Flu season hits Clarkston area

Best prevention -- wash your hands, say area physicians

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

The good news is the recent rise in "flu" cases may be dwindling. The bad news is the real flu, or influenza, may have yet to arrive.

Area physicians have been deluged with flu cases lately. Primarily it's two types of flu, according to Tarlika Dhabuwala, who practices from her M-15, Independence Township, office.

"Mostly, that's what I'm seeing here now," she said.

Symptoms

Most common is Type A, or respiratory flu, which includes such symptoms as body aches, fever, sore throat and cough, she said.

Less common so far this winter is Type B flu, with such symptoms as vomiting, diarrhea and stomach aches, she said.

What to do

To sufferers of the flu, she recommends rest, an increase in fluids and Tylenol for fever.

If the symptoms persist more than seven days, the victim should see a physician, Dhabuwala said.

Flu shots help

She recommends annual flu shots for the elderly and people suffering from diabetes or chronic lung problems.

Physician Michael Baker, who practices on M-15, Independence Township, said he saw a 10 to 20 percent increase in patients due to the flu, mostly the Type A.

"It seems that we've seen a little bit of tapering of it this past week," he said before New Year's weekend. "The latest epidemic has peaked, at least from our vantage."

"We always see this, especially this time of the year," he said. "They come in little surges."

Viruses spread easily in winter

In winter, buildings and rooms are closed up, and people come in close contact with one another — particularly over the holidays. So the viruses spread easily, he said.

"The viruses tend to be more active in the winter months, although there are summer viruses, too. They're pretty contagious."

Many people think cold air can make you sick, but that isn't the case, said Baker.

"The cold outside doesn't increase an individual's susceptibility to it," he said. "If I were a virus ..., I would like it better warm than cold."

To prevent it, wash your hands

The best way to deal with the flu season is to prevent catching the illness, he said. First, stay away from people who have it.

Second, wash your hands frequently, especially if you have the flu or have come in contact with someone who has it.

Plus, don't forget the old stand-bys: Bundle up; get plenty of rest; and drink lots of fluids.

When to see a doctor

"People don't necessarily need to see the doctor if they're mildly ill," said Baker.

But if they have a fever, are coughing up phlegm or suffer shortness of breath, they should see their physician, he said.

More to come

Most of his patients have complained of coughing, sore throats and fever. Influenza, which carries more severe symptoms, will probably hit the area in about a month, he said.

"The good news is that it's a little better than it was a few weeks ago," said Baker. "But the bad news is the worse may be yet to come."

MEAP results show 'good gains' in Clarkston

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

MEAP (Michigan Educational Assessment Program) test results for Clarkston show students have made good gains, said Judith Backus, director of curriculum, at the Dec. 11 school board meeting.

MEAP test results were sent home to parents of Clarkston school children before the Christmas holiday break.

Clarkston students, as well as other students throughout the state, are tested each fall in grades 4, 7 and 10 for math and basic reading skills. Tested in science were grades 5, 8 and 11.

Last school year the students received science tests in grades 4, 7 and 10. The tests are designed to meet the standards and objectives set by the Michigan Board of Education.

Listed are results of test percentages of Clarkston students from 1988 and 1989. The results represent students who achieved 75 percent or more of the objectives for the areas tested:

Mathematics: Grade 4 scored 95.3 (compared to 92.6 in 1988); grade 7 scored 83.3 (compared to 76.7 in 1988); grade 10 scored 80.0 (compared to 74.9 in 1988).

Basic Reading Skills: Grade 4 scored 96.9 (compared to 93.4 in 1988); grade 7 scored 95.7 (compared to 90.0 in 1988); grade 10 scored 94.3 (compared to 89.7 in 1988).

Science: Grade 5 scored 84.4 (compared to grade 4 scores of 58.6 in 1988); grade 8 scored 66.8 (compared to grade 7 scores of 38.5 in 1988); grade 11 scored 51.8 (compared to grade 10 scores of 36.4 in 1988).

A new reading test was added to the MEAP tests this year to assess comprehension of students' skills. The basic reading skills from the tests given previously focused on students' specific skills, such as finding root words, suffixes and prefixes.

But the new Essential Skills Reading test is designed to help to the student gather meaning from the information read.

It has longer reading selections than the previous test and is comprised of an informational selection and a story selection.

According to a MEAP pamphlet, "recent research has shown that understanding a reading selection is the Scores for the new reading test are considered baseline, Backus said, because there are no comparisons from a previous year.

The student must have a score of 300 or above to be considered satisfactory.

Percentages of students who scored a 300 or above for the Essential Skills Reading test for the informational and story selection are: Grade 4, 47.3; grade 7, 46.3; and grade 10, 35.8.

"Clarkston fared very well in the old reading test," Backus said, "but we are in the middle of the pack (in the new reading test scores)."

Backus said statewide results for the MEAP tests would be available in mid-January.

Time to gear up for short story writing contest

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The long winter ahead is an ideal time to dig out the pen and paper and put your creative energy to work.

The Village Bookstore on Main Street, Clarkston, is sponsoring a short story writing contest for non-professional writers at least 16 years old.

The winning entry will be published in The Clarkston News, and the winning writer will be honored at a dinner with the judges.

The deadline is 6 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 14, at the Village Bookstore, 26 S. Main St., Clarkston, MI 48016.

Georgene Sloan, owner of the Village Bookstore, said she expects more people to enter the contest this year. Nine entered last year.

The contest should provide an outlet for aspiring writers, said Sloan.

"I wanted to do something to get the community more involved in writing and reading," she said. "I just thought this might be a good way to do it. ... There are so many people out there who want to write, ... this is another way of encouraging them."

Contest rules include:

■ Write a short story about any topic, in any genre. Entries must be fiction, must be original and must be previously unpublished.

■ Employees of the Village Bookstore and The Clarkston News and their immediate families — plus the immediate families of the judges — are not eligible to enter.

■ Stories must be limited to 1,500 words; one entry per person.

■ Entrant's name, address and telephone number must be typed on a separate sheet of paper and placed at the end of the story. Your name must not appear on any other page of your entry.

■ Keep a copy of your story. No entries will be returned.

■ Stories will be judged on literary merit and originality.

■ The winner will be announced in late March.

Contest judges are: Georgene Sloan, owner of the Village Bookstore; Julie Campe, editor of The Clarkston News; and Dianne Evans, English teacher, Clawson High School.

For more information, call 625-1355.

Reporter's Notebook

A couple Christmas-related items: Prior to our Christmas week edition, a disagreement arose in our advertising department over the spelling of one of Santa Claus' reindeer. D-o-n-n-e-r said one, D-o-n-d-e-r said the other.

A call to a library brought D-o-n-n-e-r, and we printed it. The D-o-n-d-e-r backer wasn't satisfied. Out came the original words by Author Clement Clarke Moore: "On Comet! On Cupid! on Donner and Blitzen!"

And The Lapeer County Press reported that a township boy brought a gift hamster home on Christmas Eve. Mother rushed downtown and spent $50 on a cage and other hamster necessities. That night the cat ate the hamster.

Lately we've had a batch of letters from companies that start out, "Thank you for taking the time to contact The Dial Corporation concerning Lunch Buckets."

