FOOTBALL PLAYERS from Clarkston High School begin practicing in earnest after paying the required $164 to participate in the sport this fall. Coach Kurt Richardson said the freshman teams suffered the greatest losses in student participation.

Students pay, sports programs stay

BY PETER AUCHTER

Payday didn't become doomsday for Clarkston Community Schools as it instituted its first pay-for-play program.

Although there was a two percent drop in student turnout, enough athletes signed up to keep most teams well stocked -- at least at the high school varsity level.

"We were quite pleased," said Linda Walker, athletic secretary. "Everything is a go."

While all or almost all the sports programs remain intact, there have been some sacrifices.

Football coach Kurt Richardson, beginning his third year at the helm, has noticed the effect of the pay-for-play system.

"There's no doubt it's had an effect," he said after a Monday morning practice at the high school. "In grades 9-12, we have lost 30 to 40 kids. We're about eight down (from a year ago) at varsity."

The girls' ninth-grade junior high school basketball program and the high school girls cross country program suffered the most.

Due to lack of participants, the junior high cagers will compete as one team instead of two, and the lone female harrier will enter individual events.

On the flip side, girls tennis coach Dick Swartout had a pleasant surprise on Aug. 14 when 16 girls showed up for practice.

"We have more girls out than last year when it was free," the tennis coach said of the four additional girls trying out for the team.

While the 25 boys out for the varsity and junior varsity golf teams is a little under normal, it provided Coach Jim Chamberlain with enough to work with this fall.

"The athletic director (Paul Tungate) told me I had to have 20 to run two teams," Chamberlain said. "It's a little less (than other years) but enough."

Rape suspect gets neurological exam

BY BONNIE WATTLEWORTH
Clarkston News Special Writer

The Oakland County Circuit Court trial for accused ski-mask rapist Steven Szeman will be delayed indefinitely while he undergoes a neurological exam that could be useful in his defense, his attorney said recently.

"I want a complete battery of testing done," said Birmingham attorney Lawrence Kaluzney, who represents Szeman.

Szeman was in a coma after a 1984 car accident, Kaluzney said. The neurological exam will decide if injuries sustained during the accident could have altered Szeman's behavior.

"Prior to the accident, he was the All-American boy," Kaluzney said.

Under the pay-for-play program, brought on by the June 12 millage failure, students were required to pay $164 per sport in grades nine to 12 and $100 for seventh- and eighth-grade sports. Tungate established minimum numbers for each sport, and if enough students didn't pay by the deadline, the sport would be canceled.

The payment procedure, bringing with it the possible cancellation of teams, will repeat in November for winter sports and in March for the spring season.

The courts have not decided yet if genetic fingerprints, or DNA testing of blood and semen, can be used against Szeman.

The former West Bloomfield resident was arraigned April 5 in three Oakland County district courts for allegedly assaulting 10 women, including one Independence Township resident.

Szeman was arrested in Ohio in November of 1988 while assaulting a Cleveland-area woman. After he was convicted of that crime, he was extradited to Michigan for the Oakland County rapes.

Since the arraignment, he has been held in the Oakland County Jail.

Kaluzney said he does not think the trial will take place for at least a couple of months.

Citizens band together against groundwater threat

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

About 25 area citizens gathered July 31 in a crucial first step toward protecting the area's drinking water.

The group discussed threats to groundwater, which is the source of drinking water for about half of Michigan's population.

A leadership team was established, and those participating set up a schedule of meetings and goals. The next workshop has been scheduled for Monday, Sept., 18 at 7:30 in the Independence Township Annex, 90 N.

BFI landfill targeted for Rose Township

A landfill to be operated by Browning-Ferris Industries (BFI) of Southeastern Michigan, Inc., will not be located in Independence or Springfield townships.

Rose Township is the targeted location for the proposed 11-acre sanitary landfill and recycling operation, BFI announced two weeks ago.

BFI purchased a 143-acre current landfill from L.E. Marlow and Sons and also bought a 100-acre parcel adjacent to the property.

BFI also has the option to purchase an additional 300-acre parcel to be used as a buffer area for the landfill. The company applied for a permit from the Oakland County Health Department.

In preparation for operation, BFI is to construct a triple liner and groundwater protection system at the landfill, which is to exceed the Department of Natural Resources requirements for landfill regulations. Projections for the landfill operation is 10 years.

BFI plans to upgrade the roads used as access to the landfill site, which include making Rose Center Road into a two-lane, tandem-rated paved road from White Lake Road to the site entrance.

Main, Clarkston.

The meeting was the beginning of a three-year project funded with a grant from the W. K. Kellogg Foundation. The project is administered through the East Michigan Environmental Action Council (EMEAC).

EMEAC representatives are establishing the leadership teams in two communities, bringing together local citizens concerned about preserving the resource.

Among the goals of the leadership team are to reduce the threat to groundwater from household products and practices, to increase the recycling of used motor oil and to locate and map underground storage tanks.

During the second and third years of the project, the teams will encourage local governments to adopt measures to help prevent groundwater contamination.

Creating interest in groundwater can be difficult because the resource is unseen and therefore may not be as appreciated as other critical resources, EMEAC representatives say.

In fact, the area around metropolitan Detroit depends heavily on the resource for drinking water. There is an ever-increasing threat of contaminating the groundwater as the area develops and increases its density, adds EMEAC representative, Kevin Mills.

"EMEAC has made groundwater education a key priority because there are substantial threats to the resource, which can be reduced by raising awareness," Mills said in the April 1989 edition of Target Earth.

"Without adequate knowledge of how everyday activities affect the groundwater resource, local citizens become part of the problem. With knowledge comes concern and local action by citizens to protect themselves."

For more information about the Groundwater Leadership Team, call EMEAC at 258-5188.

Farmers market includes six from this area

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

Hundreds of people mill about the aisles between the 70 or so farmers selling their goods at the Oakland County Farmers Market.

Some customers are city folk, wearing heels, perfect makeup and hair, and lots of gold jewelry. Others look as if they just stepped off the farm themselves, wearing worn blue jeans or overalls and sneakers or workboots.

But all come to the farmers market on Pontiac Lake Road, west of Telegraph in Waterford Township, be-

The Kristopeks sell corn; the Lockards, jewelry; the Ashtons, apples, pears, peaches and cider; the Jaenichens, plants, flowers and wreaths and arrangements; the Masters, berries of all kinds; the Austins, flowers.

Area farmers 'proud of crops'

is a pretty good market," says Joe Wheeler, market master. "A lot of people come here. The prices are close to supermarket prices, but it's fresh, Michigan produce."

Established during the Depression, the market first operated in downtown Pontiac and moved to the Pontiac Lake Road location in the 1950s.

The county owns the building and leases space to the farmers, says Wheeler. The system provides a place for Oakland County farmers to sell their produce and also brings fresh produce to the area so surrounding residents can get the best.

"The farmers deserve any kind of break they can get," says Wheeler. "The small farms are really dwindling in America."

He adds that Oakland County is becoming more populated, and not many farms are left. In fact, some farmers at the market come from Ohio and Holland, Mich., and Traverse City and from other counties across Michigan.

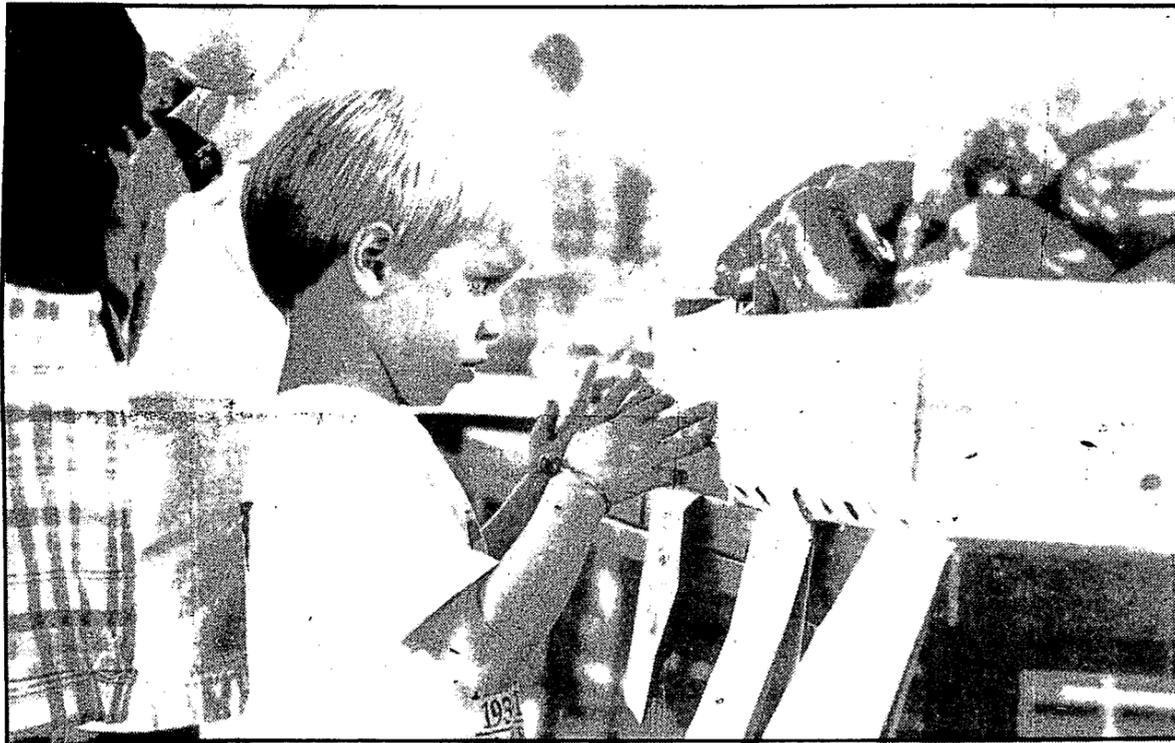

Behind automobiles, agriculture is the second-largest money-making industry in Michigan, says Wheeler. The state also ranks second in the U.S. for variety of produce grown.

"You don't think of Michigan as a farm state, but it really is," he says.

To keep up with demand, the farmers are beginning to produce goods with a certain type of people in mind, says Wheeler. For instance, organic melons can be found at one stall -- organic chickens at another. The trend may spread.

The farmers "are pretty proud of their crops," he says. "They check each other out. They check each other's prices out. It's a true free market here."

Aluminum siding will cover historical library

BY BONNIE WATTLEWORTH
Clarkston News Special Writer

The Springfield Township Library will be getting a face lift, thanks to a $2,500 funding approval from the township board.

The board unanimously approved the library request for money to buy aluminum siding to replace the peeling exterior paint at the Aug. 10 meeting.

The money approved by the board in conjunction with money left over in the library budget will finance the $4,000 project.

The library originally asked the board for a loan, but the board decided instead to give the library the funds.

"A loan means it's stretched out over next year's budget," said Trustee Dennis Vallad.

And Trustee Charles Oaks agreed.

"Why loan them something; then we are going to have to budget it back for next year?" he asked.

The library needs money to buy siding because it has an unusual problem: paint won't stick to it.

Library Trustee and Secretary Jim Banes explained at the July 13 meeting that the library was sealed so well that no moisture can get in the wood. This means paint will not adhere to the building.

