POH receives state OK for Dixie site

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

After a seven-year wait, including a three-year appeal process, the state granted a Certificate of Need (CON) to Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital (POH) Nov. 21 for a 125-bed acute care facility in Independence Township.

"This is big, big news," said Jack Whitlow, executive director of Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital, about two hours after he heard the news in Lansing on Tuesday. In a phone interview from his office, where laughter and talk from "about 40 people" were audible in the background, Whitlow said he and his staff felt "fantastic."

"We think it's going to be a great boon to the osteopathic profession, and a great change for Pontiac," he said.

The general hospital, including an emergency room, is proposed for the southwest corner of Dixie Highway

Trial date set for suspect in stabbing

A date has been set in the murder trial of Hezekiah Pulphus Jr. of Grand Rapids.

Pulphus is charged in the June stabbing death of 19-year-old Patrick Walsh of Springfield Township.

The trial before Judge Dennis Kolenda has been set for 9 a.m. Friday, Nov. 27, in Kent County Circuit Court.

Pulphus, 20, is charged with two counts of open murder and one count of felony murder. A charge of open murder carries a life sentence with no parole if the suspect is convicted.

Pulphus is being held in the Kent County jail without bond.

Walsh, a 1987 graduate of Clarkston High School, was living in Grand Rapids to attend Grand Valley State University in Allendale.

In the early morning hours of June 9, he stopped at a Grand Rapids Stop-N-Go convenience store on his way to work. He was fatally stabbed in the heart as he was about to get into his car, according to witnesses.

Police arrested Pulphus, a second felony offender, after investigating a tip received through the Silent Observer program. The program was set up to receive anonymous tips from witnesses in exchange for a reward if the suspect is convicted.

College student gets 8-point buck

Many Michigan residents may boast of rifling deer this week, but one Independence Township resident has a different tale to tell.

John Houck, 23, of Williamson, Independence Township, was on his way to Oakland Community College-Auburn Hills when he bagged an eight-point buck — with his car.

The accident was, of course, unintentional. Houck was driving about 45 mph along Walton Boulevard, Pontiac, about 5:20 p.m. on Nov. 15, when the deer jumped across the road from the right.

"With all of the rain, it was kind of foggy," Houck recalled. "The deer came out from near the lake; I hit it and tried to figure out what happened."

Moments after the accident, hunters appeared and gutted the animal, Houck said.

His car was badly dented, but Houck suffered no injuries.

"It just kind of startled me," he said.

Township asks DNR for $29,500 for recycling

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Independence Township has petitioned the state for money to help with solid waste disposal.

The $29,574 request was made to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, as part of its Protecting Michigan's Future Bond Program.

The program allows municipalities to apply for more than $100 million that will be split between them for various solid waste projects.

The money was made available by Michigan voters, who approved Proposals C and D in November 1988. The vote provided a total of $150 million for projects addressing waste needs across the state.

"Michigan is so far behind in this area," said Independence Township Treasurer John Lutz. "When you look at a state like California and see what they've done with recycling, it's just amazing."

Independence Township has been gathering information for a proposed recycling facility in the township, Lutz said. If the money is awarded, it could be applied to the project.

The money would also be used to educate the public about what's necessary, he added.

The DNR received funding requests from 155 municipalities. The applications will be reviewed by DNR staff and an advisory panel, who then make recommendations to the Natural Resources Commission (NRC). Once the NRC approves the list, the list of projects is sent to the state legislature, which appropriates the funds.

The awards will be announced in February.

POH to open hospital on Dixie site

care facility may be constructed in the state of Michigan.

The Independence facility is necessary, said Whitlow, because the Pontiac location on M-59 and Perry Street has grown a lot in the past 15-20 years.

"Really, it was the only area we could go in that was large enough to handle all we need," he said, adding that the new hospital would give the Pontiac hospital more space to renovate.

According to Brien Faussone, assistant administrator at POH, the CON Appeals Board granted the CON to POH and not to the other hospitals "because we're an osteopathic hospital, and the state recognizes the uniqueness of them."

After being denied for seven years, the positive ruling was not expected, said Faussone, adding that he felt "elated."

"It's hard to rise above six other applicants all denying what you say," he said. "I'm in a state of shock right now. It's starting to sink in."

Other hospitals vying for the CON were: Henry

Ford and Sinai in a joint proposal, Huron Valley, Harper Grace, Beaumont, and Sisters of Mercy -- all proposed for West Bloomfield.

Also competing for the CON were Crittenton and the Rehabilitation Institute of Detroit -- proposed for Rochester.

Thendara Park road paving underway after nearly 16 years

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

New white curbs have begun to line the winding dirt roads of Thendara Park in the northeast corner of Independence Township.

Heavy yellow machinery now crowd the roadways, beginning work that will result in pavement throughout the neighborhood.

Supervisor Frank Ronk

Although the street paving project will cost the average Thendara Park resident about $16,446 over the next 15 years, the changes are a welcome sight for most of them.

The project was suggested by the residents, of whom more than 51 percent signed petitions, asking the township to make the paving happen.

After nearly 16 years of starts and delays, the project formally moved forward last February as public hearings were held, assessment rolls were created, construction bids were awarded and easements were obtained.

An easement grants the right to use land belonging to another for things like roads or underground utilities.

Township officials were thrilled when actual work on Thendara's roads began in October.

Trustee holds hearing on school funding proposal

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

With the recent defeat of tax proposals A and B designed to help school funding, citizens now have an opportunity to get involved at a grassroots level.

L. Brooks Patterson and Patrick Anderson, originators of the Patterson/Anderson Proposal, are looking to the citizens of Michigan for help in passing a bill they're proposing to be on the ballot in November 1990.

Patterson is the former Oakland County Prosecutor and is now in private law practice. Anderson is an assistant vice-president of economics at Alexander Hamilton Life Insurance Co. of America.

Nancy Strole, coordinator of the northwest Oakland County area for the Patterson/Anderson Proposal, is holding a meeting 7 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 30, in the Springfield Township Hall, 650 Broadway, Springfield Township. She plans to explain the proposal for tax relief for education.

Strole is a trustee for Springfield Township, but she's also concerned about the current financial crisis concerning school districts in Michigan, she said, adding she hopes concerned citizens' turnout.

"People make a difference," said Strole.

Over 300,000 signatures will be needed to put the proposal on the ballot, and volunteers are to begin circulating petitions in January 1990.

"The train is leaving the station, and we welcome everyone to climb aboard," Strole said.

The Patterson/Anderson Proposal was initially introduced last summer by a group called CUT (Citizens Unfairly Taxed), but in September the group decided to wait for the results of proposals A and B before continuing with the campaign, said Strole.

"The people of Michigan have a chance to accomplish what Lansing can't," she said. "People really do care

How the school proposal would work

The Patterson/Anderson Proposal would:

- eliminate the Headlee override option and instead require school districts to ask voters to approve millage increases when schools need more money (the Headlee Amendment automatically rolls back millage rates whenever property values increase at a rate higher than the rate of inflation; at present, voters may override the rollback);

- mandate a 20 percent rollback in operating millages for all school districts;

- cap local school operating millage rates at 30 mills (this does not include debt levies);

- set 17 mills as the cut-off point for state aid and guarantee $3,300 per pupil from state and local taxes combined.

For instance, any district that levies at least 17 mills would be guaranteed $3,300 per pupil in local taxes and state aid combined. The dollar amount would be adjusted each year for increases in inflation.

One mill is $1 for every $1,000 assessed property valuation.

The state's contribution to local school districts would not be affected by the Headlee Amendment. For Clarkston schools, the present about 35-mill levy generates about $3,200 per pupil. Under the proposed funding plan, a 17-mill levy would generate $3,300 per pupil.

The mandated 20 percent rollback would result in about 28 mills being levied against property owners in the Clarkston school district, and the district would have the option of decreasing that amount to anywhere below the 30-mill cap.

"This is a whole new guarantee," said Nancy Strole, coordinator for the northwest Oakland County area for the Headlee/Anderson group.

It means the state would be guaranteeing more money per pupil and paying for education the way the used to, she said.

The proposal would not raise taxes; rather the legislators would be forced to cut from other areas to fund education.

"The train is leaving the station, and we welcome everyone to climb aboard."

School transportation needs improvement

About 75 parents voiced disapproval of Clarkston schools in some way Nov. 13, but one parent complained about school buses.

Earl Nichol of Bristol Park, Independence Township, said the school bus did not drop off his daughter in the same place she was picked up the morning, and she was forced to walk 3/4-mile in a desolate area alone.

Nichol said his daughter, a 10th grader, has been approached several times while walking from the bus stop.

The board took a while to discuss the issue, which frustrated Fred Johns of Hillside, Independence Township.

Standing, he said, "Let's do something positive," which drew thundering applause from the audience.

The board took no final action, but members said the bus would drop her off and pick her up in the same spot from then on.

about kids."

By voting down the recent tax proposals, Strole said the voters have told the legislators to give a higher priority to K-12 education.

"They (the legislature) cannot continue to dump on the property owner," she said.

The Patterson/Anderson Proposal will provide the needed tax relief to property owners and to school districts in financial difficulty, such as the Clarkston school district, she said.

"The current property tax system pits neighbor against neighbor and creates friction in the community, while Lansing gets off scot-free," Strole said. "This can't go on any longer. The people at the bottom are fighting to get the scraps that are being thrown out of Lansing."

Southern
dumplin's

Julie Campe

Before she passed away, Grandma Steward was responsible for the chocolate pies on most holidays (though she didn't care much for chocolate herself — made it too many times for her husband, Austin, who had quite a sweet tooth and who was now with the good Lord, she said).

And she also was in charge of the chicken and dumplings (pronounced "chicken 'n dumplin's" by good Southerners).

I never learned her secret for the melt-in-your-mouth deep chocolate pie topped with meringue. But I did have one lesson in the dumpling department (though I have never yet duplicated her specialty).

First, she said, cook a whole chicken in just enough water to cover the bird. ("How long?" I'd ask. "Til it's done," she'd answer.) Then, take all the meat off the bones, and set it aside. (The meat practically falls off the bones, if I remember correctly.)

As for the bones, throw them away (except for the wishbone, which you'll need later).

Then, dump some flour on the counter. ("How much?" I'd ask. "About this much," she'd say, surrounding her mound of flour with her hands.) Next, make a little nest in the middle of the flour (with your fingers — just dig a little hole).

Get a ladle, and spoon a little of that chicken broth (that you just made by cooking the bird past death) into the nest. ("Won't it spill all over the place?" I'd ask. "Not if you're careful," she'd answer.)

Then, real quick-like, mix it all together with your hands, adding a little broth or a little flour, if necessary. It turns into a firm, warm dough, and you just keep mixing it with your hands (kind of like playing with Play-dough) until it's smooth. Shape it into a ball.

