Dixie work lags behind

BY TRACY KING Clarkston News Staff Writer

There's good news and bad news for motorists and businesses inconvenienced by the heavy construction on Dixie Highway this summer.

The good news is that completion of the highway improvement project is in sight. The bad news is that the end may come a bit later than scheduled, according to state highway officials.

The portion of Dixie Highway between the K-Mart store and Maybee Road is scheduled to be finished on Nov. 15. On that date the full width of the highway should be open to motorists, but the finishing touches will not be finished.

"There won't be barrels and barricades -- we don't want those there in the winter," Sage said. "It will be open to full width, but things like pavement markers won't be added until the whole project is complete."

The whole project, meaning all of Dixie Highway from Telegraph Road to M-15, will be fully completed by (See DIXIE, next page)

Early deadlines

The Clarkston News office will be closed on Labor Day, Monday, Sept. 4, so early deadlines are in place for the Sept. 6 paper.

For display advertising, the deadline is 4:30 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 31. For classified ads and letters to the editor, the deadline is noon Friday, Sept. 1.

Auburn megamall impact

Area merchants 'not worried'

BY BONNIE WATTLEWORTH Clarkston News Special Writer

While construction plans for a $200 to $300 million megamall at Baldwin Road and I-75 in Auburn Hills recently got a second approval, several local merchants said they weren't worried about competition from Auburn Mills.

"We're really a service to the community," said Joan Kopietz, an owner of Tierra Arts and Designs on South Main Street, Clarkston. "People are not going to drive to the mall when they can get the same service here for a comparable price."

Kopietz said it's difficult to guess the mall's impact because it depends on how the finished mall turns out.

"It depends on what the mix is, how quickly it's built, how well they do it," she said. "But at this point, I'm not really worried about it."

David McNeven, owner of Coach's Corner on South Main Street, Clarkston, said the mall will affect his business less than it will affect larger sporting goods stores such as Dunham's.

stores such as Dunham's.

"I think when you're smaller, it's easier to find your niche and go after your niche as much as you can," he said. "That's what I've been doing, so I'm not going to worry."

He said he doesn't think local, service-oriented businesses have to worry about the competition.

"The more specialized you are, the more service you offer, the less worried you are," he said. "My business is geared toward service, and that's why people come to me."

McNeven said he thinks area customers also will continue to shop at his store because of loyalty.

"There is a certain amount of loyalty to a small-town business," he said. "I hope that will continue."

Sandie Bruce, owner of Country Cords at Ritters Country Square on Dixie Highway, Independence Township, agreed that personal service will keep customers coming to her store despite new competition.

"The thing we really have going for us is we can offer more personal service," she said. "People don't get personal service at big malls. We have to offer them things the malls can't."

But Bruce said she thinks the mall will hurt her

Dixie construction falls slightly off schedule

Aug. 30, 1990, Sage predicted.

In the meantime, motorists will see a change in the construction pattern this week. Traffic will be switched to the new portion of Dixie Highway by Aug. 30, Sage said, and the work will appear to move along much more quickly.

A water main system, requested by Independence Township, was installed on the side under construction; with that project complete, work on the other side will move much faster, Sage said.

The Dixie Highway improvement project is three phases. The first phase, a 2.7-mile-stretch from Telegraph Road to Hatchery Road in Waterford Township has been finished, as has the 2.6-mile-portion of Dixie Highway from M-15 to I-75, Independence Township. Thethird phase affects a 3.6-mile-stretch from Hatchery Road to M-15, which is the portion under construction now.

The Michigan Department of Transportation is in charge of the $14-million-project.

Each separate phase was contracted out to companies bidding for the project. Work on the current phase is being done by T. A. Forsberg, Inc.

"Î'd like to say with the traffic and everything else involved, they're doing a satisfactory job," Sage said.

Time to talk with state senator's aide

Gayle Murphy, an aide to Sen. Rick Fessler, will be at the Independence Township Hall, 90 N. Main St., Clarkston, Thursday, Sept. 7, at 10:30 a.m.

Constituents of the 17th Senate District will be able to meet Murphy and discuss issues with her. Murphy's visit to the township is part of a continuing monthly program.

Motorists, and their ability to endure the construction, haven't done as well.

"Sitting in traffic for 20 minutes on a hot day, motorists have a short attention span," Sage admitted.
"But, hey, they've got to live with it for awhile," he added.__

Several businesses have also been inconvenienced. In some cases, the highway department has installed signs to lessen the effect of the construction on their operations.

In the case of Empire Szechuan Garden on Dixie Highway, a concrete wall was erected which blocked the restaurant's entrance and exit. The highway department installed a sign to alert customers that access was still possible.

On the other side of the highway, a sign was put up to alert motorists of a temporary entrance in the Waterford Hill area. Another sign will be put up to alert motorists to the entrance of Ottawa Park Cemetery.

Sage said motorists and businesses usually become more patient when they see the results.

"During the first job, motorists were upset. But then they found out what it looks like when it's done," Sage said.

Corrections

In a What's New in Business story appearing last week, Douglas and Margaret Carrs' names were misspelled.

In the Aug. 23 issue of The Clarkston News, Tom Untener, product manager for Mortgage Specialists, Inc., on Main Street, Clarkston, discussed the length of time it took to obtain a mortgage with the company.

After a client spends 30-45 minutes with a company representative and gives all the necessary information, an immediate credit report can be obtained, he said.

His quote following this information should have read: "Two to three weeks later, they'll have their mortgage."

Conservancy protects township land

BY TRACY KING Clarkston News Staff Writer

The lush, rural beauty of Independence Township has become a prime target for developers, scrambling to gobble up attractive property while it lasts.

Although a lot of township property has begun to blossom as a result, hundreds of acres will remain pristine forever.

Residents threaten court action in M-15 rezoning

BY TRACY KING Clarkston News Staff Writer

A plan to rezone three parcels on M-15 from commercial to office got a stamp of approval from the township planning commission Aug. 24, although some residents threatened to sue if the rezoning is approved.

The rezoning now goes to the Independence Township Board, which has the final say in rezonings.

The vote to recommend rezoning on the first parcel, a 1.74-acre piece, was approved by a 3-2 vote. Voting yes were Joseph Figa, Jo Fussman and Daniel Travis. Voting no were Bruce Mercado and Steve Secatch. Chairperson Brent Bair and Richard Oppmann, were absent.

Rezoning for both the second and third parcels were approved with votes of 4-1. Voting yes were Joseph Figa, Jo Fussman, Steve Secatch and Daniel Travis. Bruce go all the way to Clarkston to shop," she said. Bruce said her business faced similar competition with the construction of Oakland Pointe on Telegraph Road, Pontiac, which has several discount stores.

We had to run more sales," Bruce said. "It was a much more competitive market."

10 AM - 6 PM SATURDAY

10 AM - 5 PM

Independence Township Chamber of Commerce President Brenda Orlando said it will be difficult to discern the mall's impact from the impact of area business growth.

"A lot will be happening at the same time," she said. "Many people are moving out to the area, and there is a lot of expansion along I-75.

Orlando said she thinks the expansion will create more of a retail base in the Clarkston area.

There will be more to choose from, people will shop locally, more will come to the area," she said. "People won't have to drive to Flint or Troy or similar locations."

Mercado voted no.

The about 20 residents who attended the public hearing were mixed in their support of the rezoning. Those against the move argued that they had purchased the land as commercial and that changing the zoning would devalue the property.

Township Planner Richard Carlisle explained that the rezoning was sought to bring the parcels into compliance with the township master plan. The master plan was drafted in 1984 as a blueprint of growth for the area.

The commercial parcels back up to residential properry, which is not a good transition, Carlisle explained.

The commercial lots are close to two township lakes, and changing the zoning could reduce traffic on M-15, he added.

At least one resident agreed.

"I'm in favor of the rezoning," said Charlie Weaver of Green Haven Drive. "All the houses around (Little Walters Lake), with the possible exception of two or three at the north end, all view towards the parcels you are talking about.

The zoning is of critical importance to those of us who have invested in homes there."

But other residents argued that the reasons for rezoning weren't good enough.

Gary Stonerock, owner of an aerial surveillance company on one of the parcels, told planners that traffic was not their function, rather that zoning was a function of land. He also questioned whether a major interchange warranted office use.

"Every interchange off of I-75 has this type of (commercial) use," Stonerock said. "At a major interchange, the courts would say this (office use) is a very unreasonable use of land.'

The owners of another parcel threatened to let the court decide whether the parcel should be rezoned.

Attorney David Black, representing Lance Baylis and Physician Robert Baron, owners of the parcel, told the commission his clients were prepared to contest the matter in court.

The difference in (zoning) restricts what the own-

Baron told the commission that the traffic came from the subdivisions rather than the three parcels in

"Traffic is not going to be influenced one iota by (rezoning)," Baron said. "The property was zoned C-3 (highway commercial) before you even moved in," he said, gesturing to subdivision residents. "It was zoned that way before there even was a subdivision."

'Independence Township is saturated with office space," said Ozzie Jackson of Grange Hall Road, Ortonville. "I've tried for a year to get potential tenants for an

In describing his decision to vote against the rezoning, Mercado echoed those concerns.

"Township office space is abundantly empty," Mercado said. "I've said all along that after reviewing these lots, they are of adequate size and location to to make much difference," Mercado added.

In his comments, Travis referred to a judge's long-standing decision to create office space on the corner. The property had been contested by subdivision residents, and a judge had granted the land office by judicial decree several years ago.

"Regarding office at the interchange of I-75, why not be leaders and deintensify the usage at the interchange?" Travis said. "Right over the hill will be all the services that anyone might need."

"The parcels are close to two lakes, Cranberry Lake and Little Walters Lake," said Secatch. "We should have a real concern for those lakes.

-"I don't think commercial should back up to residential areas," he added.

Secatch said he wanted information on what the previous master plan designated for the first parcel before he approved the rezoning.

The Stranger

Julie Campe

The best advice in my entire kindergarten career came from my best friend, Cindy Criger.

In 1968, an Oakland County Sheriff's Deputy spoke to my kindergarten class at North Sashabaw Elementary School about Strangers.

