Family finds buyer for Rudy's

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Rudy's Market, a landmark in downtown Clarkston since the 1930s, recently was sold to a Farmington Hills grocer-developer for an undisclosed amount of money.

The sale is contingent on receiving permission to remodel the interior of the building at 9 S. Main St., Clarkston, said Arkan Jonna Tuesday morning.

Once approval is gained and the beer-wine license is transferred, Jonna has definite plans for his latest acquisition.

"We will completely remodel the store," he said. "Everything will be top quality, very upscale. We will do a complete grocery store in a small version."

The personal services provided by the Schwarze family will remain the same under the new ownership, he added.

"We will try to improve on what they have been doing," he said.

Rudy's sons, Fred and Bob Schwarze, currently run the market. When contacted Sept. 12, Fred had no comment on the sale.

Jonna, whose family owns and runs small upscale grocery stores in areas like Sterling Heights, Farmington Hills and Walled Lake, became interested in purchasing Rudy's Market through his developing work in the Clarkston area. His proposal to build a shopping center based around Food Town -- which would move from its current location -- at the Sashabaw and Waldon roads intersection was denied by the Independence Township Planning Commission Sept. 7.

Rudy's was a good opportunity.

The only negative aspect of the sale was the lack of parking in the downtown area. To Jonna, however, the necessity of a grocery store outweighed the parking problem.

"It's convenient," he said. "There always will be a parking problem."

At this time, Jonna is struggling with what he will call his new store. The possibility of a name change remains up in the air.

"Rudy's" goes back a long ways," he said. "It's set in stone ... I'd hate very much to change it."

Jonna expects the remodeling to take two weeks once the necessary paperwork is finished. The store will remain open to customers during the renovation, he said.

Enrollment up by nine

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Enrollment figures are up by nine in an unofficial count taken Sept. 8 by Clarkston school district officials.

Increased enrollment figures for Clarkston schools could mean increased state aid funds -- if the 1989-90 school year figures remain higher than the 1988-89 school year figures at the official fourth Friday count.

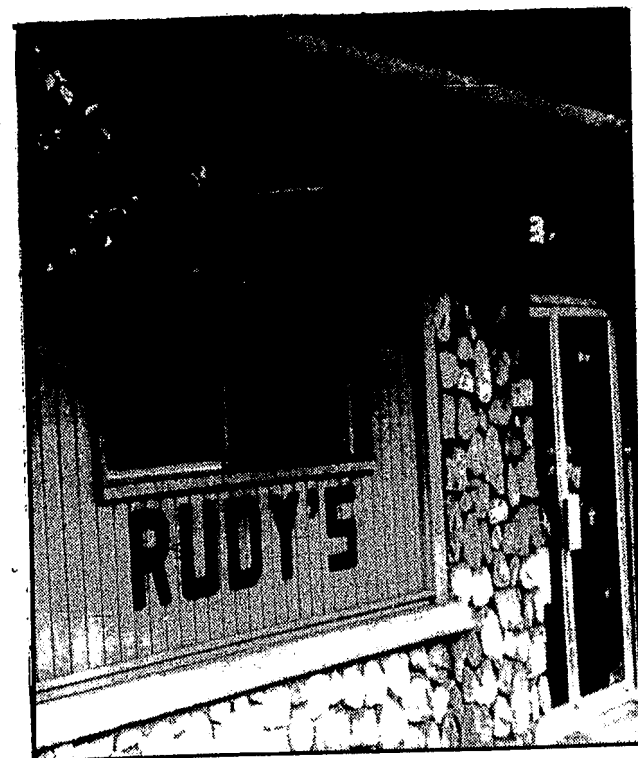

The increased figure of nine students could mean $29,086.56 in state aid funds for the district. The school district receives $3,231.84 in state funds, $40 more per student than last year's figure of $3,191.25 per student.

State aid formula funds, which are allocated to school districts, are based on student enrollment figures taken on the fourth Friday after the start of each current school year.

The figures show the five elementary schools have a total increase of 22 students. The high school decreased by 58 students.

Enrollment figures as of Sept. 8 are as follows: Andersonville, 366 (up 1); Bailey Lake, 638 (up 24); Clarkston Elementary, 543 (down 9); North Sashabaw, 443 (up 11); Pine Knob, 585 (down 3); Clarkston Junior High School, 748 (up 17); Sashabaw Junior High School, 1025 (up 28); Clarkston High School, 1369 (down 58).

Bill Neff, director of administrative services, said the number of students probably will continue to drop until the fourth Friday count.

RUDY'S MARKET may soon be under new ownership.

Planners nix proposed Food Town complex PUD

BY CAROLYN WALKER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Food Town grocery store owner Ed Adler is feeling the pressure of time constraints.

Faced with a lease that is due to expire in 18 months, he had hoped to move his store north to a new 23-acre shopping and office center off Sashabaw and Waldon roads soon.

He may have to delay his plans as members of the Independence Township Planning Commission recommended denial of a Planned Unit Development (PUD) zoning request for the site following a public hearing Sept. 7. The township board has the final say on rezoning requests.

Commission members cited a lack of "uniqueness" in the proposed project as their reason for denial.

Planned Unit Development zonings, which have come under fire recently in the township, were created to allow multiple uses on a single parcel of land. PUDs are tied to a specific site plan.

They require that any proposed plans be of demonstrable community or user benefit and not developable under other zoning classifications.

They also allow the township and developer more creativity in the protection of ponds, trees, wetlands and rolling landscape.

Because the PUD was denied, conceptual plans could not be considered as presented for official commission action.

Developer Arkan Jonna, who proposes building the combination shopping center and office complex, was advised by the commission that he could return with new plans.

Before the 5-1 vote, Jonna told the commission and five audience members attending the hearing, that the proposed project would include 120,000 square feet of retail space, with the Food Town as its base, as well as 60,000 square feet of office and high tech space.

He said he was requesting a PUD zoning to facilitate the integration of these uses.

Township planner Richard Carlisle, who told the commission that the developer had been very cooperative, said he was not convinced the PUD request and development showed a "recognizable benefit" to the community.

"The burden is upon the developer," he said. "It was my hope that this project would set the tone. ... I don't think that is the case. I feel it has the potential."

Adler, who attended the meeting, encouraged the commission to approve the PUD, expressing his fears that the building would not be completed before his current lease runs out.

"We have to move," he said. "I'm here to ask for some extra consideration. I would beg your indulgence."

Commission members, while sympathetic to Adler's plight, also expressed concerns that the complex, which is to have three private wells, would not have a water supply sufficient to deal with a large fire or the needs of the public.

After the meeting, Jonna said he did not know whether or not he would approach the commission with new plans.

Adler said after the meeting that he did not plan to present the PUD request before the township board.

Voting to deny the PUD request were Chairperson Brent Bair, Jo Fussman, Daniel Travis, Joseph Figa and Steve Secatch. Bruce Mercado voted in favor of the request. Richard Oppmann was absent.

It's appropriate that Jim Russell was chosen to design the mug for the 15th annual Clarkston Community Historical Society's Crafts and Cider Festival.

His historical home on Main Street, Clarkston, is furnished with items from the arts and crafts movement of the 1920s -- and, like artists and patrons from that period, Jim appreciates old homes, quality craftsmanship and design.

Jim and his wife, Irene, have been members of the historical society for a number of years.

Commissioned by the historical society to design the mug, Jim said he feels lucky to have the talent to offer to the community for those kinds of projects.

This is the first mug Jim has ever designed, though he designed a poster that the historical society still sells for $5 as a fund-raiser.

As the selected artist, Jim had the honor of choosing the three historical buildings to be depicted on the mug -- the third of four in a series sold by the historical society.

The mug is made in England of fine ironstone. The design is then screened onto the mug then glazed.

"The mug is only as good as the artist" said Jerry Siefman, whose company J and M Promotions is printing of the mugs.

The houses Jim chose may not be readily familiar to everyone, Jim said.

"As I looked at what was done in the past, most of the homes chosen were Main Street or village houses," said Jim. "I wanted people to appreciate homes that are located outside the village limits, the ones set back on the side streets. These homes are just as significant from an architectural standpoint as the more prominent homes in the village."

New look for fall festival includes kids games, food

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

Games for children plus a variety of food are the new additions to the 16th Clarkston Community Historical Society's Crafts and Cider Festival this year.

Set for 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 16 and 17, in Clarkston's Depot Park, the festival consists of over 70 vendors selling paintings, drawings, photographs, stained and beveled glass, hand-woven and painted baskets, fibers, soft sculpture, wood-works, furniture, primitive folk art and toys.

Preparations were going well the week before the festival, according to Larry Gilleland, president of the historical society. He added that the organizers hoped for clear skies that weekend.

"Weather is always the big thing we worry about," he said.

In addition to the community groups that sell food and beverages at the fair, outside vendors will be selling this year, too, said Gilleland.

With a marketplace theme for the food area, some of the food-related booths that in past years were a part of the regular festival will now be located with the food, he said, mentioning honey as one item that would have a new location.

New food items this year include roasted almonds, caramel corn, almond brittle and Greek food. In addition, community groups will provide pizza, soft pretzels, candied apples, apple pie, candy, baked Depicted this are year the Lookadoo house (historically the Lambert home), 43 N. Main; the Wells house, 40 Buffalo; and the Dennis and Alice Spande home (historically the William Daniels house), 6085 S. Main.

A self-employed graphic artist, Jim works through Denham and Co. in Troy. He likes being an artist because of the variety of challenges in his work. He can create anything from a simple line drawing, as he did for the mug, to pieces more involved, such as the use of full color and computer designing for the auto industry.

He lives in Clarkston with his wife, Irene, and three daughters, Kaitlin, 9, Lindsay, 6, and Meredith, 2. He and Irene, who has always lived in the area, made their home in Clarkston because they believe it's a "good place to raise a family," Jim said.

Entertainment will also be expanded. On Sunday, Clarkston High School's Madrigal Singers will perform between 2 and 4 p.m. Ray DeFiore's senior citizen's band will perform from 4 to 6 p.m.

Plus, on both days, Independence Township Parks and Recreation will offer games to occupy the children, said Gilleland.

"We saw parents dragging children around bored to death," he said. "It's just something to give the children something to enjoy."

Games and activities for all ages of children will be conducted by a full staff of parks and rec. employees at the playground area of the park, said Sheryl Stickley-Schreefel, assistant director of the department.

"It's a good idea," she said. "Vendors will be more happy to have the kids more entertained instead of running in and out of their booths."

Historical society volunteers put the whole festival together, said Gilleland, adding that it wouldn't be possible without the neighboring people.

"We appreciate the nearby property owners contributing to its success," he said.

The week before the festival, Gilleland was already planning for next year.

"It could be a good idea for merchants to do something Friday night (before the festival starts on Saturday)," he said. "It's a suggestion I've made to a few merchants."

Clarkston concert to appear on TV

A recent inspirational music concert at Clarkston High School auditorium featuring Joel Burnell and band is to air on WGPR-TV 62, 7:30 p.m. Monday, Sept. 18.

The concert was sponsored by several Clarkston area businesses and was videotaped by United Cable Public TV.

Burnell is a graduate of Clarkston High School and is a lifelong resident of the Clarkston area.

The concert will feature several of Burnell's original songs, as well as classics such as "Bridge Over Troubled Water."

Program highlights East Germany

East Germany is the subject of a presentation to be held three times this weekend at Calvary Evangelical Lutheran Church.

Bill McGuire of Brandon Township and the Rev. Bob Walters and his wife, Beverly of Independence Township are to present "Building Bridges to East Germany," based on their trip this summer.

The program is set for 5:30 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 16, and 8 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. Sunday, Sept. 17.

Among their adventures was the visit to an elderly woman, who in 1987 sent a plate to Bob Walters -- the plate was sent to his phone number, and somehow, the U.S. Postal Service delivered it to his Independence Township home.

Reporter's Notebook

Members of the Clarkston Village Council take their work seriously but always find time for a little fun during their meetings. Monday night's meeting was no exception.

While looking at downsized banners the Fun Daze Committee is donating to Clarkston, village council president Sharron Catallo and Trustee James Schultz discussed the different lettering on the two samples provided. One was serif, the other was sans serif, Schultz explained. Trustee William Basinger overheard the conversation and it prompted him to quip, "He's a font of information."

Doris Mousseau received a clock for 35 years of service to the Clarkston School District at the Sept. 11, board meeting.

The audience chuckled when the clock chimed at 9 p.m. during the meeting. Someone in the audience remarked, "We don't want to hear 11."

Historical Society mug depicts 3 historical homes

BY LINDA WALSH LAPINSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A mug with drawings of three Clarkston area historical homes will be available at the Clarkston Community Historical Society booth at the crafts and cider festival this weekend.

Designed by Clarkston artist Jim Russell, it's the third in a series of four sold by the historical society as a fund-raiser. Previous mugs were designed by Sally Kubani and Bob Hubbock.

The festival runs Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 16 and 17, at Clarkston's Depot Park.

The houses on this year's mug are some of the best examples of Clarkston's historic architecture -- the charm that makes the area unique, according to Susan Basinger of the Clarkston Community Historical Society.

As this year's artist, Russell selected the homes himself.

The home of Alice and Dennis Spande (historically the William Daniels house) at 6085 S. Main, is an example of a midwestern adaptation of the Greek Revival style -- with the broken-entablature end set at right angles to the street.

The half, or eyebrow, windows and the post and lintel front doorway treatment are typical of the style, said Basinger.

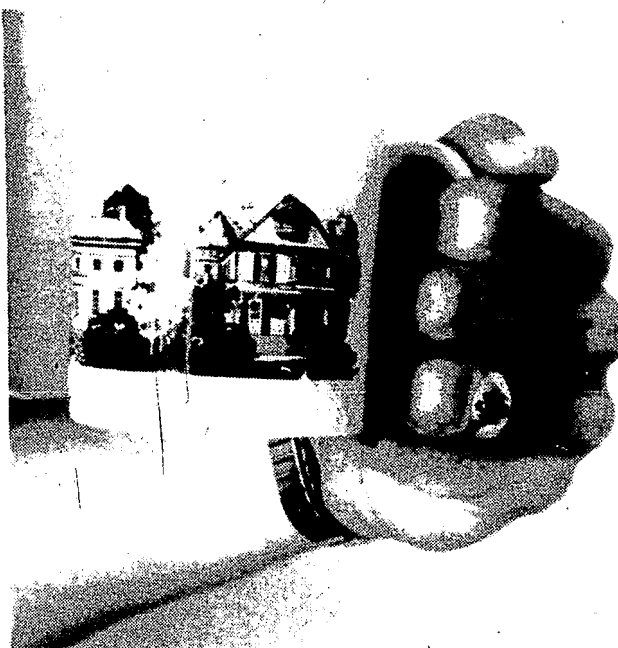

Russell knew he would enjoy drawing the Spande home.

"I chose the Spande house right from the start," he said. "I have appreciated this house for a long time for its symmetry. It is perfectly balanced."

The Wells house, 40 Buffalo St., is one of several Clarkston area houses with a combination of styles, said Basinger.

The east wing, which fronts on the street, has the broken entablature typical of many midwestern Greek Revival style houses (around the 1850s).

However, the front porch and the bay window on the south are of a later architectural style added to the house -- probably 30-40 years later -- to modernize it or make it more fashionable.

Russell liked the architecture of the Lookadoo house, he said, adding that it "was chosen for the detail of the wrap-around porch and turret. These are important characteristics of the Queen Anne style."

The Lookadoo house (historically the Lambert home), 43 N. Main, is an imposing Queen Anne style house with a picturesque wrap-around porch and a turret with lancet windows and fish-scale shingles.

Clarkston has few examples of this late 19th century style.

The most critical elements in designing the copy for the mug was the line design, said Russell.

"I tried to capture the style of each house and still keep it simple enough to reproduce properly," he said.

The mug is made of fine English ironstone, and the image of the houses is screened onto the mug and then glazed. Jerry Siefman's company, J and M Promotions, is making the mug for the historical society.

Woman assaulted

A Royal Oak woman was assaulted after the Elton John concert at Pine Knob Music Theatre, Independence Township, Sunday, Sept. 3.

Following the show, the woman, 23, was walking behind her husband down an aisle of cars when she was grabbed by a man waiting between the cars, according to an Oakland County Sheriff's Department report.

The woman broke away from the suspect, and her husband chased him. The assailant turned around and punched the husband in the eye, according to the police report.