Finally, sprinkle a little more flour on the counter, and also coat a rolling pin with flour. Then, roll out the dough. ("How thick?" I'd ask. "About this thick," she'd say. Recollecting, I'd say she made it about a 1/4- to 1/2-inch thick.)

Then, cut the dough into long strips. ("About this wide," Grandma said, pointing to a strip about 1 1/2 inches wide.)

Put the strips into the pot of chicken broth, and add the chicken meat (that you previously set aside) to the pot, too.

Cook until the dumplin's are done ("How long?" I'd ask. She didn't bother to answer).

Somewhere in there, add salt and pepper (I can't remember when to add them, but her dumplings were always very salty).

Then, serve it to your family (if you have a large family, I hope you cooked two birds and made double the dumplings) with corn and mashed potatoes and biscuits (yes — heavy on the carbohydrate side, but that's the Southern way) and cole slaw.

Finish up with some chocolate pie.

Then, locate someone you like, and each of you make a wish. Find that wishbone that you saved from the chicken carcass, and hold it with the apex pointing up. Each grab one of the downward-pointing bones, and at the count of three, pull at the same time.

Whoever ends up with the most bone gets their wish come true, Grandma said.

She always wished to join her husband Austin in heaven ("The good Lord will soon be calling me away," she'd say, a full 20 years before she did, indeed, go).

I reckon her wish came true, though.

Letters to Editor

Let's join to fight vultures in Lansing

This Clarkston News subscriber and reader is very excited about the 75 angry parents and one doctor (Ph.D.) who have analyzed everything and everybody except themselves and the Real Problem of the Clarkston schools economical problems, as reported on pages 1 and 7 of the Nov. 15 issue.

With such a long list of credentials as claimed by this doctor, one would think that his resources would be more appropriately used in efforts to procure equitable, fair and just return of Clarkston's citizens' tax dollars to our schools, from the vulturous big government that took them.

Is he so blinded by the sand dune about his head or so deafened by the raging tempest in the air chambers of his cranium?

The problem is not with the Clarkston Community Schools Board of Education, but his very own "Failure Syndrome" is in fact a part of our greater problem.

The cowardice of attacking the local school board for a problem caused by the all-powerful state government — or could he be a lackey for the state?

The immorality of the millage process has long ago been observed and felt by this 68-year-old resident of Clarkston area of 48 years, and others — where vacant and farm land has borne a disproportionate share of the cost of schools, simply because land possessions cannot be moved away like other personal possessions and therefore provide a stable tax target.

We have observed in our time the routing of widows and aged from their homes by the immoral tax extractions of calloused agents of government, the prevention of post-graduates from becoming established in the home area because of high property taxes.

We have also observed people such as the 75 plus

Dr. — who chose to escape from urbana and suburbia to our area where adequate schools existed, but because of the magnitude of the influxing shift, a problem was created and complicated by their unwillingness themselves to pay the costs of the pleasures of their own choice.

The millage immorality is the process where the majority of a few can tax others to pay for their pleasure; it is legalized thievery, robbery and conversion by force (through a stupid system) the possessions of others to the benefit of the perpetrator.

We say let the widows, the aged and the post-graduates have and keep their homes and land; let's you and I pay for our own luxuries and pleasures in the schools.

Let's stand up like men and women and remember that the state has taken our school money already and must appropriate it to our schools as needed.

Let this doctor throw off his Failure Syndrome, and we together will take on the vultures of Lansing to recover our schools funds.

Edwin E. Masters

Board supplied quick response

As one of the nearly 20 people who addressed the Clarkston Board of Education calling for action at its November 13 meeting, I am writing to publicly thank the board for its quick response to our request to set a date to bring the schools' financial dilemma back before the voters.

For those of us who support the schools, there is a tough uphill climb ahead. I'm heartened by the willingness of the board to address and respond to our concerns.

Jim's Jottings

The National Newspaper Association had their annual convention in Atlanta recently. Hazel and I decided to drive down, taking some side trips enroute.

Except for a small stretch of I-75 north of Lima and 88 miles from Charleston, West Virginia through Beckley to Bluefield, we stayed off the freeways, which W. Va's isn't . . . isn't free.

The big event in Ohio was visiting my father's home town, Mount Gilead. The place is known now for its oil fields. In Dad's day, at the turn of the century, it was known for Shermans, according to him. There are still 21 Shermans in the small town's (3,000) phone book.

Dad would almost get angry at his four kids for never wanting to go to Mt. Gilead to look up our kinfolk. We didn't think at the time, but he never did either.

The two roads we remember most are the I-77 tollway in W. Virginia and Virginia route 91. The toll road has 111 bridges over its 88 miles. It's carved through the Appalachian mountains, and in bright sunshine on a fall day the scenery was outstanding.

It's hard to beat a road with hills, valleys and streams anytime, but the fall colors bring another plus to life.

A mountain-stream ran for miles along 2-lane route 91; first one side of the road, then the other. Sparkling, reflecting Laurel Creek . . . beautiful.

We were at Beckley for the annual sky diver's jump from the second highest bridge (over 800 feet) in America. Divers are invited to jump one day a year and they come from all over the world.

However, on the day chosen this year the winds made it too dangerous and the jump was cancelled for the several hundred divers. Some jumped anyway. Five were arrested. Some 40 made it without being caught. Over 20,000 people showed up for what has become a major tourist attraction.

Near the end of route 91 is Boone, N. Carolina. From a high point in Boone you can see Tennessee and Virginia, it's that far east. It wasn't far enough east to be missed by hurricane Hugo. We were surprised to learn of the damage to this town, 240 miles inland from Charleston.

The airport had been covered with 2 feet of water. Power was lost 3 days. There was heavy damage to buildings. Hard to believe Hugo was that strong that far inland before it turned and headed northeast.

On to Pinehurst to visit Todd and Suzy Biegger. He's greens superintendent of No. 7 golf course. She's a new mother and daughter of Mickey and Lee Ann Hiatt of Oxford.

All golfers know about the golfers' mecca, Pinehurst. For years that's all it was is golf courses. Now it's growing fast with housing and shopping centers. It's a major draw for retirees as well as golf packagers.

They say No. 2 and No. 7 are the finest courses in Pinehurst. I don't know about No. 2, or 1, 3, 4, 5 and 6, but No. 7 is a real challenge. Groomed to perfection through the acres of pines, it's a beauty and a treat to play. Forget the score.

Does crime pay?

Tracy King

The abduction and brutal murder of that couple from Rochester Hills has captured news headlines all week.

As story after story revealed what happened to Glenn and Wanda Tarr that Veteran's Day weekend, I have avidly read and watched each one, fascinated in a horrible way.

In my years of reporting crime in various cities, I have been exposed to murders, many that were more gruesome and more bizarre than this one.

But this case has horrified me like no other. Perhaps because these murders were so close to home, so random.

Wanda Tarr had not recklessly ventured into a crime-ridden area, she drove into the driveway of a home in Rochester Hills, at 7:30 p.m.

Glenn Tarr did not provoke or entice these killers in any way -- he was at home, relaxing, like thousands of other General Motors employees were doing.

These murders could have happened to you, or me, or anyone. There was no way to protect against, or avoid, this type of killing.

Perhaps even more sensational in this story, is that arrests were made in the case less than 48 hours after the murders occurred.

As a detective, where would you start to look? What would you have to go on? Yet the arrests were made.

There isn't anyone who hasn't heard the age-old saying, "Crime doesn't pay."

Those who commit crimes may think it impossible that they could be caught or convicted for their actions, but we are taught that, somehow, we will pay for our wrongdeeds.

Who hasn't taken something that didn't belong to them, only to have it mysteriously get lost or become broken, with "Crime doesn't pay" pounding in their ears as they realize what has happened.

In the case of the Tarr murders, the suspects themselves led detectives to their arrest, allegedly bragging about their actions to others.

If they hadn't done so, there would likely have been other leads to follow. Detectives would have tracked down evidence or tips and may have made those arrests, just not as quickly.

Then is "Crime doesn't pay" an accurate assumption? Perhaps not. Crime does pay. It rewards criminals with the punishment they deserve.

How come The Clarkston News didn't print all of what was said at the Clarkston Board of Education meeting, particularly of what Mr. Bliesath said as quoted in The Reminder: "Bliesath stated his reasons for a February 12 election date -- the snowbirds will be down south, and most of those who are concerned about the schools will vote. The day is right before assessment figures come out, so the cheapskates won't say no. If it doesn't pass, then you can try again in June."

Why are certain segments of the population always blamed for defeats when it comes to raising taxes? Not all are SNOWBIRDS and CHEAPSKATES -- there are many more who are just starting out and others who have paychecks stretched already beyond the limit -- not everyone gets guaranteed annual raises, and they don't make high salaries as those who condemn.

So, Snowbirds, don't forget your absentee ballots, and Cheapskates, don't forget to vote. As for Mr. Bliesath's candidacy announcement, he may be sorry he made the above statement come election day.

'If it Fitz ...'

Super Grandpoop

Jim Fitzgerald

Sometimes I should be ashamed of myself, of my greedy grasping for grandpoop glory. The bear in the tutu provided a good example of this flaw in my otherwise sterling character.

At Emily's eighth birthday party last month, there were no gifts for her 3-year-old sister, Tricia. It had been explained to Tricia, several times, that her birthday was coming in January, at which time she'd get lots of presents and Emily would get zilch. But for now, Emily was the honored guest, and Tricia should be nice about it and not react as independently as she usually does when someone has something she wants.

Independently? Yes.

Tricia's mother, Ferd, collects euphemisms that her polite friends use in describing Tricia's behavior after watching the little dear strip search an entire nursery class to make sure no one has anything she wants.

"Tricia certainly has a mind of her own," they say. Or Tricia is certainly "spirited" or "active" or "lively" or "aggressive."

Lord only knows how many well-mannered tongues have been bitten in half to keep them from saying "brat."

Ferd's favorite euphemism is: "Tricia certainly is an independent child." That means she just started another War of Independence and should be locked up for 12 months every Fourth of July.

It was this sort of independent Tricia fireworks that I feared when Emily opened a birthday present from her grandmother and me. It was a teddy bear in a tutu, purchased by catalog several weeks earlier, before Tricia got her tutu.

That was the problem. Tricia's parents gave her a pink frilly tutu in recognition of her extreme fondness for imitating a crazed ballerina dancing to a blaring videotape of "The Nutcracker Suite." Tricia loves that tutu so much she insists on wearing it everywhere, over whatever other clothing her mother requires, even to church.

I appeared certain Tricia would explode when she saw Emily's bear in a tutu. To keep the birthday party peaceful, my wife briefly considered withholding the gift until sometime later. But she decided it would be unfair to Emily to cater so slavishly to the incendiary independence of her little sister.