We've had little interest in lunch buckets (they capitalized these words) since elementary school and never heard of Dial Corp., though they are A Greyhound Company. These companies know our memory is short, but it's not that short.

Roberta Sutherland's maiden name was Virgin. She says she was never kidded about her name in the 21 years she carried it before marrying Ken Sutherland.

Now the Sutherlands, of Rochester and Ortonville, have a 15-year-old granddaughter. Genealogy came up in one of her high school classes, which required her to draw out the family tree.

Robert Virgin Sutherland's granddaughter said, "When we got to your name, Grandma, I put down Smith."

Elizabeth Baldwin has tricks like nobody you ever heard of. Since 1965 she has given her husband a fifth of Crown Royal whiskey each Christmas.

Every Dec. 25th, he thanked her — not knowing it was the same bottle. Every Dec. 26th since 1965, she has hidden that bottle from husband, Pansy. I don't know why she revealed her ploy this year, but it wasn't her conscience.

Reporter's Notebook is compiled by Clarkston News staff members.

Dog, family reunited

Firefighters at Independence Township's Station No. 2 were happy to perform a good deed recently. But just the same, they were a bit unhappy about it, too.

A blond cocker spaniel they had temporarily adopted was reunited with its owner after a story appeared in The Clarkston News about the animal.

Apparently, the dog traveled from its Perry Lake Road home across the wetlands in Independence Oaks County Park and ended up at the fire station at the corner of Clarkston and Sashabaw roads.

The owners said their dog was subject to seizures, and they feared he had died, said Chief Gar Wilson.

But a friend of the family saw The News article and told them about it, he said.

"They were happier than all get-out," said Wilson about the reunion.

The firefighters were sorry to give up their new-found friend, who liked sleeping beneath the Christmas tree in the fire station.

But they were glad to find its owners, he said.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

THE SOLO ACT

Valerie Phaup
designated broker

QUESTION: My REALTOR suggested to me that he do a "solo act" when showing our house to prospective buyers. Wouldn't it be wiser for me to accompany them around?

ANSWER: One of the fastest ways to sell your house in a hurry is to keep out of it when it's being shown. First, tell the REALTOR everything that should be known about the house, then let the REALTOR do the selling. He or she is a skilled negotiator and knows how to close a sale without emotional involvement. If you must be around when the house is being shown, greet the prospect graciously, take the children and pets and retire.

Note: Many prospects don't like pets. Why turn them off?

Opinions

New
beginnings

Julie Campe

The holidays were everything they were supposed to be — warm, full of good food and conversation and lots of laughs.

But part of it seemed unreal to me. For instance, my cousin Danna is going to have a baby.

Since she's a whole three years younger than I, I can remember when she was just a baby herself, holding her dad's hands while he walked her around the living room.

I remember her mother, Leone, at that time. She was expecting Danna's younger sister, Gail. Leone always rested her arms on her swollen belly, which I thought was funny back then. Leone must have been about Danna's age now.

Is it possible that she's about to become a grandmother?

Danna was freckle-faced and cute as a kid. She was spunky and knew how to have fun. She is the same now.

When we played "dress up" as children, she was the glamorous singer in a saloon, while my brother Andy was the hero cowboy.

In the variety shows we performed for our parents and other relatives, Danna sang in a husky voice and looked beautiful in whatever bright material we could scrounge up. She was Andy's assistant in the magic portion of the show.

She was the one who instigated the Christmas tapes we made. She and Gail, Andy and I — all sang Christmas carols with scratchy child voices on a tape that we proudly presented to our parents.

In the summers, she swam like a fish, turning brown in the sun, and splashing the day away.

When at Danna's house, we played "restaurant" and spent hours drawing neat, hand-lettered menus. Finally, we'd eat. Our favorite item: cookie soup, made with Oreos and milk — Danna's creation.

Danna and Andy, being the same age, often colluded and left little Gail in their dust. It is a common complaint with younger children. Danna and Gail's youngest sister, Nicki, makes similar charges now.

Through the years, some of the tensions persisted between Danna and Gail, even to the point of a now-famous argument over a pair of socks that they will never live down in this family. (Danna wore Gail's without permission. Or was it the other way around?)

But things also improved. For instance, Gail introduced Danna to Steve, who became her husband and the father of their prospective child.

At the family Christmas party this year, Danna sat on Steve's lap much of the time, dishing out good-natured jibes to Andy, who deserved them but was a little slow in responding that day due to the shock of Danna's upcoming child.

How can this freckle-faced kid be ready to have a child?

As a kid, Danna was a good parent to her dolls, making them say prayers before meals, changing their diapers, cleaning their faces, protecting them from Andy — who was occasionally nice when forced to play the part of father.

In fact, when Andy heard Danna's news, he said it made him feel kind of fatherly.

Letters to the Editor

Call for 3/4 mill for sports only

We need to address the issue of the Clarkston athletic program. If the millage fails to pass, they are not going to have an athletic program next year in the Clarkston school system.

The failure of the millage will not be because the voters do not support the schools and the children's education but because there are already enough taxes. It is time Lansing assumed its responsibilities toward school funding.

Therefore, we are suggesting that all athletes and their parents get a petition to put a 3/4 mill on the future ballot for the sole purpose of the athletic program.

We feel that this, plus the pay-to-participate program, which is already in effect, would be adequate to support the athletic program. We suggest that this millage be only for one year.

This would give petitioners throughout the state adequate time to get their proposals on the November ballot for changing the state allocation of funding the education system.

There is a good possibility that without the athletic program Clarkston will lose many students to other schools so they can participate in a sports program.

As Mr. Tungate stated in his article, "a one-year loss takes five to gain back."

We feel this 3/4-mill for one year will help to keep children in the Clarkston school system and the athletic program alive.

We are fed up with people with vested interest using the athletic program as a punishment-reward system to get their millages passed.

Jim's Jottings

We close a decade when drug use grew dramatically, and start a decade with little hope of halting habits.

We close a decade that had growing illiteracy, and begin a new decade with only a promise of the figures rising. Declining newspaper readership emphasize the point.

We close a decade that saw prison population rise, and student enrollment decline; that had white collar crime headlined, and penthouse confinement; we had strong foreign influence in product and people, with our government's blessing and encouragement.

We close a decade of peace, they say, then there is Panama, the Middle East, South Africa, Romania, Sri Lanka and Northern Ireland.

However, historians will likely recall entering other decades and say, "There were just as many changes in the '70s ('60s, '50s, etc) by comparison as there were in the '80s." And, it's probably true. We get carried away with the importance of this minute.

The flip side of the bad is the good. New geniuses were born in the 1980s. New gadgets made life and leisure better. We seem to have more and bigger... supermarkets, malls, car models, athletics, beauty aids, office buildings, government, planes, ships, books, advisors, and diets.

Wow, did we become health conscious in the '80s. Adults cut way back on smoking, though teenagers didn't. We cut back on our consumption of alcohol. We took to health clubs. We brought in the natural food stores. We became even more cholesterol, blood pressure, sun burn, hearing aid, vitamin, hemorrhoid, stomach gas, and safe sex conscious, thanks mostly to brilliant television advertising.

During the 1980s five banks headquartered in Tokyo grew to be the largest in the world. The big three car makers in the United States bought into Japan's auto manufacturing and lost market share in the United States to the Japanese.