He showed cartoon-type drawings of a mean man wearing a hat and jacket, and he told us how to recognize a Stranger and what to do if one tried to get

I swore to keep an eye out for that sort and to never fall prey to one.

One day, I told Cindy how hard it was to wait for the school bus at the end of our long, long driveways on the gravel part of Waldon Road.

"What if a Stranger came?" I said.

Cindy, who was two years older and much wiser, said she knew just what I meant.

"When I was in kindergarten, I used to wait behind that big tree," she said, pointing to an oak that grew between our driveways.

"I'd stay there until I heard the bus come, and that way no Strangers ever got me," she said, adding that when she became a first grader, it was no longer a problem because her brother, Steve, waited for the bus with her.

I decided to take Cindy's advice.

So day after day, I trekked down the long, long driveway and took my place behind the fat tree trunk. I didn't come out until I heard the bus.

Sometimes, I peeked around the tree when I heard other vehicles, just to make sure it wasn't the bus. But it never was. Nothing made the tired but steady rumbling sound of Bus 65.

One day toward the end of my kindergarten career, I heard the bus (by now I could recognize the sound before the bus even topped the hill), and I confidently ran from the tree to the end of the drive-

But just as I reached the spot, a car pulled up and stopped. The driver -- a man wearing a hat and jacket -- looked right at me.

I stopped dead in my tracks and started to back

The man motioned for me to come toward him. I was petrified. It was just as the deputy had said. It was a Stranger.

I started to run backward, but the man opened his car door and started to say something.

I turned around and ran for my life toward the house. If he was any kind of a runner, I knew he would Just then, I heard someone call my name. I looked back just as the bus was pulling into

"It's OK," the bus driver called out her window.

The man had stopped because he saw the flashing lights on the bus, she said.

Cautiously, I made my way to the bus, carefully making a wide circle around the Stranger's car. If he made one false move; I was ready to run.

But he only closed his car door and smiled at me. I did not smile back.

Landfill should be privately owned

Suppose you had just been informed that a landfill is going to be placed in your community. "Well," you might think, "they have to go somewhere."

Then you find out this landfill is owned by and will service all of the county in which you reside. "Gee," you begin to question," shouldn't it be in a location more centrally located for economical transportation?'

Now you find out a lot more: it's going to receive trash from a county incinerator; it's going to occupy 400 to 600 acres of land; your garbage pickup fees will increase probably four times to pay for it; and it is designed to operate for the next 50 years.

Now you are asking, "Why should any one community have a 50-year mega landfill imposed on them?" I, too, am asking, "Why?"

I question the wisdom of county government owning its own incinerator, waste reprocessing center, landfill and compost sites and that they can sell bonds to pay for this $ billion project without a vote of the taxpayers who will ultimately pay for it with higher tipping fees.

Oakland County should be a leader in championing the newest technology in waste disposal and reprocessing. Instead, we have spent millions in consulting and engineering fees for 20-year-old technology.

We should be encouraging private industry to develop this and operate our waste disposal and reprocessing facilities because they will do it more efficiently and more economically.

Currently, there is a company that is converting waste into synthetic coal. There is another company who will take an existing landfill site, clean it up and open it under new standards without any cost to the taxpayer.

If you have similar concerns, I would like to hear from you. Please contact me with questions or concerns at 693-0775.

I recognize that it would be most upsetting to feel such a threat to one's security, and I am not condoning his behavior. However, I can see no purpose served by printing such information other than giving some irate neighbors an outlet for this anger and fear.

Is causing such damage to his reputation and pain to his family going to solve the problem?

Before we are so quick to get up in arms and plaster someone's name across the paper in such a damaging way, let's stop and think about our motivation and the hurt we are causing.

Surely there have been instances of many other young people in Clarkston getting into serious trouble, but I haven't seen articles in the paper broadcasting it to the whole town.

In my opinion, a great disservice has been done to the Harken family. I hope that those who sincerely care about seeing Steve and other troubled young people get help would act with the same consideration they'd want shown were it someone in their own family. These families need our support, not our wagging tongues and pointing fingers.

child abuse

When the woman having the garage sale said what she said, my mind said, "Uh-oh, I probably shouldn't do this." But I bought the footstool anyway. I justified my action by telling myself I was fighting child abuse.

The transaction was accomplished by phone and I haven't yet seen the footstool. But it was described to me, and I was surprised at what I heard. Modern footstools apparently fall into the ever-growing category of things I'm too old to know about.

What I mean is that, since my children have grown up and moved away and spawned their own children, I've lost daily contact with a lot of strange stuff. I am surprised when my wife drags me to a shopping mall and I see young men wearing shirts that don't come near to reaching their pants, and I'm told that they dress like that on purpose. If they were forced to wear shirts several sizes too small, they would complain to the government.

When did young women start coloring their hair purple and having it styled to resemble a hedge trimmed by a very drunken blind person? I don't know about these

I don't know when furniture manufacturers began putting pink tennis shoes on the feet of footstools. And pink, grey and blue knee socks. I swear that is the description of the footstool that my granddaughter Emily fell in love with when she saw it for sale at a neighbor's garage

Emily ran home and told her mother the footstool cost only $5 so Mom gave her a $20 bill and said bring back the change. The change turned out to be only $5 and a closer examination revealed that the price tag is $15. Too much. Emily had to return the footstool and get her money

It was an unhappy experience for a 7-year-old. Emily cried a little when she returned the $20 to her mother. And her mother cried a little. And after my wife heard this sad little story during the daily 90-minute phone call, she made the mistake of telling it to me, the great investigative

In no time I uncovered the identity and phone number of the garage sale proprietor. When I phoned, the woman was kind enough not to laugh at the goofy grandfather buying a dumb footstool from 65 miles away. She said her first inclination had been to let Emily have the stool for $5, but decided maybe that wouldn't be the right thing to do. Maybe Emily's mother was teaching her daughter an economic lesson of life. Of course, that's exactly what Emily's mother was doing - teaching the child she can't have everything she wants, especially when it costs $15 instead of $5. And along comes big-shot Grandpa to screw up the lesson.

I didn't care. Before my $15 was in the mail, the nice neighbor had put a ribbon and card on the footstool and delivered it to Emily. It was later reported to me that Emily's surprise and joy were unbounded, and I was thanked for my generosity, if not my wisdom.

It should be admitted that such gifts often measure the selfishness, not the generosity, of the giver. The footstool made Emily feel good for a day or so. But 10 years from now, and every day in between, I can make myself feel good just by thinking of the look on Emily's face got the precious footstool she thought she'd lost.

Besides, spoiling a child must be the opposite of abusing a child, and there are times when my urge to spoil is uncontrollable. The day before the footstool incident, there was a phone call from a longtime foster mother with a fearful story. She said a "lazy" Social Services caseworker and a "boozer" judge had separated her from a 5-year-old foster child after almost five years because she'd allegedly become "too close" to the child. She said the little girl was put with grandparents where she would be abused by her father. She said a caseworker previously assigned to the case would confirm her accusations. She said she made similar protests about the placement of another child but was ignored - and the child subsequently died because of parental neglect. When I asked her name, she hung up. I don't know if there is any truth to her story. I worry about it, and wish she'd call back. What I really wish is that all little children had goofy grandpas who gave them footstools wearing pink tennis shoes and pink, grey and blue knee socks.

Au revoir

I am about to leave on the trip of a lifetime. My chief traveling companion and I are touring throughout Europe for two months, beginning this week.

We don't have any set itinerary or any business to attend to; the only plan is to "eat steak for breakfast and eggs for dinner," as my companion says. I plan to learn and write while eating my eggs, but in general, I have approved the basic ag

Our targets include Paris, Brussels, Amsterdam, German wine country, Oktoberfest in Munich, Vienna, Austria, Swiss Alps, almost all of Italy, the French Riviera, a long trip through vineyards in France, London, the English countryside and Paris, again. Sort of, in that order:

We are able to go because my companion has been granted a sabbatical, because my editor is understanding, because we don't yet have children, and for a million other perfect reasons.

Yet hard as I try, nobody believes the hardship I'm enduring. I have never been to Europe, nor do I know foreign languages. I can't help but worry about the little things, like shelter. If I were to plop down in the middle of, say, Clarkston, would I ever get to a place to sleep, much less identify such a place? All I can really count on is that no one will understand my questions, and I won't understand their answers.

And what about the happy home I leave behind? It's taken me two years to figure out my cat. Who will tinker with my temperamental plants and feed both tanks of fish?

Will my friends recognize me when I get back? Friendships need care. I can't follow their romantic plotting on a weekly basis, much less a bi-monthly one.

And my work. These township stories don't just begin and end on the date they're written. There are past histories to consider, relationships to develop and meetings to attend. It could take me another two months to catch up with what I missed. What about packing? Passports? Insurance and bills?

I try to talk it over with those all around me. "This is not fun," I protest, whenever I can.

They have the same reaction, each and every time. The blank stare. The eyes rolling backwards. The hand clapped to the brow. "I'm so burdened!" I shout to their retreating

After all of this, I need a vacation. Two months. In Europe.

Au Revoir.

Humbleness is a Christian virtue

After reading the admirable deeds that were ministered to a very fine lady in the person of Mrs. Rebecca Nelson, who resides in the Rose Center area:

It was heartening to know that we still have young people who are involved in such positive activities, such the as of roofing her home, such as the cleaning of her home, the discarding of her unwanted articles, the repairing of her plumbing, the trip to a beautician and the shopping trip for a broom and dust pan.

While these deeds are noteworthy, and I'm sure appreciated by Mrs. Nelson, it gives one pause for thought and reflection as to why they are so clearly spelled out.

Being a former choir member of Mrs. Nelson's, I have always found her to be a private person and quite concerned that her privacy would be violated.

I must admonish the young people who performed these tasks, along with their leader, that a person's self worth and self esteem and privacy must be protected at all costs.

I read also that the organization that you work for is church connected. I'm sure that, as young Christians, you have been taught the virtues of humbleness.

I'm also sure that these tasks were done for the glorification of Christ. To lift Him up and let Him shine through you. In order to attain the aforementioned, one has to efface self.