The suspect, a white male, was in his 20s, weighed about 160 pounds, had short brown hair and wore a red polo shirt. He was last seen running through the parking lot.

Detective Steve Parker doesn't expect the suspect to be found, he said.

If he were, he would be charged with assault and battery, which is a 90-day misdemeanor, said Parker.

Three join township

Three new employees will soon be joining the ranks at Independence Township offices.

At their Sept. 5 meeting, members of the township board of trustees voted unanimously to hire Robyn Koyl as a file clerk in the department of public works.

She joins Joann Pierce-Hunt and Albert Marzetti, who were unanimously approved to fill two Appraiser I positions in the assessing department.

Autumn

By Jean Bloe

To go for a walk in the Autumn Air, your family by your side.

The mystery of the cool pure air, will fill your heart with pride.

It's such a joy to trample through the leaves when they're crisp and brown. Oh, do go for a walk for awhile from the busy town.

Let your children see Nature's colors of glorious red, orange and gold; and listen to the snapping of the twigs, as you trespass on their fold.

You'll see beautiful maple, pine and birch and many other trees too with their gorgeous array of colors and a sky above you of heavenly blue.

The chipmunks, squirrels, and many birds will be around to entertain you with their noisy chatter, scurry and song as they enjoy the crispy woods, too.

You doubtless will see some wild grapes and apples, as many will have fallen to the ground.

And you gather some acorns and hickory nuts as you happily walk around.

But don't wait too long to take a walk through the woods in the wonderful autumn air, for in a very short while the scene will change, and the crackling twigs, though there will be covered with snow, as cold wintry winds blow, and the rabbit is snug in his lair.

So drop all your cares and troubles, bundle up while the skies are fair, take a walk in the woods or countryside, and enjoy that wonderful, wonderful autumn air.

Jean Bloe of Clarkston died Sept. 6, 1989. Her poem, written in 1973, was submitted as a memorial tribute to her by her children.

Letter to Editor

Fees proportionate to budget cuts

The athletic program in Clarkston Schools has begun for the 1989-90 school year. I would like to thank parents, coaches and the Booster Club for their cooperation in this year of play to participate. Our participation is near normal, even though a fee of $164 must be assessed.

A question has been raised concerning the fee amount. As a result of the defeat of the Headlee override request in June, $156,000 was cut from the athletic budget.

In order to compensate for the deficit, the minimum number of athletes to maintain a full program was projected. That number was 951. Dividing $156,000 by 951 will yield a fee of $164.

After checking with various schools (Grand Blanc, Lapeer, Pontiac, and Lake Orion), each one distributed fees equally for all athletes. Our procedure is the same.

Why does Pontiac charge $50, Lake Orion $75 and Lapeer charge $275? This is due to the amount cut from the athletic budget and the number of athletes involved in each district. Pontiac was cut $22,000; Lake Orion was cut $55,000, and Lapeer was cut $250,000. As can be seen, the athletic fee is directly proportional to the budget cut.

More money could have been chosen to be placed in the athletic in the athletic program to reduce the fee, but this would have reduced other school offerings. Citizens are encouraged to call the administration office (625-4402) or the athletic office (625-0906) if you have questions.

A pay-to-participate program is not desirable by anyone, but the alternative is to deprive approximately 1,000 students of a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to participate in an extra curricular activity. Hopefully this condition will not continue long in Clarkston.

The advance of the arachnids

Julie Campe

Spiders are invading The Clarkston News. On some mornings, new, delicate webs stretch between my computer monitor and the printer. Other softly swaying lines link the monitor to a filing tray.

On most mornings, I wipe away the webs and begin my work. The spiders are nowhere in sight. About once a week, however, they forget to hide.

One day last week, I killed three in a matter of minutes. And just this morning, I killed five.

The largest was stuck deep in a corner, surrounded by a wall of sticky webs. It was one of those with the big, round fat bodies, kind of grayish.

It crouched and flattened itself -- as much as those types of spiders can flatten -- against the wall.

But first, I went after its sentinels -- smaller spiders crawling about on the fringes of their newest house.

I go for the nearest one, and my hand is instantly covered with the cotton candy-like threads. It makes me cringe. The webs are so new and delicate that I didn't even see them in the morning light.

So I wipe away all the webs I can find and then kill two other tiny spiders.

Finally, it's time for the big one in the corner. Funny, he (or is it a she?) doesn't move when my paper towel-clad hand closes in. But just as I go for the death grip, it scrambles for its life.

It's too late, though I made a sloppy job of it. It falls to the ground, writhing a little, and ends up tight in the corner, so it's hard to reach and make the final squish.

Finally, it's finished, and I wipe all the remaining webs I can find. A few dangle from the top of the extra laser printer cartridge, so I drag the box out to wipe it.

Suddenly, a huge sharp-angled spider makes a run for it. It jumps to the ground and blends with the carpet. I can barely see it scurrying for the corner.

I step on it, and it stops scurrying.

I look for signs of any more of the eight-legged creatures, but there are none.

Arachnids are not my favorite of God's creatures. They are sneaky, working late in the night, just waiting to entrap an unsuspecting visitor.

I was frightened almost to death of one once as a child. I woke up one morning and found one descending on its web, just hovering above my nose.

I got over most of my fear when I worked at Bordine's Better Blooms. Throwing flats around, lots of spiders jump from plant to plant, sometimes making a stop on your hand before the next jump. It became tiring to always drop whatever I was holding just because a spider showed up, so I stopped being afraid of them. Good thing, too, because in poinsettia season, they're all over -- even in your hair.

I suppose it's not just spiders that are so bad. Maybe all of the arachnids carry nasty traits. Scorpions are arachnids, and they can really hurt you (though I've never encountered one in Michigan).

Ticks are arachnids, and you know how terrible ticks are -- especially those mean old deer ticks that carry Lyme disease.

Enough musing about arachnids. I sit back at my desk to begin writing at the computer, and a bug falls from the ceiling onto my keyboard. It is one of those tiny, pale, green bugs that flutters around like a butterfly. It looks like a miniature fairy, it's so light and delicate. But it's dead. I wonder if a spider got it?

Memorial to Clarkston man

The phone call came only 15 minutes before we left for our Mackinaw vacation. My friend, Clarkston's Tom Boufford, was dead.

Wrestling with the confusing emotional combination of grief and anticipation, we pulled our car onto M-15 and started north, hearts heavy.

Ironically, we were headed for Tom's old territory.

As we drove, I could hear his gentle voice speaking to me from the past. Telling me stories about little-known towns like Otisville and Vassar and Pinconning and Cheboygan and the doctors who kept them well.

Traveling through these places, I felt a certain familiarity, as though he were beside me recalling, one-by-one, the early 20th-century physicians who saved lives when saving lives was a test of wits.

"Those doctors worked so hard to make whole bodies out of pieces," he once said, referring to old farm-community and small-town healers who made house calls by horse and buggy, operated in kitchens and worked their cures without the benefit of modern equipment, vaccinations or antibiotics.

Having spent 60 years coursing the length of eastern Michigan as a traveling medical supply salesman, Tom knew hundreds of that hearty breed: doctors who were also inventors, or artists, or singers, or hypnotists, or pilots, or, (gasp) womanizers. He loved them all for their quiet contributions to humankind.

His private museum of medical artifacts at Saginaw, thousands of goodies gleaned from friendships that spanned well over half a century, is a testimony to that love.

It was a love that was not one-sided.

Tom had a brush with death just a few years ago and doctors came in such quantities to pay their respects that the hospital had to put a halt to their visits.

Imagine that. Too many doctors tending to a critically ill man.

"They'd stand at the end of his bed and cry," his wife, Kate, told me later.

There may be many of you who never knew Tom Boufford personally. Yet, unbeknownst to you, he has touched your lives.

There was a little bit of him behind every tongue depressor that ever gagged your child, every needle that ever pulled your stitches, every cool stethoscope that ever picked up the beat of your trembling heart.

We can be thankful that Tom was wise enough to preserve what he could of Michigan's medical history.

I feel certain that, with a humble respect for those who went before, he would tell us that the best is yet to come. We can take comfort in that.

God speed, Tom.

When did the shooting war between Detroit and the suburbs start? I must have missed it.

Every day I read about Detroiters getting shot, accidentally or on purpose. Pedestrians are gunned down from cars. Innocent bystanders are hit by stray bullets fired in ubiquitous "drug-related" battles. Children shoot each other with the family pistol, as common as the family car. Domestic spats and neighborhood arguments end in death, instead of a bloody lip, because a handgun was handy.

Usually the shooters and victims are Detroiters. Never are they involved in some sort of territorial dispute, defending Detroit against an invasion of gunslinging Grosse Pointers.

But, when it is suggested that there are too damn many handguns in Detroit, and something should be done about it, Mayor Coleman Young and gun club members give the same answer: "We can't be disarmed while the suburbs keep their guns."

Why?

Gun limits for police, too

If I had my way, only law officers would have handguns, and they could carry them only on duty, certainly not out boozing. That's extreme, I realize, but that's me. However, I understand why so many law-abiding Detroiters insist on having handguns in their homes. I have a lot of nerve criticizing them while I live in a high-rise with armed guards at the entrance.

The gun-under-the-pillow people feel they must protect themselves against crime because the law won't do it. I wish they'd believe the statistics that prove their guns are more likely to be used to commit a crime, rather than protect one. But when they say statistics won't stop some dope-crazed thug from breaking into a home and attacking their grandparents, it's uncomfortable to keep arguing that life in the big city would be safer if Grandpa didn't keep a handgun next to his bed.

But what's this crap about the suburbs? How many Detroiters refuse to give up their handguns because they're afraid of armed Birmingham residents? Get serious.

Hell, if suburban guns were Detroit's problem, state Sen. John Kelly would know how to solve it. Kelly would build a wall around Detroit, with entrances guarded by the FBI. Suburbanites would be searched and forced to give up their guns before entering the city. That would teach them how difficult it is to rob, kill children and fight drug wars without guns.

Under Kelly's plan, that part of the city bordered by the river would be protected by battleships. Canadian citizens would be treated the same as U.S. suburbanites. This wouldn't make any sense - immigration officers already prevent Canadians from bringing handguns into Detroit, and Canadian law prevents most citizens from owning handguns anyway. But Sen. Kelly realizes he wouldn't get so much publicity if he were sensible.

Detroit residents, of course, would be exempt from searches at the wall and river. After showing proper identification, they would proceed unsearched, with several land-to-air missiles under their coats.

Someplace has to go first

The biggest benefit of Kelly's barricade would be that he is a suburban resident and couldn't enter Detroit without being noticed and possibly rejected, perhaps for carrying a loaded meathead. Now all we need is some way to keep him out of Lansing.

Anyway, it isn't only suburbanites who are used as an excuse for keeping Detroit citizens armed. It's everyone who doesn't live here. Mayor Young and his gun-loving supporters keep saying that as long as handguns are easily available anywhere in the U.S. - Ohio, Florida, you name it - there's no sense in restricting handguns here. And I keep saying:

I'll continue to support a ban on handgun sales and private ownership in Detroit and everywhere else. I'd be proud if Detroit were the first big city to enact such a law. Maybe other cities would follow the good example. Progress toward becoming a civilized society must start somewhere, and it isn't going to start at the same time in 50 states. Why not here?

Onward and Upward.

Jim's Jottings

Listening to Renfro Valley Gathering on a recent Sunday morning, as is my habit, I was reminded of my 1-room school days.

For those of an age to have had that great educational experience, let's go back together.

The particular reference on the radio-Renfro program had to do with everyone drinking out of the same bucket of water from the same cup.

Actually, it wasn't a cup, it was a dipper. You know the kind? It had a long handle with a turned up end for easy hanging on the pail lip. Some of us made sure the dipper floated on top when we finished drinking, while others had to see it on the bottom.

I don't recall the absenteeism rate among we single roomers, but illness was never blamed on the multi-used dipper. Neither was the dipper wiped clean prior to use by anyone. We just drank from it like pigs at a trough, as often as we could get away with it before the teacher ruled, "That's enough!"

She (all 1-room teachers were women, weren't they?) knew what followed water drinking . . . water letting. Students got away with just so many one-finger and two-finger permissions to leave the big building for the smaller building out back.

That 3-holer had more fascination than anything else ever perceived for students. It served as a social gathering center, a carving (art) station, experimental lab, a wall to bounce a ball off of, a hiding place, a refuge from some girl who was stronger than you and, of course, the obvious, initial purpose of outdoor toilet.

I'm sure it happened, but I don't recall in my 7 years of 1-room schooling that anyone ever lost anything down one.

Garrison and Fremont were the schools I attended in rural Shiawassee county. Garrison is gone now and Fremont is somebody's house. I don't know what became of the boys' and girls' retreats. No, there were no uni-sex facilities in those days in the 1930s.

I didn't walk 10 miles to school, up hill each way, as John Hubbard did. My schools were less than a mile, but we did walk. Seems like there were always neighbor kids to walk with, along with my older sister, Barbara, (excuse me, she's younger than me now), and my brothers.

Wish I could remember how much time it took us to get to school. I'm sure we were no more motivated to get to school than our young'uns, and they worried not at all about the starting bell.

Remember the furnace in the front corner of your 1-room school? It was used for drying mittens and clothes, and warming lunches and bottoms.

And, remember how you were rewarded for good work by the teacher letting you go outside and clean the chalk from the blackboard erasers. What a con-job teachers did on we students to get that lousy job done.

And, the chairs lined up across the front of the room for classes between the teachers desk and students desks.

And, yes, the stool in the corner for misbehaved students, the ruler across the knuckles for minor infractions, the spitballs, paper airplanes and beanshooters.

Teachers always had the upper hand, except when they turned to write on the blackboard.

Sashabaw, Waldon mining agreement amended

BY CAROLYN WALKER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

It took an hour-long argument, but the Independence Township Board of Trustees finally approved a third amendment to a consent judgment governing Charles Nunn's mining operations Sept. 5.

Trustees William Vandermark and Frank Millard were strongly opposed to the amendment.

After a motion to table the issue was defeated, Vandermark expressed concerns about what he called Nunn's "bad track record" in living up to previous guidelines of the judgment.

He said Nunn's organization had not met deadlines in restoring landscaping and that they had operated without permits in 1989.

He strongly recommended that Nunn be required to post a $75,000 irrevocable letter of credit or cash bond guaranteeing that the company would abide by the judgment.

A commercial credit bond of $75,000 and $10,000 in escrow have already been posted by Nunn.

In addition, Millard said the amendment did not entirely conform to wishes the board had expressed to township attorney Gerald Fisher at an earlier special meeting.

Waterford Hill office wins first approval

Very little discussion preceded the Independence Township Planning Commission's conceptual approval of a new office building proposed for Dixie Highway.

Property owner Lorence Pinterpe plans to construct the 12,500-square-foot building at the top of Waterford Hill.

He must obtain final site plan approval before construction can begin.

Attorney Alan Green, who represented Nunn, requested action and said the mining company, which mines sand from a site off Sashabaw and Waldon roads, is bound by time restraints involving contracts they have with companies working on expressways.

Township Treasurer John Lutz was sympathetic. "I think the developers have been working well with the township," said Lutz.

Village will pay for leaf removal

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

With a leaf-burning ban in force, the Clarkston Village Council approved an alternative way of removal Monday.

While the village council has pondered banning leaf burning for years, a viable alternative never existed, said President Sharron Catallo. Not until Clarkston Disposal owner Rick Detkowski offered his services for leaf removal at $10 per household for the entire village during an August council meeting did the council have a choice.

Before accepting the proposal, however, the village council decided to ask another area disposal service if it wished to bid on the project. Smith's Disposal did tender a bid, at $2 per household.

Both parties were notified of the other's bid and invited to speak at the Sept. 11 council meeting, before a decision would be made. Neither party showed, and the village council voted 6-0 to accept Smith's low bid.

"It's bound to cause some hardships," Catallo said of the burning ban and leaf removal process. "But in the long run it's for the best."

In a letter to the village council Leonard Smith, president of Smith's Disposal, outlined the procedure for leaf removal this fall.

Leaves must be bagged and at curbside by 8 a.m. for each of the three Saturday pickups. The leaves then will be taken to the Waterford landfill. There is no commercially available compost pile for the leaves at this time according to the Oakland County Solid Waste Division, Smith said.

