Sashabaw receives national award

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The ultimate educational award was bestowed on Sashabaw Junior High in Washington, D.C., one day after President George Bush's educational summit. A flag and plaque were awarded to SJHS Thursday, Sept. 28, as symbols of the school's excellence in education. Traveling to Washington to accept the award were Principal David Reschke, Assistant Principal Vince Licata and Cynthia Hartwell, teacher representative for the SJHS staff.

In May, Sashabaw was chosen as an exemplary secondary school -- one of 218 schools awarded exemplary status throughout the nation.

Last week, the three SJHS representatives stood on the White House lawn waiting to hear the President speak. Bush arrived in a helicopter from Charlottesville, Va., where he held an educational summit with state governors the day before.

He spoke to the group of educators before they received their awards, though Reschke, Licata and Hartwell didn't personally meet him.

That was thrilling, but Hartwell said the most exciting part of being in Washington, D.C., was hearing Sashabaw's name called out as Reschke walked across the stage to receive a special flag awarded to the school.

"It was thrilling to be part of (the ceremony) and exciting to be a teacher and part of that," said Hartwell. Licata agreed.

"It was an honor to be there," he said. "It was the highlight of my educational career. It was great to have the school recognized for doing something good."

Reschke said everything hit home when he walked

Enrollment down by 36 kids

BY SANDRA CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The fourth Friday count is in for Clarkston schools, and the enrollment figures from Sept. 29 show 36 fewer students than in 1988.

Total enrollment for 1988 was 5,708, and 1989 figures show 5,672 student, said Bill Neff, director of administrative services for Clarkston Schools.

At the elementary level, student figures are up by 10, and at the junior high level, student figures are up by 60.

The loss occurs at the high school level, where 106 fewer students are enrolled this year.

The number of students counted on the fourth Friday after Labor Day is important because that number determines how much money local school districts will receive from the state.

Despite the loss of students, Clarkston schools will probably receive close to last year's state aid money because the formula includes Full-Time Equivalency -- students enrolled in adult and community education.

Enrollment figures from adult and community education won't be available for about two weeks because that count is required later than K-12 fourth Friday count, said Neff.

Springfield man charged with animal cruelty

BY LINDA WALSH LAPINSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A Springfield Township man was charged with cruelty to animals Sept. 29 after more than 100 chickens, gamecocks and several dogs were found on his property without food or water.

Ron Myers of Rattalee Lake Road, Springfield Township, was ticketed for cruelty to animals and not having licenses for the 11 dogs, including eight pit bull terriers, found on the property.

Oct. 10 is voter registration deadline

The deadline to register to vote in the Nov. 7 election is Tuesday, Oct. 10. So if you're new to the area or if you're young and have never voted, it's time to sign up.

In Springfield Township, residents may register at clerk's office in the Springfield Township Hall, 650 Broadway. The office is open Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Independence Township residents may register in the clerk's office at the Independence Township Hall, 90 N. Main Street, Clarkston, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Tax abatement hearing

A tax abatement for Durr Automation is the topic of a public hearing in Springfield Township next week.

The hearing is set for 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 12, at the Springfield Township Hall, 650 Broadway.

The hearing is for discussion of an application for tax abatement for Durr Automation, 10301 Enterprise Dr. Durr is located in Holly School District.

An Oakland County Sheriff's deputy investigated the farm after a neighbor called to say that two of Myers' horses were running loose, said Carl Anderson, director of the Oakland County Animal Shelter.

"Myers claimed only two (dogs) belonged to him," said Anderson. "Myers claims the rest of the dogs belonged to friends."

Myers was issued the misdemeanor citations and retrieved the dogs from the animal shelter after paying to have the dogs licensed.

The Michigan Humane Society was notified because of the chickens, said Anderson.

"We would have been hurting because we did not have the facilities for the 100 chickens and gamebirds," said Anderson.

A spokesperson for the humane society said that the birds were checked, and there were no fresh wounds or other evidence of fighting.

Rohr residents get public hearing

Residents of Rohr Road took the bull by the horns and got their road improvement petition signed in time for the Independence Township board's Sept. 25 special meeting.

They had been given a deadline of Oct. 3 at a board meeting held two weeks earlier. Two previous petitions submitted by residents were in conflict, necessitating the third.

The board's acceptance of the petition means a public hearing to establish a special assessment district for the project could be held, as planned, on Tuesday, Oct. 3.

The residents hope to make improvements to Rohr Road while similar improvements are made along the road in adjoining Orion Township.

According to Anderson, Myers said he raises the birds and sells them all over the country.

Myers must appear within 15 days from the time of the ticketing in 52nd District Court in Independence Township on the cruelty charges. Conviction is up to 90 days in jail and a $100 fine or both.

Myers' farm was investigated by a humane society investigator, said Anderson, adding that Myers has agreed to allow the humane society to conduct inspections every two weeks for the next three months.

News wins highest honor in state for excellence

The Clarkston News took top honors and five awards in the Michigan Press Association 1989 Better Newspaper Contest.

In its circulation category, The News won the first-place General Excellence award -- the highest professional honor for Michigan weekly and daily newspapers. Plus it took four other awards.

Judges from the Arkansas Press Association said this about The News: "Content lives up to nameplate motto. Appealing feature pictures, good display, variety of news -- all made for interesting and appealing package."

Other awards included a first-place honor for Peter Auchter's sports coverage. In a written statement, the judge said The Clarkston News sports section was "easily the best."

"I like your scoreboard and week-ahead treatment, lively writing, great breadth of coverage, good use of photos and 'people' stories," wrote the judge.

In the Local News Reporting category for weekly newspapers, Julie Campe won a third-place award for the coverage of a Springfield Township boy who was charged with the shooting deaths of his parents and sister.

The judge wrote: "Good writing and great coverage of a very shocking event."

The News won two awards in the Lifestyle/Family Section category of the contest. A first-place honor was awarded to Julie Campe, and a third-place honor was awarded to Pat Young.

Also winning awards were two other newspapers published by Sherman Publications, publisher of The Clarkston News.

The Lake Orion Review won the second-place General Excellence award. The Oxford Leader won a second-place Local News Reporting award and a first-place Special Section award.

Other newspapers across the state winning top honors in General Excellence for their circulation categories were: The Detroit News, Traverse City Record-Eagle, Hillsdale Daily News, Birmingham/Bloomfield Eccentric and the Gaylord Herald Times.

Reporter's Notebook

Teens in Clarkston haven't improved their images since they were blamed this summer with the thefts of several copies of The Clarkston News from newspaper boxes in the area.

At that time, a front-page photo of pre-season football practice may have attracted the students' attention, according to Kevin Drake, the newspaper delivery person for The Clarkston News.

Now that school's in session -- and kids' pictures are in the papers regularly -- papers are stolen from newspaper boxes each week, Drake said, adding that it may be the norm while kids are in school.

Drake's company began delivering papers for Sherman Publications this summer.

The classified advertisement section of The Clarkston News keeps growing -- and breaking records. For the second consecutive month, record-high numbers of ads have been placed. The auto section, in particular, has grown. Are a lot of car buffs moving to the area?

Shortly after classes in the Clarkston Community School District began this year, Superintendent Gary Haner was absent for a week.

When he reappeared, he sported a new look -- a short, trim beard.

A Clarkston Cafe patron showed a lot of poise Friday, Sept. 29, when she fell off her bar stool with a loud thud.

She was greeted with stunned silence from the restaurant customers, but she simply stood up, gave a little wave and a smile and said, "I'm sorry, everybody." And she went back to her conversation at the bar.

(Clarkston News staffers were eating a late lunch when this incident occurred.)

Foes of Clarkston sports teams have new ammunition to fire during verbal cheering wars.

At the time-honored rivalry between Waterford Kettering and Clarkston high school girls basketball teams, Waterford fans chanted: "We passed our millage. We passed our millage."

Clarkston fans had no retort for that one.

Circulation is up at The Clarkston News this year. Ninety-three more subscriptions were purchased this year than last, bringing The News' paid subscription number to 4,612.

Rival sports fans have come up with some low taunts this season. At one sporting event, fans jeered a losing Clarkston team with: "You paid $164 to play like this?"

Items for Reporter's Notebook are compiled by The Clarkston News staff members.

Bed and breakfast possibilities in village

Some homes may soon house bed and breakfast businesses in historic Clarkston.

Bonnie Valuet asked the village council about the possibility of opening such establishments in homes within the Village of Clarkston boundaries during the council's Sept. 25 meeting.

While the council members didn't wholeheartedly agree with her idea, they didn't say no either.

"It's got to be something in a commercial area," said President Sharron Catallo. "I know if it came down to spot zoning it wouldn't work. We will be willing to look at a (new) ordinance, but I don't want to raise false hopes."

During her short presentation, Valuet pointed out a newly enacted ordinance in Springfield Township that allows 20 to 25 percent of a home to be used for a home business such as a bed and breakfast establishment.

Catallo instructed village attorney John Steckling to review the Springfield ordinance to see what -- if anything -- could be done in the village.

on the stage to receive the flag.

"My initial thoughts went to everybody who had worked for this -- parents, staff and students -- I wish they could have all been there," said Reschke. "Each school could only have three people represent them."

Reschke said the original idea for applying for exemplary status was to find out what SJHS could do to improve.

"Our goal was to have outside observers look at our school," said Reschke.

Outside observers could suggest school improvements. So Reschke and Licata began the process to file for exemplary status.

The result was a 30-page document submitted and

"It was an honor to be there. It was the highlight of my educational career. It was great to have the school recognized for doing something good."

Vince Licata

reviewed first by the Michigan Department of Education and then the United States Department of Education.

Each department sent people to the school to verify what was written in the document. First, the school won statewide honors and then the incredible: the national award.

To qualify, the staff documented leadership, learning environment, teaching, community relationships and indicators of success, i.e., honors classes and test scores.

Special points were given to SJHS for increasing students' awareness of geography. Hartwell taught geography for 16 years at SJHS before being transferred to Clarkston Junior High School as an English teacher for the 1989-90 school year.

Her transfer is the result of reduction in staff due to the recent budget cuts, but the fact that she was chosen to represent the teaching staff was not because of geography.

She was one of a group of about nine teachers who helped work on writing the document for SJHS, Reschke said. A lottery was used to select the Washington representative, and Hartwell won.

Talking about the award, Reschke was clearly proud.

"One of the areas that we scored the highest in points both in Michigan and at the federal level was that our students are friendly and polite," said Reschke, adding that students had no prior knowledge of the observers' visit to the school except on the morning of the visit.

So the comments on the students' behavior were especially welcome, said Reschke.

"As educators, that is what we like to hear," he said.

He added that the weakest area for the school program is the lack of multi-cultural experiences for the students.

"We can't apply again for this program for another five years, and we must improve that area (before reapplying)," Reschke said.

