3 shopping centers in by year's end

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

"Growth" has been the buzzword around Independence Township during the past few years, and this year, three major developments provide concrete evidence of the fact.

The three developments are in varying phases of construction, but all will provide the township with more services, jobs and traffic by the end of 1990.

Clarkston Oaks is the farthest along of the three. A shopping center anchored by Great Scott and Damman hardware on Dixie Highway across from Maybee Road, the center is set to open in November.

"We had a wet June, but we're trying to catch up," said developer Edward Boutrous. "We're on a tight schedule. A very tight schedule."

Along with the space for the grocer and hardware store, the development will house six other retail stores.

A dry cleaning operation from Flint and a weight loss control clinic from California have committed to leases in the building; three other leases are pending, and one space remains vacant, Boutrous said. All are expected to be ready by November.

Boutrous first approached the Independence Township Planning Commission in June of 1988; the development received final approval with conditions in September of 1988 and obtained a building permit in (See DEVELOPMENTS, Page 24)

Owners beware Dog 'litter' causes problem

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Although the law says they can't, dogs roam unleashed in the Village of Clarkston much to the displeasure of at least one resident.

While the pooches visits usually aren't annoying, the presents they leave behind are bothersome to people like Lorraine Studebaker of North Holcomb.

She spoke before the village council July 24 asking for help in solving her clean-up problems from the leashed and unleashed dogs alike.

First, she wanted to know if a law existed that prohibited unleashed dogs. When told one was in the (See OWNERS, next page)

Stabbing suspect is competent

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The man charged in the stabbing death of 19-year-old Patrick Walsh of Springfield Township has been found competent to stand trial.

A preliminary exam for a suspect in the case, Hezekiah Pulphus Jr., 20, of Grand Rapids, is expected to be set for mid-August, according to attorneys in the case.

Pulphus was charged with open murder in the fatal stabbing death of Walsh on June 9. His preliminary exam was adjourned June 27 in 61st District Court by Judge Joel Hoekstra, so that Pulphus could undergo psychiatric evaluation.

A competency hearing, conducted by officials at the Psychiatric Center in Ypsilanti, determined that Pulphus understood the proceedings and could assist his attorney in a meaningful way, said attorney Rockwood Bullard III, representing Walsh's family.

Pulphus, who was initially assigned attorney Craig Frederick by the court, decided to hire an attorney on his own and has retained the services of John Beason.

Pulphus is being held in the Kent County Jail in Grand Rapids.

Walsh was fatally stabbed outside a Grand Rapids convenience store, where he had stopped on his way to work early on the morning of June 9.

Walsh, a 1987 graduate of Clarkston High School, lived in Grand Rapids while he attended Grand Valley State University in Allendale.

Caged cougar bites 3-year-old

BY BONNIE WATTLEWORTH
Clarkston News Special Writer

A 3-year-old Davisburg boy was hospitalized after a caged pet cougar bit him on the arm July 29 in Salem Township.

Andrew Rupp, 3, of Allingham Road, White Lake Township, is being treated at the Huron Valley Hospital in Milford. The hospital cannot disclose his condition since he is a minor.

Andrew was with his father visiting Robert Brewer's home on Six Mile Road where the incident occurred.

Brewer, the 35-year-old owner of the cougar, was not home when the attack took place. The boy's father, a friend of Brewer's, took Andrew to see the animal anyway, said Lt. James Fink of the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department.

Apparently Andrew put his hand in the cage and attempted to pet the animal, Fink said. While the animal is not known to be vicious, it bit the boy's arm, he said. No charges have been filed at this time.

"It doesn't appear that the owner of the cougar has violated any laws," Fink said. "It was in the cage when the boy was bitten. He (the boy) reached inside."

Brewer keeps the 9-month-old cougar and two bears in cages behind his house, Fink said.

"He's got quite a bit of property back there," he said.

Anyone who keeps exotic animals has to obtain permits from the Department of Natural Resources. Brewer is licensed to keep his animals, Fink said.

The case currently is being investigated by Washtenaw County Animal Control.

Careless owners

books, but it was tough to enforce, she wondered what good it was.

"The way it stands, we are powerless against it," she said.

Trustee James Schultz suggested calling the Oakland County animal control officer and informing him of the problem if it continues to happen on a regular basis.

Then, Studebaker wondered why dog owners weren't a little more considerate about where their pets conduct their business.

President Sharon Catallo, a dog owner, suggested residents should carry a pooper scooper or plastic baggies to take care of the problem. She said too many people aren't doing it.

"It's a problem that needs attention," she said. "It's not all that difficult. It's the responsibility of the owner to take care of it."

Other than offering their sympathy, the village council members took no other action.

Declaration's signing

August 2 marks the anniversary of the actual signing of the Declaration of Independence in 1776.

Although July 4, 1776, appears on the document and is generally held to be the date of the signing, members of the Continental Congress did not actually sign the Declaration of Independence until a month later. Even then, some members were unavailable and had to sign at a later date.

Only John Hancock, president of the Continental Congress, signed a copy of the Declaration of Independence on behalf of the entire Congress on July 4.

Bat craze swoops down on Clarkston

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

As if on cue, Gwen Ray sailed into Coach's Corner on Main Street, Clarkston.

"Do you have any Batman shirts?" she asked hopefully.

Coach's Corner has displayed the large yellow and black Batman logo in its window well in advance of the opening for the blockbuster movie, so it would appear this would be bat gear headquarters.

But POW! Wham! The batman craze has whirled through Clarkston as it has the rest of America in recent weeks. Coach's Corner had sold out of the items in question.

"Everybody buys them, not just the little kids."

Dave Larkin

"They come in here daily," says Dave Larkin, currently manning the busy bat booth, where several bat items are on display.

"It was like the Pistons craze," he says. "When that died down, this picked up."

The first thing you see when you walk into Coach's Corner is bat items, straight ahead. Along with the array of bat shirts (six to choose from) there are bat sweat-shirts, bat hats, bat posters and bat drink coolers.

The merchandise with the plain batman logo continues to sell out, Larkin says.

"Everybody buys them," he adds, "not just the little kids."

Gwen Ray's son, Andy, was bitten by the bat bug almost immediately, she says, and he's only four years old.

"He's so taken with it," Gwen says in amazement. "It's a hot item right now. All the kids want them. When they started, they really hyped it up."

"(Andy) loves to role play. He's got a Batman action figure," she adds, smiling. "We won't let him see the movie, though."

The movie at the Clarkston Cinema is, of course, Batman, and merchandising of the movie has even spread to the Village Bakeshop in Clarkston.

There, in the top display case, are cookies with the familiar batman logo.

The round sugar cookies have been colored with yellow glaze and are topped with a black bat sugar cookie. The bat logo was crafted with the use of an old cookie cutter left over from Halloween, says the staff at the bakeshop, and they're selling like hot-cakes.

"We think it's outrageous," says one staff member, noting the dollar-a-cookie price tag.

"We tell them one dollar, and they say 'fine,'" she adds.

Holy Marketing, Batman! You're making merchandisers rich!

BATMAN COOKIES are among the byproducts of the Batman craze in Clarkston. The popular cookies can be purchased at the Village Bakeshop on Main Street for $1. Along with the cookies, Clarkston residents are buying up shirts, posters and hats with the batman logo at Coach's Corner on Main Street.

Rattalee Lake Rd. residents request 25 mph speed limit

BY BONNIE WATTLEWORTH
Clarkston News Special Writer

Anyone who uses the strip of Rattalee Lake Road between Tindall and Weber roads soon might have to slow down to 25 mph.

The Springfield Township Board unanimously voted to request that Oakland County recognize the stretch as a residential district with a reduced speed limit.

Just less than 70 percent of area residents requested that the speed limit be changed because of a dangerous combination of frequent speeders and hidden driveways.

"This is one of the worst stretches of road," said Trustee Charles Oaks, adding that it is one of the worst areas because of numerous concealed driveways and a dangerous intersection.

One resident said he clocked one vehicle traveling through the area around 70 mph.

"That's the kind of speeds we're getting," said Jerry VanConant, who lives off of Rattalee Lake Road. He also suggested the board ask the Oakland County Sheriff's Department to assign a police car to enforce the limit.

"They would be able to write some nice tickets," VanConant said.

Area resident Donald Smith said he felt the reduced speed limit would help protect neighborhood children.

"We have kids up there riding bicycles in the road," he said. "It's a matter of time before someone gets killed."

Smith also asked the board to request that "Hidden Driveway" signs be posted in the area.

"We are going to have constant trouble unless we put signs up every 100 yards or so," he said.

Supervisor Collin Walls said the board would request the signs, but they would not be posted every 100 yards.

"They would post them at strategic points along the road though," Walls said.

The request approved by the seven-member board was forwarded to the Oakland County Road Commission for consideration.

Public hearing set for Walters Lake weed control

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The thick weeds in Walters Lake at Clarkston and Eston Roads are once again the target of a cleanup plan.

After a public hearing attended by about 50 people July 20, the five-member Walters Lake Improvement Board decided that a three-year cleanup project was practicable.

County and Independence Township assessors will now develop an assessment roll to determine how much each nearby resident will pay toward the project's $27,500 cost.

A public hearing on the special assessment roll has been set for 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 31, at the Independence Township Hall, 90 N. Main St., Clarkston.

A resident's assessment amount is determined through the use of nine categories, according to Independence Township Deputy Clerk Cathy DeRousha.

The categories include whether residents live on the lake or off the lake, whether the area has been improved or unimproved, or whether he lives within several subdivisions in the area.

Those assessed at the high end of the scale can expect to pay about $150 a year, while those at the bottom of the range will be assessed about $15 a year, DeRousha said.

The money will be used for weed harvesting and for the use of herbicides and algicides in the 79.6-acre lake.

Weed harvesting calls for a barge-like boat that cuts the weeds under the water and removes them with a series of conveyers. Herbicides and algicides are used selectively in shallow areas along the shoreline where the harvester cannot reach, said Oakland County Commissioner Richard Kuhn Jr.

Residents attending the public hearing questioned whether the harvesting could be done close to the shoreline; they asked about a nearby dam and about erosion.

Most of those in attendance seemed to favor the cleanup plan and commended the Lake Improvement Board on its actions. When asked to show support of the three-year cleanup project with a show of hands, residents attending the meeting responded unanimously, Kuhn said.

The improvement board was established in the fall of 1983, after the Independence Township Board received a petition from property owners asking that something be done to protect property values and preserve natural resources.

