School board approves budget cuts

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Clarkston Board of Education unanimously adopted about $2 million in budget cuts Dec. 4, contingent upon the results of the upcoming millage election.

On Feb. 12, 1990, voters will be asked to approve an additional 5.6 mills for the 1990-91 school year. One mill is $1 for every $1,000 assessed property valuation. If the millage fails, the cuts will take place.

For the third meeting within a month, the room was packed with about 65 parents, teachers and administrators.

During the 2 1/2-hour discussion, board members said.

William Curtis, president of Clarkston Education Association, said he represented the teachers of the district.

It would not be fair to ask the teachers, who are working professionals, to take a pay freeze because the community does not support education, he said.

"Last year we cut (the budget) to the bone -- these are amputations."

Vice President John Needham

listened to administrators who put together the lists of cuts. Some board members questioned areas of the proposed budget.

Trustee Karen Foyteck said she would have a difficult time voting for the list of cuts without looking at every possible option.

She doesn't want the children of Clarkston to have a five-hour school day, if at all possible, she said.

"I realize dollar shortfalls come because we are labor intensive," said Foyteck.

Increased costs for salaries and benefits are projected at $1.5 million for 1990-91 school year Foyteck

Caroling next two Fridays

Songs and good cheer will be in abundant supply Friday, Dec. 6, and Friday, Dec. 13, in the Village of Clarkston.

About 7 p.m. Friday, Dec. 6, about 100 Campfire children will hang their handmade decorations on the Christmas tree at the corner of Main and Washington streets. They also plan to sing and hope area residents will join them, according to Barbara Flores, an organizer of the event.

A week later, all the choirs from Clarkston High School plan to join at the tree and sing around 7 p.m. Friday, Dec. 13, said Director Grayce Warren.

The entire community is invited to join in, she said.

The Christmas lights on the tree were provided by the Clarkston Rotary Club.

Stolen items linked to Independence

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Jewelry and coins confiscated in the arrest of a Waterford Township woman is believed to be among items stolen in two Independence Township burglaries.

Police arrested Deanna Lassi, 18, after searching a Waterford Township home and uncovering almost $20,000 worth of property believed stolen in burglaries throughout Oakland County, said Oakland County Sheriff's Department Investigator David Roddy.

Lassi was arraigned Dec. 4 in 51st District Court in Waterford before Magistrate John McGrath on charges of receiving and concealing stolen property over $100. She was released on $1,000 bond and faces a preliminary exam Dec. 14 at 8:30 a.m.

Police were led to the home by a Waterford Township man arrested by White Lake police Nov. 30.

Richard Scott Morris, 20, formerly of Waterford Township, was arrested in connection with shooting out a window of a White Lake Township home. When police

New finance director brings experience to job

Independence Township's new finance director has been around.

Kerry Donahoe, hired as finance director in November, has worked in similar departments in Southfield, Troy and Birmingham throughout his varied career.

"I've seen a lot of different accounting and budget systems," Donahoe said. "I bring pieces of what I know with me."

While working most recently as assistant finance director for the city of Birmingham, Donahoe noticed an advertisement for the Independence position and snatched up the opportunity to apply.

After being raised in Madison Heights, Donahoe eventually moved his growing family to a 20-acre home in Goodrich. He lives there now with his wife, Laura and their four children, ages 8, 6, 4 and 20 months.

"We wanted to stay in the area, which limited me to seven or eight places," Donahoe said. "I was really happy (to get the position)."

Donahoe takes advantage of his spacious property to enjoy the outdoors and lists hunting and playing with his children as his favorite activities.

As finance director, Donahoe prepares the budget according to state requirements, oversees payroll and manages funds collected by the treasurer.

In a municipality the size of Independence Township, the work is often varied, Donahoe explained.

"In a smaller community, you get to do a lot more; you get a different view of the operation," he said.

"I might work on the computers and when I've done that, move on to the budget or prepare the year-end audit. I like the variety," he added.

Along with variety, Donahoe likes the atmosphere in Independence Township.

"People are very easy to work with," he said. "I'll enjoy it here."

made the arrest, they noticed a Corvette owner's manual in the back seat and found car keys belonging to a vehicle taken in a recent burglary.

When police searched the Waterford Township home, they found jewelry and coins among some of the property, Roddy said.

"One was an inscribed ring with initials; we compared that to a report up there (in Independence Township)," Roddy explained.

The $9,000 ring was linked to the burglary of a home on Pine Knob Road, Independence Township, in November, police said.

A ladies watch and several rings were linked to the burglary of another home on Deerhill Drive on Nov. 8. On that day, a delivery man called police to report several doors found open at the Deerhill Drive home.

When police arrived they found the garage door open, along with the door leading to the house. Further inspection revealed that someone had used a garden rake to break the glass of a sliding glass door to gain entry.

Several pieces of jewelry, a television, a video cassette recorder, a stereo system, clothes and a Ford Escort were among the items reported missing, according to the report.

Although some of the recovered items were traced back to the break-in, not all of the items were found.

"The car is still out there, I believe," Roddy said.

Richard Scott Morris was arraigned Friday in 52nd District Court 1st Division before Magistrate Mark Weaver on four charges including malicious destruction of a building over $100, possessing a firearm in commission of a felony, receiving and concealing stolen property over $100 and possessing a stolen credit card. Three misdemeanor charges were also filed against Morris.

Bond was set at $11,500. Morris is being held in the Oakland County jail pending preliminary hearings on Dec. 12 and 13.

School board cuts $2 million from budget

SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Recess, music, physical education and extracurricular activities may be cut from Clarkston schools if voters don't approve an upcoming millage request.

Students in kindergarten through 12th grade could also attend school only five hours a day if the millage request isn't approved.

On Dec. 4, the Clarkston Board of Education voted unanimously to adopt $2 million in budget cuts for the 1990-91 school year if a 5.6-mill increase is not approved Feb. 12, 1990.

One mill is $1 for every $1,000 in assessed property valuation.

At the meeting, President Janet Thomas said the cut to a five-hour day is the most significant budget cut on the list.

Following is a list of prioritized items that could be cut from the 1990-91 school year and the amount of money it would save. The list totals $2 million and was revised Oct. 18 by the school administration:

1. Eliminate one central office position ($60,000): a) eliminates several central office services; b) redistrib-ute most important job functions; c) actual position eliminated to be determined.

Reduce curriculum planning functions ($110,000): a) eliminates summer curriculum work; b) eliminates subject area coordinators; c) eliminates substitutes for curriculum and staff development; d) eliminates all in service and conference money; e) eliminates curriculum supplies.

2. Eliminate five custodial or grounds positions ($125,000): a) less frequent cleaning of some areas; b) reduced grounds care and building maintenance.

3. Eliminate all remaining extra-curricular activities ($200,000): a) includes all athletics; b) includes athletic director and secretary.

4. Eliminate remaining elementary support staff and supplies ($400,000): a) eliminates music and physical education; b) eliminates district reading and math support; c) eliminates librarians and media aides; d) eliminates gifted program.

5. Eliminates middle school and high school busing

($400,000): a) special education required by law; b) reduce frequency of elementary stops; c) maximize the number of children on each bus; d) may require longer elementary runs.

6. Reduction to a five-hour school day for kindergarten through 12th grade ($750,000): a) eliminates approximately 22 secondary teachers; b) eliminates secondary accreditation; c) eliminates middle school concept; d) eliminates some state incentive money; e) eliminates several hours of secretary or clerk time; f) eliminates hot lunch program-nutrition break only; g) eliminates most or all elementary recess time; h) eliminates all secondary elective choices (e.g. band); i) would not increase class size; j) close buildings at day's end to save utility costs; k) eliminates all Latchkey; l) eliminates most community education enrichment courses.

If a five-hour day is adopted, that will reduce special education services ($100,000): a) may cause parent appeals; b) school will meet only minimal requirements.

"We are overworked and underpaid," he said. "Our students consistently place at the top 10 or 12 of the county, and we consistently send half of our students to college; and we are consistently in the bottom one-third of staff salaries."

Sharon Devereaux, principal of Andersonville Elementary, said the administrators have agonized over the cuts and what it will do to children.

Every question board members asked that meeting had already been discussed by the administrators, she said.

David Reschke, principal of Sashabaw Junior High School, also voiced concern.

"We need to be seen as working together (school board and administration)," he said.

After two hours of deliberation, Vice President John

CEA President William Curtis

Needham made the motion to adopt the list of cuts as proposed but withdrew the motion after trustees Paul VanKlaveren and Foyteck said they wouldn't support a five-hour school day.

Needham's second motion called for the adoption of the cuts -- including reducing to a five-hour school day if necessary -- but also said the administration is make the cuts in the best possible way.

"Last year we cut (the budget) to the bone -- these are amputations," Needham said.

Volunteers wanted for millage campaign

Volunteers are needed to help with an upcoming campaign for a Clarkston school millage election.

On Feb. 12, 1990, voters will be asked to approve a 5.6-mill increase to avoid budget cuts in the 1990-91 school year. One mill is $1 for every $1,000 assessed property valuation.

Meetings for interested residents are set for 4 p.m. and 7 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 12, at the administrative offices on Clarkston Road, Independence Township.

Wetlands dispute in Village West ends in court

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Two failed lawsuits ended the Village of Clarkston's disagreement regarding the amount of wetlands on the Village West condominium property adjacent to Deer Lake.

"As far as the village is concerned, it's over," said Trustee Douglas Roeser, who also chairs the village's wetlands board.

As far as the project's spokesman is concerned, the village's decision didn't come soon enough.

"There's no question there has been a conspiracy to stop this project from happening," Rudy Lozano said. "The bottom line is that this is not wetlands."

Originally, the plan for the 5.7-acre parcel of land next to Deer Lake Beach on White Lake Road called for a nine-lot site condominium project.

When the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) eventually determined that a small portion of the property, near the pond, was sensitive wetlands, the project was reduced to the current eight lots.

The village's engineer, Dave Lakin of Hubble Roth and Clark, agreed with the DNR's assessment of the property when he created a wetlands map that defined the village's attorney, John Steckling wrote: "I indicated to Dave (Lakin) that because they are the village's engineers and had made this determination about what were and were not considered to be wetlands, that we should live with these determinations and apply our ordinance accordingly."

Still unsure of what was and wasn't wetlands on the property, Roeser wanted a second opinion.

"It's not that we would stop the project," Roeser said. "We didn't feel that we got adequate input from their engineer and ours."

"We just wanted to get an expert engineer in wetlands to analyze the site and tell us whether that (land) should be a wetlands and thereby whether we should act on it (with our Wetlands Ordinance)."

Although he said the village's lawsuits weren't warranted since the wetlands as determined by the DNR had been fenced off and protected, Lakin didn't have a problem with the village seeking expert help on the matter.

"I'm not a marine biologist; I'm not an expert in (wetland) vegetation," Lakin said. "When it's not a sure thing, I welcome a second opinion."

When drawing the wetlands map for the village, Lakin said the type of plant-life, soils and topography all help determine what areas are wetlands. Just because an area has one of those items doesn't make it a wetlands, he said.

Glen Miller, a registered ecologist hired by the property owners, also agreed with the wetlands mappings by Lakin and the DNR.

Roeser, who is a member of the Independence Township Land Conservancy and is a former president of the group, still believed more of the property was wetlands and asked for more information.

When the DNR and Miller proved reluctant to offer details on which they based their decision, Roeser said the council decided to sue.

"It (the lawsuits) had nothing to do with approval or disapproval of the project," said Roeser. "I don't have a problem that they were developing (the area); it fit all of our ordinances otherwise.

"(But) if that isn't wetlands vegetation, I'll eat my hat and the ordinance."

Oakland County Circuit Court Judge Steven N.

Trustee Douglas Roeser

Andrews didn't agree with Roeser and the village council, however.

The village's first lawsuit for a temporary restraining order was denied on Sept. 26. The village then entered a motion to allow entry on the land for inspection. That suit was denied on Oct. 12. An order of dismissal was entered on Oct. 18. Judge Andrews considered the village's case blatant harassment after the second suit, said Lozano.

"It wasn't intended as harassment," said Steckling. "I felt it was very legitimate; if you don't agree, get a second opinion. The main basis (for the judge's decision) was that he didn't feel we were entitled to an expert."

In a way, the village's attorney agreed with the decision.

"They (Vintage Construction) built what we wanted them to. It was more of the village trying to mind it's Ps and Qs," he said.

As harmless as it might sound, the entire process of initial contact with the council and final approval lasted (See CONDO, next page)

those areas in the village that needed coverage under the newly created Wetlands Ordinance.

two years. That left Lozano frustrated.

"I wanted to put in eight houses, and they treated me like a carpetbagger," he said. "They filed suit against me knowing they didn't have a case. I have been in town longer than most of those people (on the council), and I think the people of Clarkston should know how their tax money is being spent."

Artemus Pappas, village treasurer, said $1,543.40 has been spent in attorney's fees since April on the Village West project. Another $1,122.30 has been spent on engineering fees. But that money was deducted from a $3,000 fee previously assessed to the developer, Pappas said.

Also, the village council adopted a Wetlands Ordinance that mirrors Independence Township's ordinance and created a Wetlands Board to help regulate this project. During that time, Lozano anxiously waited for approval.

"I commend (the village council) for it; for taking the time to be involved," Lozano said. "But you have to know what you are talking about."

Village West is currently under construction.

Our roads not only provide safe and quick routes across the state, but they also provide clues to our culture.

An alien to this country could find out a lot about our society without even leaving his outer-space vehicle, providing he didn't travel so fast that the words became a blur and providing that he understood the language.

On I-75 in Oakland County, for instance, he'd find out that God saves, that Jesus loves you and that his vehicle was approaching the exit for the Palace of Auburn Hills.

He'd notice that the road surface was smooth enough and wide enough to accommodate a lot of fast vehicles.

On other roads, he'd learn that Bittersweet was for sale at 5800 Waldon Rd., that there was a dip in the road up ahead and, also: "Firewood," whatever that would mean to him.

He might find dirt roads so narrow that only one or two cars could travel at a time and so bumpy that vehicles would have to go slowly.

If he stuck with the highways but traveled a little more slowly, he might discover squashed animals alongside the road — a bird here, a groundhog there — plus dogs, cats, deer, rabbits, squirrels, chipmunks, mice — the list goes on.

Maybe he'd conduct an investigation — sort of like accident investigators do with humans — and discover that the animals were killed on impact with an object traveling at a high rate of speed.

If he looked in the median or in the right-of-way areas beside the road, he would see white fluffy paper emerging from tall grass.

Upon closer examination, he would find a whole world of garbage alongside the road: Orange containers claiming to be Big Macs, large black bits of rubber, cigarette butts, sneakers, newspapers, plastic bags, glass bottles — so many items he might think Earthlings use the whole world as a garbage dump.

Or he might deduce that Earthlings are incredibly stupid to treat the planet in a way that will eventually ruin their home.

If he returned to some of the dirt roads, he might notice the trees and grapevines and wild plants tangled beside the road. Here, at least, are some areas unblemished by misuse, he may assume.

But if he looked closer, he'd find a rusty washing machine half-submerged in water or a refrigerator lying on its back without a door or a sofa with mice living in its cushions.

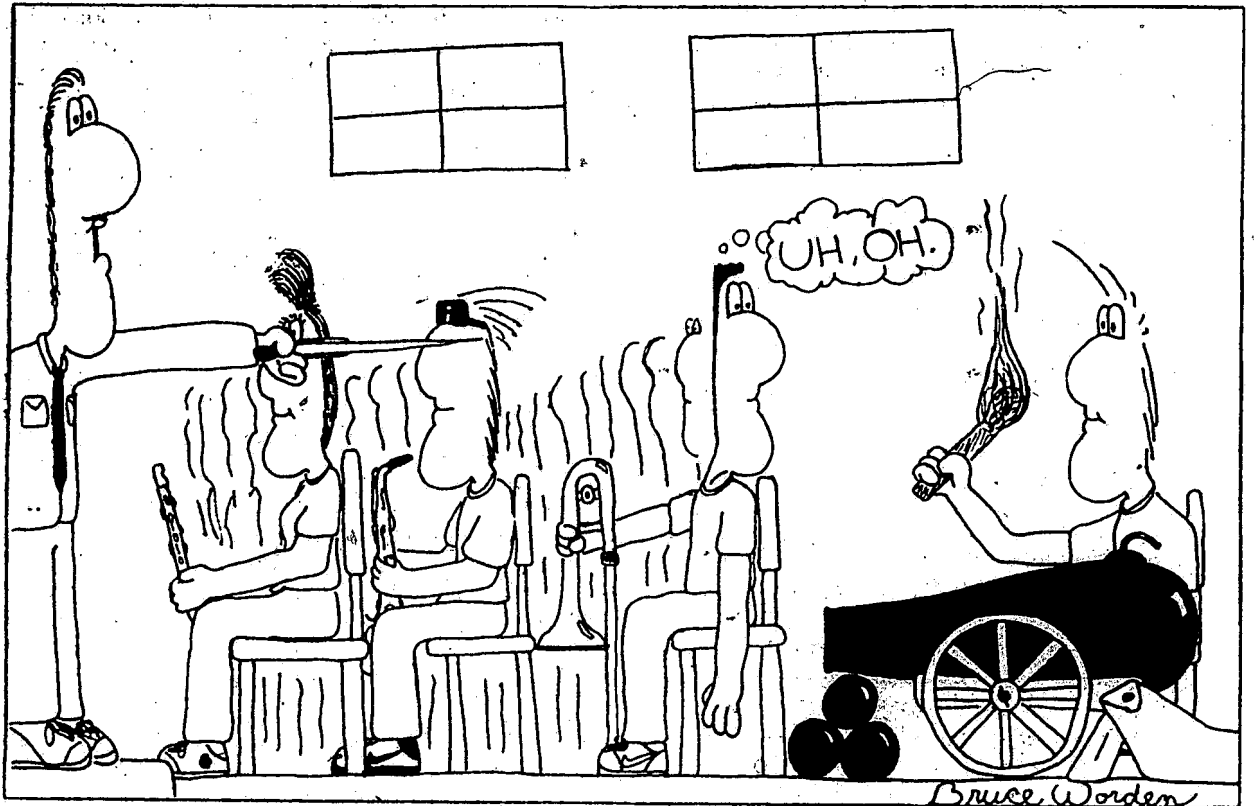

Perhaps he'd see a shiny film on parts of a pond beside a road, and if he examined it closely, he'd find petroleum products floating on the water surface.