Detkowski's plan called for the leaves to be dumped in his private compost pile and recycled.

Smith said his company could offer a lower price since it's currently picking up about 250 residents' trash every week, including leaves. The $2 fee would help cover the cost of picking up on a different day, such as Saturday.

If feasible, the village council will purchase commercial-sized bags to sell at-cost to village residents who have large lots and many leaves to dispose of each fall. As of Monday, the dates for the late October, early November pickups had not been determined.

Legislators and letters

The pen is mightier than the sword -- an old axiom but one that holds true today.

With so many controversial issues facing us today, there is no better time than the present to make your voice heard.

After all, we are a democracy "Of the people, for the people and by the people." Putting your thoughts into writing makes the "by the people" phrase become more factual.

Here's some tips of legislator letter writing from the handbook: A Citizen's Guide to State Government:

1. Address the letter properly.
2. Always include your last name and address on the letter itself.

3. Use your own words.
4. Time the arrival of your letter.
5. Know what you are writing about.
6. Be brief.
7. Give reasons for your position.
8. Be constructive.
9. Groups and individuals should determine their priority concerns.
10. You may not always receive a long, detailed response.
11. Write a letter of appreciation.

Residents angry over Bailey Lake school closing

SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Bailey Lake School was closed because of a power outage on Sept. 6, and school children were sent home in the rain.

Three angry school district residents came to the Sept. 11 school board meeting to protest the action. They were mad because the children were sent home without the knowledge of the parents.

Assistant Superintendent Mel Vaara said lighting caused a power failure at the school about 8:30 a.m.

Vaara said children were allowed into the building, but the school had no power, and Detroit Edison was unable to repair the damage until the next morning. Vaara made the decision to send home the over 600 students who attend Bailey Lake.

"I felt I made the best decision," said Vaara.

Without power there were no lights or bathroom facilities working in the building.

Doris Mousseau, principal of Bailey Lake, said they did their best to contact people, but phones were out. The radio stations were contacted to let parents know of the school closing.

After the board meeting, Mousseau said specific instructions are printed in the student handbook about school closings.

"Everything went pretty much according to schedule (concerning the school closing)," said Mousseau.

At the meeting, Gary Nivelt of Whipple Lake Road, Independence Township, voiced disapproval of the action.

He asked board members if they thought it was OK for teachers to listen to the radio during their work hours because, if so, then he'd ask his boss if he could have a radio playing while he was at work.

"Working people don't listen to the radio," Nivelt said angrily.

Nivelt said his girlfriend's two children, a second and a fifth grader, were sent home the day of the school closing. The children are part of the Latch Key program because both adults work.

It is Clarkston schools policy to notify WPON, CKLW or WJR radio stations of any school closing.

"Some of the parents hung around to help," said Mousseau. "Some of my PTA (Parent Teacher Association) mothers were there waiting to help."

Bill Neff, director of administrative services, said there is usually enough time to start phoning parents in a fan-out process -- where one parent calls about two homes, and then that parent calls two more homes and so forth.

"Many of the parents didn't have phones either (due to power outages)," said Neff.

Nivelt said he contacted Superintendent Gary Haner and was told by Haner that there was no fan-out system, and the school district could not be responsible for his student.

Haner was not present at the board meeting due to scheduled vacation time and could not be reached for comment.

Pennie Bowman of Ortonville Road, Independence

Township, said her second grader was put on the wrong bus and sent home.

Bowman said her daughter told the teacher she was on the wrong bus, but the teacher told her daughter it was all right to just get on the bus.

"I'm just surprised more parents aren't here," said Bowman. "The rules need to be changed."

President Janet Thomas said the matter will be looked into immediately.

No action was taken.

Rohr Road hearing set

The first steps needed to make improvements to Rohr Road have been taken by the Independence Township Board.

At their Sept. 7 meeting, board members voted unanimously to set a public hearing of necessity for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 19, at the township annex, 90 N. Main St., Clarkston.

Following that hearing, a special assessment hearing to discuss dollars and cents will be scheduled.

According to Supervisor Frank Ronk, the entirety of Rohr Road, which runs through Independence and Orion townships, is to be paved.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

Phyllis Braun

RENT HOME OUT OR SELL?

QUESTION: I plan to buy a larger home. Do you have any advice on the merits of selling versus renting out our present home?

ANSWER: I would strongly consider selling over renting. To keep the house rented, you'll have to pay advertising costs or fees to a broker. Maintenance costs take a bite out of rental income. Each time there is a turnover the house will have to be cleaned and redecorated. A vacancy can result in a loss that could take years to recover. A dead-beat tenant could take up to six months to evict plus legal costs. You're better off selling a single-family home and using the money to move up to a bigger and better home.

IT MAKES MORE SENSE to sell your house than to rent it out.

How do you think the Detroit Lions will do this year?

"I think they probably should win seven to eight games, depending on if they can keep their quarterbacks healthy and if the stretch offense gels."

Ready for disaster

BY LINDA WALSH LAPINSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Fire, fuel, airplanes, cars and people just don't mix. But area firefighters planned for the worst Sept. 9 during a simulation day at Oakland-Pontiac Airport, Waterford Township.

"Overall, everything went real good," said Capt. Michael Fahrner of the Independence Township Fire Department. "This is the most participants we've had in this type of training with this many departments."

To further their skills in meeting air, car and fire

"The biggest problem of having one of these sessions, which we try to do every three to four years, is the cost of the materials."

disasters, 75-80 firefighters from Independence, Waterford, White Lake and West Bloomfield townships plus airport personnel participated in the aircraft crash rescue simulation last Saturday.

First, a simulated plane constructed from an old tank was set ablaze. The firefighters were then sent through four stations.

The firefighters identified the hazardous material they were dealing with and then determined the type of foam to be used in putting out the blaze.

In real life, a firefighter would have to make that decision, said Fahrner.

"If an alcohol-type fuel is burning, the fuel will mix with the water, so a certain type of foam must be used to mix with the alcohol to smother the flame," he said. "If it is a hydrocarbon gasoline, where the fuel floats on top of the water, a different mixture of foam and water is required."

Another station was a simulated auto accident. The firefighters set up 12 55-gallon drums of fuel around the car and set them on fire. They then had to go in and work around the obstacles of the drums to put out the blaze.

The fourth station was a simulated fuselage set on fire. The type of fuel again had to be determined and extinguished, and simultaneously the passengers had to be rescued.

Jim Runyan of the Waterford Township Fire Department was instrumental in getting this training session together, said Fahrner, adding that the sessions combining fire departments were useful because the departments often work together on real cases.

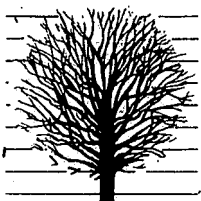

Plus, the combined session helped cut the cost.

"The biggest problem of having one of these sessions, which we try to do every three to four years, is the cost of the materials," said Fahrner.

"Each gallon of foam is $25, and we used 25 gallons of the foam, and we burned approximately 3,000 gallons of fuel. The fuel is provided by the airport," he said.

The Federal Aviation Administration requires airport rescue teams to go through this type of training once a year, said Fahrner. The training session took place in a special area set aside at the airport on Airport Road.

Citizens for Orderly Growth

Time to preserve
our own communities

Doug Carlson

In one of my very first articles, I mentioned the North Area Citizen's Conference, or NACC. This is a countywide organization whose aims and desires are much the same a COG's. Following is an excerpt from one of their newsletters:

Private developers and public empire builders seem to see miles and miles of tidy, plated subdivisions (with the smaller the lots the better), asphalted parking lots and rows of commercial businesses as the unavoidable sweep of progress.

We -- NACC and its friends -- hear of new, proposed site plans, planned unit developments and rezonings, dashed off at meeting after meeting, too often only partially successful in preserving a wetland, a few stately old trees, or in reducing residential density to a more manageable but hardly satisfactory level.

Why is it that those of us who still have some hope of salvaging what's left of our rural environment always seem to react at the last minute to the latest developmental horror?

It seems that there are two different but interrelated problems. The first, of course, is there seems to be a certain "empire builder" mentality at most of our local governments.

Big is better! More development means more taxes. More taxes mean more services and bigger paychecks for government officials -- they have more responsibility.

Most mayors and supervisors seem to prefer being in charge of 100,000 population municipalities. There's also more prestige. So there seems to be a bias in favor of development. That's problem number one.

Problem number two is that those of us trying to buck that trend can't keep waiting until property owner-developers come along and propose something before we decide to fight back. That's where "down-zoning" comes in. A cursory look at the zoning maps of most of the NACC townships reveals all sorts of land which is "over-zoned," i.e., zoned for more intensive uses than a rural community can support.

Our job is to strike first -- urging, pushing, cajoling and persuading our townships to zone underdeveloped land to less intensive uses before someone show up with a site plan for quarter-acre lots.

Two arguments often arise that bear further mention: first, it's not "unfair" to rezone vacant land from R1 (rural residential) to "suburban estates" or the like.

The courts have consistently held that no one has a vested legal right to an existing zoning. The test is always whether the proposed zoning is reasonable -- not that someone has paid taxes in the past based on the ability to develop property that may no longer exist (because the zoning has changed).

If they wanted to develop two years ago, they could have. And if they're entitled to a property tax reduction next year because the zoning has changed, they should get one.

Second, "down-zoning" cannot and will not adversely affect someone who has already developed their land. Once you have developed your property, even if the zoning changes, you are considered a "prior existing, non-conforming use." While there may be restrictions on expanding a present use, no one has a vested right to expand existing uses either. A land owner must always comply with existing -- and sometimes ever changing -- regulations.

In any event, it's time to stop reacting -- it's time to get out and fight to preserve our "rurality."

Get a copy of your township's zoning map, and a copy of the zoning ordinance, and study them. Identify areas that are zoned for overly intensive, or too dense, development.

Circulate informal petitions among your friends and neighbors. And attend planning commission and township board meetings. Organize a thorough "down-zoning" in your community before the bulldozers and steam shovels arrive.

The community you help preserve is your own.

Girls basketball team remains ahead of pack

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

On a night when both six-footers hit three-point bombs, nothing went wrong for Clarkston High's girls basketball team.

Both Susan McKoin and Rhonda Jokisch, with a little encouragement from the bench, hit triples to pace the Wolves to their fourth straight win Sept. 7.

Rochester Adams proved no match for the taller and more aggressive Wolves. Clarkston won, 60-43.

"Rhonda and Susan dominated the boards," said Coach Larry Mahrle. "Everybody played well at different times."

Once again, McKoin and Jokisch dominated the score sheet as well with 19 and 15 points, respectively. Other scorers for Clarkston were Jenny McChesney with nine, Celeste Steinhilper with eight, Tami Mitchell with four, Alyson McChesney with three and Beth Walker with two.

In a hot and muggy Clarkston gym, both teams started slowly. The Wolves led 8-2 halfway through the opening quarter. Adams rallied to cut the lead to 8-6 before Clarkston closed out the period ahead 18-10.

Clarkston opened it up in the second quarter, going up by 11 with five minutes to play in the half. As the quarter was nearing an end, Adams rallied to trail by seven.

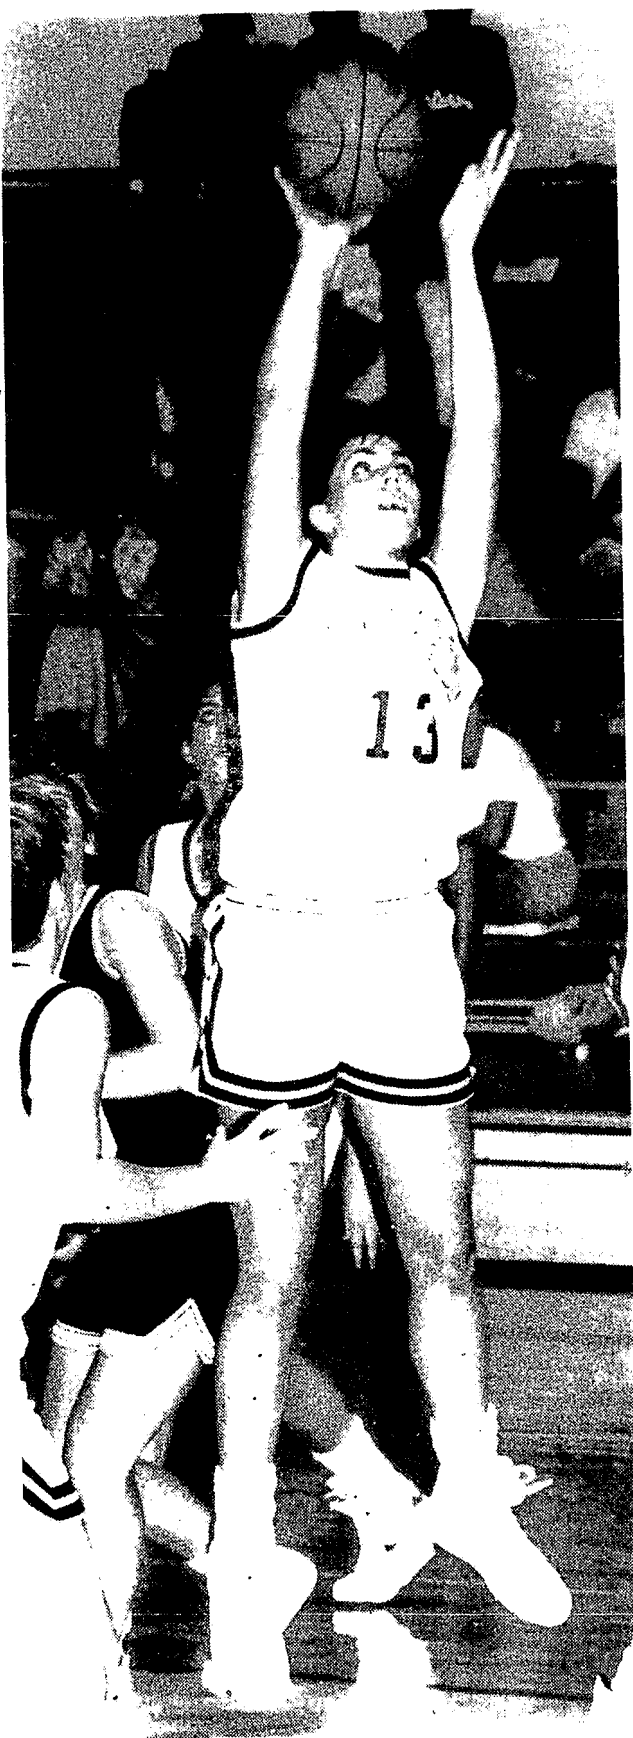

Jokisch restored Clarkston's double-digit lead with a surprise bankshot good for three points as time expired in the first half. Jokisch stood at the three-point arc looking for someone to pass to when teammates yelled time was running out. So up went the desperation shot, and down went Adams' chance for second-half momentum.

The Wolves hit their stride in the third quarter and opened up a 50-29 lead on Jenny McChesney's three-point shot with 2:35 to play in the third period.

Clarkston shooters went cold the rest of the way, however, as the team struggled to reach the 60-point plateau as the game ended.

The Wolves own a perfect 4-0 record and have outscored their opponents by more than 18 points per game. Yet Mahrle hopes to improve the team's offensive execution.

Clarkston has three non-league games remaining (North Farmington, Grand Blanc, Holly) before Greater Oakland Activities League play begins.