So I was watching Tricia as Emily unwrapped the bear in a tutu. I wasn't surprised. Tricia's face immediately turned into a red prune and she yelled, "I WANT THAT RIGHT NOW!"

That's when Super Grandpoop came to the rescue. I scooped Tricia into my arms, rushed her outside and showed her what was in the trunk of my car. Another bear in a tutu. For her.

Man, I was the greatest hero of all time. Kisses and hugs, and I accepted each one without uttering the slightest disclaimer. I took full credit for recognizing how unreasonable it would have been for Tricia, the great tutu lover, to live in the same home as a bear in a tutu that didn't belong to her, it belonged to her awful sister.

I didn't bother telling Tricia that her grandmother had searched several stores for a second bear in a tutu and come up empty. So she bought a nude bear and sewed a tutu for it. All I did was see her sneak the bear into the car trunk.

It's not easy to justify my unconscionable theft of Grandma's glory. It undoubtedly had something to do with Tricia's smile, or the way she shrugs and extends both hands palms up when asked why she did something she wasn't supposed to do.

And it is surely obvious, not to mention corny, to suggest that newspaper articles contribute to the selfish pleasure I get from making Tricia happy. Most of us read about children who receive abuse instead of love, and we despair that there's not much we can do about it.

So perhaps I compensate by doing too much for the children I can touch. It's easy to say that's what grandparents are for and then send them home, spoiled. But is that any excuse for stealing my wife's plaudits, for pretending I might know how to sew a bear's tutu when the truth is that I wouldn't even know how to shop for one?

I should be ashamed. I don't care.

DDA drops Dixie Highway sanitary sewer plans

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

In a surprise move, the Downtown Development Authority (DDA) voted Nov. 20 to abandon plans for a sanitary sewer system serving the "Dixie Corridor" in Independence Township, citing resident opposition to the project.

About 12 residents living near the proposed sewer route sat in stunned silence after a motion to abandon the project met with quick and unanimous approval from DDA members.

"Public outcry is so strong, we've decided not to go any further," Chairperson Dick Ayers told the audience after the vote. "This has created a lot of bad feelings out there, and that is not our intent."

One resident in the audience told DDA members that they were mistaken if they thought all of the residents were opposed to the sewer.

The DDA was formed to improve water, sewer, lighting and landscaping within the DDA district on parts of Dixie Highway and M-15.

Opposition to the DDA's proposed sanitary sewer project became most apparent at two public information meetings Sept. 13 and Oct. 9, when residents rejected three different routes for the sewer line in straw votes. Residents also submitted a petition with 25 signatures opposing the sewer line.

Residents told officials that the sewer system was too deep, was damaging to nearby wetland areas and was unnecessary.

At the meeting Nov. 20, however, one resident told the DDA that at least half of the residents on Sagamore supported the sewer.

"The people you counted (at the informational meetings) were not all property owners," said George Vieira, Sagamore, Independence Township.

"I'm sure there are at least five on Sagamore that are in favor of the sewer," Vieira said, adding that those in favor didn't organize to show support because they thought the project was a sure thing.

When asked why he supported the sewer system, Vieira said he worried that his current septic system would pollute nearby Deer Lake.

Vieira was told to indicate support for the sewer project in a petition to the DDA.

Another resident argued that septic systems were designed to last forever and that water samples indicated no pollution of Deer Lake.

Township Engineer Tom Biehl told DDA members that due to further development, it was likely that a sanitary sewer system would, someday, have to replace existing septic fields; it was just a question of when.

The original sewer route was planned down White Lake Road, Deer Lake Road, across Sagamore Road, Simler Road and up to Dixie Highway. The route followed the township's master sewer plan, which was created as a blueprint for growth in the township.

In voting to abandon the sanitary sewer project, DDA members discussed using the money for an elevated water tower to serve the Dixie Corridor.

Members passed a resolution to recommend to the township board that they acquire land for the 500,000-gallon water tower.

Oil space heater fire harms Pine Knob home

A fire believed to have started in an oil space heater damaged a home on Pine Knob Road, Independence Township, Nov. 16.

The blaze traveled from the space heater to an attached chimney, igniting the outside wall of the home, said township Fire Chief Gar Wilson.

"It could have been much worse if it hadn't shown that quickly," Wilson said.

A neighbor noticed flames coming from the south side of the home about 6:30 p.m. and called for help, Wilson said.

No one was home when the fire started, and firefighters were forced to break into the house to fight it, Wilson added.

The south wall had to be torn down to control the flames; the fire was extinguished just as it reached the attic.

No one was injured in the incident. Wilson estimated damage at $5,000.

Speed limit increases

Speed limits on more than 160 additional miles of rural freeways, including three miles in the Clarkston area, will be raised to 65 mph by early next year, according to the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT).

Freeways that skirt the edges of metropolitan areas but are rural in nature are most likely to see an increase in the speed limit, said William Lebel of MDOT.

The new speed limit will not go into effect until the signs are up. Most signs should be in place by the end of the year or early next year, he said.

In the Clarkston area, the 65 mph zone will be extended on I-75 from Bridge Lake Road in Springfield Township to east of Ortonville Road in Independence Township.

Approximately 1,175 miles of freeway in Michigan now operate under the 65 mph limit, including 750 miles of rural interstates and 425 miles of rural US-numbered freeways. The impending changes increase the 65 mph mileage by almost 15 percent to about 1,335 miles.

Travels with Carrie

July in Australia is cold without winter clothing

Note: Tom and Carrie Wilford are son and daughter-in-law to Jerome and Lucia Wilford of North Main Street in Clarkston. Tom is also a Clarkston High School graduate. Before leaving on their year-long journey around the world in December, the couple visited The Clarkston News and promised to send regular updates on their travel adventures. This letter is the eighth of their travelogue.

Oct. 8, 1989
Queenstown, New Zealand

Australia in many ways is a third world country. It's like Mexico only they speak English."

~An American living in Australia

Australia is the world's only country that is also a continent. Traveling anywhere in Australia requires patience. The towns and cities are greatly separated by vast, wide-open spaces.

Most people live along the east coast between Melbourne in the south and Sydney 600 miles to the north. These two major cities account for the majority of the country's 16 million people.

On July 28, Carrie and I arrived in Melbourne, a city far south of the equator that experiences a reversal of seasons.

OUTSIDE MELBOURNE, the Wilfords visited a kangaroo sanctuary, where Carrie found a friend.

Letter to Editor

We arrived on a cold, gray winter's day. Not needing warm clothing in the tropics, we had boxed up our down sleeping bags, windbreakers plus woolen sweaters and mailed the package in Singapore to our friends in Melbourne.

The postal clerk at the Singapore G.P.O. assured us that our package would arrive in Australia in eight weeks.

We landed in Melbourne 10 weeks after mailing our clothing, called our friends and discovered the package had yet to arrive.

What to do? Everything in Australia is expensive — the thought of buying more clothing was not appealing. Besides, we both thought that our clothing would be arriving any day, and friends loaned us sweaters and jackets.

Melbourne is an attractive city. It is considered the cultural and art capital of Australia. The city reflects a refinement not found in Sydney, which is a much more fast-paced city.

Melbourne has a delightful zoo, including a butterfly house that you can walk through among thousands of butterflies.

One day, Harry and Nancy, our Melbourne friends, took us to a kangaroo sanctuary, where we saw our first wild kangaroos. Afterward we had a picnic lunch in the country, next to a rushing stream.

Lunch was spread out on a picnic table, when suddenly a crimson-colored parrot perched on Carrie's shoulder. Next, one landed on my shoulder. We fed both birds, and soon a whole flock of parrots appeared, looking for food. They loved eating Nancy's homemade fruitcake. Parrots were everywhere, on our heads, shoulders and outstretched hands. It was great fun.

After 10 days of waiting in vain in Melbourne for our warm clothing to arrive, we headed north up along the east coast, past Brisbane, to the Whitsunday islands and the Great Barrier Reef.

Airlie Beach is a small, east coast town. It was here that I signed up for a six-day course to become a qualified open water scuba diver. The course was three days of pool instruction with three days at sea, diving on the Great Barrier Reef.

Life at sea consisted of living on a comfortable 68-foot sailboat with three meals a day, morning and afternoon tea, plus a bunk bed.

The first day we made three dives. These were training dives, during which our instructor tested us in what we had learned in the pool.

The second day we made three dives plus one night dive. Each of us were now qualified to scuba dive in open water to a depth of 65 feet. The last day, we made two morning dives before sailing back to the mainland.

The thrill of scuba diving on the Great Barrier Reef was exhilarating. Swimming through beautiful underwater canyons or alongside brightly colored schools of fish, having mirror fish swim right up to your mask attracted to their own reflection — these were just some of the adventures of diving.

From the Great Barrier Reef, we returned south to Sydney, where we stayed in a friend's spacious apartment overlooking Sydney Harbor. Everyday we would ride on a ferry boat and cross the harbor.

The Sydney Opera House is one of the 20th century's most spectacular buildings, located right on the harbor. We took a tour of this impressive building, which for Carrie was a special pilgrimage. Her father played the cello in the Cleveland Orchestra, which inaugurated the opera house in October 1973.

Still without our winter clothing, we left Australia, hoping our package would catch up with us in New Zealand. We arrived in Auckland, New Zealand, on Aug. 26.

All the best, Clarkston.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

WHO ARE THE BUYERS?

Valerie Phaup
designated broker

QUESTION: Can you classify types of buyers and how each class operates?

ANSWER: Basically, there are three classes of people who look at homes. The first is in a hurry to move. They may have been transferred or already sold their present home. These are the buyers. The second kind is looking for a real bargain. They look only for ads by owners and for thousands of dollars under fair market value. The third kind will never buy. They enjoy looking at homes for a pastime.

Since Realtors publish 85% of classified home sale ads, the 2nd and 3rd groups of non-buyers will be compressed into viewing only 15% of the ads. It makes sense to list with a REALTOR.

85% of home sale ads are published by Realtors.

Community education enrollment up by 54

Student enrollment is up by 25 percent in Clarkston Community Education for the 1989-90 school year.

In 1988, 179 students were enrolled, and in 1989 enrollment is 233, said Marilyn Allyn, director of community education.

Allyn attributes the increase to strategic planning and programing.

"We have day-time programing," she said. "We have clerical and medical programs that we never had before."

This year, community education is guaranteed $662,400 in state aid funding. Other funding comes from federal and state grants plus tuition.

State aid funding for community education differs from funding received in K-12 education because part-time students are calculated for full-time equivalencies.

Enrollment figures play an important part in the amount of state aid the community education program receives from the state, she said.

Rains blamed for cloudiness in Cranberry Lake

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

This season's heavy rains have caused an outpouring of concern among residents near Cranberry Lake, along M-15, Independence Township.

