, participated in the Summer Institute for the Arts and Sciences at Michigan Technological Institute in Houghton.

The program, which is sponsored by the Michigan State Board of Education, consists of two-week intensive courses in chemistry, physics, creative design in engineering, creative writing, journalism and graphic arts.

Hamman also participates in the Quiz Bowl, Clarkston Volunteer Service, CHS drama club and marching band.

Leanne Stevens

Leanne Stevens of Transparent Drive, Independence Township, is one of 115 high school students participating in the Michigan State Board of Education Summer Institute for the Arts and Sciences at Olivet College, Olivet.

The Olivet program, entitled "Critical Issues and Creative Expressions in the '90s and Beyond," provides five two-week sessions for 600 talented and creative sophomores and juniors in Michigan high schools. Program curriculum provides students with instruction in the arts and sciences plus in-depth exploratory activities.

Students will participate in creative arts with intensive focusing on creative writing, acting improvisation, visual arts and jazz technique and theory.

The social sciences intensives will investigate the changing issues of race and ethnicity, societal institutions, economic issues, global problems and personal exploration.

At college

Holly Ellen McCaffrey of Clarkston is among 330 high-ability students from across the globe currently studying in the 11th annual Summer Program in Graduate Education at the University of Southern Mississippi, Hattiesburg, Miss.

McCaffrey, a biology teacher at Clarkston High School, will complete a master's degree in education at USM in August.

Beverly Merz, a Clarkston area resident and an Oakland University, Rochester, human resource management major in the School of Business Administration, is spending the spring and summer working for TRW Technar in a cooperative education program.

Troy Cook of the Clarkston area recently completed the spring semester at Landmark College in Putney, Vt., the first and only college in the nation that is exclusively for high-potential high school graduates with dyslexia or specific learning disabilities.

Sarah Schultz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Shultz of Clarkston, attended the spring orientation and registration (SOAR) program at Albion College, Albion, this year.

Albion College is a private, coeducational, liberal arts college.

Shultz is a graduate of Cranbrook Kingswood School, Bloomfield Hills.

Humphreys, Moore are married

Thomas Russell Humphreys III of Grand Rapids and Ingrid Joy Moore of Grand Rapids exchanged wedding vows Jan. 14 at Hillsdale College Baptist Church, with the Rev. Jarl Andeer of Brighton officiating.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Moore Sr. of Grand Rapids. The parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Humphreys Jr. of Orion Township. He is the grandson of Ina Powell of Clarkston.

The matron of honor was the bride's sister, Laura Pannekoek of Chicago, Ill. Lisa Moore and Michele Humphreys served as bridesmaids.

Best man was Kevin Ulgenalp of Orlando, Fla. Attendants were Charles Moore Jr., Eric Moore, Richard Moore and Roger Moore.

The newlyweds took a honeymoon trip to Barbados.

Honors

Two Clarkston area women were among the nine area women who shared $6,750 worth of scholarships from the Inde-Spring Charter Chapter of the American Business Women's Association. Recipients and their mothers were special guests in June. Following are the winners.

Pam Bellows, a Clarkston High School graduate, is a junior at Michigan State University, East Lansing, studying to be a clinical laboratory technician. At school, she has worked in the science lab part time, and this summer she works at the Oakland County water laboratory.

Chris Hardy of the Clarkston area plans to study law after graduation from Albion College, Albion. She has been a scholarship recipient for the last two years and is expecting a grant from the ABWA national scholarship program.

Other recipients are: Patsy Holt, Kari Payment, Leah Pierce, Sharon Staton, Julie Truxton and Debby Kappler.

Sandra K. Ross of Clarkston has been named to the dean's list at Albion College, Albion, for the spring semester.

Ross, a senior majoring in economics, is the daughter of Kay I. Ross.

Three Clarkston area students were among those named to the dean's honor roll for the spring day term at Lawrence Technological University, Southfield.

James E. Acton, Craig M. Litherland and Sherri M. Rico each maintained at least a 3.5 grade point average as a full-time student.

Grads

Molly E. McAuliffe was one of 231 students who were awarded bachelor of arts degrees by Kalamazoo College, Kalamazoo, during commencement exercises June 10.