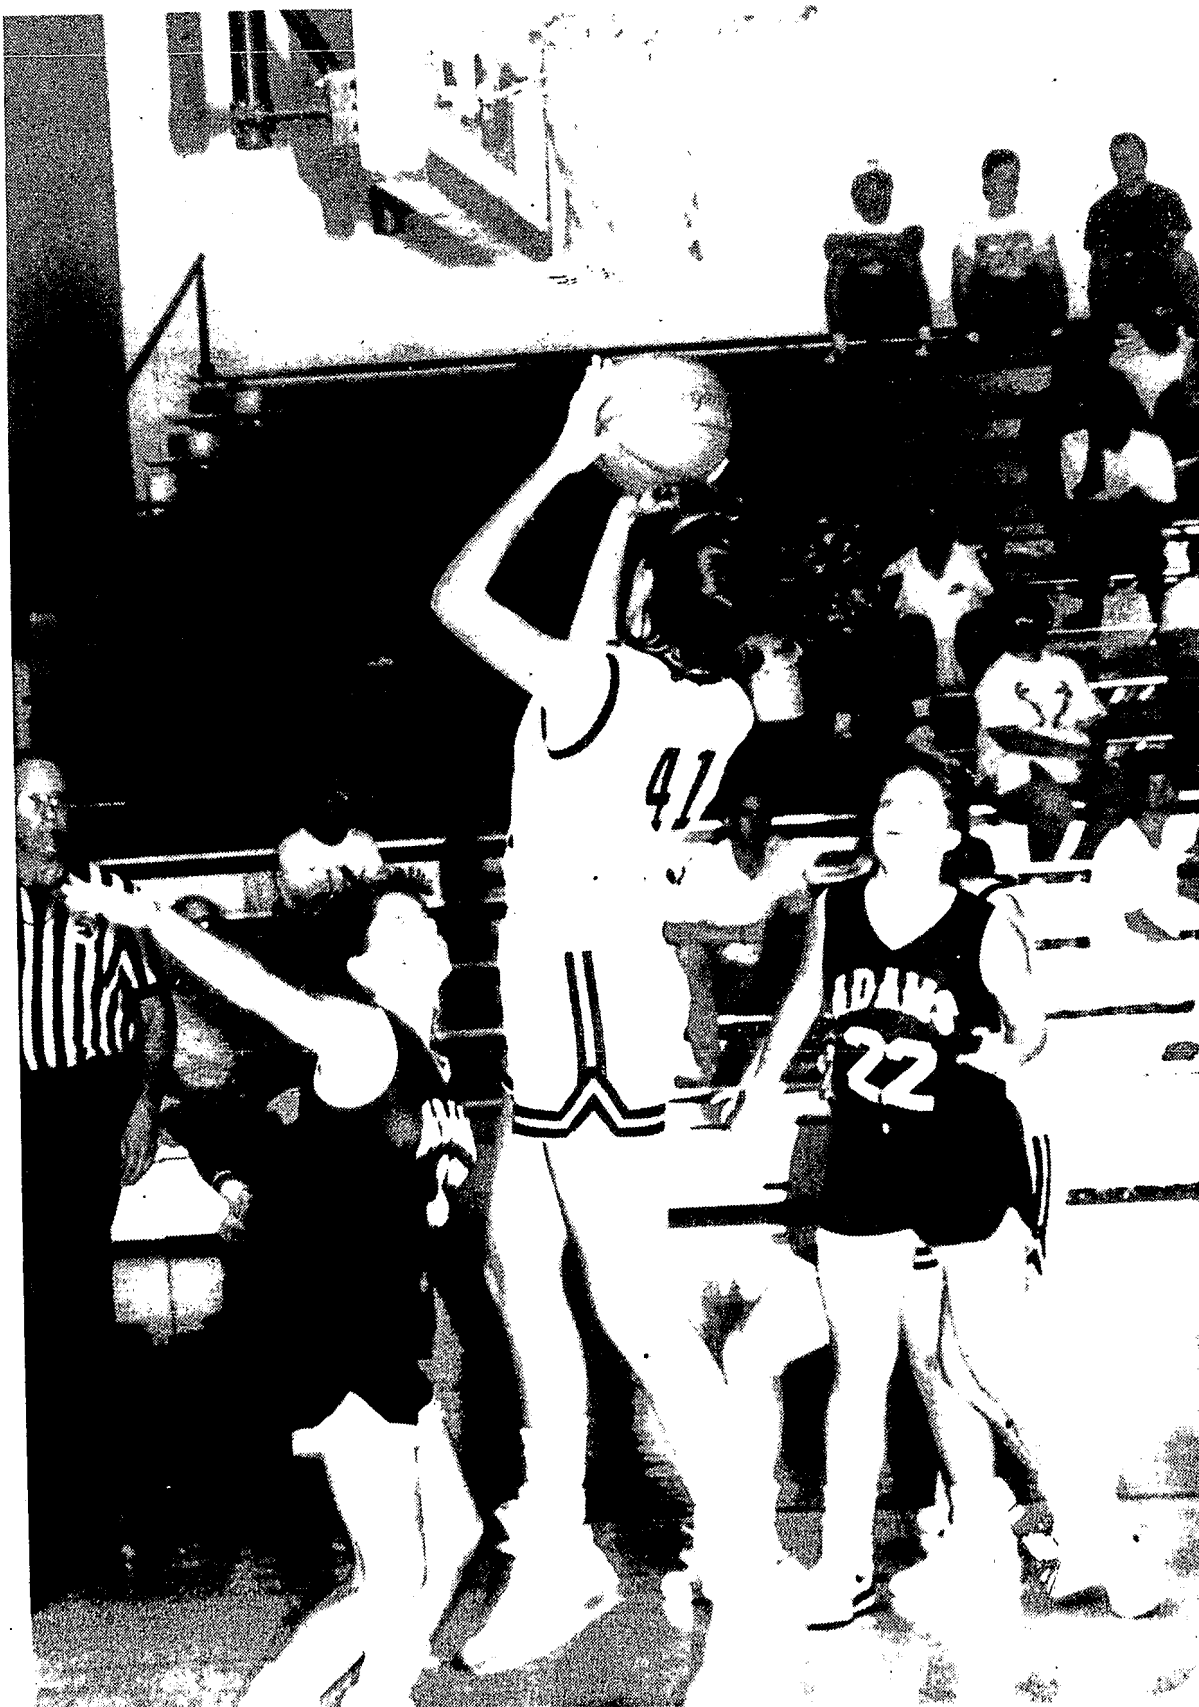

RHONDA JOKISCH puts back a missed shot against Rochester Adams.

Punt, Pass and Kick day set for Sept. 28

The Punt, Pass and Kick competition is set for Thursday, Sept. 28, at Clintonwood Park. It's free to children from Independence Township between the ages of eight and 13.

Boys and girls are eligible and will be divided into age groups according to their age as of Nov. 1. Competition for the eight through 10 groups begins at 5:50 p.m. The others begin at 6:30.

For more information, call the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department (the sponsoring organization) at 625-8223.

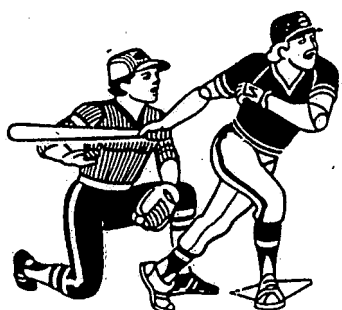

SUSAN MCKOIN led all scorers with 19 points, as Clarkston High won its fourth straight to start the 1989 girls basketball season.

JV soccer scores one in opening loss

Chuck Schones scored the lone goal for the Wolves as the junior varsity soccer team opened the season with a 5-1 loss to Rochester Saturday.

Coach Ron Forbes wasn't disappointed with the result.

"It showed us where we were at," he said. "Now we are ready for the next game."

Clarkston's next match is against Lapeer East on the road Thursday.

Junior varsity team wins 18th straight

With two touchdowns and an end zone interception from freshman Eric Ryan, the junior varsity football team collected its 18th straight win.

The last time the Wolves lost was to Grand Blanc in the 1987 season opener. Clarkston tied South Lyon the following week and hasn't lost since.

The new heroes for the Wolves in 1989 include Ryan, who rushed for a team-high 80 yards on 13 carries, and Brian Davis who had 58 yards on four carries. Davis also had two touchdown runs and an interception. Quarterback Jon Wyniemko completed four of six passes for 72 yards. As a result, Clarkston crushed Saginaw Heritage 34-0 last week.

Defensively, Mark White had five tackles; Dan Griffiths four-and-a-half; Davis and Mike Stanton, four apiece. Wyniemko had an interception and Stanton a fumble recovery.

Despite the impressive individual statistics, the coaches were not totally pleased with the Wolves after the victory.

"We didn't play with much effort or intensity," said John Craven. "I don't know if the heat and humidity had anything to do with it; we have a lot of players that go both ways, but we were flat."

Fortunately for the Wolves, Saginaw didn't take advantage of the situation. In fact, the score could have been worse. On Heritage's first two punt attempts, the snap went over the kicker's head. Each time, however, the kicker recovered the ball in time to punt.

Davis scored the first touchdown of the game. Clarkston missed the extra-point attempt and led 6-0 in the first.

Ryan scored the first of his two touchdowns next, off a four-yard run, in the second quarter. Griffiths ran for the two-point conversion to push Clarkston's lead to 14-0.

Davis bumped the score to 20-0 at the half with another touchdown run, this time from 25 yards out.

In the second half, Wyniemko set up his own two-yard touchdown run with a 21-yard scramble to the Heritage 2-yard line. Dan Lamrouex kicked the extra point.

On the Wolves' final scoring drive of the night, Wyniemko kept the drive alive with a 22-yard pass to Griffiths on a fourth-and-15 play. Ryan scored the touchdown from 18 yards out. Lamrouex added the extra point.

Clarkston will try to add to its winning streak on Thursday with a road game against Greater Oakland Activities League rival Waterford Mott. Game time is set for 6:30 p.m.

Soccer team learns skills on the run

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

If experience is the best teacher, Clarkston High learned a lot during its first week of boys soccer.

The Wolves opened with two victories before losing 5-1 to Rochester Saturday. Rochester exerted itself after the intermission with four unanswered goals to win going away.

"In the second half, we were in a real battle," said Coach Neil Granlund. "We are a young team; we have to work on some things each time out."

Clarkston opened the scoring against Rochester with a little help from the Falcons six minutes into the game. Ryan Forbes was credited with a goal scored when a defender attempted to clear the ball back to his goalie and missed. Unfortunately for Rochester, the ball didn't miss the net.

Rochester tied the score at 1 about nine minutes later for the only other goal of the first half.

In the second half, Rochester scored three times within five minutes to build a comfortable 4-1 margin.

Sophomores fill one-third of the roster spots. Indecision hurt the Wolves in the game.

"We have to learn to pass off quicker," said Granlund. "Defensively, we've had challenges (this season), but not like today. Today was a great lesson."

Clarkston opened the season Sept. 6 on a happier note by beating Lake Fenton 7-2. Dan Tassen scored three goals, Devin DuPree two and Jeremy Delong and Ethan Lee one apiece to lead the Wolves offensively.

Two days later, the Wolves continued to improve with a 5-1 win against Holly. Tassen scored three goals; Matt Warren and Lee added single goals.

RYAN FORBES pushes the ball upfield against Rochester Saturday afternoon. He was credited with the Wolves' only goal of the game.

SOARING MEDICAL COSTS ARE RAISING CAR INSURANCE RATES.

If you or anyone in your family has been hospitalized recently, you know about the skyrocketing cost of hospital medical services. With over $ million being caused by car accidents each year, medical costs have a significant bearing on the price you pay for insurance.

That's why State Farm supports measures that reduce deaths and lessen the number and severity of injuries. We're still strongly behind the 55 mph speed limit. We also work with automakers and consumer groups to encourage the development of safety features.

Our past work in this area helped lead to today's airbags and automatic safety belts.

There is there, every day, finding more ways to help protect policyholders from the causes of rising premiums... so we can keep car insurance affordable.

Hogs assist CHS runners on gridiron

Clarkston won the battle in the trenches Friday night. As a result, the Wolves running backs feasted and rolled up 336 yards to help beat host Saginaw Heritage.

Coach Kurt Richardson credited the offensive line (Joe Webb, Kurt Golarz, John Bokar, Damon Michelsen, Jack Garnett and Walt Wyniemko) for the Wolves' 24-13 win.

Fullback John King took advantage of the situation to kick out 192 yards on 12 carries and one touchdown (a 65-yard run no less). Halfback Brett Kinzler added another 122 yards to the attack and a touchdown (on a 43-yard run).

"John King was outstanding," said Richardson. "For that to happen you have to give credit to the guys up front."

Quarterback Dane Davis had the other TD off a 1-yard run, and David Marks kicked a 22-yard field goal and three extra points for the Wolves.

The special teams also excelled, blocking three Heritage punts.

But not everything pleased the coach on Friday night.

While the offense rolled up big yardage, it also coughed up the ball eight times, losing the ball six times throughout the contest.

The defense also left something to be desired. "I wasn't happy with the defense," Richardson said. "They are still not at a level of consistency."

Richardson is busy preparing his crew for a home game against Greater Oakland Activities League rival Waterford Mott, led by former-Clarkston coach Walt Wyniemko.

"He'll have them ready," said Richardson of the upcoming game. Game time is 7:30 p.m. Friday.

NANCY CAROSELLA had an easy time in singles play against Brandon.

Tennis team wins twice

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Although the girls tennis team is inexperienced, the Wolves played like veterans when the season opened last week.

Clarkston ripped Greater Oakland Activities League foe Brandon 4-0 in a rain-shortened match and then followed it up with a 7-0 pasting of league rival Pontiac Northern Monday afternoon at Clintonwood Park.

In between the GOAL wins, the Wolves finished third at the Lapeer Invitational on Saturday. Lapeer East and Flint Central finished first and second, respectively, in that tournament.

"It was a good (tournament) for us," said Coach Dick Swartout. "Everybody had the chance to play a lot."

Individually, several Wolves stood out. Caroline Allison finished second at No. 1 singles.

The team of Claire Hulleza and Nancy Carosella finished first at No. 3 doubles; Stephanie Gay and Jenny Brown finished second at No. 4 doubles, and Katie Morris and Tracey Ortwine finished third at No. 2 doubles.

In the season opener at Brandon Sept. 8, the Wolves didn't have any three-set matches while coasting to victory.

Allison was a winner 6-3, 6-0; Carosella won 6-1, 6-0; Heather Shaw won 7-6, 6-4 and Jessica Miller led 6-4 in singles play when play was halted.

Brown and Hulleza won 6-0, 6-3; Susan McNally and Morris led 6-3, 3-2, and Kathy Krier and Debbie Bellows led 6-3, 1-0 in doubles when the rains came.

On Monday, only Allison was pushed to the three-set limit as the Wolves again crushed the competition. Allison won her match, 2-6, 6-2, 6-3.

The doubles teams of Carosella-Hulleza, Morris-Ortwine and Miller-McNally also were winners.

Low scores are good sign for CHS golf team

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Only the weather could beat the boys golf team from Clarkston High last week.

The Wolves began the season with two victories and one rainout. The Sept. 6 match against Hartland will be rescheduled at a later date.

Clarkston handed Greater Oakland Activities League foe Brandon a 162-181 loss Sept. 5 as Steven Brown and Dan Scribner both shot 39. Sean Clauw and Gary Kaul also played well for the Wolves. Matt Perry was the top golfer for Brandon, shooting a 43.

The Wolves' low team score of 162 proved a pleasant surprise to Coach Jim Chamberlain.

"That was the best score from any combination (on the team) that has been turned in since we began practicing Aug. 16," he said.

Chamberlain knows what it will take to keep the good team scores coming -- teamwork.

"The hardest thing to teach is to play for a bogey," he said. "The tendency is to go for the miracle shot (when troubles arise) when they should go for a bogey, forget about it, and go on to the next hole."

On Sept. 7, the host Wolves bested league rival Waterford Mott 165-169 at Spring Lake Country Club despite the oppressive humidity and swarming bugs.

Clauw led the way by shooting a 38. Others who played well were Scribner, Brown and David Coin. Chris Forbes was the top golfer for Mott, carding a 39.

While the team doesn't have any superstars, 10 players are capable of playing well during any given match. Chamberlain's problem will be finding the right combinations.

"The success of the team will depend on that," he said.

Of the up-and-coming players, Chamberlain looks for David Studt and Derek Bildstein to challenge those ahead of them on the varsity team. He also expects Jeff Coxen to improve as his confidence level builds.

The seven seniors on the team are Brown, Clauw, Coin, Kaul, Derek Manning, Scribner and Jeff Snyder.

JV team beats Brandon

With help from three Jasons, the junior varsity golf team whipped Brandon in its season opener.

Jason Jarvis led the way by shooting a 41 on Sept. 5 in Clarkston High's 173-212 victory. Jason Ruth, Jason Head and Ben Beridon followed, three shots behind the leader.

GARY KAUL tees off on the 10th hole at Spring Lake Country Club Thursday.

Cougars win with defense against rival

After his team blanked rival Clarkston, Sashabaw Junior High football coach Mike Stefanski praised his defensive squad.

"Our defense played outstanding," he said following the Cougars' 28-0 win. "We stuck to our guns and did what we set out to do."