Knowing Mrs. Nelson to be a quiet, humble person -- and I must mention again, a private person -- she hasn't mentioned anything about herself.

Young people, Mrs. Nelson sells herself short when she doesn't mention the fact that she is one of the most talented persons imaginable. Not only does she have a lonely singing voice, but her culinary arts are a work of art. Her table settings are also a work of art.

I feel compelled to write this because Mrs. Nelson would never "toot her own horn," so to speak.

So I'm doing it for her. We at Faith Baptist Church love Mrs. Nelson dearly and wish her well, and, because of this love, we could not sit idly by and not make the young people who are working for her know that there is much to be learned from this culinary giant housed in such a warm, petite, humble lady.

Because of this humbleness, she will be continuously blessed.

The Pharisees and the Sadducees in days gone by would pray and do other tasks publicly and know there is no blessing in public benevolence.

So young people future, humbleness and tasks performed for God's glory are more favorable in God's sight.

Thanks to merchants

I would like to publicly thank the merchants in Clarkston who so overwhelmingly supported our request for food for the volunteer workers on the Clinton River Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 12 and 13.

Although the turnout of volunteers was not what we had hoped for at the Yates Cider Mill Workstation, the work accomplished was great.

Six major logjams were removed, numerous tires and accumulated trash were also taken out.

The Clinton River is much cleaner because of all our efforts.

Thanks again Clarkston merchants!

Clarkston pays more for sports

A rather short, informational article appeared in the weekend edition of the Oakland Press (Aug. 12-13), which stated that Pontiac School District was charging $50 per sport and Lake Orion Schools will charge $75 per sport in their pay-for-play programs.

Clarkston High School students are paying $164 per sport -- that's quite a discrepancy. Why are Clarkston students paying well over twice the amount per sport, and what does that $164 exactly pay for?

Storm repairs continue at four area schools

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN Clarkston News Staff Writer

School began in Clarkston this week despite construction projects still in progress at four schools. Rain storms during July and August caused some of the damage.

While roof repairs were in progress at Clarkston High School, Clarkston Elementary and the administration offices, the buildings suffered water damage from

Driver, 20, stable after Aug. 26 accident

An Independence Township man was injured in an accident Saturday, Aug. 26, at the entrance to Clintonwood Park, Clarkston Road, Independence Township.

Lindsey Dean Vanderkolk, 20, of Andersonville Road was driving west on Clarkston Road when he failed to make the curve at the park's entrance, according to a report at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Vanderkolk was not wearing a seat belt when the accident occurred; he was taken to Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital where he was listed in stable condition Aug. 28.

Police found no skid marks on the pavement, though tire marks were on the grass, the report said.

A small bag of marijuana was found in the vehicle, according to the report.

Vanderkolk was charged with failure to use due care and caution while driving.

storms on Aug. 22. The Clarkston Junior High gymnasium floor was damaged in a storm in July.

At CHS, the floor and some machines in the machine shop area were damaged by water.

Machine shop students will be placed in a classroom until the damage is assessed, said Assistant Superintendent Mel Vaara.

Damaged carpeting in Clarkston Elementary's kindergarten room should be replaced by next week, said Vaara, adding that ceiling tiles at the administrative offices also suffered water damage.

Vaara said no estimated dollar amounts of the damage were available as of Aug. 29.

Roofing projects are to be completed by the end of September, except for CJHS, which requires roofing bids to repair the roof over the gym.

Also in progress is the renovation of Kirchgessner Theatre at Clarkston High School. Theater use is delayed because the fabric for the seats is back ordered. It's scheduled to be open by mid-November.

A handicapped chair lift near the gym area at CHS is scheduled for Sept. 4 completion.

Reporter's Notebook

Clarkston teens are getting a bad name in some parts of town.

Some members of the Clarkston High School football team were pictured on the front page of the Aug. 16 edition of The Clarkston News. That same issue sold out all over town. But in news boxes, all the papers were missing, although not much money had been deposited in the boxes.

The News delivery person -- a former CHS football player himself -- theorized that football players or their friends may have taken some papers without paying for "It was a good idea" to put the picture on the front page, he said, but the paper lost money on the deal.

With a little help from above, the weather cooperated for an outdoor concert Sunday, Aug. 27, in Clarkston's Depot Park, but that didn't surprise anybody at the Community Praise Festival.

"You'd think 10 churches could ensure good weather," said the Rev. William Schram of Sashabaw United Presbyterian Church.

The festival was organized by Schram and the Rev. Kurt Gebhard of North Oaks Community Church. The evening featured choirs plus vocal and instrumental soloists from Clarkston area churches -- as well as parkful of listeners who also chimed in during group singing.

Items for Reporter's Notebook are compiled by Clarkston News staff members.

-Fire guts White Lake industrial building

A fire at Clarkston Metallurgy on White Lake Road, Independence Township, gutted a rear office addition Aug. 26, said a fire department official.

"We're unsure how it began," said Independence Township Fire Chief Gar Wilson. "We believe it started when oil in a certain machine overheated."

The fire broke out around 5:30 p.m. and spread from the overheated machine to the rear office, Wilson said.

The blaze was reported by a passerby who called the police. No one was in the building at the time of the fire.

According to Capt. Mike Fahrner, the damage to the building is estimated at $5,000; however, the contents of the building suffered major smoke damage. Computers, printers and copy machines plus industrial equipment were ruined.

14-year-old hurt in Clintonville roll-over

An Independence Township teen was injured in a roll-over accident on Clintonville Road Sunday, Aug. 27.
Brett W. Martin, 14, of Waldon Road was a passenger in a car driven by his brother, Brian, age 16.

The two were traveling along Clintonville Road near the Waldon Road intersection about 11 a.m. when the accident happened.

YOUR/

Witnesses told police the car drove onto the right shoulder; the car then apparently went out of control, crossed the roadway, went into a ditch and flipped over, according to a report at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Neither of the two boys were wearing seat belts at the time of the crash. Brett was taken to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Pontiac, where he was treated and released. Brian was not seriously injured.

Time Out

Hard to believe

Peter Auchter

Don't look now, but somebody actually believes enough in the Detroit Lions to pick them to oppose the Kansas City Chiefs in the Super Bowl early next year.

No joke, some football publication is actually taking a poke in the dark about this one. It has to be a wild guess; neither team has shown much in recent years. Don't bet the house on this one.

While scanning the shelves of magazines at a major bookstore while in the Washington, D.C., area last weekend, I noticed the newspaper-like tabloid with this huge screaming headline of a bold prediction. (Stupid actually:)

Why must magazines pick teams like the Lions and Chiefs for the Super Bowl? Is it to tease the fans of these downtrodden clubs? If so, it's not very funny very funny.

Sure, some saps (me not included this time) will shell out the bucks to buy the publication to see what some so-called expert thinks is so great about their favorite team.

The next step is actually believing the stuff written no matter how silly it may seem. (That happens to a lot of people, it's called the "power of the pen." Ask Mayor Coleman A. Young about it, I think he's some kind of expert on the issue.) Once that happens, the poor guys and gals in fanland are set up for a big fall when the regular season begins.

Hello, losing streak.

While the down-and-out teams may win a few here and there, the Super Bowl dreams go down the drain rather quickly. The Lions and Chiefs will be fortunate to win division titles in 1989.

The battle to get to the Super Bowl is great, so great that many teams will never make it to the promised land. That's what makes the championship game interesting, it means something when you finally make it. It's better than the World Series, Stanley Cup and NBA playoffs all rolled into one

The Raiders, Cowboys, Dolphins, Steelers, Packers, Vikings, 49ers, Redskins and Broncos all have made multiple visits to the Super Bowl. Others, most notably, the Lions have not. I don't expect things to change much even if Barry Sanders turns out as good as Billy Sims. (If he ever decides to show at all.)

Yes, the Lions have a mystique about them, but it's one of futility. We will have good seasons in Detroit (anything above .500 will do), but I doubt we'll have great seasons. Winning the Super Bowl would ruin all the fun we have reminiscing about the good old days of the 1950s.

We'll leave the winning for the other franchises in the NFL. After all, it's not the kill that's best, it's the thrill of the chase.

Smith's wins again

BY PETER AUCHTER Clarkston News Staff Writer

Family means a lot to the players for the Smith's Disposal softball team.

So much, in fact, that the team elected to turn down an invitation in the national 35-and-over masters tournament in St. Cloud, Minn., during the Labor Day holiday and spend time with family instead.

Many of the players currently on the roster have played softball at Clintonwood Park in Independence Township since it opened. They also socialize off the field as well as on

"We are a family oriented team," said Manager Ken Smith. "We do a lot together."

One thing they have been doing lately is winning softball games. Smith's Disposal won all 12 of its regular season games in the Omega Major league to win its fourth straight championship. During that time, the team won 46, while losing 17 (.730 winning percentage).

The team also finished third in the Metro Detroit Amateur Softball Association (ASA) State Masters 35-and-over tournament in Milford. Individually, pitcher Bob Morris was selected to the All-Star team and shortstop Tom Allen and outfielder Grant St. Armour made the honorable mention list.

Even with their success during the past few years, the team's competitive juices keep flowing.

"Our goal is to win the states," said coach Jim

And it's the players who make the difference for Smith's Disposal. Large turnouts, 13 to 14 players per game at least, go a long way in helping Smith's win as regularly as they do, the coach said.

"A majority of the time we have more players out (than opponents)," Wilson said. "And it's the same 13 to 14 guys out every week. The guys come off the bench and do the job."

The team's leading hitters are Fife (.833 batting average), St. Armour (.762) and Sparkman (.656).

Independence resident reaches semifinals in sports contest

BY PETER AUCHTER Clarkston News Staff Writer

While plans for college are premature, one eighthgrade student at Clarkston Junior High is already working toward paying for it.

On a whim, Lisa Goforth entered a contest for 'Teen Magazine's Sportsgirl of the Year program when she read an advertisement in the publication earlier this summer. What began as fun could prove to be good business when it comes time to leave for college.

Grand prize is a $10,000 college scholarship. The second-place winner earns a $3,000 college scholarship. In July, the Simler Drive, Independence Township,

"I was surprised. I entered just for the heck of it. I never thought I had a chance."