Banes said the library board decided on siding because it is less expensive than painting the building repeatedly. It also will maintain the appearance of the building, he said.

But Trustee Nancy Strole said siding might destroy the value of the building.

"To put aluminum siding on a historical building might ruin the monetary value of the building," she said. "And secondly, it might ruin the attraction of the building."

She said the library should consider striping and staining the building instead.

But Banes said the library board still would prefer siding.

"It would cost more in the long run to strip and stain it, and it's an ongoing expense to do the building repeatedly," he said. "This will retain the appearance and will be a one-time expense."

Opinions

Jim's Jottings

Two weeks ago I wrote about Bill Myers . . . having known him a long time and of his asking what several words had in common. They couldn't be rhymed, he said. Elizabeth Baldwin, and indepth reader, including this column, came up with matches for wasp, polks and valve: hasp, folks and salve. "That's for starters," she said. I always thought the only word that couldn't be rhymed was orange.

Further back than that I wrote of liking beans, Navy beans in particular. A reader from Auburn Hills suggested I try Bill Knapps. I did, years ago, and the soup was great. More recently, brother-in-law Ray Peck told me Knapps switched from Navy beans to Great Northerns and he hasn't gone back since. Next time I'm at a Knapps I'll ask before ordering.

Marlin Marshall, of Oxford, sent a booklet he found while cleaning his mother's house. It's titled, "Helpful hints for business and helpers", copyrighted 1916.

Here's some samples of advice (it also applies to newspaper writers): Above all, in writing letters never show resentment or anger. The letter lives long after the cause of offense is forgotten. To write to a distant friend a give-away on the house--a grand call-down--is an error that is paid for every day in tears. If you are going to defame your employer, never do it on his time or stationery.

Another: Young men who loiter around the entrance to the store or factory, and smoke, gossip, chew and spit, would do well to eliminate it. This habit marks the difference between who is going to be foreman and the others who have no luck.

That brings me to a remark by a local man who wants desperately to hire some young men for his store. "Would you believe," he asked, "that I had guys show up wearing earrings and some with small pony tails and some with both?"

These fads may be IN, and maybe someday we'll all be wearing them, but right now we see no reason to perhaps turn off a customer with that first impression when each customer is so important to us.

And, back to Marshall's mother's book: Get you happiness out of your work or you will never know what real happiness is.

Had occasion to be in a brand new church in another part of the state recently. When the minister saw me looking around he gave me the grand tour.

Among the features were special accommodations for seniors; special chairs, ramps, etc. While describing these conveniences he said, "Seniors are a million dollar business." Sort of startled me, but maybe tv has made me a little sensitive.

Never have I craved raspberries like I have this year. Haven't found any either. Stopped at four places one day.

Needed a little gasoline to finish mowing the lawn recently and tried to siphon some out of my car. I didn't know they put a stopper in the no-lead tanks to prevent snitching, even from ourselves. Boy, I'm glad our government is looking out for me.

POWs still missing

Amid the furor over abortion and the desecration of the American Flag, amid a hundred other controversies a beleaguered public is inundated with daily, is one most Americans, including Congress, expend little thought or energy upon: the plight of more than 2,300 POW/MIAs still unaccounted for from Southeast Asia, the 8,177 POW/MIAs from the Korean War, and the countless thousands of World War II fighting men held captive by the Soviet Union.

Should the moral indignation and patriotic fervor expended on the unborn and the flag burning be rechanneled into getting our people home (or at least a clear accounting of each), this one act will re-ignite national-pride and unity.

Rights of the unborn? Pro-choice?

POWs are without rights. POWs have no choices.

Desecration of our national flag?

It was desecrated when we failed to demand and receive a verifiable accounting of American prisoners and the missing in action after World War II, after Korea and after Vietnam.

Reportedly, the Holiday Inn chain and Turner Broadcasting are ready and willing to conduct "business as usual" with the Vietnamese. V. Lenin in 1917 said world communism would hang the western capitalist countries, and the capitalists will sell them the rope.

Looks like he knew where of he spoke. And where is the public outcry on this issue?

Saved by the crowd

I love the crowds at the Oakland County Farmer's Market.

Last Saturday, a beautiful blonde-haired little girl stood staring in amazement at a pile of green peppers. I quickly snapped the picture and then told her I was a photographer from The Clarkston News.

"May I have your name, please?" I asked.

Just as the girl opened her mouth, her mother -- with hair coifed carefully atop her head and her mouth outlined in perfect red -- grabbed the girl's hand and pulled her away, saying, "No, thank you," without even looking at me.

Her peripheral vision must have been pretty good though because she caught the dumbfounded look I must have given her, and she looked in my direction again, though not in my eyes.

She stopped and turned around.

"I'm sorry, what did you say?" she asked, staring somewhere above my head.

I told her I was a newspaper photographer, had just taken her daughter's picture and now needed the spelling of her name.

"Oh," she said, "I thought you were a Hare Krishna."

I must have given her another dumbfounded look because she explained further, still stared at some point above my head.

"You know how they're always taking pictures," she said. "They're always at airports, taking pictures and asking for money. I thought you were one of them."

I considered giving up on ever getting the little girl's name, but just as the girl opened her mouth to tell me, her mother blurted out all of the information I asked, and the little girl never got a word out.

They were quickly lost in the crowd, and I stepped down an aisle so I wouldn't get trampled by the people.

Out of nowhere, an elderly man began talking to me. He pulled a stack of photos from his pocket and said, "Now, here's a photo."

He was pointing to the top photo -- I quickly learned that it was the last working B-29 bomber in the country, and it was making a tour across the nation and would eventually be placed in a museum, never to fly again. For just two days, it was at the Pontiac-Oakland Airport.

I complimented his picture and said I had to take leave to take some more photos. But he was persistent. He followed me and showed me the rest of his pictures. Most he had taken with a Polaroid camera, and it seemed that he captured every inch of that plane.

"You should go take pictures of this plane," he told me. "This is history. Do it now. Right when you're finished here."

I told him it was a good idea, but I was from a small paper, and the airport was out of our coverage area.

But some newspaper would cover it, I said.

"No, you should," he said. "Everyone should. This is important to every town. Every paper in Michigan should cover it."

The crowds separated us, and just as I was catching my breath, a grim-faced farmer approached.

"Did you take that guy's picture?" he demanded, pointing to a stall further down the way.

I told him no, that I was only taking pictures of Clarkston area farmers.

"If you take his picture, I'm going to raise a ruckus," he said. "You always take his picture. He doesn't even grow his own produce. I spent all last night in the rain picking this, and he drove down to Eastern Market and bought his this morning. He calls it his own. He's got the best stall, too."

"He ain't no farmer. And you always take a picture of him. He was on the front page last time. And last year . . ."

We were separated by the crowd.

Planners should be selective about PUDs

Independence Township has been programming its own version of "Let's Make A Deal."

The township polices its growth with a strict set of rules called ordinances. When followed, the ordinances have created some pretty good developments.

But developers are starting to use a method to skirt the rules. They're applying for -- and getting -- PUD zoning.

A PUD, or planned unit development, is zoned to allow for a special project of some type. A PUD project isn't governed by existing zoning ordinances; instead, the township creates rules for that specific project.

The township has considered three PUD projects in just the past two months. If approved, the projects could create a total of some 550 homes.

That's a lot of homes. Especially when the developments are controlled by the seven-member planning commission and the seven-member township board -- minus the strict guidelines established by ordinances.

Decisions on some of the PUD developments have obviously worked to the township's favor -- whether in a reduction of density on the site or in the potential control of a mobile home park.

But why have rules if you don't intend to follow them? Skirting guidelines can set a dangerous precedent.

Looking more closely at an example, the township board Aug. 1 granted first reading to a PUD rezoning on Maybee Road.

In this case, 213 single family homes are planned for the site instead of a potential of 450 apartments, which would create less density in the area to be sure.

But in obtaining a PUD, the developer gets permission to build a bigger house on a smaller lot than what the zoning for single family homes allows.

Would the township benefit from such an arrangement? Probably. But shouldn't all developers be afforded that opportunity?

In another instance, the planning commission considered a PUD for a 24-unit development on the township line. If approved, the commission would likely limit the number of driveways onto Maybee Road, as discussed.

But during that very same evening, another developer put forward a six-unit project with several separate drives onto Clarkston and Pine Knob roads. The commission approved the project.

The different sizes of the two examples likely played a decision in the driveway issue, but nonetheless, PUD gave the commission an ability to pick and choose the enforcement or lack thereof.

I have faith in the commission and in the board with regard to their ability to decide what's best for the township.

But caution is needed with regard to the PUDs. "Let's Make A Deal" is no way to govern the impact of growth on this community.

From This Perspective

Autumn is here

Tracy King

Good riddance, summertime.

You have officially been pushed aside by the Chicago Bears.

The Bears made their seasonal debut against the Miami Dolphins this week, a sure sign that summer is about to take its final bow, hopefully, without an encore.

A decent, delicate woman should dread the start of football. Why, after all, would grown men slam into one another, risking serious injury, over a ball wrapped in pigskin? And what about those noises players make?

But decent, delicate women probably like summertime, too. And tennis. And baseball. Football is fall.

I smiled, secretly, over early autumn signs -- the scuttle over back-to-school and the warm, fall clothes in opulent display.

The suntan bunch shivered through a recent temperature drop, and I walked with arms stretched to the heavens, not believing my good fortune.

And then there was football.

Oh sure, the game was only an exhibition. The players did step gingerly, hoping to avoid an early injury; new teammates did jockey for new positions; and the sportscasters did seem a little rusty.

But all the elements were there. The mental conditioning was visible as players jumped and growled in their huddle.

Teamwork was still exhibited in the plays, and again it was a thrill to see strategies worked down a field.

You could almost see their breath steam in the frigid air. (Okay, maybe not frigid, but there's hope.)

Maybe football signals fall because the top team is from Chicago.

The Chicago Bears are true cold weather players. Nothing matches Soldier Field in the wintertime. Nothing.

Are the Dallas Cowboys true fall football players? Not likely.

Fall is a season for tough people.

Pass the cider. Grrrr.

Something to cry about

Jim Fitzgerald

I saw Spike Lee's "Do the Right Thing" on Saturday and came away depressed. It wasn't so much the movie that got me down, it was the audience.

The theater was the AMC Bel-Air 10 on 8 Mile Road. A sign in the box office window warns that they won't give change for $100 bills. One hundred dollar bills? Some days I feel older than dirt.

Wasn't it only last year, or maybe three years ago, that many cashiers got huffy at the sight of a $20 bill? The average age of the Bel-Air crowd seemed around 18, even with an old poop like me skewing the equation. How many teenagers try to buy a $4 movie ticket with a $100 bill? Enough to prompt management to put up the sign, and that's the truth, Ruth.

On the way home, I couldn't help thinking that I probably handed the ticket-seller a $1 bill for two 40-cent tickets to see "Patton" almost 20 years ago. "Patton" came easily to mind because the audience at that movie depressed me for the same reason the "Do the Right Thing" audience did.

Admittedly, it would seem to be an unlikely similarity. I saw "Patton" in a small-town theater where the audience was 100 percent white. I saw "Do the Right Thing" in a big-city theater where the audience was 99.9 percent black.