Without meeting a single human face to face, he would already know a lot about the species. Maybe he'd store it all in some computer and then high-tail it out of there.

Or maybe he'd stick around because this world is not as far gone as his own was when he left lightyears ago.

OFF TRACK

Jim Sherman

Jim's Jottings

There's got to be some kind of ugly dress contest going on. I mean I've never seen so many people trying to reject decent dress.

Check the malls, halls and workplace, including our own. It's like everyone under 50 is in a hysterical dress group.

To begin with neither sex tries to look different below the waist. It's jeans and Reeboks. In both cases the wearers obviously are unable to tell when the jeans or shoes wears out.

As most of you already know, wearers of these bibless overalls often buy them with manufactured holes in various places, not necessarily the knee. Some of these decorator holes even have fake fringe, some have patches behind the new holes and some are sewed to prevent a ripped look.

The too-long shoe strings are untied or retied because the shoe maker knows that: 1) the wearer couldn't learn to tie his/her shoes and outgrew velcro, or 2) the wearer learned from mommy to always tie shoe strings twice lest they make you fall when stepped on.

Why oh why do people want to put high-top shoe strings in oxfords? Also, why oh why do people pay top dollar for clothes that have as their most outstanding feature the names of a product or manufacturers?

Coca Cola has a whole section in one store. So do rock bands, Forenza, Gucci, Bugle Boy, and a host of others. No royalty is paid the wearer. Why advertise for them?

And, why do so many people insist on buying apparel that doesn't fit? Anyone who has ever watched a jean knows what I mean. It must hurt. Anyone who has ever seen a sweat shirted/suited person must wonder what size that wearer hopes to be.

Editorial type people on our papers use any excuse to dress ugly. Don't embarrass me by asking to see one of them the day the paper is put together. Our company's dress code, "Dress for pride and respect - of management, public and self," is for the most part ignored that day.

One of our reporters became my all-time favorite reporter recently when I saw her in a dress. By contrast, elsewhere in the office that day was another writer-type wearing all too-large clothes. When I complimented my favorite I mentioned the contrast. She said, "I noticed it, too, and thought how comfortable she looked."

This reporter may go home and pull on too-tight jeans and baggy tops at 5 after 5:00, a practice I don't understand at all. What's wrong with keeping a shirt and tie on for dinner?

If friends or strangers drop in it would be better to greet them in finery than holes and rumples.

All this slob look is going on while magazines and soaps are parading style and freshness... unless you're into Roseanne Barr and Rolling Stone.

Which brings me to my last question this week: Have they taken mirrors off the market?

Letters to Editor

Saddened, angered by senior's letter

I wish to address the Clarkston Senior Citizens. As I read this week's letter by W. Leigh Bonner, I am both saddened and angered.

It seems the only attitude voiced by seniors is one of opposition to any school millage or bond proposals. The old adage that "It was good enough for us and our children and therefore is good enough now" is just not acceptable.

I have to believe there are many seniors who if truly informed as to the critical state of our schools would only support them.

Personally, my husband and I moved to Clarkston six years ago primarily because of the good reputation of the schools, even though our children were only infants.

Now that my children are school age, I have become very active in the school and am therefore seeing first-hand the effects of financial cutbacks.

My kindergartner is on the bus coming home for one hour because we can't add an additional bus to lessen the load. He is picked up at 8:40 a.m. and not returned home until 1 p.m., that is if the weather is not bad or the bus does not break down, which happens more often than we like.

Is it any wonder they are very hungry and many times fall asleep on the bus? I don't see my children receiving the opportunities that I had growing up in the '60s in Flint when education was top priority.

Don't blame the present administration for the state we are in — they inherited an age-old problem of existing on a shoestring and cutting back rather than asking for increases to maintain standards.

Now we are faced with these accumulated problems. We are heading into the 1990s with textbooks and buses that are 12-15 years old. Supplies and staff are drastically reduced while class sizes have rapidly risen.

You can't blame the current administration for that nor the rising costs that make it impossible to maintain programs at previous levels of excellence.

Do we really want our children and your grandchildren to suffer because we are tired of taxes? Most senior citizens receive tax credits so net taxes are very small.

Instead of taking offense and automatically voting no to any millage, please think of our kids. My parents are in their 70s and long-time senior citizens but have always supported the schools as an investment in the future.

I know there are many of you out there who feel the same, and I appeal to you to give our kids the chance to compete in this age.

Hang up on those phone sales calls

Annually, the citizens of Michigan contribute millions of dollars to what they believe to be worthwhile causes. In reality, many of these dollars are donated by citizens because of deceptive tactics and outright fraud.

The Michigan State Police Troopers Association (MSPTA) is concerned that unscrupulous solicitors are securing donations in the name of various police organizations within the state, including some allegations that they represent state troopers.

It should be noted that neither the MSPTA nor the Michigan Department of State Police solicit funds through telephone or mass mailing programs.

Fraudulent solicitation is easily accomplished claiming sponsorship by a police organization because it immediately creates the impression of legitimacy.

It also makes the sale easier if the solicitor infers that some sort of police service will be withheld or enhanced, depending on the contribution. No reputable police agency would cut its services to the community it protects, or offer preferential treatment to citizens, based on financial contributions.

Legislation that regulates and controls solicitation by telephone and mail must be enacted if we are to protect our citizens without harming legitimate solicitation programs.

Any bonafide police organization that is soliciting funds should be willing to provide any and all information on request. Any hesitation to do so should cause a citizen to question their legitimacy.

The following hints may be helpful in dealing with telephone solicitation.

It is your telephone. It is your time. If the solicitor is uncooperative, rude or uses pressure, simply HANG UP.

Telephone solicitors are highly skilled salespersons. Don't rush into a decision. Take your time and ask questions. If you are not satisfied, simply HANG UP.

Request that the solicitor clearly explain who they represent and for what purpose the money will be spent. Request this information in writing prior to contributing. If they are reluctant, simply HANG UP.

If you feel the solicitor is using unscrupulous tactics or suspect a fraudulent operation, simply HANG UP.

The bright light

Jim
Fitzgerald

County Judge William Bollinger of West Palm Beach, Fla., thinks bright lights will deter crime. I don't mean brightly lighted neighborhoods to thwart burglars, I mean brightly lighted prostitutes to discourage customers.

"I want them to see these women in the light of day, under the fluorescent lights in the courtrooms," Bollinger said. "Some of these women look like they've gone through the wringer."

How do the customers look in the bright light of day? Like they've gone through sleaze school?

Why does law enforcement crack down on prostitutes, but not their johns? Wouldn't the crime of prostitution be deterred if a strong public spotlight revealed the scum stuck to the customers' characters?

At least most hookers have the excuse of selling sex because they don't know any other way to make a living. The customers buy it for all sorts of weird and weak reasons. One reason is they get a macho kick out of using women in the most degrading manner.

Given those reasons for participating in a crime, which criminal deserves the biggest penalty, the seller or buyer?

Who should be punished?

Could it be possible that law officials have more compassion for the buyers than the sellers of sex? The john from the suburbs, cruising in a big car, has to worry about his reputation in the community. He has to worry about his wife and children. He can't put a jail sentence for hiring a hooker on his expense account.

The law understands that. It also understands it's too late for a prostitute to worry about her reputation and family. So, does the law act accordingly and dispense justice on the basis of who the criminal is, not what he or she did?

My goodness, do johns get the same sort of no-blindfold justice as famous hockey players?

Obviously, I raise these questions out of sheer perversity. I know the answers as well as you do. Prostitution is a buyer's market. The seller will always be a disgusting criminal, and the customer will always be a law-abiding but slightly devilish fellow who needs an occasional night on the town.

The only way to stop prostitution is to lock up all the prostitutes forever. That is similar to closing banks to thwart bank robbers, but there you are.

Under a bright light, it stinks.

JAZZ REPLACES POOL: At the White Horse Inn in Metamora, near where the pool table was, there is now a piano. A grand piano. Last week was my first visit in 15 years, but I wasn't surprised to see music being played where I used to play eight ball for $2 or $50 a game, depending on how long my wealthy partner, Howard Bon Vivant, had been sucking olives. I'd been warned that pool had been replaced by the Jerry Libby Trio and good food, and I should have come prepared to have a good time without betting on the results.

But I was surprised at the size of the piano. Saloon pianists most often perform on uprights or electronic keyboards, which can be entertaining, but never as grand as a grand when played grandly. And I was more surprised when Jerry Libby sat down and gave my favorite songs some of the lightest, nicest jazz treatment they ever received.

Where did this guy come from? From the University of Michigan, it turned out, with a master's degree in piano and concert experience with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra. What's a classically trained pianist doing at the 150-year-old White Horse, which was built for square dancing and spittoons? I didn't ask, I just enjoyed Libby along with his wife, Suzanne, on string bass and vocals, and Mike Russell on drums.

There was an evening, almost 40 years ago, when I cowered in a corner of the White Horse bar and watched a western-movie-type brawl, complete with thrown chairs and bodies falling on tables. Last week I was served lobster tail — on a table cloth!

Only the location hasn't changed. The White Horse Inn is still in southern Lapeer County, just east of M-24. Stop by if you don't want to play eight ball.

A few thoughts on preparing for the holidays as my thoughts (by demand) seem to be on little else these days.

Does it seem to you like we just finished all of these holiday-like things?

My Christmas trimmings, which I finally got around to storing well after New Year's, have surfaced again, out from the spot in the closet where I just put them away.

Some people, I've noticed, keep their outside Christmas lights up all year round, so that they're ready to be flipped on when Christmas draws close.

The time between Christmases grows smaller and smaller each year, so why not?

I'm to blame for our recent heavy snowfall.

I had just been thinking about other years, when we seemed to have much more snow on the ground than we do now.

Things would begin to feel a lot more like Christmastime if we would just get some, I surmised.

Christmas wasn't what I was thinking about the next morning, though, as I clutched my collar, ducked my head and slid to work in double the time.

It was only later, from the warmth of our upstairs office with the huge windows, that I was pleased with my silent request.

What has happened to all of those perfect gift ideas I have collected in my thoughts throughout the year?

Sure, I should have purchased the gifts on the spot as the idea came to me back in August or thereabouts.

But I like to wait to buy Christmas presents when the season is right and the holiday spirit is high.

I guess I might never learn that he who gets his Christmas shopping done early is he who has time to relish in Christmas spirit when the time comes.

It's easy to forget that Christmastime is supposed to be a peaceful, quiet, reflective time.

I'm doing my best this year to find the time to remember that.

Spoonfeed COG?

It is ironic that the people of Citizens for Orderly Growth (COG) want our planning commission members to make special trips to the COG meetings to explain their goals, expectations and try to justify their reasons for voting the way they do.

How much more are the individuals members to endure with added meeting dates when the lawfully set regular dates are common knowledge? These COG people can hear it first hand at the township hall, and they, too, can speak up in the public forum part or in the public hearings.

No need to repeat at another place.

Do the COG members want to be spoonfed?

Why do they set themselves to receive special consideration from our township planning commissioners' time and energy when they so seldom get off their own duffs to attend public meetings at the township hall?

Iva Sommers Caverly

P.S. I attended the COG meeting last night (Nov. 30). I am not a member. The newspaper article invited anybody to attend.

Upcoming grad thanks family

As an upcoming Dec. 21 graduate from the University of Michigan-Flint campus, I must take the time out to thank my family and friends who have been so supportive and encouraging during this time frame.

Not only does graduation mean a degree in health care administration, it means that I take with me all of the memories and experiences that have enriched my life as well as the lives of my family members.

Samantha Leonard, a 10th-grader at Clarkston High School, and Joel Leonard, an eighth-grader at Clarkston Junior High, are adolescents with patience and a sense of humor. With their support, we all survived the cranky-mother periods when final exams and rushed term papers became priorities.

Then there is my husband, Samuel A. Leonard, a man of fortitude and endurance. Not only at times was he my strong-hold, he was also my financier. Because of the Leonard Schooling Fund, I was able to attend U-M without the aid of paid employment.

This discouraged the typical notes to harried students from disgruntled children with the typical questions: When will you spend time with me and be a parent?

I am especially grateful that my mother — Genevieve Hill from Ontonagon (God's country) and Karen Soberg, my sister, will be able to attend graduation exercises.

Once again, I thank all of my family and friends. Thank you for being there.

Red Ribbon for holiday safety

Project Red Ribbon is a holiday awareness campaign developed by Mothers Against Drunk Driving four years ago to remind Americans to be responsible by driving sober during the holiday season and throughout the year.

Dates of the Michigan program are Nov. 20 through the new year. The National program began Nov. 16.

MADD members ask everyone to tie a red ribbon to their left vehicle door handle (or other visible location of their vehicle) to serve as a reminder to anyone entering the vehicle to drive sober. The red ribbon also serves a sign that the vehicle owner has chosen to "tie one on for safety" and joined MADD's campaign to make the holidays happier by making them safer.

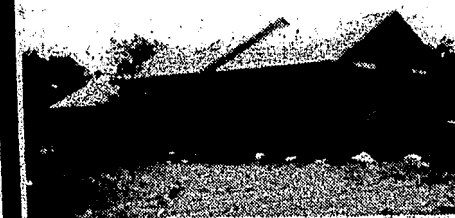

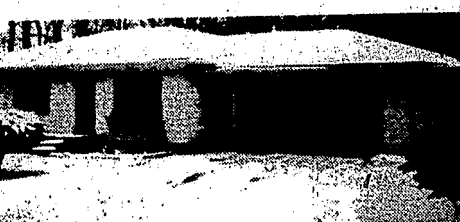

Statistics relating to the national drunk-driving problem follow:

- Every 23 minutes one person dies in an alcohol-related auto accident.
- Nearly 500,000 people are injured each year in alcohol-related traffic crashes, an average of one injury per minute. (NHTSA, 1988)
- It is estimated that two out of every five Americans will be involved in an alcohol-related crash during their lifetime. (NHTSA, 1988)
- Drunk driving is the most frequently committed crime in the nation today. DWI arrests in 1988 totaled an estimated 1.79 million.
- In 1988, 33,251 persons died in alcohol-related traffic crashes. These deaths constituted 49.6 percent of the 47,093 total traffic fatalities.
- More than 40 percent of all 15- to 19-year-old deaths result from motor vehicle crashes. About half of these fatalities were in alcohol-related crashes. Estimates are that 3,158 people in this group died in alcohol-related crashes in 1988. (NHTSA, 1989)

Shock protector could save your life

If you use a portable hair dryer in the bathroom, government safety experts want you to install a ground fault circuit interrupter in the wall outlet or panel box to protect family members against electrocution should the hair dryer fall into the sink or bathtub.

According to Acting Chairman Anne Graham of the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, the GFCI shock protector constantly monitors electricity flowing through a circuit. If the hair dryer or any electrical appliance accidentally topples into the sink or tub, the GFCI will shut down the power in milliseconds to protect the consumer against electrocution or severe electrical burn injuries.

GFCI shock protectors can be installed in wall outlets in bathrooms, kitchens, basements and throughout the house. The existing wall receptacle is removed and the GFCI is installed in its place. A combination GFCI/circuit breaker can also be installed in the main panel box to protect a complete circuit.

In new homes that comply with the National Electrical Code, GFCIs are required for bathroom outlets and kitchen countertop receptacles that are within six feet of the kitchen sink, as well as for basements, garages and outlets on the exterior of the house.

GFCIs are commonly available at building supply stores, electrical supply houses and hardware stores, but they should be installed by someone familiar with house wiring, Graham said.

Consumers may obtain a free copy of the government's fact sheet on ground-fault circuit interrupters by sending a postcard to GFCI, Washington D.C. 20207.

Catholic school gains first OK from planners

BY PETER AUCHTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

A Catholic school may open its doors in Independence Township as early as next fall.

The Legion of Christ, a Michigan non-profit corporation, received special land use and conceptual site plan approval for the first phase of its project from the Independence Township Planning Commission on Nov. 30.

The planners approved the special land use by a 6-1 vote; Bruce Mercado was the only planner to vote no. Voting yes were Chairman Brent Bair, Jo Fussman, Steve Secatch, Daniel Travis, Richard Oppmann and Joseph Figa.

Special land use is required for public and private schools in Independence Township.

The conceptual site plan for phase I passed unanimously, contingent upon getting longer acceleration, deceleration and passing lanes, a playground, ZBA approval for an historic house on the property and a landscape plan.

About 40 people attended the meeting to voice their opinions on the project, most from neighboring Newport Condominiums.

The proposed plan calls for the school, when completed, to house students from kindergarten to eighth grade. A chapel also would be built but used just for school purposes, said William R. VanderKloot, the applicant's attorney.

The school would be built on 40 acres of land situated just east of Newport Condominiums on the south side of Clarkson Road in Independence Township. Much of the land toward the back of the property would be left undeveloped and used as a nature area, the attorney said.

"It's a benefit to the community," said VanderKloot. "It does reduce the burden on local taxpayers and schools."

Phase one includes the first building of the project and would house students from kindergarten through the third grade. As the need develops, more buildings would be added. The project probably would be complete in six to eight years, the attorney said. There would be a maximum of 80 to 100 students per grade.