But no one cut into Michigan's Kellogg company's market share. Michigan based K mart continued its winning ways. Dow Chemical, Upjohn, Steelcase, Meijers, and Traverse City-Boyer County grew. And, Auburn Hills went nuts with industrial growth, while Independence and Rochester Hills did the same with high-cost housing.

What do the '90s hold? Well, more of the same, with some goodies and badies thrown in. There'll be more wars. There'll be more peace. People will be singled out for greatness. People will continue to kill other people.

There will be cures announced, there will be new illnesses. Businesses will come and go. There will be natural and unnatural disasters.

We, personally, will be surprised at very few things, and hopefully pleased with many more things than those that disappoint us. The experience of six decades has taught us that flipping a calendar page does not bring an immediate change to anything but the calendar.

Shortsightedness may hurt us all

I have read, with growing disbelief over the shortsightedness of the authors, the flurry of negative letters regarding the upcoming millage election.

Most of the mail to which I refer contains language about all the "frills" of our current Clarkston schools and about the cleverness of former school boards and administrations who doled out pinch-penny programs to students in facilities that were barely adequate when they were built several years ago.

In addition, I have noted several claims of continued opposition to any measure that might help to improve a system that is said to have been so great once upon a time.

Should the efforts of those dissenters be successful, that is, the millage fail and the proposed cuts take effect, what substance will our eviscerated system have left for our children who will be forced to make do with only the very skimpiest of basics in the 21st century?

I was in school during the '40s and '50s and the programs in which I participated and the buildings in which they were offered were not much different from those with which my own children are now threatened here over 30 years later. My school experience was sufficient, then. But that was then; this is now.

Now, even the most menial job requires a familiarity with computers. The high-paying, low-skill manufacturing jobs are rapidly disappearing.

The repetitive, mundane, manual tasks that once were the mainstay of so many high school graduates are going the way of the buggy whip.

Further, some colleges and universities are asking almost as much from incoming freshmen as they required of their graduates a scant couple generations ago.

However, there are those in our community who feel that the impending shortened days and the announced cuts that my occur are acceptable conditions for learning what is necessary for success in the future.

Without the benefit of at least a six-hour day and a full curriculum, our children cannot be prepared for what they will face in either the workplace or college.

Only those who have the opportunity for a complete education that includes advanced placement science classes with hands-on laboratory experience, the stimulation of academic competition, the team spirit vital to interscholastic athletic programs, and the artistic appreciation gained from vocal and instrumental music can even hope for survival in the world in which they must play a part.

How can we expect them to face the future with only the barest relics of the past?

As a parent of students currently enrolled at all three levels: elementary, middle and high school, I urge every other parent to visit the schools.

Talk with teachers and principals and learn of their frustration from trying to provide the best education possible to 35 or 40 students at a time with obsolete texts in crumbling facilities that were designed to be used by half the number now squeezed into them.

Attend school board meetings and learn just how little board members and administrators can achieve for your children when any portion of the population wrongly assumes that the simple basics will prepare our children to make the complex decisions of the future.

Even though no new building has occurred recently and attempts to fund needed facilities and programs were recently defeated, the needs of our school community persist.

No amount of negative rhetoric will make the impending shortcomings we face disappear. The deterioration of Clarkston schools is a direct result of those who evidently find joy in the distress of our administrators, teachers, parents and students.

In fact, those gleeful few who delight in the misfortune of our children are so caught up in saving a few dollars in taxes each year that they fail to see the disservice they are doing the community and themselves in the bargain.

The teachers and administrators in Clarkston are doing an outstanding job. I give them full credit for maintaining the highest possible standard with the current obsolete materials and facilities. Given the support our schools deserve, our children can aspire to an even higher standard.

We parents can and must provide the financial support so critically needed by our teachers, our administrators, our elected school board, our community and most of all our children.

Join me and concerned others. Vote yes for the proposed millage in February.

Cliff Higdon

My son was wearing a hospital-type wrist band. "It can't come off for three days," he said, and I laughed the superior laugh I use to deride people who like rock 'n' roll music.

The band was his initial step toward attending a rock concert. It was attached to him at a ticket outlet with instructions to return in three days, at which time a clerk would examine it for signs of tampering before generously allowing him to buy tickets.

I told my son one of the advantages of being a fan of sensible music was I didn't have to put up with that sort of nonsense to buy tickets to see "Les Miserables" at the Fisher Theatre.

All I had to do was phone the advertised number and be put on hold for 20 minutes. Eventually, I was mildly astonished to learn two tickets cost a whopping $93, including double service charge, no refund under any circumstances. And I was slightly irritated when the ticket seller, not satisfied with only $93, tried to sell me a magazine subscription.

But at least the seats were assured - ordered Nov. 30 for the Dec. 23 matinee - and they'd be a nice early Christmas gift for my wife.

In the meantime, there was a call from Sarah Glass of Mt. Clemens, who was also smart enough not to buy tickets for a rock concert. She chose the Detroit Symphony Orchestra's production of "The Nutcracker" at Ford Auditorium. She bought tickets at Hudson's in November for the Dec. 23 matinee. But three weeks later, she "just happened to see" a newspaper ad saying the performance was switched to Orchestra Hall.

"No one notified me. If I hadn't seen the ad, we would have gone to the wrong place," Glass said. "I called Orchestra Hall and was ordered to bring my tickets there and exchange them by Dec. 1. I couldn't even take them back to Hudson's."

How come the inconvenience fell on Glass? It wasn't her idea to change show sites. It's a lousy way to treat a paying customer, Glass said.

The same thing was said by Leo J. O'Connor of South Lyon concerning the Dec. 11 Red Wings game at Joe Louis Arena. O'Connor, 62, and a 77-year-old friend treated another friend, 67-year-old Frank, to his first look at the arena. Frank has a bad heart condition and it would be a risk for him to climb the 26 rows to the only seats O'Connor was able to buy. A ticket taker kindly directed them to an elevator.

But when they got off on the third floor, they were turned back by two non-uniformed guards wearing "crowd management" badges. Even though they explained about Frank's bad heart, and their seats were within easy sight, just a few feet away, the men were forced to take the elevator back down and walk up the 26 rows. They had to stop several times while Frank caught his breath.

"And we saw the crowd management men laughing at us," O'Connor said.