She is the daughter of R. Susan McAuliffe, Deer Lake Road, Independence Township, and John T. McAuliffe of Buffalo, Clarkston.

McAuliffe majored in economics and studied in Strasbourg, France, as part of the college's foreign study program.

For her individualized project, she was a research assistant at the Potomac Electric Power Co. in Washington, D.C.

McAuliffe was a student commission dorm representative for two years, and she has accepted a job as project analyst for Potomac Electric Power Co.

Jason Dean Chamberlain received an associate of arts degree in hotel and restaurant management at May 13 commencement ceremonies at Northwood Institute, Midland.

He is the son of Gary and Carolyn Chamberlain of Clarkston.

Megan L. Balloid of Clarkston has been named to the dean's list at Hope College, Holland, for the second semester of the 1988-89 school year.

Balloid is the daughter of Mary C. Balloid of Crabapple Lane, Independence Township.

NEWLYWEDS: Mr. and Mrs. Russell Humphreys

An afternoon touching that dial

Suzanne Baumann

Some people call it boredom.

Yes, its true, I could find some big project to complete over summer vacation, but I'm content to just hang around the house: reading, daydreaming, aimlessly wandering about the neighborhood; and hardly a day goes by where I haven't been drawn to the television set.

There's something enchanting about daytime TV. It may just be the mindset a vacation puts me in, but it seems to require so little concentration compared to, say, the evening news.

In the daytime, I can see approximately 15 programs within an hour's sitting by switching the channels. Surprisingly, I can almost get as good a feel for them as I probably would have sitting through just one.

For those of you working through the summer months, I've decided to share a typical channel-hopping session. To protect the identities of the TV stations, they will be given the aliases of channels A,B,C,E and F. (Channel D doesn't come in very well.) Click!

A: "All right everybody!! Welcome to Low-Impact Exercise! We would like it if you joined our workout for the next 30 minutes. Folks at home, be certain that you check with your doctor before trying any of the exercises seen here. Let's begin by blinking! One-and-two-and-stretch those eyelids! Three and -"

B: "Gerbils that become so powerful, their owners feel they must submit to their pet's every whim. Before you meet three such 'gerbil slaves' and the author of what, in my opinion, is one of the best books on the topic, Doctor -"

C: "These are the matching diamond watches I got for Chadwyck and Lizbeth."

"Oh, they're beautiful! They'll love them."

"I certainly hope so. It's hard to believe they've been married for a year already."

"I just can't help comparing my relationships with theirs. They get along so well."

"I wouldn't be so sure of that..."

E: "It's a fantastic video!"

"I could watch it over and over again!"

"What are these men talking about? It's the new videotape 'Highlights of Football Games Played by Women in Swimsuits,' free with your subscription to Sports and Pictures"

F: "A Day in the Life of Vermin," starring -"

E: "No helmets, no pads ... just some real hot swimsuits."

"You can actually hear the bones crunch during a tackle."

F: "- And Willie Marmot, as The Vermin."

A: "Now bend your right elbow. Not too fast, you might pull something. Now straighten ... good! Now lets try it with the left! Bend ..."

B: "One day while I was changing his water bottle, he bit off my entire finger. I didn't think too much about it at first. But he took my wedding ring along with it. He used the diamond to cut through the glass in his cage and escape."

C: "Futurists predict pillowcase folders will be in top demand well into the 1990s and beyond. The National Pillowcase-Folding Academy will train you in this exciting career in just six months. Learn to fold in several complicated shapes, how to fold under pressure, and -"

B: "Go ahead, caller."

"Yes, I also have a gerbil who bites off fingers. It's bitten off seven of mine and three of my daughters."

"Were they bitten off completely?"

"No, it's never bitten past the first joint."

A: "Can't you just feel the energy wriggling within the bone marrow of those phalanges?"

F: "Gee Vermin. What's that thing?"

"It's a trash compactor. We got it yesterday."

"Gosh, it sure looks neat. What does it do?"

E: "Lets take time out now to talk to our contestants. Myrtle, it says here that you enjoy picking seeds off of strawberries."

"That's right, Lee. Its a great hobby. Mind if I say hello to a few of my friends back home?"

"Go right ahead."

A: "People used to call me a hooker. Then I phoned Bacon, Sausage and Eggs, attorneys at law. They let me off the hook. Now I'm just an -er."