The historic house currently on the land would remain and be used as an administration building, with a setback variance from the township's zoning board of appeals, the attorney added.

Township planner Richard Carlisle liked the project, especially since it would offer a transition from the residential property west of it to the research/office zoned property to the east.

"It's clean non-residential that would not be detrimental," he said. "There are not a lot of requirements needed."

Traffic wouldn't be a problem, he said. If a condominium project were built on the 40 acres, the traffic flow would be double that of the school.

"It's the type of use that we need," he said of the school. "I believe it will be highly compatible."

After the opening comments, area residents voiced opinions about the project. Residents of Newport Condominiums expressed concern with the soccer and tennis areas that would abut their property when the project is complete.

"The tennis courts and soccer field could be put in back," said Richard Sutliff of Newport Drive, Independence Township. "We moved there to get away from it."

Newport developer William Hahn of Hummingbird

"I think we can make it work. If it were developed as currently zoned, Newport (Condominiums) would be looking into the windows of other homes."

Chairman Brent Bair

Lane, Independence Township, voiced several objections.

He questioned why the school could use a septic field for its waste water while the condos required sewer lines.

"I have a concern for that," he said. "What is good for me is good for them. It's a two-way street."

It would be prohibitive for the school to install sewer lines for the first phase, said township engineer Dave Lakin. The first building will have no locker rooms or showers and therefore will not generate a lot of waste water. It'll probably amount to less than that produced by

Oxford man stable after collision on ice

An Oxford man lost control of his car on icy Baldwin Road Dec. 2, hitting an oncoming car head-on.

About 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Nick Naum, 44, was driving north on Baldwin Road just north of Indianwood Road, Independence Township, when he lost control of his car, crossed the center line and hit the oncoming car.

He was taken to Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital where he was listed in stable condition Dec. 4.

The driver of the southbound car, William Paul Barbeau, 49, of Lake Orion, was not injured. A passenger in the car, Nancy Barbeau, 45, of Lake Orion, was treated and released from Crittenton Hospital in Rochester.

All three people involved in the accident were wearing seat belts, according to reports at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

two or three residential homes.

Hahn also was worried about the amount of traffic and the location of the soccer field and tennis courts.

"I feel it would be very unfair to those folks (living in Newport)," he said. "If they wanted a lot of traffic, then they would have went to Dixie Highway."

Commission members also voiced concerns.

Secatch explained his view on the traffic problems.

"Residential subdivision traffic is all day, all night," he said. "With the school, no problem. The school wouldn't be in use Saturday and Sunday, and that's a plus."

Travis agreed.

"This kind of facility is needed," he said. "I like the transit use. A school adjacent to a park would lend itself to the whole area -- A nice complement."

As for the soccer fields, Travis said additional screening for the west side of the property should be added and the fields moved elsewhere.

Mercado earned a round of hoots and hollers when he objected to the traffic studies.

"It doesn't seem people work 40 hours anymore," he said, prompting the audience to respond.

He's noticed that rush hour in the area seems to be earlier than 5 p.m., usually beginning around an hour or two earlier than that. Just when school would be letting out for the day.

The noise of the school buses coming and going also concerned him.

Bair wrapped up the planners discussion on the special land use request.

"I think we can make it work," he said. "If it were developed as currently zoned, Newport (Condominiums) would be looking into the windows of other homes."

He believed that the school wouldn't have an impact on traffic in the area other than the pick-up and drop-off times. He agreed that the soccer field should be moved but said that would be decided at a later date.

Before approving the conceptual site plan, the township planners had a additional questions.

Secatch wondered why no playground or baseball/softball fields were shown on the master plan.

"The kids have to have somewhere to play ball," he said.

Needy benefit from block grant funds

Road and park improvements, home repair and a non-profit community community group are to receive Community Development Block Grant Funds in Springfield Township in 1990.

The township board unanimously approved about $78,000 Nov. 21 in the following areas:

■ Neighbor for Neighbor, $13,000 for supplies, food and cash to help the needy with mortgages or utility bills.

■ Minor Home Repair, $10,000 for senior citizens and the disabled. Eligible are such repairs as: furnaces, toilets and wiring.

■ Robert Bruce Subdivision off Farley Road, $40,000 for road improvements; eligible for money because subdivision's household incomes meet Housing and Urban Development (HUD) income level guidelines.

■ Green Lake Park in Robert Bruce Subdivision, $10,000 for fencing, landscaping and park equipment;

"A school adjacent to a park would lend itself to the whole area -- A nice complement."

Daniel Travis

Fussman asked that longer deceleration and passing lanes be added to the plan, to allow buses to stack up during the peak hours of picking up and dropping off students, she said.

Contest winners

Two Springfield Township residents took home free tickets to Snoopy's World of Magic at the Palace, after they won a Clarkston News contest.

Nikki Weber, 11, of Englewood Drive, and Kathy Pfeiffer of West Ellis Road turned in their entries at 2:48 p.m. and 3:13 p.m. respectively on Nov. 29. Both entries contained the correct number of Snoopys: 13 — good for two free tickets each.

Parents can go back to future

Doug Carlson

In the Nov. 22 edition of the Detroit Free Press there was a very interesting article by Sonya Friedman entitled, "Parents Can Lead Kids to the Future, Starting Right Now."

The article was written in conjunction with the introduction of the movie "Back to the Future II" and a recent conversation she had with Dr. Benjamin Spock.

In the movie, Michael J. Fox's character is thrust into the future (the year 2015) to try to save his children from what the future holds. Ms. Friedman wonders how many of us, looking 30 years ahead, would be satisfied with what we save.

According to Ms. Friedman, you can affect the future, and you can do it right now.

In her discussion with Dr. Spock, she was told that the most important thing a parent can do for kids is to become an activist in their quest for values for a better world.

Dr. Spock's concern is that we have all become too complacent. As an example, he mentions voter turnout in national elections. With only 25 percent of us voting, we show our kids our lack of involvement in, for instance, the quality of the environment and peace in our world. We show them that we really don't care about them or their future.

Ms. Friedman agrees. She says, "If we don't care about their future, or the condition of the world we leave to them, or the budget deficit in this country, or the character of race relations, or whether our kids can expect to get jobs, housing and child care, what can all the verbalizations about how much we love them really mean? Just like in the movie, we are playing with their future."

Want to get involved in the future? Want to change the course of history? Ms. Friedman says, "As you look at your own children, proud to be their parent, praying that they have a wonderful future and a wonderful life, think about this:

"You can no longer see just your immediate family as your family. For them to survive well, you must see your community and the world at large as your family. For if you don't see things that way, and if you do not become actively involved in making things better, your children's future is doomed and you have been a neglectful parent."

Continuing on, Ms. Friedman says, "You see, you can raise your child to be the best dressed, the best mannered, the best at school work, but if that child lives in a jungle, that child's life is at stake every time he or she steps out of your protective environment. And because you cannot shield your child from the world, how about making it a better world by seeing all children as yours and seeing yourself as taking an active role in giving your child, as therefore all children, a better place to live?"

Ms. Friedman concluded her article by saying, "As parents, we must be concerned about the future, since it's not enough to give children the gift of life. We must allow them to live it in the best way possible. You can go back to the future."

So can you. Get involved in what's going on in Clarkston. Get involved in your schools. Attend meetings. Let those in charge know how you feel. Volunteer to help whenever and wherever you can. The list is endless. You'll feel better, and you'll send a great message to your kids.

Doug Carlson is chairman of Citizens for Orderly Growth.

Park permits on sale

The 1990 Metropark annual vehicle entry and annual boating permits will go on sale at several Huron-Clinton Metropark offices beginning Friday, Dec. 1.

Fees remain the same as in 1989. Vehicle entry permit charges are: regular $10, senior citizen $5. Boating permit charges are: regular $13, senior citizen $6. The permits provide use of all 13 Metroparks in Wayne, Macomb, Oakland, Livingston and Washtenaw counties.

Annual permits will be available at Metro Beach, Stony Creek, Indian Springs, Kensington, Huron Meadows, Hudson Mills, Lower Huron and Lake Erie Metroparks or at the administrative office of the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority, 13000 High Ridge Drive, Brighton Township.

Daily permits, which go on sale Jan. 1, 1990, are $2 each for vehicles and $3 each for boats.

No permits are sold through the mail. For additional information contact the Huron-Clinton Metroparks at 1-800-24-PARKS (toll-free).

Adopt a dog from the Oakland County Shelter

Dogs are known to be man's best friend. They have aided man as leader dogs for the blind, hunting dogs and friendly pets.

Now dogs need man's help. Thousands of homeless nice dogs are being put to sleep each year. From northern Oakland County alone, less than 10 percent of the strays ever get reunited with their owners.

The Oakland County Animal Shelter urges people to adopt their next pet from the shelter.

Purebred dogs are available for less than $50 with necessary shots, said Carl Anderson, manager of the shelter.

The shelter urges pet owners to get their animal spayed and neutered. This will safeguard against their pet wandering.

The shelter, on Brown Road just north of the Palace of Auburn Hills, is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday; from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday; and from 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday. To adopt a pet, call 391-4100.

Water tower planned at White Lake and Dixie

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Independence Township officials have begun to move forward with plans for an elevated water tower at the corner of Dixie Highway and White Lake Road.

Engineers have begun to draw up plans for the 500,000-gallon tank, and township officials will soon discuss how best to obtain an easement for the tower.

An easement grants the right to use land belonging to another for such things as roads or utilities.

Once the plans are drafted, the township board must approve the project. If approved, the estimated $600,000 cost of the project will be paid for by money borrowed by the township's DDA.

The DDA was established along parts of M-15 and Dixie Highway in 1986 to promote development of business districts by improving the landscaping, roads and sewer and water service.

The water tower would serve as a reserve fire protection system for all of Dixie Highway within the township border, explained George Anderson, director of the department of public works.

"This gives us an eight-hour reserve for fire protection in the commercial area there," Anderson said.

"If the pumps fail (and there is no water tank), we have no backup system," he added.

The proposed tower would rise 167 feet and would be a "golf ball type" unless the board decides otherwise, Anderson said.

The township hopes to locate the tower on a 200-square-foot parcel on the highest portion of property on Dixie just north of White Lake Road.

At their regular Nov. 20 meeting, DDA members voted to recommend that the board obtain an easement for the tower from the property owner.

Once easements and the various approvals are obtained, the tower could go up in May of 1990, Anderson said.

'Overgrowth' brings area communities together

Independence attorney, resident talks about growth strategies in the works

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

In the summer of 1988, residents of Independence Township, along with Waterford, Oakland and West Bloomfield townships and the city of Rochester Hills, formed a group known as the Intergovernmental Growth Management Study.

The group was formed in response to growth pressures in each of the member communities. Coordinator Gerald Fisher, an attorney for some member communities, including Independence Township, talked with Clarkson News Staff Writer Tracy King about the group's progress. Following are excerpts of the interview.

Why is growth occurring so rapidly?

"In Michigan, the whole overgrowth occurrence is a relatively recent thing and has probably occurred as a result of a prolonged positive economy.

"In Florida, in California, in Oregon and Vermont and so forth — these things have been going on for a while, and they have had growth management concern legislation in place and in force for a long time."

How did the group come into being?

"I have been aware of a lot of these growth management movements elsewhere in the country. We represent in this firm, and I do a lot of direct work for, West Bloomfield and, of course, Independence Township and of legislation that we think we need. Whether we're going to be lobbyists or not, I don't know. But we are probably going to take a leadership role in the state of Michigan in proposing legislation.

"We have had meetings with legislators for the communities, and all are very receptive; and we have made some effort to coordinate what we're doing in other parts of the state.

"The last thing we want to work on is a matrix or concept for comprehensive planning. It's our conclusion that the traditional master plan and zoning plan — while they serve well and will continue to serve well — the planning is going to have to be more comprehensive, and what we want to do is introduce further elements into the process.

"I think Independence Township is in good shape, relatively speaking, in terms of undertaking the control that they can."

"For example, ... using a build-out inventory in accordance with the master plan and zoning ordinance and saying, 'What do we have?' We know approximate density, so how many housing units are we going to have here? How many sewer taps will that use? How many water systems will we need? How many police officers will we need? What type of libraries and schools and so on."

When will these changes be felt?

"The fruits of the group's work have really come forward already. Through this process, a lot of learning has taken place by everyone, and a number of things have been incorporated in each community's ordinances, policies and day-to-day activities.

"We think in January-February we will have finished drafting the techniques we will recommend to the communities, and in January we will finish the slate of proposed legislation. Shortly after that we will put together our matrix for comprehensive planning."

What is the group's attitude towards growth?

"I would say there is no question that the communities in this group have a longing to slow growth down by managing it. That is only in light of the significant speed that growth is occurring.

"If you take most other times in recent history for these communities, growth management may not mean slowing things down. It may mean merely the ability to make intelligent decisions — to be pro-active instead of reactive — and that is really the objective."

How does Independence Township's growth compare with other communities?

"There is probably less underdeveloped land down in West Bloomfield — a lot of land being developed there now has a lot of wetlands. All of the areas are pressured for growth, and all have beautiful natural resources.

"All have people — electors, citizens and residents — that are concerned. ... I think Independence Township is in good shape, relatively speaking, in terms of undertaking the control that they can.

"We're very fortunate to have an outstanding planning commission. They're conscientious; they've got good objectives, and they're very fair in dealing with applicants, also. And I think the Independence Township zoning ordinance is a good one."

"We are probably going to take a leadership role in the state of Michigan proposing legislation."

Oakland Township; and all of these areas have recently had a lot of the growth pressures.

"Waterford and Rochester Hills have also expressed interest. These five communities are similarly situated in terms of growth pressures.

"We think that there is insufficient legislation now. There is legislation on the books that we can use for various purposes. The zoning power is one of the strongest powers, ... but there are limitations to the zoning power."

What can the group do to help?

"The group met to determine what the best course would be. We came up with three major elements.

"Number one, what needs to be done is to identify the best methods of growth management that should be utilized for these different communities. A lot of different methods exist out there — it's our task at this point to identify methods to be used by these particular communities.

"Number two is the identification and preparation

New law associate

Robert D. Delisi has become an associate at the firm of Colombo and Colombo, attorneys and counselors at law in Birmingham.

Delisi and his wife, Sandra, and one child reside in Clarkston. Delisi also contributed articles on tax planning for The Clarkston News.

Prior to joining Colombo and Colombo, Delisi was a principal of the Barber and Tolson law firm. He focuses his practice on general corporate business and real estate as well as tax and estate planning.

Robert D. Delisi

Delisi has eight years of professional experience as a certified public accountant and tax associate with Coopers and Lybrand, an international public accounting firm, prior to his practice of law.

Delisi is an honors graduate from Wayne State University, Detroit, with a bachelor of science degree in business. He graduated cum laude from Wayne State University Law School and was the recipient of the Gold Key Certificate for highest academic achievement during his senior year.

Colombo and Colombo, founded in 1908, has six shareholders, seven associates and six attorneys of counsel.

Clarkston area residents visit shopping center

It appears that Clarkston area residents like shopping at the new Independence Pointe shopping center on Telegraph in Pontiac.

According to a Vehicle Origin Survey conducted in May for the shopping center by R.L. Polk and Co., vehicles registered to residents with a Clarkston mailing address were the second highest number on the list, right behind Pontiac residents, who made up 35.87 percent of the shoppers.

Oakland Pointe Manager Carol Chalton said R.L. Polk officials, in essence, wrote down the license plate numbers for each vehicle in the lot in a certain amount of time one day. Then, they searched to find the mailing address for the owners of the cars.

Clarkston shoppers comprised just over 9 percent of the customers. Following Clarkston were vehicles registered to residents with the mailing addresses of: Drayton Plains, third with 4.3 percent; Bloomfield Hills, fourth with 3.7 percent; Waterford, fifth with 3.5 percent; and West Bloomfield, sixth with 3.2 percent.

Davisburg ranked 18th on the list with 1.3 percent of the vehicles.

In all, there were more than two vehicles from 44 postal areas, plus several postal towns with only one occurrence. Shoppers came from such varied locations as Detroit, Lapeer, Goodrich and even Kalamazoo.

According to Chalton, it's easy to see why Clarkston area residents would turn to Oakland Pointe for their shopping needs: Not much retail exists in the Clarkston area, and Pontiac is not far away.

Plus, she said, crime is low at Oakland Pointe, which employees 24-hour security guards. To date, no violent crimes have been committed on the grounds, she said.

Electrical hazards prevalent in homes

If you bury electrical cords under carpets and rugs at home or overload your electrical circuits, you run a greater risk of having one of the 169,000 electrical fires that happen each year in American homes.

The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission said homeowners need to improve their electrical house-keeping practices if fires are to be prevented. Electrical house fires are responsible for 1,100 deaths, 5,600 injuries and property losses of $1.1 billion each year.

Apart from the fires, some 340 people are electrocuted each year in accidents involving consumer products, and 7,700 others require hospital emergency room treatment for electric shock or burn injuries.

Consumers who want to make their home electrically safe should obtain a free copy of CPSC's electrical safety checklist. The 12-page booklet guides the homeowner on a room-by-room inspection to pinpoint electrical hazards and how to make safe corrections.

Free copies of the booklet are available by sending a postcard to Electrical Safety, Washington D.C. 20207.

Time Out

Playing it safe

Peter Auchter

Skiing always has been an interest of mine. Of course, I have never actually skied, but I think about it a lot. (It's a lot safer that way.)

Throughout my life I have had the tendency to think about doing something too much before trying it. When the opportunity to participate in the event arises, I've already thought of a million or so reasons why I shouldn't — so I don't.

Some might say that I lead a boring, nondescript life, and I wouldn't totally disagree. But at least I could say that I can't remember what the inside of a hospital or ambulance looks like. (Knock on wood.)