In 1970, after seeing "Patton," I wrote: "General George Patton was part maniac. A pompous, posturing martinet who admitted he loved leading men into battle. He was worried sick that World War II would end before he killed enough Germans to become a national hero.

"That's exactly the way George Scott portrayed Patton. To me, it was an anti-war movie. When Patton slapped a frightened soldier, or bragged about how many men he had killed, I cringed. I wondered how many more like him are left in the Pentagon. But all around me, people were laughing.

"There was a scene where Patton comforted wounded American soldiers by telling them he'd just seen some Germans in worse shape - their heads were blown off. It made my eyeballs sting. But the man next to me slapped his knee and snorted in delight and admiration."

Flash forward to 1989. "Do the Right Thing" is a better movie than "Patton." It's an honest depiction of racism and its terrible consequences. The acting is so on-the-mark it's scary. And the climatic violence is no exaggeration of reality, no vulgar pandering to the Rambo fans. It had to happen.

But the audience laughed in the wrong places, the same as at "Patton." They loved it when heads were bashed and property destroyed. They whooped and giggled as the blood flowed. They made me sick.

It's easy to justify the violence in both movies: The United States and Patton had to be brutal to defeat the Nazis, and, despite everything Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. said, it's impossible to expect blacks to always react peaceably to oppression, especially when it includes the insensitivity and brutality depicted in "Do the Right Thing."

But good Lord, do we have to enjoy the violence? The behavior of the majority of people in those two movie audiences demonstrates that ignorance has no complexion, and nothing important has changed much in 20 years. We're still a (so-called) civilization that punches, rather than reasons, and the guy we admire most is the guy who punches hardest. When bullies fight on our side, they become heroes.

Violence is so commonplace in this nation that we laugh when we see it in the movies. Racism is so ingrained that it takes a really super-sighted demagogue - such as Mayor Coleman Young - to see it where it really isn't.

But don't expect our leaders to do anything about it. They're too busy working to make sure no flag is burned, no uncommon art is encouraged, and no nuclear weapon is underfinanced.

Onward and Upward, and don't take any wooden $100 bills.

Repairs to CJHS right on schedule

During the past several months I have received numerous questions about the landscaping and other improvements being made at Clarkston Junior High School. I would like to clarify the expenditures being made at the school.

First, all of the landscaping that has occurred over the past several years has been planned and paid for by the CJHS Student Government as part of a school beautification effort.

In May, with the help of Charles Myers, a parent volunteer, trees and shrubs were planted along the school boulevard. Before school begins, this project will be completed with the addition of wood chips around the planting areas. The CJHS Student Government funded this project and numerous others through a fund-raiser last fall.

A number of other renovations are also occurring at CJHS. These are occurring as a result of the $5.2 million bond issue approved by the voters in June of 1988. Because of the age of the building, the expenditures planned are only to correct fire and safety codes and to repair serious damage. At the present time, the following projects are in process or planned:

1. Removal of a wall in the main office that does not meet fire code. Because of the extent of renovation including new carpeting and furniture to accommodate new computer technological advances, this renovation is being made.
2. The roof of the school is being replaced to correct numerous leaks and structural problems.
3. New emergency exit signs and emergency lights are being installed.

4. The fire alarm system is being replaced.
5. Hall panels that would create smoke during a fire are being replaced.
6. The south exterior wall of the original section of the school is being repaired. Presently this wall has many bricks missing due to water damage.
7. A major code violation has been identified on the school's second floor. A hallway in the sixth-grade area does not meet code because of a dead-end corridor. The solution is to install a stairway at the end of the corridor. This is a very expensive project and is still in the planning stages.

Hopefully, this information will explain the work being done at the school. Because the school is so old and the Headlee override and bonding proposals were not successful last June, many people have expressed a desire for information regarding the source of the funding for the projects.

If any community members have questions about these projects, I would encourage their phone calls at 625-5361.

Accident victim shares her advice

I know that we must drive in today's society. But what a lot of people neglect to realize is the risk that one takes when you drive that vehicle out on the roads to day.

Every time you start up your car and go out on the roads with other vehicles, you have to really think about the responsibility that you have to yourself and other drivers. We must always drive with caution.

You're conducting an action that could mean death to you or another person. I was involved in an accident that almost took my life, and I thought to myself that an accident could never happen with me because of my driving record being so clean.

I got in the accident on July 19, 1988, and I'm still going to a rehabilitation facility. I was in a coma for seven weeks. When I got out, the doctors were amazed by my intelligence level, for they thought I could very possibly be a vegetable.

I was in a wheelchair until about Nov. 20, a rolling walker from that point on until about Dec. 18. From that point until approximately March 27, I had progressed to using a cane to walk with.

During my coma, my right side became partially paralyzed; that gave me problems with my right leg, right arm and right eye. I also sustained a closed head injury, and that affected by cognitive ways of thinking.

I received no broken bones in the accident; however, the damage that I received to my head has resulted in other difficulties.

Because my muscles were affected by the coma, it was much more difficult to strengthen them and make them perform the way that they were meant to. If I had broken a bone, the muscles would have been strong enough to help support and correct it.

I was very fortunate, and I'm going to be able to drive again. But you had better believe that I'm going to drive with much, much more caution, and I'll be looking out for other drivers, too, that will hopefully be driving with more caution also.

I believe that the good Lord has given me a second chance here on earth, and I tell my story to make more people aware of some problems that have been ignored much too long.

Hopefully, I will make a difference with my example. I hope that more lives are saved because of my accident. It was a price to pay but worth it. If one person learns from my accident, then it has served a purpose.

By the way, the person that struck my car was not under any alcohol or drug influence. He was straight.

That alone is a disturbing thought. With all the attention that alcohol and drugs are getting, we have neglected another killer that not only affects yourself but others.

Let us remember to always wear our seat belts (I did not have mine on, and it could've helped a lot). And please drive very carefully.

Seniors speak out

Our voices have been heard loud and clear in Congress, thanks to the many seniors who have voiced their opposition to the Medicare/Catastrophic Act by signing a (SCACA) petition to repeal the ACT.

Thank you for voicing your opinion by letter or phone calls to your Senators and Congressmen.

We now have over 400,000 signatures and hope to have 1 million. Have you signed yet?

Yes, we seniors have made a difference and want our "old" Medicare back, but we must not stop yet.

Our legislators are in recess now, but in September the big debate continues on what to do with the Med./Cat. Act, and will take action on one of several resolutions to either amend, postpone, alter, shift or repeal the Act.

We must contact our legislators and keep collecting signatures and watch carefully that Congress doesn't try to sneak something through that would not be in the best interest for the seniors.

Here are a few of the resolutions being discussed:

1. Make the Medicare/Catastrophic Act voluntary, but here's the catch. One must then drop out of Part B insurance, which by the way, pays for doctor services and the surgeon who performs surgery. That would be a costly mistake as we know how expensive surgeons are. (Part A pays only hospitalization but not the doctors services.)

2. Keep the Med./Cat. Act, and eliminate the sur-tax but extend the 33% marginal income tax rate for families with taxable income around $200,000 and for individuals around $100,000. The rate now is 28%.

3. Keep the Med./Cat. Act in place, delay the sur-tax one year, while Congress reviews the program. Meanwhile, January 1, 1990 our monthly premiums increase again. (Taken out of your Social Security checks.) Perhaps Congress will think we will forget, a year later, and sneak it in again.

4. Repeal the whole Act (H.R. 169 or S43) and form a Presidential Blue Ribbon Commission to study the real health care needs of the seniors. There would be no legislators or special interest groups on the commission.

My personal opinion would be to repeal the whole Act, restore our less expensive Medicare prior to July 1, 1988 with its benefits. Many Seniors will discover in 1990, when more of the Catastrophic Act phases in, we will have lost a few benefits and other benefits, which were at no cost, will now cost us. Also if the Act is not repealed our sur-tax is payable to IRS in 1990.

I know it is complicated but I have the complete Medicare/Catastrophic Act, thanks to my Congressman Dale E. Kildee, who has been so gracious of his time and has given me volumes of material to research and study. The more I read the more I am convinced the Act must be repealed.

For the first time in the history of Medicare, the Catastrophic Act will be totally financed by the enrollees themselves. Which is fair. Or is it?

Is it fair for any younger age group to be covered under the Act, AIDS patients, mothers with infants up to 1 year of age, just to name a few? "The expected benefit for the non-aged would be twice that of the elderly" according to a February 24 report by the Institute for Research on Taxation.

Seniors will pay increased premiums indexed yearly, (taken out of their Social Security Checks), plus a new sur-tax on their income tax also indexed yearly while only 2-3% of seniors will realize any benefits.

Why did Congress shift the total costs to seniors? Could it be to lower the Federal deficit?

Yes, seniors want to pay their fair share for health care, but then shouldn't the Medicare/Catastrophic Act be for Seniors Only?

To circulate or sign a petition write to: Seniors Coalition Against the Catastrophic Act or SCACA, P.O. Box 706, Lake Orion, MI 48035.

Contributions are sorely needed to continue the campaign to repeal this unfair Act. Please send donations to the above address.

Gym floor at junior high suffers rain damage

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Students will not be able to use all of the gymnasium floor when they return to school this fall at Clarkston Junior High School. Heavy July rains and a leaky roof caused damage to the gym flooring.

Estimates for repair of the damage are being done by Greiner and Associates, an architectural firm hired by Clarkston Schools last fall to oversee other construction projects within the district.

Duane Lewis, principal at CJHS, said they're still trying to assess the damage.

"The floor has buckled, and the damage is continuing to gradually spread across the floor," Lewis said.

Mel Varra, assistant superintendent, said about one-third of the floor has been damaged.

Lewis said all fall sports to be played in the CJHS gym are being scheduled at other gymnasiums.

He said there was a leak problem about five years ago, and a new gym floor was installed.

Sherman and Associates, architects for the district at that time, only recommended repairing part of the roof.

"I've been here 19 years, and to my knowledge the roof in that area (that leaked in July) has not been replaced," Lewis said.

He said several layers of roofing are on the school, but the area that leaked could be some of the original roof from 1930.

Lewis anticipates continuing gym classes unless the situation becomes dangerous to students, but he is not certain when the floor will be replaced.

"We will probably run the girls basketball at Sashabaw Junior High," he said. "And we may have to run our intramurals on Saturday at Sashabaw because of space and time."

No 'Gas Wars,' just low prices at area stations

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Lower prices at the gas pumps mean savings for Clarkston-area residents using local gas stations.

"Gas wars" on M-59 in Waterford Township were reported in a local newspaper on August 3, but Clarkston-area stations are only lowering prices for the time being.

Richard Ewald of Clarkston Boron, Dixie Highway, in Springfield Township wasn't aware of "gas wars," but his prices are lower than ever, he said.

"My prices are lower and my profit margin is lower, but I'm hoping for more volume," said Ewald.

Ewald's price for full service, regular unleaded is $1.19.9.

Mike Roy owner of Roy Bros. Standard Service Station, Inc., Dixie Highway, in Independence Township, has lowered prices recently.

Roy said prices were cut about 10-15 cents the past two-and-a-half weeks. Gasoline prices will probably go up about a nickel before Labor Day, he added.

Roy's price is $1.50.9 for regular unleaded with full service for customers paying with credit. Customers who use cash pay $1.45.9 for the same service and unleaded regular gasoline.