After several years of negotiations, a two-year weed control program was adopted in 1987; property owners were assessed, and the project was completed the following spring.

The board is now employing a procedure to create a weed control program again this year.

After a public hearing determines whether the project is practicable, the board publishes a resolution. Residents have 30 days to file legal objections before the board creates an assessment roll.

After the assessment roll is created, affected residents are notified, and another public hearing is held. Again, the board accepts legal objections made within 30 days; and if there are none, bids are advertised and the project is begun.

Joyce and a passenger were wearing seat belts when the accident occurred. The passenger was not injured.

Profile

Julie Campe

We do profiles occasionally on friendly area workers or energetic volunteers (suggestions on those are welcome anytime), so I decided to profile myself, although I don't really fit either category.

Here goes.

ABOUT CLARKSTON: I was born in the Clarkston area, although I live in Orion Township now.

Clarkston was a great place to grow up. As a kid, I walked with my family to church and to parades from our Laurelton Road home. I've also lived on Waldon Road, Shelly Drive, Clarkston Road and Balmoral Terrace.

AGE: 26.

OCCUPATION: Editor of The Clarkston News, which means I read stories written by Peter Auchter, Tracy King, Sandra Conlen and our intern, Bonnie Wattleworth.

I check for punctuation, grammar and spelling errors, and I try to make sure the stories make sense (I figure if I can understand some of these complicated school and township stories, so can the average reader—let me know if I'm wrong).

The best part of my job is meeting all of the interesting people in the area. We interview people when they've done something great or interesting—when they're at their best.

The worst part of my job is the irregular hours and the technical delays (one bad computer disk, and it's rewrite time).

Also, it's tough covering terrible stories because you never want to call people in their bad moments. However, we rationalize our actions by thinking that it helps people to talk about their tragedies and that the stories help them by letting others know about it so they can comfort them.

FAMILY: Husband, Chris. Parents, Juanita LePere of Waterford Township and Ronald and Peggy LePere of Independence Township. Lots of brothers and sisters and in-laws. No children or pets.

ACTIVITIES: A lot of reading, sand volleyball at Clintonwood Park, occasional tennis and softball. A lot of eating.

FAVORITE MOVIES: "My Life as a Dog" and "East of Eden" and "Man from Snowy River"

I love watching movies, especially on the big screen (it loses something when you rent them to watch on the tube—although I do that, too).

FAVORITE BOOKS: "The Dispossessed" by Ursula K. LeGuin, "Atlas Shrugged" by Ayn Rand and "Their Eyes Were Watching God" by Zora Neale Hurston.

FAVORITE FOODS: All carbohydrates, especially potatoes. Is there any way to fix a potato that isn't delicious?

I also love Bryer's vanilla ice cream with real bean specs and Hagen-Daz vanilla ice cream and Oreo ice cream from Cook's and from Homemade brand.

Nectarines, especially this time of year, also top my list, as does beef, almost any kind, cooked medium rare.

FAVORITE PERFORMERS: Jack Nicholson, Nicholas Cage, Holly Hunter and Colin Fere.

EDUCATIONAL BACKGROUND: Bachelor's degree in English from Oakland University, Rochester. Also attended Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo.

News simulation insults TV viewers

Television news dealt its biggest insult to date last week, with the simulation of a crime shown during a network news broadcast.

ABC-TV ran the story of Felix Bloch, an American diplomat who is suspected but not charged with spying for the Soviet Union.

But they did more than just tell the facts and show a picture of the suspect. They also ran a video tape of a man (not Bloch) passing a briefcase to another man (not a KGB agent) on a crowded street. It was not the actual crime, but it could have looked like the video taped scene, say the originators of the simulation idea.

It was insulting for many reasons.

First, it cheapened the evening news by making it look like one of those popular television crime shows that simulates crimes for viewers' entertainment. The news broadcast lost credibility by using that technique.

Second, it did nothing to further our understanding of the crime. The briefcase scene could have and was told better in words. The television masterminds behind the simulation must think the American people can no longer understand words and need images for every bit of information.

Next, television by its very nature blurs the line between reality and make believe. In the past, TV dramas have been made to look like real life, and commercials have been made to look like TV dramas or situation comedies.

News, which is respected for showing life as it is, is now being manipulated and looks like a TV drama.

Further, simulations of that sort are a waste of time. Normally, news from print is detailed and concise, and you can read about what's especially interesting to you, discarding other items. Radio news, such as National Public Radio, is useful because you can perform chores or do other things while listening to it.

Television news, on the other hand, gives aspects of news that the other media can't -- the sights and colors of a situation, for instance. The addition of the video tape added nothing to our understanding, yet we still had to watch it (or turn it off) before the next segment began.

Pre-simulation news at least continued the facade that the primary function of news was to inform the public. Although many people watch news for entertainment, now it seems that the minds behind television news have switched their primary focus to entertainment, too. JLC

Jim's Jottings

Bill Myers is the man who put me on to buying The Oxford Leader in 1955. And, I've known him and read his columns for longer than that.

Back then his father, Harry, was publisher of the Lapeer County Press, Bill was editor, and his brother, Bob, was the farm reporter. Bob owns the whole shebang now.

When Bill sold to brother Bob and left for Florida he continued to write a human interest/financial column for The Davison Index, of which he was part owner. Out of that (we bought it in 1976) Myers continued to write his column, which he sent to several newspapers, including ours.

Still later he became a columnist for "The Media General Financial Weekly" out of Richmond, VA. He writes it from his homes in Boca Raton, Florida and Beulah, Michigan when he's not traversing the world.

The Financial Weekly editors insist Myers write something financial in his columns. He does, but he intersperses some observations, incidentals and trivia.

In his July 3 column Myers offered a jar of Mrs Stuart's home-made jam to the first person to write him in Beulah with an answer to this brain-teaser:

What is the one thing (besides consonants and vowels) these words have in common:

Month, April, noisy, obese, aspic, cabbage, exit, film, gossip, polks, refuge, shindig, valve, wasp and zebra.

He heard from several readers, but none had the right answer, he said. The answer is: None of the words rhymes with any other word.

I really don't know if he's right, but I do know he's a whole lot smarter than I am.

Passing the time of day with Ken Sutherland of Rochester and Ortonville (everyone has two homes, don't they?), he mentioned taking his wife to Whitey's in Davison for dinner the night before.

It wasn't a good weather evening so we asked why? He said, "I said something wrong earlier in the day and had to take Roberta to dinner."

Also at the table was old friend Pansy Baldwin. He chimed in, "When I do that I get the rest of the day to myself."

Proverbs often leave me wondering. Like a proverb attributed to the Dutch in Dick E Bird News from Acme: Roasted pigeons will not fly into one's mouth. What?

Or this Arabic proverb: The fine pullet shows its excellence from the egg. French proverb: It is a stupid goose that listens to the fox preach.

On the other hand, a Russian proverb from the same paper makes sense: Wild ducks and tomorrow both come without calling.

Burma Shave signs are better: The Chic-He wed--let out a whoop--felt his chin and--flew the coop.

Letters to the Editor

They call for funds

As followers of Christ, we want to respond to His instructions in Matthew 10:42-45, "to be of service to others."

We have established an ecumenical group called Friends of Baldwin Mission to help raise funds for their work.

Many of you know of its needs; many have helped, and there are ongoing programs. We need to do more because of a recent appeal for funds by The Baldwin Mission. They need additional help.

We are asking all Independence Township residents who are dedicated to Christ's work to respond.

Our goal is to hold an ecumenical fund-raising event to aid the Mission. Those of you who can offer your hands, your time, your money and your support are encouraged to call 625-7762 for details on Baldwin Avenue Mission.

We will be contacting the Independence Church Council for its support, but we want this to be a truly ecumenical event and, therefore, are appealing directly to all people of Independence Township.

God calls us to be one in Christ.

Love in Christ,
Ward Sussex

Shelter needs help

We are writing this letter because of the problems that the Baldwin Avenue Shelter is having.

The shelter is the only food supply for many families. They supply clothing and overnight shelter for those not able to supply it for themselves. Help also comes in the form of caring -- be it counseling, listening, medical care.

The shelter was recently listed in the newspapers as being in debt in excess of $30,000. On Friday, July 28, the legislature did pass a bill to help fund the shelter. At present, it is awaiting the governor's signature.

This still does not eliminate the problems that occur at the shelter. The state allows $15 a night per person to stay at the shelter. The shelter incurs $30 a night for each person it shelters.

The shortfall comes from the fact that the state does not allow for medical care or counseling. They don't see these as basic needs. This past weekend alone, eight to 10 adults and 15 children were turned away from the shelter because they didn't have the necessary funds.

If you feel you can help, please contact someone at the shelter: 212 Baldwin Avenue, PO Box 3960, Pontiac, MI 48059 or you can send a CHECK ONLY made out to Baldwin Avenue Shelter to: Friends of Baldwin Avenue Shelter, 5377 Chanto Dr., Clarkston, MI 48016.

Please help to see that this caring and necessary mission work continues by adding your help where you can.

There is something that everyone can do to help. Please call or write to find out what that something you can do to help is. As Matthew 25:40 reads: "Truly, I say to you, as you did it to one of the least of these my brethren, you did it to me."

'If it Fitz ...'

Young vs.
the media

Jim
Fitzgerald

Mayor Coleman Young is running for re-election by campaigning against the news media. According to city hall sources who asked that their names be withheld, if Young wins he plans to raze all Free Press and Detroit News buildings and replace them with city-built factories that would pay no taxes, employ no people, and answer to no name except "Coleman's Corporation."

OK, so that's an exaggeration. But it's justified because, according to police sources who asked for anonymity, Young plans to publish exaggerations about newspapers in his newsletter, Coleman's Communication on Crime. He will explain inclusion of the press in the newsletter's crime format by saying local journalism is a blankety-blank crime.

It's expected that Coleman's Communication will reprint an old quote from a British journalist, Alan Brien, who compared journalism to prostitution in the March 20, 1967, issue of Newsweek magazine:

A newspaper is not a place to go to see people actually earning a living, though journalists like to pretend they never stop sweating over a hot typewriter. It is much more like a brothel - short rushed bursts of really rather enjoyable activity interspersed with long, lazy stretches of gossip, boasting, flirtations, drinking, telephoning, strolling about the corridors, sitting on corners of desks, planning to start everything tomorrow.

Each of the inmates has a little specialty to please the customers. The highest paid ones perform only by appointment, the poorest take on everything and anybody. The editors are like madams - soothing, flattering, disciplining their naughty, temperamental staff but rarely obliged to satisfy the clients personally between the printed sheets.