Anyway, skiing ranks high on my list of no-nos along with its summer counterpart, waterskiing. Even seeing the skiers up close and personal at places like Pine Knob don't change my mind. I'll watch, I'll take pictures, I'll freeze with the rest of them, but I won't come flying down that hill at unheard of speeds.

Maybe spending my childhood afternoons watching ABC's Wide World of Sports on Saturday with that infamous dude violently crashing after a spill on the hill during the opening segment has had some lingering effect on me, I don't know. But every time I think of skiing, I think of that rag-doll man flopping down the hill.

With my low coordination skills, I figure it's a good chance I'll end up a human snow ball before I'd reach the end of the hill. Not much fun for me, of course, but it would probably draw a crowd if I tried it more than once, don't ya think?

Still, a fascination with the sport remains in my soul. Being able to master the weather, the hill and your fears all at once is no easy task. Kudos to all who enjoy it from the novice level all the way up to the world-class athletes. Why you would want to do it, I don't know.

Someday I hope to ski. Maybe I'll start on a snowy driveway. That would be just about right. Anything would beat shoveling the snow, I guess. But don't hold your breath for any miracles, even if it is the season for them. My parents didn't waste their money on my college education. I learned many things while at Oakland University, Rochester. One of them was how to stay alive.

On the national sports scene, the Detroit Lions finally are making their move. Two victories in a row! What's next, the Super Bowl?

Just joshing. The Lions are far from being an elite ball club in the NFL but they certainly are getting closer to the middle of the pack each and every week. We can become the Green Bay Packers in 1990.

With the resurgence of the Lions and Packers and the bungling of the Vikings and Bears (toss in the continually up-and-coming Bucs), the NFC Central Division will be up for grabs next season. Maybe all five teams will tie for the title. Wouldn't that make Pete Rozelle happy?

P.S. — By the way, where can I sign up for Super Bowl tickets in case the Lions do make it some year?

VARSITY BASKETBALL players scrimmage near the end of a recent practice session. The boys team opened the season against Pontiac Central on Tuesday, Dec. 5. Watch for complete game results in next week's paper.

Sports of All Sorts

2 from CHS at OCC

Two Clarkston High graduates will wear the green and white uniforms of Oakland Community College men's basketball team this winter.

Ed Whitaker and Darrin Brandt will add backcourt depth for the Raiders. OCC opened the season with four straight victories.

Whitaker is a 1987 graduate from Clarkston High School and transferred to OCC from Toledo. Brandt graduated from CHS in 1989.

AYH canoe trips

Two canoe trips sponsored by the American Youth Hostels are scheduled for January 1990 but the deadline to register is Monday, Dec. 18.

Each trip will be limited to 10 people. AYH membership is required.

The first trip is the Oklawaha Swamp Canoe-Camp Week, Jan. 6 to 12. Trippers will follow canoe trails through saw-grass prairies, lakes, forests and moss-covered cypress swamps. Nights will be spent camping on raised wooden platforms in the 435,000-acre National Wildlife Refuge in southern Georgia at the Florida border. No canoeing experience is necessary.

The second trip is to the Everglades National Park in Florida, Jan. 14 to 21. Four to six days will be spent in narrow lagoons or large lakes and navigating with a compass and nautical maps. Nights will be spent on chickees, which are raised wooden platforms such as the ones that the Seminole Indians lived upon. Previous canoeing experience is desirable, but not mandatory.

Contact the AYH office at 545-0511 for more information.

Bike adventure

If a trip to Georgia, exploring Savannah and environs, then bicycling south along the coastal area to Brunswick interests you, then the American Youth Hostels have a program for you.

You can bicycle as much as 75 miles a day or as little as you want. You can go fast or slow. This trip will handle all grades of bicyclists.

Space is limited, so call 545-0511 for more information on this Christmas bike adventure. The trip runs from Dec. 25, 1989 to Jan. 1, 1990.

4 Clarkston High grads excel in volleyball

BY GUNNAR KARLSTROM

Four recent graduates of Clarkston High School have helped the Michigan State University men's volleyball team to achieve a new level of success.

Keith and Kevin Krupp were graduated from Clarkston High in 1986 and participated in track. John Gaulin, who also graduated in 1986, played on the golf team. Mike Barnes, a 1988 graduate, played on the basketball team.

Last year, in the 1988-89 season, the East Lansing team boasted a 17-2 record and won the Midwest Intercollegiate Volleyball Association tournament.

The two losses the team suffered in the regular season were to Notre Dame, Notre Dame, Ind. They were quickly avenged, however, in the championship match of the Midwest Intercollegiate Volleyball Association tournament when they conjured up an upset in a come-from-behind victory and were crowned kings of the Midwest.

Barnes remembers the "satisfaction, because we lost to Notre Dame in the regular season and beat them in the final match ... beat them handily I must say."

The volleyball team is not yet a varsity sport for Michigan State, so a lot of the money is paid by the players. Barnes said last year they paid about $300 to $400 each, but this year they have funding from ASMSU, the university's student body. So most of the burden of playing is focused on performance rather than fundraising.

Academics is important to these players as well. Keith Krupp, along with his brother Kevin, are mechanical engineering majors. Kevin, however, decided that instead of playing volleyball this year he would study some of his undergraduate work in Europe and will return next year.

Barnes is a medical technology major and hopes someday to be a doctor. Gaulin is studying business administration and plans to have a business of his own sometime after college.

The team as a whole has a grade point average of 3.2 and must meet a coaches' rule of a minimum of 2.5 grade point average.

"This is pretty stiff, compared to the Big 10 and National College Athletic Association requirements, which are a 1.8 for freshman and sophomores and 2.0 for juniors and seniors," Barnes said.

Already, team members are mentally preparing for the upcoming season.

"Team goals this year are going to be aimed at a repeat of last year," said Gaulin.

"We like to feel that our chances of a national club championship are good, but because of the high quality of the western teams we know we have a long upward climb," added Barnes.

Gaulin, Barnes and Krupp will be starting this year and will function together as an important part of the team. Maybe with their combined efforts they will not only bring home another championship to Michigan State but one to Clarkston as well.

Gunnar Karlstrom is a graduate of Clarkston High School and currently is a sophomore at Michigan State University, East Lansing.

New Year's ski trip

Three days of cross country and downhill skiing are available through the American Youth Hostels New Year's Eve Holiday Ski Trip.

Accommodations (in Sault Ste. Marie) will be at the Ramada Inn with three breakfasts and two dinners included. Transportation will be luxury bus leaving Dec. 29 from the Detroit area and returning on Jan. 1.

The trip is limited to 45 people. Call 545-0511 for more information or write to 3024 Coolidge, Berkley, MI 48072.

AAU girls sought

Girls can tryout for a Clarkston 15 and under AAU basketball team on Saturday, Dec. 9, at Waterford Mott High School.

The two-hour tryout begins at 8 a.m., and a $10 registration fee is required.

Quebec ski week

Skiing enthusiasts can join the American Youth Hostels for its annual Ski Week in Quebec. The group leaves Detroit on Christmas Day and returns New Year's Day.

Cross country and downhill skiing, transportation by deluxe motor coach, first-class accommodations at the luxurious Loews Le Concorde Hotel and a gala New Year's Eve Party are included. Membership is required. Call 545-0511 for more information.

Recreation Roundup

Adult Open Gym

Tuesdays at Pine Knob Elementary from 7 to 10 p.m.; Wednesdays at Andersonville Elementary from 7 to 9 p.m. for those 30 and over; Wednesdays at Clarkston High School from 7 to 10 p.m.; Thursdays at North Sashabaw Elementary from 7 to 10 p.m.

It's a good policy to call the parks and recreation department at 625-8223 the day of each open gym to verify its availability. The schools will occasionally call and cancel gym times to facilitate their own activities. IMPORTANT NOTE: There will be no evening gym times over the Christmas holidays. The schools are closed. Under 19 and Under 16 Soccer League Information

Registrations are being taken through Jan. 2 for guys and gals who would like to play in either league. These teams will travel to other communities to play.

Games are normally played on weekends with occasional weekday games; home games are played at Clintonwood Park. Games will tentatively begin in mid-April. The fee for registering is $30 and includes a full uniform. The number of games will be determined by the number of teams in the league.

Volleyball Information

Co-recreation volleyball mixers 8-9:30 p.m. Mondays and Wednesdays at Sashabaw Junior High. Fee is $12 per six-week session. The next available Monday sessions are Dec. 4 and Feb. 5. The next Wednesday sessions are Dec. 13 and Jan. 31. Pre-registration is a must.

Co-recreation volleyball league 7-10 p.m. Thursdays at Clarkston Elementary. Register as teams. The cost is $22 per player. Play begins Jan. 4. Deadline to register is Dec. 29. Duration is 10 weeks.

Recreational volleyball league — the parks and recreation department is taking names and numbers of those wishing to get on a team.

Pony Basketball Information

Security deposits will be accepted through Dec. 29 for entry into the Pony Basketball League. Player fees are due by Jan. 3. Games will be played at Clarkston High School. The Pony League is open to boys ages 15 to 18.

High school varsity and junior varsity players are ineligible to participate. Boys are asked to register as teams. Names will be taken at the recreation office for those wishing to get on a team. The cost for the program is $60 security deposit; $15 resident fee, $20 non-resident fee; and $12 per game for officials.

Basketball Fans Invited

If you are a basketball fan and would like to watch some men's recreational basketball games, show up 4-9 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 3, at Clarkston High School. Three divisions exhibit different ability levels of play. If you are looking for some free entertainment, try this out!

Holiday Programs

Hotline to Santa — Santa and Mrs. Claus will be taking phone calls 3-5 p.m. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Dec. 18 to 20, to hear those Christmas wishes. If you have a Christmas wish you would like Santa or Mrs. Claus to hear, call 625-8725. Remember call only from 3 to 5 p.m. because Santa and Mrs. Claus are very busy getting ready for Christmas.

Holiday Open Gym — Because school is not in session during the day, open gym times will be offered during the holidays. The current site is Pine Knob Elementary on 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 27. Additional days and times may be added. You can call the recreation department at 625-8223 for more information or check each week's recreation roundup for updates.

Men's 30 and Over Basketball

Games begin on Jan. 17, 1990, and will be played 6-9 p.m. Wednesdays at Andersonville Elementary.

The $80 sponsor fee is due by Jan. 5; $15 player fees ($20 for non-residents) are due Jan. 12. Teams will pay $16 per game for officials. It will be an eight-game regular season, plus playoffs. To be eligible to participate, players must turn 30 by Feb. 15, 1990.

Girls Instructional Basketball Program

High school girls basketball coaches will be assisted by the varsity and junior varsity players in the instruction of girls in the fourth through sixth grades.

Fundamentals of the game will be stressed. Emphasis will be placed on learning rather than competition. At the close of the program, participants may test their new skills in actual game situations.

The program begins Jan. 13. Deadline to register is Jan. 10. The cost is $30 for the first girl and $20 for the second.

Youth Instructional Volleyball Program

Boys and girls will get an early start in learning the fundamentals of power volleyball. At the close of the program, participants may best their abilities in actual games.

Sometime in the near future, some junior high and high school boys teams may travel to some tournaments to play and possibly enter a travel league for competition. A girls league may also be formed.

Women's Volleyball League

A women's volleyball league begins play Jan. 18 at North Sashabaw Elementary. Games will be played on Thursdays, with games starting at 7:30 and 8:45 p.m. Teams will play 10 weeks, plus playoffs. Each team will play five games per night.

The deadline to enter a team is Jan. 12. The cost is $25 per player, and rosters must carry a minimum of eight players. Individual awards will be given to the first-place teams. Sponsor awards will go to the first and second-place finishers.

More Information

Call or stop by the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department, 90 N. Main St., Clarkston; 625-8223.

Women injured in Dixie crash

Two people were injured in a Dec. 1 accident when a car was broadsided by an oncoming car at the corner of M-15 and Dixie Highway, Independence Township.

Gary John Kastner, 36, of Pontiac, was attempting to turn left onto M-15 from Dixie Highway at about 5:30 p.m. Friday when the light there turned yellow, according to reports at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

When Kastner attempted to make the turn, he was broadsided by a car heading north on Dixie Highway.

Kastner was wearing his seat belt at the time of impact and was not injured.

The driver of the second car, Jerry Lee Welch, 48, of Boon was also not injured.

Two of his four passengers were hurt, however. Evelyn Welch, 47, of Boon was taken to Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital where she was treated and released. Lisa Cunningham was also taken to Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital where she was listed in stable condition Dec. 4.

All of the occupants in the Welch car were wearing seat belts.

Kastner was issued a citation in the accident for failing to yield the right of way.

Car strikes mailboxes, sod and electric pole

Two Ortonville men were injured in a one-car accident Wednesday, Nov. 29.

Timothy Duane Smith, 33, was driving north on Sashabaw Road, north of Sally Road, Independence Township, about 10 p.m. when his car left the roadway, struck some mailboxes, new sod and a Detroit Edison pole on the side of the road.

It's unclear from reports at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department whether Smith or a passenger in the car, Daniel Thomas Updegrove, 34, were wearing seat belts at the time of the accident.

Both Smith and Updegrove were treated and released at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Pontiac.

According to the police report, Smith was combative and refused to cooperate. Updegrove told police the two had been drinking and couldn't remember what had happened.

Charges are pending the investigation.

Traditional cities

A close look at your atlas will reveal many cities and other geographical locations named for the most loving holiday of the year.

To name a few:

Mistletoe, Kentucky.

Noel in Missouri and Virginia.

Holly in Colorado, Michigan and West Virginia.

Bethlehem in Connecticut, Georgia, Indiana, Kentucky, Maryland, New Hampshire and Pennsylvania.

Christmas Cove, Maine.

Mount Holly in New Jersey and Vermont.

Santa Claus in Idaho and Indiana.

And Christmas in Florida and Michigan.

Traveling around the globe, we find two islands, each called Christmas Islands — one in the Indian Ocean, the other is one of the Gilbert Islands in the Pacific.

Day of infamy remembered

Remembered as "a date which will live in infamy," Dec. 7 marks Pearl Harbor Day, when nearly 200 Japanese aircraft attacked Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, and made immediate the United States' entry into World War II.

The surprise raid, which lasted little more than one hour, left nearly 3,000 dead. Almost all 100 naval vessels from the U.S. Pacific Fleet and substantial aircraft forces were damaged or destroyed. All eight battleships were hit: three were destroyed, and a fourth was capsized.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt responded with a declaration of war, approved by Congress on Dec. 8, 1941.

Years later, the hull of the capsized USS Arizona — whose loss of 1,102 sailors was the single worst disaster of the attack — was spanned by a white concrete and steel structure and dedicated as a national memorial on May 30, 1962.

Grant pays for video, audio tapes at library

A $1,000 grant from the Friends of the Library means the Independence Township Library can follow the trend toward a more visually literate society, said Anne Rose, children's librarian.

Half of the money was used to buy cultural and educational videos, such as tapes on Norman Rockwell, Thomas Edison, Andrew Wyeth or the National Gallery of Art.

The video tapes are suitable for adults or children, said Rose.

The other half of the money paid for audio and video cassettes for young children, such as stories and visual tapes, lullabies and the children's entertainer, Raffi.

Anthropologist studies Brazil's early stages of TV

Television in the United States has been blamed for numerous social ills, including low literacy levels, social isolation, reduced attention spans, increased violence and a general decline in culture.

In a recent study of Brazilian television programs and viewers, however, a University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, anthropologist counters many of these claims and documents a number of television's beneficial effects in that country such as softening class barriers and improving attitudes toward reading.

Divorce on television was as widely prevalent there as in the United States but with a unique Brazilian twist.

Conrad Kottak, a U of M professor of anthropology and author of "Prime Time Society: An Anthropological Analysis of Television and Culture" (Wadsworth, 1989), spent three years in Brazil, interviewing Brazilian network executives, actors, censors and politicians and watching 'outsiders' as roommates, police officers, lawyers, extraterrestrials, pets, wild animals or mass murders," Kottak says.

Kottak notes that marriages in the telenovelas end in divorce as frequently as in American programs but due, he feels, to a particularly Brazilian value.

In Brazilian society, less importance is placed on the family of procreation (spouse and children) than on the family of origin (parents and siblings). Forging a new family is perceived as dangerous, Kottak explains. Telenovela marriages often end when the wife discovers that her husband is a murderer, for example.

According to Kottak, Brazil presents a unique laboratory for television research.

"I was able to do something in Brazil that you can't do in the United States any more because almost any American under 40 has been exposed to television since birth.

"Because Brazilians have been exposed to television in their homes for widely different lengths of time, I could separate the cumulative effect of watching television from the effects of normal life experiences — getting older, maturing, acquiring more education," he explains.

Beginning in January 1985, Kottak and a team of researchers interviewed Brazilians in four communities in the states of Santa Catarina, Sao Paulo, Bahia and Para.

After determining basic information such as age, sex, race, years of television exposure and hours watched each day, they asked questions such as "Is your community safe?" "Do you trust the government?" "Is it okay for women to go to bars?"

In each case, length of exposure to television was one of the strongest predictors of the citizen's response.

"The only stronger indicator of a Brazilian's views on most of the social issues we examined was education," Kottak notes. "Television exposure and gender were the next best predictors, and each explained more than income, social class, religiosity, age or race."

Although Kottak describes his findings as "stronger than he ever anticipated," he is cautious about generalizing them to include cultures other than Brazil. This is particularly true when discussing television's impact on literacy.

Kottak speculates that the widely held belief in the United States that television reduces literacy — not supported by any study — arises partly from the importance that Americans place on reading, linked to the Protestant emphasis on reading the Bible. Television is seen as supplanting solitary, "industrious" pursuits such as reading.

"The stigma that Americans place on television is almost matched by the Brazilians' traditional disdain of reading," Kottak explains. "In Brazil, reading is held suspect because it is seen as a solitary pursuit. Watching television, on the other hand, is seen as an opportunity to spend time with friends and family."