It doesn't seem that Clarkston gas stations are close enough in location or competition to openly engage in "gas wars."

Roy said the "gas wars" on M-59 have been going on for about the last 20 years.

But lower gasoline prices for the last month of summer can be encouraging to any traveler who's heading for the open road.

Springfield adds goals and policies to master plan

BY BONNIE WATTLEWORTH
Clarkston News Special Writer

The Springfield Township Board affirmed Aug. 10 that it has high ideals.

The board unanimously approved a revised master plan outlining the goals and policies of the township planning commission.

Supervisor Collin Walls said one of the main ideas in the document is that the land should determine how it is developed.

"It emphasizes the inseparable relationship between man and land," he said. "Land is going to determine what is going to go on it."

Board members said they think the document will help them decide which developments they should approve.

future decision making," Walls said. "Instead of saying just what was done, it explains why something was done."

Trustee Nancy Strole agreed.

"This will be a tremendous help for me to make the decisions coming before the board," she said. "I think it's an excellent document."

The planning commission included these goals in the document:

- Recognize the inseparable relationship between man and land.
- Recognize the natural capacity and limitation of land to support the development.
- Preserve the natural features and character of township lands and protect the quality of vital township air, land and water resources.

● Maintain the rural character of the township and preserve its desirability as a place to live, work and play for individuals of all backgrounds.

● Improve the conditions that lead to private economic growth in a planned and thoughtful manner that recognizes and is compatible with the needs, characteristics and capabilities of Springfield Township.

Board makes changes to ordinance

BY BONNIE WATTLEWORTH
Clarkston News Special Writer

Developers no longer need 120 acres of land or more to apply for a planned unit development (PUD) in Springfield Township.

The Springfield Township Board approved the second reading of the amended article by a 6-1 vote at the Aug. 10 meeting.

Voting for the change were Supervisor Collin Walls, Treasurer Lois Stiles and trustees Margaret Bloom, Charles Oaks, Nancy Strole and Dennis Vallad. Clerk J. Calvin Walters voted against the amendment.

With the ordinance amendment, any development, regardless of size, can be treated as a PUD. Previously, only developments larger than 120 acres qualify for consideration as a PUD.

A PUD is a rezoning tied to a specific site plan and requires approval from the township board.

The PUD amendment also creates a two-step process for the approval of proposed development plans.

Developers first approach the board with conceptual plans. If the concept is approved, the developer then has detailed plans drawn.

The board has to approve the final plans before construction can begin at a site.

Before this change, developers had to have detailed site plans before approaching the board for the first time.

"At least the developer has some idea the plan will be approved," Walls said. "They get the concept approved before spending thousands of dollars on detailed plans."

Walls said he thinks the main advantage PUDs offer is flexibility.

"A planned unit development is a zoning mechanism which is more flexible than your typical, straight zoning," he said. "It's more of a negotiation process."

With typical zoning, areas are marked for certain types of development, such as commercial or residential, Walls said.

Any commercial development can be built in a commercial district. A commercial development could mean anything from a supermarket to an office building, Walls said.

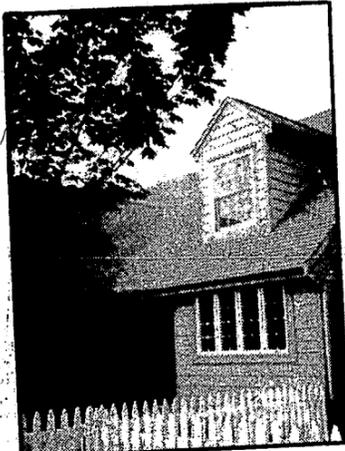

"With PUDs, the developers have something in mind, and what is approved is their plan exactly," he said. "We know exactly what we are going to get."

PUDs allow the board to protect Springfield Township from damaging developments, Walls said. PUDs ensure developers work with an unusual topography, such as a wetland.

"We can get that wetland preserved," he said. "We don't have to run the road through it. We can run it around it."

H&R BLOCK TO OFFER TAX SCHOOL IN THE LAKE ORION AREA

Thousands of people are learning the skill of income tax preparation from H&R Block and are earning money as income tax preparers.

H&R Block, the world's largest income tax preparation service, is offering a basic income tax course starting September 6th and 7th with morning, afternoon, evening and Saturday classes available. Classes held in the Lake Orion area.

During the 13 week course, students will study all phases of income tax preparation and receive actual experience in preparing individual returns. Experienced Block instructors will teach current laws, theory and application, as practiced in Block offices nationwide. There is a classroom discussion on each tax subject and practice problems at every level. Courses are programmed to teach students increasingly complex tax problems as study progresses. Students will find the course both interesting and challenging.

Courses are ideally suited for people who want to increase their tax knowledge and learn how to save money on taxes or who are looking for a rewarding career. No prerequisites are required to enroll.

Qualified course graduates may be offered job interviews for positions with Block. Many accept employment with Block because of the flexible hours available. However, Block is under no obligation to offer employment, nor are graduates under any obligation to accept employment with H&R Block.

One low course fee includes all textbooks, supplies and tax forms necessary for the completion of the course. Certificates and 7.5 continuing education units will be awarded upon successful completion of the course. Master, Visa and Discover cards are accepted, or a time payment plan is available.

Registration forms and a brochure for the income tax course may be obtained by contacting the H&R Block office at

Airborne trailer hitch causes M-15 accident

A freak accident on M-15 critically injured a Davison man Tuesday, Aug. 8.

Kevin Allen, 29, was driving north on M-15 when he was hit by a trailer-hitch that flew through his windshield.

The trailer hitch had flown off of a car southbound on M-15, according to an Oakland County Sheriff's Department report.

Allen's car left the roadway, hit some rocks along the curb and struck a building.

He was taken to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Pontiac, where he was listed in stable condition Aug. 14.

The driver of the southbound car, Ernest Donald Miller, 65, of Ortonville, was not injured in the incident. He was cited for defective equipment.

Miller was wearing his seat belt when the accident occurred. Allen was out of his car and unable to verify belt use, the report said.

CHS alumnus dances his way across the oceans

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

Alec Puskas likes to take a risk every now and then just to keep life interesting. A 1983 Clarkston High School graduate, Alec is about to embark on one of his bigger risks.

He is going to quit his "normal job" as a customer service representative with Computer Associates, San Jose, Calif., and he is going to cruise the earth's oceans for half a year, earning his money by entertaining people.

"I've enjoyed having a normal job, but I want to see the world," says Alec, a dance major from Oklahoma City University, Okla.

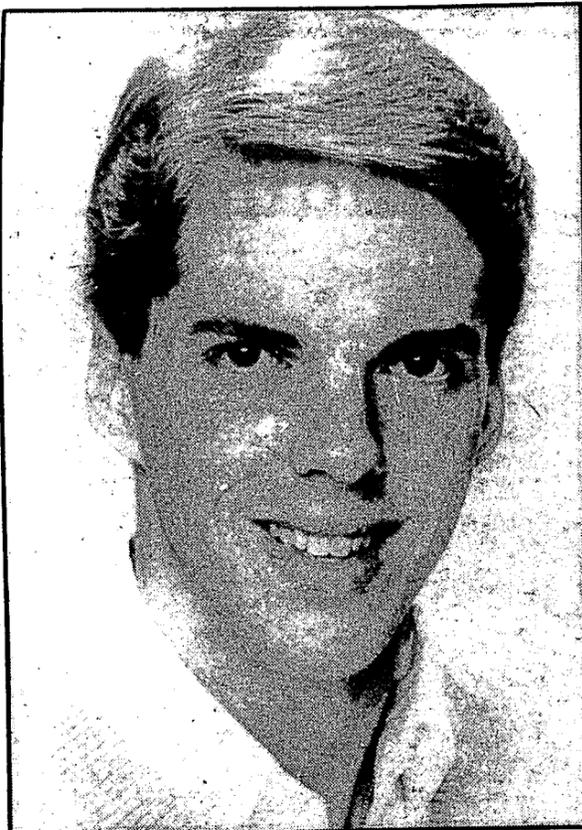

He's looking forward to his adventure, he says. After a short visit in August with his parents, Martha and Fred Puskas of Clarkston, he'll head to New York City, N.Y., where he'll rehearse for a month with the other performers Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

"The first month is going to be very, very grueling," says Alec, who will perform two shows a week on board the M.S. Nieuw Amsterdam of the Holland-America Cruise Lines.

"I'm really excited about going to New York, but it does scare me a little bit," he says. "It's such a big place."

But it's an opportunity he couldn't pass up, he says. In San Jose, he performs with the San Jose Civic Light Opera, where he uses the name, "Alec Alexander," because no one can spell or say "Puskas."

In San Jose, he has danced in "La Cage Aux Folles"

Alec hopes vacationers from the Clarkston area will try to book trips on the M.S. Nieuw Amsterdam, so he'll have some contact with home.

"I'm very excited," says Alec. "After six months, I'll be pretty anxious to get back on land.

"If you're willing to take the risks, you're willing to accept the rewards. I'm a risk-taker."

"After I get back, I don't know what I'm going to do. I don't have a job. I don't know where I'll go."

But that's part of taking risks, he says.

"I get disturbed a little bit when I don't see people take full advantage of what's available to them," he says.

"If more people would allow themselves the opportunity and take the risks to do what they really want to do, a lot of them would succeed. Everybody has the right to fail.

"If you're willing to take the risks, you're willing to accept the rewards," Alec says. "I'm a risk-taker."

"I've enjoyed having a normal job, but I want to see the world."

AS A CLARKSTON High School student, Alec Puskas performed under drama teacher and theater director Barbara "Ma" Gibson.

When he's not dancing or rehearsing, he'll be a passenger on the ship, which means he'll do a lot of reading, and he'll work out in the gym on the ship and play a little volleyball, he says.

Some of the ship's routes will take him through Grand Cayman, the Panama Canal, South America, Cozumel, St. Augustine and St. Thomas -- all of which sound great to him, says Alec.

Usually, cruise lines cater to an older clientele, and

Industrial building gets tax abatement

The Springfield Township Board unanimously approved an Industrial Facilities Tax Abatement for the new portion of Carbide Form Master, Inc., on Dixie Highway.

This abatement will save the owners more than $1,000 in taxes per year for more than 10 years.

The Stoglines, the owners of Carbide Form Master, would have had to pay $2,158 in taxes on their new addition without the abatement. Instead, they will have to pay $1,079.

The abatement is an incentive to attract businesses that will employ local people to Springfield Township.

with Harvey Evans and Larry Kurt and in "My One and Only."

On shipboard, he will be dancing in a Cole Porter show, and he has a tap solo in a nautical musical.

HOMEOWNER TAX REFORM WINNER

QUESTION: How did the homeowner make out under the latest Tax Reform Act?

ANSWER: In the midst of drastic cutbacks in investment preferences everywhere else in the tax code, owners of first and second homes are the big winners.

Deductibility of mortgage interest and property taxes for primary and second homes remains completely intact. This is often the largest tax deduction for most homeowners and will continue to be so. Also intact are the rules that allow you to defer tax on the profit when you sell if you roll it over into another home and the $125,000 tax exclusion from profit if you are over age 55.