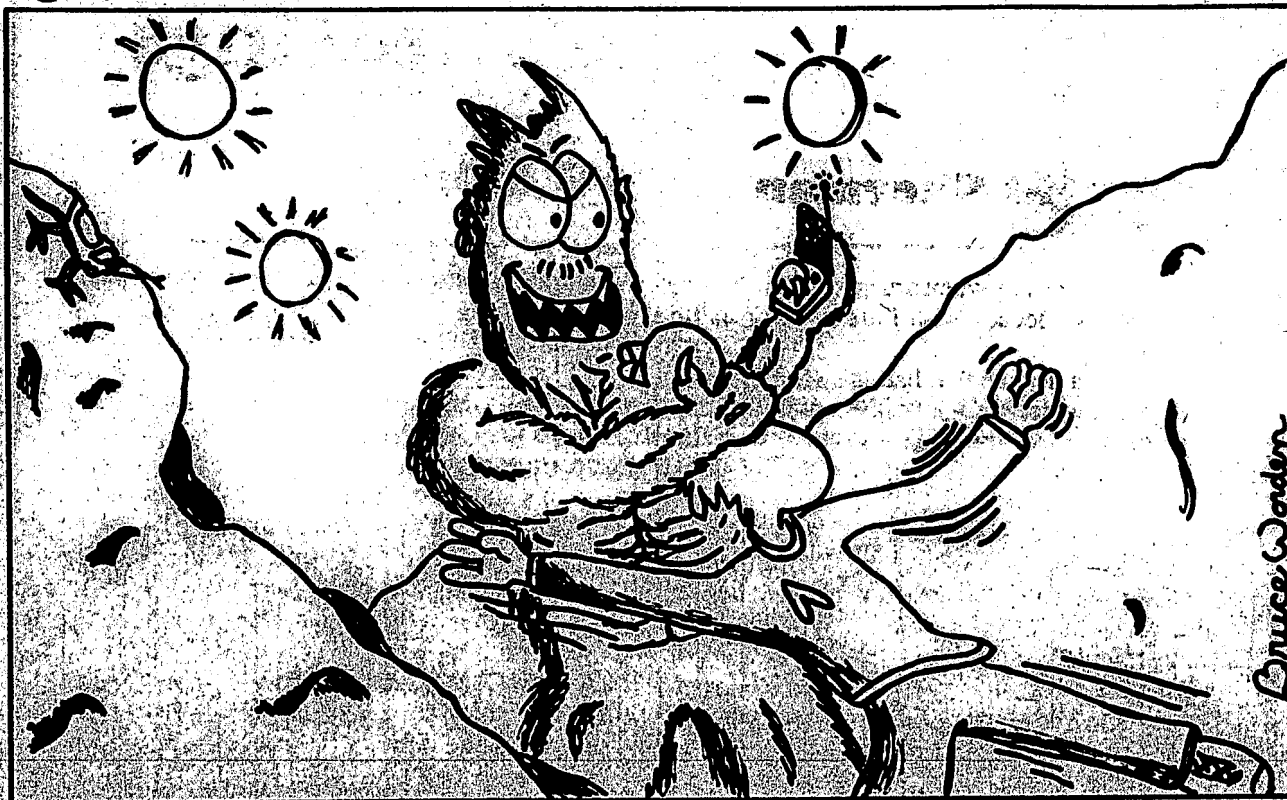

As for my "Les Miserables" tickets, when they hadn't arrived two weeks after I ordered them, I phoned the Fisher and was told not to worry unless I didn't get them 48 hours before the Dec. 23 performance. So I phoned back Dec. 21 with the same complaint and was told the tickets were mailed Dec. 6 and must have been lost. I could pick up substitute tickets the day of the show. Oh Lord.

That same day, in a letter to the editor, Dorothy Weaver of West Bloomfield complained she bought her $44 "Les Miserables" ticket two months in advance and arrived to find her seat occupied. It had been sold twice. She left rather than settle for "a hard, cold, folding chair against the wall."

What guarantee was there the same thing wouldn't happen to me? None, the voice on the phone conceded. So we arrived 45 minutes early to selfishly make sure someone else might be displaced, but not us. The show was good but not worth the realization that I was as sappy as a wrist-banded rock fan.

All sorts of customers put up with lousy service from all sorts of businesses. Only movie characters get mad as hell and won't take it anymore. We are wimps and should be ashamed.

More Letters

Need information

Editor's note: Last week, portions of two sentences were inadvertently omitted from this letter, so it appears again, intact.

Throughout the history of our civilized or not so civilized world, the "new leader" would terrorize the intelligentsia so as to eliminate any protest.

Those leaders knew that the source of power was knowledge. By keeping the "peasants" ignorant, the leaders could do as they pleased. Our state legislators are an excellent example of this as regards their funding of public schools.

Unfortunately, we have a similar situation in Clarkston. For too many years, the problems of the Clarkston schools were "swept under the rug." Most of us were kept ignorant about the condition of our schools.

That's the way our school board thought it ought to be. But as a result of several broad-based millage efforts, a few concerned citizens have finally learned the truth and are speaking out.

Our problem, as evidenced so well by several recent editorials in the local newspapers, is that too many people in Clarkston aren't aware of what is needed in an educational program to properly prepare children for competition in a world economy.

Clarkston has a five-year curriculum plan, which will provide a sound basic education for the 1990s, but it is not based on a five-hour day, which incidentally would lead to our school's loss of accreditation.

Our children need a solid seven-hour day, which should not include a required study hall but which should include rigorous academic standards and a full program of math, lab sciences, arts, literature, English, foreign languages, computer science and extra-curricular enrichment activities.

For those of you who agree with the above paragraph, the time to act is now. The obvious lack of knowledge that exists in some segments of this community can only be overcome through the sharing of information.

This is a major responsibility of an educated population. As a parent or concerned citizen, please help us to get the necessary information out into the community so that the present lack of awareness about the condition of our schools and the academic needs of our children will not continue to cause problems for them in the future.

Please call your local school or the board of education offices and volunteer one or two hours of your time. If you have more money than time, please send a contribution to the Blue Ribbon Kids Committee in care of P.O. Box 443, Clarkston, MI, 48016.

Personal Touch

As the independent bank in the area, our every action is directed at the people we know. People like YOU. People whose financial needs are unique to the area.

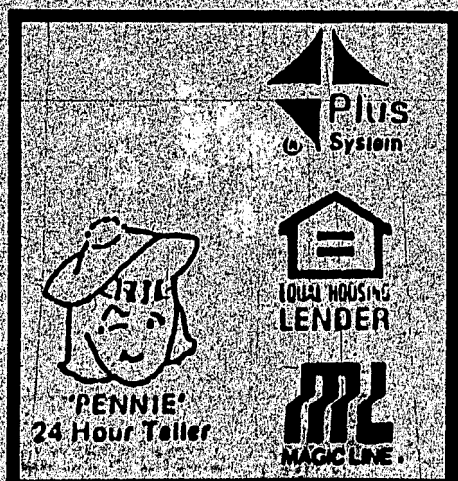

Who knows better what folks in this area demand of a bank than an independent bank that's been around for one hundred and five years.

The fact that we're independent, a product of the area, doesn't mean we offer less than the big banks. In truth, we offer more - the services you demand.

The term "Personal Touch" may sound antiquated to some, but to us, it's an everyday occurrence.

Some teenagers can be obsessed with staying thin

"Pig out" in public? "Never" is the answer for many teenage girls nowadays.

There seems to be dieting epidemic among the female teenage community — a type of "Diet-itus," carrying dieting to extremes in many cases. This can cause both psychological and physical damage to the developing young body, said Sylvia Treitman, home economist of the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service.

An over-emphasis on dieting or being very thin can be both devastating and dangerous if gone unnoticed. Anorexia nervosa and bulimia are two such diseases that are a result of this obsession with thinness.

In anorexia nervosa, the victim, usually a teen-age girl, sees herself as "fat" no matter how thin she actually becomes. Starvation may result if the condition goes unremedied, since the food intake is drastically limited.

The bulimic victim, on the other hand, eats, in fact, binges and purges him or herself, usually in the span of a few hours.