Kottak emphasizes that the results from his study are typical of a country in the early stages of television impact. First is "an initial stage of strangeness and novelty, when gazes are usually glued to the set."

In this stage, the television itself, rather than the programming, is the mesmerizer. Families and even entire communities often gather to watch at a common place.

Stage four, which Kottak uses to describe television impact in the United States, refers to "the continuing and lifelong impact of televiewing on full-grown natives." During this phase, he explains, researchers can perceive the "profound" sociocultural effects of television.

"My project benefited from 40 years of American television studies, produced as the United States passed through its stages, and we were able to test established theories in a society in only the early stages of its television history," Kottak said.

The above information was provided by The University of Michigan News and Information Service.

In Brazil, television promotes literacy and mutes class divisions, according to U-M anthropologists.

Brazilian programming. Brazil is the home of the world's most-watched commercial network — Globo.

Kottak's field research in rural Brazilian communities, combined with investigations of national and local programming, revealed high correlations between long-term exposure to television and reduced corporal punishment of children, non-sexist job stereotyping, more liberal (less sexist) views on social issues, increased reading, and greater use of the print media.

"In Brazil, a much more illiterate society than America and one in which literacy is not as trusted or valued, television makes literacy respectable. Brazilians even in rural undeveloped areas now see literate people on television who come into their homes every evening on a regular basis," Kottak says.

In addition, Kottak found that television reduced divisions between social classes by familiarizing rural people with urban life and reducing "obsequious and fearful behavior."

An example: In the last 20 years, Brazilians' use of the formal "you" when addressing elders or perceived social betters — on television and real life — has declined substantially.

Kottak spent much of his time in Brazil analyzing the country's domestically produced prime-time soap operas, known as "telenovelas." Produced by Globo, Brazil's dominant network, the three telenovelas aired nightly each command an audience share of 60 percent to 95 percent or 60 to 80 million viewers — a ratings share unparalleled in the United States except for the Super Bowl.

Kottak attributes the shows' popularity to their uniquely Brazilian themes. Unlike popular American programs such as "L.A. Law" and "Cheers," which revolve around the social world of work and career, telenovelas typically center on interpersonal relationships in the family, reflecting upper-class Brazilians' emphasis on gentility and leisure over work and career.

"Novelas show people almost always interacting with their friends and families and rarely with such

Overeating tips

Weight Watchers International offers the following helpful hints to help avoid overeating during the holiday season.

■ Drink lots of water. It will help to fill you up, and you'll be putting a curb on your appetite.

■ Plan ahead. If you are going to a dinner party, eat light at lunch and breakfast that day.

■ Exercise! Every bit of physical activity helps during the holidays. Besides eating greater amounts of food, the holiday season often brings on additional stress. Exercise not only burns calories and fat, but it's also helpful in relieving stress.

■ High-calorie drinks and punches are common at holiday parties. Ask for seltzer or mineral water with a twist, instead. Sip your beverage elegantly in a wine glass or champagne flute.

■ Share with a friend. If a piece of pumpkin or apple pie a la mode looks too tempting to pass up, share it with a friend or family member. This way you can enjoy it without having to eat the whole thing.

■ Make sure you schedule some time for yourself. Added stress and the feeling of being overwhelmed can often lead to overeating.

■ Remember there is more to celebrating than food. Share funny stories, play a game that everyone will enjoy, rent a classic movie or one of the new releases.

■ Portion control. Selectively choose what you'd like to eat. Sample a variety of what is being served in small portions.

■ "Seconds? No thank you." Tell yourself that you will feel better and will have more energy after the meal if you pass on second helpings.

■ Don't eat just because the people around you are eating. If you aren't hungry, nurse some sparkling water or fruit juice.

Dump diapers

Eighteen billion disposable diapers end up in our landfills each year. These single-use diapers take 300-500 years to decompose.

Use a diaper service instead. Besides its obvious environmental benefits, it can save $500-$600 over disposables in a standard 30-month diapering period.

If a diaper service is not available in your area, buy cloth and wash your own — it's worth the effort. After toilet training is complete, they make great cleaning rags.

Groundwater team moves ahead

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

If you're interested in learning how to improve the environment, stand by — the Independence Township Groundwater Leadership Team is preparing a few lessons.

The 60-member groundwater team has met for several months to determine how to best educate residents of Independence Township on improving groundwater conditions.

After educating themselves on what problems exist, members have identified priorities and have set up a timetable for projects to educate others.

For example, one project offers tips on how to dispose of used automobile oil.

In Michigan, residents who change oil themselves and dispose of it improperly create more waste than all of the oil spilled in the Valdez Oil Spill off the coast of Alaska, according to Kevin Mills, groundwater team project leader.

The Valdez tanker spilled something like 10.9 million gallons, Mills explained. Michigan residents improperly dispose of 11 million gallons of oil each year.

Other programs educate residents on things such as proper septic tank maintenance or how to shop for non-toxic cleansers.

The Groundwater Leadership Team is sponsored through the East Michigan Environmental Action Council (EMEAC).

The team, made up primarily of Independence Township citizens, has met about once a month to determine project goals and policies.

"We're basically at an interesting turning point in the project," Mills said.

The team has been split into work groups, each with different goals. Where one group works to develop educational materials; another is coordinating the efforts of a high school group that wants to be involved. Still another is developing a presentation for groups like the Kiwanis or Rotary Club.

"I'm very pleased with the degree of interest and the ability of the team members," Mills said.

"We've made the right progress, and we're on schedule to do exactly what we should be doing; however, there are still challenges ahead."

The ultimate goal of the Independence Township Groundwater Leadership Team is to make a difference in the entire community, Mills said.

The Independence Township Groundwater Leadership Team welcomes new members; for more information call 258-5188.

Village holds hearing

Village residents will have the opportunity to discuss uses of Community Development Funds for the 1990-91 fiscal year at a public hearing 7:30 p.m. Monday, Dec. 11.

Persons attending the hearing have the right to provide written and oral comments and suggestions regarding possible uses of the funds.

The meeting will be conducted in the village hall, 375 Depot Road, Clarkston.

Global warming: the biggest environmental crisis of our lifetime

The Earth is heating up like never before, according to Global Relief. Today's global temperatures are the highest they've ever been, and the implications for society are enormous:

- Cities and towns could be inundated as polar ice caps melt and sea levels rise.

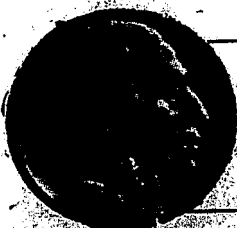

- Agricultural areas could be destroyed by heat and drought.

- Our ability to produce food and find drinking water could be reduced to a minuscule fraction of what it is today.

At the root of the problem is the "greenhouse effect": carbon dioxide, released into the atmosphere when fuels such as coal and oils are consumed, traps the sun's rays before they can bounce back into outer space, turning the Earth into a planetary hothouse.

Because they use carbon dioxide as they grow, trees could help cool the globe. But there are not enough trees in our global greenhouse to absorb all the carbon dioxide that's blanketing the earth. And many of the forests that are left are being extensively cleared worldwide, especially in the tropics.

Clearly, one way to halt global warming is to reduce energy consumption and to rely less on fossil fuels. But another important way to reduce the greenhouse effect is to plant trees — lots of trees — particularly in and around urban hot spots.

From where do our holiday customs originate?

Knowing the origins of Yuletide customs can add special meaning to the traditions and symbols we commonly use in remembering friends and relatives and decorating our homes during the holidays.

In his book "Stories of Yuletide," Ernest K. Emurian traces the origins of several traditions, including Christmas cards and the use of the word "Yule."

Christmas Cards

In 1846, J.C. Horsley, a British artist, prepared a drawing at the request of a fellow Englishman. The card that he prepared contained the greeting "Merry Christmas and Happy New Year" over a typical family scene.

The idea was well accepted. By 1860, Marcus Ward and Co., a London firm, was making the cards every year. Ten years later, these Christmas cards were introduced in America by L. Prang and Co., a Boston firm.

Yule

The word "Yule" has a long history through several languages. It may have represented the god of winter worshiped by the ancient Britons.

"Jol," "eule," "yool," "yeul," and "Iol." Spelled thus, it may symbolize a Gothic and Saxon feast that lasted 12 days during the winter months.

Some students of language believe that "Yule" is a corruption of the Greek word "joulos," which means hymn of joy, or the Latin word "jubilum," meaning a rejoicing time.

Stories about the origins of Christmas carols and the use of the Christmas tree, holly, ivy and mistletoe are found in "Christmas Traditions" (1931, MacMillan Co., New York) by William Muir Auld. Here are the stories, as presented by Auld.

Holly and ivy

These two plants were linked to ancient folk festivals in which holly represented the man and ivy the woman. During the festivals, songs were composed that dealt with "the supportive opposition of the sexes" and which sex would have the upper hand.

Ivy received higher status in Italy by association with paintings of the madonna and child. In these paintings, ivy was the symbol of the ground on which God had walked.

In northern Europe, holly with its bright red berries symbolized the burning bush, the Madonna and the blood of Christ.

Christmas Carols

The word "carol" can be traced to the Old French "caroler," the Latin "choraula" and the Greek "choraules," a flute player for chorus dancing. Ultimately, it goes as far back as "chorus," a circulating dance and the origin of Attic drama.

In France during the 12th century, "carol" stood for an "amorous song dance which hailed the coming of spring." "Carole" is found in Dante to mean a heavenly choir singing and dancing, and the word makes its way into Chaucer's English meaning "a dance."

Although the exact origins of carols are difficult to trace, Auld credits the beginning of carols to St. Francis of Assisi, who transformed the High Latin language and rituals of the church into simpler, human images for common people. With that influence, carols became a part of the symbolism and stories used to communicate the mystery and grandeur of Christmas.

Mistletoe

Because it was believed to have unlimited protective and curative powers, the sprig of mistletoe was hung over household doors during ceremonies in ancient Britain. Later, a young man could kiss a woman after presenting her with one of the good luck mistletoe berries. Without one of these berries, he was out of luck.

Xmas origins

Many people take offense at the term "Xmas," suggesting it is an attempt to take Christ out of Christmas, when actually it is merely an abbreviation of the word itself. In modern times, the letter X is a way of crossing out unwanted information — and thus the misconception.

The X in Xmas is the Greek letter Hi, the first letter of Christ's name when written in that language. It has always stood for Christ ... without any bad intentions.

This simple abbreviation dates back to about the 12th century and continues to be used to this day.

Christmas tree

The Christmas tree seems to be a post-reformation tradition, though it is certainly related to primitive tree worship. The Christian portion of the ritual comes from an ancient story that claimed that on the night Jesus was born, all the trees in the forest bore fruit.

In medieval times, cherry trees and boughs of hawthorn were cut and brought inside homes. Because the buds were formed in the late fall, these trees would blossom after being placed in water in a warm place for a few weeks. Sometimes, whole trees would be placed in pots of water to bloom.

The Christmas tree as we know it is attributed to Martin Luther. It is said that Luther decorated a tree with candles to show his children symbols of the heavens that had had sent Jesus.

Opinion of Bill Myers

Something is fishy
about health scare

William A. Myers is a retired Lapeer County editor and investments manager from Boca Raton, Fla.

Oh Bob Tripp and his spouse, Mickey, and Jennifer Birdsong and I went fishing a few weeks back on Lake Michigan. This is an annual event. Each year, we pile aboard Bill Carlson's Bertram, "Double Trouble," and go after salmon and steelhead trout and lake trout. We fish off Leland, Mich., near the Manitou islands.

(If you're up this way next summer, book a half-day with Carlson. He's a pro, has a dandy boat, and he's a pleasant fellow.)

We went out despite a scare some wildlife group stirred up this year about cancer resulting from eating fish out of Lake Michigan. We even had a call from a friend in Florida, warning us.

We don't frighten that easily. We'll continue eating fish out of the Great Lakes as we have for so many years. We will drink the well water in these parts and eat the apples and the wonderful fruit of this blessed area, and we'll go swimming and buy chickens in the market and eat butter and red meat and anything else that is put on the table.

The Tripps and the Myerses, you see, still belong to another era, before the Nervous Nellies took over. We expect there's a little risk in anything (except municipal bonds), and maybe something will get us someday. Confidentially, we expect to go on forever, but when we tell friends that, we get only indulgent smiles.

Back to this cancer scare and Lake Michigan fish. It's propaganda. The fish are tested every year, as they have been since 1968. They are pure as Ivory soap. Folks around here have been eating fish out of the lakes all their lives and look healthier than Nervous Nellie I know.

But the sort of nonsense that the professional worriers develop is harmful. It hurts people who make a living running charter boats and motels where the fishermen stay.

Some of the charter owners report their business down 50 percent since the scare stories came out in the daily papers and on the telly. You take 50 percent off the gross in any business and you take away all the profits, because fixed expenses go on whether or not there are any customers.

Anyway, we caught three Chinook salmon, two steelheads and a lake trout and we enjoyed them. We will keep on eating these delicacies and will continue to defy the worry warts.

In Vermont last summer, the mosquitoes were so bad that some hotels were offering guests a deduction from their bill of $1 for every bug bite they got. Guests found that took some of the sting out. Another remedy is to put toothpaste on the bites. Try it. (I haven't.)

Earlier this fall, we toured the back country of Arizona, where it borders New Mexico and southeastern Utah, exploring the remote and beautiful canyons of the area for two weeks. I will be the first traveler, possibly, to come back without a lot of views about the Indians on their reservations. Most of my workday world is concerned with figures, and these are offered for your own reflections:

Population (millions) 1988 update:

	Indian	Non-Indian	Total
N. Mexico	0.117	1.18	1.30
Arizona	0.162	2.53	2.70

Population growth rate for Indians in both states is 2.3 percent a year. Nationwide, the annual population growth rate for non-Indians is 1.0 percent. Arizona, especially, is growing much faster than the national average, but already that growth is flattening.

The point is, the growth rate of the Indians is 2.3 times that of the national average for all Americans. That doesn't seem like much until you compound it for, say, 70 years.

In that span, the non-Indians will double their present population. The Indians, meanwhile, have a 2.3 factor running, so the Indian population of the two states (call it 280,000 now) will soar five times to 1,375,000. That is more than the total population of all races in New Mexico now.

The Indians will be a third of the projected total population (assuming the average U.S. growth rate) of New Mexico by 2060. The percentage of Indians climbs from 1 percent now to 34 percent in 70 years.

The unemployment rate for Indians in New Mexico is now 28 percent. Apply that factor to a projected one-third of the population and it is mind-boggling. In Arizona, the Indian jobless rate is 45 percent.

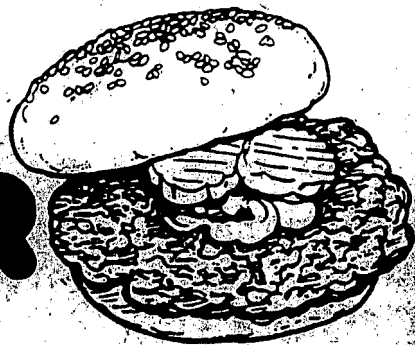

Population projections, I know very well, don't follow the neat patterns I've used. They could be worse or better. If they're neither worse nor better, they'll still be alarming.

'You can be somebody special'

Television reporter shares keys to success with students

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

At first, Sashabaw Junior High School pupils listened to John Gross because their principal told them to behave like the exemplary students they were supposed to be.

Besides, an assembly was better than being in class, they were told.

But soon, the students listened just because the WXYZ-TV sports reporter was interesting. They ended up laughing a lot and even shed a tear or two.

John was there, he said, to share what he's found from interviewing lots of successful people. He offered advice for pupils and teachers alike.

Most people had not even reached their potential but could — with a little help from others. He pointed out that sports teams win about 60 percent of their home games. The home crowd could be the difference, he said.

With a little encouragement (instead of criticism) from others, children and adults, too, could achieve greater things.

"It's your attitude that will take you to the top," he said.

John has been studying winners and superstars, he said, and he asked them all their keys to success.

It didn't matter if they were young or old, black or white, American or foreign, handicapped or able-bodied, male or female — their answers were the same.

To achieve, said John, follow these steps:

1. Set goals, and aim high.
2. Believe in yourself.
3. Work hard, and never give up.
4. Don't be afraid of failure.

As examples, John brought along two friends who he had interviewed for WXYZ-TV recently.

award-winning techniques, including breaking a board with his fist, which astounded the audience.

Then, he gave advice to students: "Winners make habits of doing things losers refuse to do," he said, adding that it was a quotation he has always remembered.

It means that winners do their homework, practice on the piano or do whatever it is that they want to be good at. If you don't do those things, you won't be a winner.

That means you have to set goals, which are things you want to get done, he said.

Examples of possible goals are: you want to get all (See JOHN, next page)

JOHN GROSS asks for responses from sixth- and seventh-graders at Sashabaw Junior High School on Nov. 30. He also talked to eighth- and ninth-graders.

WITH A HAMMER, Aaron Yates, a seventh-grader, "taps his potential." With the crowd cheering for him, Aaron improved the number of taps in 30 seconds from 24 to 33.

FIRST, television reporter John Gross loosens up his audience with a few humorous stories. Then, he slips in some advice for your Christmas shopping done by Dec. 15; or you want to get all your homework done on Friday night so you can have fun the rest of the weekend; or you want to be a doctor some day, so you have to get good grades now to get into medical school later.

They can be goals for the next hour, for the next day, for the next week or for the next year. They can even be for the next 10 years.

John Gross then introduced Christie Tapler of Detroit and her Doberman pinscher, Jody.

Born with spina bifida, Christie has no legs. She gets around by wheelchair, and now Jody helps her out.

Jody, who captivated the audience and made friends with the students immediately, obeys Christie's commands to pull Christie's wheelchair, to give money to a cashier, to pick up money from the ground and give it to Christie, to go shopping and carry the packages in her mouth — and even to urinate (outdoors so there's no accidents while they're indoors).