Neither team could muster much offense in the opening quarter, as the defenses set the tone. For Sashabaw, Steve Cohoon had a sack and a fumble recovery. For Clarkston, Steve Blank had a sack and Justin Tappero a touchdown-saving tackle.

Sashabaw punted on its first possession, Clarkston fumbled on its first try. Andy Howe recovered the fumble for the Cougars.

The teams reversed roles on the ensuing possessions when Sashabaw fumbled at the Clarkston 4-yard line and Aaron Kirk recovered for the Wolverines. Clarkston's drive ended early in the second quarter with a punt.

Sashabaw finally got on the scoreboard with a 37-yard screen pass from Nick Shires to Jerry Anderson with 6:20 left in the first half. Matt Smith ran the ball for a successful two-point conversion and a 8-0 lead.

Clarkston moved the ball down to the Sashabaw 39-yard line late in the half, but time ran out on the Wolverines before they could score.

Anderson scored midway through the third quarter on a 14-yard run to put the Cougars in front 14-0. The pass play for the two-point conversion failed.

Sashabaw put the game out of reach with two touchdowns in the fourth quarter, including one as time ran out.

Smith scored the first, from 3 yards out. A Shires to Aaron Phillips pass play netted two points on the conversion try. Jerry Mowery bulled into the end zone from a yard out as time expired to close out the scoring.

Peter Auchter

Time Out

Hot, hot, hot!

Wow!, was it hot last Thursday or are the scientists right about the much talked about Greenhouse Effect?

Those who don't know, scientists have been predicting that the earth's temperature is increasing due to accumulation of carbon dioxide and water vapor in warm air trapped by a mass of cold air.

One day, or so they say, the polar ice caps may melt and drown us all like rats. Until then, we can have fun in the sun, as we did last Thursday.

First, we go to Spring Lake Country Club and the Clarkston High golf team.

It's the middle of the afternoon, an overcast muggy day, the kind that are enjoyed from poolside only. Oh yes, there were plenty of flying insects around to keep everyone occupied as the players wait to tee off. Great conditions to play under, no?

Near the end of the round, the sun finally wiped out the clouds and brightened the day a little. At the very least, it brightened the mood of all the sweaty, tired players. I'm sure they appreciated it. Thankfully, the Wolves were winners. They didn't sweat for nothing.

At the junior varsity football game several hours later, the players probably were wishing they could shed their gear for something a little more appropriate for the weather. Maybe a pair of Hawaiian shorts and shades. What do you think? Might even draw a few more people to the game, who knows?

Despite the weather and cumbersome gear, the game went on as scheduled. Fortunately, nobody dropped like flies (I might mention very few bugs could be found), and the Wolves won the game. They didn't sweat for nothing. And they also won their 18th straight game dating back to 1987. (Hats off to Coach John Craven and to all the players he's coached since then.)

Maybe an hour after the junior varsity football game got underway, the girls varsity basketball team took to the sauna/court against Rochester Adams. If the stands had been packed for a big Greater Oakland Activities League contest, there could have been trouble.

Even with the doors open to the gym, it didn't offer much relief. Nobody wanted overtime here, especially the officials who stepped outside at every opportunity for a breath of fresh air. With a few scares along the way, the Wolves wound up winning the game. Again, at least they didn't sweat for nothing.

The following day, the girls tennis team opened at Brandon under hot conditions. Not necessarily the way tennis is to be played, yet the Wolves got the job done -- sweat and all.

For all of my sweat, I saw many of the fall sports teams and realized it's going to be an interesting season in Clarkston. All of the teams look good and should be competitive when the playoffs roll around. (That's if scientists don't change their forecast.)

Township boxer smashing success in ring

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A successful amateur boxing career behind him, Mike Grable hung up his gloves for good a couple of years ago.

After a year-and-a-half layoff, though, he found himself back in the ring -- this time as a professional boxer. The Independence Township resident could find nothing that gave him more pleasure.

"It's hard to stay away from it," he said. Especially when you're good.

Grable, a 1987 graduate of Clarkston High School, began his professional career with six straight victories, including a couple of wins during Fight Night at the Palace of Auburn Hills.

Under the guidance of a new manager, Leo Corradi, Grable's career is beginning to take shape. Last weekend he was to fight in Atlantic City, New Jersey, on the undercard of the Meldrick Taylor-Courtney Hooper International Boxing Federation junior welterweight championship bout.

Win or lose, Grable will be back in town for another Fight Night at the Palace in October. He has definite plans for his boxing future.

"I'd like to keep going as long as I can and bring a championship home," he said. "I have no idea why I ever sat out a year. The feeling you get is the highest high."

Besides the Palace, Grable has fought at Cobo, Detroit Yacht Club and the Premier Center in Sterling Heights. His lone out-of-town bout before his trip to Atlantic City was in the rain at Cleveland.

"I was trying to get that one over with as quick as possible," he recalled.

Many of his six pro fights were over quickly. He has five knockouts to his credit, two first-round wins and one in the second. In the second-round win, Grable fought back after being cut in the first round.

Before his self-imposed year away from boxing, Grable was an excellent amateur boxer -- a winner in the national Silver Gloves tournament (junior tourney to the Golden Gloves) four years in a row and a participant in the junior olympics.

Boxing became a part of his life at an early age. He fought in his first state-sanctioned bout as a six-year-old.

At the time, the sport was just something to keep him

MIKE GRABLE looks forward to improving on his record as a professional boxer.

"I have no reason to rush. I'm 19; I have plenty of time. Boxing-wise, I have a lot of maturity to gain."

busy.

"It's hard to be serious when you are that young," he said.

He also found time for other interests like football. He spent six years with the Clarkston Chiefs football program and one year at the high school level.

After returning from his year layoff, Grable soon found himself on the shelf when he suffered shoulder trouble. Surgery on his right shoulder corrected the problem but set him back awhile.

While his shoulder healed, he worked with his left arm to a point where it rivals his right. In the long run, the injury may have helped his career.

"I'm pretty versatile," he said. "My hook is tremendous."

An abundance of nervous energy is the only thing Grable would change about his current boxing style.

"I fight 10 fights before each fight," he said. "I have to work on calming myself down. The two hours before the fight are the worst; the fight is the easy part."

Grable plans on boxing about once a month from here on out and taking it easy whenever he needs the rest.

"I have no reason to rush," he said. "I'm 19; I have plenty of time. Boxing-wise, I have a lot of maturity to gain."

Former market owner recalls business of the past

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Marian Terry has seen grocery shopping change considerably since the days of Terry's Market, formerly at 12 S. Main, Clarkston -- the building that now houses Coach's Corner.

Marian said some people don't want to accept change, but she does -- even though it's difficult to do so at times.

"You have to learn to accept change -- it's progress," said Marian.

Even though the grocery stores of today are different than the market Marian ran with her husband, Earl, from 1945-67, the Terrys kept up with progress in their store.

Refrigeration brought great advances, and the Terrys kept meeting the changing needs of the grocery business during their market years, though the space was limited at the store.

The Terrys came to Clarkston in 1931, "during hard times," said Marian, who lives on Main Street, Clarkston.

Earl began by working for William Dunstan -- owner of Dunstan's meat market at the 12 S. Main location -- and was paid $15 a week.

Earl had been raised in the Clarkston area but moved with his family to Howell. He worked in a factory in Howell, where he met Marian; and he ended up back in Clarkston after Dunstan gave him the job. Earl and Dunstan had been classmates.

Dunstan's became Waterbury and Terry in 1938, but the Terrys were not the controlling proprietors in the operation. Clifford and Cora Waterbury owned 51 percent of the business, and the Terrys only owned 24 percent. Waterbury's brother, Lionel, owned the other 25 percent.

Sometime between 1931 and 1938, staples became part of the merchandise sold at the market; until that time only meats had been sold there.

As time passed and the Terry's became sole owners of the market, the store grew into a family operation.

"We were a Pa and Ma -- or Ma and Pa business," chuckled Marian.

The Terrys put their two daughters, Norma and Shirley, to work in the market. Even Earl's father, Louis, worked cutting meats.

"Food came delivered in bulk, and the girls would help bag sugar, beans and rice," said Marian.

When the Terrys first owned the store, items were handed to customers who chose them from off of the shelves behind the counter, explained Marian. The advent of the adding machine changed that type of shopping, though, and customers soon picked their own items from the shelves.

"We gave good service," said Marian. "My husband had an eagle eye -- he wanted people taken care of. He always saw when there was several people standing at the counter and hurried up to take care of them."

The Terrys supplied Clarkston Schools with meat for the lunch program before the government started supplying food for the schools sometime in the 1950s she said.

"Good beef is what we had in the store. Earl only wanted top grade in beef," said Marian. "He loved his

Clarkston couple recall school days

The decline of respect and discipline brings lower quality of education

BY CAROLYN WALKER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

At 81, white-haired, bespectacled Eleanor Thayer seems a kindly, intelligent, dignified lady.

Remembering events of the past, she banters good-naturedly with Ralph, her husband of 55 years, occasionally giving him an affectionate slap on the knee.

When they fall into disagreement, she corrects him gently then quiets herself to let him finish.

They have shared much, including same-day cataract surgery, she says, adding that she doesn't know how she would get along without him.

She does not seem like an old witch.

Unfortunately, an unthoughtful Clarkston High School student in 1968 saw fit to ask "if the old witch was in," where Eleanor could overhear and set the course for Eleanor's prompt retirement as librarian.

Ralph, on the other hand, fared better. He rode out the turbulent 1960s as a teacher and coach, retiring from the high school in 1970 with the affectionate moniker "Doc Thayer."

Never mind that he is not a doctor.

He beams with pride at the recollection as if he had delivered thousands of babies.

Eleanor and Ralph remember their days as educators from their modest older home on Miller Road, Clarkston.

Because of their positions, they pepper their conversation with the names of former teachers, administrators and students and recall, fondly, what a good time they all had despite the depression and World War II.

Times were definitely different then, they say. There was more respect. Better cooperation. Students were well disciplined. The teachers were fun and friendly.

And, they agree, because of this, the average education was better 20 to 50 years ago.

Eleanor and Ralph, who met when they were students at Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti, were attracted to Clarkston in 1937 when Ralph was solicited for a teaching position and offered a (he stretches his words for impact): "$100 raise."

Former educators recall school days at Clarkston High

With the prospect of earning a $1,200-a-year income, Ralph accepted a teaching position at the then high school, now Clarkston Junior High.

Specializing in commercial classes at Cleary College, Ypsilanti, as well, he taught bookkeeping and typing and related courses and, because he had majored in physical education at Eastern, was soon made the voluntary football, baseball and, eventually, basketball coach.

He remembers dedicatedly pushing his lawn mower from his house on Church Street and mowing the entire football field so the athletes wouldn't have to play in long grass.

Also responsible for treating player injuries, Ralph kept a satchel in his classroom, prompting the nickname "Doc Thayer."

"Pretty soon the kids all started calling me that," he recalls happily.

Eleanor, who was a popular local seamstress before being employed by the school district, loved working in education, as did Ralph.

She was, essentially, responsible for building the high school's library from a few outdated classroom books.

It is clear that she valued quality education and her role in helping students.

The general decline in respect and discipline on the parts of both students and parents, which the Thayers believe has contributed to many of today's education problems, obviously saddens her.

She speaks with some resignation and a lot of admirable honesty about her decision to retire:

"I got so I couldn't stand the kids anymore."

Helpers keep Clarkston woman 87 years young

BY LINDA WALSH LAPINSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

To hear Rose Kaltz talk, you would picture some agile young thing instead of someone who needs to use a walker.

"I am 87 years old; did you know that?" she asks a visitor to her Clarkston home.

"I never think of myself as being old," says Rose. "I still go to all the parties I am invited to; I love being with people younger than I am."

Rose grew up in the Royal Oak area, and her late husband, Clarence, was from Detroit.

The couple lived in Detroit where Clarence was a policeman for 25 years. Rose has two children: Norbert, who lives in Royal Oak; and Marion Stevenson, who lives in Fenton. Rose has nine grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

After Clarence retired from the police department, the Kaltzes moved to Milford, where Clarence worked for 10 years at the Milford General Motors Corp. Proving Grounds. They lived on three acres near Kensington Park.

"We used to have parties with 30 to 40 people, and I would ask Mrs. Lane, my neighbor, 'Did we bother you with all the noise?' And she said she never heard a sound."

Rose has lived in Clarkston at her Princess Lane (See HOME CARE, next page)

Bananas are good source of vitamin B6

Are you undernourished? You are if you're like most Americans. Studies show the average U.S. diet provides less than 70 percent of the recommended daily allowance for an important vitamin -- B6.

This is especially true of teen-age girls who often have poor eating habits and new, unmet dietary needs associated with puberty.

Women who are pregnant or taking birth control pills may also have an increased need for the vitamin.

Fortunately, foods rich in vitamin B6 are not only plentiful but pleasant. One of the most popular is the banana. The riper they are, the more B6 they contain, a university study discovered.

A medium-sized banana provides 29 percent of the recommended daily allowance for B6, and the riper -- and therefore sweeter -- it is, the more that percentage rises.

Doctors discourage excessive, chronic intake of B6, such as from non-food sources, but a banana a day, may just keep the doctor away.

DIRECTOR Pat Sirbaugh has been with the Independence Township-based home health program since its beginning. She was the second nurse hired, but she's worked up the ranks. Rose Kaltz was one of Pat's first patients.

Arthritis doesn't have to slow you down

Most people view arthritis as an "old people's disease." They also assume that you can't do much about it except take a few aspirins and get worse.

But these kinds of myths often produce a self-fulfilling prophecy for people with arthritis.

When people resign themselves to the discomfort and move less to avoid pain, they can lose function and the pain can increase, according to Roy Fleischmann, clinical associate professor of medicine at the University of Texas Health Science Center in Dallas, and chief of rheumatology at St. Paul's Medical Center in Dallas.

Here are some tips for coping with arthritis in daily life:

- Don't ignore the warning signs of arthritis -- joint pain, joint swelling, warmth and redness. If you have any of these signs or symptoms, see a doctor.

- Move all joints every day to maintain your mobility.

- Use self-help devices to reduce strain on affected joints.

- Learn relaxation techniques, such as deep breathing and meditation, which can help relieve muscle tension and joint pain.

- Take the medication that is prescribed for you. Be cautious about stopping or reducing your medication without first consulting your doctor, even when you feel good.

Many medications are available to reduce the pain and inflammation of arthritis. They can often permit people to continue to hold a job, care for a home and family, and just enjoy themselves.

Often people with arthritis have trouble finding a medicine that works for them because each person may respond differently to each treatment.

People who have or think they may have arthritis should consult a physician to develop a treatment program appropriate for them.

Home care visits keep Clarkston woman happy

residence for 26 years. She has watched all the children grow up around her, and they are either in college or have gotten married, she says.

Her home is neatly tucked on the corner lot, and upon entering the living room, one sees a beautifully kept home.

Until recently, Rose enjoyed reading a lot; but her eyes tire quickly, so she limits her reading time to short spurts.

Sitting in a chair next to a shiny walker, she describes how much she likes her new walking aid.

"It has wheels on it, and when you push the handle down, it stops. It is like a brake system," she says.

Rose is a patient in the North Oakland Home Health Care group. The walker and all of the other medical equipment in her home is found for her through the home health care service.

The equipment and help from the health care group have made all the difference in Rose's life.

Without the help of the three weekly visits from the nurses or nurse's aides, Rose would have the difficult task of getting to the doctor's office.

The nurses, through this home care service, act as a liaison between the doctor and patient, monitoring vital signs, medication and the general welfare of the patient.

The home care service offers a variety of services, such as social workers, therapists, homemaker-home health aides and dietitians -- all who come to the patient who otherwise is not ambulatory.

Rose has used the home care service in the past, as "I never think of myself as being old. I still go to all the parties I am invited to; I love being with people younger than I am."

Non-profit home care helps all ages

Aunt Sarah has been released from the hospital and has a broken hip. She is living alone and needs help with her care. What is a person to do?

Many families are met with these problems. That's why Maria Baylis initiated the non-profit North Oakland Home Care in 1983, which serves the north Oakland County area.

Baylis, an Independence Township resident who has been in the health field most of her adult life, sensed the need for this type of service in the area, she said.

Other areas, such as Southfield and Detroit, had these services; but no one was meeting the needs of patients in the surrounding area.