Time Out

Dog days are here

Peter Auchter

Folks, the dog days of summer are here. Gee, what fun we'll have now. At the very least, try to look alive.

Let's do something new today. A little change of pace to help ease the boredom. How about barbecuing, beaching it or just hanging around? It's that time of the year. Hammock sales must be going through the roof.

The sporting world isn't much different.

Baseball is working its way up to what could be very interesting pennant races in early September; football is muddling its way through exhibitions in various exotic locales; hockey and basketball are off on vacation. And, last and not least, the ArenaBowl championship game is on its way. (OK, everybody yawn on the count of three. One-two-three YAWN!!!)

Good, now that you're refreshed, let's review the sports world by taking a peek with Pete:

Although the Tigers are sad, sad, sad, I still find myself watching them on the tube at inconvenient times (near midnight last Sunday) and still considering shelling out the bucks to see them in person. Habits of all kinds must die hard.

The Lions lost their exhibition opener last Saturday (yes, I was there rooting for Rodney at every opportunity), but the team looked great. No, make that fantastic. Even though the home boys took one on the chin from the Browns, they went down fighting. We haven't seen that kind of play in these parts since that dude from Oklahoma blew out his knee against Minnesota. (Watch out, Barry Sanders.)

Hopefully, the team won't be a flash in the pan and will be able to befuddle the rest of the NFL with its "Silver Stretch" offense. Let the good times roll.

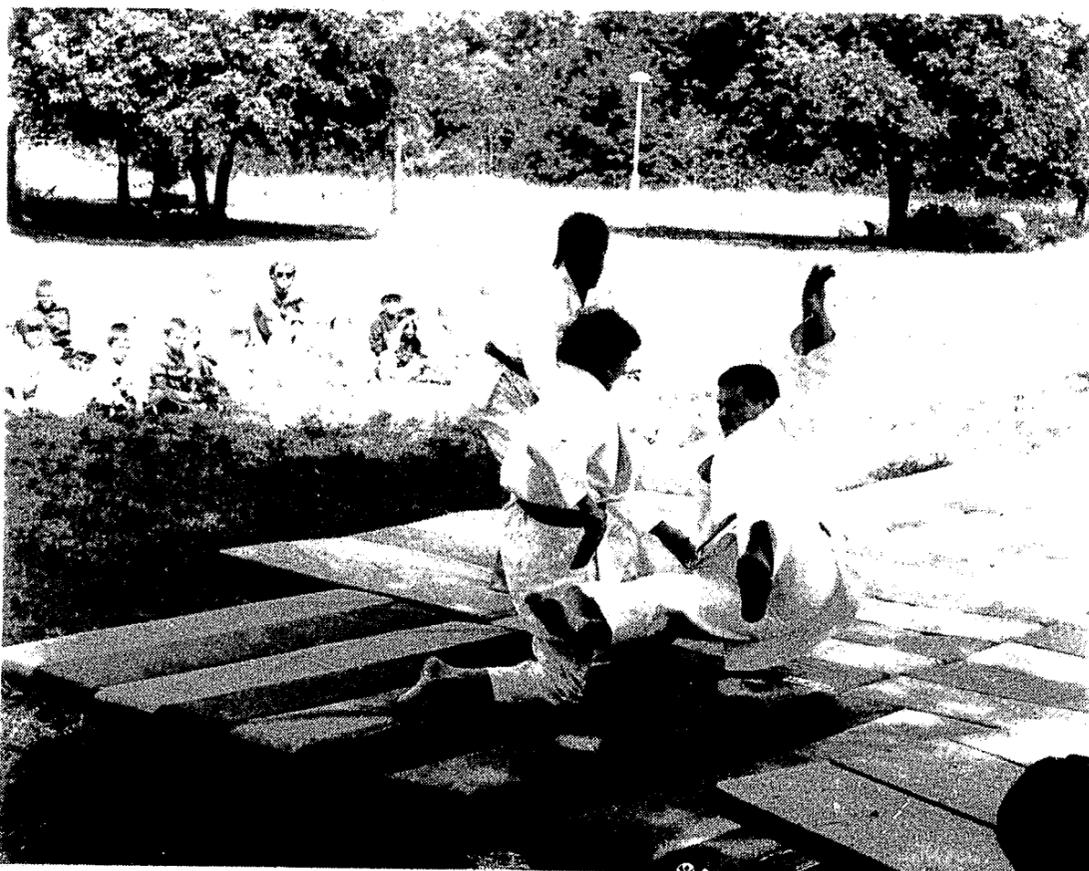

The Red Wings, on the flip side, have had their share of rolling good times. The athletes need to cool off a bit before everybody lands in jail or is kicked out of the country -- except Steve Yzerman, that is.

Hockey remains my favorite playoff sport, since it allows 15 of its 21 competing members to give it a go. No matter what happens to the Red Wings by October, they're shoo-ins to make the playoffs. From there, a little luck can go a long way in deciding who will be champion.

The Pistons needed little luck (we would have handled the Lakers even without the injuries to Magic Johnson and Byron Scott) in capturing their last championship and should need even less in the coming year.

The Palace of Auburn Hills' limited seating (for the many Pistons fans, anything less than the Silverdome won't do) is the only gripe I can find. I guess another season of listening to George Blaha on WKBD and the saps on PASS is on tap.

Here ends the report. You may now take a well deserved nap.

Toxic water rules may be lax

A University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, study of fish consumption by Michigan sport anglers indicates that state standards to protect public health from toxic chemicals in Michigan surface waters may be too lax.

The state-funded study found that, for one five-month period, Michigan sport anglers and their families ate almost 2.5 times as much fish as the level of fish consumption assumed in calculating safe levels of toxicity in state waters, said Patrick C. West, U-M professor of natural resources and project director for the study.

Minorities and the elderly eat even more fish than the average angler, according to ongoing research on fish consumption in Michigan, he added.

West explained that the main purpose of the study was to test assumptions underlying Michigan's Rule 57 (R 323.1057) of the Part 4 Water Quality Standards for the State of Michigan, which regulates discharge of toxic chemicals from "point" or specific locations into Michigan surface waters.

The study was conducted by the School of Natural Resources, the School of Public Health and the Institute for Social Research, all at U-M.

Funding was provided by the Michigan Toxic Substance Control Commission.

Rule 57 currently assumes that average fish consumption is 6.5 grams per person per day.

The U-M study found that the subject's average total fish consumption, including fish they had purchased as well as caught, was 16.1 grams per person per day from January to early June, 1988.

West said that additional research is needed on fish consumption during the summer-fall fishing season.

But based on general year-round data from the study, fish consumption during the fall and summer may be in the range of 17.9 grams per person per day, resulting in an annual average of about 17 grams per person per day.

He emphasized that the summer-fall and year-round averages are only estimates.

West said the figures include an adjustment factor for a "non-response bias," in this case a tendency of survey nonrespondents to eat less fish than respondents.

These figures also may need to be adjusted for cutbacks in fish consumption prompted by existing fish consumption advisories, he said.

Golfers' paradise

Golfing from sunrise to sunset takes on an even more literal meaning in Michigan this summer. The growth is most apparent on the northeast shore of the lower peninsula -- "The Sunrise Side."

Five properties with 108 holes in seven courses make up "The Sunrise Side." Of these holes, 36 are new this summer; and 27 more will be in play by 1990.

As their neighbors to the west gain a collective national reputation -- thanks in large part to the presence of courses designed by Robert Trent Jones, Jack Nicklaus, and Arnold Palmer -- the eastside courses offer an attractive alternative: quality golf with lower prices and smaller crowds.

As the "Sunrise Side" grows, so does Michigan's reputation as the place to tee off from early spring to late fall -- from sunrise to sunset. For more information on "Sunrise Side" golf, call the Alpena Area Chamber of Commerce, toll-free, at 1-800-582-1906.

'Youthful' addition to planning commission

A new face will appear on the Springfield Township Planning Commission.

The township board unanimously voted to appoint Kevin Kriebel of Bridge Lake Road to the commission Aug. 10. The board also unanimously reappointed LeeAnn Oliver, whose two year term on the commission was up.

Kriebel is a graduate of Michigan State University, East Lansing, where he received a degree in building construction with a minor in business. He also has five years of experience in construction work.

Supervisor Collin Walls said Kriebel has been a resident of Springfield Township less than three years. He is also under 30 years old.

"He would bring a lot of expertise and a youthful outlook to the commission," said Trustee Margaret Bloom.

Dear Mr. Mayworm:

I thought you'd like to know how refreshing it was to work with your organization, and especially with Marilyn Brown, one of your Associates.

Marilyn and her support staff at Main Street USA are to be commended for putting together the listing and sale of my former home and flawlessly expediting the purchase of a new one. I've bought and sold many homes in my lifetime, but have never been so impressed with a realtor.

With almost one-half million dollars changing hands in the transactions, I'm sure you can appreciate that I was a bit uneasy. But Marilyn's professional manner and knowledge of the business quickly set my mind at ease. She helped us work out a fair price for our home and develop a plan for marketing it. When we had an offer we liked, she took over and, before we knew it, it was closing day.

She devoted a good deal of time to understanding what we wanted in a new home, and didn't waste our time showing us properties that didn't suit us. I especially liked this because it cut down on the amount of time I had to personally devote to the search. And when 6983 Deerhill Drive became available, she was prompt to call and help us prepare an offer.

If I had to summarize in one word what Marilyn provided in our recent transactions, that word would be "counsel". Much like what I get from my attorney or CPA.

We have some investment property and will ask for Marilyn's help when it's time to sell. And if we should decide to move again (God forbid), we'll work with Marilyn.

She makes it look so easy!

Spring-fed Deer Lake is treasure in Independence

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Perhaps one of the most beautiful approaches into Independence Township is from the south, past Lakeview Cemetery and up Holcomb Road along Deer Lake.

The 137-acre lake has long been a source of pride in Independence Township, and in 1989, a few changes were added to satisfy an increasingly diversified group of people.

1989 boating, swimming and fishing regulations

GENERAL RULES:

1. Beach facilities are open every day from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Memorial Day through Labor Day.
2. Rules and regulations established by the Township Board will be strictly enforced. Violations or misuse of the privileges or property may result in loss of privileges.
3. Memberships and keys can be purchased at the township offices Monday through Friday, 9-5 p.m. beginning May 1. Proof of residency and boat registration is required.
4. Another fee will be required if boat key or membership card is lost.
5. Each membership is entitled to five complimentary passes for guest.

PARKING REGULATIONS: (Beach and Boat Launch)

1. There is no parking outside the designated beach/boat launch parking area. Cars parked along White Lake Road will be ticketed and towed.
2. If the parking lot is full, you will be required to park in Clarkston and use the safety path and walk to and from the beach if you are a swimmer. Boaters will have to leave and wait for an existing designated boaters parking space to vacate and become available.
3. Vehicles with boat trailers found parking in the lot outside their designated boaters parking area will be ticketed and towed. The back third of the parking lot is reserved for boat trailers which is approximately 12-15 parking spaces under normal conditions.