The only reason I'm giving space to that scurrilous quote is to prove I am one journalist who gives both sides of an argument, especially when I'm arguing against a man who has $5 million in his argument chest. I don't want to come home some evening to discover my apartment building has been renamed Coleman's Cozy Condominiums and my corner apartment has been converted into Coleman's Corner Convenience store.

(Earlier, when I discussed political alliteration as it applies to naming everything in Detroit after Coleman Young, I said we were lucky his parents didn't name him Farquat. This evoked inquiries from several intellectual readers who suspect the name "Farquat" originally appeared in some worthwhile work of literature, but can't remember which one. Me neither. The best I can do is dimly connect Farquat with W.C. Fields. Can anyone help us?)

There's a reason why today's column has several times mentioned that information about the mayor was obtained from unnamed sources. That's my clever method of stressing that what Young hates most about the media is their frequent failure to identify the obstinate people who work for the city but don't name their children after him.

Journalist also dislike this use of unnamed sources, but often, if whistle blowers aren't promised anonymity, they won't whistle for fear of being transferred to latrine duty on Zug Island.

Coleman Young should understand the business reason that sometimes makes it necessary for the media to offer protection to sources. News media all over the world do it when they think the source is reliable and there's no other way to get information the public has the right to know according to the Bill of Rights, tra la la (just ask any reporter or madam). Any newspaper that refused to withhold names occasionally would soon lose readers to competition.

That's the same type of competition Young cites when he is questioned about using huge tax breaks and careless gobs of public money to lure industries to town, even when those industries often fail to keep their pie-in-the-sky promises. Young says other cities do it, and, if Detroit didn't, we would die from unemployment, and there wouldn't be anything left to name after him.

Which brings us to the end of today's proscribed journalistic campaign to bring about the marvelous day when a citizen of Detroit may be able to live in Farquat's Famous Fine Flats.

I recently got a glimpse at something called a Knowledge Navigator, which has been whispered about in computer circles as a machine that will someday revolutionize the way people live and work.

How the machine might work was demonstrated in a two-minute videotape. During that two minutes, I was changed forever.

Back when automobiles first started roaring around American towns, I would have been the one sneering from my horse and buggy, much preferring the calm of an open carriage on a warm, spring day.

The same with telephones. Who wants to talk over a squawky box when you can visit a man face-to-face, see his expressions and grasp his hand firmly in a shake?

I first learned this about myself -- this wariness of progress -- when I was introduced to another "revolutionary" computer development called Hypercard.

If you're not aware of what this software does, you should be. It organizes huge chunks of information in stacks, so that you can keep it on files in your computer.

The information can be grouped any way you'd like. For example, you can create a stack of all baseball players with a certain batting average. You might never have to look up baseball in your encyclopedia again, because it's all right there on your computer in a Hypercard stack.

Personally, I like encyclopedias. I like having to go to the library to find an encyclopedia, too. I always stumble on something else that's interesting, something I wasn't even looking for.

When I think of what all of this technology is doing for us, I'm reminded of a book that was read to my class in grade school.

The book told about the future. It described a world where everyone got everything they needed from a huge screen in their living room. By then, everyone was earning salaries in the trillions and wore sterile, silver uniforms.

The biggest breadwinner in our family makes his living by convincing people that computers are helpful, that they save time for things more enjoyable than, say, shopping, or looking through books for an elusive fact.

Because it's my livelihood too, I try to keep an open mind. My mind was wide open when I watched the Knowledge Navigator videotape.

The Knowledge Navigator was shaped like a book and was opened to reveal a tiny, talking man who was the "agent". The agent interacted with the user to navigate him through all types of information from all over the world. The user talked to the computer and touched it to bring the information forward on the screen.

After watching what the Knowledge Navigator could do, I tried to remember that progress always has its price. Look what the advent of the automobile did for the environment, I argued.

But no matter how hard I tried to think otherwise, I had to admit there may be something to this technology stuff.

It does, after all, leave time for the really fun activities, like phoning someone.

Travels with Carrie

Note: Tom and Carrie Wilford are son and daughter-in-law to Jerome and Lucia Wilford of North Main Street, Clarkston. Tom is also a Clarkston High School graduate. Before leaving on their year-long journey around the world in December, 1988, the couple visited The Clarkston News and promised to send regular updates on their travel adventures. This letter is the fourth of their travelogue.

"In Bangkok there are 399 temples."

- Prayudn Payndeo

Carrie and I arrived in Bangkok on April 7. Bangkok is the capital of Thailand both politically and spiritually. With several hundred Buddhist temples, it is truly a city of temples.

TOM AND CARRIE Wilford stand at the edge of Mount Bromo's crater on Java at 5:30 a.m. one day in May. The volcano is still active, and the mist in the background is coming from below, according to the couple, who are traveling around the world.

The Chaophraya River flows through the center of Bangkok with temples lining both banks of the river. With a population of 50 million, 95 percent of the people are Buddhist. Thailand has 150,000 Buddhist monks living near or in one of the 20,000 monasteries found throughout the country.

Traditionally, the Thai male is expected to become a monk for a short period in his life. It is a common sight in urbanized Bangkok to see orange-robed monks making early morning rounds with their begging bowls.

Our first night in Bangkok was in a hotel located in a noisy part of the city. The next day, we moved to the delightful and extremely friendly Sawatdee Guesthouse in a more residential area.

Our neighborhood had its own market, a large indoor/outdoor complex with plenty of local color and exotic sights. A short walk from our guesthouse through the market and across a long (canal) and you were at the river.

Riding Bangkok's quaint, low wooden-hulled river boats became our main means of transportation. The express boat would pull up to the floating pier; in the stern the conductor would be blowing the whistle.

You had to quickly jump on the bobbing boat while others jumped off and hope you wouldn't slip. Once on the boat, the sights, sounds and excitement of the river took over.

Bangkok has several interesting museums. The National Museum is a storehouse of treasures. Within a walled compound, the buildings of the museum were once part of a palace adding a special touch to the collecting.

The National Museum gave us an insight into the art and culture of Thailand, but our favorite museum was the Jim Thompson House. Thompson was an American silk entrepreneur who built an authentic Thai home, the architecture comprising parts of five Thai houses. He built the house both as a residence and a place to display his splendid Asian art collection.

On Easter Sunday, 1967, Jim Thompson disappeared in the Cameron Highlands of West Malaysia under quite mysterious circumstances and has never been heard from.

I read an excellent book on Thompson which tells about his career, residence and intriguing disappearance: "The Legendary American -- The Remarkable Career and Strange Disappearance of Jim Thompson" by William Warren (Houghton Mifflin Co., Boston, 1970).

Our third day in Bangkok we spent on an all-day tour into the countryside. We visited a floating market, which is literally hundreds of small flatbottom boats filled with various produce as tour boats slowly work their way through the maze.

During this tour we became friends with a Swiss couple, Hans and Loni. For the next three days, we explored Bangkok together and helped celebrate Loni's 61st birthday.

They were the owners of a 70-foot yacht, which has a full-time, four-man crew. Every three months, they fly from Switzerland to wherever their boat is and sail for a month. In this fashion for the past eight years they have been sailing-round-the-world.

On April 13th, all of Bangkok celebrated the Songkran festival. This is the New Year's celebration of the lunar year in Thailand. The way the Thais celebrate Songkran is with water -- lots of water. All that day was one big water fight with squirt guns, buckets and hoses soaking everyone.

A few days later we traveled by bus to the northern city of Chiang Mai. Unfortunately, the hot season had arrived, and Chiang Mai was hot (105 degrees) and hazy.

After a few days of visiting the temples we took the overnight train back to Bangkok. A week later we took an overnight bus to the southern town of Surat Thani. The next morning, we boarded a ferryboat and sailed for three islands in the gulf of Thailand.

The first island, Koh Samui, we avoided because it has become overcrowded by tourists. We traveled to the smaller, quieter island of Koh Phagon. We found a group of bungalows built on a rocky tip of the island with a larger building in the center serving as the restaurant.

Our bungalow had a spectacular view of the ocean. Everyday we would swim, read, play dominos and always watch the beautiful sunsets -- they were incredible. We stayed one week and then, by ferryboat, journeyed three hours to the tiny island of Koh Toh.

Three days later we arrived back on the Thai mainland and headed south for Malaysia. We stayed the night at the Thai border town of Hat Yai. The following morning we left Thailand by train and headed for Kuala Lumpur, the capital of Malaysia. For four weeks we had traveled in Thailand and had grown quite fond of the Thai food, customs and culture.

Our stay in Malaysia was a brief eight days of visiting only Kuala Lumpur and Malacca on the West Coast. Kuala Lumpur is an Asian boom town with skyscrapers dominating the older, more charming sections of the city.

A favorite haunt of ours was the Coliseum Hotel and restaurant. Upon entering the Coliseum, there was always a feeling of stepping into a 1920s time warp.

Everything about the restaurant was of a different era.

The decor and hotel china were ancient, but the staff were polite, friendly and efficient. More importantly, the food was always delicious.

Wilford's report from abroad

several of his stories on incidents and people he met while staying in the Coliseum.

Sightseeing in Kuala Lumpur included the zoo, art gallery, the outdoor night market and Betu Caves, a vast cavern that houses Hindu temples. Islam is the official religion of Malaysia, but the country has a large Indian population, which is Hindu.

An incredible travel bargain in Malaysia is traveling long distances by chartered taxi cab. By taxi, we had a three hour drive south to Malacca, Malaysia's oldest and most historic town.

The Portuguese took Malacca in 1511 to serve as a port for their spice trade. Next came the Dutch in 1641 when, after an eight-month siege, they captured the town.

Nearly 200 years later, the British took control of Malacca. A visit to the Malacca museum impressed us of the importance Malacca held for European nations and their early explorers.

Malacca was once the most strategic port in southeast Asia, both as a strategic point for trade and military expeditions. Today, the once proud seaport of Malacca is but a relic of the past. We left Malacca, again chartered by taxi. Six hours later, we arrived in Singapore.

The island city state of Singapore is located at the Southern tip of the Malaysian peninsula. At one time, Singapore had been part of the Federation of Malaysian States.

In the mid 60s, Singapore broke away from Malaysia, becoming independent. Singapore, because of its location and natural harbors, is the world's second busiest port with only Rotterdam handling more tonnage.

There is an attractiveness about Singapore, and by far it is the cleanest city in southeast Asia. After four days in Singapore, we flew to Jakarta, the capital of Indonesia, May 19.