To improve, SJHS staff plan increase cultural awareness by introducing it in curriculum. If there's enough money, students are to take field trips or have programs brought to the school.

Whatever is in the works for SJHS students to become better students, Reschke and Licata agreed that this award never would have happened without the help of staff, students and parents.

Fire chief, marshall prepare for Nov. 7 election $2 million bond for safety complex on ballot

BY CAROLYN WALKER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Independence Township Fire Chief Gar Wilson and Fire Marshall Neil Ashley are more than a little nervous as they await the Nov. 7 election.

On that day, voters will be asked to approve a $2 million safety complex bond issue.

A similar, $1.5 million bond issue was defeated in a close race last spring. It failed by 55 votes, with only seven percent of the electorate casting ballots.

Meeting with a Clarkston News reporter last week, Wilson and Ashley explained their reasons for seeking a second vote of the people and their frustrations at the previous low turnout.

"I didn't get a true answer of the people," Wilson said, referring to the fact that the turnout may not have reflected the thinking of most residents.

At the time, the township planned to purchase the old Randy Hosler Pontiac dealership on M-15 as a replacement for the out-dated fire station No. 1, 3 E. Church Street.

That station, built in the 1920s, is cramped for office, computer, living and parking space, the men said.

If the bond issue passes this time, the township will look at several options.

They include buying new property and constructing a building or moving headquarters from station No. 1 to station No. 2 on Sashabaw Road and adding offices and a bay area to that facility while keeping an outstation elsewhere.

Also under consideration are building on property currently owned on M-15 at Waldon Road or purchasing the old Hosler dealership, which has been remodeled.

Wilson hopes to keep a station along M-15 between Dixie Highway and Cranberry Lake Road to better serve the north and west ends of the community. A third station is located on Maybee Road.

It is proposed, as it was before, that the new facility house Michigan State Police or Oakland County Sheriff officers.

"This is an ever-expanding business that we're in," Wilson said, noting that the fire department also provides Emergency Medical Services, which account for about 65 percent of the runs.

The fire department also takes care of hazardous wastes, and costs for these operations are absorbed in the budget and not charged to taxpayers, Wilson said.

"If they want us to do the job, we've got to have money to operate."

Chief Gar Wilson

In addition, the many large homes in Independence, if they catch fire, put a drain on firefighting equipment because, square footage-wise, they resemble commercial buildings, Ashley said. Frequently, water has to be shipped to the site of a fire if hydrants are not available.

Cutting costs by eliminating personnel is not an option, Wilson said. While the township currently has 15 full-time firefighters and 37 on-call fighters, it is operating below the recommended guidelines of the National Fire Protection Association of one firefighter for every 1,000 residents.

"If we're not going to keep up with the times and needs of the community, we might as well close our doors. If they want us to do the job, we've got to have money to operate," said Wilson.

If passed, the proposed bond issue would cost the owner of a house with an $80,000 house assessed at half the market value ($40,000) $18.22 per year over a 20-year period said, Wilson said. Over a 10-year period the cost would amount to $27.36 per year.

Added Ashley, "I don't think that for what we're going to get out of this building, it's too much to ask the people. We have no choice but to go to the people."

Firefighters collecting help for Hugo victims

Anyone interested in helping South Carolina victims of Hurricane Hugo can drop off items or money at the Groveland Township Fire Department, 14645 Dixie Highway, at the corner of Grange Hall and Dixie.

Members of the fire department are collecting items through Saturday, Oct. 14, when they'll pack up the donations and drive south.

The last fundraiser before the trip is Saturday, Oct. 14, when a dinner dance will be held at Mount Holly from 7 p.m. to 1 a.m. Tickets are $4.

Proceeds will be given to smaller fire departments in South Carolina, which will distribute them to the needy, said Steve McGee, assistant fire chief in Groveland Township.

Groveland firefighters are glad to help their fellow workers across the country, said McGee.

"If the same situation would have happened to us, it would be nice to have some help," he said. "There is a camaraderie between emergency services nationwide even."

Thoughts on a Tuesday

Julie Campe

Right now at The Clarkston News, four of the five people on the editorial staff are left handed. I am the minority.

They claim that left-handed people are more creative, and they lord it above the right-handed person in the office.

Sad thing is, it seems to be true. Linda Lapinski dabbles in almost every artistic field imaginable, and Sandra Conlen sees the world through a photographer's eyes, even when she doesn't have a camera in her hand.

Carolyn Walker's creativity is evident in almost everything she writes and says -- especially those columns she used to write.

And Peter Auchter's creativity flows in areas ranging from his computer keyboard to his office banter.

It's quite an office, but it's even more amazing at lunch (for the first time in their lives, they don't bump elbows with people -- I am forced to sit on the outside, so my elbow doesn't bump theirs).

Most of us former Cougars already know that Sashabaw Junior High School is one of the best schools in the entire nation, but it doesn't hurt to have official educators tell us so, too.

SJHS was honored in Washington, D.C., last week as one of the nation's exemplary secondary schools. That's quite an honor. (Clarkston Junior High was honored two years ago as one of the state's exemplary schools.)

I only attended SJHS as a seventh grader, but there was a lot I liked about the school -- gym class with Mrs. K for instance. Do her gym students still have to do that fun-but-confusing Coordination drill?

How about math class with Mr. Kaul and Mr. Krueger? Do they still team teach? And if so, are their algebra lessons still intermingled with their off-the-wall humor (and spirit for the Maize and Blue and the golf course)?

I always liked lunch hours at the school, though I had a tough time adjusting to the short time period for eating. I used to be a slow eater, but I do not suffer from that affliction anymore.

How about the pep assemblies at Sashabaw? Can you still feel the excitement in the air -- so thick you can hardly breathe?

Kudos to Kathy Greenfield, former editor of The Clarkston News. The Clarkston News won the highest honor possible when it was selected for a first-place general excellence award in the Michigan Press Association 1989 newspaper contest.

The contest period was from April 1, 1988, to March 31, 1989, so Kathy was here for most of the hard work but not here to share the honors. She now works as a copy editor at The Flint Journal.

Children are worth the money

BY BARBARA JOHNS

I'm fighting mad. I just heard the news that our neighbors to the south -- Waterford -- passed THREE school election issues last week. Congratulations, Waterford children. Job well done.

How is it that our neighbors, whose assessments have increased dramatically and who don't like to pay taxes anymore than we do, are still willing to support an adequate school system, but we here in Clarkston Schools are not?

We are always patting ourselves on the back about our "quality of life." Lovely meadows, rolling hills, pretty lakes, tidy subdivisions, grand houses, friendly folks.

The mounting financial and facility crisis in the educational part of our community is making a mockery out of our smug "quality of life." We now have the distinction of being the lowest school district in the entire county on dollars spent per student.

Since the 1988 election when we restored our finances to 1986 levels, I have worked closely inside the school system. I have attended school board meetings. I have seen some top-notch administrators working long, hard hours.

I have met terrific teachers and support staff in schools with which I was familiar and in other buildings not attended by my three children. And I have seen a thin veneer of wellness covering up these essential truths about our schools:

- * We do not have enough money.
- * We are in danger of losing some of our best people.
- * We are outgrowing our buildings.
- * We are once again patching our system together just to stay afloat.
- * We are not meeting North Central Accreditation Standards.

These critical issues do not disappear just because voters say no.

As the elected advocates for our children, the school board must break its juggernaut and lead this educational system into the 1990s. They must lead us in correcting the horrendous loss of dollars that Headlee is causing. Our building needs must not be swept under the rug. We cannot watch other districts try and try again for success while we fold up like a lady's fan.

Are we afraid to admit that schools will cost us some money? Guess what. Schools do cost money, but the value of a sound educational system is well worth it.

You can use any excuse you want to say no to our schools, but you will not erase this fact:

Quality schools and good kids are worth the financial cost.

Waterford's school board and its voters finally understand this. What about us?

Barbara Johns, an Independence Township resident, is a free-lance writer and parent of three children in the Clarkston school system.

We welcome our readers' opinions. Letters to the editor must arrive at The Clarkston News office by noon Monday to be considered for publication in Wednesday's paper. We reserve the right to edit all letters for brevity and clarity and to limit the number of letters from any one individual or on any one topic. Jim's Jottings

Will anyone out there give President Bush a higher mark than a "C" for his efforts on anything?

At the recent 'educational' summit with the 50 governors Bush asked the states to do more. And the "C" rated state leaders asked for more federal money.

We should all face the fact that there will never be enough money for school systems at any level.

And, we should face the fact that many will continue to use that as an excuse for our kids' failures in spelling, math and science.

(Videos and computers help educators teach, however, sometimes they are used as a substitute for teachers.)

I'm not an old-timer urging schools to get back to the basics. I'm just an employer who interviews over 150 young people a year so we can keep 50 on the payroll.

I ask, "Are you a good speller?" After the "Yes" answer I often give them an eleven-word spelling list: auction, yesterday, opinion, candidate, potential, consistent, superintendent, prerogative, insensitive, prescription, peculiar and calendar.

Rare is the person who spells seven correctly. Extremely rare is the one who has them all right.

Are teachers given a spelling test when they are hired? Not at the school I checked. Should they be checked? Several years ago Texas tested teachers and about 1 percent passed. In one southeast Michigan school some teachers let their students spell any way they want to encourage creative writing, they say.

Why? It seems to me correct spelling would lead to correct writing and it could still be creative. A cynic would say correct spelling by today's kids is creative.

Letting students do what they want can reduce class preparation by teachers, eliminate homework for students, lessen discipline and promote laziness at all desks.

We don't assume a college graduate with a degree in journalism can write, and schools cannot assume people with teaching certificates can teach. More teaching of teachers is necessary.

In 1990-91 more will be required in Michigan. Beginning that school year new teachers will have to earn six more credit hours in their first five years.

The "C" we give President Bush for his educational summit is for drawing attention to the need for improving teaching methods.

That move raised his report card one whole grade. We'd like very much to see an "A" on his card.

Bad calls by CHS varsity coaches

After attending the Clarkston High School-Lake Orion football game Friday night, it is apparent there are some problems on this team.

Where was Coach Richardson after the game when I witnessed several players crying and screaming, "We didn't deserve to lose this game."

You are right, boys, you didn't. Your coaches lost the game with their bad calls and political move to put Dugan Fife in as QB over experienced QB Dane Davis, and trying to win by passing.

When Clarkston has John King, a running back who is a leading rusher in Oakland County, and another back, Brett Kinzler, close behind him, why are they passing? They should have been running the ball.

What is their rationale to pull Davis, who's done a good job as QB, and change their original game plan?

The CHS football team should be commended for their efforts on a hard-played defensive game. They have nothing to be ashamed of, perhaps only of their coaching staff.