On several occasions, Cranberry Lake Road has flooded, with the extra water pouring into the lake, giving it a cloudy appearance.

At least one resident has wondered whether the flooding has resulted from the early construction of Cranberry Pointe, a 42-lot subdivision approved for a 33-acre parcel north of Cranberry Lake Road, east of M-15.

"Water has been pouring over the road like a waterfall," said Lori Masserang of Fawn Valley, Independence Township. "Something's wrong. ... It looks like it's only going to get worse."

Township engineers say heavy rains have caused some problems near the lake, but Mother Nature — and not the developer — is to blame.

"Water has always drained to the lake," said Tom Biehl, consulting engineer with the firm Hubble, Roth and Clark. "The problem or complaints we're getting is about the cloudy water."

When heavy rains fell, water ran through the subdivision, down the slope and into a sediment basin.

The sediment basin is built along the north side of Cranberry Lake Road and is required by the township to protect sediment from entering the lake.

Because the rains were so heavy, the water ran out of the basin and into the lake, Biehl explained.

"The developer has made every effort. ... This is not atypical of what can happen," Biehl said. "Some storm filters work, but in a big storm, water will just jump right over it."

The developer had tried to seed the area, hoping that vegetation would grow to further stop the flow of sediment, Biehl said. However the seeding was done late in the season and didn't take hold in time.

The Michigan Department of Transportation has been working on M-15 in the area, and their seeding

A SEDIMENT BASIN, created by developers of Cranberry Pointe subdivision to catch materials before they enter the lake, was no match for the rains the area experienced last hasn't taken either, he said.

Although some sediment has entered the lake, Biehl said he suspects it won't do much damage.

"I'm not a biologist, but the water has (very fine suspended matter) in it. (It would be a problem) if enough settles on the growth in the bottom."

Biehl said the seeding should take hold by spring, which should eliminate the sediment problem.

Township still needs fire station

The Independence Township Fire Study Committee would like to extend a thank you to all residents who voted in favor of the recent fire bond issue on Nov. 7.

In spite of the disappointment of the defeat, the fact still remains that the fire station in town has to be replaced. At this time, other alternatives are being looked at.

Clarkston's DAR award winner is 'independent'

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

When Wendy Manning, 17, was pulled from her Spanish class at Clarkston High School and was asked to report to the attendance office, she was puzzled.

WENDY MANNING of Holcomb Road, Clarkston, was chosen as this year's recipient of the Clarkston High School Good Citizen Award, sponsored by the Daughters of the American Revolution of Michigan. The award is granted to a high school senior who demonstrates leadership, dependability, service and patriotism.

A top 10 student and president of the National Honor Society, Wendy was not the type of student to be disciplined for missing school.

To her surprise, she was ushered into the attendance office to be told she was this year's recipient of the Good Citizen Award, sponsored by the Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR) of Michigan.

The Sashabaw Plains Chapter of the DAR asked faculty at the school to choose a senior exhibiting leadership, dependability, service and patriotism.

The award recipient receives a pin and a certificate at a luncheon and is asked to write an essay for competition at the state level.

"Wendy is an independent individual," says Ginny Farmer, a DAR member and coordinator of the selection process. "She's an individual that is respected among her peers and the staff."

Wendy, a poised, friendly redhead, admits she hasn't seen herself that way.

"I've never really defined who I am," she says modestly. "I just do what I enjoy."

Doing what she enjoys keeps Wendy extremely busy.

Along with her work on NHS and her studies, she is point secretary and props and publicity chairman for the Drama Club. A point secretary logs students' hours of activity within the drama club, necessary for application to the International Thesbian Society.

Wendy is also chairman of the Blue/Gold Student Concerns Committee; she is a flutist and section leader of both marching band and concert band and is active in the Just Say No Club.

The demands of the various activities have been a true test of her organizational abilities.

"It's been really tough to keep all of the meetings organized," Wendy admits. "There is always a pocket calendar nearby, and I have separate folders for everything."

Wendy, daughter of Dennis and Ellen Manning of Holcomb Road, Clarkston, says her parents are supportive but encourage her not to do too much.

So far, her many extracurricular activities haven't interfered with her schoolwork.

"This year has been the hardest yet," Wendy says.

"I think you have to pursue things you enjoy and strive for excellence in these things."

Wendy Manning

"It's challenging, but it's worth it."

Although Wendy expects to major in biochemistry in college, she hopes to pursue a law degree and cites English as her favorite subject.

She says if anything has motivated her, it's that she enjoys what she's doing.

"I think you have to pursue things you enjoy and strive for excellence in these things," she says thoughtfully.

"If you enjoy what you're doing, it's easier to do it well."

State deer hunters take aim at record deer season

A record 450,000 deer are expected to be taken by sportsmen statewide during Michigan's Nov. 15-30 firearm season, AAA Michigan reports.

The state Department of Natural Resources has issued 317,747 "bonus" hunting licenses along with the regular licenses to reduce the state's record 2 million deer herd.

The regular firearm license allows hunters to take only one buck while bonus licenses allow hunters in selected counties to take an additional antlerless deer.

This season also brings a regulation change for the estimated 700,000 firearm hunters. Firearms kept anywhere in vehicles now must be unloaded. Unless a gun is in the trunk, it must be in a case. Violations can result in $50 to $500 fines.

Deer season continues as big business in Michigan, with hunters expected to spend nearly $300 million on lodging, food and supplies.

The sport also remains popular. Last year, this state's 294,310 rifle harvest placed second (behind Texas). Michigan muzzleloaders took 17,460 deer, more than double 1987's total. Michigan archers ranked first nationally with 72,020 deer taken.

AAA Michigan urges hunters to be extremely cautious. Three hunters died, and 45 were wounded during last year's bowhunting, firearm and muzzleloading seasons.

For safe hunting, AAA Michigan advises:

- * Be alert driving to hunting grounds. Hunters are three times more likely to be killed or injured while driving to sites than while hunting.

- * Keep the firearm's muzzle away from others at all times and keep safety on until ready to fire.

- * Avoid alcohol.

- * Always look beyond targets and know where other hunters are.

- * Wear more bright orange clothing than required by law.

Additionally, deer and vehicle accidents have nearly doubled in the past six years. There were 42,868 deer-vehicle accidents statewide in 1988.

Time Out

Giving thanks

What I am thankful for during this holiday season:

The long Indian summer season. (Needs no explanation in my book. Nor should it for fellow Michiganders or Michiganders.)

The Detroit Pistons' winning ways. (It helps negate the poor performance of the Wings and Lions. I'm glad they didn't sell out the dome for Thanksgiving.)

No more construction on I-75. (Makes travels to and from work much easier. Surface streets just don't cut it.)

The upcoming parks and recreation adult basketball season. (My team will improve, I hope.)

The snowfall we have experienced so far. (Just enough to cover the ground. Any more would be excessive.)

The outdoor sports season ended before the snow and really cold weather began. (I seemed to have permanently misplaced my gloves from last winter.)

The upcoming winter sports season in Clarkston Community Schools. (As with the fall sports, the pay-to-play system didn't damage the athletic program too much. Go get 'em Wolves.)

The small-town atmosphere of Clarkston. (Let's not bicker and argue, folks. Keep the traditions alive. Let's work together.)

The family I can call my own. (Mom, dad, sister, brothers, sister-in-law, brother-in-law, nephews, niece and countless others. Sorry, but I had to draw the line somewhere.)

McGrath League begins Dec. 2

The eighth annual "McGrath League" begins with a basketball clinic on Saturday, Dec. 2, at Sashabaw Junior High School.

Two additional clinics (Dec. 9 and 16) are scheduled at Clarkston High School before the nine-game season begins.

The basketball league is open to kids in grades fourth through ninth. Cost is $30 for one child and $20 for additional child in same family. All participants receive a "McGrath League" t-shirt.

Contact the athletic office at Clarkston High School (625-0906) for more information about the program.

The interesting people I have interviewed during the past year. (All have made my job enjoyable. Even though some didn't think their story was worthy of coverage, I learned something from them all.)

The new office space on the second floor of The Clarkston News building downtown that the editorial department moved into in April. (Besides lacking window shades to block the blinding morning sun or nosy neighbors across the way at night, a properly operating clock and bare walls, it's perfect.)

The fact I don't have to travel up and down M-15 frequently. (They need to widen the road north of town. Seriously, too many cars, too little space during rush hour. Something has got to give soon.)

The friends I can call my own. (Your friendship is greatly appreciated; the check is in the mail.)

The entertaining Clarkston Village Players. (I don't have the opportunity to see the plays much, but the practice sessions I photograph sometimes are better than the finished product.)

The new computer system I currently am writing this column on. (Complete with a printer and a hard drive. Lots of fun and makes my days a little shorter around here. For that, I am really thankful.)

The co-workers at The Clarkston News. Grace Heike, this one is for you. (She's always pleading to be in the paper. This is the best I can do.)

The roommate who is as sloppy as I am. (That way I don't feel bad if I fall behind in cleaning the place.)

The girlfriend I can call my own. (You'll always be on my mind.)

Magic show contest

Readers have a chance to see "Snoopy's World of Magic" free.

The show is billed as the "family entertainment event of the year" by officials at the Palace of Auburn Hills. All you have to do is count the number of Snoopys in next week's Clarkston News, and be the first person to turn in the correct tally.

The first two entries turned in, with the correct answer will win two tickets to either the December 13 or 14 show. Look in the November 29 issue for the entry form and count all the Snoopys -- they'll be placed throughout the paper. Good luck!

Opinion of Bill Myers

Prices are soaring for Ivory Towers

William A. Myers is a retired Lapeer County editor and investments manager from Boca Raton, Fla.

Something is fishy in the soaring prices for doctors, hospitals and colleges. Consider some figures from Michigan for tuition costs the past five years:

Univ. of Michigan-Up	32.8%
Michigan State Univ.-Up	63.7%
Wayne State Univ.-Up	27.0%
Cost of living-Up	20.2%

"The colleges got a 2.8 percent increase in state funding last year, and tuition jumps averaged 9.6 percent," said State Treasurer Robert Bowman. "This year, state funds will be about 5 percent, and the colleges still want 9 percent more tuition. It doesn't take a math whiz to figure out something's wrong here."

The reply from the college is the old refrain, "We can't do it for less and still provide a quality education."

So who's to argue against "quality education"? Are you against mother love and blueberry pie and free beer? We're all suckers before such buzz-phrases. Against quality medical care? If your answer is yes, don't run for office. Don't even speak up at a neighborhood cocktail party.

Except at year-end, I don't keep track of how various investment accounts are doing. In a rough sense, I know how they're doing, and I keep shifting from one category (such as hospitals) into better risks, such as utilities and general obligations and sewer and water revenue bonds. But as far as running up numbers, I've got better uses for my time.