Christie and Jody worked for months on just small steps of the many things that Jody now can perform with ease. Christie said she had small goals for Jody and didn't move on to the next one until Jody was an "A" student in the first step.

"Jody does everything for love and attention," said

Christie, adding that Jody isn't rewarded with treats. "When she does something wrong, I ignore her."

Christie can't and doesn't physically punish Jody and instead praises her when she does things correctly.

"You could beat her silly, and she wouldn't care; but you ignore her, and that's the worst thing you could do," Christie said.

The same lessons could apply to people, said Christie. Parents, teachers and children should give positive encouragement. They should also set a goal and work as hard as possible to achieve it.

"I had no choice about what happened to me," Christie told the children, choking back tears.

"But I had the choice of how I live the rest of my life," she said. "A challenge to me is an adventure."

After all the cheers for Christie subsided, Gross told a story about a boy named Leroy, whose dad tossed the football around with him for as long as Leroy could remember.

Eventually, Leroy came to love the game — because he was good at it.

It was a different story with school, however. Leroy received bad grades and was flunked. To help, his teachers made him switch from writing with his left hand to writing with his right hand.

But it didn't work. Leroy only began to stutter — so much so that children would call up on the phone just to hear him stutter.

School work did not get much better, but Leroy did excel on the football field. When he was a senior, coaches from all sorts of colleges and universities wanted him to play for their teams. But his grades weren't good enough to get into the schools.

Instead, he went to a community college, where he was required to take a speech class.

After his first speech, during which he stuttered, shook and felt extremely nervous, he was prepared to flunk yet another class.

But to his surprise, the teacher gave him an "A—" and said he had a good voice.

With that positive encouragement, he eventually came to like the public speaking course and even came to be comfortable in it.

Gross said he could show the students a picture of Leroy today.

"A football player?" he asked the students before he took it from its black plastic bag. "A teacher? ... A drug dealer?"

Then Gross pulled out a picture frame and framed his own head.

"John is my middle name; Leroy is my first name," he told the class.

"You can make it to the top," he said during the applause. "You can be somebody special."

The Clarkston (Mich.) News Wed., Dec. 6, 1989 3 B

Despite continued losses in manufacturing, Michigan's "near-term outlook is for a stronger economy over the next two years," according to a University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, forecast.

Michigan will continue to gain jobs, especially in service and retail trade industries, through 1991, more than compensating for declines in manufacturing employment. As a result, the unemployment rate, which is currently around eight percent, will average 7.8 percent in 1990 and 1991.

The 1990 Michigan forecast, prepared by economic researchers Joan P. Cray, George A. Fulton and Professor Saul H. Hymans, was presented Friday, Nov. 17, at the U of M's 37th annual Conference on the Economic Outlook.

The strength of Michigan's non-manufacturing sector, especially in service industries, has resulted in substantial changes in the structure of the state's economy during the current recovery, according to Cray, Fulton and Hymans.

"Over the past four years, the service industry has accounted for approximately one out of every two jobs created in the state, and by 1991, according to our current forecast, it will have more jobs than the entire manufacturing sector," according to the U of M economists.

In Michigan, growth in business and professional services "has been especially robust, growing at an annual rate of 10.3 percent" since 1982, outpacing the national growth rate of 8.1 percent. Business and professional services include data processing, legal, engineering and architectural services.

Meanwhile, Michigan's share of workers in lower-paid personal services has declined relative to national averages.

Although Michigan service workers typically earn more than the national average for similar positions, the wage differentials have narrowed considerably in the 1980s, according to Cray, Fulton and Hymans.

According to the U-M forecast, growth in wage and salary employment in Michigan will slow to 1.3 percent in 1990, down from 1.8 percent in 1989, before rebounding to 1.9 percent in 1991. Manufacturing employment will decline, "but at a modest pace — down 0.7 percent in 1990 and only 0.1 percent in 1991," according to the U of M economists.

Meanwhile, job growth in the non-manufacturing sector will weaken from 2.8 percent in 1989 to 2 percent in 1990 before recovering to 2.9 percent in 1991. Government employment will increase significantly in 1990, reflecting substantial temporary employment for federal census activity.

Personal income in Michigan is forecast to grow by six percent in 1990 and 6.5 percent in 1991, following an increase of 6.5 percent for 1989. Local inflation, measured by the Detroit Consumer Price Index, will decline from 5 percent in 1989 to 3.5 percent in 1990 and then rise to 4.3 percent in 1991.

As a result of higher incomes and a modest inflation rate, increases in real disposable income in the state, which are expected to equal 1.3 percent in 1989, will climb to 2.7 percent in 1990 and 2.4 percent in 1991.

The growth expected in the state's economy will result in increases in tax revenues totaling 3.8 percent in fiscal 1990 and 6.5 percent in fiscal 1991, following an increase of 5.9 percent in fiscal 1989.

Income tax revenues will increase by 3.7 percent in fiscal 1990 and by 6.8 percent in 1991, following an increase of 5.8 percent in fiscal 1989. The U of M economists note that that weaker growth in income tax revenues in 1990 reflects the slower growth in personal income forecast for that year.

Business tax revenues are predicted to rise by 3.5 percent for fiscal 1990 and by 7.6 percent for fiscal 1991, after a 4.3 percent increase for fiscal 1989. Consumption taxes revenues also will rise, reflecting the state's economic growth, according to the U of M forecast.

She's just Precious

Wouldn't it be grand to have Precious at your home for the holidays?

Precious, 1, weighs about 27 pounds. A Chihuahua and corgi mix, she is housebroken and good with children and other animals and has a wonderful playful personality.

The $70 adoption fee includes spaying.

Precious can be adopted at the Michigan Humane Society, 3600 Auburn Rd., Auburn Heights, 852-7420. Hours at the non-profit shelter are 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

PORTABLE

When not in use, the adaptable Port-A-Horse neatly folds to less than the size of a four foot piece of a 2" x 4". With the aid of its convenient handle, this sawhorse can be easily transported from job to job and simply stored on a shelf or hung on a wall. It does not take up valuable work or storage space and it does not clutter a workshop or truck.

OFFICIAL NOTICE Charter Township Springfield

SECOND READING

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE TOWNSHIP BOARD OF THE CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF SPRINGFIELD will hold a SECOND READING at their regular meeting on Wednesday, December 13, 1989, beginning at 7:30 p.m. at the Springfield Township Hall, 650 Broadway, Davisburg, Michigan. The 2ND READING will cover the following changes to Ordinance No. 56, Cable Communications Regulatory Ordinance.

SECTION 1.00

The following new subsection will be added as a new Article VI Section 3 (6)(d).

"The requirements found in subsection (a) and (b) may be waived or modified by the Township Board, upon written application from Grantee indicating good cause why such subsection should be modified or waived."

SECTION 2.00

The balance of Ordinance No. 56 shall remain in full force and effect as specifically modified herein.

SECTION 3.00

This Ordinance Amendment shall be in full force and effect thirty (30) days after publication.

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that zoning ordinance texts may be examined at the Springfield Township Clerk's Office, 650 Broadway, Davisburg, Michigan, during regular office hours Monday through Friday until the date of the 2ND READING.

J. Calvin Walters, Clerk
Charter Township of Springfield

Attention parents:

Does your son or daughter play on a sports team? If so, ask their coaches to call The Clarkston News each Monday before noon, so we can include your team's results on our Scoreboard page.

OFFICIAL NOTICE

SYNOPSIS OF ACTION TAKEN BY THE TOWNSHIP BOARD OF THE Charter Township of Independence November 21, 1989

The meeting was called to order at 7:32 p.m. by Supervisor Ronk.

Roll Call: Present: Lutz, McCrary, Millard, Ronk, Travis, Vaara.

Absent: Vandemark.

1. Approval of agenda with the deletion of Traffic Code Amendment and the addition of Closed Session.

2. Approval of motion approving the payment of bills in the amount of $671,735.66.

3. Approval of motion authorizing the issuance of purchase orders in the amount of $45,972.29.

4. No one spoke under the Public Forum portion of the agenda.

5. The Township Board conducted a public hearing to receive public input regarding the Township's proposed 1990 budget.

6. Approval of motion to approve the Township's 1990 budget.

7. Approval of motion to authorize a first reading of a rezoning of parcel 08 26 200 243 located at Waldon and Pine Knob Road from R1R (Rural Residential) to R1A (Single Family Residential).

8. Approval of motion to sell the three vacant properties owned by the Fire Department.

9. Approval of motion to award the bid for the Novelle Network software for the Fire Department to the low bidder, Data Facility, Inc., at a cost of $12,831.

10. Approval of motion authorizing the Director of Public Works to seek bids for the lease of ten vehicles for the Township.

11. Approval of motion authorizing the Township Supervisor to sell the vehicles currently owned by the Township, at his discretion.

12. The Board discussed changing the voting procedures currently used by the Township to a punch card system, with a view of having the system in place in time for the June, 1990, school election.

13. Approval of motion authorizing the Township attorney to draft a resolution to initiate a $1,000 per unit water connection capital charge for developments that do not supply their own source of water or contribute to the Township's water transmission system.

14. Approval of motion to close the regular meeting to discuss AFSCME contract negotiations, the time being 8:55 p.m.

15. Approval of motion to reopen the regular meeting at 9:25 p.m.

16. Approval of motion to adjourn, the time was 9:26 p.m.

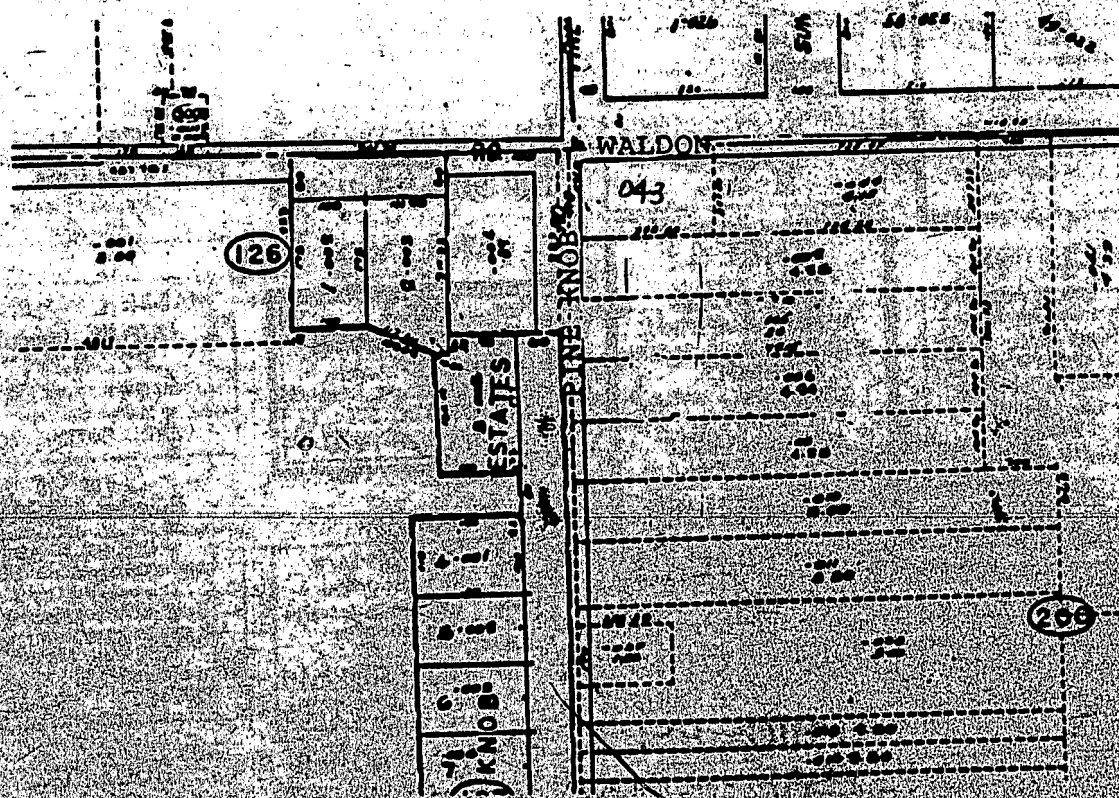

Respectfully Submitted,
Joan E. McCrary
Township Clerk

OFFICIAL NOTICE

Charter Township of Independence NOTICE OF PROPOSED ORDINANCE AMENDMENT

At a regular meeting held on November 21, 1989, the Township Board of the Charter Township of Independence proposed an amendment to the Townships Zoning Ordinance, as follows:

To rezone from R1R (Rural Residential) to R1A (Single Family Residential) a parcel located at the corner of Waldon and Pine Knob Roads and described as 08 26 200 043.

The proposed zoning amendment will be voted upon on December 19, 1989, at 7:30 p.m. at the Independence Township Hall Annex. A complete copy of the rezoning plans is available in the Clerk's Office, 90 North Main Street, Clarkston, Michigan, Monday through Friday from 9:00 a.m. through 5:00 p.m.

Respectfully Submitted,
Joan E. McCrary
Township Clerk

Make holiday eggnog 'eggstra' safe

Eggnog and other holiday recipes that call for raw eggs are a potential source of salmonella food poisoning, according to Sylvia Treitman of the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service.

To update your holiday recipes this year that call for raw egg or lightly cooked eggs, you may wish to substitute a pasteurized egg product such as Egg Beaters or other egg substitute.

This is an especially good idea for safety as well as lowering cholesterol intake. The commercial pasteurization process destroys salmonella bacteria but does not cook the egg or affect its color, flavor or texture or nutritional value. That's why commercially prepared eggnog is safe to use if refrigerated.

A safe homemade eggnog can be made by following a new recipe, which uses fresh raw eggs but brings them up to a temperature of 160 degrees with quick cooling in tray of ice water. Remember, raw egg whites are also not recommended for consumption — they're no safer than the yolk.

Some other tips for safe handling of commercially pasteurized egg products include:

- Make sure pasteurized egg products are in tightly sealed containers. Frozen products should be solidly frozen.

- Refrigerate liquid egg products before and after opening.

- Keep frozen egg products frozen until used. Thaw closed in refrigerator or under cold water.

- Do not put any of unused product back into original container; instead refrigerate separately.

For a copy of a safe homemade eggnog, send a self-addressed stamped envelope to Cooperative Extension Service, 1200 N. Telegraph, Pontiac, MI 48053.

For holiday help, tips and other food and nutrition questions, call the food hotline at 858-0904.

Physical overexertion is one of the most serious side effects of a winter storm.

Overexertion can strike anyone, even the young and healthy. Elderly people and those with heart conditions are especially vulnerable.

Oakland County EMS/Emergency Management offers several hints to help residents stay warm and dry this winter.

- * Protect your lungs from extremely cold air by covering your mouth with a scarf or bandanna.
- * Take a Thermos of warm beverage with you when outside for an extended period of time.
- * Wear several layers of loose-fitting clothing to trap body heat while permitting air to circulate.
- * Remove layers of clothing to avoid perspiration and subsequent chill.
- * Wear tightly woven and waterproof clothing as outer garments.
- * Wear mittens snug at the wrist rather than fingered gloves.
- * Wear a wool cap to keep your body heat from escaping.

HIGH WINDS bring down a mature tree on Parke Lake in the Village of Clarkston Nov. 21. The storm raged through Oakland County, with 49 mph-winds knocking down power lines in some parts. (Photo by Sandra G. Conlen)

Brothers share stage in 'A Christmas Carol'

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

If you ask, Chad Holmes, 10, will speak with an English accent, and Bryan Holmes, 8, will show you his "sad face" or his "happy face."

But you don't have to visit their Clement Road, Springfield Township, home to see their talents. For the second year, the boys appear in Meadow Brook Theatre's "A Christmas Carol" through Dec. 31 in Rochester.

Bryan, a second-grader at Oakland Christian School, portrays Tiny Tim — the role Chad played last year. This year, Chad plays Matthew Cratchit, as well as other characters.

Tiny Tim is "a person who has a lame leg, can't walk very good and has to ride on somebody's shoulder because if he walks too far, his leg will really hurt," says Bryan.

"He has lots of guts," he adds.

While he likes all the attention that accompanies his role, Bryan was on stage more time last year in lots of smaller parts, he says. This year, he sits out nearly an entire act — during which he usually catches up on homework.

Chad did not appear much on stage last year but is seen a lot this year in different costumes with a lot of singing, dancing and speaking.

Chad, an Oakland Christian School fourth-grader who keeps his homework neatly organized in a clearly labeled binder, enjoys the world of theater.

"I like being different people, and I like to work with other actors," he says. "And I find it fun to be another person."

The brothers miss a lot of school to meet the demanding schedule that accompanies 46 performances, but their mother, Nancy, picks up their homework for them, and they work on it during breaks.

Their father, Dana, enjoys watching the performances of his children, but he admits it mixes up their holiday schedules.

"I don't think we would really enjoy a 12-month steady diet of this," he says.

Most of the burden falls on Nancy, who also spent time on the stage as a child and through adulthood. But she doesn't seem to mind the trouble.

"I thought I'd give them the opportunity to find out if they enjoy it," she says. "They do."

"I think they're gifted in the area; we've had good comments from the director of the play," she says, adding that both are quick to learn lines and have strong memorization skills.

BROTHERS' Chad (left) and Bryan Holmes also play the piano and sing; plus, they like sports, woodworking, swimming, biking and working with the computer.

BRYAN HOLMES appears as Tiny Tim with Paul Hopper as Bob Cratchit in Meadow Brook Theatre's "A Christmas Carol." Bryan, who was only nervous for the first few times on stage, he says, advises other nervous actors to "pretend the people out in the audience are trees. Pretend they aren't there." The show runs through Dec. 31.