Lisa Goforth

resident reached the regional semifinalist stage. The contest winners won't be announced until January, 1990.
"I was surprised," she said. "I entered just for the heck of it. I never thought I had a chance."

Throughout the year, Lisa remains busy improving on her qualities that qualified for the contest -- her athletic ability.

She is active in softball, basketball and volleyball and recently competed on the Evans Realty softball team in the Independence Parks and Recreation sponsored summer league. The shortstop-thirdbaseman-pitcher earned the Most Athletic Ability award from the coach.

In its first year, Teen's Sportsgirl of the Year program is searching for outstanding all-around athletes -- girls who have excellent skills in sports and demonstrate leadership and good sportsmanship.

To enter, Lisa sent a headshot photo plus information detailing her athletic involvement (sports involved in, awards won, leadership roles). From this information, plus additional photographs that were requested, 'Teen's judges will decide the winners.

Lisa is eligible to be one of the 24 finalists nationwide that will appear in the November issue of the magazine. From there, the field is narrowed to 12 super finalists who will appear in the December issue. Nearly 10,000 entries were received for the contest.

LISA GOFORTH plays softball, volleyball and basketball but prefers softball the best because of its competitive nature.

Football team should bounce back in '89

BY PETER AUCHTER Clarkston News Staff Writer

Ready or not, the 1989 prep football season begins Friday for Clarkston High School.

With multiple returning starters on both offense and defense, the Wolves should post a better record than last season's 2-7 nightmare.

Last season, Grand Blanc's second-half rally began a trend that sent Clarkston reeling to its worst record in the 1980s. Once again, the Bobcats are the opening opponents on the Wolves' schedule.

"I'm looking forward to (the start of the season)," said Coach Kurt Richardson. "We have worked hard all winter. This is one of the best, if not the best, group of people we have had here. The kids are hungry and ready

While they have excelled on the practice field, it remains to be seen what they can accomplish on Friday nights this fall, the coach added.

About a half dozen starters return for the offensive and defensive squads.

On offense, a battle for the starting quarterback slot is heading into the home stretch. As of Monday afternoon, senior Dane Davis and sophomore Dugan Fife were still in the running for the top spot.

"The quarterback battle is dead even at this point," the coach said. "Either one is capable of doing the job."

No matter who winds up as the field general, he will have two experienced running backs in fullback John King and halfback Brett Kinzler to rely on. Center Joe Webb and tight end Wally Wyniemko also should do well remains a question mark heading into the season opener, the coach said.

On defense, Richardson expects better results than a year ago. Cornerback Kevin Keilitz, Dave Tinkus and Terry Schimke should lead the way.

Clarkston claimed the Greater Oakland Activities League title in 1986 and '87 but fell to 2-5 in division play a year ago with wins against Brandon and Waterford Mott. No longer are the Wolves considered top dog in the

"The league may be as balanced as ever," Richardson said. "Orion (defending champions) has to be the favorite, but that doesn't mean anything at this point."

Some new faces in new places for varsity girls tennis team

BY PETER AUCHTER Clarkston News Staff Writer

Although the girls tennis team has seven returning athletes, Coach Dick Swartout isn't sitting pretty in the race for the GOAL crown.

While the girls have playing experience, most will be at new positions filling in the holes left by graduation. The Wolves will have a tough time catching Greater Oakland Activities League leaders Lake Orion and Waterford Mott.

"Lake Orion will be the overwhelming favorite (with 35 girls out for the team), and Mott has all its players back," said Swartout, predicting another thirdplace finish for his team.

The tennis team finished third last season, thanks to a strong showing in the league meet in which graduated senior Katie Rieman won a singles title.

Sophomore Caroline Allison, an All-GOAL selection a year ago, heads the list of returning athletes.

Others returning are Debbie Bellows, Nancy Carosella, Heather Shaw, Kathy Krier, Claire Hulleza and Jenny Brown.

The new faces on the squad belong to Jessica Miller, Katie Morris, Stephanie Gay, Tracy Ortwine, Susan McNally, Melissa Dey, Kim Carpentier, Becky Rumpf and Shona Davenport.

Nine of the 16 on the team are sophomores. Six are seniors, and one is a freshman.

Clarkston opens the season with an away match against Brandon a week from Friday. The schedule is the same from a year ago when the Wolves posted a 5-5 dual meet record.

Village considers leaf burning ban

For years, the Clarkston Village Council has pondered banning leaf burning. But no one had a feasible alternative for removal.

Not until Clarkston Disposal owner Rick Detkowski offered to pick up leaves three weekends in late fall for $10 per household and compost them did the village council seriously consider banning burning this fall.

Before accepting Detkowski's offer, the village council checked with Smith's Disposal to see if they wished to bid on the project. When Smith's verbal bid came in, it was $2 per household for three fall pick ups.

The bid placed the village council's plans on hold. Under advisement from the village attorney, the council will ask for written bids from both companies before the next council meeting. Also, both will be invited to speak on behalf of their company at the meeting to settle the issue

After working on the alternative, the council set its sights on banning the burning of leaves in the village.

Trustee Douglas Roeser had problems with the original draft of a proposed ordinance that would ban burning since it included brush and wood burning.

"I think there is a big distinction between leaf burning and brush burning," he said. "It would take forever to collect brush from a large lot. (Approving the ordinance as it stands) is an awfully big step to take without a public hearing."

Comments from village residents would be welcomed at the next meeting, Roeser said.

Safety paths get facelift

With only one bid to consider, the Clarkston Village Council unanimously approved resurfacing work for the village's safety paths.

Allied Construction was the only company who bid on the project. By a 6-0 vote, the council approved spending $7,292 to resurface 1,756 feet (eight-foot width) of safety paths during its Aug. 28 meeting. The council had earmarked about $10,000 of Tri-Party money for the project.

Tri-Party projects are paid for by the village, Oakland County Road Commission and Oakland County.

Vintage car collector wins at Concours d'Elegance

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN Clarkston News Staff Writer

Blaine Jenkins of Independence Township has been in love with cars for as long as he can remember, and his time-honored love has helped him win trophies.

Jenkins' passion for the automobile led him into collecting. He now has seven autos that range in model years from 1947-75.

"Every one I have is one I loved as a kid," Jenkins

"I had cut-out pictures of cars pasted all over my walls, and when I ran out of room, I pasted them on the ceiling."

said in a phone interview.

With his 1948 Buick Estate Station Wagon, he recently placed first in the Post-War Convertible and Luxury Closed American category at the Meadowbrook Concours d'Elegance.

The Concours d'Elegance, which is by invitation only, has been held for the last 11 years to benefit

"With my first wife, I had saved up enough money to buy a washer and dryer, but when I went out to purchase them, instead I came home with a Cadillac I had my eye on."

"With my first wife, I had saved up enough money to buy a washer and dryer in 1959, but when I went out to purchase them, instead I came home with a 1955 Cadillac I had my eye on," Jenkins said.

Presently, Jenkins is not married -- except to his love of automobiles.

BLAINE JENKINS restores his automobiles as close to the original state as possible. This 1948 woody won a trophy at Meadowbrook Concours d'Elegance in early August.

Meadowbrook Hall in Rochester. About 200 vintage cars were entered in the auto exhibit this year.

Jenkins said his family always thought he would outgrow his fascination for cars, but it has stuck with him.

"I had cut-out pictures of cars pasted all over my walls, and when I ran out of room, I pasted them on the ceiling," he said. "My father put up wallboard to cover over them."

Jenkins has remained closely involved with automobiles most of his working career. He's been part of the design staff at General Motors Corp. for almost 33 years.

He didn't start collecting cars until 1976, when a friend of the family left him a 1954 Buick Super convertible in her will.

Jenkins purchased the trophy-winning 1948 Buick station wagon in restored condition but said he wasn't satisfied with what the previous owner had done.

"I had to re-paint it and re-chrome it and paint the engine compartment before the show," he said, adding that it took him about one month to prepare for the show.

Jenkins said some of the cars have taken a long time to restore -- the 1948 Chevy convertible took about two years to complete.

The floor was rusted on the Chevy, and he found a replacement part in Seattle, Wash.

A boat company was shipping across the country, and Jenkins made arrangements for the floor part to be shipped along with the boats.

Jenkins said he orders a lot of the parts for his vintage autos through magazines. Tracking down parts 40 years old is time consuming, and he considers himself the gofer in restoring the autos.

Even flat on his back because of a herniated disk, Jenkins continues to care for his autos.

He said he ordered a generator for his winning Buick station wagon, and a mechanic was coming over to fix it

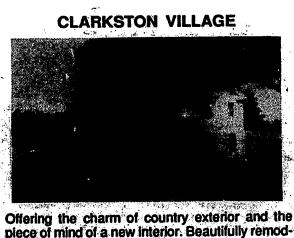

Mechanics and others specialists needed for auto restoration are employed to get the job done. Jenkins said he does what he can, but sometimes the money becomes an issue.

Jenkins admits that his strong passion for autos has affected his personal relationships.

Recognizing Labor Day has origins in the bible

Some historians trace the idea of a day set aside to honor labor all the way back to the Bible, where the 4th Commandment talks about a day of rest after six days of labor.

"On it you shall not do any work, neither you, nor your son or daughter, nor your manservant or maidservant, nor your animals, nor the alien within your gates" (Exodus).

History has recorded that there were times when that commandment was forgotten. The industrial revolution, coupled with heavy immigration to the U.S. in the early part of the century, resulted in factories that ran constantly, used child labor and paid sweat-shop wages.

The modern observance of Labor Day was inspired by those poor working conditions. It is generally believed to have been first suggested by Peter McGuire of New York, president of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America.

In 1882 at a meeting of the New York Central Labor Union, McGuire suggested the idea of an observance to recognize labor's contribution to the nation, just as there were already days set aside for religious, military and other civil observances.

It was to be purely a private affair, and people were asked not to skip work to attend the festivities. Apparently, some didn't listen; records show 10,000 workers paraded in New York on Sept. 5, 1882.

McGuire is said to have chosen that particular day because it fell on the Monday midway between July 4th and Thanksgiving and could generally be expected to have good weather. The event was such a hit it quickly became an annual event.