Parents of teens should be aware of any drastic changes in eating habits, and look for the following signs to help prevent a serious problem. See your physician if the following become prevalent in your child.

■ Distorted body images — overconcern overweight and appearance.

- Moodiness and increased withdrawal.
- Hiding of body by unusually loose clothing.
- Secretive eating or refusal to eat.

■ Disappearing after meals to bathroom.

■ Evidence of bingeing — wrappers from snacks.

For more information call the food and nutrition hotline, 858-0904.

Hearing on church use

A public hearing on whether a church should get special permission to build on Clarkston Road is set for Jan. 11 before the Independence Township Planning Commission.

The 7:30 p.m. meeting takes place at the township annex, 90 N. Main St., Clarkston.

Developer James Walker requested the special land use request for Crossroads Free Will Baptist Church, which is planned for a rural residentially zoned parcel off of Clarkston Road, west of Sashabaw Road.

In Independence Township, churches need special land use permission.

Nan's Beauty Talk

IS IT MACHO TO MOISTURIZE? The answer is a resounding YES! Not too many years ago the only men's grooming item on the bathroom shelf was a bottle of cologne and in the shower soap on a rope. Today men are using a variety of products including moisturizers, hair conditioners, facial scrubs and sunscreens. As each day passes, the American male becomes increasingly aware of the importance of healthy skin. It is no longer enough to just be well-dressed; it is now increasingly popular for men to have a skin care routine. But why are men changing their attitudes toward skin and hair care? The reason quite simply seems to be that men are paying more attention to health and fitness and that the stereotypes about men are changing. Nan's offers state-of-the-art service and products that contain "all of the good and none of the bad". The idea of skin maintenance and hair fitness is becoming firmly planted in men. Indeed using moisturizers is macho! Call Nan's today and find out how you too can obtain the "Secret of Youth". CHS grad now skis for U.S. Freestyle Team

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The ski slopes at Pine Knob Ski Resort bring nostalgia to Rick Emerson, who now lives and trains in Breckenridge, Colo., as a member of the United States Freestyle Ski Team.

Rick, a 1981 graduate of Clarkston High School, was selected from 150 skiers for the 12-member team in the 1987-88 ski season.

"It was a great feeling," Emerson said.

Rick and his wife, Jill, talked about their experiences from the ski lodge on Pine Knob Road, Independence Township.

for 10 years."

"I skied here every night for 10 years," Rick said, looking out the lodge window at the skiers who dotted the hill.

He skied Pine Knob everyday after school and was the first-place skier on the CHS ski team.

"It's great. I love it here," Rick said.

But, as with many childhood memories, the slopes look smaller, he said.

The size is especially evident in comparison with the slopes he's seen while competing for the world for the World Cup.

Rick recently returned from competing in Tignes, France, before the Christmas holiday. He'll be traveling to Mt. Gabriel, Quebec, Jan. 5-7; Lake Placid, N.Y., Jan. 12-14; Breckenridge, Colo., Jan. 19-21; and Calgary, Alberta, Canada, Jan. 26-28.

The U.S. Freestyle World Cup Events listed above will be shown on ESPN cable television. Check local listings for times.

Rick said he plans to ski as well as he can to prepare for the 1992 Olympics. Half way through the ski season last year he was sidelined with a knee injury.

The knee is stronger than ever, he said, thanks to weight training and rehabilitation.

Rick said he'd like to come back to Pine Knob and hold a freestyle program after he returns from competing in Japan in mid-February, but plans for the program were not complete at the time of his interview.

When he's not training, he holds camps, including a three-day freestyle program in Gaylord over the holiday season. He also plans to hold a freestyle camp when he returns to Breckenridge.

Rick returned to the Clarkston area to visit family. His parents, Ken and Patricia, now live in Ortonville. He brought Jill Cook, his wife of three years, to help relive some old memories.

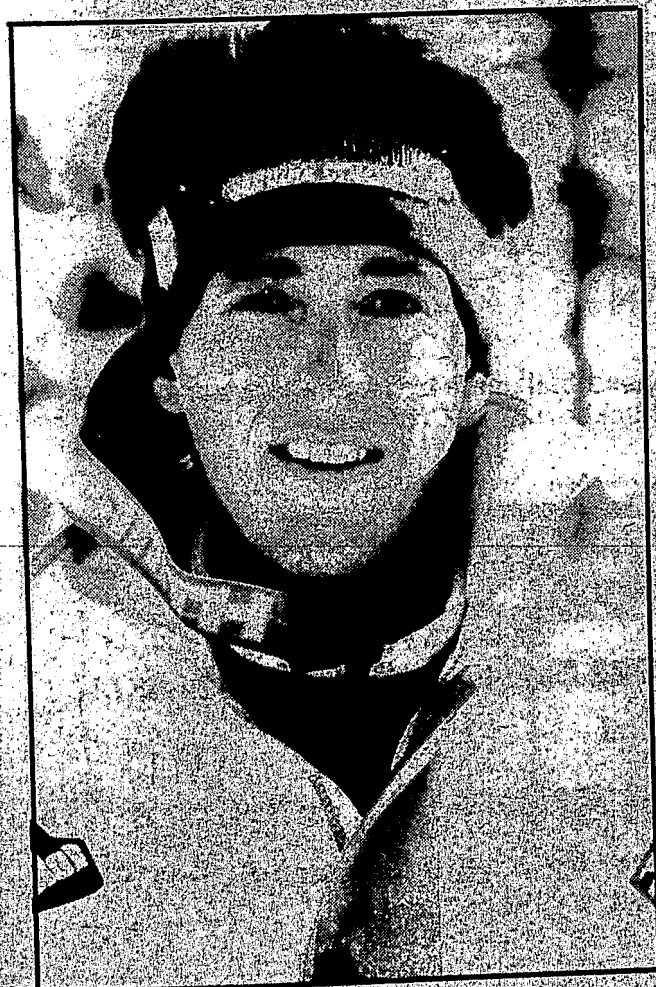

The couple met at Pine Knob Ski Resort when they were both in high school, and Jill was a member of Waterford Our Lady of the Lakes High School ski team. She graduated from OLL in 1983 and was a Waterford resident.

Emerson pointed out the spot near the windows of the lodge where he first met Jill.

Then he turned to look for something he remembered from long ago.

"Remember where you carved your name, Jill?" he asked her.

But remodeling and time had removed the carving.

RICK EMERSON of the U.S. Freestyle Ski Team visited Pine Knob on Dec. 26.

RELIVING MOMENTS on the Pine Knob ski slopes, Emerson takes to the slopes and finds Michigan weather to be colder than he is accustomed to, after living in Colorado for the last six years. He is a 1981 Clarkston High School graduate.

CROSS COUNTRY SKI LESSONS

After two years of waiting, it looks as if there will be enough snow to offer cross country ski lessons.

Beginning Sunday, Jan. 7, anyone interested in learning how to cross country ski will meet for three consecutive Sundays at Independence Oaks County Park.

Beginners age 13 and older will ski from 1-2:30 p.m., youth beginners age 12 and under from noon to 1 p.m. and intermediates age 13 and older from 2:30 to 4 p.m.

ICE SKATING AND HOCKEY

Currently, one skating and hockey area is open at Clintonwood Park off Clarkston Road. Certain times will be designated for open skating and some for hockey. Two others may be added in the future, including lighted rinks for night skating.