CHS sophomore captures HOBY leadership award

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

When classifying high school sophomores, 15-year-old Wendy McFalda could serve as a model.

Along with recently winning Clarkston High School's nomination for Hugh O'Brian Youth Foundation (HOBY) Leadership award, Wendy has a clear view of her future.

"I want to be a doctor," she answers, without hesitation. "A cardiologist."

When pressed further, she explains "I've always liked the heart. In school I saw a deer heart once and found it interesting."

Along with visualizing her future, Wendy, of Fireside Court, Independence Township, is doing well in providing for it.

A 4.0 student, Wendy competed against 15 other sophomores for the coveted HOBY award, which qualifies her to compete against other sophomores on the state level.

On an application for the award, Wendy listed honors including the Presidential Academic Fitness Award and the annual Principal's Award. Her leadership activities include work as president of the sophomore class, the Blue and Gold Club, Just Say No and Student Council.

Wendy is also an accomplished flutist, stemming from many years of private lessons and her current position in the marching band and solo ensemble.

And when she is not in school, in meetings or playing the flute, Wendy works at Baskin Robbins part-time, enjoying her favorite ice-cream Winter White Chocolate.

"It's ice cream with chocolate covered cherries; we only have it in the winter," she added.

The HOBY award is the nation's only program exclusively for high school sophomores. Sophomores apply by filling out an application and are chosen by school representatives.

Winners attend state seminars and if chosen, compete in an international seminar.

HOBY's purpose is to bring together a select group of high school sophomores with groups of distinguished leaders in business, government, education and other professions to discuss present and future issues.

Wendy admits she was surprised in more ways than one when she was called to the attendance office to receive the award.

"I thought it was an interview, and then I heard I won."

WENDY MCFALDA was named this year's CHS winner of the Hugh O'Brian Youth Foundation award.

Clarkston Dance Club survives over 50-year span

BY JERRY WILFORD

The Wednesday Night Dance Club celebrated its 50th anniversary Friday, Nov. 12, at the Orchard Lake Country Club. Attending were 112 present and former members and guests.

Following dinner, a brief history of the club noted its 1939 beginning from dessert and coffee for 11 couples at Dorothy and Howard Huttenlochers', prior to an American Legion Armistice Day dance.

The dozen couples had such a good time they decided to form a club, each to bring an additional couple to the first dance. Dances were first held in the Opera House ning.

Former members who attended included Keith and Betty Hallman from Florida and Jerry and Sue Cattin from Harbor Springs.

It was noted that times were different when the club was organized: No air conditioners, automatic dishwashers, photocopies or contact lenses. A nickel bought an ice cream cone from Sanders, a phone call or mailed a letter and two postcards.

Gasoline was 11 cents a gallon, but it cost $600 to buy a new Chevrolet, not easily come by for most people. The social order was different, too. Couples married and then lived together.

blond-bewigged Henry swayed and bumped while gradually stripping down a sleazy blue gown to reveal flashing red lights on an over-sized brassiere and pink, skin-tight long underwear.

thrived through change, from square dancing to today's loud, heavy beat. And with a lightly structured organization. Each year's officers are "victims" of surprise appointments, announced at the first meeting in the fall by their predecessors.

Jerry Wilford is a Main Street, Clarkston, resident.

The social order was different, too. Couples married and then lived together.

From the beginning, the club has thrived through change, from square dancing to today's loud, heavy beat.

above O'Dell's Drug Store, now Hallman's and since converted into apartments.

Wednesday nights were selected because late retail hours on Saturday kept some members working in their stores. Fridays were out because "Doc" Thayer and Bob Waters coached high school teams. However, local stores closed at noon on Wednesdays, freeing that evening for get togethers.

Early dances were followed by a meal at a local restaurant. However, pre-dance parties resulted in members arriving later and later. Pot luck suppers were instituted to ensure on-time meetings.

As the club grew, now to 50 couples, it moved to larger quarters. First it was to the Community Building, now the township offices, and then to local church social centers.

Of the 48 original members, 11 are still living. Present for the anniversary celebration were Virginia Walter, whose late husband, Ronald, was first president, and Helen Woolfenden, who made the Orchard Lake club available for the eveditioners, automatic dishwashers, photocopies or contact lenses. A nickel bought an ice cream cone from Sanders, a phone call or mailed a letter and two postcards.

Gasoline was 11 cents a gallon, but it cost $600 to buy a new Chevrolet, not easily come by for most people. The social order was different, too. Couples married and then lived together.

Among the recollections was one of Helen Woolfenden's late husband Henry participating in an evening's entertainment. To "A Pretty Girl Is Like a Melody,"

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

FALLING FOR FRILLS

QUESTION: My wife fell in love with a built-in microwave oven and insists we buy a house that is overpriced and out of our financial range. Any advice?

ANSWER: This is one of the typical mistakes a house-hunter can make - buying the frill instead of the house. All too often a family will fall in love with any eye-catching feature and buy the wrong house. Yielding to superficial attractions like these can result in your family ending up with a thoroughly unsuitable house. Bear in mind that the same alluring feature can usually be added to another house at relatively small cost considering the amount of the overall purchase.

MAKE SURE YOU BUY THE HOUSE and not the frill. You may end up with the right frill and wrong house.

Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Falls of Deerwood Road, Independence Township, announce the engagement of their daughter, Leslie Ann, to John Salgado Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Salgado Sr. of Dearborn, formerly of Troy. Leslie is an interior designer at Hillside Furniture, Bloomfield Hills. She is a 1978 Southfield Christian graduate and a 1983 Michigan State University, East Lansing, graduate. Her fiancé is an electrical engineer for EDS, Troy. He is a 1977 Troy Athens graduate and a 1982 University of Detroit graduate. A May 1990 wedding is planned.

Grads

Amy Beattie of Shelley Drive, Independence Township, is to graduate from the University of Michigan-Flint on Dec. 21 with a bachelor's degree in education.

She and her husband, Tom, have had tight schedules through her studies. Amy finished her education while working plus caring for her young son, Thomas, a dog named Jake (a Sheltie) and a dog named Murphy (a six-week-old golden retriever).

In the meantime, Tom attended graduate school at night.

In addition, Amy was recently inducted into the Kappa Delta Pi Society, an international honor society in education.

Nine Clarkston and Davisburg area residents are among the 1,964 degree candidates for the fall term at Michigan State University, East Lansing.

Corey M. Greenfield from of Robertson Court, Clarkston, is to receive a bachelor of arts degree in social science.

From Independence Township are: Amy F. DeLong, of Caribou Trail, bachelor of arts degree in journalism; Suzanne K. Greer of Allen Road, bachelor of arts degree in advertising; Mary Beth McElmeel of Rustic Trail, bachelor of arts in social science; Sonja M. Ritter of Amy Drive, bachelor of arts degree in communications; and Theresa G. Stetz of Oakhill Road, bachelor of science in merchandising management.

Also from Independence Township are: Amy L. Spaven of Meyers, bachelor of arts degree in hotel and restaurant management; Eric G. Schulte, bachelor of science degree in packaging; and Mark R. Rottenberk of Wellesley Terrace, Waterford, bachelor of science in social science.

From Sherwood Drive, Springfield Township is John Thomas Hill, who is to receive a master of labor and industrial relations degree.

Ellen H. Leonard of Ashwood Way, Springfield Township, is to graduate with honors from the University of Michigan-Flint Dec. 21 with a bachelor's degree in health care administration. She resides on Ashwood Way, Springfield Township, with her husband, Samuel A., and their children: Samantha, a 10th-grader at Clarkston High School; and Joel, an eighth-grader at Clarkston Junior High School.

New arrivals

It's a boy for John Anderson and Diane Iannelli of Coloma.

Gleann Michael was born Oct. 17. He weighed 4 pounds, 12 ounces.

Grandparents, formerly of Clarkston, are: Olga Anderson of Naples, Fla., and Gerald Anderson of Bloomfield Hills.

John and Trish Hennig of Dixie Highway, Independence Township, welcomed their first child home recently.

Kassandra Mary Henuig was born Nov. 5 at Flint Osteopathic Hospital. She weighed 8 pounds, 1 ounce, and measured 21 inches long.

Grandparents are Ted and Mary Hennig of Allen Road, Independence Township, and Gordon and Barbara Hacker of Ewen.

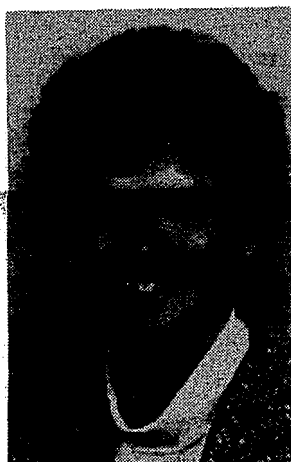

Great-grandparents are Helen Bliss of Parview Drive, Independence Township, and Mildred Hacker of Essexville.

Ken and Karen Koviak of Mohawk, Independence Township, are the proud parents of a new baby boy.

Scott Kenneth was born Nov. 11 at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac. He weighed 7 pounds, 10 3/4 ounces, and measured 20 1/2 inches long.

Grandparents are Gladys Koviak of Troy and Dr. and Mrs. Donald Muench of Warren.

Honors

Susan Marie Beutel, granddaughter of William and Emma Beutel of Clarkston, recently passed the bar examination. A Troy resident, Susan graduated from the Detroit College of Law and Oakland University, Rochester. She was assistant head nurse at Beaumont Hospital, Royal Oak, and received her nurses training at Harper Hospital, Detroit.

Brigitte D. Brown and Kevin E. Lundquist were among the 1,173 students at Ferris State University, Big Rapids, who were named to the academic honors list for the fall quarter.

Boss gets dark surprise

Mike Bogel, manager for Clarkston Big/Boy, received a surprise 40th birthday party Nov. 15 at the restaurant on Dixie Highway, Independence Township.

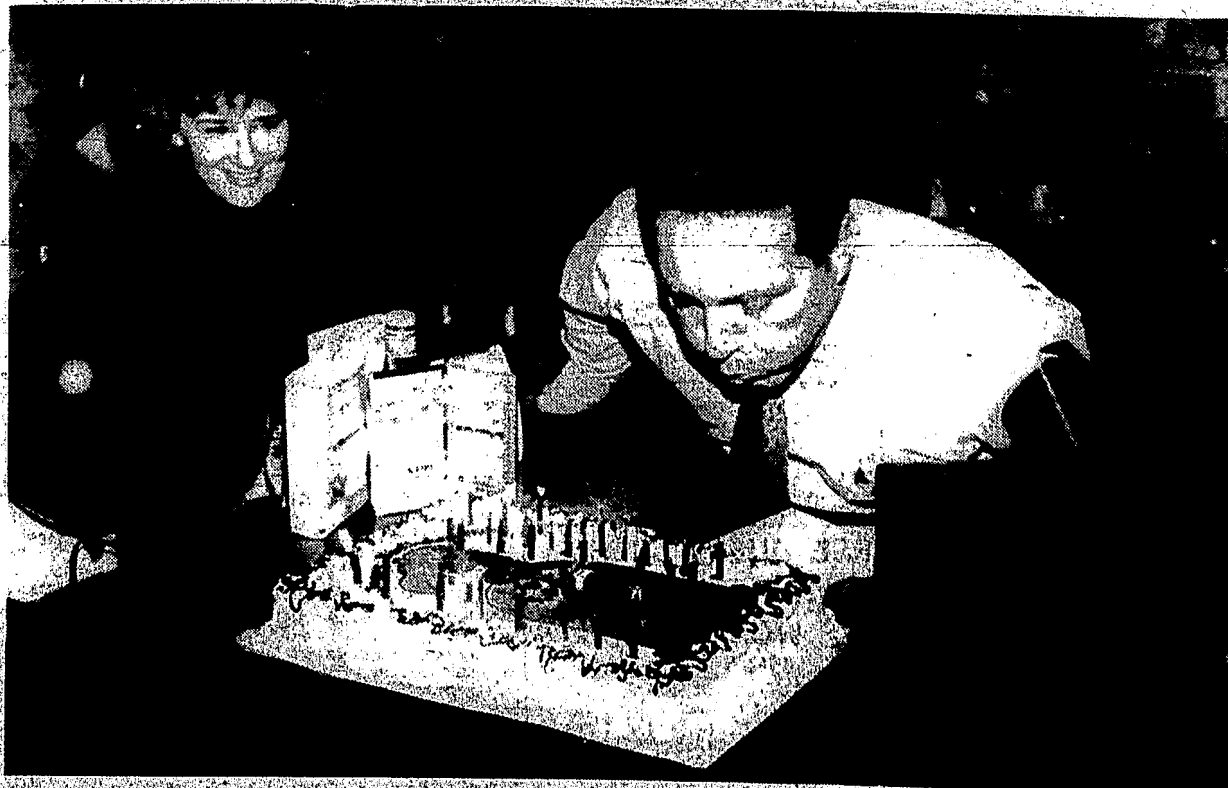

"I didn't know it was my birthday until I walked in here," said Bogel.

About 60 employees, friends and family gathered for the celebration. Black balloons and black ribbons were displayed throughout the restaurant, and Bogel's cake was decorated with a tombstone and a vulture.

A fake funeral procession started the celebration, as mourners, employees and friends carried dead flowers and a casket.

After the initial surprise, Bogel said, "I don't feel a day over 39."

Winter fly tying prepares fishermen for spring

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston New Staff Writer

The number of days for Christmas shopping is growing shorter, and if you haven't found that special gift for the fisherman in your life, try giving the gift of fly tying.

Galen Dawson teaches fly tying at Country Value Hardware and Home Center at 7164 M-15, Independence Township. And for $5 a lesson that special fisherman can take his own hand-tied flies with him when the ice in the lakes and rivers begin to melt next spring.

"This is an art; if the flies are done like they should be done, it's much like an oil painting."

Galen Dawson

The Waterford Township resident learned the art of fly tying a number of years ago from George Hovis of Pontiac.

"Hovis was one of the finest fly tier's from that period," Dawson said. "I was about 26 when he taught me."

Dawson owned his own business for 31 years; Dawson's Hardware was located on the corner of Sashabaw and Walton in Waterford Township.

And after a couple of years in business, he made the decision to try teaching fly tying to offset the slow season in the hardware business, which is January and February. His idea paid off.

"I've taught over 1,000 men, women and young boys since I started," said Dawson. "And it kept me from being in the red during the slow season."

Although Dawson credits Hovis with learning how to put together the furry looking little hooks, he said it took him about four years of frustration before he began to perfect his method of fly tying.

Learning how to tie the hackle—feathers used in fly tying—with a good half hitch knot made the difference in Dawson's fishing, he said.

But learning how to tie flies 38 years ago was not as easy as it is today, Dawson said.

"It was in its infancy. You couldn't go into a store and buy (materials) like you can now," he said, adding that Country Value Hardware carries all the supplies needed.

More than 30 years ago, a fly tier could order from only about two or three companies. Sewing materials such as wool and crocheting threads were also used. Others used local barnyards.

"You'd drive out to the country and buy a rooster," he said.

The rooster supplies two types of feathers for the flies: the hackle, the long shining feathers on a cock's neck, and the saddle, located on the hip section.

Hackle feathers are used primarily in dry flies that will stay on top of the water, and the saddle feathers are used for streamers and wet flies, which are used under the water.

The handmade flies represent different mayflies, a type of insect, called the hatch. When the mayflies are ready to hatch, they come off the bottom of the rivers and

During cold weather, don't forget pets

Long-range weather forecasts call for a cold and snowy winter. Pets can be comfortable and happy during the cold months—if their owners observe a few cold weather rules.

An indoor pet needs only a few extra precautions against the cold. His outdoor trips should be of a shorter duration, of course.

For extended stays outdoors such as a walk, a coat or sweater may be in order—especially for a short-haired breed. Be sure to wipe his feet thoroughly, as rock salt can cause paw irritation.

Outdoor pets are really the ones most affected by the cold. While The Michigan Humane Society discourages the keeping of animals outdoors, we are aware that many of them are outdoor pets. Here are some common sense tips on care for the outdoor pet.

■ Be sure that the pet dog house is in good repair. No leaks or gaps.

■ Have the house elevated four to six inches off the ground to allow the flooring to dry.

■ Have the doorway facing the southeast, away from prevailing winds.

■ Have a flap over the door to keep out drafts.

■ Use clean straw as an insulating material, and change it frequently.

Now for the dog himself. As with humans, animals expend more calories keeping themselves warm in cold weather. Therefore, increase the animal's food intake by 15 to 20 percent during cold weather.

Food and water dishes should be checked frequently and replaced if frozen. When the temperature or wind chill factor is 0 degrees or below, consider bringing the pet inside for the night. Never bring him into a real warm area, though, because his heavy coat will make him uncomfortable.

Winter time can be a fun time for pets and people as long as you and your pet are prepared.

ESTIMATES

James R. Filak, C.P.A.

Tax Estimates

Tax estimates are quarterly payments of the total tax you expect to owe for the year. These payments are due April 15, September 15, and the following January 15. Tax estimates are generally required if you expect to owe at least $500 when you file your return.

Most individuals pay their taxes via wage withholdings. Because they generally have the flexibility to adjust the amount withheld during the year, these people do not usually need to concern themselves with tax estimates.

Estimated payments primarily apply to you if you have significant income from sources not subject to withholding; i.e., interest, dividends, capital gains, pensions and annuities, self-employment earnings, prizes and awards, unemployment compensation, and some Social Security benefits. Self-employed individuals must consider the self-employment tax as well as the income tax when calculating their estimate payments.

Ignorance is not bliss if you fail to make required estimate payments. The IRS will assess both penalties and interest on delinquent or insufficient estimate payments. These calculations are done separately for each quarter. Thus, overpaying for one quarter will not avoid the penalty for underpaying a previous quarter.

There are two ways to avoid the penalty on underpayment of tax. You can either pay in (through withholdings and/or estimates) 90% of your income tax liability.