Out of curiosity, I did run up a 50 percent sample on some tax-exempts in an account that goes back some 20 years. I took 50 percent of the account because it's a sample you can't argue is too small.

The items were done at random, not by maturing nor date purchased nor alphabetically; just the first 10 items in the account's Kardex file.

These bonds were bought over the last 10 years. Ratings were A to AA. Maturities now are from 1991 to 2028. Average length is just under 20 years.

The issuers included Wayne State University, Wayne County sewer revenues, Michigan Housing, Michigan Highway revenue, a rural township general obligation, New Mexico Housing, Georgia Municipal Electric, Intermountain Power and a Virginia Housing Bond.

Total cost.....$393,100
Market today.....$488,000
The batch produces $39,000 a year in tax-free income.

Interest on original cost.....9.91%
Unrealized gain over cost.....24%

Common problem for a lot of people I know: how to give money to a child or grandchild for retirement supplements, or emergencies before then, and not have it frittered away on pleasures or the moment.

Here's a suggestion I've made to some people who are now pretty well off, retired, and have sized up their children as not being all that frugal:

Put some zero coupon bonds (tax-exempt ones, naturally) in a joint account. Let the giver have his name on the account, joint with the son or daughter. Set up the account so withdrawals can be made only on the giver's signature.

Maybe you want to tell the child what's in the account. If you don't, have the monthly statements come only to you. If the account has only tax-free bonds in it, there's no need for an income tax return.

As years go by, you as the giver can be the one to decide what the funds may be used for. If there's no pressing need, then just let the bonds keep earning interest and compounding.

When you finally depart this mortal coil, the other person on the joint account will automatically be the sole owner. No probate, no lawyers, no nothing.

Meanwhile, you have steered the next generation along for a spell and left the investments intact and growing. Maybe they might not be cashed in when you die. Since they are producing no periodic interest, there's less temptation to mess with them. The bonds might just sit there, as they did during your lifetime, and someday provide a tidy sum.

You can give $10,000 a year ($20,000 for a couple) without upsetting the inheritance taxes.

The plan avoids unwieldy trusts and trustees and is completely under your control during your lifetime. After that, the recipient takes over.

Actually, I prefer that money not be tied up until the child is old and gray. It's quite possible that by the time he gets the money under my suggested plan, he will have some sense.

A while back, we chided Dan Rather for fumbling for an answer when he was asked what pork rinds are. (President Bush loves 'em.) They're made from smoked, fried hog skin, Dan. They are rich in fat, protein and sodium and have more cholesterol than, say, peanuts or potato chips. And who cares?

But on a healthier note, a University of California health letter says the fad for oat bran is fading. Rice bran products are catching on, and the boys at Cal say it's better for you. Unlike more stuff that's "better for you," it tastes pretty good, as long as you don't eat it straight. Then it resembles sawdust.

Is your house
ready for the holidays?!
WHOOPS! Not to worry.

Teacher cooks up Romanian treats for her friends

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

At Christmastime, tradition wins over weight-consciousness at the Vaara house on Church Street, Independence Township.

"We all have to watch our waistlines here," says a smiling Josephine Vaara, who doesn't look like she needs to watch her waistline at all. "But Christmastime wouldn't be like Christmastime without it."

"It" is a collection of traditional Romanian foods Josephine creates from her collection of family recipes. The traditional Vaara foods also include those collected from friends over the years.

Although filled with butter, sugar and other deliciously sinful ingredients, Josephine spoils her husband, four daughters and their families with the treats at Christmastime.

A Romanian immigrant at the age of 17, Josephine's mother was an excellent cook. Although she never taught her children her cooking secrets ("She didn't want us underfoot in the kitchen, except to scrub pans.") She did agree to transcribe her best recipes for Josephine, as a Christmas present.

"She used to have a special tablecloth -- I think it was a sheet -- for making Strudel," Josephine recalls. "She would lay it over the dining room table and stretch the dough until you could read a newspaper through it."

Although Josephine has never attempted that particular recipe herself, she does make things like Kiflik, or crescents, and Placinta, which is typical Romanian pastry.

She creates Romanian dishes "when I'm lonesome," she says, and certain special dishes on special occasions, such as her mother's pound cake for each of her brothers on their birthdays, and, of course, the Christmas dishes at Christmastime.

"I like to make them right before Christmas," Josephine says. "I wait until two or three days before Christmas and then I just go crazy."

SPONGE CAKE

7 Eggs
7 rounded tablespoons sugar
7 rounded tablespoons cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon vanilla

Separate eggs. Put sugar into eggs and stir in one direction for 10 minutes until fluffy. Sift flour three times with baking powder and baking soda. Add vanilla. Add dry ingredients to egg yolks but do not stir. Beat egg whites until stiff. Add to mixture and fold flour, egg whites, etc. very gently. Butter two round cake pans and flour. Bake at 325 degrees for 18-20 minutes until done. Cool and frost.

Butter frosting for between layers

and top of Sponge Cake

1/2 pound sweet butter
1 box sifted confectioners sugar
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated orange or lemon rind
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 tablespoon sugar
3 tablespoons milk
1/2 cup ground walnuts

Cook nuts with milk and sugar until thick. Remove from heat and cool. Cream butter with powdered sugar until fluffy. Add cooked nuts and flavorings. Beat again until fluffy.

KIFLIK

Step I

Dissolve 1 yeast cake
2 tablespoons sugar into
1/3 cup lukewarm sourcream

Step II

3 cups sifted flour (sift before measuring)

JOSEPHINE VAARA prepares foods that allow her family to "watch our waistlines" most of the time, but Christmastime is an

1 stick margarine
1 stick butter
blend together (like piecrust)

Step III

Add yeast mixture
three egg yolks

1/4 teaspoon vanilla

Mix together and divide into about six balls. Wrap in wax paper and chill overnight.

Cut into wedges. Brush with beaten egg.

Fillings

*Chopped nuts, sugar to taste, vanilla and egg whites beaten slightly. (only a little to moisten)

*Prunes: cut up about 2 cups with 1 cup sugar. Stir and cook until mushy and thick.

*Walnuts, sugar, raisins, a few drops of milk to make crumbly.

*Cream cheese, vanilla, sugar and a few drops of half-and-half or milk.

*Apricot

Soft sculpture artist creates profit from hobby

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

When Cathy Rayner was a young girl, her mother created all of the family's clothes on an old sewing machine.

After Cathy married, she inherited her mother's sewing machine and began to sew for her own family.

The Rayner children are older now — the old sewing machine has been replaced — and Cathy's sewing has blossomed into a profitable hobby.

A large table in the living room of her Pine Knob Road, Independence Township, home is a temporary home to a dozen Christmas reindeer, in the process of being stuffed in time for an upcoming bazaar.

Several shelves hold other examples of Cathy's soft-sculpted creations — pumpkins for Halloween, ghosts, button-eyed dolls and diapered babies.

Along with soft-sculpture, Cathy crochets and does cross-stitch.

Finding time isn't always easy for the mother of four. Cathy works part time at an office and also teaches gymnastics to pre-schoolers two days a week.

"I just try to fit it in," she says. "To me it's relaxing. My husband doesn't think so; he says I get tense — but I'll say 'If you'd just let me sew!'"

Cathy, a "real subscriber" of craft magazines, chooses patterns that look easy enough to make a project worth her while.

She watches craft supply outlets for sales and buys her materials in bulk. She then creates her dolls assembly-line style, as opposed to making them one-by-one.

Her sister-in-law first talked her into selling her creations at a bazaar a few years ago; she now takes part in four to five each year.

"It's just a hobby," she says — one that will likely thread its way through her life for years to come.

Following, Cathy shared the instructions for The Piggy Doll:

The Piggy Doll

Materials: cotton thread; quilting thread; tube paint; a small paintbrush; polyester fill; cotton fabric cut into rectangles 16" x 9" and 7" x 13"; flannel or fleece cut into triangle for diaper; four cotton fabric triangles for use as arms and legs; a small cotton fabric rectangle for use as a nose.

1. Fold small rectangle in half; sew seams up the sides; run gathering stitch at top.

2. Follow procedure with large rectangle; for gathering stitch work from inside so gathered material is not visible.

3. On small rectangle, with seam on side and gathering stitch on top, paint eyes and mouth onto fabric.

4. Stuff rectangles with poly fill.

5. Pull gathering thread on top. Wind thread around gathered material to secure; sew tightly.

6. Pull gathering thread on bottom rectangle; use quilting thread to sew gathered material on inside.

7. For arms and feet, fold rectangles; sew all the way around, leaving hole for stuffing; cut slashes in fabric at short end of rectangle to allow for fingers and toes; turn inside out; stuff with poly fill.

8. To create toes and fingers, pull thread through limb near the edge; wind around top, and bring back through the first hole. Knot the thread. Follow procedure for remaining fingers and toes.

9. Double sew arms and feet onto doll using quilting thread.

10. To create wrists, gather small pinch of material at wrist area and stitch together.

11. For nose, run gathering stitch around rectangle; stuff with poly fill; pull gathering stitch tightly; sew onto doll with quilting thread.

12. For diaper, fold triangle around baby's bottom. Sew pleat in diaper behind baby's legs to make diaper fit. Pin or sew diaper ends together.

Celebrations around the world

Christians in all parts of the world celebrate Christmas, the happiest and busiest time of the year. Some observe the holiday solemnly with religious ceremonies and prayer. Others look forward to holiday parties and exchanging gifts. All are united in their feelings of joy on the birthday of Jesus Christ.

In England

Children hang their stockings by the fireplace in Great Britain in the hope that Father Christmas will fill them with holiday treats.

And, even though the Christmas tree can be found in most homes, it has not replaced the "Kissing Bough," a combination of holiday greenery and mistletoe.

The popular wassail bowl was introduced into England in the late 1400s by King Henry VII. This heady mixture of hot ale, spices and roasted apples is a tradition observed since that time. The word wassail comes from the old English words that mean "be thou well."

In Germany

Christmas is a tremendously important time to each person and family in Germany. On Christmas Eve everyone gathers for the ceremony of lighting the tree.

A favorite decoration for the tree is marzipan candy, made from almond paste, elaborately colored and shaped to look like toys and fruits.

Family members often make the gifts they give. The women and girls do fancy embroidery on pillows and handkerchiefs — the men and boys carve tiny figures from wood and paint them.

In Italy

On the day before Christmas, many Italians fast for take very little food.

At the day's end, the family holds a ceremony around the "Presipio," a miniature scene of Bethlehem with the figures of the Holy Family, the Wise Men and the shepherds.

The family prays as the mother places the figure of the infant Jesus in the manger. Gifts are saved for Epiphany, Jan. 6.

In Norway

Work comes to a halt at 4 p.m. on Christmas Eve in Norway. Everyone bathes and puts on new clothes to greet the new and festive season.