Hopefully, the principal and athletic director will look into this quickly so the entire team will not be penalized for Kurt Richardson, Gordie Richardson and Don Buchanan's errors.

Keep up the good work, Clarkston; regroup and win your next five games.

George Masculin

Political moves

As a friend and neighbor of Dane Davis, senior QB for the CHS football team, it disappoints me to hear the controversy brewing again this year between Dugan Fife and Dane.

Dane worked hard and won the starting position, after being even with Fife. Dane earned the starting position and has done a good job in his three games as QB.

What appalls me is to hear that he was pulled out of his QB position for political reasons. Where is the justification?

Thanks to boosters and supporters

The Clarkston Band Boosters would like to thank those businesses, organizations and individuals who helped make our Sept. 23 Clarkston Band Invitational a tremendous success.

An event such as this one requires the help and support of many individuals and organizations. Without the coordinated effort of these parties, such a show would not be possible. Although it is impossible to properly thank everyone involved individually, the Band Boosters would like to take this opportunity to acknowledge their outstanding assistance.

Band supporters also assisted in the following areas:

Security, indoor concessions, outdoor concessions, field activities, finance, publicity, advertising, tickets and 50-50.

We thank you one and all.

The Band Boosters would also like to congratulate the Clarkston High School Band who performed Saturday, Sept. 30, at Linden High School (along with 11 other bands) and received first place in Flight II. They also took first place in the following caption awards: marching and maneuvering; percussion; winds.

A great job, well done Clarkston High School Band. Our next competition will be at Lakeview High School, St. Clair Shores, on Oct. 7 at 2 p.m. See you there, music fans!

Roger Diederich, President

If you attend the CHS football games, anyone can clearly see what is going on. How can one justify starting sophomore Dugan Fife when Dane was doing well?

I hear this decision was made because it would be better for the team. Clarkston played a very strong game of football and should have won the game. But we'll never know what could have happened if Dane would have been given the chance as QB.

The way I see it, the Clarkston coaching staff should stick with their original decision to start Dane at QB. Dane should have the opportunity to play his kind of football.

This is Dane's last year for football, and he has proven himself in the past and excels at everything he does -- both academically and in sports.

He should be given the opportunity to earn a football scholarship for college. Anyone who knows Dane knows that he doesn't deserve this kind of treatment.

Debbie Elert

Keep politics out of CHS football

What's going on in Clarkston? Last week I attended the Clarkston-Waterford Mott football game with Mott losing 28-0. The next week I attend the Clarkston-Lake Orion football game to find that there is a new QB.

How can a QB be benched after scoring two touchdowns and a touchdown pass? From what I see and hear, it is a continuation of the same problem Clarkston experienced last year, causing a senior QB to quit.

Anyone who follows high school football can see Clarkston is a running team, not a passing team. The coaching staff at CHS should be re-evaluated. The Clarkston football team didn't lose that game; they played their hearts out. The coaching staff, with their political move, lost the football game.

It's really hard to believe that any person has that much clout in Clarkston. Come on, people in Clarkston, band together and try to stop all this political crap that's been going on for years in Clarkston.

Cable rate hike uncalled for

I recently received yet another notice of rate increase from the United Cable Television of Oakland County. As I recall, this is the third increase that has been automatically applied to Independence Township accounts over the past two years under the guise of improved and repackaged "services."

United Cable (formerly Tribune United) was selected several years ago as our township's monopoly cable provider. At that time, I subscribed and selected the minimum package that was offered.

United Cable has unilaterally raised our rates on several occasions since we originally subscribed to their services. They have accomplished this by repackaging their services and eliminating the original and several subsequent service packages.

I have no interest in ANY of the added services (and associated costs) that we have been forced to accept. I, for one, want to see the original package and pricing that we subscribed to restored.

It also seems appropriate that some regulation over the services, packaging and pricing is required to provide some level of control over our local cable monopoly similar to other utilities that are regulated at the state level.

If there are inherent cost increases associated with providing service, the cable company should present their case to a local regulating body justifying need rather than raising prices at will under the guise of repackaged services.

One example is the previously optional monthly Cable-Guide that was forced on subscribers at an increase of $1 per month.

As far as I am concerned, this is a useless, unnecessary and undesired publication that is a waste of money. I feel the same about the other repackaged "services" that have been forced upon us by our township monopoly and resulted in price increases.

Wax in ears

Could it possibly be that Willy the Wax Man knows more about cleaning up oil spills than Exxon and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency?

My first reaction was to scoff. Willy Nelson, not to be confused with Willie Nelson the singer, is about 50, lives in Toronto, and used to run a candle-making business. He doesn't have any money and hardly anyone ever heard of him. C'mon. Am I supposed to believe Nelson knows the most effective way of sopping up such deadly messes as the one Exxon made in Valdez, Alaska?

Well, why not?

Exxon would like me to believe our environment - the land, air, water and wildlife we hold in trust for our grandchildren - isn't threatened by the unholy greed that condones the careless transport of oil in mammoth, non-compartmentalized, easy-to-puncture tankers.

I find what Willy the Wax Man says much easier to believe than the public relations crap spewed by Exxon spokesmen ever since their tanker couldn't avoid hitting a state.

I read about Nelson in the Toronto Star. After watching a demonstration of his cleanup process, science editor Jack Miller wrote:

"For our test, Nelson built two model beaches and two model lagoons in simply assembled wooden frames about 3 metres (10 feet) long by a metre (3.25 feet) wide. Next, he poured black oil all across their sand and water surfaces and let it settle into a thick cover. Then he poured molten wax - heated to just over 175 C (350 F) - on top of that.

"Within 15 minutes the wax cooled, soaking up the oil like a blotter, congealing into a smooth black coating on the sand and water. Nelson lifted and slid parts of these covers away, revealing mostly clear water or clean sand beneath them.

"Wax comes from crude oil and the two will rejoin if the conditions are right," Nelson said."

In the early 1970s, Nelson's method was tested on the real thing when an oil slick fouled the beaches on Passage Island, near the British Columbia coast. The Star interviewed Thomas Carscadden, an Environment Canada official who watched Nelson succeed after conventional cleanup methods had failed:

"Carscadden said it saved an entire season's hatch of sea fowl that would have been killed by the oil otherwise . . . Willy's wax sopped up and locked the oil in a coating that covered the sand and rocks. It was left there. The shore water stayed clean. The wildlife all flourished.

"We went back a year later and it had all just disappeared, with no damage," Carscadden said."

The Star described Nelson as "this colorful Halifax native with his sailor hat and cowboy boots and big moustache (waxed, of course)." He has tried for many years to interest governments and oil companies in his cleanup method.

"Nelson shows a fat file going back to 1973 of letters to and from officials at the federal cabinet, Environment Canada, the Science Council of Canada, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, the U.S. Coast Guard, and local officials and researchers in Texas, Hawaii, and - yes - Valdez, Alaska."

Mostly, Nelson has been brushed off. Why?

"I think," Carscadden told the Star, "he is so colorful and offbeat that he comes across like a nut. I'm sure his manner didn't sit well with the powers-that-be in the federal department. But I don't work there anymore. I've been retired for years. So I can say what I please."

Isn't that grand?

The only oil spill I've seen was under my car. But you don't have to be an environmental scientist to realize that all good ideas don't come dressed in a dark blue suit and a red necktie.

It is estimated that Exxon has so far spent $2 billion cleaning up the Valdez spill, and the job still isn't done. So why not give Willy Nelson a chance?

I'm afraid it will be necessary to clean up behind the greedy oil barons. Our grandchildren won't care if the best idea for saving the land and the water, the birds and the fish, came from a strange looking fellow with a large waxed moustache.

Letters to the Editor

Surviving one-room school days

Dear Jim,

After cogitating your Sept. 13 piece, "How did we survive," I am prompted to ponder the eight years that I spent in a one-room school 1916-1923.

With reference to the common dipper, the he and she privies and the women teachers, they were pretty standard items in one-room schools of those days. You didn't mention your source of drinking water.

Ours came from a rain barrel under the down spout at the corner of the building.

I did not mind the rain water nor the community dipper, but I had a little trouble with the wiggle-tails -- blowing them back out of the way while I took a quick sip of water.

Our school had a potbellied stove, and the first person to arrive in the morning would build the fire and thaw out all the ink wells. Furnaces were not yet on the scene.

For that matter, neither were electricity, telephones, radios and very few "tin lizzies." Literally we were strictly horse and buggy.

You noted the dunce stool in the corner and the rap on the knuckles with a ruler. Well, I think that was the break-down of discipline.

In my school, there was a stack of willow switches standing ominously in the corner. If they weren't used up by Friday, they were thrown out.

On Monday, the teacher would assign someone the task of getting a fresh batch from the river, about a 1/4-mile from the school.

To your question about one-room teachers being all women, I can concur. In eight years, I had one male teacher, and there were some in nearby schools, but for the most part, they were few. The reason?

They weren't too cool behind a mule,
They didn't like to fight the plow,
Nor fill the mow
Nor milk the cow,
Nor slop the sow,
They opted rather for the school.

How did we survive? Maybe because life wasn't so helter-skelter! Yes, we learned how to work until it hurt and keep on working just the same.

Maybe we ate well and regularly instead of snacking on fast food. We weren't overwhelmed with television, program after program, sports the year-round, special education this and special education that, fast cars, prom after prom, trips to exotic places.

There were 21 students in all eight grades in my school the year I graduated. Of the five of us who graduated, four of us still survive.

In closing, I have to wonder whether in 80 years there will be anyone around to ask the question, "How did we survive?" ... And will there be anyone to answer?

P.G. Kelley

Parent concerned for schools' future

As a parent of one child in Clarkston, I am extremely concerned about the future of our schools.

Last night at a special Clarkston Board of Education meeting, an auditor's report suggested that another $2 million will have to be cut from the district to balance the books. This cut will be necessary if new funding is not provided.

Cutting $2 million from an already low budget will destroy our schools' programs. The auditor's report also showed that Clarkston is last in Oakland County in the amount of money we spent for each student in our schools.

This community, in many ways, prides itself on being upscale, open-aided, pleasant and friendly. Yet we seem to be unwilling to provide even an average educational funding for our kids.

Until our school board makes public what its vision is for the future, I would hope every parent in the community would attend school board meetings, PTO meetings and parent advisory meetings at their schools. The Board of Education needs to hear from all of us.

Like sunny news

Behind the scenes:

A great paper. We always enjoyed reading it. Very informative. Our subscription used to be $6 per year. Got so busy we let it lapse, and now here is another year.

Did NOT especially enjoy reading of the trip to the Caribbean by the one couple as we're leaving Nov. 5! Perhaps Sue Beslack at Clarkston Travel who helped us with our planning of our trip can tell of some of her travel or someone else's travel to the Caribbean who enjoyed theirs.