B: "Well as I've stated in my book, it's a psychological problem that forms in the early stages almost exclusively in gerbils who -"

C: "What next? A tattoo on my arm that says 'Property of Chadwyck?'"

"Lizbeth, I -"

"I've had to give up everything I used to be for this marriage. I never should have agreed to any of this. Do you think I like this house? Or my job? Like I really believed I could grow into this new lifestyle. I should have never converted to your religion. I've got Jew under my skin; I've got Jew deep in the heart of me; so deep in my heart -"

E: "And Bobby Joe and Dorothy and Charlie and Pinocchio and Tom and Betsy and also hi to Lovie and -"

F: "Hey Verm, why don't you climb inside the trash compactor?"

Take worry from power outages

Summer weather brings electrical storms, and electrical storms can mean power outages. Loss of electric power strikes fear in the heart of homemakers with freezers, particularly if they are packed with foods they have spent considerable time, energy and money preserving.

Elaine Glasser, extension home economist of Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service, says not to worry if the power will be restored within a few hours.

If it looks like the power will be off longer than a couple of hours, cover the freezer with blankets or quilts for insulation to help hold the cold inside. For more insulation, put crumpled newspaper between the freezer cabinet and the blankets.

Be sure to pin the blankets away from the air vent. The air vent must be kept open since air is needed when the freezer comes back on.

If the power does not resume within one to two days use dry ice to keep the freezer temperature below freezing and to prevent deterioration or spoilage of frozen foods. Dry ice may be hard to locate on short notice so find out now where you can purchase it in your area.

You'll need 25 pounds of dry ice in a 10-cubic-foot freezer, 50 pounds for 20 cubic feet.

Always wear gloves when handling dry ice to prevent burns.

Wrap the dry ice in newspaper and place it on boards or heavy cardboard on top of the packages of food.

Do not open the freezer again unless necessary. Dry ice should hold the freezer temperature below freezing for two to three days in a half-full freezer and three to four days in a loaded freezer.

For more information about how to handle food that may have thawed when a freezer is not operating, call 858-0895 for Extension Bulletin E-1735, "When the Freezer Stops Working."

Wint wins national park, recreation award

Lewis E. Wint

The award is given to board members with a record of outstanding contributions to the parks and recreation field.

Wint, a Clarkston resident, was recently elected to his 12th term as chairman of the 10-member Oakland County Parks Commission.

He has also served as the Oakland County parks commission's vice chairman in 1976 and secretary from 1974-75.

Wint was a founding member and continues to serve as a trustee for the Oakland Parks Foundation, a group of citizens committed to preserving park lands and enhancing recreation in Oakland County.

Promoted to president

Keith M. Sipperley

Keith M. Sipperley II has been promoted to president and chief financial officer (CFO) of Dawber & Company, a full-service marketing and creative services firm in Southfield.

Sipperley, a 1976 graduate of Clarkston High School was formerly vice president, operations.

As president and CFO of Dawber, Sipperley will manage all financial aspects of the firm, in addition to retaining his responsibilities for day-to-day operations.

Planner attends financial conference

Robert A. Olsen of Clarkston was among 5,000 members of the Million Dollar Round Table (MDRT) gathering in Toronto, Ontario, Canada, June 18-22.

The association's 62nd annual meeting represented more than 40 countries around the world, making the MDRT the most comprehensive sales forum in the financial planning industry.

During the five-day meeting, more than 100 professional speakers discussed such areas as estate planning, taxes, business and law.

Clean vegetables with water, not detergent

Despite the recent concern about consuming pesticides on vegetables, soap or bleach should not be used to wash contaminants from produce.

"Inquiries regarding the use of soap and/or bleach to wash produce have been numerous," said Sylvia Treitman, home economist of the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service of Michigan State University, East Lansing.

Washing produce with soap or bleach could cause serious health problems, according to a news release from the Cooperative Extension Service.

The best and safest method to wash fruits and vegetables is clean, running water, according to the release. Here are some tips for safe, clean produce:

- * Rinse all fruit and vegetables with clear running water. A colander helps.

- * Scrub surfaces with a clean vegetable brush to loosen dirt. Use plenty of water on leafy greens. Leave them in water to let dirt settle and change the water often.