BEACH AND SWIMMING RULES:

1. Swimming allowed in designated areas only.
2. Playing or wading in the stream channel is prohibited.

3. Climbing or playing on the walking bridge is not allowed.
4. Absolutely no dunking or horseplay in the water.
5. Children under 10 must be supervised by an adult.
6. Alcoholic beverages, fires, pets and glass containers are not permitted.
7. No swimming or playing around swim markers.
8. Picnicking is prohibited.
9. Lawn chairs or similar furnishings are not allowed in the water inside the swimming area.
10. Lifeguards have the authority to clear the water at any time.

FISHING RULES:

1. Bank fishing is not allowed during normal beach hours.
2. There is an under-water shelf (shaded area) that projects out into the lake from the beach area (east end of the lake). It can be extremely hazardous if someone should step off the shelf. Water depth can change from three feet to 30 feet with one step.

BOATING RULES:

1. All boats using Deer Lake must display the appropriate Township boat sticker on starboard side.
2. No high speed boating or pulling of water skiers prior to 11 a.m. or after 7:30 p.m. (High speed boating means a speed at, or above which a motorboat reaches a planing condition.)
3. No more than two persons at one time on water skis behind the same boat. Boats pulling skiers must have an observer, other than driver, watching skiers.

4. The west end of the lake has a slow NO WAKE speed zone.

5. There are limited one day permits for boaters from outside the township (i.e. sailboat races and fishermen). The one day permit must be purchased at the Deer Lake Beach Station. Guest boaters must be off the lake when beach closes because boat gate is locked.

6. Boaters and skiers must stay 100 feet from swimmers, rafts, docks, buoyed or occupied bathing areas, buoyed divers flag, or a vessel moored or at anchor.

7. All persons operating vessels on the lake shall operate in a counter clockwise fashion, insofar as it is reasonably possible.

8. No swimming outside swim area. Diving from rafts, canoes, sailboats, pontoons or similar craft is prohibited.

9. You must lock the boat gate each time you use the boat launch.

10. Boats are not to be docked over night at Deer Lake.

IMPORTANT NOTICES:

* All boats will be checked at the launch site prior to launch for alcohol. Boats will not be allowed on Deer Lake with alcoholic beverages.

* When parking lot for boat trailers is full, no more boats will be allowed to launch until another boat exits.

* If you are found to be in violation of any of the above rules or any state water safety regulations, you will receive a legal notice indicating the infractions and the penalty that may be invoked. Notice may simply bring the rules to your attention and that future violations will result in loss of privileges may result.

Beach remains hot spot in area for summer

"It's a beautiful beach," says Ann Conklin, director of the parks and recreation department and charged with keeping it that way.

Fed by the Clinton River, the lake is about one mile long by one-third mile wide and ranges in depth from an average of 35 feet to more than 60 feet.

Many things about the lake remain as they have for

"It has very clean water and is patrolled and controlled."

Ann Conklin

decades: the pure, cold, spring-fed water; the abundant woodlands; and sunlight dancing on tiny ripples and waves.

But time has also brought change: a growing number of people hoping to enjoy its beauty; developers anxious to take advantage of the lake's rich landscape; and advances in technology, bringing motor-boats and jet skis.

The need for change and growth remains a heated controversy in the township.

"There are still complaints about jet skis," Conklin says.

Although Conklin is new to the area, the former director has fielded numerous complaints about motorized traffic on Deer Lake, including comments from about 80 people at a hearing before the Michigan Department of Natural Resources two years ago.

This year, jet skis are being treated like boats and must follow all of the same rules as boats, Conklin says.

Other changes at the beach this year affect lifeguards. All of the guards are now dressed alike, which, along with the professionalism that the uniform adds, also affects safety at the lake. If someone is in trouble, they will know to look for the guard in his or her familiar uniform.

Beach passes are also controlled more carefully this year. Visitors are required to stop by the beach desk before entering, and if they choose to leave and re-enter, they must have their hand stamped.

People living outside the township are allowed a day pass at Deer Lake Beach, which may be purchased at the beach desk.

"We're not trying to take things away (from visitors to the beach), but when people sneak in, it's not fair to those who take the time and money to enjoy the beach," Conklin says.

Those who enjoy what the lake has to offer have remained fairly constant, Conklin says. About 720 beach passes were issued this season. That's below the number issued last year; last season was a record-breaker because of the hot dry weather.

Several varieties of passes are available, whether it's a family pass, a couple pass, a single pass or a boat pass.

But no matter what the reason, Deer Lake can be enjoyed by all.

Presidents' crisis decision-making not all bad

More than a third of the 19 major international crisis decisions made by American presidents from Truman to Nixon were of "low quality," displaying many symptoms of "defective" decision-making, according to a University of Michigan researcher.

That's a better track record than many experts would have predicted, says Paul K. Huth, U of M assistant professor of political science and study co-author.

"After reading the literature on this subject, one comes away with the sense that policy makers in a crisis rarely do anything right," says Huth, faculty associate at the U of M Institute for Social Research. "So I can imagine a lot of skeptics being surprised at our finding that, in about 63 percent of the cases, the crisis decision-making was of relatively high quality."

Forty-two percent of the crises were characterized by relatively high-quality decision-making, 21 percent were of medium quality and 37 percent were of low quality, according to Huth and his co-researchers, Gregory M. Herek of the City University of New York and Irving L. Janis of the University of California, Berkeley.

The Eisenhower and Kennedy administrations scored highest on the decision-making process scale, the Johnson administration scored lowest, and the Truman and Nixon administrations displayed the largest variability in the quality of their decision-making processes, the researchers found.

The crises were selected from a list of militarized international disputes occurring between 1946 and 1975. The rating of the decision-making process was based on a systematic survey of secondary sources, while crisis outcomes were rated by a panel of experts in terms of their effects on U.S. vital interests and on international conflict.

The single most "defective" decision was made by Richard M. Nixon in 1971 when he attempted to deter Indian offensive operations against West Pakistan. This was followed by Harry S. Truman's decision to invade North Korea to deal the North Korean army and unify Korea, according to the researchers.

The third and fourth most defective decisions were Nixon's decision to attack North Vietnamese military bases and sanctuaries in Cambodia and Lyndon B. Johnson's decision during the Egyptian-Israeli War in 1967 not to send a naval force to the straits of Tiran to ensure the right of free passage following its closure by Egypt, the researchers found.

Failure to re-evaluate alternatives, the most common defect, was evident in 15 of the 19 crises, the study found.

"The most infrequent symptom of defective decision-making was that of poor information search, manifested in only three cases. Failure to use new information, in contrast, was manifested in a third of the crises," Huth said.

"This suggests that collecting relevant information is part of the standard operating procedures of the U.S. government. The effective use of information, though, appears to be more of a problem," he added.

As an example of ineffective information use, Huth cites Truman's decision to cross the 38th parallel and invade North Korea in 1950, despite intelligence reports of the buildup of Chinese forces in Manchuria and despite warnings issued by Chinese leaders. The consequences were disastrous for U.S. and United Nations forces in North Korea, Huth said.

The decisions were evaluated on the basis of seven "symptoms" of defective decision-making:

- * Gross omissions in surveying alternatives.

- * Failure to examine major costs and risks of the preferred choice.

- * Poor information research.

- * Selective bias in processing information at hand (accepting only information that supports the preferred alternative).

- * Failure to reconsider originally rejected alternatives.

- * Failure to work out detailed implementation, monitoring and contingency plans.

The study, "Decision-making During International Crises: Is Quality of Process Related to Outcome?" appeared in the Journal of Conflict Resolution.

Unlike others who have examined presidential decision-making, Huth and his co-authors found that the quality of the process by which decisions are made is indeed directly related to crisis outcome.

"The outcomes result from a combination of the leaders' decision-making and implementation, external variables including the decisions made by adversaries, and chance factors," Huth said. "If the nation's leaders tend to ignore important warnings, facts and contingencies, a frequent result is avoidable losses and failure to achieve their objectives."

Break-in worries residents in Plum Road area

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A recent break-in has an Independence Township neighborhood literally up in arms.

Residents in the Plum Road area are arming themselves with self-protective devices such as mace, saying the law isn't sufficient in protecting them.

Their action comes despite the fact that police arrested a suspect in the crime. Neighbors say after the suspect was arrested, arraigned and released on bond, he returned several times to repeat the crime.

Steven Harken, 19, was sentenced Tuesday, Aug. 15, to 90 days in a work release program; he is required to spend the next 90 days in the Oakland County Jail but will be allowed to report to work for his five-hour daytime shift.

The sentencing hearing, held in 52nd District Court before Judge Gerald McNally, was attended by about a dozen residents; some said the sentencing doesn't do enough.

"We wanted him to get some help," said Edie Rosaen of Plum Road.

It was Rosaen who, on Aug. 3, awoke to find her front door open and a garage access door removed from its hinges. Several boxes had been rearranged, but nothing appeared to be missing.

After talking with police, prosecutors and psychiatrists, Edie and her neighbors suspected that the suspect might return.

The suspect did return about 10 p.m. that night; he peered through several windows before he was tackled and restrained by a neighbor waiting in the bushes.

Harken was arrested and pled guilty to charges of disorderly conduct, a 90-day misdemeanor. Neighbors say they were disappointed that he was not charged with something more severe, such as breaking and entering.

A breaking and entering charge requires that something be taken or that there be an attempt to create violence, according to police.

"The problem is that this fellow could graduate to doing something violent," said Howard Keating, a neighbor. "He admitted his guilt to police; over the next four nights he's stalking the same house."

Keating added that the suspect told police he had watched the homeowner sleep.

"We've got ladies that won't stay home alone at night. One fellow says he'll shoot before he looks," Keating said.

At the sentencing hearing Aug. 15, Assistant Prosecutor Kim Kauffmann asked the judge for the maximum sentence.

"(Harken) did confess to officers; he presents harm to society," Kauffmann said, adding that neighbors were concerned and had obtained mace to protect themselves.

"The situation could become volatile," she added. In sentencing Harken, Judge McNally told him that he should change his behavior.

"I don't know what's wrong with you, but you had best look into it," he said.

"You have created a dangerous situation. I don't know if you know how volatile or flammable this situation is," McNally said.

McNally told Harken's parents that meetings with psychiatrists would have to be postponed for the duration of the sentence.

Neighbors argued that the sessions are needed. "The help this kid needs is unbelievable," Keating said.

Opinion of Bill Myers

No sure way

William A. Myers is a retired Lapeer County editor and investments manager from Boca Raton, Fla.

One of these "tax hotline" services lists a number of "loopholes" which, of course, attract almost everybody. One is buying a vacation home instead of renting one every summer. Then you can deduct mortgage interest and real estate taxes.

Okay. Let's try one on for size:
 Cost of renting a $200,000 summer place for 10 weeks: $10,000.
 Cost of owning: Assume you can't find a renter for the winter season or some of the relatives pre-empt the place just before and just after the season. At 10 percent on your full-worth mortgage (to make figuring easier): $20,000 interest cost. This is deductible, so you save 28 percent tax, and net cost is $14,400.

Property tax per year: $5,000.
 Insurance: $500.
 Off-season care: $500.
 Painting, roof, furnace, appliances: $1,000.
 Total of these items: $7,000.
 So you have laid out $14,400 in net interest cost, plus $7,000 in taxes, insurance and upkeep. Total: $21,400.
 Cost of renting for the summer: $10,000.
 So it costs you $11,400 extra to be one of the landed gentry. Some honor! Some loophole!