To find out the conditions of the ice and the hours of operation, call the skating hotline at 625-4334.

It's a good policy to call the parks and recreation department at 625-8223 the day of each open gym to verify its availability. The schools will occasionally call and cancel gym times to facilitate their own activities.

Important Note: There will be no evening gym times over the Christmas holidays. The schools are closed.

MEN'S 30 AND OVER BASKETBALL

Games begin on Jan. 17, 1990, and will be played 6-9 p.m. Wednesdays at Andersonville Elementary.

The $80 sponsor fee is due by Jan. 5; $15 player fees ($20 for non-residents) are due Jan. 12. Teams pay $16 per game for officials during the eight-game regular season, plus playoffs. To be eligible to participate, players must turn 30 by Feb. 15, 1990.

Sometime in the near future, some junior high and high school boys teams may travel to some tournaments to play and possibly enter a travel league for competition. A girls league may also be formed.

The eight-week program begins Thursday, Jan. 18, with a Monday, Jan. 15, registration deadline. Games are at North Sashabaw Elementary School on Thursdays, 5:30-6:30 p.m. for children in grades 4-6 and 6:30-7:30 p.m. for children in 7th grade and above. FINANCIAL ADVICE from James R. Filak, C.P.A.

INTEREST AND DIVIDENDS SLIPS - WHAT TO REPORT?

When you receive Forms 1099 for dividends, interest, and other kinds of income, what must you report on your tax return?

Since the Internal Revenue Service is receiving identical copies of this information, it's necessary that you report on your income tax return the same amounts that appear on your Forms 1099. If the amount shown on a 1099 is incorrectly stated, you report the figure shown and provide a reconciliation on your tax return.

In the past, some brokerage firms reported only those proceeds from transactions that were settled during the tax year. Now the Internal Revenue Service requires that all proceeds be reported on a trade date basis.

If you find what you believe to be an error on a Form 1099, contact the person issuing it. If you are unable to get it corrected by the time you file your tax return, you should use the figures on the 1099 in order to avoid correspondence from the IRS.

If you receive dividends as a nominee, you must report them in total on your tax return. You then identify these as "nominee distributions" and subtract them from the total dividends shown on your tax return. If you received dividends as nominee, you must give the actual dividend recipient a Form 1099-DIV unless the recipient is your spouse.

Each year the IRS sends notices to millions of taxpayers whose 1099 income reported on their returns does not match documents received by the IRS. Taking care to report the right numbers on your tax return will keep you from having problems later.

Contact us if we can be of assistance to you in this area.

Handwriting analysis may provide insights to personality traits

SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Dotting the "i's" and crossing the "t's" is an important part of Gerald Klosky's business. Klosky analyzes handwriting for his own use and for other businesses. He also teaches the subject.

On Dec. 21, Klosky analyzed the handwriting of some local officials in Independence and Springfield townships, giving insight into their personalities.

The officials are: Independence Township Supervisor Frank (Tink) Ronk; Springfield Township Supervisor Collin Walls; Clarkston Village Council President Sharon Catallo; Clarkston schools Superintendent Gary Haner; and Clarkston Board of Education President Janet Thomas.

Klosky will analyze handwriting as part of a series offered by Clarkston Community Education in February.

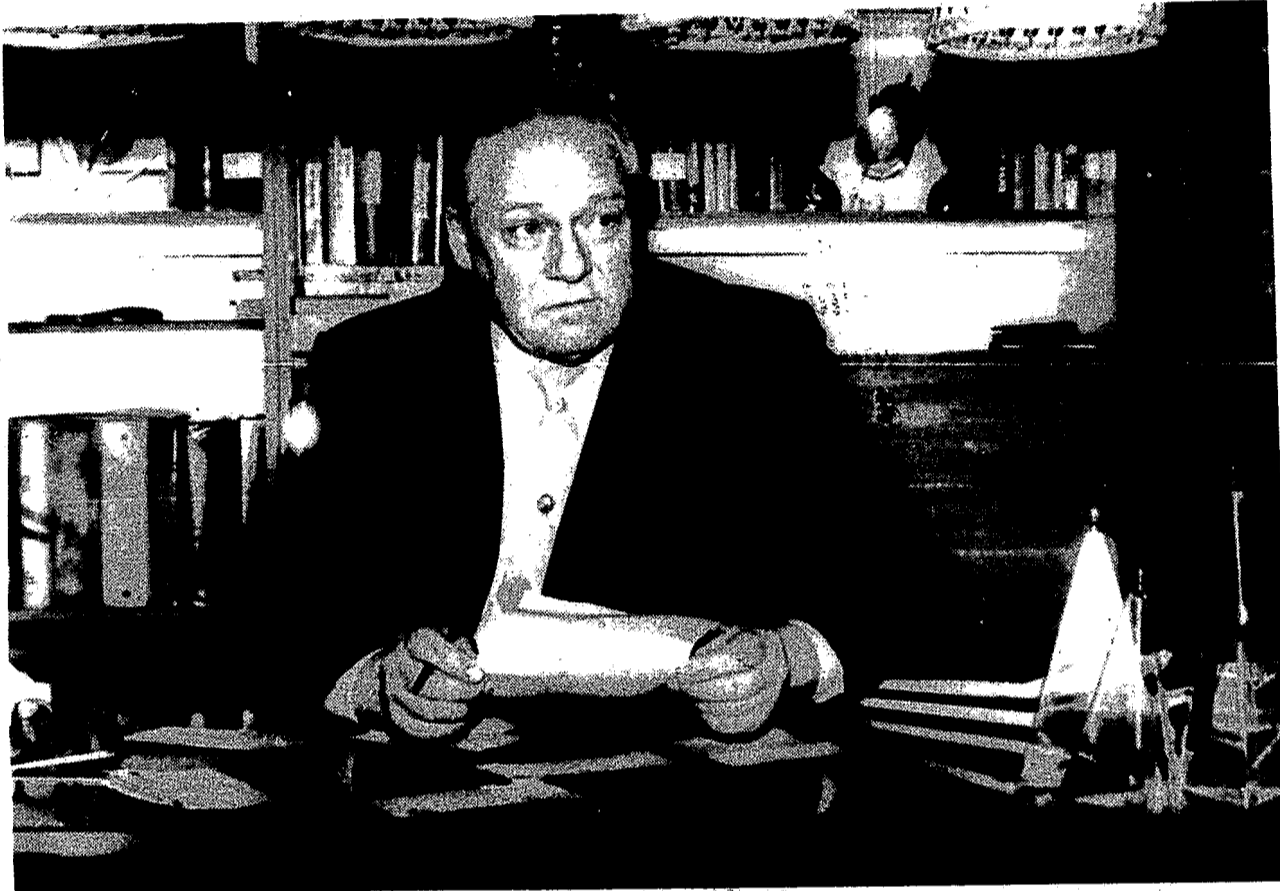

Klosky, a Detroit resident, started in handwriting analysis about 17 years ago. He wanted to know more about people who were taking advantage of him in his interior design field.

Klosky said people would come into his place of business and ask for his advice and not come back. At the time, he worked for J.L. Hudson's and another company.

So he decided to learn more about more about personality traits of individuals before embarking into business ventures with clients.