Home care, based in an M-15, Independence Township, office, is a service to the recovering, disabled or chronically ill person. It provides treatment and effective functioning in the home environment, she said.

It can be easily provided for a short or long period of time and is especially useful when family members can't effectively take care of their loved ones.

Due to rising hospital or institutional costs, more people leave earlier or never enter the hospital, said Baylis. Instead, they can be cared for in their homes.

Recent studies show that people improve and recover faster at home than in institutions, she said.

Home care services are provided for people of all ages. The services are not just for the elderly. Younger adults and infants and children requiring even the most sophisticated treatment can return to their own homes for their recovery.

Home care services are provided by: registered nurses; homemaker-home health aides; social workers; physical, occupational and speech therapists; and dietitians.

Services provided include: bathing, grooming, dressing, cooking and cleaning; help with financial circumstances and emotional needs of patient and family; blood pressure checks and other medical evaluations.

Eligible patients who are interested in the home care must be referred by their physicians, said Baylis.

did her late husband, Clarence; and Rose, who is a lively talker, has nothing but accolades for the service and the people.

"The people are nice and very dependable," she says.

The home care people likewise have nothing but praise for Rose.

"Mrs. Kaltz is one of our most alert patients that we care for through our home care service," says nurse Denise McIntyre. "She loves the nurses' visits and is able to help herself and carry through our instructions."

Fiber can lower cholesterol level

One nutrition hero is fiber, which comes in two forms from lots of sources.

Fiber comes in two types, soluble and insoluble," says Louise Hanlon, administrative dietitian at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac.

Fruits, vegetables, oat bran and legumes -- dried beans and peas -- are good sources of soluble fiber, she says. Grains, cereals and whole wheat breads supply insoluble fiber, and each type has its own advantages.

According to Hanlon, soluble fiber is known to lower cholesterol in the blood stream. One theory suggests that it actually absorbs cholesterol and allows the body to pass it out, instead of retaining it.

Insoluble fiber is a natural laxative and helps pass food through the digestive system faster. Since food remains in the body for a shorter period of time, it has less chance of building up in the colon. This reduces the chance of colon cancer.

The recommended intake of fiber is 25-40 grams per day, Hanlon says.

"This would be considered a high-fiber diet," she says.

In order to reach and maintain a high fiber diet, Hanlon suggests the following tips:

- Eat at least four servings of fruits and vegetables per day (fruit juice contains some fiber but not nearly enough).

- Look for whole wheat breads (some breads and flours may say simply "wheat" and be only white with a caramel coloring).

- Prepare more bean dishes as main courses in casseroles and other food dishes.

We take care of you, 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

You can have your cake and eat it too

You don't have to give up all the favorite recipes handed down to you to keep up with today's emphasis on nutritional health, according to Sylvia Treitman.

Instead, says the home economist of the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service, learn to modify and update old recipes by decreasing fat, calories, sugar and salt and by increasing fiber.

How often you consume a particular food will help to determine exactly what modification is needed.

For example, eliminating fat and calories from a daily tuna salad may be more beneficial than trying to de-calorize a one-a-year dessert recipe.

A major step in recipe modification is determining your own personal goal. What is your most important concern - fat? Sugar? Salt?

First decide on your emphasis, and then go for it. Here are some tips for recipe modification:

~ Use two egg whites to replace one whole egg, or use egg substitute.

~ Use vegetable oil instead of solid fat; use one-fourth less in a recipe calling for solid fat. In baking, use oil recipes for assured success.

~ Decrease sugar and salt or eliminate them totally from recipes, and substitute herbs, spices and flavorings.

~ Use onion powder and garlic powder for onion and garlic salt in recipes.

~ To add fiber, substitute refined flours with part whole grain, oat bran or oatmeal in recipes.

~ Add more fruits and vegetables to recipes for added fiber.

You now can have your cake and eat it, too. Any questions, call the food and nutrition hotline, 858-0904.

Heed heart attack warning signals

During a heart attack, your body usually sends out warning signals that your heart is starving for oxygen.

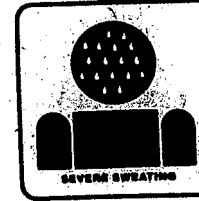

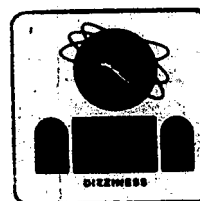

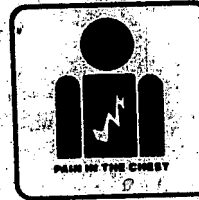

An uncomfortable pressure, fullness, squeezing or pain in the center of your chest for more than two minutes is one signal. Chest pain that spreads to your shoulders, neck or arms is another.

Dizziness, fainting, sweating, nausea or shortness of breath may also occur. Sometimes the signals may subside, only to return later.

Help your heart. Learn to recognize these signals and take fast action. Remember that each year, 350,000 Americans die from heart attacks before reaching the hospital. So don't ignore the warning signals. Act immediately.

If you are having chest discomfort that lasts for two minutes or more, call the emergency rescue service (911 or 625-3311 in Independence Township and 911 in Springfield Township).

If you can get to a hospital faster by car, have someone drive you. Find out which hospitals in your area offer 24-hour emergency cardiac care.

Select in advance the facility nearest your home and office, and tell your family and friends so they will know what to do. Keep a list of emergency numbers next to your telephone and in a prominent place in your pocket, wallet or purse.

If you are with someone who is experiencing the warning signals, and if they last for two minutes or longer, insist on taking prompt action. Expect the person to deny the possibility of anything as serious as a heart attack.

Call the emergency rescue service, or get to the nearest hospital emergency room with 24-hour cardiac care. Give mouth-to-mouth breathing and chest compression (CPR) if it is necessary and if you are properly trained.

The above information was provided by the American Heart Association.

DON'T worry if you can't sleep. The pressure to fall asleep only makes it more difficult to do so.

DO try a glass of warm milk or a cup of herbal tea as a nice, sleep-inducing nightcap.

DON'T eat anything rich in protein just before bed. It's an energizer.

DO try telling yourself: "I'm getting sleepy. I'm getting sleepy. I'm getting sleepy." This sort of self-hypnosis works for many.

Strategies for sleepless people

If you're tired of not sleeping, these don'ts and do's may be the news that helps you snooze.

DO down a bedtime snack that's high in carbohydrates. English muffins and bananas are good choices, one study found. Avoid meat and other protein-rich foods.

DON'T drink alcoholic beverages just before bedtime. Milk or herbal tea are considered better nightcaps. DO try to relax your muscles, a few at a time.

DON'T worry about not sleeping. Just lying in bed can be nearly as good for you, and once you take the pressure to sleep off yourself, you may find it easier to achieve.

DO breathe deeply. Take five deep slow breaths and tell yourself you're getting more relaxed and sleepy with each one.

If none of this works, you can always try reading this article over ... and over ... and over ... and over ... and ...

Notice Charter Township of Springfield PUBLIC HEARING

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF SPRINGFIELD will hold a PUBLIC HEARING at the regular meeting on TUESDAY, September 19, 1989, beginning at 7:30 p.m. at the Springfield Township Hall, 650 Broadway, Davisburg, Michigan. The Public Hearing will cover:

ADDITION TO ZONING ORDINANCE NO. 26:
SECTION 15.10 - Alteration of Natural Resources and Features. Land balancing, grading, and trenching of land, the removal of topsoil, subsoil, sand, gravel and materials, and the filling of land with soils and other materials will effect temporary and/or permanent changes in the topographical, geological, hydrogeological and vegetative characteristics of land. Because of these changes, the operations create dangers and hazards by virtue of shifting earth, standing water, filtration into the underground water systems and other like considerations. In recognition of these facts and in order to preserve Township resources, prevent nuisances and hazards, and require reasonable control of such operations it is deemed necessary that said operations be regulated.

Except as hereinafter provided, no excavation, grading or filling of land or depositing or removal of soil shall be conducted within the Township without obtaining a written permit from the Township. The receipt of a permit from the Township does not relieve the applicant from applying for and obtaining all other necessary permits from other local, state and Federal agencies as required by law. The receipt of permits from other agencies does not relieve the applicant from applying for and obtaining a permit from the Township.

1. Administration and Enforcement. It shall be the responsibility of the official or officials designated by the Township Board to administer and enforce the provisions of this Ordinance.

2. Permitted Acts and Uses. The following acts and uses are permitted without first obtaining a permit under the provisions of this Section:

a. Land alteration customarily associated with maintaining and enjoying existing single and two-family dwellings such as septic system and well installation and repair, landscaping and gardening, driveway maintenance, foundation repair, and other similar activities.

b. Agricultural use of land.

c. Public road or utility construction or repair by public agency, public utility or their contractor.

3. Separate Permit Not Required: The following acts and uses which have obtained permits under other provisions of this Ordinance will not have to obtain a separate permit under this Section, but are subject to all provisions herein:

a. Land alteration associated with the construction of single and two-family dwellings for which a building permit has been issued.

b. Land alterations for a development which has received approval under 16.07 Site Plan Review or under Ordinance No. 27 Springfield Township Subdivision Regulations.

c. Existing extractive operations or new extractive operations subject to the provisions of Article XIII.A.

4. Requirements for Obtaining a Permit.

a. The application for a permit shall be filed on a form provided by the Township. The Township Board shall appoint a Resource Review Committee composed of one (1) Township Board member, one (1) Planning Commission member, and one (1) administrative staff to review and approve each permit application. The Committee may require such additional information from the applicant as is necessary to determine that the alteration for which approval is requested will meet the requirements of this Section. The Committee may consult with the Township Engineer, Township Planner, or any other appropriate expert to make such a determination. The Township shall issue the permit requested upon recommendation of the Committee that it is satisfied that the alteration:

- (1) Will not impede drainage;
- (2) Will not alter the topographical features of the applicant's property causing a change in the natural flow of surface waters with respect to adjoining properties;
- (3) Will not be in violation of any condition of this Ordinance or other Township, State, or Federal law;
- (4) Does not endanger health, safety or welfare of any individual;
- (5) Will not create an unreasonable hazard, annoyance, or inconvenience to the owners or occupants of nearby property; will not significantly change the character of the neighborhood or unreasonably reduce the value of nearby properties;
- (6) Will not damage any public utility or road;
- (7) Will not restrict further use and development of the existing or adjacent property; and/or
- (8) Is the minimum necessary to accomplish use of the property under current zoning.

b. Where necessary to a proper consideration of the factors listed in Section 15.10.4, the Township is authorized to require the applicant to furnish any or all of the information described in this sub-section.

described in this sub-section.

(1) The residence and business address of the applicant, including all members of any firm or partnership or all officers and directors of any corporation applying for a permit.

(2) Permanent parcel number(s) as on record with the County of Oakland of the subject site and all abutting properties, with ownership.

(3) The exact nature of the alteration; a description of the materials, natural resources and features to be altered, the approximate quantities involved, and; the anticipated starting date and duration of the alteration.

(4) A topographic map of existing land features prepared by a land surveyor or professional engineer at a scale not smaller than one hundred (100) feet to one (1) inch, indicating:

a) Identification of the area where alterations are proposed.

b) Existing ground surface elevations for the subject property and adjacent areas within three hundred (300) feet of said property boundaries by topographical contours at intervals not exceeding two (2) feet, U.S.G.S. datum.

c) All existing surface and subsurface improvements within the subject area such as buildings, roads, driveways, fences, culverts, pipe lines, electric and telephone lines, etc., accurately located and clearly identified and described.

d) Existing drainage courses with channel cross-section and profile information.

(5) A map or drawing of the proposed land alteration prepared by a land surveyor or professional engineer, registered in the State of Michigan, at the same scale as the topographic map indicating:

a) Proposed finished surface elevations and slopes, by contours at intervals not exceeding two (2) feet, on U.S.G.S. datum, with cross-sections as necessary to clearly indicate proposed slopes and drainage provisions around periphery of proposed site.

b) Clear delineation of limits of the proposed alteration, including any phasing.

c) Location of proposed access roads to or within the proposed site.

d) Stormwater drainage provisions, both during and following completion of operations, including drainage pattern, run-off calculations and detailed information for proposed temporary or permanent drainage facilities.

e) Type of proposed fill material and proposed placement and compaction methods.

f) Details of provisions for controlling soil erosion and for controlling sedimentation onto contiguous properties and into water courses, both during and following completion of operations.

(6) Seal of the surveyor or engineer that supervised the preparation of the map, on each sheet thereof.

5. The Township may attach such conditions to the granting of the Permit under this Section which are found to be necessary to insure that the intent and purpose of this Ordinance is in all respects observed, including, but not limited to, performance guarantees and time limits. Any violation of a condition(s) included in the Permit shall be construed as a violation of this Ordinance, and shall give rise to the penalties provided in this Ordinance, and shall be grounds for revoking the Permit. The permittee shall submit a written request to the Township for approval of changes to the original plans, specifications, reports and methods of operation submitted with a Permit application. No such change shall be initiated until the written approval of the Township has been obtained.

6. Payment of Fees and Issuance of Permits: At the time of application, the applicant shall pay any application fee established by the Township Board. If the application is approved and all fees paid, the Township shall issue a permit.

7. Expiration, Termination, Suspension and Revocation of a Permit:

a. When an alteration, as described in the application and supporting information is completed, the permit granted shall terminate and no further alteration may take place on the site until a new application has been filed and a permit granted in the same manner as provided for the original application and permit.

b. In the event that any project for which a permit has been granted is not commenced within six (6) months from the date of granting of such permit or said work is abandoned for a period of three (3) months, then, the permit shall automatically expire by limitation and cease to be valid for any purpose, unless prior approval of extensions have been granted by the Township.

c. The permit holder shall confine his activities to those described in the permit and/or in the plans and specifications, as approved. Failure of the permit holder to conform to the activities described in the approved permit application and plans shall result in the suspension or revocation of the permit, forfeiture of any and all bonds furnished, and prosecution under the terms of this Ordinance.

8. Performance Guarantees: Before issuance of a permit, there shall be filed by the applicant a performance guarantee filed in accordance with the procedures set forth in Section 16.09.

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that zoning ordinance texts may be examined at the Clerk's Office, Charter Township of Springfield, 650 Broadway, Davisburg, Michigan, during regular office hours Monday through Friday until the date of the public hearing.

business." Marian even told of how they would make grocery deliveries every day at 11 a.m. and 3 p.m. Now that she's out of the business, Marian admits that the most difficult thing for her to get used to was

"You have to learn to accept change -- it's progress."

Marian Terry

"standing in line at the supermarket.

"What amazes me are the new registers that use the bar code," she said. "I guess you just learn to go along with the trend, but what I don't like is some of the clerks are not friendly-- that was something we always wanted."

Marian soon sold the business after her husband died of a heart attack in 1967, but she has kept busy since.

She sold to her daughter, Shirley, and son-in-law, Howard Altman. Altman once served as Independence Township Clerk.

Out of the grocery business after 36 years, Marian has pursued hobbies she didn't have time for while running a business.

She crochets, embroiders, quilts and does oil painting, and has even done some china painting. She played golf for awhile and was her daughter, Norma's, partner. Norma is married to Harold Goyette, owner of Goyette Funeral Home, Clarkston.

Marian has been living in an apartment above the funeral home for about 19 years.

Norma said her mother can be hard to keep up with. "She's 82 years old, you know, and she doesn't slow down," said Norma.

One of the more pleasant things about living a long life is being around to enjoy grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Marian proudly displays photos of her family, and she said she just keeps adding more as they come along. "I have seven grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren," she said.

No doubt, feeding those children require many trips to the grocery store. But Marian can sit back and relax. She has already put in her share of help feeding the families of Clarkston.

Help Your Heart RECIPES

American Heart Association

The special blending of juices and ginger ale create an iced treat you'll want to eat often throughout the end of summer and beginning of fall.

Go ahead and enjoy -- it's low-salt, no cholesterol and has only a trace of fat.

GINGER ALE SHERBET

1/2 cup water
1 1/2 cups sugar
4 egg whites, stiffly beaten
1 cup orange juice
1/2 cup lemon juice
1/2 cup pineapple juice
3 cups ginger ale

In a saucepan, heat the water and 1 cup of the sugar to the boiling point, and cook until the syrup reaches the soft-ball stage -- 234-238 degrees.

Beat the egg whites until stiff. Continue beating while gradually adding 1/2 cup of the sugar. Slowly pour the hot syrup into the egg whites, beating constantly until mixture has cooled. Then gradually beat in the ginger ale and fruit juices.