McGuire was an appropriate person to come up with the idea. He was the 10th child of an Irish-American family and began his working career at the tender age of 11 when his father went off to fight in the Civil War—the lad went to work at a furniture factory. He became an eloquent speaker and early proponent of the eight-hour work day.

By 1894, Labor Day was being celebrated in 30 states, and President Grover Cleveland made it a holiday for federal employees and the District of Columbia. Now, it is a national holiday observed on the first Monday in September in all 50 states, as well as all U.S. territories and Labor Day is also celebrated at different times in Australia, New Zealand, much of Europe and the Soviet Union, where it is called May Day and observed on May 1.

area, they advocate an informed approach to the prob-

According to Alice Gajewski, Crittenton Hospital's Environmental Health and Safety manager, "Classic symptoms associated with Lyme disease include a rash at the site of the bite from a few days to a month after the initial bite; malaise, fatigue, headache, fever, chills, stiff neck, sore joints and sore muscles, lasting several weeks.

The presence of the disease can be quite difficult to prove, however, since diagnostic blood tests are not always positive. Antibiotic treatment is usually effective, especially if Lyme disease is caught in the early stages.

"Ticks should be carefully removed with tweezers or fingers covered with a tissue," Gajewski added. "Matches, chemicals, petroleum jelly and similar materials should not be used to remove the tick."

Some health officials advise storing the tick in a sealed jar for diagnostic purposes in the event that Lyme disease symptoms later occur.

Although Lyme disease has not become a health problem in our community, it's still wise to use a good tick and insect repellent while in the woods. Wearing long pants and shirts with long sleeves also offers additional protection.

Tips to help keep school children safe

With the start of the new school year just around the corner, Consumers Power Co. is alerting parents, teachers and youngsters about the Eyes and Ears program that can help children in emergencies.

Eyes and Ears is aimed at preventing crimes, but it also can be a source of aid for children who run into problems while traveling to or from school, says Ed Doss, region general manager for Consumers Power Metro

The company, along with many law enforcement agencies, local governments, other utilities and businesses, cooperates in the Eyes and Ears program.

If a youngster or even an adult needs help, he or she should look for one of the familiar blue and white Consumers Power vehicles marked with the Eyes and Ears sticker. Most of the vehicles are radio equipped, and employees are trained to request emergency help.

Doss offered some suggestions that children should

You can 'can' light this summer

Home preserved fruits can be safely canned without the traditional heavy sugar syrup and extra sweetness that may hide the natural fruit taste and add unwanted calories, said Sylvia Treitman of the Oakland Cooperative Extension Service.

For all canning, it is essential to follow an up-todate canning guide for correct processing times and methods, such as the 1989 Ball Blue Book. Sugar does help fruit maintain its firmness, but lack of it will not effect the safety of the product as long as it is processed correctly.

To pack fruit in its own juices:

Prepare fruit for canning.

- Cover fruit with small amount of water and cook until boiling hot.
- Pack hot fruit into hot jars. Cover fruit with hot cooking liquid, leaving correct headspace. If needed, add boiling water to cover.
- Adjust lids and process in boiling water bath for recommended time.

Some tips for canning fruit without sugar:

- Pretreat light colored fruits such as peaches or pears with a commercial ascorbic acid mixture.
- If you wish to add artificial sweeteners, do so at serving time. They do not can well.

If you need help with canning questions or other food and nutrition information, call the Food and Nutrition Hotline at 858-0904 Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

ion of Bill Myers

Another victim of merger mania

William A. Myers is a retired Lapeer County editor and investments manager from Boca Raton, Fla.

Recently, Thomson McKinnon, my principal broker for many years, sold out to Prudential-Bache. The last statements under the Thomson McKinnon name came the

The computer had been told to say on each statement, "We are very excited about Prudential-Bache Thomson. The proposed amalgamation of two outstanding firms will enhance our abilities to better serve you . . .'

They were excited, all right. So much so that all statements were printed upside down.

Sylvia Porter has just discovered the use of tax-free bonds for future tuition needs. Up here in Beulah, Mich., we suggested these bonds for college a year ago and wrote about it.

It should have occurred to both of us a long time ago, for zeros have been around a quarter of a century.

We've harped on zeros so many times we shouldn't have to explain once more. but we will: a zero is a bond that doesn't pay interest until maturity, which can be any time from a few months to 30 or 40 years.

Pick your maturity for tuition purposes to match the time the youngster will be going to college. For example, say Tiny Tim has just arrived. In 19 years, he'll be in college.

Here are some zero coupons I bought the other day: Munsing, Mich., school district, zero percent, due May 1, 2011, callable in 2008. Yield about 7 percent, tax-free. Cost 22 cents on the dollar. For $2,200, you'll have $10,000 for tuition or whatever in about 20 years.

No tax to be paid at maturity, or any time in between, should you decide you want to sell them.

If you sell before maturity, you could have a taxable gain or loss, says Sylvia. But not necessarily.

The cost basis when you sell is based on the accreted value. In the case of a 7 percent yield, the cost is adjusted each year for a 7 percent compound increase.

Say you sold after two years. Then the cost would be 22 times 1.07 percent for two years, making your basis about 25.30. If you sold for 25.30, there'd be no loss or gain, and that would be the likely price you'd get.

If you used government zeros, you'd get about 8 percent instead of the 7 percent tax-free, but the annual imputed interest would be taxable. For a child's account, that would be a nuisance.

Sylvia says U.S. Savings Bonds are a "big break" because they are not taxable annually, but only at redemption. But they also yield less than tax-free bonds, so why monkey with them?

You may look askance at the rather low 7 percent rate on tax-free zeros when zero coupon housing bonds frequently are for sale at yields of 10 or 11 percent.

This is no free lunch. The darned things get called frequently in little dibs and dabs.

A friend has some Cook County, Ill., housing zeros, and in the past three years has had four calls. An original holding of 225 bonds has been whittled down to 185. The redemptions in dollars each time have been small because they're such a long original maturity. The call proceeds are such small amounts, they're hard to reinvest.

Florida and Michigan have been the leading states in issuing their own "tuition bonds," but these have several drawbacks. If the child doesn't go to college, then the bonds must be transferred to a close relative, or else you as the parents get back only your original investment. That's a hefty penalty.

Take the example we used earlier. You pay $2,200 for bonds that will be worth $10,000 in 2008. In 2008, Junior doesn't choose to go to college. He has no brothers or sisters to transfer the bonds to. The parents will get their $2,200 back, but in effect, they've lost the difference between $2,200 and $10,000 which they would have been entitled to in 2008.

Better you should run your own tuition program and keep the state bureaucrats out of it. Your investment wil. be liquid and it will also yield you more than it would by cutting in the politicians.

Day honors grandparents

After working for years with the elderly in her native West Virginia, Marian McQuade believed people needed to focus more on the nation's grandparents. In 1973, she set out to establish a day to honor all grandparents.

'I wanted people to think about their grandparents, to realize the value of their families and to go visit them," McQuade said.

McQuade took her idea to West Virginia Gov. Arch A. Moore Jr., and Grandparents Day become an official state holiday in February 1973.

Mcquade continued her quest by calling, writing and visiting other governors. In 1973, the idea was introduced in Congress by former U.S. Sen. Jennings Randolph (D-W.Va.).

On Sept. 6, 1979, President Jimmy Carter declared the first National Grandparents Day. Since then, the first Sunday in September following Labor Day has been set aside to pay special tribute to grandparents.

Q) Why should the dentist fix my child's teeth, won't they be lost when permanent teeth come in?

A) The baby teeth are serving a function in a child's mouth until adolesence. If a tooth is removed before the permanent tooth is ready to erupt, teeth can tip toward the vacant space. There will not be enough space when the permanent tooth is ready to erupt. Teeth will become crowded and crooked. A timely restoration-filling can prevent the pain & devestation of early tooth loss.

Clarkston instructor sings at Detroit Montreux

Danielle Blanchard of Waterford Township came dressed for her newspaper interview wearing a costume jewelry pin on her dress shaped like an electrical cord, complete with a plug on the end.

"I wish I could find one with a small microphone on the end of it," Blanchard said.

As a singer, musician and actor, Planchard has seen

"I got my start like many others -- Aretha Franklin -- in church."

and used a microphone many times.

Blanchard said she started her career as many sing-

"I got my start like many others -- Aretha Franklin

Blanchard served as choral director part time at Sashabaw Junior High for the 1988-89 school, was laidoff and was recalled to Clarkston Schools Aug. 28.

Blanchard said she likes teaching because it is a way to give back what she has received in talent.

"I enjoy working with all age groups, and I like working with the young kids for what they achieve," she said. "I like it when the light bulb goes on, and their face lights up because they realize they're learning.'

Blanchard has taught in other instructional areas, including workshops at Oakland University and a summer camp in Rochester for vocal music, drama and dance. She was a staff teacher at Will-o-Way Apprentice Theatre in Bloomfield Hills.

When Blanchard isn't teaching, she keeps busy with performing. She has done about 600 commercials and performs for weddings and banquets.

Performing with Norman Luboff, John Rutter, and Ward Swingle have been some of the memorable experiences for her. "It was a neat experience to perform with those who have had such an impact on the choral world," said Blanchard, who is in the process of resurrecting her nightclub act.

"I've never been on a regular work schedule," she said. "Even when I worked at Sashabaw Junior High I continued to work at other jobs."

Blanchard taught herself until she entered college at Oakland University, Rochester, where she took her first voice lessons. She earned her undergraduate degree in choral music education and speech communications.

Decorative artist turns her talents toward teaching

BY BONNIE WATTLEWORTH Clarkston News Special Writer

Not all artists paint on canvases.

Gaillee Mack, a Clarkston-area painter whose art was accepted by the Smithsonian Institute in Washington, D.C., uses her painting skills to decorate household items such as wood furniture and cabinets.

She calls herself a decorative artist.

"I saw a bumper sticker that said 'Michelangelo was a decorative artist," she said. "I thought that was great."

Mack currently is working on a Christmas ornament that will be hung on a tree in the Smithsonian during the holidays.

"Afterwards, they put it in their archives for its historical value," she said. "I think that's really neat. It's really self-rewarding."