Jakarta is located on the island of Java. It is a rather dirty city. We stayed only two days in Jakarta but discovered the Sarinah department store.

Much of our Christmas shopping was done on the third floor of Sarinah, which is devoted to handicrafts from all over Indonesia.

Leaving Jakarta by train, we journeyed 10 hours to the city of Yogyakarta in central Java. In and around Yogyakarta, we explored many interesting museums, palaces, temples and ruins, including one of the greatest wonders of the southeast Asia -- the Buddhist temple of Borobudur.

Completed early in the 9th century A.D., this incredible temple is an immense structure of six squares topped by three circular ones with nearly 1,500 panels on the terraces illustrating the teaching and life of Buddha, plus over 400 Buddha images sit in chambers on the terraces.

Leaving Yogyakarta, we had another long but beautiful train ride with spectacular tropical scenery such as small villages, rice paddies terraced along deep ravines or volcanos on the horizon.

After a tiring, 11-hour train ride, we arrived at Probolinggo near the Eastern tip of Java. Very close to Probolinggo is Mount Bromo, a fantastic, active volcano, which is actually a crater within a crater.

Before dawn June 2, our last day on Java, we hired a taxi cab and drove to Ngadisari, near the top of Mount Bromo. In the darkness, we and several others hiked up Mount Bromo, arriving at the top just before sunrise.

By mid-morning, we were back in Probolinggo, boarding a bus that drove to the ferryboat at Banyuwangi. Looking across the straits of Bali, we had our first glimpse of the island of Bali. The bus drove onto the ferryboat, which crossed the straits and our bus ride continued on Bali, arriving in the capital city of Denpasar.

All the best to Clarkston.

Crash hurts one

A 26-year-old man was injured during an accident on the corner of M-15 and Rattalee Lake Road, Independence Township.

John Rock of King Richard Court, Birmingham, was treated and released from Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital, said a hospital spokesman.

Rock was not wearing a seat belt when the accident took place.

The accident occurred around 5:20 p.m. when Rock's vehicle, which was traveling south on M-15, struck another vehicle from behind, according to an Oakland County Sheriff's Department report.

The vehicle Rock hit fled the scene.

Rock was ticketed for failing to yield, according to the report.

Historical society calls for photographers

Clarkston Community Historical Society members say a picture is worth a thousand words.

The group is looking for amateur photographers willing to volunteer their time to record the Clarkston area on film during 1989-90.

Since Independence Township is growing and changing, society members think it's important to photograph the area as it is now. Everything from individual houses to busy street corners needs to be documented on film.

Photographers will be asked to donate a few hours each month to take pictures in an assigned geographic area, and they'll photograph their area over a period of months so each season is recorded.

The historical society will cover all film and development costs.

The photos will be catalogued and kept in the Local History Room of the upcoming additions to the Independence Township Library.

Anyone interested in volunteering can call Sue Basinger at 625-0976 for more information.

Citizens for Orderly Growth

Time will tell

Doug Carlson

A few days ago, I ran into a friend who I had not seen for some time. Bill's family and mine both moved to Deer Lake at the same time, the early 1970s.

We became acquainted when we and several dozen others banded together to fight a developer who wanted to build 1,000 apartments and condominiums on the north end of the lake.

The fight lasted for several years, in and out of the courts, and involved lawsuits against township officials who had denied the proposal.

Nevertheless, the township finally prevailed, and the developer built what is known today as Deer Lake Farms, probably one of the most beautiful residential areas in all of Oakland County.

When Bill and I talked last week, our conversation centered around Deer Lake and what has happened to it since we first moved there.

Back in the '70s and before, Deer Lake was clear, tranquil and a beautiful aqua blue. It was known as "the jewel of Independence Township," and rightfully so. In fact, in 1933, it was written up in National Geographic as one of the prettiest lakes in the United States.

Today, Deer Lake is rapidly becoming just another overused, relatively dirty lake, no better and no worse than most other lakes.

As more and more homes are built around the lake, the run-off from fertilizers and septic systems is causing weed growth and other forms of pollution.

The boats on the lake are getting larger, faster and more numerous, and the churn up the weeds and other growth, which then floats on top of the water.

So if you want to swim in front of your house, you have to dive through the debris into brownish-blue water. Hardly like the good old days, but then what is?

The other issue, of course, is safety. Many of us who live on the lake won't use it on weekends until after 7:30 p.m., when the power boats have to leave.

Bill said he hasn't been on the lake on a weekend in at least five years. Two Sundays ago, a situation developed with a Jet Ski, which could have resulted in a real tragedy. Fortunately, no one was injured -- this time.

After talking to Bill, I drove past the Great Scott shopping center, which is gradually taking shape on Dixie Highway. I drove past the intersection of Dixie Highway and White Lake Road where yet another shopping center will soon be built.

And I thought about the mini-mall and office complex being completed on M-15, just south of I-75. And finally, I thought about the developer who may sue the township because he was denied his request for a mobile home park on Mann Road.

I thought of Clarkston, and I thought of Deer Lake. Everyone seems to want to move to Clarkston, and everyone wants to use Deer Lake. And we can't deny them that right. But that usage is slowly strangling Deer Lake.

Will it also strangle Clarkston? Will the proponents of "bigger is better" leave us a township teeming with shopping centers, traffic, pollution and crime?

Will we someday look back and say, "how did we let this happen?"

Or will we hold fast to our zoning plan and stand up to developers who want to alter the plan to their benefit? Time will tell. We can sit and watch, or we can get involved. Which will it be?

New Independence clerk sets her stamp on office

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The changing of the guard at the Independence Township clerk's office is becoming apparent.

The office is sporting a new coat of paint, for one thing. Pink trim is ready for its place on the wall around the desk, and a wallpaper border has been chosen for the area near the ceiling.

A woman now sits behind the clerk's desk at town hall offices. And Joan McCrary, appointed to the clerk's

"The main issue in this community is growth. Controlled growth. We have to work with these people as they come in."

position in early July, has plans well beyond decoration.

Among her comments: "The main issue in this community is growth. Controlled growth. We have to work with these people as they come in."

And, "I want to bring in some new ideas from the private sector."

This soft spoken woman has a broad base of experience to call upon. Along with her 17-year residency in Independence Township, she has served on the township Zoning Board of Appeals.

Plus she has worked as business and financial manager of an architectural firm for eight years and is the president of a development company out of Grand Blanc. She has worked as a financial analyst for a Chrysler subsidiary and currently serves as accountant and financier for her family building business. And she has a strong desire to work in Independence Township government.

"I've lived here for 17 years, and I've always wanted to be involved in township activities," she said, adding that she has been working toward her current position for 15 years.

The clerk position is a busy one. McCrary will formulate the township budget, administer payroll, run elections, establish assessment districts and act as secretary during meetings, among many other things.

"I consider it the hub, the center of the universe,"

McCrary said. "That's going to be my challenge."

Another challenge McCrary will face is an election in November of 1990, which is only 18 months away.

She said the prospect doesn't bother her, even though she will be alone fighting for her position. State law requires any township appointee to run for the position in the first available election. Other elected officials have until 1992 before they have to run for re-election.

"I have almost 18 months to demonstrate my ability," said McCrary. "I hope people support me at that time."

In the meantime, there are township tours to take, luncheons to attend and meetings to understand. And offices to decorate.

24-year-old man hurt during storm

A 24-year-old Independence Township man sustained injuries July 27 when his car was broadsided at the corner of Eston and Lakeview roads, Independence Township.

John Graves of Lakeview, Independence Township, was treated and released from Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital, said a hospital spokesman.

The accident occurred during a storm at 11:25 p.m. last Thursday when Graves turned left from Eston to Lakeview, according to an Oakland County Sheriff's Department report.

David Cleveland, 42, of Kootima, Independence Township, struck the driver's side of Graves' car while passing a vehicle traveling north on Eston, according to the report.

Both Graves and Cleveland were wearing seat belts, according to the report.

Cleveland was ticketed for driving left of the center line.

SOME SPRINGFIELD Township residents have found a way to beat the summer heat. Helping some of the sheep cool off at Bellairs' Hillside Farm is Doug Hoolsema of Melvin. Hoolsema sheared about 50 sheep July 7, netting about 550 pounds of wool. It takes about 3 pounds of raw wool to make a man's full suit or a woman's long wool coat.

Board approves $4,100 for books

New books are in store for home economics and human relations classes for grades 9-12. The Clarkston School Board unanimously approved over $4,100 for new textbooks July 10.

The human relations course will use the text, "Contemporary Living" (Goodheart Wilcox, 1987); 200 copies plus a teacher's guide are to be purchased for $3,345.

The home economics department is to have two new publications, "Health-Choosing Wellness" (Prentice-Hall, 1989), 35 copies at $847, and "Family Living" (Prentice-Hall, 1988), 35 copies for $817.25.

The board also approved reproductive health materials to be used during the 1989-90 school year at no cost. Materials purchased for reproductive health are furnished through The Drug Free Schools and Community Grant.

"No money will come from the general fund to purchase these materials," said Judith Backes, director of staff development/curriculum for Clarkston schools.

Call for parade floats

Plans for the Clarkston Labor Day Parade are already underway, and organizers wanted community groups, businesses and individuals to begin thinking about a float.

The theme for the parade, set for 10 a.m. Monday, Sept. 14, is: Our Future through our Past.

To sponsor a float or march in the parade, call Leonard C. Gorz at 858-0211 or write P.O. Box 565, Clarkston, MI 48016; or call Marc Cooper at 673-1020, or write 5735 Williams Lake Rd., Drayton Plains, MI 48020.

All entries must be registered in advance, and the entries will be judged by the Clarkston Rotary Club, which will present awards before the parade starts.

As usual, the parade is to begin at Clarkston Junior High School and will follow Church Street to Main Street, north to Miller Road.

Abortion neither kinder nor gentler

The fundamental right to privacy as established in the Bill of Rights was never intended to allow one human being to destroy another.

Any nation establishes and revolves around both written and unwritten moral codes. Developed and undeveloped civilizations alike have similar basic ethics, among them the respect for and protection of its members, especially a mother for her child.

Abortion can never make us a kinder and gentler nation. There is nothing kind or gentle about abortion.

It allows us, under the guise of curing society's ills, to inflict great pain and moral assault on both the woman and her baby. The unborn child is never given the RIGHT TO CHOOSE.

Abortion offers no solution to a desperate and confused woman other than the elimination of her baby. It does not cure poverty, abuse or neglect.