Did enjoy reading of our old neighbors' trip to Alaska. With so much sorrow in the world and everyday hassles in shopping, I enjoy reading the sunny news (so to speak!). Even though I probably will never go to all those places, I enjoy reading about them.

26-acre site condo proposal approved in concept

BY CAROLYN WALKER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

No one can accuse the residents of Paula, Bronco, Hillcrest or Clement roads of not caring about their subdivisions.

They saw a challenge, and they met it.

Well over 30 residents of those Independence Township streets attended a public hearing conducted by the planning commission Sept. 28.

While public hearings frequently generate little or no public interest, these residents spent two hours voicing their opinions and concerns about a proposed "site condominium development."

The planned development, if given final approval, will feature 16 single-family houses on 26 acres between Clement and Hillcrest roads north of Andersonville Road.

The planning commission voted 6-1 to approve a special land use for the development and also voted 6-1 to approve the conceptual site plan. Voting yes were Chairperson Brent Bair, Joseph Figa, Jo Fussman, Richard Oppmann, Steve Secatch and Daniel Travis. Bruce Mercado voted no without comment.

Before public comments were taken, Kieft Engineering engineer Del Lohff, who represents Clarkston Land Corp., explained that the developer was seeking a special land use permit and conceptual site plan approval for the project.

He told the audience that some 14 acres of wetlands on the site would be donated to the Independence Land Conservancy.

The special land use is required so the projected lot sizes can be averaged to about 26,000 square feet rather than the 15,000-square-foot and 33,000-square-foot lots dictated by the current residential zonings governing the site.

He also defined the term "site condominiums," which seemed to confuse many members of the audience, as single family dwellings where residents pay dues to a condominium-style association that provides lawn, road and snow shoveling maintenance, for example.

No attached, condominium dwellings are planned, he emphasized.

Many of the residents expressed concerns that wetlands, nearby Greens Lake, septic fields, the water table and large trees would be damaged by construction.

Saying they did not want their scenery or privacy affected, they also voiced worries about where a proposed emergency access should be constructed.

Under the developer's current proposal, only one road, a cul-de-sac, would enter and exit the site.

A proposed emergency access would be closed to the public by a fence or break-away posts but would be available to fire trucks, police or ambulances should the cul-de-sac be blocked.

Following the public comments, the commission voted to approve the special land use as well as the conceptual site plans with several stipulations.

The stipulations included having the township engineer investigate the water table, tagging and preserving large trees and maintaining Paula Road as a public road in the site.

Before construction can begin the developers must receive wetland permits from the township and Michigan Department of Natural Resources as well as final site plan approval.

Technical center embraces the computer age

BY LINDA WALSH LAPINSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

With the rising cost of diesel fuel, why would students at Oakland Technical Center-Northwest Campus (OTCNC) want to work on a diesel engine?

"These engines are the most fuel-efficient engines on the market, and because of the durability of the engine, replacement is not as frequent as a regular gas engine," said Art Kuney, diesel mechanics instructor at the Oakland Technical Center-Northwest Campus.

Kuney should know. His class is one of two in the nation to receive a 60 Series diesel engine donated by Detroit Diesel Corp. (DDC), formerly owned by General Motors Corp. and now owned by race car driver Roger Penske. Detroit Diesel donated the other engine to a school in Houston, Texas.

In preparation for the high-tech engine class, Kuney put in 40 hours of class time during July at DDC. The engine will be put to the test by area high school students enrolled in the diesel engine technology program at the Oakland Technical Center in Springfield Township.

Kuney is excited for the opportunities his students will receive from working on the machinery.

"This engine is state-of-the-art in diesel engines, and, as long as there is a demand for heavy-duty trucks and buses, there will be a demand for diesel engines," he said.

To simulate the pulling of a truck load, the engine will be set up on a dynamometer, and Kuney will then put faults in the system. The students' challenge is to analyze and repair the problem.

Currently, 32 students are enrolled in the diesel program, and upon finishing, they should be able to pass at least two state tests in diesel certification, said Kuney.

The students then can be hired by trucking companies such as Smart, truck leasing companies or heavy equipment construction companies, he said.

Daniel Manthei, principal of the Oakland Technical Center-Northwest Campus, said school systems often hire diesel mechanics to work on buses.

"The diesel engine is the most durable in bus application," he said. "A regular gas engine will get 2-3 miles per gallon, whereas a diesel engine will get 7-8 miles per gallon, saving tax dollars."

Jim Raison, manager of the engineering laboratory at Detroit Diesel Corp., said businesses need specially trained mechanics in the age of computer-run engines.

And if his company wants to sell the computerized

60 Series engines, there better be trained mechanics to maintain the engines. Technical schools are an excellent training ground, he said.

"Two former students from the (Oakland) Technical Center are currently working for DDC and doing quite well for themselves and for the company," said Raison.

Entry-level starting pay for a certified mechanic is about $8 an hour, said Raison.

The 60 Series engine is in high demand, Raison said, adding that each of the 10,000 engines that have been built have a 500,000-mile guarantee of no major repairs.

"The engine was tested through DDC -- many miles in field testing, through a 100,000 hours on the durability stand -- and passed the test," Raison said.

CLARKSTON High School students Tim Garten and Dwayne Adkin are anxiously awaiting the chance to start working on the new diesel engine.

Village joins SEMCOG

To aid Clarkston's struggle to maintain its small-town charm, the village council decided to join SEMCOG.

It wouldn't be a bad idea, considering cityhood for the village and the megamall in Auburn Hills are looming on the horizon, said Trustee William Basinger.

"As the sprawl moves up I-75 maybe, it is time to join," the trustee said of the South Eastern Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG).

President Sharron Catallo believed the materials available from the SEMCOG library -- for members only -- would prove invaluable as the village heads into the 1990s.

The annual dues for the village will be $510. The expenditure was approved by a 7-0 vote at the Monday, Sept. 25, meeting.

About 7 p.m. last Friday, Samuel Stephens Wood of Olympus was driving east on Andersonville and was attempting to turn left onto Parview Drive. He was hit by a car driven by Mark Eugene Alstat, 30, of Auburn Hills, according to the Oakland County Sheriff's Department report.

Alstat was traveling south on Parview when the accident occurred. He was cited for failing to yield to Wood.

Wood was treated and released from Huron Valley Community Hospital, Milford.

Township's "A" rating pays off

Independence Township's recent "A" rating from rating agency Standard and Poors Corp. has paid off.

At the special meeting Sept. 25, board members voted to work with First of America bank in making available special assessment bonds for the $2.385 million-Thendara Park road improvement project.

From a total of six competitors, First of America offered the lowest interest rate to the township at 6.82 percent.

Their competitors offered interest rates from 7.119 to 7.18.

"I think we came out of this in just excellent shape," said Supervisor Frank Ronk. "First of America did a great service to the community."

Driver hit at I-75

A 31-year-old Independence Township driver was hit from behind Sept. 30 while attempting to turn onto I-75 in Independence Township.

Robert Gordon Bernier of Michigamme was treated and released from Pontiac Oseopathic Hospital.

About noon last Saturday, Bernier was driving north on Sashabaw Road. He attempted to turn left on to north bound I-75 entrance ramp when he was hit from behind, according to the Oakland County Sheriff's Department report.

The police report said Steven Anthony Quesnell, 28, of Sashabaw Road, Independence Township, was unable to stop and collided into Bernier's car.

Quesnell was cited for being unable to stop within an assured clear distance ahead. Both men were wearing their seat belts at the time of the accident.

Four CHS seniors are National Merit Semifinalists

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Being at the top of the class has merit, and four Clarkston High School students and their parents were honored at a breakfast recently for the students' national merit.

Seniors Lisa Brinn, Andrew Byrne, Greg Hamman and Wendy Manning were among the 15,000 students nationwide chosen as semifinalists in the National Merit Scholarship program, which awards about $23 million scholarships to 6,000 students nationwide.

SEMIFINALISTS in the National Merit Scholarship from Clarkston High School are (from

Scholarship semifinalists and their parents met with Principal Robert Burek and other school administrators Sept. 21, for early morning coffee and doughnuts at Clarkston High School.

Burek said he intends to make a special effort to recognize those students who achieve academically.

He also encouraged the students to be thankful of the guidance parents have given to them.

"You are successful because of the love and care they (parents) have given you," said Burek.

The students plan to attend college in the fall of 1990, but each said he or she wouldn't choose a college until the National Merit Scholarship recipients are announced in February 1990.

To qualify for the finalist stage, the following criteria is used: principal's recommendation, Scholastic Aptitude Test scores and scholastic and extracurricular accomplishments.

The four semifinalists have good grade point averages and are involved in extracurricular activities.

Brinn is the daughter of John and Susanne Brinn of Whipple Tree Lane, Independence Township. She has a 3.98 grade point average and is secretary of the National Honor Society (NHS). She also spends a lot of time with her horse and with her part-time job.

Byrne is the son of William and Judith Byrne of West Church Street, Independence Township. He has a 3.962 grade point average and is a member of the CHS Marching Band, "Just Say No" program, NHS, drama, Dr. Burek's Unity Group (DBUG) and Quiz Bowl; plus he accompanies the Madrigal Singers on the piano.

Hamman is the son of Ray and Joan Hamman of Deerhill Court, Independence Township. He has a 3.875 grade point average and is a member of the CHS Marching Band and Quiz Bowl. He also works part time at Murray's Auto Parts.

Manning is the daughter of Dennis and Ellen Manning of Holcomb Road, Independence Township. She has a 4.012 grade point average and is also a member of CHS Marching Band, chairman of Blue and Gold, "Just Say No," (NHS), drama and DBUG.

4 years of hard work pay off with new addition

UNDER CONSTRUCTION for almost four years, the addition and roof-raising repairs were finished in time for a dedication ceremony Oct. 1 at The Episcopal Church of the Resurrection on Clarkston Road, Independence Township. The addition was dedicated to the Rev. Alexander Stewart, first rector of the church, who now lives in Alabama.

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston New Staff Writer

Celebration was the order of the day Oct. 1 for church members and friends of The Episcopal Church of the Resurrection on Clarkston Road, Independence Township.

The church was founded in 1960 as a mission of All Saints Episcopal Church in Pontiac. Meetings were first held for the church members at Lewis E. Wint Funeral Home, Clarkston.

Later, the members moved from the funeral home and held services in the lobby of Clarkston Elementary school on Waldon Road until land, where the church now stands, was donated by John Linde, vice-president of General Motors Corp. about 1960 or 1961. The church building was erected soon after.

Four years ago, church members decided to add on to the building and repair a leaking roof. The addition and repairs started in the summer of 1985 with only volunteer help from the church members.

Volunteers worked on the project as funds were available, and as funds lagged the building of the addition slowed until people donated more money, said John Baker. Baker is a member of the church, and owner of a Leonard carpentry business, The House Mechanic.