Klosky now owns his own interior design company, Gerald P. Klosky Interior Design. And when a client comes to him for advice, he has them write a letter about

GERALD KLOSKY of Detroit began analyzing handwriting 17 years ago. He now teaches the subject and is to appear in the Clarkston area in February.

Link between personality, handwriting began with Caesar

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

"It's not what you say but how you say it," said Gerald Klosky, handwriting analyst from Detroit, who will be spending an evening at Clarkston Community Education in February.

Handwriting and the way a person thinks and feels about life have a direct correlation, Klosky said.

The study of graphology isn't a recent development. The link between personality and handwriting was observed when Emperor Caesar Augustus ruled about 2,000 years ago.

It was noted that he was frugal in spending, and he was also economical in his handwriting, which was squeezed together with little or no space between the next word or sentence, Klosky said.

Handwriting analysis has been used in Europe but is just starting to be used in business in the United States, he said.

Handwriting analysis is based on patterns and characteristics used in forming the written word.

There are four basic Global Characteristics:

Pressure, the thickness of handwriting results from pressure put on a pen. And the amount of pressure exerted reveals the writer's emotion forcefulness, energies (vitality), sensitivity and interest in material things. Heavy pressure reveals any or all of the above-mentioned traits, where a very light pressure reveals a person with sensitive nature, tenderness and one who avoids friction and commitments.

Slant of the writing, be it backward, vertical of forward, indicates the degree to which an individual responds emotionally to the stimuli of his environment. The slant of handwriting indicates which we allow to control us: vertical writing, our heads and our intellect; forward writing, our hearts and our emotions.

Size of the writing is a gauge to the writer's intellect, ability to concentrate, aptness of details and to a person's overall approach to life. Every writer has his own "normal" size of writings. Large writing, in most cases, are people who enjoy activity and achievement, seeing and being seen. They're always on the go. Whereas the small handwriting or tiny handwriting indicates a person who is thorough, concise, interested in details and someone who sees the world close at hand and thinks things through carefully.

Rhythm is identified in the consistency in the depth, slant, size and configuration of letter formations. Because rhythm has a profound influence on all other traits of handwriting, it falls into the Global Characteristics group. Rhythm is very effective in lending stability, control and integration to the personality. It is a very strong factor in penmanship models and is acquired by practice. If a child or adult is reasonably well-adjusted, he will show some rhythm in his writing. Very often unrhythmical writing accompanies insecurity in the personality.

Klosky has taught handwriting analysis for about 12 years. He taught at Oakland Community College at the Orchard Ridge Campus until about 1985 when enrollment interest dropped. Plus, he taught in some community education programs in the Detroit area. He also teaches privately at his office in Ferndale.

"All of the answers are within."

what type of design they have in mind.

"I found handwriting analysis to be the only viable source to find out personality traits," Klosky said.

He has tried numerology and astrology, but he doesn't believe in them. Klosky said those practices look to external happenings.

"All of the answers are within," Klosky said, adding that handwriting is part of the subconscious.

About four small businesses use his services for screening employees.

Company officials use the analysis for employee movement within the company, he said. For example, if the company wanted to move a secretary from a current position to an accounting position within the firm, he analyzes the employee's handwriting for traits that would reveal dishonesty.

When screening employees, he looks for handwriting traits that would fit the person to the job, Klosky said.

As an example, Klosky said it's important to have an employee with enthusiasm working as a salesperson, and the more intense employee should be the one to sit behind a computer.

The larger the overall written words the more enthusiasm an individual has; and the smaller the writing the more intense the employee is, he said.

Businesses use handwriting analysis, Klosky said, but they do it with discretion.

"There is fear with businesses that they will be sued for invasion of privacy (if handwriting analysis is used)," Klosky said.

"In Europe they have been using it for a couple of hundred years. It's not a fortune-telling tool."

"But that just means we have too many lawyers," he quipped.

Klosky said that graphology has been brought out of the occult. The Library of Congress declared graphology to be a science in 1984 or 1985.

"In Europe they have been using it for a couple of hundred years," he said. "It's not a fortune-telling tool."

When Klosky analyzes a person's handwriting, he uses an old sample of their writing and a sample from the present.

Handwriting lets a person know where they are right now and in what direction they will be headed, he said. Handwriting is a form of communication.

"The non-communicator, i.e., is the doctor," Klosky said. "His writing says, 'It's for me to know and for you to find out.'"

Opinion of Bill Myers

Be wary of trustee costs

William A. Myers is a retired Lapeer County editor and investments manager from Boca Raton, Fla.

Next time you are about to make a bank trustee for a smallish fund for your children, let me tell you of a couple of cases.

Caring parents left a batch of tax-exempt bonds, with the income to go to the three children. On the death of each child, that share was to go to the grandchildren. Three trustees were named: a lawyer, a banker and the bank itself.

That was 20 years ago. In the early years, the bank made only a nominal charge for being custodian and the two individuals put in very modest bills, as the grantor had been an old friend. There also wasn't any work to do, except the income tax report, and since there was no taxable income, that didn't take much time.

One of the beneficiaries, an investment manager, handled any buying and selling and didn't charge for it. All well and good in the early days. The only disadvantage was the gathering of the three trustees each time a few bonds were bought or sold.

Then the bank was sold to a chain, which had no reason to do courtesy work for beneficiaries no longer connected with the bank.

The new, big-time bank charged $1,200 a year for writing three checks each six months to the three beneficiaries. Another $500 was tacked on for the income tax report.

The two individual trustees continued to put in only nominal bills.

The bank fee was "negotiated" down to $1,000, and the bank cut the charge on the income tax. All told, maybe $1,600 for the trust to pay.

That was 10 percent of the income.

This will go on maybe another 15 years, until all the beneficiaries have died and the principal is turned over to the grandchildren. Altogether, about $40,000 will have been paid out to administer the trust before it ends.

So are there other choices?

There certainly are.

1. Put the securities in the trust in a brokerage account. Tell the broker to send out checks twice a year, or whatever period you choose. There'll be no charge. Monthly statements will go to the beneficiaries. Fund accumulating between the payout times can go into a money market fund. Your broker can reinvest as bonds come due.

Name on individual as trustee - a responsible younger relative, in case you're so blessed, or a longtime friend.

Probably a corporate should be named as successor to your primary trustee who is an individual. By "corporate trustee," I mean your bank. But until this successor trustee comes into the act, there'll be no charges.

2. Get the trust dissolved if all the beneficiaries have no objection. I went through this once with a widow who was named to receive the interest of the trust, and on her death the principal would go to her two children.

The widow didn't need the money and didn't care about paying out $1,500 a year to the bank trustee to send her monthly checks. The children, of course, didn't object to getting the principal of the trust now. Their families agreed to it, too. And, finally, the bank was glad to get rid of the thing.

A lawyer steered it through probate court, and the children of the widow got the securities. The savings in trustee fees paid for the lawyer in a couple of years.

What prompted all this was that I just received a semiannual report from a trust similar to the ones I've described.

There were seven pages of computer printout - data that could have been put on the back of an envelope. All it told was the income from eight issues of bonds and some money market returns.

For this, it cost the trust about $800.

Looking for a blue-ribbon bank? Not necessarily to buy stock in, but for salting away some cash in?