- * Peel the skin when possible.

- * Surface cleaning will not remove systemic pesticides or pesticides concentrated on the inside of foods.

Reunions

The Clarkston High School Class of '64 is planning a 25th reunion.

The party is set for 7 p.m. to 1 a.m. Friday, Aug. 25, at the Deer Lake Racquet Club, White Lake Road, Independence Township.

Tickets are $30 per person and include dinner, cash bar and a disc jockey for dancing (plus an amount to be put in a special account for upcoming reunions).

Dinner -- consisting of roast beef, fried chicken, mostaccioli, California mixed corn and red skin potatoes -- will be served at 8 p.m.

Reservations must be in by Saturday, Aug. 5. To sign up, send a check to Marty Wilson, Class of '64 Reunion, 6038 M-15, Clarkston, MI 48016.

For more information, call Marty Wilson at 625-1285 or George White at 625-8655.

The 15-year reunion is coming up for the Lake Orion High School Class of '74.

A get-together is planned for 7 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 5, at the Knights of Columbus Hall, Orion Road, Orion Township. Tickets are $20 per person.

For more information, call Nikki at 628-7719.

A 15-year reunion is planned for the Clarkston High School Class of '74.

The informal "indoor picnic" is planned for 8 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 5, at the Waterford Firefighters Hall, Rockcroft, Independence Township.

Cost is $10 per person, and guests are asked to bring their own beverages and to bring nibbles to pass.

Respond to Nancy Riddle at 628-1033, Rick Smith at 683-5119 or Patty (Martin) Cudla at 623-1508.

Pet of the Week

Rags could be richer

Rags is 5-year-old male cat who would be richer if he could find a new home. He's an orange, medium-hair breed, and his front paws are declawed.

Rags is missing one ear due to frostbite, but that hasn't affected his disposition. Human society workers describe Rags as affectionate and loving.

He can be adopted at the Michigan Humane Society, 3600 Auburn Rd., Auburn Heights, 852-7420. Hours at the non-profit shelter are 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

The adoption fee for Rags is $25. He is already neutered.

EVEN THOUGH one ear is missing, Rags remains an affectionate pet. (Photo by Peter Auchter)

Spending a day as a couch potato

"Nah, I might get squashed or something."

"Aw, that can't happen. What are you, chicken?"

A: "Now for this next portion of the workout, you'll have to get up out of your chair. If this is too much to handle, stay seated and take a rest. You mustn't over-exert yourself."

B: "It started out so innocently. She'd throw a fit unless I kept her supplied with those little cardboard tubes they put toilet paper on, you know? Soon she started demanding bigger tubes - paper towel, then wrapping paper...Now I have to special order some 10-foot long ones from a mill."

C: "Don't you understand the pain I'm going through, Lizbeth? Since I married you, my brother has died, my business went bankrupt, I broke both my arms trying to carry you over the threshold."

E: Myrtle, that wasn't your buzzer! STAY CALM!! EVERYONE EVACUATE!!

F: "Let that be a lesson to you, Vermin. You should have asked permission before you compacted yourself."

"I'll never do it again, Dad."

A: "Phew! Let's Relax!"

Suzanne Baumann is a junior at Clarkston High School.

Microwave Plus

Quick and delicious

Betty Wagner

Be ready during summer for impromptu, informal entertaining! Here are two recipes that can be prepared and served within 20 minutes, which is all the time many people want to spend in meal preparation according to a recent survey by Food Marketing Institute and Better Homes and Gardens.

BETTY CROCKER'S 'SUDDENLY SALAD' ENHANCED

This provides a quick meal accompaniment that is so easy to customize to individual tastes.
1 box Suddenly Salad Classic Pasta
1 cup imitation flaked crab
1/2 cup sliced green onions
1 cup thinly sliced mushrooms

Fill a three-quart microwave bowl with about 7 cups hot water. Cover; microwave at HIGH for one minutes, or until water boils.

Place unopened pouch of pasta and vegetables in boiling water. Gently boil uncovered for 12 minutes, turning over every four minutes. (This is a good time to set the pause button after each four minutes.)