Place in the freezer until partially frozen; then remove and whip quickly.

Pour into freezing trays, cover and return to the freezer. The texture should resemble that of an Italian ice.

Yield: 8 servings.

Cooking tip: Raw eggs separate more easily when they are cold, but to get the maximum volume from egg whites, beat them when they are at room temperature.

Nutritional analysis per serving: 203 calories, 2 grams protein, 0.1 gram total fat, .02 grams saturated fat, .01 grams polyunsaturated fat, trace monounsaturated fat, 0 milligrams cholesterol, 50.3 grams carbohydrates, 11.3 milligrams calcium, 12.1 milligrams potassium, 36 milligrams sodium.

Stroke among top causes of death

A stroke occurs when the blood supply to the brain is disrupted by either the blockage of a cerebral artery (ischemia) or a hemorrhage in the brain. Stroke is the nation's third leading cause of mortality, resulting in over 150,000 deaths a year.

A cardiovascular accident (CVA) or stroke of the ischemic type usually is the result of a long process whereby arteriosclerotic plaques build up, blocking the flow of life-giving oxygen carried in the blood by the cerebral arteries.

The brain cells die, often leaving the stroke victim partially paralyzed. The paralysis can lessen over time, however, as intact brain cells may take over lost functions.

A major stroke may follow a warning, such as a transient ischemic attack -- a smaller scale version of a stroke whose temporary symptoms mirror the more serious event.

For example, weakness or numbness in an extremity, fainting spells, sensory difficulties or problems with balance, sudden headaches and disruptive personality changes are all signs of an impending stroke.

Dementia may also occur due to multiple areas of arteriosclerotic blockage resulting in small strokes (multi-infarct dementia).

The most common type of stroke is caused by a blockage of an artery in the brain when an embolism, a blood clot from an artery elsewhere in the body, breaks loose and lodges in a cerebral artery.

In a hemorrhagic stroke, the most deadly variety, an artery in the brain ruptures. Such a stroke may result when an aneurysm (a bubble formed on an artery wall weakened by high blood pressure) bursts.

Screening for stroke risk factors and early intervention have reduced significantly the incidence of stroke in the past decade.

The above information was provided by the Upjohn Co., Kalamazoo.

Take precautions against Lyme disease

Lyme disease -- a bacterial infection transmitted by the bite of a tiny deer tick -- has left a low-grade panic in its wake since recently being diagnosed in Michigan.

Though health care professionals generally agree that the Lyme disease threat is minimal in the immediate area, they advocate an informed approach to the problem.

According to Alice Gajewski, Crittenton Hospital's Environmental Health and Safety manager, "Classic symptoms associated with Lyme disease include a rash at the site of the bite from a few days to a month after the initial bite; malaise, fatigue, headache, fever, chills, stiff neck, sore joints and sore muscles, lasting several weeks. Anyone developing a rash and/or these symptoms should seek the advice of a physician."

The presence of Lyme disease can be quite difficult to prove, however, since diagnostic blood tests are not always positive. Antibiotic treatment is usually effective, especially if Lyme disease is caught in the early stages.

"Ticks should be carefully removed with tweezers or fingers covered with a tissue," Gajewski added. "Matches, chemicals, petroleum jelly and similar materials should not be used to remove the tick."

Some health officials advise storing the tick in a sealed jar for diagnostic purposes, in case Lyme disease symptoms later occur.

Although Lyme disease has not become a health problem in our community, it's still wise to use a good tick and insect repellent while in the woods. Wearing long pants and shirts with long sleeves offers additional protection.

And don't forget to give Rover a thorough once-over after a romp in the wild. Pets need tick protection, too!

THE RED Baron biplane was so close you could almost touch it. This photo was taken while the planes were tilted toward the earth, so the ground is clearly visible. Red Baron and Tony's frozen pizza has been distributed from the Valentine Industrial Park, Andersonville Road, Springfield Township, since July 1987. It serves as a base for Oakland, Macomb, Livingston and St. Clair counties.

Up, up and away

Writer takes a spin in Red Baron biplane

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

It was all so sudden. I arrived one minute and was talking about the history of the Springfield Township-based Red Baron frozen pizza company, and the next minute I was climbing into a red and white biplane.

"Have you ever used a parachute before?" asked pilot Steve Thompson as he strapped me in.

I gulped.

"Don't worry," he said. "All you have to do is get away from the plane any way you can and jump. When you're descending, grab hold of this ring, here, and pull with both hands. The rest will take care of itself."

I gulped again.

"When you're on the ground, release the parachute like this," he said, showing the special latch that held four straps together at my waist.

I visualized myself getting out of the plane (the grab bars were so high I could barely reach them) and standing on the wing, like they used to do in the movies. Visualizing is almost as good as practicing, according to modern science.

I saw myself jumping and grabbing the ring (what if I couldn't pull it out?).

Steve interrupted my thoughts as he buckled the seat belts over me. If I had to use the parachute, he said, I have to remember to unbuckle the seat belt. Its latch was different from the parachute latch.

He then gave me a helmet (just like the movies) with a Velcro strap and cool goggles. Plus the helmet had a microphone that would let me talk to Steve in the seat behind me -- but only if I pushed the red intercom button.

"Push to talk; release to listen," said Steve.

We were ready. Steve left to prepare himself, but soon he was back.

"One more thing," he said. "If you have to use the parachute, remember to take off your helmet -- it's attached to the plane."

"Oh, great," I thought. "If I forget that step, I'll be trailing behind the plane as it plummets to the ground."

I began visualizing again, but it didn't work. I would just have to trust Steve -- he and the other pilots travel all over the country giving rides on behalf of Red Baron frozen pizza. He must be good. After all, he was still alive.

This day at the Oakland-Troy Airport was to kick off a benefit for the American Cancer Society. For each pizza sold, Red Baron would donate 5 cents to the cancer society, which would get several thousand dollars from the deal, said Canzida Clark, income development director for the Oakland County branch of the cancer society.

Before I knew it, we were off, with cancer society volunteer Bill Parcels in the plane next to us. He and pilot Keoki Grey took off down the runway, and Steve and I followed.

I had expected to be cold in the plane, with the open cockpit and all, but a windshield propelled the wind up and over my head. Instead, I was warm, with the heat from the engine filling up the cockpit.

Soon we were in the air, and I saw the tennis courts and swimming pools of Birmingham fall away beneath us. The lush green trees and grassy fields looked inviting, especially surrounding some of the lakes.

Then we came to the more populated areas, where roof after roof was connected by rivers of bright, white concrete. Lush green trees were in short supply.

Roeper schools on Woodward were easy to spot, with their colorful domes. And Telegraph was easy to pick out, too.

The ride was wonderful. Bill and Keoki in the other plane were so close, I thought I could walk out on the wing of our plane and just hop over to theirs. It was amazing.

It was good that they were so near because, just about then, I needed something to focus on. I am inclined toward motion sickness and am experienced enough to know that a bout was coming on.

I tried hard to look only at the plane next to us and not be tempted to look below. I began to feel warm, and I needed a little air.

But the windshield worked very well, and the only way to feel the breeze at 900 feet was to stick my head over the side of the plane -- which I did and took advantage of the opportunity to take a few pictures of the plane next to us.

Just then, Keoki banked his plane hard to the left, and I watched in amazement. He had turned the plane almost perpendicular to the ground. Before I could

(See HAVE YOU, next page)

'Have you ever used a parachute before?'

(HAVE YOU, from previous page) comprehend, Steve did the same to ours, and we followed Keoki. My stomach, however, stayed behind.
Fortunately, we were headed back to the airport. I didn't bother to look at the scenery on the way.
Soon we were at the airport, and the sudden descent was fine now, I said.

The ground felt great.
Just then, Perry DeGood, sales manager of the Springfield Township pizza center in the Valentine Industrial Park off Andersonville Road, greeted me.

"Did you have a good trip?" he asked.
"Fine," I said.
He offered me a piece of pizza. I declined.

"One more thing. If you have to use the parachute, remember to take off your helmet -- it's attached to the plane."

Pilot Steve Thompson

brought the air-sickness symptoms almost to the point of no return.

The trip down the runway was worse -- no wind at all and only the wavering motion of the plane down the pavement.

As soon as the plane stopped (in the nick of time, I might add), my stomach stopped, too. It had caught up with us somewhere along the line.

I unbuckled everything as quickly as I could (I guess my visualization worked). Steve was surprised to see me out of the seat so fast.

"How did you like it?" Steve asked.

"Great," I answered weakly, admitting that I had been struck with just a "touch" of motion sickness, but I

Beekeepers win two blue ribbons at state fair

The next time you see a honey bee on a flower wild walking through a field, don't step on it. You could be killing David and Blanche Barbers' future.

The Barbers, who have a Davisburg mailing address, have been raising bees for 32 years and have been regulars to the honey competitions at The Michigan State Fair for the last 15 years.

Although they did not win the overall Grand Champion Honey award this year, they did win first place blue ribbons for their Bee's Wax and Clover Star Thistle honey.

Unlike the other honey exhibitors at the state fair, the thick, sweet, golden liquid is not a hobby for the Barbers; it is gold.

The Barbers are full-time bee keepers. Their employees are thousands of hard working Italian honey bees (Apis mellifera), who fly all across southeastern Michigan, pollinating plants and producing honey to line the Barbers' pocketbook.

The Barbers have three children: Matthew, 17, Christopher, 16, and Holly, 13.

The honey business was something David Barber stumbled onto while looking for a full-time job. He heard of a bee keeping assistant's job through a friend and gradually became interested enough to start his own company.

Today, David and Blanch Barber won nearly 700 portable hives. Some hives are rented to fruit growers and farmers to pollinate their crops. The remainder are strictly honey producers.

Blanche said the honey's flavor is influenced by the type of plants the bee hive is near; thus bees near a clover field produce their own distinctive flavor.

A typical Barber bee hive has one queen bee and from 3,000 to 5,000 live female worker bees during the honey season, which runs from May to Labor Day.

Honor your employer

Is your employer fair to all employees, male and female? Does he or she have progressive work policies? If so, she or he could be eligible for the Employee of the Year award from the Waterford-Clarkston Business and Professional Women's Club.

Nominations should be submitted to the BPW before Sept. 22 by employees of those organizations or businesses that have some of the following:

1. Both male and female decision makers.
2. Equal opportunities to male and female employees for promotions, training programs, educational grants, etc.
3. Pension plans identical for both female and male employees.
4. Affirmative action program.
5. Programs such as job sharing and flex-time.
6. Parental and/or dependent care leave policies.

The award will be presented at the Deer Lake Racquet Club, White Lake Road, Independence Township, on Oct. 12, in conjunction with National Business Woman's Week, which begins Oct. 15.

For more information, call Pat Thompson at 625-8731.

Navy Petty Officer 3rd Class John Tingue and his wife, Anne of Waukegan, Ill., are the proud parents of a baby girl.

Alyssa Leigh Tingue was born Aug. 24 at Victory Memorial Hospital in Waukegan, Ill. She weighed 8 pounds, 15 ounces, and measured 21 inches long.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Skip Tingue of Frankwill Avenue, Independence Township, and Mr. and Mrs. Willis Debniaik of Amy Drive, Independence Township.

It's a boy for Jean and Tim Markey of Green Haven Drive, Independence Township.

Benjamin Flint Markey was born Aug. 18 at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac. He weighed 7 pounds, 10 ounces, and measured 22 inches long.

Grandparents are Clair and Marshall Markey of Cleveland, Ohio, and Helen Thomas of Connecticut.

Steve and Cathy Voorheis of Delmonico, Independence Township, are the proud parents of their second baby boy.

Philip Steven Voorheis was born at 2:26 a.m. Aug. 13 at Crittenton Hospital, Rochester. He weighed 7 pounds, 1 ounce, and measured 19 1/4 inches long.

He was welcomed home by his brother, Keith, 2. Grandparents are Anne and Ron Voorheis of Waterford Township and Patricia Petro of St. Clair Shores.

Great-grandparents are Mildred Barkley of Ft. Collins, Colo., and Chet and Eva Briggs of Atlanta.

Surprised on 50th

About 120 people turned up for a Therm Nicholls' surprise birthday party Aug. 12.

The Paramus, Independence Township, resident's real birthday was Aug. 20, but his wife, Judy, selected the earlier date so he wouldn't become suspicious of the surprise, she said.

"He was very surprised," she said. "He thought (he was going to) a baseball picnic."

He deserved something big for his 50th birthday, she said. So she had a pamphlet printed up with a childhood picture of him on the front and a recent picture of him on the inside.

Plus, a discjockey played music, and friends roasted Therm with their memories and comments about him, said Judy.

Therm and Judy have three children: Stacy, Jim and Andy.

In service

Marine Pfc. Amy S. MacKenzie, daughter of Clyde K. and Sharon L. MacKenzie of Clarkston, has completed training at Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S.C.

A 1986 graduate of Athens High School, Troy, she joined the Marine Corps in August 1988.

Marine Lance Cpl. Thomas J. Fleming, son of Janet E. Murphey of Waterford, recently received a letter of appreciation.

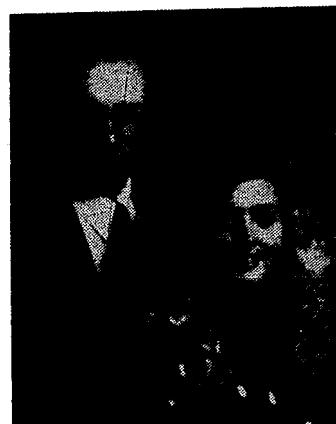

He received the citation in recognition of his outstanding performance while stationed at Marine Corps Air Station, Cherry Point, N.C.

A 1986 graduate of Clarkston High School, he joined the Marine Corps in November 1986.

Navy Petty Officer 3rd Class Kenneth R. Tracy recently made a foreign port visit while deployed as part of the Mediterranean Amphibious Readiness Group 2-89 aboard the tank landing ship USS Barnstable County, homeported in Norfolk, Va.

A 1986 graduate of Clarkston High School, he is the son of Sharyn M. and Kenneth R. Tracy Sr. of Cramlane Drive, Independence Township. He joined the Navy in October 1986.

Engagement

Robert and Janet Penilo of Clarkston announce the engagement of their daughter, Annette Marie of Palm Beach, Fla., to Gary Paul Prus, also of Palm Beach, Fla. Gary is the son of Pete and Helen Prus of Royal Oak. Annette is a graduate of Wayne State University, Detroit, and Gary is a graduate of Michigan Technological University, Houghton. A Nov. 18 wedding is planned.

Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Albert and Gari Monroe of Maybee Road, Independence Township, announce the engagement of their daughter, Julie Monroe, to Dennis Deppner, son of Hank and Barb Deppner of Strathcona, Highland. The bride-to-be is a senior at Central Michigan University, Mount Pleasant, where she works as a resident assistant. She is majoring in secondary education mathematics. The prospective bridegroom is a 1988 graduate of Lawrence Technological University, Southfield, where he studied architecture. He is self employed as a designer-builder. An Aug. 4, 1990, wedding is planned.

Honors

Arthur J. Binard, son of Sally L. Binard and the late Arthur J. Binard formerly of Clarkston, is a recipient of the dean's award for academic excellence during the sprint term at Colgate University, Hamilton, N.Y., where he is a member of the Class of 1990.

A 1985 graduate of Ottawa Hills High School, Toledo, Ohio, Binard is concentrating in English at Colgate.

After 18 months of independent study of Italian and the accordion in Milan, Italy, Art Binard has returned to Colgate University and was appointed a member of the Colgate University India Study Group to be conducted during the fall semester, 1989, under the direction of William Skelton, professor of music.

Art will return to the U.S. in December, following four months of study in India.

A CLARKSTON area girl took home the top prize in the Longest Ponytail Contest at the Michigan State Fair Sept. 3. Breanna Bartley, 9, had a ponytail that measured 41 1/4 inches long — long enough to win the longest ponytail in the overall event. She took home the first-place trophy plus a blue ribbon. Breanna also won first place in her age category last year. More contestants — 25 — entered this event than any other event at the fair this year. The 141st Michigan State Fair is the oldest state fair in the nation.

An Apple for the Teacher

Wayne Samuel,
CJHS math teacher

By Linda Palace

Wayne Samuel is a mathematics teacher and has spent all of his 15 years, with the exception of half a day last year, teaching at Clarkston Junior High School.