You'll find one in Gary, Ind., of all places: the Gainer Bank. It's $1.4 billion in size. Its capital/liabilities ratio is 7 percent. (Congress in all its wisdom says that savings and loans need only 1.5 percent.) Its checking accounts and NOW accounts (interest-bearing checking) are nearly 40 percent of their total deposits - and boy, that's high.

The late Harding Mott told me once between golf shots that his dividends from that bank each year were more than his original investment. Harding got a lot of his father's genes for canny investments. His dad was C.S. Mott, largest stockholder in General Motors and creator of the Mott Foundation, one of the nation's largest.

SECTION 2

Volunteer activity was rewarding in many ways

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston New Staff Writer

Marianne Bernard tried a different medium in art, and the result led to an award.

"It's not like anything I've done before," Marianne said, who generally works with clay and paints watercolors.

The award was for pencil drawings.

She won the Outstanding Award of Merit in Honor of Jean Wolf at the 31st Annual Mid-Michigan Exhibition this fall. It was her first attempt at this exhibition.

Marianne moved from Harper Woods to Rattalee Lake Road, Independence Township, more than two years ago and decided to seek out some new areas for exploration. She was looking for different outlets for her artistic abilities. She also wanted to do some volunteer services.

Her search led her to Colombiere Center on Big Lake Road, Springfield Township. Marianne read about becoming a volunteer in The Clarkston News.

"I was looking for a body of work," Marianne said.

She began volunteering last spring, visiting the Jesuit priests who live in infirmary on the top floor of Colombiere Center. Most of the priests living there require medical care. Many of them are retired and suffer the effects of old age.

Marianne said she first went to talk to the priests and, after getting to know them, then began to sketch.

From the sketches came her entry for the Mid-Michigan Exhibition "Colombiere Essay: Let the Fathers Invite You into Their Lives."

Marianne hasn't used just Colombiere as a means to meet people with special needs. She has worked at Volunteers in Service to America (VISTA) in Flint after receiving a grant to help as an art therapist for the program.

"I enjoy doing Colombiere and VISTA — my abilities have grown as an artist," Marianne said.

There are four priests grouped together in the Colombiere Essay and one has died since the drawings were made.

"I always think they'll be there when I go back," she said. "It was very much of a surprise (to learn of the death)."

She also teaches art at St. Bellarmine's School in Redford. At Camp Niobe in Dryden, she serves as an art therapist during the summer months.

Marianne graduated in 1988 from Wayne State University with a fine arts degree. She found time to finish her degree while caring for her family. Marianne and her husband, Steven, have three children, Kate, 14, and Steven, Jr., 12, are students at Clarkston Junior High. Danny, 8, attends Bailey Lake Elementary.

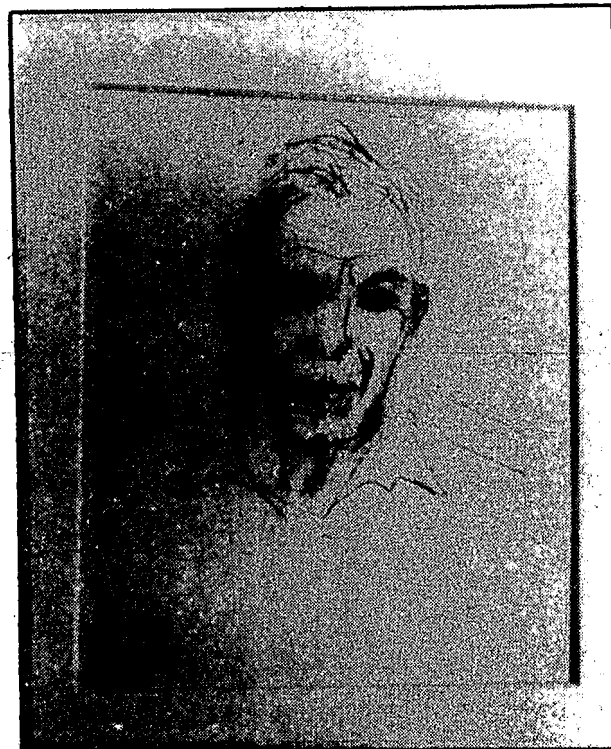

Even though Marianne is 35 she considers herself a fledgling as an artist, but she enjoys sharing her talent with others.

"I like to bring art to people and share what's inside of them — it's very therapeutic," she said.

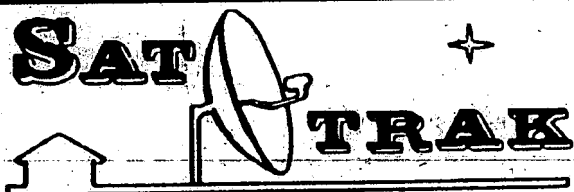

AS AN ARTIST, Marianne Bernard has mixed with many people who find art therapeutic.

Her own artistic talents have grown by helping others with her skills, she says.

PRIESTS at Colombiere are the subjects of Marianne Bernard's award-winning sketches.

Holiday double-take

'UDDERLY' DELIGHTFUL is the Christmas scene near Cook's Farm Dairy on Seymour Lake Road, Brandon Township. A holstein figure sports antlers and a red nose, while ice cream cones (that light up) hang from its udders. The cow appears to be pulling Santa in a sleigh, but St. Nick is so covered with snow that it's hard to tell if it's really him.

In the name of the law

Annual Burning of the Greens is planned

The annual Calvary Lutheran Church Burning of the Greens on Sunday, Jan. 7, will be international as well as ecumenical this year.

Members of Trinity and Christ Lutheran Churches from Windsor will join in the Epiphany Burning of the Greens at 6:30 p.m., followed by the annual puppet presentation of the Puppets for Our God group from First Baptist Church of Davison at 7:30 p.m.

The community is invited for both or either and is also invited to bring Christmas trees that evening or earlier to add them to the pile for the burning.

Also, warm clothing would be helpful while singing Christmas carols around the fire.

Calvary is at 6805 Bluegrass, Independence Township, just off M-15, south of I-75.

Anti-Diet Weight Loss

The New Alternative

SUFFERING IS OPTIONAL

If you have tried dieting in the past and failed, you are not alone. For many, diet is part of the problem, not its solution. Thin people don't want to eat more than they should. So how come you do? When you learn to think about food the way thin people do, then you will eat casually and controllably, just as they do.

Based on successful work with overeaters in therapy, this unique, ten-week program was developed to help healthy people to finally control their eating without the need for discipline and the constant struggle against temptation.

WHY WAIT?

This small-class experience is not another diet or food supplement program, but a new opportunity for a permanent change in your relationship with food and your body. You can be happy with both, NOW.

PREVIEW: January 18, 1990 7 p.m.

To give you a full description of this effective solution to over-eating, we offer a full, two-hour preview at our offices. Admission is $10. Call early to reserve your place, as seating is extremely limited.

EXTREME SKILL at steering a sled during heavy snow is needed to navigate the front hill at Julie Pitsonis' house. Julie (front), 9, and her neighbor Janelle Dionne, 13, reside on Hummingbird Lane, Independence Township, and usually can make it between the two trees in the yard. Julie is a fourth-grade Clarkson Elementary student, while Janelle is in seventh grade at Clarkson Junior High.