It is an ancient belief that "evil spirits" appear on Christmas night, so it is a custom to "shoot in Christmas." As young men go from farm to farm, they fill the air with gunshot blasts to frighten the spirits away.

In Mexico

The Christmas holiday is observed from Dec. 16 to Jan. 6 in Mexico.

On each of nine nights, just before Christmas Day, the family looks forward to the "Posada," an acting out of the story of the Nativity.

A procession of pilgrims comes to the place where the celebration will take place, carrying clay figures of Mary and Joseph. They seek "shelter" from the "innkeepers" and, at first, are refused. Finally they are welcomed, and all feast and rejoice.

The figures are placed in a replica of the manger, and on Christmas Eve, the figure of the infant Jesus is added.

Christmas is celebrated in countless colorful ways. Many customs and traditional observances reach from one country to another bringing people closer together.

This glorious season serves to unite mankind in peace and brotherhood, with its beautiful and profound message.

THE PIGGY DOLL, named by Cathy Rayner's four children, was adapted from a pattern Cathy found in various craft magazines. She chooses samples that are easy enough to make them worthwhile.

How to create your own holiday angel decoration

ANGEL INSTRUCTIONS

1. Cut 22 inches of White Paper Capers, and put it aside to use later when you make the wings.

2. SKIRT — Cut two six-inch pieces of White Paper Capers, and untwist them. Glue them side-by-side, and allow to dry. Glue the ends of this piece together forming a tube. Place one open end of the tube around the bottom of Styrofoam cone shape. Allow to dry. Gently pull paper up, and over cone. Puff paper out around cone, and twist it at the top of the cone. Use a four-inch piece of floral wire to secure paper at top of the cone.

3. ARMS WITH SLEEVES — Cut a 10-inch piece of Paper Capers Wire, and fold each end inward two inches so that you have a six-inch piece. Cut two, 3 1/2-inch pieces of White Paper Capers, and untwist them. Glue the ends of one piece together to make a tube. Repeat this step with other piece of paper so that you have two tubes.

Take a 3 1/2-inch tube, and place it over one end of the six-inch Paper Capers Wire piece. Use a three-inch piece of floral wire to secure piece onto paper wire piece. Repeat this step with other tube on other side of paper wire. Gently flip the secured paper tubes over to form the arms with sleeves. Pinch the middle of the paper tubes.

4. HEAD AND BODY — Lay the remaining paper down onto a flat surface. Place the Styrofoam ball onto paper off centered. Roll the ball up into the paper. Twist the longer end of the paper roll. Bring the twisted part down behind the ball and pinch under the ball.

Take the eight-inch piece of White Paper Capers Wire, and twist it twice around the pinched part of paper to form neck. Take the head and body part, and separate the two paper pieces under the neck. Place the arms with sleeves in between these two pieces of paper.

Pinch the papers under the arms, and use the remaining Paper Capers Wire that was used on the neck to wrap around the body. This makes the waist. Clip papers about 1/2 inch from waist. Glue doll's body to the top of her skirt, and allow to dry.

Take the 20 inches of Scarlet Paper Capers that you had set aside, and cut it in half. Untwist these pieces from the center, leaving the ends twisted about one inch. Pull the ends of each 10-inch partially untwisted piece, and fold in half. Place one folded center over one of the angel's shoulder, and bring it across her from and back to the opposite side of her waist. Repeat this step with other 10-inch piece over the other shoulder.

Secure these pieces over an eight-inch piece of gold braid around her waist. Flip the twisted ends of Scarlet paper under, and glue them to the angel's skirt to secure them.

5. HAIR — Place some glue thinly around angel's face and on the back of the ball. Place the Feel-o-Fleece over her head, from front to back. Spread the Feel-o-Fleece over the head to cover the glue. Allow to dry.

Pull Feel-o-Fleece hair back away from angel's face. Tie the front part back into a ponytail using the remaining gold braid. Tie a bow, and trim angels hair if desired.

6. WINGS — Using the 22-inch piece of twisted White Paper Capers that you put aside earlier, cut two six-inch and two five-inch pieces for wings. Untwist these pieces from the center, leaving about one inch twisted on each end of the paper.

Glue the six-inch pieces at the top of angel's back for top wings. Glue the five-inch pieces at the bottom of angel's back. Now you have created an "X" shape with the wings. Allow to dry.

7. Place a Popsicle stick into the Styrofoam cone bottom of your angel. Place stick with angel on it into wreath behind bow. Glue to secure if needed.

Simple ideas for decorating

Easy Christmas tree ornaments

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

When it comes to holiday decorating, Kathy Hyde likes to keep things simple.

She enjoys recreating early American decorations and believes others can do the same without much effort.

"People make it more difficult than it is," she says while comfortably resting among her many craft projects in her Main Street, Clarkston, home.

In the process of raising two sons, a one-year-old and a two-year-old, Hyde still finds the time for crafts. One could say it's in her blood.

Not only are her parents into crafts — her father is a tinsmith — but she met her husband at an art show, and (See HOLIDAY, next page)

Word of mouth is important to a lot of people. It's how I first learned about CITIZENS BEST, the special group program for mature adults from Citizens Insurance Company of America.

If you're a member of a qualified retirement association, you can save 18% on your automobile and 39% on your homeowners insurance with CITIZENS BEST. On top of this, the special coverages and convenient claim service make it even more attractive. It's no wonder over 200,000 people in Michigan have made CITIZENS BEST insurance "the choice of mature adults."

For more details, see the independent Citizens agent in your town or neighborhood. Once you know all of the facts, you'll want to mention CITIZENS BEST to your friends. Tell 'em you got it straight from Ernie Harwell. It's word of mouth you can trust.

her in-laws are crafts people as well. The flow of creativity doesn't stop there, either.

"We have a lot of artist friends," she said. Many paintings by acquaintances decorate the walls of her home.

Hyde offered a few tips on Christmas tree decorations that look good but don't take much effort to make.

SANTA CLAUS ORNAMENTS

Supplies and tools needed:

Dowel rods
Krylon matt finish
Stain
Red paint

Sandpaper
String

Using a small portion of the dowel rod as the body, grind or sand the top to a point. Do not use a pencil sharpener. Drill small hole in the top. Paint entire piece red. Then paint face. Use Gesso paint to add texture. Spray with matt finish before staining in order to better control where you wish the stain to remain. The stain will provide an antique look to finished product.

BEAD ORNAMENTS

Supplies and tools needed:

Wire
Ribbon
Macrame beads

Put beads on wire and twist into circle and close. Add ribbon. They are then ready to hang on the tree. Hyde said the hardest part of the job is keeping the beads out reach of her two young sons.

Actress debuts as writer, director this Christmas

SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Writing and directing a production is a first-time experience for Carol Davis of Thendara, Independence Township.

CAROL DAVIS, a mime in the Christmas Nativity Pageant, is also the writer and director of the production.

Santa Paws is coming

Has your pooch had the chance to tell Santa what he'd like to find in his stocking this year? If not, his chance to see the jolly old elf comes on Sunday, Dec. 3, at the Michigan Humane Society's North Shelter, 3600 Auburn Road in Auburn Hills.

Santa will be at the shelter from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. to listen to your pets' requests. Polaroid pictures of your pet sitting on Santa's lap will be $5 with the proceeds going to the homeless animals cared for at the Michigan Humane Society.

In addition to visiting Santa, there will be a holiday craft sale for pet owners, featuring animal-related crafts by the MHS volunteers.

For more information, call 852-7420.

Carol is the originator of a "Christmas Nativity Pageant" for Davisburg's 9th Annual Christmas Craft Fest Dec. 1-3 at Springfield Oaks Activity Center.

Minor in dance and drama at North Texas University, Denton, Texas, Carol said she's been a mime and an actor for about 10 years.

She's performed at the Hip Pocket Theatre in Fort Worth, Texas, and with the Clarkston Village Players. Although Carol's only been acting with the Village Players for two years, she's been in three productions: "Squabbles," "Something to Hide" and "All My Sons."

If it weren't for her aunt, Helen Vergin of Springfield Township, Carol may not have tried her hand at the pageant.

"Helen saw me perform with the Village Players and asked me to do the pageant," said Carol.

When Carol's not acting, she's a surgical nurse at Huron Valley Hospital in Milford or busy being a mother. Carol has two sons, Evan, 5, and Jordan, 2.

"This (acting and dancing) is my love, and nursing is my bread and butter," said Carol.

Carol said she wrote the nativity production in her head, but it took about two weeks to put it down on paper.

Most say everyone should volunteer

According to Metro Detroit GIVES, there's a growing need for volunteers. Following are results from a survey conducted by Market Opinion Research for Metro Detroit GIVES in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties:

■ Seventy-eight percent of metropolitan Detroit residents agree that everyone should volunteer some of their time to help other people.

■ Yet only 42 percent of the population volunteered in the past year. Some people said they didn't know where to begin, how to get involved; and 22 percent have never been asked to volunteer.

■ People 25-49 years of age volunteer the most; people 18-24 and over 50 volunteer the least. The study revealed that people like to volunteer, help others, feel needed, explore new interests and provide their professional skills to a worthwhile cause.

■ Detroit area volunteers contribute an average of 4.2 hours per week compared with the national average of 3.5 hours. Although a smaller percentage of Detroit area residents volunteer than do all citizens nationally (48 percent), each volunteer spends more time volunteering.

■ The largest proportion of area residents volunteer for religious organizations or do informal volunteering (unpaid baby-sitting, etc.) outside of organizations. The most prevalent volunteer activities are fund raising and providing professional skills on a volunteer basis.

Wild game dinner racks up $5,000 for hospital

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

Just in time for the holidays and the giving spirit, the second annual Cumming family Wild Game Dinner raised $5,457 for Children's Hospital of Michigan, Detroit.

"It went great," said Lola Bergantino, sister of Clark Cumming, the organizer of the Oct. 14 event.

"It was even better than last year," she said, adding that volunteers worked hard, and officials from the American Legion on M-15 — where the dinner was held — were nice enough to help clean up.

About 150 people paid $30 each to dine on such dishes as: roast venison, caribou and moose; hickory and apple smoked venison, caribou and moose; creole game stew; wild game barbecue K-bobs; boor chops; barrel sauerkraut; pheasant dumplings; smoked turkey; spaghetti and game meatballs; sea chowder; salads; vegetables and desserts.

All of the money went directly to Children's Hospital, which will use the money for preventive programs based in communities, said Nancy Delaney, coordinator of the child passenger safety program, part of educational services at the hospital.

Car accidents are the largest cause of death and serious injury to children under age 14, so the hospital urges parents to obey Michigan's law and properly use child safety seats. Parents should also go above the requirements of the law and use car seats for children age 12 months to 4 years, she said.

"The really sad thing is ... 85 percent of those injuries or deaths could be prevented if the child is properly restrained in the car," Delaney said.