Mack's Old Cove Road, Independence Township, home is filled with items that she has painted. On her kitchen counter sits a wooden box decorated with a painted slice of watermelon that looks real enough to make even the sharpest eye do a double take.

"I love doing stuff like that," Mack said. "It never ceases to amaze me that I really did that."

Her husband Bill sometimes cuts wood for her or builds pieces of furniture for her to decorate. He also cuts the wood for some of her art classes, which she teaches at home.

For five years, Mack has taught seminars and decorative painting classes for students of all ages and skill levels. She said anyone can learn decorative art.

"We have a really good time in my class," Mack said. "We just laugh and have a good time, and they're learning something. It's more fun than work."

She starts her class of about 10 students with basic acrylic paint projects, but she said she slips in more advanced skills such as mixing paint and doing more realistic work.

"And along the way I do try to cram in a bit of this or that terminology," Mack said.

While she has participated in art shows and has done commissioned works, she said she prefers teaching.

"I really enjoy teaching and all the nice people you come across and all the creative people," Mack said.

QUESTION: I'm trying to sell my house on my own and I'm being swamped with "curiosity seekers." How do you limit these intruders?

ANSWER: Curiosity seekers are one of the plagues which the do-it-yourself broker has to contend with. It's not only an inconvenience, but it could be a risk to open the door, day and night, to all who knock. The best solution is to place your home in the hands of a local REALTOR. He'll weed out curiosity seekers from prospects at his office, visit you only by appointment, and will always accompany prospects. On top of that, you'll probably end up with more money than selling it on your

The scales of justice

Suzanne Baumann

I was walking along my driveway the other day, staring at my feet when something darted across my path. On impulse, I decided to chase after it. in a matter of seconds, I had caught it by the tail.

I don't normally handle wild animals, but this one seemed different. It couldn't scratch. It couldn't peck. It couldn't give me rabies. It didn't have fur to harbor insects or parasites. It didn't have legs to struggle away from me. And it was slow, practically inviting me to pick

I stood there, holding a live snake, for the first time in my life. It didn't feel too unnatural -- I had felt snakeskin belts before; I had played with toy snakes (the linked plastic ones that realistically wriggle when picked up -- available at any souvenir shop in the Upper Peninsula), but now, not only did I feel this snake, but I fell for

It was a defenseless little garter snake; it was probably frightened. Maybe it was afraid I was going to eat it ... or squeeze it too tightly or hold it in midair for eternity, as it frantically curled back and forth in search for solid ground. With mercy and pity, I set it back where I found it, and with the sound of rustling grass, it was

It's amazing how such a small, virtually helpless creature can scare so many people. A girl I knew once crossed to the other side of the street to avoid a snake she saw flattened into the road ahead of her. A dead snake! It seems practically every other person I know has some degree of fear toward them. The rest of us are at least wary of the poisonous ones.

Living in this area all my life, I don't have much experience with poisonous snakes. I saw my first wild rattlesnake at the age of 10, when I visited my uncle in

My uncle dropped a big stone on top of its head, "killing it," to quote the travel journal I kept at the time, "before it killed us."

He brought it back to his house and put it in the freezer -- I think he wanted to eat it or make a hatband out of it or something; I don't remember exactly -- but it took me a long time to realize that saving our lives probably wasn't the first thing on his mind. I was sure that snake was going to chase after me, bite my ankle, and I would not live to see Yellowstone Park the next day.

Why such a phobia? I suppose it could be traced back to biblical times, to the serpent in the Garden of Eden. None of the snakes I've come across, however, have been that outgoing. One bad apple has sort of spoiled the whole barrel.

For goodness' sake, it's just a snake! It doesn't want to make you fear and quake, so give it a break! I realize now that snakes are here for humans to pick up, play with or moosh into the ground. They're no different from the rest of the creatures of the wild. They just want us to leave them alone.

Friends, family gather for 70th birthday

About 40 close friends and relatives were in town recently to celebrate the 70th birthday of Leone Maslowski of Port Charlotte, Fla., formerly of Clarkston.

The party for Leone, who was born Aug. 19, 1919, near Three Rivers, was held at her daughter, Sharon Warner and her husband, Roy's, house in Waterford Township.

Guests included Leone's children: Tom Gotschall and his wife, Susan of Kalamazoo, and Kurt Maslowski and his wife, Leslie of Milwaukee, Wisc., who also helped plan the party.

Also attending were Leone's grandchildren, Gwendelynn Wilson, a University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, student; Victoria Wilson, a Ferris State College, Big Rapids, student; and Anne Gotschall, 5.

Leone's 90-year-old mother, Alberta Steininger of Three Rivers, also attended.

Honors

Greg Molzon was awarded a graduate scholarship to attend S. I. Newhouse School of Public Communications at Syracuse University, New York, where he was also selected to be a graduate assistant. He will be studying for his master's degree in television and radio broadcast journalism.

Greg graduated from the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, in 1988 with a bachelor of arts degree in sports management and communications and has served a one-year internship with U-M in the public relations department.

A 1984 graduate of Clarkston High School, he is the son of William and Jeanne Molzon of Deerhill Drive, Independence Township.

Kimberly Marie Debo of Ranch Estates, Independence Township, was awarded a $750 University Achievement Scholarship at Bowling Green State University, Bowling Green, Ohio.

She is a sophomore in the College of Health and Human Services.

Ky Ann Case was named to the 1989 spring semester honor's list at Graceland College in Lamoni, Iowa. She is the daughter of Brace and Marilyn Case of Clarkston.

Kristen Gray, daughter of Mr. and John Mrs. Gray of Waterford Hill Terrace, Independence Township, will enroll this fall at Ohio Northern University, Ada, Ohio, in the College

A Waterford Kettering High School graduate, Kristen was active in National Honor Society, ski club and Red Cross.

Boy, 10, wins award for heroism

A 10-year-old Clarkston-area boy is a real American hero.

Steven Zerba was chosen as a Michigan recipient of the 1989 "G.I. Joe Search for Real American Heroes" for performing heroic deeds since Jan. 1, 1989.

Zerba will receive a G.I. Joe Medal of Commendation from Hasbro, Inc., for saving his father's life when he fell through the ice on a local pond.

"Our brightest hopes for the future can be found in outstanding young people like Steven," said Larry Bernstein, president of the Hasbrotoy division. "The 'G.I. Joe Search for Real American Heroes' confirms that children today are bright, concerned and interested in making valuable contributions to their communities."

Zerba is eligible to become one of 10 national award recipients which will be selected next month. National award recipients win a three-day trip to Washington, D.C.

At college

Marie A. Luzl of Clarkston is among 330 highability students from across the glob e currently studying in the 11th annual summer program in graduate education at the University of Southern Mississippi, Hattiesburg, Miss.

Luzl, a sixth-grade teacher at Clarkston Junior High School, will complete a master's degree in administration and supervision at USM in August.

Golden Celebration

Charles and Marjorie Martin of Waterford and formerly of Ohio are celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary, announce their three children and their families.

The Martins were marreid Aug. 26, 1939. Their children are: C. Bruce Martin of Walled Lake, L. Marlene Stark of Clarkston and Sharon K. Wenger of Clarkston. They also have eight grandchildren.

To celebrate their 50th anniversary, a family dinner and a family vacation are planned.

Charles and Marjorie Martin

Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Fugitt of Clarkston announce the engagement of their daughter, Susan Ruth, to Johnny Lee Green, son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Green of White Lake. A September wedding is planned.

Club notes

Cub Scout Pack 192, Springfield Township, started its summer activities by participating in the Memorial Day Parade in downtown Holly.

Next came the Father-Son Camp-out at Highland Recreation Area where the boys and their fathers slept overnight in tents and learned to cook over a campfire.

In June, the boys attended Day Camp at Camp Agawam in Lake Orion. This year's theme was "Space," which included making miniature spaceships during their craft activity time. Campers also learned about nature, played group sports and participated in archery and swimming.

The pack also went to Tiger Stadium in Detroit to see a professional baseball game. In August, Pack 192 took part in the Springfield Hot Air Balloon Festival with a watermelon and goldfish booth. Their goal was to earn money for expenses for the pack.

New arrival

Kirk and Marilyn Harvey of Waldon Glen Court, Independence Township, are the proud parents of a new baby girl.

Lauren Elizabeth Harvey was born Aug. 14 at Crittenton Hospital, Rochester. She weighed 8 pounds, 11 ounces, and measured 21 1/2 inches long.

Grandparents are Doris Hardwick of Fort Recovery, Ohio, and Aleta Harvey of Pontiac.

Honors

Shirley Hayward, an employee at a Clarkston-area McDonald's restaurant, was selected as one of 110 Michigan residents to receive the the first annual Governor's Customer Service Award.

The award recognizes employees who have demonstrated "extraordinary commitment to customer satisfaction and quality service and who exercise superior judgment in response to customer problems," said Gov. James Blanchard when he unveiled the award last April.

Award recipients will receive a certificate and a lapel pin.

Rhonda G. Bowes of Whipple Shores, Independence Township, was tapped into the honor society Tower Guard at Michigan State University, East Lansing.

Members of Tower Guard are selected on the basis of high academic achievement, character and willingness to serve. The society's main activity is reading to the blind at MSU.

Melissa O'Dea

Melissa O'Dea, 14, of Deerhill Drive, Independence Township, competed in the Miss Teen of Michigan Scholarship and Recognition Pageant July 20, 21 and 22 at Hope College, Holland.

For the pageant finals, each of the 233 participants introduced themselves on stage and performed in production numbers.

A Clarkston Junior High School 9th grader, Melissa is the daughter of Patricia and Nicholas O'Dea.

At CJHS, she plays tennis and runs track and is a member of the band. She also takes piano and clarinet lessons and is a member of the children's chorus at St. Daniel Catholic Church, Clarkston.

The Bungalow Men step out with music video

BY TRACY KING Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston isn't exactly New York or Hollywood, but that doesn't bother the creators of a local music video.

A two-man production team from Clarkston has begun work on a 15-minute music video featuring The Bungalow Men, a local, modern rock-and-roll band.

The video will be seen on United Cable-TV Independence-Clarkston Channel 65 sometime this fall.