Another of this hotline's "loopholes":
 Buy rental property - a two-family or four-family house - and actively manage it. (You have to be active as a manager to keep it out of "passive" income.)
 The hotline says you can deduct up to $25,000 in losses against your salary and other income.

 Big deal. So you lose $25,000 a year, but it can offset your regular income. The 28 percent tax on $25,000 is $7,000, so your net loss is $18,000, which has to come out of your hide.

Once again, wearily we say unto you: you can't buy groceries with business losses.

You had a $25,000 offset against income, but you saved only $7,000 from it. You were out $18,000, and you also had a daily headache from the tenants.

You have to be a landlord to find this out. Meanwhile, ask any landlord you know if he is enjoying life.

SteinRoe mutual funds sent me a do-it-yourself psychoanalysis kit. It was designed to "find your investment personality."

Examples of the multiple-choice questions:

1. Age.
2. How much emergency savings have you set aside?
3. If you own your home, how much is it worth?
4. How much money invested for non-retirement purposes?
5. What percentage of your income do you save?
6. How important is: a. current monthly income; b. capital appreciation?
7. How much time a week do you spend on investments?

In all the questions, numerical ratings ran from zero to eight. Higher numbers were for higher figures, such as age, income, investments, time spent on them, etc. In most of them, my numbers were at the top end.

After scoring the thing, I found myself classified as "Aggressive - one who holds, or should hold, growth funds."

I was far away from their bracket labeled "Conservative."

Whatever Harvard business school PhD wrote the test, they couldn't have missed the mark further than they did with this kid.

I don't own "growth" funds and don't plan to. My investment philosophy would delight a Vermont bank trust officer. I buy only bonds, hoping to find some under-priced ones, and buy mostly long ones.

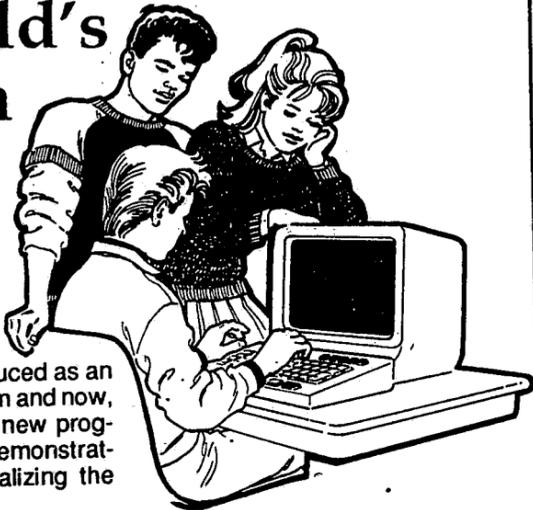

Yet SteinRoe says the test shows I should own:
 Money market funds ..... 20%
 Bond funds ..... 40%
 Growth & income funds ..... 30%
 Growth funds ..... 10%

Why should I have 20 percent in money market funds? If I need cash, I call up ol' John Grant at Thomson McKinnon and ask him to loan me some at margin.

Bond funds? Why should I pay a load charge of, say, 5 percent, plus management costs of 1 percent a year? I just buy some bonds and keep my eye on them. And not 40 percent of my assets (excluding the house) but 100 percent.

Growth and income funds? Again, why pay a load charge and a management fee? And who knows when, if ever, this growth syndrome sets in? The only sure key to growth I know is steroids.

For 30 years, music has been food for hundreds of students

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Green ferns, flowers and vines beckon to a visitor from Main Street, Clarkston, inviting a trip down the path to the house marked with a sign "Clarkston Conservatory of Music."

Once inside, pianos and students wait for a monthly meeting.

Ivan Rouse, founder and director of the Clarkston Conservatory for Music, descends from upstairs to a room equipped with two baby grand pianos and a faint musty odor, lending to the atmosphere of the room. About 100 years ago, the room was a livery stable.

For 15 years of the conservatory's existence, it served as a room for ballet instruction.

Rouse appears before students and visitors with tousled hair and casual dress, ready to instruct as he has for 30 years at the same location.

He's planning a celebration -- complete with music and dancing -- Sunday, Aug. 20, to mark the 30-year anniversary. During the interview about the event, Rouse gives some details about the conservatory and but declines giving other details.

"I refer to someone's age as vintage," he says. Rouse prefers not to discuss his own vintage.

The last 30 years at the conservatory, students have had weekly one-on-one music instruction and have met monthly in groups of 5-10 to discuss theory, ear training, history and performance.

The conservatory is valuable because public schools -- with their larger class sizes -- can't offer that type of instruction, says Rouse.

A visitor to the monthly student session can easily find the value in Rouse's teaching methods. Although a relaxed atmosphere, the students are expected to learn.

CLARKSTON Conservatory student Chris Colburn has taken piano lessons for five years and plays beautifully even though his finger was injured playing basketball.

30-year celebration

Swinging and swaying to pop tunes from the 40s on up is the order of the day for the 30th anniversary party and dance in honor of the Clarkston Conservatory of Music.

Musicians and friends are to gather for a celebration with Ivan Rouse, founder of the conservatory.

The celebration is set for Sunday, Aug. 20, from 7 p.m. to midnight. A $10 donation is asked.

The Hits, a local duo from Waterford area, will supply music outside for guests, and pianists will be playing inside the conservatory.

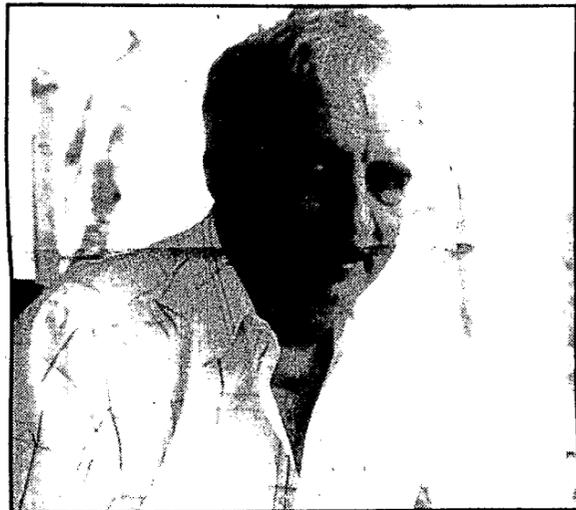

ABBY MARSDEN is a relatively new student at the Clarkston Conservatory of Music, and already she's learning about performance and music history during her monthly meeting with director, Ivan Rouse, and fellow students.

"But it kind of prepares you for concerts," says student, Abby Marsden of West Washington, Clarkston.

The conservatory is part of the community, and Rouse is quick to point out "generous signs," donations from supporters of the conservatory, that help him continue with instruction and the conservatory's existence.

In 1984, about $1,500 was raised by William and Sue Basinger at a "Great Gatsby" Party, and the money was used for new siding on the conservatory.

Harold Boughton Rees of Waterford, who died June 29, requested contributions be made to the Clarkston Conservatory. Rees served as director and registrar of the Detroit Institute of Musical Arts.

His widow, Carrol Rees, is making certain her late husband's wishes are carried out.

"The conservatory is a real contribution to the Clarkston and Waterford area," she says.

This past spring, Jack Riddel of Oliver Carpenter Co. put on a new roof at the conservatory, and for the upcoming celebration, the Whoppee Bowl on Dixie Highway has donated fabric for banners.

Tom Lowrie of Lowrie's Landscape, Dixie Highway, has donated sod for the conservatory's backyard, and it's been placed near a statue of St. Cecilia, who is the patron saint of music. The statue was donated 20 years ago by Gino Testaguzza of Oxford.

The conservatory offers instruction in piano, voice, flute, violin, cello and guitar and has 11 instructors for students who range in age from 6 on up.

Rouse says he's "forward looking" for the conservatory.

"If I kick the bucket, I wish it to continue," he says.

Recently, Rouse met with two of his instructors, James Wilhelmsen and Miriam Bates, who expressed interest in helping him plan for the continuation of the conservatory.

Rouse is also thankful for the conservatory's existence. On Nov. 12, in the chapel at Colombiere Conference Center, Big Lake Road, Springfield Township, a Solemn Even Song will be performed by the Men and Boys Choir of Christ Church, Grosse Pointe.

"This is in thanksgiving to God for 30 years of music," says Rouse.

A TALL PINE stands in front of the conservatory on Main Street. Rouse says it was only 20 feet tall in 1964. It keeps growing, and so does the conservatory.

"We believe clothes say a lot about a person and the care of your clothing will say a lot about us!"

Bentley, Brady exchange wedding vows

Sandra Lynn Bentley and Lance Cpl. Matthew Harrison Brady, both of Clarkston, were united in marriage April 7 at the Clarkston United Methodist Church.

The Rev. Douglas Trebilcock officiated at the 6:30 p.m. ceremony. A program of music was provided by pianist and soloist Inger Nelson with her sister, Marget.

The bride is the daughter of Robert and Barbara Bentley of Eastlawn Avenue, Clarkston. The parents of the bridegroom are Patrick and Louise Brady of Holcomb Road, Clarkston.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore her mother's gown of candlelight taffeta, trimmed with French lace and a hand-beaded bodice.

She carried a bouquet with a full cascade of creamy white roses, white gerbera, star of Bethlehem, baby's breath, silk sprigs of lily of the valley, streaming with ivy.

Susan Batchelor of Drayton Plains, sister of the bride, was the matron of honor. Jennifer John of Clarkston and Donna Bright of Waterford, both friends of the bride, were the bridesmaids. All wore tea-length red taffeta gowns.

The flower girl, Lisa Tinchler of Rochester, and the ring bearer, Benjamin Jett of Oxford, are cousins of the bridegroom.

The bridegroom chose his uncle, Michael Jett of Oxford, as his best man. The ushers were Matthew Shepaneck of Clarkston, friend of the bridegroom; Peter Brady of Clarkston, brother of the bridegroom; and Charlie Rockwell of Ortonville, cousin of the bride.

After the wedding ceremony, a reception for 300 was held at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Clarkston. The three-tiered fountain wedding cake was provided by Linda Rockwell, aunt of the bride.

The couple reside in Jacksonville, N.C., where the bridegroom is stationed at Camp LeJeune.

Plenty of room in the "in"

Suzanne Baumann

I remember the look of the 1984: Big fluorescent T-shirts. Lace headbands tied into enormous bows. Plastic shoes with glitter on them. Enough little rubber bracelets, worn at the same time, to reach up to a fifth-grade girl's elbow. All of these items could be easily purchased at the local discount store, along with a potted plant and a box of light bulbs.

Gradually, styles changed. I was aware of this much. I wasn't aware that the transition involved changing where I shopped. I tried following the fashions, but they never came out right ... shoddy imitations of the real things were now longer acceptable. All through seventh grade, I encountered classmates who were either laughing at, or trying to change, the way I looked.

I started to go to the specialty clothing shops. I pored over fashion magazines, taking every word as gospel. The "what's in/what's out" lists were almost as important to me as food, and whenever any garment in my possession appeared on the "out" side, I immediately packed it away for the next clothing drive, feeling a twinge of guilt as I imagined needy people hanging their heads in embarrassment as they went around in my tacky clothes.