All of the workers are now paid subcontractors, said Baker.

Lynch said the church members were determined to finish the addition this year.

Even with the subcontractors helping to complete the project, volunteers have worked about 5,000 hours, and the cost is about $250,000, said Lynch.

Baker said the original roof was flat on the east and west wings of the building and leakage and maintenance were costly. The roof now is sloped, and three rooms, an entrance and a long hallway were added -- increasing the building size by about 30 percent.

Saturday is generally volunteer day, but that's usually when weddings are held at the church he said.

New addition dedicated

"We've had many a nervous bride," said Baker. One bride came into the church about 3 p.m. for a 4 p.m. wedding, and when she arrived, "it looked like a street in Beirut," said Baker.

In September of 1985, volunteers had torn down a wall between the inside of the church and the narthex, a vestibule in the church, and all the rubble was lying around, he said.

"We told her not to worry: it would be cleaned up for the ceremony," said Baker. "And when the ceremony was over we went right back to work."

With all of the hours of work behind and a dedication service with about 200 in attendance, the church building maybe expanded even more, said Lynch, adding that for now, they'll enjoy the fruits of their labor.

"For this project, it's complete," he said.

The Oct. 1 date was chosen as the day of dedication because it's a traditional day of dedicating churches in the Episcopal faith, said Lynch.

The Rev. Alexander Stewart, first rector of the church and for whom the addition is dedicated to, returned from Alabama to officiate the ceremony along with Lynch.

Superintendent reacts to education summit

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The superintendent of Clarkston schools said Clarkston probably wouldn't benefit in the short term from the President's education summit last week, but the long-term benefits would be an increased awareness of education.

"I'm hopeful of the positive focus and profile for Michigan and Clarkston concerning education," said Superintendent Gary Haner a few days after the summit.

President George Bush said he wanted to give education a "new sense of direction," so he called a summit for the nation's governors Sept. 28 in Charlottesville, Va.

Haner said he agreed with some of the President's points and disagreed with others.

For instance, Bush does not consider putting more money into education as the fix for the problems education is facing today, said Haner.

"I would say that if increased dollars doesn't make the difference, then let us trade (Clarkston schools) dollars with Birmingham and Bloomfield. The people in those areas certainly would not agree with that," he said.

Haner said he doesn't have any concrete facts yet, but he heard on a morning talk show that Bush has allocated fewer dollars in his budget for education than former President Ronald Reagan did.

Haner does agree with Bush in the area of accountability in education, he said.

"I agree that America, Michigan and Clarkston need to be more accountable for what it's doing in education, and I don't mean the measurement of teachers," he said.

Haner said educators should identify what's being taught and set minimum levels of what will be taught -- no matter who is teaching it.

Clarkston officials are working to improve accountability in the area of curriculum development, said Haner, but he added that every school district needs to become accountable.

Sashabaw Road open to traffic again

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Motorists now can use Sashabaw Road between Sally and Oakhill roads in Independence Township, after almost four months of road construction and a detour.

Sashabaw Road was closed for construction on July 5 and was reopened almost week ahead of schedule on Sept. 22.

John Joy, spokesperson for Oakland County Road Commission, said two projects actually were under construction on Sashabaw Road.

The intersection of Pine Knob and Sashabaw roads was improved at a cost of $197,343. A section of Sashabaw Road was completely reconstructed for $462,817. Sashabaw was completely dug up and the road bed reconstructed because, according to the Federal Highway Administration, if a road needs a certain number of repairs at the same time, it's safer to completely remake it.

The Federal Highway Administration funded 75 percent of the Sashabaw construction.

Joy also said that the remaining 25 percent of the Sashabaw project was funded by taxes imposed on people who pay for gasoline at the gas pump and taxes imposed on truck drivers at weigh stations along Michigan highways.

He said many taxpayers don't understand that it is not property taxes that fund road construction.

He added that the construction was not related to Pine Knob traffic.

DETOURS and misspelled signs can be a headache for drivers inconvenienced by construction. Sashabaw Road is now open to traffic.

Opinion of Bill Myers

The return of the 'Market's Loveliest'

William A. Myers is a retired Lapeer County editor and investments manager from Boca Raton, Fla.

Four years ago this summer, when I had nothing better to do, I compiled (with the help of The Financial Weekly) a list of 19 companies that had earned more every single year for the previous 10.

That was a pretty good trick in the 10 years from 1975 to 1985. Only 19 of some 2,000 companies met the test.

We wanted to see how important such a stern and demanding yardstick this might be to predict stock performance.

Two years later, shortly before the August 1987 market top, we checked the results. The idea was a big flop.

These choice stocks went up 64 percent. The S&P 500 index went up 59 percent. No big deal for those two years.

Another two years have gone by, and according to my calculations, it was August 1989. So we ran through these blue chips again.

Of the original 19, 11 either had a down earnings year since 1985 or had merged or sold out. Winnowed out were Duke Power, First Kentucky National (sold out), General Electric, Genuine Parts, Hartmarx, Knight Ridder, McGraw Hill, Morrison Knudsen, Phillip Morris and RJR Nabisco.

So there are nine little Indians left, and here's how they performed, 1985 to 1987 to 1989:

Note that the 1985-1987 figures don't jibe with the ones I gave a few paragraphs back. That's because the 1987 figures included stocks that were removed later because of down years or sell-outs. When we updated to 1989, we used the nine surviving stocks in all three periods.

Now, of course, the battle-scarred veterans have 14 years of increasing earnings - a chest plastered with combat ribbons.

I had sort of figured such proven stocks would do better than they did relative to the averages the first four years. The S&P 500 went up 90 percent. Our little beauties climbed 103 percent.

Not great, but I'll bet it's better than two-thirds of the mutual funds.

The big winners should have been easy to pick from that list of 19 earnings-gainers back in 1985. They were either on your breakfast or lunch table: Dow Jones (Wall Street Journal), Kellogg's (cereals) and H.J. Heinz (pickles and beans).

The whole stunt has provided a slant on "growth" stocks. Mind you, of the whole universe of the New York Stock Exchange, in the past 14 years, only nine stocks out of some 2,000 have had their earnings grow every year.

Granted, some stocks rise because the dividend is increased, some rise because of buyout rumors, but over the long haul, they have to make more money to grow.

A flash-in-the-pan run-up in price makes some money for a few, but Steady should be the name of your horse.

From a fellow-sufferer from the way the language is treated these days comes a note. The writer is the famed Rev. Dr. Blair Sutphin of St. John's Church in Pompano Beach, Fla. Blair is such a wordsmith that he delivers his sermons in blank verse. He writes:

"I've got a sermon called 'The Worst of the Izes.' Even the official Creed of the Presbyterians has been changed so that Christ is no longer 'the son of God' but now the 'normalization of divinity.' I maximize my displeasure at this attempt to inconsequentialize belief. On these dark days of the language, I can almost sympathize with Woody Allen when he said, 'Not only is there no God, but just try to get a plumber on Sunday.'

"Your columns amuse and stimulate and divert me from my abnormalized health."

Boys soccer team strikes back

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Two games against Oxford, one home and one away, showed just how much the varsity soccer team has learned this season.

Last Friday, the Wolves partially avenged a 6-0 pasting by Oxford by tying the Wildcats 1-1 at Clarkston High. The tie left the Wolves' record at 2-7-2 and their spirits much higher.

"That was a much better game," said Coach Neil Granlund. "We spent most of the second half in front of their goal."

Kris Wikle scored Clarkston's goal, midway through the first half. Lance Lewis assisted on the goal. Oxford tied the game when a loose rebound off a direct free kick found its way into the net.

As he has all season, Granlund tinkered with his starting lineup in hopes of finding the right combination. During the Oxford game, he may have found it.

A summary of the coach's moves follows: Wikle was moved to the center-forward position. Dennis Miller became the sweeper. Matt Warren moved from midfield to the defense, and Lance Lewis took over at midfield. Substitute Ethan Lee and junior varsity/varsity player Scott Rooney also showed much potential in the last week.

"They (the players) seem to have responded to the changes," said Granlund.

Clarkston will have a chance to test its new lineup further with a road game against Greater Oakland Activities League rival Brandon Thursday and home against Royal Oak Kimball Saturday.

Three win in athletic contest

Three Clarkston area boys placed in the Punt, Pass and Kick tournament in Waterford recently.

Tim Loveless won the division for eight year olds, and Justin Dionne did likewise among the nine year olds. Jeff Cumberworth was second in the 10-year-old division. Waterford Township Parks and Recreation sponsored the event.

The Punt, Pass and Kick contest allows kids to show their talent in the aforementioned skills with scores based on distance and accuracy.

Wolves defeat Mott

Sweeping four of the top five spots, the Clarkston cross country team breezed past Waterford Mott last week.

Jason Wenger was the top runner for the Wolves, winning the race in 17 minutes, 11 seconds. Kellie O'Neil was third at 17:40, Paul Brisson and Jim Haviland tied at 17:43.

The victory upped the Wolves' record to 3-0 in the Greater Oakland Activities League.

For the girls, Sonya Schaffer won the race with a time of 21:07, but Clarkston lost the meet since she is the only runner on the team.

Hoops team falls to Waterford Kettering

SUSAN MCKOIN fights off a Waterford Kettering player for position under the basket during last Thursday's varsity girls basketball game. The Captains shut down McKoin and the rest of the Clarkston Wolves and won the game, 53-46.

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Statistics told the sad tale of the varsity basketball team last Thursday.

Sixteen turnovers and 1-of-5 shooting from the floor in the third quarter doomed Clarkston as it lost to Waterford Kettering 53-46.

"It hurts," said Coach Larry Mahrle as he reviewed the stat sheets after the game. "We'll be all right. We didn't execute well but we played hard. We still have a ways to go."

Including a rematch against the Captains at Clarkston High on Tuesday, Oct. 24.

Rhonda Jokisch (21 points) and Jenny McChesney (10 points) hit double figures, but little else went right for the Wolves in their first meeting with Kettering.

Jokisch scored seven of her team's 11 first-quarter points, but it was host Kettering who led 18-11 after eight minutes of play.

Clarkston closed to within a point at the half (24-23) with McChesney leading the way from the perimeter. She scored five points in the quarter.

Susan McKoin sank two free throws to start the third quarter, putting Clarkston in front by one. Kettering soon regained the lead for good, however.

The Captains led by 10 after three quarters and extended it to as many as 13 before Clarkston rallied to make the score close in the end.

"It wasn't pretty," said Mahrle.

Earlier in the week, the Wolves won their ninth straight game, beating Pontiac Northern 64-45. McKoin had 20 points, Alyson McChesney 12, Jokisch 11 and Celeste Steinhelper 10.