Producing videos isn't new to creators Dave

The song in the video is an original work by The Bungalow Men; it describes problems in the environment and pollution.

Woodruff and Jason Yoder, although it is the first time the two have worked without the benefit of a school sponsor.

Their first video, another music video, was created as part of a high school project in their media class.

The two have earned the benefit of using United Cable equipment, including a professional quality video-camera, recording deck and editing equipment.

"The hardest part, so far, has been trying to get everyone together and to get the equipment together," says Dave Woodruff.

Creating the concept for the video has not been difficult, Woodruff says, because the band has definite ideas of what it wants to communicate.

The Bungalow Men, consisting of Dave Sartor on guitar, Todd Breadon on bass and vocals and Scot Greetham on drums, has a strong feeling about the environment.

The group has chosen Pontiac Steel as a backdrop for the video; although most of the photography has been shot there, the group has also worked in downtown Clarkston.

"This one has been easier than the other one we've done," Woodruff says. "We have come up with ideas while we're out there. The other one was planned more extensively."

Family conducts interviews in honor of doctorate

All Doreen Housel asked of her family was that they not embarrass her. But the Perry Lake Road, Independence Township, resident should have known better.

After she was awarded her doctoral degree in reading education from Oakland University, Rochester, her family planned a celebration for her, and that's where the mischief began.

The party for about 50 people was set for Saturday, Aug. 26. So her family got busy on Friday, Aug. 25, with a video recorder, manned by Doreen's sister, Kathi Devendorf of Northville, and with a microphone and interviewer (alias Doreen's husband, Dr. David Housel).

Up and down the streets of Clarkston they went, followed by other crew members, Loreen Porter (Doreen's twin sister) of Metamora, Emily Devendorf (Doreen's niece), 3 1/2, and Bob Porter, Loreen's hus-

David asked people on the street such questions as, "How do you feel about Doreen Housel earning her doctorate?'

He got answers such as, "Who's Doreen Housel? I've never heard of her."

Over and over again, he asked, and each time, the answers were recorded by Kathi's video camera.

The videotaping included stops at the Independence Township Fire Station, where a captain obliged the crew with his answers but covered up his badge that carried his name, and to The Clarkston News office, where everyone got in on the act.

After the taping, Loreen could hardly contain her excitement. The video would be the perfect surprise for her twin, she said.

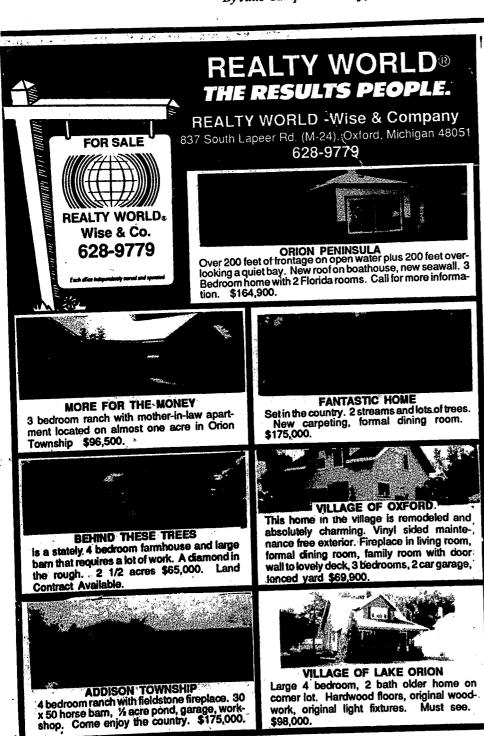

"She keeps pleading all week, 'You're not going to do anything that embarrasses me, are you?" recalled Loreen, laughing.

But Doreen's family made no promises, Loreen

Married couples feel stressed 6 of 10 days

Feeling frazzled? You're not alone.

A University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, study of 166 married couples found that they encountered so-called minor stress -- work overloads, arguments with family members or co-workers, financial worries and transportation problems -- six out of every 10 days.

The U-M researchers also found that interpersonal conflicts took much greater toll on well-being than work overloads did.

Prior research had indicated that only about 12 to 14 percent of our days were stressful, says Ronald C. Kessler, professor of sociology and research scientist at the U-M Institute for Social Research.

Most of those studies, however, relied on retrospective reports, so respondents in the samples may have forgotten a great deal, Kessler said.

"Our study asked respondents, all of whom lived in the metropolitan Detroit area, to keep daily stress diaries for six weeks in which they listed stressful events and rated the degree of hostility, anxiety or depression each event created," he said.

"We found that respondents reported at least some stress on an average of 62 percent of the days studied."

Kessler and his colleagues -- Niall Bolger, assistant professor of psychology at the University of Denver; Anita DeLongis, assistant professor of psychology at the University of British Columbia; and Elizabeth A. Schilling, a U-M graduate student research assistant -collected date for 12,054 diary days in all.

On 11,578 of those days, both the husband and wives made reports, so the researchers were able to compare the sexes.

Men in the sample reported a total of 5,537 daily stressors, or stressful events, over 5,789 diary days, while women reported 6,101 stressors over the same period of Work overloads at home and on the job were the most common events -- nearly 8,140 of the 11,638 stressors were reported as overloads.

Women, however, were more likely to report overloads at home, while men reported them at work. Women employed outside the home got a double dose; they felt overloaded in both settings.

The researchers also found that daily stressors generally lasted for two or more days.

"A comparison of the diary days and the number of episodes shows some intriguing differences between men and women," Kessler says.

For example, the men reported significantly more episodes of financial stress -- 155 episodes -- than the women -- 119 episodes -- but when the women did encounter financial stress, the episodes lasted more days.

The total number of "money-worry" days reported by women in the sample was 258 compared with 240 for Women also were much more likely to feel stress from the demands of family, friends and the community

Tired? No wonder. Arguments with co-workers and family, work overloads, and money worries -- the socalled minor stressors -- afflict us more than four days a week, says U-M study.

because, Kessler explains, "women take responsibility for maintaining social ties between the family and its social world, so they feel those pressures most.

"On the other hand," he adds, "overloads at home were associated with a decline in negative mood in women. Apparently, when women are involved in family obligations or work they value, the heavy demands have a positive impact on emotional well-being.

Interpersonal conflicts generated the most stress, but those with employers or neighbors were much more threatening than those with family members.

"The stability and intimacy of most family relationships seem to cushion the impact of family fights, so even though the conflicts are serious, they are not as distressing as those at work in the community," Kessler says.

More than 70 percent of the family conflicts were resolved within one day, he adds.

Both men and women in the sample said they felt stress from disagreements with their spouses on 9 percent of the days.

Conflicts with children were the next most frequent source of interpersonal stress, but men mentioned them only 4.5 percent of the days, while women mentioned them 8 percent of the days.

Men, however, were more likely to stay angry with their children for more than a day, while women rarely were upset with children longer than that.

"Even.though our interpersonal conflicts occurred much less frequently than work overloads, they had such an intense emotional effect that they accounted for 80 percent of the mood shifts in the diaries," Kessler adds.

Respondents reported two or more stressors on the same day at least 25 percent of the days in the study -- but Kessler notes that after a certain number of stressful events, respondents hit emotional plateaus, and if the stressors lasted over a period of days, they became habituated to them. The first day of the episode was generally the worst.

"However, this was not the case with interpersonal tensions," Kessler cautions. "In fact, there appeared to be no decline in the emotional toll as the personal conflicts went on. The respondents continued to suffer until the conflict was resolved.

"Insofar as stress is related to physical health interpersonal conflicts are much more debilitating than work overloads."

The U-M study will be reported in the November issue of The Journal of Personality and Social Psychol-

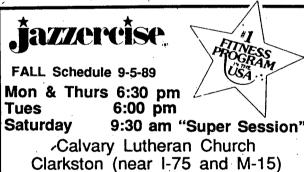

Scouting provides adventures, fun

Girls and their mothers in the Clarkston area may want to sign up for Girl Scouts this year.

A recruitment meeting for all Clarkston area Girl Scouts is set for 7 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 6, at the Clarkston Junior High School cafeteria. Mothers are especially needed because troops need leadership.

Girls who attend any Clarkston school in grades kindergarten through 12 are invited to attend. At the meeting, girls will make a craft to take home, and refreshments will be served.

Microwave Plus

Use your imagination

Betty Wagner

Darlene Smith served this tasty supper to friends aboard her families' sailboat, Hot Spur, in Spider Bay Marina, Little Current, Ontario, Canada.

The Hot Spur is among the growing number of modern boats that packs a compact microwave oven for quick and easy dock-side dining.

Add a romaine-tomato salad, an appropriate beverage and Darlene's Mexican Declivity becomes a hearty supper sure to satisfy hungry boaters. It goes equally well for a light supper while watching a football game on TV.

Lucky for those of us who watch fat intake, Neufcahtel cream cheese has 25 percent less fat than regular cream cheese, or use a yogurt cheese instead of regular cream cheese.

Also, there are several brands of reduced fat sour cream for garnish and reduced fat cheeses to substitute for the Monterey Jack.

Use your imagination to build on this recipe. Top with guacamole, chilies, green onions, salsa and bacon

DARLENE'S MEXICAN DECLIVITY (DIP)

- 1 8-ounce package cream cheese
- 1 10 1/2-ounce can no-bean chili 1 to 2 cups Monterey Jack cheese
- Dollops of sour cream

Chopped green onions or green chilies Corn chips

1. Place cream cheese in a 1-quart microwavable dish. Microwave at 70 percent (roast) for 2 minutes or until soft enough to spread over bottom of dish.

2. Spread no-bean chili over cream cheese. Microwave at 70 percent (roast) for two more minutes or until

3. Sprinkle cheese evenly over chili. Microwave at 50 percent (medium) for two to three minutes or until melted. Cover dish to speed melting.

4. Just before serving, garnish with dollops of sour cream, salsa and green onions or green chilies. Serve with corn chips for dipping.

Home economist Betty Wagner resides in Independence Township. Her "Microwave Plus" cable-TV program airs on Independence-Clarkston Channel 65.