But lots of parents can't afford the seats, which range from $28 for newborns to $50-$100 for children over 18 pounds, she said.

That's where Children's Hospital steps in. It provides over 2,000 seats to parents in exchange for a $10 deposit. The Wild Game Dinner money will purchase more seats, she said, adding that she's already looking forward to next year's benefit.

"I had the best time of my life," she said. "The Cumming family are something else. They are all so involved. It was just wonderful."

Chef Marv Wiley took care of much of the cooking, but also helping in the kitchen were Clark Cumming's mother plus his sisters: Sylvia Amerman, Norene Kershaw and Bergantino. More help came from his sister-in-law, Ida Cumming, and his wife, Renee Cumming.

Part of the Detroit Medical Center, Children's Hospital has beds for 290 and is a facility for treatment, teaching and research.

Kidder is Young Woman of the Year

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

Nicole Kidder surprised even herself when she was named Young Woman of the Year by Clarkston High School's Junior Miss judges Nov. 18.

"I felt speechless," she said, about the moment she heard her name announced as the winner.

Nicole, taking the position from last year's Junior Miss Kellee Duty, was awarded a $1,500 scholarship for taking the top honor.

A member of the CHS pom pon squad, Nicole also won a $75 preliminary physical fitness award as well as the Nov. 18 pageant at Brandon High School, according to Chairwoman Barb Hamaker.

Guest column

BY MELISSA PFEIFFER

Over the first weekend of November, I experienced something that I will never forget. I attended a retreat in Howell that was called a Pip-Fest.

A Pip-Fest is a Partners In Prevention Festival. At this retreat, there were several activities each day. The days were split up to allow time for large presentations, recreation and meals.

The large group presentations dealt with the emotional stages of not only an alcoholic but his or her loved ones, also. These presentations were held in the cafeteria, and all of the adults and teens attended them, which amounted to about 250 people.

The presentations also discussed feelings and defenses that I recognized right away. I found the presentations very useful and entertaining, especially since mime skits and role plays were used. These were very realistic. And the most interesting part for me was that the speakers discussed their issues by referring to experience rather than studied research.

For example, one speaker reflect on himself as a child of an alcoholic and his feelings during this time. He shared how he felt and the hurt that he experienced during his childhood.

It was very helpful to listen to how he would react when his father came home drunk and which role he used to play as a child. It helped us identify ourselves and our friends who might have been or are going through the same thing.

The small group presentations were held in rooms and usually occurred after the large presentations. The small groups were held to allow time to make friends and talk about the large presentations.

Each small group consisted of about seven to 15 kids and two adults. I was very pleased with my group. It consisted of 11 teen-ager and two adults.

MELISSA Pfeiffer, a senior at Clarkston High School, attended a Partners in Prevention Festival.

There were some intense private conversations in our group. For instance, we talked about death of a loved one and shared our feelings about death and our fears, also.

I was able to get out my frustrations about a family member being close to death and not feel out of place. I realized that my situation was not uncommon and that my feelings and fears were OK to have. That group session was one I will always remember and be thankful for.

The small group talks were also entertaining. We laughed, made friends and began to feel comfortable about ourselves.

One thing that helped a lot was that the adults were not considered chaperons or parents. They were very honest and friendly. They did a lot of good things for us, and I'm glad that they were not only part of our group, but they were our friends, too.

Everybody in the group became friends with one another, and that added a special light to the weekend that couldn't be blown out or covered up.

Recreation took place on Friday night, Saturday afternoon and Saturday night. Friday, a dance was held in the cafeteria, and sports were played in the gym. I attended the dance and enjoyed myself the whole time.

Saturday afternoon there was a half hour of recreation for anything you wanted. Most people, including myself, signed each other's Pip-Fest books that we received free. And Saturday night was a time for yourself. You could do anything you wanted, including rest after such an exhausting day.

The meals were the only thing that put an upset in my weekend and in my stomach. I am glad I do not go to Howell High School, and I now appreciate Clarkston High School's food.

The times that we ate their food were bad, but they did order out for Domino's Pizza twice, and all food expenses were part of the Pip-Fest cost, which was $50.

Overall, the weekend was fantastic. If any of this interests anybody, the next available one is in Lake Orion on Feb. 9, 10 and 11. The person to talk to is Roz, and she can be reached by calling Lake Orion High School. I'm sure you'll enjoy it. I did.

Melissa Pfeiffer is a senior at Clarkston High School.

Postmaster asks for residents' help this winter

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

A former mail carrier himself, Clarkston Postmaster

Mickey Gonzales knows the problems his charges face each winter.

With a little advance notice, he hopes to lessen the physical danger icy walks and porches present in the Clarkston area.

"I believe there is a lot being taken for granted," he said during a Nov. 16 snow shower. "A lot of people say, 'No problem, they will deliver the mail today.'"

Sometimes, though, problems do crop up. One postal carrier has yet to return to full duty after falling on an icy patch last December, the postmaster said.

Keeping walkways, drives and porches clear and

POSTAL Carrier Tom Doty clears snow from his mail truck. With winter comes icy driveways and sidewalks — dangerous for employees of the U.S. Post Office.

"Safety is our number one concern. That is the responsibility of homeowners."

Postmaster Mickey Gonzales

ice-free would be greatly appreciated, he added.

"Safety is our number one concern," he said. "That is the responsibility of homeowners."

"The delivery area in Clarkston is blessed with excellent employees, but they are not superhuman. They break legs and twist ankles."

A typical mail carrier works outside for an average of five hours a day to deliver to the 26 routes in the Clarkston area.

A letter to residents asking for their assistance in snow and ice removal is in the works, said Gonzales.

Should anyone have any questions or suggestions, the postmaster welcomes your call at 625-0032.

How to stop the report card reflex

A lot of stress can accompany report card time, and the Child Abuse and Neglect Council, County of Oakland, Inc., sent letters and tips to all area elementary principals.

According to the council, report cards:

~ are sometimes the only communication between teachers and parents.

~ generally focus on academic progress but are mechanisms for reporting school behavior (usually problems) as well.

~ can provoke a range of responses from parents, depending on numerous variables.

~ are sometimes viewed by parents as being a direct reflection on them or a personal affront.

The council says parents should:

1. Sit down with your child and look over the report card.

2. Praise your child. Find at least one good thing: attendance, no tardies.

3. Be calm! Let your child tell you about his poor grades.

4. Ask how you can help your child do better.

5. Ask what your child can do to make better grades.

6. Make a plan with your child's teacher and your child to do better.

Because a disappointing report card is especially hard on both parents and children, the advice is designed to give parents suggestions in handling grades in a constructive and productive manner.

One of 16 Amish children

Girl, 22, forges path in outside world

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Dressed in the "English way," Anna Eicher doesn't look much different from any other 22-year-old American girl.

Wearing faded blue jeans, she frequently bubbles with laughter and contributes quick quips to the discussion. Her conversation gives her away, though. Her face lacks cynicism, and her speech is devoid of clichés.

Perhaps it was the combination of those qualities that prompted Lori Edens of Overpine, Independence Township, to open her home to Anna, originally from an Amish community in Bryant, Ind., and more recently from Centerville, an Amish community in Michigan near the Indiana border.

Anna's father is a blacksmith, and her mother makes and sells crafts to help support the family. Anna and her 15 brothers and sisters do all they can to help the family, too.

Lori met Anna through work. At the Michigan State Fair in September, Anna worked at an ice cream stand owned by Lori's family's business: Jack Bain Family Concessions.

"We became friends," said Lori, adding that she respected and liked Anna and did not hesitate to invite her to stay with her family for a while.

"I've never done anything like this — have someone just move into my house," Lori said. "I have trust in her."

And she admired Anna's courage, she said.

"She didn't want to go home. She said she really wanted to see the world. That was a hard decision."

For Anna, it was the opportunity she had been waiting for. Raised in an Amish community her entire life, she quit school after eighth grade, according to Amish custom. But Anna wanted something more — even a little travel-would do.

"I was thinking about it for a while, just to see how it is, I guess," she said. "When I met Lori, I thought, 'Here's my chance.'"

Her move created conflicts within her family as well as the close-knit community of Centerville. But many young people work "out," while living at home, and some even leave the community entirely, Anna said.

Plus, she is not completely neglecting the Amish way of life, she said.

Some people criticize the Amish for being so sheltered, but Anna noted that some of the sheltering is the Amish strength. Plus, they are not so sheltered as the outsiders think.

"I didn't have to deal with drugs or anything like that, but I know about it," she said, adding that alcohol is sometimes a problem in Amish communities.

As a teen-ager, Anna and her friends would sometimes sneak to a nearby field where they would play the radio for entertainment. The adults didn't know about it, she said.

"I didn't have to deal with drugs or anything like that, but I know about it."

Anna Eicher

Though electricity, automobiles and such appliances as televisions, radios, microwave ovens and cameras are not used in the "Amish way," Anna and others her age have been exposed to all of it, she said.

Anna used the modern equipment while working at her many jobs, particularly babysitting, where the children watched an astounding amount of television, she said.

For some, it would be difficult to move in and out of such diverse cultures, but Anna coped well.

"It doesn't really bother me when I go home and don't have it," she said. "When I went home, I didn't mind because I was getting sick of television. I like the radio. I like music."

Anna, who goes for walks with them and makes them breakfast. Matthew, however, prefers Anna to dress in the "English way." "She looks weird in her Amish dress," he says, which makes Anna laugh.

Woman enjoys 'English way'

Kitchen appliances definitely make life easier, especially the microwave, she said.

"You get a lot of things done faster," she said. "I wouldn't criticize it. I kind of want that in homes. In a lot of ways, you're more organized, too."

Even with her outside experience, Anna has had a few firsts while living with the Edens family — a trip to dentist M. Kenneth Dickstein, for whom Lori works ("no cavities"); a taste of egg rolls (they're "OK"); the art of pizza making at McBain's Restaurant, Waterford, where she works.

To better prepare for the work world outside of Amish communities, Lori insisted that Anna complete high school.

"I said, 'If you're going to come out into the world, the number one thing is your education.'"

So Anna took the high school equivalency test through Waterford Community Education and is awaiting the results.

She's quickly becoming accustomed to the English way, though she still wears Amish clothing when she visits her family.

Whenever Anna wears the plain Amish dress and a bonnet on her head, lots of people ask her questions, she said.

"In a lot of ways, you get more attention if you're Amish," she said. "They just stare, especially when you walk in a bar."

For the record, parents do not arrange marriages for the children in Amish communities, she said.

"Everybody thinks that," she said.

Tips for quick preparations

Tracy King

When a survey group of Americans were recently asked about their most important considerations in buying food, one fourth said it was speed and ease of preparation.

More than a third said they rarely had more than 30 minutes to prepare a meal, and when they did prepare a meal quickly, it was rarely healthy.