Clarkston had little trouble disposing of the Huskies, leading 21-7 after one quarter and 35-13 at the half.

JV Wolves remain .500

Heather Austin scored 38 points for Clarkston High's junior varsity basketball team last week, helping it earn a two-game split.

The Wolves began the week with a 60-13 thrashing of Pontiac Northern. Austin netted 18 points to lead all scorers. Stacey Tinkis and Melissa Barnett had 12 points apiece, and Lesley Allen added 10 for the visitors.

Clarkston couldn't keep its four-game win streak alive at Kettering two days later. The Wolves lost 55-40. Austin scored 20 to lead CHS. Heather Steinhelper chipped in eight points, and Jennifer Gill had six.

The Wolves' record is now 5-5.

Warning! JV football team on the prowl

Warning labels may soon be issued to defensive members of the junior varsity football team.

The stickers would warn opposing quarterbacks that passing could be hazardous to their team's chances of winning.

Clarkston High has stolen 11 passes in its last two games, both victories, including six last week against Waterford Kettering.

"Eleven in the last two games -- that's almost a season's worth," said Coach John Craven.

Jon Wyniemo led the defense with three interceptions. Keven Heidisch had two, and Dave Smith added one. The defense limited Kettering to seven points, none in the second half.

Clarkston won the game 26-7 to up its record to 5-

0. Offensively, Dan Griffiths had 143 yards on 18 carries and three touchdowns, Brian Davis 80 yards on 12 carries and Eric Ryan 72 yards on seven carries to lead the rushing attack.

Griffiths opened the scoring with a 33-yard run. The extra point attempted failed.

Kettering, thanks to a successful fake punt, took its first and only lead of the game later in the first half.

Griffiths restored the Wolves' lead on a three-yard run. Wyniemo passed to Bryan Hambell for the two-point conversion. Clarkston led 14-7 at the half.

Davis and Griffiths added touchdown runs of nine and seven yards, respectively, in the second half to clinch the victory.

Clarkston now awaits the arrival of a powerful

Pontiac Northern squad for a Thursday evening contest. The game gets underway at 6:30.

Time Out

Go ahead,
do the wave

Those in need of a true sports fix should stay close to home and visit a high school sporting event.

The girls basketball game at Kettering last week was a prime example of excellence in prep sports. Except for the final score, I wish it would always be this exciting.

Before the varsity players took the floor, the fans who packed the stands began a never-ending contest between Clarkston and Waterford Kettering. Bold beyond their years, fans shouted anything and everything (well, almost) that came to mind in hopes of irritating the opposing fans.

Clarkston fans got the ball rolling with chants of "Go home, Kettering, go home! Go home, Kettering, go home!" even though Clarkston fans were the visitors. Nice touch.

The walls behind the visitors section were plastered with colorful banners proclaiming the excellence of the Wolves. An unofficial Clarkston News count had CHS up 19-4 in the hype category. Yes, this was a big game for all. The best is yet to come.

So far, the game hasn't started yet. The players are warming up as Ozzie Osbourne's music wails through the loud speakers in the gym. For this contest, they could have played Bach. The crowd and athletes were ready to rock and roll without anyone's help, thank you.

Once the game began, the chants reverted to normal crowd banter like, "Defense, defense, defense!" for a little while. Then Kettering fans decided to start the wave.

The wave, a sport only fans can play (for those who don't get out much), happens when a number of people stand up and raise both hands in the air and then sit down. When group of fans can synchronize their efforts properly it looks like a wave.

Pretty silly, eh?

Clarkston fans thought so, too, especially since only a handful of people attempted it. So they decided to call a spade a spade. They chanted: "Weak! Weak! Weak!"

Soon the visitors side had its own wave going in the students section. Unfortunately, it died out when it reached the old folks. Where did they think they were at, the Palace of Auburn Hills? It's OK to act a little silly at the game. You paid for admission. Get your money's worth next time. But enough on that, let's get back to the action.

Before Clarkston fans could steal the show, Kettering supporters got in a good dig when they made some crack about passing their millage. Ooooh, what's next? Will you tell us our shoes are untied?

One thing that stuck in my mind throughout the taunts that were tossed back and forth was that it stayed within the realm of a friendly rivalry. Nobody was obscene or nasty. They just wished the other side would drop dead. (Just kidding.) From start to finish, it was fun to watch. You couldn't tell what was going to happen next, either on or off the court.

In the end, when it became apparent Clarkston would lose its first game of the season, Wolves fans began chanting, "Wait until tomorrow!" in reference to Friday night's football game against Kettering.

When the visiting fans headed for the exits with 41 seconds left, Kettering fans ushered them out properly with the good-bye song. The Wolves will have the chance to return the favor on Tuesday, Oct. 24.

Hope to see you all at the game. It'll be worth the price of admission. Trust me.

Sashabaw defeats Lake Orion

Besides an early fumble that cost it six points, the Sashabaw freshman football team executed its game plan to kill Lake Orion's win streak against the Cougars.

Jerry Anderson rushed for 108 yards on 20 carries and scored one touchdown for Sashabaw in its 16-6 win against the Dragons Sept. 27.

Anderson opened the scoring by catching a two-yard pass from quarterback Nick Shires. He ran for the successful two-point conversion to give Sashabaw the lead for good at 8-6.

Mike Wood scored an insurance touchdown off a 25-yard reverse play for the Cougars. Matt Fisher ran for the two-point conversion.

From that point forward, the defense took control and shut Lake Orion down.

"The whole defense played outstanding," said Coach Mike Stefanski. "There were five or six guys with at least five tackles. We shut them down in the second half."

On offense, Shires completed six-of-10 passes for 56 yards and a touchdown. The running backs also did well, the coach said.

"We moved the ball up and down the field at will in the second half," Stefanski said. "We stayed on the ground and moved it. It was a good win."

The victory keeps Sashabaw's record unbeaten after five games.

Wolves beat the odds again

Football team beats Kettering with inspiration from newspaper

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Once again, an area daily newspaper predicted the varsity football team would lose. On Friday night, Clarkston High once again beat up its opponent and the prognosticator.

"It feels great," said linebacker Terry Schimke. "(The prediction) had us pumped up. We wanted (Kettering) bad."

Schimke, who recorded five solo tackles and added five assists, helped limit Kettering to seven points. Kevin Keilitz had six tackles, Ron Gibson five; and David Tinkis had four quarterback sacks.

On offense, Brett Kinzler scored twice and ran for 175 yards. As a team, Clarkston had 234 yards rushing and 69 passing.

The double-pronged attack added up to a 22-7 win. On the down side, Clarkston was flagged for 95 yards in penalties.

Coach Kurt Richardson, looking ahead to this week's game against Pontiac Northern, wasn't totally pleased.

"We still made too many mental mistakes in the second half," he said.

Clarkston scored all the points it would need to win in the first half.

John King kept the Wolves' first drive alive with a successful run off a fake punt near midfield. Later, he threw a key block that sprung fellow back Brett Kinzler for a 51-yard touchdown. David Marks kicked the extra point for a 7-0 lead with 4:42 left in the opening quarter.

Kettering knotted the score at seven early in the third quarter on a 1-yard pass play from Rick Haviland and Jamie Heverly.

A Clarkston fumble on its next possession set Kettering up on the Wolves' 18-yard line. The defense jelled and held the Captains off the scoreboard. Kettering eventually turned the ball over on downs at the Clarkston 17.

DAVID MARKS, off a perfect hold by Chad Hetherington, boots a 20-yard field goal before halftime to boost Clarkston's lead to 16-7.

Brett Kinzler then said thank you very much and raced 83 yards for another Clarkston touchdown on the Wolves first play of the drive. The try for extra point failed, leaving CHS in front 13-7 with 5:36 left before halftime.

Kettering went to the air in hopes of gaining the lead on its next drive but failed. Dane Davis intercepted a pass at the Clarkston 33-yard line. Marks eventually kicked a 20-yard field goal to push Clarkston's lead to 16-7 with 40 seconds to play.

The Wolves then pulled off a successful on-sides kick play, recovering the ball on the Kettering 40-yard line. Disaster almost followed a play later.

Quarterback Dugan Fife tried to hit King with a screen pass in the right flat, but a Kettering defender saw it coming and picked it off. If not for a diving ankle tackle by King, Kettering would have had a touchdown and the momentum at the half.

Instead, Clarkston's defense held the Captains in check and off the scoreboard. The half ended on a unsuccessful fake field goal attempt.

Neither team could generate much offense in the third quarter. Neither team scored, either.

Fife and Davis hooked up on a 21-yard pass play with 10:49 left in the game for the final touchdown. A pass play on the two-point conversion attempt failed.

Joel Wells sealed the victory with a late interception.

The victory ups Clarkston's record to a deceiving 3-2 overall and 2-1 in the GOAL.

"We could have been 5-0 very easily," said Richardson.

Golf team weathers rough week on course

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

A tough course at Hartland finally bested Clarkston's previously unbeaten boys golf team last week.

A new nine holes, unplayed by the Wolves, didn't help their chances as CHS dropped its first match of the year 187-170 on Monday, Sept. 25.

Fortunately, the players learned from their loss and played much better four days later at the Hartland Invitational. Clarkston finished third at 348 in the 27-hole tournament. Detroit Country Day was the winner.

Individually, Sean Clauw and Dan Scribner shot 111, good for third place and David Coin and Gary Kaul teamed up to shot 114 (tied for ninth).

The marked improvement in the team's play surprised Coach Jim Chamberlain.

"I was very pleased with the outcome," he said.

The Wolves also split two Greater Oakland Activities League matches last week, winning against Pontiac Northern at home and losing to Waterford Mott on the road.

Clarkston began with a narrow 179-181 loss at Mott. Nobody shot well for the Wolves, the coach said. The team improved its score during the Northern match and won easily, 171-191. Coin was the top golfer for the Wolves.

On Monday, Oct. 2, Clarkston finished 24th in the 43-team Oakland County Meet.

Treat every gun as if it were loaded

Hunting season in Michigan is a time for more than a million sportsmen and women to participate in one of our greatest outdoor sports -- hunting for small game, waterfowl and white-tailed deer.

It's also time for caution and common sense. In hunting, there's nothing more important than safety.

Following are the Ten Commandments of Firearm Safety in the Field from Michigan United Conservation Clubs and the Michigan Division of Dow Chemical U.S.A.

The rules are designed to make hunting a safe and rewarding experience. They also could save your life.

1. Treat every gun as if it were loaded. You never can guarantee that your chamber is unloaded. So give an unloaded firearm the same respect you'd give a loaded firearm.

2. Watch where you point your gun muzzle. Never point the muzzle of your firearm at yourself or anyone else, even if it is unloaded.

3. Know your firearm and its ammunition. Before you load, make sure your firearm is in safe operating condition and the barrel is free of obstructions. Double check the specifications of your ammunition to make sure it fits your gun.