Sixteen years of unrestricted abortion have seen a 500 percent increase in child abuse. Perhaps abortion's tragic message is a grim and subtle one -- that the most vulnerable and defenseless of us are indispensable when our own "rights" are perceived as infringed upon.

No one can dispute the dire and desperate situations that can accompany an unplanned pregnancy. But there are humane and loving alternatives that will preserve the life and dignity of both mother and baby.

Over 4,000 crisis pregnancy centers nationwide, 79 in Michigan alone, can provide all kinds of assistance to women in need.

A woman has choices. Easy choices? No. Responsible choices, yes. She can choose to have sex or not; she can choose to use birth control or not; she can choose to keep her baby or not.

But she does not have the right to choose death for another human being. That we have allowed this callous disrespect for life for 16 years does not mean it has been right. Many inhumane and unthinkable practices have been legally justified in the past.

It surely is time to celebrate the Bicentennial of the Bill of Rights (in which the right to choose death for one's fetus was never expressed or intended in the Right to Privacy).

It is clearly time to re-establish the legal protection of the unborn in what was created to be the ultimate place of privacy and safety -- the womb.

It was never intended to be unnaturally invaded, to have its human occupant prematurely and violently separated from the only environment in which it can grow and in which it is perfectly viable.

Pro-Life is not just a voice for the unborn but a voice for all of us, a call to come together in reverence to protect what we are and what each one of us can become.

FAMILY TREASURE FOUND IN CLARKSTON!

On July 9, 1989 Claudia Brazel of MainStreet USA Real Estate was pleased to discover 'A rare family treasure in Clarkston.

Brazel, an avid treasure hunter, is extremely excited about her recent find - a meticulously maintained and impeccably clean brick and aluminum ranch with 3 bedrooms, 1½ baths, family room and inground pool.

"I had a good feeling about this particular home when I drove by," said Brazel. "The mature evergreens, cement drive and cared for lawn are good indicators that treasure can be found."

"As soon as I stepped inside, I knew I was right. The house is great. New roof, windows and aluminum trim; open floor plan and fireplaces. As the 'original' owner showed me through I got really excited!!

The sunroom on the back, just off the beautiful 18x36 gunite pool, was inviting and cozy with the freestanding gas fireplace. The partially finished basement was dry and newly carpeted. The backyard with two custom sheds is peaceful and lush and all the conveniences to help maintain the setting and pool are in place.

"I could go on about the treasures I discovered, but it would be easier to just show them. Those interested in my discovery may call me for a personal tour at 625-9091. Also, the owner will sell this treasure for only $127,000. 6716A.

Time Out

Anticipation

Peter Auchter

Anticipation of the upcoming football season always hits hard about this time of the year. You can't have "Back to School" sales without thinking of the gridiron.

While the high schoolers are preparing for their "training camp" later on this month, I'll have to make do with pro and college ball previews.

There is talk of a resurgence in the Detroit Lions camp (remember the "New Attitude" slogan of a year ago), but I'll have to wait and see. I've been led down this road before.

Maybe I'll shell out the big bucks and attend a few games at the Silverdome. If they become respectable (.500 mark would do it), people should be happy.

Otherwise, people can stay away in droves again and complain about the lousy team we have here in Detroit. Either way, the fans come out a winner. Great the way it works, isn't it?

On the down side, the Lions continue to have their share of contract disputes. Their high draft choices are holding out for as much as they can get -- I guess their teachers in school taught them well.

With the cost of tickets skyrocketing these days, I guess I don't blame them for getting a little greedy. If newspapers cost $2 a pop instead of 35 cents, I'd ask for a bigger piece of the pie, too.

What bothers me about the holdouts are the people under contract. Those guys deserve to sit out a year or two. You wanna play hardball, buddy? Well, then let's play until there is only one of us left.

Signing a contract is a two-way street. I can't see the player's side of the argument. Both sides are taking a calculated risk when a long-term contract is signed. Sometimes the player wins (subpar play, yet still gets paid megabucks); sometimes the owners win (all-pro year after year for dirt-cheap wages); sometimes it's even (the guy is paid his market value for the length of the contract).

Sure players suffer career-ending injuries at the funniest of times, but that's the chance you take in football. As they say, you never know when you are going to go.

But enough about the pros, let's talk college ball.

Some national publications are picking Michigan to unseat Notre Dame as national champions. While I don't see that happening, it should be an interesting season around Ann Arbor anyway.

With Barry Switzer out of the way at Oklahoma, maybe things will settle down for a while till the next scandal rocks college ball. (With the way the bowl games are growing and talk of national playoffs becoming more and more frequent, it's bound to happen.)

Oh well, at least the high school season is just around the corner. Good luck to all.

Sports of all sorts

CHS golf meeting

Prospective Clarkston High School boy golfers should show up at the first meeting of the season at 8 p.m. Monday, Aug. 7, at the Spring Lake Country Club, Maybee Road, Independence Township.

Since the following Monday, Aug. 14, is the deadline for paying fees and turning in physicals, the Aug. 7 meeting is the only chance for golf hopefuls to get information on the season, said Coach Jim Chamberlain.

To run varsity and junior varsity teams, 20 golfers are needed, said Chamberlain, adding that he probably has enough for varsity, but he doesn't know about JV.

At the meeting, boys who want to try out for the golf team will get the policy book and other necessary information.

For more information, call the CHS athletic department at 625-0900.

School administrative position axed in Clarkston

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

In a surprise move, the Clarkston school board voted July 31 to eliminate an administrative position from somewhere within the school district.

According to Superintendent Gary Haner, all administrative positions will be reviewed.

The 4-3 vote came during discussion of an administrative change suggested by Haner. Haner proposed that the board vote to recall Sharon O'Leary Johnson, who had been laid off from her position as adult education coordinator.

The board approved O'Leary Johnson's recall, but members said she may move from the community and would then resign the position.

After some discussion on whether the administration was bearing enough of the burden of the $1.6 million cut from the school district budget, a motion was made to eliminate an administrative position yet to be determined. The motion passed on a 4-3 vote.

Voting yes were President Janet Thomas, Mary Jane Chaustowich, Karen Foyteck and Elaine Schultz. Voting no were Tom Howard, John Needham and Paul Van Klaveren.

Chaustowich, who made the motion, said the extra duties could be split between existing administrators.

"Essentially, what was said last night was you have X number of administrators to cover X number of jobs," Chaustowich said after the meeting.

"It was requested (by the superintendent) that the motion be made to clarify," Chaustowich said. "I'm not sure what was served by it. Nobody felt good about it. Nobody wished it had happened."

Howard explained the dissenting point of view. "We're between a rock and a hard place," he said, adding that the board should make the cuts with as little impact as possible on curriculum development and the central office.

"It's a very difficult proposition to deal with," Howard added.

Haner had planned to make the call-back possible with two other administrative changes that did not require board approval.

For now, the changes stand, he said.

Jan Gabier, alternative education administrator and former assistant principal at Clarkston High School was named assistant principal at Clarkston Junior High School (CJHS).

Ginny Farmer, assistant principal at CJHS was named assistant principal at the high school.

"Gabier's move will allow Sharon O'Leary Johnson to be recalled from the lay-off list," Haner said last week.

After the meeting, Haner said, "The decision to reduce administrative staff was not expected at the meeting. However, that was the board's decision, and it is my responsibility to implement it."

Haner said if the adult education coordinator position is left open by O'Leary Johnson's resignation, someone will be reassigned to fill it, or the work will be added to the duties of a current administrator.

If O'Leary Johnson does not resign, an administrative position will be eliminated somewhere else, Haner said.

Reporter's Notebook

Planner Richard Carlisle had a bone to pick with Independence Township residents during the commission's regular July 27 meeting.

Members had just finished discussing the rezoning of several portions of M-15, making them less dense in compliance with the master plan.

Why, Carlisle wondered, do residents flock to meetings to protest developments in record numbers, but when the commission moves to make something less dense they get no support?

Traffic, density are targets of M-15 rezoning plan

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Plans to rezone a long stretch of M-15 took a step forward July 27.

The Independence Township Planning Commission voted 5-1 to recommend a portion of the rezoning to the township board, which has the final say.

If approved, 10 parcels on the east side of M-15, between Cranberry Lake Road and the I-75 interchange would be changed from a highly permissive form of commercial zoning to office zoning.

Voting yes were Chairperson Brent Bair, Joseph Figa, Jo Fussman, Richard Oppmann and Steven Secatch. Bruce Mercado voted no on the rezoning of six of the ten parcels. Daniel Travis was absent for the vote.

The move was taken after nine months of study and drew comment from five nearby residents, most of them against the rezoning.

Township Planner Richard Carlisle explained that

"When you go after my pocketbook, I won't be happy."

the rezoning was necessary to improve traffic conditions in the heavily traveled area, to create a buffer for the residential properties along M-15 and to conform with changes in the master plan. The master plan was created to provide a blueprint of future growth in the area.

This first of three phases would rezone about 10 parcels of varying sizes. As they're zoned now, the parcels could be developed for such things as hotels, drive-in restaurants or building contractor yards, Carlisle explained. If rezoned, the land would be used for things like professional or medical office buildings.

"The decision to proceed with this rezoning would reduce the potential intensity and density," Carlisle said.

Residents questioned how businesses now on the site would be expected to conform and told the commission that they were against the rezoning.

"Changing the zoning substantially reduces the value of the property," said Jerry Tiefenback of Waterford, who now owns a parcel along M-15 and plans to move his water conditioning business there.

"My business will not pass zoning for office. My initial intent was to purchase the property and move my business out this way," he added.

Saundra Halich, a resident of Paula Drive, questioned whether businesses now existing on the properties would have to obtain variances from the Zoning Board of Appeals if they wished to expand.

"It seems like a waste of time," she added.

Gary Stonerock, the owner of an aerial surveying business located on M-15 and a former township supervisor, told the commission that he planned to fight any change of zoning on his property.

"When you go after my pocketbook, I won't be happy," Stonerock said. "My life is based on my own inventiveness and following a plan the government sets for me that I have to abide by."

"I've (followed that plan) and there's no way I'm going to be stripped of those rights," Stonerock added. Stonerock learned that his parcel was not being considered for rezoning at that particular meeting.

Art Ripley of Amy Drive presented the commission with a court order that proved two of the parcels had already been zoned to office. The consent judgment, dating from several years ago, was the result of a lawsuit filed by property owners trying to reserve the land as residential.