An Apple for the Teacher

Dick Moscovic, building trades

By Bill Holmes

Twenty-one years ago, Clarkston schools hired a new teacher out of California State College in Pennsylvania. This teacher would take over the daily teaching duties in the woodworking department at Clarkston High School.

The teacher I am speaking of is Dick Moscovic. For 20 years, Dick taught the woodworking, building trades and drafting classes at the high school.

Dick has been a building contractor for about 15 years and has run his own company for the last 10 years. During this time, he received his master's degree from Michigan State University, East Lansing.

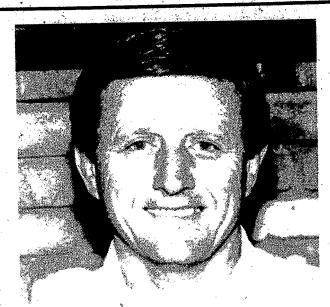

When Dick started teaching, he also started a family. He has been married to his wife, Toni, for 21 years and has three fine sons: Dean, 18; Derek, 16; and Drew,

Dick has raised his family in Clarkston, where he has been a resident for 20 years. He has been very active in the extracurricular activities of his three boys; and, as a family, they enjoy traveling, golfing and swimming, and attend St. Daniel Catholic Church, Clarkston.

Dick feels that today's students need a good cross section background in technical preparations because of the continuing advancement of technology in today's world. The service industries are growing immensely, and there are unlimited opportunities for students who wish to enter these fields.

Dick is presently, with the help of the students in his program, constructing the fifth house for Clarkston Schools. He is a member of the North Oakland Builders WOOODWORKING, building and drafting are Dick Moscovic's trade secrets.

Association and in 1988 was chairperson of the Remodeler's Council. Also that year, Dick was one of just 300 across the nation who received a national certificate from the National Association of Remodeling In-

In 1988, Dick was moved to the Oakland Technical Center - Northwest Campus to start and develop the building trades program there. The Oakland Technical Center is very fortunate to have Dick as the instructor in its building trades program.

An Apple for the Teacher is provided by the Clarkston Education Association. This week's author, Bill Holmes, teaches machine technology at Oakland Technical Center-Northwest Campus.

Pet of the Week

Furry Bear wants a good home

Bear looks like a small lion, but his temperament says otherwise. He's just a happy-go-lucky fella' in need of a new home.

Bear is a male Lhasa aphso mix who is 7 1/2 years old and weighs 15 1/2 pounds. He has so much hair that the shelter workers suggest having him professionally groomed.

He likes being around other pets and is housebroken but will need to be neutered before leaving the shelter.

Bear's a playful dog with a great temperament and is looking forward to having a new home.

Bear is waiting to be adopted at the Michigan Humane Society, 3600 Auburn Rd., Auburn Heights, 852-7420. Hours at the non-profit shelter are 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

The $55 adoption fee includes the neutering.

CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF INDEPENDENCE A Michigan Municipal Corporation

Free guide helps future homebuyers

Thinking about buying a home? An 18-page free guide could help you save thousands of dollars in postpurchase costs.

"Checklist for Potential Homebuyers" is available from the Michigan Consumers Council, 414 Hollister Building, 106 W. Allegan Street, Lansing, MI 48933; phone number, (517) 373-0947 or (517) 373-0701 (TDD for the hearing impaired only).

A home is usually the most important investment a consumer makes, and it's homebuyers should have plenty of information on what to look for in a home before they sign any papers, said Kent S. Wilcox, director of the Michigan Consumers Council.

The publication can save a homeowner money in roofing costs, electrical upgrading, well-drilling and other expenses by alerting homebuyers to problems prior to committing themselves to a sale, he said.

The pamphlet covers a review of the exterior of a home, including such frequently-overlooked items as the number of outdoor faucets; any chemical treatment (including staining) of wooden decks; and the condition of any exterior doors, windows and steps.

Inside the home, future homebuyers are advised to pay special attention to such features as electrical wiring, including the number of outlets per room; the condition of the walls, floors and ceilings; water pressure and quality; and the size of doorways for ease in moving appliances and furniture into the home.

Also covered is the condition of the yard, with a reminder for the potential homebuyer to note such issues as privacy, ownership of fences and the presence of diseased trees, shrubs or the lawn itself.

One section of the booklet is devoted to indoor air pollutants, including radon, formaldehyde and combustion gases.

The Michigan Consumers Council is a state legislative agency that provides consumer information, referral and counseling services and acts as an advocate on consumer issues before the Michigan Legislature.

For $4.17 a week, you can reach 18,400 people in over 4000 homes every week with an advertising message on this page.

Blanching vegetables before freezing can help

Tough, stringy and hay-like may be the words you will use to describe the vegetables you neglected to blanch before freezing this summer!

Blanching not only cleans and brightens vegetables but also stops the development of enzymes that destroy flavor and vitamin retention," said Sylvia Treitman of the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service.

Blanching is necessary for all vegetables which will be frozen more than one month. The exceptions are vegetables such as onions, green peppers and herbs.

Blanching is a simple scalding of the vegetable in boiling water for a specified time, followed by immersion in ice water, draining and packing for freezing.

Timing is crucial in developing a good product, along with several other important considerations:

- Pre-wash, drain, sort, trim and cut vegetables. • Use one gallon of water for each pound of
- vegetables. Use two gallons for leafy greens. Put vegetables in a wire basket and lower into boiling water. Begin counting as soon as the vegetable is immersed.
- Immediately cool vegetables in ice water for equal amount of scalding time.

● Freeze best quality vegetables as soon as possible after harvest, and freeze as quickly as possible.

An up-to-date blanching time chart is available from the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service. Please enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope when requesting the chart.

For any further questions, call the Food and Nutrition Hotline at 858-0904.

flavors in herbs Drying, freezing protects

If your garden has left you overwhelmed with a bumper crop of dill, basil, parsley or the like, you can easily preserve the wonderful aroma and flavor for the months to come, said Sylvia Treitman of the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service.

Drying and freezing are two good methods of preserving herbs that take very little time and prepara-

Here are some helpful hints to get you started:

• Gather fresh herbs in the morning before the sun dries them. Use scissors to snip the amount needed and harvest the leaves before the plant begins to flower. Rinse them well and dry them on paper towels.

 Dry herbs by tying the stems together in small bunches then hang the bunches upside down in a warm dry room or lay them on screens in a warm, dark, well ventilated place.

• To dry fresh herbs in a microwave, place several sprigs between paper towels. Microwave on low about two to three minutes until brittle. Watch very carefully because these can burn.

 Dried herbs are stronger than fresh, and powdered herbs are stronger than crumbled. One-quarter teaspoon of powdered is equivalent to one teaspoon of crumbled or two teaspoons of fresh.

 Herbs can be frozen without blanching. Wash, drain and spread on a flat tray to freeze. When they are firm, pack them into freezer containers.

If you need advice on how to preserve herbs or some ideas on healthful ways to enhance your recipes with herbs, call the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Hotline Monday through Friday from 8:30 to 5 p.m. at 858-0904.

LifeWood

Guaranteed For Life.

Decades of testing—both in the laboratory and at outdoor test sites—have confirmed the excellence of pressure-treated wood.
Weyerhaeuser's LifeWood™ is deep treated to 40 pounds per cubic foot with CCA—to protect against fungal decay, and termites. CCA, a water borne chemical, combines with wood sugars for permanent, long-lasting protection.

Treated lumber is a pale green color, clean and dry to the touch. Used just as it is, it will weather to a silver gray. Or it can be painted or stained. And it's easily worked with standard tools.

Holy spirit. You make me see everything and show me the way to reach my ideals. You give me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrongs that are done to me and you are in all instances of my life with me. I, in this short dialogue, want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you no matter how great the materia desire may be. I want to be with you and my loved ones, in your perpetual glory. Amen. Persons must pray this prayer 3 consecutive days without asking for your wish. After the 3rd day your wish will be granted, no matter how difficult it may be Then how difficult it may be. Then promise to publish this dialogue as soon as your favor has been granted. WHO IS ON THE LORD'S side let home hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches. For they love the praise of men more than the praise of God. It is said a sign of endtimes is the preaching of the gosphel to the whole world but I say unto you is has been preached unto all the known world before 70 AD, the utter destruction of Israel by God, fullfilling Mat 24.14, the fullness of times. God has judged the earth in his righteousness by the word of the truth of the gosphel (Jn 9.39) (Jn 12.31), which is come unto you as it is in all the world (Col 1.5,6) Hope of the gosphel which has preached to every creature preached to every creature which is under heaven (Col 1.23). But I say, have they not heard? Yes, verily their sound went unto all the earth and their words unto the ends of world (Rom 10.18) (Rom 15.19) (Rom 1.5) (Rom 16.26). Therefore they that were scattered abroad went every where preaching the-word. (Acts 8.4) This continued by the space of two years so that all they which dwelt in Asia heard the word of the Lord Jesus both Jews and Greeks (Acts 19.10). Christ's return is Jesus both Jews and Greeks (Acts 19.10). Christ's return is not hinged on the preaching of the gosphel into all the world according to scripture. If anything seducers will wax worse and worse and the form of godliness, dening the power thereof, will be more prevailent. This doctrine presents false signs to the unsuspecting to hold them in bondage to a system of self-righteous works (Jn 8.33,34,37-40). If you have no desire to serve God in truth and in the spirit you will be held and in the spirit you will be held in this system. God only leads those that want to worship Him in spirit and in truth. There are only a few that will continue (Mat 22.14) (Mk 4.15-20,23-25) (Mat 7.14). Most will not (whomsoev-7.14). Most will not (whomsoever) come to the righteousness of God but will continue to hold the truth in unrighteousness denying the work of the Cross of Christ, having faith in themselves and their works rather than Christ!. JOEL BURNELL, sounding a little like Elvis, sings "Bridge Over Troubled Water" for the audience.

A HELPFUL sheet of paper gives the words to the music at the Community Praise Festi-

Worshiping with song

THE WEATHER cooperated for walkers, bikers and drivers who showed up Sunday for the Community Praise Festival in Clarkston's Depot Park.

TRUMPETER Kip Eberle of Drayton Heights Free Methodist Church delights listeners with his music in Clarkston's Depot Park.