He is happy to be back home teaching eighth and ninth graders after spending half a day at Clarkston Junior High and half a day at Clarkston High during the 1987-88 year. He especially enjoys teaching algebra since it is a change from the more traditional math class.

Wayne adds humor to his lessons by telling the students jokes, usually puns, and has added sparkle to his classroom by wearing bright colored Hawaiian shirts.

He believes teachers should "model what you expect the student to do. It is important to work hard, be enthusiastic, and above all, be prepared."

He also believes in demonstrating math problems on the board as students do them at their seats for better student understanding.

The Samuel family has produced many teachers. Wayne's mother was a teacher, and five of her nine children followed in her profession. Wayne graduated from Holly High School and went on to receive both his bachelor's and master's degrees from Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti.

He lives on a farm in Davisburg in the same house where his parents lived when he was born. Wayne loves anything to do with his 60-acre farm, from walking on it to his part-time farming of hay that he manages to squeeze in during the summer months. On Sundays you will find him at the Davisburg United Methodist Church where he sings in the choir and has taught some adult Sunday school classes.

Traveling is another area of interest to Wayne. He has been to California several times to visit a brother, as well as to Florida, Hawaii, the Canadian Rockies, the New England area and many places in Michigan.

Sports activities are also a big part of his life, especially softball, volleyball, track, basketball, biking and cross country skiing. He has coached junior high basketball and is now helping with track.

Wayne Samuel is a caring and patient teacher who is a true asset to Clarkston Junior High School and is well known for many things such as his broad smile, his positive outlook and his cooperative attitude.

An Apple for the Teacher is provided by the Clarkston Education Association. This week's author is Linda Palace, a math and English teacher at Clarkston Junior High School.

WAYNE SAMUEL likes to spend time on his 60-acre Davisburg farm.

Ripe pears

Betty Wagner

Charmion Risdon of Valley of Pines Fruit Pines on Bridge Lake Road, Springfield Township, sells fresh pears at the Oakland County-Pontiac Farmer's Market.

The Michigan pear season begins August first with Clapp Favorite and runs through September.

Risdon says that the Clapp Favorite, sweeter than the Bartlett, is good for fresh eating, canning and cooking.

The Bartlett pear, the most familiar to people, is an old favorite for canning and eating. And the Bosc, a long neck, rusty colored pear is referred to as the winter pear. It is the sweetest and best keeper -- a firm, crisp pear.

Pears do not ripen best on the vine.

Risdon says, "They fall of the tree if allowed to ripen."

After purchasing unripe pears, let them stand at room temperature for several day sin a brown paper bag. When yellow, the Clapp is already brown inside; so when the stem area yields to gentle pressure, eat them or refrigerate them.

The Bartlett will hold for one week refrigerated after it turns yellow. Unlike the other two varieties, the Bosc shows ripening from the outside, so no brown center surprises. In about four days, they are soft enough to eat. Many of Risdon's customers use them for pear butter.

According to USA Pears, pears are one of the healthiest fruits available. A medium size pear of 166 grams contains 98 calories, with total dietary fiber of 4.8 grams, ascorbic acid - 7 milligrams and potassium - 208 grams.

The following recipes are adapted from USA Pears. Of course, I uses Michigan-grown pears when testing and adapting the recipes.

PEAR-CHEESE CRISP: Serves two.

4 cups cored, sliced, fresh pears

1 teaspoon vanilla

1/2 cup shredded sharp cheddar cheese

1/3 cup each flour, rolled quick-cooking oats and dark brown sugar

1/2 teaspoon cinnamon

3 tablespoons soft margarine

1. Spray an 8-inch Pyrex cake dish with cooking spray. Toss pears with vanilla in teh dish.

2. Combine four, oats, sugar and cinnamon; cut in margarine to make coarse crumbs.

3. Sprinkle half the flour-margarine mixture over top of pears; sprinkle shredded cheese over this. Then sprinkle remaining flour-margarine mixture over cheese.

4. Microwave at HIGH for 7 mintues or until pears are tender.

5. Preheat gas or electric broiler. Please pear dish under broiler for about 2 minutes or until bubbly and brown.

ALMOND-CHICKEN PEAR SALAD

1 cup cooked chicken, cut into 1/2-inch cubes

1/4 cup green or red pepper, thinly sliced

1/4 cup shredded zucchini

1/8 teaspoon seasoned salt

2 fresh pears, cored and cut into 1-inch cubes

Creamy Mustard Dressing*

Lettuce

1/4 cup toasted slivered almonds.

1. Use leftover chicken or turkey, or microwave at HIGH 1 split, skinned and boned chicken breast (2 pieces), covered with wax paper, for 5-6 mintues. Cool and cut into cubes.

2. Toss together chicken, green pepper and celery. Sprinkle with seasoned salt. Add pear and Creamy Mustard Dressing to chicken mixture; mix gently. Serve on individual lettuce-lined salad plates. Garnish with almonds.

Creamy Mustard Dressing: Makes 1/2 cup.

Combine 1/4 cup plain low-fat yogurt, 1/4 teaspoon prepared mustard and 1/4 teaspoon ground ginger; mix well.

Heart attacks don't have to kill you.
Not if you know what to do.

If you have pain in the chest, be a pain in the neck.

Complain to Community Health Care Center emergency physician.

Truth is, more than 300,000 heart attack victims die each year before reaching the hospital, many of them because they refuse to take their symptoms seriously.

How to spot a heart attack.

•Uncomfortable pressure, fullness, squeezing or pain in the center of the chest lasting two minutes or longer.

•Pain spreading to the shoulders, neck or arms.

•Severe pain, dizziness, fainting, sweating, nausea or shortness of breath.

Not all these warning signs occur in every heart attack. And sometimes the symptoms subside and then return. But if you notice any of them, don't wait to see what happens next. Call 911 for the paramedics.

Don't push the panic button.

•Call the EMS system

•If you can get to the Community Health Care Center System faster by car, have someone drive you.

Don't learn about heart attacks the hard way.

Reading about heart attacks and memorizing the warning signs is by far the easiest way to learn. But don't stop there. Ask your Community Health Care Center for information and advice. And just in case-keep a list of emergency rescue service numbers by your telephone and in your wallet or purse.

And the biggest tomato winner is ...

For some children, it took both hands to carry their prize tomatoes up to the weigh-in table at Bordine's Better Blooms, Springfield Township.

With 128 tomatoes at the end of the day, double the number of kids entered the Great Tomato Weigh In compared to last year, said Amy Delbridge, greenhouse salesperson.

In the spring, Bordine's gave free tomato plants to children and registered them for the weigh-in over Labor Day weekend.

Jason LeBrasseur, 6, of Burton was the winner with a 2.35-pound tomato. He took home $100 for his efforts.

Kelly Beach, 7, of Grange Hall Road, Ortonville, won the $50 second-place prize with her 2.03-pound tomato.

Andy Auten, 8, of Cecelia Ann, Independence Township, won $25 for placing third with a 2.02-pound tomato.

BRISTEN BRICKLES, 5, of Ortonville, lifts her Mickey Mouse visor for a better view of the huge tomatoes at Bordine's Better Blooms.

Sessions address life's questions

"Challenging Answers to Life's Questions" will be the subject of a week-long series of special presentations to be held at Oakland Woods Baptist Church next week.

The free hour-long presentations will be made Sunday through Sunday, Sept. 17-24 at the church at 5628 Maybee Rd., Independence Township.

Starting times are 6 p.m. Sept. 17, 7 p.m. Sept. 18-23, and 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. Sept. 24.

Guest speaker for the series is the Rev. Billy Whitt of Waterford. Each presentation includes a time of special music, hosted by David Rice, minister of music at Columbia Avenue Baptist Church in Pontiac. Guest soloists and groups are also planned.

Q: WHAT FLOATS ON WATER BUT CAN MAKE YOUR HEART SINK?

A: Fat! Especially saturated fat, which raises blood cholesterol more than anything else in your diet. Saturated fat is a type of fat found in greatest amounts in foods from animals such as meat, poultry, and whole-milk dairy products like cream, milk, ice cream and cheese. Other examples of saturated fat include butter, lard and the marble and fat along the edges of meat. Some vegetable oils like coconut, palm kernel, and palm oils also have a lot of saturated fat.

Unto others

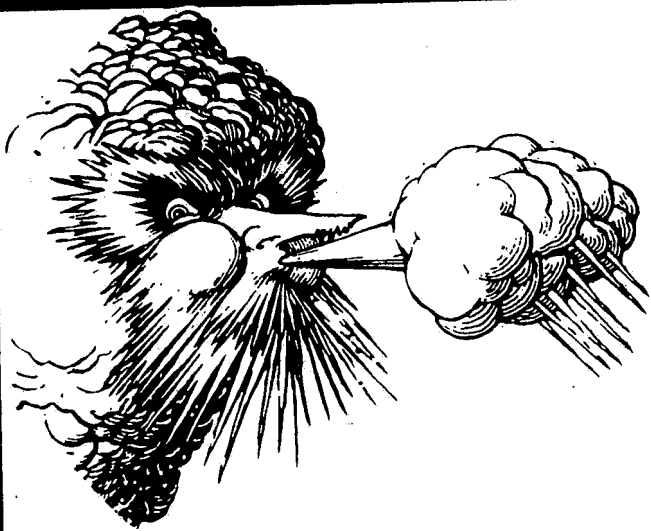

NICK CUTEAN loads food into the back of a truck owned by Ralph McKinstry of Independence Township. Cutean, a Pontiac Motors employee, is paid by his company to volunteer time to Focus Hope, which provides the food for eligible senior citizens. In the Clarkston area, food is distributed the first Wednesday of each month at the senior center in Clintonwood Park, Independence Township. According to Thelma Stitt, who runs the program, 48 boxes of food were distributed this month, but many more people in the area are eligible. (Photos by Julie Campe)

PACKING FOOD Sept. 6 is Lee Smith, a North Eston, Independence Township, resident. Food from Focus Hope includes peanut butter, rice, dry milk, corn meal, rice cereal, orange juice, canned meat, honey, butter, dried eggs, apples, pineapple, peas, potatoes and cheese.

What a beautiful Baby

Baby is an adorable shepherd cross mix puppy who is only 7 months old.

She's got the shaggy look of a sheep dog and is black and gray in color. She'll be a medium sized dog when fully grown. With such a sweet temperament, Baby can't miss being a hit in her new home.

Baby can be adopted at the Michigan Humane Society, 3600 Auburn Rd., Auburn Heights, 852-7420. Hours at the non-profit shelter are 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Adopting Baby will cost $75 dollars, which includes the spaying fee.

BABY'S MEANT for love. She'd be so nice to come home to. (Photo by Peter Auchter)

Opinion of Bill Myers

*$100 a month in nest
yields nifty nestegg*

William A. Myers is a retired Lapeer County editor and investments manager from Boca Raton, Fla.

Starting at age 25, Junior should be out of the nest and earning money. That's allowing three years to be diddling around the halls of learning still further after graduating at age 22. It's a hard thing for the young fellow to do, to break away from the easy life of going to school, but be of stout heart, my good man, and get going.

Let me suggest a savings plan. By saving $100 a month, year in and year out for 35 years, look what the man will have at age 60:

It's based on getting an average of 9 percent on the monthly savings.

That's easy to do these days in taxable bonds, and by putting the savings into an IRA there are no taxes to be paid until the money is taken out.

Under present IRA rules, the money can be taken out without penalty at age 59½. Or the saver - I hate to keep calling him Junior - can just let it sit.

The fund at that time has grown to $294,476 a year. Leave it alone for eight years and it will double to around $600,000. The fellow is still only 68. His Social Security and company pension (or his own plan if he works for himself) could bring his retirement income to $75,000 a year.

And all he has done is put aside $100 a month. It doesn't even include his wife working and having a similar plan. Saving $100 a month means giving up a couple of dinners out each month, or making the car last another year before trading it in.

The key to the whole plan is starting early and never quitting the month-in-and-month-out saving $100.

The plan can pass up life insurance, for it is really an insurance policy in itself.

Putting $100 a month or $1,200 a year into an IRA doesn't really cost you that much, because it can be deducted from your income. Say you pay federal tax of 28 percent. The $1,200 then would have a net cost of $1,200 less 28 percent, or $864 a year. You really reduce your net spendable income by only $72 a month.

You don't need a bank or a broker or some investment guru to run the plan. Let a bank or broker be the custodian. If you do other business with the firm, there won't be much of a charge. Find an income mutual fund with no load charge - no commission, that is. In fact, a mutual fund will set up an IRA account for you, so everything is all in one place. The income can be re-invested automatically.

Saving early in life - and then continuing - makes all the difference. This same plan we're talking about would produce about one-fifth as much if you wait until age 40 to start. The figure for 20 years of $100 a month continually invested is only $66,788. Compare that to $294,178 you pile up by starting at age 25.

Read it and weep:

Year	Social Security Tax		Co. pays
	Max.	You pay
1980	25,900	6.13%	$3,175
1982	32,400	6.07%	$4,341
1984	37,800	7.00%	$5,178
1988	45,000	7.51%	$6,759
1989	48,000	7.51%	$7,209

Increase in tax since 1980 - 26 percent.

My own view - not shared by politicians - is that you, buster, pay the total tax, and not just half. The company or whoever you work for may pay half, but it's part of their labor expense and really comes out of your hide.

As a one-time employer, I would have much rather not deducted Social Security, but instead, added it to the worker's pay. He would have been more impressed with his check.

Note in the above table that while the rate itself has gone up only 22 percent - from 6.13 percent in 1980 to 7.51 percent this year - the total tax went from $3,175 to $7,209. That's a jump of 126 percent.

A while back, "lessening fears of inflation" led The Wall Street Journal to observe that since interest rates would come down, the market reacted by gaining 20 points.

A couple of days later, the same "lessening fears" now indicated a recession likelihood, explaining a 47-point drop in the averages.

Ho hum.

WHO IS ON THE LORD'S side? Thus saith the Lord, the world passeth away and the lust thereof but he that does the will of my father abides forever. He that says I know God and keeps not his commandments is a liar and the truth is not in him. As my father hath taught me, I speak these things for I do always those things that please him. If you continue in my word then are you my disciples indeed. He that loves me not does not keep my sayings. Receive the promise of the father which you have heard of me. For John truly baptized in water but you shall be baptized in the Holy Spirit. It is your father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom. Repent and be baptized in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins and you shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost. As Peter yet spake these words the Holy Ghost fell on them which heard the word, as on the gentiles also was poured out the gift of the Holy Ghost. They heard them speak with other tongues and magnify God. The brethren heard that the gentiles had also received the word of God. That word I say, you know it, began from Galilee, after the baptism which John the baptist preached. Forasmuch God gave them the like gift as he did unto us, who believed on the Lord Jesus. Some say except you be circumcised after the manner of Moses (or John the Baptist) you cannot be saved so Peter rose up and said unto them, you know God made a choice that the Gentiles should hear the word of the gospel and believe. And God which knows the hearts bare them witness giving them the Holy Spirit even as he did us, purifying their hearts by faith. Now therefore why tempt you God. (Acts 10:34, 35) (Mk 3:27) (Mk 4:2,4) (Mk 3:35) (Mk 3:29,30,35) (1jn 3:22). IIRX36-2*

PRAYER TO THE HOLY Spirit: Holy spirit, You make me see everything and show me the way to reach my ideals. You give me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrongs that are done to me and you are in all instances of my life with me. I, in this short dialogue, want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you no matter how great the material desire may be. I want to be with you, and my loved ones, in your perpetual glory. Amen. Persons must pray this prayer 3 consecutive days without asking for your wish. After the 3rd day your wish will be granted, no matter how difficult it may be. Then promise to publish this dialogue as soon as your favor has been granted. Thanks St. Jude for favors received. Fun reigns

DAVISBURG BASEBALL and Softball will reap the rewards from volunteers like Newton and Pat Barefoot, Springfield Township residents who take time to sell beverages at the Renaissance Festival. Each club or organization that works the booths during festival time receives some of the proceeds from sales.

THE GOLDEN THREAD at the Renaissance Festival is where you will find Terry Deacon of Springfield Township most weekends.

DOROTHY MECHIGIAN works about 10 months out of the year to prepare garland headpieces for her Original Garland Shop at the Renaissance Festival in Holly.