Mercado, who voted against the rezoning on certain parcels, told the commission that he didn't oppose commercial development on the sites.

"Independence Township has a lot of available, unleased office space. The rezoning might be slightly less intense use, but most of the traffic is residential," Mercado said. "Actually, allowing commercial could prevent

"The master plan reflects office, and office is less intense. I'm all for office."

some traffic from coming through," he said, adding that he did understand the traffic concerns along M-15.

Other members felt differently.

"The master plan reflects office, and office is less intense," Secatch said. "I'm all for office."

"In fairness to the whole area, making it less nonconforming (to the master plan) is what we're trying to do," said Jo Fussman.

"For residents living in the community that travel north and south -- I think we need to make a serious effort to downplay traffic," she said.

"The most compelling thing is to look along at the people owning the property now," said Richard Oppmann. "Most of them are using it for office use. The zoning should be in concert of that use."

Three Independence developments make progress

April of 1989.

"We've had real good cooperation with the planning commission and the building department," he said. The design and construction plan has changed little from what was first designed. The structure will be made from masonry and glass and will be light gray with a red accent stripe.

Independence Pointe is now under construction on the east side of M-15 near I-75. The multi-building office-

"We had a wet June, but we're trying to catch up. We're on a tight schedule. A very tight schedule."

Developer Edward Boutrous

retail center has been scheduled for completion this December.

One two-story building will house a variety of doctor and dentist offices; two one-story buildings will provide space for several retail operations, including: First Federal Savings Bank and Trust, St. Joseph Mercy Hospital Mercy Care, Glitz Hair Salon, Clarkston Vision and a yogurt/muffin shop, among others.

The buildings were designed with the Village of Clarkston in mind, said developer Tim Affolder, a graduate of Clarkston High School.

"It will be a gateway from the expressway to Clarkston," Affolder said. "It blends with the historical value of Clarkston; we didn't want to take away from the flavor of the town."

The brick buildings are to be nestled among courtyards under tiny lights and a clock tower, he added.

About 65 percent of the building space has been leased; when the structure has been completed, the developer expects about 80-90 percent to be filled.

The developer first submitted plans to the planning commission in April of 1988. The development required the rezoning of the 6.12-site from planned shopping center to planned unit development (PUD), which would allow different uses on the site. The plan received subsequent approvals, and Affolder obtained his building permit in April of 1989.

"Everything went so smoothly," Affolder said. "(The plans) went through the first time."

White Lake Commons is a grocery store and shopping center planned for the corner of White Lake Road and Dixie Highway where the historic Boothby House once stood.

The 94,000-square-foot development has received final approval from the planning commission and is currently under review for its building permit.

The review is expected to be completed in about a week, according to developer Weatherford-Walker of Farmington Hills. Construction should begin not long after that; a tentative date of December has been set for the center's completion.

It's still uncertain whether the anchor store at the shopping center will be an A&P or a Farmer Jack, said Bryce Kelley of Weatherford-Walker. The recent sale of several A&P stores makes the storefront a question mark.

Along with the grocery store, the development will be home to Arbor Drugs and other retail stores, Kelley said.

The development received final approval from the planning commission in September of 1988 after plans were first denied, then tabled. Before granting final approval, commission members stated their disapproval of the removal of several mature trees on the site.

The mature trees will later become part of the development's landscape plan, the developer told them.

THE GREAT SCOTT supermarket on Dixie Highway near Maybee Road is currently under construction.

Opinion of Bill Myers

Pass the Pepto

William A. Myers is a retired Lapeer County editor and investments manager from Boca Raton, Fla.

Little wonder that President Bush wants the capital gains tax rates cut. Considering that the 1986 "tax reform" package pushed the rates up about three times the old scale, it's high time Congress treated us more fairly.

Of course, we aren't letting our hair grow until Congress acts responsibly. But there's always the hope some statesmanship will appear in Washington, D.C.

Under the old law - pre-1987 - if you held property or securities over six months and sold them for a profit, 60 percent of the gain was exempt from income tax. Since the top income tax rate then was 50 percent, you paid only 20 percent as the maximum tax (6-10ths was exempt).

When the boys in Washington put together the new tax law, they decided to tax all capital gains the same as your regular rate. The new top rate became 28 percent.

"So we're raising the capital gains 8 percent - from 20 percent to 28 percent," they said. When you jump from 20 to 28, that's not an 8 percent jump, that's 8-20ths, or 40 percent. Not enough people caught the trick figures to holler in 1986, and the new rates were set up (effective Jan. 1, 1987).

Now for the other part of this slippery legislation and the conning of the public:

Not many people ever paid the old top rate of 20 percent capital gains. Again, remember, you had to be in the top bracket of 50 percent, and that didn't happen until your income was $145,000 a year. Aside from professional athletes, doctors, lawyers and junk bond salesmen, how many people do you know with taxable income of $145,000 a year?

A couple in 1986 with $40,000 of taxable income, for example, paid capital gains of about 14 percent - before "tax reform." Now, this same pair pays 28 percent. Here are some other examples to spoil your day:

Capital gains tax, joint return

Taxable income	Pre-1987 rate (%)	Now
$34,300	11.2	28
$37,980	13.2	28
$49,750	15.2	28
$64,750	16.8	28
$145,320	20.0	28

The 28 percent rate assumes you are under 65 and won't be hit with the "Catastrophic Health Care" tax. If you are 65 years old, in 1989 add another 4 1/2 points to the 28 percent column. Next year add 7 points. That gets you up to 35 percent. For a couple, likely retired at 65, with $40,000 income, their old capital gains rate, as stated earlier, was 14 percent. Now it will be 2 1/2 times as much.

It takes all the fun out of capital gains. People who bought stock, say, 20 years ago are in a fix. Consider a fairly typical stock:

Bought 1968 at $30

Price now - $100

Capital gains: $70

Tax on gains of 28 percent: $20.

Net cash-out of $30 originally invested: $80.

All well and good? Not at all. Back this down by two-thirds due to increased cost of living since 1969, and Mr. and Mrs. Middle America have netted $25.40 for the $30 they invested two decades ago.

The public hasn't quite gotten onto this latest clip by Congress. So far, all we hear are the lawmakers playing to the low-income group, intoning piously, "Capital gains are just paid by the rich, so why reduce the rate?"

Well, a couple with $40,000 in taxable income isn't our idea of rich. If they aren't yet 65, then stocks or other assets they sell at a profit will be hit twice as hard as in 1986. If they are 65, then the new health-care tax for them will next year tilt the 28 percent rate to 35 percent - 2 1/2 times the old rate.

SECTION 2

Teens spend week helping others

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

Even after a week of teen-agers bustling in and on top of her house, Rebecca Nelson could hardly believe her eyes.

"I don't know what to think," said Rebecca, 73. "I don't know what to say. I tell you, people are so nice to me. I've never met such nice people."

Rebecca, a LaMode Road, Rose Township, resident, was the recipient of goodwill from dozens of teen-agers and adults.

In one week, boys completely removed her leaking roof and, with materials from Clarkston Roofing, built a leak-proof new one.

Girls painted her kitchen and cleaned the entire house. They took her shopping, where she bought something she had been wanting for a long time -- a broom and a dust pan.

They removed everything from inside the house so carpet could be installed and so Barry Byrne of Ormond Road, Springfield Township, could create closets and drop ceilings.

And she had her hair "done."

"It's so exciting," said Rebecca. "You hear of young kids on drugs. It made me feel so good to see them do this, to help others."

Rebecca, a former Detroit resident, moved to LaMode Road three years ago to take care of her ailing mother, Effie Williams, who died July 27 at age 98. Rebecca's husband, Willie Nelson, lives in a convalescent home because he suffers from Alzheimer's disease.

Rebecca herself feels fine, she said, but it's been a tough year. Her sister died last fall, and it's just been a lot of work taking care of her mother and visiting her husband.

Her mother's house needed so much, and Rebecca couldn't do it alone.

She had help from neighbors who mowed her lawn and let her use their washing machine. And one woman at the township hall gave invaluable help with taxes, said Rebecca.

But the teen-agers did the most.

Teens from Davisburg United Methodist Church, Clarkston United Methodist Church and Grace Christian Church in Warren spent a week for Righteous Mission '89 based at Christ the King Camp in Oxford.

Each day, they worked in the community at places referred to them by such agencies as Neighbor for Neighbor or Lighthouse.

Rebecca's house was clearly a favorite place to work. Even after the camp was over, some teens returned the next weekend to finish up a few things.

"It's great to be able to help all the people and to feel needed, to know someone needs your help," said Tina Sutherland of Pear Street, Independence Township.

"It's been a great experience. I would do it again," she said.

Christy Mitcham of Chanto, Independence Township, agreed. "It was really hard work, but it was fun," she said.

Like others, Stacy Banaszak of Andersonville Road, Springfield Township, missed work to donate time to the project.

An employee of Country Jim's restaurant on Dixie Highway, Waterford Township, Stacy said the best part of the project was working with Becky.

"She's a nice old lady, and she's worth helping," said Stacy, who has participated in Righteous Mission three years in a row. "She's given her whole life helping people, and it's finally time for her to get help back."

"I hope someday people are going to do the same for me when I'm not able to."

Stacy was also impressed with Rebecca's hard work, she said.

"She's stubborn," said Stacy. "For as many hours as we worked, she was working right beside us, scrubbing (See TEENS, next page)

REBECCA NELSON, 73, gets a hand from Christy Mitcham of Chanto, Independence

Township, in sorting through items to be thrown away or saved.

PART OF Tina Sutherland's job is to sort through items belonging to Rebecca Nelson's 98-year-old mother who died July 27. Some items will be thrown away, and some will be packed in boxes and carted outside, so other volunteers can install carpet in Rebecca's Rose Township house.

the floor."

But the job wasn't all smooth sailing. Rebecca, who is a saver like her mother and had piles of clothing, utensils and household items, inspected each thing the teens tried to throw away.

"Stacy!" she would yell. "Are you throwing this out? I might need it sometime."

Stacy, who showed just the right mix of persuasiveness and humor, would answer, "But Becky, it's no good. And you've got two just like it that are in good condition."

Rebecca sometimes would give in. But she stayed alert.

"I've got to keep my eye on that one," she said, pointing to Stacy. "She'd throw out everything if I'd let her."

Stacy, intent on thoroughly cleaning the house, only smiled and kept sorting.

Leader praises program's success

John Leece spent a whole week with lots of teens, and he couldn't have been more pleased.