4. Do not load your gun before you are ready. Why take chances? When traveling to and from your hunting blind, take down or have your actions open, and always carry your firearms unloaded in their cases.

5. Be sure of your target -- and beyond. Before you squeeze the trigger, make sure that you have carefully identified your target, then look past it to be sure it is safe to shoot.

6. Beware of fatigue when hunting. When you've been out in the woods a long time, fatigue can cause carelessness, which can cause accidents. A loaded firearm can accidentally fire with a single, unexpected jar, so watch your step.

7. Don't take chances with a loaded firearm. Never step over fences, jump ditches or make other awkward or unbalanced moves while holding a loaded firearm.

8. Use care when practicing. When shooting for practice, make sure you backstop will prevent ricochets and protect bystanders. Bullets can ricochet off rocks, trees, metal, water and other hard surfaces.

9. Store your guns safely. When not in use, always store firearms unloaded, away from ammunition and out of the reach of children and inexperienced users.

10. Remember -- alcohol, drugs and firearms don't mix. Never consume alcohol or other mood altering drugs before or during target shooting or hunting.

Wolverines win

Five different players scored for Clarkston's freshman football team as it won its fourth game of the season.

Justin Tappero scored twice, Steve Hunkele, Steve Black, Aaron Kirk and Dan Schoff one apiece for the Wolverines in their 40-0 win over Crary last week.

Coach Steve Himburg singled out the offensive line for its fine play. Clarkston's record is now 4-1.

SEVENTEEN Clarkston High students stand before their peers to explain what it means to be involved in the Just Say No Club. Oakland County Prosecutor spoke with students and helped reinforce the members' attitudes about staying away from drugs and alcohol.

Anti-drug group growing

Speakers ask CHS students to lead by example

RICHARD THOMPSON urges Clarkston High School students to become involved in the fight against drug abuse.

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Drug Writer

Richard Thompson considers students the "first line of defense" in the on-going battle against drug and alcohol abuse.

As Oakland County Prosecutor, Thompson sees drug abusers daily. He challenged the 100 or so Clarkston High School students at a Just Say No club rally Sept. 27 to stop the illegal activity.

"Peer pressure can stop the use of drugs," he said. "The reason we have a drug problem is that there are a lot of people out there who want to use them," he said. The Independence Township resident was especially pleased with the efforts of the Just Say No club.

Last year, high school members volunteered time for 114 anti-drug presentations to students in the Clarkston school district. The group is under the guidance of SEARCH coordinator Katie McKay.

McKay began the club three years ago with 35 students. Each year, more teens have dedicated themselves to fighting drug abuse.

"I'm really proud of you," she said while leading a round of applause for the drug-free students. "I know how hard it is to stand up for what you believe in."

Seventeen students involved in the Just Say No presentations a year ago stood collectively before their peers to tell them what they discovered. Most agreed it was a learning experience for them as well as their audience.

McKay stressed the importance of teaching kids early that drugs are not OK.

"Forty percent of fourth graders don't realize wine coolers are alcohol," she said. "Drug free includes alcohol."

Assistant Principal Brent Cooley explained the importance of the club during his turn at the podium.

"By ourselves we are not very strong," he said. "But collectively we can make a change. You need to extend yourselves. It needs to start with your closest friends."

"You've taken that risk today. You have a vision. We are part of a national strategy to wipe out drugs in America."

"By ourselves we are not very strong. But collectively we can make a change. You need to extend yourselves. It needs to start with your closest friends."

Song and prayer connect with East Germans

BY LINDA WALSH LAPINSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

They couldn't communicate too well through the language, but prayer and song worked just as well in building bridges between East Germans and Americans.

Making the 15-day pilgrimage from Calvary Lutheran Church, Independence Township, were the Rev. Bob Walters and his wife, Bev, plus Brandon Township resident Bill McGuire -- a church member and retired Bloomfield Hills teacher and administrator.

Their group was comprised of 12 adults and 12 children from across the country. And for all, it was a memorable experience.

Bill best related to the children, he said.

"I liked the kids. I feel we could learn from them; I wish the bridge was complete," he said. "If you could take away the governmental and language differences, the German people have the same aspirations, hopes and desires for themselves and their children as we do."

Walters, likewise, related well to the children. He smiled when he talked about Peggy, a young girl from Plauen. They shared pennies and Gummy Bears together, he said.

Walters also enjoyed the company of the other ministers, particularly two from Erfurt and Magdeburg.

"Primarily, we are real life people from two different countries who met and became acquainted who could go past ignorance and stereotypes," he said.

For his wife, Bev, it was the music that left the greatest impression.

"As we sang songs we knew, even in our own languages, we built bridges," she said.

"Talking, whether it be to each other, through an interpreter or even with our hands, we were building bridges," she said.

She described an occasion in the Youth Tourist Hotel in Naumburg, when the U.S. group sang with a group of young, tile-laying apprentices.

With "hands held together and raised high," they sang "Down by the Riverside," she said.

For some of the verses, they substituted words meaningful to both nationalities.

... Down by the Riverside.

Gonna' lay down my sword and shield

Down by the riverside.

I'm gonna' walk with the GDR (German Democratic Republic) ...

I'm gonna' walk with the USA ...

I ain't gonna' study war no more.

"There was an electricity created by the joining of share spiritual love with some of the people there.

young and old, East and West," she said.

While the American group was amazed and astounded by the sights they saw, they also amazed and astounded the residents of East Germany.

Some had never seen an American. Many of the children asked if any in the group knew Michael Jackson or Alf. Television stations come from West Germany, and many of the programs are from America.

The group's travel accommodations along the route also contributed to their experiences. They stayed in Free German Youth Hostels and certain hotels that were delegated by the East German government. And they joined East Germans in daily worship, prayer and preaching, said Bob.

"We weren't allowed to stay overnight in the homes of the East Germans," said Bev. "We could stay to talk or share a glass of wine with the families, but never did we stay in the homes over night."

With their special accommodations, conditions were better than if they had been traveling each individual, she said.

"People traveling as individual tourists would have to report to the East German police each night where they were staying and give their itinerary for the following day," she said.

In fact, East Germans can't travel freely within their own country, and married couples never can travel together -- to prevent them from attempting an escape.

As a result, the church plays an ever increasing role in the lives of the East Germans, said Walters.

"The church has become the only place in their

Minister goes from spinning soul to winning souls

BY LINDA WALSH LAPINSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A new minister in town has been a disc jockey, a news director and a pastor as well as instigating a statewide teen music group and directing an international music ministry.

The Rev. Roger Allen replaced the Rev. Frank Van Valin July 24 at the Drayton Heights Free Methodist Church, Maybee Road, Independence Township.

Allen and his wife, Sheryl, and their son, Phillip, came from Linden to make Clarkston their new home.

THE REV. Roger Allen resides with his family on Winell, Independence Township.

Phillip is following in his parents' footsteps by attending Spring Arbor College, Jackson.

When the new minister attended Spring Arbor College, he was a disc jockey for WIBM radio and assistant news director at WKHM radio. His career as a minister has been influenced ever since.

He initiated the musical group, Teens for Christ Ministry. The group of teens from 62 churches from throughout the eastern half of the Lower Peninsula of Michigan are devoted to music for Christ, he said.

Allen and his wife started the program in 1969 and now travel throughout the state to attend 60 concerts a year with the group of teens.

Allen also directs Free Spirit, a young adult group that travels and sings full time.

"It may sound glamorous," said Allen, "but it is very exhausting. They practice and travel six days a week, and even their day off consists of traveling to a new spot and checking into hotels; and not much time is left for relaxing."

Free Spirit has recorded for the Benson/Zonder-van Group of Nashville, Tenn., and their records are heard all over the world, he said.

"We have heard from people from Japan and the United Arab Emirates who have heard our music," said Allen.

Allen is glad to return to an active role in the ministry, he said.

"It's a career change that God seems to be directing us into," Allen said.

"My ministry is meeting people's spiritual and emotional needs. Sheryl and I have prayed over this, and we can best offer our experiences through my ministry here."

Allen and his wife are not giving up their other activities, he said.

"We are still involved with the singing group, Free Spirit; they have been practicing here for three weeks," he said, adding that many of the church members know him from previous musical appearances.

"It's not like being among strangers," he said.

"I hope to get a lot of lay involvement in the parish and act more as a shepherd or as a guide," he said.

He plans Sunday morning services as the church's praising services, but the rest of the time he hopes to guide the congregation through organized freedom and still be involved with his music.

Allen hopes to encourage an active lay-leadership in the church, he said.

"Our Sunday services are times of worship and praise. We are looking forward to the future here in the Clarkston area," he said.

PLUS meeting Oct. 10

PLUS is a group that matches adults with children on a one-to-one basis. It works kind of like the Big Brother, Big Sister program.

MONDAY AND THURSDAY:

Pet of the Week

Charming Sharmaine

Sharmaine will grow to be a large dog and possibly weigh about 60-65 pounds. She's only 10 months old, so weight is only speculation at this time.

She's a black Great Dane cross, but shelter workers aren't exactly certain what other breed she consists of.

The adoption fee for Sharmaine is $35. She has been spayed, and, according to the shelter worker, needs someone to work with her to become housebroken.

Sharmaine loves children and does not have an aggressive personality.

She can be adopted from the Michigan Humane Society, 3600 Auburn Rd., Auburn Heights, 852-7420. Hours at the non-profit shelter are 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Jeweler visits store

For the first anniversary of the Milieu Gallery of Clarkston, owner Denise Howard is hosting Thomas Mann, a jeweler and designer, on Friday and Saturday, Oct. 13 and 14.

In Michigan, the New Orleans-based Mann sells much of his "techno-romantic" art through Howard's store at 20 S. Main St., Clarkston.

Mann, who creates arrays of neck pieces, earrings, miniature collage pins as well as small sculptured pieces, will be introduced at a champagne reception Friday and will be available for discussion at the gallery on Saturday.

Visitors share tales of trip to Germany

society where people can speak freely," he said. "Non-Christians come to the services just for the freedom of being able to speak their minds."

But as he was told by church members, "The walls have ears." The Social Unity Party (SED) has been known to send people to church to monitor the conversations. If a person professes to be a Christian, he or she may suffer from a "subtle persecution," said Walters.

The trip -- led the Rev. Herb Brokering -- was set up to follow the route Martin Luther knew well. It covered a multitude of cities.

Toward the middle of the route, the group attended an exciting church rally in Leipzig attended by 40,000 Christians.

"With no traffic jams!" said Bill. "The people arrived by public transportation, bicycles and a few cars."

Non-Christian topics were covered at the rally. Each participant was given a ribbon symbolizing peace and ecology. During the ceremony, each person handed his ribbon to his neighbor and on down the line until each person had made the exchange.