Recent retirees who have had withholding throughout their lives are usually not aware of the estimate requirements. If you are recently retired or receive significant income which is not subject to withholding, contact our office to determine if estimates are necessary.

lakes, said Dawson.

"We have 550 types of mayflies in Michigan," he said. "They hatch between April and September, and the biggest hatch is in June."

The wise fisherman has to guess at which stage the hatch is because the hatch determines the kind of fly the fisherman uses.

About 80-85 percent of the fish get food from the nymph stage, which requires a wet fly, but the majority of fish are caught with the dry flies, Dawson said.

A wet fly used as a nymph is made from materials such as the saddle feathers of the rooster, muskrat, rabbit, mink and beaver.

The fur of these animals is glossy and glistens under the water, Dawson said. The mallard duck is another important source for fly tying.

Streamers, another type of fly, imitate minnows. To make streamers, Dawson said, a manufactured material is used. Mylar cording is fluorescent in color and glistens like the body of a minnow.

Dawson even teaches his students to make spawn bags or eggs, using a material called Glo Yarn to produce something that resembles fish eggs.

"This is an art; if the flies are done like they should be done, it's much like an oil painting," he said. "Detail pays off in this."

The detail helps the fisherman catch his limit when there isn't much of a hatch, he said.

"This is what divides the men from the boys — 10 percent of the fly fishermen catch 80 percent of the trout," he said.

Dawson is confident that an individual will become a good fisherman if he realizes that fishing and learning to tie a fly go together.

"You can learn more if you diligently tie flies for one winter than you can learn on the stream for five years," Dawson said.

THE ART of fly tying is like fine oil painting, says Galen Dawson, who teaches anglers how to tie flies at the Country Value Hardware on M-15 in Independence Township.

GALEN DAWSON displays one of his hand-tied flies on the end of his thumb.

And what better represents the sweet side of Christmas than the decorative gingerbread men, who have become a long-standing part of Christmas tradition.

Somehow a ginger-flavored dessert always manages to find its way onto holiday tables everywhere. Whether it is ginger cookies, cakes, snaps, or gingerbread, they are always a part of the holiday lore.

According to The Dictionary of American Foods & Drink (Ticknor & Fields) by John Mariani, ginger is the native plant of tropical and subtropical regions of Asia, especially Indomalaysia.

The ginger root was used frequently by the ancient Romans but nearly disappeared and was considered practically extinct in Europe after the fall of the Roman Empire.

It was later brought back into vogue (as a rare and expensive spice) by famed explorer Marco Polo, who retrieved the pungent spice from the Orient.

The gingerbread man has a rather unique history of its own, as its origins have been traced back to Queen Elizabeth I of England, who was responsible for inventing "a cookie in the shape of a man," which became especially popular at Christmastime.

There is an equally interesting history surrounding the actual making of gingerbread.

Artists sculpted detailed molds depicting everyday scenes from the lifestyles of the rich, for whom the gingerbreads were made in the 16th century.

The 17th century added gingerbread etchings of the wealthy bourgeois, whom along with the rich, were the only patrons who could afford the costly gingerbread designs.

Finally, during the 18th century, gingerbread was made inexpensively enough to be offered at carnivals and fairs, extending the delights of gingerbread even to the most common of folk.

Nowadays, gingerbread is considered deeply enmeshed in the history of traditional American cooking.

And with Christmas fast approaching, gingerbread men not only make for a unique dessert idea but also make the most lovely ornaments for your Christmas tree.

No matter which type of ginger dessert you choose, it is sure to please both family and guest alike.

This recipe for gingerbread cookies, supplied from the recipes from the Raleigh Tavern Bake Shop, published by The Colonial Williamsburg Foundation, can easily be transformed to gingerbread men with the aid of a good mold.

GINGERBREAD COOKIES

1 cup sugar
2 teaspoons ginger
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 teaspoons baking soda
1 cup margarine, melted
1/2 cup evaporated milk

1 cup unsulfured molasses
3/4 teaspoon vanilla extract (optional)
3/4 teaspoon lemon extract (optional)
4 cups stone-ground or unbleached flour, unsifted
Combine the sugar, ginger, nutmeg, cinnamon, salt and baking soda. Mix well. Add the melted margarine, evaporated milk and molasses.
Add the extracts if desired.
Mix well.
Add the flour 1 cup at a time, stirring constantly.
The dough should be stiff enough to handle without sticking to fingers.
Knead the dough for a smoother texture. Add up to 1/2 cup additional flour if necessary to prevent sticking.
When the dough is smooth, roll it out 1/4 inch thick on a floured surface, and cut it into cookies.
Bake on a floured surface or greased cookie sheets in a preheated 375-degree oven for 10 to 12 minutes.
The cookies are done if they spring back when touched.

Recycling source now available

Knowing where to go with household recyclables has been made one step easier for Michigan residents, according to the Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

In response to a growing number of requests about the location of various residential recycling centers in the state, the "Michigan Recycling Directory" has been developed by the DNR.

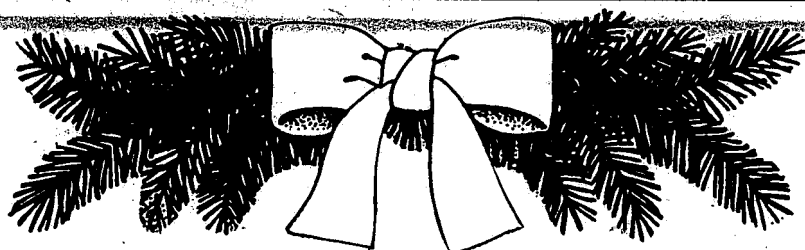

The directory contains information on more than 200 drop-off sites for recyclable materials, as well as a listing of the 25-plus communities currently participating in curbside recycling programs.

The directory includes the county location of the center or program, the operator's name, telephone number and drop-off site address, days and hours of drop-off collection and what materials are accepted.

In an effort to make directory information as available and accessible as possible, single copies of the directory have already been sent to all DNR district offices, cooperative extension agencies, certified health departments, county solid waste planning agencies and state legislators.

Single copies of the directory will be provided at no charge by writing DNR's Waste Management Division, P.O. Box 30241, Lansing, 48909, or by calling (517)-373-0540.

Additional copies are available for $5 each pre-paid (make checks payable to the State of Michigan) from DNR's Information Services Center, P.O. Box 30028, Lansing, 48909; 517-373-1220.

How to help your children succeed in school

Principal Duane Lewis of Clarkston Junior High School offered the following information in a newsletter to parents who want to help their child succeed:

No one wants a child to suffer failure in his or her schoolwork, least of all teachers and parents. Yet children do fail.

Indeed, many begin a pattern of failure in the elementary grades that continues throughout their lives. Unfortunately, such children often expect failure both in school and out of it.

And often the community does not like the results—especially when the child begins to take out his or her frustrations in socially unacceptable ways, such as delinquency, vandalism or escape through the use of drugs or alcohol.

Undoubtedly, there are as many reasons for failure in school as there are children who fail. Yet over the years, teachers have discerned some definite patterns.

Irregular attendance at school; poor health, physical defects, a lack of a foundation for learning, low ability and unwillingness to focus energy on schoolwork increase a student's likelihood of failure.

Teachers and other school personnel are committed to helping every child succeed. They have an obligation to work with each child to the fullest extent of their time and resources.

If one approach does not reach a child, teachers must figure out another approach—and keep trying. Yet parents hold the key to the success of the child, while he or she is in school. Here are seven positive actions that parents can take to help their child succeed.

* First, make certain that your child attends school every day he or she is physically able to do so. Remember, nothing successful can happen for a child unless he or she is in school.

* Second, arrange for your child to have a regular physical examination. This is the only way to be certain that there are no physical reasons he or she can't do the best possible work at all times.

* Third, set realistic goals for your child. Parents should understand and be aware of their child's abilities and what he or she is capable of accomplishing. Expecting the impossible is a sure way to help children experience failure.

* Fourth, parents should show an interest in the work that the child is doing. When the parent is interested, the child is most likely to be as well. After all, parents are the most important people in the world to a child.

* Fifth, set aside a quiet place for your child to study. Then provide a time each day when your child can study without interruption. Remember, work is a prerequisite to school success.

* Sixth, communicate with the teacher. You can provide insights that will help the teacher assess what your child is capable of accomplishing and the extent to which your child is achieving his or her potential. Cooperation between parent and teacher is a big plus for the student.

* Seventh, help your child to develop a healthy attitude toward error. Everyone makes mistakes and everyone suffers disappointment. Children need to learn early that mistakes and disappointments are not only a part of living, but that they can be overcome. And we need to remind children of two facts. First, much of our learning is the result of our mistakes. Second, almost everyone gets another chance.

Beware of charging "dead" batteries during cold winter weather.

Oakland County EMS/Emergency Management personnel warn car owners to be cautious trying to charge or jump start frozen batteries. Attempting to charge a frozen battery can cause an explosion.

Car batteries can freeze at temperatures below 15 degrees Fahrenheit. To avoid any risk of injury, remove the battery from the car and take it inside to warm up, said Gail Novak, manager of Oakland County EMS/Emergency Management.

Novak offers these tips to help motorists avoid mishaps caused by trying to energize a frozen car battery:

- * Charge the battery only in a well-vented area.
- * Be sure the water is at the proper level and place a damp cloth over vent caps.
- * The charger switch should be in the "off" position and unplugged before connecting or disconnecting it.
- * Make the positive connections first, then the negative. CAUTION: Do not smoke or light a match when working with a battery.
- * Make sure they are of the same voltage.
- * Connect the positive to the positive and the negative to the negative.
- * Start the engine and remove the cables in reverse order.

Healthy Helpings

Sweet and satisfying

Tracy King

During the holiday season, it's difficult not to allow just one calorie-cholesterol rich cup of eggnog; or just one buttery, flaky, fattening Christmas pastry.

But who wants to stop at just one?

There are some low-calorie Christmas treats out there that are both sweet and satisfying.

Here are a few of them that will make your holiday a jolly one — without making you look the part.

CHOCO-MINT ROLL

125 Calories per serving

- 4 egg yolks
- Few drops red food coloring
- 1/4 cup granulated sugar
- 4 egg whites
- 1/4 cup granulated sugar
- 1/2 cup sifted cake flour
- 1/4 unsweetened cocoa powder
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1 tablespoon powdered sugar
- 1/3 cup granulated sugar
- 1/3 cup nonfat dry milk powder
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- 2 well-beaten eggs
- Few drops peppermint extract

In a small mixing bowl, beat four yolks about five minutes or till thick and lemon-colored. Add food coloring. Gradually add 1/4 cup granulated sugar, beating till sugar dissolves.

Wash beaters thoroughly. In large bowl beat four egg whites to soft peaks; gradually add 1/4 cup granulated sugar, beating to stiff peaks.

Fold yolks into whites. Sift together flour, cocoa, baking powder and 1/4 teaspoon salt; fold into egg mixture.

Spread evenly in a greased and waxed paper-lined 15" x 10" x 1" jelly roll pan.

Bake in 375-degree oven for 10 to 12 minutes.

Loosen sides; turn out onto a towel sprinkled with powdered sugar. Carefully peel off paper. Starting at narrow end, roll cake and towel together; cool thoroughly on wire rack.

To prepare filling: in saucepan combine 1/3 cup granulated sugar, the milk powder, cornstarch and dash salt.

Add one cup water. Cook and stir over medium heat until bubbly; cook and stir two minutes more.

Remove from heat; add extract.

Unroll cake; spread with filling. Roll up. Cover and chill. Serves 12.

LEMON SOUFFLE

102 Calories per serving

- 1 envelope unflavored gelatin
- 1/4 cup lemon juice
- 1/4 cup water
- 2 egg yolks
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1 cup skim milk
- 2 egg whites
- 1 1/2-ounce envelope dessert topping mix
- Shredded lemon peel (optional)
- Lemon slices (optional)

In small saucepan soften unflavored gelatin in lemon juice and water; heat just till gelatin is dissolved. Remove from heat.

In small mixing bowl, beat egg yolks on high speed of electric mixer; gradually add sugar, beating about five minutes or till thick and lemon-colored.

Gradually beat in hot gelatin mixture; beat in milk. Cool till mixture is partially set (consistency of unbeaten egg whites). Wash beaters thoroughly.

Beat egg whites just till stiff peaks form (tips stand straight). Do not overbeat. Fold in gelatin mixture.

Prepare dessert topping mix according to package directions — except use skim milk. Fold 1/4 cup of the prepared topping into gelatin mixture (refrigerate remaining topping for another use).

Pour gelatin mixture into a three-cup souffle dish with foil collar (or use a four-cup souffle dish without collar or use six 1/2 cup individual souffle dishes.)

Refrigerate at least three hours or till set.

To serve, remove foil collar. Garnish with shredded lemon peel and slices, if desired.

Makes six servings.

Players honor five

The Clarkston Village Players honored five members in a special presentation Tuesday, Dec. 5. The awards were in recognition of the members' personal commitment and dedication to the quality and growth of community theater.

Honor life memberships were granted to Russ Inman and charter members: Janet Rose, Pete Rose, Pat Thomas and John Witherup.

The honorees received individual plaques and have their names inscribed on a permanent roll at the Depot Theater, White Lake Road, Independence Township.

Address letters the new way for automation

No one likes to have a letter returned or misdelivered. Often problems with insufficient or improper addressing cause mail to be delayed, misdirected or returned. Of the 528 million pieces of mail handled each business day by the Postal Service, nearly 33 percent contain address deficiencies that could delay or prevent delivery.

Here are some tips that will help ensure that letters are properly addressed.

The destination address should appear on the middle of the envelope with the recipient's name on the top line. The line directly beneath should contain the recipient's street address, post office box number or rural route number and box number.

If mail is for a multi-unit complex or apartment building, place the room or apartment number above the street address. The bottom line must show the recipient's city and state and should include the ZIP Code.

Use the second line if the community, building or subdivision name is to be included. This "attention line" is reserved for "non-mailing" names that may be used. An example would be:

CHARLES BROWN
THE GROVES BUILDING
2012 ELM STREET APT 303
MIAMI, FL 33152-1234

A return address should be included on every envelope. This will ensure that if there is a problem with the delivery, it will be returned. Once again, be sure to include any apartment or room number for multi-unit buildings. Place the return address on the front upper-left corner of the envelope or on the back flap. The return address format should be the same as the addressee sequence.

When both a post office box number and a street address are used, make sure the place where the mail is to be delivered appears on the line immediately above the city, state and ZIP Code line. A letter to be delivered to a post office box when using the dual address concept should appear this way:

CHARLES BROWN
2102 ELM STREET APT 303
POST OFFICE BOX 219
MIAMI, FLA 33152-1219

Use of the correct Zip Codes helps the Postal Service direct mail efficiently and accurately. Using the Zip+4

Code helps the Postal Service be more efficient because the expanded code identifies a geographic segment within a delivery area such as a city block or an office building.

This reduces the number of handlings and significantly decreases the potential for human error and the possibility of misdelivery. Call the post office for ZIP Code information. Directories are available in Post Office lobbies.

Keep these guidelines in mind for the best possible service:

■ Use common abbreviations such as ST, RD, CIR and BLVD.

■ Use the two-letter state abbreviations found in the "Consumer's Directory of Postal Services and Products," available free to the public in postal lobbies.

■ Use Zip Codes (use a hyphen in a Zip+4 Code when used.) That is the only punctuation that should be indicated in the address.

Trustee Haven reported that Mr. Etke would be present at the January 8 Council meeting to discuss the insurance program for the Village.

Trustee Schultz is to make application for TREE CITY USA per the article in the November, 1989, issue of Michigan Municipal Review.

Trustee Roeser reported that he would compile a list of recently planted trees so that property owners would be informed of the kinds of trees planted in front of their homes and care that is required for new plantings.

Trustee Mauti reported that he had received complaints on the number of vehicles parked or stored at the service station at M-15 and Orion Road. The Village Manager was instructed to advise Marshal Smalley of this complaint.

Mr. Matthew Gaberty and Mr. Robert Blanchard from the Oakland County Road Commission were present to discuss with the Village Council the proposed Master Right-of-Way Plan and appropriate resolution by the Council.

After a lengthy discussion regarding the Master Right-of-Way Plan, the Oakland County Road Commission representatives assured the Village Council that no changes to existing county roads within the Village limits would occur unless there was mutual agreement between the County and the Village.

It was suggested by the Oakland County Road Commission representatives that the Village Council modify the proposed resolution to reflect any concerns of the Council.

The Council was advised to obtain existing right-of-way measurements for the streets in question from the Village Engineers. Further, the Council would request from Mr. John L. Gruba, Managing Director of the Oakland County Road Commission, a letter stating that Oakland County Road Commission would make no alterations to road widths without the consent of the Village Council.

Mr. Blanchard stated that the County would be willing to continue discussions on this matter as well as rededication of County roads within the Village limits.

Moved by Roeser, "That the Village of Clarkston adopt the Wastewater Discharge Ordinance Delegation Agreement, City of Detroit - Village of Clarkston and the Wastewater Discharge Control Ordinance, Village of Clarkston Ordinance No. 108, as submitted by the City of Detroit with its letter of November 1, 1989." Seconded by Symons. Yeas 6, Nays 0. Motion carried.

The Village Manager was instructed to complete the above documents for submission to the City of Detroit and to publish a synopsis of the ordinance as previously prepared by the Village Attorney.

President Catallo and the Village Manager are to arrange a meeting with the Township Supervisor with regards to the letter of November 16 pertaining to the police contract.

Moved by Roeser, "That the regular meeting be adjourned and a closed meeting be held with regards to litigation." Seconded by Schultz. Motion carried.

Regular meeting closed at 8:50 p.m.

Respectfully submitted,
Artemus M. Pappas
Acting Clerk