"I was really proud of each one of them -- the way that they worked, their attitude and their unselfish way that they helped someone that they didn't even know," he said.

He headed the Clarkston United Methodist Church (CUMC) group of teens who participated in Righteous Mission '89 based at Christ the King Camp in Oxford.

Teens from CUMC as well as Davisburg United Methodist Church and Grace Christian Church in Warren spent an entire week helping others -- building a roof and painting a Rose Township house, rebuilding a porch in Pontiac, painting two camps, helping area senior citizens with odd jobs, and singing at nursing homes on a rainy day.

"The reason they could work so well together ... is that they were working with a common goal -- to serve God and their fellow man," said Leece.

The area residents who benefited from the teens' hard work were also pleased with the teens, he said.

One woman, Rebecca Nelson of Rose Township, received a new roof and a new heater and other home improvements, he said.

"She was very grateful for anything we could do," Leece said.

When some of the young girls took her shopping, it was great to see her reaction, he said, adding that she came home with a broom and dust pan.

"You'd have thought they bought her a pile of gold, she was so thrilled," he said.

From the Clarkston United Methodist Church were the following teens: Sean Halleran, Devin DuPree, Tina Sutherland, Sara Evilsizer, Joel Mellen, Jeremy Deloney, Chris Merz, Dave Studt, Brian Trebilcock, Jeremy Bleim, Nathan Forbes, Christy Mitcham and Alvah Gellish.

Adults who helped from the same church were: Brenda DuPree and Jay Bleim.

Carpenter John Cammaretta took off work to help during the week, said Leece.

From the Davisburg United Methodist Church, headed by Scott Harper, were the following teens: Stacy Banaszak, Gary Leeper, Matt Marcell, Chris Titherage, Heidi Walz, Sean Taylor, Mike McDevitte and Debbie Leach.

Adults Bill Heitman and Lisa Harper also helped out.

Popcorn, beer and a bowl of brachitella

Suzanne Baumann

Pretzel. Now that's an interesting-sounding word, one you can't readily forget. Say it loud. Sing it. Scream it at the top of your lungs. However you say it, pretzel seems to have a certain ring.

How did it get its name? I decided to look. My paperback dictionary said it originated from a Latin word meaning "arm." This alone didn't surprise me. I would assume most of us have heard the story of the 16th-century monk who twisted strips of dough into the familiar pretzel shape, to make it look like the crossed arms of people praying. Back then, I hear people prayed with their right hands touching their left shoulders and vice versa. (Set your paper down immediately and try that in front of a mirror.)

Now that you've seen the pretzel, you think things are perfectly clear. Right? Uh uh. Who among you can explain the actual word from which "pretzel" originates. The Latin word for "arm" -- brachium. It may be just me and my phonetics, but I couldn't get the word pretzel out of that as hard as I tried.

First I pronounced the "ch" as "k." It didn't work. I said it five times fast. It sounded just like "break 'em, break 'em, break 'em."

Then I tried the soft "ch" sound. The result was closer to the word "badger."

All this time we could have been saying we ate badger with mustard at the baseball game. Actually, "break 'em" wouldn't be too inappropriate for the brittle supermarket variety.

Still curious, I decided the next step in my quest for a believable history behind the word pretzel was a larger dictionary. Sure enough, there was more to the story.

Pretzel actually came from the German word brezel; derived from the old high German brezitella; which, hypothetically, was taken from the Medieval Latin term brachiatellum, a diminutive form of the word brachium, which literally means "biscuit baked in form of crossed arms."

According to the second dictionary, it was brachiatum that was derived from that good old Latin word brachium, of which they went on to say came from the Greek brachion meaning "upper arm" -- taken from brachys, meaning "short," referring to its size, relative to the longer lower arm, of course.

I used to think the shape of the pretzel was complicated. Now to me, it wouldn't have been too heartbreaking to discover someone just happened to say, "Pretzel! What a neat word. We'd better use it for something." In fact, I kind of wish it had happened that way. If I never looked it up for myself, I could have gone on believing that's the way it actually happened.

It's amazing to think that every piece of food has a heritage, some kind of story to tell ... and all we do is eat it.

What can we do? Well, it's never too late to find out more about the things that surround you, and it's never too early to show your appreciation for them. While you're at it, mark off the last week of October on your calendar: for as I learned through this extensive research, that's National Pretzel Week. Honest.

Eight form new real estate service in Clarkston

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Around the first of the year, Bill Clark kicked around the idea of opening a new kind of real estate company.

After years in the business, he believed he knew what it would take to be successful on his own.

As of July 8, Clark and seven equal partners from the Clarkston area opened for business under the name Clarkston Real Estate Services, Inc.

While they are a diverse group, the eight owners do have one thing in common.

"This group has worked at different real estate (companies) in the area and wanted to form a business to serve the public better," said Clark from his office on Main Street, Clarkston. "We thought we had a way to do it better."

Of the eight owners, seven are brokers. All are past 13 in real estate. The associate broker is mother to two sons and is grandmother to four.

Fran Dickie is a former Clarkston resident with seven years of real estate experience. She is the president-elect of the Michigan chapter of the Women's Council of Realtors. The Alma College, Alma, graduate also was the 1988 Woman of the Year for the local chapter of that organization.

Doris Holser and husband, John, is a Springfield Township resident with 12 years of real estate experience including nine in the Clarkston area. She has two sons experienced. Together they average a decade of experience apiece.

"We will stress dependability and experience and professionalism," said Clark, adding that the partners in this company all were top employees at their former companies. "We get along good with people because of our reputation."

"We do what we say we will do."

The group of eight also is dedicated to serving this community, Clark said. All have residential experience in the Clarkston area. The company's signs are colored blue and gold -- the colors of Clarkston High School.

The partners also live or are active in the Clarkston area community.

Jean Gage, along with husband, Bill, has lived in Independence Township for 25 years and has worked the Young artist's work will hang in church entrance

BY BONNIE WATTLEWORTH
Clarkston News Special Writer

Independence Township now has its own 11-year-old Michelangelo.

And while Deron Lash of South Eston hasn't painted any ceilings in the Sistine Chapel, he did paint a watercolor picture of the St. Trinity Lutheran Church that will be displayed in the church's front entrance.

Deron presented the painting to the church congregation July 30. Before the presentation, Deron expressed concern about talking in front of a group of people.

"I don't want to say anything, but I have to," he said. "I'll just walk up there, hand it to them, say 'From me to you,' and then I'll walk back to the pew."

Deron, a seventh grader at Clarkston Junior High

Deron said he sketched the building on Sashabaw Road, Independence Township, from photographs his father took and then filled in the sketch with watercolors.

The painting took so much time because Deron had to stop and let it dry frequently to prevent the different

Student from Spain likes mopeds, bowling, tennis

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Carlos Peasz of Barcelona Spain, has only four weeks of visiting time with the Windram family in Independence Township, but he's already decided that he wants to come back to the United States.

"For one year I would like to (study in America)," said Carlos.

Carlos, 15, is part of a foreign exchange program, Nacel Cultural Exchanges. Nacel coordinators from Michigan, Julian and Evelyn Prince of West Bloomfield, help place children from Germany, France and Spain. About 370 students are in Michigan this summer.

The students coming to America must have two years of English language. Carlos has had four years and can understand the language fairly well. Students from America must also have two years of a foreign language before going to Europe.

Luke Windram, 14, does most of the interpreting for Carlos. Luke has had three years of Spanish at Roeper City and Country School, Birmingham.

Carlos has spoken with people from England who visit his uncle in Spain, but this is his first chance to speak with Americans, he said.

He originally planned to visit England on the exchange program but found it more economical to visit in the U.S. His cost for coming to America was a little over $1,100.

Mary Windram, who is hosting Carlos in her Cranberry Lake Road, Independence Township, home, said students are expected to cover their own costs for entertainment.

Carlos has had some new experiences since being in America. He rode a moped for the first time, and he went bowling. Even though there are bowling alleys in Spain, he had never bowled until coming here.

Carlos said he would like to bowl and play more tennis before leaving Clarkston, and more new experiences are planned before the Windrams' exchange student leaves. The family plans a trip to Cedar Point and to Canada.

Mary Windram said she would like to have another exchange student because Carlos' visit has been exciting.

"We have done more this summer than previous summers because of Carlos," she said.

THE WHOLE WINDRAM family is enjoying the visit with an exchange student from Spain.

Four weeks is a short time when trying to show an exchange student some of the sights in America.

But Carlos has found many things he likes about being in American and staying with the Windrams. He likes the cars because they are bigger, he said. And he likes being in a house. In Barcelona, he lives with his mother in an apartment.

The Windrams have a dog, cat and hamster, but Carlos said no pets are allowed in his apartment.

Carlos did find one thing he dislikes since coming to America -- sorry, Nabisco-- it's Shredded Wheat.

Families interested in hosting an exchange student or sending a student abroad can contact the Princes at 626-6641.

People want recycling information, says researcher

Surveys conducted by a University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, researcher suggest that environmentalists should stop wasting time trying to change people's attitudes about conservation and instead give households the simple information they need to recycle their trash.

"Lack of 'howto' information consistently shows up as a major reason people don't recycle more often or at all," said Raymond De Young, research fellow in the University of Michigan's School of Natural Resources. "This is not an attitudinal issue. People are not saying that recycling is an inappropriate behavior."

"They are, instead, indicating a lack of familiarity with the basic aspects of the behavior -- they don't know what they need to do to recycle those glass jars sitting in the sink," he added.

De Young based his conclusions on two surveys of less of their attitudes or opinions."

In a 1987 analysis of survey data supplied by state-supported resource recovery programs in six Michigan communities, De Young found that 85 percent of the 782 respondents thought recycling is extremely important to the preservation of the environment.

The communities were Barry, Jackson and Monroe counties, the cities of Huntington Woods and Portage, and members of the Northern Michigan Recycling Cooperative.

The most common reasons for not recycling were lack of enough information on how to recycle, lack of enough room to store items to be recycled and the "perceived hassle" of recycling.

Another survey of 107 Ann Arbor households in three demographically distinct neighborhoods indicated that people recycle not primarily for extrinsic rewards, like money offered by "cash for trash programs," but because they derive personal satisfaction from the activity itself.

"Recycling creates a sense of being needed, of having a chance to influence how things are decided, and fulfills a human psychological need to take action which can make a difference in the long run," De Young said.

The above information was provided by the News and Information Service at The University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

Most people believe that recycling is the right thing to do.

Ann Arbor households and on an analysis of data regarding recycling behavior in six Michigan communities.