It was an emotional experience, said Bob.

"The man standing next to me, who only spoke broken English, was trying to explain to me that the money collected during the service was going to help the churches in Hanoi, a communist country," Bob said.

"I tried to explain I understood his concern for not supporting a Communist country, but the money was to help our fellow members in Christ," said Bob. "We both put money in the basket."

Later, a visit to a church in Erfurt resulted in an afternoon and evening of song.

"The choir of 60 voices strong, with no musical accompaniment, sang beautifully," said Bev. "After listening to their singing, our group joined in singing 'God Bless America' and 'God-Bless the GDR.'"

Once again, music and song provided the bridges between the people.

Take it face value or not

Suzanne Baumann

The section of the newspaper that once intrigued me the most were the features filled with odd and "amazing" facts. As an eight-year-old, I'd feel pretty mature reading these syndicates, with their small print and their non-cartoony illustrations.

It was obviously adult material -- stories where men are buried with peaches in their hands, only to have a peach tree growing out of the seed and over the grave -- facts kids are too young to be permitted to learn about, like the knowledge that French fries don't actually come from France. All those amazing coincidences as well.

Recently, I started to read these features once again. This time, things didn't seem as astounding as they used to. I had become acquainted with many of the same facts at school, along with historical and scientific explanations that made what used to be absolutely unbelievable now quite obvious. Knowledge had taken away the mystery.

It seemed that anyone could do it -- choose any fact, focus on only one interesting aspect of the chosen fact, alter it with a few personal opinions and observations, write it in a vague and generalizing manner; and it's off to the press, looking incredible and bizarre to millions of readers. How hard can it be? I tried my hand at writing them to see for myself.

Lucky Seven? Believe it or not, Suzanne Baumann has seven letters in her first name, seven letters in her last, lives in Oakland County (which has seven letters in its name), has seven aunts on her father's side of the family, has a cat who is seven years old; she herself is 16 years old (those two digits added together make seven), and she has seven notches in her new watch band!

Most CATS do not enjoy people who run a finger up and down their whiskers as the people make sounds as if they were playing the guitar. This attributed to the fact that cats have a great dislike for guitars in general.

While murder, suicides and otherwise immoral behavior has recently been reasoned to be caused by heavy metal music, hardly any cases have been linked to the blues, THOUGH SOME SONGS CONTAIN JUST AS MANY SUGGESTIONS!

Twirler struts her stuff for Detroit Lions' fans

BY LINDA WALSH LAPINSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Monica Schram, a Clarkston High School senior and Independence Township resident, is entertaining the fans at the Silverdome during the Detroit Lion's games by doing what she does best -- twirling.

"It's fun, different than competing in front of a judge," said Monica.

She was selected by the director of entertainment at the Silverdome to be one of four girls on the floor twirling during the game.

"I started as a sub, and that was like my audition," she said.

"I twirled in one game last year, and that is how I got started," said Monica.

Monica will have plenty of opportunities to perform this season. She's already twirled in two exhibition games and will be in four of the next five home games.

Independent agent

Transcontinental Underwriters, Inc., of Clarkston has joined the Independence Insurance Agents of Michigan headquartered in Lansing.

Carl Beridon is president of the agency. Through his affiliation with the Big "I", Beridon subscribes to a professional code of business ethics and receives the benefits of membership in Michigan's largest organization of insurance agencies representing 7,000 insurance professionals statewide.

Twirling has kept Monica busy since age six. Over 900 trophies line three sides of the basement walls in her parents' Andersonville Road home.

Monica's recent titles are Miss Majorette of the Year Elite 1989 and Senior Grand National Strut-Off

MONICA SCHRAM is one of four twirlers in the Silverdome during Detroit Lions games.

Winner 1989, which included a $100 scholarship.

She attributes her success to the many hours she practices, her love of twirling and her teacher, Cheryl Winberly of St. Petersburg, Fla., where Monica spent the summer under Cheryl's tutelage.

Monica said this is her last year for twirling. She plans to attend Michigan State University, East Lansing, next year and wants to become a doctor.

"I want to become a neo-natalist; I want to work with premature babies," she said.

Monica has worked hours and hours on twirling, so the hours for college studies will probably be a snap.

CHS senior a Miss Michigan contender

A 17-year-old Clarkston High School senior is looking for businesses and individuals to sponsor her in the Miss Michigan Pageant.

Shannon Vagts is the daughter of Carroll and Carolyn Vagts of Big Lake Road, Springfield Township. She was honored recently by being selected from among the hundreds of applicants for the Nov. 24-26 pageant.

Sponsors would help pay the entry fee in the pageant as well as pay for her dress and accessories, she said.

The contributions would be tax deductible because the pageant is a scholarship program.

New word game in Clarkston

BY LINDA WALSH LAPINSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Word puzzle lovers will have a weekly feature to look forward to starting in this week's Clarkston News. "WordSquares" by Independence Township resident Tom Hoyes will run in the Reflections section each week.

Tom didn't invent the word square, but he has become fascinated by it -- so intrigued that he created a game of it.

"Combinations of words fascinate me," said Tom. It's sort of like a mathematical formula to put letters in a square that spell the same words, in the same order, horizontally and vertically, he said.

To help him choose the four words, he thumbs through crossword puzzle dictionaries and the thesaurus; plus he has three or four dictionaries to use as references.

He has spent many hours working carefully to design new word combinations that can be arranged into word squares. The idea then came to make it a puzzle by thinking up clues that would lead people to the solution ... sort of thought provoking, he said.

An autopsy attendant at the Oakland County Medical Examiner's Office, Tom's outside interests are all in the creative field: he composes music for his guitar, he has a computer bulletin board, and he helps co-produce shows for the home movies entertainment show on Independence-Clarkston Cable-TV Channel 65.

"I have written skits, performed in them and then help in the production," said Hoyes.

Tom, who lives on Snowapple Drive, Independence Township, with his wife, Patricia, said he's glad that WordSquares will appear in The Clarkston News.

"I'm honored by that and surprised," he said.

TOM HOYES enjoys creative hobbies when he's not working at the Oakland County Examiner's Office.

Washington donations sought

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Jim Wenger wants every student to have the opportunity to experience the U.S. government at work through the Close Up program.

Therefore, the Clarkston High School teacher is beginning the search for community groups and private individuals to donate funds to help pay for the annual week-long trip to Washington, D.C.

"My concern is inflation keeps going up," the teacher said. "I'd hate to see it become elitist -- with only the wealthy able to go."

The trip, scheduled for Feb. 25 to March 3, will mark the fifth year Clarkston High School has signed students up for the program sponsored by the Close Up Foundation. While in Washington, D.C. students are kept on a tight agenda -- seeing and hearing information from many sources.

"It's a school-like atmosphere, except Washington, D.C., is the classroom," Wenger said. "It's an intense educational experience. The kids say it's something they will always remember."

Last year, nine students attended the Close Up program. Money for the trip was gathered through student fund-raisers and donations from community groups. Wenger thanked previous contributors and hoped others would become interested and involved this time around. Anything would be appreciated, he said.

"The kids do work hard to sell things," he said. "We are not looking for handouts."

Anyone interested in donating -- it's tax-deductible -- should contact Wenger at Clarkston High School, 625-0900.

Women in business

In celebration of the 61st National Business Woman's Week, the Waterford-Clarkston Business and Professional Women's Club is inviting area working women to attend a meeting Thursday, Oct. 12.

The cost is $10. For reservations, call Denise Schons at 625-3776 by Monday, Oct. 9.

Raspberries and fall!
Hurry, and you can still pick yourself a bucket or two.

Coralyn Symanzik of Symanzik's Berry Farms in Goodrich says that the Heritage Fall red raspberry bushes, which have been cultivated for 14 years, will provide good-picking through the first of October.

The fall berry is firmer, has more body and thrives in cooler weather. The picking season is longer than for summer raspberries. Symanzik calls July berries a "fast flush"; they're here two weeks, then gone. She says July raspberries are flavorful, not as firm or full-bodied, but are the berries known to man throughout history.

Berry picking provides meditation for some and socialization for others. During the season some stalwarts go every two to three days. They make jam with them, freeze them and give them away to friends. One woman picked $18 worth; her son and friends devoured them in a couple of hours. Much better than junk food, she said when she returned the next day to replace her supply.

Along with the berries, the Symanziks distribute their own and their customers' favorite berry recipes. Here are a few favorites.

FREEZING RASPBERRIES: SYMANZIK'S QUICK METHOD

1. Wash berries; let them drain. Washing the berries before freezing is not necessary.

2. Place well drained berries in a single layer on wax paper-lined cookie sheet. Freeze for several hours or overnight.

3. When frozen, place berries in a plastic freezer bag. Ready to use for baking or for good eating.

TIP: One of Mrs. Symanzik's friends is diabetic, so substitutes frozen berries for candy.

RASPBERRY CRISP (serves six)

4 cups raspberries
1/3 cup granulated sugar
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1/3 cup all-purpose flour
1/3 cup firmly packed brown sugar
3/4 cup rolled oats

1. Sprinkle raspberries with granulated sugar in a 9-inch square pan.

2. Blend butter, flour, brown sugar and oats. Sprinkle over raspberries.

3. Bake in 350-degree oven for about 30 minutes.

RASPBERRY OAT BRAN MUFFINS

2 cups oat bran cereal
1/4 cup all-purpose flour
1/4 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 tablespoon baking powder
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon salt (optional)
1 cup skim milk
2 egg whites, slightly beaten
1/4 cup honey
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
1 cup mashed raspberries

1. Heat oven to 425 degrees. Treat 12 medium muffin cups with non-stick cooking spray or two (12-count) miniature muffin pans.

2. Stir dry ingredients together.

3. Combine liquid ingredients; add to dry ingredients. Mix just until moistened.

4. Fill treated muffin cups. Bake 10 to 12 minutes for miniatures; 15 to 17 minutes for medium muffins. Allow to rest several minutes before removing from cups.

Party benefits kids

One guest at the Deer Lake Racquet Club will win $10,000 during a millionaire's party on Friday, Oct. 6.

Up to 500 people are expected at the benefit for Oakland County's Children's Village. A $125 ticket pays for dinner for two and a chance to win one of many door prizes available during the elimination raffle, as well as auction items.

Prizes to be won include: a season pass for two at Pine Knob Music Theatre, a hot air balloon ride, fur coats and diamond rings for men and women. In addition, three lucky people will win the grand prizes of $1,000, $2,000 and $10,000.

Proceeds from the event will go toward the third phase and final construction of an athletic field on the Children's Village grounds in Pontiac and toward the organization's Christmas fund.

Only 250 tickets are being sold. Those interested in buying a ticket or donating a gift or service, contact Greg Alessi at 858-1135.