For the past few years or so now, my donations have lessened. Now, I know excuses don't mean very much to charity, but I have two in my defense:

- 1) I haven't grown out of my clothes.
- 2) Nothing's gone out of style.

It's true. "Out" lists are out. People can get away with wearing practically whatever they want without any fashion dictators getting down their throats. We're in the midst of a wonderful melting pot of colors, cuts, patterns and materials. It's been quite a while since I've seen a particular "look" everyone follows.

The great fashion magazines have done a strange

(and in some respects, foolish) thing. They are telling gullible consumers to wear what they like. This works for now because many of us have gotten rid of the clothes we liked when they went out of style, to be our own fashion designers.

I, of course, welcome this attitude. But I can't help wonder, if this keeps up, what way it will affect the fashion industry. Will it lessen the importance of designers? (I've seen magazines prepare for this disaster by saying it's important to have a "good eye" ... any said eye can see right through this flimsy excuse.)

Will the fact that people aren't buying into a look mean less money is spent on clothes? Or will our fashion designers really let their imaginations fly, sending consumers flying after every new creation?

I strongly doubt people want to give up their fashion freedom. I have become confident enough to wear whatever I want to, within reason. I occasionally hear a few snickers behind my back, but hardly anyone tells me to change these days, and if they did, it probably wouldn't produce too many results.

Shigellosis blamed in park illnesses

Officials offer tips to contain bacteria's spread

As an investigation continues into an outbreak of gastro-intestinal illness among several persons who were at Independence Oaks County Park in mid-July, county health officials are advising area residents to help protect against additional spread of such illnesses.

"We want the public to be aware that simple precautions in daily living can help prevent these diseases," said Carol Bird, chief of Medical Services for the Oakland County Health Division.

She noted that in the late spring and early summer increased levels of a bacterial gastro-intestinal illness known as shigellosis had occurred in the Oakland County area.

Shigellosis, also known as bacterial dysentery, can cause severe symptoms of diarrhea, abdominal pain, fever and dehydration, and sometimes results in hospitalization. County health officials now believe the bacteria was responsible for illness among several visitors to the county park between July 9 and 12.

Although the investigation into the illness is continuing and officials have not drawn any conclusions, they did advise park officials to close the beach for several days as a precaution and to permit more extensive water testing. Those tests did not indicate a problem with water quality.

The higher-than-usual levels of shigellosis this year have officials concerned about the potential for continuing problems.

"One of the difficulties with shigellosis is that infections can be caused by ingesting very small numbers of the bacteria, compared to other similar bacterial infections," said Joel Blostein, an epidemiologist with the county health division.

"Obviously, the nature of communicable disease is that they spread from one person to another -- so when there are higher levels of illness in the community, there's an increased potential for further disease spread," he said.

Shigellosis and other intestinal infections can be spread through fecally-contaminated food and water and direct contact between people when hygiene is poor.

Despite their reputation as formidable public health foes, shigellosis and other communicable gastro-intestinal diseases can be diagnosed easily with a stool test and treated when necessary with antibiotics by a doctor.

Even more important, said public health officials, spread of such diseases can be prevented by taking some simple precautions in everyday life. The county health division advises the following:

- People with persistent diarrhea and/or other symptoms such as fever, stomach cramps, nausea or vomiting should see a doctor.

- Always wash hands with soap and running water before preparing meals and after using the toilet. Make sure children wash their hands, too.

- Change diapers away from food preparation areas; place soiled diapers in a diaper pail or plastic-lined receptacle; wash hands (and child's hands) afterwards.

- People sick with a diarrheal illness should not prepare food or provide care for children or patients.

- Food service workers who develop a diarrheal illness should report their illness to their supervisor and should not prepare food or do other food-related work until their doctor says they are recovered.

- During an illness, people should refrain from swimming in community swimming areas, pools and spas.

Microwave Plus

From the orchard

Betty Wagner

Spicer's Orchard could keep me occupied for the entire summer. Besides cherries, they have raspberries and apples.

It is located on Clyde Road in Hartland Township. The phone number for available fruit and picking times is 623-7692. Talk to anyone or ask for Marie. She was most helpful.

CHERRY PIE from "Microwaving Fruits and Vegetables" by Barbara Methven and Sara Jean Thomas (Copyright 1981 by Cy DeCosse, Inc.).

- 1 prebaked pie crust*
- 4 cups fresh pitted cherries, drained
- 1 cup granulated sugar
- 1/4 cup cornstarch

1. In a large bowl, combine cherries, sugar and cornstarch.

2. Microwaving at HIGH for 8 1/2 to 10 minutes or until mixture is clear and thickened, stirring every 2 minutes during cooking time. Let cool slightly. Fill prepared shell with filling.

* I used an All Ready Pie Crust from the grocer's refrigerator case. Place in a 9-inch Pyrex pie plate; prick sides and bottom; microwave at HIGH for 6 minutes; turn once.

Pie Topping

- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
- 1 cup rolled oats
- 1 tablespoon dark brown sugar

1. Place butter in 2-cup Pyrex measure. Microwave at HIGH for 45 seconds. Add rolled oats. Stir to moisten. Sprinkle over cherry pie.

2. Sprinkle brown sugar evenly over oats. Place under preheated broiler until brown.

WANDA SPICER'S CHERRIES JUBILEE

- 1 pound fresh pitted berries
- 5 ounces currant jelly
- 1/2 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1/2 teaspoon grated orange rind
- 1/2 teaspoon cornstarch
- 2-3 tablespoons brandy

1. Drain cherries, reserving juice. Combine jelly, lemon juice, orange rind and cornstarch in a 2-quart Pyrex dish. Add 1/4 cup of cherry juice.

2. Microwave at HIGH for 3 minutes until thickened.

3. Add cherries and continue to cook at HIGH for 3 more minutes.

4. Measure brandy into a 1-cup Pyrex measure. Microwave at HIGH for 10-15 seconds. Remove from oven, ignite and pour over cherries.

4. Serve flaming over ice cream.

Home economist Betty Wagner resides in Independence Township. Her "Microwave Plus" cable-TV program airs on Independence-Clarkston Channel 65.

Fall trips scheduled

Two fall trips are upcoming for interested area residents, thanks to the Springfield Township Parks and Recreation Department.

A summary of the events follow:

Indiana Amish Country and Shipshewana Amish Flea Market -- On Wednesday, Sept. 20, beginning at 7 a.m. and returning approximately 10:45 p.m. The trip starts with a guided tour of the Indiana Amish Country including a stop at an Amish Cheese Factory.

Lunch will feature a traditional Amish meal at Das Dutchman Essenhaus. After lunch, a special stop at the Amish Flea Market. Find excellent bargains on a wide variety of new, used, home-made, antique and food goods. "Haggling" for the right price is half the fun. Tour price is $35 per person. Reservation deadline is Wednesday, Aug. 23.

Michigan's Best Fall Color Tour -- On Thursday, Oct. 26, the trip begins in the village of Manchester. Visit a blacksmith shop, stroll through Alber's Orchard and Cider Mill built in 1870. Lunch at Sharon Mills, originally a gristmill built in 1835; lunch begins with a wine-tasting welcome reception.

After lunch, shop the Manchester village shops, unique gifts and antiques. Tour price is $33.50 per person. Reservation deadline is Thursday, Sept. 21.

For more information about either trip, call Sherry Swindell at 625-9622 or 634-0412.

Outings for seniors

Active senior citizens may enjoy two trips planned by the Springfield Township Parks and Recreation Department.

The Senior Great Escape Trip Wednesday, Aug. 30, at Independence Oaks County Park includes a day in the park with a presentation on "Summer Wildflowers and Wildflower Folklore," making a terrarium, enjoying a continental brunch at the Cohn Amphitheatre and a guided walk by the park naturalist on a 1/3-mile paved path. Reservation deadline is Tuesday, Aug. 22.

Birch Run Shopping Excursion and Lunch Thursday, Sept. 28, includes "dutch treat" lunch at The Greenery. Menu choices range from steak, seafood, barbecue chicken to buffet. After lunch, it's on to the Birch Run Factory Outlet for shopping at 70-store manufacturer's outlet mall. Reservation deadline is Thursday, Aug. 24.

For more information about either trip, call Sherry Swindell at 634-0412 or 625-9622.

$425 OK'd for class

The Springfield Township assessor will be attending a short course on property taxes Oct. 11-13.

The township board unanimously voted to pay for the $425 class sponsored by the Michigan Assessor Association.

Supervisor Collin Walls said although he thinks the price is steep, he wants the assessor to be well qualified.

WHO IS ON THE LORD'S side let him hear what the Spirit of TRUTH saith unto the churches. I say unto you that in the church is one greater than the temple for the Son of Man is Lord even of the sabbath day. I marvel that you are so soon removed from him that called you into the grace of Christ unto another so called, gospel. There be some that trouble you, and would prevent the gospel of Christ. For do I now persuade men, or God? or do I seek to please men (circumcision of the flesh)? For if I yet pleased men, I should not be the servant of Christ (circumcision of the heart)! Certain men which went out from us (turned to lying vanities and Jewish fables) have continually troubled you, saying you must be circumcised (be a follower of men) and keep the law (to be lorded over by tradition through priests and pastors) to whom was given, absolutely, no such commandment by God. For I determined not to know anything among you, save Jesus Christ and him crucified, that your faith should stand in the wisdom of God and not in the wisdom of men. The Jews require a sign (law, tradition) and gentiles seek after wisdom (esteeming of themselves) to be justified in their conscience rather than believing in the finished work of the cross of Christ. Seventy weeks were determined and accomplished upon the Jews (Mat 24.1-26) and their holy city, saith the Lord. To finish the transgression (Mat 23.25), and to make an end of sins (Jn 12.31) (Jn 8.24) (Jn 15.23,24) (Col 1.13), and to make reconciliation for iniquity (Col 1.14)(Jn 12.32), and to bring in everlasting righteousness (the cross) (Rom 3.25,25)(Jn 12.44) (Rom 4.3,4), and to seal up the vision and prophecy (Rom 15.8)(Mat 5.17) (Mat 22.40) (Luk 22.44) and to anoint the most holy (Mat 3.16) (II Cor 6.16). Blessed be the lord God of Israel for he hath visited and redeemed his people. (in Jesus Christ). (Luk 1.68,69). Not as though the WORD OF GOD has taken none effect, for they are not all christians which are of the churches. Neither because they gather together in the name of Jesus Christ are they all children of God. But in Jesus Christ shall the seed be called, that is, they which are of faith (acknowledging God by doing God's word) (Luk 7.29,30) having a love for the truth are counted for the seed-only those! All others will have strong delusion believing a lie just like they want to. IILX32-2*

DID YOU KNOW: THAT each person living in this world today creates 3.5 pounds of garbage each day, and we only recycle 10% of it! Did you know 500,000 trees are cut down, turned into paper, then never recycled? That's just for one weekly newspaper delivered to your home. Bi-weekly we throw so much glass away it could fill the New York Trade Center. Every hour 2.5 million plastic detergent and milk bottles are thrown into the garbage pail. Recycling is the only answer to the garbage crisis we are now facing. Rising waste disposal costs, mean more land is needed for the waste, or there just isn't any room. We will pick-up your plastic and glass containers along with bundled newspapers for only $2 per week. A very small price to pay for your environment. For more information call 693-4002. !!ILX33-1