Remove pouch from water; rinse with cold water until chilled. Gently squeeze out excess water. Stir seasoning mix with one tablespoon vegetable oil and three tablespoons water. Add to pasta. Stir in crab, green onions and mushrooms. Sprinkle contents of Parmesan Cheese over top and serve immediately.

BANANA OAT BRAN CAKE

2 cups oat bran
1/4 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 tablespoon baking powder
1/2 cup skim milk
1/2 cup 2 percent milk
1 egg, beaten so white and yolk are blended
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
2 medium size bananas, well mashed
1/2 cup chocolate chips (optional)

Coat an 8-inch round Pyrex cake dish with no-stick vegetable spray. Set aside. Combine dry ingredients. Add milks, egg, oil and banana.

Mix until dry ingredients are moistened. Fold in chocolate chips. Pour into prepared cake dish. Smooth top flat so there is no mounding in the middle. Sprinkle with topping.

Microwave at HIGH for about 8 to 9 minutes, turning every three minutes. Or use a microwave turntable and let it do the turning. Center of cake should be just set. Let stand for 5 minutes, to complete cooking of center.

Topping

3 tablespoons chopped, unblanched almonds
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
2 tablespoons dark brown sugar

Variation:

Follow recipe as above except substitute 3/4 cups canned pumpkin for the bananas and 1/3 cup chopped walnuts for the chocolate chips.

Topping:

Mix together 3 tablespoons rolled oats, 2 tablespoons chopped walnuts, 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon and 2 tablespoons dark brown sugar. Sprinkle over top of cake.

Place cake on a microwave turntable; microwave at HIGH for 8 minutes. Or place on glass over tray and turn 2 times during cooking. Stand 10 minutes before cutting.

Home economist Betty Wagner resides in Independence Township. Her "Microwave Plus" cable-TV program airs on Independence-Clarkston Channel 65.

OFFICIAL NOTICE

CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF INDEPENDENCE NOTICE OF PROPOSED ORDINANCE AMENDMENT

At a regular meeting held on July 11, 1989, the Township Board of the Charter Township of Independence proposed an amendment to the Independence Township Code of Ordinances.

The proposed amendment pertains to exterior site improvements under the Property Maintenance Ordinance and reads as follows:

SECTION 7-253 (a)

(3) Exterior site improvements, including such things as driveway and parking lot maintenance, lighting, screening, drainage or other improvements and/or finished grading on the property, considered necessary by the Township to protect natural resources or the health, safety and welfare of the users of the property and/or residence of the Township and/or adjoining property, shall be maintained in a manner which does not result in a blighting effect and/or reduction in area property values and/or potential hazard or unreasonable drainage intrusion upon adjoining property.

It shall be a violation of this section if a property owner is given a notice from the Township building official that a site improvement is alleged to be in a condition which causes a blighting effect and/or reduction in property values and/or hazard and/or unreasonable drainage intrusion, and such owner fails or refuses to cure such condition within 45 days, weather permitting. Following the initial notice and 45 day period, it shall be a continuing violation if the lack of maintenance or activity in a notice continues subsequent to the initial notice, and there shall be no requirement to issue an additional notice and/or wait an additional 45 day period.

The proposed ordinance amendment will be voted upon on Tuesday, July 18, 1989, at 7:30 p.m. at the Township Hall Annex, 90 North Main Street, Clarkston, Michigan.

Respectfully Submitted,

Catherine S. DeRousha

Deputy Clerk

HOW TO DO A LITTLE BUSINESS ON YOUR OWN...

Holding a garage sale is a fun way to do a little business on your own... but it takes a bit of planning.

Like you'll want to decide what to sell and how much to charge for each item... and then you'll need price tags so other people will know what you're charging.

And you'll have to be able to make change for all your customers... so that means you should have lots of one dollar bills and an assortment of coins.

Then you'll want to advertise your sale to attract that crowd. You can do it with a sign or signs in your neighborhood... but you'll want a bigger crowd than that... so you'll run an ad in Classified which tells the time and place of your sale to a host of potential buyers.

One more thing... get up early the day of your sale! When people read about a Garage Sale in Classified, they shop early.

Have fun with your little business adventure!

Just try to stay dry

THE SAFEST WAY to stay dry during a balloon toss is to catch the balloon without having it break.