The most recent survey was of 91 Ann Arbor households, 35 percent of which were recycling and 65 percent of which were not. All respondents, regardless of whether they recycled or not, indicated strong support for recycling. But the non-recyclers scored "significantly higher" on a scale designed to measure resistance to recycling resulting from a lack of familiarity with the behavior.

"Any time one is not sure what to do next, one is easily overwhelmed. A simple activity becomes a major hassle," De Young said. "Faced with such a situation, humans will avoid attempting to begin an activity regard-colors from mixing.

"Since it's so big, you have to let it dry," he said. "I painted a different picture while it was drying."

While Deron always has liked to doodle, he started painting about a year ago because of his grandmother's encouragement.

His mother, Marilyn, said she and her husband decided to enroll him in private art lessons after several teachers noticed he had an aptitude. Deron currently takes two hours of art lessons every week.

"I couldn't even paint when I went there," he said. "When I went there, my grandma said I could draw, but I ended up painting."

His father, an architect, also encouraged him to paint. Deron said he might like to be a commercial artist, or an architect like his dad.

Marilyn described her son as a "typical artist," who is a perfectionist about everything. The young artist agreed and said he is very critical of his own work.

"I could probably pick out about five mistakes on each picture," he said.

When Deron isn't drawing or painting, he likes to ski and do "freewheeling" on his bicycle. He also plays the coronet but said, "I hate band."

Deron said his older brother Derek, 14, also is interested in art. But his younger brother Devon, 10, prefers baseball to drawing.

Most artists don't have minds for numbers, but Deron is a shrewd business man.

"Every time I hang up one of his paintings, he asks me how much I'll pay him for it," Marilyn said. "I hung up one of his paintings where I work, and he told me to put a 'For Sale' sign on it."

While his mom refused to hang up a sign, Deron decided to take care of it.

"When I went up there with her, I put one on it, but she took it off," he said.

Despite the disagreement over the sign, Deron has sold several of his works to relatives.

"They're keeping him going so he doesn't become a starving artist," Marilyn said.

Business Brief

One-hundred and one children appeared on the steps of Photography by Winship this spring, each looking their best for this year's portrait contest.

Each one was photographed, and the pictures were submitted to a group of area senior citizens for some difficult judging.

The votes have now been counted; winners have been announced in three different age groups.

Johanna Larson of Clarkston captured top honors in the 3-5-year-old group; LeeAnn Alexander of Clarkston won first place in the 17-35-month-old group; and Erin Coulter earned first place in the 1-16-month-old category.

The top three finishers earned bicycle-type toys. Second- through fifth-place finishers in each age group won other prizes and ribbons.

The winners will be on display at six National Bank of Detroit locations throughout the summer, as well as five McDonald's Restaurant locations.

Photography by Winship, with offices in Clarkston and Walled Lake, has sponsored the contest for the past seven years.

The 1989 portrait winners included:

FIRST PLACE: Erin Coulter, 1-16 months; LeeAnn Alexander, 17-35 months; Johanna Larson, 3-5 years

SECOND PLACE: Mary Bridge, 1-16 months; Cody Dungey, 17-35 months; Laura Johnson, 3-5 years

THIRD PLACE: Jimmy Orolim, 1-16 months; Maria Vermeulen, 17-35 months; Shawn Calvin, 3-5 years

FOURTH PLACE: Ian Ferguson, 1-16 months; Scott Krasinski, 17-35 months; Katie Jackson, 3-5 years

FIFTH PLACE: Alyssa Vermeulen, 1-16 months; Stephen Jacobs, 17-35 months; and Rachel Ronk, 3-5 months

HONORABLE MENTIONS: Samantha Aldrich, Robert Clark, Adam Lyons, Carrie Owens, Steven Shrider

Three take home contest prizes

TOP PORTRAIT contest winners made mom and dad proud and won themselves a bike, buggy and scooter. The three first-place winners in each age category are (from left) Johanna Larson, Erin Coulter and LeeAnn

Alexander. The contest is sponsored each year by Photography by Winship, Inc., in Independence Township and Walled Lake. The contest was judged this year by Clarkston senior citizens.

Tips to ensure safe canning

Old-time canning methods -- including open kettle canning, paraffin sealing of jams and jellies, the inversion method and use of zinc, antique or commercial lids -- are unsafe, according to home economists at the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service.

New updated canning procedures and recipes should be carefully followed to assure a safe product with a good shelf life.

If you are a new canner or just find you are confused on which new procedures to follow, help is available. The Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service offers a hotline for all your food preservation question, Monday-Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Here are a few general canning tips to help:

* Process all high-acid foods: fruits, tomatoes, and pickles in a boiling bath.

* Process all low-acid foods: meat, seafood, poultry and all vegetables in a accurate pressure canner.

* Use new lids each year. Do not re-use lids.

* Use clean unchipped "Mason" jars - not jars from mayonnaise.

* Use latest USDA approved recipes - 1989 Ball Blue Book is a good source.

* Use good quality produce.

For more information call the Food and Nutrition Hotline at 858-0904.

Cherry treats

Betty Wagner

The Ultimate Chocolate Cake from Hellman's Mayonnaise is delicious with fresh cherry icing. After reading Sybil Little's article in The Oakland Press about Spicer Orchards, I knew I had to go pick cherries. Here is an icing using their pie cherries.

ULTIMATE CHOCOLATE CAKE

1 tablespoon granulated sugar
1 (18 1/2-ounce) chocolate fudge cake mix with pudding in the mix
1/2 cup cocoa
3 eggs
1 cup mayonnaise, not reduced calorie or light
1 cup water

1. Spray a 12-cup microwave bundt dish with non-stick cooking spray. Sprinkle 1 tablespoon granulated sugar over bottom of dish. Set aside.

2. In a large mixing bowl combine all the ingredients, except the granulated sugar, at low speed. Beat at medium speed for 2 minutes. Make sure all the dry ingredients have been mixed into the batter.

3. Pour into prepared dish. Microwave at 50 percent (MEDIUM) for 15 minutes, turning once. Turn again; then finish at HIGH for 3-4 minutes. Cake will pull away from sides when done. Let stand for 10 minutes before turning out onto plate.

4. Drizzle cherry icing over top of cooled cake.

CHERRY ICING Adapted from Wanda Spicer's Cherry Icing

3/4 cup pitted pie cherries
3 tablespoons confectioners sugar
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
2 tablespoons cherry juice
1 1/2 cups confectioners sugar
1/2 teaspoon almond extract

1. Crush cherries in blender or food processor. Add confectioners sugar and set aside for sugar to dissolve. Then drain pulp.

2. Add butter and cherry juice into 4-cup Pyrex measure. Microwave at HIGH for 1 minute. Stir in confectioners sugar, almond extract and crushed cherries.

3. Pierce cake with cake tester or toothpick. Drizzle cherry icing over chocolate cake.

Look for more cherry recipes using Spicer's cherries in my next article. Go now and pick the cherries; have them pitted and freeze them in 1- or 2-cup portions in plastic containers or bags for later use.

Home economist Betty Wagner resides in Independence Township. Her "Microwave Plus" cable-TV program airs on Independence-Clarkston Channel 65.

Church school starts

Preschoolers to sixth graders may want to sign up for Vacation Church School at the Clarkston United Methodist Church.

The week-long session runs 9 a.m. to 12:10 p.m. Monday through Friday, Aug. 14-18. Students are asked to bring a white T-shirt to stencil, and a mission offering is taken each day.

A pot-luck dinner is set for 6:30 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 17, and the rest of the church school hours will be filled with lessons, music, games and create-a-snack. The theme this year is: Jesus Christ, giver of new life.

Blueberry season here

What's small, round, full of vitamins and iron, low in calories and lots of fun to eat? Fresh Michigan blueberries -- and they're in season until September.

These small fruits have only been cultivated for a century and are harvested almost exclusively in the United States.

With their extraordinary taste and appeal, blueberries are the most versatile of the bushberry group.

For more information on u-pick operations and farm markets featuring blueberries in your area, call 1-800-877-PICK or write to the Center for Agricultural Innovation and Development, Michigan Department of Agriculture, P.O. Box 30017, Lansing, MI. 48909.

WHO IS ON THE LORD'S side let him hear what the spirit saith unto the churches. There is no true sign of the endtime other than the return of the Lord Jesus. Endtime doctrines today are anti-christ and allow the church to excuse sin in them by esteeming men, and promoting jewish fables. Vain imaginations providing lying signs and wonders to the sinning and unbelieving, disobedient to God's word so the blind will follow the blind. Christians today go along with lying to the nation Israel telling them of special treatment, at endtime, bypassing the cross. God is not a respecter of persons now or before the end nor ever will be concerning Christ who suffered and shed his blood once for all nations including Israel. Shepherds today have become hirelings, for vain reasons, saying the political Israel of today, which is the foundation for religious systems of men of the flesh, is being blessed of God despite their hatred for Christ. God did finally conclude all nations alike and people alike under sin and unbelief. The work of the cross is God's mercy for all, not just some, to be blessed of God and have fellowship with him. Jesus Christ and those doing the truth of God are the Israel of God without spot or blemish. There is not another Israel, only one, Jesus Christ and those found in him without sin now today. Political Israel today is as any other nation in the eyes of God. Believe me, says Jesus, the hour comes (Christ's death) when you shall neither in this mountain nor yet at Jerusalem, worship the Father. Salvation is of the Jews but the hour comes and now is (his death and his resurrection) when the true worshipers shall worship the Father in spirit and in truth. (Jn 4:21, 11b, 23) also see (Rom 2:28, 29, 13) also (eph 2:11-22) (Jn 10:15, 16) (James 2:1, 3, 4, 9) (phil 3:3) (Heb 13:10) (Rom 9:25, 26) many more to say the church is no longer jew and gentile but disciples of Christ having a love for the truth. (Jeh 3:16) They shall say no more the ark of the covenant of the Lord neither shall it come to mind, (those that love the Lord to do what he says) neither shall it come to mind, (those that love the Lord to do what he says) neither shall they visit it, neither shall that be done anymore. Is God a liar or does he mean what he says? ILLX30-2

WHEN THE COUNTDOWN reaches zero, about 20 children release their balloons in- side paper bags decorated like spaceships, and the homemade rockets take off for the sky. The program took place at the Independence Township Library on Friday, July 28.

Futuristic fun

LEAH WALSH, 5, must answer a rocket trivia question in a relay space game and then run back to the next person in her line at the township library.