There are a lot of time-saving options out there. It's estimated that 75 percent of all American households now have a microwave oven.

But while some foods can be prepared quickly, they are often high in calories, fat, sugars and sodium.

The following tips for preparing healthy foods fast come from the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) as part of their "Eating Right...The Dietary Guidelines Way" campaign.

Meats

- * Use quick cooking methods that cut back on fat including broiling, pan frying (without added fat), or stirfrying (in a very small amount of oil). Drain meat well after cooking.

- * Try skinned, boneless chicken parts to save time and lower fat.

- * Make mixed dishes that combine meats, vegetables and grains — like stirfry meals or soups.

Vegetables

- * Go easy on added fat and salt.
- * Microwave or cook vegetables in a small amount of water until "tender crisp."

- * Use simple seasonings, spices, herbs and lemon juice to perk them up. Try adding ginger to carrots, mint leaves to peas, dill seed to green beans, and marjoram or celery seed to cauliflower.

- * Use no-salt-added canned vegetables if available. Regular canned vegetables are high in sodium.

- * Keep carrot and celery sticks and broccoli and cauliflower florets in a plastic bag in the refrigerator. They'll be ready to accompany a meal, munch on as a snack, or to be thrown in a salad or stir-fry dish.

Salads

- * Go easy on the dressings. Use low-fat versions or make your own.

- * Try a variety of kinds of lettuce, such as curly endive, romaine, Chinese cabbage and red leaf lettuce. Add fruits or vegetables that are quick to slice (apples, tomatoes, cucumbers, strawberries) or to shred (zucchini, carrots, beets).

- * Mix fruits and vegetables together. Try pineapple chunks and fresh snow peas; orange segments and sliced red onions; apple slices and spinach leaves.

- * Make a main dish salad with meat, poultry, fish or beans.

- * Slice and combine fresh fruits like melons, peaches, plums, apples, bananas and kiwi fruit. Serve them plain or with a dressing of yogurt thinned with skim or low-fat milk.

Breads and Grains

- * Serve breads with little added margarine or butter.

- * Add little or no salt and fat to cooking water for pasta and rice. Try whole-wheat pastas for more fiber than regular pastas.

- * Use whole-grain versions of ready-to-heat or ready-to-serve rolls and bread.

Desserts

- * Have melon wedges with a small scoop of fruit sherbert.

- * Enjoy fruit with small wedges of low-fat cheese.

- * Top ice milk or frozen yogurt with fresh strawberries or other fresh fruits.

Pet of the Week

Wally's a worker

Wally, 4, is a pure-bred red merle Australian shepherd who lives up to the reputation of his breed: intelligent.

He doesn't like cats and should live in a home with older children because he's active. Wally needs obedience training, but he's so smart, it shouldn't take him long to learn, according to the shelter worker.

Australian shepherds in general are considered working dogs because they were bred to herd sheep and cattle.

The cost to adopt Wally, who is already neutered, is $35.

He can be adopted from the Michigan Humane Society, 3600 Auburn Rd., Auburn Heights, 852-7420. Hours at the non-profit shelter are 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Club helps newcomers feel at home in community

BY LINDA WALSH LAPINSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The hardworking women of the Waterford-Clarkston Chapter of Welcome Wagon do not like being Clarkston's best kept secret.

One member, Sharon Kingsbury of Davison, recalled when she moved to the Clarkston area from the East Bay area of California.

"I went to the Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce and asked if a Welcome Wagon group like this existed," she said. "And they replied that they were not aware of one in the area. I was very disappointed not to find out the information. I eventually found out about the group from a neighbor."

The organization's goal is to help new families moving into the area meet people.

"We all know how devastating it is to move into an area where everything is new and your network of friends is gone," said President Carolyn Bailey.

"We try to help families new to the area build a new network of friends through special interest groups, monthly meetings, special outings and entertainment," she said.

The organization has been in the area for at least 15 years, said Sandie Erskine a previous president.

The club boasts 104 members from the Waterford, Clarkston, Ortonville, Pontiac and Union Lake areas. Dues are $7 a year, and with that comes a monthly newsletter notifying people of the coming events.

Some of the activities include: trips to the Birmingham or Meadow Brook theaters, Cranbrook, Kelly and Co. talk show and monthly coffees. Location of special and the fashions were from the Deer Lake Racquet Club Sports Club, said Bailey.

The club sponsors SCAMP, a Clarkston summer day camp for children with special needs, and Haven, a Pontiac shelter for abused women.

At the monthly coffees, members each bring canned goods, disposable diapers and personal items. They are then placed in individual bags and baskets and delivered to Haven for the women staying there.

"Through our organization, we try to get people involved in our group activities—especially our charity groups," said Bailey. "By helping someone else, a person is really helping themselves."

For more information call Bailey at 625-3548 or Kathy Ladd at 625-1502.

interest groups such as bridge clubs and tennis meets can also be found.

"So as not to forget the fellows, we have couples night out," said Bailey. "The men need to meet and socialize with other couples, too. They don't need to only be with people from work."

The chapter also has a Good Food Group. Four times a year, a selected group organizes the menu and anyone wishing to do so can bring an assigned dish, and then the festivities begin. The recipes are then shared at the end of the meal or at a later date.

The group has an annual fashion show in May. Last year's fashion show was held at Calvary Lutheran Church,

Texas-style service at new More Than Hair store

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Jo Ann Moor is out to make a name for herself. After eight years in Texas and two more working for others in Clarkston, the hair stylist has opened her own business in Independence Township.

While start-up for More Than Hair — in the shopping center on the corner of Dixie Highway and M-15 — wasn't easy, it was well worth the effort, she said.

JO ANN MOOR is proud to show off the large, roomy stations in her new hair care shop, More Than Hair, on the corner of Dixie Highway and M-15, Independence Township. She runs the business along with her mother, Eleonor Slater.

"Clients have liked it," she said. The business opened on Oct. 23. "Everyone has really enjoyed the atmosphere. It's very welcoming."

Moor, who has 13 years of professional experience, previously co-owned a hair shop in Texas for eight years before moving back to Grand Blanc. Before spotting the empty building for lease, she worked for two years in downtown Clarkston.

What's New in Business

"I like small towns... I like it here," she said. "It felt right (to open a shop in Independence.)"

In order to attract customers, Moor offers a variety of specials and discounts. Senior citizens, for instance, get 10 percent off on Tuesdays. Walk-ins are always welcome as is the entire family, she said. Moor also plans on spreading the word of her new shop by advertising frequently.

"We are going to be pushing (for customers) and not sit back," she said. "That's how we did it in Texas, and we had good business."

Moor also believed in personal care for customers and plans on continuing that tradition in Michigan.

"We'll try to be convenient," she said. "We are here to service people."

For now the mother of two is settling into her position as stylist and manager of the business. She's also in the market for additional stylists, she said.

"It's been real busy," she said of her first week on the job.

Family: Husband, Michael, and children: Robin Cooley, 28, married with three children; Nicholas, 27, of Ann Arbor; Jennifer, 26, of Santa Cruz, Calif.; and Jessica, 24, at Cornell University, Ithaca, N.Y. The family lives in Rochester, but Bindy spends time with the Special 26er's who meet at St. Daniel Catholic Church, Independence Township.

Age: 49

Occupation: Ceramic artist and student at Wayne State University, Detroit, studying for a master of arts degree in art therapy.

Volunteer Activities: Bindy spends about eight hours a week teaching a group of mentally and physically impaired men and women how to perform skills in ceramics. The time she spends with the group, called the Special 26er's, counts as hours in an internship toward her degree.

She first started teaching the group in the 1988-89 school year as a paid artist through the Pontiac Art Center, Pontiac.

Bindy said she has always wanted to be an artist, and once her children were old enough, she resumed.

She was living in Australia with her family when she started to work on her college degree, but her husband's employment moved him to Michigan, where she finished her undergraduate degree at WSU.

Bindy uses her philosophy of art therapy for the Special 26er's. Art therapy builds esteem, she said.

"It's the satisfaction of making something and letting them be proud of the product they take home," said Bindy.

Bindy also volunteers her time at the Older Persons Commission, a senior citizen center in Rochester. She enjoys volunteering, she said.

"This is a way of using skills as an artist to help other people, and (it satisfies) the need within me to help others," said Bindy.

Collector has fun with largest acquisition to date

JON ABBOTT collects antiques, and to date the former Boothby house he moved from the Dixie Highway, White Lake Road intersection is the largest item in his collection.

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Collectors buy and sell items all the time.

But collector Jon Abbott of Paramus Drive, Independence Township, recently acquired his biggest item to date: the historical Boothby house. He has yet to find a buyer.

Abbott and Barbara, his wife of 20 years, once had a carousel in their backyard, and now they collect and sell carousel animals. Abbott also has 1956 Rolls Royce and a 1965 T-Bird.

Barbara has been helpful in the Boothby relocation, said Abbott, laughing.

"Barbara's job is to point," he joked.

Formerly on White Lake Road and Dixie Highway, the 113-year-old house was quickly moved to the last available lot in the Village of Clarkston after Abbott bought it. Its former site is to be an A&P shopping center.

Abbott hired C.L. Davis and Son House Moving Co. from Flint to move the Boothby house to its present location on Main Street near Miller Road. The move was (See BOOTHBY, next page)

WINDOWS with gingerbread patterns face north and west on the house.

Boothby house finds home on North Main Street

INTRICATE DETAIL is displayed on the former Boothby house, built in 1876.

so smooth that a stack of magazines inside the house did not spill, said Abbott.

Apparently, the house was originally designed to face the north because the portion of the house that faced west on White Lake Road and north Dixie Highway have gingerbread patterns on them, said Abbott. The sides of the home that faced south and east have plain house trim.

The main entrance to the house now faces west, and extra rooms have been added to enlarge the house into a 2,400-square-foot home.

To modernize the home, Abbott made a few changes.

A great room was added, and the kitchen was enlarged. A curved archway separates the living room and great room and frames a wooden fireplace mantel from the early 1900s.

Abbott works for Carryer Frame and Moulding Co. in Port Huron, and his company milled mouldings to exactly replicate those in the house.

Wooden flooring was milled for the front two rooms: one, a living room, and the other, a room to be used as a dining room or a den.

The windows now are in working order, and some still have original glass panes, said Abbott.

Before new drywall was installed, the original plastered walls were removed, and the house was fully insulated.

The special touches in the kitchen include an island sink and hickory cupboards.

"Whoever buys the house and finishes it will get the historical tax credit," said Abbott. "I'm not taking it."

The new owners will only be the third set to occupy the house. The house was built in 1876 by Ephriam and Jane Addis. The Boothbys became the second owners sometime around the early to mid-1900s, and their son, Tom, was the last owner of the home.

A WOODEN fireplace mantel dates to the early 1900s.
